A Ford in Westland's future?

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Ford Motor Co. wants to buy 210 acres of county-owned land in Westland — southeast of Michigan Avenue and Merriman Road — in a move that could spur industrial growth, create new jobs and boost the city's tax base.

Ford Motor Co. is in high gear in its hopes to develop at least 144 acres of vacant land for industrial or commercial uses. If developed, the city will gain substantial property tax revenues with residents benefitting from job openings.

Company officials hope to seal the proposal within 90 days.

Ford wants to use about 60 to 66 acres of the vacant land to mitigate a wetlands area proposed for elimination in neighboring Wayne, where the company is planning a dramatic expansion of its Michigan Truck Plant, said Jerry Brown, Ford's state and local governmental affairs director.

The remaining land — at least 144 acres — is proposed for industrial or commercial development under a preliminary plan unveiled Monday night to the Westland City Council.

Ford or its development arm, Ford Motor Land, would try to develop the land, though not necessarily as a company facility, Brown said.

"If we do this properly, it could be a first-class development for the city of Westland," said Joseph Derkowaki, Ford manager of architecture, planning and engineering.

Mayor Robert Thomas said he supports the proposal. Ford is asking the council to approve quickly a resolution saying that the wetlands-mitigation proposal is acceptable.

The company needs that assurance before it can move ahead with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Environmental Protection Agency. For every wetlands acre the company disturbs on the Wayne site, it must create 1 1/2 to 2 acres of new wetlands elsewhere, Brown said.

Ford expects 1,250 new jobs to emerge from its expansion plans in Plant protesters skeptical of promises

BY DARRELL CLEM

Residents picketing Technicolor Video Services are skeptical of the company's promise to stop hiring convicted felons at its Westland plant.

"They're pacifying us and waiting for us to shut up," Jodee Lober, a mother of three, said Tuesday as a group of residents protested along Palmer Road east of Newburgh, across from the plant. "We don't believe them."

Motorists honked their car horns and waved in support of the picketers, who have launched a boycott of one of Technicolor's biggest clients, Walt Disney Co.

Disney officials didn't return telephone calls Wednesday, but a woman who answered the phone at Disney offices in Burbank, Calif., said company officials are aware of the controversy.

Residents dumped videotape boxes of "Aladdin," "Robin Hood," "Alice in Wonderland" and other movies in a basket Tuesday. A sign read, "Deposit your toxic waste Disney tapes here."

Technicolor, a video packaging company, is under fire because convicted felons on work-release programs are among 800 temporary employees working at the plant. Many workers arrive daily in busloads.

Residents packed a Westland City Council meeting Monday night and passed out fliers that read, "Let the Walt Disney Corp. know that we do not appreciate their patronage of a company that violates family values."

The fliers included Disney's address. Residents hope to gain widespread support for their boycott, amid hopes of cutting into Disney's pre-Christmas profits. The move is aimed at pressuring Technicolor into changing its hiring practices.

One sign at Tuesday's protest read, "Prison area. Do not pick up hitchhikers." Another read, "Need a job? Commit a crime. Technicolor

Mom called hero for saving 7 children

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland woman is being called a hero for helping seven children escape from a burning house Saturday evening in the 1800 block of Lillian, near Palmer and Merriman.

Pam Keatts, 28, was with the children in a second story bedroom of her sister's house when a plastic pumpkin, which had been placed on top of a halogen lamp, sparked a fire, said Patrick Harder, assistant Westland fire chief.

Keatts, accompanied by her three children, had gone to baby-sit her sister's four children when the fire erupted in the first-floor living room at 7:30 p.m., said the sister, Sandy Duke.

Duke was playing bingo at the time, and her husband, Kevin, was at work.

When Keatts smelled smoke, she ran downstairs, grabbed the burning lamp, raced to the front door and threw it outside. But pieces of burning plastic dropped onto the couch and sparked other flames, Harder said.

The fire spread rapidly, but Keatts rushed upstairs and, in two trips, took the children, ages 2 to 9, out of the smoke-filled house, Sandy Duke said.

"She saved their lives," Duke said. "My kids are wonderfully safe. I wish there was something I could do to pay her back."

Duke's 3-year-old dog Lisa, a shar-pei, wasn't as lucky as the children. She died in the fire, Duke said, break-

Barson's flower and greenhouse business will have its first "Barson's Buddy Project" in which youngsters are invited to take part in pumpkin painting. The activity will be 10-11 a.m. in Barson's greenhouse, on Merriman at Maplewood, followed by a snack. "Plan on getting messy and having lots of fun," said Joe Barson.

Marching to music

The John Glenn High School Rocket marching band will hold its ninth annual "Rocket Invitational" for other school bands 3-7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Glenn athletic field, on Marquette west of Wayne Road. Among the bands to perform will be the host school (to take the field at 6 p.m.).

Wayne Memorial (6:15 p.m.) Livonia Stevenson (6:30 p.m.) and Livonia Franklin (7 p.m.). A Rocket band spokeswoman said families may attend. Tickets are $5 with discounts offered to students and senior citizens.

Halloween party

The Westland Sports Arena will hold its second annual Halloween Party for all ages 1-2:45 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29, at the arena on Wildwood south of Hunter. There will be a costume party and disc jockey. Admission is $3 for adults, $2.50 for children 17 and under and senior citizens, and $2 for skate rentals.

Cleanup planned

The Friends of Sassafras Trail, a large nature preserve on the northeast corner of Wildwood and Palmer, will hold a cleanup and color tour 9-11 a.m., Saturday. The group was formed earlier this year to urge the Wayne-Westland school board to retain the nature preserve instead of selling it.

The Westland recreation department will hold its next country western dance at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne and Newburgh.

will hire you.
Residents have said the temporary workers are terrorizing their neighborhoods by accessing schoolchildren, urinating in public and littering the area with glass bottles, razor blades, syringes and other trash.

The situation improved after the company recently initiated new policies, such as beefing up security and having employees remain in the plant for a paid lunch break. But residents said Tuesday that some workers are still roaming the neighborhoods.

The company has pledged to move many of the employees, particularly convicted felons coming in from halfway houses, to Technicolor's Detroit plant. The workers were hired through temporary job-placement services.

"We will aggressively work to eliminate using the services which have provided these people," plant manager Richard Garity told the city council Monday, reading a lengthy statement. "We cannot discriminate against anyone, we can, however, not use the services which provide them."

Although the residents are primarily white and many of the temporary workers are black, residents said race isn't the issue and that they just want criminals out of their neighborhoods.

"It doesn't matter whether they're white, black, yellow, green or blue," resident Tim Seguin said Monday, addressing the council.

Resident Richard Polehna said he is so fearful for his family's safety that he has started keeping a loaded gun in his home.

"The firearm is loaded and it's sitting there," he told the council. If anyone bothers his family, he said, "I'm not going to stand for it."

The city council also is putting pressure on Technicolor to change its hiring practices, though Mayor Robert Thomas has cautioned council members to beware of liability issues.

Resident Idellias Grims, who operated a now-closed yogurt shop near Palmer and Newburgh, told the council that business dropped from $200 a day to just $15 a day because Technicolor employees were loitering and drinking alcohol from containers concealed in paper bags.

"Families didn't show up — no profit," she said.

Wayne, Brown noted that 1,000 Westland residents already work at the Wayne facilities on Michigan Avenue at Newburgh and that another estimated 2,000 Westland workers are employed at other Ford plants in southeast Michigan.

Expansion plans in Wayne could help to ensure that Ford's two plants there will remain open, placing them "among the least likely to close" in the event of any company downsizing, Mayor Thomas told council members during a Monday night study session.

Right now, Brown said, "We really have 10 pounds in a 5-pound bag at the Wayne facility."

Ford wants to complete the proposed sale with the county within 90 days because the company is on a fast track to expand the Wayne facilities by 1996, Brown said. Ford wants to break ground by January.

The automaker had an option to buy the same property in Westland five years ago, but didn't, Brown said. The county has already indicated that it will sell the land to Ford at fair-market value, he said.

Westland currently receives no tax revenues from the land, because the county owns it. But the sale to Ford would mean the city would benefit from future revenues even if, in a worst-case scenario for the company, the land remained vacant.

Derkowski envisioned an industrial research park on the property, bounded by Michigan Avenue to the north, Merriman to the west, Henry Ruff Road to the east and the Westland Meadows mobile home park to the south. Derkowski said the company would seek to create wetlands on the outer fringes of the property to shield the industrial development from residential areas.

Councilman David Cox seemed impressed by the plan.

"We're always getting dragged through the alley for cutting a tree down. Here we have a chance to bring wetlands into the city," he said.

We must feel safe in our homes and on our streets.

We have a right to feel safe. We have a right to feel secure. We should not be threatened in our own community by career criminals and school drop outs victimizing us. We have thieves, killers and sex offenders who are out on the street after only minimal prison time because of our present state system. These convicts are on the street, threatening our well being and our property because of our present system of incarceration.

Here's what we have to do

- 1. CREATE A MANDATORY SENTENCING PROGRAM
There can be no early release offered for repeat offenders and for heinous crimes. We need to get tough with criminals and ensure that they pay dearly for their crimes against us and our neighbors. If they commit a crime, they must know, without a doubt, that they will serve a prison sentence for it. There can no longer be early release and time off for men and women who are repeat offenders and career criminals.
- 2. DEVELOP PRIVATE PAY PRISONS
If men and women who are convicted criminals are housed and cared for at the expense of taxpayers, where is the punishment. Presently, some prisoners are provided dance lessons, legal counseling, vocational training and unruffled leisure at our expense. I believe that crime deserves punishment.
We need to allow privatization of some prison facilities. Let's allow private developers to build prisons and house prisoners and have the criminals pay for it. If sent to prison, criminals should be charged for their time here. They should pay for their care and their rehabilitation through fines, an assessment against any property they may own, bank accounts or any other funds they might have. If they have no assets, the state should be allowed a lien against any future property or assets so they are forced to pay for their jail time once released into society.
These facilities would require regulation and inspection, but might provide the answer to overcrowding in our jails—and could prove a serious deterrent to crime.
- 3. PUT OUR PRISONERS TO WORK
There are a number of jobs in this state which could be done by prisoners. Our roadways could be cleaned up—our waterways could be cleaned and cleared of debris and our environment improved by use of prison labor. Prisoners could be used as laborers in the building of new prisons, cutting our costs immensely.
Prisoners should be forced to pay their own way—not stay in our correctional facilities at our expense. Today, victims lose twice, first as the targets of criminals and then as the providers of incarceration for them.
Marginal criminals should be used in our work force to make our state a better place and free our state employees to do the jobs for which they are trained. While I do not suggest that violent or repeat offenders be used in this manner, it is crucial that we better use the labor force available to us in the state.
- 4. VIOLENT OFFENDERS PROGRAM
While I support the use of marginal criminals in the state work force, I want violent criminals kept in maximum security facilities without the opportunity to escape or be released early. I do not want my family, or yours, threatened by these people who clearly have no regard for others. Violent criminals should be incarcerated under the strictest of conditions and not paroled or released early.
We have to change our attitude. Some people cannot be rehabilitated. We have to change our attitude and keep these predators from our homes and our families. We have to be willing to pay to keep these people away from society—and we can pay for this by using lesser offenders to do state-paid jobs, allowing those funds to be channeled into our prisons.
We need to make some difficult choices to solve a difficult problem.
- 5. ESTABLISH JUVENILE BOOT CAMPS
Youngsters arrested for the first time on non-violent charges and convicted should be sent to boot-camp type facilities where they can experience the discipline and training missing in their lives. First we need to offer our children a basic education as I've discussed—and if that fails them, then we need to impose a strict climate of rules and regimen for them instilling a respect for our community and our way of life.
When you have to worry about your family leaving home because you're not safe, there's something wrong. Let's get these juvenile offenders off the streets and correct their behavior now.
Let's look at some of our closed military installations for use as juvenile training centers. We need to realign our priorities and put our prisoners to work, not make victims pay twice.

THE 18TH DISTRICT JUDGE'S RACE: THE CANDIDATES AND ISSUES

Two candidates are competing to fill the remaining two years of an unexpired six year term of former 18th District Judge Thomas Smith, who retired in 1992. Both candidates are Westland residents.

QUESTION 1
Considering personal and professional experiences and backgrounds, what makes you the best candidate for this judicial position?

QUESTION 2
If elected, what would you do to make the court more responsive to the community?

QUESTION 3
What is your view on mediation programs, and what crimes are most appropriate for mediation?

QUESTION 4
Do you support term limits for judicial positions? Why or why not?

QUESTION 5
What's your view on setting bonds for drug defendants who are charged with having only small amounts of drugs on them, and who have no prior record?

QUESTION 6
Recorder's Court judges sometimes reduce bonds set by local district judges. What, if anything, can be done to address what some judges see as a problem?

QUESTION 7
What would you do to address the problem of domestic violence?

Candidate: C. Charles Bokos
Age: 56
Employment: 18th District Judge appointee
Family: Married to Hilda with three adult children
Education: Wayne State University School of Law, bachelor of law and juris doctor; Wayne State, bachelor's degree in liberal arts with a political science major; Redford High School Community service: Mothers Against Drunk Driving advisory board; Westland city attorney from 1978-82 and 1986-92; Westland Chamber of Commerce; Westland Rotary Club; member of Sts. Constantino and Helen Greek Orthodox Church

"I've practiced law for 29 years" in a five-county area, appearing in district, circuit, appeals, Supreme and federal courts. "I've handled hundreds of cases as a defense lawyer and thousands of cases as a prosecuting attorney. There is no kind of case that I haven't handled. I know the court and the community. I also believe I have the temperament and disposition to be compassionate when necessary, to be fair and to be firm when necessary."

Bokos focused on what he has already done, including implementing a mediation program that helps people resolve cases without going to trial. "That's a need that has been a long time coming in the district court." He also said he has taken his court docket into local senior and junior high schools "to give kids an opportunity to see what goes on in the courtroom." He also has been involved in a community garden program in which non-violent offenders raise produce that's donated to family shelters, the Salvation Army and other organizations.

"The only cases that are appropriate for mediation are disputes involving neighbors that are non-violent in nature. Virtually every civil case is susceptible to mediation, even when attorneys are involved." The goal, Bokos said, is "to avoid an adversarial atmosphere and to bring the parties together to resolve disputes. Hopefully the people part as friends."

"That's a legislative decision instead of a judicial decision," he said, "but anybody who stays too long on the job tends to burn out." Bokos also said he believes that 14 to 15 years on the bench "is more than enough time to serve" in a judicial position.

Bond is set to protect the community and to ensure that a defendant is likely to reappear in court, Bokos said. Personal bonds, which don't require defendants to post any money if they obey court orders, are appropriate for first-time drug offenders who are caught with small quantities, he said. "It's a different story for people who sell," he said. Bokos also said he considers police department recommendations on such bond matters.

"I'm incensed at some of the bond reductions by Recorder's Court judges. They often don't have the entire facts in front of them when they reduce bonds. He suggested that Recorder's Court judges, who are elected by Detroiters, should also have to answer to voters in the suburbs. For now, he said district court judges "are going to have to get together and start screaming for something to be done" about the issue.

"Judge (Gail) McKnight and I have created the best domestic violence policy in the state," Bokos said. The probation department conducts pre-bond investigations, and the judges set high bonds if there's a pattern of abuse, he said. The policy also includes a weekend domestic violence program, outpatient therapy, and referrals to agencies such as Alcoholics Anonymous. The court also has refused to let victims drop charges stemming from domestic violence, though victims often try to do so out of fear or for economic reasons, Bokos said.

Candidate: Sandra Cicirelli
Age: 42
Employment: Westland-based attorney
Family: Married to Nicholas with two adult children
Education: Wayne State University School of Law, juris doctor; University of Michigan, bachelor's degree in education; Garden City West High School Community service: Westland City Council, January 1990 to present; Schoolcraft College business law instructor; YMCA board of directors; Youth Assistance advisory council; Business & Professional Women; Westland Jaycees; 21st District Court mediator; former Westland Zoning Board of Appeals commissioner; Childwatch Committee, state Bar of Michigan; various lawyer associations

Cicirelli emphasized her 23-year residency in Westland that has included involvement in Wayne Westland schools, city government and as a practicing attorney. "I have certainly handled every kind of case that would come before me in district court," she said. "I have the judicial temperament, and I've proven that I'm committed to the community."

Cicirelli said she would support keeping the court open as late as 8 p.m. or 9 p.m. one evening each week "for people who can't afford to come in and miss a day's work if they have a civil case." She supports the continuation of Law Day, in which judges take their court dockets into local schools, and she favors inviting students and community groups to court "so that people will be less intimidated if they have to appear before a judge."

"I have advocated mediation since I've been on the city council. I would like to use lawyers to act as volunteer mediators, as I have done (in Garden City District Court). She said the parties in the case could split the costs, and that binding arbitration could be used in mediation cases. Cicirelli cited civil cases, injury cases and contract disputes as appropriate for mediation.

"I believe I would favor a term limit after two (six-year) terms," she said. "I'm not certain I'm in favor of it, but I wouldn't be opposed to it. I think term limits are a good idea, but, on the other hand, too much turnover is not good, either." Some consistency is necessary, Cicirelli said.

Cicirelli said she would look at whether defendants are in school or working, and how long they've lived in the community. "If it's a longtime resident who has a job, I think a personal bond may be appropriate," she said. But she also would consider whether the defendant is a threat to the community and whether they have any other charges, such as weapons-related charges.

"The only solution to that would be legislation mandating certain things," she said. Otherwise, Cicirelli said, "the only other solution would be to build more prison facilities."

Cicirelli supports the "no-drop policy" in which domestic violence victims can't decide to drop charges against defendants. "If we have a person who is a repeat offender, I think jail may be appropriate," she said. She also supports counseling as a condition of probation. Cicirelli also noted the importance of having police officers trained to deal with domestic violence.

Westland resident gets to meet the president

BY MARIE CHESNEY
STAFF WRITER

In the 1992 presidential election, Richard McKnight worked hard to get Bill Clinton elected. Thursday, Clinton said thank-you by inviting McKnight and 149 other top Michigan Democrats to the White House for both a midterm pep talk and a chance to mingle with the high and mighty of Washington.

"The highlight was when the president came in," said McKnight, a trustee on the Livonia Board of Education and a Westland resident. "He told us not to be fainthearted as the November elections approach."

A few days before the Thursday get-together at the White House, McKnight got his presidential VIP invitation. The invite came so late, in fact, that McKnight spurned making expensive air-line reservations and decided to drive his Ford 160 pickup to Washington instead.

The invite also came the day before his daughter Mollie's wedding.

'The highlight was when the president came in. He told us not to be fainthearted as the November elections approach.'

Richard McKnight

Richard McKnight

That, joked the jovial attorney, left him broke enough to be willing to travel in his pickup instead of by jet.

Clinton, Vice President Al Gore, and White House staff all helped the 150 invitees celebrate "Michigan Appreciation Day," which began with a luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel.

McKnight and the group then spent the rest of the afternoon in an executive office briefing. Leon Panetta, chief of staff, talked about domestic affairs; Gore talked about foreign affairs; and Donna Shalala, secretary of health and human services, went over social issues.

At 6:30 p.m., McKnight and the group met Clinton in the East Room. McKnight had his picture taken with the president, snagged Clinton's autograph for son Ted, and then toured the second floor of the White House.

"I've been to the White House as a tourist; this was my first time as a VIP."

And what did McKnight bring back to Michigan from his visit? "I learned facts and figures about the number of jobs that have been created, and how the deficit has been reduced, statistics we can be proud of."

ing into tears.

Keatts suffered second-degree burns on her arms and on one hand, but the children escaped with no injuries, Harder said.

"We consider her to be a hero," he said.

Sandy Duke identified the children as Diane Duke, 2; Dartagnan Keatts, 2; Nicholas Duke, 3; Kevin Duke, 4; Justin Keatts, 7; Sierra Duke, 8; and Brandy Keatts, 9.

Westland firefighters were on the scene four minutes after they received the call, and the blaze was quickly extinguished, Harder said.

"We had the fire knocked right down," he said.

Damages are estimated at $60,000, but Sandy Duke said the house is insured. The Dukes had added a second floor to their $120,000 home just one month ago, she said.

Although the worst damage occurred in the living room, the rest of the house received smoke damages, Harder said.

"The damages aren't that visible from the outside, Duke said, but "the inside is charbroiled."

She said her children told her that the smoke was so heavy during their escape that they had difficulty breathing.

Keatts is so upset by the fire that she couldn't bring herself to talk to the media about it, Duke said. The sisters' aunt, Gloria Mackiewicz, notified the Observer.

"I just think Pam should get some credit for saving those kids," she said.

Rather than accepting praise, Keatts has repeatedly apologized for the destruction caused to her sister's house.

"She is so worried about her sister's house that it hasn't even sunk in that she saved seven children," Mackiewicz said.

Thomas is passed over for Brighton school post

BY HARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Wayne Westland school Superintendent Larry Thomas will continue his search for a new job after being passed over for the top administrative post in the Brighton district.

Thomas had been one of three finalists for the Brighton job, but the district's school board voted Monday night to hire Gary Hughes of the Duran school district, near Lansing.

Thomas, the second Wayne Westland superintendent in three years to step down under pressure, announced in August that he was resigning in the final year of a three-year contract that expires June 30.

Local school board members have indicated that they won't try to force Thomas to stay until

Thomas had been one of three finalists for the Brighton job, but the district's school board voted Monday night to hire Gary Hughes of the Duran school district, near Lansing.

June 30 if he gets a new job elsewhere.

Thomas became Wayne Westland superintendent on July 1, 1992, after being chosen for the pick in a 4-3 board of education vote. But the board has seen a turnover of members since then, and Thomas lost the majority support that made him the successor to former Superintendent Dennis O'Neill.

O'Neill was forced out in late 1991 after leading the district for 7 1/2 years. He, too, saw his support erode because of a turnover of board members.

Thomas and O'Neill occupied the district's top post during a period of intense turmoil that continues, largely because of school board in-fighting and budget shortfalls that have forced massive budget cuts.

Thomas was faced with recommending $12 million in cuts last school year, and the district's continuing money problems has prompted the elimination of busing this year for junior and senior high students.

'Don't touch': Ghost Kevin Davis gives Jason Webb, 11, a scare during the opening night of the Wayne Westland YMCA's annual haunted house project.

Police arrest suspect after attempted robbery

Livonia police arrested a Dearborn Heights man Friday afternoon following an attempted robbery and shooting in the parking lot of Mountain Jacks restaurant, 31501 Schoolcraft.

Nobody was injured in the shooting, which occurred shortly after 2:30 p.m., police said.

The same suspect, 40, allegedly robbed the 7Q Party Store at 28974 Warren in Westland just 1 1/2 hours earlier, Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said, though no gun was used in that incident.

Livonia police said the gunman tried to intimidate two women standing outside of Mountain Jacks into giving up their purses.

The suspect was apprehended without incident on southbound

Inkster Road, about 2 1/2 miles from the restaurant, police said. Officers recovered a loaded, 20-gauge shotgun from the front seat of the suspect's 1989 GMC S-15 pickup.

Witnesses told police the suspect, sitting inside the truck, fired a single shot before fleeing the lot.

A 28-year-old Novi woman and her companion, also 28, from Berkley told police they were waiting at the curb just outside the restaurant for a third party when the pickup truck pulled into the lot and drove past them.

The driver circled the restaurant and came back, slowing at the curb. He shouted at the women, who told police they didn't respond at first.

After repeating the demand for their purses, a second time, the suspect raised the shotgun and fired, the women told police.

In the Westland incident, a suspect went into the 7Q Party Store at 1 p.m. Friday, bought a 40-ounce beer and left, only to return a couple of minutes later, a female clerk told police.

The suspect walked behind the counter, demanded money and threatened to kill the woman unless she complied with his demands, police reports said. The woman pushed a security alarm, at which time she told police the suspect grabbed her breasts.

The victim started to phone police, but the suspect grabbed the phone from her, police reports said.

Fright fest

YMCA opens haunted house

The ghosts and goblins are in town. They arrived last weekend and will stay for another 10 days. Their home will be the Wayne Westland Family YMCA's barn, on Wayne Road, south of Cherry Hill.

The haunted house is an annual fund-raiser for the YMCA.

As in past years, the YMCA will hold a "friendly monsters" tour of the haunted house for young children who aren't old enough for the darkened corridors and scary figures.

The barn will be open for the "friendly monsters" from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. the next two Saturdays,

Oct. 22 and 29. Admission is $2 per child with accompanying adults admitted free.

McDonald's Restaurant will have people in costumes and "McGuides" to give children a tour of the haunted house and free Halloween treats.

Otherwise, the evening haunted house, called "Fright Fest," will be open from 7-10 p.m. weekdays and 7 to midnight on Fridays and Saturdays.

The house, which opened last Friday, will resume operations Friday, Oct. 21, and continue through Halloween night, Oct. 31.

More than 25 monsters will be "working" each night, a Y spokesman said.

The "friendly monster" schedule is being expanded this fall, said board chairwoman Sharon Arthur.

Admission is $5 per person but $1 discount coupons are available through the YMCA's fall program brochure, available at the main office. On Sundays, the admission is $4. The YMCA will reduce the charge by another $1 any time a person comes in with a McDonald's french fries wrapper.

Volunteers have been planning the special Halloween scenes in the barn for months as well as building them.

Proposal B

By TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Proposal B would prevent convicts who plead guilty from appealing their cases to a higher court.

Except for a few political liberals, no one opposes this constitutional amendment on the Nov. 8 ballot. If voters approve, Proposal B would trim the number of Court of Appeals decisions by 25 percent.

"I don't think we ought to mess with the Constitution," said Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, when the House approved putting it on the ballot by a 75-25 vote. "All we're doing is shifting the caseload from the Court of Appeals to the circuit court. It's a shell game."

"Those who plead guilty are doing so under advice of an attorney to plead to a lesser crime," agreed Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, another opponent.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, who was a delegate to the 1961-62 Constitutional Convention, warned against "tampering with the Michigan Constitution." He predicted more defendants will opt for costly trials rather than plead guilty in order to preserve their rights of appeal.

No one, however, has mounted a campaign to defeat Proposal B.

'There is something profoundly distorted in a system that allows a criminal to admit to a crime, describe how and why the crime was committed and retain the right to immediately file a tax-funded appeal.'

William VanRegenmorter

Champion of Proposal B is Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Jenison, best known as author of the state Crime Victims Rights Act. Among co-sponsors were Sens. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, and Robert Geake, R-Northville.

"There is something profoundly distorted in a system that allows a criminal to admit to a crime, describe how and why the crime was committed and retain the right to immediately file a tax-funded appeal," said VanRegenmorter, chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Declaration of Rights (Art. I) in Michigan's Constitution guarantees the rights to trial by jury, assistance of counsel and appeal "as a matter of right." Proposal B would limit the appeal by adding: "except that an appeal by an accused who pleads guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) shall be by leave of the court."

In practice, the Court of Appeals very rarely reverses a conviction when the accused pleads guilty. But sometimes it remands (returns) a case to the lower court where the trial judge has exceeded sentencing guidelines. There are budget considerations, too, behind Proposal B. In a 10-month period in 1991, VanRegenmorter said, the Court of Appeals handled 1,013 cases stemming from guilty pleas and reversed only nine — 0.82 percent. "There is little doubt those nine cases would have been heard (by the Court of Appeals), even without the automatic right to appeal," he said.

Wayne County produced 500 such appeals in that period. VanRegenmorter quoted chief assistant prosecutor George Ward as estimating at least two full-time prosecutors could be shifted to other functions — such as trial work — if Proposal B were adopted.

Ward favors limiting the automatic right of appeal in guilty plea cases. But in legislative hearings, Ward said the constitutional flaw could have been remedied by petitioning the Supreme Court to correct an error in a 1977 case. But no one ever petitioned the Supreme Court, and lawmakers went ahead with Proposal B.

Michigan has 24 Court of Appeals judges. The state court administrator has called for adding 16 appellate judges, saying the current caseload of 12,000 a year warrants a total of 80 appellate judges.

But backers of Proposal B say fewer additional judges would be needed because Proposal B could eliminate "nuisance" appeals. They put the savings at $3 million a year in appellate court and state-paid attorneys' costs. Prosecutors would save additional amounts in staff time.

State unemployment rate drops

Unemployment in Michigan dropped by almost a percentage point in September, falling to a seasonally adjusted 5.5 percent, the Michigan Employment Security Commission said.

That was the lowest for the month in 21 years—since 1973 when 5.3 percent of the state's work force was jobless, according to F. Robert Edwards, MESOC director.

The number of jobless fell by 32,000 in September to 265,000 compared to August's 297,000 or 6.3 percent of the labor force.

As unemployment fell, the number of employed Michigan workers grew by 98,000 to a record high 4,545,000 in September, surpassing the previous high of 4,541,000 set five months ago in April.

"Over the year, employment has grown by 149,000 from 4,396,000 in September 1993. As workers perceived an increase in available jobs, they entered the job market pushing the labor force total to 4,810,000 last month, an increase of 66,000," Edwards said.

Edwards said Michigan's economy "outperformed the nation.

Our unemployment rate was below the national level for the fifth time this year." September's bright spots:

- Automotive and related industries, where model changeover layoffs ended and the production of 1995 models moved into full swing.
- State and local government, where employment increased as colleges and local schools resumed fall classes.
- Business services and private education.
- MESOC's Job Service, which placed 7,979 workers in jobs in August, up from 7,036 placed in July.

Gilda's walk to aid patients

A family block party and 5K walk are being planned to honor comedian and former Southfield resident Gilda Radner.

The metro Detroit area is joining New York City as part of Gilda's Club, a nonprofit support group working to raise money for a center for families of cancer patients. Radner died of ovarian cancer.

Gilda's Day is set for Sunday, Oct. 23, with events planned for Cobo Center. The walk and block party are geared toward families, according to organizers.

Sponsors include People Magazine; Observer & Eccentric Newspapers; PFOM (Preferred Provider of Michigan), Southfield; Editor Data Systems (EDS), Farmington Hills; Franklin Bank, Southfield; RR&A, River Rouge; Oakland Mall, Troy; Horizon III-Community Hospital, Warren; Henry Ford Health Systems, Detroit; and Hospices of Henry Ford Health Systems, West Bloomfield.

The 5K walk, which begins at 10 a.m., will start at Cobo Center and continue through Hart Plaza to Chene Park. An optional one-mile fun walk/block party geared to families will begin at 10:30 a.m. inside Cobo Hall.

Money raised from the event will go toward buying and furnishing a facility in the metro Detroit area. Gilda's Giggle Room will provide a place to laugh with those who understand. People with cancer, their families and friends will be able to come to the facility each week for emotional and social support with licensed psychotherapists.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. the day of the walk. The fee is $18 and free for children 12 and younger. All participants will receive a T-shirt. Registration is $15 in advance. For information or to volunteer the day of the event, call (810) 851-6557.

Honorary chairpersons of the event are Gov. John Engler and his wife, Michelle; Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and Judge Trudy DunCombe Archer, Wayne County Executive Edward J. McNamara and his wife, Lucille.

SC reports good news for economy.

BY RALPH R. ECHINAW
STAFF WRITER

Enrollment is down at Schoolcraft College. But not to worry. Adolard "Butch" Raby, the college's vice president of business, said enrollment always dips when the economy is good and grows when the economy is bad.

Schoolcraft's enrollment for the fall term is 9,636. That's down from 9,839 in the fall 1993 semester and 10,075 in the fall 1992 semester. Prior to the 1992 semester, enrollment rose for three straight years.

Schoolcraft spokeswoman Saundra "Sam" Florek reports that job opportunities for students, both part-time and full-time, are going begging as the demand exceeds the supply.

Enrollment at Oakland Community College is down, too, from 28,653 in the fall 1993 semester to 27,513 currently.

When the economy is booming, people are working more hours and less worried about losing their jobs, said OCC spokesman George Cartsonis.

And the flip side? "In hard times, colleges and universities tend to prosper," Cartsonis said.

And in southeast Michigan, colleges and universities can predict what direction enrollment will move based on the vitality of the auto industry.

"A fair chunk of our student body is people working in the auto industry," Cartsonis said. "They're not going to have time to take a class or two anymore (when times are good)."

KAREN MEIER

The tiny town that likes red

From every lamppost on its Main Street hangs a pair of long Johns. The lamppost long Johns are fashioned out of wood and painted a bright red. They creak and swing in the wind all year long.

They're sort of funny looking, I suppose, but you have to understand, red underwear, the flannel kind - the kind you wiggle into on a mighty cold Michigan morning - is what this little town is all about. And every year the tiny town throws a big party to celebrate the red underwear made right there in its little Red Flannel Factory.

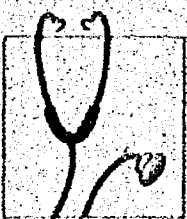

Although the town is small (only 2,700 live there), and the factory is small (only 25 work there), Red Flannel Day is big. Crowds (some say 40,000 strong) clog the sidewalks and the streets. Red banners are strung up. Red flags fly from poles. Dogs are dressed in red bandannas. Horses, too. Bike spokes are woven with red paper. Red bunting is draped across store fronts. The Still Man wears extra long red long Johns.

There's nothing bigger, or redder, in Cedar Springs than the first Saturday in October. Nothing draws people from far and wide like it does. And nothing could diminish it, this celebration of red flannel begun more than a half century ago. Nothing except maybe the closing of the little Red Flannel Factory.

Cedar Springs, just north of Grand Rapids, is my childhood home; I did all my growing up there. And Red Flannel Day... never missed a one. For 30 years, I've always gone back.

Breast cancer: Women helping women recover

Gerry Dahler has plenty to celebrate. Not only is she a 32-year survivor of breast cancer, she also is one of the oldest active volunteers for the American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery program.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Gerry Dahler proudly tells you she's a survivor. Thirty-two years, she says matter-of-factly, only seven years less than her age when she was diagnosed as having breast cancer.

There was basically one treatment of choice, a mastectomy, which she had with a skin graft from the front of her leg to close the wound. There was no radiation treatment, no chemotherapy - that was rare back then - just an admonishment from her doctor to "use it or lose it."

Dahler did as she was told; she used her arm. She was using it when, in September 1969, she read a magazine article about a new organization forming in the Detroit metropolitan area. She used it to call and become a volunteer.

And she's been using it ever since to help women who have had mastectomies to "Reach to Recovery."

"I thought, 'That's what we need,'" said the Livonia resident about the program. "Reach to Recovery volunteers bring practical help, psychological support and a moral. 'I've been there' and show them how to practice the exercises."

Founded in 1953 in New York City by Tereae Lasser, Reach to Recovery didn't make it to the Detroit area until the late 1960s, when four women - Dorothy Newman, Annette Rosen, Helen Shaw and Edith Sidder - worked with the American Cancer Society to get it up and running.

Getting Reach to Recovery started wasn't easy. The volunteers were women who had breast cancer surgery. They were screened and received detailed training. But the idea of patients helping patients wasn't readily accepted by surgeons.

"The doctors were resistant back then and even now," Dahler said. "They don't want lay people doing that. They say we're not medical professionals, but we're carefully trained. We don't interfere with the treatment; we just bring information and cheer."

"Usually, we see them when they're still overwhelmed by the surgery, but they always want to know how long it's been. That's the best thing I take with me that I've been hanging in there for 32 years."

Silver anniversary

Reach to Recovery is celebrating the 25th anniversary of its affiliation with ACS. Dahler, too, is celebrating 25 years with the program, doing "just about every job in a small way, but mainly as a volunteer visitor."

80% Of Our Daily Activities Are Monitored Through The Visual System
80% Of Your Child's Learning Difficulty Could Be Visual

Your child may have 20/20 eyesight but 0/0 vision—the difference is critical. Eyesight is merely the basic ability to see; vision is the ability to identify, interpret, comprehend, and act on what we see.

Routine vision tests performed by school personnel or by most eye care professionals measure eyesight. They do not include the kinds of testing that can find visually-related learning problems.

COULD YOUR CHILD BE AT RISK?
Our VIP (Vision Improvement Program) can diagnose and successfully treat vision problems that are often reflected in the following behaviors:

1. Unable to sit still; cannot stay on task for any length of time.
2. Very clumsy; poor eye-hand coordination.
3. Does written work very slowly; often fails to complete a task.
4. Has difficulty copying visual material; constantly looks up and down.
5. Moves entire head instead of eyes when reading.
6. Reversals -- for example confusing the words "was" and "aw" or letters "b" and "d."

If your son or daughter, age six to 16, has one or more of these behaviors, call 313-525-8170 today to schedule a free screening for vision-related learning problems. It could be the most important phone call you will make during his or her school years.

The screening consists of 18 different tests and takes approximately one hour. The free screening will evaluate the child's ability to gather visual information, process it and make appropriate decisions or movements.

Forty-one percent of students in the lower third of a normal class and 68% of students in special education programs have vision problems that can be corrected. Could your child be among them? It could be! Call us at 313-525-8170 for a free screening!

WHAT IS THE VIP STRATEGY?
First, we test and diagnose a child's visually-related learning problems. If a visual handicap exists, a vision therapy program will be developed to meet the child's special needs. Once enrolled in our intensive Vision Improvement Program, a child will work on specific goals. A professional vision therapist will conduct carefully sequenced activities to strengthen weak areas in order to bring the "vision system" up to par. The time span for therapy is designed to allow each child to achieve maximum results.

WILL INSURANCE COVER THE COST?
Here's a comforting thought: Our VIP program is covered by most major medical insurance policies.

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW!
If you child is between the ages of six and 16, call us today at 313-525-8170 to set up an appointment for a free screening.

Any unexplained learning problem is a potential vision-related learning problem. When diagnosed early, VIP can significantly improve and often alleviate the problem entirely.

The comprehensive screening is free. Can you afford to pass up this possible explanation for your child's baffling lack of success in school? Call 313-525-8170 today.

Dear Ms. Green, I have read and enjoyed your column for many years. Your analyses are very interesting and thought-provoking. I am curious as to what my handwriting tells you about my personality. I am a 33-year-old mother of two young children — a role which is more challenging than my previous career as a writer. I look forward to your response. Thank you.

M.D., Rochester

God's gift of motherhood is a role taken seriously by our writer. Maternal signs ride on those lower loops that symbolically resemble little nests. Several signs found in this legible, well-spaced handwriting tells us she is both intelligent and gifted. We also know she wants to communicate to others. Early in life she wanted the freedom to be independent and follow her own star. I doubt if we'll ever hear her say, "But this is the way we've always done it in the past." There is a refreshing optimism to our writer. Positive thinking has her looking for the silver lining in each cloud. There may, however, be someone or something about the future that is causing concern at this time. Possibly, she has resigned herself to this, knowing there is little she can do to change it. This young mother uses her time efficiently. She is aware of what must be done, and she gets right at it without wasting time on useless asides. She has learned the importance of self-discipline and does not

I have read and enjoyed your column for me. Your analyses are very interesting and thought provoking. I am curious as to what my handwriting tells about my personality. I am a 33 year old mother of two young children — a role which is more challeng-rest until her work is completed to her high standards. Even the details receive attention. I suspect her appearance, her children and her home are clean and tidy.

Loyalty, both to others and to what she believes, weaves throughout this handwriting. I think friends would need to be stimulating to attract her.

Our writer has an eye for beauty. The colorful display Mother Nature has given us at this time can provide relaxation and enjoyment for her.

Her handwriting in both the signature and the text are the same. This strongly suggests one whose inner and outer personalities are in accord.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are helpful. Objective feedback is welcome.

Wonderland sponsors Families Day

BY BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITER

"Be a huggler, not a slugger" is a lesson to be taught at the third annual Celebrate Families Day Saturday, Oct. 22, at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

The event, hosted by Youth Living Centers and Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County, is designed to make everyone more aware of child abuse and neglect.

"We want people to know that abuse and neglect of children is all around us and there are things we can do to prevent it from happening in our own homes and to identify it in others," said Jessica Meldrum, manager of special events for the Child Abuse Prevention Council.

In previous years the event was staged at Livonia Mall, but organizers decided to move it to Wonderland, corner of Plymouth and Middlebelt roads, this year in an effort to educate another group of people.

"We hope to reach new people at this location," Meldrum said.

The Child Abuse Prevention Council will have a booth at the mall, as will other agencies involved in protecting children and families. The booths will be open during mall hours, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

"There will be a lot of material distributed to help people identify abuse and to refer people to the appropriate agency for help, if that is needed," Meldrum said.

Children will receive "Be a huggler, not a slugger" cups to promote the agency's new parenting classes, and there will be visits from Bobo the Clown.

Jeri's Jamboree, a musical presentation, will be staged at 1 and 2 p.m. on the mall's carpeted center area.

The Child Abuse Prevention Council is funded through the Michigan Children's Trust Fund which receives funding through the checkoff section on the state income tax forms.

The council evaluates awareness programs and serves as advocates for agencies trying to get grants and other contributions. Meldrum said they also look for gaps in assistance and attempt to fill them.

"We are always in the community, looking out for ways to inform the public about child abuse," she said.

Feeling Depressed?

Common symptoms of Depression are sadness, loss of interest or pleasure, insomnia, poor appetite and weight loss, feeling tired, worthless or guilty, and difficulty thinking or concentrating. Some people also have suicidal thoughts, which can be a major risk if their Depression is left untreated.

Depression is among the most common psychiatric conditions. Approximately 6% of adults have at least one significant episode of Depression during their lifetimes. Women are affected twice as often as men. In spite of how common Depression is, it is treated adequately only 50% of the time.

Depression can occur in episodes, with normal times in between, or be continuous and persistent. Occasionally people who suffer from Depression have high or manic episodes as well.

There are many psychological theories regarding the cause of Depression. Biological factors, including possible deficiencies of adrenaline-like neurotransmitter chemicals in the brain, are also potential causes. It is known that Depression tends to run in families, and evidence supports hereditary or genetic factors.

Several new antidepressant medications have recently been introduced. The incidence of side effects are lower with these newer medications, but some people still experience side effects such as agitation and sexual dysfunction. Also, antidepressants currently available must be taken over a period of weeks before they begin to work. Research is underway to develop additional antidepressants that will work faster, for more people, and have even fewer side effects.

The Mood Disorder Institute in Farmington Hills, is one of approximately 12 locations nationwide studying these new antidepressants. For additional information, or to see if you qualify for this FREE out-patient study, you may call 1-800-882-MOOD.

Dahler, it seems, is one of the Wayne Unit's oldest active Reach to Recovery volunteers, beat out by one month for top honors by Ruby Ulmer of Dearborn Heights.

She remembers many of the women she has talked to through the years; she remembers the good she has done and the sadness she has experienced. Ninety-five percent of the visits have been good, she said, "because you come away feeling like you helped someone. Someone like the woman she visited at Seaway Hospital in Trenton. Dahler found her in bed, her arms at her side and the blanket pulled up to her chin.

She was prepared to die," Dahler recalled. "When I left, she was putting on her makeup. The disheartening ones are those who know they're going to die. Although there was one woman who knew she was terminal, but she was upbeat. She said she had waited a long time for her son's wedding and was going out to get her dress."

There were times when she visited a mastectomy patient every week, but now it's generally once a month. A visit is done by referral and has to have the doctor's approval. The referrals usually come from someone at the hospital or in the doctor's office, and, when possible, the volunteer visitor is matched in age with the patient, said Dahler.

The visits are free of charge and last about 45 minutes. The volunteer uses the time to demonstrate exercises that work a different set of muscles, and then has that patient, if possible, try them.

The volunteer also shows the women how to sew a pocket in her bra to hold a prosthesis in place, and breast forms, so they can see how they will look. They also are given a temporary form, matched to their bra size, shown how to use and care for it, and a list of places where they can buy more permanent forms.

For nearly six years Dahler worked with St. Mary, Garden City and Oakwood Hospitals as the telephone coordinator, then moved up to service coordinator. In 1975, when the unit did its first Reach to Recovery Update, now called Breast Cancer Update, she "was convinced to be the chairman" at a time when she described herself as "an extremely, painfully, shy person."

Dahler also helped demonstrate the exercises while another volunteer would speak. When the speaker didn't show up one day, she stepped in.

"We used to use a prepared speech, but one time I did it, there were so few people that I sat down and talked to them," she recalled. "It worked so well that I went back to the office and told them, 'We're doing this wrong.'"

Going public

More and more information and attention is being focused on breast cancer, but Dahler feels the big step forward came with Shirley Temple Black's announcement that she had had a mastectomy, years before Betty Ford and Happy Rockefeller went public.

"I give her all the credit in the world for coming out," Dahler said. "People don't know the emotional turmoil women go through. Women are so attached to their breasts, they're such a symbol to them."

"After I had my surgery, I found people all over who had had it, but breasts were a very private thing. Bless Shirley Temple Black."

Dahler missed the national Reach to Recovery celebration in San Diego earlier this month; she was cruising the Mediterranean and Black Seas. But she'll be at Burton Manor in Livonia Saturday, Oct. 22, for the 1994 Breast Cancer Update.

Doors will open at 9 a.m. and there will be a luncheon (by reservation only), fashion show, displays and a talk by dietician and Observer & Eccentric Newspapers food columnist Laura Letodar.

"I've been involved in everyone of them and did the fashion show more years than I care to remember, including 10 years as the commentator," Dahler said.

As for her tenure with Reach to Recovery, she plans to reach the 25-year milestone and probably will keep on doing visits "until I can't do the exercises anymore."

The program has about 65 members, mostly in their 50s and 60s, but is always in need of volunteers. Women can sign up if they have their doctor's permission and it's been at least a year since their surgery by calling the American Cancer Society at (800) 925-2271, or by visiting its office at 29350 Southfield Road, Suite 42, Southfield.

"It's a very great program because you help people in a very special way," Dahler said.

They never thought she'd live to outgrow them.

The toddler who learned to walk in these shoes was born with children's leukemia. If she had been born thirty years ago, chances are she wouldn't have survived long enough to learn to crawl. But thanks in part to your donation to the United Way, today's medical advances have given children with leukemia a 70% chance of survival.

The United Way supports some 140 agencies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties that help the elderly, the illiterate, the disabled and many more. And because nearly 90 cents of every dollar you contribute goes directly to those in need, you can be sure your donation will make a difference.

So please give to the United Way. And give someone a running start on life.

When I was growing up, I and most other children in town participated whole hog in the festivities. We marched in the parade as scouts. We entered poster contests. We spaced up Main Street by picking up litter. We painted the picket fence in front of the Red Flannel Factory (one picket red, the next white). We marched in the parade as junior high band members behind the horses.

We sought the title of Red Flannel Queen and had to sing, dance, answer questions, wear an evening gown in front of hundreds. We built floats. We marched again as high school band members, leading the way this time and carrying a first division trophy won at the morning band competition.

We played powder puff football under the lights with a real announcer in the press box and people in the stands. We baked things for the concession stands.

We scrubbed, we sewed, we performed; we had the time of our lives.

And three days before this year's Red Flannel Day, my father — he still lives in Cedar Springs with mom — called to say the bank had closed the Red Flannel Factory down. The factory, so the story went, hadn't failed; someone (an outsider) had failed it.

For some reason, as my Dad talked to me over the phone, I got a big lump in my throat. Red Flannel had meant something. It meant a little litty town that struggled to make something of itself. Its children, its teachers, shopkeepers and farmers, barbers, all of them, had worked hard together. And the preachers joined in, and the undertaker, the handyman, the editor, the librarian, every last one had banded together. Red flannel meant that that speck on the map wasn't so much a little town, but rather a great big, good family.

Two days passed. And although the bank had closed the factory, it couldn't stop Red Flannel. Day from coming. So I brought my four children to Cedar Springs on Red Flannel Eve. Darkness, lightning, terrible rain, couldn't stop me.

The next morning the celebration began, as it always had. The bands marched; the chicken got barbecued; the rides spun around; the Queen waved; the caramel apples crunched; everyone wore red.

I said hi to old, familiar faces in the crowd. I walked with my children past my growing up house. We scuffed through autumn leaves.

Late that night the wind kicked up. On the lampposts along Main Street the long johns creaked and sighed. Their day was all done.

A few days later, after I'd returned home, my father called me. News had gotten out; the bank had sold the Red Flannel Factory. The new owner is another outsider, not a red flannel man. But the way I hear it, he understands things. He understands that a lot more is at stake here than just red underwear.

Women have had a voice for only 73 years. We've been listening for 150.

want to be listened to and respected by medical professionals who are kind, skilled and experienced.

Many women take their health for granted. Our experience has shown that women are so busy taking care of others, they sometimes neglect themselves. Pregnancy is often the first time an adult woman chooses a doctor and a hospital. And for many, the choice is Providence. In fact, our obstetrical program is one of the largest in Michigan. More than 4,500 babies are born each year at our locations in Southfield and Novi.

Providence is popular among expectant mothers for many reasons, one of which is our extensive range of birthing options including comfortable LDR (labor, delivery, recovery) rooms and a freestanding family birthing center.

At Providence, we are proud of our ability to provide an outstanding level of care for all the families we serve.

Our specialists in maternal-fetal medicine assist high-risk mothers through pregnancy, labor and delivery. Our neonatologists care for ill or premature newborns combining love with the wonders of medical technology.

More than just babies. At Providence, we believe women deserve quality health care through all of life's stages — from birth to menopause and beyond. And Providence physicians are dedicated to providing that care. They specialize not only in obstetrics, but mammography combined with information and education on performing monthly breast self-examinations. We also offer many health education programs and classes — from stress reduction to parenting skills. Our classes address women's health issues from adolescence through post-menopausal years.

Empowering women. Providence Hospital invites you to take control of your life. We believe women should participate in decisions concerning their health and wellness. Our staff is dedicated to helping you do this by taking the time to listen to and understand your needs. We're committed to providing the information you need to make decisions for yourself and your loved ones.

Our physician referral service can help you begin by finding the right doctor. One with whom you can feel comfortable and forge a health partnership for life.

Westland Observer OPINION

36251 SCHOOLCRAFT, LIVONIA, MI 48150

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1994

Disputes continue School closings need sensitivity

If you thought voter approval of Proposal A last March ended the debate about school reform and financing, you're wrong. For those who disagree, just ask the Wayne-Westland Board of Education, administration and parents.

During the Proposal A campaign, supporters promised a major property tax cut in exchange for a state sales tax rate increase plus stabilized state funding for local schools.

The first half of the promise was kept, but not the second.

The bottom line is that the Wayne-Westland district, including thousands of parents and students, have a new issue to be upset about.

First, it was the planned elimination of busing for junior and senior high school students to avoid a projected budget deficit.

Now, there is a recommendation coming from a steering committee to close four elementary schools next year to balance enrollments and save another $1 million.

The four recommended schools are Stottlemeyer and Titus in the city of Westland, Monroe in Wayne and Fischer in Inkster.

The closing of four of the district's 21 elementary schools would coincide with a redistricting proposal to change school attendance boundaries. The measure also would accompany a middle school plan that would shift ninth-graders to the high schools and sixth-graders to the current junior highs.

Part of the problem with the potential school closings is that word of the committee's recommendations leaked out to parents before it was formally presented to the board.

Committee leaders can argue about some of their members failing to maintain the confidentiality of meetings before the recommendations are submitted to the school board.

But parents' emotions, already strained because of the planned cut in school busing, are now boiling over because their neighborhood schools may be closed.

In reflection, the board and administration should have started closing schools several years ago.

It's no secret that the district had two major problems: not enough money to continue all educational programs and services and a declining student population.

It would have been easier for everyone - parents, students and employees - if one school were closed every three or four years instead of bundling four together at once.

The gradual closing of schools with small enrollments would have made sense financially and given the community a chance to see that the board and administration can save big chunks of money. It would have enhanced voters' confidence in the board and its handling of money matters.

The board went through a major school closing controversy in the mid-1970s when it closed five buildings at once.

One human problem relayed to the board came from a mother who said that her family made a 30-year commitment by buying a house last year in the Stottlemeyer attendance area. The mother said the house was chosen so that her children could walk to the school on Marquette east of Wayne Road.

Despite the damage done by word leaking from the steering committee to the community, the board and administration can still control some of the community relations problems by being candid and forthright with parents.

Tell them specifically what the problems are and then discuss possible solutions and get parents involved in the solutions.

No one said that making major school decisions would be easy, but school leaders can handle them with professionalism and sensitivity and gain community support for their actions.

Prop B corrects bad situation

Proposal B on the Nov. 8 ballot deserves a "yes" vote because it corrects a bad situation in our jammed-up courts.

The situation is absurd: A defendant pleads guilty and is sentenced to prison. Then he protests to the Court of Appeals.

The situation costs taxpayers millions. Three appellate court justices, at more than $100,000 a year, must look at each 35-page appeal brief. They have staffs to pay. The county prosecutor must take a senior staff lawyer off trial work to write a 35-page reply brief. Defense lawyers, usually paid for by the public, cost $990 to $1,000 per case. Each appeal requires a 20-page transcript at $2.35 a page.

The situation is a waste of time. More than 99 percent of the appeals by those who plead guilty are found to be without merit.

And the situation occurs too often. About one-fourth of the Court of Appeals' caseload stems from guilty pleas. The 24 judges on Michigan's second highest court are so overburdened that the Supreme Court administrator is asking for dozens of additional judges. Dozens!

The situation is that convicts who plead guilty have the same right of automatic appeal as those who went to trial, and the guilty pleaders are abusing that right.

The situation can be corrected. Proposal B would remove the automatic right of appeal of defendants who plead guilty. They would lose their rights because they still could request "leave to appeal" - the Court of Appeals' permission.

Critics of Proposal B are very few. They fear Proposal B would take away defendants' rights.

Not so. Remember, it applies only to those who plead guilty (or no contest). Most of their appeals allege harsh sentences. In the 1980s Michigan developed a set of sentencing guidelines based on the actual experiences of hundreds of judges. A judge may hand down a sentence that exceeds the guidelines but must justify the stiff sentence with reasons, in writing.

In 1990 the Michigan Supreme Court put teeth in the sentencing guidelines by remanding (sending back) more than a dozen such cases for re-sentencing. That famous case was People vs. Milbourn. If Proposal B is added to the state constitution, a convict would merely have to cite a judge's unjustified deviation from the sentencing guidelines and cite the Milbourn case, and his appeal would demand Court of Appeals' attention.

Thus, the Court of Appeals could concentrate on the one percent of meritorious appeals and be rid of the 99 percent that are time-wasters.

Prosecutors and politicians of both parties favor Proposal B.

We urge voters to say "yes" to Proposal B.

Executions opposed

Sixteen politicians are finding fertile ground in citizens' fear of crime to attempt another round of death penalty resolutions. Apparently these guys haven't read the research.

The death penalty doesn't deter. It costs taxpayers a fortune to house while appeals crawl forward through the courts. The appeals cost even more to the taxpayer. Plus the smallest percent of homicides are even considered capital murder. But who cares?

Politicians never let facts or morality get in the way of vote-getting. And being considered "soft on criminals" is tantamount to lost votes in these days of violence begetting accelerated violence, especially when perpetrated by the government in the name of the people upon other people.

We are the most violent people in the history of the world. Anyone who believes that executing a few alleged murderers will change that is deluded. And I said "alleged" because many, after execution, are found to be innocent or not guilty!

Our esteemed U.S. Supreme Court has authorized the murder by the people of even retarded persons. Aren't we great! Oh, yes, the resolution must include TV exhibitions.

After all, if the people want others executed, they should watch their handiwork.

Offer is an insult

It was wrongly stated in your news article that the paraprofessional union had accepted a pay freeze for 1993-94 from Livonia Public Schools. At no point did we ever agree to a pay freeze.

The truth is that we have been trying to negotiate with management for over a year for a contract, without success. The teachers' union has received raises every year.

While we understand the importance of getting with the teachers, we feel we are an important asset. We make a significant contribution to the students in our district and work hand-in-hand with the teachers.

The management has chosen to offer us a ridiculous amount which extends from July 1993 to June 1996. We feel this is an insult for the effort we give, and want to give, for the betterment of our students.

Kay Weatherford, paraprofessional

Trust motivates

Has it ever occurred to the dishonest Republicans why the people prefer to elect Democrats to the House and Senate of the U.S.?

The answer is "trust," and not, as Republicans think, that the public is dumb.

I vote for the candidate whose views coincide with mine or are good for America. We all have special or selfish interests; but that should be a second choice.

Fifty years is a long time to control Congress and a testimony to the great "trust" we have in our form of government.

Gabriel Adam, Livonia

Face reality

I feel it's time that teachers learn to face reality about their benefits and wages. In almost all other job markets, professionals included, men and women, mothers and fathers, are all faced with salary caps, trimmed benefits, and having to share health care costs with their employers.

I am sick to death of our children being "held hostage" when it's time to bargain for a new contract. After all, Michigan's teachers are the highest paid in the nation when adjusted for cost of living. It doesn't seem to me that our children's education is top priority to our educators; the almighty dollar once again reigns supreme.

Police officers, firefighters and nurses have already faced cutbacks in pay and benefits and participate in shared health care benefits. Michigan teachers are making salaries of up to $65,000 for 183 work days and can't expect to go back for more money to taxpayers who are themselves facing cuts in pay and benefits.

I have as much faith in the teachers of our state as I do the politicians - none. They both lack any sense of the word ethics.

Erin Phelps, Livonia

POINTS OF VIEW

Losing spouse means more than loneliness

How do you keep your heart beating when half is gone and wrenched away from you? After the vacuum of widowhood is created by the loss of one's mate, whether sudden or gradual, there now exists an open wound, a broken heart, that will not disappear, but that must be mended to face the daily existence of your being.

You fill your hours with endless mental tasks, searching for a purpose, but nowhere can be found that other half of oneself that is now gone forever. You find yourself talking to inanimate objects because gone forever is that patient, silent sounding board with whom you once shared your innermost thoughts and opinions.

You find that some of the things you once enjoyed so much are now a thing of the past. Work-related trips and outings are no longer offered. Even the knowledge of what is happening in the workplace is no longer a part of your awareness, as you find yourself no longer eligible to receive the company's newsletter or newspaper.

We now are faced with the scoundrels and rogues of society ready to "help" the newly widowed to adapt themselves to life alone. These vultures come in various costumes, from the three-piece suit of the professional to the repairman offering the deal of the day (which usually ends up as the rip-off of the year), to the occupational beggars of charity who all are eager to maneuver your limited assets away from you.

We are approached by financial advisers with investment programs that advance their financial gain rather than yours, and when an investment goes bad will offer the advice to "put the papers in a drawer and forget about it."

We find the friendly family attorney or real estate broker ready to help us

GUEST COLUMNIST

unload our family home without regard to our emotions. There again, the quick sale just happens to be to their advantage — not ours.

It is extremely sad that these few vultures make a bad name for professionals who are truly anxious to help widows adjust to our new way of life. Those of us who find such trustworthy advisers are exceptionally lucky.

Besides being on guard for the crafty tricksters of the business world, widows and widowers must be ever alert to the dangers of the criminal thieves. Besides violent street crime, there are many scams that people unfortunately still allow themselves to be drawn into with disastrous results. Quick-change artists and pigeon drops are just two examples.

There must be constant suspiciousness in the presence of an uninvited repairman or stranger in the neighborhood who might be requesting a drink or use of a telephone, for the real purpose of the approach is to gain entry into the home to waylay the resident of any monies on the premises. Perhaps it is a feeling of emptiness and loneliness that makes the victim vulnerable to these thieves.

Living alone places some people in the dubious position of tackling simple household duties with sad but laughable results. We've heard of the woman who never adjusted a thermostat, and now assumes that adjusting the numbers upward always is the proper approach, and finds the air conditioner not functioning when it is now set at nice high numbers. Or we find the new widower assuming that the dish soap under the sink can be just as good in the dishpan as in the dishwasher, or who washes all his laundry together and is surprised when white shirts become blue.

The widows and widowers often seek out social groups and travel clubs to fill the daily functions of life. Some fortunate few will find another lone companion to partially fill the void, but nothing truly gives back that completeness of soul and self that formally made one whole in being, as that mate of our former lives now gone.

(Guest columnist Shirley Welch of Livonia is a retiree and widow.)

Teachers: Don't cheat kids by keeping noses in books

Question: I am a second-year teacher. I teach a 6th grade class, and about one third of my students are very bright. I moved them into our 6th grade textbook until I was told to stop by the principal. It seems the three sixth grade teachers complained to him, saying that I should stay out of their sixth grade textbook. Now I have some 6th grade students who are repeating 5th grade math and language arts material that they have already mastered — and are bored out of their minds. I complained to the principal but it didn't do any good. What should I do?

Answer: Believe me, I've experienced this sad scenario where the curriculum is all textbook... where those tattletale sixth grade teachers you mentioned will be on page 132 in the textbook on Dec. 10 because that is where they have been every year for the past 20 years. I thought this curricular frame of mind went out with the dinosaurs. I know you are in a very small, rural, out-state district... and frankly I can't imagine this curriculum mindset in any school district in this readership area. You are in a building where the textbook is the curriculum. All learning, in this case, is what we call textbook driven.

As a young, eager new teacher, you are in a sad environment in which the principal appears to be making decisions based on input from an in-building power block.

It is very vocal, ignored by those teachers who simply show up and do a good job, leaving the politics to others. However, there are often teachers in a building who create a power block that houses a deep resentment and lack of respect for the principal. It's "Who's running the building?"

The answer for you is to create more challenging learning experiences for your bright 6th graders from supplementary, enriching resources beyond the "sacred" 6th grade textbook. This, however, means a commitment of considerable time and energy on your part. Develop research projects which you know will require skills above the fifth grade reading and/or math level. Use cooperative learning. Bright kids helping average kids intensifies the learning experience.

Make a list of library books that have reading levels above the fifth grade and get your bright children into them. Tell no one. It would take a university research team to figure out what you are doing.

The problem is that the district doesn't have a curriculum plan. It sounds like each elementary building is a miniature school "district" within the school district.

In districts where I was in charge of curriculum, the first step taken was to evaluate the existing curriculum — its up-to-dateness, and its strengths and weaknesses. The only way this can be successful is to actively involve all the teachers. When thick curriculum guides, developed by central office, are dropped on the teachers without their maximum involvement, they end up as a door stop, possibly pulled out of the closet and set some place in the room during a principal visit.

Having been in charge of curriculum and instruction for 18 years, my first step was to set up Articulation Workshops; simply said, it was getting teachers together to talk to each other about what they are doing. At the elementary level it could be fifth grade teachers talking to each other or fourth grade teachers talking with fifth grade teachers, etc. Often, you find confusion over skills taught from grade to grade.

The next step was to evaluate the present curriculum for appropriateness and check for redundancy, or lack of a K-12 sequence. For example, one district I went to had the eighth grade middle school social studies teachers covering the same material that the high school ninth grade social studies teacher was covering. They hadn't got together and "articulated" what each was doing.

Teaching can be a very isolated occupation. Good teaching will be going on, but a district needs a curriculum model.

What should you do? Since you are non-tenured, don't make an issue of it. After you become tenured, follow your heart. For now, follow my earlier instructional suggestions but keep quiet about it.

Go ahead and be creative. Maybe you should use my philosophy when I was a teacher: I worked on the philosophy that it is often better to ask forgiveness than permission. So I went ahead and created numerous enriching experiences in my science classes over and above the textbook.

And be aware that of all the administrations I worked with over a 35-year period, I can only remember a few who were led by an in-building clique of teachers.

James "Doc" Doyle is a retired educator. He has taught school in the Plymouth-Canton School District and served as an administrator in Troy Public Schools.

Problem of crime demands tough action, not just talk

Judging from the political ads on TV, by far the safest place to be in Michigan these days is on the campaign staffs of folks running for office. Gov. John Engler is "tough enough to put thugs in jail," while Democratic challenger Howard Wolpe criticizes the Republican governor for a "wholly inadequate" response to last month's jailbreak in Detroit.

Running for the U.S. Senate, Democrat Bob Carr is proud of his vote for the big crime bill that passed the Congress last month "because it puts more cops on the street" while Republican opponent Spencer Abraham attacks the crime bill as no big deal.

The politicians aren't dumb. All the polls agree: Crime is the No. 1 issue this fall, far eclipsing even taxes, and whether Engler and his friends are just waiting until next year to amend the constitutional prohibition against public aid to private and religious schools.

Ruminating on all this heated rhetoric encouraged me to uncover some facts:

■ In the United States, a greater proportion of the population is in prison than in any other developed country in the world; Michigan in 1993 incarcerated 36,000, almost tripled since 1983.

■ Michigan spends $1.1 billion each year on the Department of Corrections, nearly as much as the state spends on all universities and colleges. Fueled by public fear of crime, our leaders in Lansing (both parties, mind you) have increased outlays for prisons faster than any other category of state spending.

■ It costs around $26,000 per year to keep a criminal behind bars, more than five times the $4,500 average per pupil state aid for our schools. Yet a lot of people are perfectly willing to spend whatever it takes to keep criminals off the streets.

■ In statistics compiled by the FBI, the incidence of serious crime (767.6 per 100,000 population) is flat.

The conclusion is clear to me: We're on an anti-crime binge, spending at a prodigious rate, filling up every newly constructed prison cell as fast as we can open it. And yet the crime rate has hardly budged.

Plainly, something doesn't add up. Maybe instead of concentrating solely on locking the bad guys into jail, maybe we should have the guts to rethink seriously our public policies on crime. Below are a few thought-starters, just in time for whichever candidate is bold (foolish?) enough to try saying something original before election day:

■ Liberals hate the death penalty, and there is some evidence that trials that involve the possibility of death upon conviction cost an enormous amount. Yet I keep wondering just why society should be obliged to pay the $25,000 annual tab to keep an inmate, miserable but alive, in jail for life. Are there not some people so incurably sick or some crimes so profoundly awful that the death penalty is not only appropriate but humane at the same time?

■ There is growing evidence that young criminals in fact emerge from jail with enhanced standing among their peer group. Who is going to "dis" a guy who survived prison, pumped iron for five years and returned to the street? Does this suggest that treatment of prisoners in jail ought to be very much harsher?

■ Are there methods of punishment less costly and more of a deterrent than time in prison? I very much suspect, for example, that the young man who was caned across the buttocks for vandalizing cars in Singapore will not want to do that again. And it might be that two 17-year-old members of the Tlinket Indian tribe who have been banished to live a year alone on remote islands in Alaska won't beat up and rob another pizza delivery man.

I realize these suggestions will provoke a storm of protest, some emotional and some carefully considered. But it seems perfectly clear that what our society is now doing about crime is both terribly expensive and remarkably ineffective.

That's a great recipe for some fresh thinking. It's too bad it won't come out (until after the election).

Learn to tell owls apart by looking for their 'ears'

NATURE TRAILS
TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Scientists categorize organisms by similar features. All mammals have fur or hair. Fish have scales and breathe with gills. Birds are the only animals that have feathers.

Even within each major group of animals, there are subgroups categorized by similar features. Hawks hunt by day, they have hooked beaks and strong, sharp talons. Owls typically hunt at night, fly silently, use sharp talons for capturing prey and have large eyes facing forward.

Large forward facing eyes of owls are the main features that make them easily recognized by most people. But there is another feature that can be used to sub-categorize the 12 species of owls seen in Michigan and help you identify them.

Some species of owls have feather tufts that are often called "ears" or "horns." They are not ears, though they extend beyond the profile of the head like the ears of many animals. Actually, the ears of an owl are located under the facial feathers below the eyes.

Many species of owls do not have feather tufts protruding above the head. The presence or absence of these feather tufts is a helpful guide to owl identification. If an owl is seen, one of the first things to determine is whether it has feather tufts on its head, or not.

If it has large feather tufts then it may be one of three species found in Michigan. Great horned owls are large birds that like the patchy field-woodland countryside found in Michigan today. Screech owls have feather tufts too, but are only eight inches tall compared to 22 inches for the great horned owl. Intermediate in size is the feather tufted long-eared owl - 15 inches tall. Long-eared and great horned owls are superficially similar, but the great horned owl is much heavier and broader.

The remaining nine species do not have feather tufts. Barn owls and burrowing owls are as scarce as hens teeth, and northern hawk owls, great gray owls and boreal owls are only occasional winter visitors in the northern part of the state.

That leaves snowy owls, which are big, white and come to southeastern Michigan only during the winter; barred owls, the most common owl without feather tufts; short-eared owls (tufts not very noticeable) and northern saw-whet owls, both are mostly transients.

So if you see an owl in the field look at the head to determine if it has feather tufts. If it does, many possible species have been eliminated.

SCHOOLCRAFT PRESENTS

'INSANE' DRAMA

BY BOB WEIDEL
SPECIAL WRITER

Schoolcraft College's dinner theater package is one of the area's finest. Much of the credit goes to director, James Hartman, and Schoolcraft's vice president, Dr. Conway Jefferies who encouraged Hartman to enhance the school's arts program.

When Hartman arrived at Schoolcraft in the early 1980s, shows were staged in the cafeteria for one weekend. He was advised to continue the steady diet of light comedies if he wanted an audience.

"I don't understand that thinking," said Hartman. "I believe you can get an audience with good theater. With challenging theater. With theater that expresses ideas, be they in comedic or dramatic form."

Well as they say -- the rest is history.

Hartman established a theater department to provide an academic background for a pool of trained performers. He moved the venue to Schoolcraft's marvelous 174-seat theater.

Over the past 10 years, Schoolcraft's dinner theater playbill has included comedies like "Plaza Suite" and "Arsenic and Old Lace," together with classic pieces such as "A View From The Bridge," "Waiting For Godot" and "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

It has proven to be a successful formula. Many shows are sell-outs, and the mailing list has grown from 300 to over 5,000!

Dentist sinks her teeth into MOT role

BY MARY JANE DOYER
SPECIAL WRITER

When the chorus of geisha girls open their mouths to sing "Spira sul mare" with Madame Butterfly in Michigan Opera Theatre's perennial favorite opening this weekend at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit, dentist Susan Goode Friedman will not be doing her usual thing -- examining their teeth.

The lyric coloratura soprano, mother of three children, a dentist by profession, will be singing with the women's chorus, her first opera.

"When I was given the part I had to go out and rent the video to find out what it was about," said the exhilarated West Bloomfield resident.

Last June's audition was not Friedman's first audition. The veteran of numerous musicals at Kings Island University of Michigan, and the West Bloomfield area, and a former voice major at U-M auditioned twice before.

"My mind was made up," said Friedman. "I had decided I was just going to keep going down to those auditions until they took me."

Take her they did and now Friedman is sinking her teeth into the Italian score and living what she calls her dream -- to sing in an opera.

And no wonder. It just might be the ultimate stage challenge. The full title is "The persecution and assassination of Jean-Paul Marat as performed by the inmates of the Asylum of Charenton under the direction of the Marquis De Sade."

It's a play within a play that deals with moral, social and political themes. Nearly 30 catatonics and assorted lunatics act out a murder and fight over two opposing views of humankind.

The first: We are what we are and nothing much can be done. Change should be slow and peaceful. The second: Change must be immediate and radical through revolution. They must be repeated, no matter how many times we fail.

Author, Peter Weiss, was looking for an explanation of the bloodbaths, purges and wars of the 1930s and 1940s. "Marat/Sade" is set in a different time, however — 1808, just after the French Revolution.

In the style of Brecht, who wanted audiences to forget they were in a theater, Hartman says, "We've staged the play so the whole auditorium is an asylum. Audiences will experience the feeling of really being in a madhouse." Hartman goes on to caution theatergoers that "Marat/Sade" contains controversial subject matter that some may find offensive. "This production is not for children," he said.

Working on "Marat/Sade" is a unique learning experience for cast members.

"I've enjoyed researching the French Revolution and creating a character with so much depth," said John Norman (DeBade).

"My role is unlike any other I've played," said Steve Geary (Marat). "Understanding what Marat is trying to say has been a real challenge. Then there are those with little stage experience. For example, Tom Noe Jr. (Duperree) and Brian Taylor (The Herald) have been amazed at the "effort and concentration" required.

Sagina Varghese-Turnbull, who plays Charlotte Lorday — the demented patient who does the dastardly deed — was under no such illusion: A graduate of Michigan State University, she has taught, directed and performed in many plays.

"I was fascinated by the show and the character," she said. "I really wanted to explore her outrage, her excesses, her sympathy with the revolution."

As much as "Marat/Sade" is a learning experience for students in terms of play structure, dialogue techniques, and character development, it's also an educational opportunity for the audience.

"We trust they will find it a unique experience," said Hartman.

Before the show, theatergoers are served dinner in the Waterman Center — just a short walk from the theater. If history is any guide, the audience will indeed find dinner a most enjoyable experience.

Preparation and presentation are first rate. Dinner is served sit-down style at your table. It all done by the Schoolcraft College Food Services Department. This fall's menu features lasagna as a main course.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

Genitti's presents musical for kids

Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant in Northville is presenting a timely lunch-theater production for youngsters, "Not All Monsters Are Scary," Oct. 22-23 and Oct. 29-30.

For $9.99 (kids) and $10.99 (adults) the restaurant is offering a lunch buffet, show and Halloween costume parade. Lunch begins at 11:30 a.m. and the show at 12:15 p.m. Show-only tickets are $6.

"Not All Monsters" is a musical-comedy, the story of a little girl named Kelly who is afraid to go to sleep. The show includes some very friendly monsters, music, dance and great costumes.

It was written and directed by Lisa Andres, the award-winning creator of "Once Upon A Time" and "The Magic Journey."

The cast of young actors range in age from 7-13. There are plans for audience participation.

Seating is limited. Call (810) 349-0522 for information and reservations.

"Singers have always been impressed with my dentistry. Dentists have always been impressed with my singing. When singers are impressed with my singing, I will have arrived," said Friedman.

Friedman loves working with the career musicians such as Michaella Dionne, a soprano from Redford who has lost count of the number of operas she has been in. In the last nine years she has been a slut, a hooker, a Gypsy, a peasant, an Ethiopian slave, and an upper class lady.

"Being a low class prostitute is the most fun," said the manager of Pippin Puppets of Redford. A full-time actress, Dionne has been in films such as "Renaissance Man," and "Let's Kill All the Lawyers."

Mezzo-soprano Rosaline Contrera-Guastella of Plymouth has been in just about as many productions as Dionne thinks she has been in. Her part in this fall's production of Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" which will follow "Madam Butterfly" on Nov. 11, will not be her last.

Over the years she has had solos in "Rigoletto," "King Roger" and a duet in last spring's "Turandot." It's the stage lights, the costumes, and acting that keep her coming back, not the approximate $70 a performance and $6. a rehearsal hour the chorus gets paid.

"It is always such a wonderful experience," said Guastella, mother of three and a vocal music graduate of South Dakota State University. "I love the people."

Another career musician, Diane Calhoun, of Plymouth, an elementary music teacher in the Farmington Public Schools, is also especially fond of the friends she has met at MOT in her 12 productions.

When her husband died of a sudden heart attack two years ago, the members of the MOT chorus sang "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place" at the Plymouth Presbyterian Church funeral.

Calhoun joins the chorus of townspeople in "The Daughter of the Regiment" for her first production since his death.

"He loved the opera so much. I haven't been able to sing in any of the productions since "King Roger," the last one he saw," said Calhoun.

Calhoun, who holds a master's of vocal music education degree from U-M, has starred in shows around Plymouth, soloed in many "Messiah" solos and done numerous commercials. She is the mother of two girls, who have been in six MOT productions. Her daughter, Lindsay, will be in Novi's "A Doll's House" later this month. Both girls will audition for the children's chorus in "Tosca," which opens May 13, 1995.

Calhoun's two daughters have grown up with opera, unlike Susan Friedman. But like Friedman, veterans of the MOT chorus, young and old, agree live opera is better than the videos.

"Symphonosaurus" is the first

Double Dragon touts Hunan cooking

The Double Dragon Restaurant is the newest of several Chinese restaurants on Wayne Road in Westland.

Owners, husband and wife, Ken Pok and Elaine Wong, and chef-owner Ken-Xi Cao, hope to make a go of it by offering good food, good service and good value.

"I wanted to have a good restaurant where I can go to eat and also serve people from the area," said Pok, a Hong Kong native who ran a restaurant in Toronto before moving to Michigan to study computer science at Eastern Michigan University.

He said the Double Dragon's kitchen specializes in Hunan and Szechuan provinces' cooking, which is not duplicated in Wayne Road's other Chinese restaurants.

The Double Dragon opened Sept. 6 in a building long occupied by the Mexico Inn. Wong said they spent several months refurbishing the interior, which seats 130 and includes a full bar.

Wong has been in the restaurant nearly every day since its opening. She said she is new to the business and wants to learn everything she can to make it a success.

"I want to know all my customers," she said. Earlier, a customer thanked Wong for providing a bottle of formula for the customer's young child. Wong keeps baby formula in the kitchen for when it is needed.

Can-Xi Cao, the chef, is a native of Canton, China, and his parents have run restaurants in both Toronto and Chicago, Pok said.

Further up the road, Troy Mui, manager of the East Ocean Chinese Restaurant, 8601 N. Wayne Rd., said his eatery tries to stay ahead of the competition by offering quality food at good prices. East Ocean uses no lard and his almond sauce, for example, contains real almonds, which is not always the case, he said.

"I think it's really competitive," he said of the Wayne Road Chinese restaurant scene. The East Ocean has been open since 1981, Mui said.

The Double Dragon offers an all-you-can-eat lunch buffet for $5.25 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., which is popular with the local people and business people that make up the restaurant clientele, Wong said. About a third of the business is carry out, and families come in the evening, she said.

The menu is vast, as most Chinese restaurant diners seem to want. It's organized under beef, chicken, pork, vegetable and seafood headings. The dinner entrees range from $5.95 to $9.75. The lunch menu is in the $4.95 to $5.75 range.

Also available are dinners for two ($15), three ($22), four ($29.50) and six ($42).

There are chop sueys, ribs, fried rice, along with kung-pao chicken, cashew nuts chicken, and Mongolian beef. There is also a tofu dish that includes broccoli and other greens, and a beef with Pok said the kitchen doesn't use monosodium glutamate, or MSG.

LET'S GO! TRAVEL

Advance planning enhances Disney World trip

BY BRIAN LYSAGHE
SPECIAL WRITER

Ann Kalvelage and her family did their homework before they embarked on a weeklong trip in August to Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla.

Their efforts paid off nicely, she said. The Westland family of four spent $2,200 during a week's stay at the mega-entertainment complex.

"It was wonderful," said Kalvelage, who traveled with her husband, Dan, and sons, Chris, 9, and David, 4. "It costs lots of money but it's immaculate, and it really is magic. They treat their guests very well."

But guests can spend money faster than you can sing the Mickey Mouse song, Kalvelage offered a few tips for cutting costs:

- Consider staying outside the gates. It can be cheaper. The Kalvelage's $59 efficiency motel room was two miles from the main gate.
- If eating inside, choose your restaurants carefully.
- Bring snacks into the park, though this technically is not allowed, Kalvelage said their backpacks were never checked.
- Read Bob Sehlinger's "Unofficial Guide to Walt Disney World." Kalvelage said it proved valuable, even at $18. Also, get tips from friends and neighbors who had been there before.
- Kalvelage said her family was outside the gates each morning before opening, then left at mid-afternoon to swim, relax and rest. Then, they returned about 6 p.m. for another few hours.
- The Orlando Chamber of Commerce offers a vacation planning guide that includes coupons for accommodation and other tips. Call 1-800-323-5571.

Keep in mind, too, that Disney offers vacation packages, some for as low as $149 for a three-night stay. Your travel agent should have more information.

Meanwhile, the residents of the Magic Kingdom are offering plenty of new attractions to keep America entertained. There is, for example, "The Twilight Zone Tower of Terror," a 199-foot building that leads visitors to an ominous 13th floor. We won't give anything away, but it involves an elevator.

There is the new 1,920-room All Star Sports Resort, with five different themes for sport fans of any stripe. Room rates begin at $69 per night, making it one of the most economical Disney resorts.

"Innovations" in Epcot '95 allows guests to fiddle with the latest high-tech gadgets that are destined for the consumer market—meaning a store near you or me.

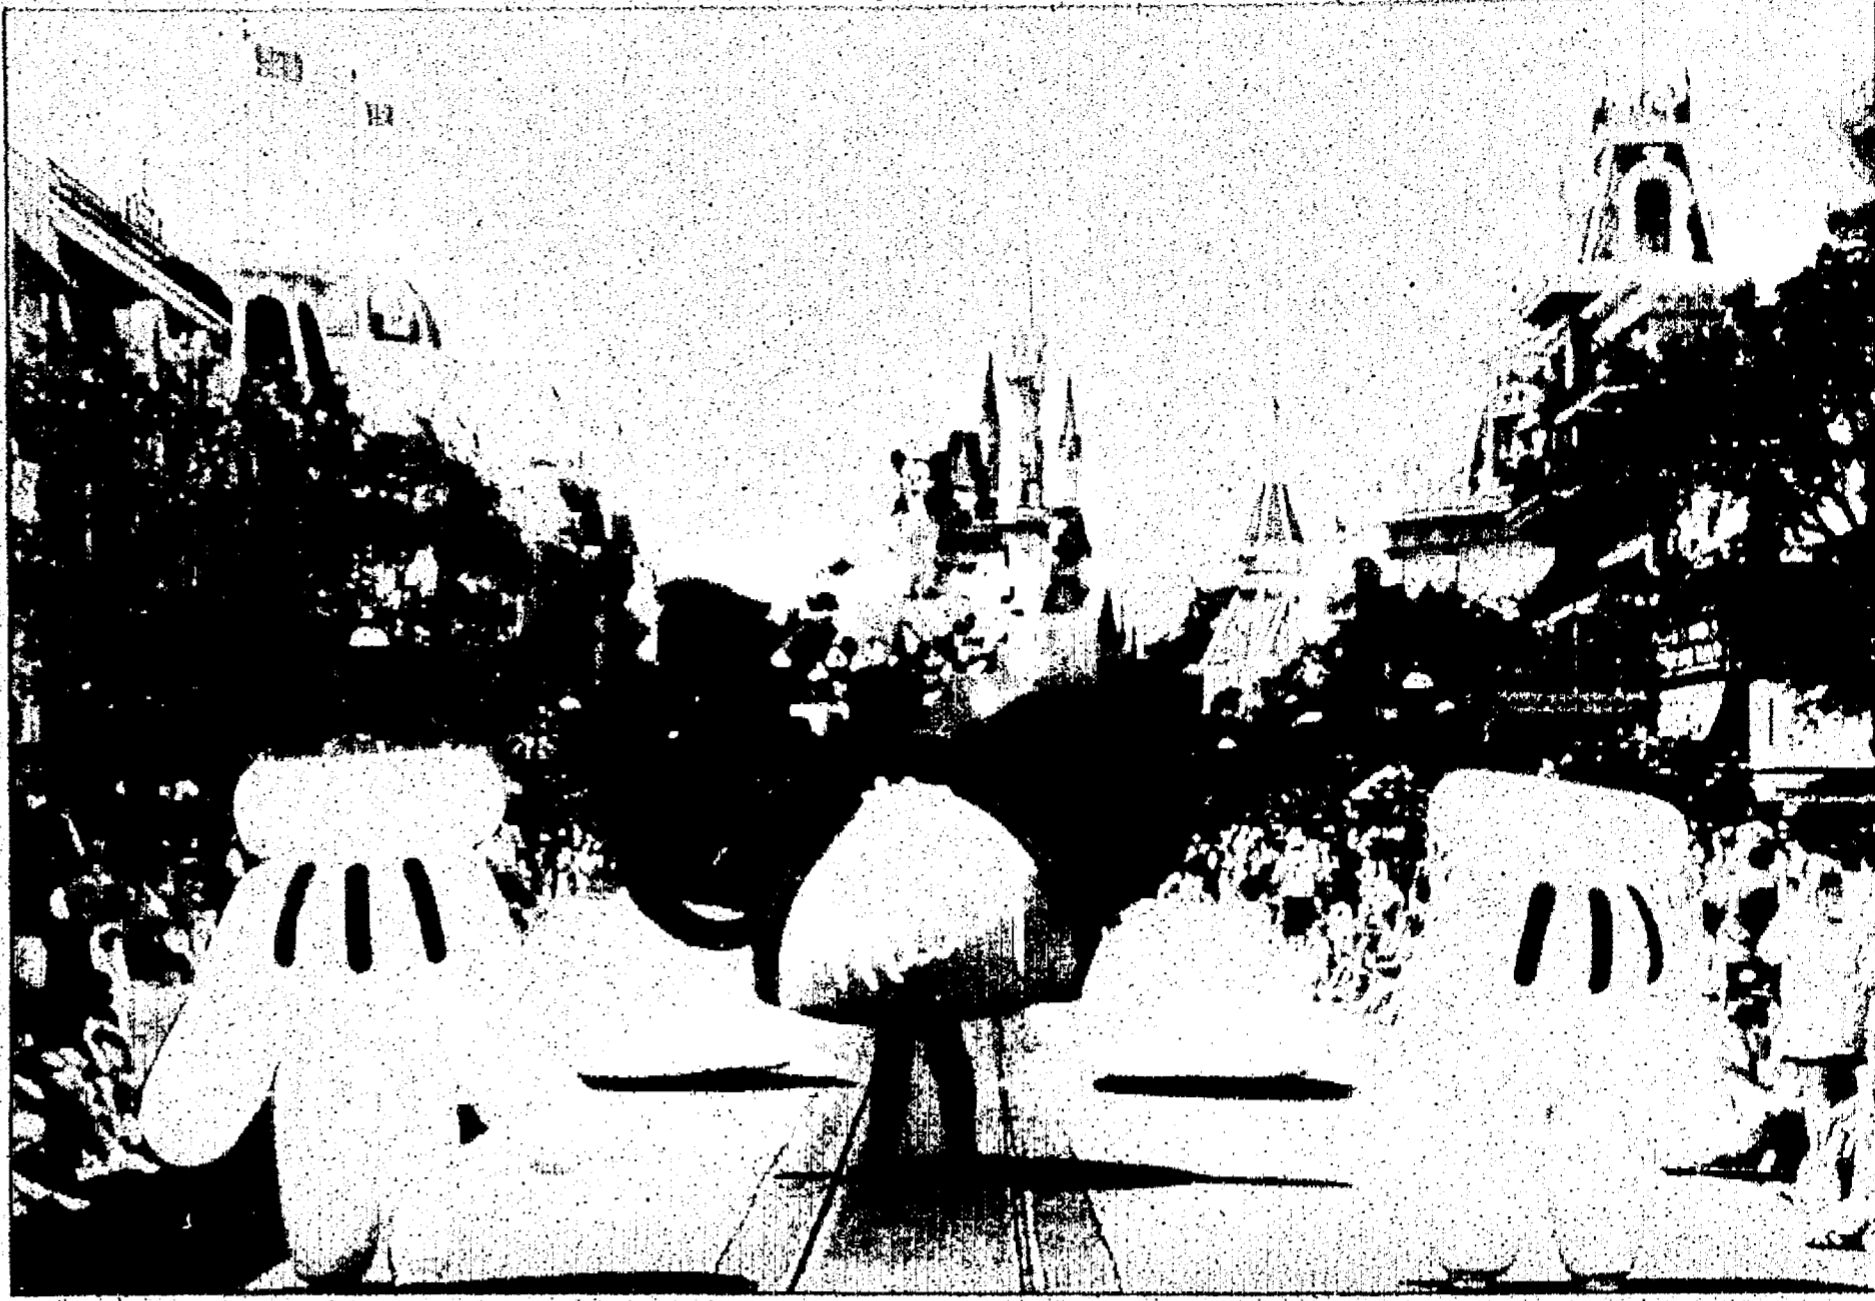

If you're interested in the romance of the Great Northwest, you can check into the new Wilderness Lodge Resort, a rustic 728-room hideaway. (Now, if you're really interested in the Northwest, you should probably catch a plane to Seattle, not Orlando.) A man-made geyser erupts hourly, and rooms start at $149 per night.

Magic Kingdom explorers can visit a fantasy African jungle based on the hit motion picture musical, "The Lion King."

There's a Doll and Teddy Bear Convention Nov. 4-6 at Disney Village Marketplace, and it includes a public auction. Also on the horizon is a showing of the works of 200 of the nation's finest artists, Nov. 11-13.

Of course, the unofficial king of Disneyworld—we're talking about Mickey Mouse—stars daily in the new Mickey Mania parade at the Magic Kingdom. There are floats, balloons, mouse cars and 28 other Disney characters, who tell the story of Mickey in Music, Mickey in Tim, Mickey in Motion, Mickey in Toys, and Mickey in Balloons and Mickey Through the Years.

For information of the official sort, call Walt Disney World Guest Information at (407)824-4321. Or write: PO Box 10,000, Lake Buena Vista, Fla. 32830-0040.

M-I-C-K-E-Y: Mickey and friends make their way through the Magic Kingdom during one of the new daily parades. With some careful planning, you can save some money and have more fun at Disney World.

Finding next best thing to being there

Let's say you've got a bad case of Mickey Mania. It happens to the best of us.

But let's also say you lack the desire or the cash to buy a ticket to Florida or California.

The publicity machine at Walt Disney World offers a few pointers:

Put on the latest Disney garb, from "Lion King" T-shirts to "Winnie the Pooh" sweatshirts. Pooh Bear turns 70 this year.

Slip in the cassette of Walt Disney Records' "Travelling with Mickey" or "Disney Children's Favorites."

For something a little brassier, try Disney's Hollywood Records' "The Brian Setzer Orchestra," a recording that features the former Stray Cat Setzer and his big band.

New from Disney's Hyperion publishing house is "Suitable for Fraining" by Pulitzer Prize winner and crime writer Edna Buchanan. Then there's the memoir from former Mouseketeer Annette Funicello, "A Dream is a Wish Your Heart Makes: My Story."

Tune into "Dateline Disney" for updates. That's on the Disney cable TV channel.

In a pinch, you can visit the Disney Store at Twelve Oaks Mall or Laurel Park Place.

There now, that should cure what ails you. But consider this: Is Mickey and company omnipresent or what?

On Mackinac Island: Victor McGuire of Canton recommends a family outing to Michigan's historic isle. He wrote, "My family especially enjoyed touring the forts. A family's historic package includes admission to Fort Mackinac on Mackinac Island, Colonial Michilimack and Historic Mill Creek in Mackinac City. The kids liked dressing in the colonial clothes and watching the soldiers fire the cannon and rifles while at the fort."

'Redemption' is entertaining, but heavy on cliches

JOHN MONAGHAN

TICKETS PLEASE In between bulky horror novels, Stephen King has been known to dip into other genres. Hollywood, always hungry for King material, has mined these peculiar novellas and short stories and made movies out of them, including the nostalgic "Stand By Me" and now the prison drama, "The Shawshank Redemption."

As odd as it sounds, these are some of the best screen treatments of King's work. Where filmmakers have rarely gotten the spirit of his horror material, these stories, so inspired by the movies, play so well that you hardly notice their more hackneyed elements.

When Red (Morgan Freeman), a lifer in a New England prison, first sees Andy (Tim Robbins) in the late 1940s, he thinks the new inmate is a rich boy who will break down during his first night in stir. Not only does Andy prove him wrong; he goes on to have a profound effect on Red and the entire prison.

"Don't you know? Everyone in here is innocent," says Red, who gives Andy his first advice about prison life. In reality, Andy, a successful banker on the outside, isn't guilty in the murder of his wife and her lover.

The first hour of "The Shawshank Redemption" shows the day-to-day routine of prison life. There are the usual cliches — the hosing down and delousing upon arrival, sadistic guards, an old guy feeding bugs to the baby bird in his coat pocket.

Then a plot starts to unravel. Andy begins to command the respect of the guards, setting up a makeshift accounting office and giving financial advice. Soon he's doing the guards' and the warden's tax returns in exchange for the freedom to build up the prison library.

The warden eventually uses Andy's expertise to launder money made from illegal kickbacks and other dirty dealings. When evidence appears that might clear him, the warden naturally does everything in his power to block it.

Despite the drab surroundings (uniforms, cloudy afternoons and prison walls fuse into a perpetual blue-grayness), the movie is ultimately about hope. Make the best of the situation wherever you are, it says boldly, quite a switch from the cynical author of "The Stand."

Freeman and Robbins play the kind of gutsy character parts actors loved to tackle in the 1940s. A nice twist here is how the movie spans the decades, represented by posters — from Rita Hayworth to Marilyn Monroe to Raquel Welch — that decorate Andy's

At its worst, "The Shawshank Redemption" is manipulative and about a half hour too long. At its best, King's visit to the big house cleverly blends the realistic and spiritual into a captivating yarn.

Screen Scene

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan.

DETROIT FILM THEATRE
 Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5)

"Charalata — The Lonely Wife" (India — 1964), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Oct. 21-22, 4 and 7 p.m. Oct. 23. In 19th century Bengal, a wealthy man's wife, no longer capable of being the "ideal" woman, asks nothing of life but her husband's happiness.

"Clerks" (USA — 1994), 7 p.m. Oct. 24. Twenty-three-year-old Kevin Smith made this Cannes award-winning film for $27,500. It's the irreverent story of one semi-eventful day in the life of a New Jersey convenience store clerk.

KINOTEK
 Capitol Theatre and Arts Center, 121 W. University Ave. W., Windsor, Canada. Call (519) 971-5160 for show times. ($4)

"Woman in the Dunes" (Japan — 1964), 9 p.m. Oct. 24-25. Stranded on a deserted beach while collecting specimens, an entomologist is led to a beautiful young widow living at the bottom of an enormous sandpit. Lured into the hole, he soon discovers that he is being held prisoner and must endlessly shovel sand to avoid being engulfed.

MAGIC BAG THEATRE
 22918 Woodward at Nine Mile Road, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. ($5)

"Ed Wood — 'Glen or Glenda'" (USA — 1953), 8 p.m.; and "Plan Nine From Outer Space" (USA — 1959), 9 p.m. Oct. 26-27. A pair of anti-masterpieces by Edward D. Wood Jr., cult director and subject of Tim Burton's new biopic. "Glenda" is the sincere account of a man (played by Wood himself) who finds comfort wearing women's clothes but can't bear to tell his girlfriend. "Plan Nine" is the notoriously cheesy science fiction/horror story best known as Bela Lugosi's last performance. This is the one where he's seen in only one shot, then replaced by a much-taller stand-in with a cape held up to his face.

MAIN ART THEATER
 118 N. Main St. at 11 Mile Road, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and show times. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Priscilla, Queen of the Desert" (Australia — 1994). Three drag queens take their show on the very open road in this bizarre and funny comedy.
 "Quiz Show" (USA — 1994). Robert Redford's entertaining and poignant look at the quiz show scandal of the 1950s, where the producers of the wildly popular "Twenty One" fed the right answers to contestants.

MAPLE THEATER
 4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"I Like It Like That" (USA — 1994). Debut filmmaker Darnell Martin spins this tale of a young woman's ups and downs in a Bronx neighborhood.

"The Shawshank Redemption" (USA — 1994). Tim Robbins and Morgan Freeman star in this drama; based on a novella by Steven King, about a new arrival and a lifer in a maximum security prison in the 1960s.
 "Quiz Show" (USA — 1994). See Main Art Theatre listing.

MICHIGAN THEATER
 603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students and senior citizens)

"Ciao, Professore!" (Italy — 1993), Oct. 26-31 (call for show times). An elementary school teacher from Italy's affluent, well-mannered North is assigned to an unruly third-grade class in the South. A delightful change of pace for the usually controversial director Lina Wertmüller ("Sweet Away," "Seven Beauties.")

 "Juliet of the Spirits" (Italy — 1965), 7 p.m. Oct. 25; 9 p.m. Oct. 26. Federico Fellini's real-life wife Giulietta Masina stars as a woman who embarks on a surrealist fantasy when she suspects her well-to-do husband is cheating on her.
 "The Campion Sisters," 7 and 9 p.m. Oct. 24; 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. Oct. 25. Four short works from Jane Campion, the acclaimed director of "The Piano."

Silent films are Halloween classics

Two silent film classics are to be screened locally in coming weeks.

Don't miss your chance to see the original 1925 Silent Film Classic, "The Phantom of the Opera," and the hilarious graveyard antics of Laurel & Hardy in the 1928 comedy short "Habeas Corpus," 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22 at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, (Five Mile Road, one block west of Inkster Road, Livonia.)

Tickets are $7 and available at the church or Hammell Music, 15630 Middlebelt. Call (313) 422-1470 or (313) 427-3442.

In addition, Ann Arbor's Michigan Theater is showing the original horror classic, Friedrich Murnau's "Nosferatu," at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29 at the theater, 609 E. Liberty St. That's just in time to have a frightful Halloween.

The Michigan Sinfonietta will perform the original score live. The film is the first that was based on Bram Stoker's book, "Dracula."

Tickets can be purchased by calling (313) 668-TIME.

Live musical accompaniment for "The Phantom" will be by Tony O'Brien. O'Brien will perform his original score for "Phantom" on St. Paul's custom Rodgers organ, an instrument he calls "the perfect musical vehicle for setting a dramatic mood — from a powerful thunder to a soft, singing whisper."

Lon Chaney stars in "Phantom" with Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry. O'Brien has accompanied "Phantom" in both solo performances and with symphony orchestras.

"The Phantom of the Opera" is set in the Paris Opera House of 1880. It is a classic horror-romance about a disfigured man who falls in love with a young singer, and, without revealing his face, hidden behind a mask, trains her to become an exceptional singer. He launches a reign of terror in the Opera House and will stop at nothing to win her a place as the Prima Donna. As his plans begin to crumble, he kidnaps and carries her to his underground hideout, deep in the cellars below, where she un-masks him.

The huge, full-scale replica of the interior of the five-story Paris Opera House at Universal Studios was so costly and well-built that it was never struck. It still stands today on stage 28 and is seen every year by thousands of tourists.

Classic film: Lon Chaney stars in the original 1925 silent film classic, "The Phantom of the Opera."

MUSIC NOTES

Orbital — City was influential

Paul Harron of Orbital still remembers the first time he heard the Detroit-based, platinum-selling house band Inner City.

"When I first heard 'Big Fun' (by Inner City) I thought, 'All right. This is it. This is what I've been looking for.' I thought it was really good. I normally sway away from a vocal track, but that was a real sort of massive record."

On their latest album, "Snivilisation," the band inadvertently swayed away from the Detroit sound.

"It was nothing intentional. We tend to sort of write what we fancied at the time and see if it works or not."

"We normally go for someone we know... people who are very good with harmony. I'm really into weaving harmonies around each other. I don't prefer instruments to vocals."

Milla and her record label SBK/EMI are in a bit of a legal flap. A nuptial woman is suing them for "sexual harassment" because the woman on the cover of Milla's album "The Divine Comedy," according to the woman, "boycots the standing of blond women in society, causing contempt and unwanted hatred and shame."

She would be happy if the woman on the cover "made into a black-haired white woman." The cover, painted by Ukrainian-born artist Maria Steble, depicts a Renaissance-style impression of Milla reaching toward the sky with a variety of creatures at her feet, including a large snake wrapped around her feet.

Early tracks by Nick Cave and the Bad Seeds ("From Her to Eternity"), The Flat Earth Band ("Dead"), "Kicking Against the Pricks" and "Your Funeral My Trial" was well as Einstürzende Neubauten are being re-released on Mute Records.

Neubauten's album "Strategies Against Architecture (Vol. 1)" includes tracks from their first 7" singles ("Slahversion," "Katte Sterne"), highlights from their album "Kollaps" and hard-to-find vinyl EP's "Tanz Dehll" and "Negative-Nein." It was re-mastered by long-time Neubauten collaborator Jon Caffery and was compiled by the band with Jim Hiltzwell (Poets).

Sound Bites

Moisture

Members:

- Bob Gentry: lead guitar, guitar, piano
- Gary Chechak: lead guitar
- Christopher Andrews: drums
- Mike Bugle: bass

Upcoming release:

• 5-song CD "Moisture"

Ever since the Vancouver-based band Moist started getting a reputation, the question "What's the Gracie Point?" has become a phrase that Moisture cringe. It was just potential for a song in the air. In preparation of a Moisture gig, an East Lansing club noted that Moist was playing.

"The sickness by it," Gentry said facetiously. "It could be a good thing, though. Maybe that's good though. Maybe they're promoting it."

Most of Moisture's members are childhood friends who grew up in the Redford and Canton areas. They played around in bands like The Trip, and Learn Change and Thruva, but the proverbial "creative differences" kept popping up. So the long-time friends decided to hook up and give it a try. "We knew what we wanted to do. It's hard to get people to do what you want," Gentry said with a laugh.

Besides their upcoming CD, the band's single "See Saw" appeared on the Detroit Musicians' Alliance benefit CD "United We Stand."

Catch the band Friday, Oct. 21, at Poney's Pub, 3006 Woodward Ave., Detroit, (313) 831-8070 with The Flow Note; and Friday, Nov. 11, at Gotham City Cafe, 22048 Woodward Ave., Ferndale, (810) 308-7430. (acoustic performance)

Finding the Mental Landscape

The members of Mental Landscape have plenty to say about the Detroit music scene and they're ready to strike a blow at the status quo with the release later this month of an 11-song CD.

BY MATTHEW DELEZENNE
STAFF WRITER

The mind is a region difficult to navigate. Inroads are few and the terrain uncharted.

The Detroit rock band Mental Landscape has come to claim this remote and foreboding place as the vanguard of a self-proclaimed "Thought Revolution."

With the CD "Harrow's Bard" due out Oct. 29 and a new, diverse line-up of members, the band feels poised to strike a blow to the status quo.

The disparate musical interests of the quartet are apparent on the 11-song CD, which was recorded in four "very long days" at the Loft Studios in Saline with engineer Tim Patalan (Sponge). Nonetheless, the upcoming release is a mature, well-conceived piece of work and shows great improvement over last year's three-song 7-inch record.

Although two of the songs from the 7-inch appear on "Harrow's Bard," they are supported by stronger material.

The CD's sound is, as the group said, "impossible to label." Some tracks have a straight-ahead, power-pop grunge feel similar to Sugarfoot or the Meat Puppets. Others, such as "Paraphilia," "Peels" and "Drawing Down the Moon," tread more heavily.

Two standouts are the ballads "Morpheus," with acoustic guitar and duet vocals, and "Headache," with a rhythm and guitar melody very reminiscent of the Doors' classic "The End." Still another choice cut, "Decline," touches on the dissonant aggression of the Rollins Band.

In the spirit of the Doors and Alice in Chains, the lyrics are fragmented and abstract, and the themes of the songs often concern the human psyche.

Reshaping the mind

Founder and vocalist Rambeaux (pronounced "Rambo"), said the group's name is a result of their efforts at "reshaping the mind" of their audience.

"The basic idea is that instead of just going out and playing music and drinking a lot of beer and partying, we try to approach it from (the direction of) making relevant music, things that make you think about different subjects," said bassist Viola Redox.

Yo, quo: Mental Landscape will celebrate the Oct. 29 release of their CD with a performance and party at Alvin's in Detroit, with special guest Forge.

"I wouldn't say we're totally a political band. We write about social things, relationship things. We also include arts and cinema and theater and things in music and the performance."

The first incarnation of Mental Landscape appeared in 1989 when Rambeaux attempted to form a band with his friends and "introduce folk into punk." It was less than successful.

"It came down to the point where they couldn't play what I wanted to do," he said.

By 1992 the group was reformed to include guitarist Steven Allore and bassist/vocalist Redox. The drum slot was filled last February when Ken Macmillan replaced former drummer Mike D. Allore recently left the group and was replaced three weeks ago by Jeremy Polant, former member of Sin Eye.

"People think we're the same band as three years ago," Redox said. "We actually sound nothing like the old band."

Allore joined after answering an ad that Rambeaux had run. Referring to the other two guitarists who were being considered, Allore laughs and calls himself "the least of three evils." The guitarist, who formerly played bass in what he calls "cheesy metal bands," had rather unimpressive equipment at the time.

Rambeaux, who admits to playing "several instruments poorly," laments the state of "the scene" here in Detroit for aspiring musicians.

'70s mentality

"The mentality of Detroit is still in the '70s," Rambeaux said. "One of the main problems is total apathy toward the music. There's almost a negative attitude about paying $3-$5 to see a band."

"There's a large glut of really bad bands, but there are really good ones."

One of the ways Mental Landscape hopes to garner attention is with their live performance.

"We're probably one of the last bands, at least locally, that has a stage show," Rambeaux said. "It's been compared to vaudeville."

Props, projectors and lighting techniques are used to convey a visual message along with five TVs which are placed on stage displaying educational films and graphics. The effect, said Macmillan with a laugh, is "spontaneously conceptual."

But rock audiences are notoriously fickle, and no matter how much effort a band puts forth, results are never guaranteed.

"We could sit around and whine about not getting interest in Detroit,"

Rambeaux said, "but why not concentrate on where we are getting interest?"

Mental Landscape issued a letter to the press in the spring of this year stating "Detroit Just Doesn't Get It." Urging "Wake up, wake up Detroit," the letter warned "This is your last chance to catch up!!!"

On the other hand, the group's press pack shows "five nominations in the 1994 Detroit Music Awards," and a "best single" nomination in the 1994 Motor City Music Awards. According to inside sources, they have been nominated for multiple awards in the 1994 Detroit Music Awards to be held in mid-November at the State Theatre in Detroit. Further, they claim a single listed in a local top 10 list and airplay on radio station 89X.

So, it would appear Detroit's media is very well "awake" and does in fact "get it" after all.

Perhaps, Mental Landscape just practices songwriting a bit more diligently than they practice diplomacy. But that's OK, a "Thought Revolution" is no place for ambassadors.

Mental Landscape celebrates the release of their CD with a performance and party at Alvin's, 5756 Cass Ave., Detroit, with special guest Forge and Heavy Water Factory. For more information, call (313) 832-2355.

Pigface: Music as diverse as its members

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Martin Atkins toured the world with Ministry, Killing Joke and Public Image Ltd. One day on tour, however, the success came crashing down on him. He realized he wasn't happy.

"I remember sitting in Los Angeles going, 'Here we go. There's the pool. There's the palm trees,' (while) twiddling my toes in the pool and being really unhappy," Atkins said. "It had to do with the controls that were being placed on me by people who didn't understand what I was doing and me having the ability to express myself and be heard."

In response, he formed Pigface — a revolving team of musicians, most of whom have played with industrial acts.

"If Pigface didn't exist, I wouldn't be making music anymore, plain and simple," he said.

Pigface Team '94 is more of a league than a team which consists of three separate groups. The Detroit band "A Team" include Atkins, Charles Lee (My Life With the Thrill Kill Kult), Mary Byker (Gaye Bykers (In Acid), Pat Sprawl (Skinny Puppy), James Teitelbaum (Evil Clown), Joe Trump (Carbon) and Meg O'Leary (Crunch). Detroit musician Troy Gregory, formerly of Prong and Flotsam and Jetsam, may also make an appearance.

Making appearances in other cities are Paul Ferguson (Killing Joke/The Orb), Andrew Weiss (Rollins), Danny Carey (Tool), Ogre (Skinny Puppy), Cynthia Plastereraster and Jim Thirlwell (Poets). Atkins' Public Image Ltd. bandmate Johnny Lydon is tentatively scheduled to perform in Los Angeles.

Showing his penchant for diversity, Atkins invited a performer that most alternative music followers would scoff at: Tame Downe, vocalist/guitarist of the rock band Faster Pussycat. Although Downe doesn't fit the Pigface stereotype, Atkins said that Downe's attitude fits perfectly, making him a logical choice.

League of its own: With a diverse group of musicians, "Pigface Team '94" is more of a league than a team with three separate groups performing in different cities.

"He has been the person on the Internet talking to people he's not sitting around saying, 'I was in Faster Pussycat where's my cup of coffee?' He's saying, 'How can I help,'" he said. "That's exactly the kind of person I want to surround myself with."

Atkins is dragging his teams around the country in support of Pigface's latest album "Notes From The Underground," on Atkins' Chicago-based Invisible Records. It features a handful of the touring musicians as well as some other influential artists, including the Red Hot Chili Peppers' bassist Flea.

"Notes From The Underground" is a melodic collage of heart pounding beats, abrasive guitars and intermittent spoken word performances. Like the album, the tour, which at first glance would seem under the reigns of insane confusion, is guaranteed to be "locked," Atkins said.

"Everyone on stage (will be) completely locked more than any supposedly well-rehearsed top 20 band."

It will also be more diverse, he added. He likes to shock the senses of his audience by bringing a variety of instruments like cellos and four drum kits into the picture. He couples that with "beautiful harmonies" and "insane distortion."

"It will challenge a few preconceptions," he said with a laugh.

Pigface with special guest Evil Mothers will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Must be 18 or older to enter. For more information, call (313) 961-MEET.

Chiefs silence Stevenson, 2-0

The last week has proven one thing, certainly: Livonia Stevenson's soccer team, which many lauded as not only the best in the state but the best in school history, has met its match in Plymouth Canton.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Prior to Wednesday's showdown between Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Canton for the Western Lakes Activities Association soccer championship at Canton, there was one very basic difference most observers agreed upon: Stevenson possessed more talent.

That wasn't meant as a slight to Canton. It was just that almost everyone believed the Spartans to have more ability than any team in the state.

Well... now there's something else the critics can agree upon: Canton prepares better for big games than anyone else. Which is why the Chiefs blanked Stevenson, 2-0.

For the second straight match, the Chiefs controlled the play most of the way. A week earlier, when the two teams met in a meaningless regular-season-ending game, all Canton could salvage against Stevenson was a 3-3 tie... and it took two goals in the final five minutes to do that.

Last night, the Chiefs gave their top-ranked foes nothing. Their air-tight defense befuddled the Spartans, and they found enough holes to strike twice in their title-winning triumph.

"The kids came to play," summarized Canton coach Don Smith, whose team improved to 13-1-3. "They have just been coming to play the big games all season long, after that first game with Salem (the Chiefs' only loss)."

This is a Stevenson team that seemingly scored goals at will. But not this time... the Chiefs bottled up the Spartans' biggest threat, striker Nick Derna. And midfielders Steve Willford and Matt Quinter were neutralized by Canton's Todd Stonestreet and Jeff Ellis.

"It was a good, all-around defensive game by everyone," said Smith. Stevenson coach Walt Barrett was in no position to disagree. "They dominated the game," he said in brief. "Emotionally, after that first goal, we never got back into it. We just weren't emotionally into the game."

Considering what was at stake... the WLAAs championship... how could that happen? Barrett could provide no insight: "I think they played exceptionally well and we played exceptionally bad."

The "bad" stuff started early for Stevenson. With 23:26 left in the first half, sweeper Scott Sersen tried to clear a cross from in front of his net. He slipped, hitting the ball with his arm. The official immediately signaled for a Canton penalty kick.

Graham Wilk converted for the Chiefs and they had a 1-0 lead.

Of course, they had a lead like that at the half a week earlier, only to see it dissipate under the weight of a Stevenson second-half barrage. Willford keyed the prior comeback, scoring one goal and setting up a second off direct kicks.

But this time the Chiefs took the play at Stevenson, owning the midfield and... even when the Spartans tried desperately to apply additional pressure late in the match... controlling the play.

Tatigian 4th in marathon

She Tatigian's third marathon was a charm in Sunday's 17th annual Detroit Free Press/Mazda International Marathon.

The 27-year-old school teacher and Livonia Franklin High girls cross country coach finished fourth overall in the women's division with a personal best time of 2 hours, 51 minutes, 32 seconds. She averaged 6:25 per mile.

Toronto's May Allison set a new 26.2-mile course record in 2:34:55. Ann Arbor's Ann Boyd was second (2:40:14) and Canadian Lealie Carson was third (2:45:31).

"The (good) weather conditions definitely played a role, and I have to attribute a lot to the coaching of Bill Stewart," said Tatigian, who finished fifth in 1992. "At the beginning, my splits were sporadic and my back was stiff, but when I got to the island (Belle Isle), the scenery was nice, the air was cool, and that's where I felt the best. I was able to maintain a groove from there."

"It also really helped to be able to focus on my training partner, Karen Blackford (the '92 champ). I had her in my sight and passed her at 15 miles."

Blackford, the women's (over 40) masters champ, finished sixth overall in 2:55:10.

At the 13.1-mile mark, Tatigian was clocked in 1:23:59, on track to make the 2:50:00 cutoff for the 1996 U.S. Olympic Trials in Charlotte, N.C.

But she tightened up at the 23-mile mark.

"I was definitely on pace for a 2:48 if I don't hit the wall," said the former Stevenson High and Michigan State runner, who won $750. "And if I didn't hit the wall, I hit something. I was a little worried, but I was able to bring it in."

If healthy, Tatigian plans to compete next spring at the Glass City Marathon in Toledo.

Other fine showings turned in by area runners included Observer reporter Marybeth Dillon (3:01:55), 11th overall and second in the women's masters; Plymouth's Gabrielle Crandall (3:03:49), 13th overall and second in the women's 35-39 age group; Livonia's Bill Craig (2:54:13), fifth in men's 50-54; and Livonia's Rick Arnes, 60th overall men's (2:48:38); Livonia's Shari Thompson, 84th overall women's (3:39:56).

Matter of style

Spartans underdog vs. Harrison

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Jack Reardon would like to forget the last time his football team met Farmington Hills Harrison.

Don't remind the Livonia Stevenson coach that it was late September, 1984. The final score read: 49-7 in favor of Harrison.

"We were John Miller's highlight film," Reardon recalls. "I think we got him an offer to Notre Dame that day and just about every other big-name school in the country. They showed his clips against us over and over. And we had a decent team that year. We ended up 7-2."

Miller, who later went on to excel at Michigan State before retiring after brief stints in the NFL and USFL, scored four touchdowns in the rout, including a pair of punts returns for TDs.

Miller's marvelous run

The most memorable of the four was a dazzling 61-yarder where he bounced off six or seven Stevenson tacklers en route to the end zone.

Harrison coach John Herrington called it the "best run I've seen in my 22 years of coaching."

Ironically, 10 years later, Herrington and Reardon will meet again, but this time the stakes are a bit higher.

The Western Division champ (Harrison) will meet the Lakes Division champ (Stevenson) for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship. (Game times is 1 p.m. Saturday at Harrison).

Both teams are 6-1 on the season, but that's where the similarities end.

Contrasting styles

Stevenson is going for its first ever WLAAs crown, while Harrison is after an unprecedented 10th.

The game matches brute strength and size (Stevenson) against speed and quickness (Harrison).

Reardon is thankful John Miller is long gone, but now his team must contend with Harrison's trio of dangerous and talented skill players.

Head coach: Jack Reardon is coaching in his first Western Lakes championship game Saturday at Farmington Hills Harrison.

Junior running back Jason Granger, a 5-foot-8, 148-pound speed-burner, poses one problem. Complementing him in the backfield is 6-2, 248-pound senior tailback Nick Williams. And if that isn't enough, Harrison throws 6-foot, 175-pound split end Kevin Bryant at you.

"Harrison is fundamentally very sound," Reardon said. "We saw their tape against Northville and Granger had three runs of over 50 yards."

"And Bryant is so darn quick, he just runs by people. There's not too many defensive backs who can stay with him."

"Williams just lines up eight or nine yards back and just pounds you out of their 'iso' or 'bally' series. He's very, very good."

Breakaway threats

Could the Miller-type night-mares occur all over again?

"Any one of the three can make things happen," Reardon said. "They just make the big, big plays all the time."

"You can't key on anybody. We're going to have to play good, solid defense. We've been playing well, but we haven't faced anybody with that kind of foot speed. And we haven't seen anybody as quick as Granger.

"I didn't see their senior quarterback (Jake Lawson) before he got hurt, but their sophomore quarterback (Kevin Bambenek) is a nice quarterback, too."

Harrison, however, also has some major concerns of its own.

The Hawks are going up against a huge offensive and defensive line.

Stevenson rotates three giants at the tackle spots... Jim Townsend, a 6-4, 255-pound senior; Eric Hines, a 6-1, 261-pound senior; and George Murphy, a 6-4, 250-pound junior. Senior Tony Jankowski (6-0, 239) also sees action at tackle.

"They're a different team (as opposed to Glenn every year)," Herrington said. "But it doesn't get any easier. They have great size and have played excellent defense all year. Their offense looks like it could explode on someone; I just hope it's not us."

Reardon knows he must counter Harrison by using a ball control attack.

"What we've got to do is keep our offense on the field," he said. "We cannot go one, two, three and punt."

"But the kids know what they have to do and we're healthy."

Hawks gain momentum

Harrison has been on a roll since falling 28-21 to Birmingham Brother Rice at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"After losing the opener, it's been a long fight," Herrington said. "But we feel we're playing good ball now. We didn't get any one hurt (Saturday) so we're looking forward to the next two games."

CROSS COUNTRY

Regular season showing impressive for Stevenson

The state-ranked Livonia Stevenson girls cross country team continues to add trophies to its mantle.

On Saturday, the Spartans won their fifth meet of the season, capturing the 10-team Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational.

Stevenson led the way with 36 points, followed by Pinckney (103), Chelsea (108) and Farmington Hills Mercy (116).

Mercy's Eileen O'Connell was first overall in the 5,000-meter race with a time of 18:48.

Freshman Kelly Travis of Stevenson was second in 19:02.

Other Spartan finishers included Kelly McNeilance, fourth (19:59); Kelly Prais, seventh (20:34); Katie Chonacas, 11th (20:51); Jessica Cyburt, 12th (20:55); and Sarah Rieder, 13th (21:13).

On Monday, Stevenson completed an unbeaten dual meet season with a 15-30 triumph over host Westland John Glenn at Central City Parkway.

GIRLS WRAP

Stevenson took the first 13 places.

Among those finishing in the top 10: Laura Pilon and Travis, 21:12 each; McNeilance, 21:13; Cyburt, 21:39; Jeannette Stojcevski, 21:53; Nicole Falk, 21:56; Prais, Chonacas, Delia Dumitrescu and Rieder, 22:19 each.

Stevenson winds up its dual meet season 6-0 overall and 5-0 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Churchill outruns Pats

Tracy Parker (21:38) took first place and Jenny Duncan (22:05) added a third Monday, leading Livonia Churchill to a 25-30 WIAA-Western Division triumph over Livonia Franklin at Cass Benton Park.

Churchill is 2-4 overall and 2-3 in the Western Division.

Other Churchill finishers in the top 10 included Erin Sharp, fifth (23:02); Jeannette Martus, seventh (24:29); and Teri

Fish, ninth (25:51). Franklin, which slipped to 1-5 and 1-4, was anchored by second-place finisher Lisa DeShano (22:01).

Other Patriots in the top 10 included Sary Lukofsky, fourth (22:48); LeeAnne Harrigan, sixth (23:53); Mo Biegas, eighth (24:49) and Cassandra Gray, 10th (26:10).

Warriors 2nd

Lutheran Westland took second place in the Division II meet at the Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational Saturday at Hubz Park.

The Warriors finished with 69 points, which was second to Whitmore Lake's 46. Sophomore Jodi Wernan was fourth in the individual race in a time of 21:10. Junior Kate Serrett was ninth (22:20), followed by senior Amy Ekdendick, 10th (22:23), freshman Deb Unger, 11th (22:25) and junior Jill Gerlach, 35th (25:11).

WBAA meet Friday

Plymouth Canton will try to defend its girls and boys titles Friday in the 12-team Western Lakes Activities Association meet at Cass Benton Park.

The girls' race starts at 4 p.m. followed by the boys at 4:30 p.m.

BOYS WRAP

Holly was third (91), followed by East Kentwood (112) and Grand Rapids Christian (131).

Leo took first place in a blazing time of 15:38, a season best.

He's starting to get more confidence as he's racing," CC coach Tony Magni said. "Anyone who thinks the course was short because of the time... it wasn't."

"It wasn't the hardest course in the world, and it was a nice day to run. I don't know if he can run as fast on some of the other courses, but he certainly can run."

The Shamrocks placed five runners in the top 25, including Phil Camilleri, seventh (16:27); Matt Sroczynski, 10th (16:39); Mike Danic, 19th (17:01); and Derrick Faunce, 23rd (17:06). Anthony Wolfe took 35th (17:41) and Rick Staehura was 37th (17:48).

Churchill downs Pats

Livonia Churchill swept the first three places Monday to gain a 21-34 boys cross country win over Livonia Franklin at Cass Benton Park.

Brian Galindo (17:50), Norm Fuchs (18:14) and Pat Nicholl (18:16) formed the one-two-three block for the Chargers.

Other finishers for Churchill included Steve DeLuca in fifth (18:51) and Corey Crumb in 11th (19:38).

The Chargers are 2-4 overall and 2-3 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Tony Hayes led Franklin with a fourth-place finish in 18:32. Other Patriots in the top 10 included Jason Wolfe, sixth (19:01); Tom Taylor, eighth (19:04); Sasha Knight, ninth (19:25); and Jim Kupras, 10th (19:26).

Franklin falls to 1-5 and 1-4.

Stevenson beats Glenn

Westland John Glenn's Joe Wojtowicz and Brandon Molitor finished one-two in 17:15 and 17:28, but it wasn't enough as visiting Livonia Stevenson pulled out a 25-32 WIAA-Lakes Division win Tuesday at Central City Parkway.

Stevenson took the next five places led by Jason Hayward (17:29), Steve Warner (17:37), Rob Block (17:44), Scott Kwiatkowski (17:59) and Andrew Beach (18:15).

Glenn's Chris Gillen was eighth (18:38); Stevenson's Jeff Backus, ninth (18:58); and Glenn's Henry Honeycutt, 10th (19:02).

Stevenson finishes the regular season 4-2 overall and 3-2 in the Lakes.

Post-season playoff chase on

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

It's getting down to the "Nitty Gritty time" this weekend in high school football.

The big game, of course, is Livonia Stevenson (6-1) at Farmington Hills Harrison (6-1) for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship. (Game time is 1 p.m. Saturday at Harrison.)

In the Metro Conference, Livonia Clarencville (5-2, 5-1) is looking for help. Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook (7-0, 6-0) can win the title outright Saturday with a victory over Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest (2-5, 2-4).

The playoff picture is becoming a little more clear.

In Class AA-Region II, Stevenson needs to win one of its last two games to qualify. Westland John Glenn (4-3) and Wayne Memorial (5-2) could also be on a collision course for the fourth and final berth in that region. They meet the final week of the season at Glenn.

In Class A-Region III, Harrison is in the driver's seat to qualify if it can beat either Stevenson or unbeaten Oxford (7-0), but that's no easy task. Meanwhile, Farmington (5-2) is now in a dogfight with Novi (5-2) and Dearborn (6-1) for the fourth and final spot.

Despite two straight losses, Redford St. Agatha (5-2) is a virtual lock to earn a berth in Class D-Region IV.

Redford Catholic Central (4-3) is a longshot to make it in Class AA-Region III, along with Clarencville in Class CC-Region IV.

As for the prediction race, the gap has been narrowed once again.

Yours truly correctly picked 14 of 16 games last week to run his season record to 80-25, only two games back of the lucky Irishman (Dan O'Meara).

O'Meara went 13-3 and is 82-23 overall.

Here is a sneak preview at this weekend's action:

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all at 7:30 p.m.)

Redford Union at Garden City: These old Northwest Suburban League rivals have had parallel seasons. Both teams are 2-5 overall and 2-3 in the White Division of the Mega Conference. Both teams were shut out last week by decent opponents. PICKS: It's a toss up in this battle of cats, O'Meara pouts with the Cougars (6C), but Emons scratches the back of the Panthers (BU).

Westland Glenn at Northville: The Rockets (4-3) are fighting for a playoff spot after an 18-7 gut check victory last week over Plymouth Salem. Brent Washington is coming into his own at tailback for the Rockets. Northville (4-3) is they without the services of top tailback Aniel Kersey (injury), who missed last week's game against Livonia Franklin. PICKS: The Rockets are jet-propelled.

Farmington at Ply. Canton: The Falcons (5-2) have made great strides under second-year coach Lauri Niskanen, but need a healthy Jake Siskosky (bruised hip) to stay in the playoff chase. Canton (3-4) stayed with mighty Harrison with a half last week before the roof caved in. PICKS: Farmington makes it six out of eight in '94.

Ply. Salem at W.L. Western: The Rocks (3-4) have been up and down all season. Last week, they were ninth, killed by Glenn Western (2-5), however, is nothing to shout about. The Warriors struggled last week with winless Livonia Churchill. PICKS: With the Halloween season fast approaching, Salem pulls some witchcraft to gain a victory.

N. Farmington at Liv. Churchill: North (2-5) handed Lakes Division champ Stevenson its only defeat, but that's the only thing they can brag about so far in 1994. Churchill (0-7) has now lost 42 of its last 43. The Chargers are due, especially after the way North played in a 13-12 loss last week to Walled Lake Central. PICKS: Both scribes stay with the Lakes Division team (North) in this Western Lakes crossover.

SATURDAY'S GAMES (all 1 p.m. unless noted)

Liv. Stevenson at F.H. Harrison: Most preseason prognosticators predicted these two teams would meet for the championship, and it came true. Harrison has the edge at the skill positions with people like Nick Williams, Jason Granger and Kevin Bryant. Stevenson counters with big offensive and defensive fronts, led by Jim Townsend, George Murphy, Ben Lewis and company. It's a Miami vs. Nebraska type of matchup — speed vs. strength. PICKS: Harrison repeats its championship magic.

W.L. Central at Liv. Franklin: The Vikings (3-4) snapped a four-game losing skid last week with a one-point triumph over North. On the other side of the ledger, Franklin (1-6) must find a way to hold teams to two touchdowns or less, something the Vikings have done only once this season. PICKS: The Viking ship pulls one out of the Lakes Division.

Clarencville at Lutheran North: The Trojans (5-2, 5-1) are on a roll with five straight victories, but this week's opponent, Macomb Lutheran North (4-3, 4-2) proved a point last week by upsetting first-place Hamtramck, 15-13. The Mustangs will most likely be keying on Clarencville tailback Martino Suman. PICKS: O'Meara says Clarencville makes it six straight, but Emons rides with the Mustangs.

Dot. Lutheran West at Lutheran Westland: Detroit Lutheran West (1-6, 1-5) is mired in the cellar of the Metro Conference. Lutheran High Westland got back on the winning track with a 21-0 shutout last week of Harper Woods. Mark Mashburn, better known as the "Monster Mash," rushed for 113 yards. PICKS: Coach Dennis Turton scores one over his old team, Lutheran Westland wins.

St. Agatha at Ham. St. Florian: The Aggies (5-2, 2-2) not only have lost two in a row, but also suffered a pair of shutouts in losses to Waterford Our Lady of Lakes (10-0) and Center Line St. Clement (18-0). Hamtramck St. Florian (1-3, 2-5) is coming off a 34-6 setback to Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes. PICKS: The opponent is just what the doctor ordered. Aggies roll.

D.H. Annapolis at Red. Thurston: In a Mega-Blue matchup, Redford Thurston (4-3, 4-2) should have the upper hand against Dearborn Heights Annapolis (1-8, 1-5). The Eagles can guarantee themselves a winning season with a victory. PICKS: Leo M. Thurston is proud of his Eagles.

Redford CC vs. U.D. Jesuit (7:30 p.m. at Liv. Clarencville): Catholic Central sophomore quarterback Greg Cal went down in last week's 21-14 Boys Bowl loss to Birmingham Brother Rice. That means senior Gary Galvin is back in the saddle again for the Shamrocks (4-3, 1-2). University of Detroit Jesuit (4-3, 0-3) looked great last week in thrashing Bishop Gallagher, rolling up 400 total yards as Jason Jones rushed for 142 yards and three TDs. PICKS: U-D keeps its winless streak intact in the Central Division. CC rebounds for a win.

SUNDAY'S GAME

Bishop Borgess at Allen Park Cabini (1 p.m. at Liv. Clarencville): Catholic Central sophomore quarterback Greg Cal went down in last week's 21-14 Boys Bowl loss to Birmingham Brother Rice. That means senior Gary Galvin is back in the saddle again for the Shamrocks (4-3, 1-2). University of Detroit Jesuit (4-3, 0-3) looked great last week in thrashing Bishop Gallagher, rolling up 400 total yards as Jason Jones rushed for 142 yards and three TDs. PICKS: U-D keeps its winless streak intact in the Central Division. CC rebounds for a win.

Polkinghorne paces Warriors

Lutheran High Westland's Brad Polkinghorne won the individual race, while leading the Warriors to the Division II team championship at Saturday's Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational held at Buhr Park.

Polkinghorne paced 100 runners with a time of 16 minutes, 52 seconds. The Warriors also took the team crown with 39 points.

Orchard Lake St. Mary's was second (77), Ann Arbor Greenhills was third (131).

Plymouth Christian, the other local team, took 12th (280).

Other individual finishers for Lutheran Westland included: Jason Collins, seventh (17:33); Sam Patterson, eighth (17:38); Jason Burk, 11th (18:07); Andy Ekdendick, 12th (18:12); Chris Tieman, 15th (18:16); and Jon Schmoll, 18th (18:31).

On Tuesday, Lutheran Westland defeated host Harper Woods in a dual meet at Brys Park, 15-48.

Once again, Polkinghorne led the Warriors, now 6-0 overall and 5-0 in the Metro, with a first-place clocking of 16:42.

Other Warriors in the top 10 included Patterson, second (17:21); Collins, third (17:49); Burk, fourth (18:10); Ekdendick, fifth (18:14); Schmoll, seventh (18:34); and Phil Kimmel, eighth (18:40).

CC's Leo 1st

Redford Catholic Central, propelled by individual champion Joe Leo, placed second in Saturday's 12-team Sturgis Invitational.

The Shamrocks had 60 points to finish behind champion Traverse City, which had 37.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Six years ago, Mike Muscat got a second chance at life.

Two weeks ago, the Livonia resident enjoyed the "thrill of a lifetime" when he shot his very first Michigan black bear.

Muscat, an eight-year veteran of the Westland fire department, was comatose for six days back in 1988 after suffering a bad case of carbon monoxide poisoning.

"I was deer hunting at my dad's cabin in Casewille," explained Muscat. "Someone had put window screening instead of chicken wire over the chimney to keep raccoons and birds out. The window screen just got plugged up and the carbon monoxide backed up into the trailer."

After Muscat's father failed to hear from his son, he called some friends that were also hunting in the area and they found Muscat in the trailer. He had been there alone for nearly two days.

The prognosis wasn't good. Muscat lay in a coma for six days. When he finally regained consciousness, doctors didn't believe he'd ever walk or see again.

"I was walking six hours later and my sight came right back. I was very fortunate. It didn't slow me down at all," he said. "Now I live every day to its fullest."

First bear hunt

BILL PARKER Staff Photographer

Black bear: Livonia's Mike Muscat shot his first Michigan black bear, a 187-pound bruin, on a recent hunting trip in Upper Peninsula.

Westland firefighter Dennis Marshall.

Hunting behind bear hounds in the Upper Peninsula's Houghton County with fellow members of the Michigan Bear Hunter's Association, Muscat and Marshall found themselves in a four-hour chase on the final day of a seven-day hunt.

"This was the thrill of a lifetime," Muscat said. "Your adrenaline is pumping all day long and it takes everyone's cooperation. The expertise of these ladies and gentlemen is just phenomenal. They really know what they're doing. And you have to give credit to the hounds; they do it all. The dogs are just fantastic."

"On this particular chase the hounds did their job. Starting out on a set of fresh tracks around 8:30 a.m., two hounds and two hunters followed the "cold" trail through steep ridges and hardwoods for more than a mile before jumping the bruin.

"We were in the chase most of the way," said Muscat. "The best part is learning to listen to the dogs and tell if they're trailing the bear, if they've jumped him or if they're catching him."

The hounds finally treed the bear and Muscat filled his tag with a 187-pound boar around 12:30 in the afternoon.

"I'm still shaking," Muscat said, two hours later when he returned to camp. "You can hunt (bear) over bait if you want to, but this is the way to do it as far as I'm concerned."

"My hobby is hunting," added the 29-year-old, who took a 210-pound doe (dressed weight) with his bow and arrow last year. "I don't golf or bowl but I love to hunt and this was the thrill of a lifetime. It's nice to bring something home, but the real thrill is just having the opportunity to participate in the hunt. I can't wait 'till next year."

It didn't take Troy bowhunter Mike Wills long to put some venison in his freezer.

Hunting from a tree blind in Alger County, Wills braved steady rainfall on Saturday, Oct. 8, before shooting a 120-pound, 3-point buck with his compound bow.

Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mi. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker at (810) 901-2573.

Crusaders bank on Fisher

VOLLEYBALL

With such an abundance of experience returning from a team that finished fifth in the nation at last year's NAIA Volleyball Tournament, it's easy to understand why Madonna University coach Jerry Abraham anticipated something different from his team this season.

Not necessarily better than last year's squad, but not like this, either.

"We're playing brilliant at times," said Abraham — then he added, "But at the end of games we're not putting teams away."

"Our play is still a bit inconsistent."

And that puzzles him. A team that has accomplished as much as this one should not be riding the roller coaster competition. Abraham admits part of the problem has been adjusting to Laura Fisher (from Wayne Memorial) at setter, a replacement for longtime starter Mazie Pilot.

"It's coming," the Madonna coach said. "It's just taking a long time to do it."

He had nothing but praise for Fisher, who collected 163 assists-to-kills in seven matches (10 games) played last weekend at the Power Challenge Tournament at St. Edward's University in Austin, Texas. That's an average of 10.2 assists per game.

"She's getting better and better and better," said Abraham. "She's coming. I'm really happy with her progress."

And yet Madonna continues to struggle. They were 4-3 at the Power Challenge, defeating Howard Payne (Texas) College 15-5, 15-13; Mary Hardin Baylor (Texas) College 15-4, 15-7; and Dallas Baptist College 15-12, 15-2, all on Friday.

But on Saturday, the Lady Crusaders managed just one win in four matches. They lost to the host team, St. Edward's, 15-7, 15-8; to St. Mary's (Texas) College, 15-13, 15-13; and to Houston Baptist College 13-15, 17-15, 15-7. Madonna defeated Incarnate Word (Texas) 13-15, 15-2, 15-12, Saturday.

St. Edward's is currently ranked 15th in the NAIA, and St. Mary's, which won the tournament, is ranked eighth.

"Our schedule's been tough, but that's not the problem," said Abraham. "We haven't been able to terminate our opponents."

Which is why a team ranked in the top 10 in the preseason has fallen out of the rankings all together with an 18-9 record.

Still, all the ingredients are there. Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson), a 6-foot-2 sophomore middle hitter, was named NAIA Great Lakes Sectional player of the week for her performance last week. Martin had 57 kills at the tournament; she averaged 4.3 per game for the week, with a .459 kill average. She also had 2.4 blocks per game.

Other major contributors in the tournament: Kelly McCausland (Redford Union), 61 kills, 48 digs; Mo Paulin (Livonia/Farmington Hills Mercy), 71 digs, 44 kills; Julie Wood, 55 digs, 20 kills.

Regaining some of his team's lost respect is, at present, the least of Abraham's worries. "We've hurt ourselves in the national rankings," he said, adding, "but from here on out, it gets tougher and tougher and tougher."

Which is what the Crusaders are going to have to be.

They started along that path with a straight-set win over the University of Windsor 15-3, 15-7, 15-5 Tuesday at Madonna. Martin's 14 kills led the attack; Paulin had 12 and 13 digs; Marcie Laurencelle and Erin Coimment each had seven (Laurencelle also had five digs), and Wood had four. Erin Gregoire had seven digs and Vicki Toth (RU) collected five.

McCausland missed the match due to a strained rotator cuff. She's questionable for Friday's homecourt match against highly-regarded Oakland University, one of the top teams in the NCAA II's Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. That match starts at 7 p.m.

Ocelots beat Mott

The improvement of Schoolcraft College's volleyball team was evident Tuesday, when the Lady Ocelots hosted Mott College of Flint, a team that had defeated them only a few weeks ago.

Not this time — the Ocelots won easily, 15-11, 15-3, 15-5.

SC got a solid all-around effort as it improved to 19-12-3 overall, 5-2 in the Eastern Conference. The attack was led by Julie Campau (from Livonia Churchhill), with 20 kills (a .400 kill average), and Shannon Gottschalk, with 16 kills (.444). Gottschalk also had 13 digs.

Other contributors were Jannel Henmie (Livonia Ladywood) with 11 digs, Michelle Hale with four service aces, Vicki Rohraff with three kills (.222) and Janet Zabinik (Plymouth Canton) with 40 assists-to-kills.

"It was a good match for us," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "It'll help get us ready for the tough Illinois Central Community College Tournament this weekend."

"The key now is to move the ball around, to get more people involved."

The ICCCTournament will feature six teams: SC, ICC, Johnson, Belleville, Parkland and Jefferson. Belleville, ICC and Jefferson are ranked among the NJCAA's top 15.

12 alternatives to lashing out at your child.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out - STOP! And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: Is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
6. Phone a friend.
7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
9. Hug a pillow.
10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
12. Write for parenting information: Parenting, Box 2866, Chicago, IL 60690.

Stop using words that hurt. Start using words that help.

National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse

Say cheese: Tony Rushlow and Greg Moore flash a smile while working a banner the children and their buddies made at Camp Phoenix.

Camp Phoenix helps kids cope with their losses

They swam; they hiked; they went on nature walks; they had campfires. They talked; they shared, but more importantly they worked to understand the grief that each one of them is experiencing.

All of the 23 children who attended the Camp Phoenix Children's Bereavement Camp weekend, sponsored by Community Hospice Services, had lost someone they loved.

They are typical children except that they carry an extra burden. They are children like Greg, Erin, and Emily Moore of Livonia, ages 10, 8 and 5 respectively, who lost their father, Terry, in May to a brain tumor. They were like Angela and Mary Frances Tablae, ages 9 and 5, of Livonia, who lost their mother, Marie, to breast cancer in June.

"I used to think that I was the only person in the world that had a dad die, but I knew it wasn't true, and I didn't tell anybody I talked to," Erin said.

Camp Phoenix helped the children look at the memories that have brought them both joy and pain and realize that they can grow, change and honor their loved ones while going on with their lives.

The children were placed in small groups according to their ages. Each group was led by a trained facilitator, and each child had an adult buddy, who was there for whenever they were needed. The camp offered a safe, shared environment in which the children were free to express their feelings.

"From the first session, the kids did extremely well as far as expressing their feelings and thoughts about what had happened and what was going on in their families," said Allison Bungardas, a group facilitator. "I just let the kids know that it was all right to feel what they were feeling and that they did not have to go any farther with it than what they were comfortable with."

"Camp Phoenix helped me express my feeling to other kids who lost their close friends or family," said Angela, who admitted that she had felt different "because everybody else had a mom and I didn't have one."

The children also learned the value of teamwork and how support systems work. Each child had an opportunity to take part in a high-ropes (approximately 20 feet off the ground) course or a low-ropes course. Some of the children, like Greg, fared better on the high ropes than some of the adults.

"Greg and some of the others really got me going on the course," said Bungardas. "I was supposed to be the strong figure up there, encouraging them on, but before I knew it, I was hugging a tree and the kids were encouraging me to do the course."

The weekend experience was capped with a private memorial service consisting of readings, songs and certificates presented by their adult buddy. The children wrote special messages to their loved ones on cardboard hearts, attached a candle and floated them out on the lake.

"It was an enriching, rewarding, major growth experience," said Bungardas. "I would definitely do this again." Bungardas is a full-time registered nurse for Community Hospice Services and, like the other facilitators, volunteered to work with the children.

"The kids in my group showed a wisdom beyond the age of 8, 9, 10 and 11. They showed an understanding that I don't see in a lot of adults when faced with a loss of somebody close," she said. "You can't meet these kids and walk away unaffected. You don't think that it is going to affect you, but it touches you deep down to your inner core."

The friendships which developed from Camp Phoenix will have a chance to be rekindled in six months, when Community Hospice Services will bring the children and the facilitators together for a pizza party reunion.

"Camp Phoenix was a dream come true for me. As a child, I lost my father and I remember well the isolation, confusion and loneliness I felt," said Maureen Butrico, executive director of Community Hospice Services. "I want other children who faced the same terrible grief to know they are not alone; there are other children who understand and can share what they are going through."

Community Hospice Services, with offices in Westland and Plymouth, is committed to serving the families in western Wayne, eastern Washtenaw and southern Oakland counties. For more information, call (313) 522-4244.

Some notable events coming up for readers

Some especially notable events coming up for area readers: At the Baldwin Public Library in Birmingham, the U.P.'s Sue Harrison will read from her works at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 25. The Library is at 300 W. Merrill. Harrison's debut novel, "Mother Earth Father Sky," set in Ice Age North America, gained rave reviews on its publication in 1990. She also received media attention at the time for the whopping $500,000 advance she reportedly was paid, practically an unheard-of sum for a first-time novelist. She has since written "My Sister The Moon" and (coming out this month) "Brother Wind," the second and third parts of a trilogy which traces the migration of a group of Native Americans from the Aleutian Islands, and eventually to upper Michigan.

Award-winning author, E. Annie Proulx, will make an appearance at the Birmingham Community House (across from the Library) at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 10. Her well-wrought novel, "Shipping News," set in Newfoundland and containing myriad stories-within-stories and peopled with utterly unforgettable characters, won her both the Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award.

Both visits are part of the ongoing Writers Live at the Library series. For further details, call the Library at (810) 647-1700.

To celebrate Book Lovers Day, Paperbacks 'N Things, 8014 Wayne Road, Westland will host a signing party, with numerous area writers on hand to autograph their latest books. Festivities are planned for 2-4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 5. Among those slated for an appearance are romance novelists Shelly Thacker of Redford ("A Stranger's Kiss"), Ruth Ryan Langan of Farmington Hills ("Deception"), Marian Edwards of Livonia ("A Year and a Day"), and Linda Lang Bartell of Troy ("Tender Rogue"). Free refreshments will be part of the fun.

The event will also be held in connection with Independent Bookstore Week, says Paperbacks 'N Things owner, Joan Adis.

Obviously, most books on the shelves at this independent bookstore are softcover. Hardbound bestsellers are available, however, through rental. Paperbacks 'N Things also provides another unique service for shut-ins and customers who can't make it into the store: they deliver.

Why not make plans now to drop in at Livonia's unique bookstore, Murder, Mystery, and Mayhem (33623 Seven Mile, just west of Farmington Road) at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, when popular mystery novelist, Rochelle Majer Krich, will be on hand to meet readers and sign copies of her latest Jessica-Drake whodunit, "Angel of Death." (Krich will visit the Jewish Book Fair earlier in the day at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield.) While you're getting acquainted with the author and the cozy bookshop, help yourself to coffee, cakes, and cookies. They'll be on the house, according to owner, Jeanette Brown.

ANTIQUING:

nostalgic tour through history

Everybody's doing it. Antiquing, that is. The trend is to search out shops featuring antiques and collectibles that recall earlier times, times when the world seemed a little friendlier, a little more fun.

Linda Chomin, staff writer

Antiquing is growing in popularity. Spending the day in search of treasures from the past is fast becoming a pastime more and more people are choosing to enjoy.

In addition to the pleasures of browsing, home decorating, gift giving and collecting rank as major reasons for visiting antique and collectible shops.

As the population ages and Baby Boomers go gray, buying antiques has become a way of the future changing the market. Items popular today were unheard of 10 years ago.

Somewhere in Time offers the unusual. The Westland antique and collectibles shop is cozy, the service personalized. Originally located in Plymouth's Old Village area 11 years ago, the antique line varies from glassware and china to toys and a well-worn 1760s brass fertility statue from Indonesia. Furniture from the late 1800s to 1940s, oils, lithographs and prints, an early 20th century Sicilian horse and buggy hand-carved and painted, an old barber chair and pole, and an early Aztec carved stone figure are also found among the antiques and collectibles.

Plymouth, Westland, Redford, Livonia, Northville, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Dearborn and Ann Arbor as well. Canton Township Supervisor Thomas Yack and Canton Township Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter hope to put Canton on the map as far as the fine arts go, with this show. Rene Tackington's reflective painting of apples, winner of last year's President's Award, serves as the commemorative poster for this year's show. It is available at the Canton

Nostalgic trend

"There's a trend to old toys and games and trains. It's more a collectible type of item from a nostalgic childhood," said co-owner Nancy Dzbanski of Garden City.

"The antiques market has changed. Even the price guides are dropping items and adding collectibles like G.I. Joe, Barbie dolls and Star Wars memorabilia."

Dzbanski sees other trends in antique buying as well, some related to location, others to the current craft craze.

"There's a trend because of the area to collect Ford Motor Co. badges and related memorabilia. Old advertising is really hot, Coca-Cola related items," said Dzbanski whose most unusual request from a customer was for a glass eye.

"I happen to be an antique button collector. Some women use them in their crafts."

The economy and time of the year also affects buying trends in the antique business. Dzbanski, who's reviving her autograph collection after recently selling her postmortem photograph collection to buy an Amelia Earhart autograph, said business has been slow lately but expects it to pick up with the approaching holidays.

"It's the money crunch. They're unsure of their jobs whether they will be there tomorrow. Everybody's watching their pennies."

Business booming

"At Memory Lane Antiques on Main Street in Plymouth business is booming. The theme of the 3,400-square-foot shop is home furnishings. Owner Debra Eaves, who sees Plymouth as the Royal Oak of the South, stocks a wide array of merchandise for decorating needs. An eight and one-half foot tall Victorian organ by Story & Clark ornately carved on both sides could be used as a room divider. A Gothic Victorian carved walnut side chair, Art Nouveau and deco lamps, turn-of-the-century red velvet fainting couch, and a Herschell-Spiffman hand-carved carousel horse on a brass stand would add spice to just about any room.

"We're moving towards a life-style store based around Victorian and turn-of-the-century," said Eaves of Northville.

"There's a Victorian trend, a revival to when things were beautifully made, than just functional. People are mixing periods and they're using them as accent pieces, an eye catcher."

Time of year, however, does factor into buying trends at the antique shop housed in a 100 year old building.

"We sell a lot of hand-painted China. For entertaining around the holidays people buy individual pieces to display as accent pieces with their dinnerware. There is a touch of nostalgia happening. People remember seeing something at their grandma's house, now it's gone with the wind and they want a piece similar to bring back the memories."

Antique mesh purses along with gloves, hat pins and button hooks displayed in shadow boxes are also popular now for home decorating.

Season for collectors

"This is the big season for collectibles. If somebody collects nutcrackers, china, or glassware now is the time to look for Christmas gifts."

Dora Sabatini of Now 'N' Then/Dora's Place in Livonia agrees with Eaves on the cycle of buying being tied to the time of the year. Before Sweetest Day Oct. 15 she sold cups and saucers, antique jewelry like cameos, crystal, china and glassware for giving as gifts.

"Everybody does it a little bit, collecting that it is. Some people collect bells or bronze, or cups and saucers or art pottery. Plus it adds history, or if they're decorating a contemporary home they add an antique to warm the home," said Sabatini of Livonia.

"Buying trends change during the time of year. Sterling is popular during the holidays. They're entertaining. In spring, it's pottery because they're bringing the plants out."

"People like things that we grew up with from the 40s and 50s. We reflect back, and most antiques are a good investment. An antique will maintain its value."

Antiques in Old Village

In the 1800s, Plymouth's Old Village shops housed a collection of dry goods, groceries and general merchandise. Today, an eclectic array of antique businesses, both traditional and trendy, line the historic Liberty Street between Starkweather and North Mill. Strown up the wooden floorboards you'll find Art Deco pieces such as lamps and Louis leart prints next to wash basins, Oriental rugs and black wrought-iron bells.

M. Hubert & Co., which moved from a Forest Avenue location in downtown Plymouth to Liberty Street five months ago, specializes in art glass and pottery, fine art, Tiffany, Rookwood, pocket watches, and smaller furniture pieces. They also have a nice selection of balancing scales, rugs, and art deco lamps.

Across the street at the Plymouth Antique Mall is an antique and collectible shop aimed at men. Shark jaws, hunting and fishing items, and war related memorabilia are big sellers, here. "We're more male oriented with things from the Indian wars, Civil War, Old West photos, and military and World War I," said Roger Smart, one of eight dealers in the mall owned by Paul Kalk.

"Delay BB guns sell well because of the old plant that moved out in the 1950s played a big part in Plymouth's history."

Next door is Pritchard Antiques, and few doors further down, Upstairs, Downstairs Antiques, which has been in the same location for 23 years. Here, you'll find a large assortment of collectibles including glass, dishes and kitchen items.

If mall style shopping is your forte, don't miss Town & Country Antiques Mall, and Countryside Crafts Mall & Antiques, both on Plymouth Road in Livonia.

Van Dusen began painting seriously after retiring from a 40 year career in commercial art in 1985. He took art classes at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association studying under Redford Township sculptor, Sergio De Giusti in addition to Marie Larson, Susan Mulcahy, Joyce Nagle and Leslie Masters. In 1990, 1992 and again this past June he has joined Masters' painting and sketching groups in Paris, Giverny, Provence and Auvers, France. Until recently he had executed final works in pastel but has combined it with acrylics now.

the large scale works, many set against white backgrounds.

"I paint three subjects... migrant workers, women and Indian people. I try to make a statement about their life-style, their struggle, their pain," said Mendoza.

The first of the women paintings, begun during a tumultuous period of her life, were a form of healing. A black-haired Indian woman clad in a serape seems as if in a painful struggle. Works not to be missed are "Mother and Earth" and "Mujer con Serape." In each wind-swept strokes of color, many of them, earth-toned, endow the Rubenesque female figure with energy and life. Woman and landscape become one.

Sensitivity praised

"One of the overriding qualities is the extreme sensitivity these paintings exhibit," said art department chairman, Ralph F. Glenn.

"In many, Nora mixes the figure with landscape. They have a painterly secret that's revealed to the viewer, a tribute to femininity."

Mendoza, speaking to a group of art students from the university before the opening reception, led a tour through the exhibit stopping to discuss the creative process and meaning behind each painting -- from the Serape series, a woman trying to find her identity, the torn shawl signifies poverty. Further on, another woman shows signs of physical and emotional abuse. Still further on, a woman showing much distress.

"The work reflects what I am, what I feel," said the painter with more than 60 years of life experiences.

"A lot of my inspiration comes from my travels to third world countries, the issues and struggles of the people and my affiliation with an intertribal group, Kanto de la Tierra and the Intertribal Council of Indians of North America," said the 1991 recipient of the Wayne County Artistic Excellence and Community Commitment Award.

A Chicana Indian, Mendoza uses her work to speak proudly not only of heritage, but the trials and tribulations of Indians worldwide.

As an artist active within the community, she has won many awards including the University of Michigan's Award of Artistic Excellence; Eastern Michigan University's Prominent Latina Award; a certificate of achievement for Casa De Unidad's bardo muralist project in Southwest Detroit; State of Michigan on Spanish Speaking Affairs Certificate of Leadership and Achievement; Michigan Women's Foundation, Women in the Arts; The Michigan 150 First Lady Award, and New Detroit's Latino Caucus Award.

She first became interested in painting at age 14 when her father brought home a canvas and pigments for her to copy a picture. Two years later, she was illustrating looks. She set aside her paints for many years to create a son and daughter she refers to as her two masterpieces.

Mendoza's work is in the collections of Detroit Mayor, Dennis Archer; Aretha Franklin; Ford Motor Co. in Rockefeller Plaza, New York City and World Headquarters, Dearborn, and the late Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers of America (AFL-CIO) National Headquarters, to name a few.

"I'm involved with human rights and injustices of migrant workers. My intention is to bring attention to the people's struggles."

Eight smaller paintings in gray and sepia tones from Mendoza's Migrant Worker series tell a story of faceless peasants in the Midwest breaking their backs to work the crops in order to eat and survive. Their shack-like homes bear wheels to follow the succession of crops. Initially begun in 1985, 12 of the paintings were illustrations for a book focusing on migrant workers, "Al Norte," or to the North. Forty of the paintings will be exhibited Nov. 15 to Feb. 3, 1995 at the George Meany Memorial Archives in Washington, D.C.

She knows what she paints

Mendoza grew up four miles from the U.S.-Mexican border in Weslaco, Texas. She knows these images first-hand. Her aunts and uncles took her with them to the field to pick cotton. Mendoza tells of a tool since outlawed which required workers to remain bent over at all times because of its short handle.

"The house had wheels so it could move from crop to crop. Conditions for the migrant workers are not much better than in 1920. They live under inhuman conditions. I wanted people to have a better understanding of migrant workers so they'll have a better understanding, they're human beings."

Exhibition hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Energy: The use of energetic lines give movement or motion to her subjects. Wind-swept strokes of color endow the Rubenesque female figure with energy and life.

30-Year 4Max ARM

Typical APR (annual percentage rate) includes interest on loan and other fees and is based on a $100,000 loan with an 80% loan-to-value ratio. The APR may increase after closing interest rates and terms are subject to change at any time without notice.

Most adjustable rate mortgages can jump 6% over the life of the loan. Ouch. Not the case with our 4Max ARM, which can jump no more than 4%. And as a homeowner, you'll save money with lower monthly payments the first year. Ahh, much better.

Annalee

She releases tension by painting

It helps relieve stress and tension and it's exciting because I never know how it's going to turn out.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

The Livonia Arts Commission continues monthly exhibits with watercolors by Annalee through Oct. 28 in the showcases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Five Mile just east of Farmington Road.

Annalee

Framed paintings, notecards and mugs bearing reproductions of the Northville resident's tragnery, and macramé and bead necklaces are reasonably priced for gift giving in time for the approaching holidays.

"As soon as I saw her work I realized that she was very talented. I liked her choice of color as well as subject matter and she's very versatile," said arts commissioner Lee Alanskas, who books the monthly displays in the showcases.

A hot air balloon adrift in a violet and strawberry sky, a lighthouse in shades of purple, and butterflies in shades of brown evolve from the soft, Oriental style of painting that Annalee admires. A serious painter since 1991, she enjoys the actual physical process of painting.

"It helps relieve stress and tension and it's exciting because I never know how it's going to turn out," said Annalee, office manager for Counseling Alternatives, a mental health clinic in Livonia.

"I recently took an art therapy class at Wayne State University and would like to pursue a master's degree in it."

Annalee, a graduate of Heidelberg College in Ohio, began painting studies in the 1970s with Mary Ann Beltz and Caroline Dunphy. A member of the Ann Arbor Women Painters, she also owns a part-time business, Annalee Associates, which specializes in specialty advertising. She has designed mugs, T-shirts, and pens for a Ford Motor Co. safety program and the Northville Chamber of Commerce as well as for banks and small manufacturing companies.

The 53-year-old painter has displayed her watercolors at the Northville Art Show, now part of the Victorian Festival; in a one-person show sponsored by the Southfield Parks and Recreation Department, Cultural Arts Division; and at the Island House Restaurant, Lions Den Gallery, and Popeye's Gift Shop in Kelley's Island, Ohio.

Hours for the Livonia Civic Center Library exhibit are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Nature's fragility: Annalee captures this delicate butterfly in a primitive style.

LET'S MAKE A DEAL

Cadillac Motors said it has teamed with the National Association of Realtors to provide members with special purchase or lease terms.

Realtors make their best deal with a Cadillac dealer, then receive a $600 coupon toward the purchase or lease of a new Cadillac, or receive 6,000 additional miles during the contract period of a GMAC Smart Lease.

Cadillac said it's making the offer to NAR members because they are loyal Cadillac buyers who are important to the automaker's success.

"The demographics of NAR members, along with the nature of their profession, are a perfect match for buyers of all our models, but especially our large luxury sedans," said Peter Gerosa, Cadillac general sales and service manager.

The winner of a sweepstakes to be held at the National Association of Realtors convention in Anaheim, Calif., in November wins a 1995 DeVille Concours.

NAR is the nation's largest professional association. It has 750,000 members in 50 states and Guam, Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

High-tech Realtors not office-bound

By JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER, SPECIAL WRITER

Carol Boji of Farmington Hills knows first-hand it's a lot easier nowadays for working mothers to have successful real-estate careers and still attend T-ball games.

Boji, broker/owner of Network Real Estate at 31500 W. 13 Mile in Farmington Hills, earned a real estate license 10 years ago when her sons were age 3 and 1—but it wasn't easy.

"It was hectic, no question about it," said Boji, who sold real estate, ran a West Bloomfield party store with her husband and shuttled one child to preschool. Her rigorous schedule lasted six months.

In 1984, she became a full-time agent for the now-closed Heppard & Associates in Farmington Hills. But even with a lighter workload, Boji says she spent most of her time in the office looking through multiple listing books or in the car picking up the children. She went through several baby sitters before finding a competent nanny.

Today, thanks to personal computers and modems that link Realtor-subscribers to the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) mainframe, agents like Boji are no longer office-bound. In fact, many who own personal desktop or laptop computers do most of their research at home.

"Agents in large offices that have only a couple of computers are on a waiting list to access the MLS files. Spending less time in the office means more time to service clients," said Boji, whose real-estate sales volume for January through July was around $5 million.

Network Real Estate's 10 agents work mostly at home, using the broker's office for client meetings and closings. Each agent has his or her own pager and voice mail. The broker supplies full-time clerical support in the office.

Network recently moved into larger quarters to accommodate up to 100 licensed agents, who'll train in the office with Boji before setting up at home.

Working this way is a win-win situation for the broker and the agent. The broker pays less to run the office and agents pay lower broker fees because they supply their primary office, computer, telephone, fax and other services.

Home-based real estate also is becoming a national trend, says Dan Dressman, Michigan Association of Realtors executive vice president.

"Realtors will be spending less time in their cars and offices because most of their work can be done electronically. Most of the technology that Realtors need to work at home has been created—now we have to determine the applications," said Dressman.

Besides retrieving MLS data from their homes, many agents use supplemental programs to do loan amortizations, color brochures, comparative marketing analysis and client follow-ups. The Land Data program provides tax information and legal property descriptions from county records.

"Clients who know I have this capability at home call me at night when they're not rushed and I'm not rushed," said Deborah Goldberg of Farmington, an associate broker for Network.

Goldberg's home set-up was a blessing this year after a fall left her house-bound for four months. She wasn't able to show homes, but she listed and sold property from her home by faxing information to her broker's office.

"What's happening in real estate reflects our changing lifestyle. Ten years ago, you had to drive across town with an offer and today you can fax it," she said.

Avoid small-claims courts; press for tree upkeep

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. One of our board members wants to go to small-claims court to collect a delinquency that has been outstanding for several months. Other board members say it's not a good idea because the judge is unsympathetic to condominiums.

A. My general recommendation to condominium associations that I represent is to refrain from going to small-claims court for a number of reasons, among them: the association gives up its right to pursue its lien for nonpayment of assessments, which could result in a forced sale of the unit; a decision of the small-claims court is not appealable; the rules of evidence are suspended; and by the nature of the court, it is not likely attorney fees will be awarded against the delinquent co-owner, since an attorney normally is not present in small-claims court.

You are well advised to exercise all of your remedies, which will normally result in a circuit court proceeding.

Q. Various trees in our condominium are overgrown and need pruning. The board of directors is not prepared to take action to maintain these trees, and I'm afraid they will die or otherwise uproot some of the common elements, including sidewalks and driveways.

A. Point out to the board that its failure to take care of the trees may not only create an environmental problem, but also may undermine the common elements of the condominium, literally and figuratively, which could result in an unnecessary expenditure for the association, which translates into mismanagement on the part of the association's board of directors.

I would write a letter to each association board member, pointing out that unless immediate action is taken, this will be a matter for discussion at the annual meeting. If your letter results in no action being taken, I would consult with an attorney.

Q. Let's assume the Tigers build a new stadium. Is it possible for them to sell condominium units, perhaps as private suites, within the confines of the stadium? Would it make any sense for a purchaser to buy a condominium unit in a stadium?

A. Any cubicle of space can be "condominiumized," and that would presumably include a suite in a ballpark. Whether or not a ballpark owner would want to sell condominium units in the park itself as suites is debatable because the stadium owner may not want to relinquish control of the suite area to anyone on a permanent basis.

The idea is somewhat ingenious and has been used at stadiums to the extent of selling parking spaces for a period of years. A condominium can be established in a commercial setting even though the surrounding areas of the office building are not condominiumized. That would, of course, apply to a stadium.

Sinclair: This ranch at Fairgrove Manor features the master suite at one end, the other bedrooms at the opposite end.

But it doesn't look like a condo

A builder who hadn't done a substantial residential development for many years but never lost his love for the work appears to have a winner with a project in Rochester Hills. The land is beautiful, the models attractive.

Fairgrove Manor off Auburn Road east of Adams - with individual stand-alone units, winding streets and cul-de-sacs, a sizeable pond and plenty of woods and wetlands on the 37-acre site - doesn't look like a condominium community.

But it is, and those factors are exactly what contribute to its charm. "People come in and I hear it all the time, 'Does that look big, it feels big, I had no idea, it's so open,'" said Michael Furnari, developer/builder. "It has nice curb-side appeal, nice high roof lines."

Half of the 79 lots in the subdivision have sold.

All five basic ranch floor plans feature a master bedroom suite, a second bedroom and a third bedroom/den option. Size varies from 1,665 square feet to 2,100 square feet, price from $167,900 to $184,900.

Standard features on all models include attached, two-car garage, first floor laundry, fireplace, full basement, landscaping and range and dishwasher in the kitchen.

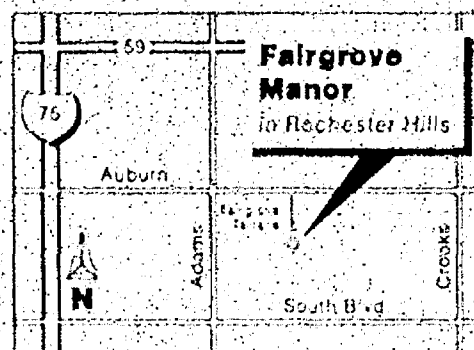

All of the models contain at least one vaulted ceiling.

Options include air conditioning, decks/screened porches and finished basements.

Exteriors are mostly wood siding with brick or stone accents.

"We find the majority coming in are in their late 40s, early 50s, downsizing from the north end of Rochester, the north end of Troy," Furnari said. "The kids are out of high school, out of college or ending college."

"These people combined are probably making 60, 70, 80 grand

Fitness: good business sense

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

It makes good business sense for companies to be physically fit as well as fiscally sound. In fact, the one often leads to the other.

That's the thinking of the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness, Health and Sports, and, specifically, the subcommittee on physical fitness in business.

"Our main focus is to increase awareness of good health and, hopefully, the awareness of what's available so business can become more active in supporting their employees in those areas," said Molly Brennan.

Brennan, a Farmington Hills resident, a General Motors engineer in Troy, a former All American runner at Michigan State University and a Rhodes Scholar, chairs the Fairgrove Manor, said Beverly Furnari, Michael's business partner and wife. "We have a really nice blend of people in here," she said.

Part of what inspires confidence of current residents and potential buyers is that she or Michael often is on the premises, Beverly added. "There's a comfort level because they see us here. We're here every day."

Two of the couple's grown children have bought in Fairgrove Manor, which may be the biggest vote of confidence of all. "They're the hardest to build for. They're picky," Beverly said.

The model/sales office on site, the Sinclair, is one of the most popular floor plans at 2,100 square feet and $181,900.

The master suite, with walk-in closet, cathedral ceiling, separate tub and shower and double-sink vanity is at one end of the house. The other two bedrooms or bedroom and den/sitting room/TV room with a full bath are at the other end.

The great room and kitchen/eating nooks also have cathedral ceilings. A two-way fireplace angles into the great room and a hearth room adjacent to the kitchen/nook. The condo also has a formal dining room and butler's pantry.

"It's a wonderful home for entertaining," Beverly said.

Fairgrove Manor is the Furnari's second major residential subdivision building effort. They did Hidden Ridge in Troy in 1989, but switched to commercial when the economy soured.

Commercial credits include Peachwood Inn, a convalescent center in Rochester Hills, and currently, subcontracting work at the Veterans Administration Hospital under construction in Detroit.

But they never abandoned residential, building a handful of houses from time to time in the Bloomfield and Rochester areas. Their Cambridge model, available at Fairgrove Manor, won a Parade of Homes Award several years ago.

"Residential is always where my heart has been," Michael said. "I enjoy dealing with people. We have five plans here . . . but we do a lot of customizing."

Fairgrove Manor is in the Avondale School District. The property tax rate for city, school and county services is about $32 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value.

That means the owner of a $182,000 condo in the subdivision would pay about $2,900 annually in property taxes.

The sub is serviced by city water and sewers.

A $110 monthly maintenance fee includes exterior maintenance, snow removal, garbage collection, and lawn services.

Joanna and Herschell Masten have lived in a Sinclair for about a year.

"What attracted us was condo living detached — no common walls," Joanna said. "We basically chose the Sinclair because of the openness. We have a walk-out in ours and have a complete entertainment center downstairs."

"There's a place to enjoy nature in every point in the house," she said of the ravine-like setting. "I love the whole privacy thing. It's like your suite is over there, our suite is on the other side of the house and we'll see you in the morning."

The model/sales office at Fairgrove Manor (810) 852-6080 is open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays.

Myrna Partrich, co-owner of the Workout Co. in Bloomfield Hills, a resident of that community, a member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and a columnist for the Observer & Eccentric, also serves on the subcommittee.

Following are edited excerpts from a recent interview.

What are your major goals?

Brennan: We can't force business to do anything. Mainly, it's to raise awareness. We're not into implementing programs.

We focused on a pilot group, 10 small businesses.

We pulled together information available, the Heart at Work packet, the Rockport walking bro-

chure, grants on public health for screening programs, paycheck stuffers, newsletters on what they should be eating, smoking cessation, some help lines.

Partrich: What we're saying is if you do a little here and a little there, you'll inch your way along. We don't want to turn anyone away. What we see is if you give people too large a goal, people get scared, turned off rather than turned on.

What did you find with the pilot group?

Brennan: We had a mix. Companies tending to have financial problems tended to drop out.

Partrich: Common threads that made all work — a person at the helm, a human resources person, took an interest. Promotion within the company, not just a write up or advertising. Aggressively pulling people in.

Why is it in the best interest of employers to have healthy employees?

Brennan: People who are self-insured are finding it can lower health-care costs. People who are active have less absenteeism. That's a direct link.

Companies are interested in keeping people around. More people die from a sedentary lifestyle than infections, motor vehicle accidents and drug use combined.

Partrich: Building spirit shows that the employer cares about them. In general, happier employees are more productive employees.

Brennan: People who work with union sources, it's a common thread. It bridges a gap.

What is your general impression of fitness in the workplace?

Brennan: I think it's unhealthy as a whole. We're making inroads on no smoking. Cafeteria food, for the most part, isn't healthy. A lot of meetings, it's donuts.

Partrich: Strength and flexibility exercises right at the desk if necessary. Companies have put walking paths around the building.

Brennan: They think they have to go the whole nine yards. Simple things can have a very dramatic effect on one's health. Take steps instead of elevators. Walk instead of use the telephone. Talk to vending people to put in healthier food.

What can we do to get people out of the cafeteria? That's where you get into walking trails. Around GM there's a lot of horse-shoe pits.

benefits are greater. Anything helps. It's cumulative.

Brennan: Institute a buddy system. It's amazing how that can keep people going. A lot of programs allow employees to bring in their spouses.

Partrich: Not just spouses, but the whole family. We're recognizing that the family unit is important.

What's the plan?

Brennan: The governor's council isn't able to reach all people in Michigan.

If we can establish regional councils . . . business, schools and individuals . . . not only will we get the personal contact, but, hopefully, get resources together.

How many regional councils we have in a year or two will be a good barometer.

EMORY DANIELS

O&E ONLINE
For many years a popular activity on bulletin boards and on-line services has been to download software. The appeal is probably stronger on the Internet because there are thousands of more software (binary files) available for the taking. Although the software is free, it is not available at no cost. The cost sometimes is great personal effort and almost always in attention to detail. Because there's a lot involved in getting free software from the Internet, and I don't know how much knowledge you have, we will spend the next two or three columns on this task. First you should know there are two types of software available: freeware and shareware. Freeware is entirely free with no expectations from the taker. The shareware author does expect a registration fee will be paid. Shareware is made available free to try it out and then the user is asked to register and pay a fee, usually $10-$30. Those who pay the fee will receive documentation on how to use the software and will receive notices of upgrades. Those who don't pay or register will not go directly to jail. Shareware authors know many users won't register and pay a fee. Shareware is offered because it's an inexpensive marketing approach — no packaging, no mailing costs, no advertising, etc. Registration and payment becomes an ethical question but there are no practical consequences. We all must remember that software when sent from one modem to another is first compressed. Compressed files take up less memory space at the host bulletin board or Internet site offering you the software. Compressed software also travels through phone lines much faster which allows you to stay awake while the transfer is completed. And so almost every software you attempt to transfer to your PC will be compressed. Once you download the software, you must uncompress the file before it can be used. Fortunately, there is free software that can be used to compress and uncompress files. A favorite DOS compression utility is PKUNZIP, so popular it has created a computerese vernacular of zipping and unzipping files. When you zip a file, you compress it. When you unzip, you decompress. So the first thing you must do is make sure you have a compression utility, like PKUNZIP, on your hard drive. If you don't,

O&E Online offers a recent version of PKUNZIP (pkz204g.exe) which you should obtain before trying to unload any software. MAC users also have compression software. Like us DOS people, they too have a language of their own. Macintosh compressions software will stuff and unstuff files. We also have a MAC compression utility ("Downline") available on-line. Remember, too, that sometimes software is infected with a virus and downloading infected software to your hard-drive can cause havoc. All the software O&E Online offers has first been checked for viruses and is offered virus-free. We have no way of knowing, and neither do you, whether any particular site on the Internet offering software is as careful as we are in virus-proofing all its files. If you choose to get software from the Internet, then you really must make sure you have virus-checker software installed on your hard-drive. Virus software that scans for viruses also contains the tools to destroy a virus. It really is foolish and risky not to have a virus-checker. O&E Online also has a fairly recent and dependable virus program among its list of files offered free to users. One McAfee virus detector we offer is valid108.zip. There also is a companion set (scanv113.zip and clean113.zip), one which scans for viruses and the other which fixes 'em if discovered. If you don't have one, or your virus detection software is more than two years old, download our's or someone else's. Because new viruses are created and enter the PC environment each year, detection software becomes obsolete after two years. You should make it a practice to check for viruses each time after your download software from anyone. If your detection software allows it, check the automatic option so the virus scan is performed each time you boot up your system. If not, find out from a computer buddy how to write a statement on your autoexec.bat statement to activate the scan each time you boot. Another word of caution. There is a tendency to download all kinds of software, just because it's free. Remember, though, that even compressed software takes up space on your hard-drive. And when you unzip it, it takes up much more space. You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oonline.com, at voice mail at 953-2047 then dial 1910, or fax number 591-7279.
