Break-ins rise nearly 20 percent

Westland residents were less likely to be robbed on the street in 1994, but they ran a higher risk of having their homes burglarized or their cars stolen. The latest crime statistics brought a mixed bag of good news and bad news.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Burglars stole $1.1 million in property and money from Westland homes and businesses in 1994, as reports of break-ins rose nearly 20 percent from the previous year, newly released statistics show.

Offenses involving vehicle thefts, drugs and drunken drivers also increased significantly, while reports of rapes, robberies, aggravated assaults, larcenies and arson fires marked a one-year decline.

The sharpest drop in major crimes occurred in reported rapes, which fell by 13.5 percent.

Westland had four murders last year, compared to three in 1993, according to crime figures compiled by Michigan State Police.

Police Chief Emory Price cautioned against drawing conclusions from a two-year comparison, noting that fluctuations of crime rates are typical from one year to the next.

Drug offenses showed a dramatic one-year increase, rising 43.2 percent. Drunken driving incidents jumped 28.7 percent.

"It could be simply that (substance-abusing) people were involved in more accidents," Price said, "or it could be that there was more enforcement."

New public officials tell of capitol life

Three "rookie" public officials who represent Westland in Congress and the state legislature exposed embarrassing moments they experienced in their first month on the job.

They told of the boo-boos during a live call-in cable-TV program last week hosted by Mayor Robert Thomas, who has his own program that focuses on city problems.

Thomas said the one-hour program is the first time that the officialists who represent the city in Congress and the state legislature got together to answer residents' questions.

He hopes he can arrange a repeat in about six months.

Being cablecast on Channel 8, the participants were U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor; state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton Township, and state Rep. Eileen DeHart, D-Westland.

Disaster-relief efforts have been launched in Westland in the aftermath of the fatal bombing of a federal building in Oklahoma City.

The Westland Police Department is among area police agencies collecting donations in a project spearheaded by the Dearborn Police Department, Deputy Chief Robbin Crosby said.

The Westland Chamber of Commerce also is seeking help from its members, and some local business owners are collecting donations in their stores, said Joyce Wheeler, the chamber's executive director.

The police fund-raiser is on a tight deadline; donations will be accepted through Friday, Crosby said.

Police officials have contacted the various city departments and unions, seeking donations that will be taken to Oklahoma City in a convoy of area police agencies, Crosby said.

The Westland department is looking into the possibility of including local police representatives in the convoy, Crosby said.

Adams principal nominated for state, national honors

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Celestine Sanders knows she has been nominated in "principal of the year" programs on a state and national level.

But she was surprised Wednesday morning when she was honored on a local TV show as one of several "Women Who Make a Difference."

The Adams Junior High School principal thought she was going to see her sister, Francilene McRipley, recognized on the "Company" program on WXYZ-TV Channel 7.

In behind-the-scenes moves arranged by staffers, Sanders rode with a student, eighth-grader Kasandra Shirley, and the girl's mother to the TV studio in Southfield.

After reaching the studio, Sanders said she waited in line with others expecting to sit in the audience.

"When Kasandra was introduced (by the show's hostesses) I knew it was me" who would one of the honorees, Sanders said.

"I was really surprised," said the principal, who later questioned her secretary for not informing her about the honor.

But the secret was kept under wraps in the school, others said.

During the airing of the program, many Adams students watched on classroom TV monitors, said assistant principal Michael Holuta.

"Kasandra was very emotional on TV and broke down, crying," he added.

Nearly 15 women were honored in the recognition program.

Improvements cited

In the principal of the year competition, Sanders is being nominated for her work in improving the learning and social environment at the junior high school, on Palmer west of Venoy.

The winner of the program sponsored by the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals will then be considered in the competition held by the national association.

The winner of the state event will have a $2,500 grant awarded to that person's school. An additional $7,500 will be presented to the school of the national winner.

A former principal at Monroe Elementary and Titus Elementary and assistant principal at Stevenson Junior High, Sanders has been visible and active in the past year in combating violence and gang problems in the Adams neighborhood.

She was part of a 30-minute documentary aired on the region's public broadcasting channel in late February.

In her nomination, Sanders, a Wayne resident, was cited for her work in working with various service and community agencies to address the needs of Adams students.

One outcome is the peer mediation program in which students involved in disputes are encouraged to talk out their problems with a neutral classmate.

That program has led to fewer fights in school as well as a more positive school environment.

Sanders organized a volunteer program involving parents, area residents, teachers and police officers working in the school during events, field trips or as guest speakers.

Challenges seen

The principal has joined community committees and encouraged her staff members to do the same to combat specific problems.

She "continually issues a challenge to the community to work together in a combined effort to drive out gangs, crime and drugs," according to her nomination.

Outside of school, Sanders is on the Wayne Rotary Club's board of directors, a member of the Mayor's Advisory Council and the Youth Assistance Advisory Board, as well as serving on the Wayne Cable board of directors.

In an essay required to accompany her nomination for the state award, Sanders said:

"It's important for students to feel successful in order for them to take risks. Therefore, I believe we must do what we can do to help students have successful experiences in school.

"Sometimes the methods are not always conventional and that's great for the students to seek.

"Communication is a top priority in a risk-taking environment. Parents aren't always comfortable coming to the school, whether it's from a poor experience the parents have had when they attended school or an experience they had had with their son's or daughter's school experience.

"The non-conventional approach for conferencing is to go to the homes of the parents and conference there. Trust is built and the parents know you care.

"It's important to enter the student's world to see the environment and how to be of service to the student and the family."

The Michigan principals' association will announce the state's winner no later than July. The finalists in the national program will be announced in January with the eventual winner and finalists to be guests of the National Association of Secondary School Principals next February.

new responsibilities.

In relating their most embarrassing moments during their first weeks on the job, Rivers said she was en route to President Clinton's State of the Union address when she got lost in the Capital's underground tunnel. Fearing she might be late for the major event, she was rescued by a government staffer who "took pity on me and led me" to the House of Representatives' chamber.

DeHart, a long-time legislative assistant to her predecessor, Justice Barns, admitted she was momentarily alone in an office when she picked up the ringing phone and answered: "Rep. Barns' office."

"Old habits die hard," quipped the mayor.

Bennett commented on his being surprised by his colleagues voting against one of his bills 37-1 because he didn't have the traditional gifts for them usually provided by freshmen legislators when their first bill is approved.

On other issues, the officials also commented on life in Washington and Lansing.

Rivers, a former Ann Arbor school board member and state representative, said she is surprised at the bitter partisanship in Congress.

The House is "very partisan, vicious and divided," she said.

Bennett said that with a term limits proposal restricting him to a maximum of two four-year terms in the legislature, newcomers have to look at issues much differently than their predecessors.

"Before, legislators had the luxury of taking more time to look at issues and be more cautious," said Bennett, a former Canton Township clerk and trustee.

Now, he and other newcomers have to move more quickly.

But he admitted there is a state Sen. Loren Bennett

"high level of excitement" in Lansing.

DeHart told the cable audience that because of her eight-year background as a Barns' staffer, she saw herself "as the only freshman (in the legislature) who was a veteran."

On other issues, Bennett said that Lansing "is six square miles surrounded by reality."

DeHart and Bennett stressed that they drive home from the capitol daily to keep in touch with their constituents. Rivers flies home on weekends from Washington for the same reason.

All three agreed that contact and accessibility with people in their districts is important.

Bennett said he is frequently stopped by shoppers at a Meijer Store who question him about state issues.

Rivers noted she has initiated a series of public informational sessions for voters.

She expects several proposals to be introduced this week relating to Social Security, of which she learned that those benefits represent the entire income for some 30 percent of recipients.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich said that persons may be able to pick from one of nine retirement plans, Rivers said.

She will send letters to constituents when more information is available.

One of the callers was City Councilman Glenn Anderson who congratulated the officials for arranging their busy schedules to appear together on the cable call-in show.

He also touched on a local problem of cities and townships having their state-shared revenues reduced from earlier expectations.

Thomas noted that he and other municipal officials traveled to Lansing Tuesday, April 25, to protest the cutbacks of the increases.

That's the possible silver lining — that the number of drunken driving and drug incidents rose because police officers caught more offenders, the chief said.

"It's really difficult to get a handle on these statistics," he said.

Westland residents were less likely to be robbed on the street in 1994, the statistics indicate.

Of 92 robberies in 1994, 26 occurred on the street. One year earlier, 96 robberies were reported, including 37 on the street.

On the down side, 10 robberies were reported at residences in 1994, double the number from the previous year, according to the statistics.

Vehicle thefts continued to take a multi-million-dollar toll on city residents last year, as 558 incidents outpaced the previous year's 494 reports.

The cost of vehicle thefts in 1994 was $4.7 million, up from $3.5 million in 1993, the crime reports showed.

Of the 558 vehicles stolen last year, 420 were recovered.

With burglaries on the rise, statistics showed that residences were more likely to be broken into during the day, while people were at work. By contrast, businesses became a heavier target at night.

Of residential break-ins, 336 occurred during the day and 222 at night, while the time was unknown in 18 cases.

At businesses, 96 occurred during the day and 120 at night, while the time wasn't known in eight cases.

Westland police Sgt. Steve Kaufman offered some tips to help residents reduce the potential of break-ins.

"When you leave a home, make sure the home looks like it's lived in," he said.

Leave lights turned on, in addition to a television, a stereo or a radio, Kaufman said. Radio talk shows can be particularly effective, he said, because intruders may believe the conversation is among residents.

"That may be enough to make a person go somewhere else," Kaufman said.

Because many break-ins occurred at side or rear doors, he suggested placing a 2-by-4 wooden board at the base of the door.

That measure would make it less likely that intruders could kick in the door, Kaufman said. Even if they break a window and reach inside to unlock the door, they still might be unable to gain entry because of the wooden board, he said.

The bottom line, he said, is to make it as difficult as possible for intruders to enter your home.

Westland residents may donate to the local fund by sending checks to the Westland Police Department, 36701 Ford Road, Westland 48186, he said. With the department's deadline looming Friday, residents also may drop off donations at the front desk of the police station, located on Ford Road between Newburgh and Wayne Road.

Checks should be made payable to the Spirit of Oklahoma Disaster Fund, Crosby said. Donors mailing checks to the department may note Crosby's name on the envelope.

For more information, call 722-9900.

chamber fund raising efforts are expected to continue through mid-May.

After May 5, the chamber will assume the responsibility for ensuring that donations are forwarded to the appropriate agencies, Wheeler said.

Donors contributing to the chamber effort may make checks payable to the Spirit of Oklahoma Disaster Fund, the American Red Cross, or the Fund for the Children Fund, Wheeler said.

The chamber's address is 36900 Ford Road, Westland 48186.

Students at Adams Junior High School, on Palmer near Venoy, launched their fund-raising campaign last week with money to be donated to the American Red Cross relief fund. The drive will end Friday.

Driver, 82, dies of collision injuries

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

An 82-year-old Dearborn Heights man died Thursday from injuries he suffered during an April 21 traffic accident near Westland Center. His death came six days after his 74-year-old wife died from injuries in the same crash.

Domenick Meilak's death at 3 a.m. Thursday was attributed to brain injuries he suffered when he drove his car in front of an oncoming van on Central City Parkway west of Wayne Road, Westland police officer James Dexter said.

Meilak had been airlifted to the University of Michigan Hospital following the accident that occurred at 9:36 a.m. April 21 while he and his wife were leaving Westland Center.

The couple was apparently crossing Central City Parkway to go to Office Max, police officer Jack McIntosh said.

The Meilaks have been the only two people killed in Westland traffic accidents this year.

Jennie Meilak died from abdominal and chest injuries she suffered when her husband drove their 1985 Ford Escort in front of a 1988 Ford van, McIntosh said. She was sitting on the front passenger side that was hit by the van.

Domenick Meilak had pulled northbound onto Central City Parkway when the westbound van, driven by a 24-year-old Clinton Township man, slammed into the car, police said.

The Clinton Township man hadn't been drinking alcohol and apparently wasn't at fault during the collision, McIntosh said.

The Clinton Township man isn't expected to be charged, though police reports, as a routine matter, will be reviewed by the Wayne County prosecutor's office, Dexter said.

Nankin Transit agency backs tax proposal on May 23 ballot

Not unexpectedly, the Nankin Transit Commission (NTC) is publicly supporting passage of a proposed .33 mill property tax that would fund a regional bus system.

Nankin Transit commissioners, representing Garden City, Westland, Wayne, Inkster and Canton, unanimously passed a resolution urging voters to approve the millage for the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation on May 23.

"As it stands, if there is no

SMART there is no Nankin Transit Authority," said NTA director Richard Fernandez. "Our buses say SMART on the side."

NTA receives funding from SMART services such as obtaining buses through federal and state grants, providing staff monitoring and follow-up on grants and vehicle inspections. All services Fernandez said NTA couldn't provide itself.

A service used primarily by senior citizens and handicapped people, NTA carried 10,122 riders in five communities during March.

NTA member Canton and other western Wayne communities such as Plymouth and Northville have already opted out of the election.

In their resolution, NTC commissioners cite the need for increased transportation services and the need for dedicated funds to support the services.

Efforts to promote the millage are already underway. "Flyers are being passed out to riders and phone banks are being set up," said Fernandez.

John Glenn students get taste of the law

By DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Hundreds of John Glenn High School students learned Friday that the drama surrounding the O.J. Simpson murder trial isn't typical of what happens in a courtroom.

But they may have learned a more valuable lesson, specifically the trouble they could face if they get caught driving drunk, stealing or using marijuana.

Students saw Westland District Court in action as Judges C. Charles Bokos and Gail McKnight brought their dockets to John Glenn High's auditorium for Law Day, an annual program that gives students a look at the judicial system.

"I didn't expect to see as many adults that we look up to every day," senior Jason Cornellier, 18, said after watching several defendants appear before Bokos.

Students also saw some defendants in their own age group, such as a Livonia Churchill High School junior who went into the Westland Meijer and stuck a bottle of liquor up his sleeve.

"I got a pint of Absolut Vodka and tried to leave the store without paying," he told Bokos.

A Meijer employee said Friday that the pint costs $9.95, not that the teen could legally buy it, anyway.

His final tab, decided by Bokos, amounted to one year's probation, fines of nearly $400, five days in the court work program, participation in a crime economic impact program, and a warning to stay out of all Meijer stores.

Bokos stressed to his audience that the fallout from the teen's crime could also mean losing out on a future job.

"It's a question of the right choices," he said, "These are the things we're trying to impress upon you."

Earlier Friday, before stepping up to the bench, Bokos said during a brief interview that some teens get a stilted view of the judicial system from television shows like "L.A. Law."

"We want them to see the reality of how the judicial system works," he said.

The program also could serve as a deterrent to crime, Bokos said.

"That's part of why we're here: to show the students the potential consequences of illegal conduct," he said.

The judges have expanded the program to Adams Junior High School because of the success at the high school level. The Adams program is scheduled for May 19.

Law Day: John Glenn High School students watch as Westland District Judge C. Charles Bokos hears a case during Law Day, a program that the district court sponsors with the school.

Local schools singing the accreditation blues

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

They're not at the top, and they're not at the bottom. No Wayne-Westland or Livonia district school received the highest accreditation rating last week from the Michigan Department of Education.

Mostly because of test scores, the state gave all Wayne-Westland and Livonia district schools a rating that's midway between schools at the top (summary) and schools at the bottom (unaccredited).

All local schools met some but not all of the state's standards. Local schools joined the bulk of state schools, about 3,000, which earned interim accreditation. It's their task in the year ahead to boost their Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) scores high enough to climb into the top category.

Charlotte Sherman, Wayne-Westland's executive director of secondary education, said officials are pleased that no school was pegged as unaccredited.

"We're pleased that all of our schools are (at least) interim, and we were working on plans for improvement, anyway," she said. No local school suffered the ignominy of being among the 89 schools statewide which wound up, unaccredited, at the bottom of the list. These 89 schools face a 5 percent loss of state aid if they don't improve.

But no local school gets to bask in the limelight which comes from being listed among Michigan's top-ranked schools in the first list ever published.

Not even Livonia's Webster Elementary, which serves both academically talented and physically challenged students, found its way to the top this time out. The scores of Webster students qualified the school for the top ranking, but information was not submitted to the state in time, said Livonia Superintendent Ken Watson.

"The principal had questions about filling out the report because it is a special school (with the two diverse student populations)," Watson said. "The information will be submitted, and I believe the state will correct this."

Accreditation for all Michigan public schools is one of the many mandates the state has decreed to boost the quality of education in the state. Accreditation is based chiefly on scores earned on the MEAP math, science and reading tests. But it also includes compliance with numerous dictates from the state. These include annual performance reports to parents, school improvement plans and mission statements.

To earn the top ranking, 66 percent of students in the school must pass the MEAP exams in all subjects in at least two of the last three years.

Watson said he expects some

Livonia schools will climb into the top ranks in the next couple of years. "Only a small percentage got accreditation this year. Ninety percent of the schools fall in the middle category. This is not an issue that reflects badly on the district."

In getting interim accreditation, the 90 percent of schools either met or exceeded the 66 percent standard on some of the MEAP tests and fell below that level on others.

Police clerk closes career

BY DARRELL CLEM

Jennie Tadlock always seemed to have a joke for her Westland Police Department colleagues. She even had an occasional humorous tip for a reporter, such as the one about a pizza parlor employee who "assaulted" a co-worker with, what else, a pizza.

Her humor, offbeat at times, will be missed now that she retired Friday as senior clerk in the police department's busy records bureau.

"She brought a sense of humor to work," police Chief Emory Price said. "She's a nice lady."

Tadlock and her husband, Riley, plan to retire to their Higgins Lake cottage.

"I'll miss the people," she said Thursday. "But I won't miss Mondays. I don't like Mondays."

That's one of her busier days, when paperwork from the weekend is dumped on the desks of records bureau employees.

Tadlock, 64, has worked in secretarial and clerk positions for 20 years in Westland. She worked at the ice arena, in the finance department and in the city clerk's office.

When she started working in the records bureau in July 1981, she said, "I found a home."

She took care of the department's checkbook, and she has handled a huge load of paperwork.

Tadlock, a California native, also had some interesting clerk jobs before she started working in Westland. She was a U.S. Navy yeoman on Treasure Island in San Francisco, and she also worked in naval intelligence at the Pentagon.

It was in Washington, D.C., that she met her husband. They eventually moved to his native Wyoming, where he attended college. But they moved to Michigan in 1964 when Ford Motor Co. hired him because of his automomobile engineering degree. "We moved to Michigan with a 2-week-old baby, a dog and an old Cutlass," Jennie Tadlock recalls. The couple has been deeply involved in theater groups, such as organizing 76 plays from 1965 to 1985 for the Wayne-Westland Civic Theater.

Soon after she retires, Tadlock and her husband plan to visit friends in Kentucky. They're also considering travels to Hawaii and Germany. They have two adult daughters, and they are expecting their first grandchild in July. Jennie Tadlock's colleagues gave her a going-away reception Friday. "She will be missed," Price said. "She's been here a long time, and we hate to see her leave."

Ex-coach freed on bond

Former John Glenn High School girls basketball coach Patrick Bennett has been released from jail after a Detroit judge reduced his bond.

Meanwhile, Bennett, who is accused of having sex with one of his players when she was 18, is scheduled to return to Westland District Court on Wednesday for the conclusion of a preliminary hearing that began April 12.

Bennett was held after Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Dalton Robinson reduced his bond on April 21, police said.

Bennett's bond had been $50,000 cash, but Robinson reduced it to $60,000/10 percent, meaning his family only had to post $6,000 to get him out of jail.

Bennett spent five weeks in jail before his release. He has pleaded not guilty to charges of third-degree criminal sexual conduct and obstruction of justice.

He could face a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison if convicted on the sex charges.

The girl, now 16, has said she doesn't want to see Bennett prosecuted, but authorities have proceeded with the case.

Senators seek school code comment

A state Senate committee today will be in Farmington to hear public comments on a law that until 1995 has been non-controversial for 65 years — the School Code.

From 4-6 p.m. the Senate Education Committee will hold the sixth of a series of hearings in the Farmington Training Center, 33000 Thomas.

Members are chair Leon Stille, R-Spring Lake, Doug Carl, R-Mount Clemens, Walter North, R-St. Ignace, Ken DeBeaussart, D-New Baltimore, and Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township. All but Carl are Senate freshmen.

Gov. John Engler surprised the public in his state of the state address by calling for abolition of the School Code but has yet to be specific about its flaws. Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alton, announced in a news conference in February that Senate Republicans had "repealed" the School Code, but no such bill has come to a vote.

Meanwhile, the Michigan Association of School Administrators last week called "wholesale repeal of Michigan's education laws not only unnecessary but also unwise." MASA called for selective revision.

The School Code is about 20 percent of the law governing Michigan's 560 public school districts, according to the Michigan Association of School Boards. The School Code sets up four classifications of districts, provides an election system, and generally sets up their governance.

Also covered are the new charter academies, accreditation, special education, bond issues and the like. But budgeting, public meetings and civil rights are covered by other laws. Testing programs, core curriculum and special education are handled by the rules of the State Board of Education.

Gerald Keidel, executive director of the school administrators, said MASA wants to:

- Minimize the number of school district classifications.
- Eliminate as a school responsibility the enforcement of the law requiring parents to immunize children.
- Designate the core curriculum as a "model" curriculum rather than a mandatory one.
- Make the accreditation program voluntary rather than mandatory.

Jobless rate up in most of state

Unemployment rates in most of Michigan's major labor markets rose in March, according to Michigan Employment Security Commission estimates.

Eight of the state's 10 major labor markets, including the Detroit area, had higher unemployment rates in March than they did in February.

In the area comprised of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Lapeer and St. Clair counties, the unemployment rate was 5.5 percent in February and 5.6 percent in March. In March 1994, however, the unemployment rate was 6.5 percent in the Detroit area.

Going by county, Mackinac County had the highest unemployment rate in the state in March, at 29 percent.

The lowest was Washtenaw County at 3.1 percent.

Unemployment in Wayne County was 6.1 percent in March. Sixty-five of Michigan's 83 counties had higher unemployment than Wayne County.

In Oakland County the unemployment rate was 4.4 percent. Only three counties had unemployment rates lower than Oakland County.

The Benton Harbor area was the only major market where unemployment dropped in March, falling from 6.6 percent to 6.4 percent.

The Ann Arbor area remained unchanged from February to March at 3.9 percent.

SC chair caught driving drunk

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees Chairman Steve Ragan pled "no contest" in 35th District Court April 19 to driving while impaired.

Ragan, 29, who is running for re-election this year, was given six months probation, fined $490 and required to pay court and probation costs of $225.

Terms of his probation require Ragan "not to leave Michigan without prior written consent of the court" and to "attend, faithfully cooperate in and successfully complete the Alcohol Highway Safety Program."

The probation also restricts Ragan's driving to work related trips and trips to and from the Alcohol Highway Safety Program classes.

Ragan was arrested at 2:15 a.m. Thursday, April 6, by Canton Township Police officer Scott Ailden on Michigan Avenue at Belleville Road.

Ailden's report indicates that Ragan's Ford Probe was swerving down Michigan Avenue at a speed of 65 miles per hour.

Ailden reported that Ragan said he drank just two beers, but the Breathalyzer test indicated a blood alcohol level of 0.14 percent. A level of 0.1 or greater is considered legally drunk.

Officer Ailden arrested Ragan for operating under the influence of liquor after giving him four sobriety tests. Ragan posted a $100 bond. The charge was later reduced to operating while impaired.

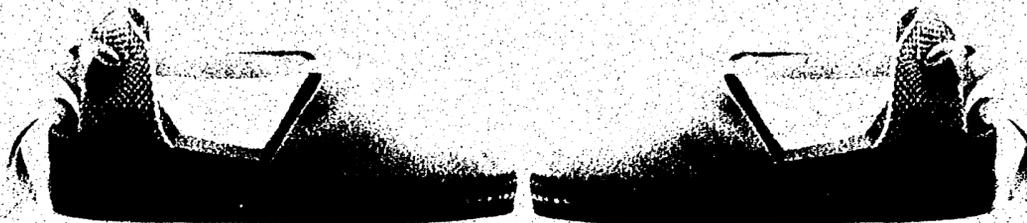

Ragan is one of five incumbent Schoolcraft College trustees seeking re-election June 12.

He has been a member of the board since he was appointed to fill a vacancy in February 1991.

Ragan works at Eastern Michigan University as the director of the Campaign for Scholars, EMU's $16-million capital campaign.

Ragan is also the chairman of the Plymouth Zoning Board of Appeals and a member of the 13th Congressional District Republican Executive Committee.

New chairman seeks advice from county residents

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Commission has formed a panel of county residents called the Citizens Advisory Board to tell commissioners how the county government can do its job better.

The first meeting of the 150-member board was Saturday at the county building in downtown Detroit.

Ten citizens from each of the 15 Wayne County commission districts were appointed to serve two-year terms on the board by the commissioner who represents their district.

According to commission chairman Ricardo Solomon, D-Detroit, the goals of the citizens board are:

- To assure the most efficient use of resources by the county government.
- To help make county government more responsive to the citizens of the county.
- To address collectively, current and emerging needs throughout the 43 municipalities that comprise Wayne County.

"I think it's important for a person downriver to understand the concerns of Detroit and vice versa because, as chairman, my concerns cannot be exclusively for Detroit. I have to be just as concerned about Northville, Canton, Romulus, Westland as I am Detroit," Solomon said.

The recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Board, Solomon said, will be reflected in the commission's legislative agenda, scheduled to be published in June.

The citizens board will meet three times each year. The locations of the meetings will rotate among Detroit, the downriver area and western Wayne County.

Solomon, who visited the Observer offices Wednesday, April 26, for an interview, has been chairman of the commission since late last year.

Since the beginning of 1995, Solomon has cut commission spending by slashing the payroll, initiating an operations audit to see where efficiencies might be found and dedicated himself to "fiscal integrity, open government and full disclosure."

Solomon, 40, stressed the importance of getting the commission's house in order before criticizing other areas of county government.

Once that job is done, "we can objectively and critically look at the county executive, the sheriff,

■ 'It's important for a person Downriver to understand the concerns of Detroit and vice versa because, as chairman, my concerns cannot be exclusively for Detroit.'

Ricardo Solomon commission chairman

can be more efficient in doing that."

In the past, the county commission has been characterized as a bickering bunch, but Solomon said things are different now.

"When you see us disagree with (Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara) it won't be because of something petty. It will be based on philosophy."

Solomon's agenda includes alliances with area universities and corporations. "It's important that we maintain corporate and community support in every aspect of what we do because they are as big a stakeholder in the growth and development of Wayne County as we are," he said. "I'm a big proponent of corporate, community, government partnerships, providing there's no conflict of interest."

As chairman, Solomon said he wants to create an atmosphere whereby exports from Wayne County will increase and small business will prosper.

"I have never viewed myself as an elected official who will go out and say, 'I'm going to create a job,'" he said. "I do view myself as a person to enhance the ability for business to do better. And the way I do that is by helping to create a climate, an environment. If we can increase the level of small business, no matter where that small business is in Wayne County, than we're better served."

Solomon grew up in Detroit and attended Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., where he got a bachelor's degree in political science. He later earned a master's degree in business management from Central Michigan University.

He has headed a marketing, research and development firm and taught classes at Jordon College and Mercy College.

In government, Solomon has been a contract compliance officer for Detroit, an aide to former U.S. Rep. George Crockett Jr., assistant director of the Economic Development Corporation of Wayne County and an employment specialist with the Wayne County Metropolitan Community Action Agency.

How to make taco shells and other reader requests

Thanks for your calls and positive responses to my recent column on cutting fat. Because of your responses there will be more to follow.

Barb MacIntyre of West Bloomfield wants to know how to make taco shells like Mexican restaurants. Well Barb, pick up a package of fresh flour or corn tortillas in the refrigerated dairy case of your local grocery. Authentic Mexican recipes call for the tortillas to be "passed" through some hot oil in a fry pan just enough to soften and roll.

For a healthier version, warm each tortilla in a fry pan or griddle sprayed with non-stick coating spray until warmed throughout. To make authentic crispy taco shells, stuff the tortillas with cooked seasoned meat, secure with a toothpick and deep fry for two minutes.

You can also purchase a taco fryer from a cooking shop that positions soft tortillas in a basket for frying. After frying, the soft tortillas turn into crispy shells. Expect to pay about $10 for the taco fryer.

For more on Mexican cooking, pick up a book by Diane Kennedy. She is one of my favorite Mexican cookbook authors.

Herbed oil

Betty Lund of Troy requested a recipe for herbed canola oil. The easiest way to make herbed oil is to gently heat the oil to about 250 degrees, add some fresh herbs, toasted nuts, spices, hot peppers or citrus rinds in a clean, sterilized jar. Carefully pour the warmed oil over the infusion mixture into the jar. Seal and allow to stand in a dark cupboard for two weeks. This can be done with canola, olive, peanut, vegetable, safflower or sunflower oil. Do not use fresh garlic as the garlic can turn toxic.

Theresa of Livonia wants information on freezing potatoes. In her book "The Potato Garden" (copyright 1993, Quarto Inc. $17) Maggie Oster doesn't recommend freezing fresh potatoes, but says you can freeze mashed, baked, stuffed, hash browns and potato pancakes with good results. Potatoes in soups or stews freeze poorly and often disintegrate when reheated.

Springtime pie

Here's a reader-requested recipe for Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie. It's incredibly easy, and if you don't have a good pie crust recipe, store bought pie crusts can be substituted. If you're using frozen rhubarb and strawberries, add 10 minutes to the baking time.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

- 1 double pie crust
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 cups fresh strawberries
- 2 1/2 cups of 1/2-inch pieces fresh rhubarb

Prepare dough for pastry. Line a nine-inch pan with one crust. Set aside. Combine sugar, flour and salt in a medium bowl. Add strawberries and rhubarb. Toss lightly to coat. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Spoon filling into unbaked pie shell. Make a lattice top or use top pie crust as desired.

Glaze top of crust with a little milk or lightly beaten egg. Cover pie crust edges with foil. Bake for 25 minutes. Remove foil. Bake for 25-30 minutes longer or until crust is golden brown. Makes 8 servings.

George Keller of Garden City wants to know how to get rid of the "fishy" taste when cooking fish. Well George, good fresh fish shouldn't smell fishy. As I've said before, know your fish monger and don't be afraid to ask how fresh the fish is.

Frozen fish should be completely defrosted before cooking. Never over cook fish. When cooking defrosted fish, soak it in milk for 15 minutes before cooking as the lactic acid has a tendency to reduce the "fishy" taste. To reduce the fishy smell, sprinkle a baking dish with 1/4 inch of baking powder and place in the bottom of your oven. It helps remove some of the smell and when finished, rinse it down your drain.

Fabulous Feast

TREATS GUESTS ROYALLY

BY ELEANOR & RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

Have you ever wanted to prepare an extraordinary dinner, but hesitated because you didn't know how to pull it off? It's not that difficult if you plan ahead.

Share a historic moment with some good friends. Invite them to a dinner fit for a king. Recreate the celebrated Three Emperors Dinner. It's not that difficult if you plan ahead.

With suggestions, and recipes from Marcus Haight, Chef de Cuisine, Lark restaurant, 6430 Farmington Road, W. Bloomfield, you can recreate, in part, the celebrated Three Emperors Dinner.

Three emperors, William I of Germany, Tsar Alexander II, for whom Roederer Cristal Champagne was created, and Tsarevitch (later Alexander III), met in Paris on June 7, 1867. They had a 17-course dinner at the famed Cafe Anglais, now more renowned and prestigious in its modern moniker Tour d'Argent, a Michelin Guide three-star restaurant.

The celebrated event was designed to illustrate the splendor of La Grande Cuisine Francaise. Over the past five years, the dinner has been recreated in 61 cities around the world as a promotion for the art of good living.

"Once celebrated, it is never done again in the same city," said Roederer Champagne spokesman Yves Fourault. It was recently celebrated at the Lark.

It should not go without mention that this site was selected before the restaurant, owned by Jim and Mary Lark, was voted the nation's top restaurant in a reader poll conducted by "Conde Nast Traveler." The announcement was made in April. Being tops in a field of 250 U.S. restaurants is no small accomplishment.

For the celebratory Three Emperors Dinner, Haight selected from the original 17-course menu and designed a six-course offering with each course accompanied by a different Roederer Champagne.

"Using recipes and directions from the latter half of the 19th century is not anything like following a modern recipe," said Haight. "Actually, all I had to work with was a detailed description of the method and some broad, general parameters. Deciphering the recipes and methods reminded me of reading Escoffier, something I used to do about two hours each night when I was in culinary school. It brought me back to those days."

"Food served at the Three Emperors Dinner was cutting edge for 1867," said Jim Lark.

Haight expanded on this remark by commenting that the lobster recipe he suggests, (see recipe inside) represents the "in" thing in modern cuisine.

"Preparing fish with vegetables is considered the latest cooking trend," he said. "It only goes to prove that cuisine is cyclical and there is something to be said for classical cooking."

"No beef," was Fourault's suggestion for a champagne dinner. "Serve a Rose (pink champagne) with duck or lamb prepared medium rare."

Jim Lark echoed the no beef idea, but said he's not personally fond of lamb with champagne, even a Rose.

"Courses need to be light," he stressed. "Start the meal with a Brut style, build to a Rose, perhaps, and end with a demi-sec." He also suggests that fowl, veal and rabbit make good matches for champagne.

See recipes inside.

Recreation of such historic dinners is among the reasons the Lark's diners voted their favorite restaurant to top billing over many outstanding dining establishments nationwide.

Viognier is a white grape with an attitude

Viognier, a white grape native to France's northern Rhone Valley, is used to produce Condrieu and Chateau Grillet. Ten years ago, little viognier was planted in France. Condrieu and Chateau Grillet, two small appellations, could boast slightly more than 100 acres of viognier total. Now there are about 300 acres of viognier in the Languedoc-Roussillon region of southern France with more plantings planned.

Not much is different in the United States. In 1984, there were no bearing viognier vines in California. Today, there are just under 300 acres with a domestic total of about 350 acres. Virginia has 32 acres, and is second to California, but Horton Vineyards is the only commercial viognier producer in that state.

The best thing about viognier is that it is not at all like chardonnay. We like chardonnay and there are many good ones, but sometimes we need a change. The other neat thing is that France does not have a lock on making viognier. Domestic producers have looked to France as a model for producing cabernet sauvignon, chardonnay and pinot noir, but now the French are experimenting with viognier as much as we are.

While visiting some Rhone Valley Condrieu producers, we learned that one may barrel ferment viognier and put it through malolactic fermentation in the style of a chardonnay, while another tank ferments the wine and does not use malolactic fermentation. There is no French model. Viognier is a grape with an attitude, challenging winemakers and consumers to discover its nuances.

Winemakers Scott Harvey of Renwood Winery, and Leo Sobon of Sobon Estates speak of the difficulty ripening viognier. Sobon says that "viognier is similar to zinfandel with its uneven ripening." Harvey's experience says "get it ripe and it naturally makes a big wine."

Arrowood Vineyards winemaker Miko Berthoud maintains that "when you let viognier get ripe, you also find out that half of it has been eaten by birds. We roll the dice each day during harvest and wait to get the ripest viognier to make the most flavorful wine."

Winemaker Dwayne Helmut of Callaway Vineyards admits, "We're so inexperienced, we don't know what to expect and are using inconsistency as viognier's middle name, but the grape is really following its genetic design. We need time to discover this and learn to deal with it effectively."

ly." Craig Williams of Joseph Phelps Vineyards explained that while malolactic fermentation gives a buttery character with chardonnay, it yields a creamy texture and extra flavor with vognier. He suggests that a buttery character does not balance well with other vognier flavors. "Just because chardonnay develops a buttery character with malolactic is not a reason to conclude that vognier will," said Berthoud. Winemakers agree that vognier, in most vintages, is a wine to be drunk young. "Longevity has nothing to do with whether vognier is an excellent wine or not,"

Williams said. "Sometimes, I think we make too much of the longevity issue. An old Chateau Grillet at $60 a bottle is over the hill. So what? Was it a great wine when it was young? If so, the question is why wasn't it drunk when it was in its prime?"

Because vognier tastes like several grapes in one, it is different from any other varietal. Showcasing this difference is a distinct aim. Winemakers like vognier's honeysuckle, orange, floral, muscat and pear aromas. On the palate, floral characteristics are complex with hints of cloves, mint, and honey.

Depending on where the grapes are grown, vognier may also exhibit peach, apricot and melon characters with some spicy, herbal complements. Intensely fruity, floral, toasty oak-like flavors, with the added dimension of spice come across creamy and rich on the palate.

Chapoutier, a Rhone Valley producer describes Condrieu (vognier) as having pineapple, peach and apricot aromas, enhanced by tropical fruit flavors. At Delas Freres, peach, tropical fruit, and honey aromas characterize the wine. These characteristics cannot be found in any other French wine therefore vognier is considered atypical.

Finding vognier may require a search. From California look for Arrowood, Calera, Edmunda St. John, Joseph Phelps, Preston, Renwood, Callaway, LaJota, Sobon Estate, Rabbit Ridge and Alban.

From France's Rhone Valley try the Condrieu made by Delas Freres, Chapoutier or Guigal. From the Languedoc-Roussillon try the vognier from Fortant de Franco or Reserve St. Martin.

Chef Larry answers reader requests

See Chef Larry Jones' Taste Bud's column on Taste front.

A few readers called a bit confused about making my no fat fries. To flavor the fries, sprinkle some cayenne pepper into an egg white, which is beaten until stiff. Beat the pepper with the egg white. Dip the potato wedges into the egg white mixture. Place them on a lightly greased baking sheet. You can also use parchment paper or non-stick cooking spray so the potatoes won't stick to the pan. Bake at 400 degrees for about 40 minutes.

Have you tried the new Fat Free Haagen Dazs sorbet yet? The fruit sorbets are great with the zesty lemon topping my favorite list. But, you haven't lived until you've tried their fat free chocolate sorbet. There's no fat, but at 130 calories per 4 ounce serving, the cartons should come with a warning that they taste so good, you'll want to eat the entire carton, which is 16 ounces.

Bread lovers will appreciate Martha Rose Shulman's new book, "Great Breads," (copyright 1995, Chapters Books, $19.95). The book is filled with home baked favorites from Europe, the British Isles and North America.

One of my favorites is her Cheese and Mustard bread. When toasted it smells like a grilled cheese sandwich. Here's the recipe:

CHEESE AND MUSTARD BREAD

- 2 1/2 teaspoons active dry yeast
 - 1/2 cup lukewarm water
 - 1/2 cup lukewarm milk
 - 1 tablespoon honey
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 1 large egg, beaten
 - 1/2 cup Dijon styled mustard or to taste
 - 1 tablespoon grated onion
 - 1 cup grated Sharp Cheddar cheese
 - 1 cup whole wheat flour
 - 2 to 2 1/2 cups unbleached white flour
 - 1 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 egg, beaten with 2 tablespoons water for egg wash
- Dissolve the yeast in the warm water in a large bowl. Let stand for 10 minutes or until creamy and proofed. Stir in the warm milk, honey, oil, egg, mustard, onion and cheese. Mix together the whole wheat flour with 1/2 cups unbleached flour and salt. Fold the flour mixture into the yeast mixture, 1 cup at a time. Scrape the dough out onto a work surface with a wooden spoon. Knead while adding more unbleached flour for 10 minutes. The dough should be smooth and elastic. Rinse, dry and lightly oil a large bowl. Shape the dough into a ball and place in the bowl. Turn to coat with the oil.

Cover and allow to rise in a warm spot for 1 1/2 hours or until doubled in bulk. Punch down, knead for 1 minute and shape into a loaf. Oil a bread pan and place the dough in it, seam side up, then seam side down to coat with the oil. Cover with a towel and allow to rise in a warm place for 1 hour or until bread rises out of the pan. About 30 minutes before baking, preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Brush the top of the loaf with the egg wash and place into the preheated oven for about 60 minutes or until loaf is golden brown and sounds hollow when tapped. Remove from pan and cool on a rack. Makes 1 loaf.

Diane Bailey called to say she inadvertently picked up 5 pounds of self-rising flour instead of regular all purpose flour and wondered how she could use it. Self-rising flour contains 1/4 teaspoon baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon of salt per one cup of all purpose flour.

Self-rising flour is best used in biscuits but can be substituted in cookies when the recipe calls for baking powder instead of baking soda. Here's a recipe the entire family will enjoy!

HONEY GRANOLA BARS

- 1 1/2 cups old fashioned oatmeal
- 1 1/2 cups self-rising flour
- 1/4 cup toasted wheat germ
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 cup chopped dried apple slices
- 1/2 cup raisins

- 1/2 cup chopped almonds
- 1/2 cup flaked sweetened coconut
- 1/4 cup sunflower seeds
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine, softened
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 large eggs
- 1/2 cup honey
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Lightly butter a 13 by 9-inch baking pan. Place oatmeal in a large dry skillet over medium heat and lightly toast, stirring constantly, about 4 minutes, cool.

In a large bowl, combine the toasted oatmeal, flour, wheat germ and cinnamon. Add the apple slices, raisins, almonds, coconut and seeds; stir to blend.

In a separate large bowl, cream together the butter and brown sugar until light and fluffy. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in the honey and vanilla. Gradually add the dry ingredients to the batter, stirring until thoroughly blended. Spread the prepared mixture into the prepared pan. Bake for 35 minutes or until the edges just begin to pull away from the sides of the pan. Cool on a wire rack before cutting into bars. Makes 24 bars.

Royal Emperors feast is fit for mere mortals

Chef de Cuisine Marcus Hight of the Lark restaurant presents these recipes for a royal feast. The recipes for Homard a la Parisienne (White Lobster Parisian Style and Artichoke Crowns with Vegetables and Aspic) as a first course coupled with Poached Salmon with Lemon, Capers and Herbs as a main course make an extraordinary home presentation.

If introduced with finger appetizers of your choice and completed with a dessert such as an ice cream pie, you have an elegant four-course offering. The ice cream pie would be a good imitation of the authentic Three Emperors dessert Bombe Glacee (a molded ice cream dessert).

For five courses, a cheese course may be added at the end accompanied by a Tawney Pork such as Adriano Ramos Pintos 10-year old. It may seem odd to serve a cheese course following dessert, but if you want to keep with tradition, this was the way it was served. Actually, it works quite well.

An assortment of finger appetizers is best accompanied by Roederer Champagne Brut Premier. Pair the lobster with 1988 Roederer Champagne and the Poached Salmon with the 1988 Cristal Brut.

For more information about theme dinners at the Lark, or to receive their newsletter, call (810) 661-4466.

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 12 lobster claws, chopped
- 1/2 cup cauliflower florets, small
- 1/2 cup broccoli florets, small
- 1/2 cup asparagus tips
- 2 tablespoons onion, diced
- 2 tablespoons green pepper, diced
- 2 tablespoons red pepper, diced
- 2 tablespoons celery, diced
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 2 tablespoons sherry vinegar

Bring a large pot of water to rolling boil. Add the lobsters and return to a boil. Reduce heat to a simmer and cook 12 minutes. Remove from liquid and place in ice water until cool.

With poultry shears, cut through the underside of the lobster tail and remove meat. Remove claws from lobster. Crack with the back of a knife and remove meat. Slice the tail meat and overlap sides of lobster on top of lobster shell. Refrigerate.

To make sauce: In a saucepan heat wine and add gelatin. Coat lobster with mixture.

To make artichokes: Cut off stem of artichokes and remove the artichoke heart. Place in pot of cool water with the juice of two lemons and the butter. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes — until tender. Cool in cooking liquid in a water bath.

Boil each vegetable — cauliflower, broccoli, asparagus, onion, green pepper, red pepper, and celery separately. Cool. Combine mayonnaise, Dijon mustard and vinegar.

Add vegetables to mayonnaise mixture. Scoop into artichokes. Serves 6.

POACHED SALMON WITH LEMON, CAPERS, AND HERBS

- 6 8-ounce pieces of salmon filleted and boned
- 1 gallon court bouillon (recipe follows)
- 2 lemons
- 1/4 cup capers
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh herbs plus 1 clove chopped fresh garlic
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3/4 cup dry vermouth
- 1 stick butter
- Court bouillon:
- 4 quarts water
- 2 cups white wine
- 2 cups white wine vinegar
- 1 leek, sliced
- 2 carrots, chopped
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 bay leaf

- 8 peppercorns, crushed
- Fresh parsley to taste
- Fresh thyme to taste

Filet salmon, bone and cut into six portions. To make court bouillon combine water, wine, vinegar, leek, carrots, onion, bay leaf and peppercorns. Simmer 30 minutes. Strain. Set aside.

Drop fish in court bouillon (poaching liquid), skin side up and at a temperature not above 170 degrees F. Depending on the thickness of the fish, it will take 6 to 8 minutes to poach.

While fish is poaching, combine lemon, dry vermouth, capers and garlic. Reduce on high heat until almost all liquid has evaporated. Whip in butter.

Season with salt and pepper. Add herbs. Pull fish from poaching liquid. Remove skin. Pour sauce over top. Serve immediately. Serves 6.

Enchiladas fit Cinco de Mayo

Cinco de Mayo — the fifth of May — is one of Mexico's liveliest national holidays. Celebrated with parades, fun and feasting, the day commemorates a momentous battle fought in the small town of Puebla in 1862. There, Napoleon's invading troops clashed with a meagerly equipped Mexican army one-third their size and were roundly defeated. It was a turning point in Mexico's history, marking the beginning of the end of European occupation, and the celebrating has never stopped.

Since Cinco de Mayo falls on a Friday this year, why not join in the spirit of the holiday with a start-of-the-weekend fiesta for friends?

Two enticing new enchilada recipes from The Paces Picante Sauce Test Kitchens will set the stage for celebration. Each is easy to prepare without exotic ingredients or hard-to-handle chiles, and each boasts the savory flavors favored at Mexican restaurants.

Crowd-pleasing Fiesta Chicken Enchiladas combine chunks of chicken breast with tomatoes, broccoli, picante sauce and savory seasonings.

Richly flavored Buenas Beef & Bean 'Chiladas team ground beef and beans with bright bell peppers, picante sauce and condensed onion soup. Either recipe may be prepared the night before, if it's more convenient.

Simply prepare the filling, fill and roll the easy-to-use flexible flour tortillas, then cover and chill overnight. Next day, bring the dish back to room temperature before saucing and baking.

To complete either meal in easy fiesta style, add a fluffy mound of rice and a salad of mixed greens tossed with orange and avocado slices, tomato wedges and red onion rings.

FIESTA CHICKEN ENCHILADAS

- 1 pound boneless chicken breast, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon vegetable oil
- 2 cups picante sauce
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) whole tomatoes, drained, chopped
- 1 1/2 cups chopped fresh broccoli florets
- 1 tablespoon ground cumin
- 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese
- 12 flour tortillas (7-inch), heated
- Optional: Sour cream, cilantro, radish slices

Heat oven to 350 F. In 10-inch non-stick skillet, cook chicken, onion and garlic in oil until chicken loses its pink color. Add 1/4 cup of the picante sauce, tomatoes, broccoli and cumin; mix well. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 5 minutes. Uncover, increase heat and simmer 4 minutes or until most of liquid has evaporated, stirring frequently. Stir in 1 cup of the cheese.

Spoon about 1/4 cup mixture down center of each tortilla; roll up. Place seam side down in 13 by 9-inch baking dish sprayed with cooking spray. Spoon remaining 1 1/4 cups picante sauce over tortillas. Bake 20 minutes or until hot.

Sprinkle with remaining cheese; return to oven 2 minutes. Top as desired and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 6 servings.

BUENAS BEEF AND BEAN 'CHILADAS

- 3/4 pound lean ground beef
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) Campbell's condensed French onion soup
- 1 1/2 cups picante sauce
- 1 cup canned kidney beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 cup chopped mixed red and green bell peppers
- 12 flour tortillas (7 to 8 inch), heated
- 1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese
- Optional toppings: Sour cream, avocado slices, chopped cilantro

Heat oven to 350 F. In 10-inch skillet, brown meat; drain. Stir in soup, 1/4 cup of the picante sauce, beans and chili powder; mix well. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer uncovered 15 minutes or until most of liquid has evaporated. Stir in peppers; mix well.

Spoon about 1/4 cup meat mixture down center of each tortilla; roll up. Place seam side down in 13 by 9-inch baking dish sprayed with cooking spray.

Spoon remaining picante sauce over tortillas. Bake 15 minutes or until hot. Sprinkle with cheese; return to oven 2 minutes. Top as desired and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Hotline answers garlic questions

It might stink, but is it good for you? The answer to this and other questions about garlic, also known as the "stinking rose," are happily answered by the "Garlic Information Hotline," a new service of the Garlic Information Center of The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in New York City.

The Garlic Information Center, a new component of the Hospital's Nutrition Information Center, opened in January. Now, consumers may dial 1-800-330-5922 (toll-free), 24-hours a day to receive a brochure containing almost anything you'll want to know about garlic, including: fresh garlic, cooked garlic, garlic supplements, recipes and information about garlic's many potential health benefits, and more.

If consumers have specific questions, they may call the hotline Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to speak to a nutritionist.

In addition to the new Garlic Hotline, the Center provides services and information about current research exploring the potential role of garlic and garlic supplementation in preventing, treating and managing disease.

Food markets add glamour to grocery

I just returned from Papa Joe's Gourmet Marketplace in Rochester Hills, where I gathered the makings of a delicious dinner — fresh linguini, just-picked basil, freshly grated parmesan cheese, pinenuts, a warm loaf of bread, dried cherries for the salad, and two bunches of daffodils to center the table.

If you haven't perused one of the area's mega-markets, you're missing out on a classic European-style shopping experience. Of the three I visited, each conveyed a different feel and atmosphere.

Papa Joe's in Hampton Plaza on Rochester Road in Rochester Hills, is owned by Marla Curtis. Here you can taste-test Marty's Cookies or Gayle's Chocolates, grab lunch at the Marketplace Cafe, and take home a box of Greek pastries from the Astoria Bakery in Greentown.

The produce is displayed like works-of-art in a museum — an immaculate, still life of perfectly placed colors, shapes and textures. Gourmet-To-Go dishes include homemade pasta salads and entrees, and loaves of just-baked bread beckon in the Olde World Bread corner.

Choose exotic and wild game or sushi, and ogle the extensive selection of fresh herbs, from cilantro to sorrel. Gourmet and specialty foods draw shoppers from near and far.

Heather Pizzo of Clawson maneuvered her basket and three children through the vegetable aisles as the kids sampled fudge brownies.

Though Papa Joe's was her destination on this day, she said she usually shops Westborn Market in Berkeley.

"I'll pay a little more to get the good quality meat and vegetables that I can't find in the grocery store," she said.

Westborn Market, 2245 Woodward in Berkeley, is a friendly neighborhood farmstand with the added amenity of a first-class meat market. Festive green-and-white-stripe awnings and yellow flags greet shoppers who browse through an array of vegetables stacked on giant crates in the open-air breezeway. Market specials entice regulars, as do bouquets of fresh flowers and potted plants.

The variety of fruit is second-to-none. The Red Garter Band serenades on Sunday afternoons.

Westborn has a second location in Dearborn. The markets are owned by the three Anusbigian Brothers. No, you're not in the middle of a quaint European village square. The balconies and flower boxes, wrought iron railings and street lamps are all authentic, as are the turn-of-the-century building facades. If you close your eyes, you can almost hear the vendors hawking their wares.

You've traveled to the amazing new Vic's World Class Market, 42875 Grand River in Novi. It's the westside location for owner Vic Ventimiglia who also owns Vic's market on Southfield in Beverly Hills.

Tapper's moves to the future

While other small retailers fight for survival against the national chains, Tapper's continues to grow and expand their jewelry operation.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Tapper's Jewelry Store needs no feature story to tell shoppers of the recent move from Southfield to West Bloomfield.

The 18-year-old family business built by word-of-mouth customer referrals, used that same technique to let patrons know of their new state-of-the-art headquarters in the Orchard Mall at Maple and Orchard Lake Roads.

Price is right for Dani Max customers

Women's wear designer Lois Snyder and business partner Michael Ross agreed that the success of their Dani Max collections come from being in the right place at the right time with the right clothes at the right prices.

Last year that formula worked well enough to see $60 million worth of Dani Max garments through Macy's, Nordstrom, Dayton Hudson, Lord & Taylor, Hecht's, Parisian, Dillard's, Filene's and Rich's department stores nationwide. Dani Max is just three years old.

"I want to make clothes that give women classic fashion at a price they can afford," Snyder said during a recent visit to Hudson's Oakland Mall store in Troy to preview her spring collection. "I try to make beautiful garments in dimensions that fit Americans. My designs are not trendy although the colors, prints and fabrics are innovative."

Dani Max came to the attention of Michael Catania, women's wear buyer for Dayton-Hudson. Catania said he recognized a good thing when Roth arrived with a trunkful of Dani Max samples.

"Although the garments are at the higher end of the moderate price scale, $98-$140 retail, they sell well because of their classic styling. They are designed to carry a woman through the many occasions of her day from the office through a dinner meeting."

Dani Max career clothing comprises 20 percent of career sales at Hudson's, especially through the Oakland Mall store. The more casual Dani Max ensembles sell better from the Twelve Oaks store in Novi.

"Customers recognize the workmanship that goes into our garments offering them superior quality at affordable prices," Ross said. "Everyone wants a Dani Max."

Snyder and Ross explained that they met a few years ago after both had spent 20 years working in various aspects of the women's garment industry in New York. They said they instantly knew they must pool their talents to start a company of their own.

The name Dani Max came from a

MALLS & MAINSTREETS

On opening night, April 13, the new 11,000-square-foot store was filled with well-wishers bearing floral arrangements, plates of cookies, sweet breads and bottles of wine. They've been waiting for the company's big move and their hugs and handshakes left owner-brothers Howard and Steven Tapper teary-eyed.

"It's incredible, unbelievable how we've grown this company from most humble beginnings to a successful business employing 60 people," said Howard. "And quite simply, we just based our philosophy on the basic teaching of our Jewish faith — Do nothing to others that you would not want done to yourself. It all grew from there."

In 1977, Howard and his wife Susan, sold their car to help raise the $35,000 it took to open Tapper's Jewelry on Northwestern Hwy. in Southfield. Howard had worked for other local jewelers through his high school years and after college. But it was his dream to have his own jewelry business.

"My merchandising plan was to have the largest selection of every category I could afford," he explained. "Instead of one pair of $1,000 earrings, I had a case full of 20 pairs for $50. Vendors extended me credit. I sold some pieces on consignment. I personally greeted and treated every customer as if they were family."

Six months later his brother

Steven joined him. They've worked together ever since. Howard, 46, and Steven 44, said that earning a good living at what they enjoy most is just icing on the cake of life. The substance comes from relationships with staff and pointing out that 58 other people provide for their families by working at Tapper's.

The move to a larger, more northern location was necessary to position the company for business through the next few decades. Tappers wanted to be closer to their customers and install high tech service equipment which required more space. They said they have no plans for adding other locations. They just want to be the best they can be at one "destination store."

In the new facility designed by Jon Greenberg & Associates of Southfield, appraisers, technicians, engravers, buyers, designers, computer operators and sales consultants have plenty of space to sell and service watches, gift clocks, necklaces, chains, earrings, pins and of course, diamond and gemstone rings. There is a video corner for children. Merchandise is displayed on white backgrounds by category in well lit cases "so you can see the quality of what you're getting."

Every employee knows his or her "stuff" and puts customer satisfaction first. Master jeweler and designer James Pierowich works with clients to update and redesign family heirlooms. "We're not just interested in selling expensive items from the show-cases," he said. "We appreciate the sentimentality and value of a grandmother's ring or father's watch and we work with customers to redesign dated or damaged jewelry." Pierowich has been with Tapper's since 1986.

Neale Stone has managed Tapper's since 1978. With a broad grin and a friendly handshake, he welcomed longtime customer Janice Malach of West Bloomfield who stopped in to see the new store.

"Wonderful people, wonderful jewelry," she said. "They know you, call you by name, have merchandise ready when they say they will. I trust them. Their jewelry is beautiful and they keep up with the latest trends."

Trusting customers mean repeat sales according to Steve Tapper who said he and Howard have been invited to many customer weddings, bar and bat mitzvahs and other family events. Most customers have become friends and the Tapper's list of friends is impressive.

Helping hands

"Five years ago we hired a Russian immigrant who needed a job. He spoke no English so we charged him with keeping the store clean," Steve said. "He worked and studied hard and eventually became a watch salesmen. "Judge Bernard Friedman a dear friend, swore him in as an American citizen right in our store. We had a red, white and blue-iced cake and a little party. It happened on the same day this employee won a $20,000 car from the Rado Watch Company for being the line's top salesman in the country."

Howard and Susan have two children. Steven and his wife, Patti, have three. Family ties run deep at Tapper's whenever Howard's in-laws Stanley and Trudy Berlin stop in to help, and Howard's son reports for duty to get his feet wet in the business.

The brothers lost their parents many years ago, but agree their dad who ran a laundry in Detroit, and their mom who worked as a secretary, would be proud of them.

The new Tapper's Jewelry is at the north end of Orchard Mall in the former Coats Unlimited spot. Coats Unlimited has relocated to the other end of the shopping center.

combination of names, "Danny" after Roth's son, and "Max" a favorite name of Snyder's.

"When we formed Dani Max no one was making chic clothing at moderate prices," Snyder explained. "Dowdy print dresses seemed to be all that was out there. I dreamed of dressing women for any situation in classic styles."

Roth said Snyder's signature shawl collar pantsuit and coat dresses launched the line and customers came back clamoring for more. A twin-print vested jumpsuit followed as well as many other pantsuit and dress designs in mostly crepe and rayon fabrications.

Patricia Geromette of Warren lifted a celery-green tailored pantsuit from a rack at Hudson's Oakland Mall and held it against her chest in front of a nearby mirror.

"This caught my eye because it's not trendy and I'll be able to wear it for many seasons," she said. "Also the price, $129, seems to be about right for an outfit as well-made as this seems to be."

Sales associate Liz Johnson said the store can't keep a Dani Max $99 butter-colored sleeveless shift with matching jacket in stock. The design is sought by everyone including bridesmaids who hope to get a little extra wear from their dress after the wedding. Also the tunic-like dresses are a favorite with shorter women, according to Johnson, because the style offers a slenderizing, longer silhouette.

Home matters

Snyder, 39, has a two-year-old daughter. She said it takes every bit of her energy to juggle the demanding careers of fashion designer/entrepreneur, wife, and mother. She reserves the mornings and evenings of her day for time with her toddler.

"I started working right out of high school," said the petite native of Long Island. "I learned the retail clothing industry from the real world in 20 years of holding various jobs from buyer to merchandise manager to designer. I design what I like to wear."

Roth, declined to reveal his age. He has two teenage children. He grew up in the fashion business learning the trade from his father who manufactured women's dresses under the name Siro. "My dad still sends us advice and suggestions for dresses," he said with a grin.

ROLL CALL REPORT

How local reps voted on term limits

Here's how Observer & Eccentric area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending March 31

HOUSE

Term Limits: The House failed, 227 for and 204 against, to achieve the two-thirds majority required for approval of a constitutional amendment (HJ Res 73) restricting House members to six terms (12 years) and senators to two terms (12 years). The limits were delayed until after ratification, and courts were left to decide whether states could require their U.S. lawmakers to serve even shorter terms. Three other term limit proposals before the House (below) drew less support than this measure. On this vote, 189 Republicans and 38 Democrats supported limits and 40 Republicans, 163 Democrats and one independent opposed them.

Majority Leader Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., said the Democratic Party "has it in its power tonight" to pass term limits because "if half of the Democrats, only half, vote with 85 percent of the Republicans, term limits will pass tonight. It will take a deliberate decision of the Democratic Party to deny the American people an opportunity Martin Meehan, D-Mass., said Democrats "are not the ones who ran for Congress on the Contract With America all around the country talking about the need to bring in term limits. My Democratic colleagues were honest about it—they did not run on term limits."

A yes vote was to approve term limits. Area representatives voting yes were: Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham. Voting no: Dale Kildee, D-Flint, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor.

Retroactive Limits: By a vote of 135 for and 297 against, the House rejected a term limits constitutional amendment similar to HJ Res 73 (above) except that it covered present members of Congress and permitted states to limit U.S. lawmakers to even shorter tenures. This offering by Democrats was the only retroactive proposal before the House.

Supporter John Dingell, D-Mich., said "contemplate yourself going home and trying to explain to the people that you serve, 'I'm for term limits' . . . but you don't tell them that you are for term limits which will begin somewhere between 13 and 20 years from today."

Calling the amendment a Democratic "Sham" to provide political cover, Bob Goodlatte, R-Va., said: "Term limits should be phased in" to preserve institutional memory. "That is why they have been made prospective in every single state that has enacted term limits."

A yes vote was to make the limits retroactive as well as prospective. Area representatives voting no were: Dale Kildee, Joseph Knollenberg, Sander Levin and Lynn Rivers.

States' Option: By a vote of 164 for and 265 against, the House rejected a proposal by Van Hilleary, R-Tenn., that was essentially the same as HJ Res 73 (first issue above) except that it enabled states to impose shorter terms. Some of the 22 existing state limits on Capitol Hill careers are stricter than 12 years. A Supreme Court ruling is expected on the state measures.

A yes vote supported a measure empowering states to set their own federal term limits. Area representatives voting no were: Kildee, Knollenberg, Levin and Rivers.

Shorter Terms: Voting 114 for and 316 against, members rejected a proposal by Bob Inglis, R-S.C., that was distinguished mainly by limiting House service to three terms, compared to the six-term House limit in HJ Res 73 (first issue above).

Supporter Fred Heineman, R-N.C., said: "A six-year limit will allow more citizens to serve in Congress, destroy the evils of incumbency and keep those who serve in Congress closer to those who elected them. This is what the founders sought, a citizen legislature."

Opponent John Conyers, D-Mich., noted that under a six-year limit "none of the leaders of the Republican party — not Majority Leader Arme, not Speaker Gingrich, and indeed not a single Republican committee chair" would still be in office.

A yes vote was to limit House service to six years and senators to 12 years. Area representatives voting no were: Kildee, Knollenberg, Levin and Rivers.

SENATE

Federal Buildings: By a vote of 45 for and 49 against, the Senate rejected nearly $325 million earmarked for building U.S. courthouses and other federal structures in 20 states. The vote preserved the cut in a bill (HR 1158) that rolls back $13.5 billion in appropriated funds and provides $5.7 million in new spending for disaster relief.

A yes vote was to spend $325 million already appropriated for certain federal facilities. Michigan Senators Carl Levin, D, and Spencer Abraham, R, both voted no.

Timber Cutting: By a vote of 48 for and 46 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment in HR 1158 (above) concerning Northwest timber cutting. To speed the salvage of dead and dying timber in designated forests, the bill waives the right to certain court challenges. This amendment, in part, required compliance with environmental laws and banned salvage operations in federal wilderness and scenic river areas.

A yes vote was to kill the amendment. Michigan Senators Levin voted no, Abraham voted yes.

Bond fire

Engler allies oppose MEGA tax break bill

Capitol capsules:

Some of Gov. John Engler's best friends voted against his MEGA bill — the Michigan Economic Growth Authority, which will be able to give single business tax breaks to businesses which expand jobs here.

The Senate agreed 29 to 5 recently in the House substitute for Senate Bill 350. Four of the five opposing votes were Republicans — Loren Bennett of Canton, Michael Bouchard of Birmingham and Robert Geake of Northville, as well as Engler's closest political pal, Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus of Alto.

Bouchard gave a formal explanation of his negative vote, echoing Engler's old campaign speeches: "There are real philosophical concerns . . . policies that restrain the marketplace or pick winners and losers. It would be my preference to reduce business costs to all businesses, rather than pick winners and losers."

Engler praised the Legislature's action. "This job-creating legislation directly attacks the disadvantage Michigan currently faces in head-to-head competition with states such as Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio that offer similar programs."

With Engler out of the state, Acting Gov. Connie Binsfeld signed the MEGA bills. MEGA establishes an eight-member board that can give eligible businesses tax credits for up to 20 years. The credit would equal the state income tax paid by new employees plus an amount equal to the company's increased SBT liability.

New drink laws

More than 100 prosecutors and city attorneys were in Lansing recently at a seminar on "Prosecuting the Drunk Driver." It covered a new law taking effect May 1 that:

- Requires destroying the driver's license of a person under age 21 caught with a blood alcohol content of 0.02 percent. A temporary permit will be issued.
- Requires destroying the license of a commercial vehicle operator with a blood alcohol content of 0.04 percent and issuance of a temporary permit.
- Requires revocation of a driver's license for offenses resulting in a person's death.
- Reduces technical challenges to chemical tests by defining alcohol content in terms of breath as well as blood.
- Adds impaired driving to the crime of "drunk driving causing death."
- Broadens the definition for "drunk driving causing serious injury."

Dentistry in the 90s
 by Herbert M. Gardner, D.D.S. & Martha P. Zinderman, R.N., D.D.S.

STROKE SCREEN

As it now turns out, dentists can concern themselves with a type of plaque other than the one that coats the teeth. According to a recent study, a panoramic x-ray can detect calcium deposits in neck arteries that are an indication of damaged artery walls and plaque buildup. Each year, artery-clogging plaque proves fatal to more than 150,000 stroke victims in this country. Some of this number could be helped by early treatment on the basis of x-ray detection. Panoramic X-rays have proven to be effective in this respect because the camera tracks in a circle around the patient's head and picks up the presence of calcium deposits in neck arteries. While no one suggests that these x-rays should be routine for stroke screening, they can provide useful information when warranted.

During May, "Stroke Awareness Month," we would like to alert the public about stroke's warning signs. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we appreciate the opportunity to provide you with quality dental care. When we ask you to give the gift of a lifetime, we're not exaggerating.

Some of them have been abused. Others have been abandoned. But they're all victims of the biggest problem facing the Michigan Humane Society: Pet overpopulation. More than 54,000 animals find their way into our shelters each year. And while we're here to help them all, the painful truth is, we can't do it alone. Which is why we urge you to make a donation to the Michigan Humane Society this holiday. By doing so, you'll help provide these animals with food, shelter and the best medical care possible. Your contributions will also afford them something equally important: the opportunity to find a new home. Please give generously. Because without your help, a lot of wonderful animals will never enjoy the most priceless gift of all. Life.

Yes, I would like to help.
 Here is my donation of $15 a $25 a $50 a $100 or other.
 Please make check payable to Michigan Humane Society, 7401 Chrysler Drive, Detroit, MI 48211.

Overaltis top player

Livonian Tara Overaltis, who led Dearborn Divine Child to a 25-2 overall record and the state Class B girls basketball championship, was named Player of the Year for the State of Michigan by USA.

The 5-foot-11 forward, who signed with Michigan State, averaged 20 points and 15 rebounds per game for the Falcons.

She was named to the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press All-State dream teams. At Livonia Ladywood, Overaltis was twice named first-team All-Observer (1992 and 1993).

WSU inducts Kropf

Longtime Livonia resident Rodney Kropf was inducted Saturday into the Wayne State University Athletic Hall of Fame during ceremonies at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center.

He was joined Saturday by three other inductees — baseball player Paul Janas (1972-75), golfer Cass Jawor (1956-57) and softball player Patricia Kent (1980-83).

Kropf is being recognized for his lifelong and influential support of WSU athletics. His most significant contribution to Tartar Athletics was serving as a leader during efforts to retain varsity football during proposed programmatic changes at the University in 1953, 1981 and 1987. He remains active in several Tartar athletic fund-raising efforts.

After graduating from Lowell High School in 1943, Kropf entered the U.S. Navy and served in the Pacific during World War II. He attended WSU for two years, 1946-48, then left Wayne to enter the University of Michigan on a combined degree program. In 1951, Kropf graduated from Michigan Law School.

From 1953-57, Kropf served as an assistant U.S. Attorney. He also was assistant city attorney for the City of Livonia before establishing a private general law practice that he still maintains.

Kropf and his wife, Leneva, have two children — son Gerald, a WSU graduate, and daughter Marsha.

Livonia riflemen sharp

The Livonia Sportsman's Club junior rifle team took top honors last weekend at the NRA Junior Section held April 22-23 at the University of Michigan rifle range in Ann Arbor.

On April 22, Livonia Clarenceville High senior Lucinda Roddy took a gold medal in the Three-Position competition (prone, stand, knee).

Teammate Jeremy Breithaupt, a junior at Plymouth Salem, and Shari Jedinak, a sophomore at Westland John Glenn, took the silver and bronze, respectively.

The Livonia junior team, captained by Churchill High senior Karyn Juziuk, also took team honors. (Roddy, Breithaupt and Chris Boyer of Warren Mott were also members.)

In Air Rifle, Roddy took the gold, while joining Juziuk and Boyer to take team honors.

On April 23, the trio of Breithaupt, Boyer and Roddy took gold, silver and bronze, respectively, winning the Four-Position event (prone, stand, sit, kneel). The foursome of Breithaupt, Boyer, Juziuk and Jedinak also took the team title.

Juziuk, the 1995 Michigan Smallbore champion, plans to major in pre-med and will compete next year for Xavier (Ohio) University.

Roddy, the 1995 Michigan Air Rifle champ, has signed a national letter-of-intent with Jacksonville (Ala.) State. He plans to major in communications.

Boyer, meanwhile, has been accepted to West Point and will major in engineering.

'83 Michigan Hawks 1st

Sporting a record of 6-0-2, the '83 Michigan Hawks, an under-13 Little Caesars Premier League team sponsored by the Livonia Family Y, captured the second (winter) season playing up in the five-team under-13 division at Total Soccer at Beechwoods in Southfield.

Members of the Hawks, who also captured the under-12 first season (fall season), include Katie Beaudoin, Cheryle Fox, Lindaay Gusiak, Christina Lewis and Leslie S.A. Knapp, all of Livonia; Lorraine Dedomenico, Farmington Hills; goalkeeper Suzanne Morrison, Bloomfield Township; Natalie Shaheen, Birmingham; Emily Carbot, Carrie Kluaka, Misay Winn and Jessica Zwieler, all of Northville; Angela Maile, Novi; Abby Shepherd, Milford; Kendall Enmark, Sterling Heights.

George halts coaching carousel

The confusion seems to be over as far as who will coach the Wayne State and Henry Ford Community College baseball teams. Rodger George will stay at WSU, while Stu Rose keeps his post at Henry Ford CC.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

After meeting with Henry Ford Community College president Andrew Mazzara on Friday afternoon, Rodger George has decided to remain at Wayne State University as baseball coach.

George, who earlier in the month accepted the baseball coach's job at Henry Ford, faxed a statement Friday night to the Observer. The statement ends weeks of confusion surrounding the job at Henry Ford.

The decision means Stu Rose, a

Farmington Hills resident and former Redford Union coach, will likely keep his job as Henry Ford coach.

"Dr. Mazzara and I had a long and wide ranging discussion of the general wellbeing of intercollegiate athletics," George said. "After this discussion I felt it was best for me and Wayne State if I finished the job I started at Wayne. Mr. Brennan (Wayne State athletic director Bob Brennan) has agreed to allow me to continue as head baseball coach.

"Mr. Brennan has been a great help and confidant. The WSU baseball program is moving in the right direction, but much work remains. I hope to be able to lead the WSU baseball program to the place it should be."

George, a full-time faculty member at Henry Ford, was the Hawks coach from 1981-88 before taking over at Wayne. He had seven straight winning seasons at Ford and is 97-202-5 in six-plus seasons at WSU.

Rose's renewable two-year part-time contract expires after this season and George could have unseated him since he is in the union. George applied for the position, and because of a clause in the union contract, Henry Ford had to offer him the job.

George reportedly accepted the job, but Henry Ford athletic director Nancy Bryden wouldn't officially name him the coach until George submitted a letter of acceptance and a copy of his resignation to Wayne State.

George never put his acceptance in writing.

In Friday's statement, George addressed the issue regarding the union contract.

"The contractual issue that was raised by Mr. Rose and Ms. Bryden still exists," George said. "In fact, when I introduced Mr. Rose to the the HFCC community and rallied support for his hiring, this contractual issue was explained to him. There was no surprise."

Rose has led the Hawks to league championships in all six of his seasons as coach. The Hawks have won two of the last four regional titles and last year placed second at the National Junior College Athletic Association

Victory vs. Salem fuels John Glenn Lakes title hopes

The miracle finish that saved Plymouth Salem's boys track team two years ago at Westland John Glenn, the good fortune that enabled the Rockets to upend the Rockets the past two seasons, were both no-shows Thursday.

Nothing could deter a very focused Glenn team from victory: 85-52, at Glenn.

"I was real happy," said Rockets' coach Jeff Shough. "We did everything we wanted to do — and then some."

Certainly the frustrations the past two years played a role in Thursday's outcome. Shough admitted "I wasn't that concerned (with winning) because the attitude of the kids coming into the meet convinced me we'd really do well today. Our effort was outstanding all the way down the line."

"Those (previous two) were tough losses. These seniors had never beaten Salem. They wanted it real bad."

The Rockets did it with wins in 10 of 17 events. Brent Washington was exceptional, winning two individual events (in the long jump, 20-foot, 3/4-inches, and 100 meters, 11.8) and anchoring two winning relays (the 400, 46.16, and 800, 1:38.07). Also, Todd Peterson won both the 110 (15.18) and 300 (42.34) hurdles.

BOYS TRACK

Salem got its share of strong performances on a cold, extremely windy day. Rocky Johnson won both the shot put (45-1) and discus (133-5), and Scott Pengelly was first in the 1,600 (4:48.73) and 3,200 (10:37.43).

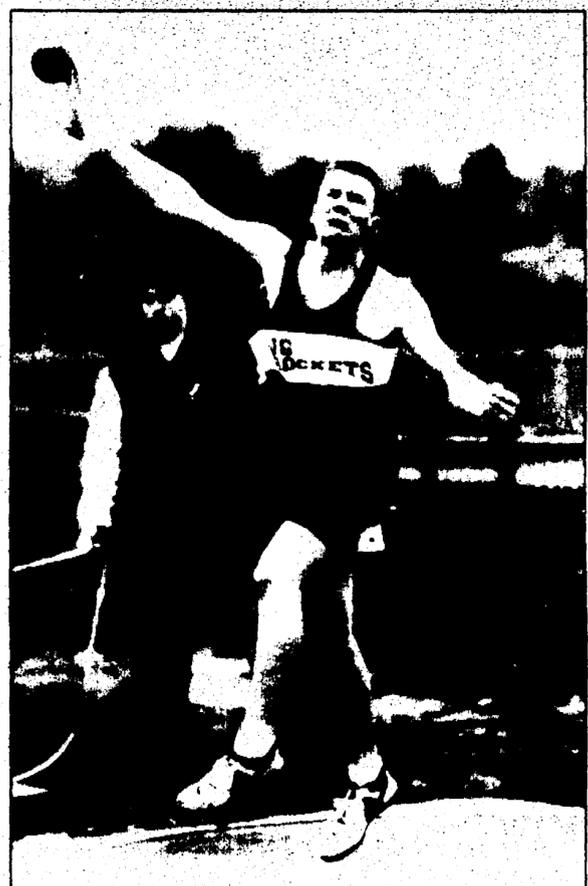

But it wasn't enough in a meet that very likely determined the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division championship. Salem is 3-1 overall, 1-1 in the Lakes; Glenn is 6-0 overall, 2-0 in the Lakes.

Still, there will be other chances for the Rockets to gain revenge — like Saturday at the Observerland Relays. Glenn must be considered a favorite, but Salem coach Geoff Baker wouldn't hand them the title just yet.

"They're good in sprints," said Baker of the Rockets. However, so too is defending WLAA champion Farmington Harrison; the two could cancel each other out, allowing someone else to claim the title.

"It's hard to say who will win it," said Baker. "The Observerland is wide open. We'll have to wait and see."

See complete boys track summaries on page 4C.

Rocket girls gain 1st soccer triumph

Westland John Glenn put one in the history books Wednesday, winning its first-ever varsity girls soccer match with a 1-0 victory Wednesday at Walled Lake Western.

Senior forward Courtney Brown scored on a cross from Jill Croaby at the 20-minute mark of the first half to give Glenn the victory.

Goalkeeper Erin Wallace, a senior, made 20 saves to post the shutout.

"We celebrated with doughnuts," said Glenn coach Jerry Poniatowski, whose team is 1-2 overall. "We weren't expected to win anything and winning felt so good."

"The girls acted if they had won the World Cup. If we don't win another game this year, we'll always have this one."

On Thursday, the first-year Rockets put up a battle before losing to host Ypsilanti, 3-2.

Glenn trailed 2-0 at intermission, but rallied to tied the score at 2-2.

Sophomore forward Nicole Farrar scored early in the second half on an assist from Bev Tanana. Junior midfielder Jennifer Tapper later tied it on direct free kick (unassisted) from 40 yards out.

Ypsal won it during the final three minutes.

The shots were 11-11.

CANTON 2, LADYWOOD 0: Melissa Tomei scored twice Friday, propelling Plymouth Canton (8-2-1 overall) to the non-league triumph at Livonia Ladywood (2-4-2 overall). Elise Raper assisted on Tomei's first half goal, while Emilio Mater made the pass on the second-half tally. Goalkeeper Sarah Warko posted the shutout. "The girls played a good ballgame, they played well," Canton coach Don Smith said. "We did a good job of pressuring them and defensively we held them to six shots."

On Thursday, Class B state-ranked Madison Heights Bishop Foley trimmed the Blazers, 4-1, as Darcy Raasch led the way with one goal and two assists.

Jennifer Domski, Liz Homlecki and Genevieve Young also tallied goals for the Ventures, now 6-1 overall and 3-1 in the Catholic League.

The loss dropped the Blazers to 1-3-1 in the Central Division.

STEVENSON 4, A.A. MURON 0: Four different players scored Friday as Livonia Stevenson continued its winning ways by blanking visiting Ann Arbor Huron.

Stevenson scored all four goals in the second half — Laura Fedrigo, Allison Campbell, Nicole Tobin and Wendy McCaul (unassisted).

Assists went to Campbell, Angie Pandolf and Raeanne Sudek.

Goalkeeper Jenny Barker recorded her sixth straight shutout.

The Spartans are now 6-0-1 since interim coach Jim Kimble took over.

On Wednesday, Stevenson blanked visiting Northville, 3-0, in a Western Lakes encounter as the Fedrigo sisters and Campbell tallied goals.

CHURCHILL 3, ADAMS 0: On Friday, Marie Spaccorotella's hat trick propelled Livonia Churchill (6-2 overall) to the non-league triumph at Rochester Adams.

Goalie Crystal Wright posted the shutout, while Liz Sakrybalo had one assist.

On Wednesday, Churchill blanked visiting Farmington, 5-0, as Jenny Wysocki and Spaccorotella each tallied two goals.

Wright posted the shutout in the Western Lakes Activities Association win.

Raider breaks discus mark; Spartans win

North Farmington's Alisha Gordon turned in a Jackie Joyner-Kersey type performance Thursday, but visiting Livonia Stevenson came away with a girls dual-meet track victory, 71-57.

Gordon set a school record in the discus with a monster toss of 142 feet, 11 inches, shattering Suzi Butcher's mark of 119-4.

"She had a great day and took advantage of the wind," North coach Bill Pinnell said. "She was in shock when it was time to run the hurdles race, but she was not happy with her shot put."

Gordon also captured the shot put (35-6/8) and 100-meter hurdles (17.4), while anchoring the victorious 400 relay team (55.2).

"The contractual issue is not a surprise," Rose said Friday night. "I've known this could happen, that someone qualified at Henry Ford could apply. I've never liked that, but I've been aware of that.

"This will enable me to answer the numerous calls I've gotten from recruits and parents of current players who have been in an uproar since news hit that Rodger accepted the position. I'm very proud of my players. It's not easy to coach a team when the team doesn't know if you're the coach."

Ford sees big future for Contour, Mystique 'world cars'

BODEGA BAY, Calif.—Eight years in the making, the 1995 Ford Contour and Mercury Mystique may do for Ford Motor Co. what the LH triplets did for Chrysler Corp. two short years ago—ensure the company's viability and success in the 21st century and beyond.

These fresh products are the derivative of the successful European Ford Mondeo and are part of Ford's strategy to build a "world car"—one marketed and sold in 59 countries.

Since its introduction in March 1993, more than 500,000 orders have been received for the Mondeo in Europe. The European-built Mondeo has a customer satisfaction rating of nearly 90 percent and has received 19 awards, including 1994 European Car of the Year.

Although Ford officials deny it, the Contour and Mystique essentially replace the outdated Ford Tempo and Mercury Topaz models. Both are priced at around $14,000 and marketed in the midsize car market, between the Ford Escort/Mercury Tracer and Ford Taurus/Mercury Sable.

The midsize sedan segment, the largest in the industry, accounts for 19 percent of retail car sales and has 28 other nameplates in compe-

Road Test By Anne Fracassa

"We plan to market the Mystique to the 30- to 55-year-old group, more than half women, half college graduates with household incomes between $38,000 and $65,000," said Bud Lever, general marketing manager at Lincoln-Mercury Division.

The primary competition in this segment are the Honda Accord, Nissan Altima and Mazda 626.

Ford hopes to attract 20- to 40-year-olds to purchase the Contour, said Russ Roberts, vice president and general manager of Ford Division. Their household incomes are between $32,000 and $65,000, with half women and 80 percent college graduates, according to company research.

"The Contour will appeal to the young professional, young couples and start-up families," said Roberts. "We'll be competing directly against the Pontiac Grand Am and Dodge Stratus."

The selling factor, Roberts said, is that both models will be competitively priced and will offer a higher level of standard equipment than its competition.

Both the Contour and Mystique will be built at assembly plants in Kansas City, Mo., and in Cuautitlan, Mexico.

"These cars are loaded with features offered by no one else in this segment," said Roberts. "We've got an engine that doesn't need a tune-up for 100,000 miles, solar glass, new performance-oriented engines and transmissions, dual air bags, all-speed traction control and safety features that meet 1998 Federal safety standards."

Job One for the vehicles was July 19; the public introduction of the cars was Sept. 29. Ford projects sales of 80,000 Mystiques and 180,000 Contours in calendar 1995.

This is the first time Ford has attempted worldwide integration of product and development. It has resulted in three cars in five body styles in both right-hand and left-hand-drive models. Curiously, the Mondeo looks radically different from the Contour and Mystique.

The Contour and Mystique share platforms, structural and power-train elements, but are distinctly styled. The Contour has an aggressive, sporty stance, while the Mystique is softer and more sophisticated. The interiors of the vehicles are nearly the same.

Two engines are available in both models, including an all-aluminum 2.6-liter 24-valve dual overhead cam Duratec V6 that produces 170 horsepower. Ford officials said this engine is the smallest and lightest V6 in the world.

Anne Brings Experience to The Observer & Eccentric

Anne Fracassa, whose column began last week in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, has worked as a reporter and senior editor for Michigan newspapers since 1981.

Her syndicated auto column is published regularly by newspapers and magazines in Michigan, Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, D.C., Washington state and in Canada.

Fracassa's auto reports have been carried by United Press International, the Gannett News Service and Avant NewsFeature wire services, by leading trade magazines like Automotive Executive and by newspapers as large as New York Newsday. Before joining the O&E, she was writing "Second Glance" auto road test reports for The Detroit News.

She also has done automotive commentaries for several radio stations through UPI Chicago.

Fracassa, who is married with two children and a dog, has two bachelor's degrees from Wayne State: One in journalism and another in history.

With its platinum-tipped spark plugs, the engine can travel 100,000 miles before its first tune-up.

"This is the first time a low-maintenance engine has been offered in this segment and price range," said Will Hoddie, director of small and midsize car platforms at Ford. "It's got the best racing technology and it's the first volume engine to be produced with the Cosworth casting process."

The standard engine on both models is a 2.0-liter 16-valve dual overhead cam in-line four cylinder Zotec engine that provides 125 horsepower.

Both engines can be mated to a 5-speed manual or an electronically controlled 4-speed automatic transaxle.

Safety features on both vehicles include dual air bags, a Quadralink independent rear suspension, illuminated switches and door handles, optional four-wheel disc anti-lock brakes and all-speed traction control.

Also standard on both models is a three-stage passenger-compartment MicronAir Filtration System that filters out and traps dust and pollen particles as small as three microns—1/20th the size of a human hair. The system will be especially appealing to asthma and hayfever sufferers. It previously was only available in the luxury-car segment.

Both the Mystique and Contour have cassette/CD storage bins in the full center console, a hook on the glove box for hanging a purse or litter bag and a 60/40 split fold-down rear seat that features releases in the trunk for ease of operation.

Many of the assembly processes used to build the Mondeo in Genk, Belgium, have been implemented in the Contour/Mystique assembly plants in North America to assure high quality levels in assembly.

"The processes and information learned from this project will spread through the rest of Ford," said David Price, director of large car programs for Ford of Europe. "We will mark our history as before global and after global. This car will carry us long into the millennium."

If you'd like to see a particular model tested or if you have a car question, send Anne Fracassa a message at AVANT-T11054, Avant's America Online mailbox. Or comment through the Internet at AVANT-T11054@aol.com.

Things You Auto Know! True or False? One worn spark plug can damage the catalytic converter on your car. True! The unburned fuel that results from the misfiring plug is ignited inside the converter, an emission control device. The heat can become so intense as to melt the interior of the converter. Keep your car running right to save the expense of a new catalytic converter.
