School land sale worries parents

Wayne-Westland school board members are considering the possible sale of property around Patchin Elementary School, though one member opposes the plan. The property would be used for residential development, an official said.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

In a move that worries some parents, the Wayne-Westland school board may sell land that it owns around Patchin Elementary School, on Newburgh Road south of Warren.

A potential buyer wants some 17 acres of property south and east of the school, including 300 feet of land fronting Newburgh Road.

But Superintendent Duane Moore will recommend tonight (Monday) that the board allow his administration to negotiate the possible sale of about 13.5 acres, including just 60 feet fronting Newburgh.

Moore also said he will recommend during a 7 p.m. board meeting that the land be sold for no less than $450,000. The property would be used for residential development, he said.

Parent Sandy Sonak said she would oppose the developer's initial proposal because it would eliminate the kindergarten playground and allow development too close to the school.

Some parents also are concerned about increased traffic by Patchin, she said.

Sonak, who has three children attending Patchin, voiced concerns last week that "not very many parents really know about this."

"I don't want to make up the parents' minds on this, but I want them to know about it," she said.

On Thursday, Moore said his recommendation would eliminate one of three baseball diamonds but would save the kindergarten playground.

He added that "the priorities and needs of our students at that school must come first."

If the board approves his recommendation, then Moore's administration would negotiate with the poten-

Doctor's furniture wows kids

One patient loved the new examining room furniture — in the shape of a friendly lion — so much she petted its nose like a friend.

That was one reaction to the fiberglass furniture installed earlier at the medical office of Westland pediatrician, Dr. Verna Jean Turkish, on Nankin Boulevard, west of Wayne Road.

The new examining tables are intended "to create a friendly atmosphere for children," Dr. Turkish said.

The furniture was designed by a woman who was seeking a doctor to treat her 3-year-old son with leukemia. The boy was uncomfortable with the traditional examining room furniture, his doctor asked his mother to design something that would be more comfortable for him.

Her partner, Dr. Dan Cirka, suggested an animal design which has been used in children's hospitals.

About five years ago, Dr. Turkish's son, Kwame, 21, painted colorful murals in the office to help create a more relaxed atmosphere.

She said the table was dedicated in memory of Craig Stephen, an orderly at the Oakwood Hospital Annapolis Center-Wayne, who died last January.

A second examining table was dedicated in the memory of an 11-year-old patient of Dr. Turkish who died of cancer last December.

Officials make a MADD dash for money

BY LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

You can almost hear the music from the movie "Chariots of Fire," a story about English runners preparing for the 1924 Olympics.

But it will be a different type of track event Thursday afternoon when Mayor Robert Thomas and District Judge C. Charles Bokos compete in a 100-yard "dash" to raise money for the Wayne County MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) chapter.

Unlike high-profile athletes each predicting victory, this challenge race is different.

Judge Bokos promised only that "I will finish the race — the good Lord willing."

Mayor Thomas is confident of winning the race, pointing out that he has been working out and training for the event, to start at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at Friendship Lake, in Central City Park, between Ford and Marquette and Wayne Road and Newburgh.

Each runner will be surrounded by co-workers and supporters who have paid $10 each to MADD in the name of their favorite.

Thomas quipped that after the race is over, "the wheels of justice will be turning more slowly."

In preparing for the event, Thomas has done "a lot of training, walking and jogging — now I'm done to just running 100-yard dashes."

He bought a running outfit "with the help of J. C. Penney."

Toddler's disappearance investigated

BY DARRELL CLEM

A Westland couple is under investigation for the disappearance of their 2½-year-old son, who was found after a 26-hour search in a wooded area of western Oscoda Township.

Dalton Alan Smith, who was found wandering three miles from where his mother and stepfather were camping with friends, has been placed in foster care, an Isosco County prosecutor, Gary Rapp, said Friday.

The boy was said to be in good condition.

The parents initially told police that the boy had wandered off.

In a bizarre twist, however, the mother at one point allegedly told Oscoda Township police that the boy had been buried after he was accidentally hit on the head, according to a township police dispatcher.

"We were looking for a grave," she said.

The mother, Cynthia Louise Rock, 29, and the stepfather, William Edward Rock, 34, are not in police custody and have not been charged, Rapp said Friday.

The prosecutor wouldn't comment on whether charges are pending.

The Rocks could not be reached for comment.

The boy was found shortly before 1 p.m. Sept. 3 following a 26-hour search by several law enforcement agencies, tracking dogs and many vol-

The Holiday Park Townhouses resident won five ribbons for the five entries she submitted in various hand-work competitions. Tinkle won a first-prize blue ribbon for her crocheted dress; fourth-place ribbons for her crocheted sweater and knitted baby layette, and honorable mention ribbons for two other knitted sweaters.

Puppy fun match planned

The Showmen's Dog Training Organization of Westland will sponsor a "puppy fun match" Sunday morning, Sept. 24, at Central City Park, on the south side of Ford Road between Wayne and Newburgh roads. Chairman Jack Wynne said the event is open to all AKC, CKC and rare breed dogs between 2 months and adult. Not eligible are handlers or major pointed dogs, he said.

Wynne said registration will be 9-11 a.m. the day of the match with the event beginning at 11 a.m.

The organization is also seeking a service group to supply a concession stand for the 100 to 400 people expected to attend. A group such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Lions Club, Jaycees, or a Band Booster Club will be given first choice, he said.

Groups interested may call him evenings at 729-7580.

School accredited

Huron Valley Lutheran High School has been awarded accreditation by the Michigan Non-Public School Accrediting Association for meeting specific standards in programs and facilities and being evaluated by a site team, announced principal Paul Wichmann. The school is on Cowan between Wayne Road and Venoy.

Tax is the topic

U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, will host a town hall meeting on federal tax reform proposals for local residents from 10-11:30 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 16, at Washtenaw Community College's Morris Lawrence Building, 4800 Huron River Drive, Ann Arbor. For information, local residents may call Rivers' local district office at 722-1411.

Feud over library bids reaches new chapter

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Westland City Council member has publicly criticized himself for voting against two companies that submitted low bids for Westland library work.

Other council members, however, have defended their decision to reject the low bidders and to choose higher-cost union companies for electrical and mechanical jobs.

The controversy over the Aug. 21 vote spilled into a third week as council members discussed the issue during a meeting last Tuesday.

"I did make a mistake that night," Councilman Charles Pickering said of his Aug. 21 vote.

"It has bothered me ever since we had that vote two weeks ago," he said Tuesday.

Pickering joined his six colleagues in rejecting low bids from Long Mechanical Inc. of Northville and McMurray Electric of Ferndale.

The council instead chose Alpha Mechanical of Dearborn and Gillis Electric of Livonia, prompting sharp criticism from business executives of the low-bidding companies.

Council members said they believed the companies selected would do a better job on the William P. Faust Public Library of Westland, which is to be built on Central City Parkway between Ford and Warren roads. The library is being named after the late state senator.

On Tuesday, Councilman Charles "Trav" Griffin said a published comparison of the bids told only part of the story.

According to figures supplied by the city clerk's office, the two accepted bids amounted to $1,404,051, a difference of $83,406 over the low bids. Those bids were for electrical, plumbing and heating/air-conditioning work on the main library.

Griffin said the difference only amounted to $27,500 considering that the competing companies also submitted alternate bids for work on a library pavilion.

Noting that the difference "is less than 2 percent," Griffin said he supported hiring the higher-bidding companies that he believes are more reputable.

The companies haven't technically been approved for the pavilion work, but Griffin said they would have to abide by the bids they submitted. He added that the council expects to complete the pavilion work unless the city is hit by some major, unexpected financial crisis.

Councilman David Cox called the difference in the bids "a wash" and said that "fair play was being used" when the decision was made to hire the companies.

On Tuesday, Jim Long, president of Long Mechanical Inc., addressed the council and defended his company.

"Unions for years have tried to run us out of business with their slanderous lies," he said.

Union workers who attended the Aug. 21 session said union companies would perform better work on the library.

In another development, an official for O'Neal Construction Inc., in charge of building the library, wrote in a letter to Jim Long that O'Neal "had recommended Long Mechanical be awarded the contract" because the company was "the low qualified bidder."

"It came as a surprise to us when the board (council) approved otherwise," O'Neal vice president Michael Mehninger wrote.

Low bidders had indicated that the public bidding process was undermined because of the council's actions.

However, Westland city attorney Angelo Plakas said Tuesday that the city charter allows the council to reject low bids.

tial buyer and report back to the board within 60 days.

Board member Richard LeBlanc said he opposes the suddenness of the plan and the way it is being handled.

He said the property should be placed on the open market for bids if a majority of board members intend to sell it.

"We should not be in the business of accommodating a developer," he said. "I am against selling the Patchin property as it has currently been presented to the board, in the form of an offer. I believe that this whole process is in reverse order."

"There may be individuals on the board who are contemplating this particular offer, when it would be totally opposite the practice we've used on other properties," LeBlanc said. "We don't need to sell this property at this point. This whole deal is not good for kids."

The board owns about 24 acres at the Patchin site. The initial offer would leave the school with less than eight acres, while Moore's recommendation would retain about 11 acres.

Moore said officials have three separate appraisals on the property. He said he would recommend that the board not sell it for less than $450,000.

He noted that the board will need more money in coming years. A 3-mill tax increase that voters approved in June helped the district combat deficit spending, but the tax will only be levied for two years.

Moore also said the district would gain more students by allowing a residential development near Patchin.

birthday nearly two weeks ago, also told the Observer that the only question of the race is not who will win, but the distance between him and the judge at the event's conclusion.

Bokos, who will be 56 years old next month, said that he has been "working out a little, sprinting, jogging and watching the diet."

But he admitted that he is bothered with an arthritic knee.

"I am representing all guys over 55," Bokos joked about running an opponent 10 years his junior.

He quipped that the mayor, at 45, "is an upstart."

In any case, the fire department's emergency medical services crew and van will be on hand at the edge of the course.

The judge stressed that the race is secondary to the message of MADD that people shouldn't mix drinking and driving.

On a serious note, Bokos said Westland's 18th District Court has handled some 600 drinking driving offenses last year, an increase over previous years.

The idea for a challenge race for MADD surfaced at a Town Hall meeting, sponsored by the mayor monthly to allow residents to question him and department heads about city matters.

A resident in the Town Hall meeting audience commented that how well Bokos batted and ran at a charity softball game.

The mayor disagreed, jokingly saying that the "judge can't run."

One word led to another and the two agreed to run against each other with pledges to be directed to the Wayne County MADD chapter.

Thursday's race is open to the public.

Man ordered to face trial

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A 31-year-old man has been ordered to stand trial for allegations that he took nude photographs of his 14-year-old niece at his former Westland apartment.

Michael Dobby was bound over for trial in Detroit Recorder's Court after he waived his right to a preliminary hearing Thursday before Westland 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos.

His decision to waive the hearing averted courtroom testimony on Thursday.

Westland police seized the photographs and a videotape, in which Dobby's niece was partially undressed, during an April 27 drug raid at Dobby's former residence, police Sgt. Terry Donohue has said.

Dobby lived at Westland Woods Apartments on Wildwood, north of Ford, at the time.

Dobby spent several months in jail for marijuana charges, and he was charged after his release with two counts of engaging in child sexually abusive activity.

He remained on probation when he was arrested on the new charges. He could face 20 years in prison and $20,000 in fines if convicted.

Dobby, an unemployed laborer, has been jailed in lieu of a $25,000 cash bond since he was arraigned Aug. 31 on the sex charges.

On Thursday, Bokos rejected a request from Dobby's defense attorney for a bond reduction.

"I think this is a very serious matter," Bokos said. "I think this defendant poses a danger to the community."

Bokos agreed to refer Dobby's case to the defendant screening unit of Detroit Recorder's Court for an opinion on whether the bond should be reduced.

Dobby's niece knew at times that she was being photographed, but she didn't always know, Donohue has said.

Because of her age, however, she couldn't consent to such acts under state law.

unters. He was found by a couple who are summer residents in the area, according to an Oscoda Township Police Department press release.

Township police were notified that the child was missing at 10:45 a.m. Saturday. They were contacted by personnel at a visitor's center at Jumberman's Monument, where the parents initially went, police said.

The family had been camping in a wooded area off of a U.S. Forest Service trail.

The parents initially told police that the child wandered away from the campsite, according to news reports. Police set up a command post in the woods as the search took place.

James and Rosemary Childs, the couple who found the boy, brought him to a command post that had been set up in the woods near where the boy had been last seen.

The boy was wearing only a blue T-shirt when he was found, and he had scratches over much of his body, according to published reports. However, the child was said to be alert.

He was taken by ambulance to St. Joseph Hospital in Tawas City for examination, but appeared to be in good condition, police said.

Good friends

Clinic's staffers offer help to Westland couple

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Brad and Kristine Skaggs of Westland now know it's true. When the going gets tough, you really can count on your friends.

"This has been very humbling. They have done a lot for us. Before this, I didn't always have a lot of faith in people. But they have shared themselves with us. It has been overwhelming in a very good-feel sort of way," said Kristine Skaggs, who works at Mission Health (McAuley Urgent Care) in Canton Township.

Skaggs' husband, Brad, was diagnosed with colon cancer and liver tumors in August, 1994, when he was 31 years old.

He is on a medical leave from his work as a collector for a credit card company.

"We all felt so badly," said Cathy Schramm, a registered nurse at Mission Health. "We have always been a group of caring women. But now we have gone further. When this happened to Brad and Kristine, it hurt us."

Kristine's co-workers did more than offer their sympathies. They went to work to help ease the family's pain and to making living during the difficult times a little easier, especially for the Skaggs' sons, Christian, 3, and Andrew, 21 months.

"We knew they had to have been having financial concerns. So we tried to think of ideas for making some money," Schramm said.

The employees cashed in their vacation days so they could offer the Skaggs cash to make ends meet. "We tried to get the hospital to take money out of our vacation banks. But it wasn't possible. So the employees did this," said Sally Bailey, clinical nurse manager of the Ford Road Mission Health center.

Last Christmas, the Pediatric Urgent Care of St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital in Ypsilanti, adopted the Skaggs for the holidays.

"That was a wonderful surprise," Kristine Skaggs said. The couple received gifts for their boys, food, cash and clothing.

On Aug. 23-24, the Ford Road employees had a big, big garage sale. "It was a huge success," said Carol Dugar, a registered nurse. "We raised $1,775.16."

The next big effort is scheduled for Oct. 13 out at St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital in Ypsilanti when the Canton clinic's employees — as well as those at the hospital and anyone else who wants to join in — will feature a craft show. All proceeds will go to the Skaggs family.

"We are all working on crafts. They can be for Halloween, Thanksgiving or Christmas," said Dorothy Walkup, a radiographer. "And each one of us has family members making things."

The sale at the Reichart Health Building at the hospital is open to the public. Anyone who would like to get involved by making things for the sale should contact the health center on Ford Road at 981-6644.

"It is very humbling," Kristine said. "There was nothing we have done to deserve this. It's done a lot for us. Before this, I don't think I had a lot of faith in people. But these people have shared themselves with us. It's been overwhelming in a very good-feel sort of way."

Brad was expected to meet with his oncologist today (Monday).

"That's when I will get set up for continuous chemotherapy treatments," he said, adding that he is now feeling "great."

Last September, Brad underwent a colon resection at Mayor Clinic in Rochester, Minn. A foot of his sigmoid colon and gall bladder was removed. A hepatic artery catheter was also placed so Brad could receive chemotherapy directly into his liver. He had multiple liver lesions that were inoperable.

Beginning last November, Brad received chemotherapy at St. Joseph Hospital. When he had a CAT scan of his liver in June, 1995, it was discovered that the chemotherapy drugs weren't working as well and the cancer was growing again.

On Aug. 4, Brad had a liver resection and cryosurgery, which involves inserting a probe into the tumor and freezing the tissue with liquid nitrogen.

The surgeon told the couple he believed the surgery was a success with all visible cancer tissue removed or frozen. But Brad will continue chemotherapy as a precaution against microscopic cells that may remain in his liver.

While Brad underwent surgery and recuperation, Kristine has been on a leave of absence to take care of him and the boys. She is expected to return to work soon.

"It's been a challenge being a fulltime dad," Brad said. "But I have enjoyed it. Any good that has come out of this is that I have had the time to spend with my kids and watch them grow up."

There are still tough times ahead. But Kristine says their faith and friends has pulled them through this far. "That's why we can sit here today and talk about it. We consider the people here at urgent care our extended family."

Extended family: The Skagg family, (center, front row) Brad and Kristine, and their two sons, Christian 3, and Andrew, 21 months, are thankful for friends like the employees at Mission Health Urgent Care on Ford Road. Employees include left to right (front row) Traci Heath, Carol Dugar and Joanne Henry; (middle row) Nancy Seal, Cathy Schramm, Dorothy Walkup, Leighanne Wheelock; (third row) Sally Bailey, Teri Aldini, Marianne Bee, Dawn Kyle, Gail Dershtinski; and Dr. Edward George (at back).

Pastor to return home after getting new heart

By LEONARD POGER
EDITOR

A Westland clergyman may return home early this week after receiving a new heart.

The Rev. Jack Spitz, 34-year pastor of New Hope Baptist Church, 1033 S. Wildwood, underwent the surgery at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, on Monday, Sept. 4, said his wife, Betty Spitz.

The heart recipient was in the intensive care unit for several days after the transplant and was expected to be moved to the cardiac care unit Friday. Barring any changes, he would be discharged and sent home early this week, she said.

"His spirits are very good," Mrs. Spitz added.

She quoted him as saying "I'm here by the grace of God and a lot of prayer."

The clergyman, who will celebrate his 65th birthday next month, was diagnosed 10 years ago with congestive heart failure, which was caused by a virus, according to Mrs. Spitz.

With medication, the problem was in remission for seven years.

But he was going downhill for the past two or three years, she said.

"His energy level was down and then in March he was put on a list for a heart transplant," Mrs. Spitz said.

After the recuperation period, Spitz is expected to resume his church responsibilities, she said.

He has no intention of retiring, Mrs. Spitz said. "He says he loves what he's doing."

Other than vacations and the recent hospitalization, he has never missed a Sunday service, she said.

The pastor is a chairman of the Westland Local Officers

Rev. Jack Spitz

Compensation Commission which meets every two or four years to consider salary raises for the elected positions of mayor and city council.

First Citizen nominations sought

Who will be the winner of the 10th annual First Citizen of Westland community service award?

The community will know in two months as the program's co-sponsors, the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce, announce that nominations are now being accepted.

Deadline is 5 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Nominees will be considered by a panel of judges, to be named later this month, on the basis of their community service activities and the impact those activities have had on the city generally or a segment of its residents.

In the past nine years, the backgrounds of First Citizen recipients have included fire safety, government, education, business organizations, recreation and social services for low-income families.

Nominees must have made a significant contribution to helping improve the quality of life for the community in general or a segment of the community.

While the previous First Citizens have been local residents, residency isn't a requirement.

Nominators should provide as much detailed information about those to be considered for the award and the nominees' impact on the community or groups of people.

The community service award was initiated by the two co-sponsors in the fall of 1986 to honor volunteers whose efforts are many times overlooked.

The 1995 First Citizen will be publicly honored at the chamber's monthly membership luncheon-program on Tuesday, Nov. 14, scheduled for the Hellenic Cultural Center. Besides receiving plaques or certificates from the Observer and the chamber, federal, state, county and city officials are also expected to honor the First Citizen.

Last year's recipients, Tom and Mary Wieske, were the first time that a couple won the award.

Past winners have been, in order, Joseph Benyo, Thomas Brown, Sam Corrado, Linda Pratt, Sharon Scott, Margaret Harlow, Madeleine Schroeder and Susan Powers.

Nominations must be in writing and directed to:

Westland Observer Editorial Department, First Citizen Award, 38251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Our fax number is 591-7279.

Walk Saturday

Methodist village offers hope to troubled youth

BY ARLENE FUNKE
SPECIAL WRITER

A tranquil, 80-acre campus in Redford Township may be the last, best hope for some of our most troubled youth.

For seven decades, Methodist Children's Village on Six Mile east of Inkster Road has quietly provided haven and healing to abused and neglected children.

On Saturday, interested people will be able to visit the village and help raise funds for new residential cottages. A 5K (3.1 miles) walk will begin at 10 a.m.

"We are really trying to get neighbors on campus," said Kristine Jamison, director of development at the village.

Currently, about 65 children, ages 7 to 15 years, live on campus. Others are in supervised foster care. All are emotionally impaired because of neglect or physical and sexual abuse.

Many have been in numerous foster homes. Most have behavior problems.

"These kids need help in overcoming their problems because of things that have been done to them," said Jamison, 30, of Canton.

Saturday's events will begin with a walk through residential and business areas of Redford. No busy streets will be crossed. Lunch will be served, and visitors may tour the campus and see a new prototype cottage being built. Jamison said the goal is to raise $30,000 — and awareness. Business sponsors include NBD Bank, Greenman's American Speedy Printing and Kelly Services.

Jamison also hopes to attract volunteers. Volunteers serve on the board of directors and its committees, participate in a speakers bureau, assist staff, and provide foster grandparents and infant transportation.

The village was established in 1917 by United Methodist Women. The Methodist Children's Home Society, as the agency is called, is nonprofit and non-sectarian. It relocated from Highland Park to Redford in 1929.

The agency also provides foster care, adoption placement and training and counseling for the parents of children in its programs.

Methodist Children's Home Society has been reeling in recent months from the death of a 9-year-old boy. The boy was asphyxiated while being restrained in a "basket hold" by a worker. The youth had been in an altercation with another child.

"This was a big tragedy," Jamison said. "We are very much affected."

Jamison said the entire staff had been saddened by the incident.

Children in residential treatment live in eight Tudor-style cottages built decades ago. Eventually, all will be replaced by modern, cheerful, one-story cottages. The buildings will be barrier-free and equipped with sprinklers and other safety features.

The improvements are necessary, said Robert Stoner of Bloomfield Hills, a board member since 1978.

"Today, we are dealing with a more troubled youngster," said Stoner, 62, who recently retired as chief financial officer at Kelly

Services. "They have been through tough situations in their home settings."

The prototype cottage is completed. Over time, recreation programs also will be expanded.

"We want the kids to live in a good environment and get over what is troubling them," said Jamison.

A structured environment is vital in healing traumatized children, said John Schmidt, executive director of the agency.

The regimen includes school work, including emphasis on reading skills, organized recreation and field trips, counseling and therapy, and practical life skills such as managing money and preparing food.

"Our thrust is to help kids develop intellectual and internal tools," said Schmidt, 65, of Plymouth. "Many times kids come into residential (treatment) because they have failed in other programs."

"Where we can, we work with parents," Schmidt said. "With some parents, it is successful and some it is not."

Schmidt points to the progress of Jason (not his real name). After years of treatment and counseling, Jason now attends college and plans to work with troubled children.

The death in January of the 9-year-old boy was "a horrific experience for any agency that is providing care," Schmidt said.

"We never lost a child on our campus before," Schmidt said. The worker "was devastated."

The employee, who resigned after the incident, recently pleaded no contest to fourth degree child abuse. She was given probation and forbidden to work with children. The agency has revamped some of its policies to prevent future tragedy.

Since state policy is geared to reuniting families, many children will return to unstable situations and violent, crime-racked neighborhoods.

While many of the children will continue to have "unhealthy" lives, others overcome their bad experiences, said Schmidt.

"There are people who care," Schmidt said. "Staff does have meaning in their lives."

Jason, now 18, came to the village at age 11. Under both residential treatment and foster care, Jason immersed himself in sports. He became close to staff members.

Jason graduated from Redford High in Detroit and attended classes at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant. This summer, he worked at the Children's Village and now is attending classes at Henry Ford Community College.

Jason, who declined to be interviewed, has told agency staff that he plans to become a recreational therapist and work with troubled children.

"You hear about your failures more than your successes," Schmidt said. "We have seen him grow and develop."

People can participate in all or part of Saturday's activities. Registration for the 5K walk will begin at 9 a.m. Walkers should come to the Methodist Children's Home Society campus on Six Mile east of Inkster Road. For information, call Kristine Jamison at 631-9464.

Council approves master plan cost

The Westland City Council has approved a $40,000 study for a new master plan to chart the city's future growth and redevelopment.

The study is expected to be completed in one year. It will be conducted by the Farmington Hills consulting firm of McKenna Associates Inc.

The master plan will replace the last plan, conducted in 1983-84.

The plan will focus on planning the use of what vacant land is left in Westland. It will also guide the revitalization of aging areas.

The consulting firm plans to seek input from many community sources, and a report from the firm noted that at least two town meetings will be held.

The dates of those meetings aren't yet known.

Council president Thomas Brown has said the study is needed "to have a dream for the future."

McNamara mad about Engler's health care veto

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara accused the governor last week of derailing the county's indigent health care program and thereby sentencing thousands of people to death.

"Mean-spiritedness is not an unkind enough word for what I think the governor of this state is doing to poor people, particularly in Wayne County," McNamara said at a press conference Thursday. "We would like the governor to recognize that what he is doing is delivering a death sentence to a lot of people in Wayne County unless he restores this budget cut."

What Gov. John Engler has done is use his line-item veto to eliminate a $6.7 million 1996 budget appropriation subsidy for Wayne County's "PlusCare" program, which is considered to be the best indigent health care program in the state.

PlusCare permits ongoing medical care for unemployed poor people, whereby patients may visit doctors regularly and get prescription drugs. Conversely, the State Medical Program, which covers indigent individuals in the rest of the state and Wayne County residents who don't qualify for PlusCare, pays only for emergency room service.

In his veto message, Engler said he supports PlusCare, but won't spend as much on it as the Legislature recommended. He asked that the legislation funding PlusCare be resubmitted at a lower level.

At issue is just how many Wayne County residents are eligible for PlusCare.

In the current budget year, the county insures 41,461 individuals — including 568 from Observer communities — using about $6.7 million from state government, $29 million from Medicaid, and $15 million from county government.

Department of Social Services Director Gerald Miller believes that about 10,000 of the individuals the county has enrolled in the PlusCare program are ineligible.

So Engler wants to reduce the funding to $35 million overall ($20 million from Medicaid, $15 million from Wayne County, and nothing from the state government).

Area state legislators, including Republicans, want PlusCare funding maintained at current levels and may try to reach a compromise with Engler, said state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

State Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, believes Engler will re-fund PlusCare, but not at

'We would like the governor to recognize that what he is doing is delivering a death sentence to a lot of people in Wayne County unless he restores this budget cut.'

the current level. "Gerry Miller and John Engler have the clout to deny Wayne County the dollars if they want to," she said.

Engler spokesman John Truscott said Wayne County has enrolled ineligible people in PlusCare. "What they're doing is extending it to the working poor," he said. "That's not what the state money is intended for. It's a great thing to try to do, but the state doesn't offer that. They were extending the program way beyond what it was intended for."

McNamara disagrees. "The 10,000 discrepancy are people who have not gone to DSS and filled out a 22-page questionnaire," he said. "These people can't read. They can't write. They don't have glasses. They can't see. It is a death sentence being heaped upon these people."

PlusCare was created in 1992 along with the State Medical Program to partly make up for Engler's elimination of the General Assistance category of government charity.

Wayne County Commissioner Republicans Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township; Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township; and Andrew Richardson, R-Grosse Pointe, issued a joint press release to criticize McNamara for his high-profile opposition to Engler.

"I'm tired of Democrats using poor people as pawns to promote a political agenda," McCotter said.

"We do not need more antagonism and self-serving partisanship," Patterson said. "We do need more cooperation and dialogue. The county executive has chosen to go off in another direction. He's fully aware the governor is not out to gut or eliminate the program, but rather to streamline and make sure the taxpayers get the benefit of their bargain."

Appliance repair plan offered

Consumers Power has revamped its appliance repair plan to provide natural gas customers with additional protection, service and payment options.

The "HouseCall" and "HouseCall Plus" programs provide year-round, 24-hour protection against most costly natural gas furnace or hot water boiler and appliance repairs.

There is no initial service charge and no added cost for labor or parts.

Both plans come with an optional 14-point furnace tune-up and safety check for an additional charge.

HouseCall replaces the utility's Heating Security Plan, which concluded in August.

Under HouseCall Plus, customers get comprehensive coverage, with protection for nearly every major natural gas appliance for $9.99 per month.

With an optional 14-point furnace tune-up and safety check, HouseCall Plus costs $15.99 a month.

HouseCall coverage costs $6.99 per month, or $12.99 with the furnace tune-up and safety check option.

Customers can join the program at any time.

Several payment options are available.

Breeders association sponsors Schoolcraft harness racing class

This fall the Michigan Standardbred Breeders Association will sponsor a harness racing course at Schoolcraft College.

The Schoolcraft College course runs for eight weeks beginning Saturday, Sept. 23. Designed for novice and experienced horsemen, and the general public, the course features field trips to breeding farms, a horse auction, training centers and Northville Downs.

A session on handicapping is scheduled along with a tour and a dinner at Northville Downs. The schedule is:

■ An Introduction to Harness Racing, Sept. 23, Schoolcraft College, LA 410.

■ Picking the Winners, Sept. 30, Schoolcraft College, LA 410; Legendary Michigan Horseman

Bob Huff and Art McMurray, one of the top drivers in Michigan, will discuss handicapping.

■ Training and Racing the Harness Racehorse, Oct. 7, Hornbrook Farm, South Lyon. Kelly Hartman, the trainer of Night Court Dan, and Dave Robertson, a trainer at Hazel Park, will demonstrate how to train a harness racehorse. Equipment, classification and racing will also be discussed.

■ Breeding, Raising, and Racing Young Horses, Oct. 14, Oldfield Farm, Adrian. The farm manager of Oldfield Farm will demonstrate and discuss the breeding, raising and racing of young harness horses. Confirmation and picking a yearling or race horse at auction will also be discussed. Oldfield is the home of Michigan's top stallions, Armbr Cadet and Wall Street Banker.

■ A Horse Auction at Adrian. Oct. 21. Lenawee County Fairgrounds, Adrian. Tour of the auction, catalog reading and horse ownership.

■ Training and Racing at Northville Downs. Oct. 28. Northville Downs. Trainer John MacDonell will demonstrate training the racehorse. A ride on the sulky is included.

■ Owning a Harness Racehorse. Nov. 4. Schoolcraft College, LA 410. Ernie Schneider, owner of Mr. Charm, will discuss various forms of horse ownership.

There will also be a tour and a dinner at Northville Downs. The date is to be announced.

Book series at Sandburg library

Faculty members from Madonna University, Livonia, will present a series of book discussions, entitled Survival and Renewal, at the Carl Sandburg Livonia Public Library beginning in September. Each session will start at 7 p.m.

The series is designed to aid people in exploring the power of the human spirit to endure and transcend extreme circumstances: war, oppression, persecution — those human experiences that propel humans toward a new definition of themselves and their world.

Tuesday, Sept. 26 — Dr. Kathleen O'Dowd, professor, literature, will conduct a presentation on Slaughterhouse Five by Kurt Vonnegut.

Tuesday, Oct. 10 — Dr. James Reilly, professor, communication arts, will direct a discussion on The Bluest Eye by Toni Morrison.

Tuesday, Oct. 24 — Dr. Richard Sax, dean, College of Arts and Humanities, will head a discussion on Ceremony by Leslie Silko.

Monday, Oct. 30 and Monday, Nov. 6 — Dr. Ernest Nolan, associate academic vice president/dean, graduate studies, will lead a presentation on Death and the Maiden by Ariel Dorfman. A film of the play will be shown on Oct. 30.

Tuesday, Nov. 21 — Reverend John Sajdak, assistant professor, philosophy/religious studies, will lead a discussion on Night by Elie Wiesel.

All sessions are free, and refreshments will be served. The books are available at the Carl Sandburg Library and other libraries within The Library Network.

Funding for the program is made possible through a grant from the Friends of the Livonia Public Library. The Carl Sandburg Library is at 30100 W. Seven Mile Road in Livonia. For more information call (810) 476-0700.

Airplane buffs get their thrills with radio control

BY BARBARA WILSON
SPECIAL WRITER

The clouds beckon, and here you stand — feet planted firmly on the ground — with neither a plane ticket nor pilot's license anywhere to be found.

It is the romance and the mechanics of flying that draw many people to planes, frustrated that it is cost prohibitive to go buy a plane.

Or is it?
Brent Martin satisfies his love of planes while standing on the ground at the controls of a model, radio-controlled aircraft.

"I'm a frustrated pilot at heart," said Martin, former manager of Rider's Hobby Shop in Canton and president of the Flying Pilgrims, a radio-controlled plane club.

Radio-control flying is a soaring hobby, with clubs and competitions springing up all across the state. The Flying Pilgrims, based in Canton, alone have 230 members, and there are about two dozen other clubs in the metro Detroit area. Martin said his group has doubled its membership in the past 18 months.

"It's mostly a male-dominated hobby," Martin said. "But you see a lot of families who come together to fly and watch the planes."

Martin had to do some convincing when he was 15 years old to get his dad to help him get started with the hobby.

Archie Adamisin, a two-time national flying champion from Taylor, has radio-control flying in his blood. His grandfather and father both enjoy radio-controlled planes, and his father is well-known in flying circles for designing a special type of engine.

"I started flying simple rubber-band planes when I was just 2, and I just gradually worked my way up," Adamisin said.

His hobby has kind of gone full circle. After years of competing in aerobatic competition and a recent fling with daring pylon races — in which four planes traveling at nearly 200 mph race around a three-ylon course — Adamisin is enjoying a return to the more relaxed flying of rubber-band planes and kites.

"I still fly the planes, but it's kind of nice to just watch a kite soar and study the concept of flight," he said. Adamisin also designs radio-control planes.

John Hoover of Keego Harbor learned to fly from his dad when he was about 12 years old.

"It was great. No matter what else was going on, flying was always the one thing we could agree on, no matter what," he said. "It was something we did together."

Now Hoover is teaching his two sons to fly.

A member of the Pontiac Flying Club on Scott Lake Road, Hoover said he still sees a lot of dads learning to fly alongside their sons so they can have a hobby together.

At a really young age, parents might start developing an interest for flying in their children by flying kites together or spending a couple of dollars on simple rubber-band planes, which are available in most hobby stores.

Hoover said model rockets also spark an interest in flight and keep the interest of small children because they can see the results right away.

"There's kind of immediate gratification when you launch a rocket, although you've put some time into building it," he said. "A radio-control plane takes a long time to build and you're not going to go right out and fly it; there's a bit of a learning curve."

John Wojtowicz, a retiree, is quick to point out that flying is not just a kids' hobby either. When he was 5 years old, he used to steal balsa wood from his brother to build planes with, but it was much later in life that he became interested in flying radio-control planes and helicopters.

"It's a great hobby for tinkers, people who need to know how things work," he said.

Starting out requires a bit of an investment, but as your interest grows, portions of the initial package can still be used on more advanced aircraft, according to Martin.

To start out with a radio-control glider — requiring a hand or rubber-band launch — it will cost at least $200.

GUM DISEASE

The first stage of gum disease is called gingivitis, inflammation of the gums. Symptoms include soft, painful, bleeding gums, as well as unpleasant breath odor. Episodes of gingivitis may be triggered by changing hormone levels during puberty, pregnancy, and the premenstrual phase of the monthly cycle. Oral contraceptives may also be at fault, as can such medications as antidepressants and antihistamines which reduce saliva levels and disrupt the normal levels of oral bacteria. Whatever the cause, gingivitis should be addressed. If left to progress into the next stage of gum disease, periodontitis, the bacterial infection can spread to the tissues surrounding the tooth root. Once the periodontal ligament and surrounding bone become infected, tooth loss can occur.

Gum disease is often hard to detect, yet it's the primary cause of tooth loss in adults 35 and older. It can be prevented by regular brushing, flossing, and professional cleaning. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we can address all your dental health care needs. Smiles are our business. We're located at 19171 Merriman Rd. E. where our services include all routine care, dentures, cosmetic dentistry, crowns and bridge work, and much more. Please call 478-2110 to schedule a convenient appointment. Flying from page 8A motorized radio-control plane is $300.

"If you spend much less than that, you're not going to get much out of it," Martin said.

The airplane comes in a kit and requires assembly. Martin said you don't have to be a rocket scientist to put it together, but it does take some time, patience and even occasional guidance from the hobby shop. It will take about 40 hours to build.

For those not interested in the construction phase, there are ARFs — Almost Ready to Fly kits — which require minimal assembly, about 12 hours.

In addition to the plane kit, a radio set and motor are needed. The radio set will work in 95 percent of the aircraft available, so the same one will work in other planes you might buy later. The motor, a simple two-stroke "weed whacker" engine, can also be moved from one plane to another.

The planes require either a gasoline-oil mix or an alcohol-based fuel to fly.

Once your plane is built, Martin and others involved in flying say membership in a club is a must. It will cost about $50 to join, but will give you a place to fly, help in getting started, and some liability insurance should anything go wrong.

"You really need to join a club," Martin said. "It's almost impossible to teach yourself, and clubs offer free lessons."

Fliers remind those who are new to the sport that considerable damage can be done when you have a 50-pound plane going nearly 100 mph. Either someone on the ground, or your $300 investment, could be mincemeat in no time.

Martin said most clubs will inspect your plane to make sure it was built properly and they might even send you home to make some repairs or adjustments before you're allowed to fly. The Pontiac Club even has a beginner's night at 5 p.m. Thursdays, Hoover said.

Next comes ground school, in which you learn the basic safety rules and guidelines.

"Then the teacher will take it up to what we call 'two-mistake height,'" Martin said. That means from that height, the beginner can make two mistakes and correct them before the plane slams into the ground. The beginner starts out doing figure eights and circles and after three or four lessons is usually ready to go off on his or her own.

"Adults are generally more nervous and conservative about flying, probably because they have some concept of the expense involved," Martin said. "The kids usually pick it up more quickly and really take off."

Clubs also host shows and competitions throughout the spring, summer and fall months. They are fun to attend, even if you don't fly, and they can be great resources if you're thinking about giving it a try.

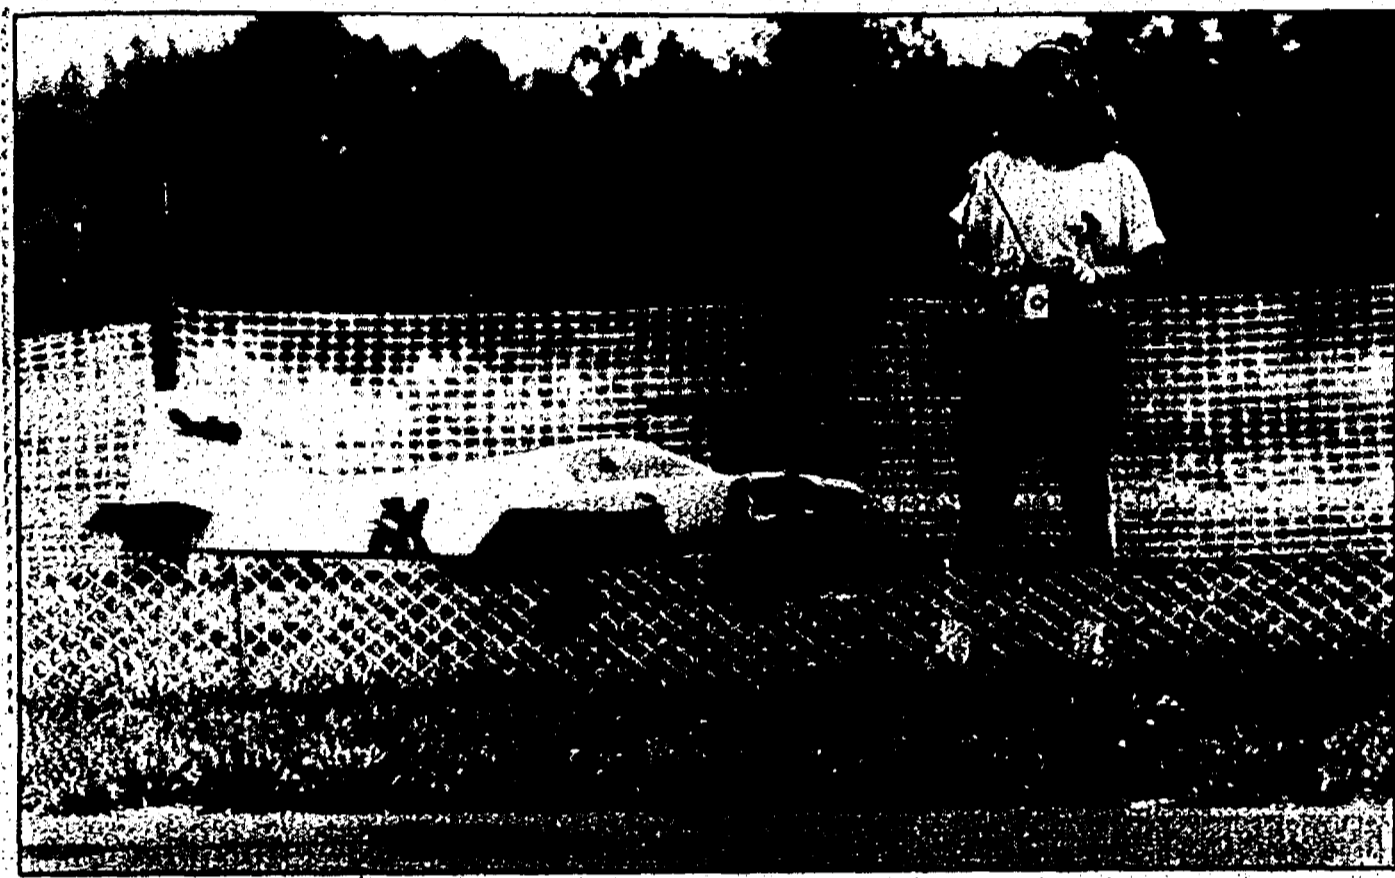

Most hobby shops carry equipment for radio-control flying, and they can put you in touch with a club near you, Martin said. Rider's offers clinics and workshops for church and school groups to assemble rubber-band planes.

"It's really the greatest thing," Martin said. "You get hooked pretty quickly. Watching your plane, and suddenly a hawk comes by and is flying in the same path as your plane. It's really neat. It's the closest most of us frustrated pilots will ever get to flying our own plane."

H&R BLOCK Offers Tax School In Your Neighborhood

Thousands of people are learning the skill in income tax preparation from H&R Block and are earning money as income tax preparers.

H&R Block's Income tax course starts this week with morning, evening and Saturday classes available. Classes will be offered at many convenient area locations.

During the 11 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns.

Experienced Block Instructors will teach current laws, theory and application, as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom discussion on each subject and practice problems at every level.

Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Courses are ideally suited for people who want to increase their tax knowledge and learn how to save money on taxes or who are looking for a rewarding career. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

One low course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. Mastercard, Visa, American Express and Discover cards are accepted or a time payment plan is available.

Registration forms and a brochure for the income tax course may be obtained by calling H&R Block at 1-800-TAX-2000.

Edison line clearance crews to trim trees through October

Detroit Edison will add 43 crews to its force of 152 line clearance crews working in Southeastern Michigan over the next few months, a press release said.

Edison maintains a 10-foot clearance between tree branches and power lines.

The utility's line clearance crews plan to work in more than 40 communities in September and October, including Canton Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Detroit, Flat Rock, Allen Park, Romulus and Wayne.

About 70 percent of the electrical service outages sustained by customers during a series of storms July 13-16 were due to tree interference.

"The recent storms and tree-related outages served to reinforce the necessity for a continuing line-clearance schedule," said Edison Vice President Robert J. Buckler in a press release. "Although it is impossible to stop winds of up to 80 mph from causing problems with our electrical system, as happened with the recent storms, we are committed to eliminating outages that could be prevented by line clearance efforts."

Trees that grow into or near power lines can knock them down during high winds and storms, causing outages.

In addition, trees in contact with power lines during normal weather may result in low voltage or outages to customers.

The utility's tree-trimming crews follow National Arborist Association pruning standards, which are designed to maintain the health of the tree.

Survey says voters won't support incumbents who back gas tax hike

Forty-one percent of Michigan voters are less likely to vote for an incumbent legislator running for re-election who votes to increase the gas tax by 7 cents per gallon, according to a recent statewide public opinion survey for the Michigan Chamber conducted by EPIC/MRA of Lansing.

Fifteen percent of 600 voters surveyed said they would be more likely to vote for the legislator and 40 percent said their legislator's vote on the gas tax doesn't matter.

The survey has an error factor of plus or minus 4 percent.

"The response to this question is very consistent with the results of the survey research we reported in May, which found that 61 percent of Michigan voters disapprove of a gas tax increase for road and bridge construction and improvements," said EPIC/MRA vice president Ed Sarpolus in a press release.

"The proposed gas tax hike is one of the few issues that could benefit Democrats if Republicans lead the charge in the legislature because independents, Democrats and Perot voters oppose the tax increase by higher percentages than the statewide average," said chamber vice president Robert LaBrant. "Opposition to a 7-cent gas tax hike runs across all demographic groupings in the state. Legislators can expect that a vote to increase the gas tax by 7 cents a gallon will be a major issue in 1996-election campaigns."

B2222222: Workers used a Stihl chainsaw to cut trees that had fallen across the river.

County crews start working to clear logjams from Rouge

Shovel: Heavy equipment aids workers in pulling the really heavy tree trunks from the Rouge River between Newburgh and Nankin lakes. Officials hope to open that stretch of the river for canoeing next year.

Work began Tuesday, Sept. 5, to remove 40 Rouge River logjams between Newburgh and Nankin lakes so that the river might be open for canoeing next year.

Mike Duggan, the chief deputy of county Executive Ed McNamara, has been put in charge of the project.

"We're going to have canoes and fishing on the river as soon as next spring," Duggan said. "By late October that river will be clean of logjams from Nankin Lake to Newburgh Lake."

Beyond next year, Duggan hopes to open the Middle Rouge for canoeing from Wilcox Lake in Plymouth Township to Merriman Road in Westland.

By 1997 all of the combined sewer overflows west of Merriman are expected to be capped.

Newburgh Lake, with tons of sewage in its sediment, is scheduled to be dredged in the winter of 1997-98. Swimming, however, won't be safe for another 10 years.

It is also hoped that by 1998 the Lower Rouge, flowing through Canton and Westland, will be opened for canoeing.

Debris: Deputy parks director Dan Navarre and Garden City resident Renee Papis have a look at a big stump pulled from the Rouge River as part of a project to clear 40 logjams between Newburgh and Nankin lakes.

A.D.D. and Learning Problems Linked to Vision

LIVONIA — For the past three years, Dr. John Jacobi, optometrist, and his visual therapy staff has helped hundreds of patients overcome their vision-related difficulties. Why look to vision? Vision is our number one tool for gathering information. 80 percent of learning takes place through the visual system.

Dr. Jacobi states that 20/20 sight is only a portion of the whole experience of vision. A child's vision also includes his ability to keep his focus long enough to read without strain and to keep the letters from being "double." It involves his ability to recall what he has seen, which assists him in learning to spell. Reading, handwriting, and letter reversals are all greatly affected by a child's vision.

Eric working with Dr. Jacobi and his vision therapist.

In addition, vision is strongly linked to concentration. Symptoms of visual deficiencies and Attention Deficit Disorder are very similar. "My concern is that a child with A.D.D. may have undiagnosed vision problems," says Dr. Jacobi. "There could be a serious, yet treatable vision deficiency that is being overlooked."

The first step is a thorough testing of sight, eye movements, visual concentration, visual memory, coordination and letter reversals. Many parents are looking for answers to why their child doesn't seem to pay attention or catch on to school," according to therapist Tracey Dumphy. "There are so many children whose life and school career is being hurt simply by poor vision skills.

"Identifying the problem is just the beginning," notes Dr. Jacobi. "The real hope lies in the fact that in most cases it is correctable. These students have potential to make gains — great gains."

Dr. Jacobi is dedicated to this need for vision testing. He is currently offering free testing at Suburban Optometrics in Livonia. Call (313) 525-8170 for an appointment.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Here are some of my favorite things

From time to time, I get the opportunity to meet many of you face to face. I've had readers say hello at Pine Knob concerts, community art fairs, malls, the Eastern Market and the grocery store.

By far, the most asked question concerns one or another of my favorites. Just like you, I have favorite restaurants, cookbooks, hangouts and gadgets.

This column is dedicated to everyone who wants to know some of my favorite favorites. I'll begin randomly with no one favorite overshadowing another favorite. If you've had the opportunity to visit the Leelanau Peninsula this summer or are planning a fall color tour, visit my favorite place — Woodland Herb Farm, 7741 N. Manitou Trail, Northport. The smells are intoxicating and check out their selection of homemade vinegars. My personal favorite for the last 10 years is their Wild Leek Vinegar.

Tapawingo in Ellsworth, the Rowe Inn, (East Jordan), and Pete and Mickey's, (Charlevoix) continue to be trendy crowd pleasers, but Stafford's Bay View Inn in Traverse City and Charlevoix still makes the best baked fish in a brown paper bag.

Relatively speaking

You've undoubtedly heard me mention my wonderful Aunt Phyllis in this column. Her potato salad is the best I have ever tasted. She only makes it at Christmas and when her son, my cousin Mike, comes up from Alabama in the summer to visit. Well, Aunt Phyllis asked me to tell you that the City of Trenton is sponsoring a "Taste Of" coupled with a Beyond & Somewhere in Time Party at Elizabeth Park on Sept. 17. Momma is from Trenton and I grew up tobogganing on the hills and riding the ponies at Elizabeth Park. I'll be there to taste the best and enjoy the activities. Call (313) 675-7300 for more information.

Speaking of fun times, I'll make a quick dash from Trenton to Schoolcraft College's Culinary Extravaganza on September 17 at the Waterman Center on campus to taste specialties from some of the best restaurants in metro Detroit. Proceed benefits are used for culinary arts scholarships. This is the best benefit of the season folks so call (313) 462-4417 for more information and tickets.

You've just gotta love the updated cooking classes at Botsford General Hospital and their new facility the Botsford Center for Health Improvement on Grand River in Novi. The class that caught my eye — "Is There Life After Schmaltz?" Call (810) 477-6100 for a schedule.

Speaking of fat, lovers of fat free products will surely appreciate the Fatwise catalog devoted entirely to fat-free foods. Not just fat free but also organic. These products were selected because of their superior quality and taste. These are the best in the industry. To request a catalog, call 1-(800)-773-8822. Personal favorites are a fat free "Salad Dazzler" that tastes as good brushed on a chicken as it did in my salad.

Appetizing reads

What's my favorite magazine? I'll always subscribe to "Bon Appetit" and "Gourmet" but anybody who cooks should have a subscription to "Cook's Illustrated." It's expensive ($24.95) and published bimonthly, but I anticipate the arrival of every issue. Write to Cook's at P.O. Box 59046, Boulder, Colo. 80322-9046.

I'm a stickler for sharp knives. I keep my knives razor sharp with a Chef's Choice knife sharpening system. If you have good knives and want to keep them sharp, this is the only electric sharpening system on the market that I would entrust my Henckles and Tridents to.

You can find them wherever good cutlery is sold. Ask for a demonstration, it's worth it. My favorite cookbook at this moment? I just received a promotional copy of "Friends in the Kitchen" by Nancy Lindsay, (copyright 1993 by Lalo-Lin, $16.95.) This cookbook is patterned after a church fund-raiser cookbook, and features favorite recipes of Lindsay's friends in their kitchens. It's not trendy, and many recipes call for "store bought" something or another, but these are the types of recipes I was raised on. My momma should be in here.

Harvesting herbs: Judith Ille prepares herbs for later use in her Rochester Hills kitchen.

JIM RIDENSTAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Cooks dig growing their own

H E R B S

BY DAWN NEEDHAM
SPECIAL WRITER

A love of herb gardening and a love of cooking often go hand in hand, and they meet in the kitchen. Inch for inch, an herb garden may be the best investment a cook makes all year.

"People are looking at their diets and being more salt-conscious," said Judith Ille of Rochester Hills. "They're looking at different ways to eat."

And these healthier ways of eating sometimes surprise people.

"It makes the food taste so much more interesting," Valerie Boguslawski of Farmington Hills said about cooking with herbs. She named a few combinations of slightly unusual flavors, such as mint with carrots or in pea soup; "somehow it makes a whole different dish. As you get used to using your spice rack, you don't reach for the salt anymore. You experiment."

Flavorful herbs allow the cook to cut down or entirely eliminate salt. And they provide such wonderful tastes: fish with a lemon sauce is good, but a lemon-dill sauce is divine. "You can't have an herb garden without basil," said Katherine (Kip) Smith of Birmingham. This sentiment is echoed by Boguslawski, who calls basil "the queen of herbs." Nearly everyone with even a mildly green thumb has made pesto at least once, and basil also flavors Italian dishes, pizzas and much more. Toss basil leaves in with a mixed-greens salad for a new taste.

Boguslawski likes French tarragon, roses, lavender, parsley, sweet cicely, sage, winter savory, chervil, onions and chives, regular and garlic. Sweet basil is a favorite "in everything," she said. She likes to chop basil leaves in a food processor, place with water in ice cube trays and freeze.

"I pull them out all winter to give soups and spaghetti saute, a fresh taste." She prefers to freeze basil in ice because the herb turns black if whole leaves are frozen. That's not bad, just unappetizing, she said.

Boguslawski freezes herbal butters to give her breads a special touch throughout the winter. "Basil turns the butter green and you have to tell people it's OK, it's supposed to be that color," she said. Rose petal butter is nice on toast for a tea.

One of Smith's favorite herbs is lovage, a perennial herb with celery-like foliage. It tastes like a strong celery, and Smith adds the leaves to soups and stews. Its hollow stalks can be used as straws in a bloody Mary cocktail, she said. To preserve her lovage harvest, Smith either dries the leaves or preserves them in oil.

Rosemary is a tender perennial in Michigan, which means it can be grown outdoors in the summer and brought indoors for the winter. It is good paired with meats or potatoes. Dorothy Brown of Livonia loves rosemary, and said every year she tries to nurse a plant through the winter, often without much luck. In her household, it's an Easter tradition to serve a roast leg of lamb stuffed with slices of her homegrown garlic and sprinkled with rosemary.

All herbs are popular now, as people look to add flavor to diets while cutting fat and salt. While there are the usual favorites — basil, parsley, rosemary and thyme — some new herbs occasionally make their way into the American garden and kitchen. Smith calls cilantro the "herb a la mode," referring to its current popularity.

Cilantro tastes good in a fresh salsa or tomato salad, and can be mixed with corn, black beans, onion and lime juice for quick salad. It's also a nice flavor for Mexican dishes. Cilantro is sometimes called Chinese parsley or coriander, although coriander actually refers to the dried seeds of the plant.

Gardeners who have "thyme" for cooking say thyme of all sorts is another favorite, as much for its variety of flavors as its beauty as a plant.

"If I could only grow one herb in my garden it would be lemon thyme," said Ille. She uses it to make cookies, adds it to soups, flavors fish with it. It's also a good pot-pourri ingredient, she said.

A more unusual herb finding its place in many gardens is chervil, said Smith. It has delicate licorice-like flavor and a myriad of uses from salad dressings to eggs to meat. It is suitable wherever parsley is used.

Sweet cicely also has a licorice flavor, and is an herb with a lot of natural sugar, Smith said. Its flavor and pretty leaves make it a good addition to a fruit salad.

Lavender is another favorite herb, although its uses are more than culinary. Ille suggested putting dried lavender sticks in muslin bags and tossing them in the dryer to give clothes and linens a beautiful smell. In the kitchen, lavender can be an ingredient in cookies or even salad.

"An herb is a plant that's useful," said Ille. "You can make just about anything an herb."

Here's the scoop on Chef Lou's fat free ice cream

BY BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITER

"I scream, you scream, we all scream for..." OK. OK. It's a bit cliché, but everyone would be screaming from the mountain-tops if they found a truly guiltless ice cream every bit as rich and smooth as the fat-laden variety.

Well, Chef Lou DeCillis of West Bloomfield has done it. The guru behind Savino ice cream, sorbets and ices, has been working for four years to come up with a fat free ice cream that meets his standards. It was the advent of the defatted cocoa bean that made it all possible.

"I didn't want people to buy it because it's fat free," Chef Lou said. "I wanted people to buy it because it tastes really good."

A graduate of the world-famous Culinary Arts Institute and a New York native, Chef Lou was considered a bit of a culinary "geek." While his classmates were dabbling in sauces, he preferred ice sculptures and frozen desserts — carrot-raisin ice cream and gin sorbet.

"I always loved ices, the kind you find in New York everywhere you go," Chef Lou said.

He started a catering business in New York and, when visiting a friend in metro Detroit, was astounded to learn he couldn't buy ices here. He packed up his belongings and moved to where his talents were needed most.

JOHN STORMZANDSTAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Guilt-free dessert: Chef Lou DeCillis samples his fat free ice cream.

Chef Lou worked odd jobs to support a little ice cream parlor in Livonia where he mostly gave away free samples of ices. He set up his own ice cream production plant in Plymouth for awhile, but soon found he couldn't keep up with demand.

This is now his 18th season in the frozen dessert business and his seventh year with Stroh's serving as his manufacturer and distributor of the Savino label.

Chef Lou says the secret behind the great taste of his new fat free ice creams is that they are made with no chemicals that leave an uneasy aftertaste. For the health conscious, it's also important to note that these treats have no cholesterol and about half the calories of other fat free ice creams — only 122 calories per half-cup serving.

Made with pride in Michigan

Savino is offering two lines of the fat free treat. Savino's Fat Free Super Premium Ice Cream is sold only in pints. Chef Lou says it's the richest ice cream around. The pints range in price from $2.49 to $2.69 and come in vanilla, chocolate, strawberry (with big chunks of Michigan strawberries), chocolate raspberry, cafe mocha (for real coffee lovers) and caramel.

For most of us, a pint really means one serving — it's so hard to stop after a half-cup serving. But Chef Lou says not to worry, but call his hot line, 1-(800)-Chef-Lou to share your story and relinquish your guilt. Chef Lou knows where you're coming from, he's finally winning a weight battle recently dropping 53 pounds, ice cream and all.

Chef Lou Fat Free Premium Ice Cream is sold in half gallons and is about $4.70.

"I wanted it to be the heaviest half gallon in the store," he said. The half gallons come in mocha fudge mousse, red raspberry ripple (fantastic), double chocolate ripple (to die for) and vanilla (made with the whole vanilla bean).

Chef Lou is always experimenting with new flavors and may substitute with a new one every once in awhile.

Savino's other products, as well as the fat free lines, are available locally at some Kroger stores, Arbor Drugs, Shopping Center Market, Nino's and Vic's World Class Market. They are also available in six other states.

Garden fresh herbs offer a harvest of flavors

See related story on Taste front.

SALSA

28 ounce can seasoned diced tomatoes (or use 2-3 large fresh tomatoes, peeled and chopped)
4 ounce can chopped chiles (or according to taste)
½ cup thinly sliced green onions
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon fresh oregano or marjoram (or use ½ teaspoon dried)
½ teaspoon fresh ground pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Drain tomatoes if using canned variety. Mix all ingredients and chill for a few hours. Serve with homemade tortilla crisps. Makes 2½ cups.

TORTILLA CRISPS

1 package (8 or 10-inch) flour tortillas
Cut each flour tortilla into eight wedges. Bake in a single layer on a cookie sheet at 350 degrees F for up to 10 minutes or until they're lightly browned. One package makes about 96 chips.

Recipes from Judith Ill.

HERBAL BUTTERS

1 stick butter (softened) or margarine
1 cup herb leaves — (basil, dill, rose or whatever herb will complement the rest of the meal.)
1 clove garlic, or more to taste (omit for rose butter)
Mix all ingredients. Freeze or use right away. For less intense flavor use less herbs, add more for stronger flavor.
Recipe from Valerie Boguslawski's mother, Jean Pazzanese of Dearborn.

CHEESE DIP WITH HORSERADISH

1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
¾ to 1½ teaspoons garlic powder or 1-2 crushed garlic cloves

¾ to 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1¼ tablespoons prepared horseradish, or grate about 2 tablespoons fresh horseradish, toss with 1 tablespoon white vinegar and a pinch of salt, then add to other ingredients
Add milk to desired consistency
Combine ingredients, mix. Serve on crackers or thin dip with milk to serve with crackers.
Recipe from Valerie Boguslawski's mother, Jean Pazzanese of Dearborn.

TABBOULEH

½ cup water
1 cup bulgur wheat
½ cup olive or salad oil
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
1½ teaspoons salt (can reduce or omit)
1 teaspoon ground allspice (optional)
1 bunch green onions
½ to 1 cup fresh spearmint leaves (chopped)
1½ cups parsley (chopped)
2 tomatoes cut into small cubes

Boil water and add to bulgur. When liquid is absorbed, add oil, lemon juice, salt and allspice. Then add other ingredients. Mix well. Cover and chill at least 1 hour. Will keep refrigerated for 2-3 days.
Recipe from Kip Smith.

FRESH TOMATO SALAD

Vinaigrette:
2 tablespoons wine vinegar or (1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice)
½ teaspoon salt and fresh ground black pepper ½ teaspoon dry mustard (or good prepared mustard)

½ cup good olive or salad oil
Place all ingredients in a covered jar and shake well.
Slice tomatoes, let juices drain. Scatter some chopped parsley, basil and scallions or shallots on the bottom of the dish.
Arrange a layer of tomatoes on top and sprinkle with "just a pinch" of pepper and sugar. Then sprinkle again with parsley, basil & scallions.
Repeat layers until tomatoes are used up. Moisten with vinaigrette. Cover and let set at least 30 minutes.

Use herbs to season your vinegars

BY DAWN NEEDHAM
SPECIAL WRITER

Herbal vinegars are showing up on grocery store shelves. But why buy something you can easily make yourself? Herbs and fruits can be used alone or mixed.
White vinegar is especially good as a base, and also the least expensive. Experiment with other vinegars to find your favorite flavor.

Whether or not to heat the vinegar is a matter of personal preference. I like to. The aromas released when warm vinegar is mixed with herbs give a good hint to the finished product.

BERRY VINEGARS

1 to 1½ pounds ripe berries, washed and dried
4 cups white wine vinegar

If you're using blueberries or cranberries they should be ground in a blender with a little vinegar. Crush other types of berries to release their flavor.

Put prepared berries in a glass bowl. Mix in heated vinegar. Transfer to a glass jar (no metal lids) or a food-grade quality plastic storage container with a tight-fitting lid. Store in a cool dark place for four weeks. Strain before placing in dispenser bottles.

HERB VINEGARS

Generous handful coarsely chopped herbs

4 cups vinegar

Combine ingredients, put in covered glass or plastic container. Store in cool dark place for four weeks. Strain before placing in dispenser bottles.

SWEET BASIL WITH BLUEBERRY VINEGAR

4 cups white wine vinegar
1 pound blueberries (fresh or frozen), ground in blender with ½ cup of the vinegar

1 handful sweet purple basil, leaves and stems chopped

Combine ingredients. Store in covered container for four weeks. Strain through cheesecloth, bottle and label. Add a few whole blueberries to the final bottle for color.
Recipe from "Gourmet Vinegars" by Marsha Peters Johnson.

Chef Larry shares some favorites

See Chef Larry's Janes' Taste Buds column.

This is one of my favorite recipes. It's from my best friend, Bill Martin, who is the foods teacher at the Northwest Wayne Transitional Skills Center in Livonia. You won't believe how easy it is to make, or how good it tastes — hot or cold!

MARTIN'S TOMATO SOUP

20 tomatoes, quartered
1 large onion, chopped fine
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons baking soda
1½ teaspoons dill weed or basil, crushed.

Place quartered tomatoes in a large non-reactive pot. Simmer until tomatoes are soft. Sieve or put through a food mill to remove skins and seeds.

Return tomato mixture to pot. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat to a simmer and simmer, uncovered, until reduced by 25 percent. Meanwhile, saute finely chopped onions in butter or margarine until tender and golden. Stir into tomatoes. Stir baking soda into pot. Be careful as soda will cause tomatoes to boil over. Do this over the sink or make sure you have a large enough pot. (The soda neutralizes the acidity of the tomatoes.)
Stir in spices and season to taste with salt and some fresh ground pepper. Serves 6.

SWEDISH MEATBALLS

2 cups fine bread crumbs
1½ cups heavy cream
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ pounds fresh ground beef
¾ pound ground pork
¾ pound ground veal
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon dill weed
3 eggs, lightly beaten
3 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon fresh ground pepper
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 pints sour cream

Soak the bread crumbs in the heavy cream for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, saute the onion in the butter or margarine until tender, about 5 minutes. Combine all ingredients into a large bowl and mix well.

Shape into meatballs and brown slightly in a little hot fat. Stir in ½ cup water and simmer meatballs uncovered for ½ hour, turning occasionally. Stir in more water if meatballs become too dry.

Just before serving, fold in 2 pints of sour cream. Makes 25-30 cocktail sized meatballs. Make meatballs small for a chafing dish or larger to serve over noodles for dinner.

Recipe from: "Friends in the Kitchen" by Nancy Lindsay. (Copyright 1993.)

AUNT PHYLLIS' POTATO SALAD

5-7 pounds Idaho potatoes
1 medium yellow onion, chopped
(4 ounces medium sharp cheddar cheese, cubed)
4 eggs, hard-cooked, chopped
¾ of a quart jar Miracle Whip
1½ tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
Salt & pepper (to taste)
¾ cup granulated sugar (more or less to taste)

Peel potatoes and place in a large pot. Cover with cold water. Bring potatoes to a boil and then reduce heat to a simmer.

Simmer potatoes until tender. (Aunt Phyllis says until you can pierce them with a knife and the knife comes out easily). While the potatoes are still warm to the touch, mix them with the onion and set aside. Prepare cheese and chop hard boiled eggs and set aside.

In another bowl, combine Miracle Whip (Aunt Phyllis says use Miracle Whip, not mayonnaise, nothing reduced fat and definitely nothing fat free!) with the mustard, granulated sugar, salt and pepper. Mix well.

Combine potato mixture, cheese mixture and Miracle Whip mixture and toss to coat. Correct seasonings, if desired. Keep stored in the refrigerator. Serves 10-12.

FIRST SERVICE USA

"We give a treat, so we won't pollute!"

Super sandwiches will add power to lunchtime

Sandwiches are the mainstay of lunches across America — whether they are packed in the lunch box, consumed at work, or eaten at home. However, the traditional combination of high-fat meats, mayonnaise and cheese on airy white bread or buns doesn't make for very healthful midday eating. Whether you make your own sandwich or pick one up at a deli, consider some new ways to make sandwiches a nutritious part of your daily diet.

For meat sandwiches, use moderate portions of thin deli cuts of turkey, ham or lean beef or thin slices of leftover chicken breast meat. Lower-fat packaged cold cuts can be a good choice if you keep an eye on the fat and sodium content.

Remember that cheese is fattier than most meats. A one-ounce slice of Swiss or provolone contains eight grams of fat; American cheese has seven grams of fat per ounce. Consider using a reduced fat cheese or using a small amount of strong-flavored cheese. Mayonnaise-based fillings like chicken or tuna salad can be improved with low-fat or fat-free mayonnaise, or a dressing made with seasoned low-fat yogurt. If you want a real "salad sandwich," pack salad ingredients — lettuce, tomato, green pepper, onion, etc. — into a pita pocket and dress with salsa or low-fat salad dressing.

Consider new ideas for low-fat condiments, such as chutney, apple butter, honey mustard or cranberry-orange relish. Mix horseradish and chopped scallions into reduced-fat sour cream or add your favorite herbs to light cream cheese.

Some deli vegetarian sandwiches are a high-fat nightmare — especially those featuring mayo, cheese and avocado. Instead, try a Waldorf salad sandwich (grated apples and celery, chopped walnuts and raisins with a low-fat mayonnaise and yogurt dressing), or a sandwich featuring spinach, sliced red onion and quartered artichoke hearts, sprinkled with red wine vinegar.

With so many different flavors, textures and forms available in bread today, you needn't settle for the same old sliced white bread for your sandwiches. Whenever possible, use whole-grain breads. They offer far more fiber and nutrients than white bread and taste a lot better, too.

MEXICAN BEAN SANDWICH SPREAD

- 1 can (16 ounces) fat-free refried beans
- 1/2 cup low-fat yogurt
- 2 scallions, chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 teaspoon cumin
- 1 teaspoon chili powder

In a bowl, combine all the ingredients and mix well. Serve on pita rounds with lettuce, tomato or cucumber. Can be covered and refrigerated for up to 2 days.

Each of the 4 servings contains 130 calories and 1 gram of fat.

Super sandwich: Mexican Bean Sandwich Spread served on pita rounds with lettuce, tomato or cucumber is nutritious and delicious.

Learn how to separate food fact from food fiction

LOIS THIELEKE

Food folklore, old wives tales or food half truths seem to be always present. Sometimes it is difficult to separate fact from fiction since research continually changes the rules on what we know or think we know about food and nutrition. Here are some of the most frequently heard myths or half truths and the real answers.

■ All calories are created equal — false. One gram of fat contains nine calories while carbohydrates and proteins have only four calories, that's not equal. Gram for gram carbohydrates contain less than half the calories in fat.

Generally it is recommended that you limit fat to 20 to 30 percent of total calories. Complex carbohydrates provide long term energy and keep you feeling full. Complex carbohydrates include foods such as pasta, bread, cereal and other grain based foods. Simple carbohydrates are found in sugar products like sugar laden cereals or candy bars. They provide energy but not long term and you feel hungry again very soon.

■ Skipping meals is a good way to lose weight — false. Skipping meals tend to make you overeat at the next meal or eat out of control. Low fat meals and snacks are better than skipping the meals. Choose low fat, high fiber foods to eat frequently to keep from binging at the next meal.

■ Fat-free means calorie free — false. The explosion of fat-free products does not mean they are without calories. Fat-free can mean lots of other additives, especially sugar and salt. By putting all your eating emphasis on fat-free you are probably missing out on important vitamins, minerals and fiber. The closest food to fat-free and lower calories are fresh fruits and vegetables. Fat-free is not a license to over eat.

■ Vitamins provide energy — false. Vitamins don't have calories so they can't give you energy. Only fat, carbohydrates and protein provide energy. Vitamins do play a critical role in the chemical reactions that release energy from the foods you eat.

■ Butter has more calories than oil — false. Ounce for ounce, butter and oil are equal in calories, each having about 40 per teaspoon. Butter has about five times more saturated fat, that's the artery clogging type of fat, that's the problem. Vegetable oils do not contain cholesterol, butter does. Remember, plant products do not contain cholesterol, while animal products do. If the doctor has limited the cholesterol in your diet, put your food emphasis on plant products.

■ Mayonnaise causes food poisoning — false. Mayonnaise actually protects food from food borne bacteria. Mayonnaise contains salt and vinegar that slow bacterial growth. Protein rich foods such as chicken or eggs can cause the problem when added to mayonnaise. As soon as mayonnaise is added to protein rich food the bacteria can start to grow unless the food is carefully handled and refrigerated. Always keep a bacteria, germ free work surfaces and wash your hands frequently. Keep foods refrigerated.

■ White breads are empty calories — false. White bread provides iron, thiamin, niacin and riboflavin and complex carbohydrates. The difference between white and wheat bread is fiber. In order for whole wheat bread to be a good source of fiber the label should read at least 1.5 grams fiber per slice. Whole wheat are the key words for fiber. Fiber makes you feel full.

■ To gain weight, you have to eat more calories than you burn — true. Weight gain comes from eating an unbalanced diet and lack of exercise. Unfortunately, overeating with a lack of exercise where you aren't burning off calories will result in weight gain. Positive changes in exercise and eating habits by reducing the amount of fat you eat will help keep the weight from climbing.

■ Chocolate causes acne and raises blood cholesterol levels — false. There is little evidence that shows that diet affects acne. A few people are allergic to chocolate and may develop a rash but that's not acne. Cocoa, the basis for chocolate is a plant product, so is cholesterol-free, but not fat-free. Milk chocolate has a small amount of cholesterol because it contains milk. The problem is that cocoa beans are high in fat and the fat boosts blood cholesterol, but cocoa fat has less effect than animal fat.

■ Eating healthy makes you feel good — true. A well balanced meal pattern gives you all the vitamins and minerals (all the nutrients) to keep your body healthy. Drink plenty of fluids and getting exercise also helps you feel and looks good.

Win $500 by concocting recipe for non-alcoholic drink

There's a still time for Michigan residents to show off their drink-mixing skills and win $500, a weekend getaway or other prizes by entering a non-alcoholic drink recipe in AAA Michigan's 15th annual "Zero-Proof Mix-Off" competition. Entry deadline is Sept. 18.

"Salute to the Automobile" is the theme of this year's competition, in recognition of the 100th anniversary of the U.S. auto industry, which is being celebrated in 1996. A non-alcoholic drink recipe with a clever name that refects the automotive theme could earn the entrant a place as a finalist. Imagine concoctions like "Sparkplug Sparkling Punch" or "Motor City Mamba."

The contest is part of the Auto Club's "First A Friend, Then A Host" program to focus attention on the problem of drinking and driving during the holiday season.

To enter, send a favorite non-alcoholic drink recipe to AAA Michigan, giving it a clever name reflecting an automotive theme. Mail it to "Zero-Proof Mix-off,"

AAA Michigan Public Relations, 1 Auto Club Drive, Dearborn MI 48126. Name, address, daytime telephone number, drink name, ingredients and mixing instructions should be included with entry.

When entries are received, 15 finalists will be selected to mix drinks at one of three regional contests. First-place winners at each of the regional contests in Petoskey, Oct. 3; Muskegon, Oct. 4; and Dearborn, Oct. 5, will receive $500. Second-place winners will receive a weekend getaway for two at a northern Michigan resort. All other finalists will receive an American Express Gift Cheque worth $50.

Winning recipes will be featured in AAA's Michigan Living Magazine's December issue and the 1995-96 "Great Pretenders Party Guide," distributed free statewide.

Entrants must be Michigan residents 16 or older. No alcohol or flavor extract containing alcohol, is allowed. AAA Michigan employees and their immediate families are not eligible.

New book features African-American recipes

AP — Over 200 recipes from across the United States are featured in "The Welcoming Table: African-American Heritage Cooking" by Jessica B. Harris. Among them: Limpin' Susan and hush puppies.

Limpin' Susan is a local Carolina name for one of the region's rice pilafs, or purloos. These composed rice dishes are the jewels of the region's cooking. Occasionally, tomatoes are added, but the classic dish calls for rice, bacon, okra and seasonings. Hush puppies are a perfect accompaniment to fried seafood. Depending on the version of the story, they were created to throw to dogs to keep them from barking either while hunting or while food was being transported from the kitchen to the dining room.

LIMPIN' SUSAN

- 5 strips lean bacon
- 3 cups thinly sliced okra
- 1 small onion, minced

1 cup washed raw long-grain rice
1 cup water
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste

Cut the bacon into 1-inch pieces; fry in a heavy skillet until crisp. Add the okra and onion; saute in the bacon drippings, stirring occasionally, until the onion is translucent and the okra is tender. Add the rice, water and seasonings. Continue to cook for 5 minutes, making sure all of the ingredients are well mixed.

Transfer the rice and okra mixture to the top section of a rice steamer. Add water to the bottom, cover and cook until the rice is fluffy and dry. The cooking times will vary depending on the type of rice. But this should take between 45 minutes and 1 hour. Serve hot, with a rice spoon. Makes 4 servings.

HUSH PUPPIES

- 1 1/2 cups yellow cornmeal

1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 large onion, minced
Peanut oil for frying

Mix the dry ingredients in a medium-sized bowl. Beat the egg and milk together in a smaller bowl; add the minced onion. Pour the egg, milk and onion over the dry ingredients; stir until they are well mixed.

Meanwhile, heat 3 inches of the oil in a heavy skillet to 375 degrees F. Drop the batter by heaping tablespoonfuls into the oil; fry for 2 to 3 minutes, or until golden brown and slightly puffed, turning to brown on both sides. Drain the hush puppies on paper towels and serve them hot with fried fish. Makes 8 servings.

Single-serving meat loaves are sure to be a hit

Your whole family will be buzzing with excitement when you whip up Honey Teriyaki Mini-Meat Loaves in no time.

Your kids are sure to like their own personal meat loaves made with lean ground beef and honey teriyaki barbecue sauce. Add a Noodle Toss, complete with Oriental vegetables and instant ramen noodles for a dinner that takes just 30 minutes to prepare.

HONEY TERIYAKI MINI-MEAT LOAVES AND NOODLE TOSS

- Meat Loaves:
1 1/2 pounds lean ground beef
1/2 cup dry plain bread crumbs
1/2 cup honey teriyaki barbecue sauce
1 egg
1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Topping:
1/4 cup honey teriyaki barbecue sauce
- Noodle Toss:
1 package (16 ounces) frozen

Oriental vegetable mixture
2 cups water
2 packages (3 ounces each) Oriental-flavored instant ramen noodles
1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions
3 tablespoons honey teriyaki sauce

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. In large bowl, combine ingredients for meat loaves, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Place approximately 1/4 cup beef mixture into each of the 12 medium (2 1/4-inch diameter) muffin cups, pressing lightly; spread remaining 1/4 cup teriyaki sauce over tops. Bake in 400 degree F oven for 20 minutes or until centers are no longer pink.

Meanwhile, in 10-inch skillet, combine vegetables, water, noodles (broken into several pieces) and seasoning packet from one package noodles. (Reserve remaining seasoning packet for another use); bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low;

Honey of a meal: Honey Teriyaki Mini-Meat Loaves & Noodle Toss is sure to be a favorite with your family.

simmer 3 to 3 1/2 minutes or until noodles are tender, stirring occasionally. Stir in green onions and barbecue sauce. Remove meat loaves from pan; serve with noodles. Makes 6 servings.

Lemon juice helps canned tomatoes

"Tomato canning season is here," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. "We've been reminding home canners for the past several years of the importance of adding bottled lemon juice to their home canned tomatoes."

However, some home canners still have not heard of this recommendation given by the USDA. Its purpose is to raise the acidity of home canned tomatoes to maintain their safety.

There are so many different varieties of tomatoes now-a-days that have such different levels of acidity, there is no way to know if the acid is high enough.

Remember:
■ Add 2 tablespoons of bottled lemon juice to each quart of tomatoes before processing.
■ You may substitute 1/4 teaspoon of citric acid for the bottled lemon juice.
■ Process canned tomatoes according to recipes given in the 32nd edition of the Ball Blue Book or given by the USDA.
Call the Food and Nutrition Hotline 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday for all your food preservation, food safety, or food and nutrition concerns.

Use modern canning methods for safety

"Grandma's old canning methods may be outdated and unsafe," warns Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. "Canning is not a guessing game. There is a science to safe canning, and following the latest USDA recommendations is essential."

"It's hard to convince old-time canners that home-canned foods must be processed," said Treitman. This is the safe way to can foods, and up-to-date directions are vital.

Safe canning tips:
■ Use a new Ball Blue Book (32nd edition) recommended by the USDA (available at local canning supply stores or the Cooperative Extension Service).
■ Do not use old hand-me-down canning recipes.
■ Process all canned foods either in a boiling water bath or pressure canner according to USDA recommendations.
■ Use proper equipment — recommended by the USDA.

Parents fight to retrieve adopted child in thriller

Russell Clifton (Vincent Spano) and his wife Dana (Moira Kelly) appear to have the perfect life. They're an attractive, successful couple in their 30s with a stable and loving relationship. But one thing's missing — a child with whom to share their love.

Unable to conceive a baby of their own, they visit an adoption agency and are immediately bewitched by the beautiful and mysterious young Janie (Julia Devin). It is as though this adorable child chooses them, and they are completely enamored of the shy 6-year-old girl.

But the truth is Janie already has a set of parents; the Netherlands, Leann (Daryl Hannah) and John (Keith Carradine), who are drifters and dangerous criminals. After a burglary went awry, John and Leann were forced to take flight and leave their daughter behind.

Now, as Russell and Dana welcome Janie into their home, the new family's happiness is threatened by the specter of the child's biological parents.

Just as a semblance of domesticity begins to form at the Cliftons, the Netherlands reappear to claim what is theirs. Having vowed to find their daughter, John and Leann will stop at nothing — including murder. And now Russell and Dana are forced to fight for their lives to protect their daughter, in Hollywood Pictures' suspense drama "The Tie That Binds," now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters.

Inspired by several celebrated cases in which adopted children were removed from happy homes and returned to biological parents, screenwriter Michael Auerbach felt compelled to write the screenplay for "The Tie That Binds."

"It started with news stories about the Baby Jessica case," Auerbach recalls. "Then I read an article in 'Atlantic Monthly' magazine called 'Problem Adoptions,' which outlined the problems associated with adopting older children — the psychological adjustment that parents and children have to go through. From those two sources, the scenario for this movie evolved.

The screenplay that developed from Auerbach's initial agenda to "write a scary little thriller" was a script that also probed important issues about adoption and birth rights.

At the same time — through the horrors of events that unfold in the screenplay — it explores some of the issues of the nature of what a family is, and what makes a good parent. Can a mother and father who aren't socially acceptable, or who live outside the law, still be responsible parents?

The writer of such popular thrillers as "Wolf" and "Cape Fear" Wesley Strick was considered a number of projects with which to make his feature film directing debut.

He selected "The Tie That Binds" because "the script dealt with issues of loyalty to one's child, and the idea that this loyalty transcends any barrier, which is something I think all parents can identify with.

"I'm interested in the darkness of human behavior as well as redemption," he continues. "To my mind, there's no hero who isn't in some way villainous or capable of villainy when driven to it. And likewise, there's no villain who doesn't have his reasons. The idea that decency is always tinged with amorality and darkness, and that darkness always has some component of light and the possibility of redemption to it, is fascinating. Even the so-called 'good couple' in the film is forced to descend to a certain level of savagery. They must strike back in the most violent way they can in order to survive."

Drag queens go mainstream in 'To Wong Foo'

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"To Wong Foo, Thanks for Everything! Julie Newmar." The title alone should tell you that we're not in Kansas anymore.

Or maybe we are. The story finds three drag queens lost in middle America on the way west from New York City. And with Wesley Snipes and Patrick Swayze as two of these "career girls," the movie almost succeeds in making cross-dressing mainstream.

The road trip begins when Noxema Jackson and Vida Boheme tie for first place in a Big Apple drag queen contest. The prize: two round-trips to Hollywood for the national finals. Instead of flying the friendly skies, they sell their tickets, buy an old junker and hook up with a third party, a Latino named Chi Chi Rodriguez (John Leguizamo).

On a lonely road one night they're stopped by a backwoods sheriff (Chris Penn) who gets a rude awakening when he tries to feel up Vida's dress. Ridiculed by fellow officers for getting beat up by a girl, he swears revenge.

Meanwhile, stranded with car trouble in downtown Snyder'sville (population about 20), the girls decide to make the best of the long weekend. Noxema concludes that Hollywood, after all, is where you make it.

Of course we've been on this road before, just last year in the cult hit "Priscilla, Queen of the Desert." That trio of queens headed across the Australian outback in a pink-painted bus instead of a 1967 Cadillac convertible.

And where "Priscilla's" catty dialogue and Abba jokes made it seem as if the movie was actually made by drag queens, "Wong Foo's" obviously risky concept has more than a few Hollywood safeguards.

The movie is directed by Beeban Kidron, whose previous films were the equally eccentric "Antonia and Jane" and "Used People." She has the right sense of fun when she shows the local yokels fooled by the masquerade and awed by their rare encounter with big city life.

This particular weekend happens to be the strawberry festival, where the sole event is a midafternoon meeting in the town square to eat pies. The girls decide to live it up, raid the attic of the local boutique for authentic '60s fashion, and change the theme to "Red and Wild."

Snipes and Swayze have a genuinely good time in their offbeat roles. While Snipes is about as convincing in a dress as Flip Wilson's Geraldine, Swayze, awash in chiffon, makes us believe more than once that he is what he appears.

You may forget them both, however, when newcomer John Leguizamo is on screen. Noxema and Vida make it their mission to turn this "little Latino boy in a dress" into a full-fledged drag queen, but it's Leguizamo who could give the two-seasoned actors a few style tips.

His Chi-Chi, a definite Oscar contender, is both funny and poignant to the point where we really want things to work out with the shy local boy who begins to court him. At the same time you're laughing at his outrageousness.

And there are some hilarious moments in "Wong Foo." At least a couple belong to Penn's sheriff, whose list of "Places to Find Homos" sends him to dance studios, flower shops, and antique stores.

The rest of the supporting cast includes some familiar faces, including Robin Williams early on as a fast-talking fan and Blythe Danner as one of the formerly repressed townpeople. Julie Newmar ("Catwoman" to TV's "Batman") also appears, not surprising since her autographed photo stolen from a restaurant inspires the girls on their trek.

A hard sell movie if there ever was one, "Wong Foo" is inoffensive fun and mainstream enough to bring out movie-goers who wouldn't be caught dead at "Wigstock" or even "Priscilla."

Hiking gear helps on the dusty trail

September is my favorite month of the year in Michigan. It always seems to be the month with the most sunny days and the mildest temperatures. Rarely does the thermometer soar above 80 degrees or dip below 60 during the day.

It's perfect hiking weather. If you haven't experienced the excitement of tackling a steep rocky trail, lace up your boots, grab your water bottle and go. There are some great hiking trails within an hour of home.

On Labor Day, my husband and I discovered the Stony Creek Nature Center in Washington. The four miles of self-guided trails are labeled to provide an understanding of the landscape and its habitat. The trails wind through broad fields, dense woods and small wetlands, leading you over moderately hilly terrain. It was a delightful hour-and-a-half of exercise, tranquility and conversation.

Another beautiful system of trails awaits at the Pinckney Recreation Area, just 15 miles northwest of Ann Arbor off Dexter-Townhall Road.

Made for walking

If you're a hiking novice, the most important piece of equipment you need is a good pair of boots. When traveling on foot, nothing is more critical than taking care of your feet. An informed salesperson can help you find the right fit. I turned to Dan Argonis, owner of Venture Outdoors in downtown Plymouth, for some expert advice. Argonis' most popular and most technical hiking boot this fall is the Salomon Adventure 8 ($165). It combines a compound rubber sole with a full polyurethane shank and a Contagrip Trekking outsole, which provides exceptional grip on rocky terrain. "Two key words — they fit," says Argonis who recommends them for snowy weather and off-trailing. "They're comfortable for year-round hiking."

Other good recreational hiking boots include the Vasque Sundowner and Newbrier, which can also be used for backpacking, and the ultra-light, inexpensive Vasque Alpha.

Outdoor attitude

Just as essential as a good boot, is a proper sock. Try Smartwool's no-itch, no-shrink, snugly-soft Merino wool trekking socks ($16). "They're the 'hottest' sock on the market," says Argonis.

Royal Robbins is Argonis' manufacturer of choice for BlueWater shorts, the standard in hiking shorts. "They even have a 'double butt' for log sitting. And they never wear out. I've had the same pair for six years." ($42.30) The Royal Robbins pants have double thickness knees ($49). Also find shirts and vests. The Cadillac of outdoor clothing is the Ex Officio line. This technical wear is UV-rated and made from hydrophobic fabric. You can wade through the water and the pants dry almost instantly. Innovative styles include a convertible pant (that switch into shorts) and a convertible jacket/vest ($62.50-$138).

Finally, take along a small first-aid kit, two bottles of water, some hard candy and Clif Bars, advises Argonis. If you're ready to get started, pick up the brand new Trail Atlas of Michigan by Dennis R. Hanson ($26.95). Just leave it out on the coffee table so you can flip through and find the perfect weekend hiking jaunt this fall.

Catalog for women travelers books customers

Christopher Columbus may have discovered the New World in 1492, but here in 1995, it's Christine Columbus

On the road again: Annette Zientek's catalog for women who travel features unique safety and apparel products.

who's charting new courses.

Christine Columbus is a unique catalogue designed exclusively for women who travel. It's the brainchild of former Michigan native Annette Zientek who intended to write a travel book about her vacations, but instead came up with a product catalog which also includes safety tips, travel advice, reference material and customized clothing designs for women on the road.

Based in Lake Oswego, OR., where she moonlights as an accountant for a lumber company, Zientek and partner Rob Brost, invested $100,000 in Christine Columbus and 50,000 copies are in print.

"Our goal is to be the number one resource for women travelers," she said. "I personally selected and tested all the items in the 28-page book. It's been designed for the traveler and not the tourist to assure safe and comfortable travel for women who now comprise over half of the business and vacation travel market."

Zientek quoted recent travel statistics which project that the number of women who travel will be up by 8 percent by the year 2000. Men's travel figures will remain steady.

As an international traveler and businesswoman, herself, Zientek said she found travel products like luggage and related accessories designed for men "with little thought given to the needs of women."

"Everything was masculine in style, color, size and weight," she explained. "What was described as women's travel clothing was frequently nothing more than men's styled clothes in a new color. They simply did not fit or work for me."

Inside Christine Columbus, shoppers will find items like the Two-

Livonia Mall will host a big space adventure

Parents, teachers, kids and anyone else who has ever wanted a close encounter of a celestial kind, won't want to miss an interactive exhibit at the Livonia Mall Sept. 11-16.

The highlight of "Space Adventure" is a visit with Skylab 4 Astronaut Edward Gibson, Saturday, Sept. 16, at 11:45 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Gibson promises to sign a few autographs and answer questions about his experiences in the space program.

In conjunction with the Space Station Exhibit, the mall will hold an essay contest for kids in grades 4 through 7 — the grand prize is a one week scholarship to NASA Space Camp.

Visitors to the free event can taste space food, see an Apollo space suit up close, and study presentations about the space shuttle, space explorers, the Hubble Telescope, Mercury Astronaut capsule, Delta Space Rocket, Lunar Landing Craft and Titan IV Space Launch Rocket, courtesy of Lockheed/McDonnell Douglas.

"The mall was looking for something unusual for its annual Back-To-School promotion when an advertisement for the Space Adventure arrived," said marketing director Bill Checks. "It's really a unique exhibit that's been all around the nation. We're happy to be able to bring it right here to the neighborhood."

Retailers can submit announcements of upcoming events and promotions for Added Attractions. The deadline is the Wednesday before publication on Monday. Send the facts to: Malls & Mainstreets, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009. Or fax to: (810) 644-1314.

the changes, senior vice president of stores Robert L. Moles, said "Jacobson's believes in challenging our people. We feel that by putting people in new positions we are giving them different perspectives that will benefit them and the company as a whole."

The changes were effective immediately. Birmingham store general manager William Kirchinger is now general manager at Jacobson's Rochester store in the Great Oaks Mall.

Sandy Wloszek, the general manager at Jacobson's Livonia location at Laurel Park Place, assumes the top management position in Birmingham.

Norman Keaman, general manager of the Rochester store, becomes general manager in Livonia.

In addition, Moles announced that Charles Viers, who runs Jacobson's Clearance Center in Troy, will join the management team in Birmingham as operations manager. Joe Rivard, operations manager in Birmingham, moves to Livonia in a similar capacity. Paul Level, operations manager in Rochester becomes manager of the Clearance Center.

Walter Ostrander, operations manager in Livonia, moves to Rochester in the same role.

Before leaving the Birmingham store he managed for 13 years, Kirchinger, a resident of Bloomfield Hills, said he was optimistic about his transfer.

"I'm very excited," he said. "In Rochester I will be in charge of the mall as well as the store, and that will be a new challenge for me."

Wloszek, a resident of Farmington Hills, said she is looking forward to managing the Birmingham complex. She managed the Laurel Park store for a year.

Keaman a resident of Rochester Hills, said taking over the reins at Laurel Park is a homecoming. "I opened that store in 1987 and hired many of the people that I'll be working with again," he said. "I must admit that the changes came as a complete surprise. But they're good changes. These types of moves are healthy for companies, and in the retail world they happen all the time."

The management changes coincide with the premier of Jacobson's new radio/television advertising campaign which features the voice of Lorenzo Music (Garfield, Carlton Your Doorman) as a savvy, hip, closet, advising its owners to jazz up their tired wardrobes with a trip to Jacobson's.

In May, the Jackson-based company renamed and remanufactured its Miss J department (now Che Bella) to interest young career women. Last year, the men's departments were expanded with more casual, fashion-forward lines added to attract the younger male shopper.

Spokeswoman Janice Hayea has stated that it's Jacobson's challenge to continue its commitment to excellent customer service while maintaining its tradition of selling quality merchandise, and capturing a new generation of shoppers with value pricing.

Retail analyst Fred Marx of Marx/Layne Marketing and Public Relations, and a former Jacobson's manager, questioned the wisdom of shaking up store leaders right before the busy holiday season.

"Retail reshuffling happens all the time, but usually in January, not before the holidays," he said. "I hope the moves will not be disruptive to business, because that's certainly not what Jacobson's needs right now."

Malls: The Final Frontier

On tour: Astronaut Edward Gibson is visiting local shopping centers as host of NASA's educational exhibit "Space Adventure." He will sign autographs at the Livonia Mall, Saturday, Sept. 16 at 11:45 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Platinum jewelry show benefits cancer research

As the popularity of platinum jewelry soars (sales up 300-percent in the past three years, ac-ording to the industry) Jules R. Schubot Jewelers of Troy plans a special platinum benefit to raise funds for the Michigan Cancer Foundation's breast cancer research.

"The Magic of Platinum," sponsored by Schubot and the Platinum Guild International USA, showcases the designs of Michael Bondanza, Ach Grossbardt, Bernard Grosz, Scott Kay, and Martin Grubor for Nova, Simon Sobie & Co.

The event is set for Thursday, Sept. 21, from 6-9 p.m. at Schubot's 3001 West Big Beaver. Tickets are $35 per person, tax deductible. The public is invited. For more details call Schubot's at (810) 649-1122.

PROGRAM UPDATE
Lakeside, Twelve Oaks, and Fairlane Town Center, sponsors of the "Be True To Your School" program, report that more than one million dollars worth receipts were credited to local schools during the first week of the program, Aug. 21-Aug. 28. "Be True To Your School," runs through March 31, 1996 so that shoppers can stop at school-house booths throughout these malls and have their purchase receipts applied to a computerized running total. After March, participating schools will receive credits for educational materials of their choice. The amount of these credits is based on the receipts applied (about $1 for every $200 spent.)

"Shoppers' response to the program has been phenomenal," said Janita Gaulzettl of Lakeside. "People can't believe how simple it is to participate and they're pleasantly surprised that high schools are included. Most of the fund-raising programs people encounter are targeted to the elementary schools."

At Twelve Oaks, spokeswoman Elaine Kah said that "shoppers can't believe there are no catches to the program. Their purchases simply work harder by providing credits for educational materials."

Receipts can come from any purchase made at the mall; they do not need to be credited the same day of the shopping trip; they can be applied to any school in Michigan, public or private, kindergarten through high school.

VIDEO SHOPPING
Creative Framing, 853 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth recently installed a laser disc system that allows customers to choose from 26,000 pieces of art. The laser disc projects the images of artwork on a special television screen. Browsers can see in 10 minutes what normally took years of gallery shopping to uncover. Any artwork selected can be special ordered for delivery within days. Pat Korona welcomes inquiries at (313) 453-2810.

MDA AUCTION RESULTS
The Livonia Mall reports that it raised $16,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association through its annual auction of celebrity-autographed items on Aug. 19. Mall marketing director Bill Checks pointed out that although the amount fell short of last year's record ($20,000), it was nevertheless a great success because the auction hours and the number of items available were reduced.

More news from the Livonia Mall: Security officers on bike patrol have been added to assist shoppers in the parking lot. Donna McQuaid director of security, said the officers received 16 hours of special bike training to operate at peak efficiency. They will pedal around the lot during daylight hours, weather permitting. "Response from shoppers has been very positive," McQuaid said. "People are glad to see security officers close by to assist with lock outs, lost cars, and even packages."

KIDS FITNESS
Ms. Peggy's Kids Fitness Center is open on Eight Mile west of Farmington Rd. in Livonia. Owner/instructor Peggy Stevens of Livonia is accepting students for fitness and dance classes for toddlers who can walk, through older children to 14 years. Stevens is the first in Michigan to receive the U.S.A. Gymnastics kinder-accrreditation for teachers (USAGKAT). Her new facility is clean, colorful and specialized — participants can arrange classes that are half-gymnastics, half-dance, or half-fitness. Birthday parties are offered by appointment. For more information call (810) 615-9317.

COOKING CLASSES
Hudson's hosts annual "Time to Get Cooking" series through Sept. 23 at most Marketplace housewares departments. Classes are complimentary, but interested shoppers must register to attend by calling 1-800-265-COOK between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. anyday. Request a complete schedule. Classes taught by prominent chefs as well as manufacturers' representatives.

TEAPOT EXHIBIT
The Ariana Gallery at 119 South Main in Royal Oak presents the work of more than 100 potters through Oct. 14. For more details call (810) 546-8810.

Churchill can't stop Farmington tailback

BY NEAL ZIPSER

The Farmington High football team had two bad memories on its collective mind heading into Friday's game at Livonia Churchill.

First, the Falcons had the bitter memory of their season-opening 28-13 loss to Waterford Mott in which they committed five turnovers.

The second was a loss Farmington suffered to the Chargers two seasons ago, which has turned out to be Churchill's only victory in the past five seasons.

But on Friday, Farmington resembled nothing like the error-prone team of a week ago and routed Churchill, 34-0.

"We had so many things happen last week; it was like a season full of mistakes in one game," Farmington coach Lauri Niskanen said. "We believe we have a good football team. Last week may have opened our eyes and showed us that we have to be ready to play every week."

Unlike the Mott game, the Falcons' offense was flawless and didn't commit a turnover. The attack was led by senior tailback Jake Siskosky, who gained 145 yards on 22 carries and scored three touchdowns.

"This was the real Farmington team," Siskosky said. "Last week, we would drive and then turn the ball over, and Mott capitalized on our mistakes. We were positive all week, and the coaches worked us hard. The line also did a great job blocking tonight."

Farmington (1-1) gained a total of 349 yards — 315 of it on the ground. Senior fullback Nick Latra rushed six times for 64 yards and a touchdown, and senior fullback Ben Lewis came off the bench to gain 55 yards on three carries with a touchdown.

"We learned last week that you can't lay the ball on the ground," Niskanen said. "We didn't this week, and it made a difference."

The Falcons' defense did its job, holding the Chargers to 120 total yards. Junior tailback Todd Wilson was able to gain 60 yards on 13 carries, but Farmington stymied the Churchill passing game.

Junior quarterback Nathan Jerome completed six of 16 passes for 61 yards.

The Farmington offense got in high gear on its third possession, as Latra scored on a 26-yard scamper around right end. Jon Hoad's first of four extra points made it 7-0.

The Falcons made it 14-0 on their next possession after Siskosky scored on a 4-yard run.

After Matt Niskanen recovered a fumble, Farmington marched 65 yards in 11 plays and took a 21-0 lead on a Siskosky 8-yard rush.

Churchill (0-2) moved to the Farmington 18-yard line, but the first half expired before the Chargers could score.

The Falcons scored on their fourth straight possession after halftime. After runs of 23 and 18 yards, Siskosky scored again on a 12-yard carry, breaking several poor tackling attempts by the Churchill defense.

Farmington ended the scoring when Lewis scored on a 41-yard run.

The Falcons play a key game Saturday when they host Livonia Stevenson. The Spartans beat Farmington 7-0 last year.

"In my one year as an assistant, here and three years as head coach, we haven't been able to beat Stevenson," Niskanen said.

CAR Report

New Accord is roomy, sporty

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

EAST LIBERTY, Ohio — Driving on Ohio's U.S. 33 just outside Columbus, the billboards along the highway started to look strange. A billboard advertising a local lawn equipment company boasted it carried a full line of Honda lawnmowers and mulchers — in English and Japanese.

Then there was the restaurant advertising a full sushi bar, seven days a week, again in both languages.

We're in America's heartland, here, the Midwest, where nary a soul dares to buy an import automobile.

ROAD TEST
By Anne Fracassa

Looking around the highways and byways, there are a large number of Honda Accords and Civics on the road — most of them new. Entering the driveway approach to the Honda Research and Development North America, Ohio, Center, nearly every car in the parking lot is an Ohio-assembled Honda.

The paint on the walls isn't even dry on this facility that houses product development, technical engineering and product planning for Honda. This is where Honda introduced its fifth-generation Accord to the world.

The Accord, totally redesigned last year both inside and out, got new instrumentation, a new rear treatment, a harsher front end and a steeply raked windshield, lending the Accord a sportier stance.

Under the hood, there's an available 2.2-liter, 145-horsepower VTEC engine that has increased fuel economy over last year's model.

Inside, the 1995 Accord is taller, wider and shorter, giving the driver and passengers more head, leg and hip room.

On the safety side, there are standard driver's- and passenger-side air bags, an anti-lock braking system and four-wheel disc brakes. The side-impact barriers meet federal safety standards for 1997.

The automatic transaxle is smoother because of the car's integrated "grade logic electronic control."

The grade logic control can actually sense when the vehicle changes elevations. Going up a hill, for example, the system won't hunt for the gear it should be in.

During the downside of a hill, it automatically downshifts to take advantage of engine braking. The system is available as an option on all 1995 Accord models.

The standard engine, coupled with its five-speed manual transaxle, is an all-aluminum alloy, 2.2-liter, 16-valve multi-point fuel-injected engine that provides a more-than-adequate 130 horsepower.

The five-speed manual transmission nearly shifts itself, requiring very little effort for the driver.

Through the use of engine dampeners, flush door handles and the raked windshield, the new Accord has a lower decibel of road noise and vibration.

You wouldn't know the difference just hopping into the new Accord, but pit last year's against the new model and there is a real difference.

The best part of the Accord is the price — about $14,000.

Load up the top-of-the-line Accord EX with leather trim and you'll pay just over $21,000.

It's still a comfortable family car — something to seriously consider when in the market for an American-assembled vehicle ... one made right in America's heartland.

Buying a Used Car Can Be Risky. Blackwell Ford can help minimize the risk you take when purchasing a used vehicle. Every used vehicle sold by Blackwell Ford undergoes extensive reconditioning and safety inspection before it is offered for sale. If the vehicle does not meet our high standards, it will never be displayed on our lot. In the unlikely event that something does go wrong with your vehicle during the first 30 days or 2,000 miles, whichever occurs first, we will stand behind it 100% and repair it free of charge. It's that simple. We offer new car peace of mind with your used vehicle purchase. Stop in today to see our large selection of quality used vehicles, all priced to sell. And please remember... "If You Don't Know Used Cars, Know Your Dealer." Blackwell Ford, Inc. Your Distinguished Achievement Award Dealer.
