Westland curbside recycling organizers still expect to meet a targeted May 15 start-up, but they have abandoned a late-April deadline for accepting subscriptions.

Residents will be allowed to join the curbside pickup program before May 15 and pay subscription fees of Westland residents who didn't subscribe to a new curbside recycling program by the end of April need not worry. A new deadline of May 15 has been set.

> $18 for six months or $34 for a year. Residents who sign up for the service after May 15 will have their subscription fees prorated, said Paul Ruthenberg, vice president of Painter-Ruthenberg, the city's waste hauler contractor.

Organizers had earlier hoped to have all subscriptions paid by the end of April, but a computer glitch resulted in several thousand households failing to receive notification of the program.

"We don't know why it happened. or how it happened, but it happened," said Westland City Councilwoman Sharon Scott, who chairs a recycling committee.

Organizers had hoped to send letters to 24,000 residences, but they have fallen about 3,000 short, Ruthenberg said.

Scott noted that many Westland addresses somehow were lost by a computer system, meaning that thousands of residents didn't receive notification about the recycling program.

Now, the bottom line is that residents don't have a deadline for signing up for the program.

"They will have an opportunity at any time," Ruthenberg said,

Apartment residents and the city's industrial and commercial sectors won't be included, although it's possible they could be added later, Scott has said.

As of Tuesday, about 1,000 households had signed up for the curbside program, but Ruthenberg said he is receiving about 50 new subscriptions each day.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Two years after Westland police officer Tina Bertschinger died from: cancer following a valiant strugglethat included a heart transplant, she is being remembered.

Friends and family members who raised money in her honor are donating $2,689 to Paws with a Cause, an organization that provides trained dogs for blind and physically impaired people.

"This is something that Tinawould have liked, because she always loved animals," said her sister, Kathy Ross of Livonia.

Friends and family members raised the money after Bertschinger,

Scheduling problems

Diane Abbott, the city of Westland's governmental cable-TV and community relations contractor, is preparing for her own production next week.

She and Tyler Madge are planning to marry in the Central City Park gazebo Saturday, May 11.

But there's a story behind the story.

The original wedding date was set for late May, but Diane and Tyler ran, into a conflict because several friends were planning an out-ofstate trip that was to start the day before the planning wedding.

The conflict was discovered when the brideand groom-to-be bumped into one of Abbott's friends in front of the Kroger Supermarket microwave food section.

A mutual professional contact joined the conversation, learned of the late May wedding date and heard of the friend's dismay about missing the wedding.

After some discussion at the supermarket and subsequent deliberations, the couple decided to move up the wedding date so more friends can attend the ceremony,

Library support

The new city public library will launch its "T be Known Inside These Doors" donation and. recognition program, said library director Sandra Wyson.

People will have a chance to "buy" an area of the under-construction library for a price of $5,000 to $45,000. The purchase can be in the to be picked in the upcoming months.

29, died on April 24, 1994, one year after doctors removed a malignant tumor the size of a peach from her heart. She then had a heart transplant in June 1993, Organizers had hoped to donate the money to a Westland Police Department canine unit, but none has been started.

Ross said the $2,689, which has been in a special bank account, will soon be donated to Paws with a Cause in her sister's honor. The money will go to the organization's main training center in Grand Rapids.

"That's great," said Carol Dingler, an assistant at the organization's southeastern Michigan regional office in Lake Orion.

Ross and Bertschinger's friend, Westland police dispatcher Kim Molitor, spearheaded the fund-raiser on behalf of the former police officer.

Bertschinger inspired her friends and family members because she remained upbeat despite her disease. She even returned to work for awhile after receiving her heart transplant.

Dingler said the donation will be greatly appreciated by Paws with a Cause, which provides intense training for dogs that help the blind and the disabled.

A trained dog for a hearing impaired person costs $5,000. The cost increases to $8,500 for a dog for a physically impaired person, Dingler said.

"We even have dogs that help people get dressed," she said. "We had one recipient who fell out of a wheelchair, and it fell on top of her. The dog brought the phone to her, and she called 911."

Designated rooms have been purchased by City Councilwoman Justine Barns in the name of her late husband, Jonathan, and Friends of William Faust, a former state senator from Westland who has the library named in his memory. Faust died early January, 1995, after serving 28 years in the senate.

A 15-year-old Inkster teen who killed a Wayne Memorial High graduate has been sentenced as asiuvenile for second-degree murder, meaning he can only be jailed until age 21.

Raja Dunn was sentenced Tuesday by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge M. John Shamo for the Aug. 25, 1995, death of Dale Farr, who died 29 days before he was to marry high school sweetheart Dawn Manier of Westland.

Dunn opened fire with a .38caliber handgun in Inkster, shooting 23-year-old Farr in the back. Farr and his younger brother, James, had clashed with three teens who tried to sell. drugs to them, Inkster police Detective Greg Hill has said.

The Farr brothers had stopped in their car at a Middlebelt Road traffic light when they were approached, and they refused the offer to buy drugs and began driving away, police said .--

But the Farrs became angry when one teen threw a stick that hit their vehicle, and they pulled onto a side street and got out to confront the assailant, Hill has said.

The Farr brothers began fleeing when a larger crowd of teens began closing in, but Dunn opened fire and shot Dale Farr in the back. Dunn also shot at James Farr but missed, Hill said.

In a two-day bench trial ending Jan. 3, Shamo convicted

Dunn of second-degree murder, assault with intent to murder, and a felony firearms charge.

Dunn had originally been charged with first-degree mur-

Bus problems are linked to finances

A: Wayne-Westland school administrator is stressing that student transportation problems this school year are linked to financial difficulties that have kept officials from buying as many buses as they need.

Some bus drivers became upset when they read a story in the Observer in which they viewed statements by a school official as being critical of their school a half-hour earlier. job.

Patricia Brand, assistant superintendent for business, had said in a memo to school board members that the district hasn't done a good job this year getting students to and from school on a timely basis.

The problem prompted officials to revamp bus routes and change school starting times for next fall, with most students to start sized that the reason the district has had transportation problems is because officials haven't been able to afford to buy as many new buses as they need.

She said transportation employees shouldn't interpret her statements as being critical of their job performance, which she said has been good.

Personalized books provide winning story

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Shy, 6-year-old Samantha Painter smiled as she thumbed through a story book and found that she was the main character.

"I like it," the Jefferson-Barns Elementary first-grader said qui-etly Monday as she sat beside classmate Sarah Pinion on a classroom floor.

Sarah had a copy of the same story book, "My Balloon Ride," although she was the main character in her book.

"It's real nice," she said.

Each of 65 Jefferson-Barns first-graders was the lead character in personal copies of "My Balloon Ride," brought to school by Heather Zeits of Westlandbased American Enterprise Datalink.

The story is about a child who becomes airborne while carrying balloons and who flies over a circus, getting a spectacular view from above. A parrot eventually begins bursting the balloons one by one, and the child gradually descends and lands on a camel, between its two humps.

The story is set in Westland.

Zeits bought the computer software for the story books, and she did the printing and binding at her local business.

Weeks ago, Jefferson-Barns students had been given the opportunity to choose the names of two friends who also were featured as characters in the personalized story books, delivered Monday by Zeits.

"The child becomes the star of the story," Zeits said. "This is a way of helping the students

Weeks ago,

Jefferson-Barns students had been given the opportunity to choose the names of two friends who were also featured as characters in the personalized story books, delivered Monday by Zeits. Jefferson-Barns became the second school involved in the story book program.

Wayne received personal story books.

Zeits hopes that all Wayne-Westland schools will be visited eventually.

In talking with students Monday, she emphasized the importance of reading. She told the youngsters that they will need to have good reading skills not only for their elementary years, but for later schooling, college and the workplace.

"Someday you might have grandchildren who will want you to read to them," Zeits told the children.

Jefferson-Barns learning consultant Bonnie Sattler helped to organize Monday's program, and several local businesses paid the cost of providing the books to students.

The businesses include the Wayne-Westland Federal Credit Union (who sent representative Ruth Jasina to school Monday);

Healthy job market awaits SC grads

Some 900 students will graduate from Schoolcraft College this year, with more than half of the '96 graduates receiving degrees in a scientific field.

The commencement 'ceremonies will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday, May 4, in the physical education building.

Newsman Mort Crim will deliver the commencement address.

Honorary degree recipients include businessman and civic leader Charles McIlhargey and former Detroit News reporters Eleanor Breitmeyer and Armand Gebert.

Arthur Rockall, Northville artist and friend of the Schoolcraft College Scholarship Fund, will receive the Distinguished Alumni Award.

The high proportion of students concentrating in a scientific field reflects what employers want, according to a Schoolcraft job counselor, who said the job market is wide open for those with specific technical skills.

"The job market is excellent right now," Elaine Gerarge, Schoolcraft College job placement technician, said.

"There are more jobs than people to fill them. Employers

Beginning Saturday, May 4, Wayne County Parks will open the doors to its canoe livery.

The new county-operated canoe livery was open on weekends last October, marking the first time since 1956 that local families had the opportunity to explore the river by canoe.

"The opening of the canoe livery is an important symbol for our efforts to clean up the Rouge River," said County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

In the Schoolcraft graduating class, about 550 people will receive associate's degrees in science, general science or engineering.

Popular majors are registered nursing, business administration, applied science, criminal justice and liberal arts.

This year's class is up by about 100 people from the number of 1995 graduates.

"We are pleased to see a 13 percent increase in the number of graduates this year," said Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction.

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1996

School elections Voting for trustees still vital

Local residents will have plenty of choices when electing candidates to the Wayne-Westland and Livonia school district boards of education Monday, June 10.

While there has been an obvious lack of interest in school board elections in both districts in recent years, both by potential candidates and the voters, this spring is a welcome change.

In the Wayne-Westland district, which eovers most of the community, there are five candidates seeking two four-year terms.

There will be at least one new face on the board with Francis "Bud" Winter deciding last month to retire after serving one term, including one year as president.

On the ballot is an incumbent who was named to a vacancy last December, as well as four challengers.

In the Livonia district, which covers the northern section of the city, there are 14 candidates seeking three seats. All three incumbents are campaigning for new terms.

While the Westland Observer is pleased with the upturn in public interest in board elections, the Observer hopes that residents will do their homework in the next six weeks, read about candidates' positions and ask questions if they appear on your front porch to pass out a campaign flier.

While most of the community doesn't have children in the public schools, those residents should still maintain an interest in the school board election.

After all, as homeowners, they still pay school property taxes. Business people who live in the districts will want skilled high school graduates to hire as effective employees.

At the same time, voters should make sure that all candidates have done their own homework and having something to say besides "I'm for quality education" or "we have to do better in our test scores."

The real questions that should be put to them must focus on "how" the candidates plan to provide a quality education and improve test scores.

Voters must also be aware that schools at the opposite end of the financial spectrums, such as the Wayne-Westland and Livonia districts, are still facing financial problems.

Despite the political hype from Lansing during the successful campaign to gain voters' approval of Proposal A two years ago, the financial problems not only remain, but have worsened.

So the candidates and voters are in the same boat – how to improve the quality of education locally with little new dollars and more restrictions from the governor's office and the state legislature.

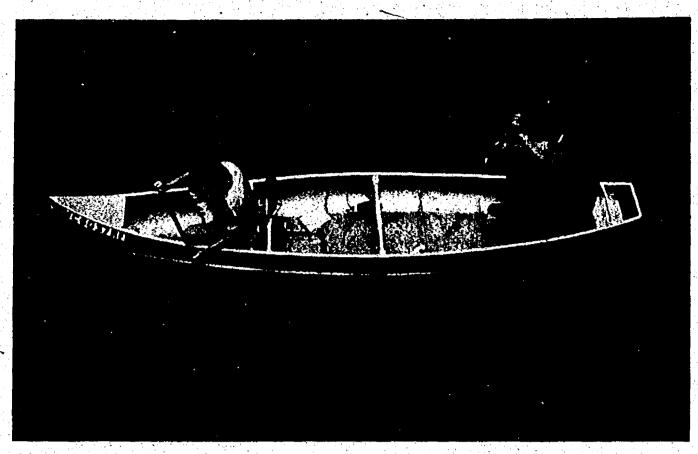

The answers won't be easy to come by, but everyone – candidates and voters – should try harder to come up with effective solutions.

Against upgrade purchase

At the April 22 school board committee meeting there was a large difference of opinion between my fellow board members and myself.

The issue was whether we should spend almost $40,000 to buy public relations equipment for digital editing. My reasons for opposing the expenditure at this time are:

• Recent polling of our district indicated that the public was very well informed and very pleased with our schools. Therefore, I don't believe we need to spend more money on public relations or its expansion. During certain times of the year school buses cannot even traverse those roads because of their condition. Moreover, I pay attention because I know the details of the county budget.

So, I am driven to ask a question. "Who is this guy — Michael Duggan — anyway? He has never been elected to anything -- not even dogcatcher. He is merely a power-hungry bureaucrat appointed by Edward H. McNamara to be his junkyard dog, and this entire fight over the road money is a political battle with the most popular governor (John Engler) this state has had in my lifetime, I know Mike Duggan. I have seen him in action. He doesn't care about people. Just ask residents of Huron Township and Romulus who have experienced his callous disregard relative to the incessant aircraft noise. Or, the good people of Sumpter Township who were forced to accept the largest landfill in North America. Or, my neighbors — the residents of Belleville, Van Buren and Canton townships --- who he threatened with a "Field of Dreams" tradeport at Willow Run which would have killed the fastest growing, most viable area of Wayne County, solely to repay political favors and to punish the conservative Republican section of Wayne County. The roads problem faced all over Michigan are real. They have been in the making for over a decade. The people deserve good roads. Providing good roads is a legitimate activity of government, unlike some of the other pursuits people like Mike Duggan take us on, like the "Festival of Lights," which may be nice to behold, but are certainly not a priority. The people deserve real leadership on issues like these. They want solutions, not divisiveness. They cry out for creativity and innovation to maximize the use of their hardearned tax dollars.

Inside today's Observer you have an opportunity to read about outstanding students from your hometown high schools. Wait until you meet this Observer Academic All-Star Team representing the Class of 1996.

This is the 12th annual All-Star Team we have selected since we began this very important event. The 1996 team is among the most academically accomplished.

"The schools are sending their best and brightest to us," said Larry Boehms, principal of Troy High School and chairman of this year's judging committee.

"Every year it gets to be more of a joy for us - the quality of students seems to increase." Selection to the team has always been based solely on the numerical combination of grade point average and either SAT or ACT scores, whichever is higher. Scoring is done by a committee of the Michigan Association of Secondary Principals from throughout our circulation areas and headed by Larry Boehms of Troy High School.

Dale Coller, principal of Livonia's Stevenson High School, is the longest-serving All-Star judge. We're honored to have him on the committee and we've included a special feature in this year's section on him. You can read about Coller and his 35-year career in education and his thoughts about today's students in this year's special section.

Our special thanks to Madonna University, the exclusive sponsor of this special section the last two years. The Livonia-based university offers a strong liberal arts foundation with solid career preparation and a commitment to serving others.

Students on the 1996 team will head to many colleges and universities including the University of Michigan, Michigan State UniMichigan University and Duke after graduation to study political science, pre-med, engineering and science.

They have set high goals and have accomplished much during their busy and very productive high school years.

The one thing they all have in common is outstanding academic achievement coupled with unparalleled extracurricular involvement.

Their applications are thoughtful as they write of their loving and supportive parents and special teachers who have motivated them to achieve.

The Observer Newspapers is proud to honor and share with our readers the good things outstanding students are accomplishing.

Congratulations to the 1996 team: Sharon Agacinski of Mercy High school, Lisa Berry of Churchill High School, Michael Buchanan of Detroit Catholic Central, David Chan of Plymouth Canton High School, Patrick Chun of Plymouth Salem High School, Marjory DeWard of Mercy High School, Jeff Druchniak of Churchill High School, Emily L. • I believe our present equipment is adequate for what we are presently doing, and the job being done by Mary Pat Benoit is "great"... and something we can be very proud of.

• Since there was only one vendor involved for this purchase, it was impossible to obtain bids on the equipment, and this concerned me.

• I believe that the most important public relations we can have is the quality of instruction that we offer.

• I would rather we spend the money on instruction, e.g. restoring more of our elementary instructional program which was drastically cut.

• Most importantly, the timing for this expenditure is poor in light of the uncertainty of funding for next year.

At our last regular board meeting, I was able to postpone the purchase voter. I promised if we could discuss my concerns at the study session, I would vote with the majority even though I was against the purchase.

I will keep my promise to my fellow board members just as I have kept the promises I made four years ago when I initially ran for my present position on the school board . . . that I would not be an automatic "yes" vote for every administrative proposal.

Road fight smacks of politics

I have just finished reading yet another article about the fight over road dollars. And now we appear to be headed to court to fight and spend scarce public tax dollars on a legal challenge. Why?

I am a Wayne County commissioner. As a commissioner, and more specifically as the vice-chair of the commission's ways and means (budget and appropriations) committee, I pay considerable attention to the matter of Wayne County roads. Especially since my 11th Commission District (which includes the northwest section of Wayne County) has far and away the most miles of unpaved roadway. ### POINTS OF VIEW

The bear facts

City dwellers should mind their own business

The animal rights folks are making | the rounds with petitions aimed at stopping the practice of putting out bait piles for bears.

The idea is that hunters shouldn't be able to put out food for the bruins and then later show up and shoot the animals while they're having dinner.

It's one of those ideas that has great appeal in suburban Detroit when an earnest friend or neighbor shows up with a petition in hand. I really can't blame people for signing them, with that idea in mind.

However, there's a whole other side to it. One that I was exposed to last summer. It's the guys who tend to the bait piles.

It's not pretty. It involves hauling five-gallon pails of rotten meat and anything else that's not fit for human consumption through the woods in 90 degree heat.

Actually, I was headed fishing on the day I became a bear baiter. I was tossing my rod into the Jeep, and ready to head to the Fox River when I noticed a friend with whom I was staying hauling plastic buckets to his truck.

It looked like he was making a trip to the town dump. So, when he asked if I wanted to accompany him, I wasn't enthused.

"I'm going to bait my bear traps," he said. •

It was one of those outdoor activities that I had never engaged in and probably won't ever have the chance to do again, so I jumped in the pickup truck and drove off.

Riding with a local in the Upper Peninsula is always an experience. Even though I know the area, we were quickly on unfamiliar roads that went from gravel to two-track and then to nothing.

We came to a stop at a downed tree. That's a sign there's something on the road. Locals often drag trees onto a road to ensure that tourists don't go down them.

JEFF COUNTS

Anyway, we put on hip boots and started walking a trail, each carrying two buckets of rotten food and several bottles of molasses.

It was a hot August day and after. about 50 feet I was sweating and by 100 yards I probably smelled like one of the buckets I was carrying. ,

The eastern Upper Peninsula is low and brushy. You can hardly see more than 25 yards in front of you.

My companion took note that we were using the same trails used by the bears when going to feed at the piles. I hoped it wasn't lunch time.

"I don't even hunt them anymore," he said. "They look too much like a human when they are skinned and hung up."

I admitted that I've never had much of a desire to shoot one myself. It's a lot of work to drag a 200-to 400pound bear out of the woods, even with some help.

My companion said he rents out the piles for about $200 a day during hunting season. To do that he has to drag in the rotten food for the bait piles several times a week during the summer, months. He said he has done the math on how much money he makes off of them and it really doesn't pay that much. There is also the time it takes to get the correct permits from the state Department of Natural Resources.

After about a 30-minute walk, we arrive at the first site. He dumped one of the five-gallon pails over, put a log on top of it and poured the molasses on it to attract the bears.

The syrup was on his hands and arms and we stopped at a swamp to wash it off.

After about two more hours of this, we were back at the truck.

"I don't know how many more years I'm going to do this," he said. 115

It was an understandable sentiment. It's hard, sweaty work done by people who have chosen to live in remote places where bears still live. These are people who are just trying to augment their meager incomes with a few extra dollars.

They should be left in peace by us urban folks with big cars and big incomes who pretend to know more about the rights of bears than these folks.

State term limits law will soon cause trouble

On paper, term limitation looks good. Citizen participation, not career politicians. Fresh ideas. Government close to the people. Rah!

But some people who see government up close are beginning to see severe problems, particularly in the state House of Representatives, where a three-term limit kicks in, in 1998.

Paul Hillegonds, retiring speaker of the House, said last week that three terms, six years, are too short. By losing veterans, the House will lose its "institutional memory" — a fancy way of saying that those who don't remember the past are doomed to repeat it.

members will be gone in six years.

House members will be more dependent on staff and lobbyists, he said. They will be pushed around more easily by the governor.

Hillegonds reminded me of former Rep. Bill Keith of Garden City. Keith? spent many years working on a reform of Michigan's branch banking and interstate banking laws, only to have then-Gov. James Blanchard veto his bill late in the session. Keith put in two more years whipping it into shape. And Keith is but one example.

TIM RICHARD

David Adamany, president of Wayne State University, warned law-

"We will regret the day we voted in term limits," agreed Sen. John J.H. Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, who chairs the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on the higher education budget.

Actually, lawmakers have been trying to devise a formula, based on program offerings and student numbers, for decades - unsuccessfully. So it looks like universities are in for porkbarrel chaos after 1998.

ty were able to reach bipartisan compromise. They had learned to think in broad, statewide terms.

Michigan has been a middle-of-theroad state for many generations. The l hard-nose conservatism of low-seniority Republicans and the bleedingheart liberalism of low-seniority Democrats doesn't match the way Michigan voters behave.

Three terms are too few for state representatives. Ten terms are too many because one becomes a law, unto himself, arbitrary and jaded. Five? terms - one full turn of the census clock - would be far better.

Future speakers and committee chairs will be members with only four years experience. The day they take their leadership posts, Hillegonds said, they'll be "lame ducks." He wondered aloud whether the House will be able to do long-term thinking if Hillegonds could have run one more term in his safe Holland district but chose to retire "for the good of my district." His successor will have one term of seniority when the full impact of term limits hits the House in 1998 and will be better positioned for leadership when 85 new state representatives come to town.

makers to devise a formula for funding universities PDQ, so that the higher education budget doesn't become a matter of political bargaining after 1998.

"With term limits, institutional memory will disappear from the State Capitol, and funding arrangements are likely to become highly predictable and even chaotic," Adamany said.

My own study of House voting patterns convinces me we will have more ideological and partisan splits when junior members take over.

Remember the school finance reform package that voters overwhelmingly favored 2-1 in 1994? If it had been up to the freshmen and sophomores, many of the tax bills never would have passed. Lawmakers with three terms and more of seniori-

State budget troubles loom

Gov. John Engler gets back from Europe this week. Between jet lag, recent stories suggesting he no longer is a top pick for vice president and a first-class problem with his budget, he may wish he never had gone away.

Time cures jet lag. There's nothing Engler can do about the vice presidential nomination: it's Bob Dole's call. But Engler can do something about the budget mess, although don't hold your breath.

The seeds for the budget problem were sowed last February, when the Engler Administration assumed Congress and President Clinton would enact welfare reform along the lines that the governor had been pushing in Washington, thus saving the state some $320 million. That hasn't happened, and nobody I talk to thinks it will happen any time soon. So the Engler budget is $320 million short, right off the bat.

And when legislators got back from their Easter vacation last week, people started noticing there was a problem.

According to Engler, who certainly doesn't want a budget crisis blowing up in the middle of his campaign for vice president, there's no cause for worry. "I'm prepared to wait some time. I think this could go on throughout the year," he said.

According to folks in the Legislature who now have the responsibility to enact some kind of budget, time already is running out. "At some point, we've got to say welfare reform simply isn't going to happen; let's look at the alternatives," said Sen. John Schwarz, chair of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on higher education.

Here's an example of why people are getting nervous:

Engler's original budget proposal called for a 5 percent increase for colleges and universities. That got the governor a lot of good ink about being a friend of colleges and universities, especially when it looked as though this level of state support would keep tuition increases at a low 2-3 percent for the year.

That hurts a lot of people. Parents of kids going to college, for one. Engler's good friend, deal last year about holding MSU's tuition increase below the rate of inflation, and if Engler's original budget gets busted, McPherson winds up with egg all over his face.

The preliminary posturings already are taking place on what could be as big a fight over higher education appropriations as last year.

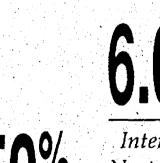

Engler's flacks are saying the whole thing is President Clinton's fault, which is partly true. Conservatives, including the editorial page at the Detroit News, are arguing that the thing to do is hold the lid on spending, regardless. University presidents are wringing their hands. Democrats are gloating that, at last, Engler finds himself in a box.

There is great logic to start figuring out "what if," especially when it comes to things like college tuitions. But I doubt the political realities - Engler's conservative base, mixed with his political ambition - will allow people to do any such thing.

fistead, expect the pressure to build, the rhetoric to heat up. I expect it won't be until a lame duck session of the Legislature - well after Engler is or is not nominated for vice president, well after the election determines what party controls next year's Legislature and after some more numbers are in - that it all will be sorted oub. '

In the meantime, college presidents will have a tough time figuring out what to bill parents. for tuitions. If I had a kid in college, I'd be sug-

KAREN MEIER

Look who's turning 100

The 100th installment of the "Family Room" will appear right here in two weeks. This fact came to my attention the other day and I couldn't believe it! One hundred!

That much time has gone by? One hundred weeks? One hundred Thursdays? No way!

The time has absolutely flown by. I mean it. The clock has sprouted wings, the calendar, too, and off they went. And I've tried catching them, but they keep flapping away.

It's a scary thing. And whenever I mention it, I get a nod of the head and a melancholy reply, "It only gets worse as more time passes." The more time passes the more it passes quickly. And that's that.

And then I think of the gas gauge in our van. That's right, the gas gauge. The one that takes forever to move from FULL down to the next marking, and then after that it takes a little less time to move to the next marking and then after that it seems as if a big hole gets punched in the tank and all the gas leaks out all at once and there I am - out of gas. That's the way time is.

I don't know how this time thing happens nor do I know the reason for it. I just know it happens.

Now, here's another thing about time that's so curious - the future. Indeed, the speedy present, the gas gauge effect of time, is definitely beyond me, but the future is even more "beyonder" me. For instance, 100 weeks ago I would never have

Big bands: Big draw at the Hall

Fresh out of college, he made a name for himself playing Big Band music as leader of the Tommy Weldon Band. Almost 50 years later, Weldon Petz is entertaining audiences with his talks about the people and the music that made that era so big.

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

> What song did Glenn Miller think was a "bad tune," but became one of the most remembered songs of the Big Band Era?

Who was the lead singer of The Pied Pipers, which provided vocals for Tommy Dorsey?

What Big Band leader quit performing in the mid-1940s and made lamps out of his clarinets because he didn't like the way the industry was going?

For buffs of the Big Bands, the answers come quickly. The "bad tune" was none other than "In the Mood," The Pied Pipers' lead singer was none other than Frank Sinatra, and the band leader with clarinet lamps - and only Big Band leader still living - is Artie Shaw.

Those are but a few of facts Dr. Weldon Petz tosses out while talking about a subject near and dear to his heart. And with good reason. Between the time he graduated from Wayne University in 1943 and 1947, when he signed on with the Detroit Public Schools as an instrumental music teacher, he played trombone for Jimmy Dorsey, performed in radio theater, and recorded with Ella Fitzgerald.

with white bands," Petz said. "(Loring) Red Nichols and the Five Pennies played the Dixieland sound that was cleaner and crisper than the bands coming out of New Orleans."

The growing interest in the music prompted the opening of the first great ballroom in New York: Harlem's Cotton Club opened with a piano player by the name of Duke Ellington and McKinney's Cotton Pickers.

Duke Ellington was the only one who could read music, so he would teach the band," Petz pointed out.

The music even caught on in Detroit, which, according to Petz, built the Greystone Ballroom. "the greatest ballroom, with the greatest dance floor and best dance floor...and we tore it down.".

The interest in hot jazz or swing took off with the 1930s with the help of radio. Leading the charge was Paul Whiteman who "hired the best musicians." Dorsey and Goodman were in the band at the same time and an up and coming piano player by the name of George Gershwin. Whiteman added wind and

Bing Crosby as vocalist. "Big band was very specialized," Petz said. "There were only 2,000 musicians who played in the big bands. It was very, very competitive, and there was always someone waiting for a spot."

Only the best

Among the early swing bands was one led by drummer Ben Pollack, who like Henderson, hired the best musicians, including a clarinet-playing teenager by the name of Benny Goodman.

And it was pianist Fletcher Henderson who would make a name for himself as an arranger and eventually break up his band to arrange for Goodman, according to Petz.

"The arranger was the brains and the heart of an orchestra." Petz said. "He would make the sound of the band. I have great respect for the arranger."

As for Goodman, he planned to break up his band after perform-

Weldon Petz ing in New York because no one danced at the ballrooms where he played.

"At the Paramount Theater, when he played his theme, the young people began dancing. Swing was born and he became the King of Swing," Petz said.

Jimmy Dorsey took his theme song from "Oodles of Noodles" and had Ellen O'Connell as a vocalist. He was, according to Petz. "a marvelous man to work for and had a marvelous band."

His brother, on the other hand, had "Getting Sentimental Over You" as a theme song and the ability to play 32 bars of music without a breath. But the "greatest influence" probably would have to be Glenn Miller, who exercise to warm up on the trombone turned into his them song of "Moonlight Serenade.

Miller disappeared while en route to France to entertain the troops. The band had played in England and went on to the continent while Miller stayed ### behind to do some paperwork. He hopped a flight across the Channel and was never heard from again.

"A captain found his briefcase floating in the Channel on a battery that had shot the plane down," Petz said. "He had been killed by friendly fire.

"It was an honor to know Glenn Miller and his music would have been better had he returned from the war."

While band leaders like Johnny Long played for the troops during the war, there were two songs that "had great meaning" during World War II - Martha Tilton's "I'll Walk Alone" and Dick Haynes's "You'll Never

Time and life have unfolded themselves and they've twisted and turned and there never seems to be map to give me an idea of what lies ahead. But ahead I go, we all go, faster and faster all the time.

Yikes! It's like a wild Cedar Point ride, isn't it? Shrieking and hanging on for dear life sems like a smart thing to do, but that would cause a ruckus and be really embarrassing. So we do what we do, and for me that's pretending to be calm and in control. It usually works. But I'm only pretending. Inside, I'm shrieking and hanging on for dear life.

Anyway, this anniversary of sorts, this 100th episode of the "Family Room" coming in two weeks is worth a celebration. Heck, why not? I've celebrated a lot less momentous things. You must mention the number 100 somewhere along the way; that's a requirement, since the whole thing is a salute to 100. Here's just an example: Jack had 100 crayons until today. He shoved a handful down the furnace vent. He said we'd have rainbows blowing out soon.

Defying the odds can be fun in recreation and rewarding in business. But deadly where your health is concerned. Even if you haven't had any heart problems so far, today's culture can burden your body's systems. Add stress, less time for relaxation and a poor diet and you could be accumulating risk.

Ask yourself these questions:

Smoking: Have you stopped? A smoker dies an average of 7 to 8 years sooner than a non-smoker.

Blood Pressure: Is your blood pressure above 140490? Almost 58 million people have high blood pressure.

Cholesterol Level: Did you know that for every 1% your lower your slood cholesterol level, your risk of heart attack drops by 2%?

Oakwood Healthcare System is committed to helping you avoid heart risk. us at 1-800-543-WELL for a complimentary Heart Risk Appraisal. Return and we'll send you your personal heart risk evaluation and recommendations to help decrease your risk.

We also offer health education classes near you. And if you don't have a personal physician, we'll provide you with information so you can make the choice that's right for you.

Over the next several months, Oakwood Healthcare System will bring you a series of articles focusing on cancer-related issues. The purpose of this series is to provide educational information to help you make healthy decisions on cancer. prevention, detection, and treatment.

Articles on cancer prevention will include practical suggestions to reduce your risk of developing cancer. Sound advice will be provided on what you can do now for yourself and your family to minimize exposure to catcinogens.

Early detection articles will provide facts about cancerscreening. Information will be provided on when you should begin and the frequency that you should have specific screening tests, such as skin assessments and mammograms. In addition, articles will assist you in asking your doctor about cancer screening events.

Cancer treatment approaches and side effect management are an evolving science. State-of-the-art treatments in radiation, surgery, and medi-cine will also be detailed through articles and updates. Information on bone marrow transplantation, radiosur-gery, and gene therapy will help you understand the complexity and importance of cancer care.

If you have questions about cancer-related topics, please contact the Cancer Center of Excellence at (313) 593-8600 and watch for the answer in the upcoming articles.

Dr. Manuel Valdivieso is the director of the Cancer Center of Excellence. His responsibilities include overseeing Oakwood's continuum of cancer care. He is nationally known for his work in lung cancer, and has been a consultant to the National Cancer-

It's a twister: Helen Hunt and co-star Bill Paxton run for their lives as a tornado bears down on them in "Twister" which opens in theaters Friday, May 10, and will usher in a benefit for the Red Cross at the Laurel Park AMC Theaters in Livonia.

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

It's a given that, sooner or later, Hollywood is the master of disaster when it comes to films with a penchant for destruction. For aviation, there was the string of "Airport" flicks, high rises had their "Towering Inferno," and the cruise industry its "Poseidon Adventure."

Well. Mother Nature gets her shot in Hollywood's latest disaster flick, "Twister," that opens in theaters on Friday, May 10.

Now before you conjure up images of that tornado that swept Dorothy to the Land of Oz and sent Sally Field and her hired hands to the root cellar in "Places in the Heart," this flick is more realistic, more '90s, if you please.

The largest storm to hit Oklahoma in more than a half century is brewing, and it promises to drop multiple twisters into Tornado Alley. It's the storm that two rival groups of scientists want to be the first to launch their own equipment in a twister to transmit data about tornado behavior.

There's also another group waiting . . . for the flick . not the tornado . . . that's the folks at the Laurel Park AMC Theaters who have big plans for the movie's opening . . . and the American Red Cross.

"When you have something like a tornado hit, the Red Cross is called out to give blood and disaster relief," said Wendy Sue Sailor, manager of the Laurel Park AMC Theaters in Livonia. "So with this movie, we wanted to do a big promo that would tie in with the Red Cross."

The big promo is twofold: a blood drive from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the theaters' lobby on Friday, May 17, and a blanket drive that will run through Friday, May 24.

Blood donation appointments will be scheduled every 15 minutes and as an incentive to give, donors will receive two free movie passes. Walk-ins also will be welcome.

"AMC has done blood drives in the past and they've been very successful," Sailor said. "They seem to go over pretty well and each time they do it, they get more successful."

The blood drives generally are held during the summer, when donations are low, but Sailor hopes that by tying it in with "Twister," they will be able to collect at least 60 pints of blood.

"People need to know that one pint of blood can help four people," Sailor added.

Patrons who donate a new bed or crib blanket will receive a coupon for a free popcorn.

The Red Cross began the blanket drive in 1989 and collected 300 blankets that were distributed to shelters in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Last year, the total was 6,900 blankets.

"The main focus of the blanket drive is usually in fall,' Sailor said, "but the Red Cross needs blankets year-round."

In addition to the blood and blanket drives, there also will posters providing facts about tornadoes in Michigan and the United States "to get people in the mood."

Mixed in with the serious stuff will be some fun and games. The staff will dress as characters. from the "Wizard of Oz," Hollywood's best known film with a tornado in it, and there will be games for theatergoers to try their hand at.

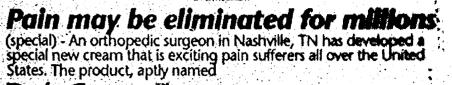

"We may even get the "Twister' out; people love it," Sailor said. "We also hope to do mini twisters with ice cream with Y Not Yogurt in the mall."

There also will be prizes like over to May 11, Sailor said.

People interested in participating in the blood drive can call 462-4933 for more information. including the criteria for donating blood. The theaters are at be a few other surprises, too."

Laurel Park Place, Newburgh and Six Mile roads, Livonia. For those waffling about joining in, Sailor has yet another tidbit to offer: "There also will.

Expo show focus: for, about women

When the first Michigan Inter- new - with flowers, A bridal disthe Novi Expo Center Thursday through Sunday, May 2-5, area florists won't be letting any grass grow under their feet.

The show will feature a cornucopia of products and services of interest to women, including financial and investment services, health care, automotive, cosmetics and beauty, food and fashion. But the tone will be set by elaborate, contemporary floral displays, reflecting current interest in a mix of the traditional and contemporary.

"We see this as a great opportunity to demonstrate to today's busy women the joy - and ease of using fresh flowers and how to take care of them, so they can enjoy them longer," said Betty Harran of Troy's Professional Allied Florists Association of Metropolitan Detroit.

"We're going to show visitors how to use flowers for special occasions and to enhance the home to make things brighter," said Ray Mierzejewski, chairman of the floral display and owner of Piccadilly Petal'er in Canton.

The theme of the floral display is French Chateau with a contemporary flavor, using arbors, doors, a gazebo, pond, shrubbery and trees in tones of blue and coral, according to Mierzejewski.

"They're going to be hit by this blaze of color - a 65- by 100-foot wall - right when they walk in," he said.

Seminars and displays will show how to say it - and what's national Women's Show comes to play will showcase the latest in silks.

The seminars will be offered throughout the four days of the show, run by Southern Shows of Charlotte for the past 14 years. The topics include "The Hows, Whys and Whens to Use Flowers," "Easy Tips on Bringing Your Flowers Home," "Garden Flowers: How to Use the Things You Have in Your Yard Indoors," "Ribbons and Rows: Simple Touches Anyone Can Do to Accent Their Home Any Time or for Special Holidays' and "Silk Accents in the Home.'

Deckers Flowers and Gifts in Westland will be participating in two different seminars - silk accents in the home and door arrangements. It also is handling the gazebo and fountain for the French Chateau.

"It will create a garden effect with spring colors," said Judy Decker, adding that the personal touch is important to the florist. "We try to keep an eye on the quality and treat each order as if it was going to our friends."

"We get a lot of special orders," added Buzzy. "We want to show how easy it is to have those personal touches and that we're, there to make it easy for the customer. We're professional women, so we understand time constraints."

The show hours are until 9 p.m. tonight, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $7. The Novi Expo Center is just south of I-96 at the Novi Road exit.

When Chrystyna Nykorak delivered medical supplies to Ukraine in 1992, she could feel the burning of the radiation in her eyes. At an opening reception for the exhibit on April 21 Nykorak, membership director for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, reiterated Hayda's con- radiation. cerns that the world has forgotten Chornobyl, and the lingering effects it left on all forms of life. Thousands of acres of agricultural land and forests are contaminated with radiation. The strontium and plutonium will remain forever in the bodies of the victims, dead or alive. "People want to forget. It's important for us to remember. We're doing the exhibit because the planet is not safe. I don't think humanity knows the side effects of something this dangerous," said Nykorak, a West Bloomfield Township resident who created large-scale batik paintings inspired by her trip for the first Chornobyl art exhibit five years after the disaster. "Some of the artworks have hope, but most of them are like the clay sculpture of the cow with three front legs. We placed a broken egg in the case because the egg is very symbolic in Ukrainian culture. The radiation is affecting human structures and genes. If the egg cracks you no longer have the life force." hildren understand the suffering of other children even if those children are a half a world away. The proof is an art exhibit in which children of Ukrainian descent from throughout metro Detroit express their thoughts about the disastrous Chornobyl, this is the Ukrainian spelling, nuclear explosion on April 26, 1986.

From a painting of a Ukrainian flag splattered with blood to an assemblage featuring a small plant barely surviving among the rocks of a Ukrainian landscape, the exhibit focuses on the more than 125,000 people who died as a result of radiation poisoning and the untold number of children already afflicted, or about to become ill with thyroid cancer and leukemia.

According to Bozhena Olshaniwsky, president of Americans for Human Rights in Ukraine, radiation affected more than 1 million children. The world's worst nuclear accident produced 300 times the radiation released from the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945. The coverup and silence of the Soviet government for two weeks afterward cost not only lives, but illness for generations to come.

Skulls and mountains of bodies permeate the paintings, drawings, sculpture, fiber art, and photography in "Chornobyl – 10 Years After Through the Eyes of Children." While some chose to illustrate the flawed Soviet RBMK reactor, children of the Ukrainian American Youth Association assembled a fabric wall mural of the countryside before the accident: Black and red radiation symbols hang from the ceiling throughout the exhibit, the idea of Taras Hayda, a student of the Eaton Academy in Birmingham. As viewers walk through the exhibit, the hazardous material signs heighten sensual awareness that Ukrainian air is filled with poison.

"Since this is the 10 year anniversary of the disaster we wanted to know what Chornobyl means to them, how they perceive it and the leukemia and cancers related to radiation," said exhibition coordinator Dzvinka Hayda.

"One tragedy seems to happen and we go on to the next one. We wanted people to become aware "Living with the Monster," a large scale col-

That is why Josephine Love, co-founder of Your Heritage House, agreed to host the exhibit. "In general children's museums present the pleasant side of life. I think it was important that children have some awareness of Chornobyl and the ongoing suffering," said Love. still operating. According to Olshaniwsky there were 109 nuclear accidents at the Chornobylplant in 1994.

There is a ray of hope for the people of Ukraine in the form of the Children of Chornobyl Relief Fund. The outpouring of generosity has helped to ease the suffering with 15 air transports and five by sea of donated medical supplies and clothing.

"For the last six years we've been collecting funds, clothing, food supplements, vitamins and over-the-counter drugs. These we ship to orphanages, hospitals and sanatoriums," said Roma Dyhdalo, director of t ie relief fund's Michigan chapter. "We're tryin, to convince the American public there is a need. It's not hysteria; this is the fact. On a visit to an oncological clinic there when we delivered supplies, I spoke with a mother of two children who have thyroid cancer and another mother with three children all with thyroid cancer. People do not have enough money for expensive cures or traveling. People don't realize what kind of life people have there. The reason we're always asking for vitamins is because the children are malnourished. There's no fresh fruit or vegetables."

Livonia Symphony Orchestra wraps up its season Saturday with a concert dedicated to the memory of those who suffered, • and continue to suffer, as a result of the nuclear tragedy in Ukrainian Medical Association, a radiologist, will present a historical overview of this incident that changed the world's perception of the effects of nuclear fall out. A and during intermission. There will also be a display of photos loaned from the Ukrainian Consulate in Chicago and the Ukrainian Embassy in Washington, D.C.

"The question is not closed," said Volodymyr Schesiuk, LSO music director and conductor. "Both of my daughters were 500 miles away, but for many kids it was very bad. It was a rainy spring day. No one knows the long-term effects."

Schesiuk, his wife Luba, and their youngest daughter Maria emigrated to the United States in Ukraine.

For him, the concert is an opportunity to express both his sadness over what happened, and to rejoice in the promise of a brighter future. The pieces he chose for the program express these mixed emotions. "I try not to only present a concert, but to present a production," he said. Special theatrical lighting will help set the mood.

"Élegy for Strings," written by former LSO violinist Christopher Tew to commemorate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, is a tragic melody. Gordon Jacob features soloists Colin Lord, clarinet, and Brian Moon, trumpet. "This is a newer piece, and it's been a goal of mine to feature outstanding soloists," said Schesiuk. "It was written a few years ago. I like to do new pieces for me and the orchestra. It challenges them."

"Ballet from the Perfect Fool" by Gustav Holst is a serious piece about natural elements – the spirit of earth, water and fire. "It relates to Chornobyl because it was a beautiful place, and only a fool would build a nuclear plant in such a place,"

Festival celebrates 'Special Arts'

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, May 3, and noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 4 more than 140 disabled chil-CHOMIN dren and adults will sing, dance and play instruments at the Very Special Arts Festival at Wonderland Mall, (Plymouth and Middlebelt), Livonia. Presented by the Southeast Region Committee of Very Special Arts Michigan, the sixth annual festival celebrates the power of arts to triumph over disabilities by showcasing the achievements of persons with hearing, sight, mobility, and developmental and emotional impairments who take part in VSA programs.

"It's a celebration of arts ability. We are now just realizing how important the arts are to special needs for learning and growth. We believe the arts can disable disability," said festival chairperson Connie Lott of the FAR Conservatory of Therapeutic and Performing Arts in Birm- for movement, students have

We invite people of all ages to come and enjoy the festival. There will be an information table so a parent or teacher can find out how they can find art services or bring art into their school. And also an arts project area where people are welcome to come by and make something."

Very Special Arts was founded for individuals who could not participate in the sports of Special Olympics because of their disabilities. An international organization begun in 1974 by Jean Kennedy Smith, VSA enriches the lives of the disabled by encouraging creativity through music, drama, dance, and visual arts programs that provide opportunities to develop through the arts.

Music therapist Elizabeth Sands of Canton has seen how a VSAMI mini-grant to the Bryant Center in Livonia helped her severely mentally impaired, severely multiple-impaired and hearing impaired students. Through the use of drums, tambourines, maracas and scarves increased attention spans, improved motor skills and learned socialization and communication skills. Although Bryant Center won't be participating in the festival this year, Sands' pre-primary students with developmental delays and visual impairments at Carr Elementary in Lincoln Park will kick-off Friday's program. The 15 three to six year olds will also do sign language to a song titled "Love Grows."

"The music therapy addresses developmental skills. They learn to follow directions and impulse control," said Sands, a graduate of John Glenn High School in Westland.

"Performing is really great for them. They feel really proud about what they accomplished."

Up next on Friday are the 33 students from Pontiac junior and high schools under the direction of music therapist Maraget Hull. They begin their "Proud to be an American" repertoire with Bruce Springsteen's "Born in the USA." Boyz II Boyz, a duo from Herrington Elementary, will perform Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Getting to Know You."

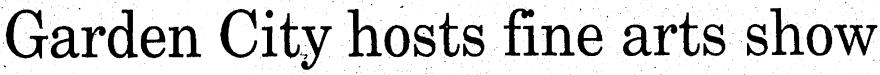

"While the music therapy reinforces their reading skills and what they need to be doing in their school environment, the festival gives them the encouragement they need. It provides a feeling of self esteem. They go back to school and they're all enthused," said Hull, a Birmingham resident and VSAMI Southeast Region Committee board member.

In addition to the live performances, the festival offers a VSA art exhibit fresh from a showing at Urban Park-Detroit Art Center in Trapper's Alley in Greektown, and a hands-on art activities area.

There is nothing more rewarding than helping a disabled child make art. The smile you receive in return sends the heart soaring. For the last two years, I've received more than I've given by volunteering to work in the art activities area. I've learned that we all have abilities when it comes to art, it's only a matter of degree. For some the finished product is everything. For others it's not the art you make that counts, but participating to whatever degree possible.

Human suffering and pessimistic views of the future are nothing new to the stage. However, local playwright Paul Patton has juxtaposed time and space in both his plays to paint a chilling reminder of the savagery that lurks below the surface of mankind's civility.

In "The Edie and Elmira Show," two tales of human suffering, are 130 years removed from each other. They alternate onstage until their common tragedies inevitably collide under the watchful eye of the voyeuristic TV cameras, fueled by an insatiable public. Set in Elmira Federal Prison during the Civil War, and on a modern day talk show, they share the common thread of human suffering as a spectator sport.

mins turned in outstanding performances as the two imprisoned Confederate soldiers. The talk show cast, while earnest and well-meaning; was plagued by technical glitches and at the mercy of unseasoned actors. In the right hands, the talk show portion of the script could be a real tour-de-force.

"263" takes a look at a grimly efficient future society where "flat line sleep" enforces the population control goals. The script has great potential. However, great dialogue is lost if it's not well-delivered, and clever costumes don't make up for uninspired acting. The adults in the cast failed to discover that unemotional characters need not be one-dimensional and boring the best known example being Leonard Nimoy's Spock. the one significant exception was the Narrator, played by Robin McCutcheon, who exuded warmth, talent, and most importantly, believability. The Narrator also proved to be the surprise link to another era. Young Jenna Vanden Brink, as Emily, had some touching moments with her. The children in the cast con-

'Isn't it Romantic' entertaining story

Farmington Players presents "Isn't it Romantic" weekends May 3 to May 18, Players Barn, 32332 W. 12 Mile Road (between Farmington and Orchard Lake Road). The Farmington Players current production of "Isn't it Romantic" isn't very. But it is entertaining nonetheless. A number of noteworthy performances turn up, too – sometimes in the most unlikely of places.

Directed by Jan and Bill Salisbury, Wendy Wasserstein's comedy explores that nagging, modern-day question: Can a woman really have it all? Set against an early 80s New York backdrop, the play centers around two notgetting-any-younger women friends (one a writer, one mired in the business world) who discover that, when the chips are down, priorities can prove surprising indeed.

As the friends, Janie and Harriet, Lisa Muscio and Sarab red-haired Rosati. Her smile zest and comic edge into her performance.

The same might be said of Michael Megerian, who plays Janie's love interest, Marty Sterling. If he could have more fun with his role as the nice-butflawed nephrologist, we'd have more fun with this play.

Judie Rosati as Janie's irrepressible, button-cute mother is a riot. If actress Shirley MacLaine had a sister who was an elf, that sister would be the supporting cast.

Actually, they almost complete an able supporting cast. Toby Booker plays a confused Russian cab driver with an endearing, oafish charm. And a cop. And a macho moving man. And a jogger. And a waiter. And much of it he plays between scenes, along with fellow scene changer and utterly delightful mime-dancer. Barbie Amann. This production may be one of the very few you'll ever see in which the scene changes are every bit as entertaining (sometimes, even more so) as the play itself. Cleverly choreographed and set to pop tunes that reflect the previous scene, they're charmingly executed by both players. None of it ever seems intrusive, although "Isn't it Romantic" contains around a dozen such changes -

Singers' sons form band with a fashionable focus

model/singer Donovan Leitch admits that his band Nancy Boy is a prime target for cynical music listeners, and fellow bands, who look for superficial reasons to hate a group.

Fashion

"Every time I had a modeling job. I would push the band. That's when we started working out our whole style and everything. Then photographs started floating around but nobody had heard any music yet. That's not a good thing. (But the promotion) made us prime candidates for people looking for any excuse to kind of hate somebody," Leitch said.

Leitch's plan worked. Nancy Boy has a head start on other fledgling bands struggling to get noticed by the press, radio, and fans. He bolstered his band's image through runway assignments, photos in the social pages of fashion magazines, and television appearances. The British music magazine Melody Maker calls them the "Godfather of RoMo" or the romantic mod sound.

Leitch describes his band as "Iggy meets Ziggy (Stardust) meets Twiggy." The album takes the listener on a journey through Leitch's self-described weird experiences as a model.

"Nancy Boy is very influenced by fashion and the whole sort of fashion world. It's a very intriguing place. There's really talented photographers and designers and they kind of travel like gypsies. That's why musicians and models always end up together. They really understand each other's world."

"I used a lot of my experience in fashion to influence my songwriting. The lyrics kind of go back to weird experiences I had."

One of the songs that isn't an ode to the fashion industry is "W.R.I.P." a song based on a WRIF bumper sticker that guitarist Jason Nesmith, son of the Monkees' Michael, has on his guitar case.

"The way I came up with the title was our guitar player had a sticker on his guitar case that said 'WRIF Rocks Detroit City.' I just changed the 'F' to the 'P.' " Leitch, the son of folk singer Donovan, and his band were also inspired by the melodies of 1960s music and the flash of 1980s hits.

"When we first started writing the music, we were like completely inspired by the likes of Japan, Duran Duran, Gary Newman, Devo, all the great '80s bands. For the song structure, I wanted it to be very pop and very '60s and very catchy melodies. With Jason, we're also very heavily guitar influenced -'70s guitar, Pink Floyd that kind of thing. Everyone in the band has such various musical influences."

Initially, Leitch and Nesmith collaborated on music with the intentions of creating a movie.

"I was thinking of putting the band together, but it was more of a movie idea than an actual Sophie B. Hawkins at the Royal band. I wanted to make a film that was kind of like the life of T-Rex in a way, an updated version of Ziggy Stardust. I was into that '70s movie (trend). It was rock music but it was also theatrics. Then I went to Jason and I said, Will you help me put together some songs?' Then Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, there was no turning back."

But that plan worked as well. "The album came out. Now we're just gonna go on tour. The good thing about Nancy Boy is there's been a really good response to it internationally right now. It's cool. It's exciting. We're going places I never thought we'd be releasing music, going to Scandinavia and Italy."

MOVIES 'Mulholland' lacks flair

BY JOHN MONAGHAN SPECIAL WRITER

It's designed to make you recall the classic post-war detective movies, new and improved with the added frankness of the 90s. But "Mulholland Falls" only serves to remind you what Hollywood knew then and still knows now: even with a stellar cast, set design, and cinematography, your movie can still be a turkey.

You see, "Mulholland Falls" isn't about a captivating story. It's about lighting and smoking cigarettes, wearing fedoras and baggy suits, and conducting investigations in impossibly long sedans. It's about the scenery, decor, and detail that were naturally in the films of the 1940s.

Max (Nick Nolte) leads the legendary "Hat Squad," an elite Los Angeles police unit that works outside of established legal boundaries. Whenever a dirty job needs doing, they search without warrants, rough up suspects, even kill a scum bag or two with virtually no questions asked. Their favorite dumping ground is the steep hillside below Mulholland Drive, the Falls of the title.

When the corpse of a beautiful woman turns up in the desert, Max turns white. We soon discover (in gold-hued flashback) that Max had an affair with her without telling his wife. The resulting investigation reveals that the woman's next door neighbor took movies of her dallying which have now disappeared.

Somehow linked to all this is the head of the Atomic Energy Commission, a weasand general played by John Malkovich. He too had an affair with the woman, was also filmed, and is anxious to retrieve movies that place him near the time of the murder.

As any mystery fan knows, incriminating pictures are the favorite trump cards of a good gumshoe and Max is no exception. He hides the film canister beneath the boards in his basement so well that even the FBI

Crime drama: Katherine (Melanie Griffith) and Max Hoover (Nick Nolte) are a happily married couple until the details surrounding Max's murder investigation force them into facing a hidden truth in MGM's "Mulholland Falls.'

Even the action scenes drag, with a climax so lame that we're sure some twist must follow. It never does.

Lee Tamahori (his first film was the acclaimed "Once Were Warriors") has absolutely no concept of pacing. We linger on the lighting of every single cigarette. Those big cars take way too long to park. Even the action scenes drag, with a climax so lame that we're sure some twist must follow. It never does.

Roman Polanski's "Chinatown" is only one of the movies that "Mulholland Fails" pays tribute to (rips off) in atmosphere, story, and even music. The only thing more predictable than the script is the score with its lush blend of strings and piano.

I always imagined that the hard-boiled dialogue of the old "film noirs" must have been a such luck for Melanie Griffith, Chazz Palminteri, Bruce Dern, and Treat Williams, talented factors saddled with thankless, sometimes embarassing, lines.

Probably the biggest tease was watching Chris Penn and Michael Madsen (old pals from "Reservoir Dogs"), resigned here to playing second-fiddle to Nolte's buildog-faced Max. He 'wouldn't be so hard to take if we hadn't seen him play this part a hundred times before.

Even at its worst, "Mulholland Falls" allows like-minded viewers to bask in the long-gone clothing and decor of the early 1950s. With the mountains of good detective fiction to work with, it's amazing that the filmmakers couldn't come up with something better than this.

Save Energy. Sit In Front Of The TV.

"Our House," a home energy-efficiency show brought to you by Detroit Edison, has some timely suggestions that can help you lower your energy bills. Starting March 17th, watch "Our House," Sundays at 7:00 a.m. on WDIV Channel 4.

Co-hosts Tom Tynan and Paula Engel offer many energy-saving projects for the home and tips to help preserve the environment. You'll see all new shows on energy efficient windows, kitchens and interior designs, as well as building an energy efficient home and conducting your own energy audit. Plus a special show about the Greening of the White House.

"Our House" is the only show that gives you the energy saving know-how. And it's Detroit Edisoh's way of helping you save energy at your house and money on your energy bills.

"Our House", Sundays, 7:00 a.m., WDIV, through June 9th

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan.

DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS

5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5.50; $4.50 students/seniors.

• "The Flower of my Secret" Spain - 1995). 7, 9:30 p.m. May 3-; 4, 7 p.m. May 5. A middleaged woman writes romance novels under a pseudonym, failing to acknowledge that her own love life is on the skids. The latest from Pedro Almodovar reportedly returns the director back to the mix of irreverence. and flamboyance that made his "Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown" such an instant classic.

• "Two Friends" (Australia -1986). 7 p.m. May 6. The first feature from Jane Campion ("The Piano") plots a year in the life of two 15-year-old girls. Though a hit at Cannes a decade ago, the film has only now been released in the United States.

MAGIC BAG THEATRE

22920 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. ($2)

• "Things to do in Denver When You're Dead" (USA -1995). 9 p.m. May 8. Andy Garcia leads another heist gone way wrong in this dark, dark comedy fell through the cracks left by "The Usual Suspects" and "Reservoir Dogs." Christopher Lloyd and Treat Williams, and Steve Buscemi lead the roster of character actors who make this one definitely worth a look.

• "Jane Eyre" (USA - 1996). Charlotte Gainsbourg takes the title role while William Hurt fills the sizable boots of the mysterious Mr. Rochester in this umpteenth remake of Charlotte Bronte's Victorian novel. Directed by Franco Zeffirelli, best known for his classy Shakespeare adaptations.

• "The Celluloid Closet" (USA 1995). Oscar-winning directors Rob Epstein and Jeffrey Friedman take an eye-opening look at Hollywood's depiction of homosexuality over the years. Interviews with Tom Hanks, Gore Vidal, and Whoopi Goldberg join countless clips from the movies.

• "Frank and Ollie" (USA -1996). A documentary on Frank Thomas and Ollie Johnston, two animators who invented the Disney style with such classics as "Snow White" and "Pinocchio." Starts Friday.

• "It's My Party" (USA - 1996). Eric Roberts stars as a gay man, dying of AIDS, who throws a two-day party for family and friends, choosing to celebrate life rather than succumb to death, Starts Friday.

MAPLE THEATRE

4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($5.75; $2.95 twilight)

"Flirting with Disaster" (USA - 1996). A comedy about a slightful uptight and discontented young man who, having been adopted at birth, sets off on a quest for his birth parents. The all-star cast includes Ben Stiller. Patricia Arquette, Alan Alda, Mary Tyler Moore, George Segal, and Lily Tomlin.

• "Fargo" (USA - 1996). In this sixth film from Joel and Ethan Coen, Frances McDormand plays a pregnant sheriff investigating a bizarre murder case in the Upper Minnesota snowbelt. Drver and less satisfying than the Coens' other pictures, but still one of the most unique and uncompromising films of the year.

• "The Birdcage" (USA - 1996). Robin Williams and Nathan Lane are a gay couple who must play it straight when Williams' son wants to entertain his fiance and her conservative family. Mike Nichols' remake of the 1978 French farce "La Cage aux Folles" delivers big laughs.

• "The Pallbearer" (USA -1996). Friends' David Schwimmer agrees to fead the funeral service of a former high school classmate, despite the fact that he can't remember him at all. Along the way he falls in love with dream-girl Gwyneth Paltrow. Starts Friday.

'The Dead of Winter' clever murder mystery

328 pp.). "Do you suppose the earth's center of gravity. has shifted . . . VICTORIA and Blackwater Bay is now . . where new York used to be and as a result we're all being adversely influenced by Manhattan's stars?"

A concerned character voices this concept early on in this cleverly-titled, usually clever murder mystery - and it's no wonder. Unpleasant events are occurring with increasing frequency in Michigan's fictional Blackwater Bay area, disturbing the usual calm enough to make inhabitants question if the planet itself hasn't gone a bit wobbly.

Begin with the frosty morning when ice fisherman Frank Nixey discovers a fish-rayaged corpse bobbing up through a hole in the ice "like a dumpling in the stew." Bad enough in itself, but this corpse has a hole in its head, too.

This is the third violent death to occur in the resort area. recently, and things are going to grow considerably worse (we soon learn) before they start to get better. By the time our tale ends, two other bodies will turn up, neither of which will make a pretty picture on discovery. A model high school student and Homecoming Queen will disappear under highly-mysterious circumstances. And, this being Jahuary and Michigan, wouldn't you just know that a monumental blizzard will play a major role in the chilling drama?

At the center of the story is a home economics teacher, Jess Gibbons, determined to turn over a new leaf in her humdrum life as the story begins; the amiable hard-working sheriff, Matt Gabriel (add a Southern accent, and he could be Sheriff Andy Taylor); his sidekick, George Putnam ("energetic as a puppy and with about the same amount of . . . sense"); Jess' long-time. friend, Tom Brady; and Jason Phillips, a kind of odd-man-out who teaches chemistry. at the local high school. (Jess shares her sprawling lakeshore home with Tom, Jason, and several other teachers, by the way). A large supporting cast enlivens the action and adventure. And, though no player major or minor - is especially three-dimensional, just about every single one of them is colorful and engaging in his or her own way. There's an Ice Festival before our story is over, and an almostlethal Ski-doo race, and Jess falls through the ice, but not before she falls for the gorgeous new veterinarian in town, and not before we begin to suspect a possible mob connection in all the trouble, and not before the roof literally collapses at the local high school, and a couple of house cats start acting peculiar, and some "designer drugs" show up. And then there's a whole bunch of other stuff afoot. The

26th Relays field talent-laden

BY STEVE KOWALSKI STAFF WRITER

The running-event finals for the Observerland Boys Track Relays start at 7 p.m. Saturday, but fans might want to arrive four hours earlier to truly appreciate the 26th annual event.

That's when the day begins for two of the meet's more versatile performers - Livonia Franklin junior Paul Terek and Westland John Glenn senior Jason Baker.

These two would feel just as comfortable running with a baton as they do with a pole. Westland John Glenn will attempt to defend its team championship at Livonia Churchill with strong challenges expected from Plymouth Salem, Farmington Hills Harrison and Detroit Catholic Central. The Shamrocks' odds seem long with distance standout Joe Leo, the state Class A team cross country champion and key relay runner, still out with a sore knee.

Southfield Lathrup and its versatile standout Everett Edgar also are among the 17 teams competing.

BOYS TRACK

The field events start at 3:30 p.m. followed by the running preliminaries at 6:30 and the finals at 7. Admission is $3.

Terek has already cleared an eyepopping 15-feet in the pole vault, by far the best in Observerland, and ranks second in the long jump (20feet, 2<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> inches) and 400 meters (23.1).

He also can run among good company in the 100 dash, recording a personal best time of 11.3.

Baker has cleared 12-0 in the pole vault, which in most years would rank as Observerland's best. He also ranks second in the high jump, clearing 6-41/2 behind Farmington Hills Harrison's Doug Brodoski (6-5) and is among the top five in the 110 hurdles (15.7) and 300 hurdles (42.4).

Terek was a second-team All-Observer choice in football as a wide receiver and defensive back and he uses the same vigor when approaching the pole vault pit.

"I saw him at the indoor meet at Eastern Michigan and there was no fear in him coming down that runway," CC coach Tony Magni said. "He's not afraid to get upside down and go after it."

A state qualifier as a sophomore, Terek's goal is to win a state champioinship and break the state finals mark of 16-1/2, set in 1993 by Midland Dow's Steve Hill.

Terek carries a 3.86 grade point average and scored a 27 on his ACT test, which seems to make him a contradiction when it comes to describing his craft.

"You almost have to be stupid to do it," said Terek, a bronze medalist in the pole vault at the Junior Olympics last summer. "When you think about it, you bend a pole that could break at any time, you go upside down and hope you don't hit the bar and land on a mat. I don't think of myself as exceptional, I just do what they want me to do."

As good as he is in the pole vault, clearing 20 feet in the long jump was even more remarkable considering it was his only attempt this year. Could the discus and shot put be

Indy Car driver Adrian Fernandez and Rena Shanaman, general manager of the U.S. 500, the new race to be held at Michigan International Speedway the same day as the Indy 500, will be the featured speakers for the Motorsports Hall of Fame's Speaker Series, Wednesday May 15.

Fernandez will talk about his new ride with Tasman Motorsports, the state of Indy Car racing, and his view of the future. Shanaman will give a status report on the inaugral U.S. 500, with unique insight into the challenges of organizing a major first-time event surrounded by controversy.

The presentation will be at 7 p.m. May 15. Admission is $6, which includes admission to the museum. The Motorsports Hall of Fame is located inside the Novi Expo Center, on the southwest corner of I-96 and Novi Road. For more information, call (810) 349-RACE.

Basketball correction

In last Thursday's Observer sports sections, it was reported that Detroit Catholic Central's Justin Hoener had signed to attend and play basketball at Schoolcraft College. It further stated that Hoener's roll at CC this past season was as a sixth man.

Hoener started 20 of 24 games and led the team in assists (4.0 a game): He was also second among the Shamrocks in scoring (14.1 points) and rebounding (nearly five per game) as CC finished 19-5.

Churchill graduate, succeeds Don Albertson, who will be retiring from that position effective May 31. Albertson served five years in the A.D.'s chair after taking over for Larry Joiner.

"I'm excited, this is a dream come true," Hage said. "How many people get to come back to their alma mater with the opportunity to make a difference? And I appreciate that Mr. (Rod) Hosman has enough faith in me to grant me this opportunity. "My first goal is to learn the job, and learn it well. There are many parts to the position, but first thing I need to get down is the business of scheduling and dealing with contracts (with officials)." It was no secret Hage, who has worked in the school's physical education program for four years, was the one and only candidate to succeed Albertson.

He had been given release time from his teaching duties by principal Rod Hosman during the past few months to assist Albertson.

"Marc was a communications major in college, but his first love was teaching and coaching," Hosman said. "And that's one of the reasons he'll be good for the job.

"The communication aspects are important when you're dealing with parents, kids, teachers and coaches." Hage played basketball and baseball at Churchill before moving on to Michigan State where he earned a degree in communications in 1982.

Hage, who eventually earned a Masters, got back into the education field as an elementary P.E. instructor with the Berkley Schools where he spent two years.

He joined the Livonia Schools five years ago and was an assistant boys basketball at Churchill under Fred Price as the Chargers won the 1990 district.

Hage will oversee several ongoing projects when he takes over for Albertson including the upgrading of the new softball facility, the creation of a new football practice field, resurfacing the gym floor, refurbishing bleachers, installation of a watering system and making some cosmetic changes to the baseball field.

"There are some things down the road I'd like to accomplish," Hage said. "Don (Albertson) has done a lot of good things for the athletes, and eventually I'd like to add my own things. With Don, I've spent time trying to learn the position and it's been an excellent experience. I've tried to gain as much insight as I can."

Hage has hinted he'd like to explore the possibility of creating an athletic booster club with Hosman.

"I believe the student-athlete is your most valuable constituant. along with the parents," Hage said.

parents and people in the communican be tapped to our benefit.

"We need a lot more parental involvement and I'd like to keep people abreast by either a newsletter or by having meetings."

Another ongoing question Hage will face is how to help turn around Churchill's football fortunes. The Chargers have just one win during the 1990s.

"I have to examine everything going on in the athletic program;"

Hage said. "And I believe I have a ty are an unbelievable resource that handle on the kid involved with football. I believe (coach) Steve (Naumcheff) and his kids are doing a lot of the right things. I know a lot of those kids, and they're also doing it right academically.

"A lot of the kids I've seen are skilled athletes, but there could be some walking the halls that could play, and might get involved if there was a winning program."

Hage resides in Livonia with wife Anne and son Joey.

about turnaround and fair play?

Livonia Churchill's girls soccer team should know it by now. The Chargers received a lesson in it Monday at Plymouth Canton, when the Chiefs scored the game's only goal with 10:47 remaining to hand Churchill its first Western Division loss.

A year ago, it was the Chargers who clipped the Chiefs by the same 1-0 margin. That win all but assured them of the divisional crown and a berth in the Western Lakes Activities Association's championship match. Two years ago it was Canton that beat Churchill 1-0 to advance to the WLAA final.

But it was not to be. Canton's constant pressing finally forced mistakes by the Charger defense and presented the Chiefs with some scorng opportunities.

The initial opening came with just under 12 minutes left in the match on a pass misjudged by the Churchill defenders. Jenny Parviainen broke toward the ball, but Charger keeper Crystal Wright beat unleashed a hard shot from 18 yards out. It sailed over Wright, banging hard off the crossbar.

Dawn Koontz retrieved the rebound to the left of the goal and pounded her shot past Wright into the far corner of the net.

"That's how you win games," Canton coach Don Smith said. "Your force mistakes."

Churchill coach Nick O'Shea, his team now 6-2 overall, couldn't argue. "We teach our defenders to come forward and settle the ball instead of sitting back and playing it safe," he said. "They're used to backing off and letting the ball bounce in front of them.

"Now, trying to come forward and settle it, they sometimes misjudge the ball or on a wet field like this it gets away from them."

he'll start knocking on 16 feet."

Baker has led the Rockets to the Elk Relays championship and a 4-0 dual meet record. The Rockets also finished sixth at the Monroe Relays after holding down third place with two events to go.

Glenn meets Salem in an interesting pre-Relays battle today. Sprinters Charles Bailey and Steve Hester give the Rockets good balance.

"Baker has been scoring in three, four events and is a very valuable member," Glenn coach Jess Shough said. "The key last year was we had a lot of depth spread all the way through. The field and sprints will be our strength again. There are a lot of good distance teams and that's not our strength."

Salem could literally run away with the 3,200 relay championship. Jason Barylski, Jared Biniecki, Scott Loewe and Andy Briggs have Observerland's best time, 8:16.3, which is more than 15 seconds faster than the second-fastest team Lutheran West-favorite last year, but the Hawks' chances suffered when standout sprinter Kevin Bryant injured his hamstring during the shuttle hurdles relay.

Bryant missed both the 400 and 800 relays. The Hawks' 400 relay team failed to place and the 800 relay team took second place, .03 behind Wayne Memorial.

"He missed the 400 and 800 and things kind of fell apart

"John Glenn appears real strong in the field. Salem is real strong in the distance, CC looks real strong, too, in the shot put and distance, and Northville could surprise some teams. They're real strong in the 400 and 800 areas."

The Hawks are looking to score some significant points in the sprint relays with Jason Granger, Keith Battle, Chris

CC, Patriots score wins

Mike Daguanno went 3 for-3 with a double and two RBI Monday, leading Redford Catholic Central to a 8-4 baseball win at Madison Heights Bishop Foley.

CC is 7-6 overall, while the Ventures fall to 3-12.

Other hitting stars for the Shamrocks included Garet Burch, who went 2-for-3 with a double and three RBI; and Chris Karney, who was 2-for-4 with a triple and two runs scored. CC used five different pitchers with Marty Wilk getting the victory. He threw one Inning of scoreless relief. James O'Connor, the starter, worked the first two innings.

•FRANKLIN 6, NORTHVILLE 5: Junior David Wampler's single with one out in the seventh inning Monday gave the Patriots the win in a Western Division encounter in the Western " Lakes Activities Association.

Franklin is now 6-6 overall and 2-1 in the Western Division.

Starting pitcher Tim Miller singled leading off the inning, then Eric Bowman walked. Jason Schnob sacrificed the runners up before Wampler came through with his game-winning hit.

Franklin had tied the score with single runs in the fifth and sixth. The winning pitcher was Matt Downs, who took over for Miller with two out in the fifth and allowed just one hit the test of the way, striking out one.

Franklin made five errors and that didn't help Miller, who walked three, fanned seven and gave up six hits. Only two of the runs Northville scored were earned.

School went 2-for-2 and drove in a run while John Holt went 3-for-3, including a double, and drove in a run.

•W.L. CENTRAL 5, JOHN GLENN 1: Walled Lake Central pitcher Jake Mathison had a nohitter through six innings and Westland John Glenn committed four errors, leading to a 5-1 Vikings' victory Monday over the visiting Rockets.

The Rockets failed to score in both the first and second innings despite getting runners on first and second base without the benefit of a hit.

They pushed across a run in the seventh inning against Central reliever Rob Wing, Junior Jason Robertson had an RBI single, scoring Sean Heard, who was hit by a pitch to start the seventh. Scott Fink also singled off Wing, but was stranded at second base to

It was the Rockets' fourth-straight loss. Glenn is now 5-5 overall and 0-3 in the WLAA's Lakes Division.

Central is 5-7 overall and 3-2 in the WLAA. Tye Golden suffered the loss on the mound, allowing three hits and striking out three with two walks over five innings;

"All they had to do was hit the ball, put it in play and we'd make an error," Glenn coach Todd Duffield said. "We're struggling, we're young and going to take our lumps. I understand that, but we've got to keep going:"

.W.L. WESTERN 6, CHURCHILL O; Kevin Crane and Andy Evans teamed up on a one-hitter Monday as Walled Lake Western blanked visiting Livonia Churchill (0-8 overall).

+LINCOLN PARK 5, WAYNE 4: A sixthinning error on an effort play Tuesday allowed the winning run to score in this makeup game.

The Zebras picked up single runs in the fifth and sixth innings to negate a 4-2 Railsplitters lead.

But in the bottom of the inning, a one-out walk and a stolen base put the winning run at second. After losing pitcher Al Thomason got-the second out on a strikeout, the next hitter grounded a ball up the middle that Wayne's second baseman stopped on his knees. However his snap throw to first was wild for an error and the winning run scored on the olay.

Thomason fanned seven and walked five in his six-hit complete game, Jeff Temple drove in a run with a double and a single while Ron King had two singles, scored a run and drove in a run.

The Zebras are now 7-5 overall and 3-2 in the Mega Red.

In a Saturday doubleheader, Wayne took a pair from Dearborn Edsel Ford, 11-1 and 9-5, behind the pitching of Temple and Charlie Leverenz.

Tempte walked two and fanned five in taming the Thunderbirds on three hits in the opener. Leverenz struck out nine and walked five while scattering nine hits in the second game. Brian Falahee had a double plus a single, driving in a run in the first game, while Brent Tajiri had a pair of singles, scoring twice and driving in a run.

In the second game, John Clendenoing bad a pair of doubles, scored twice and drove in two runs. Kevin Wetmore had a pair of singles, also driving in a pair.

Local grappler wins gold medal BY RICHARD L, SHOOK STAFF WRITER

John Demsick teaches physical education in the Plymouth-Canton school system at Flossie B. Tonda and Nellie E. Bird elementaries.

He teaches lessons about life on wrestling mats, in the gym and on the track.

And one of the biggest lessons youngster should learn from Demsick's example is that age might eventually slow you down -- but it doesn't have to stop you.

"Working with young ones," Demsick said, "they need someone who has a lot of energy. I started with a lot of energy, and I've been able to stay with it."

Demsick, 48, recently went to Tulsa, Okla., and struck oil. Okay, t was more like gold.

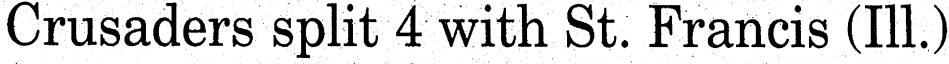

He won the national Folk Style wrestling tournament in the 126pound category for men age 40 and above.

He also wrestled in the age 30-and-up category -- and finished second.

Next year Demsick is toying with the idea of trying opponents in the 135-pound weight category, his everyday weight.

He lives in Pittsfield Township and coached his two oldest sons, John-Peter and Robert. He now helps out with the varsity at Ann Arbor Huron, where his sons are enrolled.

A lot of his help is wrestling the wrestlers, advancing their technique and keeping himself in shape.

It would have been appropriate for Madonna University's baseball team to celebrate the completion of its pair of doubleheaders with St. Francis (Ill.) with an ice cream sundae. Say, a banana split.

The Crusaders divided the four games, winning the second of each doubleheader after the losing the first. They finished the weekend 24-19.

Mark Serra's fine relief work, 4 2/3 innings of two-hit ball that raised his record to 3-1, in the second game Sunday helped Madonna record a 10-6 victory.

Saturday's win went to Jason Dubey, 2-1, who gave up a run in the only inning he worked but was the beneficiary when Madonna scored twice in the bottom of the eighth to take a 6-5 win.

TEN PIN ALLEY Leagues converge for Cloverlanes Youth event

BY AL HARRISON BOWLING WRITER

4C(LW)

There are three youth traveling leagues in the metro Detroit area _ the Sunday Youth Classic, Wayne-Westland Youth Traveling Classic and Ward's Youth Travel Classic. This type of activity is the breeding ground for the all-stars and professionals of the future.

Aleta Sill and Cheryl Daniels have both come up through these organizations which teach youngsters how to bowl well, develop good sportsmanship and have a chance to earn a college scholarship. They also develop a love for the game.

Now, for the first time, the three leagues will compete against each other in the Cloverlanes Youth Travel Challenge to be held Sunday, June 2, at Cloverlanes in Livonia. Competition will begin at 10 a.m.

The format will have each league with 20 representatives _ five men, five women, a mixed team and bowlers from each lastplace team.

This is a first. Perhaps the winning youth teams could take on some of the excellent senior bowlers from the Mayflower Senior Classic League. Wouldn't that be interesting?

•Aleta Sill does it again.

Sill, who at one time took up residence in Westland and Garden City, was recently inducted into the WIBC Hall of Fame.

A member of the Michigan Bowling Hall of Fame, Sill at 33 is the youngest inductee and top prize money winner (more than $800,000) of anyone on the Ladies Pro Bowlers Tour.

Sill was one of three inductees. The others were Donna Adamek of California and Flora Mitchell of Missouri. The presentation was handled by WIBC President Joyce Deitch.

girls softball. December didn't walk a batter and fanned six in seven innings to help host Churchill raise its overall record to 10-2.

Jessie Jenkins went 2-for-3 and drove in the first two runs of the game with a single in the third. Churchill scored four in the third.

Tina Naif had a hit and a sacrifice and drove in two runs. The Chargers had five hits overall.

On Saturday, the Chargers swept a double-header from visting Beverly Hills-Detroit Country Day in a non-leaguer, 2-1 and 13-10.

December pitched a five-hitter in the opener, allowing one walk to go along with six strikeouts.

Offensively, Megan McGinty ed the winners by going 3-for-3 with the game-winning RBI in the sixth, scoring December, who had double. Naif added two hits and scored a run.

In the nightcap, Churchill beat the Yellowjackets in eight innings.

Jenkins and McGinty each cnocked in four runs.

December pitched four innings of scoreless relief, allowing three hits. She did not walk a batter.

+NORTHVILLE 15, FRANKLIN 5: A seven run first inning doomed the Patriots as the Mustangs mercied them in six innings.

Rendi Wolfe had a pair of hits for visiting Franklin, now 5-6 overall and 1-2 in the con ference, while Kelly Young had an RBI single. Lori Jendrusik was a bit wild in the damp drizzly conditions. She walked 11 and hit fou batters. Franklin managed but six hits.

.STEVENSON 7, N. FARMINGTON 6: Laure Krol was the winning pitcher and got the win ning hit Monday in squaring its WLAA man at 1-1 and improving to 3-5 overall.

Krol survived seven walks by striking out two and scattering four hits. She drove in the game-winner with a single in the top of the seventh to score Andrea Jarczak, who had singled and stolen second.

Jarczak had singled home Juli Courtright, who had also singled and stolen second.

The Raiders' Mickey Spisz struck out eight, walked four and allowed Stevenson eight hits. The Spartans scored five in the first and nursed a 5-4 lead into the final frame +W.L. CENTRAL 6, JOHN GLENN 1: Pitcher Lindsay Tapp fanned 10 on a five-hitter Mon day, leading Walled Lake Central past host Westland John Glenn (7-7).

I recently came across IGOLF. a popular and talked-about Website on the Internet. IGOLF also is on American Online and for that reason, too, has been written about in computer magaeines. A few months ago I learned that this site has strong local connections.

And so when you visit. http://www.igolf.com/index.html you will be taking advantage of many features developed by two area residents, Dave Richards and Holly Geoghegan.

The top of the IGOLF home page invites you to the site's golf chat. Links include This Week in Golf, Leaderboards, Instruction, The Tours, Club Daze, Game Room, Swizzlestick G&CC, Equipment, Travel, Architecture, Writer's Block, Photo With warm Gallery, Industry/Stocks, Golf weather upon History, Environment, and IGOLFOLOGY. In the center of already are fillthe page are links to headlines of current golf stories, and highgreens and golf lights, > Richards and Geoghegan are principles of Golf Marketing Services, a public relations, media, marketing and networking consulting firm based in Bloomfield Hills that specializes in the golf business.

In public relations circles, Richards is known for his efforts in developing northern Michigan as a golf destination. Recognized as one of the top golf photographers in the country, his photos have appeared in many national magazines.

Geoghegan has served as director of communications for the Ladies Professional Golf Association, was executive director of Golfweek Academy, and has created marketing programs for Spalding, Taylor Made, Ashworth and others. A freelance golf writer and reporter, she helped form the International Network of Golf.

Golf Marketing Services, founded by Richards in 1990, represents more than 20 golf resorts and golf courses in Michigan, Lake of the Ozarks, and Florida. Among its Michigan clients is Grand Traverse Resort, Shanty Creek, Boyne USA, Garland, and Bay Harbor.

In addition, GMS is the lead industry consultant for IGOLF, the comprehensive, interactive, electronic golf area on AOL and on the Web. In 1994, Richards merged GMS with Sportventures International, a marketing and PR company owned by Geoghegan.

In 1995, the two teamed up on several new and innovative projects, including IGOLF. GMS also was instrumental in guiding InterZine Productions, Inc., formed in 1994 to produce interactive content for online services, through the golf business last year. Under GMS' guidance, InterZine launched IGOLF in 1995 and it became the May 6, cover story of 1995, GOLFWEEK.

We have been very impressed with Golf Marketing Services' knowledge of the golf industry, its quick grasp of this enormous _http://www.igolf.com/index.html project and ability to get results," said Brian Henley, cofounder of InterZine and IGOLF. "Golf Marketing Services has assisted us in taking IGOLF to all areas of the golf industry, from the manufacturers and associations to the media and golf personalities."

Henley adds that Richards and Geoghegan are industry insiders who have quickly acclimated themselves to the cutting edge of cyberspace and its unlimited potential in relation to their role as industry consultants whose job it is to disseminate information.

"Its the most fascinating proiect we've ever worked on,H said Richards. "The online world is not limited by any boundaries, real or imagined. That allows editors and companies to be totally creative in developing editorial and marketing concepts. The industry reaction to InterZine and the IGOLF project has been overwhelmingly positive."

"Being an interactive medium, the feedback is immediate and significant," said Geoghegan. "Everyone in the industry now knows it is the wave of the future."

Now that you know about these two, if you enjoy golf or not take look ้ล at to see how they use the World Wide Web as a means of distributing information to both select and broad audiences.

MARKING 70 YEARS

West Side Distributors Ltd. of Canton Township is celebrating 70 years in business this year. The company began in 1926 when Max Kaminsky bought property in Detroit. In 1965 Mary Mazur, Kaminsky's son-inlaw, bought the business, and in 1970 the company moved distribution facilities to Canton Township, maintaining the Detroit location as a branch warehouse. Since 1965, West Side has supplied independent auto parts jobbers with an inventory of more than 120,000 part numbers. West Side joined the Bumper to Bumper National organization in 1983.

The company employs 120 people and has its own fleet of trucks making deliveries daily.

E Q-1 DESIGNATION The Ford Motor Co. has named

Rudolph/Libbe Inc., a construction organization with offices in Canton Township, a Q-1 suppli-

The selection followed the automaker's review of the construction firm's operating systems, technical capabilities, project delivery and business practices.

Rudolph/Libbe has built more than 3,100,000 square feet of facilities for Ford Motor. Major projects have included a 520,000 square foot addition to the Michigan Truck Plan in Wayne; a 660,000 square foot addition to the Kentucky Truck Plant in Louisville: and a 524,000 square foot paint shop addition to the Norfolk ,Va., assembly plant. "Being designated as a Q-1 supplier is an especially valued distinction, because Ford Motor's supplier-quality program is a key component of the corporation's overall approach to total quality management and is considered to be a benchmark of customer-supplier quality improvement programs," John Libbe, Rudolph/Libbe's administrative manager, said.

BOND ISSUE

The Michigan Strategic Fund, agency of the Michigan Jobs Commission, recently approved a $2.7 million limited tax-exempt bond issue to help finance the expansion of Arctic Rentals of Canton Township. The project includes the construction of a 60,000 square foot addition to the Canton facility and the acquisition and installation of machinery and equipment.

"We are pleased to be able to support projects that can help

M BUSINESS ALLIANCE

A&W Restaurants Inc., based in Livonia, and TCBY Enterprises Inc. have formed a business alliance to offer their brands at both franchises. Several A&W Restaurants and TCBY stores will be adding each others' brand to their location. "We are excited about this opportunity to co-brand with the premier dessert brand in the business," Sid Feltenstein, chairman, president and chief executive officer of A&W Restaurants Inc., said.

"A&W is a restaurant brand that everybody knows and, with the addition of the TCBY Treats concept, this will really bring the consumer a strong, powerful business proposition. We are extremely enthused about this alliance and look forward to a successful unveiling to potential franchisees.," Herren C. Hickingbotham, president of TCBY Enterprises Inc., said.

IN NEW PUBLICATION

The Engineering Society and ANCAR Publications Inc. is developing a new publication called "Technology Century." Geared toward management and professionals in all disciplines of the engineering and scientific community, Technology Century is scheduled to debut in August 1996:

The goal of Technology Century is to provide information on new and emerging technologies that area engineers, while also appealing to engineers nationwide, according to Carla Kalogeridis, president of ANCAR Publications Inc. "Technology Century is not a technical journal, but designed to keep engineering executives abreast of the latest industry advances," Kalogeridis said. The publication will feature arti cles on trends, issues and innovators in management and technology including automotive, architecture, manufacturing, construction, government and environmental engineering. It will be published eight times annually.

Today's demands on women can cause health problems

.Today's women are asking more of themselves, which is placing stress on their lives and affecting their health, according to one health expert.

"The drive to be it all, have it all and do it all has given rise to the myth of the "walk-on-water woman,' " said Melodie Chenevert, a nurse, director of PRO-NURSE, and keynote speaker at the annual Women's Health Day held April 20 in Livonia and cosponsored by St. Mary Hospital and the Marian Women's Center. "These women strive to be high achievers intellectually, creatively, personally and/or profession-

Medical executive to be featured

Dr. Thomas C. Royer, an executive for Henry Ford Health System, will speak at Madonna University at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, May 22, in Kresge Hall. His talk is part of the McManus Distinguished Business Lecture Series.

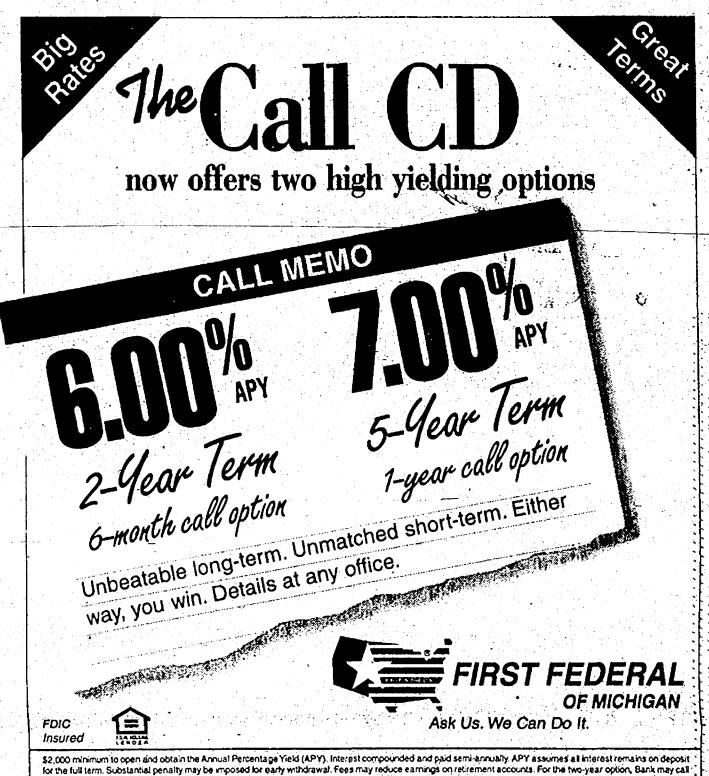

Royer, who is vice president for medical affairs for Henry Ford Health System and chairman for the Henry Ford Medical Group Board of Governors, will discuss "Evolving Health Care in this Decade of Change: Preparing for Delivery of Health Care in the 21st Century." Royer is a board-certified general surgeon and received his undergraduate degree in chemistry and physics from Pennsylvania State University and his medical degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

• He has served as senior vice president and medical director for the Geisinger Clinic and the Geisinger Medical Center, both in Danville, Pa.

There, he founded and directed the department of emergency medicine and the residency program in emergency medicine.

He then moved on to the post of chief executive officer, president and chief operating officer of the Johns Hopkins Medical. Services Corp. and the Wyman Park Medical Associates where he was in charge of an 18-site, mutli-specialty system integrat: ed with the Johns Hopkins Health System in Baltimore, Md.

Admission to the lecture is free. For more information call Madonna University's School of Business at (313) 432-5354.

"Unfortunately, today's women are up against shifting values, unforgiving schedules and conflicting priorities."

Chenevert explored some of the physical and emotional complications that women face, suggesting that women need to reassess their strengths and priorities so that they can attain what they want.

This second annual women's health event which included a variety of one-hour workshops, a fashion show and local business exhibits. Workshops included stress, domestic violence, midlife changes, self-esteem, friendship, and women's cancer issues. The event was also supported by project SMILE (St. Mary Infant and Loving Care Enterprise), a nonprofit group.

topics such as

INTERIOR MOTIVES Many ways to redesign bath

The Observer/THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1996

BY NAOM STONE LEVY SPECIAL WRITER

This isn't an easy subject with which to deal. If you are fortunate enough to be in the position of demolishing all the existing plumbing fixtures and updating everything you can achieve a stunning result. If such isn't possible can you pull out the old basin and install a cabinet-housed, under-counter replacement? They are available prefabricated, but one designed to your own needs and finishes can resonate your good taste. A handsome marble top becomes significant.

From practical experience I recommend raising the height of the counter to a minimum of 33 inches. As our generations are getting ever taller you may even want the height to be 34 inches. Try it on you and your mate. It is very much easier on your back than the accepted 30-31 inches high. Handsome hardware enhances and adds distinction.

What about a new toilet? Be sure to order an elongated bowl, with a lowered tank, which is spatial. Replacing the bathtub is a larger undertaking. Is it possible in your case to simply surround the old tub with a marble top and front as a camouflage?

Possibly the most colossal change will be the floor, so often ignored. It should be coordinated with the walls. Marble isn't as expensive as one might imagine. There are marble squares that are the most reasonable. There are so many wonderful combinations of marbles, and even combining marble with granite can be gorgeous. Small quantities of black add a large quantity of style. One, or none of the above? If none, you are faced with only superficial changes.

Thereupon, wallpaper becomes your best ally. Wallpaper, well chosen, can be very effective. I have found that continuing the paper over the entire ceiling does make a big, big difference. In such cases a small, repeated pattern may be best, and it is easier to handle the repeat. Of course, a dynamic print is more dramatic; please be sure it has a roving overall design. Is the bathroom small? The more dramatic paper tends to make the enclosure seem even smaller, but the smaller pattern will have a charm of its own. You make the choice! To reiterate what I have previously written about wallpapers: Remember that the small piece you view in the book becomes stronger when used on. the walls and ceiling. Be cautious.

Changing your lighting fixtures is of inestimable help. There now exists many more appealing designs that will help update your bathroom, and improve practicality. A trip to a local lighting fixture shop will be illuminating, no pun intended.

D2

Even a sleek new medicine cabinet (the old one is easily unscrewed and replaced) adds a fresh look. There are bathroom shops that will open your eves to what is available. No more the "dinky" old-fashioned look. There are three-way "wings" that are an integral part of newer cabinets. Adding a lot of mirror in a bathroom visually enlarges the space.

New window treatments are another dimension. Simplify from your old curtains by using horizontal blinds. They are very handsome in bronze or stainless steel. I rarely specifiy color, but in the right venue even that is effective. Fit them just to cover the window casing, offering the best privacy, essential to a bathroom.

Conversely, if remodeling is accessible you have a whole world out there to redesign, whether the bath is small or large.

GOING BOUTIQUE: Woven Treasures, an Oriental rug gallery providing rare works to the upscale southeast Michigan market, is expanding for the third time in its five-year history. Owner Kamran Karimpour is shown here in the boutique gallery he recently opened in addition to his main showroom at Michigan Design Center in Troy to handle the increasing activity of his growing business. "We have a unique point of view about rugs," Karimpour says. "We believe that rugs have personalities, which ought to match those of the buyers and their homes. Our slogan is 'One-of-a-kind Persian rugs for one-of-a-kind you.' And the appeal of our unique selection is reaching an everwidening audience." Woven Treasures first opened in 1990 in West Bloomfield, moved to downtown Birmingham the next year and to MDC last year. Woven Treasures offers handwoven art works from the Mideast and Asia. Primary customers are clients of leading interior designers who come on their searches for fine, unusual works. "I come from a long line of treasure hunters," Karimpour says. "Members of my family and I continually roam the historic rugmaking regions of the world to find our customers both old and new rugs made by the hands and artistry of gentle people devoted to ancient ways." # Mac says get to work for consumers column some 10 months ago at the request of this newspaper (very smart people these editors are) and I must tell you that it is still exciting each time I sit down with my Macintosh. I say "Mac," I haven't thought about what I should write for this column. let me look into your screen for a few minutes and something will come to mind. And then it happens, and away I go on the keyboard as fast as my thoughts can race.

Mac says - you know how busy it is in the service industry from May through September, why don't you tell consumers why and how they can save money by preventing needless service on major home appliances. I say, good idea, let's go,

1. Consumers are already bringing their dehumidifiers to my shop for repairs or calling me to ask why the front coil is covered with snow when they recently turned it on. Folks, the dehumidifier is your basement will not work properly during temperatures and

I began writing this relative humidity which are too low. It is not yet time for you to expect that product to do its job. There will be millions of room air conditioners and dehumidifiers sold in the next few months, and that's not necessary if only consumers would take the product to the car wash and hose it down completely. Make sure the components are dry before you plug it in.

> 2. Spring and summer storms bring to our homes and neighborhoods some weird electrical happenings. Power surges are the most frequent, which cause serious damage to out appliances and electronic equipment. Purchase a surge protector from your local hardware store and install it where you think necessary. You might even think about shutting off the main circuit breaker during power outages and turn it back on after power has been restored in the surrounding area.

> 3. Refrigerators which ran find all winter will begin to break down in large numbers and people will wait days for service because the service industry is busy cleaning dirty condensers. Get a long handle brush from your hardware store and using your crevice tool, clean the condenser, under and in back of the refrigerator. This is the biggest cause of extra energy consumption during the summer months and the most common cause of no refrigeration in the American home.

4. The clothes dryer vent line needs to be taken completely off and cleaned out. The hinges on the flapper outside need to be brushed to ensure positive shut off. The critters and birds are building an alarming amount of nests this year and you can guess where. If your vent line is plastic or tinfoil, it should be changed to solid aluminum. There are over 13,000 house fires a year started by a clothes dryer, improper vent line is responsible for the majority.

5. The hoses to the washer should be checked where the metal pieces are at the ends. Any corrosion appearance means the need for new hoses. A ruptured hose to a clothes washer can cause a ton of damage to a home. Stop by my store sometime and I will show you what a hose looks like that caused thousands of dollars in damage to a home. While you're checking the hoses, adjust the temperature-to the washer so that medium temperature wash equals 100 degrees. The whites will be whiter.

6. Give your dishwasher a good inside cleaning with the Tang breakfast drink. Turn on the hot water faucet until the temperature is at its max, turn on the dishwasher for four minutes and shut it off. Pour a while pint jar of Tang breakfast powdered drink into the water in the bottom of the dishwasher and let it run through the whole cycle. The dishes will come out much cleaner from now on.

At this point I turn the keyboard over to "Mac" and I tell him to write a few comments.

"If you will listen to the Appliance Doctor, you will learn the critical things that need to be done to you major home appliances to keep them running smoothly. They are things that you can do and should do. These tips and advice are based on real life happenings and experiences. I should know, I'm the Macintosh that wrote them."

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Be careful when choosing a remodeler

LET'S REMODEL

As dependable at the coming of spring, so is the information put out to the public on selecting a remodeling contractor. And although many associations and businesses attempt to educate the homeowner on their responsibility in their selections, we unfortunately get calls after it is too late. As NARI celebrates National Home Improvement Month in May we find that it is still necessary (at least twice each year) to publish our suggestions on how to go about selecting a remodeling contractor.

D6

The process of finding a qualified and professional contractor does not need to be difficult. by following some basic guidelines you will be prepared to make an informed decision that best suits your needs.

•Employ a contractor with an established business. Local firms can be checked through past customers. They are tax-paying members of your community and are compelled to perform satisfactory work for local homeowners in order for their business to survive.

•Ask to see the contractor's state builder's license. If you have questions you can contact the state licensing departments to ensure they meet all requirements.

•Ask to see a copy of the contractor's certificate of insurance. You can also call his or her insurance agency to verify coverage for worker's compensation and personal liability insurance. To be sure their coverage meets all state minimum requirements you can contact the Department of Labor at 517-322-1195.

•Contact the Better Business Bureau or government Consumer Affairs Office to ensure there is no adverse file on record.

 Check credentials with professional organizations. If the contractor has an affiliation with a professional organization and uses an acronym such as C.R., C.K.D. C.B.D. or C.G.R. after their names, contact the association to be sure they are a member and in fact have been given these credentials which can certify that the contractor has met certain criteria for experience. commitment to ethical conduct and professionalism.

•Ask for local homeowner references and be sure to follow up on them. Call  $\rightarrow$ the references and don't be afraid to ask specific questions such as: "Did the contractor begin the work on time?"

"Was the job site kept neat?" "Did the contractor stay in touch throughout the project?" "Were the fine details finished in a timely manner?" and "Would you use this contractor again without hesitation?" Ask to see the finished project if possible. Make sure you are satisfied with the quality of the work.

•Do not blindly accept the lowest bid. If you elect to solicit bids from several different contractors, be sure they are bidding on the same scope and quality of work. Discuss variation in bids and beware of any bid that is substantially lower than the others. Low bids could suggest poor workmanship or inferior materials. Make sure that you have a thorough understanding of all materials to be used.

•Get it is writing. A well-written contract is essential when doing remodeling. Although there are many issues to be covered in a contract be sure the following is included:

1. Contractor's name, address, phone number and license numbers.

2. Details of what the contractor will and will not do _ such as protection of your household goods and daily cleanup.

3. Specifications for all materials to be used, including size, color, model, brand name and product.

4. Approximate start date and substantial completion date.

5. Financial terms including total price, payment schedule and cancellation policy.

6. Changes to the original agreement should be in writing and signed by both parties.

If you would like more information on contracts contact our office. Be sure to protect your investment by selecting a reputable contractor and avoiding a disappointment or mistakes that you could end up paying for.

INVITING IDEAS Surprise Mom with Shaker breakfast

Mother's Day weekend seemed the perfect time of year to go to Shaker Village in Pleasant Hill, Ky., at least in the years when mothering became a part of my own experience. If you know much about the Shakers, you know that they were a religious group, a branching off of the

MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Quakers, followers that found solace, contentment, productivity, and a fervor for god in their cloistered communal settings. Here in these enclaves, where all men and women lived like brothers and sisters, not husbands and wives - seems a funny setting for the perfect Mother's Day, but it's not.

Kentucky is beautiful this time of year - a few weeks ahead of us in greenery - it's warmth, blue grass, dogwoods, redbuds, and stone fences seem to go on forever. Besides the beauty, the historic component, and the fabulous Shaker antique collection, guests experience actual lodging in this museum, Three meals a day are served in the 19th century Trustees' house – family style, but oh that morning meal!

The Shaker breakfast buffet includes an assortment of fruit juices, fresh fruits, warmed fruit compotes, cold cereals, grits, scrambled eggs, sausage patties, bacon, hot biscuits and squash muffins right out of the oven. All of the recipes are traditional. If going to Shaker Town in Pleasant Hills sounds like a great weekend getaway, call (606) 734-5411 to make your reservations. If going for a seven hour drive each way in the car with your kids is not your idea of the ideal' Mother's Day, how about a gourmet Shaker breakfast in bed. It can be prepared by dad or the kids - it can even be done for a special aunt or beloved grandma.

Prepare a tray or lap board by covering it with a simple white place mat or make a place mat and decorate it with the Shaker Tree of Live. You could use markers, paints or construction paper. Add to your bed tray a clean, crisp, white linen napkin. As the Shakers used simplicity as their foundation. keep the decorating down to a minimum, put your efforts into the food.

Traditional Shaker fare is reminiscent of those old English roots, heavy on the dough products – lots of muffins. breads and sweet buns. Pick some of mom's favorites for breakfast to add to the menu. Shaker Town always serves scrambled eggs, you could do poached eggs with a hollandaise sauce or an omelet filled with spring veggies. Add to your tray a fruit compote or freshly sliced fruit.

Start your preparation early in the morning, the wonderful kitchen smells will surely permeate the house. Breakfast in bed is a perfect way to start Mother's Day.

Here are a few simple Shaker recipes to try. They come from the official publication at Pleasant Hill - "We Make You Kindly Welcome," by Elizabeth C. Kremer, (copyright 1970).

SHAKER SQUASH MUFFINS

- 1 cup cooked mashed squash
- (canned pumpkin is acceptable)
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup molasses 1/2 cup soft butte/
- 1 beaten egg
- 1 3/4 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup chopped pecans

Cook, drain and mash squash to the consistency of mashed potatoes.

Cream sugar, molasses and butter; add egg and squash and blend well. Mix flour with baking soda and salt; beat this mixture into the squash batter. Fold in pecans.

Fill well-greased muffin pans about half full with batter; bake at 375 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Makes 1 1/4 dozen muffins.

BISCUITS

- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 9 tablespoons sweet milk
- 3 tablespoons shortening

Sift dry ingredients. Cut shortening into flour. Make a well in the center of the flour and put milk into the well. Stir until the dough cleans the bowl – not over 1/2minute. Knead dough 1/2 minute. Pat it out on a floured surface to about 1/2-inch thick or to desired thickness.

Cut with 2-inch biscuit cutter. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 10 minutes or until golden brown. The cooked biscuits (cooled) can be stored in a tin or frozen and used later.

You can virtually garden on computer

BY JACK GLADDEN. STAFF WRITER

You won't be able to smell the roses, but if you have a computer and a modem, you can tour the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, stroll through classic gardens in Poland or Australia or just about any place else in the world.

You can browse through seed catalogs, download plans for a new deck, get software that will let you plan your own garden, consult gardening encyclopedias or check in with the local extension service to get the latest bulletins on garden pests and expected weather conditions in your area.

All you need is an Internet account and a sizeable amount of patience. There's a world of information _ make that a World Wide Web of information _ available on the Internet for home gardeners and professional farmers alike. And most of it is free for the taking.

Just why gardening is one of the most popular topics on the Internet is something of a mystery. When you're staring at a computer screen eight hours a days, when do you find time to go grub in the dirt? Or vice versa? Nevertheless, gardening sites abound on the 'net.

One of the best places to start is The Virtual Garden, a commercial site sponsored by media giant Time-Warner Inc. can access . it яt You http://pathfinder.com. When you connect, just follow the roadsigns until you find The Virtual Garden. Along the way, you can browse through Southern Living and a host of other publications.

At The Virtual Garden, you can access a complete gardening encyclopedia, plant index and a projects site where you can download plans for a variety of home and garden projects. Many of the files at this site are in Adobe Acrobat (PDF) format, so you'll need the Acrobat Reader in order to view them. Fortunately, you can download it directly from the site, and it's free.

Another site with many links for gardeners is the GardenWeb, address http://www.gardenweb.com/. From here you can take virtual tours of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden and other botanic. gardens around the world. You can enter the GardenWeb Forums and ask questions of other gardeners or provide some answers of your own. The Cyber-Plantsman is an on-line magazine for gardeners. In The Garden Exchange area, you can post requests for unusual seeds or plants or search the database to see what is available.

The Garden Gate, address http://www.prairienet.org/ag/garden/, offers links to many other gardening sites plus reviews of gardening software and some gardening shareware programs that you can download. For people who like browsing through seed catalogs on a snowy winter night, there are sites for them, too.

Burpee, one of the oldest companies a site around, has at http://garden.burpee.com/. You can check out their latest offerings, or order a printed copy of their catalog while on line.

Stokes, another veteran seed company, has a site at http://www.stokestropicals.com/. As the address implies, it deals with tropical plants only. (For the experienced net surfer, this site is Netscape 2.0 enhanced and uses frames. It's sharp. And Stokes is apparently planning some other sites.)

The Gourmet Gardener, http://www.metrobbs.com/tgg/index.htm , offers an on-line catalog of gourmet herbs and vegetables plus recipes and tips on cooking without oil or salt.

Other useful sites for home gardeners are provided by the U.S.D.A.'s Extension Services. In Michigan you can access the service at Michigan State U n i v e r s i t http://www.msue.msu.edu/msue/. Most of the bulletins provided by the Extension Service are available for download and the database is searchable. Search for "tomatoes" and a list of pamphlets dealing with the subject pops up. You can read a pamphlet on the screen, download it to a file or print it on your printer.

The Extension Service at Ohio State University, http://www.ag.ohiostate.edu/, has a better designed site with more features than the one at MSU. It also has updated news reports on gardening conditions (weather, pests, etc.) in Ohio. And that news can be useful to Michigan gardeners.

There's more, of course. News groups, e-mail newsletters, bulletin boards. And who knows?

The meeting will take place noon to 3 p.m. Wednesday, May 8, at the Troy Community Center, in the Civic Center complex directly behind City Hall at 500 W. Big Beaver Road, There will be no speaker. Refreshments will be served at noon. Call Gail at (810) 828-2978 for information.

The Observer/Thursday, MAY 2, 1996 Boost spirits with a perennial sale

The most appealing gardens are those that complement your home. They have color, textue, shape and perennials, which play a big part of the overall picture.

Fine Gardening magazine tells would-be gardeners to think of garden plants as part of a big picture. Include a pleasing background of lawn and flowering plants, provide a sense of enclosure by bordering the garden with a hedge or carefully placed trees, and use paths and views to link the garden to other parts of the grounds and the house.

Choosing perennials to complement your home or landscape can be a daunting proposition. The varieties to choose from are many and site selection is critical. The Friends of the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens can offer relief to the novice or experienced gardener searching for that perennial gem.

For a one-stop shopping perennial experience full of advice from knowledgeable plant experts, and more than 30,000 perennials ranging from rock gardenplants to wildflowers, visit the Botanical Gardens' Friends Spring Perennial Sale, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, May 4-5, at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 Dixboro Road. Take US-23 to the Geddes Road exit and head east to Dixboro Road. Call (313) 998-7061 for information.

Some quantities may be limited. A special Friends presale will take place 3-7 p.m. Friday, May'3, for those itching to get first selections and a 10-percent discount. Memberships will be available at the door.

The following are some of the choice plants worthy of special mention that will be available at the sale:

Crocosmia X Curtonis "Lucifer" (Crocosmia "Lucifer") -- This unusual hardy cormus plant has coarse, sword-like foliage 2-1/2 feet tall that is similar to the gladiolus. The long arching flower stalk has bright red flowers that are arranged in a similar way to the freesia. It prefers a moist, well-drained soil and sun to partial shade. Winter hardiness is a bit controversial. Some information suggests lifting the corms in zones 5 and 6 and storing them in a dry, frost-free place. Others suggest planting in the proper location and mulching well to ensure success.

Hemerocallis "Prairie Blue Eyes" -- These are among the more unusual cultivars of the more than 32,000 named varieties of the daylily. This lavender daylily was developed in 1970, and is still sought after for its bluish halo or eye. It is considered to be the best blue daylily as its heavily bud count makes it very desirable. Sun to light shade and well-drained soil are recommended.

Hemerocallis "Prairie Moonlight" -- Also on the top 100 list is this extra large (eight-inch) fragrant yellow daylily that stays open into the evening. A real eye-catcher! Like most daylilies it likes sun and a well-drained soil.

Leucanthemum (Chrysanthemum) "Barbara Bush" -- This is a new patented shasta daisy named after the former first lady that sports green leaves edged with creamy gold margins. This is a variegated mutation of L. "Thomas Killen" and grows 30 inches tall with extra large flowers. Great for the sun, and likes a well-drained soil.

Hosta p. "Aphrodite" -- Imagine a hosta sought after for its flowers! H. "Aphrodite" has fully double pristine white flowers that open at night and are strongly fragrant. This one is a must for the shade garden. Try planting them next to a shady patio so that you can appreciate the fragrance on a cool September evening.

TREASURE SEARCH Grandmother's lamp is an art glass copy

Dear Georgia:

Dear Nancy and Frank:

I enclose a picture of a lamp left to me by my grandmother who received it in 1923 as a 25th anniversary gift. There are no marks or signatures on it. NANCY AND Thanks for any FRANK BOOS information you can give me.

Georgia P., Plymouth

The time around the turn of the century nurtured creativity, spawned many new art forms and allowed for the expansion of numerous others. It was truly the Golden Age for decorative arts, especially glass making. Some of the most notable and expensive of the manufacturers of artistic glass lamp shades are known names like Tiffany, Handel and Pairpoint.

However, not everyone could afford those wares and there were many imitators and manufacturers of less costly art glass products. Your lamp falls into the latter category.

In the most desirable situations, these glass lampshades and bases are signed, the shade often on the inside of the glass or on the interior metal rim and the base along the outer edge or underneath.

Since your piece has no identifying marks, we all put our heads together and to a person decided that your lamp looks very much like the products made at a little-known company called the Jefferson Glass Company, which produced handpainted, molded (not blown) glass shades in the early 20th century in Follansbee, W.Va. It sometimes signed its lamp bases with a fired on signature, "Jefferson Lamp Co.," in script. Unfired thin line script signatures are reported to be forgeries.

We feel that the metal on your lamp is spelter rather than bronze, both because of its appearance in the photo and because these lesser quality lamp manufacturers didn't usually use bronze as it was more costly. If all is in original and good condition, we feel that your lamp, being American, antique and very decorative, could be found in a retail shop priced somewhere around $1,200 to $1,600.

Widen your vision with panoramas

Someone once said that the difference between conventional and panoramic photography is the difference between looking at a city through an office window or from a rooftop.

Panoramic cameras replace the normal views of conventional lenses and offer sweeping vistas that go beyond the reality of traditional photography. Viewers are immediately struck by how different panorama photographs are and how much information they contain.

Panorama cameras have been around for many years, some even dating back to the 1800s. Then, as now, they come in many varieties. Some shoot moderate panoramas while others rotate a complete 360 degrees. They are available in many price ranges. The most affordable and popular are the disposable Kodak tain range, a meanand Fuji models that are found everywhere cameras are sold. dering river, a dramatic seascape or a spec-

The price averages about $11 and you get 12 shots with each, the prints being twice the length of a conventional picture. While the camera is disposable, you retain the negatives for any desired reprints.

More sophisticated panorama cameras can cost thousands of dollars and are used mostly by professionals and very serious amateurs. They are available in fixed or rotation models.

When using a panorama camera, place yourself in a "vista" mode and select subjects that lend themselves to panoramic photography. A vast mountain range, a meandering river, a dramatic seascape or a spectacular city skyline all would be exciting subjects.

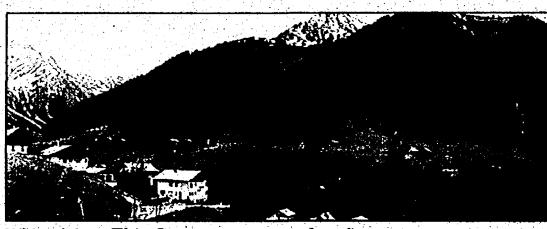

Always keep the horizons level and place them low in the viewfinder with a dramatic sky and high in the viewfinder with a plain sky. For scenic shots, place foreground subjects in the composition for added interest.

Don't overlook the possibility of vertical panoramas: a long vertical waterfall or the tall stand of trees.

Wide vision: This German scene made a fine panorama.

You've got to keep it clean if you want to sell a house

Sellers can have a difficult time looking at their houses in an objective way. Ingrained lifestyles can cause problems when it comes to putting a house on the market. Ignorance isn't bliss.

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Prospects sometimes make a decision to buy even though the size of the house or its floor plan isn't exactly what they want.

Purchasers have a more difficult time getting beyond filth, clutter, odors and unkempt exteriors, Realtors say.

The Westland couple still recalls the shock a decade ago of opening the door of the built-in oven during a house-hunting excursion and finding the appliance filled with dirty dishes. Something like that kind of makes purchasers wonder what major problems really lurk below the surface, said Barbara Schultz, a Realtor with Century 21 Today in Farmington Hills.

"If you walk into a gorgeous house, you assume everything is fine," she said. "If it's a mess inside, you assume anything could be wrong mechanically."

Joe Bailey, a Realtor with Mayfair in Livonia, recalled taking a prospect into a house that had ashtrays in every room and a mountain of clothes strewn about one of the children's rooms.

"There was nowhere to walk," Bailey said. "They turned around and we walked out. We still talk about it."

Then there was the almost perfect house that wasn't as described by Tom Nolan, a Realtor with Cranbrook Associates in Bloomfield Hills.

"I have a client who loved the house, who should have bought it," Nolan said. "They couldn't get beyond the smell of animals. On paper, it looked like the right house for them." Realtors are almost unanimous in what really bugs buyers. "Probably houses that aren't picked up, aren't tidy, aren't clean," said Ann

Stanzel, a Realtor with Weir, Manuel, Snyder & Ranke in West Bloomfield. "Houses that are over-decorated, too much furniture, too many knickknacks so you can't see the house."

"I've been in houses where the dog has gotten into garbage, where the people aren't home and they've left. dirty, personal things all over the house," Schultz said.

"I tell people you cannot get the same price for your house your neighbor got if it's a pigsty," Bailey said. "I've had some with holes in the wall, doors off hinges."

Part of the problem is people get used to clutter and therefore lose sight of the forest for the trees.

"I had one seller whose kids' toys were still outside cluttering the yard in the middle of winter," Bailey said. "When I pointed that out to him, he said it wasn't important. I say it is to the buyer."

Schultz echoed that sentiment.

"People who live in houses don't smell it," she said. "Some of them don't see clutter, either."

Agents, shouldn't hesitate to call for a major clean-up effort if needed, Stanzel said.

"Wash the windows. Get the carpet cleaned. Paint. Put furniture in the basement or store it. Make the house light and bright," she said.

"One of the most important things gy includes open houses.

in the sale of a house is how it's presented," Bailey said. "Some people show them in ridiculous condition.

"I get very brutal with people if I have to," he said. "Not brutal, but honest. You might as well tell them to get it cleaned up or they'll get a lowerprice."

Nolan, a big believer in first? impressions, maintains that prospects can be turned away before they even step inside the structure. It's called curb appeal.

"If the lawn hasn't been kept up and the hedges are overgrown, that's a big turnoff," he said. "A few dollars worth of geraniums and annual flowers can go a long way."

Sellers, themselves, can become a pain in the posterior if they decide to cast themselves as major stars in the... sales production, Schultz said; There's a fine line between a helpful presence and hovering solicitousness,

"The seller that follows you around? talking constantly so you can't even think - that's a real turnoff," Schultz said. "Sometimes, people just want for get out of there."

The potential to become overbear ing, and overzealous is one reason; sellers are often counseled to hire and agent to represent their property and to take a hike if the marketing strate

Siblings disagree about summer property

Q: I have a number of brothers and sisters who are in their 60s and 70s. We all share the use of a summer home together. Two of the six of us have our names on the deed, with the understanding that all of us would be equal owners. We have all shared the expenses and bills for many years. Three of the six would like: to sell our their share of the property and three would like to hang onto it. How can we handle this to avoid any unnecessary property gains tax. It seems that there must be a way to transfer ownership to the three interested people. Do we need to first get the names of all six names on the title to the property before anything else is done.

A: You have raised a number of issues regarding the ramifications of your present legal situation, property to those six persons with proper ownership interest or, prerferably, to reach an agreement between the six, independent of the ownership of the property as to the division of proceeds from that property. Perhaps you have run a partnership, in effect, over the years, while two have been the designated representatives of the partnership. You will need to get an attorney to advise you as to the best way of handling the matter, as the interest of some of the siblings appears to be different from the others as the best means of cleaning up the situation. Obviously, you want to insure that everyone who claims an interest to the property agrees to the arrangement, whatever it may be, with respect to the disposition of the property, so that there are no "dangling" claims that may be asserted against some subsequent purchaser in the future. You are best advised to seek a competent real estate lawyer.

Q: I have a building and hired a general contractor. The general contractor hired a subcon-ments will have to be made to either transfer the work environment. We did not control the general contractor's work or his activities. We have notified our insurance carrier, but are wonder ing whether you think we have any liability.

> 'A: Generally, property owners are not liable for a general contractor's negligence unless the property owner retains control of the work done and the contractor's activities. The test is whether the property owner has retained such a right of supervision that the contractor is not free to work his own way. If in fact you can establish by the evidence that you did not retain control over the specifications of the work and how the work was to be completed, chances are you will not have the liability.

One way this is accomplished is through the use of laptop person-

Technology is helping prospective homeowners apply for and lobtain a mortgage more quickly and easily. Mortgage lenders are recognizing that convenience is a high priority for today's home buyers and are finding ways to serve individual computers.

Comerica Mortgage Corp.'s loan officers now take laptop computers to their meetings with home buyers. The laptops enable loan officers to meet with prospective homeowners at the location and time of his or her choice, while providing the capability to immediately analyze an individual's financial position and suggest the mortgage product that will best meet his or her needs. The laptops also allow information to be transferred electronically, further reducing the time required to process a mortgage. For individuals who don't have time to stop by a bank or mortgage company, companies such as Comerica are providing "loan-by-phone" service.

"Home buyers can call and apply for a mortgage over the telephone," explained Terry Taylor, vice president, Alternative Delivery Channels, Comerica Mortgage Corp. "In talking to customers, we learned that there are some individuals who prefer to minimize the number of trips they have to make to obtain a mortgage. Our loan--by-phone service helps simplify the mortgage application process."

Mortgage lenders who are offering telephone-based mortgage services typically have underwriters on staff who can report, obtaining adequate review an application and make a pre-approval decision within a day or two. First-time home buyers or individuals who are concerned about the mortgage application process should consider attending one of the workshops presented by local lenders, often in partnership with community organizations.

These seminars, which are often free of charge, provide prospective homeowners with information about the home buying process. Topics covered at these seminars may include family budgeting, working with a Realtor, repairing your credit homeowners insurance and available mortgage programs. Mortgage lenders often are available following these seminars to assist you in applying for a mortgage.

Once you're ready to apply for a mortgage, there are a number of factors for you to consider in your search for a mortgage lender. What are the current interest rates? Can you "lock in" that rate and, if so, for how long? What is the cost of obtaining that rate lock? What are "points" for your mortgage? (One point is equal to 1 percent of the loan amount.) Can you pay fewer points in exchange for a higher interest rate? What other fees will be assessed at the time of application or closing?

Don't forget to consider convenience in selecting your mortgage company. Will the lender meet with you when and where you want? How frequently will you need to meet? Will your application be submitted immediately or does your lender have to carry your application back to his or her office? How long will it take for your application to be processed?

If you are a first-time home buyer or are concerned about being able to afford a home, ask about special lending programs that may be available. Affordable mortgage programs are available to reduce the upfront costs associated with mortgages and make the dream of home ownership a reality.

This week's question:

Q: Are there ways to reduce the payoff on our 30-year mortgage without converting to a 15year mortgage?

A: Most loans require you to make one payment a month, or 12 payments a year. However, you almost always have the option to make additional principal payments that will shorten the amount of time it takes to fully repay your mortgage loan. In fact, most lenders have a place on the payment card marked "additional principal payments." If you make just one extra monthly payment each year, you would pay off your mortgage years ahead of schedule and save a considerable amount in interest payments. For those who want to set up a more frequent payment schedule when applying for a mortgage, you should know that some lenders offer biweekly payment plans that require a payment every other week, or 26, sometimes 27 payments a year. You may find that making payments more often is a better match with your paychecks: It will also save you a considerable amount of interest over the life of your loan and help pay off your mortgage much faster.

2 area architects named to prestigious organization

Stephen Whitney and Arnold Mikon have been elected to the American Institute of Architects prestigious College of Fellows.

Recipients must be AIA members for at least 10 years and have made significant contributions to the profession of architecture.

Fellowship is the highest designation the AIA can bestow on a member with the exception of Gold Medal.

Whitney, a Birminham resident, is vice president and director of health care services at Albert Kahn Associates, an architectural and engineering firm founded in Detroit a century ago.

Whitney's experience in health care architecture spans more than 25 years.

Among his significant projects at Arnold Mikon AKA are the $210 million, 1.1 million square foot University of Michigan replacement hospital and the Providence Hospital ambulatory diagnostic and treatment center and medical office building in Novi.

Whitney is currently serving as project principal for the east campus primary care medical facility at the University of Michigan.

He's also heading AKA projects for the Detroit Medical Center, St. John Health System, Beaumont Hospital and Sparrow Hospital and Health System in Lansing.

Whitney has been active with AIA at national, regional and local levels. He served as AIA Michigan president in 1992.

His long-standing professional involvement played a major role in AKA being named AIA Michigan Firm of the Year in 1995 and AIA National Intern Development Program Firm of the Year in 1994.

Whitney is a graduate of the Uni-. versity of Minnesota with a bachelor of arts in architecture and a bachelor of architecture.

Mikon is chairman, president and chief executive officer of Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, a national full-service architectural, engineering and planning firm with regional offices in Detroit, Washington, D.C. and Phoenix.

He lives in Huntington Woods.

Large garage, windows highlight models

Palmer Lake Estates, an S.R. Jacobson residential community in Wixom, entices buyers with a small-town atmosphere, easy freeway access to all compass points and boating privileges on a private lake nearby.

Prices start at $208,000 for a two story of 2,045 square feet and rise to $234,000 for a two story of 2,778 square feet, each containing four bedrooms and 2 1/2 baths.

About a third of the 36 lots in the subdivision off Wixom Road north of Charms, have been sold.

"We're aiming at people who want to live in an area of lakes at affordable prices and value," said Scott Jacobson, builder. "We're selling what we think is an exceptional value."

"One of the attractions is Loon Lake, 78 acres, an all-sports lake," said Colette Scholten, marketing director. "The three-car garage is another big draw in this price range."

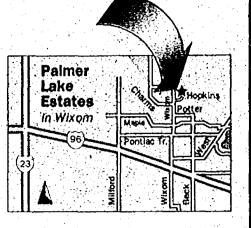

"We call it a two-car, one boat garage," Jacobson added.

"We have great street appearance with side-entry garages and maintenance-free exteriors,' Scholten said.

"You have recreational facilities, campgrounds, lakes," Jacob- . son said. "If you study the area, there's so much to do. You don't have to travel far."

Loon Lake is within walking distance. Proud Lake and Kensington Metropark are an easy drive. The I-96/Wixom interchange is four miles away.

"We have people coming from Detroit, working in Flint and Ann Arbor," Jacobson said. "If you look at those three locations, you're right in the middle."

at Palmer Lake Estates.

"They like the big kitchens and family room," Lucas said. "They like the openness. Scott puts a lot of windows in his houses. Even on dull days it's bright."

Five floor plans are available. Standard features in the base price of all include three-car garage, oven and dishwasher, fireplace, first floor laundry and basement.

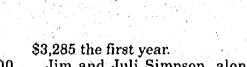

Two models have been constructed. Each features a twostory foyer and a large planter ledge over a closet at the front door.

The Muirfield, the largest plan, showcases a formal dining room, living room, kitchen/nook and family room on the main floor. The kitchen sink on an island has been oriented with a view to the family room

The upstairs master has a separate tub and shower, dual sink vanity and walk-in closet.

Three other bedrooms and a second full bath also are upstairs.

REO opens service center

Real Estate One, headquartered in Farmington Hills, has opened its first Real Estate One Service Center in Trenton.

The service center provides customers with the added convenience of a real estate office as well as a mortgage company and title company administrator all under one roof.

The new service center, at 3253 West Road between Allen and Fort, will make the buying and selling process more convenient, faster and less expensive for customers, company officials anticipate.

charge.

$219,000,

"Our objective is to make the home buying transaction simpler than it has been in the past - to make the process more comfortable, quicker and less expensive," said Richard S. Elsea, Real Estate One president. "The Real Estate One Service Center is a step in that direction."

We thought the condition would eventually clear up but it hasn't. The pump rebuilder claims that oil from the broken pump contaminated our water, and can offer no solutions to the problem.

Is there anything we can do short of drilling a new well to get clean water?

The oil condition has lasted for two years (an excessively long time, when you consider that there is only about a halfcup of oil in the pump) and, under normal use, it should take only a few weeks to flush out the oil.

It's possible that the oil is from a leak in a buried fuel oil tank. I suggest you have a water sample tested to determine if the contamination is fuel oil or lubricating oil. If it's fuel oil, you'll have use an abrasive to find and repair the leaking tank.
