Voters say 'yes' to tax requests

For the first time in many months, Wayne-Westland school officials got some good financial news Monday as sympathetic voters approved two tax proposals.

It seemed an insurmountable task when the Wayne-Westland school board, with only 28 days to mount a campaign, decided to place two tax proposals on the June 12 ballot.

When dual victories emerged Monday night, board member Francis "Bud" Winter immediately credited hundreds of parents who launched a letter-writing campaign to convince other, less-informed, parents to support the proposals.

"That's what turned it around." he said. "This was really a parent initia-

In the elementary and junior high voting precincts, Winter said, hundreds of parents sent letters home to other parents, urging them to support two tax proposals.

By substantial margins, voters renewed a 15-year, 18-mill tax on nonhomestead property and approved a two-year, 3-mill plan that will cost the owner of an $80,000 home about $120 a year.

Turnout among 60,000 registered voters was about 10.8 percent, with 6,471 people casting ballots, said district elections clerk Eleanor Harring-

City OKs gang task force

By Leonard Poger Editor

The Westland police department will have two additional officers and a new youth gang task force this year.

The officers and task force were the major changes added to the general fund budget approved by the city council Monday night.

The task force was initiated a year ago by Councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli and endorsed recently by Police Chief Emery Price who reported an increase of gang activity in the Norwayne area.

A special police detail has been formed to fight the problem, Price said in a June 1 report to Mayor Robert Thomas.

In urging the creation of a youth gang task force, Cicirelli said that other cities have formed similar

Board winners pledge harmony

Political newcomers Martha Pitsenbarger of Wayne and David James of Westland won handily in Monday's election, capturing fouryear terms after defeating third-place finisher Ed Turner.

"I am pleased that the voters have endorsed me," Pitsenbarger, a clinical social worker, said as she celebrated with some 75 supporters at the Willow Creek Apartments clubhouse on Newburgh near Marquette. "I had a lot of supporters that endorsed my thoughts on the schools."

Pitsenbarger, the top vote-getter, said one of her top priorities will be to boost school funding by pushing for donations from the business and industrial sector for a community foun-

Welty, Raisanen get tearful farewells

We're going to miss you terribly," Wayne resident Val Wolf said, addressing Raisanen and Welty on the same night they were honored by their colleagues for four years of exemplary public service.

Raisanen, a 50-year-old artist, and Raisanen, a 38-year-old home health care administrator, chose not to seek re-election and will be replaced July 1 by political newcomers Martha Pitsenbarger and David James.

Still, decisions supported by the departing board members will have far-reaching effects on the 15,000-student district.

Causing a storm of controversy early on, Raisanen and Welty joined two former colleagues in pressuring former Superintendent Dennis O'Neill to step down. They strongly believed the district needed fresh leadership.

Superintendent Larry Thomas was subsequently hired, though he eventually faced the same fate as O'Neill following a turnover of board members that put Raisanen and Welty in a minority position.

The pair cast some key votes on Thomas' recommendations, such as a middle school plan, a redrawing of attendance boundaries, and the closing of four elementaries to save money. The district, plagued by a budget deficit, had to become Raisanen and Welty managed to be viewed by many not only as education proponents, but also as texpayer advocates.

Addressing the board Tuesday, Jim Netter of Wayne voiced regret that the district is losing what he described as two of its best board members.

The pair received praise for treating residents with respect, rather than challenging them publicly as some board members have done in the past.

In tears, Welty read a lengthy farewell poem that she wrote, singling out Thomas and other administrators in very personal terms for their contributions to. the district. At one point, she had to stop reading briefly to regain her composure.

Raisanen had been a board watcher years before she was elected, and she said she will continue to attend meetings.

"I love this school district," she said. "I love knowing others who love this school district.'

Even though her colleagues often disagreed with her, Raisanen was commended Tuesday for asking the tough questions and for unequivocally being the most prepared board member. "You are the most thoroughly prepared board member, in my opinion, to come to this board, board member Richard LeBlanc

LeBlanc called Welty "my mentor" on the board and commended her for being one of the more rational board members.

Winter said Welty "brought a lot of intelligence" to the board. In other farewells Tuesday, residents and school officials bid farewell to Mariene Pedlow, a 32year district employee who is retiring as the superintendent's secretary. She remained on the job as superintendents came and went.

Supporters also gave a warm send-off to Gary Dell, a 28-year employee who is retiring as administrative assistant to the superintendent.

Another council watcher, Dorothy Smith, reiterated her criticism of the council increasing the property tax levy by 44 cents per $1,000 of state equalized valuation for the operation of a new library. But she admitted that that the levy is far less than the $1 per $1,000 recommended by the administration two months ago. Smith has repeatedly been critical of the council levying a library tax without a public vote.

State law allows communities to levy a library tax up to $1 per $1,000 without a referendum.

For the same reason, Cicirelli was the only council member to vote against the formal approval of the city tax levy of $14.21 per $1,000, of which $6.84 will be for the general fund. The balance is earmarked for rubbish collection and incineration, police-fire pen-sion payments, drain debt levy and the library tax. The administration and other council members have pointed out that the $443,500 now paid by the city to neighboring libraries for local residents' patronage will be dropped and redirected to supporting the new library.

Title winner: Westland's Karen Lee, a 1991 John Glenn High School graduate who attends Schoolcraft College, was crowned Miss Grand Prix 1995 during the international auto event held on Belle Isle last weekend. Lee, 22, and a Livonia Holiday Inn West marketing staffer, won several prizes, including $500 cash, a chance to compete in the Miss Michigan USA pageant, a modeling or acting scholarship and a photo session with a New York photographer. At Schoolcraft, Lee is majoring in interior decorating.

Travel agent reflects on changes

By Linda Ann Chomin Special Writer

Steve Kuhlman's office at The Travel Desk is filled with brochures featuring photographs ranging from moss-covered thatched cottages in Yorkshire to natives carving totems in Ketchikan, Alaska.

Kuhiman arranges adventures all over the world, but some of his most popular trips remain within the radius of a few hundred miles.

When Kuhlman first opened his travel business on Inkster Road north of Cherry Hill in February 1975 one of the most requested packages was a two-night trip from Windsor to Toronto.

Today travelers still find its $175 price tag very attractive so Kuhiman celebrated the agency's 20th anniversary by giving one of these trips away.

Kuhlman, 42, believes more than ever that travel is becoming or should be a part of everyone's vocabulary.

"Business is real good because the opportunity for people to travel is good. People unable to travel before because of cost can travel because there's a lot of packages now," said Kuhlman, a graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School and Western Michigan Universi-

Business wasn't always that good though. Many people were and continue to be under the impression that The Travel Desk charges a fee for its services.

Business is changing It doesn't. Airlines, hotels and rental car agencies pay a commission to The Travel Desk on the other end.

Another early hindrance Kuhlman faced back in the dark ages before the invention of computers was the fact that arranging an airline ticket could take the better part of a day.

"Over the years we've had to make adjustments of how we do business but we have a lot of people who come back on a regular basis," he said.

"One of the hardships when we opened was the time it took to book a ticket. Nothing was computerized. Things were slow back then. Now for people who need a Detroit to Cleveland ticket it takes a matter of minutes. Before it meant spending a lot of time waiting on the phone before being able to confirm a reservation."

The automobile industry continues to influence the number of trips booked. When money is tight no one is thinking about travel. The major consideration is how to fine tune the budget.

"As goes the auto industry so goes the travel business because a lot of it depends on how the rest of the economy is going."

Computers helpful

On-line computerized services an airline ticket from home or the office are beginning to provide additional concerns for travel. agents. Kuhlman and the rest of the industry are in the midst of solving this dilemma.

"We'll have to find a way through advertising to counter these services, but we're travel professionals. We offer personalized service knowledge and experience they won't get on-line."

Busy volunteer

Kuhiman has always been a strong community supporter. He and wife Carol have lived in the Garden City and Livonia area for 16 years.

They planned to raise their daughters Kristin, 11 and Laurie, 8, here so Kuhlman has always stayed involved.

He was the youngest-ever president to serve the Garden City Chamber of Commerce, and is on the American Society of Travel Agents committee which awards travel-related scholarships to individuals.

Busy volunteer

Over the years Kuhlman has donated charity weekend trips to benefit Garden City Hospital, and the Livonia Family Y "Invest in Youth" program.

But nothing ever touched him the way his volunteer work at the enabling a computer user to book Plymouth Opportunity House does. For the past 31/4 years Kuhlman has devoted several hours twice a week to residents of the group home. Whether it's an evening of bowling or simply playing pool at the home, Kuhiman relays a sense of caring to the 16 developmentally impaired adults ranging in age from 21 to 68.

"I wanted to do something for someone else. I did it with the intention of helping others and it's really reversed. After a bad day at the office I can go over to the . Plymouth house and suddenly my problems don't seem so big," said . Kuhlman

Volunteers needed

The Plymouth Opportunity House is always in need of volunteers like Steve Kuhlman according to administrator Elizabeth Gruits.

Since many of the residents are without family, volunteers like Kuhlman provide the little things that make life enjoyable, like a. trip to the library or Penn Theatre. "We would love to have more volunteers. Steve is a buddy. It's nice for them to go out once in awhile without staff tagging along. They like Steve because he's easy to talk to. He's not judgmental," Gruits said.

Barns honored at school ceremony

It's official: Former state legislator and city councilwoman Justine Barns was honored at a ceremony last week in which an elementary school was renamed the Jefferson-Barns School to recognize her support of public education. School Superintendent Larry Thomas (left) praised Barns for her work for schools. During the ceremony, the school's 400 students gathered on the front lawn and received commemorative badges. Barns served on the council from 1966 to 1982 when she was elected to the state House of Representatives. She retired in December. Barns, who will run for a city council seat this fall, began her community service work as Jefferson School PTA president in the 1950s.

New law to help elderly renters move

State Capitol capsules:

Low-income senior citizens could terminate rental agree. ments when subsidized housing becomes available under a bill Gov. John Engler is expected to sign.

State Rep. Jan Dolan, R.Farmington Hills, sponsored Hosue Bill 4287, which won overwhelmingly support in both the House and Senate.

The bill permits the breaking of rental agreement by a tenant 62 or older who becomes eligible for senior-citizen housing. Tenanta must have occupied the unit for more than 13 months and give 60 days written notice of termination.

Tenants unable to live independently also may break agreements with a notarized statement from a physician. Dolan said the Office of Services to the Aging agreed that getting out of leases in order to move into subsidized housing is among the top problems facing senior citizens.

New penalty

Some convicted drunk drivers could forfeit their vehicles under a Senate passed bill sponsored by Loren Bennett, R-Canton, A court could confiscate the vehicle owned by a person convicted a third time of driving while impaired or driving under the influence of liquor or a controlled substance.

"Anyone who has actually been convicted three times is a menace to himself and others," said Bennett. "We need to stop the individuals who are driving one-ton weapons through our neighborhoods and on our highways."

A court-confiscated vehicle will be sold for its actual value. Innocent joint owners will have their shares returned to them in dollars. The offender's share will be used for restitution for crime victims and law enforcement, said Bennett.

A super-marjority?

Future state increases would need a 60 percent majority rather than 50 percent-plus-one in both chambers of the Legislature under a plan proposed by Sen. Michael Bouchard, R. Birmingham. Both chambers would have to give it two-thirds votes to put it on the ballot, and voters would have to approve it in order to amend the Michigan Constitution. If approved, the constitutional change would apply to the personal income tax, sales tax, use tax and single business tax.

"It's easy for some to spend other people's money," said Bouchard, assistant majority floor leader in the Senate. "Increased taxes are a significant disincentive to economic growth and pros-

Lyme hearings

Two Oakland County legislators say they'll conduct public hearings this summer on alleged under-reporting of Lyme disease, a tick-borne bacterial infection that attacks the heart, joints and nervous system.

Reps. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, and John Jamian, R- Bloomfield Township, will announce the schedule later. They said only 33 cases were reported by the Department of Public Health. "We should look at the protocol for treatment and where we need to be headed in terms of Lyme disease public policy." said Jamian, who chairs the House Public Health Policy Committee.

The disease was first diagnosed in children in Lyme, Conn., in 1975. A support group form Jackson, Hillsdale and Branch counties says its members are being denied treatment and recognition by physicians.

Child deaths

The House of Representatives has passed two bills to help officials determine causes of death among children.

Rep. James Ryan, R-Redford, sponsored House Bill 4731 to add county medical examiners to the list of people who would have access to child protective service reports. Current law requires medical examiners to investigate all cases in which death was unexpected, caused by violence, the result of abortion, or where the victim was without medical attention 48 hours before death. But they can't legally use Children's Protective Services central registry files to help determine the origin of death.

Rep. Michelle McManus, R-Lake Leelanau, sponsored House Bill 4783 which gives local Child Fatality Review Teams access to the Children's Protective Services central registry. Fifteen pilot teams in 15 counties will be named next month.

"Those who perform autopsies must have access to every clue," said Ryan, "especially when there are signs that violence may have been the cause."

Added McManus: "Michigan is one of the last to establish an arsenal of in-depth, multi-disciplinary techniques to review child deaths.

Knowing signs can help stop abuse

It's estimated that more than 10 percent of all children treated in hospital emergency rooms for alleged accidents are actually victims of child abuse.

In fact, a federal study has concluded that each year in the United States 300,000 children are physically abused, 140,000 are sexually abused and 700,000 are neglected or otherwise mistreated.

Child abuse is described as any deliberate act that harms or threatens to harm a child's health or welfare. It can include physical abuse, physical neglect, sexual abuse and emotional abuse. The most frequently seen form of child abuse is physical in nature.

In order to help children suffering from abuse, people who have contact with youngsters need to be able to identify the abuse and report it. Teachers, day care workers, babysitters and neighbors often are in a position to see the signs of abuse and can help remove the child from the situation by taking action and notifying the authorities.

In the case of physical abuse the signs they should look for include bruises and welts that have patterned loop marks from a belt, whip or electrical extension cord, M Signs of children suffering from neglect may be consistently dirty, hungry or inappropriately dressed; without supervision for extended periods of time; constantly tired or listless; unattended physical problems or lack routine medical care; kept from attending school or are overworked at home; having been abandoned; rarely attending school; engaging in delinquent acts; and begging for or stealing food.

slaps marks that match the fingers, teeth marks of the limbs, abdomen and face, embedded fingernail marks or circular marks on wrists and ankles that result from being tied up.

The bruises can be in various stages of healing and usually disappear after two-four weeks.

Other signs of physical abuse include burns, fractures and lacerations and abrasions.

Burns can be cigar or cigarette burns, usually on the trunk of the body, external genitalia, palms of hands or soles of feet), hot liquid burns, pattern burns that show the shape of such things as curling irons, electric irons or cigarette lighters, and rope burns on the arms, legs, neck or torso.

Fractures are most commonly seen in the skull, jaw, nose, arms and legs. Red, swollen and tender joints are indicative of a fracture that has healed on its own. Multiple fractures or any fractures in children under age two may be signs of child abuse.

Lacerations and abrasions are usually found on the mouth, lips; gums, eyes or external genitalia.

Signs of children suffering from neglect may be consistently dirty, hungry or inappropriately dressed; without supervision for extended periods of time; constantly tired or listless; unattended physical problems or lack routine medical care; kept from attending school or are overworked at home; having been abandoned; rarely attending school; engaging in delinquent acts; and begging for or stealing food.

Children dealing with sexual abuse may have torn, stained or bloody underclothing; experience pain or itching in the genital area: have bruises or bleeding in external genitalia, vagina or anal regions; have a venereal disease or are pregnant; appear withdrawn or engage in fentasy or infantile behavior, or be unwilling to participate in physical activities.

Children who are emotionally abused may appear overly compliant, passive or undernanding; be extremely aggressive, demanding or full of rage; show adoptive behaviors, such as parenting other children, or may exhibit inappropriate infantile behaviors, such as rocking constantly or thumb sucking; lag in physical, emotional and intellectual development; or attempt suicide.

3 people injured in head-on crash

Three people were injured in a head-on collision on Cherry Hill at Merriman Monday evening. The accident occurred at about 7 p.m. when Mary Hoeffel, 57, of Westland drove eastbound through the left turn lane, crossed through the intersection and struck a stationary westbound car waiting to make a left turn. She was cited for improper lane usage. Garden City police said Hoeffel had been driving in the eastbound through lane but for some reason moved into the turn lane and had a green light when she drove through the intersection. No alcohol was involved, according to po-

Although Hoeffel's airbag deployed, she was injured in the accident and taken to St. Mary Hospital by Westland Fire Rescue.

The car hit by Hoeffel was driven by Lisa Fouts, 16, of Wayne, who was also injured and transported to St. Mary Hospital. Her passenger, 16-year-old Jaclyn for not having insurance.

Reed of Wayne, was transported to Garden City Hospital by Garden City rescue workers.

The impact of the collision pushed Fouts' car into a truck. which was also stopped waiting to make a lest turn. The third driver was not injured but was ticketed

ROLL CALL REPORT

House approves balanced budget plan

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending

HOUSE

Republican Budget: Voting 238 for and 193 against, the House approved a Republican plan to reach a balanced budget by 2002, by curbing the growth of federal spending by $1.4 trillion over the next seven years. More than $6 trillion in red ink would remain in 2002, but the national debt no longer would grow each year.

The measure (H Con Res 67) eliminates three cabinet departments (Energy, Commerce and Education), 284 federal programs, and 82 agencies and commissions, it reduces Medicare spending growth by $283 billion, Medicaid growth by $184 billion and welfare growth by $101 billion, and it cuts individual and corporate taxes by $360 billion while allowing defense spending to rise an average of $8 billion annually above its present $257 billion level. Domestic discretionary spending growth is curbed by $190 billion and International spending by one-third or $30

For fiscal 1996, which begins next October, the measure projects spending of $1.6 trillion, revenue of nearly $1.4 trillion and an annual deficit of $211 billion.

The legislation redefines the Consumer Price Index so as to produce smaller cost-of-living increases in Social Security, federal pensions and other benefit programs that receive automatic adjustments for inflation.

A yes vote was to approve the Republican budget. Area representatives voting yes were: Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham. Voting no: Dale Kildee, D-Flint, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor.

Coalition Budget: The House rejected, 100 for and 325 against, a balanced budget proposal by 23 of the most conservative House Democrats who call themselves "the coalition." It differed from the Republican budget (above) mainly by not cutting taxes and by spending more on Medicare, Medicald, student loans and a host of domestic programs. It differed also by going beyond a balanced budget in 2002 to produce a surplus.

A yes vote supported the budget authored by conservative Democrats. Area representatives voting no were: Dale Kildee, Joseph Knollenberg, Sander Levin and Lynn Rivers.

Black Caucus Budget: By a vote of 56 for and 367 against, the House rejected a plan by the Congressional Black Caucus to balance the budget. It differed from the Republican budget (above) mainly by curbing defense spending by $201 billion, raising taxes on businesses by $695 billion, spending hundreds of billions more on domestic social programs and providing a tax credit to individuals equal to 20 percent of one's FICA contribution.

A yes vote supported the Black Caucus budget, Area representatives voting no were: Klidee. Knollenberg, Levin and Rivers.

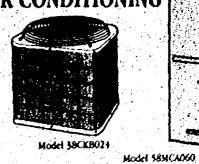

Conservative Budget: By a vote of 89 for and 342 against, the House rejected a budget authored by some of the House's most domestic fiscally conservative Republicans. It used deeper spending cuts to achieve a balanced budget two years sooner than the seven years envisioned by the mainstream GOP budget (above). It delivered the same tax cuts as the other Republican measure.

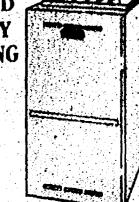

A yes vote supported the plan to balance the budget in five years. Area representatives voting no were: Kildee, Knollenberg, Levin and Rivers.

Patterson criticized for backing SMART

BY PAT MURPHY STAFF WHITER

By supporting the recent SMART millage proposal, Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson may have stuck his political neck out.

One hint was the musing of state Sen. Mat J. Dunaskiss. R-Lake Orion, who said he may challenge Patterson in next year's Republican primary for Oakland County executive.

"The SMART thing (Patterson's endorsement) really bothered me," Dunaskiss said Tuesday. "At a time the executive should have been leading in Oakland County to dismantle SMART, he was siding with Wayne County for a tax increase."

Voters elect new SC trustee, reject Greenleaf

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STARF WAITER

After 18 years on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, Livonia resident Harry Greenleaf lost his bid for re-election Monday to Plymouth realdent Brian Broderick.

Broderick, 28, came in second in the four-way race for three sixyear terms on the college board.

Trustee Mary Breen of Plymouth Township was the top votegetter with 6,365 votes in the unofficial tally. Broderick polled 5,679 votes. Board Chairman Steve Ragan of Plymouth got votes. Greenleaf received Greenleaf, 57, the longest-serving Schoolcraft board member, was first elected in 1977. His last board meeting will be June 28.

Although Greenleaf is "still puzzled" as to why he lost, he suspects it has something to do with being the only individual among the four competitors for three seats to not live in Plymouth or Canton.

Voter turnout in the Plymouth-Canton school district, where a millage was on the ballot, was far higher than in the Northville, Garden City, Livonia and Clarenceville districts, accounting for more than half the votes.

Greenleaf was the No. 2 votegetter in Livonia with 894 votes. No. 3 in Garden City with 667 votes, No. 3 in Clarenceville with 297 votes, No. 2 in Northville with 430 votes, but last in Plymouth-Canton with 2.832 votes. That was more than 500 votes behind his nearest competitor in Plymouth-Canton.

"It's very disturbing when you look at the low frequency of voting," he said.

Still, Greenleaf is grateful to voters for his long tenure on the board. "I appreciate the years of service I have been granted by the voters," he said.

Broderick, an attorney with Leikin & Ingber of Southfield. grew up in Livonia and attended Catholic Central High School, Notre Dame University and the University of Detroit. He is currently working on a master's degree in public administration at Wayne State University.

Broderick said it's sad to see Greenleaf defeated, but "I'll do my best to fill his shoes. I want to Ragan, 29, has been a member of the board since he was appointed to fill a vacancy in February 1991.

He was also sorry to see Greenleaf defeated. "He's been a mentor to me on the board, and although we've occasionally been competitors, I think I'm the better for it, and I'll miss him on the Area lawmaker's court merger bill gathers sponsors

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

If promises were votes, Rep. Deborah Whyman's bill to merge Detroit Recorder's Court with Wayne Circuit Court will be an easy victory.

In one day, June 8, she gathered signatures of 53 co-sponsors and promises of support from nine other state representatives who declined to be official cosponsors. It will take 56 votes to more." pass thebill.

"But Detroit residents can vote for all 64 'circuit-level' judges while out-county residents can vote for only 35 'circuit judges.' This is a violation of the principle of 'one person, one vote."

"There is a perceived controversy that this bill is racist. That's absolutely silly. There is no basis in fact to call it racist. When someone says 'racist,' people aren't running for cover any

Detroit Recorder's Court was established in 1957 and "currently has jurisdiction of all felony criminal cases arising within the City of Detroit," according to the Michigan Manual, which adds:

"During 1986, the Recorder's Court and 3rd Circuit Court began an 'administrative unification' whereby all felony cases are tried in Recorder's Court facilities. On a rotating basis, five "It's a matter of fairness. tion, elects 29 judges who try felony cases and provides half the votes to elect five other judges who sit in Recorder's Court at any one time.

Everywhere else in Michigan, felonies are tried before circuit judges who are elected on a countywide or multi-county basis. Only Detroit has a city-elected Recorder's Court.

Six Democrats from Wayne and Macomb counties, including Eileen DeHart of Westland, signed on as co-sponsors of Whyman's bill. Of those who declined to support it, she said, only one actually called it "bad policy."

Whyman's bill, still unnumbered, provides: Effective Jan. 1, 1996, Detroit Recorder's Court is abolished. Wayne Circuit Court would have jurisdiction over felony cases. No judge would lose a job. Every recorder's judge would become a circuit judge for the remainder of the term to which he or she was elected or appointed.

Recorder's judges who become circuit judges will have the right to run for reelection by filing an affidavit of incumbency, just like circuit judges, and would have a ballot designation as "judge of the circuit court."

Whyman knows she will meet resistance on one point: Detroit, with its large black majority, will want to elect its "own" judges. Almost certainly there will be efforts to elect circuit judges from subcounty districts.

them on that. It's like we do the Court of Appeals," Whyman said. (Court of Appeals judges serve the entire state but are elected from four districts with roughly equalpopulations.)

Whyman's bill, which Speaker Paul Hillegonds is likely to refer to the Judiciary Committee, is the latest spoon to stir the bubbling pot of court reform. Leaders of the State Bar are pushing a plan to merge circuit, recorder's, probate and district courts into a single "trial court."

Outstate politicos want state government to fund all trial" courts, the way it has funded. Wayne Circuit, Detroit Recorder's: and Detroit District courts since 1980. The battle was waged early in June during debate over the court budget bill.

A state Supreme Court task, "I'd be happy to work with force in May recommended full state funding of "core costs" of courts. The Supreme Court itselfis due to rule this year on a lawsuit demanding full state funding.

The Supreme Court task force. also recommends that a single trial court be one option and also proposes larger administrative units for courts — countywide or multi-county.

School voters show good sense ayne-Westland School District voters, faced with few reasonable options, used good judgment Monday in approving two millage rate proposals.

Despite individual opposition and some frustration about the promises made by Proposal A backers last year, local voters approved two money issues.

At the same time, the community elected Martha Pitsenbarger and David James to four-year terms, effective July 1. They were the top candidates in a three-person race in which Ed Turner was eliminated.

Looking ahead to the next four years, the Observer hopes that the new board members will be able to grasp the complicated policy issues facing the district in the areas of finance, curriculum and community relations.

This fall's school opening will be unusually difficult for new board members to handle. Major changes to be implemented in the fall involve the grade structure, the related creation of the district's first middle schools and substantial changes in school attendance boundaries.

At the same time, the new board will be working with a new superintendent, Duane Moore, who comes to the community from South Lyon

Another major issue that the new school board will face is whether to allow a charter school permission to use an elementary school scheduled for closing this week:

On the money issues, Proposal I was particularly important. The 3-mill levy would raise $3 million of revenues and eliminate the pay-to-play fees, restore secondary school busing, help the two senior high schools retain important accreditation, and reduce the projected budget deficit.

Proposal 2 is the nonhomestead tax to be levied on businesses, industries and rental apartment developments and raise $10 million in revenues.

With election returns now history, the Observer wants to offer its public thanks, on behalf of the community, for the contributions made by school board members Vicki Welty and Laurel Raisanen, who will close out their four-year terms June 30.

The two chose earlier this year not to seek a

Over the past four years, Welty and Raisanen have lent sensibility and common sense in the wacky business of a school board trying to set policy in an era of uncertain state financing and constant changes in messages and state aid from Lansing.

They served the students and taxpayers well.

The Observer, as well as others who welcome good government, thank them for their time and efforts.

Story in error

Young and a Livonia resident, I must take issue with your coverage of the O'Hair vs. Department of Corrections and Gregory Young case (June 5 issue). Despite the fact that the defense team has been available to all reporters, has given interviews to several other representatives of the media, and has published our own article defending our interpretation, you have failed to even contact us. I believe therefore only one side of the story has been told.

Your story is in error or incomplete in several respects. Your article indicates that Michigan consecutive sentencing law was never widely enforced until Wayne County chief assistant prosecutor George Ward brought his suit.

The fact is that the law has always been enforced, not ignored. There is just a dispute between the litigants as to what the law means. While it is true that Judge Susan Bicke-Neilson has agreed with Ward's position, Wayne County Recorders Court Judge Terence Boyle has agreed with our position in People vs. Lemel Hentz Johnson, as has Recorders Court Judge Michael Sapala. A Senate fiscal analysis is also critical of Ward's position because of the vast, vast sums of money that it would cost to implement Ward's position. With the Department of Corrections' budget already vastly exceeding the budget for Michigan State University, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan combined, don't you think that finances should be considered?

When this bill was passed, the Senate and House fiscal agencies indicated that the cost of this bill would be "minimal," yet according to the most recent fiscal analysis, the cost of implementing the Ward interpretation would be $157 million. Even by Lansing standards, this would not be a minor cost overrun!

Presumably, if the Legislature had intended these results, it would have funded it. As this nation considers rationing health care, I think it is important that there must also be a reasonable line drawn in terms of mandatory sentences. California's three-strikes law has resulted in horrendous problems in the criminal justice system which verge on a complete breakdown.

While talk about getting tough on crime is good, decisions to create such laws should come from the Legislature, not from prosecutors seeking judicial activism, or courts creating unfunded mandates.

While you point out that "several state legislators have also sided with Ward," you fail to point out that several representatives have sided with us, including Reps. Michael Nye, Michael Bennane, Raymond Murphy, Joseph Palamara, Ilona Varga, Frank Fitzgerald and Thomas Law. Thus, the issue is not as clear as your article makes it out to be.

Gregory Young is a petty thief and should be punished, but Ward's accomplishment is to increase the sentence from three years to 20 years for stealing a $50 television set.

While no crime should be condoned, a rational criminal justice system should punish non-violent crime less severely than violent crime. If we make the non-violent thest of an inexpensive item carry the same penalty as a violent offense, then we remove the incentive to not commit violent crimes. While a criminal justice system should deter all crime, it should also attempt to discourage crime which carries a risk of harm to human life more severely than it does simple property offenses.

If shoplifting and armed robbery carry the same effective sentence, what incentive is there not to commit armed robberies? If an auto thief recognizes that he or she will receive a de facto life sentence for stealing a car, why not risk a high speed chase? It is easy to talk about getting tough on crime. It is quite a different story to make the tough calls. It is for this reason that we leave decisions to the Michigan Legislature rather than judicial activists.

The judicial interpretation which Ward has thus far overturned traces its way back to 1949, and has been commented on approvingly by both the Michigan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court. The interpretation was not the product of a Department of Corrections bent on releasing another Leslie Williams to the community.

When the Supreme Court agrees to hear a case, there are almost always two sides to the dispute. When reporting on such a case, it would be nice to hear both sides.

A good dad is worth the fuss ather's Day is coming and that should gladden the hearts of those who make their living in greeting cards, men's wear or fancy restaurants.

On Father's Day — Sunday, June 18, this year — many of us lucky enough to have a father will celebrate by providing him with a card, some article of male clothing or perhaps a dinner out.

Yes, Father's Day is another of those special events — rendered not so special by their very numbers — which dot the calendars and where the spending of time and money is required.

But fathers are so very important, we think, when it comes to effective parenting. Research over the years has shown that a father is a key part of a loving and strong family.

They're certainly worth celebrating, these fathers, especially as they've been overlooked and underestimated in this well, this double-decade of the woman and mother.

A good father traditionally provides for his family and acts as a disciplinarian, but truly dedicated dads do a lot more. Today, many men actively share parenthood with their wives. They consider child-rearing every bit as important as their careers.

Successful fathers must be a lot of things -

■ Successful fathers must be a lot of things — including around.

including around. That can be difficult today when fully half this nation's youngsters do not live in traditional nuclear families. A divorced dad must somehow always finds a way to become involved in his child's life.

Good dads are also always willing to log quality time with the kids. So many studies have shown that involvement by a father can be a critical factor in a child's development.

A father cheers the success of his sons and/or daughters. Kids need to know that dad thinks of them as future achievers. The absence of such support can affect a child's life, studies have shown.

There's more, so much more. A good father must somehow be tuned into his kids' concerns. He must be understanding in a conflict. On and on it goes.

When you begin to look at all that is involved in being a good father, you'll see that it's the most difficult — and important — job he'll do in his life. And you'll be happy to spend the time and money for the card, the neckwear and the Sunday dinner out.

A good dad is worth that — and a lot more.

POINTS OF VIEW

TNT's 'Tecumseh' heavy propaganda film

elevision can depict personalities. TV does a terrible job, however, with ideas and numbers. Case in point: Tecumseh: the Last . Warrior, the recent two-hour movie on TNT, the cable network. It's about a Shawnee chief (1768-1813), and much of it is wrong. Take the "last warrior" title. America's last battle with the red man didn't occur until 99 years after

Tecumseh's death, Michigan and Detroit are never mentioned in the TNT movie, though two events on screen had a major impact on our history. Last August was the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Fallen Timbers southwest of Toledo, in which an American army under Gen. "Mad Anthony" Wayne vanquished the Indians. This Aug. 3 is the 200th anniversary of the Treaty of Greenville, a town in west central Ohio that isn't even on a freeway. Results of Fallen Timbers

"During the summer and fall of 1796, Detroit and Fort Mackinac finally were handed over to the Americans, and the stars and stripes at last flew over Michigan," wrote Willis F. Dunbar in Michigan: a History of the Wolverine State.

The biggest error in Tecumseh comes from the alleged narrator, his mother, Turtle Mother. (Would TNT make a movie about George Bush or Newt Gingrich with their mothers as narrators? Not on your life.) "We lived on the land of our ancestors," says Tecumseh's mom. A screen title later says: "Old Shawnee Homelands - Ohio - 1804."

It's Indian propaganda. The Shawness started in Canada, moved to Michigan's lower peninsula, then settled in Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky. A portion tried life in Georgia but were kicked back to Pennsylvania in 1707 by the Cherokees and Catawbas. Those in Kentucky were booted out by the Cherokees and Chickasaws. (Encyclopedia Americana, "Shawnee Indians."

In sum, when Indians kicked each other off land, no movie. When Indians wiped out each other (Hurons, Erie), no movie. When Anglos evict red men,

When white men shoved back red men, we paid money, however trivial a sum, and set aside a reservation, for however short a time. That's in the movie. When red men shoved back other red men, no money, no reservation - and no movie.

However badly whites treated red men, red men treated each other worse. Besides that major crime against history, Tecumseh contains other stretchers: ■ Fallen Timbers is shown as a hardfought battle with many Americans going down. Actually, the Indians had 2,000 and Wayne 3,000, but Wayne deployed only 1,000, and it was over in 40 minutes. American toll: 33.

■ Wayne had evidence the Indians were aided by British militia. The movie plays it down, showing the British as breaking a promise to give the Indians shelter if they lost.

■ Wayne appears on screen for a few seconds in a non-speaking role. That's shoddy treatment for a winner and an American patriot who was more brazen than "Mad." There was, after all, a reason why Michigan's early settlers named a county for him, and why Marion Morrison, an actor who played hero roles, borrowed Wayne's name for the TNT and a lot of other television properties are owned by Ted Turner, who in private life is Mr. Jane Ponda. Remember "Hanoi Jane"? Do you detect a political connection?

Why would anyone want to make an Indian propaganda movie? Well, we're talking big money and big political issues - casinos, fishing rights, casinos, university tuition rights, casinos, and so on.

If one were going to make a movie about a real Indian strategist and tactician, the choice wouldn't be Tecumseh but Pontiac, the Ottawa chief who in 1763 coordinated 13 attacks on British forts spread over 1,000 miles and succeeded in nine of them. ild birds, including mourning doves, dine at my bird feeder all year around. At the present time, I am delighted both morning and night to the sight and sounds of five or six of the taupe-colored doves singing their hauntingly beautiful song while they snack on sunflower seeds.

It makes me sick to the depths of my soul that hunters want to shoot and kill these tiny, defenseless, gentle creatures. For what and why? For target practice?

It further sickens me that Senator Loren Bennett of Canton Township voted in favor of the killing and carnage of these exquisite migratory birds. Perhaps I should not be surprised at the way Mr. Bennett voted on the dove issue. After all, the destruction of the mile stretch of irreplaceable trees and wildlife on Morton Taylor between Warren Avenue and Ford Road in Canton is a clear indication of Canton Township governmental mentality.

Gratitude to hospice

m am writing in response to the article dated Thursday, March 30, 1995 entitled "Angela Hospice cares for kids." My daughter Kathryn was the first "official" pediatric patient to receive care from Angela Hospice's "My Nest is Best" program run by Kaye Kowalske.

Kathryn was diagnosed at 7 weeks with a genetic disease called Werdnig-Hoffman syndrome. At that time we were told she would live to be 6 months to 12 months old. On Saturday, March 18, 1995 at 51/2 months of age, Kathryn died at home. It wouldn't have been possible to keep Kathryn at home if it wasn't for Angela Hospice and Kaye.

Unfortunately, not enough people are aware that hospice programs are for babies and children, too. Not only did Kathryn get help from the hospice but so did our whole family.

My deepest gratitude to all the Angela Hospice Staff including: Kaye, our nurse and friend: Carla, our volunteer; and Terri, our social worker. Because of all of their efforts we were able to keep Kathryn comfortable, happy and in the "Very Best Nest" during the most difficult time of our lives.

Bilingual question: Are kids learning English?

s long as we're debating incendiary subjects like prayer and patriotism in the schools, we might as well add language. Here's the question at its crudest: How come the state of Michigan (i.e., the taxpayers) spends more than $4 million per year to teach kids in languages other than English?

One answer: We shouldn't. Sooner or later, kids who don't speak English will simply have to learn, and teaching them in their native tongues is nothing more than an expensive fraud.

Worse, it promotes the fragmentation of the United States of America into a bunch of selfsegregated ethnic and linguistic communities. As nations ranging from Canada to Rwanda have demonstrated, at some point there has to be a common language and culture to hold a country together.

Another answer: We should. These kids who don't speak English are facts on the ground. Elther we're going to help them along a little in entering the mainstream, or we're going to wind up with exactly the kind of fragmented society that the other side is trying to avoid.

The facts, as usual, don't easily fit either side of the rhetoric. The state spent $4.2 million in the 1994-95 school year for bilingual instruction. A total of 99 school districts received $179 per pupil to teach 23,461 students who can't handle English in their native tongues. The two largest bilingual groups are 11,000 kids who are taught in Spanish and another 3,800 in Arabic.

You'd be surprised how many districts participate in the program, including the Wayne-Westland district, which contracts for the program through the county.

In order to qualify for bilingual teaching, students are identified through a home study and tested in English. If they score below the 40th. percentile, they're eligible. But they're re-tested every year and qualify for program support only up to three years.

In addition, each district which has a population of 20 or more eligible students in a particular language is required to hire an instructor or paraprofessional fluent in that language.

PHILIP POWER

This can be expensive. And it can cause trouble.

Last year, for example, an Albanian parent complained that the Farmington school district wasn't hiring certified teachers fluent in Albanian rather than the less-expensive paraprofessionals. For a district that provides bilingual programs in 17 languages for more than 600 eligible students, that complaint seemed a bit extreme.

And there's a legitimate question about whether three years of bilingual instruction are really enough to give a kid a firm basis in English. Three districts - Southfield, West Bloomfield and Walled Lake - have combined to write a grant application to the U.S. Department of Education for extra-long funding.

Moreover, bilingual programs are quite different from "dual-language" activities, in which teaching is done partly in English and partly in klds' native languages. Despite passionate advocates, most of the research done on this system suggests it simply doesn't work. Kids who receive instruction in their native languages never really face the fact that English is necessary for success in America.

My own view in this debate: If the purpose of bilingual education programs is to give kids a short-run jump start into learning English, that's fine. But the fact is that English is America's tongue, and any program that doesn't recognize the fact is out of line.

People spending more time in cars, survey says

BY TIM RICHARD STADY WRITER

Local people are driving longer to work, buying more cars per household, and making more trips every day, a regional aurvey shows.

Commuters in 1953 drove one trip per day; today, 1.3 trips as two-income households increase.

"In 1953, drivers drove for 16 minutes to their jobs . . . In 1994, the average driver commute trip took 27 minutes," said Paul Tait, a staff member of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The old morning and quittin' time rush hours? Gone. As more housewives, teens and senior citizens drive, the lunch hour "spike" in travel has become an elongated rush that lasts all afternoon, Tait told the SEMCOG General Assembly's annual meeting.

Data came from a survey of 7,000 households with 18,000 members. Bach person (precomplete a thorough travel diary for one day. It was SEMCOG's first comprehensive travel survey since 1968, Tait said.

Key findings: Females, particularly homemakers, make slightly more trips than males.

People age 75 and older make as many daily trips (4.2) as the 16-24 age group.

People ages 64-74 make as schoolers excluded) was asked to many daily trips (4.5) as the 25-34 age group.

Bach household averages 4.4 trips per person daily. Each household averages 9.4 trips. Total travel each weekday: 114 million miles.

In 1953, the average household. was 3.5 persons and had less than one vehicle. By 1994 household size had shrunk to 2.6, a decline of 35 percent. But vehicle ownership per household had grown to 1.7 - a 75 percent increase per household.

"I would have loved to have seen the diary on each of my four teen-age daughters had we been selected for the survey," said

Travel in 1994 is perhaps understated in the survey figures. "More people make a stop during the commute trip to drop off children at day care, for example. In that case, both trips become part of the 'other' category," Tait said.

Tait added that SEMCOG is working on two smaller surveys one on transit ridership, the other on trips into and out of the sevencounty region.

"When data from all three surveys are ready, to will have the most compositioning seasons portation planting legions, and one of the most bullparchements in the nation, he mid.

Schoolseeking pupils

New Morning School, a private school in Plymouth Township, has announced openings for students in second, third and fifth through eighth grade.

New Morning is a state-certified and licensed nonprofit school and the only pre-kindergarten through eighth grade cooperative school in Michigan.

Parents help in the classroom, clean the building, lend their personal skills to special projects and assist in fund-raising.

Tuition is based on the level of involvement each parent takes on in the school.

Sweet Adelines set to perform in Farmington

If you're a fan of outdoor concerts, you may want to put Thursday evening on your calendar.

The award-winning Spirit of Detroit Sweet Adeline chorus will present, for free, an evening of favorite melodies sung in four-part harmony at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 15, at Heritage Park, Parmington Road just north of 10 Mile Road.

The chorus was invited to make a return appearance in this year's Parmington Hills Summer Music

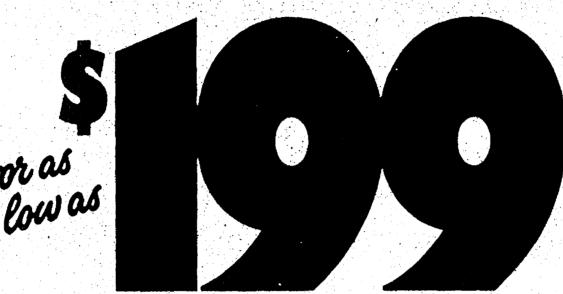

Spirit of Detroit will perform a cappella in a bandshell on a hillside at Heritage Park.

Comprised of 90 women from communities throughout metropolitan Detroit, Spirit of Detroit recently returned from London. Ontario, where it captured a regional championship, outperforming all 21 challengers.

Spirit of Detroit welcomes guests and prospective chorus members to its weekly rehearsals at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays at the VFW Hall on Schoolcraft at Inkster in Redford Township.

COMMUNITY LIFE

KAREN MEIER

What is right with America 12

oday's a holiday! At least on my calendar. It says right here on the 15th, "last day of school - summer vacation begins."

This calendar, the one that's nine months long and ends in June, is really the only calendar we pay attention to around here. The time between June and September? We don't mark, it; we don't keep track of it. Time goes right on out the window for three months every year in my house. This nine-month calendar is as normal as bare feet, fireflies, ice cream trucks and blue skies.

But there are many people whose calendars aren't like that at all. Their calendar and their pace is relentless - day after day, month after month, year after year, no summers off, no three-month breaks. And there's a group out there who actually trumpet and celebrate the unrelenting nature of their work and life. Those are the folks who bring us our mail.

"Neither snow, nor rain," the saying goes, "nor heat, nor gloom of night, stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." Nothing stops them. Not even a holiday like today.

Judy Smith can confirm that. She's a mail carrier working out of the Livonia Post Office. And today, in this last installment in the "What's right with America" series, Judy Smith, relentless and dedicated in what she does, is my honored guest.

Judy, a life-long resident of Redford, has de-

Program ensures baby is 'on board' safely, correctly

The statistics are alarming. Most of the people putting their children in car seats are securing them incorrectly. However, one hospital that is renting car seats is making sure parents know how to use them.

By BETH SUNDRIA JACHMAN

Take good care of your babies. That's the advice given by Botsford General Hospital through its car seat rental program.

The Farmington Hills hospital rents seats to all who want them. And the rentals come with 30minute lessons on how to use them.

Infants need car seats from the time they leave the hospital. If a mother-to-be arrives at the hospital in labor without a car seat, it's almost a crisis situation, according to Debbie Wozniak, community relations assistant at Botsford.

Because seats can be expensive and because infant seats often are outgrown in a few months, many parents buy them used, or buy a seat that converts from use for infants to toddlers.

If a new mom receives a toddler seat as a shower gift, she can rent an infant seat at Botsford.

"We do have indigent clients, but we also have grandparents who don't want to purchase a seat," Wozniak said.

The program is popular, with between 400 and 500 seats rented a year. The program is open to the entire community and currently has clients from all over including Farmington Hills, Redford, West Bloomfield and Detroit.

"We try to make it as easy as we possibly can," Wozniak said. "When they leave here they know how to use the seat."

The costs are: $5 per year for a

Red Cross urges parents to learn 'Help Can't Wait'

In an effort to save lives this summer, the American Red Cross is unring people to take precautions in and around the water and learn what to do in case of water emergencies.

The effort is sparked by the National Safety Council's 1994 Accident Facts report which shows drowning as the second leading cause of death for youth ages 1 to 24 and the seventh leading cause for adults over age 24, "Many of these deaths could be prevented, if people used caution in and around the water and knew proper rescue techniques for drowning victims," said Jerry Huey, aquatic examiner for the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The American Red Cross's "12 Water Safety Tips" highlight the need to know your swimming limits, how to avoid a back and neck injury when diving into the water. and signs to look for indicating an emergency.

"Help Can't Wait" is the new Red Cross slogan, which embodies all that the Red Cross does from helping millions of Americans prevent tragedies through its various training courses to providing immediate relief to those in serious need every day of the year in communities across the nation.

The American Red Cross has provided health and safety services to people across the nation for more than 80 years as part of the organization's mission of emergency prevention and preparedness.

The Red Cross gets help from the American Heart Association's Emergency Cardiac Care Committee, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the National Academy of Science Institute of Medicine and other widely noted experts in defining rescue techniques.

Water safety tips make summer fun

Learning to take precautions and to help those in emergency situations can make awimming safer this summer. Here's some water safety tips from the American Red Cross:

Never swim alone. Try to swim in supervised areas only.

■ Know your swimming limits and stay within them. Don't try to keep up with a stronger, more skilled swimmer or encourage others to keep up with you. Keep an eye on weaker swimmers. If they appear tired, encourage them to rest on land. Never drink atcohol and always indicate the area is unsafe for head first entries. A general rule is to enter feet first into water rather than head first, if you don't know the depth. In addition, learn the correct way to dive from a qualified instruc-

Watch out for the "dangerous" too's" - too tired, too cold, too far from safety, too much sun, too much strenuous activity. Stay out of the water when overheated.

Do not chew gum, or eat while you swim, you could easily choke.

■ Use common sense about swimming after eating. In general, you do not have to wait an hour after eating before you may safely swim. However, if you have had a large meal, it is wise to let digestion get started before doing strenuous activity, such as swimming.

■ Use Coast Guard approved life jackets when boating and fishing.

Know local weather conditions and prepare for electrical storms. Because water conducts electricity, it is wise to stop swimming or boating as soon as you see or hear a storm.

If you come upon someone in an emergency, remember CHECK CALL CARE. CHECK the scene to ensure it's safe and CHECK the victim. CALL 911 or your local emergency number, and CARE for the person until help arrives.

■ In the event of a drowning, remove the person from the water, and check consciousness and breathing. If not breathing, open the airway and attempt rescue. breathing. If air does not go in, give abdominal thrusts (Heimlich maneuver) for children and adults to clear the airway. Once the airway is clear, provide rescue breathing or CPR as needed.

livered letters for more than two those years have been on the decades, 22 years to be exact. And her life, her work and she, herself, are shining examples of what is right in this country. And here, the day after Flag Day and couple of weeks before the Fourth of July, celebrating what's right in this country couldn't be more timely.

Judy was born and raised in Redford. She attended Redford Union High School as did her only child, Jeffrey Anderson. H all grown up now and doesn't live in Redford anymore. But Judy does. She's lived in her same house on the same quiet street for nearly 20 years. And she's delivered letters and packages for more than 20 years in Livonia, 17 of same route, in and around the Livonia Mall.

She knows her people and they know her. She's shared the joy of births with them and the sadness of deaths over the years. She's visited the people on her route in the hospital when they took sick and visited them in nursing homes when they went there. She's brought them stamps and good news. I bet she's even told some about her only grandchild, a beautiful little girl, Stephanie, who visits Judy at least once a

Judy usually works 9 or 10 hours each day Monday through Saturday. She works in the oppressive heat of summer and the biting cold of winter. She hops in and out of her mail truck more than 30 times a day. And along the way, from time to time, she is asked for directions. Which is fine because streets and intersections and north and south are the tools of her trade.

Also, along the way, she's encountered some four-legged meanies, and once in a great while, a two-legged one. But in all her 22 years of delivering mail. nothing too serious has ever come of these encounters.

She wears her uniform proudly. She still remembers how the uniform, crisp and blue, impressed her all those years ago when she saw the mail lady dropping mail off at the K mart she found herself working in after graduation. The uniform, Judy decided, was a neat thing and being outdoors, walking, with nobody looking over her shoulder every minute, was neat, too. And that was way back when. And now, years later, Judy writes, "My job is very important to me." And she underlined "very."

Judy is dedicated to her work all right, but not to the exclusion of her family. Even after working long hours, she makes time for her family which includes Bob, two dogs and eight cats. She always makes time for them - neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night can stop her from that either.

A Note of Thanks: To the "Family Room" contest quiz winners who now have all been awarded their place in this

"What's Right with America" series, I extend an enormous, great big thank you. And that's not just from me, I'll have you know, but from lots of readers, too.

You, your lives and your stories have touched and inspired many people around here, young and old and in between. You've convinced us that America is, indeed, brimming with good people doing the right things.

baby up to 20 pounds, plus a refundable deposit of $15; and $10 per year for toddlers 20-40 pounds, plus a refundable déposit of $20. The training session is by appointment only.

Toddler seats are often re-rented annually, but the renter must repeat the training program for an update.

It's amazing how many people forget things after a year, Wozniak said. For people without the training the statistics are grim. There are still people who think it's safe to hold a baby in their laps in the car. But of those who use car seats, some 85 percent use them inappropriately, Wozniak said. The training involves watching a 12-minute video on general car seat safety. Then clients are shown how to use a seat. "Then they have to show us they can use the seat," Wozniak said. Clients are also given a copy of the state law on car seats. Julie Wagner of Redford recently went through the program with her infant daughter, Hannah Beth. "There was a lot I didn't know about safety precautions," Wagner said.

She practiced putting Hannah in a car seat under the watchful eye of Margie Maria, car seat assistant at Botsford.

Some things parents might not know are that it's dangerous to put infants in the front seat because front seat air bags can smother the baby when inflated in a crash.

Also, infant seats should always be facing backwards, Infants' spinal cords are not strong enough to endure a collision when facing forward.

Botsford doesn't recommend infant/toddler convertible seats, because they're just too roomy to secure an infant in. Infant seats are recommended to start off.

Sometimes parents are panic stricken when they go to use the convertible seats. They don't realize how small a one-day-old baby is. Wozniak said.

Botsford's seats meet federal requirements and have been picked because they're easy to use. Sometimes, the fancy ones can be too complicated, Wozniak

All seats go through a cleaning and safety check when returned. Also not recommended is buying a car seat at a garage sale. Parts are probably missing and the safety instructions are long stone. Wozniak said.

People from all walks of life rent the seats, including physicians and lawyers,

"The biggest concern for us la the well-being of children," Wozniak said of the program, which is not a money maker for the hospital. It's just educational.

"Everybody leaves here saying # didn't know that."

Qetting a handle on safety

· Always use a child salety seal whenever the baby is riding in a car. More children are hurt or. killed each year in automobile crashes than from any disease or other type of accident. It is a child's number one health threat.

Child safety seats can reduce: the chance of death by 90 percent and reduce the chance of injury by almost 80 percent.

The most dangerous place for a baby to ride is in a parent's lap, even if the parent is wearing a safety belt. Don't think you can hold on to the baby. The impact of the crash will send the baby flying into the windshield. When the parent Isn't wearing a safety belt, he/she can be thrown forward and crush the baby against the instrument panel.

Never buckle yourself and a child into a single safety belt.

 The best time to begin using a safety seat is on the way home from the hospital with the new baby...and every time after that, no matter how short of long the trip.

The salest place to put any mi child in a passenger vehicle is: in the middle of the back seat, properly buckled.

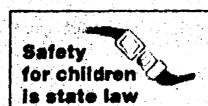

You need to set a good examiple by wearing your own salety belt properly, Insist on everyone buckling up. Unrestrained passengers can injure those who are restrained.

 Make sure the buckle on the safety seat is locked Listen for the click, if your aren't sure you heard it, test the latch by pulling hard on the strap or

Jackie Dearbaugh, Cindy Paterson and Karen Zorney definitely have something to be proud of. They join an elite group of 1,530 registered nurses across the United States who have achieved the designation of certified registered nurse, hospice (CRNH).

To receive the CRNH certificate, the three nurses, who are with Community Hospice Services, had to pass an extensive four hour written examination, given March 18.

"The title of CRNH is the national recognition for professional excellence through knowledge and application of all aspects of hospice care," said Paterson, patient care coordinator for Community Hospice Services. "It is an honor for us personally and professionally to be seen as leaders in hospice care."

For primary care nurse Dearbaugh, taking the examination was a self-imposed goal.

opportunity to demand of myself a focused period of concentrated review and study of the current materials pertaining to hospice nursing," she said. "Besides, I knew that if I took this exam with my co-workers we would hold each other accountable, and it worked.'

"I took the certification test because I love hospice nursing and the philosophy of hospice," said Zorney, assistant patient care coordinator for Community Hospice Services. "I want hospice to be recognized as the highly skilled branch of the medical field that it

"The examination gave me an life and dignity of the individual become the primary concern when physical healing is no longer achievable.

Hospice care neither hastens nor postpones death. A highly specialized interdisplinary team delivers the care, and patients and their families become an integral part of that team. Hospice focuses on enabling the patient to live each day in the peace and comfort they deserve.

Working in hospice is a labor of love for these nurses.

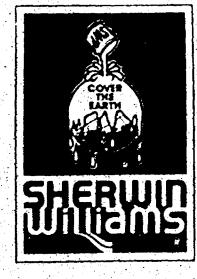

"The greatest fulfillment I've experienced in hospice nursing is being able to come alongside a family who desires to care for their loved one and instruct, encourage, and support them in The hospice concept of care doing so," said Dearbaugh. laces an emphasis on palliative "When a patient is able to have

"Hospice nursing is for me the epitome of nursing," added Zorney. "As I meet each new patient and family, I am deeply moved to be invited into their home, a stranger allowed to participate in the intimacy of this special journey. I see hospice nursing as life changing and life giving.

"There is a heroic devotion by loved ones in walking the journey with the patient. There is valor, forgiveness, humor, gratitude, sorrow, tears, and laughter; sometimes all within a five-minute time span. I find it impossible to tan Detroit are invited to partici-Families" at the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene.

"Celebrating Families" will take place 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, June 26-29, at the church, 21260 Haggerty Road, north of Eight Mile, in Farmington Hills.

The theme was chosen because the church's annual summer gathering for kids has been given a new emphasis for 1995 - parents and children interacting in a fun, educational and meaningful Pamilies throughout metropoli- children and their parents come ma, objection lessons and persontogether," said Judy Street, chilpate in four days of "Celebrating dren's minister at First Church. "Just like Disney World, parents will be in charge of their own children and will spend the entire time with their children.

"The philosophy behind 'Celebrating Families' is that too many times we have children and parents doing things separately. So this year we want to give families the chance to be together and to offer a great time for mom and dad to interact not only with their own kids but with other moms and dads in the community."

The first hour will feature the "'Celebrating Families' is a Boone Family from Cobourg, Disney World-type event where Ont., Canada, with puppets, dra-al stories. Donna Boone and husband Lautie use daughters Kimberley, 14, Laura Lee, 10, and niece Vickle, 16, as puppeteers.

The second hour will have parents and children engaged in outdoor activities, crafts, games and refreshments.

A free nursery is provided for children through age 2, and 3year-olds will have their own class after the Boones finish entertaining with their puppets. Children age 4-12 will join their parents for the outdoor activities.

Visitors are welcome, even kids without parents or whose parents cannot come. Parentless kids will simply be "adopted" for the evening by the adult they came with or another available parent.

There is no fee for "Celebrating . Families," the church's summer vacation Bible time activity. The church has not had an official vacation Bible school for several

Select few

According to Madalon Amenta, executive director of the Hospice Nurses Association, a national organization based in Pittsburgh, Pa., there are approximately 11,400 full-time registered nurses across the U.S. who work in hospice. More than 13 percent have achieved the CRNH designation.

"The CRNH designation is the only specialty credential for any group on the hospice team," Amenta said. "The National Board for Certification of Hospice Nurses established this examination to encourage the continued personal and professional growth for hospice nurses."

The certification provides a national standard of requisite knowledge required for certification, thereby assisting the employer, public, and members of the health professions in the asseasment of the hospice nurse. To be eligible to take the CRNH examination, nurses must be currently licensed as a registered nurse in the U.S. (or the equivalent in other countries), and must have at least two years of fulltime or the equivalent of 4,000 hours experience as a registered nurse in hospice nursing over at least two years. The exam covers such topics as end-stage disease processes, palliative therapeutics, interdisciplinary collaborative practices, education and advocacy and professional issues.

Dearbaugh has been a registered nurse since 1971, when she graduated from Christ Hospital School of Nursing in Cincinnati, Ohio. She has worked in the medical/surgical, obstetric, labor and delivery, and intensive care areas of nursing.

Paterson graduated from Madonna University's Nursing School with a bachelor of science in nursing in 1988. She worked in pricology, cardiac care step-down and home care before coming to CHS as patient care coordinator

Zorney just recently attended her 85 year Henry Ford Hospital nursing class reunion. She's been involved in nursing all but 12 of those years. She has also worked in medical/aurgical, emergency room, pediatrics, geriatrics and outpatient urology.

Community Hospice Services has two offices - at 32932 Warren Road, Suite 100, Westland, and 127 8. Main St., Plymouth. For more information, call (313) 522-4244 (in Westland) or (818) 466-0548 (in Plymouth).

I am sorry you found it necessary to write three times before having your handwriting analyzed. I want to thank you for your patience and persistence. I hope you find this analysis interesting.

Here is a woman who is consistent and lives within the rules of society. She is not one to draw attention to herself. In a structured situation, she is most comfortable.

She is a practical woman who does not jump to conclusions. She leans toward caution and looks before she leaps.

Her mind is well-organized, as is her daily routine. She makes her plans and then follows through on them. Her determination cannot be missed. Details are important to her and she handles them carefully.

Her memory is good. She retains what she learns and applies it effectively in similar areas and relationships.

Our writer has a strong need for approval from others. She holds authority figures in respect. "Should" often dominates her thinking, and she may feel guilty. if she does not do what she feels should be done. She is thorough in handling her work. Often, she is prepared to work hard without shortcuts to achieve her goals. Augmenting this is her thoroughness and conscientiousness.

There appears to be something from the past she is attempting to conceal. This could be causing her some anxiety.

Loval would describe her. She is faithful to her beliefs and is not interested in changing them. To her friends, she is also loyal as well as being open-minded and tolerant. At times, she is probably a tad gullible.

Our writer is considerate, responsive, gentle and sympathetic as she interacts with others. She also has a need for some time by herself.

Her legible handwriting tells us she wants to communicate. Her signature also is clear and legible, suggesting she has the ability to communicate her ideas and thoughts to others easily. The flourish underscore bespeaks one who wants to be distinctive.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are helpful. Objective feedback is welcome.

Salvation Army has day camp

Arts, crafts, music, games and sports are among the activities the Salvation Army in Plymouth is offering during its summer day camp program beginning its first session Monday, June 19.

The curriculum also includes one swim day and one field trip per week.

'They're on site three days a week and then those three days they do arts and crafts, music, games, and some sports," said Martha Schultz, day camp director. "We do have some Christian education, but it's not doctrine. We teach them how to treat each other, and how to behave. Then they take field trips.'

Children in the first session, through July 7, will take a field trip to the trash recycling center in Plymouth Township to study the environment. Other activities include swimming and a trip to a roller-skating rink.

Kids attending day camp from July 17-Aug. 4 will get to see the dinosaur exhibit at the Ann Arbor. Exhibit Museum, play on water, slides at the Rolling Hills Water Park, and see how Jiffy Mix is made at the Chelsea Milling Fac-

The cost of the camp is $75; Camp meets 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"It works out to a dollar an hour," Schultz said. "For those that are having some financial difficulty, we have scholarships available. They can come in and fill out a scholarship application. We never try to turn a child away."

The camp is open to children ages 6-12. Six-year-olds must have completed kindergarten or be 6 by July 1. The capacity is 50 students per camp.

Camps will take place at Plymouth Township Park at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha Road; and Heritage Park in Canton. Bus transportation will be provided from Canterbury, Canton Commons and Sherwood Mobile Village, all in Canton.

Registration for the camp is at The Salvation Army, 9451 S. Main St., near Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. For more information, call (313) 453-5464, HOWELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Ballooning blows residents away

BY RALPH ECHTINAW

rea residents whose experience with ballooning is limited to blowing them up and watching them squirt around the room may wish to expand their horizons at the Michigan Challenge Balloonfest in Howell. Lacking the hot jet exhaust of the Blue Angels, and the stentorian roar of radial reciprocating engines, this air show is based less on testosterone and more on aesthetics. More than 50 balloonists are scheduled to attend, including Scott Lorenz of Plymouth, and Dale Duthie of Canton Township. One balloon from Plano, Texas, is shaped like the head of a cat and called Miss Kitty. "You have not lived until you've seen this balloon," said Pat Convery, director of the Howell

Area Chamber of Commerce. The 11th annual Balloonfest begins 6 p.m. Friday, June 23, with a mass balloon launch and concludes Sunday evening,

June 25. The challenge for balloonists is to proceed to various "targets" and drop small beanbage as near to the targets as they can. "It's a race of accuracy, not of speed," Convery said. "I've seen them come down to within a foot of the ground, Some of them just love to show off." On the morning flights, balloonists will ascend from various locations and visit several Michigan Challenge Balloonfest targets, the final target being at Howell High School.

On the afternoon flights, all balloons ascend from the high school. The balloonist who hits the most targets with his or her beanbags will be named state champion.

Duthie and Lorenz plan to be tossing their beanbags, too, but neither has ever won a Howell Balloonfest.

Lorenz, a free-lance marketing and public relations consultant, has ballooned all over the world, including jaunts in China and Spain. He began ballooning in the early 1980s, in part because "my golf game was falling apart at the time."

In fact, Lorenz and Gordon Boring, owner of the Wicker Basket Balloon Center in Wixom, were instrumental in starting the now-defunct, Plymouth-based Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

Lorenz flies as often as he can, usually in the Kensington Metropark area of Oakland County because western Wayne County is too close to Metro Airport and too close to Detroit.

Lorenz carries 30 gallons of propane in his basket and burns 20-25 gallons of that in a typical one-hour flight. His wife follows him on the ground and maintains radio contact. How long does it take to pack up the balloon after a landing? "We like to land in subdivisions where there are a lot of kids to help out," he said.

Duthie, a project manager for the Rouge Steel Co., began ballooning in 1988 after purchasing a balloon ride at the Mayflower festival. "I was a big kid," he said, "I was hooked."

Oddly enough, Duthie is afraid of heights, but being up 3,000 feet with nothing but a balloon basket under his feet doesn't faze him. The analogy I always use is, "It's like floating in water," he said. "I never had a passenger go up who started out scared and landed scared. By the time we land they just love it and want to do it again." Folks who attend the Howell Balloonfest will have an opportunity to purchase a balloon ride if they care to risk being hooked like Duthie. (An inexpensive used balloon and attendant paraphernalia will set you back $10,000.)

The Balloonfest also features the Aerial Allstars Skydiving Team, the Windjammers Stunt Kite Team, a Medieval Village, arts and crafts show, antique and custom car show, carnival and lots to eat.

People interested in learning more about hot air ballooning may attend a "Learn To" Crew" seminar 6-9 p.m. Wedne sday, June 21, at Springlield Oaks County Park in Davisburg, southeast of Holly. The event is put on by the Southeastern Michigan Balloon Association. The fee is $5, which may be applied to membership in SMBA.

Great Lakes Sunset: Photographer Mary Falzon went off-the-beaten-track to snap the Port Sanilac lighthouse at sunset.

Liberty Fest Fine Art Show: Artist developing skill as a photographer

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Mary Falzon enjoyed the Liberty Fest Fine Art Show so much Inst year that this year she decided to participate.

Falzon brings her color photographs, which focus on the scenic side of Michigan, to the fourth annual show June 24-25 at Heritage Park, (Canton Center Road and Proctor, behind the Canton Township Adminintrative Building), Canton Township. Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday,

More than 70 artists will display their works. The event also features fireworks, face painting, sand art, paddle boats, strolling musicians and entertainers, a classic car show, antiques, and free children's art workshop sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation department.

Falzon has photographed more than 40 lighthouses all around the United States, From the Holland lighthouse on Lake Michigan to the Grand Haven light-house, the images instill a sense of peacefulness and serenity in the viewer. Falzon, a 35 year old secretary in the detective bureau of the Canton Township police department, takes weekend trips to capture not only lighthouses but barns, sunsets, landscapes, and animals in her scenic photography.

Hor photography releases the stress she encounters on the job. Falzon previously had worked for the West Bloomfield police department, and before that in the Inkater police department for 16 years. She primarily uses a Minolta camera loaded with 100 or 200 ASA Kodak color film. She prefers the slower speed because it's less grainy than the 400 ASA Canton detectives use to to photograph crime scenes.

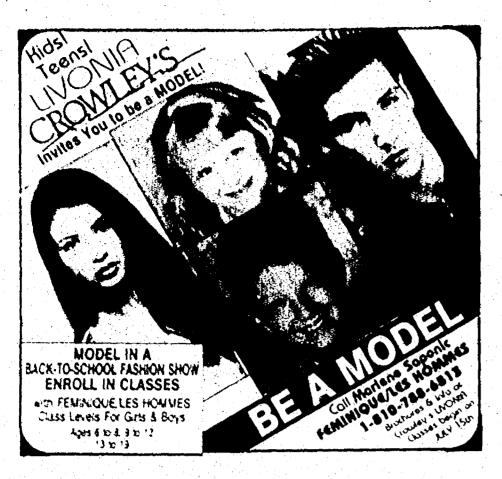

"It started out as a hobby when my sister, an art teacher in Lexington, thought they were good and suggested I enter some shows," said Falzon, a graduate of Cherry Hill High School in Inkster and Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

A hip roof barn in Traverse City looks like a picture postcard with it trees sporting rich autumn colors that play off of the barn's green roof and earth's bright blue sky. It's field stone base gives the barn a solid look as if it could endure through the Falzon of South Lyon.

She's always looking for an unusual angle from which to take her photographs. She will go just about anywhere to get it even if it means standing knee-deep in lake water or at the end of a pier with waves washing over her feet. "People always want to know where they are taken. Many times people will buy them if they're from a certain area or have a cabin or cottage there that reminds them.'

Prices for Mary Falzon's work range from $10 for a 5 by 7 inch matted photograph to $30 for an 11 by 14 inch image framed in wood. Matted 8 by 10 inch photos cost $15.

Potter Judy Buresh of Garden City won second place ($300) in the ceramics category at Art Birmingham '95 June 3-4. The show featured more than 100 artists including nationally known painter Bill Rabbit.

Influenced by Eastern and pre-Columbian pottery, Buresh's work incorporates quartzite, amethyst crystals, raw turquoise, cabechons of lapis, cork from Portugal, antique beads, glass from Italy, and Chinese trade beads from Tibet. Buresh studied glaze chemistry at Western Michigan University. Her glazes, containing elements of the Oriental glazes used centuries ago, make her work one-of-a-kind. Buresh will exhibit her ceramics at "Art in the Sun" taking place June 24-25 in downtown Northville. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5

Should you find yourself wandering aimlessly in the museum in search of a particular gallery or work of art, help is at hand -Terry Hand, the Detroit Institute of Arts' April Volunteer of the Month and Gallery Information Committee member for the past 14 years.

Family visits to the museum spawned her interest in art, an intorest that hasn't waned.

Of her volunteer duties, she said, "Who could ask for an easier. job or a better place to work? Besides, I love people."

Art show 'Celebrates Life'

The enigmatic "Isabella," a photograph of a petticoated child with a questioning look on her face, captured top honors Saturday in the Congregational Church of Birmingham's 15th annual "Celebrate Life" art show.

Berkley artist Maureen Electa Monte's black and wihte portrait won the Katharine Kell "Best of Show" award. The award is named for Kell, now deceased, a CCB member instrumental in eatablishing the show.

Show juror Michael Farrell, associate professor in the School of Visual Arts at the University of Windsor, praised the portrait for its positive spirit and energy.

"This one kept sticking in my mind," he said, "There is nothing more positive than the look on a child's face - a wonder, an awe."

The exhibit, which has attracted artists from around the Midwest in a variety of media, opens to the public Saturday, June 17, at the church, 1000 Cranbrook Road in Bloomfield Hills. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. until the show closes Sunday, June 25, at 2

Farrell, known for his enthusiastic teaching style and appreciation of Michigan's cultural and artistic heritage, built an exuberant show.

"I looked for quality and presentation as part of the process of the creation of the work of art. Also, when selecting the award winners, I tried to recognize the broad range of artistic talent. In choosing the overall winner, I could not help but be reminded of the theme of the exhibition.'

Merit awards went to: Carla Cronin of Bloomfield Township, for a paper on canvas collage called "Collage"; Frank Dulin of Rochester Hills, for a watercolor, "Intermission"; Jane

McKanna of West Bloomfield, for her pastel "Katabbin Falls"; Nancy Meyer of Plymouth, for "Greta Come Kiss Me," a quilt; Judith Peebles of Milan for her steel, bronze, wax and cotton cord sculpture "Zaire-Ring"; Betty Sturley of Beverly Hills for a watercolor, "David Austin"; and Bill Westman of Pontiac for a watercolor, "Snow Creek," and a graphite work, "Turfus Graphitis."

In naming merit winners, Parrell cited Westman's two very different works, one a realistic watercolor and the other an abstract graphite.

"The artist's sensitivity to nature comes out of both."

The sculpture "Zaire-Ring" wraps the colors of African Kente cloth around totemic figures.

"It's very interesting."

Steve Gornall coming home to play

Steve Gornall and the Blue Collar Blues Band play Sisko's On The Boulevard (5855 Monroe at Van Born in Taylor) on June 16 and 17. Call (313) 278-5340 for more information and directions.

BY MARK GALLO

Local blues fans know the name Steve Gornall well. Long time rock 'n' roll fans can go back even farther, to his tenure in Nature ("we had a write up in the Livonia Observer in '73," he remembers) and Mariah, who used to play places like the Ford Ice Rink opening for Ted Nugent and Bob Seger. An alumnus of Livonia's Bentley High School, Gornall was so immersed in the local music scene that he began to take on the characteristics of celebrity. When he left Detroit for San Francisco, early in 1994, it was a bombshell to the local music community.

Speaking by phone recently, he suggested that the move wasn't quite as spontaneous as it might have seemed to his many fans. Steve Gornall and the Blue Collar Blues Band had just released their superb debut for Royal Oakbased Blues Pactory Records, and the band's fan base seemed to quadruple overnight. Though 20 years on the local scene afforded him a good degree of drawing power, with the release of their debut CD word spread on Gornall and Blue Collar like wildfire and each performance drew a full house, from Pontiac's Q-Club to Sisko's in Taylor.

"The CD should have been out months earlier," he says. That put the move behind, because he wanted to promote the disc. In the meantime, he and his family had the deal of a lifetime offered to them in the real estate market, and they had to go when they did, which, unfortunately for everyone, was only a few weeks after the disc finally was pressed. There were some hard feelings in the community because the move struck so many as a spur-of-themoment decision.

"Most people didn't know the pressure that I was under," he says of that harrowing chapter of

All of that is water under that famed bridge now. When Gornall came to town this past New Year's Eve for a reunion show with Blue Collar at Sisko's On The Boulevard, everything clicked. The house was sold out well in advance and the band meshed as if no time had passed.

He fully expects the same reaction for his return trip home later this month, when he again will join his compatriots in the Blue Collar Blues Band - harmonica player Kenny Welk, drummer Vinnie Scalabrino and bassist

Tim Garrick — at Sisko's. Asked if he's excited, Gornall is quick in his reply. "Definitely! Me and Harry (Sisko) are going to stay on this schedule of a summer concert and a New Year's Eve thing. I've done New Years' Eve there forever. I like it because it two-decade history to sell himself with to club owners, among other things. Still, he's keeping some pretty impressive company.

"I worked recently with Robert Cray's drummer and jammed with Steve Smith from Journey and Huey Lewis' bassist."

He's also just recorded "some guitar fills" with Jonathan Kane of the Babys and Journey fame, and has been spending a lot of time with Kevin Russell. The guitarist, originally from Westland, is best known for his stint in the rock group 707 ("I Could Be Good For You") and he has been building a reputation as a producer in the Bay Area.

"He just produced Rick Derringer," Gornall says, "and he plays with Clarence Clemons and people like that. He's been helping me out a lot. He knows a lot of players."

"Mostly I work in San Francisco itself," he relays, "I've got a new Blue Collar Blues Band. I know they still use the name there, but I had to use it here because I use the CD to get work. It's a three-piece most of the time. Once in a while I add a harp player, but it's pretty hard to find a Kenny Welk. I add keyboards more often.'

"Once things get rolling," he says, "I'll get out more. You've got to go to L.A. if you want to get something happening."

Guitar teaching fills in the quiet times.

"I've always taught. I do it on the side. It's the same stuff, only in a different place.'

It's been nearly six months since he and the original Blue

Collar Blues Band have shared a stage, so how good can they possibly sound?

"We'll do a sound check, and that's all the rehearsal we'll need," a confident Gornall says. "I told Kenny to listen to the album, because they don't do any of that stuff any more, and I'll throw a few new things at them, but it's like riding a bike, ya know? It's all pretty straight ahead stuff. This time we'll do two nights. We're looking for a good weekend. It should be a lot of fun!"

TRAVEL

Discover close-to-home bike routes

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STATE WHITER

When weekends arrive, thousands of Michigan evelists are ready to hit the road for healthy exercise and beautiful scenery.

But where will they go? Two years ago writer Karen Cientry saw a need to answer that question and an opportunity to do

"I worked for the West Michigan Tourist Association. We were always getting calls asking about hiking and there just wasn't a good collection of trips available," she said. "I worked with a travel writer who was starting his own publishing company. We knew there was a market for a bike book. It was fun to do and also know I had a publisher for it."

"Cycling Michigan: 25 of the Best Bike Routes in Western Michigan" was published in 1993 and became an instant success.

"When I started they told me regional guide books that sell 1,000 to 1,500 are doing good. We sold over 2,000 copies," Gentry

That success has led to the publication of "Cycling Michigan: Bast Michigan," ($13.95, Pegg Legs Publications). The book follows the same pattern as the first book with detailed, well written, descriptions of routes that follow backroads, main roads with wide shoulders and designated bike trails. Each route has a clear, simple map, information on area bike shops for emergencies and on restaurants, lodging and scenic Gentry, who lives in Grand Rapids and works as an information specialist for Kent County, has been bicycling for many years but has only become a "serious cyclist" in the last eight years. Her books, however, are aimed at a wider audience than biking fanatics.

"I would say the books are not for the competitive cyclists who want to go 25 miles an hour. It's more for the recreational and weekend cyclists and for families. it's for people who want to get out and see the scenery, see Michigan up close," she said.

The new guide covers Michigan's more populous side. But our side of the state is less noted for 30 of the Best Bike Routes in its scenery. Gentry's book gives proper appreciation to those beautiful areas that are close at hand.

"One of the reasons we did an East Michigan book is that people wanted to bike close to home. They weren't looking for vacations but for day outings," she

This book follows the first with a special appreciation for the needs of the casual rider, especially the need to eat. Gentry delights in finding and sharing small restaurants, grocery stores and snack bars along the routes.

"I'm not a big eater, but that's definitely a matter of interest. You build up an appetite when you ride and people want to know when and where they can stop."

Gentry said that feedback from readers has convinced her that her guide is popular because it answers those questions that sometimes keep people from getting on the road. They want to know where they can eat, where they can park their cars, how long between stops, what will they encounter on their way, how bad or good are the roads.

The new book covers such close to home rides as the Paint Creek Trail between Rochester and Lake Orion, the Lakelands Trail between Hamburg and Stockbridge, two rides out of Ann Arbor, a trip around Grosse lle and a ride through Kennsington Park. It also moves up to the Thumb, the northeast Oscoda to Alpena area and Mackinac Island. Writer Jim DuFresne helped with nine of the routes and many bicycle clubs suggested routes, as Gentry duly. notes throughout the book.

She picks a ride in the tip of the Thumb as her favorite in the new book.

"It has sandy beaches and prime farm land and it's straight up from Detroit, real close," she said.

From her previous book she takes special note of the northwest section of the state, especially the Mission Bay Peninsula near Traverse City and the road between Petoskey and Cross Vil-

Gentry is also a booster of the Rails-to-Trails program of which Paint Creek and Lakelands are a part. She said a trail between

Musical 'Forum' a mirthful toga party

"A Funny Thing Hoppened on the Way to the Forum," 8 p.m. Friday, June 16, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, June 17, Fordeon High School Auditorium, 13800 Ford Road, (between Schaefer and Greenfield) Dearborn. Tickets $8 adults, $7 senior citizens. Call (313) 943-2354.

From opening musical number "Comedy Tonight" to the surprise ending, Dearborn Community Theatre's, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Po-rum" is a mirthful toga party of sight gags, bawdy innuendos, double takes and mistaken identities.

"Forum" is your basic farce set to music, sprinkled with vaudeville and burlesque. This presents a challenge to performers because there is no where to learn broad physical comedy. Even the TV variety show has disappeared,

While some of the funny business is a bit forced at times, director Rosemary Gass, who teaches speech, forensics and English literature at Brother Rice High School in Bloomfield Hills, has rehearsed her troupe well. Dearborn's "Forum" has generally high production values with good scenery, costumes, music and staging.

The setting is a lovely Roman courtyard with doors to three homes - one of which is a brothel. On the other side of the stage is the home of an old man who has gone off in search of his son and daughter. Center stage is the home of Senex (a dirty old man) and his son, Hero. What else would you expect in a farce?

Hero has his eye on a newly arrived courtesan - who it turns out is a virgin. To his slave, Pseudolus, he says, "Get me that girl, and you are free." The problem is, the girl has already been purchased by a self-centered captain in the Roman Army. And guess what? Hero's father, Senex, is also pursuing the damsel, thinking she is the new maid.

Around and around they go, with Tom Downey leading the way as the slave Pseudolus scheming for his freedom. With effervescence and energy he keeps the show moving as his plan survives one calamity after another.

Ron Richards, a science teacher and swim team coach at Brother Rice High School, is delightful as the naive, nerdy Hero. Rebecca Staffend of Livonia is springtime fresh as the slightly daffy virgin, Philla.

C.J. Nodus is splendid as the henpecked father, Senex, with an eye for a well-turned ankle. Dianne Bernick scores as his imperious wife, Domina.

Perhaps the best performance is turned in by Greg Viscomi as the amug and conceited Roman Captain, Miles Gloriousus. His asides, voice and character are ex-

Clif Levin is likewise very good as the hyperactive slave, Hysterium and Matt Higgins has just the right touch of debauchery as Lycus, the buyer and seller of courtesans.

The courtesans add spice to the show, and Lewis Sequin grabs his share of laughs with a few lines as Erronius, the old man in search of his children. And guess what? He finds them in a gaggle of geese. How else would a farce end?

Music director is Carole Mihalo of Livonia. The cast also includes Thomas Downey of Westland as Prologus/Pseudolus, Chris Drouin and Carlos Souffrant of Troy as Proteans.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

"Morphing" has become the rage of the '90s. We see it in television commercials. We take the kids to see the Rangers do.it in our local movie houses.

Now it's hit the legitimate

The Bermuda Avenue Triangle," a two-act comedy, opened June 6 at the Pisher Theatre and it didn't take long for the audience to realize that - hey! there's major adult morphing going on here. Triangle is the story of two tired, dispirited old women played by Bea Arthur and Renee Taylor, who have been shuttled off to a retirement village in Florida by their daughters to spend their fading golden years, only to turn into raging sexpots. The object of their ardor and reason for their dramatic lifestyle change is played by Joe Bologna, who is perhaps in worse shape than they are, but won't admit it. In his denial, he fires the banked flames of passion and awakens the libidos of both women who thought their lives, forget their sex lives, were over. The two veteran television and stage actresses pull out all the stops in their portrayals of stereotypical Italian and Jewish mothers. Their telephone conversations with their daughters brought sustained laughter of recognition from the opening-night audience.

"A person could die from pastel poisoning," rages Arthur's character as she giances around the pale pink and green

There is high comedy in Triangle liberally laced with explicit language and outrageous ethnic humor as "The Golden Girls' " Arthur and The Nanny's yenta of a mother transform themselves into sex kittens and in the process become two different, compassionate people.

Another familiar face and remembered voice is Triangle's fourth cast-member. Audiences will remember Cliff Norton from his hundreds of appearances on network television dating back to the Ed Sullivan

Norton plays a rabbi and head of the condo organization who welcomes "with a gift of fiber" what he believes to be two gentle, geriatric ladies into his little clan of bead-stringing seniors. When their metamorphosis is complete his incredulity is classic.

For those who enjoy makeovers (Arthur in a red wig!), makeup (Taylor's eyes, lips and legs), and make out (do they still call it that?), pay a visit to "The Bermuda Street Triangle" at the Fisher before it closes on June 25 and heads across the Atlantic for an ex-

Circus sets up tent at Meadow Brook

BY KEELY WYGONIK

For 12 weeks each year, the Big Apple Circus, which is coming to Meadow Brook June 16-27, performs at the Lincoln Center in New York. "We have trailers parked alongside the wall of the Metropolitan Opera Theatre," said Paul Binder, founder and artistic director. "We're something special."

The circus performs under a 1,972-square-foot, big-top tent. No seat is more than 50 feet away from the action in the ring. "Our circus is like circuses in Europe," said Binder. "It incorporates aspects of traditional theater, including original music, lighting, choreography, sets and costumes with classical circus elements, including aerial acts, clowning, mime, juggling and acrobatics, and a special focus on classical equestrianism."

Each year's show is created around a specific theme, and the heart of the circus is a small core company of performers who return each year with new acts centered around the new theme. They are joined by guest artists from around the world, 20 countries in all including Russia and Mexico.

This year's theme is "Grandma Meets Mummenschanz," and takes circus goers to a magical world where the Mummenschanz (Miguel Camerero and Cathy Callhoun) meet both the human and animal inhabitants of the circus ring. The show features the beloved clown character Grandma, (Barry Lubin).

"Mummenschanz is a Swiss group that does movement theater with puppets and abstract characters. Some of them are eight feet tall," said Binder. "Grandma encounters these characters. At first she's afraid, but, like all grandmas she'd rather knit them a sweater than scare them away. So Grandma introduces them to the elephants and other people in the circus."

From Denmark, world-renowned equestrian Katja Schumann, who has been married to Binder for 11 years, and her father, Max Schumann, present their regal stallion romping in a lively act with a Copland inspired mariachi beat.

Other acts include the frantic antics of Arturo Alegria of Mexico, a juggler of ping-pong balls and soft balls; award-winning trapezist Elena Panova, and the aerial acrobat Egorov Troupe of Russia; and America's Ben Williams who teams with his 5,000 pachyderm pal, Ned, in a funny set where Ben shares his lunch.

Greenfield Village musters array of car collectors

Steer into the past lane for a sentimental journey during Motor Muster June 17-18 at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

From the creme de la chrome of the 1930s to the fin-tastic fantasy machines of the 1960s, this gathering of collectors from across the national features 500 vehicles including cars, trucks, bikes and motorcycles.

Vintage vehicles cruise through Village streets for a narrated pass-in-review, offering a chance to learn more about automotive history, design and restoration from nationally recognized ex-

When they're not parading, the vehicles will be on display for tours. Visitors can also meet the collectors.

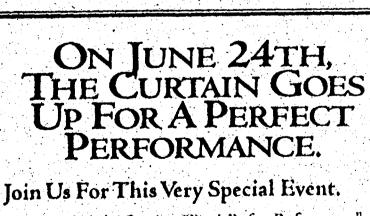

Children can try toys their parents and grandparents enjoyed, including hula hoops and pogo sticks. Each day concludes with the Popular Choice awards. Visitors can vote for their favorites, and watch the winners make a "victory lan."

Motor Muster marks the beginning of Greenfield Village's Summer Festival, June 17 to Aug. 21.

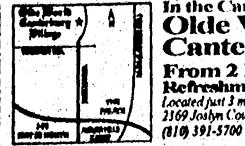

Vistors can meet George Washington Carver and learn how his ingenuity unlocked a miracle in a nutshell.

A new presentation shows how playing with toys and riding bikes helped the Wright Brothers solve the mysteries of powered flight. Summer Festival also offers craft demonstrations and make-andtake activities.

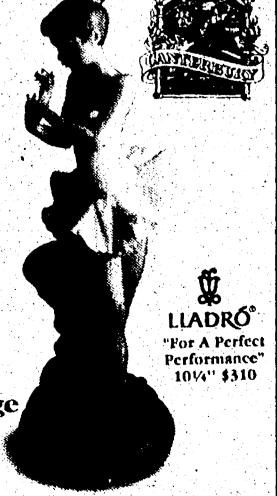

Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village are assessable via I-75, I-94, Southfield Freeway and Michigan Ave. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call (313) 271-1976 or 1-800-835-5237 for visitor informaastounding - King Kong, dinosaurs, or bungalow-sized insects. This same premise fuels "Congo," a new adventure thriller based on a bestseller from "Jurassic Park's" Michael Crichton. Filled with stock characters and dopey dialogue, it nevertheless delivers old fashioned thrills and chills. It's hard to run through the plot with a straight face. You see: there's this talking gotilla who uses a computer device to turn sign language into speech. Her trainer (Dylan Walsh) wants to return her to the jungle, but must take others along to meet expenses.

A Romanian philanthropist (Tim Curry) comes on board, though it's soon revealed that he's broke and in search of King Solomon's mines. The real money comes from a former CIA agent (Laura Linney), now working for a telecommunications company, who must retrieve a downed expedition that includes her former

A savvy black safari leader (Ernie Hudson) guides them past hungry animals and unfriendly political regimes. The natives look astonished when they see him leading the group. "They expect a black man to carry a trunk on my head," he quips in a sophisticated tone a la George Sanders.

Closing in on their destination. they discover that deep within the jungle is something mysterious and deadly, an apelike creature that can wipe out an armed party

That "Congo" works so well is no surprise. After all, writer Crichton negotiates multi-million dollar book deals with Hollywood long before he lifts a pencil. He tosses in every jungle adventure cliche, from volcanic eruptions and poisonous snakes to killer hippos. Yes, killer hippos.

A few unique moments do occur. At one point, ground troops fire heat seeking missiles at the expedition's plane, The resourceful CIA agent whips out a special gun whose bullets lure the explosives away from them.

As in "Jurassic Park," the cast plays it straight, no matter how silly the dialogue. "Rocky Horror's" Tim Curry, who could star in the Peter Lorre story if his eyes bulge out any further, has the proper blend of slimy charm and obsession in his quest for dia-

Listen up British bands, we want fun not attitude

eing a big fan of the Manchester music scene and having just returned from there, it hurts me to say this the Stone Roses and Oasis need a few lessons in stage performance.

I'm not a performer or stage veteran, nor do I claim to be. But I feel justified in giving the Stone Roses and Oasis a few tips. First. a little background.

The Stone Roses had no firm plans on coming to Detroit so Memorial Day weekend I hauled myself out to Chicago to see the Stone Roses perform as part of the Q-101 "Jamboree" radio festival at the World Music Amphitheatre, an outdoor venue nearly twice the size of Pine Knob. I loved the Stone Roses's self-titled album and the song "I Wanna Be Adored" and "Fool's Gold" so naturally I was looking forward to this. For a month I lived, breathed, and slept the Stone Roses so much so that I kept forgetting that bands like Collective Soul, Sheryl Crow, Bush, Sponge, Duran Duran, Faith No More, Flaming Lips were also on

The weather was 50 degrees and raining. Mudcovered lawn patrons hurled patches of sod at the pavilion. Through my years of concert-going, I have learned how to emerge sod-free from the grass wars. Well, OK, embarassment had something to do with it too. At Lollapalooza a few years ago, I went backstage to talk to Soundgarden when one of the band members so kindly informed me, "You have a big glob of sod on your forehead" and flicked it off me. How humiliating.

Anyway, it wasn't a pretty sight but I was getting more excited by the minute so I stuck it outfor the Stone Roses. Their set started out fine, actually, with their hit "I Wanna Be Adored." As soon as the song was over, the Stone Roses copped an Oasis attitude. The singer hung his head down, turned around and got a sip of water, dawdled around the stage a while and broke into the next song. The cycle repeated itself throughout their

We're ever so honored to have you in our presence, almighty Stone Roses.

Because Ossis did the same thing when I saw them at St. Andrew's Hall in mid-March, I have this feeling that English bands don't know how or don't have any desire to - to play up to American audiences. So I'm going to help them out.

There's no need to still be bent out of shape because we whooped you in the Revolutionary War so get over it and get those silly frowns off your face. Stop looking at your shoes while we're at it.

We don't go to your concerts to worship your every move like British fans and tabloids so don't be so condescending. We'd like to have fun with

The United States is a hard country to break and your kindergarden temper-tantrums aren't helping Pretend you all get along

This is specifically for Oasis, you don't need to open up your show with the song "Tonight I'm a Rock 'n' Roll Star." We're pretty much prepared for that attitude anyway.

And Oasis wonders why fans have been known to shout "England sucks" at their concerts? The bottom line is you just wanns be adored? We want to be entertained — then we'll adore you.

Il of you who have never gotten shold of me on the phone or in person, will be happy to know that I'll be readily available on Sunday, June 18, when I guest bartend at Lili's, 2930. Jacob, Hamtramck. No, I don't know how to mix drinks that well but Lili's has assured me that "real" hartenders will back me up. It should be a lot of fun so stop by and feel free to bother me. Clutch brings out the silly in rock

By Christina Fuoco STATE WRITER

Clutch singer/songwriter Neil Falion stands outside St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit, smoking a cigarette near his band's "tour camper." A line of fans snakes around the hall and through the parking lot hoping to get tickets to see underground rock's burgeoning stars. Having shed his glasses and sprouted hair, Fallon stands unnoticed only a few steps from the crowd. A homeless man approaches him, unaffected, Fallon puts his cigarette out and heads into the hall.

An hour later, Fallon is stalking his prey on stage. He rocks back and forth as if he's ready to lunge at the crowd of mostly sweat-drenched teenage boys. Other than looking like a group of average, self-admitted "rednecks," there's something almost scary about the melodic hard rock band from Maryland.

Listen hard, however, and those fears are dispelled. "Like a fly to doo doo/You need me like a bird needs wings/Or little bunny fufu/Who needs to bop the field mice," Fallon screams during the slow groove of "El Jefe Speaks," off their adrenalin-charged debut "Transnational Speedway League: Anthems, Anecdotes and Undeniable Truths" (EastWest/Atlantic).

Welcome to Fallon's metaphorical playground. Fallon, who ironically has a degree in English from the University of Maryland, mercilessly harasses his playmates with his preschool lyrics. He just can't take playing in a rock band too seriously.

"I never expected to be in one. The guys asked me, I got in the band. Being on the road and playing with rock bands, it can just be so silly. Personally, I can't take it seriously. Watching MTV, there's a lot of bands that do take it seriously. We're making fun of that," Fallon said via telephone from his Denver-area hotel

Clutch's silliness prevails on their (EastWest/Elektra). Wrapped around references to mythological characters, he pays tribute to American pop cul-

Clutch's self-titled sophomore effort, ends with "come down to the locker of Davy Jones." Other songs make references to "red rover red rover," 'knickknackpaddywack," "Howdy Doody" and the "hokey pokey."

In a weird sort of twisted way, Fallon is making good use of his degree. "I can stretch and say I've been published."

Fallon was finishing up his degree at the other U-M when he was approached to join Clutch. He didn't have any other future plans, so he joined. A few days after graduation, he and bandmates guitarist Tim Sult, bassist Dan Maines, and drummer Jean-Paul Gaster were touring Europe with Biohazard.

Their first visit to Detroit in the summer of '91 spelled out their future in the city. Dan Kotwicki, a bartender at the Shelter at the time, fell in love at first sight.

"Dan was at the very first Detroit show. That was at the University of Detroit Grounds (Coffeehouse). That was the summer of '91. There was about 20 people there. He's been there ever since. He's responsible for a lot of our Detroit fan base by playing it in his bar and pushing it.'

Radio eventually locked on to "A Shogun Named Marcus" and the rest is history.

"It's because of the radio. If you can get played on the radio in the city, that can work wonders for a band. There's three cities - Detroit, Phoenix and New York that play us on the radio. Those are our biggest

In recording "Clutch," the band called back Larry Packer, who produced their debut 7-inch "Pitchfork" released in 1991.

"We wanted Larry for several reasons," Maines said. "We wanted to be more relaxed about it. We figured recording it with Larry would help us make the purest record possible. On the first album we had to fly to the west coast and everything. Being a new band it was very distracting. On this album we had a green light to try any ideas we wanted.'

While Clutch had their die-hard fans in mind, they didn't make any sacrifices for them.

Wilco gets an unexpected warm reception

By Christina Puoco

When former Uncle Tupelo member Jeff Tweedy kick-started his new band Wilco, he prepared himself for a long, uphill battle. He soon realized, however, that his fears were unfound-

The response has been really positive," Tweedy said via telephone from Pittsburgh where Wilco was perform-

"Things are goin' good," Tweedy added with a sly laugh.

Wilco, which is radio speak for "will comply," emerged as media darlings from the South by Southwest music conference in Austin, Texas. At a show that followed, the band tightened the screws of their credibility when members of the Jayhawks and Soul Asylum hopped on stage with them.

If that's not enough, Wilco will be a part of this year's H.O.R.D.B. festival the Black Crowes, Sheryl Crow, Ziggy Marley and the Melody Makers, Blues Traveler, and Morphine, which comes to Pine Knob Music Theatre on Sunday, Aug. 20, Wilco will give fans a sneak-peek of what to expect at Pine Knob with a headlining show at 7th House in Pontisc on Thursday, June 15.

'We're bemused that we're even on that thing," Tweedy said with a sly laugh about the H.O.R.D.E. festival. "It should be interesting. We kind of did it because we haven't really ever played in front of festival kind of audiences."

Tweedy and songwriting partner Jay Parrer formed Uncle Tupelo nearly 10 years ago in St. Louis. Together they produced four albuma together "No Depression" and "Still Feel Gone," which carry strong punk influences, and the folk rockflayored"March 16-20, 1992" and "Anodyne."

Toward the end of the "Anodyne" tour in 1994, Parrer announced that he was leaving the hand.

"It was quite a shock," Tweaty admits. "Even though Jay had his reacreative, we were really thrown for a loop. It took us a little while to find our footing again."

Late last year, Tweedy and fellow

Rising from the ashes: Wilco — from left, drummer Ken Coomer, guitarist/vocalist Jeff Tweedy, fiddle/mandolin/banjo player Max Johnston, guitarist Jay Bennett, and bassist/vocalist John Stirratt — picks up where the now-defunct Uncle Tupelo left off. The band plays the 7th House in Pontiac on Thursday, June 15, before hitting the second stage of the HORDE Festival on Sunday, Aug. 20, at Pine Knob Music Theatre.

Tupelos guitarist/hassist/hacking vocallst John Stirratt, drummer Ken Coomer, and stringman Max Johnston re-entered the studio to record "A.M.," their debut for Reprise Records.

The chameleon-like nature of Wilco is well represented on the album switching gears seamlessly from knee-slappin' roots rock ("Casino Queen") to pure country ("It's Just That Simple" and "That's Not The

The first single "I Must Be High" qualifies for sing slong status; "You always wanted more time to do what you always wanted to do now you got it and I must be high to say goodhye. You never said you needed this you're (ticked) that you missed the very last kiss from my lips and I must be high to say goodhye.

Some of the lyrics are silly and endearing at the same time. For example on "Passenger Side," Tweedy sings: "For the last couple of miles you've been swervin' from side to side. You're gonna make me spill my beer if you don't learn how to steer." "Casino Queen" take a humorous look at the frustrations of gambling. "I've been gamblin' like a fiend on your tables so green. I always bet them black, black jack, I'll pay you back. The room fills with smoke and I'm already broke and the dealer keeps on jokin' while he takes my last

With Wilco, Tweedy and the band, which also includes guitarist Jay Bennett, there's a much stronger feeling of cohesiveness.

"It's a significantly different feeling es a hend. We're more unified as a hand. We felt like we were more like aldemen. Everyhody feels like this is our hand. That makes thing smooth-

And Tweedy gets to showcase more of his talent.

"We play a lot more songs that I sing. In Uncle Tupelo, I was only singing five or six or seven songs a night, and I was doing mostly backup singing. That's the difference with Wilco. There's a lot of songs that I had on records that I wrote that we never played live. We do more of Tweedy said that when Wilco plays live, the renewed sense of enthusiasm is evident. "Uncle Tupelo was kind of serious on stage, we tend to be less serious." Wilco plays the 7th House, 7 N. 8aginaw, Pontiac, with special guest Outrageous Cherry at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 18. Ticheta are $10 in advance. For more information, call (810) 335-8100. Ticheta for the H.O.R.D.E. Festival are $25.50 for pgvillion and lawn. Showtime is at 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 20, at Pine Knob, 1-78 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston. For information about that show, call (810) 377-0100 or (810) 645-6666.

hen Oakland Community College asked Susan Muer if they could name their new culinary resource library after her father the late Charles "Chuck" Muer, she not only said yes, she rolled up her aleeves and got to work.

For the past three months Susan has been spending Friday mornings at OCC's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills meeting with faculty members to help them to plan, promote and present two special events - "A Pledge to the Future," a strolling benefit dinner Tuesday, June 20, and "Culinary Classic," an allday event Saturday, June 24 featuring champagne breakfast, seminars by culinary experts, grand tasting, marketplace, and silent auction.

Seminar presenters include Jimmy Schmidt of The Rattlesnake Club, Certified Master Chef Milos Cihelka of the Golden Mushroom, Charles Davis of Robert Denton & Company, Ltd., and Master Sommelier Madeline Triffon, newly appointed Director of Beverages for all Unique Restaurant Corporation

Catholic Central levels Rocks

Redford Catholic Central will be making its third semi-final appearance under coach John Salter. CC advanced with an 8-3 victory over Plymouth Salem.

By C.J. RIBAK STAYF WRITER

The fourth inning was half over. With Redford Catholic Central coming up for its turn at the plate, it seemed all the good fortune legend attached to the Shamrocks might be required to make them winners in this game.

At that point, Plymouth Salem had six hits off CC ace Justin Stankewicz. The Rocks had gone with their No. 3 pitcher, Ted Bentley, and he had allowed just two hits and an walk through three innings, However, even though the offense favored Salem, the scoreboard did not: It was tied 1-1.

But it was only a matter of time, right? Stankewicz was coming off two days rest; he would soon tire and topple. And Salem had its ace, Justin Marcis, warming up in the wings. Salem coach Dale Rumberger had steadfastly refused to start Marcis on two days rest, but he was available for a few innings of relief.

Only a matter of time...

The Shamrocks didn't wait for luck. They took matters into their own hands in the bottom of the fourth, striking for five runs on the strength of two clutch hits and several Salem miscues.

It was more than the Rocks could recover from. CC (now 25-8) rolled to an 8-3 triumph, earning a trip to the Class A semifinals against Rochester Adams (26-8), 7 p.m. Friday at Battle Creek's Bailey Park.

Salem bows out at 25-8.

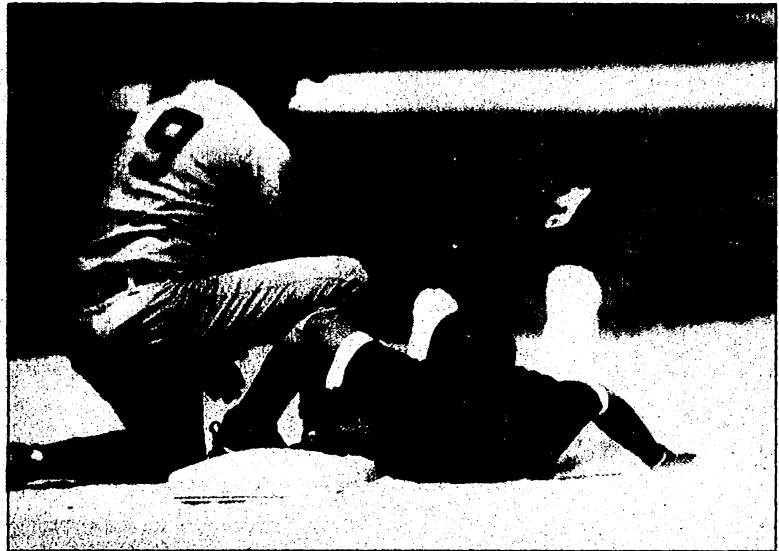

"In the end, you'd have to say our defense hurt us," said Rumberger.

Poor timing didn't help, either. One.

Poor timing didn't help, either. One mistake led to another for Salem, and the Shamrocks were only too happy to take full advantage of them.

Bentley started things off badly for Salem in the fourth by walking Garet Burch. Bill Styles, Salem's normally surehanded shortstop, made matters worse by allowing Marty Wilk's easy grounder to bounce through his legs. Bentley multiplied the problem by walking Jasen Couture, loading the bases with none out.

That brought Kevin Thomas, CC's freshman center fielder, to the plate. "I was looking for a fastball, because he wasn't getting his curve over," Thomas recalled. "I missed the pitch on a 3-and-1 count and he gave me the same thing on 3-and-2, and I hit it hard."

Hard and to the right spot. Thomas' line drive rolled all the way to the fence in right-center field, and Thomas rolled all the way to third base. CC had a 4-1 lead.

Thomas' hit didn't exactly surprise CC coach John Salter, simply because he didn't know what to expect. "He's the kind of kid you just don't know what he's going to do," Salter said. "He'll make a bonehead play one inning and a great play the next."

Thomas' hit wasn't the end of CC's inning. Bentley pitched to one more batter, walking Mike Homant. Marcis relieved, and he induced another freshman, catcher Mike Biane, to hit a foul fly to right that Jeff Mackiewicz syeballed — then dropped. The error gave Biane another chance, and he delivered a run-scoring single.

That brought up the top of the order and Greg Rogers. With runners on first and second and no one out, Rogers pushed a bunt toward first. Marcis bobbled it but fielded it, then found he had no one to throw to at first. First baseman Dan Quaine charged the bail, and second baseman Kaz Kurisu did not cover the bag.

For the second time in the inning, the bases were loaded — and still none were out. Marcis struck out Chris Mislak and got Mike Daguanno to ground out to second, but another run scored to make it 6-1.

The number of hits produced in the first four innings indicated the Rocks would not go quietly. Brad Lear punctuated that, leading off the Salem fifth by driving a Stankewicz pitch over the left field fence for a solo home run. After Ahmande Grimes flied deep to center, Quaine, Mackiewicz and Ryan Rumberger all singled to load the bases.

Rumbergers maintain close family ties

BY STEVE KOWALSKI

The last time Redford Catholic Central and Plymouth Salem met in a state tournament baseball game, the Rumberger family couldn't lose.

Dale Rumberger was an assistant coach for Salem and his son, Asron, was a junior outfielder and designated hitter for the Shamrocks when the two teams collided in a 1991 Class A regional final hosted by Dearborn High School.

Salem held on to win, 5-3, and three games later was crowned state champion after a 4-1 victory over Rochester.

"I remember telling Aaron, 'No matter what happens, I'm going on to Battle Creek (to coach Salem or watch his son play in the Final Four),' " recalled the elder Rumberger.

On Tuesday, it was all or nothing for the Rumbergers.

Rumberger, elevated to head coach this year after the retirement of John Gravlin, and his younger son Ryan, a sophomore designated hitter for Salem, battled CC in a Class A quarter-final game at Milan Middle School.

And Aaron, now a junior at Concordia College in Ann Arbor, were his allegiance on his sleeves as he watched from the stands. He was wearing a No. 27 Salem junior varsity jersey worn by his brother last year.

The Shamrocks scored five runs in the fourth inning and went on to defeat Salem, 8-3, to advance to the Final Four for the first time since 1989.

"Saturday night, we were sitting around at home after we found out Salem would play CC and my brother asked me, "Who are you going to cheer for?"." Aaron said. "And I said, 'Family comes first." I'm glad the Rumbergers are on the same aide today, and I am so proud of my brother. I hated that day (four years ago) so much. My stomach was doing flips all day."

Aaron doesn't have fond memories of his only at-bat that afternoon.

With a runner on second base in the fifth inning, CC coach John Salter called on Aaron as a pinch hitter. After fouling off the first two pitches, Aaron went down awinging on the

"I knew where my dad was going (to tell the Salem pitcher) to throw it — down and in," Aaron recalled.

"The third pitch, he called for a pitch they named the Beast. I swear it broke two different times. It was a tough pitch to hit."

Although Salem lost on the scoreboard Tuesday, Ryan Rumberger enjoyed a 3-for-4 day at the plate.

Dale Rumberger probably knows how to get Ryan out as well, but he's glad he was giving signs in the third base coach's box when his son was up and not calling pitches from the opposing dugout.

Dale isn't proud of calling the pitches that led to his son's strikeout. "I didn't think it was fair for Salter to put Aaron in that situation," said to put Aaron in that situation," said Dale Rumberger, who moved his family from Westland to Plymouth in 1992. "I knew how to get him out, I was coaching him since little league. I told Aaron when he started at CC, "These are two great programs and eventually we'll run into each other. And it'll be a situation where I'll have to try to win the game."

All-Area: O'Brien named top coach

lion.
The Blazers had to concentrate on taking baby

"It was frustrating at first," said O'Brien, 27.
"For the most part, I had been a part of winning teams and knowing we wouldn't win at first was tough. But I knew I was young enough to weather the atorm."

O'Brien is a 1986 graduate of Redford Catholic Central, where he was a regional high jump champion for coach Tony Magni. Following CC, O'Brien earned a teaching degree from Franciscan University in Staubenville, Ohio.

O'Brien said he learned a lot from Magni, including "how to run a hig team. He did a good job."

O'Brien's first team at Ladywood had only 45 members. This season, the Blazers had a turnout of about 80; and it showed as they finished 4-2 in dual meets and won their first Catholic League championship in 11 years.

Ladywood finished fifth at the regional and sent aix girls in seven events to the state meet.

For his efforts, O'Brien has been named the Observerland Coach of the Year.

O'Brien credita juniors Lindsay Soter, Stacle

girls at the school enthused about track.

"That's a pretty solid group of three," said O'Brien, a history and government teacher at Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard. "They've really put a lot of work in. The biggest job is trying to get a winning attitude and keeping the kide around."

Birmingham Seaholm frosh ruins Salem bid

By C.J. RISAK STAIF WRITER

Throughout its state tournament run, Plymouth Salem had made a habit of giving opponents a bit of rope, then hanging them.

Birmingham Seaholm didn't give their foes anything - the Maples just hung them.

At Saturday's Class A state soccer final, held at the Salem-Canton field, neither team was able to extend its particular dominance. But there's little" doubt Seaholm dominated, controlling the midfield throughout the game and keeping the Rocks' attack bottled up for most of it.

The result was Seaholm's first-ever state championship, by a 4-2 margin.

The player whose name will be most closely associated with this championship will be the Maples' Lindsay Michelotti, a freshman forward who collect: ed three of her team's goals.

Ironically, her play early in the match concerned her coach, Ken Hammond. He pulled her out of the game to "get her refocused once more. She's a young player, a freshman." After that, she hardly played

The officials took away any hope of Seaholm prolonging its defensive mastery early in the game. In the first six state tournament matches, the Maples posted five shutouts allowing a single goal in their district opening victory over

Birmingham Marian. After just 7:46, their shutout string ended when Meredith McMahon was called for a hand ball inside the penalty area. Salem's Kelly Lukasik converted the penalty kick, and Salem - for one of the few times in the state tournament - had the first goal of the

The Rocks weren't ahead for long. Just 28 seconds later, another penalty kick was awarded - this time the call against Salem. Erin Killian connected for Seaholm, and at the 8:14 mark the score was tied at 1-1.

Michelotti did the rest of the scoring for Seaholm, starting at the 28:37 mark. Her shot on net wasn't a particularly tough one, but Rocks' keeper Julie Buczek let the shot slip through her hands and into the net, giving the Maples a 2-1 lead. Heather Brown picked up the assist.

Trailing at the half was nothing new to Salem: In each of their previous two tournament matches the Rocks trailed by a goal at halftime.

So it was hardly shocking to see them come out in the secand half with renewed purpose.

Which paid dividends when Mia Sarkesian completed a pressurized situation applied by the Rocks eight minutes into the second half. It started with a Stacy, Delong corner kick that reached Jodi Coyle on the far side of the field. Coyle's shot banged off the crossbar to Lukasik, whose shot was blocked.

The rebound went to Sarkesian, and she knocked it in to tie it at 2-all with 31:34 left.

"Once we got that second goal, I thought (Seaholm) were dying a little bit," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "We were starting to string some passes together."

If the Maples were staggering, they quickly regained their balance. The play - particularly at midfield, where they kept the ball from reaching the Rocks' main threat, Mari Hoff reverted back to Seaholm. "We came in here recognizing they had dual threats -both of those forwards," Hammond said, noting Hoff and Lukasik. But he also noted: "We send 11 people at them? attacking - not just two.

"Part of our strategy is denying the pass to (Hoff). You shut down the distribution; that's the key in shutting down a player like her."

The ultimate game-winning goal came with 18:54 remaining. A shot by Monica Kaltreider was blocked by Buczek, but she couldn't freeze the rebound. When a Salem defender was knocked aside, Michelotti had her chance. She converted, giving the lead back to Seaholm, 3-2.

The clincher came with 7:16 remaining, and again it was the same twosome. Kaltreider crossed the ball in to Michelotti, and she headed it over Buczek as she came out to challenge for the final 4-2 margin.

The difference, according to Hammond, wasn't just Seaholm's superior size and experience (13 seniors to six for Salem): "It's the way we play the ball. We are not a kick-theball-and-run-after-it team.'

Teaching how to play soccer is what Hammond feels is his prime responsibility. "I'm not here just to coach the girls," he said. "I want to teach them the science of soccer."

Freshman battery makes CC's future shine bright

By Steve Kowalski STAFF WRITER

Before Redford Catholic Central's freshman left hander Kevin Thomas could throw a pitch in Tuesday's Class A quarterfinal baseball game, the umpires made him step off the mound and remove a white T-shirt he was wearing beneath his blue jersey.

Thomas won't win any bodybuilding contests, but his fastball sure made an impression on Plymouth Salem.

Thomas allowed no hits in two innings of relief as the Shamrocks held on to defeat the Rocks, 8-3. and advance to the semifinal round of the state tournament.

What made the hard-throwing Thomas tougher to hit was that he was following senior righthander Justin Stankewicz, a sidearmer who relies more on control than speed.

With one out in the sixth, Salem senior shortstop Bill Styles reached first base against Thomas on an error, but Thomas got the next two batters to pop out.

Jeff Mackiewicz walked with one out in the seventh and advanced to second on a ground out by Ryan Rumberger, but Thomas caught senior Mike Brannan looking at a called third strike to end the game.

Thomas, who also delivered a key three-run triple up the rightcenter field gap in a five-run fourth inning, seemed more in awe of being interviewed after the game than the pressure he faced during the game.

This is neat," he said, watching a reporter scribble his answers on a note pad.

The Shamrocks have another freshman, catcher Dave Viane, at the other end of their battery.

Viane, who played most of the season on the Shamrocks' junior varsity, contributed to two of the Shamrocks' runs. He laid down a sacrifice bunt that led to the first CC run by Mike Homant in the third inning, and delivered an RBI single with no outs in a five-run fourth inning.

Salter said.

Juniors to battle

Salter said he plans on using junior right-hander Chris Karney. in Priday's semifinal game against Rochester Adams. The Highlanders are expected to send their ace, junior right-hander Chris Wasen, to the mound. Wasen wasn't used in Tuesday's 4-2 quarterfinal victory over Warren Mott.

Thomas would be available for long relief and could probably start after pitching just two innings against Salem.

Salter said Karney was unavailable to pitch Tuesday after throwing seven innings in a 9-2 regional victory Saturday against Southgate Anderson.

'Karney's arm was sore and it takes a longer time to recover," Salter said.

Bottom's up

The bottom four batters in CC's order, Jason Couture, Thomas, Homant and Viane, drove in a combined six runs.

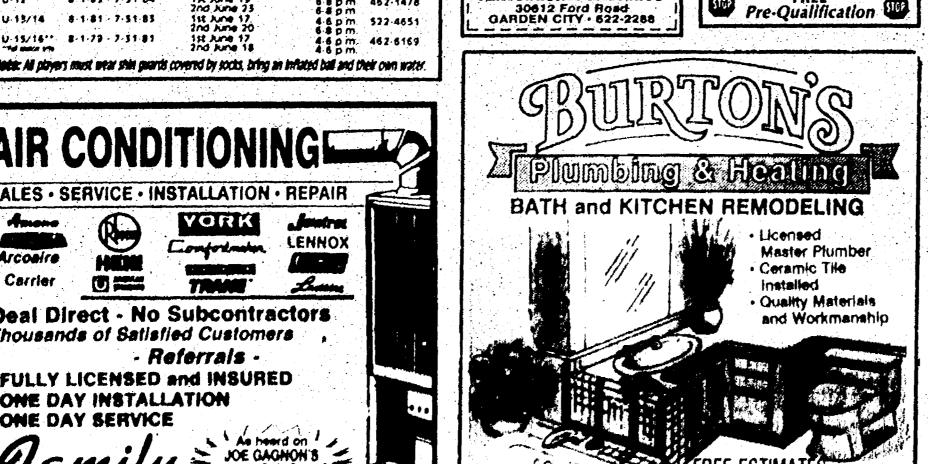

Couture gave the Shamrocks some insurance with a two-run double in the bottom of the sixth. Homant reached base each of his three trips to the plate on two walks and a single. He scored after each of his walks.

Finally, a test

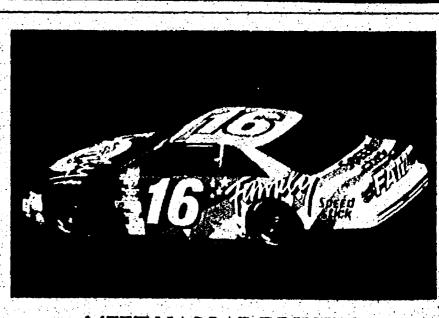

The 10 hits Salem collected in five innings against Stankewicz were more than the senior righthander allowed combined in two earlier state-tournament starts against Detroit Cody and Southwestern.

Stankewicz, who improved to 8-4, knew the Rocks would be a challenge.

"I had to be ready for them, they were good hitters, one through nine," Stankewicz said. "I was throwing as hard as I can and they were hitting it.'

The Hornets are now 3-2 over-

On Saturday, the Hornets stung the Spitfires in a battle of Livonia-based teams, 7-6, in eight innings at Ford Field.

Eric Yuhasz had an RBI triple in a three-run seventh inning that forced extra innings.

He had a single with two outs in the eighth inning to score Mike Anderson with the winning run. Anderson started the inning with a single.

Ed Szumlanski led the Hornets' 11-hit attack with three hits in three official at-bats.

Yuhasz and Mark Dietrich added two hits each.

Chris Colley earned the pitching victory with four innings of relief. He allowed four runs on four hits. Todd Wilson pitched the first four innings, allowing two runs on three hits.

Ron Maleyko led the Spitfires with a triple and double.

The Hornets are sponsored by Alex Aloe of Realty Professionals in Parmington.

Back-to-school day for turkey hunter

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

It was a clear cut case of the student teaching the teacher.

Will Walker, a 14 year old Bloomfield Hills resident, applied for his first tur key permit this spring on the buddy system with his father Bill. An accomplished hunter and angler. Hill had hopes of spending some time afield showing his son the tricks of the trade. After hooking up with their friend, Keith Huff, the trio head ed into the turkey woods near Gaylord.

On the first morning of their hunt, Huff called a Jake in and Will made the most of his first opportunity and filled his permit. With a calm, steady aim Will dropped the Jake with a 40-yard shot from his Youth Model Remington 1100/20 GA.

The following day, Huff worked another Jake into range, but Bill's shot, "which was actually closer then Willie's" sailed high and the startled turkey trotted off unscathed.

Maybe next year, with a little coaxing, of course, young Will can take Bill along with him and

Walled Lake's Chuck Baughman wasted little time taking advantage of some early season bass fishing success. Teamed with Jerry Doucette of Waterford, the two fished their way to the champion. ship of the Oakland Bass Masters 1995 Pontiac Open, May 28th on Pontiac Lake.

Using deep-water presentations of Pig-N-Jigs and soft plastic worms the duo weighed in an eight-fish creel that tipped the scale at 25.04 pounds. There were 50 boats entered in the tournament and the Baughman/-Doucette team won by better than 12 pounds. Second place went to Pat Robbins, of Waterford, and Marty Frey, of Tecumseh, for eight fish weighing 13.02 pounds.

Rochester's Robert Baumann and Clarkston's Lance Lester placed third with five fish weighing 11.82 pounds. They were followed by John Pearce (Bloomfield Hills) and Mike Grant (Royal Oak) with three fish weighing 8.34 pounds, Randy McKinley (Southfield) and John Laskowski (Farmington) with four fish weighing 8.14 pounds; Don Aubry (White Lake) and Ron Dautremont (Clarkston) with four fish weigh(Clarkston) and Tony Nordman (Waterford) with four fish weighing 6.75 pounds; Leo Favaro (Redford) and Louis Favaro (Redford) with three fish weighing 6.47 pounds; and John Sparkman (Livonia) and Dave Green (Detroit) with three fish weighing 6.47 pounds.

Oakland Bass Masters will hold an open tournament on Sunday, July 25th, beginning at 6 a.m. on Lake St. Clair. For more information or to register call Roy Randolph (810) 542-5254.

Fishing clinics offered

With over 11,000 inland lakes, 36,350 miles of rivers and streams and better than 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline, Michigan offers anglers a vast array of fishing opportunities. Those interested in learning more about the sport can get all the latest information at a summer long series of DNR-sponsored "Take A Friend Fishing" clinics. The clinics include weekday and weekend sessions at several state parks across southern Michigan.

Weekday clinics started this week and run through Aug. 18. Weekday sessions begin at 6:30 p.m. each day. Weekday clinics will be held Mondays at Maybury State Park in Northville, (810) 349-8390; Tuesdays at Pontiac Lake Recreation Area in Waterford. (810) 666-1020; Wednesdays at Island Lake Recreation Area in Brighton, (810) 229-7067; Thursdays at Seven Lakes State Park in Fenton, (810) 634-7271; and Fridays at Proud Lake Recreation Area in Milford, (810) 685-2433.

The DNR is also offering eight weekend long fishing clinics, which will include advanced instruction and hands on experience. The weekend clinics will begin Fridays at 8 p.m. and end Sundays at noon. The closest weekend clinic to the O&E area is scheduled for July 28-30 at Seven Lakes State Park in Fenton, (810) 634-8811. For a complete list of upcoming clinics contact the DNR's Livonia office at (313) 953-0241.

Anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-

Finesse wins slow-pitch tournament

Coming off their ninth place finish of a year ago in the nationals. Pinesse, a 16-and-under girls slow-pitch softball team, opened its 1995 season by capturing the USSSA qualifier at Holden Park in Milford.

Finesse finished tourney play with a 3.0 record. It defeated Sterling Heights (13-0) and Michigan Sports of St. Clair Shores twice (13-3 and 16-0) - all mercy-rule victories.

Stephanie Volpe (Plymouth Salem) led Finesse in hitting with a

.778 average (seven for nine) with three triples, seven RBI and seven runs scored.

Jackie Bayliss (Westland John Glenn) hit .600 with two homers, a triple and six RBI.

Other contributions came from Bill Jo Cavalarro (Walled Lake Western), 625 average with one homer; Randi Wolfe (John Glenn), .625; Jenny Trott (Salem), .600; Cassie Entsminger (Ladywood), Kristy McDonald (Redford Thurston) and Jenny Kruzel (Ypsilanti), .400 each; Marci DuPont (Plymouth Canton), 333; and Megan Brady (John Glenn), two RBI and two runs scored.

Winning pitcher Kristen Zabalavicious of East Detroit allowed just 14 hits, one walk and three runs in 15 innings. Pinesse is 4-0 overall and will be adding three Garden City players this week to its roster -Melissa Bako, Jenny Bauer and Jenny Woody.

COACH OF THE YEAR

school discus record (after Gordon broke it first) and established a personal best of Nkechi Okwumabua, Canton, long jump: Just a freshman, Okwumabua "had a tremendous first year," coach George Przygodski said. "She became a long jumper in midseason. She has become a perfectionist in this event and has worked hard to improve her technique. Nkechi is exceptionally strong and an outstanding sprinter.

'Nkechl is also a perfectionist in the classroom. This year she had maintained A A O GPA "

Okwumabua's best long jump was a school record 17-2, which qualified her for the state meet. She was the Western Lakes Activities Association and regional champion, and she also ran a state-meet qualifying 12.7 in the 100.

Andrea Salyer, Farmington, high jump: Salyer finished third in the state meet with jump of 5-5, an inch off her school record. She won the Oakland County and regional championships and will attend Central Michigan on a track scholarship.

"I was really impressed with her focus and dedication this year," coach Bruce Brown sald. "When she gets into a good college program with weight conditioning, she has the potential to be a 6-foot high iumper. She has excellent form and just needs to get stronger."

Amy Buhl, Mercy, 100 hurdles: The Oakland County, Catholic League and regional champion lowered her time by .35 to 15.5; Her goal next year is the school record of 15.2, and she's also looking to break 50.0 in the 300 hurdles. Her 1971/2 points is second only to Eileen O'Connell's school-record 199. Buhl was named Mercy's most valuable runner. She is also an excellent high jumper.

"She worked real hard and is looking forward to bigger and better things," coach Gary Servals said. "She has a real good shot at both (hurdle records). She's talking about running cross country, and that will help her strength and speed quite a bit."

Jeannette Stojcevski, Stevenson, 300 hurdles: This excellent lunior was undefeated in dual meets this season. won the WLAA and regional titles and finished seventh in the state finals. She set a school record of 46.0.

"Jeannette was our most versatile athlete," coach Paul Holmberg said. "She is capable of running everything from the 100 on up and competed in nine different events this year. She has a great desire to improve and is willing to do the work required."

Lindsay Soter, Ladywood, 100 dash: Another Junior, Soter had a best time of 12.5, finishing third in the regional and making the semilinals at the state meet.

"Lindsay has been an enthusiastic and valued performer for the last three years at Ladywood," coach Bob O'Brien said. "She has worked very hard to get where she is and has become a consistent winner in individual and relay events,"

Devron Kennedy, Harrison, 200 dash: The sophomore star tied her own school and WLAA record of 25.8, and she was second in the Oakland County champion-

Pinzi also surpassed the previous cock said, "She had a slow start this year but really came on strong later in the year. She is developing a strong work ethic and should continue to excel."

> Oilys Ikeh, Canton, 400 dash: Ikeh's 59.4 fled the Canton record. She won the WLAA meet and anchored conference champion 800 and 1,600 relay teams. The 1,600 relay set a school record (4:04.2) was fifth in the state, and Ikeh was ninth at 400 meters.

She will compete at the University of Michigan next season.

Olive is one of the most versatile athletes I have coached. She competed in nine different events," Przygodski said. "This year Olive moved up from primarily a 100 and 200 runner to the 400. With her strength and speed, she enjoyed great success at that distance."

Sarah Hamilton, Salem, 800 run: She had the best area time at 2:18.6. She won the WLAA and regional, and she finished fourth in the state. The leading point scorer in Salem history, Hamilton will attend the University of Michigan and run track.

"Hard work, dedication and commitment have led Sarah to steady improvement throughout her high school career," Salem coach Mark Gregor sald. "Her accomplishments in four years at Salem are astounding."

Kelly Travis, Stevenson, 1,600 run: This freshman was undefeated in dual meets, captured the WLAA championship at 1,600 meters and was second at 800. Her time of 5:14.9 placed her second in the regional, and she finished 10th in the state. She also was second at 3,200 meters in the regional and was seventh in the state.

"Kelly has established herself as one of the best distance runners in the state," Holmberg said. "She is a flery competitor who will write new records at

Kelly McNellance, Stevenson, 3,200 run: The other of Holmberg's two stellar freshman Kelly girls, McNellance was also undefeated in dual meets, took the WLAA title for 3,200 meters and was third at 1,600. She placed ninth in the state finals and set a personal best of 11:36.3 while finishing fourth in the regional.

"Kelly had a great first year, but her best times are still ahead of her." Holmberg said. "She works hard and has a winning attitude."

Elleen O'Connell, Mercy, at-large: O'Connell was such an outstanding middie- and long-distance runner for four years that area coaches made her an atlarge selection despite a season-ending injury.

The senior didn't run the last month of the season because of a hip stress fracture, which caused her to miss the Catholic League, regional and state meets. She still had some of the fastest times in the 800 (2:18.8), 1,600 (5:12.4) and 3,200

"She's still the best runner I've ever Monique Anderson, Erika Greene, Krista Snow): The WLAA champions set a school record of 50.2. They were runnersup in the Oakland County championships and regional, and they placed sixth in the state finals.

"This is the finest relay we've ever had," Babcock said. "All-Area was one of their goals this year. They worked very hard and deserve recognition."

800 relay, Ladywood (Lindsay Soter, Kara McDonald, Shannon Swish, Nicole Clausen): Their best time of 1:46.0 removed a record which had stood since 1978, The CHSL and Operation Friendship champions finished second at the regional and sixth in the state. Clausen is 'This group has worked hard together for two years and just exploded at regionals this year, running four seconds faster than they ever had to set the school record," O'Brien said. "With two juniors and a sophomore, this group has a promising future. Nicole will be sorely missed, but this team will be there next year."

1,600 relay, Salem (Marcia Parker, Courtney Sheldon, Katle Bonner, Sarah Hamilton): Three seniors and freshman Bonner were fourth-place finishers in the state, third in the regional and second in the WLAA. Their best time of 4:03.2 was second in Salem history.

Sarah. Marcia and Courtney are three of the top four point scorers in school history, and they certainly showed Katie what being competitive at the state level is all about," Gregor said. "Katie has three more years to help lead Salem to similar heights."

Back-to-school day for turkey hunter

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

It was a clear cut case of the student teaching the teacher.

Will Walker, a 4 - year old Bloomfield Hills resident, applied for his first tur key permit this spring on the buddy system with his father

Bill. An accomplished hunter and angler, Bill had hopes of spending some time afield show ing his son the tricks of the trade.

After hooking up with their friend, Keith Huff, the trìo headed into the turkey woods near Gaylord

On the first morning of their hunt, Huff called a Jake in and Will made the most of his first opportunity and filled his permit. With a calm, steady aim Will dropped the Jake with a 40-yard shot from his Youth Model Remington 1100 20 GA

The following day, Huff worked another Jake into range, but Bill's: shot, which was actually closer then Willie's" sailed high and the startled turkey trotted off unscathed.

Maybe next year, with a little coaxing, of course, young Will can take Bill along with him and

. Walled Lake's Chuck Baughman wasted little time taking advantage of some early-season bass fishing success. Teamed with Jerry Doucette of Waterford, the two fished their way to the championship of the Oakland Bass Masters. 1995 Pontiac Open, May 28th on Pontiac Lake.

Using deep-water presentations of Pig-N-Jigs and soft plastic worms the duo weighed in an eight-fish creel that tipped the scale at 25.04 pounds. There were 50 boats entered in the tourna ment and the Baughman/ Doucette team won by better than 12 pounds. Second place went to Pat Robbins, of Waterford, and Marty Frey, of Tecumseh, for eight fish weighing 13.02 pounds.

Rochester's Robert Baumann and Clarkston's Lance Lester placed third with five fish weighing 11.82 pounds. They were followed by John Pearce (Bloomfield Hills), and Mike Grant (Royal Oak) with three fish weighing 8.34 pounds; Randy McKinley (Southfield) and John Laskowski (Farmington) with four fish weighing 8.14 pounds; Don Aubry (White Lake) and Ron Dautremont (Clarkston) with four fish weigh(Clarkston) and Tony Nordman (Waterford) with four fish weighing 6.75 pounds; Leo Favaro (Redford) and Louis Favaro (Redford) with three fish weighing 6.47 pounds; and John Sparkman (Livonia) and Dave Green (Detroit) with three fish weighing 6.47 pounds.

Oakland Bass Masters will hold an open tournament on Sunday, July 25th, beginning at 6 a.m. on Lake St. Clair. For more information or to register call Roy Randolph (810) 542-5254.

Fishing clinics offered With over 11,000 inland lakes, 36,350 miles of rivers and streams and better than 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline, Michigan offers anglers a vast array of fishing opportunities. Those interested in learning more about the sport can get all the latest information at a summer-long series of DNR-sponsored Take A Friend Fishing" clinics. The clinics include weekday and weekend sessions at several state parks across southern Michigan. Weekday clinics started this week and run through Aug. 18. Weekday sessions begin at 6:30 p.m. each day. Weekday clinics will be held Mondays at Maybury State Park in Northville, (810) 349-8390; Tuesdays at Pontiac Lake Recreation Area in Waterford, (810) 666-1020; Wednesdays at Island Lake Recreation Area in Brighton, (810) 229-7067; Thursdays at Seven Lakes State Park in Fenton, (810) 634-7271; and Fridays at Proud Lake Recreation Area in Milford, (810) 685-2433.

The DNR is also offering eight weekend-long fishing clinics, which will include advanced instruction and hands on experience. The weekend clinics will begin Fridays at 8 p.m. and end Sundays at noon. The closest weekend clinic to the O&E area is scheduled for July 28-30 at Seven Lakes State Park in Fenton, (810) 634-8811. For a complete list of upcoming clinics contact the DNR's Livonia office at (313) 953-0241.

Anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-

COACH OF THE YEAR

Bob O'Brien Livonia Ladywood

Pinzi also surpassed the previous school discus record (after Gordon broke it first) and established a personal best of Nkechi Okwamabua, Canton, long jump: Just a freshman, Okwumabua "had a tremendous first year," coach George Przygodski said. "She became a long jumper in midseason. She has become a perfectionist in this event and has worked hard to improve her technique. Nkechi is exceptionally strong and an outstanding sprinter.

"Nkechi is also a perfectionist in the classroom. This year she had maintained 8 4.0 GPA."

Okwumabua's best long jump was a school record 17-2, which qualified her for the state meet. She was the Western Lakes Activities Association and regional champion, and she also ran a state-meet qualifying 12.7 in the 100.

Andrea Salyer, Farmington, high jump: Salver finished third in the state meet with jump of 5-5, an inch off her school record. She won the Oakland County and regional championships and will attend Central Michigan on a track scholarship.

"I was really impressed with her focus and dedication this year," coach Bruce Brown said. "When she gets into a good college program with weight conditioning, she has the potential to be a 6-foot high jumper. She has excellent form and just needs to get stronger."

Amy Buhl, Mercy, 100 hurdles: The Oakland County, Catholic League and regional champion lowered her time by .35 to 15.5; Her goal next year is the school record of 15.2, and she's also looking to break 50.0 in the 300 hurdles. Her 1971/2 points is second only to Eileen O'Connell's school-record 199. Buhl was named Mercy's most valuable runner. She is also an excellent high jumper.

"She worked real hard and is looking forward to bigger and better things, coach Gary Servals said. "She has a real good shot at both (hurdle records). She's talking about running cross country, and that will help her strength and speed

Jeannette Stojcevski, Stevenson, 300 hurdies: This excellent junior was undefeated in dual meets this season. won the WLAA and regional titles and finished seventh in the state finals. She set a school record of 46.0.

'Jeannette was our most versatile athlete," coach Paul Holmberg said. "She is capable of running everything from the 100 on up and competed in nine different events this year. She has a great desire to improve and is willing to do the work required."

Lindsay Soter, Ladywood, 100 dash: Another junior, Soter had a best time of 12.5. finishing third in the regional and making the semifinals at the state meet.

"Lindsay has been an enthusiastic and valued performer for the last three years at Ladywood," coach Bob O'Brien said. "She has worked very hard to get where she is and has become a consistent winner in individual and relay events."

Devron Kennedy, Harrison, 200 dash: The sophomore star tied her own school and WLAA record of 25.8, and she was second in the Oakland County champion-

"Devron is very talented and learning to set goals for herself," coach Mark Babcock said. "She had a slow start this year but really came on strong later in the year. She is developing a strong work ethic and should continue to excel."

> Olive ikeh, Canton, 400 dashi ikeh's 59.4 tied the Canton record. She won the WLAA meet and anchored conference champion 800 and 1,600 relay teams. The 1,600 relay set a school record (4:04.2) was fifth in the state, and lkeh was ninth at 400 meters.

She will compete at the University of Michigan next season.

Olive is one of the most versatile athletes I have coached. She competed in nine different events," Przygodski said. "This year Olive moved up from primarily a 100 and 200 runner to the 400. With her strength and speed, she enjoyed great success at that distance."

Sarah Hamilton, Salem, 800 run: She had the best area time at 2:18.6. She won the WLAA and regional, and she finished fourth in the state. The leading point scorer in Salem history, Hamilton will attend the University of Michigan and run track.

'Hard work, dedication and commitment have led Sarah to steady improvement throughout her high school career," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "Her accomplishments in four years at Salem are astounding."

Kelly Travis, Stevenson, 1,600 run: This freshman was undefeated in dual meets, captured the WLAA championship at 1,600 meters and was second at 800. Her time of 5:14.9 placed her second in the regional, and she finished 10th in the state. She also was second at 3,200 meters in the regional and was seventh in the state.

"Kelly has established herself as one of the best distance runners in the state," Holmberg said. "She is a flery competitor who will write new records at Stevenson.

Kelly McNellance, Stevenson, 3,200 run: The other of Holmberg's two stellar freshman Kelly girls, McNellance was also undefeated in dual meets, took the WLAA title for 3,200 meters and was third at 1,600. She placed ninth in the state finals and set a personal best of 11:36.3

while finishing fourth in the regional. Kelly had a great first year, but her best times are still ahead of her," Holmberg said. "She works hard and has a winning attitude."

Elleen O'Connell, Mercy, at-large: O'Connell was such an outstanding middie and long-distance runner for four years that area coaches made her an atlarge selection despite a season-ending injury. The senior didn't run the last month of the season because of a hip stress fracture, which caused her to miss the Catholic League, regional and state meets. She still had some of the fastest times in the 800 (2:18.8), 1,600 (5:12.4) and 3,200 they will automatically win the game. And then there are those who are convinced that the only way to come out ahead is to become a trader and be constantly. in and out of the market. Perhaps that's part of the reason why more than 300 million shares change hands on the New York Stock Exchange on an average day and the volume reaches the 400 million mark on a busy day.

Some investment myths never die

while others believe that if they stick it out long enough, then

While there are many aspects of the stock market that are fascinating, the most intriguing aspect is that there are many market myths that never seem to die. Today we will explore three such myths.

Myth No. 1: A flat market is to be avoided at all costs.

Historically, the stock market has always moved higher sooner or later. This can be easily seen from historical charts that cover the period 1926 to 1994. In fact, in the long run, common stocks outperform all other types of investments, including bonds, real estate and treasury bills.

Within this 68-year-long period, however, there are declines and periods of little change. That does not mean, however, that investors couldn't have made money during these periods. In fact, with proper management, investors can make money in these periods of a dull market. Here is the proof.

On Nov. 14, 1972, the Dow Jones (DJIA) closed at 1,003. A decade later on Oct. 12, 1982, it closed at 1,004. In between, it went up and down a lot, but at the end of 10 years, the index was unchanged (see Figure 1).

That's not to say that investors wouldn't have made some money during this period. For instance, $10,000 invested in Dow Jones stocks, with reinvestment of dividends, would have grown to $16,965 - an increase of 70 percent, During the same period, a portfolio managed by ABC mutual fund (name changed of a real life fund) would have grown to

Study: Employers here tops at cost control

Michigan's unemployment tax system continues to be one of the best in the country in terms of giving employers greater control over their unemployment tax

"A newly released federal study of state unemployment insurance tax systems reports that Michigan's system is among the top five experience rated programs in the country," said F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

"This is good news for employers because it means they can directly control their unemployment costs by controlling their layoffs," he explained. "If an employer has a history of few layoffs, then that firm is likely to have a low unemployment tax rate, conversely, more layoffs mean a higher tax rate.'

The study showed that Michigan's Experience Rating Index (ERI) for rate year 1994 improved by nine percentage points, climbing to 77 percent from 68 percent in 1993. The improvement moved Michigan into fourth place, tying the state with New Hampshire and Virginia. New York had the highest rating at 84 percent followed by Delaware (83 percent) and Arizona (81 percent). North Carolina had the most socialized cost system at 31 percent.

The index is based on a oneyear record. Consequently, it can fluctuate from year to year because of law changes and economic shifts. Edwards said that Michigan's 1994 rating shows that 77 percent of all jobless benefits were charged directly to employers who had layoffs.

"Our high index rating means that stable employers - those with few layoffs - are more likely to have a lower unemployment tax rate in Michigan than in most other states," Edwards said. "In fact, about 48,708 employers, which is more than 25 percent of all Michigan employers who pay unemployment taxes, have a tax rate of 1.0 percent or lower.'

State unemployment taxes in Michigan range from 0.5 to 10.0 percent. They are paid on the first $9,500 of an employee's earnings. In calendar year 1994, the average tax rate in the state was 4.5 percent. Employers can obtain a copy of the federal report by calling MESC's Customer Relations office at 800-638-3994.

Myths Myth No. 2: Timing the market is extremely important.

> The market timer devotes much time and energy to watching the market, trying to determine the "best" time to buy and sell investments. The long-term investor holds on to investments even when their values move up and down.

Most people believe that the market timer is the smarter investor, when it is, in fact, the "buyand-hold" investor who is the smarter one.

Let's take a look at Figure 2, which shows the results of these two market strategies over a 19year period (December 1974 to December 1993). In this chart, the market timer is credited with having 20/20 vision. That is, this investor is assumed to have timed the market perfectly and invested $1,000 at the market's lowest point each year during the period December 1974 through December 1993. In contrast, the buyand-hold individual invested $20,000 at the beginning of the period and held on to it for 19 years through the market's ups and downs. The result is phenomenal: The buy and hold investor comfortably won the race. And even when the $20,000 initial investment is adjusted downward, its "present value" level, the outcome remains virtually unchanged.

Myth No. 8: Investment In high-grade bonds and bond funda is perfectly safe.

The third myth, widely believed by the so-called conservative investors, stems from the naive assumption that high-grade bonds are exposed to only the default risk. However, the truth of the matter is that bonds and bond funds are subject to a much greater risk known as the interest-rate risk. Failure to recognize this risk can spell disaster.

When buying and selling bonds and bond funds, investors often fall right into the path of what has been called the "whipsaw," which literally means a saw that cuts both ways. As investors, we should always try to buy our investments at the lowest price possible. And yet, many bond investors end up doing just the opposite. Failure to understand the interest-rate risk forces them to buy bonds when prices are high, sell when prices are low, and lose both wavs.

This practice is clearly demonstrated in Figure 3. Historically, investors have tended to buy bond mutual funds (bars above the "zero" line) when interest rates, as measured by the longterm treasury bond, were declining. These investors were, in fact, buying at the highest prices.

But the story does not end there. Investors, who sold their bond mutual fund shares (bars below "zero" line) when interest rates were rising, got the lowest return on their investments; that is, they were cut by the whipsaw.

So, it is important for bond investors to recognize that the best time to buy bond investments is when interest rates are high, and the best time to sell bonds is when the interest rates

Index shows area economy gains

The Detroit Area Business Activity Index compiled by Comerica Bank surged nine points in May to a level of 165, compared with an upward-revised reading of 156 in April:

May's economic gain pushed the index back to the strong levels experienced in February and

Year to date, for the first time this year Detroit's economy is operating at a higher rate than the prior year, said David L. Littmann, senior economist for Comerica Bank in Detroit.

For the first five months of the year, the metro area economy is up 0.8 percent after inflation. Production of steel and motor vehicles moved higher in May, along with the volume of financial activity, Littmann said.

Comerica Bank compiles the Detroit Area Business Activity Index monthly from eight measures of regional activity which are seasonally adjusted, corrected for inflation, and expressed as an index with 1982 as base year equal to 100.

The Economics Department of Comerica Bank has calculated the index monthly since 1957, depicting metropolitan Detroit's economy over seven full swings of the U.S. business cycle.

used to be that prospective buyers obtained brief descriptions and maybe black-and-white exterior photographs of houses for sale from a thick multi-list book. Those books are still available. But Real-Comp II offers an on-line computer multi-listing service with colorized photo capabilities and up-to-theminute information on availability that has become the tool of choice for many agents.

The service, based in Farmington Hills, is owned by eight realty boards including Western Wayne/Oakland County, Birmingham/Bloomfield/ Rochester/South Oakland and North

Computer access is updated constantly," said Karen Kage, MLS director for RealComp II. "Information in books by the time they come out is five days old. The market now is moving very quickly.

While many larger real estate firms are part of their own national networks with computer databases, RealComp II's MLS is a detailed regional compilation of houses and condos solely in the Michigan market. Computers can compile, organise

"I can be very selective," said Jerry McKeon, general manager and broker at Hall & Hunter in Bloomfield Township. "I can request houses that have basements, garages, Birmingham schools. It only brings up the things I

Computer multi-listing services save everyone time, a precious commodity for buyers, sellers and agents who are increasingly busy.

"It's very user friendly and gives a lot of information," said Sue Thorn, an associate broker with Century 21 East in Rochester Hills, "It's more current. In today's market, the (MLS) book is almost obsolete by the time you get it."

allows us to provide the most comprehensive and detailed information to our clients.

"The more they know, the better informed and more comfortable they are in making sound real estate decisions," Berry said.

Computers have it over books in another big way, McKeon noted.

"You can put prospects in computers, how many bedrooms they want, the area, price range. As information becomes available, it automatically alerts you there's a home there and it alerts other agents you're looking for a home like that," he said.

Thorn also noted another advantage to technology. "It's easier to misplace." a book than a computer," she said.

*Early on, when computers were available, I think there was a lot of insecurity," McKeon said. "As new agents come on who are more computer literate, more familiar with computers, there's more acceptance."

regarding the deductibility of "points." Do you have any infor-... mation about that? A. If you bought a personal residence after Dec. 31, 1990, you may be entitled to a tax refund. On March 28, 1994, the Internal Revenue Service issued Revenue Procedure 94-21, which changes its position on "seller" paid" points. Prior to that time, if the seller paid mortgage points on behalf of the buyer, the buyer was tion that says that cities and towns cannot impose "unreasonable limitations" on satellite dishes. In addition, the FCC regulation is enforceable under Section 1983, which means that a homeowner who is ordered to remove his dish antenna may be entitled to damages and attorney fees because, since the FCC regulation was intended to benefit homeowners, it created a binding obligation on cities and towns and is sufficiently specific to be within the competence of the judiciary to enforce. Your municipality ought to get a legal opinion before passing such an ordinance.

Remodeling makes sense to more and more people

Rising interest rates are causing many people to remodel their houses rather than buy new ones. But, before you make any home improvements, do your homework. The Michigan Association of CPAs points out that some improvements enable you to increase the resale value of your master bedroom suite or a bathhouse, as well as save you tax dollars.

Kitchen fix-ups, the most common remodeling project among homeowners, typically yield the highest return when a house is resold. Adding a family room, a room also has a high resale value. Another renovation that increases marketability in today's market is a sun room. When making renovations, keep energy efficiency in mind. For example, replacing your furnace or adding new double-paned windows may help you reduce heating bills. What's more, to help you make such improvements, utility companies may offer you a low-interest loan or a cash rebate.

Also, keep in mind that it may not pay to expand your house beyond the norms of your neighborhood. For instance, you may not be able to recover the cost of adding a large grandparent or babysitter suite, equipped with its own kitchen, bath and separate entrance, in a neighborhood of small houses. Similarly, typical house buyers may not be willing to pay extra for improvements such as pools, tennis courts or elaborate landscaping.

When you sell your house, you generally have to pay a tax on any profit - that is, the difference be-price (selling price less broker and legal fees, etc.) and its adjusted basis. To determine your house's adjusted basis, add the cost of any home improvements to the amount you originally paid for the house. Adding the cost of improvements to your house's basis means that every dollar you spend to improve your house could shave a dollar off your future taxable gain. That's because the greater your basis, the lower your profit - and the less taxes you

For tax purposes, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) distinguishes between improvements and repairs. Expenditures qualify as improvements only if they add to the value of your house, considerably prolong its life or adapt it to a new use.

Examples of improvements include converting an attic into living space, installing central air conditioning, adding another bathroom or bedroom, putting in new plumbing or wiring or paving tween your house's net selling ing fixtures, skylights, new trees or shrubs, termite proofing and waterproofing also qualify as improvements. One test to determine if a renovation qualifies as an improvement is whether it is permanent. For example, you can add to your basis the cost of builtin bookcases or wall-to-wall carpeting, while the cost of a freestanding bookcase or a room-size rug doesn't qualify.

> According to the IRS, repairs differ from improvements in that repairs merely maintain your property in or restore your property to good working condition. For example, fixing a loaky roof is considered a repair. However, installing a new roof is considered an improvement. Thus, basic repairs and maintenance, such as the cost of painting or repairing gutters generally offer no tax benefit since they cannot be added to the basis of your house.

How you pay for home improvements also can affect your tax bill. Your best strategy (depending on available interest rates) is a driveway. Storm windows, light- to avoid paying interest charges

In addition, these types of loans offer a tax break because the interest usually is deductible (some restrictions apply to certain high-income individuals). Keep in mind that using your house as collateral has serious implications, so borrow only an amount you are confident you

In response to a variety of concems, house builders also will change some of the materials and methods that they use to construct houses. Higher lumber prices will speed the adoption of wood substitutes including engineered wood products, steel and masonry. Furthermore, worker safety and environmental concems will result in the expanded use of safer construction products such as roofing systems that don't require hot tar. And shortages of skilled workers will encourage the use of products such as wall panel systems that reduce the need for skilled labor.

Window manufacturers will use energy-efficiency labels that will allow builders to better compare different products.

Builders will intensify their efforts to build in an environmentally sensitive manner.

■ The share of builders who use complete factory-built systems will remain small, but the use of factory-built components such as wall panels and roof trusses will increase.

mortgage lender is probably the least, enjoyable part of the home buying process. Therefore most people rush through this stage and end up selecting a lender based solely on the fact that the lender has the lowest interest rate and closing cost of all the lenders they have time to compare (or had the patience to compare). But is that really all that matters? Have you found out later on that you wished you had shopped a little smarter when you selected your lender?

Most homebuyers do not think about some of the important points to consider when comparing one lender with another. Besides trying to obtain the lowest rate and closing cost possible (if you do not lock the rate in the day you compare lenders, you may not

Master suite in this house plan isolated from day-to-day living

If the privacy of a well-isolated master suite is important to you, consider the Kearney. The master suite and second bedroom couldn't be much farther apart. For the couple with an older child still at home, or empty nesters who need a spare room for guests, this arrangement is beneficial.

Luxuries in the master suite, where a large bay window brings the sunshine inside, include a skylit bathroom with separate toilet and twin basins, a large closet, and private access to a small back patio, where an optional spa can ease away the cares of the day.

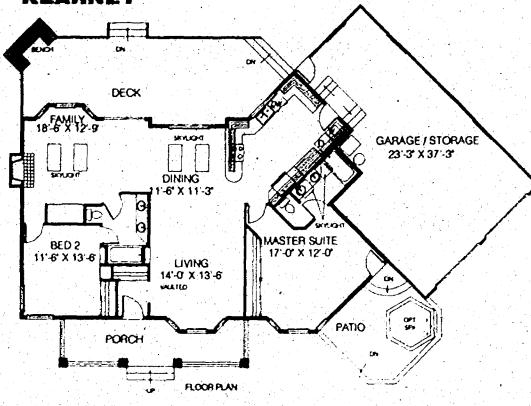

Dining room and family room flow together, with a wide hearth to take away the chill. This bright skylit area, with built-in entertainment center, is a great place for family and friends to gather for hours of fun watching television, listening to music or just enjoying each others company. A full bathroom, with dual access, separates the family room and second bedroom.

The large, vaulted living room has a big bay window looking out over the covered porch to the front yard. This room also flows into the dining area, enhancing the open feeling of the house.

For the cook in the house, the spacious walk-in kitchen is sure to please. Conveniently located for easy serving, the kitchen has all the built-ins plus a pantry and room for a washer and dryer. With direct passage to the two-car garage, groceries can be easily brought inside. Extra room is available in the garage for storage or it can be used as a workshop for the do-it-yourself person that likes to tackle tough projects.

For the lazy days of summer, there is a large back deck. Here friends and relatives can fire up the barbecue and savor each other's company along with the sunshine and food.

The Keamey: Overall dimensions of the Kearney are 77 feet 6 inches by 48 feet 9 inches.

Houses of Country Creek fit Crosswinds mold

By Doug Funke Staff WRITER

Villages of Country Creek in Oakland Township looks a lot like other recent residential projects developed and built by Crosswinds Communities in Westland and Royal Oak.

Houses are fairly close together, yards are relatively small and interiors feature volume ceilings to accentuate living space.

What we've been able to do is rive tremendous value in a firstclass location," said Bernard Glieberman, Crosswinds presi-

This is a better answer than attached condos," he said. "You have the benefits of condos less yard to take care of, a real nice looking community - but yet don't have common walls."

Villages of Country Creek is off Adams Road just north of Silver Bell. About a quarter of the 196 lots at the site are still available.

Glieberman offers four models. They range from a bi-level of 1,444 square feet with three bedrooms and two baths for $139,900 to a 2,250-square-foot colonial with three bedrooms and 214 baths for $159,900.

A ranch and story-and-a-half also are available.

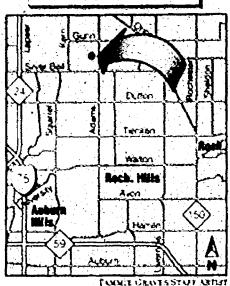

All models include as part of the base price a two-car attachedgarage, basement and dishwasher. All but the bi-level has a firstfloor laundry. Exteriors are brick and vinyl siding with wood trim.

Options include fireplace, air conditioning, skylights and decks/patios. Pinished basements, as reflected in all of the models, also are extra.

Buyers represent an interesting

The majority are either upper end of first-time buyers or you're getting people who are coming from big houses who are buying a house after raising a family,

Villages at Country Creek Rochester Hills

Glieberman said. "It's the person who doesn't need a big house.

"We sell a lot of cubic space. We sell drama. I believe our success is values we give in our homes," he added.

Each of the models offers something different.

The Cambridge, a ranch, showcases a volume ceiling over the dining room, family room and kitchen plus extensive plant shelves.

The Kensington offers a walk up to the main living area and a step down to the lower level at the front entrance. All three bedrooms in the bi-level have sloped ceilings.

The Hampton, a colonial, places the master suite on one ized valuation, half of market valside of the second level, two secondary bedrooms, each with a walk-in closet, on the other side.

The master in the Dorchester provides a separate tub and shower. The master in the other models has only a shower.

Hampton: This model at Villages at Country Creek sets off the master suite on one side of the upper level, secondary bedrooms on the other end.

> The property tax rate currently is $22.39 per $1,000 of state equalue. That means the owners of a $150,000 house in Villages of Country Creek would pay $1,680.

A monthly association fee of $35 covers snow removal on roads and driveways and maintenance of common areas.

Addie Balaban has been the sales rep at Villages of Country Creek since it opened about two years ago.

"Basically, they (visitors) are most impressed with openness and how well space is utilized," she said. "That's what I hear from everybody."

There's a style to suit everyone's needs, Balaban added.

Dale and Wes Griffith, along with kids Rob, Chad and Kim, moved into a Hampton.

"We wanted to live in the Rochester area and this was the sub we could afford, quite honestly," Dale said. "As for the model, there's lots of room, lots of cupboard space. It's quality built. We love it.

Richard and Laura Frost, together with son, Chris, are living in a Dorchester.

"To get in the Rochester schools with new construction in that price range, that's the only one out there," Richard said.

"It's just a tremendous floor plan," he added. "It's kind of an ideal blend between a ranch and a colonial "
