Sears clears 2 city hurdles

Construction on a new Sears store at Westland Center may start in four weeks following the city council's approval of a site plan and use of TIFA funds for parking lot and other improvements.

BY LEONARD POGER

A new Scars store on the northwest side of Westland Center cleared two major city council hurdles Monday.

A mall official said after the meeting that initial construction will start on the two-story building in mid-September for a planned completion by the following fall – which he hopes will be in time for the 1997 holiday shopping season.

But the administration's proposal to spend from $1.3 million to $2 million for parking lot and other infrastructure improvements as well as relocation of utilities came under fire from Council member Charles Pickering.

This represents "mixed-up priorities," he said.

Pickering argued that the money shouldn't be used to benefit expansion of a private business. Also, the money would be better spent on the city's public safety programs, such as Advanced Life Support within the fire department or the new community policing program, he said.

The money would come from the Tax Increment Finance Authority program, formed years ago encourage new developments in the northwest section of the city.

But a mall official said the Sears plan is a "strategy move to maintain the viability of Westland Center."

In responding to council members, concerns that Sears would locate in Westland without the TIFA funds, the mall official said that he "didn't think that Sears would build here" without the money.

The spokesman is Gary Farmer, senior vice president/development for Compass Realty Inc., which man; ages the 31-year-old center.

Major council supporters of the Sears plan were Council President Sandra Cicirelli, Glenn Anderson, Justine Barns and Richard LeBlanc.

The council president said "we

108 non-residents choose local schools

The Wayne-Westland school district has attracted some 108 non-residents students through the new state schools of choice program.

The influx also means an estimated $280,000 in state revenues for those pupils, said Superintendent Duane Moore Monday in briefing the school board on the issue.

The new 108 students soften the financial impact of reduced state revenues for the district, which projected earlier this year that it would lose 300

At the same time, Moore said, only four local students opted to enroll in another district.

The administration said most of the 108 non-resident students enrolled are from the neighboring Inkster district with a "smattering" from Garden City, Romulus, Detroit, Livonia and Plymouth-Canton.

There were also some new students from private and parochial schools, said Larry Galbraith, executive director of student services.

In hearing Moore's report on schools of choice enrollments, the superintendent said 59 are enrolled at Wayne Memorial High School, 21 between Adams and Franklin Middle Schools, and 28 throughout the 17 elementaries.

The board wasn't just happy about the additional enrollments and accompanying state revenues, but also that there will be no additional costs since the teaching staff has been set for the new term.

Moore also said that he received a report that some 67 percent of the districts in Michigan has "opted in" for the choice program.

The program was enacted several months ago by the state Legislature to allow students to enroll in districts in the same county.

Carriers being recruited

The Summer Olympics may be over in Atlanta, Ga., but some games will continue next month. It's all part of the "Observer Olympics" to be held Saturday, Sept. 14, to recruit new carrier boys and girls.

There will be fun athletic competition, refreshments and prizes for the event scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., that day in Westland's Central City Park, south of Ford, between Wayne Road and Newburgh.

The recruitment day is co-sponsored by the Westland Jaycees.

Charity challenge

The Westland Jaycees will hold a softball challenge Sunday to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It will start at noon on Field 8, near Picnic Area B, in the Hines Park near Ann Arbor Trail. Sponsors are Hungary Howie's and Taormina's Pizza.

PLACES & FACES

Students honored

Twenty-four Westland students have been honored by Madonna University for outstanding academic achievement.

Date changed

The grand opening of the under-construction City of Westland Public Library will be Sunday, Nov. 3. The library, named in memory of former state Sen. William P. Faust, is more than 80 percent complete on the site on the west side of Central City Parkway, north of Ford.

Library staffers are expected to move into the building within the next two weeks.

Watson again shuns pay hike

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

For the fifth straight year, the man heading Livonia Public Schools has rejected a pay raise.

Superintendent Ken Watson Monday-got a top-notch annual performance review and a oneyear contract extension from the Board of Education.

But he didn't get a pay increase. His yearly salary still stands at $106,500.

"I feel strongly about this, for personal and professional rensons," Watson said. "The district has been good to me and my family. Also, the district may not be able to offer packages offered in the past.

"I haven't sought a raise: I want to set a model."

In his last two years as Livonia superintendent, before moving on to a new post in New York, Joe Marinelli also did not take a pay raise.

The district is now negotiating new contracts with six unions: its about to begin negotiations with its seventh, the teachers' union.

The teachers current threeyear contract expires next August. But talks will soon get underway with teachers under a re-opener clause contained in the current agreement.

The current contract calls for a 3 percent pay raise in 1996-97, if the district's income increases by at least that amount. If it doesn't, the contract will be reopened for the two sides to agree on a raise of less than 3 percent, Randy Liepa, assistant superintendent for business, said the district got a 2.3 percent increase in the foundation grant it gets from the state.

Karen Zyczynski, president of the teachers' union, Livonia Education Association, said the union will examine the district's budget carefully to determine Livonia's income.

"We'll be going over the budget with someone from the MEA who is an expert on budgets; we're now just gathering information," she said.

The district took a big step forward in improving its program recently by spending $1 milhon. to lower class size in grades one and two. That expenditure represents $1 million that could, have gone toward paying salary increases.

Watson's new contract expires July 1: 1999

The superintendent readily admits his family has been a big beneficiary of the district he now leads. His wife, Gloria, is a Livemia teacher. His children attended Livonia schools. His daughter, Kirstin, works as a teacher in the district. And his grandson, Damel, starts kindergarten Aug 27 at Randolph Elemen-

"When your district celebrates 50 years . . Land you have worked in the district 33 years. then you have to come to the conclusion that your career has covered a large part of the district's history." Watson said.

- · Increase students ability to use computers to problem-solve.
- · Increase security mr school
- Complete building renovations to install technology. Improve student test scores.

Superintendents statewide are awaiting the results of the new proficiency tests given earlier this year to high school juniors: Watson expects to receive Livonia's scores sometime between Sept. 3-6. Statewide data should be available Sept. 20.

Livonia schools prepare for opening

By MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

Close to 100 new Livonia school district teachers got their first look Tuesday at the inner workings of one of the state's buggest school districts.

School begins next week for students in the district which serves the northern section of Westland.

The new teachers dined with school administrators, walked the central office complex at Farmington and Five Mile, sat through lectures, toured school buildings scattered throughout the district and, at the end of the two-day new teacher orientation, reported to their new school for the first time.

The 100 new teachers surpasses the 82 new teachers hired by the district last year.

Two events created the large number of job openings.

Sixty-five Livonia teachers retired at the end of the 1996 schools, Navoy has hired more school year. And the Livonia Board of Education recently approved the hiring of another 24 teachers, the bulk of whom are slated to teach in grades one and two.

'The trustees also recently approved spending $220,000 to hire four teachers in the three high schools.

The new teachers know well personnel director Ed Navoy, the school administrator who made the final decision to hire them. In his 10 years with Livonia than 600 of the district's teach-

"The caliber of our new teachers is excellent," Navoy said.

"They are enthusiastic, eager and ready to work. Some areas, such as elementary, have the deepest pool of candidates and we have more of a choice.

"Other areas, such as science and industrial arts, are in shorter supply;" he said.

The council gave its unanimous support to the Sears site plan Monday, which spells out the specific location of buildings. parking lot and landscaping.

Pickering was the only dissenting vote on amending the TIFA plan, which will expire in several years after the mall improvements are completed.

During the TIFA dispute, Anderson criticized Pickering and pointed out that his colleague had supported the property tax abatement program which provided a 50 percent cut in local property taxes to encourage job creation.

Anderson said the tax abatement program, initiated in the late 1970s, was much more expensive then the planned TIFA program for Sears. Besides Pickering, another voice of opposition to the use of TIFA dollars for the expansion was that of Thomas Brown, a former Westland mayor and council member.

He questioned if there will be a development agreement between Sears and Compass Realty and Hudson's before the TIFA dollars are appropriated.

City Attorney Angelo Plakas commented that he is suggesting that such an agreement be negotiated and approved "to protect the city's interests.

On the tax benefits, Pickering uestioned the size of the increase to the city's general fund. He said it would be $64,000 a year, not the $200,000 figure cited by others.

Pickering also disagreed with Anderson's position, saying that "there is no comparison with property tax abatements and TIFA f8nds.'

"I'm glad the high propertuy -tax base is here," she said, referring to the mall being the city's biggest taxpayer.

On a related issue including the TIFA plan amendments, Brown suggested that Nankin Boulevard be vacated and the land and dollars used to maintain the road be used for the needed additional Westland Center parking.

The former official stressed that the city's priorities should be "the health and safety of peo-

The council's approval of TIFA money being used for the project was subject to several conditions: a legal opinion from its bond counsel on the legality of the action; and approval by its city attorney, Angelo Plakas of a requested development agreement with Compass Realty.

•In related action Monday, the council formally approved the TIFA plan to include only the Westland Center improvements and the Nankin Boulevard rebuilding. Eliminated from the plan, discussed by the council the previous week, were a new City Hall and district court building.

TIFA, established 10 years ago, captures a portion of tax revenues to pay for public improvements in a designated area northwest of Ford and Wayne roads.

Revenues captured for the next four years, alone, will amount to an estimated $7.5 million.

Lorraine Brickman, an assistant principal, said the school's student council is getting more involved this term with community service projects.

An example was the student council members joining with school secretaries to help register students. The council also prepared informational packets for the school's 2,100 students.

A "welcome" banner was also displayed in the school's main lobby to make the incoming freshman, the Class of '00, feel more comfortable.

The school board Monday increased the price of hot lunches by 10 cents.

That brings the price for elementary schools to $1.65 a day and from $1.85 to $2.10 for secondary schools.

The administration said the dime hike was necessary to keep up with increased costs of the food program.

At the same time, the board eliminated the daily breakfast program which served 72 people a day and incurred a deficit of $30,000 a year.

Another major change is the staggered starting times for elementary schools and different lengths of lunch

Hamilton, Kettering, Patchin and Wildwood schools will start at 9 a.m. with a 60-minute lunch.

> "Our goal will be to institutionalize a process that will encourage faculty members to develop alternatives to traditional lectures as a means of instruction; to establish an educational community where faculty members act as guides and students participate in an active collaboration; and to identify and develop new applications of instructional technology, Robert L. Simpson, provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs at UM-Dearborn, said. Our intent is to reform the introductory courses and then move on to upper level classes."

Many faculty members at UM-Dearborn have been involved in efforts to improve undergraduate instruction in science, math and engineering for the past decade, Simpson said.

"The most notable effort to date has occurred in mathematics and statistics where faculty have employed innovative teaching methods in developing and adopting the use of software and computers to further student learning and understanding,' Simpson said.

Some of the changes introduced by math and statistics faculty at UM-Dearborn include computer-based laboratory exercises in the three-semester calculus sequence, the use of cooperative or group learning, and the adoption of a hands-on approach in all math courses required of students preparing for careers as elementary teach-

Numbers, Facts, and the Prostate Cancer Game

By Jorge Torriglia, M.D.

Our society is being inundated every day with information and data. We love, statistics and numbers even-though they may cloud the facts. The field of prostate cancer, for instance, seems flooded with new information. Even in medical journals, the "information carousel" does not stop. Let's look at some numbers:

• In 1996, 317,000 men will fall victim to prostate cancer, an annual rise of 25 percent since 1992.

• There were 32,378 prostate cancer deaths in 1990. In 1996, that number may rise to 44,400.

The above data is scary, but very recent new evidence suggests the incidence of prostate cancer is beginning to decline. There are three reasons for the increase in prostate cancer cases over the past few years.

1) Increased public awareness of prostate cancer.

2) Increased emphasis on the screening using Digital Rectal Examination (DRE), Prostate Specific Antigen (PSA) and Transrectal Ultrasound (TRUS) 3) Renewed accuracy in obtaining biopsies with TRUS.

The widespread use of PSA testing initially resulted in a significant increase in the number of newlydiagnosed patients. However, the pool of remaining patients is becoming Statistics concerning PSA values further confuse the issue. There is a 65 percent false positive rate in patients with PSA value elevations between five and 10. More worrisome still is a 15 to 20 percent false negative PSA rate in patients with proven prostate cancer. Interested in some more facts? Try these.

PSA blood tests coupled with DREs are still the best screening mechanisms at this time.

Ultrasound alone should not be used for screening since it is only 35 percent specific.

Men with a family history of prostate cancer should be screened beginning at age 40. All men should have periodic screenings beginning at age 50... • Elderly men with normal digital rectal examinations and no other significant symptoms or family history should not receive a PSA. They should be reassured.

These numbers may change, but one thing remains constant - the best desense against prostate cancer is regular screenings conducted by a

County in for $100 million for downtown stadiums

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN STAFF WRITER

It's a $505 million proposal to build two stadiums in Detroit, and Wayne County's planning to are also part of the proposal. put up $100 million.

The county is playing a key role in an agreement reached this week, which would bring the Detroit Lions football team back to Detroit in a joint project with the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

I think it's a once in a generation chance to rebuild the city," said Mike Duggan, deputy Wayne County executive.

Wayne County will hold the lease to the two stadiums, which would be built across Woodward from the Fox Theater in Detroit. The county would then sublease the stadiums to the Detroit Downtown Development Authority, which has concession and management agreements with the Detroit Lions and the Detroit

In addition to the plan which was previously announced for a $245 million stadium plan for the Tigers, a $225 million plan for a Lions stadium has been added.

A $20 million plan for a parking structure and other parking and another $20 million for a Lions headquarters and practice facilities in Allen Park and $20 million from the county surplus land fund as well as $85 million from the Detroit DDA, $50 million in corporate contributions and $70 million in Lions contributions. The Lions have a lease at the Silverdome in Pontiac until 2004. The -deputy county exec Lions left Detroit in the early '70s to go to the Silverdome.

The 1-million-square foot stadium that would house the Lions is being called a sports and entertainment dome that would seat 65,000-75,000 people and include 100-120 private suites with an estimated yearly attendance of 650,000 for Lions games, plus 850,000 for other events. The Super Bowl, NCAA Final Four and Democratic and Republican national political conventions were mentioned as possible events. The opening date is undetermined.

commission to hire independent legal counsel. The deadline toput items on the ballot is Aug. 27. The general election is Nov.

A proposal to put the 1-mill public safety tax on the ballot early was sent to committee on Thursday.

"Am I to assume this was the 1-mill approved in 1988?" Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, asked of a sketchy item on Thursday's Several commissioners said they didn't have the ballot language with them, but that it would be exactly the same as the 1988 language with the word renewal added.

The 1988 proposal authorized levying 1 mill for 10 years from 1988 to 1997 to acquire, construct and/or operate jail, misdemeanors or juvenile incarceration or detention facilities and adult penalty options such as work release, home detention and community restitution; with at least one-tenth of a mill to acquire, build and operate a juvenile work/training institu-

That last phrase sparked much debate as the money was used to fund juvenile programs rather than to build a new youth home.

Last year a bond issue was approved to build the new youth home in Detroit. A ground breaking was held this summer.

One mill is $1 per $1,000 state equalized valuation or on a $100,000 house, which is assessed at half its value, the tax would cost $50 a year.

■ Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, introduced a proposal to change the county charter to allow the commission to appoint independent legal counsel "toassert and defend the legal rights, powers and duties of the county commission." in which the commission and the chief executive officer have differing interests and in which the corporation counsel is placed in conflict with the Michigan Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys, according to the resolution attached to the proposal.

Corporation Counsel serves "totally at the pleasure of the CEO," the resolution says.

One issue the commission has sought outside counsel on recently concerns a Downriver waste water authority and concerns about the county's continued operation of it.

■ Another proposal the commission will take up would repeal part of the county charter to give the auditor general rather than the chief executive officer power to hire an independent external auditor to prepare a comprehensive annual finan-Many legal issues have arisen cial report, power to audit the operations and administration of all county agencies, power to subpoena witnesses and evidence and to authorize penalties for one who conceals or falsifies records or refuses to answer a reasonable inquiry.

> ■ Defining veto powers is the subject of another ballot proposal to be considered. It calls for amending the county charter to define those powers that are and are not subject to veto. For example, a veto override would not be subject to veto under the proposal.

Sheriff needs floor officers in county jail

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is looking for about 45 people to fill police positions.

A primary challenge for law enforcement is the recruitment of qualified personnel, according to the Sheriff's Department.

The department is recruiting floor security officers for the county jails.

Recruits can potentially move on to other jobs in the department including road patrol, park

School agency outlines free milk, meal policies

Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency has announced the policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk for the coming school

The policy will be followed by all schools (public and non-public), preschools, child-care centers, Head Start Programs and residential child care institutions in Wayne County that participate in federally reimbursed child nutrition programs during the 1996-97 school year.

These programs include the national school lunch program, school breakfast program, special milk program, commodity program and the child and adult care food program.

All public school districts, nonpublic schools, child-care agencies. Head Start programs and residential child-care institutions must use household size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

For households of two people the income scale for free meals or free milk is an annual income of $13,468; for three, $16,874; for four, $20,280; for five, $23,686; for six, $27,092; for seven, $30,498; and for eight, $33,904. For each additional family member add $3,406.

For households of two people the income scale for reduced price meals is an annual income of $19,166; for three, $24,013; for four, $28,860; for five, $33,707; for six, $38,554; for seven, $43,401; and for eight, $48,248. For each additional family member add $4,847.

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or free

Organizations participating in the child and adult care food program may make meals available at no separate charge.

Application forms will be sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-price meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school.

For non food stamp households, an application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: 1) monthly source of income received by each household member (such as wages and child support); 2) the names of all household members; 3) Social Security number of the adult household member who signs the application; and 4) the signature of an adult household member. For food stamp and Aid to Families with Dependent Children households, participants only have to list the child's name and food stamp or AFDC case number and sign the applica-

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced-price meals or free milk benefits, the household must report to the school increases in household income over $50 a month ($600 a year) and decreases in household size.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at patrol, auto theft, marine division, court security and a number of specialized units such as narcotics enforcement, morality and special response teams.

The starting pay is $23,500. To apply for a police officer position, applicants must meet the following criteria:

■ Be 18 years of age or older; Be a high school graduate or have passed the equivalency exam (GED);

COUNTY NEWS

■ Be a U.S. citizen;

■ Qualify for appointment as a deputy sheriff (this requires on year of continuous residence in the state of Michigan immediately preceding appointment.)

Funding for the Tigers plan, which was announced earlier and upheld by a recent state Supreme Court decision, is $25 million in state funds for land, $30 million in state funds for infrastructure, $40 million in-Detroit DDA funds and $145 million in Tiger contributions. The Tigers' part of the plan remains basically the same, except the stadium would be built on the east side of Woodward rather than the west, Duggan said.

The limillion square Tigers stadium would seat 42,000 and have 65 private suites with an estimate 2.95 million yearly attendance.

The Tigers Stadium would sit on 25 acres, while the Lions stadium would be on 12-15 acres. About 5,500 total parking spaces for both stadiums are planned. Parking at surrounding businesses would be encouraged, Duggan said.

The Wayne County Commissioners are expected to vote today on whether to put Proposition S, a proposal to put a 1 percent tax on hotels and a 2 percent tax on rental cars on the Nov. 5 general election ballot for voters to decide.

The proposed tourist tax would run the life of the bonds, about 30 years, Duggan said. If approved the tax would begin Jan. 1, 1997. Of the $80 million expected to be raised the breakdown would be 40 percent from hotel rentals and 60 percent from rental cars, Duggan said.

A group representing area

Project plan: The Tigers Stadium would sit on 25 acres, while the Lions stadium would be on 12-15 acres. The site is east of Woodward.

hotels gathered Wednesday morning to speak in favor of the tourist tax.

The stadium project would not only help Detroit hotels, but hotels throughout the county aswell, Mark Karmo, part owner of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, said. He is also chairman of the board of the Association of Food Dealers which also supports the plan, he said.

Other local hotels listed as supporters include: the Country

Hearth Inn-Canton, the Courtyard by Marriott Livonia and the Quality Inn in Plymouth.

Michael O'Callaghan, chairman of the board of the Hotel Motel and Resort Association of Michigan and president of the Hotel Association of Greater Detroit, said the association recognizes the importance of the tax, but discourages more taxes in the future.

"I don't think 1 percent is going to hurt anyone coming to Detroit," he said.

The other $20 million from the county would come from county land sales through the 21st Century Fund, set up earlier this year.

"The county is in this for $100 million. This is a huge political risk for my boss (County Executive Edward McNamara)," Duggan said.

This plan would do for Detroit in three years, what it took Cleveland 10 years to do, Duggan said.

Both stadiums would be owned by a Detroit/Wayne County Stadium Authority run by three members selected by the mayor of Detroit and three by the Wayne County executive.

The teams will manage their own facilities and are bound by 35-year leases.

The Lions have agreed to take the lead in raising $50 million in private corporate contributions, Duggan said.

Commitments to buy the land east of Woodward within budgeted amounts will also be sought. To move east of Woodward will be more expensive than west, he

City makes right decisions

he Westland City Council did the right thing Monday in officially dropping two major projects from the 10-year-old Tax Increment Finance Authority plan.

Those two projects were the proposed new City Hall and an 18th District Court building.

Over the years, the TIFA program has served the city and its residents well in providing a way of financing needed public improvements in the northwest quarter of the city which was experiencing most of the commercial and office development:

The council reached an informal consensus at last week's study session before formalizing its decision Monday.

TIFA, established 10 years ago, captures a portion of tax revenues to pay for public improvements in a designated area northwest of Ford and Wayne roads.

City Hall is 32 years old, and district court opened 16 years ages, Administration officials had suggested the need for bigger buildings. But a mere suggestion is a far cry from documenting a clear need for the two new buildings.

Over the years, the community has been resistant to paying for new municipal build-

An excellent example is the nearly completed City of Westland Public Library, scheduled to be open in early November.

That building was paid for through TIFA dollars without spreading the burden over the ntire city, own though it will serve the community at large and fills an important need.

But there is no demonstrated, compelling need for a new City Hall or district court.

While the court building, in the Civic Center, is crowded at times and have some related problems, there is no reason to start planning and building an expensive structure at a major cost...

At the same time, City Hall is serving a population of some 85,000 people, or only 12,000 more than the number of residents in the community when it was built.

While a new building would create some efficiencies, there is certainly no compelling reason to move ahead with a new structure.

At the same time, the council Monday night approved the site plan and the use of Tax Increment Finance Authority funds to help attract a $21 million Sears store to the northwest corner of Westland Mall.

That will help make the mall more viable and attractive to shoppers and potentially bring in other businesses to the center as well as nearby vacant commercial buildings.

While Council member Charles Pickering raised good policy questions, the Observer feels his colleagues did the right thing for the ne of your readers writes that because the Wayne County infrastructure has collapsed, citizens should have been more willing to part with their hard-earned salaries to pay for improved parks.

There's no question that the parks need to be better kept and to be supplied with play and exercise equipment and areas. But why is that the business of government – to entertain the citizens?

Secondly, why did Wayne County allow the parks system to fall into such decay?

Many years ago, the Hines Park was overrun by unsavory people on drugs, alcohol, and copulating in public.

Certainly this had to be stopped, but the plan to do it was one of closing the park on weekends, letting the weeds grow five feet tall, closing the toilets, taking out the equipment, and other neglect of the area.

The result was that one could shoot a cannon through it. Everyone left.

After 15 years of a policy of neglect, these administrators come on their arrogant knees begging taxes from the workers to repair the damage of their neglectful policies.

They want millions more to do what? More years of incompetent plans? More waste? . Another blind investment? Newburgh Lake was drained and cleaned a while back. Obviously, this will be a regular affair. And despite hundreds of thousands of tax dollars into bike trails, drivers still dodge bikers in the street. Ticket the bikers in the street; ticket the businesses which allow runoffs into the lakes and river. Do something besides demand more and more taxes!!

animal rightists that now threaten the peoples of the world. The governments are subjugating its people to the detriment of the nation and its land. Where this will all end, only time will tell.

We are at the mercy of devil worshippers, funded by over $55 billion to create havoc among all peoples and economies of the world.

We are at the mercy of animals that like to eat people such as the bears about which the current referendum is being staged. We have already suffered. My wife refused to sign a petition and the circulator scratched four big scratches in her driver's side door. Petty indeed, but it shows what extent these rightists will go. Can you restore the door? I doubt

There are no end of problems with the Hollywood "rightists." These are marvelous . money collectors. That is the name of the game - to serve the devil with money and praise him before all other Gods, contrary to the first commandment of Jehova, God of all

There is more. Currently there is a wave of terrorism over the world, death and destruction rein supreme whether it is airliner crashes, antagonism of foreign nations, such as the yacht the Green Peace attempts to start a war with Norway over whaling. Too bad the Green Peace was sunk. Now these rightists want it salvaged at public expense. They are collecting monies for this purpose now.

Ironically, Hitler got his party's financial start by allying with the animal rightists in the year of my birth. What this did to Germany and the world accompanied with efforts from Japan, wrecked havoc over all over the world, a complete debacle that is still going on. These are serious times, especially for the uninformed.

> Hugh M. Davidson Putting People First, secretary

Certainly students need clear the "teaching values" proposal before the State Board of Education.

Keep school guidelines flexible wo things need to be made clear about

First, there is no serious proposal that any version of the Judeo-Christian Bible be used. That notion popped out when board president Clark Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, was out of the board room and was questioned by a broadcast reporter who never even attended the July meeting of the board.

Durant never discussed the Bible idea before the board. The idea of using a sectarian text wasn't in the draft resolution that was tabled. It wasn't expected to be in the revised version before the state's highest school policy-making board Wednesday.

Second, there is little disagreement that values and ethics need to be taught. People of all political persuasions and religious faiths tend to agree. It is more than obeying the law. Ethics is how you behave when a cop isn't watching. It's politeness, respect for other persons, respect for others' property, respect for public property, respect for viewpoints that we may disagree with. It's behaving honorably and charitably.

Anyone who has heard a commencement speaker booed or had his car's finish "keyed" appreciates the concept of ethics.

Benjamin Franklin understood the concept when he made amendments to Thomas Jeffer son's first draft of the Declaration of Independence. "We hold these truths to be sacred and undeniable," wrote Jefferson. "We hold these truths to be self-evident," corrected Franklin.

Franklin's point that all men are created equal isn't dependent on belief in a religion or a deity. There are, however, some real dangers in the values and ethics resolution as first presented to the State Board of Education.

One is that it calls for setting up advisory committees within school districts that would include clergy, parents and business people.

direction and instruction on "teaching values," but it should be flexible enough so one group doesn't get control to force sectarian views during their throats.

As drafted, there is nothing to prevent one church from stacking the committee with its adherents.

There is further danger in the allocation of "parents" on such committees. In Tennessee and Louisiana, our federal courts have handled cases in which tiny groups of evangelical parents have sought veto power over educators in the selection of textbooks.

Michigan has a particular disadvantage in this respect with 562 school districts, many of them tiny. That, along with pathetically small voter turnouts, makes it all the easier for a sectarian group to get its heavy hands on public education.

Durant, in his running of the State Board of Education, has employed a technique of bringing in a single group to make a presentation and then trying to ram through a change. On the values and ethics question, however, Superintendent of Public Instruction Art Ellis pulled back the original resolution, and other board members expressed dissatisfaction with

Kids need clear instruction in values and ethics, no question about it. The State Board of Education should guide the way. But it should draw tight guidelines about how the process is handled so that one group doesn't get control of the tools of government to force its sectarian views down everyone else's

A dirty campaign

It's time for me to reflect on the campaigns and how they were con-

As part of a District Republican chairman's responsibility, I review the voter urnout and try to determine how to get more people to the polls to

I find I am hanging my head in shame because these have been the dirtiest campaigns I have ever been witness to.

Along with the low voter furnout, I feel the citizens will lose on two counts this election year.

First, we expect a low turnout at the polls and this means a minority of the people elect officials that will give direction to a government that will impact the majority of the citizens. who will in turn complain and distrust the government they didn't take the time to elect.

People all over the world are fighting for the privilege of going to the polls to elect a representative government and here we sit in apathy,

Secondly, the campaigns and the methods on how they are conducted. Whatever happened to a vision of the future and individuals willing to discuss it?

Individuals willing to point to the future with pride, make decisions and move this country forward.

We need to recognize we are all not perfect and not expect that of our leaders. They just need to be as close to perfection as possible.

The tactics used during the primary campaign season had very little to do with issues and our future.

It had a lot to do with who could throw the most mud with the greatest deception.

A point of concern is the so-called Western Wayne Civic Spotlight, a onetime issue filled with more affluence than our sewer system will every carry.

The names were smeared again for a project that was visionary and will serve our community well into the future long after other systems have failed.

The citizens lose on this type of campaigning, because the person sending it out doesn't clearly identify themselves or what they are representing.

They don't tell the citizens what they feel or the real issues and give us voters a clear choice.

Those individuals cause distrust of a government by the use of deception when they have a hidden agenda. themselves and who knows what they stand for.

They stop quality and qualified individuals from running for public office, because good qualified candidates do not want to be subjected to distortions of the truth or even outright lies.

We want persons of high personal integrity, good reputation and excellent family values to run our govern-

These are the type of individuals that can give us the future we are looking for.

We are losing sight of our future with low voter turnout and the type of campaigning that is taking place. Please, citizens, care about how you vote because that's my charge as a Republican District chairman.

What I also care about as a citizen is a government run by the majority of the people..

This election is over, but remember, there are future elections.

Prisoners in homes

I am a resident of Windsor Street in Westland. There is an ongoing disturbance since last year on our street. The police are on our street every day, sometimes more than that.

As taxpaying citizens, we are tired of the police telling us to stay in our homes, close our windows and turn our air conditioning on.

We don't need a warden on our street to tell us how to behave in our own neighborhood, when some have lived here for 40-plus years.

We need someone to protect us from the real law-breaking people who have done everything to make lives on our street chaotic. Many residents have been given bogus tickets for whatever these drunk people choose to say.

The police do have to respond to the calls, and as adults we do understand this. But when they respond they talk to the taxpaying residents as if they're all in preschool and the nice officer is explaining his job to 4-year-olds.

We also understand the office trained to diffuse situations, they need to realize that we are not ignorant and they need to show respect to the people who pay their paychecks.

We are not going to stay in our homes with the windows shut and the air conditioning running just to please one family who doesn't know how to behave in a warm, caring family-oriented neighborhood.

A big thank you

Our family would like to express a big thank you to all the Observer & Eccentric employees who organized the Carrier Appreciation Picnic held at Kensington Metropark yesterday. Our family had a fantastic time! It's not often that a company would go to that extent to thank young people. Not only did the Observer & Eccentric staff arrive very early to reserve and set up the area, but they managed to keep several hundred kids organized with games and prizes throughout the day. The food and fun was never ending.

I hope this will be an annual event since it brought carriers from so many cities together for a great time and gave all of us a chance to meet many people from the Observer & Eccentric we generally just talk to on the phone.

Salem land concerns

Recently the citizen volunteer group, Focus: Salem Environmental Committee, hosted an educational evening with the theme, "Preserving Our Open Space and Farmlands,"

Open to all Salem Township residents and interested individuals, the evening had the mark and flavor of times gone by - when the town hall functioned as a forum for spreading the information vital to the community, steeped in volunteerism and commitment to preserving the quality of life of the individual, the family and one's neighbors.

We are planning more of these events so please check your calendar of events in this paper and the Salem Township quarterly newslet-

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the speakers, Scott Everett of the Michigan Farm Bureau, Burney Johnson of the Washtenaw County Planning Commission, and Barry Lonik of the Potowatami Land Trust.

They volunteered their time to offer insightful and useful methods available to everyone interested in preserving their land, and gave practical guidelines to preservation techniques on a larger scale. Thank you to the entire Environmental Committee: Meroe Kaericher, Cindy Brautigan, Karen and Ed Gourlay. Guy Monacelli and Arlene and Howard DeForest.

Because of your extraordinary efforts and commitment to the environment, you have made a difference. We are always looking for new volunteers; contact the Salem Township Hall if you are interested.

Also, a special thanks to Don Riddering, Salem Township supervisor and staff person for the Environmental Committee, our leader and font of knowledge, inspiration and initiative.

Thanks, for being a champion of the Focus: Salem citizen groups and seeing us through.

Dole supports life

President Bill Clinton was elected for our national economy priority, while abortion atricities were ignored! . . . That was four ago! Since then, he has vetoed "partial abortions," the most barbaric, inhumane assault, on the unborn babies, conceived in the womb of their mother: While abortions are brutal. ... "partial abortions: are mankind's most perverse method of the latter. It is quite apparent, that we have allowed our national moral conscience to pass into oblivion. Why?

Where is our compassion for these, who are defenseless, innocent victims of fate? They are a "separate entity"...a precious "gift of life," regardless of conceptive circumstances!

We need a president who is amorally courageous and who will fight injustice, defend all human life, born and unborn, the handicapped and the aged. President elect senator Robert Dole is that man. He has fought in the war, and dutifully served his country when called to

Antique radios still play on

■For some people, a radio is just something to listen to. For others, like local residents Mark Oppat and Dan Gutowski, it's an addictive hobby.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Dan Gutowski, a self-proclaimed nostalgia buff, hates to see antiques get destroyed or go to waste.

His Livonia home is a testament to that. A shelf behind his kitchen table is sprinkled with replicas of old-fashioned tins. Antique furniture proudly sits in his living room.

Upstairs, though, are his babies antique radios.

To say he's an awid collector is almost an understatement. Fellow collector Mark Oppat of Plymouth recalled the first time that Gutowski attended the Michigan Antique Radio Club's "Extravaganza" swap

"He had only been collecting for about four months. You should have seen him. He was walking around like a zombie. He was walking up and down the aisles going nuts. His eyes were spinning. He was in a trance," Oppat said with a laugh.

The upstairs of Gutowski's home is filled with refurbished antique radios in working condition. He dashes from one console radio to another turning them on and off to show that they're in working condition. Gutowski, a former member of the local rock band Psycho Cafe. even has a collection of old records to play on his radios.

While some collect radios according to brand name, Gutowski collects by style. His forte is collecting console radios although he's also partial to tombstone and cathedral

"When you collect consoles, there tends to be a logistics problem. The reason I like console radios is the ones I collect were the more highend sets that had a higher tube count. That meant they were more deluxe and they had more features. They were just a better radio versus the average radio that utilizes seven or eight tubes."

An avid collector, Oppat also sells and repairs antique radios through Antique Audio, a business he runs out of his home in Plymouth's Old

Oppat began collecting at age 16. "I was always interested in old stuff when I was a kid," said Oppat. "I had an old pedal car that had been my cousin's. I was very interested in old cars as a kid. When I got into high school I got into electronics. As soon as I got into electronics, I was interested in old radios."

Oppat bought seven or eight radios for $50 after answering an advertisement.

"That just started it right there. From that point on I was buying them everywhere.'

A year later, he became the one of the youngest members of the Antique Wireless Association.

"I went to my first national conference when it was here at Greenfield Village in 1978. It was like all guys who were in their 60s and

In the last 20 years, Oppat has seen antique radio collecting trends come and go.

"The hobby's exploded into a lot of different areas. Right now, the real hot thing is transistor pocket radios from, for instance, the early '60s and the late '50s. They first came out in Christmas of 1954."

The Alzheimer's Association Detroit-Area Chapter is sponsoring the fifth annual "Memory Walk" on Saturday, Aug. 24, at the Detroit Zoo, Woodward Avenue and I-696, Royal Oak Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. followed by the walk at 9:45 a.m.

The two-mile walk is open to the public and walking clubs. There is a $25 minimum pledge or donation to participate in the event. A $5 registration/zoo admission fee will also be charged Registration forms (a) the walk are available at the Registration begins at 8 a.m., shotgun start at 9:30 a.m. The cost is $65 and includes 18 holes of golf, hot dog lunch, and a buffet dinner. Golf-related prizes including clothing and a mirror by woodcrafter Jim Sylvester will be awarded. Deadline for reservations is Sept. 3. For more information or to reserve a space, call the Women's Resource Center at (313) 462-.

"It's a fun way to support the cholarship program at the Women's Resource Center. W tried to keep the price as low as possible because we want to encourage people to learn about us," said Swanborg, WRC's direc-

The Tee Time Golf Classic began after a suggestion by Frank Hickey, a Cattails Golf Club employee. Morning showers failed to deter 128 hearty golfers last year and by the shotgun start at 1 p.m., the sun came out. According to Swanborg, the decision to change the starting time to 9:30 a.m. was made so that golfers will finish earlier.

"We're very excited about the positive response last year. We had a great turnout. In the interim, golfers have asked when are we doing it again. We loved it," said Swanborg, an avid golfer.

Last year, more than $6,000 was raised for WRC scholarships that benefit single parents, displaced homemakers, and widowed and divorced women.

Hole sponsors ($100) and donations of prizes are still needed for this year's event. Advertisers are also being sought. For $25, camera-ready business cards will be printed in the dinner program. The deadline for advertising is Aug. 26.

> "We help the people who can't get help anywhere else," said Swanborg. "While most 18-yearold kids have plenty of opportunitios for scholarships, older people do not. Right now, we're helping a widow with four teenagers. She needs to use all of her resources to keep her family together."

> When financial aid wasn't enough to cover Carol M.'s tuition and book costs, she sought help from WRC. Because her family is considered lowincome, with, aid from WRC Carol will graduate with a bachelor of arts degree and a teaching certificate next year.

"The Women's Resource Center has helped me to take a full load and finish in a reasonable time," said the 39-year-old Dearborn Heights mother of two.

Along with scholarships, the center offers a variety of community programs for people in transition. Grief seminars, divorce support groups, an annual Women's Health Conference, a fall and winter luncheon series. and an Older Women's League seminar on women and economics are among the activities sponsored by WRC.

Although career information and financial aid are what WRC is best known for, a library of pamphlets and other materials provide help with everything from choosing a day care center to how to write a resume or find an attorney. Hospice workers needed

The Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute is looking for individuals who would like to work at its Lathrup Village office.

Office volunteers work 2-3 hours per week and provide assistance with mailings, light typing assignments, clerical duties and other special projects.

For additional information, call Cathy Dominici at (313) 833-0715, ext, 763.

The Karmanos Cancer Institute is one of the nation's leading cancer research, treatment, education and outreach centers. It is affiliated with The Detroit Medical Center and Wayne State University and supported by several United Ways.

 Community Hospice Services (CHS) of Westland and Plymouth will host its eight-week training course from 9 a.m.-noon Tuesday, Sept. 24-Tuesday, Nov. 12, at the Westland office, 32932 Warren Road (corner of Warren and Venoy roads).

Guest speakers will discuss patient care and comfort, spirituality and the hospice family, and team of family dynamics. For more information about volunteering at CHS or registering for the training course, call Doreen Vivyan at (313) 522-4244, CHS was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, supportive care to those persons and their families facing an incurable illness. Serving Western Wayne, Southern Oakland and Eastern Washtenaw counties, CHS has provided care for more than 1,000 patients and families.

some of which are worth up to-$25,000.

"The Catalin was a big innovation in style. They were really artsy. It was the beginning of style. Radio at that time started exploding into styles. No longer were you limited to a wood box with some knobs on it. You have something that was a creative piece of art in your home."

According to Oppat, radio collecting is an inexpensive hobby. aside from the Catalins. The Michigan Antique Radio Club, of which Gutowski and Oppat are scheduled swap meets are Oct. 6 in Grand Rapids, and one in Dearborn in early February, For more information, call Oppat at (313) 455-4169. Locally, Opput and a handful of antique stores sell radios.

Restoring radios Oppat explained, has become much easier in the last few years.

"It's actually easier to restore radios today than when I started in 1973. I can pick up a phone and call specialists that I know that can make particular things. I specialize in making antique over the country."

Gutowski also repairs-radios. which is how he was introduced to the hobby.

A few years later, he found out that his brother had gotten rid of the radio so he bought a shortwave radio at the Livonia Amateur Radio Club's swap meet.

"That led into me messing with old TVs. I'd ride around the neighborhood on my bike stupid. Why would I want to mess with this stuff?' I got into adolescence and other things."

He set aside his hobby to play music but an interest in cigar smoking brought him full circle.

I wanted to pick up a cigar box to go in a curio cabinet. I went to an antique store to go and find a cigar box, I turned the corner and saw (an antique radio). It rejuvenated something that probably was always there. I saw that and I was just mesmerized by it - just the style and the antiquity of it. I'm a very

Cage teams gear up for tip-off

Alma mater hires Kummer Former Redford Catholic Central All-State basketball player Bobby Kummer has been hired as a restricted earnings assistant coach at his alma mater, the University of North Carolina-

Kummer, 22, was a three-year starter and four-year letter winner for the '49ers, who appeared in one NCAA and oneNational Invitational tournament.

"I'm extremely excited," Kummer said. "At the age of 22 I am getting an chance that some people wait a lifetime. My first appointment in coaching is at UNC-Charlotte and it is an opportunity I will give everything I have to make it successful. I love Charlotte and UNC-Charlotte, and now I can learn the game in a program I am familiar with as a player. It's a great start for me. I know I have a lot to prove and I'm going to look at this position as a learning year. I know it's year to year and I'm anxious to learn."

Kummer, who scored 624 career points, grabbed 471 rebounds and had 221 assists, was also an All-Academic choice in Conference USA and finished with a 3.65 grade-point average.

"Bobby Kummer wants to become a collegiate coach and this position is a way for me to reward an ex-player," said recently appointed UNCC head coach Melvin Watkins. "More importantly, I think Bobby has the ability and the work ethic to become a fine coach. He's always been a leader. He's always been a captain or player others looked to for leadership. Those qualities will help him in his transition from player to coach."

Watkins noted Kummer's duties will include film exchange, video practice footage, preparation of recruiting files for sophomores and juniors, conditioning and weight training, and on the floor coaching and teaching of drills at practice sessions.

Bronze medalist

Ryan Anderson, a 6-foot-10 left-handed pitcher from Westland, was a member of the USA junior team which captured a bronze medal with a 5-2 win over South Korea in the International Baseball Association's AAA Junior World Championship in Sancti Spiritus, Cuba.

Anderson will be a senior this fall at Dearborn Divine Child.

New Glenn coach

Alum Pauline Eldridge is the new girls varsity cross country coach at Westland John Glenn High School.

Eldridge, who lettered in track and cross country at Glenn before graduating from the University of Toledo, will take over the duties previous. ly held by Jess Shough, the latter whom will concentrate on the boys team.

Eldridge is currently teaching Special Education at Adams Middle School.

Youth soccer champs

•The Michigan Hawks, an under-11 girls soccer team, outscored their opponents 13-1 with three straight victories to finish first recently in the Waterford Cup 1996.

Members of coach John Bucanan's division championship team include: Colene Brockman, Nicole Cauzillo, Erin Closser, Melissa Dobbyn, Katie Hendrickson, Nikki Hermann, Jill Kehler, Tegan Lanning, Kelly McMann, Jenny Murray, Sophia Naum, Michelle Phillips, Jamie Poole, Marissa Sarkesian, Jennifer Szymanski and Laine Williams.

•The Livonia YMCA Michigan Hawks agegroup soccer teams came away with the team title in the fourth annual Wings Soccer Club St. Louis Girls Friendship Cup 1996, Aug. 9-11, in St. Charles, Mo.

The event included the top seven U.S. Soccer Federation clubs represented by teams of under-11, -12, -13, -14, -15, -16 and -17.

The Hawks tallied 329 points to beat out the Busch Soccer Club of Missouri, which had 306.

Other participaint club teams included Cardinals (Ohio), Penns Forest (Pa.), Fury (Tenn.), Blackwatch (S.C.), and Wings (Mo.).

In the second flight, Sue Beaton of Canton won low gross with an 89, while June Wright of Livonia was low net with a 64.

In the third flight, Dorothy Cortes of Livonia shot 97 to claim low gross honors.

Area drivers place

Several area drivers earned places Saturday at Flat Rock Speedway including Livonian Mike Jaynes, who finished fourth in the 20-lap ARCA Street Stock main feature.

Westland's Craig Pace took eighth in the ARCA 20-lap Figure feature, while Steve Cronenwett, also of Westland, took ninth in the 30lap ARCA late model feature.

Cronenwett ranks third in the Late Model overall point standings, while Jaynes is sixth in Street Stock. Westland's Billy Stapleton is ninth in the Figure 8.

Wayne Memorial's Chuck Henry has coached his share of talented basketball players, including boys star Lorenzo Guess, who led the Zebras to the state Class A semifinals last March.

The same thing could be said on the girls side, as Henry welcomes back perhaps the best one-two punch in Observerland.

First-team All-Observer pick Yolanda Holt, a 5-foot-11 senior forward who averaged 18 points and eight rebounds last year, along with 5-7 guard Rica Barge, who also scored in double figures (14 ppg), give Wayne reason for optimism as the 1996 season approaches.

The Zebras finished 16-7 a year ago, reaching the district final and finishing second (behind Dearborn Fordson) in the Mega-Red Division.

Holt, who played her first full season a year ago after transferring from Redford Bishop Borgess, is a versatile player who could be dominating. She has major college skills.

"With Yolanda we're just looking for more consistency," Henry said. "She's somebody who's heart is always in the right place. We can play her at guard or forward."

Barge, a three-year starter, takes the blue collar approach to the

"She's as consistent as anybody," Henry said. "She's a warrior, a competitor and a leader. She can be encouraging, but yet at the same time get other people to raise their level of play. You've got to have a kid like that."

Meanwhile, Livonia Ladywood first-year coach Andrea McAllister-Gorski is building from the ground up after taking over for Lisa McPhee, who resigned at the end of

Lutheran Westland gridders optimistic

BY BRAD EMONS

This could be the year Lutheran High Westland breaks out from the middle of the pack in the Metro Conference football race.

First-year coach Scott Wiemer, who has been the Warriors' defensive coordinator since the school's program was initiated by the retired Dennis Tuomi, believes the pieces are in place to make a run at the

"If we stay away from mental mistakes and turnovers, we should be competitive with anyone in our league," Wiemer said. "We were competitive in a lot of games last year until we made mistakes. We have to learn to play four quarters." Lutheran Westland was 3-6 overall last season, but 3-3 in the Metro.

Gone are a pair of first-team All-Metro picks, Laroy Turner, a twoway tackle now at Grand Valley State, and Mat Baltz, a two-way

Albert Cook, a 5-foot-10, 172-pound senior, is one of the conference's top returnees.

Cook, who runs the 40-yard dash in 4.74 and benches 267 pounds, best among any Warrior, gained 685 yards in 109 carries for a 6.3 average, while scoring six touchdowns.

He also led the defense with 87 total tackles, including 38 solos.

"Albert worked hard during the off-season, he went to Louisville camp and the Nike camp at Eastern Michigan and came back really enthused," Wiemer said. "He's finally learning to be a running back. He's now making the cuts and reading the blocks. It's encouraging to see instead of trying to beat people to the outside all the time.

"His work ethic has improved immensely." Three-year starter Joe Pruchnik, a .6-2, 193-pound tight end/linebacker, also bolsters the Warriors' lineup. The second-team All-Metro choice caught 11 passes for 132 yards and was second on the team in total

Daly comes close in nationals

The Livonia Daly Restaurant women's fast pitch softball team ended its season with an impressive 40-6 record, but fell short of what it had hoped to accomplish -- winning its first national championship.

The team recently returned from the Class A Nationals in Columbus (Ga.) where it finished third out of 30 teams. Daly was eliminated by eventual champion Stark Street Pizza of West Linn (Ore.) after winning five of its first six games.

Daly was led by former Plymouth Canton and University of Michigan standout Kelly Holmes. The hurler pitched every game for Daly and was selected to the ASA All-American first team.

Holmes compiled a record of 20-3 with an ERA of 1.36. In the tournament, she finished 5-2 with 45 strikeouts in 36 innings.

Holmes began the tournament by striking out 12 in a 5-1 victory over Coale Trucking of Belcamp (Md.) She followed up that performance by combing on a two-hitter with Lincoln Park's Carrie Knight in a 5-0 blanking of West Frankfort (IL.).

Daly won its next game 4-0

Holmes bounced back, throwing a two-hitter in a 3-2 victory over All Points Express of Hayward, Calif. Her 20th win of the season followed as Daly held off Nor Cal Shots, 2-1.

The Daly offense was shut down against Stark Street, which ended the Livonia restaurant hopes with a 5-0 win.

Julie Liljeberg of Western Michigan University led Daly in hitting with a .411 average.

TWISTERS FALL 149

The Motor City Cougars scored a pair of touchdowns in the first seven minutes of action to hold off the Wayne County Twisters, 14-9, in Lakeshore League semiprofessional football league action Saturday at old Inkster Cherry Hill High School.

The Cougars capitalized on a Wayne County fumble at the Twister 6-yard line for their first TD. The Cougars drove 47 yards on their next drive to make it 14-

Penalties; 21 for a total of 195 yards, killed the Twisters' offensive attack. Six plays, totalling 174 yards, were called back.

"We let frustration set in and distract our concentration,' Twisters coach Kevin Bradford said. "This frustration was primarily in the form of the offi-

"We have had the same set of officials for our first four home games. Next week we play in Toledo (Ohio), after that game we will have a better feel for whether or not we are truly deserving of the penalties we have suffered so far this season."

Pat Bowie (Wayne) led the Twisters rushing attack with 45 yards in 12 carries and one touchdown. Jeff Platt (Redford added 34 yards in seven attempts.

Scott Harris (Dearborn), pressed into duty when starting quarterback Kris Collins (Woodhaven) was not available for duty, hit four of 19 passes for 31

"I commend Scott for his willingness to take on the pressure of quarterback," Bradford said. "Scott did the best he could in an emergency. As a team, we need to learn that when someone goes down and is replaced, the rest of the unit needs to set up."

Defensively, the Twisters, led by John Platt (Brighton), Chris Wall (Detroit) and Chuck Lauber (Westland), gave up only 17 yards after the first quarter.

Lauber had one of three pick-offs, including a 42-yard return to set up the lone Twister TD. The other two points were tallied on a safety in the final quarter.

tackles with 46.

Another key returnee is thirdteam All-Metro pick Bill Garlick, a 5-8, 166-pound senior who is moving from guard to fullback. He also plays nose guard after finishing third on the team with 42 tackles despite missing the first three games to injury.

Other returning starters on offense include senior fullback Matt Schonsheck (6-0, 184), junior guard Mike Baltz (5-10, 159) and senior center Chris Doherty (5-11, 201).

The quarterback position will be filled by senior Luke Horton, a 6-3', 185-pound senior who runs a 4.9.

"I like his speed, his size and the fact that he's a strong runner," Wiemer said of Horton. "He has a strong arm who should develop into a decent passer."

Also expected to help offensively is tackle/tight end Ben Meyer (6-5, 206), a senior who runs a 5.0 after missing all of last year. Meyer will be joined by senior wingback Kevin Wade (5-11, 162); Bob Fox (5-10, 171), a junior guard; Jake Hatten (5-11, 165), a junior halfback/wingback who lettered; Jason Hempel (5-9, 148), a junior split end/back; and Chris O'Brien (5-8, 140), a junior split end. Wiemer is going away from the traditional I-formation used by Tuomi in favor of a Wing-T, a misdirection-style offense. "I ran it in Texas, but this is all done within the same system," Wiemer said. "The key to make it work is that you have to carry out fakes and have your linemen do two things:

"First, block at different angles and secondly, be able to pull.

"This is one of the best teams we've had for overall speed. It's the first time where everybody in the backfield is under 5.0 (in the

Class A champ Salem overhauls old engine

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK STAFF WRITER

Nice car Ed McCarthy's driving these days. Needs a new engine, though.

But McCarthy came to the right place for ongines the Phy mouth Salem soccer factory - so he figures to at least have something in that car he's taking for a test drive this season. McCarthy, is taking over at Salem "for legendary coach Ken Johnson, who's retiring conveniently in Florida." McCarthy prepped for the job by being the Rocks' junior varsity coach for the last five years.

Salem can't be expected to duplicate Johnson's last team, which sent him out into the cold cruel world of Florida winters with a 22-3 record capped by a state Class A championship.

But the Plymouth area's junior programs keep a steady stream of talent flowing to the area's two Class A powers for yearly replenishment.

"We definitely got hammered by graduation," McCarthy said of his inaugural Salem soccer team. "We've only three starters off that state championship team.

"I'm optimistic about our year." But it's important that we get things settled defensively in order for us to be successful.

Salem must replace some pretty strong talent. Drew Drummond, a midfielder with 22 goals, is now playing at Eastern Michigan.

Forward Ronny Mashni took his 13 goals to Oakland University while Andy Makins is now playing for Madonna University. Other key losses included Chris Jaskolski and Matt Hucal.

But while those players were excellent, the returnees got the benefit of practicing and playing with them. That will help.

It will also help that Salem's leading returnees include Western Lakes Activities Association All-Lakes Division defender Chris Curry, who will move up to midfield this season, plus midfielder Matt Sarkesian and defender Josh Fair. Fair "is the heart defense at this point," McCarthy said. "And we're expecting some pretty good things out of (junior) Brett Konley and (senior) Ryan Konley, both forwards.'

Another key for the Rocks is how well Andreas Lopez can play in goal as the successor to Brian Bacyinski, now playing soccer at an NAIA college in St.

"This is his first year as a starter," McCarthy said of Lopez, "but he's been through the pro-

"Some other guys we're expect-ing good things out of this year include Scott Loewe at midfield, midfielder Andy Power, sophomore defender Nick Szezechowski and sophomore forward Dan Wielechowski."

Power is also a starter on the Salem basketball team and McCarthy notes "he's a great one. He'll be a good one for us."

BOYS SOCCER

McCarthy can be expected to help uphold the Salem tradition of good soccar teams. He didn't exactly crawl out of Fellows.

Creek, you know. He holds a National B license to coach, has done extensive officiating in Redford, was affiliated with the Redford Soccer Club and coached a year at Livonia Ladywood before joining John.

He is currently working on his Master's Degree in Economics at Central Michigan University.

"It's going to be a tough go at first," he said, "until we get settled in. We were hit hard by graduation. We've got a large number of holes to fill.

Helping to fill them will also be senior midfielder Tim Makins; junior defensemen Rob Zdrodowski, Brent Mullin, Lee Masterson and David Swatosh: junior midfielder Rishi Sinha; and sophomore defenseman Aaron McDonald.

The backup goalkeeper is sophomore Brian Wozniak.
McCarthy will have a chance to implement his own style, but feels he's "pretty adaptable in terms of a lineup. "Each year I've run with a different lineup. I've got a feeling we'll even make changes in what we've been running this week. "Normally I'd say my preference is being strong in the back.

It's really important for us to be strong defensively. "We should be strong up front with both Konleys. "The heart of our team is in our midfield, Curry and Sarke-sian If necessary, we can make improvements to our defense with either one of those players. "That's why I'm hoping our other players can do an adequate job. They've looked pretty good back there so far." Salem participates in the Centennial Educational Park Tournament on Saturday, playing Portage Central while Canton tries on Redford Catholic Central. The winners and losers both meet in a second game. That should give McCarthy (and Canton coach Don Smith) a feel for what needs overhauling, tinkering or tuning up. "Both are excellent teams with good reputations," McCarthy said, "so we should get an excellent feel for where we stand." Salem then plays Tuesday at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

He feels the powers in the WLAA will be Livonia Stevenson and Churchill - and Canton. "Canton has always given us a tough match. That's not going to change any time soon. Plus the rivalry makes it even more intense." Doesn't seem likely that, with McCarthy taking over as driver of the machine the Salem soccer factory turns out, that will change any time soon on the Rocks' side, either.

Mitral Mile winner dribbles way to impressive clocking

By M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

College basketball coaches might consider recruiting Dave Thurston.

All Thurston did was dribble a basketball for a 5,980 teet in 5:32 in the inaugural MainStreet Mitral Mile held Aug. II in Ann Arbor.

On Thurston's heels in the basketball dribble was Jim Zander (5:33) and Wally Poupore (6:09).

The event, staged by well-known, highly-ranked runners Ann Boyd and Karen McKeachie, drew a field of 280. Runners competed in an age-graded and gender-graded mile, starting near the University of Michigan Stadium. Separate heats were held for 13 age groups, and all went off on time.

Overall winners in the prize-money race were Chris Lett of East Lansing for the men in 4:05, and Jasmin Kelly of Knoxville, Tenn. in

Billed as a "Post-Olympic Party Dash," the event drew several Olympians; basketball players from U-M and MSU: and a big number of young-sters. That was the whole idea, said Boyd and McK-

"We wanted to introduce kids to elite runners and to the sport of roadracing," said Boyd. "Half our field was 14and-under. We had a 3-yearold who ran a 10-minute mile, and a 91-year-old who finished in 17:30. While Olympians including UM runner Kevin Sullivan of Canada and track's Keith Smith from the Virgin Islands participated and signed autographs, "It wasn't a race geared toward elite runners,' said McKeachie. "The idea was to try to keep the everyday runner from being intimidated about running a mile. We wanted to make it a big, festive event, and it was. Second in the Male Marquee Mile was Michael Michno of Ohio in 4:06. Third was Guy Murray, University of Detroit-Mercy cross country coach, in 4:08 followed by Kalamazoo's Brad Kirk in 4:09 and Ian Forsyth of Ann Arbor in 4:11.

Runner up in the Female Marquee was Karen Harvey of Ontario in 4:51, followed by Jenny Goodpaster of Holland, Mich. in 4:55; Laurel Park of Ann Arbor in 4:55; Serena Fraser of Ann Arbor in 5:03; Mireille Smith of Warren in 5:08, and Martha Piper of Jackson in 5:09. All won prize

Bass anglers shine in tourney

Rochester's Dave Fairchild and Canton's Mary Ashteneau have each experienced recent success in bass fishing tournaments.

Fairchild teamed up with

rapeer resident Bill Higgins to win the Tri-State Bass Anglers tournament last month on Lake St. Clair. The duo returned to the dock with a limit of seven small mouth. bass- which tipped the scale at 24.53 pounds.

Dave Funk and Randy Roepke placed second with seven fish which totaled 23.73 pounds. There were 150 boats in the tournament and the dominant smallmouth patterns were grubs, jigs, and spinnerbaits. The big bass award went to Greg 5.71-pound smallmouth.

Ashteneau placed 16th in the opening round of the National Bass'n Gals final qualifying event of the 1996 season last week on the Coosa River's Lake Neely Henry in Rainbow City, Alabama. Ashteneau had a total weight of 7.41 pounds. There were 158 women representing 26 states entered in the event.

More bass fishing

Tim Weber of Lake Orion and Jessie Nutt of Rochester Hills combined efforts to place second last month in the Oakland Bass Masters' Pontiac Lake Open. The duo teamed up to catch 22.97-pounds of bass and won $614.25 and a $20 gift certificate to Big Boy Restaurants. Jerry Doucette and Eric Dysarczyk of Waterford won the tournament with a 32.43-pound stringer. They split $1,082.25 and a $20 gift certificate to Big Boy Restaurants.

Mike McQueen of Auburn

best friends!

Manus and Terry Smith for a Hills and Bob Pollock of White Lake placed fourth (13.93) pounds), John Pearce of Bloomfield Hills and Mike Grant of Royal Oak placed sixth (12.20-nounds), Paul-Wright of Redford and John Gore of White Lake finished ninth (10.45-pounds) and Dan Wright of Lake Orion and Mike Strange of Auburn Hills placed 10th (9.39-pounds).

Fifty two-man teams were entered in the tournament and a total of 100 bass were weighed in for a total of 236.66 pounds.

In other bass angling news, Michigan's Kevin VanDam finished sixth in the 1996 BASS Masters Classic, Aug. 8-9 on Lay Lake near Birmingham, Alabama. VanDam, who hails from Kalamazoo, had 10 fish for a total eight of 22-pounds, 8ounces. He won $6,000.

George Cochran, of Hot Springs, Arkansas won his second BASS Masters Classic championship with a three-day total of 15 fish which tipped the scale at 31-pounds, 14-ounces.

Cochran, who also won the Classic in 1987, earned $100,000 for winning the 1996 championship.

The 1996-1997 BASSMASTER season begins this weekend on Lake Minnetonka in Minnesota. Lake Orion's Chuck Economou is slated to compete in the tournament along with VanDam and ·Howell's Kim Stricker.

CORROSIVE EFFECTS

Automobile exhaust systems wear out due to corrosion. To the casual observer, the primary external rusting, the greatest amount of corrosion occurs internally, mostly in the muffler. owes itself to the fact that water and acid are byproducts of the combustion process. They inside out. Until the exhaust system reaches operating temperatures, moisture condenses or surfaces become hot, the moisture evaporates This is why short trips that are not long enough in duration to get the exhaust systems not are more likely than long drives to create corrosor problems for the exhaust system.

If your exhaust system is sounding a bit loud perhaps it's time to check it out for corrosive wear and tear which can reduce its effectiveness-as well as provide a nois CHEVROLET INC., meeting your needs is what we do best. Hospitals online

Botsford, St. Mary lead the way, others set to follow

BY RENEE SKOGLUND

For most commercial organizations today, going online means staying on top of the latest communication and marketing tools. Hospitals are no exception.

Several area hospitals already use the Internet; others are in the process of getting on board.

Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills joined the global Internet Aug. 1 with an "O&E Online" web site. Botsford has more than 20 web site pages showcasing its medical services, community health programs and classes, support groups, and physician referral service.

"The Internet offers us the opportunity to reach our community in a whole new communication venue," said Bridget Gosine, Botsford's community relations manager. "There's so much opportunity with the Internet to keep things current. We plan to keep the home page going. This is the first phase of it.'

The hospital's second phase in expanding its web site pages will focus on physicians and will include information on graduate and continuing education medical courses and lectures. Gosine also said the hospital intends to provide links to other related home pages, such as Michigan State University's College of Osteopathic Medicine, through its web site.

Botsford's web page is no one-way street. "Online browsers will also have the opportunity to communicate directly to the organization via e-mail to voice their needs and concerns," said Margo Gorchow, Botsford Hospital and community relations administrator.

Marketing through the Internet saves money, added Gosine. "I think It's cost-effective by the fact we can easily update. A print piece is final. If you want to change a ZIP code, it's costly. Also, we can quickly add a new class instead of waiting for a quarterly newsletter."

Botsford's Internet address is http://www.botsfordsystem.org and info@botsfordsystem.org is the hospital's e-mail address

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia currently is going for a test drive along the Internet with nine pages on an O & E Online web site. St. Mary Hospital offers information about medical services, health programs and physician referral service.

"It's a very cost-effective way to let people know about services. Peo-

It is also a way for St. Mary to keep the community updated on its new west addition under construc-

The addition will house a stateof-the art, single-room maternity wing, along with a new Women's Center and a host of surgical suites. "The Internet is a natural fit for the people we are trying to reach," said Sproul.

Oakwood Healthcare System is on the Internet with a library targeted to physicians. The hospital plans to expand its external market in the near future.

"The Internet provides another way to let our existing and potential customers know about Oakwood Healthcare System's continuum of care - from prenatal to geriatrics via their home computer," said Jamie Racklyest, multi-media communications representative at Oakwood.

"Oakwood's web page will be a valuable tool for educating the community on wellness, prevention and other health-related issued. We're very excited about utilizing this high-tech marketing opportunity." St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor will begin a pilot program on the Internet this fall.

Staffers will work through Mercy Health Services, the sponsoring web site organization for St. Joseph, Providence Hospital in Southfield, Saline Community Hospital.

"We look at the Internet as being another tool in sharing information with people who are looking for health-care information or who are interested in using the four hospitals. Also, we provide the community with messages on how to stay healthy," said Margo Burrage, media relations coordinator.

By linking with Mercy Health Services, St. Joseph can provide community access to a broader scope of information on major health programs, as well as health-plan infor-

DCB offers new health care degree

By Casey-Hans

Anyone who has dealt with the health care industry in the past few years knows one thing: it's complicated.

And from this mountain of paperwork, bureaucracy and general confusion has arisen a new definition of an established professional: the medical case manager.

Although the profession has been around for about 20 years in different forms, today's medical case manager juggles the needs of patients with insurance companies, attorneys, employers, hospitals and other agencies which deal with medical conditions.

Prevent carpal tunnel syndrome

If you use computers daily or enjoy Web surfing with your computer, experts say that you are at risk for repetitive strain injuries (RSI) such as carpal tunnel syndrome.

The symptoms often will appear suddenly and begin with sensations like numbness in the hands, cramping and tingling in muscles and tendons, says Steven Rudnik, SVP at Magnitude, LLC (800-728-4368).

> "It is now estimated to afflict almost 2 million Americans and cost business more than $20 billion each year," Rudnik said. "Research indicates that while any people see the graceful curves of calligraphy as delicate icons of antiquity. William Bostick sees the swooping strokes as vital, strong instruments for the present and future.

Bostick, an artist who was administrator and secretary of the Detroit Institute of Arts for 30 years, has published books and manuals teaching calligraphy for children and adults. His La Stampa Calligrafica is a calligraphic publisher and supplier. He teaches calligraphy, as well as French and art history, in Birmingham and West Bloomfield community education.

"If it weren't for writing, knowledge would never have been passed from one generation to another," said Bostick, who views calligraphy as the art of beautiful and legible handwriting.

"(Handwriting is) the last universally practiced human handicraft."

The state of penmanship these days is reportedly in decline as the keyboard is emphasized over the cursive in schools and businesses. Undecipherable handwriting costs U.S. businesses about $200 million each year, said Zaner-Bloser, an Ohio-based publisher of handwriting texts for students in kindergarten through eighth grade. Poor penmanship is cited as the root of a variety of problems, including preventing mail delivery, confusion about notes and a NASA project failure in 1965.

Calligraphy can resolve the crisis, said Bostick, who believes fine handwriting can be an art as well as a craft. He founded the American Society for the Diminution of Ugly and Illegible Handwriting.

"Our struggle is not to go back to the Palmer method.

"(We're trying) to get (people) interested in changing handwriting." Bostick's calligraphy teaching is aimed at adults and children who aren't happy about their handwriting. The calligraphy must be legible as well as beautiful. It still can have the individual style of the writer. Bostick writes and teaches the Italian Renaissance style - "the most beautiful ever" used by Michelangelo, daVinci, Raphael and Elizabeth I. The Italian Renaissance script doesn't have the slanted loops and curlicues of the Palmer method (like the Zaner-Bloser method, named for a 19th century master penman who taught handwriting).

"The beauty, the legibility of it" is what is special about the script.

Bostick practices what he preaches. The mailbox outside his Bingham Farms home bears calligraphic lettering. He officially changed his signature to calligraphic, even on bank accounts and voting registration. (The move has caused some humorous situations, such as the time a person to whom Bostick wrote a check said the writing was so beautiful he almost wanted to frame it instead of cash it.)

Supporters in the cause include Kate Gladstone of New York, a member of a calligraphy education and advocacy group called

Bostick isn't anti-computer. He wrote a column in a recent issue of the Letter Arts Review quarterly publication, "The Computer and the Calligrapher ... Friend or Foe?", pointing out that the computer can expose more people to the beauty of calligraphic typefaces and may contribute to the improvement of handwriting.

Bostick will have a show of handcolored lithographs at the Preston Burke Gallery in Farmington Hills in September. He has made stationery featuring his scenes of Detroit. The artist, who designed maps for the invasion of Normandy in World War II, got interested in calligraphy about 50 years ago after he read an article about it in his wife's Woman's Day maga-

"I looked at my handwriting and said, This is awful."

Bostick taught himself calligraphy and wrote a guide published by La Stampa Calligrafica in 1977. Since then, his three calligraphy manuals have taught thousands of students. Two of the manuals, "Calligraphy for Kids" and "Back to the Second Basic R - 'Ritin," are available for $9.95 and $14.95 respectively (shipping and tax included) from La Stampa Calligrafica, Box 209, Franklin 48025.

Bostick uses a fountain pen in his writing. The manuals describe how to hold the pen and form the letters, and feature lined pages for practicing. A helpful exercise is to make creatures out of the letters.

CRAFT SHOW

Crafters barnstorm historical Greenmead Village

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

Sue Daniel is looking forward to showing off the newly restored barn at Greenmead Historical Village when the Livonia Historical Commission presents its Americana Craft Show featuring nearly 70 exhibitors Aug.

For the first time, the show spotlighting country, folk, wood craft, and floral will take place on the Joshua Simmons Farm Complex instead of in the village. Free tours of the barn as well as the main house will be given during the craft show.

According to Daniel, the reason the farmstead is on the national registry of historic places is because of its outbuildings. Not many farm houses are saved and restored with their dependent buildings.

"We think it's the oldest surviving barn in Michigan. All of the buildings on the farm complex are original," said historical commission chairwoman Sue Daniel. "Built in 1829, the bark is on the logs that are used. An addition in 1877 was built from cut lumber.

Restoration of the entire barn and the exteriors of the chicken coop, greenhouse and garage cost about $150,000. The historical commission provided matching funds for a $70,000 Michigan Equity Grant.

Inside the barn one of the highlights is a 1915 buggy that belonged to Volney Gunning who lived in Livonia and ran a store in 1830 in the Clarenceville area. Gunning was also a square dance caller for Henry Ford at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills. The buggy was donated a few years ago to Greenmead by his family, the Whipples of Plymouth. Other small equipment on display include mid-19th century plows, scythes, and a fanning mill used for separating wheat grain from the shaft.

"Joshua Simmons was the third land buyer in Livonia. Four generations lived on the property," said Daniel.

Greenmend sits on 104 of the 160 acres originally deeded to Joshua Simmons by President John Quincy Adams for $225. In 1826, when Simmons and his wife Hannah left their New York home to begin life in the Township of Livonia, the couple had few neighbors. From records it's known wha deasts were adundant and the only roads were Indian trails and new paths laid out by the settlers with blazed trees."

In 1920, wealthy attorney Sherwin

S. Hill and his wife Jean bought the Simmons property. The floor of the house was rotted and the roof sagged. The Hills restored the home built in 1841 by Simmons. It was then referred to as the finest house in the county. The Hills named their farm Greenmead, short for Green Meadows. Until shortly before Hill's death in 1961, Greenmead was a working farm. Jean was a patron of Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester, and gave some of the school's rejects a home there.

The next restoration project on the list at Greenmead is the farmhand's house thought to be the oldest building on the farm complex because of the five sided or pentagon ridge beams used up at the top where the roof fits.

The Americana Craft Show began nine years ago with hopes of raising money to restore Judge Blue's House. Today, that project steadily continues to proceed thanks to the craft show benefit which annually raises $8,000 to $10,000 for Greenmead.

"I think it will be a nice change of ace this year naving the show in the farm complex. It's something new that people haven't seen. Part of the charm of the Americana Craft Show is the historical setting itself with the lovely flower gardens," said Marian Renaud, Greenmead program supervisor.

Doris Brailean of Livonia is one of the crafters showing in the Americana this year who Daniel is excited about. Brailean designs doll cloths after those worn in the American Girl series of books based on life in cras ranging from colonial to the 1940s.

"I'm an elementary librarian at Cass in Livonia and the second through fourth graders just love these books," said Daniel.

Two other exhibitors to take note of if you're into garden ornaments is Rob and Veronica Wooten of Waterford. The husband and wife team own the Concrete Garden in Farmington, a shop specializing in unpainted cement statuary including bunnies and other animals, bird baths, urns, planters and gargoyles. The couple does about 60 arts and crafts shows a year including the Farmington Founders Festival.

"We have a complete line of cement statuary, everything from bunnies to angels, garden benches and building size gargoyles," Rob Wooten said.

Prices for decorative concrete objects by the Wootens ranges from $2 for a small frog to $2,000 for a life-size dolphin.

Americana Craft Show

What: Nearly 70 exhibitors display a variety of crafts on the grounds of Greenmead Historical Village; plenty of food and refreshments from hot dogs to nachos. Sponsored by the Livonia Historical Commission, the show benefits the restoration at Greenmead. Free tours of the Hill House Museum and recently restored barn, thought to be the oldest in Michigan, with admission to the craft show. When: 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 24-25. Where: 20501 Newburgh at Eight Mile. Admission: $2 per car, walk-ins $1 per person.

Simmons/Hill House: Built in 1841, the Joshua Simmons house and its farm complex will be the site for the Americana Craft Show in Livonia.

In the dark of night, Vicin employs an art as ancient as the Roman-civilization. Egg tempera, which originated in medieval Europe, was the primary process used for easel painting until the development of oil painting in the 15th century. Angevine, who began painting at age 15, was influenced early by Surrealists Paul Delvaux, Salvador Dali, Rene Magnitte and Max Ernst. During the mid-1950s, he studied at Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design in Detroit under Sarkisian, Palazzola, Kozlow and Midener. His own students, taught over a period of more than 20 years, include Tyree Guyton, nationally known for creating the Heidelberg Project in Detroit; and Mose McCann, a renowned folk artist.

After 44 years of painting his acrylics on canvas Angevine conjures up imagery, juxtaposing unrelated objects in incongruous dreams, as if it were as easy as breathing

East Lansing's The Verve Pipe is getting ready to rock 'n' roll all night and party everyday.

band, who plays Pineon Saturday of "Planetfest,"southeastern leg of its tour Sept.

17-Oct. 2. "That'll be sweet," said keyboardist Doug Corella during a phone conversation from Morgantown, W.V. "It seems like it's going to be a good time."

Corella, a Walled Lake Western High School graduate, said he's not nervous yet but he grows.

The Kiss tour comes on the heels of a string of other successes for the band. The Verve Pipe scored a hit single, "Photograph," from its RCA debut gle "Cup of Tea" was just released to radio and the accompanying video debuted on MTV's "120 Minutes" on Sunday, Aug.

A photograph of the band which also includes singer/guitarist Brian Vander Ark, bassist Brad Vander Ark, drummer Don Brown, and guitarist A.J. Dunning - taken by noted photographer Robert Maxwell appears in Rolling Stone magazine's "Hot Issue."

The Verve Pipe, who recently finished a tour with 7 Mary 3, also dabbled in the soundtrack business. "Reverend Girl" from "Villains" appears in the madefor-HBO movie "Don't Look Back" starring Eric Stoltz.

performing on home turf.

"It's definitely going to be cool to play with all those bands."

The following bands are slated to join The Verve Pipe, who play The pop rock from 8:35-9:15 p.m., at radio station WHYT-FM 96.3's "Plan-Knob etfest." Tickets are $19:96 for the Music Theatre show that starts at 2 p.m.

- Barenaked Ladies (9.30 Aug. 24, as part 10:45 p.m.) were forced to slim down its line-up to a four piece will head out with Kiss on the after keyboardist Andy Creeggan left the band prior to the November 1995 release of "Born on a Pirate Ship" (Reprise). The result is a more rock-oriented sound for the Canadian pop band shown on the band's latest single "The Old Apartment."

• Former Chicago resident Peter Stuart made frequent visits to Detroit prior forming his expects to be as the anticipation band Dog's Eye View (7:35-8:15 p.m.)

The New York singer/songwriter/guitarist bared his soul as a solo performer opening for Tori Amos and Cracker but it's Dog's Eye View that has pushed album "Villains." The second sin- him into the spotlight. "Everything Falls Apart," the first single from the band's debut album "Happy Nowhere" (Columbia), cracked the Billboard pop and radio charts.

> • Solution A.D. (6:35-7:15 p.m.) recorded its TAG/Atlantic debut "Happily Ever After" with knob-turner Chad Taylor, whose other job is playing guitar for the rock band Live. The band's aggressive sound fills the album which includes the relentlessly hook-laden single "Fearless."

> • The Why Store's first single, "Lack of Water," is making waves at modern rock and adult alternative radio stations nationwide. Forming at Ball State Uni

(5:40-6:15 p.m.) combines elec-landed in the "Buzz Bin" with tric and acoustic textures on its labelmates Superdrag. Way Cool/MCA self-titled debut. Singer/guitarist Chris Shaffer said the key to the band's sound is just being themselves.

"We just try to be real. I come from the old school - Zeppelin, Doors, Bob Dylan, Jim Croce, marry Chapin. I believe in the melodies of the old school.

• The songs on "Regretfully Yours," the debut album for Superdrag (4:45-5:20 p.m.), takes on a '60s pop style like on the song "Sucked Out," in which singer John Davis wails "Who sucked out the feeling?" Drummer Don Coffey Jr. said the sound reflects Davis's influences.

"John's favorite band is the Beatles," said drummer Don Coffey Jr. "He's a Beatles fanatic. He also likes the Stones a lot, the Zombies. He also likes guitar bands like Yo La Tengo and My Bloody Valentine."

• Nada Surf (3:50-4:25 p.m.) found that former Cars singer Ric Ocasek was just what it needed during its fledgling years. Singer Matthew Caws slipped a demo copy of its album to Ocasek and was surprised when the slender singer wanted to work with them on its Elektra debut "High/Low."

"He's fantastic," Caws said of Ocasek. "He's the nicest guy. He's a very comforting producer. He just help you go for a good take. He didn't try to shape us in any way."The result is a newfound popularity for Nada Surf. The debut single "Popular" is infiltrating radio airwaves and the video for the song, a tribute to angst-ridden teen years directed by Jesse Peretz ("Big

• Dan Wilson and John Munson, formerly of Trip Shakespeare, formed Semisonic (2:55-3:30 p.m.) after its former band "was kind of fading away."

Joining forces with drummer/keyboardist (yes, he is rumored to play them at the same time) Jacob Slichter, the trio started playing covers of folky '70s songs and realized that they were "rocking in a good way." One thing led to another and the band released "Great Divide" (MCA), which singer/guitarist Wilson describes as "real melodious. There's a harmony and a melody to it that we just can't seem to escape."

• Pittsburgh indie band The Clarks (2-2:35 p.m.) is celebrating its 10-year anniversary at "Planetfest." A self-described American guitar rock band, The Clarks released the single "Courtney," a story of what would happen if Hole frontwoman Courtney Love fell in love with "a regular guy."

"Scott (Blasey, vocals, guitars) scribbled in the dust on the back of the van 'Courtney loves me now.' A lot of people don't get (that it's about Courtney Love). They think it's about Courtney Cox (of 'Friends')," bassist/mandolin player/vocalist Greg Joseph said.

If you have a question or comment for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her at The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, or via email at Cfuoco@aol.com, or you can leave a message for her at (313) 953-2047, mailbox No. 2130.

Heading out: The Verve Pipe's singer/guitarist Brian Vander Ark, shown performing at Harmony House in Farmington Hills, along with his bandmates are hitting the road as the opening act for Kiss on the southeastern leg of its tour. The East Lansing band performs Saturday, Aug. 24, at Pine Knob as part of Planetfest.

Anne Rice bus tour stops in Southfield Monday

By Victoria Diaz Special Writer

Anne Rice fans, mark your calendars. On Monday, Aug. 26, from 5-10 p.m. the bestselling author of "Interview with the Vampire," and many other noted novels will make an appearance at the Millennium Theatre, 15600 J.L. Hudson Drive, Southfield to meet fans and sign copies of her newest title, "Servant of the Bones." The exclusive area appearance will be hosted by Book Beat, 26010 Greenfield in Oak Park. for more information, call (810) 968-1190.

Just as Anne Rice is no ordinary writer, this will not be your ordinary, everyday book signing.

To gain admittance to the event, in the lobby of the theater, you must purchase your copy of "Servant of the Bones" (or other Rice novel) either at Book Beat or at the door. Further, while your receipt will get guarantee you a place in what is expected to be a lengthy autograph line. So, try to arrive as early as possible, and with books and receipt already in hand.

While Rice will sign an unlimited number of books, she will personalize only one per fan. She'll also pose for photos with readers, and Book Beat will provide a photographer if you'd like to have your picture taken with the author whose books have sold over 100 million copies worldwide. Rice has said a definite "no" to video cameras.

Other special treats for those in attendance include a free screening of the BBC's biographic/documentary film, "Anne Rice: Birth of the Vampire," which focuses on Rice's earlier life and the influences that life has had on her work. Live music will be provided by area musicians, and there'll be other "surprises,"

The Anne Rice "Servant of the Bones" Interstate Bus Tour was launched Aug. 1 with an eighthour book signing at New Orleans' historic St. Alphonsus Church — the same church where Rice's parents were married, and where she was baptized in 1941. On Aug. 5, the tour bus made a curbside stop in mid-town Manhattan, while Rice was interviewed on NBC's "Today" show.

The 40-city, 55-day nationwide trek will conclude on Halloween night — in a Miami cemetery.

If you're a web-walker, you may want to check out Salon magazine (http://www.salon1999 .com) in the coming weeks. The magazine will be posting updates from Rice and entries from her journal as the tour makes its way across the U.S.

Moving museum: Artrain, America's Museum in Motion, returns to its home base, Ann Arbor, Aug. 23-25, for the Michigan opening of Art in Celebration. An opening reception will be held tonight.

Artrain rolls into Ann Arbor

Artrain, America's Museum in Motion, returns to Ann Arbor, Aug. 23-25. A reception, celebrating Artrain, and its new exhibition, will be held 6:30-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 22 at New Center, 1100 N. Main Street, Ann Arbor. Tickets are $25 adults, $50 family, (four tickets, at least one adult, and two children age 16 and under, $5 for each additional child), or $50 benefactor, call (313) 747-8300 for benefit and Artrain information. Event proceeds benefit Artrain's educational programs.

"Art in Celebration!" features 34 contemporary artworks commissioned by The Smithsonian Associates. This collection of mixed media and original prints by 27 worldrenowned artists celebrates events of national significance since 1972 including the opening of the National Air and Space Museum, and the end of the Persian Gulf War.

Featured artists include: Luis Cruz Azaceta, Alexander Calder, Dale Chihuly, and Georgia O'Keeffe. Artrain is the first museum to feature these artworks outside of Washington D.C.

Artrain is a museum in four rail cars. The train will be at New Center, 1100 N. Main Street, Ann Arbor, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 23-24; and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25. Admission is $4 adults, $2 seniors and stu-

Rehearsals: Stephanie Myre as Evita rehearses a portion of the musical with other cast members.

Jumpstart presents 'Evita'

Jumpstart the Arts brings Broadway to the suburbs with its presentation of Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Evita" 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 22-24; and 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25 in the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium, Clarenceville High School, 20155 Middlebelt Road, (between 7 Mile and 8 Mile Roads) Livonia. tickets are $16 adults, $14 senior citizens and children, available in advance by calling (313) 425-5782 or Ticketmaster (810) 645-6666. Tickets will also be available at the door.

"Evita" follows the rise to power of Eva Peron once the leader of Argentina whose death on July 26, 1952 shocked her people. Broadway actor Daniel C. Cooney, a 1985 graduate of Westland's John Glenn High School, will star as Che, a role he performed in the National Touring Company of "Evita." Professional actress Stephanie Myre, formerly of Farmington Hills, stars as Eva Peron.

Co-starring, as Juan Peron, is John Sartor, a professional actor who began his acting/singing career at Michigan Opera Theatre. The role of Magaldi will be played by Matthew Karrel of Garden City, and Brooke Andres, 13 of Livonia, is cast as the Mistress. David Roberts, who lives in New York, is co-director and year's Brothers McMullen" was something of a revelation.

Sincere and unaffected it proved a breath of fresh air in an independent acid cynicism of

For writer, director, and star

MONAGHAN-"Clerks" and the violence of Quentin Tarantino.

For me, last a modern-day Cinderella story. "The Filmed at his parents Long Island house on weekends for $23,000, the movie proved a surprise hit that gave him the green light to develop more films for Twentieth Century Fox.

Blame it on the sophomore jinx, but Burns' follow-up feature, "She's the One," is a major disappointment. A variation on the themes of romance and faminated by the ly that worked so well in "MeMullen," it has little of that earlier film's spunk, wit, or fréshness.

The McMullens are now the Ed Burns it was nothing short of Fitzpatricks, Francis and Mick, a slice of Irish Americana who meet at the local pub or on their father's boat, where they embark on weekly fishing trips. Since no fish, or even bait, make an appearance in the film, it's obvious that the purpose of these weekly excursions is to get away from the gals and talk about their problems.

And talk they do, on subjects ranging from ambition and marriage to sex. Burns' new moviehas sex on the brain, only it's not half as clever as last year's "Flirting With Disaster," or even TV's "Friends," whose audience it would love to capture.

The movie even enlists Jennifer Aniston, who can't understand why stockbroker husband Francis (Michael McGlone) won't sleep with her. She cajoles, pleads, even makes a trip to Victoria's Secret for sexy lingerie before resorting to the vibrator, an embarrassing joke used way too many times in the Burns plays Mick, a regularverking stiff (by some accounts the only white, English-speaking cab driver in New York City) who meets a woman one day and marries her the next. Though he won't admit it, he's still hung up on his old fiancee (Cameron Diaz), who just happens to be seeing Francis on the sly.

Much of the "McMullen" stock company returns in "She's the One," a noble gesture on Burns' part except for the fact that very few can act. McGlone is way beyond his range as Francis, never convincing us for a second that he is a Wall Street player.

Maxine Bahns, who plays Mick's new wife, is pleasant enough, but has absolutely no screen presence. Burns fares a bit better, though even his "I'm one of the good guys" schtick wears a little thin after while. While his script is derivative, he has one nice visual touch where the camera pans and fades across a series of conversations.

Veteran John Mahoney, best known as the father on TV's "Frasier," tries his hardest, but has little to work with. Even the previews, adroit at picking out quotable lines, can only come up with this one about Francis: "he's about as romantic as a nun."

The movie coyly refers to a Fitzpatrick mother but never shows her. Dad keeps complaining about how she's at church, praying for her screwy family to straighten itself out. Symbolic of the woman's limited role in the male-dominated family, it's also a gimmick which never delivers an appropriate payoff.

Tom Petty goes into the folk mode on the soundtrack and his familiar riffs fit "She's the One" well. You soon conclude that he's the one, the only one, that got it right.

'Prohibition-era gangster film by Cohen Brothers, dark, almost dour

BY LEANNE ROGERS STAFF WRITER

Like most films from the Cohene brothers, "Millers Crossing" from 1990 has its own unique verbal and visual style. This unusual Prohibition-era gangster film is no exception. It's a familiar movie landscape filtered through the eccentric perspectives of Joel Cohen, who directed the film and co-wrote it with his brother Ethan.

Characters greet usually greet each by saying "What's the rumpus?" Gabriel Byrne plays Tom the loyal second in-command to the Irish organized crime outfit headed by Leo (Albert Finney). Byrne's character is smart and tough - his only weak spots are for a grifter named Velma (Marcia Gay Hardin) and excessive loyalty to Leo. Saying that, he's still a pretty hard customer. The film opens with a lower level gangster complaining about being cheated over bets he has been placing with a bookie - one who happens to Velma's brother. Jon Polito is hilarious as he complains with righteous indignation about fixed sporting events not being honored properly. "If you can't count on a fix, we're back to anarchy."

Ignoring Tommy's advice, Leo refuses to give up the bookie -Leo is infatuated with Velma and won't act against her brother - and moves against his weaker crime competitor. After a falling out with Leon, Tom ends up working for the competition setting into motion a serpentine plot with people changing allegiances.

"Millers Crossing," which takes it name from a wooded area favored by gangsters who are taking someone for the proverbial ride, is a dark almost dour film. People get shot, things happen but no one seems to take any pleasure from it.

As the center of the story, Byrne's Tom is guarded and closed off. It's hard to know what he is thinking many times and to guess what he is after. He gets so many people mad at him, it's almost like running joke through the move that so many people punch him. One character refers to him as "Little Miss Punching

All of the acting is terrific including John Tuturro as the weasly loan shark who causes everyone a lot of problems and and had been here longer than really doesn't seem to have any redeeming qualities.

Beyond looking at the specific characters and relationships, the film also looks at the society in which the gangsters operated. The Irish mobsters were on top some other ethnic groups.

DINING

FoleyGuide offers detailed, dining out information

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Reservations, solves the what are we having for dinner dilemma for lots of people. But deciding where to eat out is just as hard.

The FoleyGuide can help. Edited and published by Greg Foley, the guide is based on a survey of Michigan restaurantgoers, and contains information for over 300 restaurants in metro Detroit, Ann Arbor, Windsor, selected restaurants statewide, and chain restaurants.

Foley, who lives in New York City, and received his master's degree from the University of Michigan, said the second edition will be available in November or December, and contain information on about 600 Michigan restaurants.

"I think it's wonderful to use the opinions of people to rate restaurants," said Foley. "This guide is created with consumers in mind.

The first edition is $9.95, and available in bookstores, or by calling toll-free 1-888-FOLEY-GD (345-3943). If you would like to participate in the next survey, write to: FoleyGuide, 60 East 42nd Street, Suite 1514, New York, NY 10164-2812. Survey participants receive a free copy of the next guide.

Restaurants are rated on a Tapawingo in Ellsworth, Hattie's five-star scale — Among the best in the state, Outstanding, Good, Fair, and poor. Recommended dishes are listed with most often recommended dishes first, with dishes recommended by the same number of people in alphabetical order. There's an overall rating, and ratings for food, setting, service and value. Twenty-two detailed maps in the guide will help you find your way. There are maps for downtown Detroit, including the iverfront; downtown Windsor, northern suburbs Rochester Hills, Lake Orion. Auburn Hills, Pontiac and Troy, Royal Oak, West Bloomfield, Birmingham, Farmington Hills, Plymouth, Livonia, and Ann

Each entry is full of valuable information, and easy-to-understand symbols tell you at a glance if the restaurant accepts credit cards, serves alcohol, or is wheelchair accessible.

Overall ratings precedes restaurant name, followed by phone number, address, hours, parking information, type of food served, whether or not reservations are needed, cost, suggested dress, and recommended dishes.

People headed up north for a weekend, or vacation, will appreciate the information about in Suttons Bay, and La Becasse in Maple City.

· Chain restaurants are also rated including Applebee's Neighborhood Bar and Grill, Bill Knapp's, Bob Evans, and Denny's.

In the index, you'll find "Best of Listings" - The Lark in West Bloomfield topped the list of Best Restaurants (by overall rating) in metro Detroit, and Cafe Bon Homme in Plymouth, was tops for Best Food in metro

To learn who serves "Detroit's Best Hamburger," check the index — Miller's in Dearborn. Mountain Jacks is Best Restaurant (by overall rating) in the Chain category.

The index also lists restaurants by type of food — including French, Italian, Korean, German, Greek and Vegetarian. If you want to find a good Chinese restaurant or deli in your neighborhood, go to the back of the book and check the index.

By checking the index you can quickly find out what restaurants in metro Detroit, Ann Arbor and Windsor serve brunch, if they offer delivery service, outdoor dining, entertainment, serve afternoon tea, are open holidays, or have sporting events on television.

I found the guide easy, and fun

Novi address, freeway access lure buyers

Robert Binder saw potential when he acquired a majority of the 32 lots in Greenwich Green, a platted subdivision off Eight Mile between Meadowbrook and Novi roads, about a year and a half ago.

"I thought Novi was a nice area. Novi has a nice school system, and school systems are the singular determiner of calue in the metro area in my mind," the Farmington Hills builder said-

"Location is another thing." Binder said. "It's extremely accessible to the entire Detroit metro area and Ann Arbor. It's small. It can and will be a neighborhood. With one entry in and one out, it provides security."

"Price point, we're a little treasure in the middle of all these jewels," added Suzanne Lucas, Binder's administrative assistant.

"We back up to Chase Farms starting at $300,000. John Richards down the road is going up starting at $500,000," she said.

Buyers have a selection at Greenwich Green for less than $275,000.

Two basic plans are offered - a four-bedroom colonial of 2,800 square feet and a three-bedroom, two-story of 2,500 square feet with the master on the main floor.

A fireplace, two-car garage, dishwasher and basement are included at base price in both. Standard exterior materials are brick and vinyl siding with wood accents.

The finished model, the Lakeside, is a colonial priced at $254,900 to $284,000 depending on the lot selected.

where all the bedrooms are situated.

The main floor has a two-story foyer, den, living room, dining room with pan ceiling, kitchen/nook with island and built-in desk, and step-down family room.

A buffet/breakfast bar is between the nook and family room.

The master has a double-door entry, cathedral ceiling, two walk-in closets, dressing table, dual-sink vanity and separate tub and shower.

Three bedrooms and a second full bath also are upstairs.

"It's a very livable plan," Binder said. "People like spaces" where they can separate and use spaces individually."

The two-story, Cranbrook II, includes a great room, study, dining room and laundry on the first floor. The master also is on the main living area.

Two bedrooms and a bath are upstairs.

Prices for the two-story range from $262,900 to $287,000 depending on lot location.

"Bob is accommodating," Lucas said. "He'll change anything around for the customer."

"I'm pretty accessible," Binder said. "I'm here every day. I stand out - rounded walls in the know the people very well. I'm before making a move in this

How important is buying a house? If you can live without a new car for a while, this is a way to accumulate some money quickly. You simply need to discipline yourself to save the money you would have otherwise put toward a monthly payment. Selling an asset such as a car or a boat can increase your available money. Borrowing against an asset is also acceptable, as long as you qualify for the mortgage with the additional debt.

4. Obtain a low-point or zeropoint loan.

Although it may mean paying a slightly higher interest rate, a low-point or zero-point mortgage will reduce the amount of your closing costs substantially. In some instances, the mortgage lender can pay some of your non-MORTGAGE recurring closing costs. SHOPPING

5. Ask the seller to pay for all or part of your non-recurring closing costs.

This item can be an important part of the negotiation between you and the seller. Ask your real estate or mortgage lending professional to assist you with this when you are ready to make an offer on a house.

6. Consider different loan pro-

Your loan officer can help you to determine the best loan program that suits your needs. There are a wide variety of these programs that require lower downpayments, and some programs will even assist you with closing costs.

There are also city and county downpayment assistance programs available. The most important thing when you are ready for a house purchase is to talk to the real estate and mortgage experts. They'll be glad to help you every step of the way.

This week's question:

Q. How much money do I really need to save in preparation for buying a house?

A. The old standard recommending 20 percent of the house's price for a downpayment is still a good goal to work toward. However, it is much more common these days to get a mortgage with as little as 5 percent to 10 percent down.

While using some of the sources listed above to help acquire the downpayment amount, you should consult a mortgage specialist for guidance.

For instance, 5 percent of the money you put down must be your own money (not a gift or a loan) for conventional loans if your downpayment is less than 20 percent. In addition to saving for the downpayment, you will also need to have money available to cover closing costs.

Here are some recent interest rates that may be helpful to you in tracking the direction of rates for home mortgages. These are just a guide. Be sure to call a lender to get current rate quotes.

In Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey, the 30 year fixed rate for the North Central area for the week ended Aug. 16, 1996, moved slightly upward to 7.97 percent (U.S. average 7.88 percent). A week ago, the average for the U.S. was also 7.88 percent, and one year ago it was 7.94 percent. Current 15-year fixed-rate mortgages have edged up slightly to an average 7.47 percent. Adjustable-rate mortgages were recorded at 6.25 percent, up only sightly from last week's average of 6.24 percent for our area of the country.

Horse owners have their own way with life and real estate

BY STEVE WILLIAMS

How else do you explain these often very wealthy people driving down the road in mud-splattered, four-wheel drives and sitting in local coffee shops at six in the morning wearing faded jeans and rubber boots?

As a home builder who specializes in building for equestrians, I've found that their differences extend to the homes they live in. Equestrians don't really care what others think of them. They don't build as large, or as ostentatious, a home as others in their income group prefer. Their homes tend to be more practical, Equestrians definitely go their simpler, warmer with less design

> The equestrian homes that we've built in recent years have averaged about $115 per square foot, while homes for other clients have approached $150 per square foot.

And while the individual rooms are often rather large, the homes themselves don't tend to be. We've often built equestrian homes that were 4,500 square

With four out of five equestrians keeping their horses on their property, it's not surprising that much of their focus is on the back of their homes.

They want large, utilitarian service areas such as mud rooms, boot storage areas and large laundry facilities. They prefer durable, attractive and easily cleanable floor surfaces such as tumbled marble.

And almost all the homes feature a large, furnished, screenedin back porch.

The rest of the home tends to lean toward informality as well.

Equestrians don't tend to entertain in their homes on a grand scale. When they stage riding events at their residence, they're held outside and are often tented gatherings for a few

When they do entertain in their homes, equestrians prefer smaller, more intimate parties. so the most important space in the home is often an open country kitchen/great room combination.

When it comes to their horses, equestrians tend to spare little expense. According to Equidaire magazine, the average equestrian spends 20 percent of his income on his horses.

When we build the stall barn, tack barn and training arena for our equestrian clients, they often account for more than 25 percent of the cost of the entire project

Equestrians don't really care what others think of them.

And because they tend to keep their horses at their residence. equestrians have larger properties. The minimum size property for keeping a horse may be quite small - about 10 acres - and the average size is closer to 30 acres.

In most cases, they're caring for between two and five horses

Finally, I've found that equestrians want to be comfortable with the workmen who are building their home. They tend to spend a lot of time at the site.

They will often sit and talk with the workmen, even take them to lunch. As a home builder with more than 20 years experience, I can say that truly does set them apart.

economy goes even further. According to a recent NAHB survey, a family spends an average of $6,500 to furnish, decorate and improve its new home during the first year of ownership.

"That means buyers of the 1.1 million new homes forecast to be built in 1996 will pour an estimated $7.15 billion into their local economies when they furnish and equip those homes," said Silverman, a Farmington Hills-based residential builder.

Construction of 1,000 new single-family houses generates $60.5 million in wages and $33.2 million in federal, state and local taxes and fees while creating 2,097 worker-years of employment, the NAHB reported.

Construction of 1,000 multifamily units generates 800 worker-years of employment, $23.3 million in wages and $15.8 million in federal, state and local taxes and fees.

economy - or about $250 billion a year. In 1994, home building and remodeling accounted for 4.3 percent of the U.S. gross domestic product. "Because of the demand for new homes during the remainder of the decade, the housing industry will continue to play a crucial role in the nation's economy," Silverman said. Between 1.3 and 1.5 million new houses, including multifamily units, will be needed ed by the formation of new households and the demand for trade-up homes.

Other growth sectors in the industry include senior housing and remodeling.

The demand for housing for the senior population is projected to increase by 10 percent over the next decade with the double impact of the aging of the baby boom generation and people generally living longer, healthier

Similarly, the remodeling sector will continue its strong growth with expenditures estimated at $116 billion in 1996 and $200 billion by the turn of the century.

This trend is driven by a growing tendency to age in place and the aging of housing stock from a median age of 27 years in 1990 to 32 years by the end of the decade.

In addition, by that same time, the sheer number of homes in the country will rise from more than 100 million to 110 million.

Factories are making more homes

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - A home builder says more people are warming to the idea of prefabricated houses as alternatives to traditional

"We're just as busy as we can be," said Chuck Reynolds, who heads up Reynolds Construction Co.

"The houses are good quality and you can build them and have people in the house in three months instead of

Reynolds puts the finishing touches on modular homes, which are made almost entirely in a factory. They come off the assembly line in finished sections that are shipped to the building

The sections are set in place over standard foundations and then finished by a builder like Reynolds, who adds a garage, a porch and even a second story.

According to statistics compiled by the Manufactured Housing Institute, shipments increased 12 percent last year after a 20 percent increase the year before.

"A manufactured house is about 15 to 20 percent less than a site-built home in terms of construction costs," said Kami Wilson of the Arlington, Va.-based housing institute.

Industry experts say the growing popularity of these nontraditional housing units can be attributed to the cost. quality and the number of options offered, including skylights, vaulted ceilings and sunken tubs.

Dick Mahnken, president of Heckaman Homes in Nappanee, Ind., said there's no question the quality of his firm's product has increased since 1969.

"Back in the '70s, modular housing was still using panel for the inside walls rather than drywall, for example,'

Prefabricated housing is gaining such acceptance that most insurance companies no longer make a distinction when issuing home owners' policies, said Mitch Wilson of Ohio Insurance Institute.

PERSONAL TOUCHES

SEE INSIDE FOR THE COVER STORY

DOCTOR

Get warmed up about your furnaces

I asked myself before writing this column, "Is it too early to write about furnaces?"

The obvious answer is that in just a few weeks, the evenings will have temperatures into the 50s and homeowners will turn up the thermostats. Those who are faced with a no-heat situation; will call for service and it just might be a few days before anyone shows up.

I would ask you to keep in mind that the heating and cooling industry has been very busy these past two years, much more so than years past. They have had months of installations booked in advance and this fall and winter season may find homeowners waiting a bit longer than normal. For the majority of people who will wait until they can't take the cold temperature of inside living, beware.

It is a known fact that the first few weeks of cold weather are the hardest days to get prompt service from a heating company. Their phones are ringing off the hook and everybody wants service now. If you haven't had the furnace checked in the past two years, especially if it's 10 years or older, now is the time for you to call and set up an appointment before the panic season sets in.

Now, this isn't inexpensive, folks; it could cost anywhere from $49 to $99.99. The technician will check your heat exchanger to see if it's leaking carbon monoxide, lubricate and clean your blower and do other maintenance checks that should give you a year of heating comfort.

Caution: Now listen closely, I will be blunt and very candid and if it hurts. somebody's feelings who is reading this, so be it. If I could use language thrown at me during my hockey days, I would do it. It caught my attention, which is what I'm trying to do here with this column - catch yours.

Are you so cheap that you wouldn't spend the dollars I quoted above, yet when the nice little voice calls you at home and says they are having a furnace ninepoint check and cleaning for $19.95, you would commit to such a low price? If so, you have just become the fool and the joke's on you. This may sound cruel for me to say, but it's true and many consumers who have come to me after they were ripped off have admitted without any prompting, "I feel like a fool."

Greed

Let's just say I'm writing a book and the book is fiction and I have a chapter on the heating industry. Here it goes, and remember, it's fiction.

"I started a business selling heating and air conditioning to homeowners and I had to find a way to make some quick money to support myself in the lifestyle I was accustomed to. I decided to use the word that was so incorporated into my soul to my advantage when dealing with the homeowner. I would use the word greed to take advantage of the person who wanted something done for a cheap price.

"I hired a dozen service technicians, some of which hardly had any knowledge of how a furnace works. I rented a separate office away from my warehouse full of air conditioners and furnaces. I enrolled 12 high school seniors to work the telephones five days a week and gave them a script to read to every homeowner they called.

"It was simple. Call the consumer and tell them we have a special going on this week for furnace cleaning. Send out the technician and have him scare the hell out of the consumer in regards to his or her unsafe furnace. Put a furnace in his truck or have one available quick. Sell the furnace at two or three times more than any other company sells it for, and at the rate of fools out there, I'm rich.

"Now it doesn't bother me that the Department of Labor and the attorney general are investigating my methods of business. I just close shop, have my business started again tomorrow under my girlfriend's name and nobody will be the wiser. It never bothered me that the person I took advantage of was a widow, 74 years old and living on a small fixed income. Tough; she should have been smarter."

End of chapter, folks, but not the end of the story. It's the beginning of the heating season, and one that will bring the area consumer to my door seeking help.

I know this when I meet them: They didn't read this column.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Column covers a lot of ground

MARTY FIGLEY

This is an "odds and ends" column in which I will answer questions, talk about some new products and ask a favor of you.

Carolyn of Canton called some time ago about wisteria vines. I have had no luck in reaching her by phone, so, Carolyn, I hope you read this.

Yes, wisteria vines can be grown in Michigan. They do need full sun and a strong structure on which to grow if you want to train them, although some make handsome shrubs. Do a little research before making a purchase; there are several varieties.

It takes three to five years (or longer) for wisterias to bloom, so patience is necessary. After planting, keep them watered until they become established and fertilize in spring and summer; otherwise watch the growth and apply fertilizer when necessary, but beware – too much food and water will cause more foliage growth than flowers.

Pruning is an important part of growing wisterias and the book "Wisterias," Peter Valder (Timber Press), is full of good advice.

Nancy called and asked about Greenscreen, a product that is said to repel rabbits. To this date I haven't been able to find any information about this product. I called Uncle Luke's General Store in Troy and they recommend dried blood. Readers, help?

I have been told that Bounce dryer sheets affixed to clothing repel mosquitoes. Along this same line, dryer sheets repel rabbits. (Maybe blue for boy bunnies and pink for the girls?) Haven't tried them yet, but Joyce assured me they do.

Another caller wanted to know what caused brown spots on the bottom of her tomatoes. This condition is called blossom end rot and happens during dry periods; lack of water creates a deficiency in calcium uptake. Consistent watering beneath a mulch can help avoid this problem.

A person new at growing roses wondered why the tips of the roses were deep red. All new rose growth is deep red and assures you that the rose is growing and thriving. It will soon turn green.

And finally, a question about cucumbers with mottling or shriveling leaves. This is a serious disease called mosaic virus. No cure is known for this problem, so destroy the plants. Next year plant disease-resistant varieties in another garden area,

Last May I drove to Traverse City where I attended the 1996 Convention of the National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc., hosted by the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan Inc. What a great undertaking! More than 11.000 eager gardeners from all 50 states and as far away as Peru were in attendance.

Much important business was conducted, but there was time for learning and fun. Several regional tours were offered. Programs were designed with the future in mind; workshops were well attended. Educational exhibits whetted appetites and the speakers were informative and interesting. I urge all Federated Garden Club members to consider attending the next convention. It will be time well spent.

Mower project

Now my question to you. Are any of you or a neighbor using push mowers? I would like to visit to find out why and share your comments in a future column. Perhaps a small yard or concern with the environment is the reason you choose to use this type of mower.

If you wish to be a part of this "project," please send a postcard to me; include your area code and the best time to call. Address the postcard to The Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.

Our High Hopes Sunflower Contest is still on! Entries must be postmarked by Saturday, Aug. 31. Look for the entry form on page G3 of this section.

New valves prevent hot shower shock

Q: When I take a shower and someone else uses the dishwasher or flushes the toilet, my shower temperature fluctuates from cold to hot. What can I do to resolve this?

A: Your problem is not uncommon. These are known as "temperature shocks" and are caused by sudden changes in the water system (such as someone flushing a toilet).

More than 5,000 children are scalded by hot water in the tub each year, according to the National Safe Kids Campaign. In addition, hot water scalds account for 20 percent of all burns. These facts have prompted manufacturers to respond with several engineering breakthroughs.

First are "anti-scald" valves with built in thermostat. This is the most advanced way to safely and precisely protect yourself from scalding. This valve simply allows you to dial the desired temperature just as you would the air conditioning or heating in your home — it's that simple, that worry-free, the ultimate in safety, comfort, luxury and quality. Accurate to within 1 degree fahrenheit regardless of temperature or pressure fluctuations. These are the most sophisticated shower systems available today.

The second style anti-scald valves are called "pressure balance" valves. These valves also protect you from sudden temperature changes due to anything from flushing the toilet to running the washing machine. However, unlike the previous anti-scald valve, these valves do not allow you to accurately set your desired temperature prior to turning on the water.

The third way to prevent scalding is with the use of "hot water sensors." These devices are designated to be installed on existing showers, faucets and tubs. Unlike the previous antiscald valves that also maintain water temperature, hot water sensors are designed to automatically shut off the water before scalding occurs. These sensors use a patented actuator that automatically shut off the water flow when the water temperature reaches 114 degrees, well below the 120 degrees where scalding injuries begin to occur. These devices can be installed easily by the do-it-yourselfer and are available at most plumbing supply stores.

Finally, anti-scald valves have become mandatory in new construction in many areas of North America. Due to the fact that thousands of people are scalded annually due to sudden surges of scalding water, every home should be equipped with one of these devices, especially ones with children, the elderly and handicapped.

Take care of camera to take good shots

In the past, I've touched on the importance of taking care of your camera and lenses. Today, I would like to cover this subject in more detail. After all, if there's a problem with your camera equipment, you just may not get the shot.

It's obvious that cameras and lenses are delicate and expensive instruments that need to be treated with care.

Water, dust and dirt are the worst enemies. If your camera is taken to the beach, keep it wrapped in a plastic bag when not in use. Even on the calmest days sand seems to get in every crack so extra care needs to be taken.

Be careful around water, too. A camera accidentally dropped in water can be ruined. If you enjoy shooting in or, around the water, underwater disposable cameras are available as well as waterproof housings for more sophisticated cameras.

When a camera isn't in use, it should be kept in its case. And if it isn't going to be used for some time the batteries should be removed. If left in the camera, they may corrode the contacts and cause irreparable damage.

Always keep a skylight or UV (ultraviolet) filter on each of your lenses. They serve as good protection for each lens. Think of them as an "insurance" policy. After all, a scratched or broken filter is cheaper to replace than a dam-

Best way to clean your camera? Use a soft cleaning cloth, blower brush or can of pressurized air. All of these are available at your camera shop. Q-Tips are also very handy for getting into those hard-to-reach places.

For lenses and filters, use lens cleaning tissues. Facial tissues can put minute scratches in the glass so they should be avoided.

If something jams in or on your camera and the fault isn't apparent, take it to your camera store or send it to a reputable repair shop. If it is still under warranty, return it to your dealer or send it directly to the manufacturer.

Taking proper care of your equipment will assure that you'll continue to bring home the winning shots.

House has charm you can live with

BY MARY KLEMIC AT HOME EDITOR

or me a house is charming if it's comfortable," said interior designer Eve Garvin of West Bloomfield.

Garvin, formerly of Southfield, stuck to this practice on a recent project at a Bloomfield Hills house. Much of the character of the house – the childhood home of actress Christine Lahti – was hidden under white walls and linoleum floors.

"The house has a lot of character," a resident said. "It's a great house."

Garvin isn't one to throw everything out and start over.

"If I have something I can work with, I'm happy to do it," she said.

In the harmonious result of the project, furnishings and architectural touches complement one another, causing a ribbon of recognition to run among the rooms. For example, curves in accessories in the powder room with part of the pattern in the wallpaper; large tassels on cabinets with tiny tassels on throw pillows; the form caused by gathered material in off-white lamp shades with shapes in furnishings and drapes. It's charm you can live with — as warming to the heart as it is pleasing to the eye.

Instead of white, walls were given a rich green color or antiqued look, and molding was added around perimeters. The linoleum was replaced with area rugs, allowing some of the tile floor to show. Creative treatments were placed around windows, such as the broad fabric frame in the library.

In the living room, different themes are carried out to gracious and graceful effect. A design in the oak fireplace features a shape echoed in the andirons. A floral freshness is conveyed in the dried topiaries on the mantel (a design of which curves like a vine), a small floral painting by Richard Jerzy over the fireplace and a flowery pattern in the carpet. An Oriental air is carried through low, square, black-lacquered chairs, a small screen and a larger work displayed on opposite walls, and a big vase holding greenery.

Other elegant elements include windows featuring gracefully draped valances and gathered white lace over the bottom half of panes, a square red table that adds a bold dash of color, and upholstery on sofas bearing muted silver-and-gold wide bands.

The living room flows into the great room, and they have similar elements: a fireplace, black-lacquer chairs, a large vase, a square table (the red piece in the living room, a low coffee table in the great room). From a position between the two rooms, you see the fireplaces are directly across from each other, and the large vases are diagonally opposite. White sliding doors can be pulled out to separate the rooms.

In the great room, another Jerzy painting adorns one wall. The work shows a room in the artist's own house and features lamp shades that softly light up in the dark.

An abstract painting over the fireplace here bears colorful forms that resemble flames. The square coffee table and squares in the pattern of a sofa and chair set complement one another Another sofa is chenille.

Also in the room are small stacked triangular tables, wingback chairs by the fireplace and special hardware on doors.

In the dining room, the windows also have gathered white lace on the bottom half, but their top half features fabric shaped to form an arch, hiding the actual straight line of the window. This touch, which Garvin said softens the room, is subtly echoed by the curved backs of chairs, loops in the chandelier and trim of the border on the mirror.

The kitchen is lively and warm with a wallpaper border design of teapots and pitchers, and a rug with a pattern of vegetables.

The designer credited Hickory Chair with furniture, Scalamandre, Nobilis and Robert Allen with fabrics, Michael Fellwood with flowers, Brunschwig & Fils with fabrics and wall coverings and Azar's with area rugs.

Amazing maze offers crop of activities

- Harvesting A Cure is helping solve the puzzle of cancer by building the world's largest corn maze.

In a 247,975-square foot cornfield. the metropolitan Detroit-based nonprofit organization has created the Lincoln-Mercury Amazing Maize Maze, a three-dimensional labyrinth featuring more than three miles of paths. Amazingly, this feat of farming science was constructed for the first time ever in an essprban setting.

With the support of title sponsor Lincoln-Mercury Division and the use of land owned and donated by Ford Motor Land Development Corp., 100 percent of the net proceeds from the event, which is expected to cultivate $1 million, will be directed to charitable institutions committed to cancer research and patient care programs.

Now through late September, the Amazing Maize Maze is open to the public 9 a.m. to dusk Friday-Sunday. On weekdays, the maze is available to corporations and organizations for private use, such as team-building exercises, company picnics and motivational and morale-boosting retreats.

The event features a crop of familyoriented activities designed to entertain as well as educate attendees. Sited on 30 acres, the gigantic puzzle is embellished with a myriad of theatrical devices, including symphonic music, two-way communication and lookout towers. Navigational clues incorporating information on cancer prevention and interesting facts surrounding the automotive industry's 100-year history are strategically placed throughout the complicated paths to guide "corn-fused" participants on their journey.

A petting zoo, a children's maze and a cornucopia of food complete the "bringing the country to the city" atmosphere

The 5-1/2-acre maze is on Mercury Drive at Ford Road in Dearborn, Tickets are $8.50 for age 12 and up and $5.50 for children between ages 5 and 11. Children under age 5 are admitted

For information, call (800) 449-CORN. Tickets are available at all TicketMaster Ticket Centers including Hudson's, Harmony House and Blockbuster Music locations. To charge tickets by phone, call (810) 645-6666.

It will take most people about 70 to 90 minutes to complete the maze, event organizers said. They advise people to come with comfortable shoes, a sense of humor and a desire for a challenge.

"I can't think of too many families that haven't been personally touched by cancer, including my own," said Jim O'Connor, Lincoln-Mercury Division general manager.

"We at Lincoln-Mercury believe very deeply in supporting efforts to help find a cure, particularly ones such as the Amazing Maize Maze, which will raise research money and educate people of all ages about cancer prevention.

"In this 100th anniversary year of the automobile, it gives us a great sense of satisfaction to give back to the community by generating substantial funds for a very worthwhile cause," said Edward Wizner, Harvesting A Cure co-founder and co-producer of the maze.

"Not only will this unique event provide fun for the whole family, it is certain to be a real learning experience."

In honor the automotive industry's 100th anniversary, the maze, planned by world-renowned maze designer Adrian Fisher and production manager Don Frantz, will portray an 1896 quadricycle, Henry Ford's first working car. The team of Fisher and Frantz is responsible for a three-acre maze in Shippensburg, Pa., constructed last summer that set the current world's record.

"One in every three Americans will be diagnosed with cancer during his or her lifetime," said Molly Moons, co-founder of Harvesting A Cure and co-producer of the maze, explaining the inspiration to stage this world class wonder.

"This insidious disease not only affects patients, but their family members and friends as well. Ed and I, along with Tom Spillane, founded Harvesting A Cure based on the principle that everyone can participate in the quest to cure cancer."

Visit history on house tour in Marshall

Thirteen structures built between 1848 and 1939, including eight private homes and an antique post office, will be featured on the 33rd annual Marshall Historic Home Tour, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, and 10 a.m. to 5 -p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8.

Also featured will be juried arts and crafts shows, antique shows, snack booths, lunches, bake sales, a Civil War encampment, musical entertainment and a parade. The tour is sponsored by the Marshall Historical Society.

Tickets, good both days, are $10 before Aug. 31 and $12 after. Children under 12 are admitted free. Free parking and shuttle bus service will be provided. To order advance tickets by mail, send a check or money order (to be received by Aug. 31), to the Marshall Historical Society, P.O. Box 68, Marshall 49068.

For more information, call the Marshall Chamber of Commerce at (800) 877-5163. Marshall is in lower central Michigan near the intersection of I-94 and I-69.

Among the architectural styles seen on the tour will be Italianate, Modified Colonial Revival, Queen Anne, Italian Villa, Tudor, Gothic and Greek Revival. A featured museum, the 1860 Honolulu House, has beautifully restored wall and ceiling murals.

The tour attracts thousands of visitors to Marshall. Come early in the day and stay overnight; call for hotel information.

Chanterelle, Stumper, and Shaggy Manes. These aren't new haute coiffed couture, they are three of the many edible fall mushrooms soon to be found across Michigan - especially Up North, where forest floors will soon be exploding with fungi.

Be sure to bring an expert, or clear, concise mushroom identification books (with terrific photos), if you plan to pick your own wild mushrooms. Don't simply rely on the silver coin test! There is no room for making mistakes - poisonous mushrooms are deadly!

Edible wild mushrooms are absolutely delicious, but it is imperative that you know which ones are safe to eat. If you have identified mushrooms that are safe, but haven't previously tried them, eat only a small amount of the "new" cooked ones to see if your metabolism can tolerate them. Everyone's metabolism is different. Some people may have an adverse reaction to certain edible wild mushrooms, but not to others. Make sure you don't eat wild mushrooms raw - cook them!

Springbrook Hills Resort in Walloon Lake (near Boyne City), is offering three fall weekend mushroom outings, Hunting, Food and Fun(gi), Aug. 23-25, Sept. 6-8 and Sept. 27-29.

Mushroom guides Royal Olsen and Larry Hildreth bring 50 years of experience between them, and will help you hunt for, and identify, wild mushrooms, as well as provide an education for the novice with videos and books galore. If you'd like to join this Mushroom Mania, call Joe Breidenstein, (616) 535-

If you're too nervous to go out picking, you can always buy edible dried wild mushrooms prepackaged at upscale groceries and specialty food shops. I find the adventure of the "hunt" as much fun as the eating!

Many wild mushrooms are also being cultivated and can be grown at home as a science project for children, or for whipping up an exotic gourmet meal. Oyster mushrooms and Shiitakes can be grown on a commercially produced log that arrives in the mail, inoculated with its pure culture of Oyster or Shi-

■ To clean wild mushrooms: It is best to wipe fresh wild mushrooms with a wet paper towel or damp cloth, If necessary, brush clean with a soft mushroom brush, or a clean, old, soft, toothbrush. Never soak mushrooms; they drink up the water and their flavor is lost. Don't peel mushrooms. Handle mushrooms with care as most mushrooms are rather delicate. Separate the stems from the cap to check for insects; the stems get maggots first. In the case of Stumpers (honey mushrooms), eat only the caps!

■ To store wild mushrooms: Mushrooms don't keep well and should be used as soon as possible. Use within a couple of days. Store fresh mushrooms in brown paper or waxed paper bags and place in the crisper section of your refrigerator. Never store in plastic bags - the mushrooms break down, and become slimy.

■ Preserving wild mushrooms: To dry: if the weather is warm, mushitake spawn and ready to fruit. The rooms can be sun dried on a piece of clean screen or placed in a hanging mesh bag (the kind for delicate laundry will do) or dry on a wire rack in the oven — make sure the temperature is kept very low with the door slightly ajar. If the temperature exceeds 140 degrees F., the mushrooms will begin to cook, blacken and loose their flavor.

Another option for drying mushrooms is to thread them on thin string and hang them in a dry place. This method works best for morels. When your mushrooms are dried to a brittle stage, place in an airtight jar for storage.

Mushrooms can also be preserved by pickling them in vinegar or by freezing. I personally don't freeze fresh mushrooms, as they only last about a month, and freezing diminishes their flavor. If freezing, you may want to saute your mushrooms in butter or oil along with some onion and garlic — then freeze.

HOME ELECTRONICS

Tiny TVs can have big uses

JENSE

Tiny television sets are available that allow you to go places and do things without losing touch with electronic civilization. The littlest TVs have a screen size of from 2" diagonal measure up. What sets them apart from the bigger TVs is that they draw very little current and can be carried in a purse or pocket.

These tiny TVs are available at most appliance stores and range in price from $100 to more than $300, depending on the screen size and what other features you want.

Such a tiny television set has many uses. If it runs on batteries, it has exactly the same function as a battery-powered radio: your source of information during a power failure or natural disaster.

However, if your spouse is watching the big TV, you can go out in the garden (or even for a walk) and watch your favorite program.

Or if you like to camp, you watch TV for an hour or two anywhere there is a signal, whether broadcast or even on cable.

If your children are old enough to respect a small electronic device, they can wander into the other room to watch their very own TV. These solid-state TVs are relatively hardy, but they ARE electronic devices and can be abused.

Accessories include a head set that plugs into the set for private viewing. Tiny TVs also hide wonderfully under the blanket in bed at night. This is the '90 version of reading comic books under the covers with a flashlight.

If you travel and frequently stay in rooms without TVs (yes, there are such), a tiny TV with an AC adapter will keep you in touch with the world.

It is ideal for traveling. All you need is access to an electrical outlet in an area that receives normal-strength TV signals and you're set for the duration. If you are without electrical power, you can still watch TV for a couple hours.

If you have access to an outdoor television antenna, most of these TVs can be connected to an outside antenna for a better picture. If you have cable, the newer one can be connected to cable to see a movie while the rest of the family is watching the Lions game on broadcast TV.

The first tiny TVs were black and white, but now they are available in color as well as black and white. Some sets have a liquid crystal diode screen while others use an active matrix. Active matrix gives a better color picture

All these TVs are battery powered. Battery-power usually means AA batteries, which are available most everywhere.

But because most tiny TVs operate just a couple hours on batteries, you can either buy rechargeable batteries and a battery charger or an AC adapter. You just plug the AC adapter into the wall outlet and into the TV.

The AC adapter changes the electrical current available in your home into the low voltage the TV can use. Adapters are used on electric razors, book lights or any similar battery-powered appliance. Adapters are easily available and cost about $20.

Having a tiny TV repaired can be a nuisance, although the solid-state TVs are hardy. Radio Shack offers a line of tiny TVs that can be returned to Radio Shack for repairs. A sick TV is sent out for repairs for you.

Telling it like it is rates a big plus

BY NORMAN PRADY SPECIAL WRITER

Are you in favor of honesty?

If so, you'll likely be pleased to hear that two 1994 Michigan laws, intended to enhance the ethics of real estate transactions, appear to be doing their

One of the laws requires the seller of a house to disclose its condition. Previously, houses were sold in the age-old "buyer beware" manner. The other law permits real estate agents to represent buyers. Previously, agents only worked for sellers.

"I think it is good that everything is out in the open," said Carol Clark, associate Realtor at Century 21 Associates, Novi, speaking about the seller's disclosure requirement.

"It's good for the buyers to understand as much as they can," Clark said. As for the sellers' attitude about answering the disclosure questions, she said, "I tell them, You have to answer honestly."

The disclosure form, which lists aspects of the house's condition and asks "Yes," "No," "Unknown," or "Not Applicable," is "a really vague statement," said Ken Gentile, salesman at Re/Max 100 Inc., Novi, "but it's eliminated some of the lawsuits." With the law, Gentile said, "it's safer to buy a Gentile sees little likelihood, or usefulness, in lying about defects - water in the basement, for example. "If you're a knowledgeable agent and you're walking through a home and there's a musty. smell or other indications of water, such as marks on the walls or floor, you'll know" there is a problem.

"I think the seller's disclosure cuts down on any misunderstandings," said Edwina Luckett, associate Realtor at Chamberlain Royal Oak, who agrees that there is no point in not being forthright.

If a seller were to say there has never been a water problem, "but the basement has just been painted," Luckett said, "The inspector will alert the: buyer." Her experience is that "99 percent of the buyers" she works with have the houses inspected by a professional.

"Useful," said Carol Volante, Realtor at ERA Country Ridge Realty, Farmington Hills, of the disclosure form. It "protects buyer and seller." And then the buyers have a choice: "Do they want this house with this problem or not."

It was time, said Linda Rock, president of Michigan Association of Realtors, to "have someone take the responsibility to tell the property buyers what they expect if they bought used homes."

In effect. Rock said, the form is a type of homeowner's diary: "We've lived in this house and this is what we've experienced." A summertime buyer, Rock said, wants to know that the furnace will start up in the winter, that an old furnace is still working to learn about the housing market? For example, fine, that the roof is OK, that no one has seen ter-

"We can't make a perfect world," Rock said. "But I've found the disclosure form makes the transaction much smoother.

"And the seller starts to think about things. Get things fixed." It all "adds a level of comfort," and even relieves the seller of responsibility which could result from concealment of a problem. Agency disclosure - acting as a buyer's agent sets some rules," Rock said, so that buyers and sellers "understand why you can and cannot tell them certain things.

Theoretically, the buyer's agent will focus directly. on the buyer's needs and will gather as much information as possible, and will recommend procedures for making offers and purchases.

"Buyers had the impression," Clark said, "that we worked for them. Now they feel comfortable that we're trying to do as much as we can," for them, when they request a buyer agent.

But are there any special hazards for the agent, if the buyer is expecting to learn everything there is could the buyer sue the agent for not providing complete information, such as details of area homes for sale by owner?

Liability, Luckett said, is limited by the details spelled out in the agent buyer contract which is drawn and signed by both parties.

A contract, for example, could state that the agent will provide information only available through the local multi-listing system, and specifically exclude homeowner offerings.

"Agency disclosure is a good thing," Luckett said. "It clarifies the relationship and offers a "level of comfort."

Also in Luckett's comments is a suggestion that home-buying has possibly outgrown the askhigh/offer-low secretive patterns of the past and that this evolutionary step is coincidental with the two new laws.

"If you price competitively," she tells sellers, 'you'll probably get your price.

"Buyers today are very sophisticated. And agents today know that they won't last long without

Q. I understand that there is gambling proposed in the Detroit area. I am wondering what effect it would have on adjacent real estate, based upon experiences in other cities.

A. Your question is directed at an opportune time since I have just had an opportunity to evaluate the New Orleans experience as it relates to gambling.

New Orleans has instituted riverboat gambling and was in the process of constructing what would appear to be an extravagant gambling palace, but, unfortunately, the developer got into legal problems and abandoned the project. What is left is an eyesore in the middle of downtown New Orleans, although it is certain that the rippling effect. of the gambling casino would have inspired additional activity in the downtown area.

opment in the area, and I would expect that the same would be the case in Detroit if for no other reason than it is attracting people who require ancillary services while in the casinos, including parking restraint and the like.

Q. We are in a resort condominium, and we are concerned about the management of the condominium project being not independent from that of the developer. We are concerned also that the association managing agent, while on premises, chooses to pick persons to assist in the management of the association who do not necessarily look out for the best interests of the association.

What can we do?

A. The managing agent of your association owes a fiduciary duty to your association and not to anyone else. If the management company is affiliated with a conflict of interest that should be carefully exam-

To the extend that the management company is not discharging its responsibilities, it should be removed immediately. ■RE/MAX charity

The fourth annual RE/MAX Miracle Classic golf outing at Moravian Hills Country Club last month raised more than $15,000 for the RE/MAX Communication Station Preschool at Children's 'Miracle Network affiliate William Beaumont Hospital.

More than 150 RE/MAX Realtors and guests contributed through sponsorships and sales of golf tickets and Children's Miracle Network merchandise.

A live auction featuring autographed sports memorabilia raised more than $6,500 of the day's total.

The funds constitute a scholarship program for the only hospital-based, fully-licensed preschool program in the country exclusively for speech and language impaired children.

The RE/MAX Detroit Metro region comprises 490 full time professionals in 33 offices.

■Real estate investors

The Real Estate Investors Associ. ation of Oakland hosts a dinner seminar, "High Tech Collections on the Internet," 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 13, at the Royal Oak American Legion, 1815 Rochester Road.

Cost is $13 for members, $23 for non-members, $10 for non-members who want to attend the seminar only.

Heat, cool and save energy with heat pump

Is there a heat pump in your future? If your house isn't already equipped with a heat pump, you may want to consider one of these versatile devices that not only heat your home in winter and cool your home in summer but can save you money on your monthly energy bills.

A heat pump is neither miraculous nor new. The first factory-made units rolled off production lines more than three decades ago. Millions of heat pumps are in operation in every section of the country - schools, offices, hotels, stores, and industrial plants, as well as homes.

Why the continued, and even In winter, the process is reversed so increasing, popularity of heat pumps? It's because design improvements have created a new generation of heat pumps that offer reliability, as well as efficiency and energy savings.

A heat pump can often replace both furnace and central air-conditioning equipment with a single heating-cooling system, thereby "pumping" heat into the home in winter and into the outdoors in summer. In summer, an air-to-air pump operates as a standard air conditioner, collecting heat from the air in your home and expelling it outside.

that the heat pump collects heat from outdoor air to warm the air inside your home.

If you would like to learn more about how a heat pump can fit into your life - warming, cooling, conserving energy and saving money - then write to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, 4301 North Fairfax Drive (No. 425), Dept. HT96, Arlington Va., 22293 for a free brochure, "Heat, Cool, Save Energy With a Heat Pump." And, you can find out more information about airconditioning and refrigeration issues on the Internet at ARI's home page: http://www.ari.org washing nonstick cookware? And, who hasn't wished that sinks, tubs, showers, tile, windows, mirrors and counters were easy to care for?

Invisible protection makes light work of cleaning

Now, there is a unique surface treatment that can end all that scraping and scrubbing in the kitchen and bathroom - and prevent dirt buildup, Invisible Shield, by Unelko Corp., imparts absolutely invisible, but amazingly durable, nonstick finish to glass, porcelain, ceramic and other hard surfaces. It lasts from months to years and materials into water-, soil- and stainrepelling "easy-clean" surfaces.

In one step, using ordinary wiping and polishing techniques, this polymer coating fills the microscopic pores of these materials and creates an smooth surface barrier against soil, stains, soap scum, rust and mineral deposits.

Just like with nonstick pots and pans, the dirt and grime on surfaces treated with Invisible Shield can be, wiped or rinsed away easily. However, unlike the original nonstick finishes that are gray, brown or black, Invisible Shield is perfectly clear. It will keep precious surfaces, including glass tables, television screens, porcelain and china, polished and sparkling.

Best of all, applying this surface treatment is a do-ityourself project. People don't have to buy all new fixtures; they can bring them back to life just by applying this pro-

Who hasn't marveled at the ease of changes ordinary hard-to-clean tective coating. Better than traditional nonstick finished, homemakers can rejuvenate this finish as often as they like without fear of buildup - and without having to throw the fixture away or send it back to the factory for refinishing.

> In order for the protective finish to penetrate and adhere, surfaces must be clean and dry. To help preclean surfaces once and for all, Unelko offers a special Linescale, Rust & Buildup Remover.

Then, after treating surfaces with Invisible Shield, all you will ever need will be water and soap, or mild detergents; people can throw away. all those harsh solvents, abrasives and cleansers that can be damaging to surfaces, harmful to users and bad for the environment.

Invisible Shield is available at supermarkets, hardware stores, home centers, mass merchants and department stores. For additional information, write Invisible Shield, Unelko Corp., 7428 E. Karen Drive, Scottsdale AZ 85260.

Saabs have always delivered outstanding performance on the road. And now, for a limited time, their figures on paper are equally impressive. Choose any Saab 900 Convertible or 9000, all considered The Car Book's "Best Bets," and take advantage of either 0% APR financing or as much as $3,000 in factory-todealer incentives.

The Saab 900 and 9000 Series also have lower estimated preventive-maintenance costs for 50,000 miles than the Lexus LS400, the Volvo 850, BMW 3-Series, the Infiniti J30 and the Mercedes-Benz C-Class. For a live performance of the entire Saab line, see your nearest dealer for complete details and a test-drive.

to & APR financing available on all 1996 Saab models. Financing to qualified and approved retail buyers who take delivery by September 30, 1996.
