Warrant is sought in rape

By LEONARD POGER Westland police hope to obtain a warrant today or Friday for a suspect they feel raped an elderly woman in her home.

A tip from a 79-year-old rape victim led Westland police to a suspect whom they hope to charge today or Friday, officers said.

"The woman recognized his voice," said Detective Sgt. Terry Donohue Wednesday afternoon.

He said the suspect doesn't live in the victim's immediate neighborhood but about eight blocks

The suspect has done lawn maintenance work, he said, with a colleague saving the man is currently unemployed.

Detective Sgt. Michael Terry told the Observer Thursday morning that he had just started typing the request for a warrant for review by the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

If a warrant is approved, the 22-year-old Westland suspect, could be arraigned today or Friday.

Officers said the suspect, wearing ski mask, broke into a basement window about 5:30 a.m. Wednesday on the 7900 block of Randy, south of Ann Arbor Trail between Middlebelt and Merri-

The woman, who lives alone, heard a noise in the basement where she recently had a water heater repaired.

The suspect, Terry said, also took a small amount of cash from the woman.

He declined to comment on whether the suspect had any prior contact with the victim .Police Chief Emery Price said Wednesday that the victim's statement to police led police to the suspect.

Rockets to crown homecoming queen

Schools narrow gap in tests

Why?

"We're exploring that now," said Charlotte Sherman, executive director of secondary education.

Like students in many districts, Wayne-Westland pupils had difficulty with a new Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) science test given last school year to fifth- and eighth-graders.

Only 13 percent of local fifthgraders earned a proficient rating in science, compared to 26.9 percent of Officials hope to improve science scores with a new curriculum that is expected to be developed in the next year. Jane Kuckel, assistant superintendent of instruction, has said.

Wayne-Westland writing scores came much closer to state averages. "We were really pleased with the writing scores," Sherman said.

Results show that 52.4 percent of local fifth-graders earned a proficient rating in writing, slightly less than the 55.6 percent statewide average.

Among eighth-graders, 66 percent of Wayne-Westland students received a proficient rating in writing, compared to 69.1 percent of their counterparts statewide.

"Our students did very well," Kuckel said.

Perhaps more puzzling than the local-versus-state comparison is a Retired teachers win jury award

BY DARRELL CLEM

A jury's decision to award $1.1 million to nine former teachers who sued the Wayne-Westland school district is fueling fears that a flurry of similar lawsuits could follow.

School officials are nervously waiting to see if some 95 other educators will follow the lead of nine teachers who claimed the district deceived them with an early-retirement buyout in 1992.

In a lawsuit in which a Wayne County Circuit Court jury favored the retirees Thursday, the nine teachers contended that they accepted a $24,000 buyout after school officials offered a "one-time opportunity" in 1992.

But district officials offered the same plan the following year, a move that jurors deemed a breach of they claim they lost, and school officials now fear that other lawsuits will follow.

"It's disappointing," Dan Slee, assistant superintendent for employee services, said of the verdict. "I don't think those people were treated poorly by the school district."

The verdict comes as school officials already face a $5-million shortfall June 30, when a two-year, threemill tax expires.

Administration officials plan to discuss a possible appeal with school board members. Officials also may ask a judge to issue a summary judgment overturning the jury's decision, Slee said, although he conceded that such an approach could be a long shot.

Nominees wanted for First Citizen

The deadline is nearing to nominate people for the 11th annual First Citizen of Westland community service award.

The award will be announced in early November with the First Citizen to be publicly honored at the Westland Chamber of Commerce's monthly luncheon-program on Tuesday, Nov. 12.

The award will be awarded to someone who has donated time and energy to one or more groups and has made an impact on the quality of life in the community generally or a segment of the community, such as children, handicapped people or senior citizens.

Anyone who qualifies can be dominated by the Wednesday, Oct. 16, deadline. Residency isn't a requirement or factor.

In past years, the First Citizens have represented a wide range of activities, such as government, schools, business, scouting and recreation.

Past First Citizens have included Joseph Benyo, Thomas Brown, Sam Corrado, Linda Pratt, Sharon Scott, Margaret Harlow, Sue Price, and last year's winner Dennis LeMaitre.

The award was initiated in 1986 by its co-sponsors, the Westland Observer and the Westland chamber.

Purpose of the award is to honor a volunteer who has made an impact on the community or a segment of the city. Nominations should include as much specific information on the impact the nominee has had as possible.

Judges will meet in late October to review the nominations and pick the First Citizen.

Nominations may be either mailed to the Westland Observer Editorial Department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150 or faxed to 591-7279.

look at scores among individual Wayne-Westland schools. Huge disparities exist despite efforts to provide an equitable education for all students.

In fifth-grade science, Elliott posted the lowest marks with only 1.2 percent of students earning a proficient rating. Madison ranked highest with 33.3 percent, becoming the only local fifth-grade class to pass the 30-percent mark.

Other percentages for fifthgraders earning a proficiency rating were Edison (23.2); Hamilton (20.5); Roosevelt-McGrath (20.0); Graham (16.0); Hicks (14.9); Walker (13.3); Schweitzer (11.4); Patchin (10.9); Wildwood (10.4); Kettering (10.1); Hoover (9.8); Lincoln (7.0); Vandenberg (5.1); Taft-Galloway (3.0); and Jefferson-Barns

In eighth-grade science, Stevenson Middle School posted the highest percentage of students with a proficient rating. The school's 21.5 percent matched the state average.

Other percentages for eighthgraders earning a proficiency rating were Franklin Middle School (11.3); Adams (8.2) and Marshall (7.2).

In fifth-grade writing, Hamilton Elementary had the highest percentage of students earning a proficiency rating, with an 81.4 percent success rate that far outpaced the 55.6 percent statewide average.

Other percentages of fifthgraders who proved proficient in writing were Hicks (72.0); Graham (64.6); Edison (64.3); Wildwood (61.5); Schweitzer (59.8); Roosevelt-McGrath (58.6); Vandenberg (56.8); Madison (55.0); Hoover (50.0); Patchin (47.8); Kettering (46.6); Walker (40.4); Lincoln (40.0); Taft-Galloway (36.4); Elliott (30.9); and Jefferson-Barns (18.0).

Four tests passed: Jonathan Deane passed all four of the state-mandate proficiency tests given to high school juniors last March.

Strategies help

Federal and state laws mandate that schools go the extra mile for students with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and other disabilities.

At Grant, Emerson and Franklin, Jonathan did things that disrupted the class, exasperated teachers, and alienated his classmates.

ADHD students can be inattentive, impulsive, hyperactive, temperamental, intolerant, forgetful, strong-willed, argumentative and disorganized.

"His behaviors often did not allow him to be understood by the school," said Carolyn Deyell, Franklin teacher consultant. "He had a hard time sitting still. He would speak out of turn at times because he knew the answer and wanted the teacher to hear him. He lost his assignments and was very disorganized. These behaviors would get in his way and cause difficulties during the school day." The starting point for changing Jonathan's behavior was daily doses of Ritalin. The drug calmed him down enough so that his parents and teachers could work with him to change his destructive or annoying behav-

• Encourage them to fill out daily assignment sheets.

• Notify parents or counselor when they miss an assignment or are unusually disorganized.

• Give them a quiet place to take a test.

Jonathan spotlights Franklin teachers who have always gone the extra mile for him: math teachers James Rice and Margaret Weber; science teacher Mark Parish; and Robert Etue. special education teacher and coach who died last winter.

"Everyone's hard work has paid off for Jonathan," Deyell said.

Other accommodations made for ADHD students include:

• Giving them more time to organize their thoughts. • Giving them more time to take tests.

• Giving oral tests if they have trouble taking written tests.

• Letting students dictate their answer if they have trouble

• Breaking down tasks into smaller parts.

• Prioritizing their tasks. • Using tape recorders.

In recognizing all the extra miles Devell has walked for Jonathan, Franklin principal Michael Fenchel said: "We sometimes underestimate the importance of the support staff we have in our school buildings, the hall monitors, psychologists, social workers. They are easy budget cuts to make when times are tough.

"Yet, in reality, they play extremely important roles in ensuring the health, safety and welfare of our kids.'

At the end of his freshman year at Franklin High, Jann Deane looked at her son's poor academic record and feared the worse for his future.

At this rate, she thought, Jonathan Deane will be lucky to even graduate from high school.

Today, Jonathan (known as J.C.) thinks back to his freshman year and tells what went wrong. When he got to Franklin, he often forgot to take his Ritalin, a drug given to youth with Attention Deficiency-Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). For Jonathan, the result was failed classes and scholastic and personal chaos.

Today. Jonathan is proud to tell of his most recent achievement, a feat so great that it has his classmates buzzing. Jonathan is one of only 18 Franklin juniors who mastered all four state-mandated proficiency tests given to juniors in March. His GPA as a senior is just 2.7; his score on the college ACT is 22.

"I was shocked, when I beat all my friends. They all had higher GPAs and better work ethics. The way I act, they think I don't get good grades. Everybody said, 'J.C. passed, why didn't I?"

Jonathan is the talk of Franklin High in large part because he has two moms: his real mom who takes care of him at home, and his surrogate mom, teacher consultant Carolyn Devell, who takes care of him at school. "When he screws up, I'm the first one to know," Deyell said.

At the end of her son's disastrous freshman year, and following years of frustration dealing with a child diagnosed with ADHD as a Grant Elementary fourth grader, Jann student down and makes learning possible, Deane knew her son needed more help at

Through a friend, she heard about Deyell, who works with students with disabilities at Franklin.

"I heard she was an advocate, that she runs interference for these kids, because teachers often don't understand the problem. A big thing is making sure he gets his work done. Between the two of us, his work gets done."

Jonathan takes the controversial drug Ritalin twice a day, once in the morning at home and again in school. Devell gives him she does the same.

"Before, it was never the responsibility of our school to give children their medication," Devell said. "Now it is. The old attitude was, they're old enough, they can do it them-

Forgetfulness is one of the by-products of ADHD. When Jonathan as a freshman had to remember to take his medicine at school. he flunked royally.

But Deyell does much more than just hand out Ritalin. Part of her job has been to teach Jonathan strategies that help him work around his learning disorder.

She also works with teachers to make sure they do the techniques needed to teach a student who does not learn in the typical way (see accompanying story).

"The two most important things here are that he must be on the medication to learn these strategies, and we must involve the teachers," Devell said.

Jon and Jann Deane's acceptance of Ritalin for their son has made Deyell's task easier. Some parents who have children with ADHD refuse to give the drug, believing the child becomes over medicated and artificially sedated.

Some parents think Ritalin is humbug, a drug foisted on hyperactive children to keep peace in the classroom.

Others wonder what will happen once their child moves beyond the protective walls of the school. Does the drug become a lifelong medication?

A student with ADHD has trouble concentrating, learning new information, and demonstrating that lessons have been learned. The ADHD child has a short attention span, is hyperactive, and acts on impulse.

Before Ritalin, which calms the ADHD such students were often called troublemakers, made frequent trips to the principal's office, and sometimes were even kicked out of school.

Jonathan remembers his early years at Grant and all the troubles he used to get

"Teachers thought I was a problem student because I did things my own way. I got into fights. I was suspended in the first grade. Teachers were always calling my house. I tried to do my homework but I couldn't concentrate, I couldn't write. It took hours to do simple assignments. I didn't his second dose, one of 16 students for whom mean to be like that. I just was. I'd do things without thinking."

Well-meaning friends told the Deanes to clamp down on Jonathan to make him more disciplined., This included taking away his participation in sports.

The Deanes took Jonathan to specialists, getting him tested for a variety of conditions. People said he needed discipline, that I was an overindulgent parent. But I felt there was something physically wrong with him," Jann Deane said.

Finally, then-Grant principal Kent Gage recommended that Jonathan be tested for ADHD, a learning disorder just emerging into the national consciousness.

"The doctor diagnosed me as ADHD and put me on low dose Ritalin when I was about 9 or 10," Jonathan said. "I'm like a diabetic. If I don't take my medicine, all kinds of things can happen. If I'm running late and forget to take it, I get scatterbrained."

He has not been suspended since the seventh grade. But Jonathan's move from Emerson Middle School to Franklin still has repercussions on his academic record. Forgetting to take Ritalin and thus reverting to his hyperactive behavior, he flunked classes that he had to retake as a sophomore. Students know how tough it is to boost GPA when "F's" dot their record.

So, despite the fact that he took such tough classes as precalculus, inorganic. chemistry and molecular biology, he was always playing catch-up. With his 2.7 GPA; he has not made the Franklin Honor Roll.

No special accommodations were made for Jonathan when he took the four proficiency tests in March. He took the tests within the same 11-hour time frame as other juniors.

While he is not known as a "brain" at Franklin, Jonathan felt he would excel on the math and science tests and would sink on the reading and writing tests. When he learned two weeks ago that he had passed all four tests, he was as shocked as his classmates. English had been. one of his big failures as a freshman.

"I was totally shocked to find out I passed: it. My friends are better writers and more. creative. I have no creative ability. They didn't pass it, and I did."

Last week, Jonathan did something he has: long dreamed of doing. He sent his application to Michigan State University, the one school he wants to attend to study business.

Students do well in writing, not science

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

On the new state tests students took in March, Livonia Public Schools' fifth- and eighth-graders sailed through the writing test and stumbled on the science test.

The performance of students in the Livonia school district, which serves the northern section of Westland, followed the performance of students statewide, who got low scores on the revamped science Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) test and higher scores on the new MEAP writing test.

Generally, scores tumble when a new test is given. That's why the district's high scores on the writing test are so sweet.

Candidates split on vouchers, state academic standards

By Tim Richard Staff Writer

Two Democrats and a Republican running for the State Board of Education stuck together in opposing voucher aid to private schools and favoring mandatory academic standards.

Republican Louis Legg was joined by Democrats Herb Moyer and Marianne McGuire in supporting mainstream efforts of the 1980s and early '90s such as state standards and state money only for public schools.

They met Sept. 26 in a program sponsored by the Livonia branch of the American Association of University Women.

Vouchers

Moderator Yvonne Constas asked their views on vouchers, a proposed system under under which state money could follow students into private and parochial schools. The Michigan Constitution since 1970 has prohibited vouchers and parochiaid, but a petition drive to allow them is expected in 1997-98.

Lundy (R): "If we're talking parental choice, it's healthy. But the board vice-president, who supports most of president Clark Durant's views, insisted "it's not an issue in Michigan."

McGuire (D): Vouchers are a way of taking public money from public education. I have no problem with parents' sending children to private or parochial schools (at their own expense)."

Legg (R): "I'm not big on vouchers. Public money should go to public education."

Barnes (L): "It's another bureaucracy. I don't support vouchers." In closing remarks, she said, "We should lower the tax burden. We should not have to support public schools with tax dollars. Government has too much control."

Moyer (D) was unable to attend but sent a surrogate, Bill Hass: "Vouchers should not go to schools run by unelected offi-

Author, minister to discuss homeschool movement

Karl Reed, author of "The Bible, Homeschooling and the Law" will be featured from 2-4 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 5 in the Southfield Civic Center, Room 115, 26000 Evergreen Road, Southfield.

Pre-registration admission tickets are $5 per person and $7.50 for couples. Cost is $7.50 per person and $10 for couples at the the day of the event.

Reed is a native to the state of Washington and entered the ministry in 1965. Reed and his wife, Virginia, educate their nine children at home. That, in turn, led to the many issues Reed addressed in his book, "Our Reeds Grow Free," first published in 1984.

Reed now enjoys 24 grandchildren and is involved in the homeschool movement through his ministry.

Besides addressing homeschool groups and churches, sharing much needed insight on the subject of child training and education, Reed is very concerned about the passage of homeschool laws which greatly affects the future of homeschool-

Bill earmarks money for computers

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

State Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, wants to put $300 million worth of computers into K-4 classrooms in the next decade, and he has an idea where to get the money.

He would earmark 75 percent of the Michigan Renaissance Fund (formerly the Michigan Strategic Fund) for technology grants at the pace of $25 million a year.

But Gov. John Engler's appointees on the Renaissance Fund board have different ideas. According to Engler's office, the Renaissance Fund will go to:

■ "Loans to local communities for land assembly and land reclamation in support of specific economic development pro-

■ "Grants to the communities for infrastructure development for those projects."

Another line item

Engler dislikes Peters' bill because it amounts to "another line item" in the budget. The governor prefers to give school districts a lump sum and let them account to voters for how they spend it.

"Is the $11 billion we're spending (state school aid fund) adequate to educate 1.6 million kids?" Engler asked. "Mr. Peters, who has had strong support from the teachers union, would argue that if you put more money in, they could have higher salaries. If you put in more for computers, it would free up more for wages.

"It's all part of the negotiation process. It's neither right nor

"I believe our approach has been sound in that we get rid of all these line items and say to the school board, the school community, here's the money; you decide.

"But there are people - Sen. Peters is one. President Clinton's another - who believe that government, being all-knowing, should take funds and earmark them for specific little purposes.

"We had over 100 categorical programs in our school aid bill (prior to Proposal A of 1994) that virtually no one understood except a handful of people in the Legislature. We've gotten rid of that. They (school districts) now have to evaluate how they do business."

Fund was used to push new industry. Some $55 million is aimed at the new Detroit Tigers stadium. Unlike the Strategic Fund, which made direct loans to companies, the Renaissance Fund will go to local governments.

Source of funds remains the same: casino slot machines.

Change focus

Peters, a first-term senator, told a news conference Sept. 25 that a better use yet would be computers for kindergarten through fourth grade, until a ratio of one per five students is reached.

"Our focus in delivering public education has been charter schools and vouchers." Peters said. "It should be technology. Technology has resulted in dramatic improvement in tests scores, reduced truancy and lower dropout rates." he said. citing Romulus, Cincinnati, and Willow Grove, Ill.

"The (federal) General Accounting Office ranks Michigan 44th of the 50 states in use of computers in classrooms. We're at the bottom of every category (such as software). Ohio is investing $400 million, primarily in the elementary grades.

"The biggest bang for the buck Previously the Renaissance you can get is in the early grades. It's the opposite of what most schools do. It leverages teachers in math, reading and writing."

> He expects his proposal to become an election issue. Just drafted, the bill so far doesn't have a number.

As Peters views it, teachers could group students by ability in clusters of five and let each group work at its own pace. "The teacher becomes a coach rather than a lecturer at the blackboard, with half the students wanting to go faster, half slower and most of them bored."

Half the money would be used on training teachers and acquiring software, half on equipment. It sets up a "public school technology and infrastructure improvement fund" within the Renaissance Fund act.

Joining Peters to endorse the measure were representatives of the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals, Michigan Elementary and Middle School Principals Association, Michigan Association of School Administrators, PTA, the Michigan State University Department of Education Administration, Michigan Association of Intermediate School Administrators and Michigan Federation of Teachers.

Habitat for Humanity seeks local volunteers working poor to Western Wayne County.

The recently formed Western Wayne-Habitat began construction on its first house, located at Middlebelt and Cherry Hill in Inkster on Saturday.

Volunteer labor and taxdeductible donations will help Western Wayne-Habitat build and rehabilitate houses in Western Wayne County. Each house will cost about $40,000 to $50,000 and will be sold to selected families with interest free mortgages. Selected families also are required to invest "sweat equity" hours in the construction of their own home or the home of another partner family.

Program aims to get students ready for work

BY CASKY HANS STAPP WRITER

Soon, students from Plymouth Salem High School may have a chance to visit the Canton-based manufacturer Metaltec, where they will spend a day getting a "snapshot" view of the steel abrasives business from the sales office to the manufacturing floor.

The plan is to give them a real-life experience of what they can expect in the workplace when they graduate.

"Our hope is to open the eyes of these students . . . that you have to get an education," said Marty Schendel, director of quality and manufacturing at Metaltec, and coordinator of the project for his company. It's all part of a project funded through an initiative called the Wayne County School-to-Work Partnership, a 3-year project designed to bring the work world alive for area students, and encourage businesses to have a say in teaching the skills needed

The partnership has worked since its implementation in January of 1995 to encourage various business and education projects including job shadowing at Garden City High School, teaching international trade at Livonia's Frost Middle School and setting up a working newsroom at Stevenson Middle School in

For years we considered voc ed the 'employment readled' classes. Now every class has the potential - English, history, science and all academic areas.'

> Susan Everitt -Employment and Training Designs

The idea is to bring work skills into every facet of the classroom, to give area businesses the type of employable workers they will need in the future.

"For years we considered voc ed the 'employment readied' classes," said Susan Everitt of the Livonia-based Employment and Training Designs, "Now every class has the potential -English, history, science and all academic areas."

Composed of education and business/community leaders from throughout out-Wayne County, the 23-member Partnership Board of Directors was formed as the county-level agency to implement the school-towork initiative for all of Wavne County, except for the city of Detroit which has its own school-to-work board and program. Of the $1.7 million currently available to fund grants and other projects, $750,000 has already been awarded. More funding is expected to be allocated in October.

The partnership's slogan is "Partners for Lifelong Earnings," which was designed to get away from the words "career" and "job," which sometimes imply "professional" versus "industrial," Everitt said. "Everyone has 'earnings'," she added. Some 25 businesses and 130 teachers and educators including the Metaltec/Salem team - participated in a summer internship funded by the partnership. From the Observer area, six educators from Garden City, one from Livonia, five from the Plymouth-Canton schools, two from Redford Union and eight from Wayne-Westland teamed with businesses to do specific projects and with some beginning ongoing partnerships. Over the summer, teachers teamed with business leaders on various projects, gathering information that they will take back into the classroom.

Plymouth Salem counselor June Swartz spent time at Metaltec this summer, where the joint effort produced a 14-minute videotape that will be used to inform students about working in a basic manufacturing company. The video will be showed to ninth graders at the high school as part of that grade's career

"It was a wonderful opportunity to link firsthand with business." Swartz said, adding that the Plymouth Canton schools have had a business/school partnership program in place for some time. "This was another link, another extension.

"And business gains. They end up with a product — our students. They can team with us, and tell us about what they need. There's a lot both sides can

She said while business is seeking employees with specific skills, educators are seeking ways to teach useful information that students can use to build their futures. "The worker of the future is very different than the worker of 20 years ago." she said. "We (the schools) are the link to the world. What I like about the school-business partnership, is that we're all taking responsibility."

Metaltec's Schendel said his hope is that students will have a one-day experience in the workplace, where they can learn all aspects of the business, and that they will pull other local businesses into the process. He also wants the ongoing partnership to also involve other businesses to help bring the workplace into Everitt said that although the partnership is a 3-year project, the hope is that the business/school partnerships will take on their own momentum, and continue once the grant money has run out.

Family court is next step toward single trial court

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler will sign into law a bill creating a new "family court" to handle work that used to be spread around three different kinds of

It's a step toward unification of Michigan's circuit, probate and district courts into a single "trial court."

The "family court" would be a division of circuit court, which currently handles divorce and child custody cases.

The change would gut many of the juvenile functions of probate court, leaving probate custody only of estate cases. Probate courts cannot be abolished entirely, however, except by voter approval of a state constitutional amendment.

"It'll help us use judicial resources to the maximum," Engler said Sept. 26 in an interview with this newspaper. "We're at a point where judicial costs have been rising. We pay people well to be on the bench. We want to make sure we get rid of case backlogs.

"We want to eliminate features of the current court system which are not userfriendly. Currently, if you're in a divorce, that's done by the circuit court; but if there's an abuse and neglect issue. that's done in the probate court. There's too much 'What court is it?'

"The family court devised by the Legislature is a step in the right direction.

"For 20 years I've heard people talk about court reiorm and reorganization. While we waited for the legal community and the judiciary to come to grips with it, we've done nothing. The Legislature finally reached the point where patience had run out, and they acted," Engler said.

The governor for several years had threatened to veto the creation of new judgeships in suburban Oakland, Wayne and Washtenaw counties until courts were reorganized.

"I just felt very strongly we shouldn't be authorizing new judges until we saw what the system would look like."

Engler said "there's consid-

Opponents gave a variety of reasons.

"Creating a family court is not an easy task," said Rep. Mary Schroer, D-Ann Arbor. "There is a lot of turf involved and a lot of egos involved here." Her amendment to delay implementation by one year, to 1999, was rejected.

Rep. David Jaye, R-Utica, said no "because it authorizes a $5,000 pay increase for 308 Michigan district and probate court judges who currently make $104,900. This $5,000 pay increase is in addition to the judges' getting a 3 percent pay increase in 1995 and another 3 percent pay increase in 1996.'

Suit will fail

Engler predicted the city of Detroit's suit over funding of the 36th District Court - the only one in the state not funded by a local unit - "will fail on its merits, if not at the initial (trial) court, then at the appellate level.

"It's a petition for more money. I think both Detroit and Wayne County have been treated fairly on court reorganization," he said.

Suburban and outstate district courts are funded by cities and townships or counties. The state Supreme Court ruled against a lawsuit by cities and counties to get equal state funding for their

Team fighting auto theft wins national award

BY LEANNE ROGERS

Members of the Western Wayne Auto Theft unit recently received a national award for their efforts and a $1,000 donation to an area charity.

The award was presented in August at the International Association of Auto Theft Investigators meeting. Recognized was the unit's efforts investigating a Metro Detroit area auto theft ring.

Specifically the award went to Michigan State Police Lt. David Gentry, Van Buren Township Police Detective Robert Greene. Detroit Police Detective Larry Fortier and Dennis Bielskis, a retired Detroit police officer who works for the National Insurance Crime Bureau.

The 3M Corp., which produces the mylar labels used to mark many automotive components with the vehicle indentification number, sponsors the award.

"The award goes to officers who develop a case using information contained on the mylar labels," said Gentry. "The award is given out once a year. I'm not aware of anyone in Michigan being given the award. The FBI has received the award before and I think they applied this year."

The labels are a high tech material, Gentry said, which

"The labels help us identify stolen material so we can get it back to the owner and we'll know it was part of a stolen car." said Gentry. "It's a real good system. We've identified a lot of cars with parts that shouldn't have been there or at least recovered and resold."

The ongoing investigation for which the unit received the award involved a group stealing popular expensive vehicles. The stolen vehicles would be "surgically stripped" and the frame abandoned.

Gentry expects eight or nine people to face in excess of 23 criminals counts stemming from the investigation.

Once a vehicle frame was recovered and the thieves would buy it with a salvage title, put it back together and obtain a clear title.

As Gentry noted, it's not just illegal to possess a stolen vehicle - it's also illegal to have stolen parts on a legally owned vehicle.

In the area of auto thefts, the insurance industry provides assistance through agents such as Bielskis. Agents of the National Insurance Crime Bureau, often retired police officers or security investigators, investigate possible insurance frauds in areas such as thefts and workmen's compensation claims.

"We work with them a lot. Dennis (Bielskis) is especially useful. He's an expert at identifying cars," said Gentry. "If we can't find VINs we call him. He can go after hidden numbers we can't find." The best part of the award, which included a crystal bowl, ocal voters are reading and watching media reports daily of what President Bill Clinton and challenger Robert Dole are doing to win votes on Nov. 5.

House race

Voters should look at 2 foes

On a slightly lower level, local voters are frequently exposed to what U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, Michigan Democrat, and GOP nominee Ronna Romney are doing.

As in the presidential race, there are debates scheduled for TV viewers so voters can watch the candidates, hear their answers to questions and later make a decision on whom to vote for in four weeks.

But on another level, local voters will have to make a decision on another important race: the 13th Congressional District representative.

Campaigning to convince voters they are the best choice are U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, an Ann Arbor Democrat seeking her second two-year term, and Joseph Fitzsimmons, an Ann Arbor Republican who is stressing his common sense platform of tax cuts and a balanced budgets.

They are more accessible and visible to most voters than the presidential and senate candidates, which gives residents an excellent chance to see Rivers and/or Fitzsimmons close up and in person.

Both are stepping the number of appearances in western Wayne County.

Hopefully, residents will take advantage of the candidates' upcoming appearances to see them in person and make informed and intelligent decisions in four weeks.

Both will appear at the Westland Chamber of Commerce luncheon-program at noon next Tuesday, Oct. 8, in the Hellenic Cultural Center, on Joy between Wayne Road and Newburgh. (Required reservations may be made by calling the chamber, 326-7222.)

Fitzsimmons and Rivers will be at the Canton Economic Club luncheon/program at noon Wednesday, Oct. 16, in the Summit on the Park, Palmer near Canton Center Road. For reservations, call 981-3002. Lunch is $15.

Panelists representing local government, health care, business and social services will pose questions. The program will be moderated by Tim Richard of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

The two nominees will be on the same platform the next night for the Garden City Business and Professional Women's dinner/program, to start 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 17, in the Medical Office Building, adjacent to Garden City Hospital, on Inkster Road at Maplewood.

The candidates will discuss health care reform.

The program is open to the public with doors to open at 6 p.m. A $5 donation will be asked at the door with proceeds to benefit the First Step organization, which provides programs, services and a shelter for abused women.

For information or reservations, contact Anne Schaeffer at 427-1359.

For updated schedules of appearances, voters may contact Rivers' campaign offices in Ann Arbor at (313) 665-5115 or Westland, 728-DEMS, or the Fitzsimmons Ann Arbor office at (313) 971-9696.

Both candidates also have offices which are convenient for local residents. Fitzsimmons has a storefront office on Wayne Road just north of Ford. Rivers' office is located in a strip mall on the southwest corner of Cherry. Hill and Venoy.

Response knocked

In response to the negative letter written by Bob Carr about (U.S. Rep.) Lynn Rivers, this is no surprise to me as it's a typical Republican approach to degrade anyone with any credibility. They have nothing they can run on. They haven't done a thing in their history for working people so they stoop to attacking someone personally or their family.

Do I think Lynn Rivers is qualified? Yes, I do. She has served her community for many years on the Ann Arbor school board and two years in Congress, she has served well and can be trusted.

Arlene McMonagle Westland

Rivers blasted

When a person is elected to office in government, that person bears a responsibility to the general public to protect the needs and relieve the concerns of the community.

Because of the power accompanying a government office, few politicians have the character and courage to keep their promises and to place the needs of the community above political gain.

Joe Fitzsimmons (Republican nominee for Congress) has character. (U.S. Rep.) Lynn Rivers has a personal, political agenda.

Fitzsimmons believes we can cut taxes and

This belief is well-founded on years and years of economic research. It is common sense in the business community that lower taxes equal greater spending and more economic growth. She is afraid that the government won't be able to afford a tax cut. Her faulty argument rests on the misguided assumption that the money is the government's to begin with.

Lynn Rivers has forgotten that tax money belongs to hard-working families and businesses of the country.

Nothing saddened Joe and his supporters more than Lynn Rivers' support for late-term abortions

There is no question that our country is greatly divided over the issue of abortion.

However, the vote on late-term abortions was not a question of the woman's right to choose, but rather a question of right and wrong.

Lynn Rivers is wrong to support the removal and disposal of viable, living human beings in a waste-like manner. She is wrong to support a process that several leading members of the medical community claim is closer to "homicide" than to "surgery."

Lynn Rivers voted her personal opinion and disappointed her entire community.

Whether she supports removing living human beings from their mothers' wombs or money from the pockets of hard-working families, Lynn Rivers is working against the community.

Joe Fitzsimmons, on the other hand, wants to serve the community as he has done since he was a child.

He supports banning late-term abortions and wants parents of working families to keep their money.

In the private sectors of the community, Fitzsimmons has proven his ability to stand up for what is right.

More importantly, he cares about the direction of our country.

Michael Navratil
Ann Arbor

Rivers supported

n response to the letter from Bob Carr, I offer the following as to Lynn Rivers' qualifications for Congress:

She is the ultimate poster child for free enterprise. From Tupperware lady to member of Congress. all about pulling yourself up by the bootstraps.

Lynn Rivers is more than qualified to vote on issues that affect real people – working people, veterans, homeowners, families with schoolchildren.

She can readily identify issues that affect the majority of folks, struggling to get by on a day-to-day basis.

Life is a learning process and I would have my representative in Congress voting on issues that affect real people with a background like Lynn Rivers.

CEOs of large companies like (Republican nominee) Joseph Fitzsimmons tend to think of employees as numbers, not real people, especially when they lay off employees or cut out benefits.

Who will provide bootstraps?

ow that President Clinton and the Republican controlled Congress have agreed to a welfare reform bill that ends "welfare as we know it," we must still find ways of dealing with the problems that welfare was created to ease in the first place.

The problem, as Jesse Jackson has noted, has never been welfare. The problem is poverty and the conditions that cause poverty and cause the economic isolation of certain groups within our economy. A disproportionate percentage of blacks and Hispanics live in poverty and have benefited from federally backed assistance programs.

Any welfare reform must find realistic ways to move the employable to jobs that pay meaningful wages, provides for children even when welfare payments end and provides for those who are unemployable.

Conservatives and liberals have reached a consensus that the welfare system didn't work. Rather than assisting families during extended unemployment and helping them become employed, the system instead created generations of "welfare families" for whom employment was never a realistic goal.

The system also created a self perpetuating bureaucracy more interested in maintaining a seriously flawed system than helping the poor move up economically. The system was both crippling and patronizing.

The new law requires that no family be on welfare for more than five years in a lifetime and that all welfare recipients find work in two years. It also shifts development and management of assistance money and programs to the states through block grants.

Gov. John Engler has made welfare a touchstone of his administration and has been a national leader on the federal welfare reform efforts.

Project Zero is the first initiative of Engler's To Strengthen Michigan Families program. The project targets six areas, including one in Detroit and one in Romulus/Wayne. The first phase begun last spring was to gather demographic and other information on welfare recipients. The second phase is to create programs that move recipients into employment.

These are laudable goals. But, as a recent New York Times report has shown, moving long term welfare families into work situations is not just a matter of "job training." Robert T. Jones, president and chief executive officer of the National Alliance of Business, was quoted in the New York Times as saying "Business is not in the business of providing jobs for welfare recipients."

He is wrong. The business community has an ethical responsibility to answer President Clinton's challenge. If welfare was wrong, then we must create an economic system that provides realistic opportunity for everyone.

Project Zero and similar state initiatives are a first step. But all state governments and private enterprise must find realistic approaches to giving people the bootstraps to pull themselves from poverty or we will soon be under pressure to return to welfare as we knew it.

OUR MISSION: "Because we publish community newspapers, we think about community journalism in a fundamentally different way than our bigger competition. Problem of Social Security is not recipients

Lots of attention has been given recently to Social Security. Questions have been raised: Will workers retiring today ... get their money back from Social Security? Would they be better off ifthey invested on their own? Why does government spend Social Security monies on unrelated, mostly wasteful projects? How will baby boomers retiring after 2012 fare under social security?

Let us look at some facts. A maximum-earning worker who retired in 1995, at 65, had accumulated in the SS Fund about $240,000 that is his and his employer's contributions, plus interest, all combined.

It will take 25.6 years before he gets his money back in benefits. Correspondingly, it will take 47.1 years for a baby boomer retiring in 2015, at 66 to retrieve the money. In reality, not many live that long. Average life expectancy for men is 71.6 years. Many workers don't live long enough to receive any SS benefits.

If the Social Security faces insolvency in the year 2030, that certainly is not because its beneficiaries will be getting back too much of their own money.

The average monthly SS benefit in 1995 was $698, that is $8,376 a year; well below poverty level. In comparison, a single ADC parent with two children gets cash, food stamps, and other benefits averaging total about $38,000. The cost of incarceration of a single prisoner approaches $40,000.

Let us take as an example a retired worker I happen to know. His, and contributions on his behalf to the SS Fund amounted to less than $240,000, but it was a considerable sum. Now, his SS benefits are barely interest on these contributions. Of these, about 65 percent is returned to federal, state, and local governments in the form of all kinds of taxes.

On the balance, what he is getting is a fraction of the interest his contributions to the SS Fund are earning.

Retired workers established their eligibility for SS benefits through their work and contributions, that is, after-tax premiums they paid toward their Social Security pension insurance. These premiums were identified on their pay stubs as FICA - Federal Insurance Contributing Act.

GUEST COLUMNIST

JOSEPH WIRA

Social Security insurance premiums of present workers would not be needed for payments of retirees' benefits if the government did not squander, over the years, SS funds on unrelated, mostly unworthy causes, and is still doing it. There seems to an erroneous notion that only the elderly are receiving SS benefits. Millions of young people, disabled and not so disabled, are Social Security beneficiaries, even though many of them contributed not a dime to the SS fund.

The Social Security Trust Fund has now a huge reserve. The surplus of $70 billion is added to this reserve every year. In 1999 this yearly surplus will be $100 billion dollars. In the year 2020 the SS Trust Fund is projected to reach $3 trillion.

There is no reason, good enough, to either do away with, or degrade the Social Security. Those advocating it, some millionaires in the U.S. Senate and the like elsewhere, are, no doubt, well provided for their retirement, and obviously have not much use for the measly $8,376 dollars, the average yearly benefit SS recipients get from their own contributed monies.

While politicians in Congress scheme and debate whether to reduce, or even eliminate entirely Social Security benefits for our own people, they, every year give away $30 billion, or thereabout (almost half of the $70 billion SS surplus), to foreign countries, the so-called foreign aid, so that people there have their Social Security benefits and good life, courtesy of the politicians, but indirectly at the expense of our own SS beneficiaries.

Much unfounded argument, most often offered by present day thinkers, for downgrading the Social Security is a prediction that when the huge baby boom workers retire in 2010, Social Security will be unsustainable in its present form. This prognostication somehow doesn't square well with another prediction that SS Trust Fund will reach nearly $3 trillion in 2020.

According to former Commissioner on Aging William D. Behill, "Social Security, a self-financed program, has a huge budget surplus, and is currently financed to assure payments of benefits through the year 2036."

If only we discontinue giving away half of the yearly Social Security surplus to foreign countries, perhaps this date could be extended through the year 2100, or even further.

Like their parents and grandparents, baby boom workers are establishing eligibility for their Social Security benefits by paying SS insurance premiums which are deducted from their earnings. The government, manager of the SS Trust Fund, should see to it that when the time comes, they shall receive what is rightly due to them; what is their own.

An indicator exists of Gov. Engler's future sermons

To know what John Engler will preach tomorrow, read the Mackinac Center's stuff today. The correlation isn't perfect, but it's a wise way to bet.

Mackinac Center, the ideology-peddling machine in Midland, is pushing vouchers, hard. Vouchers are gimmicks to line the pockets of private and parochial schools with taxpayer money. The gimmick is to call it "parental choice," or "family choice" or some other propaganda term.

Mackinac Center's Lawrence Reed issued an essay in September arguing: "Michigan has made historic progress on the road to education reform. But that road is nearing a dead-end. Children deserve so much more, but if Article VIII Section 2 (of the Michigan Constitution) stays on the books, Michigan may lose its status as a reform leader and become the nation's laggard instead."

Students of propaganda will notice familiar techniques: live children versus the abstract Article VIII Section 2. Get on the bandwagon and be a leader instead of a laggard.

Reed describes the voter-approved section of the state constitution as "language more restrictive than that of any other state constitution" in the U.S. He does not mention that Michigan was the first state to constitutionally guarantee a free public education. Reed wants to shame us into feeling like "laggards" if we don't give taxpayer money to private schools.

"It's time," said Reed, to strip out that constitutional protection. Paul DeWeese, the Lansing physician who's in one anti-public school organization or another, says the same. GOP figures like Betsy DeVos and Sharon Wise are preaching the line.

A petition drive to change the Michigan Constitution is probable, possibly in 1997.

The governor denies it. A petition drive? "It doesn't exist," Engler said last week, dodging the question of whether it will exist in a year or two. "I have not seen a petition," he went on, as if his seeing it were necessary for it to exist.

"The Legislature will not put it on the ballot," he predicted, probably correctly. Everyone knows the voucher gang doesn't have two-thirds support in either chamber and that it will take a petition drive to put vouchers on the 1998 ballot.

"Straw man ... classic red herring," Engler said of the strong and persistent rumblings that a petition drive is brewing.

The strategy has been clear for about three years. Water down the core curriculum and educator standards. Institute as many little programs as possible that put public money into private hands. Smear the remaining constitutional restriction as hampering poor children, families and choice. Some steps:

• Most folks overlooked it, but the voucher forces, led by Sen. Doug Carl, R-Macomb County, won a big victory in the teen driver licensing act. First, they removed the requirement that public schools offer driver ed. Then they allowed a voucher system to send public money to private driving schools.

 Rep. Jessie Dalman, R-Holland, had a bill to let high school students take advance work in colleges – not just community colleges but private colleges, too.

• Charter academies were supposed to encourage innovation in public schools. Instead, private schools are lining up at the charter trough.

• Then there was the claptrap about alternative teacher certification. The purpose of weakening teacher certification is to give the minister's brother in-law a job.

The voucher battle is coming. And the prize is money, not good schooling for kids.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Learning can be measured

Last spring, 11th-graders across Michigan took the new High School Proficiency Tests, designed to evaluate what kids actually learned in math, science, reading and writing.

The Michigan Department of Education released the results a couple of weeks ago.

Although you'll have read the results for your local school district in this newspaper, the statewide average outcomes caused much handwringing:

- Math: 47.7 percent "proficient," 38 "novice," 14.3 below.
- Science: 32 percent "proficient," 52.2 "novice," 15.8 below.
- Reading: 40.2 percent "proficient," 51.3 "novice," 8.5 below.
- Writing: 34.4 percent "proficient," 53.1 "novice," 12.5 below.

Less than half of the Michigan kids who took the test were judged "proficient." Obviously, there's lots of work to do.

But embedded in the dry language of the Education Department handout — "The tests set expectations for Michigan teachers and students, will bring about curricular change, and alter instructional practice" — lies the good news.

For the first time in history, there now exists a solid, tough, quantifiable set of benchmarks against which to measure what our kids actually learn in school. Wonderful!

Newspapers like this one will print the results, school district by school district.

Parents, concerned about poor scores, will get in the faces of teachers and administrators.

Teaching methods, textbooks, expectations—all will change. Kids will gradually discover that getting good scores will affect their odds of getting into college or finding a good job.

It wasn't easy. Originally, reformers who urged benchmark assessments were shunned by all sides. Teachers (and more than a few parents) claimed that one statewide standard assessment system couldn't possibly be fair to their little darlings.

Administrators complained that uniform statewide assessments would hurt local control. The religious right maintained that setting education standards was an anti-religious plot.

Never mind. School reform isn't rocket science.

You define what you - parents, employers, society - expect educated children to learn in school.

You then measure what in fact they do learn

PHILIP POWER

You then put pressure on the system to change, improve teaching, get better books and more computers.

Then you assess again. Seems pretty straightforward.

After years of passivity in the face of declining worker skills, business is finally waking up.

The members of a group called Michigan Business Leaders for Educational Excellence (MBLEE) – including the Big 3 automakers, Dow Chemical, Kmart, Comerica, the University of Michigan – employ 500,000 of the state's 4.4 million workers.

MBLEE director Jim Sandy said:

"For years we assumed that any child completing 13 years of school would be equipped with these skills (math, science, reading and writing).

"Unfortunately, we were wrong, but these tests and the endorsed diplomas will send the message that these skills are necessary and important."

Of course, one set of test results does not a reformed school system make. It remains to be seen how rapidly an endorsed diploma will make a difference in college admissions or in the minds of personnel managers.

And the chasm between results from inner city schools and others, mostly suburban, is enormous and appalling. But at long last the process has started.

We should all be grateful to the 93,000 Michigan 11th-graders who sat through 11 to 14 hours of proficiency testing last spring.

They helped make history.

Who's giving out my name?

It's that time of year again — the Catalogsare-Stuffing-the-Mailboxes-across-the-Land time. Like autumn leaves crammed in gutters, mail order catalogs are crammed into post office boxes, mailboxes, mail slots, mail rooms. They're everywhere. Glossy, colorful, lots of them bulky and cut-throat competitive. And there's so many of them. How can that be?

Now, it seems to me there was a time when only one, maybe two, catalogs came to my house. This was years ago when I was first married. But now, 15 years later, there's a flood. I don't know if it's because there are so many more mail order businesses these days? Or maybe after I ordered that first item a long time ago, my name was fed into a "system."

If that's the case, it's one scary "system." It's out of control; it's a monster. And no matter what I do, the system keeps launching catalogs my way, and not just the original ones I once long ago ordered from, but more, different ones, and so-far-off-the-mark ones that I hope the mailman isn't paying much attention to what he's delivering because if he did, there might be FBI investigations.

Arsenal catalogs? Me? How did they get my name? I've thought about this and I can't come up with anything, except maybe the man's sweater I ordered for a Christmas gift that one

Comerica 'banks' on Goodwill's training

Hearing impaired
Sandy Cleary needed help developing work skills. She got it through a helping hand relationship between Comerica Bank and Goodwill Industries of Greater

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

When Sandy Cleary needed to develop work skills to find employment, the helping-hand relationship between Comerica

Bank and Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit provided the key.

After completing a six-month proof encoding course at Goodwill on equipment provided by Comerica, the hearing impaired Westland resident was hired to work in the check processing area at the bank's Livonia Operation Center in February 1995. A divorced mother of two teenage sons, Cleary works 30 to 35 hours a week doing three different jobs at her computer station.

"I was used to the TDD (a device used in making telephone calls through the Michigan Relay System) for the deaf and I was interested in that type of work," said Cleary during an interview interpreted by May Booth of the Deaf & Hearing Impaired Services in Farmington Hills.

As Cleary sits entering the required 8,500 keystrokes per hour, it is apparent that she gained more than work skills from the partnering

Junior League programs to focus on date violence

As many as one out of every three high school and college youth experience violence in their intimate or dating relationships.

In several studies, teens have reported that conflicts about sex often led to violence. In one study, 25 percent of the high school students told no one, 26 percent told their parents and 66 percent reported the abuse to

With that in mind, two programs on dating violence to help teens and their parents recognize the early warning signs that lead to dating violence will be offered this month in conjunction with National Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

The programs, which are free and open to the public, are cosponsored by the Junior League of Ann Arbor, Parke-Davis Pharmaceutical Research and Borders Books and Music.

The "Parent Information Evening" will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9, at Greenhills School, 850 Greenhills Dr., Ann

Barrie Levy, a nationally renowned expert on the subject of dating violence will address the audience and lead an open discussion on teen dating vio-

Levy is the author of "In Love and In Danger: A Teen's Guide to Breaking Free of Abusive Relationships" and several other books on the subject.

Levy, who teaches at the School of Social Welfare, University of California - Los Angeles, has been active in the movement against dating violence for more than 20 years. She will discuss the warning signs of dating violence for parents to be aware of

in their teen's dating relationships.

According to Levy, too often teens are not aware that they are in an abusive relationship until it escalates to violence. Many young women believe a boyfriend's controlling behavior indicates his love for her when it actually may be an early sign of an abusive relationship. In fact, the majority (47-86 percent) of violence occurs during the steady or serious dating phase of a relationship.

The second program, "In Love and in Danger - Dating Violence: Is Your Teenager at Risk?," will be at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, at the Michigan ner Jr. of the Washington Post, Theater, 603 E. Liberty, Ann

The program will include the premiere of "In Love and In Danger." a documentary video on dating violence. The 12-minute video provides an overview on dating violence - its prevalence and implications for young women.

Produced by the Junior League, the video features a victim of dating violence who tells her story, and experts who provide a perspective on the cycle of dating violence.

Speakers at the premiere. include Levy and George Lard-

Pulitzer Prize winner for a series of articles on the murder of his daughter as the result of dating violence; and Susan Murphy-Milano, founder of the Chicagobased Project: Protect, a nonprofit agency dedicated to helping victims of stalking and domestic violence, and author of "Defending Our Lives."

The Silent Witness Exhibit will also be on display at the Michigan Theater. The exhibit of wooden silhouettes depicts Michigan women who were victims of dating violence. For more information, call (313) 996-8818.

time, from a regular kind of catalog. The sweater is described as being, "rugged and tough. Available in hunter/navy or silver bullet/midnight."

The sweater couldn't have done it, could it? Triggered the "system?" That'd be ridiculous. It was just a sweater, with death wish dye lots, maybe. But that doesn't make me, a typical housewife/Mom sweater shopper, a gun-toting, bullet buying, camouflage wearing, firearms fancier. Does it?

At any rate, the catalogs are pouring in. Mondays are the worst. There's that whole extra day to get backlogged and then phloomp, there they are, so stuffed up in my mailbox on the front porch that I can't even get it open. I have to yank on the handle and tug down on the front and then rrrr-ipppp, something inside the mailbox rips and everything gets even more stuck.

I fight more with my mailbox at this time of year than at any other time. I don't like the fighting, I don't like the ripping, and I don't like the guns. This mail order business is getting too vio-

Now last year, I made a move to get away from this whole thing. For Christmas, for my brother and his wife, who live in Seattle and who are typically recipients of mail order stuff from me at Christmas, I sent to them instead something other than a mail order item. I did, though, get the idea from a catalog, but I just went on my own to accomplish the same thing the catalog was offering.

I gave Soren and Linda a certificate, a handmade and thoughtfully worded certificate with fancy edging and everything on the border, entitling them, the bearers of the certificate, to treats from my Michigan kitchen; mostly chocolate treats and all handmade, to be sent every three months throughout the following year directly to them. I just sent them the third installment a couple of weeks

This was a great idea. Especially for them. That's because all of us, my sister, my brother, my Mom and Dad, me - for as far back as I can remember have all loved treats, chocolate treats especially. We've always made pigs of ourselves when anything chocolate was around. We still do make pigs of ourselves when it comes to treats.

So anyway, like I said, I got the idea from one of the catalogs stuffed in my mailbox, some Goody of the Month Club type thing. Now while "Goody of the Month" sounded good (a treat every month would've been really slick). I had my doubts last December as to whether or not I'd be able to pull that off, what with baby No. 5 due a couple months later. So instead of monthly treats, I settled for quarterly treats. And it's worked out just fine.

Soren and Linda in Seattle seem to like it. My family here in Michigan seems to like it; that's because every time I prepare for a Seattle shipment, I double the recipe so my Michigan gang can have some, too. And I like doing it. It beats ordering a gob of goodies from a catalog and then somehow having my name tossed into the "system" and cross-referenced under "Piggy" and then some company, getting all mixed up and sending me some off-the-mark catalog featuring farm equipment with galvanized slop troughs, heavy duty hoof trimmers and 10gauge wire fencing for the pig pen.

That would be useless. But there'd be no convincing the "system" of that, it's so powerful. Not very sensible, though.

I mean, what's with this Frederick's of Hollywood catalog coming to my house?

I am so sure.

Mission Health Urgent Care — Canton-Plymouth-Livonia

This year, we'll help you beat the flu.

Let's face it. The flu is just plain nasty. It can even be life threatening to certain people. And the best time to get a flu shot to limit your chances of catching the flu this winter is from now until late November. You can get a flu shot now until Dec. 31 at Mission Health's Urgent Care locations in Canton, Plymouth and Livonia. Drop-in vaccinations are available seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the sites listed below. Or come to one of the three day-long clinics for even faster service. Cost is just $15, and Medicare reimbursement is available (please inquire).

The flu vaccine is recommended for you if you:

Are over 65 years of age.

- Have a chronic illness of the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver or other area of the body.
- Want to limit your chances of catching the flu from, or passing it on to, high-risk persons.

Three shifts of 1,200 employees work in the Livonia Operations Center. In the check processing area, 350 computer operators like Cleary process more than 800,000 checks a day from Comerica's 271 Michigan branch

"It built self-esteem and confidence, and it keeps me active," said the 38-year-old Cleary.

According to Comerica training supervisor Karen Rosen, who sits on Goodwill's Business Advisory Committee, check processing manager Ed Higgins was approached by the non-profit organization in 1990 to tour the proof encoding area in search of new business skills training programs. It wasn't long before Higgins' boss Greg Goleniak was donating NCR proof machines to train students at Goodwill.

After completing a grueling 6 1/2 hours a day, five days a week training program at Goodwill, Comerica provides four-week proof encoding co-ops for students to get a taste of the real world and often hires graduates of the program like Cleary.

"It's our baby; I enjoy going to Goodwill for meetings because if they have someone ready, I talk to human resources. It's a good partnership," said Rosen who works in conjunction with Goodwill clerical instructor Doris Topping to assist students in learning as much as they can about employment possibilities.

Comerica was one of five organizations honored in May by Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit for contributing significantly to the 75-year success of its people helping people.

"When we first looked at proof encoding at Comerica we were trying to open up additional training programs," Topping said. "The training is important because a lot of our clients take a lot longer to pick up skills because of their disabilities." "The proof encoding training is important because it provides technical skills training, also computer usage that can transfer into opportunities in other areas such as necessary for a bank teller," added Felicia Hunt, Goodwill chief operating officer.

"The Michigan Jobs Commission Rehabilitation Service also provides staffing and equipment to support the development of the program as well."

Goodwill Industries of Detroit and the League for the Handicapped were founded in 1921 to give people with disabilities a chance to earn a living. That first Goodwill program involving the elderly and disabled focused on the collection, repair and sale of usable items while the league provided an employment bureau, sheltered workshops and home employment.

The Great Depression, World War II, the polio epidemic and deinstitutionalization of people with mental and emotional disabilities brought new challenges to both organizations. They merged in 1970 to better serve the community.

The proposed law would:

Founded on the premise that people want and need the opportunity to earn a living rather. than to rely on charity, Goodwill Industries of Detroit assisted. more than 350 people with developmental disabilities or mental illness in participating in . work activity programs last year. These programs are designed to increase personal independence and prepare people for employment in the community.

The Business Careers Skill Training Program prepared 38 people for careers in clerical and data processing positions and nearly 150 cooperating employers hired Goodwill graduates in Today, Goodwill Industries of Detroit is Michigan's largest non-profit vocational rehabilitation agency, a tier-one automotive supplier and a retailer.

Baby Fair comes to GC Hospital

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

So you're having a baby. Congratulations.

Oh, by the way, you may want to stop by Garden City Hospital on Sunday, Oct. 6.

No emergency, just the hospital's first ever Baby Fair.

Expectant parents - and those thinking about starting families - can stroll through "Baby Streets" and receive free information and gifts as well as have a chance to win prizes.

The fair will be 2-5 p.m. in the Medical Office Building on the hospital's main campus, 6245 Inkster Road, north of Ford Road, Garden City.

"We want to get people into the hospital and get them excited about obstetrics and what the hospital has to offer," said Suzanne Cleere, director of women's health at the hospital. "The Baby Fair isn't limited to just people who chose to have services at the hospital, it's for people interested in child bear-

The fair has taken over two floors of the Medical Office Building. There will be 35 vendors from inside and outside of the hospital, providing information and the opportunity to purchase items.

There will be vendors pertaining to photography and Create-A-Book, which offers books containing the children's names. There also will be Mother Time which showcases what will be in style for the coming season for mothers-to-be.

The information will cover what parents need to know about having and raising a baby.

"They'll cover basic things parents might not think about, like what their insurance covers," Cleere said. "We'll have a pharmacist to talk about what you should have in your house for children and what medications pregnant woman can and cannot

Pediatric physicians will set up a elemental growth chart and talk about what happens to an infant after birth as well as conduct hearing and visions tests for newborns. One of the doctor is active in smoking cessation and will have information available for parents, Cleere added. Free raffles will have prizes of car seats and dinners at area restaurants, and for those interested, there will be a guided tour of the hospital's Birthing Center.

And there also will be a clown to entertain children and plenty of refreshments.

This is the first time the hospital has offered a Baby Fair and it "definitely" won't be the last, according to Cleere.

"One vendor has given use 100 diaper bags to give to expectant mothers," Cleere said. "Fifty are for those who plan to breast feed and the other 50 for those who plan to bottle feed. So that's what we've targeted for in attendance, but we hope to attract grandparents and entire families."

A registered nurse, Cleere joined the hospital staff in late June and after feeling out the staff and organization for support, began planning the Baby

Cleere had worked at two larger organizations and found the community hospital setting an "eye opener" and something to share with the community as a whole.

"It's such an eye opener to have something as nice as this hospital in your own backyard," she said. "With the fair, we hope to demonstrate that it is a good place to come to. In fact, we'll have a physicians' referral table. so people who want our services can leave with a doctor's name."

For more information about the Baby Fair, call (313) 458.

Observance aims to educate people about mental illness

Mental illness is everybody's business. That's the message the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill is promoting during Mental Illness Awareness Week, Oct. 6-

An annual event, the week is dedicated to eliminating the stigma of and educating the public about mental illness, a term used for a group of disorders causing severe disturbances in thinking, feeling and relating.

Mental illness can affect persons of any age - children, adolescents, adults and the elderly - and can occur in any family. Several million people in the United States suffer from a serious. long-term mental illness.

One of most serious and disabling of the mental illnesses is schizophrenia. It affects approximately one in 100 people. It affects both men and women equally and its onset usually is in the late teens and early 20s.

People with schizophrenia may have disconnected and confusing language, poor reasoning, memory and judgment, eating and sleeping disorders, hallucinations, delusions and loss of motivation and concentration.

What they don't have is a "split personality" and are not prone to criminal violence. The illness is not caused by parenting nor caused by a weakness of character. It is due to a biochemical disturbance of the brain.

Another form of mental illness is affective disorders, the most common psychiatric disorders. They are generally less persistently disabling than schizophrethere currently is no effective prevention. However, there are treatments a which can substantially improve the functioning of people with these disorders.

Medications, while not enough to cure these illnesses, can reduce symptoms markedly for most people. In addition, most people can profit from a community program to help them build self-confidence and learn independent living skills. In fact, with well-developed programs, some patients recover substantially, hold a job and achieve a satisfactory life.

Mort Crim highlights 1996-97 Livonia Town Hall

From WDIV-TV anchor Mort Crim to the Appliance Doctor Joe Gagnon, Livonia Town Hall promises something for everyone for its 33rd season.

The first Livonia Town Hall lecture, on Oct. 16, will be at St. Mary's Antiochian Orthodox Church Cultural Center, 18100 Merriman Road, Livonia, while the remaining lectures will be at the perennial Town Hall site of Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia. Lectures are at 10:30 a.m., followed by lunch at noon.

Crim will open the season on Oct. 16 by offering his perspective on everything from himself to news events that have shaped history. In a twist on its usual format, a question and answer period will immediately follow his lecture.

Crim is the author of "Take Off and Fly: Second Thoughts in Living Positive in a Negative World," and his syndicated radio feature, "Second Thoughts," is heard on more than 240 radio stations nationally and on the Armed Services Radio around

On Nov. 20, Dr. Laura Gruskin and her mother, Linda Merkle, will team up for "Mothers and Daughters: Building Bridges," Gruskin is an obstetrician-gynecologist on staff at Beaumont Hospital and Merkle is a child and family counselor in Livonia and Farmington Hills.

They will explore the stages of development of mother-daughter relationships, while sharing their insights into how to strengthen the bond that often doesn't develop naturally.

Opening the new year on Jan. 15 will be consumer advocate Joe Gagnon with "The Appliance Doctor's Prescription."

A columnist for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, owner Laugh ... Last." In a lively and of an appliance repair shop in Garden City and consumer advocate, Gagnon will provide an in depth look at the appliance industry with directions on how to defend yourself in the marketplace.

N'ville Town Hall opens season

Northville Town Hall will celebrate its 36th consecutive year with a touch of humor, some political insight and a dash of good reading.

Tow Hall lectures are held on Mondays at the Holiday Inn Livonia West, 17123 Laurel Park Dr., Livonia. Lectures are at 11 a.m., immediately followed by lunch.

Half of the proceeds from the series will benefit the sponsor, Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville, with the remainder being donated to charities in the Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Farmington, Livonia and South Lyons areas.

Opening the season will be Christopher Cerf on Oct. 21. An author, record and television producer, lyricist, humorist, satirist educational consultant and computer software designer, he has played a pivotal role in the ongoing funding of the "Sesame Street" television show.

Cerf is perhaps best known as a humorist. In 1970, he helped launch the most influential of recent humor magazines, the "National Lampoon." His most recent book, "The Official Politically Correct Dictionary," is an international best seller.

Attorney Sharon McPhail, the first woman to win a primary election for mayor of Detroit, will be the speaker on Nov. 18.

Named as one of "Ebony" magazine's 100 most influential black Americans in 1992, she also has served on the Detroit Board of Police Commissioners and as the division chief of screening and district courts for the Wayne County Prosecutor's

In private practice since 1995, t is McPhail's desire to give something back to the community and to challenge a system that continues to deprive many of equal access.

On March 10, the guest will be Jane Chestnutt, editor-inchief/vice president of "Women's Day" magazine, the largest sell-. ing single copy magazine in the United States.

Chesnutt first joined the magazine in 1978 as an assistant editor. Named one of Adweek's Editors of the Year in 1989, she serves on the Business Advisory Council of Washington Irving High School in New York City and heads the mentoring committee of Women in Communications Inc. She also is a member of the American Society of Magazine Editors, The Fashion Group International and the YWCA Academy of Achievers.

Closing out the season will be Hal Bruno, political director of ABC TV and radio networks. He has worked closely with producers and correspondents for all ABC News programs, including "20/20," "World News Tonight" and "Nightline."

He has covered presidential elections since 1960 and appears on air as the network's political analyst.

Bruno began his journalism career while a student at the University of Illinois. After graduation in 1950, he worked as a reporter for "Advertising Age" magazine and as sports editor of the Dekalb Daily Chronicle before joining the Chicago City News Bureau in 1954. His assignments have include six years covering gang arfare in Chicago and wars and revolutions in South Africa, the Middle East and Cuba.

Season tickets for the lecture series only is $40 and $90 for-

Ocelot harriers finish 3rd

Competing against a field of mostly four-year schools, Schoolcraft College's women's cross country team nevertheless came away with a third-place finish at the eight-team Tower Trail Classic, hosted by Grand Valley State Saturday.

Hillsdale won the invitational, scoring the absolute minimum of 15 points. The host Lakers were second with 64, followed by SC with 88.

The Lady Ocelots' scorers were Stacy Moore (from Plymouth Salem), 20th (21:21.9); Kris Lawrence, 25th (21:41.9); Kelly Passino, 33rd (22:22.5); Tara Teran, 34th (22:24.4); and Nicole Falk (Livonia Stevenson), 35th (22:37.6).

SC races Saturday at the Roadrunner Classic, hosted by Southwestern CC in Dowagiac.

Collegiate notes

•Oakland University sophomore Nick Deren (Livonia Stevenson) is second in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference men's soccer scoring with eight goals and one assist. Deren had a hat trick as the Pioneers, ranked No. 8 in NCAA Division II, beat Saginaw Valley, 7-0, on Wednesday, Sept. 25. OU is 4-3-1 overall and 1-1 in the GLIAC after losing Sunday to Gannon (Pa.), 3-0.

DePaul (Ill.) University freshman Jeannette Stojcevski (Livonia Števenson) finished 11th overall in the Northeastern Illinois Europeon Classic 3.5-kilometer race with a time of 13:39. She was also 36th overall (19:03) in the National Catholic Cross Country Invitational on Sept. 20 at Notre Dame as the Lady Blue Demons f9inished ninth out of 26 teams.

•The Northwood University football team is off to its best start in six years behind the line play of Livonians Dan Liebau, Mike Grzywacz and Kevin Babcock.

Liebau and Grzywacz each prepped at Detroit Catholic Central and Babcock at Dearborn Divine Child.

Northwood is 3-2, which is its best early-season record since starting the 1990 campaign with a 4-1 record.

Liebau, a 6-foot-2, 250-pound fifth year senior, started 31 straight games at offensive guard prior to this season. An ankle injury sidelined him for the first game, but he has started the last two after seeing action in the second and third games.

He was voted Northwood's Most Outstanding Offensive lineman in 1995 while earning secondteam All Midwest Intercollegiate Football Conference honors.

Grzywacz, a 6-3, 280-pound fifth-year senior, has started the last 35 games on the offensive line in a Northwood uniform. He was voted Northwood's Most Outstanding Offensive Lineman as a sophomore in 1994.

Northwood finished only 2-8 last year but was the 10th-rated team in Division II in rushing with 252 yards per game.

Babcock, a 6-foot-235-pound junior, is a starting defensive end. He has 20 tackles including two for losses and one sack. Defensive end is the third position he has started at since arriving at Northwood in 1994. He started at defensive tackle as a freshman and middle linebacker as a sophomore.

Another local product, Dan Gusoff of Redford CC, leads all Northwood defensive linemen with 27 tackles. Gusoff is a 6-foot, 255-pound fifthyear senior from Redford.

•Duquesne University sophomore Charlie Roberts (Livonia Churchill) scored his first goal of the season as the Dukes (3-3-2 overall) lost Sunday to Dayton in men's soccer, 3-2.

Big victory for Borgess vs. Blazers in hoop test

Inside action: Livonia Ladywood's Sarah Poglits (right) tries to make a move inside against Candice Finley of Redford Bishop Borgess during Tuesday's Catholic League Central Division girls basketball battle. After losing their first three games of the season, Borgess, state Class C runners-up from a year ago, have now won six straight, including a 58-33 victory over Ladywood. All nine schools from the Livonia-Westland coverage area played games. For a complete summary of girls basketball action, turn to page 4C.

Donahue leaves SC for CMU

BY C.J. RISAK

All too often in the sports world, the main element involved in the making of a major decision is conveniently shoved aside, or simply -and deliberately -- overlooked.

Money.

When a coach decides to move on, cash can weigh just as heavily as it does in real life. Indeed, it's the main reason Glen Donahue will leave as Schoolcraft College's men's basketball coach after just one year to take a position as a full-time assistant coach at Central Michigan.

"I was a part-time employee here," Donahue said. "I'll be full-time up there.

"I would have had to get a job in a gas station or something to stay here."

Donahue takes over for Glenn Herrerman, one of two of coach Leonard Drake's assistants to leave after last year's 6-20 season (3-15, ninth place in the Mid-American Conference).

Edgar Wilson accepted the job as head coach at Ferris State last spring. He was replaced by Tim Waller, Herrerman left on Aug. 1 to take a position coaching at a junior college in California.

Donahue has done some traveling as a coach in recent years. After 19 seasons at Highland Park CC (where he compiled a 401-205 record), he spent a year as an assistant at University of Detroit before taking over the St. Mary's College program in 1987.

Basketball was dropped at St. Mary's in '92, after Donahue had guided the Eagles to back-to-back appearances in the NAIA Tourna-

Thomas eager to lead Ocelots

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Greg Thomas, recently hired as Schoolcraft College's interim men's basketball coach, would like to put a his nameplate on Glen Donahue's office door permanently.

"I'm going to approach it from that point," said the 41-year-old Thomas, who conducted his first practice as head coach Tuesday. "I want to make sure the kids go to class, Academics is first.

"And then we're going to try to win some ballgames and run a respectable program."

Thomas served one year as an assistant under Donahue, who announced Monday that he had accepted a full-time assistant coaching job under Leonard Drake at Central Michigan University.

"I thought the first practice went great," Thomas said. "It's going to take a couple of days for some of the kids to get over Glen's scouting now. It will be fun and I'm looking forward to it."

Thomas has coached at nearly all levels, including stints as an assistant at Highland Park Community College, Detroit Martin Luther King High School (his alma mater), Detroit St. Hedwig and Detroit Benedictine.

He's also coached AAU and has been a head coach in the UAW

"I'm going to try to hold onto to his (Donahue's) style of play, but as the season goes along I'd like to implement some of my things," said Thomas, who has 39 days until the opener, Monday, Nov. 11 at Grand Rapids JC.

Thomas, a sales representative for Power Tools and Supply, Inc., attended Kalamazoo Valley and Highland Park community col-time to recruit (he was hired six months prior to the start of the season); greater things were hoped for this year.

Thomas said that Clayton Woodard, who worked with the team during the summer, will serve as a volunteer assistant.

That won't happen now, not under Donahue's direction at least. One of his three assistants, Greg Thomas, 21 record. He did that without much will replace Donahue "on an interim-basis," according to SC athletic director Ed Kavanaugh.

"We've taken one of his assistants and moved him into the head coaching position," said Kavanaugh. "Then at the end of the season, we're going to reevaluate."

There's no doubting Donahue's record of success: 637-370 as he enters his 30th year of coaching. He insists leaving SC was not easy.

"It was tough leaving here," he said. "They're going to have a good team. But the financial end of things was an enticement.

"I didn't ever think I was going to leave (SC). But financially, it was not a good situation for me."

Added Kavanaugh: "Yes, it does (come as a shock). He did make me aware this might happen. We appreciate what he's done for the program. He made great strides with the program in one year."

Donahue talked to Drake, then visited the CMU campus Sept. 20. "I'm making the move because it's a good situation for me," said Donahue. "I think we're going to have a good ball club. We've had a couple of tough years, but I think we've turned the corner."

Donahue was hoping to do just that at SC. One of the most difficult tasks he faced once he decided to take the CMU job was telling the SC players, which he did Monday.

"It was tough for me to face the kids today," he said. "Hopefully, I handled it in a tactful way. It was extremely hard for me."

Coaching the Chippewas won't be easy, for sure. Under Drake, CMU is 14-64 over the last three years.

But financially speaking, it was the right thing for Donahue to do.

Stevenson continues streak with 5-1 victory

Freshman Thomas Eller assisted on four goals, two by Mark Dietrich, as Livonia Stevenson rolled Monday to its eighth straight boys soccer victory over visiting Northville, 5-1. Stevenson, now 8-1, also got goals

CC golfers nip Brother Rice

Redford Catholic Central's boys golf team moved into a tie for first place in the Catholic League Central Division with a 156-159 dual-meet victory Monday over Birmingham Brother Rice at Brae Burn Golf Course.

The win gave the Shamrocks a 5-2 record in the Central Division, tying them for first place with Rice and Warren DeLaSalle, Senior Mike Pedrys and / each. junior Adam Peters tied for medalist honors with 38s. Senior Darrell Kennedy had 39, while seniors Nick Watts and Ryan Ossenmacher each turned in 41s.

Rice won the first dual meet, 165-175.

The Shamrocks surprised some state-ranked teams on Saturday, placing second behind No. 1 ranked Traverse City at the East Lansing Invitational at Michigan State University's Forest Akers Golf Course.

CC recorded a four-man total of 332, four strokes behind Traverse City.

In Career Sity and the Control

overing sports is challenging.

We caught a glimpse of Steve Kowalski's sense of humor when he first told us why he enjoys doing what he is doing, "Coming home at three in the morning, paying for parking and hot dogs at the games..."

Then on a serious note he admits that it's the challenge that keeps him going, "Some of your sources are young, never been interviewed. It's fun and rewarding to do a good job."

Steve knew that when he scored only four points in Junior Varsity Basketball during his own high school days, that he had a better chance writing about sports than playing them. He's done it so well that he's received awards for it; the most recent in 1994 from the Michigan Press Association in their "top game story" category.

When we asked Brad Emons what he enjoys most about covering community sports, he told us, "The people we deal with, from the coaches to the student-athletes, they truly appreciate the coverage—we cover a good group of schools from the smallest to the largest," Brad began reading the major league box scores when he was still in grade school, wrote in high school and earned a degree in journalism from Franklin College in Indiana. He's been writing for your hometown newspapers since he graduated in 1977.

How does our coverage stack up? Brad says that unlike the metropolitan newspapers, "We cover a variety of prep sports and do it in-depth-both boys' and girls'. We're able to hit more than the highlights. We get to know nearly every high school coach and athletic director by their first names."

C.J. Risak is talking about SPORTS, of course.

When did he decide on sports reporting? "Early in my career, after being out in the real world. Sports is real, it's serious, but it's also fun."

One facet of the job C.J. especially enjoys is meeting people—the players and the coaches, "We get to know a lot of people first-hand," he said.

His enthusiasm and dedication is reflected in his writing. In 1994, he received a first place award from the industry for best sports column and second place for putting together the best sports section.

Figures, Dan O'Meara, is taking the week off after correctly picking 14 of 15 games correctly raising his season total to 50-12. An impressive week none-theless for the Irishman, who nearly went 15-0 had not Detroit St. Martin DePorres rallied in the final seconds to beat Catholic Central in a battle for state bragging rights, 8-7.

Yours truly went 13-2, playing a hunch that Canton would beat Harrison, but to no avail as the Hawks won 20-6.

the good news is that the defending champion still maintains a slim lead with a 51-11 mark.

As for this week's slate, the big game is Sunday at Pontiac Wisner Stadium, between CC and unbeaten Birmingham Brother Rice.

Here is a sneak preview of the upcoming weekend action.

FRIDAY'S GAMES (all 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Chelsea at Redford Union (7 p.m.): This is a non-leaguer. RU (0-4) is searching for its first win, but the Panthers did ruin Dearborn's 13-game regular season shutout string in a 41-7 loss. Chelsea (2-2) is coming off a 20-12 win over Southeastern Conference foe Ypsilanti Lincoln as quarterback Dustin White threw for 149 yards (17 for 30) and Jay Schick rushed for 110 yards (on 22 carries). But the Bulldogs did give up 205 yards on the ground to Lincoln's Jaquan Wright, PICKS: Chelsea Clinton all the Lutheran Westland at Clarenceville: Metro Conference bragging rights in Observerland are at stake in this one. If the Warriors (3-1, 3-1) win, it will be their best start in school history. Second-year coach Scott Wiemer, should get a boost this week when senior tight end Joe Pruchnik (elbow injury) returns to the lineup for the first time. Clarenceville (1-3, 1-3) lost to 4-0 Harper Woods last week, 28-13, but gave up 263 yards to Andrew Ciccorella. Can they stop the Warriors' Albert Cook? PICKS: The Warriors make it two straight against Clarenceville.

F.H. Harrison at Liv. Churchill: The Hawks (3-1, 1-1) are still very much alive in the Western Division race in the Western Lakes after stopping Plymouth Canton quarterback Rob Johnson in a 20-7 win, Churchill (0-4, 0-2) put 19 points on the board last week in a loss to Walled Lake Western, but the Chargers (1.57 for the 1990s) haven't beaten the Hawks since John Stoitsladis quarterbacked Churchill to a shocking upset in 1984. PICKS: It's all Harrison.

Liv. Franklin at Ply. Canton: This game pits two of the WLAA's premier athletes in Franklin wide receiver Paul Terek and Canton QB Rob Johnson, Canton won last year's game in triple overtime. Franklin (3-1, 2-0) has won three straight and given up only 13 points since losing to No. 1-ranked Sterling Heights Stevenson in the season opener. Canton (2-2, 1-1) must find some offense from other people than Johnson. PICKS: Emons and O'Meara like the Patriots in this one.

Livi Stevenson at W.L. Central: A key battle in the Lakes Division of the WLAA. Central (3-1, 2-0), one of the state's largest teams, only beat winless North Farmington by a 16-0 count. Stevenson (2-2, 1-1) is coming off a 34-13 win over Farmington as senior Gade Clark had 228 yards in a school-record 38 carries. PICKS: Central keeps pace for first place.

N. Farmington at Westland Glenn: The state-ranked Rockets (4-0, 3-0) took care of previously unbeaten Plymouth Salem last week, scoring 31 unanswered points in a 31-14 victory. North (0.4, 0.2) has struggled in all four games to generate any kind of offense and the odds of that happening this week appear to be remote. But the Raiders did play Glenn tough a year ago, losing 14-0. PICKS: Glenn keeps it going with its fifth straight win.

Trenton at Garden City: This is a Mega-White Division game. Trenton (4-0; 2-0) is looking for state recognition after pounding Taylor Kennedy last week, 27-6, as quarterback Ryan Szokola scored three TDs and rushed for 147 No more hunches, please, but yards. GC (0-4, 0-2) has been shut out in three of its first four starts. PICKS: Trenton rolls.

> Red. Thurston at Melvindale: The quicker the Eagles (2-2, 1-2) can forget last week's 55-7 homecoming loss to Allen Park the better. Melvindale (2-2, 2-1) is coming off a 21-0 win over Dearborn Heights Crestwood as quarterback Tony Trejo hit 12 of 20 passes for 120 yards. His favorite target is Ben Striz (five catches for 106 yards). Thurston, however, also owns a 36-19 win over Crestwood. PICKS: Give the home team, Melvindale, the edge.

> Wayne at Wyandotte: The Zebras (4-0, 3-0) can't afford to be looking ahead to upcoming games with Belleville and Dearborn Fordson, Wyandotte (2-2, 2-1). coming off a 24-8 loss to Fordson, is a quality opponent, led by offensive tackle Jason Ptak (6-3, 270) considered one of the top linemen in the state. Wayne, however, can match any team in the state when it comes to beef. PICKS: Wayne eludes the Bears.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Ply. Salem at Farmington (1 p.m.): Salem (3-1, 1-1) came down to earth last week after getting thumped by Glenn. Farmington, meanwhile, is trying to pick up the pieces from a 34-13 loss to Stevenson. It could boil down to who has the better offense, not defense. PICKS: Take the Rocks in a tougherthan-expected game.

Bishop Borgess vs. Riverview Gabriel Richard (2 p.m. at Garden City Jr. High): Borgess opened Tri-Sectional play last week with a 28-6 loss to Detroit East Catholic. The Spartans face an unbeaten Richard (4-0, 1-0) team that edged Allen Park Cabrini, 17-14, as John Romane kicked the game-winning field goal. PICKS: King Richard lives to be 5-

Red. St. Agatha ye. R.O. Shrine (7:30 p.m. at R.O. Kimball): The winless Aggles (0-4, 0-1) are having tackling problems. Although down by only two, 14-12, at the half last week to Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, Agatha fell apart in the second half. Former Aggle coach opened C-Section play last week by railying from a 14-11 halftime deficit to beat Pontiac Notre Dame Prep, 27-14. PICKS: There's no lake or pool nearby for Goodard to do a victory dip, but how about a Gatorade drenching? Shrine gets two votes.

SUNDAY'S GAME

Redford CC vs. Birm. Brother Rice (2 p.m. at Pontlac's Wisner Stadium); it's the Boys Bowl meeting with much at stake. CC (3-1), stung by last week's 8-7 loss to Detroit St. Martin DePorres, needs a win to stay in the playoff hunt in Class AA-Region III. The Shamrocks have won 10 of the 12 meetings (since 1986), including two victories over the Warriors last year. Rice is led by All-State running back Brian Marshall, who racked up 169 yards in 32 carries in a 6-0 win last week over winless Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher. PICKS: CC continues to have the Warriors' number Emons says, but O'Meara likes Rice.

Warriors pound Memphis, 42-16

Lutheran High Westland took the sting right out of the Memphis Yellowjackets, rolling to a 42-16 non-league football victory Saturday.

The Warriors improved to 3-1 overall with the victory, while Memphis, a member of the Southern Thumb Association, drops to 1-3.

It was another big outing for senior Albert Cook, who led the host Warriors both offensively and defensively.

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound senior accounted for 22 points, scoring three touchdowns along with a pair of two-point conversions. He rushed for 175 yards on 19 carries.

Playing linebacker, Cook also added 11 tackles and one interception.

FOOTBALL Helinski to Brad Cryderman.

Nick Kuroski added the twopoint conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Cook came back later in the first period on a 3-run TD run and two-point conversion run. In the second period, Cook had a 2-yard TD run followed by another two pointer to make it 16-8. The Warriors led 22-8 at intermission when Bill Garlick, who rushed for 118 yards in 18 carries, scored on a 19-

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS BASKETBALL

Borgess wins 6th straight; Wayne loses

Redford Bishop Borgess has officially returned.

After losing its first three nonconference games of the season, the Spartans have reeled off six straight wins and looked impressive Tuesday in a 58-33 girls basketball victory at Livonia Ladywood.

Four Spartans reached double figures, led by Aiysha Smith's 14 points and Regina Respert's 12. Tiffany Simon and Christina Anderson added 10 apiece for Borgess (3-0 in the Catholic League).

But the big story for Borgess was the return of Koren Merchant, who missed the first eight games of the season after starting school late. Merchant scored six points in about one-and-ahalf quarters of action.

Borgess extended a three-point lead after one quarter to 12 at halftime, and put the game out of reach with a 19-8 third quar-

The Blazers didn't help themselves out, as they made only eight of 23 free throws.

"We missed some big free throws, which hurt," Ladywood coach Andrea McAllister-Gorski said. "They went into a 2-3 defense and we had a tough time scoring against it. We had some open shots but just didn't hit them. They're so athletic; I think it caught up to us in the second

ROUNDUP

Kelly Jeffrey and Kara McDonald paced Ladywood with five points apiece. The Blazers are 2-6 overall and 0-3 in the Central Division.

• CANTON 52, STEVENSON 28: Despite a strong second-half performance Tuesday, Livonia Stevenson was no match for visiting Plymouth Canton.

The Chiefs (9-1 overall, 4-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association) built a 29-9 halftime lead. The Spartans actually outscored Canton 12-10 in the third quarter to gain the moral victory. "We aren't ready to play at that level yet, but learned a lot as the game progressed," Stevenson coach Wayne Henry said. For the first time, I thought in the third quarter we really progressed and were doing things right. But you can't get down by that much to a stateranked team."

Melissa Marzolf led the Chiefs with 14 points. Nkechi Okwumabua added Melissa Backus scored eight points to lead the Spartans (3-7 overall, 0-4 in

But the Vikings outscored the Chargers 20-2 in the third quarter behind 13 points from Joni Stewart.

Becky Cummings scored a game-high 21 points for Central (5-4 overall, 3-1 in

The Chargers (3-7 overall, 1-3 in the WLAA) received 11 points from Dawn Perttula and 10 from Jessie Jenkins.

"We came out flat in the third quarter after playing a good first half," Churchill coach Dave Balog said. We had stopped their inside game in the first half, and that forced them to shoot from the outside. They made a couple three pointers to start the third quarter and that loosened up our defense inside."

•FARMINGTON 42, FRANKLIN 36: Farmington's Amanda Porter scored a game high 24 points to lead the Falcons over visiting Livonia Franklin.

Farmington improved to 5-5 overall and 3-1 in the WLAA. The Patriots slipped to 3-7 overall and 1-3 in the con-the Patriots, who trailed 22-13 at halftime.

. HARRISON 76, JOHN GLENN 37: Even with the defeat Tuesday against visiting Farmington Harrison, Westland John Glenn coach Andy Denison liked what he saw in the second half.

After trailing 40-12 at halftime, the Glenn offense showed some life to put up 25 points.

"We played well in the second half offensively," Denison said. "There's still some inconsistency, but they're finding ways to get better shots and be more patient."

Ari Ault's 21 points led the Hawks (5-4 overall, 2-2 in the WLAA). Amy Roble added 14 and Mohogany Fletcher 11 for Samantha Crews scored 10 of her 12 points in the second half for the Rockets. Bridgette Hensley made eight of 10 free throws en route to her 10 points.

•ADRIAN 53, WAYNE 44: Wayne couldn't recover from a 28-12 halftime deficit Tuesday and lost to visiting Adrian in a non-league contest.

Senior guard Yolanda Holt scored a game high 21 points for the Zebras (5-4). Senior guard Rica Barge added 12

Adrian (5-3) received 18 points from Leslie Coronado and 13 from Kris Dankert.

The Maples held a big advantage at the free throw line where they made 20 of 34 foul shots. Wayne converted eight of 15 free throws.

•LUTH. WESTLAND 51, HARPER WDS. 17: Visiting Lutheran Westland blanked Harper Woods 10-0 in the first quarter Tuesday and cruised to the easy

The Warriors, who improved to 8-1 overall and 6-0 in the Metro Conference, received 13 points from senior guard Jenny Twietmeyer. Sophomore center Janell Twietmeyer added 10 points and 10/rebounds, while Stephanle Davis scored eight points off the bench.

The next three games will be harder for the Warriors as they face Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest, University Liggett and Mount Clemens Lutheran North.

"By a week from Thursday, we'll know if we're contenders or pretenders," Westland coach Ron Gentz

. HAMTRAMCK 41, CLARENCEVILLE 38: Hamtramck picked up its first victory of the season Tuesday by holding off host Livonia Clarenceville. Sophomore guard Danielle Sledz and freshman guard Rachel Sundberg scored 12 and 10 points, respectively, to lead Clarenceville (2-7 overall, 1-5 in the Metro Conference).

Hamtramck (1-7 overall, 1-5 in the Metro) received 12 from Rachel Stacey.

"We had a lot of turnovers and missed opportunities." Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf said. "It was a game we should have won and the girls know it."

.. HURON VALLEY 54, TAYLOR BAP-TIST, 37: Westland Huron Valley improved to 6-3 overall and 3-0 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference Tuesday with its victory over visiting Taylor Baptist Park Christian.

Junior center Sara Tacia led the Hawks with 14 points. Senior guard Amy Mohacsi added 12 and freshman guard Jessie Cherundolo netted 10.

CHANGING TIMES

Any decision concerning how long an interval to allow between oil changes should be based on factors ranging from driving style, traffic conditions, and engine load and temperature to oil consumption. Most auto manufacturers recommend that the engine oil be changed about every 7,500 miles under normal driving conditions, or about every 3,000 miles if the car is subjected to severe conditions. Before car owners automatically assume that they drive their cars under normal conditions, they should realize that some of the factors that contribute to severe driving conditions include: a lot of stop and go traffic; making many successive short trips during which the engine cannot build to normal operating temperatures: extended high-speed highway driving; running under a heavy load, such as towing a trailer; and/or driving under dusty conditions. Changing engine oil frequently is inexpensive insurance against costly Changing your oil regularly is good preventethe maintenance because it saves wear and tear on your engine over the long haul. Crusaders' record to 20-2; UM-Dearborn is 20-11.

"We took away what they wanted to do," said Madonna assistant coach Brian McClain. "After that, we had it pretty much our way."

Leading the attack from the middle were seniors Kelly McCausland (from Redford Union), with 31 kills, and Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson), with Erin Comment had eight kills and Karin Sisung got six.

The Crusaders have a difficult test Thursday when they play at Wayne State.

NOTES: Julie Martin, the senior middle hitter from Livonia Stevenson. was named NAIA Great Lakes Section volleyball player of the week, for the week ending Sept. 29.

Martin had 34 kills with a .538 kill percentage, seven solo blocks, seven block assists, five digs and two service aces.

mind you. Perhaps six weeks or so is all. But the trip to North Carolina was well worth it, in Nikki Johnson's mind.

The Schoolcraft College women's soccer coach took her team to play Brevard CC, the unbeaten and No. 1-ranked team in the NJCAA, last Sat-

The result wasn't pretty -- a 6-0 defeat suffered in a down-

"They're big, strong and constantly moving," summarized Johnson. "They were a quick-moving team. And my team didn't play very well. We played a kick-ball game."

That's not what Johnson wanted to see from the Lady Ocelots. And yet, she wasn't too upset about it.

"It's OK because now they realize, after losing to Meramec (earlier this season) and now Brevard, what it will take," she said. "It's good because now they know what this is all about, what kind of competition to expect."

Brevard, 7-0 with the win, will be in the same NJCAA regional tournament as SC. If the Lady Ocelots hope to go beyond the regional and to the NJCAA Tournament, they'll first have to find a way to handle Brevard.

On Sunday, SC played 42 overall.

DeShano's goals. It wasn't much of a challenge for SC; the Ocelots had a 27-1 shot advantage as they improved to 4-5-1.

.SCHOOLCRAFT (MEN) 12, ST. MARY'S 0: Mike Minicilli (from Livonia Stevenson) poured in four goals as Schoolcraft's men's team used the first-year squad from St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake as little more than target practice Saturday

*It was a good game for us. because we got a chance to play people who have been practicing but haven't played much," said SC coach Van Dimitriou. *Every game has a purpose."

This match seemed little more than a chance to pad scoring statistics for some of the Ocelots, Minicilli also had one assist.

Mark Hill had two goals and an assist, Mike Preston scored twice, Kevin Fritz contributed a goal and three assists, Peter Lechowicz got a goal and an assist, Bill Krips chipped in two assists, and both James Bossieux (Plymouth Canton) and Chris Jaskolski (Canton) scored goals.

MEDICAL BRIEFS

TicketMaster recently won an "Excellence in Community Awareness" award from Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan for its outstanding work in providing positive opportunities for persons with disabilities.

Employee Damon Page is an example of this. A quadriplegic who is only able to move his head, he was unable to operate TicketMaster's computers through traditional means of touch typing so they company acquired a voice-activated computer for him to use. Today, he works 24 hours each week as a telemarketing agent.

Exams convenient, close

When it comes to breast cancer detection, women know exactly what they want - convenience and immediate results. To help, the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute now offers Saturday appointments at its Berkley Breast Center. Mammography, clinical breast exams and instruction on breast self-exam are now available. Patients also receive preliminary mammography results from the physician at the time of their visit.

"Women shouldn't have to wait for results of their mammogram," said medical director Cheryl Grigorian. "Eighty percent of breast lumps and calcifications are benign. Why wait in fear?"

While mammography does not prevent breast cancer, proper screening will dramatically increase the chance for survival and cure. When found at its earliest, most treatable breast cancer is more than 90 percent curable.

HAP expands network

Health Alliance Plan has contracted with Huron Valley Physicians Association and Mission Health to serve HAP health maintenance counties. Effective Sept. 1, businesses and individuals living in those counties can now choose HAP.

"Our agreement with Huron Valley . . . and Mission Health strengthens our presence in Washtenaw and Livingston counties," said HAP President James Walworth. "We'll be able to meet the needs of businesses with employees residing in these areas, and our members will have a greater selection of highly respected physicians and community hospitals."

Grant given for health care

Renaissance Home Health Care is pleased to announce a grant award of $15,000 from The McGregor Fund. The award will provide home health care to high risk, uninsured, indigent mothers and newborns in Metro Detroit.

amily-centered care is the philosophy at St. Mary Hospital, and a planned expansion at the hospital will focus on services for women and children.

Scheduled to open in the spring of 1997 is the Miracle of Life Maternity Center and the new Women's Center.

"This (addition) will have one of the finest maternity centers in southeast Michigan with 20 private rooms," said Julie Sproul, director of community relations for the Livonia-based hospital.

"Women generally tend to make the health care decisions. not only for themselves, but for their entire family," Sproul added. "That's why health centers are offering more services for women."

The new center includes a LDRP (labor, delivery, recovery, postpartum) room available for each woman. To accommodate this, the hospital is expanding from four to 20 LDRPs.

The private suites, measuring 16 X 24, will include a refrigerator, built-in window seat with cushions suitable for sleeping, recliners and an electric warming blanket for baby and mom. Medical equipment is readily available, discreetly concealed behind a wall unit.

"We have streamlined the services to make it more comfortable for the (mom and baby) short stay as well as the staff." Sproul said.

Other services available in the new wing will include: mammography, radiology, ultrasound, breastfeeding programs, breast cancer and menopause support groups, childbirth education and premarital counseling classes and a resource library.

Flu season is upon us: Get your shots

The 1996 winter flu season fast approaching and will. possibly be severe. For area businesses, the flu brings unproductive work days, increased absenteeism and delayed business projects.

While most people with the flu recover, about 50,000-70,000 adults die each year from this and other preventable viruses. More people die from influenza than the AIDS virus.

Farmer Jack has committed to helping people get their flu vaccinations by sponsoring the Visiting Nurse Association's annual vaccination drive.

The supermarket chain has complete vaccination schedules in its stores beginning this week. In addition, they will direct-mail circulars listing the upcoming week's vaccination schedule on the front page.

"Farmer Jack has an ongoing commitment to the community. Bringing this flu vaccination program to the public is part of that," said Farmer Jack President Craig Sturken. "Flu vaccinations are important from both a personal and business standpoint, and we are proud to do everything we can to help the Visiting Nurse Association with its important work.'

People receiving flu shots "take 43 percent fewer sick days" as well as make "44 percent fewer visits to doctors for respiratory illness," according to the publication "Bottom Line Business."

Because the flu vaccine contains only noninfectious viruses, it cannot give recipients the flu. As with most vaccines, side effects, if any, are generally mild and occur at low frequency within 48 hours. Those who are allergic to eggs or chicken feather, sensitive to amino glycosides or affected with Guillain-Barre Syndrome should not get a flu vaccination. Those under 18 and pregnant women should consult with their physician.

During October and part of November, the VNA support services will vaccinate about 20,000 adults at more than 200 locations. For more information, call (800) 296-8660.

n the Observer area, the following dates and times are scheduled at these Farmer Jack stores. Cost of the VNA flu clinic is $10; Medicare B patients are not charged:

New resource available for 'cyberhounds' ime goes by fast when you are having fun, and I just can't remember how long ago I wrote a column about the new database guide released by Gale Research in Detroit.

It must have been about a year ago, because Cheryl McDonald has let me know that Gale Research has come out with its second edition, this one with the much more interesting title of "Cyberhound's Guide to Internet Databases." (The first edition was labeled "The Gale Guide to Internet Databases."

A thousand databases were added to the second edition, making a total of 2,748 domestic and international database listings. For each there is a description, evaluation, and information on how to access.

Cyberhound uses nontechnical language to tell about government, academic, research, educational databases. New to this edition is a rating system that evaluates each database's content, design, and ease of use.

Ratings range from one to four stars in three areas:

Content ratings cover comprehensiveness, authoritativeness, scope and timeliness;

graphics, layout and overall concept;

■ Technical merit ratings provide information on ease of navigation, searchability, logic of presentation, and validity of links.

"Web sites are being continuously developed, and anybody with space on a server can put their stuff out there,' explains Gwen Turecki, Cyberhound editor. "This creates a dilemma - the information that users may need is probably on the Internet, but how do they find it, evaluate it and quickly sort through the good, bad and the ugly to find information that suits their needs?

"This is where Cyberhound comes to the rescue. We could've rated sites by our mood of the moment, but we didn't. We created a checklist of objective criteria for each site that our experts used to determine how a database would rate."

To make location of databases easy to find in the guide, Cyberhound (under Gwen's direction, of course) created five indexes: master, subject, host/provider, white pages, and alternate format.

The announcement Cheryl sent piqued my imagination with some http://www.wwwz.tsixroads.com/moan/ which tries to give advice on how to avoid buying lemons (unless you need a lemon) or free access to 55,000 jobs via The Monster Board at http://www.monster.com.

Among the interesting sites listed in Cyberhound were Classical Music Home Page, NETworth, and Treasures of the Czars. But I won't give the URLs for these sites; otherwise, why would you be interested in looking at Cyberhound. So if you are interested at all, go to Gale's home at page http://www.gale.com or call 800-877-GALE.

Founded in 1954, Gale Research is a leading reference publisher with more than 600 active databases. Located in Detroit's Penobscot Building, Gale servers the information needs of libraries, businesses, nonprofit organizations, and consumers via print, online and CD-ROM products.

■ Speaking of databases, Kitty Bennett, who is news researcher for the St. Petersburg Times, shares her discovery of the Great Fat Cats database at http://www.mojones.com/coinop_congres s/mojo_400/mojo_400.html. "Has everybody but me already noticed the Mother Jones 400, an interactive database of as they put it — "the fattest of the Fat Cats.

I'm backgrounding one of them now, and as part of my routine noodling around I always check web sites just for fun. I just stumbled across this list this afternoon. They have meaty, and actually pretty amusing, profiles of the Fat Cats, and simple explanations of bundling, soft money, etc." I shared the job Mother Jones is doing in an earlier column on politics or campaign financ-

SPRING Newspapers have your winning number in suburban Detroit.

SPRINGs audited circulation is a sure bet

It's no gamble. Buying SPRING Newspapers in suburban Detroit is a sure bet. Why risk your newspaper media dollars on an unaudited circulation? When you buy SPRING Newspapers, you're buying the largest audited circulation in suburban Detroit. The Detroit News and the Free Press have yet to Issue a current ABC audit, so there's no telling how many papers are being printed - and who's receiving them. SPRING Newspapers are not only a sure bet, they're also a smart bet. For example:

- 48% of adults in the SPRING survey area. read SPRING weekly and daily newspapers SPRING has an audited circulation of 761,885.
- SPRING delivers, on average, 1.060,000 total readers every week.4 That means that SPRING delivers 1,167,000 gross impressions for an entire week. Compare these numbers to your other media alternatives; only 37% of adults in the SPRING market read the weekday Debrok Free Press or The Detroit News.

More suburban Detroit readers turn

- SPRING delivers more weekday suburban readers with household incomes over

Revue campaigns for undecided

ou'll laugh, and want to return for more giggles, after watching the Second City - Detroit's eighth revue, "One Nation Undecided," which received a standing ovation on opening night, Sept. 26.

The talented cast — Joshua Funk, Grant Krause, Rico Bruce Wade, Larry Campbell, Kim Greene and Angela Shelton delivers steady laughs, and there's never a lull or dull moment. Celebrating its third anniversary, Second City - Detroit has put down roots. Without a doubt, this high energy revue is Motown all the way. Second City - Detroit has finally found a voice of its own. "There ain't nothing wrong with being 'One Nation Undecided," is the theme of this revue, which gleefully gallops through a variety of controversial political, social, and cultural issues including racism, homosexuality, suicide, smoking, AIDS, and the presidential Musical direction by Chad Krueger is firstrate. Krueger, who spent four years with the Second City National Touring Company, has acted in plays, and jumps into the action adding a dimension that wasn't a part of previous shows.

The stage is seasonally dressed in red, white and blue, there's an American flag in the background. "All the crazy people come from Michigan - gateway to Toledo, the only state you can make with your hands," opens this zany politically incorrect, or correct show, depending on your viewpoint. They're at the Democratic National Convention, about to cast their votes for Clinton, there's a rousing chorus of "Hail, Hail to Michigan the Psychos of the West," with references to some of our illustrious residents including Jack Kevorkian.

Satire is the truth before anyone thinks it, and no Second City - Detroit show would be complete/without a skit about racism. Unfortunately, in spite of efforts by many people to bridge the "Eight Mile Gap," Detroit remains "One City Racially Divided."

"Slipped A Discus," the last show, told of a frightened white suburbanite sure the black (savage) parking lot attendant stole her car. The car is found, only to be stolen by a white man from Warren.

In this show, racism, and people's preconceived notions of it, are explored on a different level raising cultural and economic issues

Miss Angela is black, and lives in Birmingham. She's in the hot tub with her boyfriend, and decides to go outside to talk to the Lawn Guy, (Rico Bruce Wade) who is also black. The Lawn Guy has worked for her family for 10 years, but she's never talked to him, until now, after attending an athletic event at Pershing High School in Detroit, Racial myths are exploded through casual conversation. "How often do you talk to my parents?" she asks. "About once a week," he replies. "So do

Making conversation, she says, "my mother is having an Urban Club meeting and went to Somerset Mall to get some black art to hang on the wall, but they didn't have any."

"Where'd you get it, he asks, Blacks-Are-Us?" From there the talk turns to her going to Pershing High School. "It was like, totally scary," she says. "I had to put the Club on my jeep and everything. One of the students called me an Oreo, and my mother said, well honey they aren't you're friends.'

"I know you don't think we're black enough for you. But I am dealing with some serious issues in that hot tub, and I can't deal with you, and your attitude. I'm sorry I don't listen to WJLB or live in the ghetto. It's not my fault I don't fit in, Eight Mile seems awful wide. Where do all the black people hang

Her boyfriend comes out to check on her, talks to the Lawn Guy in a patronizing sort of way, telling him what a great job he's doing with the lawn, and leaves. But Angela's opinion of the Lawn Guy changes, he becomes a person, and she Angela, instead of Miss Angela.

From there, the revue skips merrily along, zinging and zagging with funny songs like "I'm in love with teacher, she's the Square Root of my heart," to serious issues like AIDS, sexually transmitted diseases, and

The cast gets the audience on their feet in a skit about funding cuts in Detroit Public Schools. There are no instruments, but the band has a concert to present.

Band director, (Grant Krause) leads as cast, and audience play keys, stomp their feet, make mouth noises, and sing. It all comes together harmoniously in a rousing version of "Twist and Shout." The stadium issue is tackled by two football players who happen to be gay — "I like Pontiac, there's so much to do. It's OK to be gay in Pontiac, like Ginsberg and Kerouac."

This show is about diversity, and understanding — "I have money, I am broke. I like Pepsi, I like Coke. I like Friends' I like "ER' —its message — "Ain't nothing wrong with being one big nation undecided," comes across loud and clear.

CRAFT FAIR

Old Village Craft Fair

of Plymouth's historic Old Village. ent 10 e.m. to 6 p.m. Seturday, Oct. 5, and until 5 p.m. Sunday,

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Diane Quinn thought it was about time to present a craft show in Plymouth's historic Old Village, Quinn founded Art in the Park in Plymouth 15 years ago with 30 artists. Last July, more than 350 exhibitors displayed their wares in and around Kellogg Park. Now, Quinn has the same vision for Old Village only on a smaller scale.

Browse through more than 50 booths at the first Old Village Craft Fair this weekend. The show will start in Cannon Park on Starkweather, wind through Cobblectone Alley then down to Spring and Liberty where in the 1800s village shops housed a collection of dry goods, groceries and general merchandise. Santas of every description from ones made of vintage fabrics and quilts by Peggy Bonbrisco to 5 foot wood Old St. Nicks by David Hacker will be displayed along with handmade beeswax candles and brooms by Ron Lindgren of Hillsdale, and country wood crafts and tole painting by Debbie and Chris Bonbright of Westland.

ARTISTS CREATE WORKS "OUT OF SOUTUDE"

Redford sculptor Evelyn Bachorkski-Bowman is one of one hundred women artists showcased in the exhibit "Out of Solitude" continuing through Oct. 12 at the Michigan Gallery, 2261 Michigan Avenue in Detroit. The show was curated by Marianne Letassi of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

An admirer of master sculptors Rodin and Donatello. Bowman earned her master of fine arts degree in sculpture from Wayne State University in Detroit. Her goal is to capture the human figure and spirit in her work in the tradition of figurative art. Her sculpture has been exhibited at the Focus Gallery and the Scarab Club in Detroit.

Hours for the Michigan Gallery show run 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, and until 5 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. For more information call (313) 961-7867.

dating back from the Civil War to the early 1900s. A portion of the proceeds of their sales will be donated to the Plymouth Historical Museum to assist in further preservation of treasured photographs.

Besides woodcut prints of people, ducks and sailboats by. Michael McCullough of Redford, fair visitors will have the opportunity to paint ceramic tiles at the Plymouth Community Arts Council's booth.

Diana Licht, a merchant on North Mill, is excited about the fair. She hopes people will take time out from viewing the crafts to stop into Petticoats, a shop selling children's and women's unique handmade clothing, many of which are cut from vintage fabrics. Licht spent the summer showing her wares at festivals in Northern Michigan.

"Dianne Quinn puts on such a great show, I'm sure it's going to draw large crowds and that can only benefit the merchants in Old Village," said Licht who will also display hand painted furniture by Plymouth artist Debbie work and sculpture. Malek.

Lori Carollo agrees with Licht that the fair will give Old Village merchants exposure. She coowns Picadilly's, a shop specializing in decoratives for the home and garden, with Paul Bezaire. Local artists will be painting furniture in their adjoining garden during the craft show.

"Even if they don't come in during the fair, I know eventually they'll come back and stop in," said Carollo, a native of Naples, Florida where small shops, not malls, are all the rage.

Other merchants and restaurants will also participate in the event. Station 885 will offer an Octoberfest menu; Harvey's Olde Village Deli, outdoor cooking and live entertainment on the deck, and the Lower Town Grille in conjunction with Fleetwood Foundation Charities, appetizers and refreshments in a tent on Liberty. The Robin's Nest Antique Mall will spotlight Glen Allen painting a mural on the side of the building. Inside, there will be a display of his art-

Bead Bonanza offers beads, beads, beads

Plymouth glass artist Don Schneider has a message for bead lovers. Whether you collect beads, string them, or simply admire the way they look when used in jewelry, incorporated in artworks or embroidered on clothes, the second annual Bead Bonanza hosted by the Great Lakes Beadworkers Guild is the place to be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 6 at the Van Dyke Park Hotel, Van Dyke Avenue between 13 and 14 Mile in Warren. Admission is $2 for adults, children age 6 and under free. For information call (810) 977-5935. Schneider along with Fred Birkhill, University of Michigan art professor and Albert Young, Center for Creative Studies glass professor and owner of the Michigan Hot Glass Studio in Pontiac, will be demonstrating beadmaking and lampworking skills at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. All three are nationallyknown glass artists.

"Glass beadmaking preceded the invention of the blow pipe by about 2,500 years. Part of the idea for the show is educating people about beadmaking and working. It's not hard to imagine this show becoming the premier show in the Midwest in a few years," said Schneider who recently returned from giving similar demonstrations in Seattle, Chicago and Boston.

Schneider has clearance from the Warren fire chief and is licensed by the Detroit Fire Department to demonstrate his techniques over a torch burning at 3.800 degrees Fahrenheit. Visitors, mesmerized by the flame, can watch as he makes millefiori (Italian for a thousand flowers) beads. Using a hot glass technique is risky business. Twirling the literally red-hot glowing glass rods over an open flame requires an intense amount of concentration.

"It's very safe and we're very careful about what we do." Schneider said.

Last year's show included 30 This year Bead vendors. Bonanza chairperson Posey Macedonia of Troy looks forward to presenting 41 bead vendors from Tallahassee to Virginia Beach and Royal Oak. Every kind of bead imaginable from handmade collectible art beads to imported glass, ethnic and antique will be on hand along with books, findings, tools, and glass beadmaking equipment. A 60 item bead auction, silent until 2 p.m. when Schneider takes over the calling chores, features loose as well as finished pieces such as earrings and necklaces donated by vendors and Guild members. The auction is a benefit for The Bead Museum in Prescott, Arizona. It was founded by 82 year old Gabrielle Liese who spent decades traveling and collecting beads and finished jewelry to display at the museum. er duties to provide the museum with more space and staff. The auction will help raise money to assist in the upkeep of the museum and the move from Arizona to Washington, D.C. "I'm really excited the show has grown and for that many people to be excited about being in it. We'll have everything from delica's from Japan to chicklet beads of figurines like little dogs and cats, and wonder beads from Hummingbeads. It's the only show of this type in the state. The others are wholesale shows; the public isn't allowed," said Macedonia who knits beads into new purses as well as restores antique evening bags. Her work is available at Complements in Lake Orion.

Gerry Dimond, owner of Findings bead store in Ann Arbor, is one of the vendors. She will bring seed beads, Japanese and Czechoslovakian glass beads, tools, and supplies. A member of the GLBG, Dimond opened her shop two years ago after leaving a 9 to 5 job because

Donny Osmond continues recovery, makes cameo appearance

BY MATT JACHMAN

Donny Osmond has not recovered enough from damaged vocal cords to reclaim the title role in the musical "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," a role he has been singing since June of 1992.

Not to worry. Sam Harris is getting fantastic word-of-mouth reviews as Osmond's replacement. The show continues at Detroit's Fox Theatre through Saturday, Oct. 12.

Thing You Do!"

JOHN MONAGHAN

ented young drummer whose rock band hits the top of the charts. Practicing nightly in an Erie, Pennsylvania garage, the Wonders have picked

With "That Beatles, troubadours of the British Invasion. Their signature song, "That Thing You Do!" lands them first prize in a local talent competition and a weekend gig at a pizza restaurant by the airport.

It's all uphill from there almost. Soon they're playing state fairs, signed by Playtone Records and represented by a slick manager (played by Tom Hanks). He wrangles them a small part in a beach movie and then instant fame on an Ed Sullivan-like variety show.

The director has found an alter ego in Tom Everett Scott, whose drummer Guy Patterson looks like a young version of Hanks: cute, a little gawky, naturally talented, and just oozing sincerity. Seeing him and Hanks together on screen looks more like father ... Hanks, who also wrote the and son than musician and man-up the licks and spirit of The Babies" approach to casting brings a certain comfort level to the movie, but also hints at how formulaic it all is.

> The music, by Howard Shore, captures the period well, It's a credit to the title song that I barely got sick of hearing it even after a dozen times. As in the infinitely more ambitious "Grace of My Heart," the movie has our heroes interact with thinly-disguised versions of real-life performers of the time.

Set in the months shortly after the JFK assassination, the movie has done its homework fairly well. It mines the usual pop culture icons and also tips a hat to Richard Lester's "A Hard Day's Night," especially in a montage in which the boys tumble across a yard-sized map of the United script, treats this story without a trace of irony. He gets caught up in the optimism of the band and of the time, best seen in the moment where Lenny, awed by the thousands who have come to see them, asks Guy, "How did we get here?"

But the honesty that Hanks has made a career out of in his own performances doesn't always translate to "That Thing" You Do!" Like the title song, it's got a nice beat, you can dance to it, but it's also so derivative of things we've encountered before that it's barely worth sitting through again.

Hanks falls especially short in the romantic department, keeping a girl on the side who you just know Guy is going to fall for. She's played by Liv Tyler, who, like contemporary Cameron Diaz, has chosen a strange plate of films (including Bertolucci's "Stealing Beauty") to make her a star, And, strangely enough, this may be the only irony: In a movie about one-hit wonders, "That Thing You Do!" helps make Tyler little more than this year's

STREET SCENE Eels' single slithers through need for numbness

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAPP WRITER

Eels fans have had high expectations for the quirky alternapop band ever since the Mark Romanek-lensed video for its single "Novocaine for the Soul" was named an MTV Buzz Clip."

"We really know how to fly." singer/guitarist/keyboardist E said during a recent phone conversation from Framingham, Mass. "The problem is now at concerts people are expecting us to fly. But we could either fly or channel all our energy into rocking as hard as we can and giving them the best show that we can. If they want flying, they should go to a Kiss concert. We might spit blood, though, maybe not intentionally."

Fans can try to convince the band otherwise when it opens for Poe at the 7th House in Pontiac on Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Eels formed after Yirginia native E (ne Mike Edwards), who put out two solo albums -1992's "A Man Called E" and 1993's "Broken Toy Shop" - on Polydor Records, met his bandmates during a jam session at Mint, a Los Angeles club.

"I was perfectly happy being a solo artist and figured I always would be one," E explained. "The songs on 'Beautiful Freak' were actually meant to be my third solo album. But I met Butch and Tommy along the way. I was so impressed with our chemistry as a live band, I decided to swallow my pride and be a band member. It's really exciting. It's really fun to be a part of a band. It's a completely different dynamic."

After gigging around town in late 1995, the band met Michael

Simpson of the production team the Dust Brothers (Beck, Beastie Boys), who was by then an A&R rep for DreamWorks. Earlier this year, the band signed with the label and began selecting songs for "Beautiful Freak."

deal with another label, but I DreamWorks because of the people who work there. These are some of the most well-respected people in the business."

The label is founded by David Geffen and run by the legendary Warner Bros. executive team of Mo Ostin, his son Michael, and was the primary knob-turner. "I'm the beautiful control freak," he said with a laugh. Beautiful Freak slithers through pop-soul, hip-hop, guitar rock, jazzy samples, and a touch of Motown influence as heard in the opening to "Novocaine for the Soul." To pay homage to his influence, E said that he hopes to visit the Motown Museum while he's in town.

"We're a modern version of Motown, I think, in a way because what we do is we try to put this life-affirming element in the music that's like an extra lyric. That keeps our record different from the others that are wallowing in depression. That's what the whole Motown thing was about. It's obviously a different thing here but I've always understood why that is a powerful thing," he said.

"(It says), 'I'm sad but it's OK to be sad. I'm gonna survive.' I've already gave up and bounced "Beautiful Freak" digs deep in the trenches of being an outsider. Alternately lush and painstakingly honest, "Susan's House" explores the urban yet bohemic nature of his Los Angeles neigh-"We could have gotten a bigger borhood. The simplicity of the statement "Goin' over to Susan's really wanted to sign with house/I can't be alone tonight" is quickly followed by the harsh reality of Echo Park, "Down by the Donut Prince, a 15-year-old boy lies on the sidewalk with a bullet in his forehead/In a final act of indignity the paramedics take off all his clothes for the whole world to see while they put him in the bag," a narrative told over a hip-hop beat.

> The morose song "Guest List" confronts the empty feeling of being left off a guest list at a club, and the attitude of the bouncers who don't believe that the person is supposed to be on the list: "Wanna be of the beautiful people/Wanna feel like I'm missed/Hey you with the walkietalkie/ I know my clothes are not right/I wish I had my own walkie-talkie/ that reached to God every night/Everyone needs to be somebody/Everyone needs to find someone who cares/But I don't know if you know what I mean 'cause I'm/Never on your

> The need to feel numb is dealt with in the lead-off single, "Novocaine for the Soul": "Life is good/ and I feel great/ 'cause mother says I was a great mistake/Novocaine for the soul/You'd better give me somethin' to fill the hole/Before the sputter out."

> "It's a song about being afraid to feel," E explained. "I wanted to write a non-judgmental view of our need for numbness and it's

"The album's about getting to the bottom of whatever's on the surface; to get in touch with what you're feeling. That's what it is for me. I wanted to be unblinkingly naked on these songs and 'Novocaine For The Soul' is a complicated song. It's unblinkingly naked about the

Mark Kozelek, singer/guitarist/songwriter for the San Francisco band Red House Painters, appreciates the art of musical experimentation. So when it came time to record "Songs for a Blue Guitar" he continued that tradition - much to the dismay of his label, 4AD.

"They liked about 80 percent of it. They wanted to release the same record. They just wanted to leave some stuff off of it - 'Silly Love Songs,' and 'Make Like Paper,' "Kozelek explained.
True to Kozelek's form, he took the Paul McCartney staple "Silly Love Songs" and turned it into a 10 minute and 57 second somber

"I think I can listen to songs that aren't very good and I can always hear a redeeming quality in them. ... I can listen to a song like 'Silly Love Songs' or 'Shock Me' by Ace Frehley and I can hear something that's good. It's just fun and challenging to cover songs that way - to take some-

Blended with the minimalist acoustic tracks are songs like "Make Like Paper," a rollicking, ragged song reminiscent of Neil Young and Crazy Horse. Pleased with his collection of songs, Kozelek wasn't about to leave either off the record.

"The things they wanted to do with the record I just felt like we would have been putting 'Ocean Beach' out again. I felt that those elements that they didn't like was what was growth for us. It was a change. ... They were caught up in a certain thing that we did. (On 'Songs for a Blue Guitar' the bare, acoustic track) Trailways' is a good example of that. Dick O'Dows brings the old sod to Birmingham

BY JOE BAUMAN STAPP WRITER

Dick O'Dows Irish Pub has taken Birmingham by storm since its opening two weeks ago, providing authentic cuisine and beverages in a fun and casual atmosphere easily mistaken for a pub on the Emerald Isle.

Dick O'Dows, 160 W. Maple in the site of the former Machus 160 restaurant, is the brainchild of co-owners Dick O'Connor and Peter Dow and managing partner Mitch Black. The pub is a franchise of the Irish Pub Co., a division of Guinness and one of only two in the United States.

Diners entering the restaurant will think they have been magically transported to Ireland, thanks to the meticulous detail that went into creating the interior. Much of the decor was brought over from Ireland. including the stone arch at the center of the bar which came from a quarry in Liscanner. Ireland, and was salvaged from a hospital near there built in the 18th century.

Heavy cups, tankards, swords and cookie tins adorn tables and chair railings along the walls, and three artists hired by the Irish Pub Co. spent a week placing Celtic lettering on the walls and using imagery on the ceilings to convey the feeling of being in Ireland. Guinness also exacted authenticity by sending technicians over to put the draft beer system in. Live Irish music is featured on weekends.

O'Dow, former president of the Campbell/Ewald ad agency, and O'Connor, who plans to retire at the end of the year as vice president of the firm, have big plans for their new venture. Additional sites are being scouted around the country, and a private food line may soon be showing up on the shelves of area specialty shops.

On a recent visit, a dozen area members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians were on hand to sample the cuisine and atmosphere of Dick O'Dows, and gave. both a big "thumbs up."

One member said Dick O'Dows was reminiscent of a typical pub in County Kerry, Ireland, while another called chef Joe Moriconi's Irish Stew "excellent."

Moriconi's presence in the kitchen is as much an oddity as the restaurant's presence in Birmingham. The chef describes himself as "Sicilian through and through," and has received most of his training in French technique with stints at Les Auteurs, Avenue Diner first under Ed Janos and then Mike Dunn, and finally at Jake's on the Lake before accepting his current assignment.

Moriconi has no formal education in the culinary arts, saying he is a graduate "of the school of hard knocks."

"I learned to cook at the knee of my grandmother," he explained. His philosophy for Dick O'Dows menu? "I just want to cook good, simple food and make people happy."

That includes obliging special requests from diners. "If I have it in the kitchen, I'll cook it." Most of the dishes were either created by Moriconi, or are "jazzed up"...

versions of traditional Irish fare. Moricon's menu includes nine, seafood dominated starters including Irish favorites Angels on Horseback, grilled-bacon wrapped oysters served with carrot chive coulis and brown bread ($7.95), rich, silky smoked salmon sliced thin and served with red onion relish, capers and brown bread ($7.95), and Dublin Coddle, described as traditional Irish grub with bacon, sausage, onions and potatoes stewed with herbs.

Four starters are offered including Farmhand's salad ($4.25), a mixture of mixed greens, cabbage, tomatoes, red onion, cucumbers, cheddar and bleu cheeses, hard cooked egg and ploughman's vegetables with pub dressing; a traditional Caesar salad and potato and leek soup, topped with fried leeks.

Eight sandwiches run from $4.25-$7.95, including the early crowd favorite, a grilled chicken club with cider marinated chicken breast served with bacon, greens, tomato and pub-made blackberry-apple marmalade; and the "screamin" steak sandwich, featuring grilled rib-eye peas and onions in a rich white sauce, named for the chef's nickname.

Ten entrees priced between $7.95 and $16.95 include traditional Irish dishes corned beef and cabbage ($9.95); Irish stew ($9.95) featuring lamb stewed with potatoes, onions, carrots and fresh herbs; Shepherd's Pie ($8.95), a combination of ground beef with mushrooms, carrots, with sauteed peppers mush sauce topped with a baked rooms, Swiss cheese and special champ (mashed potatoes) and cheddar cheese medallions of beef tenderloin grilled with Guinness sauce and served with champ and daily vegetable ($16.95); and Boxty ($12.95), a potato pancake stuffed with corned beef and cabbage.

Although no dessert is listed on the menu, be sure to ask a member of the wait staff for the daily offering. The entire staff trained for a month prior to the opening, learning about the cuisine and the 10 draft beers offered by the pint and half-pint including Guinness (of course), Harp's, Bass, Newcastle and other specialty beers. Wine drinkers will find a brief but well-selected list of reds and whites, as well as several sparkling wines. Several are offered by the glass.

Troy living is the big draw at Stonecrest

People already living in Troy and familiar with the amenities of that community will be especially attracted to Stonecrest, a single-family platted subdivision, the developer/builder pro-

Fifty-four lots have been staked out by Saylor Building west off Dequindre between Long Lake and Square Lake

"We built Long Lake Meadows five years ago, and we found people moved from one part of Troy to there," said Joseph M. Saylor. "We find that's happening again. People living in surrounding subs are ready for a change. They bring their neighbors, too."

Prices in Stonecrest range from $216,900 for a 2,280square-foot two story with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $243,990 for a two story of 2,358 square feet with three bedrooms including a first-floor master and 2-1/2 baths.

"I really think one of the best things about the sub is there are no busy streets through here." Saylor said. "All roads are culde-sacs. For families, that's important. It's a nice, self-contained unit.

"Another big draw is Troy schools," he continued. "They're exemplary schools."

"It's close to Troy Beaumont (Hospital), close to M-59 and not far from I-75," said Claudia J. Tripp, sales director. "It's good pricing and square footage."

"Our floor plans are up to date for what people want - open foyers, walk-in closets," Saylor added.

Six floor plans are available. Standard features at base price in all plans include fireplace, first-floor laundry with tub and cabinet, dishwasher, two-car attached garage and basement.

For the purchase of existing home

How do you know that the house you have just selected to buy is worth the price the seller is ask-

One common way is to ask your Realtor for an analysis of area home prices. This is how John O'Brien, an associate broker with Real estate One in Northville, handles this ques-

This process helps demonstrate a range of value for a home in the current market-

To gain an assessment, from the mortgage lender's point of view, the appraiser working for the lender uses the same approach, looking for the most comparable recent home sales located closest to the property.

For the purchase of a new construction home:

The relationship you establish with the buyer is important, and you should really feel comfortable with your choice. Before you make the big step of hiring a builder and signing a contract to build a new home, take a few minutes to consider just how much you know about this builder.

The most important issue when choosing a builder for a new home is researching the builder's background, according to Charlene Graham, a construction specialist with Old Kent Mortgage Co. in Farmington

"The buyer should check out the builder more thoroughly before signing a contract"

Charlene points out that there is a 900 number people can call to check out their builder. "You can call the Department of Licensing at 1-900-555-8374 with any complaints or disciplinary actions.".

She adds that buyers should "read the contract. So many times I have seen disputes on what the buyer thought was included in the builder's contract and what was not included."

Make sure you read all the fine print.

Remember that when you sign a contract, you must be aware of just what portion of the construction process will be your responsibility and what exactly the builder's will be.

This way, you can avoid surprises that can make the whole experience unpleasant.

Ten tips to prepare for the cold months

For most homeowners, household maintenance and improvements are ongoing year 'round. Luckily, there usually is a season when it is most appropriate to undertake particular tasks, so caring for a home need not be too overwhelming.

To get homeowners started, the CertainTeed Home Institute has prepared the following guide for maintenance and home improvements this season:

Clean and store outdoor furniture. It will last longer and be more quickly available in the spring if it is cleaned and thoughtfully stored now.

spouts to prevent serious damage to your home resulting from poor drainage. To clean them, choose a dry day since you'll need to stand on a ladder. Stand below the level of each gutter and using a towel, scoop out debris into a bag or onto the ground for sweeping up later.

Upgrade attic insulation. If your home was built before 1980, chances are it needs more insulation to meet today's Department of Energy recommended levels for residential insulation.

■ Maintain garage doors. Garage doors should slide smoothly when going up and down. Lubricate the rollers (the small wheels attached to the sides of the door) with a few drops of household oil or spray a small amount of silicone lubrication onto their spindles. Also check that the hinges are fastened securely to the door panels and tighten the screws if they are loose.

Organize the garage. The Clean gutters and down- goal of a well-functioning garage is to get everything you can off the floor. Walls, for instance, offer a wealth of storage opportunities. Hooks and pegboards are perfect for storing things like garden tools. Plastic bins or storage racks are good ideas as well.

> Caulk to prevent drafts. Caulking is a successful way to achieve a draft-proof home. Caulk around stationary parts of window and door frames, where house siding joins at corners or meets the roof eaves and foundation, around wall and roof vents, skylights and chimneys, around exterior water faucets and where other plumbing or electric wiring enters the home.

■ Weatherstrip windows and doors. Drafty windows and doors rob heat from homes. Sealing them with weatherstripping is an easy, quick and effective cure to this problem. For double-hung windows, use channel stripping. For doors, seal the sides and tip of the door, then the bottom using foam edged wooden strips. Both products are available from your building materials retailer.

■ Maintain storm windows and doors. Before the cold weather arrives, make minor repairs on storm doors and windows to prevent major annoyances later on. Rub frames and sashes with fine steel wool to rid them of corrosion. Then wipe with paste for further protection. Also, spray windows with silicone lubricant

■ Prepare your heating system to begin working again. You can call a professional heating technician for inspection and service.

■ Drain pipes to prevent freezing. The surest way to prevent pipes from freezing is to drain them before the colder weather arrives. To drain pipes supplying water to outside faucets, first close off the shutoff valves on the pipes supplying them. Next, open the faucets letting any water in the pipes run out and leave them open until the water supply is turned on again in the spring. Any water still in the pipes can expand if it freezes without creating damaging pressure.

Imagine an exquisite master suite, isolated for your complete privacy, fitted with such amenities as a vaulted ceiling over a generous sleeping area, a huge walk-in closet, private bathroom with twin basins and personal access to a back deck with a roomy built-in spa waiting to ease the tensions of the day.

This is only one of the outstanding features available to you in the 2,714-square-foot Pensive. This remarkable two-story home is a perfect fit for a family with college-age children or aging parents living in the household.

The upper floor of the Pensive is practically an apartment in itself. It has two good-sized bedrooms, one with a built-in writing desk, that any student will appreciate.

There is also a small home office/library with vaulted ceiling and cozy window seat. The full bathroom that serves this floor has three basins and a handy laundry chute to the first-floor utility. Four hundred three square feet of attic space is at hand for storage.

The interior design of the first floor has an open feeling and allows a free flow of movement throughout the Pensive. The family room is adjacent to the breakfast nook and kitchen with only a serving island acting as a separating factor.

Sliding glass doors lead to an expansive back deck that may be the focus of family fun during the summer months. The nook features a bright bay window for enjoying the morning light. In addition to all the built-in appliances, the kitchen boasts a garden window and walk-in pantry.

The vaulted living room, directly in line with the entry, is the perfect spot to entertain your guests. A built-in fireplace will keep everyone snug on the coldest nights. The formal dining room, to the front, has the added benefit of a window seat that projects outward to the front porch.

Located conveniently near the inside entrance to the two-car garage, is a handy utility room with a sink, laundry chute and closet. A half-bath is nearby, and there is extra storage space in the garage.

HOME WORK PAYS OFF

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

Appliance Doctor has had a busy month

For the last month or so, I have been running back and forth to Lansing working on the Appliance Repair Act, doing television interviews on consumer affairs and speaking to groups in between. It is all very exhilarating and make me happy doing what I do.

A few weeks ago I was invited to attend the WXYT expo at the Southfield Civic Center. At this yearly event which I have appeared as since it started, I answer questions about appliances and autograph my book. It is my publisher, Master Handyman Press, which rents a booth and space and provides me this opportunity to help consumers in person. Many people are confused when they see me at this function which is sponsored in total by a competitor of WJR Radio which employs the Appliance Doctor.

WJR has been very good to me and also very concerned about the need for consumer education. They realize that I have been doing all sorts of seminars and home shows with Glenn Haege for the past 10 years and don't want to put a hold on these shows even knowing that a competitor may receive some benefit from my appearance.

Most important is the fact that they want consumers to get to know the Appliance Doctor and gain from the information he distributes as these shows, It goes to show the cliche of competition being good for everyone concerned is true even in the radio busi-

This very newspaper you are reading today is another example of a cooperative effort by people who find it important that consumer education comes before their own self interests. There aren't too many newspapers in this country who allow a radio talk show host to write about his radio career in his or her columns.

Just this past weekend I was the keynote speaker to a group of senior citizens in the city of Livonia. I shouldn't say a group, but instead say a few thousand of seniors who attended the Western Wayne County Senior Citizens Celebration Day and what a day is was for me. Can you imagine yourself being surrounded by hundreds of people who all want an autograph or who all want to ask a question at the same time.

Some of these seniors were getting angry with each other because one was cutting in front of the other etc. All in all, I would like to thank all of them for being there, and for being so nice to me. I can't describe the feeling in my heart when I give that dear old white-haired woman an answer to a question which makes her an even more intelligent consumer. I continue to see the faces of my mother and father anytime I look into the eyes of a senior citizen.

This event was co-sponsored by our government which many of us are quick to criticize for whatever reason. In this case they should be praised for their efforts to help consumers in regards to everyday spending. There were all sorts of booths which were staffed by people in business who were there to lend assistance to any senior in attendance. Responsibility for this event falls on the shoulders of state Reps. Bankes, Law. Ryan and Whyman and I trust they will continue to be involved with more issues of consumerism in the future.

Meanwhile, I will look forward to meeting many of the readers of this column at the upcoming home and garden shows around Detroit. Thanks to all of you for putting me on a pedestal, but remember, I am just an appliance repairman representing others who are the good guys in my industry.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM.

Summa time

WEARABLE ART: Santa Fe designer Susan Summa brings her wearable knitted art to Mesa Arts, 32800 Franklin Road, Franklin, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 4, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5. The trunk show features two collections, knitted in linen and cotton: Peruvian, based on ancient Andean color and graphic patterning, with sweaters/jackets in soft, smoky blue, smoky pink and burnished umber; and Ironwork, based on antique iron tools and grille work, with black and natural hemp creating smoky, neutral combinations in tweeds and subtle patterns. Summa's background in architectural interiors and textiles led her to design wearable knitted art with a strong emphasis on geometric shapes. Her knitted sweaters, jackets and coats are carefully researched from folk art, architectural ornament, primitive cave dwellings and ethnic textiles. She will take custom orders while at Mesa Arts. Call (810) 851-9949.

Furniture artistry

FIRST SHOW: The Leelangu Furniture Artists will host their inaugural Leelanau Furniture Show Friday Sunday, Oct. 11-13, at the Old Art Building in Leland, Mich. This event will introduce the public to innovative, functional and significant furniture design by regional craftspeople including Robert Purvis, Bill Perkins, Larry Fox, Dave Elmgren and Emily Lichty-Woods. It will feature furnishings with works in metal, stone, glass, fiber and ceramics as well as species woods. More than a dozen artists and artisans from western and northern Michigan will be participating. Hours are 6-10 p.m. Oct. 11, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Oct. 12 and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 13. Call (616) 386-7568 for information.

Autumn items

AT THE TABLE: Hudson's "Shoctober Shops" showcase many items that are available for decorating your home or hosting a party in the spirit of Halloween. Among the merchandise are skinny wood figures including a wizard, ghost and pilgrim, $5 each, and a Manual Woodworkers pumpkin-carving runner, $32.

INVITING IDEAS

MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Cool weather is coming and the gardens are going to seed time to get the last remnants of summer, dried or preserved. This activity seems a bit anticlimactic come late September invite some friends to spend a day of gathering, preserving and cooking - make the most of the fruits of your labor, and share the goodies with those that help.

Green tomatoes still left on the vine? Make a batch of pickled green tomatoes, green tomato chutney, or batter and fry up some Southern fried green tomatoes. Pepper plants still fruiting? I'm still picking my cayennes, hot cherry peppers, and anchos - which have been very late this year. Cayennes are great dried - you can dry them by hanging them in a mesh bag and hanging them in a warm area, by placing them on a wire rack, much like sundrying tomatoes, or by threading them. Once your peppers are dry; you can split them and put them into a bottle of vinegar or oil, dry and reconstitute them when needed, or grind them into powder and use them to spice up any

My big harvest is always my herbs (I harvest the bulk of them when the plants that are ready to flower, and rich in essential oils - usually in late July or early August). Even in nippy weather, morning gatherings are best. When cutting your herbs, leave a lot of stem - if bottom leaves are tough, remove them. Gently wash the herbs - let dry on paper toweling or on clean cloth kitchen towels.

Bunch drying/Bag drying: place 6-10 stems per brown paper sack - large enough so the herbs don't touch the sides of the bag. Loosely tie the end of the sack leaving approximately 2 inches of stem showing. Hang the bags with leaves facing down in a warm, "airy" room with little light. Bag drying also allows for seeds to be caught for saving, and protects the herbs from collecting dust. When the leaves of your herbs are thoroughly dry (brittle) remove leaves from their stems and store in air-tight

Herb rack method: use an antique or hand-built herb rack. This method provides an alternative to hanging culinary herbs from a beam or hooks in the ceiling. Hang the herbs upside down on the rack in small tied bunches - do not in or outdoors. place too close together.

Wire mesh rack: spread herbs in a thin layer - as with other drying methods, make sure there is little light and lots of air circulating in the room. Gently stir the herbs from day to day to enable even drying.

Freezer preservation: this method works best on culinary herbs that have soft leaves. Parsley, chives and basil are best preserved in this method. Pick freezable herbs early in the morning when dew is still clinging to them rinse them gently and shake off excess water. Place the herbs in small freezer bags. Use frozen herbs as you would fresh.

Dill and coriander are best preserved when pureed with a small amount of water and placed in ice cube trays once frozen place herb cubes in plastic bags and use in sauces, soups and

Dried and frozen herbs are best used within one year - label them! Like other foodstuffs, do not refreeze once de-frosted.

HERB IDEAS FOR THE HOLIDAYS AND FOR HOSTESS GIFTS

Small tied bunches of herbs make for great basting brushes - these can be used all year round, for use in grilling

a combination of: thyme, lavender, rosemary, summer savory and basil. This wonderful combination is delicious on tomato-based foods and lamb!

Give a selection of Bouquet Garni as gifts - traditionally a combination of parsley, thyme and bay leaves, try using different herbs to make up interesting flavors - tie up herbs in a small piece of muslin and secure with kitchen twine or place herbs in a sterling silver antique tea strainer and give as a very special gift.

Develop an assortment of herbed salts - add you favorite herb(s) to coarse salt (Kosher or Sea) grind and place in an attractive air-tight contain-

Give a gift of beautifully tied assorted herbs (use hand dyed yarns or string) label them and indicate they are for throwing over coals when grilling.

Make herb butters - place in interesting crocks (new or antique). If using for the holidays,- freeze.

Make herb wreaths by glue-gunning herb leaves on a grape vine (bay leaves work great - then paint with gold gilt).

Make big batches of soup loaded with herbs - freeze in individual containers and give as gifts - especially to those single friends that only eat microwave quickies.

Make herb vinegars and oils - place in interesting and unique bottles. Flavored vinegar is one of those wonderful no-brainers! When making vinegar; always use a high quality wine vinegar - herbs and flavors will not mask poor vinegar quality, make sure all of your equipment is washed in hot soapy water and rinsed in hot clear water, use fresh, unblemished herbs - discard any leaves that are brown or bug-eaten.

TARRAGON VINEGAR

1.4-liter (16-cup) glass jar with gasket lid

16 cups Champagne vinegar

Large bunch of fresh tarragon, lightly bruised

4-6 small, fresh, hot peppers - slit, not sliced

5 large cloves garlic, peeled

2 teaspoons coriander seeds

1 teaspoon melange (multi-colored) of whole peppercorns

Warm the champagne vinegar with two teaspoons of sugar in a large nonreactive pot.

Place the tarragon, hot peppers, garlic, coriander seeds and peppercorns in the glass jar.

Pour the warmed vinegar into the jar and seal. Place the steeping jar into a dark, cool room for 4 weeks.

Strain the steeped vinegar. Using a funnel, fill the glass bottles and add fresh sprigs of tarragon and a small whole pepper or two. Cork or seal the bottles.

NTERIOR MOTIVES

These design geniuses have led the way

STONE LEVY

There are so many prestigious names in the world of design that I could scarcely list all of them. However, I would like to acquaint you with several that are considered so important in their fields they cannot be ignored. They are unquestionably the arbiters of great taste of the 20th century.

- Eliel Saarinen architecture and furniture
- Florence Knoll fabrics and furniture
 - Jack Lenor Larsen fabrics
 - Philip Johnson architecture
- Charles and Ray Eames 'furni-
- Frank Lloyd Wright architecture, furniture and household items and furniture

- Le Corbusier architecture and furniture
- Philippe Stark furniture and household items
- George Nelson tableware, household items, architecture and furniture

It is interesting to acknowledge that the first three geniuses are connected with our own Cranbrook school in Bloomfield Hills. Doesn't that speak volumes about the quality of its art program? Almost all of the above embraced the theory that less is more. Those three words say all there is to say regarding contemporary.

Eliel Saarinen was the architect of Cranbrook. He also designed much of the furniture. Have you ever accorded yourself and your family the privilege and pleasure of visiting that campus? What a treat! Do it! It is world renowned.

ing the drawers. Polished steel frames and exotic woods, such as rosewood, spoke for themselves. Her fabrics have withstood the tests of time. They are as wonderful as they were 20 years ago.

Jack Lenor Larsen, another Cranbrook superstar, has built a world around his innovative fabrics. The weaves of his upholstery materials are often knobby, and and so very subtle in hue and color. He also experimented with "sheers" that befit the miles of glass of the current buildings. See out, but don't see in.

Frank Lloyd Wright practiced architecture for more than 60 years. He did design some high-rise edifices, but his preference was always for low buildings that seemed to hug the ground as though they emerged from the soil. These were two diametrically opposing theories, each of which elicited its own style of furniture. He designed more ponderous oak furniture that was essential to the wood beams and otherwise wood interiors of some of his lower ceilinged homes. His versatility was awesome. There are many, many books devoted to his genius. I suggest the

The ever-famous Eames chair and ottoman was the first time a very large lounge chair was fashioned of molded and formed rosewood plywood and leather. It is open and light in concept. Its configuration forever changed bulky chairs.

Philippe Stark is still expounding his ultra-slim, almost delicate furniture; even though it is "structural" in concept. No one does it as well as he. His imitators fail to replicate his work. Inquire where you can see it for yourself. He is worth the acquaintance.

George Nelson is well known for his fiesta bright colored tableware. Thispure red, blue, green and orange pottery has been in the marketplace for decades. His beginnings also embraced architecture and furniture.

It is fascinating to note that great architecture was the forerunner of almost everything esthetic. This is true of the 20th century. It also is true of the entire history of design of the world.

an automatic underground sprinkler system. Is there anything we should do to the system before win-

A. Very simply: Yes. Your system needs to be winterized!

First, let's define the sprinkler sys- with maximum coverage and minimum

'Q. We just purchased a home with 'tem. A lawn sprinkler system is a rather straightforward combination of basic materials and equipment. They are put together with a reasonable amount of study and planning, which assures the practical application of those components. That application is to water your lawn and landscaping water usage.

. The proper shut down in the fall for a sprinkler system is called a winterization. Winterizing is the removal of water from the sprinkler system. The water is removed by hooking an air compressor to the irrigation system and blowing out the water through the sprinkler heads.

If the water isn't removed, it will freeze and expand into the irrigation system, breaking the pipes, valves and backflow preventers. Without proper winterization, irrigation system owners face the possibility of expensive and unnecessary repairs the following sea-

The next step is contacting the proper company to do the work. By using the right techniques and the right tools, an irrigation contractor can properly flush out a sprinkler system, eliminating the chances of damage due to freezing. Consider these steps in choosing an irrigation contractor:

- Be sure they are a local contractor with an established business location.
- Check to see if they are insured.
- Be sure you receive a written work order and a receipt for work performed.
- Be sure you receive a written work order and a receipt for work performed.
- Be sure they warranty their work against spring start-up damage.

Always pay be check and the check should be written to a company, not an individual. You can expect to be charged in the range of $40 to $60 for the average residential site. Don't be taken in by the land sharks who drive through the neighborhoods offering the super low rates for cash-only deals. Often their work is inferior and they can't be found in the spring when the damage is discovered. Remember, a legitimate contractor will always give you a business card and a receipt for work done. This type of contractor wants you to call them in the spring when it is time to turn the system on again. Good luck!

MONTE NAGLER

We all had a terrific summer full of hot days and plenty of beach and sunshine. And we kind of hate to see it go.

But there is something to look forward to: the fall season. For seldom is there a better time to photograph. Fall is truly a painter's palette and you with your camera become the artist.

As the fall color change creeps gently southward, many an abundance of photographic opportunity awaits you. Miles of roads and trails will display rainbows of color and the numerous parks in the area will be alive with vibrant hues.

Here are some tips on how you can capture this color spectacular on film.

Shoot in the morning or afternoon. These times will produce maximum shadows and textures and will make your shots look more "alive." Try to position yourself to achieve back or side lighting, too.

Use whatever lens suits you best. Remember that a wide angle lens will give a greater expanse to your shot whereas a telephoto will move you in close to isolate a particular tree or capture a splash of color in a cluster of fallen leaves. If you have closeup equip-

We all had a terrifice ment, you'll be able to highlight the ammer full of hot veins in an individual leaf or detail any ays and plenty of other intimate subject.

You'll find that color slide film will produce the most vivid colors. And by setting the film speed 1/4 to 1/2 stop higher than that recommended, you'll further increase color brilliance and saturation. For black and white lovers, don't think fall colors won't give you pleasing results. Under an overcast sky, the contrasts and tones of fall colors will produce very exciting photographs with a full tonal range.

As always, follow good rules of composition. If your shot contains a main subject, place it off-center to make your image appear more dynamic. "Frame" your pictures with overhanging branches or other foliage. Use fences, roads and streams as "lead-in lines" to your photographs.

Be aware of other fall picture-taking opportunities, too. Football games, cider mills in operation and patches of pumpkins are all full of picture potential. No better time of year exists than fall to put memorable shots in your photo album.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is (810) 644-1314.

TACKLING THER ROWN PROJECT

hen Louanne Johnson and her husband, Mark, decided to renovate their 4,000-square-foot West Bloomfield home and add a new kitchen, they never dreamed it would take so long. Divided into two phases, the project lasted 2-1/2 years because the Johnsons, choosing not to hire a builder, did the work themselves with the help of brother-in-law and master carpenter Russ Abate.

"Our friends would ask us when would we be finished. Anyone who has built or renovated knows the inside joke there's just one more molding to go," Louanne Johnson said during a tour of the 19-year-old colonial on Middle Straits Lake.

This was the fourth lakefront home the Johnsons remodeled so it wasn't a totally new experience for them. After firing an architect, Louanne spent seven months drawing up the plans. Living in the house for 11 years, she knew better than anyone where she wanted the 18-by-23-foot kitchen. Phase one began.

Louanne admits a builder would have completed the work in a more timely fashion. However, the savings of not hiring one allowed the couple to buy higher quality materials such as the scratch-resistant granite counter tops in the kitchen.

The center island boasts a stove with retractable vent and light plus plenty of space for chopping, or measuring and mixing ingredients. A spice drawer next to the stoye shortens the time spent sorting through dozens of bottles in search of oregano. Naturally finished hickory cabinetry is in keeping with the 3/4-acre wooded landscape outside the kitchen window.

A rolltop desk next to the telephone hides the clutter of bills and paperwork necessary to run a household. To complete the bright and siry space, Louanne looked for advice from friends who decorated interiors professionally. Floral pattern scarf drapes ordered from a catalog pick up the cranberry veins in the granite.

"The children loved the neighborhood and we loved our lot too much to move. Number one in the kitchen was space and storage but most importantly I wanted a view of the lake," said Louanne, who minored in art in college.

Next phase

The entire main floor was gutted during phase two, the old kitchen torn out, foyer expanded and the laundry room moved to the first floor from an inconvenient space in the basement. Louanne, Mark and children Natalie, 14; Ryan, 12; and Eric, 9; helped remove debris after each room was demolished. In order to let more light in the double front doors, recycled to a walk-out garage, were replaced with a single white door and two sidelights featuring beveled glass designs.

"At the time it was being built, I hated it," Natalie said. "Now the house looks nicer than it did before."

The worst days occurred when the poured cement basement wall was cut open with a wet saw to construct the walk-out garage, Louanne said. Dust, spewed from every vent in the house, took three days to clean up.

"Our house was like a set from Tales from the Crypt.' It looked like there was smoke in the house," Louanne said.

Putting on a new face

When asked which elements of the project

made the biggest difference, Louanne answered with one word: paint. The brick fireplace in the family room became white-beige to accent cocoacolored walls. Neutral colors throughout the first floor encourage a flow between rooms.

"If someone wants to add instant newness to a house they should repaint the trim. All of the trim was painted white. It makes it look much fresher and brighter."

Louanne's painting wizardry extended much further than simply painting woodwork. Classes taken at Bloomfield Decor led to labor intensive decorative painting of walls by Louanne. Surfaces, painted up to four times with a variety of techniques, not only create interest but avoided the costly installation of wallpaper.

But Louanne didn't stop at the walls. An antique chest hidden away in the garage took on a marbleized look. Next came a bench and other furniture. Instead of buying a new dining room set, chairs were recovered with fabric from a local store then painted black and sponged in with green. Louanne loved the decorative painting so much she has started a business with sister Rene Abate.

Mark credits his wife for the success of the finished product. She found and bought materials, caulked and painted, and coordinated the project while he was at work.

"It was Louanne who had the vision to move the kitchen into a totally different area," Mark Johnson said, "and that's how this all began."

AROUND THE HOUSE

Roof leaks can start at joints and valleys

When you hear of roof leaks, your first thought is probably directed to the roof covering, such as the asphalt shingles. You may be surprised to hear that approximately 60 percent of all leaks occur at joints, valleys or projections through the roof.

Typical leak locations are at chimneys, plumbing vents, roof valleys, dormers, joints where a roof meets a wall, skylights and parapet walls. In short, any time you have a roof penetration or projection, you have a more vulnerable area.

Of the remaining 40 percent of roofing problems, approximately 25 percent of roofing failures are due to worn, deteriorated roofing materials. The remaining 15 percent are due to improper roofing material applications, poor workmanship and miscellaneous items.

The remedy for many problem areas is properly installed flashings. Step flashings are typically aluminum "L-shaped" pieces used to divert water away from the projection or roof penetration. Proper flashings and workmanship should help make a dependable roof surface.

In most instances, proper flashings are made up of step and counter-step flashings. The first piece on a step flashing is the "L-shaped" piece mentioned above. The average size is seven inches long and five inches wide. It is bent into the seven-inch length, with three inches and two inches on each side. This step flashing is placed with the three-inch side against the roof shingles and the two-inch side placed vertically against the wall or chimney, etc:

The second piece, known as a counter flashing, covers the vertical portion of the step flashing to keep water deflected away from the top of the step flashing. At a wall, the siding can usually act as an appropriate counter flashing.

At a chimney, the counter flashing looks like an inverted L with the short 3/4-inch portion being inserted into the brick or masonry joints after the mortar has been cut out. On most newer construction, this counter flashing isn't embedded into the joints but is rather fastened to the chimney with mechanical fasteners and sealed at the top. The performance of these joints isn't as good as the "old-fashioned" way and should be monitored for separations.

Farmington

Skylights should be installed on a curb to allow room for proper flashings and shouldn't be installed level at the roof surface. The height of the curb is dictated by the slope of the roof (i.e., roofs with a slope of 4/12 to 6/12 should have a curb of at least four inches). Skylights on flat or nearly flat roofs should have a curb of eight inches or more depending on possible snow accumulation.

Roofs that don't allow water to drain successfully are prone to problems at seams and premature deterioration. Ponding on low slope roofs is generally not considered acceptable if it doesn't evaporate within 48 hours after a rain.

Problem areas should be addressed as soon as possible due to the unavoidable interior damage that will typically occur (e.g., roof sheathing, drywall or plaster and wood-framing components).

Valleys are dependable if the proper materials are used and the workmanship is acceptable. Valleys are vulnerable because a large percentage of the water that hits the roof accumulates in the valleys. This creates a disproportionate amount of wear. It isn't unusual for the valleys to wear out ahead of the shingles.

Homeowners should check their roof after major storms and before and after winter, looking for blown off shingles, tree damage and lifted or missing flashings. Regular review of the roof surface can eliminate the source of many leaks.

Once a roof has been installed, some flashings and roof components aren't visible. Thus, in addition to a visual review of the roof in good weather, it is a good idea to look in an attic during a heavy rainstorm. Some leaks can actually go undetected for years! A few minutes of your time and a strong flashlight during a good drencher may save you unwanted repairs in the long run.

Colorful bulbs brighten garden

Yep, it's that time ods. again to get springflowering bulbs in the ground so that our gardens will soon greet us with color. By choosing bulbs for sequence of bloom, we can enjoy snowdrops in early February to Dutch Iris in July. We can't always predict exactly when they will bloom.

الأركب بالمدارين الأراباء والماكات فالمتعافية فتع المرشي أيتينها وأبثي أناري المنوسي المواجعة والماكنة والمتحافظ أيان

The history of bulbs is ancient. In 1590, Carolus Clusius, a famous botanist of the day who lived in Vienna, established a botanic garden at the University of Leiden in Holland, where he grew all manner of bulbs. The people went nuts to see such plants! Unfortunately Clusius was stingy and wouldn't share his bulbs, and soon the people raided his garden and stole the bulbs. This may have started the tulip toward its commercial success.

At first, only the wealthy could afford bulbs and fortunes were made and lost on them. Some speculators bought bulbs still in the ground and traded those that never existed. Now, however, we can all enjoy these interesting and beautiful flowers.

Growers have been harvesting the bulbs and are now shipping them to their outlets and the little "storage. tanks" are just waiting to settle into. their garden place. As the temperatures indicate they'll begin their growing season after their winter dormant period.

The Netherlands Flower Bulb Association gives the following advice:

· Plant spring flowering bulbs in September, October or November, before the first hard frost. It is wise to plant the bulbs soon after purchase to prevent them from drying out.

• Choose a sunny or shady site (the trees and shrubs won't be fully leafed out before the flowers bloom, nor will perennials be tall enough to shade them).

 Plant the same variety or color for the biggest impact; 10 to 15 tulips, seven to 10 hyacinths, 25 to 30 crocus-

• Bulbs need well-drained soil. If the soil is clay, incorporate sand, sphagnum peat or compost into the bed; they need no additional fertilizer at this time.

• A rule of thumb for depth of planting is to plant the bulbs twice their own depth. Or, large bulbs (i.e. daffodils, tulips and hyacinth), the lower end of the bulb should be five to seven inches down; smaller bulbs, such as snowdrop, and crocus, three inches down.

· After planting the bulbs, keep the soil moist, especially during dry peri-

· For continuous bloom, choose the following:

February/March - Snowdrop, Galanthus; Winter aconite, Eranthis; Iris reticulata; Anemone blanda; the many varieties of Crocus; Puschkinia; Daffodils; Scilla siberica and Spring snowflake, Leucojum vernum.

April/May - Tulips, Triumph and Darwin-hybrid, Lily-flowering and Parrot; Daffodils; Grape hyacinth, Muscari; Crown imperial, Fritillaria imperialis; Hyacinth; Ornamental onion, Allium; Star of Bethlehem, Ornithogalum; and Summer snowflake, Leucojum aestrivum.

And in July you'll still see the Alliums, Bluebell, Scilla campanulata as well as the Dutch Iris.

Selection

Study books and catalogs to assure a long sequence of bloom. Unfortunately, all authors don't agree on information, so sometimes you may have to experiment to find out what works in your garden.

Choose bulbs that are firm, without blemishes. The dry skin won't be a problem if it has sloughed off.

Do buy bulbs from a company that propagates in their facility. For a copy of a brochure, just published by the American Horticulture Society and Fauna and Floral International, which lists those companies that have pledged either to never sell or to clearly label any bulbs that have been collected in the wild, send your name and address with $1 for shipping and handling to: The Good Bulb Guide, AHS, 7931 E. Boulevard Drive, Alexandria, Va. 22308.

If you would like a brochure, "Color All Year Long with Dutch Flower Bulbs," send a business-size, stamped envelope to me at The Observer & Eccentric, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.

TIMELY GARDEN TIPS

· Divide those perennials that bloomed in the summer.

• Don't put weeds in the compost now, unless it is really hot and cooking. • Oct. 12 is the traditional day to

mulch lightly.

• Plant bulbs en masse for a greater impact.

Home theater systems need to be designed

As home theater continues to system, and start upgrading from that increase in popularity, you - whether it's at the start of the football season or for a love of movies - will face the inevitable urge to invest in a home theater system. Where do you begin, and how do you find a system that's right for your home?

High-quality home theater systems are available in all price ranges, beginning at around $1,500, up to systems in the six-figure range. You also can find home theater systems that will mix well with just about any decor. In fact, by working with a custom installer and an interior designer, you'll see that you don't have to pay outrageous prices to get great quality, and you don't have to compromise on aesthetics. Here are some basic tips to get you started.

Begin by taking a look at what you have now - a television, hi-fi VCR, laser disk player, loudspeakers, A/V receiver. Determine the weakest link in your point. A custom installer can help you here and may be the best person to tell you which product you should replace first and what products will blend well with the remaining ones.

Then, consider where the system will be located and the parameters of the space. Do you want your home theater in the living room, or will you create a room exclusively for the system? What size television set will you need? Try to find something that fits the room. You don't want to put an 80-inch television set in a 12-foot-by-12-foot room. Normally, the viewing distance should be three to four times the screen size.

Another important but often overlooked element of home theater is lighting. "Whichever room you select, make sure the lighting is right for the equipment - and that the equipment is right for the room," explains Wayne Puntel, president of AudioCraft, an Ohio-based installation company.

"For example, if you have a front-projection television set in a well-lit room, you won't be able to see the screen." If you decide on a dark home theater media room, you might think about using a projector-type set, which is well-adapted for such an environment.

Next, you need to get the right sound. Quite often, people hear a demonstration in the store, and when they get the equipment home, the sound is different. It's important to pay close attention to the room, because what sounds crisp and clear in one room may not sound as good in others. While sound is subjective to each person, each room also has a different acoustical personality. Puntel adds, "it's imperative that the equipment is placed properly to maximize the effect. If you compromise the placement of your equipment, you will compromise the quality of your system."

theater system, you'll want to consider the type of floor covering and the shape and size of the room. Once you've decided on a system, an interior designer can work with the installer to determine which space to use, how much space to use, and whether to place the projector inside your coffee table. Do you want plush velvet seats? Or, how about gargoyles to create an authentic theater effect? A designer can put the finishing touches on your home theater system and camouflage any components that don't blend in with the decor. If you really want to have some fun, you might even ask your designer about incorporating a popcorn machine.

A main advantage to working with a designer and an installer, and to owning a home theater system made up of several components, is that you can improve a single element of the system at a time.

Courses delight photographer and hiker

Fall is a good time to shape and prune trees or shrubs, dig into the garden one last time, or take a refreshing autumn hike.

Regardless of your level of interest, the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens' adult education courses will help get you started. Members of the Friends of the Botanical Gardens receive 10 percent off any adult education class. Call (313) 998-7061 for information.

Courses include:

• Photography - 9:30-11 a.m. Saturdays. Oct. 5, 12 and 19, $35 per person, conducted by David Bay. Learn the history of photography and the evolution of the camera, which will enable a firsttime buyer to go into the marketplace for a difficult shooting situation with confidence. Learn the advantages of different types of film exposure and depth of field, plus other useful techniques from this professional photographer. The second class date will be a practical shooting session in the conservatory or outdoors. The last class date will be a viewing of the results of the week's photographing and will be directed by requests and questions generated. Bring your own camera and up to 10 of your best (or most troublesome) slides or prints to the first session.

 Quaking Quagmires – 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, Oct. 12 and 19, $55 per person, conducted by Anton Reznicek. Floating mats are a highly specialized form of wetland that are little known and poorly understood. Typically thought to be associated with bogs, floating mats can also be associated with sedge meadows, fens and even marshes. In all cases, they are formed by peat accumulating on a matrix of plant roots, usually sedges. They are mostly avoided by botanists because of the risk of getting more than just one's feet wet, but floating mats can harbor a number of very unusual plants. They are also a most interesting adaptation of fluctuating water levels and an important component of wetland succession. Wear tennis shoes, keep wallets and anything else you don't want to get wet out of your pockets and back at the

• Edible Wild Plants - 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 8, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 13, conducted by Ellen Elliott Weatherbee. Fall brings wild rice, new crops of greens, plump tubers, delicious pawpaws, frost-sweetened cranberries and handsome mushrooms. The class will attempt to find all and learn about preparing the tasty edible ones. Appropriate for all levels of foraging expertise. The class has been the authoritative source for information on the wild edibles since 1973.

• Fall Raptors - 7-8 p.m. Thursday,

Oct. 12, $35 per person, conducted by Michael Kielb, Early October is an exciting time to observe migrating diurnal raptors in southeastern Michigan. Large numbers of Red-tailed, Redshouldered, Cooper's Hawks and a few Golden Eagles are exiting Canada and passing through Michigan in search of winter feeding grounds. The class will explore the reasons and composition of this migration and visit nearby Erie Metropark to observe the flight.

• Floodplain Forests - 7:30-9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10, and 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 13, $35 per person, conducted by Sylvia Taylor. This is the perfect time of year to learn about the floodplain forests in southeastern Michigan. The evening class session features a discussion on the ecology, natural history and fragile balance of nature with political and economic considerations; the field

Oct. 10, and 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, trip examines plants in a classic oldgrowth forest that is one of the finest natural areas remaining in the state. Fall color should be at its height, which should emphasize the unusual collection of huge woody plants and unusual shrubs and herbaceous plants.

• Garden Photography - 6:30-9 p.m. Thursdays, Oct. 10 and 17, and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 12, $55 per person, conducted by Steve Nikkila. This class features a double attraction: Take a beautiful tour of plants in gardens and greenhouses, while learning to capture your own garden on film. Framing the shot, using light and shadow to advantage, correcting for less-than-perfect light or subject matter, and seasonal differences are discussed for both manual and automatic cameras.

Shoot film Oct. 12 and develop it for review and critique during the Oct. 17

Celebrate fall with Harvest Happening

English Gardens will celebrate fall with its fourth annual Harvest Happening 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 6. at English Gardens in West Bloomfield.

annual Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors home renovation project.

BY DOUG FUNKE

It was a day well spent.

That was the thinking of several dozen Realtors, financial managers, title insurance salespeople and friends who gathered recently to fix up and clean up the property of a single mom in Farmington Hills.

Front and rear doors were replaced, windows scraped and repainted. New paneling was applied. The weatherbeaten garage received vinyl siding, the driveway a new batch of stones.

order of the day.

"I'm overwhelmed," said Robin Smith, who grew up in the house and now lives there with sons Daniel and Dylon. "They told me a lot of people were going to show up, but you have to see it to believe it. It's great."

The third annual home renovation project was sponsored by the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of

estate lending for Dearborn Federal Credit Union and co-chairman of the project. "It's not for the recognition. "Last night, I slept only an hour and a half," Haverty said while taking

"You get excited, ready to go. It's really coming together nice." Diane Winkelmann, a Realtor with Red Carpet Keim Midwest in Farmington, also coordinated the renova-"I think it's important that the membership reach out to the community in a positive way," she said. "I want everyone to know we're warm, pared to what lies within us," Winkel-

"Sometimes, when we work on a project like this, it makes us more tolerant of problems in our daily life. And we get a working knowledge of the dynamics of a house.

"You meet people in a professional capacity, they perform miracles and have fun doing it," Winkelmann said. The work appeared to be a labor of love for all the volunteers.

"It's probably the most feel-good thing I'll do all year," said Teri Spiro, a Realtor with Century 21 Town & Country in West Bloomfield She kept the volunteers on task at the house on ? Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in work day. "This is what we do for a living,"

Spiro said, "We go into houses and évaluate deficiencies every day on some level. We're making suggestions.

"I made a list of all duties. I have my clipboard over there," she said. "There are months of planning. This is the fun part."

John Michniak, a Realtor with Northville, shoveled stones onto the driveway.

*One thing I want people to know is Realtors enjoy the enjoyment of homeowners," he said. "We really take a lot of pleasure in seeing people happy and doing this."

Ron McNeal, a Realtor with the Prudential Preview in Northville dug a stump from a diseased evergreen from the ground.

"You get more out of it than you put in," McNeal said. "If you're the least bit introspective, you know how lucky you've had it." Eric Rader, manager of Real Estate One in Livonia, worked on the back door replacement. "Real estate is what we do. Home ownership is what it's all about," he said. "We feel it's an obligation. We feel every business has to give back to the community where it makes its bread and butter."

Smith and her family came to the attention of WWOCAR through Farmington's Head Start preschool pro-

"I was shocked," she recalled. "I really do appreciate everyone's time and effort. I'm thankful for their help."

Plumbing, roof repairs and insulation subsequently were completed the house. Some electrical upgrades remain to be finished.

"I couldn't do it without everyone else," Winkelmann said. "Every yearit's a different challenge. It's still just as much fun. I wish we had the physical and financial ability to do 10 houses a year."

A. The Constitution of the United States guarantees that the taking of property cannot be done without just compensation. The taking of property will require "just compensation" if a landowner's property either is invaded physically or is regulated "too far.'

Compensation is required where a land use regulation either does not advance substantially legitimate state interests or denies the land owner all economically viable use of the land. However, compensation is not required where the land-use regulation merely results in a

In short, land can be condemned even though the property has not been physically seized by the municipality, but rather where a regulation denies all economically beneficial or productive use of ones land. This is a legal concept that is utilized in the law of. condemnation.

Q. I am a member of a condominium association that has a weighted average for voting and assessing costs. I understand that there is a movement going on to do a special assessment of a lump sum to everyone.

High-tech windows lower energy bills

Your home's windows can make your home colder in the winter, and hotter in the summer. In fact, more heat is lost - or gained through the windows than through any other area of your home, according to the Edison Electric Institute, the national association of electric companies.

Conduction is one way heat passes through windows. In this manner, the inside warmth is gradually conveyed through the window pane.

A window made of single-pane glass (R-value of approximately 1.0) transfers heat almost 14times faster than a well-insulated wall.

Radiant energy transfer is the other way heat gets through a window. Heat inside your home is carried out on its infrared light rays. In the summer, the sun's heat energy goes straight through the window panes warming up your home.

You now have several options to slow down window heat loss or gain. Adding a multi-pane window, one with either two- or three-panes of glass, will raise the window's R-value approximately 1.0 for each additional pane of glass used.

Some double-pane windows use a gas denser than common air, such as argon or carbon dioxide, between the panes of glass. These gases, being heavier than air, makes it harder for the heat to transfer through them.

Consequently, this slows the conductive transfer of heat.

To reduce radiant heat loss or buildup, a low-e coating, for low : emissivity, blocks radiant heat : transfer by acting as a mirror.

In the winter, the low-e coating reflects the indoor heat's infrared radiation back into the house. In the summer, it reflects the sun's radiant energy back outside. The : coating, however, does block visibility or look shiny.

Concrete stain solves problem

learn that their durable, concrete driveway can take on a persona from a concrete stain and the hot-tire pickup.' creative mind of the consumer.

That's right, your concrete driveway doesn't have to look like just a slab of concrete anymore. If you've ever dreamed of a brick driveway or special block, or prefer the aesthetic appeal of a black drive to offset your home but would rather not deal with the maintenance, your dream can become a reality in just a few simple steps.

Now you can protect and beautify nearly any concrete surface inside or outside of your home by using a concrete stain. Concrete stains add lasting value to driveways, walkways, patios, garage floors, brick and masonry walls and other concrete surfaces including pool decks, porches, and even basketball, tennis and shuffleboard courts.

According to Steve Davis, director of sales and marketing for H&C Concrete Stain, using a concrete stain offers today's busy homeowners many advantages > Heraldic patterns on fabric now catching up.

> The home furnishings trade "Furniture publication, Today,"reports that fabrics with heraldic icons, such as one with a lion rampant, are featured in new home decorating fabrics.

> Among companies with wallpaper patterns harking to days when knighthood was in flower are Chapters, with the Chart Room Collection: Eisenhart, with Lynn Hollyn's Sunsplashed Garden Collection; and Sanitas, with the Associates Collection.

Look for coats of arms, crests, shields, pennants, banners, lances, and images of knights, dragons and unicorns. They likely will be mixed with traditional detailing such as the fleur-de-lis, oak leaves, ribbons, banners and tartan plaids.

Ron Soeder, marketing chairman of the Wallcoverings Association, says today's heraldic designs have a realistic look. Imperial Wallcoverings Inc. of Cleveland, where Soeder is vice president and general manager, is using computer-generated motifs of knights, castles, unicorns, wizards and coats of armor in two children's collections, "For Boys Only"and "For Girls Only,"and in "Ascot,"a more sophisticated collection.

Among decorators who have mined this vein is Geoffrey Bradfield of New York, who recently did a decorator showcase room in a Knights of the Round Table theme. The room, set up for two hypothetical pre-teen boys, featured decorative moldings and partitions that looked like castles. He borrowed a suit of armor, valued at $7,000, from Newell Galleries in New York, and draped it with prep school ties.

"The look is romantic, masculine and fun for boys' rooms and media rooms,"says Bradfield, who has created several rooms in the idiom for clients.

Gibbs sees heraldry as "an opportunity to get away from flowers"and to make use of dramatic furniture pieces with iron bases and stone tops and drapery rods that look like an arrow or a

Used in moderation, heraldic motifs impart a sense of tradition. With a more lavish hand, the style verges on the baronial, as in Gibbs' most elaborate effort - a reception hall in a Tudor revival house in the Chicago

"We didn't want it to look like a dungeon, but we did want a King Henry VIII feeling,"he said.

Towards that goal, there's a copy of a steel shield over the fireplace and a radiator cover that looks like a medieval strapped chest. The most telling accessory is a costly 16th-century suit of armor, bought in England by the client.

But perhaps the chains on the wall are the most talkedabout accessory. Gibbs said they were bought - for decorative purposes - at an S&M shop.
