Mayor vetoes retail development

The stage is set for a political face-off Monday night, when the City Council will vote on overriding a mayoral veto. Mayor Robert Thomas is opposed to a planned retail development on the corner of Middlebelt and Ann Arbor Trail.

Mayor Robert Thomas has vetoed a Westland City Council decision allowing a small retail development on the southeast corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Middlebelt Road.

Thomas issued the veto Thursday — three days after the council voted 5-2 to approve the development that would include a Burger King restaurant and a relocated Arbor Drugs. The project would lead to demolition of the boarded-up former Cooper School.

On Friday, Council President

Thomas Brown said a special session will be called for 7 p.m. today (Monday) to try to override the mayoral veto. Five council votes would be needed to block Thomas' action.

Based on the 5-2 council vote to approve the development, an override would appear certain unless a council member changes his or her position.

When asked Friday if he believes the five votes will stand, Brown replied, "We'll find out when the roll call is taken."

Several homeowners voiced opposition to the project last week, urging the council to maintain the current zoning that calls for low-intensity commercial and offices on the site.

Thomas, agreeing in his veto, noted that the land is adjacent to a stable, residential neighborhood and should be used for offices instead of a development that would draw heavy traffic.

The rezoning "would be detrimental to the public interest and could create an over-building in this area of neighborhood commercial, particularly in (the) absence of any market study and/or documentation which

Teens sentenced to prison for robbery

BY DARRELL CLEM

Two local teens have been sentenced up to 10 years in prison for a knife-point robbery that netted $3 from a group of youngsters dining inside a Westland fast-food restaurant.

Justin Hicks, 17, of Westland was sentenced Friday to a prison term of two to 10 years for a robbery that occurred just after midnight last Oct. 3 at the Taco Bell on Wayne Road, south of Palmer.

His sentencing by Detroit Recorder's Judge John Hausner came after he was convicted June 9 on charges of armed robbery and assault with intent to commit a felony. Hausner found Hicks guilty following a bench trial.

Co-defendant Stanley Thomas Killebrew, 17, of Wayne was sentenced last Monday to a prison term of 2½ to 10 years for the same robbery. He was sentenced by Judge Dalton Roberson after pleading no contest to the armed robbery charge during a June 7 court appearance. The assault charge against Killebrew was dismissed.

Both teens could have faced maximum sentences of life in prison.

Killebrew held a knife to one teenager's throat while Hicks searched the three youngsters' wallets and found $3, Westland Detective Sgt. Donald Haigh has said. The victims were sitting at a table inside the Taco Bell when they were approached by the two assailants, police said.

No one was injured during the robbery.

Following the incident, police arrested Hicks and Killebrew when they were spotted walking toward a Dunkin' Donuts on Wayne Road, about a half-mile north of the Taco Bell restaurant. Police questioned the pair based on descriptions provided by the victims, Haigh has said.

Mayor vetoes contract offered to council aide

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A two-year contract approved by the Westland City Council for its legislative aide, Joseph Benyo, has been vetoed by Mayor Robert Thomas, who labeled the pact "an unnecessary use of taxpayers' dollars."

The mayor's veto on Wednesday came just two days after the council voted 6-1 to approve a contract placing a $35,000 cap on Benyo's earnings for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The contract, strongly opposed by Councilman Glenn Anderson, raised the limit on Benyo's contract by $10,000, or 40 percent. Benyo's duties, among others, include handling citizen complaints, answering questions from developers and other business people, and researching council agenda items.

Thomas' veto came during the same week that he also vetoed a proposed retail development on the southeast corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Middlebelt Road. His actions signal increasingly strained relations between the seven-member council and the mayor's office.

On Friday, Council President Thomas Brown said a special session has been scheduled for 7 p.m. today (Monday) in an attempt to override both mayoral vetoes. The council needs five votes for a successful override.

Brown declined to comment on Thomas' action. Benyo also declined to respond to the veto of his contract, saying "it would be inappropriate."

In his two-page veto, Thomas questioned the need for the council to have a legislative liaison, saying the work could be performed by the city clerk, deputy clerk and five other clerical workers at city hall.

"Many of the details of (Benyo's) work assignments are unsubstantiated, and there seems to be no overseeing of the jobs he charges to the council," Thomas wrote.

On the $35,000 cap, Thomas wrote, "This constitutes a 40-percent increase for this individual, and it again shows the council is willing to give out large raises to its employees while always trying to cut back raises for other groups."

Some council members came to Benyo's defense last week. Councilman Charles Pickering noted that citizens shouldn't be "fooled" by the 40-percent increase in the maximum payment. Pickering said that Benyo receives no fringe benefits and, despite the increased cap, Benyo will continue to be paid his current hourly rate of $21 an hour.

On a broader level of criticism, Thomas accused the council of wasteful spending by keeping, in its new budget, six city positions that the mayor said could have been eliminated without layoffs. The jobs "will unnecessarily cost the taxpayers close to $250,000 annually," Thomas said in his veto.

Transient man to be sentenced after admitting robbing banks

BY DARRELL CLEM

A transient man charged in bank robberies in Westland and Livonia is scheduled for sentencing July 7 in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

Michael Alexander Byrd, 44, could face a maximum sentence of 20 years after pleading guilty in April to two counts of bank robbery, assistant U.S. attorney Cynthia Olberg said Friday.

His 31-year-old accomplice, Hillary Krause, also described by police as transient, is scheduled for sentencing on the same day after pleading guilty to one count of bank larceny. She could face 10 years in prison, Olberg said.

Krause had originally faced two charges of bank robbery, but one charge was dropped and the other was reduced to bank larceny. FBI officials have said that Krause drove the getaway vehicle during the robberies.

U.S. District Judge Horace Gilmore.

Byrd committed the robberies, indicating both times that he was hiding a gun in his coat pocket, FBI officials said, following the incidents. He passed notes to bank tellers and demanded money, federal officials said.

No shots were fired during either of the robberies.

Krause didn't enter either of the banks, but waited in a getaway vehicle, federal officials said.

Local police agencies issued bulletins for a suspect, resulting in an arrest in Detroit several hours after the Westland robbery occurred, Westland police Sgt. Timothy Speir has said.

Byrd was stopped in Detroit for driving erratically, and police then noticed that he matched the description of the man involved in the Livonia robbery, Speir has said. Krause, with Byrd at the time, was also arrested.

The Livonia robbery occurred at 11:02 a.m. Feb. 12, and the bandit escaped with about $1,300, authorities have said. The Westland robbery happened at 11:45 a.m. Feb. 15, and the perpetrator fled with $1,430.

Krause's guilty plea was in connection to the Livonia robbery, Olberg said.

The defendants are scheduled to be sentenced July 7 by may indicate a demonstrable need for additional commercial in the area," Thomas wrote.

He added later that the project "will be detrimental to the orderly development of surrounding areas."

Brown declined Friday to respond to issues raised in the mayor's three-page veto.

Thomas questioned whether the council gave adequate consideration to residents' concerns, particularly about the Burger King restaurant. He also accused the council of having "a haphazard policy on development."

The council sometimes accuses the administration of submitting development proposals without adequate information, Thomas said.

But he accused the council of acting prematurely last week in approving a 250,000-square-foot Value City center that will include filling a vacant building south of Warren Road, on the west side of Central City Parkway.

That development will fill the 67,000-square-foot building that had been planned as a Phar-Mor discount pharmacy and drugstore. Fraud charges against a corporate officer halted that project.

Thomas said the administration didn't have enough time to review the Value City proposal before it was placed on the council agenda last week. The project is planned to include a furniture business and other retailers.

Man faces trial

A Garden City man whose residence was raided by Westland narcotics officers faces trial on a marijuana-related felony charge.

Guy Thomas Johnson, 36, was ordered to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court after he voluntarily waived a preliminary hearing Monday in Garden City's 21st District Court, clerk Marie Haisett said.

Johnson could face a maximum sentence of four years in prison if convicted on a charge of possession with intent to deliver marijuana. He also could be fined up to $2,000.

Johnson's residence at 269 Lathers in Garden City was raided on the evening of May 31 by Westland narcotics officers and Garden City police. The 7 p.m. raid followed a drug investigation that stemmed from anonymous tips, Westland police Sgt. Timothy Abramski has said.

Sixteen people were in the house at the time, including 10 juveniles whose ages range from 14 to 16, police said. Six adults, including Johnson, were cited for misdemeanor charges such as contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Police seized several weapons and found open alcohol in the house, and marijuana was being used in the residence, Abramski has said. The juveniles weren't cited, but their parents were notified, he said.

Although Johnson was initially charged with a misdemeanor, a continuing investigation has resulted in the felony charge against him. He is scheduled for an arraignment in Detroit Recorder's Court on July 6.

In 21st District Court on Monday, Johnson was released from custody on a $4,000 personal bond, Haisett said. That means the defendant won't have to post any money unless he violates certain conditions set by the court.

The 10 juveniles in the house included Johnson's son, who had recently moved to the Lathers Street residence from Southfield, where he lived with his mother, Abramski has said. The other juveniles were from Garden City and Southfield, he said.

Day off is a drag (race) for John Glenn teacher

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

William Foder is living proof that times have changed in the sport of professional drag racing.

Weekdays, the Garden City resident teaches astronomy and geology at John Glenn High School in Westland. Weekends, as a Super Stock class racer, he pilots a late-model Firebird on National Hot Rod Association tracks around the Midwest.

"I like the competitiveness, the excitement, the intelligence you have to have," he said.

"It's like I tell my students: NHRA class racers are not guys coming out of gas stations or garages. They're college-educated professionals. To race at NHRA takes the highest education ever," said Foder, who holds degrees from Michigan State and Eastern Michigan universities and begins studies for a doctorate at Wayne State this summer.

During the past 25 years, Foder has raced seven cars under the name Zeppelin. His three-member team, with more than 85 years combined racing experience, consists of himself and crew members Phil Guthrie of Rochester and Bob Lemon of Brighton.

"They're both former class racers. A lot of people don't realize, you don't step into NHRA racing. You have to pay your dues. It's 90 percent work and drudgery and 10 percent driving and excitement. They only see the romanticism of it," said the 44-year-old single father of two who also teaches physics and astronomy evenings at Madonna University and Henry Ford Community College.

Born in West Virginia and raised in the Appalachia coal-mining region, Foder moved to Michigan to escape the poverty. He takes pride in his roots and how he came to racing.

"In my early days as a kid down South, there was a lot of stock-car racing at the fair-ground. My dad owned gas stations. That's how I got to know all the cars," said Foder, whose mother still runs what he terms a "honky-tonk" in North Carolina.

"I did a lot of local street racing until 1969, when I decided it was not a healthy thing to do."

Initially, he raced stock, then switched to formula stock, then modified eliminator, and finally, super stock. Today, he races a 1990 Firebird SS/GT with a 1971 Corvette SS as a backup.

"Racing depends on quick reflexes and the ability to duplicate those reflexes race after race. There's no room for error. The tie-in with science is how everything has to be exact."

Foder is quick to stress his full-time job is as planetarium director and science instructor at John Glenn High, where he has taught since 1978.

However, don't insult him by referring to his car racing as a hobby. He takes NHRA drag racing - as well as his business, Bill Foder Race Engines - seriously.

Foder has hand-built racing engines for as long as he's raced cars. Since February, his engines, and the cylinder heads and intake manifolds for which he is best known, have given drivers the edge to win the Winter Nationals at the Atlanta Points Meet in Georgia and the Gator Nationals in Florida.

"The race-engine business is very technical. It's close to science. I have a heavy background in science and physics. The physics and the engines go hand-in-hand."

"My education is the edge I have," said Foder, stressing again that teaching and maintaining the school's planetarium - which requires a tuneup once a year - finishes first in his book. It was Foder's written proposals that were responsible for reopening the 55-acre nature center at Palmer and Wildwood, and instituting community presentations at the planetarium next year.

"Whether it's racing or at the high school, I take a lot of pride in what I do. As good as the engines I turn out are the students we turn out at John Glenn. Academically, we're second to none."

Rating is not the only thing on his mind. In fact, Foder cut back on spending time on the track to assume the role of a single parent after his wife's unexpected death in January 1993. For the first time in 24 years he did not compete in the U.S. Nationals in Indianapolis last Labor Day weekend. He needed time for himself and daughter Melinda, 15, and son William, 12. Resuming a sense of normalcy in their lives is first and foremost.

Being Mr. Mom, he says, has slowed him down but won't keep him off the track. He is taking special precautions, however. Before his first race this year, Foder plans to reinforce the roll cage on his Firebird.

"In all forms of racing there're inherent dangers. If there was an accident, the worst thing to me is if you're unconscious and can't turn the fuel pumps off. I guess I pay more attention to safety now, but safety's on your mind all the time, especially when you've got your front end up in the air for the first 100 feet."

Checking stars: Bill Foder, John Glenn High School science teacher, directs planetarium studies during the week and maintains his racing hobby out of his Garden City garage.

Teachers, parents continue effort to save nature area

Wayne-Westland school district students got a taste of a major nature preserve just before the school year ended two weeks ago.

They walked through the Sassafras Trail with the help of science teachers and John Glenn High School geology students, thanks to renewed interest by faculty members and parents who want to prevent the Wayne-Westland school board from selling the 55-acre preserve for development.

The board hasn't finalized its decision yet, but parents and others are continuing their campaign to convince the board and administration of the long-term educational value of the preserve, located next to the Wilson early childhood education center, on the northeast corner of Palmer and Wildwood.

In the campaign, which began earlier this year, the group has formed "Friends of Sassafras Trail" and has grown to about 40 members with a membership drive to start soon.

In the recent school project, Bill Foder, John Glenn High School science teacher, and Frank Walker, Monroe Elementary School teacher, combined for a week-long tour of the trail for the 21 elementaries in the district.

As part of the activities, the students visited the science center housed in two vacant classrooms near the trail.

Touring the trail: Kevin Headrick, member of "Friends of Sassafras Trails" and son Nicholas, 4, enjoy a walk through the large nature preserve, which is on the northeast section of Palmer and Wildwood.

Vickie Maple, a mother who got involved early in the fight to save the nature preserve, said she joined the campaign because her family enjoys the area.

"It's important we save it for our children," she commented. "I want children to know that there's something left for them. Sassafras Trail is a significant and special place - a complete ecological system."

She talked about the facility while Schweitzer Elementary School students were busy nearby, handling a Burmese python weighing 38 pounds and stretching 10 1/2 feet.

The Glenn High geology students helping with the trail project were Jim Tennant, Wadja Howard, Jeremoy Bobley, Joe Bandy, Kim Garza, Tanya McKee, Toni Mata and Leah Abney.

Man gets probation for robbery

By DANIEL CLERM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland man who surrendered to police after robbing a Garden City woman outside of Perry Drugs on Warren Road, east of Merriman, has been placed on probation for five years.

Robert Raines, 23, also has been ordered to spend 120 days in boot camp, although he will receive 30 days of credit for time he has spent in jail. He also must pay $400 in fees.

Raines was sentenced June 14 before Detroit Recorder's Judge Michael Sapala, a court clerk said. He had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of unarmed robbery that stemmed from an incident at 9:45 p.m. April 11 outside of Perry Drugs, 31162 Warren Road, in Westland.

Raines, a restaurant worker, confessed in a statement to police that he wrestled the woman's purse from her after he spent his entire paycheck on crack cocaine and beer, Westland Detective Sgt.

Marc Stobbe has said. The victim, 31, was robbed after she left the drug store and was walking to her car.

Raines, who wasn't carrying a weapon during the robbery, later had a guilty conscience and voluntarily turned himself over to Westland police, Stobbe has said. The defendant admitted taking the purse that contained only $6, according to police reports.

Raines also told police that he threw the purse into a trash bin after removing the money, police reports said.

Police received a telephone call from Raines four days after the robbery occurred. He identified himself as the suspect, saying he was in Allen Park but was returning to Westland to give himself up, police said.

Raines told a police dispatcher that he could be found at Minc Park Apartments on Cowan at Warren. Police later arrested him there.

Foder favors a 1990 Firebird

In August, Bill Foder will compete on a National Hot Rod Association-sanctioned track with a 1990 Firebird SS/GT with a 1971 Corvette SS as backup in Martin, Mich.

Foder's first car, raced only on the track, was a 1969 GTO. In the 1970s, he switched to a '67 Firebird, breaking several national records and earning him a six-page spread in Super Stock magazine.

"The '67 Firebird had a fairly rare engine, a high maintenance engine, not that many were produced. I kept working on it till I made it dependable. A lot of other people had tried it and failed. It got protested and went through teardowns a lot because people thought it was illegal," said Foder.

Throughout his racing career, the NHRA and the international association have changed the rules dozens of times, forcing Foder to change the types of vehicles he raced.

In the early 1980s, he raced a 1973 SD 455 Trans Am in NHRA Super Stock, and a 1964 Corvette with a Pontiac engine out of a 1967 Firebird in the IHRA modified eliminator class. By the mid-1980s, he replaced the Corvette with a 1974 Trans Am, which later was replaced with a 1988 Firebird.

The international association, he said, "is not to be confused with local bracket racers at Detroit Dragway or Milan. NHRA racing has many more rules and specifications for certain engines and body types. Drivers travel on the NHRA circuit around the country."

Plymouth shops sell Americana

The stars and stripes aren't just for the Fourth. If you're drawn to Americana, you'll use the flag and other reds, whites and blues to accessorize every room in the house. This patriotic scheme can even add some punch to your flower garden.

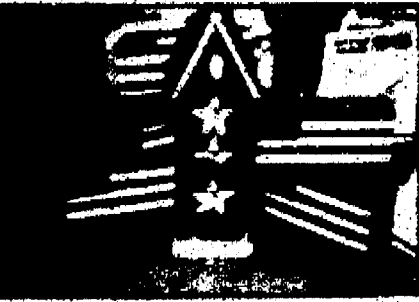

Just as primary colors brighten interior spaces, they make an eye-catching impact in the flowerbed or hanging basket. "People are always asking for color themes for their gardens," says master gardener Cindy Richardson, the senior designer at Four Seasons Garden Center in Oak Park. The bicentennial year sparked an interest in red, white and blue flowers, but pastels reigned until now. "This year there are more flags, more patriotism. Monet is out and American colors are in," says Richardson.

She's created flowering flags and seals using white begonias, alyssum or petunias, blue ageratum and salvia, and red geraniums. The effect is dazzling. Imagine an American Eagle topiary in red, white and blue or moss-lined baskets spilling petunias, geraniums and lobelia. The colors of the flag make an electrifying statement when mingled together in the landscape.

Richardson also suggests perennials such as blue hosta, larkspur and ajuga for the patriotic garden. Four Seasons is at 14474 W. 11 Mile Road.

Plymouth Rock

I traveled to Plymouth in search of fresh country-style Americana, and found some wonderful examples of contemporary designs and traditional folk art. At Sideways, Inc., Forest Ave., handcrafted wooden birdhouse beckons our feathered friends. White stars on a bright blue ground decorate the front, while the sides are striped in red and white and the roof is made of pinecones ($39.95).

Flag painted doormats are actually old bricks and would make great bookends or paperweights ($11.95). The stars and stripes decorate oven mitts ($6.95) and dish towels ($5.95), and dance across a hand-painted clay flower pot ($14.95). Don't allow a summer shower to dampen your picnic plans. Let a flag be your umbrella ($29.95).

The folks at Country Charm, a home furnishings and accessory store, 382 S. Main, arranged an Americana sampling atop a Shaker console table. Included are a wicker flag basket lined with navy and white stars ($92.95) and a primitive Uncle Sam, complete with hat and striped trousers ($49.95). Uncle Sam stands guard over a state flag wall hanging ($21.95), a Boy Scout ($14.95) outfitted in a red, white and blue striped sweater ($13.95), and wooden utensils depicting a life and drum corps ($6.95). Days Gone By, at 570 Forest Ave., is a unique country store and art gallery. Their window features a wooden folk art lamp made painted in an old glory motif, complete with white shade, it sells for ($29.95). I also spotted a waving American eagle against a flag background on a cotton throw by Carolyn Weavers (48 by 68 inches, $62.95).

Tennis works

If you think the stars and stripes might inspire your tennis or golf games, the latest sports wear I've seen are at Tennis Time, 527 Maple Rd. in Bloomfield Hills. The artful shirts are entitled Flag Bag and Racquet Red Glare, and they take the American flag look to new heights. They're worth a peek in Tennis Time's window ($26, $34).

Find that summer's heat is not a treat?

There's lots of cool fun coming up in July at your favorite shopping center.

Livonia Mall at Seven Mile and Middlebelt, has two contests, big band concerts, and a daylong Celebrity Auction for Muscular Dystrophy scheduled.

The Glenn Miller Orchestra will perform 5:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 12, on the stage near Crowley's. The Tommy Dorsey Band will also perform there 5:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 16. The concerts are complimentary.

Amateur photographers are invited to submit either color or black and white photos for judging toward a $300 grand prize and mall-wide exhibition July 20-24. The deadline for entries is 5 p.m. Friday, July 15. There is no limit to the number of entries an individual may submit, but the fee is $4 per photograph. Prints must be 8 by 10-inch to 24 by 30-inch maximum. Forms are available from the mall management office.

Call for crafters

Also at Livonia Mall, craft lovers are invited to enter their creations in an Arts and Crafts Contest and Show set for July 30-31. The grand prize is $100. Crafters must be over 18 years of age. One entry per artist. No entry fee. The craft contest deadline is Saturday, July 30 before 11 a.m.

Another feature of the crafts contest is an mall-wide show and exhibit. Interested crafters will pay $25 to set up a table. Forms available through the management office.

Volunteers are needed for the Livonia Mall's annual MDA Auction on Saturday, Aug. 4. Musicians, magicians and anyone who can entertain the crowds bidding for celebrity items are especially sought. Organizer Bill Checks reports that he still needs local services and merchandise to add to his growing list of auction block items. For more details call Checks at 476-1166.

Business series begins at Westland Mall

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

When the movers and shakers get together to talk about a town's retail future where else should they meet but the mall? So the Westland Shopping Center at Wayne and Warren Roads will host Good Morning Westland, 8:30-9:30 a.m. Wednesday, June 29.

"This breakfast meeting is an opportunity for the mayor and his staff to meet with the retail leaders of the city in an open forum," said organizer Scott Veldhuis of the city's Office of Economic Development. "You never know how many people will show up at a program like this, but we've invited all local store managers and national district managers to attend. We're hoping for a great turn-out."

If the meeting goes well, look for others to follow on a quarterly basis.

After a continental breakfast, Alan Richardson from Wayne County's Engineering Division will discuss plans for the resurfacing of Wayne Road between Warren and Cowan, and the resurfacing of Warren Road between Wayne and Venoy — key links to Westland's retail hub. He will also discuss other road projects planned for the future.

Pat Kukula from Wayne County will then describe Health Choice, a health care program for small businesses. There will be question and answer periods after each presentation.

Veldhuis said his department hoped Good Morning Westland would foster the development of city and business relationships. An earlier meeting with city officials and leaders of Westland's Industrial Park went well with 40 people attending.

Mall spokeswoman Claudia Frederick called the meeting a "good idea" and said the shopping center was glad to provide the space at no charge. She offered the mall's community room for future meetings.

"While the meeting is geared for the business community, interested citizens are also welcome to attend," she said.

Questions about Good Morning Westland can be handled through the Office of Economic Development at 467-3165.

Let's change at The Midtown Cafe, 193 S. Woodward in downtown

Birmingham. A permanent exhibit of more than 60 celebrity photographs by Linda Solomon now lines the walls floor to ceiling, and a new menu by chef Brian Dennington is available featuring more pastas, gourmet pizza, and seafood.

There is a new downstairs lounge, The Tap Room, featuring a billiard table, jukebox and televisions. Owner Bruce Cameron says the photo exhibit is "a tremendous opportunity for the restaurant and Birmingham which needs more galleries to complement the wonderful restaurants and coffee houses that attract so many people to our downtown."

Some of the celebrities captured in 30 by 50 inch glory around the eatery include Bruce Springsteen, Barbra Streisand, Candice Bergen, Elizabeth Taylor, Aretha Franklin, Alice Haldwin, and Kevin Costner.

In spite of the sweltering heat Friday, June 17, 400 pairs of jeans were collected and donated to a Pontiac shelter for the homeless, June 17 at the Guys N' Gals shop in the Orchard Mall in West Bloomfield.

"Zip Up The Homeless," the store's fifth annual clothing benefit, offered shoppers half-off a new pair of jeans for every old pair they brought in for the needy.

Woke Up With a Monster — Cheap Trick

"Woke Up With a Monster," Cheap Trick's first album for their new label, Warner Brothers Records, goes from one bad song to another.

They seem to have espoused the old punk motto of "three chords, no waiting." Their only problem is that the songs lack the energy, passion and relevant lyrical content that made punk rock a musical force in the late 1970s. The lyrics, at their best, reach the sophomore level of the song, "You're All I Wanna Do."

Cheap Trick often points to the fact that guitarist Rick Nielsen has an extensive collection of distinctive guitars and that bassist Tom Petersson plays 12-string basses which he designed himself. "Woke Up With a Monster" is proof that no matter how cool your guitar is, it can not write a good song.

Cheap Trick is lucky it has built a reputation over the last 17 years like "I Want You to Want Me" and "Dream Police" because it will give them another opportunity to make a good record. If they can recapture the spirit of rock 'n' roll they once had, they could go on to record something worth a listen. Until then, they will just have to continue riding on their reputation.

"Carotid" — Walk on Water

The band's five-song debut for Detroit's Rustbelt Records proves once again that Walk on Water is one of the area's alternative rock bands most likely to hit it big.

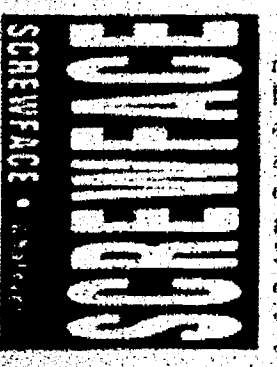

Although Mark Kahaian's vocals aren't flawless, he controls them well enough that there's no doubting the emotions he wants to share.

The horns on the opening number "Six a.m." add new dimension to Walk on Water while the groovy "Lower Me" has hit potential.

The release is available through Rustbelt Records, 1145 Griswold St., Detroit, MI 48226.

Whatever — Screwface

There are two curses common to the early recording efforts of too many rock bands: either the songs all sound exactly the same, or they're so diverse that the sound of the group is lost. Detroit's own Screwface, after only about one year together, has deftly warded off both of these evils with its debut release, "Whatever."

Band members Clay Brown, Steve Wisner and Brian Foley run the gamut of contemporary arrangements in this cohesive compilation of 10 tunes.

The Screwface sound is dark and heavy without sinking to the lugubrious, while the lyrics often display a subtle black humor. "Whatever" opens with the sledgehammer riff of "Needle" and closes with the uncompromising thrash of "Porno Movie" and "M.D.Y.M."

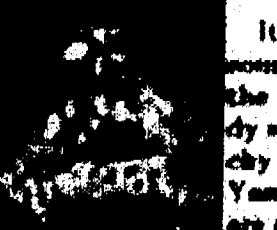

In between, Screwface conjures the spirits of Primus, Soundgarden and Tool. The instrumental "Get Ducky" tips its hat to the Eric Gales Band with a punchy punk-funk groove.

The one change Screwface might want to make would be to add a lead vocalist to the line up. Vocalist Clay Brown currently covers most of the vocal chores, and he's not bad at all, but the musicianship and arrangements deserve vocals of the same superior caliber.

"Whatever" is anything but the after thought the title implies. On the contrary, it's an extremely impressive piece of work.

'The Flintstones' Soundtrack — various artists

It's a relatively soundless soundtrack to the film dubbed the "movie of the summer." Parody songs by Green Jelly ("Anarchy in the U.K.") and "Weird Al" Yankovic ("Bedrock Anthem") are good for a laugh.

As for the rest of the soundtrack, it's weird to hear bands like Bag Audio Dynamite ("Rock With a Ceyman"), Screaming Blue Messiahs ("I Wanna Be a Flintstone") and Shakespeare's Sister ("Prohibition Lane") sing serious songs about the stone-age family.

Overall, the MCA Records release won't provide for a gay old time.

Sprocket lights up St. Andrew's

From Toad the Wet Sprocket to Jeff Buckley and a New Orleans style funeral for a well-known barman, the metro Detroit music scene will be as exciting as the Freedom Festival fireworks Wednesday night.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Having hit singles and albums has been inspiring to Toad the Wet Sprocket's drummer Randy Guss. But within the last few years he has found touring especially enlightening — literally.

During a set by opening band Geggy Tah, Guss was at the helm of the lighting board. It's a fascination he's had since Toad toured with the Gin Blossoms two years ago.

"One night the house lighting guy wasn't there; I said 'I'll do it,'" said Guss via telephone from CNN headquarters in Atlanta where his bandmates were being interviewed by cartoon characters. "It's actually really fun. It reminds me of being in an opening band."

Controlling Geggy Tah's light show allowed him to help turn Toad fans on to the "avant soul" duo while mingling with his own fans, he added.

Toad is touring in support of its latest album "Dulcinea," a more mellow effort than its platinum-selling predecessor "Fear." It's filled with Toad's trademark alt-pop ("Fly from Heaven") but this time around the California quartet dabbles in country ("Nanci") and straight-forward rock 'n' roll ("Fall Down").

Guss said that although there's a slight sound change with "Dulcinea," it's a fairer representation of the band's sound.

"It's not necessarily off the regular path. It's just that we're farther along."

Toad the Wet Sprocket and Geggy Tah perform at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 30. Tickets are $15 in advance, $17 at the door for the all-ages show. For more information, call (313) 961-5151.

Be forewarned, June 30 is the rainy day for the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival fireworks downtown.

Jeff Buckley

Jeff Buckley has played in bands for most of his life but when he found himself broke last year, he decided to go out on his own and rethink his musical career.

"I needed money and I needed to find out exactly what the music is, what it feels like, what it looks like," said a mumbling, groggy Buckley who had just woken up.

He planned to play solo for awhile but just like love, his band members came into his life unexpectedly. "I think the romantic in me was trying to send out a pheromone hoping that the right band would smell me and marry me," he said. "If I wasn't playing (with the new lineup) I'd be pretty devastated."

Guitarist/vocalist Buckley and his relatively new band — bassist Mick Grondahl, drummer Matt Johnson and guitarist Michael Tighe — will make their Detroit-area debut Friday, July 1, at the Gem Theatre in Detroit. The set will feature material from the quartet's first full-length studio album "Grace," due to hit stores on Tuesday, Aug. 23.

Earlier this year Buckley released his debut solo EP "Live at Sin-E" and since then, music industry insiders have been abuzz about Buckley's raw talent. Does that add any pressure to Buckley who said currently his life is in a major upheaval?

"No, not really. It makes me feel kind of buzzy," he said. "You get to a place and it's like walking into the village of the damned (where) they already know who I am. But really nobody knows what I'm doing 'til I get there."

The soft-spoken California guitarist admits that fans of his solo album haven't been quite sure how to take his new project. But, he said, they haven't been disappointed.

"I think they've been skeptical, but then when they come in and see It's not like a pickup band or just these session guys. They're gonna be around for awhile."

Fond farewell

Friends and family of former Alvin's manager Herman (Willie) Landt will say good-bye to him Saturday, July 2, the way he wanted it — with a New Orleans-style funeral on his birthday in front of the Detroit restaurant/bar.

"Walk With Willie" will pay tribute to Landt who died May 24 of heart failure.

"This is what he wanted," said Bernadette Kurkowski, who co-managed Alvin's with Landt, her companion of 17 years. "He made us

Proclaimers hit the highway 4 years later

Look-alikes: The Proclaimers — identical twins Craig and Charlie Reid — play the Majestic in Detroit July 7 with Greenberry Woods.

The Proclaimers were confident that they were going to have a hit in the United States some day. They just didn't think that it would be nearly four years after the song was originally released.

"We always expected that if we were going to have a hit in America that you'd be on the road somewhere, sitting in Texas or New York when you found out," said Craig Reid who makes up The Proclaimers with his brother Charlie. "But I was in my house in Edinburgh (Scotland), we'd not played live for years."

The acoustic ditty "I'm Gonna Be (500 Miles)" sold nearly a million copies after it became a part of the soundtrack to "Benny & Joon" in 1993.

The album on which it was originally released "Sunshine on Leith" sold another 450,000.

The only drawback to the song's popularity was that The Proclaimers weren't prepared to tour when it hit, Reid said.

Now, they've hit the highway in support of their new album appropriately titled, "Hit the Highway."

The Proclaimers and Greenberry Woods will perform at the Majestic, 4140 Woodward Ave., Detroit, on Thursday, July 7. Doors open at 8 p.m. Tickets are $13.50 in advance. Call (313) 963-7680 or (810) 645-6666 for more information.

'Lion King' has slightly muffled roar

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

The songs sort of fizzle. The humor relies too much on farting and burping. Even the youngest audience members will find the story predictable. That said, "The Lion King" is still the best family entertainment you'll find this summer.

Disney has animated itself into an impossible corner. "The Little Mermaid," "Beauty and the Beast" and "Aladdin" were among the best animated features ever produced. Aside from state-of-the-art graphic work, they incorporated laughs, Broadway-caliber music and characters you really cared about.

"The Lion King" has a lion's share of these elements as well. Simba, the lion cub, must grow into his destined role as king of the jungle. His father, Mufasa, uses his wisdom and good judgment to prepare the boy for the challenge of taking his place in the great "circle of life."

Scar, the king's evil brother, has other ideas. He teams with a pack of hyenas to start a wilde-beast stampede that will trample the king and his son, leaving Scar heir to the throne.

This is by far the most exciting part of the movie. Simba stays just ahead of the thundering hooves, shown in a clever mix of traditional and computer-generated animation. Mufasa manages to scoop Simba up to safety but dangles precariously beneath a ledge while trying to save himself.

The comedy comes when Simba leaves the kingdom and meets up with a warthog and his weaselly companion. They convince the young lion to adopt their motto of "Hakuna Matata" (meaning "no worries") and embark on a care-free existence of idleness and insect suppers not unlike the Falstaff/Prince Hal drinking and debauchery bond in Shakespeare.

"The Lion King" uses little-known actors Ernie Sabella and Nathan Lane for these important comic parts, a surprise considering the high profile, hugely successful cameo by Robin Williams as the voice of the genie in "Aladdin." These Broadway performers are fine, but even better are the familiar voices of James Earl Jones' Mufasa and Jeremy Irons' Scar.

Tim Rice and Elton John collaborate on five original songs, with middling success. Syrupy ballads like "Can You Feel the Love Tonight" bore me as much as when I was a kid, while "I Just Can't Wait to Be King" compares weakly with similarly frenetic and colorful numbers from previous films.

Probably, the most effective music is found in the opening "Circle of Life," which incorporates African rhythms with the main theme of the movie. In a clever Disney marketing strategy (which grew tiresome for avid moviegoers), the song was used in its entirety in lengthy trailers for the film.

The message behind the movie comes across loud and clear. Simba must find his place among previous kings that now look down from the stars. He has help from a wise old monkey named Rafiki (voice by Robert Guillaume) who uses mysticism, primitive drawings and a hop on Simba's head to put it all in perspective.

Give thanks to the Disney screenwriting crew for steering clear of overt political correctness. The movie could have easily turned into a timely reproach of evil poachers or the vanishing rainforest, but the all-animal story has an agenda of its own, especially about the importance of fathers as role models.

Though no classic, "The Lion King" is proof positive that Disney makes the best animated features on the planet. Some kids have been known to watch movies like "Aladdin" more than 100 times on video. Maybe they'll watch "The Lion King" only 70.

"Red Rock West" (USA — 1993). Film noir Texas-style starring Nicolas Cage, Dennis Hopper and Lara Flynn Boyle. While the story gets a little old after a while, the movie has some visual flair and quirky performances.

New attitudes are cause for confusion

Voice Mail Message: Hi, I'm 16 years old and I have a question for you that I really need answered. I have been talking to this boy ever since we've been in elementary school — second grade, to be exact. For the past year, he's changed.

Now all he talks about is sex. When he gets around his "boys" or his "fellas" or whatever you want to call them, he seems to change. He's not all sweet anymore.

We haven't had sex yet. I don't know about him, but I'm still a virgin. I really want to know what should I do about it?

Dear Caller,

Hi. I listened to your message very carefully to try to understand the question you are asking. Is it that you have decided to have sex some time in the near future, but you want to know that this is the boy with whom you will have sex? Your confusion seems to be caused by the difference between the way he is now and the way he used to be.

If this is your question, you have already answered it. Your friend's current attitude does not warrant having sex with him. If you ignore his current attitude, you have accepted a contract between the two of you which may encourage him to be unkind to you.

It is important for you to understand that sex is not an isolated experience. It is part and parcel of the nature of the relationship between the two people. You do not mention love. Is this not a consideration in your decision?

If I am correct in understanding your question then my response, which brings up love, is pertinent. If I am not correct, please leave another message that clarifies your question.

In general, girls' first sexual experiences stay with them for their lifetimes. Their first choice of a partner can raise their self-esteem, if they choose with thoughtfulness and good judgment, or can tear down their self-esteem, if they choose carelessly. In sexual relationships without love, girls often feel used. This makes them feel ashamed.

Researchers of gender differences find that the greatest discrepancy in men's and women's attitudes are found in sexuality, not in mathematics and science, as people so often believe. This is most often the case on the issue of first partners.

Westward lead singer Christopher Hall said it finally hit him what his band's mission is for the tour. "It is to burn off everyone's negative energy so they can have a happy peaceful experience," said Hall, whose band plays the Pine Knob Music Theatre July 3-4, with the two bands. For most of the tour so far, Stabbing Westward hasn't been listed in advertisements promoting the show. Regardless, that really doesn't bother Hall, a former touring member of Die Warzau. "We're achieving what we set out to achieve which is to get name recognition."

In February, the Chicago band released its debut album "Un-god," produced by John Fryer who has also worked with the Cocteau Twins and Nine Inch Nails. Unlike some industrial music, guitarist Stuart Zechman said there's a definite structure to his band's songs.

"Even though we're noisy and dark, we arrange our songs so they build in an exponential rather than linear way," he said. "That way the music doesn't exhaust itself. Maybe it's not the 'alternative underground thing to do,' but if we don't have to give up any of the anger, why not give the songs more structure."

Plymouth radio club on the air

Hundreds of Michigan amateur radio operators, many of them from Wayne County, worked around the clock on Saturday and Sunday, June 25-26, to set up field radio communication stations, get on air, and contact thousands of other operators in the United States and Canada as part of participation in the American Radio Relay League's annual Field Day.

Field Day is the annual "shake-down run" for the ARRL's national field organization, explained Dick Marks, president of the Stur Rocafellow Amateur Radio Society, which is based in Plymouth.

"Field Day is a way for hams to get outdoors and have fun under some difficult conditions," Marks says. "But it's also a chance to fine-tune emergency communication skills. We use generators and battery power, and we set up antennas in the field. The idea is to put together a self-sufficient, working station quickly and begin making contacts."

The ARRL Field Organization has been effective in establishing emergency communications during floods, hurricanes, fires, earthquakes and other major disasters. In addition, local club members provide two-way radio communication for Halloween "Spook Patrol," Magic Ride and other long-distance bicycle rides.

Members of formal emergency organizations such as the Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES) and the Radio Amateur Communication Emergency Services (RACES) regularly participate. The league estimates that more than 35,000 hams participate in Field Day each year.

Local Field Day operations were at Plymouth Township Park. For more information, call Dave McCarthy at 454-4061.

Birmingham Theatre props sold

By Suzanne L. Parker Staff Writer

There were a few notable items at the sale of the Birmingham Theatre's stage props last week — a glass General Hospital's Gene Francis drank out of when she appeared there in "Crimes of the Heart," or the paintings of the nudes from "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," the theater's last production before closing.

But more than not, most of the props sold to the general public Thursday looked like the makings of a garage sale.

There were trophies, old books and pictures, restaurant napkin dispensers, styrofoam mannequin heads, bowls of plastic fruit, five humidifiers, more than 20 pairs of sunglasses and a variety of china dishes in unmatching patterns.

Nonetheless, those working and those buying were nostalgic about the closing of the Birmingham Theatre and the sale of its props used on the sets of countless shows.

"It's so sad because it's such a wonderful place," said Mona Rappaport of Birmingham, who was buying fake hotdogs, bowls of fake cottage cheese, and a variety of other simulated foods for her daughter's '60s-style den.

"This is very nostalgic and I'm very disturbed about what is going to happen to the theater," Rappaport said.

While many people picked through boxes under tables and scrutinized the furniture on sale looking for quality, still others were happy filling their arms with their inexpensive finds, many pieces only costing a few dollars each, such as sundae glasses, bulletin boards and wicker baskets.

Tracey Toepfelfarlow now lives in Royal Oak, but she grew up in Birmingham and remembers going to the theater as a kid.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Edible flowers make summer dishes blossom

In May, on a trip through Napa Valley, friends and I enjoyed an incredible lunch at the Simi Winery in Healdsburg, Calif. Chef Mary Everly adorned our salads with fresh sage flowers. Our Thai beef stir-fry was sprinkled with lilac blossoms, and the dessert chilled grape sorbet, was literally flocked with violets.

Now we all know that they do crazy things in California, but eating flowers isn't as wacky as one might think.

I tasted my first edible flower in cooking school back in the early 1970s. It was a gigantic fresh zucchini blossom, dipped in tempura batter. It was as light as an angel's wing.

The flower was fried in just enough oil to coat the bottom of a frypan to a golden tinge. Ask me to recall the taste, and I would describe it as a burst of the freshest wilted lettuce with a subtle hint of zucchini. I had ever tasted.

Edible flowers have been around for much longer than I have. Think about it for a second: we've been eating basil leaves and drinking rose-scented tea for centuries. Dandelion wine has been brewed in Uncle Charley's basement since I was knee-high to a grasshopper. Little did he know but Euell Gibbons with all his bark and berry-eating strategies brought the edible flower business out of fancy European kitchens and into back yards.

In her book "Edible Flowers," Claire Grafton, (copyright 1983, McGraw-Hill), Grafton offers recipes for flower butters, flower vinegars, flower pickles, stuffed flowers, fried flowers, flower salads, flower drinks and flower marinades.

Chef Elder at Simi Wineries says "use flowers not just for decoration on plates but also to heighten the taste of salads, entrees and desserts."

If you're thinking about wandering out to the backyard to cut a few blooms to spice up tonight's salad, there are a few things you need to know.

Flavorful blooms

First off, when planning to use flowers to eat or simply touch food, it is imperative that they be organic and completely free of any residue from fertilizers, insecticides or fungicides. Plant foods, Miracle Gro or any other additive that is sprinkled directly on the flower or blossoms should never be used. Also, be aware that there are naturally poisonous flowers around every house.

Lilies of the Valley, and Stars of Bethlehem have natural poisonous properties, but there are many more safe flowers like wild daisies, nasturtiums, primroses, carnations, lavender, clover, rose petals, violets, lilac and any and all squash blossoms.

If you have an herb garden and allow your herbs to flower, fresh rosemary, thyme, chives, sage, basil and oregano not only taste great in a fresh summer salad, but they also are aromatic and increase the sensation of smell for the diner.

Vinegars

Vinegar delicately tinted and flavored with flowers is delicious and very simple to make. "Steep the flowers or their petals in a good white vinegar in the sun for two weeks before straining, and rebottling the finished product," says Clifton in her book. Use these flowery vinegars with lighter oils to dress up salads and use in marinades.

Those who enjoy "high tea" will appreciate a tea sandwich made with flower butter. You can accomplish the flowery butter two ways, blend them together in a food processor or allow a pound of butter to soften for two days between layers of flowers, covered. Thinly spread the flower butter on good bread and trim the crusts, then decorate the plate with the flowers as well.

If you make pickles, you use the seeds from a dill flower to spice it up. If your summer garden has decided to bolt during the last blast of hot, humid weather, after the flowers fade you can use the seeds from onions, shallots, nasturtiums, broom and alexander buds for pickling and/or canning. And if you think that flower blossoms should only be fried, steamed, mashed or pickled, larger blossoms, especially those from any type of squash plants can be stuffed with a subtle blend of ricotta, parmesan, eggs and herbs and then baked in a tomato sauce for a luxurious treat.

Lastly, fresh flower blossoms can grace anything from a basic carrot cake to an elegant wedding cake. Just a reminder, make sure that all flowers weather edible or just for garnishing have not been sprayed with anything.

PICK UP AND GO

COOL SUMMER SUPPERS

Don't let the "summer stickies" get to you. Pack up the kids and head off to a park for a picnic featuring goodies for the kids and special treats for Mom and Dad, too.

BY KEELY WYGNONIK

When it's hot and sticky and everyone feels, well - icky, pack a picnic supper and head to your favorite park. Going to the park to cool off was common before air conditioning was invented. My family often reminisces about picnics at Rouge Park and Belle Isle. Sometimes a change of scenery, even if it's just a park in the community, can offer relief from the heat. Plan your picnic on a night when there's a free "concert in the park."

Debbie Cox of Livonia has three children ranging in age from 18 months to 7. "When we go to the zoo I always pack a picnic."

Cut fat in family favorites with healthy substitutes

LAURA LETOUR

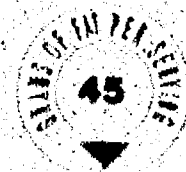

Summertime is a great season for casual, carefree meals. It is also a time for getting together with friends and family and enjoying a good meal. We all can picture the setting. Everyone gathered around a smoking barbecue grill, filling our plates with family favorites. The potluck meal is one of the most common means of feeding a large group. Unfortunately, we do not always know just how many sticks of butter are in Aunt Mary's mashed potatoes, or exactly how many jars of mayonnaise are in Uncle Bob's world famous potato salad. But, before all hope is lost of ever enjoying a cookout again, read on for some great suggestions to lower the fat in some of our favorite picnic recipes.

Marmie Brucher of Garden city sent in a recipe for Swedish meatballs. In my family, these have been at almost every gathering I have ever attended. Unfortunately they always had a layer of grease about half an inch thick floating on top. This is due to a combination of high fat items in the recipe.

For example, regular ground beef has 120 grams of fat per pound. Healthy Choice extra lean ground beef has 16 grams of fat per pound. That substitution alone removed 114 grams of fat and 1,026 calories from the recipe.

Fat free mayonnaise or fat free sour cream can be used to replace the regular mayonnaise. This eliminated 86 grams of fat and 864 calories. One of my favorite brands is Land O'Lakes No Fat

Keep your picnic safe

- There are some basic guidelines to follow that will keep your picnic fun and worry free.
- Keep everything clean. It's best to use paper products when proper dish-washing facilities are unavailable.
- Use a well insulated cooler.
- Freeze water in empty milk cartons or use blue ice or freezer pack inserts. Make extra ice.
- Put ice on top of food because the cold will travel down through the food.
- Keep your ice chest out of the sun and avoid unnecessary opening. It's also important to take it out of the car trunk as soon as possible because it is hotter than the outdoors.
- Do not re-use leftovers from a picnic. Eat the food there or throw it out if it cannot be kept very cold.
- Pre-freeze everything possible, such as boxed drinks, hamburger patties, chicken or other uncooked meats. Salmonella is possible when chicken cannot be - kept cold enough.

- Do not leave any food out in the hot sun. Put the food out and eat it. Cooked food should only be left out one hour in 90-degree heat; Under 90 degrees, two hours is the rule.
- Do not save marinade from raw poultry or meat, or re-use same utensil for serving purposes.
- Leave cream-filled desserts, custards and mayonnaise high-protein combination foods at home. Mayonnaise itself is not the culprit, but the combination of high-protein foods mixed with it is.
- Make sure meat is cooked with no pink showing but also do not over-broil meats on grill. Remove before blackened. Choose low-fat meats.

Use the Healthy Choice ground beef to make hamburgers. Season it like you would regular beef, grill and top with a slice of Kraft fat free cheese. Serve it on Aunt Millie's fat free hamburger buns for a low fat meal.

With the start of the new year, Britcher decided to make some changes in her daily eating and exercise habits. She began using a NordicTrack for 20 minutes a day, seven days a week, and started eating low fat meals.

Her blood cholesterol dropped from 223 to 166. She also faces the daily challenge of eating low fat in a family of "regular" eaters. Her husband Bill, and sons, Jamey and Matthew, are not interested in lowering their daily fat intake. Even still, she has lost 10 pounds, lowered her cholesterol, and even cheats. She is an inspiration to us all!

she said. "You can freeze juice boxes to keep things cold and enjoy as a cold drink. I cut up apples and put lemon juice on the slices to keep them from turning brown. We make our own snack mix with gold fish crackers, Fruit Loops, raisins, Cheerios and nuts. I just look to see what's in the cupboard and toss something together. Chocolate chips and M&Ms are good to toss in, but they can get messy."

Her children like peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, but sometimes Cox adds a little zip by mixing peanut butter with applesauce.

Dale Allmayer of Farmington, executive chef for La Petite Fleur, a catering and carryout business at 818 Bowers in Birmingham has plenty of good ideas for pick-up-and-go dinners and lunches.

"Hollow out an orange to make a basket for fruit salad," suggests Allmayer. "Fill it with blueberries, strawberries, raspberries and grapes."

"Rolled sandwiches made with flat bread will hold up very nicely. They won't get soggy. Fill them with chicken salad made with dried cherries instead of grapes or with avocado, lettuce, tomato, and sprouts."

Other good sandwich combinations are turkey, roast beef or ham with honey mustard.

His children, Lauren, 9, and Sydney, 3, like the sandwiches he makes by cutting out bread shapes with cookie cutters. He fills them with their favorites — peanut butter and jelly or tuna fish. Dale Allmayer prepared the foods featured in our photo at La Petite Fleur.

Dale's parents, Wilma and Bruce Allmayer of Farmington Hills, have years of experience packing picnic suppers. "We packed the sandwich fixings and bread separately and made our own sandwiches at the park," said Bruce Allmayer. "Chunks of ice last longer than a bag of ice, and you can use the water for drinking or cleaning up. We made our own chunks of ice by rinsing out milk cartons, filling them with water, and freezing overnight."

Some other picnic ideas Dale Allmayer offers are to stuff seasonal vegetables with seasoned cheese, make fruit kebabs and serve them with a dip.

Mike Thibault and Don Moore of the Cook's Garden Cafe in Birmingham like to pack a lot of fresh fruit for picnics. For a dip they use nonfat yogurt with granola and ground pecans. "Use lots of fresh herbs," said Thibault. "Make a potato salad with red skin potatoes, carrots, celery, Vidalia onions and a vinegar and oil dressing."

Hard cheeses like Swiss, mild cheddar, Colby, are their choices to pack with crackers and bread because they hold up well.

Instead of the usual pasta salad with curly noodles and mayo, Roy Coucke of Cookie's carryout and catering, 35558 Grand River, Farmington Hills, (810) 473-8300 recommends trying different shapes of pasta like sea shell or bowtie. Mix pasta with chunks of turkey, grilled chicken, and try different kinds of sauces.

Or, as Coucke says with a chuckle, get to know caterers. "You'd be surprised at what they can do, and it doesn't have to cost a lot of money," he said.

In addition to catering lunches, dinners and special events, La Petite Fleur offers box lunches. They also offer carryout items at 818 Bowers, and recently prepared a box of goodies for a couple headed to a bed and breakfast. For more information, call (810) 642-2491.

One of Cookie's specialties is a candle light picnic dinners for two, complete with china and choice of entrees.

MILKING IT FOR ALL IT'S WORTH

Many people believe that milk is best source of calcium. In addition, many have shed away from milk products due to the 1988 that the FDA has recently decided to be included into dairy does without any notification on the label for consumers.

While it is true that milk is a good source of calcium, it is not the only source. In fact, many other foods are rich in calcium. For example, leafy green vegetables like kale, spinach, and broccoli are excellent sources. Other sources include almonds, figs, and sardines. It's important to get calcium from a variety of sources to ensure you're getting all the nutrients your body needs.

If your daughters are looking away from milk, it is imperative that you start them on a high quality calcium supplement. The GOOD FOOD CO. is a natural food supplement that offers quality natural foods along with vitamins, minerals, and supplements to keep you and your family in peak condition. Give us a try — we offer great food at a great price! Please call us with your questions at 881-6100. We are conveniently located at 4075 Ford Rd. Our business hours are Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00 and Sunday from 10:00 to 9:00. We present this information in the interests of good health for our community.

P.S. Most 12-year-old girls in this country get only 70% of the RDA for calcium.

ROSE FLAVORED VINEGAR

- 3 cups rose petals, stems and heels removed
- 1 quart good quality white vinegar
- 1 quart jar

Pears and pork are a zesty stir-fry

AP — With a lean cut of pork and a minimum of oil, this kind of frying is well within low-fat eating guidelines. The delightfully bold flavors come from a combo of plum preserves, horseradish, lemon, ginger and a pinch of red pepper.

PORK AND PEAR STIR-FRY

- 1 1/2 cups fresh or frozen pea pods (about 4 ounces)
- 1 pound pork tenderloin
- 1/2 cup plum preserves
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- 2 teaspoons grated gingerroot
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 medium yellow or green sweet pepper, cut into julienne strips
- 1 medium pear, cored and sliced
- 1/2 cup sliced water chestnuts
- 1 to 2 tablespoons sliced almonds, toasted (optional)
- Hot cooked rice

Thaw pea pods, if frozen. Cut pork into thin bite-size strips. Set aside.

For sauce, in a small bowl stir together preserves, soy sauce, lemon juice, horseradish, cornstarch and red pepper. Set aside.

In a wok or large skillet stir-fry gingerroot in hot oil for 15 seconds over medium-high heat. (Add more oil if necessary during cooking.) Add sweet pepper and pear; stir-fry for 1 1/2 minutes more. Remove vegetables from wok.

Add pork to wok; stir-fry for 2 to 3 minutes or until no longer pink. Push pork from center of wok. Stir sauce; add to wok. Cook and stir until bubbly. Add water chestnuts. Return vegetables to wok; stir to coat. Cook and stir about 2 minutes more. Top with pea pods; cover and heat through. Sprinkle with almonds, if desired. Serve with hot cooked rice. Makes 4 servings.

Entertain at a Sunday brunch

AP — A brunch on Sunday is often the best time for relaxed entertaining. After a hectic workweek and a crazed Saturday of running errands, your guests have time to kick back and relax. Plus it also gives the host a little extra time to get ready for company. Following are two egg-based dishes that are suitable for brunch, even if it is just for your immediate family. To complete the menu, add a fruit salad made of cut-up seasonal fresh fruits and a basket of homemade muffins, quick breads or scones.

Here are some other ideas to make your brunch special:

■ Before preparing, add a cinnamon stick to the coffee in the filter of your coffee maker for a delicately spicy brew.

■ Set up a coffee-espresso-tea bar including granulated sugar, brown sugar, honey, whipped cream, milk, lemon wedges and peel, chocolate curls, ground cinnamon and flavored liqueurs such as kahlua and Grand Marnier.

■ Create a theme for the day, beginning with the invitations and carrying right on through to the decorations. For instance, make it a "star-studded" event and use stars as the overall motif for the party. Put miniature sparkling white lights in your houseplants and/or the trees or bushes leading to your home.

■ If you are a collector, display your collectibles as a centerpiece that is sure to start conversation. Seasonal produce also makes an interesting centerpiece. Make sure that guests can see each other over the table decorations so they don't inhibit conversation.

RED PEPPER POTATO FRITTATA

- 4 medium red potatoes (1 pound), scrubbed
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 medium red bell pepper, seeded and diced
- 8 large eggs, lightly beaten
- 1/4 cup chopped scallions
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water for about 20 minutes, or until they are almost tender (they should resist a little when they are pierced with the point of a sharp knife). Cool slightly. Cut the potatoes into 1/4-inch cubes. In a large, 10- to 12-inch non-stick skillet, heat 1 tablespoon of the butter. Add potatoes and peppers; saute over medium-high heat 4 to 5 minutes, or until the peppers start to soften.

Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, whisk together the eggs, scallions, salt and pepper until just combined. Preheat the broiler.

Add the remaining 1 tablespoon butter to the skillet; and when it is bubbling, pour in the egg mixture. Stir a little bit until the mixture begins to set, lifting the edge of the frittata to let the uncooked egg run underneath. Then place the skillet under the broiler for 1 to 2 minutes or until the top of the frittata puffs and starts to brown lightly. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE MUSHROOM STRATA

- 1 pound hot Italian sausage, with casings removed
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 1 pound mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 cup sliced scallions
- Enough Italian bread cut into 1-inch cubes to measure

- 9 cups (about 1 1/2 loaves) 3 cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- 12 large eggs, lightly beaten
- 3/4 cups milk
- 3 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard

Butter a 15- by 10- by 2-inch baking dish (4 quarts). In a large skillet, heat the sausage, onions, mushrooms, scallions for about 20 minutes, or until the sausage is cooked and the vegetables are tender. Drain off the fat.

Arrange half of the bread cubes in the prepared baking dish. Spread half of the sausage-vegetable mixture over the bread cubes. Sprinkle half of the Cheddar cheese and half of the Parmesan cheese over the top. Repeat layers.

In a large bowl, whisk together the eggs, milk and mustard. Pour the egg mixture evenly over the strata. Cover and refrigerate the strata overnight.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Bake for 50 to 60 minutes, or until the strata is puffed and golden and cooked through. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Americans join rib revolution

Nothing is more American than barbecued ribs on the Fourth of July. This year, traditional Texas-style barbecued won't be the only ribs cooking on grills and in kitchens across the country.

Cooks will assert their independence by exploring new flavor frontiers with sauces, marinades and rubs for their favorite ribs.

Spices from the Louisiana bayou inspire a Cajun dry rub that's perfect for grilled pork back ribs and Vermont maple syrup is the basis for spareribs with a tangy-sweet glaze.

There are many ways creative cooks can put their "John Hancock" on a delectable slab of ribs, according to the Michigan Pork Producers Association.

Pork back ribs are cut from the blade and center sections of the pork loin, while spareribs come from the side or underbelly of the pig. Country-style ribs are great for those who want quantity with their quality because they are the meatiest versions.

The only sure thing about ribs is that they are best when cooked slowly, at least an hour, and don't add the sauce until the last 30 minutes. The pork association offers these recipes.

MAPLE MUSTARD GLAZED SPARERIBS

4 pounds pork spareribs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon mixed pickling spice

1 small onion, coarsely chopped
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1/2 cup maple syrup
1/4 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
dash of salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper

Sprinkle spareribs with the 1/2 teaspoon salt. Tie pickling spice in several thicknesses of cheesecloth to make a bouquet garni; set aside. For glaze, in a saucepan cook onion in hot oil until tender. Add the bouquet garni. Stir in syrup, vinegar, water, mustard, dash of salt and pepper; simmer 20 minutes. Discard bouquet garni.

Make a foil drip pan, if desired; arrange coals on both sides of drip pan. Place ribs on grill; lower grill hood. Grill ribs about 1 1/2 hours turning once. During cooking, brush the ribs occasionally with glaze. Serves 4.

CHINESE SPARERIBS

6 pounds pork spareribs
1/4 cup hoisin sauce
1/4 cup water
3 tablespoons dry sherry
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 cloves garlic, minced

Cut spareribs into serving-size portions and set aside. Place large plastic bag in a large bowl. In bag, combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Add ribs, close the bag

Star-spangled feast: Ribs are a grilling favorite for the Fourth of July holiday. These maple-mustard glazed spareribs might add flare to your traditional menu.

tightly. Refrigerate 6 hours or overnight; turn bag several times to distribute marinade. Drain ribs, reserving marinade. Place ribs in shallow roasting pan; cover with foil and bake in a 350-degree oven for 1 1/2 hours. Uncover and brush ribs with the reserved marinade. Bake uncovered for 30 minutes or until done. Serves 6.

10 tips toward cooking better ribs

The Michigan Pork Producers Association offers these suggestions for preparing ribs.

■ Take it slow — Ribs should be cooked slowly over low heat for at least 1 1/2 hours for tender results.
■ Procrastinate please — Don't sauce your ribs too soon. Wait at least 30 minutes of cooking to add sauce to ribs.
■ Don't soak in sweetness —

Don't try to marinate in a tomato-based or sweet sauce. The sauce will surely burn while the ribs are cooking.

■ Don't meander with the marinade — Marinate for only 24 hours and discard any leftover marinade.
■ Rub it in — Try a dry rub. Apply a blend of rich herbs and spices to the meat before grilling.

■ Experiment — Be creative and develop your own favorite rib recipes and savor them all.

■ Increase your rib I.Q. — Know the characteristics of spareribs, back ribs and country-style ribs.

■ Keep side dishes simple — Ribs are casual and unpretentious, so they go well with simple sides like cole slaw, potato salad, corn bread, biscuits and grilled vegetables.

■ Get it done — Ribs are considered done when you can just wiggle the meat from the bone.

■ Dig in — Don't be afraid to use your fingers; get a little messy and really have fun when you're eating your favorite ribs.

Serve potatoes as a zesty side dish

AP — Potatoes Paprika is a zesty side dish that combines the flavors of potatoes, tomatoes, onions and green pepper.

The potatoes cook in the microwave oven. Sauté the onions and green pepper; season.

Add the tomatoes and the cooked potatoes to the skillet; heat and serve. Top with sour cream, if desired. Serve with grilled chicken, pork chops or sausage.

POTATOES PAPRIKA

4 medium potatoes (about 1 1/2 pounds)

1 1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup coarsely chopped onions
1 medium green bell pepper, seeded and cut into 1-inch squares
1 tablespoon paprika
1 1/2 teaspoons caraway seeds (optional)
1/2 cup diced tomatoes

Salt and pepper, to taste.

Halve potatoes and cut into 1/2-inch wedges; combine in a 2-quart microwave bowl with 2 1/2 cups water. Cover and cook in a microwave oven on high (100 percent power) just until tender, about 12 minutes.

Meanwhile, melt butter in a large, nonstick skillet. Add onions; sauté over medium heat for 3 minutes. Add green pepper; sauté 3 minutes. Mix in paprika and caraway seeds.
Drain potatoes; add to skillet with tomatoes. Toss gently until heated through, about 5 minutes.

Season with salt and pepper. Top each serving with sour cream, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Note: This recipe was tested with a 700-watt microwave oven. Cooking time for the potatoes will vary depending on the wattage of the microwave oven used.

Boot your PC onto our Information Superhighway.

If you can talk RAM, modems, database, and downloading with the best of them, you're ready for OnLine!, the best BBS* deal in town.

But first, before you read further, you'll need a PC and a modem.

Got 'em. Good.

Now, about OnLine! — it's loaded with cool stuff. It lets you access Internet E-Mail (that's the global one with more than four million people all over the world); get updated stock quotes, and the West Coast Movie Review Guide.

Newspapers are another super feature—from the one you're reading right now to USA Today and the Associated Press. In fact, OnLine! lets you interact with us. Let's say you pull up the electronic version of this paper. You read an editorial. You have an opinion. A few keystrokes and mouse clicks and you've let us know where you stand on the local issues we write about. And we'll write back.

Or maybe you want to tell Rush Limbaugh what you think. There are hundreds of discussion areas to choose from, and his is just another one of them.

How about games? Or an indexed PC catalog? Or, get this, the Metropolitan Film Guide that lets you check on cult films, second-run features, children's films, educational and travel features, silent classics and first-run movies.

OnLine! subscribers get all of this and more.

You're probably thinking that OnLine! is going to cost the price of a PC, right? Wrong. What if we told you that you could cruise our info superhighway with access to internet E-Mail and newsgroups four hours a day for just $4.95 a month? That's only $59.40 a year. We've also put together a couple of smaller packages: six months/2 hours a day/$35.70 and three months/2 hours a day/$20.85.

If you're ready to order OnLine! and since you're used to electronic communication, we've set up a voice mail deal. Assuming you have a touch tone phone, just decide which package you want, have your Visa or Mastercard card handy and be ready to tell us your diskette format—3.5 or 5.25—then call

Murfey top scholar

Erin Murfey of Livonia Churchill was recently named the Michigan High School Golf Coaches Association top scholar athlete. Murfey, who plans to attend Hillsdale College, carried a 4.368 grade-point average.

The Churchill senior averaged 53.1 strokes with a nine-hole low of 48. She was a medalist in seven matches. Murfey also shot 104 at the Monroe-Jefferson Invitational and a 110 in the Class A regional tournament.

"Erin's self-control and quiet determination have had a positive impact on her teammates," Churchill coach Sharon Laskowski said. "She justly deserved the title of team captain."

"She was a role model in every sense of the word."

Livonia Ladywood's Bianca Cerroni was also named honorable mention Academic All-State.

Playoff sinks Johnston

Westland's Claud Johnston was eliminated in first-round match play Thursday in the 83rd Michigan Amateur Golf Championship at Egypt Valley Country Club in Ada.

Larry Vaughan of Bloomfield Hills defeated Johnston on the 19th hole in sudden death.

Johnston qualified for the 64-player match play field by shooting 75 and 73 in the preliminary rounds.

Derek Bodurka, 14, of Livonia, carded an ace on the 147-yard, No. 6 hole June 14 at Ferris State University's Katke Golf Course in Big Rapids. He used a 5-iron.

Roman lifts Caesars

Little Caesars defeated Hines Park, 6-2, in a Livonia Collegiate Baseball League game played Wednesday at Ford Field in Livonia.

Caesars scored three runs in the third inning, as winning pitcher Dave Roman (Livonia Franklin and University of Detroit-Mercy) threw a three-hitter with five strikeouts and three walks in a complete game.

Scott Benedict suffered the loss for Hines Park despite allowing only four hits, fanning three and walking one.

Chris Champanois had a two-run single in the third and an RBI single in the seventh for Caesars.

Hornets corral Mustangs

Jason Parsons collected three hits and three RBIs, powering the Livonia Hornets to a rain-soaked 11-5 victory Thursday night over the Livonia Mustangs in a Mickey Mantle-age (16-16 year-olds) Tri-Country Baseball League encounter at Ford Field.

Mike Allison, the winning pitcher, struck out nine and allowed four hits over seven innings.

Defensively, third baseman Kevin Marvin and catcher Mike Corrie, each stood out for the Hornets (7-0).

Mavericks finish 2nd

The Mid-America Mavericks, a 14-and-under travel slo-pitch softball team, placed second in a World Qualifying tournament June 17-18 at Liberty Park in Sterling Heights.

The Mavericks won three of five games en route to the championship final. The Rockers beat Mid-America in both meetings, 13-3, and 12-2.

Mid-America opened with a 22-5 victory over South Farmington as Jennifer Price (Redford) ignited an 11-run third inning with a two-run homer. Raegan Tisher (Livonia), Robyn Golden (Belleville) and Karen Prosyk (Plymouth) each contributed triples in the win.

Prosyk's RBI triple in the bottom of the seventh gave the Mavericks a 13-12 victory over Michigan Sports. Price added a triple, while Tisher and Kelly Callison (Romulus) each doubled.

In a 7-6 victory over Michigan Sports, Callison and Prosyk each tripled, while Elizabeth Elaner (Plymouth) collected doubles.

Other Maverick members include Allison Lucak and Michelle Jacob, both of Livonia; Kristen Mannix, Westland; Wendy Hankinson, Garden City; Melissa Emory, Stefanie Tierny, Maureen Buchanan, Canton; Angela Haas and April Smith, Wayne.

The team manager is Tim Wancha. Ray Knick (Rockers) is the general manager.

East hurlers come through, 4-1

The East, led by three pitchers from Observerland, defeated the West, 4-1, in the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Norm Hoenes felt like Sparky Anderson for a day.

The Westland John Glenn coach was the manager of the victorious East team in the 13th annual Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium.

Observerland pitchers Bryan Besco (John Glenn), Dave Susalla (Redford Catholic Central) and Mike Marsella (Plymouth Salem) each threw two scoreless innings as the East beat the West, 4-1.

Hoenes, who led Glenn to a 27-4 record this year, plans to be back next year for his 29th season with the Rockets.

"Everybody gave us two nice innings and it just worked out that way," said Hoenes, who skipped the East squad from the Tiger dugout. "We decided to give Bryan (Besco) the start, give him a couple of at-bats and let him leave early because he had to be back in Battle Creek for a tourney."

"All of our pitchers had decent control and we made all the plays on defense. Everyone looked so smooth."

Besco was the winning pitcher. That makes him 11-1 this season in high school games.

The lefty, headed to University of Michigan along with his twin brother Derek, gave up a pair of hits, including a first-inning double to Kevin Kernen of Holly.

Kernen, however, was thrown out at third trying to take the extra base.

"It's a great opportunity to start."

I love that," said Besco, who hadn't thrown since Glenn was ousted in the regional on June 11. "I felt good even though my back was a little sore."

"I was nervous because I knew I was playing against the best players in the state. The five, six, seven, eight and nine batters are just as good as the first four."

Besco, who participated in a tryout camp last year with his brother at Tiger Stadium, knew what to expect.

It also helped that Hoenes was nearby.

"It makes it a lot more comfortable having someone to talk to," Bryan said. "And the mound is great to pitch on. You can't go wrong."

Marsella pitched the fifth and sixth innings after Susalla held the West scoreless in the third and fourth.

"I felt good," said Marsella, a smooth-shooting right-hander who is still up in the air about his college choice. "I used a fastball, a curve and a split-finger."

"The mound is a little lower than Salem's, but a hole doesn't develop when you step down. I guess it's better dirt they use."

He also found the stadium intriguing.

"Once you're on the mound you're concentrating on the batter, but once in awhile you get caught looking around because it's so big and spacious," Marsella said.

The Salem hurler also got a crack at the plate in the fifth, fouling off several pitches before striking out.

"I was just trying to make contact," he said. "I just didn't want to strike out."

Besco, who hit 11 homers this season for Glenn, went hitless in his two plate appearances.

"I've been prepping in summer ball," he said. "I wanted to get hold of one and send one out."

One Observerland player who found aluminum was Redford Thurston's Jeff Lance, a second baseman headed for Henry Ford Community College.

He delivered an RBI triple to right field to give the East its first run.

The East added another run in the third and one more in the eighth on a double by Detroit Southeastern's speedy Ed Gregory.

East pitcher Joe Holland of Anchor Bay held the West scoreless in the seventh and eighth. But the West finally broke through in the ninth, ruining the shutout bid against Grosse Pointe North's Derek Ottevaere when John Busch (Bay City Central) scored from third on a groundout by Rob. Cavanaugh (Bridgeport).

The East out-hit the West, 10-6.

Fraser's Mike Bonacci, who caught all nine innings and collected two hits, was named East team MVP.

"He's a good catcher and a good athlete," Marsella said. "He's a good catcher because he works hard."

HORSE RACING

Ladbroke DRC is canceling the famed $250,000 Michigan Mile Handicap horse race, which was scheduled for Saturday, July 16, due to significant attendance and handle losses as a result of the opening of the Windsor Casino in Ontario, Canada.

That announcement was made last week by William J. Bork, executive vice president, Ladbroke DRC in Livonia.

Since the casino opened May 17, attendance at Ladbroke DRC has declined more than 18 percent while handle, the total amount wagered, has dropped nearly 9 percent compared to last year's comparable dates.

The state's entire horse racing industry is in jeopardy as a result of the tracks' inability to compete, Bork said. Smaller track purses and closures of tracks mean less money for horse owners to run their farming operations and pay suppliers, and decreased funds for various 4-H, county fair and agricultural programs, he said.

It is estimated that more than 40,000 jobs and millions in state tax revenue to fund 4-H programs, county fairs and agriculture in Michigan will disappear should horse racing no longer exist.

Michigan track owners, employees, vendors and horsemen organizations have banded together in an effort to save racing by introducing legislation allowing tracks to compete with casinos and other entertainment options.

The decision to cancel this year's Michigan Mile will help to protect the "overnight purse" structure for DRC's horse owners. Horse track purses are divided into two main categories: overnight and stakes. A portion of the total purse money available is set aside for stakes purses, which go toward special stakes races such as the Michigan Mile.

"The substantial attendance and handle losses we've experienced since the opening of the Windsor Casino is depleting money from our existing purse pool," Bork said. "We cannot support a race of the magnitude of the Michigan Mile without seriously harming our overnight purses and, therefore, the races for the rest of the year."

The Michigan Mile, a Grade II event for 3-year-old horses and upward going one and one-eighth miles, began as a $7,500 turf race in 1949 and has been run at DRC every year since that time. The race is the only one like it in the state and is simulcast around the country to more than 30 outlets.

The Michigan Mile's Grade II signifies the high caliber of horses that compete each year, second only to a Grade I race such as the Kentucky Derby. If Ladbroke were to reduce the amount of purse money for the Michigan Mile, the quality of the race and its grade designation would drop, according to Bork.

"While the Michigan Mile has been an extremely prestigious event for us, the fact is we would weaken our everyday pursues substantially for one major event," Bork said. "We felt by continuing to support our everyday races, we are supporting more Michigan horses and keeping as much of the money in the state as possible."

The Michigan Division of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association (HBPA) has indicated its support of the action based on Ladbroke's assessment of the situation.

"We concur with Ladbroke DRC's decision to cancel the 1994 Michigan Mile," said David Darby, president of the Michigan Division HBPA. "We are hopeful that the Mile will return in 1995 and that the entire horse-racing industry will get the legislation it needs to continue."

Ladbroke DRC, the union representing its employees; vendors; the horsemen; and the other seven Michigan racetracks are supporting legislation which would give horse racing an opportunity to compete with such entertainment options as casinos and the state lottery.

The legislation would allow simulcasting and video gaming terminals (VGTs) at the racetracks. Simulcasting means that in between live races, TV screens at the tracks broadcast races from other tracks and take bets on them.

VGTs are betting machines people can play on the track premises, identical to those found at casinos. Except for very limited simulcasts, neither of these options is allowed under current regulations.

Richters ponders options in professional career

Like his friends, competitors and teammates, Lars Richters sees the World Cup as his door to a career playing soccer.

Problem is, he's been locked out — at least for now.

Richters was a member of the Detroit Rockers the last two seasons. What he didn't realize when he signed his contract prior to last year was that it contained an option for another year.

That's the problem. When Rockers' star Andy Chapman announced he had signed to play and coach the Neon, the Rockers filed a lawsuit to prevent it. The courts sided with the Rockers, which meant not just Chapman but all others with similar contracts could neither switch nor play for both teams.

"I'm under contract with the Rockers, and they won't let us play with the Neon," said Richters. "They just don't want to see Rockers in Neon uniforms. It's really a personal conflict — two rich guys (Rockers' owner Mike Ilitch and Neon owner Bill Davidson) competing for the indoor audience."

Richters was a prep star at Livonia Stevenson before departing for Yale University and the Ivy League. While he was a regular with the Rockers, appearing in the majority of their games, he wasn't a team mainstay.

"That's kind of my gripe," he said.

His proof — the Rockers don't mind him playing this summer outdoors for the Marauders in the Great Lakes Men's Soccer League, a recreational circuit that features many top collegiate players with local backgrounds. And at the end of July, he'll travel to the homeland of his parents — Latvia, to play for the national team.

Latvia was part of the Soviet Union. Richters made the same trip for a tournament last summer and was invited to remain and play, but arrangements could not be worked out. His hopes are apparent: He wants to get a tryout for their national team and, perhaps, become a member of a World Cup competitor.

Like other soccer players, Richters has other hopes — for one, a successful outdoor league in this country. But like his hopes to play indoor for the Neon, those will have to wait.

West Bloomfield owner sells Lanes

AL HARRISON

It's like saying goodbye to an old friend.

But how do you say goodbye to a 48-lane bowling center?

West Bloomfield Lanes, opened by Larry Sisson in 1976, has been sold to the Barnes & Noble Co., which will soon open the largest bookstore in the world.

The last ball will be thrown Friday, July 1. West Bloomfield Lanes was unique. Under the innovative leadership of Sisson, this center became one of the nation's busiest and led the nation in daytime traffic according to Brunswick Corp. statistics.

They also led the way in charity events, leading the state every year in the BCA Bowler's Charities. According to Sisson, the success of West Bloomfield Lanes was due to his employees who "helped me as much as I helped them."

It was very important that all customers were treated right, that they enjoyed the amenities and the bowling the house offered.

General Manager Laura Burns was invaluable in coordinating the many corporate parties that took place, while Ed Harris and Angela Swan worked to see the bowlers had fun.

Mae Davis has been the babysitter since the place first opened and has since gone through three generations of kids to care for while the mom was bowling.

Norm Buyikian and Gary Suchanek kept all the automatic pinsetters in good working order and are considered among the best pin mechanics around.

Norm has actually been with Sisson for 40 years. Taryn Tucker has been a blessing as the beverage and assistant corporate party planner.

Last year, West Bloomfield Lanes had 4,987 league customers. Add to that the uncounted open bowlers and the idea soon hits that this loss of this house will leave a huge void in this part of Oakland County. Where will all these people go to enjoy their sport?

Laura Burns has been working with other area establishments to place as many of their customers in suitable times and places as possible. Many leagues have been going on since they first opened such as Michigan Ball, Adcraft, Compaware and B'Nai Brith Pishag Lodge to mention a few.

They also came up with some innovative leagues such as the Bad Bowlers League and the Flex a Howl which attracted 197 bowlers who would bowl weekly when they could find time, report scores on the honor system and work within a league system, including a weekly sheet.

There were many celebrities who bowled here, including sports figures such as Bill Laimbeer, Isaiah Thomas, Gordie Howe, Sergei Federov, Shawn Burr, Bob Probert, Alan Trammell and Wayne Gretzky. Lady Pro bowlers Cheryl Daniels and Aleta Sill practiced there.

Sisson only had one formula for success and that was to "keep the customers happy."

In the final week, all who bowled at West Bloomfield Lanes are invited to come in and bowl for free. There's unlimited bowling for all until the doors close and that's Sisson's way of saying goodbye. Don't be surprised if a new place opens to replace West Bloomfield Lanes.

All-Observer squad comes closest to pin

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

You could separate one team from the rest when it came to girls golf this season in Observerland.

Farmington Hills Mercy distinguished itself as the area's premier squad by winning 14 of 15 dual meets, the Catholic League championship, and a berth in the state Class A finals.

The Marlins, guided by Observerland Coach of the Year Vicky Kowalski, qualified for the state finals by finishing second in the regional at Sylvan Glen in Troy.

Mercy, led by the only repeat performer on the All-Area squad (Amy Schulkins), placed two on the first team.

Western Lakes Activities Association runner-up Livonia Stevenson also landed two along with Livonia Ladywood, the only team to beat Mercy in a dual meet this season. (The Blazers missed qualifying for the state finals by one place).

Presenting the 1994 All-Observer Girls Golf Team as selected recently in a meeting of area coaches:

FIRST TEAM

Amy Schulkins, junior, Farm. Hills Mercy: The varsity co-captain boasted a nine-hole scoring average of 48 this season, including a low of 40 at Pebble Creek. A medalist in 10 of 15 matches, Schulkins also led the Marlins with a 107 in the state final and a 94 at the regional, good enough for seventh place. She added a third in the Monroe-Jefferson Invitational (91) and took a seventh in the Catholic League final (97).

HONORABLE MENTION

Farmington Hills Mercy: Gina Marzetti, Sara Hagan, Erin Moug; Livonia Stevenson: Kristin Bartholomew, Katie Koulouras; Livonia Ladywood: Elise Platt, Diane Johnston, Bianca Cannon; Livonia Churchill: Christine Misher; Livonia Franklin: Amy LaMonte; Plymouth Canton: Anne Atoto.

Her best result occurred in the Catholic League championship when she took medalist honors with a 47. Woods also finished second at Monroe-Jefferson (90) and finished 11th at the regional with a 98.

"Sommer is a very good tournament player, earning medalist honors four times this season," Kowalski said. "The highlight of her season was being Catholic League champion and leading the team to the title."

Sarah Andersen, junior, Liv. Ladywood: The Blazers' team captain averaged 52.1 this season, earning medalist honors three times. She had a low score of 45 against Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes.

Andersen shot a 97 in the regional and finished fourth in the Catholic League with a 49. She added a 101 at the Brighton Invitational.

"Sarah worked very hard to improve her game during the 1994 season, lowering her average by three strokes," Ladywood coach Phil Hoyer said. "Sarah is also an excellent student with a 4.18 GPA, ranked number one in her junior class."

Maureen Drabicki, senior, Liv. Stevenson: The Spartans' team captain and MVP took home several honors this season including All-Division in the Western Lakes Activities Association and WLAAS Scholar-Athlete Award. She was also voted Stevenson's Top Female Athlete.

In only her second golf season, Drabicki earned medalist honors seven times. She averaged 52.3 per nine holes.

Miss Drabicki served her team and her school with honor and distinction both as a student and athlete. Stevenson coach John Wagner said, "She has been an intense competitor and a positive example to her teammates on and off the course."

Drabicki, who won seven high school letters at Stevenson, will continue her athletic career on a basketball scholarship at Valparaiso (Ind.) University.

Laura Kowalski, sophomore, Liv. Ladywood: The 10th-grader's score counted in all 15 matches (including tourneys) this season for the Blazers.

She averaged 52.5 with a low of 46 vs. Northville. Kowalski finished second with a 47 in the Catholic League tournament (losing to Mercy's Woods in a playoff).

She shot a 100 at the Brighton Invitational and a 102 at the Class A regional.

"Laura has an excellent future in golf, being only a sophomore," Hoyer said. "She works at her game year-round. She is also an excellent student with a 4.14 GPA."

Kelly Kristy, freshman, Liv. Stevenson: The ninth-grader made an impressive showing in her inaugural high school season with an average of 52.1.

She was medalist at the Stevenson Invitational and took All-Conference honors in the Western Lakes by finishing second with a score of 101.

Kristy was also named Stevenson's Rookie of the Year.

"Kelly was the most consistent top-scoring golfer on our team this season," Wagner said. "Her skills are solid; her work ethic exceptional and her desire and spirit will most certainly be of great importance to the future of our girls golf team for the next three years at Stevenson."

Katie Collins, freshman, Ply. Salem: Another rising star, Collins was the Rocks' foundation and most consistent golfer this season.

She finished 12th at the Class A regional with a 97 — lowest score among all Observeland-area golfers — and took second with a 101 in the Western Lakes meet to her sister, Kelly, en route to All-Conference honors. A junior, Kelly was the Western Lakes medalist with a 96.

According to coach Jim Stevens, Katie was medalist "in more than half her dual meets" and had a nine-hole average of 51.7. She also shot an impressive 47 against Farmington Hills Mercy.

Students compete in wildlife art

OUTDOOR INSPIRES

BILL PARKER

Courtney Shepherd is only in the sixth grade, but her wildlife artwork is already gaining her some notoriety.

Shepherd, a sixth-grader at St. Regis Catholic School in Birmingham, recently earned second-place honors in the sixth-grade division of the 10th annual Tracks Magazine Wildlife Art Awards.

Upwards of 3,000 students in grades four, five and six, took part in the annual wildlife art competition sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Shepherd won a $100 savings bond for her artwork — a painting of a moose.

Victor Drenfeld, a fourth-grader at Steppingshane School in Farmington Hills, earned honorable mention recognition.

If you are one of those people who has a knack for coming up with a creative, clever name the Michigan Department of Natural Resources needs your help.

Three peregrine falcon chicks — two males and one female — were born around Mother's Day in a nest high atop the Book Building in Detroit. The significance of the chicks is that they are the first known hatchlings in 1994 out of six peregrine nesting sights in Michigan.

"The activities of these birds have generated a tremendous public awareness of wildlife in an urban area," said Ray Rustem, supervisor of the DNR's Natural Heritage Program. "We want to give this naming opportunity to the public as our way of thanking them for their interest."

The names will be selected by a committee of people appointed by the DNR and will be announced in July.

Suggestions should be sent to Birdwatch, Department of Natural Resources, 38980 Seven Mile Road, Livonia, MI 48152.

Entrants should include their name, address and telephone number along with the names for the birds. Entry deadline is July 1.

Chemical pesticides, primarily DDT, have been linked to the decline of the peregrine. Michigan initiated a peregrine falcon restoration program in 1986 with hopes of reestablishing 10 breeding pairs of peregrines in Michigan by the year 2000.

The program is funded through the DNR's Natural Heritage Program, with contributions made primarily through the Nongame Wildlife Fund checkoff on Michigan state income tax returns.

Anyone interested in supporting the program can send a check or money order made payable to Nongame Trust Fund, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 30180, Lansing, MI 48909. Don't forget to note "Detroit Peregrine Program" on your check.

Mustangs gallop into 2nd spot

The Mid-America Mustangs placed second in the 16-and-under girls USSSA national softball tournament June 18-19 in Charlotte, N.C.

The runner-up finish qualified the Mustangs for the world tournament in August in Lexington, S.C. They will travel from there to Jacksonville, Fla., for the ASA national tournament.

Mid-America began its first NIT with an 8-5 win over the Davidson County Knights and then played four games in hot, humid weather the next day (June 19).

The Mustangs defeated Bojangles 6-3 but lost 8-4 in the winner's bracket final to eventual champion Carolina Heat, which had already won two tournaments.

Mid-America stayed alive with a 12-10 win over the Fayetteville Sharks, who were runners-up in the tournaments the Heat won. But it all fell apart in the championship game as the Heat claimed a 24-1 victory.

Julie Jones (Belleville) of the Mustangs was chosen the best offensive player in the tournament. She and teammates Heidi Wahl (Southfield/Mercy) and Stephanie Haggerty were named to the all-tournament team.

Other members of the Mid-America team are Lynn MacLeod (Canton/Salem), Lisa Rozum (Canton/Ladywood), Aimee Breil (Canton), Patricia Kesner (Gar-

The Mustangs, who also received the sportsmanship award, are managed by John Deaassure. The coaches are Reggie Wallace Jr. and Vicki Lucas.

More softball results

The 16-and-under Finesse girls softball team was fourth June 18-19 in a USSSA national tournament in Smyrna, Tenn.

Finesse, the only northern team in the field, opened with a 14-1 rout of the Memphis Bluegrass Babes. Tamara Dominick hit a three-run homer. Sherry Foster, who was named to the all-tournament team, had four RBI and Christina Bogulawski three.

The Louisville Grayhaws defeated the Finesse 13-9. Jenny Kruzel, Kristy McDonald (Thurston) and Brooke Ayles had three hits apiece.

Finesse remained in contention with a 12-3 win over the Louisville Travelers. Ayles knocked in three runs, and Cassie Entsminger (Ladywood), Diana Dickow (Harrison) and Carah Best (Salem) had two hits and scored two runs each.

The Atlanta Rat Daddy's eliminated Finesse 10-7. Entsminger hit a solo homer and Bogulawski had two RBI.

Other members of the Finesse team are Jenny Bauer (Garden City), Randi Wolfe (John Glenn), Dina Aon (Farmington), Kelli Knight (Salem), Colleen Wutke (Garden City), Katy Duncan (John Glenn) and Jackie Bayliss (John Glenn).

SOPHISTICATED ENOUGH TO KNOW WHEN THEY NEED SERVICING. TOO POLITE TO LET YOU PAY FOR IT.

In addition to the responsive engines and over 50 active and passive safety features, both the BMW 525i and the BMW 740i feature an electronic Service Interval Indicator. The indicator senses your personal driving habits and determines the car's servicing needs accordingly. So it alerts you when scheduled service is required. Which you won't have to pay for because it's included in the lease price.
