Tax funds create Sears debate

Luring a Sears store to Westland Center by using public tax dollars has two city officials sparring over the $21 million project, which is expected to bring jobs - and traf-

A proposal to use public tax dollars to help bring a Sears store to Westland Center is fueling a disagreement between Westland Mayor Robert Thomas and Councilman Charles Pickering.

Thomas supports the plan that he said will create hundreds of jobs and increase the city's tax base. He said he fears that Westland will otherwise lose Sears to another community, such as Canton Township, and that shoppers will follow.

But Pickering opposes using as much as $1.5 million in public funds to lure Sears, which he said should pay for its own expansion or receive help from Westland Center.

With city leaders heading for a possible showdown on the issue, Westland residents will have an opportunity to voice their opinions during a public hearing scheduled for 7 p.m. Aug. 5 at City Hall.

Sears wants to build a 170,000square-foot department store on the north side of Westland Center. Company officials hope to break ground in September and open for business a year-later.

Sears also wants to build a 15,000square-foot automotive center, Planning Director Tod Kilroy said.

The entire project is estimated at $21 million. The city would use as much as $1.5 million in local Tax Increment Finance Authority (TIFA) dollars to pay for parking lot improvements and to relocate utilities, Kilroy said.

"I think it's money being used for private enterprise ...," Pickering said during a Monday night council meeting.

Thomas responded in a statement to reporters that the Sears addition "will bring hundreds of jobs and an increase in our tax base."

As many as 450 employees, including 150 full-time workers, are expected to be hired if the project

Jury finds driver guilty in fatal chase

BY DARRELL CLEM

An Inkster woman has been convicted of negligent homicide for a high-speed chase in Westland that killed Crystal Deyampert, a 22-yearold mother striving for a college degree in social work.

Nicole Gibson, 21, was convicted Friday by a Wayne County Circuit Court jury for the Sept. 19, 1995, death of Deyampert - sadly missed by her 4-year-old daughter, Diamond.

"Diamond would stand by the win-

Authorities charged Gibson and passenger Wendy Smith, 23, after they pursued Crystal Deyampert in a 3-mile, 80-mph chase that ended when Devampert slammed into a tractor-trailer on Inkster Road at Van Born.

Mayor: Sassafras Trails is school board issue

BY DARRELL CLEM

Mayor Robert Thomas is refusing to become embroiled in the battle over whether the Wayne-Westland school board should sell Sassafras Trails, a 64-acre wooded area proposed for residential development.

Thomas solidified his hands-off stance in a June 26 letter to Westland City Councilman Glenn Anderson, who suggested the city should "seriously consider" seeking state grant dollars to buy the land and protect it.

Livonia Schools retire 62 -teachers, more expected

By Marie Chestney STAFF WRITER

· For more than 39 years, Donald Hansen taught in Livonia Public Schools: at Bryant, Frost, Franklin and finally Riley.

Of the 62 teacher retirements so far this year, Hansen has worked the longest in Livonia'schools, which serve the northern section of Westland.

Other retiring teachers who have logged in 30 or more years in the district are James Cooper (34.9), Leonard Robinson (30), Floyd Crowley (30), Raymond Meiers (33.5), Glynn Scanlan (31), Ernest Kuehneman (33), and Robert Beyer (31).

Also, Barbara Sullivan (31), Nancy Stoner (30.6), George Croll (30), Helaine Lee (30), Gloria Fontanesi (32), June Kendall (33), Mary Bruzos (33), Arno Neumaier (34), Marcella Brown (31), Thomas Lang (32), Edward Toland (30), Ronald Pode (33), Nancy Mack (32), Carol Fortin (32) and Brian Dunn (31).

Also, Wanda Triest (341), Martha Trafford (30), Duane Jennings (31) and David Danes (32.5).

The retirements of so many teachers with so much seniority means the loss of a lot of experience. But it also creates opportunity for a new generation of teachers.

"We will come pretty close to replacing the vast majorityof them with new hires," said John Rennels, assistant superintendent for personnel. Because this is the last year to get a $225 per month retirement incentive contained in the current teachers' contract, the district expected close to 85 retirements.

More could trickle in before September, the cutoff point for this year's retirements.

"I'll not be surprised if we have 65 altogether," Rennels said. "We expect a few more. Some wait until August because key want to be absolutely sure. You can't change our mind after submitting your letter of resignation. That's when the posting (for the job) kicks in. I tell them, if you are not sure, you should think about it a while longer."

Teachers who retire in 1996 do so under a contract clause which gives them an extra $225 a month between their date of retirement and age 62. Next year's retirees won't get this benefit, because it no longer will be in the contract.

Teachers also retiring this year are Archie Wilfong (26), Maureen Gill (23.2). Isabell Wiest (25.6), June Groustra (25.5). Joan Fredericks (26), Gerald Goode (28), Dennis Laurain (27); Barbara Rudelie (26), Gloria Ehrstin (28), Shirley Westphal (28) and Marsha Tenenbaum (23.7).

Also, Charles Hebestreit (26), Donald Albertson (27.5), Douglas Thrush (29); Candace Vaphiadis (25.9), Irene Balan (199), Margaret Gill (28), Judith Shuman (22) and Jon Nastwold (29 3).

Also, Joanne Ceru (28), Carol Holland (29), Margery Obed (21), Lynda Solms (26), Roger Springsteen (29.5), Nancy Norton (29), Brigitte Janotik (27), Lawrence Reemmer 26 7 Ronald Galeas 125 6), William Lyttle (29), Wayne Henry (29.5), Patricia Komula-(27.5), Brian Schulze (29), Glenda, Westover, (9.8), Mary Archbold (15.3) and Dorothy Patterson (28.2).

succeeds.

"It is critical for our city to have Sears locate at Westland mall," Thomas said. "The mall is our largest single taxpayer in our city."

Pickering, citing concerns about worsening traffic congestion around the mall, suggested that the expansion would be premature without a traffic study.

"The traffic is atrocious around the Westland Shopping Center, even before there's a holiday" when the situation only worsens, Pickering said.

Thomas responded that Warren and Newburgh roads have been widened and that additional left-turn traffic lights have been installed in the city's core retail shopping ■Pickering, citing concerns about worsening traffic congestion around the mail, suggested that the expansion would be premature without a traffic study.

Thomas said he fears that Sears will choose another community, such as Canton Township, unless Westland provides money for the new store.

"If that were to happen, Mr. Pickering won't have to worry about the traffic around the mall, because there won't be much," Thomas said, "People will shop at Sears in Canton, and we will be boarding up some stores at our mall and the surrounding commercial malls."

Pickering said he opposes using $1.5 million "to benefit a corporation, a single busi-

Talk of a Sears store at Westland Center surfaced several years ago, but the company put plans on hold.

During the Aug. 5 public hearing, citizens will be allowed to comment on an amendment to the city's TIFA plan to boost the Sears project. TIFA dollars come from tax revenues recaptured to aid economic development in a special district.

TIFA monies have been used to boost such projects as the new Westland library, being built on Central City Parkway between Ford and Warren.

the property from them," Thomas wrote. "I do not believe it is fair or proper for me or the city council to interfere in that decision, which is obviously a tough and controversial one for the board to make."

His opinion came two days after another elected official, state Sen. Loren Bennett, issued a statement urging Westland residents to lobby the school board to save Sassafras Trails.

School board members may reject a $520,000 offer from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources that would allow the state to buy the development rights and protect Sassafras Trails, which sprawls northeast of Palmer and Wildwood.

School officials say they could get $1 million to $1.4 million by selling the land for residential development, which also would bring in more students and state aid dollars.

The issue apparently won't surface again on the school board's July 8 agenda, as some had expected. Board members deadlocked 3-3 on the fate of

Some school board members have indicated that they will propose even more alternatives for Sassafras Trails, but specific plans haven't been unveiled.

Redford man faces negligent homicide for pedestrian's death

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A Redford Township man has been charged with negligent homicide for the June 17 death of a 67-year-old Westland woman who was struck by a car while walking across Inkster-Road, between Warren and Ann Arbor Trail.

William Stanley Gniewek was arraigned Friday by Westland 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos after he voluntarily turned himself over to Westland police.

The charge stemmed from the death of Anna Platukas, who died on her 67th birthday while walking home to a nearby mobile home park.

Bokos entered a not-guilty plea for Gniewek and released him Friday on a $2,000 personal bond. The defendant was scheduled to return to court Wednesday for a preliminary hearing to determine whether he should stand trial on the charge.

Negligent homicide is punishable by a maximum two-year prison term and a $2,000 fine.

Gniewek was driving below the 40 mph speed limit in a southbound lane when Platukas walked in front of his vehicle on the afternoon of June 17. Westland police Officer James Dexter Gniewek was charged, however, because it is believed that he had enough time to stop and avoid hitting her.

Dexter has said that witnesses initially reported seeing Platukas waiting on the double yellow line in the middle of Inkster Road, near Standish, as she was preparing to cross to the west side.

One driver apparently stopped and signaled Platukas to cross, but she was struck by another car when she entered the curb lane, Dexter said.

Dexter has said that police are still seeking the male driver who signaled Platukas to cross the road. The motorist was driving what was described as a gray passenger car.

Platukas was taken to Garden City Hospital, where she died at 10 p.m., about eight hours after she was hit.

Alcohol wasn't involved in the accident, which marked Westland's sixth traffic fatality of the year and the second involving a

New area codes planned for fall 1997

Western Wayne County communities will see new area codes in the next two years.

The changes will mean Livonia will have three codes and Westland two.

Areas outside of greater Detroit, including most Observer communities, will receive a new area code to replace 313 in mid-1998, a Citizens Advisory Committee announced Monday. The committee has responsibility for determining area code plans for southeastern Michigan.

Redford Township will remain in the 313 area code along with Detroit, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Lincoln Park, Ecorse, River Rouge, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes.

Livonia, which now has two area codes, will have three, as a small portion of Livonia at Inkster Road bounded by Vassar. Lathers and Curtis in northeastern Livonia, will stay in 313 while the rest of Livonia except the portion currently in 810 will get the new area code.

Westland, which is in 313, will get the new area code except for a small southeastern section bordered by Van Born Road, Inkster Road, Annapolis and Harrison, which will stay in 313.

The remaining communities that are now in 313, including most of Livonia, most of Westland, Garden City, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township, as well as Washtenaw and Monroe counties will receive the new area code. The new number has not been determined yet, but will begin in spring 1998.

The northern area of Livonia which is now in 810 will also receive a new area code along with Oakland County: 248. That section of Livonia south of Eight Mile is bounded roughly by Meadow View, Bretton, Fitzgerald, Curtis Street, Lathers Street, Vassar Street and Inkster roads.

The Citizens Advisory Committee found that customer preference was for giving Oakland County its own area code, but northern Livonia is included with Oakland County because the telephone infrastructure was set up that way years ago. An optional dialing period for 248 will start in spring 1997, in which customers can dial either 810 or 248 to complete calls. Mandatory dialing of 248 begins in fall 1997.

The Citizens Advisory Committee evaluated more than 20 area code plans for the 313 and 810 areas. A customer research program illustrated that eight out of 10 consumers surveyed in the 313 area found the boundary for the new plan easy to recog-

A team consisting of telecommunications industry members including telephone companies, long distance companies, cellular carriers, paging and alarm companies received the committee's final recommendation on the 313 plan and approved it.

The plan for 313 will now be submitted to the North American Numbering Plan administrators for final approval. They will review the plan and assign the actual area code. The plan is then turned over to the telecommunications companies to implement.

The committee was assembled last November to explore area code options, conduct customer research, and meet with members of the telecommunications industry. The eight members, appointed by their local government officials or organizations, represent Macomb, Wayne, and Oakland counties, Detroit, Southeast Michigan Council of Ameritech, Governments, Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The area code changes will not change local calling areas or rates; a local call today will be a local call with the new area code.

Customers can call 1-800-831-8989 with questions about area codes.

In the early '90s it was predicted that adding 810 would provide enough phone numbers to last for 15 years, but cell phones, computers, faxes, modems and pagers have eaten up the new supply of numbers. The 810 area code was added in 1994.

SC board eyes future needs of college

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN STAFF WRITER

Bookstore and Waterman Campus Center renovations, a Radcliff expansion or acquisition, lab renovations and a conference center were among the future needs presented last Wednesday at a Schoolcraft College board meeting.

Trustees and college administrators were looking to the future last week as they took up the master plan, the facilities master plan and the president's objectives. Kiosks for student enrollment and other course information are planned for later this year, according to Conway Jeffress, vice president of instruction at Schoolcraft College. Jeffress made a presentation of the master plan along with last year's highlights.

Among the highlights from last year were increasing enrollment, completing the Children's Center, renovating the student services building and moving Continuing Education Services into it, creating the Michigan Community College Journal, receiving increased grant rev-enue, being named "trainer of the year" by the governor, implementing a customer service model for students, seeing growth in the distance learning programs, and approving new programs in fire science and environmental technology.

"The year has been good to us in a lot of ways," Jeffress said. "The college continues to be one of the most technically advanced," he said.

Technology has been added in all classrooms, Jeffress said. Instructors no longer have to roll media equipment down the sidewalks from building to building, he said.

"Are we looking at registration by computer?" Trustee Stephen Ragan asked. Jeffress said yes and that the college is also looking at setting up four or five kiosks for registration, as well as catalogue and course syllabus information, on campus this year.

"These kiosks are just fantastic. That's very cutting edge," Ragan said, adding the kiosks are student friendly.

Also in the future, the college is looking at offering continuing education courses through the distance learning program, he said.

Along with investing in technology, the college has a regular maintenance program to keep up its facilities, and ideas for improvements, according to Adelard Raby, vice president of business.

The top priority is renovating the bookstore, which was designed 20 years ago for fewer students than it serves now, he said. The bookstore renovation is expected to cost $300,000 to ... $400,000, he said.

School choice

Poor schools have little choice

The state Legislature did it again last month when it provided a schools of choice provision in the recently approved state aid bill for the new school year.

But like school financial reform, many in Lansing are clueless and just don't get it.

On the surface, the new law generally gives parents a choice of sending students to any public school within their county.

So if a family didn't like the programs, teachers or classmates in their neighborhood school, they could, on paper, arrange for carpooling and drive their youngsters a few miles away to a "better" school which has more computers, better science equipment and teachers whose students have consistently scored high on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) tests.

But there's a big catch in the latest legisla-

Local school boards were given the option of saying "yes" or "no" to non-resident students entering their schools.

In the same legislation. Lansing provided that if a students from a district with a low state foundation grant, for example, $6,000 a head, wanted to attend school in a neighboring district that received $7,000 a student, the lower figure would prevail for the receiving

So it's no wonder that high-foundation districts are saying "no" to non-residents attending their schools while those on the bottom end of the financial ladder are opening their doors to neighboring districts' students.

The bottom line is that the relatively "poor" districts will continue to have money problems while those at the top end of the financial ladder have the option of saying "no" to non-residents and keeping their state money.

A good example was observed within the past 10 days when the Wayne-Westland Board of Education opened its doors to new students from other districts while neighboring Livonia, Plymouth-Canton and Garden City districts opted out of school choice for kindergarten through 12th grade.

Another problem in the schools of choice legislation is that the state gave local school boards less than two weeks to take action of "opting in or out," of the program, clearly not enough time for an adequate review of the

Some districts may have said "no" to nonresidents just to give themselves more time to study the matter.

In the end, there is little if any real choice. Maybe the next piece of action from Lansing should be a "truth in labeling" requirement so that the public has an accurate and realistic picture of what the state Legislature is doing to it.

Council spends, and spends

Obviously only city councilman, Charles Pickering realizes that the council has not been given a blank check from the taxpayers. The six council people spend tax dollars as though it falls off trees. Tax payers work extremely hard to earn their salaries and don't appreciate council blowing it at will without taxpayer input. NO MORE TAXES! The council is deaf. When is the next election? These arrogant politicians must be replaced!

Letter draws response

I would like to respond to Mr. Versele's letter in the Observer on June 27.

I would like to remind citizens of Garden City of the fact how wonderful it is that we live in the United States. People of other countries die for the right to vote and the right to express their opinions. We have the right to elect people. We also have the right to hold these same elected officials accountable, which is something that I strongly believe in. I have been called names at council meetings as well as in the Observer. I have been called "small-minded," "petty," and now I am being called a "liar." Ed Juarez is not involved in this recall. However, everyone is entitled to their opinion and if you believe that he is, then so be it. No one, but my husband and I know what goes on in our household. I can state with absolute fact that the committee does not hold meetings in this house, if I am on the phone - I shut the door, I do not discuss recall business with my husband, and I have my own opinion - I do not ask my husband how and what to think. Mr. Versele, as far as know you have never been in our house, so how can you possibly know what occurs here?

I am not the instigator of the recall. If there are people that think the recall is ludicrous, again, that is your and their opinion. But there are many others that don't think it is ludicrous. They are serious and don't think that it is a laughing matter, or do they feel it is funny, or do they call people names. When the recall petitions are approved, you will not hear any negative comments when the citizens of Garden City are asked for their signatures on the petitions. Please remember, a signature on the petition does not mean you agree, it only means that you want the opportunity to put this issue is front of the electorate. It is the voters that are being asked to make the decision. The committee is not attacking the character of those being recalled, only their judgment of the decisions they make without regard to the charter of the

Mr. Versels, how can my involvement in this recall help me politically? I did not mention that I am a candidate, and how can you believe that assaults against my character can possibly help? I weighed this very issue with extreme caution when I put my name on the ballot. However, if I am elected and after six months you feel that I have not done my job, violated the county's charter, or any other laws, I would expect the citizens that elected me to hold me accountable for my actions. If I did not feel that way, then I would be laughing at you, calling you names, and attacking your character in the hopes people would believe me. And you know what? Behavior such as that causes me to see red caution flags flying all over the place and scares the hell out

As far as wanting my name in print, I have not asked you (I-don't even know who you are) or anyone else to attack me personally, however it keeps occurring. If it continues, I will again write a letter to Mr. Poger with the hope that he will print my response to these allegations. As long as my name negatively appears in print and is mentioned negatively at council meetings, I will continue to respond and defend myself. I did not write the caption but I did write the letter of which you spoke. If I would have captioned that letter, and this one, it would have said "Carol Juarez defends herself," not "Barker is knocked." I did not knock Barker, I only responded. I think you canthank the Observer for that one.

:. You have every right to your opinion and if you need to write letters opposing the recall, then please, write your letters, but leave the naming of individuals and name calling out of

The good ol' U.S. still the best

Perfect? No. The best? We may still be. The reference is to the United States of America, which turns 220 years old this week. That is a distinction, for ours is the oldest democratic republic on Earth. But the greatest distinction is that the U.S. is free as well as stable.

The Fourth of July is the anniversary of our nation's 1776 declaration. Even after that, Americans had to fight two wars, 1776-1781 and 1812-1815, to secure that freedom.

For most of us, the Fourth of July is just a day off work - a picnic, yard work, lounging. Looking at last week's news, however, we need to renew our appreciation for Independence Day. Consider:

• Afghanistan - "Rebel rockets pounded central Kabul, killing 30 people and wounding more than 120 others, doctors and defense officials said. The attack came hours before former government foe Gulbuddin Hekmatyar was sworn in as prime minister."

Think: We've had some dirty and even crooked campaigns in America, but never a rebellion at the changing of administrations.

 West Bank – "Palestinian militants killed three Israeli soldiers near the border between the West Bank and Jordan. A rebel faction of the PLO claimed responsibility and said it was to protest peace accords ..."

Think: After 48 years of independence, Israel must fight fervently for its life against people who insist just as fervently that they have been dispossessed.

• New Delhi - "More than one-fifth of the world's population - about 1.31 billion people - lives on less than $1 a day, according to a World Bank report on poverty." Think: America has had dreary times, but never that bad.

• South Korea - "Japanese Prime Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto apologized Sunday for forcing South Korean women to serve as prostitutes for the Japanese army during World War II ... Historians say up to 200,000 women

- mostly Koreans - were forced into sexual servitude in front-line brothels as Japanese forces swept through eastern Asia."

Think: Except for a barren spot on the Aleutian Islands, the U.S. hasn't been invaded for 182 years. Our troops sometimes have erred, but never to that extent.

• Beijing - "China has ordered 2,000 businesses to change their names, saying the names are undermining national culture. Names containing vulgar, feudalistic, bizarre and absurd content and Western-sounding color must be banned,' a government official said."

Think: We pushed around some Germanspeaking Americans in World War I and some Nisei in World War II, but not on the basis of business names.

Instead of a day off, the Fourth of July could be a chance for us to renew our spirits by attending a parade such as the one at 1 p.m. July 4 that is organized by Plymouth-Canton Jaycees, by thanking God for the blessings of peace, national strength and comparative liberty.

Let's fly the Stars and Stripes. Most suburbanites did at the 200th anniversary in 1976, but some of us have lapsed and should get back in the habit.

If nothing else, let's reflect when we cheer a fireworks display - red for courage, white for purity, blue for valor. Remember the gutsy resolution which the Continental Congress passed July 2, 1776, in Philadelphia by 12 to 0 with New York abstaining.

"Resolved: That these United States are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved."

The best? We may be. Perfect? Well, we're working on it.

Summer chills memory of ice cream man

Heavens to Mergatroid - what is that weird cacophony? It sounds like one of those enormous musical greeting cards people purchase to replace actual sentiment sailing down the street. Why, sure enough, it's an ice cream truck.

As long as the icebox rolls at sporadid speeds you can't help but create the discordant calliope soundtrack to accompany some low-budget killer clown movie. I suppose most mortals my age recall their neighborhood ice cream person, but, depending on your neighborhood the memories range from charming to chilling.

As the years have passed, I realize that I may have exaggerated these 10 cent errors because of the time and circumstances. We were a fatherless. brotherless gaggle of gals struggling to survive the '60s on the streets where the Boston Strangler had already snatched the lives of several and had thrown a sweaty blanket of fear over even the toughest towns.

As girls we were taught to engage every instinct and be wary of everyone. Simmering suspicions had parents keeping their kids close to home and sweltering storms seemed to suck away all the sunshine that following summer.

Although we lived on the ocean, summer was a mean season. At one end of the beach, violent older teens caroused and didn't care for any living witnesses - especially younger siblings. At the other end, incredibly irritable parents threw daggers with their eyes at any unsupervised youth while shrieking non-stop over scratchy AM transistors at their own toddlers. The real ice cream was at the end of the long flaming strip of sand that in pre-leash law days still held the heartbreaking possibility of having to hysterically surrender your cone to a foaming six-pack of mad dogs. For many of us, frolicking at the beach was best enjoyed in the offseason. So TV shows of the day dictated we spent that vacation skulking about swathed in smelly old trench coats acting out all the secret agent spy scenarios.

One of the eeriest of my politically incorrect mysteries was the Mad Ice Cream Man. The Strangler alert kept many kids from going to the store for even the blandest and bluest of Popsicles, but the novelty of the truck's soft-serve and more exotic concoctions were horribly expensive for kids who relied on hunting for 2-cent empties.

The financial frustration was nothing compared to the madman who made the huge Dairy Whip head with a freaky face bobbing about on his hood seem human. His jangling jalopy, which he drove recklessly and ruthlessly, had a giant red sign warning the world that the operator was a deaf mute. He looked like the scariest rendering of the Nutcracker and his temperament was outrageous. He'd screech over, always just far enough away to make us stand in the gutter, and would slam down a great wooden placard with pictures and prices that we were to point at while fast disappearing in a poisonous cloud of sickening black exhaust. Small children could not grasp the problem and asked a million questions while littering with excitement. The older kids tried their best to help, most being taught to respect our elders without question even if they were unbelievable crabs. The ogre nonpareil needed no words, having a wealth of obscenely vicious gestures.

It was apparent after some time that if you were fifth in line you stood a good chance of him barely choking back his obvious Loathe for Life and peeling away with your coins on his counter while you stood trembling with confusion and fear, rubber thongs stuck in a pool of melting road

Sorry, there is no tender moment nor touching moral, just a spine-tingling memory of summer that lends delightful contrast to my pleasant present. I think I'll chase the truck in my new neighborhood today. You might think I am venturing on my second childhood a bit early, but I really feel this may be my first childhood just a wee bit late.

Federal cuts send disturbing message to our children

"Children are not a priority." That's the message sent by Congress as it slashes the federal budget.

Since the 1994 elections, the congressional approach to balancing the budget is disproportionately harmful to our nation's most vulnerable population - children.

It is unjust and shameful that programs providing health care, nutrition and food assistance, education, and housing to millions of povertystricken children are facing devastating funding cuts while military spending and defense budgets are increasing beyond even the Pentagon's requests.

As a member of the United Methodist Church, I am concerned about the impact budget cuts are having on those most in need. Our church is one of the many religious groups that has heeded God's call to care for the needy and embrace the poor and homeless in our midst.

If the federal government turns its back on the poor, the demand for church-sponsored services will far exceed our capabilities. We will not be able to meet the needs of all those who will be forced into poverty. Where will hungry women and children go?

Our national leaders must reassess budget priorities and consider the fate of thousands of families struggling to escape poverty. The government cannot ignore the needs of the people and balance the budget on the backs of the poor, especially poor children.

I attended the June 1 "Stand for Children" day in Washington, D.C. The following facts are provided to give all readers an understanding of what is happening in our country. This has nothing to do with party politics; it has everything to do with our nation's most valuable and fragile resource - our children.

Every day in America: Three children and youths under 25 die from HIV infection; six children and youths GUEST COLUMN under 20 commit suicide; 13 children and youths under 20 are homicide victims; 15 children and youths under 20 are killed by firearms; 95 babies die; 145 babies are born at very low birth weight (less than 3.25 pounds); 342 children under 18 are arrested for vio lent crimes; 518 babies are born to mothers who had late or no prenatal care; 790 babies are born at low birth weight (less than 5.5 pounds); 1,407 babies are born to teen mothers; 2,660 babies are born into poverty, 2,833 high school students drop out each school day; 3,398 babies are born to unmarried mothers; 6,042 children under 18 are arrested.

To put in perspective the priorities of our nation, consider that among industrialized nations, the United States ranks: first in military technology, military exports, Gross National Product (GNP), defense expenditures and in number of millionaires and billionaires in industrialized nations.

But we have twice the rate of teen births as England, and five times the rates in Italy and other West European nations. We also rank: seventh in science achievement of 13-year-olds among 15 nations; 12th in mathematics achievement of 13-year-olds among 15 nations; 16th in living standards among our poorest one-fifth of children; 18th among 18 industrialized countries in the gap between rich and poor children, 19th in low birth weight rates and 20th in infant mortality.

More than 1.3 million children live in grandparent-headed households without a parent present, while more than 3.7 million children live in grandparent-headed households with or without a parent present.

I respectfully ask all voters to consider the issues important to their families and to vote for only those candidates who make the issues affecting the health, welfare and education of our children a clear priority. Our elected representatives vote according to what they perceive to be the voice of the electorate.

Let's make our voice clear: We want a safe, healthy, less violent world for our children. We do not support budget cuts which create more poverty, but budget plans which distribute funds to assure education and training to enable the existing poor to work their way up in our · world.

"A hundred years from now, it will not matter what my bank account was, the sort of house I lived in, or the kind of car I drove ... but the world may be different because I was important in the life of a child." Children deserve our support. What we do for our children is an investment in the future.

Ethics: more than do's and don'ts

Some parents are perturbed when public schools teach kids "ethics." Yet there is a wide movement in America to consider the ethics of human decisions by a rational process.

Fundamentalist parents don't believe in ethics as a process. A kid with a problem is supposed to "Ask your parents" or "Ask your pastor." Black and white. You don't need to understand God's will - just obey.

I hang out in the Society of Professional Journalists (SPJ) and cover the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. Quite a contrast, eh? Not as much as you might guess, because both are delving into "doing ethics" as a process.

You deserve a quickie overview because your quarters pay journalists' salaries, and your taxes pay your local public officials'.

Ethics isn't just a list of Do's and Don'ts. "These principles are not the kind of thing that can be settled by fiat, government or by authority," says a quote from the SPJ-published "Doing Ethics in Journalism" by Black, Steele and Barney. In other words, you don't just ask an authority figure like the editor or the pastor.

"Ethics is not the same as law ... Ethics articulates what we ought to do in order to be moralindividuals and professionals, while law concentrates on the bottom line below which we should not fall," we learn.

Many case studies cover not only the usual accuracy and fairness but conflicts of interest, deception, diversity, photo manipulation, privacy and source-reporter relations.

SEMCOG executive director John Amberger recently put together a seminar through the Public Administration Foundation with help from Seth Hirshorn, a University of Michigan-Dearborn professor of public administration. Northville Township, Farmington, Troy and the state Court of Appeals had folks there.

Hirshorn has collected case studies, beginning with film clips of the Morton Thickol engineer who told his bosses the O-rings on the "Challenger" satellite were unsafe in cold weather - then found himself fired and ostracized in a company town after seven astronauts perished. Sample hypothetical case: An environmental agency board issues an order, but next day the chief of staff is told by a whistle blower that researchers may have ignored data that didn't give them the results they wanted; by the way, the whistle blower is a college intern.

Another sample: A new boss in a shop with tight union rules is asked by an essential, but low-seniority, employee for a night off to take a college exam that will advance his work skills; safety regulations demand someone be on the job; the finance man says "no overtime"; the other employees have tickets to a playoff game.

I won't mess up Hirshorn's script by revealing details. What was interesting was that different groups came up with different answers to even the first question: "What principles are involved in this case?" The six principles are:

- Respect and appreciation for the public including "the media (who) act as surrogate for the public."
- Respect for elected officials and the democratic process.
- · Respect for diversity racial, religious, cul-
- Respect for peers and subordinates including training, retraining and coaching employees.
 - Respect for the ecosystem.
- · Respect for self and the profession of public administration - including recruitment, reten-

: Amberger cautions against relying on legal counsel for anything but legal advice. He drops this pearl of wisdom: "Small communities often get bullied by the threat of a lawsuit."

SEMCOG, with 130-plus local governments as members, will offer an ethics-seminar at its Oct. 17 General Assembly meeting, Hirshorn is putting together a package for public administration schools, educators and companies.

Adults are learning that ethical problems are multi-faceted and have an impact on many people. School kids should learn that, too.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

population in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, according to a survey by the Department of Natural Resources.

The counts were made by biologists on snowmobiles or snowshoes and from aerial observations of radio-collared wolves during the January to April census. "This is a minimum count of wolves," said Jim Hammill, district wildlife supervisor.

The 1996 winter survey confirmed 116 wolves in 16 packs. In 1995 there were 80 wolves in 12 packs; the 1994 count was 57 wolves in eight packs.

An additional 22 wolves were counted on Isle Royale, a national park in Lake Superior. There were no wolves in the Lower Peninsula.

Wolves were almost extinct in the 1970s. They are considered an endangered species.

4th of July now and then

Happy Fourth of July!

I love this holiday! Everything about it is so well; you know - so American! The music, the parade, the fireworks, the hot dogs and hamburgers, the sparklers, the flags waving everywhere, the red, the white, the blue.

And I like the fact that this holiday gets going days before the actual day. For instance, the Sunday before when the choirs and organs in churches across America sing out the patriotic hymns, and everyone knows the words by heart.

I don't know about you, but when the choir and parishioners in my church raise their voices on that early July Sunday morning and the summer breeze is blowing in through the opened windows on the sides of the church and no one has to look in the hymnal:

"O beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain. For purple mountain majesties above the fruited plain. America! America! God shed his grace on thee, and crown thy good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea.

I can't quite make it through the song, the throat lump gets in the way. Maybe it's the unity of many voices rising up in song, maybe it's that we all believe in the same thing for that moment, that living in America is something good, good enough to sing about.

Sometimes I think, if we could just all keep John' Lyall "supposes" it was love at first sight, although his wife, Florence, points out that initially she thought of John as "just a friend of my brother." "That's how I was accepted? As just a friend of your brother?" says

John. "I didn't know that." Florence laughs at John's feigned surprise. There is little, if anything, they don't know about each other. John proudly admits he loves his wife just as she is; Florence says John is "just wonderful." Together, they admit that they are not only husband and wife, but best friends. "We adhere to the Scriptures quite a bit," Florence added. "We're both saved and we're happy.'

They meet in their teens and after four years of dating - "It wasn't a very long courtship," John says -they decided to tie the knot before taking a trip to England.

"Did I propose or did you, Mum?" John asks Florence.

"We were sitting in the park," she answers, drawing an "Oh, we were?" response from John. "I said, 'It's about time we got married,' and we

It was a quiet ceremony, much like the celebration they plan to have to observe their 70th wedding anniversary.

"We'll have a couple of hamburgers here, I suppose," said John, a chuckle blending with his Scottish anniversary, so we'll go to her house in Canada."

They were in their teens when they met. He would visit her at her father's hotel and she would visit his family home on Sundays.

"I would visit often with her brother in the hotel her father owned," John recalled. "I'd hang around the kitchen and her stepmother would accent. "Actually, our daughter, come down and say, Don't you think Frieda, was born on our second it's time to go home?' A polite way of giving you the boot, hun?

After they married, they stayed with John's parents for six months until they could "get going." It wasn't long after that the Depression hit and the lack of work forced the couple to leave Scotland. With the government offering assisted passage, they at first selected South

Writer plans to carve out her own niche in life

BY LORENE GREEN SPECIAL WRITER

Dear Ms. Green,

I have enjoyed your column for quite a while. I took an amateur's class to learn a little about handwriting analysis a few years ago. I was fascinated when I was a teen-ager (and) I had my handwriting analyzed. I felt it was a new look at my potential.

Currently, I am considering a job change and I am looking to see what best fits my strengths. I am a marketing manager. I travel here and there and basically keep quite busy with project management.

It would be extremely helpful also if my lesser qualities were identified so as to understand where I can improve. Constant improvement is important to me. Thank you for your consid-

G.L.,

A fondness for order, system and organization is evident. She is a self-starter who knows what needs to be done. And she has the "go power" to accomplish it.

She takes pride in her work and values accuracy and the opportunity to produce high quality work. She works for perfection in all she does.

Seemingly, she devotes herself to a rigid behavior pattern. Flexibility is not her strongest suit.

She often inhibits her feelings

She is denying much of her creative and intellectual capacity. The realm of spirit and ideas has associations with ridicule or failure for her.

Ostensibly, she seeks freedom for growth. She grew up in a home where discipline was strict. Someone with a stronger will than hers often prevailed. Remnants of that period have not been resolved and she is still carrying some resentment. I believe a statement by Robert Browning is applicable here. "Good to forgive. Best to forget."

She is ever aware of proper behavior. To avoid criticism she tends to monitor hers to fit inwith co-workers and/or those she holds in high esteem.

Africa as their destination, but that fell through and so they opted for Canada.

John immigrated in 1930. leaving Florence and Frieda with his parents in Scotland. They followed three months later, a trip that was anything but a big adventure for the seasick Flo-

"I never want to do that again," she recalled. "I was sick all the time. It was a small ocean liner and it hit every wave. I was seasick until we hit Quebec."

While they had hoped for something better in Canada, they found more of the same. John headed for Windsor and found work helping a truck driver for the Walkerville Hydro 'people."

He still remembers the look on Florence's face when she arrived in Windsor after the train ride from Quebec.

"When she saw the station in Windsor, her face fell," John said. "It wasn't at all what she expected. There was no work and about all you could do with the paper money you got was cash it in at the grocery store."

On the move again John worked for the Hydro plant until Ford Motor Company opened a plant in Canada where he worked until the family moved to the United States.

Under the terms of the assisted passage, the Lyalls had to stay in Canada one year, but after just nine months, they were able to make their way across the border to Detroit, but not before being deported at least three times.

"When we came with our furniture, the border guard asked how many times we had been them," John said.

sent back, and I said twice." John said. "He checked the records and said it was more like three times. When we came with the furniture that time it was within the time of being able to cross, so he let us in."

The Lyalls lived in Detroit and in 1940, John eventually landed a job as an electrician at Chrysler's Highland Park plant. He stayed with the automaker for 31 years. He also had his own electrical business, Telten Electric, for awhile but gave it because of too much competition.

They lived in Detroit, adding Doreen, John Derrick and David to the family. In the summer, Florence and the children would spend 10 weeks in a cottage at Ipperwash Beach, Ontario. John, driving a junker loaned to him by a friend, would visit on weekends. The rent was a mere $9 a month.

"I had to work to keep them there," he said with a laugh.

They moved to Livonia some 29 years ago and stayed there 15 years before moving to a townhouse in Westland in 1982. Over the years the family has continued to grow with the addition of 16 grandchildren and 26 greatgrandchildren.

singing, like that, like that Sunday before the Fourth of July in church, with the pews under us and neighbors around us, and the music swelling the air, bad things would never happen. The music feels that good. Independence Day. July. Freedom. Summer. America. From sea to shining sea.

It's funny, from sea to shining sea. Our neighbors to the north, our neighbors in Canada who are also American, North American, are celebrating freedom right along with us. The hands of those living in the two countries literally reach across the water in celebration of freedom. And that's something to consider and get a lump in the throat over. Not just one country, uniting within itself, but another, across the border, fireworking and singing, too. .

I've only seen the spectacle on TV when the fireworks go off over the Detroit River, but I get that same amazing impression of bad things being not possible. when lightness fills the sky and celebration fills the night over two countries.

And when I was very young, even before I could hold a sparkler in my hand, I lived elsewhere in America. And even though the time and place were so different, other things were very much the same. Independence. July. Freedom. Summer. America. From sea to shining

I 'I remember fireworks everywhere; even inside the odd neighbors' house across the street. Inside the house.

America than what I live in the odd neighbors' house across today. As a matter of fact, it was in an America where English wasn't even the native language, Spanish was. And the flag that flew over head was not red, white and blue.

The country was Venezuela and their Fourth of July was actually the Fifth of July. And since we were United States citizens living in Venezuela, we had 48 hours of freedom celebrations.

I was only 2 when we moved to Venezuela on account of my Dad's work with Ford Motor Company and 6 when we moved back to the United States so, of course, being so young only the brightest and loudest images survive. And there were plenty of them during those two days in early July.

· I remember fireworks everywhere; even inside the odd neighbors' house across the street. Inside the house. My Mom and Dad were appalled. I, on the other hand, thought it would be kind of neat to try the same thing in our house. Then again, I was 3 when I had that thought.

And water balloons figured into the Fifth of July celebrations there. Water balloons And that was in a far different everywhere. Again, even inside the street. But for some reason, this I didn't think was neat. Not at all. Unlike the fireworks, water balloons were tolerated on our side of the street, at my house, not in my house, of course, but in the back yard, and, being the youngest in the family, well, I was the obvious choice for the target of those fat, squishy, water-filled balloons.

Mom and Dad thought the screams from the yard were all part of the merriment and celebration of freedom in July. I suppose it was. For some.

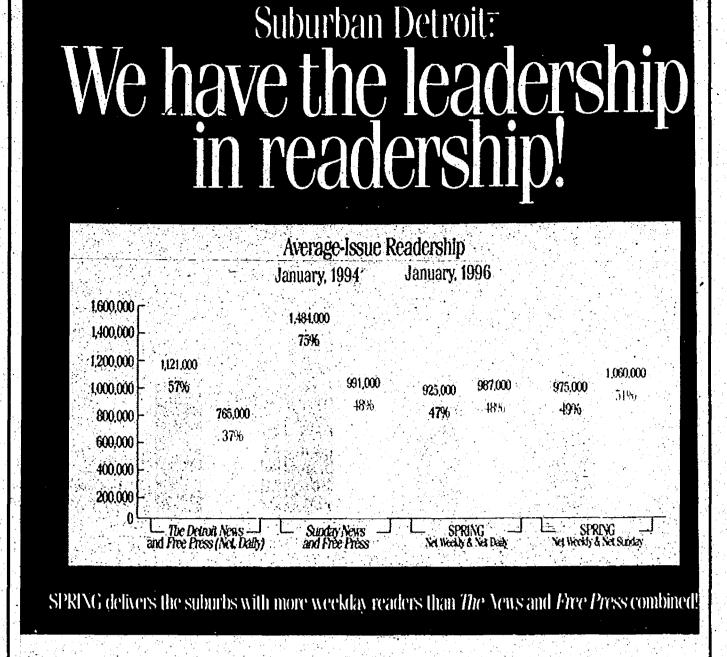

No matter. The memory is vivid. All those memories are of early July days, and American, and summer breezy, from sea to shining sea, from days long ago and far away.

Things have stayed the same more than they have changed in this instance.

God bless America!

And Happy 220th Birthday to our United States of America!

Detroit's music a hit at Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO-STAFF WRITER

That's what Motown means to Cleveland's Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum.

Detroit music ranging from Motown to Madonna pop to Iggy Pop punk is well represented in the 150,000square-foot facility.

A symphony of Detroit musicians including The Four Tops, Smokey Robinson, The Supremes, Berry Gordy, The Temptations, Stevie Wonder, and Holland-Dozier-Holland - are heard and seen in a special exhibit in tribute to Detroit. Album

The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum goes beyond Motown with an impressive collection of Detroit memorabilia. The ground level is home to most of the museum's displays including an area dedicated to costumes. Realistic-looking mannequins are dressed in George Clinton's fur wrap, Alice Cooper's leopard skin boots, and Madonna's gold stage costume designed by Jean-Paul Gaultier from her Blonde Ambition tour, A collection of U2 paraphernalia includes a backstage pass from the band's Royal Oak Music Theatre show on Dec. 4, 1981.

'Harriet' star intrigued by her celebrity

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

Michelle Trachtenberg is loving the good life.

Sitting indian-style in her suite at the Ritz-Carlton hotel in Dearborn, she anxiously asks, "Did you see all the food when you came off the elevator? There's cookies and candy and food. I don't eat cookies or candy," Trachtenberg said lowering her voice to a whisper, "but I'm liking this."

Trachtenberg, 11, is getting the star treatment thanks to her role as Harriet in the Nickelodeon Movies' "Harriet The Spy." In the movie, which opens Wednesday, she plays a fearless sixth grader who travels her spy route daily observing the happenings at places like the corner market "Hong Fats," and a cat lovers' home.

She enters everything that she sees as well as honest observations about her friends into a notebook marked "private." An aspiring writer, Harriet is motivated by her nanny and mentor Golly, played by Rosle retaliation for what Harriet has written, her classmates - including her best friends Sport and Janie form a spy catchers club to harass her.

But trouble starts for Harriet when her classmates find her notebook and read its contents out loud. In tomato sandwiches.

"Harriet The Spy" is based on Louise Fitzhugh's best-selling young people's novel by the same name which was published by Harper in 1964. Since then, about 2.5 million copies of the story about the curious tomboy have been sold.

Trachtenberg, whose favorite book is "Harriet The Spy," said it was fun to play Harriet because she and her character have a lot in common.

"I always thought that if they made 'Harriet the Spy' into a movie, they should cast me as Harriet because we're so much alike," said Trachtenberg who's donning a backward baseball hat, and matching T-shirt and

"We both dress alike except sometimes I wear dresses and long dresses sonie time but usually shorts and jeans. We both like to read and write, and we both love tomato sandwiches," she said.

"Harriet puts tomatoes on white bread and makes the tomatoes squishy, that was my idea. I don't like white bread because it's sticky and it gets stuck to my palate. I get the bread, maybe a hero or a roll or bagel, slice the tomatoes and use a lot of salt and a lot of vinegar."

By now she's a little Mexican jumping bean; food is definitely on her mind. After detailing her tomato sandwich recipe, she sings the praises of her mother's

A New York native, Trachtenberg resides in Brooklyn with her parents and 17-year-old sister Irene ("I love her," Trachtenberg said in a baby voice hugging herself), and their cat "Casey."

She began her acting career at age 3 when she appeared in a commercial for Wisk detergent. From there she filmed about 100 other commercials and guest starred on episodes of "Clarissa Tells It All" and "Law and Order." She also screen tested for the movies "When A Man Loves A Woman" with Meg Ryan, and Steven Spielberg's "Hook." Since its opening in September 1995, the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum has played host to an average of 3,000 people per day including VIPs Art Garfunkel, Kansas, The Temptations, Natalie Merchant, Jimmy Page and Robert Plant, Trent Reznor, White Zombie, Marilyn Manson, Blues Traveler and Joe Walsh.

There are two parts to the campus. The fifth and sixth floors pay homage to the members of The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. Continuous glass walls contain illuminated panels in which the names and signatures of the honorees are etched. Television screens tell the artists' stories.

The rest of the building looks at the history of rock 'n' roll through a variety of exhibits that are shown on a rotating basis to keep the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum's displays fresh. Besides traditional museum displays, the world of music is shown through a combination of high-tech wizardry and film and video. "Video Killed The Radio Star is a hypnotic keting techniques - "Sledgehammer" by Peter Gabriel, "You Might Think" by the Cars, and "Thriller" by Michael Jackson are among them.

The history of rap from Afrika Bambaata to Salt 'n' Pepa is traced in " '79-'91' The Message.

The grunge years are remembered in " '85-'95: Smells Like Teen Spirit," which includes the Claymation dolls from Alice in Chains' eerie video for the song "I Stay Away," Nirvana concert posters, and memorabilia from Soundgarden and other Seattle grunge bands.

More "youngsters," in Rock. and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum terms, are honored in the "All The Young Dudes" exhibit. David Bowie, Iggy Pop. The most impressive part of the museum is the on-going film presentations shown throughout the museum. The 20-minute film "Rock Is," shown in the "It's Only Rock 'n' Roll Cinema? on the fourth floor, looks at different aspects of rock history and culture and its impact on society. Patrons waiting in line to see the film are greeted by characters from Pink Floyd's "The Wall" who loom overhead.

The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum's mission is to teach the public about the impact that rock 'n' roll has made on society. To carry on this mission, the foundation is also hosting a series of concerts, lectures, films, and seminars for teachers.

"The mission of the museum is to provide insight into an artist who made rock 'n' roll what is it today and what those artists meant to rock 'n' roll," Santelli

"As people walk through the museum, they make a very personal connection with the music. ... Anyone born after 1945 has an emotional relationship to rock 'n' roll so it behooves us to help people learn about it."

REVIEW

"Miss Saigon" is part recent history, part tribute to Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." Composer Claude-Michel Schonberg and lyricist Alain Boublil followed their success with "Les Miserables" with this equally intense love story. As everyone must know by now, "Miss Saigen" is the story of an American GI who falls in love with a Saigon bargirl but is forced to leave her behind in the dark closing days of the war in Vietnam.

The musical takes on special resonance because of its Vietnamese setting and because, except for the details, it was a story repeated in real life. Schonberg's music is" often soaring and beautiful, especially appealing are several duets, trios and visibly, more assured as she multi-voiced ensembles. "Miss Saigon" is always at a high pitch, fraught with either intense longing or ribald action.

The story and lyrics by Boublil, with additions and adaptations by Richard Maltby Jr. for the English version, tries to condense a lot of character motivation, past history and plot into musical speech. Sometimes this works perfectly, other times it seems forced and even tedious. This is closer to opera than musical with very little spoken dialog. But there are several traditional songs and some of them are quite winning especially "The Movie in My Mind," "The Morning of the Dragon," "I Still Believe," "Sun and Moon" and the bitter, ripping "The American Dream."

"Miss Saigon" is noted for its spectacular production values and this company doesn't disappoint. Nicholas Hytner's staging is spectacular and John Napier's design is riveting. The famous helicopter rescue scene captures all the fury, anger and terror of those final American moments in Vietnam.

Deedee Lynn Magno gives rich, full voice and a sweet, naive look to the girl Kim who grows, fights for the man she loves and his child.

Will Chase as the all-American Chris is burdened by some of the weakest lyrics and most overwrought music, but he sings excellently and projects the right conflicted agony at the core of this drama. He and the music tend to go over the top on occasions

In addition to the lovers, the other central character is the Engineer, a bitter Eurasian pimp, hustler, lounge lizard with vivid dreams of an America that is Vegas from coast-to-coast. He is the sad product of foreign exploitation. Thom Sesma moves snakelike across the stage, biting and chewing on every irony and ripping declaration. His "American Dream" is brilliantly performed.

This cast is uniformly excellent including C.C. Brown as Chris' friend who sings for the misbegotten "Bui-Doi" children: David Kater as Thuy, Kim's betrothed and a Communist officer and Anastasia Barzee as Chris' wife who faces doubts when she learns of his past love. Also noteworthy is tiny, lovable Mark Dongon as the silent but very expressive little boy Tam.

Dramatic: Thom Sesma as The Engineer and Deedee Lynn Magno as Kim in a scene from "Miss Saigon."

comes from a fleet of massive talien ships, one to blanket each major world city. Their intentions are unclear until a computer expert (Jeff Goldblum) discovers that the code they are transmitting is actually a countdown to Armageddon. Soon the blue light that emanates from the core of each ship destroys entire cities in a flaming mushroom cloud.

"Independence Day" sets the doom up well. In fact, part of the fun of the first half hour is anticipating what national monument will show up (and then blow up) next. Only Mount Rushmore fails to make an appearance with the Lincoln Memorial, Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, and The White House.

By now, we've also met our cast of characters, each one a familiar face, usually a character actor or television star.

So while we don't have a Tom Cruise or even a Charlie Sheen on board, we do have the likes of Goldblum, Will Smith, Randy Quaid, Judd Hirsch, and Bill Pullman. Yes, that scientist with the long hair is Brent Spiner, Data on TV's "Star Trek: The Next Generation."

While Goldblum again risks typecasting as a heroic computer nerd, Pullman fares best as the

Of course there are some characters you'd just as soon see vaporized. Harvey Fierstein exits mercifully early, but not Judd Hirsch, whose cranky old Jewish father is the kind of guy, tagging along while son Goldblum tries to explain to the president, who asks where he can get venir pens.

What sets "Independence Day" apart from Allen and the countless alien invasion movies that preceded it are the eye popping special effects. We can only gape along with the characters on screen as the ships, which measure some 15 miles in diameter, place entire cities in shadow.

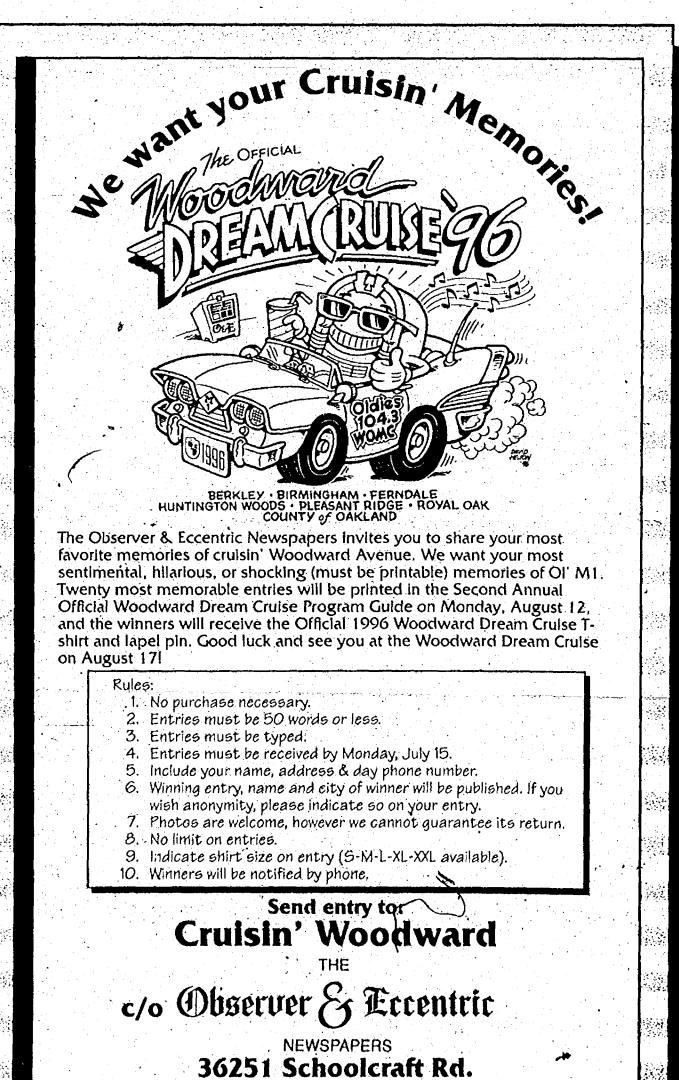

There's also a "Star Wars"style dogfight through Grand Don't expect the character and personality that pervaded the films of George Lucas and Steven Spielberg, though. Directed by Roland Emmerich, "Independence Day" looks not so much orchestrated as assembled, like one of those spaceship model kits you made as a kid.

But who can knock success? It's been a long time since a me has caught the audience one of those White House sou- on such a visceral level. The applause that concluded "Independence Day" leads me to believe that, while "Twister" dominated early in the summer, this will be the one everyone will still be talking about at Thanks-

'The Underneath' full of clever twists

BY LEANNE ROGERS STAFF WRITER

There's a commercial that suggests getting a job as fall back if your game plan relies on winning the lottery. That's the kind of advice someone should have given Michael, the main character in the 1995 film "The Underneath."

Played by Peter Gallagher. Michael has returned to his Texas hometown to attend his widowed mother's wedding. He is coming back after a couple years absence - having squared away a pile of gambling debts and apparently having spent some time in jail.

Michael seems pretty unfocused. He accepts an offer from his soon-to-be stepfather and ends up working as a guard for an armored car company. He looks up his former wife, who was pretty ticked about him leaving her to deal with the gambling debts.

The ex-wife, played by Alison Elliott, is dating and soon marries a violent club, owner who is involved in a variety of criminal activities. The club owner is also hot-tempered and extremely jealous - especially of Michael.

In short order, Michael has planned the robbery of the armored car enlisting the assistance of his ex-wife and her abusive new husband. Of course Michael plans to cut his partner out of the deal, for both the VIDEO money and his ex-wife. And, of course plans don't go as Michael expected.

Director Steven Soderbergh, who also directed "Sex, Lies and Videotape" and "King of the Hill," puts some different spins on what might have otherwise been a pretty tradition film noir. There isn't a lot of violence - this is a character driven story. Gallagher's Michael is a rather low key type of character. Initially, he seems to have an at least friendly with his police officer brother.

That deteriorates rapidly to the point that the brother might just be a complete psycho, depending on who you believe.

Unlike the usual femme fatale of film noir, Elliott's character isn't overtly manipulative despite being largely motivated by a desire for money.

There are some very funny moments in the film which is shot with a distinctive style.

There is one scene where several people are talking to Michael, the camera holding tight to Michael's perspective making you wonder what shape Michael is going to be in.

There are enough twists and unusual narrative flow to make this well-done film very watchScheduled to open Friday, July 12

'Mario's' has warmth of Little Italy

BY KEELY WYGONIK

A taste of the Big Apple is closer than you think - Livonia, Rochester Hills, and now Southfield, home of the newest East Side Mario's.

Multi-colored lights create a Christmas-in-July atmosphere, everything is festive and fun in this restaurant designed to look like New York's "Little Italy." A replica of the Statue of Liberty welcomes you at the door, menus are displayed in a "New York Times" newspaper rack, vintage store fronts with awnings and signs, 1950s street lamps, billboards, and a cart filled with fresh vegetables, help create the feeling of being on the corner of Canal and Mulberry Street.

East Side Mario's will be open Fourth of July, and menu specials will include barbecued ribs and other holiday favorites.

"The minute you walk in the door, it's exciting and fun," said local restaurateur Norman LePage, who operates the family restaurant, featuring Old World Italian dishes. "It puts you in a happy mood."

Corporate chef Dave Manno goes to Italy once a year, and works at making sure everything tastes and looks authentic. "It's almost like Uncle Mario's in the kitchen stirring the pot," said LePage. Each item is individually prepared - you can taste the fresh basil, oregano, and garlic in every bite.

Start dinner with an appetizer - the Calamari Al Diavolo is spicy, but not too spicy, and tossed with hot cherry peppers, bell peppers, fresh garlic, white wine and lemon. Sicilian Stuffed Eggplant and Bruschetta are East Side Mario's other specialties, along with Buffalo-Style Chicken Wings and Mozzarella Sticks. The Brick Oven pizzas are also good as an appetizer, or light dinner with a side of Mandaro's Garden Salad or Mario's Minestrone Soup. The Cantinata pizza is topped with marinated chicken, garlicsauteed spinach, sun-dried tomatoes, caramelized onions, Calamata olives and Italian cheeses.

Popular menu items include

Garlic Mushroom Rigatoni; Linguini Chicken Tettrazini; and Lasagna Al Forno. All pasta dinners include freshly baked garlic homeloaf and choice of unlimited salad or Minestrone soup. Mario's Rotisserie Chicken is marinated for a minimum of 24 hours in Italian herbs and seasonings and slow-roasted to seal in juices. The Grilled Vegetable Focaccia Sandwich is made with "marinated fresh eggplant, zucchini, yellow squash and bell peppers, grilled and seasoned with fresh garlic and basil pesto. Then baked in a skillet with asiago cheese and served with seasoned Italian flat bread to build as you like."

To pick out dessert you look at the offerings in a Viewmaster. It's hard to decide - Tartufo, Tiramisu, and Turtle Cheesecake are tasty options.

"Everything has a personal touch, and it's a good value," said Ray Lance, East Side Mario's vice president of operations. "The basic East Side Mario's concept is to create a place where people of all ages and tastes can feel relaxed and enjoy a good meal."

"This restaurant is kid-friendly," said LePage. "Kids don't have to run around to be entertained. There's a lot for them to look at." Bambino Meals, a menu for children 10 and under, offers kid-favorites including spaghetti, chicken fingers & fries, Bambino pizza, and rotisserie chicken with fries. All entrees are served with a free dessert and free bottomless soda.

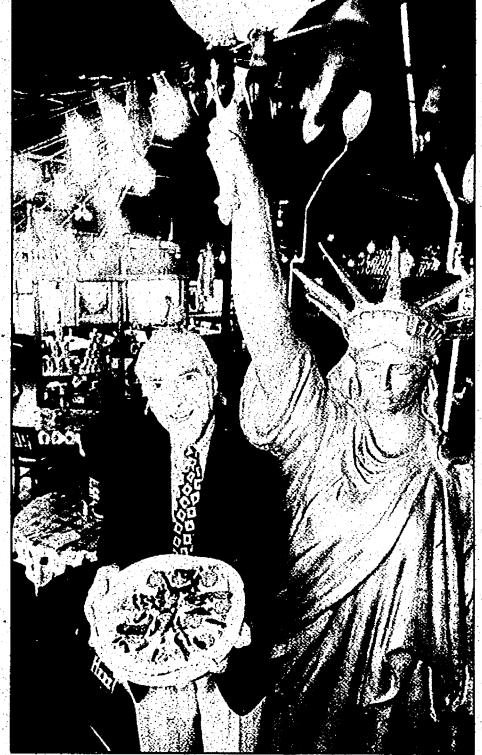

New at the Southfield location is "Mario's Family-Style Dinner," for $9.99 to $10.99 per person. Dinner begins with salad and garlic homeloaf and Mario's Pasta of the Day. But like Detroit, downtown Cleveland seems to be a place that clears out after dark and on weekends except at specific attractions. Unlike Detroit, Cleveland is spotlessly clean, which gives its nighttime emptiness a spooky movie set quality.

Still, Cleveland has a lot to

Between the museum and the old Lakefront Stadium (which the Browns just abandoned), a science museum is being built.

Jacobs Field is an outstanding baseball park. It is located on the south end of the downtown at the entrance to the major east-west freeway. The park is a modern take on the traditional ball park. Smiley is headed to Michigan State University, where he will join the lacrosse team and spend the fall months watching the football team from the stands.

Football has become his secondfavorite sport behind lacrosse, which will eventually help pay for his education at MSU. Most of the scholarship money for lacrosse players is divided up among the juniors and seniors on the MSU roster.

"Lacrosse is like three sports in one," said Smiley, a 3.0 student who scored 23 on the ACT test. "It's like football because of the aggression, soccer because of the running and hockey because of the skilled positions.

The Livonia resident anchored the Shamrocks' defense, generally regarded as the best in the state.

Also playing in front of goalkeeper Bryan Jeffords on the back line of defense were seniors Tom Valenti and Nick Lachapelle.

The defensive-minded Shamrocks finished the 1996 season with a 17-3 record, losing in the Division I state championship game to Birmingham Brother Rice.

Smiley and Jeffords each made the Division I all-state first team and were joined by teammates Dan McClellan, a junior attacker, Steve Mondry, a senior midfielder, and Nick Kaleniecki, a junior defensive midfielder.

Earning second-team honors were Tom Smiley, a senior midfielder and Mike's twin-brother, and Valenti, who will play at the University of Pennsylvania.

As a football player, Smiley recorded 70 tackles, including five sacks, and opened holes on the offensive line for the Shamrocks' rushing attack.

Using a stick as well as his hands and quick feet made him even more effective in lacrosse.

"He is very physical and has a great stick," said CO coach Scott Tynan, the Division I all-state Coach of the Year. "With him, it was like having another coach on the field."

Smiley didn't begin playing organized lacrosse until his freshman year at CC, but he and his twin brother were introduced to the sport at an early age. Their older brother Jim and cousins Mark and Jeff Schwartz also played for the Sham-

As quickly as Dana Orsucci has risen as both a teacher and coach at Detroit-Redford Catholic Central. it's hard to believe he'll only be attending his 5-year high school reunion in November.

The 23-year-old Orsucci just finished his first school year as a full-time history and Spanish teacher at his alma mater. Last week, he was named the Shamrocks' varsity boys soccer coach after one season as the freshman coach.

It's the kind of Dana Orsucci stuff someone would talk about at a 10 or 15 year reunion.

"I learned a great deal there and it's nice to give back," said Orsucci, a Livonia resident who graduated from CC in 1991. "Sometimes I walk down the halls, pass my old locker thinking I'm still a student. It seems like it was just yesterday, but then I realize I'm on the other side now.

"A big part of why I'm a teacher is because of the teachers I had there. They exemplify dedication to the profession. How they yearn for their students to learn, learn, learn."

Learning is something Orsucci is anxious to do as a first-year head Orsucci started four years at Kalamazoo College after earning All-Observer first team honors as a senior at CC. His playing career spans 18 years and he has coached for several more at various levels in both metro Detroit and Kalamazoo.

"I figured if not now, when? What else am I waiting for?" he said, "It's going to be a learning experience."

Orsucci said Kevin Tuite, a varsity assistant under LaJoy, plans on remaining in the same capacity. Also expected back is junior varsity coach Aaron Brown, who played on Livonia Stevenson's Class A state champion team in 1988.

Orsucci said he learned a lot from watching LaJoy, whose teams won two Catholic League championships. The varsity was 10-5-3 last year, while Orsucci's freshman team had a 4-6-3 record and the junior varsity was 11-1-2.

"He's an unbelievable man, patient, understanding, and had a great will to win," Orsucci said. "Just observing as a freshman coach, how he handled situations. that came up, I learned a lot from him."

The last three soccer coaches at CC. Paul Scicluna, John Boots and LaJoy, didn't work at the school. Being employed as a teacher at CC adds to Orsucci's impressive resume, according to athletic director Bob Santello.

"He is a young man full of enthusiasm, knowledge of the game, with a Catholic Central background," Santello said. "We are very excited that he will take the reigns as head coach and also that he will be in the build-

By day, you'll see the two working as car porters in the dealership located off I-275 and Ann Arbor Road. By night, the two suit up for

Hines Park in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (under the new lights at Ford Field). Both play for St. Andrew's Presbyterian University, an NGAA Division II member in Laurinberg, N.C.

McCollum, a first baseman and third baseman, and Beam, a catcher, were teammates the past two years of shortstop Gary Pierce (Westland John Glenn), whose father Gary is the coach of Hines Park. St. Andrew's finished the year

34-12, losing to the University of Tampa in the NCAA Division II regional tourney. Pierce hit :408 in his final season at St. Andrews. He is trying to earn a spot with Springfield (Ill.) in the Frontier League, a Class A Independent circuit.

Gary Jr. recommended to his dad that he give his two North Carolina teammates a look for his summer team. Gary Sr. scouted the two during the conference tournament in Florida.

"These two kids really didn't have a place to play in the summer and my son Gary made some good friendships when he played last summer in Cape Cod (Mass.)," Gary Sr. said. "We lost seven kids off our team from last, year. We lost Juan Sanchez (Redford Catholic Central/Detroit Mercy) and we needed a catcher. Stacey said he was interested, too, and he came up. And Mike Kolb (of Hines Park) got them both jobs so they could make BASEBALL some money."

Although Gary's wife Kathy has to make a few extra trips to the grocery, store, it's been a pleasurable experience housing the two players.

"Both have done well," Gary Sr. said. "They're great kids and the only thing I have to worry about is feeding them. They're good Hines Park is also having ban-

"I used to play short stick during winter leagues because I didn't want to lug bigger sticks around," Smiley said.

Smiley will join an MSU team that finished the 1996 season with an 8-4 overall record, including a 2-2 record in the Great Western Lacrosse League.

After starting the season with two losses, the Spartans reeled off seven-straight wins, including a 13-12 overtime victory over Rutgers.

go up and give him help."

Kalnecki and McClellan should be the backbone of the Shamrocks' '97 team, expected to be stronger than this year's team.

"The season coming up is going to be phenomenal," said CC assistant coach Mark Schwartz, who played on the Shamrocks' only lacrosse state champion team in 1988. "We were midwest champs that year. We only have one (state title) and we're trying to get another (banner) up there."

John Rourhoff added to the 13hit attack by going 3-for-3. Davis had three stolen bases.

Anagnostopoulos pitched five strong innings, allowing just two hits while fanning six. Dave Wampler fanned two of the three batters he faced in the sixth to close out the victory.

Livonia Travel wins

Derek Fox's two-run double capped a rally in the bottom of the 10th to give Livonia Travel a 6-5 victory over the Wayne Bandits in an LCABF Mickey Mantle-age (15-16 year-olds) Closed Division game last week.

Mark Mink (Livonia Stevenson) started the rally with a single, followed by a single by Corey Cook (Livonia Churchill) and a hit-batsmen to Bob Malek (Redford Catholic Central), setting the stage for Fox's heroics.

The Farmington High standout went 4-for-5 on the day and was the winning pitcher.

In the third, Dale Hayes (Westland John Glenn) and Roy Rabe (Stevenson) each singled. Both runners came home on Mink's double. Fox then singled home Mink.

Wayne knotted the game at 4-4 in the sixth on a Livonia infield error, a stolen base and an RBI single.

Jeremy Alt (Wayne) was the losing pitcher before being relieved by Lightle in the 10th.

Earlier in the week, Livonia outslugged South Farmington, 18-11, as Justin Draughn was the winning pitcher.

Livonia Travel is now 10-3 in the LCABF.

The team's top hitters are Rabe (.454) and Rogowski (.392).

1-man attack

It was a one-man show Monday when the Falcons faced off against the Wildcats in a Metro Summer Hockey. League match at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Fortunately for the Falcons, that one man - Jesse Hubenschmidt, a Redford-Detroit Catholic Central graduate - was on their side...

Hubenschmidt burned the Wildcats for five goals and assisted on another to lead the Falcons to a 6-4 triumph. Hubenschmidt was aided in great part by Dan Hunt, who drew four assists. David Scott contributed a goal and an assist for the Falcons.

The Wildcats, who twice pulled to within a goal in the third period, got a goal and an assist from Bobby Davis; three assists from Antoli Buliga; and single goals from Bob Nagy, Joe Joseph and Jody Serecky.

Nagy's goal with 4:42 left in the last period trimmed the Falcons' lead to 5-4, but Hubenschmidt's fifth marker with 2:39 left iced it.

Lancers, Lasers stay unbeaten at 4-0

The Livonia Lancers improved to 4-0 in the Incredible Girls Fast Pitch Softball League with Thursday's double-header sweep over the Broncos, 5-4 and 12-2.

Each game ended after five innings because of the time limit.

The Lancers won the first game behind the one-hit pitching of Melanie Grewe, who struck out 10 and walked two. The Lancers had eight hits, mostly by bunts, by eight different batters. They also stole eight bases.

Rebecca Pawlick was the winning pitcher in the second game, scattering three hits with three strikeouts and two walks. Pawlick also scored two runs and had a double.

Jen Dudas scored a run and Wolfe, Kelly Young and Kristin Kmett each collected two hits in the nightcap as the Lasers rolled in a three-inning mercy-rule victory.

The Lasers scored 15 in the first, four in the second and closed it out with three in the third.

Wolfe (2-0) did not give up a hit, struck out two and walked two in gaining the victory.

Finesse settles for 2nd in slo-pitch tourney

The Finesse Under-14 girls travel softball team finished runnerup at the United States Slo-pitch Softball Association Smokey Baker's All American Girls Youth National Invitational Tournament last weekend in Cincinnati, Ohio.

It turned out their toughest opponent was bad weather, which canceled the championship game against the Apex Hornets with the score tied at 5.5.

The Hornets were crowned champions because they had brought an undefeated record into the championship round.

Finesse had a 4-1-1 overall record, but had to settle for second place because it was in the loser's bracket at the time play was suspended. Finesse fell into the loser's bracket with a 13-2 loss to the Hot Shots in the second round.

Finesse opened play with an 8-3 win over the Bombers. They followed their loss with a 10-8 win over the Hit 'n Misses, a 13-5 victory over Wazie and a 12-11 win over the Hot Shots in a rematch of their earlier battle.

Sarah Lewis, Tracy Hudson and Angela Bako, all from Garden City, were named to the all-tournament team for their outstanding defensive play.

Unique school choice offered in Orion sub

People who buy in the second phase at Silverbell Oaks, a single family site condominium community in Orion Township, have a choice between which public school district to send their children.

About half of the 121 lots in the subdivision off Silver Bell Road east of Lapeer Road are in the Lake Orion district, half in Rochester.

Beyond that, buyers can choose from among three floor plans offered by Tri-Mount.

Prices start at $249,900 for a 2,800-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms, $263,900 for a Cape Cod of 2,700 square feet with the master on the first floor and two bedrooms upstairs, and $284,900 for a 3,100-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms.

A fourth plan, a smaller, four-bedroom colonial, is on the drawing board.

"We especially liked the location and proximity to the park (Bald Mountain Recreation Area) ... and the fact lots are so large," said John Vincenti, Tri-Mount president.

We wanted to be established in the area because it's such a fastmoving area," he said. "It's a sub we wanted to get in some six to eight months ago but, due to weather and trade delays, it pushed us back." Explosive business growth along the I-75 corridor in northern Oakland County makes this a good time for residential builders there.

"I think the Lake Orion area is very strong, one of the strongest in Michigan," said Gary Coogan, Tri-Mount sales rep.

"We're in close proximity to 1-75 and high-tech businesses. We're close to the Chrysler Tech Center and large companies moving in-We're close to where a lot of people

"I think it's going to be move-up buyers from areas like Rochester Hills, Troy, Sterling Heights," Coogan floor laundry and basement are said. "We're anticipating a pretty good percentage of transferee buyers, maybe as much as 35 to 40 percent,"

Coogan projects that half of the buyers in Silverbell Oaks will have built before, while it will be a new experience for the other half. Visitors love the site, he said.

"The like the location, the fact it's a rolling terrain, that a great deal of lots have trees," Coogan said. "And the size of the lots. The smallest is 110 by 150. Rolling terrain gives us the ability for walk-out basements and daylight basements."

The on-site model, a 2,800-squarefoot colonial, features a library, living room, dining room, family room and kitchen/nook with island.

Wood windows cut your energy bill

The average annual operating expense for a house bulk in the 1990s is $1,874, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. In a house built before 1960, that number jumps to $4,384 a year, with utility costs representing a large percentage of that total.

Today's smart homeowners are looking for ways to reduce their operating expenses. A consumer survey conducted by Professional Builder magazine found that 66 percent of people surveyed would spend $2,000 extrato save $250 a year in energy costs.

"Homeowners are looking for options to. improve energy efficiency in the summer," says Bob Kerr of Pella Window & Door Co., the local representative of Pella Windows and Doors. The most advanced wood windows feature multiple layers of low emissivity (low-E) coating, which allows them to perform better in milder climates. The low-E coating reflects a high percentage of the sun's heat rays, keeping them from entering the home and causing heat gain.

Features other than glass can also be considered for energy efficiency, Kerr adds. "In addition to glass features, it is also important to consider framing materials," Kerr says. "Wood windows are more energy efficient than aluminum because wood is a natural insulator." The Wood Products Promotion Council reports wood is 1,770 times more efficient as an insulator than alu-

Homes sales expected to level off

By John D McClain Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) _ Sales of previously owned homes tied a record in May, but analysts expect both new and existing home sales to cool slightly this summer.

"Sales should fall some in the second half of the year, but ... still will be stronger than last year," said David Berson, chief economist for Fannie Mae, the nation's largest source of home mortgage funds.

Q: The concrete walk in the corner of our L-shaped house has settled to a slope of 3 or 4 inches. The slope causes rainwater to seep into the surface of the paint crawl space. Can we top this walk with a thin layer of concrete, or will it crumble?

A: You have three choices: replace the slab, top it with a layer of concrete, or lift it up and fill in under it. There are two ways a homeowner can lift a slab. If the edge of the slab is accessible, you can use a pry bar. If the edge is not accessible, or it's too big to pry up, you can jack it up.

Span across the slab with two 2-by-4s placed on edge. Bore holes through the 2by-4s and through the concrete slab (rent a hammer drill if need be). Take some threaded rod as all (known thread) and put a spring-loaded wing on the end of each. Push the through each hole in the 2-by-4s and into the holes in the slab. Put a washer and nut on top of each rod and thread the nut down. Drive the rod down, with a hammer if necessary, until the wings open under the slab. Be sure to put the nuts on the threaded rod before driving the rod down. Driving the rod will mushroom the threads and make it difficult to thread the nuts on the rod.

Tighten the nuts against the 2-by-4s to jack the slab up. Then pour a slurry of cement, sand and water through the open holes in the slab to fill the void underneath. Turn the rod out of the nuts when the filler under the slab has set up a little. Patch the holes, and the job is done.

Q: What's the best way to store partly used cans of paint without having them develop a skin on the surface?

A: Here are several solutions that have worked for us: 1. Store the can upside down.

2. Cut a piece of wax paper the same diameter as the inside of the can and drop it down on top of the paint. When you are ready to paint again, simply remove the paper and the paint under it will be ready to stir up and use without lumps or pieces of dried paint skin to strain out. 3. Blow into the can before you put the lid on it. The carbon dioxide in your Berson predicted a dip first in new ing to the Federal Home Loan Morthome sales reports, which are based on contract signings and thus reflect current mortgage rates. That will be followed by a slowing in existing sales, which are based on actual closings and reflect lower rates that existed a month or two earlier.

"As recent upticks in interest rates impact the market, we expect (existing) sales will cool off some during the summer months," agreed Art Godi, president of the National Association of Realtors. "But the market's health is not in any jeopardy."

The Realtors reported Tuesday that sales of previously owned single-family homes rose 1.4 percent to a seasonally adjusted 4.26 million annual rate in May, matching the record set in December 1993.

The advance was the third in four months. Sales were unchanged at a 4.20 million rate in April. Many analysts had expected a decline to a 4.13 million rate in May.

Berson noted that mortgage applications for home purchases remain strong despite rising rates.

Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages averaged 8.07 percent in May, up from 7.93 percent in April but well below the 9.15 percent average in January 1995, accordgage Corp.

"Despite increases during the past six months, mortgage rates remain affordable enough that they should not significantly dampen the. housing market," he contended.

"With modest inflation over the remainder of the year and an expected drop in interest rates later in the year, we expect 1996 still should be the fourth-best year ever in terms of (overall) housing activity," he said.

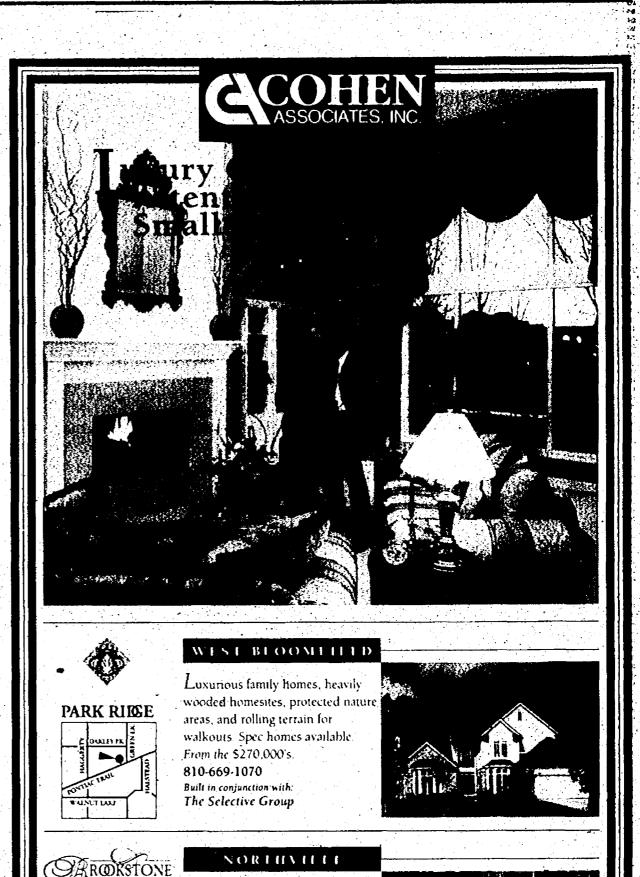

The Realtors are forecasting 3.834 million existing sales this year, up from 3.802 million in 1995 but off the 3.946 million pace of Sales in May were up 17.7 percent from the May 1995 rate of 3.62 million. That left an inventory of just 2.12 million, representing a sixmonth supply at the May sales rate.

The median price of an existing home was $117,400, up from $116,500 in April and $109,100 a year earlier. The median is the midpoint, meaning half of the homes cost more and half less.

Regionally, sales jumped 6.7 percent in the Midwest to a 1.12 million annual rate. The median price there was $99,200. Sales also rose in the South, up 2.6 percent to a $1.57 million rate. The median price was $102,000. But they fell 4.1 percent to a 930,000 rate in the West, where the median price was $151,000, and 1.5 percent to a 640,000 rate in the CUSTOM CALLING: The Dimango Products Corporation of Brighton has introduced four wireless doorbell I door chime models that allow do-it-yourselfers to match the doorbell or chime housing with a room's decor. The patented units feature a snap-out front panel that can be painted or wallpapered to match surrounding walls. When the panel is snapped back in, the finished units have a custom, decorator look. All of the models offer a 150-foot operating range and different ding-dong and dong sounds to distinguish front and back doors. Two models also let users choose from 11 additional sounds and songs ("Westminster Chime," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "Happy Birthday," "Auld Lang Syne," "Joy to the World" and six other popular songs for special occasions or holidays). The sound is selected on the front of the button, allowing users to change to a different sound any time, in seconds, and identify each door with a special sound. Dimango's doorbell I door chimes are sold at home center chains and other major retailers. Prices range from $24.95 to $44.95. For more information, call (800) DIMANGO.

Mallets ready for croquet on the 4th

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Get out your hoops, pegs and mallets – and prepare yourself for roquets and rolls this 4th of July. The picturesque, mild-mannered game of croquet is often long forgotten. With complete sets in holders left to collect dust in the attic, or set outside tagged for the upcoming garage sale – pull the tags and get out the dust cloths, it's time to revive this old classic.

Combine a day of croquet with a berry filled luncheon - perfect festive summer combination. Embellish your outdoors (backyard, patio, gazebo or porch) with red, white and blue 4th or July decorations. Ribbon, flags and streamers all make for a festive look. Develop your luncheon menu with lots of berries. While your own fruiting plants may not yet be fruiting, there will be many choices in your local fruit markets. Strawberries, blackberries. raspberries and blueberries are not only the perfect summer flavors but also the ideal colors (from crimson red to deep blue-purple) for Independence delicious dressing for a chicken-fruit salad. Strawberries and raspberries served simply with cream, whipped cream, sour cream and creme fraiche are simply delicious! There's always strawberry shortcake, creme brulee topped with fresh berries, a berry triffle, strawberries paired with rhubarb, a New England Berry Buckle, cold berry soup, a berry flan, berry sorbets, blueberry cobbler, raspberry mousse or the typical haute cuisine of raspberry coulis on almost anything that's edible.

A berry flavored yogurt makes for a

BERRY BUCKLE

A common dish found in New England – this can be made with raspberries, blackberries or the dewberry (a relative to the blackberry). Ingredients for the batter:

1/2 stick butter or margarine

1/3 cup sugar

1 large egg

Pinch of salt

1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder

1 cup flour

1/3 cup milk

Ingredients for the filling

1 3/4 pounds berries (any type)

3/4 - 1 cup sugar

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 cup sugar

1/2 stick butter or margarine

4 tablespoons flour

In a large mixing bowl, mix the 1/2 stick butter or margarine with the sugar until soft. Add the egg and mix well. Sift together the dry ingredients (salt, baking powder, and flour) and add to the butter mixture. Add the milk and mix thoroughly. Place this batter in a well greased oven-proof dish. Mix together the berries of choice and the sugar – use a rubber spatula, as to keep the berries in tact. Spread the berries over the batter and sprinkle with cinnamon:

In a separate bowl mix together the topping ingredients — mix until consistency appears crumbly. Sprinkle the topping over the filling. Bake the buckle at 350 degrees for approximately 30 minutes or until the topping is slightly browned.

*Cook's note: The cake-like mixture below the berries "buckles" upwards dure ing the baking process.

CREME FRAICHE

₹1 cup heavy cream

1 tablespoon buttermilk

In a glass jar, combine the heavy cream and the buttermilk - Jid the mixture and shake for at least 8 hours. Make sure the mixture is thick. The creme fraiche will keep for four weeks if refrigerated, Yield; approximately one cup.

POACHED/GRILLED) CHICKEN-FRUIT SALAD WITH BERRY/YOGURT DRESSING

This recipe is basic - prepare as desired - amounts are discretionary, Poach or grill chicken - use white or dark meats, or a combination. Set aside the meat. Cut up fruit - as many types as desired. I usually use apples, grapes and bananas - sometimes I will do just tropical fruits, let your mood and theme guide your choice. Wash different types of lettuce (romain, bibb, lcaft and other salad ingredients such as cucumbers, jicama, celery. In a separate bowl mix together plain yogurt (lew fat or no fat if you choose) and pureed berries you can also place the yogurt and berries in a food processor and process untilsmooth. Remember to use as many berries as you desire, to taste. Toss your salad greens; vegetables, fruit and chicken - toss lightly with the berry-yogurt dressing. Serve well chilled.

Concerns over asbestos hit home

Asbestos is a mineral that has excellent binding qualities. It s a long-lasting, dependable material that isn't soluble in water and has been used successfully in building products, components and insulations for many decades. Asbestos was used in more than 2,500 different products.

In the 1960s, concerns surfaced about asbestos and its relationship to some cancers. Workers in some industries as well as miners were developing cancers caused by asbestos in the air they were breathing. These cancers affect the lungs and respiratory system. Once it was determined that asbestos could have a negative impact on the health of people who are exposed, the production of asbestos was banned for use as building materials, insulation, etc. Production of asbestos ceased in 1973 and its installation was banned after 1978.

The main concern with the ACM is its condition. If the material is friable, which means the asbestos fibers can become airborne, it should be mitigated. Mitigation occurs in two forms: removal and encapsulation. Encapsulation involves sealing the asbestos off. The mitigation process is very specific and the cost isn't much higher for removal than it is for encapsulation.

Removal requires the following:

1. Prepare the area with positive air- Birmingham 48009.

flow to the exterior to capture and discharge airborne particles to exterior. Small asbestos particles can remain airborne for days in still air.

2. Wet down the ACM as well as adjacent areas of concern, such as the floor.

3. Isolate the areas and the ACM. This is typically accomplished by building a plastic tent around part of the subject area. The tent is moved to isolate other areas with ACM as needed.

4. A proper respirator should be worn to capture the smaller ACM particles. Goggles and disposable coveralls should also be worn

5. Removed ACM is captured in bags, transported in trucks designed for this use, and disposed of at designated hazardous waste locations.

6. The mitigator removes coveralls and then showers in a plastic tent in the mitigation area.

7. Air testing is performed after removal and cleanups to determine if there are asbestos particles in the air.

The cost for removal is specific to the contractor. However, in a residential situation, removal can be accomplished for $500 to $2.500 in most instances.

GROUNDS FOR DISCOVERY

STORY BY MARTY FIGILEY SPECIAL WRITER

he first thing you'll notice as you approach Jerry DeBusschere's garden is the riotous colors of marigolds in front of white blooming yucca plants.

His is just one of six gardens open when the Troy Branch of the Woman's National Farm & Garden Association presents its 22nd annual garden walk, "Stepping Out With Flowers," Wednesday, July 10.

Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 6-8:30 p.m. There will also be a craft boutique, and refreshments at each location. Proceeds are donated to various public horticultural activities.

Tickets may be bought on the day of the walk for $10 at 2692 Coral, between John R and Dequindre in Troy. (Take Marble south off Square Lake to Coral.)

DeBusschere has gardened at this location for 10 years. It was formerly an orchard and has absolutely no resemblance to that.

The back yard is filled with 300 plants in pots. Every year each is taken into the small. greenhouse for the winter.

"It's the ultimate pot garden," DeBusschere said. "The focus of the garden was to separate the garden into a tropical rain forest and a desert."

As you stand on the bridge and walk down into the garden, white peonies and red geraniums line the steps and on either side are 40 different species of tiger hlies. The steps lead to a brick patio that provides a visual and actual barrier between the two areas. In the center of the patio, bougainvilleas stand tall and are surrounded by miniature dahlias and pink carpet roses. A sundial is a reminder of the passing

Many of the plants in the gardens were collected in the wild; others were air-freighted from other countries. They have come from all the continents. Some are endangered species and DeBusschere carefully tends them and takes cuttings to the Mojave Desert in southern California, where he is reestablishing them to their native habitat.

The plants in the desert include yucca plants and yucca trees, occitillo (tall and skinny) cinnamon beaver tail, giant saguaro and many varieties of palms. The hundreds of plants are artfully placed in island beds amid 34 tons of rocks!

The desert is never watered. DeBusschere fashions a hard plastic collar over the plant pot to divert rain water. Fertilizer is applied once a month. DeBusschere's favorite in the desert garden is a blue agave (a century plant) that is 28 years old and weighs 300 pounds. "Arthur" is grown in a huge 22-inch pot.

The tropical garden contains two ponds with Koi swimming gracefully in them. Many kinds of palms grow here: Blue, sago, date, Mexican and Chinese fan palms and a Mediterranean palm as well as other tropical beauties. DeBusschere hand waters the rain forest as required and fertilizes these plants every two weeks.

DeBusschere, who has degrees in botany and biology, uses standard potting soil and composted manure, which "just knocks them out." All the plants in the garden receive Miracle-Gro, Muiracid and orchid food.

And this isn't all you will find in the garden. A back wall of the bridge will contain a large grouping of orchids. In mid-April canna bulbs were put in pots and when they were 12 to 18 inches tall, DeBusschere set them outside to bloom in time for this garden tour.

A shady side yard has been transformed into a peaceful garden with hostas, tiger lilies and Bergournia, the beds separated by winding chip paths.

"I've been gardening since day one, I like things beautiful."

GARDEN SPOT

Follow these peaceful garden paths dens. They lead us through them without getting our shoes wet and muddy and guide us to particular treasures that the homeowner wants visitors to see. A bench at one end could provide a resting place, or an art object would be

Paths are an important part of gar- a nice focal point. Paths can be either areas into different moods or themes. manner, or straight and precisely curved for a more formal design.

Paths also divide parts of the garden into manageable spaces, divide vegetables from flowers or separate garden twisty and meandering in a relaxed They also make it easier to weed and cultivate the plants without stepping on them.

When you plan a path for your garden, make it wide enough so that it is a comfortable "fit." Draw a design on paper, or lay newspaper on the ground to define the path. Black plastic under your chosen material (bricks, stones, gravel, wood planking, or wood chips) will deter weeds. Be aware of the style and colors of your home so that the material harmonizes. An edging, especially if the path is to be mown grass, will help keep plants from growing into the grass or grass from infringing on the plants' territory.

Selection

Plants grown along the garden path will soften the look and also guide garden strollers. There are many interesting plants from which to choose, from annuals and bulbs to perennials.

If the area is shady, begonias are suitable, as are small hostas, ferns (especially Japanese painted), purple flowered lobelia and caladiums or astilbes. Herbs such as lady's mantle or sweet woodruff also are good choices. Bulbs are fine for early spring color and a shady path can be brightened at that time by their use. When the bulbs finished blooming, annuals can replace the bulbs and continue the color. Begonias impatiens would be a good choice here. Sunny paths can be lined with marigolds, salmon-flowered diascia. moss rose, petunias (look for a new dwarf species, "Blaze," or the new Fantasy series). Blooms of Bressingham has introduced a pink-flowered strawberry that is "an easy-spreading ground cover that brightens the landscape. This Fragrant Pink Panda has semievergreen foliage, large pink flowers and a tasty fruit," the press release said. It might work well as an edging and may be hardy here.

Alyssum is a favorite of mine and blooms in either purple, white or a mixture of both colors. It does often reseed and adds a special look to a garden path. Dahlberg daisy, blue ageratum, silvery dusty miller and diascia also like a sunny situation.

Iris or daylilies are also wonderful edging plants that not only provide beautiful flowers but have foliage that is attractive even after the flowers are

Lining looks

A fun idea might be to line a path to a vegetable garden with lettuces and flowering cabbages and kales. Lettuce is easily grown from seed and the many varieties on the market today will provide much interest during the season. As one crop is used up another one can be sown for a different color picture. The cabbages and kales will keep their color throughout the season well into fall. Annual basils, both with green and purple foliage, would add spice.

If a more formal look is desired, you may want to consider grey santolina or lamb's ears, both are perennials. Santolina can be clipped into a hedge-like form, as can green-leafed boxwood. The look of boxwood left in its own normal growth pattern rather than a trimmed hedge is an appealing sight. .

Keep in mind that annuals can be changed the next year if you didn't achieve the look originally intended. Gardening is always changing and even though an edging of perennials isn't exactly to your liking, they can always be moved to another place in the garden and you can always try another type of plant.

Gardening is a constant learning experience. The reward is when something really works. There is a wide choice of suitable

is a pretty plant for the edge of a path.

TIMELY GARDEN TIPS

- Continue to remove spent blooms on flowers to assure continuous color through these summer months on annuals and promote re-bloom on perennials.
- · Continue weeding. To avoid disturbing roots weed after a rain.

Designers put their seal on products

STONE LEVY

When you are shopping you will note many of the wellknown clothing designers have their labels on all manner of merchandise.

Whether it is sheets or towels, china, kitchen appliances or dozens of other household items, they put their stamp on them.

We have become inured to this practice because it is so commonplace; we like it. It is akin to a seal of approval, the more prestigious the designer's name, the better.

Ralph Lauren is one that appears everywhere. He encompasses furniture, accessories and linens. He is the consummate designer, and we know he wouldn't lend his name to an inferior product. Predominantly his influence is from the Southwest, but isn't American Indian in character.

Another recognizable product line is Laura Ashley, whose fabrics, wallpapers, furniture and carpeting cover the marketplace, and are totally unrelated to Ralph Lauren's work. Hers is dainty, whimsical and very ladylike.

Bill Blass has introduced an ultra-sophisticated and singular group of towels and bed linens, which bespeaks his stature in the world of design.

Another recognizable name is Adrieane Vittadine, whose tasteful additions to the home field resonate a powerful designer.

Paloma Picasso has a recognizable insignia. An enlarged graceful X says "Oh yes! She approves!" without a line being written or a word spoken. Her items are also quite sophisticated.

Calvin Klein is a minimalist in every area, and he has loaned his name to dozens of products, no doubt handsomely paid for these endorsements. His sparse furnishings are never overdone. I love it!

A designer chair or sofa or table or 644-1314.

lamp elicits quick approbation. You or I may not even like the piece, but we are willing to accept same because they say "It is OK." And so we are primed to buy said items.

What does this say for us, the consumer? Playing "follow the leader" makes us sheep? I am not being critical, however. I do it all the time, because I feel I am being directed well. These are unparalleled designers.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Preserve wipers with alcohol rub

JOE GAGNON

We as consumers have so much to gain by listening to others who have some simple cures for everyday problems. It makes me wonder how many people have purchased a new set of windshield wipers for their car, when they really didn't need them.

You certainly don't want to drive your vehicle when you can't see properly especially during a rain storm. Most information on auto maintenance tells you to change wipers every do many miles etc. The outlets for purchasing wiper blades across this country must number into the millions. I would bet that windshield wiper blades are a billion dollar industry and yet this writer has never purchased new ones in the past 10 years.

I was listening to a radio show 10 years ago when I heard America's Master Handyman mention a cure for a streaking windshield. He said that the wipers had absorbed the limit of grime, road dirt, bugs etc. and that the cure was to wipe them with a rag soaked in denatured alcohol available from your local hardware store. Wipe them and keep doing so until the rag is clean which means you have removed all the gunk that was absorbed in the blade. Your blades are now just like new.

Before I give you the second half of this conversation, let me give you a fact about my driving habits. When I'm driving in a rain storm and cars are pulled over on the shoulder, I'm in the passing lane because I may be the only one who can see past the windshield. I have many times driven my car during a light rain where as I don't even engage the wipers. You, who are reading this column can do the same if you will listen to the second half.

Wash your windshield using warm water and a bar of Bon Ami soap and make sure your windshield is perfectly clean. Use a product called Rain X to coat your windshield. This treatment will last several weeks and can also be beneficial during winter driving months. Not only will it save you the cost of wiper blades, it will allow you to speed down the passing lane during rain storms. The next time a sweet little old lady passes me on the expressway, I'll look over and say, "There goes another Observer & Eccentric reader."

Note: In the past few weeks there was an open forum held in Livonia on Bill No. 5833. The Appliance Repair Act sponsored by state Rep. Lyn Bankes. There will be another hearing in Lansing during the month of September of which I will announce the date later. I am inviting any consumer who wants to attend to please drop me a note or call me and I will make arrangements for transportation even if I have to rent a Greyhound bus. Any person who has had service on a major home appliance and would like to testify as to their feelings on the service should be a part of this opportunity come this September. You need to stand up and be counted. Only then can we change things for the better.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Calendar could feature your pet

Michigan MVPs (Most Valued Pets, that is) will be the stars of the Michigan Humane Society's 1997 desk calendar. Animal lovers from across the Metro Detroit area will have the opportunity to feature Fido (or Fluffy) and support the homeless animals of Michigan Humane Society.

The Pet Planner desk calendar project is being coordinated by the Michigan Humane Society Council, the newly formed fund-raising arm of the Michigan Humane Society.

Council chair Lil Erdeljan has high hopes for this special project. "People love the idea of photographing their pets and contributing to such a worthy cause. In fact, we've sold a few photos as gifts. This is truly a gift that keeps on giving."

Each week the 8-inch by 8-inch spiral bound desk calendar will feature a new pet. Noted photographers have donated their services for this project including Susan Kyle Browne, Don Sayles Studio and Seeger People in Birmingham. Photographers will go to the homes of those who purchase Pet Planner pages and take a photo of their pets. Photos of family pets, owners with their pets and photos of sponsored MHS sheltered animals are permitted. All photos will appear in black and white. Full pages are available for $500, half pages for $250 and quarter pages for $75.

The council plans to debut the Pet Planner at the MHS fall fund-raiser, "Bark in the Dark," chaired by Yvonne McCready, Oct. 11 at the Townsend Hotel in Birmingham.

For more information, call the MHS Development Department at 313-872-3400, ext. 319.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Oh, deer, deerl: Shooting against a dramatic sunrise near Blanding, Utah, provided Monte Nagler with this impact-filled picture of three silhouetted deer.

Sunrise/sunset shots?

NAGLER

beautiful and unforgettable images awaiting your camera are sunrises and sunsets. They color, rich in tones, striking in composition and easier to obtain than you might think.

Here are some hints to help you capture drama and impact in your sunrise/sunset pictures.

 Use a long telephoto lens when you want to make the sun appear like a giant ball of fire, and a normal or wide angle lens when you wish to accent a colorful sky or a vast cloud formation surrounding the sun.

• Place foreground subjects in the viewfinder to "frame" your picture and give it foundation. Subjects can be trees, buildings, boats or even people. Because you meter off the sky, all foreground subjects will appear as black silhouettes that in turn will add a dramatic quality to your shot.

 Remember to take your exposure reading off the sky next to the sun. Make an exposure at this setting and take a couple more at progressively smaller apertures. You'll find that by underexposing in this manner, your pictures will have deeper, bolder and richer colors.

 Try using color slide film instead of color negative film. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the more saturated colors you'll obtain. Then, you can have enlargements made from your favorite

• Pay close attention to your horizons. Make absolutely certain that they

Among the most are running horizontal across the viewfinder. A tilting horizon can be very distracting.

 While sunrise/sunset photographs in themselves can be excitingly colorcan be dazzling in, ful, the use of a colored filter will further enhance your shot. Imagine a descending sun surrounded by a dramatic cloud pattern photographed through an orange or red filter. You'll be delighted with the results.

> • If you want to eliminate lens flare, make sure you use a lens shade. However, don't overlook the possibility that lens flare can, at times, add an esthetic dimension to your photograph.

• You don't always have to place the direct sun in your picture. Wait until the sun dips behind a dark cloud and then capture the sunbeams as they spill to the ground below. Or wait until the sun has totally descended and see how the sky and clouds invite your camera with their gradually deepening color hues.

A caution: For your eye's safety, avoid looking directly at the sun through the viewfinder. With a little practice, you'll find it easy to place the sun where you desire in your composition without having to look straight at it.

Sunrise/sunset pictures are easy to take. The results will make you feel proud of your photographic abilities and will also give you a sunny disposi-

Forging links: Jim Preston and Jim Courtney, founders of Remerica, have a plan to grow into a national real estate franchise operation.

Remerica sows seeds for growth

BY DOUG FUNKE

The founders of Remerica Real Estate in Plymouth enjoy the challenge of bucking a trend.

As more independent offices affiliate with well-known national franchisers, and more national franchisers come under common corporate ownership, Jim Courtney and Jim Preston go about the work of growing a regional firm into a national player from scratch.

They say they have a lot to offer. "It's more inexpensive to get into it with us, less expensive to stay in," Courtney said. "We expect to franchise like they (the big boys) have, but be run by real estate people, "If there isn't a company like us that comes along, a lot of smaller and mid-size companies are going to be left by the wayside because they're not making an affiliation," Courtney

Remerica currently has about two dozen franchise offices, all-in the metro Detroit area including Plymouth, Westland, Canton, Livonia, Redford and Orion Township, All are individually owned.

¿ Each Remerica franchisee currently pays a start-up fee of $5,000 and 6 percent of gross sales up to $30,000 annually as a service fee and 2 percent of gross sales up to $6,000 per year for advertising.

They get the right to use our name, on-going television and newspaper advertising, training sessions, prelicensing school," Courtney said.

We can take a new broker and get them up and running in a couple of months," Preston said. "We can help pick a location, computerization. We John McArdle, one of the first said. "The support they give you is chisees."

Typically, franchisees pay a startup fee between $20,000 and $35,000 to affiliate with a major real estate franchiser and there are no caps on service and advertising fees, Courtney

But he admits it can be difficult tude when they met. persuading potential franchisees to cast their lot with Remerica.

"What we stress is we are more locally involved people like they are,"

We talk to existing independents, disgruntled franchisees from other organizations and start-ups. We know a large part of our business is the independent who's held out (affiliating) and realizes this is passing me by'," Courtney said.

Remerica plans to grow in two ways recruiting individual franchisees in Michigan and selling master franchise rights to real estate brokers or companies who would pay a $100,000 fee to own franchise rights in their

Courtney and Preston have experience in both areas.

Courtney purchased master franchise rights in Michigan from Century 21 in 1974 and opened 230 offices before selling back to the company in "This company is run by real estate people and owned by real estate people," McArdle said. "It was locally owned. They're not owned by another great conglomerate where real estate is just part of their holdings. "They understand when you have a question it's important to you. There's not a lot of bureaucratic red tape," McArdle said. Carol Bird, an independent since 1988, affiliated with Remerica about three years ago. "I was burned out training. The support of other offices is important. As an independent, you are there by yourself," she said. "I did look at national ones. They had training, but you had to go to Lansing, Chicago for the day or Benton Harbor. Remerica has training all

"I think I like some of the independence I get from Remerica," Bird said. "They don't stand over you and dictate, but if you need help or support, they're there. They're big enough to do service, but small enough to be family and care." Tom Mitchell, an owner with Mike Village of Remerica Showcase Realtors, is one of the newest franchisees. "Jim Courtney has been around." He knows what he's doing," Mitchell we do and where we do it."

to give agents an opportunity to make a living. I see it more with Remerica. They're not digging into your pockets all the time."

Corporate's short-term goal is to open one franchise office per month. Longer term, it's to sell master franchise rights in high-volume sales states like Ohio, Illinois, Texas, California and Florida.

Master franchisers will be the local link between their franchisees and corporate.

A public stock offering for part of the company is contemplated a few years down the line to fuel further expansion, Courtney said, with he and Preston maintaining controlling

"We struggled the first few years," Courtney said. "Our revenue stream was more than half a million dollars last year. Now we're able to open a regional office. We're profitable from the sense we're not losing money. We're in the black."

"I used to be in the construction field then got into a car accident,' Preston said. "A friend said, Why not try real estate?' After a year in the business, I became a manager. I loved to help people become successful."

"I found real estate through trial and error," Courtney said, "I liked the ability to work as much as you wanted. I liked the independence. When I was growing up, the home was the most important thing to people." And what of the name Remerica?

"It's simplistic - real estate in America," Courtney said. "It's what

Seek legal advice when buying downsized house

Q: We are interested in downsizing our home. We are in our early 40s with one child in college and one with four years left to graduate high school.

If we sell our principal residence with about $50,000 in capital gains and are in the 28 percent tax bracket, what would we be up against in taxes? What would you suggest?

ROBERT M. MEISNER

A: Obviously, it is difficult to give you any specific tax advice without knowing your entire set of financial circumstances. However, you should be aware of the fact that if you purchase a newsprincipal residence within two years prior to or subsequent to the sale of your old principal residence, you may not have to recognize the capital gain for an indefinite period of time, as long as the purchase price of the new residence exceeds the selling price of

In addition, in both cases, your would be subject to Michigan's Real Estate Transfer Tax.

You are best advised to consult a tax consultant in connection with your matter.

including dog claw marks and teeth marks. Is the association responsible?

A: Most of the time, the condominium documents will require that the co-owner who damages the common elements (assuming that the property is question is a common element), is responsible for reimbursing the association for the damages incurred as a result of such a situation.

In this case, the seller, who is long gone, is no longer readily available to meet its responsibilities.

sue the seller for the damages which it may be required to pay to reimburse the association, although there is no guarantee that the association will be successful in pursuing the purchaser for damages by his predecessor in interest.

Again, it would require the need to review the condominium documents and examine all of the facts to determine what recourse the association has, if any, both in defense of the claim that may be brought by the purchaser against it for repair of the common elements, and whether the association in turn has aclaim against the seller and/or a legitimate defense against the purchaser who bought presumably with his eyes open.

Hot water heaters could be dangerous

(AP) - Q: I have been considering buying an older home. The building inspector has told me that the water heater in the house that I like the best is improperly protected. Does this mean that it will blow up or otherwise create a dangerous condition? How do I find out just what is wrong with it and what do I do to correct it?

A: One problem that building appraisers run into is an improperly protected domestic hotwater heater. To answer your question, your concern about a water heater explosion is correct.

Live steam from the explosion of a tank-type hot-water heater could cause severe damage or, if someone happened to be nearby at the time, serious injury or death.

All tank-type water heaters, whether they are electrically heated, gas fired or oil fired, must have a relief valve that is both temperature and pressure sensitive. Unfortunately, many relief valves are pressure sensitive only and this will not provide you with the needed protection against an explosion.

Should the water heater's thermostat malfunction, the water in the tank could become superheated, meaning it's heated beyond the temperature of 212 degrees Fahrenheit at atmospheric pressure. As the boiling point of water increases, its pressure increases and both combined can weaken a tank and cause it to rupture, or simply exceed its yield strength.

If this happens, the water pressure immediately drops to atmospheric pressure. The superheated water instantly flashes into steam, increases its volume and liberates an amount of energy that can be greater than a pound of nitroglycerin. If the water had not been heated above 212 F, it would not flash into steam and an explosion would be impossible.

Consequently, pressure- and · temperature-sensitive relief valves are designed to prevent the water temperature from exceeding 210 F.

It does this by discharging the overheated water and allowing cooler water to enter the tank, safely lowering the temperature,

It's also important that the BTU-capacity of the relief valve exceed the BTU input of the water heater. If the capacity is less, the relief valve will not be able to discharge the overheated water at the same rate it's produced, resulting in an unsafe condition or possible explosion.

So, you can see that installing a correct relief valve is impor- tant, but it should not be too difficult or expensive. Once this is done, you don't have to worry about an explosion.

Bank offers loans without mortgage insurance

the day you close.

Bank recently announced its new NO MI Mortgage. With an Old Kent No MI Mortgage, mortgage insur-. ance is not required, saving you time and usually money, according? to Patrick Berns, Old Kent assistant vice president. It saves time because you can close your loan faster without having to get approval from an MI company. It saves you money by typically resulting in lower monthly payments and, depending on your tax situation, you could enjoy substantial after-tax savings. Plus, by eliminating expensive MI closing costs, you'll start saving money

Lenders, including Old Kent until recently, have priced mortdownpayment of the value of the home. If a customer elects to obtain a mortgage with less than 20 percent down, "private mort-gage insurance" will be required (in some instances MI is required at even lower LTV's). This insurance premium is paid by the borrower to secure protection in the event of borrower default. Typically, the mortgage insurance premium is added to the borrower's monthly payment. Old Kent's program results in a lower total monthly payment.

The No MI product is available on fixed-rate 10-, 15-, 20- and 30-year loans and 7/23 and 5/25 balloon loans.

While interest rates on other loan offerings may actually be lower, you need to consider the total mortgage payment before deciding which program is better for you. By adding the principal and interest payment plus the mortgage insurance premium together you can see which program is more beneficial. The fol-gages assuming a 20 percent lowing compares the two programs.

Consider a $90,000 loan with 10 percent downpayment.

On a traditional mortgage the interest rate would be 8 percent, a monthly principal and interest of $660.39, with a monthly MI premium of $39, a pre-tax total payment of $699.36 and average after-tax monthly payment of $531.39, assuming a 28 percent tax bracket. With the No MI program you would have an 8.5 percent interest rate, $692.02 monthly principal and interest, no MI, a total pre-tax payment of $692.02 for a savings of $7.37 a month and a total after tax payment of $513.52.

As you can see, even though the interest rate on the Old Kent program is higher, when the total payment is considered you would save about $7 each month. While the amount you save is not large, it is certainly better than paying an extra $7. In addition, when tax consequences are considered, you realize even greater savings.

While traditional mortgage insurance can be canceled when the loan to value reaches 80 percent, your interest rate will not be lowered when this happens. However, it is important to realize just how long it will take to pay your mortgage down to an 80 percent loan to value. In a typical example with a 10 percent downpayment it would take 165 months (nearly 14 years) to pay the loan down to 80 percent. Even if you intend to stay in you home for the full 30 years, it is likely that you might refinance your mortgage sooner than 14 years. In addition, by the time you have reached the 80 percent level you will have saved $7.37 for 165 months or over $1200 on a pre-tax basis.

As shown above, after tax savings are even greater with the No MI loan. The private insurance you pay is not taxdeductible. With the Old Kent program you are essentially paying for the increased risk by having a higher interest rate. As you probably know, mortgage interest is your tax adviser for advice on your specific financial situation). Continuing with our example, you would save nearly $18 each month or $214 each year. By the time you would be able to discontinue traditional mortgage insurance in month 165, you would have saved nearly $3,000 after

Lastly, there is another way you will save with the Old Kent No MI Mortgage, explained Berns. Traditional mortgages with mortgage insurance typically require a deposit at closing equal to two monthly premium payments (2x39=$78 in our example). "Our program will not require that deposit," said Berns.

So, when reviewing all your mortgage options, include the new No MI Mortgage from Old Kent in your considerations. Call me at the number below if you have questions about this or any other mortgage program.

How would this man compose a PERSONAL SCENE ad? E=M(2 Perhaps something like this:

RELATIVELY intelligent physicist looking companion, preferably one who can explain income tax forms.

Personal Scene Ads in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers allow you to record a message in your own voice over the phone. That way when people see your ad in the paper, they can dial your code, hear your message and leave a message of their own. You can call, day or night, to get your messages. It's fast, it's easy, and it helps people Eccentric ad taker and ask about our introductory offer. You might find a friend who will do your taxes. One who is, in theory, relatively intelligent.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

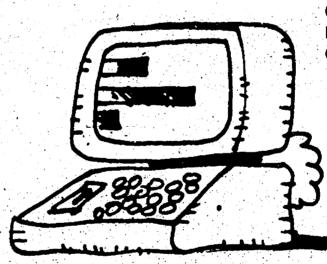

!. Include the price. Don't vaste your time or a potential uyer's time. If you advertise the rice of the item or service you offer, the people who respond o your ad will be those who are renuinely interested. Surveys how that readers are more nterested in those items and ervices they know are within heir price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days.
Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
