Patriotism on the menu

Veterans Day marked: R. J. Fisher, partner with his son, Bob, of the Pancake Chef restaurant, wanted to do something for Veterans Day last weekend, so he gained the help of the Westland-based Wolverine chapter of the 82nd Airborne Division to raise a new flag dedicated to all disabled veterans and those missing in action in all wars. Taking part were Wolverine members Chet Cassidy, Bob Watkins and Rick Utley. The elder Fisher, who served in the infantry in the early 1960s, said he always had a great reverence for the flag and felt it would make an excellent addition to the restaurant on Central City Parkway (formerly Cowan) west of Wayne Road, as well as the nearby retail area.

School plan would strain budget

■ While the Wayne-Westland school superintendent isn't philosophically opposed to a state proposal to lengthen the school year, he is concerned that it will cost the district some $400,000 each additional day.

Wayne-Westland educators are worried about a state proposal to gradually lengthen the school year to 195 days for students, a 15-day increase that local officials say would strain their budget.

Superintendent Duane Moore said Monday that he isn't philosophically opposed to a longer school year, but he is concerned that the local district would be forced to absorb the cost.

He predicted a daily cost of $400,000 for each day the school year is extended.

That is a particular concern for Wayne-Westland, which has been mired in deficit spending for two years. Following gut-wrenching cuts and voter passage of a 3-mill tax increase in June, local officials at last are expecting a $448,696 surplus next June 30.

Proposed changes in Michigan's school code would add one day of instruction each year for the next 15 years, beginning in 1997-98. But the measure apparently would come with no additional dollars pledged by state legislators.

"They are not looking to give any additional money to pay for it," said Patricia Brand, Wayne-Westland assistant superintendent of business.

Wayne-Westland has about 2,000 employees who would want to be paid for additional time worked, officials say.

State legislators also want a six-hour instructional day for all stu-

School board's silence questioned

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A local resident Monday questioned why Wayne-Westland school board members didn't publicly defend their colleague, Richard LeBlanc, when he became the target of "slander, intimidation, deception and lies" in his winning bid for the Westland City Council.

Westland resident Jerry Mercier also said rumors of one board member being linked to a citizens committee that attacked LeBlanc "is a black eye to this school district."

Of LeBlanc's six colleagues, five have voiced support for LeBlanc's council candidacy.

Only board member Patricia Brown has publicly stated that she didn't support LeBlanc's quest for a council seat, but she said Monday that she believes he "will do a good job."

In response to Mercier's criticism about board members not defending LeBlanc in the council campaign, Brown said, "I think that's a separate race and a separate issue."

Brown said she prefers a separation of city and school board politics.

Store robbed twice in 8 days

BY DARRELL CLEM

A Dearborn man has been arrested on charges of robbing a Westland convenience store twice in two weeks, a Westland police sergeant said Wednesday.

Terry Lee Clinton, 33, was arraigned Wednesday afternoon in Westland 18th District Court on two counts of armed robbery and two counts of being a fourth-degree habitual offender.

He is accused of robbing the 7-Eleven on Merriman near Palmer at 1:55 a.m. Monday. He also is charged with robbing the same store at 1:01 a.m. on Nov. 6.

On Wednesday afternoon, Judge C. Charles Bokos entered a not-guilty plea for Clinton and set a $500,000 cash bond. The judge also scheduled a Nov. 22 hearing that will determine whether the suspect should stand trial on the charges.

Clinton had been on parole since August for car theft. He also is under investigation for recent robberies in Livonia and Redford, among other cities, Kubitskey said.

Clinton was arrested at a relative's house in Dearborn. A 7-Eleven surveillance camera helped police with their investigation, Kubitskey said.

In the latest incident, a lone suspect escaped with a small amount of cash from the Westland 7-Eleven, the sergeant said.

The suspect approached a 23-year-old clerk, implied that he had a gun hidden in his coat and demanded money, Kubitskey said.

No weapon was actually revealed and no shots were fired, he said.

The bandit matched the description of a man who robbed the same 7-Eleven early Nov. 6.

During that incident, a robber escaped with $25 and a 12-pack of beer after warning a 37-year-old male employee that he had a gun hidden in his coat, police said.

No one was injured during that holdup, either.

The worker was ringing up an order on the cash register when the suspect put his hand inside his coat and warned that he had a gun, police reports said.

In both robberies, the store clerks complied with the suspect's demands.

Busing clampdown upsets parents

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

About 40 Stevenson Middle School students have been forced to stop riding school buses, in a clampdown that has angered some parents.

Overcrowding on buses prompted school officials to study the problem, and they learned that many students who had been riding to school were supposed to be walking or finding other transportation.

The students hadn't been adhering to a district policy that provides transportation only for pupils who live 1.5 miles or more from school, said Patricia Brand, assistant superintendent for business.

"These children should never have been riding," she said Tuesday. "They have been getting a free ride."

Brand said school officials would like to provide buses for all students, but they simply don't have the money to do it.

Stevenson administrators have begun requiring students to show bus passes, and some parents are upset.

"Our concern is the health and safety of our children getting to and from school," parent Kim Molitor told the Wayne-Westland School Board Monday night.

Molitor's seventh-grade son attends Stevenson, and her fifth-grade daughter will be a student there next school year. She said students weren't treated fairly by being allowed to ride buses for two months, only to be kicked off recently.

Parent Linda Graham, who has a son attending Stevenson, voiced concerns about children walking south on Carlson to Palmer and then west on Newburgh to get to school. She said they have to cross railroad tracks and pass by businesses such as Technicolor Video Services.

Both mothers said their family's work schedules interfere with their ability to drive their children to school.

The parents also said they weren't given any notice that their children had to stop riding the buses.

But Brand said students were told at school that they would no longer be provided with transportation because of the board's policy.

School officials have promised to look into the parents' concerns. The problem also is expected to be considered by a new transportation advisory panel that is in the process of being formed, Brand said.

The panel, composed of principals, administration officials and parents, will make recommendations to the transportation department based on such complaints as those made by Molitor and Graham.

The group hasn't yet had its first meeting.

Developer responds to problems

BY DARRELL CLEM

A local developer has addressed concerns of residents who previously accused him of failing to correct structural and landscaping problems at Quail Run condominiums on Hunter west of Wayne Road, city officials said.

Some Quail Run residents had urged the Westland City Council to deny a revised site plan for another condominium complex being developed by Randy Morris, saying he didn't keep promises for repairs to their homes.

After reviewing the complaints, however, city officials have decided that Morris addressed the concerns of Quail Run residents, clearing the way for a site plan revision at RavenCrest condominiums on Newburgh south of Marquette.

Council President Thomas Brown said during a Nov. 6 meeting that he and Building Director Robert Fritz discussed the matter with attorneys and found that Morris has lived up to pledges he made to correct problems at Quail Run.

Residents had earlier complained of leaky roofs and inadequate landscaping, among other problems.

The council in mid-October postponed a vote on the RavenCrest site plan after some residents continued to criticize Morris.

At that time, Fritz said, "The contractor in my opinion has really worked to go back and do the repairs."

Fritz also said that Quail Run homeowners have to accept some responsibility for repairs to their own residences.

After studying the issue, council members voted unanimously Nov. 6 to approve the revised site plan. No residents spoke against the decision, unlike the opposition that surfaced at previous meetings.

However, Quail Run resident Ron Thompson, president of the condominium association, said some residents are afraid to speak out because they fear possibly being taken to court by Morris.

One potential lawsuit that Morris was starting against the owners of one Quail Run unit has been dropped, Thompson said.

Board members Debra Fowlkes, Mathew McCusker, Martha Pitsenbarger and David James confirmed Monday that they supported LeBlanc's council bid.

LeBlanc also said he received words of support from board president Francis "Bud" Winter, who didn't attend Monday's meeting.

LeBlanc, 37, came under attack for his school board voting record from a group that called itself the Wayne-Westland Citizens Information Committee. The group questioned LeBlanc's record on minority issues.

Some prominent minority representatives came to LeBlanc's defense against the committee, which has little more than a dozen members and, according to the chairwoman, no minority members.

On Monday, LeBlanc announced that he will resign from his school board post on Dec. 31, six months before his four-year term expires. The board will have until Jan. 19 to appoint a successor.

The board hasn't yet decided on the process it will use in replacing LeBlanc, who will assume his council post on Jan. 1.

In winning a two-year council term, LeBlanc drew praise from most of his school board colleagues.

"I was very proud to have my name on your (campaign) literature," McCusker told LeBlanc. "I think you'll do an excellent job."

Fowlkes noted that LeBlanc often comes to board meetings with newspaper clippings of articles that highlight student achievement. She told LeBlanc that he "will be missed."

Top teachers: Honored as Teachers of the Year by the Livonia School District recently were JoEtte Morris (left), Diane Worthington, and Shirley Wahlstrom.

3 top teachers honored

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

JoEtte Morris teaches special education students at Buchanan Elementary. Diane Worthington heads the science department at Emerson Middle School. Shirley Wahlstrom teaches social studies at Franklin High.

These are just three of the some 1,000 teachers in the Livonia school district which serves the northern section of Westland.

Yet these three are so top-notch, so dedicated, so extraordinary that when it came to naming this year's Teachers of the Year, the three received the highest of accolades from their peers.

Anyone who has ever asked the question — What makes a good teacher? — has only to look at the careers of Morris, Worthington and Wahlstrom to find an answer. Collectively, they have 71 years of classroom teaching. Yet "time in" is not part of the criteria for the district's annual Teachers of the Year award.

The three teachers who earn this honor every year possess something extra special, something that even their fellow professionals recognize as "above the rest."

This year, the annnouncement of the award coincides with American Education Week, to be observed this week.

"The week highlights the tremendous responsibility we have as educators and citizens to help each child reach his/her potential as the future leaders of this country," said school spokesman Jay Young.

While the week honors teachers, it also honors everyone who has a task in public education: administrators, paraprofessionals, secretaries, custodians, maintenance workers, bus drivers, food service workers, warehouse staff, printers, carpenters and mechanics.

But the linchpin to the success of public education is the teacher. Here is the story of three of the best.

Teacher shows compassion for handicapped students

It takes a truly special person to teach children with extra special needs, to teach students who have handicaps which cry out for extra compassion.

JoEtte Morris of Canton has spent more than 27 years being a friend and teacher to her special students. She currently is assigned to a special education center program at Buchanan Elementary, 16400 Hubbard.

Morris' fellow teachers kid her about the "cart of homework" she brings to school each day and then takes back home again. But the cart is a clue to Morris' priorities: Her students are what's important — homework can wait.

Morris' commitment to those who need the most help is shown in both her in-school and out-of-school activities.

In-school, she attends numerous workshops and seminars on disabilities and learning techniques. Her mission is to help every child develop skills in as many areas as possible, including self-care, academics, behavior, creativity and problem-solving.

There's hardly a school activity that takes place that she isn't involved in, including PTA activities, overnight camping, roller skating, school musicals, plays and art fairs.

Out-of-school, she participates in the Shriners' Crippled Childrens Project, which provides special treatment for handicapped youngsters. She's also a leader in Project TEACCH, a vocational training method sponsored by the University of North Carolina. She travels throughout Southeastern Michigan, giving presentations on this teaching method for the autistic. And she serves on the Autism Academy, which is writing the guidelines which determine whether a child is autistic.

Every year, to keep pace with an ever-changing world, Morris updates her own teaching philosophy.

"I am no longer content that our students successfully complete their elementary years and school programs; I look beyond school to our student's ultimate place in our communities."

And each year, as children with ever more severe handicaps enter Livonia schools, Morris' task becomes ever more challenging.

"She demonstrates the highest degree of professionalism and sensitivity toward every student; challenging each youngster to grow and learn each day," said nominator Sally Stewart.

In nominating her as Elementary Teacher of the Year, Morris' colleagues describe her as "down to earth, warm, caring, persistent, innovative and unflappable."

"She is unflappable when faced with unique students and their behaviors," said another nominator, Linda Hubert.

Getting pink-slipped changed teacher's life

Six years ago, Diane Worthington was pink-slipped, probably the worse news a teacher can get. The Garden City resident lost her job at the Livonia Career Center, where she had taught since 1974.

Worthington spent the summer of 1989 wondering what would come next. The answer she got in August from the school district's personnel department didn't make her happy. The district reassigned her to teach at Emerson Middle School, which serves the northeast section of Westland.

For a teacher schooled in teaching teen-agers about vocational training, the job switch to the younger set was a big career disappointment.

But a teacher's skills are not age specific and Worthington rose to the challenge.

"I am finally in a place where almost everyone is my height and that their goal is to be taller than me before they go to Franklin. I also realized that change is OK and in this case it was great."

That statement reveals one of Worthington's greatest assets — her sense of humor.

"She has the largest heart and a infectious smile that lets every child she deals with know that she truly cares about them as a person," said Emerson principal Tom Tobe, one of her nominators.

At Emerson, Worthington heads the science department and is a seventh grade science teacher. One of the ways she teaches students about the ecology of the Great Lakes is to take them every year on a one-day field trip out on Lake Michigan via the science ship Malibar, which operates out of Traverse City.

"I prefer to do things with students than to sit on committees, even though they are necessary," Worthington said. Her activities include sporting events, walking in the Turkey Trot, concerts, the variety show and face painting at school dances. She sponsors the ski club.

Worthington's "greatest undertaking" at Emerson was to launch its peer mediation program, the first in a Livonia district middle school.

"Diane is a true middle school teacher — one who believes in kids," wrote Janice Leach, one of her nominators. "Her high spirit is contagious to staff and students alike. The word 'no' is not in Diane's vocabulary. She is always looking for opportunities for learning. She exemplifies what the teaching profession is all about — a true love for kids and for the future."

Her own life experiences influence teacher's style

Many educators have relatives who inspired them to become teachers. For Shirley Wahlstrom, the desire to teach came from an aunt who was an elementary principal in Detroit.

"She cared about her job, her school, the teachers and the students and their families," said Wahlstrom, the Livonia district's high school teacher of the year who teaches social studies at Franklin High, which serves the northeastern section of Westland.

"It is this sense of concern, pride and accomplishment that I have tried to emulate."

Wahlstrom's teaching style and especially her concern for new students was molded by the many moves her own family made during her childhood.

"As a child I had the misfortune, or good fortune as the case may be, of moving many times and thus attending 10 different schools in four different states. How I was treated as the 'new kid on the block' has had a significant impact on my teaching and concerns for new students."

Wahlstrom's own four children taught her well one of the fundamental truths of parenthood: no two children are alike.

And her own divorce has shown her the trauma and heartaches many of her own students go through when their parents break up.

"As a divorced parent I understand the many challenges and transitions that parents and students have to go through to adjust to new circumstances."

Those four experiences — an aunt who taught, constant moves as a child, four children and a divorce — have blended together to fashion the teacher Wahlstrom is today.

Jonathan Swift, who teaches global education, worked closely with Wahlstrom when both put together the program at Stevenson.

"She isn't just a teacher to young people, she shares herself, her travels, and her wisdom," Swift said.

Wahlstrom, a Novi resident, thinks globally, and works to get her students to think internationally also. She does this through field trips, through the Model United Nations and through ethnic dinners.

Last year, she helped produce "Light in the Dark Ages," a program highlighting mid-eastern cultures.

Franklin teacher Wilma Wagner called Wahlstrom "the kind of teacher I would want my child to have."

Wagner used the words dedication, commitment, persistence, patience, vision and caring to describe her colleague.

"I have seen her do what is rare in our profession — come into work on Saturday mornings and work late often," Wagner said.

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Veterans Day came and went and hardly a word about the Nov. 11 national holiday was mentioned in Livonia Public Schools, which serves the northern section of Westland.

That's the view of Dale Wofford of Westland, who last week complained to the school board about the district's non-celebration of the holiday.

"Veterans Day is not properly celebrated by Livonia Public Schools," Wofford said. "Please consider celebrating Veterans Day next year. Why not honor our veterans?"

Trustee Ken Timmons agreed with Wofford, saying the observance of Veterans Day should be as important to the district as its observance of American Education Week this week. "We should put it on that plane."

Wofford's complaint came the same night trustees heard of plans the district is making to celebrate Martin Luther King Day, Jan. 15.

Complaints have come from residents over both the city's and the schools' lukewarm celebration of this national holiday.

In January, said school spokesman Jay Young, teachers will have a vast wealth of material on the famous civil-rights leader from which to choose for class instruction.

Information has been ordered from the Martin Luther King Center in Atlanta.

"I have also contacted the NAACP, Focus:HOPE, Wayne State Center for Peace, and the Race Relations Council for additional ideas to incorporate into a districtwide project," Young said.

In choosing class assignments, teachers will now have a lot of options, said Superintendent Ken Watson. "Before, some said we did not give proper acknowledgment to the holiday."

Students generally don't attend school on holidays because they are negotiated days off with the Livonia Education Association, the teachers' union. But the LEA has not yet negotiated to have either day off, said Trustee Joe Laura.

Instead of getting a day off on Martin Luther King Day, Trustee Sue Clulow said she preferred students spend the day in school and "focus on what the day means."

"This all came about because a community member came to the board and asked what the district did," said board President James Watters. "We didn't know, but we found out. Now we've gone a step further. We'll use the holiday as an educational experience in the classroom."

Children ask to stay at Garfield

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

It was the children who stole the show Monday as the Livonia Board of Education held a public hearing to hear reasons why a proposed boundary change for Garfield Elementary shouldn't take place.

Singing to the tune of "Soldier Boy," the boys and girls stood before the trustees and sang about one of the first places in their young lives that they had come to love.

"Garfield, oh I love you Garfield, it's a special place."

If the board approves a boundary change which would send Garfield students to both Randolph and Grant elementaries, some of the students who sang Monday will lose their neighborhood school, now located in the Arthur-W. Chicago area.

Others would stay at Garfield because they live within boundary lines. But they will lose their scout leaders, a loss that could mean the dissolution of their packs — Brownie Troop 3316 and Webelo Shark Patrol 759.

The leaders of these two groups, Karen Wittkopp and Beverly Miller, are among the families who would be rerouted to either Randolph or Grant.

"Some kids are moving, some are staying, but the leaders are being moved, so the troops are dissolved," Miller said.

The youngsters who sang Monday proudly wore on their uniforms the badges they have earned at Garfield as Scouts.

"Wherever we go, our education follows,
It is the foundation of all that we become.
Yet you're telling us, it can come from anywhere,
And we wonder if you care, about our special place."

Changing school boundaries is an emotionally charged issue, one that strikes at neighborhood schools. But when one school area experiences explosive growth and too many students show up, something has to give.

Few administrators want to enter that emotional arena and change school boundaries. That includes Kent Gage, assistant superintendent for elementary education. But Gage couldn't overlook looming crowded conditions at Garfield in southwest Livonia. He recommended busing some students to Randolph starting in 1996-97 and busing others to Grant starting in 1997-98.

"This (overcrowding) is not a temporary phenomenon at Garfield," Gage said.

But it's hard for youngsters — and their families — to understand numbers. At Monday's public hearing, Karla VanEgmond spoke for 11 of the 13 families who would be transferred to Grant. "For the children, this is a lot to cope with."

She proposed the district postpone the transfer for students now attending Garfield. Only future students would be affected, and their families would know of the boundary change before moving into the area, she said.

"We are very sad, and yes, we're even mad,
We'll be out of bounds, and miss our special place.
In this whole town, why you have to move us 'round,
When we feel we just have found, a real community."

Like VanEgmond, Miller suggested the district postpone the transfer for families now at Garfield. "We recognize that growth occurs and we don't want boundaries to be shifted around for someone else. But our community is being severed. Please don't displace these kids."

Because of her son, Adam, Tina Weible said she feels the sadness felt by the students in their song. If the boundary change occurs, Adam, a first-grader, would be bused to Randolph.

"New things don't go well for him, and he gets nervous," Weible said.

To keep an eye on her son and to make him feel more secure, Weible said she serves as a teacher's aide once a week at Garfield. "He loves my being there. He's now starting to get over his nervousness. But with the change, he'll have to start all over."

"Garfield, oh I love you Garfield,
It's a special place."

CLARIFICATION

"Karate for Kids", a program being held two afternoons a week in Garden City by the International Alliance of Martial Arts, may be contacted at (810) 793-2739. (An incorrect phone number was published in Monday's Observer.)

The instructional sessions are 4:30-5:30 p.m. and 5:30-6:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Immaculate Conception Knights of Columbus Hall, on Ford east of Merriman, Garden City.

IAMA spokeswoman Susan Wyrybkowski said that the children's sessions are $3 each and are taught by certified red and black belt instructors.

The organization also holds 10-week introductory courses for $3 a class, plus a $10 registration fee. For persons who sign up for the entire $54 course, two free lessons will be given.

After the first 10-week course, students will be tested for their first color belt.

Benefits of the instruction are the promotion of self-discipline, self-defense, self-confidence, physical fitness and to build a competitive spirit.

LeMaitre wins honors

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Annual award: Dennis LeMaitre shows off some of the framed certificates and resolutions presented to him as winner of the First Citizen of Westland community service award, a program initiated nine years ago by co-sponsors Westland Observer and the Westland Chamber of Commerce. He was cited by honors from federal, state, county and city officials for his years of community service. The presentations were part of the chamber luncheon-program Tuesday in the Hellenic Cultural Center.

High school seniors vie for scholarships

Ten local high school seniors will take to the stage Saturday night in an effort to win part of the scholarship pot of $5,100 for their college education.

The 10 are part of the annual Wayne-Westland Junior Miss pageant, to be held at Wayne Memorial High School's Stockmeyer Auditorium, on Glenwood at Fourth, Wayne.

Chairing the program, which was initiated in 1968 and held annually with the exception of last year, are Dennis and Pat Hermatz, owners of Wayne Lawn and Garden, Westland. Their daughter, Erica, was named the local Junior Miss last year and is now a freshman at the University of Michigan.

The 10 contestants who have been rehearsing weekly for more than a month are Karen Chuck, Lindsay Wade, Sonya McLeod, Kim Dobrowolski, Sarah Coombs, Tiffany Clemons, Jenny Tapper, Julie Thomas, Mischa Lambert and Debbie Kuehnel.

Pat Hermatz said she and her husband have devoted countless hours to get the program back on its feet after it was dropped last year, forcing their daughter to compete in an at-large competition.

"It's hard work and you have to be dedicated," Mrs. Hermatz said. "We think it's a good program and beneficial to the community."

The program was initiated on a state level in 1958 and locally in 1968 by the Westland Jaycees. In the early 1980s, a separate private, nonprofit committee took it over until last year.

In Saturday's program, girls will be judged on the basis of an interview with a panel of judges, poise, physical fitness, and talent.

Winner of the local program will advance to the state scholarship competition.

Tickets for the Saturday event are available from the contestants, who attend John Glenn or Wayne Memorial High School, or at the door.

Carver to display works

Day Sleep of Westland will show off some of the creative wood works at the second annual Westland parks and recreation's annual craft show, to be held Friday through Sunday, Nov. 17-19, at Bailey Recreation Center, on Ford between Wayne Road and Newburgh, directly behind City Hall.

Sleep, who has taken part in some 30 shows this year after starting her hobby three years ago, puts in some 15 hours a week on the craft. She said the hobby was initiated when she bought a small shelf at a craft show. Her husband, Rick, said he could make one himself.

They went out to the Garden City home of her father-in-law, Pat Sleep, to "show and tell," she recalled.

"Knowing Pat wanted to do wood working, we all decided it was a great idea," Mrs. Sleep said.

Now, all three are involved in the wood carving hobby.

Proceeds from the craft show will support the recreation department's scholarship program, which enables low-income families to take part in its various activities.

dents within five years, a half-hour increase from the current 5½-hour day, said Jane Kuckel, assistant superintendent of instruction.

In addition, another proposed change would add five days to teachers' school year, adding one day a year beginning in 1997-98.

"These are all contractual issues," Kuckel said, emphasizing again that local officials could be faced with paying the tab.

Money aside, Kuckel is worried that state officials may not have given enough thought to requiring six hours of daily instruction for students in early grades.

"That could be a tough situation for our elementary kids," she said, adding that students could be at school up to seven hours a day including a lunch break and recesses.

The state proposals are intended to improve instruction, and local officials agree that better schools are a worthy goal. Yet they are fearful that legislators haven't thoroughly examined the implications of the potential changes.

Moore said he believes that the new legislation "is on the fast track" and will be approved before the Michigan Legislature breaks in December for the holiday season.

Moore also said he is "not optimistic" that local officials can influence Lansing to slow down the process and to consider the fallout from the legislation.

Any bill that would put more financial burden on the Wayne-Westland district causes concern among local officials, who ended the last fiscal year with a $1.9 million deficit on June 30.

The crisis would have been much deeper, but the school board, under the recommendation of former Superintendent Larry Thomas, closed four elementaries and shifted to a middle school plan.

Among other money-saving measures, the board also secured pay freezes for employee groups and eliminated transportation for secondary students for most of last school year.

Panel warns of rush to charter schools

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Key Republican lawmakers are joining Democrats in having doubts about the "rush" to set up public school academies (PSAs).

The Senate-passed revision of Michigan's school code removes the cap of 35 on the number of PSAs, also known as "charter schools," and allows more state agencies to grant charters for the specialized schools.

"There is no conclusive evidence they help kids learn," said Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, after a Nov. 14 hearing in Lansing of the House Appropriations subcommittee on school funding. "In some cases, it puts kids in a safer environment. But there's no national, conclusive evidence charter schools make a difference."

"I'm trying to figure out what the rush is when we don't have groups banging on the door (for charters)," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. "I'd like to say let's wait a couple of years and evaluate what we're doing," said Berman, a former English teacher.

"I have the same concern," said Rep. Glenn Oxender, R-Sturgis, who chairs the budget subcommittee. "Some (charter schools) are conversions of private schools.

"I don't think it makes a lot of sense to support conversions. First, we've lost some of our (state) leverage (on school quality). Second, we're educating more students with the same amount of dollars," said Oxender, a former math and computer science teacher.

Rep. Clyde LeTarte, R-Jackson, said businesses develop a plan, try it out, study the results, then go ahead. "But we (legislators) are jumping through the 'plan and study' without knowing what you've got," said LeTarte, a former community college president, echoing Bankes' theme on the shortage of research.

Charter schools were authorized by the Legislature in the 1993 package of legislation known as Proposal A. The state has only one full school year of experience with them.

The Senate bill, passed on a 21-16 party-line vote, would not only remove the cap but loosen the rules governing PSAs. The House is expected to strip out much of the Senate version.

'Prevent a backlog'

But Michael Williamson, staff person for the State Board of Education and adherent to the conservative GOP view that an unlimited number of charter schools should be created, asked the panel to "create enough charter authorities to prevent a backlog in the process."

Williamson, a former school superintendent, asked that even the Department of Social Services be authorized to charter PSAs for families it serves.

Supporters, like board President Clark Durant and Gov. John Engler, say PSAs, as specialized academies, will provide "competition" to public schools and compel them to improve.

Doubters say PSAs are a back-door approach to parochiald and vouchers, both prohibited by the Michigan Constitution. Doubters also say the Senate bill weakens state curriculum and teacher standards, resulting in weaker schools, not stronger ones.

Currently, fewer than 5,000 of Michigan's 1.6 million public school pupils attend 35 PSAs, Williamson offered, as "pure speculation," the possibility that 400 to 500 charters will be sought and serve 2-4 percent of the population, or 32,000 to 64,000 pupils.

One-room schools

Berman had another problem with some of the existing PSAs: "A lot of these are currently very small. Are these functioning as one- and two-room schools?" She pointed to:

- An Ann Arbor K-3 school with 36 pupils, or nine per level.
- A Grand Rapids K-3 school for "creative learning" with 16 pupils, or four per level.
- A Freeland academy for grades 2-6 with 38 pupils, or 7.6 per grade.

"Are there four teachers teaching four grades?" she asked.

Added Gary Cass, state superintendent for charter schools: "A lot (of pupils) are moving at their own pace rather than the pace of the class. A lot are ungraded schools."

Rep. Bob Emerson, D-Flint, had a problem with allowing the State Department of Education to join the parade of issuing charters. "Traditionally, you've been a regulatory agency. How do you regulate something you created? How can be you an unbiased regulator?"

Williamson replied: "The department would have the same obligation to those schools as to unchartered schools."

"I have the same concern as Rep. Emerson," said Oxender. "In my opinion, there are more than enough chartering agencies."

Job training

Berman grilled Douglas Stites, chief operating officer of the Michigan Jobs Commission, which is involved with a half-dozen vocational schools, five of which operate as PSAs.

ANNIVERSARIES

Emerson

Darrel and Joy Emerson were the honorees when friends and family members gathered to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

They were married on Aug. 15, 1970, at the Plymouth Church of Christ.

In keeping with their two-week trip to Hawaii, a "luau" was held at the Livonia Church of Christ. Guests included their parents, Ray and Vera Pippin of Nashville, Tenn., and Ken and Ida Emerson of Bay City.

Eighteen-year residents of Livonia, they have three children. Chad is a law student at the University of Tennessee; Amy is a junior at David Lipscomb University, and Brett recently graduated from Livonia Stevenson High School.

He has been a teacher in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools for 23 years. She has been a secretary at Livonia Church of Christ for seven years.

Rees

Thanksgiving Eve will be a special day for Andy and Evelyn Rees. That's when they will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple exchanged vows on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, 1945, in St. Martins-in-the Field in London, England. The marriage was arranged by Evelyn, who flew to England to wed her "war groom," a flight sergeant in the British Royal Air Force.

The Reeses lived in Southfield and Berkley before moving to Westland four years ago. They have two children, David G. of Oxford and Kathryn Joyce of White Lake. They also have four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

He drove for Checker Cab for 10 years and worked for the National Bank of Detroit for 22 years, retiring as an assistant manager. His interests include reading and television.

She was a 20-year clerical employee of the Birmingham School District, working in the offices at Derby Middle School and Seaholm High School. Her interests include volunteer work and bowling.

The couple will celebrate their anniversary with residents of Presbyterian Village on Nov. 22, then gather with relatives and friends on Nov. 25.

Lightfest opens holiday season

The Wayne County LightFest lighted up the sky in more ways than one Monday night with festivities that included a fireworks display.

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara flipped the switch to light up the holiday display in Hines Park for a "good crowd," according to Anastasia "Tessie" M. Pitsos, manager of recreation for the county Division of Parks. "We had a big turnout with the sponsors and their families.

"It was a bit chilly," she said. But the lights were beautiful, and "people were raving about it," she said.

Despite the crowd, traffic was under control, Pitsos said. "We stacked the cars in, and once the fireworks were over, there was a continuous flow of cars," she said.

LightFest runs 7-10 p.m. nightly through Jan. 1, 1996 (closed Dec. 25). Traffic must enter Hines Drive at Merriman Road in Westland and proceed east, about four miles, and exit at Warren Avenue, just east of Telegraph.

Food concessions are available at the Warrendale picnic area at the exit. Starting Nov. 22, Santa Claus will be ho-ho-hoing and available for photos at Warrendale.

The donation to enter the show is $5 per car and will help raise funds for the Wayne County Park System.

LightFest has 35 displays, including three new ones this year — a menorah scene, nativity scene and Kwanzaa scene.

Pet photos

Winding down

Area road projects completed

Cheer up, frazzled drivers, the road construction season is winding down now, and many of the local Wayne County projects have been completed.

"It turned cold awful fast this year, and there has been a lot of precipitation," said John Roach, public information manager of the county's Department of Public Services, but he expects projects to wind up close to their target dates. The county's road construction season ended Wednesday, but some minor work is still being completed.

The county worked on 38 miles of improvements this year at a cost of around $30 million, Roach said. That included mostly resurfacing, with some widening and reconstruction, and also included some smaller projects on rural roads, he said.

Local projects include:

■ About 1.5 miles on Five Mile, between Beck and Sheldon, in Plymouth Township, were reconstructed in a project that involved work on drainage, earth excavation, constructing a stone subbase and repaving.

Work is expected to be completed on that project some time this week or next, Roach said.

■ A mile of Inkster Road between Six Mile and Seven Mile roads, the border of Livonia and Redford Township, was reconstructed along with reconstruction of a bridge over the Rouge River, Roach said.

The road is open to through traffic with minor restoration and cleanup work continuing, Roach said.

■ A project on Merriman Road between Interstate 96 and Plymouth Road in Livonia is a two-year project and won't be completed until Nov. 15, 1996. It has involved constructing a temporary road and temporary railroad tracks as work continues to build a railroad overpass. Work will have to stop for the winter as concrete can't be poured in low temperatures, Roach said.

Merriman Road is actually a city project, not completely funded by the county, with the county providing design work, he said.

■ Also on Merriman Road, a mile between Six Mile and Seven Mile roads was resurfaced. Also, some segments of that stretch of road were widened. That work has been completed with some cleanup continuing.

■ The resurfacing of a mile of Warren Road between Wayne Road and Venoy in Westland was completed earlier this fall.

■ A mile of Wayne Road between Warren and Cowan was also restored and completed earlier this fall.

■ In Canton Township, a half-mile of Beck Road between Cherry Hill and Geddes is going to be opened soon for the winter. Construction will resume in the spring. The contractor is working on the bridges on that stretch of road. The estimated completion date is April 1, 1996.

Charter schools from page 5A

"We have a number of companies running (job training) programs," she began. "How many are conversion academies? What's to prevent Chrysler from running a training program, converting it to a state charter academy, and saying, 'Oh, jeez, why should we do that (run own program) when the state will pay for it?'"

"We don't focus on (training for) a company but a cluster of companies," Stites said. "I'm very comfortable that the skills are transferable to other companies."

Stites said the Jobs Commission looks for a long-term commitment from several businesses before proceeding with a vocational academy. "This is hands-on involvement with a high degree of commitment. Employers have to be in first place as this goes forward, or there's not much sense in going."

Stites said, "We do some of the training out there (on the job), not in buildings owned by the public. The academics are integrated with occupational training."

As for the problem of companies ducking costs, Stites said the opposite occurs. "Occupational instruction is extraordinarily expensive. We can have basic technology in school, but we can't keep up with state of the art," he said.

Stites said Gov. Engler's goal is 10 trade schools. The six in existence are Michigan Automotive Academy (former Mo-Tech) in Livonia, West Michigan Academy for Hospitality Sciences in Grand Rapids, Livingston Technical Academy in Howell, daVinci Institute in Jackson, Averill Career Center in Saginaw, and the Kent ISD trade academy in Kentwood. The first five operate as PSA charter academies.

Sen. Bennett to meet with residents

State Sen. Loren N. Bennett is holding a series of district office hours in the 8th Senate District.

On Friday, Nov. 17, Bennett will be in the Westland City Hall, in the City Council Chambers, at 36601 Ford Road.

Area residents with problems, questions, or concerns with state government, or people who just want to introduce themselves to their state senator, are welcome to stop by between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Bennett can also be reached at his office: Michigan Senate, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing MI 48909-7536; or call (517) 373-7350.

OPINION

Brown served well

Political 'dean' will be missed

After 34 years in public life, Tom Brown will be a private citizen again Jan. 1. The Westland City Council president lost his re-election bid last week. Brown finished seventh in a field of eight people seeking four seats.

A few political insiders weren't surprised that Brown lost, but all were shocked that he didn't come close to being re-elected.

Whatever the factors that led to his defeat, they shouldn't discourage friends, supporters and those who back good government to start planning a public event in the near future to honor the man and his numerous contributions.

Brown, who thinks and acts younger than his 78 years, held nearly all elective Nankin Township board positions before being elected Westland's first mayor in the spring of 1966. He later served as a state representative for 12 years before retiring when his House term ended Dec. 31, 1982. About two years later, he was named to fill a City Council vacancy. He later won re-election to more terms before being elevated by his colleagues to the post of council president.

Over the years, Brown has lost only two other elections — his mayoral re-election bid in late 1969 and another mayoral bid in 1981, when he was still in the state House.

His leadership skills and volunteerism helped improve the city's quality of life in other ways. He was publicly honored eight years ago as the First Citizen of Westland for his many public service and volunteer contributions.

As a state legislator, he supported strengthening the Michigan Open Meetings Act to make it easier for the public to see and hear how their elected officials are making decisions for the community.

On the local level, he was a leader in the ongoing effort to preserve the city's historical roots. He and his late wife, Helen, were personally involved in getting a house to be used as the city's historical museum. Later, other buildings were added to the site on Wayne Road between Marquette and Cherry Hill. In related efforts, he is active in the Friends of the Mill and the Perrinsville school restoration.

Over the years, Brown has been known as "Mr. Westland" and the "dean of Westland politics."

The Observer has seen Tom in many roles, handling difficult problems with grace and professionalism.

In approaching a problem, he thought through the issues carefully and always considered what was best for the city and its residents. Even if a person disagreed with his position, no one questioned his integrity.

Though he lost an election last week, he can certainly maintain his role in the community's history and development.

Enjoy holidays close to home

You don't have to go very far to enjoy music, dance, light shows and other sights and sounds of the holiday season.

Parades, holiday concerts, and the Wayne County Parks LightFest are just a few of the locally produced events that make holidays very special and very easy to celebrate close to home.

If you like parades, head over to Seven Mile and Middlebelt roads at 9 a.m. Saturday for the 13th annual Livonia Mall holiday parade. This year's theme is "It's Beginning to Look A Lot Like Christmas." Clowns, floats, animals, marching units and bands will escort Santa to the Livonia Mall.

Garden City will hold its annual Santaland Parade Saturday, Nov. 25, starting at Middlebelt and Maplewood roads, and heading south to the holiday display in the Log Cabin in City Park, Cherry Hill and Merriman roads.

If you prefer to stay indoors, stop by Westland Center at 11 a.m. Saturday and watch the award-winning John Glenn High School Marching Band usher Santa to center court after he arrives by horse and carriage.

The Children's Theater of Michigan will host the event by introducing Santa and Holiday Bear with a musical performance in East Court.

Don't forget the traditional but festive "Nutcracker," Tchaikovsky's magical folk tale to be performed by the Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company and the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra Friday through Sunday, Dec. 1-3, in the Salem High School Auditorium. Tickets are $14 for adults and $8 for students. A "Sugar Plum Fairy Tea" follows the Dec. 3 performance for an additional $3. For tickets, call the Plymouth Symphony Society at (313) 451-2112.

The Livonia Symphony Orchestra and the Contemporary Civic Ballet will present "The Nutcracker" Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9, in the James P. Carli Auditorium at Churchill High School. Tickets are $15 general admission, $12 for senior citizens and $8 for students. For tickets, call Maureen Brosnan at (313) 422-6912.

On Sunday, Dec. 10, the Redford Civic Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Maestro John Gajec, will perform a special holiday concert with the Ford Motor Company Chorus, under the direction of Dale Olmstead. The 3 p.m. concert will be in Thurston High School, Schoolcraft Road, just west of Beech Daly Road. The concert is free; however, patrons can help support the local symphony by purchasing tax-deductible memberships.

Stay in your car and enjoy the Wayne County Parks LightFest open nightly 7-10 p.m. (except Dec. 25) until Jan. 1 along Hines Drive. From Merriman Road east to Telegraph, lighted snowmen, wreaths and a variety of other secular and religious displays provide a treat for young and old. The cost is $5 per car.

These are just a few of the special events planned this holiday season. You don't have to roam far to enjoy the sights and sounds of the holiday. And besides, you'll be supporting the efforts of local organizations that have worked hard all year to prepare for these special programs.

Take time to enjoy!

Mugging upset husband

On Saturday, Nov. 4, about 6 p.m. an very unfortunate situation occurred that everyone always hears about, and really doesn't pay that much attention to unless it finally hits "home."

My wife had just gotten off work; she's the manager of the "Loop" at Westland Mall. She went by Farmer Jack supermarket at Ford and Wildwood to pick up a few things before she came home. When she was leaving and putting these groceries in the trunk of her car, she was "mugged," assaulted from behind, and her purse was taken. Thank God she is still alive; it could have been worse.

And as always, most people don't want to get involved. After this incident she explained to me that although there were many people in the parking lot when this "attack" took place, all were just getting in their cars and ignoring my wife's screams for help!

This makes me feel very ashamed of my fellow Westlanders, and the human race! To them all I can say is that I hope someday someone returns the favor, and stands idly by, or just turns and run while someone they love is harmed. So they too, will know the feelings of alienation, after their loved one has been violated.

Everyone ran, all but one woman had what it took, the guts to chase this person off and try to get a license plate number as this piece of garbage was getting in his car, and took off heading east on Ford. To this woman I want to say thank you for caring enough, and assisting my wife in her hour of need. This lady had a phone in her purse, and I was called/notified from the parking lot. I immediately went up to the store.

At the time of this attack there were no lights on in the parking lot. Afterwards, when her screams finally created a commotion, the manager came out to see what had happened.

When the person went back inside to call the police, ironically enough the lights got turned on, and then the parking areas became well lighted. After the fact! Perhaps more than likely if these lights were on, this attack may not of ever happened.

Events like this happen every day; watch the news. But, when it gets a little closer home, it really hits a nerve and becomes more personal. I also know that it would be very impractical, and costly for the city of Westland to hire enough police to act as our guardian angels. Myself, along with my family don't need protectors, but what we do need is for our rights as victims not to be compromised. I'll explain.

Considering the fact that when this "thing" snatched my wife's purse, her whole life was in this purse. Driver's license, charge cards, Social Security card, insurance cards, everything.

I called the Westland police and asked him what would happen if the (mugger) shows up at my house and decides to steal my wife's car. I am a legal gun owner, could I hold the mugger at gunpoint while the police are notified? I was told "no."

With the holiday season rapidly approaching, I know that the mall and other stores in the city provide security. But, do most of our strip malls provide the same? If, this is additional security for all areas of mass shopping would be a question of money to the stores, did the city every consider an auxiliary security force made up of local residents.

Don't you think this would send a message to all the people from surrounding areas that the citizens of Westland are willing to fight for and defend the living conditions we have in the city.

High taxes knocked

Our overpaid education establishment is quick to criticize today's "dysfunctional families."

Did it ever occur to those high-paid teachers and administrators that our families would be a lot "healthier" if the high taxes necessary to pay exorbitant teacher and other public sector salaries had not driven our "factory jobs" off shore?

Hospice care offers a different approach to death

BY PAMELA READING-SMITH
GUEST COLUMNIST

All humans face death and most fear it, not just when mortality is imminent, but throughout life.

Our fear of death and dying has, unfortunately, guided our methods of treating the terminally ill in this country. In the past, we coped with a terminally ill loved one in one of two ways — we shied away from confronting it by shutting the sick and dying away in an institution, or we sought bizarre and expensive means of delaying or avoiding death.

Recently, a new approach has surfaced that has received a large amount of media attention — assisted suicide, which Jack Kevorkian has brought to the public's attention.

We at Arbor Hospice would like to offer a more humane and cost-effective approach that avoids the high cost associated with traditional methods of care and the high-tech associated with new and unproven procedures. The type of care we are speaking about seeks to manage pain and provide relief for those who are so desperate that they turn toward Kevorkian's euthanasia method. The type of care we are referring to is hospice care.

Hospice seeks to alleviate the fears most commonly associated with the prognosis of a terminal illness — the fear of pain related to the illness, the fear of becoming a burden to the family, and the fear of financing the cost of a terminal illness.

The primary goal of a hospice is to control pain. To do so, hospices rely on the combined knowledge and skills of a team of professionals — physicians, pharmacists, nurses, home care aides, social workers, bereavement counselors, and spiritual counselors — and volunteers who coordinate a personalized plan of care designed to help the patient live his or her final days as comfortably and pain-free as possible.

GUEST COLUMN

The care often includes medication, equipment and supplies related to the terminal illness.

The fear of becoming a burden on the family is of greatest concern for many terminally ill patients. Hospice addresses this concern.

The hospice team of professionals works with the family, providing skilled nursing, psychological and spiritual care, as well as everyday support such as shopping, cleaning and running errands. When needed, hospice provides respite care as well. In addition, hospice staff can be reached 24 hours a day and will visit, when needed, day or night.

On the financial end, hospice is efficient and cost-effective — more than 90 percent of the care is provided in the comfort of home. Care provided in the home has proven time and time again to be less costly than care in a hospital or other institutional type settings.

In 1994, the charges per hospital day were estimated at $1,756; care cost $284 in a skilled nursing facility. That same year, the Medicare base reimbursement rate for hospital routine home care was $105 per day.

Hospice services are covered under Medicare, most private insurance groups, and HMOs. Hospice is also a covered benefit under Medicaid in 37 states. In addition, through community contributions, memorial donations and foundation gifts, many hospices are able to provide services regardless of a patient's insurance or ability to pay.

There is no age limit for hospice care. Children as well as adults can receive the support of a hospice program during their final stages of life. Usually a family member or a friend becomes the primary caregiver and is assisted by the hospice team so that the patient can remain in the home.

As a result, hospice care is one of the fastest growing health care industries. Currently more than 2,000 hospice programs employ more than 33,500 full-time professionals and approximately 11,000 volunteers who together serve close to 280,000 terminally ill patients and their families each year. The need for hospices will continue to rise due to the growing aging population, the increase in AIDS cases, and the rise in health care costs.

Hospice is a concept of care whose time has come. It is a program that treats the person, not the disease; focuses on the family, not the individual; and emphasizes the quality of life, not the duration. It is care that accepts death as a natural part of life and seeks neither to hasten nor postpone it.

Telecommunications testimony is just so much static

State Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield, was only half joking when he stepped to the microphone at the opening of the House's Nov. 7 session. Noting that many members were observing birthdays, Jamian asked the sober, serious Speaker pro tem Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, to give the House a day off.

Fitzgerald didn't, of course, because the House was scheduled to spend all afternoon and part of the evening debate Senate Bill 722, formally known as the Michigan Telecommunications Act; informally, as the "Protect Ameritech Act."

The bill is hellishly complicated. A suburban Democrat confided to me that no one really understood it. That was the truth. I spent hours reading the testimony submitted to Public Utilities Committee and found it incomprehensible gibberish.

But don't take my word for it. Read some of these statements yourself and judge.

Hal R. Hively, for GTE Telephone: "However, this analysis suggests that it would be desirable as a matter of public policy to find a method to place additional pressure on IXCs to compete with local exchange carriers on a price basis in both the Inter and Intra-LATA markets."

Hively again: "Additionally, GTE supports the joint marketing restrictions related to carriers, thus establishing parity, found in Section 354 but should the Intra/InterLATA competitive linkage language be altered or removed from SB 722 this section should be expanded to require other providers to only offer IntraLATA toll services through a separate subsidiary and additionally they should be prohibited from joint marketing Inter/IntraLATA toll services in either of their business units." That is one sentence.

Lest you accuse me of taking these statements out of context, let me assure you Hively never defines IXC and LATA.

The Telephone Association of Michigan, which represents Ameritech, GTE and the other local providers, quoted this bit of economic research: "AT&T has reduced its prices by $8.521 billion while its annual access charge expenditures fell by $10.299 billion and industry exogenous (external) annual costs fell by $103 million."

Michigan Cable Television Association seems to have disliked Sec. 203 concerning the complaint process: "The concern here is that if a provider or consumer has a complaint against a provider the current language seems to indicate that they must have every bit of information needed for their case, even information which can only be gotten from the defending provider during the complaint process — and under the protection of the PSC." All one sentence.

Our cable friends also wanted to amend something — they fail to say what — to change the number 250,000 to 350,000 because: "Without this amendment cable companies in the state who have been working on what would be the only true facilities-based competitive challenge to Ameritech's local exchange business would be unable to proceed."

The Michigan Public Service Commission, chaired by John G. Strand, notes that SB 722 would overturn its order "regarding intraLATA dialing parity. SB 722 calls for dialing parity only where a waiver of the interexchange restrictions has been granted by the court and there are at least 2 providers of local basic exchange service. With that exception, dialing parity is optional under interexchange restrictions are removed."

Keep in mind that you're not reading legalese in the bill; it is not prepared by long-winded college professors; it is not stream-of-consciousness oratory from a schizophrenic. This is prepared, written testimony submitted by businessmen and an appointed public official.

Ironically, the stated purpose of SB 722 is to benefit the consumer by providing competition. You know — more choices and all that stuff.

Happy choosing!

Ink White demonstrated the best of this business

Obituaries — we call them "obits" in the newsroom — have a certain sparse and predictable linearity to them. Organized with spurious precision around certain dates — birth, marriage, career milestones, death — the good ones provide a reflective reader with enough nuggets of fact around which to construct an appreciation of a good life well spent.

So when I heard last week of the death of a famous Michigan community newspaper publisher, Enoch T. (Ink) White, I was anxious to see the obit.

"The son of Enoch T. White, Sr., and Jacqueline Eggleston, Ink graduated from Lapeer High School, the Asheville School in Asheville, N.C. and the University of Michigan. In 1934, he became editor and publisher of the Gladwin County Record in Gladwin, MI."

Those were the days when the faculty at U-M actually deigned to teach journalism, now regarded as an inferior trade school subject. And those were the days when a young man with energy and fire could get, right out of college, a job as both editor and publisher of a perfectly respectable county seat weekly newspaper.

How many newspaper companies today would take such a chance on a young man, fresh from college? Frankly, not enough.

"In 1945," the obit went on, "he acquired the Clinton County Republican News (later the Clinton County News) and became its editor and publisher until 1965." Clinton is the county just north of Lansing; St. Johns is the county seat.

So, just 10 years out of college, Ink White had saved enough money to evolve beyond employee to proprietor.

And as proprietor, White recognized that his local newspaper had to understand and reflect the essence of the community in order to grow and survive. "Because Clinton County is principally an agricultural area," he wrote in the paper, "we are going to give special attention to the farmer and farm problems."

Beyond defining news coverage in terms of community interest, however, White recognized what all local newspaper folks feel in their bellies: They have an obligation to contribute — editorially and in person — to their communities.

White wrote about how "strong outspoken newspapers in rural areas can help bring about a better understanding of farm problems."

And as the years passed, he erected an enormous presence in Clinton County. He joined the board of directors of the Clinton National Bank and Trust Company and eventually became president. He served on the vestry and as senior warden of the local Episcopal church. He was a member and president of the St. Johns Rotary Club as well as president of the Michigan Press Association. He was chair of the Clinton County Republican Party, and he was elected in 1961 to the state Constitutional Convention that wrote our present constitution.

When I first came into the community newspaper business nearly 30 years ago, a friend of my family said, "Oh, you want to be somebody like Ink White." So it was with some anxiety that my company some years ago acquired Ink White's old paper, the Clinton County News, at that point sadly run down.

I happened to be in St. Johns one day, talking with Pres Odette, Ink White's successor as publisher. "Where's Ink White these days?" I asked.

"Oh, he's still living right here in St. Johns."

"Why don't you ask him if he'd like to write a column for you?" I wondered. And so he did.

I got a note from Pres a while back. "In my 25 years in this business, I've seen very little that generated acceptance and excitement like Ink's column . . . I've been fortunate to be able to work with some of the very best in the business. We just lost one of the best."

So today I write to celebrate the life of a community newspaper man who drove his paper to greatness, who loved and served his community, and whose influence affected his entire state. I hope to God there are many, many more like him.

Our heart-to-heart talk with the University of Michigan Medical Center resulted in a unique program for managing heart disease.

Botsford General Hospital has joined the University of Michigan Medical Center to provide complete care for patients with heart disease.

Botsford is one of the first community hospitals the University of Michigan Medical Center (UMMC) Heart Care Program has partnered with as a Satellite Heart Transplant Clinic.

Patients who are candidates for heart transplant can be clinically evaluated at Botsford and then referred to the University of Michigan Medical Center for surgery. Following heart transplant, the patient returns to Botsford's Satellite Transplant Clinic for ongoing, individualized care from cardiologists who are on staff at both hospitals.

Our shared mission with the University of Michigan Medical Center is to reduce hospital re-admissions and improve the quality of life for patients with chronic heart disease. For more information, please call (810) 471-8870.

So different, yet the same

Next month my brother's taking a plane to Michigan and I'll get to see him once again. After a time gap of nearly 12 years.

That's a long time. When he climbs off the plane next month, I don't know where I'll begin or what I'll say. And the thing is, there are more gaps between us than the one created by the mere passage of time.

First of all, there's the geographical gap, a great big one. You see, my brother lives on the west side. Of America. He can almost see the Pacific Ocean from his kitchen window. From my kitchen window, I see a pacific creek, normally five inches deep, slow-moving and impossible to surf on.

Next, he lives in a big city; at least in my mind, Seattle, Washington, is big. It has tall buildings; that means it's big. I live in a small Michigan town having no tall buildings.

In Seattle, it rains all, all the time. I've heard the dampness and drizzle are endless. And those rivulets running down your back as you load groceries into the car at the market, that'd make me very grouchy. On the other hand, Michigan weather is so much cheerier and humane. The sunshine, snowflakes, blue skies, and the just once-in-a-while rain are far and away — better.

However, Michigan weather makes my brother positively grumpy. All the time we were growing up here in Michigan he complained bitterly

Life and the kindness of strangers

■ Their hold on life is tenuous, and the reasons why as different as night and day. But 3½-year-old Jonathan Crosby and 91-year-old Marie Schaufele have found they have something in common the kindness of strangers.

By Bur Mason
Staff Writer

Bill Brennan/Staff Photographer

Hello there: Still a bit teary-eyed, Jonathan Crosby calmed down enough for his father Joe to introduce him to Marie Schaufele. Johnathan is Community Hospice Services' youngest patient, while Schaufele is the agency's oldest.

"Car, car," Jonathan Crosby wailed as he was carried through the door into Marie Schaufele's Plymouth home. For Jonathan, the choice between the commotion inside and the fall scenery outside was a simple one. "Car," he shouted again and again.

Schaufele could relate to his cries. Seated in an upholstered chair, she has watched the season progress from the confines of her living room, remembering the trips she once took with her senior friends in her car.

At 91, life is tenuous at best for the Plymouth resident. At 3½, the same can be said for the Livonia youngster. Years apart and with little in common, they came together one late fall afternoon for a purpose: to do what can be done with a little help from some "friends."

"It's been a godsend," said Lynn Crosby of the "friends" at Community Hospice Services who help care for Jonathan. "Hospice came and opened up a whole new life for us. It gave me a new life."

Jonathan, the third of four sons, has osteogenesis imperfecta, a congenital bone disease. Jonathan lacks collagen in his bones and connective tissue, and as a result his bones are as fragile as "potato chips."

Collagen is the glue that holds things together, and without it Jonathan has failed to grow and thrive. At 3½, he isn't that much larger than the day he was born. His limbs are stunted, while his hands and head seem to grow.

Doctors believe that spontaneous mutation caused the condition, discovered when Lynn was 8½ months pregnant. At the time, Lynn and husband Joe were told their son would not survive the birth process and if he did, he would live only 20 minutes.

He survived birth, although every bone in his body was broken, and has done far better than the doctors' dire predictions of a year to live that are extended with each new birthday.

Year to year

"The doctors don't know what to tell us," Lynn said. "At first they gave him a year to live, then another year. They're not able to give us the hope they give others."

Because his bones can't bear his weight and he is susceptible to cardiopulmonary problems, Jonathan's view of life is from flat on his back or being held by his parents. They move him around as if in a well-rehearsed ballet, careful to avoid even the slightest bump that could break a bone. They are up several times a night to change his sweat-soaked bedding and to move him to relieve the

Managing work, family is possible

■ When each family member's role and expectations are determined, then conflicts can be identified. Conflicts can result in guilt, depression, tension in a marriage, or problems on the job.

Ask any family today whether their life is hectic, and chances are, they'll agree. Many are especially feeling the stress of managing work and family responsibilities.

National Family Week will be celebrated by Family Service Detroit and Wayne County and more than 500 family serving organizations across North America Nov. 19-25. The "Celebrate Families!" campaign will focus on everyday issues such as balancing work and family. Family Service is a United Way agency offering family-focused counseling at 11 offices in Wayne County, including Canton, Livonia and Westland.

Between 1970 and 1990, the proportion of married women in the labor force with preschool-age children nearly doubled, from 30 percent to 59 percent. In 1990, both parents worked in 70 percent of families with children.

Whether a family is made up of a single parent or two parents, it isn't easy to balance the responsibilities of work and family. But there are strategies families can use to ease the tension, according to Brenda Plecha, family life education program manager for Family Service.

"By finding out why we feel the pressures of balancing work and family, we can decide what we can do about it," said Plecha, the mother of three children. "Sometimes, we need to take stock of our roles as a parent, spouse or employee so we can decide the importance of each role. Then we can ask ourselves, 'Is it important to you or your family or to everyone that you be the person to fulfill that role?' "

When each family member's role and expectations are determined, then conflicts can be identified. Conflicts can result in guilt, depression, tension in a marriage or problems on the job.

Plecha offers several ideas to help families deal with the pressures of coping with work and family responsibilities.

"We need to learn what's good enough," said Plecha. "Striving for perfection guarantees you'll always feel the pressure to do it all."

Time management strategies like dividing up a big task into small jobs for each family member can be helpful as well as doing more than one thing at a time.

Organization also is a key to reducing stress. Plecha suggests using a family calendar to track where family members are and what they're doing. This reduces missed appointments and the stress of finding out about events at the last moment.

Household chores and child care or elder care arrangements can also be organized to make family life smoother. Plecha advises making adjustments one at a time, so that the impact of changes can be evaluated.

"Defining our roles and expectations helps us to focus on the most important things in our lives, such as spending time with our family," Plecha said.

In conjunction with National Family Week, Family Service is offering tips on balancing work and family responsibilities. "Work and Family — Striking a Balance" is available by calling (313) 961-1584 or writing to Family Service, 220 Bagley, Suite 700, Detroit 48226-1411. Quantities are limited.

National Family Week is organized by Family Service America, an international nonprofit association dedicated to strengthening family life and is being sponsored by the Whirlpool Foundation.

Striking a balance

Harried and stressed-out parents think in terms of work vs. family. Busy and organized parents think in terms of work and family.

Try using the following tips to organize your life and balance your responsibilities:

■ Set reasonable goals and expectations for yourself at home and at work.

■ Ask yourself the "what will happen" question. For example, if you're pressed for time, what will happen if you don't clean the garage today?

■ Don't try to be perfect. An orderly house is nice, but there are times when the dishes can wait until later.

■ Hold family meetings to talk about issues that affect the family as a whole. Make sure everyone gets a chance to talk, especially the children.

■ Maintain a calendar of activities so that everyone knows what's coming up and what they have to do.

■ Set aside family time each day to talk to your partner and children about what's important in their lives and your life.

■ Plan at least one family meal a day. Family rituals — movie night on Fridays, pizza on Wednesdays — are fun and foster a sense of family togetherness.

■ Spend one-on-one time with each child.

■ Streamline your life and set priorities.

■ Know your limits. Learn to say no to unnecessary infringements on your time.

■ Share household responsibilities and tasks. Younger children like charts that list everyone's chores.

■ Cook in quantities so you have easy meals available when you're pressed for time.

■ Find safe, dependable child care. Take your time evaluating care providers in the beginning; it will pay dividends later. Develop a plan for backup care.

Remember, if your home is running smoothly, you'll feel better at work, and if things are humming along nicely at work, you'll feel better at home.

about the weather. He was always such a grouch about it. So grouchy, I changed his name from the one Mom and Dad gave him, which was Soren, to "Sorehead".

Anyway, I'm pretty sure my brother and I won't be talking about the weather when he gets here — too controversial. So what will we talk about?

I don't know. He's eight years older than I am. And when he left home at 18, I was 10. And in Soren's world, I'm still 10. Which is going to make my having four children and another on the way very hard to explain.

And that's another topic best avoided during next month's gathering: children. Soren and his wife have no children. And at this stage of the game, I don't think they ever will. And I'm pretty sure their not having children was a choice.

Historically, his attitude toward children, at least from where I stood when I was a child, wasn't really too all-embracing or very warm. Soren would make endless fun of my looks or ignore me or throw couch pillows at me. And then nearly 12 years ago, when he last saw me, I had just given birth to my first child. Granted, he didn't throw couch pillows at baby Tony, but, while I held my tiny infant in my arms, Soren shook hands with the newborn and introduced himself and then, looking very uncomfortable, excused himself and left the room in search of a sandwich.

So let's see. The weather's off the list. Offspring is off the list. Even a pleasantry such as "You look great, sis," is out of the question. In his mind, I'll be looking every bit like a Thanksgiving Day parade balloon, inflated and lopsided and unable to steer myself properly. Because by the time I see him I will be a good seven months pregnant. And he's the one, back in '68, who thought Twiggy could stand to lose a few.

For a living, my brother's a movie reviewer for one of the Washington dailies, and he interviews family movie stars and goes to exclusive screenings and occasionally appears on TV to review movies. A picture of him, all enlarged and everything, has been seen on billboards in Seattle and on city buses. Last year in his top 10 movie picks at the very top of the list was "Pulp Fiction."

Now, my favorite movie of '94 was "The Lion King." Actually, it was a tie between that and "Forrest Gump." And I rented both movies. I didn't see "Pulp Fiction" because I heard it was really, really violent. And I'm not so sure I want to rent a movie like that and bring it into my house where there are so many children about.

My brother has very sophisticated and well-thought-out political opinions which he expresses fluently and persuasively. I, on the other hand, wrote a column recently about cleaning macaroni-and cheese off my kitchen floor during the televised reports of the Million Man March and I saw a connection between the march and the macaroni.

I don't know. It seems we've nothing in common.

Unless, of course, you consider that we both have brown eyes. And we both have one sister and a Mom and Dad, who are the same for both of us. And we used to have the same last name. And we both eat and sleep. And last but not least, we'll always be family to one another.

Nothing can change that. Not now, not ever. And that, I suppose, will be just the thing to bridge the gap.

stiffness from lying in one position.

Cautious about their son, the family at first did very little. Lynn did look into an early intervention program that had an infants group, but didn't like it. She found it hard to relate to the other mothers' problems.

"The first year of his life, it was hard to look at other babies," Lynn said. "For the first year, I was going through a grieving process for the birth of my child. I was mad for a long time; I wanted to know what I did to deserve this."

"It's humbled me," added Joe. "I thought I could take on the world and I had this plan and everything that went with it. Then Jonathan came along and put it all in its place. Now I know about one day at a time."

As much as possible, Jonathan's life is filled with family activities. He was there when the Crosbys posed for a family photo — "a big accomplishment," according to Lynn. He's there in the morning to see his older brothers Stephen, 9, and Daniel, 6, off to school.

They in turn share in his delight of watching "Barney" and hearing the theme song for "Fresh Prince of Bel Air." Stephen makes Jonathan laugh with his repertoire of funny faces, although he knows that too much laughing can lead to hiccups and possible fractures. And Daniel gladly turns on Sega for him. Jonathan enjoys the noises the computer games make.

"We include him in as much of the family life as we can," Joe said. "We don't keep him in a bubble."

He was even a part of the decision to have another child, even though there was a chance the mutation could happen again. According to Lynn, they wanted Jonathan to have another playmate. When a healthy Joseph came along, he identified with him immediately.

The Crosbys cared for Jonathan without help up until April 1994, when they turned to CHS. It was hard, they admit, to let the cadre of workers and volunteers into their home and trust them to care for Jonathan the way they do. They found that the hospice people had the right stuff.

"They do everything the way I do," Lynn said. "It's beautiful what they do, and they're beautiful people. They're really loving to him."

That right stuff has also been a godsend for Schaufele's daughter-in-law Phyllis. She admits it was "kind of hard" caring for Marie, who has unstable intractable congestive heart failure.

Phyllis lives next door to Marie and decided to give CHS a try six months ago at the behest of the doctor. Even with all of her medications, Marie still has chest pains and at the time, was being rushed to the hospital emergency room about every two weeks.

"The ambulance driver sure got to know us," Phyllis said. "We go by what the doctor says and he tells her, 'You're a tough old bird.' "

Marie came to Michigan from Bowling Green as a child. Most of her life has been spent on farms on North Territorial and later Sheldon roads.

A good life

She married her husband, John, at age 22 and they moved into their Joy Road home — ordered through the Sears and Roebuck catalog and built by John and a cousin — soon after.

When John died 46 years ago, Marie was 52. Within a few years she decided to attend Cleary College, where she studied bookkeeping. She later switched to the nursing school at the old St. Joe's, spending six months in the classroom before working on the floors.

"I was the oldest, I imagine," said Marie, recalling her days as a student. "My favorite job was working with the older people. They were happy you would do anything for them."

Marie worked for a while at St. Joe's, then moved to the former Maybury Hospital, where she was allowed to work an extra six months to get a pension.

She kept busy in her retirement with her "lady friends" until her health took a turn for the worse. Her days now are spent watching television, doing a bit of reading — "My eyes aren't so good anymore" — just sitting, or walking back and forth to the kitchen for exercise.

"The worst thing was giving up my independence," Marie said. "I had three friends who were widows and they were always glad to see me coming."

"She went on all kinds of senior trips, her and her lady friends," added Phyllis. "Ma was the only one who drove and she'd take them everywhere."

Phyllis tended to Marie's personal needs, while the latter's son Kenneth saw to the cooking and baking. Retired and living with his mother, he also has taken on the cleaning chores — "He's a better housekeeper than I ever was," Phyllis chuckled.

The hospice team has helped with Marie's medical side, handling the blood and lab work that needs to be done and coordinating changes in her medication — 10-12 pills a day — with her physician.

"I don't know what I would do without them," Phyllis said, watching her mother-in-law from across the room.

Witty writer has nice, tactful way with people

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

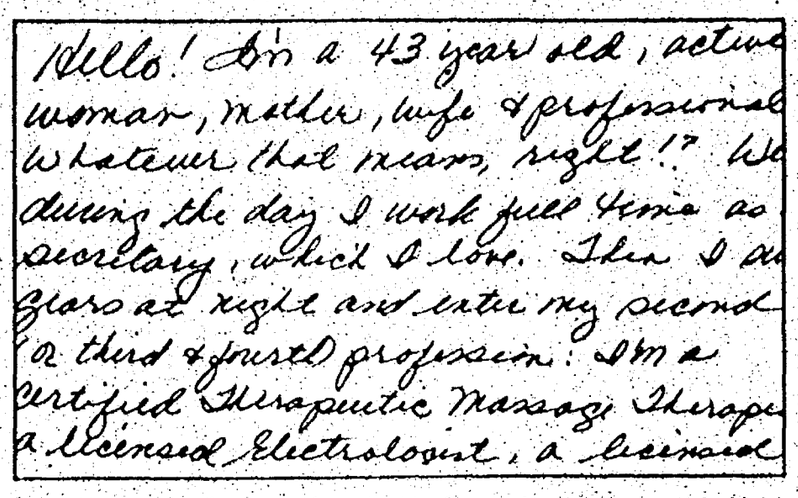
LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene,

Hello! I am a 43-year-old, active woman, mother, wife and professional. Whatever that means, right!? Well, during the day I work full time as a secretary, which I love. Then I switch gears at night and enter my second (or third and fourth) professions. I'm a certified therapeutic massage therapist, a licensed electrologist, a licensed hair dresser and work out of a lovely salon in Westland three nights a week. One night a week I do massage out of my home.

Thanks for reading my letter. I hope I will see my handwriting analyzed in your column. I very much enjoy reading your work.

J.D.,
Westland



Hello! I'm a 43 year old, active woman, mother, wife & professional. Whatever that means, right!? We during the day I work full time as secretary, which I love. Then I as gears at night and enter my second & third & fourth profession: I'm a certified Therapeutic Massage Therapi a licensed Electrologist, a licensed

Here is the handwriting of a woman whose ability to express herself is excellent! She is a glib conversationalist with the ability to be tactful and avoid hurting other people's feelings.

Literary aptitude is suggested in her handwriting. Words and ideas just seem to flow for her. Her sense of humor is alive and well. She can probably exchange witty retorts with the best of them.

She has a nice way with people, especially those she needs. Augmenting this is spontaneity, adaptability, kindness and gentleness.

To avoid friction and promote peace, she has learned it may be necessary to acquiesce or appease. And this she does.

Our writer reasons with logic. She does not often rely on intuition for her answers. Ostensibly she has a strong need to be right.

Positive and upbeat would describe her approach to life. This amount of optimism always suggests faith in a higher being.

I doubt if she is a person who takes time to sit down to plan out her life. She is more inclined to do the planning as she goes along in her busy days. She knows how to develop alternatives in planning and problem solving.

Her main orientation leans toward her own independent projects, which often pertain to money. Seemingly there are many things that she wants. Is she substituting possessions for love?

The writer describes herself as an active woman, and her handwriting certainly confirms this. I wonder if she has more hours in her day than I do. It is interesting to note that she can keep her day quite well organized. She is a self-starter with progressive tendencies.

Seemingly she may still be carrying around some emotional baggage from early life. Her self-esteem tends to fluctuate at times. The father's influence appears to have had more impact than the mother's, and possibly some discord with both. This young woman would be interesting, helpful and enjoyable as a friend.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Due to the volume of mail, personal replies are not possible. However, objective feedback is welcome.

RELIGION CALENDAR

Items for the religion calendar should be submitted no later than noon Friday for the next Thursday's issue.

■ SELLING BOOKS
The youths of Westland Free Methodist Church are selling Entertainment books now through Friday, Dec. 1. The books cost $40 and offer hundreds of discounts and two-for-one offers at local restaurants and merchants. Money raised will support the teens who will be attending a youth rally in Chicago. For more information, call pastor Ron at (313) 728-2600.

St. Aidan is also selling Entertainment books for $40. Proceeds will be used to send members to the annual CYO Rainbow Youth Conference. Books can be purchased in the parish office, Farmington Road in Livonia. For more information, call (313) 425-5950.

■ CLASSIC PLAY
The classic American play "You Can't Take It With You," by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, is coming to St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile Road, Livonia, at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 17, and Saturday, Nov. 18. The play is presented by Paul's Players, a new group made up primarily of church members. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. For more information, call (313) 422-1470.

■ NIGHT OF THEATER
Single Point Ministries has planned a night at the dinner theater production of "Holy Matrimony" at Genitti's Hole in the Wall on Main Street in Northville Friday, Nov. 17, and the music of Phillips, Craig and Dean at Showcase at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 1, in Knox Hall. The cost is $5 and dinner is at 6:30 p.m. (child care provided).

For more information, call (313) 422-1854.

■ 'THE UPPER ROOM'
Dale and Charlene Sherry will perform "The Upper Room" during the 11 a.m. service Sunday, Nov. 19, at Livonia Alpha Baptist Church, 28051 W. Chicago, Livonia. The drama depicts confused disciples who only came to understand when they witnessed the appearance of the risen lord. The Rev. Sherry uses special sound and lighting effects while dressed in the biblical costume of the first century. A free-will offering will be received for the ministry of the Rev. and Mrs. Sherry. For more information, call (313) 421-6300.

■ RADIO SHOWS
The radio series "What Is This Christian Science and Who Are These Christian Scientists?" is being broadcast at 9:30 a.m. Sundays on WAAM-AM 1600. Topics include "Sisters and Mothers in Christian Science" on Nov. 19 and "Bible Healings Today, Part 2" on Nov. 26. The series also can be heard at 8:30 a.m. Sundays on CKLW-AM 800. The series is produced by the Christian Science Committee on Publication for Michigan and sponsored by local Christian Science churches. For more information, call 1-800-886-1212.

■ FREE FILM
"Red Runs The River," a 90-minute color film set during the Civil War, will be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 19, at Grace Baptist Church, 28440 Lyndon (at Harrison Street), Livonia. Though dealing primarily with the life of Richard Stoddert Ewell, a confederate general, "Red Runs The River" reveals the personalities of several confederate policy makers. Generals "Stonewall" Jackson and "Jeb" Stuart figure prominently in the film's story, which serves as an in-depth look into the soul of a man at war with God. Known as Christian gentlemen, these men were often scorned by the bolsterous Ewell. The Confederate and Union skirmishes and the roar of cannons punctuate the constant conflict between Jackson and Ewell. The film is open to the public without charge. For more information, call (313) 425-6215.

■ FAMILY DINNER
A family spaghetti dinner will be served 5-7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 17, at Aldersgate United Methodist Church, 10000 Beech Daly, Redford. The cost will be $4 for adults, $2 for children ages 6-12 years and free for children 5 years and under. Sponsored by the Evangelism Work Area, the dinner will include spaghetti, tossed salad, dessert, coffee, tea and milk.

■ SECURITY SEMINAR
Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard (off West Chicago between Farmington and Merriman roads), Livonia, is having a personal and home security seminar at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 21, in the fellowship hall. The service is free; cash donations will be accepted. For more information, call (313) 432-2687.

■ CHRISTIAN WOMEN
The deadline is Thursday, Nov. 16, for the Metro West Christian Women's After 5 dinner party 6:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 21, at the Holiday Inn, I-275 and Six Mile, Livonia. The cost is $11. Kelly Connell will demonstrate Coach handbags during "Carry It All," while keyboardist-vocalist Kim Mooree will "Carry a Tune." Lynn Karidis of Farmington Hills will continue the theme with her speech on "Carry a Thought." For reservations, call Jan Paver at (810) 349-7404 or Gerry Johnson at (313) 464-6433.

■ ST. ANDREW'S DAY
St. James Presbyterian Church will have a St. Andrew's Day worship and dinner celebration Sunday, Nov. 19. The service will be at 10 a.m. followed by dinner at 11:30 a.m. The St. Andrew Society Band with bagpiper will perform at the church service and entertain at dinner. Dinner costs $10 for those 12 years and older, $4 for children 4-11 years old, and free for children 3 years and under. St. James is at 25350 W. Six Mile, Redford. For more information, call (313) 534-7730 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

■ THANKSGIVING SERVICES
St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church will have its Thanksgiving worship services at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 22, and 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 23, at the church, 17810 Farmington Road, Livonia.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Plymouth will have its Thanksgiving service at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 23, at the church, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth.

The service is open to the community and dedicated to the sharing of gratitude. This year's Thanksgiving lesson-sermon will include Mary Baker Eddy's statement in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "Spirit blesses man, but man cannot 'tell whence it cometh.' By it the sick are healed, the sorrowing are comforted and the sinning reformed. These are the effects of one universal God, the invisible good dwelling in eternal Science."

Child care will be provided for children too young to attend, and no collection will be taken.

Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church of Livonia will have its Thanksgiving eve worship at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 22. The service will feature uplifting music by the Christ Our Savior choir, the Cherub and Choristers choirs, Sunday school children, instrumentalists, and handbell choirs. Participants are encouraged to bring a canned food item for the food ministry of St. Andrew the Redeemer in Detroit. A nursery will be provided. The church is lo-

Santa's Arrival Parade

Sunday, November 19, 1995

He's making a list and checking it twice...

Come see Santa arrive at Laurel Park Place in his elegant, Victorian-style horsedrawn sleigh at the Six Mile entrance near D. Dennison's and Max & Erma's at 1:00 p.m. Join Santa and his special guests as they bring the magic and excitement of the Holiday Season to Laurel Park Place.

Winners of the Laurel Park Place Santa's Helper for a Day Contest will be among those on hand to welcome Santa, as they ride with him in his sleigh and are a part of all the arrival festivities.

Capture the magic of this Holiday Season with a keepsake photo taken with Santa beginning November 19th through December 24th in the Center Court:
November 19th: 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. • Monday-Thursday: 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.
Friday-Saturday: 11:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. • Sunday: 12:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.
December 24th: 12:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Be sure to catch the spirit of the Holiday Season at Laurel Park Place!

Family Tradition.

Every family has its traditions. Gathering for Sunday dinner. Marking anniversaries and celebrating birthdays. Unfortunately, some families share more than happy times . . . they also share the risk of certain illnesses.
Breast cancer--which now strikes one in nine American women—is among them. If your mother, grandmother, aunt or sister has been diagnosed with this disease, your doctor probably has explained the added risk you face. But unlike women in past generations, you can put time and technology on your side.
We at the Marian Women's Center, St. Mary Hospital, encourage you to see your doctor regularly whatever your age and, once you reach 40, to see us for a mammogram. Our mammography services are designed to give you peace of mind by bringing together certified radiologists and staff, personalized education and high-tech imaging equipment approved by the American College of Radiologists.
Make mammography and regular breast exams a new family tradition. For more facts on mammography services and other programs at the Marian Women's Center just call us at (313) 591-3314.

JET PRESENTS

Diary of Anne Frank

BY KEELY WYGONIK

Julie Van Dusen of Lake Orion has kept a diary since fifth grade, but her story is very different from the story of the girl she portrays in "The Diary of Anne Frank," opening Nov. 19 at the Aaron DeRoy Studio Theatre in the Jewish Community Center, West Bloomfield.

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of the finding of Anne's diary in 1945 after World War II ended, JET is presenting "The Diary of Anne Frank" by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett.

"This is a story about eight people who had to go into hiding because they were Jews," said director Pat Ansuini. "And about the dear people who took care of them, and risked their lives to help."

"They were neither heroes or demons. They were ordinary people, and this should never happen to ordinary people," said JET artistic director Evelyn Orbach of Bloomfield Hills who portrays Mrs. Van Daan.

"Diary of Anne Frank" begins with the discovery of Anne's diary, and flashes back to the time when Anne and the others – two families and a single man – hid from Nazis in the annex of a building Otto Frank, Anne's father, owned in Amsterdam. Otto's business was making spices, and pectin for jam.

"The audience gets to see how they lived. It's a statement of how they couldn't leave. It was one long two years," said Ansuini. "They're living on stage. There are no blackouts in JET's production of "Anne Frank" except for the prologue and epilogue. The lights are on all the time.

"The people in the cast reread the diary and other related literature to be as grounded in truth as possible," said Mary Davis, production stage manager.

Dr. Fred Lessing, a psychologist and Holocaust survivor, met with the cast on Nov. 5 to share his wartime memories. Lessing, who now lives in West Bloomfield, was four when the war started, six when his family went into hiding in Amsterdam, 11 when it ended, and 12 when he came to the United States.

"He was one of the "Hidden Children," " said Davis. "He, his two brothers, mom and dad all survived. The first place he was hidden was on the same block where Anne lived with her family prior to their going into hiding so he's very familiar with the story and circumstances of this play." "He said his childhood ended with the war," said Orbach. "He talked about the terror he lived with."

Anne Frank is 13 when she goes into hiding, and 15 when she and the others are discovered and taken to the Nazi concentration camp at Bergen-Belsen. Only Mr. Frank survived.

"Anne speaks to everyone. She's intelligent, energetic, and wise. "It's a powerful story," said Van Dusen. "I reread my diary so I would remember what it was like to be 13."

"The message is that it could happen to anyone," said Ansuini. "You can't help that you're born – you can't help what you're born as."

Ansuini wanted to show the audience how the cast lived, but she didn't want anyone to make judgments about them. "I tried to present these people as real human beings," she said.

Robert Grossman portrays Mr. Van Daan. "He was a spice merchant. He's a man who is used to the good life and has nothing in his background to prepare him for being locked up like an animal for two years. He has nice clothes, a pretty wife, and a teenage son. As the confinement begins to wear on everyone he's less patient, and begins to come apart in his way. He begins to steal food, he can't help himself."

"We're always busy," said Orbach. "We're always doing something. Pat has encouraged us to behave as if we're living in the place. We have to be busy – everyone sews, reads, plays cards, studies to fill up the time. We have to eat, sleep, and commemorate holidays against the backdrop of what is going on outside."

The audience, like the people in the annex, hears, but doesn't see what's happening. "You hear street sounds, church bells, and the Nazis after they take over Amsterdam," said Orbach.

Her character Mrs. Van Daan, like her husband, was not prepared for these difficult circumstances.

"A lot of people say she's the mean one, materialistic, but in a way that's not fair. She was always well groomed and took wonderful care of her house. She had lovely things and took care of her husband and son. Suddenly she's in a position where none of that is important. She hangs on to a fur coat her father gave her. Maybe she is materialistic, but it's not fair that she should be murdered."

Anne's message is – that in spite of everything that's happened, she believes that people are basically good.

"It's my job to enlighten," said Ansuini. "Through enlightenment comes hope. What's hopeful is that we keep trying to stop these things from happening again."

The cast also includes Marureen Dorrington of Beverly Hills, (Mrs. Frank), Robert Starko (Mr. Frank), Cassandra McCarthy (Margot, Anne's older sister), Daniel Kahn of West Bloomfield, (Peter Van Daan), Chris Ann Voudowkis (Miep), Joe Bailey of Rochester (Mr. Kraler) and Marty Bufalini (Dussel).

ARTISTIC EVENT

'Love of Lace' keeps ancient craft alive

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

The history of lace fascinates Shirley Coe. She and members of the Great Lakes Lace Group work to keep the tradition of handmade lace alive.

The group will present "Love of Lace VI," Nov. 18 at the Livonia Civic Center Library so lace making does not become a forgotten art. The concept behind the event is to pass on the knowledge of a craft that held garments together long before the invention of buttons and fastenings.

"We're trying to educate people about lace making. We'll have vendors from Texas to Colorado selling supplies, and a variety of lace makers doing lace. We'd love to have them come and watch us demonstrate and maybe even have a go at it," said Coe, a 37-year resident of Redford Township who will demonstrate the art of making bobbin lace on a pillow.

"I especially enjoy teaching children how to make lace. It only takes about two hours to do a bookmark.

Bobbin lace making uses an off-loom weaving technique. It's like any other craft. Once you know the movements of your bobbin and thread then it's doing."

Bobbin lace and tatted lace are the two most popular forms of lace making in this area.

Bobbin lace evolved in Belgium from netting, examples of which date back to the Egyptian tombs of 1,000 B.C. It is made by twisting and plaiting threads together after winding them individually onto bobbins. A parchment pattern pinned to a pillow serves as a guide in creating the design.

Coe became interested in lace making some 15 years ago while watching a demonstration at the Michigan State Fair. She counts her daughter's wedding veil, bouquet and bobbin lace garter among her most prized creations. The 63-year-old grandmother of eight is passing the craft on to the next generation of her family.

At age six, Coe's grandson Brandon won first place at the Michigan State Fair for a handmade bobbin lace bookmark made in the shape of a snake. Now eight, he's learning to make lace by tatting with a shuttle.

"Lace making started out with peasants making lace for the rich. That's when women started putting lace on their underwear so they could wear the lace they made but no one would see it," said Coe, a lace maker for 15 years.

"Most of the lace was done in Europe. The immigrants brought their lace with them to this country but it sort of died out because there were more important tasks in need of doing."

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, Art Institute of Chicago, and Victoria and Albert Museum in London maintain collections of fine old lace.

Since little lace has survived from the 15th and 16th centuries because it disintegrates with age, knowledge of its history depends on paintings and woodcuts.

Engravings from 1580 after Martin de Vos show a young girl working bobbins on a pillow to make lace. European painters Rembrandt van Rijn and Anthony Van Dyck recorded the wearing of lace as did Jan Vermeer of Delft who painted "The Lacemaker," an oil of a Belgium girl posed with a lace making pillow on her lap.

In America, bobbin lace making followed English traditions becoming known as early as the 17th century. At one time, a cottage industry flourished in Ipswich, Mass. where lace makers produced 42,000 yards of silk lace annually. By the late 1800s, hand made lace went the way of the horse and buggy due to the invention of lace making machinery.

"Love of Lace VI"

When: 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 18

Where: Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road east of Farmington.

Admission: Free. For more information call Kathleen Campbell, (313) 483-5693.

Founded in 1976, the Great Lakes Lace Group strives to keep this time-honored craft in the public view. Members, including Coe who is membership chairman, take turns traveling as far away as Ohio to demonstrate at schools in period costume as a way of introducing the next generation to lace making.

Most recently, they also demonstrated at the American Stitches Expo in Novi, and at the Michigan State Fair. This year they volunteered more than 180 hours at the fairgrounds. The group, numbering around 300 members from Canada to Traverse City and all locations in between, were at the heart of the 1987 publication of U.S. postage stamps featuring lace designs chosen from a nationwide competition. The winners for all four stamps were from Michigan.

Doll maker loves Victorian era

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Plymouth doll maker Beatrice Roderick loves reproducing porcelain dolls from the Victorian era and china painting their translucent faces.

She combines both talents in a display titled "Victorian Christmas" continuing through Nov. 30 in the second floor showcases at the Livonia Civic Center Library.

Sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, the exhibit gives a taste of the kinds of Victorian home accents and gift items (ornaments, Santas and hand-painted Christmas decor) awaiting visitors to Roderick's shop Les Bebe de Bea, Ltd. at 774 Starweather in Plymouth's historic Old Village.

Located in a red brick turn-of-the-century home, the shop features reproduction antique porcelain dolls made by Roderick as well as other accomplished doll makers like Lynn West.

Bears and angels abound here amidst scents of rosebud and lavender, but it's Roderick's porcelain dolls that bring the little shop to life.

ARTISTIC EXpressions

"I like doing the dolls because they're reproductions of antiques. Some of the originals because they're so rare run to $30,000 today," said Roderick, a doll maker for nearly 20 years.

"Doll making is quite a challenge and fun to see if I can do this and fulfilling because I did."

Roderick initially studied china painting in 1974 while living in Conneticut after a two year stint in hobby ceramics failed to satisfy her artistic cravings. She made her first porcelain dolls in order to help pay for the cost of china painting lessons and supplies. Along the way she learned many noted porcelain artists lived in Michigan. She wished she could study there. Then in 1977, her husband, Bob, was transferred here.

By 1978, she was teaching doll making in the craft education program at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Historical Museum. Encouraged by the response to these classes she began teaching in her studio. This led to her and Bob opening Les Bebe de Bea, Ltd. where she teaches five classes a week.

During the past 15 years, Roderick's dolls and those of her students consistently win top honors in doll making competitions.

In the showcases, ornaments made from the heads of porcelain dolls are decorated with silk flowers and antique laces reflecting the Victorian era. At her shop, an entire tree is filled with these ornaments. Examples of her award-winning portraits on porcelain reveal a love for painting.

Linda Ann Chomin of Canton Township is a freelance writer specializing in the visual arts. Her Artistic Expressions column appears weekly in the Arts & Entertainment section of The Observer Newspapers.

■ FUTURES FOR CHILDREN

Help Native American children this holiday season by buying ornaments created by Native Americans at Native West Gallery in Plymouth.

All residuals from the sale of the ornaments benefits "Futures For Children," an organization perpetuating three community programs affecting the lives of 80,000 American Indians.

Two ornaments are being released in 1995. A turtle ornament, an important figure in Native American culture, symbolizes Futures For Children's slow development. Incorporated into the design is the group's logo of a boy and girl encircled by the warmth of the sun.

The second ornament created by Anthony Lovato of the Santo Domingo Pueblo features a traditional wedding vase which symbolizes two people becoming one. An ear of corn and the Futures' logo on the vase represent all of the world's children held in the embrace of the sun. It reminds us to keep children at the center of all we do.

Each hand-crafted ornament is made from lead-free American pewter. Both ornaments can easily be transformed into a pendant by the addition of a chain. They cost $20 each.

Native West Gallery is at 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. For more information about the ornaments, call (313) 455-8838.

■ YOUNG POTTERS COMPETE

Michigan potters ages 20 to 30, as of May 1, 1996, can win up to $500 in a competition sponsored by the Mid-Michigan Chapter of the National Society of Arts and Letters.

Deadline for submitting application materials is Jan. 5.

For complete information, rules, and an entry form (you must be a resident or student living in Michigan), contact Doni Lystra, 875 Scio Church Road, Ann Arbor 48104, or call (313) 663-5915. Or Kathleen B. Maly, 2512 Country Village Court, Ann Arbor 48103, or call (313) 995-3756.

The First Place winner will attend the NSAL convention/exhibition in St. Louis, Missouri May 16-19 with all expenses paid. Thirty winners from the chapter will go on to compete for national awards totaling more than $10,000, and a master class given by national judges David Shaner, Cynthia Bringle and Robert Turner and honoree Ruth Duckworth.

Thanksgiving travelers head for home

The number of Michiganians who hit the roads and the skies during the upcoming 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday weekend will equal or slightly surpass last year's levels, according to AAA Michigan.

"Traditionally, about 20 percent of Michigan residents — or 1.8 million people — take a trip of 50 miles or more during the upcoming holiday weekend," said AAA Michigan Travel Director Bill Best. "That includes residents driving to grandmother's house up north for dinner as well as those flying home for the holiday."

Since Thanksgiving is primarily spent with family and friends, no one destination is surfacing as the only holiday "hot spot," Best said. But airline bookings to most domestic destinations have been brisk.

"For those not visiting relatives, Florida and Caribbean bookings have been high, as they always are during the winter months," Best said. "Las Vegas is also popular destination this holiday because of the inexpensive four-day charters available."

The best airfare deals still available for Thanksgiving may be for those willing to travel during off-peak times, such as Thanksgiving Day or the day after the holiday. Travelers are urged to scan newspapers or on-line computer services daily for sales or airfare wars. They shouldn't forget to check with their travel agent, he added.

Detroit Metropolitan Airport is expected to be congested during the holiday weekend, particularly on the Tuesday and Wednesday before (Nov. 21 and 22), and the following Sunday (Nov. 26). The Auto Club urges travelers to arrive at the airport at least 1½ hours before their flight to find parking and check baggage. Metro Airport maintains a 24-hour parking hotline (1-800-642-1978) and offers updates on radio dial 920 am when travelers are within three-to-four miles of the airport.

AAA Michigan also offers these tips for holiday fliers:

- Carry a photo I.D. Security has been increased at airports, and passengers ages 18 and over should be prepared to present identification at the ticket counter or at the boarding jetway.
- Limit luggage to one suitcase and one carry-on bag. Do not wrap gifts until arriving at your destination, as they may be opened for inspection at the airport. Pack valuables, such as medicine and airline tickets for the return flight, in the carry-on bag.
- To avoid long check-in lines, get a boarding pass from the airline or travel agent ahead of your flight date, and check luggage at the curb when you arrive at the airport.
- If picking up or dropping off someone at the airport, park in the short-term or deck lots instead of idling in front of the terminals. Curb congestion backs up traffic and delays everyone.

If You Want A Low Airfare In Detroit, You'll Have To Fly To Atlanta.

The Good, The Bad, And The Ugly News About Northwest's Airfares In Detroit.

Why are airfares to Atlanta so much lower than they are to other cities? Because ValuJet Airlines flies there. In fact, since ValuJet began serving Detroit, Northwest Airline's average fare to Atlanta has fallen from $195 to $102.* That's the good news.

The bad news is that fares to cities to which ValuJet doesn't fly are as high as ever. To see what we mean, take a glance at the chart below. (It isn't a pretty sight.)

DESTINATION	AIR MILES FROM DETROIT	NORTHWEST'S LOWEST / HIGHEST FARES	VALUJET'S LOWEST / HIGHEST FARES
ATLANTA	594 MILES	$69 / $366	$69 / $119
BOSTON	632 MILES	$182 / $430	NO SERVICE
MINNEAPOLIS	528 MILES	$198 / $470	NO SERVICE
NEW YORK	501 MILES	$148 / $371	NO SERVICE

ValuJet Makes The Difference In Airfares.

If air miles aren't the difference in airfares, what is? Obviously, it's ValuJet. And we're working to bring Detroit more low-airfare choices soon. In the meantime, you can connect through Atlanta on ValuJet to 14 cities - including seven in Florida. And you'll always get "Low Fares Everyday, Everywhere We Fly,"™ because that's the ValuJet promise.

'Les Miserables' fails to improve on Hugo

JOHN MONAGHAN

The new film version of "Les Miserables" opens not with the music of Andrew Lloyd Webber but with a waltz. It's New Year's Eve, 1899, as aristocratic dancers spin around a ballroom and into what they hope will be a bright new century.

If this all sounds a bit foreign to fans of Victor Hugo's 1842 novel, it should. Writer/director Claude Lelouch ("A Man and a Woman") doesn't merely retell the classic story of heroism and justice. He transports it from the French Revolution to the first half of the 20th century in an epic statement about how Hugo's themes occur time and time again.

Whether or not Lelouch's concept improves upon the original story is debatable. For all its noble intentions, "Les Miserables" is a visually arresting but preachy melodrama that falls short when trying to transport Hugo's improbable coincidences and fated characters into a more modern setting.

Our hero Henri Fortin (Jean-Paul Belmondo) realizes fairly late in life that much of his experience has paralleled the characters in the book. His father was wrongly tried for killing a count, sending him and his mother into the hands of an abusive tavern owner who turned the woman into a prostitute, the boy into a boxer.

Henri makes the Hugo connection from a man selling books in front of the Eiffel Tower. Since Henri can't read, he gets anyone he can find to tell him the story. These include a Jewish family trying to flee the Nazis to a French policeman and Nazi collaborator who mirrors the villainous Javert.

As the spiritual embodiment of Jean Valjean, Henri becomes a French resistance fighter and actually participates in the D-Day Invasion at Normandy. When a seaside bunker keeps the Allies from landing on the beach head, Henri is at the right place at the right time to blow it to smithereens.

WARNER BROS.

REVIEW

The movie, though intentionally drab in the color department, has some nice moments visually. Some scenes, especially as the snow falls over the prison where Henri's father resides and ceaselessly tries to escape, is awash in gray and sooty black. What color there is recalls faded Kodachrome.

Back in the early 1960s, when Jean-Paul Belmondo was the single actor most at the heart of the French New Wave, he hinted at experience well beyond his years. Now, at 63, he has deep lines dug into his forehead that speak of hardship and acceptance.

His weary eyes support several different roles, from Henri and his father to an assortment of characters when the movie dramatizes a few scenes from the original story.

As the charitable bishop who gives Valjean the candlesticks, Jean Marais heads a supporting cast that includes ballerina Alesandara Martines, Michel Boujenah, and even Lelouch's bright-eyed daughter Salome.

Ultimately, however, this three-hour "Les Miserables" makes you feel overly manipulated, tired, and perhaps a bit stupid. There is no subtlety in Lelouch's cinema, the contrasts pointed out far too regularly for French viewers who know the book intimately and a foreign audience familiar with the musical play.

Andre Ziman, the Jewish lawyer Henri helps to escape, comments that "Les Miserables" is one of only two or three stories that history retells on a regular basis. No arguing with that. But thank Hugo rather than Lelouch for any power that remains in this admittedly bold, often ponderous film.

Discussion turns to 'noir' at Maple

Darkness will creep into the AMC Maple Theatre, 4135 W. Maple Road, Bloomfield Hills, this weekend when Observer & Eccentric film reviewer John Monaghan talks about "film noir" at the monthly meeting of The Film Lover's Club.

The free program, at 10 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 19 will begin with an overview of this influential cycle of crime and detective films, which began with "The Maltese Falcon" in 1941. Call (810) 855-9091 for information.

Clips from "Double Indemnity," "Detour," and "Gun Crazy" will punctuate Monaghan's discussion of the cycle, which saw some of the best work of Alfred Hitchcock, Orson Welles, Fritz Lang, and Otto Preminger.

Monaghan, a high school teacher in Grosse Pointe, has spent the past decade tracking down obscure titles from the "noir" cycle, which officially ended with "Touch of Evil" in 1959. Of course the shadowy camerawork, hard-boiled dialogue, and femme fatales have served as inspiration for several modern directors, especially "Pulp Fiction's" Quentin Tarantino.

A serious collector of original "film noir" movie material, Monaghan will also share his insights on tracking down posters and lobby cards from favorite films.

■ DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"The Day the Sun Turned Cold" (Hong Kong - 1994). 7, 9:30 p.m. Nov. 17-18. When a man reports a murder to the police, no one realizes at first that he is actually accusing his mother of poisoning his father 10 years earlier. Based on a true story.

"Tsahal" (Israel - 1994). 2 p.m. Nov. 19. Director Claude Lanzmann ("Shoah") calls his five-hour documentary about the Israeli Defense Forces "not about the triumph of Israel, but about the fragility and abnormality of this country."

"In the Land of the Deaf" (France - 1992). 7 p.m. Nov. 20. A critically acclaimed documentary about the daily world of silence experienced by some 130 million people worldwide.

■ KINOTEK, WINDSOR FILM THEATRE
2135 Wyandotte St. West, Windsor, Canada. Call (519) 254-FILM for more information. ($4.50 Canadian; $4 US)

"Stroszek" (West Germany - 1977). 9 p.m. Nov. 20 - 21. Director Werner Herzog presents another tale of people living on the edge. Here three mismatched friends, each a loser, set out from Berlin to Northern Wisconsin in mid-winter with very little money and a limited knowledge of English.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATRE
22918 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. ($4)

"Reservoir Dogs" (USA - 1993). 8 p.m. Nov. 16. Quentin Tarantino's amazing first feature, the story of a bank heist gone way wrong. Harvey Keitel, Steve Buscemi, and Michael Madsen highlight a perfect cast.

"Blade Runner" (USA - 1982). 7:30 p.m. Nov. 22. Ridley Scott's sci-fi film noir set the visual tone for all subsequent movies about the future. In this case, a neon-lit, punk-infested Los Angeles serves the backdrop for the story of a police detective (Harrison Ford) on the trail of runaway robots.

■ MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Mighty Aphrodite" (USA - 1995). Woody Allen writes, directs and stars in this story of a father obsessed with discovering the identity of his adopted son's mother. The typically eclectic cast includes Helena Bonham Carter, F. Murray Abraham, Peter Weller, and Claire Bloom.

"Persuasion" (Britain - 1995). This acclaimed screen adaptation of Jane Austen's final novel finds a woman given a second chance at the love of her life. Unlike most other period films, this one has a realism and strength of purpose not unlike its memorable heroine.

"Les Miserables" (France - 1995). Victor Hugo's classic story is updated to the 20th century in an attempt to bring out the classic themes of the story. What results is an often effective, painfully long examination of the human spirit.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Home for the Holidays" (USA - 1995). Jodie Foster's timely comedy stars Holly Hunter as a single mother who returns home to spend Thanksgiving with her eccentric family. The witty, wicked surprises she encounters make this the holiday season's first must-see comedy, thanks to a supporting cast including Robert Downey Jr., Charles Durning, and Anne Bancroft.

"Mighty Aphrodite" (USA - 1995). See Main Art Theatre listing above.

■ REDFORD THEATRE
17360 Lahser at Grand River, Redford. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"The Prince and the Pauper" (USA - 1937). 8 p.m. Nov. 17; 2, 8 p.m. Nov. 18 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtime). Mark Twain's story about young lookalikes — one an urchin, the other a prince — and the mess that erupts when they decide to trade places. Though Billy and Bobby Mauch play the title characters, Errol Flynn steals the film as the noble swordsman who helps set things straight.

■ STATE THEATRE
2115 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 961-5450 for information. ($1)

"Waterworld" (USA - 1995). 9 p.m. Nov. 20. Not nearly as bad as it was supposed to be, Kevin Costner's ocean-bound epic has enough thrills and cool gadgets to justify throwing another buck toward its estimated $100 million budget.

Urge Overkill

They rock without shame

BY TODD WICKS
SPECIAL WRITER

■ 'Someone has to be there to represent the unquestioned purity of cool music. There's enough deconstruction going on . . . As Blackie (Onassis, drums, vocals) said years ago, we're more insterested in reconstruction. It's time to put Rock back together and back on track, for its own sake.'

Ed "King" Roeser
Urge singer/guitarist

Urge Overkill isn't embarrassed to talk about Rock.

Not rock as most people know it, but Rock, with a capital R. Like Superman believes in Truth, Justice and The American Way, the Chicago trio speaks about their cause with ultimate reverence. After the grunge explosion and years of plain, "I'm just like you" superstars, Urge is battling to bring fun, flashy Rock back from the dead.

"Someone has to be there to represent the unquestioned purity of cool music," said Urge singer/guitarist Ed "King" Roeser of the band's campaign. "There's enough deconstruction going on . . . As Blackie (Onassis, drums, vocals) said years ago, we're more insterested in reconstruction.

"It's time to put Rock back together and back on track, for its own sake."

Founded in the mid-'80s by Roeser and college roommate Nash Kato (vocals, guitar) Urge spent several years on the popular Chicago indie label Touch & Go. After a few acclaimed albums and finding soulmate Onassis, the band's landmark "Stull" EP showed new depth and was named one Spin critic's album of the year.

The year 1993 brought the band to Geffen and Urge Overkill's biggest success to date, "Saturation." Coupling the usual stylish songs with the ultraclean production of hip-hop's Butcher Brothers, it yielded the hit "Sister Havana" and the transcendent anthem "Positive Bleeding." When an old cover of Neil Diamond's "Girl, You'll Be a Woman Soon" became the de facto theme of "Pulp Fiction," Urge's reputation as suave cocktail rockers was cemented in the minds of the MTV generation.

According to Roeser, the success of "Girl" was a mixed blessing. "We never really bought into the idea that all of a sudden we have a song that everybody's heard," he said. "Urge is not about that. I think a lot of people who come to see us have that record . . . (but they) come not because of one song but because they appreciate what we do. People are there because they wanna check out Urge."

And Urge they got. The tour to promote its seventh release, "Exit The Dragon," opened in Kalamazoo last month. After starting with two "Saturation" favorites, there was a pause where the crowd grew silent. "All right, Kalamazoo, let's rock, come on," admonished Kato before blasting into "Need Some Air" from "Dragon."

Roeser stalked his side of the stage hunched over an array of Gibson guitars, taking lead vocals for roughly half of the set. Behind Roeser and Kato, beneath a huge black backdrop with a shiny, colorful UO symbol was crowd favorite Onassis, the epitome of quiet drummer cool with a succession of cigarettes protruding from under locks of jet-black hair.

Urge lavished as much attention on "Saturation" as its new release, "Crack Babies," "Bottle of Fur," and the Onassis' showcase "Dropout" were highlights from their breakthrough album.

The night's most pleasant surprise was the transformation of several darker numbers from "Dragon" into exciting crowd pleasers. Eschewing the Stonesy first single "The Break" out of exhaustion (Roeser confessed to a long night of partying the day before), Kato led the charge through the bouncy "Somebody Else's Body" and duetted with Roeser on "Take Me" and "Last Night/Tomorrow."

Roeser remembers the opening night as a slow start, but saw things improving quickly. "Once we went through Kalamazoo and then Toledo, we went into Canada and things really started to gel. As a band, we're starting to connect and play off of each other really well. By the time we get to Detroit, I think you'll see some good-quality, Detroit-style Rock."

In fact, discussing Detroit seemed to enliven Roeser, calling from a rainy Raleigh, N.C. "Last night, we were in this club and they were playing none other than one of our faves, Iggy and the Stooges, the "Raw Power" album. Detroit has always been . . . ," he paused. "What can you say? To us, Detroit is sort of a mythological place, musically."

Urge Overkill is coming to town Saturday, Nov. 18, to play The Palladium in Roseville in support of "Dragon." What has garnered the most attention about "Dragon" is its turn from "Saturation's" arena rock into moodier, more introspective territory. "It's true, it is sort of a sad record," admitted Roeser. "But if you've been following Urge, our tunes are fun but there are some tragic elements in there. That's always been the case."

Roeser came alive again when Urge's appearance on MTV's "120 Minutes" a few weeks ago was mentioned. "How was that? How did it come off?" he asked excitedly. "Did we look hung over? We're very road-weary. Every time I see bands on '120' they all look so out of it."

Interestingly, the videos served to document the band's fashion evolution over the years. From simple matching blazers to monogrammed turtlenecks and medallions to the white jumpsuits and sunglasses of "Saturation" and back to the simplicity of the current look, Urge's yen for fashion has almost eclipsed its music in the public eye.

Roeser agreed. "I think the media played a part in sending a distorted image of what we were about and why we excited," he said. "To what degree it's helped or hurt our popularity, I don't know . . . It was one of those things we were doing for fun that people latched onto far too seriously. Now it's such a big thing, and we're over it."

Then, realizing, what he was saying, Roeser quickly clarified his words. "I mean, we'll always be men of style, but it's something that we did and were more interested in before . . . when no one else was interested in it."

But as important as style is to Urge, it's always clear that the band's first priority is rocking the kids, night in and night out.

"What we do is really physically challenging. I don't know if people realize the degree to which it's really hard to rock the way we do," Roeser said.

"It's a volatile thing to play in a band every day and work yourself up to saying, 'We've got to go up there and these songs have to mean something.' Even if you're not in the mood to rock every night, and no one is. But it's got to be done.

"Someone has got to do it."

Urge Overkill with special guests Geraldine Fibbers perform at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 18, at The Palladium, formerly The Ritz, 17580 Frazho, Roseville. Tickets are $12.50 in advance for the all-ages show. For more information, call (810) 778-6404.

Legendary Johnnie Johnson brings sound back to Detroit

BY MARK GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

"I know all about Detroit," Johnnie Johnson said via telephone from his St. Louis home last week. "I used to live there."

"Sure, I lived down there on Canfield, 281 Canfield, between John R and Brush. I understand that's all freeway now. I worked at Ford. I lived there during World War II, between 1943 and 1949."

The fact that one of the most important names in rock 'n' roll history, albeit until recently an unfamiliar one to all but the most diehard fans, once lived in Detroit might give us some bragging rights.

Unfortunately, though, no matter how far you stretch it, we can't claim his legend for our own. Johnson's reputation began to grow in earnest almost from the day he left Detroit.

The West Virginia native went first to Chicago, where he made the acquaintance of and sat in with the likes of Muddy Waters, Buddy Guy and Memphis Slim, before moving on to St. Louis and work with Albert King, in 1952.

In short order, he formed his own Johnnie Johnson Trio. Upon hiring a brash young guitar player named Chuck Berry in 1954, though, his fortunes — not to mention the name up front — changed almost overnight.

"We became the hottest band on the local scene," he remembers, "and two or three years later Chuck took a tape of old hillbilly songs to Chicago's Chess Records — it was an old fiddle tune called 'Ida Red.' I changed the music and re-arranged it, Chuck rewrote the words, and the rest, as they say, is history."

They discovered that someone had a song out at the time with that name, so they renamed it after a popular brand of cosmetics and "Maybelline" became the first of a string of million-selling tunes in the Chuck Berry catalog.

"I was with Chuck steady for 28 years," he remembers. "It seemed like we were making a record every week or so" in the beginning.

That recording affiliation began with "Maybelline" in 1954, and Johnson and Berry worked their magic on a succession of Top 10 singles that effectively stretched through 1964's "You Never Can Tell," and saw its last hurrah with the horrific "My Ding-a-ling," Berry's only No. 1 single (1972).

Due to a fear of flying that has only recently been conquered, Johnson missed out on performing with Berry abroad but did nearly every U.S. date with him for nearly 30 years, including the historic 1955 concert at the Brooklyn Paramount Theatre at which it was said that DJ Alan Freed introduced rock 'n' roll to the world. Johnson and Berry are still in close touch and play occasional dates together.

"We played the President's (Clinton) inaugural ball and just played the blues festival in New Orleans," he said.

As a solo artist, with two well-received albums to his name (1991's "Johnnie Be Bad," and the just released "Johnny Be Back" for the Music Masters label), Johnson is having the time of his life. He's just come back from an Australian tour (and reports that the stores are selling out of his new CD), which followed an extended tour with Buddy Guy, and he's preparing to visit Germany in December.

"I love it," Johnson said. "It's much different. It's much better. There's more recognition and better treatment. No secondary stuff. I'm flying first class, staying in the finest hotels. And the finances are looking up, too! It's not like I was searching for this, but I'm not turning it down, either."

The Johnnie Johnson Band performs at 9 p.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 18, at the Magic Bag Theatre Cafe, 22918 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Tickets are $10 in advance; $12 at the door. For more information, call (810) 544-3030.

Electrafixion wants the crown

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Once on top of the alternative rock hierarchy with his band Echo and the Bunnymen, singer Ian McCulloch is bound and determined to rise again -- this time with his band Electrafixion.

Nursing a severe cold that forced the cancellation of a few shows, the gravelly voiced Brit put it bluntly.

"We want our crowns back."

Only a few dates into Electrafixion's debut U.S. tour (which includes a Sunday, Nov. 19, date at St. Andrew's in Detroit), McCulloch said so far, so good.

"San Francisco was probably the best we ever played. . . . I surprised meself at that one. It made me feel like I'm an entertainer as well as being a musician. It went beyond just the concert. It was really good," he explained.

Plus it helps that they understood his sense of humor, he said.

"There was a really great crowd as well. They understood when I was being ironic or tongue-in-cheek. When there's 10 to 20 people laughing at the right things, it warms the heart," McCulloch said testing out his sarcasm.

Electrafixion, which McCulloch calls angrier than the Bunnymen, marks the reunion of McCulloch and ex-Bunnymen guitarist Will Sergeant, who parted ways five years ago.

The split came about after McCulloch decided the band should end. Apparently, Sergeant and fellow Bunnymen felt differently. They carried on with a new singer, much to McCulloch's chagrin.

While Sergeant continued Echo and the Bunnymen, McCulloch pursued a solo career. After two albums ("Candleland" and "Mysterio") he and Sergeant still weren't talking, but friends like Rob Dickens, chairman of Warner Music, U.K., were determined to get the two to work together.

After the release of "Mysterio" and an aborted U.S. tour, McCulloch and Johnny Marr, former guitarist for The Smiths, began working together. The two made a tape together, but every copy was stolen. Dickens then told the duo that the project wasn't good enough anyway and that they should try to get Sergeant to work with them.

"It was a bit fishy," McCulloch said in retrospect. "It was eerie, fate seemed to be steering Will and me together."

McCulloch and Sergeant got together socially partially so McCulloch could ease his mind about the estrangement.

"It was strange. This is why I think it was destiny that brought Will and I together again. I had met up with him purely as a social thing. I had been thinking in the back of my mind, we should get together. Then it started to bug me. I got to thinking 'What if one of us dies without having made up.' If one of us dies, there you are at a funeral stuck behind, a true 50 yards away."

Eventually Sergeant was folded into Electrafixion which also includes Tony McGuigan on drums and Leon DeSylva on bass.

Electrafixion and Echobelly play St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, on Sunday, Nov. 19. Doors open at 7 p.m. for the all-ages show. Tickets are available at Ticketmaster. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Tom's Oyster Bar reels-in customers

By Eleanor & Ray Heald
Special Writer

In early evening, work your way through a crowded main-level bar to a table. Tom Brandel's Oyster Bar reputation has spread from his original 100-seat restaurant in Grosse Pointe Park to the crowded 60-seater on Royal Oak's Main Street and recently to Southfield.

"Northwestern Highway has become restaurant row with mainly pasta places," said Brandel. "It was an untapped area for seafood. I know other restaurants have tried this spot, but I believe no location is jinxed and we'll do well here. I'm committed to this area. It's friendly and a good place to live."

Since opening a month ago, Tom's Oyster Bar has been crowded during peak lunch and dinner hours. On Friday, after work hours, the lower-level raw bar is jammed to capacity. Upstairs nightly, families and groups of friends engage in nibbling and animated conversation at blue and white checked tableclothed rounds or in booths of two offering some privacy from a happy, noisy crowd.

On his first visit, Farmington Hills attorney Ray Horenstein found it noisy. His wife Barbara countered. "It's just what I expected for an oyster bar. If a person would like a quiet table, perhaps they should request seating in one of the smaller side rooms or a booth."

Southfield resident Ira Dorchen eating at the bar with his wife Nancy and friend Donna Androff liked the noisy, bustling atmosphere. "It's like Cheers in Southfield," Androff said. "We love crowded bars where you can eat appetizers," Ira remarked. "The sampler platter was gone in record time," Nancy pointed out.

Androff added that they have been fans of Tom's Oyster Bars for six years. "Just look at Tom (Brandel)," she said. "Anyone wearing a blue striped shirt, yellow bow tie and sport jacket has to be a happening."

In addition to salmon, perch, swordfish, tuna and whitefish, which are most frequently requested, the daily procured fresh fish menu included Blackened Tautog, Broiled Loup de Mer and Grilled Florida Wahoo for the more adventurous. Wahoo is interesting. It's a mackerel relative and an important game fish off southern Florida and the Hawaiian Islands. Steak-like in texture with medium flavors, light, slightly pink flesh, it's great grilled and perfect with a glass of red wine such as pinot noir.

Executive chef Michael Houlihan of Southfield makes a daily seasonal selection of fish flown in from the respected M.F. Foley Co. in Boston and a purveyor in Florida. Houlihan is well known to area diners from his stints at The London Chop House and Ann Arbor's Escoffier. His original creation of Ginger Shrimp is a popular appetizer.

Head chef Danny Martinez started working in restaurant kitchens at age 15 with a job at The London Chop House. After graduating from Oakland Community College's culinary arts program on the Orchard Ridge Campus, he went on to chefs positions in Boston and Washington, D.C. before returning to the area.

Brandel who began his restaurant career in the late 1960s has hired Ray Hanson as director of operations. Hanson lives in West Bloomfield and is a Northwood Hotel and Restaurant Management grad with experience at The London Chop House, Ritz-Carlton-Dearborn, and Birmingham's City Grill.

Chowders are signatures of Tom's Oyster Bars. The clam chowder is not what one might dub "classic" because it is not made with bacon. The tomato-based, tarragon-spiced seafood chowder is more like a southern France fish soup and is definitely not New York style clam chowder. It's daily preparation includes three fish, one of which is always a shellfish.

On the other hand, the Maryland Crab Cake is most authentic. "You don't get several, little, dry crab cakes on your plate at Tom's," Hanson said. "There's one large, juicy crab cake, just like those served in a Maryland crab house."

If you like crab, you could make a crab feast at Tom's now through January when Dungeness crab is in high season. "They're live in our tank and never prepared frozen," Houlihan said.

State swim finals

The 24th annual Lower Peninsula Class A swimming and diving finals will be Friday and Saturday at the University of Michigan's Canham Natatorium in Ann Arbor.

Livonia Stevenson, sixth a year ago, is expected to make a run at the championship along with Ann Arbor Pioneer and defending state champion Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central.

Preliminary heats get under way at noon on Friday. Admission is $3 per person.

The finals are scheduled to start at 2 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $4.

Stevenson, coached by Greg Phill, is led by U.S. Olympic Trials qualifier Anne Aristeo. The junior won the 200-yard individual medley and 500 freestyle titles in 1994.

Westland John Glenn's Adrienne Turri, fourth in the 100 backstroke last season, is also back for the state finals.

Collegiate notes

The University of Michigan, sparked by five ex-Observerland standouts, is headed for the National Club Soccer Association Tournament for the third straight year after a second-place finish, Nov. 5-6, at the NCSA Regional in Champaign, Ill.

The Michigan Club team, which owns wins over Eastern Michigan (1-0) and Schoolcraft College (3-0), will take a 13-5-4 mark into the nationals, Nov. 15-19, in Phoenix, Ariz.

Local members of the Michigan club team, coached by Steve Burns (of the Detroit Wheels), include captain Ryan Carriere (Livonia Stevenson), Adam Carriere (Stevenson), Mike Presley (Plymouth Canton), Andy Cosenza (Plymouth Salem) and Bill Lanspeary (Stevenson).

■ Ferris State University senior linebacker Mike Brooks (Livonia Churchill) has increased his career solo tackles to 318, bettering the mark ex-Bulldog Monty Brown (now with the Buffalo Bills) of 312 set 1989-92.

Brooks broke Brown's career record last week for total tackles and has a running total of 612 entering the NCAA Division II playoffs Saturday at home vs. Millersville, Pa. (9-0-1).

Ferris State owns the nation's longest regular season winning streak at 39 (37-0-2) after beating Saginaw Valley State on Saturday, 46-42. The Bulldogs rallied to win after being down 28-0 after one quarter.

■ Kalamazoo College sophomore defensive back Eric Kelly (Churchill), who finished with 27 tackles and a team-high six interceptions, was recently voted second-team All-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Conference in football. Kelly, a religion/economics major, also punted for a 33.2 average. He helped the Hornets to a 3-2 MIAA record and a 4-5 overall mark.

PASS televises finals

Pro-Am Sports Systems (PASS) has announced it will broadcast 14 Michigan High School Athletic Association championship finals during the next two months.

In boys soccer, the Class C final will air at 7 p.m. Friday followed by the Class A final, Plymouth Salem's 1-0 victory over Portage Northern, at 1 p.m. Sunday. Both are tape-delayed.

In girls basketball, PASS will show the Class D and A finals live at noon and 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2, respectively. The Class C and B games will be aired at noon and 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 3, both tape-delayed.

In football, all eight championships will be shown tape-delayed including Class D (7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 3); Class A (1:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 10); Class C (7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 14); Class B (5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16); Class DD (1:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17); Class AA (8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 18); Class CC (3:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 23); and Class BB (5:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 23).

Senior volleyball

Senior softball players can stay active through flexibility, strength, aerobics and volleyball from 9:30-11:30 a.m. each Wednesday (through Jan. 31) through Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education Services.

The cost is $30 for nine weeks (started Nov. 15 with no sessions Nov. 22 and Dec. 27).

For more information, call (313) 462-4413.

Whalers hockey tickets

And at no charge.

Available are tickets for the 7 p.m. Thanksgiving Day game against the Petersborough Petes.

The Whalers play in the Ontario Hockey League, which features 16- to 20-year-olds.

Any groups interested in these free tickets may call Dr. McCormack at 459-4488. He has up to 250 tickets available to nine Whalers games.

To submit items for the Observer Sports Scene, write to Brad Emons, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, MI 48150, or send via fax to (313) 591-7279.

Wayne, Cougars set for rematch

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

If Garden City senior forward Christie Glover attempts a free throw in the opening minutes of a game, chances are she'll be hard to stop the rest of the night.

Glover has been injured so often the last two years, sometimes all she can work on in practice are free throws.

She gave the Cougars a 4-0 lead on four straight swishes at the free throw line, and wasn't finished, in Wednesday night's Class A girls basketball district semifinal against visiting Westland John Glenn.

Glover scored the Cougars' next three baskets on moves around the paint and finished with 10 of her game-high 19 points in the first quarter, leading the Cougars to a 55-30 victory and a berth in Friday's district championship.

"Usually, if Christie starts out hitting a couple free throws or her first basket, she'll have a good day," Garden City coach Marshall Henry said. "If she misses a couple, takes an 'iron special,' it takes her a while to warm up."

The Cougars, 16-6 overall, will host Wayne Memorial, a 48-14 winner over Romulus, in Wednesday's other semifinal.

Garden City and Wayne split their two meetings in the Mega Conference Red Division, with the Cougars winning the last time in overtime.

The Zebras also own a 16-6 overall record.

"It'll be a battle Friday night," Glover said.

Senior guard Jamie Faber contributed 13 points for the Cougars, while junior forward Jennifer Talbot came off the bench to score nine points and lead the Cougars with nine rebounds.

Garden City enjoyed a 36-19 rebounding advantage. Faber had seven, Glover and senior forward Stephanie Smith finished with six each, and senior guard Trisch Kesner hauled in four.

Glenn, which finished 4-15 overall, chose to employ a 2-3 zone defense against the Cougars. Glover enjoyed it, especially knowing she'll see nothing but man-to-man against Wayne.

"When a team plays zone, it's real easy to drive, Faber and I love it," Glover said. "Plus, if we reverse the ball quickly, there are open shots all the time."

Glover missed four games this year with a knee injury and about half of last season with a back injury. Faber leads the Cougars in scoring and when Glover is healthy, Henry has a potent one-two punch.

"We thought if we take away Faber, we'd be right in the game," first-year Glenn coach Andy Denison said. "But Glover stepped up."

Glenn guards Rochelle Harris and Jami Grigal, playing their final high school games, finished with nine and eight points, respectively. The Rockets struggled in the half-court game, however, committing 29 turnovers.

Harris and senior guard Nykiya Lee combined to make four of five shots during one stretch in the fourth quarter to help the Rockets finish 13 of 37 from the floor (35 percent).

"Rebounding and turnovers have killed us," Denison said. "We haven't played that poorly with the ball in a long time. If you limit your turnovers to 20, you'll still have a hard time beating Garden City because they are well coached and work well as a team."

Denison looks forward to his second year as Glenn coach.

"I have a lot to learn," Denison said. "It was hard to have to play against the teams in our league (Western Lakes), but if I was in it for the wins and losses, I would have never taken the job. I knew it was going to be a struggle at the start. Right now it's not meant to be."

Wayne jumped to a 16-0 lead after one quarter against Romulus, which was without several players who were either ineligible or quit. The Eagles finished their season 2-18.

Ladywood triumphs, earns shot vs. Salem

STAFF WRITER

They did everything well but shoot.

The Blazers did everything well but make baskets. But then, maybe that's why coach Lisa McPhee's team is still just 5-14.

Ladywood trimmed host Novi, 46-37, Monday night in the opening of the district phase of the state high school basketball tournament.

Congratulations, Blazers, you draw rugged Plymouth Salem for Thursday night.

"I'll bet Freddie (Thomann, Salem's coach) is licking his chops," McPhee said, in a way that made you think perhaps she has a surprise planned for the Rocks.

It was one of those "more turnovers than Sara Lee" games until early in the second half.

At that point, the Blazers got five straight points to take a 31-25 lead that was 33-27 entering the fourth quarter.

The Wildcats, 11-10, were unable to take advantage of their considerable size advantage, primarily because the Blazers did an excellent job of blocking out. Is that what McPhee feels will equalize the Rocks' height advantage?

Novi scored at 5:56 of the final period to make it 37-31 but didn't score again until Julie Britton made a free throw with 2:42 to play that made it 42-32.

"It's funny," McPhee said, "but we had a hard time against Novi last year, too. We needed someone to give us some spark."

That somebody turned out to be junior Stephanie Mussat, who scored seven of her team-leading 10 points in the second period and three in the last.

"She did a good job defensively and she was our high scorer," McPhee said. "We look to her to give us spark."

Erin LeSage and Katie Law each scored eight points for Ladywood, which got points from 11 players as McPhee ran them in and out like they were on rubber bands. Kathy Dankert scored all six of her points in the final period.

The Blazers hounded the Wildcats defensively, but must be watching too many old Detroit Lions' game films because they often lost the ball on a turnover after taking it away.

Sophomores Jessica Kenny and Kristen Sullivan led all scorers with 11 points each for Novi. Britton added 6.

"We're usually a much better shooting team," McPhee said. "We start five seniors, so I don't know if was the emotion of the tournament, or what."

It's something they can't afford against the Rocks.

Ford has better idea, ousts Stevenson

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

What began as a promising season for the Livonia Stevenson girls basketball team ended in disappointment Wednesday, as the Spartans were knocked out of the Class A district at Southfield by Detroit Henry Ford, 60-51.

The Spartans, the two-time defending district champs, ended their season 9-12. Stevenson began the year winning five of its first six games.

"We began the season playing better than people expected, but then lost our intensity midway though the year and it took us awhile to get it back," Stevenson coach Wayne Henry said. "We eventually got our intensity back and had been playing better. I thought we were ready for tonight's game. Tonight was a big disappointment."

Henry Ford advanced to Friday's district final against Redford Union, a 51-35 winner in the opener over over Southfield.

The Trojans (11-7) broke open a 15-15 first quarter tie and took the lead for good with a 13-2 run in the second quarter. The Spartans kept it close, but were never able to regain the lead.

"This win feels great," Henry Ford coach John Williams said. "They knocked us out the past two years and it was good to turn the tables on them."

The Trojans used their superior quickness to force Stevenson into numerous poor passes and turnovers.

"We're young and have a lot of quickness -- that's how we've been winning all year," Williams said.

Henry disagreed that Henry Ford's quickness was the key factor.

"They were quicker than us, but that doesn't mean we can't do other things to compensate for it," he said.

The Trojans opened up a 30-19 advantage with a 13-2 run and led 34-28 at intermission.

Henry Ford gained the lead when the backcourt of Lorlesha Pitts and Antone Watson took over the game with their outside shooting and penetration to the basket.

Watson finished with a game-high 21 points, while Jameaa Johnson and Pitts added 14 and 11 points, respectively.

"Our problem was we weren't stopping their penetration," Henry said. "They were able to find the open person for the easy shot."

Behind the strong inside play of senior forward Jenny Dulz (11 points, 14 rebounds), the Spartans made a comeback bid in the third quarter. But Stevenson was unable to take advantage of poor Trojan free throw shooting (one for eight), and trailed 44-40 entering the fourth quarter.

The lead was cut to two on a Dulz layup, but Henry Ford's Lejuana Arrington countered with a three-pointer. The Trojans later scored six unanswered points and held the Spartans without a basket for the final 3:30.

"I'm not sure if we panicked, but we were more impatient than we had to be," Henry said. "We were gambling on passes and just not being patient."

Senior center Stacey Nichols led Stevenson with 16 points. Senior guard Marie Wilson added 11.

Johnson sendoff yields state title

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

It's simply a numbers game, soccer is — and Plymouth Salem's number finally came up.

The Rocks parlayed a first-half goal by Brett Konley into a championship Tuesday, edging Portage Northern, 1-0, in the delayed Class A title match at Bloomfield Hills Andover.

So the crown is passed, but only across a parking lot — from Plymouth Canton, last year's Class A boys champ, to Salem.

It was something the Rocks were poised to wear a little more than 72 hours earlier. But deteriorating weather combined with terrible field conditions at Andover forced the game to be postponed, from Saturday until Tuesday.

"It did hurt us a bit," Salem coach Ken Johnson said of the cancellation. "On Saturday, we would have been flying high after beating (Troy) Athens Thursday."

It may have hurt, but it did not deter the Rocks. This was their year.

And their lucky digit? Three, of course — after all, third time's a charm. Which is what it was for Salem. Consider:

- This was Salem's third trip to the state finals in boys soccer. The first two ended in one-goal losses, to Troy Athens in 1989 (1-0) and to Warren DeLaSalle in 1992 (2-1);
- The Rocks lost three times during the regular season. They avenged all three defeats by beating those teams — Livonia Churchill, Livonia Stevenson and Athens — in the state tournament;
- If played last Saturday, the title game would have been Salem's third of the week. As it turned out, it was delayed three days.

Now, many people put their luck on the number seven, not three. Well, that came into play Tuesday as well: Konley scored the game's only goal with 3:16 left in the first half on a nice individual effort, taking a centering pass from Josh Fair by trapping it with his chest, then rifling a shot past an otherwise impressive Matt Keeler, Northern's keeper.

Konley, by the way, wears the number seven.

A coach to the end, Johnson felt the Huskies were fortunate to be within a goal at the half. "I thought we could have put them away early," he said. "We missed some chances, didn't we?"

He's right — they did. Drummond was robbed with 8:50 gone in the first half, his header, off a sharp crossing pass from Matt Sarkesian, stopped by a diving Keeler.

Later, Drummond crossed the ball into the center of the field and Keeler failed to smother it. Ronny Mashni got it with nothing but net in front of him, but he didn't pull the trigger quickly enough, and Keeler recovered to grab the loose ball.

Those were the two best opportunities, but Salem had others — lots of them. Saves by each team's keeper were proof: Keeler made six in the first half for Northern, while Brian Bacyinski did not make any for Salem.

The shutout was Bacyinski's fourth in the playoffs, giving the Rocks a final season record of 22-3.

The second half was more evenly played, with the Huskies pushing more people forward in an attempt to net the game-tying goal as time ticked down. The Rocks also had chances, the best a Drummond breakaway and a Mashni-to-Mike Mezgec cross. On both, the shooters shot wide left.

Northern's best opportunity came off a restart 22 yards from the Salem net. Pat Morrison's drive went off the crossbar and eventually was cleared out.

"I thought it was a skilled ball game," said Northern coach Jim Widman, his team finishing with a 17-4-2 record. "They played to the conditions. I think my kids should be proud.

"I just hope the kids can regroup. This is a young team (six seniors) — we will be back."

If the Huskies do return, they won't see Ken Johnson. The longtime Salem coach (since '81) announced his retirement a year ago; Tuesday's match was his last, which made winning the state title — Salem's first in boys soccer — that much more gratifying.

His wife Kim had the appropriate reply when asked how winning the title felt and where they were headed to celebrate: "Are you kidding? We're going to Disney World!"

Johnson's leaving certainly supplied extra incentive to the team. When the title trophy was presented to Johnson, his players surrounded him, chanting, "Kenny! Kenny! Kenny!"

"This is a dream," Johnson said.

CC playoff foe Titans boast talented line

BY STEVE KOWALSKI

There are advantages and disadvantages to having a big football roster.

Depth, of course, is never a concern.

Sterling Heights Stevenson coach Rick Bye hopes his players — all 74 of them — follow a routine similar to his on Monday night in preparation for Saturday's Class AA state playoff semifinal game against No. 1 ranked Redford Catholic Central. Kickoff for the game matching the two unbeatens is 1:30 p.m. at Chippewa Valley High School in Mount Clemens.

After a full day at school, practice and films, Bye was in bed by 9 p.m. Monday.

"My eyes were square from watching film. I did some paper work, said I can't take it anymore, went to my room, put on the Monday Night game and let it put me to sleep," Bye said. "This is the third straight year we've played in the semifinals, and we want to temper the excitement. It's not a novelty anymore, not anything to lose sleep over. We're certainly not playing Tuesday or Wednesday. We want to let our emotions build."

Bye said he was back to his game plan at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday, which is probably something he wouldn't advise his players to do.

The Titans have lost in the semifinal round the last two years to teams that went on to win the state championship.

Stevenson has a tradition of all-state linemen.

Stevenson's '87 team was led by Rob Doherty, who went on to be an All Big Ten player at the University of Michigan. Current Notre Dame starting tight end Pete Chryplewicz was the No. 1 rated player in the state in '91, while a more recent graduate, Chris Liewinski, is a starter at Indiana University.

This year's all-state candidate is 6-5, 260-pound lineman Dave Sucura, who has committed to Michigan State University. Sucura is the only Titan who goes two ways full-time, playing guard on offense and defensive end. Titans' senior Jerrad Jorgensen (6-3, 290), starts at offensive tackle and plays part-time on the defensive line.

Stevenson starting quarterback Mark Morris (5-11, 160) has thrown for 1,400 yards and has sprint-out capabilities. His top receiver is junior Tim Steele (6-1, 165), who has about 50 catches after catching 53 as a sophomore.

Sophomore Joe Alls (5-10, 165), limited to one series last week because of the flu, splits time at tailback with junior Andy Frank (5-11, 175).

CC senior fullback/nose guard John Spolsky was asked about Sucura.

"Every team has their big guy," Spolsky said. "But we're not just playing one guy. If you focus on one, the rest of the team will burn you."

The Titans whipped Detroit Martin Luther King, 46-0, in the regional final, but Bye talks as if they don't have a chance.

CC was unimpressive in beating Livonia Stevenson 14-6 in the first round, before using last week's miserable conditions to its advantage in rallying for a 21-14 regional final win over Troy. Colts' quarterback Kyle Rance, who had plenty of time to throw a frozen ball, would have been better than three of 18 for 45 yards on a dry field.

Seldom-used CC tailback Greg Alcala surprised the Colts with touchdown runs of 80 and 63 yards in the regional championship.

"I watch film of them, and I don't know if we can stop them," said Bye, who has a 155-50 career record. "The first thing that comes to mind is keeping them out of four-down territory. And then you say, 'Well, I think the whole field is four-down territory for them.' The big problem is tackling Spolsky, but after you sellout on him, there are other guys who carry the mail. You have the (Kevin) Quay kid, Alcala, but the key to the team is the option quarterback (Greg Call)."

Call completed only one pass to Quay for six yards last week, but is dangerous on a dry field with 6-7, 250-pound senior tight end Eric Gilbo (21 catches, 252 yards and two TDs).

The Shamrocks average 265 yards rushing per game (an average of 5.27 per attempt) and they allow an average of 79.5 rushing yards per game (2.99 per attempt).

Spolsky leads CC with 1,105 yards in 192 carries (5.8 per carry) and 13 touchdowns. Quay has 641 on 118 carries (5.4 per attempt), but only 28 yards in 15 attempts in the playoffs.

"I think it will be a great battle, the team that wins the line of scrimmage will control the game," CC coach Tom Mach said. "Four teams are left and any four can win the state. It doesn't always come down to the best team, it comes down to who performs the best."

Chill puts Shamrocks under weather

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

After working up a sweat and scoring on two long touchdown runs in the cold, rain and wind during Saturday's Class AA regional final, guess how Redford Catholic Central's fill-in tailback Greg Alcala was rewarded?

With a cold.

Alcala, starting quarterback Greg Call and starting inside linebacker Milam Brooks all were under the weather Tuesday after school. Call also has a calf bruise, which gets aggravated each week, but the trio expect to be ready for Saturday's semifinal game against Sterling Heights Stevenson at Mount Clemens Chippewa Valley.

At least they have four days to recover.

The Titans didn't have such a luxury when 5-foot-10, 165-pound sophomore tailback Joe Alls came down with the flu late last week. Alls went to the hospital Friday morning and was cleared to play in the regional final 24 hours later against Detroit Martin Luther King.

The Titans chose to have Alls taken to the game in a separate vehicle, which was heated, instead of riding with the team on a cold school bus to Utica High School. Alls stayed in the heated vehicle almost until game time before contributing on the Titans' first possession, a 79-yard scoring drive into the wind.

Alls caught a 28-yard pass from quarterback Mark Morris and after the Titans went up 20-0, retreated to the heated vehicle for the remainder of the game.

The Titans won 46-0.

- The only time CC played at Chippewa Valley was in 1991 when the Shamrocks outlasted Martin Luther King in overtime on a field goal. Chippewa Valley is on 19 Mile Road off Groesbeck. Take I-696 east to Groesbeck. Go north on Groesbeck to Cass Road, which is about a mile north of 17 Mile Road. Take Cass west until it curves into 19 Mile Road.
- The Shamrocks, who won Class AA crowns in 1990 and '92 and a Class A title in '79, are 13-1 in playoff games this decade. They have reached the finals five times since 1987, winning two.

The last time a CC team lost a playoff game that wasn't for the state championship was '85 when Troy beat the Shamrocks in a regional final, 10-0.

CC coach Tom Mach has a 168-38 career record in 20 seasons.

- Stevenson has some recent history on its side. The Titans defeated last year's No. 1 ranked team in Class AA, Warren DeLaSalle, 14-10, in the regional final. CC has been the No. 1 ranked team in Class AA since late in the season.

The Titans reached the Class A final in '86, losing to Muskegon, 10-0.

- How does Stevenson work with 74 players on its roster? CC's is considered large and the Shamrocks generally have around 55.

Stevenson coach Rick Bye said he uses a platoon system, meaning everyone plays only one side of the ball. He thinks that, plus a winning tradition, draws a big turnout. Bye, who has eight assistants, has a 165-50 career record in 21 years with four undefeated regular seasons.

"We'll try to develop a kid at his position who might be a backup at another and play him one way," Bye said.

- Stevenson's linemen are as big or bigger than CC's, but the Titans' 5-11, 160-pound placekicker Ed Speck is a midget compared to CC's 6-7, 250-pound Eron Kosmowski.

Kosmowski has made eight of 14 field-goal attempts, including a long of 48, and has a 32.8 yard average on 23 punts. He's a big target for a snapper and that's an edge in winter-like conditions.

"He's got a long lever, and it's hard to snap the ball over his head," Bye said. "Our kicking game is adequate, but we aren't going to kick a 48-yarder. Teams that play CC even can lose on the kicking game. They always seem to have a good kicker."

He obviously remembers CC knocking Utica Eisenhower (a Stevenson rival) out of the state playoffs in '88 with a last-second field goal, and in '92 with a field goal in overtime.

- Sterling Heights Stevenson and CC have never met in football.

Sterling Heights High School, however, lost to the Shamrocks in the '87 Class A playoffs after handing Stevenson its only loss that year. Bye said that team, featuring all-state lineman Rob Doherty and quarterback Bill Love, may have been his best ever despite not qualifying for the playoffs.

Love, 24, took some time off after high school before attending Ferris State University, where he is a record-setting quarterback for the nationally-ranked NCAA Division II Bulldogs.

- CC fullback John Spolsky told a television reporter prior to Tuesday's practice that the Shamrocks have used the '92 team for inspiration. That team won three straight close games in the playoffs en route to the AA championship over Saginaw Arthur Hill in the Silverdome.

"We're all fighting for the ultimate goal — the ring," Spolsky said. "That '92 team is like on a pedestal for us. At unity night we'd watch films of them. We want to be just like them."

- Brooks leads the Shamrocks in tackles with 84, including 22 unassisted and one sack. Senior linebacker Tom Smiley has 69 tackles, 13 unassisted. Defensive end Mike Smiley leads with four sacks and has 60 tackles.

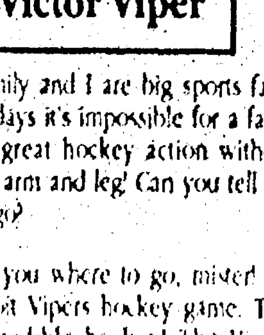
HOCKEY HANGOUT
Featuring Victor Viper
Dear Victor...



Q: My family and I are big sports fans, but nowadays it's impossible for a family to see great hockey action without paying an arm and leg! Can you tell me where to go?

A: I'll tell you where to go, mister! Go to a Detroit Vipers hockey game. Talk about incredible hockey! The Vipers were the Northern Division champs last year, and hey...they're battling Cleveland for FIRST PLACE this Sunday! Where else can you see hockey action like that for just five bucks? I'm telling ya mister, get your family together and get bit!

Q: Hey, for once I'd like to take in a hockey game where I can get a cheap seat without getting a nose bleed. Any suggestions?

A: Vipers hockey, man! Obviously you haven't been out to the Palace to see the Vipers play. Tickets start at just $5. You definitely need to get with it...and get bit.

Q: Everyone I know is talking about Vipers hockey. How exactly can I "get bit" like all my friends?

A: Simply, bud. You just gotta go to a game! The Vipers pull in the biggest crowds in the league. And if you go to a game once, you keep coming back. That's what getting bit is all about. So check out this schedule of upcoming home games and be there or be boring.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

CLASS D

When the coach coaches and the players play, it's a pretty tough combination to beat.

Which Taylor Light and Life Christian found out Tuesday night in the semifinals of Class D District 102 in the girls state high school basketball tournament.

Westland Huron Valley Lutheran did a nice job all around in recording a 42-35 victory that put the Hawks into the district championship game Friday night.

"What can I say?" coach Tod Bartholomew said, "the girls played.

"We played them a week ago (48-33 Light and Life victory). We experimented in that game. We did some things we knew we weren't going to do in this one.

"We did some pressing. And they were able to get some transition baskets. But that game didn't count. This is the game that counted."

It sure did. Light and Life hangs it up for the season with an 11-6 record while Huron Valley Lutheran continues at 15-6.

Bartholomew's well-coached team opened the tournament game in a 1-3-1 zone. Light and Life played zone also.

The score was 10-10 after one period but the Crusaders zipped out to a 24-20 halftime lead with some fast break baskets off turnovers and some heavy duty rebounding.

The Crusaders controlled the backboards in the opening half even though the Hawks were doing a nice job of boxing out. Most of the Light and Life scoring came off second shots or fast breaks.

The second half was a different story. Bartholomew closed off the top of the key, where the Hawks had been hurt by Leah Savicki's penetration to pass off, by switching to a 2-3 zone.

Corey Walters hit a shot from left wing to make it 26-20 and Savicki added a follow with 5:48 to play that made it 28-22. Little did the Crusaders know they were to get just one more point over the next 9:38.

"If they beat us," Bartholomew said, "they were going to have to do it from the outside."

Meantime, the Hawks became more patient offensively. And more alert about finding the open weak side forward or guard for a closer, higher percentage shot.

"We did a nice job of seeing people," Bartholomew said. "We were waiting, getting the zone spread out, then getting it inside. And we were more aggressive."

Kightlinger had four points in the third period as Huron Valley Lutheran started getting inside the zone to shoot and five different players scored a basket in the final period as the Hawks ran their lead up to eight points.

"Our two seniors that play (Ruth and Kightlinger) are really good players," Bartholomew said. "They were not going to let us lose. And we hung tough in the fourth quarter."

One thing about the tournament, though. The next game is always tougher.

CLASS C

All 12 players scored Wednesday as Lutheran High Westland improved to 19-3 on the season with a 64-22 girls basketball win over Livonia Clarenceville in the Class C district semifinals at Redford Bishop Borgess.

The Warriors will face two-time defending state champion Borgess (20-2) in a rematch of last year's district final, 7 p.m. Friday at Borgess.

Borgess won last year's meeting, 56-26.

"We just hope we can protect the ball," said Lutheran Westland coach Ron Gentz.

The Warriors downed scrappy Clarenceville for the third time this season behind 10 points apiece from freshman Janell Twietmeyer and junior Jenny Blaine.

On Monday, Lutheran Westland opened district play with a hard-fought 40-35 victory over Southfield Christian, as Tiernan scored a career-high 18 points and snared nine rebounds. The junior forward also hit four of five free throws.

Twietmeyer added seven points, while Ollinger chipped in with six.

"We did a good job of boxing out their big girls and controlling the boards," said Gentz, whose team led 26-16 at intermission. "And Joy played a tremendous defensive game."

Cold spell dooms Patriots

CLASS A

With Garden City's 71-64 victory over Wayne Memorial just 11 days old, the Zebras did their job Monday to set up a third meeting between the two rivals.

The Zebras are on pace to face Garden City in Friday's final. The Cougars' win at Wayne two weeks ago knocked the Zebras out of a first-place tie in the Mega Conference Red Division.

"I'm not going to talk about Garden City and the team will feed off me," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "We're taking them one at a time."

The Zebras dominated the Patriots, taking an early lead behind the blistering shooting of Yolanda Holt and Rica Barge. Holt scored 11 of her 13 points in the first half, while Barge tallied 11 of her game-high 18 points in the opening half.

Franklin's chances were curtailed when senior center Kellie Main (eight points, 16 rebounds) picked up her third foul midway through the second quarter. At the time, Wayne held an 18-13 lead.

The Patriots went scoreless for the final 5:18 of the first half, as Wayne scored the last 10 points of the quarter.

After the Zebras opened up a 32-13 lead early in the third quarter, the Patriots mounted a comeback with a 9-2 run. Wayne countered with an 11-3 run and built its lead to 45-25 in the fourth quarter.

The Patriots, who finished 9-12, were led by senior guard Tracy Rynkiewicz, who ended her high school career with 15 points.

First-year coach Gary Warner hoped the season wouldn't come to an end so soon.

"Unfortunately, the score wouldn't allow it," Warner said. "I'm very proud of the girls. Tonight, Wayne shot very well, and we missed some easy shots.

"I still have a lot to learn and this has been a growing time for me. I'm sad to see the seniors go and Tracy's shoes will be hard to fill, but we'll be working hard over the off-season."

Against Belleville, Garden City broke open a tight 30-26 halftime lead by outscoring the Tigers 15-6 in the third quarter.

"We came out in the second half and changed our press to a three-two zone which we pulled back at halfcourt, and they seemed to have trouble adjusting to that," Garden City coach Marshall Henry said.

Seniors Christie Glover and Jamie Faber paced the Cougars with 17 and 16 points, respectively. Junior forward Jennifer Talbot added 10.

Lady Crusaders seeking NAIA trip to San Diego

BY BRAD EMONS

■ VOLLEYBALL

Madonna University enters tonight's NAIA Great Lakes Regional Volleyball Tournament at the University of Michigan-Dearborn as the top seed.

The Lady Crusaders, 42-11 overall and ranked No. 13 in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, won two straight over the weekend, beating College of Mount St. Joseph (Ohio) and Central State (Ohio), to advance to the 12-team regional.

The regional winner moves on to the NAIA Nationals, Nov. 29-Dec. 2, at Point Loma-Nazarene in San Diego, Calif.

"I feel good about our chances, but a lot of teams are capable and anything can happen," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham, who guided the Lady Crusaders to a fifth-place NAIA National finish in 1993. "We're playing confident right now and that's a good sign leading up to the tourney. We need to continue that."

Madonna, which hosted the Great Lakes Region Eastern Independent Section last Friday and Saturday, beat Central State in the opening round, 15-1, 15-2, 15-7, while Mount St. Joseph knocked off UM-Dearborn, 15-10, 6-15, 15-7, 15-6.

Madonna downed Mt. St. Joe in the championship, 15-9, 15-2, 15-3, while UM-Dearborn took third with a 15-4, 15-6, 15-10 win over Central State.

Kelly McCausland, 5-foot-11 junior middle hitter from Redford Union, was Madonna's top attacker with 33 kills. She also added 24 digs en route to Independent Sectional Player of the Year honors.

Other Madonna players named to the All-Sectional team include 5-8 junior setter Meg Paris (79 assists and 19 digs); 6-2 junior middle hitter Julie Martin of Livonia Stevenson (32 kills and 11 digs); 5-10 sophomore outside hitter Erin Comment (31 digs and 18 kills); and 5-10 junior outside hitter Heather Steinhelper (19 kills and 18 digs).

UM-Dearborn's Vicki Rohraff (Wayne Memorial) also made the All-Sectional squad.

Other Madonna contributions came from 5-8 sophomore Erin Gregoire (25 digs); 5-8 freshman Jenny Russell (16 digs), 5-11 sophomore Nicole Scharrer (13 kills), 5-10 senior Tiffany Joseph (eight digs) and 5-11 sophomore Emily Marlow (six kills).

Scharrer filled in at outside hitter for starter Karin Sisung, a 5-10 freshman who injured her ankle last Thursday. Sisung is doubtful for this weekend.

"Karin was not available, and she is a primary passer on the outside and a big hitter for us, but Nicole (Scharrer) did a great job," Abraham said. "We feel we have depth to fill those spots when people go down."

Abraham said there were "two keys" to winning the Independent Sectional.

"System-wise, we controlled the first ball and got off the first pass, which allowed us to run our offensive efficiently," he said. "And secondly, we played with a lot of desire, cohesiveness and great focus."

Madonna, grouped in Pool A, opens action at 6 tonight against No. 12 seed Judson (Ill.), a team with a 25-17 record.

The Lady Crusaders resume action at 10 a.m. Friday vs. No. 9 Aquinas (22-20) followed by a 2:30 p.m. matchup against No. 6 Huntington, Ind. (37-5), a club which has beaten Madonna twice.

Elimination play starts at 7:30 p.m. Friday with action continuing at noon on Saturday.

"We're excited about this part of the season," said Abraham, who was selected Independent Sectional Coach of the Year. "We won a match and tourney there (UM-Dearborn) this year, and we feel we're in a comfortable setting and surroundings."

Schoolcraft, Goba earn top-10 finish

■ X-COUNTRY

Laura Loggins, Schoolcraft College's women's cross country coach, had hoped for something more. But then again, all those involved had hoped for better weather, too.

On a cold, windy, rainy Saturday at Alfred State College in Alfred, N.Y., the Lady Ocelots — racing in their first NJCAA Division II Women's Cross Country Championships — managed a seventh-place finish in the 12-team field.

Lansing CC finished first, scoring 76 points. Next was Macomb with 94, followed by Cloud County (97), Colby (110), Danville Area (137) and Cuyahoga (146). SC scored 168 and was followed by Essex (175), Highland CC (177), Southwest Indian Polytechnic (183), South Suburban (257) and Waubonsee (316).

SC's Dana Goba, from Farmington, placed sixth overall in 21:26.1 and was named to the women's Division II All-American second team.

"Dana is a very competitive runner, especially when she sets her mind to it," said Loggins.

Goba, a freshman, plans to attend Central Michigan next fall. Another member of the five-person team, Christine Spica, will play for SC's soccer team next fall.

According to Loggins, the course for Saturday's race "had very steep hills and consisted of mud and rocks. There was very little traction for the run up and down the hills.

"The girls' times for the first mile were consistent with their past one-mile pace times. The second mile consisted of a half-mile of uphill, and then another half-mile of mudslides."

That's where the Ocelots struggled, according to Loggins. Stacy Moore finished 30th (22:58.5), Tara Teran was 36th (23:22.5), Nicole Falk was 58th (24:34.7) and Spica was 72nd (25:43.7).

"The strange thing is that Schoolcraft beat Lansing and Cuyahoga at regionals, and they beat us at nationals," said Loggins. "Schoolcraft should have been placing fifth at nationals, but we can still do it next year."

SC wins Inter-regional

BY C.J. RISAK

■ COLLEGES

Next stop — Baltimore.

Or as the Schoolcraft College women's soccer team prefers to put it: "We're goin' to the show!"

Indeed they are. The Lady Ocelots won their Inter-regional Tournament last weekend in Louisburg, N.C., beating DeKalb (Ga.) 6-0 last Saturday and Brevard (N.C.) 2-0 last Sunday.

The two wins elevated SC's season record to 9-6 and qualified the Ocelots for the eight-team NJCAA Tournament, which starts today and concludes this Sunday at Essex CC, in Baltimore.

SC opens with a formidable and familiar foe: Florissant Valley (St. Louis). The Ocelots split two matches this season with Flo Valley, winning the first 1-0 at the College of DuPage (Chicago) Tournament and losing the second 2-0 in St. Louis. That match will be played at 11 today.

"I knew we could beat both these teams," said SC coach Nikki Johnson of last weekend's games. "If we showed up to play, we'd win."

Johnson did have some reservations. "We hadn't played well back-to-back (Saturday and Sunday) all year — until last weekend," she said.

Of course, she had to have some reservations prior to last weekend's matches, too. Her team hadn't played since a 2-0 win over Central Michigan Oct. 29, and that match came after a two-week layoff.

"I think it was good, because my girls were all eager to play," Johnson said of the time off (that insight, of course, came after the two weekend wins had been posted).

The victory Saturday over DeKalb was so lopsided, the game was called with 10 minutes remaining due to a downpour. The outcome was in hand — Stephanie Surma had netted two goals and an assist, with Staci Muysenberg getting a goal and an assist, and Holly Kimble (from Livonia Stevenson), Erin Stacherski (Livonia Churchill) and Melissa Crain adding one goal apiece.

Susan O'Neill (Plymouth Canton) and Misty Heath (Stevenson) also had assists. Katie Boatman was in goal for the shutout.

On Sunday, the Ocelots faced Brevard, ranked fourth in the NJCAA.

Crain volleyed a cross from the corner toward the Brevard net in the first half and the shot went in to give SC a 1-0 lead. O'Neill drew the assist.

In the second half, a Muysenberg shot was stopped, but O'Neill was there to knock in the rebound to assure the Ocelots of the victory.

Boatman, again, collected the shutout. She was aided greatly by the SC defense, anchored by sweeper Sue Parrish (Plymouth Salem).

Their last two trips to the NJCAA ended with a fourth ('91) and a third ('90) place finish. One of the leaders on those teams was Johnson.

"We'll do well, just because we're so excited," she predicted. "They've earned their way."

SC is the fifth seed in the tournament. The top seed goes to Monroe (N.Y.), a team the Ocelots lost to 1-0 in overtime in September. "We outplayed them, and we should have beaten them," said Johnson.

ALL-AREA BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

Pace-setters

Leo, Salem, Lutheran Westland lead pack

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Joe Leo

Lutheran High Westland was certainly the surprise team in boys cross country this year.

No, the Warriors were known throughout Observerland, but they cracked the top 10 in the state Class C meet with a stunning second place finish Nov. 4 in Lowell.

The Warriors also placed two runners on the first-team.

Introducing the 1995 All-Area Boys Cross Country Squad.

FIRST-TEAM SELECTIONS

Joe Leo, senior, Redford CC: Won the state class A individual race in 15:42. He is a three-time All-State and All-Observer pick.

He was also a two-time regional (15:59) and Catholic League (16:05) champion. Leo also repeated as champ at the Sturgis (15:31), Haslett (15:32) and West Bloomfield (15:52) invitationals.

As a senior, Leo also captured Holly (15:55) and the Operation-Friendship (16:08) crowns.

"Joe is one of the hardest workers I've ever coached," CC coach Tony Magni said. "He focused throughout the season to do well as an individual runner, but at the same time, as our captain, was pushing the team to do well.

"Joe was a very confident runner who thrives on competition. He was our leader for the past three years and will be missed."

Scott Pengelly, senior, Ply. Salem: Earned All-State recognition with a fourth-place finish in the state Class A individual race (16:07).

Pengelly also took second in the regional (16:13), West Bloomfield (16:14) and Jackson (16:14) invitational meets. He added a third in the Western Lakes Activities Association (16:45) and won the Early Bird invitational.

"The reason for Scott's success is his work ethic," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "He is the hardest worker I've ever had.

"He will be missed a great deal come next fall."

Jared Bieniecki, senior, Ply. Salem: Another All-Stater who finished 10th in the Class A individual race (16:19).

Bieniecki was also WLAA champion (16:28) and finished third in the regional (16:15).

Other top finishes include fourth at Ypsilanti (16:22) and Pioneer (16:48); and eighth at Jackson (16:16), West Bloomfield (16:53) and Holly (16:55). His best clocking this season was 16:10.

"Jared has developed into one of the state's elite runners," Baker said, "and he has yet to reach his full running potential."

Jared Roth, junior, F.H. Harrison: Came out of nowhere to finish 11th in Class A (16:41), fifth in the regional (16:44) and seventh in the Western Lakes meet (17:03).

He also took a third at the Gabriel Richard Invitational (17:07) and 25th at Oakland County (17:24).

"Jared is the most outstanding first-year runner that I have ever coached," Harrison's John Reed said. "He's tremendously talented and a fine young gentleman. He has a great cross country future.

"One of his best traits is that he is very coachable and listens well to advice. He learns, and applies what he learns, to successful experiences."

Brian Rajdl, senior, N. Farmington: Despite nagging back problems, Rajdl came on strong at the end of the season with a 15th in the Class A individual race (16:43) and 16th at both the Western Lakes and regional meets.

He also garnered a fourth at Oakland County (16:45) and a sixth at the Huron Invitational (16:37).

"At the start of the year I was looking for Brian to be under 16 minutes," North coach Paul Welch said. "If he had been healthy, I think that was very much within his ability.

"For the last month his back would tighten up and he would slow down considerably. In the state meet, he was able to hold out a little longer and had a fairly strong race. I was happy to see him have one last good race his senior year."

Brad Polkinghorne, senior, Lutheran Westland: The four-year varsity letter winner won Class C All-State honors after finishing 13th in the team race with a time of 16:40.

He also took firsts at the regional (16:49) and Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational. He took a second at the Metro Conference meet and posted a season-best time of 16:23 at the Crestwood Charger Invitational.

"Brad was a great competitor all four years," Lutheran Westland coach John Gerlach said. "He was always mentally ready to run the big races. His determination to win would raise his physical abilities to a higher level."

Scott Oswald, senior, F.H. Harrison: Oswald finished 39th in the state Class A individual races (17:11) after qualifying with a 15th in the regional (17:13).

He added a sixth at the Gabriel Richard Invitational (17:41), a 10th at the Western Lakes finals (17:21) and a 30th at the Oakland County Meet (17:28).

"Scott is a 4.0 student who worked tremendously hard to get to this level," Reed said. "Each year he steadily improved and made himself into one of the elite runners in the area. We are very proud of him as he is of himself."

Ian Bedford, senior, Ply. Canton: The four-year varsity letter winner posted four dual meet wins and third fastest time in school history.

He finished first in both the Monroe-Jefferson (16:29) and Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard Invitational (16:44).

Bedford was 64th at the state meet after qualifying seventh at the Buhr Park regional with a seventh-place time of 16:56.

"He has been the standard setter for hard work and discipline in training," Canton coach Mike Spitz said. "He has run many great races and has been victorious as well, but more importantly, to our team and program, has been his sense of concern for his teammates, and respect shown toward his competitors."

Sam Patterson, senior, Lutheran Westland: The three-year varsity harrier won the Metro Conference meet and five duals.

He finished second in the regional (17:22) and capped his career with a 16th place finish at the state Class C meet (16:45).

Patterson posted a season-best time of 16:38 at the Center Line Invitational.

"Sam is an example of summer running and hard work paying off," Gerlach said. "He matured into a very competitive runner and a team leader this season.

"Sam and Brad (Polkinghorne) became the one-two punch this year."

Rob Block, sophomore, Liv. Stevenson: After breaking his foot over the summer, the youngest member of the All-Area team recovered nicely. He finished fifth in the Western Lakes meet with a time of 16:54 (school record on the Cass Benton course).

Block qualified for the Class A individual state meet with a ninth-place finish at the Buhr Park regional (17:01). He was 63rd in the state meet.

"Rob has extremely good potential," Stevenson coach John Gores. "He's a racer who excels at big meets. He can pace himself well and rises to the occasion during races."

Donahue primes Ocelots for hoop season

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

It's been 10 years since Glen Donahue coached at a junior college. Has the game changed in that decade?

Or can Donahue utilize the same formula he used so successfully in his 19 seasons at Highland Park CC as he rolled to a 401-205 won-loss record, now at a school more noted for its basketball futility?

The coaching legend takes over a struggling Schoolcraft College men's program. His predecessor, Dave Bogataj, was dismissed after the Ocelots concluded a 3-24 season — his eighth-straight losing record. SC was 70-161 in Bogataj's tenure, the best a 14-15 mark in '90-91.

Last year's results were the worst.

If Donahue's learned anything in his 30-plus years of coaching, it's being able to recognize the difficulty of a situation. "It's going to be a helluva battle," Donahue said. "We're working our backsides off, but I'm going to have to have patience."

OUTLOOK

That may be the biggest challenge for Donahue. He didn't have much time to recruit players for this season's team, but there is some talent.

First of all, five players return from last season's squad and one from the season before: Mark Baluk, a 6-foot-3 forward, and Jason Maschke, a 6-5 guard/forward, both from Livonia Franklin; Doug Walters, a 6-1 guard; Dave Pavlak, a 6-1 guard; and Stan Cavin, a 6-3 guard, all from last year, and Tim Burns, a 6-6 forward, from the year before.

And they're essential in Donahue's system, which is a bit different than the norm. He uses a point guard and a post player, with two wings and someone at the top of the key.

It worked well for him at St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake, where he coached after leaving Highland Park CC. Donahue guided the Eagles into the NAIA National Tournament twice before the program was dropped.

At present, Donahue plans on rotating Chris Hebner, 6-6 from Wayne Memorial; Naron Burks, 6-6 from River Rouge; Jeremy Rule, 6-5 from Redford Union; and Jason Maxey, 6-6 from Ypsilanti; at the post position. Dwaun Warmack, 5-9 from Detroit Finney, and returnee Walters figure to share the point position.

At the wing spots will be Rudy Hatfield, 6-3 from Livonia Churchill; Tyris Williams, 6-5 from Dearborn Robichaud; Aaron Brown, 6-2 from Birmingham Groves and a Northwood University transfer; Pavlak and Maschke. Burns and Pavlak will also play the high post, with some of the low post people in the mix.

"I'd like to say Schoolcraft will have an undefeated team and win the state title, but that's not realistic," Donahue said. "You've got to walk before you run, and you've got to crawl before you walk.

"I didn't see last year's team play. All I've seen is their won-loss record. But I would like to think we will (be better).

"It gets you down when you lose like that."

The schedule could make losing commonplace, unfortunately. The Ocelots play Grand Rapids CC, the state's most formidable junior college team, twice in the next three weeks, along with noted powers Owens Tech and Kellogg CC.

And then there's the Eastern Conference schedule, which is also imposing: Mott CC figures to be on top, with Macomb, Alpena, Henry Ford and Oakland CC all in the hunt.

"They're looking forward to this," said Donahue of his team's attitude. "They think it's a challenge. I think everything is mental. If you've got good players, all you need to do is bind together and think positive."

Still, there's executing a coach's plan. "Defense is the cornerstone of any good team," Donahue added, "and I don't think we're a good defensive team right now."

There may be several areas in which SC is lacking. But if history holds true, as long as Donahue is in control, it won't be spirit.

Madonna drops OT opener

Poor free-throw shooting spoiled Bernie Holowicki's debut as Madonna University men's basketball coach.

The Fighting Crusaders opened their 1995 season with a pair of losses on the road.

On Tuesday, Madonna traveled to North Canton, Ohio, falling to host Walsh College in the Hoops For Habitat Charity Basketball Classic, 94-80.

Madonna made only 22 of 36 free throws (61.1 percent) after connecting on only 17 of 34 (50 percent) in Saturday's season-opening 79-74 overtime loss at Ohio Dominican.

Frank Zielinski, a 6-foot-7 transfer from Oakland University, led Madonna against Walsh with a game-high 36 points (12 of 29 field-goal shooting) to go along with 13 rebounds.

Jeff Kennedy was the only other Crusader to score in double figures with 15 points. He added nine rebounds for Madonna, which trailed 43-37 at intermission.

Zielinski, the Birmingham Brother Rice product, scored a game-high 25 and grabbed 10 rebounds against Ohio Dominican. He was nine of 14 from the field and seven of 17 from the line.

Junior guard Christian Emert (Walled Lake Central) added 14 points and six assists, while junior forward Brandon Slone (Plymouth Salem) contributed 13 points. Kennedy snared 10 rebounds.

Ohio Dominican, which outscored the Crusaders 12-7 during the five-minute overtime session, was led by Chris Kitsmiller's 21 points.

■ MADONNA (WOMEN) 85, TIFFIN 73: The Lady Crusaders, paced by Meegan Marlatt's game-high 24 points and seven assists, rallied from a 46-36 halftime deficit to win their season opener Saturday at Tiffin, Ohio.

Three-point shooting carried the Lady Crusaders, who hit 13 of 27 beyond the arc. They also were perfect on all 10 free throws.

Katie Cushman, a freshman guard from Flint Powers, scored 16 points in her Madonna debut. Francine Williams came off the bench to added 15 points, while Dawn Pelc and Marry Murray each added eight.

Madonna shot 31 of 68 from the floor (45.6 percent).

Ashley Allen and Tonya Swick scored 19 and 18, respectively, for Tiffin.

Tiffin was 20 of 26 (76.9 percent) from the line and 25 of 61 from the floor (41.0 percent).

Madonna had only 16 turnovers to Tiffin's 26.

Climbing rope test of physical fitness

There is a new Reebok Sports Club in New York I visited recently. One of the featured activities was climbing a rope. I watched as extremely physically fit young men were climbing with no problem. Is this a skill that can be taught? Is it a matter of physical endurance or skill, or both? Amazing!

EXERCISING OPTIONS

MYRNA PARTRICH

Yes. It is amazing. It takes a lot to climb that rope. It takes coordination, good strong hands, good upper torso strength, and all-around good condition.

Once you've got these physical attributes, it is a skill to learn — yes. The key to learning to climb rope is found in the concept of gravity.

When you hang a rope in standard fashion, vertically from the ceiling and ask someone to climb it, they will be climbing upward and working against gravity. This resistance is enough to test a real athlete.

A good way to learn rope climbing would be to start in a horizontal position (rope extended horizontally across an area). The work load is then reduced enough that anyone who can hang on can learn the skill. To increase resistance, gradually change the angle from the horizontal position.

When the rope finally becomes vertical, consider yourself a graduate of rope climbing school. As you develop this skill safely and efficiently, you then will know the secret to rope climbing. By climbing rope you will add to your overall physical endurance, plus strengthen your upper body while having a great time.

GARDEN SPOT

Ornamental grasses add beauty to gardens

MARTY FIGLEY

Wheat, oats, barley and corn are in the grass or Gramineae family, and we are as familiar with them as we are with most any plant. Seeing tall stalks of brown corn in a field evokes a certain warmth in the soul when autumn arrives, and the others, with creamy seed stalks swaying in the breeze, impart a rhythm to the landscape as no other plants can.

Now ornamental grasses are being used more and more in home landscaping to add their own particular beauty to the garden. Color, texture and shape can be found in grasses, and there are probably several that would fit any plan — some that flower very early and others that flower late in the season, although most of the flowers are inconspicuous.

Tall or short, annual or perennial, there is a grass for any garden situation. When siting a grass, keep in mind that some are spread by runners, and others are clumping types that don't take over an area.

Identification

If you remember that grass means joint, you can always identify the plant as being just that. Sedges and rushes are two other groups of plants that are mistaken for grasses, but now you will be able to tell a real grass — just remember joint.

Grass plants also have narrow leaves, parallel veins and tiny insignificant flowers that appear on the stalks in two rows. Generally the stems are hollow except at the node (where the leaf attaches to the stem). The stems are usually round, and the base of the leaf wraps around the stem; this structure is called the sheath.

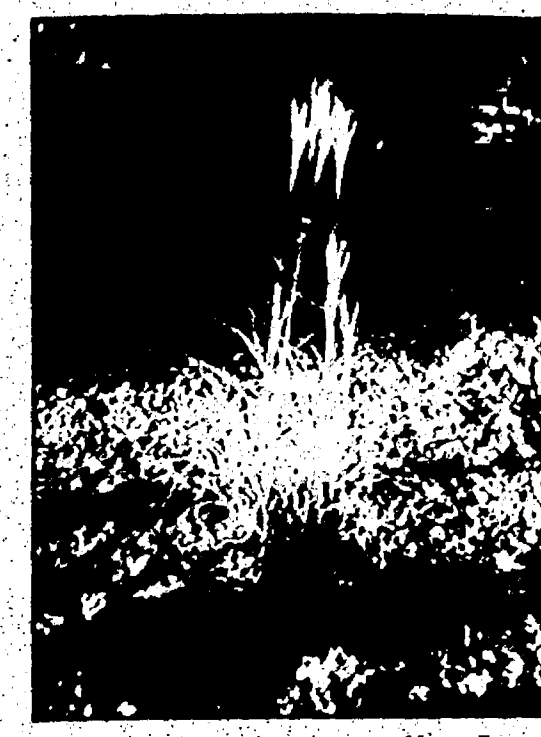
Wolfgang Oehme and James van Sweden began using grasses in the landscape a number of years ago, and the idea has "swept the nation." Now many catalogs and nurseries offer a number of grasses for the home garden.

The grasses first mentioned are grains and don't belong in a landscape plan, but it is interesting nonetheless to note they are in the grass family. Also, others of the grasses are considered weeds and we do our best to rid the gardens of them, although many do provide food for wildlife.

Choices

We are fortunate to live in a climate zone that is ideal for these plants and to have a great variety from which to choose. Following is a description of some grasses that you might want to consider for your own garden.

Silver spike grass, Achnatherum brachyricha, an early fall bloomer with purple-rose flower clusters, to 24 to 30 inches tall.



MARTY FIGLEY

Another silver spike grass, Spodiopogon sibiricus, has separated, dark silver-purple spikelets in mid- to late summer, while the bamboo-like foliage turns reddish purple to yellow in the fall.

Purple silver grass, M. sinensis purpurascens, has silvery flower panicles with a blend of burgundy, gold-yellow, red and purple foliage in midsummer.

Tall purple moor grass, Molinia arundinacea, another early fall bloomer, five to six feet tall. There are several varieties of Miscanthus Molinia.

Fountain grass, Penniselum alopecuroides and P. orientale, are both popular grasses and have summer and fall interest. They grow to 36 inches tall.

Autumn moor grass, Sesleria autumnalis, has yellow-green foliage and silver-white to light brown panicles. Its height is from 12 to 18 inches.

When you order or make your purchase, do a little homework as to their growing needs and habits, so that you won't be disappointed.

While doing research for this article, I learned that the popular Ribbon grass, Phalaris arundinacea, which graces many of our gardens, is a mutation or a "sport" of Reed Canary Grass, a native perennial, which has the same botanical name, P. canariensis is a related species, native to the Canary Islands, and is a primary source of commercial bird food. The canary bird also comes from the Canary Islands.

Pencil pilgrims

Table toppers: Fresh off the Mayflower, pencil pilgrims are ready to brighten your Thanksgiving table. Available in figurines and candlestick holders, the male and female pairs are crafted of fine resin and adorned in authentic looking garb. The whimsical pair of figurines retails for $29.95, the pencil pilgrim candlestick holders for $11.95 each. Available at Heslop's.

Alabaster art

Carving culture: American Indian culture and history is rich with legends and strong traditions. Artist Brian Begay carves out a piece of the history with his beautifully detailed alabaster sculptures. The work shown here displays an American Indian with an eagle adornment on his back. Begay has carved this sculpture with careful attention to detail, each aspect created with distinction. The attributes of the man's face and garb, as well as those of the eagle, have been crafted with clean, clear strokes. The workmanship demonstrates the care with which the artist created the piece. Available for $490 at Native West, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

It was not so long ago when a newspaper story mentioned my continuing wish to have our state government help protect consumers from being ripped off by those in the appliance repair business who are unethical. In all of my many years of working toward this goal, I seem to have run into so many road blocks, some created by my own stupidity, and others which stemmed from the lack of understanding by people who should know.

In 1991 Gov. John Engler eliminated the Michigan Consumers Council which handled over 20,000 complaints and inquiries every year. The burden of this action was put into the hands of the Attorney General's office which is already short staffed. Around that time state Rep. Jan Dolan told the readers that more laws are unnecessary, continuing consumer education will take care of the problem.

I've been asking myself for the past 10 years, "What am I up against, the whole world?"

State Rep. Lyn Bankes, who is introducing new laws to protect Michigan consumers, called me the other day. "Joe, with all the publicity you've been getting, are you getting many consumers to stand with us in our upcoming legislative battle?" My reply to her and to you ladies and gentlemen is "YES" but only a few and we need much more. Where are all these people who call me and ask me if they were ripped off. Where are all the consumers that I freely went to small claims court with the past 10 years. Where are all these former service technicans who quit these rip-off companies because they couldn't sleep at night due their guilt feelings. In my finest Timmins, Ontario, vocabulary, let me put it this way, "Where in the flaming hell, is everybody? Lyn Bankes and I need your help."

Just a couple of true stories and there are many.

A few years ago on my television show I interviewed a service technican who had worked for an appliance service company for a period of six years. We blanked out his face and changed his voice so that nobody could recognize who he was. During this half hour interview, this man informed the viewing audience of how many ways he would rip off eight to 10 customers each day.

"I would go into a home to check out a washer which had quit operating. I removed the back lower cover and would see a broken wire to the motor which I left hanging there. I would inform the homeowner that they needed a new motor installed in the washer and that would take care of the problem. Their cost for the complete repair would be $220 and that because of the excellent condition of the machine, I would recommend repairing it verses buying a new washer. If the customer said they were not going to have it repaired, I would clip one of the motor windings or internal wires to make sure the motor wouldn't run if they called someone else to check it.

"In the vast majority of cases though, the consumer said go ahead and do the job. I would then remove the old motor and take it out to my truck and place the old motor into a neat cardboard empty motor box of which I always had plenty. I would walk back into the home with the customers old motor in a new box under my arm and complete the repairs. All I did, really, was remove the old motor and reinstall the old motor and then I fixed the broken wire. I earned several hundred dollars a day working for this company for over six years."

I once went to a home where a man had a cold control replaced on his refrigerator for a sum of $300. The service man was in and out of the house in less than a half hour and the contol cost should have been $26. I checked the control that was supposed to have been replaced and found it to be the exact control that was installed at the factory.

I asked the homeowner if he had watched the service man replace it and he answered "No."

When the service man had quoted him the price of repairs, the homeowner asked why it should cost so much. The service man grabbed the customer by the shirt collar and asked him if he wanted the blankedy-blank thing fixed or not. The customer said yes and went and sat on the chesterfield until the man was done. He wrote the man a check for $300 and never moved off that sofa for the next two hours.

I went to court with that homeowner who was dying of cancer and weighed all of 82 pounds. I know, I carried that frail old man in my arms into the district court of Westland.

These are just a few stories of the many I've seen and experienced and maybe it's just enough to get you thinking of why Lyn Bankes and I need you. Drop me a note, I'd like to hear from you.

TREASURE SEARCH

Child's Chair has many sources

NANCY AND FRANK BOOS

Dear Nancy and Frank:

My grandparents came from Finland and I remember this chair as a small child. I'm now 55. Can you tell me about this chair?

Sandra Strubel, Romulus

Dear Sandra:

We don't believe this chair is of Finnish heritage. We think this chair is of the "Heinz 57" variety regarding heritage. We don't wish to hurt your feelings, but this chair has charm and whimsy in that it isn't purebred but a combination of many hereditary characteristics.

For instance, the legs appear English in style, the arms similar to country American or a variant of English William and Mary, the back reminiscent of a ladderback chair (although ladderbacks usually have at least three cross members), and the top backsplat carved with a grotesque face reminds us of what's called "fantasy" or "grotesque" furniture.

Fantasy furniture is basically Venetian in style and bears a profusion of grotesque masks, heavily carved evil-looking creatures and exotic sculptural motifs. Great fun!

But don't consider your chair as unwanted or unappealing because it's not aristocratic lineagewise. There is a specific market out there composed of people who love the unexpected, nonconforming and less than traditional. This is also the kind of heirloom your family will enjoy.

We think your chair is newer, possibly turn of the century, and therefore not antique. The definition of "antique" for furniture is at least 100 years old. We feel that it could possibly be found in a retail shop for around $300 to $400.

Nancy and Frank Boos are with the Frank H. Boos Gallery, an appraisal firm and auction house at 420 Enterprise Court in Bloomfield Hills that has been in the auction business for more than 30 years. Do you have an item you would like to know about? Send in a good photo of it, along with its description (including size, working parts, etc.) and any known provenance (history) to Treasure Search, The Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009. Include your name, community and phone number.

Antiques show at fair grounds

The 48th annual Metro Detroit Junior Group Goodwill Antiques Show will take place Friday-Sunday, Nov. 17-19, at the Michigan State Fair Grounds, Woodward and Eight Mile in Detroit.

Tickets, $7 general admission and $6 senior citizens, may be bought at the door or through Junior Group-Goodwill members. Doors open 11 a.m. For more information, call (313) 886-6787.

A special patron's preview will take place 7-10 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 16. To order tickets for the preview, $75 to $125, call (313) 886-6787.

The show features 50 select exhibitors from the East and Midwest who specialize in 18th and 19th century furniture, art objects, rugs, glassware, silver, brass, pewter, tole, jewelry, maps, prints, oil paintings and nautical items.

Participants include the Weiss Gallery of Bloomfield Township, Shabahang Persian Carpets and Big Beaver Antiques of Troy and Cleone Chase of Birmingham.

In addition to antiques, the traditional Goodwill Booth (donated and refinished furniture and collectibles), pantry, bakery and boutique and silent auction wil be staffed by Junior Group members.

All show proceeds benefit Goodwill Industries' educational and vocational training programs for people with disabilities and other barriers to employment.

BOOK BREAK

Ann Arbor mystery is fun, entertaining

VICTORIA DIAZ

"Curly Smoke," by Susan Holtzer (213 pp., $20.95, St. Martin's Press).

Outside, a storm rages. Through the fickle hand of fate, a rather motley collection of characters find themselves thrown together in a sanctuary of sorts. Eventually, this little group makes a terrible discovery: a murderer lurks among them.

Sound familiar? It's the gist of innumerable murder mysteries, of course — and also the gist of "Curly Smoke."

You'll find the characters of "Curly Smoke" familiar, too. Beautiful heiress. Appealing child. Wimpy husband. Bossy, earth-mother type. Handsome ex-jock. Tweedy professor. Aging curmudgeon. A few students living in semi-squalor. Adventurous heroine, complete with snappy sports car.

Sound trite, hackneyed, contrived, tired, and tiresome?

Holtzer's mystery novel is fun, entertaining, colorful, and completely absorbing. A true mystery fan could do worse on a howling winter's night than a generous cup of hot chocolate and this bracing fireside read.

Holtzer's "sanctuary" is a small residential enclave called Mackinac Court, located in the heart of downtown Ann Arbor. Just off Division Street, the oddly situated complex is made up of two Victorian mansions, three "elderly McKinleys" (built post-World War I), two cozy cottages, and a storage shed. Dreadful secrets lurk within the nooks and niches of Mackinac Court. And, you can be sure, murder most foul waits within its shadows.

As the story opens, independent computer consultant (and Art Deco maven) Anneke Haagen has just moved into one of the two cottages. Her own treasure-filled home lies beneath a shroud of ice in this "pale December," recently destroyed by fire. Anneke is a nightmare-ravaged wreck herself, having only narrowly escaped her own destruction in the flames. She doesn't know it yet, but her troubles will quickly multiply.

Almost as soon as she moves in, an elderly woman dies inside one of the mansions. One morning shortly afterwards, Anneke discovers a very dead body a few steps from her front door. A brilliant architectural student — one of her neighbors — has been strangled. With a length of dental floss.

Anneke, in addition to being a computer whiz and an Art Deco-phile, is (now wouldn't you know it?) something of an amateur detective. Soon, she and boyfriend Karl Genesko (former Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker, but now, conveniently, with the Ann Arbor police) set out, in the wintry landscape, to track down the killer.

At the heart of all the trouble in "Curly Smoke" lies the deadly sin of greed. Something is going on about a new development called the Division Project, in which Mackinac Court would be leveled to make way for something more lucrative. This, it turns out, is a matter of life and death importance to somebody at ground zero. (This sounds familiar, too?)

So, if the plot and the characters repeatedly evoke feelings of deja vu, what keeps these pages turning at a fast-forward rate?

It's often all in the way a writer says things, and not in what they say, I suppose. And perhaps this is especially true of mystery tales, in which players are more or less stock characters and plots are more or less variations on a theme. (Yes, yes, I know there are exceptions.)

Susan Holtzer not only knows how to use words to build suspense and tension, her words also sometimes take on a kind of surprising lyrical quality. ("Flames fell around her in small, bright droplets," she begins this book, "and where they touched the ground, glittering ice flowers bloomed.")

Another plus for the clever wordsmith: She knows how to keep a story going through well-paced dialogue, always convincingly cut to fit each character.

Ultimately, though, what may have appealed to me most here is Holtzer's marked sense of place. After reading this book, I'm convinced more mystery novels should be set in Ann Arbor. With its serpentine thoroughfares, shadowy old buildings and trees, ghosts, and its ability to confuse, it seems to me a natural backdrop for a whodunit. From the windy street corners to the "bad Midwestern espresso" served at the Michigan Union to the brick-paved streets outside Zingerman's to the bedlam of traffic on the first day of classes after Christmas vacation, Holtzer has captured the city's wintertime flavor almost exactly, and just nailed it to these pages.

COVER STORY

Staying in and PUMPING UP

Physical fitness has become an increasingly popular pursuit. Health clubs are enjoying success. But many people are opting to exercise at home. From simple weight sets to elaborate spa rooms, area residents are getting fit at home

STORY BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Rita Borgman of Plymouth Township has always exercised. She started doing aerobics and has recently taken up weight training.

And though she still goes to a health club occasionally, she has now joined the growing number of people who exercise at home at their own personal spa.

"It's better to work out at home than at a gym," Borgman said. "Me, I use them both, but it's much more convenient for my husband, you don't have any excuses. The convenience is great."

Borgman, 39, and her husband, Ron, had a recreation room built in the basement and created a special area for their gym, using equipment they bought from Fitness Things on Ford Road in Canton. She has a Trotter treadmill, a Lifecycle, free weights and a universal weight machine.

Bill Underwood, a sales representative at Fitness Things, said that many people are discovering the convenience of a home gym.

"We try to get an idea where they're coming from — usually they've tired of the spa scene. Both people have to work — there's no time to go to the gym. When they go out to the gym, that takes time from the kids — that figures prominently," Underwood said.

Set ups

Underwood said customers usually have some idea of what they want, but need some help in understanding what equipment is available.

"It's a matter of realizing that what they're considering will be of good value and last for some time," Underwood said. "A lot of customers have teenage children and they buy it for them and then realize the benefits of weight training for parents."

Customers choose between free weights or a weight machine that will exercise different parts of the body.

Jeff Younker of Wate-Man in Livonia said the cost of a universal weight machine can vary depending on the sturdiness and flexibility of the equipment. Wate-Man sells a top of the line Hoist that can work out every major muscle group for $6,600. Less expensive units range from $700 up. A top of the line free weight system with a number of benches and racks can cost up to $1,000.

Underwood said many customers will combine weights with aerobic equipment. This could include a treadmill, stairstep, stationary bike, rowing machine, Nordic Track or the increasingly popular Aerobic Riders advertised on infomercials. Younker said treadmills, the most popular aerobic equipment, sell for $995 to $2395. The Aerobic Riders sell for around $200.

Underwood recommends the treadmill.

"The benefit of the treadmill is you're bearing your own weight. When you're carrying your own body weight, it's a more effective way to train," Underwood said. "If you can make exercise as mindless as possible, disassociate from what you're doing, that's what predicates a good treadmill."

Exercising options

Home gyms can be as simple as setting up a weight bench and a rack of weights in the basement to building a special room for a variety of equipment.

David MacInnes, president of BioFit Fitness Equipment with stores in Birmingham and Rochester Hills, sees a growing trend in home fitness centers.

"More and more people are devoting rooms to fitness. What used to be dad's den is now a family fitness center," said David MacInnes, president of BioFit Fitness Equipment with stores in Birmingham and Rochester Hills.

Some people will create home gyms as elaborate as some spas.

"Some installations we've done have been very elaborate with mirrors, sound systems to make it sparkle. They will generally prepare a room around the equipment," Underwood said. "Some will give us a room layout and ask what will fit best. One man designed a room around the equipment with TV, mirrors, a bayview facing orchards — phenomenally set up."

Rita Borgman said her husband's sales job made it difficult for him to go to commercial gyms.

Health clubs weren't the answer for Birmingham attorney Richard Bockoff and his wife, either.

"Spas get busy. We were at Franklin, but there were parking problems. You had to go through Check Point Charlie, stand in line, get a key," Bockoff said. "It was just too stressful at the end of the day."

Programs

Biofit has a personal trainer explain how to properly use the equipment they sell. They also recommend that customers work with a trainer.

"We decided three years ago to provide a trainer to avoid the dusty bike syndrome," MacInnes said.

Trainer Marcy Adams Sznewajs of Custom Fitness Inc. works with Biofit customers and offers a number of training programs including a free consultation, a $50 fitness evaluation and a $40 per session training program.

"The first session is to get them set on the equipment so they don't hurt themselves," she said.

She then works out a program that fits the goals and needs of each client.

"Most people I see don't know what they're doing and want someone to lead them in the right direction," Sznewajs said.

The Borgmans have a regular program that includes a trainer.

"We work with a trainer. I work out with a trainer three times a week," Rita Borgman said

The Bockoffs also use a personal trainer.

"My wife uses a personal trainer for motivation. I use it to learn proper technique and work out on my own."Bockoff said. "In tennis season I use it for tennis exercises. In golf season, I use it for golf exercises."

The Borgmans created their gym as part of a recreation room. For the Bockoffs, a new house provided the motivation to set up a home gym, complete with mirrored walls and a built-in television.

"The house had what looked like a gym or a potential gym so when we bought the house, we set up the gym about 10 years ago," Bockoff said.

The house came with a sauna bathroom and a high ceiling perfect for the tall weight racks and benches.

Bockoff said he enjoyed going to the spa gyms when he was single.

"Hey, I met my wife at the gym. You go there for reasons other than exercise," he said with a laugh. "Now, we've moved on the home gym."

INVITING IDEAS

Serve the unexpected for that holiday dessert

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Many holiday traditions revolve around the food that is served. Most families serve pumpkin pie or pumpkin something on Thanksgiving. It's a tradition that is seasonally appropriate, and has roots in early America — or so we are led to believe.

Traditions are good, they are a part of family life.

This year, keep your traditions — but try some different kinds of holiday desserts. Give your traditional dessert a new twist, or serve something unexpected — individual tarts, creme brulee laden with a flavorful cordial, or pumpkin cheesecake.

For some ideas, look at the new "Book of Tarts" by Maury Rubin, published by William Morrow and Company, Inc. It offers ideas for making the Chicest of Chic tarts. They truly look like they were designed by Albert Kahn or Frank Lloyd Wright. Here are some recipes to try.

Maple Whipped Cream Tart With a Side Of Maple-Baked Walnuts

Tart filling

About ¼ teaspoon canola oil or vegetable oil
1½ cups (6 ounces) walnut halves or pieces
¼ cup best-quality maple syrup
1 cup heavy cream

Tart Shells

13 tablespoons unsalted butter, cut into 13 pieces
⅓ cup confectioners' sugar
1 large egg yolk
1½ cups unbleached all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon heavy cream

To make tart shells: Let the butter sit at room temperature for 10-15 minutes. It should be malleable, but still cool.

Place the confectioners' sugar in the bowl of a stand mixer or a medium mixing bowl. Add the butter and toss to coat. Using the paddle attachment or a hand-held mixer, cream the sugar and butter at medium speed until the sugar is no longer visible. Scrape down the sides of the bowl. Add the egg yolk and beat until well blended. Scrape down the sides of the bowl again. Add half of the flour and beat until the dough becomes crumbly. Stop the machine, add the remaining flour and then the cream, and beat until the dough forms a sticky mass.

Shape the dough into a disk, and wrap well in plastic. Refrigerate until firm, approximately 2 hours. Then shape into six tart shells.

To make the tart filling:

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F. Line a small baking sheet with parchment paper or aluminum foil and grease with the oil.

Put the walnuts in a medium baking dish, add ¼ cup of the maple syrup, and toss to coat. Bake for 15 minutes, or until the syrup has baked onto the nuts. Spread the walnuts on the prepared baking sheet. If there are any large cluster of nuts, separate them. Let cool.

Pour the cream into the bowl of a stand mixer or a mixing bowl. Using the whisk attachment, or a hand-held mixer, beat the cream at medium speed until soft peaks form. Add the remaining ¼ cup maple syrup and beat for a few more seconds, just to blend.

Spoon the maple whipped cream into the tart shells. Serve the walnuts on the side, in individual ramekins or on the same plates as the tarts.

This is an absolutely fabulous cheesecake recipe — one of the very best!

Duglass Pumpkin Cheesecake

Crust:

1 cup crushed graham crackers
1 cup ground almonds
1 cup chopped walnuts
Butter, melted (usually 1 stick)

Filling:

3 pounds (six 8-ounce) packages cream cheese, at room temperature
1 cup granulated sugar
4 eggs
1 shot cognac
1 shot dark rum
1½ cups fresh or canned pumpkin puree
1 heaping tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
4-6 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup finely chopped almonds

To make crust: Combine crushed graham crackers and nuts, add enough melted butter to hold together; sprinkle on the bottom of a sprayed (no-stick cooking spray) 10-inch springform pan and pat down.

Note: You may use crust mixture as desired. Just remember to combine equal amounts of each nut and crushed graham crackers; store until needed.

To make filling: At high speed of electric mixer, whip cream cheese for about 10 to 15 minutes, or until very fluffy. While cheese is whipping, add sugar, and 4 eggs, one at a time at one minute intervals. Add cognac and rum (to taste, if desired). Fold in pumpkin and pumpkin pie spice. In a separate bowl, whip egg whites and cream of tartar until very stiff. Fold egg-whites into pumpkin-cream cheese mixture along with the chopped almonds. Spoon pumpkin mixture into prepared springform pan. Bake at 300 degrees F. for one hour (make sure it appears firm). Let cool, then chill.

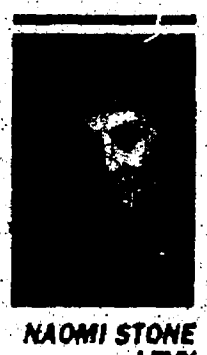
INTERIOR MOTIVES

As children change, so should their rooms



NAOMI STONE LEVY

It is hard enough to keep children in shoes. How do we keep up with your youngster's environment? It will seem like yesterday that the crib was dismantled. Today he or she is a pre-teener, and wanting to be treated as if ready for college. Bridging all the many gaps requires ingenuity as well as dollars. We also need to build for the future.

As a nursery, the painted walls and woodwork may have been powder blue; highly unsatisfactory now. Repainting is in order. If you are able to paint everything white you have a background for the years ahead.

Your youngster will undoubtedly opt for a contemporary mode; a place for the gang to sit on the floor with potato chips and Cokes. The carpeting should be a good neutral taupe. That will be compatible now, and with any future changes. Choose one that doesn't show footprints.

The second problem to solve is the window treatment. The practical options are plasticized vertical louvers, or horizontal metal mini-blinds. I still recommend white. Get all the flamboyant colors young people crave from several wild posters, always changeable, always important to them. Allow them to make their own selections.

Take your boy or girl with you to a fabric warehouse that has vast selections of sheets and pillowcases. You can even mix and match in a quilt that will serve as the bedspread. Be discriminating and practical. Don't select too light a color format. There is no absolute need for a headboard. The mattress and spring can rest on a platform.

Desk set

Next on the hit parade should be a desk. This is the most difficult piece to find, because most of them look as though they belong in an office.

My own personal favorite for a young person would be "campaign" in style, with brass corners, and military hardware; very square and simple in configuration. The color of the wood might range from pecan (light in tone) to very dark and highly polished mahogany. If your occupant is very lucky and has a personal computer, he or she will require a typewriter return that is several inches lower than the desk.

You can create your own desk by using two colorful files that are no taller than 28 inches and adding a large piece of plastic laminate any size you choose as the writing surface.

■ Your youngster will undoubtedly opt for a contemporary mode; a place for the gang to sit on the floor with potato chips and Cokes.

Topping the writing surface I recommend a "Tizio" lamp: the best of the modern lamps and currently considered a classic. They afford terrific halogen lighting, as well as swiveling 360 degrees, fulfilling every need. Now select a secretarial chair in an appropriate vibrant color.

Storage

Storage for clothing is critical. If the youngsters deign to put their possessions away rather than toss them on the floor or across a chair, give them the option of drawers and/or cabinetry. The latter will also house a small TV.

Furniture stores display an entire group of white or gray plastic laminate furniture (if you choose the gray be sure it is agreeable with the carpeting). Some of the components are stackable and utilitarian and not overly expensive. A bookcase will be meaningful in completing one great room.

A small, low, loungy chair should be included in this room, always needed for studying. If it can be placed anywhere close to the desk, the one Tizio lamp will suffice because of its swivel feature. A futon will provide a bed for an overnight guest — groovy!

Your young guy or gal will think they are terribly sophisticated if you include a coffee table. It will afford them a place to display all their "junk." Very important.

We have now bridged the gap between infancy and pre-teens. All the pieces you have selected should carry on through their college career. They will undoubtedly change the posters a half-dozen times over the years. You will need to replace the bedding patterns because of wear and tear. But you have allowed for the secondary onslaught.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Portraits should reveal something about subject

MONTE NAGLER

A good portrait should try to tell something about the subject. A photograph of someone is, in a sense, a visual biography. Some of the best portraits aren't mere likenesses, but are interpretations of the subject's character.

How do you go about getting good, meaningful portraits? Let's start by talking about lenses.

The best focal length lenses to use are those between 85mm and 200mm. Any lens shorter than 85mm such as your normal 50mm lens will necessitate shooting at at intimidatingly close distance and will also result in distortion of the face. Any lens larger than 200mm will "flatten" the image and the face won't appear normal in the finished portrait.

Be prepared to take lots of pictures. Facial expressions are constantly changing and each subtle shift should be captured on film. Often, an entire roll of film will produce only two or three good shots.

For correct exposures, move in close and take your reading directly off the skin. This way, an extremely light or dark background won't influence the meter.

Lighting is of utmost importance. The best guideline is to keep it simple. I prefer natural window light or a single artificial light at a 45-degree angle to the side and above the subject. To fill in the side of the face opposite the light source, use a white poster board as a reflector. If you desire, an extra light above and behind the subject will dramatically accentuate the hair.

Be sure that there's a sparkle in the eyes that is caused by the reflection of the light source. This is called a "catch light" and is crucial "life" to a portrait. Also, because the eyes are the most important facial feature, always focus sharply on them.

Watch your backgrounds. A plain wall or piece of poster board will serve as an ideal interior background. Outdoors, consider using a wide aperture to reduce depth-of-field and blur out what could be a distracting background.

Shoot using a vertical format. Faces naturally go up and down so your composition should fit accordingly.

If your subject is wearing glasses, carefully check the viewfinder for unwanted reflections and adjust the lighting or the subject's position if necessary.

Before starting to shoot, build a rapport between you and your subject. The whole setting must be relaxed. How best to do this? By lots of conversation and being relaxed yourself. You'll see that your model will quickly relax, too.

Above all, don't force him or her into a pose. Your aim should be to relax your subject and make him or her feel like a valuable part of the creative process of getting a meaningful image on film.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is (810) 644-1314.

Face value: Janet Reus was a delightful subject for Monte Nagler's camera. This flattering portrait was produced by using a main light and a soft fill. A dark cloth was used as a background.

LET'S REMODEL

Questions help selection

NARI®
MICHIGAN REMODELING ASSOCIATION

Q: I have read your articles about selecting a contractor, but are there specific questions we could ask when we first sit down to talk to contractors about a remodeling project?

A: There are many questions you will have throughout the process of selecting a contractor and you may want to keep a folder to write them down when you think of them. Spending a good deal of time with the contractor will help you to know if you are comfortable with the idea of working with them and their staff. Following are the most commonly asked questions when I am working with clients and the information we provide them to assist in their decisions.

1. How long has your company been in business? We provide our background from the time of starting in the trades, through the years of growth including licenses, associations, special awards, and certificates of achievements.

2. What size of project are you capable of performing? A presentation book shows projects from a small kitchen or bath to complete house renovations with very satisfied customer letters. We also present several blueprints showing different projects.

3. Does your company have references? We present a list of suppliers, trade organizations and customers (with their approval) of various projects that include their phone number and address. These customers will take phone questions and allow potential customers to see the completed projects. We also will take the potential customer to projects under construction.

4. Are you licensed and insured? This is very important. We present our licenses and insurance, Workman's Comp and Umbrella General Liability that covers all our work including subcontractors.

5. Do you use subcontractors? We use licensed and insured subcontractors with proven years of experience. They are required to sign an agreement with us for Code of Conduct and provide us with copies of licenses, insurance, and references from their suppliers and customers for the past five years.

6. How long will it take to complete our project? Project times vary from city to city, but generally once we sign a contract it takes a week to obtain an architectural plan with plot plans for us to review and sign off on. The plans are submitted to the city for permits. A permit may be granted in one day or take 4-6 weeks depending on the project and municipality. We provide our customers with a general construction time for each type of project.

7. We have heard horror stories about contractors who were paid in full for the project but never paid their suppliers or subcontractors. References of customers and organizations will provide you with information about the integrity of a company. We will provide you with partial and full waivers of lien of our subcontractors and suppliers and a contractors sworn statement of these payments. The Michigan Construction Lien Act also protects you from liability as this fund is paid for by the builders of Michigan and is there to pay for those builders who do not pay their subcontractors and suppliers. Depending on your project you will have many other questions for your contractor. Do not be afraid to ask questions!

If you have home improvement questions, call Gayle Walters at the Michigan Remodeling Association (MRA) at 810-335-3232 on send questions to "Let's Remodel, 2187 Orchard Lake Road, Suite 103, Sylvan Lake, MI 48320.

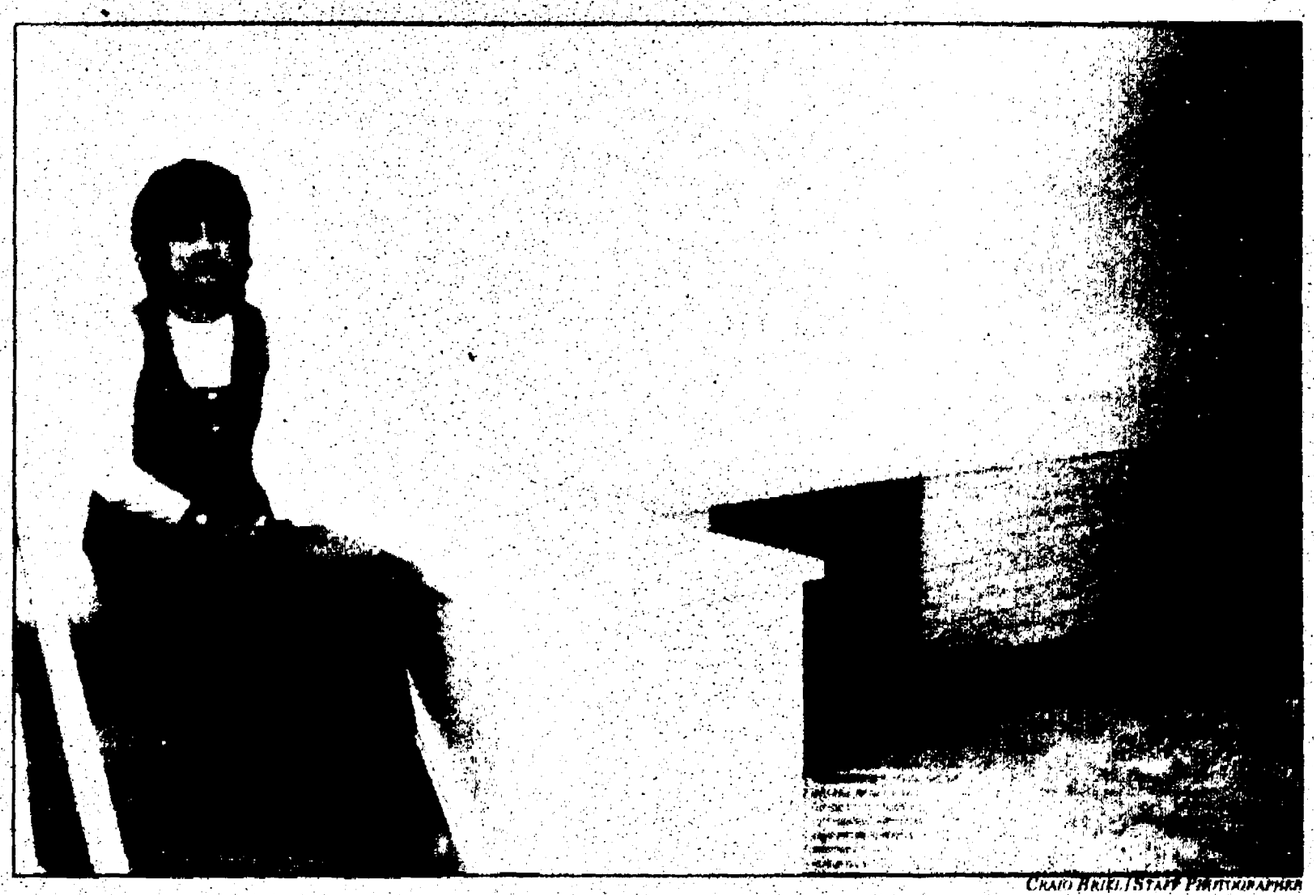
Fighting unfair housing



Craig Ariel/Staff Photographer

By Susan Tauber
Special Writer

The image of an apartment manager walking around with a cigarette dangling from his mouth, wearing a mangy-looking hat, torn T-shirt and dirty jeans frequently seen in television programs over the years is just that _ an image from the past.

Today's managers strive to be professionals who dress appropriately and know much more than how to fix a leaking faucet.

David Sparrow is president of the Apartment Association of Michigan (AAM). One of AAM's main purposes is to educate its members and others in the field about the many facets of apartment management. The main focus is on following the requirements of the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988. It prohibits any discriminatory housing practices based on race, color, religion, sex, national origin, handicap and famial status (people with children included).

"AAM provides many services for our members. Just this year we were instrumental in getting a full credit course offered on apartment management at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield," said Sparrow, who is president of Management Corp. of Michigan in Bloomfield Hills. "Many members give employees time off work to attend classes and pertinent seminars."

One of those seminars was the "Fair Housing Compliance Strategies for On-Site Personnel" program sponsored recently by AAM. It featured Thom Harris, owner of the Fair Housing Compliance Services in Dallas, Texas.

"It was a great seminar, very informative," said John Stocking, property manager for Management Corp. of Michigan. He attended with two on-site resident managers, Jeri Adrian and Susan Scholma, who work in Saint Clair Shores.

"We learned so much from Mr. Harris," said Stocking. "The seminar was really interesting because he used to work for the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development protecting renters and buyers from discrimination."

Harris was a Fair Housing investigator for 10 years and chief of investigations for two years for Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

"I saw that no one was showing the housing people how to comply with the Fair Housing Amendments Act. Since I had worked with people who felt they were being discriminated against, I felt I had a unique perspective to offer the business people," Thomas said.

"I teach what business people need to do to comply to the Fair Housing Act and how to prove they are complying. Much of this boils down to treating everyone the same and to keeping good and accurate records," he added.

Because consumers have one year in which to file a discriminatory complaint, property managers must document their advertisements, telephone calls, on-site visits, qualifying processes, property maintenance procedures and the application of rules, policies and guidelines.

"For instance, if the policy is to show every consumer a rental unit, the policy must be followed every time.

"If a customer says he doesn't have time now to see a unit, that must be written down. At Mr. Harris's request, we didn't go through steps 1-9 of the rental procedure.' That way I can't come back later and say I was discriminated against because I wasn't shown a rental unit," he explained.

"The worst thing that can happen to a property owner or manager is to be accused of housing discrimination when it didn't happen. I got involved with a man who owned several homes he rented on two blocks. A Hispanic woman said he didn't rent to her because of her nationality. He proved to me he had rental requirements and that she didn't meet the requirements."

The requirements, according to Harris, were that the renters had a job to pay the rent and that they keep the rental house clean and take good care of the property. The property owner established this fact by looking in the back seat of the consumer's car. If it was clean, he rented to that person.

One evening, Harris and the property owner inspected the back seats of his renters' cars. All of them were clean. They went to where the Hispanic woman lived and looked in her back seat. It was messy.

"He didn't discriminate against her because he used the same standard for everyone he rented to," Harris said. "I talked to his renters. They were a mix of people, and all felt they were treated fairly."

Harris also helped people at the Troy seminar figure out how to answer tricky questions, such as what the racial mix of a community or development is.

"This is not information an owner should maintain. The law says the housing provider can't use race as a factor. My answer to that question would be, 'We don't answer any personal questions about our residents and we don't discriminate against any race.'"

"The law is a little scary," said Debra Gath, leasing consultant for Eaton Square Apartments and Town Houses in Birmingham. "A person can be discriminating without even realizing it." Rhonda Fazio is her general manager.

"The seminar was very informative and funny. I could have listened to Harris all day," Gath said.

Metropolitan Detroit has its own Department of Housing and Urban Development, Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity Division in downtown Detroit. Its representatives answer questions for consumers and housing providers alike. Its telephone number is 313-226-6898.

There are two other sources for information and help: Oakland County Center for Open Housing and the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit.

Clifford Schrupp is director of the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit. Located in Detroit, one of its areas of coverage is Wayne County, with its more than 780,000 housing units. A not-for-profit organization, its purpose is to educate people on their housing rights, to educate housing providers and to investigate complaints.

"We're contracted by the federal government and by local units of government to investigate housing complaints. We use as many volunteers as we can for testers.

"We'll send a white couple or person out who will be told there are units available for rent. We'll send an African-American person or couple to the same place. They are told there are no units available, or no houses in their price range. That's definite discrimination."

Most of the center's complaints involve race discrimination. "That makes up 60 percent of our complaints whites discriminating against African-Americans," Schrupp said.

Thanks to the amended Fair Housing law, organizations such as the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit can do something substantial about housing discrimination. They can file a lawsuit within one year the discriminatory practice allegedly occurred.

The Oakland County Center for Open Housing, housed in Farmington Hills, also is a not-for-profit organization. Its mission is to build community understanding for fair housing in Oakland County by trying to maintain a stable, integrated community. It is funded by municipalities, Realtors, corporations and individual members. Oakland County, which has more than 400,000 housing units, is a supporter.

"Oakland County has an open door policy to everyone," said director Valerie Weatherly. "We work to maintain that policy for everyone. After all, the world is a mixture of people. We should all love each other and live in the real world."

The center gets most of its calls from its newspaper advertisements. "We meet with the person or family, find out what their requirements are whether it's good schools or housing for a certain income level.

"We don't direct that client where to live. Instead we give them choices in maybe five different communities that fit their requirements. That way we aren't pushing people with the same income level or race backgrounds to live only in one area. We are giving them choices throughout the entire county."

Weatherly recalls how she recently helped a hearing-impaired family of four find a house to buy. They were living in a two-bedroom apartment and wanted to rent a house. The children attended a special school in West Bloomfield.

"I put them in touch with a real estate agent who introduced them to different living options, such as purchasing a home. They were thrilled."

Beware clause that calls for independent inspector

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. Our builder wants to put a provision in our contract that provides that if we fee we have a warranty claim, it must be certified by the local building inspector before it can be pursued against the builder. What do you think of that provision?

A. If I represent the purchaser, I want the warranty claims brought by purchasers of houses or condominiums should be based upon the purchaser's own evaluation or that of a consultant retained by the purchaser, as opposed to a third party such as the building inspector in most instances. Obviously, the building inspector has his/her own responsibilities with respect to providing adequate inspections before a certificate of occupancy is issued. However, the building inspector may or may not be the proper person to determine whether other warranty claims are available to the purchaser. I would avoid, therefore, a provision in the contract that leaves the determination of a warranty claim to someone other than the purchaser or the purchaser's representative.

Q. I am a land contract vendor that entered into a land contract which provided for interest at the rate of 9 percent per annum, but in the event of default, the interest rate would be 12 percent. I am now pursuing the vendee in foreclosure, but the vendee has claimed that the 12-percent interest rate is usurious and that I am not entitled to any interest. Does he have an argument that would be successful?

A. In determining whether an interest is usurious, a Court would look to the total interest on the principal amount of the land contract and if the total amount of the interest did not exceed the 12-percent-per-annum maximum rate allowed for land contracts under the law, the court would allow you to collect the interest. This decision was affirmed in a recent court of appeals decision; however, there was a strong dissent that the decision of the majority took liberties with the statute regarding usurious interest rates. The dissent was arguing that it is not permissible to merge legal and illegal contract rates to come up with a "legal" rate of interest.

You are best advised, therefore, to consult with legal counsel with respect to this issue.

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

As the old song goes, "There's no place like home for the holidays." But that doesn't mean the holidays are a time to avoid looking for or buying a new house.

A potential benefit, from the mortgage perspective, is that interest rates don't usually fluctuate very much during this time of year. Generally, you don't see a lot of movement one way or the other. This means you usually don't have to fear a sudden interest rate increase that would reduce the size of a house you could afford.

Many people consider November through January a poor time to buy or sell a house. However, Corbin Elliott, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate in Northville, says the holiday season can be a boon to the house buyer.

Elliott says, "While it's true many people would rather not sell their homes during this period, there are still quite a few listings on our books."

But Don Hamlin, from Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate in Northville, disagrees.

"It's as basic as the law of supply and demand," Hamlin says. "There are fewer listings during November and December, so there is not as much competition for sellers as there might be in the spring."

The time between the time your offer is accepted and the time the present owner moves out means that if you make on a house around Thanksgiving, chances are you still won't actually move until well after New Year's. Just considering the normal amount of time it takes for all of the paperwork involved means you won't have to worry about disrupting your house or family until the end of January or early February, at the earliest.

NEW HOMES

(F★)1AA

Cherry Oaks offers wide lots, location and price

That's Cherry Oak Estates, a residential subdivision off Cherry Hill Road between Wayne and Newburgh in Westland. Galaxy Builders and Uniland each plan to build 57 houses on the 44-acre parcel.

"We have sidewalks, street lights. We have trees. They're comfortable houses to live in. It's affordable," said Marshall Kallen of Galaxy.

"A nice feature is location," said Rex Rosenhaus, partner with Uniland. "It's centrally located to many resources of Westland.

"They have an excellent recreational facility, beautiful parks. You're within walking distance to a brand new library, walking distance to the high school," he said.

"We just saw the land, and it seemed like a natural," Kallen added. "Zoning was right. Sixty-foot lots are hard to come by. All of the ingredients were there — location, a lot of people."

Galaxy offers five floor plans ranging in price from $119,900 for a 1,200-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and 1½ baths to $149,900 for a colonial of nearly 1,950 square feet with four bedrooms and 2½ baths.

Features that come standard with every plan include two-car garage, basement and dishwasher and range. A fireplace and air conditioning are extra.

Two models are available.

The Elm is a bi-level of 1,500 square feet, with three bedrooms and two baths.

The lower level is at ground level with a walkout and an entrance to the garage. The laundry is on the lower level.

Outside at the front entrance, you have to walk up eight steps to reach the door, then seven more inside the foyer to get to the main living area.

"It offers a lot of square footage, if you can deal with the stairs," said Marisa Bryan, sales rep. "It gives you a lot of house for the money."

The Elm has a great room with sloped ceiling, dining area and kitchen with sloped ceiling. The master suite has a cathedral ceiling, tub/shower combination and walk-in closet.

Two other bedrooms and a full bath are on the same side of the house as the master.

The base price is $124,900, $11,900 additional for a finished lower level. The model — with landscaping, air conditioning, fireplace, upgraded cabinetry, a finished lower level and other extras — is priced at about $149,000.

The master has a shower, walk-in closet and cathedral ceiling. Two other bedrooms and a full bath are upstairs.

Uniland offers five basic floor plans.

Three colonials range from $129,900 for a three-bedroom, 1½-bath of 1,355 square feet to $151,900 for a four-bedroom, 2½-bath of 2,000 square feet.

A ranch, two bedrooms, two baths, 1,355 square feet, $141,900, and a story-and-a-half, three bedrooms, 1¼ baths, 1,668 square feet, $148,900, also are available.

Standard features are similar to Galaxy, as are exterior materials of brick, vinyl siding and wood trim.

"Here, we have platted lots, internal sidewalks," Rosenhaus said. "Sidewalks are important for community feel. What they (buyers) want, I think, is a traditional neighborhood."

"People want to be sure they own their lots, they can put a fence up and not be regulated," Bryan said. "That's very important."

The subdivision is serviced by city water and sewers.

The property tax rate is currently $33.54 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $130,000 house in Cherry Oak would pay $2,180 a year.

Robert and Deborah Pinkowski, along with sons Robert and Joseph, will be moving into a ranch built by Galaxy.

"We wanted to stay in the same school district . . . and this was about the only builder that wanted to change the original floor plan," Robert Pinkowski said.

"We changed quite a bit — added a toilet in the first-floor laundry, changed the bath in the master, made the back of the house bigger, added a window. He was willing to work with the changes we wanted to make," Pinkowski said.

Lisa Cornett and son, Nick, ordered a colonial from Galaxy.

"I wanted to stay in Westland," Lisa said. "I have a son at John Glenn. Now, I live in a condo, but I was looking for a house with a yard. Plus, my son has a lot of friends that live in houses in the area. It's one of the nicer areas of Westland.

The Galaxy sales office, (313) 722-3489, is open noon to 5 p.m. weekdays, 1-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, closed Thursdays.

Until Uniland constructs its models, prospects may contact the sales rep at Deerhurst in Westland, (313) 721-2700 for information about Cherry Oak.

Housing prices rise as interest falls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationally, the median price of existing single-family homes rose 4.6 percent to $116,200 from $111,100 in the second quarter, according to the National Association of Realtors. The price was 4.3 percent higher than the third quarter of 1994, when the median was $111,400.

Prices rose in all regions of the country over the second quarter and in three of four regions over the third quarter last year, the group said Thursday.

The median is the midpoint, meaning half the homes sell for more and half for less.

Regionally, the median price fell 0.8 percent in the Northeast over the third quarter a year ago, but rose 8.8 percent in the Midwest, 4.4 percent in the South and 1 percent in the West.

Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 7.7 percent in July through September, down from 7.9 percent the previous three months and 8.6 percent a year earlier, according to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. Mortgage rates have fallen steadily this year, from a high of 9.25 percent in November 1994.

"Under these affordability conditions, if a home is priced right, it will not stay on the market very long," said Edmund G. Woods Jr., president of the real estate group. "In some areas, multiple offers and bidding wars are not uncommon."

John Tuccillo, the trade group's chief economist, said sales particularly surged in the moderate and lower price ranges.

Parts of the Midwest saw a big jump in entry-level purchases. "The Midwest has a long history of steady, moderate price increases. However, some areas there have really bucked the trend and startedto boom," Tuccillo said.

Radon prevention systems keep out danger

If you're considering a major renovation or addition to to your home, experts recommend you take the budget-wise and health saving step of including a radon protection system in your construction plans.

Radon is a colorless, odorless radioactive gas known to cause lung cancer. It occurs from the natural breakdown of uranium found in most soils, and often seeps into homes through cracks and openings in the foundation. Radon-prevention systems redirect radon emissions away from a home's interior to the outdoor air.

"When most people consider a home renovation or remodeling project, they tend to focus on achieving the latest look or interior style," says Jennifer Keller, a radon program manager with the Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, D.C. "But for a just a few dollars more during construction, consumers can protect their families from the significant health risks of radon. As an added bonus, radon-resistant building techniques can provide energy savings too."

Today's most popular home renovation projects frequently offer the chance to easily install a radon system because they involve building a new foundation. This is often the case when homeowners decide to knock out an exterior wall and build a new family home or kitchen-family room combination.

Because a radon-prevention system involves easily obtainable materials and uncomplicated building techniques, most contractors can carry out the work for $350 to $500, including materials. Understanding how a system works requires little more than a basic look at how radon and building affect one another.

In general, the air pressure inside a home is lower than that in the soil around and beneath a house. This pressure difference causes a house to act like a vacuum cleaner, dragging soil air (and radon) into the house through foundation cracks and other openings. Radon-resistant construction creates an actual barrier to radon entry.

Before the foundation is poured or the floor assembly put in place, a four-inch layer of clean gravel or sand is placed on the earth and covered with heavy plastic sheeting. Next, gas-tight vent pipe is embedded into the gravel layer. This pipe runs vertically to the ground, often through an interior wall, and up to the roof. The vent pipe serves to direct the radon from underneath the foundation up the piping and to the outdoors, where it rapidly dissipates.

As a final step, all openings in and around the foundation are sealed and caulked and an electrical junction box is roughed in, should a venting fan be needed in the future.

Radon-prevention systems are rapidly gaining importance with homeowners as the cancer risks of radon become better known. Radon is now the nation's second largest cause of lung cancer (after smoking) and is responsible for an estimated 15,000 deaths each year.

In fact, a growing number of states have now passed legislation to protect consumers from the dangers of elevated radon levels, including mandated testing of homes and disclosure of radon levels before sale transactions; introduction of radon-resistant building codes and certification of radon contractors retrofitting existing homes.

Preventing danger: Radon venting pipe directs radioactive gas from under foundation to outdoors.

Hot water heating has advantages

Hot water heat, also known as hydronic heat, is the most comfortable, most economical and healthiest home heat there is, according to the Hydronic Institute, a non-profit research group.

Yet, according the institute, about 90 percent of new home construction has either electric or forced air heat installed. Why? One strong motivator is low up-front cost for the builder. But forced air or electric heat, the Institute says, can cost a homeowner an additional 50 percent or more in fuel bills while failing to provide the comfort advantages of hot water heat. For climates where heating is a principal concern, they advise, prospective home buyers and remodelers should lean strongly toward hydronic heat.

Builders sell homes on features, but a new home's heating system is rarely discussed. The easiest and cheapest system is the one that usually goes in, whether it makes sense for the climate or not.

For example, many people want central air conditioning these days and central air conditioning and hot air heat can be run through the same ductwork, making the installation easier and cheaper. But warm air rises and cool air sinks, so sizing ductwork for one makes the performance of the other suffer.

Broad room temperature fluctuations are also a problem, since forced air heat is basically a warm draft. When it's on, it's really on, blowing hot air at you, noisily. When it's off, it's completely off, and you'll notice a rapid cooling off of the room that continues until the blower comes on again.

Heating a house with hot air also means you need a separate system to heat domestic hot water for bathing, dishes, etc. Heating domestic hot water is said to be the second largest cost of energy in an average home.

Electric heat, while quieter and somewhat more comfortabl than forced air, is certainly the most expensive way you can heat a home. Electric heat works a around 29 percent efficiency. To illustrate, the Institute offers these recent comparative heating costs for a year in the Northeast — $4500 for electricity, $2200 for propane gas, $1551 for natrual gas and $988 for fuel oil.

Modern hydronic systems, which can be fired by oil or gas, distribute hot water from an efficient central boiler to baseboard units located around the perimeter of rooms. These provide gentle, silent heat that penetrates deeply. New oil and gas hot water boilers are compact and extremely efficient, running as high as 85 percent efficiency.

The Hydronics Institute recommends that prospective custom home owners talk with their architect or builder and installing a hydronic system at the outset. If you are looking at existing new construction, they suggest that the heating system should be a prime consideration in the selection process — you may have to live with it for a long time.

For remodelers and homeowners, adding additions, hydronic systems are simpler to install than you may realize. Use of flexible tubing and compact boiler units make hydronic systems ideal for modernization and expansion. Where forced air systems already exist, there's no need to remove the existing ductwork, which can still be used for air conditioning. The first step is to call in a licensed heating contractor and ask him to evaluate your present system and suggest ways to improve heating efficiency and reduce costs using hydronic heat.

For more information about the benefits of hot water heat, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free "Homebuyer's Guide to Hot Water Heating" from the Hydronics Institute, PO Box 218, Dept. SR, Berkeley Heights, NJ 07922.

House plan: The Wade is 89 feet-6 inches wide by 44 feet deep. It has 2,228 square feet of living space. The garage adds another 590 square feet of space.

House plan will deliver value for money spent

For a study kit of the WADE (403-14), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, PO Box 2307-OE48, Eugene OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number.) For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular house plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

A wide front porch, with lattice trim and waist-high railing, adds a down-home touch to the charming country-style Wade. A sturdy lap siding exterior and a durable shake roof bring a solid permanence to this 2,228-square-foot beauty. Abounding in curb appeal, and economical to construct on a medium-sized lot, the Wade delivers plenty of value for the building dollar.

The interior floor design is one that imparts an openness in the family gathering areas, while allowing privacy and tranquility in the sleeping quarters. The isolated master suite is a good example. Located in the back left corner of the house, the master suite combines elegance with insulation. A generous sleeping area leads the list of available amenities. Others include a huge walk-in closet, vanity, private bathroom, skylight and personal access to the back deck.

The vaulted family room, kept bright by multiple skylights and warmed by a built-in wood stove, is open to the breakfast nook and kitchen. Only a handy eating bar and cooktop separate these areas. The nook has an entrance to the deck, and the kitchen features double ovens and walk-in pantry in addition to all the built-in appliances.

The number two bedroom is unusual in that it has a separate sewing section fitted into the design. If desired, the front portion of this room could easily be converted to a den or television room. The third bedroom, toward the front, is good-sized and has liberal closet space. Between the two bedrooms, with convenient access to the garage, is a large utility room with sink, built-in ironing board and room for a freezer. Nearby is a full bathroom, along with plenty of room for linen storage.

The formal dining room, right across the hall from the kitchen for easy serving, has a vaulted ceiling. French doors swing open onto the porch, letting the cool summer evening breeze enhance your mealtime pleasure. The vaulted entry leads right into the spacious living room. A large bay window provides the view as you entertain your guests over after-dinner coffee.

There are many reasons people want to own house

There are as many reasons to buy a house as there are homeowners and potential owners. Many people cite the security, stability and enhanced quality of life that owning a house provides their family, while others view a house as a good investment. Some want the freedom to personalize their living environment, and others seek relief from periodic rent increases.

"No matter what the individual reason for purchasing a home may be, most people agree that financial benefits are among the most compelling," said Janet L. Compo, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and chief executive officer of James D. Compo Inc. of Farmington Hills. "For most families in most markets, a home is a sensible, stable investment that increases in value at, or slightly above, the inflation rate, allowing the owners to build a nest egg for college costs, retirement or other needs."

In fact, the house accounts for almost 60 percent of the typical American homeowner's net wealth, according to the Joint Center for Housing Studies at Harvard university. In "The State of the Nation's Housing 1993," the Joint Center reported that the median net wealth for homeowners was $78,403. Of that net wealth, just over $46,000 consisted of house equity and slightly more than $32,000 was in other assets.

Consistent with that finding, 75 percent of the homeowners surveyed in a recent National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) poll said that a house is one of the best hedges against inflation.

Special glasses take bite out of dental visits

BY M. KAUTH KARJALA
SPECIAL WRITER

For most people, a trip to the dentist is not unbearable, but it is uncomfortable.

The sound of the drill, the fear of sharp instruments or just having the dentist or hygienist right in your private space can cause anxiety attacks, clenched fists and tightened brows.

But for some dental patients, going to the dentist is like having a private screening of their favorite movie. Plymouth Dental Associates on Schoolcraft Road in Plymouth Township offers an inducement to the wary patient with special glasses that allow the patient to tune out the dentist and tune in to a good movie or music video.

"The fact of the matter is people don't like to go to the dentist very much," said dentist Omer Anisso. "If they don't go, I can't give them good care," Anisso added.

The glasses are similar to virtual reality video games, except that you don't feel as if you are part of the movie.

For Toni Hoffa, who came to Anisso to have some cosmetic bonding done, the fact that she wasn't in the movie was a relief.

"I was worried that I'd get that same sick feeling that (a visitor) was talking about. It's far enough away that you don't get it at all," Hoffa said.

The screen looks like it's about 6 feet wide and you are sitting about 11 feet back, Anisso says. "You're not sitting in the front seat of a movie theater but you're not watching a tiny TV screen either," Anisso said.

The glasses are a helpful distraction to the very anxious patient or to the patient who needs extensive and difficult work, Anisso said.

For patients like Hoffa, who is not an overly anxious patient, the glasses are more for entertainment. But even for Hoffa, who appeared fairly relaxed during the visit, the glasses helped reduce anxiety.

"It's nice that you can actually zone out," Hoffa said. Having someone so close is what makes her nervous, she added.

"It's like my space, you really don't know these people (the dentist and hygienist)," she said.

Anisso said distracting the patient through television or through music has been tried by dentists for some time. The problem with the television is that it is loud and can also distract the dentist, in addition to the patient, Anisso said.

Music can calm some patients but it doesn't really allow them to completely relax, he said. The glasses are specially designed for use during dental work. Unlike virtual reality glasses, the glasses are narrower and don't completely block out vision.

By looking down, the patient can have a clear view of what the dentist is doing. Also, there is a visor covering the glasses to protect the lenses from splatters from the dental work. A mute button allows the dentist to turn the volume down so the patient can hear instructions like "Open your mouth a little wider."

The glasses are distributed by Patterson Dental Co., a nationwide company with a local office in Sterling Heights.

Virtual reality glasses have been on the market for about three years, but have only been adapted to use in the dental office since about the first of this year, said Steve McCombs, Michigan's branch manager for the dental supply company.

The cost of the unit is about $700, McCombs said. Sales have been brisk, with the Sterling Heights office selling about 15 to 20 units a month, McCombs said.

Christmas cards can be sent through cyberspace

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

I did promise not to write about Christmas sites on the World Wide Web until after Thanksgiving. And I will try my best to keep that promise, even though my mail box and literature rack is filling up with Christmas sites on the Internet.

There is a seasonal activity at my house, though, that is occurring right now and probably warrants some attention this week. We are eating at various spots throughout the house because the kitchen table is rapidly being filled by Christmas card boxes, envelopes, address lists, stamps, return address labels, and other card sending stuff. My wife is at it again.

We could be eating meals every night at our kitchen table if my wife would only agree to snuff the snail-mail tradition and send all our Christmas greetings through cyberspace. But, alas, not all our friends have E-mail addresses yet. And, alas, my wife is not yet a cybernaut.

If she were, though, our table would be far less cluttered if we'd send cyberspace Christmas cards out this year. Not only less clutter, but no postage stamps either. And you can mail later because delivery time is much faster.

The opportunity to send out holiday cybercards via E-mail and a web site is being offered on the Internet by Domino's Farms and the Branch Mall in Ann Arbor.

For several years now Domino's Farms has offered its Christmas light display out at the pizza headquarters on Earhart Road east of US-23. It's really quite a spectacular site and a very nice family thing to do during the holiday season. My family has enjoyed both the Domino's display and in recent years the county display along Hines Drive.

■ 'We realize that not everyone will be able to take advantage of this offer. But we want to offer some holiday fun this year for anyone — actually anyone in the world — who has a computer with access to the Internet.'

R. Scott Lorenz
director of Christmas Celebration

Anyhow, this year through the magic of E-mail and the Internet, cyberspace Christmas cards containing scenes from this year's Christmas light display can be sent from anyone's home free of charge to family or friends anywhere in the universe.

To send a cybercard to a friend or relative, you need a Web browser. A graphical browser like Netscape, Mosaic or Cello works best because you can then view the half-dozen or so scenes before selecting. I visited this site once using Lynx (a text-only browser) and made a "blind draw" by selecting a scene and not knowing what it was. But don't do that. Use a graphical browser as intended. You can send a card by going to http://christmas.branch.com.

Upon arriving, you are asked to fill out your name and E-mail address, and the name and E-mail address of the person who will receive the greetings. You then are asked to type in your personal greeting. Next you can select from different Christmas light display set images. Then choose "send" and your custom-made Christmas card goes zipping off into cyberspace and lands in the E-mail box of the intended recipient.

The intended recipient receives an E-mail message advising him or her that a card awaits them at Branch Mall. The recipient loads up a graphical Web browser and goes to http://christmas.branch.com and ends up at the Christmas light display web site. You go to an area marked "cards waiting" or something like that, and the greeting card appears on the screen to be viewed, read, or printed out to keep.

"We realize that not everyone will be able to take advantage of this offer," said R. Scott Lorenz, director of Christmas Celebration, the organization which plans the display each year for Domino's. "But we want to offer some holiday fun this year for anyone — actually anyone in the world — who has a computer with access to the Internet.

"You can send a cybercard to anyone with a web text browser, but they wouldn't be able to view your favorite Christmas light display scene, only read your words. For the full impact the friend or relative you send a cybercard to will want to have a graphical web browser."

There is a Christmas site on the web that might cause confusion to you if you type the wrong URL for the cybercard web site. If you type http://christmas.com you will end up at this other site by mistake. But I won't talk about this other site before Thanksgiving, so if you want to send a cybercard with your favorite Christmas light display then make sure you type http://christmas.branch.com. (Guess how I discovered the other site?)

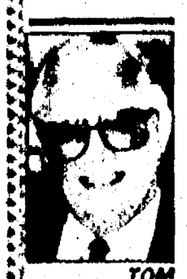
Plan to avoid black hole of long- term health care



TOM HOGAN

What if you experience a long-term illness or an accident which ends in an exceptionally long recovery? Suppose that because of your disability you are unable to care for yourself and your family is also unable to care for you.

If you are not critically ill, you will not end up staying in the hospital, but you will probably end up in a long-term care facility or hiring help for in-home health care. All of this can get pretty expensive. It is not unusual to pay in excess of $100 per day in a long-term health care facility, or close to $40,000 for one year. Home health care, which is less costly, can still run in excess of $20,000 per year.

"These costs can be the black hole of your financial security," said Kenneth W. Lyon, a certified financial planner from Livonia. "Do not just concentrate on building an asset base for the future, but also protect your funds by insuring them. Long-term health care insurance is the best way to protect against this loss."

Although long-term health care policies are increasing in popularity, the majority of people do not have this coverage. If you are going to purchase long-term health care, then what should you look for in a policy?

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners, from Kansas City, Mo., publishes a shoppers guide to long-term care insurance. In the booklet it is stated that half of all nursing home expenses are paid out-of-pocket by individuals and their families and somewhat less than half are paid by Medicaid programs.

■ 'These costs can be the black hole of your financial security. Do not just concentrate on building an asset base for the future, but also protect your funds by insuring them. Long-term health care insurance is the best way to protect against this loss.'

Kenneth W. Lyon
financial planner

Neither Medicare, Medicare supplement insurance, nor the health insurance you have will pay for most of the expenses. Increasingly, insurance policies are used to pay for long-term care.

"Long-term-care benefit policies should be like a bag of money. If you do not use up the dollars in one area they will go to funding benefits in another area," Lyon said.

Your daily benefit should be based on the cost per day of health-care facilities in your area, and that benefit should be indexed for inflation.

You need to look at waiting periods; how long will it be before benefits begin and how long will the benefits last? Benefits can begin from the first day of need to having an elimination period of one year.

The cost of the annual premium paid directly relates to the benefit coverage you choose. The amount of daily benefit can coordinate with other income such as your pension, Social Security, and personal assets to keep the premium costs affordable.

Benefit periods can be purchased for coverage lasting two years to an unlimited amount of time. Only consider insurance companies that are financially sound. An important aspect is to review the claims-paid history of the insurance company. In short, it is quite a task to determine what your needs are in this area. Professional counseling is advisable.

Questions and comments are welcome. If you would like to have a particular financial subject addressed please contact: Thomas E. Hogan, CLU, or Beth A. Allen, CFP, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150 c/o Editorial Department.

Employees aid United Way projects

Packing up: More than 30 TRW Electronics of Farmington employees volunteered to pack food boxes at Gleaners in Detroit as a United Way Days of Caring project.

More than 400 volunteers from 46 companies - including businesses in Plymouth and Farmington Hills - participated in United Way Community Services' "Days of Caring" program.

In its third year, Days of Caring offers individuals the opportunity to sign up for hands-on community service projects through their workplace. The volunteers are working on 28 projects they selected at 22 United Way-funded agencies.

Local companies involved were:

■ Seven volunteers from Spartan Stores in Plymouth, with the help of a carpenter from the Visiting Nurses Association of Southeast Michigan in Detroit built a playground for the children of Vista Maria, a Dearborn Heights-based agency that helps abused and neglected girls. The playscape was built on Sept. 15.

■ "Keep 'em Rolling" was the theme when more than 30 employees from TRW Electronics of Farmington Hills packed boxes, assembly line fashion, for the people in need at Gleaners Community Food Bank in Detroit on Sept. 15. Gleaners collects surplus food supplies and redistributes them throughout the metropolitan Detroit area. TRW Electronics employees volunteered as their "Days of Caring" program.

"It is our intention that this program will continue to grow and become a major volunteer activity in the tri-county area," said United Wayne Community Services President Virgil H. Carr. "This matching of company volunteers with community service projects at health and human service agencies that need help so desperately is ideal for everyone involved."

■ 'It is our intention that this program will continue to grow and become a major volunteer activity in the tri-county area.'
Virgil H. Carr

Days of Caring participation increased substantially from last year when 225 employees from 30 companies volunteered their time. Some projects were completed as part of kickoff week, Sept. 11-17, others took place through October.

The main goals of Days of Caring are to allow Torch Drive contributors a chance to see the agencies that receive their donations to show how their money helps people and to give them the opportunity to get involved in a hands-on project.

United Way Community services raises funds through the annual Torch Drive and distributes funds to health and human service agencies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Charities benefit from entertainment guide

For the 35th year, Entertainment Publications of Troy has released Entertainment '96, a discount guide with 2-for-1 local and national offers on dining, movies, shopping, car washes, travel and other activities.

The $40 guide is available from many area charities, social and community organizations. Volunteers from non-profit groups expect to raise $750,000 from the sale of the entertainment guide.

The guide's newest feature is Entertainment Gold, a dining discount program that automatically works with the swipe of a credit card. With the presentation of a VISA or MasterCard, members will automatically get a 25 percent discount on their bill at 25 local restaurants and hundreds of eateries nationwide. Consumers will receive a 10 percent discount on subsequent visits to an establishment.

"In addition to the added value this offers our members, Entertainment Gold is a very discreet way of dining on a discount. There are many times, such as at a business meeting, that presenting an Entertainment card or paper coupon may be very inappropriate. With our new program, only the wait person and the consumer knows of the discount," said Marsha Stratton, regional manager for Entertainment Publications.

Entertainment '96 buyers can sign up for the program by registering their credit card with VISA or MasterCard. Instructions are included in the book. Entertainment Gold members will receive a special guide that lists participating restaurants.

Other additions and staples to the Entertainment '96 program include:

■ Up to $1,400 savings on American Airlines, $100 on Club Med and $100 on Carnival, Holland and Norwegian cruise lines.

■ Discounts on tickets to see the Tigers, Red Wings, Lions and Pistons.

■ Savings on hotels and resorts worldwide.

A number of charitable groups will be selling the guide, including American Cancer Society, Myasthenia Gravis Association, Alliance for the Mentally Ill, Autism Society of America, Crohns & Colitis Foundation of America and National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

For information about ordering Entertainment '96, call (810) 637-8444.

Vinson will be responsible for all statewide sales, service and marketing efforts for M-Care. The organization, which has more than 80,000 members and contracts with nearly 400 employer groups, has field offices in Southfield, Lansing, Jackson and Flint. "I have always been a proponent of providing outstanding service," Vinson said. "When you deliver exemplary service, a positive relationship is established with your clients. And that is invaluable in a marketplace as competitive and dynamic as the health-care industry." Vinson spent six years at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan in a variety of sales management positions. Before that, he was in the telecommunications industry as a sales manager and account representative.

Service helps manage work, family

Ask any family today whether their life is hectic, and chances are, they'll agree. Many families are especially feeling the stress of managing work and family responsibilities.

National Family Week will be celebrated by Family Service in Detroit and more than 500 family serving organizations across North America during November 19-25. The Celebrate Families! campaign will focus on everyday issues such as balancing work and family.

Family Service is a United Way agency offering family-focused counseling at 11 offices in Wayne County.

Between 1970 and 1990, the proportion of married women in the labor force with preschool age children nearly doubled, from 30 percent to 59 percent. In 1990, both parents worked in 70 percent of families with children.

Whether a family is made up of a single parent or two parents, it isn't easy to balance the responsibilities of work and family. But there are strategies families can use to ease the tension, according to Brenda Plecha, Family Life Education Program Manager for Family Service.

"By finding out why we feel the pressures of balancing work and family, we can decide what we can do about it," said Plecha, who has prepared a three-session education class, "Work/Family Balance," to help families deal with the stress of work and family.

"Sometimes, we need to take stock of our roles as a parent, spouse or employee so we can decide the importance of each role," said Plecha, who is the mother of three children. "Then we can ask ourselves, is it important to you or your family or to everyone that you be the person to fulfill that role?

"When each family member's role and expectations are determined, then conflicts can be identified. Conflicts can result in guilt, depression, tension in a marriage, or problems on the job."

Plecha offers several ideas to help families deal with the pressures of coping with work and family responsibilities.

"We need to learn what's good enough," said Plecha.

"Striving for perfection guarantees you'll always feel the pressure to do it all."

Time management strategies like dividing up a big task into small jobs for each family member can be helpful, as well as doing more than one thing at a time. Organization is also a key to reducing stress.

Plecha suggests using a family calendar to track where family members are and what they're doing. This reduces missed appointments and the stress of finding out about events at the last moment. Household chores and child care or elder care arrangements can also be organized to make family life smoother.

Plecha advises making adjustments one at a time, so that the impact of changes can be evaluated.

"Defining our roles and expectations helps us to focus on the most important things in our lives, such as spending time with our family," said Plecha.

In conjunction with National Family Week, Family Service is offering tips on balancing work and family responsibilities. Work and Family — Striking a Balance is available by calling 313-961-1584, Ext. 15, or writing to Family Service at 220 Bagley, Suite 700, Detroit, MI 48226-1411. Quantities are limited.

National Family Week is organized by Family Service America, an international non-profit association dedicated to strengthening family life and is being sponsored by the Whirlpool Foundation.

Volunteers sought to help needy families with taxes

Volunteers are needed to help low-income families complete their federal, state and local tax returns and filings for credits.

Last year, hundreds of accounting and tax professionals and students from area firms, private industry and universities prepared tax forms for 18,614 families. Their efforts returned more than $8.8 million in refunds and credits.

One of the largest programs of its type in the nation, the free tax assistance program will operate every Saturday and some weekdays from Jan. 27 through April 6, 1996, in Detroit, Highland Park, Warren, Hamtramck, Pontiac, Dearborn and the Downriver area, Mount Clemens and Clinton Township.

Volunteers must preregister and attend one review session prior to assignment at a tax preparation site. Four-hour refresher courses for professionals and longer review courses for students and less experienced professionals will be held in January and February 1996.

The free Tax Assistance Program is sponsored by the Accounting Aid Society and the National Association of Black Accountants, with the United Way Community Services, New Detroit Inc., the city of Detroit, the city of Pontiac, Detroit Public Library, Internal Revenue Service, Michigan Association of CPAs, area corporations and more than a dozen public accounting firms.

Individuals who would like to provide volunteer tax help, should call the Accounting Aid Society, (313) 961-1840, during business hours.

Livonia construction firm expands

J.S. Alberici Construction Co. broke ground Nov. 8 on an 11,000-square-foot expansion that will more than double the size of the company's office space in Livonia.

The expansion is scheduled for completion in March. Alberici has managed more than $600 million in construction volume in the past five years, most of it related to the auto industry.

"The decision to expand our office was sparked by our desire to better serve our automotive and industrial clients," said Alberici president Edward L. Calcaterra in a press release. "We're not looking to simply maintain our volume of business. We're committed to expanding our business over the long term."

Robert F. McCoole, Alberici senior vice president, said that commitment can be seen in the company's decision to double its office space. "That's why we chose to expand our own office building," McCoole said. "We're making a significant investment in our building because we're growing so fast we need the room — and because we're part of this community." McCoole attended the groundbreaking ceremony, along with Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett and more than 50 people, including Alberici employees and clients, city officials, and the architect.

The company's work force has grown from three, when the office opened in 1988, to 26 full-time employees and up to 500 field personnel. Staff is expected to double in the next three years.

Alberici engaged local architect DiComo Associates for design. The expansion will feature brick with glass curtain walls to blend with the existing facility. The office is on an 18-acre site on Merriman Road with 40,000 square feet of maintenance and warehouse facilities.

For Ford Motor Co., Alberici's Detroit office teamed with Robertson-Yates Corp. to manage the construction of a $220-million renovation and addition program to Ford's 1.25-million square foot modular engine plant in Windsor.

John Wieland, Alberici vice president and manager of the Detroit office, said business volume for the office reached $150 million in 1995. "There's no doubt we're committed to growing our business in Michigan," Wieland said in a press release. "I estimate the business volume for our office will reach $200 million next year. It's a sign of our presence in the region and our commitment to being a valued resource for our clients."

Founded in 1918, J.S. Alberici is privately held, provides general contracting, construction management, specialty contracting and design-build services worldwide.

Nominees sought for business award

Nominations are being sought for the second annual Franklin Award, honoring the success and contributions of family-owned businesses.

Sponsored by Franklin Bank (Nasdaq-NNM: FSVB), the Franklin Award and Scholarship Committee, Corporate Detroit Magazine and WWJ Newsradio, the Franklin Award will be presented to those southeastern Michigan family-owned businesses judged to have best exhibited proven success and contributions to industry and the community.

Other criteria to be evaluated include multi-generational involvement, innovative business practices and overall work environment.

"Last year's event was a huge success and generated a great deal of excitement," said Franklin Senior Vice President Rebecca J. Christian. "We expect even greater participation this year as the award grows in scope and brings increased recognition to our area's many outstanding family-owned businesses," Christian continued.

Three awards will be presented based upon number of employees: 1-10, 11-49 and 50 or more. Nominations may be made by anyone. Self-nominations and nominations made on behalf of clients by attorneys and accountants are heartily encouraged.

Nominations should be returned to Franklin Bank by Monday, Jan. 15, 1996. Applications will then be mailed to the nominees, to be completed and returned by Thursday, Feb. 15, 1996 with a $20 application fee. A panel of small business specialists and principals of family-owned businesses will judge the entries between Feb. 20-29, 1996.

Tickets to the banquet, which will again be held at the Radisson Plaza Hotel, 1500 Town Center in Southfield are $100.

Three finalists in each category will be notified prior to the awards banquet on March 28, 1996.

For more information regarding the 1996 Franklin Award, or to receive a nomination form, call either Rebecca Christian or Sylvia Gerathy at (810) 358-6462.

■ PR SERVICES

Rein Nomm & Associates, a public relations and marketing communications firm located in Plymouth, has been retained by Fox Fire of Pontiac to provide public relations and marketing services. Fox Fire is a designer and manufacturer of glass furniture, glass gifts and accessories, sold through furniture retailers, art galleries and gift shops.

■ STOCK APPLICATION

Greif Bros. Corp., which has a manufacturing facility in Canton Township, has submitted an application to list its common stock on the NASDAQ stock exchange. The application includes listings for the company's Class A Common and Class B Common shares. The Class B Common shares will be subject to a registration statement under the Securities & Exchange Act of 1934, an application for which is being prepared and will be filed shortly. "We feel that the additional exposure granted to us by being listed on the NASDAQ exchange will be in the best interest of our company and our stockholders. We don't anticipate any major problems with our application and hope that we can have this process completed within a short time," said Michael J. Gasser, chairman and chief executive officer of the company. The Greif Bros. Corp. Class A Common Stock is traded on the Chicago exchange.

■ REALITY CHECK

Padgett Business Services of Livonia, a provider of accounting and financial services to small businesses, is introducing the "Padgett Reality Check" so small businesses can measure their financial performance against their competition.

"We can now offer our clients a map to help guide them in making profitable business decisions," said local Padgett owner James Miller. "At last small businesses will have the same resources as their larger counterparts."

Padgett has gathered financial information from more than 5,000 small business owners across the country and analyzed it for more than 100 separate industries. Seasonality also has been reflected in the comparisons. Padgett's small business clients will receive an industry-specific comparative statement by which they can measure their own monthly profit and loss statement.

"The traditional school of thought merely provided compliance reports, but the 'Padgett Reality Check' adds value and will actually help clients manage their businesses," Miller said.

It will contain line item comparisons of each client's financial data and industry averages including income, cost of sales, gross profit, individual expenses, total expenses and income from operations.

■ BENEFIT CARDS

Farmer Jack Supermarkets will carry Christmas cards by the Rainbow Connection, a Michigan-based nonprofit organization. The cards, by four artists, were unveiled at Front Street Gallery, 36341 Front St., New Baltimore.

The Rainbow Connection will realize 100 percent profit from the sale of the cards, which will go to granting the wishes of children with chronic and life-threatening illnesses.

"We are very grateful to Farmer Jack for their sponsorship and generosity. Not only are we getting incredible visibility for our organization by having our Christmas cards in all 103 Farmer Jack stores, but more importantly, we are raising the much-needed money that will help us realize the dreams of many children," said Suzanne Jones, executive director of the Rainbow Connection. The card collection is made up by artists Jon Buechel, Lizanna, Gale A. Willis and Mary Ambrose. All cards come in boxes of 10 and sell for $9.95 per box. They will be available at all Farmer Jack locations.

Johnson Controls plans acquisition

Johnson Controls, which has a plant in Plymouth, and Roth Freres have reached an agreement under which Johnson Controls would acquire a majority interest in the Roth Freres companies.

Johnson Controls will pay $175 million to $200 million for about 75 percent of Roth Freres.

The Automotive Systems Group of Johnson Controls reports it achieved record sales of $3.8 billion in fiscal year 1995. Also, the company launched production of new seat sets for 18 vehicles and added 13 manufacturing plants worldwide.

Sales for the automotive seating division of Johnson Controls for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30 were up 34 percent, from $2.87 billion in 1994.

Roth Freres' estimated 1995 sales are $600 million. The acquisition is expected to be completed in late November, after government approvals, officials for the companies said.

Roth Freres, with headquarters in Strasbourg, France, is a supplier of seating and interior components to the European automotive industry. At two manufacturing plants in France, it produces foam cushions, headrests, headliners, interior door trim and shelves. Through joint ventures, it is also a supplier of complete seats to automakers in France, Belgium and the Netherlands. Its primary customers are Renault, Peugeot, Mitsubishi and Volvo while also supplying a number of other automakers. The company was founded in 1920.

Johnson Controls is a producer of automotive seating in North America and Europe with 92 manufacturing facilities on two continents. In 1995, its automotive segment produced seats for more than 8.4 million vehicles. The segment supplies complete seats and seating components — including foam cushions, frames, mechanisms, trim covers, and headrests, as well as headliners and interior door trim.

With headquarters in Milwaukee, Wis., Johnson Controls had 1995 sales of $8.3 billion for its automotive, controls, plastics and battery businesses.

Johnson Controls and Roth Freres have been joint-venture partners since 1988 in supplying complete seats and headliners to automotive customers in Europe and the United States. Revenues associated with these joint ventures are about $375 million annually.

"This year's automotive seating results — and the division's consistent pattern of success and growth — reflect the great strengths we have in engineering, manufacturing and program execution," John Barth, executive vice president for Johnson Controls, said in a press release. "Automakers around the world are expanding their outsourcing of seating and other interior systems — and many rely on Johnson Controls as their strategic business partner of choice."

The company's current automaker-customers in North America include: Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Saturn, Honda, Isuzu, Mazda, Mitsubishi, Nissan, NUMMI, Subaru, Toyota and Volkswagen. Johnson Controls' customers in Europe include: Audi, BMW, Ford, General Motors, Mercedes-Benz, Nissan, Renault, Rover, SEAT, Skoda, Toyota and Volkswagen.

Johnson Controls also opened business development offices in Tokyo, Japan and Sao Bernardo, Brazil. The company has also gained new seating supply contracts with Ford in Argentina and Brazil, and with Toyota in Argentina.

The Automotive Systems Group is the largest of four divisions of Milwaukee-based Johnson Controls. The group employs more than 22,000.

Schoolcraft offers scholarship

Schoolcraft College is accepting applications for the 1996 Datatel Scholars Foundation Scholarship. Eligible full- or part-time Schoolcraft College students can apply through the college's Financial Aid Office. The application deadline is Feb. 28, 1996.

Applicants will be evaluated on the quality of a written personal statement (motivation), academic merit (official transcripts of grades), external activities including employment and extracurricular activities, and two letters of recommendation. Two national winners will be selected and announced May 15, 1996, in conjunction with Datatel's corporate anniversary. Winners will be notified by mail.

The Datatel Scholars Foundation is a tax-exempt foundation established by Datatel in 1990. Its purpose is to award scholarships to eligible students to attend a higher learning institution selected from one of Datatel's Colleague or Benefactor customer sites. The foundation is governed by a Board of Directors which includes representatives from Datatel's customer base, as well as officers of Datatel.

For an application form or further information, contact Schoolcraft's Financial Aid Office at (313) 462-4433.

DATEBOOK

■ DIVERSITY
The Detroit section of the Society of Women Engineers is sponsoring a seminar on the "State of Diversity in the '90s" at 6:30 p.m. The seminar will be at the Michigan League on the Central Campus of the University of Michigan. The discussion is open to anyone interested and will feature Ruby Beale as the speaker. Beale is an assistant professor at the Michigan Business School and a research scientist at the Center for the Education of Women. Topics covered include pay gap, promotability and affirmative action. Call (313) 845-4674.

■ NEW ENTERPRISE
The New Enterprise Forum will hold its monthly meeting at 5 p.m. in the Holiday Inn North Campus, U.S. 23 and Plymouth Road, Ann Arbor. The featured speaker will be Aaron Howard, president of Media Station Inc., which creates, produces and markets interactive entertainment. Howard's presentation, "Strategic Partnering — There Are No Limits," will look at the future of relationships between collaborators and competitors. A presentation by Natura Inc. will follow. Natura is a producer of flavor enhancers developed from natural ingredients. No charge for members; $15 for nonmembers. Call Barb Sprague, Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, (313) 665-4434.

FRIDAY, NOV. 17

■ BUSINESS FORUM
An international business forum, "Cuban Update: What Does the Future Hold for Michigan Companies?" will be 11:45 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. at the Fairlane Club, 5000 Fairlane Woods Drive, Dearborn. Last month, the United States made some moves to ease travel restrictions and allow U.S. news organizations to open bureaus in Cuba. Carrie Pastor-Klucens will discuss the current economic climate for foreign companies doing business in Cuba and possibilities for Michigan companies in the future. For reservations, call Frank at (313) 965-6500 or E-mail at wtcdt@wtca.gels.com.

The Michigan Quality Council has a new address: http://www.mlep.org/mqc, on the Internet.

Information is available on several topics to Michigan Quality Council web-site visitors, including:

- Michigan Quality Council background — Information outlining the council's mission, activities and membership including contact names, telephone numbers and E-mail addresses is available.
- Michigan Quality leadership award — Updates are available on the annual award and banquet honoring Michigan businesses and organizations that exemplify quality excellence as outlined by the Malcolm Baldridge National Quality Award.
- K-16 education committee — Background information is on this link between business and education sectors to form a quality-related dialogue and share information on total quality management practices.
- E-mail address — Visitors to the site can E-mail the council and be added to its mailing list or talk about quality-related issues in cyberspace.

"We're excited about expanding our ability to share quality-related information with businesses and organizations through this growing technology," said Bill Kalmar, director of Michigan Quality Control. "Our presence on the Internet will provide professionals the information and strategies needed to help improve their quality processes."

The Michigan Quality Council was created in 1993 and supported by Gov. John Engler to promote total quality management practices in businesses, educational institutions and organizations throughout the state.

Madonna University to participate in pilot program

Madonna University in Livonia has the distinction of being the only four-year university in Michigan to participate in the Michigan Quality Council's pilot program to establish criteria for evaluating quality processes in education.

The purpose of this program is to include educational institutions as eligible applicants for the Michigan Quality Leadership Award which was initiated by the MQC in 1994 and will be awarded each year.

The council, formed of business, education and organization leaders from the public and private sectors, encourages Total Quality Management strategies through this award, as well as network committees, forums and conferences.

"On the national level, the Malcolm Baldridge Quality Award is considered the most prestigious recognition for quality excellence," said Dr. Lynn Kelley, associate professor and coordinator of the certificate program in quality improvement. "Last year only government, service and manufacturing organizations were eligible to apply. But now, Malcolm Baldridge is piloting criteria to evaluate educational institutions. The Michigan Quality Council is testing how well Baldridge pilot education award criteria relate to Michigan schools."

As a participant, the Madonna School of Business submitted a 70-page report documenting quality procedures in place. In return, the university will receive support and feedback for application processing for the 1996 Michigan Quality Leadership award and the national Malcolm Baldridge Quality Award.

The university, along with the Wyoming Public School District, received recognition at the Michigan Quality Leadership Award Banquet held on Nov. 7 at the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn. Gov. John Engler was on hand to honor businesses and organizations which exemplify quality and presented the 1995 Michigan Quality Leadership Award(s).

Kelley said the university has been successful in a number of endeavors.

The School of Business has undergraduate and graduate students on two continents and 88 percent of its full-time faculty have taught and studied in Europe and Asia within the past five years.
