Motorcyclist hits school bus, dies of injuries

A 19-year-old Westland man was killed this morning when the motorcycle he was driving slammed into a St. Raphael Catholic School bus carrying 17 children, Westland police officer James Dexter said.

The motorcycle driver was identified as Bryan Isaacs. The children and the bus driver were shaken but didn't suffer any injuries during the 7:43 a.m. accident, which occurred on Cherry Hill east of Newburgh in Westland, Dexter said.

Isaacs' death marked the second traffic fatality within city limits in two days. On Wednesday morning, a 5-year-old girl who wasn't properly restrained was killed in an accident on Wayne Road south of Ford Road. (See Page 2A.)

Isaacs' death occurred while he was driving his motorcycle "at an extremely high rate of speed" on westbound Cherry Hill, where he collided with a full-size St. Raphael Catholic School bus. The bus driver was turning east onto Cherry Hill from a side street, Ravenwood, Dexter said.

Witnesses estimated Isaacs' speed at 60 to 80 mph, Dexter said. Isaacs' motorcycle slammed into the rear of the bus, the officer said.

He was taken to Oakwood Hospital/Annapolis Center in Wayne, where he was pronounced dead, Dexter said.

'Lucky' driver survives crash

A Westland man was hospitalized this morning after a car-train collision at the CSX crossing on Inkster Road north of Plymouth Road in Redford Township, police said.

The victim, 23, was reported in guarded but stable condition at St. Mary Hospital, Livonia. He was "conscious and coherent" immediately after the 6 a.m. crash, said Redford Police officer Dennis Schroeder.

Redford Police and hospital officials declined to release the victim's name.

Witnesses told police the driver pulled around other cars on northbound Inkster, between Plymouth and I-96, in an effort to beat the freight train.

His car was pushed into two others waiting at the gates causing minor damage but no injuries to the other drivers, Schroeder said.

The train's direction was unknown. The accident remained under investigation early Thursday, police said.

All warning lights and the crossing gate were working at the time of the accident, a CSX employee at the scene said.

The train was the third one passing through the crossing, said Gale McVey, a maintenance worker for the railroad.

"A girl at the road said everything was working. He just came around the gates," McVey said.

"I think he was lucky. He was in a light car and the train kicked him off to the side."

Crossing gates are there "to tell you something," McVey said.

But the railroad employee said drivers are in a hurry and ignore the message.

Schools angry at possible aid cut

Wayne-Westland schools might not be able to meet payroll obligations if the state doesn't come through with its full state aid payment to the district. School officials lash out against the Engler Administration.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A possible $1.6 million shortfall in state aid payment to Wayne-Westland schools could come in June, rendering the district incapable of meeting its $6 million payroll for the month, officials said this week.

The latest in a series of budget-busting measures prompted Superintendent Larry Thomas to lash out angrily at the Gov. John Engler administration, saying local officials can't manage their budget "because of garbage like this."

"We absolutely don't have the money" to cover the payroll if the state reduces June's state-aid payments by 20 to 25 percent, Thomas said during a Monday night school board meeting.

Thomas, uncharacteristically angry, blasted state officials for giving districts only a two-week notice of the potential money shortfall. "It's just not fair," he said.

The problem stems from a Michigan Supreme Court decision ordering that payments into the teachers retirement health care fund be prepaid. The court recently ruled that Engler and the Legislature violated state law when they halted prepayments in 1991.

The court decision followed a lawsuit filed by the Michigan Education Association. The teachers union has asked for a rehearing in the case, amid fears that the fallout could force program cuts and layoffs.

At issue is whether the state or local school districts will have to cover the $418 million cost of the health care prepayments.

The state has been accused of raiding the retirement health care fund, in essence causing the shortfall. Even though the Michigan Supreme Court ruled that Engler and the Legislature violated state law by stopping the prepayments, the court didn't force the state to pay the money.

Playground fund-raiser: Schweitzer Elementary School students walk Friday to raise pledges for new playground equipment. Joined by parents and Westland police officers, the youngsters walked a mile and raised more than $4,000, Principal Sig Dietrich said. Some 350 to 400 participants joined the walk; they later had snacks and won raffle prizes donated by local businesses. Schweitzer is located on Treadwell, off of Glenwood and east of Newburgh.

2 promoted to high school principals

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Two longtime educators Monday won sweeping support from the Wayne-Westland school board to become principals of the district's two high schools.

Leo Schuster, Franklin Junior High principal, has been chosen as the successor to retiring Wayne Memorial High School principal Ronald Stratton.

Neil Thomas, Wayne Memorial assistant principal, has been selected to replace retiring Westland John Glenn High School principal Dennis Connolly.

Schuster's annual salary will be $78,200 when he begins his job July 1, said Dan Slee, assistant superintendent for employee services. Thomas will be paid $74,478, Slee said.

Both administrators will assume their duties at a crucial time, as the two high schools prepare to add ninth-graders to their fall enrollments. The change will coincide with a middle school plan that will shift sixth-graders from the elementaries to the current junior highs.

"It will certainly be a real challenge for these gentlemen," school board member Francis "Bud" Winter said Monday, after the board voted 7-0 on the appointments.

Departing Superintendent Larry Thomas, who is not related to Neil Thomas, recommended the two administrators in a move supported by incoming Superintendent Duane Moore, who begins his job July 1.

Schuster and Thomas also gained support, independently, from two screening committees headed by Slee and Greg Baracy, assistant superintendent for general administration.

Schuster has been Franklin Junior High assistant principal since 1987. His prior positions include Wayne Memorial assistant principal, 1985-87; John Glenn assistant principal, 1975-85; John Glenn biology teacher, 1965-75; Wayne County Community College biology instructor, 1969-74; and Eastern Michigan University biology instructor, 1963-65; among other positions.

bachelor's degree from EMU, and he is working toward a dissertation to receive his doctorate from Wayne State University.

Schuster was John Glenn assistant principal when school board member Patricia Brown attended school there.

"When he's in the hallways, students don't fool around," she said Monday.

Thomas also was commended by Brown for doing "a great job" at Wayne Memorial High.

Thomas has been Wayne Memorial assistant principal since 1990. His previous positions include Franklin Junior High assistant principal, 1987-90; Cherry Hill High School teacher in Inkster, 1978-87; and John Hill Middle School teacher and coach in Inkster, 1969-78.

He has a master's degree from EMU, a bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University, and is working on a special education degree through EMU.

In another appointment Monday, the board unanimously approved a central office secretary, Gloria Burnside, to become Moore's executive secretary on July 1, with a salary of $44,755.

Moore will have "an extremely good right hand" with Burnside as his secretary, Winter said.

She will replace Marlene Pedlow, who is retiring after 22 years in the position.

Burnside has been school board executive secretary since August, 1993. Prior to that, she worked in Pinckney Community Schools as administrative assistant to the superintendent from 1977 to 1993. She also has been a microcomputer consultant/trainer for the Livingston Educational Service Agency and a word processing instructor at Cleary College.

She received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Cleary College and also studied at Michigan State University and Wayne State.

Seltz wins top statewide award

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Michael Seltz, supervisor of a Wayne-Westland alternative education program that has shown dramatic improvements, has netted a top statewide award.

Seltz, 34, has been named the 1995 Outstanding Administrator by the Michigan Alternative Education Organization.

"That's quite an honor for a program that 2 1/2 years ago needed to be improved quite a bit," Superintendent Larry Thomas said Monday, as the school board honored Seltz for the award he recently received at the MAEO's 20th anniversary awards ceremony in Grand Rapids.

"I'm just as tickled now as I was when I went up to Grand Rapids to get the award," Seltz said Monday.

Seltz became alternative education supervisor during a tumultuous period for the program, which has seen major changes during the last two years.

The program, for students who have had behavior problems in regular classrooms, became more isolated this school year at the Tinkham Center on Venoy Road, after being placed in the district's two high schools for a controversial one-year period.

Prior to that, officials had viewed alternative education as being somewhat neglected at its longtime home in the Cherry Hill Center in Inkster.

In honoring Seltz, the MAEO described him as "a charismatic leader who, over the past two years, has skillfully taken a problematic program and turned it into a progressive and highly successful alternative for the students of the Wayne-Westland community."

The MAEO described Seltz as "a team player, staff motivator and community leader" who revamped the program and improved it, despite the Wayne-Westland district's severe financial problems.

The Tinkham-based program has served 87 students during this school year, with a maximum enrollment of 60 students at any given time.

The program accepts students in grades nine through 12 who have had difficulties in the regular classroom setting. Some 40 percent of the students have been in trouble to the extent that they have encountered the judicial system.

Seltz and colleague Lynn Malinoff, who nominated him for the award, cited some highlights for the school board Monday:

- A mentorship program between the program and Henry Ford Museum/Greenfield Village is in its fifth year. Eight students are involved this semester; seven will have summer jobs at the museum.

- "It's just phenomenal to see the transformation that these students are capable of," Malinoff said.

- At the start of the school year, 90 percent of alternative students - had grade point averages below 1.0. The average rose to 1.9 in the first semester and now stands at 2.2. Twelve students have earned a 3.0 GPA or better.

- No physical fights have erupted at Tinkham since December, thanks in part to a conflict-resolution program.

- Attendance is at 76 percent, up about 13 points from the alternative program of one year ago.

- Tobacco use among alternative students is down, and the staff has started a stop-smoking support group.

- Students are showing better scores on the Michigan Education Assessment Program, or MEAP, test.

- "The program is working," Seltz told the school board.

- "We can't do miracles," he said, "but we can work with students who are ready to make a change."

- Seltz's recognition by the board on Monday came just two days before alternative students, themselves, were honored during an awards ceremony at the Tinkham Center.

Bennett to meet public

State Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton Township, will meet with the public from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday at Westland City Hall as part of his district office schedule.

Bennett, elected last November to the senate district which includes all of Westland and other western Wayne County communities, will meet with residents who have questions about state government or just want to meet him. Appointments aren't necessary, he said, but individuals' concerns will be addressed on a first come, first serve basis.

Those unable to meet with Bennett Friday may arrange an appointment by calling his Lansing office at (517) 373-7350 or write him at the Michigan Senate, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing 48909-7336.

Bennett took office Jan. 1, succeeding William Faust, who announced his retirement after 28 years in the senate. Faust died four months ago after open heart surgery.

A 5-year-old Westland girl died Wednesday morning after suffering a broken neck during a two-car accident on Wayne Road, just south of Ford Road, Westland police officer Jack McIntosh said.

Michelle Pierce died at the University of Michigan Hospital, where she was airlifted from Garden City Hospital following the 7:25 a.m. accident, McIntosh said.

An initial investigation indicated that Michelle wasn't restrained while sitting in the front passenger seat, he said. No other serious injuries were reported.

The accident occurred while Michelle's 29-year-old mother,

Susan, was driving a 1995 Ford Contour south on Wayne Road at the Ford Road intersection, McIntosh said.

Her car collided with a 1987 Honda Civic as the Honda, leaving the Qwik Stop convenience store, crossed the southbound lanes in an attempt to drive north on Wayne Road, McIntosh said. The driver of the Honda was identified as 37-year-old Steven Kemp of Westland.

Kemp told police that his foot "slipped on the clutch" of his car when he pulled into the southbound lanes, McIntosh said.

The investigation is continuing into whether one or both drivers should face charges, McIntosh said.

Neither Kemp nor Susan Pierce was seriously injured, nor was an infant child that was restrained in the rear seat of Pierce's car, McIntosh said.

Holiday closings listed

Westland veterans' groups will host a Memorial Day ceremony at 1 p.m. Monday at the Veterans' Memorial in front of City Hall.

In a break with tradition, there will be no parade because of a communications breakdown among veterans' groups, said a NFW Post 3323 representative.

There will be no rubbish collection Monday. Pickup will be held Tuesday through Saturday.

For the Memorial Day holiday, all municipal offices will be closed, including City Hall, Wayne-Westland Public Library, district court, Friendship Center and Sports Arena. The Bailey Recreation Center will be open Saturday and Sunday, but will close Monday.

The outdoor swimming pool will be open, weather permitting, all three days of the holiday weekend. The pool, behind Bailey Center, is scheduled to open Friday.

Schools and local financial institutions will also be closed Monday but most retail businesses will be open.

CANDIDATES FOR THE LIVONIA SCHOOL BOARD

Westland residents will be going to the polls on Monday, June 12, to elect board members for the Livonia Board of Education. The northern section of Westland is in the Livonia School District.

Question

What should the district do to ensure that at least one of its schools receive the state's highest accreditation level in 1997?

Question

Frank J. Kokenakes, incumbent
Former student, graduate, and now board member of Livonia Public Schools; am involved with the Strategic Planning Team, Curriculum and Policy Committees, M.A.S.B., Marshall and Jackson PTAs; am a lawyer, who graduated from MSU and Cooley Law School. My children attend the district.

Livonia Public Schools should continue to align the District's curriculum and teaching efforts to insure student success and accreditation of all our schools, as well as evaluate the feasibility of both reduced class size in lower elementary and the long term implementation of our Middle School Restructuring Program.

In addition to targeting increased student proficiency in "core curriculum" (language, math, science and social studies), the district must fully implement our technology program and continually integrate and upgrade the usage of state of the art technology in both academic and vocational education presentations.

Daniel Lessard
Resident of Livonia since 1977, married, one daughter at Franklin High; worked Michigan Bell Telephone 32 years, retiring in 1985; former member East Detroit School Board; past president McKinley and Emerson PTAs, corresponding secretary Livonia PTA Council; member School of Choice Committee, took Parent to Parent facilitator training, board member Livonia Youth Symphony of Michigan, Franklin High PTSA legislative liaison chair, member Building Utilization Committee.

The Livonia Public Schools should work to improve their MEAP test scores at every school in the district. All children, in all schools, deserve the best opportunity we can give them, not just the children in one school.

The district needs to work toward improving their MEAP scores, they need to increase parent and business involvement in the schools, and they need to continue to make use of the latest technology to ensure our children are prepared for the 21st century.

Patrick Nalley
Livonia resident six years; teacher in Wayne-Westland Community Schools; am a doctoral candidate in educational leadership at the University of Sarasota; member Cass Elementary and Jackson Center PTAs; work with Youth Making A Difference and Just Say No programs; president of Laurel Park South II Homeowners' Association.

The district should not spend its time and resources trying to jump through the hoops that the Governor establishes haphazardly, refuses to fund, and then abandons for the latest politically correct agenda. We should concentrate on making our schools all that the parents and citizens of Livonia expect them to be.

As science contributes to our increased population, technology requires less work from it. Our children will grow up into a world where competition for meaningful employment and leadership will be keen. The district must provide the best personnel and program to aid parents in their quest for success for their kids.

James Watters, incumbent
Vice-president and regional sales manager for a major financial institution; earned bachelors degree in business administration from Detroit Institute of Technology in 1971; graduate of the School of Mortgage Banking and Institute of Financial Education. Currently president of Livonia Board of Education.

I believe the Livonia Public Schools started the process during the last three school years by aligning our curriculum more closely to the MEAP test. Our superintendent has stressed MEAP score importance and accountability to the administrative and teaching staff of the district. Our staff will need to work with the state to ensure complete, accurate and timely report filing.

Encourage significant parental involvement. Maintain a curriculum which is responsive to the changing needs of the world of work. Continue to increase effective business partnerships.

Fallout from court ruling hits Livonia schools

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

The mailman brought a letter from the state to Livonia Public Schools this week that turned a worrisome Michigan Supreme court ruling into something more ominous.

"The letter said there could be a 20-25 percent decrease in our June state aid check because of the state having to pay on the retirees' lawsuit," Randy Liepa, assistant superintendent for business, told the Livonia Board of Education Monday in a discussion of the 1995-96 budget. The district serves the northern section of Westland.

"Now we don't know what our June payment (from the state) will be, if they put this cost on us."

"At the drop of a hat, with our school year finishing, they tell us they might knock $1 million off our state aid payment."

The threat to withhold a portion of the district's state aid is the first round in the new fight between the state and its school districts over who will pay the $418 million shortfall in the teachers' retirement health insurance fund.

The Michigan Supreme Court recently ruled that Gov. John Engler and the Legislature violated state law when they stopped making pre-payments into the teachers' fund in 1991.

The court ruled that teachers' retirement benefits must be pre-funded, as mandated by the state. But the court didn't say who would foot the bill. And the state claims it does not have the money to pay.

Trustee Richard McKnight called the threat to not pay a portion of its state aid next month a "scare tactic" to keep the bill from being dumped on the state.

Superintendent Ken Watson called it "hard ball politics" that will just create winners and losers. "What if we wind up on the losing side?"

If Livonia winds up with less money than expected next month, one option it doesn't have is to ask residents to pay higher taxes. About 75 percent of its $125 million 1995-96 budget now comes from the state via the state's foundation grant. The grant is based on the number of students in the district.

Even that grant now appears to be taking a hit, with Livonia receiving about $232,000 less next year than it had expected, Liepa said. "Since a large portion of Livonia's funding comes from the state, we are now more affected than ever before by the events in Lansing."

Michigan school districts must band together to protest the proposed drop in state aid, said trustee Frank Kokenakes. "If enough people holler, we may avoid this. They may be flouting this to see the extent of our disapproval."

With its projected $3.2 million rainy day fund, Livonia is lucky enough to have emergency reserves to ride out a loss in state aid.

"But what about districts which are thrown into deficit spending?" asked trustee Ken Timmons.

Wayne-Westland is one such district. Administrators there announced Monday the district, already in deficit spending, could not pay its employees without borrowing money if less state aid is received next month. And it's questionable if a district already in deficit could get a bank loan.

The lawsuit was filed by the Michigan Education Association, which has requested a rehearing in the case. The state could also ask the court to rehear the case, or it could appeal it to the U.S. Supreme Court. Reportedly, no other state is required to pre-fund its retirement benefits for state employees and teachers.

The Legislature created the fund's pre-funding mandate in 1985 and began prepaying teacher health care retirement costs. The state continued to do so until 1991, and then stopped the pre-payments. Money that should have gone into the fund was spent on current school expenses.

The state has several options to deal with the ruling. One is for residents to amend the Constitution to permit the "pay-as-you-go" system the state has adopted the last few years.

Aid from page 1A

On Monday, Thomas noted that the Wayne-Westland district is already in deficit spending. Officials have developed a plan for erasing a deficit that was earlier projected at $6.4 million for next year.

"Nobody can balance a budget" because of state actions that make it impossible for local officials to remain within their budget projections.

Rather than failing to meet two payrolls totaling $6 million in June, the district could try to borrow money to remain afloat, said Patricia Brand, assistant superintendent for business.

"That's always an option," she said Tuesday. "But it will not be an easy option."

With the state aid in doubt, Brand said, banks could be reluctant to make the loan.

Moreover, local officials consider it unfair that they could be forced to borrow money and pay interest because of problems that they see as being created on the state level.

About 1,800 employees are on Wayne-Westland's payroll, said Dan Slee, assistant superintendent for employee services.

On Monday, school board spending critic Walter Warren chastised Thomas for "berating" Engler and said the MEA should assume blame for the latest budget problem.

"The crisis was not caused by the governor, but by the teachers union," Warren said.

MEA officials have said the lawsuit was filed simply to seek enforcement of the state law on prepayments into the retirement health care fund.

Meanwhile, state officials are beginning to look at possible options to help resolve the problem. Among the solutions mentioned:

- Making all public school teachers state employees.
- Amending the state constitution to permit a "pay-as-you-go" system, rather than having pre-payments. That would require approval from Michigan voters.
- Enacting legislation establishing a defined contribution plan, which would affect future teachers.
- Taking money from the Budget Stabilization Fund to finance the 1995-96 contribution, and then waiting a year to draft a permanent solution.
- Raising taxes to make up the $418 million, though state Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, has said that scenario is less likely to occur.

CLARIFICATION

A story in Monday's Observer inadvertently indicated that Ed Turner may seek a Westland City Council seat. Turner later said he is not entering the race; rather, he is seeking a June 12 school board seat. He picked up council petitions for someone else.

New Horizons in Dental Excellence

An Open Letter to the Patients of Dentists Joseph Smulsky and Thomas Varga, PC

"We thank our patients for their patience — we're reopening in Canton."

We are happy to inform you that our Canton office will reopen for business on May 22.

As you know, we have been operating out of our Livonia office since a quick-spreading fire destroyed the interior of our Canton location last September 29. Your patience and understanding during the months since the fire have been greatly appreciated, and we sincerely hope that you find the news of our returning to "business as usual" as pleasing as we do.

Preparations for the office reopening have already begun. Please be aware that if you were a patient at our Canton office before September 1994, we have arranged for your dental records to be returned to the Canton office. If you have joined us as a patient October of 1994, we would be happy to continue seeing you in Livonia; however, if it is more convenient for you, you may schedule future appointments in our Canton office. Simply let one of our staff members know and we will transfer your records.

Appointments can be made by calling our Livonia office at (313) 591-0223 or our Canton office at (313) 453-0940.

Please feel free to stop in our Canton location any time and see our renovated surroundings, and please let your family and friends know about our updated office. We would be delighted to welcome new patients.

Thank you again for your patience and cooperation. As always, if you have any questions about our dental offices, please ask us or one of our staff members. Your dental health is of top priority to us.

Our sincere thanks,

Local voters approve 3-year tax for bus service

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Voters in Livonia, Redford, Westland and Garden City joined others throughout Wayne County Tuesday to approve a one-third mill increase for SMART.

About 13 percent of Wayne and Macomb county registered voters overwhelmingly approved the three-year property tax.

The unofficial Wayne County vote total is 45,070 yes and 24,609 no. Turnout was 12.26 percent.

Unofficial local vote totals are:
 ■ Livonia: 3,845 yes, 2,618 no. Turnout was 9.98 percent.
 ■ Garden City: 1,384 yes, 710 no. Turnout was 10.23 percent.
 ■ Redford Township: 2,108 yes,

1,031 no. Turnout was 9.72 percent.

■ Westland: 3,537 yes, 1,363 no. Turnout was 7.16 percent.

Property owners in Livonia, Redford Township, Garden City, Westland and most other suburban Wayne County communities will begin paying the tax in December.

Government officials in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township opted out of the Transit Authority, so property owners there will not be taxed. There are no plans to extend bus service to any community that has opted out.

The tax will generate about $8.2 million per year for the Wayne County Transit Authority, which was formed to put the SMART millage on the ballot.

SMART interim general manager Michael Duggan said Comerica Bank will now loan SMART the money it needs to operate until the tax revenue kicks in.

In Macomb County the unofficial vote was 43,642 yes, 27,911 no. Turnout was 14.71 percent. About $5 million per year will be collected in Macomb County.

Oakland County voters will cast their ballots June 6.

SMART will now be able to pay off its $17 million debt, negotiate new contracts with five unions and add new routes and services. Duggan said he was pleased with the election results. "I think people in the suburbs have decided that transit is a part of life," he said.

The new bus service to Wayne County will begin as soon as SMART can round up additional buses and drivers, Duggan said.

Among the planned additions are:

■ Weekday and Saturday service on Telegraph Road from Southland north to Pontiac.

■ Weekday service between Westland, Redford Township and Livonia including service to Westland Shopping Center and Bishop Borgess High School at Plymouth and Telegraph roads in Redford Township.

■ Route 300 on Grand River will have extended weekday service hours in Redford Township.

"We're going to get them started up as quickly as we can," Duggan said.

Ex-cops form caucus

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan's Legislature has racial caucuses and gender caucuses. Sometimes lawmakers from a geographic area will caucus and work together.

Now Lansing has a Law Enforcement Caucus, "not so much people from law enforcement but police officers and sheriff's deputies who have become frustrated," said its first leader, Sen. Michael Bouchard.

"We had 12 or 13 at our first meeting," said Bouchard, R-Birmingham, himself a former Bloomfield Township police officer. "We asked everyone to send in their top five bills as priorities so we can pick the top two or three to focus on."

There are full members — former sworn officers like Bouchard; Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Howell (FBI); Sen. Jon Ciskey, R-Saginaw (sheriff's); and Rep. Dave Galloway, R-White Lake (police).

There are associate members — Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville (member of the Judiciary Committee) and sponsor of the anti-stalking law struck down by the judiciary.

And there are law enforcement groups, like the Chiefs of Police, Sheriff's Association and unions.

Wayne Beerbower, vice president of the Police Officers Association of Michigan, said the union "not only employs a lobbyist in Lansing to further police-related legislation and concerns, but the executive board members speak directly with the politicians and policy makers. POAM regularly sends representatives to the National Association of Police Organizations (NAPO) seminars to educate them on common concerns."

No one this year has tallied the number of former police officers and sheriff's deputies in the Michigan Legislature, but it is known to be a growing group. Employees of governments — not only police but teachers, school administrators, political staffers and social workers — are probably the biggest bloc in the State Capitol.

Michigan police interests will be on a collision course with the Michigan Municipal League on the issue of binding arbitration. Police are for it. Municipal officials see labor arbitrators as invading their ability to protect taxpayers.

House Speaker Paul Hilda, R-Holland, had reassuring words for POAM when he told them, "Personally, I do not see a repeal of binding arbitration occurring in the near future. Possibly there will be some fine tuning, but not a total repeal."

Another strong area of interest to police — command as well as street officers — is high-speed phases. Lawmakers are drafting sample policies that, if adopted, can protect departments from big-bucks lawsuits.

Bouchard said his experience as an officer led directly to his interest in politics.

"When I was a police officer, there were a couple of cases where I felt the judge made truly bizarre decisions. So I helped judicial candidates," he said, starting with District Judge Bernard Friedman, now on the federal bench.

"Then I served on the Heverly Hills Village Council from 1986 to 1990, with two one-year terms as president. We upgraded facilities to protect the village. We examined future public safety needs. I went literally door-to-door and worked on a bond issue.

Area students win state PTA honors

Eight Livonia school district students won awards in this year's Michigan PTA Reflections award competition. Award ceremonies and a reception for the winners were held recently in Traverse City.

The eight students all took top honors in this year's local competition, sponsored by the PTA Council.

The Livonia district serves the northern section of Westland.

The top three winning entries in each category were then sent on to be judged against entries from around the state.

The eight students with award-winning entries are:

- Elizabeth Turbiak of Webster Elementary. She won second-place honors in the primary literature category.
- Danny Karas of Hull Elementary. He won third-place honors in the primary photography category.

■ Nicholas Fugedi of Grant Elementary. He won second-place honors in the intermediate music category.

■ Steven Cady of Hoover Elementary. He won first-place honors in the intermediate photography category.

■ Andrew Hamme of Kennedy Elementary. He won second-place honors in the intermediate photography category.

■ Audrey Spurgis of Riley Middle. She won third-place honors in the junior literature category.

■ Lisa M. Harris of Riley Middle. She won first-place honors in the junior visual arts category.

■ Vickie Brandemuhl of Franklin High. She won second-place honors in the senior literature category.

Exchange Club honors youths

Area high school students were honored recently with the Exchange Club Youth of the Year Award.

The students honored include Joey Knopsnider, Tracey Parker, Kynthia Traub of Livonia Franklin High, Samantha Antrobus of Franklin High, Jon Schmoll of Lutheran West High in Westland, Jill Van Tiem of Livonia Stevenson High, Katherine Groulx of Stevenson High, Bob Klemmer of Catholic Central High in Redford, Andy Short of Catholic Central, and Angela MacKenroth of Lutheran West.

The Exchange Club of Livonia honors area students each month and then honors its Students of the Year. The club meets 12:15 p.m. each Thursday in the Elks Club on Plymouth Road east of Merriman in Livonia.

The Youth of the Year program co-chairmen are the Rev. John Streit of Redford and George Gvozdoch of White Lake Township.

The club includes residents of Livonia, Redford, Garden City, Detroit, Bloomfield, Dearborn Heights, Warren, Romeo, Pinckney, Dearborn, Clarkston, Plymouth, Linden, South Lyon, Lakeland, Brighton, Farmington and Pinckney.

Donald Hoyt, a Garden City resident and Redford businessman, is president. Other officers are Robert Gaberson vice president, Patricia McDonald secretary, and Glen Thompson of Livonia, treasurer.

The Exchange Club is a group of men and women representing various segments of the community who recognize their civic contributions and join together in thought and action to serve their communities.

The club's principal areas of involvement are Americanism, youth, and community service projects.

Newspaper group names top managers

Observer & Eccentric General Manager Steve Pope has announced several new management appointments at the Livonia-based organization.

Banks Dishmon has been named publisher of the Observer Group of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Rick Ficorelli has been named O&E marketing director, and Pamela Blount becomes promotions director for the twice-weekly newspapers operation.

As publisher, Dishmon will oversee management of the advertising, circulation and editorial operations for the Observer group, which has editions in Livonia, Plymouth, Canton, Farmington, Redford, Westland and Garden City.

Dishmon, 42, is a native of Dallas, Texas. Before joining the Observer Group in April, Dishmon spent nine years as vice president of operations for the Dallas/Fort Worth Suburban Newspapers.

In that role Dishmon was responsible for the management of a multi-market news operation which published eight newspapers and one shopper in Dallas and Tarrant counties.

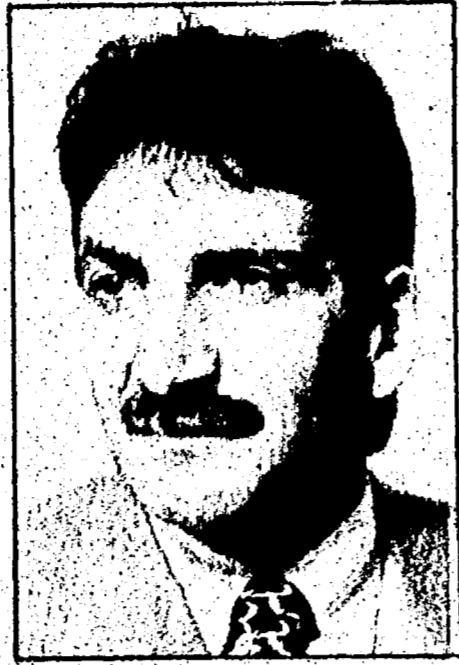

Before that he spent two years as city circulation manager of the Dallas Morning News.

He has also held circulation positions at the Shreveport Times, Texarkana Gazette, Dallas Times Herald, and Denton Record-Chronicle.

He is a member of the Newspaper Association of America, Suburban Newspapers of America, Texas Press Association, Texas Circulation Managers Association and an honorary lifetime member of Newspaper Circulators of Arkansas.

Banks Dishmon

Rick Ficorelli

He has served on the board of directors of the Kiwanis Club of Richardson, Texas and been active in several chambers of commerce.

He holds a bachelor's degree in industrial arts from the University of North Texas-Denton. He and his wife, Debbie, have three children.

Pope welcomed Dishmon to the Observer & Eccentric management team, citing his broad experience in all facets of newspaper operations.

"Banks' experience will be valuable to this organization. His background in circulation and business is an asset to the Observer Group as it changes to meet the needs of an increasingly competitive economy in southeast Michigan," said Pope.

Ficorelli, a resident of Bloomfield Hills, was previously vice president/marketing of the Metro Times, an alternative news weekly based in Detroit.

Ficorelli worked at the O&E from 1975 to 1985 as retail advertising manager in Wayne County and classified advertising manager.

He also worked as director of telemarketing sales for the Detroit Red Wings Hockey Club.

Ficorelli holds a bachelor's degree in marketing from Michigan State University.

Blount, a Waterford resident, comes to the O&E after eight years at the Oakland Press in Pontiac, where she worked as a district sales manager, circulation zone manager and most recently as promotions manager.

She has a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan.

In other O&E appointments, Pope named Joni Silverstein associate publisher of the South Eccentric Group and Tom Byrd associate publisher of the newly formed North Eccentric Group.

The Eccentric publishes newspapers in Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Southfield, Troy and Rochester.

UM-D honors Heintz

Michigan Republican Party Chairwoman Susy Heintz, formerly a county commissioner representing Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, recently accepted the University of Michigan-Dearborn Alumni Society Distinguished Alumnus of the Year award for 1995.

Recipients of the award are selected based on continued support to the campus, the community and to the career they've chosen.

Heintz attended Western Michigan University before transferring to UM-Dearborn. She earned a bachelor's degree in political science from UM-D.

She became involved in politics as a volunteer in George Romney's gubernatorial campaign.

She was later elected to office as a trustee, clerk and supervisor of Northville Township and as a Wayne County commissioner.

In 1991 Heintz was appointed by Gov. John Engler as director of his southeastern Michigan office. She was named state party chairwoman last February.

Alma mater: The choir sings the Ladywood alma mater as Sunday's ceremonies draw to an end: "Then cheer for dear old Ladywood with voices ringing loud and clear."

Baccalaureate and commencement: St. Edith Catholic Church in Livonia provided the setting Sunday.

Valedictorian: Sarah K. Andersen, valedictorian of the class of 1995, gets her diploma from Ladywood Principal Sister Mary Ann Smith.

Ladywood grads head into the future

Some 111 seniors walked down the aisle Sunday of St. Edith Catholic Church in Livonia to pick up the diplomas they have earned as 1995 graduates of Livonia Ladywood High.

The Rev. Thomas Cusick presided over the baccalaureate Mass, assisted by Monsignor Thomas Villerot, the Rev. Kevin O'Brien, the Rev. James Scheick, cantor Beth Kummer, and organist and choir director Sister Mary Nora. The homily was given by O'Brien, pastor of St. Priscilla Catholic Church in Livonia.

The music included the communion hymns "One Bread, One Body" and "Taste and See" and "Let There Be Peace on Earth." The Ladywood orchestra was conducted by Don Buckmaster.

The 1995 valedictorian was Sarah K. Andersen and the salutatorian was Deborah M. Sobczak. Handing out diplomas were principal Sister Mary Ann Smith and Assistant Principal Sister Mary Serra.

Members of the Ladywood class of 1995 include Suzanne Mohamed Abou-Ekhair, Lauren Agoston, Lynn Allan, Najeeba Ameenuddin, Sarah Anderson, Kristen Atkinson, Kathleen Ayotte, Maureen Ayotte, Umaa Hamid Balbale, Heather Benedict, Rebecca Bilicki, Jennifer Blicharz, Rebecca Bonenfant, Carla Boore, Melanie Brennan, Deana Brent, Lisa Bridges, Jennifer Brom, Mary Budzinski, Kathleen Byrne, Tenny Camilleri, Melissa Campeau, Margaret Carmona, Cara Ceci, Nicole Clausen, Janmie Colliton, Sheila Cusick.

When we ask you to give the gift of a lifetime, we're not exaggerating.

Some of them have been abused. Others have been abandoned. But they're all victims of the biggest problem facing the Michigan Humane Society: Pet overpopulation.

More than 54,000 animals find their way into our shelters each year. And while we're here to help them all, the painful truth is, we can't do it alone. Which is why we urge you to make a donation to the Michigan Humane Society this holiday. By doing so, you'll help provide these animals with food, shelter and the best medical care possible. Your contributions will also afford them something equally important: the opportunity to find a new home.

Please give generously. Because without your help, a lot of wonderful animals will never enjoy the most priceless gift of all, life.

Yes, I would like to help.

Kmart stockholders make board more accountable

STAFF WRITER

Even after ousting chairman Joseph Antonini and two other top executives, the board of Kmart Corporation found shareholders are on the warpath against the board itself.

Stockholder Gerald Switzer of Birmingham won 60.5 percent approval for his proposal to elect the entire 12-member board each year rather than four at a time for three-year, staggered terms.

"We're not done yet," said Switzer, a retired Kmart controller who overcame the board's opposition to his plan. Switzer Tuesday called for a "board that is not blindly following a poor management team."

Vote results were announced at the giant retailer's annual meeting, held in the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel rather than the company's traffic-jammed world headquarters in Troy. Shareholders rejected a similar proposal in 1990.

Kmart Chairman Donald S. Perkins, the retired chairman of Jewel Companies, Inc., denied Kmart is planning to leave Troy. "I've never heard of the idea until I read it in the press. There are no plans to relocate the headquarters," he told one questioner.

Three dozen shareholders, employees, union leaders and shoppers peppered the 67-year-old "non-executive" board chairman with complaints and questions for 90 minutes. The atmosphere was more reminiscent of a union hall or a liberal political convention than a clubbish capitalist conclave.

Despite Switzer's victory, the change in board election procedures won't start for at least two years. Shareholders, by voting 189 million to 123 million to request that directors come up with a new plan, only made a request that they must vote on in 1996.

"If and when it is brought to shareholders," said Perkins, "it would have to exceed 58 percent support" — the margin by which shareholders in 1986 set up the current system of staggered terms. Switzer had argued, "The class system makes it difficult for stockholders to make meaningful changes to a board of directors. . . . Maintaining corporate stability and continuity is not desirable if it serves to entrench an ineffective board and management team."

Perkins' side argued that a class system of staggered terms would allow the shareholders to receive a price premium in the event of a hostile takeover bid.

Shareholders rejected, 120 million to 192 million, the proposal of Laborers District Council of Worthington, Ohio, to allow "cumulative" voting — a process by which minority shareholders could plunk multiple votes behind a single candidate.

Two shareholders called for more women in management and on the board.

"A woman has an unusual viewpoint that men don't have," Ann Gonte Silver, a retired attorney from Bloomfield Hills, commented after telling her tale of frustration while shopping at a Florida Kmart for dolls. "If you need new ideas and new blood, women . . ." she said to great applause.

Perkins agreed. Gene Rutkowski, from Troy who is a retired manager of a Dearborn Kmart that met 98 percent of its profit goals, touched a raw nerve when he complained that he was "insulted with my pension, which will be reduced." He said he worked for Kmart for 31 years — the same as the ousted Antonini, who walked off a $923,900 job with a pension of nearly $500,000 after leading Kmart on a nine-year tailspin in earnings.

"This board had nothing to do with designing that pension," said Perkins, who was hooted by many in the audience.

Employee-shareholders complained of "push, push, push" rather than leadership, poor benefits and an "anti-worker, anti-union" atmosphere.

Some shareholders criticized the company's plan to sell off its Australia holding, Coles Myer, its Sports Authority and Office Max, and preparations to sell off all its Borders-Waldenbooks holdings. But Les Leland, a 34-year shareholder, said a "nationwide boycott" of Kmart — "because Waldenbooks sells pornography and dirty books" — would be ended once the book subsidiary sale is completed.

Perkins made these points to the shareholders and in a press conference.

One in nine American women will develop breast cancer ...

If it's found early, about 90% of them will survive.

The key to beating breast cancer is finding it before it spreads. While it's still 90% curable. With the best chance of saving the breast.

At Providence, we're committed to providing a quality program to screen for breast cancer and teach women about breast examinations using:

- low-dose radiation
- fully accredited mammography equipment
- specially trained radiologists and technicians
- four locations with convenient hours
- acceptance of most insurance plans

Providence provides all the care you need if the diagnosis is breast cancer, from surgery, radiation and chemotherapy to reconstructive surgery. A multidisciplinary working group of physicians and other health care professionals assists patients in deciding which treatment is best for them, then streamlines that treatment so care can begin in a matter of days rather than weeks.

Providence oncologists have access to the latest cancer-fighting drugs and treatment protocols through membership in several national research organizations. The Hospital's radiation oncology program is affiliated with University of Michigan, bringing state-of-the-art care right here for Providence patients.

And we offer something more: The support, care and compassion cancer patients and their families need at a time that challenges body, mind and spirit.

Please call one of our four locations to begin your breast care program today. And practice it for life.

and Richard Munro (chairman of Time Warner Inc.) are the search committee for a new CEO to replace Antonini, who departed March 21. "My target (for hiring) was today, and I didn't make it. My target is tomorrow, and I won't make it."

Asked what credentials they were seeking, Perkins said, "It would help if he could walk on water. He or she should have a record of achievement in curing illness... A cheerleader and team leader." They want an outsider rather than an internal applicant.

The new Super Kmart stores, with groceries, aren't hurting existing Kmart. "The Super Ks are bringing in customers we weren't getting before. We may have to close fewer (old model) stores." In the annual report, he said the Super K format "attracts a younger and more affluent family shopper than our traditional Kmart discount stores." The traditional Kmart shopper is "a middle-income homemaker who often must balance both a job and a family."

The company will continue cost-cutting and store closings and will cut capital investment by half — concentrating on the Super K format.

Employees will be given incentives to increase sales — particularly the number of shoppers and the dollars of sales per shopper. Each store will be visited 16 times a year and rated by a "mystery shopper."

"Great strides" are being made in improving distribution, maintaining inventory and reducing "out-of-stocks."

Kmart in 1994 had sales of $34 billion, down 7 percent from a year earlier, and a net income of $296 million, not quite a one percent return on sales. Earnings were 55 cents a share, forcing the company to halve its dividend. It has 4,000 outlets, 2,200 of them Kmart.

Comparable store sales are up 6.5 percent for the first quarter of 1995, but margins and net earnings are "disappointing," Perkins said.

Academy applications available

U.S. Representative Lynn Rivers has set Nov. 1 as her deadline for accepting applications to one of the United States Service Academies from qualified young men and women of the 13th Congressional District. Application forms and full information may be obtained by writing Congresswoman Rivers at her Wayne office: 3716 Newberry, 48184.

Nominations will be available for the Class entering in June 1996 to the Military (West Point), Naval, Air Force and Merchant Marines Academies. Applicants must be at least 17 years old, but not have reached the age of 22 by July 1996. They must be United States citizens, unmarried and legal residents of the 13th District (our coverage area includes: Canton Township, Plymouth Township, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and part of Livonia.

"In addition to basic requirements, my nominations are based upon a strong academic record, SAT or ACT scores, extra-curricular activities and the recommendations of principals, counselors, high school teachers and coaches," Rivers said.

Once nominated, all nominees must pass competitive examinations given by the various Academies. Those selected for admission will be notified early in 1996 and will report to the Academy in June 1996.

"The 13th District has a proud history of sending the best young men and women to the Service Academies. I urge those seriously considering a career in the service to contact my office as soon as possible," said Rivers.

KAREN MEIER

What is right with America 10

What's right with America today? Cindy Marriott and her husband, Joe, two good people with two good children living in Plymouth. Both their children are girls, ages 8 and 13, and although there's a five-year age difference between the two, the span somehow doesn't seem that large. Probably because the span is stuffed full of similarities.

Both daughters are quiet and respectful and polite. Both love playing the piano. Both are talented gymnasts. As a matter of fact, Brigid, the 8-year-old, will begin competition-level gymnastics in the fall, and Elizabeth just this past weekend handily won the vault event in the regional gymnastic competition held in Lexington, Ky. She received a 9.0 for her death-defying, gravity-eliminating Tsukahara with a pike and slick landing.

My brain hurts just trying to visualize all that. But Elizabeth did it. And little sister isn't far behind.

I think the similarities between these two sisters are pretty amazing given their five-year age difference. But there they are nevertheless.

Maybe the similarities have something to do with the loving and consistent nature of their life at home. Cindy and Joe have devoted themselves to these young daughters of theirs. These girls are obviously at the very center, the very heart of their Mom's and Dad's lives. And the children know it and feel it and live with it every single day. That must be the reason for the girls' similarities. That's my guess, anyway.

But enough of my guessing, here's something

A change in dates got Mother Nature's cooperation for the sixth annual Warm-Up Magic Ride that benefited four child abuse councils in southeastern Michigan.

By CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The Southeast Michigan Warm-Up to the Magic Ride is a leisurely, family-focused bike ride and race to raise money for the prevention of child abuse and neglect.

But every year, Oakland and Wayne counties' health departments like to stir up a little competition. They battle to see who can raise the most pledges.

The funds are still being counted, but Dave Repasky of the Wayne County Department of Health would like to remind everyone that his organization won last year.

An Ypsilanti resident, Repasky was the department's "replacement" rider, after the regular volunteer couldn't make it. The strong winds posed an extra incentive to Repasky and his son, Mark.

"We were going into the wind in the beginning and then we came back with the wind," Repasky said. "So we had that to look forward to."

He and his son were among the more than 183 riders and walkers who participated in the May 20 event at the Canton Township Recreation Complex.

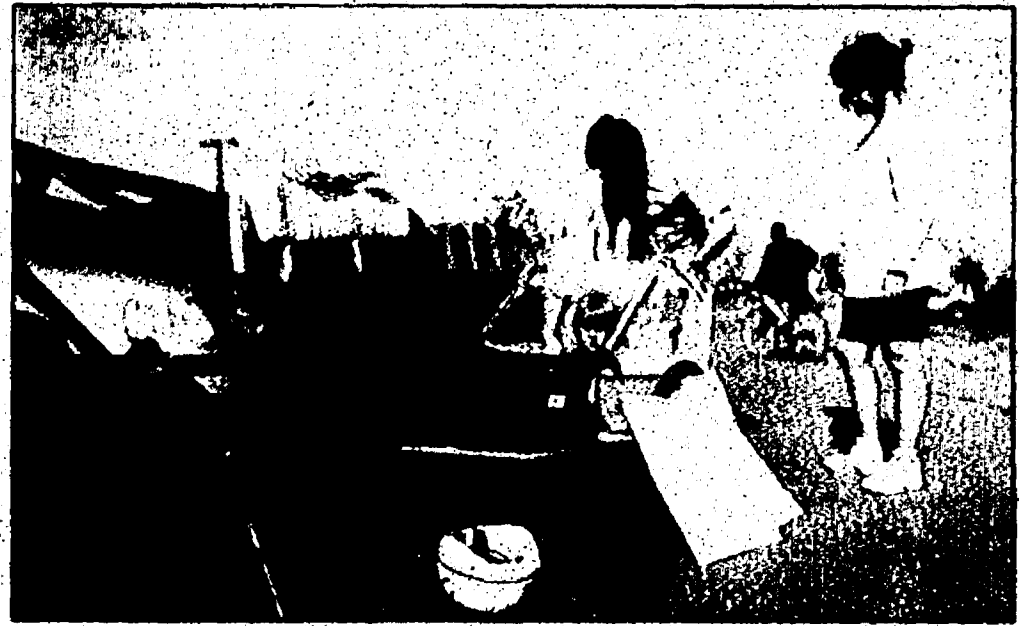

The ride benefited four child abuse councils in southeastern Michigan — the Child Abuse and Neglect Council of Oakland County, Child Advocacy Network in Monroe County, Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County and the Washtenaw County Area Council for Children.

According to Sandra Murphy, executive director of the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County, the turnout was lower than expected even though organizers had the best weather in the event's six-year history.

"We usually have it the very first weekend in May. This weekend there were too many other things that people were doing," she said.

Despite the low turnout, Murphy still got the support of her 7-year-old

Golf outing raises $8,000 for CHS Family Room from page 13A

Nearly 100 golfers turned out at Bay Pointe Country Club for the second annual Community Hospice Foundation "Living Every Day" golf outing.

In spite of cold and rainy weather, the golfers raised more than $8,000 at the May 9 benefit for Community Hospice Services.

Golfers teed off in a shotgun start of the four-person scrambles event, rubbing elbows with the likes of Mark Tate, 1994 winner of the Gold Cup for Unlimited Hydroplane Racing, former Detroit Red Wings John Ogradnick and Lee Norwood, former Detroit Lion Tom Watkins, former Green Bay Packer Gino D'Ambrusio and former Miami Dolphin Chris Ziomek.

Players vied for prizes in two hole-in-one contests and for the longest drive and closest to the pin for both men and women, which heightened the fun and excitement.

"As the weather got colder and the rain continued to fall, the many golfers donned their rain gear and continued playing with enthusiasm," said Christopher Ziomek, Community Hospice Foundation president. "Things definitely improved as soon as the beverage carts started bringing out hot coffee to the golfers. I'm pleased to say that everyone was warmed up by dinner time."

Brian Palmer, Gino D'Ambrusio, Mark Stonier and Neil Brunning, representing People's

Home Medical, won first place. The men's longest drive contest winner was Ed Lynch, representing Schrader-Howell Funeral Home. The men's closest to the pin contest winner was Jim Bernard, representing Commerce Industries.

Beth Lurtz, representing MLW Associates, won both the women's longest drive and closest to the pin contests.

"I'm looking forward to seeing those who participated this year and meeting many new golfers at next year's event," said Ziomek. "I am very thankful for the all the people who made this event possible, especially our generous sponsors, sports celebrities and all the exceptional volunteers."

The event was sponsored in part by People's Home Medical of Southgate. Other corporate sponsors included Bon Secours Home Medical Inc. of Eastpointe, Stu Evans Lincoln-Mercury Inc. of Garden City and Southgate, Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn, A.C. Delco, H-Care Hurley/Benson's Medical Equipment Inc. of Flint, Physician Hospital Administrative Services Inc. of Wayne, Sun Plastic Coating Company of Plymouth and Ziomek Funeral Home Inc. of Livonia.

Community Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled home care to those individuals who face an incurable illness. Hospice offers supportive care, promotes quality of life, and provides comfort and emotional healing for the patient and family members.

With 20 full-time staff members and more than 130 volunteers, Community Hospice Services provides its services to patients in western Wayne, southern Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties, with offices in Westland and Plymouth.

that is a fact. The sisters' similarities, and this I'm certain about, can't be chalked up to genetics. No one can say, "Of course, they're both talented like that, that kind of thing runs in the family like eye color and blood type."

That's just not so with Brigid and Elizabeth. Brigid came to be Elizabeth's sister 7 1/2 years ago when Brigid was six months old. Brigid spent her first six months of life in Korea — and then she got her family.

Adoption. What a wonderful way to make a family because the baby arrives very much loved and very much wanted. All babies should be so lucky.

The adoption process, though, is grueling, no getting around that. It's heart-wrenching and financially draining and can last for months, sometimes years. Pregnancy and childbirth can look easy in comparison.

But for the baby, parents and siblings, adoption's worth every agency visited, every form filled out, every interminable wait waited out, every personality probe conducted, and every tear shed. Because the joy, the love, the dream come true, is all right there, cradled in your arms, at the end of the process. A family's been created . . . for all the right reasons. Every family should be so lucky.

Luck. I keep saying that, which is goofy, because luck doesn't figure into this adoption process much. I mean the kind of luck where you just sit there and wait for something to fall in your lap or where you're in the right place at the right time.

Adoption's just not like that. Nothing falls in your lap there. And if you are in the right place at the right time, it's because you, yourself, put yourself there.

Cindy and Joe, neither one, count on luck. They don't wait for luck, they don't expect it. They, instead, make it; they make luck happen. And here's the part I don't get, they somehow make it look easy.

But it can't be easy. It couldn't have been easy when Cindy and Joe were in the midst of the adoption process. And now, 7 1/2 years later, it still can't be easy. Not when questions are thrown their way like, "You're not Brigid's real Mom and Dad are you?" Or when Elizabeth gets asked, "Brigid's not your sister, is she? She looks so different." It's a credit to Cindy, Joe, Elizabeth and Brigid that they remain quiet and polite and respectful, even in the face of such questions.

Brigid's Korean features are, of course, what prompt these difficult-to-answer-in-a-civil-manner questions. Yet the questions will always be asked because Brigid can't hide her Korean-ness. Nor should she, according to Cindy and Joe. As a matter of fact, they celebrate Brigid's Korean-ness. Cindy is both founder and coordinator of the Korean Culture Camp in this part of Michigan.

"The camp," she explains, "is for adopted Korean children and their siblings. Here, they're exposed to Korean culture, they're in a classroom with children who look like themselves, perhaps the only time during the entire year. It builds self-esteem."

Brigid will attend this day camp for a week this summer. She's looking forward to it. But when it's over, she'll be anxious to get back to the gym to perfect her round-off back handspring. That 9.0 that Elizabeth just got will be hard to top, but that sibling rivalry — it's fierce between Brigid and her sister.

daughter, Claudia Crawford, who served as a junior spokesperson.

"It's really cool, you get to ride your bike 50 miles, or 25 miles or 10 miles," she said while sitting on her brightly painted bike.

The ride followed scenic trails, which ranged from 5-50 miles, throughout Wayne and Washtenaw counties. Walking loops, designed for walkers, strollers, and children on trikes, were 8-10ths of a mile.

The event is a warm-up to the statewide event the first weekend of June in Holt, outside of Lansing. For more information about that ride, call (313) 721-5901.

Carol Anne Botelho of Westland was a first-time volunteer for the event. She just moved to the area from Massachusetts.

"I've been involved in volunteering in Massachusetts, too," she said. "Volunteer work is very important to me. It's a good way to give back to the community."

In the hopes of spreading her love of volunteering, she brought her 13-year-old nephew, Justin Issa, to help. While his aunt helped out with the giveaways, Issa worked with the DJs from Silver Sounds Professional DJ company who supplied the music.

At lunchtime, children's artist Marc Thomas and Max The Moose provided the entertainment at Heritage Park Amphitheatre, while families ate food from Little Caesar's Pizza, Archway Cookies, Miesel-Sysco Food Service and Pepsi.

The Canton Township ride was one of six Warm-Ups held around the state. Murphy said she is grateful for the hospitality the township has provided.

"Canton Township has been extremely supportive of the event. They have donated space, and the staff is very involved helping us put up tents, and the blackboards," Murphy said.

This is a tough problem even for bright kids.

It's not math or science that's keeping bright kids out of college. It's home economics. That's why giving to the United Negro College Fund is so important.

As the most experienced source in providing general operating support for historically black colleges, we've enabled thousands of deserving students to get a quality education.

But your help is still urgently needed. Without you this problem has no solution. Send your donation to: UNCF, 500 E. 62nd Street, New York, NY 10021.

This master gardener is a 'Pool' of information

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

After a few fits and starts, spring has finally arrived and with it the start of a new gardening year -- a time of year Betti Pool knows a lot about. She has plenty of tips to make flower beds, gardens, shrubs and trees look their best this year.

And with good reason. Pool is a master gardener who makes her living as a garden design consultant at McFarland Florist and Greenhouse in Farmington Hills.

"I'm an easy-care gardener," said Pool, who is president of the Farmington Garden Club, volunteer coordinator at the Farmington Historical Museum, and a member of the Farmington Hills Beautification Commission. "If they need a lot of care, they're not going to survive at my house. I'm too busy."

The speaker at the final Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center spring luncheon, Pool advises amateur gardeners not to remove the leaves of spring flowering bulbs, but wait until they turn white. The leaves are building nutrients for next year's bulbs. While that might look a bit unsightly, Pool suggests planting myrtle or creeping phlox over the bulbs to dress up the bed.

As for peonies and foxglove, now is the time to put out the hoops and stakes. And as the peonies start budding, she suggests removing the side buds for bigger blooms on the tips.

Know what you have

But part of the success of beautiful flower beds and gardens is understanding what you have in the way of sun and moisture, and planting accordingly.

Plants that need full sun require at least six hours of sunshine, while those needing part sun require two-five hours worth, which is not to be confused with part shade, where the area is bright and not heavily treed.

Then, of course, there's the moisture content. In areas where the soil tends to be dry, Pool recommends drought-tolerant plants like zinnia, marigold, moss rose, geranium, dianthus and baby's breath. In wet areas use moisture tolerant (bog) plants like ajuga, daisies, hosta and forget-me-nots.

And by working with different shapes and sizes of plants you can incorporate landscaping materials into the look rather than hiding them.

"If you have a large rock, plant tall plants behind it and ground cover in front of it, so it's not hidden," Pool said. "When you do a border garden, use the same plant three-four times. It's more pleasing to the eye and gives a little consistency to the garden. Even little pieces of fence can add sparkle to a garden."

Gardens and beds can be done in one color or a mix of colors, but don't pick colors that fight with each other. And if you pick out a flowering plant, consider its height and blooming time, Pool said.

Preparation is a must for successful flower beds. The soil, according to Pool, needs to be worked to a depth of 18 inches. Annuals should be removed from their containers by pushing up on the bottom. If you remove all but a quarter inch of dirt and flare the roots when planting them, "they will do nicely," according to Pool.

Trick with paper

And she has a suggestion for using old newspaper other than in the bottom of a bird cage.

"Put 12 sheets of newspaper on the grass and put soil on top for a raised garden," she said. "By the end of summer, the paper will have deteriorated and the grass underneath will be dead."

Fragrant climbers can be used as a disguise around a home. They can mask sharp angles and even cover up an unsightly old shed. Ground cover, on the other hand, can be used under trees, shrubs and on the slope of a hill to discourage weeds and retain moisture, Pool said.

"In looking for ground covers, pick pots that have no roots coming out the bottom and plants that have glossy leaves and are lush. You don't want plants that are spindly."

And make use of container gardening for vegetables and vine plants, but be sure there is a hole in the bottom of the pot or layer it with an inch of gravel and watch the water, Pool said.

A good soil mixture for container gardens is one-third potting soil, one-third peat moss and one-third vermiculite or perlite. Start filling the container from the center out and water well when done to avoid air pockets that can kill plants.

If you use terra cotta pots for container gardening, Pool recommends bringing them in for the winter or covering them with garbage bags so water doesn't get in. It is the freezes and thaws that can crack pots.

When it came to fielding questions from the luncheon audience, Pool learned a trick for dealing with black spot and aphids on rose bushes from one woman who makes "sun tea."

"For two gallons of sun tea, I use a clove of garlic, a teaspoon of soda and two large onions that I let steep for two-three days," she told Pool. "Then I put it through the blender, strain it through some old hose, and put it in a sprayer. I've had good results."

The doctors at St. Mary Hospital believe that the things that go into making a good family — sharing, cooperation, and close involvement — are the very things that are needed for good medical care. So, we listen to our patients... their thoughts, their concerns, their viewpoints and those of their family. And when we talk to our patients we avoid confusing medical terms and try to be understanding as well as understood.

Besides talking with our patients, we also talk to each other. We share professional experiences and pass on information about new technologies and techniques. We also discuss our patients' care. This exchange of ideas is essential to good medical care, for you, and for your family.

The simple act of talking to each other is an important part of good families. And, at St. Mary Hospital, we think it's an important part of good doctoring.

If you want a doctor who practices medicine as if family matters, call (313) 464-WELL. We'll help you find a physician who fits into your family.

Handwriting speaks of organization, energy, efficiency

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green, I love your positive and witty approach to handwriting analysis. I am 45 and left-handed.

I was born in Detroit, raised in Royal Oak, and lived in Kalamazoo and Traverse City. I returned to southeast Michigan in 1989.

I have two sisters and three children.

Thanks for this opportunity to have my handwriting analyzed.

taught, then we often develop a style that is compatible with our personality. Original writing calls for the courage of an independent mind.

This legible printscript style of writing, combined with good spacing, speaks to us of organization, energy, efficiency as well as a need for mental stimulation. The writing is that of a bright young woman. She seems to have a need to break away from tradition and venture into the unknown.

She is an objective and discerning thinker who can quickly grasp the fundamentals and eliminate the superfluous. She is direct in action and communication. She does not get lost in unimportant details or fancy ideas. She is mentally productive, efficient and shows sound judgment. Her sense of reality is well-developed and she has a matter-of-fact attitude. She can simplify complicated information to deal with it more effectively. She also can create time-saving methods or devices to achieve the fastest results with the least expenditure of time and energy. She probably invented time management.

The writer has a good supply of energy and performs steadily, reliably and with a sense of purpose and precision. Once she decides on a course of action she is determined to follow it through and keeps herself moving until she attains it.

This is quite a mature and positive young woman. Her interests cover a broad spectrum. She is often open-minded and tolerant of other people's views and ideas.

She is a practical woman who dislikes distracting influences and procrastination and delay. I don't think she likes to be bothered with trivia or what she considers insignificant. I hope she has someone there to handle all the little details for her.

She may not always learn from past mistakes. Therefore, she cannot apply lessons from the past beneficially to similar experiences in the present.

The writer enjoys people and also needs time alone. She may have a limited desire to be involved in close interpersonal relationships.

This young woman has a well-developed sense for structure and proportion. An eye for aesthetics also is suggested here. Her taste probably leans toward the plain side. Frou frou would not be her first choice.

Where families are born... close to home

A COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE
Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

A UNIQUE APPROACH
From the moment you choose to have your baby with us*, you can feel comfortable knowing you'll receive personal attention from caring nurses, unrestricted visiting hours, prenatal classes, a neonatologist present at your baby's birth, and private visits to your home after baby's birth by a nurse and choreworker. What's more, you will enjoy a comfortable home-like atmosphere where your birth partner can stay overnight. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF
But don't take our word for it. Take it from the women who have already enjoyed a Providence Park New Life Center experience. Here are just some of the things they have to say:

- "We had no idea what to expect, but delivering here was the best experience of our lives. The personal attention we received made this a very positive experience."
- "My experience couldn't have been better. The staff was fabulous! They were so helpful, friendly and comforting. I really felt that they made my experience the best it could be. The room was beautiful, clean and comfortable. Everything was wonderful!"
- "Absolutely wonderful! I was so pleased I would rate it right off the charts!"

Call 1-800-806-BABY for an appointment to see what the New Life Center at Providence Park has to offer expectant families.

*Only pregnant women who have been pre-screened and assessed as low risk by a Providence physician are eligible to deliver at the Providence Park New Life Center.

Livonia election

2 incumbents are best for school board

On Monday, June 12, Livonia school district residents will elect school board members in the annual school election.

In the district which serves the northern section of Westland, three candidates are running for two four-year seats on the school board, and one candidate is running unopposed for a two-year term.

Patrick Nalley is challenging incumbents James Watters and Frank Kokenakes for the two four-year terms, and Donald Lessard is unopposed for the two-year seat.

Based on written material from all candidates, interviews and our knowledge of the present board and needs of the district, the Livonia Observer recommends incumbents James Watters and Frank Kokenakes.

Watters has provided sound leadership as school board president. He is active in the business community, and is involved in school life. He has a good grasp of the issues and is not given to hasty judgments.

He knows both the community and the district and is committed to a team approach to meeting education's challenges.

Kokenakes has a shorter tenure as a school board member, but his community roots go deep.

He has a good grasp of the school community and its needs, is deeply committed to public education and the very best for students in Livonia Public Schools, and has an analytical mind that scans the broader picture and then keys in on the specifics.

James Watters and Frank Kokenakes have the skills to view Livonia school district issues in a way to meet the educational needs of students. Both active in different segments of the community, the two school board members should be returned to office by voters when they go to the polls Monday, June 12.

The election also marks the conclusion of Westland resident Richard McKnight's eight years on the board. He has represented the Westland community and school district as a whole well during his two terms on the board.

He has brought to the board his many talents to help improve the district's curriculum and the school board's operations.

Livonia district voters are urged to vote for James Watters and Frank Kokenakes on June 12.

The Westland Observer will publish its Wayne-Westland school board candidates' endorsements Thursday, June 8.

Memorial Day marks special time

Memorial Day has special meaning this year because 1995 marks the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II.

Half a century after the fighting stopped, area residents will gather throughout the weekend — mostly to celebrate a day off from work and the beginning of the summer season but also to pay tribute, remember and reflect.

The World War II era retains a certain allure to us still, even though it was a devastating time for many families. That allure comes from being part of a country that pulled together in pursuit of a common goal.

Some 292,000 Americans were killed in the war. Nearly nine out of every 1,000 American servicemen were killed in action.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur once said of the American soldier fighting during World War II, "He belongs to history as furnishing one of the greatest examples of successful patriotism."

"He belongs to posterity as the instructor of future generations in the principles of liberty and freedom."

This Memorial Day we remember the Americans who gave their lives so that freedom is a reality.

The generation of Americans who fought that war was an amazing one. They were young but they understood the common purpose.

Rarely since those days have so many people joined nationwide to accomplish a common goal.

There is still political romance in the idea that we are all in something together. That's especially true in our own political times when examples of our division are all around.

This Memorial Day we pay tribute to the millions of soldiers who lost their lives defending our freedom.

Take time to celebrate and ponder and join the special events that will be held throughout the area:

■ Farmington: The Farmington Memorial Day Parade, featuring a military plane fly-over, is scheduled for 10 a.m. on Memorial Day, Monday, May 29, along Grand River in downtown Farmington.

The parade route will be northwest along Grand River Avenue from about Moonney to the war memorials near the Masonic Temple.

■ Livonia: Wreath placing ceremony and parade on Saturday, May 27. Ceremony will begin at 9 a.m. at Veterans Park, Five Mile and Farmington Road in Livonia. The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. from the southeast corner of Five Mile and Hubbard.

■ Plymouth: Parade starts at 9:30 a.m. on Monday, May 29.

The parade route opens on Theodore, just north of Main, at the railroad tracks and continues southwest along Main to the veterans' memorials at Kellogg Park, where a stage ceremony is scheduled.

A three-gun salute is scheduled for the ceremony at Kellogg Park.

Also marching in the parade are local Boy Scout and Girl Scout groups, and veterans' auxiliary groups are participating.

■ Garden City: Annual ceremony at 11 a.m. Monday, May 29, at City Hall, on Middlebelt, just north of Ford Road. Taking part are representatives of eight to 10 veterans' groups and Garden City High School Air Force Jr. ROTC.

■ Westland: Local veterans' groups will hold a ceremony at 1 p.m. Monday, May 29, at Veterans' Memorial, in front of city hall, Ford Road, just west of Newburgh.

All aboard!

Saved: Voters in Livonia, Garden City, Redford Township and Westland approved a property tax to support the SMART bus system. Bus service in Wayne and Macomb counties will continue and be expanded. Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township opted out of the Wayne County Transit Authority. There are no plans to extend bus service to any community that has opted out.

Vote 'no' on taxes

The vote on the June 12 Wayne-Westland school millage increase is simple. The vote is "NO."

The Wayne-Westland teachers' union recently voted to "freeze" their bloated salaries for this year and next. They were praised for this alleged "sacrifice."

Accordingly, the taxpayers should vote to freeze taxes for this year and next. Fair is fair.

If the voters keep approving more and greater millages, the school board will never learn to live within their budget. Why should they?

The Wayne-Westland schools are not impoverished. In fact, they have spent wildly over the years, increasing teacher and other salaries to now unsustainable levels.

There is no doubt that the Wayne-Westland schools are deeply troubled. But bloated salaries and busted budgets are only part of the problem. The district also has an appalling double-digit dropout rate, and district Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) scores are truly pitiful. But these are not "money problems." These are "management problems." No amount of money can "cure" bad management.

So, wake up, parents! What's needed is not new taxes, but a completely new school board. You know it. And I know it. Let's do something about it — because the situation is going to get a lot worse before it gets better.

Walter Warren, Westland

Comments on MEAP

Given Tim Richard's anti-union bias and my status as a rank and file UAW member, it is generally worth reconsidering my position when it is found consistent with Tim's. That being said, Richard and Phil Power recently wrote a tandem of columns in the Observer that were just excellent efforts.

Richard's article espouses having an "education" election, exclusive of all other races and issues and is simply a wonderful idea. Tim is again dead-on right in encouraging compliance with the Open Meetings Act.

Phil Power's column about measuring school performance is a bit more difficult. Because of MEAP (Michigan Education Assessment Program), according to Power, "we at last have a single uniform tool to measure what kids actually learn." Earlier on, he informs us through a quotation from the state superintendent of public instruction that, "This is the first opportunity for us to shine the light on those who are doing it well and those who are not."

Well, maybe! It all depends on how the results of the MEAP tests are interpreted.

At present it is assumed that schools that do well on the MEAP are good schools while schools that do poorly are bad schools. Is this really the case? I submit that in many instances it is not. Much depends on the nature of the school population itself.

Let's compare two divergent school districts like Grosse Pointe and Detroit. Grosse Pointe is a community where the people have been successful in grand terms. They are often college graduates and transmit their belief in the system to their children. Detroit, on the other hand, is a relatively poor city, where educational diplomas are not as evident. When compared to Grosse Pointe, faith in the system is diminished.

With room for exception, a child of a well-to-do engineer or doctor in Grosse Pointe is more likely to be exposed to book learning at an earlier age and more intensively than a laborer's child in Detroit. And ongoing practice at reading and calculating do indeed affect one's IQ score.

So, if the starting points for differing school districts or schools are not equal, how can we then say that a school is not performing well simply because it scores low on the MEAP. Or, conversely, is it necessarily true that a school scoring well on the MEAP is a good school?

Ilsa Smith, Westland

Al Church III, Livonia

Tax issues supported

On June 12, the Wayne-Westland Community Schools is holding an election for an 18-mill renewal and a 3-mill enhancement:

I had my school years in this district and now I am raising my children in the district.

As a homeowner and parent of students in the district, I urge your YES vote.

The 18-mill renewal will not cost the homeowners one single penny. This renewal is for business owners.

The 3-mill enhancement will help the school district restore 6-12 busing; eliminate the pay-to-participate fee, which is $125 per activity; and eliminate the district deficit.

This is a most crucial matter for our school district. I ask all the citizens and especially the senior citizens to band together for this election and help the schools by voting "yes" on June 12.

POINTS OF VIEW

My new barbershop cuts into the future

BY CHARLES NOVACEK
GUEST COLUMNIST

Since my barber, Bob, died I had been searching for another. The new shop I found was clean, neatly kept, and most of the time had two barbers. Both were women.

Waiting for my turn gave me a chance to see the swept floor; family and TV magazines piled orderly on the table; fresh coffee brewing; and a large, clean window overlooking Grand River Avenue near Inkster Road, Livonia. A small, neat, flower arrangement next to the coffee cups gave the room an additional woman's touch. I didn't mind the pervading barbershop scent of oils and lotions, which in Bob's parlor used to be offensive.

I suddenly realized that a woman would cut my hair; a woman will cut my hair for the first time, I thought. Well, changes are taking place, and she may even do it better. I don't want to think anything of it. Yet, no matter how hard I tried, my upbringing surfaced in my conduct.

It was my turn and the 30-year-old beautician invited me to her chair. She is about five feet six, with a gentle round face. She has dark hair in a short, modern style, and she moved quickly and smiled as she wiped the chair for me. "Hi, there," she said; "glad to have you; how do you want it?"

My old barber was friendly too, but his uncensored speech and blunt phrases, his assorted off-color magazines on the coffee table and his off-color jokes were a different world from Colleen Wright's shop. Colleen is mild and gentle. Knowing I was in her shop for the first time, she handled me with care.

At once I noticed Colleen's hands and fingers. Her strokes are gentle. Bob's comb and scissors were hasty. She likes people, I thought. It doesn't take long to make my 1950 style. Colleen, however, tried to make it even shorter with a pleasant talk.

GUEST COLUMN

Colleen comes from Irish Hills, Michigan, is a student of sociology at Oakland Community College, and previously was a student of liberal arts at Henry Ford Community College. All this she has done part time, supporting herself by working as a beautician and a barber. This is my kind of a barber, I thought.

She smiled at me. I sensed her pride in what she was doing and couldn't help but remember Bob. He, too, found in his shop a great sense of accomplishment; he laughed at how many important decisions had been made in his shop for the presidents, governors, and mayors.

She is restless but goes on. "Perhaps, one day I'll be a psychologist and really be able to help people. You know," she added quickly, "at first I didn't like to attend men, but I got used to it."

I wondered why the talk about men. I mentioned Bob, my previous barber, how he used to talk about the opposite sex, and that the shop often included lively off-color conversations.

"True!" she said. "In my shop, most of the time, I have both men and women, so the conversation must address everyone. I, therefore, try to encourage talks about general interests like animal rights, lifestyles, independent living, family questions, fashion, and tempered jokes. People like to talk about themselves. Some like to confess — so I let them, and most of the time, they relieve their frustrations. I treat them all fairly. They all have something to say. That way, I have less outbursts of anger."

Colleen's shop has a pleasant atmosphere, and for me her style in it brings a refreshing change in the barber industry.

In the near future Colleen hopes to have children. She speaks tenderly about those prospects. I couldn't miss a glow in her eyes when she spoke about it.

She also plans to expand and decorate her place of work to have separate space for women and men. "I feel better and better about my risky enterprise," she told me. "My shop is well located at a major intersection and has convenient parking."

Hairy's Place is on 27230 Grand River, just east of Inkster Road in Livonia. Who knows; maybe one day Colleen Wright will build a large, modern hair shop, to take care of all of us.

Guest columnist Charles Novacek, a consulting engineer who lives in Southfield, is now a regular at Hairy's Place in Livonia. Guest columns of 2 1/2 to three double-spaced pages should be directed to Leonard Poger, Observer Newspapers Editorial Department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

Durant team's approach is a 'Plan' for disaster

It was Pat Robertson Day in our capitals.

In the nation's capital, the TV evangelist's political operative, Ralph Reed, unveiled a national agenda that included some standard conservative dishes (welfare reform) along with the religious right's formula for using government to jam its brand of fundamentalism down everyone's throat (school prayer, an end to alleged persecution of religion).

In Lansing, committees in Dick Posthumus' state Senate are looking at school prayer measures and bills to facilitate the Foundation for Traditional Values' sale of religious books and tapes to teachers, the goal being to introduce the purporting religious writings of the Founding Fathers (a term not legally defined) into history and civics classes.

Over at the Hannah Building in Lansing, the scene in the State Board of Education is a bit quieter but still bizarre. Copies of Michael David Warren Jr.'s draft report to W. Clark Durant are leaking out. It's wild.

Warren, you'll recall, was the fledgling lawyer with virtually no civic experience who sought a state Senate seat in the Pontiac-Bloomfield-Southfield district last year. He lost 3-2.

In short, the Durant-Warren team is long on ideology and brass but short on facts, knowledge and experience. Many snicker at them. I don't.

Warren began his report with a fundamental blunder: He addressed it to Durant. Now, anyone who knows anything about public bodies knows a board member is only a fraction of a team — in this case, one-eighth. Durant has not a crumb of authority the other seven don't have.

Warren's second blunder is to assume what he intends to prove: "Our educational system is failing." Perhaps he never has heard of Rand's report on "Student Achievement and the Changing American Family," which explores our admittedly deteriorating family structure as a cause of poor achievement. Perhaps he is unaware of Herrnstein & Murray's The Bell Curve, which reports our average IQs are declining and again zeroes in on deteriorating families.

TIM RICHARD

Warren began his report with a fundamental blunder: He addressed it to Durant.

How to reform all of this? Warren advocates an "internal" strategy — top down, insiders only — so the debate can be carefully controlled. The State Board would listen to "parents, teachers, students, administrators, politicians, business leaders, religious leaders, etc."

It's a kick in the teeth to the industrial, financial, utility, commercial and labor leaders whom the State Board has been consulting in recent years as it seeks to establish clear standards and attain the goal that every high school graduate will be literate, employable and a civic asset.

From there Warren moves to a concept, part Alice-in-Wonderland dream world, part Rube Goldberg contraption, called "The Plan." The state would issue "shares of Public Education Stock (PES). School districts would become Public Education Corporations (PECs). Some folks, like certain parents, might get more than one share of stock. "Shares could be easily transferred, sold, or given away." Shares also could be accumulated, a scary point he fails to develop.

The Michigan version of the Warren Report uses one word frequently: "could." Wonderful things could occur. And it's possible a few fine arts and science academies could emerge from The Plan. More often, however, we're likely to see schools without qualified, screened and well-prepared teachers. More often we're likely to see zealots on ego trips masquerading as Concerned Parents, eager to toy with their kids' minds to further a fanciful "vision."

Memorial Day is a time for reflection, remembering

Memorial Day weekend is coming up, to my mind the most beautiful and most poignant holiday in the calendar.

Despite the long, cold spring, it looks like the lilacs and peonies will be in bloom for the holiday. Some things never change.

And my wife, Kathy, and I will go to Nielsen's Florists in Ann Arbor, where our family has been buying flowers for nearly 60 years, and get some geraniums. On Memorial Day we'll tuck them in by the polished black granite POWER family marker in Forest Hills Cemetery, next to the headstones of my father and my mother.

My parents celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary six months before my mother died. My father passed away just a couple of years afterward, in 1993. Like most people who discover that middle age really begins when your parents have died and there is nobody left but you to take the high, hard ones, I miss my parents very much, especially around Memorial Day.

In these days when the right wing has made ethics and morality four-letter words of common political discourse, I like to remember how solid they were when confronted with instances of unfairness or, as my mother would put it, "bad manners." Here's a sample that I've been musing about as Memorial Day approaches:

My parents used to be members of a rather grand country club just outside Ann Arbor. Many of their friends were, too, including a certain couple. The wife was a full-blown WASP blueblood; the husband was a distinguished physician and psychiatrist. He was half Jewish.

World War II came, and everybody went off to fight the war. For most, including my parents and their friends, this involved resigning their memberships in the country club, on the grounds that they wouldn't be needing them while fighting Nazis.

The war ended. People came home and reapplied for their old memberships. My parents were quickly readmitted. Not so for their friends. Being half-Jewish after the war was, apparently, more of a bar to membership than it was before the war.

My father was outraged. He went to the board of directors meeting of the club and argued the point — to no avail.

Finally, his sense of fairness provoked beyond breaking, he got up. "You guys," he exclaimed, "are nothing better than a bunch of fanny-slapping shoe clerks. I quit!"

PHILIP POWER

The war ended. People came home and reapplied for their old memberships. My parents were quickly readmitted. Not so for their friends. Being half-Jewish after the war was, apparently, more of a bar to membership than it was before the war.

Out he walked, never again to play golf or eat at that club.

There was an Old Testamentary quality to my father in situations like this. For him, it wasn't enough to speak out against an injustice. He wanted revenge.

He found it, wonderfully, in live-trapping gophers at his house. He'd put them in a cardboard box when he went out for his regular evening walk. As the club was only minutes away from his house, he would release them as he walked by the first tee.

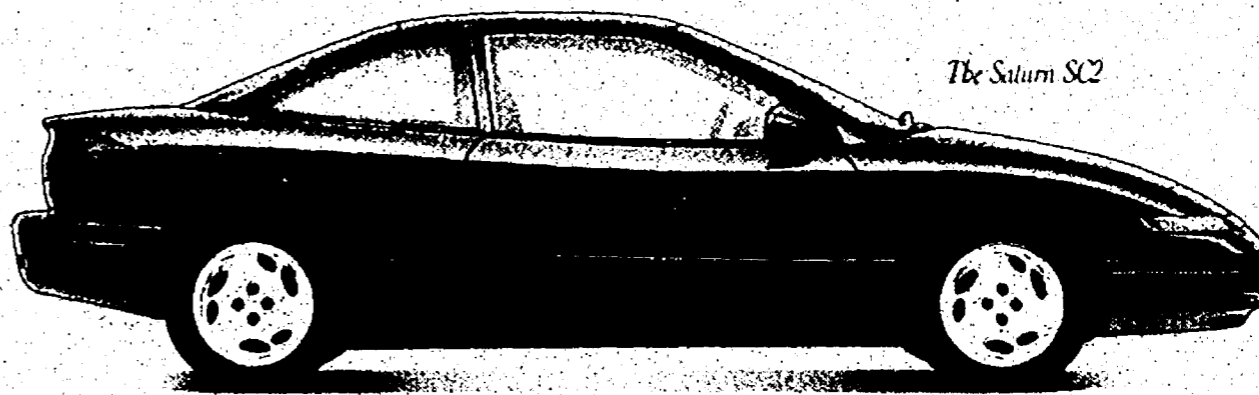

"Hi, Tony," he'd say to the greenskeeper. "How's it going?"

"Just great, Mr. Power," came the reply. "But we keep having the darnedest trouble with gophers digging up the greens."

My father would just walk on, a little grin on his mouth. He never said anything, but he kept up the vendetta for years and years.

Remembrance. That's what Memorial Day is for. Preserve me, please, from yet another political speech about public morality.

Heritage Park concert stars Farmington band

Memorial Day weekend officially marks the start of the summer season. Kicking it off is the Farmington Community Band with the first of three outdoor concerts.

The band will be performing at 8 tonight in Heritage Park on Farmington Road north of 10 Mile in Farmington Hills. Farmington Community Band returns to Heritage Park 8 p.m. Thursday, June 22 and 8 p.m. Thursday, July 20. The July 20 concert will be a salute to jazz.

Farmington Community Band travels to Northville to present a concert as part of that city's Clock Concert Series at the Main Street Gazebo 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 9.

The band will help the AAA Farmington Hills branch celebrate its first anniversary 7 p.m. Wednesday, June 21, by presenting a musical program on the lawn at that branch, 38751 W. 12 Mile Road, between Halstead and Haggerty Roads in Farmington Hills.

Mark your calendars! Livonia Symphony's annual "Chip in for the Arts" golf outing is Wednesday, June 28, at Fox Creek Golf Course on Seven Mile Road, east of Newburgh, Livonia. The cost is $90 per golfer and includes greens fees, cart, prizes and refreshments. Continental breakfast served during registration at 7:30 a.m., shotgun start at 8:15 a.m., lunch, prizes and awards at noon.

Hole sponsorship available for $100, be a golf patron for $500. Call (313) 421-1111 for information. Event proceeds to benefit the Livonia Symphony Orchestra.

Oakland Community College, Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills, is hosting Culinary Classic, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, June 24.

Join Chefs Milos Cihelka, Jimmy Schmidt, Peter Loren, Lorraine Platman, and others for an exciting day of food, wine and culinary wisdom including seminars, and wine tastings.

NASHVILLE

Singer chases dream to

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Gary Powell has spent most of his life in Michigan, but his heart is in the South, at least so far as his music is concerned.

Next month Powell plans to move to Nashville full time and try his hand at making a name for himself in the music business.

As far back as the Plymouth resident can remember he has been enamored of country music. As a teenager in the 1960s, when his contemporaries were listening to Jimi Hendrix and The Doors, Powell couldn't get enough of Floyd Cramer, Boots Randolph and other country greats of the day.

When Powell was 13, his mother bought him a guitar for Christmas. He took lessons, but couldn't learn to read music. So he quit and taught himself how to play the guitar.

In 1975 Powell started writing and singing songs of his own, but he didn't have the nerve to hang his future on it until now.

"It's basically a shot in the dark," he said. "But I've gotten a lot farther with it than I ever thought I would."

Indeed, Powell's first album, called "Havin' Fun Tonight" is available for sale at Repeat the Beat, Dearborn Music and Plymouth Party Store.

Two singles from the album, "Memories of You" and "Let's Go Out Tonight" are played by the Ypsilanti-based radio station WSDS-AM (1480 kilohertz).

WSDS program director Chris Sharp said folks seem to like Powell's songs. And requests for the two singles are apparently not coming from family members, as is the case with many local artists, she said.

Powell "is better than the average independent artist," she said. "I think he probably will do really good. A lot of the independent artists really don't have the voice. He definitely has the voice for it."

Powell's opinion of his voice is not as high as Sharp's, but he looks at it this way: "If Kris Kristofferson can make it anybody can, I guess."

The compact disc album contains 10 songs written by Powell and runs approximately 29 minutes. He sings nine of the songs, leaving the remaining tune to his sisters, Denise Reynolds and Amy Preston, both of West Virginia.

- Gary Powell

The tunes are straightforward, pleasant and lively, but no one will mistake Powell's soft singing voice for Hank Williams Jr. or David Allan Coe.

The lyrics draw from Powell's 40 years of experience in life, including two marriages, a couple jobs and a dash of hell raising.

"I've fallen on my butt several times in my life," he said. "And somehow I always come out smelling like a rose. I'm just a regular dog. I run around. I jump the fence now and then, but I always come back home."

Powell, however, isn't one of those country artists who are paid millions for their work. In fact, it's more the other way around.

Powell went to the Music Machine Studio in Nashville, Tenn., and "I pay them to do all the recordings, basically. I'm taking off on this on my own."

At the moment, Powell toils over the songs for a second album, but he writes them at a gas station in the middle of the night.

Everyone has to pay the rent, and Powell does it as a midnight cashier at Stevenson Shell on Ann Arbor Road at Sheldon.

"What I do is lock the door, grab my guitar (a Yamaha FC441), sit down and write," he said.

This process might seem difficult for a man who can't read or write music, but Powell manages. "I just mess around with it until I get it the way I want it," he said. "The way I look at it, I'm getting paid to write music."

'Rip Van Winkle' awakens young talent

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYBY
SPECIAL WRITER

All the world may be a stage, but for a group of area children, their stage is at the historic Players Club in downtown Detroit.

"I have grown up doing plays," said Mary Denawetz, 13 of West Bloomfield who plays Hagatha Knickerbocker in the Sunday cast of "Rip Van Winkle," the story of man who sleeps for 20 years, the current Paper Bag Production.

"This is my fourth season, and I really enjoy having an opportunity to perform. Being on stage has made me more outgoing and given me more confidence."

Dane Joseph, 11 of Southfield, also loves the applause, and said he didn't wait until he found the stage to get it. "From the time I was three years old, I would make up my own little productions and then perform for my family and their friends in the living room," he said. "I've always been an entertainer."

Joseph, who has been in a number of area children theater productions, plays "Nicholas Vedder," in the Sunday cast.

Alyson Adams, 11 of Farmington, shares Joseph's passion for theater. "I've been acting since I was in kindergarten and it has helped me feel more comfortable in front of a group of people," she said. Adams plays "Wolf" in the Sunday cast of "Rip." She also did the show's choreography. "I like performing in plays that have a long run, such as the Paper Bag Productions. If you have to memorize lines, using them every weekend for 15 weeks makes me feel it's worth the effort," she said.

Her sister Kimberly, 14, has also performed in Paper Bag Productions, her mother, Nancy, designed and created the costumes, and her father, Richard, serves as a lighting technician. Susan Mentzer, 13, of Beverly Hills, said, like Alyson, she likes the long run of the Paper Bag plays. "I prefer long shows, instead of those that run one or two weekends, because there is less stress. Also, there's a greater amount of time to develop the character," said Mentzer a member of the Saturday cast.

"How I acted as 'Henriette Dutcher' in the first show in February, is not necessarily how I will perform the part in May. Hopefully, as the play progresses, my character gets better."

■ "I believe that the best theater education comes from doing, particularly by performing. That is the reason I formed this children's luncheon theater company."

— C.J. Nodus
Paper Bag Productions, Ltd.

"I believe that the best theater education comes from doing, particularly by performing. That is the reason I formed this children's luncheon theater company," said C.J. Nodus who started Paper Bag Productions, Ltd. in the fall of 1991.

He is particularly proud of "Rip Van Winkle," the group's eighth production, because it is truly, "his baby."

"It is my first attempt at producing and directing one of my own creations. (He wrote the music and lyrics of the musical based on the story by Washington Irving). It's like seeing a child grow up in front of your eyes as you take it from the initial idea, then write the music and lyrics and then fit in all the dialogue. And when it's finished and ready to go on, it is indeed a very proud moment."

"Rip Van Winkle" features 42 performers ages six to 18. Each role is double cast with one performer scheduled on Saturdays and the other on Sundays.

Other local youngsters involved in the production include, Brian Haber, Scott Lenter, Jessica Palter, Kim Palter, Stephanie Sherline and Marrison Shuback, of West Bloomfield; Danielle Callaway, Terrielle Callaway, Laura Nanes and Jill Oliver of Southfield.

There are a lot of opportunities for children to "act up" this summer.

Here are some workshop offerings:

• The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford is offering classes in acting for children in grades kindergarten to nine beginning June 3. Classes will be at the Theater Guild, 15133 Beech Daly, one block south of Five Mile in Redford. The cost is $40. Call (313) 637-4145 for more information. Students will learn different acting styles, warm-ups, improvisation, how to audition, and present a show at the end of the six week course.

• Dearborn Heights Youththeatre is holding auditions for "Alice in Wonderland," 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, June 10-11 at the Berwyn Senior Citizen's Center, 26155 Richardson, Dearborn Heights (west of Beech Daly between Ford Road and Warren). Children ages 5 to 18 are welcome, regardless of experience. Everyone who auditions will get a part. Registration is $25 for the first child in the family and $10 for each additional child with an additional $5 charge for non-residents of Dearborn Heights. All auditions should be prepared to sing. Rehearsals begin June 19th at the Berwyn Center. Performances are June 27-30. The production is under the supervision of C.J. Nodus, producer/director of Paper Bag Productions, Ltd. Call (810) 469-7548 for information.

• Whistle Stop Players, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, will be offering a summer performing arts workshop, July 17-21. Students will learn singing for performance, acting and stage directions, styles of dance, development of scripts, and about costumes and props. A performance will be presented on July 21 for parents. The fee is $100. Call (313) 416-4-ART.

• Paper Bag Productions is offering its second summer workshop for six Saturdays beginning June 24. Sessions will be limited to 10-15 students. The early session will run 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. with a second session 2-5 p.m. A Sunday session will be added as needed. The cost is $90. For more information, call (810) 469-7548. Workshops will focus on scene studies, monologues, characterization, improvisation, auditioning and vocal preparation.

Kids' music festival set for June 3

The third annual Detroit Children's Music Festival, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, June 3, at the Friends School in Detroit features a variety of performers including Grammy-winning pianist Johnny Allen, the gospel group Revived, the Grunyons, Noteworthy, student and faculty ensembles from the Center for Creative Studies, Michigan State University Community Music School faculty, numerous area high school ensembles and a singing group formed by Detroit Police Chief Ike McKinnon.

Tickets are $4 in advance, $5 at the door. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Doors open at 10 a.m.

Admission may also be gained with the donation of a musical instrument to the James Tatum Foundation's Give a Toot Program.

Among the donors so far is jazz trumpeter Johnny Trudell, who will be at the festival presenting a musical workshop for students.

"It's a help for the young people to give them some inspiration," Trudell said in a press release. "I know I appreciated the helping hands that reached out to me years ago. You want to pass it down, pass it on, give someone else an opportunity."

the festival, call Keith Williams at (313) 833-5749.

Other artists involved in musical workshops include George Benson, Ralphie Armstrong, Francisco Mora and Naima Shambouger. Cynthia Taggart will lead a workshop for music teachers working with children. To register for the workshops, fax your name, address, phone number, age, school and instrument to: Mary Hengesh (517) 335-2473.

Games and children's activities are being organized by Angela Petroff of the Downriver Council for the Arts.

Friends School is located at 1100 St. Aubin in Lafayette, six blocks east of I-75 and two blocks north of Jefferson in Lafayette Park.

For more information on the festival, call (313) 832-2757.

The festival features three stages of continuous entertainment and activities for children. Each stage is aimed at a different audience — one for small children with folk singers, magicians and jugglers; one for adults with first rate jazz and classical, and one for teenagers with gospel, rock, rap and blues.

of Wilm Shkapr (Abridged)," Granny in "Into the Woods," Grace in "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever," Molly in "Line" and Teresa in "Italian-American Reconciliation," at EMU.

Howard Korder's comedy "Boys' Life" has been described as a post-modern comedy of manners. Originally produced in 1988, "Boys' Life" follows the fortunes of a group of urban male "yuppies" as they attempt to come to terms with life and women. Through a series of satirical episodes, the play pokes fun at the misadventures of three college buddies seeking their way in the big city.

Tap dance exhibition honors Cholly Atkins

Metro Detroiters will have the opportunity to celebrate National Tap Dance Day 6-9 p.m. Friday, May 26, at Chene Park at Chene and Jefferson, one mile east of the Renaissance Center in Detroit. Admission is free. For more information call (313) 393-0066.

Lloyd Storey and Frank Colvard of the Sultans will lead this annual tribute to Tap Dance, which features a host of impressive hoofers from throughout the state.

This year's salute to Tap Dance will spotlight Cholly Atkins, who has worked with Motown legends, The Temptations.

"Tap dancing is an original American art and should be preserved," said Lloyd Storey, artistic director of the tap program and the Tap Repertory Ensemble at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. Storey is a founding member of the Sultans, a renowned Detroit-based troupe of dancers. To pass on this art, Storey will give a master class for advanced students 4-5 p.m. Friday, May 26 at Chene Park. The cost is $20 per person. Registration is on site.

There are a number of local dance groups participating in the event, including:

American Dance Academy, Garden City; Artistry in Motion, Southfield; Dance Dynamics, Walked Lake; and Dance Theater of Royal Oak.

Cafe dishes up Middle Eastern dishes

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Tax accountant Nina Young of Canton, took a break from her busy schedule to have lunch for the second time in a week at Elie's Cafe & Fresh Juice Bar in Birmingham. She came across town to prepare taxes for the local townships.

"Elie serves the best health food I've ever eaten," she said with a wide grin. "I'm on a diet and they get an A-plus for helping me forget that fact! I eat here whenever I'm in Birmingham."

Young was ready to rattle off a list of her favorite entrees, but decided there were too many to enumerate.

A place of their own: Elie and Tracy Mondalek pose in their Birmingham cafe where they prepare and serve middle-eastern specialties for lunch and dinner.

"Just try the string beans in tomato sauce with rice," she said. "And if you like rice pudding, Elie's tops all."

Another lunch diner Tom Barnes of Troy recommended the Aspen Burger.

"I'm a vegetarian," he said. "And there's a lot of meat-free dishes to choose from here. The 'burger' is made from squash, eggplant, tomato, parsley and potato then charbroiled and served on a big bun with onion. It comes with soup for $5.95."

Elie's Cafe & Fresh Juice Bar is celebrating its second year at 263 Pierce Street serving Middle Eastern, (specifically Lebanese) specialties. Husband and wife Elie and Tracy Mondalek of Troy, own and operate the eatery. Elie serves as chef, bringing years of experience from other restaurants to his first dining room.

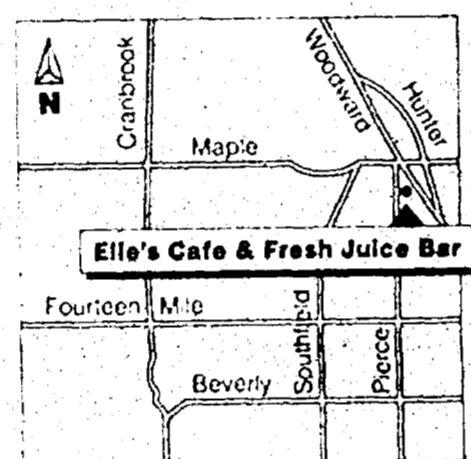

"We've been trying to get a liquor license which we believe would really boost business,"

Tracy explained. "But for now, customers must be content with Elie's Energizing Elixirs or a fresh fruit or vegetable juice. People all over the country are celebrating Middle Eastern fare these days because it is so natural, fresh and low in fats."

Daily lunch and dinner specials keep regular customers happy because there is always something new to sample. House staples include lentil soups, taboulee and fattoush salads, baked kibbee, many chicken and lamb specialties, and vegetarian grape leaves.

Appetizers include hummus with tahini (garbanzo beans blended with sesame seed butter, lemon, garlic, seasonings and topped with olive oil), Baba Gannouge, (broiled eggplant with tahini sauce, lemon, and topped with olive oil), and kibbee (ground lamb) entrees.

The juice bar serves apple and carrot, carrot and celery, or orange and grapefruit juice blends. You can also order apple, carrot or

The restaurant likes to cater small affairs and acquires a temporary license to service alcohol at private parties and showers. When the weather warms, sidewalk dining will be added so customers can enjoy the bustling cityscape out the front door.

"We hope to do a little remodeling to add a retail counter for food products to go," Tracy said. "But right now we're still building our customer base and working toward becoming the best that we can be."

Elie's Cafe is an immaculate restaurant with an attentive and knowledgeable waitstaff. Both tables and booths are available to diners as well as counter seating at the juice bar.

Joe Muer changes restaurant name

What's in a name? Quite a bit, says restaurateur Joe Muer.

So on May 22, Joe's Bar & Grill officially became Joe Muer's Grill.

Joe Muer's Grill is at 30855 Southfield Road, south of 13 Mile Road.

When Muer opened the Southfield restaurant one year ago, he envisioned an all-American bistro with a traditional "bar and grill" menu.

What he hadn't counted on was the anticipation and expectation of customers that Joe's Bar & Grill would offer the same fresh fish and seafood made famous by the original Joe Muer's Restaurant in Detroit.

"I really thought people would be happy with a simple, all-American menu," said Muer in a press release. "It was never my intention to duplicate the Detroit location. It would be impossible to replicate its style and presence."

Responding to customers' requests, Muer has changed the menu to include many of the entree selections that are customary at the Detroit restaurant.

Preparation is identical to the downtown location save for some minor changes in style and presentation.

Gone are the non-Muer entrees like pork tenderloin and tuna marinated in hoisin and soy sauce.

The seafood dominated menu, now printed daily, offers skinless saute' perch, whitefish, five Maine lobster and clam chowders.

Muer says the new name more accurately reflects the menu selections.

As one customer put it, "I know what to expect when I see the name Muer."

"What customers have come to expect is not in keeping with a bar and grill in the traditional sense," said partner Chick Taylor. "The name change was necessary for a variety of other reasons, not the least of which was the confusion it caused."

Taylor says the restaurant is striving for consistency in "quality food preparation and service," a characteristic he acknowledges was lacking when the restaurant first opened.

"All businesses suffer growing pains, and we were no different than any other," he said. "Fortunately though, we've come a long way in giving our customers what they've come to expect from a Muer restaurant."

Garden party benefit features food, music

St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center will be presenting "La Fete Au Jardin." — The Garden Party '95, which features food from over 56 of metro Detroit's finest restaurants, and wine from around the world, 1-6 p.m. Sun., June 4 on the center grounds, 27400 W. 12 Mile, Farmington Hills. Tickets are $100 per person, $300 for patrons (2 tickets), and $500 for benefactors (4 tickets). Call (810) 626-7527.

Nationally acclaimed jazz artist Larry Nozero, one of the country's top sax players and his quartet, will perform 2-4 p.m. Guests will be greeted by music from the Melchior Huerta Mariachi Band. Ed Jonna, owner of The Merchant of Vino, will conduct an auction of rare and collectible wines.

This year, Gail and Dick Puritan, WKQI-FM, and Mary and Rich Fisher, WJBK-TV 2, team-up to host the event, presented by Ford Motor Company, to benefit the center's programs for abused and neglected children.

I work hard for a living. And the personals work hard for me.

I don't have all kinds of time to be running around singles bars looking for the person of my dreams. Then a friend told me how she keeps her social life in gear with the personals. Fast, easy, free... and it works. Even recording the perfect voice greeting was simple. Now that's my idea of finding love in the nineties.

Children 12 and under and seniors 65 and over receive $2 off the $12 and $8 tickets.

The Royal Hanneford Circus heads south of the border in the show's opening this year with elephants clad in sombreros and a parade of characters celebrating fiesta style.

Highlights are the Flying Cacaceras Trapeze Act, Olatos Dogs, Nellie Hanneford's Liberty Horses, The Wheel of Destiny, and Gaylord Maynard & Chief Bear Paw Human and Horse Comedy Team.

Gaylord Maynard and Chief Bear Paw's routine is a little different from the great comedy teams of the past. Chief Bear Paw is a horse.

The collaboration of this horse and rider, and their mutual trust and understanding, resulted in a routine that combines classic horsemanship with comedy.

Circus is in town: Gaylord & Chief Bear Paw, a human and horse comedy team, steal the show at the Royal Hanneford Circus, and its South of the Border Fiesta, May 25-28 at the Palace. Tickets available at the Palace Box Office and all Ticketmaster centers. call (810) 645-6666.

Gibson gambles with Scottish epic

JOHN MONAGHAN

Perhaps he's not a morning person (he mentions a hockey game he attended the night before). Maybe he's uncomfortable with this style of round-table interview, where a half dozen writers lob questions about his film career past and present.

More likely Mel Gibson's sick of answering the same questions: Why is "Braveheart" (which he produced, directed, and stars in) nearly three hours long? Why all the violence? And how come it comes out so soon after "Rob Roy," another Scottish historical epic?

Last question first. "I don't think you can compare them," Gibson said, finally looking up from the doodle he worked on throughout the interview. He points out that, among other things, they are set four centuries apart.

"I think the only similarity in the films is that both guys wear dresses," he quipped. "I don't even know how to respond to that question."

"Braveheart" tells the story of William Wallace, a historical figure that Gibson first encountered in school history books. In the late 13th century, he united various clans in Scotland against the ruthless King Edward I, winning several key battles.

As he got older the idea of making a Wallace movie became more and more appealing. "I wanted to know what his motivations were, what the mechanics were that drove him on," Gibson says. "They (the English) offered him the crown, they offered him money, they offered him lands. Everything was pushed his way to buy his allegiance, but he never shifted. He was completely uncompromised."

"The more I read about him the more I revered him."

Gibson prepared for the film by watching the battle scenes in Stanley Kubrick's "Spartacus" and especially Orson Welles' "Chimes at Midnight." Though he had countless more extras than the financially strapped Welles, there is a similarity in the muddiness and brutality of the warfare.

"Braveheart" is infinitely more gruesome. You will see warriors graphically impaled, beheaded, hung, and coated in boiling oil. Blood even splatters on the camera lens, a mistake that Gibson left in as an in-your-face in-joke.

There was a longer version of the movie at three hours and 18 minutes that included even more violent footage. "There was stuff where the English took Scots out from dungeons — including women and children — tied ropes around their necks and then pushed them off the battlements," he said.

Gibson voluntarily made cuts after audiences squirmed at test screenings. He says he had full creative control, however, even when the final cut clocked in at two hours and 50 minutes.

"They were concerned at first as well they should be," Gibson said. "But when they saw the film they tossed the contract out and said, 'Why don't you put a couple of scenes back in.'"

Epic drama: William Wallace (Mel Gibson, center right) leads his soldiers into battle in "Braveheart" now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters.

"Braveheart" is actually Gibson's second film as director. He believes that the techniques he learned on 1993's "Man Without a Face" proved invaluable when mounting his $70 million epic. He credits directors like "Mad Max's" George Miller with helping him learn from example.

Gibson, who was born in New York but educated in Australia, believes he has some Scottish blood. During tours of Scotland, he would meet "old, toothless guys" in bars who volunteered family history.

"I don't know if it was just tourist nonsense, but they told me, 'Your clan is Com-bull,'" he recalled, launching into an impromptu imitation.

Historically speaking, Gibson thinks the Scots will be happy with his account of their national hero. How accurate was it? "In the broad strokes it is," Gibson said. "I'm not sure that Wallace fathered Edward III, but that's a cinematic device."

Screen Scene

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan.

- MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 642-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)
- "The Englishman Who Went Up a Hill but Came Down a Mountain" (Britain-1995). Hugh Grant stars in this witty character study about a pair of mapmakers who find they're no match for the people of a small Welsh town who will stop at nothing to ensure that their hill is declared a mountain.
- "The Picture Bride" (USA-1995). A favorite at last year's

- Sundance Festival, the story of a young Japanese girl's arranged marriage to a man in Hawaii in 1918.
- "Queen Margot" (France-1994). Based on a novel by Alexandre Dumas, an epic love story set in France during the religious wars between the Catholics and Protestants. Isabelle Adjani and Jean-Hugues Anglade star.
- MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($5.75; $3.75 students and matinee; $2.95 twilight)
- "Braveheart" (USA-1995). Mel Gibson's nearly three-hour-long epic about a Scotsman who sets his people free of English tyranny. Lots of bloody battles and a rous-

- ing performance by Gibson, who also produced and directed.
- "A Little Princess" (USA-1994). The story of a wealthy, precocious and loving child raised in India and sent to a New York boarding school when her father goes off to war. When he joins the list of those missing in action, she must fend for herself.
- "The Englishman Who Went Up a Hill but Came Down a Mountain" (Britain-1995). See Main Art Theatre listing above.
- REDFORD THEATRE
17360 Lahar, Detroit. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)
- "Sunset Boulevard" (USA-1950). 8 p.m. May 26; 2, 8 p.m. May 27 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtime). Forget Andrew Lloyd Weber's new

- musical. This is the real thing, Billy Wilder's brilliant and cynical study of a faded movie star (Gloria Swanson) who reels in a broke young screenwriter (William Holden) with her delusions of a comeback. Look for cameos by Hollywood legends like Buster Keaton and Cecil B. DeMille.
- STATE THEATRE
2115 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 961-5450 for information. ($1)
- "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" (Britain-1975). 9 p.m. May 29. Bring the rice and toilet paper. Another screening of the horror movie spoof about the kinky Frank N. Furter (Tim Curry) who creates a handsome, blue-eyed monster. A young Susan Sarandon and an extra-greasy Meatloaf highlight the cast.

Young readers write about heroic pets

Pets are our heroes for lots of reasons. The winners of our "Tell us why your pet is a hero" contest shared these stories. They won passes to see the movie "Gordy," the story of a young pig on a mission to save his family, now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters, and a plush Gordy toy.

Here are their stories.

- "My pet rabbit Harry is our hero because he keeps our dad happy," wrote Lance Titus, 5 of Bloomfield. "He trims the lawn every day with his teeth so dad doesn't have to mow."
- "I would like you to meet Marbles my Teddie Bear hamster that lives in my room. She is white and very small," wrote Amie King, 10 of Redford. "You may ask how could a hamster be a hero, but Marbles is a hero to me. A hero is not just someone who saves people's lives. A hero can be somebody who you look up to, or has good qualities or has done great things. My hamster is always there for me and she always lisens to me. I especially need her when I get into trouble or get mad. I tell her what happened, and before too long, I start to feel better, and I'm not mad anymore. I go and apologize, and then it's all over. That's why my hamster is a hero to me."

- "My dog saved us from getting sprayed by a skunk," wrote Ian Mondrow of West Bloomfield. "He went outside and saw a skunk. The skunk got scared and sprayed my dog instead of us. My dad ran to the corner store to pick up tomato juice. And the next day my dog was all red. His fur was stained from the tomato juice. And that's how my dog became my hero."
- Lisa M. Garrett, 7, of Garden City told us about her brave fish. "One day when my mom was cleaning our fish tank, Rainbow, my fish, jumped out of the bowl we put her in and landed in the sink. Dad got her out of the garbage disposal and she was still alive!"

Wondercat: Sienna Conner with her dad, and "Charlie — the Wonder Cat." He saved the day when she was afraid of being in a new home.

- Janine Korovesis of Plymouth wrote her pet guinea pig is like Gordy. "If someone tried to break into my house and tried to steal food from the refrigerator, my guinea pig loves the sound of the refrigerator opening so she would start making noises. That would wake us up and we would call the police."
- Sienna Conner, 6 of Royal Oak misses the dog she left with some friends in Florida when her family moved to Michigan. A few months ago her mom got her a black, gray and white kitten. "I still miss Palooka, my dog, a lot," she wrote. "And I'll never forget her, but I have a new friend now. And even though he can't do tricks or save lives or anything, Charlie is my hero because he saved me from being afraid of a new home and I love him very much."

Coming Attractions

There's something for everyone at the movies. Here's a list of what's in the wings:

- Opening Friday, May 26
- "Johnny Mnemonic" — Science fiction thriller about a 21st century courier, running for his life with stolen data locked into his chip implanted brain. Stars

- Keanu Reeves, Dolph Lundgren.
- "Mad Love" — Drama about a manic-depressive teenager who takes off on a cross-country trip so that she can be with her boyfriend. Stars Chris O'Donnell, Drew Barrymore, Joan Allen, Kevin Dunn. (Touchstone) Rated PG-13.
- "Casper" — Live action film

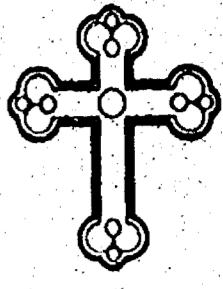

- about Casper, the world's friendliest ghost, the infamous Ghostly Trio and a little girl who helps Casper get in touch with his past. (Universal) Rated PG.
- Opening Friday, June 2
- "The Bridges of Madison County" — A traveling photo

- journalist passes through a small town in rural Iowa and falls into a brief but passionate affair. Though their tryst lasts a brief 4 days and they are never to meet again, the romance leaves deep and lasting memories for them both. Stars Clint Eastwood and Meryl Streep. Directed by Eastwood.

STREET BEATS

Grace
— Jeff Buckley

When Julian Lennon released his debut effort in 1984, he was compared, relentlessly, and perhaps, unfairly to his famous Beatle dad. The microscope he was put under in the popular music press surely caused enormous artistic pressures, and he dropped out of musical sight shortly thereafter.

When Jeff Buckley released his debut effort a couple of years ago, there was just as much fuss made over his resemblance to his not-quite-so-famous dad, folk-rock icon Tim Buckley.

As this impressive sophomore effort makes crystal clear, though, the parallels stop there. Much like his old man, young Buckley is a masterful vocalist, with the ability to swoop and dive in vocal mid-flight, catch himself just this side of crash and burn, and reach ear-shattering crescendo, all in the space of a single bar.

For those poor listeners unfamiliar with the great Tim Buckley, look to early Robert Plant — with whom Buckley the younger seems somewhat enamored — for comparisons. Compare him to whom you will, though (and be assured that none are necessary, only as touchmarks), Jeff Buckley has a vocal presence that is undeniably powerful.

The title cut, an opus of sorts, has that same operatic folk feel that his father was so adept at, although with a decidedly '90s edge to it. The folk-rock steeped "Last Goodbye" and his version of Leonard Cohen's "Hallelujah" are equally breathtaking.

Don't come looking for a Tim Buckley clone, though. While there are some undeniable similarities, Jeff Buckley is wholly a product of the era. If he had no famous father, he would make for just as impressive a listen. As it is, he may surpass Tim in the popularity department.

(Jeff Buckley plays with Juliana Hatfield and Cold Water Flat on Thursday, May 25, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Call (313) 961-MELT for more information.)

The Freedom Sessions
— Sarah McLachlan

Canadian songstress Sarah McLachlan originally wanted to name her last album, "Fumbling Toward Ecstasy: The Freedom Sessions," but the title was too long. Now that "Fumbling Toward Ecstasy" (Nettwerk) has become an adult alternative hit, McLachlan has released "The Freedom Sessions" (Nettwerk).

The nine-track CD features acoustic versions of "Elsewhere," "Plenty," "Good Enough," "Hold On," "Ice Cream," and "Ice" as well as her cover of Tom Waits' "Ole 55." According to McLachlan, most of the songs on "Fumbling Toward Ecstasy" began as acoustic tracks. To those familiar with that album, it's interesting to see how they progressed into "electric" songs.

With mostly piano backing McLachlan on "Mary," "Good Enough," and "Hold On," there's nothing hindering the passion in her voice. The highlight of the album is the sultry, funky version of "Elsewhere" where the angel-voiced McLachlan is accompanied by an acoustic guitar and percussionist.

The CD's first track is a multimedia CD-ROM presentation. (It plays static on a regular CD player.) Behind the different icons are introductions to McLachlan's band members, sampling of songs off her albums, merchandise information, videos and footage of her trip to Thailand and Cambodia with the non-profit organization World Vision.

Spoiled reunion

STAFF WRITER

Apparently things weren't as great as they seemed in the Bad Brains camp.

Just a week after band member Dr. Know told The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers how happy everyone in Bad Brains was to be reunited, lead singer HR flew into a rage and assaulted his manager and his brother.

Bad Brains was to open for the Beastie Boys for a series of arena shows, starting in Montreal May 15 and including May 18 at Cobo Arena. However, when Bad Brains manager Anthony Courtney told HR it was showtime, HR assaulted Courtney, breaking his nose and seriously injuring his hand. The often volatile singer then struck his brother, drummer Earl Hudson.

HR was taken away from the Montreal venue in handcuffs, but was later released. However, when he attempted to leave Canada and return to his Los Angeles home, he was stopped at the border for possession of marijuana. He has since been allowed to leave Canada.

Charges against HR are pending. Bad Brains, whose remaining members returned to their Woodstock, N.Y., homes, is planning on rejoining the Beastie Boys' tour soon.

There's nothing tiny about Dink

Dink has been accused of being a Nine Inch Nails rip-off band and that it wouldn't have made it, if it weren't for the help of NIN's Trent Reznor. But it is the band's limitless sound that has helped put Kent, Ohio, on the musical map.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The polymorphous Dink has a psychic side to them. When the Kent, Ohio, band was initially approached to play the Undercurrents music festival in Cleveland, it didn't feel like being a part of the musical circus that most showcases turn into.

Record company executives told band members that conferences like those were a waste of time. Artist and repertoire representatives — the record companies' equivalent of talent scouts — never show up at regional showcases, they were told.

But as the date approached, Dink gave in for reasons unknown. It hit the stage soon thereafter with "For Sale" written across their backs. By the end of the gig, Capitol records reps in attendance were sold on Dink. "I'm completely an advocate of those kinds of things," guitarist/vocalist/programmer Sean Carlin said in retrospect. "It changed our world playing that gig."

The record company made Dink one of their capital campaigns. To maintain the grass roots approach that Dink prefers, the band recorded and produced their self-titled debut album near their homes in Kent. But they recruited some of the industrial heavyweights to help them out — Skinny Puppy's Dave Ogilvie (Nine Inch Nails and Ministry), Michael Barbiero (Butthole Surfers and Soundgarden), H. Beno and Critter (Ministry, NIN, Revco and the Red Hot Chili Peppers) and Sascha of KMFDM who did remixes of several tracks.

Thanks to heavy promotion on MTV and in the media, Dink's single, the safe-sex advocating "Green Mind," became one of radio's top-requested songs. With that in the bag, Dink has hit the road with KMFDM. The show comes to the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre in Pontiac Friday, May 26.

"To me, it's the ultimate tour for us so far," said Carlin, who for fun, comes up to Detroit to club-hop and check out bands. "Stylistically, we go well together. Everybody in our band is a giant fan of KMFDM."

Starting out

Carlin co-founded Dink with vocalists/guitarists Rob Lightbody and Jer Herring in 1990 while the three were students at Kent State University. Initially, the trio didn't take it very seriously.

"We'd get out there and, to be honest with you, drank a lot of beer and played around with a four-track and things started happening," he said.

Strong believers in live performance, the trio added bassist Jeff Finn and Dutch drummer Jan Eddy Van der Kuil. ("You can sit in your bedroom and make great tapes or great whatever, but you gotta have a live thing to back it up," Carlin said.) Dink released a five-song, self-titled EP and sold an impressive 10,000 copies of it.

Still, Dink had plenty of battles ahead. The band were accused of being a Nine Inch Nails rip-off band. Others said that the band wouldn't have made it, if it weren't for the help of NIN's Trent Reznor, a former Cleveland resident.

"He is a friend of ours," he said. "I've known Trent for a long time; I worked in a music store with him when his favorite band was The Smiths. He's an incredibly talented guy."

"But I think at one point, we were trying to distance ourselves. (People said) 'You're Nine Inch Nails. You're this. You're that. You're a clone band.'"

While trying to separate themselves from Nine Inch Nails, Dink fought being pigeonholed by critics and fans.

Which peg?

"The biggest thing, right when we started, was people didn't know what to peg us," Carlin said. "They'd say, 'You're an industrial band. You're an alternative band. You're a hip-hop metal band.' It's a thing that I always feel that if you say it, you're automatically a slave to it. You don't have to set any kind of parameters. I think that throws people for a loop-sometimes. We set no limits."

Their live shows are somewhat limiting, however.

"We use a machine — a bunch of machines — and that puts a lot of people off, especially in Midwest America," Carlin said. "It's a guitar-dominated kind of thing. There's a happy medium between the live thing and machine thing. There's the five of us up there bashing away. If you blow it, the machine doesn't stop."

"When the two things mesh, that's when it's really cool — man vs. machine. Sometimes machine wins, sometimes man wins."

In most cases, Dink wins. Now that Dink is safe and sound within the arms of Capital, the band is eager to help out other struggling bands. Touring allows them to see the best of each city's local scene.

"You get to go around the country and see local bands more on the club level," he said. "We're picking up their tapes and listening to it. We're fortunate to be on a major label. Everybody's in it together. We try to help anybody else we can."

KMFDM and Dink play an all-ages show at the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre, 10 Water St., Pontiac, Friday, May 26. For more information, call (810) 335-4850.

Batterie Acid plays to different drummer

STAFF WRITER

Members of the tribal/industrial band Batterie Acid don't need much time to mull over the question, "Which show was your most memorable?"

They answer in unison almost immediately, "Probably the Majestic."

"It was (just) short of being a riot," vocalist/key-boardist/percussionist Scott A. Weston. "People were breaking bottles. They stopped us halfway through our set, needless to say. They blamed it on us that we were inciting the audience to riot."

"From our perspective, I had no idea what was going on. When you have the stage lights on you, you can't see very often too far into the crowd."

Drummer/vocalist Sean Haezebrouck heard people were lighting fires as well. Perhaps it was a case of life imitating art.

"We always get pretty wild on stage," Weston said. "We were lighting some of the cymbals on fire. It sounds funny, but a cymbal won't burn. It'll just burn up the flame on the cymbal. The flame won't spread, (but) the bar owners thought we were trying to set the place on fire, I guess."

Batterie Acid has been on fire since shortly after its rebirth in 1993. The band's first incarnation, created by Weston and percussionist Christian Gwizdala in 1991, didn't fare well, however.

"It was called Tribe back then; we never made it out of our basement," Gwizdala said. "We had the idea of doing this all-percussion band but we only had one percussionist. Things didn't work out."

In 1993 they decided to "do it the right way" — with more than one percussionist, that is — and it's paid off. They've opened for Crash Worship and Marilyn Manson at St. Andrew's Hall. Last year they took home the "Best Industrial Band" and "Best New Act Deserving Wider Recognition (Rock)" prizes at the Detroit Music Awards.

Batterie Acid's demo tape "Ataxia," released in February 1994, sold out quickly at independent record stores.

Earlier this year the band released its debut full-length cassette "revolution now here," recorded at the Tempermill in Ferndale. Although drum bands like Einsturzende Neubauten and SPK have paved the way musically for this type of music worldwide, the polyrhythmic "revolution now here" introduces this genre to the Detroit area.

"When we started in '91, we predicted that tribal drumming would hit hard sooner than later," Weston said. "Now, it's everywhere: Taco Bell commercial, Levi commercials, 'Stomp.' A lot of that percussion stuff has really hit home now," Gwizdala said.

Unlike some of their national and international forefathers, Batterie Acid doesn't rely solely on drums.

"Most of the drum bands, it seems, coming out are just strictly drums and not much else; we use more than just drums," he added. "Our songs (have a wide) range. We do have some more of the trance drumming but we also have really super highly structured songs that are dependent upon the vocals, the keyboards, and bass just as much as the drums."

The musical freedom is what attracts Haezebrouck and Weston to Batterie Acid.

"I feel way more comfortable with this," said Haezebrouck, who also plays in Surge to Union with Batterie Acid bandmates bassist Henry Pardi and metal/drummer Gary True. "I was originally a drummer. This is sort of like the ultimate drum band because anything goes as far as percussion."

Batterie Acid performs with Carlin Bliss and Surge to Union at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, Sunday, May 28. Forge, Walk on Water, and HAL play the Shelter. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT. Batterie Acid can be reached via E-mail at john284@delphi.com.

HOST FAMILIES NEEDED!

Open your home to worldwide friendships. Carefully selected exchange students, between the ages of 15 and 18, come from many Scandinavian, European, South American and Asian countries into homes like yours, and they bring enriching cultural heritage to their host families during the coming school year. Make memories that last a lifetime. Call now to apply and choose your own exchange student, even if you're a single parent or your children are grown. AISB students don't want special treatment, just a special host family. They are fully insured and provide their own spending money.

Church peals with joy, celebrates newly restored carillon

On Sunday, June 4, Christ Church Cranbrook will celebrate the rededication of the newly renovated Wallace Carillon with a day of festivities open to the public.

Four concerts will take place throughout the day (times to be announced later). A service of rededication will be held outside the church at 4 p.m., followed by dinner. Christ Church Cranbrook (Episcopal) is at Cranbrook and Lone Pine roads, one mile west of Woodward, in Bloomfield Hills. For more information, call (810) 644-5210.

Recitalists will include former

Christ Church carillonners Beverly Buchanan, now carillonneur of Belmont University in Nashville, Tenn.; and Don Cook, now carillonneur of Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah; as well as current carillonneur Phillip Burgess.

A guest recital will be performed by former Grosse Pointe Memorial Church carillonneur

Bill De Turk, now associate carillonneur of Bok Tower Gardens in Lake Wales, Fla.

Of special note is the music to be performed in the four concerts. Three new commissioned pieces will be premiered, and those pieces which have been written specifically for the CCC Wallace Carillon over the years will be performed.

Originally installed in 1928 as a gift from the Harold Lindsey Wallace family, the Wallace Carillon received a complete renovation in the fall of 1994. This carillon, one of the most active in the nation, is comprised of 50 bells with a total weight of 35,000 pounds. As part of the renovation process, each bell was removed, cleaned, refitted with a new clapper and then rehung. Additionally 35 of the bells were retuned.

In the tower playing room itself, a new playing keyboard and a new practice carillon keyboard was installed. This renovation, made possible by the Capital Campaign Fund of Christ Church, comes after many years of intensive study and research. The result is a world-class carillon.

Event spotlights Michigan authors

PREVIEW

In a celebration of Michigan writers, the Birmingham Village Players and the Cranbrook Writers Guild jointly present the second annual "Michigan Authors On Stage" beginning 8 p.m. Saturday, June 3, at the Village Players Playhouse, on the southeast corner of Chestnut and Hunter Boulevard, two blocks south of Maple in Birmingham.

Proceeds will be used by the Writers Guild for its annual conference to nurture developing writers and by the Village Players to help renovate their theater.

Last year's show packed the house (about 200 individuals) and raised about $3,000.

Tickets are $25, $50, $100, or $150, depending on whether the purchaser wants to be an angel, sponsor, patron or benefactor, respectively.

For more information, call Writers Guild president Frank Angelo, author of "Yesterday's Detroit," at (810) 646-0658.

Angelo is among a group of authors whose books, poems and short stories will be featured.

Excerpts from their writings will be read and dramatized by a cast of Village Players actors as well as several guest authors.

The list of authors includes Livonia resident Sarah K. Wolf, whose publisher thought it best that she be identified as S.K. Wolf on her books (there are three so far).

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Wolf "writes just like a man," said her friend Carolyn Hall, co-producer of the event. "You would swear that a man wrote her books."

So the publisher prefers to disguise Wolf's gender so as not to repel male readers before they give her a chance. "There are a number of men who won't read books by women," Wolf said.

The Village Players will perform a portion of Wolf's latest book, "MacKinnon's Machine," which goes by the title "In the Shadow of the Lion" in paperback because the publisher changed it.

As the old axiom goes, Wolf said, "The only thing worse than being unpublished is being published."

Also expected to attend the event is Mary Rodgers Schoen, whose short story called "Father Dear Father" will be performed.

"Elmore Leonard attended last year, and may this year," said Helen Balmer, who is on the committee. Charles Baxter is also expected to attend.

The Village Players, Hall said, are quite adept at dramatizing literary material. "They are able to really make it very lively," she said.

Other works to featured include:

- Elmore Leonard; "Swag"
- Ernest Hemingway; "Ten Indians"
- Bruce Catton; "Waiting For The Morning Train"
- Jim Harrison; "Brown Dog"
- Charles Baxter; "Snow"
- Robert Traver; "Anatomy of a Murder"
- Edgar Guest; "No Place To Go"
- Sven Birkets; "The Gutenberg Elegies"
- Brad Leithauer; "A Mosquito"
- Coleman Young; "Hard Stuff"

Pianist dedicates recital to Mischa Kottler

PREVIEW

Pianist Jocelyn Ruth Krieger will present a student recital dedicated to the memory of her teacher, the late Mischa Kottler, 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 30, in the Steinway Recital Hall of Hammell Music, 15630 Middlebelt Road (between Five and Six Mile Road) in Livonia.

The recital is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Also participating are Rebecca Singer of Farmington Hills; Jacqueline Morse of West Bloomfield; Chelsi Baker, Jackie Berg, Brandonn Clemons, Ariella Goldfein, Tal Gutkovitch; Tunesha Hedgley, Aaron Levine, Jeffrey and Michael Patterson, Justin Prinstein, Shanae Ryans, Elana, Talia, and Ofra Rybak and Angela Stitt of Southfield.

Kottler, a native of Kiev, Ukraine, served as the official pianist for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for 22 years. At the time of his death in 1994, he headed the piano faculty department at Wayne State University. Krieger studied under Kottler as a child prodigy, returning to his studio in 1983 to study repertoire and pedagogy until 1991.

WESTLAND SPORTS SCENE

Collegiate notes

Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Ed Kavanaugh recently announced the signing of two more local products: guards Becky Billecki (Livonia Ladywood) and Sarah Camp (Livonia Franklin).
Five players, who helped Madonna University post a 39-25 overall record this season, were recently selected to the NAIA Great Lakes Independent all-section baseball team. Among those honored include sophomore pitcher Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton); senior outfielders Jim Solak (Redford/Dearborn Divine Child) and Scott Anderson (Alpena); and sophomore infielders Tim Kasubowski (Alpena) and Kurt Wilczynski (Warren DeLaSalle).

Gaelic football tourney

Gaelic football, the national sport of Ireland, will be on display Sunday at Riley Middle School, located off Five Mile between Middlebelt and Merriman roads, in Livonia.
The seven-a-side single elimination tournament, free to the public, begins at noon. It features teams from Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Toronto and two area clubs, Padraig Pearse of Livonia and the Wolfetones of Dearborn.
Padraig Pearse and the Wolfetones open Midwest Divisional play 1 p.m. Sunday, June 11 at Riley.
The Pearse Club holds practices from 6:30-8 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday at Holmes Middle School.
Those interested in playing Gaelic football should call Scott Heinzman at (313) 462-2423 (after 10 a.m.).

Elite stops Menace

An Arbor Elite, behind goals from John Truskowski and Andy Cosenza, improved to 2-2 in the U.S. Inter-Regional Soccer League with a 2-1 victory Saturday over the Des Moines (Iowa) Menace.
After giving up a penalty kick goal in the first half, Elite rallied on Truskowski's rebound off the crossbar and Dominic Vella's pass to Cosenza with only one minute remaining.
Elite is 5-2 overall.

Devils division champs

Posting a record of 14-1-1, the Livonia Devils recently captured the Squirt B Division of the Northwest Suburban Spring Hockey League.
The Devils won their first two playoff games, but fell in three overtimes to the Westland Penguins in championship final.
Members of the Devils, sponsored by Kar Enterprise and Thomas Lane Plumbing, include goalie Matt Kennedy, Drew Witte, Matt Perino, Kenny Haas, Andrew Sienkiewicz, Nick Strauch, Mike Seror, Zac Reilly, Ryan Vandette, Jonathan Sockolosky, Chris Fishwick, Paul Hetu, Steve Karalaz, Joe Canike and Matt Easley.
The Devils' coaching staff includes Gary Sockolosky, Al Fishwick, Don Strauch and George Kennedy.

Westland hockey signup

Registration for the Westland Hockey Association (residents) will be from 9-11 a.m. Saturday, June 3 at the Westland Sports Arena.
The cost is $125 (ages 9-15); $85 (beginners 8 years and under); $105 players for teams with one child and $50 for each additional child.
For more information, call (313) 729-4560.

Ladies golf invite

Armstrong Buick of Livonia will sponsor a local qualifying tournament for the 1995 Ladies Day Golf Invitational, beginning at 8 a.m. (tee-off), Monday, July 17 at Fox Creek Golf Course in Livonia.
The entry fee is $30 per person (includes coffee/rolls, greens fees, golf cart and luncheon). Prizes include a hole-in-one contest for a 1995 Buick Riviera, closest to the pin, long drive and pro shop gift certificate. Entries must be received prior to July 10.
The winning foursome of the scrambles/best ball format will advance to the finals, Tuesday, July 25 at Indianwood Country Club in Lake Orion.
For more information, call Tom Welsh at (313) 555-8888.

Beginners youth golf

A beginners golf program for boys and girls 7-14 years old is being sponsored by Schoolcraft College. The six-week program will meet Sundays beginning June 4.
Cost is $40. The program will include instruction in set-up, iron, woods, the short game, rules, and golf etiquette.
To register and/or obtain further information, call (810) 462-4413.
To submit items for the Observer Sports Scene, write to Brad Emons, 38261 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, MI 48150, or send via fax to (313) 881-7279.

Shamrocks advance to Midland

Redford Catholic Central, winning five of seven flights, repeated as regional champs. Stevenson's Mark Findling and Chad Crosby won singles titles.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central doubled its pleasure at the Class A regional boys tennis tournament.

The Shamrocks split with Livonia Stevenson 2-2 in singles titles, but will move on to the state meet (June 2-3 in Midland) after sweeping all three doubles flights en route to a team-high 24 points at the regional hosted last weekend at Dearborn.

Second-place Dearborn also qualified for the state meet with 16 points. Stevenson just missed the team cut by one with 15. See statistical summary on page 3C.

Stevenson broke up the Shamrock domination when Mark Findling and teammate Chad Crosby captured the No. 1 and 2 singles crowns, respectively.
Third-year CC coach Greg Grabowski, who is making his third consecutive trip to Midland, credits the program's "strong JV system" for producing quality doubles teams year after year.

"We have a lot of good athletes, but most have not played a lot of tournament tennis," Grabowski said. "We pick out a few kids and groom them to play doubles. We use a lot of strategy and we drill a ton.

"Our doubles lineup has kept us in a lot of tournaments and that's where we're ahead of a lot of teams."

The No. 1 team of seniors Paul West and Rob Villasenor, whose only loss in 25 matches this season was against Birmingham Brother Rice in the Catholic League finals, came up with one of the three regional doubles championships.

The No. 2 team of senior Steve Hartsock and junior Mike Lombardi, duplicated their Catholic League crown by beating Livonia Churchill's Ryan Green and Bryan Stramecki in the finals, 6-3, 7-6.

At No. 3 doubles, senior Phil Zakaria and junior Phil Muldowney beat Livonia Franklin's unseeded duo of Eric Kracht and Wade Johnston, surprise finalists, 6-1, 6-2.

CC added titles at No. 3 singles (freshman Brian Foley) and No. 4 (junior Steve Halthcock).

Foley gave up only nine games in three matches on his way to the title, while Halthcock, a Catholic League champ, beat Garden City's Scott Ball in a three-setter, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.

"Foley has been a good addition," Grabowski said. "He's a tournament player. He's a (Southeast Michigan Tennis Association) ranked player who plays in a lot of Western (Tennis Association) tournaments. He's a No. 1-type singles player down the road."

But the No. 1-type singles player for today is Stevenson's Findling, who improved his overall record to 19-3 by ousting CC senior Ranjit Gill in the semifinals (6-4, 6-2) and Norway exchange student Henrik Gjervan, the top seed from Dearborn.

Findling, who was runnerup to Plymouth Salem's Xinning Li in the Western Lakes Activities Association finals and seeded second in the regional, tentatively plans to walk-on at Michigan State.

"I was very proud of him," Stevenson coach George Croll said of his senior. "Mark played very well."

"He knows most of the kids who will be playing at the state level and I think he'll be competitive."

Crosby, a junior, improved to 17-5 on the year by beating Dearborn's Kevin Kreger in the finals, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5. The Stevenson netter avenged a loss only a week earlier to Kreger in the Dearborn Invitational.

Stevenson's No. 3 singles player Kosta Mihajlovski, who missed the WLLA tournament because of bronchitis, was not cleared to play by his doctor for the regional. Eleventh man Mike Schmidt, however, stepped in capably and won two matches.

"Schmidt did a great job," Croll said. "But Kosta was seeded number one. We just needed one point some; where else to go to state and we didn't get it. 'Coulda, shoulda, woulda.' The kids are disappointed."

The Shamrocks, meanwhile, hope to crack the top 10 at Midland after dropping out of the state rankings.

Churchill vs. Stevenson to decide district champ

Ready for round number three?

The stakes will be even higher as state-ranked Livonia powers Churchill and Stevenson collide for the third time this season in the Class A district championship.

Game time is 6 p.m. Friday at Churchill.

"I'm looking forward to it," Churchill coach Nick O'Shea said. "It's going to be a good game between two good teams."

Stevenson advanced with a 4-0 shutout win Wednesday over Livonia Ladywood, while Churchill prevailed 4-1 Wednesday at Farmington.

Each team owns a 2-0 victory over the other. Stevenson won the last outing for the Western Lakes Activities Association title.

"It's going to be whoever capitalizes on their opportunities," Stevenson coach Jim Kimble predicted. "Both teams are pretty evenly matched."

"They (Churchill) may have more offensive firepower with (Lizz) Szkrybalo and (Marie) Spaccarotella, but we may be more balanced."

Stevenson improved to 14-3-1 overall with the victory over Ladywood as Allison Campbell, Wendy McCaul, Laura Fedrigo and Lanette Moss scored goals for the Spartans.

McCaul, Anne Fedrigo, Leah McGrath and Angie Pandoff drew assists.

overall.
Churchill, meanwhile, improved to 12-5-1 on the season behind two goals apiece from Szkrybalo and Spaccarotella.

Jenny Wysocki, Michelle Zawislak and Margaret Wirth drew assists.

"A lot of the younger players stepped up and had a good game for us," said O'Shea, who singled out the play of freshman midfielders Andrea Galindo and Jamie Scott.

Tiffany Okopny tallied the lone goal for Farmington (6-7-2 overall).

LADYWOOD 5, REDFORD UNION 0: Senior Alyson Granger scored twice and added one assist as Livonia Ladywood opened state tournament play by blanking host Redford Union (7-7-2 overall).

Senior Jenny Gallant, freshman Meryl Denton and senior Jamie Colliton also scored goals for the winners. Christina Stachura and Michelle Roy had assists.

FARMINGTON 3, FRANKLIN 0: Livonia Franklin (11-13-1) bowed out of the state tournament Monday as the visiting Falcons got goals from Amanda Porter, Kristen Laurie and Angela DeDomenico.

Goalkeeper Jessica Gulbord made eight saves en route to the shutout.
GARDEN CITY 4, JOHN GLENN 0: Jamie Faber scored twice Monday, leading the host Cougars (8-4-2) to the Class A district triumph over visiting Westland John Glenn.

Laura Zakalowsky and Shawn Chpelawski also scored goals for Garden City.

BELLEVILLE 3, WAYNE 0: It was also an early exit Monday for the first-year Wayne Memorial Zehras, who fell to the visiting Tigers in Class A district action.

On Wednesday, CC ousted Belleville, 4-0.

Ex-Patriot Schaffer catches on at WSU

BY BRAD EMONS

COLLEGES

Wayne State University catcher Jeff Schaffer rang up some impressive statistics during the 1995 baseball season, but one number stands out among all the others.

"He had only one passed ball all season," WSU coach Rodger George said. "That's phenomenal."

Some sophomore jinx for the Livonia Franklin grad, who was recently selected first-team All-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference. He was also voted the Tartars' 1995 MVP and has been named captain for 1996.

"He's the best catcher I've ever had," said George, who just completed his seventh season. "And the second best is playing pro baseball (Mark Avery)."

Schaffer, who split time behind the plate in 1994 and batted .294, improved his statistics in just about every area this season.

He finished with a .359 batting average (40 hits in 111 trips), including eight doubles, one triple and two homers. Schaffer also knocked in 25 runs.

His .977 fielding average led all GLIAC catchers, and he threw out 30 of 59 base stealers.
"Jeff was much more confident this season,"

George said. "He also got stronger. He worked hard in the weight room during the off-season."

"We played a lot of four-game weekend sets and Jeff would always catch three, if not four games at a stretch."

Schaffer added some muscle to his 6-foot-2, 185-pound frame.

"I've lifted moderately since my junior year in high school," Schaffer said. "But I really worked hard this winter. I've just tried to get quicker in my legs. I also worked on my shoulders, wrists and upper arms. I tried to be quicker swinging (the bat) and throwing."

"I've put on six to seven pounds. I try to go a couple of miles (running) at least three times a week and I run the steps at Franklin. I also jump rope to get quicker."

George was also jumping for joy that Schaffer, normally the quiet and reserved type, became more of a take-charge guy.

"He's real low key, but that's his nature," said George, whose Tartars finished 24-24 overall and 15-15 in the GLIAC. "He's become a leader. He tells the pitchers what they need to hear and he calls an excellent game."

Schaffer has also adjusted to his new leadership role.

"I'm trying to be more assertive," he said. "I'll try and help out when the pitchers aren't throwing strikes."

"I went to Mark Avery's catching camp, and he gave me some pointers. He told me to play with confidence this year. Before I was kind of timid. But he told me to go out and have fun."

Schaffer, who plans to major in economics and business, would like nothing better than to get a shot some day in professional baseball.

He has already gotten a taste.
His older brother Bill worked as a batboy and clubhouse attendant up until last year with the Detroit Tigers.

"There's no doubt I'd love to play pro ball," Schaffer said. "I used to go and use the batting cage there. Dan Whitmer (former Tiger bullpen coach) helped me a lot, and I really liked Mickey Tettleton. He was a great guy."

Schaffer's summer plans include a stint with the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department and playing for Birmingham Lynch of the Pontiac Class A League.

Oh, by the way, Schaffer wears jersey No. 13. That's a number he hopes will continue to stand out.

TRACK

Ladywood rules Catholic League by edging Mercy

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

The streak is over. Livonia Ladywood put an end to Farmington Hills Mercy's dominance of the Catholic League A-B Division girls track meet by winning Tuesday's championship at Mercy.

The Blazers finished with 116 points — just five ahead of five-time defending champion Mercy. It was Ladywood's first Catholic League title in 11 years, and the first for third-year coach Bob O'Brien.

"I thought we'd be the favorite coming in, but I really wasn't comfortable until Stacie (Johnson) won the high jump," O'Brien said. "That's when I got some relief."

Johnson cleared 5 feet, 2 inches to win the high jump and give the Blazers a three-point lead with only the 1,600-meter relay remaining.

Shannon Swish got Ladywood off to a quick start in the 1,600 relay and the Blazers led from start to finish. Nicole Clausen, Stephanie Mussat and Lindsay Soter followed Swish as the four-some finished with a season-best time of 4:09.2 — more than nine seconds ahead of the runner-up Marlins.

"We beat Mercy in duals so we figured we'd do well today," Soter said. "It feels awesome to be champions. We should have won it last year. It's been too long since our last title."

The Marlins competed without senior Eileen O'Connell — the area's best middle distance runner. O'Connell was diagnosed last Tuesday with a stress fracture in her hip and was told she would be sidelined at least a month.

"I kind of expected (losing to Ladywood)," Mercy coach Gary Servais said. "But it's a credit to the kids how close it was. Losing Eileen cost us, conservatively, 30

'We beat Mercy in duals so we figured we'd do well today,' Lindsay Soter Ladywood runner points. Losing her was a big let-down for us, but the girls dug down and many of them ran their best ever."

One Marlin who shined was sophomore Elizabeth Gignac, who won the 1,600 run (5:31.7) and the 3,200 run (12:02.1).

"We knew it would be really tough to win the title without Eileen, but I also think the other teams were more pumped up to beat us because it would have been our sixth title in a row," Gignac said.

Mercy also received a first in the 100 hurdles from Amy Buhl (15.5) and in the 3,200 relay from Gignac, Jacqueline Segue, Lisa Nobles and Amanda Phelps (10:05.2).

"I'm excited about our future," Servais said. "For us to score 111 points without Eileen is something. And just about everyone is coming back."

O'Brien admitted the Marlins' performance may have been affected without O'Connell, but that didn't tarnish Ladywood's title.

"It hurt Mercy not to have her but her absence takes nothing away from what we accomplished out here," O'Brien said.

The Blazers scored in every event and picked up important points from Beth Kummer, who was second in the shot put, Jamie VanBuehler, who was tied for third in the high jump, and Stacie Johnson, who scored a total of 23 points.

Birmingham Marian's Atiya Bussey had a strong meet, as she won the 100 dash (12.3), the 400 (59.1) and was second to her teammate Brandi Bentley in the 200.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE A-B DIVISION TRACK MEET May 23 at Farmington Hills Mercy. BOYS TEAM STANDINGS. INDIVIDUAL RESULTS. GIRLS TEAM STANDINGS. INDIVIDUAL RESULTS.

Warriors capture Regional, Metro

Lutheran High Westland continues to dominate the track circuit among small schools.

The boys squad, coached by Mike Unger, repeated for the third straight year as Metro Conference champions Tuesday at Harper Woods Lutheran East. The Warriors tallied a team-high 231 1/2 points. Macomb Lutheran North took second with 101 1/2. See statistical summary.

The Warriors also captured Saturday's Class C regional at Byron with a team-high 87 points, qualifying eight different events for the state meet. (New Lothrop and Blissfield took second and third, respectively, with 63 and 56.)

Among those individuals headed to the Class C meet Saturday, June 3 at Auburn Bay City Western — Jon Smolka, first place, 110-meter hurdles (15.4) and second, 300 hurdles (42.39); Brad Polkinghorne, first, 3,200 run (10:07.6) and second, 1,600 run (4:31.88); Ryan Crawford, second, 200 dash (23.71s).

Three relay teams also qualified. The Warriors' 3,200 relay quartet of Phil Kimmel, Jason Otter, Sam Patterson and Polkinghorne also took first in 8:14.13.

CLASS C

Second places went to the 800 relay team of Jason Burk, Greg Strang, Crawford and Smolka (1:34.15) and the 1,600 relay team of Otter, Kimmel, Strang and Burk (3:35.16).

Other top individual finishers for the Warriors include Brian Biggs, third, 300 hurdles (43.24); Sam Patterson, fourth, 3,200 (10:40.62); Burk, fifth, 400 (52.89); LaRoy Turner, fifth, shot put (44 feet, 10 1/4 inches); and Jason Collins, 800 (2:06.94).

The 400 relay team of Biggs, Smolka, Strang and Crawford added a fifth (46.19).

Lutheran Westland wins girls division

The girls at Lutheran High Westland duplicated the boys team effort Tuesday by winning its third straight Metro Conference track title in a meet held at Harper Woods Lutheran East.

Coach John Gerlach's team led with 157 points, edging Bloomfield Hills Kingswood by seven. Macomb Lutheran North was third among with seven-team field with 109.

Emily Schroeder figured in three first place finishes for Lutheran Westland. She captured the high jump (4 feet, 8 inches) and 220-yard dash (27.7). Schroeder also teamed up with Stephanie Davis, Amy and Laura Clark to win the 440 relay (53.4). The same foursome also took second in the 880 relay (1:58.5).

Other firsts for the Warriors came from Rachal Siggins, shot put (81-1); Laura Clark, 100 dash (12.3); and Jodi Werman, 880 run (2:34.5).

The two-mile relay team of Kate Sernett, Werman, Cheryl Polkinghorne and Heather Locke also finished first (10:57.9).

Second places went to Lindsay Evans, shot put (26-); Sernett, high jump (4-6); and Amy Ebedick, two mile (no time available).

In Saturday's Class C regional at Byron, Lutheran Westland scored 59 points to finish third behind champion Blissfield (105) and second-place Dundee (74).

Catholic Central fulfills league quest

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

For Tony Magni, winning Tuesday's Catholic League A-B Division track championship at Farmington Hills Mercy meant more than any of his first four as Shamrocks' coach.

"This title was much more special," Magni said. "No one gave us a shot to win this at the beginning of the year. We didn't have a lot of kids come out for the team early in the year, but the ones that did gave 110 percent. What makes this special is the kids wanted it and the kids won it."

CC, which came in third last season, finished with 106 points. U-D Jesuit, was a close second with 95 points, followed by last year's champion, Birmingham Brother Rice (73).

CC led for the entire first half of the meet, thanks in part to strong field performances by John Spolski, who won the shot put (51 feet, 8 inches) and Joe Washnock, who took the discus (153-8).

But behind Kareem Dillard, the Cubs mounted a comeback and took the lead. Dillard won four events — the long jump, 100-meter dash, 200 run and 400 run.

"Kareem is a great athlete, but it just wasn't him; he had a great supporting cast," Magni said. "I wasn't too worried about losing the lead because we have a strong 1,600 relay team and good two-milers."

The rain began falling hard as the 3,200 run began. CC junior Joe Leo broke away early and led by 40 meters throughout the race. CC sophomore John Griffin took second.

"Joe won, but Griffin really came through for us with a second," Magni said. "We knew if we could finish one-two, it would be hard for them."

"I realized that the meet could turn on my run," Leo said. "But I knew we have a great distance program and would finish the meet strong."

The Shamrocks needed at least a second place finish in the 1,600 relay to clinch the victory. CC did better than a second, as the foursome of Kevin Quay, Brian Pollock, Brian Teeley and Rudy Kelly-Powell won the race in 3:31.9.

Kelly-Powell anchored the winning relay team, holding off the Brother Rice team despite running with an injured left hamstring and shin.

"It affected me at regionals but not today," the junior said. "I knew all we needed was a second place finish but we were going for the first."

Other first place finishers for the Shamrocks were the 800 relay team of Quay, Kevin Heintz, Teeley and Kelly-Powell, and Derrick Faunce, who won the 800 run for the second straight year in 1:58.9.

Blazers send 1 to state

It was, in the words of Livonia Stevenson golf coach John Wagner, "a perfect day for golf."

Unfortunately, Friday wasn't perfect for Observerland golfers competing at the Class A Region 2-A Tournament at Brookside

REGIONAL

Golf Club in Saline. At least it was less than perfect for all but one: Laura Kowalski, from Livonia Ladywood.

Kowalski was the only golfer from the Observer area to qualify for the state finals. The junior from Plymouth shot an 86 to finish second in the individual standings, behind Katy Loy of Ann Arbor Pioneer, who won the region with a 78.

Saline's Katy Nolan and Jackson's Elizabeth Eby tied for fourth at 87, with Pioneer's Jennifer Schleicher next at 92.

The top three teams and the best five individual golfers (whatever their team) advance to the state tournament, a two-day affair slated for June 2-3 at East Lansing's Forest Akers Golf Course.

Pioneer was the best of the region's 15 teams with a 380. Host Saline was next at 390, followed by Ann Arbor Huron at 391. Livonia Stevenson missed the cut, firing a 406 to finish fourth.

CLASS A REGION 2A GOLF TOURNAMENT

May 19 at Saline's Brookside Golf Course

Team standings: 1. Ann Arbor Pioneer, 380; 2. Saline, 390; 3. Ann Arbor Huron, 391; 4. Livonia Stevenson, 406; 5. Jackson, 421; 6. Plymouth Salem, 424; 7. Farmington Hills Mercy, 425; 8. Livonia Ladywood, 428; 9. Northville, 430; 10. Dearborn, 467; 11. Livonia Churchill, 471; 12. Plymouth Canton, 483; 13. Ypsilanti, 529; 14. Harper Woods Regina, 529; 15. Livonia Franklin, 577.

Top five finishers (all qualify for state meet): 1. Katy Loy (Pioneer), 78; 2. Laura Kowalski (Ladywood), 86; 3. (tie) Katy Nolan (Saline), Elizabeth Eby (Jackson), 87; 5. Jennifer Schleicher (Pioneer), 92.

Local team finishes

Livonia Stevenson (fourth): Andrea Khoury, 95; Jill Van Tiem, 99; Kristin Bartholomew, 103; Kelly Kristy, 109.

Plymouth Salem (sixth): Kelly Collins, 95; Katie Collins, 98; Tom Furberon, 103; Katie Collins, 106.

Farmington Hills Mercy (seventh): Amy Schultins, 100; Tina Mader, 104; Kristen Smith, 107; Gina Mazzoni, 114.

Livonia Ladywood (eighth): Laura Kowalski, 86; Sarah Andersen, 108; Lauren Agoston, 114; Elise Pratt, 122.

Livonia Churchill (11th): Jenny Patras, 110; Becky Gajda, 119; Kelly Rowan, 120; Jenny McLaughlin, 122.

Plymouth Canton (12th): Anne Akoto, 109; Kim Stafford, 114; Sandra Pardo, 127; Jessica Dumas, 133.

Livonia Franklin (15th): Beth Pamela, 125; Karen Hollenbeck, 142; Kristin Kojacko, 153; Sarah Belcher, 157.

Other Observerland team finishes: Plymouth Salem, sixth (424); Farmington Hills Mercy, seventh (425); Livonia Ladywood, eighth (428); Livonia Churchill, 11th (471); Plymouth Canton, 12th (483); and Livonia Franklin, 15th (577). See statistical summary.

"Our team shot very steady," said Wagner of Stevenson's performance. Best among the Spartans was Andrea Khoury with a 95; Jill Van Tiem was next at 99. The Collins sisters led Salem once again. Kelly shot 95 and Katie scored a 98. Mercy's best was Amy Schultins with a 100.

However, none of the performances were a match for Kowalski's round. According to Ladywood junior varsity coach Randy Ferguson, Kowalski — who averaged around 47 for nine holes this season — started slowly. She was 10-over-par after seven holes.

But she got straightened out after that, going five-over over the final 11 holes.

Franklin beats Churchill in city final

It was more typical of a Franklin-Churchill softball game, but the result was the same Saturday in the Livonia City Tournament championship at Ford Field.

Franklin, which had twice beaten the Chargers this season by mercy-rule margins, downed the Chargers for the third time in 1995 by a 7-3 count.

The Patriots, who broke Churchill's two-year city reign, collected four straight hits and scored four runs in the fourth inning to break the game open.

Asha Bell led Franklin's 11-hit attack with three hits. Misty Valle added two hits and two RBI, while Ann Bagazinski and sophomore Jessica Sabbadin each added two.

Bagazinski, who was moved to the outfield midway through the year to make way for the smooth fielding Sabbadin at shortstop, continues to swing a hot bat for the Patriots. She is hitting .480 overall and over .500 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"Ann's had only four strikeouts all year and that means she's always getting her bat on the ball," said Franklin coach Joe Epstein, whose team is 17-9 overall.

Despite four errors, pitcher Tina Allen, who scattered eight hits over seven innings, earned the victory.

Churchill starter Alicia December took the loss.

Jessie Jenkins had two hits in a losing cause.

FRANKLIN 23, CLARENCEVILLE 6: In a five-inning, mercy-rule outcome, the Patriots were led by Melissa Thompson's 4-for-4 performance at the plate in a first-round city tournament game

SOFTBALL

Jaclyn Deane and Jennie Pughies each added three hits, while Bagazinski and Sabbadin contributed two apiece.

Wendy Roy, the losing hurler, clubbed a two-run homer for Clarenceville.

Allen pitched four scoreless and hitless innings. She fanned eight and did not walk a batter.

CHURCHILL 4, STEVENSON 3: In the day's most exciting game, Churchill earned the victory by scoring the game-winner in the top of the eighth.

With two-out, Anne Ruolo reached base on an error, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on December's single.

In the seventh, Churchill stopped a threat when left fielder Janelle Mazaria's throw to Clulow at the plate gunned down a Stevenson runner.

Tina Nalf, Megan McGinty, Ruolo and Jenkins each collected two hits for the Chargers.

Laura Krol, the losing pitcher, led Stevenson with three hits. Kroll allowed 11 hits, but walked only one.

Frosh handcuffs Lutheran Westland

Lutheran High Westland ran up against a couple of formidable softball opponents, falling Tuesday to Taylor Light & Life (12-1) after beating Riverview Gabriel Richard (4-3) on Monday.

Light & Life, 21-3 overall and ranked No. 3 in Class D, was led by freshman pitcher Robyn Pitman, who scattered 10 walks and four hits over five innings (mercy rule). She struck out nine.

"Pitman was tough when she had to be," said Lutheran Westland coach Ron Gentz, whose team fell to 15-7 overall. "You've got to put the ball in play. As a freshman she's very impressive."

Light & Life's Denise Weese ended the game with a two-run homer in the fifth inning.

ROUNDUP

She also collected two of the Lady Warriors' four hits.

Joy Tiernan singled in Lutheran Westland's lone run.

On Monday, the Lady Warriors rallied for four runs in the fifth, keyed by Becky Cannon's two-run double, to beat Richard.

Cannon, who collected two hits, scored the game-winner on a Richard error.

Gentz pitched seven strong innings, allowing seven hits and three walks. Richard (12-2) scored three times in the fourth inning on three Lutheran Westland errors.

NORTHWEST 24, CLARENCEVILLE 6: Eight errors led to Livonia Clarenceville's undignified Monday against visiting Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

Northwest scored 11 times in the first inning and finished off the Trojans with six runs in the fifth (mercy rule).

Wendy Roy, the losing pitcher, went 2-for-3 with a double and two RBI. Nicole Riedl added two hits, including a triple. Riedl scored two runs and knocked in a run.

The loss drops Clarenceville to 2-11 overall and 2-8 in the Metro Conference.

N. FARMINGTON 8, CHURCHILL 7: Katie Devereaux scored the game-winning run on wild pitch Monday at North Farmington (9-13 overall) won the Western Lakes Activities Association crossover at Livonia Churchill (13-10).

Devereaux led the winners with three hits and three RBI. Mickey Spiz, the winning pitcher, and Jaime Miles contributed.

Allison Hoye led Churchill with two hits and four RBI. Jenny Clulow scored three runs and added two hits along with Brenda Anderson and Danielle Sockolosky.

Alicia December, the losing pitcher, was the victim of six errors.

FRANKLIN 10, SALEM 0: On Tuesday, host Livonia Franklin invoked the 10-run, five-inning mercy rule to beat Plymouth Salem.

Sophomore shortstop Jessica Sabbadin went 2-for-3 and knocked in three runs for the Patriots.

SOVA TEAMS 187

The Schoolcraft Cyclot Volleyball Association captured two age divisions crowns last weekend in the Genesee Area Tournament.

The 18-and-under elite squad, coached by Christine Paclero, defeated Kentwood (15-8, 15-13) and Genesee (15-3, 15-8) to claim the title.

Team members include Alicia Durand, Linsey Ebert, Heather Greig, Erin LeSage, Anne Poglita, LaToya Presberry, Alena Simons, Stacy Ballus, Jamey Viaw and Sarah Fabrikiewicz.

Coach Ann Kolnitsy led the 16-and-under SOVA squad to wins over the Victors (15-12, 15-10) and Borderline (15-2, 15-10).

Team members include Kelly Ashworth, Gwen Osborne, Tereza Diekan, Amy Horgan, Cori Plattek, Joey Jandaak, Shannon Bwiah, Nicole Vondracek, Amanda Shaw, Sarah Poglita and Michelle Roy.

SOVA's 14-and-under squad also triumphed, downing the Oakland Juniors, 15-6, 16-3, in Sunday's tournament final at Walled Lake Central.

Members of coach Melinda Cain's team include Elizabeth Keck, Ellen Barrett, Katherine Ruth, Christina Dzingle, Jenny Lachapelle, Sara Chavez, Sara Wittrock, Lindsay Pfeiffer, Jamie Jandasek, Mary Lu Hemmes and Stephanie Chelan.

On May 13, SOVA's 12-and-under team, coached by Terri Matheon and Bette Norman-Nakamura, took first at Pottsville.

Team members include Kelly Anderson, Katie Dillon, Leslie Dzingle, Patty Horal, Jessie Jandasek, Kristine Matheon, Jennifer O'Shealy, Jessica O'Shealy, Maggie Ossola, Otisha Richmond, Ann Ruth, Abbey Scharder, Alexie Steinhauer, Emily Walkowiak, Lauren Temple and Nicole Cauzillo.

SOVA also finished third in the Gold Division at the State AAU Tournament, May 20 at Adrian.

Try summer strategy to improve standing

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Summer leagues are just now getting under way in bowling centers all around the town. This is a great opportunity to hone your skills, try new equipment, meet new friends and have some cool fun during the hot summer days.

If you are a newcomer to the game and just want to try your hand at league bowling, there are some openings in beginners leagues. The summer league season is a short one, usually 12 or 13 weeks, so check your area bowling centers to see what they have to offer.

Joe Johnson of Redford fired a 300 game in the High Fliers League at Cherry Hill Lanes. His series was 692. Nice shooting, Joe.

Four senior bowlers from West Bloomfield will be heading for San Antonio to compete in the 1995 U.S. National Senior Sports Classic V (Senior Olympics). The brother and sister team of Dolores Fox and Sy Zate will compete in the mixed doubles event and Mort Friedman and Phil Horowitz will compete in men's singles and doubles.

Fox and Zate won gold medals in 1993 and silver medals in 1994 at the Michigan Senior Olympics in Holland to qualify for the Nationals. Friedman, a 203-average bowler, won medals in '93 and '94 to qualify.

Horowitz competed in his first Senior Olympics in 1994 and won a gold medal in singles, then teamed with Friedman to take the gold in men's doubles. They all are longtime members of the local B'Nai B'rith Leagues.

The "Early Bird" entries are out for those who would like to enter the Pro-Am portion of the Greater Detroit Open at Taylor Lanes. The advantage of the early entry is obvious: a better choice of squad times, since this event is always a sell-out and the last-minute entrants wind up on the sidelines or at home watching on TV.

In this case that will be another "arena" setting, not the Joe Louis Arena, but a lot closer to the original venue, at the Sheridan Community Center, also in Taylor. All early birds get an extra discount on the entry fee and they receive a new ball called "the Zone" by Brunswick. The balls will be available in June.

For further details call (313) 946-9092.

The National Seniors Bowling Association (NSBA) will have two tournaments during the month of June: the regularly scheduled event at Taylor Lanes June 3 and the Senior/Super Senior doubles event, which will be June 10 at Astro Lanes.

The latter will feature pairings of a regular senior with a super senior. It is the first one of its kind for the organization.

The most recent competition took place at Fountainview Lanes, where Scotty Laughland proved for the third time that "winning never gets old." Only one bowler from Oberverland made the finals: Horowitz, of West Bloomfield, who came in 13th.

Just as we did last week, here is another listing of league champions:

Wonderland Lanes: Motor City Eagles, Lassies: No.7 Awesome Foursome — Dorothy White, Bob Battle, Kim Mathieu & Rob Loviska.

Motor City Eagles, Early: No.9 Performance Ford Club of America — Keith Hubbell, Ray Browning, Dave Turner, Ted Lupu, Bob Henderson and Rob Anderson.

No.13 — Tom & Dora Riley and Tom Jr. and Tammy Riley.

Thursday Nite Wonders No.6 Ringers — Robbie Piscopek, Debbie Halsey, Lisa Tinik, Tina Tripoli & Stacy Halsey.

St. Sabinas: No 1 — Paul "Bennie" Krystyniak, Ann "Bacardi" Santo, Debbie "D-Bor-ah" Kane & Mike "Stud Muffin" Kane.

BASEBALL

Patriots tournament tough

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Franklin coach Jim Karoub got tired of his team playing the "perfect host" for the Livonia City Baseball Tournament.

His Patriots broke a five-year drought by winning their first-ever city title Saturday with a 10-2 triumph over Churchill in the finals at Ford Field.

"We played sloppy in spots today," Karoub said. "But we hit the ball well in both games (including a 13-3 mercy rule triumph over Clarenceville).

"We were not sharp defensively, the wind made it kind of tough. The pop-ups were tough to play, but a win is a win." Franklin improved to 19-5 overall by erasing a 1-0 deficit with an eight-run third inning.

Ray Maleyko had a two-run triple during the surge.

Speedy junior outfielder Luke Humphreys led Franklin with two hits, including an inside-the-park homer in the seventh.

"Luke's hitting close to 350 and has great wheels, and he's a great kid," Karoub said.

Tony Granata added an RBI triple, while Brian Crumley and Rich Longsdorf each singled in runs for the Patriots.

Winning pitcher Mike Aubuchon, who went the distance, striking out five and scattering seven hits, improved to 5-1 on the year.

"His (Aubuchon's) ERA is around 1.7," Karoub said. "We're 19-5 because of the pitching."

Eric Godlewski, the losing pitcher, collected three hits. Teammate Bob Szopko added two as the Chargers fell to 4-14 overall.

FRANKLIN 13, CLARENCEVILLE 3: Franklin overcame a 3-0 deficit to mercy the Trojans in a first-round encounter.

Humphreys led a 14-hit Franklin attack with three hits. Eric Bowman added two hits and three RBI, while Maleyko, Aubuchon and Tim Miller each contributed two hits.

Ray Kastl belted a two-run homer for Clarenceville and Kyle McSorley had two hits. Franklin starter Sean Mattson, a senior, scattered five hits over five innings to pick up the win.

"I knew they'd hit him," Karoub said. "But he throws strikes. The ball is always around the plate and he keeps it down."

Rob Ashton, victim of three errors, took the loss for Clarenceville.

CHURCHILL 5, STEVENSON 2: Szopko's RBI triple and Ron Blackmore's two-run single carried the Chargers to the first-round win over the Spartans.

Mike Tomassi, the winning pitcher, worked the first five innings before Blackmore came on to earn the save.

Eric Curt had an RBI single for Stevenson. Starting pitcher Andy Dattolo took the loss.

CLARENCEVILLE 3, STEVENSON 2: Jon Eastman tripled and doubled as Clarenceville won the consolation rain-shortened six-inning game at Franklin's field.

Steve Parks (3-3), the winning pitcher, went five innings, allowed four hits and two earned runs.

Sophomore hurler Mike Allison, who allowed just three hits in five innings, was charged with the loss.

Gian Galati collected two hits for Stevenson (3-19 overall).

Glenn's Turner baffles Canton; Harrison downs Clarenceville

Westland John Glenn's Chris Turner retired 15 straight batters Tuesday to record a perfect game in five-inning 10-0 mercy-rule baseball victory over visiting Plymouth Canton.

Glenn improves its record to 14-11 overall, while Canton drops to 16-10.

Turner, a senior right-hander, was in complete control as he raised his record to 4-2. He threw only 45 pitches and had three strikeouts.

Marc Pennebaker suffered the loss.

Glenn collected nine hits and broke it open with an eight-run second inning.

Jerry Farrar doubled and clubbed a two-run triple. Catcher Nick James went 2-for-2 with three RBI, while Turner helped his own cause with a first-inning RBI groundout.

SALEM 12, FRANKLIN 9: In a slugfest Tuesday, host Plymouth Salem (20-6 overall) downed Livonia Franklin (19-6) in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover.

Mike Braanan hit a grand slam for the victorious Rocks in the fifth inning, while Sam LaGrow added a two-run shot.

Ray Maleyko doubled twice for Franklin, while Brian Crumley added two hits, including a double. Luke Humphreys cracked a solo homer.

ROUNDUP

worked the first 5 1/2 innings, gained the victory.

Mike Aubuchon (5-2), the second of three Franklin pitchers, took the loss.

MONROE 5, WAYNE 2: Pitcher Robert Redmon struck out 10 and scattered six hits Monday as the host Trojans downed Wayne Memorial in a Mega Conference Red Division encounter.

Monroe is 16-10 overall and 10-3 in the Mega Red, while Wayne falls to 9-11-1 and 4-8-1.

Shannon Green (1-4), the losing pitcher, allowed five earned runs on four hits and five walks in six innings.

Randall Crutchfield collected two hits for the winners.

Aaron Cagnon and Green each went 2-for-3. Cagnon had a double.

LUTH. WESTLAND 16, LIGHT & LIFE: On Tuesday, Lutheran High Westland (11-7 overall) unleashed an 18-hit attack to bounce visiting Taylor Light & Life in five innings (mercy rule).

Adam Danielczyk was the big gun, going 4-for-4 with two doubles and a tape-measure solo homer.

Other hitting stars for the Warriors included Jason Bayush, 3-for-3 with two doubles and two RBI; Mat Baltz, 2-for-3 with three RBI including a two-run homer; Chris Tierman, 2-for-3 with two RBI; and winning pitcher Don Wagner, 2-for-2 with two RBI.

CLARENCEVILLE 10, LUTH. N'WEST 7: Ray Kastl knocked in six runs Monday with a three-run homer, two-run double and bases loaded walk, powering Livonia Clarenceville to the Metro Conference victory Monday at Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

Jon Eastman added two hits, including a double, and two RBI.

Winning pitcher Rob Ashton worked the final 2 1/2 innings in relief Kastl, the starter, to pick up the victory as Clarenceville improves to 3-7 in the Metro.

On Tuesday, Farmington Hills Harrison rallied from 3-0 deficit with six runs in the fifth and four in the sixth to beat the visiting Trojans, 10-8, in a non-leaguer.

Dave Hensel, who went seven innings, scattering six hits and four walks, gained the victory.

Steve Parks, who worked six innings and allowed nine hits and four walks, suffered the loss.

Harrison's C.J. Ghannam collected two hits and four RBI for the Hawks, now 13-5 overall. Teammate Mark Cantor doubled twice and knocked in three runs.

Kyle McSorley had three hits, including a double, and two RBI. Steve Diehr added a two-run single as Clarenceville falls to 6-14 overall.

HURON VALLEY 19, OAK CHRISTIAN 14: On Saturday, Jason Batkooski and Joe Schmidt each collected three hits and three RBI as Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (18-2, 7-2) beat Auburn Hills Oakland Christian in a Michigan Independent Athletic Conference game.

Dave Hartley added two hits and four RBI, including a three-run homer in the first inning. Joel Hartley contributed two hits and four RBI, while Ben Husby knocked in three runs on two hits.

Livonia plans new sculpture

The Livonia Arts Commission has reason to be proud of its recent revelation that a new sculpture is in the works to grace the Civic Center grounds.

Thanks to arts commissioner Dorothy Wilshaw who came up with the idea of adding to the City of Livonia's growing artwork collection, visitors to the library-city hall-fire station-senior citizen complex will be greeted by a bronze sculpture by Grosse Pointe artist Frank Varga.

"I just got an idea in my head for a sculpture for the city. I thought it would be neat for the city but never expected it to happen but the commissioners just took to it," said Wilshaw.

"I love sculpture. When we travel to other cities that's what I go to see, the sculptures in the parks. A lot of cities have sculptures of people just doing what people do."

And that will be the theme for the new City of Livonia sculpture— an old man sitting on a park bench next to a little girl gazing up in awe at him while he reads a story to her from a book.

Funds needed

The sculpture will cost $26,000. If the arts commission chooses to place a dog by the figures' side as in the original plans, it will cost another $2,000.

No general funds will be used to pay for the artwork, said Suzanne Montambeau, a liaison between the commissions and City of Livonia in the community resources department.

Part of the money will come from a $13,000 Michigan Equity Grant approved in April. Additional money in the arts commission's trust fund, raised at the group's annual arts and crafts festival at Greenmead Historical Village, will also be used.

The rest will be raised, said Montambeau, through sponsorship from corporate as well as private sources.

Donations for the new art sculpture "Wisdom and Innocence" can be sent to: Livonia Arts Commission, c/o Art Sculpture, 33000 Civic Center Drive, Livonia, Mich. 48154. Checks should be made payable to: City of Livonia Art Sculpture.

Gentle theme

"It's a nice gentle theme of an old man and a young child," Montambeau said.

Born in Budapest, Hungary in 1943, Frank Varga has lived in Belgium, France, Canada and the U.S.

After serving an apprenticeship with his father, Ferenc Varga, an internationally acclaimed sculptor, Frank Varga received a scholarship to study at the Academia de Bella Artes in Florence, Italy. He worked under Italian sculptor Antonio Berti.

After receiving his fine arts degree he returned to America to a studio to work with his father. Varga Studio is a fine art studio specializing in

Home tour offers decorating ideas

From large dream houses to small fixer-uppers filled with hundreds of decorating ideas, the nine houses on the biennial Plymouth Symphony League Home Tour June 2-3 are sure to inspire visitors.

In 1990 David Schuhardt bought a 1,500-square-foot roughed-in ranch house on five acres.

Today on that same site stands a 7,300-square-foot magnificent contemporary cedar house with multi-tiered roof designed and built by Schuhardt, owner of Consolidated Building Contractors & Designers in Dixboro.

The company is known for its architectural and historic renovations (the train station in Plymouth's Old Village) as well as period reproductions.

Schuhardt's breath-taking estate — along with eight other houses in Plymouth, Northville and Novi — are on the Expressions in Architecture and Decor Home Tour 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, June 2 and noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, June 3.

Sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League, the biennial tour is a primary fund-raiser to benefit the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, which will celebrate its 50th anniversary during the 1995-96 concert season.

The PSO's annual operating budget runs around $100,000. The League raised 25 percent of that last year through its semi-annual antique shows as well as other fund-raisers.

Tickets are $15 in advance, $18 on the days of the tour, and available in Plymouth at Chameleon Galleries Ltd., Beitners Jewelry, Frameworks, and Me and Mr. Jones Petite, and in Northville at Book Stall on the Main.

Several area restaurants will give a 20-percent discount to tour ticket holders during the week ending June 3.

ing 129 exterior windows and doors, and 329 lights and fixtures.

The spacious Great Room, bathed in natural light, features a floor-to-ceiling cabinet handcrafted by Schuhardt, a master carpenter.

The panel doors, spotlighting large white cranes, were created during the Ming Dynasty and brought to this country from Beijing, China by a friend.

Built-in black appliances set a dramatic tone in the kitchen, which is centered around an island of Oriental style oak cabinetry.

On the second level, a 23-by-16-foot train room in the building stage is a Sunday afternoon family (daughters Breanna, 5 and Lisa, 15) hobby.

The master bedroom, accented in part by lighting drops, sports a three-sided fireplace and bath with two-person whirlpool tub.

Home tour has something for everyone

From the tromp l'oeil walls in a Plymouth Township home to a 8,200-square-foot showcase house in Northville, visitors on the Plymouth Symphony League's biennial home tour to benefit the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra are sure to find dozens of decorating ideas.

Among the stops on this year's home tour are:

■ The expanded "Galleria" model home built by Robert Jones for Chris and Mark Firestone on Pine Ridge Court in Plymouth Township.

Flowers by Friendly Persuasions Inc. Raffle item is "Country Girl," a signed and numbered collectors doll by The Doll Maker.

■ A 1988 English Tudor owned by Larry and Pauline Lester in Plymouth Township's exclusive Beacon Meadows has been renovated to reflect their English ancestry. The stark white walls and Plexiglass staircase have been replaced with soft muted tones in the foyer, sitting room and library. Maroons and greens accent the kitchen giving it life and energy.

Flowers by Ribar Floral Co. in Plymouth. Raffle for something very English and dinner for two at Ernesto's in Plymouth.

■ Cindy Drager's "spruce it up" on Sheridan Street in the city of Plymouth. Drager has removed wallpaper, redone woodwork and remodeled the bathroom on a shoe string budget. There are plenty of ideas for do-it-yourselfers here.

Flowers by owner.

■ An 8,200-square-foot showcase home in Northville Township designed by Melonio & Ugorak Inc. and built by Bonnie Brook Development Inc. recreates Old World elegance through the use of hand crafted cabinetry, doors, columns, antiqued moldings, fluted pilasters and hand carved fireplace.

Flowers by Heide's Flowers & Gifts. Raffle item is a 25-inch TV.

■ A Raised Country Cottage owned by Ward and Diane Powers and nestled on two acres in Novi attempts to develop the living environments of the owners' dreams through the design of architect Walter Melonio and construction by builder Edward Funke.

Interior design is by Perlmutter-Freiwald. Flowers by Designer's Flowers and Greenhouse of Novi. Raffle item: Haggard vase with silk flower arrangement.

■ Decorative painting is key to the interior design of a 1992 Plymouth Township home owned by Charles and Desiree Herr. The library's walls sport a leather look while the ceiling is a world map mural inside parchment framing.

Flowers by Wesley Berry Flowers.

■ Monet inspired wallpaper in hues of lavender, soft greens and blues greet visitors to the final Plymouth Township home of Lawrence and Lori Carollo.

Flowers by Bezaire Distinctive Gifts & Accessories. Raffle item: moss covered teapot and teacup by AccessorWise.

Scouts build bird houses

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Fun is the name of the game at Spring Elegance, a craft show to raise funds to furnish the nature center scheduled to open in the historic Nankin Mills within the next year.

The seventh annual event takes place noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 4, near the baseball diamonds across the park from Nankin Mills, 33175 Ann Arbor Trail and Edward Hines Drive in Westland.

The Friends of Nankin Mills in cooperation with Wayne County Parks have planned a day full of activities for the family including face painting by students of D & M Art Studio in Plymouth, and sand art created by Camilla Hovis of Dearborn Heights.

Twenty-two crafters will exhibit wares ranging from hand woven rugs (Jim Hicks, Westland) to clothes for cement geese (Mario Wheeler and Patty Randolph, Westland).

"I'm pretty excited about having things the kids can enjoy like the face painting and sand art," said Denise Mellich-Johnson, show co-chair with Kathy Myers.

Boy Scout Troop 270 based at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, are the bargain of the day with most priced between $5 to $30.

Made from recycled wood, primarily pallets, the scouts are selling the houses to raise money for equipment, food and transportation for a five day fifty mile backpacking trip on High Country Trail in the Pigeon River Forest area beginning in late June.

The trail was chosen because of its challenging terrain and the opportunity to view wildlife like elk and black bear. The possibility of bear encounters will force the scouts to hang their packs from rope lines on trees to discourage bears from trying to enter the tents at night in search of food.

Several practice hikes have already taken place to accustom the scouts to carrying packs weighing between 30 and 40 pounds for eight or more miles a day.

On a recent Saturday morning more than half a dozen scouts gathered in the Westland backyard of John Cargill to saw, hammer and paint bird houses.

"We thought it was a natural to build bird houses because of Nankin Mills and the nature center," said Cargill.

"The boys are mostly doing everything themselves. John and I are just watching so nobody gets hurt," said Steve Smith of Livonia.

"Most of them have had wood shop. There are no blue prints. They're going from pictures in a library book then taking measurements so they're applying what they learned."

Nick Palazzola, a student at Emerson Middle School in Livonia thought "it's kind of cool to build stuff and a guy didn't cut himself yet." Scott Smith from Frost school in Livonia and Masen Scofield, an Emerson student, agreed the experience was an enjoyable one.

"I'm learning about the birds and how not to make mistakes over and over again by not measuring things correctly," Scofield said.

Raphael School in Garden City also appreciated the lessons he learned during the house building session.

"I'm learning that hard work will eventually pay off," said the Westland scout.

Other scouts lending their hands to build the bird houses were Andrew Mehelich of Westland, a student of Emerson; Jeremy Cargill, Westland, Hayes Elementary in the Livonia school system; Roger Byrne from Livonia Franklin High School, and Jeff Hopkins, a drum major and member of the National Art Honor Society from Franklin.

The scouts have also built four children's picnic tables that will be on sale at the craft show.

In all sizes and colors as well as natural stains, the bird house will come with an instructional sheet on which birds will likely inhabit these new homes.

A country and western concert co-sponsored by the Westland Cultural Society will follow the craft show to benefit the historic mill at 6 p.m.

farmers with mass production jobs in winter by operating village plants on the Rouge, Raisin and Huron Rivers.

He bought Nankin Mills in 1918 to build car parts. The county acquired the mill in 1948. In 1958 it became Nankin Mills Nature Center under the direction of naturalist Mary Ellsworth.

Many adults who grew up in this area remember it as a home to wild animals as well as safe haven for injured raccoons, deer, owls, and fox.

The nature center was closed in 1979 due to budget cuts in the parks department. Due to the diligent efforts of The Friends of Nankin Mills and Wayne County Parks the nature center will once again delight and educate Observerland youngsters about wildlife and their plight to survive.

monumental sculptures. Varga has created hundreds of sculptures ranging in size from a few inches to over 50 feet high.

During trips back to Italy Varga became acquainted with his contemporaries. Henry Moore, Marino Marini and Jacques Lipchitz.

A life size cast bronze sculpture of a young man sitting on a park bench feeding pigeons by Varga is permanently displayed at Providence Hospital in Southfield.

Photos of clay models with bronze finishes by Varga are in the hands of the arts commission who must approve one before sending it on to Mayor Robert Bennett and finally the city council.

A tentative date for installation on a site as yet to be decided is estimated around September or October.

"We're going to title the sculpture Wisdom and Innocence because you only get wisdom from living life," said Wilshaw.

If all goes well, future plans could call for additional sculptures to be commissioned for pondering on the park-like Civic Center grounds.

dation. My company was one of the first in the state to go with all wood about 10 years ago. My grandfathers were builders and carpenters; that's where the rosettes and fancy moldings and cabinets come from. I learned all of that from them," said Schuhardt, a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School.

While the house is breath-taking, the gardens in back captivate with a lagoon pool, peaceful walkways and Japanese bridges.

A raccoon, red fox family and deer are frequent visitors. In fact, the raccoon, according to Schuhardt's wife Jeannie, often sleeps in the lounge chair that rests on the 200 feet of tiered balconies.

"We spend almost every night in the summer in the backyard. I love it here. It shows what you can do with a little existing structure," said Jeannie.

Weather permitting, classic and classy cars will be displayed outside several of the houses.

Most of these house will include arrangements courtesy of local florists.

Plymouth Marketplace will add its special touch to the Schuhardt house. The prize-winning photo by Observer & Eccentric columnist Monte Nagler on display in the foyer will be given away in a drawing to a lucky ticket holder.

The next stop on the tour is a white clapboard colonial built around 1835 for Ebenezer Jenkes Penniman, one of the first U.S. Congressmen from Plymouth. Today the house is home to the priests of Our Lady of Good

The rectory, under the guidance of Father John Sullivan, is in the process of being restored to its former stature.

Much of the Empire style furniture is original. Jewel-tone colors used to decorate the Parish House were picked up from the carpet originally in the Dining Room now in the Great Room, the oldest part of the house.

Father Sullivan ripped out the carpeting in both rooms to reveal beautiful boards of oak and Michigan yellow pine. He also added the glass topped table supported by three bronze elephants in the entry way.

Father Sullivan feels Penniman, a Republican, would have appreciated this touch.

Sparr's Flowers & Greenhouses will contribute to the stately air of the Penniman "White House."

"The restoration is a labor of love. The house was to the point of deterioration when we started 2 1/2 years ago," said Rita Maly, a parishoner and owner of RKM Interior Designs.

Maly is donating her decorating expertise to the renovating project. She and Phyllis Czapl designed the Great Room's window treatments in keeping with the Victorian style of the house.

A supporter of President Lincoln, Ebenezer Penniman became involved in the underground railroad. A secret cellar in the basement serves as proof of his activity.

Originally, the house sat on 100 acres including the area North to the railroad tracks.

The updated plumbing, electrical, and Art Deco style found in the pillars and French doors were added in the 1920s by Kate Allen, Penniman's daughter.

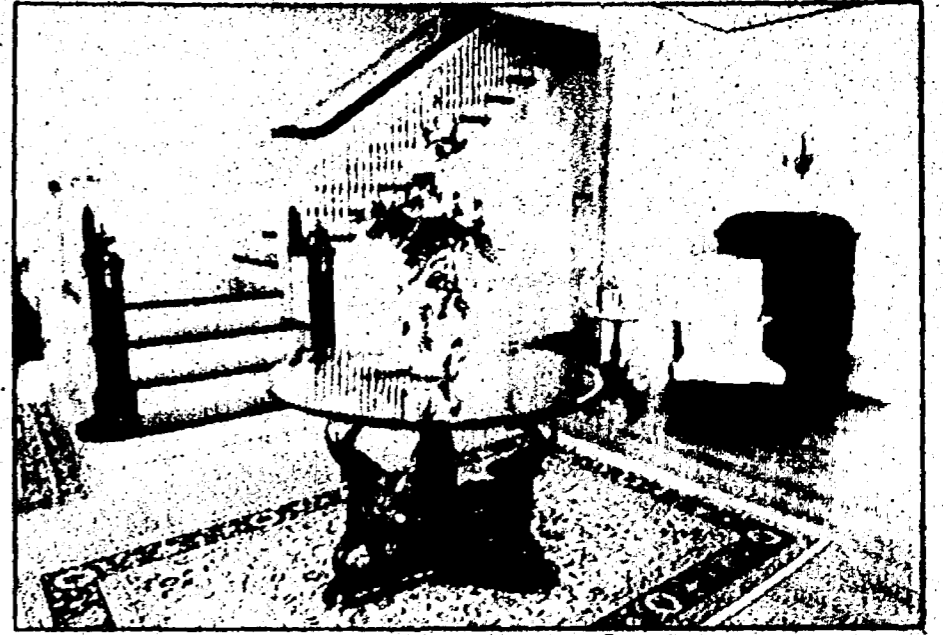

A flapper known for extravagant parties, Allen owned the Penn-Allen Theater, which burned down a few years ago.

The Catholic Church took over the house in 1946. In the Study are Penniman's glass-doored bookcases holding many of his books. The Drawing Room still features the original grandfather clock and library table.

"Ebenezer Penniman was a very prominent man. He and Mr. Starkweather were the founding fathers of the GOP in Michigan," said Father Sullivan.

"This was a plantation house. I've respected the history but wanted to add a piece of ourselves. It's not a museum at all but a house being lived in."

It's been said that spirits inhabit the stately house. Creeking floorboards, the sounds of someone looking through a book, and a bible owned by Penniman's wife that keeps appearing and disappearing add to present residents belief the spirit is a playful one with nothing more sinister to offer than a comforting presence.

Special touches: Father Sullivan ripped out the carpeting in both rooms to reveal beautiful boards of oak and Michigan yellow pine. He also added the glass topped table supported by three bronze elephants in the entry way.

Oakland real estate boards merging

BY JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER SPECIAL WRITER

It will be business as usual when three Oakland County real estate boards merge...

On June 1, the Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors, South Oakland County Board of Realtors and Rochester Area Association of Realtors...

"They'll tie the knot," said Dan Dressman, Michigan Association of Realtors executive vice president.

For now, the board's mega-name best identifies the areas in which its members primarily work and sell property, but a shorter title may come later, said Realtor Nita Anderson...

Carol Shelton of Real Estate One, Rochester, is board president. Bob Corbett of Century 21 Campbell, Madison Heights, is secretary/treasurer.

"There's a lot on our plate right now, but we're excited about the change. We're sure the members will gain from our board's new position.

The new board's annual operating budget is around $2 million and combined membership is about 2,700.

Like most other professional associations, the BBSORBR offers many professional services to dues paying members — classes required for licensing and special designations, legal assistance, representation on state and national real estate boards...

The three boards formed a task force last fall to work out the merger, and most members "blessed the union," said Jack Waller, president and COO of Professional Association Services (PAS), a management firm formed in January 1994 to run the boards prior to the merger.

The task force included board members and a representative of Standard Federal Bank's appraisal department.

"The boards have taken a quantum leap into the future and they should be complimented. A merger like this takes some foresight," said Waller, owner of NCI Associates School of Builders & Real Estate in Madison Heights.

The three boards' operating expenses significantly dropped shortly after PAS took over — two boards sold headquarters, dues were reduced about 30 percent and a combined administrative staff was cut from 17 to nine.

Waller said the merger will bring additional changes, such as more real estate courses, more influence on state and national Realtor boards, more advocates looking out for homeowners' interests, and more opportunity to mingle with agents who had been affiliated with the other boards.

OPENS NEW BRANCH

Grubb & Ellis, a Southfield-based commercial and industrial real estate firm, will open a small Detroit office to service the downtown market.

Two leasing agents familiar with the downtown area will staff the new branch in Stroh River Place.

TOP SALES AWARD

Abe Dobrusin, a sales associate for Century 21 MJL Corporate Transferee Service in Farmington Hills, has earned the Centurion Award for outstanding sales and service.

The Farmington Hills resident was born in Russia and has an engineering degree from Moscow University. He came to the United States with his family in 1980 and joined Century 21 MJL in 1991.

SALUTE COMMUNITY SERVICE

The Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors was a finalist for an outstanding service award May 15 at the second annual Governor's Community Service Awards program in Lansing, Gov. John Engler said.

The BBBR was honored in the corporation-business category for its high level of public service and commitment to the poverty-related needs of families in Pontiac and surrounding areas.

MCSC chairwoman Michelle Engler said the awards ceremony celebrates Michigan's volunteer spirit.

Consider fine points of insurance pacts, legal audits

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Our management company has approached us with an offer that if we go with an insurance carrier as suggested by the management company, we will get a reduction promoting this carrier to a number of associations.

suggested that they get an opinion from legal counsel as to the propriety of it, but counsel indicated that he would not want to give an opinion as to the management company's offer under the circumstances, because it might reflect adversely on the management company.

To the extent that the arrangement that the management company is suggesting that you enter into with the insurance company depends upon your continuation of the management agreement with the management company, it obviously benefits the management company as presumably the association will be less inclined to terminate its arrangement with the management company, for whatever reason, if it is tied into an insurance program offered through the management company, presumably at a savings to the association.

The problem that the association should be considering is whether, in fact, there is some arrangement between the management company and the insurance company concerning this proposal, and if so, are there any payments being made to the management company as a result of the arrangement.

Also, what are the consequences to the association if the management contract is terminated, i.e., does the insurance contract terminate or does the premium immediately increase, and even if it doesn't, will the association then be in a position of having to switch back to another insurance carrier, perhaps not getting sufficient or adequate coverage because of an intervening casualty when and if it terminates its arrangement with the management company or vice versa.

Simply put, it does not sound as good as it appears and I would be very leery about entering into any type of arrangement until you have fully explored all of the ramifications of the insurance contract as proposed, the relationship between the insurance company, and the management company, and why your counsel is not prepared to render an opinion in that regard.

My condominium project is about 18 years old and the percentages of values are based upon square footage and are used for allocation of assessments. We want to consider changing the master deed so that everyone pays equal assessments.

That is a very complicated issue but even under amendments to the 1978 Condominium Act, which may or may not apply to your condominium, based upon one's reading of the savings clause of the 1978 Condominium Act, you cannot change one's percentage of value without everyone's consent. While you can probably amend your documents to give everyone equal voting rights to the extent percentages of value are used for levying assessments, you would not be able to amend percentage of value to accomplish that purpose. You are best advised to have an attorney give your condominium a complete legal audit as to your condominium documents, including your master deed, your articles of incorporation and by-laws.

1 good house leads to another

■ Builders who enjoy success in one development often seek out other opportunities nearby to expand on that success. That's the story of two subdivisions, one nearly sold out, the other just getting started in Oakland County.

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

The three builders in the process of polishing off Kensington Forest Subdivision in Rochester Hills have moved their operations just down the road to the Northbrooke Subdivision.

Saylor Building, Palazzolo Brothers and MJC Legacy Homes each will construct 20 houses on 24 acres of land off Auburn Road between Crooks and Livernois.

Prices start at $178,900 for a ranch, $185,900 for a colonial. Buyers in Northbrooke generally will be second- or third-time move-ups, sales representatives said.

There are several attractions. "Contemporary floor plans, Rochester Hills, Avondale School District, proximity to Detroit and Southfield for working, access to freeways," said Joe Catalfo, sales manager for Palazzolo and MJC Legacy.

"It's an excellent product, good quality, convenience to M-59," said Claudia J. Tripp, sales director for Saylor. "You can get to I-75, there's

Windfall: This model, 2,100 square feet, has a master suite on the first floor, two bedrooms, a full bath and a loft area on the upper level good shopping, good schools, a lot of amenities."

Three models under construction are expected to be completed by the end of June.

Saylor's model, the Buckingham, is a colonial of 2,280 square feet with four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths. The base price is $193,100.

The main level features a living room, dining room, kitchen/eating nook, family room and laundry. All four bedrooms are upstairs. The master suite contains a shower and walk-in closet.

Saylor also offers six other floor plans. Standard features in all include fireplace, dishwasher, two-car attached garage, first floor laundry and basement.

Palazzolo Brothers and MJC Legacy have a working arrangement in which they will build each other's floor plans on an alternating basis.

Two models are going up. The Windfall, a story-and-a-half with 2,100 square feet, places the master on the main floor, two bedrooms, a full bath and a small loft on the second floor.

The master has a cathedral ceiling, walk-in closet, separate tub and shower and two-sink vanity.

The main floor also contains space that can be used for a formal dining room or den, a great room with cathedral ceiling, kitchen/eating nook with island and laundry.

Base price is $198,900.

The Kensington, a colonial of 2,520 square feet, has a living room, dining room, family room, library, kitchen/nook and laundry on the first floor, four bedrooms and two full baths upstairs.

Base price is $201,900.

Six other floor plans are available. All include the same basic features as the Saylor plans.

"Some of the best ideas we had came from owners," said Sam Palazzolo. "In the Windfall, we moved the fireplace to the corner, put a larger walk-in closet in the master. We put walk-in closets in secondary bedrooms in the Kensington."

High, volume ceilings also are popular, Palazzolo said.

Exteriors on all houses in Northbrooke will feature brick and wood.

The property tax rate for houses in the subdivision is $30.67 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owner of a $190,000 house would pay about $2,900 per year.

Northbrooke is serviced by city water and sewers. It will have sidewalks.

An annual association fee of $40 will be used to maintain the entrance and tend to the common retention pond, wetlands, park area.

Jim Zych and his fiancée, Betty Scanlon, ordered the Windfall.

"We really like the area a lot. We don't want your house, my house but our house," Zych said. "The main thing, after everything else, is the quality I've seen matches what I have now."

"These builders built a house for Betty's brother last year and he's

New computers power the classifieds

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

A new, modern computer system is operational in the classified advertising department at the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

The Advision system, developed by C-Text of Ann Arbor, allows more production flexibility putting the paper together, makes it easier for customers to revise and rerun ads and provides more information and a fresher look for readers.

"What it means — what we hope it means — is a more efficient way to place classified advertising in our newspapers," said Rick Ficorelli, marketing director for the Observer & Eccentric.

Classified advertising includes real estate, automotive and help wanted ads.

"Advision will give us more flexibility to place art work directly into ads," said Jack Padley, O&E classified advertising manager.

"We will also be able to build two- and three-column display ads directly on the system, which will then go electronically straight to a page, saving some composing time."

"Advision stores more information and offers various ways of locating information," Padley said. "It can store for a longer period of time, a year as opposed to a couple of weeks."

That makes it easier for customers who may want to revise or rerun an ad months after the original.

Readers, too, should benefit by the new system.

"Ads should appear cleaner and clearer," Padley said.

"Headers are bigger telling you what the classifications are. The numbers are bigger. Right by your thumbs, you can open the page and look at the top and see exactly what items are on that page."

Advision could also result in better ads, said Fran Gillis, inside sales supervisor.

"Ad reps can view an ad before it goes to the computer. They can actually see what goes in the paper. Hopefully, they can refine or enhance it in some way."

Gillis also pointed out the "dynamic index" at the front of the classified section, which lists specific page numbers of major classifications instead of just section locations.

"That's what classifieds are all about — a systematic collection of ads easy to access," Ficorelli said.

The O&E bought more than 30 new computers and work stations — cubicles, desks and chairs — to enable inside sales representatives to work comfortably and efficiently. Steve Popo, general manager, declined to give a specific dollar figure on those costs.

Because the technology is so new, bugs invariably crop up. Callers may wait a bit longer now to get through on the telephone, but Fi-corelli asks for patience.

"We hope, obviously, it will be easier for our inside sales people to service the needs of the marketplace. Unfortunately, it's not happening now. Long term, it should make it easier to input ads."

"We're well aware we have an obligation to produce because we're a money-making end of the paper," Gillis said.

very satisfied. My brother is building in Northbrooke. "I was looking for something with a very open floor plan. I like the separation of the other two upstairs bedrooms from the master," Zych said. Larry and Judy Dropiewski and family are getting a four-bedroom colonial from Saylor. "I liked the elevation (exterior) and the size of the houses in Kensington Forest," Larry said. "Judy works in Royal Oak. I work in Sterling Heights. We like the location on the south side of Rochester Hills." Melissa and Chris Hoffman are building a four bedroom colonial through Palazzolo MJC Legacy. "We really liked the model a lot, the wide-open floor plan," Melissa said. "It has four bedrooms and we're starting a family. We're not swimming in space, but I don't think we'll outgrow it." Closeness to work, 20 minutes for each, and on-site landscaping also attracted the couple to Northbrooke, Melissa said. "Until models are finished in Northbrooke, sales reps for Palazzolo MJC Legacy (810) 852-3227 and Saylor (810) 299-5313 are available 1-6 p.m. daily, except Thursdays in Kensington Subdivision models, Auburn Road just east of Northbrooke.

Bookmarks help you return to favorite spots on Internet

EMORY DANIELS

Surfers will ride a big wave for some distance until it peaks and then will slide into the water, never again to ride that wave. For some, surfing the Internet is a similar experience. The user will go to an exciting or interesting site, spend some time there, and leave — never again to return.

That can be frustrating if the site was of real interest to the Net surfer. Some of us maintain an Internet notebook, much like a personal journal, and jot down the address of a site we'd like to revisit. Others will write down the address on a piece of paper and stick it in a pocket or desk drawer, never to be seen again.

There is a better way, for Gopher and World Wide Web sites. The best choice is to create a Bookmark of that favorite site when you first visit, creating an electronic "note" of the address to be accessed anytime the user is on-line. Creating a Bookmark on-line is just like dropping a bookmark in a book to save an interesting page. For users with a graphical Web browser or graphical Gopher software, creating an on-line Bookmark is just as easy as dropping one into a book. For others, a few steps are involved, but it gets easier the more you do that step.

Creating a Bookmark is almost the same procedure for Gopher as it is for a Web site using Lynx. And, in fact, there is really only one major difference between the methods for Gopher and Lynx bookmarking. Let's drop a Bookmark at a Web site by doing it a step at a time:

1. Go to Internet menu and type L for Lynx. Select item 2 for "Select your own home page" and then type: <http://oeonline.com>.
2. The O&E Online home page will begin appearing on your screen. When it is completely loaded, type O for options. Then type B for Bookmark. Then type a filename for your Bookmark. We could call it "Lynx.bookmark.html." Type in that name

Creating Bookmarks with a graphical browser is really intuitive and does not need explanation. The variations are slight among Mosaic, Netscape, Cello, WinWeb and others.

3. Upon your return, type A to add this page to your Bookmark list. You will be prompted to type D for Document or L for Link. If you want to "save" the entire O&E Online home page, type D for Document. If your cursor is on the hypertext word "columns" (because you had just been reading one of my columns), then you could type L for Link, and the Bookmark would "save" only the link to my columns rather than O&E Online. Of course, you will want to do both.
4. When you quit a home page and go back to the main Lynx menu, or leave Lynx, and return to a new home page, you must type O again for options, type B for Bookmark, and type in "Lynx.bookmark.html," hit EN-TER and type R for return to save the new home page. Say you want the Web page of Internet access providers. Type [http://www.earth.org/\(tilde mark\)lips](http://www.earth.org/(tilde mark)lips) and go through the O, B, filename, ENTER, R routine and then type D to "save" the Document. Now you've dropped two bookmarks.

5. To view your Bookmark list, at any home page type V for View. Your Bookmark list appears on the screen. In this case, your list is two items long. Click on O&E Online and you will be taken there again. Select the left-arrow key and you will return to your Bookmark list.

Gopher works the same way as Lynx with one difference. With Gopher, you only need to type O for Options and enter the filename once. After that, at any Gopher site merely type A to Add or V to View. Once set up, Gopher Bookmarks are really easy to add to and to view. After you get a Gopher Bookmark list of 10-12 sites, when you type V for View your list will look very much like any other Gopher menu. Remember with Gopher you type U to return to the previous message rather than using the left-arrow key as you would with Lynx.

For both Lynx and Gopher, then, what you end up with is your own personalized list of sites. And that list can be accessed anytime you are online and so it functions like an electronic address book. The big difference, however, is that a Bookmark list is active. That is, when you select an item on the Bookmark list, you are taken to that site.

Creating Bookmarks with a graphical browser is really intuitive and does not need explanation. The variations are slight among Mosaic, Netscape, Cello, WinWeb and others. Some call the list "history," while others refer to "Bookmarks." One problem with graphical browsers is that the list can become quite long. Some browsers also have limits on the number of sites that can be chosen, although options can be edited to increase the number.

With graphical browsers, a useful step to take is to create your own bookmark list and save it on your hard disk. This requires a knowledge of hypertext markup language. All you need to know, though, is the structure of href statements that are used to link to a site. Create the file, save it to your browser directory, and then open it while online — and it functions the same as any other Bookmark list. Select a link and ride the wave.

Using Bookmarks allows you to return to a favorite wave and ride it again. You can't do that in Hawaii, but you can on the Internet.

You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oeonline.com, at voice mail at 953-2047 then dial 1910, or fax number 591-7279. To sign up for O&E On-Line, dial (313)591-0903, at "log-in" prompt type "new" and at "Key:" prompt type GL6NY2. Past columns may be accessed online at <http://oeonline.com>.

Meeting tomorrow's college bills

Today, you can face a tab of $40,000 for four years of education at a public college and about twice that amount for a private school. With costs increasing at an average of 7 percent a year, a four-year education 10 years from now could range from $80,000 to over $200,000. To meet this tab, or even part of it, requires careful financial planning, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Benefits of Investing Early

Thanks to the benefits of compound interest, the earlier you start saving, the easier it is to meet your goal.

For example, suppose you want to save $100,000 by the time your child starts college. If your child is already eight years old and you have 10 years to meet this goal, you'll need to set aside $6,662 annually for the next 10 years, assuming an 8-percent average rate of return on your investment.

However, if you begin as soon as your child is born, you need to save just $2,577 for each of the next 18 years.

Investing Strategies

Where you invest depends primarily on two factors: (1) your tolerance for risk and (2) the number of years before your first tuition payment. As a general rule, when children are young, and you have many years to save, you can take greater risks in hopes of greater returns. Generally, greater risk refers to the stock market.

As college days near, you'll want to transfer money to investments with less volatility, so you minimize the risk of losing your principal. Here are some savings vehicles to consider:

Growth stocks and mutual funds are your best bet for keeping up with rising college tuition costs and inflation. Historically, equity investments produce better returns over the long run, making them good investments if you start saving early.

If you're nervous about investing in the stock market, explore mutual funds. These investments are overseen by a professional money manager who ensures that the fund offers a mix of low- and high-risk investments. This diversification can give you an added measure of security yet enable you to benefit from upswings in your funds' particular stocks.

Zero-coupon bonds, which are sold at a substantial discount and pay a predetermined amount at maturity, offer an element of predictability that appeals to many parents. With zero-coupon bonds, you can accurately estimate the return on your investment and plan when to receive it. In fact, you can stagger the maturity dates so the bonds come due over the course of your child's college years.

U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by the government and apply a variable rate of interest. Since the interest rate on these bonds has increased over the past year, they have become particularly attractive. If you buy Series EE bonds in your name and use them to pay tuition, some or all of the earnings may be tax-free depending on your income at redemption time.

College Sure CDs are innovative savings vehicles offered by the College Savings Bank, (1-800-888-2723). The interest rate paid on the certificate of deposit (CD) is guaranteed to meet the average rising cost of college. The CDs have maturities of one to 25 years, and all are timed to mature on July 31.

They are sold in units or portions of units. One full unit at maturity is equal to one full year's average cost for tuition, room, and board at a four-year private college.

With these CDs, taxes are due on the interest as it is earned, although no money is paid out until the CD matures.

College Sure CDs are FDIC-insured up to $100,000 per depositor. There are penalties for early withdrawal, but should your child decide not to attend college, you can recover all of your principal and interest when the CD matures.

CPAs say that the best way to meet rising college costs is to save as much as you can as soon as you can.

However, don't assume that your savings must cover your child's entire college education. You can look to alternative sources to help cover the difference between your savings and actual college costs.
