Observer parent adopts new name

uburban Communications Corporation, publishers of community newspapers, shoppers, telephone directories, specialty publications and Web and Internet products, has changed its corporate name to HomeTown Communications Network Inc., effective immediately...

Philip H. Power, chairman and owner of the company, whose publications are distributed in Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio, said the corporate name was changed in order to reflect the company's evolution into a provider of multi-media local information networks.

"Our core business is community newspapers," Power said, "but to serve the needs of our reader. customers and our advertisers, we need to link them with our local telephone directories, niche publications and Internet services in order to put them in touch with their world, whether it's their own hometown or the entire global village.

"That's the strategic vision of our company," Power added, "to create a network of local information sources. That's what lies behind our name, HomeTown Communications Network."

"We won't change the names of our newspapers, some of which are more than 100 years old, but we will develop ways to show how our various information products are linked together into a network, " Power concluded.

Overall, HomeTown Communications Network publishes 67 community newspapers including the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in suburban Detroit, HomeTown Newspapers in western Oakland and Livingston counties and Community Newspapers in the Lansing, Mich. suburbs, The Community Press publishes 28 newspapers in the Cincinnati region and Northern Kentucky, while Michigan Directory Company publishes 20 community telephone directories in several Michigan communities. Other publications include a golf guide, entertainment/travel tabloids and senior, health, hew homes and horse magazines.

Richard D. Aginian, president, said, "Home Town Communications Network also provides a full range of Internet services, which includes site design and maintenance, display advertising and AdVillage, one of the first comprehensive standalone Internet classified sites."

"Our community newspapers have consistently been recognized for outstanding quality by professional and trade awards," Aginian said, "but it is our readers and advertisers who set the standards we value the most." Power, who started Observer Newspapers Inc., the predecessor company in 1965, is also a founder of Suburban Newspapers of America and is a recipient of the Lesher Award for outstanding services to the community newspaper industry. Aginian is past president of SNA.

School insiders top trustee list

Wayne-Westland trustees have yet to meet to discuss a replacement for Superintendent Duane Moore. But informal polling shows strong support for Assistant Superintendent Greg Baracy.

BY DARRELL CLEM

Veteran Wayne-Westland school administrator Greg Baracy has emerged as a front-runner to replace departing Superintendent Duane Moore.

Three of seven school board members confirmed this week that they support Baracy for the superintendency, and others said they believe he would do a good job.

Two board members also named Jane Kuckel, assistant superintendent for instruction, as a viable candidate for Moore's job.

Moore announced suddenly June 16 that he will leave his post Aug. 30 to accept a teaching position at Oakland University in Rochester Hills.

Board members haven't had a meeting to discuss their plans for replacing Moore, although a session is rumored as possible for next

New apartments: Developer Kathy Makino stands in front of the two-story apartment complex she and several partners are building in Norwayne. The once-controversial project now has tenants and others scrambling to rent apartments.

NORWAYNE NEIGHBORHOOD:

New apartments celebrate change

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

In Westland's Norwayne neighborhood, where residential development has suffered 50 years of stagnation, a new apartment complex for low- and moderate-income tenants is stirring intense interest.

Some area residents and city officials view the four-building complex as critical to reversing negative perceptions of one of Westland's oldest neighborhoods.

Suddenly, it seems, potential tenants are competing to live in a two-story apartment complex that drew strong opposition when developer Kathy Makino proposed it in

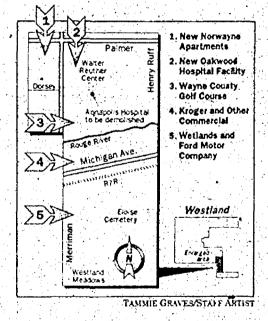

Some 300 renters have sought to live in 60 apartments, forcing a waiting list even though Makino and her business partners never even advertised the development - built on the south side of Palmer. west of Merriman.

"No one wanted this built, and now people are angry because they can't get in," James Gilbert, Westland housing/community development director, said. "This is one of the nicest apartment complexes we've got in the entire city, let alone in Norwayne."

Some Norwayne residents harshly criticized Makino in 1995, noting that she owned some boarded-up rental properties in the neighborhood and that she had fallen behind on city taxes which she said she eventually paid.

Wounded by sometimes-personal attacks, Makino nonetheless pushed forward with three Westland fire officials who are her new business partners: Chief Michael Reddy, Assistant Chief Patrick Harder and now-retired Assistant Chief George Riley.

Some critics remain skeptical of the project, but some south end residents aré celebrating an apart-

"This is beautiful," nearby resident Howard Becker said recently as he stopped in to tour the apartment complex.

Makino and partners had planned to call the complex Norris Apartments, because the development occurred on a 5.5-acre site of the former Norris school that was

A sudden boom in development south of Palmer Road is fueling remarkable changes in a long-stagnant section of West-·land.

No longer are developers simply pushing westward. Areas they had seemingly abandoned are suddenly desirable.

"A resurgence of development is occurring," city Planning Director Tod Kilroy said. "Developers are now looking back to the urban areas where the infrastructure is already in place."

That appears particularly true in a section of Westland that lies south of Palmer, in the city's southeast end. Consider: .

Couple is recalled fondly for giving spirit

BY VALERIE OLANDER

Although the lives of Herbert Wayne and Carol Ann Felker could be noticeably measured by the quantity of friends they had, it was the quality of the Felkers' many friendships that enriched the lives around them in the Canton and Westland communities.

Their sudden death in a motorcycle accident Saturday came as a devastating blow to friends

Hundreds of mourners gathered to say their goodbyes to the Canton residents on Wednesday as the Rev. Bob McDonald of Westland's Fairhaven Baptist Church officiated the service at the McCabe Funeral Home, Canton Chapel. The funeral procession stretched for miles, winding through the communities where the Felkers focused their humanitarian deeds, and finally, to their final resting place at Mt. Hope Cemetery in

"They touched so many people's lives. These are the kind of people who are supposed to live forever," said Wayne Felker's nephew John Davis. "This is devastating to so many people."

The avid motorcyclists were returning from a rally in Wisconsin with another couple when the back tire on the Felkers' Yamaha blew out, causing the trailer they were pulling to weave uncontrollably. The motorcycle and trailer jackknifed, throwing both of them from the bike, said Davis.

The accident occurred about one hour outside of Madison, Wisc. They had just passed an Army Reserve Unit along the highway and the medics from the unit came to assist, said Davis. However, Wayne, 55, was pronounced dead at the scene. Carol, 54, was taken by ambulance to the next exit and then, airlifted to a hospital where she died from cardiac arrest and internal injuries.

"Carol was the most unselfish and giving per-energy and enthusiasm. She just gave and gave of herself volunteer-wise, not just with the Chamber, but within her church and community," said Linda Shapona, the former executive director of the Canton Chamber of Commerce who presently serves as director of Westland's Chamber of Commerce.

The Felkers owned Keyline Services, Inc., a commercial cleaning business, and both participated in various Chamber of Commerce activities. Carol, a former supervisor for the U.S. Post Office, served as the Canton Chamber board of director's vice president of membership development, chair of the membership and marketing committee, and was on the committee organizing a 25th anniversary celebration in September.

Wayne was always at her side during chamber events, said member Tom Adamusik of Regal Construction. Wayne worked as a substation operator for Detroit Edison for 30 years.

"Wayne worked as a subcontractor for me. We became real good friends. He was just a great person — an honest, Christian man who was loyal to his church and friends," Adamusik said.

As the founder of the Canton Chamber's ambassador committee, Carol greeted members at chamber luncheons with her warm smile and friendly demeanor, said Carleigh Flaharty, executive director of the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

Carol also served as chair of the Leadership Canton program in 1996-1997 and for the current term. 1997-1998.

Ironically, two separate projects the Felkers were instrumental in bringing to the Canton and Westland communities came to fruition this week as people mourned their deaths.

Officials were on hand Monday for the groundbreaking of a new post office that Carol helped bring to the Canton community and in Westland, construction began on the addition at the once debt-ridden Fairhaven Baptist Church, to which Wayne dedicated himself.

"It would take hours and hours and fill an entire book on what they've done," said the Rev. Bob McDonald of Fairhaven.

"No one will ever know who, but I personally know families who were on the verge of losing their homes and (the Felkers) stepped in to help," he said.

The Felkers also dipped into their own pockets to keep the church afloat when it found itself $178,000 in debt prior to 1991 when McDonald came to the church as pastor. The church has been debt-free for four years, he said. Wayne served as treasurer for the church and was a trustee heading the building program.

"He was my right-hand man. Wayne did all the maintenance, he cut the grass... They were kind and gracious people," McDonald said.

The Felkers are survived by two daughters, Lynda and Laura, and two grandchildren.

Wayne Felker is also survived by a brother, Philip Felker. Carol is survived by brother Charles "Jim" Bradley and sisters, Mary Gulick and Violet Polakowski.

School trustee, former councilman accepts Romulus city appointment

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Wayne-Westland trustee David Cox has quit his private-sector job as an insurance executive to become assistant to Romulus Mayor William Oakley.

"This is really exciting," Cox, 39, said from his Romulus office on Monday - his first day on the iob. "Things are really rocking and rolling in Romulus."

Cox said he will remain on the Wayne-Westland school board. He began the second year of a four-year term on Tuesday.

Cox also said he and his family will continue to live in Westland. Cox. a former two-year Westland City Council member who lost a 1995 re-election bid, appeared enthusiastic about his appointed public-sector job.

"You get bitten by the bug," he said, referring to his fondness for political life.

Oakley, who faces a campaign for re-election this fall, said he chose Cox for his assistant because he was impressed with Cox's background, personal references and political ambition.

"This kind of work doesn't appeal to everyone," Oakley said

PORTUGUE AND A STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE PAR

Storms, high winds whip through area

he Observer area was pelted by strong storms Wednesday evening, downing power lines throughout the area, flooding major roadways, ripping off roofs on industrial buildings in Livonia and canceling the kick-off parade for the Westland Summer Festival.

One Livonia employee claimed to have seen a funnel cloud touch down at Feblo Co. on Industrial Road, just south of Schoolcraft, before it ripped roofs off buildings and downed trees.

"I saw the funnel cloud when it hit in the back then it dissipated and went straight up," said Doug Lasmathis, who works in the shop at Feblo, 34450 Industrial Road.

"We saw it, it was lifting up and it was still swirling and it was dropping debris all over the place," he said, adding, "it was scary.'

Livonia police and firefighters were busy all evening.

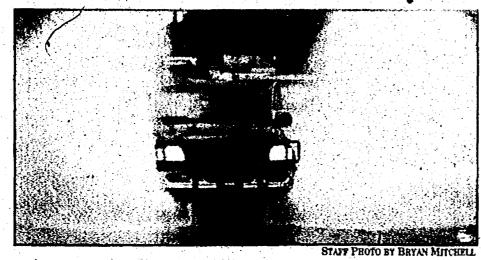

Police Sgt. Paul DiBenedetto said downed trees and power lines along with damage to buildings along Industrial Drive caused most of the calls. Livonia firefighters also assisted Plymouth fire officials in fighting a fire which burned the 35th District Court to the ground.

Tornado warnings were in effect throughout Wayne and other area counties through about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Power out

Edison reported more than 200,000 customers, without power as of 9 p.m. Wednesday, according to one police report. An Edison spokesperson said the company hopes to have 90 percent of its customers restored to full power by midnight Friday.

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara declared a state of emergency throughout Wayne County.

On Industrial Drive in Livonia, about one block south of Schoolcraft between Levan and Stark, roofs were ripped off of several buildings and numerous cars were damaged. Some residents in the area said they believed a twister came down the street, hitting a building on Fairlane before tearing through Hughes Electronics Products. Feblo, Inc. which does packaging, and several other area companies.

"I was just doing my job," said Redford resident and Feblo, Inc. employee Marge Ellis. "I just heard the thunder the lightening and the sky turned black. They closed up and sent everybody home."

One hour after the storm hit, debris was still falling from the roof at Hughes. Emergency officials had yet to arrive on the scene, and Consumer's Energy officials were just assessing. damage.

Residents see damage

Lifelong Livonia resident Kurt Jankowski was busy at the scene contacting police and others on his cellular phone. "I've been here 25 years and have never seen anything like this," he said.

Jankowski's neighbors Kathy Formes and Ken Dore walked to the scene after battling the weather to get to their Levan Road home. Dore said the state liquor store down the street had an entire wall blown out of it.

Garden City residents were without power around 9 p.m. last night, according to Lt. Dave Harvey.

The Garden City Police Department was shut down for about two hours because of a flood. All 9-1-1 calls and radio communication with patrol cars were maintained, however, Harvey said.

Harvey said all traffic lights were out and police received at least two reports of trees that went through the roofs of local homes. Police were busy directing traffic and dozens of streets were blocked by trees and downed power lines. No injuries were reported, said Harvey.

Trees down

Area residents reported trees down throughout the area, including a 75-year-old tree which came down on Hennepin in Garden City and another large tree down across Glendale in Redford Township.

Redford resident Shirley Ellul lives on Crosley and said a large tree fell over on power lines and blocked some of Glendale Street east of Beech Daly and south of Schoolcraft. While she and her 7year-old went to the basement. her husband and 13-year-old daughter stayed outside to watch the storm — until the tree came down. She said they have only lived in Redford since 1988, but that apparently another storm struck close to home about 10 years ago.

"Neighbors told me there was a tornado that went through the house across the street," she added. In Redford, police said many trees and power lines were down with most of the damage occur-More than three-quarters of .ring in the south end of the township.

Ratajack said a few minor accidents were reported because traffic signals were out.

Parade canceled

In Westland, participants in the parade for the Westland Summer Festival were just gathering in the parking lot of the Schoolcrast Radcliss Center in Garden City when sirens sounded for the tornado warning shortly after 6 p.m. Dozens of people ran for cover and crouched in the dark college hallways without power as winds gusted outside.

"Ordinarily, we wouldn't have this many people in here," said Schoolcraft Associate Dean Robert Pearce. "We got people in here as soon as he could to keep them safe." It was exceptionally crowded in the college, as summer classes had just started Wednesday evening.

Through parts of Westland, waist-deep water was reported over some areas of road.

One Michigan Place, on the northeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Merriman, A 63,315-square-foot Kroger superstore is being built, along with a separate, smaller Hollywood Video store. A new McDonald's/Amoco business has already opened, and a 43,000square-foot strip center is planned east of Kroger.

■ To the north, a new 18-hole county golf course is being developed which will include five holes in Westland, with the remainder in Inkster.

Closer to the southeast corner of Palmer and Merriman, officials broke ground last week for a new one-story, 30,000square-foot Oakwood Healthcare center. It will be built near an older facility - the familiar multi-story, aqua-colored building — which will be torn down. The new center will offer a variety of behavioral and outpatient services, a tuberculosis clinic and Oakwood laboratories. It is slated to open by early January.

■ Southeast of Michigan Avenue and Merriman, Ford Motor Co. plans a 120-acre industrial development that will be partially surrounded by a 60acre wetlands. Ford bought the county land to replace a wetlands area damaged during an expansion of the company's Wayne facilities. Ford is seeking industrial users for the Westland property.

■ The county is "entertaining" the possibility of selling land for residential development on the west side of Henry Ruff, south of Palmer, Kilroy said.

City officials and Westland residents alike are enthusiastic about a south-of-Palmer rebound.

"A lot of things are happening in the city," said Westland Planning Commissioner William Anderson, a longtime south-end resident.

Some residents have long complained that city leaders too often focus their attention north of Ford Road. But recent trends show that not all good things happen north of Ford.

"Up until the last couple of years, the area (south of Palmer) was stagnant," Kilroy said. "The area has not enjoyed the development potential that other areas of the city have. But now its time has come."

Why? According to Kilroy: The county has freed up some of its land. A specific plan for Detroit Metro Airport lets planners and developers know more about runways and flight patterns issues that affect development.

■ Redevelopment is gaining momentum in Detroit and its suburban neighbor communities.

■ The economy is doing well. Some church groups are becoming increasingly involved in improving the community.

The new Church of Christ Annapolis Park was built last year on the southeast corner of Annapolis and Henry Ruff. In a separate effort, the Rev. John Hearn is heading a revitalization plan in the Carver subdivision southeast of Annapolis and Middlebelt.

Meanwhile, companies and developers are choosing south Westland for a host of reasons.

Boutrous, the Kroger developer, said the company chose the new Westland site because officials wanted a bigger store near customers who currently shop at a Michigan Avenue store in Wayne. No plans have been announced to close that location, he said. The new spot also is centrally located to a population that Kroger wants to serve, he said. "It's our preference to develop in areas where people are receptive to us," Boutrous said. "This is not an area where we face some big fight."

Oakwood spokeswoman Jennifer George said hospital officials decided to build a new facility in Westland - rather than moving elsewhere — to maintain a strong commitment to this community.

Years ago, city planners couldn't have predicted that so much new development would occur simultaneously in an area that some viewed as on the decline.

But there is life — even a rebirth — south of Palmer. "I would call it a resurgence," Kilroy said. Things are coalescing at the same time. It is an exciting time."

demolished for the project. (The old school flagpole still stands.)

But the city won't allow the Norris name because a Westland subdivision already uses it, Makino said. A new apartment name will be chosen next fall during a contest sponsored for Norwayne-area students, she said.

Several tenants have moved into their new residences, and Makino expects all 60 apartments to be occupied by the end of August.

"We're really aiming for senior citizens," The nearly $5 million complex features one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments ranging in size from nearly 700 square feet to 1,290 square feet. Forty-four units have two bedrooms. The remaining 16 apartments are evenly divided between one- and three-bedroom units.

Every apartment has its own washer and dryer, dishwasher and alarm system, among other features. Second-floor units have cathedral ceilings and balconies.

"We're real happy with the way the development turned out," Makino said.

The project is nearly completed, although some work such as landscaping still has to be done.

Makino and partners received government tax exemptions similar to those that spurred other Westland developments, such as Taylor Towers, Greenwood Villa, Westhaven Manor and Westgate Tower.

They also have to pay a mortgage that is only 40 percent of the project's value, Makino said. In turn, they offer apartments at monthly rents ranging from just $212 to $632, depending on tenants' ability to pay.

Tenants have to meet certain income requirements to move in. The combined income of tenants in one apartment can't exceed 60 percent of Wayne County's median Citing an example, Makino said a family of four with an income of $28,000 would qualify for residency.

Gilbert and other city officials have said the apartment complex is crucial to providing new, affordable housing in an area long overdue for new residential development.

Moreover, they hope the development will spur a more widespread renaissance in Norwayne.

Said Gilbert: "This apartment complex is even nicer than I thought it was going to be. It may be the nicest complex in the city.'

Water, Gas, Electricity, Broadband, Broadband?

Yes, Broadband. You see, very soon Broadband will become one of your home's most vital, most essential connections. It's the way the future will find its way to your house. • When water, gas and electricity came to our homes, they fundamentally changed the way we lived. Our lives were made easier. We had more time to pursue our dreams, to take that next step. We believe Broadband will have that kind of impact. This one connection will fundamentally change the way you use your television, your computer, your telephone. Broadband will give your computer the power to be as entertaining as your TV. Your TV will become as smart as your computer. And you will be able to communicate in ways you never thought you could. Broadband is simply a wire with enormous capacity, a wire with two-way capabilities. The wire you now think of as bringing you cable TV is being transformed into something that can literally bring you the future. Right now Broadband is allowing people to download from the Internet up to 50 times faster than ordinary telephone wire.

Broadband's unique two-way capabilities make the word "interactive" take on an entirely new meaning. You will no longer simply receive the world's greatest movies. Broadband gives you the power to send your own home movies through your computer. Broadband will not only connect your family to the world of ideas. Our digital TV service will give you the best connection to the world of entertainment. With flawless reception and all the movies, sports and entertainment you want, there's no better way to hook up to a whole lot of fun.

In time, much like water, gas and electricity, Broadband will become such a powerful connection, such an integral part of your day-to-day life, that it will be hard to imagine life without it. For more information, please call I-888-843-9294 or

County offers MEAP help to districts WMWW

The Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency has started a program to create assessments school districts can use to gauge how students are doing in years leading up to the Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests.

The program, the Benchmark Project, will help districts determine where districts need to make changes in their curricuium and instruction methods.

"This is one of the most innovative and exciting things we have ever done," said RESA Superintendent Mike Flanagan, "When we first shared this concept with local superintendents in Wayne County back in April, they immediately responded that this type of test would be very useful for them."

Currently districts and teachers have no way to measure student preparedness or progress in the years leading up to the MEAP tests. Few products exist and of those available, none focus on the state objectives of each content area or are available in all the areas tested (reading, writing, science, math and social studies).

RESA has recruited a group of 72 master teachers from throughout Wayne County to develop the tests. They include Julie Karrick, Richard Benson, Diane Worthington and Andrea Grace, who teach in Livonia schools: Krista Jewett, Peter Puzzuol, Barbara Pastalaniec. Morningstar, from Plymouth-Canton School District; and Donna Keller, Becky Ingersoll, Rosalyn Pollard and Sharon Mayernik from Wayne-Westland schools.

The teachers will work at RESA this summer to write 25 tests. They also will receive training to expand their knowledge and expertise in the areas of evaluation and assessment.

Once the tests are created, a random sample of Wayne County schools can try them this fall in their classrooms. Following this trial period, the tests will be modified as necessary so they are ready for distribution to all county districts next spring.

RESA is a regional educational service agency that provides Pattee Rupert and Cynthia services to children, families and communities. Its mission is "Leading Learning for All." The agency coordinates many of its programs with the 34 public school districts in Wayne County. RESA also services the county's 21 public school academies and 212 private schools.

RESA directly operates special education programs for students aged 3 to 26 with severe mental and physical impairments, and a program for students ages 5 to 18. with severe emotional impairments. Head Start is another program that RESA provides for children and families. More than 3,700 youngsters are served through the Head Start program each year at 23 build-and 600 part-time staff members at 36 sites.

RESA has a $193 million budget and employs 440 full-time

Red Cross appeals for area blood donations

The American Red Cross is issuing an emergency appeal to first-time and repeat donors to please give blood.

"As of July 1, the southeastern Michigan community blood supply continues to have less than a one-day inventory of O and B type blood," said Jeff Weathers, director of hospital

"Other blood types have also reached dangerously low levels. Our only hope for increasing our blood supply is with a widespread response from our community at large," said Weathers.

Your blood donation could mean a gift of a lifetime. To donate blood, call 1-800-GIVE-TIFE.

"The reality of this emergency situation is that blood cannot be manufactured; volunteer blood donors are the only source for blood," said Dan A. Waxman, M.D., chief executive officer, Southenstern Michigan Blood Services Region. "Although, Red Cross has had response to the recent blood alert, it has just not been enough to keep pace with local patients' needs for blood," Waxman said.

Hospitals in southeastern Michigan provide some of the most advanced medical procedures in the country. As a result, the blood and blood product needs of local patients is greater than our inventory.

"Typically we rely on blood to be imported from other Red Cross regions," Waxman stated. "However, we are experiencing a nationwide appeal and cannot continually rely on having an ample supply of blood from other regions to always help us."

Daily, more than 800 people must donate in order to maintain the community blood supply. Giving blood is safe and easy, and takes less than one hour. To donate blood one must be at least 17 years old, weigh 110 pounds or more and be in general good health.

Through Saturday, July 5, donor centers in Ann Arbor, Livonia, Novi, Bloomfield Hills, Oak Park, Roseville and Southgate will operated under extended hours from 1-7 p.m.

For more information, call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE.

If you know of a group or organization that has 30 or more donors and would like to sponsor a blood drive, call (313) 494-

The American Red Cross supplies 99 percent of the blood used by hospitals in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties.

"As a mother of a child recovering from loukemia, I have come to depend on the generosity of virtual strangers for the life-saving blood products that Christopher has needed," said Jeanine Toupp of Birmingham.

"I am grateful to those who go our of their way to donate blood on a regular basis."

The need for blood by patients heing trented for accidents, transplants, routine surgeries and serious diseases must be met everyday.

S'craft endowment for scholarships grows

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College has shown significant growth in everything from endowments to certain areas of enrollment.

Conway Jeffress, vice president of academic instruction at Schoolcraft College, last week gave the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees a progress report for the 1996-97 school year.

Jeffress had several highlights:

■ Most of Schoolcraft's enrollments have enjoyed significant growth. Distance Learning increased 7.1 percent; Community Education classes went up 12 percent in the winter, and business and industry classes were up by 17 percent this winter.

Overall credit enrollment was down by 90 students when the last two fall semesters are compared.

The college's foundation has increased its endowment to more than $4.3 million; in June 1996 that amount stood at $3.7 million.

Grant revenue doubled in the Business Development Center from $1.4 million to $2.8 milMarch 1997. Total grant revenue is up 33.8 percent to $5.8 million. The business office reported several cost-cutting initiatives, including health insurance, that saved the college $80,000 this fiscal year, and a facilities master plan also was completed this year.

Schoolcraft administrators also outlined goals for the college's various offices and divi-

"We wanted to emphasize the service aspects, and try to improve the services to the staff and also get a 'service mentality' with the staff," Jeffress said.

"We want to strengthen the relationship between the K-12 districts. We also want to create a master plan for technology to decide on what we want to do with hardware and software,"

Students can expect a new identification card program this fall, and improvements in labs, classrooms and bookstores at the Livonia campus and the Radcliff Center in Garden City.

College administrators also tive classrooms and add Distance Learning classrooms.

Other objectives include: ■ Enhancing the finances of the college by increasing the Schoolcraft Foundation endowment to $5 million and improve the college's cost efficiency through refining purchasing agreements, facility utilization and cost savings in energy. materials and system modifications.

■ Preparing for and beginning the bargaining process for negotiating four labor agreements.

another district if he is passed over in Wayne-Westland.

Baracy has been in his current post since 1992. He advanced to the central office from his previous job as principal of the William D. Ford Career Technical Center. He was first hired in Wayne-Westland in 1988 as the center's vice principal. He is a Wayne Memorial High School graduate.

"I think Greg has an inside track on the appointment," board trustee Mathew McCusker said. "I've seen phenomenal growth in Greg's abilities. I think we would be well-served with Greg Baracy as a superintendent. I know that Greg is ready for the superintendency.'

McCusker said Baracy has led the charge in recent years on controversial issues such as the closing of four elementary schools, the redrawing of attendance boundaries and the implementation of a middle school plan.

Board member David Cox lauded Baracy's "proven administrative track record" and said Baracy "understands who the players are in our community."

"Greg offers us the opportunity to hit the ground running" when Moore leaves Aug. 30, Cox said.

Cox voiced fears that another district might hire Baracy for the top job if the Wayne-Westland board chooses to pass over him.

Strong support

Board trustee David James said Tuesday that Baracy appears to have strong support among board members.

"I think you'll find that to be unanimous," James said. "Greg Baracy knows the community, and he knows the school programs."

Board member Martha Pitsenbarger said Baracy appears to have support for the job.

"I think that he has probably been groomed for it," she said.

Like several of her colleagues, Pitsenbarger said she is leaning toward hiring an internal administrator, rather than an outside candidate who would have to be schooled on Wayne-Westland's history.

Pitsenbarger described Baracy as an administrator who is wellliked in the community, and she said he also is capable and

. But she also noted that Kuckel has strong abilities.

"I admire Jane's ability to deal with curriculum," Pitsenbarger.

Newly elected board member Ed Turner also mentioned Kuckel as a viable candidate, although he said he hasn't decided how he wants to proceed in replacing Moore.

"Greg is a very, very excellent individual," Turner said. "I've heard some complaints about him, and I've heard some pros."

Board vice president Debra Fowlkes said she hopes to call a board meeting prior to a scheduled, July 14 session, during which Moore's resignation is slated for approval. She said she wants to give all board members an opportunity to voice their opinions on replacing Moore.

However, Fowlkes said she "wouldn't be surprised" if the board decides to choose an internal candidate.

promote Greg" without launching an outside search, Fowlkes said.

Board member Robin Moore didn't return phone calls.

Watson gets top marks

By Marie Chestney

. After turning down pay increases for five years running, the man heading Livonia Public Schools has just received his first raise as superintendent.

Ken Watson also got an outstanding performance review and a one-year contract extension from the Livonia Board of Education. His contract now expires July 1,

Watson now earns $106,500. He will receive a 2.5 percent pay increase in 1997-98 and a 2-percent pay increase in 1998-99.

"I got the same raise as our employees," Watson said.

As it is with raises given to other district employees, Watson's 1997-98 pay increase will be "off schedule," that is, not built permanently into his pay schedule.

The 2-percent increase given in 1998-99 will become a permanent part of his pay schedule. In other words, the 2-percent increase, or $2,130, will be based on this year's $106,500 salary. His new salary in 1998-99 will be $108,630.

"I'm pleased with the support from the board and honored to continue to serve in the role of superintendent," Watson said.

Watson just marked his third anniversary as superintendent. For five years, three years in his former job with the district and two years as superintendent. he turned down pay increases, saying he wanted to set a model for future contract negotiations with school employees. Watson also said he also want. ed the district's financial resources spent on improving its educational program. After serving nearly 30 years as a Livonia teacher and administrator, Watson took over as school chief in July 1994. In the 1997-98 school year, Watson will concentrate on the

July Seminar:

Wed., July 16 1:30 p.m. at MedMax 35600 Central City Pkwy.

News Flash ... Today's programmable hearing aids have a 75%+ customer satisfaction rating compared to conventional hearing instruments.

If you're a hearing aid wearer, you've probably heard about programmable hearing aids—but bypassed them for less expensive models. Well, programmables are finally coming into their own: Hearing-impaired consumers are ready for, and are even demanding, the better hearing that can be achieved with today's advanced hearing aid technology.

Programmables are gaining acceptancefrom 5% of the market in 1994, to about 13% in 1996. Recent consumer studies report superior user satisfaction, with programmables outperforming nonprogrammables for: improved hearing, cleamess of tone, natural sound, value, feedback, and use in noisy situations. A common user comment is that the improved hearing justifies the extra cost.

Want to know more? Our seminar provides a great opportunity to get free information on programmables, to have your questions answered. and to try programmables for yourself, with a demonstration by a trained audiologist.

Today's Observer carriers are tomorrow's business leaders.

id you know that our carriers are in business for themselves? We call them Junior Merchants and they are committed to getting the fruits of a lot of people's labor on your doorstep twice each week. And, like business people everywhere, their goal is customer satisfaction. But their job doesn't end there. Other business skills include keeping accurate records and reporting information on time.

There are a lot of famous names in the Newspaper Association of America's Carrier Hall of Fame-three presidents, Hoover, Truman, and Eisenhower. There are spiritual leaders, Norman Vincent Peale and Martin Luther King, Jr, there are astronauts and poets and entertainers. All of them recognizable not only for their talent, but for their values and character.

We think a carrier route is an excellent way to learn responsibility, respect for others, and a sense of what it takes to earn a dollar these days. If you agree and would like to put your son's or daughter's name on our waiting list to become a carrier, give us a call—who knows? Between us, we may be giving the world another president or poet.

REBIRTH: SOUTH OF PALMER

Progress

Keep south end dreams alive

he Observer is focusing this week on what we think is a rather special area of Westland: The area south of Palmer

Our three-part series "Rebirth: South of Palmer" began last Sunday and continues today and this Sunday.

The stories were reported and written by staff writer Darrell Clem, who visited the area and spent the better part of a week meeting and talking with people who live there and those who have an influence on the area.

Our geographic focus can easily be seen looking at a map and the "zigzag" which makes up this part of the city: from the Norwayne neighborhood south across Michigan Avenue between Merriman and Henry Ruff and east through a strip of land between Annapolis and Van Born roads where many lifelong residents still live.

Because of the city's strange boundaries, many may not realize that this is even part of the city of Westland.

But as we discovered, this area is about much more than just a piece of land.

It's about the people who live there, their economic and racial diversity and the hopes and dreams for an area which is undergoing a active, unique area of older housing which has brought us many civic and city leaders over

We challenge the power brokers, city officials and others who can continue to make a difference to step up to the plate.

Let's continue to meet developers, investors and residents halfway in an effort to keep the momentum going as a boon for positive commercial and residential growth. Let's use the good experience with community policing in this area as an example for future growth in other parts of the city.

In areas like Norwayne, let's pay special attention to buildings in disrepair and enforce local ordinances designed to prevent blight and other problems. Where necessary, let's work with state and federal officials to make this happen.

Every neighborhood and section of this city is part of our community. Let's use this special area south of Palmer as an example.

Keep that sense of community alive throughout our city.

Celebrate the Fourth

Independence Day: There are many ways to celebrate our Fourth of July holiday tomorrow, including getting together with family and friends or visiting the Westland Summer Festival, which kicked off with Wednesday's parade and continues through Sunday. Events include a Native American exposition, carnival and variety of family oriented events. The annual fireworks display for the festival will be on Sunday night, from Central City Park. Festival organizers say it is one of the largest fireworks displays in the area.

was astonished to see a recent letter to the editor criticizing the Westland Friendship Center. I have always been impressed with the center and felt it necessary to respond.

Since being elected state senator in 1994, I have time and again been pleasantly surprised at the amazing gains the center has made in serving senior citizens in Westland. The list of services is indeed impressive: exercise equipment, arts and crafts, card clubs, legal and health advice seminars, trips, nutrition and special events are only highlights of the ever-expanding programs available - all at low cost or even free.

This week we celebrate the groundbreaking for an addition to the center. Director Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek and her staff, the senior advisory and aging commissions and seniors from across the community have worked literally hundreds of hours to bring this dream to reality. I know I join many in congratulating and praising them for their hard work and dedication to the future of the Friendship Cen-

The stock market bubble continues to inflate wildly. Mutual fund-mania is virtually out of control. Unfounded experts are looking for "new paradigms" to explain the Wall Street phenomenon.

One thing they haven't considered is that this is the first great bull market of the post gold standard era. Is it possible that investors like their "financial assets" backed by "real stuff' instead of politicians' promises? Could it be that investors prefer "financial paper" issued by Bill Gates of Microsoft to financial paper issued by the U.S. government?

If so, maybe stocks aren't going up so much after all. Maybe the value of paper money is going down!

However, I believe that the only paradigm that we need to seriously consider is the "1929 paradigm." The parallels are amazing. Instead of the RCA of 1929, we have Microsoft today. Instead of William Durant of 1929, we have Warren Buffett today. Instead of pools and trusts, we have mutual funds and hedge funds

Today as in 1929, the Federal Reserve is greatly worried, with current Chairman Alan Greenspan being the chief "bubble basher." Then, as now, mom and pop are euphoric easy money and a comfortable retirement guaranteed.

It is said that the Fed killed the 1929 bubble. They could do it again, but I doubt it. (Once burned, twice shy.) Also the collapse of some "Off-Wall Street" Ponzi scheme could install a fatal fear in the market. In the 1920s, the collapse of the Florida real estate bubble presaged the great stock market collapse.

Could Hong Kong collapse, or France or Germany? Could the Japanese rise up and decide to control their destiny instead of being the "hand maidens" of the U.S. bond market?

Who knows? One thing is for sure: If and when this bull market ends it could take a whole generation with it. Fully invested Baby Boomers should remember the words of Yogi Berra: "It isn't

In pursuit of a special birthday

uly 4. Independence Day. The Fourth of

However you refer to it; it's been called "the most American of holidays," "the Glorious Fourth," "America's Birthday."

It's one of the few national holidays that has not been turned into a three-day weekend. There's no "July 4th Celebrated" label attached. It's just the plain old Fourth of July.

It wasn't always so clear-cut. On June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced three resolutions at a meeting of the Second Continental Congress. The first_ declared that "these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent

Almost a month later, on July 2, the Congress approved Lee's resolution. The next day, John Adams of Massachusetts wrote to his wife: "The Second of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epoch in the history of Amer ica. I believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival."

But it wasn't until the next day that the actual Declaration of Independence was signed with a flourish by John Hancock. It opened with the words: "In CONGRESS, July 4, 1776." That became the official date for "Independence Day."

Adams may have picked the wrong day to celebrate, but his wish that the occasion "be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games and sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other" did, indeed, come to pass. The next year, July 4, 1777, communities celebrated with parades, bell-ringing, bonfires and, yes, fireworks.

The bonfires have been put out and the booming cannons replaced with military flyovers, but the basic celebration has changed little over the past 220 years. There are still plenty of parades, games and sports, picnics and barbecues and spectacular fireworks displays.

Still, we have to wonder if the focus today is not more on the fireworks than on what they represent. Those early celebrations included much oratory and speech-making on the meaning of the holiday. You don't hear much of that anymore.

One area resident observes his own tradition. Every July 4th, he reads the Declaration of Independence — aloud — at his family gathering. He points out that reading the list of grievances makes it clear that the American Revolution was about much more than "taxation without representation."

Even if you don't read the whole document, remember the most quoted part of it:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

And that was considered a revolutionary idea.

No respect

r. Alcantara gets no respect from me. Honest men do not steal money in the first place. What Mr. Alcantara did was simply steal $100,560 dollars.

Your article stated that at first he only began to pick up loose bills; then his greed took a sinister twist. He spotted the jackpot; a bag filled with a lot of money. Mr. Alcantara fled the scene after looting the jackpot. He then tried to convince his wife that they deserved to keep the money.

After Mr. Alcantara saw all of the newscasts on the night of May 27, he realized that there was a good chance of him going to jail for a long time. Mr. Alcantara heard on those newscasts that a good Samaritan was writing down license plate numbers of all of the thieves who were stealing money.

What was Mr. Alcantara's first move? Hide the money. However what happened next was ... damage control. How do I get out of this mess without going to jail. Guilt? Hardly!

Mr. Alcantara gives up the money because he knew he would be caught. Honest men would have never gotten out of their vehicle that day and grabbed thousands of dollars. His gold plate that he received should read "I almost got away with it" not "The $100,000

POINTS OF VIEW

Human rights abuses in Turkey hit close to home went to high school in what is now Rep. Joe Knollenberg's congressional district and spent my summers giving swimming lessons for the Livonia Parks and Recréation Department. But much of my family still lives in the area and I've returned every year for Thanksgiving, Christmas and as many summer trips to the region as I could muster.

Two decades haven't changed several important things about the area in which I spent my youth.

That's why I am sure that they would be shocked and appalled to learn that the U.S. is providing the guns, armored personnel carriers and other weapons that are being used to murder other people's kids in Turkey.

Everyone should care about this outrage, but, fortunately, the voters of Livonia, Redford and other parts of the 11th Congressional District can do something about it right how.

That's because their representative, Joe Knollenberg, is a key member of the Foreign Operations Subcommittee – that is, the committee that funds U.S. foreign aid.

Voters in his district should ask him to lead this fight to stop U.S. involvement in these killers. Voters in other districts should also contact their representatives – many of whom, like David Bonior and Sander Levin, are strong human rights supporters and active members of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus – to urge them to protest U.S. weapons transfers to Turkey.

In southeastern Michigan, we treasure the right cultural diversity of our people, with the Detroit Riverfront Festivals and countless other celebrations of origins as varied as Poland, Nigeria, Lebanon, Bolivia and countless other lands. So it is hard to imagine that Turkey's Kurdish population is relentlessly attacked by its own government. That torture is systematically used against Kurds and others who speak out against this brutality and journalists who write about it. That Kurdish members of the Turkish parliament are literally in prison today simply because they dared to use the Kurdish language or to wear to colors of the Kurdish flag.

GUEST COLUMNIST

Consider the words of a father whose 20-year-old son was gunned down in front of him in cold blood by Turkish troops. "We went to police headquarters. They bound the eyes of my wife and daughter. They took us downstairs and shut us into a cell. That a child age 13 should have her eyes bound and be thrown into a cell! In my 33 years as a teacher I had never felt a greater sense of shame."

When the troops later gunned down his son outside their home, he did not die immediately. One of the officers "kicked my son and son, "What did your family feed you. Have you got nine lives?" Another (soldier) said 'What are you waiting for? Finish him off.' After a few minutes, there was the sound of a single weapon ... The ambulance arrived. They threw Serdar into the back like a piece of rubbish."

Since the Turkish army gets over 80 percent of its arms from the U.S., the odds are roughly 4 to 1 that the guns used to murder this college student in front of his father came from the U.S. and were subsidized by U.S. taxpayer dollars.

Amnesty International USA is urging the Congress to say that the U.S. will not be a party to these outrages and the good news for voters in the 11th Congressional District is that their representative, Joe Knollenberg, is in a critical position to help. He can and should join with colleagues in Congress to demand that the U.S. strictly monitor the use of U.S. weapons sent to Turkey and stop any shipments likely to be used to kill, main and torture.

I know that the people of Michigan would want no less.

Stephen Rickard went to Stevenson High School in Livonia and attended Adrian College. He is the Washington Office director for Amnesty International USA. Interested people can contact Knollenberg at (810) 851-1366 or (313) 425-7557.

School-to-work gets boost from real-life success story

Prechters of this state demonstrating against the school-to-work program that Gov. John Engler – belatedly, but to his credit – has bought to life.

Prechter, 55, is a German immigrant who built the idea of auto sunroofs into multi-industry businesses. He is a product of just the kind of program borrowed by former Rep. Bill Keith, D-Garden City, Rep. Glenn Oxender, R-Sturgis, and lately by the governor.

A school-to-work (STW) program is designed to prepare every high school graduate for working in a real, live company.

I met Prechter during a recent Channel 7 "Spotlight on News" taping during which we concentrated on his plan to build another bridge across the Detroit River from Southgate. But I was more intrigued, frankly, by his schooling.

"At the age of 13, I was an apprentice in an automotive trim, tool-and-die making, and coach and body building company," he said. He studied at Berufs-Obserschule in Nuremberg (the rough equivalent of our high school) and OHM Polytechnic Engineering School (rough equivalent of our college).

Incidentally, English was a mandatory subject.

In 1963, as an exchange student of business at San Francisco State College, Prechter began installing sunroofs. It was a shocking idea to Americans, especially when he went to a Cadillac dealer and suggested cutting a hole in the top of a car.

By 1965, Prechter was the American Sunroof Co. in Los Angeles. In 1967, he was in metro Detroit and becoming ASC Inc. Its divisions mostly supply the auto industry. The one-time teenage apprentice today has 22 facilities and 2,000 employees.

In addition, he has been a big fundraiser for the Republican Party, a member of Engler's Jobs Commission, an adviser to President Bush's administration, a promoter of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), a publisher and general high civic mucky-muck. He drives his own car.

Many Michigan legislators, including Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, have visited Germany's technical schools, where kids spent part of the week on the job as apprentices and part in class. Everyone who has seen it is impressed by the way young people are prepared by local industry for real jobs and the high academic content of their classrooms.

But not "Probe" and its associates, mostly from northern Oakland County. This handful of folks shows up at every educational-type hearing to protest just about everything – outcomes-based education and now school-to-work.

They are from the political and religious right such as American Opinion Bookstore (are the John Birchers still around?), Clonlara Home-Based Education Program, Justice Pro Se, Michigan Christian Coalition, Michigan Eagle Forum, Southfield Reformed Presbyterian Church, lots of Concerned Citizens groups ... and so on. Not exactly your mainstream groups.

On June 17 they protested at Engler's conference in the Lansing Center. Their message: "We Americans are threatened by this assault on individual freedom. The system of school-to-work severely limits career choice and opportunity for our children, in favor of 'what's best for the state.' This STW system effects a planned economy in a socially engineered society."

And: "The purpose of school is to educate – to impart knowledge – not to train the workforce for the sole benefit of business to remain 'globally competitive.' We do not believe it is in the best interest of our children to submit them to continual, lifelong learning, dictated by government/business for its own ends."

Most of the rest consists of the same vague hyperbole short on far same vague hyperbole, short on facts, capped off by damning standard curriculum and assessments as "un-American."

Tell that to Prechter, who is hardly the kind of servile chunk of human capital that the protesters want to avoid. He's literate, urbane, a credit to the school systems that taught him and the nation he adopted.

Tim Richard reports on local implications of state and regional events.

Election Day not tomorrow

lthough the method of announcement (an exclusive interview given by Gov. John Engler's wife, Michelle, with the Detroit Free Press) was a tad unusual, the substance was no big surprise. Big John, the 800-pound gorilla of Michigan politics who was so staunch in support for tight term limits, wants a third term for himself.

His decision ends a long home stand of "Speculation," the favorite spectator sport of Michigan political insiders.

Some figured Engler wouldn't run, citing the traditional difficulties in wining a third term and the Engler family's need to make some serious money in the private sector to put the triplets through college. Others argued running for stuff is what Engler loves (he has never lost an election). Moreover, they said, without a strong governor on top, the Republican Party will tear itself to shreds.

Engler is obviously the heavy favorite for reelection next year, although if I were in charge of the family budget I wouldn't spend a lot of money redecorating the girls' rooms before Nov. 9, 1998. I saw enough of Jim Blanchard's attempt to win a third term in 1990 to know that nothing is ever certain in politics, especially if you answer too quickly to the nickname "Pothole John."

All the same, none of the Democrats now running for nomination should feel all that happy now that the race has come quickly into focus.

A poll published two weeks ago in the newsletter Inside Michigan Politics suggested the Democratic nomination was still wide open, assuming neither Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer or former U.S. Sen. Don Riegle gets in. None of the five likely candidates – James Agee, Jim Berryman, Larry Owen, Doug Ross and Karen Willard Phas name recognition numbers above 31 percent.

Owen, so far dubbed the favorite by conventional wisdom, has a very slight and probably meaningless lead in name recognition. He also has a nearly even favorable-unfavorable (7 to 6 percent) rating split, probably stemming from his controversial tenure as a member of the Michigan State University governing board. This rating is now likely to suffer the consequences of his wife, Faylene, being fingered as a source for the rumors about the alleged difficulties in the Engler marriage.

Ross, on the other hand, has a 9-to-1 percent favorable-unfavorable rating, reflecting his experience as a state senator, Blanchard's Commerce director and assistant secretary of Labor for employment and training.

More to the point, I believe, is the impact of Engler's announcement on the dynamics of the Democratic primary.

Owen's strongest suit in winning nomination has always been his presumed support from organized labor, which nearly always picks Democratic nominees. But Engler has already shown that he can whip a weak Democratic candidate with strong union support (Howard Wolpe, in 1994). So, the analysis goes, one wonders just how far a labor-dominated Owen campaign would get against a still formidable Engler.

Ross, on the other hand, is making grassroots, citizen-based politics the core of his strategy. With $500,000 raised and 2,400 volunteers signed on, Ross at his announcement two weeks ago told 800 supporters at Livonia's Burton Manor, "We are sending a signal to the old-style politicians who take their cues from the special interests: Step aside."

"(Cynics) say campaigns are all about special interest money and back-room deals and negative TV ads," Ross continued. "They say there's no place for real people or real ideas in campaigns any more. Do you believe that?" To shouts of "no," Ross said, "I didn't think so."

There's a long way to go till next November, and anything could happen. But my guess as of now is that it'll take an unconventional campaign run by an unconventional, idea-driven politician to make Engler sweat the way he should in a close race.

Rouge fish kill data expected soon

State officials are waiting for a report from Wayne County on a rotenone application in Newburgh Lake that accidentally killed fish several miles downstream on the Rouge River before they decide whether fines or penalties will be assessed against Wayne County.

Wayne County received a permit from the state's Department of Environmental Quality for a rotenone application intended to eradicate fish in Newburgh Lake, many of which were contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls.

Rotenone is a white, odorless, crystalline, natural substance derived from several tropical and subtropical plants. It inhibits on fish a biochemical process that makes it impossible for fish to use oxygen to release energy in body processes.

Rotenone is only fatal to fish and other small amphibians at the concentration levels used on the river.

Rotenone was sprayed June 18 onto the middle branch of the Rouge River downstream from Wilcox Dam, then onto Newburgh Lake to kill the fish. Potassium permanganate was applied as a neutralizer to detoxify the rotenone near Newburgh Dam.

The rotenone was applied June 18 and killed not only the Newburgh Lake fish, but it went downstream through Nankin Lake and killed the fish in that Rouge River impoundment. Dead fish were found as far east as Telegraph Road, state offi-

Potassium permanganate was applied as a neutralizer to detoxify the rotenone near Newburgh Dam, but it apparently was an inadequate amount for the amount of rotenone, state officials said.

The rotenone application and subsequent overkill constitutes a permit violation, said Mark Oemke, project manager with the state Department of Environmental Quality. Oemke would not comment on any possible punishment or remediation sought by the state against Wayne County.

"We won't do anything until we see the county's report," Oemke said.

Oemke did not have a final tally of fish and species found in Newburgh Lake, but was confident with the discovery of pike and bass in the fish kill that the lake could support a fishery once the PCB-contaminated soil is excavated over the next year. Most of the fish killed and removed were carp and bluegill.

About 12,000 pounds of fish were removed from Newburgh Lake as was planned under the fish kill. About 1,500 pounds were collected from Nankin

Numbers

These services are valued by some consumers, but there are some telephone scams operating through 900 numbers and other information service numbers.

It doesn't matter who dialed, the 900-number - a minor, a guest or someone working in your home - the call will be billed to the telephone number of a call's origination. These 900number service providers are usually unable to verify authorization or age of the callers.

The rates they charge are not regulated.

The MPSC has the following tips for consumers to protect themselves from unwanted charges when dialing a 900 number:

■ Be aware that charges are always incurred when you participate in a program offered through a 900 number.

Listen to the introductory message and hang up promptly if you decide you are not interested in the service or do not want to pay the charges given. The introductory message must also state that callers under 18 must obtain parental permis-Bion.

Also; 900-number call providers are prohibited from advertising or marketing to children under 12 years of age unless the services are educational in nature.

Do not confuse 900 numbers with 800, 888 or other toll-free numbers. The 900 numbers are not toll free. There is always a charge.

■ Some advertisements urge consumers to call a 900 number by offering "free" gifts or prizes. Be wary of ads that don't provide much detail about what is being offered or the cost.

Consider having your telephone company place a 900number block on your telephone tion, 6545 Mercantile Way. line if you do not want 900-num- Lansing, MI 48909 (1-800-292ber calls placed from your tele-

D-Westland, to expand the prescription drug tax credit for senior citizens has been approved by the House and sent to the Senate.

The bill would allow seniors to claim up to $600 per person for out-of-pocket drug costs. DeHart said the Legislature each year sets aside $20 million to pay for prescription drug credits, but since 1988 the program has never depleted the money.

phone. In Michigan there is no charge for 900 blocking. By law blocking must be offered by all telephone service providers in Michigan. Be aware that it may be possible to dial around blocks by dialing a regular long distance phone number, 800 access numbers or an international toll number to another country.

Who can help you with a complaint?

Consumers should attempt to resolve any dispute with the telephone company, information provider or billing entry. Follow up all conversations with the provider in writing and keep a copy for your records.

The 900-number charges are almost never the result of tampering or equipment malfunction and, in any case, proving anything of this nature is extremely difficult, the MPSC

Your telephone company is under no obligation to remove charges where tampering or equipment malfunction is only suspected or when it is difficult for you to accept that someone in your family made the call.

The MPSC has no authority to order 900-number charges removed from a telephone bill.

If you are unsuccessful in resolving a 900-number call dispute then contact the Michigan Attorney General's office, Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 30213, Lansing 48909 (Describe the problem and send a copy of the bill).

In the Mason house, we have a precise date for "when you least expect it" - Feb. 18, 1997. Three years of waiting and hoping and then setting a date to throw in the towel were erased with one phone call. It came when we least expected it, and within two weeks' time, we were on the roller coaster ride of our lives, a ride that got its start in June 1994 in a room in the Northwest Activities Center in Detroit.

We'd dialed this phone number, 259-RIDS, and ended up in an orientation class. We were in the minority there and in classes we took at 2929 Russell St. in Detroit. It wasn't because of our color, it was our goal that set us apart from our classmates. Most were there to become foster care providers for children caught in the dreaded "system." Storytellers bring passion to art ■ Storvtellers Debra. Christian and Ron Lowe have an "emotional connection" to their art. They hope that rubs off on their audiences.

> BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

By day, Debra Christian works as a speech pathologist. She sees a lot of children who are so involved in technology that they're missing out on a traditional childhood. Fairy tales and nursery rhymes, she said, have taken a back seat to the Internet, online services and cable television. "I really realized that when I took out a Robin Hood game and the kids didn't know who he was," she said. So by night, Christian is hoping to renew interest in stories as a story-"My main objective is to bring as much of the magic of storytelling to

"leaped" into storytelling after attending a national convention in 1986 near her mother-in-law's home in Jonesborough, Tenn. It immediately appealed to her as a speech pathology technique, but soon her passion took over. "People often ask me, 'What

Advocacy earns Westland woman Lipinski award

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN

Barbara Cardinal of Westland has devoted herself to advocacy.

And that devotion has paid off as she recently was awarded the Barbara Lipinski Award of Merit professional award from the Autism Society of Michigan.

"In my travels over there, I got the most amazing stories. Europe is the heart of so much of our ancient literature, it's a good place to start."

Naturally, Lowe's forte is stories about the law, but he did use storytelling when he was campaigning for his job. While at a candidates' forum, he noticed the audience's interest starting to wane.

"I stood up and basically said, You can tell a lot about people by the types of stories they tell," he said.

"I went on to tell them a story about early American history. It happened to be a veterans group (he was speaking to) and the story (he told) ends up with a lot of red, white and blue - let's be proud of the country we have and the types of people we are.

"I think they appreciated the message and I know they appreciated the break from the dry 'Here's who I am. This is what I'll do for you.' "

Now disabled people can work where they want and live where they want, she said.

"That is extremely important to myself and to the rest of my peers that I work with," she said. "It is very exciting to see someone who was helpless get empowered."

The award is for those people they are the ones that have made a difference, she said.

Cardinal started at UCP in 1989 after leaving Spectrum Human Services. She was born and raised in the Detroit area and received her degrees at Marygrove and the University of Wyoming. While working on a reservation in Wyoming she gained her love of advocacy. There she worked with people who have no one to be their voice, she said.

But her father's failing health brought her back to the Detroit

"It has been a very good move for me," she said. "I've had many opportunities to use my gifts in ways that I've wanted to," she said.

As a member of the Immaculate Heart of Mary congregation and mother houses in Monroe, where she does volunteer work, she does work that sustains her for her work during the day, she she said. As for the future, she hopes to continue her work at UCP. And her supportive peers have made it easy to carry on with some of things she is doing. She also hopes to continue to work to make things better for all children, not just the disabled.

"I wish that we could work on a closer basis with school sys. tems," she said.

She would also like to see universities become more futuristic in preparing teachers, counselors and social workers by including new technology. Technology increases the ability of people to do things, she said.

She would also like to see a better understanding on the part of representatives, senators and the governor of the needs of people with disabilities in the areas of employment and assistance and not make it a political issue.

She is excited by the changes she's seen and about the future. Every once in a while she gets knocked off her pedestal by a lack of time or money, but then something comes along to restore her faith, she said.

"I feel very blessed and very lucky that the families that I worked with and the people I've worked with have believed I could make a change," she said.

children to call our own.

While many go through private adoption agencies, we took a route less traveled. We cast our fate to the Department of Social Services where the costs group of three in Wayne County for adoption were miniscule. We - no dice. The agency was lookhad tried one agency but were rejected because of our less-thanstellar track record in picking mates. We had looked into foreign adoptions but the price tag was too rich for our taste. Yes, we wanted children, but we also wanted to be able to feed and clothe them.

By going through DSS, our cost was the court filing fee and with the MARE (Michigan Adoption Resource Exchange) book, filled with photographs of children from around the state who were in need of families, we knew we could find the child of our dreams.

A sound plan

It was a sound plan, especially considering DSS doesn't discriminate against people who make stupid until-death-do-us-part choices. We just had a feeling the third try at adoption would be our lucky charm, that before we knew it - about a year, we figured - we'd have one, two, oreven three of those MARE kids living in our home.

And it was a sound plan that looked like it would work. Within 11 months of that orientation class, we were getting ready to visit a darling little girl. We were making plans, telling anyone who'd listen the good news, when we were stopped cold in our tracks. The foster mother had changed her mind and after all was said and done, we were on the outside looking in.

It was our introduction to what had been said many times in those classes, but never really had sunk in. In the realm of adoption, the foster parents get first dibs. We were devastated, and the loss was felt as deeply as when our infant son Matthew had died almost seven years to the day earlier.

It took several months to revive our enthusiasm, but nothing seemed to go our way. Adoption workers will tell you they are not here to find children for families, they are here to find families for children, and when it comes to the younger ones, you toss your home study into the ring and hope it comes out on top. There's no addendums about how long you've waited, the disappointments you've experienced, just the story of your lives, nothing more and nothing

And then you wait and hope for an answer that never comes, were there in search of a child or leaving you wondering what it was in that jumble of words that kept you from being selected. One month, two months, a year. We would look in the book and inquire. A little boy in Saginaw County - no answer. A sibling ing for an Hispanic family. Just being able to "hablo espanol" didn't count.

Setting a deadline

When January 1997 rolled around, we started doing some serious soul searching. How much longer should we keep at it? When should we throw in the towel? We arbitrarily picked March as the cutoff. Nothing by then, we told ourselves, and we'd accept our fate - two incomes, one dog and plenty of nieces and nephews to spoil rotten.

Well, "when you least expect it" for us was a phone call on Feb. 18. A child named Robert needed a family. Auburn hair, blue gray eyes, he was as adorable in person as he was in his photograph. We met him "unofficially" on March 1, and he has been a part of our lives ever since. We are his Mommy and his Daddy and he is our Bobby.

We are seeing our world through a child's eyes, answering his questions, and refusing every "I want Mommy and Daddy to buy me some of doz tings" requests. Listen, 2 1/2 is just too young for a Harley and a Mustang convertible, don't you think? Our family room looks like a miniature Toys R Us and the back-yard landscaping has taken a backseat to Bobby's swing set.

Bob complains that his waistline is disappearing because of the cookies and such that have materialized to keep this 35pound speedster fueled, while I search for someplace that sells ketchup in 55-gallon drums. If it's edible and can be dunked, it goes in ketchup, according to Bobby. Eggs, hash browns, french fries, even green beans get dunked, and on occasion, his

We have learned to decipher 2 1/2-year-old talk, sing silly kid songs, play silly games and cope with the terrible twos. We treasure each and every sticky kiss and hug, every giggle and tearful sob and every chance to stand at his bedroom door and watch him sleep. Our lives have been changed forever and it came when we least expected it. But then again, you know what they say about good things coming to. those who wait.

Today's Observer carriers are tomorrow's business leaders.

Did you know that our carreirs are in business for themselves? We call them Junior Merchants and they are committed to getting the fruits of a lot of people's labor on your doorstep twice each week. And, like business people everywhere, their goal is customer satisfaction. But their job doesn't end there. Other business skills include keeping accurate records and reporting information on time.

There are a lot of famous names in the Newspaper Association of America's Carrier Hall of Fame-three presidents, Hoover, Truman, and Eisenhower. There are spiritual leaders, Norman Vincent Peale and Martin Luther King, Jr, there are astronauts and poets and entertainers. All of them recognizable not only for their talent, but for their values and character.

We think a carrier route is an excellent way to learn responsibility, respect for others, and a sense of what it takes to earn a dollar these days. If you agree and would like to put your son's or daughter's name on our waiting list to become a carrier, give us a call-who knows? Between us, we may be giving the world another president or poet.

MBA All-Stars qualify

The 13-and-under Metro Basketball Association squad has qualified for the 32-team Youth Basketball Association Tournament beginning July 25 in Lakeland, Fla. after third-place finish in the state AAU tourney.

Coached by Dearborn's John Kreger, the MBA team consists of Paul Anleitner, Brandon Audette, Brad Burke, Demetric Crawford, Mike Gibbons, John Hamood, Mark Lewis, Ron Roosevelt, Tron Thomason, Ethan Wilkinson, Adam Zimmerman and Tony Zenn.

Assistant coaches include Keith Anleitner, head coach at Plymouth Agape Christian, and Kevin Wilkinson, who helped found the MBA program nine years ago.

After finishing fourth a year ago, the MBA cagers rebounded this summer by defeating all comers with the exception of the state champion Motor City Mavericks, a 10-point defeat after a 40-point drubbing a year earlier, and runner-up Southfield,

The MBA squad, will spend the next five weeks. fund-raising to help defray the $6,000 cost for the trips. The have conducted several bottle and can drives and have begun soliciting corporate sponsorships.

Donations are tax deductible. The MBA is a 501 (C3) non-profit group.

Claud Johnston got a relatively late start as a competitive golfer, but the 60-year-old Westland resident is making up for lost time.

Johnston shot 78-78 Thursday and Friday in his first U.S. Senior Open appearance at the Olympia Fields (III.) Country Club, a suburb of

Although he missed the cut by five shots, Johnston added another item to his already impressive resume.

He has now played in one U.S. Amateur, one U.S. Mid-Amatuer and three U.S. Senior Amateur tour-

This, however, was his first taste against the touring Senior PGA pros - Jack, Arnie, Hale, Chi Chi and Raymond.

"It was a thrill, but I'd have to say I was not real nervous," Johnston said. "It was nice to be there and something like this doesn't come along often. It was enjoyable for my family. My son (Erik) really got excited about it. But I told him it's just a game and to settle down."

Johnston settled down after an excruciating first hole when he suffered a double-bogey.

On his opening tee shot, after being announced to the gallery Johnston felt the club turn in his hand. His drive struck a nearby tree, only 40 or 50 yards away.

He had to take a drop when he couldn't locate his ball.

"On the first tee I was shaking hands with one of the officials and somebody had on some sun-tan oil and it made my right-hand grip really slick and it was too late before I realized it," Johnston said. "I've never had anything like that happen before. It hit it directly to the left."

Johnston was able to regroup, but the Olympia Fields layout, where he had practiced the previous three days (including a practice round with Tommy Aaron), was a bit more than he could chew.

"It was a tough course, you could double-bogey easy anywhere down the line," he said. "I'd say the severity of the greens, at least three or four holes, was really tough. And the rough was really tough. If you miss a fairway, it was hard to get it on the green.

"You could see by the way the scores were going that even-par (champion Graham Marsh's fourround total) was going to be right in Johnston was among 15 amateurs who earned qualifying spots in the U.S. Senior Open. He had to pay his own travel and lodging expenses, but was given the use of a courtesy car (a Cadillac) for the week and had access to the club each day for breakfast and lunch.

Johnston, who recently retired from United Airlines after 38 years, plans to remain on the amateur circuit where he has earned Golf Association of Michigan (GAM) Senior Amateur Player of the Year honors three of the past four years.

He graduated from Wayne Memorial High School where he became the first freshman in the school's history to letter in track (in 1955). He also played basketball and later played sandlot baseball, along with fast- and slow-pitch softball in the Ypsilanti area.

"I played golf in the early '50s and caddied at Meadowbrook (Country Club) when I was running track, Johnston said. "I didn't start competing until I was in my mid-40s. I started out in Publinx team play. "In 1989 my wife passed away.

Then I started concentrating a lot more golf. That year I made the Mid-Amateur and in 1990 I qualified for the U.S. Amateur."

Johnston is self-taught. "I've really never had any lessons, I just do things by trial and error," he said. "I've tried to develop my own technique and I've studied a

Daly earns trip to Class A fastpitch nationals

Daly Restaurant, the Livoniabased women's fastpitch softball team, has qualified for the Class A National Championship, Aug. 7-10 in St. Louis, Mo.

Coached by Bob Thompson, Daly won national qualifier by outlasting eight other teams last weekend in Troy.

Five teams from Michigan. along with two each from Indiana and Ohio, competed for the single berth.

Daly defeated the Toledo (Ohio) Magic, 4-1, the Midland Lady Explorers, 4-0; and the Chet Smith All-Stars from Columbus, Ohio to earn its way into the championship game.

After Chet Smith defeated K.A.M. of Kalamazoo in the loser's bracket, Daly completed a four-game weekend sweep by downing the Columbus team again, 13-0.

Daly scored six in the first inning to put the game away.

Melissa Drouillard, who played at Grosse Pointe South and Eastern Michigan, clubbed a homer over the center field

. The winning pitcher was Marci Kelly.

In the tournament opener, Carrie Knight (Lincoln Park/EMU) hurled a shutout against the Toledo Magic, giving up just two hits and one walk while fanning eight.

Daly's runs were scored by Kelly Thayer (Walled Lake Central/Western Michigan), Pam Kosanke (Michigan) and Knight. Tammy Mika (Brighton/UM) and Drouillard knocked in runs.

In the 4-0 win over the Lady Explorers, Daly scored three times in the first inning on an RBI double by Holly Riester (Fenton/University of Wisconsin) and a triple by Drouillard. Riester followed with an RBI single in the third.

 Kelly struck out 12, walked just one and allowed only three

Knights sweep Lightning

Christine Fones had five hits on the night as the Livonia Knights swept the visiting Plymouth Lightning, 7-2 and 14-7, in an Girls Incredible Fastpitch League double-header at Livonia Churchill

Fones went 3-for-3 with two RBI in the opener. Sarah Stiles added a two-run single in the fourth.

Winning pitcher Adrienne Doyle won the first of her two games, tossing a six-hitter in the opener. She did not allow a walk.

Fones doubled twice and knocked in four runs in the nightcap.

Shannon Coultas took the loss.

Doyle pitched 2 2/3 scoreless innings to pick up the win. Starter Tara Muchow contributed two hits.

Lasers split pair

The Redford Rangers and Livonia Lasers divided a Girls Incredible Fastpitch twinbill Tuesday at East Middle School in Farmington.

Kasie Mathena went 3-for-3 with an RBI and Jamie Matesic clubbed a two-run homer and added an RBI single as the Rangers won the opener, 15-4, in four innings (time limit).

Emily Williams, who allowed five hits and three walks, was the winning pitcher.

Andrea Kmet, who gave up nine hits and eight walks, suffered the loss.

In the nightcap, the Lasers rallied for four runs in the bottom of the fourth (time limit) to pull out an 11-10 victory.

Kelly Young doubled twice and knocked in two runs for the

Michigan Indians 1st

Sporting a 4-0 record, the Michigan Indians, an under-12 girls fast-pitch team, won the eight-team Okemos Classic last weekend.

The Little Caesars team, coached by Linda Willoughby, won the championship game, 10-8 (after six innings), after playing to 10-10 and 15-15 standoffs using an international runner from second base. The game score reverted to the sixth inning because of darkness.

The Indians also posted wins over Owosso (18-11), DeWitt (18-0) and Okemos (8-7).

Members of the Indians include Leanne Segreen, Ellen Potts, Samantha Kopack and Amber Willoughby, all of Livonia; Nicole Lenoff, Nicole Marrone and Brianna Wolcott, all of Plymouth; Elizabeth Nolon, Erin-Hullett, Erin Rzepka and Elizabeth Malek, all of Canton: Andrea VanGoss and Jessica Cook, Dearborn Heights; and Megan Rzapecki, Novi.

Johnston

Senior Open (and qualifying), he played in the Michigan Amateur. In May, he helped Team Michigan capture the Great Lakes Amateur Tournament in Minnesota (where he was the low senior individual scorer).

On tap during the next two months is the Frank Syron in Pontiac, U.S. Mid-Amateur, Senior GAM and U.S. Senior Amateur.

"I'm not as consistent as I was," Johnston said, "In my early 50s I had a more consistent game. Now it comes and goes. It fluctuates. It's harder to maintain concentration."

And Johnston was back home Tuesday practicing at a nearby driving range.

"I'm not a long hitter, I'm short off the tee compared to a lot of the good golfers." he said. "I'm usually 235to 240 yards off the tee. I use a 6-iron from about 150. The new equipment has helped. I use a longer driver and graphite shafts. I've picked up 10 to 15 yards."

Johnston, however, has a simple tip which keeps him competitive.

"One of the secret things to the game of golf is patience," he said.

And that's sound advice for a player of any age.

Rams top Seattle draftee

The Rams won an exhibition game on Tuesday against Birmingham Lynch, 3-2, at the University of Detroit Mercy.

Recent Seattle Mariners' first round draft pick Ryan Anderson of Westland was the losing pitcher. Anderson allowed two hits, both to Doakes, walked four and hit a batter in three innings of work.

Doakes was involved in all the scoring for the Rams.

He doubled off the fence to lead off the game, stole third and came home on a balk by Anderson.

In the second, Pierce and Hoorn walked and Doakes knocked both in with a double down the left field line.

Livonia Mantle team takes 1st in Cincinnati tournament

Call them the Cincinnati Kids. Livonia Travel, a Mickey Mantle-age (15-16 year-old) baseball team, improved its overall record to 23-5 by defeating the Cincinnati A's, 4-2, in eight innings in the championship games Sunday of the Cincinnati Invitational held at the University of Cincinnati.

Livonia broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth on back-to-back doubles by Casey Rogowski (Redford Catholic Central) and Mike Fisher (Farmington Hills Harrison) and a sacrifice fly by Derek Fox (Farmington High).

Fox pitched a complete game to earn the victory.

Top tournament hitters for Livonia included Rogowski, who was 8-for-15; Westland John Glenn's Dale Hayes, 7-for-16; and Fisher, 7-for-18.

In the tourney opener Friday, Hayes threw a complete-game five-hitter and Ryan Wilmering (Redford CC) belted a three-run homer to beat JTM of Cincinnati, 4-3.

In the second game, Livonia Travel outslugged the Ontario Tigers, 17-14, as Roy Rabe (Livonia Stevenson) was the winning pitcher in relief.

Fisher then went the distance in an 11-1 five-inning mercy rule victory over the St. Louis Red-

In the semifinals, Rabe struck out six, did not allow a walk and scattered just four hits in a 4-1 victory over the Central Ohio champion Columbus Warhawks.

Fisher, Rogowski, Bob Malek (Redford CC), Mario D'Herin and Rabe are all hitting over .400 for the year.

Brett Wells (Livonia Churchill), John Ritzler (Stevenson) and Matt Niemiec (Redford CC) have also figured prominently in the team's early season

Bulldogs victorious

The USA Bulldogs, a 14-andunder travel baseball team, won five straight games to seize the Holly Invitational (June 21-22).

The Bulldogs defeated the Holly Federation Colts, 4-3, in the championship as starting pitcher Kevin Entsminger (Canton) got the victory with relief help from Mark Willoughby (Livonia).

Brandon Obenour (Livonia)

had a two-run single in the first and eight runs. and Willoughby added a two-run single in the seventh to account for the four Bulldogs run.

The Bulldogs also played outstanding defense as catcher Eddie Conz (Livonia) threw out a pair of base stealers.

The Bulldogs survived a'13-hit attack and an 8-1 deficit, rallying to down Flint Federation, 10-8, in semifinal extra-inning

Ryan Rogowski (Livonia) paced the offense with four hits, including a pair of triples, and four runs scored. Obenour added two hits.

Willoughby, who pitched four innings of shutout relief, earned the victory.

In the first two games, the Bulldogs outscored their opponents 50-2, collecting 38 hits.

Billy Marsack (Livonia) was the winning pitcher in the opener against Davisburg, while Entsminger got the win in the second game against the Holly All-Stars.

Entsminger had seven hits, eight RBI and scored seven runs in the first two games, while Conz added five hits, four RBI

In Game No. 3, the Bulldogs rallied from a 5-3 deficit to eliminate Milford Travel, 14-8.

Entsminger had five of the Bulldogs' 16 hits. He also knocked in two runs. Willoughby added three hits. Rogowski, the winning pitcher, added a tworun homer.

Rounding out the Bulldogs' roster is Danny Bowerson and Adam Rorabacher, both of Westland; J.P. Culloty, Scott Cumming, Eric Mancini, all of Livonia; Dave Moran and Ryan Wrobleski, Northville.

The coaching staff includes Butch Conz, Mike Cumming. Rick Marsack and Lou Willough-

On Monday, Concealed beat Dearborn Heights 19-10, at St. Albert's.

Winning pitcher Sargent, who improved to 3-0, went 2 2/3 innings in relief. He allowed one hit and struck out two.

Drieselman was 3-for-4 with three RBI. He had a bases-loaded triple in the fourth to break a 8-7 advantage. Andy Stafford (Sterling Heights), Wallesy and Scott Szpryka (Orchard Lake) were on base.

Richard was 5-for-5 and four RBI. Szpryka was 2-for-5, including a triple, with two RBI.

Concealed's only loss was June 25 to South Farmington, 8-7.

South scored a run in the top of the seventh to break a 7-7 tie. Concealed is now 34-1.

Morris catches fire as player, student to lead Rams 3 squad

If Billy Morris keeps turning around his life, he might request that people start calling him

Well, let's not get carried away with this formal stuff.

Morris still has his fun, but he's definitely come a long way since dropping out of Redford Union High School a year ago.

Morris, who went back to school to earn a General Equivalent Degree, is also making his mark again as a baseball player with the Michigan Lake Area Rams organization.

Morris is a catcher for the Rams 3, one of three teams from the Rams organization playing in the Little Caesars American Baseball Federation Connie Mack Division.

He is batting .444 while leading the team in at-bats (45) and RBI (12) and striking out only

All this, and the GED, have him thinking about a college to attend. Henry Ford Community College could be his future home, but Madonna University is also making a pitch for his services, if he can qualify.

Morris returned to his family's home in Redford Township after spending about a year on his own making modest wages.

"He sat out a year, worked a job making (about) $4.50 an hour, and realized that's not the path he wanted," Rams coach Tom Nester, an accountant at Autocon in Farmington Hills, said. "He finally got his head on straight. He got his GED, which was a good wakeup call for him.

"The kid is just a pure baseball player, no ifs ands or buts about it. He's got athletic ability to perform when we need it. He doesn't get tight in tough situations, in fact he kind of relishes it. He's going to put the ball in play and hit it hard somewhere. He's got the best baseball sense on the

This is Nester's third year as a Rams' coach. Morris is just one of his success stories as the Rams are 11-3 and headed for their third-straight winning season under his guidance:

They were 30-12 and lost in the districts two years ago before finishing 26-20 with a 2-2 record in the National American Baseball Federation Regional last

The Rams 3 play their home games at Madonna Park, where they are undefeated in four

This is the first year the Rams organization has three teams in Connie Mack. They all compete for the best players, which means none is stocked with the best talent.

Madonna Park has a short, 307 foot fence, in right field, but that doesn't mean Nester looked for more left-handed power for his lineup.

"I just try to go out and get the best talent I can whether they're right or left," Nester said. "This is my best team. We're a little more diverse in the infield. I can move a kid from first to third base. If one of my middle infielders has to pitch I can move around my players without wondering 'Can this kid can play shortstop or second base?"

Nester has 14 players on his roster, two of whom (Steve Earl from Riverview Gabriel Richard and Brian Beaudoin from Aquinas College and Lincoln Park High School) are strictly pitchers. Each has a 1-0 record e mound

He rotates the other 12 among the eight positions, plus designated hitter.

"I work them in and out as best we can," Nester said. "Everybody gets an equal share of playing time."

Among the other Observerland players on the Rams' roster are shortstop-pitcher Mike Noonan (RU), outfielder Adam Smerecki (Farmington Hills Harrison). infielder-pitcher John Wilson (North Farmington) and outfielder-pitcher Dave Wampler (Livonia Franklin).

Nester said he'll know more about his team after the next three weekends, which are filled with tournament action. They play in the Kentucky Colonels Tournament in Bowling Green Ky. over Fourth of July Weekend followed by the Lexington (Ky.) Dixie Tournament and the Adrian Tournament.

"I think that's when it will really show if we can compete at post-season level," Nester said. "We should face a little better pitching than we're seeing now. I don't know if we've been tested against a kid that's a (major) college prospect."

Noonan, the No. 2 batter in the lineup, is hitting .289 (11for-38) with seven RBI. He has an on-base percentage of .372 and with better luck would have a batting average close to that high, according to Nester.

"He's had a lot of balls that have been caught, so he could have another .80 on his averrage if the hits fell in," Nester said. "He's a good contact hitter with some of the smoothest hands I've ever seen."

Noonan is also 1-0 in his only pitching start. He allowed three runs, walked one and struck out six in a 9-5 win over Plymouth Salem's Connie Mack team.

Wampler is the ace of the staff, recording a 3-9 record with a 1.12 earned run average and 36 strikeouts in 25 innings.

He's batting only .227 but Nester is hoping a 2-for-3 performance, including a home run, in a 12-2 win over Huron Sunday at Madonna turns around his luck at the plate.

"He's our ace by far, throwing in the mid 80s consistently," Nester siad. "He's a great kid, has all the makings to be a good pitcher. He has even temperament, stays in control, takes command of the game. We have a solid, consistent staff. Twopitch pitchers who just pump strikes."

Smerecki is the starting right it to them as much as I can."

fielder with a .357 batting average. He bats either second or ninth in the lineup.

"He has by far our strongest arm in the outfield." Nester said. "He really lets the ball fly."

Trenton's Kevin Burke leads the team with a .500 average (15-30, three homers and 11 RBI). A pair of players from Walled Lake, Western's Jerry Yatooma and Central's Steve Crepeau, lend their talents in the outfield and infield, respectively.

Yatooma, a centerfielder headed to Oakland University on a baseball scholarship, is hitting .303 in the sixth spot in the order. Crepeau, a second baseman who has signed with Michigan State University, is hitting 308 with a team-high 15 runs scored. He has an on-base percentage of .413.

"Yatooma is a strong kid with a good build and hits the ball a long way," Nester said. "He's a gap hitter and does everything right,

"Crepeau just flies, has got tremendous speed out of the box. He has a very strong arm with great range. He's going to really impress people up there (at MSU)."

John Wilson, who lives in Farmington and played at Walled Lake Western, also roams the outfield. Casey Johnson, from Riverview Gabriel Richard, plays in the outfield and pitches.

The brother combination of Kevin and Rick Thorning from Taylor Truman also contributes. Rick, who just finished his junior year, is hitting .385 and plays pitcher and catcher. Kevin is batting .257 as a third baseman.

Kevin's average should be higher, Nester said.

"He and Noonan are the two unluckiest kids on the team," Nester said.

Justin Bright from West Bloomfield gives the Rams speed in the outfield. Pat Smerecki and Jerry

Nester calls Madonna Park the best in the state, next to Tiger Stadium. Madonna head coach Greg Haeger and assistant coach Sean Maloney are very accomodating, according to "Greg and Sean upkeep it very well," Nester said. "You get true hops in the field, no divots in the outfield. The kids love it. If you put them in good clothes, give them the best opportunities, they'll play hard. Haegar and Maloney are great to work with." Nester, 27, was a starting pitcher at the University of Detroit-Mercy. He credits U-D coach Bob Miller, a Redford resident, and former RU and U-D assistant coach Bob Adkins for some of his development.

"Coach Miller taught me a lot," he teaches you command of the pitches," Nester said. "He made you realize you can't just throw by people, you've got to go in, out, up and down. I try to teach

S'craft hiring process for coaches a joke

The news you've been anxious- December. ly awaiting It starts at Schoolcraft College, where competition for some pretty high-profile coaching jobs is running amok.

In fact, if it were any more intense, some one might actually wake up and show real interest. 4 They might even want one of the jobs! Maybe even (dare-l-suggest-such-athing?) both!

Hey, I can dream, can't I? As far as qualifications, coaching sports as opposite as women's soccer and men's basketball, at this point does such a thing really mat-

It apparently doesn't to those in charge of intercollegiate athletics at Schoolcraft. After all, it's not as if these openings suddenly appeared. The men's basketball position has been vacant since last summer, the women's soccer since last

Greg Thomas, hired as the interim men's basketball coach for the 1996-97 season, wanted the job full time, but the higher-ups decided he wasn't good enough.

In fact, the first round of applications produced such a stellar group that the entire list was purged and the hiring process was reopened.

The same scenario holds true for the women's soccer position.

So now what? Well according to Midge Carleton, assistant dean for physical education, she and athletic director Ed Kavanaugh, with additional input provided by dean of instruction Louis Reibling, are reviewing another list of candidates, with the intention of hiring someone "ASAP" (which presumably stands for as soon as possible).

There were five aspirants for the basketball job and two for the soccer position. But that was last week.

'Course, the way things are currently progressing, whoever does land either of these "golden" coaching opportunities may have it pretty easy.

Why? Well - who will they have to coach?

It's already too late to recruit in either sport. If the new coaches find enough numbers to even field a team for an entire season, it'll be a minor miracle.

Bottom line is, this is a sorry position to be in. And it's so unnecessary.

It doesn't just hurt the two sports in question, but all the intercollegiate sports at Schoolcraft. Because it shows no administrative support for ath-

If administrators don't care about women's soccer, a sport SC reigned over in the NJCAA not too long ago, winning a national championship in '87, if they don't care about a sport of such prominence, how much do they care about basketball and men's soccer and volleyball and cross country and golf?

If and when someone is found for either of these positions, don't expect much from them or their teams next year. It'll be another in an endless line of rebuilding campaigns for SC in

Mazzoni pumps in 5 goals for Falcons

The Falcons made a statement in winning for the first time this season in the Metro Summer Hockey League.

Although no such records are documented, it seems the Falcons set a league, ecord by scoring 10 goals in the first period as they mauled the Bulldogs 17-5 Monday at Plymouth Ice Arena.

The win boosted the Falcons' record to 1-2. The 'Dogs are now the only winless team in the MSHL at 0-3.

The goals came fast and furiously for the Falcons. Pete Mazzoni poured in five in the first period alone, with Jesse Hubenschmidt (from Redford) adding three more as the Falcons built a 10-1 lead after Hubenschmidt finished with four goals and two assists, while Jack McCoy (Farmington Hills) had three goals and six assists. Dan Hunt (Livonia) had two goals and an assist, Ryan LaChance got a goal and four assists, and both Vic DeCina (Canton) and Kris Caster netted a goal and two assists.

Tom McNeil (Plymouth) was in goal all the way for the Falcons.

For the Bulldogs, Chris Smith scored two goals and Dustin Kuk (Livonia), Baron Becker and Mike Noel added one apiece. Shawn Miller started in goal; he was replaced by Bob Harrison in the first period.

•Wolverines 6, Wildcats 5: Monday's first game, also played at Plymouth, proved to be a down-to-the-wire affair, with the Wolverines' Jay Storm notching the game-winner, his second goal of the game, with 21 seconds left in the final period.

The Wildcats (now 1-2), trailing 4-2 entering the last period, tied it at 5-5 with 1:17 left on a goal by Jason Asadoorian (Canton). But that just set the stage for Storm's heroics.

Abran Smith (Redford), Tom Kastamo, John Fontana (Livonia) and Tom Balamucki also had goals for the Wolves, with Balamucki scoring with 1:54 left to play.

Asadoorian's first goal of the third period had tied the game at 4-4 with 2:46 left. Balamucki restored the lead to the Wolves, before Asadoorian scored again. Asadoorian also had an assist; Joey Giambra added two goals for the 'Cats.

Storm also had one assist and Keith Pietila had two assists for the Wolves.

•Lakers 6, Wildcats 4: A four-goal first period got the Lakers started, and Troy Taylor provided the finishing touch against the Wildcats Tuesday at Plymouth.

The Lakers improved to 2-1; the Wildcats are 1-3.

Two goals by Jason Couture and single scores by Bill Tucker and Brent Wishart pushed the Lakers to a 4-1 advantage after one period, but three straight goals by the 'Cats, scored by Greg George, Patrick Jesue and Jason Durbin, tied it at 4-4 with 7:48 left in the second period.

Taylor broke the tie with 6:03 to go in the second, then got the clincher with 6:20 remaining in the third.

Couture and Tucker also had two assists apiece for the Lakers. Jesue had two goals and Mark Portelli had two assists for the Wildcats.

Rick Marnon (Canton) went the entire way in goal for the Lakers: Brian Gray and Larry Jesue split time in goal for the 'Cats.

SPORTS & INTERESTS

Stingers 2nd

The Stingers, an 18-and-under fast-pitch softball team, overcame an 0-for-3 start to finish second in the Second Annual Great Lakes Classic at Young Patriots Park in Riverview.

In a quarterfinal game Sunday, the Stingers toppled undefeated and top-seeded Valley Sting from Youngstown (Ohio),

Terri Schroeder (Mercy High School) struck out nine and walked one to earn the pitching

Shayla O'Mara (Mercy) and Stephanie Smith of Henry Ford Community College went 2-for-3 to lead the offense. Allison Luczak (Livonia Stevenson) drove in two runs with her only

The solid defense of Andrea Jarczak (Stevenson) and Katie Homant (Mercy) helped to keep the Sting offense in check.

In the semifinals, the Stingers avenged a 2-0 loss to the Vipers of Cleveland the previous day

Leah Moeller (Mercy), the losing pitcher in the first meeting, evened the score by throwing a four-hit victory in the rematch. She fanned three and issued just one walk before giving way to relief pitcher and closer Terri Schroeder (Mercy) in the sev-Smith hit a two-run double, and Jarczak drove in the team's other run with a sacrifice bunt.

Kerry Fitzgerald (Mercy) and Homant also had timely hits. Chris Giller (Stevenson) and Erin Fitzgerald made key defensive plays to seal the victory.

The Stingers had run out of gas, however, by the time they reached the championship game and lost 11-3 to Detroit Auto Auction of Southgate.

Schroeder pitched the first three innings and was replaced by Stephanie Levine (Birmingham Groves).

Despite a last-inning triple by O'Mara, the Stingers failed to get enough key hits this time and left 10 runners stranded on

The Stingers roster also includes Kristin Reetz (Groves), Kendra Dumke (Dearborn) and Kelly McSween (Redford Thurston). The Stingers are coached by Ed Moeller, Trudi Pheeney and Bob Smith.

The Stingers, who are 8-0 in the Waterford Parks and Recreation Fast-Pitch League, finished fourth in the National Invitation Grand Slam Tourney, June 21-22 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Clarenceville club rules Flag City Invitational

The Clarenceville Swim Club, led by Open Men's high-point winner Nick Sosnowski, won the team trophy last month at the Flag City Invitational age-group swim meet held in Findlay, Ohio.

Sosnowski also teamed up with Ted Burmeister, Keith Falk and Eric Seidelman to set a new meet record in the 400-yard medley relay (4:23.55).

Other top high-point individual finishers included Carly Burgio, second, Girls 8-and-under: Julie Ward, third, Girls 9-10; Stephanie Cummings, third, Girls 11-12; Falk, second, Boys 15-16; and Michael Porth, third. Boys 15-16.

Cool customers

Penguin pack: The Penguin is taking a back seat to Mr. Freeze in this summer's Batman blockbuster. But this trio of winged and web-toed wonders by Buccellati can waddle their way to the top of anyone's "must see" list. Ranging from 1-1/2 to 4-1/2 inches tall, the sterling silver birds are destined to get "two thumbs up." Available at Jules R. Schubot Jewellers in Troy, the hand-designed and precisely crafted penguins are $385 to $1,125 each. Call (248) 649-1122.

Ahoy!

A new tack: Set a course for sterling silver, nautical items from Tiffany & Co. in the Somerset Collection South, Big Beaver Road and Coolidge in Troy. In the lazy days of summer, a seaman's mind turns toward a life of leisure on the Great Lakes. The person at the helm will appreciate an elegant, nautical pen ($85) fashioned with a ship's wheel on its mast, while boat propeller cufflinks ($125 per set) will keep any captain cruising the tides in style. Call (248) 637-2800.

Lush and plush

Blooming accents: The Velvet Plum, 595 Forest in Plymouth, features these pillows from Mariasch Studios Inc. The pillows are available in a variety of colors, prints and trims; and the prints are also available in cocktail napkins and guest towels. Prices range from $24 to $68. Call (313) 207-0666.

Keep chores in mind when gardening

MARTY FIGLEY

July is the time to sit back and enjoy the fruits of our labors in the garden, although there are still some things that need to be considered and chores to be done.

If you have little: children playing in the yard, be aware that some plants you may grow could be hazardous to their health (and yours, too). Identify them and try to put some barrier around them to keep kiddies

According to American Horticulture magazine they are: Phytolacca americana (pokeweed) - roots, mature leaves, fruit and seed; Gloriosa rothshildiana (glory lily) - stems, leaves, seeds and tubers; Ricinus communis (castor bean) - seeds; Wisteria (wisteria) - pods and seeds; Iris (iris) - underground stem and bulbs;

MARTY FIGLEY

Delphinium (larkspur) - young plants and seeds; Rheum (rhubarb) - leaves; Dicentra cucullaria (Dutchman's breeches) - leaves and roots; Digitalis (foxglove) - leaves and seeds; Rhododendron (rhododendron) - entire plant; Robinia pseudoacacia (black locust) - bark, foliage and young sprouts; Sanguinaria canadensis (bloodroot) underground stem, roots; Dieffenbachia (dumbcane) – entire plant.

If we have a dry spell, be sure to water the soil well before transplanting flowers or planting vegetable seedlings.

Yes, you can put in cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and Brussels sprouts, cole crops that will be welcome in the fall; also spinach and radishes.

In the vegetable garden, keep beans, cucumbers, squash and other vegetables picked before they become too large and lose some of their flavor. If possible try to share some of the bounty with others.

Conserving water

This might be a good year to put in soaker hoses or drip irrigation. Automated sprinkling systems are a good way to water only when necessary and prevent waste of this valuable resource. If you water by hand, concentrate it at the base of each plant so the roots are soaked thoroughly.

The best time to water is between dawn and 11 a.m.; watering in the evening can encourage fungal, pest and other infestations that will affect the plants' performance. Don't let water from an oscillating sprinkler evaporate in the air.

Another way to conserve water is to mulch. A two- to three-inch layer of an organic mulch such as compost, leaves, bark and grass clippings prevents moisture loss and also controls weeds and adds organic matter to the soil as it breaks down. Loose mulches also tend to keep soil temperatures uniformly cooler, which benefits some ornamentals.

Another thought about watering: Water plants according to priority, especially if water is limited. First – vegetable and annual flowers; second – shrubs and larger evergreens with shallow root systems, and recently transplanted shrubs and plants; third – established trees and large shrubs.

A good way for those in the last category is to use a trickle of water at the drip line of the plant, several times each week at least an hour each time.

Another thing to remember is to continue to snip the faded blossoms form daylilies and other perennials. This prevents the plants from using energy to make seeds. That energy can then be used to prepare the plants for next year's growth and flowers.

While you're at it, pull the weeds so that they don't go to seed and multiply.

Increasing stock

This is a good time to increase your stock of pachysandra and save money as well. When new growth snaps like a string bean when bent, it's ready.

Here's how: Water the bed well, or do this after a heavy rain. Cut off the top leaf cluster, with its entire stem, right to the top of the second leaf cluster. This won't hurt the plant; the bed will look neater and new growth will fill in remarkably soon.

Water a shady bed until it's mushy. Plunge a small dowel or pencil into the wet soil to a depth of three inches at a 45-degree angle. Set the new cutting into the hole leaving just a little stem and the top foliage sticking out. Close the hole around the cutting to avoid air pockets.

Set the plants four inches apart – they haven't cost you anything but some time, so you can afford to plant them closely. Keep the bed very wet for the next three to four weeks.

Soon your new stand of pachysandra will be the envy of the neighborhood.

Home on the outdoor range: You can find the "grill of your dreams" at Sunnyday Barbecue Inc., says John Cullen. The Canton resident invented the "beer-b-q grill" (below).

Custom grills offer wide cooking range

By Mary Klemic
At Home Editor

What's cookin'?

When it comes to grills, almost everything.

Ask John Cullen of Canton, whose Sunnyday Barbecue Inc., 543 Seven Mile in Northville (248-449-8062), carries a wide range of durable, stainless steel grills for outdoor cooking. The enterprise has brought

"It's the grill of your dreams," Cullen said.

"We can do almost anything."

flame and fortune.

The grills carried by Sunnyday Barbecue are state of the art and can make anyone feel like a champion of the charcoal, a specialist of the sizzle or a pro of the rotisserie. Grills can be freestanding with an optional cart or built in, and custom built for any need. They can be made for the yard, a patio, pool side or a gazebo.

Here's a tantalizing sample of features on various models: a removable front loading smoker tray, side burners to expand the cooking area, porcelain-coated burners, a rear burner for rotisserie cooking, a rolltop lid, woks and wok rings and a stay-cool handle. Rotisseries can handle anything from hens to turkeys.

Cullen invented an unusual model at the store: the "beer-b-q grill," which has a brass beer tap on a side shelf and an insulated cooler that keeps 1/4 keg or 1/2 keg cold with three bags of ice. The beer-b-q comes in three-, four-, five- and six-foot sizes, with prices ranging from $1,975 to $2,650. Its 16-inch wheels allow easy movement, and its options include a patio umbrella holder.

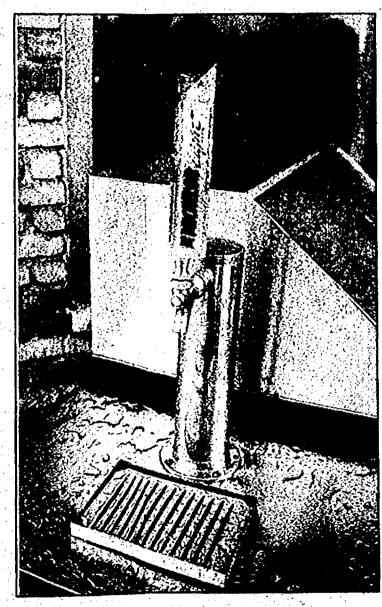

"I've never been to a barbecue where there wasn't Sunnyday Barbecue offers coal and natural/ propane gas grills for residential and commercial use. Prices start around $875. Sizes run two to six feet. One type with a stainless steel grill insert features stone facing and a ceramic tile top.

"Stainless steel cleans up real nice."

The store rents out four- and six-foot grills, and a pig roaster that cooks a 100-pound pig in seven hours. Rentals include tanks, barbecue tool sets, delivery, pick-up and cleaning. Rental prices range from $125 per day for a four-foot grill to $200 per day for a pig roaster.

Sunnyday Barbecue will tell the customer where to order a pig and how to prepare it for roasting, and suggest easy-to-prepare dishes for an event with a luau

theme

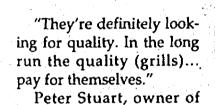

The store delivers and installs its grills, and sells a variety of utensils and accessories for barbecuing. Patio heaters are among its offerings.

The grills come from Rainbow Iron Works, Dynamic Cooking Systems and Lazyman, among other companies. Cullen started Sunnyday Barbecue in April 1996, a month after he was laid off from IBM.

"I had a plan in place."

Cullen has found that many customers have an idea of what they want in a grill.

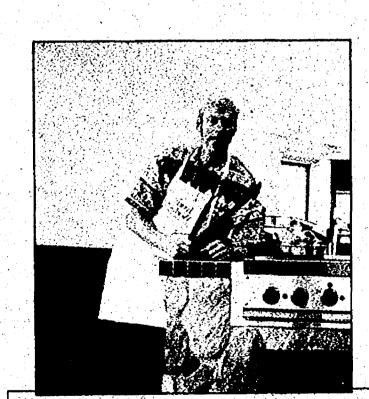

Stuart's Federal Fireplace, Southfield Road at 12 Mile, has found that grills are important as people fix up their decks and patios.

"Nowadays people are buying a grill like an outdoor appliance," Stuart said.

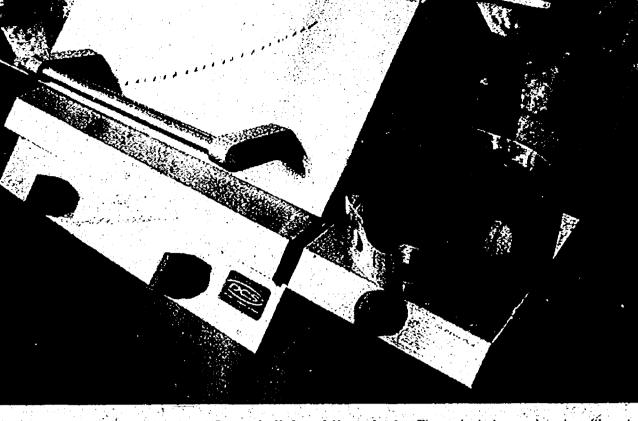

"You want to buy (a grill) that's of better quality so you're not looking for replacement parts two or three years later. We say, 'Buy your last grill first."

Ducane and MHP make some of the popular grills at Stuart's. Ducane's is all stainless steel.

Pulling the rug out on a customer

I went shopping the other day for carpeting for the three upstairs bedrooms and what a sticker shock I got. I thought carpet sold around $5 to $10 a square yard.

The first store I went to had a young man working alone who had a suit on about six sizes too big and shoes left over from his grandfather. The first carpeting he showed me retailed at $35 per square yard and the second bunch came in at $25. He didn't explain the difference and it was obvious he wasn't going to show me anything cheaper.

Needless to say, I was not impressed with his sales presentation, and I went. someplace else. This time I picked one of the big ones, looked for the oldest guy I could find and asked to have him show me carpeting. He asked questions to determine my needs, and we settled on a price range of $15. I wrote him a check for three rooms or carpeting. We settled on an installation date, and he informed me to stay home all day because they couldn't set up a specific

A week before the date we had agreed on, I came home and found a note attached to my front door that the installers had been to my home and would have to reschedule the appointment because I wasn't home. I called the carpet store and informed them that the date written on the invoice showed they were a week early and maybe they should call before they come over next week just to be sure I am home. The next week they arrived at 8 in the morning without a phone call because they had the wrong number written on the invoice copy they received. I chalked it all up to human error and felt good that I would at least get to work during the afternoon.

I asked them if they would like a pot of coffee and showed them where the cold pop was located and I got out of their road. I was informed that the old carpet would be placed by the street curb which I didn't appreciate seeing as how trash day was six days later. There would be an additional charge of $30 if I wanted them to haul the old stuff away, which I then selected to pay.

These guys worked their butts off, and by 2 p.m. they were out of the house. I thought the job looked pretty good except for the seam that shows up when you enter the master bedroom. I mean, you can't trip on it, but you sure can see it and feel it. But I'll live with it.

That night when I arrived home from work at about 11 p.m. I noticed that I had left the light on in my upstairs bedroom. When I walked into that bedroom I looked up at the ceiling which was coated with a million little and big bugs. The carpet guys had opened the window, lifted the screen so they could throw their left over pieces onto the lawn and they closed the Venetian blinds over the open window when they left. The blind is probably the only thing that prevented crows, bats and eagles from flying into my bedroom. I had to take four king-size sheets and spread them across everything in the bedroom and vacuum the ceiling to get rid of the bugs. At 1 a.m. I went to sleep on the couch and knew I would wake up to discover that it was just a bad dream. IT WASN'T.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

Student wins rug design contest

The Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design, along with Hagopian World of Rugs, announces that Jesse Stefani won the $1,000 firstplace scholarship in the eighth annual Student Rug Design Competition.

Stefani, a freshman industrial design student from Orchard Lake, also took third place in the contest and a total $1,250 in scholarship money.

Stefani received his award at a special ceremony at CCS during the annual Student Exhibition last month. Hagopian produced a full-size prototype of the winning design that was displayed at the exhibit.

Freshman Michael DaSilva of Upper Marlboro, Md., won second place and a $500 scholarship. Sophomore Michelle Sessions of Lansing won honorable mention and a $100 scholarship.

All submitted designs were required to be Tibetan in nature and were judged on the feasibility of carrying out the design of the rug into a decorative floorcovering, marketing of the rug to consumers, and originality in the creative quality of the design.

What's hot in home remodeling work

Based on the number of questions we receive concerning design trends in renovation projects, here are some facts on what homeowners are currently looking for. "The HomeStyles Report," a Minneapolis-based newsletter, recently brainstormed about what is expected to be the leading home design needs for families in the late '90s.

What will be IN:

- No maintenance; no painted surfaces, lower roof pitches.
 - Built-in home security systems.
 - Guest or mother-in-law suite.
 - Barrier-free designs.
 - Home offices.
 - Media rooms. .
- n Laundry room on same floor as bedrooms.
- Energy-efficient and environmentally-friendly products.
 - n Compartmentalized master suite.
 - n Unique or unusual storage spaces.
- Open floor plans; nine- or ten-foot ceilings.
 - One multi-purpose dining area.

Special and unique features like bay window seats.

The following are also "hot" according to local NARI members:

- Electronics and communications for home offices.
 - Modular refrigeration units.
- New trends and designs in ceramic tiles.
 - Laminate flooring.
 - Maintenance-free PVC decking. The following are OUT in design:
 - Soaring vaulted ceilings.
 - n Opulent master baths.

- Boxy floor plans with maximum hallway space.
 - Two-story entry foyers.
- Both a formal living and dining

CELEBRATE WITH A 'SALUTE TO AMERICA'

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY AND KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITERS

Join the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Jazz Ambassadors of the U.S. Army Field Band at Greenfield Village July 3-5 in a "Salute to America."

Bring a picnic super and blanket to sit on. The symphony and Jazz Ambassadors will perform patriotic and popular works on a special double stage on the Village Green. Fireworks will follow each performance. Historic characters in costume will mingle with audiences each night.

The July 4 concert will be televised on WJBK FOX 2, and simulcast on WQRS-FM 105.1. The broadcast begins 8 p.m. and lasts through the fireworks.

Concert-goers will be treated to a program of patriotic and popular works including "The Star Spangled Banner," "A Motown Tribute," Aaron Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man," a selection of Glenn Miller arrangements, and the ever popular "1812 Overture."

The 19-piece Jazz Ambassadors of the United States Army Field Band, based in Washington D.C., kicks off festivities each night 7:30-8 p.m. with a prelude concert, which includes the music of Woody Herman, "Toots" Thielkemans, "Riverdance," and "America the Beautiful," Chief Warrant Officer

Freddie Vinson, Jr. conducts the band, which features vocals by Staff Sergeant Dana Rogers.

Band member Greg Pascuzzi has composed a piece specially for the concerts at Greenfield Village titled, "Deso Jah."

Leslie B. Dunner, resident conductor of the DSO, leads the orchestra. The DSO begins its summer concert series at Meadow Brook Music Festival on July 11. The season, extended to four weekends this year - July 11-13; Aug. 1-3; Aug. 8-9, and Aug. 15-17, offers something for everyone including classical, choral, pops, and ballet.

Community Events

Besides concerts at Greenfield Village, there are plenty of fun things to do this weekend.

■ Westland - the city's Summer Festival kicks off Wednesday, July 2 with children's games, a parade and the Motor City Brass Band. The fun continues July 3-6 with Vegas Night, Bingo, a pie eating contest and potato sack races just to name a few. The festival will end July 6 with a fireworks display, which starts between 9 and 10 p.m. in Central City Park south of Ford Road between Newburgh and Central City Parkway. Call (313) 722-7620 for information.

FESTIVAL

H.O.R.D.E. of bands: Morphine and Toad the Wet Sprocket are among the 11 bands scheduled to play this year's H.O.R.D.E. (Horizons of Rock Developing Everywhere) Fest.

Musicians push boundaries at H.O.R.D.E. fest

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

The H.O.R.D.E. festival adheres to the principals of musical creativity and diversity with this year's line-up ranging from the two-string slide bass, saxophone, and drums of Morphine, to the straight-ahead rock of Neil Young and

Morphine drummer Billy Conway explained that performing as part of the H.O.R.D.E. fest sticks to their musical goal as well. "I think it's great that we're pushing the boundaries a little bit. Not just us but lots of bands are pushing the boundaries. Hopefully that forces radio get very little airplay. Primus's single too and listeners force musicians. We all need to be a little more demanding," Conway said:

"We all complain about what's on the radio. Let's do something about this. Give your local radio station a call, send them a fax, drop them a note."

Most of the bands on this year's H.O.R.D.E. fest - Primus, Toad the Wet Sprocket, Medeski, Martin and Wood, Ben Folds Five, Leftover Salmon, Cake-Like, and Michigan's Domestic Problems - have had to fight their way onto the radio.

Medeski, Martin and Wood, and hear us on the radio sandwiched Leftover Salmon tour incessantly but "My Name is Mud" in 1993 pushed the band in the mainstream. The pianodriven Ben Folds Five's self-titled 1995 debut album was critically acclaimed but didn't get the airplay it deserved. Enough music directors listened when the band's "Whatever and Ever Amen" came out this year and helped create Ben Folds Five's first bona fide hit -"Battle of Who Could Care Less."

Morphine's Conway feels fortunate that his band finagled its way onto music directors' lists.

"I'm relative flabbergasted when I

Some towns use carnival games, dunk tanks, ethnic foods and even beautycontests to attract people to their summer festivals, but Greenfield

Village is taking a different approach. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 10-12 and July 24-26, visitors can enjoy a leisurely stroll through historic Greenfield Village until 9 p.m. The "Old-Fashioned Summer Evenings," part of Greenfield Village's Summer Festival, offer a new perspective of the 68-year-old museum, even for those who have visited during the day. "This is the first time we've done this in 68 years," said Wendy Metros, publicist for Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn. "We have never kept the village open past five for just a daily program:

"There is something different about being in the village during the night," said Metros, describing the stillness and serenity one usually cannot find in any metropolis area. "It's almost as if the town opens up for the night and transports people back in time," she explained.

"Old-Fashioned Summer Evenings" will feature many of the same activities which occur during the day like: tours of the historic buildings, actors in period costumes and "games on the green."

"We will also have horse-drawn carriages and train rides throughout the village," said Metros, "then there are the workshops. Kids can make and take souvenirs."

According to Metros, Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum draws "a good, steady business of out-of-towners." The goal of "Old-Fashioned Summer Evenings" is to attract the people in Michigan who live in communities surrounding the village.

"We're trying to reach people who haven't been here since they were kids...now they have kids."

"Old-Fashioned Summer Evenings" are one of many activities taking place during Greenfield Village's Summer Festival, which continues through Aug. 17. For more information, call (313) 982-6150.

STREET SCENE

Dutch band strives for 'pure, simple rock'

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Dutch rock band Bettie Serveert had one goal in mind while recording its latest release "Dust Bunnies" (Matador).

"We had a goal to make a pure, simple rock record instead (1995s) 'Lamprey' which had an over dramatic feel to it," bassist Herman Bunskoeke explained.

For that, the quartet - which also includes singer/guitarist Carol van Dijk, guitarist Peter Visser, and drummer Berend Dubbe - did something it had pever done before. Bettie Serveert, who opens for the Counting Crows and the Wallflowers on Sunday, July 6, at Pine Knob, used an outside producer, Bryce Goggin (Pavement, Come, Spacehog), and practiced the songs for weeks before recording them.

"He made us very aware of what we were doing. He simplified some bass lines and some guitar lines. We went over all the drum parts also. It was a good thing. After pre-production we did two shows and people really could hear the difference," Bunskoeke said.

With its gentle melodies and abrasive guitars, Bettie Serveert admits that its kind of nervous about touring the United States with the Counting Crows and the Wallflowers.

"We're not a very extrovert," out-going loud band at all. We're into making more intimate emotional music. It's hard for us to perform for a big audience but a lot of people," Bunskoeke said. • The Missouri-based trio Stir has a simple theory for its building success. "We're working one fan at a time," said vocalist/guitarist Andy Schmidt.

"It's been a long, slow build. That's what we were shooting for. We wanted to play in front of as many people as we could before radio takes over."

The plan has paid off. The band's first singles, the anthemic "Looking For," and "Stale" placed in the top five and 10 respectively on Billboard's mainstream rock chart. Stir's latest single "One Angel" hits radio on Tuesday, July 8.

It's a busy time for Stir which also includes drummer/vocalist Brad Booker, and bassist/vocalist Kevin Gagnepain. After performing at WRIF fest on Tuesday, July 1, Stir is making an encore appearance opening for 7 Mary 3 on Wednesday, July 9, at the 7th House in Pontiac.

Stir's self-titled debut album was originally released on Aware Records, an indie label known for its compilations which introduced The Verve Pipe, Better Than Ezra and Hootie and the Blowfish to the nation. In October 1996 Captiol Records picked up the album and rereleased it.

The striking part of Stir is the versatility of its musicians. Along with their primary instruments, members of Stir play the dulcimer, dobro, guitar and bass, Wurlitzer electric piano and pots and pans.

"We pretty much play everything," Gagnepain said.

Stir opens for 7 Mary 3 at 8

 Weezer fans who need proof that the band is just as goofy in person as they are on CD, read

"Are you Italian," singer Rivers Cuomo started his phone conversation.

"Yes," I replied. "Is your dad Italian? My dad's Italian," he said giggling incessantly. "Do you know that if you changed two letters in your last name we'd have the same last name?" Cuomo said.

OK. Cuomo and his band came to town Sunday to open for No Doubt at The Palace of Auburn Hills while he's on summer break from attending Harvard. Still promoting the album "Pinkerton," Cuomo admits that he offended a few people with the reference to his attraction to "half-Japanese girls."

"I remember a radio station in San Francisco wouldn't play it because somehow I'm racist because I say 'half-Japanese girls.'

"I like it when people get upset. I've said outrageous things since we started. I'm just a harmless little nerdy guy."

Although "Pinkerton" was released way back in September, don't expect a new album from Weezer anytime soon.

"Come on, Give me a break. It was released in September." Nothing like motivation.

Michigan stuffs a lot into its short summer season summers. Forget the calendars, spring's option here; it can jump from ice storms to bath steam humidity, usually sometime in to sweaters. Michigan summers are short. They're tentative. They're subject to cancellation without notice. So we devour summer ravenously, like it's a plate of chocolate cake that might be arbitrarily snatched away from under our fork. We cram a ton of events into this fleeting season. If you can't have fun in a Michigan summer, it's time to run toward the light.

June. And in a September flash, you can go from beachwear

On tonight's Backstage Pass Detroit Public Television, we sample the fun of some of the Metro area's summertime fixtures. Starting us off, Dave Wagner - DJ at WQRS and our crack correspondent for the classical music scene - will host a performance by a duo from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in the Channel 56 studio. Bassist Rick Robinson and violinist Laurie Landers will give us the scoop on the annual summer concert at Greenfield Village, as well as a preview of the DSO's summer concert series at Meadow Brook.

Dave told me how the annual the curator of education at new audience. "The show's a lot of fun. The whole focus is on pops-oriented American music, usually with a particular theme covering many different styles. There's really something for everyone. And it's a casual even. There are food and refreshments. A lot of young people and young families attend."

The casual approach of outdoor concerts opens them up to sampling by folks who might be reluctant to enter the rarefied atmosphere of Orchestra Hall. They can spread a blanket and enjoy the music in a relaxed setting. Says Dave, "It's not a formal concert atmosphere - there's a sort of constant, respectful hum, people moving around, people picnicking. Symphony concerts don't always have to be black tie and tails. It's a great way to introduce people to symphonic music."

And once they're introduced. many are hooked for life. "When people hear the symphony for the first time, they're blown away. There's nothing like hearing 100 musicians playing acoustically, no mic or amps, creating this ball of sound that pours over you. They discover that Detroit has a world-class symphony that travels the world and has made about 14 recordings in the last seven or eight years. They're a hometown gem that we sometimes take for granted."

Also on the show, David Rau one of our art contributors and official gallery for Detroit's Center for Creative Studies. The exhibition is called "The Clothes Show: Objects For and About Clothing." But don't be fooled, it is not a fashion show. David explained why clothing makes a good subject for making art. "It's accessible because everybody wears clothes, so they all have a point of reference. Yet setting The Clothes Show isn't like going to a boutique where you see outlandish fashion. It's more about the idea of clothes in our culture."

David says folks at the Center Gallery have put the exhibition together in the spirit of summertime fun. "For their summer show, CCS purposely does a bigger call for artists to get as many as possible. And in doing that, you create a context of fun. There's an element of freedom in the show. It's a bit more playful."

But the show is also thoughtprovoking. "One piece is a wedding dress completely made out of wedding paper. The meaning seems to be that the bride is a gift. We wrap her up and present her. It's beautiful, but it's also a little subversive." Catch Backstage Pass tonight to see works displayed only at the show's recent opening, plus some presented exclusively for the Channel 56 cameras, such as a local performance artist in some truly unusual outfits.

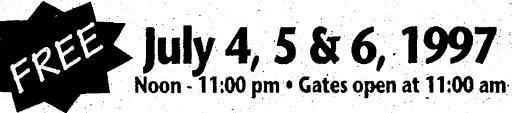

Also on tonight's show, Gary

Dance artist likes keeping busy

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Robin S. doesn't know what day or date it is, and that's the way she likes it.

"I am so turned around now I don't know what day it is. I'd rather be that way than not busy," she said with a laugh.

.The dance artist has been keeping busy promoting her sophomore effort "From Now On" (Big Beat/ Atlantic). Part of her schedule includes performing as part of the "Dance Across America" tour, which hits Pine Knob on Saturday, July 5.

Robin S. - no last name, just S. - said that all this comes at a perfect time since the Grammy committee just set aside a category for dance music. Tam very excited, ecstatic. It's long overdue. I'm feeling good about it. I'm hoping I win. That's all that's on my mind," Robin S.

said so quickly that she barely had time to breathe. It's about time that dance artists got some respect, she added. A lot of dance artists are being pushed aside by R&B singers who are doing dance "A lot of R&B singers are leaning that way. They don't use regular remixes. They're using notable dance producers to do their remixes, which certifies them as a club artist for the time that they're out. That's wonderful, I don't have a problem with that," she said.

"(But) people like us who really sing - Jocelyn Brown, Martha Wash - they never get any bonafide credit for it." Robin S. has had to prove to her audience that she can sing.

"I've even had to stop singing in the middle of a track and ask the audience 'Do you hear any vocals? See I really do sing. Now you can really party.' I don't mind having to do that."

The key to being successful in the genre, she said, is to have meaning to the lyrics even though the music is timed at 110-120 beats per minute. "There has to be a beginning, a middle and an end. It can't be 'Ooh, baby baby, Oh baby' all through the record. It has to be something that you can take home and listen to and say 'OK. I know how she feels.'

"Dance Across America Tour" featuring La Bouche, Quad City DJs, Jocelyn Enriquez, Robin S., Amber and Crush, is at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 5, at Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1.75 and Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Tickets are $22.50 pavilion, $12.50 lawn. For more information, call (248) 377-0100.

Woo displays his action artistry in 'Face/Off' movies have amazing special effects, rousing action scenes, and even some solid performances. John Woo's "Face/Off" offers all this and more: a well-conceived story that makes you really care about the characters on screen.

Follow me here: John Travolta plays FBI agent Sean Archer, whose 5-year-old son got in the path of an assassin's bullet. Once bad guy Castor Troy (Nicolas Cage) is captured, Archer must literally wear the killer's face and check himself into prison to extract information from Troy's younger brother.

It gets even more complicated: When the faceless Troy wakes

Other summer from a coma, he tries Archer's mug on for size. His first order of business: keep his nemesis under lock and key. Second: infiltrate Archer's high-security job and his pretty wife. Aside from the requisite gunplay, much of the fun in "Face/Off" derives from watching two of America's most interesting actors play off of each other. Cage, playing Archer playing Troy, must force a psychotic swagger while Travolta, adopting Troy's persona, can barely hold a straight face because he's having so darned much fun.

> The movie is directed by John Woo, who has spent the last decade as Hong Kong's reigning king of action movies. Though his Asian imports haven't screened much in Detroit, you've seen their influence in movies by Quentin Tarantino, Robert Rodriguez, and even the recent "Grosse Pointe Blank."

With Hong Kong reverting to and other Hong Kong filmmakers have started emigrating to America. Woo's first two American productions, "Hard Target" and "Broken Arrow," were just warmups for this, the first stateside movie where he has a fairly free hand.

American movies are tame compared to Hong Kong-style violence, but here Woo's bullet ballet remains more or less intact. While new releases (think of "Batman and Robin" or even "Volcano") have tried to keep the body count down, "Face/Off" shoots everything in sight, mostly government agents, and often at very close range.

As usual, Woo's gunfights are precisely choreographed, with one bloody montage backed by a lilting rendition of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

The finale, which begins in a Chinese rule this summer, Woo slow-motion bullets and church pews turned to splinters by a million rounds of ammunition. At least this time Woo gives his actors a chance to reload their clips, rarely a consideration in the Hong Kong version.

The movie grows downright perverse when it gets to the romantic relationships, especially Troy's seduction of Archer's wife. To make matters worse, he starts hitting on Archer's teenage daughter and feeding her bizarre fatherly advice.

Woo has often been criticized for lack of substantial female roles in his testosterone-filled actioners. He makes a wise choice by casting Joan Allen, the Oscar-nominated actress, as Archer's doctor wife.

"Face/Off" has an almost otherworldly quality, employing slow- and fast-motion cinematography (sometimes in the same shot), stunning compositions and constant movement within the frame. Deep blood reds share screen time with washed-out monochromatic blues, the latter used in the painful flashback that sets the story in motion.

With what promises to be his biggest hit yet, Woo proves again what the critics have been say-

Sand Bar is fine Birmingham neighborhood bistro

BY ELEANOR HEALD SPECIAL WRITER

In anticipation of an early spring (which never came). Birmingham's Ocean Grille owners Craig and Bobbie Dilworth opened a street level, casual bistro, Sand Bar, with seating indoors and out, under a striped Teal and Kip Rose awning, in late March.

Taking a 20-year lease on the lower level upscale Ocean Grille and on the main-level suites formerly occupied by Truefaux Jewelry and the Birmingham Bead Store, the Dilworths are providing alternative dining experiences for residents of Birmingham and surrounding communities in addition to Birmingham shoppers, business owners and their employees.

"We wanted a more casual venue for Sand Bar that was not as seafood oriented as our Ocean Grille," Craig Dilworth noted.

While this is true, the design team of Ron Rea has presented a dockside nautical theme in deep, rich colors for Sand Bar. Dark marine blue walls are accented with an eggplant-hued ceiling from which large-diameter hemp ropes hang. A continuous sand sculpture created by local artist Barney Judge of Plymouth creates wall contrast and extends the working harbor concept. Indoor eaters can view preparation of their order in the fully exposed kitchen with its modern grill and stone-hearth pizza oven. Seating for 32 outdoors is warm-weather inviting.

Doubling as both general managers and chefs are Kim Schoenknecht, daytime kitchen guru, and evenings it's' Birmingham native Megan Harber. Schoenknecht is a Schoolcraft culinary department grad who worked at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club before joining Sand Bar. Harber graduated America and spent the last four years of culinary pursuits in Key. West, Florida.

Discovering Sand Bar for the first time at lunch were Connie Landgraff of Bloomfield Hills and Mixie Hochman of Birmingham. Landgraff chose the Grilled Chicken Special sandwich (full $6, half $4). In addition to the chicken, the sour country French bread, which she described as "crunchy," was filled with roasted peppers, chevre, exotic greens and pesto.

"It was perfectly sized with great flavors," she commented. "I'd choose it again."

She also praised her cup of brewed cappuccino. Hochman chose Shrimp Salad, gulf shrimp with a fresh dill mayonnaise over mixed greens with fresh cantaloupe, $7.75. She said the dill mayonnaise was a perfect . Bar Special Pizzas," Dilworth accent and that her choice "filled the bill for my mood today."

Dilworth noted that among lunch offerings the Grilled Salmon Salad, grilled Atlantic salmon with baby field greens and raspberry vinaigrette $7.75, and Jamaican Jerk Chicken Salad, grilled jerk chicken breast served atop mixed greens $6, are popular selections. From among the sandwiches he cited the seasonal Crispy Fried Soft Shell Crab Sandwich $7.75 on a housemade dill bun with Creole

A sourdough country French roll can be added to a soup $3 or salad for 50 cents. Pomme frites as a side to complement any sandwich or burger are an extra

For unhurried mid-day eaters, there's Fresh Pan-Seared Lemon Pepper Whitefish, finished with white wine and served with rice $7.75 and Grilled Fresh Atlantic Salmon with a fresh cucumber relish, served with rice $9. Sized up, this dish is also served at dinner for $12. Similarly, Landgraff's lunch sandwich gets proportionately larger and offered for $6.95 in the evening.

"But most appealing are Sand said. They are non-tomato sauce, gourmet-style made with fresh ingredients and cooked in the stone-hearth pizza oven. Court rules landlord responsible for rape

Q. I have heard recently about a tenant who was raped in her apartment and was successful in suing her landlord.

Do you have any information concerning that case?

A. In the case that you may be thinking of, the landlord was found liable for providing "inadequate security," even though the only prior crimes in the apartment complex were two burglaries in the two months before the attack.

The Georgia Supreme Court ruled that it was up to the jury to decide if the attack was "foreseeable." The landlord in that case argued that the rape, which took place at night, was not foreseeable because it was aware of just two prior property crimes in vacant apartments and those took place during the day,

The Supreme Court of Georgia disagreed. The court ruled that although the burglaries were committed when the apartments were vacant, it was reasonable to anticipate that an unauthorized entry might occur while an apartment was occupied and personal harm to a tenant could result. The dissenters in that case complained that the ruling makes landowners virtually insurers of those who come on their property. Is is, of course, unclear as to how the Supreme Court of Michigan might rule in a similar

Mr. President: Bill Deacon, long active on the suburban real estate scene, heads the Michigan Association of Realtors.

Realtor leads watchdogs

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Bill Deacon, an associate broker with Century 21 Town & Country in Birmingham, still loves the real estate business after a 31-year involvement.

He talks eloquently about the American Dream of home ownership and the qualities of a great Realtor.

Maybe that experience and enthusiasm make the 61-year-old Waterford resident such a good choice to serve as president of the Michigan Association of Realtors.

Deacon, midway through his oneyear term, represents the professional interests of 24,000 Realtors across the

"We are a watchdog for legislative agendas," he said. "We probably look at 150 to 200 pieces a year that deal with property rights, home ownership, taxation and the real estate profession."

The state association has helped craft several disclosure laws in recent

Those laws relate to the condition of a property for sale, who exactly an agent represents during the buying/ selling process and revealing, if known, whether lead-based paint, a potential heath hazard, is in the home.

The Realtors association is working to streamline and standardize land use planning/ platting procedures "so builders and developers can get through the process in two or threemonths rather than two or three years," Deacon said.

The state association also is lobbying at the national level to exempt up to $500,000 appreciated value of a house from capital gains taxes (now it's $125,000) and eliminate age (currently 55) and the once in a lifetime stipula-

MAR also wants to see the capital gains tax rate reduced from 28 percent to about 19.8 percent.

Deacon is optimistic about the support" - less so about the tax rate reduction - "I think it will be the last chip on the table."

Deacon conceded that Realtors haven't always enjoyed the best of reputations.

"I worry about how we're perceived, yet statistics tell me seven or eight out of 10 come to a Realtor when buying or selling a house," Deacon said, "I think we always have to be concerned about image ... strive to maintain and improve that professional image.

"I think a homeowner has the right. to expect a Realtor to provide them with service not only in the sale or purchase of a house, but with all other information and data they will need to. get through the transaction," he said.

That would include referrals of mortgage lenders, title insurers and home

The biggest challenge facing the industry?

"For years, the cornerstone of our industry has been multilist, ownership of information we provide to the general public," Deacon said. "In the future, who will own the information and how it will be presented will change.

"My job as president of the association is to keep the Realtor in the center of the transaction. How that transaction takes place may change," he said. Real estate, Deacon said, will always be a people business. "I never sold a house in my life," he said. "I listen to what the dream is and you try to get as close a match as you

Ruth Clevers (an associate broker with Weir, Manuel, Snyder & Ranke in Birmingham), Jerry McKeon (an associate broker with Max Broock Realtors exemption changes passing - "We're in Birmingham) and Bowen Broock, hopeful there will be strong, bipartisan proker/ owner of the company that bears the family name, are all MAR directors this year.

> ■ Clevers on how Realtors succeed in their work:

"They need to be self motivated, driven and sincere about making a career of it," she said. "Our industry is very detailed, time consuming. You don't automatically succeed.

"You have to be organized and put in the hours to learn the business ... learning how to sell ... learn how to read people, how to listen," Clevers

■ McKeon on changes in the busi

"A lot of people are entering the real estate industry from the business world somewhere - the auto industry, IBM, whatever. They know the positive effects of good marketing.

"They're using computers very effectively. If our members don't rise up to that level, they will be out of the business," McKeon said.

Broock on why Realtors should get involved in their association:

"There's no way a volunteer can't achieve a measure of personal growth and leadership. There's a networking component that has to be considered. You meet people you're working with

"Number three, and perhaps most important, an organization such as MAR or any other volunteer organization will prosper or wither depending on the level of commitment of members," Broock said.

30-year fixed-rate still the favorite for refinancing

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

For many years, the only choice for most people when it came to a home mortgage was a fixed-rate mortgage, usually for 30 years. Then the adjustablerate mortgage became popular with homeowners and took a big bite out the market of home mortgages. But fixed-rate mortgages are the mortgage of choice when refinancing a home.

A quarterly refinancing study released by Freddie Mac shows the popularity of 15-year fixed-rate mortgages increased during the first quarter of 1997 from the last quarter of 1996, regardless of what loan type borrowers refinanced. But the 30-year fixed rate was still the favored choice when refinancing.

Freddie Mac (really the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Company) is a private company chartered by congress to buy mortgages from lenders and package those mortgages for investors. Because of it's role in keeping the mortgage investment money flowing, Freddie Mac is a good source for information about Among borrowers originally holding 30-year fixed-rate mortgages, 28 percent refinanced into 15-year fixed-rate mortgages. This is an increase from the 24 percent of borrowers who obtained 15-year fixed-rate mortgages in the fourth quarter of 1996.

Homeowners who had 15-year fixedrate mortgages stayed with them 57 percent of the time this quarter, versus 54 percent in the previous quarter.

Borrowers who originally had adjustable-rate mortgages primarily preferred the 30-year fixed-rate mortgage over 15-year fixed-rate mortgage or one-year adjustable rate mortgages when they refinanced. Of those, 20 percent chose the 15-year fixed-rate mortgage, up from 15 percent in the fourth quarter of 1996.

"Interest rates bottomed out in December 1966, creating a moderate rise in refinancing activity in the first quarter of 1997 and increasing borrowers' interest in the 15-year product," said Vassilis Lekkas, senior economist for Freddie Mac.

"Looking to the future, applications for refinancing of loans were lower in the first quarter of 1997 compared to the last quarter of 1996," he said. This should be reflected in the figures for the second quarter of 1997, he said.

The Freddie Mac study, which looks at loans homeowners' choose when refinancing, is based on mortgages for which Freddie Mac purchased both the original and new loans.

Even though the popularity of the 15-year fixed-rate mortgage rose this quarter, the most favored loan product is still the 30-year fixed-rate mortgage. Borrowers with 30-year fixed-rate mortgage chose 30-year fixed-rate mortgage again 62 percent of the time, down slightly from 64 percent in the fourth quarter, Lekkas said.

Author identifies homebuying errors

Almost every one of the estimated 4.8 million home buyers this year will fall into several hidden traps when they shop for their dream home, according to Bob Easter, a 20-year real estate broker.

Easter wants to tell them how to stop making these costly mistakes. He is the author of Home Buying Power ($12.95), and The 14 Home-Selling Secrets ($9.95 in book stores or call 1-800-848-

"The number one mistake is paying too much for a home,"Easter says.

"If you pay appraised value, you will lose money, because it will cost you at least 8% to sell the home. If you have to sell in a year or two, how will you make up the loss?"

Easter says the second mistake is when buyers fail to do homework before they start looking.

"Doing your homework means learning who will be trying to empty your pocketbook with unnecessary fees and commissions, what will be the trends in housing, and what type of designs will buyers be willing to pay for in the future."

Easter recommends that you buy a home with selling it in mind.

"Being prepared is not hard work, but you must protect your interest above the seller, mortgage company and real estate agent. Have a written plan and checklist of things to do before you visit your first model home or call a real estate agent," says Easter.

The third mistake is failing to have your loan approved before shopping for granite. Watch out for lenders hidden 'junk fees.' Junk fees are expensive, but they can be waived," says Easter.

Your greatest weapon against these charges is "NO."

A common mistake is comparing and buying a home by the square foot.

"Each home should be considered by the quality of construction, amenity packages and future resale ability, not price per square foot," says Easter. The best price per square foot may have inherent problems, such as a leaky basement, structural or mechanical damage, or it could be located on an undesirable site.

Buyers advised to have older homes checked

By COUNTRY LIVING MAGAZINE FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Every experienced realestate agent; builder and restoration specialist advises buyers - especially novice home buyers - to have an aging home examined by a professional home inspector before laving down one penny.

While some aging residences may require no more than fresh paint, John H. Ingersoll wrote in an article in the current issue of Country Living, other older homes possess flaws serious enough to jettison anyone's purchasing plans.

"A country house, 25 to 30 years old, shouldn't show much deterioration, but a house more than 60 or 70 years old could present a buyer with all kinds of problems," said Jerry Roth, president of G.M. Roth Design

Remodeling, Inc. in Hollis, N.H. The following are a few of the most common structural defects people may encounter, ranging from the most difficult to fix to the least serious. Professionals who deal with country homes on a daily basis have provided repair-cost estimates based on a hypothetical 2,000-square-foot two-story house with an attic. Damaged framing. A post-and-beam or balloon-frame house, 90 or more years old, almost surely has gone through structural changes.

"In order to expand a room, a contractor unfamiliar with that kind of construction might have cut the wrong beams and weakened the house." Roth said.

Sinking Repairing the foundation itself can run up a bill of $500 to $1,500 if stones are missing in one location, or from $10,000 to $20,000 if an entire foundation has settled, according to Dan Bawden, president of Legal Eagle Contractors in Houston.

Termite damage. Termites can rot an old house from the bottom up, so inspecting for their damage is mandatory before buying any older house. Repairs could be as simple as replacing a foundation beam with treated wood, a project in the $200 to $600 range. But the price has spread over the years. Roof leaks. The cost of repair depends on how long the leak continued without attention. The dollar amount can range from less than $100 for closing the leak with roofing mastic to spending many thousands on tearing out siding, walls and floors to reach and replace rolled framing.

Crumbling chimney. "Repairing a central chimney can cost anywhere from $8,000 to $12,000, or more if a lot of repair work is needed," Roth said. "A deteriorating chimney on an outside wall could probably be prepared for a few thousand less, but keep in mind that if the chimney is falling apart, the fireplace usually needs a repair, too," he said.

Wiring. Rewiring calls for snaking new cable from a cir-and adding creature comforts also raises the cost of repair. "Even giving a face-lift to an old bath falls in the $1,500 to $6,000 bracket," Bawden said, "but tearing out and beginning again or adding a new bath could range between $25,000 to $35,000." Roth and Bawden agree that new insulating windows to replace loose-fitting, single pane sashes would range from $250 to $700 per opening, depending on material and fixed-rate mortgage, 36 percent chose a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage product. This percentage is unchanged from the fourth quarter of 1996.

Fifty-six percent of borrowers holding one-year adjustable rate mortgages refinanced into 30year fixed-rate mortgage, compared to a slightly higher 57 percent in the fourth quarter of

According to Freddie Mac statistics, approximately 28 percent of the conventional mortgage applications in the first quarter of 1997 were for refinancing, down from nearly 31 percent in the fourth quarter of 1996. This was considerably lower than 43 percent in the first quarter of 1996. This decrease in the number of people applying for refinancing is due in part to higher interest rates in the first quarter of 1997, in comparison with the first quarter of 1996. The high level of refinancing activity in late 1995 and early 1996 was difficult to Some advice:

Don't let this report necessarily sway you if you're involved in the decision of choosing a fixedor variable-rate mortgage. Whether you want (and need) an adjustable-rate mortgage or a fixed-rate mortgage depends on your particular set of circumstances. Each type has advantages and disadvantages. However, keeping an open mind and looking at the difficulties and benefits of each type will enable you to receive significant savings with a lower interest rate and a program that suits your needs.

Try a dry well

By READER'S DIGEST BOOKS FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

If large puddles of water remain around your home after a hard rain, water may leak into your basement. One solution is to connect your house's main downspout to a dry well - a below-surface basin that collects run-off water and allows it to drain into the soil. Be sure to check local ordinances before going ahead.

Constructing a dry well is straightforward, although it requires some digging. Before you undertake the project, see if you can solve your problem by sloping the ground around your house away from the foundation. Also, you may be able to connect your gutters to a storm sewer or a drainage ditch. To keep a dry well from contributing to your basement wetness problem, locate it at least 20 feet from foundation walls and make sure the top is lower than the ground surface around the house.

Building

An easy way to build a dry well is with a 55-gallon drum. Have the ends cut off or cut them off yourself with a hammer and cold chisel. Also cut a hole in the top of one side to accept a drainage pipe and punch a few dozen holes in the sides to permit water seep-. age. Make the holes between one-half-inch and 1-inch in diameter. Bury the drum in a hole 5 to 10 feet deep so that the top is at least 18 inches below the surface, fill it with rocks, broken concrete blocks and other coarse rubble. Cover the well with sturdy planks, treated to resist rot, or a concrete slab to keep out dirt. Pack dirt tightly around all

Instead of a drum, you also can create the sides of a dry well with concrete blocks. Lay the blocks on their sides and separate them a few inches at the joints to form a hollow square in the center. Leave an inlet opening near the top. The central opening of the well should be 16 to 36 square feet in area - that's about 4 to 6 feet on a side. As with a drum, fill the well's central opening with rubble, cover the top with treated planks or a slab and bury it.

Rather than construct a dry well you can install or have installed commercially available cast concrete dry well units.

If you're connecting the dry well to the house gutters, the downspouts into which they feed should be connected to a main downspout. That downspout should feed into the dry well.

Dig a trench from the downspout to the dry well and install drainage pipes or tiles. Locate them about 1 foot below the surface, sloping them downward toward the well about 1 inch for each foot of the trench's length as it runs away from the house.

Dry well disadvantages

A dry well is not a perfect solution. Blockages can develop in the drain pipe feeding the dry well and they may well be the culprit if you find that water is no longer draining away as it should. Before digging up the pipe, check the downspout elbow where it feeds into the drain pipe, It's often where blockage

Over the years a dry well may gradually fill with sediment. If a dry well does become clogged, dig it up, empty out the old fill and add new fill. In periods of heavy rain, even a new dry well can back up because it can't handle the sudden high volume of water. When the rain stops, drainage will gradually resume.
