Schools to appeal jury action

Faced with a projected $5 million deficit for next year, the Wayne-Westland school board Tuesday agreed to appeal a jury award which would cost the district another $1.1 million.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A $1.1 million lawsuit won by nine retired Wayne-Westland teachers against the school district will be appealed, school board members decided Tuesday.

The appeal will follow a Wayne County Circuit Court jury's decision in September to award the money to nine former teachers who claimed they had been deceived with an early-retirement buyout in 1992.

The educators claimed they accepted a $24,000 buyout after school officials offered a "one-time opportunity" in 1992. They filed suit two years later after the district offered subsequent retirement incentives.

The teachers sought the accrued benefits they claim they lost, and a jury sided with the retirees and deemed the school district's actions a breach of contract.

On Monday, the seven-member school board voted unanimously to appeal the decision. School officials have accepted no wrongdoing on the early-retirement buyouts.

Officials also say they must fight the decision because some 95 other early retirees could follow the lead of the nine teachers who sued the dis-

The case has rattled nerves in a district that already faces a $5 million shortfall when a 3-mill enhancement levy expires June 30.

During a school board meeting Monday, a Wayne resident lashed out at the nine teachers for costing the district $1.1 million in nine separate judgments.

"I don't consider them teachers," Nancy Pride said, saying she opposes anyone who would "rob" the school district.

She also questioned why the nine teachers would file suit on their own, without seeking support from the other retirees.

"Obviously they wanted to hold

Despite heated opposition from parents, a split Wayne-Westland school board Tuesday approved a revised plan for residential development adjacent to Patchin Elemen-

"We really don't want the sale of the property," Ann Heinicke, Patchin Parent-Teacher Association president, said. "We're very concerned about our children and their safety and well-being."

Resident ShirleePakkala held her first-grade granddaughter, Caitlin Burns, in her arms so that Caitlin could reach a microphone to address

Caitlin voiced fears that kindergartners might have to share a playground with older students.

"If the kindergartners go on the (other) playground, they'll get pushed down by the second-graders or the first-graders," she said.

Superintendent Duane Moore responded that kindergartners will retain their own space after school officials redesign 11 acres of playground area.

"This playground will be bigger than some of the others in our school district," he said.

Parent Shari Clemente accused the board of rushing a vote on the plan, and she said parents and school employees haven't been given enough details about it. She was upset that board members wouldn't delay a vote for two weeks.

"We can see how concerned | Under the revised they are about how we feel," she said later. In a 6-1 vote, the board approved significant changes to a Patchin property sale that first surfaced in January. Board member Mathew McCusker cast the lone dissenting vote Tuesday. The board had already decided to sell some of Patchin's property to Dearborn Real Estate Co. for $302,000.

Under the revised plan, however, a condominium entrance off of Newburgh south of Warren will be widened from 120 feet to more than 240 feet.

plan, however, a condominium entrance off of Newburgh south of Warren will be widened from 120 feet to more than 240 feet.

The entrance will be on the south side of Patchin School.

A kindergarten playground will be eliminated, but the developer has offered $10,000 for new equipment, Moore said.

McCusker, in opposing the decision, said Tuesday, "I am opposed to taking any more of the playground property."

A wooded area east of the school will be used for a nature study area, allowing students to walk trails and use a nature center that a school official said will probably be a pavilion.

Developers initially planned to build condominiums in the wooded area, but sought to shift some of the development closer to Newburgh in the wake of soil borings that found a high water table.

"In my opinion, we are fortunate to have a person willing to purchase the property," Moore said.

Board member David Cox noted that the Patchin property "is not terribly marketable." He also noted that the board is selling the land only because of a money crunch.

Board president Patricia Brown agreed.

"It's not something we hastily decided," she said. "It's something the board has been looking at since January."

She said other elementaries, such as Schweitzer, Madison and Elliott, already have homes closer to them than Patchin will have after the condominiums are Some Patchin parents are upset that the board didn't even seek bids on the property, but dealt exclusively with Dearborn Real Estate Co. Parent Frank Cote questioned whether the sale, based on a 1994 appraisal, is bringing the district a fair market offer.

To approve the new proposal, the board first had to rescind an earlier vote that included only a 120-foot strip for development along Newburgh. Board member David James made a motion to rescind the decision, and Cox supported it.

James also made the motion to accept the revised plan, and board member Debra Fowlkes supported it.

One resident questioned James' decision and noted that he is a Realtor. James, Brown and board member Robin Moore sit on a board finance committee that recommended the changes to the full board.

Cox defended the board's decision and told parents, "I don't see this as a favor to Dearborn Real Estate."

He added later, "I think it continues to be a very fair deal to the district."

Parent Sandy Sonak was among the parents who accused the board of approving the developer's proposal without adequate public notice.

Patchin students have been trying to spread word about the plan and have been circulating petitions at school, parents said.

the bag for themselves and not share with other teachers," Pride said.

She said she supported the school board's decision to appeal the decision.

"I was shocked that a jury or a judge would even honor them that money," she said. Leo Januszewski, an attorney for the nine teachers, has claimed that the district made promises it didn't keep in offering a "one-time opportunity" for early retirements in 1992.

Dan Slee, assistant superintendent for employee services, has said the district didn't intend to offer other buyouts, but decided to do so amid worsening financial conditions.

The district wanted to save money by replacing longtime, top-paid teachers with new educators lower on the salary schedule, officials have said.

Council seeks to block store open all night

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

The Westland City Council's refusal to allow a 24-hour convenience store could, thwart changes proposed for a Sunoco station on the southwest corner of Joy and Middlebelt, an attorney said.

Sunoco had wanted to eliminate automobile service bays to provide a 24-hour convenience store, but council members last week refused to allow hours of operation past midnight.

The issue arose seven months after the council also refused all-night hours for a 7-Eleven on the southeast corner of Joy and Merriman.

Council members have said they are trying to be sensitive to concerns from residents who live near businesses.

On the Sunoco proposal, Councilman Richard LeBlanc said the 24-hour convenience store wouldn't be a problem if the business didn't have residential neighbors.

Sunoco had sought a special land use approval for the convenience store.

The council agreed to allow Sunoco to convert the auto service bays to a convenience store, but said the business must cease the stores' hours of operation at midnight.

An attorney representing the business indicated that Sunoco may not open a convenience store with restricted hours, a threat that didn't sway council members.

Councilwoman Justine Barns noted that the company position amounted to "putting a gun to ; our head."

Even so, the council didn't back away from its opposition to a 24-hour store, meaning that Sunoco will have to restrict convenience store hours or drop the proposal altogether.

The company's plans aren't yet

Some city residents have opposed businesses that want to operate 24 hours.

When the council turned down the 24-hour 7-Eleven in March, it did so after receiving complaints from residents who feared that an all-night business would create crime, traffic congestion and noise problems.

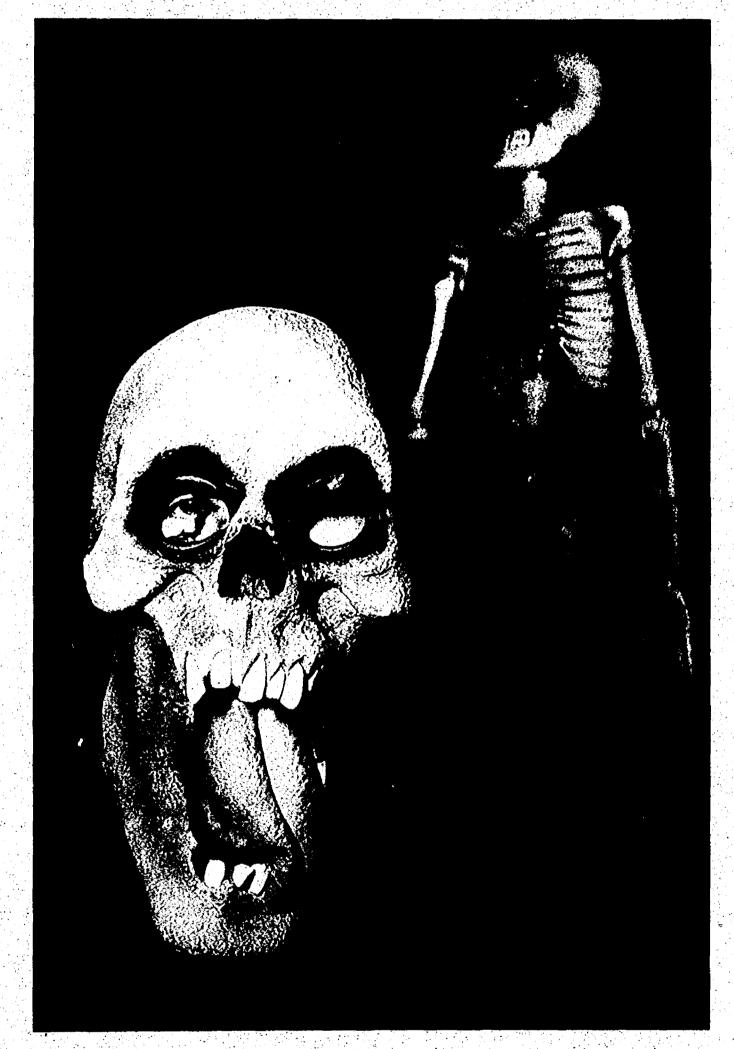

Such problems could hurt their property values, residents said.

On paper, the 7-Eleven and Sunoco plans differed, however.

While Sunoco's denial came as part of a special land use proposal, the 7-Eleven plan was part of a site plan.

Unlike the Sunoco plan, the 7-Eleven proposal fueled concerns that the city may be risking a lawsuit.

City Attorney Angelo Plakas warned that the city has no right to set operating hours as part of a site plan review.

City gets good financial news on state-shared revenues

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Westland city officials will receive $8.2 million in state-shared revenues for 1996-97, a 7.3 percent increase that Mayor Robert Thomas earlier feared would be less.

The city will receive $8,213,054 for the state's fiscal year 1996-97, a $565,323 increase over the $7,647,731 received for the previous year, according to state statistics provided by city Finance Director Michael Gorman.

City officials had earlier feared that Westland could lose another $174,000 on top of "many thousands of dollars" of losses in recent years, Thomas noted in August in a letter to state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton Township,

Thomas raised concerns and posed a two-word question to Bennett: "What happened?"

In the end, city officials attributed the potential $174,000 loss to a misunderstanding that was corrected when the city received more accurate statistics from the state.

The rosier outlook surfaced after the city, working with Bennett and state Rep. Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, received information that the city would, in fact, receive the $565,323 increase, Gorman said.

State-shared revenues boost the city's ability to provide an array of services, but city officials have complained for years that they haven't been receiving their fair share from Lansing.

In response to Thomas' letter, Bennett wrote on Sept. 16 that Westland will be receiving the 7.3 percent increase in state-shared revenues.

Bennett wrote that "the revenue sharing for Westland is higher than anticipated."

Months ago, the city stood to gain even more money, possibly as much as a $1 million increase

But a new state law, enacted in May, resulted in adjusted dollar amounts that the state provided to cities, including Westland.

Conference takes no position on tax

By Renee Skoglund Staff Writer

In spite of an appearance and lobbying by Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer at the Oct.11 meeting of the Conference of Western Wayne in Northville, members voted 8-6 to take "no position" on Proposition S, the proposed stadium tax.

Before he left, Archer thanked the conference and said, "It's now where it should be, with the voters.

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, who introduced Archer, cited several positive developments in Detroit, such as General Motors' investment in the Renaissance Center, the renovations of several downtown theaters, and the promise of a corporate investment of $50 million towards the proposed twin stadiums' development, as incentives to support the tax.

McNamara countered the argument of "let's not make rich men richer" by emphasizing that "over half of the dollars are coming from the owners."

He assured conference members that the hotel and rental

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who opposes the tax, brought up the issue of past countywide taxes, like the recent parks tax, which he said benefited Detroit and not the suburbs.

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas supports Proposition S. "The stadium will not hurt us here in the suburbs. If this was a 1/10 mill or a 1/100 mill, I'd be over with Carl Pursell.

Pursell, a former U.S. Representative, is leading a campaign called CAPS, Citizens Against Proposition S. As an audience member, he addressed the conference by saying, "Do not use tax dollars to build a stadium that is a play thing for those who could afford to build it."

New Lions stadium called piece of puzzle

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

William Clay Ford Jr. openly admits that there is nothing wrong structurally with the Silverdome.

But the vice president of the Detroit Lions also believes that a new football stadium is crucial to the revitalization of downtown Detroit.

That's why Ford believes Wayne County voters should approve Proposition S, a proposed increase in taxes on hotels and rental cars, on Nov. 5.

Ford pitched the proposal to raise $80 million to help fund a new Lions domed stadium and Tigers baseball stadium during a meeting Monday with members of the Observer's editorial board.

Ford points out the Lions are asking for a smaller percentage of public funds when compared to stadium deals in other cities.

"This (stadium) has more private funding." Ford said.

The Lions deal calls for 51 percent of the stadium funding from public sources and 49 percent private. Stadium deals in 'Atlanta, Jacksonville and St. Louis called for 100 percent public funding, Baltimore had 95 percent, while Cleveland and Oakland had 83 percent public funds earmarked for stadiums There.

Ford believed the Lions had a "fair proposal" on the table with the city of Pontiac. "Part of the problem (with negotiations) was their expectation that that land would be worth more as a real estate development," Ford said.

Ford decided to talk with Wayne County and city of Detroit officials once negotiations with Pontiac became "dis-

Ford and Michael Duggan, deputy county executive, believe the new Tiger stadium and adjacent Lions domed stadium will boost Detroit's image and spur new business downtown, capturing the electricity of the downtowns in Baltimore and Cleveland.

"It always baffled me a lot that we didn't have a clean vibrant city," Ford said.

Duggan believes the current negative national image of Detroit hurts everyone in Wayne County, including business people in the suburbs.

"The number one problem of bringing (a potential business customer) to Westland, is you Duggan believes new stadiums can change a national image of a city. Since the news of the proposed stadiums has hit the national media. Duggan's office has received several phone calls.

"We haven't even passed a ballot issue and they're writing stories about how we're coming back," Duggan said.

Duggan met with hotel owners and operators before the proposition was placed on the ballot. and knew without them, the tax proposal was dead. He cites the Hyatt in Dearborn and the Mayflower in Plymouth as two hotels of several which support the tax hike.

"They believe it will pay off because of what it will do for the image of the area," Duggan said. "You sort of skirt the issue, but you can't hide it," Ford said. "It's a recruiting problem for all southeast Michigan companies and it has a unquantifying effect on the area."

How can voters be reassured that taxpayers will not pick up the stadium tab? Duggan referred to a provision in a "memorandum of understanding" approved by the Detroit Lions, Detroit Tigers and Wayne County.

"On Tiger Stadium, the Tigers pay for the cost overruns," Duggan said. "On Lions Stadium, the Lions will pay for overruns."

Duggan drew analogies between that agreement and the airport agreement the county approved last week with Northwest Airlines. Northwest will be responsible for overseeing con-

By the Lions and Tigers taking responsibility for those contracts in the agreement, taxpayers won't put in "one nickel," Duggan said.

Corporate sponsorship also will help pay for the project. "Naming rights are going into stadium construction," Ford said.

Ford Motor Co. officials announced Friday that the automaker will contribute $40 million for the right to put its name on the stadium. That contribution will not cut charity donations the company would make to another organization, Ford said.

be built, corporate contributions be an issue years from now, be must total $50 million, land must be acquired and the stadium tax must be approved.

Also on Friday, the Conference of Western Wayne, a group of community leaders from western Wayne County, voted not to take a position on the stadium tax proposal. That followed a 12-3 vote several weeks ago by the Wayne County Commission to place the issue on the ballot, with two western Wayne commissioners dissenting.

"I was tremendously disappointed with the lack of support in western Wayne County," Duggan said. He also said he was "disgusted" with elected officials who play the anti-Detroit card.

Ford knows the stadium in and of itself is not the answer to revitalize downtown, but calls it a "piece of the puzzle."

He hopes something as simple as locating stadium parking lots near businesses can draw fans into restaurants, bars and stores. That concept differs from the tens of thousands of parking spaces located next to the Silver-

State ballot proposals loaded for bear

BY TIM RICHARD

Voter confusion appears high on both Proposals D and G, the two rival hunting issues on the Nov. 5 ballot. Let's sort them

Q. What will Proposal D do, and who wants it?

A. D is the so-called "CUB" proposal from Citizens United for Bear. It would prohibit, by law, the use of bait piles and packs of tracking dogs for the hunting of bear.

Proposal D was placed on the ballot by 341,000 petition signers. It emanated from Upper Peninsula landowners who were bothered by hunters whose dogs didn't stop to read "no trespassing" signs on private property. Landowners say hunters have a "what are you gonna do about it?" attitude. Landowners complain there are few prosecutions for trespassing.

Tony Holmes, a Senate staffer on leave to head the CUB camQ. Who else is for D?

A. Many people, including some hunters, honestly believe it's unsportsmanlike to put out bait piles and use tracking dogs. But there's no denying an element of show biz has crept into the campaign.

Rocker and sportsman Ted Nugent denounces "Hollywood phonies" who have helped make broadcast commercials for CUB, which feature an innocent bear cub being treed and shot but which never use statistics on bear herd management.

Among supporters is state Rep. John Freeman, D-Madison Heights. He argued that Prop D doesn't outlaw bear hunting; that it merely forbids hunting with dog packs that have radio collars; and that bears become accustomed to being fed and lose their instincts to find food.

Q. Who's against D? A. The hunting fraternity, Gov. John Engler, most area lawmakers and even the nonhunting Michigan Wildlife Habi-regulation already says: "It is unlawful to take a bear cut or a female bear accompanied by cub bear."

Some opponents of D make the counter-argument that forbidding use of tracking dogs, in particular, is less humane because a sow or cub looks like a mere "ball of fur" from a distance, and wounded animals could escape to die slowly in agony.

Q. How does Proposal G fit

A. Prop G was placed on the ballot by the Legislature as a rival law, subject to voter approval. Whichever gets the most yes votes will win, even if voters give a majority to both. G's supporters believe they will get the bigger yes vote.

The substance of Prop G is to give scientific game management powers to the Natural Resources Commission, taking that power away from the DNR director.

Prop G, if approved, would amended. Current rules say:

No more than six dogs to a pack; no relaying of packs.

Dogs may not be trained on captive, tame or tethered bear.

Legal tracking hours are a half-hour before sunrise to a half-hour before sunset. Q. What is this talk about "scientific game manage-

A. CUB uses no statistics about the bear herd, using only the fairness argument.

Prop G supporters use these figures from the Department of Natural Reousrces:

Michigan has a healthy and stable bear population of about ■ DNR receives 26,000-plus applications for bear licenses each year and issues about 6,400 licenses. ■ Hunters take about 1,500 bear - 95 percent through use of bait and tracking dogs. Only about one or two a year are cubs.

Hunters with bait and dogs have a 1/3 success rate. Stalking hunters have only a 1/10 success

If too many bear are killed, they face extinction. If too few are killed, there will be more bear-human confrontations with injured kids and calls for killing more "nuisance" bear.

Q. You mentioned the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation. What is it, and where does it stand? A. It's a nature-preserving group interested in habitat, neither pro- nor anti-hunting. Its fall newsletter said: "Questions of when and where we hunt in the future should be left to the sound guidance of professional wildlife managers, employed by state and federal agencies...

"We see a serious danger in allowing the voters to decide complex and often very technical issues..."

CUB "paid 50 dents to $1 per signature collected. We question whether special interest groups should be allowed to place questions before the public just because they can afford to," the foundation said.

Q. Can I vote for both D and G?

A. Yes, but it would be like voting for both Clinton and Dole. If both lose, the rules remain the same and are made by the DNR director.

If both win, the one with the most yes votes takes effect.

Q. What about the the pro-G argument that says Prop D is the first step toward prohibiting all hunting and fish-

Congressional candidates spar over various issues

By Ken Abramczyk STAFF WRITER

Herbert Scott went to a lunch on Wednesday to listen to two candidates running for U.S.

And after listening to Republican challenger Joe Fitzsimmons and Democratic incumbent Lynn Rivers, Scott believed both candidates explained their differing political philosophies well.

"One thinks government can solve people's problems, and the other thinks people ought to solve their problems themselves," Scott said.

Both candidates who contrast in political styles and ideas want to represent the 13th Congressional District, which includes Canton Township, Plymouth Township, city of Plymouth, Northville Township, city of Northville, Westland and Garden City.

Fitzsimmons, an Ann Arbor resident, is the retired president and CEO of University Microfilms. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Cornell University. He is an adjunct lecturer at the University of Michigan.

Rivers is serving her first-term in the U.S. House of Representatives. She previously served in the Michigan state House from 1992-1994. She was a member of the Ann Arbor Board of Education from 1984 to 1991 including three terms as Fitzsimmons said businesses are over regulated, and those Joe Fitzsimmons regulations should be reformed. "When I talk to people in the district and business owners, taxes and regulations are the things they think should be looked at," Fitzsimmons said.

Rivers believed Congress needs to balance between the business and protection of consumers. "We should be careful with removing regulations and creating new ones," Rivers said. She said she requested input from local businesses about regulations and what should be changed.

Kathleen Kittle, of Mission Health, asked what the candidates would do about the Medicare funding crisis.

Rivers wanted to maintain the program over the next 10 years without huge cuts to it. "I do not support funds from Medicare used to fund other budgets," she said.

Fitzsimmons said Congress should talk about slowing the growth of Medicare, which he would like to do by using private health care companies as a provider. "I can preserve, protect, and improve Medicare for seniors," Fitzsimmons said.

Dale Yagelia, executive director of Growth Works in Plymouth, wanted to know what the president and Congress should do about the rising abuse of alcohol and drugs by the nation's youths.

Fitzsimmons called for an increase of border patrols to stop drug trafficking, more educational programs in elementary schools and giving drug kingpins the death penalty.

Rivers said as a parent, there was nothing that she feared more than drugs. She criticized some of the federal budget cuts backed by Republicans aimed at drug prevention and education programs.

"Some of the cuts would have made it difficult for schools to create drug programs," Rivers said.

Tom Yack, Canton Township supervisor, asked what - if any role should government have in education.

Rivers cited a study by a Michigan State University professor that found in countries where students performed better academically that had national standards. "I believe in local national standards and goals," Rivers said.

Fitzsimmons said he wanted to give education locally to the teachers, parents and students without spending $32 million on the Department of Education. "I intend to let the teachers teach and students learn," Fitzsimmons said.

On capital gains tax cuts pushed by many Republicans, Rivers said a cut will "do nothing" to boost the economy. "We have to increase our productivity and increase our national savschool boards, but we need ings," Rivers said. Congress should continue discussions on balancing the budget, she added.

Fitzsimmons said: "I would support a plan put forth by (presidential candidate Robert) Dole and (vice presidential candidate Jack) Kemp for individuals and businesses. That will free up an enormous amount of investment and create jobs."

On controlling guns among youths and gangs, Fitzsimmons said 75 percent of the crime within the district was committed by someone who suffered from some form of drug abuse. He would support an "instant

Former editor spreads message of 'spiritual phenomenon'

By M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Wayne Weible, former owner of a chain of community newspapers in South Carolina, attracted an audience of thousands when he spoke recently at three local churches about Medjugorje, described by many as "the most extraordinary spiritual phenomenon of our time.

His visit was hosted by the Berkley-based Mediugorie Peace Center of Detroit.

As Weible tells it, he'd never heard of Medjugorje, Yugoslavia, until 1985, when a fellow Lutheran spoke of alleged apparitions of the Virgin Mary

"As the publisher of four weekly community newspapers and columnist, I was curious to find out more," said Weible. "That was my only interest; simply, that it would make a good column for the coming Christmas season."

Weible was given a book and videotape on Medjugorje. Several nights later, after getting their two young children to bed, Weible and his wife Terri settled down to watch the video. What happened during the viewing of that video changed him completely."

"About midway through watching the film, I suddenly felt a strong message within myself; I heard no voice, but the message was there just as clear as though I had actually heard it," he said. "In essence, it said, You are my son, and you are to do my Son's work. Write about the events in Medjugorje. Afterwards, you will no longer be in this work (newspapers), for your life will be devoted to the spreading of the message.'

"Had it happened to my wife, I would have told her, Take two aspirin and you'll be fine in the morning,' " said Weible, whose books on Medjugorje are printed in 13 languages.

Stunned and in a near state of shock. Weible up the entire night thinking about what had happened. There was no doubt in his heart about the source of the message or that it had actually happened. It was from the Virgin Mary.

"I just kept wondering, why me?," he said. "I was divorced, remarried, and positively anti-Catholic. I was very successful and very rich, and I did it without God. I'm a journalist, and journalists demand hard, cold, substantiated facts and evidence. But how do you say no when it's that real?"

Like millions of pilgrims from all over the world, Weible, who has sold his newspapers, has traveled to Medjugorje many times. Despite government attempts to discredit the apparitions and to make visits to the site difficult, millions continue to come to the site to see for themselves what is happening, he said. They come for one reason: the reported daily appearance of the Virgin Mary to a group of six young people who live there.

This has been happening since June 1981," he said. "Our Lady brings an urgent message to the whole world to reconcile with God now and bring peace to tend to view it as an authentic miracle of our time. The message is simple and direct: return to the ways of God; pray as often as possible for the salvation of this world; offer penance to God by giving up useless things in your

"In other words, live the message that is contained in the bible. She is not speaking to us as a group, but to each one of us as an individual."

Ivan Dragicevic, 31, one of the Croatian "visionaries" to whom Our Lady appears, is traveling to Michigan. He will speak fol-

Jim and Mary Jo Raftery of Livonia, who've traveled to Medjugorje and met Dragicevic, were among those who came to hear Weible at St. Colman's in Farmington Hills and St. Joseph's in South Lyon.

"I haven't leaned on my kids in years, but I did when Wayne came, because it's so good," said Jim Raftery. "You either have to think 'This guy is nuts,' or when you get to know him that he is telling the truth; that this happened."

"If you go to Medjugorje, it's not a vacation; it's a pilgrimage," said Mary Jo. "But once you are there, it's so beautiful and peaceful. Our Lady just touches so many, and she has through "The fact Our Lady picked him and six mediocre-type kids only goes to show how grace can work in us," said Raftery. "We all worry about our earthly retirement. Maybe we need to think about eternity."

Weible says that early on, he had the feeling that this is the most important thing I've done in the way of writing.

Breast Cancer Treatments

By James R. Lulek, M.D.

The risk of a woman developing breast cancer during her lifetime is approximately one in eight. Consequently, a large number of patients, once diagnosed, are faced with treatment decisions. Since none of the options are perfect, a thorough understanding of the pros and cons of each is important.

Surgical treatment for breast cancer generally consists of either mastectomy or lumpectomy with radiation. Following the initial surgery, additional therapy such as chemotherapy or estrogen blocking drugs may be recommended.

Mastectomy involves removal of the breast and usually the lymph nodes under the same arm. The chest wall muscles are preserved.

Lumpectomy is the removal of the tumor only, ideally with clear margins around it, and usually removing the lymph nodes through a separate incision in the underarm. This is then followed by approximately five weeks of radiation therapy to the breast, all as part of the lumpectomy option.

Many women are good candidates for lumpectomy and radiation.

Often breast preservation can be accomplished with good cosmetic results and identical cure rates to those expected from mastectomy. Women who have tumors larger than five centimeters (two inches) in diameter, with more than one cancerous area in the breast, or with evidence of extensive noninvasive cancer in the area around the invasive cancer, may be less suitable for lumpectomy. Large breasts can pose problems for radiation, and tumors involving the nipple area can render the cosmetic result unacceptable. Local recurrence after lumpectomy is one percent per-year in the breast, therefore careful follow up is needed.

The treatment decisions, therefore, are based on multiple factors. It is an individual choice, guided by medical information, the woman's desire for breast preservation, and an understanding of the available

With the appropriate use of mam-mography and regular examinations, more breast cancers will be found in the early stages which often allows for breast preservation techniques and the expectation of very high cure rates and a fuller life for the patient.

Dr. Lulek is board-certified in General Surgery and is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He is Vice Chief of the Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center - Dearborn Department of Surgery and is a member of the teaching faculty for the affiliated University of Michigan Surgical residency. He was recently honored by his peers as one of the best doctors in the Southeastern Michigan area.

Help needed

Salvation Army serves people

eing part of a community is more than having an address in it. It means getting involved and doing things for others.

Already the Salvation Army, which serves needy families in Westland, is preparing for its famous Red Kettle drive. Hundreds of volunteers are needed to ring the bells and ask for donations.

Proceeds from the Salvation Army's efforts help finance much of what the corps does for the community, such as its food cupboard, which provides nourishment to families in need.

It is a great opportunity to involve your family, especially your children, in helping others. If you want to help, but can't make the Kettle Breakfast, call the Salvation Army, which has a community center on Venoy at Dorsey

There are plenty of other ways to help in the community particularly as the winter holidays draw nearer.

The Salvation Army works throughout the year with a special focus near the holidays to be able to deliver several hundred baskets filled with gifts, needed items such as gift certificates, holiday food baskets and new toys for children to needy families in Westland.

Salvation Army Capt. Mark Welsh will tell you about some families, including those who are temporarily on hard times, but nonetheless need help and to know that someone out there cares what happens to them and their children.

There are many ways local businesses, individuals or public institutions can help the Salvation Army and the thousands of people it serves.

Businesses can initiate a matching gift program, sponsor a food or toy drive, agree to have a Adopt-a-Kettle at Christmas time, or have employees "adopt" a needy family.

School youngsters can donate proceeds from a talent show, school carnival or other event to the Salvation Army.

Welsh said that the organization's goal this year is $100,000 which is needed to help some 3,000 people at Christmas time.

Let's make sure that the Salvation Army meets its goals this winter and that needy families have their basic needs met.

(The Salvation Army may be contacted at 722-3660.)

O'Hair best choice for voters

Although national and state races seem to be getting all the electronic media coverage there are many important countywide races to be decided on Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Among them is the office of Wayne County prosecutor.

Incumbent John O'Hair, a Democrat, is being challenged by Livonia resident and Republican candidate Donald Knapp.

In this race, the Observer recommends

John D. O'Hair for county prosecutor.

O'Hair, who won a hard-fought contest in the primary against state Sen. Virgil C. Smith of Detroit, has been a tough but fair prosecutor.

O'Hair and his staff run an efficient and effective office using sound legal judgment rather than politics as the guiding force.

O'Hair exhibits a civility in public office that is lacking in many elected officials today. And although he is a civil gentleman, his office holds criminals accountable for their crimes in a swift but fair manner.

citizens of Wayne County.

His experience, integrity and administrative qualities make him a solid choice for county voters on Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Ficano deserves re-election

ncumbent Robert Ficano is seeking his fourth full term as county sheriff. Four years ago, Ficano, a Livonia resident, faced a tough, bitter primary battle engineered by McNamara Administration. This year, Ficano faced no opposition in the primary and Republicans have generally ceded this race to the Democrats.

Although criticized by many for not having any "real" law enforcement experience, several of Ficano's Republican opponents in the primary – although qualified in law enforcement – proved to be rather weak candidates having no GOP monetary support.

Ficano's opponent on Nov. 5 is not campaigning and reportedly was surprised when he was elected in the primary. As outlined in the county charter, the sheriff is the peace office for the county. Principal duties involve the charge and custody of the county jails, law enforcement in county parks, Recorder's and Circuit courts and traffic enforcement on secondary roads.

That said, Robert Ficano is the logical choice on Tuesday, Nov. 5. He has the experience and the administrative credentials to run the department.

Although we believe Ficano is a good choice on Nov. 5, we are troubled by the constant complaints from some western Wayne County police departments and municipalities who find the cost of using Wayne County Jail services too high. And, we suspect this is a problem that demands more than just the attention of the county sheriff.

In this next term, we urge Ficano and other county officials to revive efforts to streamline costs at this level and at all levels of county government.

Land sale questioned

ow that the sale of the Wayne-Westland School District's surplus property behind Patchin Elementary School seems imminent, residents are voicing concerns over a variety of issues that could affect their children's school and their neighborhood.

Increased vehicle traffic, decreased playground space, questions about what kind of condominium community will replace the existing wooded land and ponds that flank the school to the east, and limited walkways to and from the school are all valid concerns.

No one will deny that the district's financial situation warrants such a sale.

Knowing that the best interest of the students is always the board's highest priority, any proceeds from such a sale would surely be put to the best possible use.

If the sale is unavoidable, however, why must the board sell the land to the first and presumably only developer to make an offer?

If the land was appraised over a year ago at $400,000, and the offer on the table is $360,000, where is the logic in the deal?

If the district has no use for the $40,000 difference between the offer and the year-old appraisal, then why not try and get a higher offer and just give the $40,000 to Patchin School to replace the playground equipment that will be bulldozed?

Of the reported 2.4 "unbuildable" acres due to the high water table, why not leave that for the school's nature area instead of the new "gazebo" up against the back wall of Meijer's parking lot and $10,000 that the developer has offered as part of the deal?

Because the school board, the parents, and the community all want to do what is best for the kids, it is important that everybody work together toward some type of mutual goal.

By sharing information and discussing openly the driving forces behind such important decisions, we could all be sure that the best interest of the children and their schools is always our highest priority.

Rivers backed

n response to Michael Navratil's letter, I am writing about late-term abortions.

A very rare but medically necessary procedure, the D&X (intact dilation and extraction) is performed to protect the life or health of the woman or when the fetus has deformities that are incompatible with life. The pregnancies are almost invariably "wanted" pregnancies that have gone horribly wrong. These are very painful decisions for the families.

For example, a woman who spoke before Congress, said that her 32-week-old fetus was diagnosed with rhizomelic dwarfism and a fluid-filled cranium with no brain tissue at all. After desperately searching for some solution, she and her husband found the only answer for them was a surgical abortion procedure.

As a diabetic, she knew that the controlled, gentle nature of this surgery was much safer for her than induced labor or a c-section, since she does not heal as well as other people.

As promised, they preserved her fertility. It would have been homicide not to have done the procedure. Last spring, they discovered that she was pregnant again.

Some politicians talk about taking government control away; but these same people want to tell a family when, where, and how many children to have.

These decisions should be between the family and the physician.

I do not know how Joe Fitzsimmons (Republican nominee for Congress) forms his opinions. (His opponent, U.S. Rep.) Lynn Rivers studies the issues before she votes. She does not vote blindly. Yes, Lynn Rivers does have character!

Lynn Rivers works FOR the community. Mr. Navratil says that Lynn Rivers works against the community and that her vote disappointed her entire community. Mr. Navratil does not speak for the entire community. How many politicians can say, as she can, that they have saved the taxpayers $244,000 by returning it because it was not used? Contrary to a remark by our governor, she also voted for a balanced budget!

I do not know if Mr. Navratil is poor or well-off. However, I doubt that financially well-off Mr. Fitzsimmons can identify with the problems of the common everyday person.

Can he identify with a person who has to worry about losing his/her job to downsizing or corporate mergers; or one who has to choose between feeding the family and paying the rent?

Can he identify with a person who has to worry about finding a trustworthy babysitter and then wonder if they will have the money to pay?

Rivers has been there. She knows what it is all about.

Can we afford not to vote for Rep. Rivers? Unless you are independently wealthy, Rivers is the only one to vote for!

POINTS OF VIEW

Political correctness obscures issues

t is only fair to warn you that if you are completely committed to political correctness, or if you are offended by the use of the word "nigger" in a news report, you might as well stop reading this right now. If you feel squeamish about reports that accurately depict racist and hateful acts that take place in our world, perhaps you'd be better off putting this paper down for now and clicking on PBS for a couple hours of "Barney."

I issue this caveat because some of the coverage of two recent news events has gone so far in the use of "P.C." language that it buried the needle on the Stupid Meter. The events were Mark Fuhrman's perjury charges stemming from the O.J. Simpson trial, and Warren Mayor Mark Steenburgh's alleged use of the term in a confrontation with a young black man. The only common threads in these stories are the charges that both men used the term "nigger." and that some media folk felt it necessary to replace that epithet with the nauseatingly silly P.C. term - "the Nword." In reporting the Steenburgh story, at least one TV station's reporters felt it was necessary to explain how they wrestled with whether to air the report with such an offensive term in it. To their credit, they did air the report with the term, but I don't get why they had to "share their pain" with the viewers. Of course the use of the term "nigger" is offensive. So is the use of terms like "chink," "kike," "gimp" or "faggot."

It is the very fact that such terms are offensive and inappropriate that made these events newsworthy in the first place. If Steenburgh or Fuhrman were alleged to have called someone an "African-American," or said someGUEST COLUMNIST thing about those "N-words," this never would have been an issue.

The issue here isn't about whether they did say these things, or should've said these things; the issue is why can't we all be grown up about this in reporting and discussing it. We don't need dippy little phrases like "the Nword" to give the appearance of pro-

This is another case where the quest for choosing politically correct language has obscured the real message. This tissue paper-thin veneer of decency only serves to conceal a real problem that deserves genuine sensitivity, understanding and respect. Racism and bigotry are not curable by merely encoding the terminology which characterizes them. The course of human relations in this country has become a treacherous one as the slow acknowledgment of our diversity brings us to the point where greater numbers of identifiable minorities seek to gain their rightful footholds of respect and dignity. This is an important process that can and must take place. I believe there is a tremendous energy building up - an energy which can either create positive change or tear us apart. The difference will be whether we acknowledge the need and lubricate the process with true respect, or deny the need and suffocate it under a thin film of civility.

If political correctness began as an exercise in sensitivity, it has evolved into linguistic paranoia. The current atmosphere has people afraid to say what they mean. If we are ever going to make real progress as a society, we've got to be able to communicate

The paranoid, restrictive parameters of political correctness - as opposed to genuine respect and consideration – are doing far more harm than good. And anyone who can't see that is just plain stupid, or perhaps I should change that to "intellectually challenged."

Governor rolls a strike in sparing bowlers

mong bowlers, Gov. John Engler's stock is soaring from subterranean to stratospheric. Or, in bowler lingo, the Liquor Control Commission threw a gutter ball, and Engler responded with a strike. Detroit media may wallow in the miseries of the Tigers and Lions and their attempts to raid the treasury to build new stadiums. Parents may cheer lustily at kids' baseball, football and soccer games. Unseen investors may urge approval of casinos for

But in this metro area, with more sanctioned bowlers than any place in America, the big story is LCC's crackdown on one-buck games played at bowling lanes.

Detroit.

In the mystery game, you put $1 in the pot, and someone draws a number. If the number was your score in the previous game, you win. In another, a name is drawn and everyone stares as that poor soul tries to throw a strike and win the pot; if he or she misses, the pot grows.

Illegal, said the LCC, which is important because most bowling centers have liquor licenses.

Bloody murder! said the bowlers, at first blaming Engler because he appoints the LCC.

"When I saw this," said Engler, "my first reaction was 'You've got to be kidding.' My second reaction was 'Oh, my God. it's true.' "

The governor said such games are enshrined "in custom and practice." They're the equivalent of church basement bingo," said Engler. Although he professes to be "a damn poor bowler, I've spent a lot of time campaigning in bowling alleys." Here is government's response to the too literal interpretation of Michigan's gaming, liquor and penal codes: ■ Engler asked the LCC and the Lottery Commission to review the laws to see if an administrative solution could be found without bothering the Legislature. That's the fastest, cheapest solution.

TIM RICHARD

■ Bowlers provided 250,000 petition signatures - in five days! The signers supported House Bill 6114 by Rep. Dave Jaye, R-Utica, to exempt the friendly bowling center games from the gambling laws.

Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, a co-sponsor, did yeoman service getting the petitions circulated. Observer bowling writer Al ("Ten Pin Alley") Harrison wrote a column that made the bulletin boards of many bowling

On the last day of the September session, the House Regulatory Committee, chaired by Rep. Susan Munsell, R-Howell, reported the bill out of committee and sent it to the House floor. Munsell and friends took testimony, but it was unnecessary because the members had their minds made up in favor. There is, however, a fiveday rule before the full chamber can take up a bill. So HB 6114 can't be taken up until about the third week of November.

Then the bill must go to the Senate, where the same process of reading in, sending to committee, reporting out of committee and voting on the Senate floor must be repeated.

Engler said he'll sign it. Al Harrison and I have witnesses.

There is one other little catch: An enacted law doesn't take effect until 90 days after the Legislature adjourns for the year, or about April 1. Bowlers don't want to wait that long. So if each chamber gives the bill a twothirds vote for "immediate effect," HB 6114 will become law before the end of the year.

For bowlers, it will be a wonderful Christmas present.

Myself, I expect to be on an ice-covered Livingston County lake with a fishing rod in one hand and a warming beverage in the other. I find braving the north wind's blasts in December good for the soul.

Stadium, casino proposals tug at emotional ties to Detroit

ne of the worst days of my life was in July 1967, when I sat on the balcony of my apartment in Livonia and watched the eastern sky turn red as Detroit writhed and burned.

One day I took a volunteer crew down to the old Polish Daily News plant on Canfield to get my newspapers typeset and printed. There were National Guard armored personnel carriers at. the major intersections, and rioters were still running through the streets, offering to sell looted color TVs for $50 apiece.

Those awful days were followed by the toolong reign of Coleman A. Young, a mayor who succeeded in conveying the impression that white folks in general and the business community in particular were unwelcome.

What was important about Dennis Archer's campaign for mayor in 1993 was his insistence that Detroit could turn around only through politics that built links between the races and a leadership that reached out to the business community. The theme resonated widely, from suburban folks who had grown up in Detroit and still had fond memories of their old hometown to business people who realized that Michigan could not prosper if its largest city withered.

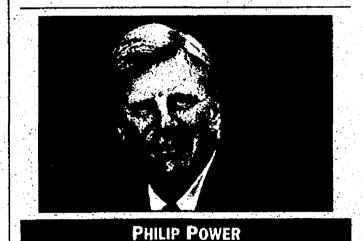

And the news from Detroit, especially in recent months, has been very, very good.

The business community has been led by the Big Three, who found in the Archer administration a climate that allowed them to realize that in addition to being global corporations, they were also citizens of Detroit. GM bought the Renaissance Center for office space, thereby planting its footprint firmly downtown, and then negotiated a brilliant trade of the City-County Building for its former headquarters.

The Greater Downtown Partnership began to put private investment capital into downtown real estate around the old Hudson's department store. And over the weekend, the city announced a $250 million facelift for its disgraceful public housing program by requiring future residents to take job training, education and home ownership programs.

On the ballot this fall are two more significant pieces in the rebirth of Detroit.

Proposition S on the Wayne County ballot seeks to raise $80 million in taxes to help finance new stadiums for the Detroit Lions and Tigers. The measure would add 1 percent to hotel bills (now taxed at 14 percent) and 2 percent to rental car bills (now taxed at six percent) across the county.

Two decent and able men, former U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell of Plymouth and Ford retiree Harry Greenleaf of Livonia, are leading the charge against Proposition S. They argue that Detroit and Wayne County don't need any more taxes, especially since the revenues from S would amount to a public subsidy for two prodigiously wealthy families, the Ilitches (Tigers) and the Fords (Lions).

That's true. But.

Although I personally dislike it, the accepted method du jour for revitalizing decayed core cities - Cleveland and Baltimore are two reigning examples - is to make them destinations for people interested in sports and entertainment. And while the case for Proposition S may not be logically strong, it is emotionally compelling to people who wish Detroit well.

Same holds for state Proposal E, which asks all Michigan voters if it's OK to build three gambling casinos in Detroit.

The theory is that the casinos would create thousands of relatively low-skill jobs and put something like $1 million daily into the Detroit economy. Casino income would be taxed at 18 percent, with 55 percent going to fund anticrime programs in Detroit and the other 45 percent going to Michigan public schools statewide.

I don't gamble. For those who do, gambling is a terribly regressive tax. And gambling brings criminals, the mob and other low life.

It's true. But.

The gambling money is already going across the river to Windsor, and just maybe casinos would help contribute to the critical mass now building to turn Detroit around.

Emotion versus logic. It's a tough choice we'll make come Nov. 5. I'm still ambivalent, but just now I'm leaning toward the emotion.

Court reform (ctd.)

Remember that 80-22 state House of Representatives' vote on the "family court" bill? Well, it wasn't the final shot in the

The bill went back to the Senate, which amended it, and then back to the House for concurrence in the amendments. (Both chambers must pass the identical bill for it to become law.)

The second vote, on Sept. 25, was closer: 58-39, just three more than needed for passage. Among the crossovers was Rep. Jim Ryan, R-Redford.

"I disagree fundamentally with the family court idea," said Ryan. "We don't need to tell judges how to operate their courts. We should unify the trial courts, let them pick a chief judge and move them around as they wish.

"A family court sounds great, politically correct, but it's only a divorce court. It's not good for families."

Ryan was among the lawmakers who disliked pegging the salaries of district judges at 84 percent of the Supreme Court justices' salaries while circuit and probate courts are pegged at 85 percent. He favors a greater disparity.

"District judges don't read briefs. District judges don't write opinions. District judges don't run countywide in most places. District judges don't handle as long as their duties aren't uniform, their salaries shouldn't be uniform," said Ryan.

The sponsor of the measure, however, stuck to his guns.

"Under the present system, adoption, abuse and neglect and juvenile delinquency are handled in probate court," said Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Hudsonville, "while divorce, custody and child support are handled in circuit court.

"The new system combines all family issues in a single court. This new structure will mean the family can go to a single court for a continuum of service."

Many court reform backers want a single "trial court" - no more circuit, probate and district courts. This can't be accomplished, however, until the people amend the constitution to eliminate the status of probate courts.

Here is how area lawmakers voted:

YES - Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

NO - Eileen DeHart, D-Westand, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, James Ryan, R-Redford.

Gov. John Engler signed the bill into law.

major civil litigation. I feel that ships of more than 10,000 population, said Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton.

His amendment creates a "block grant program" for townships under which they could, at their option, receive construction and maintenance money directly from the state. Since the 1930s, counties have been responsible for all township roads.

"Townships are subject to the whim of the counties, and in some cases the decisions have become very political," Bennett said. "this measure bring road funding to the local level."

The bills were passed almost on party-line votes and go to the House, which will reconvene Nov. 12 following the general election.

Among the eligible townships of more than 10,000 population:

Wayne County - Brownstown, Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter, Van Buren.

Meanwhile, political forces continued the road debate in a barrage of news releases. Samples:

■ Senate minority leader John Cherry, D-Clio: "These bills do a lot of things. They create more bureaucracy. They make it easier for the government to take your land. They make it harder for accident victims to receive settlements. But they don't do anything about the fact that bill, passed by the Senate, has a Michigan's roads are falling

Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto: "First, optimize the way the state's transportation dollars are spent before we even consider a hike in the gas tax. . . With these reforms, we're spending the taxpayers' transportation dollars on blacktop and bridges, not lawyers and litigation."

Rich Studley, senior vicepresident of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce: "We applaud the Senate. . The four-bill package will provide much needed transportation-elated tort reform, which means more gas tax dollars will be used to patch potholes and fix bridges instead of fighting frivolous lawsuits and paying excessive jury awards."

Rules reduced

More than 2.000 administrative rules have been eliminated by the Office of Regulatory Reform, Gov. John Engler announced. Among them:

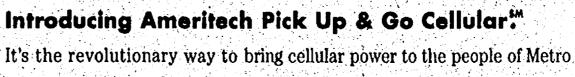

Rules of the Athletic Board of Control requiring contests to be "properly clothed in neat and clean athletic clothing that is in keeping with good public taste."

Family Independence Agency rules governing fire protection in group homes that duplicated similar rules of the Community Health Department.

■17 rules of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, a body made obsolete by the 1963 state Constitution.

Red Flannel Day has its traditions

went back to my old hometown. Not long ago, couple weeks maybe. It's a tradition to go back there, this time of year. A strong tradition. I never miss this journey home.

I always go back in early October. It's then, on that first Saturday, that my old hometown celebrates itself and its ... red underwear.

Now, my old hometown is very little, and very quiet, 364 days of the year, but on that 365th day, on Red Flannel Day, the town bursts!

I know I've told you about Red Flannel Day before. The Red Flannel Queen, the chicken barbecue, the red flannel long johns the town manufactured for decades on display everywhere, in rear windows on decals, on the rear end of parade floats, and on just rear ends, and there's the marching band competition, and carnival rides, caramel apples, the huge and colorful parade. It's a big, noisy, wonderful day.

And everyone wears red. You have to, or the Keystone Kops might throw you into the little jail set up on the sidewalk on Main Street just for that. It's tradition.

This year all seven of us flocked "home," all wearing something red, to my Mom and Dad's house there in Cedar Springs. The house nearly burst at the seams, but that was fine because the weather was nice. So nice in fact, the children ran barefoot around the yard, some of us that night even slept outside. That's how nice, the weather was.

While it raised $70,000 for Angela Hospice's "My Nest Is Best" pediatric program last year, the Italian American Club of Livonia and Jacobson's of Laurel Park Place have no plans of resting on their laurels when it comes to the ninth installment of "Light Up a Life."

Slated for 6-9 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 3, at Jacobson's, Laurel Park Place, the annual fund-raiser promises plenty of fun, gourmet food and holiday fashions for the whole family.

"We have a good following ... a lot of good food and a good following," said Carolyn DiComo of the event's ongoing success. "We did $70,000 last year and our dream is $100,000 this year. Jacobson's has allowed us to have a silent auction this year and we hope that will put us close to the $100,000 mark."

The festivities will kick off with the hourlong VIP Celebrity and Champagne Reception at 5:30 p.m. Party goers will have a chance to rub elbows with this year's celebrity models. Doors will open to regular ticket-holders at 6 p.m.

Setting the mood for the evening will be harpist Christa Grix at the VIP Reception and the Livonia Stevenson High School brass ensemble. Honorary chairs for the evening

Olympic gold medalist stars at Suburban League benefit

BY ARLENE FUNKE SPECIAL WRITER

Olympic golf medalist Sheila Taormina of Livonia and Observer food columnists Larry Janes are among more than two dozen local celebrity models for the Redford Suburban League's annual fashion show.

The show will be Wednesday, Oct. 23 at Burton Manor in Livonia. Local television and radio personalities will model fashions from Jacobson's of Laurel Park Place, Livonia.

Tickets are $35 per person.

"We are hoping to fill the whole place," said Mary Ann Allendorf of Livonia, publicity spokeswoman for the Redford

Suburban League. "This is our major fund-raiser."

Proceeds will go to charitable organizations serving youth, physically and mentally handicapped people and elderly. Methodist Children's Village, a Redford residential treatment facility for abused and neglected children, receives funding from Redford Suburban League for special projects.

In 1995, a $600 donation was used to send children to summer camp.

"It is a wonderful experience. very beneficial," said Kristine Jamison, director of development at the village. "For some kids, it's the first experience like

A $1,000 donation from Redford Suburban League earlier this year was used to teach village residents a variety of independent living skills.

Ronald McDonald House also receives funding from the Redford Suburban League, generally $500 to $1,000 per year, said Cathie Burnett, a secretary at Ronald McDonald House in Detroit.

"The house couldn't be open without the generosity of our donors," Burnett said. The house provides temporary living quarters for families who wish to remain near their hospitalized children.

Although McDonald Corporation underwrites a substantial portion of Ronald McDonald's budget, the majority of assistance comes from community groups and individuals, according to Burnett.

The house, next door to Children's Hospital of Michigan, serves families from all over Michigan, other states and foreign countries. There are 25 bedrooms, a dining room, TV lounge, exercise room and yard.

"We charge $10 a night, but we never turn anybody away for lack of finances," Burnett said.

The day's activities will begin at 10 a.m. with a crafts boutique, featuring 40 artists and crafts persons. Luncheon will be served at noon, followed by the fashion show.

Celebrity commentators will be Doris Biscoe of WXYZ-TV Channel 7 and Rich Fisher of WJBK-TV Channel 2. Many local TV and radio personalities will model. A raffle drawing of more than 50 door prizes will follow the show. First prize is a trip for two to Cypress Pointe Resort in Orlando. Other prizes include a 25-inch stereo TV with VCR and stand and a 14-karat gold bracelet.

Luncheon tickets may be reserved by calling (313) 937-3156 or (313) 535-7389. Raffle tickets may be purchased by calling (313) 533-4662 or (810) 684-2174.

Last year, the Suburban League disbursed more than $21,000 among many organizations, including Redford Boys and Girls Club, Redford Union Special Olympics, Senior Citizens of Redford, Redford Township Library, and Association of Retarded Citizens of Northwest Wayne County.

The Redford Suburban League has approximately 220 members. Monthly meetings include lunch and speakers. Membership is not limited to Redford residents.

Early in the day, I happened upon an old high school classmate. I was on Main Street, actually I was in Main Street, right in the middle of it when I saw Sarah. (They allow only foot traffic, and the occasional stilt walker, and the Keystone Kop paddy wagon on Main Street for a good portion of the day.) I picked Sarah out in the sea of red. I recognized her right away.

I first met Sarah when we were 8 and in third grade. She'd just moved to Cedar Springs so she was new. The teacher put her in the empty desk right next to mine. And we became friends. We sort of lost track after we graduated from high school.

And the last time I'd seen Sarah was a few years ago at a high school reunion. And then again on Main Street - with my five children and my husband surrounding me. We talked and laughed. I introduced my family to her; she could tell I was very proud of them. We wished each other well and then into the sea of red we parted.

The seven of us then made our way to the side street where the rides were set up. The children had long before decided what they were going to do there, just one thing, the Spooky House. They hated it last year (especially Joey), but they begged and whined to try again this year. The hallways twist and turn, buzzers buzz, creatures sit up in ghastly lit windows and the place is pitch black. (Except this time. Joey smuggled in a flashlight.) I waited outside with my two youngest while the Flashlight Gang took their tour of mitigated horrors. Before the parade began, we headed over to the chicken barbecue. It's in the Community Building. Tradition. I recognized familiar faces. A good friend's mom was serving up the coffee and the milk. We talked and. laughed. I hadn't seen Mrs. Clark in a long time so I introduced the newest family members. She seemed pleased to hear that my fourth child shared the same name as her husband of 50

We cleaned up our chicken mess and joined the crowds outside as they settled themselves into spots to watch the parade. We knew exactly where we were headed. Even the spot to watch the parade is a tradition. As we got closer our steps quickened.

And there was Carla waiting for us. My best friend growing up. The one who lives far away now and had twins last December, which made her a mother of five. Like me. I was seeing her babies for the very first time. month-old Steven for the very first time.

The reunion was tearful and joyful and punctuated by bass drums and snare drums and fire truck sirens as they passed by in the parade. We talked and laughed. And couldn't believe that what once used to be just two little girls standing together watching the Red Flannel Day parade had become a group of 14.

After the parade, we pushed strollers and carried tired walkers past the high school drive, up Muskegon Street, and then to Ann Street, where we all stopped in for old time's sake at

And Carla was meeting my 7- the house Carla grew up in and where her parents still live.

As the late afternoon fell into shadows, two little girls played out in the yard, doing cartwheels down the hill, their long hair flying behind them. Most everyone else saw Carla's and Karen's daughters. But we? We saw ghosts.

Or perhaps it was tradition.

Joining them will be WJR notables Donna Barbeara, Catherine Leslie and Marie Osborn (news), Frank Beckman and Lary Sorensen (Detroit Tigers), Judy Coy, Ken Calvert and Rachel Navada (WJR with Mitch Albom); Cheryl Chodun, Teresa Tomeo and Don Shane of WXYZ-TV; Paul Gross of WDIV-TV; and David Scott of WKBD-of it," DiComo said. DiComo has her eye on two of the celebs to handle master of ceremonies duties for the children's and celebrity fashion

"I'm thinking of asking Don Shane to emcee the children's show," she said. "He was having such a good time during it last year. I watched him and decided it would be great fun to have a sportscaster do the announcing."

DiComo also would like to have Calvert do the celebrity fashion show. Calvert, the Detroit Pistons' announcer, is well-known for his long, drawn out name introductions, something DiComo envisions happening during the fashion show.

As in the past, ticket sales have been slow to start, but DiComo anticipates a "great" finish. Last year, some 1,200 people filled Jacobson's. Tickets for "Light Up a Life"

Genealogy seminars help participants find their roots;

By Christina Fuoco STAFF WRITER

Those researching their family history can never have too much information and genealogical societies realize this. That's why two area groups - the Western Wayne County Genealogical Society and the Detroit Society for Genealogical Research - are holding workshops in early November in Livonia.

more information," said Western Wayne County Genealogical Society's Jan Lajza. "I think that you can never have too much information.

"If you only get one hint or one suggestion during the entire seminar, that may lead you to tackle a different area, whether it be about ancestors or about history."

Her group's workshop is 8 a.m.-2:45 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 2, at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile Road, west of Inkster Road, Livonia.

The fee is $12.50 in advance. "I think that it helps to get or $15 at the door. The preregistration deadline is Saturday, Oct. 19.

A surname registry is available to all who preregister. For more information, call Lajza at Archives in Washington, D.C. (313) 525-9002.

Topics at that workshop include the Draper Manuscripts, a collection of manuscripts assembled in the 1830s by a man who interviewed settlers and their relatives from the 1700s-1830s; "Placing Your Ancestors in a Historical Context;" "Tracing Your Female Lines," and "Researching the Midwest using the Allen County Public Library," a facility in Fort Wayne, Ind., that Lajza calls the second best source for genealogical research in the United States. on Saturday, Nov. 9, will focus on "Researching New York and" New Jersey" and features guest speaker Roger D. Joslyn, a New York-based full-time genealogist. That workshop begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road, at Farmington Road.

The registration fee is $14 before Oct. 19; $18 after. For more information, call Peggy Brann at (810) 553-6711 or Ronni Curtis at (313) 981-1475.

"People can't always afford to travel to New York or New Jers sey, so by bringing in someone with an expertise in this area; they can use them as 'A resource," Doherty said.

The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research, founded in 1936, meets at 2 p.m. the second Saturday of the month from September through June at the Burton Historical Collection at the Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

Arbor Hospice breaks ground for residential facility

Arbor Hospice is gearing up for the ground breaking for a new community resource.

Ceremonies will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 20, for the Arbor Hospice Residence at 2366 Oak Valley Dr., just off I-94 at Ann Arbor-Saline Road, Ann Arbor.

The 30-bed residence will be that area's first licensed residential hospice, providing care for terminally ill patients who, for a variety of reasons, cannot continue to live at home. "We are dedicated to helping our patients complete their lives in dignity and comfort, ideally in their own homes," said Mary Lindquist, founder and president of Arbor Hospice. "Unfortunately, this is not always possible. The Arbor Hospice Residence fills the gap for patients who need more support than home care and can't be cared for in a hospital or nursing home."

The design by architects Daniels & Zermack of Ann Arbor Hospice supports the Arbor philosophy of total care for both patients and families, according to Lindquist, a registered nurse.

"The final chapter of one's life can be an important and rewarding time," Lindquist said. "With hospice care to provide a supportive environment, patients can pass along their wisdom, love and legacy to family members."

Private rooms, which can be furnished with personal items, will look out onto gardens, nature walkways and a children's playground. Families will be included in mealtime, served either in the dining room, around the fireplace, or in the patient's room. There also will be a special kitchen for families to cook their favorite foods.

The 8.3-acre site was donated to Arbor Hospice by local developer Don Chisholm. A community-wide fund raising campaign, "The Fabric of Life," co-chaired by Judy Dow Rumelhart and University of Michigan Athletic Director Joe Roberson, has already raised $1.5 million of its $3.5 million goal.

Schedule to open in summer

1997, the Arbor Hospice Residence also will also house the agency's administrative offices and community meeting rooms, and, as designated by the International Hospice Institute, be the hospice training center for international professionals.

The Plymouth-based R.A. DeMattia Company is the general contractor; Midwestern Consulting of Ann Arbor is the project engineer.

Since 1984, it has served more than 5,000 patients and families. With has offices at 3810 Packard Road, Ann Arbor, and 7445 Allen Road, Allen Park, Arbor Hospice serves all of Washtenaw County as well as portions of Livingston County, Lenawee, Monroe and Wayne counties, including Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Westland and Farmington Hills.

For more information about Arbor Hospice, call (313) 677-0500 in Ann Arbor or (313) 383-8000 in Allen Park.

Oh, happy day: Mary Lindquist, founder and president of Arbor Hospice, shows off a framed drawing of the Arbor Hospice Residence which will be built on 8.3 acres on An Arbor's southwest side.

Writer tends to be guarded

LORENE GREEN

Dear Green, I am fascinated with your ability to analyze a person by their handwriting. (Incidentally, usually print.) am left handed and sometimes I write with my slant to the left. I feel now is the time for your analysis of me through my handwriting. I'm 44 years old and I've been married almost 24 years. I also have one daughter.

Thank you. H.F.,

Plymouth Today's writer alternates between printing and writing. Since she only gave me four printed words I will have to base my analysis on her writing. Before I begin, however, I will give some general information on printing. Printing effectively conceals many subtler aspects of personality and can be a sign of evasiveness. Draftsmen, engineers, architects artists are often printers. Others choose printing for legibility, so it is important to know why the person chooses to print.

Printing reveals a preference for quick, intuitive thinking, an ability to appraise a situation and formulate an answer on gut feeling. It also creates a certain amount of emotional isolation. Printers are often independent, aloof and prefer to accomplish things on their own rather than try to fit in with a group.

Now for the analysis. By nature our writer tends to be guarded and protective. She has Usually, she thinks before she speaks. Social mores and customs may be important. She is also concerned with appearances and formality.

Her thinking pattern is sometimes logical, sometimes intuitive. Her memory is retentive. She appears to have a strong need to be right.

The writer is a rather serious person. Material and physical interests occupy much of her

Her heavy pressure harbors intense feelings. Both happy and sad experiences remain with her for long periods of time. Occasional feelings of resentment surface.

Feelings of self-worth seem to vary at times and in various situations. She is excitable and a bit moody. She does not always cope well with daily ups and

Some self-consciousness is here. This suggests a fear of being judged. She is probably uncomfortable when someone stands over her and critiques her performance.

Varying slants suggest unpredictable actions and times. She can move from outgoing to introspective. Some concern about the future is also seen.

She might want to try understanding a point of view that is different from hers. Few things are all right or all wrong.

> Emotional baggage from her early life seems to be lingering. She does not perceive her parents as united in their nurturing. She may also be searching for the male influence which was not always there for her earlier.

> Our writer desires smooth relationships with people. To avoid friction or unpleasantness, she will often compromise or acquiesce to others. She is not one to promote tempests in tea

It's no gamble. Buying SPRING Newspapers in suburban Detroit is a sure bet. Why risk your newspaper media dollars on an unaudited circulation? When you buy SPRING Newspapers, you're buying the largest audited circulation in suburban Detroit. The Detroit News and the Free Press have yet to issue a current ABC audit, so there's no telling how many papers are being printed - and who's receiving them. SPRING Newspapers are not only a sure bet. they're also a smart bet. For example:

• 48% of adults in the SPRING survey area read SPRING weekly and dally newspapers. SPRING has an audited circulation of 761,885.

• SPRING delivers, on average, 1,060,000 total readers every week.

• That means that SPRING delivers 1,167,000 gross impressions for an entire week.

Compare these numbers to your other media alternatives; only 37% of adults in the SPRING market read the weekday Detroit Free Press or The Detroit News.

More suburban Detroit readers turn

 SPRING delivers more weekday suburban readers with household incomes over SPRING delivers more suburban homeowners (51%) than any other weekday

Canton denies Spartans

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS WRITER

You'd think that after the two previous disappointments Livonia Stevenson's boys soccer team experienced in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship match against Plymouth Canton, the lesson would have been learned:

Apparently it wasn't.

And yet the same affliction always seems to jump up and devour the Spartans _ overconfidence. It did again Wednesday night at Canton. Stevenson broke a scoreless tie in the opening minutes of the second half.

But then something happened. Within 5½ minutes, the Chiefs had popped in the game-tying goal, and a minute later they had the the final 31 minutes of playing time, during which the only goal came from the Chiefs, giving them a 3-1 triumph and their second uncontested WLAA title in three years.

Add into that last year's tie with Stevenson for the title and Canton's upset in 1994, and you can understand why the Spartans might be frustrated.

"We were winning, we were in control, and then in a matter of a few minutes, we gave the game over to them," said Stevenson coach Walt Barrett, his team finishing the regular season 12-2-1.

The Spartans opened the scoring when Thomas Eller's long throw-in reached Brandon Good, 15 yards in front of Canton's net. The Chief defense hesitated, but Good didn't he turned and drove the ball past a diving Ben Davis, the Canton keeper, for a 1-0 Stevenson lead.

"We gave up that cheap goal," said Canton coach Don Smith, his team 11-2-4. "I mean, (Stevenson) earned it, but our guys just kind of stood there and watched."

A Canton counterattack started at midfield by Scott Wright ended up in the Spartan net, knotting the score at 1-1. Wright carried the ball down the right side, passing it in to Robert Barnes, who crossed it past Stevenson keeper Eric O'Neil to Nick Wright, who finished.

Before Stevenson could regroup, a pass from Jonathan Page reached Kevin Gniewek, and he did the rest, zig-zagging through the Spartan defense and beating

Stevenson earns trip to Class A state meet

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Whitney Crosby is one of the big reasons why Livonia Stevenson is headed back to the state Class A girls tennis tournament. The junior and No. 1 singles player for the Spartans carried her momentum from winning the Western Lakes Activities Association title by capturing the regional top flight crown last Friday in Ann Arbor.

Stevenson was one of three teams out of the Ann Arbor regional to qualify for this weekend's state meet (Oct. 18-19 in Midland).

Two Ann Arbor teams, Huron (24 points) and Pioneer (19) earned the automatic bids, while Stevenson, reaching at least the semifinals in all seven flights, scored 17 points to beat the mininum score of 16.

Crosby, the top seed, and sophomore Mara Mazzoni, the Spartans' No. 4 singles player, each reached regional finals.

Crosby raised her season record to 21-2 with 6-3, 6-2 win over No. 2 seed Kendra Clark of Ypsilanti. The Stevenson junior beat Livonia Franklin's Cherie Berner (6-0, 6-0) and Saline's Linda Acus (6-2, 6-1) en route to the finals.

Mazzoni, seeded third in her flight, lost to top seed Andrea Loh of Huron in the finals, 6-3, 6-2, after defeating Laura Conrad of Franklin (6-1, 6-1), Patty Snook of Plymouth Canton (6.4, 7-5) and No. 2 seed Leslie Scott of Pioneer (6-3, 6-4).

First-year Stevenson coach Frank Dotson believes Crosby, who went 1-1 last year before losing to state runner-up Megan Kearney of Okemos, could be among the top eight seeds,

"Whitney is a very dedicated and capable athlete," Dotson said. "She moves very well and also takes instruction well.

"She also has a good middle game. She's able to come to the net off her serve and score points."

Crosby comes from a tennis play-

Regional champion: Livonia Stevenson's No. 1 singles player Whitney Crosby also won the Western Lakes crown.

Her mother Marsha is a formidable club player and mentor, while her older brother Chad is a freshman netter at Grand Valley State. She can also get sparring lessons from 12-year-old brother Brady, a talented left-hander.

In the WLAA tournament (Oct. 8), Crosby avenged one of her two losses on the year by upending top seed Becky Clanton of Walled Lake Central in three sets, 6-3, 1-6, 7-6 (winning the tiebreaker 7-2). Clanton had won the last three meetings between the two, including last year's WLAA final and a dualmeet encounter earlier this year at Central, 6-1, 6-1.

Both Crosby and Clanton are basically baseliners.

"I knew I could beat her (Clanton) if I played well," Crosby said. "My serve was going good.

"I tried to get on the attack before she could, and I'd be fine. I couldn't be missing anything because if I'm inconsistent, she'll take advantage."

Crosby was helped by the fact that she was playing Clanton on her home court.

"I like it when people watch and cheer for me," Crosby said. "I feel I'm still improving and I've just been 'on' the last couple of weeks."

Northville, the WLAA dual-meet champion with a 10-0-1 record, held off North Farmington, which was 10-1 in duals, by a single point, 23 to 22, to claim the WLAA crown outright.

The outcome of the meet wasn't decided until Monday when a makeup match for the No. 3 doubles title was decided.

Seniors Maria Nikou and Courtney Vince of Stevenson kept North from gaining a share of the Western Lakes meet crown by defeating junior Rachel Wool and sophomore Liz Schnaar of North, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

The win gave Stevenson 21 points. It was good enough for the thirdplace Spartans, who also finished third in the dual meet campaign. with a 9-1-1 record. See statistical summaries of

Gunn pulls trigger, digs WMU role

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

Defense? No way.

That was the attitude of Liz Gunn as she starred as Livonia Lady wood's setter and outside hitter from 1990-93. Not only did she set the Blazers' record for kills in a career, but she also earned All-State honors as a junior and senior. But now, as a senior on the Western Michigan Uni-

the school records for most career digs and is piling on to her total with each match. "I never played defense in high-school," Gunn recalled. "And I was recruited to Western as a hitter. But now I like defense even more than hitting." The defensive mindset has always been there, as Gunn was a mainstay in goal on the Ladywood soccer team and used to having balls fired at her. In Mid-American Conference matches, Gunn ranks in the top 10 in hitting percentage (.320), digs per game (.282) and aces per game (.043). She tops MAC players in overall hitting percentage (.327). The 5-foot-10 outside hitter has led the Broncos to a quick start. Western is 13-5 overall and 4-4 in the MAC, fighting to finish in the top four to advance into the conference playoffs. WMU has already surpassed the 1992 win total.

She is currently second on the team in digs (136) and leads the team in kills (209). In addition, she is second on the team with service aces (21).

She has also added a new weapon to her arsenal _ a jump serve.

"I still have to work on its consistency," Gunn said. "It's a hard serve to return, and it's hard because I'm left-handed. Being a lefty has been a plus for me. I've been told it's harder to setup blocks against lefties."

Actually, Gunn is only part of the reason the Broncos are thriving. Joining Gunn on the court are seniors Bridget Norris (Walled Lake Central), Evie Sverns, Melissa Hansen and Sarah Gardiner _ all four-year performers.

"It's like a family here," Gunn said. "You can always rely on one of them. We all know how each others characteristics. It becomes instingtive where they'll be on the court." -

The season Gunn is enjoying is a complete turnaround from her junior year. After stellar seasons as a freshman and sophomore, Gum struggled some last season after contracting mononucleosis in the summer before the season began.

"The mono carried into the season," she said. "I never had time to recover and got more and more tired as the season went on. I worked hard over the off-season to regain. energy. Before, I didn't hold true to the workout program, but I worked harder than ever this past summer."

Western coach Cathy George, who took over the program three years ago, has noticed the difference in Gunn.

"Liz has started very strong," George said. "She was disappointed in her personal performance during the 1995 season and really stepped it up over the summer. She worked very hard to regain her strength and it's paid off for her and the team. We need her to stay consistent to achieve the goals we set as a team."

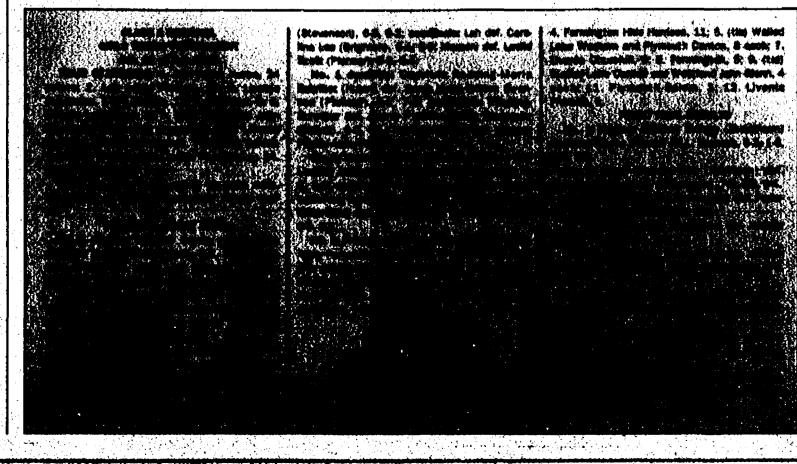

Gunn made an immediate impact her freshman year. She finished second on the team in kills, first in aces and had 10 double figure games in digs. She was named honorable mention All-MAC as a sophomore after leading the Broncos in kills, digs and aces.

Even in her disappointing junior; season, she led team in digs and aces and second in kills.

Gunn recovered in time to play No. 6 singles on Western's tennis

"I played in the tennis state tournament as a senior at Ladywood,"alse : Gunn said. "There were some as injuries on the team, and the coach remembered me from when I played at Ladywood."

The year-long competition never ends for Gunn, who takes that spirit into the classroom. Gunn, who is double majoring in dietetics and exercise science, leads the team with a 3.79 GPA.

Gunn's prowess in the classroom was recognized the week of Sept. 23 when she was named MAC Player of the Week and the Gatorade Scholar of the Week.

What's next for Gunn? Would you believe beach volleyball?

"Me and my roommate, Evie Sverns, played in several tournaments this past summer and will compete in more this summer." Gunn said.

Gunn and Sverns picked up the sport fast and finished third in a tournament in Grand Haven.

"It's a lot different than regular volleyball," Gunn said. "In beach volleyball, there are only two people and it's a lot harder. But you can get a great tan while you're playing."

Five tournaments. Four championships.

Those are exactly the figures that have been posted by Madonna University's volleyball team. The most recent addition was last weekend at the 12-team University of Michigan-Dearborn Invitational.

The Lady Crusaders rolled through their first four matches without losing a game, then outscored Grace College (Ind.) in a fifth game of rally scoring (15-11) to collect the tournament championship.

The five victories boosted Madonna's record to 27-3.

Julie Martin (from Livonia Stevenson) and Karin Sisung were both named to the all-tournament team. Martin collected 66 kills with a .523 attack percentage and had eight solo blocks and 20 block assists.

VOLLEYBALL

Sisung totaled 57 kills (.400), 48 digs, 1 solo and 13 block assists.

They weren't the only stars for Madonna, however. Meg Paris totaled 179 assists to kills (10.5 per game); Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) had a team-high 71 kills (.362), five solos and 10 block assists; and Erin Comment contributed 23 kills and a teambest 71 digs.

Also, Paula Dombrowski (Plymouth Salem) did a solid job filling in for the injured Heather Steinhelper at outside hitter. She finished with 21 digs and seven block assists.

Lady Ocelots stumble

After a superb weekend at the Jefferson College (Mo.) Invitational last weekend, Schoolcraft College's volleyball team came up flat Tuesday against Eastern

Conference rival Henry Ford CC

Tuesday.

The Lady Ocelots were swept by the Hawks, 15-3, 15-12, 15-13, at Henry Ford. The loss was a costly one, dropping SC into a three-way tie for first in the conference with Henry Ford and Mott CC at 5-2. SC is 17-8 over-

"I think it must have (taken its toll)," SC coach Tom Teeters said of the weekend trip to play some of the top teams in the NJCAA. "Individually they were just not ready. They knew what they had to do, just didn't execute. They looked fatigued.

"The net blocked us a lot. Our hitters were stone cold."

Yvette Sixbey (Garden City) led the Ocelots with eight kills. Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill) had six kills and three service

At the nine-team Jefferson College tournament, SC bounced back after splitting its first four matches to win its last three and finish in a tie for second place.

The Ocelots beat Lake Michigan, but then lost to eventual tournament champion Barton County (Kan.). They followed that with a victory over Brownsville (Texas), but lost to host Jefferson. SC got hot after that, beating Southwest Michigan, Johnson County (Kan.) and fifth-ranked Miami-Dade Kendall (15-11, 15-

Michelle MacRae led the Ocelot attack with 32 kills. Stacy Sailus had 21 kills, with six solo blocks and 15 block assists _ the solo blocks all coming against Miami-Dade Kendall.

Sixbey added 20 kills, Clark had 16, and Hermina Angeles chipped in with 11 kills and 42 digs.

Amber Wells (Plymouth Canton) collected 68 assists to kills. and Mindy Sullivan (Churchill) had 26 digs.

Lady Ocelots' trip a success

When Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team embarked on a weekend trip to Illinois, to play College of DuPage and Moraine Valley CC _ two teams the Lady Ocelots had split with earlier this season at home _ they were not overly optimistic.

Against DuPage Saturday, a team the Ocelots had lost to earlier by a 2-1 margin, they got two second-half markers and posted a 2-0 triumph.

Earlier this season SC had beaten Moraine Valley 2-0 at SC, but ended in a come-from-behind

The best news was the rejuvenated offense. In two previous matches, the Ocelots had managed just two goals _ despite a 44-7 shot advantage.

The first goal against DuPage came off a Kelly West (from Plymouth Canton) corner kick, with Jodee Wilsher (Plymouth Salem) knocking it in.'

Melissa Crain got the clinching goal, working the ball up the field with Lisa DeShano (Livonia

COLLEGES

Franklin), then finishing.

Janelle Baldwin was in goal for the shutout. SC continued its shot domination, 17-4.

Down 2-0 at intermission, SC turned it up a notch in the second half, getting another goal off a West corner kick. Stephanie Smith (Garden City) converted this one from the far post.

The Ocelots tied it on a nice play by Dawn Koontz (Canton). who took a Stacy Baker (Livonia Churchill) pass and drove to the end line, turned to the net and beat the Moraine keeper.

A penalty-kick goal gave the lead back to Moraine with more than 25 minutes left. SC evened it again, at 3-3, when Baker lofted a high shot that the Moraine keeper misplayed, the ball getting behind her and into the net with 10 minutes left.

•MADONNA 3. FINDLAY 1 (men): Madonna University's men's soccer team overcame an early goal - netted with the game just over a minute old by host Findley (Ohio) College to collect their 10th victory of the season Saturday, tying a school record. The victory was also the ninthstraight for the Fighting Crusaders, an ongoing school record. Madonna is 10-

Seamus Rustin scored twice for the Crusaders, the first coming at the end of the first half to knot the score at 1-1 at the break. Keith Gniewek (Plymouth Canton) assisted.

Madonna, which beat Findlay 5-3 earlier this season, took the lead on Rustin's second goal with 10 minutes left, a penalty kick awarded when Rustin was dragged down in the box. Gniewek got the clincher with the game in extra time, taking a pass from Scott Emert after a long run and scoring from 22 yards out.

On Oct. 10, Madonna stopped Saginaw Valley State 4-1 at Livonia Ladywood HS. Jason Stemplen scored two goals, one on a penalty kick, with David Hart and Rustin getting the other two. Rustin also had an assist; Christian Emert collected two assists.

All four Crusader goals against the Cardinals came in the first half.

Stevenson had all sorts of chances to even the score, getting a half-dozen direct kicks within 30 yards of the Canton net. But the Spartans never really came close on any of them.

When Stevenson suffered a defensive breakdown in front of its own net on a Canton restart near midfield, leaving Scott Wright unchecked in front of the net, the Chiefs took advantage. Wright fielded Mike Bennett's pass and beat O'Neil, making it 3-1 with 4:41 left to play.

"Canton has always found a way to come back, to come back in the face of adversity, and that's to their credit," said Barrett. "I thought we played better soccer, but better soccer doesn't always win games."

Plymouth Salem blanks Churchill

Maybe the Michigan High School Athletic Association tournament is coming at just the right time for Livonia Churchill's boys soccer team.

Plymouth Salem beat host Churchill Monday, 2-0, to drop the Chargers to 11-6 this season. That after Churchill defeated Livonia Franklin Saturday, 2-0, in a makeup of a rained out Brett Konley and Brent Mullin each had a goal and an assist for the Rocks (13-3-2).

The loss to Salem "was frustrating for us," Churchill coach Chad Campau said. "I thought we outplayed them in the first half. We just had one defensive lapse and they took advantage of it. That was pretty much the story for the whole game. We played well enough to win."

Against Franklin, Churchill kept the game scoreless through the first half then put two strange goals in during the second.

Lorenzo Pivanti was credited with a goal in the first five minutes of the second half when a cross rolled right by the goalie into the net.

A few minutes later, Rob Bartoletti fired a shot from 25 yards that snuck into the net. The defender in front of the goalie misplayed the ball and the netminder didn't have time to react to the misdirected shot.

•FRANKLIN 3, N. FARMINGTON 3: North Farmington saw its record go to 5-6-4 Monday with a well-earned 3-3 tie at Livonia Franklin. Steve Finneran, assisted by Bill Wojtas, scored the first half's only goal to give Franklin a 1-0 lead. Brian Radcliffe scored an unassisted goal in the second Following an obstruction call, the Raiders' Viktor Juncaj from the right corner shot the ball up into the air. It went off three heads before Jeff lbbetson headed it into the net to shave the deficit to 2-1 with 13:48 left in the second half.

Just 31 seconds later, Juncaj broke through four would-be tacklers and passed ahead to Justin Street at midfield. Street went 50 yards and scored on the breakaway.

Fernando Cazares countered to give the Patriots a 3-2 lead.

With only two minutes left, a foul outside the box gave Dan Gabriel the opportunity to quick-kick the ball to Craig Hearn. Hearn unleashed a 20-yard shot that snuck into the net.

*STEVENSON 1, COUNTRY DAY 1: Guess what? Another deadlock rendered after Saturday's make-up match between two of the state's elite teams.

It is believed to be the eighth straight tie between the two teams.

Observer Eccentric

Winless streaks go on line

BY DAN O'MEARA

A pair of pivotal games highlight the schedule for the seventh week of the prep football season.

In the Western Lakes Activities Association, Farmington Harrison and host Livonia Franklin battle under the lights Friday night in a key Western Division game.

In the Mega Conference, Wayne Memorial has the dual task of trying to stop its slide while facing a formidable Dearborn Fordson team in the Red Division.

There's another twist on the lineup of games.

Instead of teams falling from the unbeaten ranks, as was the case a few weeks back, the number of winless teams will be reduced this week.

Either Redford Union or Garden City will be a first-time winner in their Mega-White Division game, and Livonia Churchill could earn its first victory against winless Northville.

The Observer prognosticators are deadlocked with three weeks to go. Both were 12-3 last week and stand 73-17 overall.

> FRIDAY'S GAMES (all times 7:30 p.m.)

Luth. East at Clarenceville: The Troins (2.4, 2.4) nailed down their second win Saturday, 35-8 over winless Lutheran Northwest, but they face tougher opposition this week in the Metro Conference. Lutheran East (3-2, 4-2) took a 50-28 pounding from a rejuvenated Hamtramck squad but is still above .500 for the season. PICK: The Eagles soar with Churchili at Northville: This looks like a golden opportunity for the Chargers (0-4, 0-6) to win _ something they haven't done since late in the 1993 season. But Churchill fans have to be encouraged by the number of points their team has scored lately. The Chargers have put 52 on the board against Western, Harrison and Canton. If it means anything, their point differentials have been a little lower against most common opponents. A shutout was averted when the Mustangs (0-4, 0-6) kicked a late field goal in a 22-3 loss to Harrison. PICK: QB Nathan Jerome leads Churchill to that elusive win.

Harrison at Franklin: They're most likely playing for second place in the divisional co-champion, it's a must-win situation for both if they plan to stay in the post-season picture, too. Harrison (3-1, 5-1) has won three straight but wasn't overpowering against either Churchill or Northville, Franklin (3-1, 4-2) had its four-game winning streak snapped in a 32-20 loss to Western but usually gives the Hawks a lot of trouble. Harrison barely escaped with a 22-21 win last year. PICK: The Hawks win another close one. N. Farmington at Stevenson: The Spartans (3-1, 4-2) are on a roll with three straight victories and have clinched a share of second place in the Lakes Division. Stevenson had to rally from a 21-7 deficit Friday before taking a 33-21 win over Salem. The Raiders (O-4, 0-6) missed a chance to win Saturday when penalties and turnovers proved costly in a 7-0 loss to Farmington, PICK:

The Spartans stand their ground. Redford Union at Garden City: Both. teams are 0-4 in the Mega White (0-6 overall) and fighting to stay out of the division cellar. The Panthers haven't scored a point in the last month, losing their last three by shutout, including a 34-0 score Friday against Southgate. The Cougars, who lost 27-13 to Taylor Kennedy, have done slightly better at scoring points. The Panthers won 13-0 last year over Garden City, PICK: It's Garden City's turn to win.

Canton at W.L. Western: The Warriors (40, 5-1) have already clinched a share of the Western Division title and a berth. in the WLAA championship game, it the second time Western is a division champlon; the first was in 1992. The Chiefs (2-2, 3-3) rebounded from two straight losses by beating Churchill 40-19 and will try to snap Western's four-game win streak. PICK: Western makes it five in a W.L. Central at Salem: It's a toss-up game here between two evenly-matched teams. Central (2-2, 3-3) lost to Lakes Division champ John Glenn last week, 17-7. The Rocks (2-2, 4-2) would be looking at second place if they could have held their lead against Stevenson. Nonetheless, Salem has done better than expected this year; the Vikings have under performed their preseason outlook. PICK: Central gets the edge.

> SATURDAY'S GAMES (all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

John Glenn at Farmington: The Rockets (4-0, 6-0) are headed to the WLAA championship game for the first time since 1993. It'll be a rematch with Walled Lake Western, but that's next week. Glenn has one more Lakes Division opponent to play. The Falcons (1-3, nected with junior Dave Viane for a 68-yard touchdown pass Saturday. PICK: The Rockets stay on track.

Thurston at Annapolis: The Eagles (2-3, 3-3) rebounded from losses to Mega-Blue powers Allen Park and Melvindale to defeat Taylor Center, 21-6. Thurston should make it two straight against perennial division doormat Dearborn Heights Annapolis (0-5, 0-6). The Cougars absorbed a 42-8 whipping from Crestwood last week, PICK: The Eagles

Luth. Westland at Cranbrook: The Warriors (4-1, 5-1) passed a big Metro Conference test with flying colors Saturday, trouncing Lutheren North and proving the prognosticators wrong with a 49-12 victory. A Class C playoff berth is a real possibility for Lutheran Westland. Cranbrook (3-2, 3-3) was trounced by Morenci, a state-ranked Class C power, 58-12. PICK: The Warriors continue their march to the playoffs.

Wayne at Fordson, 1:30 p.m.: The Zebras (3-2, 4-2) have lost two straight and must win to stay in the Class AA playoff picture. But that won't be easy since Wayne must travel to Mega-Red leader Fordson (4-1, 5-1). The Tractors have won four straight since losing to Monroe; they crushed Woodhaven 42-6 Friday. The Zebras failed to hold a 10point lead in the fourth quarter Saturday and lost to Belleville, 28-24. A Wayne victory could put Wyandotte and/or Belleville atop the Mega-Red with one loss each. PICK: The Tractors have Redford CC vs. U-D Jesult, 7:30 p.m. at Clarenceville: The Shamrocks (1-1, 4-2) put a halt to their two-game skid with a 24-13 win over Orchard Lake St. Mary's. As far as playoff hopes, CC can't afford to look past Detroit-Jesuit (0-2, 1-5) to its game with unbeaten Divine Child next week. The Cubs have lost five straight since beating Highland Park in the opener and were blanked by Divine Child (14-0) and DePorres (35-0) In their last two. PICK: The Shamrocks are bear hunters this week.

Bishop Borgess vs. Aquinas, 7:30 p.m. at Garden City Jr. High: The Spartans (0-3, 2-4) face their toughest opponent of the season and the Tri-Sectional leader this week. Southgate Aquinas, the No. 1-ranked team in Class C. crushed Allen Park Cabrini 39-0 to improve to 4-0 and 6-0. Borgess lost its third in a row to Benedictine, 44-8. PICK: The Aquinas juggernaut rolls on.

SUNDAY'S GAME

St. Agatha at St. Clement, 2:30 p.m.: The Aggies (0-3, 0-6) are still looking for their first victory after losing 41-6 to Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes in a Catholic C-Section game. Center Line St. Clement (1-2, 3-3) has had better years, but the Crusaders are still playing

Warriors rout North, 49-12

Lutheran Westland continued its march toward a possible state football playoff berth with a 49-12 homecoming victory Saturday over Macomb Lutheran North.

Lutheran North fell to 3-3 overall and 8-3 in the Metro.

·CLARENCEVILLE 35, LUTHERAN N'WEST 6: Senior running back Donanue Fulton scored three touchdowns Seturday as Livonia Clarenceville (2-4, 2-4) rolled past host Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest (0-6, 0-6):

Quarterbacks Paulo Hernandez and Matt Davey combined for four of six passing for 47 yeards.

Defensively, Jason Dillaha was In on 18 tackles.

Jason Wren averted the shutout for the Crusaders on a 6-yard TD run.

*BELLEVILLE 28, WAYNE 24: On Saturday, the visiting Tigers (4-2, 4-1) pulled out the Mega Conference Red Division victory with a pair of TDs in the final 3:28, spoiling homecoming for Wayne Memorial (4-2, 3-2).

Fifer Wells recovered an onside kick to set up the game-winning 41yard, seven-play drive capped by fullback Willie Patton's 10-yard TD run with only 55 seconds left. (Patton led all rushers with 129 yards,)

Belleville quarterback John Kroger, who was O-for-four through three quarters, connected on four-of-five down the stretch. He directed an eight-play, 56-yard

TD drive resulting in a 3-yard scoring plunge by Patton to pull the Tigers to within three, 24-21.

Wayne led 8-7 after one quarter as Dwayne Jackson, who had 104 yards in 21 carries, scored on a 33-yard run. orenzo Guesa hit brother Lavelle Guess with the two-point pass.

Belleville, however, opened the scoring on Von Gericten's 8-yard TD run (Eric Harrison added the first of his four extra points).

Steve knew that when he scored only four points in Junior Varsity Basketball during his own high school days, that he had a better chance writing about sports than playing them. When we asked Brad Emons what he enjoys most about covering community sports, he told us, "The people we deal with, from the coaches to the student-athletes, they truly appreciate the coverage—we cover a good group of schools from the smallest to the largest."

Brad began reading the major league box scores when he was still in grade school, wrote in high school and earned a degree in journalism from Franklin College in Indiana. He's been writing for your hometown newspapers since he graduated in 1977.

How does our coverage stack up? Brad says that unlike the metropolitan newspapers, "We cover a variety of prep sports and do it in-depth—both boys' and girls'. We're able to hit more than the highlights. We get to know nearly every high school coach and athletic director by their first names."

Cancer awareness

An estimated 184,300 new invasive cases of breast cancer will be reported among women in the United States during 1996, according to the American Cancer Society.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Survival rates increase dramatically when breast cancer is diagnosed at an early stage. The ACS recommends the following guidelines for early detection:

Have regular mammograms. Mammograms should begin by age 40. Have one every year or two until you reach age 49, then have one every year. Medicare will pay for a mammogram every other year for women age 65 and older.

See your doctor for regular breast exams. This means at least every three years between ages 20 and 40 and every year after age 40.

Practice monthly breast self-exam. Ask your health provider to teach you the proper way to do a thorough breast self-exam. The local office of the American Cancer Society can give you a how-to diagram as well.

Prescription help

The Northwest YWCA has a program for those who need help with prescriptions and are 65 years of age and older.

Do you spent 10 percent of your monthly income on prescriptions? Is your monthly income less than $934 for an individual or $1,254 for a couple? If so, you may qualify for the Michigan Emergency Pharmaceutical Program for Seniors. Call the Northwest YWCA at (313) 537-8500 for information.

Healthy eating

Plymouth-Canton Adult Education is focusing on helping people eat healthier in the 1990s. How do you know if you're eating a balanced diet? Do you know the differences between good fat and bad fat? Simple sugars and complex sugars?

Learn what a balanced diet is and about the latest medical literature concerning diet and nutrition. This session will be held 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22, in Canton. Call (313) 416-2937 for location and other information.

Fast foods

The term "fast foods" conjures up a nutritionist's nightmare: calorie-laden hamburgers, greasy fries, high-fat potato chips and sugar-packed shakes and soft drinks. Yet with today's busy lifestyles, the need for "fast" foods isn't going away.

"The trick is to realize that lots of fresh, healthful foods are also 'fast' foods," said Dianne Lucas, a representative of Take Off Pounds Sensibly, or TOPS. "When grabbing a quick snack, we want speed, convenience and good taste.

Many health snacks fit the bill."

She suggests these "super seven" fast foods: oranges, fortified cereals, whole-grain bread, bananas, bagels, low-fat yogurt and apples.

To contact Lucas, call (313) 584-1408.

"Kidspeak fills a unique need in the community," said Linda Diehl, social worker and coordinator for the program. "The death of a family member or close friend is hard enough on adults, but it's even harder on children."

Sessions are held 6-7 p.m. Mondays. For more information, call (800) 527-6266.

The Karmanos Cancer Institute is one of the nation's leading cancer research, treatment, education and outreach centers. It is affiliated with the Detroit Medical Center and Wayne State University and is supported by several area United Ways.

Dress right for fun and avoid danger

t's all the craze, but experts say participants should take special precautions when in-line skating to avoid injury.

Michael Jaffee, himself an in-line enthusiast and a physician specializing in rehabilitation medicine, recently studied injuries among 435 skaters from Southeast Michigan while interning at the Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan at Wayne State University.

In-line skating is ranked as the seventh most dangerous sports by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, and his study reveals the importance of using safety gear, especially when skating outdoors.

The study shows that in-line skaters of all types — including those who play roller hockey, recreational skating and racing — could reduce their chances of being injured by 43 percent if they wear safety gear, which Jaffee defines as helmet, wrist guards, knee pads and elbow pads.

"It's really the intermediate skaters who get the most injuries," said Jaffee, who now lives and practices in the San Diego area. "They take more chances, and are starting to skate backwards and do other tricks." Of the pool of skaters he researched, 75 percent wore at least wrist guards and 15 percent wear a full complement of gear, he Perhaps one of the most telling statistics, was that 90 percent of those interviewed had skated for at least four years, and had received some sort of injury, although most were minor in nature.

"It's really a matter of time, so you might as well wear the gear," he added. He said the study also showed that people who take lessons and wear protective gear substantially lessen their injuries.

Jaffee said he was prompted to do the study after a medical article in the Journal of the American Medical Association launched bad press against the sport, which he believed was unfair. "Thirty thousand people had come in with injuries," he said. "Of course, if your sample is only from the emergency room, that's what you're going to get."

He said his sampling shows mostly minor injuries, including bruises and scrapes.

Denise Marsack, a long-time competitive skater, said she always wears a full complement of safety gear when skating outdoors — including helmet and pads. "Skating outdoors is different," said Marsack, marketing coordinator for the Skatin' Station on the Canton/Plymouth border. "You have the wind and the weather — it can be hot, cold, or windy. You have to be sure the surface you're skating on is smooth enough for the type of wheels you have on your skates."

She recommends Hines Park or Kensington Metro Park for outdoor skating with trails. "The scenery is nice," she added.

At the Skatin' Station, visitors are not required to wear safety gear, unless they are children or first-timers. Marsack explained that the environment is more controlled indoors.

"There is a smooth surface, better than the outdoors," she said. "We check each skater's skates for their safety and ours and watch to make sure they keep a safe, comfortable speed while on the rink." There are four guards on duty during open skating to help people who fall, and to keep the rink safe, she added.

Marsack said the introduction of in-line skating has opened up the sport to many. "I think that it's a little more versatile (than traditional skating) to be able to be outdoors," she said. "It's a great form of exercise."

Chris Nolan, youth sports coordinator with the Livonia Family Y, said safety comes first on the outdoor in-line hockey team he coordinates, which includes children age 7-15 and runs in the spring and fall. "Everyone definitely must wear a helmet . . . because you don't know what the road surface will be," he said. "Elbow, knee pads and wrist guards are standard equipment for the team."

Nolan, who is also a skater, said using safety equipment has become the norm for most skaters over the past several years. "When in-line skating started . . . you saw very few people taking precautions," he added. "They thought it wasn't cool, I guess.

"Now, with all the colorful helmets around, it's just as

Those involved with the sport offer the following safety and health tips:

Take lessons before you even purchase in-line skates.
Lessons will help you understand the basics of the sport and prepare you. Many area roller rinks or recreation programs offer such instruction.

With your skates, purchase a full contingent of gear including helmet, knee pads and wrist guards.

When skating outdoors, Jaffee recommends having four points of contact when you fall, including both knees and wrists which should be covered by protective gear. Nolan suggests using a "tuck and roll" approach where possible, aiming for off of the path. "Sometimes you can't control that though," he added.

Hospital now gives latest treatment info on Net

Hospital in Rochester is the latest community institution in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers' circulation area to join the World Wide Wed.

On the Web since July. Crittenton's Web page has had more than 500

"hits" by visitors. As one of the first hospitals in Oakland County to be connected to the Internet, Crittenton's Web site is large and very comprehensive.

ONLINE

DANIELS

The site offers a wide range of information about the hospital such as a description of departments, programs, and services, a map to the hospital, and a calendar of hospital events. Take a look for yourself by pointing your browser to http://www.crittenton.com/.

'We felt that it was important for the hospital to have a presence on the Internet," said Ivy Kruck, manager of systems and programming at Crittenton. "The response so far has been outstanding. We've had replies from all over the U.S. and as far away as the United Kingdom, France, and Switzerland.

Crittenton's Web site also has a link to research information, such as to the American Medical Association, the Food and Drug Joint Administration, Commission on Accreditation of "Healthcare Organizations, National Library of Medicine, Medline, periodicals and associations. "We didn't want to limit our Web site," said Kruck, "Typically, people would visit their local library to conduct research. Today, they are using the Internet as their starting ground. We can provide the links they need to get the latest treatment information. It is great for physicians as well because they can access the latest techniques, clinical trials and more." Cancer Society Site

The Michigan Division of the American Cancer Society has launched its Web page on the Internet at http://www.mi.can-

Among the site's many features are a calendar of events, local office information, volunteer opportunities, and volunteer leadership.

Links to the national page include comprehensive information on breast cancer, prostate cancer, the Relay For Life fundraising event, the Great American SmokeOut on Nov. 21, publications such as 1996 Cancer Fact and Figures, and materials from the American Cancer Society's Breast Cancer Network.

"Because we are a national organization, our Web site links to our national office's page, to counterpart chapters in other states as well as to other cancerrelated organizations," said Cal Morgan, vice president of the American Cancer Society. "This means data, programs and service information are available to anyone, anytime, anywhere."

Future uses for the Web site are being considered. High on the priority list is distribution of products of value to the society's constituents. Now online is a CD-ROM entitled "Breast Cancer Lighthouse" that can be purchased for $29 or viewed at the Web site.

Another use being explored is the marketing of American Cancer Society holiday cards. Users would be able to view and select their choices from a variety of attractive holidays designs, with the proceeds used in the fight against cancer.

A Banking Arrival

First Chicago NBD now has a Web site on the Internet which you can take a look at by pointing to http://www.fcnbd.com.

The site is broken down into three major sections: corporate: small business; and personal banking. The home page also has several other categories, including a corporate overview, annual report, economic reports, corporate news, and a weekly trivia game called The Puzzler.

The Personal Banking section is the largest area of the and includes First Chicago Online, NBD Online, and First Direct. Future section will include online applications, rates, financial calculators and a Virtual Branch sometime in 1997.

The Virtual Branch will allow customers to do many bank transactions such as checking balances, transferring funds, and ordering checks. Its not real clear to me, though, whether the Virtual Branch will be accessible on the Internet or only through American On Line and/or Prodigy.

t was a desperate time when primo-mezzo Irina Mishura of Troy found a job singing opera arias at DePalma's Ristorante in Livonia. As a newly arrived immigrant from Moldavia in the former Soviet Union, she spoke little English and needed money to support herself and her daughter.

"That job kept me singing and practicing," said Mishura, now on the eve of her Michigan Opera Theatre season opener "Carmen" on Oct. 19 at the new Detroit Opera House.

Mishura was forced to emigrate with her daughter Rachel (Raisa) in 1992 because of Moldavia's internal war and anti-Semitism in its capital Kishinev, where Mishura was the Moldavian Opera Company's primo mezzo-soprano. The family came to Detroit in May, 1992.

"It was so hard that first year," said Mishura about efforts to begin her U.S. career. "I had a big hope that success would grab me, and I could not believe it but nobody wanted me at first."

Though it seemed like an eternity, it was not long before the people who heard Mishura at the restaurant, at her temple, and at private parties brought her name to the attention of Neeme Jarvi, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

In 1994 she made the "Snow Maiden" CD with the DSO on Chandos Records. David DiChiera debuted her with the Michigan Opera Theatre as Suzuki in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

Since then her career has skyrocketed.

"It is all so exciting, too fantastic, and too crazy," said Mishura, who has just returned from San Francisco, where she starred in "Prince Igor" with the Russian Opera Company and sang "Carmen" with the Santa Barbara Grand Opera Association. Presently, she is being booked for year 2000 at the Miami Opera, the Cincinnati Opera, the Baltimore Opera, the New Orleans Opera and the Dallas Opera. She also has had a favorable audition with the Metropolitan Opera. As she begins rehearsals for "Carmen," she also will he city of Hamtramck is back to business as usual now that the cast and crew of "The Polish Wedding" have packed up, but the Detroit area is still buzzing.

And for its 46-year-old Irish star Gabriel Byrne the love seems to be mutual.

"I would say it's been a fabulous experience," Byrne said during a conversation in his trailer in between shooting scenes for "The Polish Wedding," by first-time director and local native Theresa Connelly.

"I could retire from movies and live in the Townsend Hotel (Birmingham)."

Byrne has just returned from shooting a scene with co-star Claire Danes (TV's "My So-Called Life" and the upcoming film "Romeo and Juliet") tucked in the back of the Imperial Bakery on Jos. Campau. Working with Danes is a familiar arrangement for Byrne; the two starred in 1994's "Little Women." "The Polish Wedding" also stars Lena Olin ("The

"Dublin is a city but it is also a town. When you live in a big city like New York and Los Angeles one of the things you give up is a sense of community. There's a tremendous sense of community here."

"There's a sense of pride where people come from. Everybody's always inquiring if I am having a good time, and if I like the place." He was even impressed by the landscape of the suburbs.

"The landscape surprised me. People think the Midwest is really dull, boring and flat. The Midwest gets a bad rap. It's actually very beautiful."

"Patrimonio: The Legacy of Italian Art in Michigan," one year in the making, was well worth the wait. In celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of Italy, Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer will open the retrospective of public art, paintings, sculptures, and interior and architectural design created in Michigan during the last 100 years.

Presented by the Consulate of Italy in Detroit in collaboration with Wayne State University, the exhibi-

Italian-American and Italian-influenced American artists including sculpture by Corrado Parducci (1900-1981) and Harry Bertoia (1915-1978); never-seen-before paintings by Guy Palazzola (1919-1978); mezzotints by longtime University of Michigan faculty member Alessandro Mastro-Valerio, and photography by the late Tony Spina of Bloomfield Hills, A 68-page catalog sponsored by the Fiat Group in North America documents the the Italian Galleries at the DIA. The exhibition.

"As a tribute to the artistic bond tion features the work of Italian, that exists between Italy and Michigan, I welcome the recognition that Patrimonio pays to the artists whose works demonstrate the unmistakable influence of Italy," said Michele Quaroni, Consul of Italy in Detroit.

"We've been wanting to do the exhibit for a long time," added Timothy Nasso, Italian Consulate director of public affairs. "Supporting the arts is part of what we do. We raised money to restore Mishura is young, beautiful, and in the prime of her singing years. As hard as it was, immigrating to the U.S. was the best thing that could have happened to her. "I don't think my career would be as great if I had remained in Moldavia," she said.

Mishura returned to Moldavia in 1993 to sing "Carmen" to a sold-out house. It is a role that is probably her most successful. "When I go back there, I don't know how those people live. I was making $25 a month at the opera, and I was singing three and four nights a week in several different operas. That was only enough money to go to the store a few times. It was very difficult."

Mishura is now able to support herself and her daughter and says the best day of her life was the day of the opening of the Detroit Opera House.

"If I had to write down all of the names of the people who have helped me here in this area, it would fill pages and exhibition is a good way to get the word out as to what Italy of today is all about. We wanted to introduce people to Italy since the Renaissance, to what Italy is today, the fifth largest industrialized nation in the world."

Redford sculptor Sergio De Giusti spent more than a year curating and researching Patrimoni, the rich artistic tradition inherited from Italy. Traveling around the state to university art departments, galleries, museums, churches, public parks and buildings, private collections, libraries, architectural firms and artists' studios, De Giusti not only organized, borrowed from collections and assembled the exhibit, but documented the legacy with his cam-

"As an artist and Italian this is the show I always wanted to do but Dr. Quaroni was a major catalyst in bringing about the project to celebrate the founding of the Republic of Italy after Mussolini," said De Giusti.

"I really did my homework on this. As I examined the past, I realized the tremendous amount of Italian sculptors who contributed to the architectural enhancement of Michigan cities. I traveled all around the state and took my ladder and camera to document these. We owe it to these people to acknowledge the past. These artists came before me. It's important to show how they influence the next generation and the next."

Several Detroit architectural firms commissioned Italian sculptors to design and create reliefs, ornamentations and mon"Legacy of Italian Art" in metro Detroit uments in Michigan. Among them were Parducci and Ricci, recruited by Albert Kahn. Minoru Yamasaki introduced the works of sculptor Giacomo Manzu in the 1960s.

In more recent years, William Kessler continued the tradition by selecting Bertoia and De Giusti to create sculpture for buildings in Lansing and metro Detroit.

De Giusti is perhaps best known for his 20-panel relief for the State of Michigan Library and Archives Building in Lansing, a memorial for the new Rick Finley Drug Enforcement Administration Building downtown, Martin Luther King Jr. reliefs at Eastern Michigan University, and bronzes at Wayne State University's Law School Building.

Of special interest in the exhibition is Raffaello Romanelli's (1856-1928) Dante Alighieri on Belle Isle commissioned by the Italian community in 1927 to commemorate the 600th anniversary of Dante's death in 1321. The Friends of Belle Isle are currently trying to raise funds for the restoration of the monument which has deteriorated due to air pollution, acidic deposits and vandalism.

"The reason I used the Manzu on the catalog cover was because it embodies the legacy of Italian art in the 20th century. A major factor of the exhibition is not to negate contemporary artists even though I love the Italian artists of the past who were at the forefront of fashion, commerce and design. It is to represent the highest level of Italian achievement," De Giusti said.

Local arts community should draw together

CHOMIN

Thompson of Livonia is a busy artist. After speaking with her, and other people who are active in the western Wayne County arts community, I began to realize the vast amount of art related activities going on in the Observerland communities of Plymouth. Livonia, Canton, Redford, Garden City, and Westland.

About four months ago, Thompson was appointed to the Livonia Arts Commission by Mayor Jack Kirksey after taking over the education director position for the Visual Arts Association of Livonia. Her artwork along with other members of the Palette and Brush Club remains on exhibit through Nov. at Livonia City Hall. 8 Sponsored by the Livonia Arts Commission, "Point of View" features still life, landscape, portraits, and genre scenes in a variety of mediums.

"The club gives us a chance to exhibit with juried artists who are top notch. It's a good club to challenge yourself and see what you can do against good competition," said Thompson who also is club treasurer.

This is just one of the shows in the area Thompson and other artists are taking part in. Many of our artists (Connie Lucas, Canton; Eileen Bibby, Livonia) were recently juried into the Sharing the Gift Within You show at First Presbyterian Church in Northville as well as the 53rd annual Scarab Club Watercolor Exhibition in Detroit. including more, Many Thompson; Regina Dunne of Livonia, and Toni Stevens, Plymouth, were awarded a place in the prestigious Our Town, an annual exhibit at The Community House, 380 S. Bates in Birmingham. The show runs Oct. 24-27. Admission is free. Call (810) 644-5832 for more

According to Thompson, the Livonia Arts Commission is aware of the growth in the art community. In its role as supporter and promoter, it will present a fine arts show in conjunction with the LAC's arts and crafts festival held the second week in June at Greenmead Historical Village. Although talked about for several years, it looks promising that Thompson will lead the way to a gallery style showing of fine art in the village's historic buildings.

"It was the consensus that we wanted to have a fine arts show to showcase the areas' quality artists," said Thompson.

Thanks to dedicated volunteers, there are a number of motivated groups around town working to showcase the visual At the Plymouth Community Arts Council plans are being made to exhibit work by Michigan artists four times a year in the arts rental gallery now in the midst of renovation.

"There are so many possibilities once the work is completed," said executive director Randy Canton Projects Arts will hold its fourth annual gallery style showing of fine art, awarding a total of $1,500 in cash prizes, Nov. 16-24 at Summit on the Park community center in Canton.

Madonna University art professor Doug Semivan is calling for an art symposium to be held on campus grounds next spring or fall. What a great idea to start the ball rolling as a team. Let's utilize the guidance Semivan, a Royal Oak print maker with etchings in the permanent collection of the Detroit Institute of Arts, and other artists like respected Redford sculptor Sergio De Giusti and former Michigan Council for the Arts director of project grants Jack Olds could provide to ensure a quality of fine and public art here.

If we all work together we canmake the Observer area as.... viable an arts community in Wayne County as Birmingham is in Oakland County. Volunteers from local arts organizations as well as artists' groups such asthe Garden City Fine Arts Association could lead the drive for our community to be taken seriously as a hotbed for the visual arts drawing even more arts organizations and galleries.

This column and the Art Beat column are venues for your expression. Let us know what's going on. We'll all grow stronger together through the arts.

SHOW TO SPORT SCARY STUFF

Boo kids in increasing numbers are popping up in Observerland yards. Crafter Marianne Akers of Livonia will host an entire show of the little people which includes ghosts, witches, mummies and scarecrows Oct. 18-20 at the Holiday Inn on Six Mile between I-275 and Newburgh in Livonia. Hours for the Halloween and Christmas Gift Show are noon to 9 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

"We've been working our little hands to the bones making the witches. People seem to like to place them in entryways, bay windows, or alternate them going upstairs. And because people collect them, we add to the kids each year. This year, it's a mummy, Frankenstein and Dracula," said Akers.

Prices for Halloween items ranges from $3.50 for a stuffed pumpkin to $54 for the taller witch. Also in the show are angels, snowmen, and santas of all descriptions from ones dressed in collegiate colors to others in gold and glitzy, or woodland costumes.

Spike Lee's tribute to Million Man March stays on track

By John Monaghan SPECIAL WRITER

It's probably too crowded. Perhaps it has one speech too many. But Spike Lee's tribute to last year's Million Man March is one of the most poignant, heartfelt movies of the year and the director's decade-long career.

"Get on the Bus," which opened Wednesday on the first anniversary of the event, charts the journey of a dozen or so black men from South Central Los Angeles to the march in Washington.

Organizer Louis Farrakhan billed it as a day of atonement and responsibility for black males, while some saw it as a self-serving opportunity for the Muslim leader to further his controversial beliefs. By some counts, the march drew well over a million people.

The passenger list on this chartered bus is composed of a cross-section of the African-American population. They represent various religious faiths and socioeconomic levels. Some are gay and some darker skinned than others.

Veteran actors Ossie Davis and Charles S. Dutton play the elder statesmen of the group.

The former's Jeremiah, divorced and now destitute, always regretted not marching with Dr. Martin Luther King in 1963. George, the bus driver played by Dutton, serves as spiritual leader and den mother.

Gary (Roger Guenver Smith) is a light-skinned man whose policeman father was killed by gang members. He understandably has a bone to pick with Jamal (Gabriel Casseus), a gang banger-turned-social worker who shamefully admits to having offed at least a dozen people in his youth.

Evan (Thomas Jefferson Byrd)

shows up with his teenage son in chains. A court order requires that the boy be tethered to his father for 72 hours for a larceny charge and Evan intends to carry out the sentence. The other bus passengers, ready to celebrate the progress they have made since slavery, don't appreciate the connotation.

In "Get on the Bus" chains become an important symbol. The movie opens with closeups of legs and hands shackled and ends with chains on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial. Along the way, it wrestles with the way society has both linked African American men together and held them apart.

Lee the actor has wisely stayed out of the film, but shows up in the guise of Xavier (Hill Harper), a young film school student who videotapes the trip. Someone even calls him Spike Lee, Jr.

Director Lee gives the movie the look of grainy video, with shaky setups and super-saturated color. Sometimes he'll present the action through Xavier's video camera, usually in extreme closeup because he can't get far enough away from his subjects.

The performances are uniformly good, even when the script calls for heavy handedness. The exchanges between Evan and son, especially the latter's bitter, pained looks at his father for dragging him along, are increasingly poignant even though you see those changes of heart coming far down the road. Perhaps two thousand miles later as brothers in "Get on the are ready to take the long trip the most amazing thing about "Get on the Bus" is how Lee has home, we've heard so many sustained the energy of what philosophies from so many could be an extremely claustrosources that Dutton's and Davis' phobic film. It won't be giving too lengthy eulogies can be a bit > much. Overall, Lee's bus stays right on track with a movie that stands strong with his classics ... "Malcolm X" and "Do the Right... Thing."

Opening Friday, Nov. 1 at metro Detroit movie theatres, "The Grass Harp," based on the novel by Truman Capote, produced and directed by Charles Matthau, is set in the 1940s in a small southern town. It tells the story of how people learn to love and to change.

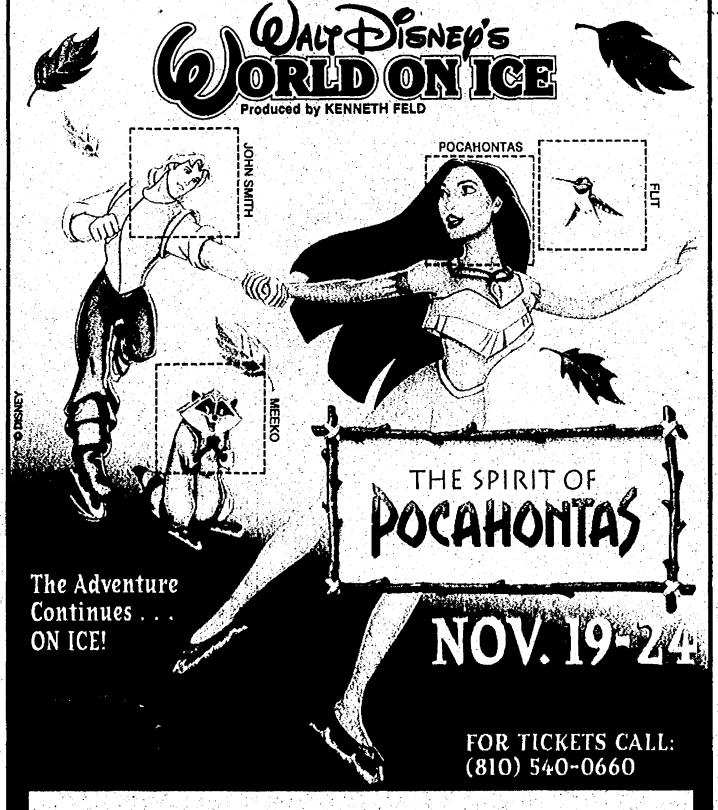

After his mother dies, Collin-Fenwick comes to live with his father's maiden cousins, Verena and Dolly Talbo. It is clear to the townspeople that Collin, raised by this household of eccentric women, will have anything but a normal childhood. "The Grass Harp" stars Piper Laurie, Walter Matthau, Sissy Spacek, Jack Lemmon, and Nel Carter.

■ "The Grass Harp," isn't the only Truman Capote novel to be made into a full-length film. It's preceded by "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "In Cold Blood, and "A Christmas Memory."

Capote was a prolific novelist, short-story and screen writer. Which of Capote's other works do you think would make a great movie, and why?

Ten winners will receive a paperback copy of "The Grass Harp," by Truman Capote.

Terrorism display touches viewer

BY MARY KLEMIC STAPP WRITER

Their voices have been stilled but they aren't silent.

They are victims of terrorism, and they are a special life line in "Terrorism: A Work in Progress." an installation by Oak Park artist Deanna Sperka that ends today at the Janice Charach Epstein Museum/Gallery, in the Jewish Community Center, 6600 W. Maple, (at Drake) West Bloomfield. Call (810) 661-7641. for information.

The multimedia installation features photos of families. bombings, demonstrations. funerals and burial society members searching for remains; a group of memorial stones bearing victims' names; books documenting individual lives and containing news articles and information; and video interviews with family members, survivors of attacks and others. Photos of people killed by terrorists are displayed in a triangular arrangement - like a pyramid - on one wall. Jews, Christians (the Olympics tragedy) never tatted from a concentration and Arabs are included. Yitzhak Rabin is among the faces of slain men and women of all ages and backgrounds.

"My attempt is to ... bring back this is not just a statistic, this is a human being," said Sperka, who teaches photography, and installation art at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit.

"We cannot be blind to what's happening in other parts of the world."

The project started when Sperka as invited by the curator of a Tel Aviv museum to work in Israel for about two months. The artist lived in a villa in Israel while she worked on an art piece for the museum. One day the woman who tended the garden took her to a peace march, which Sperka photographed.

Another inspiration for the piece came about 20 years earlier, with the massacre of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics in 1972.

"In my mind the other thing went away.

"Whenever ... an idea doesn't go away then I have to make a work of art."

Sperka interviewed about 19 people, and researched through publications and by computer, for the work. She didn't edit the interviews except to take out her voice. "I met some of the most incredible, wonderful people. These people have tremendous faith. Not one (expressed) feelings of hate."

The title, "Terrorism: A Work in Progress," conveys a painful meaning. Terrorism doesn't end with the act of violence, it progresses through generations.

There's a realization that some music will never be heard, some scientific developments will be delayed or never achieved, some literature will never be written, because of one act. And there's a despair, as seen in the photos of one attack survivor and his father. The younger man is revealing a scar from the attack; his father shows his numbered camp.

An Ann Arbor artist describes her feelings in a poignant interview. The woman's father and mother were on a bus that was attacked. Her father was killed and her mother injured. In the hospital, the mother told her children, "My pain is so great I forget you lost your father." The woman's 3-year-old daughter "cried and cried" when the family visited his grave; the youngster wanted her grandfather to come

"How does someone get up in the morning and pack up their stuff and go to kill?" the Ann Arbor woman asks.

Is Sperka optimistic after working on the installation? "I'd like to be an optimistic person," Sperka said. "I'd like to be able to say the peace process will be successful. I don't see it that way. "I think we have to understand that this is a new

Crenshaw calls latest album one of his best

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Whoever said that rock stars lose interest in their hometown after they make it big has never talked to Marshall Crenshaw.

Upon hearing that the interviewer is a resident of Berkley, his hometown, he immediately and excitedly - asks about the

"The last time anybody made me think of Berkley was when Rob Tyner of the MC5 died. He died on the way home from the Berkley Beer Store," said Crenshaw who moved out of the area in 1977.

"My aunt and her husband drank about a case of beer a day and there was a case of this beer right by the telephone, E & B Beer, discount beer. Whenever they started to run low us kids were sent to the Berkley Beer Store. It was a fixture in my life. I used to go in there and buy candy. When I heard about Rob Tyner it brought back memories."

Crenshaw, who turns 43 on Nov. 11, returns to Oakland County Sunday, Oct. 20, to play the Mill Street Entry, below Clutch Cargo's, the club formerly known as Sanctum, in support of his latest release "Miracle of Science" (Razor and Tie). He - as well as a wealth of critics - call the album his best in years. "I was in a great frame of mind when I did the record and I really think I can say that I knew what I was doing. I wanted to do it. I made some records by just sort of sleep walking through it. Like my last record for Warner Bros. (1989's 'Good Evening'). That was a complete exercise in moving money around," explained Crenshaw, known for the pop hit "Someday Someway,"

"That's the only reason it was done. That was a real spiritually draining, burdensome experience. This time around I was doing it for the enjoyment of doing it. It was a good work situation. Therefore, I think that it's good work. It's work that doesn't suck."

Since releasing his self-titled debut album in 1982, Crenshaw has dabbled in movies. He starred as Buddy Holly in the 1987 film "La Bamba," and appeared in "Peggy Sue Got Married." So it was a logical step for Crenshaw to cover the Beatles' song "Bad Boys" for the television series "Men Behaving Badly." Ironically, he began his career playing John Lennon in Beatlemania on Broadway and it was Lennon who sang the song for the Beatles.

Hear It From You." As evidenced by that song and the pop gems on "Miracle of Science," it's been pointed out to him that Crenshaw is just now hitting his stride. "You're supposed to get smarter as you get older," Crenshaw said. "I think I have, and I think that that's reflected in the record. I think that 'Miracle of Science' represents the best music I can possibly make at this point in my life. This is as pure a statement as I can make: it's totally unfiltered. I don't have anyone else to blame for this one."

Marshall Crenshaw performs Sunday, Oct. 20, at the Mill Street Entry below Clutch Cargo's, 65 E. Huron, Pontiac. Tickets are $11.50 in advance for A graduate of Berkley High the 18 and older show. Doors open at 8 p.m. For more informa-

For the 42-year-old musician, notoriety has been a long time coming. He picked up the guitar at age 11 in his native Centralia, Ill., and spent his pre-teen years sneaking into rock clubs. But, he admits, it took him awhile to learn his craft.

"I liked it right away, but I wasn't good. It took me a long time to get anywhere near very good. At 13 or 14 I started writing songs. By the time I was 16 or 17 in Indiana and I saw a lot of peo-

At 2nd City's Risata, food is serious business

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Risata may be located inside the Second City Building, but Executive Chef George Nicholas Kalergis takes his restaurant very seriously.

A stickler for quality, Kalergis searches out the freshest of foods at places like Spaghetti Benders in Windsor, Mama Mucci in Plymouth, and Eastern Market. He's even working closely with a fish house to learn proper storage of fish.

"If the fish isn't up to par, it's not going to be on the menu that night," said Kalergis, who lives in Sylvan Lake with his wife Ellen Meyer Kalergis, a local pastry chef.

"I like to excite the palate with rich, clean flavors and products done simply and to perfection." he added.

Risata, which means "burst of laughter" in Italian, serves up contemporary cuisine with an Italian flair. Appetizers range from "Housemade Minestrone Soup" ($3.50) to "Garlic Focaccia" ($6.95), served with chopped herbs, creole sauce and fresh rock shrimp.

"Traditional Caesar Salad" is ioined on the menu by "Grilled Salmon Salad" with cucumbers. Bermuda onions, calamata olives, pepperoncini, and balsamic/whole-grain mustard vinaigrette ($9.50), and "Fresh Mozzarella, Roma Tomato and Vidalia Onion Salad" tossed with and aged balsamic vinegar ($5,75).

Pastas are on the menu, of course, "Free-Form Giant Ravioli" ($17.95), stuffed with seasoned lobster meat, artichoke hearts, ricotta cheese and sweet cream basil sauce, is a twist on the traditional dish. For vegetarians, whole-wheat linguine ($11.95) is tossed with oyster and shitake mushrooms, sundried tomatoes, roasted peppers and pine nuts.

"Pan-Seared Medallions of Beef" made with roasted garlic sauce, grilled tomatoes, garlicmashed potatoes and mixed vegetables ($18.95) is among the highlights of the entrees. "Horseradish and Potato-Crusted Whitefish" ($13.95), "Char-Grilled Center Cut Pork Chops" with Caribbean barbecue glaze, mango/cilantro salsa and onion-fried mashed potatoes ($12.95) are among the other items on the menu.

The restaurant decor is just as basil oil, pecorino romano cheese colorful as the menu. Resembling a loft, Risata, decorated in red purple, mustard, and celadon, boasts a mix of slate and bare wood floors, brick walls, steel girders, painted concrete ceilings and exposed duct work. Windows that reach 17 feet high allow for nice views of the theater district.

The focal point of the restaurant is the bar. In the shape of a circle, it is made of honey-colored wood and topped with stone. Bar stools in brilliant red paint and purple leather line the bar. A 10foot custom-designed chandelier made of wood, steel and handmade glass illuminates above.

The kitchen at the Circle Bar is open until 1:30 a.m. offering typical bar fare (burgers, chicken wings, pizza, jalapeno poppers) and other items like breaded ravioli with tomato-garlic dipping sauce ($5.95), oven-roasted mushrooms with garlic, roasted peppers and boursin cheese ($5.95), and chicken focaccia sandwich with roasted peppers, basil mayonnaise and mozzarella cheese ($7.95).

Kalergis, who trained at the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, N.Y., came to Risata earlier this year from Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville, where he prepared classic French and American cuisine. The Dearborn Heights native has also been the executive chef at Capraro's Italian Den in Troy, and the sous chef at the Adirondacks in Washington,

Home-heating oil prices are expected to rise this winter

By Melissa B. Robinson Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) _ Even without a repeat of last year's bitter cold, home heating oil is expected to cost at least $1.01 per gallon this winter, an increase of about 10 percent over last winter, federal data released Monday showed.

The increase is due to higher crude oil costs, tight domestic oil supplies and European supplies that are also below normal levels, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration's fourth quarter projections.

"From the consumer's standpoint, we would have to say we are moving into uncharted territory," said Jay Hakes, the agency's administrator. "We have not entered a winter in recent history where we've had stocks this

A 10 percent increase in home heating oil, or about 9 cents per gallon, would mean an extra cost of $90 or so over last year's cost for a family using 1,000 gallons this winter.

Very cold weather could push prices up another 5 cents per gallon to about $1.06, the EIA said. That would mean an extra $140 over last year's cost for 1,000 gallons.

INTERIOR MOTIVES

Painted early American can be 'awesome'

Painted furniture of Early American derivation, prior to the American Revolution, was most simple in form and almost primitive in character.

The early settlers brought some of their possessions with them to the New World, but that which was produced here was mostly made of pine or ash. The colonists' basic needs were utilitarian; ergo the pieces were straightforward, durable and usable.

Eventually there seemed to be a need to enhance this simple furniture's appearance. Painting it was logical. At first it was a light wash of a single color, not always completely covering the wood. At a later date another light wash was added, again not always covering. The second wash rarely matched the first, which created an interesting

Chests with lift tops, cabinets, cupboards and Welsh dressers were for storage (before closets) and of course tables and chairs were the necessities of life. All of the preceding were more cherished if they were painted, and the painting of them became more sophisticated as time elapsed.

Truly Early American furniture pieces (antiques, if you will) are a far cry from that found in stores. You can create awesome and individual examples with ingenuity.

"Pennsylvania Dutch" bears imitation. These early settlers executed some prodigious designs, and handpainted them on the fronts and sides of cabinets and on the tops of chests. Search at antique shows and shops for the whimsical and charming. You can even buy stencils of delightful patterns and color them to suit your needs.

In the history of painted furniture we find more elegance in French and Oriental, much later in time. They often used lacquer. The basic color usually was black, but white, red and other colors were also available. Designs were added. The most decorative was named "Coromandel," gorgeous beyond my descriptive powers. You must actually see it to comprehend. Again I suggest a visit to antique shops to identify Coromandel.

GOING MODULAR: For people who rely on wheelchairs, scooters or other types of medical equipment for their mobility, navigating their porch steps and front curb as well as getting in and out of vehicles can be laborious tasks. Installing permanent ramps at their homes isn't an effective or cost-efficient option for people who need short-term assistance for temporary physical ailments, such as recuperating from surgery or recovering from injuries. Enter modular aluminum ramp systems from Plumbrook Ramps and Medical Equipment in Madison Heights. Because they are portable and don't need to be permanently attached to a building or installed in the ground, these lightweight ramps can be moved and reused in different configura tions at different locations. The expandable systems come in varying widths and lengths and install quickly and easily. Some are telescoping so they can be folded and transported, others are designed for use with curbs and small steps, most can be used outdoors as well as indoors. Plumbrook, the authorized medical equipment supplier for the American Cancer Society of Southeastern Michigan, offers free, at-home evaluations and estimates; a variety of flexible rental and sales programs; and free loans of ramps and other medical equipment to people who can't afford to buy or rent them. # GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLE

Out of bounds: This is what happens when the mature growth of a tree isn't taken into consideration. There is a picture window – somewhere!

Symposium shows how to place trees

MARTY

I attended a symposium, "Trees are Terrific — Putting Them in Their Place," in Columbus, Ohio, last month, sponsored by the Ohio State University Chadwick Arboretum and the American Horticulture Society. Now I will share some of the interesting things I learned. According to a recent Gallup Poll, 67 million people garden in the United States. Isn't that an amazing figure?

The difference between a shrub and a tree: When you look at a shrub you are standing beside it; you can stand under a tree.

Plants will find their own right place, therefore look where plants have succeeded in the past to plan where and what variety you should grow.

Designing

When designing, the principal aspects of gardening are: edges, enclosure, extension and juxtaposition. Ultimate tree heights are generally 30 to

35 feet to be in scale in today's side and front yards.

When doing research in order to choose a tree, you may see the following: provenance, the area where the tree grew originally; adoptive range, where they have been pushed to adapt to the environment; ecotype, i.e. redbud and dogwood, not really rock hardy in the zone in which they are grown.

Look for two new cultivars of Heritage Birch - "Columbia" and "Liberty," which are anthracnose resistant, and three new American Elms - "Valley Forge," "New Harmony" and the cultivar "Dynasty." They are resistant to Dutch Elm and the elm beetle.

The major disease of all trees is decay, which starts with wounds, generally man-made. The wounds are sealed by the bark, but the tree still can decay from inside. Trees can be selected that resist and handle this stress.

One seedling out of 6,000 is chosen as a promising specimen.

Planting

When planting a tree, position the crown two inches above the ground to allow for settling. It is necessary to take into consideration the growing space above as well as below the ground – the physical size of the roots, drainage, compaction of soil, debris, soil pH and the ultimate height and spread of the plant. The quickest killer of trees is soil compaction, standing water and no aeration. Feeder roots go a maximum of three feet deep; most are 12 to 14 inches and extend 2-1/2 to three times beyond the drip line.

Be sure that you dig deep enough when planting a tree, especially at a renovation site or if there is the possibility that a former sidewalk or other barrier is in the ground, to eliminate possible obstruction of the tree roots. Often builders leave a lot of debris that gets buried when new topsoil is brought in.

Use no more than three to four inches of shredded bark when mulching around a tree (landscapers, are you listening?). Keep the mulch from touching the trunk. To amend clay soil mix three scoops of sharp sand with one scoop of clay soil.

Don't expect the same thing from the same plant.

I like this from Marcel Proust, which one of the speakers quoted: "The true voyage of discovery lies not in finding new landscapes, but in having new eves."

Calendars

There are a host of 1997 calendars with gardening themes. Workman has several of interest:

Smith and Hawken "The Secret Garden" pays tribute to gardens reminiscent of gardens of long ago in which were grown medicinal plants kept secret from the Church. The photos are beautiful and enticing. Emelie Tolley and Chris Mead have created another of the informative calendars, "Herbs," with herby tips and recipes, and "The Natural Garden 1997 Calendar" contains Ken Druse's photographs of harmonious gardens. Barbara Damarosh has again written a page-a-day calendar. "The Audubon Wildflower Calendar 1997" (Artisan) depicts Wild roses in Alaska, poppies in California and 10 other flowers in beautiful array. These are priced $8.95 to $9.95.

Fulcrum calendars are always lovely. I like their "Perennials" one, which gives information about growing a variety of these plants, and their "Gardener's Guide," which is a region-specific series. Choose the Midwest one for our area. Monthly information and space for record-keeping are handy to have. Each is $11.95.

LET'S REMODEL

Insulation will end window seat moisture

Q: We recently bought a used house that has a bow window in the kitchen. This seems to be a problem area as there is moisture build-up on the window seat - especially on cold days. Is there a way to solve the moisture problem and keep the window from rotting?

A: When installing bow windows I have seen many builders use 5/4 board for the seat and have either metal or wood bracing underneath to hold the window up. Sometimes, a piece of vinyl or aluminum covers the exterior of the seat. This keeps the rain off, but it does nothing to control moisture, which is the problem here.

The dew point (the temperature at which water condenses) is occurring inside the house and the water is condensing on top of the window seat. Add the excessive moisture that kitchens can create and you have a potential for disaster. If this situation is allowed to continue, the window seat will eventually jus rot right out.

The only way to prevent moisture buildup is to move the dew point outside the house. To achieve this, you need to add insulation to the outside bottom of the window seat. Rigid foam insulation can be tacked into place with finish plywood nailed over that.

A fairly simple solution to a potentially damaging problem. Good luck!

Robert Budman, C.R., Budman's Inc., Keego Harbor, 810-738-3999.

Q: We just bought our first home. What should we do to get ready for winter? Do you put out a checklist?

A: We posed this question to several of our members and the following is a list of their responses.

Caulking: Windows and doors need to be checked. 25-30 year caulking is wise to use and is available in a variety of colors. Also be sure to check where there are any holes through outside walls where utilities enter or exit. Closely related to caulking is the weather-stripping around doors and windows.

Gutters and downspouts: You will need to rid the gutters and downspouts of all obstructions including leaves, twigs, etc. so that snow and ice buildup can freely drain off.

Furnaces: You may want to have a licensed contractor do an operational checkup on the furnace which should include filter change, prepping the humidifier (if applicable), lubricating blower motor and adjusting of belts. They should check the efficiency and cleanliness of the burner including carbon monoxide testing and the installation of a carbon monoxide detector is highly recommended.

Hose bibs: This is the exterior faucet on the house where the hose is attached. If they have interior shoutoffs be sure they are closed and drained. Some homes have frost free bibs which have a long stem that reaches back inside the heated area of the home that will not need shut off. Be sure to check this. Any water in the unheated area could be a problem.

Storm windows: As a first-time home buyer you will want to check if your windows and doors are equipped with storm windows. These will not only provide energy savings but uniform comfort by shutting out drafts.

Dolls shown at Holiday House

Charle: This 4-year-old male-neutered Husky / Spaniel mix is sweet, housebroken and good with children. He has a gentle temperament and would be a great companion for an older couple, single person or families with kids. He is a pleasure to "hang out" with. Charlie (No. W08221) and other pets are available at the Michigan Humane Society Westland shelter, 37255 Marquette, (313)721-7300, noon to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday-Friday and 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

An exciting exhibit of contemporary dolls, quilts and clothing is the featured event at the 1996 edition of the Ypsilanti Heritage Foundation's Holiday House at the James Breakey Manor, to take place Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 26-

The doll and quilt display will show-case art work by members of Paradigm Quilters, a group of noted local artists, including Mary York Gentry, Sue Holdaway-Heys, Garland Lewis, Mary Bajez, Clare Teagan, Isolde Sarnecki, Bonnie Penet, Jean Adwani and Carolyn Vosburg Hall. Paradigm members hail from Birmingham, Plymouth, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Milford and other southeastern Michigan communities, and their work has been shown, both collectively and individually, at a number of major shows across the country.

"The art work in this show is not what one would ordinarily think of when thinking of quilts and dolls," Gentry said. "It's a little bit outside of the traditional medium, although the works do combine traditional techniques with the new and the innovative."

In its second year, this fund-raiser for the Ypsilanti Heritage Foundation will also, once again, feature the talents of several Ypsilanti area designers, decorators and florists who will turn the Breakey Manor, a grand Greek Revival style mansion built around 1834, into a holiday wonderland. Holiday House participants include Remington's by Design, Me 'N' My Sisters Country Store, Le Bistro, Keller & Stein Florists and Greenhouse, Tamara Kutter-Simple Treasures, design consultant Kathy Bodary, the Ypsilanti Historical Society and members of the Ypsilanti Heritage Foundation.

Holiday House '96 will be open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 26 and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 27. Tickets are available at the door or in advance at Remington's by Design and Me 'N' My Sisters Country Store. Admission is $8 per person and includes the tour of the designers' displays, the doll and quilt show, light refreshments served by the Parish House Inn and the Breakey Manor, and an optional walking tour of the surrounding downtown historic district.

The James Breakey Manor is at 125 N. Huron, in the heart of Ypsilanti's National Register Historic District. For more information, call the James Breakey Manor at (313) 483-2300.

Gentry describes her own work as "a step beyond a doll. The hands and faces are like the traditional doll's, but the torsos might be cabinets, towers or stairways." Gentry describes Dutch quilter Isolde Sarnecki's work as "intricate things that are very figurative, full of symbolic imagery, and display Sarnecki's mastery of her craft."

Paradigm Quilters was formed six years ago when its members, who were all part of the Greater Ann Arbor Quilters Guild, realized there was a "commonality in their work." An invitational show, the doll and quilt exhibit at Holiday House '96 will also feature work from artists outside Paradigm Quilters and some student work as well.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Home is the place to beware of fire

Home is where the heart is, says the old adage. Unfortunately, homes are also where the hazards are. Almost 100 percent of the homes we inspect have electrical defects. While age plays some role, the majority of the defects we find are created by weekend electricians — that's right, you, the homeowner.

The following is a list of potential electrical fire hazards along with ways to correct the problems:

1 Extension cords are typically smaller than the amperage rating of the permanent wiring that they extend. This can cause the wire to heat up long before the fuse blows or circuit breaker is tripped. Dan Smits, a fire investigator for the Chicago fire department, says improper use of extension cords is a leading cause of house fires.

2. Extension cords shouldn't be put below carpeting due to possible damage. Nor should they be installed permanently because they could be damaged by the staples, etc. This feel of "permanence" could create an atmosphere where it could be used for appliances that will overload the wire. Extension cords shouldn't be installed through floors or walls because of their vulnerability to damage.

3. Wire splices should only be installed in prescribed boxes and mechanically secured. Exposed splices may become loose and cause arcing and possible fire or shock.

4. Service entrance cables with deteriorated outer coverings will allow water to enter and may follow the cables into the meter socket and possibly into the main panel box. This will cause corrosion. It may also cause circuit breakers to freeze in the "closed" or "on" position. This is a significant fire hazard. The service entrance cable should be replaced when the outer covering is deteriorated. (No sir, duct tape or electrical tape isn't an appropriate repair!)

5. Broken or loose switches and outlets should be replaced because their dependability is suspect and the occupants may be exposed to shock.

6. Breaking or cutting off of the ground prong of a three-prong plug won't affect the operation of the appliance. However, it does compromise the safety of the user.

7 Dimmer switches should be checked for excessive heat. The rating of the dimmer should always be higher than the total wattage of the bulbs it serves. Dimmers with ratings 50 percent to 100 percent above the total bulb wattage are desirable.

8. Light fixtures and related shades and covers can deteriorate quickly if the bulbs used in the fixture are larger than the fixture rating. Fires can result.

9. Circuit breakers that won't trip or are "buzzing" are a problem. It may be related to moisture, corrosion or inexpensive or incompatible equipment, but it must be corrected as soon as possible.

10. Electrical panels should be readily accessible. Don't cover the panel cover with paneling or drywall and avoid placing immovable objects in their path.

11. Incandescent lighting close to clothes or other combustibles in closets may create a fire hazard. Bulbs should have covers and should be a minimum of 12 inches from combustible material.

12. Fuses and circuit breakers shouldn't be altered by homeowners. Their vital purpose is to protect the wire they are attached to by keeping it from overheating.

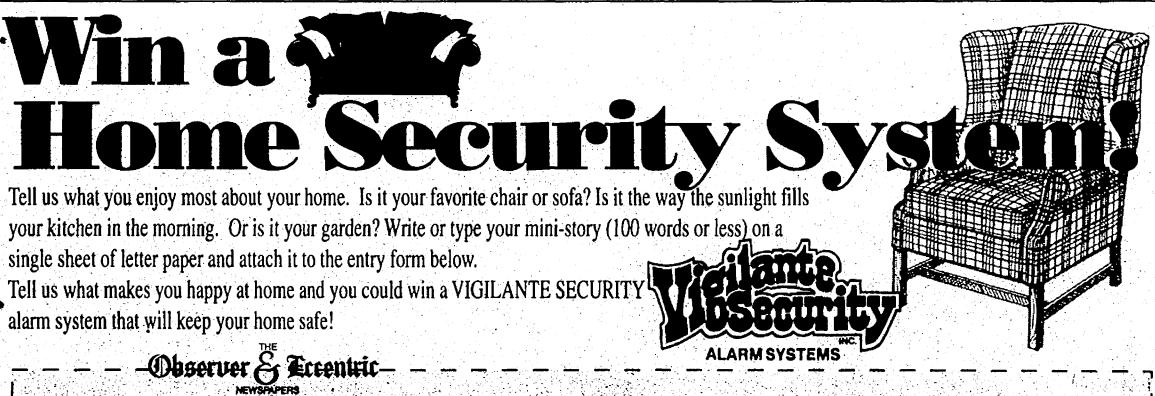

Oversized fuses or circuit breakers don't enhance the electric circuitry or the equipment they serve. Some people may be under the impression that the larger fuse/circuit breaker will allow that line to hold more. The integrity of the wire is compromised from overheating. The entire circuit is compromised, not just at a fixture or connection. This should never be allowed to happen. If it does, it should be corrected as soon as possible.

Other concerns

Other areas of concern include double-wired circuit breakers, reversed polarity at outlets, ungrounded outlets, the lack of ground fault circuit interrupters (GFCIs) at wet areas, and miscellaneous workmanship compromises. These are all safety-related situations and should be addressed.

If you (or a prior homeowner) have done some of your own wiring, you probably have some corrections that are needed. A licensed electrician can evaluate your system for usually less than $100. The electrician should be able to find problem areas and offer you options.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Look for unexpected to take great photos

MONTE NAGLER

One good way to improve and add impact to your photographs is to always be on the lookout for the unexpected. Oftentimes, it's right there in front of you. What you need to do is develop your skills at seeing the unusual and then produce the image on film.

Begin by really "seeing" as you look through the viewfinder. A keen photographer's eye can isolate a small detail or a striking natural or manmade design that will produce a photograph of unusual quality.

An early morning or late afternoon backlit shot can turn an ordinary subject into an unexpected and dramatic silhouette. Or a splash of unexpected color may be just the ingredient for that special picture.

For vacationers, put your traveler's vision in high gear and be on the lookout for the unexpected. On a trip to Abilene, Texas, I chanced upon this group of seven cowboys, backs to me, engaged in "cowboy" conversation. My photographer's adrenalin started to flow and this unusual candid portrait was mine. Their backs proved more interesting a shot than if they had been posed facing me.

Using your camera's controls creatively can add an unexpected element to your picture. Slow shutter speeds can blur the action and give a misty, dreamlike appearance to subjects such as waterfalls and rapids. Fast shutter speeds will, of course, freeze the action at its peak.

Remember, your aperture controls depth-of-field that in turn can be used to obtain an unusual look in your finished shot.

Being on the lookout for the unexpected will reward you with photographs that will carry the stamp of your own individuality.

Short shot

My annual exhibit at Meadowbrook Village Mall, Adams and Walton, Rochester Hills, runs to Oct. 27. The reception is 7-9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 18 -

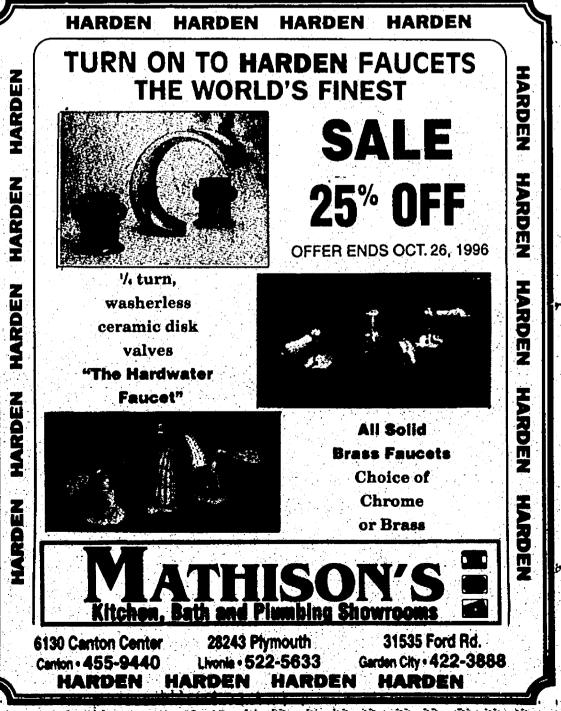

Lassoing the unexpected: Monte Nagler unexpectedly chanced upon this group of cowboys in Abilene, Texas. Being alert and ready with his camera rewarded him with this unusual candid shot.

In large sauce pan on medium to high heat, sauté onion with olive oil until onion is limp and semi-transparent. Add turmeric or saffron and allow color to release. Add remaining ingredients except chicken stock. When well sautéed, add chicken stock and bring to a boil. Turn off heat. Break up couscous into hot mixture and stir. Add honey, salt and pepper to taste. You want it to taste savory sweet. The ay attention to your seasoning. Allow stuffing to cool. Preheat oven to 400.

The Glaze

Stuff birds and place side by side in baking dish. In saucepan over medium heat, stir together 1 cup melted butter, 1 cup of honey and 1/2 tablespoon each of cumin and cinnamon so they are blended and flow easily. Pour glaze over birds. Place a piece of foil loosely over birds, otherwise the birds will steam instead of bake. Don't tuck ends of foil over pan.

Bake for 35 minutes. Check to make sure birds are nearly cooked. Remove foil and bake uncovered for another 10 minutes. This will crisp the skins. Serve on a bed of sautéed greens, garnished with grapes and pine nuts.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

A pesky wire causes clothing to snag

GAGNO

These past 17 years have on several occasions developed into investigations on why the clothes inside the washing machine had snags in certain article of clothing

I have taken a pair of panty hose and rubbed them on the surface of the inner drum to no avail. I have replaced the agitator which still didn't prevent the problem from reoccurring. I have removed the inner drum to see if there was anything stuck between the tubs always to find nothing there. It is not two weeks ago did I discover what the problem has been all these years. I never could get my hands on the answer, a brassiere.

The story began with a question from one of the news reporters at the radio station when she asked why she has ruined so many sweaters in her four year old washing machine. The problem of snags she reports does not occur in every load she does, just occasionally. After trying all the tricks up my sleeve,

This year I would ask you the readers to help me do something for kids. Stop by my store in Garden City and drop off a toy for a tot.

she still has not discovered what might be causing the problem. To make matters of investigation even worse, the washer was made in Europe, cost about $2,000 and is one I have never even seen before. I was stumped and I knew it so I called the manufacturer pretending I was smart.

A man with a heavy accent asked if my customer happened to have large breasts and my reply was to the affirmative or at least I thought so. I'm not in the habit of looking past woman's eyes when I'm talking with her.

He explained that in many cases, the underwire which helps to add support will come out of the undergarment and lodge itself between the two tubs. This piece of metal wire will cause all the problems. I informed him of our test with the pantyhose and that we had not found any wire stuck between the tubs. His next piece of friendly advice was to tell me that possibly the wire had worn through the end of the garment. End of advice.

I gave this information back to the news reporter who was getting friendlier with each conversation we had. As common sense would dictate, we were talking about a pretty intimate subject, her brassiere. A few days later she called me with excitement in he voice to tell me that I was a savior. Most indeed, the wire was sticking out in two of her undergarments and she threw them away to discover that she no longer gets snags in her sweaters. I thanked her for her involvement in the investigation and informed her that because she was willing to share this problem with all the readers of this paper, she had played a role in making consumers

Every year in the early part of December, the S.O.C.A.P. organization meets at Henry Ford Estate and has a luncheon and honors the top consumer reporter in the area with the Esther Shapiro Award. Each year we are joined by U.S. Marines who collect toys for total from the members of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals.

This year I would ask you the readers to help me do something for kids. Stop by my store in Garden City and drop off a toy for a tot. Let's you and I work together to make sure that no child should do without this coming Christmas season. Nothing would be nicer than to pull up to this yearly event with a semi trailer full of toys and say to the U.S. Marines, "The Observer & Eccentric readers have landed. This load of love and kindness represents their Christmas spirit."

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Tips for a more secure home.

- ✓ Keep house keys with you on a separate ring. It's a common racket for burglars to take jobs as parking lot attendants just to have access to house keys to make quick copies.
- ✓ While you're out, don't leave notes on the door telling when you'll be back. It's another signal to burglars and they'll know exactly how much time they have to do their dirty work.
- If you're thinking of installing a pet entrance... don't! Burglars have been known to squeeze through them to get into a home. If you already have a pet entrance, it would be a good idea to block it up, or at least try to make it smaller.
- ✓ Don't try to discourage a pushy salesperson by saying you are on your way out or busy packing to go away. This may be exactly what he or she wants to hear.
- ✓ While you're out of town, leave a car in the driveway, if possible. If you have a garage, make sure the door is closed and windows covered so no one can tell if it's empty.

Lifestyle choices: Different apartment complexes offer different amenities. Village Green Apartments provide luxury living.

Plan that search for an apartment

BY DOUG FUNKE

Most young people don't move out of their parents' houses directly into houses of their own.

There's usually an intermediate step - apartment living - while folks establish their careers, save money for a down payment and figure out where they want to settle down.

"I would treat it almost as a search for a house," said Suzanne Northcutt, vice president of marketing and training for Village Green Management Co. headquartered in Farmington

"This apartment is going to be the primary home," she said. "Location, atmosphere, neighbors are all going to be factors."

You can get leads in newspaper ads, other real estate publications, free referral services like Apartment Search, friends and relatives or coldcalling.

But before you even begin to focus, take the time to do a personal inven-

"You should have some sort of budget in mind, how much your expenses are now," said Tina Partridge, manager of Apartment Search of Canton.

A general rule of thumb is that monthly income before taxes should be three to four times projected rent, Partridge said. That means $1,500 to $2,000 for a $500 unit, $2,400 to $3,200 for an $800 unit.

In a roomate situation, some apartments require all tenants to qualify individually, while others will take prospects together.

Virtually all complexes include water in the rent. Many also include heat. A rare landlord includes electric. None includes phone. "You also want to have an idea of the area you're in and what features you absolutely must have - dishwasher or balcony," Partridge added.

Do you have a pet? Some apartments allow small animals, others

What about the size of the apartment community? Would you rather be a big fish in a little pond or a little fish in a big pond? Do you prefer solitude or lots of activity?

Once you map yourself, it's time to gauge the lay of the land.

"Look around the development and see how it's maintained. That will show the professionalism of the owner," advises Melvin Kaftan, president of Kaftan Enterprises in Southfield and incoming president of the Apartment Association of Michigan.

"If the grounds are taken care of and the halls are clean, 95 percent of the time you'll get what's promised," Kaftan said.

People already living in an apartment community can be great sources for the story behind the story.

"If they have a clubhouse or pool, stop and talk to some of the tenants," said David J. Sparrow, president of out, but tenants generally pay a pre-Management Corp. of Michigan in Bloomfield Hills and current apartment association president. "That's where you'll get the best answers and the most honest answers." Tenants can relate how quickly and well management responds to maintenance requests and how often and by how much rents typically increase.

The crime prevention bureau of local police departments probably could inform you how often their officers make runs to apartment commu-

What about rules and regulations? Can you live with them?

"Most communities will have a published set of guidelines, a book or list prospects can look at," Northcutt said. When you finally settle on a specific community, plan on paying an application/credit check fee of $10-$50. A lease is a binding contract. Consult a lawyer before you sign if you have questions about your rights and responsibilities. Most landlords require a one-year lease initially. Others may offer a sixmonth lease, but expect a higher rent for shorter-term arrangements.

A lease ensures that you will have a specific place to live at a specific rent for a specific period of time. You could be responsible for rent if you break a lease before it expires.

A month-to-month living arrangement allows more flexibility in opting mium for the privilege and rents may increase at any time.

Security deposits, by law, can't exceed one-and-a-half months rent.

Apartment owners can't discriminate on age, sex, race, religion, color, national origin, familial status (young children living with parents or single parents) and handicapped status.

If you believe that you've been unfairly treated, contact the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit at (313) 963-1274.

A written inventory of the condition of the unit completed by tenants; when checking in is an important document. The tendency is to blow it off and do a halfhearted walk-through with the excitement of moving in.

Take the time to do it right. Unrecorded damage now could affect how much of your security deposit will be held back to make repairs when you move out.

Scratches on appliances and chips on tile should be noted, Partridge

"It's absolutely in tenants' best interests to go through that list carefully," said Deborah Choly, a lawyer with the United Community Housing Coalition.

Keep good records, she added. "You? should always get disputes in writing and you should always get receipts for payments."

Protect yourself when occupancy is delayed

Q. I want to buy a home, but the seller does not want to give occupancy for approximately 90 days; yet he wants me to close in approximately 30 days and, in effect, rent out the premises to him. Is this a good idea.

A. Obviously we are in a seller's market, and sellers can try to dictate whatever terms they think that they can obtain. If you are not going to obtain possession at closing, it is imperative that you receive a proper per-diem stipend for your renting out. of the premises and that adequate funds be held in escrow to cover the stipend. Moreover, you should require additional monies withheld after the date that possession is to be provided, i.e., the seller should be obligated to put in escrow a substantial per-diem amount well in excess of the cost of the principal, interest, taxes and assessments to ensure that he/she will be financially punisned it ne/sne timely fashion.

Without these provisions, the seller may not have an economic incentive to honor the contract. This would force the purchaser to seek to initiate eviction proceedings, which is time consuming and costly.

Again, any person buying real estate should engage the services of an experienced real estate attorney before signing the purchase agreement, regardless of the pressures being exacted upon him by the real estate person to get the agreement signed and sub-

One way to deal with this, of course, is to make the lawyer's review a contingency, as part of the agreement, but in a hot market, you may be dissuaded from doing so by your broker,

Q. I am a real estate broker who needs some good legal advice. I had a listing agreement with a purchaser that did not have the statutorily mandated nondiscrimination clause. However, in the purchase agreement, I was to be provided with a commission. The seller is claiming that since I have a void real estate commission agreement, I cannot recover my

A. Yes. You should consider recovering under the theory that you are a third-party beneficiary of the purchase agreement between the seller and the buyer of the property. The court of appeals in Michigan has recognized that a cause of action that is independent of a separate void agreement may be asserted as an alternative means of recovery.

The third-party beneficiary statute can be relied upon by you since it is intended to provide an alternative avenue of recovery in the absence of privity of contract. Assuming that you have not been guilty of any discriminatory practice that would be against public policy, you should be able to prevail on your rights to a commission as a result of the purchase agreement.

Look where mortgage rates have been ment of my column, I thought it would be fun to look back every week and compare current interest rates with interest rates at different times over the last 25 years. For this very first "Mortgage Timeline," I

As a new segthought it might be appropriate to look back at when the highest 30-year fixedrate of the last 25 years occurred and what that rate was. Do you know? (answer is at the end of this column.)

To buy an existing home:

Last week, the one-year (convertible) adjustable rate with no points was in the low 6.0-percent range, making this program an attractive choice for many homeowners. Generally, the one-year ARM can only adjust up or down a maximum of 2 percent per year and 6 percent over the life of the loan. The convertible feature of the mortgage makes the risk of future rate adjustments a little less risky. After the initial 13 months, you have the option to convert the adjustable rate to a fixed rate for the remainder of the term for a fee of approximately $200. can convert to the fixed rate.

In the past, the convertible one-year ARM rate was higher than the non-convertible oneyear ARM, But now they are very similar. This makes the convertible ARM an ever better choice. By being able to choose when you want to convert any time from the 13th through the 60th month, you have the flexibility to watch the rate market. much like you would the stock market and convert when you feel rates are at their lowest.

Another important reason for the popularity of one-year convertible ARMs is that your firstyear payment is much lower than with other programs. For those people going into a bigger home with a larger mortgage, this can help ease them into that higher payment and help avoid buyers, the one-year ARM can help buyers qualify for a higherpriced home while helping them feel more comfortable with the initial first-year payment.

buy constructed home:

I have received some calls recently regarding "lot loans." Therefore, this might be a good time to discuss them.

Lots loans have a few different guidelines than regular home mortgages. For example, the downpayment requirements on a lot loan is generally 20 to 30 percent of the price of the lot. Generally the lender prefers the lot to have no construction under way. Closing costs are lower than for regular mortgages, but interest rates can be slightly higher.

I surveyed a few lenders last week and found the following: One lender was offering a 7.25 percent rate with no points on a one-year ARM with a 15-year amortization. Another lender offered a 7.8-percent fixed rate with one point for 24 months before being required to build. Still another was offering Prime Rate (8.25 percent) with one point and a 15-year amortization with a balloon paym

To refinance your current home:

When you close on a home refinance transaction, the lender give you an option called a "Right to Cancel" or "Three Day Right of Recision" as it is commonly newly referred to. You would have three days to cancel your mortgage. You would receive any fees from the lender that you had previously paid. The three days begin the day of closing and continue to midnight of the third day. For homeowners who are doing a cash-out refinance, you will not receive your cash-out from the lender until the third day has expired.

Timeline answer:

In October 1981, the 30-year fixed-rate had reached 18.45 percent. On a $100,000 mortgage, the payment would have been $1,543.85. compare this to today's 30-year fixed-rate and payment of approximately 8 percent and $733.76, respectively.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

!. Include the price. Don't vaste your time or a potential nuyer's time. If you advertise the price of the Item or service you offer, the people who respond o your ad will be those who are renuinely interested. Surveys how that readers are more nterested in those items and ervices they know are within heir price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
