Trial ordered in shooting death

A Westland man has been ordered to stand trial in the shooting death of a man who was running a room from him. But an attorney says the defendant was merely acting in self-defense.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland murder defendant Christopher David Poremba was under attack in his own home when he fired a shot that killed his assailant, 220-pound bodybuilder Eric Alexander Lucia, a defense attorney said in court.

Poremba, 29, was acting in self-defense when he shot roommate Lucia, 27, in the chest during a scuffle that occurred about 1:50 a.m. Sept. 18, attorney Neil Fink said Thursday during a preliminary hearing.

Fink portrayed Poremba as being backed into a corner by a bodybuilder who had one hand near his throat and the other on his shoulder.

But assistant Wayne County prosecutor Kellie Gleason argued that Lucia didn't strike any blows against Poremba and that Poremba didn't have to shoot Lucia to escape. The hearing ended with Westland 18th District Judge Gail McKnight ordering Poremba to stand trial in Detroit Recorder's Court for second-degree murder and a felony firearms charge.

"Yes! Yes!" one Lucia supporter said as the victim's family and friends left the courtroom. Many of Poremba's supporters also attended the hearing.

Although Poremba had earlier been denied bond, McKnight set a $250,000/10 percent bond on Thursday after hearing arguments from Fink. That means Poremba could be released from jail for $25,000.

"This boy deserves a bond," Fink told McKnight. "He should go home and wait for trial."

Fink portrayed Poremba as a Ford Motor Co. apprentice, a former Navy member and a Wayne Memorial High School graduate who "had no plans to run" when he was attacked at his home in the 2800 block of Parkwood, northeast of Palmer and Vawcy.

Lucia was living at Poremba's house and paying rent.

Only two witnesses testified during Thursday's hearing.

Loring Davidson, assistant Wayne County medical examiner, described how a single bullet struck Lucia's chest, punctured a lung and lodged in his spine.

Longer testimony came from witness Richard Gofourth, who was at Poremba's house when the shooting occurred.

Gofourth testified that he, Lucia and a female friend had returned to Poremba's house from a Detroit bar prior to the shooting.

Lucia drank several beers and a shot of liquor that night, but Poremba also was drinking Absolut vodka at home, Gofourth said.

Judge McKnight commented later that "alcohol is probably a factor in why we're all sitting here" in court.

Lucia became angry about statements that Poremba made to the female friend as she prepared to leave, Gofourth said. Poremba followed the woman outside and warned her that Lucia and Gofourth "are trouble," Gofourth testified.

Gofourth said he and Lucia had a discussion with the woman after Poremba went back into the house, and Lucia told the woman that he was going to throw Poremba through a window.

Inside, Poremba denied making derogatory statements to the woman, Gofourth said.

Lucia also was upset about a prior incident, in which Poremba made advances toward a woman who was dating one of Lucia's friends, Gofourth said.

Before Lucia was shot, Gofourth said Poremba told Lucia, "If anybody tries to beat my ass in my house, I'll shoot the —"

Poremba, meanwhile, answered a phone call from one of Lucia's friends, and was talking when Lucia

Curbside recycling program extended

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland's pilot curbside recycling program has received a second extension and will continue through Dec. 31.

The same 3,200 households that were originally chosen for the voluntary program, which began in February, will be allowed to participate, city officials have said.

The pilot program was originally organized as a 16-week project that was to end June 2, but the city extended it through Sept. 29.

The Westland City Council has now decided to continue the program through the end of the year, Carl Clark, public services director, has said.

In a letter to the selected households, Clark encouraged residents to participate but noted that the program isn't mandatory.

"It is simply our way of gaining insight into how serious people are about a full-time curbside recycling program," he said.

Residents can continue to place their trash at the curb on regular pickup days. There will be no change in that program, Clark said.

Participating households south of Cherry Hill Road will have their recyclables picked up on Oct. 6 and 20, Nov. 3 and 17, and Dec. 1, 15 and 29.

The dates for chosen households north of Cherry Hill are Oct. 13 and 27, Nov. 10 and 24, and Dec. 8 and 22.

The city will be compiling statistical data to determine city residents' response to curbside recycling.

"This information will help us in deciding whether to implement a city-wide curbside recycling program," Clark said.

Residents also are being asked if they would be willing to pay $18 every six months to subscribe to a curbside program. Interested residents may call the public services department at 728-1770.

Work starts on long-awaited seniors housing

"It was a long time in coming," admitted a Westland municipal official at the groundbreaking Wednesday for the first building in a planned $50 million complex providing various services for the elderly.

James Gilbert, the city's community development director, said that with the state and federal governments pulling out of subsidizing housing for elderly people, the field will be mostly filled in the future by private investors.

"This will fill a niche between nursing homes and congregate care," said Gilbert, whose department provides a variety of housing and other services for elderly people.

The groundbreaking ceremony was attended by an estimated 30 people, including city officials, federal Housing and Urban Development representatives, and companies involved in the design and construction of the building on the north side of Marquette, just west of Wayne Road.

Referring to the long delay between the announcement of the complex more than 10 years ago and Wednesday's groundbreaking, several city officials commented that three mayors have been in office since the project was initially proposed — Charles Pickering, Charles Griffin and the current officeholder Robert Thomas.

The five-story housing facility will be the first board and assisted care living facility in the state which will have its loans insured by HUD.

The housing building will be the first of eight planned buildings on a 60-acre site.

The building will have 98 one- and two-bedroom apartments and studio units with meals, assistance and maid service provided, said Arnold Shapero, the president and chief executive officer of the development firm, Senior Services Development Associates, located in Southfield.

The five-story structure will be state-of-the-art and provide help for residents in bathing, dressing and taking medications, he said.

DARE donation

The North Brothers Ford dealership recently gave a $7,100 check to the Westland police department's Drug Abuse Resistance Education program, its largest one in the five years it has been supporting DARE. The money came from the dealership's recent golf outing. The check represents the money paid by North Brothers' employees, customers and suppliers who took part in the golf outing. Raffle tickets were sold for redemption of prizes. North Brothers then matched the amount raised by the golfers.

"We are proud to donate to a cause that affected the children of our employees as well as the community in general," said Douglas North, dealership president. The check was presented to police Chief Emery Price at the Sept. 14 Town Hall meeting, held monthly by Mayor Robert Thomas. Over the past six golf outings, some $19,000 has been raised for DARE.

Benefit planned

The Westland Youth Assistance Program, which provides free counseling to youngsters and parents, will have a benefit held at the soon-to-open Red Robin restaurant, on Warren Road at Central City Parkway Saturday night, Oct. 14. The invitation-only event will have more than 200 people invited, including those on the YAP advisory board as well as volunteer mentors, said Romulo Bowman, program director. Youths in the program will also throw a Halloween party Sunday night, Oct. 29, for people at the Wayne County Family Shelter, housed in a county building on Michigan Avenue and Merriman, Westland. YAP volunteer Debbie Dorosh is coordinating the event.

Deep sea life

Emerson Middle School students, including those from the northeast section of Westland, now have a colorful reason to visit the school office often — to see the new 75-gallon saltwater aquarium recently donated to the school by Oasis Golf Center, 39600 Five Mile. Staff at Pet Connection, 29661 Five Mile, who maintained the aquarium when it was at the golf center, volunteered to get the tank up and running when it got to Emerson.

3 weeks left to nominate 'citizen'

There are three weeks left to nominate people for the 10th annual First Citizen of Westland community service award.

The recognition program, co-sponsored by the Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce, has a deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 25.

Nominees will be considered by a panel of judges, to be named later this month, on the basis of their community service activities and the impact those activities have had on the city or a segment of its residents.

In the past nine years, the backgrounds of First Citizen recipients have included fire safety, government, education, business organizations, recreation and social services for low-income families.

Nominees must have made a significant contribution to helping improve the quality of life for the community in general or a segment of the community.

While the previous First Citizens have been local residents, residency isn't a requirement.

Nominators should provide detailed information about those to be considered for the award and the nominee's impact on the community or groups of people.

The community service award was initiated by the two co-sponsors in the fall of 1986 to honor volunteers whose efforts are many times overlooked.

The 1995 First Citizen will be publicly honored at the chamber's monthly membership luncheon program on Tuesday, Nov. 14, scheduled for the Hellenic Cultural Center. Besides receiving plaques or certificates from the Observer and the chamber, federal, state, county and city officials are also expected to honor the First Citizen.

Last year's recipients, Tom and Mary Wiesko, marked the first time that a couple won the award.

Past winners have been, in order, Joseph Benyo, Thomas Brown, Sam Corrado, Linda Pratt, Sharon Scott, Margaret Harlow, Madeleine Schroeder and Susan Powers.

Nominations must be in writing and directed to:

Westland Observer Editorial Department, First Citizen Award, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48160. Our fax number is 591-7279.

When the entire complex is completed, it will represent an investment of an estimated $140 million, Shapero said.

He said the other planned buildings will include a nursing home, a wellness center housing offices of physicians and physical therapists, and a retail strip mall which will cater mainly to the elderly.

The first building is expected to be completed in 10 to 11 months, he added.

General contractor for the first building will be DeMaria Building Co. of Novi. The architectural firm designing the building is Edmund London and Associates Inc. of Southfield, with JCK and Associates of Novi the engineering firm.

in charge of a newly forming committee that will study recycling issues. The group will include city officials and residents.

The committee will study options such as whether the city should have full-scale curbside recycling or no curbside program at all, Scott said.

The committee also will examine program costs and will learn about curbside recycling programs in other cities, she said.

The goal is to determine what the city should do when the current pilot project expires Dec. 31, Scott said.

grabbed him, Gofourth said.

Poremba drew a gun, and Gofourth told Poremba to put the gun away, Gofourth said. Gofourth briefly separated the two.

Lucia grabbed Poremba again, with one hand on his shoulder and one near his throat, and warned him, "If you're going to shoot me, you'd better kill me," Gofourth said.

The men wrestled, Poremba dropped the phone, and "I heard a gun fire," Gofourth said.

Poremba then phoned the police department and reported that he had shot Lucia, Gofourth said.

Poremba will be arraigned in Detroit Recorder's Court on Oct. 12.

Scott hopes that a cross-section of residents will be appointed to the panel.

"I don't want to have people on that committee who are just totally for recycling," she said Tuesday. "I want to have other views, too."

The committee is expected to have its first meeting Wednesday, Oct. 11.

Donations sought for memorial park bench

Friends of the late J. Edward "Smokey" Gunther, a 34-year Westland city employee, are raising money to place a park bench in his honor at Friendship Lake.

The bench, including a brass plaque, will be placed in a park by the lake, on the west side of Central City Parkway between Ford Road and Marquette.

"It's so nice and peaceful there," said Councilwoman Sharon Scott, who is in charge of the effort. Gunther was her uncle.

The bench will likely be installed next spring, she said. Gunther's friends need to raise more than $700, Scott said.

Gunther worked in many capacities for the city, most recently as deputy mayor. He left that post in 1992.

He died Aug. 12 after a battle with kidney problems.

Checks made payable to the City of Westland may be sent to the Westland City Clerk's Office, 36601 Ford, Westland 48185 in care of Sharon Scott.

Arson tied to murder in two Senate bills

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

An arsonist who kills a firefighter deserves more than five years in prison, said Karen Woodside, an assistant Wayne County prosecutor from Northville Township.

"Firefighters feel their lives are not valued as much as other folks," added Robert Shieko, another assistant Wayne County prosecutor from Oxford.

They led the parade in persuading the Senate Judiciary Committee to advance two bills tightening the state's criminal code, allowing arsonists to be charged with felony murder for burning a non-dwelling building if someone is killed.

"It's about time," added Howell assistant fire chief Les Rodwell as the Senate committee on Sept. 26 gave both bills 7-0 bipartisan approval and sent them to the full Senate.

The bills are sponsored by Sens. Mike Rogers, R-Howell, and Joe Young Jr., D-Detroit. Area senators voting yes included Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township.

"They will restore the law to what we thought it was before 1993," said Woodside, who lost a case in the Michigan Supreme Court.

The high court said "arson" in the felony murder statute covers only dwellings. Woodside said it should be expanded to cover any building — abandoned houses, convention halls, theaters, public buildings, even campers and boats.

Rogers expects only "a few" cases each year, but the bills will tell public servants they are appreciated. "It protects firefighters," said Rogers, citing the Reeves case that Woodside argued.

Last Jan. 31, the Supreme Court ruled 6-0 that Juma Reeves, Auneray Barber and Ronald Williams couldn't be charged with felony murder for deliberately torching an abandoned house in Detroit. Under common law, a building had to be a "dwelling" before arson could be charged.

The building, at 8340 Kenney, had been stripped of its foundation bricks — though not by the arsonists — and collapsed on a firefighter trainee, killing him.

When the prosecutor charged the three defendants with felony murder, Detroit Recorder's Judge Daphne Means Curtis reduced the charge to involuntary manslaughter.

Finally, Woodside said, Reeves pleaded guilty last week to second-degree murder after he was told he'd get a five-year sentence. The other two were released without bond for further proceedings.

"The death of a firefighter was worth only five years — minus good time," Woodside concluded.

She said the Rogers-Young bills allow prosecutors some discretion. For example, they wouldn't be applied to a man who used a blowtorch to thaw frozen water pipes and started a fatal blaze.

Refer to Senate Bills 565 and 511 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

reported no major disagreements.

Named for a civil rights activist who was attacked in her Detroit home, the bill would provide for stiffer penalties for defendants who commit felonies against senior citizens, defined as people 60 or older.

For a felony committed outside the victim's home, the defendant would serve three years before serving the sentence for the "underlying" felony, such as robbery or assault. If the felony occurred in the victim's home, the bill calls for a five-year sentence.

"Senior citizens are one of the most susceptible groups to experience crime," Stallings said. "They are also increasing in their percentage of the U.S. population."

And that was the rub: How many inmates will be added to Michigan's 40,000-person prison system if the bills become law? And how much will be added to a $1.3 billion prison budget that has now surpassed aid to 15 public universities? Many lawmakers are resisting bills that will expand the Corrections Department budget.

A Senate Fiscal Agency analysis guessed the cost might be $3.8 million because 2.1 percent (86) of prison admissions in 1994 were for crimes against senior citizens. But that appeared to be a guess because the population brackets for crime victims were broken down at "65 & over" and "60-64," not at age 60 as in Stallings' bill.

Refer to Senate Bill 343 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Freedom in information bill moves to Senate

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

On the final roll call, it looked as if Rep. Greg Kaza won an easy 104-0 victory Sept. 20 on his bill to allow administrative appeals under the Freedom of Information Act.

But a week earlier, Kaza had to fight down Democratic attempts to open up more records to public view by tacking amendments on his relatively simple bill. His bill moves to the Senate, where Kaza is confident it will be taken up.

Currently, FOIA requires a person who has been denied access to what he or she believes is a public record to sue in circuit court. Kaza's bill would set up an administrative appeal procedure. The person would not be required to use the administrative appeal, and if denied he still could sue.

"The amendments would have killed the bill in the Senate," Kaza said after the vote. "The Democrats were using my bill as a political football. If those amendments had gotten on, my bill would have been DOA (dead on arrival) in the Senate."

Kaza said that in 1993 he sponsored amendments, with bipartisan help, to open up legislative records; but the Senate immediately scuttled them.

Only Rep. Howard Wetters, D-Kawawlin, was successful in winning 57-47 approval of his amendment to keep some records from being hidden. Wetters' amendment would make documents transferred by a public body to the executive office still open to the public.

FOIA, which became law in 1976, has exempted the governor's and lieutenant governor's offices from its definition of public records. Democrats charge that Gov. John Engler has had records — such as the Accident Fund and a vaccine-manufacturing operation — deliberately shifted to his office to hide them.

"I don't believe you should be able to go out and take documents in the public domain and have them transferred — physically or electronically — into the executive office and say it has executive privilege," Wetters said.

Supporting the Wetters amendment were all 54 Democrats — including Maxine Berman of Southfield, David Gubow of Huntington Woods, Eileen DeHart of Westland, Jim Kelly of Wayne and Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti — and three Republicans.

Opponents were all Republicans, including Penny Crissman of Rochester, Barbara Dobb of Union Lake, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Kaza, Lyn Bankes of Redford, Gerald Law of Plymouth, James Ryan of Redford, Deborah Whymen of Canton, Willis Bullard of Milford, Susan Munsell of Howell, Dan Gustafson of Haslett, Frank Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge and Alan Cropsey of DeWitt.

Absent was John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township.

"I don't know what the Senate will do" to the Wetters amendment, Kaza said.

No single list

The House rejected, 54-52 with 56 required for approval, a key amendment by Rep. Laura Baird, D-Okemos, that would have listed 20 other laws affecting public records within the text of FOIA.

A major user complaint has been that FOIA isn't Michigan's sole public records law. But there's no single list available to the public.

The Sex Offenders Registration Act, the Fire Prevention Code, the Strategic Fund Act, the Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act, the Environmental Protection Act, the Public Health Code, the Confidential Research Information Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Workers Comp Act, the Lottery Act, the Motor Carrier Act, the Regulatory Loan Act, the Insurance Code, the Third Party Administrator Act, the Children's Ombudsman Act, and the Crime Victims Rights Act — among others — also limit access to public records.

State lawmakers distribute copies of the FOIA and Open Meetings Act but don't list the other 20 laws limiting public access to records.

Baird was supported by 53 Democrats and one Republican. All 52 votes against came from Republicans.

Separate bills needed

Other amendments rejected on nearly party-line votes would have:

■ Brought private contractors doing governmental business into FOIA.

■ Brought in the administrative records of the judiciary.

■ Included names of people and companies that receive grants, loans, loan insurance or guarantees from the Michigan Strategic Fund.

Kaza said, "I hope they introduce those as separate bills. We also need to apply FOIA to electronic information. There is more and more electronic information."

Refer to House Bill 4849 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Area resident is one of 7 United Way Torchlighters

Steven Kloc of Livonia is one of seven individuals selected as a United Way Community Services Torchlighter, part of the 1995 Torch Drive. He was nominated by the Arc of Northwest Wayne County.

As a Torchlighter, Kloc will represent 1.7 million service recipients who received services from more than 130 United Way-supported agencies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties in 1994. Torchlighter representatives are selected by United Way Community Services to make appearances at kickoffs, report luncheons and other campaign-related events.

"Steven is a remarkable person," said Andrew K. Johnson, spokesman for United Way.

apartment with the exception of the staff he hires to assist him with daily living. He loves to voice his opinion, choose the clothes he wears and recently filmed a documentary with 'Life Goes On' star Chris Burke.

"All of this is quite an accomplishment because Steven, 32, has Down syndrome and is speech-impaired. His family turned to the Arc of Northwest Wayne County, a United Way-funded agency, for support," said Johnson.

The agency has provided Kloc and his family with education, information, advocacy services and mental and emotional support.

"Because Steven has Down syndrome, we never imagined he would be able to live on his own. Today, thanks to the Arc of Northwest Wayne, at 32, he has a job and his own apartment," said Carl Kloc, Steven's father, who is a skilled trades carpenter, facility services department at Ford Motor Co. Advanced Vehicle Technology.

"Thanks to Arc's support, Steven is capable of independent living and communicates through sign language," said Carl Kloc.

Steven works at the Livonia Elks Lodge. His mother, once a volunteer, now works at the Arc of Northwest Wayne County.

This year, United Way Community Services allocated $38,530 to the Arc of Northwest Wayne County.

In 1994, at least 31,025 residents of Livonia and Redford were helped by United Way agencies. Community and special assistance services like Legal Aid, the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC), the American Red Cross, and Farmington Area Advisory Council assisted local residents.

Others were touched by United Way-funded health services like the Alzheimer's Association, Michigan Cancer Foundation, Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan, and Visiting Nurses Association of Southeast Michigan.

Some families sought assistance from First Step, HAVEN, Neighborhood Service Organization, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Catholic Social Services, and Lutheran Family and Child Services.

Last year, at least 23,351 residents of Garden City, Inkster, Wayne and Westland were helped by United Way agencies. And 14,691 residents of Canton Township, Northville and Northville Township were helped. At least 10,363 residents of Plymouth and Plymouth Township were aided by United Way agencies.

Torch Drive 1995 hopes to raise $58.8 million during the campaign which began earlier this week and runs through Nov. 9, according to '95 chairman Theodor Cunningham.

This year's campaign slogan is "Touch a Life the United Way."

"We must convey the message that everyone must give," said Cunningham. "Our goal is aggressive but, we feel, achievable for funds essential to the community."

Almost 90 cents of every dollar given goes to providing services, since only 10.6 percent is used for campaign and administrative costs. This is lower than the majority of other fund-raising campaigns.

Forum focuses on charter schools, public education

BY GREG KOWALSKI AND TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITERS

A spokesman for the new majority on the State Board of Education says new ideas like charter schools should be tried even if they haven't been fully tested.

"Why don't we think about applying market principles?" Michael David Warren, administrative assistant to board president Clark Durant, told a Women's American Organization for Rehabilitation and Training audience Thursday.

"I look at the history of western civilization. We don't provide food by collective farming. Why don't we apply the same principles that we use in every other part of our lives?" said Warren, who drew murmurs of disapproval from a hostile audience with a reference to public school children being "hostages of a mediocre monopoly."

Replied board member Kathleen Straus, D-Detroit: "I don't know of any research indicating charter schools will improve educational quality. My blood boils at the term 'government schools' used in the pejorative as if public schools were evil. They've worked very well for 100 years. They are the backbone of our democracy."

Straus's remark drew applause from the audience of 160 in the Birmingham Community House. ORT was joined by local chapters of Hadassah and the National Council of Jewish Women.

State Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, said charter schools "should remain an experiment. I'm concerned about opening the floodgates," as Gov. John Engler has proposed by asking for 200 charter schools. "The first two were privately-run schools that got charters. It's going to siphon money away from public schools."

Moderator David Gad-Harf set the tone when he said the Jewish community has a strong interest in public education and opposes "the intrusion of school-sponsored religious practice" in public schools. Many of Durant's critics fear charter schools are a foot-in-the-door for "parochialism."

Parochialism — state aid to church-related schools — is prohibited by a voter-approved amendment to the Michigan Constitution. Gad-Harf asked the panelists their view on parochialism.

Warren: "We have to follow the constitution." He didn't say whether he would favor amending the constitution, as a group called Teach Michigan is planning to do.

Straus: "I'm against parochialism."

Peters, who defeated Warren for the 14th District Senate seat in 1994: "Absolutely no to parochialism and vouchers."

State board vice president Marilyn Lundy, R-Detroit, a Durant ally, didn't reply directly to the question of amending the constitution, but earlier said: "We shouldn't force children into a government-operated institution. They (children enrolled in charter schools) are getting their rightful share (of state aid)."

Lundy denied that Casa Maria, a charter school in southwest Detroit with which she is involved, had been a religious school. She said it was started as a crime-prevention method funded by the state Department of Social Services.

Lundy, CEO of nine Catholic social agencies, saw a "long line" of parents trying to flee public schools by enrolling in charter schools.

Public universities and colleges may issue charters to groups within school districts to operate special academies. The movement is in its second year, with about 3,600 of Michigan's 1.6 million children enrolled.

Rather than waiting for research to see how they operate, Lundy said, "Let it (movement) blossom. If it's not in the best interests, let it die its own death."

Durant and conservative Republican legislators also are pushing for cross-district schools of choice, allowing parents to enroll a child in any district that has space.

"I don't know how many Bloomfield Hills students will go to Pontiac, but I know a lot of Pontiac students will want to go to Bloomfield Hills," Peters said.

And that's not likely to make Bloomfield Hills district taxpayers happy. Bloomfield Hills spends about $10,500 per student, Pontiac about half that.

Peters said transportation costs will limit schools of choice. "The state won't fund transportation. Choice will be limited to the ones with the resources," said Peters, indicating the well-to-do will benefit while families without cars won't. "We're tailoring a solution (choice) to a group that's doing very well."

Straus said the whole schools of choice idea "was not well thought out." She said bonding may be affected if state aid follows the student to the receiving district.

Lundy said, "The money should follow the child to the school of the parents' choice. It will make all schools really pay attention to their customers."

Warren said the "likely" to be "a dramatic shift one way or the other."

Teaching religious or moral values remains a hot issue. All four speakers said schools should teach such traits as honesty, responsibility and respect.

Platinum designs lead jewelry sales

Platinum is the metal of the nineties," says jeweler Stanford Krandall, owner of Sidney Krandall & Sons in Troy. "It's simply a matter of quality. Platinum is more expensive, harder to get, and more durable than gold."

Krandall is one of the few jewelers in town who has the expertise to work in this most precious of metals and he's using it in custom-designed rings, bracelets, necklaces and earrings.

Many area jewelers are becoming partial to platinum, a metal that just five years ago was virtually nonexistent in the United States. Prior to World War II, platinum was the most coveted of precious metals. But the government temporarily disallowed its use in nonmilitary applications, ending its reign as queen of the pure metals. Today, according to the Platinum Guild International, the number of designers working in platinum has increased fivefold, from 50 in 1980 to more than 250. National consumption of platinum for jewelry making has soared from 20,000 ounces in 1991 to 60,000 ounces last year.

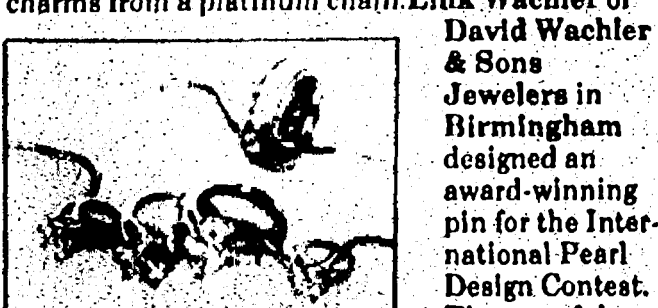

Why the resurgence? There are several theories. "Platinum is a symbol of self-confident subtlety — an anti-eighties, less-is-more approach to style," says Faye Penn in a New York Times article on the subject. Women are looking to make a statement without making a show.

"Platinum sounds very high-techy and modern," says clothing designer Marc Jacobs, who selected the silvery metal for his first jewelry line last year. The costly metal is not worn to impress others, as it doesn't announce its value. In fact, a $50,000 platinum watch might be mistaken for stainless steel. "Sometimes it doesn't matter what people think it is," continues Jacobs. "You know that you have something very good. It doesn't have to have a sign on it."

Young at heart
Though you may associate platinum with your grandmother's Art Deco brooch, current buyers are more often under 30 than over 60. It's the young consumers whose love of silver has transferred to platinum, according to the Platinum Guild.

Platinum-lovers praise the metal's conservative, classy, sober, understated look. They're into simplicity and discretion rather than extravagance.

Tiffany & Co. has two platinum lines, a collection of chunky necklaces and bracelets called Platinum Links and Paloma Picasso's Little Secrets. Designer Isaac Mizrahi paraded his Angel Rings down the runway this season. The miniature diamond and platinum rings dangle like charms from a platinum chain. Link Wachler of David Wachler & Sons Jewelers in Birmingham designed an award-winning pin for the International Pearl Design Contest. The graceful fish design is crafted in platinum and 18-karat gold.

Jules R. Schubot Jewelers of Troy recently hosted The Magic of Platinum, an evening to benefit the Karmanos Cancer Institute. Featured designer Michael Bondanza pioneered many of the special techniques used to turn platinum into wearable works of art. His "Platinum Redefined" concept is legendary in the industry. The Schubots display a large collection of the "metal of the moment" in their showroom.

The kudos are never-ending. "I'm selling as much platinum in a week as I used to sell in a year," says Tony Ferrari of MR Jewelry Design in Southfield. And Jason Greisdorf of Greis Jewelers in Farmington Hills concurs. "I definitely see a return to simple, traditional platinum settings."

All that glitters is certainly not gold.

Advisor tells retailers: Ordinary won't cut it!

Retail consultant Ronald Leonetti advised a gathering of Birmingham merchants how to succeed in today's turbulent specialty store environment: Build an effective strategy for the future, then manage its outcome.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

After 40 years of working with family owned department and specialty stores, Ronald Leonetti has seen it all.

As the former chief operating officer of Winkelman's Stores, he played a key role in the growth and sale of the Detroit-based chain of women's fashion stores. Now, as CEO of his own retail consulting firm, Leonetti specializes in providing strategic advice to company presidents.

He recently addressed members of the Birmingham Merchants Association and the Michigan Retailers Association at a breakfast seminar at The Community House in Birmingham. Leonetti warned family operated businesses to avoid five pitfalls:

- Not recognizing the changing competitive environment.
- Not addressing family/internal conflicts.
- Not developing a succession plan.
- Not bringing professionals into management.
- Not effectively managing assets.

Syndrome," he cautioned. "Independents think they know best how to run their operations. Maybe they do, but things change very quickly today. If you're waiting for the retail cycle to come back, you'll wait forever. Retail will never be what it was in the past. Consumers are in charge of what we do today. If you don't pay attention to lifestyles and value perceptions, you won't get business."

Leonetti said today's market belongs to the superstores, which have outperformed malls for the last 10 years. But independents can still hold their own, he insisted, by offering impeccable customer service and convenience. "Street shopping is where it's at," he said. "Today, does anyone sell something nobody else sells? No! So to win customers you must be dependable and predictable. Satisfy the

- customer on every trip to your store."
- He suggested retailers implement these practices:
- Tight management of inventory.
- Install a computer and use it to keep track of what's selling. Don't continue to buy items that aren't moving.
- Eliminate stale merchandise, which sends a negative message to customers. (Most stores do 80 percent of their business from 20 percent of their inventory.)
- Make sure employees are equipped with product knowledge. Sales associates can build sales by teaching and explaining products to often-confused consumers.
- Have what customers want.
- Seasonalize merchandise to bring newness to your store.
- Display categories of related merchandise.

New store caters to race fans

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Roush Racing bets the sport of stock car racing, and the roar of its engines wins customers for the new Roush Racing Store in Livonia.

Located at the front of the Roush Racing facility (on Schoolcraft between Farmington and Merriman) the Roush Racing Store is aligned with three Trans-Am racing car teams and a NASCAR SuperTruck team. It offers everything from apparel to lithographs showcasing fans' favorite drivers and cars.

Sales representative Eileen Skelton refers to the retail enterprise, which opened June 16, as "a full-line NASCAR (National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing) collectibles and souvenir shop." The store carries T-shirts, hats, jewelry, diecast model cars, throw rugs, baby bottles, and wallpaper borders imprinted with logos, cars, drivers, and of course, Mark Martin's #6 Ford Thunderbird sponsored by Valvoline.

"Owner Jack Roush is involved in NASCAR racing and has two cars on the circuit — Mark Martin's and Ted Musgrave's," said Skelton. "We're a natural to carry a variety of merchandise of interest to many different drivers. We have a lot of Ford because we have a lot of clientele from Ford, but we also sell Pontiac and Chevy."

Racing merchandise: Eileen Skelton shows off some of the NASCAR items available to fans at the new Roush Racing Store in Livonia.

Right now, the best-selling merchandise represents sports drivers like Jeff Gordon, Dale Earnhardt, Ted Musgrave, and Mark Martin, who won more Winston Cup pole positions than any other driver in the past five years. "A lot of people come in and want to decorate their baby's room in race cars," Skelton said, explaining shoppers' reactions to the store. "T-shirts are popular. They make great presents, as do the racing flags. We sell memorabilia such as the actual signs from the races, and authentic chandise near each other.

- Make sure the price is on every item.
- Use direct mail. Develop your own customer database for special promotions and purchase incentives.
- Have a 12-month calendar of special events to increase traffic. Hitchhike a ride on all promotions your merchants association or chamber hosts.
- Take a hard look at casual dress on the workplace. When people come to work in their play clothes, they tend to play instead of work.
- Build an incentives program for employees. Power them up with reviews and job descriptions so they can succeed.
- Know that retail skills are not hereditary. Hire business professionals for the expertise you require.

"Many local, old familiar companies have gone into Chapter 11 because they were not in touch with their customer base," Leonetti said. "A sophisticated management information system is the key. It's been making Wal-Mart a $100-billion-dollar retail business at the same time other retailers are asking, 'Where are all the customers?'"

Leonetti said Birmingham will remain a vital business community if it remembers that shoppers come to the town "for totally different reasons than going to a mall."

"Have a plan," he restated. "A plan puts you in control of everything you do."

Jane Jones of Jones Floorcovering on Eton Street in Birmingham applauded Leonetti's comments.

"We're a third-generation family business and we work, because we practice many of the ideals he described," she said. "Service is the key. Listen to your customers and make sure you have what they want, when they want it. Also, direct mail works! Retailers don't always use it because it takes extra time and effort, but it works to build business."

D. Larry Sherman of Sherman's Shoes also agreed with Leonetti's thoughts on modern retailing.

"If I did business the way my father did, I doubt we would still be around these days," he said. "Back then, dad believed it was good business to have hundreds of shoes in a variety of sizes in your inventory, in your garage even. Now with the help of a management company, Sherman's stocks what sells, what the customer wants, and the special sizes and styles are ordered from the manufacturer's inventory. It's a better use of our assets."

Principal Shopping District Director Gail Gothelf said she wished more local merchants attended the breakfast to hear Leonetti's message. The committee planned for 50 guests and only half that number attended.

The next retail seminar is set for Wednesday, Nov. 8, from 8-10 a.m. at The Community House. The topic? Preventing holiday theft and fraud.

team racing jackets. We also have the ability to get signatures of the drivers on the merchandise."

Make no mistake about the popularity of motorsports. It's a multi-million dollar industry with automotive and related corporations investing heavily. Winning teams pay important dividends to the sponsors, not the least of which is exposure. Earnings for drivers like Martin, who won more than $1 million in Winston Cup prize money in each of the past five years, rank alongside the earnings of other professional athletes.

tries, an engineering and prototype development company which services the automotive and transportation industries, including aerospace. Roush holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics and physics from Berea College in Kentucky, and a master's in scientific mathematics from Eastern Michigan University. He's had more than 115 victories and 20 national championships in the past 10 years. He is the only race team owner to finish in the top six in NASCAR Winston Cup Championship points for each of the past five years.

General manager Ed Wayland explained the Roush Industries set up.

"Only 15 percent of what we do is racing," he said. "The rest is power train development, noise and vibration engineering, design and prototype services, and machining." — And now, a retail outlet.

The "shop" behind the store is where it all happens. The year-and-a-half-old facility is where the race cars and engines are built. Right now, many of the teams are preparing for the Trans-Am Championships Oct. 6 in California.

The Roush Racing Store plans monthly promotions, like shop tours, hosting visits to the Roush Racing Museum where Roush keeps his antique car and truck collection as well as race and muscle cars, and drawings for unique souvenirs.

"NASCAR just keeps growing in popularity," said Skelton. "It's a great hobby for people because they can follow the driver or the number. It's the idea of going to a race. You're part of it — the excitement, the competition. There's something exhilarating about the roar of the engines."

Fall is the season to enjoy squash at its best

This is certainly the season for enjoying squash. Produce markets, farm markets, roadside stands and grocery stores are brimming with them. My local grocer was selling a melange of squash for the relatively unheard of price of only 22 cents per pound. Last weekend at the Eastern Market crookneck squash, the shape and size of hula hoops, were 50 cents each. Hubbard squash, weighing at least 15 pounds, could be had for under two dollars. Pattypan the shape of small spaceships were 25 cents each while spaghetti squash (the Janes Gang personal favorite) were three for a dollar. There were also baskets of tiny baby zucchini and yellow squash not more than two days old commanding only 50 cents per basket when I know on the West Coast the same zucchini sell for about $2.59 per pound. They sat rather contentedly next to their older, seedier and more mature cousins that were two for 25 cents.

So what makes squash "the" vegetable of abundance this time of year? Well, for starters, it has been a banner growing season, especially with the early rains and long hot summer days. There's no better time than now to enjoy zucchini bread, stir-fried pattypan, baked acorn, steamed Hubbard and grilled yellow squash.

Don't forget squash sustained the starving pilgrims during their first perilous winters. History has it that though few ingenious ways were devised for cooking squash, the hungry colonists found them satisfying enough when there wasn't much else to eat.

Squash is divided into three main categories; summer, winter and inedible gourds. All squashes contain vitamins A and C. The the deepest colored ones have the most beta carotene along with a trace of B vitamins. They are also excellent sources of fiber.

Summer varieties

The summer varieties that we know so well include the ever popular zucchini, pattypan, chayote, straightnecked or crookneck and marrow squash. Summer squash has what some call a mild (personally I find it more than bland) flavor. Stewed, grilled, stir-fried, baked or broiled by themselves and you too will agree with my taste sentiments. Stuff them with a meatloaf mixture, herbed rice or a cottage and three cheese blend and they take on new meaning and tastes.

Winter squash varieties have a more golden interior with a somewhat yellow flesh and deeper, darker skins. More popular varieties include butternut, turban, acorn, hubbard and spaghetti squashes. All of the winter squashes keep remarkably well and could easily withstand a cold dark fruit cellar or an old Michigan basement.

The secret to long term storage is not to allow the squashes to touch each other whereas they could bruise and eventually rot at the bruise.

Squash blossoms are ever so trendy and if you just returned from either coast, you invariably saw them on some menu, lightly batter dipped and quickly fried.

The other squashes are of the gourd variety and are best used simply for decoration, table settings and holiday centerpieces. The settlers used the gourds as water vessels, birdhouses and candleholders.

And for the record, please note that I have made no mention of pumpkins. Pumpkins are actually fruits and belong to the melon family, and even though they grow alongside the aforementioned squashes, they are not one and the same.

Cooking tips

When it comes to cooking squash, the summer and winter varieties differ somewhat.

Summer squash can be baked, but is best broiled, grilled and when baked, stuffed with something with flavor.

Winter squash, on the other hand, can be boiled and baked, but I personally prefer to microwave it. Spaghetti, acorn and turban squash can be weighed and then cooked on high power in the microwave for approximately six minutes per pound. Larger or more unusually shaped winter squashes like hubbard and butternut can be split and placed in a microwaveable plastic bag and then microwaved to begin the cooking process. After the meat is tender, it can be removed and finished in the oven or under the broiler.

Blazing new trails: Buffalo cookbook author Ruth Mossok Johnston presents a few of the dishes featured in her book.

LOW-FAT PIONEER
Buffalo
meat

FRONTIER

BY RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON
SPECIAL WRITER

Nothing could have been more dramatic for me than driving into the midst of a herd of buffalo on Harry and Madeleine Peterson's 3,600-acre Cheboygan bison ranch, appropriately named - LeGrande Ranch, late this August.

This incredible visual sensation, the physical closeness, and the enormity of these bovine creatures was more breathtaking than I could imagine - for a moment, I placed myself in the century of the history portion of my own book - "The Buffalo Cookbook" - tears welled up in my eyes and I forced myself to mentally return to the company of our host, my husband David, and son Jordan.

In 1992, Harry Peterson, a resident of Birmingham, sought the advice of Cheboygan locals - what should he do with his town-sized acreage? Harry was determined to do something more productive than utilizing this land for hunting grounds - he began a new venture, a new adventure - Buffalo!

Harry refers to himself as being "hooked," and boy is he! "There's something special about bison," said Harry behind his bearded smile. He and Madeleine, partners in life - partners in buffalo - are committed to the industry and to the National Bison Association - committed to old Number 70 - a large bull you can hand feed, and the rest of their 400 head herd.

Kevin Costner's film "Dances With Wolves" and its nostalgia, was not the impetus of the buffalo resurgence, it's business - big business - the kind that even mogul Ted Turner can sink his teeth into (literally). Bison once considered a culinary novelty, is now considered just plain healthy. My family knows this first hand. They have experience a "billion" buffalo dishes in the past few years. Why buffalo?

Martin J. Marchello who has a Ph.D. and is a professor at North Dakota State University Department of Animal and Range Sciences has done extensive comparisons of the nutrient compositions in 26 species of domestic and game meat. Findings from the Marchello study indicate that bison meat compares more favorably (lower in fat) than beef, pork, or lamb. The analysis of muscle tissue in lean domestic and game meat established bison at 1.9 percent, beef at 6.5 percent, pork at 4.9 percent and lamb at 5.7 percent. The combination of lean meat and low fat gives bison a caloric value of 138 kilocalories per 100 grams (3.5 ounces). Additional findings indicate that bison is rich in minerals, low in sodium and high in iron content.

Oregon wines and brews are in demand

In the late 1980s, Oregon wine producers lamented that they were a segment of the wine industry waiting to happen, and wondered when it might all pull together. That time is now. Oregon pinot gris and pinot noir are in demand. The best ones are sold out a few months after they are released.

Oregon wines have caught on like Portland's brew pubs. One company has captured both wine and brews. Willamette Valley Vineyards wines and Willamette Valley Brewing Company with its Nor'Wester bottled microbrews, are the brain children of president and general manager Jim Bernau who capitalized on the dream of many wine lovers to have a share in owning a winery. In 1988, Bernau pooled resources through public stock ownership to build Willamette Valley Vineyards winery, which today operates debt free. He followed this up a few years later with a similar public stock offering to raise capital for the brewing company. Capturing the Willamette Valley name for both companies could be considered a stroke of genius.

The northern Willamette Valley begins a short distance south of Portland, microbrew capital of the north-west. Most of Oregon's wineries are in the northern Willamette Valley. Willamette Valley Vineyards keeps company with such respected wineries as Adelsheim, Bethel Heights, Domaine Drouhin, Elk Cove, Eyrie, Knudsen Erath, Oak Knoll, Ponzi, Sokol Blosser and Rex Hill. The Willamette Valley region has become synonymous with great wine, especially pinot noir. The cool climate, similar to France's Burgundy region, offers grape vines a long growing season to mature fruit with full flavor development.

Giving credit where it's due, the nod goes to Eyrie Vineyards David Lett who in 1966 had the vision and took the gamble as the first to plant pinot noir in the red hills of northern Willamette Valley. Much has happened since then. Even those who thought Lett was less than sane back then, have followed him to "them thar hills!" Today, many of the original fruit orchards have been pulled out in favor of grape vines.

Perhaps Lett's pioneering spirit rubbed off on Bernau, but whatever the root cause, Willamette Valley Vineyards wines and Nor'Wester brews are worth discovering.

- 1991 Willamette Valley Pinot Gris $11 - is first-rate with melon, peach, ripe pear and crisp apple aromas. Flavors mirror aromas in a wine that is rich and lengthy.
- 1994 Willamette Valley Whole Berry Pinot Noir $11

■ 1993 Willamette Valley Pinot Noir $10.50 — comes from a tough year for Oregon vintners with rain at harvest. With all the adversities, winemaker Dean Cox was able to make a wine with good color, cherry fruit and black pepper spice. A very nice wine for the money.

Buffalo from previous page

These findings fueled my fire — they established the criteria for my research, time and recipe development — finding a solution to what we refer to as "the red meat dilemma" for a cardiac patient — my artist husband, David. Three years after David's heart attack, Lopid (a typical cholesterol-control medication) ingested numerous times daily and a diet that would send a bean curd over the edge. David was commissioned to do a painting for Mt. Rushmore's 50th anniversary. Buffalo burgers and steaks were plentiful in South Dakota and happily appeared on our dining plates. David's monument painting titled "Dakota Spirit" gave us the spirit and opportunity to taste this lean, dense, delicious red meat that fit into the guidelines of his restricted diet. I returned to Michigan with a mission — to spread the word — to provide a solution for those in the same culinary straitjacket — I wrote a

The good news for today's health conscious public — eating buffalo meat is legitimate for those carefully watching their fat intake. Even enlightened cardiologists are saying OK to this red meat.

The good news for conservationists — bison are no longer endangered or on the brink of extinction. The buffalo herds that once covered the Eastern two-thirds of North America are returning — perhaps not in the numbers of 60 to 100 million, but herds now totally 150,000-200,000 head are now peppered throughout the United States on private ranches, national parks and government sanctuaries.

Buffalo meat is not "gamey" it has a subtle sweetness, but a taste closely related to that of the traditional red meat — beef. A slight variance in the taste of buffalo meat may occur, depending on where the bison was raised and ranged, and if it has been custom fed with a grain base as well as the age of slaughter. Due to the lack of natural fat and little marbling, it is essential to cook this meat properly to retain its natural tenderness. Bison needs to be cooked slow and low and not as thoroughly as beef. If this meat is overcooked, it will become unpalatable. Recommended cooking range is rare to medium.

Butchered buffalo cuts are comparable to those of beef. This game is a winner no matter how you cut it.

"The Buffalo Cookbook," published by Hancock House Publishers will be available in late October at local book stores and Williams-Sonoma.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH WITH GARLIC

1 large spaghetti squash
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
3-6 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 tablespoons fresh chopped parsley
salt and fresh ground pepper to taste

Fill the bottom of a vegetable steamer with enough water to come within 1 inch of the steamer insert. Cover and bring the water to a simmer over medium heat. Cut the squash in half lengthwise and scoop out the seeds. Place the squash on the steamer insert, cut side down. Cover and steam the squash for 40 minutes or until it can easily be pierced with a knife. Meanwhile heat the butter or margarine in a large fry pan over low heat. Add the chopped garlic and cook, stirring for two minutes. Scoop the squash out of its skin, pulling it into strands. Add it to the butter and garlic mixture and toss. Add the parsley, salt and pepper and toss again and serve. Serves 6.

Recipe from: The Great Food Almanac By Irena Chalmers, copyright 1994 by Collins Publishers $25.

STUFFED ZUCCHINI

1 huge or 2 large zucchini, cut in half lengthwise
10 ounces (about 2 cups) fresh spinach, washed, stems removed
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, chopped
pinch salt (or to taste)
2 cups cooked bulgur or couscous
½ cup fresh herbs, chopped (i.e. parsley, basil, oregano, thyme)
1 large egg, beaten
¼ cup seasoned bread crumbs
¼ cup fresh grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Steam the zucchini for 10 minutes, then scoop out the seeds and the stringy pulp. (Chef's secret: smaller zucchini can be cut and scooped out without pre-steaming.) Cut away the inside flesh and chop. Shells should have at least a ¼-inch thick shell for good baking. Blanch the spinach in boiling water or wilt in a skillet. Rinse, pat dry and chop. (Chef's secret: we used a 10-ounce package of frozen chopped spinach, thawed and squeezed.) Heat 1 tablespoon of oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add the onion and cook, stirring until the onion is tender, about 5 minutes; add the garlic, cook stirring for 1 minute or just until the garlic begins to color, then stir in the chopped zucchini and a pinch of salt. Cook for 5 minutes or until zucchini is tender. Add the spinach, bulgur and fresh chopped herbs. Stir and remove from the heat. Season with more salt and pepper, if desired. Stir in the egg. Stuff the zucchini shells with the mixture. Place in an oiled baking dish and sprinkle evenly with bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Drizzle remaining olive oil over the top. Bake for 30-45 minutes or until the top is golden brown. Serve warm, with a little tomato sauce or salsa, if desired. Serves 6-8.

Best friends: Whoopi Goldberg and Elizabeth Perkins read their tarot cards in "Moonlight and Valentino."

Mushy 'Moonlight' fails to please

JOHN MONAGHAN

It's hard to criticize a movie like "Moonlight and Valentino" without coming off insensitive. It is, after all, the story of a woman's year-long healing process after losing her husband in an auto accident.

leagues offer well-meaning but painful condolences: "They tell me about him, like he's this fabulous stranger that I'll never meet."

"Moonlight and Valentino" is the work of Ellen Simon, daughter of playwright Neil Simon. She inherited her father's penchant for making life seem like television, though while his work is always timed like sitcoms, hers reminds me of a Movie of the Week.

age to little effect, desperate to convince us that this material belongs here and not on the tube.

Fact is that this mopey melodrama, which opens Friday, is the worst kind of "chick movie." It promises a poignant and realistic exploration of relationships, but it's really just a half-baked New Age story rife with stereotypes that you'd think most women would be tired of. If "Moonlight and Valentino" really was about the perils of self-absorption, it would be great. But in the old Hollywood tradition, it wants us to love each of its central women, from Kathleen Turner's controlling stepmother to Whoopi Goldberg's free-spirited (surprised?) best friend.

Right from the opening credits, "Moonlight" sends its audience to the Kleenex box. On her way to work one morning, Rebecca (Elizabeth Perkins) notices a policeman clearing an accident scene on her husband's jogging route. The hospital confirms her worst nightmare.

Originally written as a play, "Moonlight and Valentino" is the work of Ellen Simon, daughter of playwright Neil Simon. She inherited her father's penchant for making life seem like television, though while his work is always timed like sitcoms, hers reminds me of a Movie of the Week.

Simon couldn't let Rebecca and her husband be just an ordinary couple. He was an astrophysicist. She is a published poet and New York City college professor though she doesn't convince us that she's very good at either. They live in a wood-framed home by the water that most people dream about.

This fall, the concert series features artists playing a variety of instrumental works from the art music repertoire. John Constant, associate professor of music history at UM-Dearborn, will introduce the concerts which begin at 8 p.m. at the Henry Ford Estate. ## WESTLAND SPORTS SCENE

Churchill golfers hot

How low can you go? The Livonia Churchill boys golf team broke its own dual match scoring record in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 184.214 victory last week over Westland John Glenn at Whispering Willows.

The 184 total is believed a new WLAA low. The Chargers scored 186 last season in a match against North Farmington (also at Whispering Willows).

Junior Gary Kraus was medalist in the Northville match with a 34. Seniors Dave Higham and Chris Kiehler each shot 35, while senior Leon Kashawlic, sophomore Kevin Anger and senior Mike Cotter each carded 40s.

Chris Tompkins led Glenn with a 39. On Wednesday, Churchill raised its dual meet record to 6-1 overall with a 191-208 victory over host Farmington at San Marino.

Cotter was medalist with a 35, followed by Higham (36), Kraus (38), Kiehler (40), Kashawlic and Jeff Kilgore (43 each).

Jeff Thomas and Brian Prentic each had 41 for the Falcons.

Glenn wins invite

On Thursday, John Glenn, behind sophomore medalist Craig Piscopink's 74, won the seven-school Western Wayne Invitational at Kensington.

The Rockets scored 334 followed by Garden City (349), Redford Thurston (353), Redford Union (358), Livonia Franklin (363), Allen Park (365) and Wayne Memorial (373).

Other Glenn scorers included Tompkins (86), Kevin Kossel and Chet Ralaanen (87 each) and Brian Bridges (92).

Glenn is 6-7 in dual meets.

Area golf divot

Robert Manning, 63, of Livonia, recorded his third ace in 31 years on the 130-yard, No. 4 hole, Sept. 24 at Glenhurst. He used an 8-iron.

Manning, self-employed, shot 73 for 18 holes. He had back-to-back aces in 1991-92.

Emert leads Crusaders

Freshman Scott Emert (Walled Lake Central) scored a pair of goals Wednesday, powering the Madonna University men's soccer team to a 3-0 victory over visiting Adrian College.

Freshman Charlie Bell assisted on both goals. Another frosh, Mark Garrett tallied the other Madonna goal.

Goalkeeper Dan McEvilly posted the shutout as the Crusaders improved to 5-4 overall.

Masters triathlon champ

Fred Heldmeyer, an adaptive physical education teacher for the Wayne-Westland Schools, was recently named Michigan Masters (40 and over) state triathlon champion. Competing in the Michigan Grand Prix, Heldmeyer captured eight of nine series races this summer to earn the points title. Most races consisted of 0.6-mile swim, 25-mile bike and 10-kilometer run.

Heldmeyer recently was the first male finisher overall in the Lima, Ohio, YMCA Triathlon held in August.

Leon's wins crown

The Farmington/Leon's Family Dining men's softball team won the playoffs in the Northwest Parks and Recreation Senior Softball Major League Division.

The 55-and-over league was comprised of teams representing Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Waterford and Farmington. This was Farmington's first year in the league.

Leon's Family Dining, managed by Leonard Zundel of Livonia, finished the regular season with a 15-5 record.

In the playoffs, Farmington faced the top-seeded Clarkston Tomahawks three times before winning the finale, 10-0.

Farmington was led offensively throughout the season by Milo Karhu of Farmington Hills with a batting average of .450.

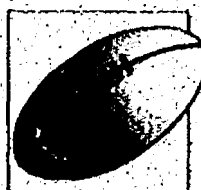

Karhu is a member of the Michigan Softball Hall of Fame and a retired Redford Union school administrator.

Other members of the team are Bob Kaump, Dick Coppens and John Mardeuz, Redford; Lenny O'Neil, Lonnie Galbraith and Dick Horie, Westland; Rich Fisk, Canton; Dick Bunning, Howell; Joe Ference, Mike Bert, Hill Kent and Keith Emerson, Livonia; Ron Hurick, Plymouth; and Jess Soto, Farmington Hills.

The Northwest Parks and Recreation league is looking for players and teams for the 1996 season, which begins May 31. Interested players should call (810) 867-6723.

To submit items for the Observer Sports Scene, write to Brad Emons, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, MI 48150, or send via fax to (313) 691-7279.

Stevenson wheels into 1st, 27-6

Stevenson, which played for the Western Lakes Activities Association football championship in 1994, put itself in position to win another Lakes Division title after routing Plymouth Salem, 27-6.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Guess who's all alone in first place in the Lakes Division football race?

It's defending champion Livonia Stevenson, which improved to 4-1 overall and 3-0 in the division with a convincing 27-6 home-field victory Friday over Plymouth Salem.

The Spartans, aided by Walled Lake Central's 21-20 upset win Friday over Westland John Glenn, are one game up on the rest of the Lakes Division field in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Stevenson plays Saturday at North Farmington and finishes its division schedule at home Oct. 13 against Glenn.

Tailback Gade Clark, a 5-foot-8, 193-pound junior, scored three touchdowns in the win against the Rocks, who fell to 1-4 overall and 1-2 in the Lakes.

"This is the third week in a row where we've really come to play," said Stevenson first-year head coach Tim Gabel, whose team has won three straight since losing 15-14 to Livonia Franklin. "We've had good practices and now we have individuals stepping up and making big plays. That's what we're happy about. And the kids are playing with confidence."

The Spartans, however, trailed early.

The Rocks marched 72 yards in nine plays, capped by quarterback Nate Gray's 1-yard run with 8:40 left in the second period. (The Rocks missed the point-after.)

It was all Stevenson from that point.

Clark, who led all rushers with 87 yards in 20 carries, scored on a 3-yard run with 4:29 left in the first half. The TD was set up by Dean Bacheller's 36-yard pass to tight end Rob Drolot, who more than made up for a first-quarter fumble after rambling 34 yards with a catch down to the Salem 13. (Drolot's earlier mistake was recovered by the Rocks' Dirk Schmiedel and returned past midfield, but they failed to score.)

Jason Borregard's extra point made it 7-6.

In the third quarter, junior linebacker Matt Allison, who was outstanding with seven solo tackles and two assists, intercepted the first of his two passes to set up Clark's 3-yard TD run with 5:42 left in the third quarter.

Stevenson added two more scores in the fourth quarter.

Clark, faking a handoff to Jeff Backus, ran a Salem punt back 55 yards for a TD. Ken Kuliez then picked off another Salem pass with 1:43 remaining and returned it 41 yards for a score.

The Rocks fumbled 10 times, losing one, which was recovered by Stevenson's Ryan Culloty. Stevenson picked off a total of four passes. Kevin Rosinski had the other pick.

Senior nose guard Matt Bartlett, a 5-foot-6, 191-pound fireplug, recorded nine solo tackles and four assists, helping the Spartans hold Salem's wishbone attack to 193 total yards. The Spartans had 250.

"That's a tough system to stop, and the way we play it, we need big plays from our safeties and linebackers," Gabel said. "Our philosophy coming in was to give them some yardage."

"But the way they (Salem) play, a lot of their (running) backs are exposed out there, and if you time the hits, you can make them turn it over. But it's a split-second thing."

Junior tailback Lawrence Nunn was the lone bright spot for the Rocks, rushing for 80 yards in 13 carries.

"Last week we were a lot sharper," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, referring to a 35-28 overtime win over Farmington. "We went from the penthouse to the outhouse in one week."

Glenn upset, 21-20

Walled Lake Central hasn't had much success with Westland John Glenn in recent football years.

But all the lopsided losses were wiped from the Vikings' memory Friday when senior quarterback Jason Whalen scored from 3 yards out with 10 seconds remaining and junior Bill Kandilian kicked the subsequent extra point to give Central a 21-20 upset win over the visiting Rockets.

The Vikings, who scored twice in the final eight minutes to erase a 20-7 deficit, improved to 3-2 overall and 2-1 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Previously unbeaten Glenn slipped to 4-1 and 2-1.

"This is a great team victory," Central fourth-year coach Darrell Harper said. "To score twice with eight minutes to go against John Glenn shows a lot of courage."

How bad was it for Central the last few seasons against Glenn? The Rockets had won the four previous meetings by a combined score of 122-7 with three shutouts.

It appeared the Vikings might be headed for another loss Friday as John Glenn took a 20-7 lead in the fourth quarter on Justin Berent's second 1-yard TD run of the game. The kick failed, and it proved to be costly for the Rockets.

Senior running back Matt Koschke scored from 1 yard out and Kandilian's PAT made it 20-14. Whalen, who passed for 125 yards on nine completions, then tied the game in the final seconds and Kandilian's kick won it.

Berent opened the scoring in the first quarter and Steve Palling's extra point gave the Rockets a 7-0 lead. Central tied the game at 7 in the second quarter on Koschke's 4-yard TD run and Kandilian's PAT.

The game stayed tied until the third quarter when Glenn's Jay Jackson picked up a fumble and scampered 80 yards for a go-ahead touchdown. The extra point gave the Rockets a 14-7 advantage.

Central had a balanced offensive attack, rolling up 115 yards on the ground and 125 through the air. John Glenn rushed for 172 yards, but only passed for 26, including two interceptions.

CANTON 24, CHURCHILL 8: Senior quarterback Rob Johnson completed nine of 12 passes for 179 yards and a touchdown and also ran for a score Friday, leading the Plymouth Canton to a WLAA Western Division win over visiting Livonia Churchill.

The win improved Canton to 3-2 overall, 2-1 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Churchill remained winless in five games. Senior wide receiver Ron Hunter caught six passes for 153 yards, including one that covered 32 yards and capped the Chiefs' first scoring drive in the first quarter. Ron Gumber's first of three extra points made the score 7-0.

The Chiefs went up 14-0 before the first quarter ended on Johnson's 10-yard keeper.

Canton took a 24-0 halftime lead after an 11-yard TD run by Mike Renner and a 25-yard field goal by Gumber in the second quarter.

The Chiefs' defense was led by junior defensive back Jason Pennabaker, who had two interceptions.

Churchill avoided a shutout in the fourth quarter with a 1-yard dive for a TD by Todd Wilson, a junior running back. Wilson finished with 150 yards on 21 carries.

HARPER WOODS 35, CLARENCEVILLE 14: The Pioneers scored 20 unanswered points in the second half Friday to build on a 15-14 halftime lead and beat host Livonia Clarenceville.

The Metro League crossover loss dropped Clarenceville to 2-3 overall, 2-1 in the Metro Conference. Harper Woods is 4-1 overall, 3-1 in the Metro.

Spartans, nemesis draw, 0-0

Same old story Friday night when state boys soccer powers Livonia Stevenson and host Beverly Hills-Detroit Country Day collided.

The two teams battled to a scoreless draw. It's been like that all through the 1990s. The last time there was a decision was 1989 when Stevenson beat the Yellow Jackets.

Stevenson, top-ranked in Class A, is 10-0-1 overall, while BCD, national record-setting seven-time Class B champion, is 9-0-3 overall.

"Our whole defense... Jason Roy, Scott Sersen, Jim Bullock and Scott Babinski... played well," Stevenson coach Walt Barrett said. "And our goalie (Jim Grewe) faced a lot of shots."

"Country Day used a long ball attack and it created a lot of throw-ins and corner kicks. They were well-placed long balls behind our zone and it made us work hard."

"We created some better scoring opportunities, but we came up empty."

CC wins Boys Bowl, 26-23

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central senior Eron Kosmowski might not win any games with his hands, but he can do wonders with his foot.

Kosmowski, a 6-foot-7 235-pound backup tight end with only one catch this season, kicked a 48-yard field goal as time expired in regulation and the Shamrocks defeated Birmingham Brother Rice in overtime, 26-23, in Sunday's Boys Bowl before a capacity crowd of 8,600 at Pontiac Wiener Stadium.

The Shamrocks (5-0 overall) won on a 1-yard dive on fourth down by quarterback Greg Call in overtime, but they wouldn't have had a chance without Kosmowski's heroics at the end of the fourth quarter.

Rice took a 20-17 lead with 1:34 remaining in regulation following an 8-yard halfback option pass from Brian Marshall to quarterback Dave Sofran on fourth down.

The Shamrocks drove 45 yards in 10 plays to set up Kosmowski's tying kick which cleared the trees behind the goal posts. The kick by Kosmowski, who missed a 50-yard attempt earlier in the fourth quarter, might have cleared 60 yards.

"I think it's still going. It's probably in Detroit by now," said Brother Rice coach Al Pracana, whose team is 4-7.

Call directed the game-tying drive, completing four passes for 36 yards. Wide receiver Mike Ambrosiak caught an 11-yard pass on fourth down and two that put the ball on the Rice 31 with six seconds left.

It was the same route Ambrosiak ran two plays earlier. Call also completed passes to Eric Gilbo and Tom Valenti on the 10-play drive.

"I was the last resort," Ambrosiak said. "I saw the whole middle open, Greg saw me, I went under the ball, caught it, and wasn't going anywhere because I saw defensive backs everywhere."

Call threw the ball to the ground on the next snap to intentionally stop the clock, and the Shamrocks called on Kosmowski, who made an earlier 29-yard attempt.

"I made three or four in the morning from 50 yards and I knew I could make it," Kosmowski said. "This was the Boys Bowl and we had to win this game."

Each team had four plays to score from the 10-yard line in overtime.

Rice won the coin toss and got the ball first, but had to settle on a 27-yard field goal by Curran McCarthy to go up 23-20.

The Shamrocks gained three yards on first down by Kevin Quay and reached the Rice 1 on consecutive three-yard runs by fullback John Spolsky, who was only playing offense because of a sprained ankle. After calling a timeout, the Shamrocks decided to have Call dive over the top on fourth down from the one-foot line.

Call scored earlier on runs of 12 and 1 yard.

"I was just thinking, 'Jump, get the ball over the line and get out of here,'" said Call, who had 76 yards on 16 carries. "The line stepped up and (center) Jamie McFarlane fired out, got under his guy, and I went over him."

The Shamrocks dominated most of the first half, jumping to a 17-7 halftime lead.

But Sofran was tough to stop in the second half, leading Rice on two scoring drives.

Sofran, who completed nine of 15 passes for 84 yards, drove the Warriors 81 yards on 12 plays to cut the lead to 17-14 on a 1-yard run by Marshall with 2:59 left in the third quarter.

Marshall, who ran for 92 yards on 15 carries, capped the Warriors' last possession of the game with a surprise toss on a halfback option to Sofran with less than two minutes left to cap an 80-yard drive and tie the score.

"We hit it on them in a 1988 playoff game," CC coach Tom Mach said. "If you stay in coaching long enough, those plays can come back and haunt you."

Spolsky had 67 yards on 17 carries and Milam Brooks finished with 41 yards on 10 attempts. Quay had 36 yards on seven carries. Quay and Chuck O'Connor also had fumble recoveries for CC.

Buick Park Avenue delivers quality

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

Buick's handsome Park Avenue drives home the premium carmaker's high-end image with its smorgasbord of sophistication and feast of functional features.

Test-driven: The top-of-the-line Buick Park Avenue Ultra, which sports a different aluminum grille, wheels and body side moldings.

Buick engineers have done a fine job with the exterior of the Park Avenue, giving it flushed glass, wrap-around bumpers and windshield and rounded curves all the way around.

ROAD TEST
By Anne Fracassa

The Park Avenue has sophisticated styling this year, lending way to the aerodynamic look we're all so used to by now.

Truly a fine luxury car, the Park Avenue's different styling — which still has the inner distinctness of Buick — can turn a number of heads when driving around town.

Although not radically different from other Buicks or the previous generation of Park Avenue, it still has a different air of its own.

The interior of the Park Avenue holds many pleasant surprises for both driver and passenger. The front driver's and passenger's doors flow into the instrument panel, giving it a clean look.

Front passenger has a unique choice — individual climate controls. No more fighting about being too hot or too cold. Just adjust the heating and cooling to your own preference.

Mounted on the driver's door are a host of important switches, including electric mirror controls, headlamp switch, door locks and window controls.

Two instrument panels, both analog, are available. Standard is a center-mounted speedometer, with warning lights and fuel gauge on either side.

The Ultra driven had the optional instrument cluster that included a tachometer and wide array of other gauges. Placing all that necessary information in a space that measures approximately 12-inches-by-4-inches makes driving a bit confusing.

It was difficult to spot the speedometer on first glance. Eyes always fell to the tach or another gauge before searching out the speedometer. It's just too much information in too little space.

The remainder of the instrumentation is easy to understand and operate, including the sound system.

Safety features include a standard airbag and anti-lock brakes.

The Park Avenue is equipped with General Motors' pride and joy, the 3.8-liter V6 tuned-port 170-horsepower engine that's teamed with an electronic automatic transaxle.

Acceleration is a joy to behold. Need help getting down that short freeway ramp? Have no worries with this engine. The only visible setback on this fine performing engine is the fuel economy — which is 18 mpg in the city and 27 mpg on the highway. The Park Avenue driven got a little less miles per gallon than that.

The transmission is powered by a sensitive computer that monitors engine, transmission and cruise control systems. With input from all three, the transmission "knows" exactly when to shift gears, providing the optimum in unlabored acceleration.

It certainly makes a difference in city driving and during stop-and-go traffic. The Park Avenue doesn't lurch forward or act hesitant when accelerating of driving at a constant speed.

And with the comfort of five-person seating, four doors that swing wide for easy in and out and a trunk that can handle the bulkiest loads, Buick certainly has a great car here.
