ROAD WORK

his is the last of a two-part series on roads and road funding in western Wayne County. Reporters Beth Sundrla Jachman and Tim Richard discussed the politics of road funding and how roads are rated in the Sept. 19 edition of the Observer Newspapers. Today's story by Renee Skoglund and Val Olander focuses on what local officials have to say about how road money is parceled out. A brief report on traffic volumes in western Wayne County is also included.

LOCAL LEADERS:

Roads are No.1 concern

RENEE SKOGLUND

When it comes to road repair, suburban officials would like Wayne County to sing "On the Road Again" a little more often. There are 1,400 miles of roads in the county, and many of them are badly in need of oftention.

"Roads are Livonia's number one problem," said Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey. "They're all deteriorating. You can do maintenance to a point, (but) sometimes you have to reconstruct."

Kirksey recently taped a 30-minute cable program outlining the city's road problems. His guests were Ed Siemert, director of engineering for Wayne County Department of Public Works, and Ernie Savas, a district engineer for the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

The main star (or villain) of the production was Seven Mile Road, originally constructed in 1917 as a double-lane road, each lane 10 feet wide. It was widened to four lanes in 1923, but the lane width remained at 10 feet. Kirskey describes the road as "elevetrophobic"

"claustrophobic."

Kirksey said Seven Mile has some "inherent comprises to safety." Turn lanes and acceleration lanes come up without many visible markers, making it especially dangerous for night driving.

Siemert said the criteria for prioritizing road repair is based on worst condition, most congestion, and safety, such as intersections that need to be widened to prevent accidents.

Surprise award: Gov. Engler surprised Adams Middle School principal Celestine Sanders with a framed special tribute signed by the governor. She was cited for her many years in education and the numerous programs she has initiated. The presentation was part of a school DARE program assembly, attended by state House nominee Dennis LeMaitre and city and police officials.

Schools beg Engler for help

The Wayne-Westland school district is hoping Gov. Engler can help resolve a $5 million problem. The problem involves the implementation of the Proposal A school finance reform program.

BY LEONARD POGER EDITOR

Two top Wayne-Westland school district officials pressed Gov. John Engler Thursday for help in dealing with a $5 million problem.

Engler promised he would look into the problem, which surfaced after Michigan voters approved the Proposal A school finance reform plan in March, 1994.

The governor was at Adams Middle School to take part in a Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) student assembly.

Pressing the issue, described as a quirk in the implementation of Proposal A, and looking for help from Engler were Patricia Brown, school board president, and Greg Baracy, assistant superintendent/general administration.

What the school district wants is state legislation to provide it with the opportunity to renew a 3-mill "enhancement" tax increase, approved by local voters in June, 1995. That was designed to allow voters to provide the school board with extra funds above the 6-mill tax provided under Proposal A.

Under Proposal A, the enhancement levy could be approved only once and then for only two years.

Brown and Baracy told Engler that the local levy will expire next June 30. Without a chance to have it renewed, the district could lose $5 million in property tax revenues.

Engler admitted that while he feels Proposal A "is a resounding success," he admitted "there are still some problems and challenges" in implementing it.

Brown told the governor that while most districts are allowed to ask local voters to renew an additional millage levy approved in the wake of the Proposal A passage, Wayne-Westland isn't.

"We've had two good years and we want to sustain it," Brown said.

After the discussion with Engler, Brown said she feels the governor was "very sincere and willing to have an open dialogue" on the problem.

"I really hope he understands the problem and its timeliness."

The chance to have voters renew the 3-mill levy "will make or break us," the board president said.

Engler told the two that "we've al A changes.

state House nominee on the Nov. 5 ballot, said he had already talked to Baracy about the "unfairness of how Proposal A affects the Wayne-Westland district and that we must continue to work on the problem."

He added that the district is the only one in the state "adversely affected" by that portion of Proposal A changes.

In an interview on a variety of topics after the school assembly, Engler amplified on how he sees

Pursell gears up anti-tax campaign

Up at 5 or 6 a.m., Carl Pursell, 62, puts a couple of miles on the track before a breakfast of poached egg on dry toast — no coffee, no pop, and he never was a fan of alcohol since his days as a college baseball player.

"I've taken off 25 pounds and feel better than I've felt in 25 years," said the former congressman (1977-92), state senator (1971-76) and Wayne County commissioner (1969-70).

"And I'm testing Dennis Archer and Ed McNamara on their values – corporate welfare," said Pursell, whose latest title is co-chair of TAPS, Taxpayers Against Proposition S, a series of taxes to help build a new Detroit Lions football stadium.

On a recent Sunday, he worked six hours at the Rotary chicken barbecue of the Plymouth Fall Festival and spent the evening talking politics – how TAPS will try to defeat the Nov. 5 countywide tax hike plan.

City renews Benyo's contract

The city council has approved a new one-year contract for its legislative staffer, Joseph Benyo, after a debate on the length of the contract.

Benyo, who has been a council staffer for more than eight years, wasn't present for the Monday, Sept. 16 meeting because of his hospitalization.

While some council members had reservations about the length of the pact and some of its provisions, the council eventually voted 6-1 for its approval.

Dissenting was Council member Richard LeBlanc.

The proposed agreement, which contains a 2.5 percent compensation increase, was for two years, but LeBlanc and Council member Glenn Anderson objected.

The two, plus Council President Sandra Cicirelli, tried unsuccessfully to postpone action on the agreement but were outvoted by Council members Charles "Tray" Griffin, Sharon Scott, Justine Barns and Charles Pickering.

Griffin was the most vocal for approving the contract, with the two-year provision, and stressing that changes in the attached exhibit, which describes his duties, can be revised any time.

Police respond to car accident, 7 hurt

By Valerie Olander Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Westland teen is facing drunken driving charges under Michigan's zero tolerance law for a one-car rollover accident that occurred about 1 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 14 on Denton, north of Proctor, in Canton Michael Krupin was arraigned in 36th District Court on Friday. A pre-trial hearing is scheduled for Monday, Sept. 30.

Adult Ed enrollment down 90 percent, classes and teachers in great jeopardy

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

Enrollment for the fall semester at the Bentley Center has plunged, and many classes will be canceled this week if more students don't sign up.

Adult education classes start today, but students can still meet the registration deadline if they come to class Wednesday, said Jay Young, director of the department of community services for the Livonia school district, which serves the northern section of Westland.

To receive state aid for each student enrolled, the district must report its enrollment next Friday, Sept. 27, Young said.

Class cancellations mean even more teachers face layoff beyond the one-third of the staff already laid off because of previous state budget cuts, he said.

Enrollment in adult education programs last year at this time was about 350. This year, it's 39.

"That's shocking," Young said. "We didn't foresee this huge drop off in numbers. We'll try to get through this week and then decide what to do. Students can register up to Thursday, but they must be in class Wednes-

Evening classes for students over 20 have suffered the biggest drop in enrollment. Enrollment is normal in the district's daytime alternative education program for district students 20 and under.

"The problem is mainly in the evening programs," Young said.

"All programs have suffered cuts; numbers are down in both day and evening programs. But they're very down in the evening. Evenings are always slow to fill up. But now it's the last week, and people are not coming

The following classes are open: American literature, improving English skills, composition, communication and discussion skills, U.S. history, law enforcement, math, algebra, earth science.

Also, biology, auto, drafting, computeraided drafting, introduction to building trades, legal office secretary, computerized medical billing, medical assistant, and medical terminology.

The evening classes are mainly for nongraduates over 20 who want to earn a high school diploma. These students pay tuition.

Both Young and Rosemary Miller, supervisor of alternative education programs, pin the enrollment drop on the bad publicity adult education programs have gotten statewide as the state puts less and less money into these programs.

"All across the state, enrollments are down," Miller said. "The message is that adult ed is dying, but that's not accurate."

The state chopped $1 million from the 1996-97 budget of Livonia's community education services.

That led to some cuts in both program and staff, and led Young to declare a "Livonia district-only" policy at Bentley.

This means district residents got the first crack at signing up for adult ed classes. Non-Livonia district students will only be enrolled if not enough local students sign up for classes.

The district reclaimed some of their $1 million loss when Bentley recently got a $156,750 "Project Employ" grant through a consortium with the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency (RESA).

"With this grant we are offering free to non-grads over 20 an opportunity to earn a credential and receive job training," Miller

"The program will include computer classes, high school completion, or GED classes, job shadowing, portfolio preparation, employability skills, vocation training and job placement."

The Michigan Legislature put aside $20 million for these competitive grants for the 1996-97 school year.

"Project Employ" is designed to provide education and training so that students can get employed immediately after completion of the program.

Mobile mayor

Mayor Robert Thomas is bringing his mobile city hall to the P.D. Graham School neighborhood from 5-8 p.m., Thursday. Thomas announced he will bring his motor home, to be occupied by his department heads, to the school parking lot, on Hix near Avondale, to talk to residents and answer their questions about city issues. It is his first "coffee with the mayor" community relations program.

-He will serve up coffee, cookies and "maybe a gift or two."

In an announcement, Thomas said that the "mobile city hall" approach is a new wrinkle in the neighborhood walks program he initiated several years ago. Instead of walking through a neighborhood, the mayor and his staff will be in one location for several years, hoping to allow more people to reach him.

The mayor said that in the past, he would knock on a door, find that no one was home and that the residents in the neighborhood weren't aware that he was in the area. With the motor home parked in one spot

Engler offers tips to Adams students for future careers

BY LEONARD POGER

Adams Middle School sixthgraders learned the importance of being flexible in their career plans from someone who should know — Gov. John Engler.

The students heard the governor Thursday say that he grew up in the small, rural community of Beal, Mich., and enrolled at Michigan State University to study agriculture and later be a farmer.

He told the 180 students in the Adams library that he got involved in student government and politics, achieving several successes.

That whetted his appetite, and he later was elected to the state House and state Senate before upsetting Gov. James Blanchard nearly six years ago.

When asked if he planned to be a governor; Engler's response was simple. "Never."

Students spent nearly 45 minutes questioning Engler on a variety of issues — ranging from whether he felt his job was dangerous to whether he is friendly with President Bill Clinton.

The latter question was an easy one for the Republican governor, talking about the Democratic Party's presidential nomi-

"President Clinton is personable and he's not an enemy," Engler said, but pointed out that he supports Clinton's Republican opponent, Robert Dole, in the presidential election,

On the issue of danger, Engler commented that his job isn't any more dangerous than that of Adams principal Celestine Sanders.

Actually, it is more dangerous on the roads and highways, he told the students, who were assembled for a Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program.

On hand were Mayor Robert Thomas, Police Chief EmeryPrice, three DARE officers, several city council members, school officials and Dennis LeMaitre, Republican state House of Representatives nominees for the 18th district.

In other questions and answers, Engler said the toughest part of his job is "trying to communicate with the public on what you're doing and why." Communications is still "my biggest challenge" and that it's "becoming more difficult with people having more access (to information) through the Internet," he said.

On Clinton:

"We're not enemies, but I hope to replace him with Bob Dole. I knew Clinton when he was the governor of Arkansas. When I was first elected in the fall of 1990, I attended a school for new governors (sponsored by the nation's governors) and Clinton was an instructor."

talk about

• What's his favorite school? "The one I'm in," he said. But he added that each school "has a different personality. Adams seems to have a nice, warm personality. Some buildings I've been in seem to be cold."

• Future plans? "I'm not planning to run for president." •On suggestions for what students need to know for their future, Engler pointed to the technology book section in the rear of the Adams library and said:

"We are competing with people around the globe.

He stressed the need for students to focus on reading, writing, math and science.

But Engler also noted that businesses and organizations need people of all skill levels, specifying "top managers, computer repair persons and airplane and auto mechanics.

The governor also displayed his ability to find answers on unfamiliar local issues.

One youngster asked about a problem involving playground equipment at a nearby city park.

Engler deferred to Mayor Thomas who replied that the: swings and slides will be moved.

His answer received applause from the pupils.

Dole in 'better shape' now

Gov. John Engler knows something about politi-

That's why he feels Robert Dole is in "better shape now than he (Engler) was at the same time" when the governor upset an incumbent nearly six

In an interview at Adams Middle School Thursday Engler said that while the Republican presidential nominee is some nine to 10 points behind President Bill Clinton in the latest polls, Engler himself was trailing Blanchard by a 55-23 percent margin in a poll in September, 1990.

"In the Sunday paper just before that election, I was trailing Blanchard 54-40," recalled the Republican governor, who is supporting Dole.

But Engler, in an upset, narrowly defeated the two-term Democratic governor.

Engler feels that Dole is in a "strong position" at this point in the campaign and that Ronald Reagan, then the 1980 Republican nominee facing President Jimmy Carter, was also trailing his opponent by nine or 10 points at the same time in that campaign.

"I see a close, close battle," Engler said, referring to the campaign as a "horse race."

The governor feels that Michigan will decide the presidential election based on Dole's platform of reducing taxes and "letting families keeping more of what they earn."

Engler declined to verify a report that Dole will be in western Wayne County this week, saying only that the nominee will be in "southeast Michigan Tuesday morning.'

On other issues, Engler said:

• Proposal A, a school finance reform plan adopted by state voters in March, 1994, is a "resounding success."

•The change in school financing will lead to a change in the nature of local school board candidates in future elections. "There will be different approaches by board candidates in the future," he said. The focus will be on academics and curriculum instead of millage campaigns, Engler said.

•On the recently-released Michigan High School Proficiency Test results, Engler admitted that the writing, reading, math and science tests are harder.But he said that the tests will become a better measure of what students need to learn to be successful in college and at work.

"I want to have colleges and universities drop their remedial classes," the governor said. The elimination of such courses, which some incoming students need due to low entrance test scores, "will enhance higher education."

the problem.

"There are a lot of Proposal A implementation proposals out there," the governor said. He stressed that he wants to look at "a complete approach" to the problems.

On a related matter dealing with school finance, Engler said that he "wants to get away from the 'we're unique' viewpoint and have a compre- years before.

Courtesy call

Monday morning it was down to the county building to try to address the Stadium Authority, a new body created by the Wayne County Commission.

Then he planned to tell Detroit's Mayor Archer: "Look, Dennis, you're on the wrong side of this, backing corporate welfare. You keep criticizing the Republican Party. We thought we'd talk to you up-front about this." It was to be a courtesy call; he had no dream of converting Archer.

Later in the day they were to see Free Press editorial page editor Joe Stroud and News columnist Pete Waldmeir.

Pursell is in league with three GOP commissioners who voted against the stadium ballot question: Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia, Bruce Patterson of Canton and Andrew Richner of Grosse Pointe.

"Bruce read me an hour-byhour log of the fast track this proposal was on," Pursell said. He also had marked up an Observer story about corporation counsel Jennifer Granholm and the all-night sessions she put in preparing the proposal.

Bill McMaster, Oakland County gadfly and tax fighter, wants to sue the Wayne County Commission over alleged violations of the Open Meetings Act in ramming Proposition S through in a few hours. Pursell agreed the Open Meetings Act needs tightening but declined to join McMaster's planned lawsuit.

Co-chair sought

Pursell's style, since his fledgling days on the county board, has been to build bipartisan, multi-community, multigovernmental coalitions. That's why he bills himself as "cochair" of TAPS. He believes the other co-chair should be an African American Detroiter. He dropped a couple of names he will approach but didn't want them in print yet.

After recruiting a co-chair, TAPS will:

■ Build "a broad-based steering committee, including someone from the Hispanic community.

■ Set up a central office on

Telegraph Road. ■ Seek a community chair in all 43 cities, villages and town-

Proposition S involves $245 million for a Lions football stadium adjacent to the new Tiger stadium, including $80 million in new excise taxes, if voters say yes to S.

Joy at EMU

Since leaving Congress after a bad reapportionment break in 1992, Pursell has been appointed to the EMU board by Gov. John Engler.

The Ypsilanti school is his alma mater. He has no regrets about dropping out of the 1994 U.S. Senate race when he couldn't raise the megabucks for a The county's plan calls for $50 campaign. His EMU work is closer to his Plymouth Township home and wife Peggy.

Pursell exercises behind-thescenes influence on EMU board appointments. His big EMU project, however, is getting kids to read better.

A one-mile stretch of Seven Mile Road from Middlebelt to Inkster is high on the county's repair list because of accidents, with repairs scheduled for 1998. The stretch between Newburgh and Farmington, which Kirksey said needs to be reconstructed rather than resurfaced, will be ready for funding by 2000, according to Siemert.

Siemert and Savas cited Michigan's 15-cents-a-gallon gas tax, established in 1984, as a major culprit in inadequate funding for road repair. They said the state has the nation's seventh largest road system and fourth largest county road system, but its gas tax places it 45th in the country in gas tax

In addition to increasing the gas tax, Savas said there were other ways counties could receive more money for road repairs, including tort reform (he said state liabilities cost the taxpayer $21 million last year) and elimination of the six percentdiesel fuel discount for truckers.

Kirksey is satisfied with county's efforts on behalf of Livonia. "They've been very responsive. They just don't have the funding to get things done."

In Redford

There are no big road projects underway in Redford Township, but on its wish list is the repaying of Beech Daly between Eight Mile and Joy Roads. The six-mile stretch is starting to get "blow ups."

"It hasn't been repaired in a long time. How long I don't know, but its starting to get fatigued. It's also our main artery going north and south," said Ray Parsons, superintendent of Redford's Department of Public Works.

Most of the complaining in Redford comes from residents living on the township's 47 miles has a program of pursuing special assessment districts. Ten streets have petitioned the township so far, but there has been no determination. These are county roads that the township has agreed to improve.

Parsons said Redford Township has no gripes with the county. "I feel the county has given us the proper attention," he added.

In Westland

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas said that although most of the city's secondary roads, like Palmer and Glenwood, are in fairly good shape, some of the subdivision roads need work. However, there is not enough money to do it. Westland receives all its road repair money from Act 51.

"A large chunk of our road money has been spent on Newburgh," he said. Construction on Newburgh Road extends south from Cherry Hill to under the railroad tracts almost to Palmer Road, where it feathers down to

"If the county had the money, they'd be out doing more work on of unpaved roads. The township the roads," said Thomas. Referring to the state's low gas tax, he added: "I don't know when they will get off their butts in Lansing and do something.'

In Canton Township

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack is angry at Wayne County. He wants a full accounting on revenues received and spent by the county on behalf of Canton.

"They really don't want us to know what they've received and what they've spent. Any criticism and they cut you off. We've been cut. We've not received a street sweeper in two years,' said Yack. Yack said that without sweepings, really don't intersection surfaces are worn down from gravel, road headaches - like Canton Center Road, a two-lane road that gets "10,000 cars a day" could be resolved with some county foresight. "They should be out here acquiring the right of way so when they have the money, they can spend it."

According Yack, Canton's

The main problem with townships coming up short-funded for road repairs may be the fact that Act 51 money goes directly to the county. Unlike townships, cities receive it directly.

"That would be difficult for me to evaluate since I don't know if county resources are being wisely managed," said Yack. Yack has set two conditions under which he would support an increase in the state's gas tax, one of which is a full accounting from Wayne County on Canton's Act 51 funds. "And I wouldn't support a gas tax (increase) unless it includes a direct funding of local townships, so we could contact with organizations to do the work. I would invite the county to bid," he said.

Yack would like to forward all the angry phone calls he receives to the Wayne County Executive Director's office. "Our citizens don't know McNamara's phone number. They know mine."

RESCUING TEETH WITH ERT

Postmenopausal women who engage in estrogen replacement therapy (ERT) to help fend off the bone loss associated with osteoporosis may find that the therapy helps preserve their teeth as well. The bone-thinning effect of osteoporosis causes the jaw to lose bone mass and the gums to recede. These effects of osteoporosis, which affect half of women over the age of 50, may help explain why 32% of American women aged 65 to 69 have lost teeth. However, encouraging news comes from a 1996 Harvard Medical School study of more than 40,000 postmenopausal women that found that those who currently received the hormone were 27% less likely to lose their teeth than those who did not take it. This finding backs a previous study of nearly 4,000 postmenopausal women at the University of Southern California

State board reaches compromise on character ed

State Board of Education members may have found a way out of their ideological deadlock over a "character education" pol-

Commission seeks to ease refund method

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN

People entitled to a real estate transfer tax refund would have more time and more convenient ways to collect it if an action by the Wayne County Commission is successful.

Last Thursday commissioners approved a resolution introduced by local Republican commissioners Thaddeus McCotter of Livonia and Bruce Patterson of Canton Township. Local commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, and Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, also voted in favor.

The resolution calls on Wayne County Corporation Counsel to seek a court judgment changing a ruling made earlier this year that set up how the refund can be collected.

"The county illegally levied and collected this tax for years. It has a moral duty to see that every conceivable method of refunding the money is exhausted. There is simply no reason this cannot be done through the mail," McCotter Currently, people who sold a home between Jan. 11,1990, and May 10, 1996, are entitled to a refund of 20 cents per $500 of the value of the real estate sold, plus 2 percent interest. For example, the refund for a home sold for $100,000 would be $40.80. But those entitled to a refund have to go to downtown Detroit to make a refund request in person. Also, refunds can only be sought until Oct. 31, 1996.

The resolution approved last week urges corporation counsel to seek a judgment allowing application for the refund by mail, extending the deadline to make application and making provisions to notify people entitled to the refund.

Commissioners also suggested extending the daily hours and setting up out-county locations to collect the refund.

When some commissioners questioned acting on the resolution Thursday when they had to vote to suspend the rules to put it on the agenda, Patterson said corporation counsel needs the time to seek a court judgment. "People have the right to a refund. Let's not delay," he Patterson said he has waited to see if the current program would work, but has found that out-county residents are having a problem collecting.

"It is absurd that my constituents should have to take time off work and travel 20 to 30 miles to collect a tax refund that's less than the cost of their trip downtown," Patterson said. In 1981, Wayne County increased the real estate transfer tax from 55 cents to 75 cents per $500 value of real property. In April of this year, the increase was ruled illegal, but only dating back to 1990, the date a taxpayer first challenged it in court.

In June commissioners approved a contract to staff an office in the basement of the Neudeck Building at 415 Clifford in Detroit to process the refunds. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, excluding holi-

An alphabetical schedule to apply for the refunds is also being encouraged. Those with last names beginning with A-D are encouraged to apply for their refund on Mondays, E-J on Tuesdays, K-O on Wednesdays, P-S on Thursdays and T-Z on Fridays.

A Real Estate Transfer Tax information line has been set up at (313) 224-5050.

Durant's proposal that school districts organize committees of "parents, educators, business, religious and other community representatives" to draw up lists of "common values." Critics saw Durant's committee plan as allowing religious groups to pack the committees.

"What's important is that we have more than a 5-3 vote," he said. The board has six Republicans and two Democrats, with Beardmore sometimes voting against the majority.

Board member Kathleen Straus, D-Detroit, also objected to Durant's "one-on-one" talks with board members. "People feel there's an underlying agen-

Board vice president Marilyn Lundy, R.Detroit, disliked Beardmore's use of the phrase "separation of church and state," pointing out that the U.S. Constitution only forbids Congress from designating an established church. ..

Otherwise, there were few sparks.

Beardmore proposed a values list that included "respect, responsibility, caring, trustworthiness, justice and fairness and civic virtue and citizenship.'

That list came originally from Ellis, who said they are "frequently mentioned in the literature" on character education.

The newest board member, Louis Legg, R-Battle Creek, said the state should discourage "incivility" but otherwise he preferred to make any resolution "as innocuous as possible."

The State Board of Education will meet at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, in the Hannah Building, 608 W. Allegan, two block west of the State Capitol in Lansing.

Wayne County special ed teachers face larger classes

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Special education teachers in Wayne County face 50 percent larger class sizes and student loads after the state granted a request from budget-pinched local officials.

Angry teachers, like school psychologist Shawn Wielfaert of Belleville, said, "These are costsaving measures that may not benefit children. There was no parent or teacher input at the local level."

"My district runs on a shoestring," South Redford special education director Dorcas Smith told the State Board of Education Sept. 12. She said her work couldn't be measured in class sizes because she does much consulting and preventive

But Superintendent of Public Instruction Art Ellis and a 6-2 Republican majority on the State Board of Education heeded the plea of Wayne-Westland officials like Gary Quitiquit and granted three-year waivers.

Special education costs are soaring so high, Quitiquit said, that Wayne-Westland has had to cut general education and transportation. "There was a backlash among general education parents. They pounded on the (special education) bus and wanted to know why transportation for their kids was cut."

Patricia Brand, assistant superintendent at Wayne-Westland, said, "We were hit with a $3 million deficit. We were forced to cut general education and transportation. We closed four schools.

"The average per-pupil cost of special education is $18,400. The average for general education is $4,800. The foundation allowance (state aid) is not sufficient to cover special education."

■ Teachers and officials agreed that more kids - 13 percent countywide — are being given special education for learning, physical and mental handicaps at increasing cost.

Brand said special education rose from 12.3 percent of the 1993-4 budget to 15.2 percent. At the same time, insurances rose 10 percent and utilities 3-5 percent.

Teachers and officials agreed that more kids - 13 percent countywide - are being given special education for learning, physical and mental handicaps at increasing cost.

"We bring some to school in ambulances," said Kathryn Mathey, director of special education for RESA.

Supporters of special education told stories of kids, once thought hopeless, who turned into job-holding, taxpaying, promotable workers.

The pupil-teacher rules were made under the new state School Code that took effect last July 1. School districts may ask the superintendent of public instruction and State Board for waivers.

Ellis said 34 Wayne County districts and the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency (RESA) made a consolidated request for 18 waivers. He denied six and recommended the board approve six.

The board's two Democrats. Barbara Roberts Mason of Lansing and Kathleen Straus of Detroit, voted no on many while others went through on 8-0

"Several other large counties have their packets (of waiver requests) on the way," said Ellis, citing Oakland and Macomb. "They assured me they spent an elaborate amount of time (getting parent and teacher input)."

Mason, an official of the Michigan Education Association, was adamant about increasing class sizes, particularly at the high school level, because "Some of these (students) are very large young men. You might be putting a teacher in a dangerous situation."

Among the changes:

■ Allowing a caseload of 18 different students and a maximum of 15 in a classroom at a time versus the original rule of a caseload of 15 and 10 in a room.

■ Eliminating a requirement for an assessment by a school psychologist as a member of a multidisciplinary team to establish the eligibility of students with mental impairments and multiple handicaps.

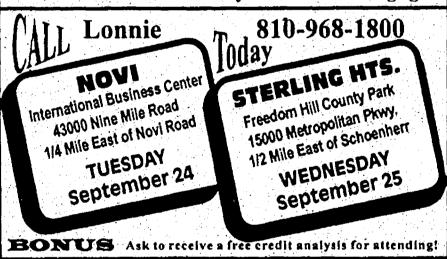

■ Eliminating the requirement that a secondary level resource room teacher have two years of experience, including one in special education.

Allowing teacher consultants to carry an active caseload of 30 special ed students instead of 25.

Wayne RESA officials were blistered for failing to inform parents and teachers of the rules changes in advance. Jan' Cheney, member of a State Parents Advisory Committee, said, "At the Wayne PAC, they were called into a meeting and readthe waivers," and given no time to think about them. Just seven of the 30 members attended, she

Leeanne LaMarre

Art consultant makes house calls

By Linda Ann Chomin SPECIAL WRITER

When Kitty Gitulli of Farmington Hills needed a large painting for above her fireplace, the solution was simple. She called LaMarre Decors D'Elegance in Bloomfield Hills.

Owner Leeanne LaMarre brought a gallery to her client's home, a service of her art and design consulting business. Within four months, an oil by Italian artist Romani hung in the traditional living room accented with oriental and antique

"Leeanne was an easy person to work with," Gitulli said. "She brought pieces to go with our personality. We lived with them for a few days but the paintings just weren't right. Next, she took us to several galleries. When we saw the painting of the mother and daughter picking wildflowers in a field at Galerie International in Birmingham, we knew it was right."

Although she began Leeanne LaMarre Consulting Services five years ago, LaMarre's experience in selling art goes back 18 years. She previously represented marine artist Paul C. LaMarre, her ex-husband, selling hundreds of his watercolor paintings to galleries and private buyers. The contacts she made comprise a vast resource of available artworks for clients. In addition to her selling experience, LaMarre directed the Russell Klatt Gallery and served as an art consultant for the former Linda Hayman Gallery.

LaMarre Decors D'Elegance is the new branch of the consulting service offering residential clients every style and medium of art imaginable from works by Joan Miro to original oils, monoprints, serigraphs, posters, and custom commissioned art. For a specific consultation she may draw her art on consignment from the Michigan Design Center in Troy, or an artists' representa-

"I began the business because I wanted to be home for my children," she explained. "There's definitely a huge market for it because so many families are working families and don't have the time or expertise to search for artworks. We offer totally flexible hours. We work around our clients' schedules. It is less complicated to select art whether it is poster art or fine art, when it is presented in the surroundings in which it will be exhibited."

For a $100 consulting fee, LaMarre brings art to a client's home after an initial telephone interview to decipher color schemes, decor style, and personal taste. If a purchase is made, the consultation is free. LaMarre then has the work matted, framed, and installed.

"My clients say they'll know it when they see it and nine times out of ten, they'll find something in the assortment I bring to their homes the first

Besides searching for wall art, LaMarre Decors D'Elegance designs and creates custom floral arrangements and swags, and special occasion decor. LaMarre's mother Shirley Burrows assists in this end of the business. One of their most popular items are custom decorated Theme Trees. For holidays like Valentine's Day, an anniversary or Christmas, LaMarre designs three-foot elegantly adorned trees,. Last year, she created and donated an all-Irish tree to benefit Brother Rice High School's annual auction.

Gitulli plans to consult LaMarre on a future purchase of an old world-style painting to hang in the three-floor stairwell of her Tudor home with turret, because she says the art consultant has become a friend. Clients comments like that prompt LaMarre to contain the size of her operation. She wants to personally pass on her knowledge and expertise to clients. 'A piece of art should offer you meaning or pleasure," she explained. "It's so important to like what you have on the wall because you're going to have to like it 10 years down the road."

Downtowns welcome art galleries

Birmingham has "Art in the Park," Rochester "Arts 'N Apples," now it's Plymouth's turn as the 3rd annual "Plymouth is Artrageous" showcases the town's art wares Sept. 27-29.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

Art Galleries seem to naturally blend into the retail mix of a downtown business district. They're great for afternoon lazy browsing or seriously tracking down art for the office on your lunch hour. Like downtown Birmingham and

Rochester, Plymouth has been beefing up its art collections for the past few years and now boasts 10 galleries featuring everything from Navajo blankets to cartoon animation cells.

To promote the art shops in Plymouth, retailers have joined forces with the city's arts council to present a weekend celebration of the arts complete with music, competitions, demonstrations, artist visits and a cult film.

The art walk, Friday Sept. 27 through Sunday, Sept. 29, takes shoppers from gallery to gallery where displays and demonstrations will "expose visitors to many different forms of art," according to Annette Horn of Native West Gallery.

"Artists from the high schools will be creating six-foot chalk murals in a competition, so you'll actually be walking on art as you visit the gal-- leries," she said. "The highlight of the event is a special showing of The Rocky Horror Picture Show at the Penn Theater, complete with a live cast, beginning at 11:30 p.m on Saturday, Sept. 28. Tickets are $5 and available at the galleries."

As an added feature, the Plymouth Music Festival will perform live in Kellogg Park. For a complete schedule of weekend events and a map of the walk route, guests can pick up an Artrageous Flyer from any of the downtown shops.

Horn suggested the boon in art galleries may be related to the new housing starts in northern Oakland County and the Canton-area.

"New housing starts mean people are decorating. Art galleries become a shopping destination."

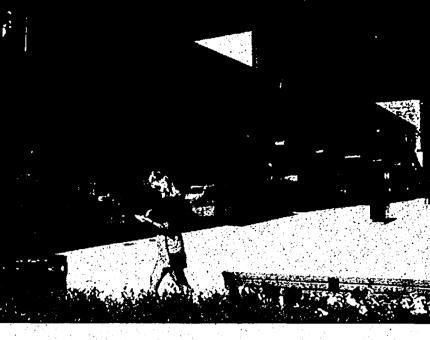

Horn argued that galleries are best suited to downtown locations because the shops are near residences, and because malls are best for comparison shopping, where people are looking for the best prices on items, not necessarily items that are unique and custom.

"That's where downtown retail comes in, downtowns tend to offer items you can't find in the shopping centers," she said.

Window shopping: Downtown Plymouth offers a unique assortment of art and gifts for the home.

"We have about 40 places where you can shop for art and home decor items in Birmingham," she said. "And we're getting more. Why, we can support three oriental rug shops within one block. Downtowns are upscale urban environments and as such attract people who appreciate art, atmosphere and ambiance. We also have many interior decorators in town who shop the galleries for their clients."

"I think buying art has become a new art," laughed Diane Mackey, gallery director at Wild Wings in Plymouth. "People are putting money into what they like and they're buying better art."

Plymouth's art and gift galleries include Animation Station, Chameleon Gallery, Creative Framing and Gallery, Frameworks, Francis Jewelry Gallery, Gabriala's, Native West Gallery, Penniman ... Showcase, Wild Wings Gallery and The Plymouth Arts Council.

Hit or Miss stores focus on fashion value

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Do the costly pricetags on the latest fashions make you cringe? Do you feel most comfortable in a size 12 or 14?

Do you find your favorite clothes are mostly casual separates?

Well, you are not alone!

According to Boston-based fashion guru Tina Sutton, who is also spokeswoman for the Hit or Miss stores, recent focus groups have revealed that today's woman is wearing larger sizes, her budget priorities have shifted away from designer clothes, and leading a busy life, she dresses casually every day of the week.

With those findings in view, nation's 400 Hit or Miss stores took a hard look at their concept and came up with a fall line that takes the best of the couture runway designs and duplicates "the practical and realistic" at savings 20 to 50-percent less than department stores - "offpricing" in the retail vernacular.

"Women have told us they no longer feel like slaves to fashion, yet they care about looking stylish," Sutton explained. "So we've got the hot kiwi-green velvet lycra mock turtleneck that designers are selling for $60 to $80 and we've brought it out for $24.99. Likewise, with chic front-zip jackets for $39.99, trendy moc croc bags and belts from $9.99 to $16.99."

Hit or Miss shoppers will find the current animal print craze shows up at the store in blouses and scarves for instant wardrobe updates, along with the "hot" slim pant in black or chocolate

"The difference is our pant actually fits and is wearable because the stretch twill goes in at the waist and out at the hips like most women, and comes in proportion lengths so there's no need to have them hemmed. Plus you've got room to tuck in a sweater or blouse, unlike most other slim pants. . . And ours are just $24.99 a pair."

Sutton said Hit or Miss is concerned with each garment's versatility because budget-stretching customers want pieces that go easily from work-to-weekend and day-to-evening.

"We've got a bias cut long skirt in solid knits or border prints that can be worn with a variety of tops for different looks for $24.99," she said. "Also, our bestselling draped leg pant flatters every figure and most every occasion, $24.99."

Hit or Miss carries sizes 6 to 16 and attempts to price every item under $30, presenting the merchandise in stores that have an intimate boutique feel. Sutton said Hit or Miss competition comes from other discounters like Dress Barn and TJ Maxx.

The company is running additional savings now through Oct. 12 - when you buy any sweater at regular price you get 50-percent off any bottom.

The first store opened in Natick, Mass., in 1965. Hit or Miss eventually became a division of TJMaxx (TJX Companies, Inc.) In August 1995, Hit or Miss became a private company, bought by an outside investor and a management group which includes Hit or Miss president Herb Yalof. Targeted shoppers are "women 20 to 45 who love fashion."

Along with business casual clothes, Hit or Miss sells accessories, lingerie, jewelry and watches, socks and hosiery "that amazingly doesn't run" promised Sutton.

Hit or Miss will arrange wardrobe seminars or fashion shows for interested clubs and business groups. For more details call 1-800-94STYLE.

State lawmakers toughens teen driving laws

On paper, teen driving was the Politically, it was the opening salvo in the 1997 battle over state aid to private schools.

On nearly party-line votes, Republicans in both chambers of the Michigan Legislature passed a bill stiffening the requirements for licensing for young drivers and sent it to Gov. John Engler for signing.

Opponents had two objections: ■ No longer are school districts mandated to offer driver's ed. "I am afraid that, without the mandate, some schools will drop it, and the cost of obtaining a driver's education course will make it difficult for some students to get a license," said Rep. Glenn Oxender, R-Sturgis.

He was one of two Republicans to vote against House Bill 4763. The House passed it 55-

■ It allows state money to be used at private driving schools. "It's opening the door to state financing of private education, including religious education," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. "The state should not be in the business of financing and subsidizing private education, and that is exactly what this law does. A very dangerous door has been opened."

The Senate passed the bill 20-17, a bare majority. Twenty Republicans voted yes, 15 Democrats and two outstate Republicans voted no, and one Detroit Democrat was absent.

Insurers ignored the ideological battle and praised the bill's effect on public safety.

"There's no question that youthful drivers are considered high-risk drivers because they are in disproportionately more accidents than any other age group," said Gary Mitchell, spokesman for the Michigan Association of Insurance Agents. "This legislation will hopefully reduce the number of inexperienced drivers that are on the road."

MAIA said 15 percent of the 989,000 licensed drivers age 16-24 are involved in accidents each year while only 5 percent of the 65-75 group have accidents.

"We must act to protect our kids," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston. Both chambers passed different versions last spring, but it took months in a conference to produce a compro-

The public school mandate is dropped in April of 1998, but Gustafson doubted that local schools would drop such a popular program. "Smaller schools can design consortiums with other districts. Each community's needs, not state law, will dictate the setup of its program,"

The state will continue to use $4 from every license for driver's ed. Schools offering driver's ed will be required to match

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Measure up for best results in cooking, baking ecently I baked cookies with my daughter. As we began to measure ingredients, the difference in our techniques was obvious. Jessica dipped the measuring cup into flour and flattened it into the cup with the palm of her hand. I gently corrected her because I wanted her to learn proper measuring techniques ensure consistent results.

Proper equipment

Using standard measuring equipment is the first step toward recipe accuracy. Necessary equipment includes glass or clear plastic liquid measuring cups in 1 - 4 - and 8-cup sizes; metal or plastic graduated dry measuring cups in 1/4 -1/3 - 1/2 - and 1-cup sizes; and a set of measuring spoons in 1 tablespoon and 1/4 - 1/2 - and 1-tea-

In European based cookbooks, many dry ingredients are measured by weight rather than by volume, which is even more accurate. A good, balanced beam scale is the most accurate, but new digitals and good spring based scales can be equally effective.

When measuring a small amount of liquid, use the smallest measuring cup available for greatest accuracy. For accuracy in measuring dry ingredients, use the size cup that holds the exact amount called for in the recipe.

If your recipe calls for liquid or dry ingredients in less than cup specified amounts, remember that a dash equals 1/16 of a teaspoon, 3 teaspoons to a tablespoon, 4 tablespoons to 1/4 cup and 16 tablespoons (48 teaspoons) to a cup.

Anytime you see a recipe in a cooking magazine, newspaper or cookbook, you can be assured that the recipes are based on level measurements for both liquid and dry ingredients.

To measure liquids correctly, place the cup on a level surface, get eye level with the marking you need to read, then fill the cup to that line.

Now anyone who has seen me knows that I tower above the average cook (I'm 6 foot 6 inches tall). When I need to measure a quarter of a cup, I never get down on my hands and knees. I simply open a top cupboard, place the measuring cup at eye level (the second shelf) and measure with impeccable accuracy.

But when I teach a cooking class, the biggest problem I encounter is many people have no idea how to measure dry ingredients. Especially when baking cakes and pastries, exact measurement of dry ingredients is crucial, and can make or break a good recipe.

First off, never, under any circumstances, pack dry ingredients into a recipe unless it calls for it. To measure dry ingredients, I suggest you lightly spoon the ingredient into the cup or measuring spoon, allowing it to mound slightly. Then, level the top with a flat edge, such as the back of a butter knife or metal spatula to achieve a smooth surface. The only dry ingredient that always should be packed is brown sugar. It needs to be packed firmly enough so that the sugar keeps the shape of the measuring cup when it's turned out.

Most brands of flour today are presifted, so it's no longer necessary to sift before measuring. I suggest you pay attention to the recipe because some do say that the ingredients should be sifted together or separately. The biggest mistake people make when measuring flour is they tap the side of the measure or flour canister and this, in turn, packs in the flour. Whenever I open a new bag of flour, or get out the canister, I suggest stirring it to lighten it, then gently spoon it into the dry measure and level it. Again, shaking the cup will pack in the flour and more flour will result in a dryer recipe. Unfortunately, there are exceptions to the no sift rule. They include cake flour and powdered sugar which are very soft and tend to pack down during storage. For optimum results, I recommend that you sift; then measure as directed above.

In addition to using the proper measuring tools, measuring can be equally important to diabetics and people on weight control or healthy eating regimens. When dining, I imagine a 3 ounce serving of cooked meat, fish or poultry to be about the size of a deck of playing cards. When walking through a salad bar, I imagine a tennis ball cut in half to measure out about 1/2 cup of whatever it is I'm taking.

"Big Night," which opens Friday at the Main Art Theatre in Royal Oak, is not the first to tap into a modern movie audience's love of the culinary arts. The past decade has seen the screen focus more than once on the almost mystical experience of preparing, serving, and eating memorable meals.

Who can forget the scene in "When Harry Met Sally" in which Meg Ryan goes orgasmic over a deli sandwich? Even better is the way Harry's sportswriter friend sums up the modern obsession with food: "Restaurants are to people today what theater was to people in the '60s."

Then there's "Diner," the common ground for friends to talk sports and music over hamburger and fries ("are you done with that?") "Moonstruck" featured Olympia Dukakis' special bread recipe, in which a hidden egg could signal a pregnancy. Less appetizing was David Lynch's "Eraserhead," where Cornish hens proved too animated to eat:

It wasn't until "Tampopo," the 1987 hit from Japan, that food and movies blended so deliciously. Here a Clint Eastwood-style loner rides into town in search of the perfect noodle, eventually opening his own noodle emporium. Most remember it for the kinky lovers who spiced up their lovemaking with sushi and raw

A year later came "Babette's Feast," a rare Danish release, in which a talented woman, forced to cook mundane dishes for her employers, gets a chance to show her stuff. The result is a meal that has the stuffy diners in a state of magical rapture.

The undisputed king of food movies remains "Like Water for Chocolate," a Mexican import based on the book by Laura Esquivel, and inspired by her family's cooking traditions. The recipes featured in the book also make their way into the film.

Dishing up dinner: Stanley Tucci (right) offers Ian Holm one of his culinary delights in "Big Night," the heartwarming story of two immigrant brothers attempting to save their failing restaurant business and attain the American dream.

hopes to bring spiritual aspects of food back to American screens. Written and co-directed by Stanley Tucci (he was a regular last season on TV's "Murder One"), it focuses on a pair of brothers and the importance of doing things ty that will come from a celebrity roved that the power of food on right, not pandering to the mass

> The brothers often disagree. Secondo (played by Tucci) would like to make a little money. Older brother Primo (Tony Shalhoub) says he can't compromise. "It's a story of the struggle between commerce and art," Tucci said. "We use the chef as the artist."

When famed Italian American band leader Louis Prima is supposed to show up, the brothers are elated. The restaurant, months behind in payments to the bank, will bask in the publiciendorsement. Secondo already picture the autographed photo hanging prominently on his restaurant wall.

Much of the movie involves the preparation of that fated meal, with Primo gathering the freshest ingredients while Secondo takes care of the business details, which include inviting his closest friends and family.

Tucci chose for the banquet's centerpiece a dish known as a "Timpano," specific to the small town in Calabria where his family hails from. Help in the kitchen came from his mother, Joan, who served as unofficial food consultant on the low-budget film.

Named for the "timpani," or kettle drum, the dish is made in and shaped like a large kettle. Consisting of pastry dough and crust on the outside, it is filled: with multiple layers of pasta, meats, cheese, and eggs. Once cut open, it unleashes a cornucopia of colors, tastes, and smells.

Since the last third of the film involves eating and drinking at the actual party, Tucci and his food stylists had to keep the meals looking halfway appetizing. "As you can imagine, the set was sweltering we had to keep it cold," Tucci said of the meal, which also included caponata and fried zucchini. "We couldn't use any spices that would discolor it."

Tucci is not surprised at America's current fixation on food, even at the movies. "There's a spirituality, a sexuality, a sensuality that goes along with good food," he said. "Look, we all have to eat so I figure let's make it as pleas-convenience. It cooks quickly, and pairs deliciously with so many seasoning options, making it the perfect start for many ethnic favorites.

Ground beef can top a pizza or fill a taco or a pita pocket. Use it for pasta sauce or fried rice; lasagna, meatloaf or meatballs.

All forms of ground beef patties, loaves, crumbles should be cooked to desired doneness (medium to well-done) without interruption. Do not eat raw ground beef. The U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends cooking it to medium (160 degrees F°) doneness, or until the center is no longer pink and the juices run clear.

Here are some suggestions for selecting, storing and safely preparing ground beef from the Meat Board Test Kitchens:

Selection

- One pound of ground beef provides about four 3-ounce cooked servings.
- Make meat selections last when shopping to ensure the beef stays as cold as possible. Choose packages that are cold and tightly wrapped without tears or punctures.
- Check the "sell by" date on the package label. Purchase before or on the date printed.

Storage

- To store in the refrigerator, place in meat keeper or in coldest part of the refrigerator (36 degrees F to 40 degrees F). Use within two days.
- Ground beef can be frozen in its original transparent packaging for up to two weeks. For longer storage, wrap ground beef tightly in heavy-duty aluminum foil, freezer paper or plastic freezer bags. Ground beef may be stored in the freezer for up to four months at 0 degrees F or lower. Label and date all packages and be sure to include the weight and-or number of serv-

Safety

- Defrost ground beef in the refrigerator to prevent bacterial growth. Allow about 24 hours to defrost a 1- to 1 1/2-inch thick package. Do not thaw ground beef at room temperature.
- Cook ground beef as soon as possible after thawing. Cook without interruption; partial cooking may encourage bacterial growth before cooking is com-

Rockets blast off, 31-6

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Westland John Glenn football coach Chuck Gordon prides his team on precision and timing, but not even a 17¹-hour delay in the starting time could prevent his Rockets from a smooth orbit.

Because of a power outage in the area, Friday night's Lakes Division opener at Irma Kionka Field was postponed until Saturday afternoon.

But that was no reprieve for Tim Gabel and his Livonia Stevenson Spartans, who couldn't slow down the Rockets in a 31-6 defeat.

Glenn is now 3-0 overall, while Stevenson, the defending Lakes Division champions in the Western Lakes Activities Association, fall to

"I'm really proud of the way we handled the distractions all week, starting with President (Bill) Clinton coming here on Tuesday, which delayed practice, and the electrical problem last night," Gordon said. "The only issue is that we had to be ready at 1 today, and our guys did

The state-ranked Rockets displayed a potent aerial game as 6 foot-6 junior quarterback Justin Berent was sharp, hitting 10 of 12 passes for 198 yards.

His primary targets were a pair of 6-3 seniors.

Lou Hartwig had five catches for 109 yards. David Jarrett contributed two receptions for 55 yards. Each also had long grabs of 43 yards.

"We worked very hard on our passing game all week," Gordon said. "We had been a little off the first couple of games, but today I thought we showed what we're capable of.

"A couple of times Justin found the second and third guys late. He audibled on one of those. He played a very complete game."

Of course, Berent got plenty of protection from the likes of his offensive line, which included Jason Sterioff, Marc Dugas, Bryan Schwesing, Rich Jordan, Eric Jachym, along with tight end Jon Becher.

"Those guys are very good up front and they blocked beautifully, Gordon said.

Glenn scored on four of its first five possessions to go up 28-0 at halftime.

Reggie Spearmon, a sophomore tailback, had touchdown runs of 4 and 8 yards. Berent added a 1-yard sneak and junior tailback Antonio Gibson contributed 1-yard scoring

Glenn kicker Steve Paling also had a big day, going 4-for-4 on extra points, intercepting a pass and tying.

Wayne shocks Monroe

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Lavelle Guess proved he could carry his weight, all 145 pounds of him, quite well.

The senior wide receiver and defensive back was instrumental in Wayne Memorial's 20-18 upset football victory Friday over visiting Monroe pitting two behemoths in a Mega-Red Division battle.

The slightly built Guess, a 6-footer, caught a pair of touchdown passes from his twin brother Lorenzo. He and his heavyweight Wayne teammates also came up big on a lastditch goal-line stand with just over a minute to play to secure the victory.

The win improves Wayne to 3-0 overall and 2-0 in the Mega-Red. State-ranked Monroe, home of the shock absorbers and General George Custer, fell to 2-1 overall and 1-1 in the division. Wayne held Fordson's bruising fullback, 6-foot-4, 245-pound senior Jovan Johnson to 87 net yards in 20 carries. It was only a week earlier that Johnson racked up 174 yards on the ground and 81 yards in receptions as Monroe drubbed perennial state power Dearborn Fordson, 33-"It's kind of hard tackling him (Johnson) because he's so big," said Lavelle Guess, who played cornerback. "You just have to go low and hold on.

We were keying on him the whole

Wayne coach Chuck Howton was also pleased with the way his team corraled the Trojan horse. "Our plan was to keep him under 100 yards," he said. "He got 87, but if he had gotten 89 we would have lost. We were fortunate to keep him under 100, but he did get it going in the second half." Leading 20-18, Wayne gambled on fourth-and-long, misfiring on a fakepunt attempt at the Monroe 31. With 5:58 to go, the Zebras found themselves in a precarious position. The Trojans marched all the way down to the Wayne 4, racking up four first downs, including a 14-yard run by Johnson.

The Monroe battering ram nearly got into the end zone, only to be clipped at the ankles by the diminutive Lavelle Guess.

Johnson then ran twice inside the 5, but gained only 2 net yards. Quarterback Aaron Moran then got stopped at the 3 on a keeper.

Faced with fourth-and-goal at the 3 with 1:10 to go, Monroe coach Ralph Carducci neglected a fieldgoal try to win it, instead calling on Moran to complete a game-winning

The strategy backfired when Moran, rolling out on the play, threw wildly to the end zone incom-

Wayne then ran out the clock for

"What this game came down to was a ton of mistakes, fumbles and penalties by us," Carducci said. "It's not that those guys (Wayne) are any tougher, we just beat ourselves. We didn't execute.

"And I'll take the blame for the fourth-and-shorts."

The Zebras also came up huge defensive stand at the end of the third quarter when Moran, on a rollout to the left on fourth-and-1 at the Wayne 9, was stuffed for a loss.

"We didn't overlook these guys." Carducci said. "They've got good athletes and good people. And they're a well-balanced team. Wayne came up big on defense. We didn't choke. They just came up tough a lot

If there's a team in the state any bigger up-front than Wayne, it has to be seen.

The Zebras contained Johnson with the likes of tackles Mike Metcalf (6-4, 275), William Laramie (6-0. 280) and Mel Gray (6-3, 265). Nose guard Ron Pennington (6-1, Livonia Churchill's bid to go to 2.0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and even its overall record after eight games was foiled Thursday against Farmington.

"We did a lot of things well, but didn't make our shots," Stevenson coach Wayne Henry said. If we made a few more free throws and converted our shots around the basket, then we win the game."

Gina Brooke netted a game-high 21 points for Western (1-1 in the WLAA).

Lindsay Withelm paced Stevenson with 14 points and six rebounds. The Spartans, who made only 15-of-27 free throw attempts, received nine points from Carolyn Courtright and eight points and five boards from Jackie McClowry.

If you want more than just the highlights these are the guys to turn to:

In Garden City and Redford-overing sports is challenging

We caught a glimpse of Steve Kowalski's sense of humor when he first told us why he enjoys doing what he is doing, "Coming home at three in the morning, paying for parking and hot dogs at the games..."

Then on a serious note he admits that it's the challenge that keeps him going, "Some of your sources are young, never been interviewed. It's fun and rewarding to do a good job." Steve knew that when he scored only four points in Junior Varsity Basketball during his own high school days, that he had a better chance writing about sports than playing them. He's done it so well that he's received awards for it; the most recent in 1994 from the Michigan Press Association in their "top game story" category.

In Livonia and Westland-about covering community sports, he told us, "The people we deal with, from the coaches to the student-athletes, they truly appreciate the coverage—we cover a good group of schools from the smallest to the

Brad began reading the major league box scores when he was still in grade school, wrote in high school and earned a degree in journalism from Franklin College in Indiana. He's been writing for your hometown newspapers since he graduated in 1977.

How does our coverage stack up? Brad says that unlike the metropolitan newspapers, "We cover a variety of prep sports and do it in-depth—both boys' and girls'. We're able to hit more than the highlights. We get to know nearly every high school coach and athletic director by their first names."

C.J. Risak is talking about SPORTS, of course.

When did he decide on sports reporting? "Early in my career, after being out in the real world. Sports is real, it's serious, but it's also fun."

One facet of the job C.J. especially enjoys is meeting people—the players and the coaches, "We get to know a lot of people first-hand," he said.

His enthusiasm and dedication is reflected in his writing. In 1994, he received a first place award from the industry for best sports column and second place for putting together the best sports section.

Stevenson boots out-manned Patriots

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

The Musco lights came on for the first-ever night athletic event Wednesday at Livonia Franklin.

But unfortunately it was lights out in the second half for the host Patriots, who gave up five unanswered goals in a 6-1 boys soccer loss to Livonia Stevenson.

The loss left Franklin at 5-4 overall, while Stevenson improved to 5-1.

"Stevenson is solid all the way around," Franklin coach Dave Hebestreit said. "They have no superstars, but they hustle a lot more than any recent Stevenson team I've seen.

"They're strong, and they have a lot of team speed. They're fast. And they have a good goalkeeper (Eric O'Neil). I like him."

Hebestreit, however, didn't like the way the game unfolded. The Patriots were abke to keep Stevenson off the board until 6:56 left in the first half when senior defender Scott Babinski scored on a penalty kick.

Franklin's Steve Finneran was whistled on the play for a handball and was promptly served a yellow card for protesting the Required to sit out 10 minutes due to the yellow, Finneran headed to the bench, but continued his verbal sparring with the referee. He was ultimately handed a red card, resulting in an automatic ejection.

"These are young kids and they were all hyped up since it was the first game under the lights," Hebestreit said. "But that put us a man down (the rest of the match) and we had two others out, one sick and another injured. You just can't play Stevenson in that condition."

Ironically, Franklin tied it up when senior defender Bill Wojtas, who was fouled on a rush by Stevenson senior defender Jason Roy, rifled a shot into the upper right corner of the Stevenson goal off a direct free kick from 20 yards away.

The shot came with less than two seconds left.

"In the first half everybody was mad at themselves for getting into a kickball game," Stevenson coach Walt Barrett said. "It was opening night for the lights and our guys pressured the ball hard, but it kind of made the game chaotic."

The Spartans, playing 11 on 10, got their power-play going in the second half led by senior midfielder Mark Dietrich, who pumped in three goals. Babinski also added his second and sophomore midfielder Sergio Mainella had the other.

Bart Mays and Jim Bullock each collected two assists, while

Bullock came on during the second half after sitting out the first 40 minutes because of disciplinary reasons. "He (Bullock) got us started," Barrett said. "He distributes well and got things going in the

"We just settled down in the second half. We played the ball, and not the opponent, and good things happened."

.HURON VALLEY 2, FAIRLANE 1: Sophomore defender Brian Johnson scored the game-winning goal off a corner kick, 1:32 into the second half, to give Westland Huron Valley Lutheran the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference victory at Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian. Jason Bytner's corner kick led to the game-winner for the Hawks, now 2-5-1 overall and 1-2 in the MIAC.

Adam Davidson scored Huron Valley's first goal at 36:19 of the opening half from Pat Hoepner Goalkeeper Jared Ridenour made six of seven saves.

Acura's first American-made luxury car measures up

By Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

It's been a decade since Acura introduced its first vehicle to Americans to become the first Japanese luxury import brand. And it's been first in import luxury sales for eight years straight. That means Acura's doing something right. And it continues on that road with the introduction of the 1997 Acura CL, the first true luxury car designed, engineered and manufactured by an import car company. Rich Thomas, Acura's executive vice president and general manager, said earlier this year _ that the CL series' introduction' makes perfect business and product sense for Acura.

Because the CL series is American researched, designed and manufactured, it further commits Acura's philosophy of building products where they're sold. It also helps in the everfluctuating yen-to-dollar exchange ratio.

The CL's North American parts content is 65 percent, and it's that's spirited and peppy when built at Honda of America you need it to be. It has been Manufacturing in East Liberty, mated to an easy-to-shift 5-speed Honda's first in American and is rating of 145.

ROAD

TEST By: Anne Fracassa

the first to manufacture an Acura on U.S. soil.

Company marketers see the $23,160 CL as bridging the gap between the performance-driven Integra and the TL Series of luxury sedans.

This 2-door sporty luxury coupe comes standard with a 2.2liter in-line 4-cylinder engine

The all-aluminum powerplant is a single overhead cam 16valve with Acura's own Variable Valve Timing and Lift Electronic Control (VTECH) system. The optional engine is a 3.0-liter V6. Both engines are made at the Anna Engine plant in Anna. Ohio. It's the first time Anna is building a V6, by the way. The V6 engine requires no tuneup for the 100,000 miles of normal operation.

The CL's smart styling is definitely Acura. Familial resemblance is certainly there, both inside and out. It also carries with it the refinements Acura automobiles are known for: Exceptionally high body rigidity; wonderful handling and response; an ultra quiet, comfy ride; a roomy interior; and ... oh, yes ... luxury all around.

This Acura was built for the American consumer — and it shows. It has everything you'd Ohio. The 7-year-old plant was manual and has a horsepower want, from luxury appointments. Safety is there, as well, with to its quiet ride and quick dual airbags, 3-point seat belts response on the throttle. And, in a strange way, it's even fun to drive.

The 2.2 CL tested had only one option: Floor mats that cost $100. It was, in my opinion, fully equipped.

Take a look at the standard equipment list: 4-wheel power assisted brakes, a 4-wheel double wishbone suspension, front and rear stabilizer bars, load-sensing power-assisted rack and pinion steering, gas-pressurized shock absorbers, keyless entry, theft deterrent, leather seats and door panels, a leather-wrapped steering wheel, tilt steering column, dual-illuminated vanity mirrors, intermittent wipers, remote trunk and fuel lid releases, power windows, power door locks, automatic climate control. cruise control, a power moonroof with tilt, driver's 6-way power seat, power door mirrors and 16inch aluminum alloy wheels.

and outboard rear passengers, anti-lock brakes, side impact door beams and front and rear crumple zones.

There's a really neat center opinions console with an armrest up front. The console can actually hold a whopping nine compact discs. Also up front is a wood-patterned dashboard and door trim, adding some class.

Standard — yes, standard — is a wonderful 6-speaker AM/FM stereo with in-dash compact disc player. It also has an anti-theft feature.

So what are the options? Leather interior and 4-speed automatic transmission. The automatic is standard with the 3.0-liter, though. That's pretty complete, I would say.

Acura sees the CL's primary competition coming from the BMW 318i and 325is and the Lexus SC300 and SC400.

Against them, this is a good product with strong features. With its impressive equipment list and abundant features, the CL is certain to enhance Acura's status as the No. 1-selling luxury import line in the U.S. in 1997.

Wild Bill captures 3rd senior crown

They call him Wild Bill.

That's a cool description of Rochester Hills bowler extraordinaire, Bill Haynes. He took his third National Senior Bowling Association title Sept. 7 at 300 Bowl in Waterford.

Bill found the lanes to his liking as he pow-TEN-PIN ered his way past Ralph Peckens of Fowlerville, 255-211, and Derek Smith Hicksville (Ohio), 252-204, in his first two matches of the finals. Haynes semifinal game went down to the

ALLEY

10th frame as he edged Randy Hall of Saginaw, 225-223, to set up the final match against Tom Heenan of Farmington Hills.

Both bowlers had to cope with changing lane conditions, but Wild Bill finally emerged victorious, 170-156. That gave him the title and a $1,200 first-place

Tom Heenan had to battle both the lanes and Bud Bogatay of Farmington Hills to get into the runner-up position, defeating Bogatay, 182-180, before taking care of his other opponents -- Bill Sellers of Temperance, 223-168, and Charles Lawrence of Detroit, 201-162.

Heenan earned a $600 check for his runner-up finish.

The N.S.B.A. is a nice format for senior bowlers, men or women age 50 and up to compete for good prize money in scratch competition.

They compete with other seniors with a separate division for super seniors age 60 or over. For further details or future scheduling locations, call (810)

932-LANE.

Dan Ottman of Troy will join the Budweiser Michigan Majors Bowling Association Hall of Fame along with Doug Evans in ceremonies at the Hawthorne Valley Country Club on Nov. 16.

Ottman received 47 points and Evans 42 points from the 12man election committee made up of sports writers and bowling dignitaries.

The other candidates on the ballot were Rick Eiermann of Garden City (35 points), Quintin Greene (34) and Ken Lang (24).

Ottman joined the Michigan Majors in 1979. He has won two titles, and finished second twice. Ottman has also served on the MMBA board of directors for 15 years. He has one 300 game in MMBA competition and has averaged 210 for his 794 games to date.

•Let's all give ourselves a big pat on the back for a job well done in signing the petition. If anyone has not already done so, please stop at any bowling center and ask at the counter.

With the huge numbers that are now signed and those many more signatures coming in from all over the state, we should catch the attention of the governor and the Michigan state legis-

We are exercising our rights in a democratic society to change the law, when the law is not right or being unfairly enforced as it is in the present situation.
