City union gets 5-year contract

They worked for 18 months without a contract, but now some Westland city employees have a landmark, five-year contract. Raises, when compounded during the life of the pact, will approach or surpass the 20-percent mark for some employees.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland union representing 114 hourly city workers has received a five-year contract, unprecedented in length, that will cost $1.8 million, city officials say.

The pact for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 1602 won sweeping approval Monday night from the Westland City Council.

The union, which represents hourly employees such as clerical and public services department workers, had already ratified the contract. The agreement emerged from bargaining sessions that spanned 18 months, personnel director Kent Herbert said.

Wages for the union's highest-earning position, chief building inspector, will increase from $17.73 an hour to $21.17 an hour during the life of the contract, Herbert said in response to questions about the agreement.

Wages for the lowest-paid post, entry level clerk, will rise from $12.93 an hour to $16.15 an hour, he said.

The pact is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1994, but it contains no wage hikes for the first year.

The increases kick in as follows:

- A 5-percent raise was received for 1995, retroactive to Jan. 1. A 20-cent-an-hour increase was added to that as of April 1.
- A 4.5-percent wage hike will go into effect Feb. 1 of 1996.
- Another 4.5-percent increase will be received on March 1 of 1997.
- A 3-percent pay hike will kick in on April 1 of 1998.

AFSCME members had been working without a contract for 1½ years, and bargaining teams on both sides are pleased that an agreement has been reached.

Weddings are her business

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

Kerry Sullivan wants to make sure that local businesses get their share of the $200 million-plus wedding market and that couples planning to marry have enough information to ensure a memorable ceremony and reception.

Her slick-paper "Bride & Groom" annual publication of 50 pages has a circulation of 12,000. Merchants distribute it free to potential customers.

She also plans frequent bridal shows, "one-stop" events at which couples can view floral displays, see wedding photo albums, and taste caterers' food samples to see if they want to retain those businesses later.

Sullivan, 45, admitted that her three-year-old business was more successful at the start than she expected.

"I broke even the first year," she said.

She has been told that it takes five years "before a new business takes off. I guess I'm ahead of schedule."

Sullivan, a former longtime Livonia and Canton Township resident who now works out of her Redford Township home in the W. Chicago-Inkster Road area, has plenty of help from family members in writing and editing the publication, printed every November.

Her mother, Meredith Sullivan, serves as copy editor. Since she lives in Florida, their fax machines are indispensable.

A daughter, Jillian Bogater, city editor for a Hillsdale, Mich., daily newspaper, helps in writing stories.

Play fall soccer

If you want to play fall soccer, now is the time to make plans. Registration continues 6-8 p.m. Wednesday, July 12, and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, July 22. This will be the last open registration.

Register at the Wayne Community Center, 4635 Howe, at the corner of Annapolis. There are leagues for children ranging in age from under 6 (born Aug. 1, 1989, to July 31, 1992) all the way up to age 18. Cost for under 6 to under 8 is $40 and includes a T-shirt. Cost for under 9 and up is $60 and includes the cost of the team uniform. A $10 late fee will be charged for any registration received after the last open registration date. No registrations will be received after Aug. 26. For more information, call the Wayne Westland Soccer League at (313) 458-7786.

PLACES & FACES

College awards

Two Westland residents were among 202 members of the class of 1995 at Kalamazoo College who were awarded bachelor of arts degrees during recent commencement exercises.

Paul Bozyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bozyk and a graduate of Catholic Central High School, majored in biology at Kalamazoo.

Anthony Ryan Prey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Prey and a graduate of John Glenn, majored in human development and social relations with a teaching minor. He did student teaching at Constantine Middle School in Constantine. He was on the dean's list and participated in varsity football. He will attend Michigan State University in January 1996 and study labor and industrial relations.

Dean's list

Julie Hamrick has been named to the dean's list at Albion College for the spring semester. Students named to the dean's list must achieve a grade point average of 3.5 or better. Hamrick graduated in May with a bachelor of arts degree in political science. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holbert Hamrick Jr. of Westland and a graduate of John Glenn High School.

Albion is a private, coeducational liberal arts college located in the south central town of Michigan by the same name.

Bryan is a college student majoring in photography, while Nick is a freshman at Plymouth Salem High School.

Sullivan said that there are some 28,000 marriages in the three-county region a year.

While not all couples have expensive receptions with flowers, liquor, dinner and photos, the average wedding cost of $12,000 to $14,000 would generate more than $200 million if some 18,000 couples spend that.

She said some families experience "sticker shock" when they hear the prices of typical wedding reception services.

In cases where the bride and groom are older than the traditional couple, they pay for their own wedding, Sullivan noted.

Change of heart

She got into the bridal business in a roundabout way, Sullivan said.

Years ago, "I was always fascinated with the field. I thought of opening my own bridal salon."

In the mid-1980s, she worked in a women's clothing business as part of her college marketing studies.

"I then realized I hated retailing."

She eventually got her bachelor's degree in marketing and merchandising nine years ago from Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Over the years, she developed those marketing skills and picked up some desktop publishing experience which proved invaluable when she bought her own computer system in 1991 to produce the Bride & Groom magazine.

Just before graduating from EMU, Sullivan was a marketing assistant for the newly opened Trappers Ally Festival Marketplace in Detroit's Greektown.

A year later, she joined the Muscular Dystrophy Association as district director, a position she held for five years. A year later, she was community development specialist for the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan, based in Ann Arbor.

She said her divorce four years ago led her to realize that she could consider other options which she wouldn't have thought of within marriage.

Sullivan stressed that she didn't just move into the bridal field without any thought or background.

"It was a field I knew, understood and had a passion for," she said.

Over the years working for other agencies, "I realized that I had planning, organizational and marketing skills, and that was what I was good at. I was also good in layout and design."

It was that latter skill that helped with the Bride & Groom annual publication.

At the start of her new career, Sullivan admitted to being a poor typist and didn't know how to use a computer or keyboard.

"But I set my mind to it" and finished her first publication in the three-month deadline.

"My daughter did a lot of the writing and editing while I focused on sales of ads, layout and design."

Her sales period is from May to September, with the publication distributed in November. The rest of the year is arranging bridal shows, held nearly every month.

Sullivan, who focuses her business on Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, plans soon to expand into Washtenaw and St. Clair counties.

Being in the bridal field leads to some interesting personal and family dynamics, Sullivan said.

Her daughter has changed her own wedding date three times, with the latest date being next March 16.

"Maybe I can find a man so I can plan my own wedding," she joked.

Winter elected school board president

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

The new Wayne-Westland school board president is warning that, despite voter approval of two tax proposals in June, the district will continue to face financial hardships.

"We are hurting," Francis "Bud" Winter said, after being elected by his colleagues Monday to a one-year term as board president. "We are going to continue to hurt."

Although the board ended the last fiscal year on June 30 with a $2 million deficit, officials have projected a surplus of $448,696 by next June 30. Still, board members remain guarded because of possible unforeseen pitfalls, and they have pledged to spend wisely.

As board president, Winter said, "I want to prioritize in terms of what's best for kids."

New Superintendent Duane Moore, in his first board meeting, also pledged that "our No. 1 priority will be to serve the students," and he said the administration and the board must put aside any personal differences to achieve that goal.

Monday also marked the swearing in of newly elected board members David James, a Westland real estate broker, and Martha Pitsenbarger, a Wayne resident and clinical social worker.

Winter, a former school principal who is in his 41st year in the district, was elected president in a 4-2 vote, defeating nominee and immediate past President Mathew McCusker. Winter, a Canton Township resident now in his fourth year on the board, has served one other stint as president.

Francis "Bud" Winter

Winter was nominated by board member Patricia Brown and was supported by himself, James and Pitsenbarger. McCusker was favored by himself and board member Richard LeBlanc. Board member Debra Fowlkes was absent.

Rounding out the list of new officers:

- Brown was selected as vice president in a 5-1 vote. She was nominated by Pitsenbarger. McCusker nominated Fowlkes and cast the only vote for her.
- Pitsenbarger was elected secretary in a 4-2 vote after being nominated by Brown. She was also favored by herself, James and Winter. McCusker and LeBlanc voted for Fowlkes.
- James was chosen as treasurer, in yet another 4-2 vote. He was nominated by Brown and was also supported by himself, Pitsenbarger and Winter. McCusker and LeBlanc voted for Fowlkes.

Amolsch murder charges dropped

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

After spending nearly 10 months in jail for a murder he has denied committing, Ricky Alan Amolsch is no longer charged with the brutal slaying of his Westland girlfriend, Jane Marie Fray.

Detroit Recorder's Court Judge M. John Shamo recently dismissed first-degree murder charges against Amolsch, 38, after conflicting expert opinions on whether he made a bite mark on Fray's head.

Fray had been bitten on her head, stabbed 22 times, strangled and left with a knife stuck in her mouth when she was found on the morning of Aug. 23 in a blood-spattered bedroom of her Westland Meadows mobile home, northeast of Van Born and Merriman.

In an initial ruling, Wayne County chief forensic dentist Alan Warnick said the bite mark was, in his opinion, made by Amolsch, a Wayne resident and longtime autoworker.

But defense attorney Richard Lustig succeeded in getting prosecutors to seek a second opinion in which a Chicago expert ruled that Amolsch didn't make the bite mark on Fray's head, said Larry Talon, assistant Wayne County prosecutor.

The case against Amolsch had hinged on linking him to the bite mark.

"There was no direct evidence," Talon said.

Given the new ruling on the bite mark, the county prosecutor's office filed a motion to dismiss charges against Amolsch, he said.

Shamo dismissed the case, clearing Amolsch of a murder that he had claimed all along that he didn't commit.

Amolsch had been released from jail in early June, after Shamo set a $200,000/10 percent bond that Amolsch's family posted.

Amolsch had earlier been denied bond, but Shamo set the bond after questions began to emerge about the case.

No new charges have been filed in Fray's murder, though attention has been focused on one of Fray's neighbors who is jailed on another felony.

Man convicted in molesting 2 relatives

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A former Westland man has been convicted of sexually molesting his stepdaughter and his niece, and he could face life in prison when he is sentenced July 28.

Scott Alan Falkiewicz, 34, was convicted on seven of nine counts of criminal sexual conduct during a bench trial that ended Monday before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Gerschwin Drain, Westland police Sgt. Michael Terry said.

The girls were 10 and 11 when they were molested.

Falkiewicz was convicted on two counts of first-degree CSC that carry a maximum penalty of life in prison. He also was found guilty on five counts of second-degree CSC, punishable by up to 15 years in prison.

Falkiewicz had been ordered to stand trial in April of last year after waiving a preliminary hearing in Westland 18th District Court. But the trial was delayed on several occasions for reasons such as a prosecutor's illness.

One of the girls, 10 at the time she was abused, told her mother that Falkiewicz molested her on multiple occasions between August and December of 1993, Terry has said.

The other girl, age 11 at the time, reported that Falkiewicz molested her for a 1½-year period that ended in early April of 1994.

The stepdaughter lived at the molestor's Westland residence, and the niece was a frequent visitor, Terry said.

Falkiewicz, owner of a floor-covering business, had been released from jail soon after he was arraigned last year on the charges. He posted $1,000 on a $10,000/10 percent bond.

However, he had been under court orders to have no contact with the two girls.

Herbert termed the agreement "the longest contract we've ever had" for a city labor group.

Council president Thomas Brown, who was involved in local government even before Westland evolved as a city from the former Nankin Township in 1966, also said the contract is historic in length.

But, he noted that employees had worked for 1½ years without a contract.

In an eight-page memo that Herbert gave to council members, he outlined many key terms of the contract. In several areas, the city was able to gain union support for clarifying vague contract language that had resulted in numerous grievances, Herbert said.

Among the highlights:

- The grievance procedure has been streamlined, eliminating some "non-productive meetings" before arbitration is sought.
- The Federal Mediation Conciliation Service will be used rather than the American Arbitration Association, in a move that will save both parties money.
- Worker disciplinary records are expunged after two years, rather than one year.
- The trial period for new employees is 180 days, instead of 90 days as it had been.
- The city will have more latitude to use non-seniority workers to fill temporary openings, meaning that fewer workers will be shifted to fill a temporary vacancy.
- Employees who regularly skip overtime requests are barred from receiving "rocking-chair" payments, based on grievances they won if they were skipped over when calls for overtime workers were made.

"This should eliminate overtime payments to employees who most likely wouldn't work overtime, anyway," Herbert wrote in his memo to the council.

- As of Jan. 1, 1997, employees with 20 years of service will receive 27 vacation days, rather than 26.
- Employees can now use sick leave for family member illnesses.
- Workers will have some added medical expenses, such as higher deductibles for insurance and prescriptions.

Teen admits slashing

A Garden City teen, accused of slashing a 19-year-old man on his legs during a dispute between two groups of teen-agers in Westland, has pleaded guilty to the assault, a Detroit Recorder's Court clerk said.

Earl Louis Geach, 18, is scheduled to be sentenced July 12 by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Isidore Torres after pleading guilty to assault with intent to do great bodily harm, the clerk said.

The charge is punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Geach was accused of slashing the 19-year-old man on both legs during a March 25 dispute between two groups of teens who had pulled their cars to the side of Joy near Middlebelt.

The teens had earlier been "staring each other down" while riding side by side along Joy Road, Westland police have said.

The attack occurred about 10 p.m. The victim received 24 stitches for his leg wounds.

Geach was knocked to the ground during the fight, and other teens disarmed him, police have said.

CLARIFICATION

Two photo captions published in the Westland Observer of Thursday, June 29, should have said that the 1994 Westland Summer Festival queen is Autumn Joy Kucka. She crowned the new queen at the festival pageant held Saturday night, June 24, at Westland Center.

The queen reigned over the annual festival which ran five days and ended with a fireworks display Monday night.

Anti-drug group to form

A new group, Dads Against Drug Destruction, will hold an organizational meeting at 6:30 p.m. Friday, in Bailey Recreation Center, on the south side of Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

Announcing DADD is spokesman Peter Narsisian, who said the meeting is open to interested people.

Fireworks bring Summer Festival to a close

The weather was perfect for the Westland Summer Festival committee.

Rain stopped just two hours before the annual parade started Thursday and didn't return.

There were sunny skies for the five days of the event, held in the Civic Center area and Central City Parkway, concluding Monday night with a fireworks display.

During the five days, the committee coordinated children's games, adult contests, free entertainment, food booths, bingo games and Las Vegas games.

Among the entertainers were Sharon Richard and the Ghostriders band, Side Kix band, Donna Marie and the Motion band, Bobby Lewis and the Cracker Jack band, and Rhythm Rangers, which closed the festival Monday night.

Several groups, such as the Western Wayne County Special Olympics and the Westland police department's Drug Abuse Resistance Education officers, sponsored special activities to raise money.

Maintaining a presence throughout the festival were Orenda Huffman, this year's festival queen, and Autumn Joy Kucka, last year's queen.

Continental Cablevision cablecast the festival live throughout the five days on Channel 11.

DNR clarifies advice on maple tree problem

BY MARY RODRIQUE
STAFF WRITER

As was reported last week, a number of Westland and Garden City homeowners have noticed uninvited guests moving into their maple trees this summer.

But a spokesman for the state Department of Natural Resources has clarified his earlier advice to residents with a cottony maple scale problem.

"I was off on the life cycle timing," said Frank Sapio, program leader in forest health for the state DNR.

"The crawlers are hatching downstate right now. They can be treated right now," said Sapio, who originally advised homeowners to wait until next spring for spraying.

Westland homeowner Cynthia Quint, who has two 15-year-old silver maples on her property, noticed leaves falling off the trees and sap running down the branches in early June. She called in a professional tree service company, which diagnosed the problem.

Quint, who walks frequently through her neighborhood near Cherry Hill and Venoy, noticed that others seemed to be experiencing the same problem.

"There's sap on the sidewalk, and this white popcorn thing on the branches," she said.

The tree service company advised two sprayings now with a followup preventative routine in the fall.

A call from a local resident to Sapio made the DNR expert realize he had goofed on the timing.

■ 'I was off on the life cycle timing. The crawlers are hatching downstate right now. They can be treated right now.'

Frank Sapio
DNR spokesman

"It's not too late to spray," Sapio said. "There's a two-week window of activity. Please advise your readers that they can spray now."

He would recommend using a horticultural oil like Sun Spray 6E.

"A lot of professional companies shy away from Sun Spray because they're afraid of it burning foliage, but it doesn't really present a problem. It's a 2-percent (pesticide) solution," Sapio said.

Cottony maple scale is a small insect infestation usually associated with silver maples. But it has been known to attack other types of maple trees. Other types of trees are not susceptible.

The parasitic insects — part of the Pulbinaria genus — attach to the plant and suck out the sap.

"Once the crawlers hatch, they exude a cottony mass to protect themselves from insects and predators. It's a complicated life cycle," said Sapio.

"The problem usually disappears by itself. They usually don't cause mortality."

Sapio has received a few calls from local residents plagued with the messy problem.

The insects release a honeydew colonized by fungus. The tree and anything under it — a car, the family dog — will get a black, sooty appearance. It's harmless, but ugly to look at, according to Sapio.

The problem is more evident this year because of the mild winter, he added.

Hayes School to get new boiler soon

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

■ On July 17, the board of education is expected to approve the first repair under the new 1-mill tax, a boiler for Hayes Elementary. It will cost $38,000.

The Livonia school district's recently-approved millage levy for building repairs kicked in July 1.

On July 17, the board of education is expected to approve the first repair under the new 1-mill tax, a boiler for Hayes Elementary, 30600 Louise, Westland.

The boiler, to be purchased from Motor City Heating and Cooling in Detroit, will cost $38,000.

"It's a smaller purchase; major purchases will be coming out of that 1-mill eventually," said Superintendent Ken Watson.

The 1-mill tax for building repairs, approved by voters in April, will generate $3.3 million yearly over the next five years to pay for building repairs.

The school board Monday discussed in committee the first purchase under the new tax. However, another building repair slated to be done shortly won't be paid for under the new tax. Randy Liepa, assistant superintendent for business, explained why.

"We didn't identify central office projects as projects being paid for under the new millage," Liepa said. "This will come out of our normal budget."

The central office repair he referred to is a $22,679 replacement of a water main at administrative offices on Farmington Road. The contractor is Guzzo Contracting, Inc. of Livonia.

In April, the vote to approve the new 1-mill for building repairs and maintenance was close, 5,716-5,223.

The 1-mill new tax is designed to protect the $250 million investment taxpayers have in Livonia's schools, Watson said.

The $3.3 million generated yearly for five years will not come close to paying the $25.4 million repair bill estimated in 1991 by architects in their study of Livonia schools.

The architects surveyed the district's doors, windows, ceilings, floors, lighting, carpentry, electrical and mechanical systems and made specific recommendations.

One such recommendation was the replacement of the boiler at Hayes. Besides being old, the current boiler leaks, Watson said.

Other recommendations include windows, doors, sidewalks, parking lots, lighting, floor tile in elementary gyms, swimming pools, cabinets and athletic tracks and fields.

None of these repairs were included in a $62.1 million bond issue approved by residents in 1992. Money from this bond issue paid for $20 million worth of computer technology and $40 million worth of renovations to accommodate this hardware. The one exception was Garfield Elementary, which was gutted and nearly totally rebuilt.

Shooting death ruled accidental

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

The shooting death of an 8-year-old Westland boy in April has been ruled an accident that won't result in criminal charges, county prosecutors have decided.

Daniel Carter, 8, was killed April 19 while he was playing with a 10-year-old neighborhood friend who had been left home alone, with a .22-caliber rifle in the house.

The noontime incident occurred in the 34200 block of Dayton Court, near Glenwood and Wildwood, while the 10-year-old's mother was at work, Westland police have said.

County prosecutors ruled Wednesday that neither the 10-year-old nor his mother will face criminal charges "because of the accidental nature of the incident," Westland police Sgt. Michael Terry said.

Daniel Carter and the 10-year-old had been playing inside the house when the shooter brought out the rifle and fired a shot, in what the victim's own mother, Kelly Titus, described as "a stupid accident."

The shooter's mother believed that all of the ammunition for the rifle had been removed from the house, Terry said. She had personally taken bullets out of the house and didn't know that a couple of rounds remained, he said.

The gun had been brought to the house by another relative.

Daniel had attended the second grade at Plymouth Christian Academy, a private school in Canton Township where school headmaster Gordon Nickel said Daniel "was having a real positive experience."

"He loved his school so much," Daniel's mother told the Observer during a tearful interview after the shooting.

Daniel, who was shot in the chest, was airlifted to Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor, but he died about three hours after the shooting.

Kelly Titus said she hoped her son's death would serve as a warning to other parents to keep guns locked up.

Driver is convicted in car assault

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland man has been convicted of felonious assault for intentionally hitting an Inkster teen with his car during a dispute that began in Garden City Park and spilled into Westland.

David Douglas Barr, 19, faces sentencing Aug. 1 after being convicted during a bench trial before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Wendy Baxter, a court clerk said. The charge is punishable by up to four years in prison.

Barr was accused of driving a car over a curb and hitting Brian Warner, 17, during an incident that occurred at 7:45 p.m. July 9 of last year in the 300 block of Henry Ruff, south of Cherry Hill.

A few days after the incident, Warner testified during a preliminary hearing in Westland's 18th District Court that the dispute started when Barr shoved his way through a small crowd of Warner's friends while they were attending a carnival in City Park, Cherry Hill and Merriman. Barr was accompanied by a friend, Warner said.

Warner and Barr got into a fight in the park, but Garden City Police broke it up, Warner said. He also testified that Barr spit on him.

Warner left the park after the fight ended, and he was walking with a friend along Henry Ruff when Barr drove up and got out of his car, Warner said. They fought again before Barr returned to his car and drove at Warner, the victim said in court.

When Barr drove at him at an estimated 25 to 30 mph, Warner said he jumped into the air and landed on the car's windshield, suffering severe cuts on the right side of his head and on his right arm, Westland police said.

Barr and his companion laughed as they drove away, Warner has testified. Warner then went to a nearby friend's house to seek help.

Warner was hospitalized for a couple of days following the assault.

Co-op preschool moves to new site

The Willow Creek Cooperative Preschool is relocating to a new site.

The group, which is accepting applications for the 1995-96 school year, will be in Kirk of Our Savior Presbyterian Church, on Cherry Hill between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

It was previously housed in Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton Township.

The cooperative, organized 23 years ago, is staffed by teachers who meet the state Department of Social Services licensing requirements and administered by parents of the cooperative's students, said Diane Duxter, Willow Creek spokeswoman.

She said the cooperative has openings for 3- and 4-year-olds. The younger group will meet from 9:30-11:45 a.m. or 12:45-3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays with the older youngsters meeting the same times on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The school doesn't discriminate on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin for admission, Duxter said.

Although the cooperative is housed in a church, there is no other affiliation, she said.

Parents who want more information may call 326-0078.

2 admit purse snatching

Two men who pleaded guilty to a gunpoint robbery outside a Westland shopping center have been imprisoned for the March 31 holdup.

Robert Michael Johnson, 31, of Westland, has been sentenced 15 to 30 years in prison, and Jeffrey Allen Grubbs, 18, of Gibralter, has been sent to prison for four to 15 years, a Detroit Recorder's Court clerk said.

The two men pleaded guilty to robbing a woman whose purse was seized at gunpoint outside of a business in the WestRidge shopping center on Warren Road, near Central City Parkway.

Livonia police arrested the two men two days after the 7 p.m. March 31 incident while they were leaving the scene of a similar holdup outside of the Livonia Kroger on Five Mile Road, between Merriman and Middlebelt.

The Westland robbery occurred while a woman who had been shopping at WestRidge was walking to her car, Westland police have said.

Relief sought

Racing boss upbeat as industry reels

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Most of the horse racing industry cheered Gov. John Engler's decision against expansion of casino gambling into Detroit, even though Engler also opposed slot machines at race tracks.

"The governor's decision can't be taken as a negative to racing," said Nelson Westrin, the state racing commissioner. "We've known from the beginning the governor understands the importance of horse racing to agriculture. When I was appointed (by Engler in 1993), he gave me the charge to go out there and get this industry together.

"Racing was concerned that a casino in Detroit, along with the casino in Windsor, would be an impossible situation for racing."

An exception was John Long, president of Ladbroke DRC in Livonia, Michigan's only thoroughbred running track. Long said Engler's June 27 promises of other help to racing may be "too little, too late." Ladbroke DRC has yet to announce whether it will go ahead with the mid-July Michigan Mile, for 45 years the state's richest stakes race.

Ladbroke wanted to go full-tilt into casino and slot machine gaming. After a casino in Windsor opened in May of 1994, wagering at Michigan race tracks plummeted 11.2 percent and track attendance 14.5 percent. Ladbroke's wagering handle fell 16.4 percent. Northville Downs' handle stayed stable, but attendance dropped 9 percent. Hazel Park's handle fell 13 percent and its attendance 14 percent. The three metro tracks are 80 percent of the industry.

Westrin, of Grand Ledge, was on the attorney general's staff attached to the racing commissioner when Engler tapped him to head the office in Livonia. He views his office not only as a regulator but as a unifying force to bring together the sometimes conflicting interests of tracks, thoroughbred horsemen, standardbred (trotters and pacers) horsemen, and quarter horsemen, as well as suppliers and unionized track employees.

Westrin will bring them together July 10. He hopes to have a program to present to the Legislature in September. Here are excerpts from an interview several days after his boss came out against expansion of casinos:

Q. The governor said the horse industry "may not survive." Does that mean 77,000 racing breed equine will be shot? Or will one segment go down?

Westrin: "At this point in time, that's speculation. . .There's no question the thoroughbred track has been losing $10 million or $11 million for some time. Ladbroke has indicated it may close for business. But they haven't made that definite, and they've shown they have staying power.

"The governor has indicated he would support full-card simulcasting, some form of off-track betting and a reduced pari-mutuel tax. Those three areas could give immediate relief to most tracks in Michigan."

Q. Let's start with the tax. Is it correct that Michigan has one of the higher taxes on wagering?

Westrin: "Yes. It comes out of the tracks' commission and is based on gross handle. The rate is 4.5 percent for city tracks (Ladbroke, Hazel Park and Northville, plus Sports Creek near Flint). It's 3.5 percent for tracks in counties of less than 300,000.

"The governor has indicated the possibility of eliminating the pari-mutuel tax. They (tracks) would pay just normal business taxes. The problem is that a lot of the money is funneled back to activities associated with racing . . . county fairs, youth programs, capital improvements, various programs for horses and other livestock, various breeder awards. And also the money goes back to the cities for the services they provide ($800,000, under the racing act, though less is usually appropriated)."

Total state taxes on pari-mutuel racing have dropped from $22 million in the mid-1980s to $17.8 million last year.

Q. What is simulcasting and how could that help?

Westrin: "Simulcasting is where you bring in a TV signal from another track and show it simultaneously with the running of the race, and people can bet on that.

"Michigan currently allows only 25 simulcasts per track per year, and only one per day. That is the most restrictive law in North America."

Westrin's office had been allowing Ladbroke DRC to simulcast 75 races — 25 times three meetings. But Northville Downs and horsemen sued Ladbroke and the racing commissioner. Wayne Circuit Judge Marvin Stempien ruled for Northville Downs, confining Ladbroke to 25 simulcasts per year.

"Windsor Raceway is a real competitor for Detroit area tracks because it has such an expansive simulcasting program. A lot of our fans from DRC are going to Windsor where they can see thoroughbred racing from across the country — even from China!"

Q. Any estimate of how much simulcasting would help Michigan tracks?

Westrin: "It's difficult to measure. It depends on how many programs (are broadcast). It has been of substantial benefit to tracks. But there would be some drop-off in the live handle (wagering on live races)."

Rain or shine, Mud Day is planned for July 11

It's the day kids love and parents loathe. It's Mud Day 1995.

Wayne County Park System, 60-Minute Pro Clean & Coin Laundry and 7-Eleven are co-sponsoring the event from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday, July 11, at the Nankin Mills Picnic Area, corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Hines Drive.

The event will be held rain or shine.

Children will be split into age groups and games and activities are planned in the mud. Prizes will be awarded. Mr. and Miss Mud Day will be crowned to celebrate this event.

Parents are asked to have kids wear old clothes and shoes. Everyone must have shoes. A changing area will be on site. A plastic garbage bag will be given to all the participants by sponsors. Bring a towel to dry off. There are no showers on site. Parking is limited so participants are asked to car pool if possible.

More school aid voted for fast growth districts

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

High-growth school districts would get supplemental state dollars under a House amendment to next year's school aid bill.

"I've been working on this for some months," said state Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake. "I hope the Senate keeps it in the bill and the governor signs it."

The change, sponsored by Rep. Bill Bobier, R-Hesperia, was first rejected by the House April 5 but later adopted 56-45 after Dobb rounded up votes.

A line in House Bill 4436 provides up to $5 million for school districts which show big enrollment growth between October and February of a school year. "Every school district absorbs (the cost of) the first 1 percent of growth," Dobb said.

But for districts whose growth is greater than 60 pupils or 1 percent, the state will pay a supplement of 25 percent of the basic per-pupil 'foundation" grant.

For example, suppose a district had 10,000 pupils in October. By February its enrollment has grown to 10,150. It must absorb the cost of the first 1 percent (100 pupils) but will get a supplement for the extra 50. That supplement is one-fourth of the foundation grant.

If you add up all the school districts eligible for supplemental grants, however, the total is $7.5 million, Dobb explained. But the line item has a cap of $5 million. So the grants must be reduced proportionately.

Here are House Fiscal Agency estimates of the additional aid local school districts might obtain if they grow as expected in fiscal 1995-1996:

■ West Bloomfield, Oakland County — $95,489 for 83 pupils.

■ Walled Lake, Oakland County — $437,596 for 378 pupils.

■ Farmington, Oakland County — $118,979 for 103 pupils.

■ Livonia, Wayne County — $50,368 for 44 pupils.

■ South Redford, Wayne County — $52,878 for 48 pupils.

Yes: Gerald Law, R-Plymouth; Jan Dolan, R-Farmington.

No: Lyn Bankes, R-Redford; Eileen DeHart, D-Westland; Tom Kelly, D-Wayne; James Ryan, R-Redford; Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

Moore faces issues

School chief brings potential

Duane Moore assumed his new duties this week as the Wayne-Westland superintendent of schools.

Based on his response to school board members' key questions and his previous experiences, Moore arrives in the community with a set of skills which reflect his ability to handle the difficult job ahead.

Moore, who comes to Wayne-Westland from the South Lyon district, succeeds Larry Thomas, who announced his resignation last Aug. 22, effective June 30. Thomas came to the district three years ago with a mandate to improve academic test scores and initiate other major changes.

Thomas did what he said he would do, but he ran into problems with several school board members.

But with a new superintendent, the board of education and administration can begin working on the ongoing problems facing the district.

Fortunately, some problems have been eliminated or reduced in scope.

For example, local voters on June 12 approved two key millage proposals by large margins. One was a 3-mill increase for two years, generating some $3 million a year in much-needed tax revenues. The other was an 18-mill levy, technically only a renewal, which will be paid only by non-homeowners. That levy will generate some $10 million a year in property tax revenues.

A few weeks before the election, the Wayne-Westland Education Association approved a two-year salary freeze, something unheard of in today's public-sector collective bargaining contracts.

At the same time, the administration was successful in implementing a major retirement incentive for teachers and administrators who were at the top of the salary schedule. This not only saved money, but allowed younger people to be promoted to positions as building administrators.

But those accomplishments don't eliminate all future professional challenges facing Moore.

A major community relations and communications effort must be made by the new superintendent and his staff to implement the new middle school concept.

Under the plan adopted by the board of education late last year, sixth-, seventh- and eighth-graders will be housed in newly revised middle schools, with ninth-graders moving into the senior highs.

There will be also community relations problems facing the new superintendent relating to the massive revision of school boundaries, which affects all schools in the district. Part of that change involved the closing of four elementaries and the shifting of students to other schools.

But Moore, who has been involved in settling numerous disputes in other districts, clearly seems to have the skills and personality to resolve any current and/or future problems in the Wayne-Westland district.

The Observer wishes him well and urges board members to work cooperatively with Moore to fulfill the potential in the Wayne-Westland school district.

Fireworks law needs fixing

The legal fireworks in county courts are as explosive and unpredictable as the firecrackers and bottle rockets that prosecutors, business owners and police wrangle over every summer.

The round-robin legal battles — that generally fizzle when July Fourth celebrations have come and gone — illustrate the need for a change in the state fireworks law.

Greater definition and clarity are required in the statute that in general makes illegal anything that moves, spins, leaves the ground, emits a report or shoots.

State law allows the sale and use without a permit of only a limited type of fireworks, such as sparklers, fountains and smoke bombs.

The legal maneuverings, in response to loopholes devised by business owners and their attorneys, circumvent the law that is clearly intended to protect the public.

The law's lack of specific definitions and conditions has become a breeding ground for creative loopholes and loose interpretations. One such scheme used by a Canton fireworks business, which holds a wholesale permit, had consumers join an association in the belief they could buy prohibited fireworks, return July Fourth and shoot them off at a specified site.

Another angle is used by businesses that are permitted out-of-state sales of prohibited fireworks. The businesses turn around and sell to Michigan retail consumers on the premise that they will take them out-of-state to use legally.

Retail customers are not implied beneficiaries of businesses' special permits. Consumers who buy are breaking the law, as are the businesses who sell. Police are doing their job by enforcing the existing law, despite its imperfections.

The vague fireworks law has allowed a myriad of interpretations, creative loopholes and mounting costs on taxpayers for a court system that can't come to terms with the law.

If something is broken, fix it. The state fireworks law is surely broken and needs mending.

COMMUNITY VOICE

QUESTION:

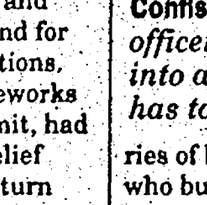

Do you agree with Gov. John Engler's decision to oppose expansion of gambling off of Indian reservations?

We asked this question at the Westland Post Office.

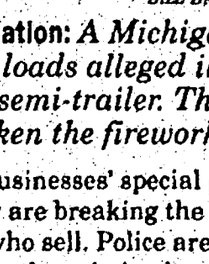

'I agree. I don't think it will do that much for Detroit. There are other avenues that we can take.'

Marie Pelot

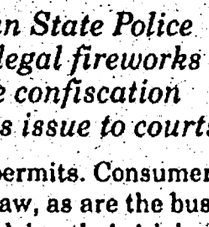

'He (Engler) did people a favor. (The pro-casino proposal) is the most ridiculous thing I've heard.'

Jack Evans

'We probably ought not to have gambling off of Indian reservations.'

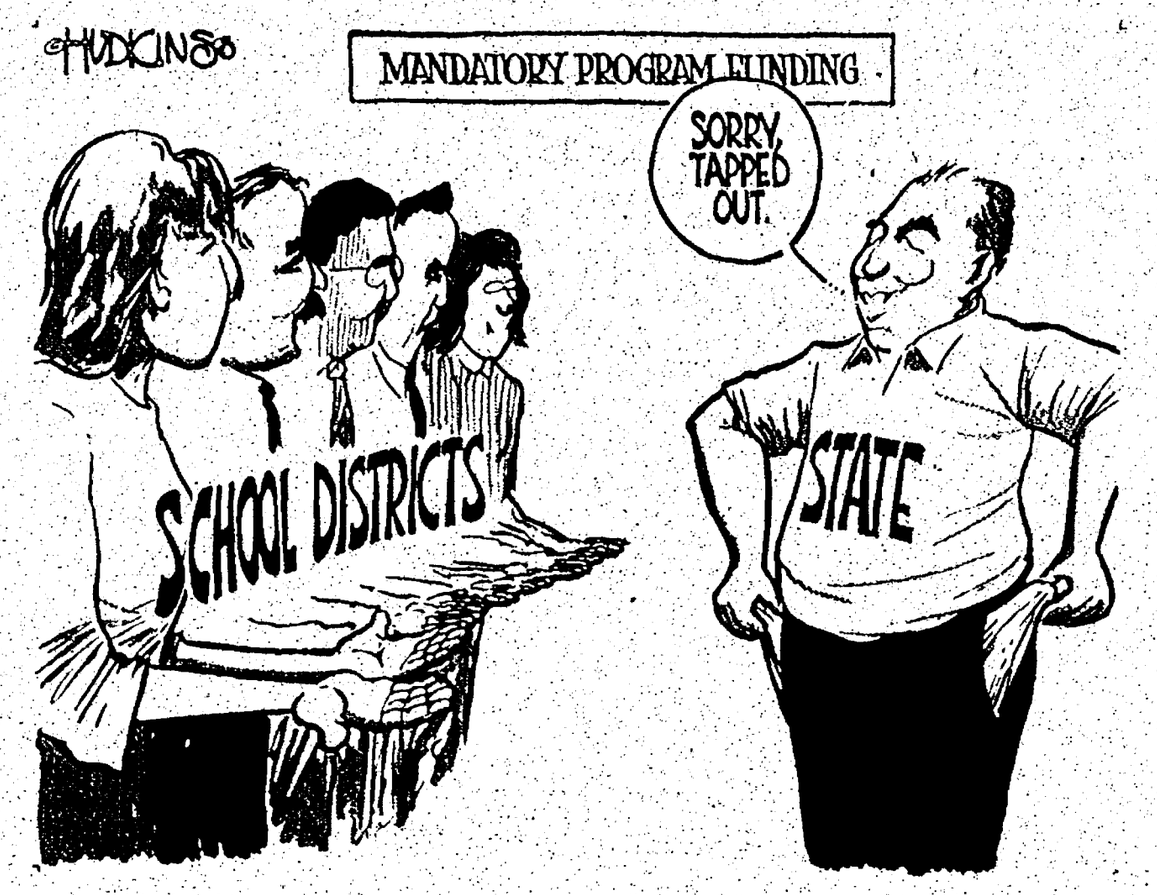

Craig Jensen

'I totally disagree (with the governor). Gambling would be a good thing for Detroit and the state.'

Tax OK knocked

The recent June 12 passage of a two-year, 3-mill "enhancement millage" in the Wayne-Westland school district was greeted by the local education establishment with great jubilation. It was called proof of "community support" and a "new beginning."

In fact it was neither.

A more accurate description would be the "Last Hurrah." Here's why:

For years, the education establishment has relied on microscopic voter turnouts in school elections. This election was no exception. Passage of Proposal A's tax limitations has allowed district voters to revert to their natural state of sublime apathy.

As usual, the education community relied heavily on the ruse of a manufactured "budget crisis" to get parents to turn out en masse to vote for yet higher taxes. As the union-dominated school board diverts ever more money to school employees' salaries and benefits — parents are perennially asked to vote for more taxes to restore the ever-popular and thus always-threatened "sports, band and busing." You would think that the parents would have caught on to the school board's tricks by now. How many tax increases does it take to restore "sports, band and busing"?

So we have passed an enhancement millage that does not really enhance anything. It merely covers up for past excesses and indiscretions.

I do not believe the Wayne-Westland school board has even begun to appreciate the magnitude and seriousness of the problems they will soon face. The enhancement millage will be sucked up by employee salary and benefit increases that are already built into the system.

Personally, I do not believe that the current system of public education will survive much longer. Its spending is out of control — and its costs are not sustainable in this economy. A completely new education system is necessary.

A "new beginning"? Definitely. But not the kind the union-dominated school boards have in mind.

Walter Warren, Westland

Court change needed

The "infanticide" that is prevailing, in our nation and worldwide, as a consequence of a morally perverse, and medically unethical abortion legality . . . ought to be "everybody's business," considering we are the human race.

Since Roe vs. Wade in 1973, a "pro-choice" humanity and their cohorts have ignored this factuality . . . that the deliberate chosen death of the innocent, unborn baby in the womb of its mother . . . even if "ill-conceived" is "murder" . . . is unconscionable and morally wrong!

They've been decapitated, saline injected, suction aborted . . . abortafacient induced, if unsuccessfully aborted . . . and their tiny bodies thrown on a dump! Yet this massive abuse and atrocities continue . . . because there are those, who would rather put on their dark glasses and pretend this doesn't exist. Yet, how can we avoid . . . ignore . . . this "holocaust" of the centuries?

It is ironic, that this wouldn't be done to a "pet dog" yet it's done so casually, by those who could and have the adoption-option as a sane resolve. In the meantime, those who've abandoned their "hippocratic oath" are legally allowed to abort human, unborn life in the womb. Not as a medical necessity, but as a "business venture."

Considering the latter, therapeutic measures are a requisite, since it is counter-productive to destroy human unborn life. Further, getting in touch with our divine creator to seek his forgiveness . . . with a contrite heart, can render peace to mind and soul . . . which only "He" can give.

Further, it's apparent, that a constitutional amendment of Roe vs. Wade is imperative, and long overdue. We need it now, without delay.

Ignorance still reigns

Despite turnovers in political positions, ignorance still abounds in Lansing and in D.C., and I suspect it will never change.

One case in point is the ignorance of all in the state Senate (except for a handful such as Robert Geake) who are unaware of a cause of crime, i.e. unemployment. So in their comfortable, ignorant bliss they pass a law to ban employment to ex-cons as guards. (Senate Bill 167)

My question is: Where is the evidence demonstrating any current problems which exist from the already hired ex-prisoners? I'll bet none.

The ones I fear are not ex-cons who want suitable employment to direct their energies in a productive way for society, but rather politicians who use citizen fear as a ploy to gain votes and in pretense of "tough on crime." It sickens me!

POINTS OF VIEW

Powers that be missing bus on transportation

Transportation is supposed to move people from place to place, to where they need or want to go. It is supposed to be the link between cities, making it possible for people to have an intermingling civilization.

Big business and government agencies have delved into how public transportation should be handled. The powers that be that make the decisions appear to be the typical "bean counters" of the business world. They have totally forgotten who and why a public transportation system should serve.

A comparison of getting around in the metro area in the 1950s and the 1990s is like comparing day and night.

In the 1950s the area was served by three major systems: the DSR in Detroit; the green buses of Greyhound Suburban; and the blue of the Downriver Suburban Line. There was also intercity rail transportation to the northern suburbs and to the Ann Arbor areas.

No extensive schedules were needed for the buses which ran on a continual basis. If you missed one, you could feel confident another would soon be coming. On those lines that were not quite as extensively used, it was still possible to check posted schedules and know when the next was to be expected.

The drivers were congenial and helpful. They took pride in their jobs and came to know their regular passengers. The routes were many and easy to reach. It was not necessary to have a car to get to public transportation.

But then the 1960s came, and changes were fast and furious. Gone were not only the middle-of-the-road street cars but even their electric-wheeled bus replacements. The unthinking policy makers ordered bigger buses and cut schedules. They foolishly thought one bus carrying more people was a wiser move. They forgot the whole purpose of why the systems were created — to get people moved about the city.

GUEST COLUMNIST

SHIRLEY WELCH

As a result of the changes many people could not keep jobs far from their homes for if they missed a bus the hour's wait for the next would make it impossible to reach their work site at a reasonable time to please a boss and keep the job. The distance between routes made it almost impossible to reach a bus without having a ride in a car to the bus line.

At the beginning of these changes, a wise man in the automotive industry (Bob Irving, a newspaper writer) was strongly advocating an extension of public train service. He had suggested a plan for making use of existing but unused tracks to make public transportation more available and faster in the growing metro area. No one paid any attention.

As the years went by, more and more bus routes were combined and/or canceled. As a result of these front office decisions people found bus transportation less and less a reliable source of mobility. Those who could not drive, or could not afford cars, found themselves unable to obtain and keep jobs.

We do not need bigger buses and routes. The public needs more "feeder" lines and more frequent buses. The small SMART buses more than answer than the problem. After all, if someone has to drive a person a distance to catch a bus, then car transportation (which unfortunately for some is not an option) would become the only public transportation. Flexible times and routes must be considered if public transportation is really being sought.

Districts should have curriculum outline handy

Question: Because of my husband's job we often have to move around the country. With children it is difficult for them but they manage. What concerns me is that in the last three school districts we have located when I ask for a copy of their curriculum I get a lot of talk and theory but no written information or guide. Shouldn't every district have a written curriculum guide with stated grade level objectives, especially for the parents of new students?

Answer: Many districts do, but some districts don't. Every district should have a curriculum plan which identifies a clear list of skills and objectives addressed at each grade level.

If it doesn't then the district's curriculum is probably what we call "textbook driven" give the kid a textbook and that's it.

Most quality teachers develop an enormous amount of supplementary material to enrich the children's experience over and above the textbook. But without a curriculum plan, the K-12 curriculum can be like a "shotgun blast" — all over the place.

The word curriculum comes from a Greek derivative meaning to run a course — in this case a kindergarten through 12th grade course. In my last district, we had a large multi-colored poster in each elementary building which indicated every context area from math to health and the outcome objectives to be mastered at each grade level. New parents could immediately see what was being taught not only at their child's grade level but all grades, kindergarten through fifth grade.

At the secondary level, all courses were clearly defined.

Yes, every school district should have its curriculum readily available for parents who are paying the tab.

However, developing curriculum can be time consuming, it can take a teacher out of the classroom for great lengths of time. It calls for numerous substitute teachers which isn't always the best experience for children and which costs money which angers the personnel office. All these factors withstanding, every school district should have a curriculum in place.

For a school district's curriculum to be effective, meaningful and used it must be developed by the teachers in collaboration with principals and a central office curriculum specialist.

DOC DOYLE

Here's an example of how confusing a school's program can be. I was consulting in a small district which does not have a defined curriculum. The first thing I did was set cross-grade meetings.

I would bring second, third, fourth and fifth-grade teachers together in a room. Put something as simple as subtraction of fractions on the table and have them discuss who is responsible to see kids master this objective. With no curriculum guidelines, the discussion can be all over the map.

The second-grade teacher might say, "I touch on it." The third-grade teacher might say, "the concept is at the end of my textbook, and I didn't have time to thoroughly cover it this year and besides it's covered well in the fourth-grade textbook." The fourth-grade teacher then says to the third-grade teacher: "I thought you taught the kids to master subtraction of fractions." So now we have everyone responsible but no one responsible for competency or mastery of subtraction of fractions.

It was obvious the district knew little or nothing about curriculum design. In fairness, it was a small district, where the superintendent who wore many hats had no background in designing curriculum.

However, I have found this same situation in some larger districts.

A sound curriculum guide would indicate each skill, when introduced, when reinforced and when mastered.

For example subtraction of fractions would be introduced in the second grade, reinforced in the third grade and mastered in the fourth grade.

There are many different codes used but introduce skill, reinforce skill and mastery of skill is simple and easily understood by parents.

There is the "what" in education (what should be taught), the "how" (what teaching methods are most effective) and the "did they" (did they achieve). The "what" can change a bit over time, the "how" often varies with each teacher's personal style. But the "did they achieve," master and gain competency is the bottom line. It is education's report card.

Without a kindergarten through 12th-grade curriculum in place it leaves too much up to chance. And you as a parent should be able to walk into a school district and immediately receive a curriculum outline defining your child's curriculum's at any grade level.

If theocratic babble reigns, value of diplomas will suffer

Let's put the public schools debate into perspective:

In 1994 we argued over money. Voters approved a cut in school property taxes and an increase in the sales tax. Essentially, the state took over fiscal responsibility, as the Michigan Constitution says it should. More school districts than we can imagine were saved from bankruptcy.

In 1995 we're debating what's taught and to whose standards. It's easier to grasp the ideas if we put names on them. Let's take the two most visible members of the State Board of Education:

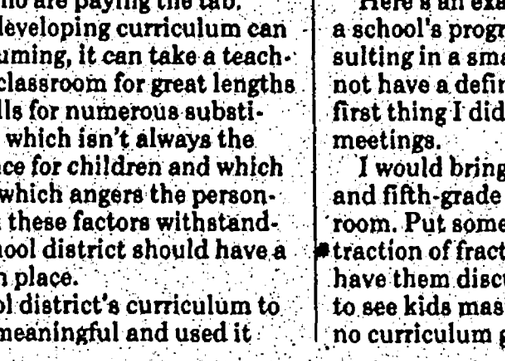

First, Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester. The tall, white-haired lady served on her local school board, then the Oakland Intermediate Board, and is in her second term on the State Board. She's moderate to conservative.

With two colleagues, Beardmore in the mid-1980s began prodding the board to do what it was supposed to do for three-quarters of a century: Lead, supervise, plan and coordinate all public education. The Beardmore team pushed for new testing standards, state-endorsed diplomas, curriculum goals (not bureaucratic credit requirements), and so on. They got a lot of their ideas from job providers in industry, utilities, finance and commerce.

Out of nowhere, Beardmore was challenged in the 1992 GOP state convention by the old Pat Robertson crew and barely survived. The Robertson Religious Right types are death on state standards, curriculum goals (particularly genetics and evolution), teamwork and analytical thinking. Their thing is obedience to parents — and parental following of the local preacher.

Second, W. Clark Durant, R-Grosse Pointe. Once famed for bow ties and suspenders, Durant is a lawyer who places ideology over facts. His post-school education experience is confined to some work for Hillsdale College, a hotbed of abolitionism in the 19th Century, now known chiefly for its eccentric, anti-federal posturing. He had no background in public school board work at either the local, intermediate or community college level prior to being elected to the State Board.

Durant was a Jack Kemp type in 1988, not a Robertson Bible-thumper. But the badly outnumbered Kempies got into the political bed with the Robertson folks to block George

TIM RICHARD

Bush's nomination. Durant isn't a Religious Right type himself though he has a lot in common with the RR.

Durant's father, Dick, was once a John Bircher and a frequent boil on the backside of Gov. William G. Milliken, the moderate gentleman who led the state 14 years. There are those who suggest Clark Durant is racist or anti-Semitic. I do not share that suspicion.

In the latest State Board of Education machinations, Durant is playing to the Yahoos. His ideas boil down to allowing school buildings to opt out of school district governance and allowing districts to go "home rule" and be rid of state tests, curricula goals, democratic elections and all the other encumbrances that the Religious Rights finds so intolerable.

The Religious Right, though relatively successful in the Republican Party, isn't doing particularly well in its effort to take over school boards. The more it is exposed, the weirder it looks to mainstream voters.

But with "home rule" and the opt-out features, one or two congregations could get hold of school buildings and money and do their thing — rote learning, mandatory voluntary school prayer, religious creationism, and so on.

What Durant is pushing for is to let the fundamentalists do their thing without bothering to lose a bunch of court battles. Most readers of this newspaper are unlikely to buy into such theocratic babble.

Unfortunately, if he succeeds and some backwaters of Michigan opt for colonial schooling, it will cheapen the value of high school diplomas for all the other young Americans.

Racing

Q. How much simulcasting will you go for?

Westrin: "Remember, it's a private industry. It's up to them to agree. Horsemen, of course, have a concern because there's a potential for a decrease in live races. They'll also want a share of the wagering — their purses go down when wagering goes down. There's been a decline over the last 10 years."

Q. What is intertracking?

Westrin: "Simulcasting within the same state."

Q. What is off-track betting, and how would it help?

Westrin: "Races are simulcast to off-track locations, where people can go and wager on races from all over the state and other states. It could hurt by decreasing track attendance. But it could help by making the product more convenient to patrons."

Q. Is horse racing an anachronism? Is it out of date?

Westrin: "No. It's one of the most beneficial forms of gaming because it's so labor-intensive and capital-intensive. It provides some economic value independent of gaming." He cited 42,000 jobs in breeding, raising, training and bringing horses to the tracks, plus track jobs "that pay quite well.

"You know, 1,700 slot machines could be taken care of by five technicians, whereas to bring 1,700 horses to the track would take thousands of people."

Q. What about demographics? Are track fans getting older and dying off?

Westrin: "They tend to be older, but that's the challenge to the industry — to show it can be an exciting activity to all ages, as demonstrated by the Kentucky Derby where 140,000 people came to the track."

Ladbroke DRC's record, set it 1952, was 29,570; Northville Downs', set in 1950, was 9,610; Hazel Park's, set in 1965, was 28,726.

"You'll never see 140,000 people around a craps table or slot machines. There's a certain sporting interest and majesty in horse racing."

Q. You're relatively optimistic and think it can be turned around.

Westrin: "It can be. It's a matter of improving the quality of live racing and increasing the purses. We've got to find a way to increase the wagering and increase the purses."

Kenn Christopher, executive secretary to the racing commissioner: "Michigan doesn't have any of the modern tools to present it. We're still doing it the way we did in 1933."

He cited the seven November races called the Breeder's Cup with purses literally in the millions. "Windsor can present all seven. We're restricted to one."

Q. Is there any historical event that soured Michigan lawmakers on racing?

Westrin: "Horse racing was the first form of legalized gaming and, as a result, the most restricted. Since that time and with the Lottery, gaming has become more acceptable to most of the public. Racing has to go in and try to change the law. Michigan has stood still. Other states have passed us up. Horsemen now see where simulcasting can be helpful to them. The fear has been that a TV signal or a machine will replace live racing. . .Gaming is gaming is gaming."

Q. One difference is the payoff. The state Lottery pays off less than 50 percent of what it takes in.

Westrin: "Racing averages 80 percent. Casinos generally are at a minimum of 75 percent on machines."

Christopher: "In casinos, if you lose, you lose to the house. In racing, the money is distributed to other layers. The biggest difference is that in racing you can help yourself win through your skills in handicapping. You can't do that with the Lottery and slot machines."

CC takes second in national Quiz Bowl

Catholic Central High School repeated last year's accomplishment by capturing a second-place honor at the national Quiz Bowl competition.

Also placing high in the three-day competition were Shelby Township's Eisenhower High and Plymouth Salem High School which finished first and fourth, respectively. Aiken High School of Aiken, S.C., finished third.

In the preliminary rounds of the tournament on June 25 and 26, the CC team posted eight victories before being edged 315-270 by Eisenhower in the championship game.

The second-place national team from CC included seniors Greg Tracy of Livonia and Steve Andriola of Canton Township; juniors Hernan Munoz of Canton Township, Greg Van Hoey of Redford Township and Mike Buchanan of Farmington Hills and sophomore Chris Marco of Detroit.

The second-place finish in St. Louis marked the fourth time that the CC Varsity Academic Quiz Bowl Team has won a national trophy. Coached by Howard Weinberg, CC finished fifth in the national in 1990, third in 1991 and second in 1994.

Catholic Central is a private, all-male college preparatory high school in Redford Township.

S'craft offers classes for gifted, ages 4-16

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for the second session of Adventures in Learning for Talented and Gifted Youth beginning Monday, July 17.

SC seeks pianist kids for beginner lessons

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for Project Piano for Youth, an 18-week piano preparatory program for the beginning, elementary school age (grades 1-4) student.

It offers a "group plus private" study format including weekly assignments, drills in rhythm and note recognition, fundamentals of music, and student performance on a regular basis.

A piano or keyboard is necessary for practice. Prospective new and transfer students must arrange an interview appointment with Linda Wotring at 313-261-0318.

Current semester orientation and registration are scheduled for noon Sept. 9 in Room 301 of Schoolcraft's Forum building. Six sections of project piano will be offered beginning Sept. 15 through 19. For information, call 313-462-4400, exts. 5218 or 5225.

Spiders featured in exhibit at Cranbrook through Sept. 24

"Spiders," an award-winning traveling exhibit, is at Cranbrook Institute of Science, Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills, through Sept. 24.

The exhibit, organized by the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural History, explores spiders through hands-on activities, colorful displays, humorous videos and live specimens.

It was cited for excellence in two design competitions — by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Curator's Committee of the American Association of Museums.

The exhibit's specimens and displays give visitors a better understanding of basic spider biology and their role in the ecosystem. Four deadly spiders are represented: the brown recluse, black widow, Australian funnel-web spider and tropical wandering spider.

"Most people know very little about spiders, and they're not quite sure they want to know more," explains Dr. Dan Applemans, director of Cranbrook's Institute of Science.

Cranbrook Institute of Science is open Monday through Thursday from 10 to 5, Friday and Saturday from 10 to 10, and Sunday from 1-5. Admission is $5 for adults and $4 for children 3-17 and senior citizens 65 and older.

FAMILY ROOM

KAREN MEIER

An elementary lesson learned

Tony graduated three weeks ago from elementary school. Some dedicated Moms, the fifth-grade teachers, and the principal arranged a formal farewell for the fifth grade. There were balloons and speeches and food and awards. Flash bulbs popped. Video cameras whirred. Faces beamed.

As I watched the children that day, I realized they'd learned well so many lessons. Small lessons and big ones. Tony had learned one of the bigger ones in fourth grade. Or, maybe I'd learned it. Anyway, for some reason, on graduation day, it all came back to me.

One winter morning Tony's teacher called me. We exchanged hellos and she said, "Tony rolled his eyes at me this morning."

"Rolled his eyes?"

"Yes, rolled his eyes."

"At you?"

"Yes. At me."

She wanted to meet with me. That afternoon. My quiet, seribus boy had turned into a Fourth Grade Eye Roller. What had I done to cause this? And certainly I had. Moms are forever causing good kids to go bad. It's a fact I heard it on "Oprah."

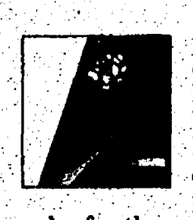

I tried to sort the whole mess out as I did my morning chores. How could this have happened? I'm a great Mom who provides the shelter in the storm, the parachute that always opens, the pot-hole-free Road of Life. Yet, my child's teacher had called. Weren't calls like that reserved for parents who don't give two hoots? Or who don't

Wedding 'party' misses the 'I do's'

There were lots of brides and grooms roaming around Abington Manor, but the wedding bells were silent during a bridal fashion show staged for residents and featuring some eligible bachelors and bachelorettes.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

There were plenty of brides and grooms lingering in the lobby of Abington Manor in Westland June 29, and even punch and wedding cake for the guests. The only thing missing were the "I do's."

The guests instead were there to witness a wedding fashion show, featuring residents, their relatives and employees of the senior citizen complex. Organized by activities director Sandy Smith, the show was to get "in the spirit of June" as the traditional wedding month.

"Brother, it was out of this world," said resident Ethel Whalen who had a front-row seat with Bernice Hotycki whose granddaughters, Kadie and Kristina Mursean, were in the show. "Everything was just perfect."

The show brought smile to Hotycki's face, but also a tear to her eye. A widow, June 29 would have been her 49th wedding anniversary.

The wedding attire was provided by Smith's sister-in-law, Brenda Smith, who owns a bridal dress rental in Richland. President Tuxedo provided tuxedos for the men, while Blevin's Florist provided red and yellow roses for the ladies.

gown with veiled hat — "I look like a cowboy!" — far more dressy than what she wore when she married in 1940.

"We didn't have a big wedding, just a family affair," the 83-year-old said. "We had a small reception and I wore a dress that was practical, that I could wear again."

Practical was also the dress selection for Edith Tidwell and Emma Aleman when they wed in 1936 and 1935, respectively. For the show, Tidwell modeled a dark blue satin and black velvet bridesmaid gown, while Aleman wore a pink satin floor-length gown.

"I didn't volunteer, I got recruited," said Aleman, 82, "so I guess it's all right to be a bridesmaid."

"We're not getting married?" quipped Tidwell, 82, who volunteered because she thought it would be fun.

"I can just hear Alice (laughing at us)," she added, drawing a "When I get out there I'll probably laugh harder than anyone; I feel silly at my age to be doing this," from Reid.

Sitting next to Reid in the theater room before the show was Jamie Skinner, daughter of employee Janet Skinner. Dressed in a dark rose lace over satin bridesmaid dress, the Farmington youngster decided dressing up for the first time in her life was "better than being bored at her aunt's house."

Her mother, however, chuckled watching her 8-year-old daughter walk in a low pair of heels.

"She wanted higher ones, but I said no, I didn't need any broken ankles."

Dressed in black tuxedos, the "grooms" include residents Leon Ryba, 80, and Joe Franks, 86. Twice widowed, Ryba was loving every minute of the production, including the stroll across the gathering room with granddaughter Tracey Kublek.

"This is the first time I've ever done something like this," said one of Abington Manor's few eligible bachelors while waiting in the wings for the start of the show. "I'm kind of teary-eyed, but I'm also nervous, excited and ready to get this over with . . . I'll do anything for kicks."

spend any time with their children?

As I tugged on sheets and fluffed pillows that morning, I thought of the TIME I'd spent with all my children, including Tony. I thought of the countless hours spent in Tony's classroom helping out, the many times I'd driven his group on field trips. The time it took to get Tony's baby brother ready for the daily journey to school where I parked, got out, in rain, shine, snow, hail, late pregnancy, post knee surgery, ultra bad hair days, and walked into school, down Tony's hallway, to his room, to pick him up after the school day was done.

And how about the after-I-do-supper-dishes ritual of checking homework? I'd circled Tony's misspelled words, grammatical errors, sloppy erasures, and incorrect math problems. I'd mentioned the blobby glue on his diorama, the unfilled spaces in the collage, and the incorrect format of his haiku poems. I'd hovered over him to see the corrections made. His work went off to school in perfect order.

Every day I made his lunch to order, gathered his homework papers and books, put the right amount of money with the right permission slip in a well-marked envelope and stuffed everything into his backpack, along with fils shoes. I'd neatly placed the backpack on the bench in the front hall by his gloves and hat and boots.

I'd sit for an hour a day at his side at the piano while he practiced. And the soccer, basketball and baseball practices I'd sat through. And the hours spent helping him make a 28-minute video for a school project.

That's a lot of time, and a lot more than two hoots.

As time drew nearer to the meeting that afternoon, I became frantic. How was I to spend more time with Tony? And the new baby to arrive in another month — the time shortage would only worsen. The situation was desperate.

Tony's teacher sat me down that afternoon and opened my eyes to a few things.

She'd given the entire class an assignment, a difficult one, to be completed and turned in within the hour. All the students bent their heads over their papers right away. Not Tony. He looked directly at her and rolled his eyes. Rude, most people might think. Not Tony's teacher, she read something else into it. She explained.

Tony's a perfectionist. (I knew that.) He expects to be perfect on the first attempt. (I knew that, too.) If he's not perfect the first time out, then he becomes incredibly frustrated. (I knew that.) This has resulted in occasional book slamming and paper crumpling. (Plus, piano pounding, teeth grinding and cheek puffing.) And now, eye rolling. (He was showing frustration.)

In addition, Tony does not like to work at perfection. Indeed, he likes to be perfect. He fully expects to get perfect grades. But working at perfection seems somehow beneath him, not his job. (Hmmm.) It seems to be someone else's. (Hmmmm.) He seems unfamiliar with the grind and the grit and the sweat and the struggle for perfection. (Oh, dear. The mistake circling, the hovering, the neatly placed gloves and hat, the blobby glue discussions, the agonizing piano practices, the Shelter in the Storm, the Parachute, the Road of Life free of potholes.)

It suddenly occurred to me. I'd protected my son too much. I'd better back off. Tony needed to go it alone, stumble on occasion, fall a little bit, wear his boots all day. Work at perfection. On his own.

Well, he did. And that was plain to see on graduation day.

The lesson we learned: children never learn to stand on their own, if you don't let them fall down on their own.

He's in perfect health. Yet Scout's the victim of a deadly epidemic that's sweeping through our neighborhoods. It's called overpopulation. The effects of this epidemic on the Michigan Humane Society have been staggering. Our shelters take in more than 150 new animals every single day of the year. Unfortunately, this number far exceeds people willing to adopt a pet. And it threatens to grow even larger without your help.

Please make a donation to the MHS. By doing so, you will help provide these homeless animals with food, shelter and medical attention. And most importantly, you'll buy them something they desperately need. Time.

Please give. Because only with your help will Scout, and other victims like him, have a fighting chance.

To make a contribution, send a check to the Michigan Humane Society, 7401 Chrysler Drive, Detroit, MI 48211. Or call us at (810) 852-7420 to place a donation on either your Visa or your MasterCard.

Writer focused on the here, now

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

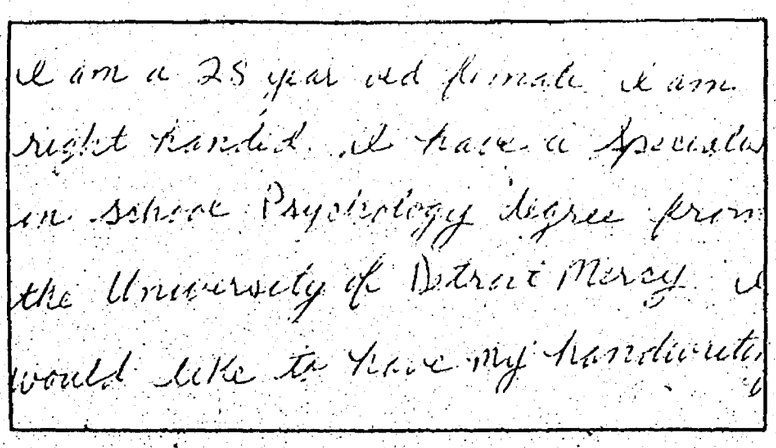

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene

I am a 28-year-old female. I am right-handed. I have a specialist in school psychology degree from the University of Detroit Mercy. I would like to have my handwriting analyzed for both professional and personal reasons. I am interested in finding out what can be known about a person through his or her writing.

Thank you.

E.L.,
Farmington Hills

At the present time most of our writer's attention is focused in the here and the now. Each and every aspect of her daily life holds a significant place. She has a strong need to be someone important and is eager to impress others, possibly by taking the spotlight.

This young woman has a strong personality and can take in everything that is going on around her. She is outgoing, friendly and extends the hand of friendship to others. Her manner is often upbeat and she sometimes gets carried away with it.

While sociability plays an important role in her life, an element of caution is often present. She is careful never to reveal too much about herself.

Concealment or protection of her own interests also is seen here. Perhaps only a limited number of people know her intimately. This probably makes her a good listener. It can also be an asset in her career.

A tendency to repress her feelings also is observed. When she feels the need for protection, she seeks it within her family.

A tad of humor runs through this handwriting. While providing fun, it also can be helpful in keeping things in perspective.

Our writer has a need to be in control. Her behavior often conforms to a rather strict pattern she has developed for herself. She wants to be understood, but may not always make this easy for people to do.

There is a fine sense of order to this handwriting; organization is one of her strong points. Her organized mind is a definite asset in making daily plans and carrying them out.

She has learned the importance of using her time wisely. Efficiency characterizes her work. In repetitive tasks, she can furnish quick results. Although details may not be her favorite things, she can handle them.

Decision making comes quite naturally to our writer. She appears to have the ability to make decisions and the determination and resolve to carry them through with action. On occasion, however, she may lose interest before her aim is reached.

Relaxation may come from her love of beauty. Seemingly, she finds pleasure in the grand displays which Mother Nature paints at this time of the year.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are all helpful. And objective feedback is welcome.

ANNIVERSARIES

Huren

Galen and Judy Huren of Westland are celebrating their 32nd wedding anniversary.

The couple met while attending Wayne Memorial High School and were married on July 13, 1963, in Westland after he was honorably discharged from the U.S. Army, and she had graduated from high school.

The Hurens have two married children — Galen "Tom" Jr. and wife Loretta and Daniel and wife Bridget. They also have a granddaughter, Cassandra.

He is a retiree from General Motors, while she is employed as a hospital department supervisor.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

Bohmhauer-Hughes

Heather Ann Hughes and Michael Ross Bohmhauer were married May 20, 1995, in the Chapel of Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia by the Rev. James Killgore.

She is the daughter of Herald and Jo Hughes of Indian Trail, N.C., formerly of Livonia, and he is the son Ross and Sarah Joyce Bohmhauer of Westland.

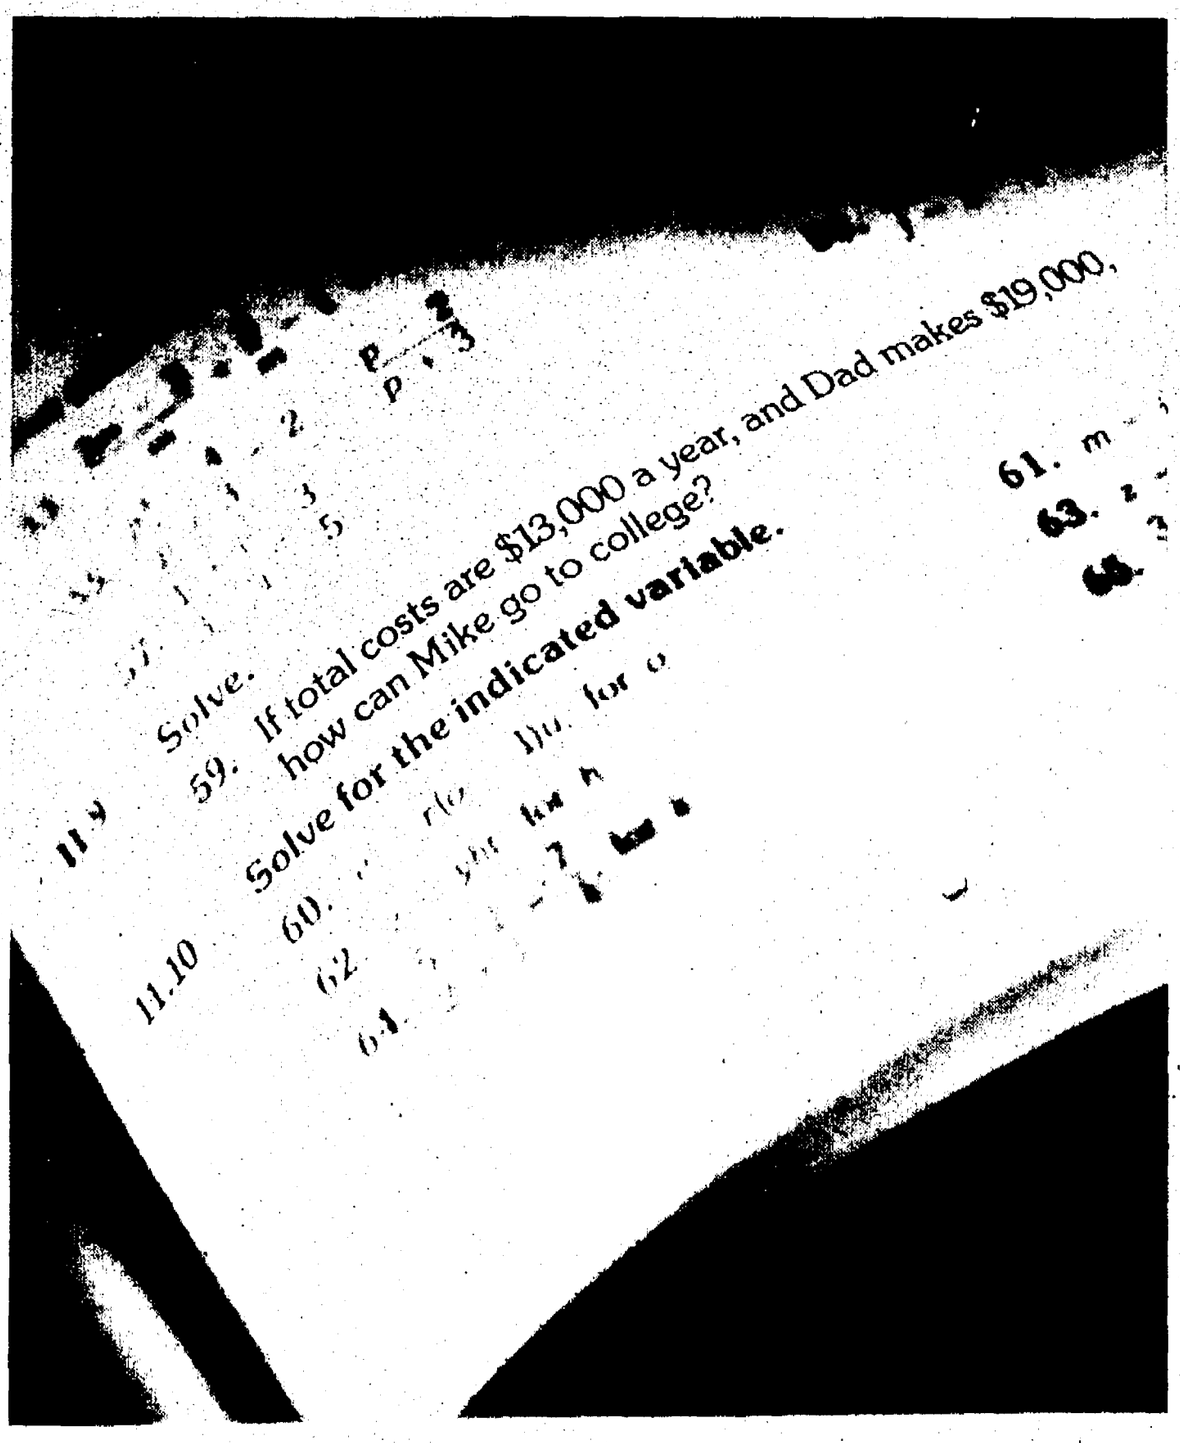

The bride is a graduate of Stevenson High School. She is employed by McDonald's in Redford.

The groom is a graduate of John Glenn High School. He is employed by Kroger.

Kathleen Hughes Saunders, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor with Marijo Hughes Swanson, Rebecca Whitley Hughes and Amy Quackenbush as bridesmaids. The bride's nieces, Brooke Saunders and Rachel Hughes, were flower girls.

Jason Svaib, the groom's brother-in-law, served as best man with H.H. Hughes III, Robert Plichter, Hiram Saunders and Steve Swanson as groomsmen. Justin and Ryan Swanson served as ring bearers.

The couple received guests at New Hawthorne Valley Country Club in Westland before leaving on a trip to Niagara Falls, Ont., Canada. They are making their home in Westland.

This is a tough problem even for bright kids.

It's not math or science that's keeping bright kids out of college. It's home economics. That's why giving to the United Negro College Fund is so important.

As the most experienced source in providing general operating support for historically black colleges, we've enabled thousands of deserving students to get a quality education.

But your help is still urgently needed. Without you this problem has no solution. Send your donation to: UNCF, 500 E. 62nd Street, New York, NY 10021.

PUTTING AROUND

Families really go 'fore' miniature golf

BY DIANE HANSON

Taking aim: Danielle Sheppard, 3, putts on hole number 8 while her mom Debbie, brother Jay, 5 months, and sister Samantha, 6, watch at Ford Road Miniature Golf.

These lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer are perfect for(e!) taking a swing at miniature golf.

"We've had wedding parties out here playing golf," laughed Tom Linderman, owner of Canton Fun Center in Canton. "We've had pregnant women come in here so they can just walk around and get the baby moving. It's a family type thing. Mom, Dad and kids come out and enjoy themselves."

Linderman, who opened the course in 1987, has since added a go-cart track, batting cages, and will soon open another go-cart track that will be "one of the biggest tracks in the state." He has customers of all ages "from three and four-year-olds to 90-year-olds."

Wild time: Steven Burkholder, 6, of Livonia takes aim at Putt-Putt Golf & Games in Farmington Hills.

While miniature golf courses have changed dramatically with the addition of extensive landscaping, Disney World-type animals, figurines and themes, the game hasn't changed much since it's inception in the 1920s.

Originally a plaything of the rich and famous, wealthy Long Island socialites had the scaled-down golf courses installed on their estates as an entertaining diversion for friends and family.

The craze caught on commercially, and catapulted the leisure-time activity to an all-time high by 1930 with more than 25,000 courses in the United States, and four million Americans putting around on them every day.

But the popularity of the sport faded as quickly as it had caught on and became primarily a beach resort novelty.

The 1980s brought an upswing of miniature golf popularity once again, perhaps due to the fancy themes and additions of everything from jungle animals to pirate ships. The some 2,000 courses now in the United States are also, indisputably, a fun place for folks of all ages to play.

One of the major changes in the last 70 years has been to the tiny greens themselves. First played on flat bits of turf making it relatively easy to sink the ball, the addition of creative obstacles has added to the modern day challenge. Lumps, bumps and humps rising beneath the artificial

Work in progress: Plymouth artist Tom LeGault works on a painting in his Plymouth studio.

Artist's speedy brush takes a slow turn

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Speed and wisdom very seldom go hand-in-hand in artist Tom LeGault's eyes. Now in his 25th year as a painter, LeGault is best known for the lightning speed in which he produces paintings of northern Michigan lake scenes and lighthouses during shows like Art in the Park July 15-16 in Plymouth.

Visitors stand in awe as they watch LeGault bring a piece of art come to life with the addition of a little show biz pizzazz. His wizard-like painting demonstrations are pure Hollywood.

While LeGault appreciates the fact art lovers are intrigued by his ability to complete a painting in an hour-and-a-half, he has chosen to heed the warnings of self destruction that such a fast-paced life style brings. It has left him little time for his wife Nancy, son Michael, 10 and daughter, Jennifer, 6 because unlike many artists, LeGault supports his family of four by painting.

Several deaths in the family last year, and a stint as an Art Dad at Smith Elementary in Plymouth, convinced LeGault time spent with loved ones is far more important than fame or money. His grueling schedule of painting at 35 shows a year is too taxing, physically and mentally, and it prevents him from other more pleasurable activities.

"When I became an Art Dad I became aware how the kids became excited with the newness as far as the artwork. Last year I wasn't able to work with the kids at school. I enjoy showing them how to use a palette knife," said LeGault who's still in the process of completing 1994 commissions for his acrylics on canvas.

"I'm looking to slow down. I'm trying not to burn out. Flashing back to before this was a business, when this was fun and I was fully intrigued with the way the paint moved, I realized I need research and development time for new work. I need more down time to experiment."

Lithographs provide part of the solution to fewer 18 hour painting days. Legault will have six of his most popular images for sale including lake scenes and lighthouses at Art in the Park. A plus for customers is the prints make art affordable for those on a tight budget, he said.

In 1991; LeGault was selling paintings in the average range of $125 to $150. He held those prices fairly steady until recently when the cost of materials finally forced an increase.

Prices now fall in three categories ($250, $450 and $750) depending on

FINE ARTS

Plymouth hosts Art in the Park

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Art in the Park founder and producer Dianne Quinn isn't about to let a little obstacle like Plymouth's Streetscape project rain on her parade.

Even though 69 booths along Main Street will have to be moved to Forest Avenue, Quinn is moving full speed ahead to welcome more than 350 artists from 23 states as they descend on Kellogg Park July 15-16 for Art in the Park. Hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, July 15 and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 16.

Quinn recently met with the Downtown Development Authority and the Streetscape's contractor to ensure the 15th annual show will go on without a hitch.

"Main Street will not be finished. At least we know that and can plan around it. The DDA and contractor are being very supportive and are working to keep things safe while maintaining the flow of the show," Quinn said.

Any worries she may have are overshadowed by her excitement for all the different artists' demonstrations that will be ongoing during Art in the Park. Besides the usual painting and pottery, Quinn is bringing in artists to demonstrate wheat weaving, glass blowing, solid glass sculpting, jewelry making, and different techniques of painting.

"We're going to have bear-making, someone making jointed bears; another artist making wind chimes; someone who makes beads with clay wire wrapping, and demonstrations of basket weaving, bird house making, calligraphy and woodcarving," said Quinn.

"We have so many different artists who do fantastic work like steam-bent red oak furniture, 5-foot wooden painted screens, welded metal sculpture, hand-forged wrought iron, life-size figurative sculptures out of fabric and papier mache, stone garden sculptures, and an old fashioned photo booth where people can put on vintage clothing and get their pictures taken."

Free entertainment will be provided on every street corner this year by musicians including the Mike Berst Ensemble, a dulcimer group; Watson & Co., a new two man group dressed in tuxedos playing violin and guitar; the Vocal Arts Ensemble of Michigan, a strolling madrigal group; and Bakra Bata, a steel drum band.

The 1995 Art in the Park T-shirt featuring a watercolor by David Tiernan of Northville will be available at the show's information booth. The cost is $15.

Anyone who has followed LeGault's work over the past five years will see more than the Plymouth artist's pace is changing, so is his style. An admirer of French Impressionist Claud Monet, LeGault's new floral scenes are reminiscent of the master featuring a similar palette and brush work.

"I admire Monet's looseness and the color. He had a fascination with the way paint moves, the blending of colors, and the way light casts different shadows during different parts of the day. With this new work I'm stepping out of my comfort zone. I want to paint looser calmer lake paintings. I think it reflects a part of human nature to want the lake scenes, the calming effect of a dawn or sunset."

LeGault said he knew he wanted to be an artist from the third grade when his Garden City elementary school teacher encouraged him to explore art because of his talent for creating color and design. LeGault picked up his first brush at age 14 after his sister dragged him to a painting class.

After high school he attended Center for Creative Studies in Detroit but dropped out "in frustration after one too many projects of gluing yellow straws together."

LeGault said a psychology class taught him more about perception than any college art class.

Whe he was 18 LeGault opened his first studio. By age 21, he had opened a second. The following decades were hectic, exhibiting at art shows and filling special orders.

As he approaches his 40th birthday, LeGault said he will not take any special orders or commissions this year, and fewer show dates are circled on the calendar in his studio. You won't see him at Art 'n Apples in Rochester this year. Although he will be demonstrating his painting wizardry at the Ann Arbor Art Fairs July 19-22.

"Demonstrating at the art shows people become absorbed and intrigued in what I'm doing. They can actually watch a canvas going from raw to a finished painting. I create the abrupt realization that this isn't something you purchase in a department store, and the art shows are one of the vehicles to let people slow down and kick back."

Water hazards and sand traps are no longer the exclusive dilemma of the full-size courses, but have been scaled down to cause problems for the miniature golfer, as well.

On one course, golfers gasp as their ball disappears behind artificial rocks into a rushing stream, only to sigh with relief as the well-washed ball pops out further down on the same green.

Pat Bicknell has owned Ford Road Miniature Golf in Garden City since 1968 when she purchased the four-year-old course.

"I've had it so long, that they (the patrons) grow up, date, marry and come back with their children," said Bicknell.

Her own three children all worked at the course while going through high school and college. They are now grown and have provided Bicknell with 10 grandchildren. "when they come home they bring the kids and they all really enjoy it."

Bicknell has made some major renovations this year, including new waterfalls, but still maintains the park-like atmosphere and theme to the course. Last year Garden City awarded her the Best Garden Award for commercial property.

Once a year, Bicknell even hosts miniature golf tournaments through parks and recreation departments in several cities, and has had up to 100 people participate.

Tournaments also take place in association with the Putt-Putt Golf Courses of America, Inc. with more than 300 franchised courses throughout the United States. The Professional Putters Association will be holding it's national championships for the Putt-Putt tour at Putt-Putt Golf and Games in Ypsilanti Aug. 2-5 this summer.

Owner, Bill Chrysan, points out that all Putt-Putt courses offer a selection from 108 standardized holes all with aluminum bump boards. His establishment features 54 holes on three separate 18-hole courses with varying degrees of difficulty. Tournament play involves men and women competing against one another on the same tour.

Because the longest putt on the Putt-Putt courses is 35 feet, strength is not necessary. "This is one of the only sports that women have an equal footing with men," said Chrysan. He also also offers a Little League Putting program for kids from nine to 15 years old. They receive instruction and play teams and matches.

Like Chrysan's establishment, Bob Brenay's Putt-Putt Golf and Games of Farmington Hills also offers a year-round game room with the latest in video games, pinball and redemption games.

Many of the diminutive domains offer clever themes and other attractions to draw in as much clientele as possible during the relatively short prime putting season of approximately April through a mild October. Batting cages and go-cart tracks are popular draws.

Sport-Way facilities in Waterford and Westland offer quarter mile go-cart tracks with bridges, and seven batting cages with various pitch speeds. The Waterford course sports a jungle theme while the Westland Sport-Way offers a decidedly high seas adventure complete with a massive pirate ship, canals, water falls and the treasure of playing the smaller course on the ship or the more extensive course surrounding it and on up the mountain.

Westland Sport-Way general manager, Bill McQueen, estimates that several thousand customers each weekend, alone, partake in one or more activity there during the prime summer months.

Those looking to continue chasing the little dimpled ball even after the pumpkins have ripened on the vine should consider heading south or to U.S. Blades Family Fun Center in West Bloomfield Township. The completely enclosed facility offers a three-level, 18-hole course with a 22,000 square feet roller blade rink. For added fun, there is a bungee trampoline, a video arcade and a 1950s diner serving fast food.

Most of the area courses offer birthday party packages, group discounts and very reasonable rates. Hours of operation during summer months vary, but most are open until midnight or longer. Prices range from free for tiny tots to $4.50 for prime-time putting, and $7 for playing all three courses, a total of 54 holes, at the Putt-Putt places.

Miniature golf is great family entertainment that fits every age, taste and budget to a tee.

REVIEW

What do you get when you take a cast and crew of theater professionals who have been seasoned worldwide in the arts? Don't look much further than your own backyard, and you may just come up with the dynamic new musical comedy "Comin' of Age," by Carole Caplan of Bloomfield Hills.

Whether you're old, young, single or married, comfortable or restless, "Comin' of Age," now playing at the Attic Theatre in Detroit, is a sparkling reflection of life.

Caplan is not only a musical playwright, but a wife, mother, grandmother, and interior designer who turned her design studio into a music room. Working with Wayne State University jazz professor Matt Michaels, and pianist Bernie Katz, Caplan has devoted the last seven years to "Comin' of Age" — an experience that has obviously reaped many rewards.

Director Daniel Yurgaitis has made this production a joy to see. "Chip" is our narrator who feels slighted by life's hardships and dreams that seem to be taking a long time in coming true. One by one, he introduces the audience to the other main characters. His father Fred gave him a rather "simplified" version of adulthood. Aunt Carolyn and Uncle Frank are upbeat relatives who have a curiously "too perfect" relationship. Emily is the neighbor looking for love after finding out her husband had an affair.

The voice of Emily (Nina Kircher) is lovely, particularly during her solo "I Just Want to Love Again." The performances of Chip (Brian Schulz) and his father Fred (Mike Evans) show obvious signs of hard work, and years of dedication to the theater.

While this story does have a rather touching overtone, it is definitely the music and comedy that keeps the audience captivated.

Lili Kaufmann and Paul Hopper are a blast to watch as Aunt Carolyn and Uncle Fred. Their satirical lines and catchy musical numbers such as "Make a New Friend Again," and "Headlights, Taillights" are show stealers. Laurie Meeker of Redford also deserves honorable mention for playing various characters throughout the play, notably as Carolyn and Fred's daughter, Suzie during the hilarious musical number "Sandwich, Sandwich."

With book, music and lyrics all written by Caplan, one might have suspected some slower moments in the play, but not with "Comin' of Age." Each area has been carefully constructed to captivate and facilitate the audience's imagination.

The plot seems fairly simple, yet it hits home in a special way by addressing issues that we all eventually deal with. "Comin' of age" is a play that we may be seeing for many years to come.

Dance All Night — Roomful of Blues

With all due respect to the Johnny Nocture Band, Michelle Willson, Candye Kane and others of the ilk, "Dance All Night" (Bullseye Blues) is hands down the best jump blues disc of the past five years — if for no other reason than that it is the Rhode Island institution's first release in that space of time.

Celebrating 25 years together, at least two of the members — drummer John Rossi and alto player Rich Latalille — have been there from the beginning. Baritone saxist Doug James has 24 years in the fold, trumpeter Bob Enos 14, and the remaining members, trombonist Carl Querfurth (7), bassist Kenny Grace (3), and keyboardist Matt McCabe (3) have relative short terms. Three years of working night after night with the hottest horn-driven jump band on the planet is hardly novice work, though. The two most visible players here are testimony to the fact. Guitarist Chris Vachon, who follows in the enormous footsteps of founders, former Fabulous Thunderbird and solo star Duke Robillard and the enormously popular Ronnie Earl, joined the band in 1990, and is quickly earning a rep as their equal. Vocalist Sugar Ray Norcia, who worked with Earl as well as with his own Sugar Ray and the Blue Tones, may be the single most impressive blues vocalist in the world today. The fact that he's also a Hall of Fame-caliber harp player is major icing on the cake. Together, this is a combination that's untouchable.

The repertoire is heavy on classics. Little Milton's "That Will Never Do," Smiley Lewis's "Lilie Mae," Ray Charles's "Hey Now," Little Walter's "Up The Line," Johnny "Guitar" Watson's "Cuttin' In," and the great Wynonie Harris number "Mister Dollar" all are afforded serious rug-cutting good renditions. The same can be said for a pair of Sugar Ray originals and one from Vachon, but the best things going here are the band's superb take on the Ella Johnson standard "I'm Just Your Fool" and, even more spectacular (a consistently operative word where the Roomful is concerned) is their take on "Walkin' Slow Behind You." Norcia's vocals here are eerily reminiscent of Jimmy Rushing's on the Count Basie original.

Count Basie called Roomful of Blues his favorite band. People in little clubs and big halls are over the world have since been concurring with Basie's assessment that they're the "best little big band in America." Call it jump blues or call it dance music, it's as close to heavy as your dancing feet will dare venture.

Join Summer Sings

Join the chorus in Ann Arbor at Summer Sings, 7-9:30 p.m. Mondays, July 10, 17 and 24, University of Michigan Modern Language Building, Auditorium 4, (north of Hill Auditorium on Thayer between Washington and North University, Ann Arbor).

No auditions are required. Just bring your voice and $5 to cover the cost of each Monday night session. The Choral Union will provide the scores and refreshments at break time. For more information, call (313) 763-8997. Registration begins at 6:30 p.m.

Last year 150-200 singers participated in the series offered by the University Musical Society Choral Union. The July 10 session will feature a reading of the Choral Finale to Beethoven's Symphony No. 9, led by Andrew Massey, music director of the Toledo Symphony. The July 17 session will feature Bach's "Mass in B Minor" led by the Choral Union director Thomas Sheets.

On July 24, Neeme Jarvi, music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will lead participants through the Verdi "Requiem" in a benefit session for the Tallinn M/S Estonia Foundation. All proceeds from registration that evening will be directed toward the foundation, created to aid children and survivors of those who perished in the tragic sinking of the Baltic Ferry M/S Estonia last September. After the singing of Verdi, Jarvi will participate in a CD-signing party of the stage of Hill Auditorium. He will be signing copies of two recent CDs which will also be available for purchase. A portion of proceeds from CD sales will go for the foundation.

Stallone does little justice to 'Judge Dredd'

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

San Francisco — From my balcony seat in the grand old Alhambra Theatre, I couldn't help but be pumped. This was an action movie crowd poised for its first look at what Sylvester Stallone does best — bring comic book characters to life.

What a disappointment that "Judge Dredd" is so, I dare to say it — dreadful. Remember, this comes from one of the few critics who actually liked the new Batman movie and who, after a week on vacation without movies or even television, was ready to enjoy even the trashiest summer blockbuster.

Here Stallone plays an armor-plated, by-the-book policeman of the future who is cop, judge, and executioner all rolled into one. He's got his hands full in "the cursed earth," which is overrun by thugs and rioters.

When someone frames Dredd for the murder of his harshest critic, he is sent to a penal colony in Aspen. This is where the action starts — sort of.

For a movie as loud and explosive as "Dredd" few of the action scenes stand out. There's lots of potential in a giant robot that should have a climactic battle with Dredd, but he's defused — literally — by the comic relief sidekick played by Rob Schneider.

Blame the failure of "Dredd" on the robot-like direction by British newcomer Danny Cannon. He seems overwhelmed by the project, trying to hold the reins in on the confusing story and special effects, which grow gaudier with each scene.

More interesting than "Dredd" is the number of great films it rips off including:

■ "Bladerunner's" neon-lit set design.

■ A duel atop the Statue of Liberty ala Hitchcock.

■ The family of sadistic cannibals from "Texas Chainsaw Massacre."

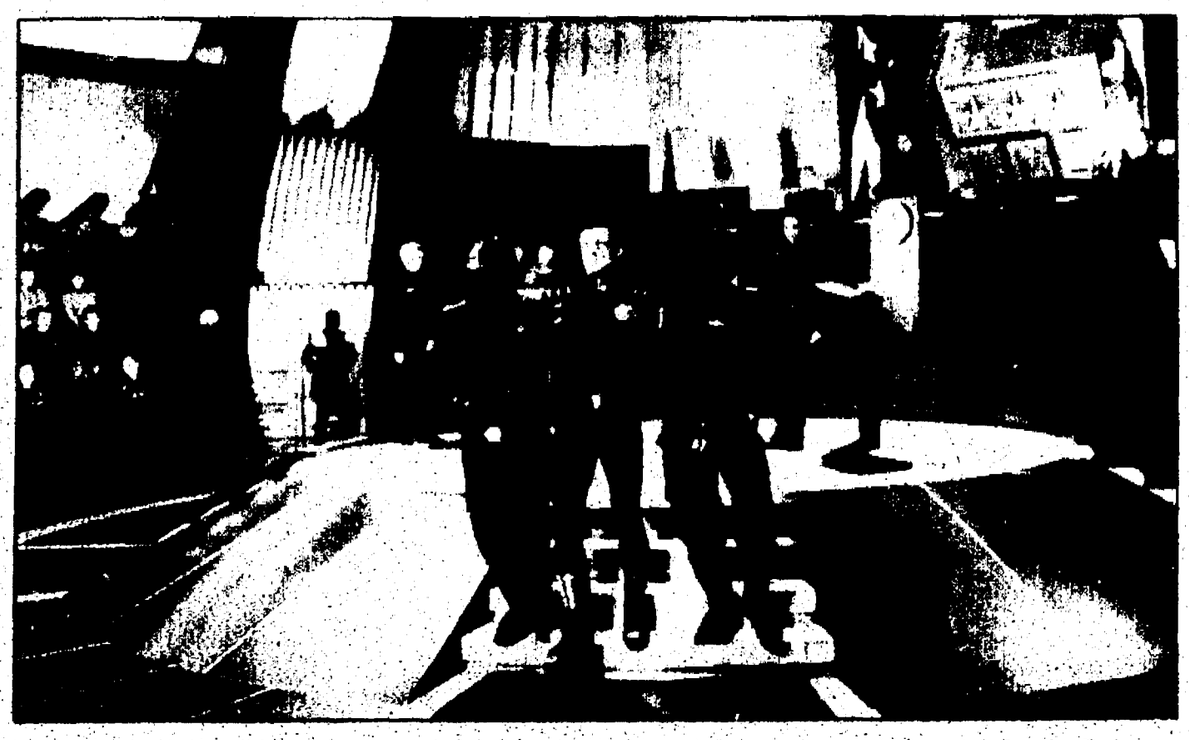

For his part, Stallone plays it stiff and straight, dispatching villains with lines like "case closed," and his trademark "I knew you'd say that."

His battle against arch nemesis Armand Assante's cloning scheme has little that we haven't seen a hundred times before.

Stallone has made recent pleas to the press to take action movies more seriously though "Dredd" does little to advance the art. His shock at the MPAA for giving this very violent movie an R-rating instead of PG-13 shows how out of touch Stallone is with reality.

The applause that usually greets the end of an even so-so premiere didn't follow "Judge Dredd." Like me, the San Francisco audience spilled onto the streets more worn out than stimulated by the experience.

Above all others: At 6'8" tall, R&B artist Montell Jordan is towering over his peers both in height at success.

Listener-friendly Montell Jordan mixes rap, R&B

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Part of the duties of being an older brother include letting your younger sisters live off your popularity. Fifteen-year-old Tracy and 12-year-old Jennifer Jordan aren't any different.

Ever since their twentysomething older brother, rhythm and blues singer Montell Jordan hit the top of the charts with the song "This Is How We Do It," everyone at school wants to be their friend.

"They're very popular in school now. They're very popular kids," Jordan said with a laugh.

Jordan is pretty popular himself. "This Is How We Do It," from his debut album of the same name, stayed at No. 1 for seven weeks and went platinum. (The album is gold.) On July 4, Jordan set off his own fireworks by releasing the second single and video "Somethin' 4 Da Honeyz," a tune he calls the quintessential summer song.

"It's gonna be a cool song. It's got a real summer vibe to it," he said.

Three days later, he hits Pine Knob Music Theatre as part of the Budweiser Superfest with Mary J. Blige and Boyz II Men.

The road to stardom was a long one for Jordan. He began playing piano at age 10 and by 14 was a director of the Carver Missionary Baptist Church choir. Music took a sideline until he earned a communications degree from Malibu's Pepperdine University in 1991.

For a while he split his time between his 9-5 advertising job and singing in nightclubs — until pioneering rap producer Russell Simmons got his hands on Jordan's demo tape. The aspect of Jordan's music that impressed him the most was Jordan's ability to combine rhythm and blues, jazz, blues and hip-hop, Jordan recalled.

"I think I've tried to make the music user-friendly. I want to be the Macintosh of the industry. I would like it to be where hip-hop fans heard the song and say 'I like this. This is hip-hop'; and where R&B fans heard the song and say 'I like this. This is R&B.'" he said.

"I tried to create something that's different. I'm not saying I'm an innovator or a creator. I took elements that already existed and did it my way. The result was something that pleased a lot of hip-hop fans and R&B fans — and maybe confused a couple people in the process," he added with a laugh.

A former member of his hometown church choir, Jordan "always" takes the feelings of his congregation and family in consideration when he writes his songs.

"There's a responsibility that comes along with doing songs like I do. I'm not a perfect individual, but I take full responsibility for the stuff that I've said on songs. What I've tried to do is I've tried to create for people who are listening to me the (chance) to see that I'm a kid from the street."

When he sings about drinking, he said, he hopes listeners are smart enough to "realize that they're not old enough and I am old enough and if they're gonna drink, get a designated driver."

But, he admits, there's songs on "This Is How We Do It," that he doesn't want his sisters to hear, like the frank "I Wanna" and the sexy "Midnight Interlude."

"At their ages, right now, they know the stuff that they don't need to be listening to. If they happen to hear it on the radio, my parents are the type of parents that would rather talk about it and let them know that you don't need to be listening to that until you get older. It's part of that whole respect thing."

However, Jordan feels those songs were necessary for the album in order to show the "complete" Montell.

"I'm trying to let them see all the sides of Montell. . . . There are different sides of Montell. There's an emotional and social side, a party side, lazy side, and a romantic side. There's a lustful side of Montell. There's a freaky side of Montell. All these things come across on this album."

Montell Jordan opens for Boyz II Men and Mary J. Blige at 7 p.m. Friday, July 7, at Pine Knob Music Theatre, I-75 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston. Tickets are $45 pavilion and $29.50 lawn. For more information, call (810) 377-0100 or (810) 645-6666.

Speedball puts pedal to metal

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Speedball singer/guitarist Chuck Burns took a lot of stock in the old joke "You can't chew gum and walk at the same time" when he formed his rock band three years ago in Los Angeles. The first time the former Westland and Garden City resident jammed with his quartet proved to be a true test of his coordination.

"This is the first band I've ever played guitar and sing in," said Burns who previously had been a drummer. "I put Mike (Alonso, drummer) and Bill (Kozy, guitarist) and Jeff (King, bassist/backing vocalist) together one day just to get together and jam. It was actually to see if I could stand up and sing and play."

"It was cool. We just kind of evolved from that."

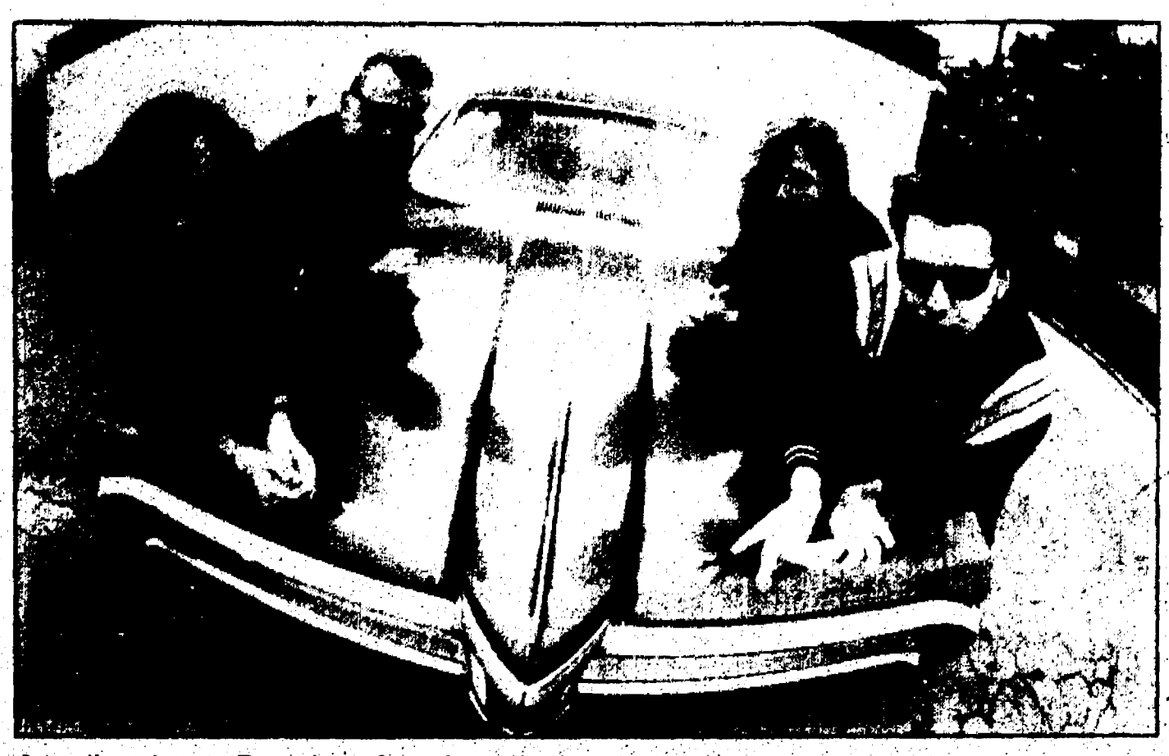

Speedball — all of whom now live in the Detroit area — evolved into a rock band on the independent hard rock label Energy Records which released the band's debut "Do Unto Others, Then Split" on Tuesday, June 27. It was produced by Steve Thompson whose credits include Guns N' Roses, Metallica, Soundgarden, Madonna, Yoko Ono, Blues Traveler, and Public Enemy.

The band, which has a one-album, four-album option deal with Energy, celebrates the release of the CD with a party and performance Saturday, July 8, at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit.

"Do Unto Others, Then Split" has a lot in common with Burns' love of drag racing. The 35-minute, 10-song CD speeds along with its relentlessly addictive guitar riffs and hook-laden lyrics until it crashes head first into the end of the CD before you realize what hit you.

The first single, "Hog," is a hard-rocking testament to motorcycle riding: "Live fast, die young. Get on your hog and ride," Burns sings rolling his r's. "God of Slumber" is another highlight of "Do Unto Others, Then Split" with its Clutch-like monotone vocals that build tension until they explode into the chorus "Refuse to feel the pain. Some things just never change. Refuse to play the game."

On "Do Unto Others, Then Split," Speedball weaves in and out of the rock, heavy metal and alternative rock lanes. The band's ability to diversify is one of Speedball's selling points, Burns said.

"One of our strong points is we like to hint at things. We like to hint at heavy metal. We like to hint at grunge. We like to hint at alternative. But we're none of those. We're just a rock band that kind of likes to dip into different vallies."

Although the band was formed in Los Angeles, three quarters of Speedball's members are originally from suburban Detroit. (Bassist/vocalist Jeff King was a military brat who lived all over the United States.) Alonso moved out west first in 1988 with his band Katmandu, which recorded an album for Epic Records. Burns and Kozy, who are longtime friends of Alonso, moved the following year.

The three remained friends in California — King was Alonso's roommate — and got together to jam after Katmandu fell apart. Burns at the time was playing in a side project of Tracy Guns of L.A. Guns called Killing Machine, and another band called Mother. (If you look real close on Alice in Chains' 'Dirt' album, one of the guys is wearing a Mother T-shirt.)

As the band practiced, Alonso said, it was apparent that Speedball was their calling.

"Every song we wrote just got cooler and cooler. (We thought) 'Let's do it,'" Alonso explained.

Eventually, Burns put the pedal to the metal, spun his tires and left Killing Machine, which released an album on Polygram Records, and the drums in the dust.

"It wasn't until we started playing out that I thought, 'This is it.' So I finally quit Killing Machine and quit playing drums all together," Burns said.

The fledgling band gigged around the L.A. club circuit until the pressures of being under the record industry microscope got to them.

"This was the first band I ever played guitar and sang in, and here we are and I'm playing in Hollywood. We immediately started getting interest (from record labels). I didn't feel that I was up to par with the rest of the band. I needed time to grow as a singer/guitar player. It was easier to come back here and do it because there's less pressure here," Burns said during an interview at his Oak Park home.

"In L.A. as soon as you get any kind of a buzz, everybody comes out and you're under a microscope. If you don't get signed within the first couple of months, you might as well forget it."

The band, including King who had never been anywhere close to Michigan, packed its bags and headed back for Detroit. The move was a valuable one, Alonso said.

"Detroit gave us a little chance to discover our niche (and discover) exactly which direction we wanted to go in. We were fighting with it a little bit. Now we're focused on exactly what we want tosound like."

Touring is the next race that Speedball is up against. Although their schedule's still tentative, Burns isn't taking any chances. He's getting in all the drag racing that he can.

Speedball, Hoarse and Chickenhawk perform on Saturday, July 8, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Doors open at 9 p.m. for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Gay band emphasizes the positive

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

In the three years that Pansy Division has been singing pop songs about the homosexual lifestyle, they've never encountered a homophobic crowd — until they visited Detroit with Green Day.

"It was one of the worst responses we've ever gotten in the entire country," singer/guitarist Jon Ginoli said via telephone from his San Francisco home. "It was the most loud and obnoxious and antagonistic crowd that we had to face."

"We always wondered when we would run into a really (homophobic) audience. It took about 200 shows before we saw one."

Ironically, Pansy Division merchandise sold well, which is why the trio is looking forward to playing two shows, sponsored by Homocore Detroit, on Tuesday, July 11, at Alvin's in Detroit.

The band is touring in support of "Pile Up" (Lookout!), a compilation of singles, rare tracks and covers of songs by Prince, Liz Phair ("Flower"), Lou Reed ("Femme Fatale"), and Spinal Tap ("Big Bottom") among others. On the 20-song CD, Pansy Division doesn't mince words about their lifestyle.

"I feel like the best thing that we can do is just present ourselves the way that we're comfortable doing. If we were really worried (about people's reactions) we couldn't have started in the first place," he said.

The album closes with "Smells Like Queer Spirit," based on Nirvana's "Smells Like Teen Spirit" rewritten with pro-gay lyrics: "Irreverent and in your face. Attacking preachers spewing hate. I'd love to puncture their balloons. Spray silly string around their rooms. Hello. Hello. Hello. Homo."

Even though there's a statement inside the CD booklet that Nirvana didn't mind "Smells Like Queer Spirit," Pansy Division had to stop playing the song because Nirvana fans took offense to it. The band's lead singer Kurt Cobain committed suicide a year ago.

Gay and proud: Members of the San Francisco alternative rock band Pansy Division — from left, vocalist/guitarist Jon Ginoli, bassist/vocalist Chris Freeman, and drummer Dustin Donaldson, former Kalamazoo resident and member of Thought Industry — aren't afraid to write songs about their lifestyle.

"People are really sensitive about Kurt Cobain. It's not a parody (of the original). It's not a put down. (But) People think we're making fun of the song and we got some bad reactions. The meaning of the song changed after he died. This sort of light, fun song that became sort of heavy," Ginoli explained.

"Pile Up" isn't a diatribe lambasting people who disapprove of the gay lifestyle. Most of it is fun, upbeat songs. For example, in the opening track "I Can't Sleep" Ginoli makes fun of a boyfriend that he had: "Wish I could turn on my light/And read my Village Voice/But layin' next to this beached whale/I haven't got the choice/He looked good at the time/I must have been out of my mind."

With their music, Pansy Division hopes to give listeners a positive look at the gay lifestyle, Ginoli said.

"Part of the idea was to document something that really was sexually positive and reflect our own experiences which are good experiences in terms of we're happy that we're gay. It hasn't been all roses all the time. The songs in general try to reflect what we're upbeat about. Sometimes we get kind of cynical or sarcastic, but for the most part we're dedicated to doing something that we enjoy doing. We don't really get on stage and try to be morose. We're trying to do something positive with our experiences," Ginoli said.

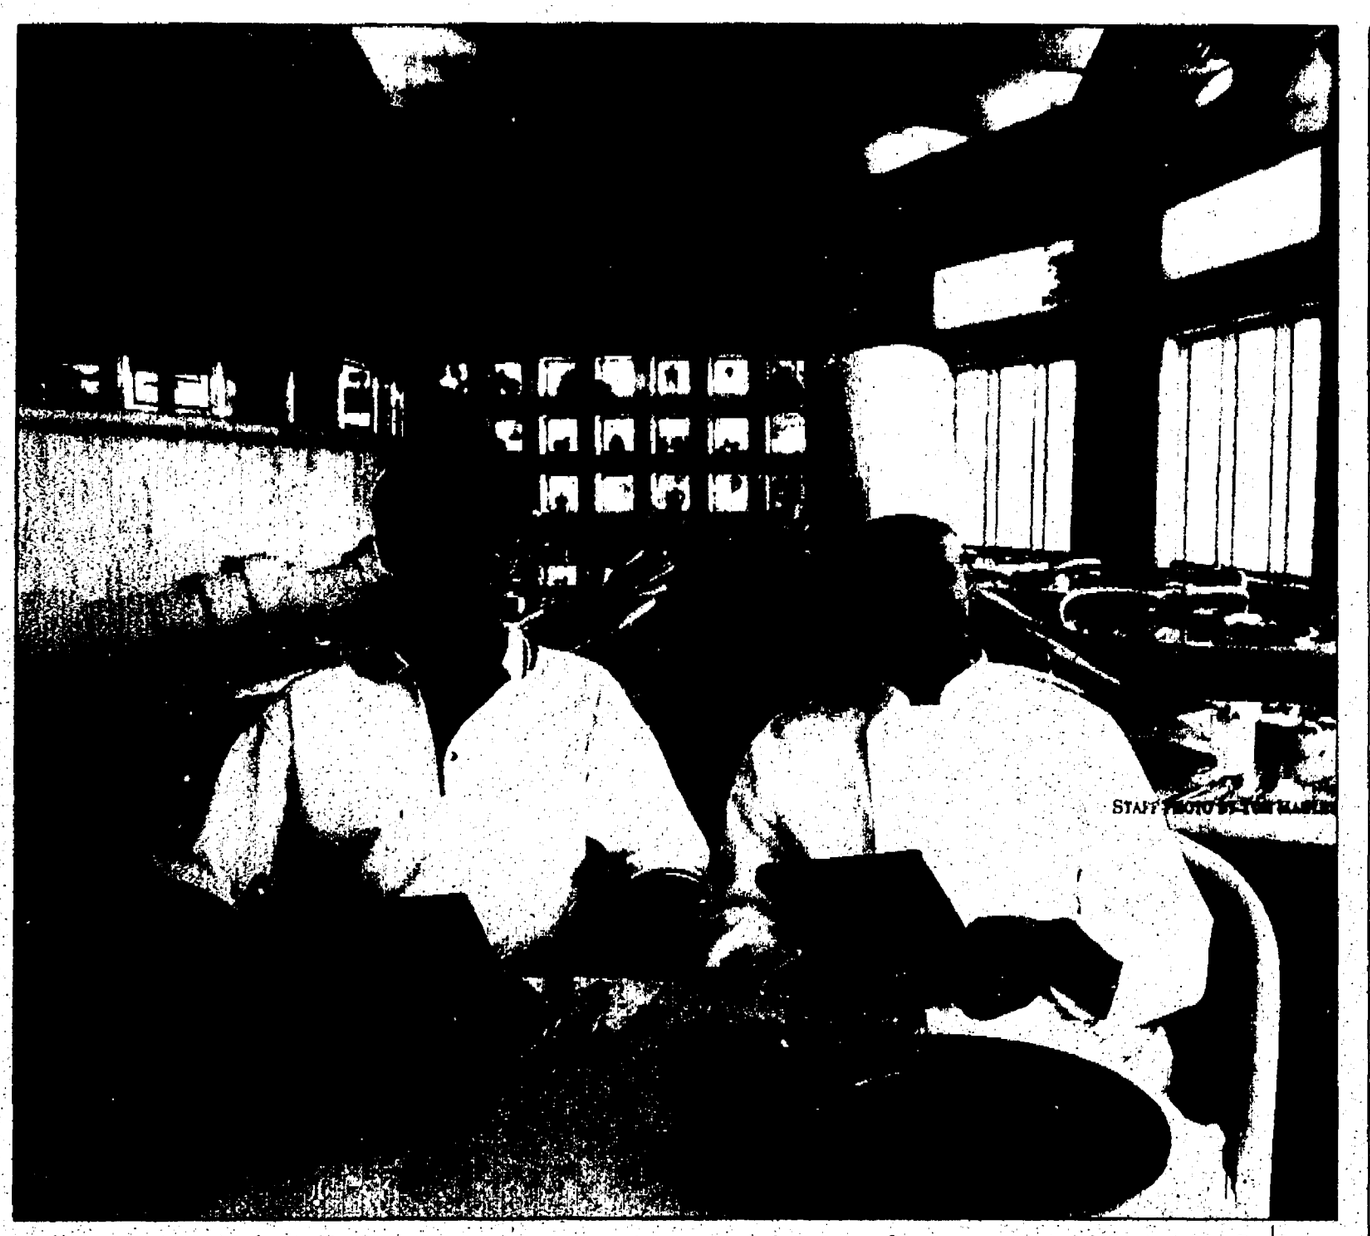

Two of Pansy Division's members are gay — Ginoli and bassist/vocalist Chris Freeman. New drummer Dustin Donaldson, a former Kalamazoo resident who played with the industrial rock band Thought Industry, is straight and doesn't mind the explicit lyrics.

"When we met him, one of the things that he said was he has never understood why people get so upset about gay issues. It's never been an issue for him. . . . He's very into the idea of supporting a gay band even though he's not gay," Ginoli said.

"It says something about us too. We're in the rock scene. We've been gay since we were grown up. We've always had straight friends who were in the music scene with us. We're pro-gay and really in your face about it, but we really value our straight fans. It's not a separatist kind of thing."

Pansy Division performs an all-ages show at 7 p.m., and an 18 and older show at 10 p.m. on Tuesday, July 11, at Alvin's, 5756 Cass Ave., Detroit. A portion of the proceeds will benefit Oakland University's Gay and Lesbian Alliance (GALA). For more information about the show, call (313) 832-2355.

Brothers Richie and Ken Cummins, best known in this area as golf course entrepreneurs, apparently know a little about the restaurant business, as well.

Along with partner and general manager John Gwathney, the Cummins brothers have opened a new, contemporary restaurant at their nine-hole Copper Creek Golf Course in Farmington Hills. And, by all accounts, The Inn at Copper Creek, is scoring an ace.

"I first heard about Copper Creek from an associate. She kept telling me I had to see this place," said interior designer Arlene Kageff, who works for Scott Shuptrine in Troy. "The main dining room has an open, natural feel with the use of etched glass, whitewashed stone, cream-colored leather and African cork.

"And the ladies room is a must-see. The stall doors are a shiny, black lacquered Oriental-style."

You wonder how a couple of guys with 30 years experience building golf courses in the Novi and Northville areas know so much about restaurant decor. Well, they knew enough to call in an expert. Fort Lauderdale architect Breco provided the chic interior.

Something else the brothers knew: It takes more than a pretty interior to make a restaurant work. You have to have the food.

The Inn at Copper Creek offers elegant moderate-to-expensively priced Continental cuisine from Chef Calvin Williams.

The menu includes a wide array of appetizers from wild Morel mushrooms with shrimp in a cream sauce ($9.50) to Beluga caviar ($65).

Among the more popular entrees are medallions of beef tenderloin del mar ($21.95) and your choice of fresh seafood flown in daily from the East Coast. You also find Sauteed Quail T.C., Smoked Breast of Cumberland Duckling, fresh Vegetable Stir-Fry Canton, baby back ribs, chicken and steak.

But don't let the fine food fool you. The environment at The Inn is hardly stuffy.

"I enjoy it because during lunch time I can grab a sandwich outside on the patio that overlooks the golf course," said Liz Yersky of Farmington Hills.

"Even though The Inn attracts an upscale crowd, it's the kind of place where you feel comfortable rubbing elbows with your neighbors or the golfers at the bar."

Luncheon items include a variety of salads _ Chefs, California, Spinach, and Chicken, soup, burgers, sandwiches and omelettes.

Polanski shows way

Livonian Steve Polanski fired rounds of 73-67-79 for a 3-over total of 219 to capture the 11th annual Buick Junior Open at Flint Elks Golf Club last week in Grand Blanc.

Polanski, who will enter Stevenson High School this fall, won by a nine-stroke margin. The 14-year-old enjoyed a 12-stroke lead entering the final round Thursday.

"I've had the opportunity to win many tournaments in the state of Michigan, but this one is special because it's my first win in a national event," Polanski said. "Competing against the best gives me a special feeling."

The Buick Junior is sponsored by the American Junior Golf Association.

Area golf divots

Mark Johnson of Livonia shot a 71 to tie Mark Pattullo of Belleville and Tom McParlin of Ypsilanti for low medalist honors at the Golf Associaton of Michigan Sectional Qualifying round last week at Radrick Farms Golf Course.

Westland's Claud Johnston, who shot a 75, also earned a spot in the 1995 GAM Championship, set for July 24-26 at Flint Golf Club.

■ Joanne McVicar and Carolyn Benninger of Northville tied for low gross honors (81 each) in the first flight at the Women's Suburban Golf Association tournament stop June 30 at Hartland Glen Golf Course.

Laramore golf outing

The Rick Laramore Memorial Scholarship Golf Outing, will be Wednesday, Sept. 13 at Idyl Wyld Golf Course, 35680 Five Mile, Livonia.

Shotgun start tee times are 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. (Registration begins one-half hour before starting times.)

Fees are $80 for adults and $60 for students. The package includes 18 holes of golf (cart included), prizes, refreshments, snacks and a family-style dinner at the Italian-American Club.

The tournament is played in memory of a Livonia Churchill hockey player, who died last March 27 of Hodgkins Disease at age 17.

The annual scholarship will be awarded to a deserving Livonia Public Schools varsity hockey player.

Contributions can be made to the Rick Laramore Memorial Scholarship Fund, Churchill High School, P.O. Box 2771, Livonia, Mi. 48151.

For more information, call Jeff Hatley at (313) 459-1391.

Collegiate notes

Jennifer Winocek, Livonia Ladywood's No. 1 singles player last fall, recently signed a national letter of intent to play tennis at the University of Detroit Mercy.

Winocek was an All-Catholic League selection.

"Jennifer's a strong, competitive player who will step in and contribute right away," Titan tennis coach Jeff Good said.

■ Schoolcraft College women's soccer coach Nikki Johnson announced the signing Monday of Stacy Muysenbert, a defender from Saline High School.

Johnson now has 11 recruits in the fold for the upcoming season.

Teeters coaches stars

Livonia Ladywood's Tom Teeters, who led the Blazers to a state Class A semifinal berth last spring, will coach in the ninth annual Mizuno/Michigan High School Volleyball Coaches Association All-State All-Star Classic, 2-6 p.m. Saturday at the University of Michigan-Dearborn Arena.

Livonia Clarenceville's Tracy Sledz, who will play for Teeters this fall at Schoolcraft College, will play on Team No. 1 in the Class C game.

Magic wins division

Canton Magic, an under-14 boys team, recently posted an 8-0-2 record to win the Little Caesars Premier Soccer League title.

Assistant coaches include Ted Kithas and Jerry Parent.

The team manager is Diane Epley.

Local Wolverine harvest weak

■ A total of 99 teams registered to compete in the Wolverine 16 Tournament last weekend, but only a few local squads claimed titles.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

This is definitely an international event.

The 16th annual Wolverine Soccer Tournament came to a conclusion Monday at Schoolcraft College with champions crowned in 11 of the competitive age divisions, and co-champs in another. In those 12 divisions, only four state teams won (or shared) titles.

Canadian teams won three and outstate squads claimed five others.

The tournament is advertised as one of the premier events for the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association, which sponsors it. The results in regard to state teams hardly bolster that assessment, however.

Part of the problem is that many of the best local teams bypass the Wolverine. Why?

The reasons vary. Unlike other sports, where playing at home is an advantage, in soccer clubs teams would rather travel. And on holiday weekends (the Wolverine is always held around the Fourth of July), a lot of people travel — although not always with soccer in mind.

Also, as one of the state's few winning coaches confided, the Wolverine has outgrown its facility. Schoolcraft simply does not have enough space for fields. Other cities in the state, such as Saginaw and Kalamazoo, have soccer facilities with 10 (or more) exceptional fields.

Still, one of the tournament's biggest surprises came courtesy of a local team. In the under-17 boys division, the Canton Strikers subdued the Teutonia Thunder (from Windsor) 2-1 in Monday's final. It was not an easy road for the Strikers; they lost their tourney opener to the Thunder by a 4-0 margin.

"We had lost to that team twice before by 1-0 scores," said Strikers' coach Tom Martin, "and I think the kids came out real nervous in that first game.

"Before our game against them (Monday), I told the kids, 'You can beat this team.' And we did — we had a lot of kids step forward today."

It was a fine ending to a season that was lackluster until the last few weeks. "We didn't have a good season," admitted Martin. That changed the weekend prior to the Wolverine, when they reached the finals of a tournament in Youngstown, Ohio.

After losing to the Thunder in their opener, the Strikers defeated the USL Titans 3-0 and played Arsenal F.C. (Ohio) to a scoreless tie. In the semifinals, the Strikers edged the favored Rochester Attack 3-2 in a shootout, thanks to keeper Brian Bazynski's three penalty-kick saves.

The other local teams to win Wolverine titles were also in the boys divisions. In the under-15 boys, the LYSC Wings edged the USL San Marino Strikers 1-0 in the championship contest.

Like the Canton Strikers, the LYSC team did not survive the tournament unscathed, but instead had to come back to beat a team it had lost to earlier in the final. After opening with a 2-1 triumph over Arsenal F.C., the Wings lost 2-0 to San Marino. The Wings then beat the Livonia Meteors 3-0 before tripping the Ann Arbor Arsenal 3-1 in the semis.

The other local champion was the under-12 Michigan Wolves, which rolled to five-consecutive victories en route to the championship. The Wolves defeated the Windsor F.C. Nationals 5-1; Minelli's Sault Civics (Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario) 7-1; the Ann Arbor Arsenal 9-1; and the Sterling Heights Sting 8-0.

Rockers tied by Selects, 4-4

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

A group of local players, put together at the last minute, proved to be more than worthy opponents Saturday night for the Detroit Rockers.

The two teams battled to a 4-4 draw in an outdoor exhibition soccer match before an estimated 500 fans at Livonia Clarenceville High School.

"These guys we played are professionals, but the key thing we proved is that we have some guys who can play at that level, too," said Jay Williford, who helped put together the Select team. "It was very interesting."

The Rockers, an indoor team that plays during the winter months in the National Professional Soccer League, were led by player-coach Pato Margetic's two goals.

Todd Webber and Bodgen Zurowski added goals for the Rockers.

Zurowski, 25, and Wojciech Krzyshow, 38, both members of the Chicago Metropolitan League, were invited to play by Margetic to help fill out the Rockers' roster, which also included former area standouts Lars Richters (Livonia Stevenson/Yale University), Brian Thiel (Redford Catholic Central/Valparaiso) and Dominic Scicluna (Redford CC/Oakland University). Rockers All-NPSL goalkeeper Bryan "Goose" Finnerty also played.

Craig Przygoda, a recent graduate of Troy Athens and headed for the University of Detroit Mercy, led the Select team with a pair of goals.

The Select team also included goalkeeper Kal Kaliszewski (Livonia Churchill/Detroit), Mike Gentile (Churchill/Wisconsin), Derek Williford (Stevenson/Oakland), Chris Grodzicki (Stevenson/Central Michigan), Kevin Callaway (Churchill/leaning toward Cleveland State), Sean Noble (Farmington High/headed for Michigan State) and Jeff Thomas (Stevenson/Detroit).

Birmingham-Detroit Country Day was also well represented by Adam Hunter (Cal-Berkeley), Tino Scicluna (Butler), Fred Olson and Neal Grode (Butler).

John Boots helped coach the Select team.

Saunders ready for international tourney

Northwood University standout center fielder Rhonda Saunders has been selected to a U.S. college all-star team, which will compete in a tournament next week in Apeldoorn, the Netherlands.

Saunders

The 1991 Livonia Clarenceville High School product, a two-time first-team All-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference pick, is one of 12 players comprising the Midwest All-Stars.

The tournament is set up through the International Athletic Foundation, with its U.S. office in St. Louis, Mo.

The team will be coached by Bill Edington, head softball coach at Mid-America Nazarene College (Kansas).

"There were no tryouts for the team," Saunders said. "He (Edington) told me that the selection committee took the top 50 players in the country and narrowed it down to the 12 players on the team. It was based a lot on statistics and recommendations from other coaches."

Saunders' stats speak volumes.

In just two years at Northwood, she set nine single season or career records.

She batted .402 as a junior and set Northwood marks in hits (76), runs scored (58) and stolen bases (63). This spring, she batted .503 with 78 hits, 62 runs and 58 stolen bases. Saunders finished the 1995 season ranked No. 11 in NCAA Division II batting and tied for fifth in stolen bases.

Saunders is one of two NCAA Division II players selected to the team. Two others are from junior colleges, while the rest are from NCAA Division I teams.

She is the lone Michigan player. Others come from Texas, California and Kentucky.

The Midwest All-Stars fly Saturday to Antwerp, Belgium and will play an exhibition game and give a youth instructional clinic during their two-day stay in Belgium. The team will play 11 more games during its seven days in the Netherlands.

"This is an annual tournament held by the Robur 58 club in Apeldoorn," said Kevin Whitworth, president of the IAF office in St. Louis.

■ SOFTBALL

"It's an excellent situation for kids to compete against good competition.

"The Dutch National Team played in the tournament last year. The level of play is outstanding."

European teams are age 18 and over, while the U.S. teams are limited to 18-21.

"It's also a great social experience for the players," Whitworth said. "Pretty much everything takes place at the complex, which is just beautiful. There's usually a cookout for the teams after the games each day, and they have a lot of free time to socialize and see some of the country."

Saunders said she is looking forward to the tournament and going up against Olympic hopefuls.

"Apparently, women's fast-pitch softball is big in Europe," she said, "and a lot of professional teams from there will be watching our games, scouting for new players."

Saunders, who has used up her college eligibility, but has a year of school left at Northwood (after transferring from Oakland Community College), is spending the summer working at Enterprise Rent-A-Car in Dearborn.

She said her 55-hour work weeks have prevented her from playing softball this summer.

"I really have not had the time to play," she said. "And now here I am, just starting a job, and asking for a week to go to Europe."

Saunders, however, is thrilled about the opportunity to compete internationally.

But she faces one major hardship.

She must pay her own way. The total cost is approximately $3,000.

"I told my dad how much it was, and he just said, 'Hey, you're going, and we'll just have to do what we have to do to pay for it,'" Rhonda said. "A lot of the other girls knew about this earlier and have been able to raise money through contributions. But this came to me on short notice, and I haven't been able to really organize anything."

Donations can be sent to Saunders in care of: Enterprise Rent-A-Car, 4950 Greenfield, Dearborn, Mich. 48126.

In the final, the Wolves — coached by Les Neal — had to battle, but they beat the Nationals again, 3-2.

A few other local squads did make it to their division finals. The Lobos '81 were beaten by the Indy Inferno (Indiana) 3-0 in the under-14 boys division. And in the under-19 boys, the Muskegon Lakers edged Michigan United 1-0 for the title.

The local girls teams were less successful. The Canton Quest got to the championship in the under-12 division, but lost 4-0 to Arsenal F.C. (Ohio). "The team that took first was very, very good," said Quest coach Ellen Schroeder. "I understand it was a team of all-stars from Ohio."

Making matters more difficult for Schroeder's Quest was the absence of five starters for the final. "We won our last two tournaments (at Canton and Saginaw), and we came in second today, so I'm happy," said Schroeder.

In the girls under-14 division, the Xania Flash (Ohio) beat the Lapeer Renegades 2-0; in under-16, the East Side Strikers (Windsor) blanked the Rochester Falcons 2-0; and in under-19, the T.D. Elite (Indiana) and Ohio Cosmos were ruled co-champs after a controversy surrounding the Elite's victory in a shootout.

Ex-Ocelots fill Neon void

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Former Schoolcraft College soccer star Chris Crawford has earned a job with the Detroit Neon of the Continental Indoor Soccer League.

Crawford feels like a king with the Neon, and not just because they play their home games at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Crawford last summer had a disappointing stint with the Detroit Wheels, a professional outdoors team based in Troy. Crawford played only four games for the Wheels before quitting.

Crawford said getting paid was a problem with the Wheels.

"I just didn't like the way we were being treated," said Crawford, a defender. "They don't treat you like human beings."

Crawford hadn't played in the Neon's first three games, all losses. But coach Chris Keenan was thinking about shaking up his team following Thursday's 6-5 loss to first-place Monterrey at the Palace.

"I expect him to get a game in the near future," Keenan said. "As a rookie, you have to be willing to open the page and learn the game."

Crawford joins another former Schoolcraft player, goalkeeper Colin Jex, who has been with the Neon since the team joined the CISL in 1994.

Jex, a 1968 Dearborn High graduate, is one of three goalkeepers on the Neon roster.

Jex, who has yet to suit up for the Neon, also acts as a goalkeeper coach.

"I'm like a jack of all trades, but I'm a player, first and foremost," said Jex, who works full-time as a benefits consultant for Benepro in Royal Oak. "I'm like an insurance policy for the team. This is something I always wanted to do."

■ The CISL believes it has a good chance of survival because it has franchises in some of the nation's biggest markets.

Along with Detroit, the CISL has franchises in Houston, Las Vegas, Anaheim, Calif., Dallas, Pittsburgh, Washington and Seattle.

Eight of the 15 CISL franchises have backing from National Hockey League or National Basketball Association owners, according to the Neon director of operations Dave Baker.

"Nothing against (National Professional Soccer League members) Canton (Ohio) or Harrisburg (Pennsylvania), but if you're going to start a pro league, I don't know if those are the markets you look at," said Dave Baker, director of soccer operations for the Neon. "The NPSL is more of an East Coast type league. We're coast to coast."

It also helps the Neon to add marketable players like Andy "Superman" Chapman to the roster. Chapman, who used to play for the Detroit Rockers in the National Professional Soccer League, scored four goals in Thursday's 6-5 loss to Monterrey at the Palace.

He is among the CISL leaders with eight goals in three games.

He is the third all-time leading scorer in indoor soccer history with 583 career goals.

Livonia native McIlmurray sets amateur trotting record

■ HORSES

Former Livonian Lelia McIlmurray has spent her whole life around horses and the racetrack, but the 40-year-old former outrider has never had a bigger thrill that driving a 6-year-old trotter named Charisma Seelster to a lifetime best 1:55.3 victory in the CKG Billings Amateur Driving Championship, June 20, at the Meadowlands (N.J.)

The time of the race was the fastest by any amateur driving a trotter, and the quickest mile by a woman in any trotting race, amateur or pro, according to the U.S. Trotting Association.

McIlmurray said hitting the finish line after going wire-to-wire was an emotional experience.

"I was hooting and hollering," she said. "I looked over at the time and knew we were smoking, but I didn't think that fast. It was quite a thrill."

Ironically, McIlmurray didn't follow the instructions of Charisma Seelster's trainer Eric Foster.

"He told me not to leave," McIlmurray said. "The horse has a tendency to choke a little and likes to be covered up, and race from behind. I told him (Foster) that I'd play it by ear and if nobody left the gate, I was going to. He relented and told me to do what I wanted. Usually, I do like to race from behind."

McIlmurray had no problems with the tough-to-handle trotter and was never worried about being caught.

"I thought it was great," she said. "When we got to the three-quarters (in 1:26.4), I knew we were flying. I'd never gone that fast before. I never thought about hitting him with the whip, but I did want to keep him going. No one was close, and I thought that if he didn't stop, or hit a cement wall, we'd be all right."

McIlmurray, originally from Livonia, comes from a full-time harness racing family.

Her father, Wally Sr., and two brothers, Wally Jr. and Art, train and drive standardbreds at Hazel Park. A third brother, Adam, is a starter.

Lelia has worked as an assistant in the Meadowlands race office for 12 years and resides in New Jersey with her husband, Brian Montgomery.

She has given thought to driving horses professionally.

"I trained and groomed with my dad and brothers all the time," McIlmurray said. "I was always at the barn. When I graduated from high school, I wanted to drive, but my family really didn't want me to. They felt it was too dangerous, and not a place for a woman.

"So, I started outriding at Hazel Park when I was 19 and did that for 15 years."

Many of the Meadowlands' top drivers were impressed by her record-setting performance.

"Mike LaChance asked me why I didn't do this for a living," McIlmurray recalled. "I told him that I was too old, but he laughed and said I have the hands. He said I improved all the horses I drove."

Meadowlands drivers Ron Waples and John Campbell marched right over to McIlmurray with congratulations.

As she hopped out of the sulky, Peter Wrenn, another driver, said, "Thank God you're not out there every night."

Richard Silverman, who drove Charisma Seelster to an out-of-the-money finish the week before, said to McIlmurray, "You made me look bad, but you did a good job."

McIlmurray readily admits she's not ready to take on the pros.

"I think it's too late," she said. "It's a different game when you're racing with the professionals. You have to be pretty fit to drive with these guys and that's not for me. No, thank you."

But just how good is the 5-foot-2, 105-pound reinswoman?

She has already won five races in 25 starts during her four-year Billings career.

"I drove only a couple of times last year, but I've had quite a few seconds — at least eight," she said. "When I raced last year at home (Hazel Park), it was the only time I made a break and finished back. They gave me all this publicity. I drove one of my brother's horses, and sure enough, behind the gate he jumped.

"I was so embarrassed. I can't imagine the top drivers going for big money and making a break. Their hearts must drop."

The Billings series started in May. Fourteen more races are scheduled across the country.

McIlmurray plans to drive in at least eight more, trying to pad her point total and qualify for the semifinals at Garden State Park and the finals Oct. 28 at Freehold Raceway.

On Aug. 21, McIlmurray will be at Hazel Park.

"I want to do well there for some revenge," she said. "I told my brother he'd better find me a good horse."

McIlmurray has plenty of advice for young women interested in getting into harness racing.

"I think it's a game you need to know from the ground up," she said. "You can't just jump on the bike and go. We need some women in the racing industry, especially since the women and horses get along so well.

"There's something about that connection. Anybody who loves horse and this business should go for it."

Taormina leads way for Clarenceville

■ SWIMMING

Former Livonia Stevenson All-Stater and University of Georgia standout Sheila Taormina continues to get better with age.

Representing the Clarenceville Swim Club, the 26-year-old Taormina placed first and set meet records in seven events last weekend in an open meet in Findlay, Ohio.

Taormina, the women's high-point winner, captured the 1,500-meter freestyle (17:27.98), 200 butterfly (2:23.5), 400 freestyle (4:23.42), 100 butterfly (1:05.23), 100 freestyle (59.55), 50 freestyle (28.0) and 200 freestyle (2:04.53).

Bird is word

Cincinnati Midland team wins tourney

The Cincinnati Midland Redskins, the 15- to 16-year-old baseball club that produced Ken Griffey Jr., came away with the eighth annual Bob Bird Memorial Invitational title with a 6-1 victory over Wheaton, Ill. in the championship final Monday at Westland John Glenn High School.

Shortstop Ricky Bell, a relative of former Red Gus Bell, won tournament MVP honors. He hit .500.

The tournament batting champ was Midland's Brian Schubert, who hit .545, while pitcher Tom Cook got the win in the final.

Midland, coached by former Xavier University head coach Larry Redwine, went 4-0-1 in pool play to reach the finale. The lone blemish on its record was a tie with Lorland Park, Ill.

Rains on Friday shortened round-robin play from six to five games for 14 teams that competed in the tournament.

Westland America, the host team, lost its first four games before beating Pittsburgh on Sunday, 12-3, as Sean Heard (Westland John Glenn) went 3-for-4 with a double. Pitcher Matt Heather (Birmingham-Detroit Country Day) got the victory.

Westland played three games on Saturday, falling to Windsor, Ontario (6-5), the Detroit Police Athletic League Eagles (9-1 in a mercy rule) and Wheaton (4-1).

On Sunday, Midland beat Westland in an error-filled game, 9-5.

Losing pitcher James O'Connor, a left-hander from Redford Catholic Central, allowed just five hits, but was the victim of eight errors.

Midland, meanwhile, made six errors.

"I've never seen an uglier game," Westland America coach Jerry Pitcher said. "James pitched well enough to win, but he didn't get the support he needed.

"We can't seem to get the pitching and defense to work at the same time, but that sounds like the cry of a loser."

O'Connor was named to the all-tourney team. The right-hander hit .510.

Pitcher believes his catching is solid with Chuck Archambeau (Farmington) and Trevor Davey (John Glenn).

"We're a better team than we've showed," Pitcher said. "Right now we have a young team. We have five 15-year-olds on our team, which is more than I've ever had."

It was Midland's second Bird title. The Cincinnati team has also finished second three times.

Hines Park's Paluk proving king of hill

■ COLLEGIATE

Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury won its seventh-straight Livonia Collegiate Baseball League game on Friday, 3-0, over Decision Consultants Inc. at Livonia's Ford Field.

Brian Paluk (Redford Catholic Central/Saginaw Valley State University) threw a three-hitter and ran his streak of scoreless innings pitched to 17.

Paluk struck out four and walked none in moving his record to 2-0.

Hines Park scored one run in the second inning and two in the fourth to improve to 11-3 overall.

Brian Besco (Westland John Glenn/University of Michigan) had a solo homer in the second and had a double to start the two-run rally in the fourth. Greg Janus (University of Detroit) doubled to send Besco home with the second run. Janus came home when E.J. Howell (University of Detroit) was safe on an error.

■ LITTLE CAESARS 10, ADRAY 0: Mark Rutherford (Livonia Churchill/Eastern Michigan University) earned the pitching victory Friday at Livonia's Ford Field.

Caesars is 5-10 overall, according to coach John Moraitis.

Mike Fenech (Macomb Community College) and Scott Kapla (Redford Catholic Central/Eastern Michigan) had two hits each for Caesars.

Concealed Security bats .500 in weekend invite

■ SANDLOT

The Livonia Concealed Security Connie Mack baseball team finished 3-3 over the weekend in a series of games played in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Concealed Security started with a doubleheader loss on Friday to Cincinnati Midland, 10-1 and 9-2.

Concealed rebounded to win a doubleheader Saturday against the West Virginia Patriots, 10-6 and 10-8. Concealed finished Sunday with a split against the Kentucky Blues, winning the first game, 8-3, and losing the nightcap, 10-7.

Ryan Kelley threw well for three innings in the first game on Friday before Midland scored 10 runs, only three earned. Chris Deshetler, who had two of Concealed's three hits, drove in Concealed's only run.

In the second game, Luke Bonner suffered the loss, allowing seven runs in four innings. Deshetler pitched two innings in relief. Billy Morris (Redford Union) had an RBI single and Mike Cervenak scored a run for Concealed.

Concealed defeated West Virginia, 10-6, in the first game on Saturday as Terry Bigham earned the win, scattering 10 hits with seven strikeouts and no walks. Matt Mlynarek was the hitting hero, driving in five runs with a three-run homer, single and double. He also scored three runs and stole a base. Greg Ryan scored two runs and drove in a pair of runs with two doubles.

Cervenak had two singles and a pair of RBI.

Mitch Jabczenski picked up the pitching victory in the nightcap, throwing three innings in relief of E.J. Roman. Deandre Cooper scored two runs and had an RBI on three singles. Cervenak had two hits, scored two runs and drove in a run; Morris and Kelley each had RBI singles and Ryan Cameron had two singles and an RBI; Ryan had three singles and an RBI.

In Sunday's first game against the Kentucky Blues, J.J. Putz threw a four hitter with 11 strikeouts and three walks to win 8-3. Cooper had a single, triple, homer and three RBI. Ryan had three hits and scored a run; Roman had two hits with two RBI; Cervenak had a double and two RBI and Mlynarek had a double and RBI.

In the last game, a 10-7 loss to the Blues, Joe Maceri suffered the pitching loss. He allowed eight runs in two innings.

Concealed had a chance to force extra innings, but failed to score after loading the bases in the seventh. Cervenak had a homer and three RBI. Mlynarek had two hits, including a double; Deshetler had a single and two RBI; and Ryan had a single and two RBI. Putz had a single, double and scored two runs.

Morris sprained an ankle and is expected to be out about a week. Brian Berryman (RU) sprained his knee in the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association All Star Game at Tiger Stadium and is expected to be out at least another week.

Stingers whip W. Bloomfield

The Stingers, an 18-and-under girls fast-pitch softball team, took a doubleheader last week from host West Bloomfield, 7-3 and 20-1.

Pitchers Angie Hudson (Garden City) and Robyn Pitman (Taylor Light & Life) struck out six and two, respectively, to hurl the Stingers to an opening game victory.

■ FAST-PITCH

In the second game, the Stingers unloaded as lead-off batter Kendra Dumke reached base four times and scored four runs.

Kelly Shanks, Andrea Mida and Hudson all collected doubles during the twin bill, while Stephanie Smith added her second triple in two outings.

The winning pitcher was Andrea Mida, who got middle relief help from Jennifer Wilson.

■ NINERS 12-7, LASERS 7-3: The Livonia Lasers dropped their first two games in the Incredible Girls Fast-Pitch Softball League to the Northville Niners in a twin bill June 29 at Franklin High School.

Jami Grigal went 2-for-2, including a grand slam in the second inning in the opener, but it was enough as the Niners won in three innings (stopped because of the 1:20-hour time limit).

Maria Lopiccolo and Kim Rowland each added one hit.

Pitcher Melissa Zawacki took the loss, giving up nine walks and five hits.

Zawacki also took the loss in the nightcap, giving up seven hits and four walks.

Melissa Wolvin had an RBI triple in the fourth inning, scoring Margaret Schultz. Randi Wolfe and Zawacki had the other hits for the Lasers.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Westland wildlife artist gains top 10 in stamp design contest

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

A hearty congratulations goes out to Larry Cory of Bloomfield Hills and Mike Todoroff of Westland.

The two accomplished wildlife artists recently placed in the top 10 of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Trout/Salmon and Waterfowl stamp design contests.

Cory won the trout/salmon stamp contest for a painting of a rainbow trout. His design will be featured on Michigan's 1996 trout/salmon stamp.

Todoroff placed in the top 10 in the waterfowl stamp design competition. Rusty Frentner, of Milan, won the waterfowl design competition for a painting of Canada Geese. His design will be featured on Michigan's 1996 waterfowl stamp.

The top 10 entries from each contest will be on display at various wildlife art galleries across the state for a seven-month period. Display locations will be announced by August 1.

While we're on the topic of wildlife art, The Michigan United Conservation Clubs invites Michigan artists 16 years of age and older to enter the 16th annual Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year contest.

The contest is held to advance and promote the creative expression of wildlife and outdoor art among the Michigan art community.

Entries will be accepted in any medium suitable for reproduction. Entries will be accepted Sept. 1-Dec. 15. For more information and contest rules, contact Michael Soczek at MUCC, 2101 Wood Street, Lansing, MI. 48912 or call 1-800-777-6720.

Charity bass tourney

Bass anglers can help bring a smile to the faces of the pediatric patients at William Beaumont Hospital by participating in the 1995 Oakland Bass Masters Tournament for Toys on Saturday, July 15.

Oakland Bass Masters will donate $15 from each two-person team entered in the tournament, as well as all money collected from a raffle for a MINN KOTA trolling motor, to buy toys for the pediatric patients at William Beaumont Hospital.

The tournament will be held on Cass Lake, with tournament headquarters stationed at Dodge Park No. 4. Preregistration is $75. Same day registration is $80 and will be accepted 4:30-5:30 a.m. The tournament begins at 6 a.m. and ends at 2 p.m. The top seven finishers will receive cash awards.

There are still openings for this charity tournament. Contact Roy Randolph at (810) 542-5254 for details and registration information.

Warbler population growing

The endangered Kirkland warbler is fast on the comeback trail.

Research biologists and volunteers counted 765 singing males during the official annual male singing census which was completed in mid-June. The record count represents a 21-percent increase over the previous record, set last year when 633 singing males were counted.

The small blue-gray and yellow, sparrow-sized bird breeds primarily in the northern Lower Peninsula, especially in Ogemaw and Oscoda counties. The males are very territorial during the spring mating season and are persistent singers, enabling observers to attain an accurate count.

"The increase in Kirtland warblers is great news and shows that the Endangered Species Act works," said DNR director Rollie Harmes. "It is a tribute to scientific and ecosystem wildlife management, and the cooperation among Department of Natural Resources biologists and foresters, the U.S. Forest Service and the Department of Military Affairs in restoring the warbler's nesting habitat."

Kirtland's warbler is a ground nester and prefers stands of Jack Pines. Historically, these stands of young trees were maintained by naturally-occuring wildfires. Fire prevention programs altered the frequency of the wildfires, and subsequently eliminated any new habitat for the Kirtland warbler.

Wolves ice Huskies in 13-6 goal-blitz

HOCKEY

What's this? A drought?

That might be taking it a bit far, but it should be noted that only one team scored over 10 goals in a four-game stretch of the Metro Summer Hockey League. That was by the unbeaten Wolverines, who blitzed the Huskies 13-6 Monday at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Jim Nesich (from Plymouth) did a lot of damage himself, accounting for four goals and three assists as the Wolves improved to 3-0 — making them the MSHL's frontrunner and one of two undefeated teams (the Falcons were 2-0 going into Wednesday night's game against the Spartans).

The Wolves took control early with a 7-2 lead after one period; they scored the final five goals of first (Nesich had three in the period) to take command.

Rob Fleury added three goals and an assist to the winner's totals, with Bob Nagy getting two goals and an assist, and Kevin Mankowski chipping in with a goal and four assists. Rob Spears also had a goal and an assist, and Brian Hannigan and Kirk Gurney each scored goals.

For the Huskies (1-2), the loss overshadowed an outstanding offensive show by Jason Weber (Livonia), who pumped in five goals. Tony McGee had a goal and two assists, and Darren Stoddy had three assists for the Huskies.

■ LAKERS 6, BULLDOGS 6: The Bulldogs scored early, but the Lakers responded late to forge a tie Wednesday at Plymouth.

The Bulldogs (1-1-1) led 4-0 after one period and had a 6-2 lead when Dominic Catanzarite (Livonia) scored with 12:45 remaining in the game. But the Lakers (1-1-1) answered, getting two goals apiece from Ian Crockford and Chad Theuer in the final 10:20.

Theuer finished with three goals and an assist, and Crockford had two goals and two assists for the Lakers, who also got a goal from Greg Walsh. For the 'Dogs, Jack McCoy (Livonia), Krikor Arman and Catanzarite each had a goal and two assists, and Kris Cantu had a goal and an assist. Pat Dakhl and Todd Kesler (Livonia) also scored goals.

■ FALCONS 6, WILDCATS 2: Two goals and an assist from Darren Hands supplemented the solid play from goalie Matt Kucway in the Falcons' win last Thursday in Plymouth.

Mike Kneiding (Livonia) added a goal and three assists for the Falcons (2-0), and Tony Guzzo (Plymouth) had a goal and two assists. Jim Hubenschmidt (Redford) added a goal and an assist, Jesse Hubenschmidt (Redford) had two assists, and Mario Mazzuca scored a goal.

For the Wildcats (2-1), Keith Pietila and Jim Pietila scored goals, with Kevin Pietila assisting on both.

■ NEW STORE IN LIVONIA

Nine West, specialty shoe store, is open in Laurel Park Place Mall, corner of Six Mile and Newburgh roads in Livonia.

Nine West offers a full line of shoes, boots and handbags for women.

"Nine West carries a wide variety of fashion forward styles and is proud to be ranked the number one shoe company in the world," said store manager Kristin Smith.

The new store is located in the Center Court area of the mall.

■ DESIGNERS AT DISCOUNT

Nicole's Revival Designer resale clothier, 958 Newburgh, has a large selection of designer fashions, less than two years old and "gently worn," said store owner Nicole Christ-Hill.

Nicole's Revival recently expanded its floor space and features a good selection of men's resale. Christ-Hill will host a grand reopening 5-8 p.m. Sunday, July 16. The event will features hors d'oeuvres and champagne and music provided by a jazz quartet and vocalists.

Nicole's Revival features a professional tailor, dry cleaning and image consultant.

The store is north of Cherry Hill and south of Ford Road. For more information, call (313) 729-1234.

■ AWARD WINNER

Kimcraft Printers Inc. recently won several awards for printing excellence. The Livonia company received the Award of Excellence and the 1994 Top 60 Printers Award in the 44th Annual Mead 60 Competition, a contest sponsored by the Mead Corp., one of the largest paper companies in the nation. Kimcraft was honored for "Create a Better Image — Corporate Brochure" for Commercial Publishing Services. Design was by Commerical Publishing Services. The company's was among more than 600 entries nationwide and placed in the top 60, which is "exemplary."

In the international awards competition, Kimcraft was honored in the 26th Annual Technical Publications and Art Competition-Society of Technical Communications for "Your Family Matters: A Special Guide to Help Families Understand the Critical Care Unit." The work was done for Oakwood Health Services Foundation. Design was by Spyderhuff.

Kimcraft received an International Award of Merit, Best Show for Publications and a Distinguished Technical Communication-Publications. (This piece is now part of a traveling exhibit displaying at STC chapters in the United States and Canada.)

Kimcraft Printers Inc., located on Levan Road in Livonia, is a commercial sheetfed printer with in-house prepress capabilities. The company has been in business for more than 40 years with six years of experience in electronic publishing-based prepress.

■ BOTSFORD RECOGNIZED

Botsford General Hospital, Farmington Hills, was awarded fourth place in the Bloodhound Awards competition sponsored by the Southeast Michigan Hospital Council and the American Red Cross-Southeast Michigan Chapter.

The award honors hospitals that take a leadership role in striving to make the region self-sufficient for blood and blood products and to develop community partnerships to achieve the self-sufficiency.

The awards were presented last month during the council's 12th annual meeting.

First-place honors went to River District Hospital in St. Clair County. Madison Community Hospital in Madison Heights and St. John Hospital and Medical Center in Detroit were awarded second and third places, respectively.

■ HEALTH CARE BOOK

About 8,500 Detroit area members of SelectCare, Troy, will receive a copy of Healthwise Handbook, a self- care guide to health care.

The guide offers "consumer-friendly" information for key medical decisions and suggests how to develop a better doctor-patient relationship. The book also gives straight-forward, medical information on what can be treated at home and when to see a health care professional, according to its publisher, Healthwise.

■ NEW OFFICE SUPPLIER

Staples Inc., an office supply retailer based in Massachusetts, will enter the Detroit market this fall, opening seven stores by September.

Staples first stores will open in former PartiGiant stores in Farmington Hills, Rochester Hills, Westland, Taylor and Roseville. The retailer said it plans to open 13 more Detroit area stores by 1996.

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

An exciting new real estate service was added to the Internet with last month's launch of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers's REALnet.

REALnet is an on-line full color photo and text database of homes available in the metro Detorit area. An interactive electronic home sale database service, REALnet automates almost everything except signing the bottom line.

Computer users who dial up REALnet can spell out their desires, ask for a search of the homes listed, check out each match, send a fax request for an appointment or more information, and calculate what the monthly mortgage payment for that particular home will be. This is all done in just a few minutes, while on-line.

Seven Realtors from Wayne-Oakland counties were on board for the launch which on its first day featured a listing of some 170 homes in three counties (Oakland, Wayne, Washtenaw). Realtors include Caldwell-Banker Schweitzer Real Estate, Chamberlain, Hall & Hunter, Hannett, Wilson & Whitehouse, Real Estate One, Remerica Hometown Realtors, The Michigan Group, Prudential Great Lakes, and Weir, Manuel, Snyder & Ranke.

Easy to use

To take a look at this exciting and innovative service, stroll over to O&E Online's home page at http://oeonline.com using any Web browser software. Near the top of the page is a REALnet log. Click on the hypertexted word. After one more quick click, you will end up at the "Welcome to REALnet" page.

At the welcome page are these options: Search the Listing of Homes; How to place a listing on REALnet; Current Mortgage Rates; and Agent Profiles. Select the search option and you are given the choice of continuing your search in Oakland, Washtenaw or Wayne counties.

After selecting the county where you wish to look at homes, the fun begins. You are now asked to select various search choices, each a click away. I clicked that I wanted to buy a home with at least three bedrooms, at least two baths, between $90,000 and $150,000 in Birmingham.

I activated the search button and was shown a three-bedroom, three-bath 1,005 square foot bungalow. I was shown a picture of the house and learned it is listed by Prudential. I also learned the house has a good sized kitchen and eating area, central air, hardwood floors, a newer furnace, abundant storage, a fenced yard and mature pines.

Communication is easy

I was shown Prudential's phone number and fax number but was more intrigued by the opportunity to fax a message while still on line. So I clicked on the WebFax option. All I had to do was fill in the real estate code and city of this home, type in my daytime phone and evening phone numbers, and click on the "Send Fax"' button and it is transmitted free of charge to Prudential.

On the search page there also is an offer of demographic information on several communities in that county. Click on any town listed and you get a wealth of information about that town — personal income, age of residents, age of housing, rent, home values, and much more. The Oakland search page offers demographics on Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Farmington, Lake Orion, Oxford, Rochester, Southfield, Troy and West Bloomfield.

Returning to the welcome page I ask for information on buying an advertisement on REALnet and learn that the cost to agents is $80 for the first month for a full page of text and one photo. And I learn that agents can advertise property on REALnet and in the O&E Classifieds which reach 300,000 homes each week and get more bang for their buck. I can fill out an on-line form and submit an ad order by WebFax — point and click, and my money's gone, only to return again in a quick sale.

Back at the welcome page I click on "Current Mortgage Rates" and am taken to a New Loan Qualification Calculator sponsored by PMI Mortgage Insurance Co. You are asked to type in some information like income, funds for down payment and closing costs, monthly debt payments, and the interest rate. In case you don't know the current interest rate, scroll down the page and click on "weekly interest rate survey." This page has detailed instructions on how to use the mortgage calculator.

Many features available

The WebFax feature on REALnet allows users to get a hard copy of a property listing, apply for a mortgage, inquire about other properties for sale, inquire about relocation services, mover and builders, research mortgage brokers, appraisers and real estate attorneys, research mortgage rates, get information about title and escrow services, and learn about property insurance.

The REALnet service is easily accessed on the World Wide Web from anyone with access to the Internet, whether through Prodigy, America Online, CompuServe or another provider. Thus some living in another state or another country relocating to this area can access REALnet and have their home picked out before packing a single suitcase.

You can direct questions to Emory Daniels by e-mail with emory@oeonline.com, at voice mail at 953-2047 then dial 1910, or fax number 591-7279. To sign up for O&E On-Line, dial (313)591-0903, at "log-in" prompt type "new" and at "Key:" prompt type GL6NY2. Past columns may be accessed online at http://oeonline.com.

Agents earn a great big attaboy

■ Attention to deal, teamwork and having the right tools to do the job define success for a local real estate firm. This agency sets the pace for all others in a well-known national chain.

By Doug Funke
Staff Writer

How good is the Century 21 Town & Country real estate team?

The very best last year in the entire Century 21 national network with a sales volume of $698 million. The firm's 6,000 transactions averaged out to 16 sales every day of the year.

Town & Country, owned by John R. Kersten, is actually seven offices in Birmingham, Troy, Rochester, Commerce Township, Sterling Heights, Clinton Township and Shelby Township.

Upwards of 500 sales associates, all full time, plus an administrative staff of 75 made the top ranking possible, he said.

"No one does it alone. The key to any organization is having quality people at every level," Kersten said.

"We have manager brokers who are good practitioners. They're experienced. They have people skills working with sales associates.

"If you have quality management, naturally you have associated quality associates," Kersten added. "We have a very excellent support staff.

"This isn't a complicated business," he said. "We sell service, quality communication and follow-through."

Kersten, 53, got interested in real estate while serving as the lead money man for a college fraternity.

"We wanted to acquire a fraternity house," he recalled. "The broker I was working with got me a position. I thought I'd try it out. Thirty years later, I'm still trying it out.

"I enjoy it immensely. There's no routine. It brings new challenges and opportunities on a daily basis."

Kersten opened his first Town & Country office in 1960. He attributes his success to several factors in addition to staff.

"Our advertising program is the most aggressive, I'd say, in the state," he said, pegging the budget at close to $1 million.

"We have 125 to 175 open houses every Sunday. We've been very successful with that. We're very high on relocation. That's headed up by Linda Seope, and we handle some 1,000 incoming or outgoing transferees annually.

"Our (Century 21) name is ranked number one, sometimes four times greater than our nearest competitor," Kersten added.

Management team: John R. Kersten, center, owner of Century 21 Town & Country, is flanked by his managers _ Betty Clark, Cindy Boudreau, Dan Kersten, Gary Goike, Gil Holliday, Donice Breza, Wanda Flynn and Nancy Leavenworth.

Carol French, a sales associate with Town & Country for six years, works out of the Rochester office. She said her annual sales volume averages $4 million.

"The success I feel I've achieved is primarily through tools given me through the Century 21 system _ educational training, seminars and a very strong manager (Cindy Boudreau)," French said.

"Her personal support and follow through, being there when you need her to answer questions and deal with problems, are very important.

"You get a lot of 'attaboys from the office here when you do well," French said. "We have fun here. We like each other, get along well. There's competition, but competition is friendly. It makes you want to get up in the morning and come to work."

French said she also finds Town & Country's legal staff and mortgage subsidiary, Cambridge Mortgage, especially helpful in her work.

Debbie Isaac, a sales associate in the Commerce office, orchestrated sales in excess of $3 million last year.

"Most of my business is referral," she said. "I take care of people when I have them, catering to their every need.

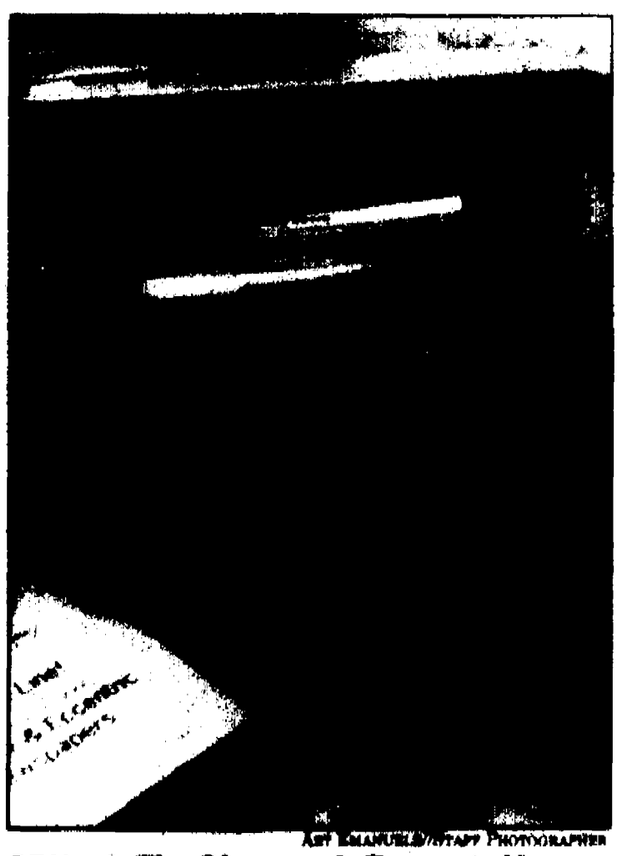

"Probably the biggest complaint people have is people don't keep in touch. I try to contact my customers two to three times a week. Sometimes, I talk to them every day. The bottom line is service. You have to take care of the customer.

"Obviously, the support of everyone I work with in the office enables me to do my job better," Isaac said. "Computers, faxes that John Kersten enables us to have makes my job easier.

"I couldn't do it without the support of my family and husband and faith in God. And I never take anything for granted."

Computer users can see houses in Observer

Art Emanuel/Staff Photographer

By Doug Funke
Staff Writer

The Observer & Eccentric is a trendsetter with REALnet, an electronic real estate database introduced two weeks ago.

"REALnet Home Page is a service for our advertising agents and brokers," said Greg Day, O&E strategic business unit manager.

"If a broker runs a real estate display ad in the paper, for a nominal fee _ currently $16.95 per listing _ we'll move the listing to the Internet for as long as the house is for sale."

And that will make things more convenient for prospective buyers, especially out-of-towners where the O&E isn't available, he added.

"It's open 24 hours a day, seven days a week," Day said. "All the major on-line services can access this. We've had access from Japan, Sweden, Australia, all over the place.

"It's great for relocations. They can look at houses (on the computer), then contact the agent. From REALnet, they can contact the broker through Web-Fax."

Users can access house listings by community, price, number of bedrooms/baths.

REALnet also provides demographic information by community and enables users to calculate mortgage payments at various interest rates.

"There's a lot of pressure on the real estate community to satisfy their customers in different ways," said Steven K. Pope, O&E general manager. "They have to respond to keep their business healthy. We have to respond and go with them.

"We are pioneers and plowing ground in this area," Pope added. "We are very far out in front. Acceptance by the real estate community is well beyond our expectations."

REALnet had 400 listings as of last week, Day said. About 600 listings were viewed during the first 24 hours the service was available.

"It gives the seller exposure to a wider audience," Day said. "For buyers, the ease of searching the data base . . . is a convenience thing.

"From a Realtor's point of view, we can tell them how many times someone looked at a listing, how many times it was searched," he said. "You can't do that with other mediums.

"The Internet provides a much richer service than MLS," Pope said. "It's extremely high visibility. It's a good way to market."

Real estate professionals like the exposure.

"We thought it would be another good vehicle for creating awareness with our customer base," said Jennifer Zardus, marketing director for the Prudential Great Lakes Realty headquartered in Bloomfield Hills.

"I'm pretty optimistic once people are more familiar getting into the system and being on net, so to speak, it will be much easier to access the information."

"We feel this is the wave of the future," said Mike Workman, office manager for the Michigan Group in Livonia. "We want to make it easier for our buyers and sellers.

"Insomniacs and people who can't reach us during regular business hours can get information about property for sale. Relocation certainly is another issue we considered in trying this out," Workman said

Pay points or get a bigger house loan, it's your choice

ON MORTGAGES

DAVID C. MULLY

When you obtain a mortgage, you have an option on whether to pay points. Years ago, points were an accepted part of mortgage closing costs, but now more and more people are asking for zero-point loans.

Points are generally called "Discount Points" or "Origination Fee's" and are equal to 1 percent of the loan amount for each point. Most lenders offer different point options, usually ranging from 0 to 3 points on each of the mortgage programs they have.

It has become more and more popular to pay 0 points, to save money in the closing cost, etc. Whether to pay points depends heavily on how long you will have the mortgage (or house). It is difficult to determine this up front, therefore paying points can be a gamble. For example: on a $100,000 loan each point is $1,000 paid up front. If today's rate is 7.5 percent with 2 points, your monthly payment would be $699.21 for a 30-year fixed rate, and you would pay $2,000 for the 2 points.

In comparison if you went with 0 points and the rate were 8 percent, your monthly payment would increase to $733.76, but you would pay nothing for points up front. If you look at the difference between these two options, the payment is $34.55 higher with the 0-point option, but you saved $2,000 up front. It would take approximately five years before you would start to feel the effect of the higher payment.

On the other hand, if you paid the $2,000 up front, you would not start to benefit from this investment until you've had the mortgage approximately five years.

Consider also what your cash flow situation is and whether the money you would use for points could be better spent elsewhere, such as home improvements, other investments or added to the down payment.

You do not have to pay points, so when you're shopping for a mortgage, ask the loan officer what the rate is with 0 points. It can be a good investment to pay points if you have the extra money, but if you decide to refinance in the next five to seven years because rates dropped or you need cash out of your house, then it would have been better to save the money and not pay points when you obtained your loan.

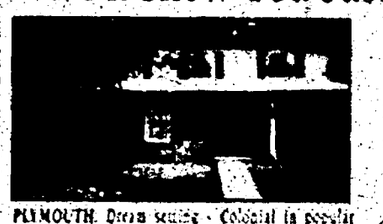

The more points you pay, the lower your interest rate is but the higher your investment becomes because your closing cost will be higher. By charging points the lender realizes the same yield. Even though you receive a lower rate, the prepaid interest up front (points) makes up the difference. So no matter which option you select, the lender's profit is about the same.

Remember, it's you, not the lender, who determines whether you pay points. It has become a luxury to pay points, which most people now are unable to do.

Yes, it lowers interest rates and therefore your monthly payment but at what cost? And how much lower is the payment?

Uncle Sam's booklets tell you how

Wanna keep your cool even in the heat of summer? You can be cool in any season with help from the free Consumer Information Catalog available from the U.S. government.

Staying cool indoors when it's hot outdoors is a problem. Windows can be a major source of heat gain in the summer. And although air conditioners provide relief, installing and running them can be costly.

Also, conventional air conditioners are suspected contributors to the depletion of the ozone layer and global warming. You can find out how to keep your house cool — and save electricity — with landscaping, window-treatments and more when you order Cooling Your Home Naturally (Item 149B, $1) and Energy-Efficient Windows (Item 150B, $1), both published by the Department of Energy.

Some of thei other publications available from the government about living in a house include:

REAL ESTATE BRIEFS

■ HELP-U-SELL

Help-U-Sell of Northwest Wayne County, with offices in Canton, was recognized as the top volume franchise in the national chain for the months of February and May.

Help-U-Sell offices have found their niche in the marketplace by offering consumers a full menu of services and setting fees depending on how involved sellers want to get in transactions.

"Sellers like us because we give them many options to choose from," said Chuck Gorris, co-owner of the local franchise. "Buyers like us because we can, at their request, represent them directly, looking after their interests."

■ BROWN ASSOCIATES

The complete renovation of Comerica Bank on Maple Road in Bloomfield Township, designed by Brown Associates Architects of Bloomfield Hills, has been completed.

Douglas J. Atkinson was project architect, Jim Munchiando project director for the contractor, George W. Auch Company.

Brown Associates also is involved in a couple of other renovations.

Atkinson is project architect for a new covered entry pavilion and elevator addition to the Village Club on Long Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Construction is expected this summer.

Construction is to begin this winter.

NEW HOMES

Livonia cul-de-sac will be home to 16 new houses

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Camborne Construction of Livonia isn't exactly a production residential builder nor is it exactly a custom builder.

The firm gives prospective buyers plan books to study, helps prospects fine-tune the basics to meet their needs, then builds houses.

Camborne Pines, 16 lots south of Six Mile Road between Inkster Road and Middlebelt, offers all kinds of amenities beyond variety of selection, said Kurt W. Roskelly, Camborne president. Buyers may choose from about 10 available lots.

"The whole perimeter is rung with pine trees or some sort of deciduous trees," Roskelly said. "What you see is basically what you get."

A single road with cul-de-sac will foster a sense of neighborliness and safety, he said.

"There will be a small amount of traffic. This will be a tight community. We're so close to everything and we're close to freeways. Livonia schools are good."

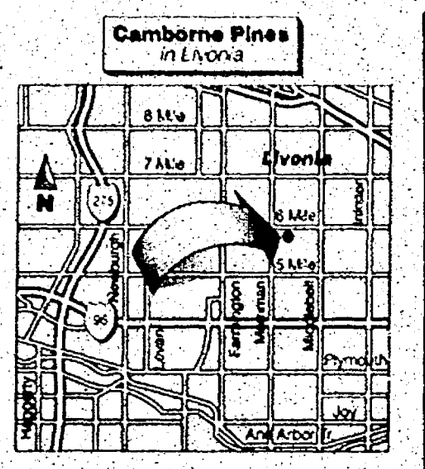

Taxes also are reasonable, he said.

Since Camborne Pines is so small, no models will be built. But Roskelly is eager to drive prospects around to show off his work in nearby subs — Camborne Estates, Carrington Estates and Western Golf Estates.

"Prices start at $180,000," he said. For that, you get three bedrooms and a bath and a half. We've got all kinds of plans to offer — ranches, Cape Cod, colonial."

Ranches in Camborne Pines must be at least 1,650 square feet, colonials 2,200.

Buyers who have committed to the site so far have added upgrades, options and selected premium lots that brought the price to upwards of $235,000, Roskelly said.

Standard features include two-car garage and full basement. All exteriors have some brick and a choice of vinyl or wood siding.

"In this market, I don't know of anyone who wouldn't put air conditioning in," Roskelly said. "They put in a high-efficiency furnace and hot water heater. They upgrade floor covering. A fireplace.

"I think you're probably going to have a lot of four bedrooms in the sub," he added. "With dual income people working out of the home, they put that fourth bedroom in as an office.

Most prospects are first-time, brand new home buyers, Roskelly said.

"Everybody I've talked to is a younger couple in their mid 30s with a couple of kids or plan to have children," he said. "The other end of the market is people whose kids are on the way out and they want a nicer house or the kids are older and they can afford to have a new house."

Camborne Pines is serviced by city water and sewers.

The property tax rate currently is $31 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $235,000 house would pay about $3,640 the first year.

Camborne is building a four bedroom colonial for Randy and Sandi Kumm and children Kaitlin and Bradley.

"The one-half acre lot was one of the main attractions for us," Randy said. "We like the layout of the 16 lots in the area. With the trees, there's a fair amount of privacy."

The Kumms checked out Roskelly's work at Western Golf Estates, liked what they found and made some adjustments to a house they saw there.

Their house, now under construction, includes a laundry room on the upper level with the bedrooms, an oversized two-car garage, library, and kitchen/eating nook and family room with fireplace across the back.

Chris and Elaine Edmonds are working with Camborne on building a four-bedroom colonial for themselves and children Katie, Maureen and Jeff.

"The attraction was A, the kids wouldn't have to change schools," Chris said. "It's heavily wooded. It's so quiet back there. The half acre lots were like icing on the cake."

Space for the money compared to other communities in western Wayne and Oakland counties — "It will be 2,800 square feet," Edmonds said — also was a draw.

"We weren't looking to move," he said. "We just happened to be driving around one Sunday after church, saw it, drove in and took a look. I started doing the math and figured I could do it."

The Edmonds house would also include a second-floor laundry, three-car garage, fireplace and air conditioning.

Basney & Smith, a firm headed by Roskelly's father, William, develops subs in which Camborne builds.

Because there are no models at Camborne Pines, Roskelly can be reached through his Livonia office at (313) 458-2399.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

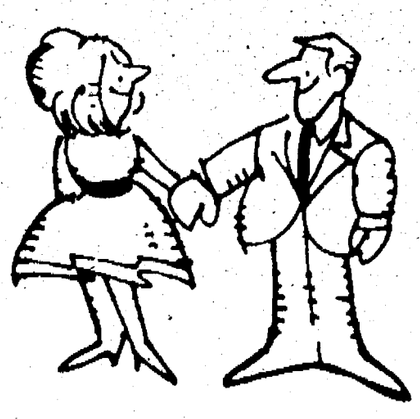

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

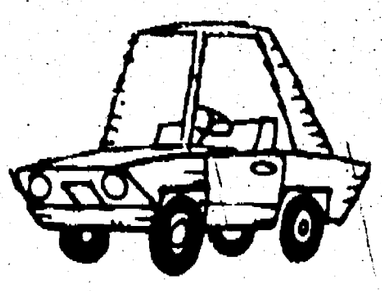

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

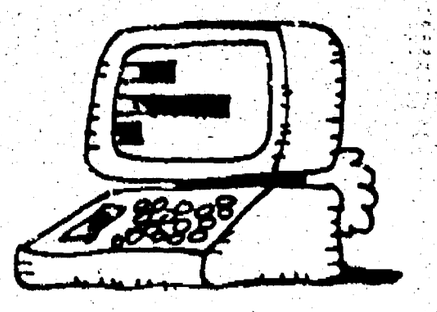

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

How would this man compose a PERSONAL SCENE ad?
Perhaps something like this:

RELATIVELY intelligent physicist looking for companion, preferrably one who can explain income tax forms.

"The hardest thing in the world to understand is the income tax"
—Albert Einstein

Personal Scene Ads in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers allow you to record a message in your own voice over the phone. That way when people see your ad in the paper, they can dial your code, hear your message and leave a message of their own. You can call, day or night, to get your messages. It's fast, it's easy, and it helps people find out more about each other. Look in today's classifieds or call your Observer & Eccentric ad taker and ask about our introductory offer. You might find a friend who will do your taxes. One who is, in theory, relatively intelligent.
