Only about 1,300 recycle in city

Out of 24,000 households, only about 1,200-1,300 residential customers pay to have their recyclables collected and processed by Painter & Ruthenberg, the city's refuse contractor.

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON STAFF WRITER

Two years have passed since Westland collaboratively initiated a curbside recycling program with the city's refuse contractor, Painter & Ruthenberg of Inkster.

Westland is home to approximately 24,000 households, but only 1,2001,300 residential customers pay the yearly subscription service to have their recyclables collected and processed by Painter & Ruthenberg, said owner Paul Ruthenberg.

Organizers hope to generate more interest in recycling by increasing public awareness and establishing educational initiatives this fall with elementary-aged students from Wayne-Westland, said Sharon Scott, recycling committee chairperson and city council member.

Ruthenberg said they hope to simply "educate" the school children.

Infinite benefits

"Curbside recycling is so convenient," said Scott. "We've made some headway" with the program, but would like to see more interest from residents.

"It doesn't matter how you get involved, whether it be at the curb, or items brought to the center on Marquette - it's good for the environment and makes good economic sense.'

Scott said the six-person recycling committee is "very faithful and committed" to the program's success and has a vested interest in furthering the plan.

"We're trying to broaden the scope of the program by reaching elementary school children," said Scott. "We hope the things they learn in school about recycling will naturally carry through at home.

Residents, union react to air permit request

Clerk: Voting should be easier this time around

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON STAFF WRITER

A2(W)

Simple, simple, simple are voting procedures for the primary election on Sent. 9, according to Westland City Dierk Diane Fritz.

Fritz said voters should not encounter the difficulties they experienced at the polls last November when a new touchscreen computer system and alleged software glitches slowed voters and led to long lines and delays of up to six hours.

"We've shown videos on cable about the computer system and voters will be voting for one race - the mayoral race," said Fritz. "They'll only have to vote for one of three candidates."

One mayoral candidate will be eliminated following the September election, paring the general election race down to the two top vote-getters out of the three candidates -- Mayor Robert J. Thomas, Dixie Johnson McNa or Kenneth Mehl.

Fritz said election workers have been and are trained regularly and will be well prepared for the upcoming primary and general election, Nov. 4.

A sample ballot is available for the public to view in city hall at the city clerk's desk upon request.

Fritz noted anyone wishing to vote absentee has an opportunity to request a ballot in writing by a deadline of 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 6. The city clerk's office will be open that day from 9 a.m. at 2 p.m. The city clerk's office will be to 2 p.m. if voters want to stop by city hall and pick up an absentee ballot.

Also, Monday, Sept. 8, ballots for absentee voters are available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., but the ballot cannot leave the premises and must be completed on-site, Fritz said.

A similar schedule pertains for the November general election for absentee voters. Applications by mail for a ballot can be obtained until Saturday, Nov. 1 open the same day from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for ballot pickups and the deadline for absentee voters to cast their ballot in the clerk's office is 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 3.

Westland City Hall is located at 36601 Ford Road, between Newburgh and Wayne roads. A list of precincts is also available if you are unaware of where you should vote.

Grant awarded to Veteran's Haven

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON STAFF WRITER

Veteran's Haven of Westland will receive a $950 grant from United Way of southeastern Michigan.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) funds were appropriated due in part to a collaborative effort the Haven has established with United Way. Crusades to help the needy recently included victims of the July 2 rain storm.

According to founder and Vietnam veteran Vince Berna, the Westland Haven will use the monies to purchase supplies, food, canned/dry goods, frozen meats and vegetables from the Gleaners Food Bank, which is turning "surplus into a plus for the hungry people of Michigan," said Berna.

"Since we started our center last January, we have helped and supplied over 90 local vets and their families with food." said Berna. "We could not do our jobs if it weren't for funds like these or the local support we receive from donations."

Berna founded the Haven out of his Westland home in 1994. His organization helps honorably discharged veterans in emergency situations - not just around the holidays, but all year long.

Berna said the organization is still in need of a permanent building. A home in Westland where their food bank is currently located, near Hunter and Wayne roads, is slated for demolition to make way for an new strip mall, forcing the Haven to relocate its inventory to Berna's own residence.

Displaced veterans who sought shelter at the home and other support services are currently being redirected.

"We need a building where we can continue to operate our organization," said Berna. "Anyone interested in helping us out or making a donation can call me at home,

Student, 13, visits Europe with delegation

BY DONNA MULCAHY SPECIAL WRITER

What did you do on your summer vacation?

Kelly Dawe, 13, of Westland served as a presidential ambassador to Northern Europe.

Dawe visited England, Sweden, Germany, Belgium and France, as part of a 29-member People to People middle school delegation from western Wayne ... they are. and Monroe counties.

She brought back two Hard Rock Cafe T-shirts (one from Copenhagen, the other from Paris), lots of other souvenirs and photos, and a valuable lesson: "I learned that people aren't always as different as you think they are," she said.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower would be proud.

Eisenhower founded People to People 41 years ago, during the height of the Cold War. It was his belief that if people from other countries knew more about each other, there would be fewer conflicts between nations.

Spanning the globe People to People International is one of t h e il 'l learned world's largest that people student aren't always and adult as different cultural exchange as you think programs. Originally, it was

Kelly Dawe part of -student the government, but since 1961, it has been a private, independent, non-profit foundation. It's based in Spokane, Wash.

Each president, from John F. Kennedy Jr. to Bill Clinton, has served as its honorary chairman. That, in effect, makes the participating students presidential ambassadors. The foundation has sent more than 80,000 students, from all 50 states and Puerto Rico, to 35 countries on five continents over the past 30 years. It operates separate programs for middle school and high school students.

Students are usually nominated for the program by a teacher or counselor at their school, by a delegation leader, or by someone who has already gone through the program, said Sally Chanowski of Ypsilanti. A Belleville High School teacher, she was one of the two leaders of Dawe's delegation.

"When Kelly exited elementary school, at the end of fifth grade, her grades were high enough to receive the President's Academic Achievement Award," said her mother, Lisa Dawe. "She received a pin from the White House, a letter from Bill Clinton, and a certificate. It was through this avenue that I believe People to People got her name." Dawe received a mailing from People to People in September 1996, inviting her to apply for the program. That involved filling out a form and sending in three letters of recommendation, one from a teacher and two from non-family members.

In October, she was interviewed by a People to People representative and soon after, learned that she had been accepted into the program. Other local students who were accepted and who went on the trip include: Joyce Groves of Westland; Lauren Davis, Ryan Gadd and Monique Worischeck of Redford: Kuilian Sheppard of Southfield; and Meghan Mardejian of Plymouth.

An exciting trip

The students attended monthly informational meetings at Wayne County Community College to prepare them for the trip. On July 3, the delegation flew to London, England, where it met up with a delegation of 14 students and one leader from Connecticut. The two delegations traveled as one unit for the rest of the trip.

From London, the group trav-son to recycle with hopes he'll develop into an environmentally- conscious adult. She said the toddler is well aware of the items that go "into the recycle bin" and teaches his friends what to do when they're visiting his home, said Spisak.

"He brings stuff home from his grandparent's house to recycle," said Spisak. "He knows that certain things don't go in the trash - including his juice boxes."

Spisak said she and her husband, Tony, have been enrolled in the curbside recycling program for the last two years and are currently the only residents on their street, located near Ford and Wayne roads, who participate.

"It's beneficial for the environment." We feel it's pretty important and we're doing it with our children in mind. For ronment."

Spisak, 26, a lifelong resident of Westland, said she believes her parents and a good portion of the older population in the city don't participate in the program because "it's something new and they don't like change.'

"Maybe they don't see the benefit," said Spisak, "and they think it's just easier to throw things in the trash. It's damaging the environment though.

A need for change

Oakwood Lane homeowner, Carl Morton, says he recycled long before the curbside program was established, but sees flaws in the program that's leading to a lack of participation.

Morton, handicapped by two artificial knee joints, says the curbside program cling center, but he believes the two cling and "make people recycle." programs should be reevaluated to better suit the needs of the community.

"I do more than my share," said Morton, "but I found the recycling center was too much work. It was hard for me to drop off materials there because of my handicap. They need to have a much better set up."

At the curb, the 80-year-old Westland senior says he's recycling glassware, plastic and newspapers but isn't sure what else can be salvaged.

"We need more updated communications from the contractor with the people their serving and what other items can be recycled," said Morton.

The long-time Westland resident said organizers should "get behind" a public education program to make homeown-

"I'm glad I can recycle at the curb and will continue to do so," said Morton. "It's beneficial for everyone."

Measured success

While Westland may have only a small percentage of its residents in the program, Ruthenberg said it is currently the most successful community to participate in the cooperative program that includes residences in Wayne, Garden City, Dearborn and Inkster. With 24,000 eligible to participate from Westland, Ruthenberg said the program "isn't as successful as they want," but is optimistic about the future of the program based on feedback from participants and the expanding trends in recycling.

used to make polyurethane foam headliners and door panels as well as another chemical, diphenylmethane diisocyanate (MDI). According to Jeff Gearhart, auto project campaign coordinator for the Ecology Center of Ann Arbor, disocynates, like MDI, "can cause coughing, chest tightness, fever, fatigue and sensitization."

Weary neighbors

Denise Neuss, who lives near the plant, said she relies on the county "as experts to provide a reasonable environment."

"It is not a reasonable environment we're living in," said Neuss. "Textron has behaved very irresponsibly in handling their garbage. Their garbage should be handled as toxic waste."

Of the approximately 40 audience members who listened to testimony from a handful of neighbors and two spokespersons from the Ecology Center. all stressed the need for more stringent regulations of the plant's emission levels and rigorous safety guidelines for workers.

Gearhart said his organization spoke out against revisions that he believes are a "relaxation of the original consent order."

"The proposed consent order allows emissions to increase without requiring

"Neither analysis appears to accurately and disinterestedly represent the state of the law on such matters," stated Bennett.

Bennett also said that similar cases in the U.S. District Court involving sexual orientation matters were deemed "overly broad and vague" and if challenged in federal court, the chances of success on its "merits would be difficult to defend as they are currently written."

The suggestion was made to the seven-member board of trustees that the school district's policies, as they existed before the sexual orientation amendments:

"... more than adequately protected employees and students from offensive verbal or physical discrimination or conduct, without at the same time exposing the school district to new litigation and any additional controls or pollution prevention activities on the company's part," stated Gearhart. The project coordinator said health-based standards for the issuance of the most recent permit in October 1996 came after three new Tramivex lines were installed.

The plant currently maintains approximately 17 lines that enable workers to operate the foaming chemical processes that result in the production of the headliners.

Gearhart said as the revised consent order exists, the lines can be operated without a permit under an exemption rule Textron says applies to the Tramivex lines. The Ecology Center, however, said they would like to see the exemptions omitted and "replaced with a single condition requiring a permit for these lines."

"Textron has argued that the plant qualifies for a state of Michigan Rule 290 exemption for emissions units which emit less than 1,000 pounds per month. Based on a general review of emission rates for the plant it appears that Textron will be unable to keep emission below 1,000 pounds per month at current production rates," testified Gearhart.

The Ecology Center maintains Wayne County has never had a similar exemption in Wayne County regulations and from an environmental and public health perspective the permit should be required and not excluded.

"The failure of these lines to be permitted will only add another layer of mistrust and skepticism about the ability of Wayne County to adequately protect the health and welfare of its citizens," stated Gearhart.

Local support

United Auto Workers Local 157 came out in support of Textron and their continued efforts to work with employees and neighbors to improve relations and safety issues.

"The members of UAW Local 157 are pleased to inform the community and the Wayne County Department of Air Quality of the new bargaining agreement that will give UAW members direct input into the daily decisions that will improve plant health and safety," stated Gerald Light, chairman of UAW Local 157.

Light went on to say an example of management's response to workers' concerns was the purchase of new equipment to reduce isocyanate releases and the installation of automated "noodle crushers" that will significantly reduce worker exposure to uncured polyurethane.

"Management has since agreed to extensive training for workers on the effect of chemicals and how to protect the community from those chemicals during an emergency," testified Light. "The UAW will work with management to develop a comprehensive emergency response plan to reduce and hopefully eliminate releases into the community."

Is it too late?

Selma Street residents Dale and Carol Hoover believe Carol Hoover's health condition is the result of breathing air that "smells like nail polish" or burning chemicals. The Westland woman recently underwent surgery for the removal of cysts and tumors that lined her lungs.

Hoover, who testified from a wheelchair, said Textron has caused her much trouble and problems over the years and has "denied" her access to her vard due to odors from Textron that burn her lungs.

"We're thoroughly convinced through her health records that something in our area has caused her problems," said Dale Hoover. "I hope the management, union, and neighbors don't have to go through the same situation she has had to go through."

At the conclusion of the Wayne County public hearing, officials and residents took steps to form a joint committee between the union and the community to look at the problems and possible solutions.

"We're hopeful the committee can be formed to address health and safety concerns in an effort to improve plant safety," said Gearhart.

Wayne County will review findings following the Aug. 20 public hearing and make a decision as to the final consent order proposed for the Textron Automotive Company Inc. Residents are trying to remain optimistic their concerns will be taken into consideration and applied to the consent order.

At this time, no date has been determined as to when the county will make its decision and publish the findings.

"educate with equality" and create an environment that sincerely reflects the district's mission statement to "generate a climate for change."

"As a teacher who is gay, I have no protection in the state of Michigan," said Chiumento. "The board chose to stick with the same tired arguments that sexual orientation is not a protected category in the state or federal statutes and the addition of it to district policies could lead to 'unnecessary litigation.'"

Board reacts

After the recommendation from attorney Bennett, Debra Fowlkes, school board president, said it is the board's sincere belief that policies regarding student and employee harassment/discrimination "more than adequately" protect their well-being without the inclusion of the words "sexual orientation." Although no other trustees spoke prior to the vote, vice president Mathew McCusker contradicted the majority of the board and voted against the deletion of the controversial term. Following the board meeting, McCusker said as a team member he will support the action of the board, but felt strongly about upholding their initial decision earlier in the year.

Montgomery praised McCusker's action despite the remainder of the board's diversion from their early action.

"Board member Mathew McCusker was the lone voice of reason; the only member of the board to vote to retain the policies.

"He should be commended and congratulated for his attempt to keep the district on sound footing, while his colleagues - even those who had previously supported the policies – collapsed under pressure from ignorant, badly informed, and mean-spirited fringe factions in the community," said Montgomery.

Attorney Bennett concluded his statement by saying pre-amendments that existed were firm safeguards for employees and students and adequately offered protection of their rights without increasing the district to potential liabilities

Decision was 'backpedaling'

- Sean Kosofsky, an administrative assistant representing the Triangle Foundation of Detroit, a gay and lesbian civil rights and advocacy organization, called Monday evening's 6-1 decision "backpedaling" and said the issue was "not as complex as the attorney led the bgard or the community to believe."

"If this board removes sexual orientafion from its list of protected groups it will be sending a message that students attacked because of an anti-gay motivation deserve less protection than other victims," stated Kosofsky.

Kosofsky said the addition of the language to the policy in January was an important move in furthering the district's anti-discrimination policy and ultimately the well-being of both heterosexual and gay students and employees.

"Now we are obviously not talking about gay marriage or adoption or parenting or workplace benefits or military policy - we are talking simply about discrimination."

Mixed reactions

Wayne-Westland parent Gina Giannuzzi said the board's actions "reflect the values in the community and will protect children in the new school year from being punished for exercising their tem, Chiumento urged the board to responsive and responsible.

Westland resident and Plymouth-Canton educator Michael Chiumento did not find the deletion of sexual orientation to be honorable but "cowardly."

"As a citizen of Westland and a teacher in the public schools, I was both saddened and outraged by the 6-1 decision of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education," said Chiumento, who called their initial decision in January heroic.

"Students, teachers and staff who are gay or lesbian have received a very clear and chilling message from the board that they are fair game for both harassment and discrimination."

"I don't have a problem with the language and voted to support our first action, however, as a member of the team I will honor the board's decision as a whole."

Triangle Foundation President Jeffrey

"And perhaps, more importantly, students in the school district are to be free from offensive verbal or physical conduct, and in order to protect the speech rights of other persons and students."

Montgomery disagreed. "The Wayne-Westland school district has opened itself to grave and expensive liability. Worse, it has given tacit approval and acceptance to ill treatment, verbal and physical abuse and emotional trauma to the students in its care," said Montgomery. "They put every student, regardless of their known sexual or perceived sexual orientation, at risk."

Basins, wetlands, lake dredging help clean up Rouge

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

The Rouge River is a much cleaner waterway than in the recent past.

That's the theme a group of nearly 50 people, consisting of citizens, county and federal officials heard during a tour Wednesday of the Rouge River watershed.

The expedition was for those interested in the revitalization of the Rouge, a demonstration of three ways which have been utilized to help clean the river, once one of the most polluted in the country.

Most notably, the group visited a created wetlands site in Inkster, a combined storm sewer overflow basin in Inkster, and the Newburgh Lake restoration project.

Members of the tour, which was organized by the Rouge Remedial Action Plan Advisory Council and hosted by the Wayne County Department of Environment, heard first-hand from senior engineer Joe Edwards of Environmental Consulting and Technology that Newburgh Lake will not be open for the 1998 summer recreation season.

Newburgh delays

"We are having some problems dredging the lake because of how wet it is," said Edwards. "While we are still hoping for a July or August completion date, I'm afraid it will take us until October."

Edwards said there had been some talk of dredging 24-hours a day to complete the project on time. However, the contractor, John Carlo of Sterling Heights, has not committed to that.

Carlo, which is being paid $7.4 million for the project, faces fines of $2,500 per day if Newburgh Lake is not finished by next July.

Edwards described for the group what dredging the soil is like.

"Imagine having a bowl of pudding with the rubbery layer on top after it sets a while," said Edwards. "We've run into a lot of problems. In fact, today we had a bulldozer stuck for three hours."

Tourgoers saw first-hand what

Newburgh Lake soil is like on a rainy day. Edwards indicated. that's what it's like all the time because the soil absorbs water and remains in a sludge state until partially dried out at a nearby location. It's then taken by truck to a landfill in Salem Township. If the contractor decides to keep dredging, instead of more conventional methods of removal, Edwards indicated the lake level will be increased to about 2 feet because the dredges need to work in water.

When all is said and done, 750,000 tons of soil will be removed from Newburgh Lake. Some of it will be contaminated with PCBs, the main reason for the clean-up project and some will be removed to make the lake deeper for recreational boating and fishing.

"The highest levels of contaminants are in the first 2 feet of soil," said Edwards. "Some of the other soil we take out can be taken to landfills or other parts of Newburgh Lake for fill." "Most of the lake was only

Nearly 1.5 million people live around or near the Rouge River, making it one of the most publicly accessible rivers in the state. And, there are a lot of activities in and around the river, which makes the Rouge River one of the most popular recreational areas around.

In an effort to publicize the activities surrounding the river, a placemat featuring recreational activities such as golf courses, parks and nature preserves has been created by the Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project, Friends of the Rouge Education Subcommittee, and the Rouge Remedial Action Plan Advisory Council's Education Subcommittee. It's all part of a campaign to improve the water quality of the Rouge. River.

Along with listing recreational areas, there are watershed facts and information, as well as a picture for children to color on the back.

The placemat is the first of two materials to focus on recreational opportunities in the watershed. A Rouge River Watershed recreational guide is expected to debut by spring, 1998. The map will contain information for all 48 communities in Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties which comprise the Rouge River watershed. An enlarged map 'showing recreation areas and a table listing the features of each area will also be included.

The newly-designed placemats are currently being used by several restaurants, including Johnson's in Canton; Big Boy, Bill Knapp's, Lakepointe Yacht Club, Mama Mia and Ram's Horn in Livonia; and Nankin Mills Inn in Westland.

For more information concerning the Rouge River Recreation placemat and guide, contact Noel Mullett, Wayne County Department of Environment, at 313-964-8868.

Down under: Chuck Lemont, resident engineer for Wade-Trim Associates Inc., leads guests around one of the water holding tanks at the CSO Basin in Inkster. about 3 feet deep," Edwards told the group. "When we're finished, the bottom will average 8 feet deep. It will be shallower in areas where we put shoals."

Edwards says the plant life still growing will be removed. However, plants will be put around the shore, with the lake level to be carefully monitored so as not to cover the new plantings.

The group was able to see what part of the project will look like when finished. One area had a 6-foot bottom with rocks and gravel along what will be the shoreline.

Wetlands working

Tourgoers actually had a chance to walk in the mud while visiting the Inkster wetlands off Michigan Avenue.

The two-year project developed near existing wetlands was derived to collect storm water from 250 acres of watershed area, which used to go directly into the Rouge River.

"The major purpose of this wetlands is to trap the sediment and pollutants in the basin after a storm, then let the water go into the river," said Donald Tilton, of Tilton and Associates, Inc. in Ann Arbor, who developed the project. "We can get in and dig that out over the years, when it needs to be cleaned out."

"The dissolved nutrients, nitrogen and phosphorous, absorb in the soil and vegetation," continued Tilton. "The wetland has adapted to higher nutrient levels, so no damage is done. The same level of nutrients, if absorbed into the Rouge, causes algae growth and excessive aquatic plant growth, which has a negative effect on the river."

Tilton is pleased with the wetlands, and says after more testing he would like to look for other sites along the Rouge to create the same thing.

"The wetlands have met our expectations," noted Tilton. "The wildlife found it right away, the plant community came in real good, there are very few weeds, there are fish using it, and the water quality seems to be just fine."

Storm basin

Everyone was quite careful to "not touch the railings" as instructed when entering the reservoir of the Inkster overflow basin.

The $18.6-million basin collects storm water and sewage when the interceptor pipe to the sewage plant in Detroit backs up from over capacity.

The basin, run by computers, can collect a million gallons of water and sewage for holding, until the interceptor can take additional flow.

However, if the basin fills and needs to overflow into the Rouge River during heavy rains, the water is disinfected, the flow skimmed for debris and solids separated from the water before being dumped into the river. A much more sanitary scenario for the Rouge than before the basin was constructed.

The Inkster basin, as well as basins constructed in Redford Township and Dearborn Heights, will get a two-year evaluation. If all goes well, additional basins could be built at other sites along the Rouge River.

Quality makes Michaelene's Granola stand out e've all had this happen to us. Someone brings a dish to work or a party. It's really good, you ask for the recipe, and try to make it at home. You're disappointed though, because it doesn't taste as good when you make it.

This is how Michaelene Hearn got into the business of making gourmet granola 13 years ago.

"I used to be a Lamaze instructor," said Hearn. "I brought some granola in for my students. I told them it was a nutritious alternative to chips and cookies, and helped with morning sickness. I've been making granola for 20 years."

She gave her students the recipe. "They'd say, 'mine doesn't taste like yours, could you please make it?""

The mother of four girls now ranging in age from 14 to 21, Hearn decided to give granola a try so she could stay home with her kids. "My older sister was one my biggest fans and encouraged me," she said.

Now the Clarkston-based company, Michaelene's Gourmet Granola, is available in 18 flavors, and sold locally in many specialty stores such as Vic's, Strawberry Hill, Papa Joe's, Westborn, Holiday Market in Royal Oak, Betty's Grocery, and Shopping Center Markets.

passengers, and special ordered it for Pope John Paul II during his last visit to the United States. The pope had Michaelene's apple raisin granola for breakfast.

Quality

In 1994 she won the award for the Best Honey-Containing Cereal from The National Honey Association.

"Our emphasis is on quality," said Hearn. "Everyone starts small and aspires to grow big. We really do want to stay small, we don't want to mass market. Once you do, it's not the same. We want to control our quality."

S'more Sweetnola is the company's newest flavor. "My daughter Elizabeth invented it," she said. "She and her friends came up with the idea a year ago at her birthday party. I made a special granola for them with chocolate chips. They said, 'maybe you should put marshmallows and graham crackers in it.' I introduced it this June at the International Fancy Food & Confection Show in New York City."

Elizabeth, 14, and her friends attend St. Hugo of the Hills Catholic School in Bloomfield Hills. Michaelene's Granola is sold in the cafeteria.

Attention to detail, and refusal to settle for less than the best, is what makes Michaelene's Gourmet Granola stand out from the rest.

"We use whole almonds, cashews, and walnuts," she said, "We're very particular about our ingredients. I don't use chips or pieces of fruit or nuts. I want everything we make to be the best. The flavor is so much richer."

Her Cherry-Almond Crunch Granola is made with dried Michigan cherries. Cappuccino Crunch and Rainforest Naturals are other flavorful choices.

Michaelene's Gourmet Granolas are a mixture of golden toasted whole oats sparked with wildflower honey and brown sugar (no sugar optional) with a selection of quality nuts, premium dried fruits and all natural flavorings.

Her product line also includes lowfat, no sugar, and fancy fruit varieties.

Simply Sunny & Honey consists of oats and sunflower seeds, sweetened lightly with honey and brown sugar. The Original Nutty Raisin has plump California raisins, almonds, cashews, walnuts and sunflower seeds.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week: Lunch box cookies

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

You can't ever be too late for breakfast at Willow Brook Inn Bed & Breakfast in Canton. Located on a wooded acre, the inn filled with antiques and childhood keepsakes, is a peaceful oasis. Guests enjoy relaxing in the hammock, or sitting on the swing watching ducks and other wildlife by the brook which runs along the back of the inn.

"I try to pamper people when they come here," said Bernadette Van Lenten who operates the inn with her husband Michael. "I serve breakfasts 5:30-10:30 a.m."

Bernadette fondly remembers the anniversary couple who lost track of time reminiscing about their 25 years together after she brought them coffee in the morning, and came down for breakfast late.

"She was apologizing for inconveniencing me, and here I'm thinking what an honor it is to have someone feel so comfortable in your home," said Van Lenten, "What could be more important than talking about your marriage?" Providing the setting for happy memories, and making good breakfasts too, is something the Van Lentens and other members of the Michigan Lake to Lake Bed & Breakfast Association do very well.

"These are people who have to get up early every morning to put on a good breakfast, and appeal to a variety of tastes," said Roberta Spanbauer of Amherst Press publisher of "Inn Time for Breakfast...Again A Cookbook & Travel Guide from the Innkeepers of the Michigan Lake to Lake Bed & Breakfast Association, released in June.

A line drawing and description of the inn precedes the more than 60 bed & breakfasts featured. Readers will get a feel for the place, and can turn to the directory in back for more information about Michigan Bed & Breakfasts.

"We wanted to address home cooks, and people who want to get away," said Spanbauer. "These are quick and easy recipes." Many recipe introductions include make-ahead tips and substitutions.

"Innkeepers don't need alarm clocks," said cookbook author, Laura Zahn. "They just bake, and people wake up."

Ten years ago she was writing guidebooks in Minnesota. Her first bed and breakfast cookbooks were the regional "Wake Up and Smell the Coffee Series." She's just introduced a new one -

"Innkeeper's Best." "Innkeepers' Best Muffins," and

"Innkeepers' Best Low-Fat Breakfasts," ($9.95, Down to Earth Publications), feature favorite recipes from bed and breakfasts all over the country, including Michigan.

"I've been hearing more and more from innkeepers that they get requests for low-fat breakfasts, which are hard to do," she said. "The muffin one just seemed to fit with bed and breakfasts. I was surprised by the variety of recipes people

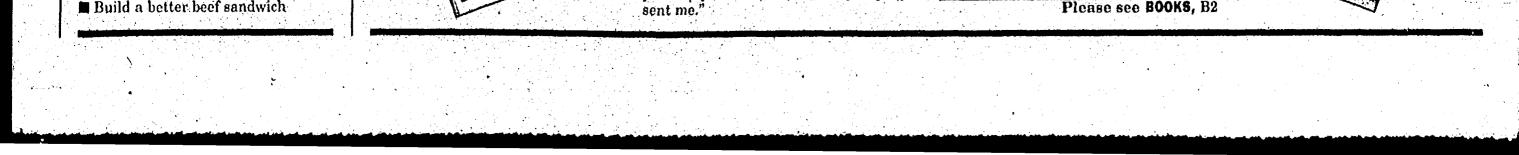

The recipes are practical, created by innkeepers who don't have a lot of time to fuss.

"Innkeepers have tried them over and over," said Zahn. "They are busy people. You can find the ingredients everywhere, and you don't have to be a professional chef to make them."

Both books in the "Innkeeper's Best" series include line drawings and descriptions of the inns "whose recipes are featured.

"By nature we are very home centered people," said Bernadette, "our home has always been the center of our life, and it still is."

While their children were growing up, the Van Lentens stayed in bed and breakfast on vacations. "In a hotel you have no sense of where you are. We wanted our children to have a much more memorable experistayed in an inn in Lincoln, Nebraska. He was bored because there was no TV. The innkeeper asked if he knew how to play chess. 'Would you like to learn? she asked. He did, and still plays today. Staying at bed & breakfasts opened a whole new world to us. We started really talking, and sat down and had breakfast together. It opened a whole new world to us."

Her Michigan Baked Oatmeal recipe was inspired by a guest who never came. "She sent me a recipe, and said 'you have to try this.' I was skeptical, but it's just delightful."

Founded in 1982, the Michigan

Lake to Lake Bed & Breakfast Association is the oldest in the country. There are over 250 members.

Mason and Van Lenten both agree the secret to good breakfasts is keeping it simple, and planning ahead.

"If you can save five minutes in the morning that's a lot of time," said Mason. "It sometimes means the difference between eating breakfast and not eating. On weekends you can make it more special. Use pretty dishes, put flowers on the table, balance out your flavors.'

Whether you're looking for ideas for a special weekend breakfast, or something quick and hearty for back-to-school mornings, you'll find it in "Inn Time For Breakfast Again."

It's also a great reference for people who are planning fall color tours. All of the inns have been inspected, and meet association criteria. The book retails for $15.95, and is available in bookstores, Michigan innkeepers, or through the publisher, Amherst Press, 800-333-8122.

Willow Brook Inn Bed & Breakfast is at 44255 Warren Road, Canton. Rates range from $75 to $105. Bernadette is also planning a Spa Weekend getaway package for women to be offered at a later date. For more information, or reservations, call (313) 454-0019 or (888) 454-1919.

"There are upwards of 20,000 bed and breakfasts in the country," said Zahn. "It's a very intriguing concept – the thrill of being able to stay in a house you could never afford to own, and the pleasure of having someone else cook for you."

Zahn enjoys staying at bed and breakfasts, especially when she travels on business. "I feel safer," she said. "I know there will be someone to talk to, and someone who genuinely cares how your trip is going."

She's also on a mission. "What I'm trying to do is promote the smaller bed and breakfast inns," she said. "These are the ones now. If you have trouble finding who capture my heart. These are small business owners who are

School shoes have class

What kinds of back-to-school shoes are popular with the sixth-grade and under set?

"Nike's and Reeboks," said 12-yearold Cara Saam of Livonia, while shopping with mom, Cissy, and brother, Zach, 7. at Perkos Quality Children Shoes in Livonia recently.

"That's all kids want to wear anymore is tennis shoes," her mother said.

oK, but what do kids wear when they dress up?

Saam, whose children go to public school, shook her head "They don't have dress-up days," she said. "Well, I take that back. There was one day last year, when Cara graduated from the sixth grade. The teachers told the kids they had to dress up for the ceremony." But even then, some of the boys

Jacobson's show salutes best of fall

The Jacobson's/W Magazine benefit for VARI-ETY, the Children's Charity, showcased the retailer's fall collections with labels from Montana, Chanel, Escada, Armani and Missoni. The program drew raves, proving Jacobson's is on track with its audience.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO EDITOR

VARIETY benefactors enthusiastically applauded the couture fashions presented by Jacobson's at Wednesday evening's benefit at the Birmingham store, which also included a video toast to W Magazine's 25 years of fashion reporting.

As the lights dimmed on the store's second level, the tune "People Who Need People Are The Luckiest People In The World" filled the air, and a 10minute photo essay chronicling two decades of famous fashion faces flashed across the screen.

Bobbi Queen, editor of W Magazine, introduced the program by praising the sophistication and style of the Birmingham-area, telling the audience, "you have a wonderful way of life here, reminding me that New York is not the center of style and fashion as many of us like to think."

Wearing a long black jacket over easy black trousers with a gray mock turtleneck, Queen pointed out that in reviewing 25 years of W magazine, everything old is new again - "Look what's back - Halston designs, ultrasuede, bell bottoms, Gucci, Chanel and Burberry's plaid."

She reminded the crowd that at W "We have fun trying to make sense. . or non-sense of it all. . . trying to generate excitement for the designs and the industry."

"And there's not one right solution in fashion and styling," she concluded, "but, many right ways. What's important about fashion, is how you feel about yourself when you get dressed."

by Douglas Riddle of Jacobson's, was a combination of the store's collections from both European and American designers. The exquisitely-patterned knits by Missoni and the seductive gowns by John Galliano drew applause.

Glamour is back

"There's a new energy in women's wear," proclaimed Beverly Rice, Jacobson's new merchandising director and 44-year veteran of the retail game. "Glamour is back and we've been so void of it for so many seasons. Looks like designers are not playing it safe or silly. They realize, as we do at Jacobson's, that they must respect the knowledge and sophistication of today's customer who travels the world."

Echoing Rice, patron Marcia Auslander of Farmington Hills, called the fabrics and designs presented, "crisp, sharp, and very wearable."

Blanca Q Fauble of Bloomfield Hills said they were "very exciting."

P. Gerald Mills, former CEO at Hudson's who was called out of retirement in 1996 to become Chairman, President and CEO of Jacobson's, told the audience that he thought the specialty retailer "was a gem of a company, with the best people, best merchandise."

"That's why we're here," he said. "The stores are well-appointed and the relationships between the sales associates and customers is exemplary."

Jennie Cascio, executive director for VARIETY, said the evening's 250 guests helped raise $25,000 for children's charities. Since Jacobson's picked up the tab for the show, music, and food, all proceeds went directly into programs that help disadvantaged children.

wore athletic shoes with their dress pants, Cissy and Cara Saam pointed out.

Based on what retailers have told me, that's not surprising. When given the opportunity to choose whatever shoes they want, a lot of kids choose to wear running or basketball shoes, especially those made by Nike and Reebok, and skateboard shoes, particularly those made by Air Walk.

Skateboard shoes kind of look like old-fashioned, flat-soled, lace-up tennis shoes. Only, they have a thicker sole and the rubber trim around the shoe is higher, which is supposed to be good for skateboarding.

They come in canvas or suede, and in a variety of colors, but black is the most popular with boys, retailers say. Dale Maple, owner of Hansel N'

Gretel Shoes & Dancewear in Birmingham explained.

"It (skateboard shoes) started as a West Coast surfer thing about 10 years ago. Then it became part of the grunge look. And now, it's part of a cleaner look for the little guys."

Stephanie Wilhelm, assistant manager of the Footlocker store at Laurel Park Place in Livonia, said Air Walk, Nike and Reebok are extremely popular, with boys as well as girls. Kids want the brand name – and not just on their shoes. If their shoes have the Nike "swoosh" logo, then they want it on their shirts, hats and socks as well, Wilhelm said.

However, there are some kids who aren't into that.

Greg Zivov, one of the owners of Greg Shoes in West Bloomfield said, "Kids are wearing whatever they want to wear. It depends on their individual styles and fashion sense." It also depends on what their schools allow them to wear.

He said he checks to see what types of shoes are allowed at those schools and then stocks at least two or three different variations on each style.

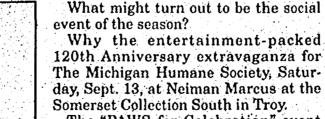

When it comes to non-athletic shoes, this is what's popular, retailers say: Chunky heels, thick "lug" bottoms, T-straps, clogs, and clunky-looking shoes for girls, and oxfords and work boots for boys.

Most people still prefer smooth leather, but nu-buck leather, which is softer than suede, is also popular this year, said Tom Welch, owner of Hershey's Shoes in Garden City. The most comfortable and practical school shoes, he said, are those that can be buckled or tied.

He offered this piece of advice to parents, and other retailers I talked to mentioned the same thing:

"Make sure you don't fit your children's feet yourselves. Come to a friendly, high-quality shoe salesman to have them fitted, because if you don't get the right size, you could do permanent damage to their feet." Neiman's hosts Humane Society benefit

The "PAWS for Celebration" event includes an extraordinary evening of dinner, dancing and entertainment. It will feature the legendary talents of Ed McMahon, Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons, and a fashion show featuring the latest from the country's top designers including Pam McMahon.

(McMahon's collection of unique couture garments signed with collectible buttons and exquisite fabric combinations, is sold through Neiman Marcus.) The event also includes a live auction of exceptional items including a portrait by the acclaimed Russian artist Serguei Timtchenko, and "humane" art works created exclusively by students of the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit.

Guests will delight in a strolling dinner and enjoy the cuisine of over 20 Metro-Detroit restaurants and dance to the music of Jerry Fenby.

"For 120 years, the Michigan Humane Society has rescued and provided care and shelter for hundreds of thousands of animals, and has united loving pets with countless Michigan children and families," said Lil Erdeljan, co-chair of Paws for Celebration.

"For people who care about animals and desire a wonderful evening of excitement and celebration – Paws for Celebration is a must attend event."

Ticket prices: $300 for Humane Society Benefactors for all evening festivities including a special cocktail reception and VIP loge seating for the fashion show, art auction and entertainment extravaganza.

dinner, dancing and limited seating and standing room for the Frankie Valli show.

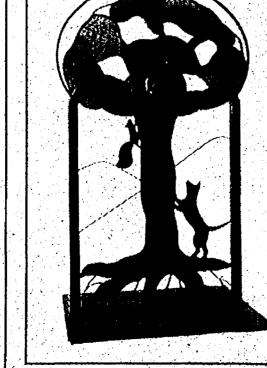

Festivities begin at 6 p.m. until midnight for Benefactors and Patrons; 8:30 p.m. until midnight for Friends.

"Paws for Celebration promises to be the largest fund raising event in Michigan Humane Society history," added event co-chair Denise Lutz.

Gary Tiscornia, executive director of the Michigan Humane Society, said the money raised will go toward maintaining the area's three shelters, arranging animal adoptions, paying medical bills for wounded or rescued wildlife, funding cruelty investigations, providing education programs to schools, and arranging pet visitations to nursing homes and hospitals.

The MHS Pet Education Center will also receive funds for its year-end opening and help hot-line.

Dream fashions cruise the Nordstrom runway

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO EDITOR

Maybe Woodward Avenue was the place to see fashionable cars last Saturday, but Nordstrom's was definitely the place to view fabulous fashions.

At their first birthday party Aug. 16, which doubled as a breakfast benefit for The Detroit Chapter of The Links, Nordstrom treated the early morning crowd to a high-on-style 30-minute trend show. The action followed a presentation by Barbara Smith, Afro-American model, restaurateur and author, who spoke about her career and new nationally-syndicated show B: Smith With Style. (Premiering Sunday, Sept. 21 at 7:30 a.m. on WDIV/Channel 4.)

According to store manager Chris Younker, the morning produced $11,000 for The Links, a volunteer service organization. Among the crowd such Detroit boosters as Trudy Archer, Celeste Stokes McDermott, Martha Vincent, Betty Anne Price and Dr. Velma Mobley.

Smith, 47, was the first black model to make the cover of Mademoiselle magazine in 1976. She retired from modeling at 29, and went on two open to very successful restaurants in New York City and Washington D.C.

She told the audience that the way they treat people along the way "is so important."

"Fashion, style, friends and fun – those are my keys to life," she said with a wide grin. "It's also essential in this time and age to help out in the community."

She ended her speech by singing a few bars of "With A Child's Heart," and remained at the store to meet patrons and sign copies of her book on entertaining.

Nordstrom played on the Dream Cruise theme, sending pairs and couples down the runway behind steering wheels and license plates reading "I brake for Nordstrom." The message of the day was "layering" in unique and colorful ways - like a slip dress topped by a mini skirt, topped by a jacket.

Charcoal-gray chalk stripe and pinstripe men's suits were brought to life by rich-hued shirts and bold-colored ties in shades of orange, royal and green.

Knitwear was mixed with velvets, tweeds, and wools. Suits sported both strong and soft shoulders. The silhouette of the season calls for longer jackets, shorter skirts and higher heels.

Freelance fashion stylist M.J. Burns, said she was glad to see a fuller trouser this season.

"These slacks are definitely forgiving to womans' figure," she said. "And I'm glad to see the higher heels are back. They make a woman's gait more sensual and feminine."

Jill Veneable of Orion Township called the collection "diverse" and "wonderful."

"I'm partial to St. John knits, but I may check out a few of the other departments this year," she said.

Commission awards scholarships

he Livonia Arts Commission promotes art in the community, but now future generations will benefit from a scholarship program aimed at encouraging careers in the fine arts. In addition to presenting art exhibitions at three venues in the city, co-sponsoring the Music Under the Stars series, and producing an annual arts and crafts festival at Greenmead Historical Village, the nonprofit organization awarded a total of $5,000 in scholarships to five students.

Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey presented the scholarships to the students during a reception at Livonia City Hall in late May.

"I was so impressed with the students' enthusiasm," said arts commissioner Lucy Timmons. "I think this is the best use of money to encourage young people in pursuing the arts.'

According to Timmons, a retired Livonia Public Schools teacher, money for the scholarships, offered for the first time this year, was raised at the commission's arts and crafts fair, held each June at Greenmead Historical Village. Timmons chaired the five person committee which chose the winners from 19 entries based on school transcripts and personal interviews.

Businesses strike bargain with artists

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Patrons of Ann Arbor businesses and cafes are enjoying pleasant and intriguing art works while drinking their morning coffee, shopping for furniture, or picking up a sandwich for lunch.

The Ann Arbor Art Center's innovative off-site exhibition program provides nine different venues for Michigan artists such as Susan Heitman, Plymouth and Bruce Janda. Livonia to display work in Ann Arbor. The exhibits create a valuable connection between the community and artists increasing appreciation, public awareness Applicants had to be Livonia residents.

"Need wasn't a primary concern," said Timmons. "Although with the cost of tuition these days, all students are needy."

The $1,000 scholarship will help Andrea Pyrkosz take a bite out of the $16,000 tuition at Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design. Pyrkosz, a Stevenson High School graduate begins classes in drawing, silk screen and photography on Sept. 2. She hopes eventually to become an illustrator working in the advertising industry.

"I knew, I always wanted to be in art and to always be involved with the concept," said Pyrkosz. "To me, the scholarship means Livonia is really supportive of artists."

Melissa Edmunds will also attend Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. The Scholastics award winner, who spent two years studying in the Creative and Performing Arts program at Churchill High School, plans to major in fine arts but will also explore furniture design and medical illustration.

"I was surprised to win because there were so many entries," said Edmunds. "The scholarship helps a great deal. I'm thankful for receiving whatever help."

The scholarship will ease Mary Beth Snyder's financial burden as well. On Sept. 3, Snyder will begin studies at the University of Michigan School of Art and Design where tuition is $5,000. Add to that the cost of dorms and the total climbs to $11,000. Snyder, a Stevenson graduate, plans on becoming a graphic designer or illustrator in the advertising field. She should have no problem finding work. Last year, she won several Scholastics awards including a Gold Key for a colored pencil still life and silver keys for a print, a charcoal drawing, an acrylic painting, and a black and white drawing of Detroit. Red Wing Sergei Federov.

"I was very pleasantly surprised to win the scholarship," said Snyder. "Tuition rates are high and it helps a lot."

Emily Haase will enter her senior year at the University of Detroit as a theater major with fewer financing worries. Tuition costs the Ohurchill High School graduate $12,000 per year

The Creative and Performing Arts program at Churchill taught Haase basic terminology, gave her the opportunity to audition for three shows a year, and nurtured the desire to earn a living on stage or in films. In the meantime, Haase performs in productions such as "Lend Me a Tenor" put on by the Livonia/Redford Theatre Guild last March. This fall, she will act with a group from Midwest Aids

Jim Isakson's love for camping and nature shows in paintings on exhibit at Espresso Royale Cafe in Ann Arbor. A 32-year-old Canton artist, Isakson strives to instill an appreciation for Mother Earth in viewers by connecting dots of color in the Pointillism style of French Post-Impressionist Georges Seurat. His exhibition is part of an off-site program presented by the Ann Arbor Art Center at nine different venues around the city.

"In nature, there's so much diversity and mystery conveyed to me that provokes me as an artist to paint what we take for granted," said Isakson, a Center for Creative Studies graduate. "I want to project that there's a lot more to nature than meets the eye. Nature is about reality, mystery and spirituality. It's rhythms, patterns and colors all have a meaning."

Isakson carefully and systematically organizes the series of dots into pictorial order thereby introducing life and rhythmic movement in the painting.

"In my paintings I like to create a strong visual rhythm as if the work were alive in the sense of being one organism." said Isakson. "The shapes interact with one the head. another creating a kind of cause and effect. I like to think of a subject as if it were alive and to have an area that is recognizable but also includes abstract elements as well."

Isakson's first one man show at Clique Gallery in Royal Oak included the acrylic "North Fire," a painting capturing the color and movement of a roaring campfire. Viewers of this second one-man show at the cafe should step back to see the entire image, only then is it possible to decipher the howling coyote, moose and snake hidden in the flames.

In "Fossiland" Isakson depicts the sun's energy and its relationship with the earth over time. The flowing and curving landscape is a metaphor for the sun's radiating power, the dinosaur fossil a symbol of the ancient earth. "Spirit Beast" shows a dead animal decomposing and becoming a part of the earth as blue ghost-like shapes float off from

"Nature entertains me but it also makes me think about its diversity and the role it plays," said Isakson. "As human beings we depend on it and are part of it for our own survival."

Isakson works as a graphic designer during the day. His nights are limited to painting three dimensional illusion in a two dimensional format.

"My objective is for the viewer to interact with the painting," said Isakson. "I strive to project a kind of static energy where dots and color relay the shapes and forms in a profound way."

Visits to his parents' home on Lake Superior's Keweenaw Peninsula provides plenty of subject matter. When necessary, Isakson uses local resources to capture the beauty of nature. He recently spent several hours at Maybury State Park in Northville photographing dragonflies for his next painting.

The newest venue, Workbench Cortemporary Furniture will show "Twisted Fables," a series of colorful narrative paintings that refer to the childhood of Ann Arbor artist Amanda Miller. The show opens Monday, Sept. 15, with a fresh twist. Workbench will feature talks by artists on the last Wednesday of every other Month beginning with Miller Wednesday, Sept. 24.

"It's a unique sort of idea because people can listen to the artists as they stand in front of their work," said Currey. "The talks give insight as to what makes the artist tick."

Workbench manager Dawn Nadeau came up with the idea for the artist talks. She describes herself as "very interested in art but by no means a connoisseur.

"I think, it's important when you're putting up an off-site exhibit to have someone who knows about art," said Nadeau. "We're in the furniture business and can't really tell people about the art."

The off-site program allows Workbench to support the surrounding community and a large pool of talented artists in the area. In addition, the store provides a perfect environment to show customer's the stylish look possible-when coordinating Workbench's living and dining room sets with art.

Farmington Philharmonic rebellious and lovin' it

BY FRANK PROVENZANO

Nixon and Kennedy will meet again. And soon.

The sequel not even Hollywood producers could have thought was possible will sound much more melodic than stale political rhetoric. Still doubtful?

Okay skeptics, meet Karen Nixon-Lane, the irrepressible music director and founder of the Farmington Area Philharmonic.

In yet another showdown with the stuffy traditionalists of the classical music world. Nixon-Lane and the Philharmonic have collared an internationally acclaimed musician to perform with the 70-member orchestra.

Reformed bad-boy violinist Nigel Kennedy will be the featured guest at this Friday's concert in Fuerst Auditorium at Novi High School.

Flamboyant by even rock music standards, Kennedy ends a five-year hiatus from the classical stage. He left proclaiming to "never again play the music of dead composers."

Either Beethoven has risen from the dead, or the blazin' Brit has had a change of heart. Kennedy is expected to perform Beethoven's "Violin Concerto" in his trademark frenet

Returning to the stage earlier this year in Europe, Kennedy's performances featured the music of Bartok; Bach and Hendrix – as in Jimi "Purple Haze/Are You Experienced?" Hendrix.

The choice of Kennedy - who recorded one of the biggest-selling classical albums of all-time - underscores Nixon-Lane's passionate effort to reform the notion of an orchestral concert where "fun and educational" replace "laborious and academic." If it's up to Nixon-Lane, the upcoming Nixon-Kennedy rematch will be remembered as a symbol of the fledgling orchestra's spirit of rebellion.

Breakin' the rules

Like the rambunctious Kennedy, the Farmington Area Philharmonic doesn't apologize for breaking the rules in the ; staid and conventional classical music world. The rule they most vehemently target states that community orchestras are a rough assemblage of students, part-time musicians and musician wanna be's.

"The problem is that we're labeled a community orchestra" even though 75 percent of our members are union, and all

This is the second off-site exhibit for Susan Heitman of Plymouth, who is showing impressionistic portraits combining painting and architecture through Tuesday, Sept. 2, at Amer's Delicatessen.

Heitman, who received bachelor's and master's degrees in art. from Eastern Michigan University, first learned of the off-site program after showing work in the Ann Arbor Art Center's Artful Home last year. She has also exhibited at the Detroit Artists Market and Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson. Two of the art works on display at the delicatessen were recently juried into the Our Town exhibition to be held Wednesday, Oct. 15, through Sunday, Oct. 19, at The Community House in Birmingham:

"The off-site program allows me to get my art out there, so people can see it," said Heitman. "I feel the more people see my art work, they'll begin to recognize it."

roots back to Bohemia," said Janda. "Since 1994 I've made four trips there and hope to show the beauty of this historical land through my photography."

Janda became interested in photography in his 20s but became serious about the medium only about five years ago. He has shown work at the Czech/Slovak Festival in Wyandotte and at another Ann Arbor Art Center off-site location last spring: The exhibition program enables Janda to reach a larger audience with his photography.

"For years, I'd been showing my work to friends and associates and they said why don't you exhibit your work;" said Janda, a marketing specialist for Ford Motor Co. customer services in the Detroit Renaissance Center. "But what really influenced me to exhibit was when a friend saw my photographs and said she almost wept."

The Ann Arbor Art Center, Michigan's third oldest center for the arts, exhibits artist at the center as well as off-site. Through Aug. 31, artists Shawn Skabelund and Valerie Mann examine the impact of industrial and technological advancements on agrarian communities.

Artists interested in showing work at off-site locations in Ann Arbor should contact Sharon Currey at the Ann Arbor Art Center, (313) 994-8004, Ext. 122.

BOOKS When traffic gets heavy, relax with an audio book Charles Kuralt not only will ham's remembrances, the his-

If you're planning a long drive to a vacation spot, or if you're stuck in gridlock due to endless highway construction around town, these audio VICTORIA books can make DIAZ the experience seem not just shorter but definitely more pleasurable.

"Personal History," written and read by Katharine Graham (Random House, $18, 3 hours). From the time her parents first met until the present day, Washington Post chief Graham takes us on a fascinating and highly inspiring trip through her own personal history. Picture a wonderful and highly articulate aunt with an upper-crust background who's telling you riveting stories about people she's met, the places she's been, plus what it all felt like, and you have a good idea of Graham reading her bestselling autobiography.

You'll get an up-close look at Graham herself, of course, as daughter, wife, mother, journalist and history-making chief of the Post, which was acquired by her multi-millionaire father when the now 80-year-old author was in her youth. You'll also get some telling glimpses of such notables as editor Ben Bradlee. reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, Lyndon Johnson, John Kennedy, ex-attorney general John Mitchell - all of them bringing to life, though Gratoric political events of the '60s and '70s.

The most dramatic facet of this book, however, is Graham's moving depiction of her often-troubled marriage to Phil Graham, who acquired (together with her) the Post from the author's aging father. Plagued with manicdepression and involved with another woman, he suffered a number of public "breakdowns" before taking his life at the family home one afternoon as Katharine napped in an upstairs bedroom.

What is especially inspiring is that this - the most painful moment in a long and full life marks the time when Katharine Graham agreed to take the reins of the paper, a job she apparently has no idea she could ever do. The rest, as we say, is history.

"Charles Kuralt's Summer," written and read by Charles Kuralt (Simon & Schuster, $12, 1 hour). Maybe you're like me in that I can never quite say if it's Charles Kuralt's words that are so impressive in themselves, or if it's the way they sound when he reads them in his good-old-boy, mellifluous baritone.

Either way, this selection of reports from his fondly remembered "On the Road" TV series is a delight. Go "tubing" along Wisconsin's Apple River. Visit Mark Twain's birthplace, Hannibal, Mo., on the Fourth of July. Drop in at a deadly serious horseshoes competition in the heart of America on a summer's day. There's a cornucopia of treats in store for you on this tape.

open your eyes, but your ears and (best of all) your heart as well.

"Angel's Ashes," by Frank McCourt (Simon & Schuster. $24, 4 1/2 hours). After I finished reading this superb memoir a couple of months ago. I had a thought: If we built shrines to books, I would put together a special little place for "Angela's Ashes." Maybe I'll do it, anyway.

This absolutely remarkable book, set mostly in County Limerick, Ireland, during the '40s and '50s is easily one of the finest books I have ever come across. Writing of a childhood that was poorer than poor (sometimes not just materially but spiritually, too), McCourt takes you directly into its gritty milieu: "Worse than the ordinary miserable childhood is the miserable Irish childhood, and worse yet is the miserable Irish Catholic childhood."

But even with all that misery, "Angela's Ashes" is sparked with hope and energized with sharp. fresh humor. In my lifetime, I have laughed often and cried some. Sometimes, I have laughed until I've cried. But I never thought it was possible to literally laugh and cry at the same time, until I experience "Angela's Ashes."

This story is like nothing else you have ever encountered. And McCourt, it turns out, is not just the only one to write it. His audio version may convince you he's the only one to read it aloud as well.

Drive safely.

The Ax

By Donald L. Westlake (Mysterious Press, $23)

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

This is a nasty book. But then it's about a nasty subject, and its cold, machinelike tone is perfectly fitting.

Westlake is a writer known for both his crime novels and his wit, and this book is mordantly funny with a decidedly Hitchcock touch to it.

The book's narrator has been downsized from his job at a papermaking company. He is middle-aged, middle management cast aside by his longtime employer with the usual "capitalism with a human face." He's been eased out with a small severance, meaningless job "retraining" and sanctimonious counseling.

Realizing it is impossible to Westlake's narrator tells us all this with the cold, dispassionate tone of a human resources person. He makes it all seem so logical, so fair. After all, this is war, and he has his family to protect, a family that is disintegrating in the ways that many modern families do.

Along the way Westlake. through his murderer narrator, offers some pungent commentary on business practices, business "ethics" and Reaganomics. Despite the healthy economy, real wages have actually gone down, college educated former middle managers are working in lower paying jobs that don't use their acquired skills and many workers are terrified to demand their fair share. Westlake's narrator dates all of this from the

It is the deadpan, nearly remorseless account of horrific events that sets this excellent novel apart. Westlake manages to capture the indifference of the economic system in the tone of his narrator. It is gruesomely funny, as the narrator plays with our usual beliefs about right and wrong. A description of how the narrator handles his son's problems with the law is especially interesting to anyone who's had to deal with the legal system's approach to young criminals.

This is a book that has already found a wide audience. And though it's set in Connecticut, it should have a special resonance for metro Detroiters who grapple with these same questions.

are paid for rehearsals and per- ing acclaimed artists like formances," said Robert Libcke, executive director of the Philharmonic.

The community orchestra label connotes a less-than professional performance whereby quality is compromised for the sake of community participation, said Libcke.

That kind of brash assessment usually stirs up the grapevine in the rather small metro area classical music community. But the Libcke and Nixon-Lane are on a do-or-die course for recognition.

Since last March, the Philharmonic intensified its campaign for younger audiences and as a family entertainment alternative while continuing to pursue the ever-evaporating corporate funds. Libcke, who earlier this year oversaw the merger of statewide arts organizations into ArtServe, assumed administrative responsibilities at the Philharmonic in the spring.

From their theme concerts celtheir stunning coups in convinc-

Kennedy and pianist Alicia de Larrocha to perform in a high school auditorium, the Philharmonic has drawn kudos for its music-for-music's sake approach.

Unquestionably, Nixon-Lane is the heart and soul of the Philharmonic. In 1990, the one-time shy French Horn player in the Michigan Opera Theatre, looked around and noticed the high number of quality musicians not in a full-time orchestras, and the "graying" of audiences.

Under the mentoring baton of Gustav Meier, Nixon-Lane has developed a conducting style that downplays mechanics for a deeper interpretation of music.

"I'm an efficient conductor," she said. "I know what the orchestra is looking for because I've been on the other side of the baton.'

Initially, she had to call more than 100 string players before one accepted to play in the precursor of the Farmington Area ebrating Ground Hog Day to Philharmonic, an ad hoc orchestra called "Group du Joir." And play they did – just about anywhere.

But without a home base, the musical vagabonds found it difficult to build a following. So, what the Philharmonic lacked in physical space, Nixon-Lane figured to make up in vision.

"I asked, 'Why aren't there any young people in the audience?' she said. "There was this perceived elitism about attending a classical music concert."

The Philharmonic is hardly alone. Recently, a study commissioned by the American Symphony Orchestra League projected the demise of many American orchestras unless they fundamentally changed the way they did business.

In the last several years, orchestras in San Diego, Birmingham, Ala., Orlando were shut down. Meanwhile, those in Milwaukee. Honolulu and Toronto reduced their performance schedule.

Although these orchestras are considered among "major orchestras." the trend has affected so-called community orchestras of the Philharmonic's caliber.

Hear it to believe it

"Our goal is to find a permanent home and to bring back theme concerts so middle-class families have an entertainment option." she said.

Until last year, the Philharmonic held its annual Ground Hog Day concert at the Old Mercy Center. To set the mood, audiences brought picnic baskets and wore their summer clothes. Another concert combined concertos with music from "Mary Poppins" where the wind section played kazoos.

"We keep telling people they need to hear us to believe it, said Nixon-Lane.

"We want to pump up this organization, put in place more education programs, especially for kids and a subscription series," she said.

"If I get a call from the Cincinnati Orchestra, who knows, maybe I'll tell them I'm happy where I'm at."

Schoolcraft College designs Piano Academy

The music department at Schoolcraft College has reorganized and expanded opportunities for piano students of all ages into a new Piano Academy beginning this fall. To accommodate these new or expanded programs, it has hired two new instructors with master of music degrees in piano performance and piano pedagogy from the University of Michigan.

According to Donald Morelock, director of the piano department at the college, "we are seeing an increased interest in piano study in the community from the earliest ages through the adult years.'

Dream cast leads intelligent, low key 'Cop Land'

K e i t e l . DeNiro. Liotta. Stallone. Stallone? You ask, noting the obvious false note in what could be a dream cast for the next Martin Scorsese project. The movie is "Cop Land" and much of the press has focused on how Sylvester Stallone dropped the muscle tone and gained a substantial beer belly to play a small-town Jersey sheriff. Of course, there's always been pain and passion beneath those droopy eyes, but we haven't really seen it much since the original "Rocky" two decades ago.

Garrison, New Jersey, is across the river from New York City. Most cops in New York have to live within its limits, but by pulling time with the Transit Authority, they can reside in the quiet working class neighborhoods across the George Washington Bridge.

We see Stallone's Freddy in the opening scenes hunched over an empty glass at the Four Aces, Garrison's official "blue" bar where only off-duty police congregate. He stumbles out the back door and opens a parking meter for more drinking money, pretty small potatoes compared to what goes on around him.

You see, while Freddy is officially the sheriff, Garrison is really run by Ray (Harvey Keitel), a corrupt officer with mob one, especially in Westerns, connections. When Ray's nephew (Michael Rapaport) shoots a pair of black kids because he thinkshe saw a gun, it's up to Ray to cover at all costs and with no interference from Freddy.

Freddy, whose bad ear has kept him out of the NYPD, begins to question his role in the town. Should he look the other way, as he's been doing all these years, or bring this rampant corruption to light?

The question is hardly a new which "Cop Land" resembles far more than your average TV cop show. You may even think you're watching "Rio Bravo" when Ray Liotta appears in the Dean Martin role as a drug addict cop who pals around with Freddy and elicits both our sympathy and scorn.

Robert DeNiro rounds out the cast as an internal affairs investigator who encourages Freddy to do the right thing, but, like so many of his roles in the last decade, it's little more than a walk-on. DeNiro does share a few seconds of screen time with Keitel as the two former academy mates meet in a convenience store and recall what is was like, "back in the day."

MIRAMAX FILMS/SAM EMERSON

For me, the best thing about "Cop Land" is that you're not reminded constantly of Quentin Tarantino, from whose style young directors too easily crib. Writer/ director James Mangold ("Heavy") creates dialogue both stylized and clever, yet it sounds like it's coming from real peo-

Pilgrims to Poland, different views

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAFF WRITER

Andy Halberg of Farmington Hills and I can trace our roots to Poland, but our perspective is entirely different. Andy is Jewish, I'm Catholic.

Halberg was in Poland April 30 to May 6 to participate in the International March of the Living with 59 other students from metro Detroit area Reform, Conservative and Orthodox congregations and schools. From there they flew to Israel, and returned home May 14.

I went with a group of mostly Polish Americans from St. Barbara Catholic Church in Dearborn, June 8-22.

We both attended religious services, and stayed at the Forum Hotel in Warsaw. Our itineraries included the Jewish Ghetto in Warsaw, Auschwitz, and Krakow.

Andy and I went to Poland to learn about our past, but we carried different baggage.

"My mother's family was Polish," said Halberg who graduated from North Farmington High School, and will be attending the University of Michigan this fall. "All of my grandma's cousins, * risked their lives helping Jews uncles, tons of family died in the escape.

Remembering: Lauren Whitefield and Andy Halberg at Birkenau during the March of the Living.

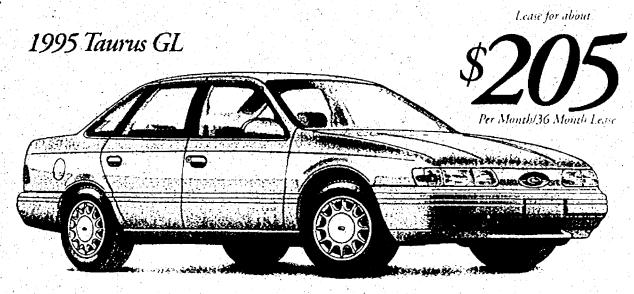

are Catholic and Jewish.

Poles, both here and in Europe, get very defensive whenever there is a discussion about the Holocaust, and are quick to point out that many Poles died in concentration camps; others Concentration Camp in Lublin when he saw thousands of pairs of shoes taken from Jewish prisoners. "Some kids near Lublin threw eggs at us," he said. "We experienced anti-Semitism in Poland. Wherever we walked people snickered at us. Walking through the streets of Warsaw Holocaust. Many of my family perished there, I don't know all of their names. I was looking for reasons not to like Poland, and focused on the negative."

My grandpa Bruno Kaleski, the youngest of several children, left Poland for the United States with his brother Pete before World War I. Because they were the youngest there was nothing for them in Poland, The oldest brother would inherit the family farm in Sulejow, a small village near Warsaw. Uncle Pete went back, grandpa stayed, but kept in touch. When he died, the tie was broken. Ten years ago, my father and brother visited, found the family homestead, and met our relatives. They wrote back, but my father and brother, who don't speak Polish, didn't.

I was curious about my grandfather's family, but embarrassed and ashamed that no attempt was made to tell them we received their letters, or to stay in touch. When we got to Poland I asked the Rev. Zbigniew Grankowski, pastor of St. Barbara Church, and our tour leader, to help me find them, figuringit's never too late to mend fences.

Halberg's baggage was weighed with anger. Mine guilt.

During World War II there were more concentration camps in Poland than any other place in Europe. Jews have lived in. Poland for centuries, and prior to World War II, the Jewish community in Poland was the largest in Europe.

The apartment where Pope John Paul II, (Karol Wojtyla), lived as a boy in Wadowice was owned by a Jewish family. He has worked to improve relations between the Catholic Church and Jewish community, which are sometimes tense, and kept in touch with childhood friends who

The Germans burned my grandfather's village, but his family rebuilt, and they live there today. Andy's family never went back.

While traveling through cities such as Lodz, the textile capital of Poland, I shared Andy's sense of loss but could not feel his pain. The Jewish cemetery founded there in 1892 is the largest in Europe. Pianist Artur Rubinstein was born in Lodz.

One of the women on our trip fought tears as we passed through the city on a bus. Herfather, a Pole, died not long after his liberation from one of the camps in Lodz.

The March of the Living from Auschwitz to Birkenau, was one of the most moving experiences of Halberg's trip. He and thousands of Jews from all over the world, including concentration camp survivors walked from Auschwitz to Birkenau to show the world "we're here – alive."

The Warsaw Ghetto disgusted me," he said. "Just thinking about the decline in the number of Jews in Poland. They weren't treated as individuals, but like cattle, yet they still managed to practice their religion, to smile, and the kids played games."

With few exceptions, every day I spent in Poland was sunny, and clear. It rained a lot when Halberg was there. "We all made a joke, the sun will shine in Israel," said Halberg. Most of Halberg's photos of Poland are black and white. Mine are color. I shed my first tears in the village when I met my elderly aunt who said, "I can die now knowing my relatives in America are safe." Then we went to mass at the village church, and visited the cemetery where generations of Kaleskis are buried, including Uncle Pete.

Halberg cried at the Majdanek

we saw graffiti. On the March of the Living some people clapped, some ignored us, some jeered. There were cold hateful words and stares."

But what struck him most were the shoes at Majdanek. "Each pair held someone with a story," he wrote in his journal. "Someone that hugged their mother, and cried. Someone who walked in a forest when they needed to be alone. Someone also took off the shoes before they crawled into bed. Someone unwillingly took them off before their forceful end."

Halberg left Poland sad, but inspired by Jews who make Poland their home, practice their faith, try to make a living, and educate their children in Jewish faith and traditions.

I left with a sense of responsibility for Kaleskis who remain in Sulejow on the farm living a life much harder than mine, and renewed sense of faith.

Poland is a beautiful country, and in the short time we spent talking, Halberg and I learned that not everything is black and white, or color. We found some gray too.

Krakow was our favorite city. "It was what I would look for in a European city, and sunny on the day we visited," he said.

We learned that while Poland harbors a lot of painful memories for many people, it's also a place to heal.

Campbell vs. Agassi

Former Class A No. 1 singles champion Steve Campbell, a Redford Catholic Central High product, will meet Andre Agassi in the first round of this year's U.S. Open Tennis Championships in the new Arthur Ashe complex in Flushing Meadows, N.Y.

Campbell, who is ranked No. 149 in the world, is a former All-American at Rice University. He received a wildcard entry into the Open.

Agassi is a former U.S. Open, Australian Open and Wimbledon champion.

Campbell, a Detroit native, owns a victory this season over two-time Australian Open champ Jim Courier.

Last week, Campbell took finalist Carlos Moya of Spain to third-set tiebreaker before losing in the third round of the RCA Championships in Indianapolis.

Campbell had two match points against Moya, who is ranked in the top ten; before losing.

Primo's wins Modified

Pitcher Pete Lind fired a no-hitter and former Garden City West High and University of Detroit baseball standout Tom Miner had a 2-run triple and scored three runs, leading Primo's Pizza to a 6-0 win over K&W Spraycoating to clinch the Livonia Modified Fastpitch Softball League title Aug. 18 at Ford Field.

Dave Mondoux added two hits for Primo's, which finished 12-3 in the league.

Hoop scoop: New coaches

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

What's new in Observerland girls basketball for the upcoming 1997 season? Four new coaches for starters.

Westland John Glenn (Joel Lloyd), Wayne Memorial (Matt Godfrey), Livonia Clarenceville (Rosie Marano) and Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (Allan Ruth) are all under new management.

The 30-year-old Lloyd, a 1985 Wayne graduate, has the biggest rebuilding task of the four.

He inherits a 1-21 team from Andy Denison, who resigned last November after going 5-36 in two seasons.

Lloyd, however, worked the past few seasons under one of Observerland's winningest coaches, Wayne Memorial's Chuck Henry.

Ironically, Henry, who guided the Wayne boys to two straight final four appearances in Class A, is stepping down after six seasons as girls coach of the Zebras.

Wayne's girls finished 18-6 a year ago under Henry, claiming a share of the Mega Conference-Red Division crown (with Trenton and Dearborn Fordson). The Zebras, led by first-team All-Observer guard Yalanda Holt, who is now at Bowling Green, also reached the Class A regional final before losing to Ann Arbor Pioneer.

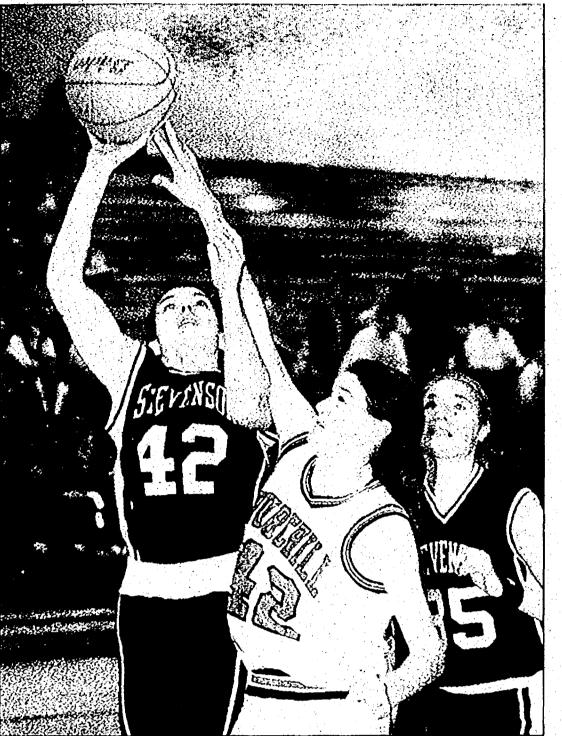

Henry's successor at Wayne is Riverview native Matt Godfrey. His junior varsity coach will be Henry's brother, Dan.

Dan Henry is the head coach for the Henry Ford Community College women's team, while Godfrey serves as his assistant.

At Clarenceville, Rosie Marano takes over for Bob Wolf.

The St. Clair Shores South Lake High product has made coaching stops at Mount Clemens, Hamtramck St. Florian and Hamtramck.

She played basketball, volleyball and ran indoor and outdoor track at Siena Heights: She is a graduate of Madonna University. And Marano, who teaches disabled students in Warren, is not afraid to lace up the sneakers and scrimmage with her players. Marano hopes to turn around a 4-18 Clarenceville season in 1996. Class D Huron Valley, a member of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, is stepping into the upper division against the likes of Oakland Christian, Southfield Christian and Plymouth Christian. The Hawks were 15-7 last year under coach and athletic director Tod Bartholomew, who stepped down from both positions. The A.D.'s chair at Huron Valley is currently being occupied by Grace Mattek. The basketball position has been filled by JV coach Allan Ruth, who will be assisted by his daughter, Michelle, a former Hawk player. The Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division once again will find Plymouth Canton (19-6), Northville and surprise WLAA playoff finalist Farmington Hills Harrison as the top dogs.

Gentz's 1997 outlook: "We're not particularly a big team or an experienced team. But one thing this team has that it hasn't had in recent years is speed, and hopefully I can get it headed in a positive direction. We have some good athletes, but that doesn't necessarily transform as far as basketball. I'm going to have to do my coaching in a different manner than I have in the past.

"We have to do more things on the defensive side of the coin. We have to get into a man advantage situation and take advantage of our speed. *Decker and Polkinghorne were spot starters for us last year. Schwecke is our most improved. If we can get her the ball, she could make some noise. She has played in shadow of. Janell (Twietmeyer), but while one door closes, the another opens for somebody like Anna. What we miss, I hope she picks up.

•Also, tryouts for the 1998 Mid-Michigan Yankee Rebels, a Little Caesars 10-and-under Willie Mays travel team, will be from 5-7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 14, 21 and 28 at the Canfield Community Center, located on Beech Daly, one block south of Ford Road in Dearborn Heights.

The team will play in 45 to 50 games, including two out-of-state tournaments.

For more information, call Bill Hardin at (313) 562-4667.

Baseball Instruction

The Bernie Carbo Pro Baseball School will hold individual and small group skill sessions in velocity improvement, power hitting and field.

champion, lost 5-11 first-team All-Observer forward Kristi Fiorenzi to graduation. She is now at Henry Ford

Two standout senior guards, however, in Melissa Marzolf (second-team) and Kristen Lukasik (third-team). Northville is led by Lauren Metaj, while Harrison will rely on first-team All-Area guard Amy Roble (14.4 points per game) and second-team All-Area guard Ari Ault.

Livonia Franklin (6-16), led by the veteran guard combination of Julie Warner and Lori Rynkiewicz, along with Livonia Churchill (5-16) and Walled Lake Western, hope to move up in the standings this season.

On the WLAA's Lakes side, Plymouth Salem welcomes back 6-1 senior Amanda Abraham, who averaged 11 points and eight rebounds, along with secondteam All-Area junior center Andrea Pruett.

Although another talented Rock frontliner, 5-10 junior Angie Sillmon, a second-team All-Area choice, opted not to return, Salem should be the favorite in Canton, a regional finalist and WLAA the Lakes because nemesis Walled Lake Central, minus All-Stater Becky Cummings (Michigan State), has graduated. Livonia Stevenson's Spartans (8-13) could make some noise from the Lakes side if some key players heal from injuries. Watch out for two underclassmen, junior Stephanie Dulz and freshman Lindsay Gusick.

In the Catholic League, Livonia Ladywood (5-16), a district champion, returns top scorer Sarah Poglits and a solid backcourt in Erin Hayden and Kelly Jeffrey.

But the schedule maker has not been kind to the Blazers, as second-year coach Andrea Gorski tries to figure out how to beat teams like defending Class A champion and Central Division rival Birmingham Marian, Class C power and divisional foe Redford Bishop Borgess, and state Class B defending champion Flint Powers (Thursday's opener).

It should be another interesting year as the girls basketball season is launched this week.

1997 Warriors in rebuilding process

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

The front lawn in front of Lutheran High Westland serves as makeshift practice field these days for the varsity football team.

With renovations taking place behind the school for a brand new soc-

Two of the leaders on the line are senior guards Mike Baltz (5-9, 173), a starter all last season, and Bob Fox (5-10, 166), the latter whom was injured in last year's opener and missed the entire year.

NATURE NOTES

TIM

As science learns more about the specific requirements of living organisms, man is putting his knowledge to work in creating habitats.

Wildlife biologists now know the food preferences of white-tailed deer, their need for browse that is not too high and the density of animals that produces a healthy NOWICKI herd. Considering the number of white-tailed deer in the state today, compared to years ago, wildlife biologists have obviously done a remarkable job.

While walking along some of the two miles of boardwalk at Wayne County's new Crosswinds Park (a wetland mitigated as a result of construction at Metro Airport), it looked like a very natural area. Plants like cattail and pickerel weed are growing in this wetland like they do in naturally occurring areas.

Scientists are familiar with naturally occurring wetland plants so they introduced them into the man-made areas to supplement natural seeding. This helps to reduce the invasion of alien plants like purple loosestrife and Phragmites that could become established easily.

Seeding the new wetland with bottom material from naturally occurring sites helps organisms necessary in the food chain become established. Small organisms that are the foundation for a wetland food chain are introduced with this kind of seeding. The turbid water will have to be cleared up before this can be effective.

If native plants indicative to the habitat are used and a foundation of small necessary aquatic organisms is added, there is a good chance the new habitat will be a successful substitute.

While at Crosswinds Park, the six sharp eyes of my comrades and my one good one spotted leopard frogs, a green frog, a wood frog and a gray tree frog that was green. Shorebirds were feeding, herons were wading in deeper water to feed, we were told an eagle hunts in the area and dragon flies patrolled the area for insects – all of these good signs of a successful system.

A mitigated wetland at Woodland Hills Preserve in Farmington Hills shows similar development into a healthy, diverse habitat made from the hands of man.

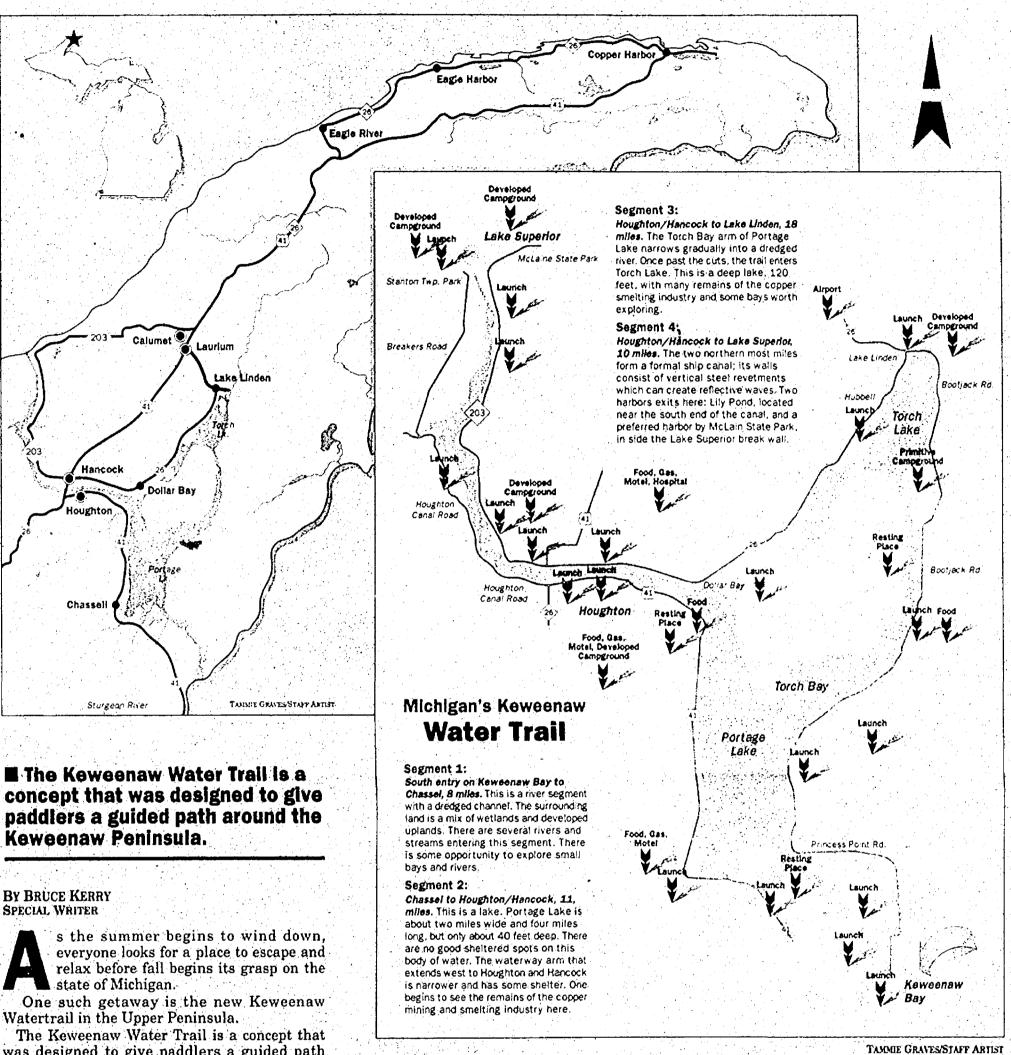

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

HARRISON

George Prybyla, longtime proprietor of Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park, handed the "key" over to the new ownership. Jim Strobl takes over the helm at this world-renowned bowling emporium.

For Prybyla, it was another milestone in his 57 years as a bowling proprietor. He is not actually retiring. He will stay on with the new regime and lend his guidance to assure that the facility will continue in its time-honored tradition.

Most readers probably don't know who George Prybyla is and George himself is not one to seek attention. But this man is a living legend and link with the past. From humble beginnings in Hamtramck to a position of respect throughout the bowling industry, he has "been there, done that."

This man has been a good friend to the likes of Andy Varipapa, Joe Norris, George Young (described by Prybyla as "the nicest guy in bowling"), Pete Carter, Buzz Fazio, Johnny Crimmins; Tony Lindermann, Eddie Lubanski and Harry Campbell.

Campbell spent many years managing the house with a special flair. Then there is Joe Paulus, one of the legendary bowlers who is a hall of famer as well as a partner at Thunderbowl Lanes.

Back in the 1950s, George was a heck of a bowler, averaging over 200. He had to make a tough decision, whether to be a bowler or a bowling alley owner. He certainly made the right choice, but over the years, he has been so busy running the business, there was rarely any time left for him to bowl.

Prybyla has left his mark here in any ways. He established the Greater Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame in the concourse of Thunderbowl. It is worth the trip for bowling fans or enthusiasts to walk in just to see this impressive display.

He has also given great support to the national Hall of Fame and Museum in St. Louis, for which he and Campbell have raised more than $45,000. He has helped raise more than $250,000 for various charitable causes throughout the Detroit area.

As George puts in, "Bowling has been real nice to me, it's a great pleasure to give something back."

Both of the Tuesday and Thursday All-Star leagues have dedicated their 63rd anniversary season to George Prybyla and that is quite an honor.

Also, during the opening ceremonies, the Dan Ottman team was presented with the Eagle, a trophy for winning the ABC National Tournament at Huntsville this spring. Ottman, a Troy resident, was recently elected to the Greater Detroit Bowling Association Hall of Fame, a sensational year for this most deserving representative of the sport of bowling.

Just to show that Thunderbowl is not exactly standing still, it recently announced a new tournament this season with $100,000 guaranteed for first and $50,000 for second place. It will be a handicap event on an individual basis. That is great news for all Detroit area bowlers and with handicap, anyone has chance to win some big money.

Roy Munson is not eligible to bowl in this event, even with his rubber hand. If you don't get my drift, then you did not see the movie "Kingpin."

was designed to give paddlers a guided path around the Keweenaw Peninsula. It allows them to have public areas to camp, rest and park their boats throughout the waterway.

The Portage Waterway Segment is completed, allowing paddlers to travel through the Keweenaw Peninsula.

After the completion of the other segments, paddlers will have the same access around the entire Keweenaw Peninsula.

The Portage Waterway Segment is 47 miles, extending from the south at Keweenaw Bay to the north to Lake Superior.

Segment 1 extends from the Keweenaw Bay to Chassell. There are many opportunities to explore in this segment. The surrounding lands have an abundance of wetlands and uplands as well as several rivers and streams.

there is no campground in this segment.

Segment 2 continues from Chassell to the Houghton/ Hancock area. This segment is primarily made up of Portage Lake. In this area, the copper mines that date from the middle of the 19th century can be seen.

Segment 3 backtracks a few miles and extends from Houghton and Hancock to Lake Linden, which sits on the north end of Torch Lake. There are abandoned copper mines and scenic coves to explore.

In addition, this segment offers a developed campground to rest and camp. Segment 4 continues from Houghton and Hancock and finishes the Watertrail at Lake Superior.

The Keweenaw Watertrail was designed by the Keweenaw Watertrail Association with assistance by the Rivers, Trails, and Conservation Assistance Program of the National Park Service. This program was established to help local communities outline and achieve recreation and conservation goals.

OUTDOOR NOTEBOOK

The comment came from a colleague. We were talking about the relative merits of a school superintendent. Standard grist for conversation at a newspaper.

Then came her response to my point of view. "You're not part of this world anymore, you've been out in the woods too much."

Her adept analysis got me thinking about the nights I spent this summer trying to find elusive beaver ponds where nobody else fished for brook trout. There have been many such nights when I've returned to my cabin mosquito-bitten and troutless.

There were nights in the early spring when frostbite was added to the mosquito problem. I would then ponder the question of why we have to live in a state where frostbite and mosquito bites are endured on the same day.

Our American-European culture offers few answers about why some people spend their time in such pursuits. To conform to that culture, some fishermen and hunters point to freezers full of meat to justify their time in the woods.

With my track record, I can't fall back on such a justification. That's why I've been drawn more and more into the ideas of Native Americans. They see the woods as a classroom that was filled 1. They have lost the ability to sit quietly, listen with spirits. Nature is the teacher. Learning how | and learn. to be alone in the woods teaches you courage. The Only in nature can we get back the senses that animals themselves teach us lessons on how to survive in the modern world.

For example, there's the elk. Michigan has a herd in the Pigeon River State Forest near Gaylord. I've seen them at times while fishing the Black and Pigeon Rivers.

They aren't as skittish as deer, and are two- to three-times larger. They aren't fast, but they do have endurance and the grace of a large animal. I think of them when I drive, they help me keep a steady, safe pace that gets me to where I'm going. They have taught me not to go to fast or too slow, but to move quickly but cautiously through traffić.

I explained my summer nights in the Upper Peninsula to Geo Fuhst, a Native American leader from Redford. His response was that most people spend time being entertained by things that make loud noises and that have flashing color.

His point comes from a classic Native American view of the world: People don't spend enough time in the woods listening to the sounds of the woods, birds and animals. Their senses have been deadened by constant exposure to television, traffic, computers and video games.

we've lost to the modern world. One night I was fishing the upper reaches of the Fox River in the Upper Peninsula with a companion. The fishing hadn't gone well. We had walked to a rarely fished spot, but weren't rewarded with any brook trout. We were miles from any campground, traveled road or town. There had been no manmade sounds during the entire evening.

That silence was broken by night hawks diving overhead. The birds made a sound seemingly as loud as a jet when they made their 90 degree turns. I ducked, feeling as though something was coming at me. My friend laughed. He said he hit the ground the first time he heard one.

He explained that the wings make a roaring sound when the bird turns in the air.

The thought of two, 200-pound, men hitting the ground in the middle of the woods at the sounds made by a small bird made me laugh. What a sight. But fear isn't funny. It's an instinct in our bodies that makes us aware of possible danger.

But in the face of danger, our real senses come alive and there's a nature-induced thrill. It's better than a roller coaster ride. And it makes me thankful that I'm not part of this world anymore,

Vacation home is good deal for many

Owning a vacation home offers some unique tax advantages. Understanding the tax implications of your purchase before you finalize it will help to ensure that your second home meets your personal and financial needs,

The extent to which you or family members use your vacation home determines whether tax law will treat your home as a personal vacation home, rental property or some combination of the two. The tax treatment of property used for both personal and rental use depends on how many days you use the property as a personal vacation retreat and how many days you rent it out.

For tax purposes, your second home is treated as a personal vacation home if the property is rented for less than 15 days during the year. A vacation home you use primarily for your personal enjoyment receives basically the same treatment as your primary residence.

You may deduct mortgage interest and property taxes as itemized deductions, but you may not deduct other expenses such as utilities and repairs. In fact, if you rent your home for less than 15 days, the rental income you collect is tax free. Once your rental days exceed 14, you must report the rental income you collect and keep track of the days you spend at your vacation home so you can allocate your expenses between rental use and personal use. For example, if your home is rentCrosswinds includes city living

Crosswinds Court, a platted residential subdivision in north central Livonia, offers a new house, all the amenities of a thriving community and the Livonia School District starting at $235,000.

The small development of 18 lots is off Six Mile between Merriman and Middlebelt. Leo Soave developed the site. Sons Marco and Michael will build on an alternating sales basis.

"The big thing is the quality we put in the homes," Michael said: "My father has been building in Livonia for 30 years."

"I think we give people a top-quality home in the heart of Livonia that's still a reasonable price," Marco said.

Brian and Jim Duggan, owners of American Classic Realty, will sell the site.

"People want Livonia services and amenities," Jim said.

"We're one of the safest cities in the nation," Brian said. "School districts are good."

"Livonia has done nothing but appreciate," Jim added.

The city also is known for its parks, municipal golf courses, libraries, historical village and excellent freeway access to all compass points.

The Brothers Soave offer four floor plans at Crosswinds Court.

They range in price from $235,000 for a 2,100-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $269,000 for a colonial of 2,550 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2baths.

Two Cape Cods with a first-floor master suite also are available.

The three-bedroom plan, 2,000 square feet, carries a base price of $239,000, a four-bedroom, 2,400 square feet, $254,000. Both also contain 2-1/2 baths.

A fireplace, two-car garage, first-floor aundry, dishwasher and b included at base price in all plans. Also included in the standard package are ceiling fans in the great room and master, a carpeting allowance of $1 per square foot and a $250 lighting allowance. The ranch plan is under construction as a sales model. The main living area features a great room with cathedral ceiling and an angled fireplace, a library and the kitchen/nook. The only entrance into and out of the small sub, defined by a couple of cul-desacs, is off Six Mile. "No through traffic makes it safer for kids, less noise," Jim Duggan said.

Crosswinds Court is serviced by city water and sewers. It will have sidewalks.

The property tax rate currently is $31.71 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $250,000 house would pay about $4,000 the first year.

Rental properties receive more a favorable tax treatment. For your vacation home to qualify as rental property, your personal use must not exceed the longer of 14 days or 10 percent of the total number of days your vacation home is rented.

You still allocate your expenses between business and personal use, just as you would if the home qualified as a residence. But, in this case if your rental property shows a loss, and your adjusted gross income is less than $100,000, you may be able to deduct up to $25,000 of rental losses a year against salary. (If your income exceeds $10,000, the $25,000 deduction for business losses start to phase out. It disappears entirely when your income tops $150,000).

To qualify for this deduction, you must actively manage the property. You're considered an active manager if you make management decision such as approving new tenants or authorizing repairs.

Rental income can help you afford the vacation home you've always wanted, but, in most cases, you shouldn't count on rental revenue to carry the full cost of owning a vacation home.

Before you decide to buy, you should make a realistic assessment of the revenue you can expect to get from renting your home. Don't take the broker's or seller's word for it; do your own homework. Keep in mind that, in most areas, the prime rental period is limited to just a few months and, during those months, you'll have plenty of competition.

If you're buying your vacation home primarily as an investment, you'll want to be sure your purchase makes good financial sense. If you determine that the income from your rental property won't be enough to cover your carrying costs, you'll need to decide if the anticipated growth in your property's value will offset your losses, or else whether you might do better investing your money elsewhere.

Keep in mind that another investment may not provide you with the enjoyment you can derive from a vacation home.

Some taxpayers find that the rent they collect, when added to their personal enjoyment, makes the investment, worthwhile, if not profitable.

Keep garden tools sharp for best results

By READER'S DIGEST BOOKS FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

If you want your garden shears and clippers to make cuts without crushing the stems of plants, you need to keep them sharp, clean and lubricated.

What to use

To sharpen blades that are not made of hardened steel, use a fine or medium-fine single-cut flat file. For hardened steel blades; use a file or a small flat sharpening stone.

Buy a combination stone with a fine grit

Don't forget to wear safety goggles when you work at a bench grinder. Never remove the metal wheel guards; they protect you.

on one side and a medium grit on the other. Spread a little light machine oil on each of the surfaces. After use, store the stone in a box to keep it from getting clogged with dirt.

Basics

To sharpen a blade, study the original bevel and maintain its angle. Don't rock the file or blade from side to side – that can damage the edge.

After sharpening, gently rub the stone or file along the flat side of the blade (the side without the bevel) to remove burrs metal that curves under during sharpening or with use.

Pruning shears

Scissors-type pruning shears have a sharp, curved upper blade that cuts as it passes by a curved lower hook. Anvil-type pruning shears have a sharp, straight upper blade that cuts against a flat lower surface. To restore the cutting edge on curved scissors-type pruning shears, separate the blades if possible. Remove the pivot bolt, pry off the lock switch with a screwdriver and remove the pin. Wrap cardboard around the handle and secure it in a vise. If the blades cannot be separated, secure the cardboard-wrapped handle in a vise. In either case, use a file or a small stone to sharpen the cutting blade, moving it from the pivot end toward the tip of the blade in a single motion. Gently file off any burrs.

Anvil-type pruning shears cannot be taken apart. Instead, secure the cardboard-wrapped handle in a vise, allowing the blades to spring open. Move a file or small stone in a sweeping motion along the bevel of the cutting edge, maintaining the original angle of the bevel.

Hedge and grass shears

Hedge and grass shears have two cutting blades. If possible, disassemble the shears. To do so, you may have to hold the nut steady to remove the bolt. Draw one blade at a time across a flat, sharpening stone. Follow the angle of the original bevel.

When reassembling, lightly oil the pivot bolt and tighten it until the blades close with a slight drag. If the bolt has a spring, tighten the bolt until the best cutting is achieved.

If hedge or grass shears cannot be disassembled, grip one blade at a time in a vise. Use cardboard to protect the blade.

Sharpen the blade along the original bevel with a smooth single-cut file or small stone. Hold the file or stone perpendicular to the cutting edge. Use straight pulling strokes, working from the pivot end to the tip without any side-to-side movement.

If a cutting blade is badly nicked or very dull, reshape it on an electric bench grinder before sharpening it. Avoid ruining the blade's temper by letting it get too hot to touch - dip it in water frequently. Hold the blade to the wheel with your bare hands so that you can feel when the blade gets warm.

Common sense measures for safe use of pesticides

BY DR. LEWIS NELSON N.Y.U. MEDICAL CENTER

AP - A lush green lawn can be a homeowner's pride and joy. But keeping a pestfree lawn may require using potentially toxic chemicals that must be handled carefully to prevent accidental poisonings.

The most common toxic chemicals used to kill unwanted pests are known as organophosphates and carbamates.

These chemicals are often available in hardware stores, supermarkets and plant stores. But just because organophosphates are available in familiar settings does not mean they are safe.

Here are some protective measures to take when using these materials.

■ Safety begins in the store. Before you buy an insecticide, read the label carefully. Bear in mind that many of the chemicals are packaged as concentrates that are meant to be diluted before being used in sprayers. Consider the weather conditions before spraying your lawn. Do not spray on a windy day. A gust of wind can blow the chemicals back into your face where they can be inhaled.

Avoid spraying on a hot day since high temperatures can cause these chemicals to vaporize into the air.

Avoid contact with skin by wearing protective clothing: long pants, long-sleeve shirts, closed shoes, a hat, gloves and eyeglasses. If your skin comes in contact with the material, stop spraying immediately, wash the area thoroughly and change your clothes. In any case, you should change and launder your clothes after spraying pesticides.

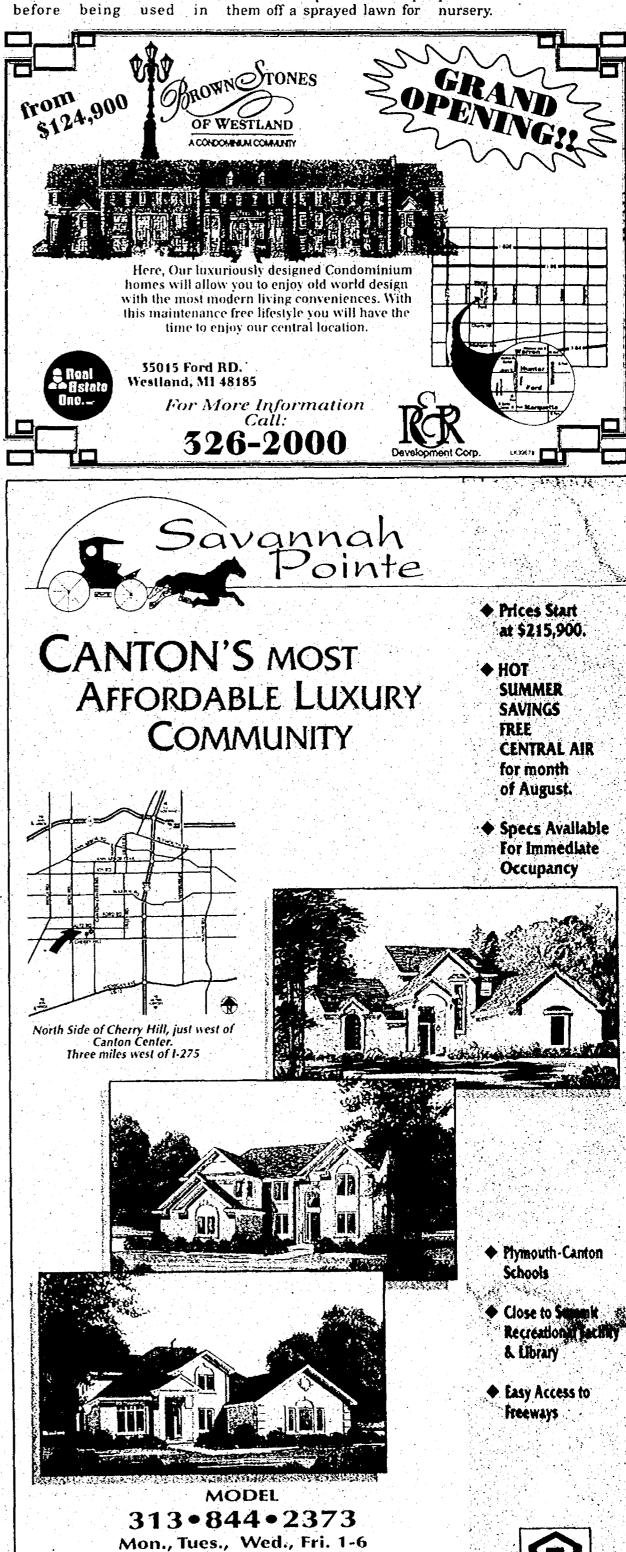

■ Never smoke, eat or drink while applying these chemicals. They can get into the air and land on a drink, sandwich or cigarette and be ingested or inhaled.

Do not spray around children or pets and keep them off a sprayed lawn for several days. Young children, are especially prone to dangerous exposure because they breath faster than adults and are likely to play or lie on the grass.

■ Many people use "organic" insecticides in the mistaken belief that chemicals termed "natural" are saferthan organophosphates. But some of the natural chemicals such as nicotine, can be just as toxic as organophosphates.

Those who want to use a less toxic form of lawn insecticide may select one that contains derivatives of. chrysanthemums known as pyrethrins and pyrethroids. These can, however, cause allergic reactions in those.

Finally, be sure to store all insecticides in their original containers and keep them in a cool dry area out of reach of children. And if you have any questions, contact the manufacturer, nearby poison-control center or local nursery.

Sick in Michigan

Michigan residents are sicker than those in most other states. In its "Review of the Health Status of Michigan's Citizens," the Michigan State Medical Society examined the numbers related to smoking, obesity, cancer and 11 other factors affecting Michigan people and notes how these factors impact the cost of health care.

MEDICAL

This study is intended to help physicians and community leaders understand the challenges Michigan's health care system faces, and the factors affecting health care costs.

"Chronic disease, lifestyle choices, health promotion and prevention, and substance abuse need to be address in relation to cost as Michigan continues to examine its health care system," said Dr. Rhoda M. Powsner, M.D., chairwoman of the MSMS Task Force on Health Status Data.

"Michigan is spending billions of dollars per year on diseases directly related to obesity and sedentary lifestyle, tobacco use and substance abuse," Powsner said. "These lifestyle choices affect health and increase the cost of insurance for preventable diseases."

Children's health is another area in which Michigan does not compare favorably to the rest of the nation, according to the MSMS study. Michigan ranks in the bottom half of states in infant mortality, teen pregnancy and immunizations, although the immunization rate has been improving.

In 1994, the poverty rate of Michigan's children was 18.6 percent, making Michigan the 32nd poorest state. Children from low-income homes often depend on emergency room visits as their usual source of health care, an expensive way to access care. For information on the study, contact Julie Lester, manager, Health Care Research at MSMS, (517) 336-5768. The report, which will be used to educate physicians, patients, lawmakers, employers and the health care industry, is available online at http://www.msms.org.

More and more doctors are looking at the power of prayer as good medicine for their patients. Surveys show that more than 90 percent of women and 80 percent of men pray regularly, according to a leading expert on the subject, Dr. Larry Dossey, in his book, "Prayer Is Good Medicine." In fact, more than 130 documented studies by scientists showed that prayer can be potent, even if the patient doesn't know about the prayers.

One study by Randolph Byrd involved 393 patients in the coronary care unit of San Francisco General Hospital. Prayer groups around the country prayed for patients in one group and not the other. Except for prayers, all patients received the same treatments. And no one involved knew who was in each group.

Byrd learned that the patients who were prayed for did significantly better in a number of areas than patients in the other group. HELEN FURCEAN / STAFF ARTIST effect is that prayer can calm and quiet people who are anxious and worried about whatever is happening," according to the Rev. Tom Burdette, University of Michigan Health System staff chaplain, ordained in the United Methodist Church. "I can literally watch someone's tension ease by the sheer act of offering prayer. Does the impact of prayer prove the existence of God? I can't say that. It's always going to be a matter of faith."

Burdette, however, pointed to another recent study by the University of California-Los Angeles where a group of people were given patients' names. The findings, again, were that the patients who were unknowingly prayed for had a faster rate of recovery than those who didn't have prayers.

Answered prayers

Burdette was helping a family prepare for the death of a critically ill infant. "The baby ended up living and going home with little or no deficits from the problems he had at birth," he said. "The neurologist said he had no explanation except the power of prayer."

Burdette added, however, that he would never advocate the idea of faith healing or that faith should replace modern medicine. "There's an old Hebrew concept of body and soul as one," he added. "What happens to us physically has an affect on our spiritual well being and vice versa."

Vaccine research

Could a genetically-engineered vaccine to fight prostate cancer be on the horizon? A University of Michigan researcher believes a new clinical trial using a combination of gene therapy and hormone therapy, now under way at the U-M Comprehensive Cancer Center, will go a long way toward answering that question.

Dr. Martin Sanda, M.D., assistant professor of urology and oncology, has begun a trial to test the safety and biological effects of a vaccine for men in whom prostate cancer recurs after a radical prostatectomy.

The test vaccine is a geneticallyengineered version of the smallpox vaccine, called "prostvac," in which a prostate specific gene has been inserted to target the immune system against prostate cancer cells. The hope is that the vaccine will encourage the growth of T-lymphocyte cells that will recognize and kill the prostate cancer cells.

The Phase I/II study is one of three nationwide currently looking at the vaccine, but Sanda says the U-M trial is unique because it is targeting the genetic therapy at early states of prostate cancer. "This is a novel approach to develop a new cancer therapy in early disease before it has been evaluated in preterminal advanced cancer," Sanda said.

He pointed out that with advances in screening prostate cancer, most new cases are early forms of the disease, so it makes sense to target early treatment.

Sanda expects to enroll 21 to 24 men in the study. Each patient must: have had a radical prostatectomy; have had a rising prostate-specific antigen level after surgery, which may indicate that the cancer is growing again; and have prostate cancer in an early enough stage to respond to hormone therapy, which uses various hormones to try and stop the growth of the cancer.

The patients will receive the vaccination one week after their last hormone therapy. They will then be tested weekly for the first six to eight weeks and monthly after that. Sanda and his co-investigators will measure PSA levels and look for tumor markers and lymphocyte response.

Those interested in participating should call the University of Michigan's Cancer AnswerLine at 1-800-865-1125 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Dr. Bill McLaughlin, Providence Hospital associate chairman-radiation oncology, is blazing trails locally by heading a drive to open a full-service cancer center with a significant part of the space committed to addressing the spiritual dimension of cancer care. It's scheduled to open in the spring of 1999 in Novi.

"It's hard to include this in the care of patients even though we know it . can be very healing and important to them," he said. "Admittedly, it's easy to offend patients in a multi-religious culture. We're trying to appeal to a wide variety and offer various forums, like art, prayer and therapeutic methods, for patients to address the spiritual and psychological crisis that often attends the diagnosis of cancer."

Mind-body connection

There's an interconnection of spirit and mind just now being explored, McLaughlin said. As a cancer specialist, he treats a broad spectrum of patients from those who have no formal religion to others who have strong faith. No matter what, their foundations are always shaken by cancer.

"I hear constantly from patients I would never get through this without my faith," he said. "It is rare for me to hear of people praying to be cured or praying for a miracle. They are praying for the strength to endure gracefully and come what may. It's a deep honest searching coming to peace. It's extremely rare to find a bitter, rageful, angry person to the end."

People who don't pray and don't have a religion are groping within themselves and are tapping on an inner-self or spirit, he added. "There are so many visions and ideas of what prayer is," he said. "People are in tremendous pain and turmoil spiritually and physically and for whatever reason they work it out."

The cancer center will offer a forum where this deep reckoning within oneself is recognized as a critical part of the problem. "I basically created this from thousands of questions from 'What is cancer?' to 'What happens when you die?' " he added.

Area hospital chaplains also point to how the process of prayer eases tension by giving your problem over to a greater being. "The most common The Rev. Kurt Stutz, Botsford Hospital chaplain, said in some ways prayer and science walk hand in hand, because they both involve faith. For instance, scientists have faith if you do the right things in the right way you will find certain answers, like drugs for illnesses. Prayer can also result in unexpected answers.

"Sometime a benefit can be death if someone is really sick and people are praying for that person to leave their suffering," Stutz said. "Sometimes what we pray for we don't necessarily get what we expect."

Like Burdette, Stutz says he also sees benefits from the process of praying. "I can say I've seen people become more comforted and at peace within themselves," he said, adding that he has also seen tangible results.

"Tve heard stories from people who say that when they were praying for certain things, like a pain in the back, that it would go away," he added.

A surgeon told Burdette a story about a time he was in surgery. There was a lot of bleeding and he didn't know where it originated. The surgeon asked God to lead him and shortly after the prayer the bleeding stopped. "It's hard to say whether it would have done it on his own," Stutz said.

"It's a mysterious land to be in."

Some people only use prayer to get them out of trouble. Others use it as a sense of confidence that no matter what they face during the day they feel protected. Others envision God as a friend who they can talk to periodically and it gives them a sense of comfort – there's a peace within.

"I know a number of physicians who say that prayer is a part of healing just as using other methods, like surgery," Stutz said. "You use it all. I think that's a healthy attitude."

McLaughlin said personally he believes that "life is a miracle" even from a scientific point of view when you understand childbirth and complexity of life. "It's miraculous every minute, but we don't know it," he said. "We don't see it, we get in a humdrum existence. Prayer is an attempt to remind ourselves that this is magnificent."

Expert says air bags can't do job alone

BY DR. ANTHONY ARENA SPECIAL WRITER

"An air bag takes another young life," laments a polished anchorwoman on the local TV nightly news. Is it sensationalism or responsible reporting? Stories such as these definitely help ratings, but for the public it's buyer beware. Broadcasts such as these have actually sent panicked car owners to their local auto dealers to have their air bags dismantled. Are such rash measures warranted?

data, air bags are effective in preventing fatalities in 11 percent of all crashes; 31 percent in purely frontal crashes, and 19 percent in all frontal crashes.

Based on the 11 percent overall figure, they have saved 1,198 lives between 1987 and 1995, with 475 lives saved in 1995 alone. With an increase in the number of installed passenger side air bags from 1.4 million in 1993 to 21.6 million in 1996 (and with new federal motor vehicle requirements mandating them in light trucks by the year 1999) this life-saving trend can only be expected to continue.

In other cases, it's complacency rather than panic, that consumers experience. Thanks in part to creative advertising, such as the TV commercial that displayed survivors' high speed, head-on collisions seemingly unscathed, many of us have come to regard air bags as a convenient excuse to forget about the restraint belts once and for all. Yet statistics paint a different picture.

The problems

With all the hoopla generated by the media, we have forgotten to ask an important question: What is the risk/benefit of air bags? It is certainly true that serious injuries and, in fact several fatalities have been blamed on air bag deployment. And minor abrasions and ocular (eye) injuries are common. In one study, 96.1 percent of all injuries were classified as minor, with facial injuries accounting for 42 percent followed by the wrists, forearm and chest.

Most of us would agree, however, that recovering from a broken arm beats death any day. In truth, many of the injuries associated with air bags are seen in those who might not have survived without them.

Some of the most common injuries reported from air bag deployment are eye injuries. Corneal abrasions are most common and are usually not serious. More serious injuries reported include retinal detachment and corneoscleral laceration. Apart from the risk/benefit cost analysis issue, the most pressing concern for those of us in health care, research, and public health fields are the fatalities directly attributable to air bag deployment.

Most of these, paradoxically, have occurred at low speeds where air bag deployment would not have been necessary. The most frequent picture is that of a female driver of short stature who has adjusted her care seat in a far forward position.

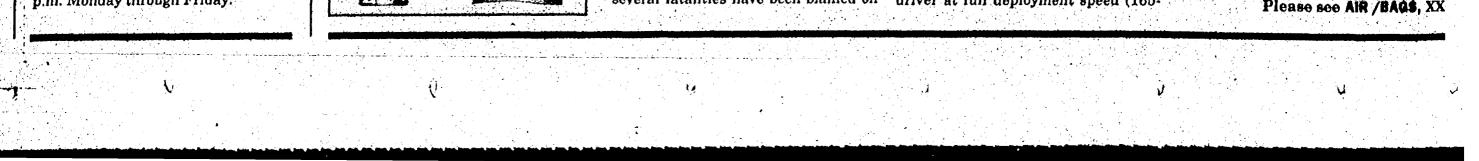

When the bag deploys, it strikes the driver at full deployment speed (165-210 mph) resulting in violent forces through the spine, often causing severe hyperextension (whiplash of the neck). Most deaths have been instantaneous, with fracture through the back of the head and traumatic rupture of the spinal cord or lower portion of the brain. And finally the deaths that have stirred the greatest controversy are the infants and children killed by the deploying passenger side air bag.

Possible solutions

Due to the high cost of air bag replacement and the injuries reported in children, TRW and other companies have developed sensors that will allow more sophisticated air bag systems ("smart air bag") to determine whether the passenger seat is occupied. If not the air bag is deactivated. This saves greatly on needless replacement repair bills.

Future child seats will have onboard transmitters that will emit a signal to deactivate the passenger side air bag. However, for parents driving cars with no rear seats, NHTSA continues to allow manual deactivation of these air bags. Be aware that doing so may present unique liability issues in the event that an adult passenger is injured.

This same sensor system will also determine the size, seating position, and proximity to the air bag of drivers and passengers and will allow controlled deployment of the air bag for those in close proximity. As pointed out earlier, deployment thresholds in low speed collisions will also have to be more carefully regulated so that air bags will activate only in crash situations in which their added contribution can be balanced against the risk of air bag-induced injuries.

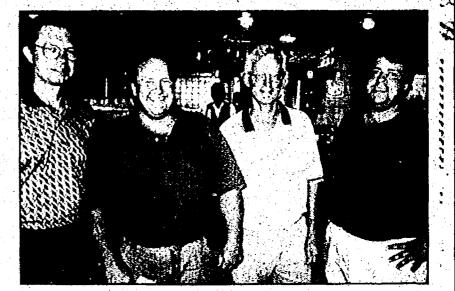

Meanwhile, as a public health service, physicians can advise their patients to make sure that all children ride in approved child seats and are wearing appropriate restraint devices for all trips, emphasizing that the Department back seat is the best place for kids. Infants in rear-facing child seats should never be placed in the front seat of a car with an activated passenger side air bag.

Strong managerial and professional hiring ahead

By Sheryl Silver, Career Source

A recent survey forecasts continued strength in the hiring of mid-management and professional level personnel for a broad array of industries.

The survey is the latest in a series of semiannual hiring projection surveys conducted by Management Recruiters International (MRI), an Ohio-headquartered firm with several offices in the Atlanta area. According to the survey, 52.5 percent of the 4,900 executives surveyed plan to increase their mid-to upper management and professional ranks. This projection comes on the heels of the 49.6 percent increase projected for the first half of 1997

Of the latest projections, Alan R. Schonberg, president of MRI, said, "These new hire projections are the highest we've seen in more than 16 years of polling. I believe they are a true reflection of today's economy. Opportunities have never been greater for managers and professionals, and in my opinion, there are not yet any signs of diminishment out there."

Although the percentage of executives forecasting additional hiring was highest in the MidAtlantic region at 59.9 percent, hiring projections were over 45 percent for all regions of the country. Commenting on the regional data, Schonberg said, "What stands out most significantly is that the employment situation is strong in every region of the country. There is literally no weak spot."

Planned hiring appears to be strong in a broad cross section of industries as well. Telecommunications and information technology executives forecast the highest levels of new hires at 74.7 percent and 70.5 percent respectively. Not far behind were the pharmaceutical, construction and retail trade industries where over sixty percent of the companies surveyed projected increased hiring of management and professional level staff. Even industries farther down the list are planning relatively high levels of increased hiring; from financial services to health care, more than forty percent of the executives in twelve other industries, reported plans to add management and professional staff during the next six months.

Of these findings, Schonberg said, "An-industry increase of even 40 percent is a buoyant increase. With but three exceptions, we range from that substantial level to almost 75 percent in the telecommunications industry." Reflecting on the pace and intensity of hiring generally in the information technology (IT) arena, Schonberg added, "What is going on today in the entire information technology arena is not to be believed. It is a frenzied area with tens of thousands of unfilled positions."

SUNDAY, AUGUST 24, 1997

Larry Cooper, general manager of the corporate office of MRI and Sales Consultants of Atlanta, is seeing the same trends highlighted by the survey in the positions he's being asked to fill. "Demand right now is better than we've ever seen it," said Cooper. "The problem now isn't finding enough job orders. It's finding enough qualified candidates to fill all the positions we have."

Matt Albanese, president of MRI of Glendora, California specializes in recruiting logistics and supply chain management personnel. Albanese says he's seen consistently high demand in that field across a broad range of industries for the last eighteen months. "In fact, we've seen a wave developing," he said. "First you start seeing growth in the hiring of engineering and lower manage. ment staff. Now, we're seeing that wave moving toward middle and upper management."

Albanese also noted that MRI colleagues around the country who recruit for other fields have told him this is the strongest hiring trend they've seen in ten years.

As to what's fueling the hiring, Cooper commented, "Companies feel confident about" growing and companies that slimmed down are now hiring. Some demand is also coming from start-up companies, particularly in the technology area."

With qualified candidates hard to come by in many industries, Cooper added, "Highskilled candidates are worth more now than they ever have been." Indeed, he says salaries are on the rise for those with proven records of success in their fields.

Work Wise[®]: Humor contributes to management effectiveness

By Mildred L. Culp, Passage Media Office cut-ups, appearing adolescent or childish, rarely gain respect because of their obvious insecurity. But managers with a non-offensive sense of humor can go a long way in the workplace, according to research by Wayne Decker, Professor of Management at Perdue School of Business, Salisbury State University, Salisbury, Maryland. Analysis of 359 questionnaires returned from 217 men and 135 women (7 didn't mention their gender) of the Business School's alums reflected that, both for men and women, humor contributes to effective management. Decker discovered that, among the alums, men used humor more than women. They seemed to have a greater sense of humor, enjoying and telling jokes of all kinds-non-offensive, insulting or sexual. Men also seemed to respond to various forms of humor more than women did. They laughed more at humor in advertisements, disparaging remarks against enemies, insulting jokes and sexual jokes. In the arena of racist and sexist humor, men didn't become offended as easily as women did.

Does this mean that women tend to be overly sensitive or humorless? No. They just laugh at "nonsense or absurd humor," as well as self-deprecating remarks. However, women 25 years old and older apparently didn't like the use of sexual humor by supervisors, but younger women and men didn't seem to mind. Overall, male supervisors seemed to create environments with more humor, often discussing information about work with humor.

Humor may not appear to have a role in today's fast-paced workplace, because it can be viewed as a time-waste. However, studies have shown that humor contributes to good health. It reduces stress, gives a breather from pressing issues, even provides perspective on sometimes difficult, complex issues. In other words, nonoffensive humor improves health.

Offensive humor can be another matter. Sexist or racist jokes can get you and your employer in trouble, even if the recipient isn't offended. (Someone else may be.) In addition, such jokes cloud over the workplace, perpetuating a tradition of denigrating others at their own expense.

Clearly, humor has its place at work. Decker's research showed that it's particularly beneficial to women supervisors, who are perceived as better leader if they use it. Overall, however, it or employee, you can clearly improve your prospects at work if you use humor. People will enjoy working with you more; they'll feel that they, too, can brighten the atmosphere when it needs it; and you'll be diminishing the stress level of everyone around you.

The safest jokes you can tell are ones aimed at yourself rather than another person, who may be overly sensitive and may find your humor offensive, one particularly overscheduled and frequently tardy business owner opens every meeting by referring to himself as "The Late Mr. X." The remark always gets a chuckle and defuses tension

Marshall Hryciuk of Toronto's MHW Distribution, a book distribution company, said that self-deprecating humor have little sense of humor about themselves, because they identify too closely with what they think, believe and possess." They also lack self-confidence.

But beware of using this kind of humor if you haven't established your competence with the people at work, either because you're new at the organization or working on a new project that is overwhelming you. You don't want people to or woman. Remarks that jab can put other people off. However, if someone stabs you inoffensively, take this as an opportunity to depersonalize the humor. Focusing humor on work can redirect the sword before the situation becomes unruly.

Not all humor has to be spoken. But be careful about silent imitations of people. What you may think humorous, another may not, imitating a person can drawn a wedge between the two of you when you were really trying to cement a relationship.

If the last time you told a funny story or a joke was a year ago, or if you habitually tell jokes that other people don't "get" or think corny, look around for someone with an excellent sense of humor to emulate. Then, practice. Join Toastmasters, where you can be open about your inability to communicate with humor, and receive slid feedback as your skill improves, you may find that just being in comfortable surrounds brings out the sense of humor you thought you didn't have.

At Work:

By Lindsey Novak Tribune Media

Q: I'm in my mid-30s and have been in the work force for 18 years. I recently took the plunge and quit my job to go back to school full-time for a master's degree in management information systems. I can complete my degree in one and a half years by going full-time, compared to the four years it would take me going part-time at night. I had balanced going to night school for my bachelor's degree in public accounting with my job, family life and social life for so long I couldn't continue living like that.

What are employers' likely perceptions of someone my age leaving the work force to complete a master's degree?

A: Furthering your education is never a waste of time if it's in your area of interest and it's what you want to do rather than what you think you should do. People leave jobs to return to school at all ages, as I'm sure you saw at night school. Your areas of interest are practical and very marketable. As for your age, on your return to the work force, you will still be in your mid-30s.

POTENTIAL EMPLOYER EXPOSES WORKER'S JOB SEARCH

Q. I've been selling commodities on a commission-vs.-draw arrangement for several years. Due to changes in the marketplace, the majority of my business is gone and it has been difficult to compete from a cost position: Although the owner has tried to be optimistic, he stopped my draw and I have been put on commission only. I sent out many resumes, including one to a friendly competitor. That company contacted the sale manager. and owner of my company without first calling or interviewing me regarding the position. The owner of my company befame. quite upset with me and I feel my position is in jeopardy. Isn't there a code of ethics that a company must follow regarding contacting current employers?

A job for school is an educated risk

A: There are several issues here. First, your boss is naive to think you would not look for a job after stopping your draw in a slow market. Talk to him about your new financial arrangement and ask if he thinks the loss of sales are caused by your performance or by demand drying yup. He may have been faced with either stopping your draw or letting you go.

be a salary Commissions should equal and normally exceed a draw. Unless a product requires long-term developing of clients to complete sales, a company can only carry a salesperson for a short period of time when he stops bringing in business. It's likely that your company's competitors will want the same straight commission arrangement if your lost business is due solely to the industry slowing down.

Third, an employer calling your current employer without your permission is unprofessional and unethical, regardless of AtWorkbyLN@AOL.com

Second, a draw is not meant to whether the two owners knew. each other, which may be the case in such a tight-circle indus. try.

(*)3H

When you "shotgun" resumes to companies, state clearly in your cover letter that your job search is confidential. Unfortunately, this doesn't mean that all employers will respect your request, as there are always a few bad apples in every bushel. Having problems on the job?

Potholes in the road to work-at-home success

By Alice Bredin, Tribune Media

For years I have encouraged my husband to start a home-based business, and now he has. He finally found a great idea, quit his job and set up an office upstairs from mine.

So far, so good. He likes the lifestyle change because even though he is working very hard, he has more time to exercise and we spend more time together than when he left the house for work at 7:30 a.m. and returned at 7 p.m. Also, for the first timein a long time, he is learning a lot from his work. The irony is, I am learning a lot in the process too.

I am learning by getting a reminder of the challenges of starting up a home-based busi-with the start-up process, seeing him go through all of the steps demonstrates to me how many pitfalls exist in the start-up phase.

Luckily. Stu has avoided making any fatal mistakes and has probably made less than his share of inevitable errors so far. Whenever he does stumble, I remind him that mistakes are part of running a business and he should get used to it.

To help you avoid some of the potholes in the road to establishing a business. Stu has said it's OK to share his mistakes.

• Spending money on an idea before it is formed. Most business ideas evolve significantly from their first incarnation. Stu's was no exception. He devised an idea last spring, and ness. While I am very familiar the business he runs today is an offshoot of that idea. His mistake was spending money on focus groups to investigate his original idea. A better approach would have been top first spend a few months investigating the market to ensure the idea was sound.

> •A tendency to have too many face-to-face meetings. Because of his extensive corporate work experience, my husband has a tendency to want to schedule meetings. His natural instinct is to meet all vendors face-to-face and to set up other appointments. Gradually he has learned that when you work at home, most meetings require you to travel outside of the office. These meetings are extremely time consuming, and he has already become more ruthless with his time.

Wanting to incorporate too early. Luckily, we averted this one. Stu incorporated only last week now that his company direction is established and focused. He wanted to incorporate in spring, which would most likely have been a waste of money because his idea and company name have changed since then.

•Printing stationary before his incorporation was final. He was very through in his investigation of trademarks to determine if the name he wanted was available nationally. He also did some local searches to see if any other New York companies were operating under the name he chose.

Having gotten the clear from several sources, Stu had his stationary printed while his incorporation was still in process. Unfortunately, a small company in upstate New York is incorporated using the name he just spent $2,000 printing on his stationary.

•Spending too much time at his desk. Stu has already adopted some classic work-at-home tendencies. After dinner he often heads for the office, and weekend days are often designated for work time.

•Wanting to overuse an attorney. Having come from an environment in which he had legal resources at his fingertips, Stu wants to use the services of his attorney frequently. I have told him stories of how legal bills add up quickly and have encouraged him to use the attorney's time sparingly and do so as much as possible himself until his cash flow is positive.

Like any other home-based business owner. Stu's minor ' foibles don't mean he won't be successful or that he is not cut out to be a home-based entrepreneur. It just means that, like any other entrepreneur, he will make many mistakes. learn from some of them and hopefully have fun along the way.

Grand Prix delivers excitement

By Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

Approaching it in the parking lot, it invites you. Its aggressive, wide stance tells you no, screams at you -- we're going to have a lot of fun here. And fun I had in this 1997 Pontiac Grand Prix.

It's all new this year. The funny thing about it is that it was a great car last year. And, obviously, it's even better this year.

I have to say I was taken aback by the pricetag of the Grand Prix GT: Just under $23,000. But if you want fun, power, response and this kind of comfort, you've got to go with the GT version of Grand Prix.

I hate to repeat what the automakers say about their products. But with the GT, this is true excitement.

Let's start with what's under the hood. No scrimping here, that's for sure. The 3.8-liter 3800 series II V-6, mated to a 4-speed automatic transmission, is a dream to drive. It steps up to the plate, nails it, and you're sailing over left field and outta the ballpark before you know it.

I didn't drive the supercharged version of the 3.8 liter, which gives you 240 horses. The 3800 series I drove only had a measly 195 horsepower. But it didn't disappoint me in the least.

The 1997 Grand Prix GT with its' "wide track" stance is really appealing. Its' lowered hood line really makes you feel like you're in a small juicy sports car.

quick enough to maybe get me in trouble. Thank heaven it didn't.

And the surprising thing about all this is that the GT I drove was the sedan -- not the two-door coupe.

drive.

Let's get to the interior. Never mind that the cockpit centers around the driver, the one who matters the most in the car. Never mind that its backlit red instrumentation is quite a sight on a warm summer night.

All controls are large enough for a gorilla to use. Everything is angled toward the driver. There's a "driver whether your tires are inflated to the And the lock and unlock buttons proper pressure.

It'll also tell you if the traction control system is on, whether the door or trunk is open and whether you need additional washer fluid or Regardless, this is a fun car to an oil change. I wonder if the next Grand Prix will fix you a sandwich.

The bucket seats are oh, so comfy. Even the rear bench seats are comfortable. There's a center console storage area that can hide a six pack - maybe even 8 - without a problem.

I did have one complaint. The keyfob is designed to unlock and lock the doors, as well as the trunk. There information center" that tells you also is a little red button for a panic in four packages of buns, two large just about everything you need to alarm. were a pain as well because they wouldn't do their job on the first push. It seemed like it had a brain hiccup or something.

Speaking of the trunk, it's large. How large? Well, on a family outing, it carried a crock pot, a laundry basket full of goodies, two fairly large coolers, an oversized duffle bag full of bathing suits, towels and clothes and two Pyrex lasagna-sized dishes.

Lo and behold, I was many miles from home when it hit me that I forgot the hotdog buns on the kitchen table. So I flew into the nearest Meijer in Canton Township, where I put clearance bathing suits — and I still had plenty of room. The cargo net came in real handy for the crock pot full of baked beans.

I've got to mention the rear seat passthrough. That allows the center of the rear seat to come down in case you have - oh, I don't know - a pair of skis or something else just as long to transport. While the seat is down, two people can comfortably sit in the rear seats without so much as a whimper.

Again, I have to mention the styling on the Grand Prix GT. Its "wide track" stance is really appealing. The rear treatment is striking. The sides seem to just melt into the rest of the car. Its lowered hood line really make you feel like you're in a small juicy sports car. And, again, we're talking sedan here.

I've got to mention the standard list, because at the starting price of $20,099, you've got to expect a lot.

Let's take a look: 16-inch touring tires on aluminum wheels, 4-wheel independent suspension, traction control, variable-effort steering, power windows lockout, daytime running lamps, program-
