Hearing on crash is delayed

Court activity has begun in the case of a young Westland man charged in the fatal traffic accident March 10 which killed a 14-year-old friend. His preliminary examination has been postponed to May 20.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Walking on crutches, a Westland teen-ager charged in a fiery, fatal crash on March 10 appeared in Westland District Court on Thursday for a hearing to determine whether he should stand trial on two felony charges.

But Joseph John Gackiewicz, 17, will have to wait until May 20 for a ruling on whether he will go to trial for the death of 14-year-old Nicole Mugurian of Westland, a passenger in the 1989 Buick Regal he was driving March 10 on Ann Arbor Trail near Hines Drive.

Defense attorney Marvin Blake sought the delay from Westland District Judge C. Charles Bokos because he wanted more time to study information related to the case.

Gackiewicz, who remains free on a personal bond, is charged with vehicular manslaughter and driving drunk/causing a death. Both charges are punishable by a maximum 15-year prison term upon conviction.

Following court proceedings Thursday, Blake said that he will try to prove during the May 20 hearing that Gackiewicz shouldn't be charged with driving drunk/causing a death.

He questioned whether Dana Nessel, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, will be able to prove that Gackiewicz should stand trial on that charge.

Blake also confirmed that he will argue that the manslaughter charge should be reduced — most likely to negligent homicide. The lesser charge is punishable by a maximum two-year prison term.

Drugmart last of a 'fighting breed'

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

Veteran retailer Tony Hassan just hired a new pharmacist – one that formerly worked for the Arbor Drug chain.

He's proud of that and of all of his employees, many who have been with him at the independent Family Drugmart in Westland for years. Nestled in a mall at the corner of Palmer and Venoy where it has been for 38 years, many of his customers walk to the store for prescriptions and other items.

"We're about the only independent left around here," he said. "We're the last of a breed. I don't want to say 'dying breed' – we're the last of a fighting breed."

The sign out front still reads "Drug Mart" from years past, but Hassan said that is more familiar for his customers so he hasn't changed the sign. He estimates that he and his staff know about 90 percent of the people who walk in the door by name – and that kind of service is what keeps people coming back.

"The old cliche that 'Customers are kings and queens,' That really works here," he said. "We do a tremendous business for the size of our store." And, if Hassan hasn't seen a customer in a while, he will call them to find out if everything is OK – either checking on their health or to see if they had a problem at the store.

He said his staff tries to help customers quickly. Some larger stores, he said make customers wait so that they can browse the store and spend more money.

"They (customers) waited at the hospital. They waited at the doctor's office. They don't feel good. I say get them in and get them home. They don't feel like shopping. They'll be back when they feel better."

But he's concerned about what the future might hold for all small drugstores, with the onset of insurance changes which cut out the little guy and give the business to large drug chains. He's anxiously awaiting word over the next 60 days as to whether Medicaid will give its insurance business to an HMO which may restrict which drugstores customers can use. That could have a large impact on his business, he said.

That is already a problem, he said, with some large prescription plans where they only want to deal with a few larger chains to ease the administrative burden of processing claims.

"Many of my customers do not have transportation and they've been coming here for years. What are they supposed to do?" Hassan asked. "What happened to the right of anyone to have the right to choose where they want to go?"

Hassan has been in the drugstore business nearly 25 years. He first worked as a store manager and pharmacist at Century Drugs at Palmer and Merriman, then moved to the Family Drugmart location when Century sold out to Arbor Drugs. He bought the business 10 years ago.

"Even though it was a small chain, we ran it like an independent," he said of Century. "Everybody was in touch. When they came in and told me (they sold it) – it was a heartbreaker."

Although he does a brisk business (the prescription counter is rarely empty) and fills between 220 and 240 prescriptions a day, he said he would be filling closer to

Contaminated fish flee lowered lake

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Scores of fish contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls probably have moved downstream by the lowering of Newburgh Lake to the middle branch of the Rouge River, state officials said last week.

That has prompted state officials to re-emphasize an advisory that exists against the public consumption of fish caught in that branch of the Rouge River.

The lake lowering from its original 15-foot depth to about 5 feet was completed according to permit requirements drawn by Environmental Consulting & Technology issued and approved by the state Department of Environmental Quality, but contractors used what the state called an "inappropriate" net in a spillway area at the dam in attempts to contain the fish.

EC&T was contracted by Wayne County to be the project manager of the $10 million restoration of Newburgh Lake.

A project manager from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality said he was "not happy with what he saw upstream" when checking the site early last week.

"It was a lot shallower than we thought it would be, and not a large enough zone for (the fish) to stay in," said Mark Oemke, project manager with the state Department of Environmental Quality. Oemke was referring to a pool of water just west of the dam.

Officials reinforce fish-eating ban

State officials warn the public that an advisory remains against consuming fish caught in the Rouge River.

The advisory is nothing new, but officials with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Michigan Department of Environmental Quality want to reinforce that message after learning many fish contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) may have been displaced out of Newburgh Lake and moved downstream toward Nankin Mills.

The 1997 Michigan Fishing Guide outlines advisories against consuming fish on the Middle Branch of the Rouge below Phoenix Lake and the main branch below Ford Road.

The Michigan Department of Public Health issued the following advisory: "No consumption of the following fish: northern pike, white suckers, large and small mouth bass, catfish, bullheads and carp. Restrictive consumption of all other species caught to no more than one meal a week. Nursing mothers, pregnant women, women who intend to have children and children under the age of 15 should not eat any fish from this area."

Blake asked for a hearing delay Thursday after Nessel amended documents pertaining to Gackiewicz's case. Nessel added information such as allegations that the defendant was speeding in a 35 mph zone when the accident occurred, Blake said.

A Westland police investigation has alleged that Gackiewicz lost control while passing a pickup truck on the right side, in a flare lane. The car he was driving then slammed into a tree and burst into flames, police said.

Mugurian, a Livonia Franklin High School freshman, died in the crash. Her family has stressed that she wasn't drinking at the time, and police said Thursday that there is no evidence indicating otherwise.

Concerns remain

Prop A effects expected to be felt into future

BY MARIE CHESTNEY
STAFF WRITER

Michigan educators now have two years of solid experience living under Proposal A, a tax reform package approved by Michigan voters in March 1994.

Looking for the future, Wayne County educators and school administrators don't like what they see.

At Wednesday's meeting of Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation Plante and Moran auditor Fred Hailer summed educators' fears up best. The company audits many Michigan school districts.

"When revenues are less than expenditures, it's amazing how quickly the situation gets out of hand. School administrators are concerned how they can manage now, as well as down the road. And these are good times for the state."

MAISL members invited lawmakers to the meeting in Wayne-Westland Schools to spotlight both the short and long term effects of Proposal A on school districts.

Proposal A cut local property taxes, increased the state sales tax, and shifted the funding of public schools from local taxpayers to the state.

At the meeting, Michael Wilmot, MAISL president and superintendent of Garden City Schools, walked educators and lawmakers through a seven-year budget of a typical Michigan school district.

The budget factors in financial changes wrought by Proposal A, assumes stable enrollment, and salary and operational cost increases at the rate of inflation.

In 1993-94, before Proposal A, the district had an income of $71.1 million; expenses of $70.1 million; and a rainy day fund of $2 million.

In 1996-97, the current budget year, the district has an income of $77 million and expenses of $79.5 million. Money in the rainy day fund has vanished, replaced with a $2.2 million deficit.

By 2000-01 in the seven-year projection, income has grown to $85.7 million, expenses to $94 million. The district is now $26.3 million in the hole.

Of course, this deficit could not occur. Massive cutbacks would have taken place in this district long before the year 2000-01.

Of the 10 districts in MAISL, some districts will tumble into financial trouble "real quick," while others will swing in the wind before eventually tumbling, said Randy Liepa, assistant superintendent for business for Livonia Public Schools.

Patricia Brand, assistant superintendent for business for Wayne-Westland Community Schools, cited expenses that have mushroomed mostly because of Proposal A:

■ Districts lose money for each student that moves out of the district. If 25 students disappear, that's a loss of $150,000. But because the students come from all age levels and different schools, there's no easy way for districts to make up this loss in its budget.

■ Districts now pay all employee retirement costs; the state use to pay a major portion.

■ Districts must now borrow money to pay bills during the summer months, before state aid kicks in in October. This means paying extra interest, filing and legal fees.

■ Enrollment in the general education population is either flat or slightly up. But enrollment in federally mandated, highly expensive special education programs has escalated.

Before Proposal A, Hailer said Michigan had two types of school districts: in-formula and out-of-formula. Now, he said, Michigan has three, and this has split districts even further:

■ The 285 mostly rural school districts which receive less than the foundation allowance of $5,153. These have benefited most from Proposal A, because they're getting bigger increases to bring them up to par with other school districts.

■ The 218 school districts that lie between $5,153 and the top end, $6,200. Half of the districts in MAISL are in this group. These districts get a foundation grant increase that is close to the rate of inflation. But many also face declining enrollment, so they're losing ground also.

■ The 52 districts that have a per-pupil foundation grant beyond $6,200. These districts can tax locally to keep the amount they get beyond the foundation grant. But their grant money from the state is not increasing, so eventually they, too, will feel the pinch.

Complaints about the effects of Proposal A get diluted because districts fall somewhere within each of these three groups, Hailer said.

"That's why it's not yet a universal problem. It depends on where you sit on this scale. In the short run, people have done a good job in keeping budgets balanced. But the future looks bleak."

Sue Clulow, president of the Livonia Board of Education, said the state never realized what Proposal A would cost Lansing.

One way to improve the financial picture is for the state to temporarily fund areas they have cut, such as retirement, until a better solution can be found, she said.

300 if insurance plans hadn't cut him out.

He said he has been approached many times about selling his business, but wants to maintain that personal touch and prefers to stay in business for himself.

Despite concerns over the future, Hassan is confident that his hard work and that of his employees will keep him in business. And, there is still a chance for others who want to open a business, as well. "The opportunity is there for everybody who wants to work hard for it," he said. "There's always a potential."

Family Drugmart is on the southwest corner of Palmer and Venoy roads and is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday and holidays. You will often see Tony Hassan at the store,story where he works 60-70 hours each week.

The quest: Targeting new type of entertainment

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Fog swirls atop an old castle wall and slowly descends. A foreboding evil lurks in the darkness. In the distance comes the faint clump of footsteps – closer, closer still.

An enemy closes in for the kill as loud, futuristic music pierces the air. It's time to find a place to hide in this multi-level maze.

"Got him," says a menacing voice that erupts into wicked laughter.

It is time for revenge.

Welcome to Laser Quest, a hide-and-seek game of tag played with laser guns in a darkened, 6,000-square-foot maze reminiscent of the Old World.

Ramps allow up to 30 players to roam a multi-level landscape. Neon and black lights bounce off mirrors and provide enough light to maneuver through the maze.

Players wear special vests decorated with blinking lights, and they score points by correctly aiming their lasers and firing at their opponents' vests.

"It's a thrill," 13-year-old Bryan Gamsjager said. "It's fun to shoot people and try not to get shot."

Players pay $6.50 for 20 to 25 minutes of fun, although a $20 annual membership reduces the price per game to $5.50.

Special packages for groups and birthday parties are available.

Before players enter the darkened maze, they choose a code name that lights up on their laser gun.

"No profanity is allowed," Music said. "If you wouldn't say it to your mother, it won't be a code name."

The codes help record post-game data that players receive on a computer printout – such as the number of times they got shot and how many successful shots they scored against their opponents. Competitors are ranked by score at the end.

"The goal is to tag as many people as you can without getting tagged yourself," Music said.

During the game, Laser Quest employees, or "marshals," monitor actions inside the maze. They enforce a code of conduct – such as no running and no climbing – that players must recite before starting the game.

Players who are tagged lose five seconds of competition because their vest, in essence, shuts down. A successful shot can earn a player up to five points, depending on where an opponent's vest is struck.

Music offered some playing tips, such as wearing flat shoes. Dark clothing rather than white also helps players elude their opponents.

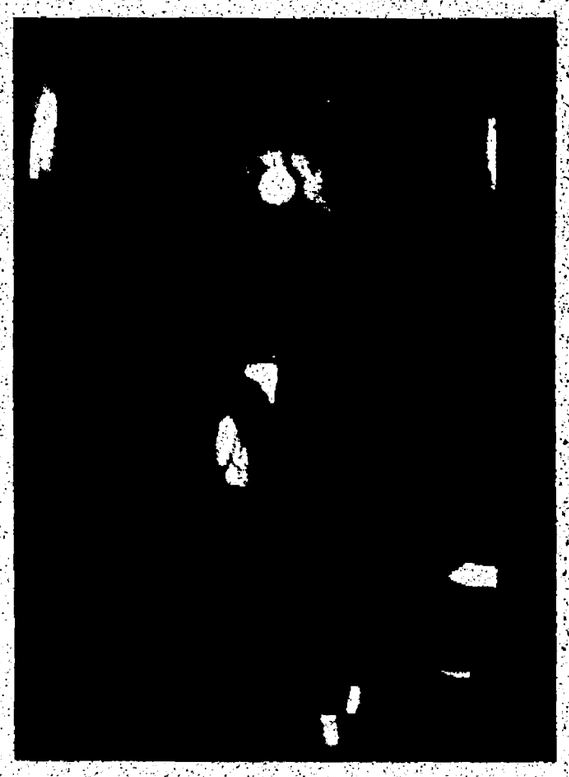
Music said the Westland business has an Old World decor to offset the futuristic game.

"It's like the Old World versus the New World," he said.

Based in Toronto, Laser Quest is billed as the largest laser tag company in the world – New World, that is.

Players seem thrilled by the game.

"I like to shoot at people. It's fun," 17-year-old Josh Arseneault said.



■ Before players enter ... they choose a code name that lights up on their laser gun. 'No profanity is allowed ... If you wouldn't say it to your mother, it won't be a code name.'

Mark Music
—Laster Quest general manager

Bryan Gamsjager said he has developed a game strategy.

"I found one spot where I stand, and I just keep shooting as people walk by," he said. "Sometimes I get mad, and I follow them and stalk them until I get them."

His 15-year-old sister, Elizabeth Gamsjager, has a more common approach.

"I just try to hit people before they hit me," she said. "And I try to hide from the people who are trying to shoot me."

If you plan to try your hand at Laser Quest, the hours are 6-11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 4 p.m. to midnight Friday, noon to midnight Saturday, and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday. The phone number is 266-0888.

Volunteers plan second year of Sassafras Trails cleanup

BY DARRELL CLEM

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Volunteers will pitch in this Saturday to clear debris and litter from more than 50 acres of wooded land known as Sassafras Trails, northeast of Palmer and Wildwood.

A group of Native Americans plans to be present for the Friends of Sassafras Trails' fourth-annual event, aimed at protecting the land and encouraging the public to see the nature area, Friends leader Teresa Robbins said.

Westland District Court plans to send court-ordered workers to help with the cleanup, and a core group of 15 to 20 Friends of Sassafras Trails members will be involved, Robbins said.

Other volunteers are welcome. The cleanup will begin at 10 a.m. and is expected to end around 4 p.m., Robbins said.

"We'll be grooming the trails," she said, adding that volunteers "should bring their own rakes, shovels and gloves."

Wheelbarrows will be available for removing debris from the nature area, which was the center of controversy when Wayne-Westland school board members considered selling it several years ago.

The land has since been protected through an agreement allowing state natural resources officials to block residential development by securing the development rights of the property.

The state is to pay the district $520,000 under a contract that is still being worked out between state and district representatives.

Meanwhile, Saturday's cleanup is billed as an Earth Day celebration, although Earth Day was in April. Cleanup organizers delayed the effort until May to give the soggy ground in Sassafras Trails time to dry out – somewhat, at least.

The event also will include a flag-raising ceremony, Robbins said.

Participants will meet inside the former Wilson School, on Wildwood north of Palmer. The school property is on the west end of Sassafras Trails.

Refreshments will be served inside Wilson School, Robbins said.

Duckling rescue

They weren't ugly, but they were ducklings.

Twelve of them, in all, were caught in an underground drain and separated from their mother. Now, they have a Westland police officer to thank for their rescue.

The incident occurred on the afternoon of April 26 when residents in the 7030 area of Deerhurst phoned the Westland Police Department to report 12 ducklings in a storm drain. The mother duck was nearby but separated from her babies.

Animal control officer Dewey Frady, with help from a citizen, removed a grate, and then Frady climbed about 12 feet down into the drain to rescue the ducklings. They were then reunited with their mother.

Gas up and go

A suspect who pumped $36.19 in gas and tried to pay with a $100 bill ended up leaving — without paying — when he was told the clerk didn't have change for the large bill, a police report said.

The recent incident occurred at a Sunoco station, 37400 Ford Road. A male suspect driving what was described as a 1992 Ford van went inside the station to pay for $36.19 in gas, and he also tried to buy a $1.19 container of juice, the report said.

He tried to pay with a $100, but a female clerk said she didn't have change. The suspect became angry and told the clerk that he would go to a nearby party store for change and then return with the money. He never came back.

It's the law

Students learn: Above, a defendant stands before 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos as John Glenn High School students observe court proceedings during annual Law Day, held Friday in the school. The program gives teens a firsthand look at how the court system works. Judges also hope that students will think twice about breaking the law after they see others being punished for crimes. Below, Bokos shares his experience on the bench with students.

Students honored at Phi Beta Kappa ceremony downtown

Detroit-area high school students, including 35 John Glenn High School students, were honored April 28 at Cobo Convention Center in Detroit for academic achievement.

The ceremony was sponsored by the Detroit Association of Phi Beta Kappa and drew more than 2,500 students, parents and school officials. Students who maintained a 3.75 grade point average in their academic classes were invited. Scholarships funded by the Matilda Wilson Foundation also were awarded to more than 100 students with perfect 4.0 averages.

Group seeks host families in Westland, Livonia area

Organizers from the Youth for Understanding group in this area are seeking families from Livonia, Westland and Wayne to serve as host families for some 50 foreign exchange students visiting this country.

■ All students have studied, spoken and written English for at least two years, and most have studied the English language for five years or more.

Program fees are paid by students and their parents raised through community projects or funded by scholarships. Students have their own medical insurance and bring their own spending money.

Students are between the ages of 15 and 18 and usually live here for about 11 months, starting in mid-August. Some six-month hosting opportunities are also available.

All students have studied, spoken and written English for at least two years, and most have studied the English language for five years or more.

More than 4,000 YFU students come to the U.S. each year from about 30 countries in Europe, Asia, Latin America and the Pacific. In addition, about 2,000 American students live abroad each year.

For more information or to host a student, call Jeffrey Meyer at (313) 467-9762.

PRESCRIPTION PHARMACIES

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Pharmacies seem to have the prescription for business in metro Detroit.

If it looks like there's a pharmacy on every corner, that's almost the case in some local communities as customers are offered many places to spend their health-care dollars.

Arbor Drugs has 193 stores mostly in southeast Michigan. Rite Aid, which bought the Perry Drug Store chain in 1995, now has more than 3,500 stores in 26 states and Washington, D.C., including 57 in Wayne County. Meanwhile, Walgreen, which has announced its planned entry into the Detroit market, has 2,256 stores in 34 states and Puerto Rico.

But that's only part of the picture. Expansion is the name of the game for all three chains. Arbor plans to build 18-20 stores this year and at least that many are planned for next year, according to Frederick Marx, retail analyst and Arbor spokesman.

There are times when a customer needs dog food or cookies and would rather go to a drugstore where the parking is right next door rather than park and walk in a large parking lot, Marx said.

Based in Troy, Arbor had its beginnings with a store in Dearborn in 1963, and has seen very strong growth in the last decade, Marx said. In 1986, when the company went public, it had 52 stores.

By the end of this year $1 billion in sales are expected, Marx said.

Rite Aid, founded in 1962 in Scranton, Pa., has expansion plans for metro Detroit as well, according to Sarah Datz, Rite Aid spokeswoman. On tap for 1997 in Wayne County are 20 new stores, 15 relocations where an older outdated store is moved to a new store site nearby and 15 remodels where the store is expanded or remodeled to meet customer needs, Datz said.

Walgreen, founded in 1901 in Chicago, has plans to build in metro Detroit as part of its plan to have 3,000 stores by the year 2000.

Walgreen will be opening a half-dozen stores in metro Detroit in the second half of this year, Michael Polzin, Walgreen spokesman, said.

Metro Detroit is one of the largest markets in the country that Walgreen hasn't entered yet, Polzin said.

The company currently is looking at sites in Westland and Livonia.

"We'll start with this initial expansion," and then expand beyond that, he said.

It is expected metro Detroit could support around 100 Walgreens stores, based on its population and density, Polzin said.

Pharmacies are also a part of businesses at stores such as Kmart, Meijer, Kroger and Farmer Jack.

Pharmacies have been very successful at Kmart stores, according to Kmart spokesman Daniel Jarvis. Pharmacy services are offered in about three-quarters of Kmart stores nationwide, he said.

"We're constantly looking at our pharmacy operations," he said. The pharmacies are up to date and will stack up with any chain, he said.

Meijer has pharmacies in all 107 of its stores, according to Steven VanWagoner, Meijer public relations coordinator.

"We do well with them," he said. "A pharmacy in a Meijer store is part of our one-stop shopping concept."

Arbor's dominant

"People relate to their neighborhood drugstores," Marx said.

Arbor is the chain drugstore leader in metro Detroit by every measure, Marx said. Arbor has enjoyed a growth of market share with 42 percent of the market share in 1996 up from 36 percent in 1995.

Michigan is different from the rest of the country in that most people have third-party plans, as a result the plans tend to dictate pricing, Marx said.

Customers tend to select a drugstore based on a variety of factors including convenience, and how quickly they can get in and out, he said.

Even with the number of chain stores, the Detroit market has far more independents than other markets, Marx said.

Marx sees the current market as just more of the same in the drugstore business. There has always been drugstore competition, Marx said. Arbor started "literally in the shadow of Kmart," Marx said. Also, once prominent in the drugstore market were Cunningham and Perry, Marx said.

Product lines don't change much from drugstore to drugstore, but Arbor is very strong in its discipline, with most of its stores being located near enough to its Novi warehouse distribution center for one-day delivery, Marx said.

When buying a drugstore-related product, the customer wants it today and not in three days, Marx added.

Also, many supermarkets are now going to mega stores; stores that used to be 20,000 square feet are now 60,000 square feet, Marx said. The companies close two stores to open a mega store, but that makes them less convenient for the customer, he said.

There are times when a customer needs dog food or cookies and would rather go to a drugstore where the parking is right next door rather than park and walk in a large parking lot, Marx said.

Shopping habits can be monitored through the prescriptions – which require a name and address – as well as through film processing, Marx said.

If, by the addresses, the company can see that customers are driving past competitors to get to an Arbor, that tells the company that an Arbor is needed in that area, Marx said.

More drugstores are going into mature neighborhoods, because the population has aged, he said.

Store sites

Metro Detroit also has lots of suitable sites for Walgreen which likes to build freestanding stores at major intersections with easy on-off access, Polzin said.

"Convenience is really our strategy," Polzin said.

All new Walgreens stores include drive-through pharmacies, one-hour photo finishing, patient waiting rooms, separate consultation windows and satellite links between stores, Polzin said. Also, several stores in each market are 24-hour stores, he said.

Rite Aid also looks to locate more freestanding stores in convenient, high-traffic locations with easy on-and-off access and lots of parking, Datz said.

Walgreen has dropped out of first place in terms of number of stores, but is still the No. 1 chain in several areas including sales and earnings, Polzin said.

Rite Aid, No. 1 in number of stores, has seen much of its growth through the acquisition of other chains, according to Datz. The company recently bought the Thrifty Payless Inc. drugstores, which has 1,000 stores located in 10 states on the West Coast, she said.

Rite Aid also has a "fairly aggressive" new store expansion plan, Datz said.

Rite Aid plans 100 new stores on the East Coast in 1997 as well as 200 relocations or expansions on the East Coast. The West Coast stores are still being evaluated, Datz said.

Drive-through pharmacies are among the ways the company is going about serving customers, Datz said. Rite Aid is also putting in business centers in its stores, for photocopying and faxing, she said.

The stores are also tailored for the areas they serve, Datz said, such as carrying ethnic foods and cosmetics in some areas.

"In today's world where everyone is in a rush, people want one-stop shopping," Datz added.

Pharmacy gives introduction to workaday world

JULIE BROWN

Many years have passed, but it seems like yesterday.

My senior year in high school, I worked at Ed Downing's Pharmacy, on Walnut Lake Road just west of Inkster in West Bloomfield. My beginning there was inauspicious; the summer heat got to me, and I fainted my first day and had to be toted to the nearby Henry Ford Medical facility; back in those days of the mid-1970s, it was surrounded by fields and woods.

Things got better, much better, and I'll always have my fond memories of working at the drugstore. Mr. Downing could be gruff at times, but he was a good, fair boss, a good introduction to the workaday world for a high school student.

I remember Herb, the nighttime/Sunday pharmacist, Mr. Downing's wife, Jane, who was such an integral part of store operations, the woman who took care of things during the day and my fellow students who worked at the store. Some were older by a bit; one young woman, a junior nursing student at Oakland University, used her experience in the drugstore to bolster her professional skills.

There were, to be sure, some humorous moments. One time, a classmate came in to buy condoms. Not [illegible], he went to see the pharmacist rather than [illegible] my counter. Mr. Downing put the box into a [illegible] bag. There was, however, sales tax on the [illegible] wouldn't have been the case for a prescription [illegible] an innocent "Have a nice [illegible] with his purchase.

[illegible] Downing's Pharmacy was more [illegible] as a community drop-in [illegible] for a cup of coffee and some [illegible] local postman used to spend some time there, and I remember my mother complaining about his not being on his route. I got to know the regulars, who sometimes wanted to get a young person's point of view on a particular issue.

Walnut Lake Elementary School was just across the street, and the kids came in on school days for candy after classes ended. A few had permission to charge candy and other small purchases, which was a bit of a nuisance.

One time, I caught two girls shoplifting, putting small items in their knit hats. I took them to see Mr. Downing, [illegible] their growing fears and apprehension of [illegible] to the police. As I recall, he called their [illegible] in their eyes than being [illegible] the local law enforcement officials.

[illegible] to linger at Ed Downing's. Cigarettes [illegible] a habit. I must confess [illegible] thought to the morality of [illegible]. When you're 17, death from [illegible]

[illegible] the store, I made $1.50 per hour. That was below the minimum wage, which was $2.30 at the time. However, the store's proximity to my home meant I didn't have to maintain a car, so the job ended up being a better deal than it first appeared.

We were aware of larger drugstore competitors, but it wasn't the same as it is today. We had Savon (which continues to operate), but that was before the days of Arbor and Rite Aid. Most of the insurance checks we got came from Blue Cross Blue Shield, although there were some smaller insurers whose cards we accepted as well.

I left Ed Downing and the others that fall of 1977 to begin studies at the University of Michigan. I kept in touch, and put my graduation present from Mr. Downing to good use to pay for books and supplies. I remember how proud he was the summer after my sophomore year of college when I worked for the Birmingham-Bloomfield Eccentric. He would read my articles in the paper. I think in some ways he thought of those of us who worked in the store as an extension of his family.

Mr. Downing died of a stroke shortly after that. I found out too late to attend the service, but did send a note of condolence to Jane Downing. Another pharmacist bought the store, but it's since closed.

When I see smaller, locally owned drugstores struggling to compete with larger competitors, I'm drawn back to the days at Ed Downing's Pharmacy. The store was a wonderful place to begin my professional life; although I didn't choose to study pharmacy, I know that I benefited both professionally and personally from my time there. I hope that other, younger people will also have that opportunity.

An original plan dated October 1996 called for EC&T to draw down to 54.5 acres. Towns believed many of the fish were to remain in the lake, then killed and sent to a landfill.

"I've been around draw downs and I know once you impact it like this, at least 80 percent of the fish population is displaced," Towns said.

Jim Murray, director of environment for Wayne County, said the county was doing everything that was required under its permit issued by the state Department of Environmental Quality.

"There's a fish advisory on all (the Rouge) branches," Murray said. "We've complied with our part to the letter. Besides, those fish can come over the dam anytime there's high water that's coming over the dam."

Jim Ridgway, vice president of Environmental Consulting & Technology and EC&T's project manager for the Newburgh Lake restoration, refused to answer any questions regarding the state's concerns or the fish situation, and referred all questions to Wayne County.

EC&T received approval of two permits from the Department of Environmental Quality. One allowed for the lowering of the lake and was approved by the DEQ's land and water management division; another was approved by the DEQ's surface water quality division.

A fish kill to remove what was an estimated 25 tons of fish is scheduled for June using a natural pesticide, rotenone, that is harmless to humans and waterfowl.

Oemke said it was difficult to tally the actual fish population of the lake. "They did draw down the lake about six inches a day, which was slow enough so not to move the PCBs," Oemke said.

Few on shore

The first drawdown has not washed many dead fish on the shore.

"I bought into this for two reasons: No. 1, because the sediments with PCBs in the lake were going to be removed and we would end up with a clean lake that would be fishable, and No. 2, we were not going to pass this fish on (downstream) so it would be someone else's problem," Towns said.

While those fish will not move back upstream, they could conceivably move into other branchos, such as the main branch north into Detroit and Oakland County or lower branch of Rouge, where fish advisories do not exist in the upper reaches of the river, Towns said.

The project's goal is to draw down the lake, remove PCB-contaminated soil and restore the lake to a healthy fishery.

Murray said Wayne County had planned on conducting a second fish kill from Wilcox Lake downstream to Nankin Mills. Wayne County would need to apply for a second permit. "We know those fish can migrate back up from Nankin to Newburgh," Murray said.

"Once the restoration is finished, and we plan to apply for a permit to do another fish kill, coming from one dam over Wilcox Lake (upstream from Newburgh Lake) and to Nankin, then Newburgh will be stocked."

Towns said earlier talks with EC&T had indicated that the water was to be lowered only about 2 feet below the crest of the Newburgh Lake spillway, which was to decrease the surface area to 54.5 acres. The water was about 5 feet deep in its deepest area.

On Wednesday, Towns and Oemke saw a net about 6 feet across the dam in the east end of the lake that was placed against the spillway to stop the fish and it had captured a pike in it, but Towns called the net "totally inappropriate" because fish could easily flop over the top of the dam and the net.

"The proper method would be a rigid screen or a steel mesh net that totally blocked out the water," Towns said.

In October 1996, EC&T had proposed using blocking nets during the rotenone application. The nets were not discussed during meetings with the contractor because the state believed the lake would be lowered only a couple feet during the first phase, Towns said.

Net useless

Towns said the 6-foot net folded over the spillway, rendering it useless to retain the fish.

"I think it puts a big black mark in a large segment of what we were getting into," Towns said. "Those fish have been passed downstream."

Murray replied: "I would like to hear his explanation about what to do about the fish that have the ability go over the dam when the water levels are high."

Oemke was told Wednesday by contractors that stronger nets would be used to contain the fish.

State biologists conducted a summary of catch in 1988 that found northern pike, largemouth bass, carp and suckers in Newburgh Lake. These species are bottom-feeders and have high contaminant levels of PCBs, because the PCBs lie within the sediment on the lake's bottom, with larger concentrations in the western end of the lake, Towns said.

"If (these bottom-feeders) eat a lot of small fish, the PCB levels increase, and it can get into the flesh itself," Towns said.

"We found five times (in the pike) what is considered the 'active' level of 8.92 parts per million," Towns said. "At two parts per million, we warn of no consumption."

The low PCB levels in Newburgh Lake do not pose a direct danger to humans, but they can bioaccumulate in animals, meaning they continue through the food chain and collect as one species consumes another contaminated with the PCBs.

The PCB warning was issued many years ago on fish consumption, but the public still needs to be reminded, officials believe.

"We believe a lot of anglers between Nankin Mills and Newburgh Lake who consider that the (PCB) problem is a Newburgh Lake problem," Towns said. "This could cause a fishing frenzy, and a heightened interest that hasn't been there in the past.

"We believe the fish are a lot 'hotter' (contaminated with PCBs) than in the past."

State officials weren't the only ones concerned about the contaminated fish.

Bill Craig, a member of a subcommittee on contaminated sites and habitats for the Rouge River Remedial Action Plan Advisory Council and the leader of Rouge Rescue cleanups at the Holliday Nature Preserve in Westland, was troubled by the news.

"Now there's a possibility that there's 'hot' fish and this puts a toxic legacy in another pond," Craig said.

"That was a 'bonus' (during the restoration) – to get rid of the contaminated fish. And now, they have to go downstream."

Towns was asked if it jeopardized the state's commitment to restocking Newburgh Lake.

"We want to consider all options at this point. We want to see the restocking effort proceed with the right effort, so the lake's fish population is a healthy and balanced one."

Towns believed the restoration has good goals and that the state supports the overall efforts.

"It's just that we've run into a snafu that can create other problems," he said.

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ 'MSU has the lowest board and room rates of any university in Michigan...This year's increase – 2.79 percent –is the lowest among the Big Ten universities. These efforts have allowed us to expand the services available to on-campus students.'

M. Peter McPherson
–MSU president

When M. Peter McPherson was a junior at Michigan State University, he ran for class president on the platform of starting a student bookstore because text prices were so high.

"We never started it," said McPherson, "but the threat of a student bookstore had some impact."

For the last three years, McPherson has been president of the 40,000-student university with a nearly $1 billion budget, but the high cost of textbooks still is a problem.

"Students run into trouble trying to trade in a textbook," said state Sen. Jon Cisky, R-Saginaw, a member of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee. "They get 10 cents on the dollar (when they trade in), and the texts wind up on the shelves later at almost the same price."

"It's a good thing you continue to bring this up," said McPherson during May 1 hearings on the East Lansing campus on the state's $1.5 billion universities budget bill. "There were many publishers 10 years ago. Today there are only three or four university book companies left.

"Why are these prices going up faster than the (consumer) price index? Individual schools have little influence. Science texts are out of date in two or three years. Books are a significant amount of higher education costs."

McPherson had no immediate answer to the textbook cost problem.

Cisky, one of three members of the appropriations subcommittee on higher education, is a former sheriff's department sergeant who has studied or taught at nine different colleges, public and private, and is considered a connoisseur of higher education.

Senators liked McPherson's answers to other cost problems at MSU – a science building, tuition and room-and-board.

want a science building that will cost $80 million. Universities will be asked to put up 25 percent of the cost. How much of a problem will that be? Possible sources are investment income, alumni gifts, and the ever popular student fees."

"Some match by the universities is realistic," said McPherson, adding it wouldn't be done with student fees. "We much prefer a 25 percent match than no program."

Schwarz noted Gov. John Engler recommended $274 million in state aid for MSU, up 2.5 percent, while the House voted $282.3 million, a 5.5 percent hike. Realistically, Schwarz said, MSU's increase will be somewhere between 3.75 and 4.5 percent increase. "Could you hold the line on tuition?" he asked.

"It would allow us to, with some restraint," McPherson replied. He reported the MSU board had extended the tuition guarantee (no more than the rate of increase in the federal consumer price index, about 2.8 percent) to this fall's incoming freshmen.

"It now covers almost everybody on campus," said McPherson.

"You've sent a message that we in the Legislature appreciate," smiled Schwarz. "Thank you for leading the way." Confessing he had just finished sending two children to college, Schwarz added, "I'm pretty well tuitioned out."

While legislative Democrats, such as Rep. Laura Baird of Okemos, boasted about the House's generosity compared to Engler's, Schwarz said, "Never in my pleasantest wild dreams can I see the House increase."

State appropriations don't cover room-and-board costs, but McPherson reported on them anyway. "MSU has the lowest board and room rates of any university in Michigan," he said.

"This year's increase – 2.79 percent –is the lowest among the Big Ten universities. These efforts have allowed us to expand the services available to on-campus students." Some 14,000 students live in campus housing.

McPherson's goal is to expand the number of students who study one semester abroad from the current 1,000 to 40 percent of all by the year 2000.

MSU has no plan to absorb the Detroit College of Law's program into its own structure. We have announced a joint MBA (master of business administration) and law degree," the president said.

DCL moved out of Detroit to the MSU campus but still exists as a separate entity. McPherson said, "We have committed to an existing law school rather than creating a new one."

To Schwarz's question, he said MSU has no plan to introduce a law school program to the west side of the state.

Farmers begin asparagus harvest

My Aunt Marge introduced me to u-pick farms 15 years ago this June, on the day before my wedding, and I've been a fan ever since.

Aunt Marge, her sister Nancy, who is my mother-in-law, and I picked the strawberries to serve the next day at my wedding reception. Some were dipped in chocolate, the rest arranged on a platter.

We could have gone to the store to buy strawberries, but spending that time together helped me feel like a family member, and the berries we picked were superior in every way — color, flavor, and aroma.

Every fruit and vegetable has a season, and while you can get some very good produce at the market, home grown is better. Some of us are too busy to garden. U-pick, or fresh picked from a farm, is the next best thing.

Local farmers started harvesting asparagus this week. Expect to pay $1 to $1.50 a pound for u-pick, or freshly picked asparagus.

Michigan ranks third in the nation in asparagus production behind California and Washington. According to the Michigan Asparagus Advisory Board, there are about 70 Michigan asparagus growers producing more than 25 million pounds of asparagus each year. Most of Michigan's asparagus is grown in counties along Lake Michigan where the soil is sandy, climate moist, and temperatures are 52° F, or slightly above. Oceana County, between Ludington and Muskegon, ranks number one in the state for asparagus, and hosts the National Asparagus Festival.

A variety of activities are offered during the three-day festival June 13-15 in Hart, including an Arts and Crafts Fair, entertainment, and asparagus food show. Call (616) 861-8110 for more information, or the online site http://www.oceana.net/naf/

Michigan's asparagus harvest begins in early May, and peaks in early June. Because its only available for a very short time, asparagus truly is one of our state's treasures.

Wiard's Orchards

Jay Wiard, whose family has been farming the same plot of land in Washtenaw County for 154 years, has about five acres asparagus. He started harvesting April 30.

■ Blake's Big Apple Orchard (810) 784-9710 – North Ave., Armada.

■ Long Family Orchard & Farm (810) 360-3774 – On Bogle Lake Road, north of Wise Road, Commerce Township.

■ Girard's Produce Farm (313) 697-1685 – 48445 W. Huron River Dr., Belleville.

Always call ahead to check availability of produce.

"Asparagus is an interesting crop," he said. "It normally lasts a month. Rain and temperature are real important. If it's too hot the season won't last as long."

Wiard, whose family offers u-pick asparagus, strawberries, apples, peaches, and pumpkins at their farm, is optimistic. "I was looking at the buds and it looks like a good crop of apples this year," he said. "The peaches look favorable too."

Chris Long grew up in Livonia, married Rob, and moved to a farm in Oakland County. "We offer fresh picked asparagus," she said. U-pick strawberry season begins in June.

They're taking orders for fresh picked asparagus at Blake's Big Apple Orchard in Macomb County. Like Wiard, Peter Blake, whose family has been farming for 50 years, is keeping his fingers crossed.

"Spring weather – rain and temperature – determines everything," said Blake who runs the business with his brothers Paul and Ray. "We grow about five acres of asparagus. We'll begin offering fresh picked asparagus around May 9 through June 9, or as long as the weather is good." Blake's also offers u-pick strawberries.

Wednesday was a beautiful sunny day with a light misting of rain. But temperatures dropped overnight, and Linda Girard who operates Girard's Produce Farm in Belleville with her husband Mark, was up early checking the asparagus.

"We just started picking asparagus last night," she said. "A lot of people don't realize how hard

Cinco de Mayo CELEBRATES MEXICO'S INDEPENDENCE

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Every day is a celebration at Old Mexico Restaurant in West Bloomfield, but May 5 is special. "On May 5 we celebrate freedom from the French," said Chef Timothy R. Castaneda whose family owns the Old Mexico Restaurants in West Bloomfield and Livonia. But the French did leave something behind – pastries, and breads.

"There are a lot of great bakeries in Mexico where you can see the French influence. You can get great baguettes in Mexico," said Castaneda who grew up in Livonia, and worked at restaurants in Los Angeles, Phoenix and San Francisco before returning home to help run the restaurants founded by his parents Ramon and Vicki Castaneda.

Celebrated with parades and feasting, Cinco de Mayo commemorates a battle that took place between the French troops of Napoleon III, and a Mexican army led by General Ignacio Zaragoza in Puebla, Mexico. Zaragoza and his army, outnumbered three to one by the French, won. The victory marked the beginning of the end of European occupation of Mexico.

"The Indians were there first, and the Europeans took over," said Castaneda. Early maize cultivation in Mexico as early as 10,000 B.C., led to a farming culture.

Conquering armies brought ingredients, which have become part of the Mexican food palate. "The Spanish brought cattle, pork, cheese, wheat, rice, onions, and nuts. The Mexicans already had chocolate, beans, corn, and tomatoes," said Castaneda. Also indigenous to Mexico, chilies, squash, and avocados, were discovered by conquerors, and introduced to Europeans, and later Americans.

"The Aztecs ate avocados, as noted by the early Spanish explorers," writes John F. Mariani in "The Dictionary of American Food and Drink," (Hearst Books, New York, copyright 1994). "Horticulturist Henry Perrine planted the first avocados in Florida in 1833. It was reported in 1529 by a Spanish missionary that the Aztecs put chile peppers in everything they ate, including chocolate. Chiles may first have been brought into what is now the United States by General Juan de Onate, who founded Santa Fe in 1598. The oldest evidence of squash being used as food dating back to between 7000 and 5500 B.C. was found at the Ocampo Caves in Mexico, whence they were carried to North America. Evidence of squash has been found in the burial mounds of Ohio, Kentucky, and Virginia, from 2,000 years ago."

"Mole combines Spanish and Mexican culinary traditions. It's a mixture of chilies, chocolate, and nuts such as almonds," said Castaneda. Pollo en Mole – Chicken breast with chocolate flavored gravy, is one of the items on Old Mexico's menu.

Mexicantown in Detroit celebrates Cinco de Mayo noon to 6 p.m., rain or shine, today at the Mexican Fiesta Gardens on Bagley (between 20th street and the I-75 Service Drive). Entertainment, and traditional Mexican cuisine await. Call (313) 842-0450 for information.

Locally, Cinco de Mayo will be celebrated at Old Mexico in West Bloomfield with live music, and piñata. The restaurant will be open 4-10 p.m. today in celebration of Cinco de Mayo. A Latin-style band will perform 7-10 p.m.

A mariachi band will play 8-10 p.m. Monday, Tim's Shrimp or Chicken Diablo made with a spicy chipotle cream sauce is a featured menu item at the West Bloomfield location, 5566 Drake Road, ■ Old Mexico, 28407 Five Mile Road, (between Inkster and Middlebelt) Livonia, (313) 421-3310, is smaller than the West Bloomfield restaurant, but offers many of the items that have made these restaurants so popular. The restaurant is open 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday; (closed Sunday).

■ Rio Bravo Cantina, 19265 Victor Parkway (at Seven Mile Road) in Livonia, (313) 542-0700 is "having a party 4-11 p.m. Monday," said Greg Spangis, one of the managers. "There will be a tent in the parking lot. We'll have live entertainment beginning at 6 p.m. with the Ron Coden Show, games and giveaways, and a jalapeno eating contest. Q95.5 FM will be there too.

■ Trini & Carmen's, 1019 Maple (between Crooks & Livernois) Clawson, (810) 280-2626, is celebrating 1-5 p.m. today with drink specials, piñata, and giveaways. Children age six and under eat free 1-5 p.m. today. On Monday there will be drink and food specials all day. Restaurant hours are 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 11 a.m. to midnight Friday-Saturday; 1-9 p.m. Sunday.

■ Plymouth Landing, 340 North Main Street, Plymouth, (313) 455-3700, is offering Mexican food specials on Monday, including a special dessert – ice cream topped apple tortillas. Lunch and dinner are served 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Wine Picks

■ Chardonnay outsells its nearest competitor cabernet sauvignon two to one. From the 1995 vintage we recommend:

Chateau St. Jean Chardonnay $13; Meridian Reserve Chardonnay, Edna Valley $15; Dry Creek Vineyard Chardonnay $17; DeLoach Sonoma Cuvee Chardonnay $14; Pine Ridge Knollside Chardonnay $19.50; Shafer Red Shoulder Ranch Chardonnay $34 – outstanding.

■ Sauvignon blanc remains one of the best buys despite escalating California wine prices. It's unbeatable with seafood.

Try: 1996 Geyser Peak Sauvignon Blanc $11; 1995 Beringer Sauvignon Blanc $10; 1995 Taft Street Sauvignon Blanc $8; 1996 Canyon Road Sauvignon Blanc $6.

■ Merlot is luxurious and luscious. From vintage 1994 we recommend: Columbia Crest Merlot $14.50; Dry Creek Vineyard Merlot $21; Pine Ridge Merlot, Carneros $31.50

■ Cabernet Sauvignon — unbeatable with grilled beef. Again from 1994, try: Turnbull Cabernet Sauvignon $24; Sterling Vineyards Cabernet Sauvignon $20; Pine Ridge Cabernet Sauvignon, Rutherford $25.50; Geyser Peak Cabernet Sauvignon $17 — exceptional value.

SPECIAL WRITERS

If you've purchased California wine recently, you've noticed that prices are up; way up for ultra-premium brands. With the dollar in a favorable ratio to the French franc currently, many French wines now appear affordable by comparison.

Choosing French wines is difficult for the uninitiated. We offer a rule we've expressed before – buy based on the importer's reputation. A few wines imported by Weygandt-Metzler have been available in this market, but there's a bevy here now. Owner Peter Weygandt was born on a farm in Illinois. He had his first taste of wine in college. Without capital, an early start in the wine business was impossible. "I went to law school so I could earn a living," he admitted.

With a law practice in Illinois, he had an opportunity to shop at Chicago's many fine wine stores and hone his palate. In 1979, Weygandt made a southeast Pennsylvania land purchase with his brother and started Stargazers Vineyard. In 1981, he moved his law practice to Pennsylvania as his interest in wine grew. In 1985, he made his first visit to France accompanied by his French-speaking wife Maria. Fermenting in the back of their heads was the idea to discover and import wine from a select number of small producers. Permit to import was granted in 1986 and the first container of 700 cases landed in 1987.

"I got lucky," Weygandt said. "Several of the wines got good reviews from Robert Parker Jr. in his Wine Advocate."

To stay in the import business, Weygandt knew he had to increase the size of his company. Today, he imports 25,000 cases of French wines only, sourced from small, personally-selected estates with productions no greater than 5,000 cases. His distribution extends to 25 states. He's his own national sales director stumping the country enthusiastically selling wines.

"In order to compete with larger import companies I have to come up with exceptional wine that is a good value," Weygandt said. In our opinion, he has done just that in his wine choices from France's Loire Valley, Burgundy, Beaujolais, Rhone, southern France, Alsace and Provence region. We recommend the following superstars from a stellar collection:

1995 Domaine Guilhem Durand $9 is a syrah from the Languedoc that's blackberry, spice and everything nice.

TRINI & CARMEN'S FAMOUS NACHO RECIPE

- 1/4 to 1/2 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup diced Spanish onions
- 1-2 cloves of fresh garlic, diced
- 1/2 teaspoon cumin
- 1/4 teaspoon ground oregano
- Salt to taste
- 1 (16 ounce) can whole tomatoes
- Nacho chips
- 8 to 16 ounces Muenster Cheese

Brown ground beef and add Spanish onions. Cook 15-20 minutes over low heat.

In blender, puree the garlic, cumin, oregano, canned tomatoes, and salt. Add this mixture to the ground beef. Cook for 5 minutes and then simmer for 20 minutes on low heat.

On a pizza pan, layer nacho chips, seasoned ground beef, cheese and any of the optional items you desire. Broil for 5 minutes to melt the cheese. Do not microwave.

CHICKEN FAJITAS

- 3 tablespoons lime juice
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon crushed hot red pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 6 skinless, boneless chicken breast halves
- 12 flour tortillas
- Guacamole, salsa, shredded lettuce, pickled jalapeno peppers, and sour cream as accompaniment.

In a large bowl, combine lime juice, garlic, oregano, hot pepper, salt, and oil. Add chicken and toss to coat. Cover and marinate 1 to 2 hours.

Prepare a hot fire in a barbecue grill. Put chicken on an oiled grill rack and grill, turning and basting with marinade several times, until chicken is white throughout, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove to cutting board.

Place tortillas directly on grill. Heat 10 to 20 seconds, turning with tongs. Wrap in a cloth napkin and place in a basket to keep warm.

Cut chicken into large strips and place on a platter. Serve with guacamole, salsa, lettuce, pickled jalapeno peppers, and sour cream for each person to roll their own. Serves 6.

GUACAMOLE

- 2 large ripe avocados
- 1/2 medium onion, finely chopped
- 1 to 2 serrano peppers, minced
- 1 tablespoon chopped cilantro
- Juice of 1 lime, about 2 tablespoons
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cut avocados in half. Remove seeds. Hold one unpeeled half in the palm of your hand and mash avocado meat with a fork right in its shell. Repeat with remaining avocado halves.

Scoop out mashed avocado into medium bowl. Add onion, serrano pepper(s), cilantro, lime juice, and salt. Mix well.

Pile into pretty bowl and place a piece of plastic wrap right on surface to retain color. Serve as soon as possible or up to 2 hours for best color and flavor. Serves 4.

For a variation, add 1 small tomato, chopped.

MEXICAN RICE

- 1 medium carrot, peeled and cut into 1/4-inch dice
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 cups long-grain white rice
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 3/4 cup canned pureed tomatoes
- 1 (14 1/2-ounce) can reduced-sodium chicken broth
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

In a small saucepan of boiling salted water, cook carrot until just tender, about 3 minutes. Drain and rinse under cold running water; drain well.

In a large saucepan, heat oil over medium heat. Add rice and cook, stirring, about 1 minute to coat with oil Stir in onion and garlic. Cook, stirring until onion is translucent, about 3 minutes.

Stir in cumin, tomatoes, chicken broth, salt, pepper, and 1 cup water. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low, cover, and cook 15 to 18 minutes, or until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. Add cooked carrot and stir gently to combine. Serves 8.

Pepperiness in the finish makes it a handsome pairing for grilled meats. In the same league and from the Corbières appellation of the Languedoc is 1994 Bousquet Grand Moulin $9.50. From the Rhone, try 1995 Chateau Mourgues du Grès, Costières de Nimes $11. It's 70 percent syrah and 30 percent grenache. If you've become fond of Rhone blends, this is a winner.

Wonderful Pacific Rim Chicken 'slow cooker'

AP — Use a slow cooker for the following recipe for Pacific Rim Chicken. The combination of sauce ingredients gives this chicken dish a wonderful flavor. The recipe is from "Skinny One-Pot Meals" by Ruth Glick (Surrey Books, $12.95).

PACIFIC RIM CHICKEN

- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1 large green bell pepper, chopped
- 4 to 5 large bone-in chicken breast halves, skin and fat removed (about 3 1/2 pounds)
- 8-ounce can crushed pineapple, including juice
- 3/4 cup defatted reduced-sodium chicken broth
- 1/4 cup dry sherry
- 2 tablespoons reduced-sodium soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon packed light

In large slow cooker, combine onion and green pepper. Arrange chicken over vegetables.

In medium bowl combine pineapple and juice, broth, sherry, soy sauce, brown sugar, vinegar, ginger, salt if desired and black pepper. Stir to mix. Pour over chicken. Cover and cook on high for 1 hour. Reduce heat to low, stir chicken into sauce and cook an additional 5 to 6 hours or until chicken is done.

Remove and reserve chicken in medium bowl. Transfer liquid and vegetables to saucepan. Quickly boil down sauce, stirring frequently, to thicken slightly. Meanwhile, slice chicken meat. Arrange rice on serving platter. Arrange chicken slices over rice. Pour sauce over all. Makes 6 servings.

Build a savory, sandwich that's hearty and healthful

Sandwiches have great potential to serve up sound nutrition: complex carbohydrates and fiber in the bread; protein and other nutrients in the filling; and lots of vitamins, minerals and fiber in the vegetable add-ons that boost flavor and crunch. So why waste your time and calories on white bread sandwiches loaded with high-fat bologna, cheese and mayonnaise? Here's a plan for building savory sandwiches that are both hearty and health:

Bread. In place of bland white bread, use whole wheat, rye, pumpernickel, or multi-grain varieties. They provide rich flavor and about two grams of fiber per slice, compared to about a half a gram in white bread. Whole wheat pita pockets provide fiber and a pouch for holding wholesome vegetable additions. Remember, not all breads that are dark in color and have healthy sounding names are high in fiber. Check the label.

Condiments. In spite of what you may have learned in childhood, you don't need mayonnaise to hold your sandwich together. A single tablespoon of mayonnaise contains 11 grams of fat, or almost twice the amount in the rest of a lean turkey breast sandwich. Opt for a fat-free or reduced fat version instead, or use naturally low-fat mustard, ketchup, salsa, or horseradish for added zing. Cranberry relish can help you enjoy Thanksgiving's celebrated combination of tart fruit and tender turkey.

Filling. Choose fresh, lean chicken or turkey (white meat) instead of fatty, processed lunch meat. If you're tired of plain poultry, try highly-flavored peppered or herb-roasted turkey breast for a new twist to your lunchtime menu. If you prefer cold cuts, look for brands labeled "low fat," since these only have three grams of fat or less per two-ounce serving. Even roast beef isn't a bad choice with only 15 percent of its calories coming from fat, compared to the 45 percent found in some hams.

Vegetables. Add crunch, taste and nutrition to your sandwiches with greens and other colorful veggies. Replace iceberg lettuce with mild Boston, romaine or red-leaf lettuce. You'll get even more intense flavor and added beta-carotene when you include shredded cabbage, watercress, arugula, escarole, radicchio, spinach, or Swiss chard. Grilled or stir-fried vegetables add an exotic flavor.

SOUTHWESTERN TURKEY POCKET FAJITAS

- 1 cup non-fat or low-fat plain yogurt
- 1 teaspoon grated lime peel
- 1 can (20 oz.) pineapple bits or pineapple chunks
- 12 oz. turkey tenderloins, cut into 1 inch cubes
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced onion
- 1 tsp. ground cumin
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- 1 medium green or red pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
- 4 (6-inch) whole wheat pita breads, cut in half crosswise to make pockets

Stir yogurt and lime peel together in a small bowl and set aside. Drain the pineapple and reserve 2 tablespoons of the juice.

Combine the reserved pineapple juice, turkey, lime juice, and onion over medium-high heat in a large, nonstick skillet for 1 minute, or until turkey is lightly browned. Add the cumin, pepper strips and pineapple and cook 2 to 3 minutes more, stirring occasionally until the vegetables are tender-crisp and the turkey is no longer pink.

Spoon the fajita mixture into the pita pockets and drizzle with the cooking sauce and yogurt sauce.

ASPARAGUS PASTA SALAD

- 1 1/4 pounds fresh Michigan asparagus or 2 cups (12 ounce) package frozen asparagus cuts and tips
- 1 cup small shell pasta
- 1/2 cup sliced carrots
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onions
- 1/4 cup chopped red sweet pepper
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon celery seeds
- 1/2 cup reduced calorie Italian dressing

Trim, wash and cut fresh asparagus into 1-inch pieces. Steam about 5 minutes until just crisp-tender. Quickly cool in ice water and drain. If using frozen asparagus, thaw, drain and cut into 1-inch pieces.

Cook pasta according to package directions. Rinse with cold water, drain and cool. Combine all ingredients. Place in airtight container. Chill thoroughly or overnight before serving. Yield 5 servings.

Recipe from Michigan Asparagus Advisory Board.

SESAME ASPARAGUS AND NOODLES

- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 2 tablespoons Oriental sesame oil
- 1/4 cup tamari soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons vegetable stock
- 2 tablespoons Chinese rice wine or dry sherry
- 1/2 teaspoon chili oil
- 1 pound linguine or vermicelli
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 teaspoon fresh minced ginger
- 1 pound asparagus, cut diagonally into 2-inch lengths
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 teaspoon tamari soy sauce
- 4 scallions, thinly sliced

Bring a large pot of water to a boil for the noodles.

Toast the sesame seeds by placing them in a small skillet over medium heat. Swirl the pan occasionally until the seeds begin to smoke and become fragrant. Immediately pour them into small bowl to cool.

Combine the sesame oil, tamari, vegetable stock, wine, and chili oil in a measuring cup and set aside. This will be the sauce for the noodles.

When the water is at a rolling boil, cook the noodles until tender yet chewy.

Heat the vegetable oil in a large skillet or wok over medium-high heat. Add the garlic and ginger and cook 1 minute. Add the asparagus and stir-fry 1 minute. Pour in the water and cover the pan. Cook until the asparagus pieces are tender, about 5 minutes.

Drain the noodles and return them to the pot. Pour on the prepared sauce and toss with tongs to coat.

Remove the cover from the asparagus. Pour on the teaspoon of tamari and the scallions and toss for 1 minute. Serve on the noodles. Serves 3 to 4.

Delight your mom with neat surprises

BY DONNA MULCAHY
SPECIAL WRITER

"It's not what you give me on Mother's Day that counts. It's how you treat me all year long."

That's what my mom says every year, when I ask her what she would like for Mother's Day. And whenever she says that, it just makes me want to get her the most expensive present I can buy, to try to make up for all of the awful things I did to her when I was growing up.

SHOPPING CENTERED

DONNA MULCAHY

But then again, I know that the best gifts don't have to cost a lot of money. They just have to come from the heart.

Mother's Day is next Sunday, May 11, so if you need help thinking of something to get your mom (or the mother of your child) then here are some ideas:

• Dirty hand prints on walls are one thing. But when a child's hand print is preserved in plaster or on paper, it can make a wonderful gift.

Botanical Science makes a product called, "Precious Hands Plaster Molding Kit," (pictured above) which produces a 3-D plaster image of a child's hand in a heart-shaped mold. According to the box, it's a 15-minute project for children 12 and under (infants, too) and adult supervision is required. I found it for $9.99 at Franks Nursery & Crafts stores.

• Non-toxic, washable ink stamp pads don't cost a lot (Frank's has some for about $3), but they can be used to make priceless gifts. Place an infant's or child's hand on the ink, then onto a piece of paper, and you have a treasured keepsake. Be sure to write the child's name and date on the paper, too. The ink washes off the skin with soap and water.

• School-age kids can give their moms coupons redeemable for chores and other such things. B. Dalton, Waldenbooks and Hallmark all sell coupon books, but why buy one when you can make your own?

(Just make sure that if you give coupons as a gift, that you're prepared to deliver. When mom tries to redeem the coupon that says you have to clean your room without complaining, don't say, 'That coupon's expired.' Just do it.)

• Give mom a necklace, pin or bracelet, featuring charms that contain the birthstones of her children. "Crystal Kids" is just one jewelry line that features birthstone charms. Its charms come in the shape of baby shoes, angels, stick people, cats and dogs. The cost for each charm ranges from $7 to $12 at JC Penney. Chains, pins and charm holders are sold separately.

• Most everyone has old photos lying about that they haven't had time to put into albums. Buy a pretty album (or more than one) for your mom, and make a date to help her organize her old photos. Bring along a tape recorder, too, to capture the family stories that go along with the photos. Hallmark has very pretty photo albums, starting at $15.

• Give your mom a memory book to record her family history and yours for future generations. Sometimes, filling out such a book can be a chore. But if you go through the book together, and use a tape recorder instead of writing the answers down then and there, it can be fun.

Two memory books to consider are: "Mom Remembers," by Judith Levy, available at B. Dalton for $15.95; and "A Mother's Recollections" by Hallmark Cards Inc., available at Hallmark stores for $12.99.

• Mother's Day week is the busiest week of the year at the Nature Nook floral shop in Westland, said Wilma Darr, a salesperson. She said blooming, potted plants that can be planted outside are big sellers for Mother's Day. Because florists are so busy this time of year, it's best to place delivery orders a week or so ahead of time.

• In my opinion, a T-shirt or sweatshirt from Northern Reflections can't be beat. It's one of my favorite stores, because the clothes there are not only pretty, but they're comfortable and hold up well, too. T-shirts start at about $15.99.

Remember to get your mom something nice for Mother's Day, but like mine always says, don't forget to treat her well all year through, too!

Retailers back schools to boost sales

Merchants see a partnership with area schools as a win-win situation for all concerned. One by one they're developing promotions that support education. The award-winning Be True To Your School program stands as a shining example.

By Susan DeMaggio
EDITOR

Mall marketers from across Michigan listened carefully as Elaine Kah from Twelve Oaks in Novi described the evolution of the successful Be True To Your School program.

The two-year-old receipts-for-education promotion has produced more than $520,000 for Michigan schools, brought the participating shopping centers a 10-percent return on their investment, and captured an Effie Award for excellence from the National Marketing Association.

Kah's presentation was part of a panel discussion hosted by the International Council of Shopping Centers on April 30 at Double Tree Suites in Southfield.

Other speakers offered tips for finding sponsors and business partners, including public relations specialist Susan Haddad, marketing specialist Cindy Ciura, and WXYZ account executive Karen Yurgalite.

Kah said Be True To Your School grew from the Taubman Co. malls' (Lakeside, Twelve Oaks, Fairlane and Briarwood) desire to reward loyal shoppers with a contribution to their community. Since education was a high priority with their core shoppers – families – a donation to local schools seemed the perfect plan.

For the program to succeed across metro-Detroit, mall marketers had to insure that dozens of communities were informed about the details and that the project's credibility was well established. Through a partnership with WXYZ-TV (noted for its support of education) emotion-tugging commercials promoting education were broadcast over 46 weeks via 399 mall-paid messages and 650 public service announcements. Radio personalities Dick Purtan and Jim Harper discussed Be True To Your School on the air, and an additional 1,500 emotional radio spots drove the program's points home.

In its first year, 35 million shoppers stopped at schoolhouse credit booths located throughout the malls to tally their receipts for the school of their choice. Shoppers raised $250,000 for learning tools like software, videos, reference materials and books.

By the second year of the program, 100 million customer receipts worth about $7.5 million, netted another $275,000 for the 3,000 shopper-chosen area schools in the program's database. (The mall contributed $1 for every $200 totaled from receipts.)

Be True To Your School was the largest marketing endeavor ever undertaken by the centers, according to Kah. It captured 60-percent of the marketing dollars the first year and 35-percent the second year.

The Taubman malls will continue the program for a third year beginning in August.

Karen Susalla, marketing director of the Birchwood Mall in Port Huron, attended the session and liked what she heard.

"We are running a similar customer loyalty program, Cash Back for Schools," she said. "But ours is on a much smaller scale because we only have 90 schools. I got some practical ideas from the speakers – they're right on about a community's concern for its schools."

Fashion benefit is a colorful affair

Emcee Sherry Margolis of Fox 2 News, reminded guests that "Service is the rent we pay for the privilege of living," and then told them they were "a roomful of people making a positive difference in the world."

On behalf of the100,000 Americans (mostly women) afflicted by MG, she thanked one and all for the funds that would support patients and their families. There is no cure for the neuromuscular disease that causes drooping eyelids, difficulty swallowing and breathing, weakness in the limbs, slurred speech and blurred vision. Treatment through medication eases symptoms.

Parisian's special events director Jane Bassett commentated the runway show which pulsated with color in everything from a royal red evening gown to the citrus brights of fun jackets and short sets.

Bassett dedicated one segment to the new designs that have been added to Parisian's collection at the request of shoppers looking for Lily Pulitzer, Eileen Fisher, Maxou and Ralph Lauren. Fashionable images from the permanent collection of the Detroit Institute of Arts were projected onto a big screen between acts.

Agnes Jacques of Farmington applauded the production, then teased "The clothes were beautiful - I just wish I was younger so I could wear them all!"

Local celebs 'work it' for the Salvation Army

Television and radio personalities will join Detroit community leaders for the ninth year as the Auxiliary to The Salvation Army presents "On Parade" at the Ritz-Carlton on Monday, May 12.

The local celebrities are joined by their families to model fashions from the Somerset Collection. The luncheon begins with a social hour at 10:45 a.m. Master of Ceremonies Gene Taylor, and Auctioneer Harry Hairston will conduct a live auction of such unusual items as a rare gold coin, jewelry, a Bed and Breakfast bridal suite, and a private lunch with a U.S. Congressman in Washington, D.C.

Then the fun begins as the amateur models walk the runway in clothing drawn from Somerset's elegant shops, coordinated by fashion director Amanda Turner.

Tickets are $40 for Friends, $75 for Benefactors.

To make a reservation(s) call Elizabeth Lee (810) 624-3126.

GUM DISEASE
As with tooth decay, the culprit behind gum disease is the harmful bacteria that reside in plaque (the sticky substance that continually accumulates on teeth). The first level of gum disease, called gingivitis, is characterized by inflamed gums (the body's response to infection) and bleeding during toothbrushing. If the disease is allowed to progress, the bacteria multiply and create products that erode healthy tissue. As as result, periodontal "pockets" are created, and teeth separate from their supporting structure. In time, if this supporting structure of gums, connective tissue, and bone is destroyed, the teeth are lost. Preventing this outcome entails professional cleaning to remove plaque and calculus (the hardened form of accumulated plaque)
The most valuable service we at LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES can provide is a thorough and complete examination. Virtually all dental problems - decay, gum disease, jaw joint difficulties, loose teeth, and oral cancer - are easily detected in their early stages and can be treated economically and comfortably at that time. We are located at 19171 Merriman Road, where we're currently accepting new patients. Please call 478-2110 to schedule an appointment. Smiles are our business.

Web Club snags student interest in the Internet

BY LEONARD POGER

TECHNOLOGY

Many universities and some public schools have their own Web sites on the Internet.

Thanks to several Westland parents, there is now a K-8 private school in this area that has its own site for computer users.

The new site was created several months ago by St. Raphael Catholic School students with the help of local parents.

Westland resident Pat Collings, who spends his working days as a Ford Motor Co. computer operator, was instrumental in getting the school online in January when he initiated the formation of a Web Club.

At first, the club at the Garden City school has had only parents meet every Tuesday night to discuss how to upgrade the school's computer usage among students.

Students will start attending the meetings in the fall as an extracurricular program with members meeting after school hours, said St. Raphael principal Judith McBride.

While Collings and other St. Raphael parents are working on the computer, its several dozen students are updating the school's Web site.

"Some 25 to 30 second-graders have had input on the Web pages," said Collings, who has two children, a kindergartner and a fourth-grader at the school, on Merriman and Beechwood. The students are from numerous communities in western Wayne County.

McBride said the Web club started in January with Collings, "who is knowledgeable about computers and wanted to start a (computer) club for students who are knowledgeable."

With parents meeting in school, "most of the (Web site) work is done by students at home," she said.

Between the parents' meetings, students with computers at home access the Web site to learn of their next assignments.

Collings said he started the club to generate interest, adding that "things (involving computers at the school) weren't going as quickly as I'd like."

"I want the technology to be as familiar to the children as the TV," Collings said.

He said a survey of students earlier this year reflected that some 60 to 65 percent of the school's students have Internet access, either through computers at home or in libraries.

Another parent, with a different reason for joining the Web Club, is Westland's Tom Ogden, a former Westland postal service supervisor and letter carrier.

"I joined the club because it's a good thing for the students and I could learn about computers, too," he said.

After retiring from the postal service, Ogden works part time as a mechanic at International Bike Shop, on Middlebelt near Ford, Garden City.

Ogden added that he works part time "to support my biking habit."

Besides drawing students into the new technology, Collings and the parents' group are planning to raise money to wire all of the school's computers to tap into different informational segments of the Internet.

The school awards prizes for students who contribute to the Web site.

There will be more prizes every week for new places on the Web to visit and the addition of new content.

Among a list of recent prizes are handmade sleeping bags for Beanie Babies.

To date, the school's second, third and seventh grades are on the Web site.

A recently added expansion is the Nobel Prize Internet Link. Some other links are just for fun.

"We screen these links to ensure that they can be fun for the whole family," said Collings in the school's newsletter.

Making a connection: St. Raphael School students, checking out a computer math program, are also active in updating the school's Web site. They are Ryan Collings (seated), Ben Ogden and Tom Grant.

Future appears bright for witches' store

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

It's been nearly four years since Gundella the Witch died but her memory and craft are part of a new shop opened by her daughter.

Veronica Kuclo-Raub uses her mother Marion's stage name in the title of her business, "Gundella's Witch Ways and Wares" located on Middlebelt south of Maplewood, Garden City.

A display in the store's front window features Gundella's table, crystal ball, iron cauldron, books and decorations. There is also a photo of Gundella — a writer and lecturer — in a bubble-filled hot tub raising a glass.

"I started doing readings in 1994. I used to go to work with Mom when I was real little," said Kuclo-Raub. "I expanded on it and was doing private parties. I don't like to drive the way my mother did. She'd drive from one end of the state to another."

So instead of driving to her customers, Kuclo-Raub decided to open a retail business where the customers would come to her.

Husband Pete Raub handled the painting and decorating of the store, transforming it from its former longtime use as a meat market.

Many people confuse witchcraft and the ancient Wicca religion which Kuclo-Raub practices with demonology and Satanism.

"I'm not into demonology and Satanism. A true witch would never harm anyone," Kuclo-Raub said. "People who think we're into devil worship aren't knowledgeable about the craft. These are three different worlds."

Since the shop opened, books have been popular sellers with titles such as "The Witches Bible," "How to Use a Ouija Board," "The Magic of Herbs," and "Easy Astral Projection."

Other merchandise ranges from candles and incense to crystal balls, Tarot cards, chalices and wishing pyramids.

"We've had some curiosity seekers but also people who are into this who are in the area. Celtics, Druids, solitary witches — a little of everyone," said Kuclo-Raub.

Not all her customers are interested in witchcraft and related topics on a serious basis but that doesn't bother Kuclo-Raub.

"It's for fun, too. Some people are very serious and don't like the novelty of it," she said. "I have more of a sense of humor. My mother had a sense of humor. Taking everything so seriously just makes you old, I think."

The store is open 1-7 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1-11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

S'craft student newspaper wins national awards

The Schoolcraft Connection, Schoolcraft College's student-produced newspaper, was honored with several awards in two separate contests for the newspaper's quality and excellence.

The Society of Professional Journalists honored Schoolcraft with a third place award in the best overall non-daily student newspaper category.

Schoolcraft competed against 20 universities from Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia and was the only community college to enter the category. Judges from the Stanford University School of Journalism and the San Francisco Society of Professional Journalists gave higher honors to only Central Michigan University and the University of Toledo publications.

Schoolcraft competed against 20 universities from Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia and was the only community college to enter the category. Judges from the Stanford University School of Journalism and the San Francisco Society of Professional Journalists gave higher honors to only Central Michigan University and the University of Toledo publications.

The SPJ evaluated nondaily publications from 20 colleges and universities, looking at elements such as writing quality, layout and design, use of photos and overall content in three consecutive issues. Connection editors picked editions in October and November.

The Connection competed with 14 other community colleges in numerous categories April 12 at the Annual Michigan Community College Press Day in Alpena. The Michigan Society of Professional Journalists judged the competition entries.

The Connection won first place awards for overall design, the editorial board's editorial writing and for advertising placement by design and layout editor Jim Naum. The publication also won second place awards for best overall newspaper, in-depth story by editor-in-chief Julia Jendrusik, and review writing by staff writer Jeremy Wells.

The Connection also received third place honors for front page design by Jim Naum; in-depth story by news editor Jared Friebel; commentary by columnist Michael Gorzen, and cartoon by staff writer Nancy Walls-Smith.

The newspaper received honorable mention awards in headline writing, commentary by managing editor Holly Palmeri, light column by staff writer Tony Lawry and sports photograph by photo editor Ryan Nunez.

The Connection publishes 13 issues a year with a staff between 20 and 25 students under adviser Sherry Springer. Staff members work an average of 10 hours a week.

The Connection's April 22 edition was the last publication until the fall semester.

Livonia-Redford Irish Unity chapter to host Gaelic activist Lucy Rice

The Livonia-Redford chapter of the Irish-American Unity Conference is co-sponsoring the visit to Detroit of Lucy Rice of Belfast, Northern Ireland.

Rice is a member of the Lower Ormeau Concerned Community, a non-political community organization.

She will be speaking at 7:30 p.m., Monday, May 5 at the Gaelic League, 2068 Michigan Avenue in Detroit.

"She will talk about what's really happening in her community, without the overwhelming British influence on information about Northern Ireland, which infringes on freedom of the press and freedom of religion," said Dan O'Rourke, who is coordinating the event.

Detroit is one of the few American cities in which Rice will be speaking on the continuing local efforts to avoid continued violence in Northern Ireland, said O'Rourke.

Rice is being sponsored by a coalition of Irish-American organizations in Detroit and the Midwest including the Oakland County Chapter of the IAUC; the Ben Franklin Press; Irish Northern Aid, the Michigan Ancient Order of Hibernians; Ladies Auxiliary Ancient Order of Hibernians; the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick; and the Knights of Equity of metropolitan Detroit.

Arts group in Garden City on the move

Innovation is key to growth as Garden City Fine Arts Association president Bob Sheridan knows all too well. Since taking the reins of the Garden City art club in the fall of 1996, Sheridan has instituted exhibiting procedure changes and arranged to sponsor classes in a space adjoining The Art Gallery in Sheridan Square, Garden City.

Founded 15 years ago, the Association accepted only two-dimensional art works for exhibits. In February the club voted to also show three-dimensional works. Sheridan will exhibit two clay sculptures in the Association's exhibit and sale May 5-10 at Garden City Public Library, 2012 Middlebelt. An opening reception and awards ceremony will take place 7 p.m. Monday, May 5. The public is invited to meet the artists, and enjoy the art works and refreshments.

"We thought the move to accept 3-D would encourage new membership," said Sheridan, a Livonia Arts Commissioner. "As far as classes, we've offered a few classes before at The Art Gallery. I expect the classes will help support the gallery."

Sheridan, owner of Sheridan Construction in Garden City, initially became interested in arts after taking classes at The Art Gallery which opened in 1989 as a cooperative of Association members exhibiting in the space. Lack of participation by artists led Sheridan, who owns Sheridan Square and donated the space, to turn the nonprofit gallery over to director Norma McQueen, then Association president, to operate for profit.

New space

The gallery will move at the end of May to a new space adjoining the old North Bros. Ford Body Shop. Sheridan thinks the large open space, on the east end of Sheridan Square, is conducive to teaching and creating three-dimensional art.

"We're excited about offering clay classes for children and adults, and eventually would like to expand to metal sculpture," said Sheridan. "We

Ralph F. Glenn thinks Americans could learn a lot from Asian art.

For the last 15 years, the Madonna University art department chairman has taught classes on Chinese and Japanese art history. Beginning May 10, Glenn will lead a six-week study of hand-painted scrolls, lacquer, bronzes, ceramics, and gardens with field trips to the Detroit Institute of Arts, Toledo Museum of Art, Greenfield Village Antiques Show, and a private Chinese garden in West Bloomfield.

"Asian art tells us a lot about the people because these art forms are what they treasured," said Glenn, a Bloomfield Hills resident who earned a master's degree in Asian art history from Harvard University. "We can learn a great deal of patience because to make works like these hand scrolls took a lot of patience, and also perseverance. They had to work at developing these skills. They start as children to work with calligraphy. The strokes are similar to what's used in their paintings. You can see the tie-in with their written language and visual language of their paintings."

Glenn's Asian art class is but one activity taking place during May. In recognition of Asian-American month, the Detroit Institute of Arts will host a series of programs Sunday, May 18. The event also celebrates International Museum Day by offering free admission to the DIA.

Artist Xuan YongSheng will demonstrate the traditional Chinese art of paper-cut design noon to 2 p.m. in Prentis Court. Born in Shanghai, YongSheng took advanced studies at Central Arts and Crafts University in Beijing, the highest art institute in China. Six years ago, he immigrated to Saskatchewan then to Windsor where he opened an art gallery and crafts store as one of his many dreams to present his art works to all North America.

Paper-cut goes back to ancient times in China. The oldest excavated paper-cut dates back to 6 A.D. near the end of the Han Dynasty. In China, paper-cut is mostly considered folk art, a family craft passed from generation to generation and used in religious ceremonies, weddings, birthday celebrations, and funeral rites. Windows, doors, furniture, everyday objects, and foodstuffs are decorated with brightly-colored paper-cuts during New Year festivities. On these occasions, the designs carry well wishes for longevity, peace, good fortune, and a full and happy life.

After watching YongSheng create designs, make your own paper-cuts at a drop-in workshop noon to 4 p.m. in the DIA studio.

"It's kind of a fun family activity," said Amelia Chau of the DIA's Asian art department. "We'll have simple designs people can trace. Hopefully, people will get a sense that Chinese art is approachable, and that paper-cut is a tradition prevalent in a country half way around the world. I'm sure everyone has seen or done paper-cut. Paper-cut is very much a living art and still goes on everyday in China."

Free bus service will run between the DIA and Eastern Market where it's flower day. From 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., a tent staffed by the DIA's Founders Society, will offer membership information, a contest to win airline tickets, and shopping sprees in DIA Museum Shops, and the opportunity to experience art first hand by making sun prints from the day's flower purchases.

This is the third year for the joint event by the DIA and Eastern Market Merchants Association. According to Edward Podorsek, Founders Society members' acquisition coordinator, 100,000 to 125,000 people will visit Eastern Market on Flower Day. The purpose of the DIA tent is to spread awareness about the museum and what it offers.

"We decided to take two historical institutions within five minutes of each other and bring them together," said Podorsek. "Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer is graciously loaning the buses and drivers. The day is an outreach for the museum which is the fifth largest in the nation."

A lecture by UM-Dearborn art history professor Susan Erickson on the DIA's recently acquired Money Tree (25-220 A.D.), "You Can Take It with You: Han Dynasty Money Trees," takes place 2 p.m. in the DIA Lecture Hall with sign-language interpretation.

Money Trees were found in the tombs of western China where their presence insured the needs of the dead would be met in the heavenly realm. Very few Money Trees survive intact today because of their age and fine open work bronze designs. Only, two complete trees are known to exist in the People's Republic of China. The DIA's Money Tree, from historical, stylistic and scientific analysis, has been determined to be a composite of five Eastern Han Dynasty trees, with some restoration.

The daylong program concludes with storyteller Barbara Schutz-Gruber at 3:30 p.m. in the DIA's Chinese Gallery. Schutz-Gruber tells the tale of Lao Lao of Dragon Mountain, an old woman who was an expert at creating Chinese paper-cut designs.

'Goddess' works at being a diva

BY HUGH GALLAGHER

See "Master Class" review inside

"I'm not a diva. I'm a hardworking actress and mother."

Faye Dunaway was comparing herself to the late opera diva Maria Callas whom she portrays in Terrence McNally's "Master Class" at the Fisher Theatre.

But the word diva is derived from the word for "goddess" and certainly judging by the media foot traffic, enough to wear holes through the Townsend Hotel's plush carpeting, Dunaway is a Hollywood goddess staying briefly in Birmingham.

The other implied meanings for "diva" – temperamental, demanding, difficult – were nowhere in evidence. The goddess was warm, vivacious and generous with her time in one interview after another, a professional just doing her job.

Long, elegant, dressed in a light brown pantsuit and silk blouse, Dunaway at 56, her face still defined by those classic high cheekbones, belies the 30-plus years of movie stardom that took off with a percussive explosion of bullets in 1967's landmark "Bonnie and Clyde."

She is in the middle of a yearlong tour of McNally's Tony Award-winning play, for which she has purchased film rights. In it she plays Callas at the end of her career in 1971, her magnificent voice gone, teaching master classes in singing at the Julliard Music School in New York.

"This play is about what it takes – what she did, she changed an art form," Dunaway said, leaning forward on the couch in a suite set up for the one-on-one interviews. Frequently she would rise and gesture, emphasizing the points she was making with sweeping hand gestures.

"Also what it takes to do what any of us does – attention to detail, working through disappointments, which we all have, which she certainly had with her relationship with Onassis."

Legendary role: Academy Award-winner Faye Dunaway stars as Maria Callas in Master Class.

The play is one of the few bonafide non-musical hits on Broadway and one of the few non-musical touring productions. Dunaway attributes it to a growing interest in opera, especially since Tom Hanks' swooning interpretation of a Callas aria in "Philadelphia."

Dunaway, like Callas, has a "reputation" for being demanding and exacting. She has thrown herself thoroughly into understanding the late singer and

The Visual Arts Association of Livonia has annually showcased the best art produced by students enrolled in its classes since the 1970s. This year, works by 31 artists reflect the types of mediums taught in a vibrantly colored exhibit of painting, pastel, colored pencil, collage, and mixed media at Livonia City Hall.

Madonna University art professor Doug Semivan, who judged the competition, accepted 78 works from 97 entries, and awarded 19 honors and a total of $400 in prizes.

"Thinking back to the early 1980s, it was a smaller show with a lot more oils," said Audrey Harkins, an exhibitor in VAAL shows since 1981.

"There weren't that many watercolor classes back then," explained Billie Thompson, VAAL's education program director. "Now, we offer several."

Thompson estimates that 75 to 80 percent of the works showcased in VAAL's Spring Art Exhibit were done in watercolor. Many of paintings resulted from classes in the medium with teachers Edee Joppich and Donna Vogelheim.

Thompson is a longtime advocate of art education. The Livonia resident began taking classes in Farmington School's adult education program more than 20 years ago. Watercolor classes with Farmington Hills

Dunaway commands 'Master Class'

STAFF WRITER

Near the beginning of Terrence McNally's "Master Class," opera diva Maria Callas looks out upon her group of student singers and points to one.

"You don't have a look. Get one!"

Faye Dunaway has a look, a presence, a style that holds an audience in a way that closely approximates the way Callas once held opera audiences in the 1950s. Dunaway brings fire, wit and a building sadness to her portrayal of the singer who lost her voice, a voice hailed by many as the greatest soprano of the 20th century.

McNally's play is simply set on a rehearsal stage at Juilliard where Callas taught singing classes in 1971-72. The Fisher Theater becomes the small auditorium and the audience members of the class.

McNally takes Callas as a standard for artistic integrity, dedication and perseverance. When Callas teaches, she is abrupt, rude, often denigrating but all in the name of art and a "higher purpose." But McNally also reveals other aspects of Callas, a huge ego, a self-absorption and a tragic, driven history.

Master Class

Where: Fisher Theatre, Fisher Building, Detroit on Grand Boulevard.

When: 8 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 7:30 p.m. Sunday evenings, 2 p.m. matinees Saturday and Sunday through May 18.

Tickets available at Fisher Theatre Box Office and all Ticketmaster outlets, call (810) 645-6666. For information, call (313) 872-1000.

The lead part almost demands an acting diva who can immediately command the stage. Dunaway brings that presence but also a sly sense of humor and a subtlety of expression that reaches deep when it becomes clear that the teacher can no longer perform.

Though McNally's concerns are serious, the play is often funny, especially as it plays on our expectations of star egomania. At one point when a student brings up Callas' rival Joan Sutherland, the star says she does not engage in these "petty rivalries" and run down other singers, after all Sutherland "did her best." Dunaway delivers this line with just the right mix of pity and scorn.

"Master Class" is not a one-person show. Melinda Klump, Suzan Hanson and Kevin Paul Anderson are the students. The first lacks presence, the second courage and the third dedication to the art. Hanson and Anderson are fine singers who act as painful remindors that Callas had lost her gift.

Gary Green is amusing as the sympathetic accompanist as is Scott Davidson as a stagehand (who Callas dismisses as one of those "little people" who will never appreciate art).

McNally balances the "class" and Callas' brilliant insights into music and the "singing actor's" art with painful interludes about Callas' life. The singer rose from poverty and deprivation to worldwide acclaim, honored for a technical artistry and a dramatic styling unequaled in this century. A nice lighting effect takes the audience to La Scala, where Callas finds herself the undisputed queen of the opera world.

But she was a flame that burned too quickly before her voice gave out only 10 years into her career and she became more famous (infamous) as a tabloid subject, mistress to Aristotle Onassis abandoned for Jackie Kennedy.

Here Dunaway gets to play both the depressingly submissive Callas and the blustery, vulgar shipping tycoon. It is also here that Dunaway's performance reaches operatic heights.

McNally's play as realized by director Leonard Foglia is a toast to artistry, and Dunaway is an artist who learned those lessons well.

her tragic life.

"She's tough, not a coddler, not a sweetheart," Dunaway said.

"You have to be tough at first so when the audience sees what's underneath, it has more impact. The way the play is built, Callas is like that. It's true to who she was, very demanding."

Dunaway did her research. She learned about the opera world, watched videotapes of Callas, studied her mannerisms and her speaking voice.

"Even if this were an invented character I would talk to opera singers to find out about their lives," she said. "You have to nail her and I haven't done it yet. I recently found some new things I'm trying."

She said she was originally "saddled" with an accent that didn't seem to work for American-born Greek singer.

"When she's low or blue or at the end of the class where she really said the things Terry has her say, it's a different voice, lower, more guttural. I've tried to do that, show the emotional stress," she said.

Dunaway has stepped into a role that was originally created on Broadway by Zoe Caldwell, who won rave reviews and a Tony for her performance. She said when she decided to do the play she avoided seeing Caldwell in the production. But after opening in Boston, she drew on Caldwell as yet another resource.

"Zoe is a wonderful actress. I went to see her and sat down with her and asked her to tell me everything she knows," she said. "There's a lot to learn from it, she was with Terrence when she did it."

After all, Dunaway said, many actresses, including herself, have portrayed Blanche in "Streetcar Named Desire," each adding something new to the interpretation.

This opportunity to build a character over a period of time is what separates stage acting from film acting for Dunaway. She offers this aphorism: "Stage puts it in, film takes it out." She has told interviewers she likes to go back to the stage to work on her technique. She was last on the stage 10 years ago.

But stage work can also be demanding when you play the same role over and over again for months. Dunaway says she's far from that point with "Master Class" where she is learning something new all the time.

She advises young actors to avoid Hollywood and go to New York to learn how to act.

She followed that course, playing support roles on the New York stage until landing the lead in William Alfred's "Hogan's Goat" (still her favorite stage role). That took her to Hollywood where her third film was the charm, "Bonnie and Clyde."

The Arthur Penn film was a controversial blockbuster for which Dunaway received the first of three Oscar nominations (she won in 1976 for "Network").

"You know how hard and well you're working and that it's true, original and funny. It was my third movie and it just took off," she said.

Her favorite films are the same films that have made her a major star: "The Thomas Crown Affair," "Chinatown," "Three Days of the Condor."

Now after a career that few of her contemporaries can boast, Dunaway finds herself in that "older actress" category. She has decided to take the reins into her own hands. She produced "Cold Sassy Tree" for television and will produce the film of "Master Class." She is also interested in directing.

She is even willing to take small parts. She appeared in the recent television version of "Rebecca" as a favor to her friend Diana Rigg (who played the sinister Mrs. Danvers). Casting the glamorous Dunaway is a role played by a stout matron in the Hitchcock version gave the part a whole different twist.

"It was hard, I thought, what am I going to do with this, so it had to be an ex-showgirl kind of thing," she said, laughing and adding that she has a tape of the show and is looking forward to seeing how it came out.

Dunaway has found something of a soul mate in Maria Callas, even as she denies being a diva herself.

"We have stuff in common. Big careers, both hungry girls me southern, she Greek. We elevated our work to art; she certainly did and I hope I have," she said.

"Master Class" continues at the Fisher through May 18.

artist Edee Joppich from 1979 to 1988 convinced Thompson watercolor was the medium for her. An active member of the arts community, Thompson was appointed to the Livonia Arts Commission by Mayor Jack Kirksey 10 months ago. She continues to take classes and exhibit in VAAL shows.

"The exhibit helps to support and promote VAAL," said Thompson, "and that's what it's all about."

Elbert Weber, a retired Ford Motor Co. clay modeler, continues to take classes and workshops offered by VAAL at the Jefferson Center in Livonia. In addition to advancing knowledge of the creative arts by offering studio classes, VAAL spotlights member and student works like Weber's in the annual juried exhibit. Weber won Second and Third Place in watercolor at VAAL's Spring Art Show.

"As artists we have to exhibit. It's very competitive, an ego thing," said Elbert Weber, the Second and Third Place winner in watercolor.

VAAL was established in 1975 as a subgroup of the Livonia Arts Commission, formed in 1974 when former Mayor Edward McNamara appointed 15 Livonia residents to the board. As a subgroup of the Commission, VAAL received financial support from the arts commission which is funded by the City of Livonia.

Jo Griffing served on the Livonia Arts Commission in the 1970s when VAAL was founded to bring art and culture to the citizens.

"The idea for VAAL was we wanted to teach classes and educate people about art and promote the art," said Griffing.

After VAAL became an independent nonprofit organization in 1983, the commission continued for a few years to provide $1,000 yearly towards the rental of the room at the Jefferson Center. Today, VAAL struggles to pay more than $500 a month in rent. Class fees and membership dues barely cover the expense.

"It makes it tough with no backing. There were times we thought VAAL was going down the tubes and we didn't know if we'd make it from month to month," said Harkins, a board member for the last 15 years. "We had less money coming in than going out. It was the quality of the instruction that sustained VAAL. Instructors have a following of students who come back year after year."

Ideally, VAAL members would like to acquire a building which could be used as an arts center.

"We'd like to be able to have a building for classes," said Thompson.

Griffing suggested local theater guilds and art groups unite to purchase the vacant George Burns Theater on Plymouth and Farmington Roads.

"We'd like to combine with the performing arts," said Griffing. "It's not an impossible dream. Other groups like the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association have developed arts centers."

In addition to funding and finding a building to house classes, VAAL shares the same problem as other nonprofit organizations: lack of volunteers.

"Volunteers get burned out and resign," said Griffing of Livonia. "It's an ongoing problem with the arts."

Thompson agrees with Griffing about the need to continuously attract new volunteers.

"You need a steady influx of volunteers because you do get burned out," added Thompson.

Membership in VAAL is open to anyone interested in the arts. Annual dues are $20 per year. Classes begin June 8 are open to the general public. Members receive a discount on fees.

For information on classes or joining VAAL, call Billie Thompson at (313) 427-9767.

want to get children interested in art early, and they always seem to do well in clay."

Beginning June 5, classes will be taught by Carol Taft, a Northville arts commissioner and former Center for Creative Studies instructor.

Members are pulling together to help fund classes and other Association projects by holding a garage sale 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 16-17 in Sheridan Square. For more information on the classes or garage sale, call Norma McQueen, (313) 261-0379.

Friends Forever

Shekinah Errington joined the Association in September. A commercial artist working on a Macintosh computer for the University of Michigan College of Engineering by day, Errington will display pastels and a clay bust at the Exhibit and Sale. She began taking portrait classes with Lin Baum at Schoolcraft College three years ago. One of the pieces Errington will enter pays tribute to her late mother.

Errington, who lives in Garden City, thrives on the camaraderie between club members.

"The Garden City Fine Arts Association is really folksy. It's open to everyone from novice to professional. No one is judgmental and speakers are informative," she said.

Sonja Walther joined the Association five years ago. A bookkeeper for Sheridan Construction, Walther will enter a three-dimensional clay fish sculpture.

"I like the club because of the people, I've met," said Walther. "I do art for pleasure not for monetary reasons. It's something, I enjoy."

Hours for the library exhibit are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. The library is closed Fridays.

HFCC choir and dancers team up for concert

Henry Ford Community College Showchoir and Full Circle Dance Company take to the stage for a spring show 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 9-10 in the MacKenzie Fine Arts Center auditorium, 5101 Evergreen Road in Dearborn.

Tickets are $7 for adults, $5 students and seniors, and will be available at the door or in advance by calling Diane Mancinelli, (313) 845-6474.

Songs and dances spotlighted in the performance include a Disney medley with favorite tune such as "Beauty and the Beast," "Be Our Guest," "Belle," "Arabian Nights," "Kiss the Girls," and "A Whole New World." A Broadway medley will showcase songs like "On Broadway," "Cabaret" and "Day by Day." Other numbers on the program are "We Go Together," from the musical "Grease," "Jailhouse Rock" by Elvis Presley and "Varsity Drag" from the musical "Good News." The Full Circle Dance Company, directed by Diane Mancinelli, includes Michelle Foster of Garden City.

1st novel a swimming success

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

Swimming across the Hudson River to find spiritual refuge along the New Jersey shore might be physically challenging, but as a literary metaphor for a first novel, readers can only wonder: "Jersey?" It sure ain't the glorious northern California hills. Not even the open Texan frontier.

Yet Ann Arbor's Joshua Henkin has appropriately found the coming-of-age metaphor for all those who once found wisdom in the land that inspired Springsteen's anthems "Born to Run" and "Thunder Road."

Henkin's "Swimming Across the Hudson" offers plenty of evidence that he's made it through initiation as a first-time novelist. And by most accounts, the road ahead appears bright.

Typically, in first novels, writers feel compelled to write stories about the search for identity. Apparently, the freedom of dangling in the literary ocean inspires deep reflection. Thus, the life raft of questions, such as: Who am I? What is my past? Do I have anything to say?

Henkin doesn't fail to meet these challenges. In Ben Suskind, the early 30s male protagonist, Henkin explores faith, sexuality and the source of God's devilish wit – family.

Ben and his brother, Jonathan, were adopted by orthodox Jewish parents. Growing up, they often wondered about their biological parents. And like most adolescents searching for individuality, they created identities of their own modeled after celebrities.

Henkin writes: "We knew the words to all of Springsteen's songs. We cut out articles about him. He was from New Jersey, where everyone had sex. We couldn't imagine he had any rules at all, or that he even had parents. . . . We sat in the living room listening to him, staring across the Hudson at New Jersey. We'll swim there."

Now both in their 30s with Ben living with his girlfriend and Jonathan with his boyfriend, the adolescent refuge of living life as a song proves to be inadequate. Ben seeks real answers. Unexpectedly, his birth mother contacts him. Before long, Ben is searching relentlessly through family records to discover his real identity. Along the way, he comes across the lies told by well-intentioned people.

Eventually, Ben discovers that families are paradoxical: a place to seek comfort, and a world of anxiety and unmet expectations. He writes: "You love your family; you stand on the picket line for the rest of the world."

Most impressively, Henkin's prose is clear and well-manured. His ability to develop a scene through implication shows signs of a writer coming into his own. While his intellectual depth and sensitivity are unquestionable, his tendency to fade into the distance of objectivity can appear hollow.

It seems that Henkin has chosen more of an intellectual drama than a emotional ride through the morass of memories and feelings. For instance, he's more likely to explain intellectual habits (a father who reads the Times-Literary Supplement, and a mother who reads The New Yorker) than reveal a character's idiosyncratic behavior and emotional landscape.

Yet this is hardly serious criticism. Again and again, Henkin proves that he has all the tools to take on major themes. And so, too, have reviewers. For the most part, "Swimming Across the Hudson" has been reviewed favorably in Publishers Weekly, The Washington Post, The LA Times, Chicago Tribute and The New York Times Book Review.

Like others of his generation, Henkin proves that it's time to move on from a self-induced protracted adolescence. Find answers to tough questions. Perhaps with questions of identity out of the way, it might be time to be comfortable with who you are.

University Musical Society series tickets on sale now

The University Musical Society has announced its 1997/98 season featuring 62 performances by 45 artists in seven Ann Arbor venues. The 1997/98 season is the Musical Society's 119th season of concert presentations, making it one of the oldest performing arts organizations in the country.

Series tickets, which range in price from $30 to $465, are on sale now until Aug. 1 at the University Musical Society box office, Burton Memorial Tower, 230 South Ingalls, Ann Arbor. Box office hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, until 1 p.m. Saturday. Call (313) 764-2538.

University Musical Society subscribers save up to 20 percent off the individual ticket price when purchasing a package of concerts and also enjoy a variety of special privileges including discounts at Ann Arbor restaurants and music stores. All subscribers who purchase series tickets on or before Monday, June 30 will be eligible for a drawing for up to $500 worth of concert tickets, dinners and parking vouchers.

The 1997/98 season features 62 performances in 15 series including such series as the Choral Union and Chamber Arts; relatively new favorites like Jazz Directions, Moving Truths Dance, Divine Expressions (choral music), Family, African American Stories, the Song Recital series, and several new series consisting of the first year of a popular three-year series called Beethoven and Contemporary, which features the complete piano sonatas and string quartets of Beethoven interspersed with the music of contemporary American composers.

In addition to the concerts on the 15 series, the University Musical Society will present two special performances, which are currently available to subscribers only. The first features violinist Nadja Salerno-Sonnenberg performing Tchaikovsky's "Violin Concerto" with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Christoph Eschenbach Friday, Sept. 26 in Hill Auditorium. The second, a program called "Marsalis/Stravinsky" features a world premiere by Wynton Marsalis, scored for the same instrumentation as Stravinsky's "L'histoire du Soldat," which will also be performed on the program. The "Marsalis/Stravinsky" concert takes place Friday, April 24 in Rackham Auditorium. Subscribers are limited to four tickets for the Chicago Symphony/Salerno-Sonnenberg concert, and two tickets to the "Marsalis/Stravinsky" concert.

Following up on the growth of the University Musical Society education and audience development program, the Society will again present an array of educational activities and artist residencies including the popular Performance-Related Educational Presentations, the Master of Arts interview program, post-performance meet-the-artist opportunities and five youth performances for students of all ages in the Ann Arbor Public Schools and throughout Michigan.

Teachers are encouraged to call the University Musical Society education department to be added to the youth performance mailing list, (313) 764-9187.

The Clarion Woodwind Trio, featuring oboe, clarinet and bassoon, will perform selections from baroque to modern.

Art exhibits on the library's second floor are open to the public before and after concerts. For more information call 421-7338.

CALL FOR PERFORMERS

Groups or individuals who would like to perform at the Ann Arbor Art Fairs should send a tape, compact disc or video, and pertinent support material to the Michigan Guild by May 15.

The Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, and the State Street Area Art Fair, sponsors of the events collectively known as the Ann Arbor Art Fairs, will have eight performing areas at the 1997 art fairs. These areas include acoustical and amplified performing areas. This year's fair is July 16-19 and attracts up to 500,000 visitors to Ann Arbor over the four days.

For support materials include contact name and phone number, address, three sentence description of performers, times or days performers cannot perform, and number of times preferred to perform at the fair.

OPENING RECEPTION

Historic Trinity Church will host its 11th annual Ecclesiastical Art Exhibit May 16 to June 1. An invitational, the exhibit runs 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and before and after church events.

An opening reception and awards presentation will be held 7 p.m. Friday, May 16. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Sergio De Giusti of Redford; Kris Azelis Lamb, West Bloomfield, and Michelle McArthur, Lake Orion are among the exhibiting sculptors and painters.

The exhibit features many of America's best ecclesiastical artists which the Trinity Arts Committee has invited back. Mediums include painting, sculpture, wood carving, print making, pottery, fiber art, stained glass, and photography. Most of the pieces displayed will also be for sale. Juror for this year's exhibit is Marion Jackson, chairman of the art and art history department at Wayne State University.

"We want to revive the historical role of the church as a patron of the arts," said pastor Rev. David Eberhard. "Religious art has gotten a bad rap in our modern, secularized society. There are still many fine artists working in relative obscurity who do exciting work in ecclesiastical themes that cannot get their work shown in any public galleries. This is the art we want to bring to Detroit, to Historic Trinity."

As the inspiration for the Trinity Arts program, Historic Trinity's pier and clerestory gothic sanctuary will be open for viewing throughout the exhibit.

Historic Trinity is at 1345 Gratiot Avenue between Russell and I-375 near Detroit's Eastern Market. For more information call the church office at (313) 567-3100.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Young musicians can perform with a professional string orchestra during Schoolcraft College's Summer Music School. The school, which is for older elementary through high school students, is divided into two week sessions. July 14-25 features solo piano and piano duets instruction. July 28 to Aug. 8, the focus is on chamber music and piano concerto performance with the live orchestra.

The cost is $245 for a two-week term. For information or to schedule an audition time, contact Donald Morelock, (313) 462-4400, ext. 5218.

Artists and fans flock to Birmingham May 10-11 for art fair

Birmingham Art Fair
When: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, May 10; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, May 11
Where: Two locations – Shain Park on Henrietta and Merrill Streets, downtown Birmingham; and, along N. Woodward, between Maple and Ring Street.
Types of art: Wearable fibers, pottery, jewelry, glass, wood, paintings, graphics, garden sculptures and more.
Events: Children's booth on Merrill Street; pottery wheel demonstration; Birmingham-Bloomfield Flower Sale (on Woodward). For information, call (810) 644-0866

Maybe this year, the white flakes fluttering through the air at the Birmingham Art Fair actually will be dogwood blossoms instead of frozen precipitation. Then again, this is Michigan where predicting the weather rates up there with picking winning Lotto numbers.

Despite Michigan's temperamental climate, the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association will deliver their annual outdoor art fair May 10-11. In the tradition of the U.S. Postal Service and P.T. Barnum, the show will go on regardless of rain, snow, sleet – and hopefully, amid sunshine.

Poised at the brink of the summer art fair season, the Birmingham Art Fair is a popular barometer to signal the beginning of warm breezes, sticky humidity, and extended daylight. This year's event also marks the initial step in building a sprawling art fair that may consume the entire downtown area within the next few years. If all goes well, sponsors predict the Birmingham Art Fair could soon develop into a smaller version of that other mid-July art fair in a college town to the west.

Now in its 16 year, the art fair that began in a BBAA classroom and moved outdoors to Shain Park in the early 1980s is undergoing unprecedented expansion. Apparently, the broad focus goes beyond just adding more artists to the quality art fair, rated among the top 200 in the country by "Sunshine Artist." In the future, sponsors anticipate that the two-day art fair will serve as a magnet for art collectors and shoppers alike.

This year's event with a range of 245 artists is the first major outdoor art fair in the region. To make room for more than one-third additional artists booths from last year, the fair will expand from Shain Park, and also be located along Woodward Avenue, north of Maple. Sixty-five artist booths along Woodward will be overseen by volunteers from the Birmingham Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce, first-time cosponsors of the art fair. More than 50,000 are expected to crowd the downtown Birmingham streets over two days. That figure could increase dramatically with rising temperatures and clear skies

Kirk Gibson hits another home run

BY MEGAN SWOYER
SPECIAL WRITER

It was Kirk Gibson-mania at the media preview of the former Tiger's latest big hit, his new book "Bottom of the Ninth." Dozens of Gibson fans, Spartans, baseball greats, media celebs, Gibson family members and more turned out at Detroit's Rattlesnake Club in late April (just a pop fly from Gibby's Grosse Pointe home) to congratulate the big hitter (and former Waterford High star athlete) on his beautiful, picture-filled book.

Baseball greats (Alan Trammel, Sparky Anderson, Tommy Lasorda), media celebs (WJR radio's Ken Calvert, Paul W. Smith and producer Mike Shiels; Michigan Living editor Ron Garbinski, celebrated photographer Carl Sams) turned out to shake the hand of one of the Tiger's biggest hitters, especially in the ninth inning, thus the name of Gibson's story.

Following a short thank-you speech from Gibson about the many people who helped with the colorful, over-sized, coffee-table book (written with sportswriter Lynn Henning and published by Brian Lewis' Chelsea-based Sleeping Bear Press) and who inspired him (his family, including his parents, sisters and wife JoAnn and three sons and a daughter; his coaches, etc.) the lights dimmed for the showing of a big-screen video of Gibson's greatest moments. Attendees got goosebumps as they watched the replay of one of baseball's greatest championship moments when he knocked the ball out the ballpark in the 1984 World Series game.

"Bottom of the Ninth" covers everything from his birth, his days growing up in Waterford, until his last at-bat against the Texas rangers.

"I struck out. I said to myself at the moment I went down, 'You were humbled coming in, you're humbled going out. Perfect!'"

The giant of baseball, who came into the world at "ten pounds, one ounce, and was just under two feet in length," reflects on some poignant times in his 160-page memoir. His rocky relationship with the media is addressed and even at the book party, Gibson still asks for forgiveness.

"I was a jerk, I know that," the still-in-great-shape Tiger told the attendees. He also told the crowd how he always refused to accept defeat, even in his darkest hours.

"It's more than a sports story," he said about the book. In fact, Gibson told Michigan Living editor Ron Garbinski that he hopes children will find some inspiration thumbing through its pages. It was Gibson who, although lightly recruited following high school, used his discipline and work standards to create "storybook finishes."

Every kid can learn from that.

VICTORIA DIAZ

"Hunting a Detroit Tiger," by Troy Soos (Kensington, $18.95, 346 pp.)

No, this is not one of those "books of humor." Neither is it an anthology from the pages of "Field & Stream." And, though baseball figures in it considerably, it's not really a baseball book, either.

This rather oddly titled volume is a plain, simple, old-fashioned whodunit. In the beginning, a killing occurs; then, provided with clues (and red herrings) along the way, we as readers get the chance to figure out who did the killing.

Sound like fun? It is – mostly.

The time is 1920, the scene is Detroit, and Mickey Rawlings is a scrappy utility infielder for the Tigers. (Some readers may already know Rawlings from Soos' previous mysteries, "Murder at Fenway Park," "Murder at Ebbets Field," and "Murder at Wrigley Field.") Just returned from the "Great War," he is struggling to make his mark among teammates like Ty Cobb and Dutch Leonard, when suddenly he's wrongly accused of killing an ex-player suspected of union organizing. Oddly, the cops insist that Rawlings acted in self-defense. But the ballplayer knows he didn't shoot anybody under any circumstances at the IWW meeting hall that night.

So, what's an All-American guy to do but track down the real killer in order to set things straight? In the meantime, Mickey's in hot water with his teammates, team owners and union activists – plus he's in love, and the Tigers are in the cellar.

The book draws a bead on this time and place like few other mystery novels – in fact, it's simply a gem in this department. A faint whiff of industrial smoke and machine oil seems to rise from these pages, along with the scent of a greasy spoon or two, and the redolence of the locker rooms at Michigan and Trumbull.

Rawlings lives in a grungy little walk-up, above a hat shop on Grand River. He makes his living at that "jewel of a ballpark," Navin Field. Prohibition has just kicked in, and when he orders a Stroh's, he gets a bottle of pop. The Feds are accusing Detroit's finest of taking bootleggers' bribes, while Mayor James Couzens contends the police are pure as the driven snow. When Rawlings hops a cab, it's a black Model T Ford (as is almost every other car in the city). A new worsted suit sets him back 50 dollars. For his favorite three-egg breakfast (with pancakes on the side) at a place called Kelsey's, he has to shell out 15 cents.

Countless workers are on strike everywhere, and Washington is claiming that unionists are about to attempt a takeover of the entire country.

Soos' eclectic collection of players makes a winning team – although some sparkle more than others. Whether trying to get on the good side of the mean-spirited Ty Cobb, gazing down the wrong end of a sawed-off shotgun, or sharing an ice cream cone with the love of his life, he has a kind of subtle,unpretentious charm that creeps up on you. He and spirited sweetheart/sidekick Margie Turner make a can't-miss detecting duo. (Margie, definitely a '90s woman living in the '20s, is a former movie actress, now wrestling lions and alligators as part of her vaudeville act, and marching for suffrage despite a limp obtained when she fell from a camel while making a film.)

Also adding to the mystery is the black-suited, Moxie-swilling radical, Karl Landfors, "one of those serious guys who probably skipped childhood. His aging process has been further accelerated by three years on the front lines ... as a war correspondent and ... ambulance driver."

A blackslapping-backstabbing union buster named Hub Donner plays a particularly meaty role. Mighty proud of all those scars and bullet wounds crisscrossing his scalp (and obtained "on the job"), he's a devoted careerist when it comes to folks like "Mr. Ford" and the penny-pinching Navin. He's an especially unnerving villain, since he's got brains to go along with a lot of his Erich von Stroheimish brawn.

Solutions, explanations and wrapups at the mystery's conclusion turn a bit tiresome and tedious, making things feel like a pitcher's battle mired in too many innings. Some readers may find themselves wishing Soos had ended his otherwise-gripping story not just more quickly, but with more finesse.

Overall, though, the author's strong sense of place, along with his colorful team of players make up for the occasional problems with pacing. Add a filigreed plot, plus Soos intriguing knack for interweaving historical fact with fiction, and real-life characters with his own fictitious creations, and you've come up with a winning combination.

Priest shares 'Joey's' story to give parents hope

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Joseph Dellaratta who died in a car accident three years ago this July, was the kind of kid that would make some parents want to tear their hair out. He was a handsome, talented musician who struggled through school and drug addiction, yet enjoyed a close relationship with God.

Joey's story is one of hope and faith, inspiring no matter what your religion.

"Joey was a beautiful person. He had a lot of friends," said the Rev. Joseph F. Girzone who writes about their bittersweet, lifelong relationship in "Joey: The True Story of One Boy's Relationship with God," (Doubleday, copyright 1997, $18.95).

Girzone wrote "Joey" to inspire young people, and to help their parents. "So many people are profoundly affected, they see themselves in Joey," said Girzone. "It gives them hope. It has touched people I didn't expect – people who don't have children."

Joey was named after Girzone who met the family while he was a priest at Our Lady of Mount Caramel Church in Schenectady, N.Y. Richard's parents Pete and Angie lived two doors from the rectory. They became like a second family to him.

Joey's death at age 25 was a shock. He was off drugs, and getting his life back on track. His car accident happened on the way home from performing with a band at a wedding. "The state troopers estimated that the car was not going fast, but Joe must have seen a deer crosing the highway because the car swerved sharply to the right as if trying to avoid hitting something, then went off the road and hit a tree," writes Girzone. "Joe was killed immediately."

Girzone hopes Joey's story will comfort parents "who are really worried about their kids," and young peopl struggling through adolescence and young adulthood.

"Be willing to listen and be there for your child," said Girzone. "Be a friend to your kid, not a disciplinarian. Respect differences, don't be rigid."

Although he was close to God, life was not easy for Joey. He failed a lot, but never quit trying. "Joey expressed a real, beautiful love for Jesus at a young age," said Girzone. "But he was not a holy kid, he could be a holy terror at times. It was nothing mean or nasty, he was a playful guy. Once he was in the principal's office and took all the detention slips; he just walked away with them."

Joey excelled in music, but struggled with other subjects making only passing grades. After graduating from high school, he was one of two trumpet players accepted into the Julliard School of Music in New York City, and earned first chair in the New York City Youth Orchestra.

Things started to change for the worse at the end of his sophomore year. Joey didn't turn in a paper for one of his classes, and was asked to take a year off. He applied to the Manhattan School of Music and was accepted. When he was exposed to drugs and alcohol he slipped into addiction, went to a rehab center and returned to school.

Joey's parents recognized his talent, and introduced him to other musicians who helped nurture his talent. Joey was lucky.

"A lot of young people hate themselves and have high ideals," said Girzone. "They make mistakes and give up hope. I hope the book helps young people who are struggling try to stay close to God."

Girzone, who has taught school, also wants educators to learn something from Joey's story.

"Schools have to wake up," said Girzone. "Kids have talent, but not all of them are college bound, and academically gifted. A lot of gifts and talents are undeveloped. Some kids are not prepared to do anything after graduating from high school. These young people aren't being appreciated. They're angry, there's no place for them in society."

Toward the end of his life Joey was closer than ever to God. "I couldn't help but feel he had a mystical experience," said Girzone. "He saw God in everything."

Joseph F. Girzone retired from active priesthood in 1981 for health reasons. He then started writing and is the author of "What Is God?," "Joshua and the City," and "Never Alone: A Personal Way to God.

Refunds apply to purchases of all eligible goods, being taken out of Canada and on the Room Rate portion of hotel accommodation expenses. More information is available on the Internet at www.taxfree.ca and www.taxfree.se.

GALLERY FEATURES MASTERS

The Saper Galleries, 433 Albert Ave., East Lansing, are presenting "Picasso and Rembrandt – a Meeting of the Masters" opening today and running through July 6. The Saper Galleries has acquired three dozen Picasso and Rembrandt original etchings and lithographs which illustrate the important relationship between the two artists. Picasso, especially in his later years, often made references to the Dutch master in his works. The gallery is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursdays and 1-4 p.m. the first Sunday of each month.

TRAVEL TIP

Jean Long of West Bloomfield, a member of the Nomad's Solo group, suggests that you photo copy your important papers – passport, birth certificate, travel itinerary, medical papers – before you go on a trip. Take a copy with you tucked away in your luggage and leave a copy at home. She also had high praise for the Nomads, a group that arranges its own charter travel throughout the world.

More people finding their way to Dionne Warwick's San Jose

(NAPS) – Nearly 30 years ago, two songwriters and vocalist Dionne Warwick collaborated on a tune that sticks in people's heads even today – "Do You Know the Way to San Jose?"

The song, of course, has not changed during that time, but the city it describes has transformed dramatically. Then an agricultural-driven area with 360,000 residents, San Jose is now home to 850,000 and is considered "the Capital of Silicon Valley." The city's high-tech image has since shown many the way to San Jose.

"San Jose has become a significant business and convention destination," said Marian Holt McLain, president of the San Jose Convention & Visitors Bureau. "However, many leisure travelers still don't know what there is to do and see here."

$1 billion redevelopment has brought new visitor attractions

There's a lot to do and see, in part, because the city has invested more than $1 billion over the past decade to redevelop its downtown core. Today's San Jose has luxury hotels and gourmet restaurants, a popular convention center and arena, and acclaimed visual and performing arts (including ballet, symphony, opera, and musical and repertory theater).

San Jose also offers visitors professional sports (such as the NHL's San Jose Sharks), a trendy arts and entertainment area (the SoFA District), and attractions for children and adults (including wineries, theme parks, museums, high-tech exhibits, and historic sites).

It also offers visitors and residents 125 parks and gardens covering 3,000 acres.

The newest way to San Jose – http:// www.sanjose.org

While one can always fly or drive to San Jose to check out the city, there's another way to explore this Silicon Valley metropolis – the information superhighway. The city has its own Web site, "Interact San Jose," at www.sanjose.org. The site allows browsers to book hotel rooms, search a vast database of scheduled events, find general visitor information and much more. Alas, it does not yet belt out "Do You Know the Way..."

Actually, McLain says she would rather play another song on the city's Web page. "I'd like to hear a sequel – this one telling people how to get here!" she said.

The San Jose Convention & Visitors Bureau will also tell people how to get to San Jose. They're currently offering packages starting at $59 per person/double occupancy, which includes a hotel room, dinner, and tickets to an event or local attraction. Travelers interested in more information can call toll-free 1-888-SAN JOSE.

TRAVEL

Teacher leads others to multi-faceted Africa

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

When Earna Kassa first stepped off a plane in Africa she was overcome with emotion.

"It was like I'm here. I wanted to holler 'Africa, Africa I'm here,'" she said.

Since that 1980 trip, Kassa of Southfield has been back to Africa 28 times and has led groups of others in discovering the diversity and cultural richness of the continent.

Kassa remembers when she was a child and her father brought home a National Geographic with an article about Africa. She told him then that she would travel there some day. While going to college at Shaw and the University of Michigan, she met African students and the urge to go was contained only by her lack of funds.

Over the years she has been to Senegal, Gambia, the Ivory Coast, Benin, Liberia, Burkina-Faso, Mali, Togo, Egypt, South Africa, Namibia, Kenya and Ethiopia. Each has its special appeal.

As an African-American and a third grade teacher at Detroit's Fairbanks Elementary, Kassa appreciates Ghana and Senegal for their historical importance in understanding the slave trade.

"The saddest experience was going to Ghana at El Mina Castle in Cape Coast. There's a reenactment of how they had captured slaves," Kassa said. "It's really unimaginable, hard to think what it was like hundreds of years ago. Taken away from what you had been used to all your life."

She said at a small slave house in Senegal she tried lifting a ball and chain and felt a burning sensation and couldn't lift it.

On the other hand the Ivory Coast offers more touristy pleasures. Kassa said she enjoys its semitropical climate, palm trees and beautiful homes. South Africa's Capetown area is notable for its scenic beauty, which Kassa calls "breathtaking."

"It's easy to see why the indigenous Africans and the Afrikaners were fighting so hard for this land," she said.

Since 1993 Kassa has operated her own travel company specializing in travel to Africa. She makes all the air and land arrangements. She leads adults on trips to different African countries. But she also arranges for student exchange programs that allow children to live and go to school in Africa for a month.

"They are not to be tourists but to be part of a house and blend into a family," Kassa said.

The children are usually placed in upper middle class African homes and attend the top schools in the area. Usually the African homes are better than the homes from which the children come, many with house servants and chauffeurs.

Africa offers a wide range of lifestyles. Kassa said in the Ivory Coast there are many large, well-decorated houses in fashionable suburban like settings. But she has also experienced the other Africa.

"I've experienced meeting people who are very poor. People in huts without plumbing and electricity. I've experienced a wide range of experiences over the last 17 years," she said.

But, she said, she avoids political hot spots. She said she would be uncomfortable in a place with a potential for danger and wouldn't subject her clients to that.

Before each trip, Kassa provides an in-service for her travelers. She explains the customs of each country, the currency, the trade restrictions, the food and the living conditions. She said she often has Africans or those who have been to Africa give talks.

Kassa's Southfield home has many beautiful pieces of African art, some of them purchased through another fine African art – bartering. Kassa said she had collected lots of blue jeans over the years and has found that many African artists and craftsmen are willing to barter for the denims.

Kassa's love for the art works is evident in the way she displays them throughout her house.

"It's an extension of who we are to have interest in art. I love the art and usually it has meaning," she said.

The art works include ceremonial and healing masks, richly carved stools, fine stone sculptures, colorful tapestries and clothing, decorated staffs and baskets.

Another popular image of Africa is the safari. Kassa has led trips to Kenya and Namibia to see animals closeup. She said it's fascinating to ride a 4x4 and see giraffes and elephants face-to-face. She said it's important that people understand that they must be careful "when invading the animals' domain."

Safaris and sightseeing are not the primary reason that many black Americans travel to Africa. Most want to find their roots in the manner of Alex Haley. But Kassa has never been able to trace her own African roots.

She said she thinks of herself as pan-African though she has been told by many that she resembles members of a large west African tribe. She said she once saw a man in west Africa who was almost a twin of her father.

She said the conditions under which most Africans were brought to America make it nearly impossible to definitely trace back one's roots, though most black Americans are descended from west Africans.

The cost of a trip to Africa for adults arranged through Kassa range from $1,450 per person (including hotels, air, some meals and excursions) to as much as $4,000 to $5,000 for a safari. The student exchange programs cost about $1,350.

Kassa said many students hold fund-raisers to help pay for the trips. She said she has taken only Detroit school children but that she would like to open the program to students from throughout Michigan.

"If you go there with an open mind, you'll have wonderful experiences," she said.

Anyone interested in travel to Africa can call Kassa at 810-557-6701.

Two late goals helped Farmington score a stunning 2-1 girls soccer victory Wednesday over Livonia Churchill.

The win evened the Falcons' record at 4-4-1 overall, while Churchill dropped to 7-2-2 overall.

Angela DeDomenico scored the game-winner from 18 yards out with seven minutes remaining to give Farmington the victory. The assist went to Emilie Villemonte, who tied the game at 1-1 with just 14 minutes to play.

Churchill's Stacey Supanich scored at the four-minute mark of the opening half from goalkeeper Kerrie LaPorte.

"It was like we were in slow-motion all night," Churchill coach Chad Campau said. "We weren't hopping on the loose balls.

Farmington coach Bob Neff was elated with the outcome.

"It was a total team effort," he said. "Kate Adams (goalie) kept us in the game with eight saves. They (Churchill) threatened a couple of times with corner kicks, but we were able to push them away."

PREP GIRLS SOCCER

•STEVENSON 4, COUNTRY DAY 0: Sarah Wittrock scored twice, while Allison Campbell and Nicole Tobin each contributed a goal and one assist as host Livonia Stevenson (10-0-1) earned the non-league victory over visiting Beverly Hills Detroit Country Day.

The state-ranked Spartans outshot Country Day, 23-4, as goalkeeper Jenny Barker notched her 11th straight shutout of the year.

Campbell now has 21 goals on the year, while Wittrock has 10.

On Wednesay, Campbell tallied a pair of goals and Becky Peterson added one as Stevenson improved to 8-0-1 overall in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 3-1 victory at Northville.

It was 1-1 at intermission as freshman Val Kurzynski scored from sophomore Katie Krause.

Western's Angel Bushor scored on a corner kick.

•LADYWOOD 2, FRANKLIN 0: On Friday, host Livonia Ladywood improved to 2-8-1 overall with the non-league victory over Livonia Franklin, which slipped to 0-9-1.

On Wednesday, Plymouth Canton (9-0-1, 3-0) pounded Franklin in a WLAA-Western Division encounter, 8-0.

The Patriots dropped to 0-4 in the division.

•MERCY 4, LADYWOOD 1: In a Catholic League Central Division encounter Thursday, host Farmington Hills Mercy (9-2, 5-2) used a pair of goals from senior Betsy Gignac to earn the victory.

Mercy led 4-0 at intermission.

Mary Gignac added a goal and two assists, while Jena Kluska contributed the other Mercy goal.

Marlin goalkeeper Kelly Fuller's shutout bid was ruined 15 minutes into the second half by Jenny Lachapelle.

Wayne is now 4-4-3 overall and 3-1-2 in the division.

Natalie Garrison and Katie Pardee scored for Wayne.

On Wednesday, Kristina McCahill had two goals and one assist as Wayne Memorial rolled to a 5-1 Mega-Blue victory at Taylor Truman.

Andrea McCahill, Pam Prpich and Jamie Thompson also scored goals for the Zebras, Kasey Allen added an assist.

EMU's main man: Rutherford

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Most people attribute the success of Tiger Woods to his father.

Many have seen the home videos of Earl Woods teaching his son how to swing a golf club correctly. And whatever the elder Woods advised has seemed to pay off.

And those who know Mark Rutherford and see the incredible season he is enjoying on the Eastern Michigan University baseball team, attribute his success to his father, Gordie Rutherford.

"My father has been a tremendous influence in my life and my career," the EMU senior said. "When I was five years old, my dad would throw batting practice to me and hit me grounders."

The elder Rutherford is still helping his son, videotaping most of the games he pitches and showing him how to improve his game.

And he's proving the saying is accurate — father does know best.

Gordie Rutherford pitched for Alma College and today helps former major leaguer and Livonia Franklin grad Bernie Carbo run his summer camps.

"His father has been very supportive and very important in his development," said EMU coach Roger Coryell. "They have spent a lot of time together since Mark's been a youngster and has been a positive influence. This type of support mechanism is something we almost always see with great players."

The teaching is paying off in big ways for Mark, who is the Eagles' ace pitcher and one of their leading hitters.

His numbers speak for themselves. On the mound, the 6-foot-2 righthander has won his last three decisions to compile a 7-3 record with a team-best 5.22 ERA.

"I wasn't throwing as hard last season as I am this season," he said. "Last year, I was topping out at about 88 miles an hour. In my last few outings, I've been hitting 92.

"I've changed my mechanics some, but I mostly attribute the improvement to working out more. I worked hard all summer training and am a lot stronger."

And at the plate, Rutherford is fifth in the Mid American Conference in batting (.411) and fourth in home runs with 10. He is also eighth in the MAC with 40 RBI.

His 10 homers makes his the first EMU player in nine seasons to hit double digits in four-baggers, and his season total ranks ninth on the EMU records list.

"To hit for batting average and the type of power he is producing without striking out a lot is a tribute to Mark," Coryell said.

Rutherford is also helping to revive the Eagles' postseason hopes back from the dead. EMU went 5-1 in conference games last week to move from seventh place in the MAC into a tie with Kent University for fourth place at 13-10 in the league (23-19 overall). The first four teams in the MAC will advance to the postseason tournament.

EMU has key four-game series remaining at Central Michigan University and at home against Miami University, with all three teams within three games of each other in the conference standings.

In a 5-0 victory over Toledo last Wednesday, he pitched his third complete game of the year, giving up just two hits in EMU's first shutout of the season.

On April 27, Rutherford pitched his second gem of the week, giving up one unearned run in five innings in a 4-3 victory over Bowling Green. He also hit a two-run home run in the third which proved to be the game winner.

Rutherford has also saved his best for league play, posting a 2.66 ERA and a 4-1 record on the mound, in addition to eight home runs and 28 RBI.

Rutherford is now 205 pounds, about 25 pounds heavier than he was when he graduated from Livonia Churchill in 1993.

"I would like to take the credit for Mark's improvement, but he is committed to improving and staying in excellent condition," Coryell said. "His strength training has helped him immensely and he is having fun. And we're having fun watching him."

Rutherford spent last summer playing in a wooden bat league in Ohio. Batting with aluminum bats at EMU is quite different.

"I've been more relaxed and confident at the plate," he said. "There's more room for error with aluminum bats and you don't necessarily have to hit the sweet part of the bat. It should be illegal to use the bats we use now."

Also helping Rutherford is more playing time. Rutherford batted .284 last season as a role player and already has more at bats this season than he did in his first three seasons combined.

Even with the success on offense, Rutherford still concentrates foremost on his pitching.

Rutherford, who has been fortunate to avoid any injuries, relies on a repertoire consisting of a fastball, slider and change-up, and will occasionally come sidearm.

"I don't strike out a lot of batters," he said. "I do get a lot of people out on grounders. I consider myself more of a sinker ball pitcher."

And fans and foes in the MAC aren't the only ones noticing Rutherford. With the major league draft approaching, numerous teams have contacted Rutherford and Coryell.

Rutherford has heard recently from the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds, who have invited him to a May 29 tryout at Riverfront Stadium.

"Almost every club has contacted me wanting to know the ins and outs of Mark Rutherford," Coryell said.

The scouting report looks good.

Madonna sharp as tourney opens

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS WRITER

It's never easy — that's what any coach will tell you about tournament time.

When the outcome of a single game can extend, or end, a team's season, tensions are heightened. Everyone plays harder, right?

Well, it seems Madonna University's "harder" is a bit better than the rest of the teams in the NAIA Great Lakes Section Softball Tournament, which the Lady Crusaders hosted Thursday through Saturday at Ladywood HS.

Details of the championship game will appear in Thursday's Observer.

The Crusaders reached the final with relative ease, winning their first two tournament games by the eight-run mercy rule. They beat Marian College (Wis.) 10-0 in five innings Thursday, thanks in large part to the combined two-hit pitching of Shanna Price and Janell Leschinger.

On Friday, Madonna routed Mount St. Joseph 12-4 in six innings. St. Joseph bounced back to beat Cardinal Stritch (Milwaukee)10-4 Friday, improving its record to 24-15 and earning itself a berth in the final. Stritch finishes 10-9.

"I was surprised here," said Crusader coach Jerry Abraham after his teamcollected its 30th win (against 18 losses and one tie) with ease by beating St. Joseph Friday. "I didn't expect this at all.

"But we're a good hitting team when we're on track."

No argument with that. Madonna had a combined 27 hits in the two games.

And it wasn't just one or two players carrying the offensive load. Melissa McGue had three hits and two runs scored against Marian, then got two more hits, with two more runs scored and two runs batted in, against St. Joseph.

Jamie Vickers was a combined 3-for-6 in the two games, scoring three times and driving in five more — four of those against St. Joseph. Stephanie Dick was 4-for-7 with four RBI and three runs scored, and Jeanie Baxter (from Redford St. Agatha) was 4-for-7 with one RBI and three runs scored.

Such hitting makes it a good deal easier on the pitchers. Angie VanDoorn pitched five strong innings against St. Joseph in improving her record to 10-6. She was tagged for four earned runs in the fifth inning, giving up four of the six hits and two of the four walks she allowed in the game during that frame.

The rest of the time she was nearly untouchable. Madonna's errorless play in the field helped considerably, too.

Hits galore!

And the hits just kept on coming Friday.

After ripping a season-high 20 hits against Livonia Churchill on Monday, Livonia Franklin recorded a new high of 23 hits in Friday's 16-1, five-inning mercy girls softball win of visiting Northville.

The Patriots, who improved to 14-3 overall and 6-0 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association, scored nine runs in the fourth to put the Mustangs away.

Lori Jendrusik led the onslaught, going 4-for-4, including three doubles and two RBI. Kelly Young also drove in a pair with three hits.

Randi Wolfe, Jackie Ziem and Missy Blanton also collected three hits each for Franklin.

The offense was more than enough for Jendrusik, who allowed five hits, struck out six and walked two.

Wolfe's two-run double in the second inning Wednesday lifted Franklin to a 3-1 victory at North Farmington.

Jessica Sabbadin's run scoring single in the fourth inning gave the Patriots an insurance run.

Jendrusik who was 2-for-4, scattered eight hits but didn't allow any walks. She fanned five.

But host Walled Lake Western took advantage of six Churchill errors to pull out the victory.

The Chargers are 6-8 overall and 1-5 in the WLAA.

Naif finished with two of the four Churchill hits. Jessie Jenkins added a double and drove in a run in the third inning.

Adrienne Doyle allowed only one earned run, but took the loss. She struck out one without allowing a walk.

Churchill also committed six errors Wednesday but was able to hold off host Livonia Stevenson, 6-3.

The Chargers led 4-0 but the Spartans scored three runs in the sixth inning to close the gap. The big hit was a two-run triple by Jackie McClowry.

But the Patriots cemented the win with a two-run seventh, behind run-scoring hits by Jenkins and Megan McGinty, the latter whom finished with three hits while Jenkins had two hits and scored three times.

Doyle went the distance for Churchill, allowing four hits without a walk while striking out five.

Leanne Schraufnagle took the loss for the Spartans.

•N. FARMINGTON 9, STEVENSON 3: On Friday, the host Raiders avenged an eight-inning loss to Livonia Stevenson with their victory.

Katie King and Andrea Jarczak had the Stevenson hits.

Mickey Spisz had a pair of doubles and three RBI for North. Lynn Livernois also had two hits and scored two runs. Kelly Brannack had just one hit but also knocked in three runs.

The Spartans dropped to 2-4 in the Lakes Division and 4-8 overall. The Raiders are 3-3 in the division and 9-10 overall.

•W.L. CENTRAL 30, JOHN GLENN 2: It certainly wasn't pretty Friday as Walled Lake Central received 18 walks from Westland John Glenn to go along with its 17 hits.

The Rockets (5-12 overall, 3-7 in the WLAA) were forced to play their second straight game without their ace pitcher Katie Foran, who took a liner off her pitching hand in a game earlier in the week against North Farmington.

Filling in for Foran was Stacey Stevens who struggled with her control.

Central blew the game open with 13-run second inning, which featured eight hits and seven walks. The Vikings had five hits and received 10 walks in their 12-run third inning.

Angela Haas and Kathie Suda were both 2-for-2. Haas and Jocelyn Fendelet drove in the Glenn runs with singles.

On Wednesday, Glenn pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning to beat Farmington Hills Harrison 6-5 in a WLAA crossover game.

The winning rally began on a single by Fendelet, who later stole second. With two out, Melissa Rayburn singled and Fendelet was called safe at the plate on a bang-bang play.

Fendelet was 4-for-5 for the Rockets.

Stevens tossed all eight innings for Glenn to record the win. She scattered six hits, walked six and struck out one.

Becky Vosler went 3-for-4 with a pair of doubles and two RBI for Harrison.

•KINGSWOOD 12, LUTHERAN WESTLAND 10: Ten errors. Enough said.

Lutheran Westland could only blame itself after Friday's loss to visiting Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook, in which the Warriors committed 10 errors.

The Cranes took advantage of four Westland errors in the third inning to score four runs. Cranbrook scored six times in the sixth after four more Warrior errors.

"It was a record for us, but not the kind of record you like to have," Westland coach Ron Gentz said. "We did make a couple spectacular plays but had a couple terrible innings and you have to play well for seven innings."

Taking the loss was Michelle Wiersig, despite allowing only two earned runs. She struck out three and walked five.

Lindsay Allor, Cherie Manning, Sharon Greer and Katie Heiden had two hits apiece in the nine-hit Westland attack. Allor and Manning each drove in two runs.

The Warriors dropped to 5-6 overall and 4-4 in the Metro Conference. The Cranes remain in second place in the league at 5-1 and improved to 7-2 overall.

It was a different story for the warriors on Wednesday as they routed host Harper Woods Lutheran East 16-6 in a six-inning mercy.

The hero at the plate was Sarah Hoffmeier who had a pair of hits and knocked in three runs. Holly Kaye, Joy Tiernan and Greer added two hits apiece.

Wiersig recorded the win, as she scattered four hits, fanned six and walked eight.

The Eagles are 2-7 overall and 1-5 in the Metro.

•LUTHERAN NORTH 20, CLARENCEVILLE 5: Macomb Lutheran North showed why it is in first place in the Metro Conference with a five-inning drubbing of visiting Livonia Clarenceville.

The Mustangs (7-0 in the league) scored nine runs in the first inning to put the game away.

North, which collected 13 hits, also took advantage of 13 walks from Rachel Sundberg.

Sundberg, Amy Tondreau and Kelly Ackroyd had one hit and one RBI apiece for the Trojans (7-6 overall, 3-4 in the Metro).

ROUNDUP

the board in each of the first three innings, then struck for nine more in the next three. McGue slugged her second triple in as many days, one of her two hits in the game, and Dick had a double, giving her a double and two triples in the tournament. Christy Riopelle also had a hit and picked up two RBI with sacrifices against St. Joseph.

The Marian game was even more lopsided. Madonna built a 10-0 lead in the first three innings, then relied on the pitching of Price — who got the win, improving to 15-8 — and Leschinger.

McGue had three hits, and Vickers, Dawn Shaffer, Dick and Baxter each contributed two. Dick added three RBI, while Shaffer had two.

"We've been playing pretty good," said Abraham. "We're getting a good balance of offense and defense, and we're getting runs at the opportune times, which is what softball is all about."

A Section win will put Madonna into this week's NAIA Regional, hosted by the College of St. Francis (Joliet, Ill.).

•SAGINAW VALLEY 11-10, MADONNA 5-4: The end of a long stretch, with no rest before starting an even more important one.

The Lady Crusaders ended their regular season, and a 10-games-in-five-days stretch, by losing twice to Saginaw Valley State Wednesday at Ladywood HS. Shanna Price started the opener, giving up eight runs in 3 2/3 innings; she took the loss.

Angie VanDoorn went all seven innings in absorbing the defeat in the nightcap, surrendering 10 runs (five earned).

Madonna did manage 20 hits in the double-header. In the first game, Marissa Mittleman, Vicki Malkowski and Dawn Shaffer each had two hits, Mittleman driving in two runs and Malkowski one.

In the second game, only Mittleman had two hits.

Madonna never led in either game, trailing 8-1 at one point in the opener and 7-0 in the second game.

The two wins boosted the NCAA Division II Cardinals' record to 22-19.

Warriors earn big win, 6-3

Lutheran High Westland, under first-year coach Jeremy Geidel, moved into a first-place tie in the Metro Conference baseball race Friday with a 6-3 victory over previously unbeaten Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook.

The win pushes the Warriors' overall record to 10-3 and 7-1 in the Metro (tied with Cranbrook).

Ryan Moser's two-run triple in the top of the seventh inning sparked a four-run rally.

Joe Pruchnik went 3-for-3 with a pair of doubles, while winning pitcher Ben Meyer added two hits and two RBI.

Meyer came on for starter Mike Dittmar and pitched the final 1⅓ innings to pick up the victory.

On Wednesday, Meyer pitched a six-hitter, striking out eight and walking three over seven innings as the host Warriors edged Harper Woods Lutheran East, 3-2.

Jeff Hunsaker went 3-for-3 and Dittmar added two hits for the winners.

PREP BASEBALL

•N. FARMINGTON 1, STEVENSON 0: Junior left-hander Jeff Trzos fanned 15 Friday as North Farmington (8-4, 4-1) eeked out the victory in the top of the seventh against host Livonia Stevenson (7-5, 1-5) in a Lakes Division game in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Dave Gosselin's double scored Tom Ouellette withthe game-winning run.

Sophomore Roy Rabe, the losing pitcher, gave up just five hits, a pair to North's Mike Gleeson, while fanning six and walking just two in seven innings.

Trzos (3-1) allowed just three hits, two to Todd Wilson, who also went 4-for-4 in stolen bases.

On Wednesday, Stevenson took five innings to mercy Livonia Churchill, 12-1, as winning pitcher Jason Greenwald and Jon Ritzler combined on a two-hitter while striking out nine.

Churchill starter Corey Cook suffered the loss.

•W.L. CENTRAL 10, JOHN GLENN 3: Billy Kandilian and Derek Moore each collected three hits Friday as Walled Lake Central (10-9, 4-1) downed Westland John Glenn (9-7, 3-3) in a WLAA-Lakes Division encounter.

Glenn lost despite out-hitting the Vikings, 12-10. The Rockets also left 12 runners on base.

Steve Paling had three hits and two RBI in a losing cause. Chet Rees, Gordie Smith, Tim Reeves and losing pitcher Jason Robertson added two hits apiece.

Andrew Higgins was the winning pitcher.

On Wednesday, Farmington Hills Harrison built a 13-4 lead and then held for a 13-10 victory over the visiting Rockets.

Sophomore Joe Ghannam went the distance on the mound and earned the victory despite giving up 10 hits. He struck out two and walked one.

Harrison supported him with 16 hits, including three by his brother, junior Chris Ghannam, who also had three RBI.

Senior Aaron Lawson hit a home run and a double and knocked in three runs, too. Senior Adam Smerecki and junior Mike Fisher added two hits apiece.

Tim Reeves had two hits, including a solo homer, for the Rockets.

Thomas struck out 10, walked seven and allowed just five hits in going the distance.

John Ross, the losing pitcher, also worked all seven, allowing nine hits and one walk. He was the victim of four errors.

Ryan Waselewsky, who clubbed a two-run homer in the second inning, collected two hits along with Jason Brewer and John Wilson.

•N. FARMINGTON 23, FRANKLIN 6: In a WLAA crossover Wednesday, host Livonia Franklin (3-10 overall) fell to North Farmington despite a pair of homers and five RBI by Dave Wampler.

Nick Anagstopoulos was the losing pitcher.

•TRUMAN 1, WAYNE 0: Freshman left-hander Don Hall tossed a four-hitter Friday as host Taylor Truman edged Wayne Memorial (12-6 overall).

C.J. Blevins, the losing pitcher, also threw a complete game, giving up six hits and three walks.

Kevin Wetmore collected three of Wayne's six hits.

Truman tallied the game-winning run with one-out in the fifth as Don Taylor reached base safely after a strikeout and scored on an infield error.

On Wednesday, Wayne improved to 5-2 in the Red Division of the Mega Conference with a 9-8 victory over visiting Garden City (8-4-1 overall, 4-3 Red).

Clendening, Charlie Leverenz, Clark Boston, Bill Danic and Jeff Temple each collected two hits for the winners.

Leverenz, a junior right-hander, ran his record to 4-0 with the victory. He scattered 12 hits, struck out seven and walked two. He also helped his own cause by knocking in four runs.

Devin Cole pitched the first seven innings for Garden City. Reliever Bryan Krause, who took over in the seventh, suffered the loss.

Dan Fairchild had three hits and two RBI for the Cougars, while Rich Barnak added two triples and an RBI.

•REDFORD CC 8-4, U-D JESUIT 5-3: Redford Catholic Central (9-6, 5-6) kept its faint Catholic League Central Division playoff hopes alive by sweeping a double-header Wednesday at the University of Detroit-Jesuit (1-9 division).

Ryan Ossenmacher pitched the final 4⅓ innings in relief of starter Matt Ksiazek to pick up the win. Ossenmacher struck out nine, allowed six hits with just one earned run. He struck out nine and walked five.

Josh Del Corvo paced CC's hitting attack, going 3-for-3 with a double and one RBI. Bob Malek, John DiBella and Ryan Kolb also added two hits apiece.

The nightcap was called after six innings because of darkness.

Two sophomores recently brought from the junior varsity, Casey Rogowski and Malek, figured prominently in the victory.

Rogowski was 2-for-2 with a single and solo homer, while Malek added an double, triple and one RBI.

Winning pitcher Tony Nozewski went all six innings, allowing just five hits and three walks. He struck out nine.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

Finally, a reprieve.

After three-straight losses by single run, Madonna University's baseball team turned things around and won four out of six.

Last Wednesday in Detroit, the Fighting Crusaders split a double-header with Wayne State, winning 13-5 in 11 innings in the opener — thanks to an eight-run rally in the 11th — before dropping the nightcap, 12-2.

In the first game, it was tied at 4-4 after seven innings and stayed that way until the 10th, when both teams scored a run. Madonna finally put it away with its 11th-inning explosion.

The Crusaders had 22 hits in the game, with Eric Marcotte (from Plymouth Canton), Jeff Gutt (Redford Catholic Central), Dan Taylor, Delano Voletti and Mike LaPointe each collecting three. Voletti had two runs batted in; so did Jeff Warholik, who had a pinch-hit double.

Kevin Foley and Pete Quinn added two hits apiece.

Dan Pydyn (from Plymouth) worked the last three innings, allowing one run on two hits, to get the victory; he's 5-4.

In the second game, Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton) was tagged for five runs (three earned) in three innings, absorbing a loss that dropped him to 2-7. Aaron Shrewsbury had four of Madonna's 11 hits; Voletti had two hits with an RBI.

Last Tuesday, the Crusaders swept Tri-State University 11-2 and 13-0 in Angola, Ind.

Mark Serra started and worked 5⅔ innings in the first game to earn the victory, evening his record at 1-1; he gave up two runs (one earned) on seven hits, with five strikeouts.

Foley, Daryl Rocho and LaPointe each had two hits for Madonna, Rocho driving in two runs.

In the second game, Warholik started and hurled three scoreless innings, improving to 3-0; he gave up three hits and one walk in the five-inning mercy.

Voletti had two hits, including his third home run of the year, and three RBI. Foley had three hits, and Marcotte and Rocho each had two, with Marcotte driving in two runs. Ian Caldwell slugged his first home run of the season as well, knocking in two runs.

CC places 2nd in invitational

For the second-straight year, Redford Catholic Central's boys track team finished runner-up at the 17th annual Jackson Invitational, held Friday, April 25.

David Popiel, Dan Dominguez and John Faunce were individual champions.

Popiel took first in the high jump, clearing 6-feet, 2 inches. Dominguez threw the shot put 50-feet, 6 inches for first place and Faunce was first in the 800 meter run (59.64).

The 3,200 relay team of Chris Laney, Craig Skalski, Wayne Brigee and Faunce claimed the Shamrocks' only second place in a time of 8:25.0.

Taking third place were Cortny Robison, 300 meter intermediate hurdles (43.8); Joe Hubert, 1,600 run (4:37.8); and Griffin, 3,200 run (10:02.1).

Fourth place winners included Joe Moser, pole vault (10-0); Chris Koss, shot put (45-7); Don Slankster, 300 hurdles (43.9); and Laney, 800 run (59.79).

Earning fifth place were Brent Barrick, long jump (17-10); Andy Kawel, pole vault (10-0, a tie); Mike Morris, discus (123-3); Robison, 100 hurdles (16.6); the 800 relay of Tim Finnerty, Tony Kishishian, Slankster and Brian Teefey (1:35.8); and 400 relay of Finnerty, Keshishian, Derek Anderson and Jason Woehlke (47.7).

Sixth-place finishes went to Skalski, 1,600 run (4:48.8); Brian Teefey, 400 dash (53.0) and 200 dash (23.5); Hubert, 3,200 run (10:21.1) and the 1,600 relay of Faunce, Brigee, Finnerty and Laney (3:40.7).

Deer permits altered

Some of the most radical changes in years to Michigan's deer hunting regulations could be approved next week when the Michigan Natural Resource Commission meets on Wednesday and Thursday at the Lansing Center.

Some of the changes suggested by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources includes establishing a stand-alone antlerless deer permit in certain areas of the state that would be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. A hunter would be able to purchase these permits at a rate of one-per-day until that specific Deer Management Unit's quota is reached.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The traditional antlerless permit lottery would continue, but the application deadline would be moved up from Sept. 24-Aug. 1 so the stand-alone permits could be used during the early archery season.

Boundaries of some of the state's Deer Management Unit's may also be changed to allow more antlerless permits in areas of high deer density.

Most of the proposed changes are in an effort to reduce Michigan's flourishing deer herd from 2 million to approximately 1.3 million.

There is also a possibility that the NRC will adopt a buck management strategy that would limit the second-buck tag for use exclusively on a buck with no less than four points on one side of his rack. This strategy is an attempt to enable more bucks to reach the second and third year of antler development.

Stay tuned on this issue.

Salmon Stakes success

Saturday's 19th annual River Crab Salmon Stakes charity fishing tournament was a huge success. Not only did the tournament raise $100,210 to fight child abuse and neglect and aid family counseling services statewide, but there was also a record catch of 1,375.13 pounds of salmon and brown trout.

The tournament, based at the River Crab Restaurant in St. Clair and held on the southern waters of Lake Huron, has now raised over $900,000 to aid family service agencies across the state. The late Chuck Muer and his friend Al Tyrrell started the tournament in 1985.

The biggest catch of the day was a 15.70-pound King salmon. The largest steelhead weighed 5.55 pounds, the biggest Brown trout weighed 9.6 pounds and the largest Coho salmon weighed 3.4 pounds.

Fish ladder dedicated

If you've ever had dreams of catching steelhead on the Huron River upstream from the Flat Rock Dam those dreams can now turn to reality.

Thanks to a combined effort of concerned citizens, the Huron River Fishing Association and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, a fish ladder has been built and is operating at the Flat Rock Dam. The structure, the largest volunteer-built fish ladder in Michigan, will allow steelhead and other fish to pass over the dam and continue upstream as far as the Belleville Dam, opening miles of the river to quality fishing.

The Flat Rock Fish Ladder will officially be dedicated at 1 p.m. Saturday in Flat Rock.

Clarenceville earns slew of 1sts

TIM NOWICKI

On warm early spring days about four or five years ago, honeybees would emerge from their hives and feed on the powder or dust from the cracked corn in the bird feeders at the nature center.

This was probably their only source of food since not many flowers were blooming so early in the season.

Honeybees have not been coming to the corn dust because there are not many wild honeybees around these days. A few years ago their populations were infected with mites. One mite infects larva, the other infects the breathing tubes. Both have severely affected the populations of our popular pollinator.

But before the Europeans introduced the Italian honeybee for its wax producing qualities, honey production and mead for making an alcoholic drink, there were 3,500 species of native bees in North America. There were also other insect pollinators instrumental in propagation.

The other day I stopped at a willow tree that was flowering. I saw several small flies, a horsefly, a wasp and some gray colored bees that were probably mining bees. They were all collecting pollen and in the process spreading pollen as they moved from flower to flower.

Flies are actually one of the earliest pollinators in spring. They are attracted to our earliest spring wildflower the skunk cabbage because it produces an odor of rotting flesh. As the fly investigates the source of the smell it is also inadvertently collecting pollen that it will take to the next skunk cabbage it investigates.

Some of the mining bees that excavate brooding tunnels in the soil are active very early in spring and are important pollinators of early blooming trees like red maple and willow.

Fruit production may not be quite as high because honeybees are scarce, but these lesser known bees and other pollinators will be the ones to insure that most trees and flowers are still pollinated.

ON THE RUN

MARYBETH DILLON

John Rogucki lived to be only 54, but he touched more souls than most do in a much longer lifetime.

That was evident 30 minutes before the talented runner's memorial service April 26, when already his many friends, admirers and family were parking on the grass because the lot was overflowing at Hamburg's Bell-Borek Funeral Home.

Rogucki had barely finished building a showplace of a home in Pinckney when he developed a brain tumor. He died months later on April 17.

The roster of names paying their respects read like a Who's Who in Running, and at General Motors, where Rogucki was a senior engineer technician specializing in computer circuits.

Rogucki ranked among the top grand masters (runners 60-and-over) in the nation. Twenty times, he ran marathons in under three hours; including 15 in a row. His best was 2:46, achieved at the Twin Cities Marathon after turning 50.

He excelled at the 10K as well, clocking a 36:28 at the Toledo Blade at the age of 52. U.S. Track & Field's masters long distance running chairperson, Rogucki qualified for and ran the Boston Marathon nine times, with a personal best of 2:52.

He was respected not only for his running achievements, but for what he gave others. Officiating at the service, Pastor Ann Jarema said she married John and his girlfriend Joanne Russell in a private ceremony two months ago.

"The love they shared was so strong you could feel it," she said.

GM's Scott Badenoch said that shortly after he became Rogucki's boss, they met for an hour to get acquainted.

"After about 10 minutes, I realized that John was sizing me up - not as a boss, but as a runner," said Badenoch, a motor racing champion. "In any honest calling, there is an aristocracy of people who become champions because they cross through some barrier. You runners call it the wall; at Indy it's the tunnel at 130 mph. There's a satisfaction — and an expansion of love for the world and the people in it — that you don't experience until you go through it. There's a perceptual wall each of us has to go through. John helped many of us go through that. John had a charisma and a presence; John was a champion."

Masters standout Nina Bovio, who met Rogucki at the 1991 Boston Marathon, nursed Rogucki in his last weeks.

"John taught me a lot about courage, tenacity and holding on forever," she said.

Bill Hill, Whitmore Lake race director who worked, played and ran with Rogucki, was among those coached by him. "His secrets were nothing but hard work: run more miles (preferably on hills and in heat and humidity); lose weight; and do speedwork,' said Hill.

Hill recalled how happy he was to finally break 40 minutes in a 10K; one of Rogucki's "standards." "I didn't break it by much, and John informed me that the course could have been short. John had his standards," said Hill.

Nationally-ranked master Wally Herrala said one of John's qualities was to bring people together."

Those who ran the Great Lakes Relay on Rogucki's "Roadkill" team knew that well.

Laurel Park, running phenom and a Roadkill veteran, recalled that Rogucki "put the team before his own personal glory. He was so proud of that team, and so committed to that team.

A STORY WITH A MOREL

HOW TO FIND A MUSHROOM

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

For outdoor enthusiasts, May brings walks in the woods to seek wildflowers – and occasional sightings of the often-elusive morel mushroom.

Area naturalists and others experts warn that those who hunt for mushrooms should take extra care and inform themselves before heading out on the trail.

Many experts suggest that first-timers work with an experienced mushroomer or take a field class or seminar as a starting point.

At the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor, edible plant and mushroom specialist Ellen Elliott Weatherbee said because of this year's cold spring, the morel season is really just beginning. It takes an adequate amount of rain, then warm weather, for them to appear. She's planning a Memorial Day "Morel Foray" on U-M property in the Upper Peninsula, and the gardens on Dixboro Road also host a fall mushroom class.

"The main thing to stress is that there are false morels," she explained. "Slice them in half lengthwise – if they're not hollow, they're not true morels."

She said, with any mushrooms, people should "cut them clean and try not to wash them" which can cause them to go bad faster. "Make sure they're really fresh," she added.

Weatherbee stresses that, although some eat the so-called "false morels," that can be a dangerous practice. "It's a cumulative poison," she said. "You may be able to eat them for a while, but the toxins build up. It's not a good one to fool around with."

She said she is always happy to look at mushrooms for those who have been hunting, if they are unsure. She can be reached at (313) 998-7061.

Farmington Hills naturalist Joe Derek enjoys the occasional hunt for mushrooms – an art which has been around for decades. "The cautions have always been: Go with somebody who knows," he said. "It only takes one" bad mushroom to cause a problem.

He also warns would-be mushroomers not to rely on photographs, which can be deceiving, and to be aware of any sensitivities. "Some people are allergic to mushrooms in general," he added.

There are several varieties of morel mushrooms, including an early, dark version and several others which come up as the season progresses. Experts agree that they can be found in and around old abandoned apple orchards, in old elm forests, and "wherever there's been rotting wood and wood chips," Derek added.

Northern Michigan is famous for its morel hunting, not because it is the only place to find them, but because there is such a proliferation of state land on which to hunt.

Joe Breidenstein, who is active with the 37-year-old Boyne City Morel Festival (this year from May 15-18) and who hosts "Morels & More" weekends throughout the spring at Springbrook Hills, explains what to look for.

"It's really hard to confuse it," he said. "The cap (or head) is connected to the step from the peak of the mushroom right on down. And it has a hollow stem. It's all one fruit."

A "false morel" or "skirt cap" has a traditional mushroom head connected at the top of the step. "You can pick the top off," he said. "The stem is not hollow – the substance is cottony." Breidenstein said any mushroom has a touch of toxicity. "Any morel – or mushroom – should be cooked," he added.

Breidenstein said that mushroom hunters must watch out – as do any hunters – about trespassing onto private property. "You can get into trouble here," he said. "You've got a real (morel) hunter and he doesn't want you on his land, he'll let you know."

Although those who hunt the morel have their own ways of going about it, there are others who believe that people should leave well enough alone.

That includes Livonia resident Bill Craig of the Holliday Nature Preserve Association, a nine-year-old naturalist group which specializes in the Holliday Nature Preserve area, part of the Wayne County parks system which straddles Canton and Westland just south of Koppernick Road.

"People get this idea that mushroom hunting is a cool thing," Craig said. "We don't endorse picking mushrooms (at Holliday) because it's a nature preserve."

He advocates that if people do hunt for mushrooms, that they do it responsibly. "They might be on private property," he added.

Derek said that mushrooms can be found throughout this area, including in Farmington Hills, although that city frowns on visitors taking anything out of its large Heritage Park on Farmington Road – including mushrooms.

"I just tell people to go to state land," he said. "I keep it at that – that way you don't get into trouble."

AL HARRISON

Several years ago there was a story in this column about a 92-year-old bowler, Harry Greenlee, who was actively bowling in the "Senior Wing Dingers" league at Country Lanes in Farmington. It was a sort of "feel good" article, for there was a saga of a man who found his lifetime mate, Helen, back home in Indiana. The trials and triumphs he recorded over the years made a truly remarkable story. It was also a love story, as these two people fell in love and stayed in love all through the years.

That they took up the sport of bowling is really incidental, but that is the key to the tale, for although Helen can no longer bowl, she comes along to cheer for Harry and enjoy watching him on the lanes.

It would not be noteworthy to write this same love story again, except that Harry Greenlee just celebrated his 95th birthday.

The family had a nice little party, and where else but at Country Lanes so everyone could also go bowling afterwrd. So there were four generations of Greenlees on the lanes at once; Harry, his son-in-law, grandson and three great grandchildren. The Senior Wing Dingers bowl on Wednesday afternoon and our friend, Harry also bowls in a Monday seniors league.

Another super senior is Clara Knight who also bowls in the same two leagues. She turned 95 last August and is still going strong. The Monday league is called "Oldies but Goodies," and this is not intended to offend anyone, so please smile as you read on.

In their recent election of officers, one member stood up and announced, "I nominate so-and-so."

•Dan Ottman of Troy added more laurels to his illustrious record as he captured the latest Budweiser Michigan Majors title at Parkway Lanes in Trenton. Ottman and three rookies, Chris Marshall of Lansing, Brian Wallczek of University Center and Troy Stashi of Jackson were TV finalists along with Carey Bock of Bay City.

As Dan Ottman came up striking with the first 10 in a row, he easily defeated Bock 279-192. The suspense was only whether Ottman would go all the way and collect a bonus $1,000 for a 300 game. A stubborn 10-pin stopped him in the 10th frame.

He then went on to beat back Marshall with a 237-225 victory which earned him his third MMBA title and a check for $2,500.

Other locals who cashed were Dick Beattie (sixth); Aaron Staples of Westland (ninth); Vernon Peterson (16th); Larry Walker (19th) and Rick Elermann (37th) both of Garden City and Larry Franz of Redford (38th).

The Meadows phase opens at Stony Creek

There's plenty of product from which buyers can select in the Meadows at Stony Creek Ridge, a platted residential community in Rochester.

Four builders have bought lots and constructed models in the initial phase of the 260-acre development off Dequindre between 24 and 25 Mile roads.

Nineteen floor plans encompassing all styles – ranch, story-and-a-half and colonial – are available. Builders also will entertain modifications.

Base prices start at about $250,000 and range upward to about $280,000. A monthly fee of $350 will be charged to maintain a clubhouse, outdoor pool, tennis court and tot lot on the site.

"We're getting a wide range of business," said Mike Valenti of Valenti & Co. "We've got families with young children going up to retirees."

Major draws?

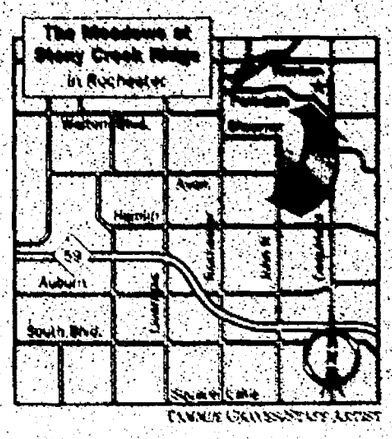
"The location, rolling hills, actual physical layout of the sub and the Rochester community," said Joseph M. LoChirco of LoChirco Custom Homes. "People have a central downtown area where they can shop, eat and walk around."

"You see the clubhouse, tennis courts, beautiful landscaping," said Vince Miletello of L&M Homes. "People like to be close to downtown Rochester. It's safety. The location is nice on the border between Oakland and Macomb."

"You're close to Stony Creek (Metro Park) ... easy access to expressways," Valenti added.

"Even though there's multiple builders, all the designs complement each other," said Sheryl Anderson, sales director for MJC Legacy. "We have strict architectural controls."

All the builders include similar elements as part of their standard price package – fireplace, range and dishwasher, two-car garage, first-floor laundry, separate tub and shower in the master suite, and basement.



Exterior materials are brick and wood siding.

LoChirco offers four plans ranging from a 2,400-square-foot colonial with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths for $259,900 to a colonial of 3,000 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths for $279,900.

The model, priced at about $315,000 with upgrades, features a library, living room, dining room, kitchen/nook with island, desk and walk-in pantry and family room with sloped ceiling.

A unique design feature places a second set of stairs to the basement right from the garage.

All four bedrooms are upstairs, as is an optional bonus loft that can be used as an office, media room or, in this case, billiards room. The master with pan ceiling has a walk-in closet and wall closet. A second bath also is upstairs.

Valenti presents five plans.

They range from $259,900 for a colonial of 2,610 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $286,900 for a 3,150-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Recreational offerings: Residents can enjoy an outdoor pool, clubhouse with exercise center, tennis court, tot lot and decorative watercourse at Stony Creek Ridge.

The model includes a dining room, library, great room with two-story ceiling, kitchen/nook with island and a large walk-in closet off the garage and laundry.

The upstairs master with cathedral ceiling has a pair of walk-in closets and a dual sink vanity. Three other bedrooms and a second full bath also are up.

L&M Homes also offers five plans, ranging from $248,900 for a 2,300-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $272,900 for a colonial of 2,800 square feet or a story-and-a-half of 2,650 square feet, each with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

The model with extras carries a price of about $300,000.

MJC Legacy also provides five plans.

They start at $263,900 for a story-and-a-half of 2,200 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths and rise to $279,900 for a two story of 2,900 or 3,000 square feet, each with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

The Meadows at Stony Creek Ridge is serviced by city water and sewers. It will have sidewalks and is within the Rochester school boundaries.

The property tax rate currently is $34.26 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $270,000 house there would pay about $4,625 the first year.

MJC Legacy, (810) 650-1992, and Valenti & Co, (810) 608-2900, models are open noon to 6 p.m. daily. L&M Homes, (810) 608-2861, and LoChirco Homes, (810) 739-5474, are open 1-6 p.m. daily.

All are closed Thursdays.

Residential triumphs are in the details

STEVEN SIVAK

Every architectural project has the opportunity to explore a different set of details from every other project, and each project almost needs a series of specialized details in order to give it that custom quality.

I realize that most projects are repeats of earlier projects, but even these projects could benefit immensely from some sort of customization of details. These details come from the fundamental themes that a particular project expresses. From these larger general themes come the smaller scale details that, in effect, relate all of the way back to the project's beginnings. Thus, the details address ideas similar to those addressed by the project as a whole.

One of the best examples of how this could be conceived is found in a series of projects that was assigned at the Architectural Association in the mid 1980s, which is one of the United Kingdom's premier architectural schools. In this series of assignments, each student began by designing a piece of furniture. Then the next assignment had the students design a room in which the piece of furniture made sense. Then each student designed the building in which the room was situated.

The final step was to design the city in which the building itself made sense. Done properly, there is a rational series of relationships that ties each step together in both directions, i.e. from small scale to large scale and from large scale to small scale. The details – of which a piece of furniture can be considered – are related.

Obviously, if the details of a project are to make sense, the project must have details. This topic makes more and more sense as a project becomes more and more detailed. This is easily visible in a period piece – say, for example, an arts and crafts project where the doors should match the stylistic requirements of the period, as opposed to being flush doors, which are anything but arts and crafts.

Less obvious are the abstract modern projects whose themes may not be as established or as common as the historical ones. Such themes may be about a certain shape, color, structural investigation or layering of solid and void or, for that matter, any of the nearly endless possible themes that a good piece of modern architecture might be about.

One of the reasons I am so intrigued by contemporary modern architecture lies in the way in which it can interpreted. By establishing a series of rules, a "style" can be made. By making the details consistent with the larger theme(s), there might be a chance that a readable language of architecture can be created. Arts and crafts architects had a series of tricks and details that made sense within the confines of the style – I, too, can make details that make sense within my own quirky architecture.

As a client, I would look for a pattern that is consistent from application to application without being too boring. The absence of details probably will result in the project feeling like a large painted cardboard box. Details need to be drawn, otherwise there will not be any.

By themselves, materials can be beautiful. However, when detailed and made to perform certain tasks (such as stopping and starting and intersecting other materials), materials become even more beautiful. It is through the details that materials take on greater beauty than they have by themselves.

Encourage your architect or builder to let the details fly – you will be glad that you did. Do not forget what Mies Van Der Rohe said: "God is in the details."

I wonder if that means that a project without details is unholy?

Realtor group to hear builders

The Women's Council of Realtors Birmingham/Bloomfield Chapter will host a buffet luncheon with a theme of getting to know residential builders 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Thursday, May 8, at the Community House in Birmingham.

Representatives of about a dozen builders are expected to be on hand to present information about current projects.

"Builders will have tables set up with development information," said Carolyn Wnorowski, WCR spokeswoman. "It's to establish more rapport. It's a good chance to mingle and network."

Cost is $13 for members, $18 for non-members.

The Palmyra is an intriguing plan with a bright, octagonal dining room at its core. The attractive brick and glass exterior is shaped like an eight-pointed star. Only the kitchen/garage wing breaks the symmetry.

Light spills into the dining room through four sets of clerestory windows mounted at the crest of a soaring 22-foot vaulted ceiling. Back at floor level, walls on three of the room's eight sides create a hallway that separates the dining room from the bedrooms.

The opposite side of the octagonal space is totally open to the living room, family room and entry, all of which have flat ceilings. Four handsome columns mark the boundaries. In the family room, two sets of French doors flank the fireplace, each set opening onto a wide deck that wraps around two sides of the home. The living room is also windowed on two sides.

Angling off from the star pattern leaves the kitchen open to this spacious area, but slightly recessed. Features include an eating bar with overhead cabinets, sunny eating nook, central work island with built-in cooktop, walk-in pantry, and direct garage access. Laundry facilities are close by, so it's easy to pop a load in the washer while fixing dinner, then move it to the dryer during clean up.

Double doors open into the Palmyra's master suite, while a matching set across the room lets you walk directly out onto the deck for sunbathing, or stargazing. Amenities here include a roomy walk-in closet and private bathroom with twin lavs, private toilet and oversized shower.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Palmyra 10-169 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Good landscaping will show year-round interest

BY POPULAR MECHANICS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

One area to consider when planning your home landscaping is making sure your plants and trees offer year-round interest.

Though the options are limited because of our climate, textures and colors, however muted, can make a difference. Trees and bushes that hold their fruit well into winter are good choices as are tall grasses and trees that have interesting bark patterns.

Because trees can be functional as well as ornamental, tree selection and placement is important. You'll thank yourself if you avoid the messy varieties, such as cottonwoods.

Because shade trees are as good as air conditioners in summer, a few well-placed trees now can save you big bucks later. The west side of a house has seven times the heat gain of the remaining sides, so west and southwest sections of yards are ideal shade-tree locations.

Traditional, short-root bluegrass varieties of turf grass are notorious for their disease susceptibility and reliance on watering.

Turf-grade fescues are much less trouble, and even some new bluegrass varieties have deeper root systems and improved hardiness.

Overseeding with improved varieties several years in a row will replace much of your existing grass.

Walking tips

Are you ready to get in shape? If so, then the Oakwood Healthcare Physical Therapy Centers want to offer walking tips that can be helpful and fun for you.

Dave Labroff, athletic trainer, of Oakwood Healthcare System Physical Therapy Center, said, "Any healthy person can start walking for 15-30 minutes every other day for a conservative exercise program. Furthermore, having good quality shoes is a very important way to prevent injuries and provide comfort."

He also recommends seeing a physician before beginning any new exercise program.

Health benefits of walking are that it:

■ helps your cardiovascular system;
■ decreases your appetite;
■ increases your energy level and metabolism;
■ helps your respiratory system;
■ allows the body to heal better as increased oxygen-rich and nutrient-rich blood is delivered to injured areas.

Other helpful hints:

■ Grass is the best surface to walk on because it provides less impact to the foot than concrete or asphalt.
■ On a very hot or humid days you should walk in the early morning or evening hours.
■ On very cold days, it's better to walk in a controlled environment like a mall.
■ Ankle weights are not recommended. By increasing resistance and load they can actually hurt you more than help you.
■ Hand-free weights, like dumbbells, use more energy to burn more calories and fat, but they are not recommended for beginners.
■ Walking with others, especially veteran walkers, provides the psychological teamwork benefits that may help you maintain consistency.
■ Vary your walking route occasionally can help prevent boredom with your routine.
■ It is important to check your heart rate for an efficient way to monitor your exercise intensity, or level of exertion.

Anxiety disorders

Everyone experiences anxiety at some time in life. Feelings of nervousness, trouble sleeping and irritability can be brought on by life's challenges. But more than 28 million Americans experience anxiety that goes beyond the normal jitters. These individuals suffer from an anxiety disorder, caused by abnormal functioning of the neurotransmitters in the brain. Anxiety disorders frequently run in families and are more common in women than men.

Dr. Manuel Tancer, M.D., a psychiatrist at The Detroit Medical Center, said, "Anxiety disorders are a major health care problem in the United States, and they can cause tremendous suffering to individuals and families. What's particularly hopeful, however, is that these disorders are very treatable."

Some anxiety disorders involve worry about events that have not occurred – and probably never will. Other anxiety disorders are linked to specific events, such as public speaking.

When left untreated, anxiety disorders can become severe and can lead to panic attacks or phobias. Panic attacks are frequent bouts – six or seven times a month – of nervousness or impending doom. A phobia is a constant, intense fear of a specific object, activity or situation.

Obsessive-compulsive disorder, or OCD, is another form of an anxiety disorder. OCD involves rituals or repeated behaviors. An individual with an obsessive-compulsive disorder may look in the mirror for hours at a time or shampoo her hair many times a day.

Dr. David Rosenberg, M.D., a psychiatrist at The Detroit Medical Center and Wayne State University, specializes in treating patients with ODC, particularly those between 15 and 25 years of age. " It is vital that we provide effective treatments for OCD. Of course, to provide treatment, we must know who has the condition."

Wednesday, May 7, is National Anxiety Disorder Screening Day, University Psychiatric Centers, part of The Detroit Medical Center and WSU, will provide free anxiety disorder screenings 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., including at the University Psychiatric Center-Livonia, 16832 Newburgh, Livonia, (313) 464-4220.

Participants will complete a self-inventory analysis and meet with a mental health professional to review the results and find out more about anxiety disorders. Screening is available for children, adolescents and adults.

For more information, call (313) 577-7792.

Screenings will also be offered at the Center for Behavior and Medicine in Canton, Pioneer Counseling Services in Livonia and St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Bringing up Baby

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

Joe Sparks of Livonia is among a growing number of fathers taking parenting classes to learn how to care for their new baby and to understand emotional changes happening to the mother. "I want to be a good father and to be a good father you have to learn things," said Sparks, who will be a first-time dad at the end of May.

"After going through the birthing class, it's obvious that she got the raw end of the deal as far as that goes," Sparks said. "If there's something I can learn from bathing to understanding the different cries and some of the other practical things that I can help my wife out with I want to do that."

Sparks, who recently attended "Just for Dads and Beyond," taught by David Anolick at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, is among the growing ranks of men seeking out practical tips about everything from feeding and taking a baby's temperature to nurturing skills that will affect their children for a lifetime. In the last six months, more couples have been signing up for the "Newborn Care" class offered by Garden City Hospital, according to teacher Shirley Breil.

"Often it is because the dads want to know how to take care of babies. They haven't been around a lot of babies and this gives them an idea what to expect when they take the baby home," she said.

It's important for the mother and father to understand what each other are feeling about the changes in the house, according to Judy Beyersdorf, Botsford Hospital childbirth educator. "We encourage moms to get out during the first weeks after the baby is born and let dads assume the sole responsibility of the baby," she said. "Often times with the mothers and babies bonding the father can feel left out."

Sometimes the mother can feel isolated after nights of sleep deprivation and lack of communication with the father. If the father stays alone with the baby, even for a short time, he might begin to bond with his child and understand what the mother is experiencing. In the classes, dads have similar questions as do moms.

Breil suggests they go through a list that includes diaper changing and feeding. "It's hard to reassure them sometimes that once they get the baby home they will know what to do and that they will know how to care for the baby. In a short time, the things they thought would be [illegible] expert at and they will [illegible] baby."

D[illegible]

[illegible] parents that crying is the only way babies have to communicate. Men usually come to the class with different experiences and specific fears. They probably didn't play with baby dolls as much as their wives did and likely didn't babysit too many infants. Even simple things like picking the baby up is foreign.

"Men just normally have so much strength in their hands and arms that they are afraid they won't hold the baby right or that they will drop it," she added. "As soon as they have the first ones they are experts with the second."

They often feel stressed, because they worry about being the sole provider for the infant. "As old-fashioned as that may sound, they think of themselves in that capacity and they worry about it," Breil said. "There have been discussions about that, because a lot of men have the same concerns."

Anolick hears similar conversations during his classes. Parents feel that financial strain even when both are working. "The financial burden is substantial, especially with both parents working, the child care costs are rather expensive," said Anolick, who encourages his students to talk about traditional and contemporary attitudes about fatherhood.

"We're trying to offer practical advice and ideas for them to meet their own challenges of fatherhood," said Anolick, the father of Mary, 5, and Alison, 3. Most men don't get a lot of support from family and friends, because they talk to each other about some of things they go through.

"You can go to a party and the women will talk about babies for hours and men don't do that and there's a lot of things to be benefited by sharing experiences," said Anolick, adding that nothing matures a man like becoming an involved, caring father.

There are a lot of lifestyle changes to consider when a couple adds a baby to the family. "Simple things like dining out becomes a trying experience when the children are younger, or even things like traveling," he said. "When it's just the wife and husband you can get up and go just about anywhere. When the children are there it becomes a much more scheduled experience."

More and more fathers are becoming single parents in charge of children than in the past, according to Doris Wilcox, who teaches "Active Parenting Today," offered by Garden City Hospital. They're learning how to nurture their offspring and the best ways to deal with those touchy situations that mom usually dealt with in the past, like putting children to bed without a fight.

Wilcox suggests telling them there is a new household plan that includes a specific routine: When the timer goes off, for instance, the children should have their pajamas on and when it goes off the second time teeth should be brushed and they should be in bed waiting for a book to be read. If they don't meet the expectations, parents might say they won't be read to that night, or that the bedtime will be earlier the next day, because obviously they need more time.

Other fathers ask how they can get their kids to stop fighting. "Many times they are just looking for attention and it's a good idea for the parent not to get involved with the confrontation," Wilcox said. Giving logical consequences for bad behavior really has a profound effect, she said, explaining that a child should be told what is expected and if those expectations aren't met what will happen.

Parents have to follow through on what they promised to do or the child won't believe them next time. "I really like this series, because the feedback is that these things really work," she said. "And they're actually surprised. I was surprised when I started using them with my children."

Strokes often offer early warning signs

If you miss the warning signs of a brain attack, you may be putting your senses, speech and memory in danger in a matter of minutes. Brain attacks, commonly known as strokes, affect different people in different ways. When a brain attack occurs, severe injuries in mental and bodily functions – even death – can result.

Knowing the warning signs of stroke and seeking immediate medical treatment if you notice any signals are critical in avoiding the No. 3 killer in the United States.

A brain attack occurs when the blood supply to the brain is cut off. Both brain attack and heart attack are diseases of the circulatory system caused by rupturing or blocking of arteries. During a brain attack, the brain is starved for oxygen and brain cells begin to die within minutes. That is why immediate medical attention is crucial.

The warning signs associated with stroke are:

■ Sudden weakness or numbness of the face, arm or leg on one side of the body;
■ Sudden dimness or loss of vision, particularly in one eye;
■ Loss of speech, or trouble talking or understanding speech;
■ Sudden, severe headaches with no apparent cause;
■ Unexplained dizziness, unsteadiness or sudden falls, especially along with any of the previous symptoms.

If you experience one or more of the warning signs of brain attack, get medical help immediately. Early intervention can minimize brain injury, and preventive care may reduce the risk of stroke, according to the American Heart Association.

About 10 percent of brain attacks are preceded by "temporary strokes." These can occur days, weeks or even months before a major stroke.

Temporary strokes, also known as transient ischemic attacks or TIAs, result when a blood clot temporarily clogs an artery and part of the brain doesn't get the supply of blood it needs. The symptoms are like those of a full-fledged brain attack. They occur rapidly and last a relatively short time, usually from a few minutes to several hours.

For more information on brain attack prevention or to contact a Stroke Club, call the American Heart Association at 1-800-AHA-USA-1. May is Stroke Awareness Month.

National award

The Long-Term Care Administration Program at Madonna University in Livonia has been named recipient of the American College of Health Care Administrators' Education Award. The annual award recognizes an individual or organization for educational programs, seminars or workshops that, because of their content, innovative approach or other special components, have made an outstanding contribution to the field.

Dr. Karen Ross, dean of Madonna University's College of Social Sciences, is accepting the award at the 31st annual ACHCA Convocation May 3-7 in Minneapolis, Minn.

Physician on staff

Family practitioner Dr. Steven M. Lewin, D.O., has joined the staff of Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills. He is associated with Plymouth practitioner Dr. Robert Gordon, D.O.

Lewin is a graduate of the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine and also completed a radiology residency at Botsford. He is a member of the American Osteopathic Association, Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, Wayne County Osteopathic Association, American Osteopathic College of Family Physicians, and the American Osteopathic College of Radiology.

He lives in West Bloomfield.

Busy clinic

Dr. Howard M. Wright, D.O., is founder and director of the Dearborn Family Clinic. The family medical practice will launch extended appointment hours until 10 p.m. weekdays and until 5 p.m. Saturday, beginning May 12. Dearborn Family Clinic is affiliated with Garden City Hospital.

"In listening to our patients, we found that many of them are finding it more difficult to shuffle family responsibilities, jobs and other commitments," said Wright. "At the same time, our patients value access to their regular doctor who knows their medical history. We found a real gap in the availability of this type of after hours care."

The clinic is at 3133 S. Telegraph, south of Michigan Avenue in Dearborn. For information, call (313) 565-6566.

Midwives on staff

Certified Nurse Midwives Cheryl Bachman of Saline and Jennifer Cartwright of Berkley have been granted medical staff privileges at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Ann Arbor. MARKETPLACE

Marketplace features a glimpse of suburban business news and notes, including corporate name changes, new products, office openings, new affiliations, new positions, mergers, acquisitions and new ways of doing business. Items for Marketplace should be submitted to Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. The fax number is (313) 591-7279.

Accreditation

The University of Michigan-Dearborn School of Management has achieved accreditation of its bachelor's and master's degree programs in business administration from the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business.

The accreditation was approved by the AACSB board of directors recently.

"The accreditation process evaluated the quality of the school's programs within the context of our stated mission and goals," said Eric Brucker, dean of the School of Management. Demanding quality standards were met in such areas as curriculum, faculty resources, admissions, degree requirements, library and computer facilities, financial resources and intellectual climate, he said.

Site development

TolTest Inc., an environmental engineering and consulting firm with a Plymouth office, recently completed site development services for the demolition of Ford Motor Company's former World Headquarters on Schaefer Road in Dearborn. The building served as Ford's headquarters from 1928 to 1956 but has been vacant since 1993 when Ford Customer Service Division relocated its offices.

TolTest surveyed the entire building for asbestos and lead-based paint and wrote specifications for the removal of all asbestos-containing materials. TolTest, following contractor award, performed oversight and monitoring services of the demolition/abatement contractor.

Jeffrey M. Ryan, TolTest vice president of environmental services, said, "We're excited about continuing to expand our relationship with Ford Motor Company. This was just one more high-end project we've had the opportunity to work on for Ford."

Knowledge development

Detroit businesses now have access to a unique computer training facility that features rentable upscale technology classrooms. Knowledge Development Centers are so innovative that founder Tony Wells is featured in Success magazine in a feature on "Pioneers Under 40."

Iris Gerken and Greg Freisner comprise the Operations Team for the Knowledge Development Center in Southfield, at 2000 Prudential Town Center, Suite 200. Freisner is the general manager and one of five owners of the KDC. Gerken is the administrative manager. Their responsibilities include the opening and continuing operations of the facility.

Supplier acknowledged

Standard Die & Fabricating, a Livonia-based automotive supplier, was honored by Follmer, Rudzewicz & Co., a certified public accounting firm, for successfully completing its ISO training program and earning ISO 9001 certification.

"Typically, it takes a company between one and two years to perform the necessary documentation and implementation to achieve certification status," said Alan K. Lund, ISO/QS certified lead assessor. "As a result of FRC's program, Standard Die & Fabricating became certified in less than a year, drastically reducing their costs."

WAYNE BUSINESS Focus

Telnet, once boring, given a brand-new attitude

EMORY DANIELS

O&E ONLINE

There may be new life around the corner for Telnet, one of the granddaddies of the Internet.

In the early days of the Internet, there was no software suite available but two basic tools – Telnet and FTP. Telnet was the tool used to connect to another computer and read what was there. If you wanted to download a document, you grabbed FTP.

Since then, the Web has so overpowered the other tools of the Internet that die-hard Telnet users refer to the many access sites Telnet connects to as "rest of the Net." Among this vast land of information available to Telnet users are thousands of computer bulletin boards (BBS), government databases, public libraries, Telnet Talkers and virtual entertainment systems such as Multiple User Dungeons (MUDs).

Telnet allows Internet users to connect directly with a computer anywhere in the world and use the remote computer's full power to run programs and process information. When connected, the user's personal computer acts as a remote terminal of the distant computer.

Unlike Web connections which open and then immediately close when information is accessed, Telnet connections remain open constantly while the user is logged on to the remote computer. This constant two-way communications interactivity gives Telnet sites an advantage in such areas as interactive publishing and real-time gaming.

Lagging behind Web

In spite of this power, however, Telnet has lagged far behind the Web. One reason is that Telnet systems use a character-based interface that is difficult to navigate and requires computer users to have knowledge of (gasp!) Unix commands. Telnet sites are not linked as together in the manner that Web sites are. But the telling blow is that Telnet is a text-only world in which graphics are not permitted.

Despite Telnet's power, popular Web browsers such as Netscape or Microsoft Internet Explorer do not include Telnet capabilities. You can go to a Telnet site using a browser (if it's configured to use Telnet) by using the URL format of telnet://oeonline.com in the "open" or "goto" box. But Telnet is not incorporated into browsers in the same way as E-mail and news groups are.

A fascinating (to me) development occurred in April when TeleGrafix Communications Inc. of Winchester, Va., announced it was shipping a commercial version of RIPtel Visual Telnet.

RIPtel is a new type of browser that allows users to visit Telnet sites and view colorful, point-and-click graphics. Promoters promise that Telnet sites will become as graphically robust and multimedia-enriched as Web sites now are.

Right now RIPtel can provide a graphical look at a Telnet site only by connecting to a site that has redone itself to accommodate a graphical look. Thus, right now RIPtel can provide a graphical look only at a few demo sites the manufacturer has lined up. At other sites you get a text-only look, although you still have the advantage of ease of use with RIPtel.

When connecting to a demo Telnet site, the appearance is much like a Web site. And RIPtel operates much like a Web browser. And so the long-term result will be having Telnet sites "joining" the Web community. Because RIPtel can operate as an add-on to a browser, the long-term result might be the elimination of Telnet as we know it today.

A free 60-day trial version of RIPtel Visual Telnet for evaluation review can be downloaded at TeleGrafix's at http://www.telegrafix.com.

RIPtel is compatible with Windows 3.1, Win95 and Windows NT and can be launched as a stand-alone Telnet browser or from within browsers such as Netscape Navigator or Microsoft Internet Explorer.

After the 60-day evaluation period, RIPtel will cost $19.95 if downloaded or $29.95 plus shipping if ordered on diskette.

The program makes it simple (no Unix) to connect to big mainframe computers worldwide and run programs remotely on those systems.

Rocket across Net

"Instead of surfing Web pages at a snail's pace, now you can rocket across the Internet to run programs and solve problems on the world's most powerful mainframe systems with point-and-click simplicity," says Pat Clawson, president of TeleGrafix.

Clawson, by the way, is a Michigan native. Originally from Clio (about 10 miles north of Flint), Clawson once was a science writer for the Flint Journal who in the early 1970s was a newscaster at WCAR-AM, WABX-FM and WHNE-FM in Detroit.

RIPtel's technology eliminates the need for corporations, governments and institutions to convert information from legacy mainframe systems to Web format, thus potentially saving millions of dollars in data conversion and Intranet costs. TeleGrafix expects RIPtel will open the door to 10s of thousands of new Telnet "channels" on the Internet, providing such benefits as graphical database access, dynamic "on the fly" mapping, and robust electronic newspapers.

If you visit TeleGrafix's Web site to download the trial software, spend a few moments at www.telegrafix.com to explore. There are some real handy links which for former Telnet users will be like a trip down memory lane.

Among the many links you will find are some to Telnet resources such as hytelnet (a tool made available on O&E Online's original dial-up resource) at University of Saskatchewan, the Telnet WWW Board, Netlink's List of Telnet sites, a directory of BBS systems, Community Networks and Freenets, university Telnet sites, chess player Telnet servers, MUD sites, libraries, chat links, weather sites, and FedWorld, the gateway to dozens of U.S. government Telnet sites.

You'll also find information on other Telnet software tools such as RIPscrip Live and Telnet Tracker.

OPEN HOUSE OF THE WEEK

12728 Haverhill
Plymouth
W. of Sheldon, S. of North Territorial
RE/MAX on the trail
$340,000

Families love Walnut Creek's rolling terrain and traditional homes that are situated on lushly landscaped scenic 1/3-acre estate-sized lots.

And this classic brick Beacon Hill colonial is perfect if you're looking for a special home with picture-perfect private "commons" setting and tranquil nature-filled views of a pond that attracts herons, geese and ducks.

The spacious 2,800-plus square-foot floorplan is perfect for active lifestyles and formal entertaining.

Upstairs you'll appreciate four oversized bedrooms including the roomy 18x13 master bedroom with private bathroom. Plus three more generously sized bedrooms.

The walkout lower level offers 1,270+ more square feet with infinite possibilities to enhance your lifestyle. There's plenty of natural light, and it's ready to finish with insulated walls and rough-ins in place for a full bathroom.

Homes in Windridge offer style and location

Windridge
Seven Mile
1/4 mile W. of Haggerty
Northville Township
S.R. Jacobson
From $300,000

Families love coming home to Windridge, a fresh community offering the area's best new homes plus the highly regarded quality of life found in Northville Township.

At Windridge, the innovative floor plans from S.R. Jacobson Development Corp.'s "Gold Series" artfully blend traditional styling with the best new contemporary concepts, for homes that accommodate today's multi-faceted lifestyles.

Three and four bedroom designs feature all the extras families want: rooms for formal and informal living, spacious kitchens and sun filled nooks, family rooms with fireplaces and soaring ceilings and private master suites with luxurious baths.

Streetscapes in Windridge are spectacular with homes painstakingly placed within the naturally wooded landscape and featuring three-car, side-entry garages for beautiful front elevations.

At Windridge, floor plans range from approximately 2,600 square feet to more than 3,000 square feet with dramatic interiors that include all the extras you'd expect to find in much more expensive neighborhoods.

The subdivision is in the Northville School District and near to boutiques and antique shops. It is convenient to I-275, I-96 and I-696.

For more information, call (810)-305-9449.

Open daily, noon to 6 p.m.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"REALTORS ARE ESSENTIAL"

In today's complicated world, Realtors have become an essential resource for both the buyer and seller. Realtors are prepared to answer the following questions:

FOR THE BUYER
What kind of home can I afford?

Which area will best serve my needs?

Which floor plan is the best investment?

Which mortgage lender should I use?

Which home inspector should I hire?

FOR THE SELLER:
How much is my home worth on today's market?

How should I prepare my home for sale?

How much should I ask for my house?

Who will assure me that my prospects are qualified buyers?

What is a Seller's Disclosure Form?

Which marketing approach is best for my property?

Who will negotiate on my behalf when I receive an offer?

Who will handle all the details of closing the sale?

ADVICE: The next time you are buying or selling real estate, use the services of a Realtor.

Secretaries celebrate and reflect on changes

By Sheryl Silver, Career Source

April 20-26th marked the 45th year Professional Secretaries Week, sponsored by the Kansas City headquartered association Professional Secretaries International (PSI), was celebrated. It seems an appropriate time to reflect on both the changing role of secretaries as well as those traditions that have remained intact.

Technology has clearly contributed to a great many changes that have impacted secretaries in recent years -- both in terms of the duties they perform, as well as the skills and equipment required to execute those responsibilities.

That fact is well illustrated by a recent survey of over 800 PSI members, which found, among other things, that only 20.2 percent of secretaries currently use a typewriter daily. The percentage is down from 51.3 percent in 1992. In contrast, the use of computer technology by secretaries continues to rise. Over eighty nine percent of survey respondents indicated proficiency in the use of spreadsheet. That number is up from 72.9 percent in 1992. Proficiency and use of presentation graphics has risen even more dramatically during the same period. According to the survey, 73.1 percent of respondents now report proficiency in presentation graphics compared with just 40.5 percent in 1992. The survey also found 30.3 percent of those surveyed use desktop publishing software and 53.2 percent use online services. Over twenty six percent of survey respondents reported daily use of an online service in their jobs.

According to Kathryn Burroughs, the 1996-97 international president of PSI, "technology has freed secretaries from some of the more mundane duties they performed in the past. Many executives with personal computers will key in their own letters and reports, freeing the assistant to compose letters based on direction from the boss." Burroughs further notes, "Voice mail enables the secretary to leave the desk to administer matters away from the department."

Those changes have contributed, said Burroughs, to making it "a very exciting tie to be an office professional." "Our positions have grown tremendously," she added. "Secretaries and administrative specialists have become the key software and information resources in the office, taking on greater responsibilities as companies strive to operate with leaner staffs."

Another change worth noting: the job title of secretary isn't being used as universally as was true in the past. Perhaps reflecting the more diverse responsibilities now performed by secretaries, the PSI survey found that for the first time, fewer than half -- in fact, only 41 percent of survey respondents -- hold the titles of "secretary," "executive secretary" or "administrative secretary." That compares with 55.1 percent who held such titles as recently as 1992. Use of the titles "administrative assistant" and "executive assistant", by contrast, jumped to 31.6 percent from just 13.4 percent during the same period. An additional 22.3 percent of those surveyed reported holding other titles such as "coordinator," "administrator," and "associate."

Despite these changes, some important aspects of the profession have remained the same. For one, grammar skills and attention to detail remain as critical as ever for those in these positions. The "spellcheck" function in software doesn't catch every error, particularly when the mistakes are related more to word meaning and grammar than spelling.

The ability for secretaries and administrative support professionals to advance into other professions also remains intact. In fact, as today's secretaries and administrative professionals take on more sophisticated and varied responsibilities than ever before, they are finding new avenues for advancement opening up. In addition to those fields such as human resources, public relations, marketing and sales, that have long provided opportunities to advance into professional, managerial and in some cases, even executive roles, today opportunities related to desktop publishing, to the Internet, and to the help desk and customer support function of organizations can also be added to the list of potential career paths available to secretaries and administrative support professionals.

Of course, for those who enjoy being secretaries and seek to make it a long term career role, the opportunities to do so remain plentiful. Referring to projections by the U.S. Department of Labor Bureau of Labor Statistics, Burroughs says, "A very positive sign is the projected growth of nearly 400,000 new secretarial/administrative specialist jobs by the year 2005." According to PSI, the addition of 261,000 positions for clerical supervisors and managers is also forecast for the period 1994-2005.

WORKING LIFE

What's Yours to Take When You Leave a Job

By Deborah L. Jacobs, Chronicle Features

For better or worse, you're moving on--either because you've found another job, or have been fired from your current one. What can you take with you when you leave the company?

Legally, not much. Although lame ducks help themselves to everything from staplers to secret formulas, taking company property is a calculated risk. Among other things, it could expose your to charges of theft, or a lawsuit for walking off with confidential material.

Trouble is, what belongs to you and what belongs to the boss isn't always clear. The easiest cases involve items the company has paid for or provided for your use at work. Examples include keys, I.D. cards, computer access codes, and customer lists--all of which you must give back when you go. And it's definitely a no-no to take private information (like knowledge of the company's products and prices) from one job and use it at the next.

Some businesses require all workers to sign sweeping statement that they won't take anything "proprietary." The definition may include more than some employees expect, says Penny Nathan Kahan, a Chicago lawyer. Typically covered: files, copies of memos and reports, and documents workers prepare in the course of doing their jobs.

Even without such blanket agreements, anything you create on company time with company equipment is technically company property. So it's best to get permission before taking samples of your work, for instance. most bosses will oblige, particularly if you offer to delete client names or other confidential information.

Sometimes what's yours depends on the circumstances. Consider frequent flier miles. If you're allowed to use them while you work at a place, "the company has given you a signal that they're yours" when you leave, says Houston lawyer, Margaret Harris. In other cases, it's best to ask.

Notes complimenting you on a job well done are usually a safe bet unless they mention client names, Harris says. Another caveat: the notes must have come to you in the course of business. If you sneak into the personnel office to copy them, you might be accused of stealing.

Similar advice applies to personnel records. When state or company rules give you a right to get copies, you can certainly request them (or take home duplicates you've already received), Harris says. Just don't violate protocol by sneaking them out.

Let's say you were fired illegally and are thinking of suing. Harris suggests you compile a list of the documents you might need, so your lawyer can request copies. Tempted as you might be to make your own duplicates, that could hurt you in a lawsuit.

When a company has paid for your Rolodex (or the electronic equivalent) you must leave it behind. But what to do about the content of that directory leaves lawyers splitting hairs. Most attorneys draw the line between material that's given to you (like sales contacts), which you definitely can't take, and contacts that you've made in the course of doing your job, which you may be able to bring along.

If you're on good footing with your employer and the boss isn't likely to balk, you might just go ahead and take the Rolodex, says Jeffrey menter (cq), a lawyer in Greenwood Village, Colo. Otherwise, ask for permission and offer to give your employer a copy of the contents, Menter advises.

Whenever you're unsure about what's your, getting written approval is the most prudent route. And the ideal time to raise the subject is during severance negotiations. It's a good idea to get a lawyer to help, which shouldn't take more than an hour or two (at a cost of $150-300 an hour).

The severance agreement should say you've returned everything that belongs to the company and list what you're allowed to keep. If you're getting less money than you'd hoped for, these extras can certainly sweeten the pot.

Deborah Jacobs welcomes letters from readers and will address topics of general interest in this column. Contact her by e-mail (DJWorking@aol.com) or by letter at: Chronicle Features, 870 Market Street, Suite 1011, San Francisco, Calif.,

Make your presence known on the internet

By Alice Bredin, Tribune Media

This past Saturday I spoke at a small business conference, and the question I heard from entrepreneurs all day was, "What can I do to market my business online?"

On-line marketing has become to small business owners what the stock market is to baby boomers: Many people feel as though they should be involved, but very few believe they know what they should be doing.

If you run a home-based business, you might be able to benefit from some on-line opportunities to reach new customers without revealing that you operate from a spare bedroom or the den.

Of course, if your target customers are not on-line and the professionals in your industry are not using the Internet to network, you probably don't need to worry about on-line marketing right now.

For most home-based business owners, however, here are some simple ways you can market your business, even without your own Web site:

-Visit newsgroups. Newsgroups are loosely organized discussion groups focused on a particular topics. Newsgroups are organized by type: biz (business orientation), rec (recreation), comp (computers), alt (alternative), sci (science), talk and news.

To market yourself in a newsgroup, search for ones that your target customers are likely to use and then participate in a way that demonstrates your expertise.

For example, if you run a pet supply company, you could go to the dogs and allergies newsgroup. After contributing an answer to a question or a piece of relevant information that demonstrates your expertise, you can plug yourself.

Your plug can simply be, "by the way, I run a pet supply store if you ever need anything let me know," followed by your e-mail and snail-mail address, along with your business phone number. Be aware that advertising is highly frowned upon, so don't post a message that says, "Hey, I run a great home-based business, buy from me."

For a primer on newsgroups go to the Usenet Info Center Launch Pad (http://sunsite.unc.edu/usenet-b/home.html), it has questions and answers about newsgroups, a searchable database of newsgroups and information on topics such as how to create a signature file.

Share your knowledge with people who seek advice in on-line forums. Forums are places on the Web and on commercial on-line services in which experts answer questions about everything from finding financing to public relations and fixing computers. Supplement the answers the expert provides with useful information, and then sign off with a brief description of your business along with contact information.

For example, a public relations specialist might write, "I wanted to add two other ideas to the expert's response. ... If you ever need someone to write a press release or conduct a campaign for you, please feel free to contact us at ABC Public Relations."

The key to success with this method is to demonstrate your value by providing useful information, not a sales pitch, to the person you contact.

Participate in mailing lists relevant to your business. When you send a message to the list, it gets forwarded to the e-mail addresses of people interested in that common subject. For example, if you sell beads, you might want to subscribe to one of the many crafts lists.

When people add a question or a comment to the list, you can send them some tips on working with beads or finding supplies, of course, after providing the information, you can say, "I sell supplies if you ever need anything." For a searchable directory of mailing lists, check out www.Liszt.com.

In next week's column, I will cover how to market yourself online if you have a Web site.

Boss waits three years to issue warning

By Lindsey Novak, Tribune Media

Q: My boss had just moved into his position when I was hired three years ago. I'm 40 years old and have never had anyone complain about me like he does. I have always tried to do the right thing, but he nitpicks everything. He recently gave me a written warning and threatened my job I admit that my typing skills need improving, but it's been one thing after another. Now I feel like I'm walking on pins and needles when he's around.

I spoke to his boss, who asked that we try to work together better, which was not what I wanted to hear. I make good money and don't want to leave my job. Any advice?

A: It's not clear whether you spoke to his boss confidentially, who then asked that you try to work it out, or whether the three of you met together and he asked both of you to work at it. If the first scenario is correct, you need to talk directly to your boss.

He may be a tolerant boss who should have been more direct with you a long time ago. he has, after all, worked with you for three years and this is the first warning you have received. Since you admit that your typing needs improvement, he may be tired of your making the same mistakes without trying to improve on your own.

Attitude is as important - and sometimes more important - than a person's performance. your boss may want employees who try to correct things before he has to threaten them with loss of their jobs. if you want to keep your job, turn into the self-motivating type immediately, and explain to your boss how much the job means to you. Since he's waited three years to register a formal complaint, maybe he'll have a heart and give you a chance.

TEMPORARY WORK CAUSES WORKER'S CONCERN

Q: I have many questions regarding temporary work. I've been working for the last six months for various temporary agencies as a clerk. The job descriptions the agency gives me over the phone are wrong about 98 percent of the time; once I'm there, the job is completely different from what i've been told.

A few times I have been dismissed after several days and told I was not needed, or did not fit in. Don't they have to give me advance notice? Other times I've been offered jobs. The agency told me I am not allowed to apply on my own to any of the companies they send me to from three to six months after the job. Is this legal? It's hard financially to be "here today, gone tomorrow."

A: The temporary agency may add a little more appeal to the job to get you interested. But if the job descriptions are inaccurate, the representative in charge of hiring the temp may not be familiar with what's really needed. One of the advantages to temporary work, for you and the company, is that you can decide that day that you don't want to return to a particular company. Likewise, the company is not required to give you advance notice if it is not pleased with your performance or if the job is no longer needed.

Companies using temp agencies sign agreements to pay agency fees if they hire temp employees into permanent positions. After all, the agency did find you the job. Many people like working permanently for temporary agencies because it allows them to be in charge of their tie. But if the sudden and continual job changes are unsettling to you, you might consider accepting a full-time position the next time one is offered.

Having problems on the job? Write to Lindsey Novak in care of Tribune Media Services, Inc., 435 N. Michigan Ave., Suite 1500, Chicago, Ill. 60611. She can also be contacted at AtWorkbyLN@AOL.com

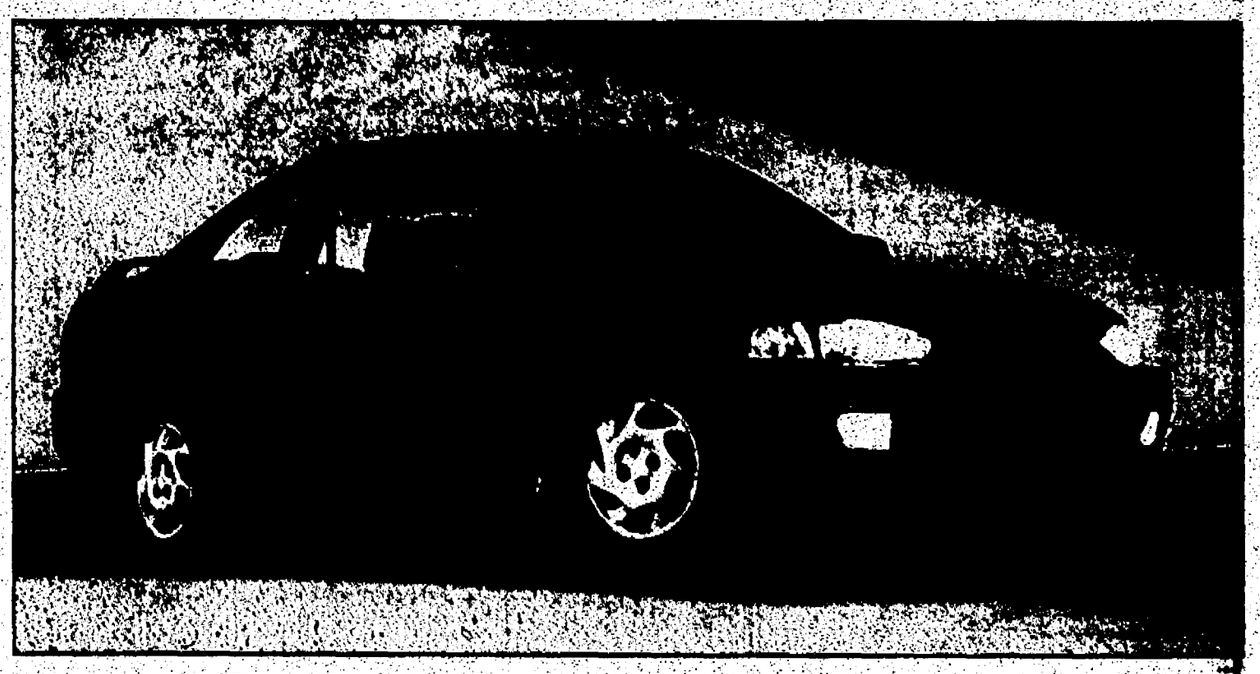
Mirage subcompact delivers safety, value

CAReport

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures



Tested was the Mirage coupe LS. This year, it's wider, longer and taller on the outside, much more spacious on the inside — front leg room and the trunk is 1 cubic foot larger than the model it replaces. Those with long legs will appreciate it — it's much more comfy.

The conversion van jutted into my lane so fast I didn't have time to react. I had been clipping along at about 70 — the speed limit just outside the airport — when all I could do was slam on the brakes.

The 1997 Mitsubishi Mirage yawed right, I corrected it and held on to the steering wheel tight until I came to a stop — off the freeway and into the ditch. Hyperventilating from the scare, a young guy in a dark Camaro stopped to see if I was OK.

After I had calmed down and stopped shaking, he took a quick walk around the car, told me it was all there, then said, "That was some driving."

You bet.

I can thank the training I got at two Skip Barber schools I had attended several years back when Mitsubishi introduced a few of its new models. I had thought back then that all I'd learned about crash avoidance, keeping a car under control during a skid and everything else they taught us in the day-long session wouldn't be remembered when I really needed it.

But in an instant, it all came back and kept me — and the Mirage — from harm. Hours later, when the shoulder pain kicked in, I was still shaken.

This Mirage coupe LS is a cute little number. It's nimble, it's quick and it's fun to drive.

This is an all-new Mirage, by the way. Outside and in, it's been redesigned and re-engineered. The Mirage can be bought as a coupe or sedan and in two trim levels: DE and LS.

Tested was the Mirage coupe LS. This year, it's wider, longer and taller on the outside, much more spacious on the inside — front leg room and the trunk is 1 cubic foot larger than the model it replaces. Those with long legs will appreciate it — it's much more comfy.

This Mirage is a strong car. It's quiet (both the engine and road noise is absolutely minimum), it's comfortable and it's roomy enough for four adults.

I had the rare opportunity drive both the automatic transmission and the 5-speed manual transmission of the Mirage and I have to say, both are easy to drive. The 5-speed will give you a bit more versatility and a lot of fun opportunities to be creative. The automatic isn't sluggish on take-offs and performs well on the highway.

As I found out first-hand, the Mirage is outfitted with all the safety features you would want, including dual front air bags, side-guard door beams, collapsible bumpers and a stiffer body structure that provides better protection during a crash.

Subcompacts are supposed to be, well, dull. The subcompact segment itself is actually pretty ordinary ... full of get-you-there cars.

Not so with Mirage, which is a real cutie. It offers more comfort, more room, more amenities than you'd ever expect in the subcompact market. The best part is the price.

The Mirage LS sedans I drove were based at $13,210 and $13,830. Even with the automatic, anti-lock brakes (still a pricey option at $732), air conditioning, stereo cassette, power windows and locks, dual power door mirrors, intermittent wipers, cruise control, and tinted glass, it cost $16,619. Not bad.

The DE models are powered by a 1.5-liter single overhead cam 4-cylinder that produces 92 horsepower. The LS sedan and coupe have an upgraded SOHC 1.8-liter that cranks out 113 horsepower.

On its face, it sounds like that's not enough horsepower. But I had no complaints when taking off from a light, pulling out of my subdivision or passing on the highway. The Mirage performed nicely and consistently.

The base DE is nicely equipped with remote trunk and fuel door releases, electric rear window defroster, dual cupholders, passenger visor vanity mirror, center console, tinted glass, AM/FM cassette, digital clock and intermittent wipers. Lots of other cars in this class are not as well equipped.

The instrumentation is easy to read. The instrument panel flows around you and centers everything toward the driver's control. Everything is easy to reach, allowing you to keep your eyes on the road.

I had only one complaint. The trip odometer was confusing. There was only one stalk to change it from your normal odo to the trip odo. I still like to see both separate, rather than together.

The mileage numbers were also impressive — 29 in the city and 37 on the highway. Makes it a perfect car for a college kid who lives away from home.

The Mirage is a strong contender for a single gal or guy, family of four or the person who just drives to work and back.

the automatic, anti-lock brakes (still a pricey option at $732), air conditioning, stereo cassette, power windows and locks, dual power door mirrors, intermittent wipers, cruise control, and tinted glass, it cost $16,619. Not bad.

The DE models are powered by a 1.5-liter single overhead cam 4-cylinder that produces 92 horsepower. The LS sedan and coupe have an upgraded SOHC 1.8-liter that cranks out 113 horsepower.

On its face, it sounds like that's not enough horsepower. But I had no complaints when taking off from a light, pulling out of my subdivision or passing on the highway. The Mirage performed nicely and consistently.

The base DE is nicely equipped with remote trunk and fuel door releases, electric rear window defroster, dual cupholders, passenger visor vanity mirror, center console, tinted glass, AM/FM cassette, digital clock and intermittent wipers. Lots of other cars in this class are not as well equipped.

The instrumentation is easy to read. The instrument panel flows around you and centers everything toward the driver's control. Everything is easy to reach, allowing you to keep your eye on the road.

I had only one complaint. The trip odometer was confusing. There was only one stalk to change it from your normal odo to the trip odo. I still like to see both separate, rather than together.

The mileage numbers were also impressive — 29 in the city and 37 on the highway. Makes it a perfect car for a college kid who lives away from home.

The Mirage is a strong contender for a single gal or guy, family of four or the person who just drives to work and back.

JUST WHAT YOU'D EXPECT FROM AN IMPORT.

SATURN JAPAN

Now that we've established a name for ourselves here for making one of the [illegible] cars around, we've decided to try our luck as a Japanese import. We hope [illegible] in Japan will hear all the great stuff people have been saying about us here in the States. Like [illegible] one of the highest resale values of any car in our class,* how we consistently score [illegible] high-priced luxury cars when it comes to sales satisfaction and just generally how much [illegible] driving their Saturns. If you're curious about Saturn yourself, don't worry, we didn't send all the [illegible]
