LET'S GO!

Get ready, Westland Observer readers. On Thursday, Sept. 8, your hometown coverage of restaurants, music, movies, travel, theater and concerts will expand.

Let's Go! is a new section designed to make your entertainment planning convenient and fun. This colorful, contemporary section covers the suburban entertainment scene.

In the premiere section you will read about local symphony orchestras and highlights of the upcoming local community theater season. Read about new and/or improved area restaurants and a new travel page.

In addition to Let's Go!, our community life material — weddings, engagements, births and local features normally found in Section C — will move up so the material is easier to find.

Please feel free to tell us what you think about our changes. Call me at 953-3100 or drop me a note at the Observer, 36261 Schoolcraft, Livonia, Mich. 48150.

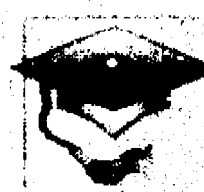

I look forward to hearing from you.

Contract settled; schools open

On strike: Fran Vince (left) and Jean Winebrener, both Coolidge Elementary teachers, were among those on strike Thursday morning.

An agreement reached Monday between administrators and the teachers union brings an end to the strike and a beginning to school on Wednesday. The three-year contract calls for a first-year wage freeze and then a three percent increase in the second and third years.

Teachers in Livonia Public Schools reported today for their first day of work.

The Livonia Board of Education tonight will get its first peek at a tentative three-year agreement hammered out over the weekend by the district, the Livonia Education Association and mediator Chuck Jamieson. The agreement calls for a first-year wage freeze.

And best of all for Livonia parents and students, school will start Wednesday as scheduled. The end of Livonia's second teachers' strike in 20 years came at 1:30 p.m. Monday after heavy negotiations throughout the Labor Day weekend.

"We're now in the process of writing the details," said John Rennels, assistant superintendent for personnel. "We'll get together tomorrow and type out the language. We'll go before the board in closed session Tuesday. The LEA will present it to its members within a week."

Nancy Shaw, LEA president, attributed the 11th hour agreement to both "an excellent mediator" and the support teachers gave their union leadership.

"Striking showed the district our members were behind us. We were not willing to take the outrageous offer that they put on the table."

The LEA hotline gave brief details of the tentative three-year agreement. Teachers will get no raise in the first year, and 3 percent raises in the second and third year. The district had been seeking a wage freeze for at least the first year of the contract.

"It's a workable agreement," Rennels said. "We believe it will fit within the district's budget predictions for the next three years. Each side got some things that they wanted."

The LEA hotline also gave the following details:

■ The district has agreed to language that would protect teachers working with special education students.

■ The agreement makes no changes in art, music or physical education classes or in class size ratios.

"There are some things in it that the members may find difficult to accept but they have to look at the larger picture," Shaw said. "It's an agreement we can live with. We will recommend they ratify it, given the times we are in. We were able to address issues that the state has im-

Boyfriend charged with murder is jailed

BY DARRYL CLEM

Ricky Alan Amolach, a longtime auto worker with no criminal history, was arraigned Thursday on allegations of stabbing his girlfriend to death and leaving a kitchen knife stuck in her mouth, police said.

Amolach, dressed in blue jeans and a blue T-shirt, showed no emotion as he was arraigned before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos on a charge of first-degree murder.

The 38-year-old Wayne man is accused of killing Jane Marie Fray, 34, who suffered multiple stab wounds to her head, neck and chest. Fray's mother found her body at 10:52 a.m. Aug. 23 after going to Fray's residence at 609 Cashew in Westland Meadows, a mobile home park northeast of Merriman and Van Born.

Amolach stood mute Thursday and a not guilty plea was entered for him. Judge Bokos denied bond, forcing Amolach to remain in custody because of the severity of the charges.

Amolach has been ordered to return to court Thursday for a preliminary hearing that will determine whether he should stand trial for Fray's murder. He could waive the hearing or proceed with testimony.

Amolach, an hourly employee of General Motors Corp. for 18 years, would face a mandatory life term in prison if convicted of first degree murder. He had been living on Cheat-nut Street in Wayne when he was arrested.

The 200 pound, 6-foot-2 defendant was arrested after Fray was murdered, but he had been temporarily released from custody as authorities put together their case against him.

Westland police Sgt. Donald Haigh and Thomas Kubitskey, who are handling the case, declined to elaborate at length on how they

Senior is honored

Gertrude Vincent has been named the Westland Senior Resources Department's senior of the month for September. Vincent, a local resident for 56 years, graduated from Patchin Elementary School and Wayne Memorial High School. The senior, who will be 72 on Nov. 6, has two children, five grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren. She worked for Burroughs Corp., now Unisys, for 30 years, retiring in 1988. She is still a member of the company's women's club, with which she has been involved. Over the years, Vincent has been a volunteer for the Friendship Seniors' Center, Friendship Center Travel Club, cancer pad sewing club, Annapolis Hospital and Oakwood Hospital. During the holiday season, she goes to the Sarah Fisher Home for Children, Northville, to distrib-

Spelling test

The Patchin School committee planning a dedication of a historical marker next month decided to avoid a problem dealing with the accurate spelling of the school's name in its printed invitations. On the cover of the invitations mailed last week, the committee identified the school as "Patchin Patchen," although the "in" spelling was used on the inside. The school had the "en" spelling until 23 years ago when an Eagle Scout compiling its history found that the school should have the "in" spelling. The school board made the changes then. But this spring, a Patchin-Patchen history committee said that the "en" spelling is the accurate version. In any case, the dedication ceremony is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9, at the school on Newburgh south of Warren Road.

Car show, swap meet

The Westland Chamber of Commerce is planning its fifth annual car show and swap meet from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at Central City Park, south of Ford and west of Carlson. People interested in entering their car or truck may contact the chamber, 326-7222, during weekday business hours. Admission to the show is free.

linked Amolsch to the killing. "He was a suspect early on, and we developed leads from there," Kubitsky said.

Fray's body was found in a rear bedroom of her mobile home. She had been dead for several hours before she was found by her mother.

Fray's neighbors have told police that they could hear arguing inside the mobile home at 4:30 or 5 a.m. on the morning she was killed. Two knives were found at the scene.

In court Thursday, Judge

Bokes advised Amolsch not to make any statements that could be used against him. Amolsch told the judge that he intended to hire his own lawyer and that he wouldn't need a court-appointed attorney.

Westland police apparently had never been called to Fray's house for any previous reports of domestic violence. Moreover, police were told that Fray and Amolsch apparently got along.

"They didn't even argue, let alone fight," police Sgt. Terry Donohue said following initial reports of Fray's body being found.

Jefferson: From hero to suspect

Westland's Mario Jefferson should have had no problem winning the "loser of the day" award from WJR's J.P. McCarthy Thursday.

The 27-year-old, a hero on Wednesday for helping arrest a suspect in the robbery and assault of civil rights pioneer Rosa Parks, was arrested by the FBI the next day for allegedly taking part in a Southfield bank embezzlement.

Jefferson, in TV news reports Thursday night, denied he was involved in the embezzlement.

He was arrested at the WXYZ-TV studios in Southfield late Thursday afternoon after taping a live interview. He was recounting his actions in helping capture the assault and robbery suspect on Detroit's northwest side and holding him for police.

Jefferson was taken to federal court Thursday and released on bond. His arraignment on the embezzlement charge was to be held Friday.

According to TV and published reports, the FBI claims that Jefferson, another man and a National Bank of Detroit teller stole $65,000 from an NBD branch at 12 Mile and Southfield in April 1991. Jefferson was the getaway car driver, said the FBI.

It was the wide-spread publicity from nabbing the Rosa Parks assault/robbery suspect that led to Jefferson's arrest. The FBI said it had issued a warrant naming Jefferson July 27.

In TV interviews Thursday night, Jefferson denied any involvement in the embezzlement, asking why he would voluntarily take part in media interviews if he knew he was wanted by the FBI.

Crash kills Westland couple

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Motorists who witnessed a fatal accident in which a Westland couple was killed early Wednesday when struck broadside by a Canton Fire Department ambulance told the Michigan State Police that the driver of the Cadillac disregarded a red blinking light at the intersection of Canton Center and Warren roads.

"Witnesses indicated there was no type of stop. The car went through the intersection," said Lt. Charles Schumacher of the Michigan State Police. "The emergency vehicle was within its rights in traveling northbound on Canton Center Road." State police investigate accidents involving township fire and police personnel.

Samir Ansara, 44, of Westland and his wife, Nadia, 36, were pronounced dead at the scene by a physician from Oakwood Canton Medical Center. Their daughters, Tina, 16, and Lisa, 12, who were in the back seat of the Cadillac Seville, survived.

The Jaws of Life extrication tool was used to free Tina Ansara who was pinned in the car. Lisa Ansara apparently got herself out of the car and was in the Oakwood Medical Center parking lot where the Cadillac came to rest after traveling approximately 300 feet over a landscaped berm from eastbound Warren Road, Canton fire Chief Mike Korabacher said.

The ambulance driver suffered a closed head injury when he struck the windshield. "He is conscious, stable and alert," Korabacher said. "He doesn't have any recollection of the accident." The firefighter in the passenger seat of the ambulance suffered leg injuries but was treated and released. Canton Public Safety officials would not release the names of the firefighters.

The accident occurred around midnight when a Canton Fire Department ambulance was traveling northbound on Canton Center responding to a request for medical help for injuries sustained in a domestic dispute at the Lincolnshire Apartments, Korabacher said.

The lights and sirens on the ambulance were activated as the vehicle traveled north on Canton Center. Witnesses who were behind the Cadillac said they didn't see any brake lights as the car entered the intersection.

The state police are now trying to determine the speed of both the Cadillac and ambulance when the accident occurred. "We only need work ups on the speeds. I don't know if we have enough marks (on the road) to determine speeds," Schumacher said, referring to both the Cadillac and ambulance. "One witness who said he was going 40 mph said the Cadillac was going faster than that."

Schumacher said he is waiting for information from the autos, including blood alcohol levels.

Immediately following the accident, the firefighter passenger of the ambulance radioed for another rescue squad. A second squad was sent to Lincolnshire Apartments on the original emergency request. Canton called in help from Plymouth Township, Westland and Livonia. Plymouth Township transported the younger daughter to a hospital, while MedFlite transported the older daughter, Korabacher said.

The fire department has a mutual aid agreement with Huron Valley Ambulance. Fire department ambulances respond because of generally quicker response time, Korabacher said.

"It is a tragic and terrible accident," Korabacher said. "It is terrible for the family and for the firefighters who are injured."

Menacing robber jailed

BY DARRELL CLEM

A gun-wielding Westland robber who stirred fears with a string of robberies in the Merriam-Road-Ann Arbor Trail area has been sent to prison for six to 20 years.

David Michael Palmer, 39, was sentenced last week by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Maggie Drake after pleading guilty earlier to robberies that occurred at Baskin Robbins, 8280 Merriam, and the Dandy Oil/Marathon station, 31425 Ann Arbor Trail.

Several holdups at both businesses earlier this year sparked fears among nearby residents, who made their concerns known to the Westland City Council. Palmer himself lived on nearby Roselawn when he robbed Baskin Robbins twice and Dandy Oil once.

The latest holdup occurred May 29 at the ice cream parlor, when a masked gunman forced several customers and employees to the floor at gunpoint before escaping with an undisclosed sum of money.

Palmer's subsequent arrest helped to alleviate fears in the neighborhood, and his sentencing on Monday capped an investigation that initially baffled authorities.

Palmer could have faced a maximum sentence of life in prison. Palmer also was given a mandatory two-year term for using a gun during the robberies, a court clerk said.

Palmer fired no shots and injured no one during the robberies, but the string of holdups rattled the nerves of residents and employees who, before Palmer's arrest, waited nervously for the next incident.

One resident who addressed the city council earlier this year pleaded for beefed-up police patrols in the neighborhood, and Police Chief Emery Price assured him that police would watch the area as closely as possible.

Price noted that the police department didn't have enough officers to place a patrol car in the Merriam-Ann Arbor Trail at all times. But he tried to allay fears by promising that the neighborhood would be watched as closely as any other area of Westland.

Schools will observe King holiday at last

BY DARRELL CLEM

The birthday of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. will be observed with a day off in the Wayne-Westland school district, beginning with the 1995-96 school year, a teacher union leader confirmed Thursday.

The agreement emerged last week as bargaining teams for teachers and the school board reached a tentative agreement on calendar issues, said William Reece, president of the 1,100-member Wayne-Westland Education Association.

King's birthday, observed nationally on the third Monday in January, will be honored by letting students and teachers stay home — a move earlier encouraged by African-American residents. The district has a 13-percent minority population.

"That's wonderful," longtime NAACP activist Jim Netter of Wayne said Thursday, when told of the agreement. "I see this as a step forward. I think the district is recognizing the diversity of its population and doing something to demonstrate its sensitivity.

"It is a great day," Netter said after hearing the news.

The push for a King observance in Wayne-Westland gained steam last January when John Glenn High student Eole Barrow nearly lost credit for a test she missed. Barrow stayed home from school Jan. 17 to observe King's birthday.

Superintendent Larry Thomas said negotiators decided to make the observance effective in 1995-96 because they were unable to identify a make-up day for this school year.

Westland teen charged

A Westland teen faces felony charges amid accusations that he intentionally hit an Inkster teen with his car following a dispute that police said began in Garden City Park.

The victim was hit while walking along the 300 block of Henry Ruff Road, south of Cherry Hill and not far from Titus Elementary School, said Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe.

David Douglas Barr, 19, could face 10 years in prison if convicted on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than murder, said Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe.

Barr was arraigned last week in Westland 19th District Court and released from custody on a $5,000 personal bond. A not guilty plea was entered for him, and he has been scheduled for a preliminary hearing Thursday to determine whether he should stand trial.

Parents, kids say teachers are justified

BY MARIE CHESINEY
STAFF WRITER

Throughout the district, Livonia's teachers have garnered widespread support and sympathy among young and old alike in their strike against Livonia Public Schools.

In an unscientific sampling of residents Friday, most answered yes when asked if they believed teachers were justified to go on strike.

Catherino Reinke, a Westland resident whose daughter is slated to start kindergarten Wednesday in Livonia Public Schools, said she can understand teachers striking over a freeze in pay. "They're asking them to both make concessions and take a freeze in pay. That's not fair."

A union member himself when he worked, Robert Long of Livonia said teachers are doing no different than he did when he was employed — strike for more money.

Jamie Benigna, a senior at Stevenson High, is especially concerned about new teachers earning enough to "make ends meet." "Some teachers get paid a lot and don't need it, but teachers just starting out do need more money," Benigna said. "They need a pay raise to keep up with inflation."

Chris Payne, a Churchill freshman, said teachers shouldn't have to suffer a loss in benefits.

Jeannette Martus, a Churchill sophomore, said teachers earn what they receive and deserve to make even more. "They are the ones who are teaching and creating our future. We need teachers."

Leo Semignan of Livonia, one of the few naysayers on economic issues interviewed, urged a halt to over-increasing salaries and benefits for teachers. At an average salary of $50,000 a year "plus perks," he believes teachers are

A number of residents called the Livonia Observer to protest what they called the high level of salary and benefits given to teachers. One resident, who asked not to be identified because she feared reprisals against her children in school, said she called the board's offices and got a breakdown on teachers' contractual benefits. She said items on the list astonished her.

amply paid and are "not hurting moneywise."

Semignan was joined by a number of residents who called the Livonia Observer to also protest what they called the high level of salary and benefits given to teachers.

One resident, who asked not to be identified because she feared reprisals against her children in school, said she called the board's offices and got a breakdown on teachers' contractual benefits. She said items on the list astonished her, especially a 50-cent co-pay for prescriptions.

"This strike is the proverbial last straw," she said. "I told the secretary that they should fire all of them."

Another caller protested benefits still given to teachers that are no longer given to many workers in business and industry.

While supportive of teachers, some residents criticized both sides for not reaching an agreement by the start of school.

"It's sad it had to go this far; they should have handled this sooner," said Kelly Schlosser, a Stevenson High junior.

Jodie Corrigan, a Stevenson High senior, agreed, saying it was upsetting that negotiations had reached the point teachers went on strike. "I just want school to start."

Eleanor Miller of Livonia has teachers in her family and is sympathetic to their needs. But she, too, said a resolution should have been reached earlier and a strike avoided.

Her friend Jane Erickson of Livonia agreed. "They have a right to strike; but I'm sorry that it had to come to this. I rather would have seen this settled earlier."

Some residents mentioned unresolved issues spotlighted by the teachers' union, including class size and art, music and physical education for elementary students.

Jamie Benigna, a Churchill senior, said he stood behind the teachers in their quest to guarantee art, music and physical education for elementary students. "These programs should stay. I went through them and they helped me a lot."

Jane Erickson of Livonia urged teachers to stick to their guns in setting a cap on class size.

Due to economic uncertainty in school financing, the district wants no limits on size. Erickson said this would hinder the quality of education in Livonia.

"Board Unfair": That was the message striking teachers communicated Thursday on the picket line.

posed on us, such as additional in-service."

No sooner did Livonia's teachers vote to strike Wednesday than both sides were back behind closed doors that night with mediator Jamieson, trying to forge a contract before the start of school Wednesday.

Teachers picketed outside Livonia schools and administrative offices all day Thursday. On Friday, picketing only took place at administrative offices.

Like the teachers, none of the other unions in the district have contracts. The teachers' contract expired Aug. 31.

Sports team practices and games took place over the weekend, with coaches taking the field without incident.

All student activities that had been scheduled to take place were taking place, said Churchill High principal Rodney Hosman.

In the Sept. 1 edition of the Observer, LEA president Nancy Shaw wrote an open letter asking residents to call school board members and ask them to "negotiate in good faith" with the teachers to maintain quality schools.

The teachers' contract that expired Aug. 31 was a two-year extension of a contract negotiated for 1989-1992.

"When those contracts were negotiated we had no idea the state would completely alter the tax structure," Rennels said.

That new tax structure, with Livonia schools receiving the bulk of its income from the state rather than local taxpayers, has created economic uncertainty to the point the district is reluctant to sign a multi-year contract, Rennels said earlier.

The district does not want to commit itself to programs and staffing for more than one year when it isn't sure what its income will be in 1996 or 1997, he said.

"For years we had increasing revenues and decreasing students, so we could run excellent programs," Rennels said. "Now we're in-formula, and we're trying to deal with the ramifications that brings. We have to look at the contract language in light of these major economic changes."

The district, Rennels said, needs flexibility in changing programs, class size and staffing if revenues from the state should drop.

"The board has demonstrated over and over if it has the additional funds that it would reduce class size. But when we add something now we can't guarantee it will stay in year after year."

The district sought to freeze teachers' pay for one year. Shaw said a freeze would be less onerous to teachers if the district was not asking for concessions in so many other areas.

"We understand the board has needs and we're willing to be very responsible in that area," Shaw said. "But we can't take major concessions in every area and a pay freeze, too."

A pay freeze, Rennels said, would bring Livonia's teachers' salaries more in line with salaries paid by other districts.

The beginning salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree is $30,981; with a master's, $33,769.

The 1993-94 contract spells out 10 subsequent salary steps for teachers.

The steps for teachers with a bachelor's degree are $33,150; $35,318; $37,487; $39,656; $41,824; $43,993; $46,162; $48,330; $50,499; and $52,667.

The steps for teachers with a master's degree are $36,331; $38,499; $40,667; $42,835; $45,003; $47,171; $49,339; $51,507; $53,675; and $55,843.

First Citizen nominees sought for chamber contest in October

Who will be the Westland First Citizen of 1994?

The community will know in two months when a committee of judges will select a person to be honored for outstanding community service.

The annual award was initiated in 1986 by its co-sponsors, the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

The First Citizen will be picked in late October and announced in early November.

As in past years, the First Citizen will be publicly honored at the chamber's monthly membership on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the Hellenic Cultural Center, on Joy between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

The award was initiated by the Westland Observer eight years ago to honor a person who had made outstanding contributions to the community.

In some cases, the First Citizen was someone who focused on one area, such as education or the handicapped. In others, the award winner was involved in a variety of groups with different aims.

The rules for being nominated

are simple: the person must be actively involved in making a difference in the quality of life in the community or a segment of the community. Residency isn't required.

In past years, winners were honored for their work in public safety, city government, public education, recreation, family education, and the business community.

Nominations can be made by any individual or group and be directed to the Westland Observer Editorial Department, First Citizen Award, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. The fax number is 591-7279.

Nominations should be as detailed as possible, focusing on the impact that the nominee has had on the community or a segment of it. Deadline for submitting nominations is 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20.

The First Citizen announcement will be published in the Observer in early November to allow friends, relatives, co-workers and others to plan to be at the Nov. 16 recognition luncheon.

Previous First Citizens were, in order, Joseph Benyo, Thomas Brown, Sam Corrado, Linda Pratt, Margaret Harlow, Sharon Scott, Madeleine Schroeder and Susan Power, who was last year's winner.

Power will be automatically invited to serve on this year's judging committee. Three other persons will be named within the next month by the Observer and the chamber.

Vette-sters take trip for the love of the car

BY PAT MURPHY
AND BILL COUFANT
STAFF WRITERS

Over Labor Day weekend, the Chevrolet Corvette was driven into the annals of American folklore for ever.

In fact, more than 4,000 of the flashy sports cars, including about 150 from the this area, made a pilgrimage to Bowling Green, Ky., to help open a museum dedicated to the car next to the plant where they're built.

"It's going to be something to see," said Ilona Burton, who works for the Farmington Hills police. "We're going to drive to Louisville (Ky.) the first day."

Burton and her husband Dewey, will drive a blue 1965 model, one of five "Vettes" in the family. Dewey drag races a modified Corvette, their son David owns the '65 and a 1968 model, and Ilona Burton owns a pink 1970 Vette. The original Burton family Vette is a 1963.

"The first major thing we bought was that '63 Vette," Burton said. "When I married him, I married into this."

And through the years, like everything else, the classic car has increased in price as surely as it has increased in fame.

"In 1963, it cost $3,000," she said. "Now they're about $35,000."

The Burtons take their enthusiasm for the cars to great lengths. They are members of the Corvette Club of Michigan, the state's oldest Vette club, and they're joining thousands of enthusiasts in dedicating the car's museum. But there's more.

"We used to live in Farmington Hills," she said. "But we moved to Livingston County to property with a pole barn because we just didn't have enough room for the cars."

Area Corvette enthusiasts left early Thursday to the site of the plant where the car has been built for most of the years since it was introduced in 1953.

ANN HEALEY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Rally round the 'vette: Dewey Burton (left) and his son David Burton had to move from Farmington Hills to Livingston County to have room for their Corvettes.

"When we started organizing last spring," said Jeannine Daley, Cauley sales representative and caravan organizer, "we thought we might have 50 Corvettes. But it really caught on. We've got people from all over southeast Michigan, as well as other parts of the state."

Along with "old hands" like the Burtons, some newer Corvette owners are part of the fun. Terri Gallant of Farmington Hills bought her first Corvette, a 1994 red coupe, in October.

"I sat in it, I drove it and I fell in love with it," said Gallant, who owns City Floor Covering in Ferndale. "I love the way it handles. . . it drives like a dream, al-

"I love the power, especially on 1-696."

But there's a downside to that power, she said. "Every police officer notices a red Corvette. I have to make it a point to watch my speed."

Gallant said she decided to join the caravan because it sounds like fun. "I think it'll be a kick to be in the long line of Corvettes. It will either be a lot of fun, or very monotonous."

Jim Kohler said he babys his white '79 coupe — even keeping it in a specially-built addition on his garage in the winter. "I only drive it when the sun's shining," he said. "It has fewer than 26,000 miles."

He's particularly fond of Vette, Kohler said, his 19-year-old daughter Janelle, an honors student at Michigan State University, is reluctant to drive it. "She thinks we should keep it under a bell jar," he said.

His son Jeffrey, 16, is different, Kohler said. "He's in driver's training (at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills), and he can hardly wait to get at it."

Kohler, a 1963 West Point graduate, said he bought his first Corvette in 1969 while in flight school en route to Vietnam. He and his wife sold it when he enrolled in dental school at the University of Michigan. He's a dentist in Southfield.

Kohler said he loves the power, the feeling, the handling. "I don't necessarily want to go over the speed limit," he said. "But I love going from zero to 25 in nothing flat. I like being able to take a corner at 25 miles an hour rather than five."

Kohler said his wife, JoAnn, doesn't particularly like Corvettes. "I suspect she thinks they're more bother than they're worth," he said.

But his wife enjoys seeing him enjoy Corvettes, Kohler said.

JoAnn didn't plan on accompanying him when the Corvette caravan leaves West Bloomfield Thursday, Kohler said. He, on the other hand, said he wouldn't miss the Corvette caravan. . . even though he's not going all the way to Louisville.

"I might only go to the first rest stop," he said, "or possibly to the state line. But I want to be part of it."

Kohler said he likes the prospect of the caravan so much he'd like to be two people. "I like the idea of being in the middle of this long line of Corvettes," he said. "But I'd also like to be on an overpass watching it go by."

Driving a Corvette is an individualistic thing, Kohler said. But driving one is also like being part of a family. "I get a lump in my throat when I pass another Vette, and the driver waves."

They joined thousands of other Vette enthusiasts in celebrating a part of automobile tradition.

If your home doesn't measure up. . .

Sometimes when we take a hard look around we decide that some things have gotten a little. . . well, not exactly shabby, but they could use a little help.

Perhaps a coat of paint, maybe a new flower bed where those weeds love to grow. Or maybe a bit of new wallpaper here or a spot of carpet there. Little things that will spruce up the place and lift your spirits as well. Or maybe you have a full-scale renovation in mind.

Whatever you decide, we can help.

Officials still bickering over use of little millage

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County officials are still fighting over what to do with the money from a 0.1-mill property tax passed by voters in 1988. The 0.1 mill is part of a 1-mill levy that was used to build and operate a county jail in Hamtramck.

The ballot proposal voters approved six years ago said one-tenth of the revenue from the 1 mill would be used "to acquire, build and operate a juvenile offender work/training institution."

This has not been done. Instead, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara is spending the 0.1 mill money, about $2.7 million a year, on programs for at-risk youth and renovations to the existing Juvenile Detention Facility, a.k.a. the Wayne County Youth Home.

Now county commissioners have voted 8-2 to put a proposal on the Nov. 8 ballot asking voters to demand that "existing funds" be spent on a "new Wayne County Juvenile Detention Facility."

Of the four Observer-area commissioners, only Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, voted to put the proposal on the ballot.

Commissioners Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and Livonia east of Middlebelt; Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton Township, and Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, were absent for the vote, which has the same effect as voting no.

Unless McNamara vetoes the ballot proposal, it will be placed on the ballot in the following form: "Shall Wayne County be required to use existing funds which have already been approved by the voters to begin immediate construction of a new Wayne County juvenile detention facility?"

If voters approve the ballot proposal, McNamara would theoretically be forced to end his at-risk youth programs, then cut the budget elsewhere to pay for building a second juvenile detention facility.

Passed by voters in 1988, the 1-mill levy that the 0.1 mill is part of will expire on Dec. 31, 1997. Officials will likely ask voters to renew the millage at that time, considering that most of the money is being used to pay operating expenses of Wayne County's two jails.

In the 1995 fiscal year, the mill is expected to raise more than $27 million.

Butterflies abound in an area park

From American Painted Ladies to Northern Pearly-Eyes, from Acadian Hairstreaks to Black and Tiger Swallow-Tails, Silvery Blues, Spring Azure, Mourning Cloaks and Mulberry Wing Skippers -- these are a few of the 28 varieties of butterflies which can be found in Farmington Hills' Heritage Park on a warm summer day.

Farmington-area naturalists have devoted one five-hour day each summer to inventorying local species as part of a national butterfly count.

The July count in 1994 is the fourth annual inventory, this year done by 13 members of the group. Results are sent to the North American Butterfly Association in Wisconsin where they become part of a national census of the fluctuating butterfly population.

This summer's count tallied 273 butterflies, of 28 species.

"This is an amazing diversity on 211 acres of land," said Tim Nowicki, Observer columnist and naturalist with Oakland County Parks.

This summer three previously-unnoticed species were seen: a Buckeye, a distinctive variety brownish with orange and black cyclike spots about the size of a Viceroy; a Milbert's Tortoiseshell, which has an orange/yellow edged wing with black inner markings, smaller than a Monarch; and three Striped Hairstreaks, which have blue and orange spotting on a blue/gray coloration, with a "tail" emerging from the hind wing.

All butterflies are identified visually or by capture and release; none are killed, Nowicki said.

The 273 butterflies seen this year -- 28 species -- is one of the most varied groupings over the four-year period. In 1991, 349 were counted, with 24 species; in 1992 the variety was the same, but individuals dropped to 232; last year only 190 butterflies were seen, of 19 species.

"Butterflies vary significantly according to weather," said Joe Derek, Farmington Hills naturalist. "The combination of warm weather and extra rainfall makes higher humidity which significantly affects the butterfly population."

This year's 28 species is attributed to wet weather and rains at the needed times.

"Over time by analyzing species significant changes can be identified and the causes for the fluctuation determined," Derek said. "Four years is really too short a time to get a handle on diversity."

Species most prolific in Farmington are the black swallowtails, of which the group saw 10; small white cabbage butterflies (11); Acadian hairstreaks (35); and large wood nymph satyrs (86) and three Little Wood Satyrs.

Red Admirals, American Painted Ladies and Viceroy's as well as Silver Spotted Skippers were also prevalent this year.

On Sept. 10, the Naturalists Club is planning an all-day jaunt to Point Pelee in Canada to view Monarch butterflies as they cluster by the hundreds before crossing Lake Erie on their 2,500-mile journey to Copper Canyon in Mexico, where they winter.

Anyone with an interest in the group, which has also brought the bluebird back to Farmington, may call Nowicki (625-8630) or Jean Fox (477-6036).

Reader recipe requests crop up during harvest

It's clear from the number of calls I've been receiving that cooking hasn't taken a backseat to summer vacations.

Norm Hodgson of Garden City, who has three blueberry bushes abundantly producing in his garden, is looking for a great blueberry muffin recipe. This recipe hails from Monna's recipe box, and her footnote claims "Don't change a thing, you can't improve them." Here's the recipe Norm.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

- Butter for greasing muffin tins
- 1 cup sugar 5 tablespoons powdered milk
- 2 tablespoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 large eggs
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 3/4 cups all purpose flour
- 2 cups fresh blueberries

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Butter 24 muffin tins. Combine sugar, powdered milk, baking powder and salt in a large bowl. Mix well. Add the eggs and the vegetable oil.

Stir in 3/3 cup water and mix well. Mix in the flour and combine well. Add the remaining 3/3 cup water and mix well. Stir in the blueberries.

Spoon equal amounts of batter into the prepared muffin tins and bake at 400 degrees for 16 minutes. Best when served warm. Makes 24.

■ Anne Sullivan of West Bloomfield wanted the recipe for Crab Cheesecake that ran in my column in May, 1990. I had to dig out the old Apple computer to retrieve the recipe Ann, but I am pleased to repeat it.

CHEESECAKE

- 5 tablespoons butter, divided
- 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs, toasted
- 1 cup fresh grated Swiss (Gruyere) cheese (divided)
- 1 teaspoon minced dill (1/2 teaspoon dried)
- 1 medium onion, minced
- 2 pounds cream cheese, room temperature
- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup half and half
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 pound (8 ounces) flaked crabmeat

Butter a 9-inch springform pan with 1 1/2 tablespoons butter. Combine bread crumbs with 1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese and dill.

Sprinkle over buttered pan, turning to coat. Refrigerate pan until ready to use. Melt three tablespoons remaining butter in a skillet and saute onion until tender. Set aside.

Combine cream cheese with eggs, half and half, 1/2 cup Swiss cheese and salt and mix well. Stir in onion mixture. Fold in crabmeat. Pour in prepared springform pan and place the pan in a roaster pan and add hot water to come 1/2 way up the side of the pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour and 20 minutes. Turn oven off, allow cheesecake to sit in oven with door ajar for 1 hour.

Cool to room temperature before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Chef's suggestion: Make a pesto sauce with basil, Parmesan cheese, olive oil and garlic and add to cream cheese while substituting Parmesan cheese for the Swiss cheese. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup pine nuts and bake as directed.

■ An anonymous reader wanted to know where she could find salt-risen bread. I made a few phone calls, and located fresh salt-risen bread at a great little bakery with locations in downtown Plymouth and Rochester. The Breadwinner Bakery stocks salt-risen bread in addition to a multitude of other great breads. They are at 448 Forest in Plymouth; (1-313-459-1017), and 816 Main in Rochester; (1-810-852-1280).

■ Bill Bresler of Livonia wanted to know if he could turn the Roma tomatoes growing in his garden into sun dried tomatoes with a food dehydrator.

Yes you can Bill, and the finished product will be just as good. I recommend slicing the tomatoes

Order dinner with shoes on at the diner

The hard-working women who served up hearty meals every day in the diners of America in the 1940s had their own quaint way of describing dishes. Here are some you might try at home.

Information supplied by Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village.

- With shoes on - Order to go
- Adam and Eve - bacon and eggs
- On a raft - hot toast
- Dog food - corn beef hash
- Mistreat two - scramble two eggs
- Saddle blankets - pancakes
- Sinker and suds - doughnut and coffee
- Vermont - maple syrup
- Bossy in a bowl - beef stew
- Clean up the kitchen - hash
- Liberty cabbage - sauerkraut
- Moo - "Slab of moo, let 'em chew it" rare steak
- Torch it - well done "slab of moo, torch it"
- One, two, three and splash - today's meal special with potatoes, bread and gravy
- Stars and stripes - ham and beans
- Betty Lee - tea
- Cow juice - milk

Busy families work at making dinner

Today's busy families enjoy spending time together around the dinner table, but they don't have a lot of time to cook.

By BARBARA WILSON
SPECIAL WRITER

I'm sure bean sprouts were around in the 1950s, but I don't think many housewives incorporated them into their dinners.

When we consider the traditional family meal, a picture of mom and dad, and the kids sitting around a table together eating meat loaf, mashed potatoes and green beans comes to mind. Dad came home from work at 5:30 p.m., and within 20 minutes, mom had dinner on the table.

This is the memory most adults today have of a traditional family meal.

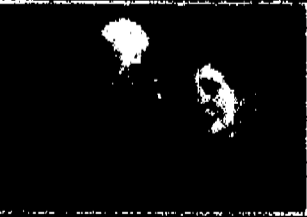

Red meat and starchy casseroles were not evil then, and anything made with Campbell's soup was considered tops, according to Donna Braden, a curator at Greenfield Village in Dearborn who has researched American food trends.

"There wasn't much research during the 1950s about food and health, so Americans really served a lot of fatty meals," Braden said. "Women were caught up in the new conveniences of the day. They bought canned and frozen vegeta-

Explore the southern French region of Provence

Focus on Wine

LEONARD & ROBERTO

Peter Mayle is responsible for popularizing the southern French region of Provence in his book "A Year in Provence," and the television series of the same name. During summer months, many Americans stroll the Cours Mirabeau and sip Pastis (an anise-flavored spirit) in the bistros along this tree-lined avenue in Aix-en-Provence.

Spicy, Provencal cuisine is influenced by Italian and Catalan traditions. Cured black green olives are familiar appetizers while local mealtime specialties include lamb, ratatouille, bouillabaisse, aioli, tomatoes, figs, asparagus, sausage, apricots, Cavallion melons, calisson (almond candy) and pizza au feu du bois (cooked in a wood-burning oven).

The best local wines are the red and rose made of Mediterranean varietals such as syrah, mourvedre, carignan, cinsault and grenache. There are very few quality white wines. The most popular summer wines are well-chilled roses that span the color spectrum from pale salmon-copper to bright pink.

Provence extends north from the Mediterranean Sea to Montellimar and east from Nimes to Toulon. Aix-en-Provence is centrally located and pleasant day trips of no more than one and a half hours in any direction take you to some of the best wine regions of southern France.

The Mediterranean is a 45-minute trip on the autoroute. A morning visit to the fish market at the Vieux Port of Marseille is picturesque, and if one's stay includes mealtime, the authentic Bouillabaisse Marseillaise at Restaurant Michel along the sea does not get much better. A drive east along the Mediterranean brings one to Orange, a most beautiful port where the mountains extend to the sea.

Very good Provence wine producers are Clos Ste. Magdeleine in Cassis and Domaine Tempier in Le Plan du Castellet near Clos Ste. Magdeleine is worth a visit just for the view of the property sandwiched between mountains and the sea. Owner Francois Zack owns one of the few good white wines in Provence. The 1992, Clos Ste. Magdeleine Blanc is crisp, pineapple and tangerine fruit with good length and depth. The 1993 Rose is pale pink and particularly flavorful with a long finish. Zack recommends the white with spicy Asian food and the Rose with bouillabaisse.

Domaine Tempier is east of Cassis, exiting the autoroute at Le Castellet. Many Americans visit because of the Peyraud family's gracious hospitality. Jean-Marie Peyraud has inherited the winemaking responsibilities from his father and makes the best red and rose wines of Provence. The fantastic flavors of blackberry, spice and tobacco can be explained by the minimum 30 percent mourvedre in the blend, a law of appellation that Lucien helped write in 1935. Clos Ste. Romy-de-Provence and Les Baux

There's still some warm weather left at the end of summer, and time to try some outstanding white wine values from Washington State's Hogue Cellars, all from the 1993 vintage and priced at $6. They are:

1993 Dry Chenin-Blanc, regular Chenin Blanc (off-dry), Dry Johannisberg Riesling and Johannisberg Riesling, slightly sweeter at 1.53 percent residual sugar

Additional Best Buys:

- 1993 Santa Rita 120 Chardonnay ($6.50)
- 1991 Cypress Cabernet Sauvignon ($7.75)
- 1993 Barton & Guestier Merlot ($8)
- 1992 Villa Mount Eden Zinfandel ($8)

about 1/4-inch thick. Anything smaller will disintegrate during drying. For best storage, keep the dried tomatoes in an airtight container or pack them in a sterilized jar and cover with olive oil. Roma tomatoes work best because they are the meatiest, but I've also had success with Beefsteak tomatoes.

■ Bob Hadley of Livonia called to ask about a spaghetti squash that's growing in his backyard. The squash is ripe for picking when the skin turns from a honeydew pale green to a pale yellow.

The squash stores well in a cool, dark space. To cook it, simply pick it a few times with a fork and place in a microwave on high power and cook until the squash resembles a football that the air has been let out of (about 6 minutes per pound). Cut in half, remove seeds and toss the meat of the squash with some Parmesan cheese, a little olive oil and a good sprinkling of fresh ground pepper.

■ Paul Rainy of Plymouth wanted some suggestions for a good quality boning knife. Paul is an avid hunter, and will hopefully be butchering his own deer this fall. Good luck Paul, and the best knives are either Wustoph-Trident or Henckles, both from Solingen, Germany. Expect to pay $40 to $50. These knives are best kept sharpened with a steel or a Chief's Choice Knife Sharpener.

Chicago Cutlery is a good quality American product that costs about 40 percent less. You can find good knives at Kitchen Glamour, Williams-Sonoma, Hudson's and Jacobson's.

■ Grace Hammel of Walled Lake has a pear tree in her backyard, and was looking for a different dish that incorporates fresh pears. This recipe comes from one of the old "Cookbook Digest" paperback subscription that is a James Gang favorite. It tastes great hot for dinner, and makes an equally satisfying cold luncheon dish. It's easy too!

CHICKEN WITH PEARS

- 2 cups chicken broth
2 ripe pears
2 whole chicken breasts, skinned, boned, halved
1 cup heavy cream
Fresh ground pepper to taste

In a medium saucepan, bring the broth to a simmer. Peel and core pears, reserving the peel. Poach the pears in the simmering broth until tender, about 10-15 minutes, then transfer pears to a food processor or blender and puree until smooth.

Place chicken and pear peelings in the simmering broth and poach the chicken breasts until chicken is tender and cooked throughout, about 6-8 minutes.

Remove from heat. In a small saucepan, boil the cream until it is reduced by half. Whisk in the pear puree and heat throughout. Transfer chicken pieces to a serving platter. Pour pear sauce over chicken pieces and sprinkle with fresh ground pepper. Serves 3-4.

Another anonymous caller requested information on some cookware frequently mentioned in this column. Calphalon cookware is an anodized aluminum cookware that comes in it's standard form and also in a non-stick version. It's a little pricey (about $40-$50 per piece) but good cooks appreciate it's weight and great ability to conduct heat. I love using it, but it does require a little care and should not be placed in the dishwasher.

Occasionally, retailers offer individual cooking pieces like small saute pans and sauce pans on "try me you'll like the special" for $20-$35. I suggest you try any gourmet cookware before investing in expensive sets.

Jan Ballantine of Troy has "zucchini coming out of her ears" and wants different recipes. Here's a recipe you probably never thought of.

ZUCCHINI Egg ROLLS

- 7 cups grated zucchini
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons oil
2 cups sliced celery
1 cup chopped green onions
1 cup chopped water chestnuts
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon minced fresh gingerroot
2 cups sliced mushrooms
2 cups mung bean sprouts
Soy sauce and pepper to taste
Oil for deep fat frying
3 tablespoons flour or cornstarch
18 egg roll wrappers
1 egg white

Place the grated zucchini in a colander and sprinkle with salt. Weigh the squash with a heavy plate and allow to drain for 30 minutes to remove excess water from squash. Squeeze out any remaining water.

Heat 2 tablespoons of oil in a wok or large frypan. Stir fry the zucchini for 2 minutes or until barely cooked. Remove zucchini and set aside in a large bowl.

Heat remaining oil in a wok or large frypan and stir-fry the celery, onion, water chestnuts, garlic and ginger for 2-3 minutes. Add mushrooms, toss and remove from wok and mix in with zucchini. Season mixture with a few drops of soy sauce and some fresh ground pepper. Mixture will be moist but should not be wet.

Preheat oil in wok or deep fat fryer to 375 degrees. On a lightly floured board, lay down one egg roll wrapper with it's corner towards you. In the center of the wrapper, place about 1/4 cup of zucchini mixture.

Fold in the side corners and roll. Aim for a tight, not loose roll. Moisturize the flap with a little egg white to seal. Place the egg roll on a heavily floured baking pan and continue making egg rolls until all the filling is used. Do not allow the egg rolls to touch each other on the baking sheet.

Shake off excess flour and fry the egg rolls in the hot oil until golden brown, about 3 minutes. Drain on paper towels and serve with a mustard sauce or a sweet and sauce.

Egg rolls can be fried and reheated if desired. Makes 16-18 egg rolls. See more reader requested recipes inside. To leave a message for Chef Larry, dial 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then mailbox number 1836.

de-Provence, Roman settlements west of Aix, affords the excuse to visit Etel Durbach at Domaine de Trevallon. In St-Etienne-du-Gres, Les Daux is an ancient village of restored Renaissance houses situated on a bare rock plateau at the western edge of the Alpilles mountain range. St-Remy is typical of Provence with shady tree-lined streets, water fountains gurgling in each square, and a Friday morning market of local produce and souvenirs.

Domaine de Trevallon, in Appellation Coteaux d'Aix-en-Provence, has 45 acres of syrah and cabernet sauvignon and five acres of marengo and roussanne, dry-farmed in 20 different parcels on very rocky, chalk soil. It is amazing that Durbach can get vines to grow in these soils, but the quality of his wine supports the struggling vine theory. His red wines are very intense and best when aged five years past the vintage. Durbach ages his red wine in large, old casks rather than small French oak. He experimented with small barrels at one time, but didn't care for the results.

Durbach is preparing to plant a small quantity of chardonnay for blending with marsanne and roussanne. He has just blasted and leveled a hill composed of chalk and bauxite. The vineyard looks like a lunar-landing site with large, flat-to-football sized rocks. No wonder Durbach doesn't have to use chemical herbicides in his vineyards, with the rocky soils, dry heat and constant winds, a weed wouldn't dare grow. The wines we discussed are imported by the well-respected West Coast merchant and coimporteur Kermit Lynch. Finding them may require a search, but they are worth the effort. Elle Wine Company, 413 S. Main in Royal Oak, 1-810-398-0030, specializes in such yet-to-be-discovered wines, but any retailer can order them for you. Remember that not all wines are immediately available; the search is part of the fun.

bles and the only fresh produce in the house was probably a tomato, a head of iceberg lettuce, and a carrot.

There weren't many produce markets around at the time, and the mega supermarkets of the day were glamorized.

The only ethnic food families might have been eaten would be on a rare visit to a Chinese restaurant or having a slice of pizza as a snack," Braden said. "They would never have considered preparing these foods at home."

In the 1960s health and fitness became a topic of interest, but so-called health-food diets and vegetarianism were considered oddities and things "those hippies did."

In today's world, the foods our moms fixed might be considered comfort foods. We think of a big pot of beef stew, fried chicken, meat loaf, and homemade macaroni and cheese as good American fare that we better only eat from time to time because they are fatty and bad for us.

With both heads of the household working in the family, dinner is now rarely on the table at 5:30 p.m. Many families, however, are trying to make time for that traditional meeting at the dinner table to talk about the day's events and enjoy a meal.

Glenn Corrado of Westland said she prepares a big dinner every night even though she works all week. A pressure cooker makes it possible for her to fix meals complete with a meat, starch and vegetable.

"We try to eat lighter and I fix fish and chicken a lot, but sometimes you're just hungry for those traditional foods," Corrado said.

Barbara Abraham, formerly of Redford Township, remembers her mom trimming the fat from pork chops, frying it separately and then her dad gobbling down the crunchy morsels.

Now, Abraham and her husband enjoy lighter meals especially in the summer months when produce is plentiful.

"I'll fix sauteed vegetables and we'll just have that," she said. "If my husband is still hungry he's happy with a hot dog."

In addition to pressure cookers, the crock pot has become a friend to many working families. They can throw dinner together in the morning and let it cook all day while they are at work.

So in this tribute to the working family and the traditional dinner table, we salute the foods that most adults grew up with throwing aside news of fat content and sodium intake. And we look ahead to the time-saving meals of working families today who are concerned about too much fat in their diet. See recipes.

St. Julian is tops in wine competition

While Michigan winemakers may still be reeling from last winter's devastating effects on their vineyards, many of them were all smiles when they learned the success of their wines in the 1994 Michigan State Fair Wine Competition.

Of 16 gold medals awarded, the lion's share, six golds, went to St. Julian Wine Company, the state's largest producer.

Additionally, a sweepstakes award for Best of Show red wine was awarded to St. Julian for its 1991 Lake Michigan Shore Chancellor.

Tabor Hill Winery took a grand award for Best of Show red wine with its non-vintage (NV) Late Harvest Riesling.

Other gold medal wines, listed by winery are:

Flowers Harbor Vineyards: 1992 Blanc de Noir Sparkling Wine
Fenn Valley Vineyards: 1992 Chancellor and 1993 Johannisberg Riesling

Good Harbor: NV Northern Lights

Leelanau Wine Cellars: 1993 Leelanau Limited Chardonnay and NV Strawberry

Lemon Creek: 1991 Vignoles

St. Julian Wine Company: NV Great White, 1991 Chambourcin, NV Catherman's Port, NV Raspberry Champagne, NV Solera Cream Sherry

Tabor Hill Winery: NV Grand Mark Brut and NV Hartford Creme Sherry

An analysis of the results shows that St. Julian Wine Company not only stole the show in the red wine category, but scored at the top in every wine category — white, red, sparkling and dessert. No other winery has this bragging right!

In January of this year, we chose St. Julian's Great White ($4.95) as the wine selection of the week. If you've not tried it, we'll say it again. There is no better white wine made in the $5 price point.

Seminar

Eleanor and Ray Heald will offer a fall wine seminar at the Townsend Hotel in Birmingham.

When: 7:30-9:30 p.m. Mondays, Sept. 12 to Oct. 10.

The topic: Wine Exposures. Featuring the wines of Washington and Oregon, California's Santa Barbara Coast, Italian and Rhone style wines from California, southern French wines of the Languedoc-Roussillon, and those of France's Provence.

The cost: $99 for the entire seminar.

For reservations: Call 1-313-953-2047 mailbox 1864 to request a reservation form.

The Great Wine Shootout

at Glen Oaks Country Club (13 Mile east of Orchard Lake).

When: 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 13.

What: Wine tasting with a challenge. Ten or more of the area's wine distributors open four or five of their newest West Coast releases and vie for participants' votes for the most popular red, white or sparkling wine. A generous buffet accompanies the walk-around tasting.

The cost: $15 per person. For reservations: Call 1-810-852-5533.

SKILLET FRIED CHICKEN

1 whole chicken cut into 8 pieces salt, black pepper to taste
1 cup flour
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk or ½ cup beer or white wine
2 cups unseasoned bread crumbs
¾ cup vegetable oil (approximate)

Rinse the chicken and use paper towels to blot off as much moisture as possible. Season with salt and pepper. Place the flour in a plastic bag and dredge the chicken pieces in it. Combine the egg and milk in a small bowl, dip the chicken pieces into this mixture and then coat with bread crumbs, use your hands to press the bread crumbs onto the chicken.

Heat the oil until very hot in a heavy-bottomed skillet, place the chicken side down, and fry on high heat for minutes or until quite brown. Turn the pieces over and brown. Reduce the heat to low and continue cooking for about 30 minutes. Check for doneness by inserting a fork into each piece — the juices should run clear. Serves 4 to 6.

15-MINUTE BEEF BARBECUE

1 pound beef round tip steaks, cut ¼ to ½-inch thick
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, cut into thin wedges
¾ cup prepared barbecue sauce
4 crusty rolls, split

Steak beef steaks; cut lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1-inch wide strips. Set aside.

In large nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add onion; cook and stir 3 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from skillet; keep warm.

In same skillet, add beef (¼ at a time) and stir-fry 1 minute or until outside surface is no longer pink. (Do not overcook). Stir in onion and barbecue sauce; heat through, stirring occasionally.

Spoon equal amount of beef mixture on bottom half of each roll; close with top half of roll. Makes 4 servings.

Recipe from Michigan Beef Industry Commission.

RAVIOLI CASSEROLE

1½ pounds lean ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 (28-ounce) can peeled tomatoes in thick tomato puree
1 (15-ounce) can tomato sauce
2 teaspoons Italian herb seasoning
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 pound bow-tie pasta or fettuccini, freshly cooked
1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, defrosted and squeezed to remove excess moisture

2 cups ricotta cheese
½ cup freshly grated imported Parmesan cheese

In a large skillet over medium-high heat, cook the ground beef, onion, and garlic, stirring often to break up lumps, until the meat loses its pink color, about 5 minutes. Tilt the pan to drain off excess fat, then transfer to a ¾ quart slow cooker.

Add the tomatoes with their puree, the tomato sauce, Italian seasoning, and pepper, stirring to break up the tomatoes with the side of a spoon. Cover and slow-cook for 7 to 8 hours on low (200 degrees).

Skim the fat from the surface of meat sauce. Stir in the cooked pasta, spinach, and ricotta and Parmesan cheeses, and slow-cook for 5 minutes. Serve the casserole directly from the slow cooker. Serves 4 to 6.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Despite suggestions that they eat right and exercise, many Americans do neither. Even if a person exercises regularly, it is sometimes difficult to get proper nutrition from the food we eat. According to the National Cancer Institute, only about 20 percent of us consume the recommended minimum of five servings of fruit and vegetables a day. Most of us get only about three servings of these foods. Even those with the best intentions may find it difficult to get the necessary amounts of nutrients from foods as suggested by recent studies it would take 10 cups of wheat germ, 3½ cups of cooked spinach, and 16 oranges daily to get all the Vitamin E, beta-carotene, and vitamin C that the studies urge. A more realistic option rests with taking supplements of these vitamins.

Did you know that September is National Organic Harvest Month? What better way to celebrate than to come and shop the GOOD FOOD CO. We are Michigan's largest natural food supermarket. This month is dedicated to the education and promotion of organic food and agriculture. Our huge stock of organic foods and foods without additives, preservatives, and artificial coloring and flavoring is without comparison. Call us with your questions at 981-8100 or just come on by. We are located at 42815 Ford Rd. We are open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00 and Sundays from 10:00 to 6:00.

P.S. Vitamin E, beta-carotene and vitamin C are a trio of antioxidants that help stave off cancer and heart disease.
