Trailblazers hot on board's sale

Residents came out in droves to protest the possible sale of Sassafras Trails by the Wayne-Westland school board. A decision wasn't made, but one is expected at a special meeting on Monday.

BY DARRELL CLEM

Scores of Westland residents Monday packed a Wayne-Westland school board meeting room for a final protest against the potential sale of Sassafras Trails, a 64-acre nature area facing possible residential development.

Nearly 150 people jammed board offices on Marquette, warning that selling Sassafras Trails will damage school officials' credibility and send a wrong message to students that dollars take precedence over the environment.

"We tell them to recycle and respect the earth, but we're going to tear it down and put up a parking lot," Barbara Bovia warned the seven-member board.

Prior to the standing-room-only board meeting, about 75 Sassafras Trails supporters protested in front of school administration offices, waving placards and circulating petitions to save the land that sprawls northeast of Palmer and Wildwood.

Some had anticipated a school board decision, but the issue won't be resolved until a special session scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday. Immediately beforehand, board members are planning a two-hour, closed-door meeting.

"I smell dirt - development dirt,"

Westland resident John Bordas said Monday, also hinting at allegations of nepotism by saying that the sale could mean "a job for somebody's kid

"We need this land and the animals," he concluded.

At issue is whether the board should accept a $520,000 state grant that would protect the land, or sell the heavily wooded area to a developer for as much as $1.4 million.

Wayne resident Cliff Johnson made the only pitch against accepting the state grant offered by the Security drives up cost for student parking

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Wayne-Westland students who drive to high school this fall will face an eightfold-plus increase in parking

Parking sticker costs will jump from $3 to $25 to pay for parking lot attendants at John Glenn and Wayne Memorial high schools.

The new revenues also will pay for school parking lot improvements, Superintendent Duane Moore said.

Wayne-Westland school board members approved the parking sticker increases in a 7-0 vote Monday night, drawing criticism from parent Patricia Ducher.

"I think it's wrong to ask the students to pay the salaries for people to be monitoring the parking lot," she told the board.

The new plan will generate about $20,000 from 800 student parking spaces, including 550 at John Glenn and 250 at Wayne Memorial. The cost of two part-time parking lot attendants will be about $11,520, according to estimates.

But Ducher questioned whether the plan is fair to John Glenn, which will generate twice the revenue of Wayne Memorial.

"I don't think one person at Glenn can handle this job," she said.

In response, Moore indicated that a second attendant could be considered for John Glenn after parking lot improvements are made.

Attendants will be hired in the wake of parking lot problems such as thefts, property damage and parking violations - problems cited

Brown wins school board presidency

BY DARRELL CLEM

In her new post as Wayne-Westland school board president, Patricia Brown has outlined her vision for a district that she said needs increased state funding and voter approval of a local bond issue for classroom technology.

Brown, a longtime Lansing critic entering her fourth year on the board, won the presidency Monday night in a 5-2 vote, beating nominee Mathew McCusker.

Brown, 32, ascended to the board's top post amid support from colleagues Martha Pitsenbarger, David James and board newcomers David Cox and Robin McCusker and Debra Fowlkes cast opposing votes without citing specific reasons.

Brown has repeatedly pointed an accusing finger at state legislators for what she considers a lack of commitment to paying for public education.

Two years ago, she became the only board member to vote against cutting local transportation for students in grades seven through 12.

"I said it then and I'll say it again: I would rather go to jail than cut any more big-ticket items that impact the students of this district," she said in a presidency statement requested by the Observer.

"The big fight was then - and continues to be today - the lack of priority placed on public education," Brown con

Schools of choice

Wayne-Westland sets guidelines, opens doors at 20 of its schools

By Darrell Clem STAFF WRITER

Wayne-Westland officials Monday unveiled schools-ofchoice rules for students seeking to transfer from other districts.

Officials released the guidelines as Superintendent Duane Moore said Wayne-Westland has received "numerous inquiries" from families in other districts.

Officials have said they hope that schools of choice will help offset an annual enrollment decrease of 300 to 400 students.

Wayne-Westland will refuse students who have been expelled or who have more than six days of suspensions in two years.

No transportation will be provided to cross-district students. Wayne-Westland will accept as

Two of four middle schools, namely Adams in Westland and Franklin in Wayne, will accept as many as 18 students each, with six positions available at each grade level.

No schools-of-choice transfers will be accepted at Marshall and Stevenson middle schools in Westland.

All 17 Wayne-Westland elementaries will have some schools-of-choice slots available, depending on the school and the grade level.

Officials have placed a twostudent limit on select elementary classrooms, but Larry Galbraith, executive director of student services, said it's possible the ceiling could be slightly lift-

Westland expects to get more at-risk youth

By Marie Chestney STAFF WRITER

Up until now, students whose actions were bad enough to get them expelled from Livonia's three high schools faced months of having to stay home from

But expelled high school students will now get a second chance to attend school if the Livonia Board of Education Monday joins an alternative education cooperative run by Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

The trustees are expected to approve a one-year agreement which allows Livonia to ship up to 10 expelled high school students next year to a program for at-risk students at Tinkham Center on Venov south of Cherry Hill in Westland.

Enrolling more students is financially helpful to cashstrapped Wayne-Westland because the district will get an extra $6,200 for each additional student it takes in.

But Livonia Public Schools

also benefits from the deal. Livonia will still carry the expelled student on its books. It will pocket the difference between the $6,200 per student it pays Wayne-Westland and the $6.913 per student it gets from the state - about $700. Wayne-Westland will foot all teacher and program costs.

The trustees are expected to approve a oneyear agreement which allows Livonia to ship up to 10 expelled high school students next year to a program for at-risk students at Tinkham Center on Venov south of Cherry Hill in Westland.

Expelled students also benefit. They attend school, even if it is in another district, and do not lose out on up to a year's worth of schooling.

Wayne-Westland has one caveat: It will not accept students expelled for bringing a weapon to school.

All other students are fair game for the program, including students expelled for drug violations, said Steven Smith, assistant superintendent for secondary instruction.

"We don't have a full-time program for incorrigible students," Smith said. "These kids have no place else to go, and we have excluded them. It's an environment they need.'

The program, said Superintendent Ken Watson, shows the conflict that exists today on handling troublesome students.

"One group wants them out of school because they are not behaving. Another group wants them to get an education. If Wayne-Westland will do this, I see no reason to deny it."

In Livonia, expulsions of both middle and high school students occur throughout the school year. For example, in December, the district expelled a Franklin 12th-grader and a Churchill 10th-grader.

In February, it expelled a Stevenson High ninth-grader, an Emerson Middle School eighthgrader, and a Riley Middle School eighth-grader.

The district records the name of each expelled student, but does not give the reason for doing so.

Even with the agreement, middle school students are still left without a place to go. They cannot attend Wayne-Westland's alternative program because it is strictly for high school students.

The Garden City School District is exploring ways to house a similar program for expelled middle school students, Smith

Some parents avoid the stigma of expulsion by voluntarily withdrawing their child from Livonia schools. Watson said. This allows the student to enroll elsewhere without the onus of having been expelled. The one drawback is that the student agrees not to return to Livonia schools.

The agreement with Wayne-Westland expires June 30, 1997, with no guarantee that it will be renewed.

Students who misbehave in the alternative program face getting kicked out once again.

Wayne-Westland will staff the program for 60 students from surrounding districts, with 10 coming from Livonia.

Smith said Livonia is required to bus the students, but expects most of them will provide their own transportation.

Trustee Ken Timmons questioned whether the district should pay to transport expelled students elsewhere.

"We don't have alternatives for these kids," said trustee Pat Tancill. "It's an investment we make on their behalf."

Students who sit out their expulsion in Wayne-Westland can petition Livonia to return when their banishment ends.

Livonia Franklin lights up play field for football/soccer

By Marie Chestney STAFF WRITER

Work is now under way at Livonia Franklin High to install lights on the football/soccer field.

The Livonia Board of Education recently approved spending $116,500 for the lights.

"It will be a four-five week process," said David Watson, director of operations for the district "We're waiting for the materials to come in, after the Fourth. It's an off-and-on thing throughout the summer.

"First thing, we'll be coming across the parking lot with the electricity for the light switches. We should be done by the first of September."

While lights will be up and running, the Franklin Patriots won't play under them on a Friday night until the end of September, their first home game.

Administrators have said the lights are needed to bring in the Friday-night crowds that will generate money for athletic programs and to boost school spirit.

Because Franklin is the only high school in Livonia without an athletic field with lights, football games have long been played on Saturday afternoons.

Some nearby residents initially viewed the lights - and Friday night games - with alarm. The district plans to take the following steps to mitigate their concerns: •All light poles will have a separate switch, so that those not needed can be shut off.

·Loudspeakers will face east, not west, where most of the residents live.

•Franklin Boosters' Club members will attend games to monitor crowd activities. Some residents said they feared Friday night games will lead to loitering, littering, trespassing and extra traffic on subdivision streets. •In the fall, such landscaping as bushes or pine trees will be planted along the west fence line to screen out noise and activity on the field. •Glare shields will control light spilling off the field.

The poles themselves will be steel, not wood.

"Wood poles lean over time and warp when they dry out," Watson said.

Clarenceville plays soccer

No harassment

Gov. John Engler has signed a pair of angler protection laws sponsored by Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Rep. David Jaye, R-Macomb County.

The laws make it a misdemeanor to harass anglers intentionally and provide penalties up to 93 days in jail and a $1,000 fine for a first offense and up to a year in jail and $2,500 fine for a second offense. One also strengthens the hunter harassment law.

Lawmakers acted after animal rights groups announced plans to bother fishermen this sum-

"I am extremely pleased with the overwhelming bipartisan support for these bills," said Geake.

About licenses...

The state Senate passed a bill to raise fishing and hunting licenses on May 23, but it's still languishing in the House Conservation Committee.

Senate Bill-940 would raise total revenue 13.8 percent, from the current $41.1 million to $46.8 million the first year (beginning in March of 1997). Revenue would be raised by like amounts over five years to a total of $16.5 million over the current level.

The Senate vote was 22-14.

Twenty Republicans and two Democrats voted yes, including Republicans Loren Bennett of Canton, Mike Bouchard of Birmingham, Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion, Robert Geake of Northville, Mike Rogers of

Brighton, John Schwarz of Battle Creek and Democrat Alma

Smith of Salem. All nay votes cast by Democrats, including John Cherry of Clio, George Hart of Dearborn and Gary Peters of Bloomfield Township.

The issue became partisan when Democrat Joe Conroy of Flint offered an amendment for zero increases for people 65 and older. Republicans rejected it.

Here are some of the increases proposed for certain licenses: • Fishing from the current $20.70 general fishing and trout. Refer to Senate Bill 940 (S-1) licenses to a single-all-species license of $26 the first year and

Special assessments aren't taxes, Kelley rules

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

A little-noticed attorney general's ruling could cost Michigan property owners more for local improvements.-At least one suburban lawmaker calls it "an out-

Attorney General Frank Kelley ruled that special assessments aren't taxes. Therefore, despite Proposal A of 1994, special assessments may be collected on the "state equalized value" of property rather than the lower "taxable value."

Upshot: Townships, in particular, may be encouraged to finance public improvements by special assessments rather than from the general fund.

For example, a house with a $104,000 market value has a state equalized value (SEV) of 50 percent or $52,000. But if local real estate prices are rising faster than the consumer price index of less than 3 percent, the taxable value may be capped at just $50,000.

The owner pays county, local, school and community college taxes on the basis of taxable value, or $50,000. But special assessments _ often used for streets, sidewalks, water and sewer construction _ would be paid on the SEV, or $52,000.

Kelley based his ruling on a 1958 state Supreme Court deeision in the case brought by St. Joseph Township against the state.

"The millage-based special assessment levied against the taxable value of property would not bear a reasonable relationship to the benefit received," Kelley said (italics added).

In that case, the suburban township levied a two-mill special assessment for fire protec-

"The law is settled that special assessments are not taxes," said Kelley, quoting from 19th Century Chief Justice Thomas

An assessment is paid for "the cost of public improvements in its immediate vicinity" and is levied against specific parcels; a tax pays for general benefits and is assessed against an entire local unit.

Kelley also cited his own 1979 ruling that tax limitations in the Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution don't apply to special assessments.

Rep. David Jaye, R-Macomb County, criticized Democrat Kelley's ruling, saying, "If it looks like a duck and quacks like a duck, it's a duck. If it is collected like a tax and paid like a tax, it's a tax.

Jaye said the House passed his bill to require that special assessments be collected on the lower taxable value, but the Senate has yet to act on it.

Engler praises Geake for Friend of Court reform bills

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

A massive package of bills to reform Friend of the Court operations means more than exposing deadbeat dads. It's also part of welfare reform, said Gov. John Engler as he signed three more bills pushed by Sen. Robert Geake.

"No one's done more than Bob," Engler said of the Republican senator from Northville. "He has been tireless in going around the state" in 10 public hearings totaling more than 50 hours.

"There was merciless beating and upbraiding of the Friend of the Court," said Geake. "In spite of that, we've had very gracious cooperation from FOC associations."

Engler, in a signing ceremony July 2, said assuring that custodial parents get child support will "keep people from falling into poverty and see that children are well-served. For many, the failure to receive child support is a floor they fall through into poverty and welfare."

As cameras rolled, Engler pointed to a chart listing two fathers and a mother from Kent, Ingham and Tuscola counties who had skipped the state owing $42,000, $29,000 and $21,000 respectively in child support.

Each month state agencies will release lists of "10 most wanted" parents based on how far they are behind in support payments. "We're going after those people who conceal their income by taking payment under the table," said Geake. "We want the court. to enforce its own orders."

The new laws will:

• Direct Friend of the Court offices to be open 20 hours a week during "non-traditional" times. FOC offices must disburse payments within 14 days of receiving them. FOC also will be required to report much data, such as tax intercepts and support modifications, to the State Court Administrator's office.

• Create a FOC advisory committee in each county's board of commissioners. The FOC direcjudge, but aggrieved persons will have a public sounding board. The bill was an alternative to Geake's original plan to take FOC entirely away from courts and place them under general county government.

· Allow a judge to change, retroactively, the amount of support payments from parents who hide income.

Earlier bills allow the lifting of state driver's and occupational licenses of deadbeat parents; punish those who make false reports of child abuse; mandate the reporting of deadbeat parents to credit agencies; and establish a "parentage registry" tor will continue to be an in the Family Independence

The bills also dovetail with efforts by Rep. Jessie Dalman, R-Holland, to change Michigan's

Transfer tax refund office sets new hours

The hours for the Wayne County real estate transfer tax refund center are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

That's different from what was originally announced because ofa consent order issued in late June, according to Harnetha Jarrett, assistant corporation counsel. The office will be open Monday through Friday until Oct. 31, 1996, but will be closed on Labor Day and Columbus Day.

The office opened July 1, to issue refunds to people who sold real estate in Wayne County between Jan. 11, 1990, and May 10, 1996.

Under a court decision issued earlier this year by Circuit Judge John Kirwan, Wayne County must now pay back part of the money it collected in real estate transfer taxes.

The tax was increased after in 1980 the state gave Wayne County, alone among the 83 counties, power to raise the real estate transfer tax to 75 cents from 55 cents per $500 of proper-

If the seller is disabled, resides out of state, or is in the military, he or she can designate someone as an agent, but must use a form available at the refund center. Leading the way to a healthier tomorrow. With your help.

July 1996

Dear Friend:

Oakwood Healthcare System has recently completed the data gathering and planning phase of our transition process, which involved more than 400 people (including 147 physicians and dozens representing communities we serve) during the past six months. We are now moving ahead to ensure a healthier tomorrow for our patients/members and our organization as a whole.

Earlier this month, Oakwood's board adopted recommendations emerging from the process, and approved new strategies for the organization through the year 2000. You will hear more about these from us during the next several months.

Why do we feel new strategies are necessary?

Changes in healthcare are occurring in the Detroit area and in virtually every community in the United States. They are affecting every hospital and healthcare system nationwide. These changes include a decrease in inpatient volume, and increase in the demand for outpatient care and other non-acute services, the future decline of Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement, increased pressure from payers and purchasers to reduce costs and increase efficiencies, and managed-care reimbursement which sets fixed dollars per person and dictates a shift toward wellness.

We need to listen to our customers or we won't be in business long. And, we owe it to you and others to be as healthy and strong as possible — so we can meet and exceed your expectations for years to come.

Like any good business, we need to step up and make the adjustments necessary to meet our customers' long-term needs. Those adjustments will require large investments of time and money. However, we recognize our responsibility to make decisions — as difficult as they may be — keeping tightly focused on the best, long-term interests of all those we serve. We've set the strategies and, as customer demands dictate, we will make specific decisions on ways to follow them.

What will the changes achieve? They will ensure that you benefit from consistent, high-quality care across the Oakwood system; make it easier for you to access Oakwood services; make it easier, effective and more desirable for you to move out of the hospital and into the most appropriate non-hospital settings (such as being treated in doctors' offices or at home); promote wellness by increasing education on prevention; and replace unneeded hospital beds with a network of 24 outpatient centers.

You will learn more about these changes and how they will affect you and your family. In the meantime, a special toll-free phone line has been activated through September 30th to receive your questions and comments on this. Please call 1-800-861-4630 to offer a question or comment that can be considered by us in future communications with you. Also, please feel free to write to any of us with your ideas and thoughts at: A Healthier Tomorrow, Oakwood Healthcare System P.O. Box 2500, Dearborn, Michigan 48123-2500.

We are excited about these changes, and need your support and thoughts as we move forward.

Thank you.

Good times

Effort draws families closer

A trip to Cedar Point or an evening at Tiger Stadium may seem like a routine summer outing for those of us who sometimes forget about our less fortunate neighbors. Fortunately, a Westland task force appointed by Mayor Robert Thomas hasn't forgotten.

A new summer program, started by the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Violence, is offering a series of free summer activities for Westland middle school students and their parents. The emphasis here is on free

The commendable goal of the task force is twofold: providing fun activities for youngsters while simultaneously working to strengthen parent-child relationships. The latter is a particularly difficult task in an era when many households are headed by single parents — often a struggling mother — or two working parents.

The new program is offering middle schoolage students a free trip to Cedar Point on Aug. 6; a visit to Tiger Stadium on July 13; free Westland Golf Course lessons July 15, 17 and 19; a golf outing Aug. 3; and a movie night at Westland Showcase Cinemas on Aug. 21.

A parent or guardian has to accompany each child. The only money they will need is perhaps a little spending money for snacks.

The number of participants is understandably limited, and many available slots, such as those for Cedar Point and Tiger Stadium, have been filled.

Households don't have to fall below a certain income level to participate. But here's hoping that some of Westland's most needy children – those who might never have gone to

Task force member Sharon Scott was likely on target when she recently said, "Some of these kids would never (otherwise) be able to experience a Tiger Day."

That's the potential beauty of such programs, the latest of which is being funded to the tune of $7,600 through the city's Youth Assistance Program. A state grant, in return, will help to reimburse the youth program.

Volunteer chaperones will accompany the children and their parents on the outings, indicating that task force members have adequately planned for the summer activities.

The new program comes in the wake of an alarming survey last year of Wayne-Westland middle school students. Their top concerns show the real fears they face daily: drug abuse, guns, gangs and going home to an empty house in the afternoon, among other problems.

The survey indicates that children are not only fearful, but that they are facing many of their fears alone.

Task force members know that their latest effort – one of many – is a small step toward making it easier for children and their parents to enjoy some quality time together without draining their budget.

We hope that the program is highly successful and that it is followed by many others of its kind.

Superintendent doesn't care

To all concerned residents: On July 8, I attended another meeting of the Wayne-Westland school board. Approximately 200 concerned residents appeared to show support in the efforts to save Sassafras Trails. I am not sure, but that may have been a record turnout for a board meeting.

During the meeting I observed the conduct of the citizens and was impressed at the civility the people accorded the board members. The issue of Sassafras is one that will not go away, no matter how much the "Board" would like it to. We will remember!

The superintendent, Dr. Moore, did disappoint me. His obvious disregard for the people and their desires left me wondering why we hired this man. Dr. Moore has no vested interest in our school district. "Cut, slash and sell" seem to be his motto.

Declining enrollment is one cause of our financial distress. Dr. Moore added that 300 to 400 students a year are dropping from our enrollment. He informed the people that becoming a member of the county's "School of Choice" program will not give us the full $5,574. we receive for each "in district" student. We will only receive approximately $4,000. for each student brought in. He also related that in other districts the enrollment has stabilized and will also stabilize in Wayne-Westland school district. If $5,574 isn't enough to properly educate our students then how on earth will $4,000 adequately educate possibly 180 more students? Which of our children will be short-changed to make room for "out of district" students?

When one citizen dared to inquire why there were no names or comments listed under the heading of "Citizen Comments" in the minutes of the last board meeting. Dr. Moore plainly stated that he had received "counsel" that it was not necessary to do so in order to abide by the law. He later stated it was the way it was done in other school districts he has worked for.

This is not the other school districts. We, the people, live here. These are our schools. When Dr. Moore "wears out his welcome" here, he'll move on, leaving us to live out the consequences of his recommendations and actions.

I do not believe that his desire is to improve our schools, but to make his point. He has said that before the state will listen, districts will have to go broke. Well, thank you very much, but I do not want Wayne-Westland School District to be the test case. However, I also know that selling off Sassafras Trails will not stop our fiscal decline or even slow it by more than one day.

During the Westland Festival's fireworks I walked from group to group gathering signatures on petitions to save Sassafras. I collected 55 signatures from Wayne-Westland residents. Only one person refused to sign the petition. What does that say? Will our school board truly represent the people? Will Dr. Moore listen to the desires and visions of the citizens who indirectly sign his paycheck?

We need to rally together, all of us. Write letters, make phone calls, and become involved. Encourage our school board to make a lasting contribution to our schools and our children, and while we are doing that, make a lasting contribution ourselves.

Pamela Bauer Westland

Spending a lot

Attention, Westland voters! Your city politicians have been hard at work. They have been spending your tax dollars faster than you can earn them.

When the political class is not vacationing in Las Vegas of some other "fun" place – they have been raising salaries for the politically powerful city employee unions; giving generous contracts to cronies and political pals, and allowing monster tax abatements for certain "land developers" – including a big subsidized housing project in which key city employees have privately invested money!

Now, the politicians say it's time for you to pay up – and raise your taxes. How else can the political class continue to pay for their "fun and games"?

It's time to teach the politicians the meaning of thrift. It's time to stop the wild spending and the taxpayer financed giveaways to political cronies.

Circle the Aug. 6 primary election on your calendar — and then remember to vote "no" on the proposed city millage increase. Let's give the political big shots a well-deserved lesson in the meaning of taxpayer thrift.

Think a bit before sprinkling

Western Wayne County will be hockey rich this fall when the Detroit Whalers face off for the first time at a new arena under construction at Beck and Five Mile roads in Plymouth Township.

The Whalers add a needed, affordable attraction to the area. Season tickets range from $149 to $249 for a 33- game season. Single-game ticket prices are $5 to $12.

That means a family of four can see some good hockey for $20. That's only $5 more than one person seeing one game in the worst seat at Joe Louis Arena.

The Whalers are part of the Ontario Hockey League, which produces some players for the National Hockey League. Here's a sampling of players who started in the Ontario league: Wayne Gretzky, Steve Yzerman and Paul Coffey.

Imagine the chance to watch a future Yzerman develop as a hockey player. The Whalers bring back a sense of community to sports. Many of the players, ages 16-20, will be living in area homes. Area families are being sought to house players who come from other areas.

These young players will be around the community, not jetting back to Moscow or Moose Jaw at the end of the season, never to be seen again.

Welcome, Whalers! You are a welcome addition to western Wayne County.

MS 150: Bike tour is great fun for a good cause

This Saturday, more than 1,000 bicyclists from throughout the metro area will leave Northville Downs and ride 150-200 miles to raise money for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Some are accomplished cyclists who will take part in a century loop (100 miles each day) or ride the 150 (75 miles each day) route at a record pace. Others are part of teams formed by area companies — GM, Ford, EDS, Bosch and Detroit Edison — who support the fund-raising effort. Others do it for fun and the personal challenge of riding 75 or 100 miles a day. (Sunny Days is a team of bikers age 60 and older.) But, whatever the mptivation, everyone should have a good time.

The MS 150 Bike Tours in metro Detroit and Grand Rapids – this year marks the 11th annual event in metro Detroit – are among the most well-organized in the state. Rest stops every 10 or so miles provide healthy, refreshing snacks to refuel. Equipment failure is tended to by metro bike shop owners who volunteer their time and who make minor repairs at a reasonable price. And if riding to the next stop seems impossible there's always the SAG wagon – no one gets left behind.

For those concerned about safety, the Michigan National Guard will serve as medical and traffic coordinators for the Northville to East Lansing ride.

At the end of the first day, riders arriving on the campus at Michigan State University can get a massage, take a hot shower, eat a healthy dinner and generally enjoy a party atmosphere — all for a good cause. And, yes, you can survive a night in a college dorm.

Cyclists return to Northville

Mile thankful for the finish line, MS volunteers line Sheldon Road cheering and clapping as if you've just completed a leg of the Tour de France.

There's still time to sign up for the weekend ride. Karen M. Breen, campaign manager for Metro Detroit MS 150, says riders can just show up at 6:45 a.m. Saturday, pay the $35 registration fee and the $150 pledge donation. Riders can start out as early as 7:30 a.m.

The $150 pledge fee is the minimum. Pledge dollars help continue the Michigan's chapter statewide service program and support ongoing national research and education efforts aimed at the ultimate goal – eliminating MS in our lifetime.

Breen said the MS Society hopes to raise $540,000 from the ride to continue its work.

I rode the Northville to East Lansing route three years ago. It was my first time and I was among some 100 riders who took a wrong turn in downtown Brighton. I remember riding up a hill, wondering why I ever let my husband — who was up ahead and didn't take the wrong turn — talk me into the ride. A short while later, I passed a pair of cyclists who were riding old-fashioned high wheelers. I don't know who they were but to this day, I admire their tenacity for riding all 150 miles on those bikes.

The last two years I've done the Grand Rapids to Hope College MS 150 with friend Caroline Price of Plymouth. She's one of those accomplished riders I mentioned earlier. Caroline averaged 20 miles an hour (sometimes more) the entire route.

The Grand Rapids to Hope College ride is smaller – a little more than 600 riders. Since I spend most of my time in southeast Michigan, the western ride offers a refreshing change of scenery.

This year, many riders from the Detroit metro headed west and took up the challenge. Former Livonians Tim Knox and Mike Gabel were among the riders. Both have been longtime MS 150 Tour riders and have raised lots of money for the cause.

Also riding was Joe Follick who collected lots of pledges from his generous co-workers at Frontier Communications (formerly Allnet) in Southfield.

If you're in decent physical shape, this weekend's ride promises to be lots of fun. If you haven't gotten on a bike in months or years, Saturday may be too early to start but there's always next year. And although it may seem like hard work, it's great exercise for a very good cause.

If you know people who have multiple sclerosis it's even more encouragement to ride because they can't. I have two good friends and a colleague at this newspaper who battle MS and my ride is relatively easy compared to what they face every day.

Pledges too are generally easy to round up. My Observer colleagues are generous folks. In fact, when summer rolls around they've come to expect that I'll be asking for a pledge.

There are lots of special people eagerly awaiting this Saturday's tour. Among them are 71-year-old Charles Morris of Livonia. He's participating for the fifth year, according to his wife, Marcy.

Morris will ride with his daughter, Sallyanne Morris, 43, of Pontiac.

Charles Morris bikes every day and he does the MS 150 Bike Tour for personal reasons. The Morrises are the parents of nine children. According to Marcy, Charles has recruited a few of the kids for his rides at one time or another.

Morris, who's lived in Livonia for 44 years, will turn in a pledge sheet that lists an impressive total of $2,100.

If you think you might ride or if you need more information - or more convincing - call Karen Breen or the MS office at 1-800-247-7382. If you can't ride and would like to volunteer, you can do that, too. Employees at Domino's Pizza are donating their time for this weekend's event.

And to Charles and Sallyanne Morris and the more than 1,000 others who'll ride Saturday, make sure your seat is padded, may the wind be at your back and have a great ride!

Michigan should be wary of vote by mail plan

The Jim Nicholson story reminded me of a public relations lady who once told me over lunch she had made major changes in her life: different hair style, new wardrobe, new friends – even a new signature.

Next time she voted, she used her new signature and, to her astonishment, was never questioned by the poll worker. Anybody could have signed her name and voted, she said.

It recalled the time I was checking out a congressional candidate, a "Junior," to see if he voted regularly. How you voted is a secret, but whether you voted is a matter of public record. Lots of candidates are embarrassed when their voting records are revealed.

The candidate and his father lived in the same township and precinct. The clerk's record showed Junior had missed one election. Junior later told me he had, in fact, voted but the poll workers stamped his father's card, even though Sr. and Jr. had markedly different signatures.

8.75%-10.25% APR

TIM RICHARD

Nicholson was accused by Ronna Romney, his rival for the GOP U.S. Senate nomination, of failing to vote in the 1992 presidential election. Nicholson said he did vote, but (1) Jim Jr.'s card was stamped. At the time, Junior had moved to Illinois to work and vote, but (2) the city clerk in Michigan never canceled his registration.

I bring this up not to take sides in a party primary but to illustrate how casually our voting records are kept. The city clerk in Michigan should have received notice from Illinois that Jim Jr. had registered there - if the system worked properly.

Secretary of State Candice Miller, our chief elections official, estimates 15 to 20 percent of voter registrations are deadwood – people who have moved, died or dropped out of society. Meanwhile, state Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-Salem, is beating her drum to loosen the rules by proposing voting by mail.

By mail? Whoa! Miller says that when a new statewide computer system is fully functional and the deadwood is removed, she will consider running an election by mail.

It amazes me that Michigan doesn't have massive voter fraud right now. (Maybe we do, and no one has uncovered it.) Certainly, other states are reporting plenty of fraud. Items:

• A June 1995 Reader's Digest article, "Vote Fraud: A National Disgrace," reported that California, Pennsylvania and Texas allow either same-day registration or registration without verification of address. • Same article: "At least twice after her husband's death in May 1993, a Baltimore woman asked her local elections board to strike his name from the voter rolls. On election day 1994, she voted for the Republican gubernatorial candidate ... Several weeks later she learned that her husband, a Democrat, had voted as well ..." The Democratic candidate for governor won a come-from-behind victory by 5,000 votes with a surge from the Baltimore precincts.

"In Baltimore, the board of elections had 21,889 such names (of voters who had been inactive five years, hadn't responded to two mailings and should have been purged), but officials dropped only 12,795 names."

One gets the impression the Baltimore clerk deliberately didn't cancel the dead husband's registration.

• This tale from Rich Lowry, political reporter for National Review,
June 17: Absentee ballots in Alabama account for 3-4 percent of the vote.
But in 1994 in Greene County, 34 percent of all ballots were absentees. The embattled chair of the Greene County Commission won re-election with 50' percent of his votes cast absentee. A watchdog group claimed absentee ballots were stolen from people's mailboxes, among other sins.

In 1976, Michigan adopted a "motor voter" law allowing the secretary of state to accept voter registrations at driver's license offices. Under Democrat Richard Austin's rule, Miller said, Flint had five such offices (one per 28,000 people) while Novi and Wixom had zero (pop. 41,500). Austin's partisan bias showed.

With so many flaws already in the system, Michigan should be very wary of mail voting and other moony "get out the vote" schemes.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Walk reveals life's rewards

There are times, moments really, in a person's life when everything couldn't seem to get any better. You know the moments I'm talking about: The kind that if someone were making a movie, a happy, feel-good movie, that scene, that moment, would not be left on the cutting room floor. It would definitely be included in the picture. It's picture perfect.

Granted, those moments are usually rather rare; they're far different from the ordinary, the fragmented, the scattered, like-a-puzzle-someone-knocked-into, kinds of moments that fill our regular days.

Tonight I feel fortunate. I've been lifted from the ordinary chaos. Things made perfect sense to me. It was really cool.

And I didn't have to climb some tall mountain in Tibet to seek a wise man. And I didn't have to study all night long to achieve this rare moment of understanding. And I didn't have to dial up Dionne Warwick and her Psychic Hotline. All I did was take an early evening, summer walk with my family around the neighborhood. That's it. I swear. That's all it took.

After I cleaned up the supper dishes I called the children from the corners of the yard where they had been playing a form of baseball which involved a pogo stick, basketball, bases, and a very squeaky toy dump truck. I told them

■ Last year Plymouth resident Betty White volunteered 5,313 hours for Angela Hospice in Livonia. For her efforts, she won a JCPenney Golden Rule Award.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

Betty White, a volunteer for Angela Hospice in Livonia, sees the nurses that take care of terminally ill patients at the facility as angels. But she could be considered an angel in her own right.

Last year White, 76, volunteered 5,313 hours by answering the phones at night earning her a JCPenney Golden Rule Award in April. She was awarded an engraved Crystal Flame and the organization donated $1,000 in her name to Angela Hospice.
'I'm proud of my award but I'm especially glad that hospice got $1,000," White said in her Plymouth apartment.

A nine-year volunteer, White spends her evenings taking calls from caregivers, grieving relatives, and others who call from 5 p.m. to 8:30 a.m. weeknights and from 5 p.m. to 11 a.m. on the weekends.

"She's wonderful. I can't say enough about her," said Kathryn Cobleigh of Angela Hospice. "Betty White has in 1995 donated over 5,000 volunteer hours, which is more than I work. She's just fabulous.'

"She's the connection between Angela Hospice and our patients when the office is closed."

White knows first hand what it's like to be a caregiver of terminally ill patients. Her husband Bill died 11 years ago; her son Larry died July 4, 1995, during a liver trans-

"I lost a son and I lost a husband. I really have empathy for these people. I know exactly what they're going through. I've walked the road myself. They talk to me just like I'm a friend of theirs. I've had people call me back after the death and thank me and tell me how much I helped them through it just by being there when they called," White said.

Volunteers important

Founded 11 years ago by Sister Giovanni, Angela Hospice relies on volunteers. It boasts a roster of 300 volunteers, with about 150-200 of them active, Cobleigh said.

"They're an integral part of the hospice. Medicare requires that 5 percent (of the cumulative hours put in by workers) are volunteer hours. So it is mandatory. We could not exist without our volunteers. I think Betty alone puts in our 5 percent," Cobleigh said with a laugh.

The volunteers work with residents in the 16-bed care center, or go into homes and provide relief for caregivers. Others volunteer their time in the office or by answering the phones. Most volunteers only do it from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the weekends and White covers the rest.

White volunteered at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Allen Park for 15 years prior to coming to Angela Hospice. When the drive from her home in Plymouth to Allen Park became rough in the winter, she looked for a place to volunteer closer to home. She saw an advertisement in the newspaper that hospice was seeking volunteers and soon thereafter she stopped her work at the hospital. Given her experience with her husband and son, White said she knew she had a

Joe led the way on his handed down from Tony two-wheeler with the training wheels, next came Tony pushing Jack in a stroller, then me pushing Steve in his stroller, and then Carmen. Ron joined us after about four houses.

So the whole family was out for a summer stroll. Together. All of us. That was the beginning of the moment I'll capture and remember.

As we walked and strolled the sweet smell of honeysuckle drifted toward us. Boy, what a summer smell that is. And the smell of a freshly cut lawn. Kind of pungent, kind of sweet. I didn't want to breathe it all in so deeply that I made a snort noise, but then I didn't want to miss a the walk line, heard it first and bit of it either.

I don't know who started it exactly, but at some point "Take Me Out To The Ballgame" became our walking song. We were pretty quiet about it, I don't think anyone heard us even if they happened to be sitting on their front porches. But we sang it anyway. Even 2-yearold Jack knows this song. His version cracks me up. A lot of the words are close facsimiles to the real lyrics and some were right on and same are just very fine, apt interpretations. Like the part where it goes, "Buy me some peanuts and Crackerjacks," Jack sings, "But me some peanuts and Cracker Me's."

While we were singing, softly so no one could really hear us, we heard coming from one of the streets over, the ice cream truck's tune. This year it's the rag-time song, one of my all-time favorites, "The Entertainer." I love that song, it's so jaunty and up and dancy.

Carmen, being at the back of ran for home to get some money from he. piggy bank. She was quick and brought enough even for her brothers. I was floored. I didn't want to let on that I was floored. But I was.

some Popsicles, Tony didn't want one, he was still full from supper. Joe couldn't drive his big bike and eat his super-duper all kinds of colors inside and outside Popsicle so he walked and I pushed-pulled his bike, Ron took over Steven's stroller, and the walk continued.

Puddle discussions took place. So did tree helicopter discussions. A couple exchanges had to do with large ants, anthills, and a jet plane overhead. Almost at the end of the walk, our house now directly across the street, we paused to say "hi" to our neighbors. They were out in the yard and came by the shady part of the sidewalk where we could catch up on the latest, and keep

Farmers' donation helps local hospice

Community Hospice Services is on the receiving end of a $750 award from Farmers Insurance Group through its Agent Community Sponsorship Fund.

Michele Schmidt, of Schmidt Insurance Agency, Inc., is the agent who submitted the fund request and is responsible for the award.

"Michele and her husband Ray Schmidt, are exceptional advocates of hospice and have given generously to fund raising events to benefit Community Hospice Services," said Lori George, CHS marketing and development representative.

The award was delivered by Jack Hagerty, district Manager at Farmers Insurance Group. Community Hospice Services will use the award for its children's bereavement programs, purchasing literature and "keepsakes" for the children.

"These items benefit participants in that they are a reminder of the grief work they started and give them permission to continue to heal," George

Community Hospice Services will offer its six-week grief support series for children, beginning May 28. It is also accepting registration for Camp Phoenix, a three-day camp for children ages 6 years and older who have experienced a significant loss.

These programs are funded by community support, such as Farmers Insurance Group, and are offered free of charge to anyone in the community. George lot to offer to Angela Hospice.

"I had taken care of my husband at home. He was bedridden. I had a lot to offer. I could turn and make the bed, bathe them, get them out of bed and to a chair. I had learned all this from his physical therapist."

She worked with caregivers in homes until she fell and broke her leg and hip. Sister Giovanni, who answers the phones day and night, asked if she would consider taking the phones during rush hour. White agreed.

"I started and I never stopped."

Feeling comforted

Δij

She's been on the phones overnight for eight years; she was on the phone during the daytime for the first few years.

Everybody you're dealing with is sad. It's frustration. It's sorrow. There's nobody getting better that we handle. But just being able to talk to them, they have a voice there. You can have an answering machine but there isn't a person there who understands what they're going through.'

A light sleeper, White goes to bed and when the phone rings she picks it up before the ring is over, she said.

"Whatever it is, if it's a death I take down the information and tell them the nurse is on the way. I just say a little prayer to myself for the patient who died and for the family and go back to

"I feel comforted that I know that God's taking over now. What will keep me awake is the blaring of televisions. If someone blares their television I can't go back to sleep. With this, I can go back to sleep because God's taken over."

White feels blessed that she is able to volunteer for hospice.

"I really appreciate that they allow me to do this. I'm blessed. I really am blessed. At my age-

Cervical cancer screening – the Pap test

By James A. Roberts M.D., M.S., F.A.C.O.G., F.A.C.S.

Since Papanicolaou first introduced what has become known as the Pap test, few other tests have been more widely used and misunderstood. The Pap test may be the most significant piece of preventative medicine available to women. The Pap test involves the simple and painless step of removing a sample of cells from the cervix - the opening to the womb - usually done as part of any pelvic examination. This sample is then tested for the presence or absence of cells associated with cancer. While cervical cancer is the most common female cancer world wide, the extensive use of this test in the US has resulted in cervical cancer becoming a rareoccurrence with only 15,700 cases diagnosed in 1995.

Since cervical cancer is caused by a sexually transmitted virus (Human Papilloma Virus-HPV), experts agree that a woman should begin having the Pap test as soon as she becomes sexually active. There is less agreement about how often this test should be performed. However, most major physician groups support the annual performance of the test.

Many women misunderstand the Pap test, thinking it will screen for several different cancers. When the results of a Pap test are negative, meaning that cancerous cells have not been detected, patients assume they do not have cancer. In fact, the Pap test will only screen for cervical cancer. Cancer of the vagina, uterus, or ovaries can rarely be detected by a Pap test and most other types of cancer are almost never detected.

Dr. James Roberts has published more than 100 articles and is professor of gynecologic oncology at the University of Michigan. This year, he was named as one of the "Best Doctors in America: Midwest Region."

Debby Duncan

Northville Christian adds intern to staff

Northville Christian Assembly has put out the welcome mat for Debby Duncan who has joined the church's summer intern program.

Duncan is working with Pastor Carlton Quattlebaum in the Creative Arts Department. A junior at Evangel College in Springfield, Mo., she is majoring in vocal music education.

She is the daughter of the Rev. Hugh and Joyce Duncan, outstanding Christian leaders in the community. Duncan is the District Home Missions director for the Michigan District of the Assemblies of God. Joyce is fifth grade teacher for Northville Christian School.

Her older brother, Hugh Jr., also contributes in creative arts as a worship leader and musician.

"Debby's heart for God and His church shines through everything she does," Pastor Quattlebaum said. "Her background as a PK (preacher's kid) has helped her to not romanticize ministry, but have a practical sensible approach, knowing that ministry is often just plain, hard work.

"Her diverse abilities enable her to serve will in a variety of capacities, a fact that we are enjoying very much! I hope that through the experience, Debby will leave with an ignited desire to use, develop and consecrate her abilities to God for his service."

About her summer experience, Debby hopes to gain experience "which will further my abilities and equip me for what the future holds."

"God has given me a great love for music and has called me to work in both the classroom and the church," she added. the Meadowbrook Congregational Church, 21355 Meadowbrook Road, Novi. The program, fro grade, will be 9:30 -11:30 a.m. and include lessons, stories, games, arts and crafts, music and more. Snacks will be provided and the final day will include a picnic with make-your-own snacks. Registration will be accepted through July 12. For more information, call (810) 348-

A Link for ADD, LD and Other Struggling Kids? Empower Your Children for the Upcoming School Year

Fact: 93% of children in special education have it. 78.9% of juvenile delinquents have it. 80% of reading disabled children have it. Virtually 100% of ADD children have it.

What do they have in common? The answer is simple: poor vision.

It's a long known fact that the inmate population has an overwhelming number of vision problems. It's a little known fact that learning disabled do as well.

We are all concerned about illiteracy. But what can we do about it?

According to John P. Jacobi, O.D., we can begin with comprehensive vision testing for our students. "Every day, I see children who have an undiagnosed vision problem, although they are all receiving school screenings. That test is very basic. These children need their eyesight and visual processing skills assessed--in other words, do they have the ability to focus, stay in focus for the entire school day, remember and apply what they have seen?"

"We offer a free visual screening that goes far beyond even the most comprehensive of vision examinations. These skills, though rarely tested, are a necessity for any at-risk child."

It seems so obvious that our first question would be, "Can he even see the print?" But kids are

"What we accomplish in our visual therapy clinic is the visual rehabilitation of patients, which allows them access to their best tool for learning, working--everyday function," notes Dr. Jacobi. "In addition to addressing their focus and double vision, we will test and treat visual processing including Visual memory and visualization."

If your child has reading, spelling, or handwriting problems, has headaches, loses his or her place while reading, reverses letters, or is unable to sit still, call Dr. Jacobi for a screening of vision problems. He will offer it free of charge to parents who have concerns in this area. Call (313) 525-8170 for an appointment. Don't overlook the obvious.

Writer is independent and seeks room to grow

Dear Lorene.

I am a 17-year-old girl. I will be starting my senior year in high school next fall. I am going away to camp this summer as a counselor-intraining. Ever since kindergarten, I have never been in one school for more than two vears. Unlike most kids that move around a lot, my family is not involved in the Army. We just move around for the mere reason of not staying in one place too long. For this reason I have never had many friends. I hope to accomplish this goal in my senior year. I am left-handed and always been an admirer of your column.

J.P., Livonia

young people changes frequently approach to life and living is and sometimes without too much provocation. So I am reluctant to analyze it without seeing samples written at other intervals. However, this is a teenager who is quite mature for her 17 years. I can't help wondering, if it is due, in part, to the numerous moves she has experienced. It would be interesting to hear her opinion on this.

I am cognizant the readers have heard me say this previously, but the spacing used on the page of handwriting is important in analyzing the person's personality. Good spacing, among other things, suggests one who makes efficient use of her time. Her omission of most lead-in strokes on words augments this.

The writer is independent and The handwriting of many seeks the freedom to grow. Her usually direct. When there is to accomplish and gets busy something to be done she does not just sit around and talk about it. She starts in and gets it done, and done well. Efficiency is her hallmark. Mediocrity has no place in her work.

Here is a young girl who has already made it a habit to set goals for herself. She does not wait for someone else to do it for her. She knows what she wants working on it.

The writer has also been blessed with a good mind. She has many ways of thinking and solving problems. She tends to explore and analyze new information and probes for logical solutions. Intuition appears to be used only rarely.

Her memory is retentive and signature and the text are very she keeps an eye out for all details. Then she takes the time to see they are handled.

I think this girl would be a joy to know. She can relate smoothly to others and is not one to make waves. She is open-minded and tolerant of people and their opinions and ideas. I suspect she is also an attentive listener. She knows how to be tactful.

Although empathy, amiability and peace are usually chosen, she can stand up for herself, if pushed too far or too long. Outwardly, she is composed and inclined to hold her feelings in check. In emergency situations, she can remain cool. Rarely does she become impulsive.

She appears to be a tad secretive about her personal life. Her similar telling us she is as she presents herself. She does not try to appear as someone she is

She finds beauty in many things, especially nature. Colors. especially purple, can be pleasing to her. I think she has also been exposed to some of life's finer things.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Due to the volume of mail, personal replies are not possible. However, objective feedback is welcome.

A Message To The Community

s we approach the one-year anniversary of the labor walkout at our newspapers, we certainly don't feel it's an occasion to celebrate. We are mindful of how much hardship has been caused to our employees and their families, including those on strike. And we know that the community has suffered as well through this difficult time.

Even as we consider the past year, we are hopeful that new ideas and new approaches, on both sides, might yield a realistic settlement based on where we find ourselves today – 12 months into the strike.

A year later, a lot has changed.

Since the strike started, more than 65 bargaining sessions have been held with the six unions but we don't seem to be getting any closer to a settlement. We do want to reach a settlement. We do want to move forward, but it is imperative that the unions accept the reality of where our business is now.

We care about fairness toward our employees. That's why our original offer called for fully paid health care through HMOs, no layoffs and a 10.3 percent wage increase over three years, on top of already good salaries. Five of our 11 unions settled contracts and are working today. It's obvious that they felt our offers were fair.

Unfortunately, union leaders did not allow employees to vote on our offers.

Even if a settlement were reached today, more than 500 jobs will have been lost to our community. Some of those lost jobs reflect the damage that this strike has done to our business and some are related to the improved efficiencies. Certainly the economic loss that we've suffered will not allow us to accept the feather-bedding of past years.

On the picket line and in the streets.

The unions and their supporters continue to throw star nails, break windows, damage newsracks and steal newspapers, block entrances to our facilities and yell racial and sexual slurs. They've even targeted employees at their homes.

We absolutely do not find it acceptable for employees and their families to be threatened and intimidated. While we believe in the strikers' freedom of speech and their right to picket, we question their right to continue to throw out racial and sexual slurs at our employees as they enter our facilities.

Amid all this, the two newspapers continue to serve readers.

From the first day of the strike, we made the decision to continue publishing. We feel a deep sense of obligation to this community to provide news and information every day. Our two newsrooms have continued to make improvements, particularly in the area of local news. By continuing to publish, we have preserved two vigorous, and separate, editorial voices in this community.

Where do we go from here?

We'll continue our commitment to publish The Detroit News and Detroit Free Press every day. And while we proceed with efforts to build our business back, and to continuously improve our service to customers, we'll keep meeting with the unions in the hope that we can achieve a resolution.

Meanwhile, we want to thank our hundreds of thousands of readers and the thousands of advertisers who have stayed with us. It's been gratifying to continue to do what we do best, serve readers and customers who put their faith in us every day.

Thank you for the privilege of serving you.

Protect your skin from summer rays

Summer's here, but before you head to the beach, pick up some protection. Use a sunscreen, wear a hat and take other precautions.

Melanoma, the deadliest form of skin cancer, strikes women in the prime of life. Currently, it is the most frequent cancer among women ages 25 to 29 and the second most frequent (after breast cancer) among women ages 30 to 34. One-quarter of all melanoma cases are among reproductive-aged women.

Fair-haired, light-skinned people are most at risk. A history of painful or blistering sunburns in your youth, the presence of many flat or raised moles on your skin, large brown moles at birth or a family history of the disease also make you susceptible. Pregnanhormones that affect skin color, may be an additional risk factor.

In its early stages, melanoma is easy to detect and treat. Once advanced, however, it spreads rapidly. Look for large pigmented moles that are asymmetric (one half does not match the other) and have notched, ragged? or blurred borders. In women, these most commonly appear on the legs, back, arms and face. Scaliness, oozing, bleeding, color variations and the spread of pigment beyond the borders are other suspicious signs.

Other types of skin cancer are more common than melanoma, but less deadly because they spread less rapidly. They include basal cell carcinoma (pearly gray nodules on the face, neck and cy, which increases the levels of back of the hands) and squamous cell carcinoma (scaly red lesions with crusty or hardened surmes that sometimes bleed).

A fourth condition, actinic or solar keratosis (rough, scaly patches on sun-exposed skin that may appear as one ages) is a premalignancy that bears watching.

Don't forget to protect young children from the rays as well. Eighty percent of an average person's lifetime sun exposure occurs before age 18. The resulting damage will show up later.

To enjoy the fair weather safely, remember: • Use a sun screen with a sun on all exposed areas, even on cloudy days. (However, don't use on children younger than six months unless directed by a physician.) Reapply as needed.

protection factor of 15 or higher

• Minimize sun exposure between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

 During periods of prolonged exposure, cover up with clothing and a wide-brimmed hat.

 Watch out for reflective surfaces (sand, concrete and water). With a little effort, you can minimize problems while maximizing fun.

MINUTES BOARD OF EDUCATION Livonia Public Schools 15125 Farmington Road Special Meeting

June 17, 1996 President Watters convened the meeting at 6:40 p.m. in the Board Room, 15125 Farmington Road, Livonia

Members Present: Frank Kokenakes, Dan Lessard, Dianne Nay, Pat Tancill, Kenneth Timmons, James Watters Suzanne Clulow

Members Absent: 1996-97 LPS Budget Hearing:

Randy Liepa, Assistant Superintendent for Business Operations, highlighted the critical issues considered in developing the 1996-97 LPS budget including state funding, retirements, negotiations. adult education funding, student count, retirement costs, program options, and maintaining a fund balance. Mr. Liepa fielded questions from the Board followed by Board president James Watters' solicitation of public comments.

Public Input:

John Whaley, 14770 Sunbury, expressed concern in regard to what he perceived as inadequate funds allocated for basic classroom instruction. While the information supplied by the business office indicates 53.18% of the budget will be spent on instruction, Mr. Whaley's perception is that only 42% will be used for basic classroom instruction. Mr. Whaley has in the past provided the Board with figures he has researched in regard to the LPS budget and asked that the Board give same careful review and consideration.

Adjournment:

It was moved by Mr. Timmons and supported by Ms. Nay that the "Special Meeting" of June 17, 1996 be people see you're in the Ann Arbor show, it gives them confidence to buy a painting," said Plymouth artist Thomas LeGault. Year after year fair goers line up on the corner of Liberty and Main Street to watch this whiz with a paint brush complete an acrylic work every 1 1/2 hours.

"Ann Arbor has helped establish me," said LeGault who has exhibited in the Ann Arbor Art Fair for 20 of the 25 years he's painted the representational abstracts featuring Northern Michigan lake scenes, florals and lighthouses. "The fair is a showcase, a qualifier for who's who. And even for people not making a purchase, there's no where else they can sample a variety of media this expansive,"

Organizers expect 500,000 visitors to celebrate the visual and performing arts at the nationally acclaimed Ann Arbor Art Fairs July 24-27. More than 1,000 artists and fine crafts persons, who have been subjected to intense jurying processes, will descend on 24 downtown city blocks in a festival fit for the entire family. Imaginative works ranging from storybook pottery by David Stabley. of Pennsylvania to classic car paintings by Tom Hale of Farmington Hills to contemporary glass tables by Stan Megdall of West Bloomfield are among the extensive list sure to please every art patron.

In addition to the finished works, kids of all ages will be fascinated watching juried artists and members of the Ann Arbor Potters Guild demonstrate their skills from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. Ethnic and fine restaurants, outdoor cafes and food booths will tempt fair-goers with dozens of dining opportunities. For the undecided, the Edible Art Fare on Liberty between Main and Ashley will serve a sampling from the menus of Ann Arbor's restaurants.

The Ann Arbor Art Fairs are actually three fairs in one, each with its own history and concept. The Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the original juried show now in its 37th year, is known for exhibiting cutting edge artwork. Şelected as the top fine craft show in the nation by Sunshine Magazine in 1995, the Ann Arbor Street Fair received nearly 2,000 applications from 36 states for 190 booths.

"We have a total of 73 new artists. One of the most interesting is Patrick Dragon. Although not new to the fair, he will be throwing clay forms for people to touch and leave their imprint in the vessels in progress," said Susan Froelich, Ann Arbor Street Art Fair executive director.

The State Street Area Art Fair features 275 nationally prominent artists. Organized by a group of State Street merchants in 1968, the fair is in the heart of the State Street shopping dis-

"We're really excited because we have a lot of new exhibitors like nationally known African-American artist Margaret Warfield from Georgia. And there's more intricate wood work and new metal work this year," said State Street Fair coordinator Kathy Krick.

The Summer Art Fair, sponsored by the 1,500 member Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, is the largest of the three fairs with 560 artists in 540 booths. For 26 years it has delighted fair goers with contemporary American art and fine crafts, and the ever-popular Imagination Station at Liberty and Fifth where families can create art for free. "We've invited 112 different local performers. The live music adds a whole other aspect to the art fair that's fun," said director Shary Brown.

Competition for entry is tough in the three fairs. While criteria for acceptance differs, all three utilize committees to jury slides. In the case of The Guild, seniority of members is a factor. Although artists undergo intense scrutiny, they reapply year after year because it's well known in the arts community that exhibiting in the Ann Arbor Art Fairs will add credibility to their resumes.

For the last 15 years, Maureen Voorheis has shown her polished aluminum, cast and fused glass sculptures in Ann Arbor "because sales are good." The Summer Art Fair provides the West Bloomfield sculptor with a large audience to test her latest designs for tables and mirrors featuring neon lighting under cast glass.

"It's great exposure. You're getting so many people from out of town because it's so prestigious.

Art in the Park bigger and better

By Linda Ann Chomin

Visitors will find more food and entertainment than ever at the 16th annual Art in the Park July 13-14 in Plymouth. Show producer Dianne Quinn credits the city's new "Streetscape" project for allowing her to interweave everything from Thai food to crepes Suzette and sweet corn to tempt taste buds. A barefoot violinist from Boulder, Colo., harpist and hammered dulcimer duo dressed in Medieval clothing, a 1920s jazz, swing, and Dixieland group, South American Andean folklore by Americamanta, and children's music by Altered Ego will treat the ears and the soul.

munity by the arts council. Vera Russanow, an Orion

Township children's librarian who lives in Livonia, came to hear Sflerezza to determine if the singer/guitarist's program might be appropriate for the 50 five and six year olds in her storytime hour. Singing "Yellow Submarine" and other songs, the popular Sflerezza led groups of grinning children through the park like a pied piper.

"It's nice the way the music is for all ages," said Vera Russanow.

"It's mostly moms with little kids and business people having their lunches that attend the Wednesday afternoon concerts in the park," said Debra Madonna, PCAC chair for the event.

"The criteria we use for booking performers is the music must keep moving. The focus is on music. We have a great canopy for it here in the park. The city cooperates with us by setting up the PA system and everything."

The annual budget for Music in the Park, including the costs of performers and programs, is $2,750. Next year's projected figure is around $3,500. Thanks to folks in the community like Schultz and his company, programs like Music in the Park will continue to give pleasure to arts lovers in the area this sum-

The arts council is currently in the midst of Capital Campaign Drive to raise funds for phase two of renovations to its Sheldon Road building. Scheduled to begin in mid-August, the work entails the creation of an arts rental gallery, storage space, lobby, and business offices. In order to match a $42,000 Michi gan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs grant by September 30, the PCAC must raise $80,000.

"We're appealing to individuals, corporate and retailers within the community through mail and personal contact for donations," said PCAC executive director Randy Lee.

Since the completion of phase one in March, the council has been able to expand its hours and programming. Founded in 1969 as a pilot program for supplementing arts curricula in the Plymouth-Canton Schools, the PCAC has grown immensely and now offers not only art classes but a children's theater program, Music in the Park series, art rental gallery, scholarship awards, and the annual dinner theater and fall artists and crastamen show.

There are several ways we all can help to support the arts council efforts to renovate the non-profit Joanne Winkleman Hulce Center for the Arts. Pilgrim Motor Sports has donated a Kawasaki jet ski valued at $5,750 for a drawing to be held at Art in the Park 3 p.m. Sunday, July 14 in Plymouth. Tickets are $1 and available at Frances Jewelry Gallery, The Trading Company and the PCAC offices at 774 N. Sheldon or by calling (313) 416-4ART.

While the arts council hopes to raise $10,000 with the raffle, Lee hopes generous patrons will contribute on their own to the campaign to provide an appropriate setting for arts programming. A $5,000 donation will entitle you or your business to a Pewabic tile installed in the lobby's permanent architecture and bearing the donor's name. All donations are tax deductible. The reward for smaller contributions from individuals is knowing you helped build a facility to encourage future generations in nurturing the arts. We all must help if the arts are to survive.

await at Opa! Fest, July 12-14 at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church, 760 West Wattles Road in Troy, (810) 362-9575. Hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1 at the door.

Last year more than 7,000 people attended the festival which features authentic Greek folk dancing, live music, Festival singers, children's activities, and specialty food items.

Cooking demonstrations will be presented throughout the day so that anyone wishing to make Greek foods will have a chance to try their Mouth-watering delights hand at some tasty dishes. Recipes will also be available.

The weekend events will also include the popular cultural exhibit "Eternal Olympics" highlighting the 100th anniversary of the-Olympic Games. Look for parishioner Rich Fisher 2 p.m. Sunday at the Loukoumathes booth. He and other parishioners will be preparing these feather like honey balls. The "honeyballs" booth has become a labor of love for the church and Nick and Helen Masters of Beverly Hills, former owners of Masters Candies in Redford, and theirfamily. Last year they prepared 10,360 honeyballs.

A murder mystery with a Texas twist, John Sayles' "Lone Star" is a story of the painful aspects of discovery. Constantly Sam is warned not to dig too deep, not to open that particular box where a rattle snake might be waiting inside. This is the kind of movie where his revelations will stick with you long after it's over.

It's also a story of changing times in this Texas border town, whose white power structure slowly returns to the Mexicans, and shouts are exchanged over the way schools teach the history of the Mexican-American struggle. The sheriff's job of making deals with business owners and illegal immigrants has turned him into what Sam calls a glorified jailer.

REVIEW

"Lone Star" is another in a series of fascinating films written, directed, and edited by Sayles who has, in films as diverse as "Eight Men Out," "Passion Fish" and last year's "Secret of Roan Irish," delivered unique, heartfelt stories with fascinating characters. His latest effort may be the best film of the year.

Known for working out of the Hollywood mainstream, Sayles shies from big-name stars, casting earthy "Picket Fences" actor Chris Cooper in the main role. Kris Kristofferson has the pivotal part as the racist, Colt-toting Sheriff Wade, seen briefly but unforgettably in flashback, making sure he has his cut of any illegal activities, from poker games to illegal border crossings, that take place in his jurisdic-

Matthew McConaughey (best know for a part in "Dazed and Confused" but guaranteed to make a splash in "A Time to Kill" later this month) plays Sam's father, whose own term as sheriff was marked by more humane but still questionable practices when it came to dispensing justice.

Rarely a showy director, Sayles does some clever things with flashbacks. Sheriff Sam might be gazing across a barroom or off the side of a bridge and then the camera pans over to the action in the past. Part of it involves the Mexican girl Sam was involved with as a teenager. With his divorce final and her husband dead, they start to pick up again.

Time and again, Sayles presents a moral landscape that's hard to traverse. The townspeople want the sheriff to let sleep? ing skeletons lie, afraid the public licity will hurt the unveiling of a town square plaque in dedication to his father. He keeps digging... wanting partially to prove something to himself about the man, he's constantly sized up against. 7.

In some ways "Lone Star". works as a companion piece to "Fargo," the surprise Coen brothers hit, but minus their often! condescending smirk. Far fromthe frozen tundra of northern Minnesota is Sayles' dusty desert town, all the more realistic on his miniscule budget.

Now playing exclusively at the Main Art Theatre in Royal Oak, "Lone Star" is the kind of captivating story - like "Fargo" and "The Usual Suspects" - that should find a wider audience outside of the art houses. See it now before someone tells you any more about it.

'The Nature of Smoke' zippy, entertaining read

BY VICTORIA DIAZ SPECIAL WRITER

"The Nature of Smoke," by Anne . Harris (Tor., $29.95, 284 pp.) "

How many science fiction novels have you read lately that open up with the lead character preparing to rip off a repair shop in Ferndale?

Its a rather odd beginning is

Nature of Smoke" that makes it stand out. This debut novel by Detroiter Anne Harris works on several different levels. First, it's a zippy, entertaining read, played out by engaging characters against vivid backdrops. It's carefully-structured, and its author has a real knowledge of how to turn a phrase. Maybe not the only thing about "The best of all, it's thought-provoking too. His name is Remus Rahul, wry sense of humor.) without being ponderous.

> "The Nature of Smoke" is set in the not-too-distant future in a dog-eat-dog techno-world of holograms, Sears jetliners, genetic experimentation and synthetic life forms. At its center is a tough, young Detroiter named Magnolia, who can't read or write, but knows more than a thing or two about defending herself against the threats of this shadowy world.

After having run away from her desperately poor home in a devastated. "partitioned" Detroit, she is almost murdered as she unknowingly participates in a "slasher" film in New York. Using her quick wits and streetsavvy, she knifes her "co-star," and manages to flee the scene.

But her troubles have just begun. The whole event has been photographer live, and sent out via satellite to TV channel subscribers. Soon, highly important owners of this futuristic porn station will be after Magnolia for what she has done to their "star." And another sinister figure will be tracking her down and he is "the world's only supplier of sophisticated human simulacra." He has some dastardly plans to distill Magnolia's spirited "essence," and make a

Though this story is played out against a high-tech background. new age hardware is definitely not the star here. What propels this story ever-forward are its vibrant, imaginatively drawn characters _ those who are human and those who are, shall we say, something else.

Finding a sanctuary of sorts in "Polish Siberia" ("Part of the 1998 Cultural Reparations Act"). Magnolia meets Cid, a brilliant biologist who spends most of her time with quantum particles and highly sophisticated holograms until Magnolia comes along. There, at the mysterious Wotroya House, Magnolia also comes across the exotic Tumcari. who spends most of his lonely days floating about a greenhouse pond, since he is genetically related to water lilies. (Though he's one of Rahul's experiments gone awry, he's got a charming,

There's also Ms. Wuicik, who can do all kinds of thing, except make decisions on her own; the gorgeous Kelira, who's desperately searching for his sister in this chaotic world; and the bloodthirsty Spider and Dex. two ex-NHL stars. (Harris' take on the aquatic nature of the game is delightful.)

The cast of character goes on, but you get the idea. Reading about them is a little like getting to know the clientele of a "Star Wars" bar.

Which is not to say that this story is less-than-serious It's a carefully-considered visit into a dark future, exploring such matters as chaos and universal pattern, and the nature of smoke.

Be warned: This novel is replete with violence. In fact, Harris has a tendency to sometimes dwell at tiresome length on each bruising altercation, listing every blow and punch as if they were steps in a long, complicated dance we must all learn. But none of the violence itself is gratuitous. And, if you take this literary trip into a world of Mylar money, Indo-pop music, falafel stands, and fractal souls, you may find yourself not just taken away by it all, but perhaps a bit enlightened as well.

Along with the tadies local Fop Fuel differs, things Bailey and Jack Ostrander made valant addenips to run in the fours putting on a great show with 50 second runs. The last time Ostrander was at Milan he went should be finished line lights in a ball of fire. Doug Herbert and Brush Liston put on a pair of great runs under the lights with flathers shooting out of the headers with the ground shaking and the smell of nation in the air. Everyone wants in the record books for the first one in the Milan 300 m.p.h. citals. Shifter was the only one with the honors.

CALL Shirtey was the only one with the honors.

Hiere you ever wondered what it would be the to take your Compart, Carveller of the tartily Mustaing and drive from 0 to 800 at p.h. + in a 1/4 mile? Tark to the people that have some of the lestest door stammers around. Pro-modified racing is signly modified body styles of the cars we all drive on the sheet. The motors are obviously bigger and the chassis and folloting set up is designed for the traction and safety needed Things don't go as planned. Most of these cars are powered by big cubic inch motors running over 1,000 horsepower and appeared by the use of ortrous oxicide. Notices concide is one of the most unpredictable forms of horsepower so you never legal what can happen when the green light comes on, John Janick imitaded his brand new spit window Convette and ren BBF and 6.86 right out of the trafer. Tim McCemmis came to in and drove for Ohris Holbrock in the Stu Evens Linc/Merc

Not to be outdone by anyone is The Mid-America Funny Car Challenge with their 1/8 mile smokey tire burnouts and wild 6 second funny car action. With cars like Mac Attack Warren Eel's Fast Company, and many more from all over, the Mid America lunny car circuit travels the country, ententaining the crowds and spending time talking to the lans in the pits. Most of these racers are family teams and the whole lamily gets involved in the daily maintenance and round to round upkeep of the cars.

Next is the wild 9 second quarter mile passes by the infamous Roy Trevino (Lee Trevino's cousin) on the back wheels. That's right this G.M.C. pick up truck runs down the 1/4 mile on his back wheels. With wheels in the air he looks thru the floor of the truck and sleens with two hand brakes one on each of the rear wheels. Watch motorsports Excitement lonight to watch this event and take a ride with our in call camera on board with Roy Trevino. Roy and his wife Rits are great enlertainers and love to spend time with the toos that stop by and visit at their trailer. A lot of Nostalgia racers will remember Roy when he was driving the Maxi Taxi wheelstander. The body of that car is being turned into an Outlaw supercharged car by a local racer.

Last but not least, the Stu Evans eponsored N.H.R.A. Hurthern National open will also be run in conjunction with the Stu Evans eponsored To Ruel Invitational. The Northern Hational Open featured all the Division three class cars running for N.H.R.A.POINTS and the Ramchargers Pro Street Shoot Out with cars like Bruce Kimmons, and local racers George Beluga and Donny Harper. This weekend proved to be selbig as a National event without the big price sag. Seafood Tavern rolls out welcome mat

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Casual and friendly, Chuck Muer's Seafood Tavern, which opened in March, has something on the menu for everyone seafood, ribs, chicken, pasta, and beef. You can stop in for appetizers and drinks, a seafood dinner, or burger with soup or salad. There are booths and tables, and the bar is separate from the dining area. Don't leave your kids at home, they're welcome here.

There's a game room with video and pinball games, a wall of aquariums to look at, and a special menu for children under 10. Even the most finicky child will find something to their liking. Choices include burger with fries, chicken strips, fried scrod, linguine with Alfredo or butter sauce, and cheese pizza. A soft drink and ice cream are includ-

For more sophisticated palates, the chefs will gladly create a child-size portion. "There was a seven year old girl in here. recently who ordered Cedar Plank Salmon," said Executive Chef Tom "Buzzy" Holzer of West Bloomfield. "We've had kids order mussels and Shrimp Danielle. The adult portions are too big for kids.'

Believing that kids grow up to be big kids, and that means more customers, the staff at Chuck Muer's aims to please. "We're open to suggestions from customers," said Holzer. "If a guest wants something special we'll call to see if we can get it," added corporate chef Jim Blake. "Then we'll call to say we've got Salmon, customers called to find out when it would be on the menu again.

Fish is like produce; it's seasonal, and not all varieties are available all the time. Look for smelt in the spring, but lobster tails, an often requested item, are available on weekends.

When they were developing their Blue Plate lunch and dinner menu, the chefs asked people what their favorite comfort food was.

Monday is chicken pot pie day, Tuesday, beef stroganoff, Wednesday, lasagna, Thursday, roast turkey served with mashed potatoes & gravy and season vegetable, Friday, lemon crumb scrod with choice of potato or rice, and seasonal vegetables, and Saturday, prime rib of beef.

Popular seafood offerings include Potato Encrusted Whitefish ($9.50); Salmon Rockefeller - Salmon filet stuffed with spinach Rockefeller mix, rice medley, and seasonal vegetable ($11.95), jambalya, and Cedar Planked Whitefish ($9.50) or Salmon ($11.50). Chuck Muer's Seafood Tavern also sells a lot of ribs and beef. Diners have a choice of BBQ St. Louis Ribs or Texas Beef Ribs, filet mignon, London Broil, or Steak a la Muer. Chicken breast, with Martha's Raspberry, Teriyaki or Barbecue sauce is on the menu. along with half of a roasted chicken. You can order Pasta Pagliara - salmon, shrimp, scallops, mussels & linguine ($14.95), or Fettuccini & Meatballs ($7.25).

In addition to the Tavern Burger (six ounces fresh ground chuck topped with cheese, bacon & BBQ sauce), and traditional hamburgers, they also sell almost 1,000 salmon burgers a month. Chinese Chicken Salad - Asian vegetables, grilled chicken, Mandarin oranges, crispy wontons and peanut dressing ($7.95) is a muchordered lunch item.

For something light, try a Dinner Pizza - there's Chef Jimmy's giant pizza with housemade sausage, pepperoni, onion, mushrooms and three cheeses, individual pizza pies, smoked salmon pizza, BLT pizza and White Vegetable Pizza — broccoli, garlic, zucchini & three cheeses.

During the summer, the chefs order produce locally from Centennial Farms, which is owned by the Gass Family. They supply the restaurant with corn, tomatoes, beans, raspberries, squash and herbs.

A Summer Lite menu, which started July 5, features items made with farm-fresh produce. Chuck Muer's Seafood Tavern is known for their Gazpacho, which will be available through Labor

Save room for dessert; there's Key Lime Pie, New York Style Cheesecake with berry sauce, apple and Michigan cherry pie, and a brownie hot fudge sundae.

Higham low man

Dave Higham, a recent Livonia Churchill graduate, won the 16-over division at the Wilson Junior Classic on Monday with a round of 73 at Flushing Valley Golf Course in Flushing.

Higham's total was one better than runner up Mike Reabe of Woodhaven.

Higham's teammate at Churchill, Chris Keihler, tied for eighth with a round of 77.

Crusaders reach sweet 16

The Crusaders Under-14 AAU girls volleyball team placed 16th at the national tournament held June 21-25 in Des Moines, Ia.

Livonians Alexis Bowman, Andrea Kmet, Kristin Kmet, Tera Morrill and Desiree Betts teamed with Jill Dombrowski, Angie Germain and Amanda Suder, all of Plymouth, to finish with a 15-4 record.

The coaches were Debbie Karabees-Betts and

In baseball, Redford Thurston earned both a district and regional award Class B. North Farmington, Detroit Catholic Central and Livonia Franklin were Class A district recipients and in Class C, Livonia Clarenceville was lauded with a district honor.

In softball, Farmington Hills Mercy, Garden City and Plymouth Canton earned the Good Sports Are Winners district awards.

Bentley grad an Olympic official

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

What Dan Riggs did, back in October of 1994, wasn't any different than what thousands of other sports enthusiasts did.

He knew the Olympics were coming to Atlanta. He found the telephone number to purchase tickets. And he called.

Riggs wasn't an ordinary ticketbuyer, it's true. A long-time coach at Plymouth Canton HS in all kinds of sports - he currently coaches the Chiefs' girls golf team, but he's also been active in football and wrestling Riggs is a certified official in both football and wrestling as well.

It was the latter that drew Riggs' Olympic interest. And ultimately, that interest got him something he never dreamed of when he first made that phone call, nearly two years ago.

Riggs isn't going to the Olympics merely as a spectator any longer.

Riggs: Olympic bound

He's going to be part of it, as an athletic service manager in the wrestling venue.

Finesse U-14 eyes state title

Under 12 squad also looking sharp

The Finesse Under-14 girls softball team will be going after its third-straight state tournament championship this weekend at Rotunda Field in Dearborn.

This is Bob Bako's second year as coach and he believes this team has better potential than last year's, which finished 13th at the World

Finesse will play in two World Tournaments this month. They have qualified for the National Softball Association World Tournament July 17-21 in Rock Hill, S.C. and the United State Slo-pitch Softball Association World Tournament July 24-28 at the Canton Softball Center.

Bako said Finesse is the favorite to repeat as state champion and a good bet to finish among the top five at both world tournaments.

Finesse is 34-13 overall, including 8-6 in the league. It is 26-7 in tournaments, including 2-0-1 at last weekend's InterLakes Tournament in Commerce Township.

Finesse beat Clinton Valley, 17-3, and the Downriver Destroyers 16-6 before having a rematch with Clinton Valley in the championship game, a 10-10 tie. "We have a good mix of power and speed and I think the biggest turnaround from last year is our pitching," Bako said. "We are giving up less than one walk per game compared to about five or six last year. We were basically a 13-year-old team last year." Finesse's pitcher is Jillian Minjoe, who hails from Washington, Mi. and attends Romeo High School. Her father works with Bako, which is the connection she used to join Finesse.

Minjoe walked only two batters in 12 innings of work at the InterLakes

Summer hockey founder 'lucky' after heart attack

A.J. Baker, formerly of Redford and now an assistant hockey coach at University of Alabama-Huntsville. is on the road to recovery after suffering a heart attack at age 37.

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

A.J. Baker is so relieved, he feels like taking a joy ride - on his Zamboni, of course.

Baker, a 37-year-old Redford Union graduate and an assistant coach for the 1996 NCAA Division II national hockey champion University of Alabama-Huntsville, says he's blessed to be on his feet again after suffering a heart attack June

"I have to get back on the Zamboni, do some toolin' around, 360 degree power turns, stay away from the walls and make sure I don't run anyone over," joked Baker, interviewed over the telephone Tuesday night. "I feel very lucky." Baker is overjoyed, but don't get the wrong impression. He knows that after an experience like his, which included four days in a hospital's intensive care, it's time to change some of his daily routine and diet.

Baker, the founder of the Metro Summer Hockey League that plays most of its games at the Plymouth Cultural Center, left for UAH two summers ago.

His jobs as an assistant coach and manager of a local rink called the Ice Plex kept him busy throughout the day and eating on the go at odd times.

"I'd have burgèrs, pizza once a day, chow down on big some steak, couple bags of chips, four cups of coffee," said.

Livonian has winning formula with youth team

By Steve Kowalski

Lou Pirronello decided to coach a 10 and 11-year old baseball team this summer instead of the 17 and 18-year old team he's had the last several years.

What Pirronello is finding is coaching kids nearly half as old can be twice as rewarding.

Not that Pirronello, a Livonia resident, didn't enjoy some of his past teams, which have always played under the sponsorship of his company Concealed Security Systems. In fact, last year's Concealed Security team won a regional and advanced all the way to the Connie Mack World Series in Farmington, N.M.

But he's finding his new endeavor to be more rewarding, knowing that 9 and 10 year olds are very impressionable. Pirronello's youngsters have been quick learners, celebrating the Fourth of July weekend with a championship at the DeDonatis Firecracker Classic at Halmich Park in Warren.

The Concealed Security Dodgers are 28-9 overall and tied for first place with North Farmington West Bloomfield in the Little Caesars Baseball Federation League with a 14-3

"Not to take anything away from Connie Mack baseball or coaching experiences at Farmington High and Madonna University, because there are many fond memories and good friendships there, but coaching my son Mark and the other 10 year olds on this team is much more enjoyable than I ever expected," Pirronello said. "The determination and extra effort these little guys give is amazing. They always

Because most of Pirronello's players only previous experience has been in house leagues, where leadoffs, bunting and steals are not allowed at such a young age, it was important to get ready for the season before going outdoors.

Pirronello picked his team from indoor tryouts during the winter when teaching fundamentals and basic baseball rules were as important as selecting talent.

This was another difference from coaching Connie Mack players, who spent their off-season dealing with their high school coaches.

"Not only did we break down the mechanics of fielding, throwing and hitting, but we had to teach them how to lead off, steal a base and how to hold runners on base," Pirronello said. "It all seems worth it now because they have learned so much in just one season. Truthfully, the 10 year old is much easier to instruct Any bad habits they have are easy to remove."

Making the all-tournament team at last week's tournament were Brian Dutton (Redford), Shaun Murray (Redford), C.T. Rigley (Redford), Kyle Miller (Farmington Hills), Anthony Volpe (Farmington) and Jason Krug (Redford).

The Dodgers beat Dublin, Ohio, 9-1, in the championship game behind the one-hit pitching of Krug, a recent addition to the team. Krug finished out his commitment with his house league team in Redford before joining Concealed Security.

He had six strikeouts and one walk before suffering a sprained ankle running out a grounder to first base. Miller pitched the final inning.

Murray and Dutton each went 2-for-3 to lead the Dodgers. Volpe had two RBI while going 1-2. The most suspense took place in the semifinals, where the Dodgers beat Tri-County, 6-5. Tri-County brought a 40-2 record into the tournament. The Dodgers broke a 5-5 tie in the bottom of the sixth. Dutton struck out, but the catcher when the throw to first base from the catcher went into right

Krug's single just inside the line scored Dutton with the winning run.

Defense is what helped Concealed set up the winning rally.

Tri-County loaded the bases on a pair of singles and a walk with no outs in the top of the sixth. But a line shot was caught by Andrew Soley (Farmington) at second base and he threw to first baseman Greg Hocking (Farmington) to complete a double play. The next batter struck out to end the threat.

In the fifth, Tri-County loaded the bases against Rigley, who bore down and got the next two batters on strikes to end that threat without a run scoring.

The Dodgers received RBI doubles from Krug and Dutton and an RBI single by Volpe earlier in the game.

The Dodgers advanced to the playoff round after finishing pool play with a 3-1 record.

Volpe was the pitcher of record in a 10-1 win over the Ann Arbor Braves, which also ended in a four-inning mercy. He struck out three and allowed four hits. Miller was 2-3 with two RBI and Murray was 2-2 as the Dodgers jumped ahead with nine runs in the first.

The Detroit Giants handed the Dodgers their first defeat, 10-7. Concealed scored four runs in the first but the Giants came back with five in the bottom of that inning and never trailed again.

The Dodgers finished pool play with an 11-1 win over the St. Clair Shors Indians. Mike Monterey (Farmington) and Liyonian Philip Mabey combined on a nohitter, which also ended in a four-inning mercy.

The win was highlighted by a five-run econd inning, which featured consecutive successful suicide squeeze bunts by Soley and Miller.

Derek Fox (Farmington) went the distance, striking out six and yielding one walk to record the pitching win.

In the semifinal game, Livonia Travel defeated the Michigan Bulls, 12-2, in a four-inning mercy rule game. Livonia Travel took control with five runs in the first inning.

Rogowski's two-run double, scoring both Malek and Fox, who had walked, started the scoring. Brett Wells (Livonia Churchill) singled and Rabe hit a fence-clearing three-run home run.

Malek's two-run homer in the second inning followed Fox's double.

The Bulls countered with two runs in the bottom of the second, but Livonia continued its offensive punch in the fourth as Mario D'Herin (Redford CC) tripled to score both Dale Hayes (Westland John Glenn) and Rabe, who had singled.

Livonia Travel defeated St. Clair Shores Giant (18-2), Barrie, Ontario (13-5), Cleveland Lakes (8-0) and Cincinnati Towne Properties (8-4) in round-robin play.

Malek (14-19, four homers), Rabe (13-19, one homer, seven extra base hits), Rogowski (12-17), Hayes, Wells and Fox were all-tournament selections.

Other team members included Mark Mink (Stevenson), Ryan Wilmering (Redford CC), Justin Draughn (Livonia Churchill), Chris Woodruff (Redford CC) and Brad Tracy (Redford CC).

"This was a great offensive tournament for our players," coach Bill Rabe said. "It was a total team effort. It is a result of hard work year round. We spend as much time in the winter months working on our game as we do in the summer and the progress is evident.'

Grewe no hits Orioles as Lancers split pair

The Livonia Lancers split an Incredible Girls Fast Pitch League double-header on Tuesday against the host Northville Orioles, winning the first game 14-3 before losing the nightcap 7-5.

Melanie Grewe was the winning pitcher in Game 1, throwing a no-hitter with eight strikeouts. She walked eight batters, allowing Northville to score three runs.

Kim Keller, Jill Murphy, Margret Day and Gen Dudas had key hits.

Rebeca Pawlick suffered the loss in Game 2, allowing five hits and four walks with four strikeouts.

Kathie Rospierski, Kristin Mannix, Erin Rockwell, Annie Bolognino and Day contributed key hits. Shortstop Sara Thiesmeyer and Rebekah Thorton played strong defense.

The Lancers are now 7-1.

Gators swept

The Canton Commodores swept the Livonia Gators, 15-8, 18-13, on Tuesday in Incredible Girls Fast-Pitch Softball League action.

Sarah Hennessey had a triple and double in defeat. Tara Muchow contributed a double in the second game.

Also contributing offensively despite the losses were Christine Fones, Jenny Stralko, Karie McMann, Becky Blackburn, Danielle Bushey and Kathleen Schram.

The losses dropped the Gators to 3-5 overall.

The U-12 team, like their sister team two years older, will play in the USSSA state tournament this weekend at Rotunda Field in Dearborn.

Stephanie Crews (Westland), Andrea McMillan (Livonia) and Crystal Little (Wayne) led Finesse with .667 batting averages, each going 10-for-15 at the plate. Crews had eight RBI and McMillan, Little and Jenny Stone (Northville) had seven each.

Rachel Reed hit .400 (6-15), while Stone batted .385 (5-13) as did Sara Booth (Garden City, 5-13) and Anne Roosevelt (Garden City, 5-13). Lauren Monterey (Farmington Hills) hit .353 (6-17) and Melanie Stack (Garden City) batted .313 (5-16).

The U-12 Finesse has had a successful season, including a runner-up finish June 22-23 at the Canton National Invitational Tournament.

Melanie Stack pitched three complete games and one inning of the other, a 20-5 win over the Interlakes Classics in the semifinal on Sunday. She only allowed three walks in 22 innings of work throughout the weekend.

Crews gave Stack some rest, pitching three innings after Finesse had taken a commanding 15-0 lead following the first inning.

Andrea McMillan had four hits and two RBI and Crews contributed three hits, all doubles, with four RBI to propel Finesse into the finals.

The Flames scored nine runs in the fourth inning of the championship game to take a 14-7 lead, but Finesse rallied with nine of its own in the fifth and scored the eventual winning run in the sixth.

Crews had four hits and three

RBI. McMillan had three hits and three RBI and Stone contributed two hits and three RBI.

Finesse opened the tournamnt with a 15.10 win over the Flames as Stone had three hits and four RBI and McMillan two hits and two RBI. The second game was a 7-3 victory for Finesse over the Dirt Devils. Monerey had four hits and two RBI and Little contributed three hits and three RBI.

The Finesse team also includes Jennifer Kiesnowski (Romulus), Corrine Kilburn (Sterling Heights), Courtney Frankowicz (Garden City), Jodie Reed (Wayne), Megan Pickens (Livonia) and Sara Crews (Westland). Crews and Reed are the team's only 10 year olds.

The manager is John Tonner and coaches include Jenny Smith, Chuck Fay and Kevin Kilburn.

RECALL EFFORTS

Recalls of automobiles over safety concerns signal an effort by consumers, government agencies, and automobile manufacturers to make ars, varis, and trucks safer. A measure of the care and difigence that these various interests bring to this common goal is underscored by the fact that, for the first time, the number of cars recalled exceeded the number of new cars sold. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), over 17.8 m (son ver cles were recalled in 1995 and, according to the trace publication Automotive News, fewer than 15 nellon cars and light trocks were sold in the U.S. during the same period. This does not mean that 1995 models were any less safe than those manufactured in previous years. A safety recall campaign can cover up to eight years of a particular model and ized Tuesday at Plymouth Ice Arena, three goals and three assists. when the Falcons - the only unbeaten team remaining in the Metro Summer Hockey League - and the once-beaten Broncos tangled.

Falcons take kick out of Broncos, 11-2

It figured to be a battle down to the final buzzer. It wasn't; the Falcons broke a 1-1tie early in the second period and just kept rolling, all the way to an 11-2 victory.

The win kept the Falcons on top of the MSHL's Bakes Conference with a 5-0 record. The Broncos slipped to 4-2, but remained in first place in the Eagle Conference, one point ahead of the Wolverines.

The Broncos did do one thing: They kept Falcon sniper Jesse Hubenschmidt, from Redford-Detroit Catholic Central, from doing serious damage. Hubenschmidt had been on a tear, scoring five goals-Sunday to boost his total to a league-best 14.

He got just one against the Broncos, but David Scott and Dan Hunt picked up the goal-scoring slack for the Falcons. Scott riddled the Broncos for four goals (he now has 12 for the season) opening up the locker room, then rushing over to the ice rink at 3:30 every day and staying late."

The hectic schedule and questionable diet aside, Baker knew heart trouble was a possibility. His father died at the age of 59 and his grandfather at age 60, both from heart dis-

"I'm kind of prone to that type of thing," he said.

Baker's heart attack came while he was showering in the locker room following a pickup hockey game at the Ice Plex. Although the pain told him there was something seriously wrong, he never lost consciousness and eventually was able to drive himself to the hospital.

He didn't let any of the players still hanging around the locker room know he was even in pain.

"I felt fine when I got off the ice, but in the shower is when I started feeling bad," Baker said. "It felt like two big guys sitting on my chest. My hands were a little numb, but I didn't let on anything, the other guys had no idea what was going on. I didn't feel like I was going to pass out. But I got

After everyone left, Baker remained at the Ice Plex, knowing he had to resurface both ice sheets, count the money, set the security system and lock up.

He finished resurfacing one of the ice surfaces, but because of the pain decided to skip the second ice surface and wait until the morning to count the

Baker got in his car and when the pain didn't go away, drove straight to the hospital, where he was rushed to imme-

"I sat in the car 10 minutes, thinking it would pass. When I still didn't feel well I thought I better get some help," Baker said.

Baker said his doctor told him his heart attack was a "5" on a scale of 1-10. The doctor performed a cardiac catheterization and angioplasty and several days later Baker returned home.

Baker expects to be back at work next week and an upcoming stress test should show how soon he can assume more responsibilities. A more sensible diet, including dried bananas, yogurt covered pretzels (yes there are such things), and long walks are most important to his rehabilitation, he said. Baker's mother flew to Alabama and spent 10 days with him.

He said get-well wishes have come from all over, including a card from the MSHL.

"I feel real good right now the people at the hospital treated me fantastic, I've got too many people pulling for me right now," he said. "I got a card from (MSHL commissioner Keith) Pietila, a whole pile of signatures from people I knew (in the MSHL) and even people I didn't know."

Baker knows his health is a top priority, but he can't help but is think about the future of UAH hockey. With Division II hockey in jeoparday because of diminishing teams, there is talk that UAH will move up to Division I and join the Central Collegiate Hockey Association with teams like Michigan and Michigan State.

"I have that on good authority," Baker said of UAH's possible move to Division I and the Current UAH players inclued Paul Schloss from Livonia and Redford Catholic Central and Tony Guzzo from Canton.

Bentley HS graduate said. "But this is something different.'

That's for sure. Riggs, who has been a wrestling official in state high school district and regional tournaments for the past 15 years and who coached Canton's wrestling team for 10 years, will now be a sort of liaison.

"I'll be dealing with the athletes during the competition," he explained. "They'll check in with me first, and I'll make sure they have everything they need."

That will include getting them an escort, to help foreign athletes and coaches in a strange land find their way around.

The job is strictly volunteer, and it won't be easy. Riggs leaves Monday and goes through a basic orientation Tuesday through Thursday (he's already been studying an extensive manual), which includes a dress rehearsal for the opening ceremonies Wednesday.

BUCKET OF BALLS

Wrestling competition begins Sunday, July 20, with the Greco-Roman style. Following those three days of competition, Riggs will go back into training for two days, followed by the freestyle competition July 29-31.

He's been told his work days could last from 7:30 a.m. until 10

Does that sound like fun? It does to him.

"It's going to be really neat," Riggs insisted. "How many times will you get the chance to be on the same floor as the greatest athletes in the world?-

"I'm excited. As the days get closer, I get a bit more nervous."

No one was more surprised than Riggs to be selected to one of the premier volunteer positions in the wrestling venue. According to Riggs, only seven of the 125 staff members in that sport are service managers - and more than 2,000 people applied for those 125 spots.

Riggs sent in his application almost as a lark. When he heard on the phone recording as he ordered tickets for the Olympic wrestling competition that volunteers were needed, his reaction was, "Well, what the heck."

He sent in his name. Two months later, in December of '94, he received his first packet of forms to fill out. He did, sent them in and, the following July, he-got another-packet containing more specific questions.

He had survived the first round of eliminations.

He completed the second set of forms and returned them, then

"I didn't hear anything for five or six months." When he did, it was Christmas 1995.

Jim Craig, one of the top officials in charge of Olympic wrestling, telephoned Riggs at school. Riggs thought it was some sort of prank, at first. But Although he'll receive no payment for his services, he will only have to pay for his transportation to Atlanta. He'll receive a uniform, which includes a watch, shoes, shirts, pants and a hat, all of which he can keep, and housing, food and transportation will be provided.

Riggs is hoping to be at the medal rounds for wrestling, which would add to what already figures to be a sizable number of memories.

New legislation protects anglers can rest easily knowing they have the same protection from harassment by the animal-rights extremists as

Michigan hunters enjoy.

In an effort to give anglers protection from harassment and interference while fishing, Governor Engler recently signed a package of bills that makes. harassment of fishermen on Michigan waters a misdemeanor offense as of July 1, 1996. Sponsored by Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) and Representative Dave Jaye (R-Washington Township), the legislation is officially called the "Michigan Fisherman's Rights Act" and is modeled after Michigan's hunter harassment law. Engler signed the bills recently at a press conference at the Brenke Fish Ladder in Lansing after the bills were unanimously passed by both the senate and the house. "Blessed with abundant natural resources Michigan has always been a state where outdoor sporting activities such as angling are encouraged," said Engler, in a prepared release. "As any fisherman will tell you, there are few things more peaceful and enjoyable than finding a quiet spot to cast a line." This legislation is a direct effort to keep those quiet spots peaceful and "Back in the spring, PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals) announced it was going to launch a campaign this summer to harass fishermen and that Michigan was one of the target states," explained Art

Dittmar, a Farmington Hills resident and past president of Michigan United Conservation Clubs. "This legislation was in response to that threat. Thank goodness it took effect on July 1."

Under the new legislation, anyone who harasses, obstructs or interferes in the lawful taking of fish and other aquatic species could face up to 93 days in jail and/or fines of between $500 and $1,000. A second offense could result in a year in jail and/or a fine of between $1,000 and $2,500. Commercial fishermen are also protected under the Michigan Fisherman's Rights Act, but the fines are increased to no less than $500 to $5,000 for a first offense and no less than $1,000 to $10,000 for a second offense

"Thanks to this legislation, fishermen in the Great Lakes State can worry less about big-mouth protesters and more about big-mouth bass," said

The legislation also protects anglers from the annoying antics of disrespectful snowmobile and personal water craft operators.

The legislation is a four-bill package. •8B 963 creates protection for the recreational fisherman and is similar to Michigan's existing hunter harassment law. It prohibits a person from obstructing or interfering in the lawful taking of fish and other aquatic species by another person. An individual violates the law by intentionally or knowingly engaging in the acts listed in the •HB 5775 is the penalty provision for violations of the sport fishing section. •SB 965 strengthens the hunter harassment law by eliminating a double intent requirement and adding the repeat offense •SB 966 extends the protection to commercial fishermen and increases fines.

The legislation has been carefully drafted so people who are swimming, boating or sailing will not face prosecution by an overzealous fisherman.

Here you ever wondered what it would be the to take your Centero, Caretier or the tarrily Mustang and drive from 0 to 200 mp.h. + in a 1/4 mile? Talk to the people that have some of the testest door stammers around. Pro-modified racing is of the instast door stammers around. Pro-modified racing is slightly modified tody styles of the cars we all drive on the street. The motors are obviously bigger and the chassis and roll cage set up is designed for the traction and safety needed to get the cars down the track and protect the driver when things don't go as planned. Most of these cars are powered by the cutto inch motors numing over 1,000 horsepower and the motor his most unpredictable forms of horsepower so you navier this most unpredictable forms of horsepower so you navier things what can happen when the green light comes on. John limits unfoaded his brand new spill window Consette and ran 8.87 and 6.86 input out of the trailer. Tim McCammils came to them and drows for Chris Hotorock in the Stu Evans Lincklier. GranCareopens new regional office here

One-stop shopping apparently has arrived in the healthcare field.

Aging baby boomers and an increasing number of adults responsible for their aging parents has caused a new strain on healthcare. But one company that entered the Detroit market several years ago thinks it has found the solution by offering a continuum of care. It may be the first in Michigan to offer the fullrange of service.

Livonia has become the regional administrative office for GranCare, Inc., a national company that offers services for patient's post-acute and longterm needs.

'We case manage the patient and match them (with a healthcare plan) based on their medical condition and socioeconomic needs.

Helayne O'Keiff

president

The regional office on Ann Arbor Road, near I-275, is the Michigan headquarters for seven branch offices, three pharmacies, five assisted living centers and 11 skilled nursing facilities. GranCare also employs a host of home care professionals.

GranCare may be known more familiar locally by its subsidiaries, the five Hamilton House assisted living centers, one of which is located on Drake Road in Farmington Hills, and its skilled nursing facilities, Cambridge Nursing Centers. It is in the process of selling its Redford location on Beech Daly.

"We case manage the patient and match them (with a healthcare plan) based on their medical condition and socio-economic needs," said Helayne O'Keiff, president of the Home Care division of GranCare, headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia.

In the past a person seeking care for an aging parent had to find different providers to ensure that the parent was taken care of during various stages of their heath. With one phone call, GranCare consultants can place the individual in a skilled nursing home, assisted living center, or send a visiting nurse to their home. The patient can be moved from one continuum to the next depending upon their condition.

The patient will be seen by a GranCare registered nurse within 24 hours of calling its intake hotline, said O'Keiff.

Home healthcare has taken off in recent years as hospital costs increase and hospital stays shorten. Home health is also one of the most cost-effective means of taking care of an ill person.

"We send a professional to the home and teach the family how to continue care. This way we provide one hour of care rather than a lengthy hospital stay... We can do a lot more at home." said O'Keiff.

Four areas of service include the resident facilities, such as the skilled nursing and assisted living centers; Team Care Pharmacy: Home Health Division; and Cornerstone, which builds relationships with hospitals and offers facilities management ser-GranCare entered the Detroit market in 1991 through the acquisition of International Healthcare Management, which owned 17 facilities. In January, GranCare merged with RN Health Care Services.

Next building phase opens at Park Ridge

Park Ridge South, an upscale single family site condominium community in West Bloomfield, continues a collaboration between Cohen & Associates and the Selective Group.

That partnership, along with Nosan Enterprises, has laid the groundwork for 67 units across Pontiac Trail from Park Ridge.

Detached condos range in price from $329,900 for a twostory of 3,175 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $419,900 for a 4,075-squarefoot two story with four bedrooms, three full baths and two half-baths.

Larry Cohen handles the building. Models are expected to be completed by the end of the

"We spend an incredible amount of time to think out design," Cohen said. "It has to live well, not just look good. You have to take an interior design and blend it with an artful exterior design.

"We've typically tried to be on the cutting edge," he said. "Here, we took a whole different tack on elevation – softer, less formal but timeless, classic appeal.

"We take a good, basic design and try to improve on it," Cohen said, citing a gathering/sitting area/computer space in an upstairs loft component of the Monterey Summit plan.

"Here, I wanted to put in an active playground for children. In our mind, open spaces, gazeboes aren't good enough if they can't be used by the community."

Eight plans are available, but buyers can customize. Most lots carry premiums ranging from $5,000 to $25,000.

All plans include at standard price three car garage, fireplace, double oven, cooktop and dishwasher, first floor laundry, basement, ceramic or wood flooring and 20 recessed lights.

Two models will be erected. The Versailles, the most expensive unit at $419,900, is 4,075 all upstairs, three full baths and two half baths. Plans call for a main floor featuring a library, great room, family room, dining room, kitchen/nook with serving peninsula and two staircases to the second floor.

One half-bath on the first floor is off the garage and laundry, the other, more formal, between the foyer and library.

The step-up master has a pan ceiling, separate tub and shower, dual sink vanity and walk-in closet.

Two other bedrooms share a jack-and-jill bath. The fourth bedroom has its own toilet and shower.

The Cambridge III also is a two story with four bedrooms up. At 3,800 square feet, the base price is $384,900! The main floor features a parlor, library and family room separated by a two-way fireplace, kitchen/nook and dining room with butler's pantry. Again, two half baths are on the main level.

The master, with cathedral ceiling, shows two separate vanities, two walk-in closets and a separate tub and shower.

Two bedrooms share a jackand-jill bath and the fourth bedroom has its own shower.

Cohen also offers three floor plans with a first floor master.

Brick, stone, wood and Dryvit will be used as exterior materisquare feet with four bedrooms, Versallies: This model at Park Ridge South includes four bedrooms, three full baths, two half-baths and more than 4,000 square feet of living space.

"We've had a lot of interest, a lot of enthusiasm," said Gail Sandweiss, sales coordinator. "The lots are magnificent, homesites are densely treed so there's a lot of privacy. It's like you're in northern Michigan.

"Kitchens are magnificently sized," she added. "We're hearing that's what people want. And large family rooms for all the media equipment people 'have now.

"The desire to be in this area is very strong," Sandweiss said. "Schools are excellent, value for home is excellent and the location is excellent."

buying here will have purchased new before, Cohen said.

Park Ridge South is serviced by city water and sewers. The. subdivision will have sidewalks. It's within the Walled Lake school boundaries.

The property tax rate currently is $28.14 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $385,000 unit there would pay just over $5,400 the first year.

The annual association fee is estimated at $200-$250.

Kim and Ken Berman, bought a four-bedroom, two story in At this price point, most people Park Ridge about two years ago for themselves and children Justin, Jordan and Jenna. It was their first brand new house.

"The building process went very smoothly," Kim said. "We were in before they said we'd be in and any minor things (problems) they took care of right

"What attracted us, I guess, was the design of the home," she said. "The best thing we liked about the plan was two staircases - one off the foyer, one off the they did everything they said family room."

Kim Berman also cited the family friendliness of the sub including neighbors, sidewalks and playground as as attraction.

Sandy and Michael Lippitt, along with son, Maxwell, also have lived in Park Ridge for about two years.

"We liked the location. It's a little further out from congestion," Michael said. "We like the coming school district of Walled Lake. We like the rural nature of the area and we liked the price point.

"From a building experience, they would," Lippitt said.

The sales office at Park Ridge, (810) 669-1070, is open noon to 6 p.m. daily.

Do your gardening safely

In the blink of an eye, you can damage your vision with something as simple as debris thrown from a lawn mower.

Fortunately, protecting your eyes from the dangers of working in the yard can be as simple as wearing protective eyewear.

Here are five precautions:

1. Protect your eyes from flying particles, fertilizer and pesticides with safety eyewear. 2. Follow all instructions on warning labels for equipment and chemicals. — 3. Remove all stones, twigs and other potential projectiles before you mow or weedwhack an area.

4. Be sure to spray a chemical away from your face and the faces of others nearby.

5. Keep others, especially children, a safe distance from your work area or equip them with protective gear, including eyewear.

Keep these safety tips in mind and keep safety glasses on your face when working in the yard and you may be better able to keep yourself and your family out of the accident statistics.

Association honors president emeritus

James S. Bonadeo, president founding in 1928. emeritus of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan, is one great guy. according to colleagues and friends who recently toasted his 50 years in the business with a testimonial dinner.

Bonadeo, 80, a Plymouth resident and still active in residential construction, served as president of the association for three years, 1989 through 1991.

He's the only person to serve as president for more than one year since the association's

"I enjoy everything I just did," Bonadeo says of his active lifestyle. "Probably the most enjoyable part was when I used to build 10 custom homes a year, I got to meet people and you became friends with them."

A plumber by training, Bonadeo figures he's built thousands of houses in suburban Detroit. He was especially active in Redford early in his career, Plymouth now.

He was a moving force in Victosubstantial residential development in the city in years.

Bonàdeo also has been active in charity and civic work including Boys Town of Italy and Madonna University.

Bonadeo, who credits much of his success to "some terrific people working for me," said he has no plans to retire.

"I promised my wife, Earlene, ria Park subdivision in Detroit after 80 I'd slow down to 40 during the early 1990s, the first hours a week. She chided me recently saying, 'You've been 80 for four weeks and you haven't slowed down yet."

> The couple enjoys extensive traveling.

> A daughter, Nancy, and son, Mark, have been involved in the construction business during various stages of their lives.

Proceeds from the testimonial will be used to establish a scholarship in Bonadeo's name for students interested in a building career. A portion also will be used for political action on behalf of property rights.

"Jim has told me that one of the most gratifying parts of his business is the second- and third-time buyers he sees," said Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, a Farmington Hills builder and current BIA president.

"Continuity like that speaks for itself."

with a noisy condensing unit. Choose a model with a low sound level that appeals to you and your neighbors.

3. Small Size: Your central cooling system will feature a unit that sits in your back or side yard. You'll want to choose one large enough to do the job, but small enough not to detract from the beauty of the exterior of your home.

4. Environmentally sound: New chlorine-free refrigerants used in some brands of air-conditioning will not harm the earth's protective ozone layer.

Carrier's WeatherMaker

highest-efficiency single-speed residential air conditioners, providing a SEER of 13.0. Its highefficiency rating helps you reduce your cooling costs between 40 and 60 percent and qualifies it for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Energy Star Residential Program, which recognizes products that reduce energy consumption. and pollution.

The WeatherMaker is also one of the quietest models available. Its sound output, as low as 71 decibels, is as quiet as your refrigerator. It also uses a new chlorine-free refrigerant which complies with future phase-out qualified service technician or legislation affecting residential air conditioners. This chlorinefree refrigerant, R-410A, makes the WeatherMaker the first residential air conditioner to be approved by Green Seal, a national, non-profit environmental labeling organization. R-410A also enabled Carrier to make the new air conditioner as much as 27 percent smaller than comparable units.

Once you purchase your system, remember these maintenance tips to ensure optimum performance and comfort:

1. Have your central air-conditioning system inspected by a dealer at the beginning of the air conditioner yourself. Call a season.

2. Clean the standard air filters monthly and newer, more advanced filters every three to five months.

3. Make sure the outdoor or condensing unit of a central air conditioner is free of debris. Trim or remove shrubs or obstructions within one foot of the unit.

4. Be careful when mowing the lawn near a condensing unit that grass clippings and leaves are not blown toward the unit.

5. Never add refrigerant to an Synidcate Inc.

dealer who has the knowledge and equipment to do this job properly.

6. Do not run a central air conditioner when the outdoor temperature is below 70 degrees... This may cause premature compressor failure.

Color is the key to today's home decorating

What's a great way to perk up a tired-looking room or give a sense of serenity to a room that's always full of chaos? Color! The right color scheme in a room can create an atmosphere that suits your particular lifestyle needs.

"When decorating a room, one of the first steps is to establish a color scheme" says Margi Daniels, ASID, La-Z-Boy design consultant. "And it doesn't take an interior designer to combine colors that will bring out the best in your home. With a little design know-how, selecting and coordinating colors can be easy."

A handy tool any do-it-yourself decorator can use to simplify the color selection process is a "color wheel" available at your local art supply store. Invented in the 17th century by Sir Isaac Newton and still widely used throughout the interior design industry today, the color wheel incorporates the spectrum of colors into an easy-to-use wheel form, helping designers and consumers alike create well-balanced and aesthetically pleasing color schemes.

According to Daniels, there are four basic color schemes derived from the color wheel that can act as simple guidelines when decorating your home:

Monochromatic Scheme

A monochromatic color scheme uses one color only, incorporating degrees of lightness and darkness (or value) of that color for variety. With a monochromatic color scheme, textural fabrics on upholstered furniture can be used to add depth and richness to a room. This scheme works most effectively in small rooms.

Triadic color schemes are developed using any three colors that are equidistant from each other on the color wheel. When combined correctly, red, yellow

A "power surge' may not sound dan gerous, but if it strikes your PC, TV or other electronic equipment, it can be a real problem and a financial or replacement costs.

Lightning doesn't have to hit a power line to fry your electronic gear. It can strike a tree in your yard and find its way into your house wiring through a ground connection.

Fortunately, there is something you can do to protect your investment. You can now get a circuit breaker/ surge arrester to protect your home's entire electrical system.

Circuit breaker /surge , arresters, which typically retail around $75 to $100, be easily can: retrofitted into existing home load centers (that gray box in your basement or garage), though you should have a qualified electrician install it.

John Richert of Westland, Charles Sherk of Westland and Merl Terry of Northville attended a national sales and education conference sponsored by Aid Association for Luther-

Richert, Sherk and Terry, associates of the Park Jarrett III Agency in Livonia, qualified to attend the AAL Executive Conference-East in Washington, D.C., based on outstanding sales and service to AAL members during 1995.

Also, Richert and Terry's efforts to promote fraternalism in their communities earned them the opportunity to participate in the first AAL Servant Event with Jubilee Ministries, a group of nine missions working to improve the lives of the poor in Washington, D.C.'s, inner-city Adams-Morgan neighborhood.

Richert and Terry and other AAL fraternalists spent the day volunteering at one of 11 Jubilee Ministries work sites and four work sites at other nonprofit organizations. Volunteers served meals to the homeless, did landscaping and spring cleaning at homeless shelters in the neighborhood and assisted teachers at a day-care center for Jubilee Housing residents.

In addition to providing volunteers. AAL awarded Jubilee Ministries with a $50,000 grant. Since 1991 AAL has provided $130,000 in grants to support the missions of Jubilee Ministries.

Sherk was honored for achieving excellence in fraternal service and attended special volunteer recognition events at the conference.

Richert and Sherk joined AAL's field staff in 1993, while Terry joined AAL's field staff in

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Budget cuts threaten consumers' safety

Many of you who read this column or listen to my radio show know of my role in the world of consumerism. I specialize in the field of major home appliances and dabble in the rest of everyday life. I believe that consumers need to be treated fairly and honestly and that anything less than that is unacceptable.

The need for individuals and organizations which are labeled as helpers to consumers is greater today than ever before. President Kennedy felt the same way during his time in office when he established the United States Office for Consumer Affairs which is now being threatened with elimination.

It is my opinion that if this step by Congress is permitted, appliance rip-off problems will seem small in comparison to what will be perpetrated onto the American consumer. This agency in Washington with only 13 employees who work countless hours without compensation and care so much for others has been scheduled for a budget cut in September. The budget cut is a stinging amount of 1.8 million dollars which is only a small fraction of the country's total expenditure. The wrong of all this is the fact that it is their total budget which would in essence eliminate the agency which helps so many millions of American consumers.

We live in a world already needing more protection than we have. Take the example of Nancy Donley, who in 1993 served her son Alex a home-cooked frozen hamburger. Alex died three days later, a victim of an infection caused by E coli 0157:H7 a highly toxic bacteria that this country's antiquated meat inspection system isn't set up to detect. This poor woman who made sure that Alex wore his helmet every time he rode his little bicycle and strapped on his seatbelt in the car caused this tragedy by feeding and loving him.

The federal Centers for Disease Control reports that at least 10,000 Ameri-

This is just one of the many stories I could relate to you on the subject of consumerism in this big country. Since President Reagan thought it wise to cut back on everything possible, con-

Make it a daylily day

The Southern Michigan Hemerocallis Society will sponsor a daylily garden bus tour Sunday, July 21.

Registration is required. The $20 fee includes lunch and the bus tour. Send the fee to Armand DeLisle, 30332 Ohmer Dr., Warren 48092-1956. For more information, call DeLisle at (810)

The tour will visit gardens of the society's members. Two award-winning gardens will also be viewed; the Stout Silver Medal Bed, containing all the daylilies winning the highest national award given to one daylily each year since 1950, and the Don Fischer Memorial Cup Bed, featuring the best in miniature daylilies awarded nation ally since 1962.

The public is encouraged to join the tour, not only to see three differently styled beds incorporating the daylily but also to see how the daylily has progressed over several decades, of hybridizing and to learn more about the growing of the daylily.

GARDEN SPOT

Mosses will thrive in rock gardens

MART FIGLE

It's always exciting to meet a new plant and I recently was introduced to several at the recent Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association/Meadow Brook Garden Show.

In the rock garden installed and maintained by Ray Wiegand's Nursery Inc.

(where the trains entertain), assistant wholesale manager Rick Born pointed out Irish moss and Scottish moss. The nursery is at 47747 Romeo Plank Road, Macomb (call (810) 286-3658).

These plants aren't really mosses, but are Sajina sublostusa, false mosses that take heavy traffic, are excellent planted between bricks or stepping stones and make a significant addition to the various plants in a rock garden.

"Both of these plants like an acidic soil, 6 to 6.2 pH, and grow in the sun, which is important," Born said. "Although they are late to re-leaf in the spring, they are evergreen (Irish is dark green and Scottish is pale green), they're worth the wait. These 'mosses' only need pruning for esthetic purposes."

Born did caution me that when these plants are grown under ideal conditions they could be quite invasive, although they are easily controlled.

"We have been growing these plants in the nursery for at least six years and find that they are excellent plants."

True mosses grow normally in the woods and need shade. This variety of Sajina thrives in the sun and loves sand. Drainage is important and although it loves moisture it must dry out before giving it a thorough soak—1-1/2 inche's deep every two days. Although fertilization isn't necessary it may appreciate an occasional spray of muracid.

Other varieties

Several sedum, Crassulaceae, varieties are also important in the rock garden scene and also prefer a sunny site. One especially is S. kamtschaticum.

"You could play football on it and it won't bother it."

It has proved to be quite successful and is a particularly attractive sedum. The plant grows only five inches tall with white-margined green leaves. It flowers in the summer with orange-yellow blossoms.

There are many other low-growing sedums and Wiegand's Nursery has had good luck with three of them. They are all S. spuriums. The first variety, "Red Carpet," has red foliage and pink flowers; the second, "Dragonblood," has red foliage and white flowers, and S. spurium tricolor, sometimes called the Christmas sedum, has foliage that is red, green and white.

Other sedums that may be of interest are S. acre, a vigorous, evergreen species that grows only two inches high and has bright yellow flowers in the summer. Another perennial is S. dasyphyllum, with grayish-green oval foliage on pinkish-gray stems.

A good book about plants suitable for the rock garden will guide you in the proper selection for your growing conditions. Two of the latest offerings are both published by Timber Press. They are "Cushion Plants for the Rock Garden," Duncan Lowe ($29.95), and "Rock Garden Plants of North America," edited by Jane McGary ($49.95).

"Cushion Plants for the Rock Garden" details both easy-to-grow and more demanding varieties of these plants. Information about the survival tactics of 87 plants for pots, troughs, plunge beds and alpine gardens as well as instructions for growing them are

LET'S REMODEL

Home improvement loan can save money

Q: How can home improvement financing save me money?

A: These days we are all looking for a break on our taxes. Our home provides a means by which we can borrow on the equity for any purpose and receive a tax deduction.

"But, what if we don't have enough equity and how can home improvements helpt?" We have designed a wide range of loan programs that may require no equity, and then take into consideration the future value of your improvements before you have started the work.

"But how does this save me money – you're not giving me money, I'm borrowing it" It is simple, by taking your new improved value before work starts, you will have more equity upfront. This means that you can borrow (on a tax deductible basis) enough money to pay for the home improvements and pay off high rate, non tax deductible loans and credit cards.

For example: Existing value, $160,000. Existing First Mortgage, $100,000. Equity, $60,000. Credit Cards, $10,000. Car Loan, $10,000.

Monthly payments: Mortgage, $1,035. Credit Cards, $40, Car Loan, $350. Total: $1,785.

These are your current expenses and after shopping around you get a bid for $30,00 to do home improvements. Now you are in a slight panic because how on earth are you going to afford to get another loan to pay the contractor? Here is a possible solution.

Under our equity program you could qualify for $50,000. (Note: a typical bank would only lend you $28,000). That $50,000 would cover the job cost, credit cards and your car loan. The monthly payment would be $588 for 15 years.

New debt: Mortgage, $1,035, Harris loan, $588. Total $1,623.

So you would save $162 per month plus have $30,000 worth of home improvements done. This does not even consider tax benefits.

So there is a way to save money when financing. Good luck with your project.

GARDENS SHOW HEALTHY ATTITUDE

By Marty Figley Special Writer

A Healthy Garden Tour, , will take place 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, July 20, and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, July 21.

Ticket price is $3 for each tour. Different gardens are open each day, rain or shine. Children under 10 years of age aren't allowed. Tickets and maps are available at time of purchase at designated stations.

Direct questions weekdays to Southeastern Oakland County Resource Recovery Authority in Royal Oak at (810) 288-5150, or the Henry Ford Estate in Dearborn at (313) 593-5590. The tour is co-sponsored by the authority and the Detroit Free Press

The southeastern Michigan area has been divided into six sections so that many people can visit any or all of the gardens. (See the related schedule.)

All of the gardens on these tours (each tour has six or more gardens) use a minimal amount of chemicals or none at all. The styles are quite diverse so that visitors will be able to get ideas as well as enjoy their beauty. They feature annuals, perennials, herbs, shrubs and/or vegetables.

Working wonders

One Birmingham garden has been in the making for five years from what once had been a very neglected yard and garden. Now it is a charming garden with lots to see and emulate.

Nancy Kader has done wonders in the five years she has lived in her home. The front was a typical yard with foundation plantings, grass and a walk straight up the center.

Now this area has been fenced in with a 36-inch tall wrought-iron gate. Yellow "Stella de Oro" daylilies march around the outside of the fence and holly (kept to a perfect height) guards the other side. The rest of the beds are filled with lilies, peonies, hostas, several Rhododendrons "Hong Kong" with creamy/yellow blooms that are "just stunning early in the season," Kader said.

Two trees anchor the corners. A Purple Pendula is "nifty" with purple foliage and smooth bark of the same color and a "Sugartime" crabapple has "interesting looking nubby bark that I love." The fruit hangs on the branches until spring, for which the birds are thankful, and it also adds texture in the middle of winter.

Kader especially enjoys watching the hummingbirds as they visit the two "enormous" trumpet vines on the front of the house. The vines are quite old Patlo view: The view from the patio is colorful.

In the back

A border garden along the back fence is filled with plants that belonged to Kader's mother. Bright red dianthus, orange poppies, several kinds of lilies (including Oriental), white astilbe, bleeding heart (these last two, she has found, do well in the sun) and white shasta daisies like their new home. String trellises against the wooden fence support beans, limas and cucumbers.

Speaking of vegetables, Kader has reserved a sunny spot for them and it is packed with the likes of kohlrabi, cabbage, two kinds of spinach, three different onions, leeks, beets, garlic, carrots, peppers, tomatoes and lettuce. Marigolds edge the bed for pest control.

Around the edges of the enclosed garden many of the same plants seen in the front garden are growing here, as well as others such as several strategically placed clematis vines. A ligularia with large, heart-shaped leaves adds still more texture and will bloom with tall, bright yellow spike flowers: "Purple Palace" heuchera, roses, tall delphiniums (a white and a deep purple one called "Black Night"), Rudbeckia, Jacob's Ladder, bee balm and petunias as well as other flowers are enticing to birds, bees and butter-flies.

Special houses

Six birdhouses are included in the garden as well as a specially built butterfly house. Kader has put twigs inside to lure them and hopes that this year they will make a home there. It did take two or three years for birds to take up residence in the houses, so she is patient.

A small pond centers the back yard and the running water is a delightful sound. Koi and goldfish live year-round as the deepest part is 36 inches. Plants include ribbon grass, Iris, Taro, papyrus, water forget-me-nots and watercress, which the fish eat.

The far end of the garden contains grapes, raspberries, blueberries, currants and rhubarb among the flowers while two large stone lions sit on pedestals and stand guard.

The raised brick patio rests against the house and is edged with purple lobelia. This ambitious lady designed the brick walk that leads from the porch steps (and up to the patio) with a slope rather than steps. This idea adds a graceful feel to the landscape.

Kader has done most of the work herself and said, "I'll never do brick again."

She composts outdoors and worm composts in the basement using a special container. She uses all her kitchen scraps, keeps the mixture moist and is left with worm castings and water. She drains the water off to provide rich nutrients to the garden. When I asked why, she replied, "It just seems responsible to me." Soaker hoses are kept in every garden year round.

Kader said she spends 20 hours a week in the garden in the spring and it is obvious she spends a lot of time there during the rest of the season. She has planned the garden to have successive bloom all year long. A new metal obelisk stands waiting for a newly planted clematis "six-inch white flowers — a new one" to scramble over ... She has also installed lighting and said, "That's a real joy."

INVITING IDEAS

Turn barbecue leftovers into soup

RUTH JOHNSTON

In the midst of gorgeous weather, nothing tastes better than firing up your grill and cooking outdoors. When planning a guest list for a barbecue, I always buy enough groceries to feed at least six more, just in case we have "strays" stop by. This behavior invariably leaves me with an abundance of leftovers - leftover barbecued chicken, corn on the cob, sliced tomatoes ... sound familiar?

While normally I will have guests clamoring for an invitation to leftovers at my house, cold barbecued chicken, microwaved day-old corn on the cob, and soggy tomatoes, isn't their first choice. Let this food go to waste? Not a chance. When all else fails, make soup!

Faced with the aforementioned ingredients, I opened my fridge and visually scanned what was available: jalapeno peppers, red peppers, celery and a jar of cannellini beans; this is certainly workable. A quick look to my shaker seed box, enough onions and garlic? Perfect!

Serve "Ruth's Leftover Barbecue

Soup" with some piping hot sourdough or cornbread, and add a salad.

With this recipe, feel free to experiment — add whatever you have leftover or what's in your fridge. If you have additional grilled vegetables left over, they would be a delicious addition. The next day, throw in some raw shrimp, cook until the shrimp is cooked, and create another meal!
RUTH'S BARBECUE SOUP

Ingredients for stock:

- 3-5 pieces of leftover barbecue chicken (sauce, skin and bones included)
- 1 large onion, peeled
- 2 cloves garlic, peeled Water to cover
- Ingredients for soup:
- 2 large red peppers
- 2 tablespoons light olive oil
- 3 large onions (approx. 4 cups), peeled and chopped
- 2 1/2 tablespoons chopped garlic 4 ounces (6-8) fresh red hot cherry
- peppers; remove stems, seeds, and chop
- 4 jalapenos; remove stems and seeds, and chop
- 3 cups chopped celery
- 12 cups liquid 10 cups reserved stock (see above) plus 2 cups chicken broth (use more broth if necessary to have 12 cups of liquid in total)

- Fresh leftover tomatoes chopped or 1 can (28 ounces) season diced tomatoes, drained
- 2-6 ounce cans of tomato paste
- 2-3 ears of leftover corn on the cob; remove kernels (with a knife remove kernels by slicing downward while holding the cob vertically)
- 1-19 ounce can or jar of cannellini beans, drained.

Salt to taste

In a large stock pot, place leftover chicken, onion and garlic - cover with water to cover.

Cook stock over medium high heat removing foam as necessary. Cook until the meat of the chicken is falling off the bones. Let cool enough to handle strain the broth and reserve the chicken meat. Place the meat in the filtered broth and reserve until later.

Roast 2 large red peppers (you can do it right on your gas open flame, broil, grill on a grill or torch with a small handpropane torch) until blackened. Place the roasted peppers in a glass bowl and cover with plastic wrap to sweat. Once cool, cut off the stem, remove the seeds and devein. Remove the blackened skin by scrapping with a small knife — don't rinse, you want to keep all the flavor). When the skin is removed, cut into 1/4 inch dice

In a clean large stock pot, add the oil and heat. Add the onions and garlic and saute until transparent. Add the diced hot peppers and saute for 3-4 minutes. Add the diced celery and saute for about 8 minutes. Add the roasted red peppers and all of your liquid (12 cups in total) and the chicken meat. Add the drained canned tomatoes and tomato paste - mix thoroughly

Let cook for about 40 minutes over medium low heat — add the kernels of corn and the cannellini beans. Add salt to desired taste, and continue to cook until all vegetables are tender and flavors infused. The longer it cooks, the better make sure to keep it cooking on low heat. Yield: 8-10 servings

I am not a dedicated bread baker. If the weather's hot, the only bread cooking in my house is in the bread machine. I found an interesting bread mix at Sam's Club — SOURDOUGH Bread Machine Mix by KRUSTEAZ®.

TREASURE SEARCH

Cloisonne box is classic artistic treasure

BY NANCY AND FRANK BOOS SPECIAL WRITERS

Dear Nancy and Frank:

I have this pretty box which I'm told is Japanese. It looks like porcelain. Can you give me some information?

> Tina, Bloomfield

Dear Tina:

Even though what you have looks like porcelain, it is actually cloisonne (pronounced cloy-son-aye). Cloisonne is a technique where cells or partitions made from thin metal bands called cloisons are attached in a design form to an object, usually metal. The cells are then filled in with finely ground colored glass enamel pastes and fired in a special kiln to fuse the enamels to the body of the object. From this basic technique, about 20 different varieties of cloisonne enamelware have evolved.

The standard cloisonne most of us are familiar with has the wires intact so they can be seen and felt on the finished product. However, the variety you have is called wireless or pulled wire cloisonne.

In wireless cloisonne, the wires are removed before each firing so that they are totally gone when the work is finished, or if any wires remain, they are totally covered over with layers of enamel. If any wires remain under the enamel, sometimes the original design can be very indistinctly seen.

The wireless method gives a very smooth, lustrous appearing surface with a slightly hazy effect and can therefore be misinterpreted by the uninitiated as porcelain.

Some ceramic cloisonne is known to exist, which means the cloisons had been affixed to a ceramic or porcelain body. Obviously, this would make the work very fragile and therefore quite rare. However, ceramic cloisonne is considered less desirable by some as it tends to have a duller color and the surface cracks with age.

Although most of us are most familiar with Japanese cloisonne, the technique originated in Greece and worked its way over the centuries to Japan. Because cloisonne was made approximately from the 10th to the 20th centuries in France, well before it reached Japan, at least half of the varieties have French names.

At one time, collectors and museum curators looked down their collective noses at Japanese cloisonne as an art form. The wireless technique inspired beautifully done pieces having some of the qualities of lacquerware. It allowed master artisans to interpret the Japanese artistic sensibilities in a magnificent manner. Now 19th and 20th century Japanese cloisonne is considered highly collectible.

If your piece is in good, original condition, it would probably bring $8,000 to $10,000 in a retail shop. Don't use it for buttons and perhaps you should get in insured.

Cloisonne treasure: This box was made with the wireless cloisonne technique.

Protected: Lead-lined film pouches helped Monte Nagler get his film home safely from a recent-photography trip to Utah. This shot of a lone Juniper tree was taken near the town of Escalante.

Keep your film safe from X-rays

BY MONTE NAGLER SPECIAL WRITER

Starting to think about your 1996 vacation? Well, part of vacation planning is getting geared up for those memorable holiday photographs.

And if getting there by air is on the agenda, stop and ponder this important fact: Airport X-ray screening devices may be hazardous to your film's health.

What a shame it would be to return home with those treasured rolls of vacation pictures only to have had them hopelessly damaged by airport X-

This potential problem has been compounded in recent years by the introduction of super fast films that are far more sensitive to X-ray damage than slower speed films.

To add to the problem, X-rays have a cumulative effect on film. That is, if you're making three or four plane stops on your trip, your film is more likely to be harmed by repeated X-raying.

Many travelers, aware of possible Xray damage, place their film in checkthrough luggage thinking it will be safe there. Not so!

This may be the worst place to store film. Check-through luggage is subject to spot checks with high dosage X-ray units that increase the likelihood of ruined film.

Are there some things you can do to reduce or eliminate the danger of Xrays to your film? Absolutely.

To begin with, you can buy a leadlined film pouch from your camera shop. I prefer the heavy-duty variety. The lining will protect your film from potentially harmful X-rays.

Secondly, and if convenient, have your film processed while on your trip. You'll not only get to see the results of your photographic skills sooner, but airport X-rays can't harm developed film.

Thirdly, exercise your traveler's rights at domestic airports and request a visual inspection of your film. By arriving early and being polite, you usually won't have any problems with security personnel.

Remodeling team: Ray and Jeffrey Stella were designated as being among the best in the nation at their work by Remodeling magazine.

Top remodelers pitch sound advice

By Doug Funke

Thinking about some remodeling work around the homestead?

Before you hire a contractor, listen to Ray and Jeffrey Stella, father and son, respectively, who recently were named among the best in the country by Remodeling magazine.

The Stellas, based in Plymouth, were specifically cited for business

"If you want quality workmanship, on-time completion, good communication, don't buy on price alone," Jeffrey said. "Buy on references and rapport with the contractor."

But by the same token, don't be afraid to talk money. "Establish a budget right away," Ray said. "We can design you a kitchen for $10,000 but it won't be the one seen in our showroom. We need a plan. That's our road map."

Ray, whose father built garages and did masonry work, started his own business in 1958. Jeffrey is a Certified Kitchen Designer.

Last year, they did 38 jobs with a gross volume of about $900,000. The two have an office manager and recently hired a production foreman. Ray's wife, Kathie, helps with the Walter W. Stoeppelwerth, a consultant, publisher of estimating manuals and columnist for Remodeling, was involved in the process of selecting premier contractors for the magazine's Big 50 this year.

"I met Ray Stella about 15 years ago in Chicago," Stoeppelwerth said. "I've always been impressed with the way he's endured with time. He's an honest, sharp, hard-working guy.

"In the remodeling business, there's more than a 50-percent fatality rate every year," Stoeppelwerth said. "Those are staffed by competent, hard-working tradesmen incompetent at business. The Stellas learned the business end and practice it. "You need to become computerized, put a lead man on a job who runs it from start to finish," Stoeppelwerth said. "Specialize. Don't try to be all things to all people. Remember, you're running a business. You have to charge money." The Stellas attribute much of their success to longstanding relationships built with subcontractors and suppli-

"On average, people have been with us 10 years," Ray said. "They have a whole lot to do with keeping a project

Larry Waldsmith, a Livonia designer, has been on call for more than two decades. Then there's attention to detail and communication with the customer.

"We not only sell the job, we personally produce it and take responsibility to see the job through from start to

"Just about 100 percent of the time, they're there," Ray said of homeowners while work's in progress. "It's business as usual for the family and kids. It's not like a new home where nobody moves in until it's totally finish," Jeffrey said.

"Job site maintenance is important as far as cleanliness goes," Ray said. "Communication is another key word. We tell them what to expect, what's going to happen tomorrow."

People who remodel rather than move have reached a comfort level they don't want to give up, the Stellas

"There's no guarantee if they move into that four bedroom house they will get the same schools, the same feeling of neighborhood," Ray said.

And folks seem to be staying put longer. "In the mid 1980s, people lived in a house six, seven, eight years," Stoeppelwerth said. "Now, the average American family stays 11.4 years.

Most renovations have a reasonable payback, according to a 1994-95 cost/value report prepared by Remodeling magazine.

A 200-square-foot major kitchen remodel here with mid-priced new cabinets, countertop, oven, cooktop, microwave, dishwasher, disposer, 3by-5 island and floor averaged $18,510 with an 84-percent recoup at

Updating a 5-by-9 bathroom here with a new tub, toilet, vanity, lighting, floor and tile averaged just under $7,000 with a payback of 85 percent.

But there are degrees of remodeling, too. A cabinet refacing rather than replacing can save big money. And the Stellas agree that it doesn't make sense to spend $20,000 remodeling a kitchen in a house that has a market value of $60,000.

"There's no reason to go buy a Cadillac if you're on a Chevrolet budget," Jeffrey added.

Following are several check points buyers should consider before committing to a remodeling.

■ Make sure the contractor is licensed, insured and bonded. Check those documents and, if you feel the need, get phone numbers to call and verify.

■ Ask for and contact references.

Be specific in the contract about materials to be used in the project. Think about including a completion clause in which a contractor pays penalties for unreasonable delays once work begins.

■ Make sure the contractor - not you - acquires all permits.

Obtain a waiver of lien from the contractor after work is done so subcontractors and suppliers won't later harass you for unpaid bills.

The potential for growth is staggering. A lot of money is spent on renovations now.

"Remodeling this year will be $122 billion," Stoeppelwerth said. "In 1967. it was $13.7 billion. Houses built after World War II are getting to the stage where they have to be remodeled. The average American house is 28 years old."

His advice if you're in the market? "Don't get 15 bids. Get a couple of people in ... and see if you're comfortable. Get references. Check the references. Don't buy a remodeling project on price."

The other parties, however, do not wish to bring their name to the forefront. The club intends to have a hearing regarding the expulsion of the member, but there will not be any witnesses. The country club thinks that if they disclose the names of the complainants, they will be intimidated by the member who is sought to be expelled. I am concerned about the due process considerations and am wondering if you have any comments since this is, in a sense, in the form of an association about which you may have knowledge.

dence. Generally, when a private club holds a hearing um Statute. Where can I get information on to determine whether to expel a member, the elements of fair procedure include an opportunity for the member to confront and cross-examine the accusers and to examine and refute the evidence. Such was the decision in a recent case heard in California. The appeals court held that the person that was expelled was not afforded an fair hearing because he was not allowed to confront the two original complaining witnesses in that their identities were concealed from him. That case also found that the board's consideration in closed session of unnoticed and undocumented matters regarding the person expelled had clearly deprived him of a procedurally fair hearing. He argued that the decision of the board should have been reviewed under the business judgment rule, but the court correctly stated that the business judgment rule is not applied when considering to uphold the actions of a private association and the issue of due process.

While the Condominium Statute may be "interesting" reading, I strongly recommend that you consult with a knowledgeableattorney in condominium law before entering into a purchase agreement in connection with a condominium project. Best finance deal for inexpensive condos

MULLY

Are you thinking of purchasing a condominium in the $135,000 price range or less? Are you planning on investing less than 15 percent of the price as down payment? If so, the following financial tip may be your best bet. If you fit into this category of home buyers or are planning on selling a condominium in this price range, FHA financing is an excellent choice. It offers costs savings and more flexibility than previous FHA loans, or many current conventional loans.

Simply chose an unit on the "FHA Approved Condo List" which is updated periodically and tells buyers or sellers that FHA loan is actually perfect for FHA financing is offered. You may be surprised to learn just how many condos are on this list. For example, in Novi and Northville there are 12 complexes approved, as well as many more in the Detroit market. And. if the condo you are interested in is not on the list, I can quickly obtain approved status through HUD. FHA mortgages are allowed to a maximum of $124,000 in Oakland and to $116,850 in Wayne County.

FHA requirements have changed and loans are now much easier to obtain than before. For instance, sellers are not required to pay discount points. Also, repair requirements are less stringent on condos, and condos would typically not have as many repairs needed as a house would. Some falsely believe that FHA loans are only for low to moderate income people. The

the young professional ready to move from renting to owning.

FHA financing offers many advantages over other types of financing. With the lower down payments and lower costs of a FHA loan, monthly payments are typically reduced and your ability to buy a higher priced condo is improved. For example, compare putting 5 percent down for a conventional mortgage or putting the minimum down for a FHA mortgage on a condo selling for $125,000. FHA financing could save $3,262 in cash investment and reduce monthly payments by $150. Additionally, the annual income needed to qualify for a FHA loan is approximately $10,000 less than for a conventional loan. If you would like more specific information on this example, please call me and I'll explain.

Mortgage insurance for FHA

condo loans also provides an assume FHA condo mortgage, area for savings over conventional loans. First, there is no upfront MIP (Mortgage Insurance Premium) insurance required on FHA condos, a savings of 2.25 percent times the loan amount. Secondly monthly FHA MIP costs are considerably less than monthly PMI (mortgage insurance) costs for conventional loans. Following the $125,000 purchase example, monthly FHA MIP costs would be $27 less than for conventionals. A $27 difference per month over the course of several years can really add up. Thirdly, it is possible for the monthly MIP to drop off automatically while monthly PMI does not and may only be dropped if you request it from the lender.

Some other great advantages of FHA financing are: competitive rates, sometimes better than conventional loans; ability to which can help you sell in times of higher interest; flexibility of sources of down payment which can be gift funds or loans, in some cases; no income restrictions; and no income restrictions on previous home ownership.

FHA adjustable rate financing is advantageous in that you qualify at the first year rate of adjustable rate programs (another approximate $15,000 increase in buying power) and the maximum rate caps are only 1.0 percent each year and 5 percent over the life of the loan compared to 2 percent and 6 percent caps for conventionals. The FHA adjustable rate presently varies starting at 6 percent with points and 6.75 percent with no points.

Finally, flexibility in several other FHA underwriting guidelines can be found versus conventional loan guidelines. For example, there are expanded debt ratios and 401K loans are not used in the calculation of monthly debt. Another area of flexibility is the amount of time a loan applicant may have been employed at a current job.

With these advantages, you can see that FHA financing can help you enjoy the tax benefits and appreciation that come with owning a condominium, and you can save considerable expense. For those purchasing a condo in the $30,000 to $135,000 price range, FHA-financing is truly one of the best deals you will

■ Talking House promotion Dean Miller, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Birmingham, has purchased seven radio transmitters to do the talking for houses he has listed for sale.

Prospects turn their car radio to a specific frequency outside the house to hear the sales pitch recorded by Miller.

"I give all information up front and save me time with sellers and buyers," he said. "Any time you can give a home more exposure, it's a great idea."

The transmitters cost about $200 apiece. Messages up to three minutes long can be changed at Miller's option. He said he came across the product in a real estate magazine.

■ Home Facts listings

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate now provides all of its residential listings via a telephone audio tour on an exclusive Home Facts program.

Live your life to save energy days of summer are here and with them comes anticipated warm temperatures and high humidity for the remainder of the season.

To keep cool during summer months, Consumers Power offers these energy-saving tips:

■Operate stoves, ovens, dishwashers and clothes dryers in the morning or evening when it's cooler outside. These appliances add extra heat to the home and make air conditioners work harder.

MAvoid opening the refrigerator or freezer door unnecessarily to prevent cold air from escaping and energy costs from rising.

#Set the air conditioning thermostat at 78 degrees during the day when you're home and even higher when you're away. An automatic thermostat will ensure energy savings.

an air conditioner with a higher the hottest parts of the day.

Those lazy, hazy ozone action energy efficient ratio (EER) for maximum savings.

A unit with an EER of 10 will cost half as much to operate as one with an EER of five.

Eliminate or reduce air conditioning needs by installing an attic fan. Ceiling fans will cost even less. A room air conditioner that's on for eight hours costs about $1.68 compared to a ceiling fan at three cents.

"Practicing these energy-saving tips will increase your comfort factor and maximize your energy dollar," said Steven L. Ray, energy delivery manager for electric distribution. "An energyefficient household will help you reduce your use and beat the heat." Ozone action days are hot summer days when excess ozone will be created. On those days, businesses and individuals are encouraged to take voluntary action to reduce emissions which lead to ozone creation. Outdoor action activities When shopping for an air would include not running conditioner, make certain the power lawn mowers, filling auto unit is the appropriate size. Buy gas tanks and barbecuing during 16782 Ryland 89,000
