Student recovering following stabbing

Police have made several arrests in a stabbing incident in which a 14-year-old Westland boy was injured. His family is worried about his safety in the future; police are calling the violence a random act.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Despite heightened security and the arrest of juveniles suspected of assaulting and stabbing her son near Marshall Middle School, a Westland mother isn't convinced that the boy will be safe if he returns to classes.

Mary Young said Tuesday she hasn't decided whether to send her 14-year-old son, Neil, back to the school where he was attacked in a field and stabbed four times.

"I can't go to work and feel secure that he's safe at school," she said.

Westland police have heightened security around Marshall following Neil Young's stabbing last Thursday as he and 12-year-old classmate Steve Young, no relation, crossed a field behind the school.

Neil Young suffered a wound to his spleen, another to his right leg and two wounds to his left arm. Drenched in blood, he managed to walk five blocks home for help following the attack that police confirmed as random.

The boy's mother rushed him to Oakwood Hospital Annapolis Center-Wayne, where he spent four days before his release Monday afternoon.

Steve Young was beaten up but not stabbed during the incident that occurred shortly after 2:30 p.m. as the boys left school and walked across a field toward Kmart at Wayne Road and Cherry Hill.

"It appears to be a random act, and it doesn't appear to be gang-related in any way," Westland police Sgt. Tom Kubitskey said. "The victims and the suspects do not know each other." Police arrested three of five suspects on Mon-

Special Sunday

Kimberly Sydenstricker had a special day Sunday.

Not only was it her birthday and Mother's Day, but she gave birth to her own child as well.

"She (Kim) was born on Mother's Day and wastelling all her friends at work she wanted to have it on her birthday," said proud grandpa John Sydenstricker of Beaverton in Northern Michigan, who called the Observer to share the good news.

Kim and fiance David Woodworth are celebrating the birth of their son this week. He was born at 9:20 a.m. Sunday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. He weighed 8 pounds, 8 ounces and was 21 inches long.

Her doctors had offered May 15 as the due date, but baby Chase Carmon Woodworth decided to visit a few days early.

Kim said she was surprised at the Sunday delivery. " Especially because I'd been joking to everybody all along," she said.

Kim currently lives in Wayne, grew up in West-land and attended Wayne Memorial High School. Her mother Karen Duka still lives in Westland and other relatives live in the Westland, Garden City and Wayne areas.

Former Westland Parks and Recreation Director Charles Skene admitted to a gambling problem and to borrowing money from his department's safe, a police official testified Wednesday.

"He admitted that he was addicted to gambling," Lt. Gary Sikorski said during Skene's preliminary hearing in Wayne District Court.

Westland police trailed Skene to a Windsor gambling casino investigating allegations that he embezzled money from the city-run Bailey Recreation Center, Sikorski testified.

Skene, 46, admitted during an interview that he also gambled illegally, Sikorski said. A search of trash Skene discarded near Westland City Hall while he was under surveillance revealed gambling paperwork. Skene visited the Riverboat Casino twice one evening, and he was seen entering his office between the visits, Sikorski said.

In a deepening probe by Livonia police, Skene also is suspected of withdrawing money from a bank account for a local softball association, according to testimony. Skene, as treasurer, is suspected of illegally taking money from the club to replenish funds he took in Westland.

Sikorski's statements came during a preliminary hearing that ended Wednesday with Skene being ordered to stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court on five felony embezzling charges. He could face a maximum 10-year prison term if convicted.

"Obviously we are disappointed," defense attorney Stephen Boak said after Visiting Judge Glen Valasco made his ruling. "We see the eyi; dence - or lack of evidence - in a much different light."

Boak predicted that Skene will-be acquitted; he remains free on a $5,000 personal bond.

Skene is accused of embezzing from a Bailey Center safe where his department's money was kept and where a therapeutic booster fund for disabled people was stored. The incli-

June 30 can't be renewed by local voters.

District officials have made strides to reduce an impending $5 million deficit to about $1.5 million. But more cost-cutting measures are needed.

Wright, a 49-year-old mental health social worker, called for more intense lobbying efforts to convince state legislators that equitable funding among districts is needed. But Wright also said local officials should consider efforts such as using special education monies elsewhere in the budget; selling off more surplus property; launching schoolbusiness partnerships when possible; negotiating with employee unions for concessions; reducing substitute teacher pay; and seeking more education grants.

Brown, a 33-year-old public relations consultant, noted that she has been involved in talks with some key state legislators to lobby for more funding specifically for Wayne-Westland. The district suffered the state's biggest post-Proposal A dollar loss, local officials have said.

Brown said the district lost about $6 million a year because of Proposal A, but she is hopeful for state help as early as June 30.

"Something has to be done legislatively," she said, adding that she won't vote for budget cuts to gut school programs.

Green, a 58-year-old retired Wayne-Westland administrator, agreed that state-level changes are necessary and that officials shouldn't return to former cuts that hurt programs.

"Proposal A was supposed to be a problem-solver, but it has become a problem-creator,' Green said. He called for efforts to improve state aid.

Aid formula change

Stange, a 52-year-old engineer, said school officials must convince state legislators to change the state-aid formula for districts. He said he has made his concerns known to lawmakers such as state Rep. Eileen DeHart, D-Westland.

Stange also questioned whether a 2-cent state sales tax increase that went into effect from Proposal A has been adequately used to support education.

Stange also said district officials should lead residents in a letter-writing campaign demanding state-level changes. He said form letters and legislator addresses could be sent to parents.

Turner, a 63-year-old retired American Airlines employee and former six-month school board appointee, said board members should seek to eliminate any duplication of services that might squeeze the budget. He also said officials should talk with employee unions about possible concessions as an alternative to any potential layoffs.

Like other candidates, Turner placed much of the blame for funding problems on state legislators, and he said state-level solutions are necessary.

McCusker, a 61-year-old Ford Motor Co. employee, said state legislators need to be convinced to remove restrictions that allow districts to seek only a 3-mill enhancement levy for two years.

"Give us the ability to ask the McCusker noted that some districts with more money, such as Birmingham, have more leeway to seek tax increases - a situation that he labeled as unfair. City Finance Director Michael Gorman testified Skene's department failed to turn over about $7.000 in monies to the city treasurer. The money was collected during six days spread over four months last year, he said.

However, Skene's secretary, Nora Herbert, testified that the city has cashed checks submitted by the parks department on the days in question.

Assistant Wayne County prosecutor Danton Wilson said in court that the checks could have other days to throw off any potential investigation.

Herbert and Margaret Martin, therapeutic program supervisor, testified they knew Skene took money from funds and left personal checks. But Herbert noted that the city had no policy against this and that other employees had done it.

Martin said she didn't object to Skene writing a personal check, although testimony indicated she had a difficult time finding Skene when she fell short on cash and needed him to replace a personal check with cash.

> Boak argued that Skene shouldn't stand trial because he used personal checks to repay the money he took and because the city had no policy against it.

"The city of Westland is certainly guilty of bad business practices," he said.

But the prosecutor argued that Skene's checks amounted to "miniature confessions."

Police link string of robberies

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Gun-wielding suspects robbed two Westland businesses last weekend, and a police lieutenant said the two incidents may be linked to a local pizzeria holdup on May 7.

. No shots were fired in either incident and no injuries reported.

Police are investigating whether all three robberies may have involved the same suspects, Westland police Lt. Marc Stobbe said Tuesday.

The latest robbery occurred when two suspects - one carrying a handgun - went into Payless Shoes at 6629 N. Wayne Road and robbed two employees of about $70, a police report said. That holdup occurred about 2:20 p.m. Sunday, about 17 hours after three suspects, including an armed man, robbed the Big & Tall Casual Male shop at 35592 Warren, just west of Westland Shopping Center, a separate police report said.

In that robbery, a suspect was carrying what was described as a small-caliber, nickel-plated handgun.

Suspects in the clothing store robbery seized several hundred dollars from a manager before using shoelaces to tie the man to a chair, a police report said.

A suspect also cut the telephone cord before he and his colleague fled the business, the report said. Witnesses reported seeing possible suspects get into a late-model, tan Ford Aerostar mini-van that was parked close to a nearby Nankin Boulevard business.

Suspects in the 8:55 p.m. Saturday incident then drove away, witnesses said. The manager was able to free himself from the shoelaces and activate a holdup alarm, a report said.

The two holdups followed a May 7 robbery in which two suspects went into Hungry Howie's pizzeria, 1820 S. Newburgh at 11:14 p.m. and seized $245 after revealing a small semiautomatic handgun, a police report said. Those suspects fled on foot.

In the Payless Shoes holdup, one suspect was described as a black male, 15 to 18 years old, about 5-foot-7, with a thin to medium build. He wore a brown winter coat, dark colored pants and a black baseball cap. A second suspect was described as a black male 15 to 18, about 5foot-5, with a medium build. He wore an orange or rust color jogging jacket and a black baseball cap.

In the Big & Tall Casual shop, one suspect was described as a black male, 18 to 21 years old and weighing about 200 pounds. He wore a horizontal striped shirt, blue jeans and white gym shoes. Two other suspects were both described as black males, about 6 feet tall and thin. Both wore black hooded sweatshirts, blue jeans, white gym shoes and black ski masks, a report said.

Similar descriptions were given for two suspects in the Hungry Howie's robbery, Anyone with information about the robberies is asked to contact the Westland Police Department. During daytime working hours, the detective bureau can be reached at 721-6311. During later hours, call the main phone number at 722-9600.

Mary and Tim Young can't erase the memory of seeing their youngest child, Neil, come home from school virtually covered in blood.

"He looked at me and said, 'Don't let me die. I don't want to die.' He had blood all over him," Mary Young, 40, said of her 14year-old son.

"I don't know how he made it home," Tim Young, 46, said of his son - the youngest of five children.

Neil Young walked five blocks from Marshall Middle School after a group of juveniles attacked him and his 12-year-old friend, Steve Young, as they crossed a school field toward a Kmart parking lot on their usual afternoon trek home.

Neil Young was stabbed in the spleen, left arm and right leg. Steve Young was beaten up during what Westland police confirmed was a random attack that followed an exchange of words last Thursday afternoon.

After coming home from a hospital Monday afternoon, Neil Young joined his parents and friend Steve Young in his family's living room for a group interview about the incident.

Mary Young broke into tears and hugged her son when - midway through the interview -aWestland police sergeant phoned to say that three of five suspects had been arrested.

"That makes me happy," Neil Young said, resting on a sofa.

A fourth suspect was arrested

Tuesday as Westland police followed leads in the attacks, and authorities hope to arrest a fifth youngster.

All reportedly live outside of Westland.

Neil Young said he and Steve left school just after 2:30 p.m. and walked across a rear field at Marshall when several boys approached them from a wooded area and wanted to fight.

The victims kept walking following an exchange of words, but three suspects attacked Neil Young as two assaulted Steve Young.

"I'd never seen them before in my life," Neil Young said.

One of his attackers pulled a knife and stabbed him four times as he tried to break free. Meanwhile, Steve Young was under assault from two suspects.

"They threw me down and they started kicking me in my head, my sides, my back and my stomach," he said.

The suspects halted their attack and fled when some other boys in the distance saw what was happening and started toward the scene, Neil Young Bleeding badly, he managed to walk five blocks home for help. His mother rushed him to Oakwood Hospital Annapolis Center-Wayne while his father notified Westland police.

Doctors initially believed that the boy had been stabbed in a lung or in his intestines, Mary

The boy came home Monday afternoon after a four-day hospital stay. One of his top priorities was to satisfy his craving for a Big Mac and fries.

Relieved that their son was alive, Mary and Tim Young nonetheless remained worried of more attacks.

"I was afraid they would come back and try to kill him," Tim Young said.

Westland police Sgt. Tom Kubitskey confirmed Tuesday that the attack appeared to be random and that it wasn't gang-day, including two 14-year-old boys and a 12-year-old boy. A fourth suspect was taken into custody Tuesday, Kubitskey said, although a fifth suspect who allegedly did the stabbing hadn't yet been arrested.

All captured suspects have been placed in a Wayne County youth home pending charges. Three of them are Inkster residents and one is from Detroit; none attend Marshall, located at 35100 Bayview.

A heated exchange of words, which Neil Young blamed on the attackers, apparently escalated into the beating and stabbing, Kubitskey said.

Greg Baracy, Wayne-Westland assistant superintendent of general administration, confirmed that the attack occurred on school property about 500 yards from the building, near the Kmart property line.

Baracy said school administrators and staff try to ensure the` safety of students leaving school.

"We can't be everywhere at once," he said Monday. "We're doing the best we can."

Marshall principal Marcia Tomasko said Westland police officers have been assigned to he could identify them. He described them as five white males. A black male also was on the scene, but he tried to get the others to stop the attack, Neil Young said.

Neil Young said he didn't know the attackers, but he said

The assailants – including four from Inkster and one from Detroit - don't attend Marshall, school officials said.

Mary Young is angry that her son was attacked while simply trying to make his way home from school.

"No one has the right to try to kill my son," she said.

the school "for the next few days" to beef up afternoon security.

"We're never had an incident like this before," she said. Neil Young's father, Tim, said he believes that school officials should block students from using the back field for a shortcut to the Kmart parking lot, where they have easy access to Wayne and Cherry Hill. A wooded area is adjacent to the field.

Tim Young suggested clearing out the wooded area and erecting a concrete wall along school property. He also said Marshall should have more security on a permanent basis.

Mary and Tim Young - who have their own business powerwashing and painting homes and businesses - want to explore the viability of enrolling their son in a private school. They said their son had raised prior concerns about safety at Marshall.

They voiced concerns that it won't be enough to place extra police officers at Marshall on a temporary basis.

School officials, however, stressed that the stabbing was an isolated incident.

"We haven't had any trouble like this before," Tomasko said.

University of Phoenix expands to Livonia

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY STAFF WRITER

Riding high on the waves of success, the University of Phoenix Michigan continues its mission of providing working adults with higher education.

"This is an expansion area by demand," explained Sarah Serra, director of the University of Phoenix Michigan. "In two months, we will have 10 classrooms in the AAA building (behind Laurel Park Mall.)"

They're currently running 18 classes throughout Livonia, Farmington and Novi in leased space.

"We have about 400 students from this area."

The University of Phoenix, a private, for-profit educational institution, is not new to Michigan. The group opened a site in Southfield in October 1995. They anticipated about 450 students after 1 1/2 years. They have about 1,600 students enrolled today.

"I knew it was going to be popular," said Serra, "but the growth and interests have been phenomenal."

The University of Phoenix Michigan "is a very, very targeted school," according to Serra. "We're not for everybody."

Classes are catered to working adults, aged 23 and above, who are looking for the opportunity to complete a bachelor of science degree or master of science degree. The majority of classes run from 6-10 p.m., Monday through Friday, for five weeks - six weeks for the master's courses.

Students only attend one class each week, and unlike the traditional schooling situations, students can begin a class at the beginning of each month.

"We enter students every month," said Serra, referring to other universities which begin classes according to semesters. "Another nice thing is that people don't have to wait in line to register, and you never have to worry that a class will be cancelled (due to lack of enrollment)."

A needs assessment was key in determining where to locate the second campus. According to Serra, The University of Phoenix started in Southfield, at I-696 and Evergreen, because residents in that area voiced the most interest. Livonia was second.

"Livonia is where we started getting the second most requests," she said, adding that anywhere along I-275 would have been a good location. She anticipates the new location will attract people from Ann Arbor, Canton Township and other neighboring communities.

The Laurel Manor is located at 39000 Schoolcraft Road. For more information, call 1-800-834-2438.

With campuses in 14 states, the and two abroad, University of Phoenix Michigan has graduated over 150,000 students since it's founding in 1976.

He said the dog, which is brown and black is so small that it fits into a person's hand. The dog was stolen May 8 between 4:30-5 p.m. from the business, which is in Garden City near the Westland border. In business at that location for about six months, Meilleur said it was his first theft.

Engler plan draws mixed reviews here

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Gov. John Engler hopes $200 million of his $570 million road repair revenue can be generated by a 4-cent increase in the gas tax.

But Engler won't back any increase in the gas tax unless road repair responsibility changes. Engler wants 90 percent of the roads in Michigan to fall under the state's jurisdiction.

That represents a revolutionary change in the jurisdiction of county and state roads. What's at stake certainly affects county road departments and local departments of public works.

County Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, expects the Wayne County Commission to debate road control. Patterson, who supports Engler's road reform proposal, expects the commission to review plans from both parties.

"I think it will be a knockdown, drag-out fight to give up (county) control of roads," Patterson said.

Legislative analysts want more information.

"We simply can't tell what the funds' effects are on local government," said Scott Schrager, a senior legislative associate with the Michigan Municipal League, a legislative liaison in Lansing for Michigan cities and townships. Schrager met with members of the Conference of Western Wayne on Friday.

"We need to almost do a study jurisdiction by jurisdiction to unbundle it."

County concerns

executive, said Engler was proposing $500 million to construct new roads outstate without repairing county roads.

Duggan called the plan "outrageous."

"Currently roads are funded based on a formula using population and miles of road," Duggan said. "Under his proposal he can spend money where he wants, which is outstate where his political base is. He can take the money that could be spent here to repair Seven Mile Road, and build new freeways outstate."

Duggan believed state lawmakers representing Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties would fight any plan to remove county jurisdiction over countycontrolled roads.

"I don't believe he has any Mike Duggan, assistant county chance. I think people will be outraged when they realize what the details are in this plan, and that it won't pass." Duggan said Wayne County officials would put together a bipartisan coalltion of state lawmakers.

"It's very convoluted, as far as the funding goes," said John Roach, public information manager for the Wayne County Department of Public Services. "We're concerned about losing local control over the roads. This restructuring would put dects sions for roads everywhere in Michigan and put it in the hands of one person - the governor.

"We don't think that's a good idea."

Roach realized the county had a new opportunity to maintain more roads through competitive bidding, but he believed it was land could bid for road maintecounterproductive because the state was adding "new layers of roads," adding more overhead to a bureaucratic process.

"I think the bottom line of the proposal is one we'd like to see," Roach said. "The question is, is it realistic. The governor is the only one who is confident that we will get $200 million more from the federal government. The folks in Congress are not optimistic that we will get that."

Roach said that concern was compounded by an increase in federal money to states that already receive more money than they contribute in tax dollars. Michigan remains a "donor" state for federal tax dollars.

But Commissioner Patterson doesn't believe Wayne County government is "as efficient as it should be." Patterson supports Engler's push to reform road money and jurisdictions over them.

Patterson also wants to see townships on "equal footing" with cities for Act 51 transportation funds. "Townships are the poor stepchild and are the last to get money, less the 20 percent off the top to administer these programs."

Without any reforms, Patterson points out, the governor will veto any tax hike, hence fewer revenue will be available for roads:

"We will be entering some serious negotiations," Patterson said about Engler's and Democratic proposals.

Mayors react

Most community leaders in western Wayne County want to wait before passing judgment on Engler's plan.

Westland Mayor Bob Thomas, who chairs the Conference of Western Wayne, asked Jim DeSana, Engler's newly appointed director of the Michigan Department of Transportation, what the plan does for communities who staff Department of Public Works employees using state transportation money.

nance contracts, he said. DeSana cited Wayne County's maintenance contract on I-94. "You can look at this two ways, the county will not want to give up jurisdiction, or take a position altogether different, and be willing to compete for jobs," DeSana said.

Engler wants legislative approval of the plan by July 1 and the plan in place by Oct. 1.

Thomas wondered why it took this long for a plan. "We have six weeks to find the answers to 200 questions," Thomas said.

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack wondered if local counties would be required to provide "full disclosure" of how funds are spent and how they can "underbid" to receive maintenance contracts for state freeways, implying that funds are shifted from one department to another.

-State auditors are examining Wayne County's road funds.

"If Wayne County agreed to this, they would have more money," DeSana said.

While Wayne County was "not always perfect" in road maintenance. Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey believed the new plan "created instant insomnia."

"I'm not going to sleep well at night, knowing another layer of bureaucracy is out there," Kirksey said. The distance between Livonia and Lansing is greater than Detroit and Livonia, he added.

Kirksey was concerned about the state inaction to revise dangerous ramps, particularly on I-96

"We have basically lost this construction season. There are projects that could have been started. By the time we start the projects, and shift from the county to the state, we will lose much in the construction season."

Kirksey hoped lawmakers would recognize that there are projects in progress and that changing the rules in the middle of them could be "devastating.

EPA to hold local meetings on soil sample plan

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 5 will hold two meetings to describe and answer questions about a draft plan for soil sampling near the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority municipal waste combustor at Inkster and Van Born roads in Dearborn Heights. Thursday, May 22 in the Inkster Recreation Center, 2025 Middlebelt, Inkster.

The purpose of the sampling is to determine whether soils in the community were contaminated with lead and/or mercury as a result of combustor operations. The plan was developed as a joint effort between the comand Wayne County Department of Environment.

Written comments on the plan may be submitted at the session. Written, fax or e-mail comments will be accepted through June 5. They should be sent to Paul Ruesch, DRP-8J, U.S. EPA Region 5, 77 West Jackson Blvd., Chicago, IL 60604. The fax num-DeSana said these communities may be responsible for fewer roads, but still may be eligible for federal monies.

Thomas wondered about the state's response for pothole complaints. Thomas said Wayne County "may not come out until tomorrow," but Thomas was uncertain about the response he . would get from the state.

"The county will have the option to competitively bid for the maintenance of roads," DeSana said. Similarly, West-DeSana responded that the state would set up 31 service centers to respond to repair needs.

But Kirksey countered that Livonia already had a "service mechanism" from Wayne County. "It doesn't seem the same at the state level," Kirksey said.

Schrager later wondered how it would affect outstanding bonds for communities and who will decide what gets repaired.

Still, Schrager called Engler's plan an "innovative proposal." MML officials needed more time to study the issue, he said.

Leaders of western Wayne County communities can expect to receive a count of billable. access lines from Ameritech in June.

County awards contract for demolition

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

The redevelopment of a 926 acres of surplus land in Northville Township moved another step forward on May 1 when Wayne County commissioners awarded a contract to a Wayne County firm for asbestos removal and demolition.

The Adamo Demolition Co. in Detroit will demolish more than 50 abandoned buildings and structures between Five and Six Mile roads and Hines and Beck roads, and remove more than 13,000 feet of tunnel.

"The buildings and tunnels have been a nuisance for some time," said County Executive Edward McNamara. "Their romoval will facilitate our process to bring a new, superior mixed-use development to the site."

Adamo was the lowest bidder among 12 demolition companies. The contract costs $1.4 million.

The buildings formerly housed the Plymouth State Training School, which closed in the mid-1980s, and the Wayne County Child Development Center, which closed in the late 1970s. The demolition process will begin in about two weeks and be completed within 180 days.

County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Northville Township, said he was "overjoyed that the property was getting cleaned up."

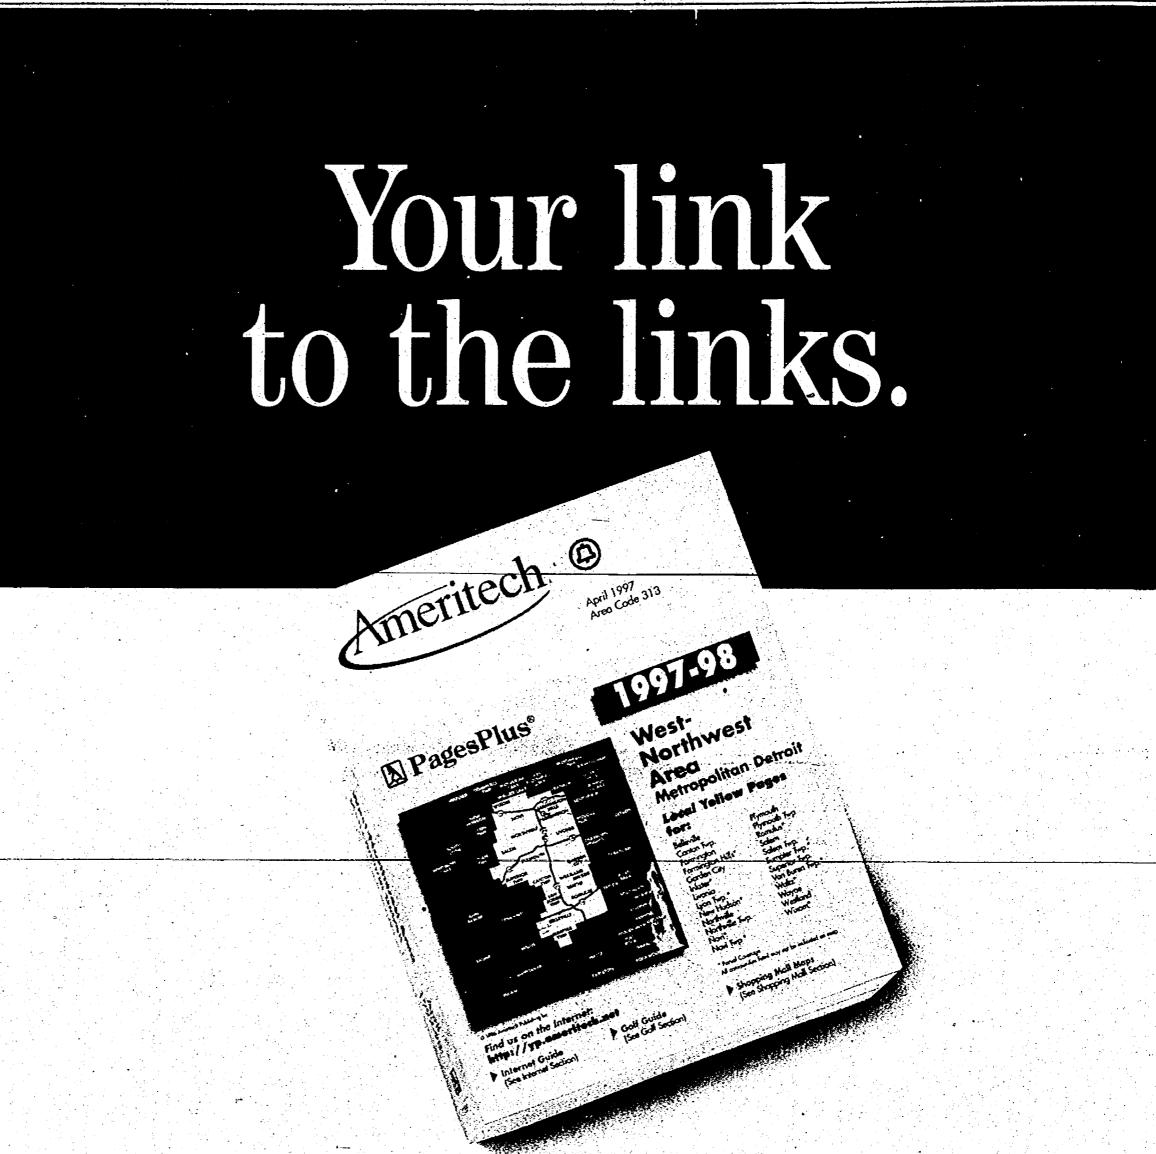

"It was my number one priority in 1992," McCotter said. "I am grateful to the administration. It was a real team effort between the administration, township and county commissioners."

Last month, the county and Northville Township entered into an agreement which

This year's scholarship auction was the most successful ever. More than 400 Madonna supporters attended the event and when the final figures were tallied, more than $285,000 was raised for the Madonna University Scholarship Fund. Of this amount, $117,400 was raised from the Cadillac ticket sales. Don Massey's Plymouth dealership has donated a Cadillac for the past eight years to Madonna University's auction. ; The new agreement calls for a mixed-use development that will include single-family housing, a championship golf course, apartments, condominiums, senior housing, research and development and commercial.

. In addition, more than 300 acres will be preserved for woodlands, green space and open space.

! Tim Johnson, director of marketing & communications division in the Wayne County Department of Jobs and Economic Development, doesn't éxpect developers to start working on site until late in the year at the earliest.

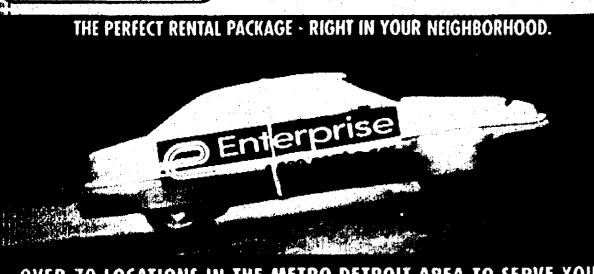

Johnson expected to receive numerous bids to purchase the properties. The county's deadline was 5 p.m. Friday. Those bids will be forwarded this week to county officials who will negotiate final purchase agreements. "That group will forward recommendations to McNamara's office and Economic Development Corporation for approval and signatures, then those agreements will be sent to county commissioners for approval, possibly in June.

Since Broadband

is about to change your life,

we thought you might like to know what it is. Perhaps we should begin with what Broadband isn't. It's not another bit of techno-hype about some brave new world that will arrive sometime in the next millennium. The fact is Broadband is here. Today. And its power is already changing the lives of those who are connected to it. Much like water, gas and electricity, Broadband is about to become one of your home's most vital connections. When these utilities first came to our homes, they fundamentally changed the way we lived. Our lives were made easier.

We had more time to pursue our dreams. We believe Broadband will have that kind of impact. • So what is Broadband? Simply put, it's a wire with enormous capacity, a wire with two-way capabilities.

A wire that can do more than we can conceive of today. The wire you now think of as bringing you cable TV is being transformed into something that can literally bring you the future. Broadband will give your computer the power to be as entertaining as your TV. Your TV will become as smart as your computer. And you will be able to communicate in ways you never imagined.

• How is this being done? By building new fiber-optic networks, we are enabling Broadband to reach its full potential. What that means is some pretty amazing changes in the way people are doing things. In communities around Boston, Detroit and Jacksonville, where our networks are already in place, Broadband is allowing people to download from the Internet up to 50 times faster, providing the fastest Internet connection to the home. This supersonic speed is radically changing the way people use the Net. Now instead of racing to get to the-library before it closes, your kids can hang out at home and race from the Louvre to the Smithsonian, downloading masterpieces in a matter of milliseconds. • Who is leading the way?

The irrefutable power of Broadband led to the creation of a new kind of company. We are 勇

MediaOne. We are an organization formed by the union of a visionary communications company,

USWEST Media Group, and a state-of-the-art entertainment provider, Continental Cablevision. MediaOne is defining an entirely new industry - Broadband services. We are a company committed to the communities we serve. As we put in place our Broadband networks, we are making it our responsibility to wire your children's schools. Because at MediaOne, we believe that every student should have the opportunity to benefit from Broadband.

• Each of us will take advantage of its power in our own unique way.

Eight million homes will know the power of Broadband. In the next two years we will connect over IOOO communities across America.

Once you're connected, you'll no longer have to spend hours zipping around town doing errands. You can spend Saturday mornings with your feet up, accomplishing the same things by zipping around your keyboard. When your daughter gets married, you can show your relatives on the other side of the world exactly what they missed, because Broadband's unique two-way capabilities will let you send home movies through your computer as well as receive them. And you'll do it all at a speed you never imagined possible. Broadband will give you local sports, news and weather on command. And once you're hooked up, you may never take another trip to your video store, because our digital TV service will bring you all the sports, movies and entertainment you want. No one will remain untouched by Broadband. It has the power to make all of our lives just a bit easier, a bit more fun.

• This is the way the future will arrive. MediaOne has invested a great deal in Broadband because we believe this is the way our children and our world will move forward. Broadband is the way we will work. This is the way we will play. This is the way we will learn. Now and in the next generation, this is the way our inspiration will arrive.

Solutions sought What can be done after stabbing?

e can't blame Mary Young for the concern about her son's future safety.

A16(W)

Any parent whose child faces a life-threatening situation – in this case a stabbing of a 14-year-old after school – would feel exactly the same way.

In addition to allowing the police to do their job, investigating and apprehending the subjects, the community must now pull together to look at the situation and decide how to proceed.

For Neil Young last Thursday, Westland was not "the place to be" at all.

After our collective outrage and shock, we must also recognize the incident for what it is:

The stabbing on Wayne-Westland school property at Marshall Middle School occurred after school hours. It was apparently a random act of violence reportedly done by out-ofarea youths who were in the area. Two young Westland men were hurt; one with a knife who required hospital treatment.

This is an assault not only on this young man, but on the Westland community as well.

How can we support this family and all of the other families who are wondering: What's This is an assault not only on this young man, but on the Westland community as well.

next?

The responsibility does not lie with one party – the parents, schools or police – but with the community as a whole.

After-school programs for teens are sponsored through the mayor's office. The Salvation Army continues its programs for families and youth. Many other family-oriented groups have other programs helping individual families and children. Initiatives like that need to continue.

In this case, we are sure that school officials are huddled, discussing security issues and ways that they can better control the flow of students in and out of Marshall Middle School building. That must be addressed immediately.

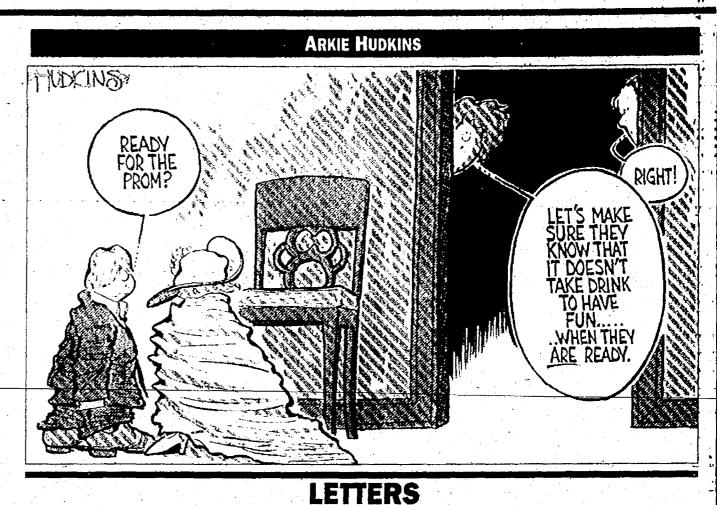

We welcome ideas from Westland residents, civic leaders and others as to how we can move ahead and protect not only our young people, but our community as well.

We support keeping tuition down

S tate legislators have no power over university trustees. Legislators can only vote on budgets and tax policy. Rarely do legislators participate in the state conventions that nominate university candidates, though probably they should.

And so we applaud any legislative efforts, deft or clumsy, to make universities realize it's not nice to jack up tuition faster than working students' and their parents' ability to pay. world of HEPI, the higher education price index. HEPI measures health care, pension costs, computers and the wooing of top faculty. HEPI is different from CPI. In University of Michigan President Lee Bollinger's words, HEPI has "skyrocketed much higher than the CPI."

Thanks for education

A s another school year draws to a close and my son prepares to graduate, I have had an opportunity to reflect on our experience in the Livonia school system which dates back to the fall of 1985, when a first-grader entered Garfield school, middle-schooled at Frost and became a Churchill Charger, class of '97.

While some parents may take the formal years for granted and not give the school system a second thought, I would like to acknowledge those teachers and staff who have touched our lives.

Clearly, their work has been anything but easy. During the last 12 years, education and educators have been forced to endure an onslaught of demands from every segment of the population and pressure from every corner. Their job responsibilities are far more challenging now than when this graduating class started kindergarten in 1984.

I am a grateful parent who feels that many

Support for Turner

O n June 9, 1997, citizens of the Wayne-Westland school district will have their opportunity to make a positive change by casting a vote for Ed Turner for school board member.

THURSDAY, MAY 15, 1997

Ed Turner is the ticket required in order to improve our education and take back our school system. Ed has no hidden or personal agenda and is willing to listen to his constituents. He believes in matching our operating budget with our income and not applying short-term solutions at the taxpayers' expense.

In addition, Ed believes that a sound educational plan needs to be developed and implemented. This can be accomplished by being .... open to exploring alternatives to our education system and not depending on more money to fix our current district's problems.

Ed Turner's credentials, accomplishments and background qualify him as the individual needed to make the necessary changes to improve our children's education and future. Teresa Robbins Westland

The House in April thumped its collective -chest after voting a 5.5 percent hike in state appropriations for 15 public universities, 2 percent more than recommended by Gov. John Engler. That's fine, except we all know the money isn't there, and the sum will have to be negotiated downward.

Suburban lawmakers are key players in the tuition drama.

Earlier the House amended the $250 tuition tax credit law sponsored by Sen. Loren Bennett of Canton. The House amendment increased the give-back to those who pay college tuitions, but removed the requirement that colleges hold their tuition hikes to the rate of inflation of the consumer price index (CPI) in order for students' families to be eligible.

The House amendment, if it becomes law, will backfire. Universities and colleges will lose their incentive to restrain tuition hikes to the CPI. Parents will think they're getting a $500 income tax rebate but instead are likely to get socked more than that for college tuition hikes.

Rep. Nancy Cassis of Novi won an amendment to give universities just a 3 percent hike unless they show tuition restraint. Those that do get 2.5 percent more. That's a fair incentive.

Middle-class people in western Wayne County, with neither great wealth nor eligibility for poverty aid, are extremely sensitive to tuition hikes.

Universities and community colleges are in a difficult, though not impossible, spot. They don't operate under the CPI, which measures things a family buys such as apples, autos, housing, clothing, diapers and detergents.

Instead, universities and colleges live in the of reasoning to its geometric conclusion, allowing universities and colleges to dwell indefinitely in the realm of HEPI will mean that, in some future year, they will soak up not just $1.5 billion in state aid, not just the $8 billion general fund budget, not just all $30 billion in state revenue but the entire gross state product of $260 billion.

Obviously, that can't continue.

Michigan State University has set a goal of holding the tuition line at the CPI rate. President M. Peter McPherson says that by-this-fallvirtually every MSU undergraduate will be brought under that promise. Nearer to home, Schoolcraft College has limited next fall's tuition hike to the CPI rate.

Universities and colleges have tapped two other sources: private donations and student loans.

At some point, private donations will peak, especially since even K-12 school districts and parks authorities are setting up foundations that compete with the United Fund and arts groups. If there's an economic downturn, look for profits and donations to shrivel.

Student loans? We deplore the way graduates are forced to start their working lives saddled with a burden of debt. It used to be you went into debt to buy a house; then to buy a car; now to get through college. Americans' slide into the murky valley of debt should stop.

No, the answers aren't super-CPI chunks of state aid, infinite doses of private donations, Pac-man tuition increases and gulfs of debt. Universities and colleges must recognize that there are limits, and they must learn to operate within those limits.

It's not nice to jack up tuition faster than working students' and their parents' ability to pay. staff members at Garfield, Frost and Churchill have had significant roles in helping a child grow into a young man, as they have done with hundreds of others.

During the single parent years, it was important to be part of a school system that looked at our needs before, during and after school. During the secondary years, the afterschool activities, clubs and sports provided a teen-ager with a positive outlet. As the village helped to raise a child, so did the Livonia school system! The "on the job" professionalism, patience, concern and willingness to go the extra mile has been consistently evident.

Please know that your work is very much appreciated. Graduation day is a time for parental apprehension as a few hundred students throw their mortarboards into the sky and walk out into the unknown. To know that your input has forever touched their young lives is special.

There are many reasons to thank a teacher, other than bumper stickers. For all of you and the skillful job that you do, just a simple "thank you" does not seem appropriate enough. Your past efforts, your present input and your continuing work in the future will always be worthwhile.

As my son looks forward to the new chapter about to start in his life, the foundation garnered during the public school years is visibly firm and supportive. Twelve years of memories and friendships that will be long-lasting are precious and special to each and every graduate. The dedication you have shown to your profession and the caring compassion you bestowed on hundreds of students is evident as we, the parents, think back through the years and marvel at the growth we've seen.

It couldn't have happened without each and every one of you. Thank you.

Merit scholarships needed

would like to extend my thanks to the Observer & Eccentric Newspaper for nominating me as a member of the All-Star Academic.Team.

I am currently a finalist in the Honored Scholar Program of the National Alliance for Excellence. This is one of the few organizations offering scholarships based on merit.

I have noticed a lack in funding for academic excellence and believe more effort should be extended to financially reward students. I have a 4.5 GPA and rank third in my class at Catholic Central High School. I have spent hours investigating the availability of merit scholarships. Unfortunately I am excluded because they are based on "need" not "merit."

With need-based scholarships, a student is judged not by his academic potential but by parental income. Merit scholarships should serve as a reward for students. Using this competitive measure would improve the level of education in public, as well as private schools in Michigan.

In closing, I believe the state should support merit-based scholarships and I have written to my senator and representative. The future is in America's youth.

People full of beans over Beanie Babies

Our children are to be loved. They care for us, so give lots of huge

Make them feel secure and true, Remember, we're the adults, me and you.

Adaptation of Beanie Baby poem t was a simple question and she didn't expect to get her head bitten off. My sister's coming to visit and she wants to bring a gift for her 2year-old great-niece, who incidentally happens to be my granddaughter. How about a Beanie Baby? she innocently asked. "No," I said emphatically. And this from someone who for Valentine's Day wrote a positive column on the Beanie Baby fad.

Clearly, I was seduced by the phenomenon, including watching hordes of parents, grandparents, children" and adult collectors stalk the newlystocked shelves of local stores from card shops to Nordstrom when new shipments arrived. What I saw seemed to be done with a sense of fun.

But more recent signs indicate that it is getting out of line. Because the lure of those soft, cuddly Beanie Babies, whose heart-shaped messages speak of love, are touching off something else in adults. We all read about the huge traffic jams that occurred at McDonald's franchises in some of our communities when they introduced miniature Beanie Babies as a feature of their kids' Happy Meals.

Not only did some grown-ups pay for uneaten food, but risked their chil dren's lives by leaving their cars and darting across traffic when police sealed off entry to McDonald's parking lots. In Troy, police had their hands full. "The situation became very serious," said Sgt. Mike Kerr, "as parents were parking on the other side of the road and herding their little children across five lanes of Rochester Road traffic. The potential was there for a serious accident. It was just crazy."

Last week, a mom wrote with humor of her experience, of persuading a Hallmark shop owner to open up his stock of Beanie Babies just to her. To his credit, he was holding a new shipment hostage until children were out of school, because he wanted to make sure they weren't all bought up by adults in the meantime.

We all want to do for our kids. But aren't they also watching how we do it? And, somehow the quest for Beanie Babies has altered judgments. "As sad as it may seem, a good deal of parenting is more about the parents' needs than about their children's," says Mary Rattner Nave, a psychologist with Counseling Associates of Southfield.

Unlike the proprietor of the abovementioned Hallmark store, a Farmington Hills gift and card store owner took advantage of the mania. A store flier offered that if customers bought $5 to $9.99 worth of merchandise, they could purchase one Beanie Baby at the regular price. If they spent $10 more, they could buy two Beanie -Babies and so on.

Enter Judy Davids of Royal Oak who bought cards and wrapping paper for $16 to purchase two Beanie Babies to add to her collection of 70. She later had second thoughts about being forced to pay for merchandise she really didn't need to buy the Beanie Babies at the regular price.

The State Attorney General's Office says it is a violation of state and federal antitrust laws. Spokesman Chris DeWitt said that a store could offer the item free or at a discount, but not contingent on buying another product. "When I left there (the store), I realized I finally crossed the line in my Beanie Baby mania," Davids said, to her credit. Clearly, a number of the rest of us needs to get our priorities in order, me and you.

Potent legislator eyes attorney general's office

thers are coy about their 1998 plans - Gov. John Engler about a third term, Don Riegle and Mayor Dennis Archer about challenging him, Republicans about what they'll do if Engler drops out.

Frank Fitzgerald is explicit. The 41-year-old state representative from Grand Ledge wants to be state attorney general. "I haven't stood with a banner behind a podium to say I'm running, but this is a much different situation from a primary. I've been working at it since the first of this year, and I've been thinking about it long before that," he said in an interview during a lull on the House floor.

The Cooley Law School graduate has been in private practice, an assistant Eaton County prosecutor, a local library board member and six-term legislator.

"The attorney general has two prin-enforcement officer. The other is to be the lawyer for the state and oversee one of the biggest law firms in Michigan.

"One of the failings of the current attorney general is that he has not acted as an advocate for better laws," Fitzgerald says of incumbent "eternal general" Frank Kelley, 72, who has held the job since 1961 when he was 37 and Fitzgerald was 6.

Fitzgerald is potent inside legislative circles. He was No. 2 Republican in the House behind Speaker Paul Hillegonds in 1995-96, presided over most House sessions as speaker pro tem, chaired the Oversight and Ethics Committee, and led GOP task forces that produced crime legislation.

"The current attorney general has made his career on consumer issues. Those are important. But (pause) those are not the single most impor-refocused attorney general's office, is the crime issue," Fitzgerald said.

He said Kelley's attacks on utilities are "not helpful" to Michigan's business climate.

He points to the aggressively prounion stance Kelley took in arguing that Western Michigan University must pay "prevailing wage" rates (translation: union rates) on a construction project. A circuit judge and Court of Appeals panel upheld WMU's paving the way for a new state constiview. Kelley has taken the case to the Supreme Court.

Campaign finance reform is a recurring interest. While Michigan put together "a good set of laws" on contribution limits, Fitzgerald sees the state as "falling behind" in failing to look at the proliferation of "independent" committees that help parties - so-called "soft money."

Fitzgerald comes from a political family. Grandfather Frank had been secretary of state and was in his second term as governor when he died suddenly in 1939. His portrait is in the Capitol rotunda.

Father John was a mover and shaker as a state senator in the early 1960s, when he joined Sen. Bill Milliken and four moderates to sign a "Traverse City pact" at Milliken's home. They overthrew the so-called Neanderthal wing in the Senate, tution and 20 years of George Romney and Milliken as governors. John Fitzgerald served nine years on the Supreme Court by a Milliken appointment and his own re-election. His portrait is in the top courtroom.

Fellow Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, complains about the way the news media treat Fitzgerald, constantly pointing out that he is prochoice on the abortion issue. Others predict Fitzgerald will certainly be opposed by a Right to Life candidate, though no one knows who.

As a candidate Fitzgerald would have three jobs: legislator, campaigner and family man. "I coached my daughter's basketball team this winter and have been involved with my son's basketball team. I just try to keep a balance."

Governor ought to scale too high truck load limits

Vou've really got to hand it to Gov. "Pothole" John Engler.

After months and months of getting pounded on the state of Michigan's roads, the governor finally came up with a package of tax increases and structural reforms coherent enough to be called "bold" and "creative" by his apologists and a betrayal of his tax-cutting record by his critics. The governor's plan would:

Raise $700 million in new money for road repair and construction, including a four-cents a gallon increase in the fuel tax and continued pressure on Washington to jigger the formula for distributing federal road money in Michigan's favor.

Change the system of governance for Michigan road work by putting some 23,000 miles of major local roads under state governance rather than counties and cities. The idea is to create economies of scale and to force county road commissions to let road repair contracts by competitive bids.

Introduce choice into the Michigan auto insurance market. Insurance would still pay for actual damages and medical costs from accidents, but drivers could choose whether to buy additional coverage for intangible costs such as "pain and suffering." Best estimates are that such skinnied back insurance coverage would save an average of $110 a year per policy holder...

That Engler would have to come up with something on roads became inevitable the day Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson infuriated the governor by posing for news photographers standing in a manhole and holding a sign taunting his fellow Republican: "Governor How about this pothole?"

It's an axiom that politicians have plenty of freedom to maneuver when the issues at hand are complicated and abstract enough to glaze the eyes of an average voter. But the corollary is that when the issues get simple and concrete - hitting a big pothole every time you drive home from work being the instant example any politician worth his salt had better start bearing down.

The governor knows this at the very core of his being. And whether or not he decides to run for a third term, he most certainly does not want to go down in Michigan history as "Pothole John," the governor who wouldn't do anything about the roads.

shadowed by the fights over the other components of the governor's proposal. After all, gasoline prices will be manipulated more by the oil companies over the Memorial Day weekend than the four-cents a gallon that the governor is talking about.

Two fights are obvious, and a third one should be.

Counties and cities are going to scream bloody murder about the prospect of losing local control over roads and repairs. Oakland County's Patterson, for one, believes the governor wants to abolish county road commissions and leave control of all road spending in the hands of Lansing bureaucrats. As of now, I'm inclined to agree with him.

"Auto choice" insurance will, of course, be hated by the trial lawyers, who benefit primarily from the present system, which virtually invites expensive litigation. There is now a fair amount of evidence that as much as half of pain-and-suffering awards go to lawyers on both sides. Taking away some incentives to sue and saving on insurance bills ought to make any red-blooded Lansing lawmaker drool, but we shall see.

The fight that ought to take place has to do with the shamefully high load limits on trucks operating on Michigan roads. Most engineers testify it is the pounding administered by the heavily laden 18-wheelers that really has done in our roads,

The governor finessed this topic last week with a one-liner about preferring not to talk about weight limits, but if he really wants to dosomething (ahem) concrete to keep our roads in good repair he ought to (ahem) scale this public policy issue.

Edison crews target Plymouth, Livonia for line clearance work

As warm weather lures children into trees and storm clouds into southeastern Michigan, Detroit Edison line clearance crews will work in nearly 40 communities during the next two months to keep trees and branches a safe distance from power lines.

In May and June, line clearance crews will work in Livonia and Plymouth Township. Edison maintains a 10-foot clearance between tree branches and power lines to reduce the potential for power outages and assure electric service reliability and safety for customers.

Mistakes provide valuable lessons

t's graduation season. And if you've just graduated or you're about to graduate, I'd like to say, congratulations! Job well-done. You've learned so much! And you know what? All of it is valuable, all of it! Each lesson you've learned will serve you well, you will use it. In some capacity, at some time, you will use it, you'll see.

You've learned not only the what and how of things, but you've also learned the what not and how not of them, too. You've learned from your successes and from your failures. That's the beauty of school, it's OK for trial and error there, for messing up. The teachers, the good ones, insist that that's what learning is all about. They say, "Don't be afraid of making mistakes. You learn from those too." They are right. They are absolutely right.

I know this from firsthand experience. And even though it's been nearly two decades since graduating with my bachelor's degree from college, my old mistakes continue to prove valuable.

You see. I was an "extreme student." I did extreme things - all in the name of collegiate success. For instance, I eliminated "sleep" from the things-to-do list. Sleeping, my "educated," wise, college-trained brain figured, was such a dumb thing. Sleeping wastes so much time, time that could be put to so much better use. Who invented sleeping anyway? Someone with a lot of time to waste, obviously. The way I figured it, it took just a little willpower and a little coffee to get around that dumb and wasteful sleeping thing. So "pulling all-nighters" became part of my life as an extreme student. It didn't matter what I was facing midterms, term papers, big tests, little quizzes, final exams – they all required an "all-nighter." Coffee and willpower made it all possible.

Program aims at helping parents and youths

■ Gang problems. Alcohol and substance abuse. Violence. Those are the issues and more that the staff of Hegira Prevention Programs takes on a daily basis in suburban Wayne County.

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Jacque Martin-Downs sets a surplus munitions box on the table with the explanation that she wants to show how creative high school students in Northville have been. The box contains an assortment of pipes of all shapes and sizes, in metal, wood and glass with small bowls.

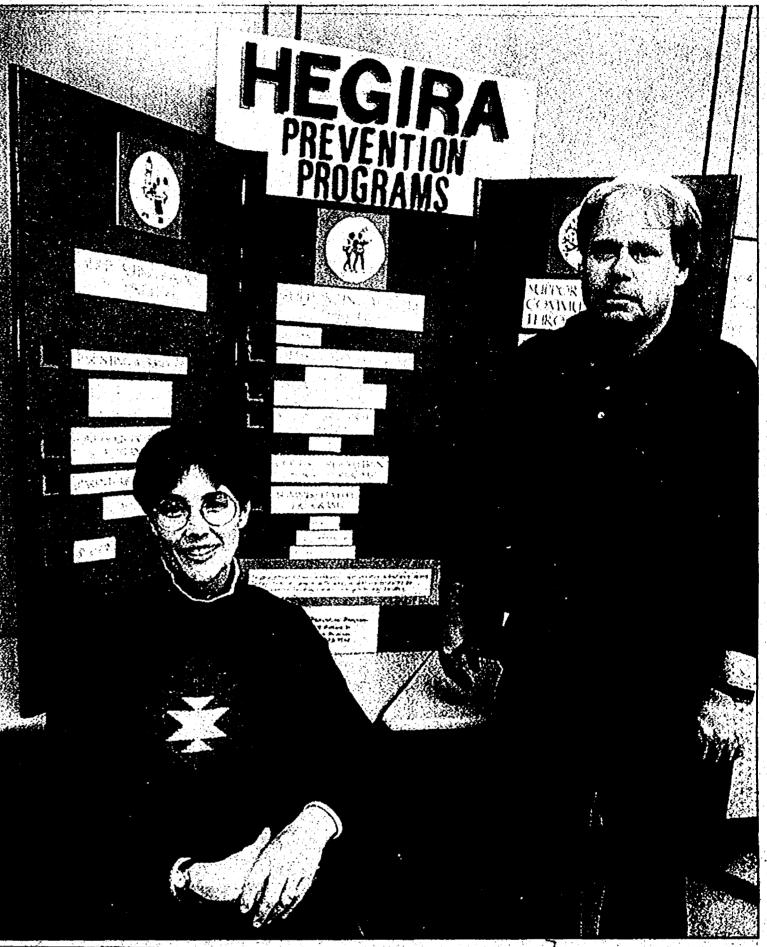

From a plastic bag, she pulls out a two-liter pop bottle fashioned into a water pipe with the help of aluminum foil and duct tape.

"Our high school students have been busy," she said, surveying the collection.

The pipes are some of what teens have purchased or made to accommodate their drug habits. They are the things Martin-Downs and the staff of Hegira Prevention in Livonia aim to eliminate with the multitude of programs they offer for parents and their children.

Based at the Bentley Center, Hegira Prevention coordinates and creates substance abuse programs for schools and communities to promote healthy choices for youth and families.

From classroom-style conflict resolution and one-hour, parenting assistance to violence prevention, student educational support, afterschool and summer programs, staff members provided assistance in 17. school districts and communities in western Wayne County, including Livonia, Redford, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and Canton. Hegira got its start in the 1970s as a drug abuse prevention program, based in Inkster, at about the same time John Farrar, with the backing of the cities of Livonia and-Westland and the Livonia and Wayne-Westland school districts, started the Community Commission on Drug Abuse. Initially operating the Livonia Counseling Center, CCODA opened facilities in Westland and Northville and an adult recovery center. But to take the work being done at the centers into the community, Farrar applied for and received a grant from the Southeastern Michigan Community Alliance, opening the door for Martin-Downs and her staff to develop the appropriate prevention programs. "John gave use free rein, so we developed program after program to enhance the outpatient clinic," said Martin-Downs. "We were able to implement things that we have a passion for." Then along came Ed Forry, Hegira Prevention Inc.'s chief executive officer and "a man with a vision," according to Martin-Downs. Realizing that to survive against managed health care programs, Hegira needed to get bigger, so Forry and Farrar merged their programs.

Climbing a mountain

I'd stay up and super-memorize, super-study, super-over-the-top-way-overboard prepare, not because I hadn't kept up and prepared on a daily basis, I had. And not because I'd fail the class because of that one paper or quiz or whatever, I never even came close to that. It was because I had a mountain of time standing in front of me. I had to climb it. It was there.

So there I'd be, in my dorm room amid papers, notes, books. The clock's soft second hand tick noise keeping me company and I'd study. I'd sit in the old wooden desk chair poring over my notes and books. Around 2 a.m. I'd stop, rub my eyes, shake that weird fuzzy feeling out of my head, take another sip of coffee and give myself a talking-to, a kick in the pants lecture: "Have you taken the test yet, Karen?"

"No."

"No? Then keep studying. There's time, six more hours, do it. Just do it."

My roommates were so lucky, they knew they knew the stuff. They'd called it a night. But I was still where I always was, on my desk chair, on the edge. Really on the edge. Teetering between an A and flunking out. Extreme.

But what if a professor would pull stuff from some obscure part of the book or lecture notes and make that the biggie question worth 65 out of the 100 possible points on the test? Professors could be so unpredictable and tricky, I'd heard stories. So, Prepare and Overprepare – my motto. Do and overdo – I did. And it seemed to work. I wound up with a 3.76 GPA and graduated magna cum laude. Now I've often wondered what would've happened had I not done that. Would the As I got be Bs or Cs or worse? Or would they still have been As? I couldn't even think about that back then; it was too dangerous, too risky to even consider. So I was extreme throughout my undergrad days.

Skipping the 'extremes'

Years later, as I worked on my master's degree, I'd sometimes lapse back to my old ways. But since I was married and had a couple of children by then, being an extreme student didn't work so well and actually caused big ruckuses every now and then. My husband would say, "Look at me. I did it without being extreme." And he's right, he did. He had a very high grade point average throughout his college career AND his study habits had always been methodical and finite.

Common sense and Ron and old undergraduate lessons meant my master's degree was NOT built on a mountain of all-nighters, a couple, but nothing like my undergrad days. And I graduated with a 3.90 GPA that time. I think back on those extreme days, it was probably sleep deprivation that made me think such things. Teetering between an A and flunking out? Honest to pete. Studying till the ends of the earth, or night, whichever came first, even when I knew the stuff

Kids find friend in 'Gang Guy'

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Asked what needs to be done for kids, Ty Madge doesn't hesitate with his answer.

"What we really need to do is change the norm because right now the norm is to settle conflicts through violence," he said. "What we need to do is to provide kids with the skills and the tools to settle conflicts peacefully. We need to teach them the message of peace and then walk the talk."

As a prevention specialist with Hegira Prevention, Madge does just that. He has spent the last five years talking the talk and walking the walk with troubled kids whom society has labeled as everything from street kids to burnouts and losers.

His job is multifaceted. He does educational groups through the schools, conducts court-ordered programs, does mini support groups for young fathers and facilitates and coordinates the Summer Workshop on Awareness and Prevention.

An advocate for the kids, his group have guidelines – no putdowns, respect for each other, listen to each other, respect confidentiality, care about each other, give of yourself and be honest. Participants can also "pass" – not talk – in the group.

"Kids come here who don't have to because they feel safe," Madge said. "I have a court-ordered group of six kids and 25 will show up because it's a place where they feel safe and accepted for who they are."

Madge readily admits that what he does is anything but a "8-to-5 job." He's been called out in the middle of the night to look for a run-'away kid and has been known to drive around a neighborhood when he hears of a gang problem. "Knowledge is power," Madge said. "I try to stay one step ahead of things. If I'm going to do a presentation in Canton, I'll drive around and see what's happening. I call it my post-graduate course, Life 101, Life on the Street."

Good with kids

Being a prevention specialisi wasn't what he had thought he wanted to be when he grew up although he did want to work with kids ... as a teacher. He did for while after graduating from Easter Michigan University, but times were tough and full-time jobs hard to find, so he ended up working for General Motors in education and training.

He did some volunteer work in Northville on a community program to develop a teen center. That was when his path crossed that of Jaclesson. We try to help them make the right choices."

Each fall, the staff meets with representatives of the different school districts to determine the focus of Hegira programs and to stay on the cutting edge with prevention. During the 1994-95 school year, it was conflict resolution. That program is now available as an eight-week series for elementary students.

To address the issue of smoking in school, Hegira Prevention came up with "Don't be a Butt-Head," a four-week smoking program for kids caught smoking in school.

"It's not a smoking cessation class, but what kids can do with themselves and is it what they want to do," Martin-Downs said.

It has also come up with Y-MAP (The Young Mothers Assistance Program) to help pregnant and parenting young women, ages 13-21. In addition to helping young parents find a way to get through that time in their lives, there also are mentors who commit to working with the people for 12-16 months, and a monthly support group that meets for dinner and a speaker.

Another popular program is SWAP, (Summer Workshop on Awareness and Prevention) for middle school students whose parents or school officials feel may be at risk of falling prey to outside influences, substances or academic failure due to a lack of social skills, emotional immaturity or family problems. The fiveweek program also includes a required parent discussion group.

They have plenty of props to convey their message. Martin-Downs credits Madge-and fellow staffer Connie Moore with being instrumental in developing fun, but instructive things for kids.

"When Ty first came on the scene, he was facilitating student support groups," said Martin-Downs. "He would say he was impacting kids, but not doing the programs justice because he wasn't impacting the parents."

Along with the information, (313) 513-7598.

the staff uses the props to get the message across. A garbage can represents the place where feelings and emotions are shoved, which can lead to drug and alcohol use when a way has to be found to "keep the lid on."

The sword and shield represents the way children will mask feelings and lash out, while three red chairs represent three types of parents - those who don't care, those who care but don't have the tools to make proper decisions and those who don't follow but take the lead.

"They're the ones who really want to do the best they can do; they read, they network," said Martin-Downs. "And as result there is the likelihood of the children coming out the other side of being a teen-ager unscathed."

There's also another positive of the many programs offered by Hegira Prevention. Because of the state funding, they're all free of charge. Parents and teens interested in more information about Hegira Prevention can call set up the Hegira Prevention program and who lured him away from the auto industry with a "You work well with kids; I think I may have a job for you."

Madge from page B1 que Martin-Downs who helped

"I don't think I'll ever forgive her," said Madge jokingly.

Madge admits he has a passion for his work. He does not judge the kids: he lets them talk and listens to what they say. Their opinion, he added, is valued not judged.

"I've worked with kids long enough to know that you can't lecture them, you have to present information openly and honestly," he said. "You encourage them to make healthy choices. I won't lie to them, I just present the facts to them.

My experiences helps me teach them what unhealthy choices can lead to."

Martin-Downs calls Madge the staff's "guru" of violence prevention. He has become an advocate for the kids with the police and in bringing parents and teens together.

The teens love him," Martin-Downs said. "Some say he is the only one who cares about what they do. I know Ty makes a difference."

So much so that Martin-Downs nominated him for this year's Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County's Service to Children Award.

"Humbled by the recognition. he accepted it on behalf of "a very special young friend of mine and many kids like her who, despite the crimes against them by those whom they trusted, will themselves be successful.'

The kids, according to Madge, know he is an advocate for them. that he will address their behavior, but not attack them personally. Such dedication has earned him the label of "the gang guy.".

"Gangs suck, gang kids don't," said Madge. "I sit here and think this girl could be student council president, that boy could be captain of the football team. These kids are trying to find themselves and the gangs provide something for them.'

Madge doesn't give up the kids, but he is a realist. There are some, he said, who are beyond his skills and scope and he understands that. For those he can help, he rarely offers solutions. The most valuable solutions are the ones they work out for themselves.

Seminar is for women in 'whirlpool'

Do you feel like you're in a whirlpool, spinning farther away from your core?

Try spending a day at Schoolcraft College to reclaim your center.

The one-day seminar, "Women in the Whirlpool," will address such topics as aging parents, teen-aged children, menopause, time management and appearance.

The seminar will be 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Friday, May 30, in the McDowell Center on the college campus at 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

"We are looking at a day devoted to the things always nagging in the back of our mind as we drive home from work parents, friends, nutrition - a day focused on reconnecting with all the different things we try to balance in our lives," said Cheryl M. Hagen, who with Donna Franklin will co-present a session on finding time for friends.

Hagen and Franklin are senior administrators at Cleary College and partners in Results Training Associates. Hagen's session will help people understand they must make friends a priority because they are a great source of support.

"Make sure you schedule time for your friends," she said. "Persons who would never think of canceling a business luncheon don't think twice about canceling with a friend.

"Our appointments with friends are as important as those with business contacts."

Other presenters include a medical doctor on menopause, a gerontologist on aging parents and a fashion consultant.

A panel will discuss the impact of children who are growing or grown up.

There also will be a session on taking care of your soul and spirit and another on careers that have not turned out as planned.

Participants will leave refreshed and recharged with new ideas, sources of information and renewed confidence and energy.

The seminar fee is $79 and a vegetarian lunch is available. For information or to register, call (313) 462-4448.

About five years ago, things were looking pretty dark at Mount Hope Lutheran Church in Allen Park. Financial woes were weighing heavily on the hearts of members.

There was a possibility of foreclosure, the school furnaces were breathing their last breath and the roof was literally caving in.

But just when it seemed that all was lost, a miracle occurred, God sent a rainbow, the kind seen on a rainy day, and a woman, a complete stranger, who stopped her car to photograph the rainbow that was gracefully arching over the church.

The woman, a Livonia resident, had the film developed and delivered her photograph to the church secretary.

After seeing the rainbow photograph, the church board saw it as a sign from God that he was not finished with Mount Hope.

Five new furnaces were added, air conditioning was installed in the fellowship hall, a new roof now keeps the rain out and the $250,000 mortgage was paid in full:

On Sunday, May 25, the church will have a mortgage burning ceremony. A Rainbow of Hope Dinner will follow the 11 a.m. service.

According to the Rev. Albert I Prouty, pastor of Mount Hope, the woman who took the photograph probably never realized what an impact the "Rainbow of Hope" had on the congregation.

"Mount Hope is grateful to God and the messenger He chose to take this picture," Prouty said. "In some special ways, the congregation would like to honor this 'special angel.'" on her. It calms her mood."

That was the spark of an idea for Rensi, who, as the college's coordinator of continuing education services, added a class on massage techniques for infants to the spring-summer lineup.

The Baby Spa class will be for mothers, fathers, parents or others who care for babies up to 12 months old and will provide hands-on techniques in stroking and massage and gentle range of motion exercises, according to instructor Kimberly McInnis of Farmington.

The college has offered massage classes for adults for a long time, but this is the first for a class that focuses strictly on infants. There'll be no need for babysitters, since the class will accommodate 15 people and their babies.

The class will be offered in three consecutive 1-hour, 20minute sessions at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays at the Summit on the Park in Canton, beginning Tuesday, May 20, and at 9:30 a.m. at Schoolcraft's Livonia campus, beginning Thursday, July 10. Participants should bring a comfortable blanket or met and should wear comfortable, layered clothing and adults should wear rubber-soled shoes.

"It's a nice way to keep in tune with your baby's body," said McInnis. "Babies express themselves with their bodies."

The mother of 8-month-old Margo, McInnis has been giving her daughter massages regularly ever since she was two or three days old. While the massage may come in bits and pieces, McInnis has found that it's "a nice way to relax an overloaded nervous system."

McInnis has been a myotherapist for 10 years. Together with her mother, she studied at the Academy of Myotherapy and Physical Fitness on the East Coast, the only school of its kind in the country, where she learned the technique of releasing muscle spasms by working pressure points in the body and studied massage.

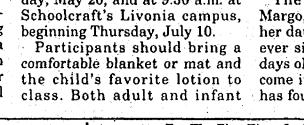

"I went in right after high school; I just I knew I wanted to do this," she said. "It's been the most gratifying work."

Rensi found McInnis through a woman in her office whose granddaughter is one of McInnis' clients. McInnis was interested, and now the two women hope parents will be, too.

If the interest is there, Rensi made add a class section and is even thinking about a class offering a class that will focus on toddlers.

There are still a few openings in both classes, which cost $42. Registration and more information is available by calling the college at (313) 462-4448.

"It's really a nice way to spend time with children and to connect with them; it's really peaceful," she said. "And it will be a hands-on class for sure."

Franklin's Terek, Glenn's Jarrett rank as area's all-time top talents

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

When it comes to athleticism. Observerland may be hard-pressed to see another tandem like Livonia Franklin's Paul Terek and Westland John Glenn's David Jarrett.

Although their backgrounds may be distinctly different, the similarities between the two are striking.

With their high school careers winding down, the two will be on stage again this Friday at the Class A boys track regional at Redford Union. When the field events start Friday afternoon, many eyes will be focused on Terek, who will be trying to clear the 16-foot barrier in the pole vault; and Jarrett, who has his sights set on 24 feet in the long jump.

Both have already surpassed alltime Observerland performance marks in their respective events this season — Terek clearing 15-4 in the pole vault; and Jarrett, going 23-6½ in the long jump.

But it's more than just their prowess in track that makes them unique.

The two combine Jim Thorpe-like qualities. They are truly the men for all seasons.

Both were All-Observer wide receivers in football and both played basketball.

"I just might try baseball next, I used to play a little bit, you know," quips the 6-foot-3, 200-pound Jarrett.

The 6-2, 180-pound Terek started with baseball at age four, but turned his back on Doubleday's game when he arrived at Franklin.

a pitcher, catcher, shortstop and first baseman. It was fun, but just not as much fun as the other sports." The two never met on the gridiron. Jarrett played wide-out and defensive back for Glenn's 11-1 Class AA semifinal football team. He had 29 receptions for 542 yards. He also intercepted seven passes and scored six touchdowns.

It would be an understatement to say he was a big-play threat. His acrobatic catch in the final quarter led to a 15-14 win over Redford Catholic Central.

"I never played football until my junior year," Jarrett said. "I played in the backyard. My friend, Charles Bailey, ask me to play and coach (Chuck) Gordon taught me the basics, and I was able to pick things up pretty quick."

Like Jarrett, Terek could rise above the crowd, and take away balls in heavy traffic.

He had 1,128 all-purpose yards, including 32 catches for 602 yards. He had seven TDs and four INTs as the Patriots finished a respectable 6-3, losing to Class AA champion Walled Lake Western, AA runner-up Sterling Heights Stevenson and Class A finalist Farmington Hills Harrison.

In games against Western and Stevenson, Terek racked up close to 400 yards in catches.

"I got started early in football, age srven," Terek said. "My dad (Joe) coached and he was a unit director "All I do now is a little umpiring, I for the LJFL (Livonia Junior Foot-

Stevenson, Churchill deadlock

Spartans edged in Lakes thriller

BY NEAL ZIPSER STAFF WRITER

The stage may be set for Thursday's showdown between Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Canton, but Jim Kimble didn't care for the Spartans' dress rehearsal Monday. The Stevenson coach was disappointed following his team's 0-0 tie at Livonia Churchill in which the Spartans dominated the flow of the game, but couldn't score against their crosstown rivals.

"I'm disappointed and the girls are disappointed," Kimble said. "What's disappointing is our offensive effort. Maybe it was a bad night for us, but we didn't come to score goals tonight. We just weren't hungry enough to put the ball in the back of the net." Stevenson (13-0-2) will have to try and find its scoring touch tonight when it travels to Plymouth Canton (10-0-2) for the Western Lakes Activities Association title (game time is 7). The Spartans cruised through the Lakes Division season while the Chiefs, the reigning Class A champions, won the Western Division.

The Spartans won last season 1-0 when the teams faced each other in similar circumstances. In Stevenson's second game of this season, the Spartans and Canton dueled to a scoreless tie, despite Stevenson holding a 22-9 shot advantage.

GIRLS SOCCER

Against the Chargers, the Spartans held a 17-1 shot margin in the WLAA crossover battle, but had few quality scoring opportunities.

"The defense wasn't a problem, we just have to want to score," Kimble said. "As the season goes on, it's only going to get tougher. Teams know they aren't going to score a lot against us, so they are going to tighten things up on defense and there will be fewer scoring opportunities for us.

"You have to give credit to Churchill," he added. "They let us do what we wanted to do in midfield but then they tightened things up once we got the ball inside."

And that was precisely the game plan, according to Churchill coach Chad Campau.

"The game plan was to take a couple steps back and take away breakaways," Campau said.

Unlike Kimble, Campau was happy with the tie. The Chargers (8-3-4) were coming off Friday' heartbreaking 1-0 loss against Canton.

the other night and Stevenson tonight," Campau said. "I told the team that we can play with anyone in the state, at least defensively. We are going to have to work on offense. though,

"I was happy with the way we responded off the Canton loss, but I didn't have to do anything to motivate them. I knew they would come. out strong."

The minimal offense in the game was supplied by Stevenson's Allison Campbell, who had a few headers on net. She also set up Anne Fedrigo with six minutes remaining in the game with the best scoring chance. With Churchill keeper Crystal Wright out of the net, Campbell centered the ball to Fedrigo who didn't get as much left as she would have liked with her shot on net. Churchill's Lisa Fabirkiewicz was able to easily clear the shot.

Wright stopped all Stevenson shots, including a diving save on : Campbell with 19 minutes left.

The Chargers, meanwhile, struggled to get anything going against Stevenson keeper Jenny Barker, who had an easy night.

"Our problem on offense is that we, "We played tough against Canton have to settle the ball down and gain possession," Campau said. I have no complaints with our defense. Our team defense has been strong all season."

> Despite having just three seniors on its roster, Churchill isn't using games like Monday's contest to prepare for next season, according to Campau.

> "We're not working for next year, but instead we're looking towards the tournament," the Churchill coach said. "We've played five of the top 10 teams in the state and have been in all the games. We're looking at games like this one as a warm-up for the tournament. I believe there are bigger and better things ahead."

> . JOHN GLENN 1, A.A. HURON 1: Katie Krause's goals from Lesa Mahoney 10 minutes into the second half gave Westland John Glenn (7-8-1 overall) a tie Tuesday with visiting Ann Arbor Huron in a non-leaguer.

For a change, something was on the line Tuesday when Plymouth Salem took its girls track team over to Livonia Stevenson for a dual meet.

In a battle for the Lakes Division crown in the Western Lakes Activities Association, Salem held off a late run by the host Spartans to post a 69-59 victory.

Salem finished its dual meet season 7-0 overall and 5-0 in the division. The Rocks have won six of the last seven Lakes Division crowns. - Stevenson, the defending Lakes Division champs, couldn't overcome a 29-7 deficit in the field events.

"The field events killed us, but we were able to make a meet out of it,' said Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg, whose team wound up 7-1 overall and 4-1 in the Lakes. "There was competition all over the place. There were personal bests in just about every event.

"And it was good weather for a Salem's Rachel Jones won both the 100- and 200-meter dashes in 13.01 and 27.4, respectively. The Rocks had two other firsts - Lisa Maul in the 100 hurdles (15.8) and Katie Bonner in the 400 (1:01.1).

Stevenson was led by junior Kelly Travis, who swept the 1,600- and 3,200 runs in 5:20.7 and 11:41.8, respectively.

football never gets old."

Terek is going to Michigan State on a track scholarship, but he also plans to give football a whirl as a perferred walk-on. Terek will play in the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star Game at MSU in early August.

"The rest would be nice, but I resent it if I didn't give it a shot," Terek said.

The Franklin standout would be the first to admit that Jarrett. Glenn's leading scorer and second-team All-Observer pick, has the upper hand when it comes to basketball.

The two did meet on the hardwood last winter.

"He just floats through the air," Terek said of Jarrett. "I remember he dunked the ball on us. He didn't hang on the rim, or shout anything. He just walked away straight-faced. I was thinking right then, 'He just embarrassed us.

"You can tell athletes from the non-athletes, just the way he's built. He makes things look easy, like he's going through the motions."

Jarrett met Terek on his home turf Monday afternoon for a photo session. He watched Terek go through his routine in the pole vault and came away impressed.

"It's chilly outside, he has no shirt on and just working hard out there to be the best there is," Jarrett said. "You have to admire that when a guy is working that hard. I've read a lot about him in the paper. And you can see he's a real good athlete."

Jarrett, who also competes in the sprints, admits his work ' ethic is lacking at times. He is not a practice performer. He was even caught earlier this spring sleeping at home on a Saturday morning as the Dearborn Elks Relays were about to begin.

"All these years competing, it begins to wear on you," Jarrett said. "My ankles and my knees are still sore from football and basketball.

"It's no excuse, though. I need to be more self-motivated. I know I can do more."

ball League). Personally for me, for his academic and athletic wrestled." needs.

> He recently passed ACT requirements for the NCAA and is awaiting to be cleared for his core curriculum classes.

If he meets the necessary academic criteria, Wayne State would like to see him in a basketball uniform.

"It's a little late to go somewhere for football, and some people said I had a better year in football than basketball, but basketball is my first love," he said. "I admire (Michael) Jordan, I try to copy every move."

Jarrett also likes Deion Sanders because he plays two sports, while Terek counts Grant Hill, Barry Sanders, Michael Johnson and pole vaulter Lawrence Johnson as his favorites.

The decathlon intrigues Terek, who has gone 11.1 in the 100meter dash, 22.7 in the 200 and 22 feet, % inches in the long jump.

"The 1,500 doesn't sound like fun," Terek said. "And I've never hurdled in my life. I'd be worried about misstepping and hurdles being right between my legs. I don't know."

Jarrett, ironically, stutterstepped down the runway of long jump pit when he shattered the Glenn school record with a leap of 23 feet, 6½ in a dual meet against Farmington Hills Harrison.

"I just psyched myself up that day," he said. "I knew I was going over 23 feet. It was just the way I was feeling in school all day. I told people I'd break the record.

"And that day it felt easy because I landed straight."

With improved weather, Jarrett feels confident he can break 24 before the season is out.

Terek, meanwhile, has already cleared 16 feet in the pole yault in practice and narrowly missed 16-2 on two attempts in darkened corner of RU's Kraft Field during the Observerland Relays.

The eight-letter winner, who was thrust into a variety of sports because of his hyper-activity as a child, now realizes his prep days are winding down.

"I believe in the high school Although Terek, who carries experience you should try everyan impressive 3.8 grade-point thing," Terek said. "And luckily, average, plans to major in engi- if you include basketball, I found

His support system is equally. as important. His father Joe, a computer systems technician, has gone to great lengths to provide the necessary equipment and coaching a pole vaulter requires.

"My dad pole vaulted once in a meet in West Virginia," Paul said. "He used to be an athlete from what I hear."

Terek's mother Cynthia is also along for the ride.

"She's gotten used to the cold dinners," Paul said. "She understands things a lot more. She's even drawn up some secret football plays to give to coach (Rick) Lee.'

Terek's sister Christy, now a student at MSU, also competed in track at Franklin.

And Jarrett's sister Nicolette has topped the 18-foot mark in the long jump this year for the Glenn girls team.

Jarrett's father David is minister of the Smith Chapel African Methodist Church in Inkster. His mother Valeria ran track as a high schooler in Moline, Ill.

"I heard my mother was a pretty good sprinter," Jarrett said. "And my dad encourages me in sports. And when he watches me I think it relaxes him.

"I grew up in the church. And I have to say, without God, I'd be nothing."

And with their God-given talents, these three-sport athletes will leave lasting memories at their respective schools.

One chapter is about to close, with another ready to be turned.

"I was talking with my girlfriend the other day and I told her it seems I just came here (to Franklin) as a freshman," Terek said. "I've been fortunate to be with a good group in high school. You move to the top, but now I'm: going to move all the way back in the food chain when it comes to college."

Adds Jarrett: "I'm going to miss high school. The fun things you do and being popular. But it's not a bad thing to go to the next level of sports. You just have to work your way from the bottom to the top. I hope to go on' to bigger and better things."

Hermann sharp as Ladywood advances

It was a good season for Madonna University's softball team: a 32-20-1 record and a trip to the NAIA Great Lakes Regional, played last weekend in Joliet, III.

Madonna run ends

But surrendering 12 unearned runs in four games is not conducive to extending that season, which the Lady Crusaders were unable to do.

"Actually, I thought we played very well," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham. "It's been a great season. The kids played a rigorous schedule - probably the roughest schedule we've ever played.

"But that's what we want, I thought the kids played their better games against the better teams."

They certainly overcame all sorts of obstacles at last week's regional. They opened last Wednesday (May 7) with an 8-7 win over St. Xavier (from Chicago)

Melissa McGue, Shawna Greene and Dawn Shaffer each had two hits in the victory, with Greene and Shaffer knocking in two runs apiece. Greene also slugged a home run. Shanna Price allowed five earned runs in seven innings to get the win.

That put Madonna up against top-seeded Shawnee State (Portsmouth, OH) last Thursday. The Crusaders kept it close, using a four-run fourth inning to close to within 5-4.

But Shawnee pushed across seven runs in a three-inning span to end the game after six innings (eight-run mercy rule) with a 12-4 outcome.

Christy Riopelle triggered the four-run rally with a three-run double. Marissa Mittleman added two hits. Angie VanDoorn took the loss, giving up six earned runs.

MCOLLEGE SOFTBALL

Madonna kept its hopes alive with a 3-0 victory over Indiana Wesleyan later that same day. Price was the winner; she stopped Wesleyan with a four-hitter, not walking any and striking out three.

Jeanie Baxter (Redford St. Agatha) drove in two of the Crusader runs with a single and a double. Greene scored two of the runs, getting two hits.

Madonna's season ended last Friday in a rematch with St. Xavier. Again, it went down to the wire; it was 1-0 after six innings, but Xavier scored five times in the sixth to pull away to a 6-0 triumph.

Price took the loss, allowing two earned runs in seven innings. She finished her season at 17-9. Madonna managed just four singles in the game.

Abraham will lose some major contributors to graduation: Shaffer (.376, 11 doubles, five triples, six homers, 52 RBI), Jamie Vickers (.275, eight doubles, 21 RBI), Baxter (.325, eight doubles, one homer. 29 RBI) and McGue (.340, six doubles, four triples, 14 RBI).

But he's confident this team will be even better in '98. "We're just a player or two away from the World Series," he said.

A defense that committed 101 errors this season, including 13 in the four-game regional, that led to 88 unearned runs will have to be improved if Abraham's hopes are to be realized.

Livonia Ladywood got off to a good start in the Catholic League A-B Division softball playoffs.

Cathy Hermann pitched a four-hit shutout Monday to lead Ladywood into the Catholic League semifinals Friday with a 5-0 victory over Farmington Hills Mercy.

Hermann fanned five and walked three in getting Ladywood to a semifinal match against Harper Woods Regina at King Boring field.

Franklin is now 5-12 overall and 4-5 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Western falls to 17-4 overall and 8-1 in the division (tied with Farmington Hills Harrison).

"We're not a great team, we've won only five games this year, but it's been fun coaching these kids," Franklin coach Jim Karoub said.

The Patriots erased a 9-4 deficit with four runs in the bottom of the sixth and two in the bottom of the seventh.

Bryan Regner opened the seventh with a single, but was erased at second on Brandon Bell's field. er's choice.

lewsky each had two hits in a losing cause.

mouth Salem (9-12, 1-8). Sophomore right-hander Jon Ritzler hurled a three-hitter. He struck out 10 and walked just two in seven innings in gaining the victory.

Jason Lakosic was the losing pitcher.

Roy Rabe had two of Stevenson's five hits.

•GARDEN CITY 9, JOHN GLENN 8: In a non-leaguer Tuesday, Westland John Glenn's Chet Rees belted a pair of threerun homers, but it wasn't enough as the host Cougars (12-4 overall) came away with the victory.

Rees' round-trippers came in the second and sixth innings, but Glenn falls to 11-9 overall.

R.J. Casey's two-run triple sparked Garden City. Mike McGuire was the winning pitcher.

•JOHN GLENN 9, STEVENSON 8: After scoring five runs in the top of the first inning, Westland John Glenn may have thought its work was done.

But the Rockets were pushed to the limit Monday before finally putting away host Livonia Stevenson.

Glenn led 8-3 in the fourth inning, but allowed the Spartans to creep back in the game before Paul Merandi shut the door on the Stevenson comeback hopes.

Merandi allowed nine hits, but was able to finish the game with six strikeouts and one walk. He kept the Spartans off the errors Monday, visiting Livonia Churchill won behind a 10-hit attack.

The difference was Brett Wells who was 2-for-4 with five RBI. He smacked a three-run home run in a four-run third inning and later nailed a two-run shot to give Churchill a 9-1 lead in the seventh inning.

Eric Lightle's bat was also on fire, as he went 3-for-4 and drove in three runs.

The offense was more than enough for Mark Felker who allowed five hits in his seven innings of work. He struck out eight and walked only one.

On Tuesday, Neil Wildfong went 3-for-3 and Jeff Page threw a five-hitter as host Plymouth Canton (7-12, 3-6) downed the Chargers, 10-6, in a WLAA-Western Division encounter.

Jeff Lyday doubled twice in three trips and scored three runs for the Chargers, who fall to 3-12 overall and 2-7 in the division.

John Ross was the losing pitcher.

With the victory, the Hawks improved to 12-3 overall and remain in second place in the Western Division at 8-1 — one game behind Walled Lake Western. The Patriots are 4-13 overall and 3-5 in the division.

Franklin's Dave Wampler pitched a gem but suffered the defeat. He scattered three hits and struck out eight, but did hit two batters.

The Hawks scored the winning run in the top of the seventh as Chris Ghannam struck out, but tried to reach first on a passed ball by the Franklin catcher. The throw to first wild and that allowed Tom Judd to score from third base.

Harrison had tied the game in the sixth inning on a sacrifice fly by Andy Gutierrez.

The Franklin runs were driven in by Ryan Davis and Brian Waldo who each had one of the five Patriot hits.

Zack Cornwell notched the win, striking out eight and walking only one.

•SOUTHGATE 4, WAYNE 1: The hitting drought for Wayne Memorial continued Monday as visiting Southgate won the Mega Conference battle.

The Zebras collected only three singles — all by John Clendening to slip to 13-9 overall and 6-5 in the Mega's Red Division.

Wayne did take a 1-0 lead in the first, inning after Clark Boston walked and stole second. Clendening then scored Boston with the first of his three hits.

Southgate (8-2 in the Red Division) scored twice in the fifth and twice in the seventh, aided by six Wayne errors.

Clendening suffered the defeat despite allowing only five hits and two earned runs. He struck out six and walked three. Southgate's Tommy Carr fanned 10 in his complete game performance.

•LUTH. EAST 14, CLARENCEVILLE 4: After a weekend sweep, Livonia Clarenceville was routed Monday by visiting Harper Woods Lutheran East.

• Canton's Mary Ashteneau had a fantastic outing in a recent national Bass'n Gal tournament on Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri. After the first day of the two day event, Ashteneau found: herself in the enviable spot of first place on the leader board. She weighed a five-fish limit that totaled 16.09 pounds.

"I was good to win that first day. No one from Michigan has ever held the lead," said Ashteneau, who is a regular on both the state and national Bass'n Gals tours. "But I was so nervous when I learned I was winning it."

Ashteneau fished a Carolinarigged Berkley spider grub. "The trick was to fish it real slow," she said. "It was really cold the night before."

Unfortunately, Ashteneau's luck didn't carry over to the second day of the tournament. "I must have caught 20 fish the second day, but not one keeper," she said.

On the strength of the first day's catch Ashteneau still managed to finish 16th overall.

Linda Bennett, also of Canton, placed 29th in the tournament with 12.94-pounds and Canton police officer Debra Newsome placed 39th with a catch of 11.98-pounds.

•; Tom Lange, of Livonia, reports he took a 19-pound Tom turkey with an 8-inch beard while hunting in Area V on May Jeffrey Weisswasser didn't waste any time filling his springturkey tag. The Beverly Hills hunter had a permit for the first hunt period and on the fourth day of that hunt, April 24, he bagged a boisterous Tom near Big Rapids in Area K. It was Weisswasser's second spring turkey. "We were walking and calling and got a gobbler to answer our calls," said Weisswasser, who was hunting with his friend Ralph Cagle. "We set up in some placted pines. When he was out about 80 yards he started strutting and double-gobbling and I knew we had him." The bird came into within 40vards before Weisswasser squeezed off a shot from his Remington 12 ga. "I was real happy I had the extra-full choke, added Weisswasser. The Tom dressed out at 17pounds and sported a nine-inch beard and 3/4-inch spurs. • Bill Arthurs had an unique experience while turkey hunting in Area J during the second hunt period. On Friday, May 2, Bloomfield hunter set out a couple Feather Flex hen decoys and got quite a surprise.

Answers to roofing questions

let's remodel

Due to the number of questions we have received recently in regards to roofing and venting, this column will address short answers to several of your questions.

Q: Why do I always find granules in my gutters?

A: Normal wear of a roof will allow for some granules to come off, however, if the roof is older, and you see excessive amounts falling off, you may want to have your roof inspected by a professional, once the asphalt content in the shingle begins to wear the shingle will shrink or crack. This happens typically in 15-20 years time; then it is time to replace the roof.

'Q: What would cause an animal to make a home in my roof and/or vent?

A: Attics are a warm place (safe and dry) for any kind of animal. If you have any small holes in your siding or roofing, you are inviting critters to "camp out" in your attic. Rotted wood can invite raccoons and squirrels to chew through and enter your home as well.

Q: Why am I getting blistering and peeling on my ceiling?

A: Blistering and peeling is most likely caused from a very small roof leak or improper attic ventilation. When soffits are plugged with insulation and there is inadequate roof ventilation, the attic will sweat, causing blistering and peeling. If all areas of ventilation check out, then you may have incompatible primer or paint over your existing paint.

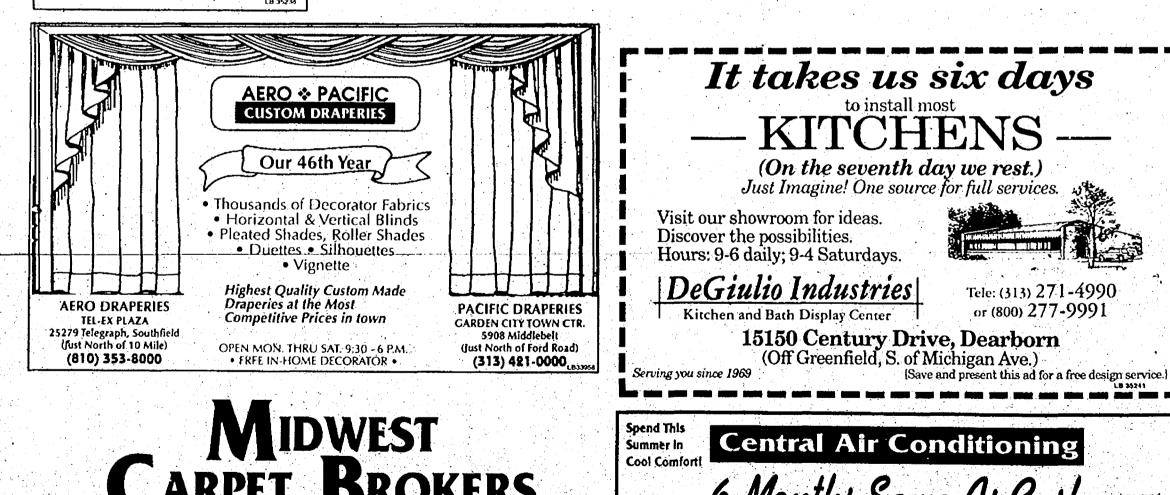

Q: Which is better, a ridge vent or a can vent?

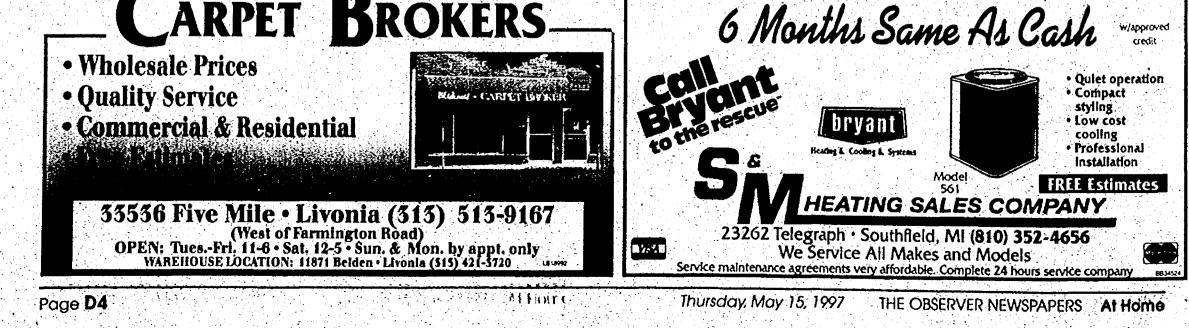

A: A ridge vent works best on a cathedral ceiling situation only. Most people think because a ridge vent is continuous it gives you more ventilation. Not true, Canned vents allow 144 square inches of exhaust for each opening, while ridge vents only allow 36 square inches per running feet. A lot of people choose ridge venting because it is more visibly appealing to the eye, but keep in mind, neither roof venting system will work without proper insulation and adequate soffit ventilation.

Young designers put creativity to work

BY MARY KLEMIC At Home Editor

This gives a different twist - and curve and shape - to "student homework."

The annual student exhibit of the Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design features fun and fantastic furniture by the CCS Interior Design Department. This work for the home celebrates creativity and encourages you to furnish your spaces with imagination.

You can visit now to Sunday, May 25, to see samples of young designers' talent - and maybe select one or more pieces for yourself.

Models of houses and studios, a variety of furnishings and items for the home including doors and boxes, as well as art works are also among the more than 2,500 items on display.

Department chair Bill House waxed ecstatic over the work in this year's show, calling it "tremendous."

"The pieces are very adventurous, not traditional," House said.

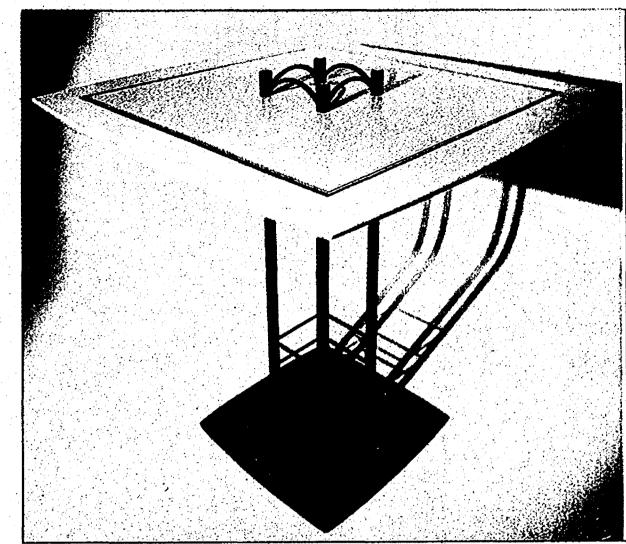

Jak Wonderly of Indiana created "The Indigo Chair." This chair and matching footstool, in gemlike blue shades, were made by hand of paper twine and recycled clothes. Both items' shapes curve and twist gently, cradling and supporting the body.

"The concept was to build a frame and use the weave as the structure of the piece," said Wonderly, whose two-tier serving cart of steel and Ponderosa blue pine is also displayed. "The material becomes the structure."

The fun of the project was in the experimentation, he said. "That was the idea, to get away from the usual... techniques of the chair."

Experimentation led Kevin Grawey of Royal Oak to his bench or coffee table, which he may name "Surf Bench."

"I was working vertically to begin with," Grawey said. The piece is made of plywood and bent maple. It is a harmony of flowing forms, including a slender arm on one end that extends as if beckoning a visitor.

Jesús Piney of Farmington Hills was looking to design something for the outdoors. His "Oasis" is a unit with a shower on one side and a sink on the other that can serve as outdoor sculpture when not in use.

The graceful, narrow unit suggests a fluid motion in many areas - such as the pitcher-like "lip" at the top of one side, and the tapering shelves that resemble waves reaching out of the surface.

Brian Clemens of Bay City fashioned a dining room table that has a sleek, sophisticated, Art Deco look.

"I was trying to design something that was timeless and classic," Clemens said,

Slender black painted metal rods extend up through the center of the maple table top from a flat metal base, and could house condiments or napkins. The table top is accented with a black square. The table could fit especially well in a small studio or a restaurant, Clemens said.

"Scooter Table" is what James Cronin of Dallas called each of his three dynamic pieces, which are made of maple plywood and steel; one has a walnut drawer. They give a sense of motion, each with an iron shape, a small, angled steel rod rising out of the top, and a thin, elongated handle.

The iron form is also in the drawer and a low shelf underneath. The tables could go in an entryway or by the bedside, Cronin said.

"(They're for) younger people who move a lot; a place to throw your keys," he said.

Cronin also fashioned an entryway cart, a combination table/umbrella stand, of maple, aluminum and canvas. Drawers are on one side, bearing metal curls for handles. The other side curves to hold umbrellas or canes, and features a large Oriental design, a laser image by CCS photography students.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday on the CCS campus, 201 E. Kirby at John in Detroit.

Admission is free. Call (313) 872-9463 for information. Interior design was recently added to the list of majors at the college.

The Lear Corp. sponsors the exhibit. Additional support is provided by LDM Technologies, Thyssen Inc., MSX International, Chevrolet Creative Group and Little Caesar's Enterprises.

There were others who were concerned that the Appliance Repair Act might hinder their industry even though it was separate from the appliance industry.

Just three weeks ago, this bill sponsored by Rep. Lvn Bankes made its way back up in front of a consumer committee chaired by Rep. Liz Brater. This time the bill passed unanimously and is being sent to the House in the next few weeks. At this time I'm keeping my fingers crossed, and yet I feel very excited that finally after 10 years the bill has passed through committee.

The Appliance Repair Act says that a service company must list the amount ofa service call, the labor charged for the job, the parts used and described with a part number and a prescribed warranty on the work done.

Testifying in front of the committee were two service company owners who can't understand why it's taken 10 years to get this bill out of committee. Phil, from Phil's appliance, and Jim from Berkley Appliance both made known to our government that they have always written this information on a service invoice before presenting it to their customers.

They also made known that good, honest repair companies have been doing this for years and that anyone not doing so are obviously trying to hide something from the consumer.

It is imperative that this bill pass through the House and become a law. I ask you to all or write your state representative and lend your support to HB 4290, the Appliance Repair Act. Thank You.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances.

Growers' Choice offers garden pick

The Michigan Nursery and Landscape Association in Okemos, on behalf of the Michigan Certified Nurseryman program, has introduced the Growers' Choice Award. The award protered by the Plant Promotion Committee, comprised of seven green industry professionals from all over our state. The affiliate chapter in our area is the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association in Bingham Farms.

This award is designed to promote quality plant materials. Each winner must meet strict guidelines and must have good ornamental quality, hardiness, pest resistance, multiple season interest, landscape adaptability and propagation ease. The three 1997 Growers' Choice Award winners are: a tree, Cornus kousa var. chinensis – Chinese Kousa Dogwood; a perennial, Scabiosa columbaria "Pink Mist"/"Butterfly Blue" – Pincushion Flower; and a shrub, Fothergilla gardenii "Mount Airy," – Mount Airy Dwarf Bottlebrush. *

The Chinese Kousa Dogwood is hardy in zones 5-8 and performs well in full sun to partial shade, although flowering is best in full sun. It thrives in moist, well-drained soils with additional organic matter, but is adaptable to a wide range of soils.

The white bracts (not flowers) mature after the native flowering dogwoods and are large pointed, lasting from late June until early August. The patchwork mosaic of gray, tan and brown as the bark exfoliates adds to its beauty.

The silhouette is handsome because of its strong horizontal branching pattern, which arches as the tree matures. The leaves turn a rich reddish purple in the fall and the fruits resemble a large pinkish red raspberry and appear as the bracts fade.

Suitable as a small specimen tree or integrated with other landscape plants, it works especially well with foundation plantings at the corner of a house. The tree grows to 20 to 30 feet high with a 15- to 20-foot spread and is deciduous. There are a number of cultivars.

The Pincushion Flower is reliably hardy in zones 4-8. Site it in full sun to partial shade, although it flowers best in full sun. It prefers moist, well-drained soils with supplemental organic matter, but can adapt to a wide range of soils.

Both cultivars, "Butterfly Blue" and "Pink Mist," bloom for a long time, commencing in mid-spring until frost.

Two nice things about these plants are: because of their dwarf form (12 to 18 inches), they will never require staking, and they attract butterflies to the garden. The flowers are one to 1-1/2 inches wide and are fully double. Buy these perennials based on the size and health, not the number of flowers; they will produce bloom once established. They make excellent drifts of color and blend beautifully with other perennials or low-growing flowering shrubs.

The outstanding flowering shrub, Mount Airy Fothergilla, is reliably hardy in zones 4-8 and, as with the other winners, performs best in full sun. Its soil requirements are also the same as the others.

This easy-to-grow plant forms a dense suckering four- to five-foot shrub, and because of its white flowers and dark green foliage combines well with other colors. It makes an excellent hedge, foundation or specimen plant. Appropriate companion plants are Rhododendron, Taxus, Kalmia and most dwarf conifers.

Be prepared to work from home

BY KATHLEEN BRITTEN Special Writer

Clearly, working out of our homes is the way of the future and not just a fad!

Whether you've started a homebased business or work at home as a full- or part-time employee, the ideal situation is to create an area that allows you to work comfortably and productively.

So, let's walk through the home office process and share our vision.

Home offices present a true design challenge. It's a clear case of the old adage that "form follows function."

Every office is connected to the world in a variety of ways and this means equipment - a computer, printer, other peripherals, telephone, fax and maybe a copier. You must recognize these and incorporate them in a functional and esthetically pleasing design plan.

Where to start? First, how will the office be used? Do you spend a lot of time on the phone? On the computer?

Karen Britten

Or very little time in the office at all? Each situation, in addition to the nature of the business itself, influences the design.

A computer needs its own separate space from the desktop. It's not only practical, but psychologically important as well. Two different technologies are employed, and it's better to separate them than muddle them together.

Will you need meeting space? This may be extremely important or not required at all. Space is always a constraint in a home office, so you'll want to plan wisely.

Filing and storage are other considerations. Although the computer can reduce the amount of paperwork, we're far from a paperless office. Keeping a stock of supplies on hand means storage space.

Lighting is such an important element in any design, but in an office it must be appropriate for the work that is being done. Durability of furnishings is a need, while style varies widely.

One of the real challenges is finding furnishings that will mesh the technology and your preferences and taste.

Some contract furniture manufacturers have recognized the size of the home office market and have begun to produce for this market. I think we will see a lot of innovation and attention being given to furniture design as home offices continue to grow.

Now that you've determined your needs, how do we put it all together?

You can do it yourself, but my advice is to consult with an interior designer. Not only do designers have access to an abundance of resources, they also have the knowledge to incorporate all the elements for the best productivity.

Working at home isn't a hobby! Sharing your needs and taste with your designer will allow you to create the ideal work situation for function equipment, storage, task lighting - as well as the look and style that's singufarly you.

Indeed, a well-designed office may be one of the most important investments you make in your business and career.

Kathleen Britten is an interior designer from Bloomfield Hills. She is a member of Michigan Design Center's "Designer On Call" program. For a complimentary one-hour consultation with a designer such as Britten, call toll-free 1-888-DIAL-MDC.

During his spoken-word performances, Henry Rollins makes it very clear that he doesn't like to be late. He hits the stage on time. He does his interviews on time: So Rollins is quick to apologize when an interview begins late because of an overzealous reporter went over his 30-minute limit.

"I'm sorry my phone was busy for so long. The last reporter kept talking. I couldn't get him off the phone," he explained.

The usually jovial Rollins is not a happy man but he feels better after the interview is cut short to put him back on schedule.

Many people would be surprised that the former Black Flag singer's spokenword performances are more like stand-up comedy. Sharing stories of the road, the studio and life, Rollins is demurely dressed in black pants and Tshirt.

His usual concert stage garb is Spandex shorts covered with ripped work-out shorts. His multiple tattoos are distorted by bulging muscles and protruding veins. Lunging forward he shakes his head to rid his face of sweat. Rollins doesn't exactly look like the next Carrot Top.

He likes to demean artists he's not particularly fond of during spokenword performances. Take, for instance, his story about a show in Brazil. he Downtown Hoedown has a whole new meaning to country star and WWWW morning show host Holly Dunn. She will not only perform during her fourth visit to the Hoedown, but she will serve as a disc jockey as well.

"I'll be there introducing my friends to the stage. That'll be strange to be there all three days instead of being 'Holly Dunn the singer' who sets up, performs, and leaves," Dunn said.

This year's Hoedown takes place Friday, May 16-Sunday, May 18, at Hart Plaza in Detroit. Besides Dunn, the lineup includes performances by Burning Davlight, Diamond Rio, Buffalo Club, Mark Wills, David Lee Murphy, Mark Chestnutt, Patty Loveless, David Kersh, Jeff Wood, Kevin Sharp and John Berry. The free show runs noon-11 p.m. each day.

W4 general manager Peter Connolly said this year's Hoedown is the biggest in its 15-year history.

"We have more acts and bigger acts. We have a lot more sponsors in the event. The city has taken a very active role to make sure it's a very safe, family-oriented event," Connolly said.

He added that it is the largest event held outside in Detroit. Citing figures from the Detroit Recreation Department, Connolly said that last year's estimated attendance for the Hoedown was 980,000 people. The Freedom Festival Fireworks brings in 750,000 people. Pyramids of the two books sit side by side at several local bookstores.

Each book promises a "can't-put-itdown" reading experience, a roller coaster of excitement and high-stakes danger. right here in southeast Michigan.

Tom Grace, author of "Spyder Web" (Seanachaoi Press, $24.95), and Robert Davis, author of "Plutonium Murders" (Horizon Press, $24.95), hope to find the same kind of enthusiastic audiences that took Tom Clancy from the obscurity of a small Navy publisher to best sellerdom and mega-movie success.

If things work out for these two authors, Nolan Kilkenny and Alex Seacourt may become as well known as James Bond and Jack Ryan.

Kilkenny is a red headed Irish-American graduate student recently completing a tour in Naval intelligence. Grace is also a red-haired Irish-American.

"Spyder Web" is about industrial espionage, Chinese spy operations and a computer center at the University of Michigan. A computer security system has been developed that can also be turned around and used as a highly sophisticated computer spy.

Grace adds to this basic material the machinations of two polished industrial spies, a sinister Chinese agent, several American and British government agents and Kilkenny, his computer expert colleague and his physicist girl friend. The climax is high speed excitement on the Thames.

"When I decided to give this a shot, to carry a story line to novel-length form, I branched into a variety of areas and then Livonia-native Grace, 34, is a profes- remembered the adage, write about what sional architect with an interest in mar- you know," Grace said. "I pared it down to Grace writes easily about complex computer stratagems.

'I got into computers before architecture," he said. "Blame that on high school. I was a computer consultant for an insurance company in Southfield."

At 18, while attending Redford Catholic Central, Grace was hired to test out personal computers for the company.

Architecture was a way for Grace to combine his interests.

"Architecture has always interested me. It's essentially a technical art," Grace said. "It allows me to exploit my interest in technology and be creative. It gives me a chance to do both, blend art and engi-hit the opening notes of the first I'm up there alone. It's worth song, my head went down at the same time my knee was traveling upward. Knee and head connected and I saw stars. I spent a few seconds trying to figure out who hit me. Soon I figured out what was going on. It was then that I put my hand to my head and felt a gash that started above my right eyebrow and ended at my eyelid. We played the rest of the set without further injuries and left (Lemonhead) Evan Dando to play in my blood."

Actually the spoken-word performances – which came to the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor in mid-January - take more out of Rollins than his live shows.

"It's kind of fun, those shows. But they're very draining. They beat the hell out of me. If I do four of those in week I'm not good for much. There's no script. There's no beat. I travel alone.

doing. I like it, but it pushes you pretty hard."

Rollins is all about being challenged. His live show, which comes to Clutch Cargo's in Pontiac on Tuesday, May 20, is a like a military-style training episode.

"I have no problem getting psyched for a show. I relax. I stretch and I get my body totally loose. I'm slowly upping my heart rate by doing calisthenics and running. My the time I'm hitting the stage the propellers are turning so fast that they're standing still," explained Rollins, 36.

The Rollins Band is coming to Pontiac to promote his latest record "Come In and Burn" (DreamWorks). The Rollins band - which includes drummer Sim Cain, bassist Melvin Gibbs, guitarist Chris Haskett and sound engineer Theo Van Rock - worked throughout 1996 writing and revising material for the album. In October the 10-yearold Rollins Band went into Bearsville Studios in Woodstock, N.Y., and laid down 19 tracks within a couple weeks.

For the pile-driving rock album "Come in and Burn" the band shunned digital equipment and retreated to "good old two inch analog tape.'

"I think it gives the record a way more warmer and rip-roaring sound. It's different than (1994's) 'Weight.' I was never the biggest fan of the 'Weight' record sonically because there's something about the digital (equipment) that I'm not a big fan of. It was something in the drums."

"When you put on (Rolling Stones') 'Exile on Main Street' you go 'great.' 'Some Girls' 'oh yeah, not so great' but still it's a good record. I like the sound of the 'Come In and Burn Record' a lot more. We used a lot more dynamics, a lot more coloration in the guitars."

Producer Steven Thompson (Metallica, Guns N' Roses, Tesla, Madonna) encouraged the band to play less notes and concentrate on the groove more, according to Billboard magazine. The groove-laden bass, hypnotic swirl of guitars once again surround Rollins' melodic angst-ridden lyrics.

"Call me Frustration and Anger, Inc.," Rollins told Entertainment Weekly

He's inspired by "women in, women out. The city and the isolation one feels inside the city. What I go through on a day-today basis."

"I don't really write songs like 'my friend bought me a cat.' I don't do stuff like that. I don't like to write throw away music or throw away lyrics. It has to mean a lot to me."

2.13.61. A musical Renaissance man,

But for Rollins, touring in cities like Detroit is where it's at.

"They (Detroiters) know what it means to get down with the heavy rock. Some of the greatest. hard rock bands that the hard rock scene has ever seen have come from Detroit - Detroit Wheels, Bob Seger, the Nuge, Alice Cooper, Iggy Pop, MC5. It's just ridiculous. (Plus) all the indie bands - the Necros, Negative Approach," Rollins said.

"There's just a great tradition of unrelenting heavy (music). When you go out there and lay the heavy deal on people (in another city) they say 'Glad you showed up. We're too busy getting pierced to be into this.' It's way more fun to play Ohio. Michigan, Minnesota. Everyone's just like 'We see you every year. We'd love to see you back out here again.' So would I."

Rising star

Success has been a new thing for freshman country singer Kevin Sharp, who performs at the Hoedown on Sunday, May 18. Late last year he scored a hit with his remake of the Tony Rich Project song "Nobody Knows." Sharp's debut album "Measure of a Man" (Asylum) has been in the top 10 on the country charts.

All of this was something that Sharp didn't expect as a high school senior in 1989. Born in 1970 Sharp began experiencing bouts of debilitating fatigue and severe spasms in his left leg and lower back. Doctors told him he was suffering from an old sports injury.

The doctors changed their diagnosis a few months later when he was admitted to the hospital after lost 20 pounds and he stopped breathing. He was diagnosed with Ewing's sarcoma, a rare bone cancer which had by then spread to his lungs.

Hearing about his case, the Phoenix-based Make-A-Wish Foundation asked him if there was anything it could do for him. He asked to meet producer/composer/performer David Foster. Two months later Sharp learned that the aggressive chemotherapy and radiation had failed. He wasn't expected to live. He had a series of operations to treat his aged bones and then underwent a second dose of radiation with an experimental drug. In 1991 Sharp went into remission. As soon as his strength was renewed he began work on "Measure of a Man."

"I have no problem sharing my story over and over again. That's what life is all about. I hope I can offer a little help and inspiration. A lot of people surely gave me inspiration by sharing their stories. I'm grateful for the opportunity to share it with as many people as I can."

"There is life after cancer. It's not a death sentence."

A spokesman for the Make-A-Wish Foundation, Sharp heard Detroiter Rich's song "Nobody Knows" and thought it would be the perfect way to express the feelings he kept pent up inside during his battle with cancer.

"I had felt that way for a long time and hadn't been able to write it myself. I couldn't put it into words. I take pride in trying to write songs that come from a place that I've been or can feel. It gave me goose bumps the first time I heard it. All of us in our lives have felt that nobody knows how I feel."

Sole performance

Dunn's performance will probably be her only one this year because of the rigorous schedule of working at W4. Working at a radio station, she admits, was something that she never expected.

Management at ·W4 approached her with their idea to "bring an artist up and put them on the air full time," she explained. She accepted the offer but had to turn down the opportunity to tour in support of her latest album "Leave One Bridge Standing" (River North).

"Touring's a full-time job and so is radio. There was no way I could do both. I wondered if with the new album coming out if this would be detrimental not to be on the road this year. But you know I've toured for the last 10 or 11 years. I've toured and had a hit record and toured and not had a hit record. I don't know if it makes a difference if I'm on the road or not."

"It's a good chance to get off the road and do something a little bit different and explore some new things," explained Dunn who has homes here and in Nashville.

four sugary sisters from Muncie, Indiana who combine their considerable talents singing the top tunes of the day. As this revue begins, they are about to make their big-time television debut. Lucky us, we get to sit back and watch as they sing, chat with the audience, giggle a lot, read fan mail, even shoot photos of the event for Mom and Dad, who had to stay home. The girls have come far since their first professional engagement, the grand opening of the IGA Supermarket in Muncie.

We can see why they've made it big. Wearing jukebox-colored silky (taffeta?) dresses created by Mom and inspired by that 50s standby The Ladies Home Journal, the sisters make an eyesweater. Best of all, though, their singing voices are as smooth as that silk taffeta.

Starting with a really cool rendition of "Sh-Boom," the sparkly sisters round out an opening set of songs with golden oldies like "Mr. Sandman," "The Three Bells" and "Tonight, You Belong to Me." Picture the Lennon Sisters slightly overdosed on bubbles and you'll have a pretty good picture of this warbling quartet. They're sort of perfectly serious and sort of perfectly ridiculous at the same time.

So many fun moments occur throughout the evening that it's difficult to single out high spots. In the first act, the Johnnie Ray mega-hit, "Cry," as performed by

The second act includes the Taffetas' version of the supersmash, "Sincerely," plus a mesmerizing, two-part rendition of the sweet-sad "Where the Boys Are," spotlighting sisters Kaye (Cynthia Yantis) and Cheryl (Carollee Castle). The finale, "Moments to Remember" (what else?) is not only grand, but enchanting.

°Grace said he is getting a thrill walking into bookstores and seeing his books arranged in pyramid displays "like I was John Grisham or something."

"My intent is to build an audience; the reaction we're getting has been very good. It's a good summer beach book when you want to be entertained," he said.

Grace wants to develop the character of Kilkenny and his girl friend, Kelsey Newton, so he has two leads that can each take center stage. His fictional MARC facility, modeled on UM's Intellectual Properties Office, will continue as the focal point of the books.

Appropriately enough, a movie company found out about Grace's book on a website. They are reading it for possible purchase. Grace would like to see Chris O'Donnell (this year's Robin) in the lead.

Grace, his wife, Kathleen Hopps, and his daughters, Marcia, 6, and Kathleen, 4, live in Dexter.

Plutonium Murders

Farmington Hills' Robert Davis began writing thrillers while confined to the "hole" of a federal prison-for three weeks.

Davis was a medical doctor who had developed a successful practice and in 1984 founded the Family Medical Center in Utah where he had 49 employees and was treating 100 patients a day.

Davis became and alcoholic and drug addict and in 1993 was sentenced to 2-1/2 years in federal prison for mail fraud. He spent 500 hours in a drug and alcohol program to overcome his problem.

"I've been sobering up and coming to terms with my shame," he said.

"Like a lot of alcoholics my drill in life was to sabotage myself. I was either a workaholic or an alcoholic. My friends were police chiefs, judges, lawyers and company executives, we'd get drunk every night. I wasn't in touch with my feelings or my spirituality."

He said prison was the worst and best thing that happened to him since it saved him from his addictions and got him into writing.

"I went to a typing room for three weeks with those institutional green walls and that's where I started my journey," he said.

"Plutonium Murders" is the third book Davis wrote but the first to be published. In the book, a pharmaceutical magnate, horribly disfigured in an explosion that destroyed his family when he was a child, is taking revenge on the world by polluting the water system with plutonium. Internist Alex Seacourt is innocently drawn into this plot when he sees something he shouldn't. The University of Michigan Hospital water system is one of two targets ("I went to school at Michigan, I had to nuke them."). He is poisoned and must rush to save himself and the world. Some scenes are also in Farmington Hills.

The novel reaches fever pitch in a showdown at the Hoover Dam.

"I've always liked those kind of movies - Arnold Swarzenegger, Bruce Willis, 'Die Hard' stuff. And my novels are really movies," Davis said.

"I'm a very visual person. When I write I see books, I see a journey. What I'm really doing is writing a journey that I'm actually in."

He admits that Seacourt is actually "my alter ego, but he has more hair."

Davis said the books he's written contain the main ingredients for successful commercial novels: high concept, dramatic questions raised, high stakes, two or three points of view and several main characters.

Davis plans to publish "The Doomsday Kiss" for Thanksgiving of this year and "A Time to Die" and "Ghosts of the Dead" for 1998.

"I do a tremendous amount of research. I try to stay as close to the truth as possible, try to stay within realms of possibility," Davis said.

He draws on his medical education and other interests.

He said Manifest Pictures (producers of "Donnie Brasco" and the latest Jean Claude Van Damm-Dennis Rodman movie) have expressed interest in "Plutonium Murders." He would like to see David Duchovny or Keanu Reeves as Seacourt.

Davis is trying to get his medical license reinstated but wants to concentrate on writing and use his medical skills on a charity basis either in the inner city or on an Indian reservation. As a pilot, Davis has flown other physicians to Monument Valley Hospital, a rural Indian health facility.

Now he is on a whirlwind book-signing tour that will take him to several states.

"It's grueling, a lot of hard work. I lose track of the days, but I love the people."

He said he especially loves it when someone says they stayed up all night to finish the book. Then he knows he has succeeded. Davis is divorced and has a daughter, 5-1/2.

Willis saves universe, not film in 'Fifth Element'

since:

The movie informs us that along with earth, wind, fire, and water, another element has been discovered. When ringed by stone representations of the others in an ancient Egyptian temple, this fifth element will create a power great enough to battle the encroaching forces of evil.

And since the movie is directed by a Frenchman, the fifth element is not simply another dusty perfect physical specimen, clothed in some strategicallyplaced Band-Aids and played by model Milla Jovovich.

New York City, circa 2259, is a traffic jam ten stories high. It's here that the superwoman, eluding police, dives off a building and onto the top of Bruce Willis' taxi cab. Since he moonlights as a secret agent, their paths cross again when both are assigned to retrievé the stolen element stones. "The Fifth Element" offers nods to the past decades' most. influential science fiction films, "Star Wars" and "Blade Runner." But it doesn't have the captivating story of the former or the latter's unified vision of the city of the future.

Besson is still best-known for the hyperkinetic "La Femme Nikita." He has a similarly willing heroine in the stunning Jovovich, but aside from a few Luc Besson stone. It's "un belle femme," the martial arts moves in one scene, she's a passive part of the action and must be saved by a male hero.

> The entire movie is like that: a series of good ideas that go absolutely nowhere. Why spend all this time demonstrating the bells and whistles of a futuristic shoulder cannon if you're not going to use it in some action scene? And why introduce a voice of evil that makes even bad guy Gary Oldman shudder if he's not going to appear in the film's climax?

> There are memorable moments in "The Fifth Element," most involving costuming and the computer-generated special effects. Both are responsible for the sky blue, tube-ventillated Diva, one of the film's fascinating creations.

Gary Oldman adds to his freak show resume with a high-stakes villain who threatens all life in the universe. He plays it to the hilt, recognizing even when Besson doesn't that the movie is basically a big budget giggle.

Too bad nobody let Bruce Willis in on the joke. He's horribly miscast, an uneven cross between the regular guy turned badass in "Die Hard" and a larger-than-life comic book hero who has supposedly been in situations like this before..

Besson serves up five shots for most directors' one, but his sequences are all flash with little tension. And while this is the most flamboyant, unique Euroscience fiction film since "Barbarella," it's similarly destined (with its rapper-voiced president) to look dated less than a year from now.

"The Fifth Element" provided a glitzy Hollywood-style opening for the Cannes Film Festival. Instead of winning any awards here, however, it will mostly be compared to that other Bruce Willis bomb, "Hudson Hawk," both critically and at the box office.

John Monaghan welcomes your calls and comments. You can listen to him on Dave Dixon's Radio Show AM 1270, 8 p.m. to midnight Saturdays. To leave John a voice mail message, dial (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, mailbox 1866.

Canadian singer deals with her self-esteem worries

singer/pianist Chantal Kreviazuk exudes self confidence declaring "This is the way God CHRISTINA made me." In FUOCO between choruses of "God Made Me." Kreviazuk lists her shortcomings - and accepts them while commenting on what she considers other people's fortunes. But she's the first to admit that she's a hypocrite.

"Sometimes I'm very self conscious about my weight, my hair everything. I think, 'Man it's so stupid.' When I was writing songs and dreaming of having a record deal. I didn't think about any of that. I just wanted my music to be great," said Kreviazuk (pronounced kre-veea-zuk).

"My worst shows have been out of my self complexities, my self-esteem worries. They've overtaken my passion and self especially one from their own confidence and ruined a few things for me. Sometimes I tell myself to forget about that and give them the song that I really wanted to give them. That makes it beautiful and enjoyable."

U.S. audiences can get a sneak listen of her debut album "Under These Rocks and Stones" (Columbia) on Tuesday, May 20, when she opens for Amanda Marshall at the Chrysler Theatre in Windsor. Her album "Under These Rocks and Stones" has been out in Canada for some time but won't reach U.S. record stores until Tuesday, June 3. Detroit, however, has already encountered the first single through its massive airplay on radio station CIMX (88.7).

Calling from her Winnipeg home, Kreviazuk explained why she's so surprised that "God Made Me" was such a hit.

"Canadians tend to need a lot of positive reinforcement in order to embrace a new artist - country. Without international acclaim it seems really hard to break here," she said.

"When 'God Made Me' was released and did as well as it did, I was really, really shocked. I think I just kind of got lucky."

"Under These Rocks and Stones" was co-produced by Peter Asher (Linda Ronstadt, James Taylor, 10,000 Maniacs) and Matt Wallace (Screaming Trees, Faith No More, The Replacements) and recorded in Los Angeles. The album features Kreviazuk - who wrote all but two songs on her debut - on piano and vocals. At one moment her voice can be sweet and innocent sounding, others it's raspy and confident.

"Surrounded" is one of the most poignant songs on the album. Kreviazuk explained that it's the story of her first boyfriend whom she had "been crazy about" since junior high. "We liked each other by university. But he took a bad turn and ended up taking his life just four years ago. When he died I was very, very sad. When I would go out. I would feel reminded of him by different people - someone wearing something similar. driving a similar car, wearing the same hair cut, or having the same height and stature," explained Kreviazuk, who is rumored to be dating Raine Maida, the lead singer of Our Lady Peace.

"I felt like I was continuously surrounded by him. One day I was having a shower and I wrote it. I went over and over it in my head. It was very therapeutic."

Kreviazuk began playing piano at 2 years of age and was a competition-winning classical pianist by her early teens. At 15 she started concentrating on her own music. When a motorbike accident in Italy left her with a shattered jaw and broken leg in 1994, an enforced period of bed rest and recuperation found her writing songs about the mysteries of adulthood.

Frequently, Kreviazuk said, she finds herself writing about "how you view yourself as an adult verses a child and how that affects relationships - particularly intimate relations."

STREET SCENE

"That's something I like to write about a lot - How I view! myself and how other people view themselves."

Chantal Kreviazuk opens for Amanda Marshall at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 20, at the Chrysler Theatre at Cleary International Centre, 201 Riverside Dr. West, Windsor, Ontario, Canada. Tickets are $26 Canadian. For more information, call (800) 387-9181.

show gets you a backstage pass to Detroit's art scene

TWO THUMBS UP!"

Channel 56 about hosting a new weekly show to be produced and aired Detroit bv Public Television. The idea was to promote the visual and performing arts in.

Southeastern Michigan and to highlight the local cultural scene, primarily with in-studio performances - sort of an "Ed Sullivan in Detroit" vibe. The show was to be called Backstage Pass, and since Ed has gone to the "really big shoe in the sky,"

Several months green room and studio. And this I was setting has yielded plenty of approached by inside information. In fact, if I had to choose one word to describe Backstage Pass which, for argument's sake, let's say I do - it would be "revealing."

Sure, we've had big name, big label bands in the studio. Like Detroit-based, platinum-selling rock quintet Sponge. And RCA recording artists Robert Bradley's Blackwater Surprise. And The Braxtons, the sister act that spawned Toni and routinely inhabits the upper reaches of the R&B charts, What's so revealing about that?

Well, did you know that the Braxton sisters' first performance was a tune they call "The Charmin Song," an a cappella call for toilet paper sung from Madgett, a Detroit jewel about whom not enough Detroiters are aware.

Then there are the visual artists. I gather that the artist's role in society is to force us to look at the reality in which we're constantly immersed from a new perspective. Apparently, the most effective way for them to routinely access this skewed take on the world is to be - and I mean this in the most flattering possible way – a little bit nuts. Now, I know a lot of artists balk at the supposedly cliched view of the word. Like Naomi Long artists as crazy people, but, being nuts themselves, they cannot possibly have a clear perspective on the issue.

I frame this discussion of our visual arts coverage with the artists-are-nuts caveat for this reason: often, when you first hear what these people are doing, your immediate, kneejerk, unblinking response is. "That's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard." But then, you see it, and you're blown away.

Like artist Lance Wynn who duplicated the view outside four adjacent windows at the Paint Creek Center for the Arts in Friday at 11:30 p.m. on Channel Rochester using nothing but four stamps – each stamp a different color - that increased in size by 25 percent as you went from left to right, thereby creating increasingly abstracted images of the exterior view. (I know what you're thinking.) But when we broadcast a slow camera dissolve between two images - the actual exterior view and his most abstracted interpretation everyone's jaws dropped.

For now, let's close with a preview of the program you'll see Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and 56: Eight-time Detroit Music Award-winners The Forbes Brothers join us in studio to talk about the annual Downtown Hoedown. They just swept all the major Country & Western music categories at the Music Awards this year. We'll also get previews of "The Flying Dutchman" from the folks at the Michigan Opera Theatre and the Music Hall production of "Having Our Say." Plus, we givean overview of the spring season's many art school grad shows:

would I be interested?

What? A chance to introduce Channel 56 viewers to talented local, national and international artists every Thursday night? You bet I would. Now, with the debut of this weekly column to complement our broadcasts, we're making it easier than ever to share the excitement generated by Detroit-area cultural activities and artists.

Since its premiere in February, the producers have made it clear to me why Backstage Pass was picked as the name of the show (and now this column). We've truly created a "backstage" atmosphere - musicians, artists, actors and other creative talent are all thrown into the same their bathtub railing? Or that blind street musician and Eastern Market fixture Robert Bradley hooked up with his group Blackwater Surprise when he was working a new corner and the sound of his voice carried to them through an open window during a hot summer' afternoon's rehearsal? Or that Sponge lead singer Vinnie Dombrowski is touring in late May with one of his favorite musical influences, Iggy Pop, in the Roar Tour?

In contrast to the big-name acts, we also have many guests who don't have the benefit of major label promotional apparatus behind them. They have been true revelations in every sense of

Al-Petra offers Mid-Eastern, American food to please

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

DINING

"Yvonne's American Dream," would be an appropriate name for the newly opened Al-Petra Restaurant in Livonia.

"I love cooking. Everyone says I'm a good cook, and that I should open a restaurant," said Yvonne Khazouz of Livonia who owns Al-Petra with her husband Adnan a forklift operator at Ford's Glass Plant in Dearborn, "Tabbouleh is my wife's specialty."

After raising three boys, she was ready to work on her dream. Salim Khouzouz, her brother, offered to help in the kitchen.

"He's a good cook," said Yvonne. "I couldn't find anyone better."

"We want to serve everything to please our customers," said Salim who worked at Leon's, and managed Big Boy restaurants in Livonia and Westland Mall.

The restaurant was named after a famous historic site in Jordan, the Khazouz's homeland. Al-Petra is the site of magnificent ruins, once the center of a great civilization, which is carved out of a mountain.

Mansaf, which is served only on Sundays, is a traditional Jordanian dish consisting of lamb cooked in a yogurt sauce served with rice, roasted pine nuts, and garnished with parsAl-Petra ley.

A day before their VIP grand opening on May 2, Yvonne and Salim were busy getting ready. What used to be a baseball card shop is now a charming restaurant where the focus is on good food, presented in an appetizing way.

Al-Petra aims to please. Customers will find their favorite Middle Eastern dishes hummus, baba ghannouj, falafel, Shish Tawook (chicken kabab), Mujadra (lentils cooked with rice), and some surprises.

Beef or lamb shish kabab -"very lean meat, specially marinated and charbroiled to your taste, served with vegetables," is a specialty. "I check and double check the meat," said Adnan. "It's got to be filet, and tender to be enjoyable. If the taste is not there, it's not shish kabab."

Turkish coffee, homemade lemonade, and Musakhan chicken with onion, and special seasonings, rolled in thin bread and baked - are other surprises.

If Middle Eastern cuisine is not for you, do not despair. You'll also find lamh chops, fish and chips, hamburger and fries, spaghetti, chicken salad and tuna salad, on this menu. American breakfasts – eggs with ham, bacon and sausage, steak and eggs, biscuits and gravy, strawberry pancakes, strawberry French toast, and omelettes, are also available. Save room for the baklava, rice pudding, and cream caramel.

"We will try to please the customers any way we can," said Salim. "If it's not on the menu, and customers want it, we will try to provide it if it's within our range.'

The kitchen and plumbing are all new, and although the restaurant currently seats only 24, the Khazouz's would like to expand.

"I worked hard on getting my dream," said Yvonne. "And hopefully I will get my dream, and the restaurant will be a success. You know, America is the land of the American dream. The kids came first. This is my American dream."

Title firm can help find mortgagees

ROBERT M

approved our condominium documents. What should we do to find out who the mortgagees are and how long should it take?

A. With the help of your attorney, you should obtain a list of the mortgagees. However, many times the co-owners do not provide this information or the information provided is not current. You will need to obtain a list of the mortgagees, which is sometimes expensive, since it requires a title search.

Often times, our firm has worked out an arrangement with a title company to assist the association in obtaining a list of mortgagees at a reasonable cost.

Once the list is obtained, the association's attorney should notify the mortgagees of the approved amendment and request their approval. Generally, mortgagees are cooperative. However, I have experienced a few instances where the mortgagee has been both dilatory and unwilling to cooperate with the association requiring, in one instance, the attorney for the association had to "redline the changes" for the mortgagee since the mortgage company did not want to have to spend the time to review the documents.

The mortgage company, in my view should, as a cost of doing business, be prepared to assist its mortgagors and the association in approving these documents with out additional cost to the association. When mortgagees become uncooperative, notify the mortgagor as well as the chief executive officer of the mortgage company regarding any unreasonable lack of cooperation.

Robert M. Meisner is an Oakland County area attorney concentrating his practice in the areas of condominiums, real estate, corporate law and litigation. You are invited to submit topics that you would like to see discussed in this column, including questions about condominiums, by writing Robert M.

Then came freeways and the suburbanization of America large families, larger houses, much larger yards far away from urban roota.

But in recent years, developers/builders Bryan Timlin, Bernie Glieberman and others have brought an urban lifestyle to suburbs with well-defined downtowns like Birmingham and Roval Oak.

And even back to Detroit, in Glieberman's case.

The pair have found that not everyone covets a huge house and a long commute. Some folks willingly pay more for less living space and neighbors on the doorstep.

"I call it a pedestrian lifestyle ... mixed use with retail, enter-Q. We have just tainment, restaurants, commercial, office," Timlin said. "You need a true downtown to make it happen, large enough to offer all amenities."

> Glieberman sold out more than 200 new-from-the-ground-up condominiums at Main Street Square and Maryland Club in Royal Oak during the mid 1990s much quicker than he expected.

"The demand was there," he said. "I didn't create demand. Planners created demand by making downtowns viable."

Prices started at $79,900 and $89,900, respectively, for 1,000 square feet including two bedrooms and bathand-a-half.

"They're doing incredibly on resale," said Joanne Williams, Glieberman sales rep.

She recalled that one original purchaser at Main Street who put $5,000 to $10,000 of upgrades in a $79,900 condo recently sold for $137,000.

Condos, townhouses and lofts in an urban setting are easy sells, said Mary Savoie-Huff, a Realtor with Snyder, Kinney, Bennett and Keating, who also represents some of Timlin's builds.

City lights: Bryan Timlin, a Birmingham developer/builder, is a big proponent of downtown living.

"They move very quickly," Savoie-Huff said. "It's amazing. I wouldn't have believed it. But what can you buy in downtown Birmingham?"

K.C. Mueller, a Realtor with Remerica Hometown, recently sold the last two available units at the Meadows, attached condominiums in downtown Plymouth.

"They were full-price offers and people were lined up in case they didn't go through," Mueller said.

"There's a segment of the population now that really wants an urban lifestyle," Glieberman said. "It's basically young people and empty nesters, not people with kids."

cal. "History repeats itself," he said. "Martinis and cigars are coming back."

Timlin has specialized in new condominiums and apartment-tocondo conversions in Birmingham. ranging in price from $129,000 to more than $1 million.

His buyers reflect Glieberman's. "It's both male and female, people 21 to 85. It's single people and married people," Timlin said.

John and Cheryl Davison, soonto-be empty nesters, are moving from a condo in Royal Oak to a condo in Birmingham built by Timlin.

"We purchased this home to be close to town, close to work, actually so we could walk to places," John said. "It's close to restaurants, close to shopping for the wife.

"We don't want the big, major upkeep of a house, either," John Davison said. "If I'm going out of town, I don't want it to be totally vacant. People are living around

Timlin suspects that urban, condo living will expand in suburban communities like Rochester and Plymouth as the population shifts and more-traveled roads touch those downtowns - if land is available. Mueller, who also serves as a Plymouth Township Trustee, concurs. "From the desire of developing a site, I think it's a very realistic possibility, she said.

Will it be approved by politicians, the zoning? There probably will be a little reluctance, but they will eventually give in. They resist change, resist high rises, resist what they didn't have before," Mueller said.

Timlin, who's building 19 condos and four lofts in Birmingham at 662 Purdy, thoroughly enjoys his niche. "Everywhere there's an urban market, there's an opportunity," he said, for a mortgage, you're likely to shop among lenders for the combination of many of important features in a mortgage lender that will best meet your needs: favorable interest rate, the lowest points and other upfront charges, someone who can communicate with you and answer all your questions, etc. When you find the most favorable terms and the lender that you want, you'll apply to that lender.

But when you get to settlement, will you actually receive the terms you applied or bargained for? Lock-ins on rates and points might offer you a way to ensure that what you shop for is what you get.

In most cases, the terms you are quoted when you shop among lenders only represent the terms available to borrowers settling their loan agreement at the time of the quote. The quoted terms may not be the terms available to you at settlement weeks or even months later. Therefore, you should not rely on the terms quoted to you when shopping for a loan unless a lender is willing to offer a lock-in.

What is a lock-in? A lock-in, also called a rate-lock or rate commitment, is a lender's promise to hold a certain interest rate and a certain number of points for you, usually for a specified period of time, while your loan application is processed. Depending on the lender, you may be able to lock in the interest rate and number of points that you will be charged when you file your application during processing of the loan, when the loan is approved, or later.

A lock-in that is given when you apply for a loan may be useful because it's likely to take your lender several weeks or longer to prepare, document, and evaluate your loan application. During that time, the cost of mortgages may change. But if your interest rate and points are locked in, you would be protected against increases while your application is processed. This protection could affect whether you can afford the mortgage. However, a locked-in rate could also prevent you from taking advantage of price decreases, unless your lender is willing to lock in a lower rate that becomes available during this period.

What is a commitment? It is important to recognize that a lock-in is not the same as a loan commitment, although some loan commitments may contain a lock-in. A loan commitment is the lender's promise to make you a loan in a specific amount at some future time. Generally, you will/receive the lender's commitment only/after Answers will be available during a free, no-obligation Detroit Metro Home Buyers Fair 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at the University of Detroit Mercy, McNichols (Six Mile) at Livernois.

Upwards of 60 exhibitors, mostly financial institutions, have signed on to participate in the fourth annual fair sponsored by the Michigan Mortgage Bankers Association.

Additionally, hour-long classes will be presented throughout the day on a variety of real estate topics.

A lot of questions can cloud the lawyer and president of the Michigan Estate, Michigan State Housing Devel-Mortgage Bankers Association.

"There's so many mortgage products out there now," Trott said. "Someone who's renting for $300 to $400 per month and has $3,000 to $5,000 for a down payment probably can get a mortgage. Even if they have marginal credit, they can probably get a mortgage."

Information can make the home-buying process less intimidating.

"It can be a great experience or, if you get involved with the wrong people, can be a disaster," Trott said.

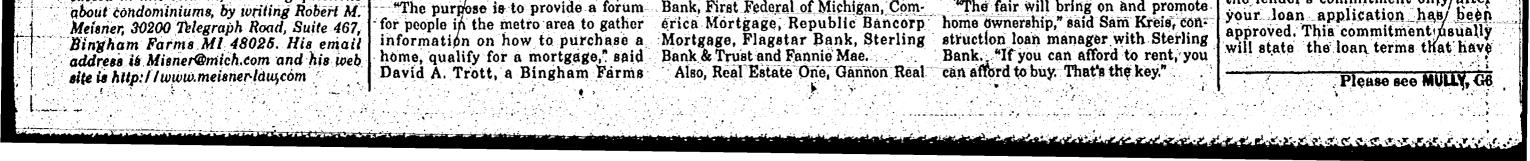

Exhibitors include Standard Federal served 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Bank, First Federal of Michigan, Comopment Authority, Allstate Insurance, Professional Real Estate Appraisals, Detroit Board of Realtors and Michigan Department of Civil Rights.

You can handle hardwood floors

Hardwood floors add beauty and charm to a home. Cleaner than carpet, which can harbor dust mites and dirt, as well as emit toxic fumes, hardwood floors with proper maintenance will outlast many floor coverings. Probably the only deterrent to having hardwood floors installed or refinished in a home in the past has been the nightmare of dust that permeates the house when the floors are sanded, and the lingering smell of solvent-based finishes.

A new dustless sanding system, the ProSand DCS - Dust Containment System, from BonaKemi USA, Inc. has eliminated the problem and revolutionized the hardwood floor finishing industry. The system involves efficiently attaching the buffer and edger, the main generators of dust in the process, to a powerful vacuum system. The floor sander already has its own self-contained vacuum/bag system.

"It's not uncommon for home owners to be still cleaning dust from their homes 3-5 years later," acknowledged Mark Jenkins of Masterpiece Hardwood Floors in Salt Lake City, Utah. Now with the ProSand DCS, the dust is contained and removed as it is generated, alleviating cleaning headaches for the home allows for minimal interruption of your normal routine. Home owners no longer have to move out of the house when floors are being done. BonaKemi's BonaTech MEGA™ Brand Floor Finish is the "Environmental Choice®". BonaTech MEGA is a premium waterborne polyurethane finish and does not emit noxious fumes. It's technologically advanced formula is quick-drying and durable, providing your home's hardwood floors with environmentally responsible protection and beauty for years to come.
