Thomas, Mehl win race

Mayor Robert Thomas and challenger Kenneth Mehl will face off Nov. 4 in the general election following Tuesday's primary election in Westland. Candidate Dixie Johnson McNa was defeated in Tuesday's voting.

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Incumbent Westland Mayor Robert Thomas, winning the top spot in Tuesday's primary by a landslide, proved that challenger Kenneth Mehl faces an uphill battle to close a popularity gap before the Nov. 4 general election. Thomas, seeking an unprecedented third term as Westland mayor, commanded 67.3 percent of vote totals to emerge unmistakably as a front-runner for another four-year term.

Mehl, a former 12-year council member, survived the primary with a mere 25.3 percent of vote totals, while political newcomer Dixie Johnson McNa faced elimination by garnering only 6.3 percent of ballots cast.

Only 5,945 of Westland's 55,401 voters bothered to vote, marking a paltry 10.7 percent turnout.

One week after his 47th birthday, a jubilant Thomas celebrated victory Tuesday as more than 200 supporters poured into his election-night headquarters at the senior citizen Friendship Center on Newburgh.

"I feel good about this," he told the Observer. "I think it shows that people wanted to vote for me because they think I am doing a good job as mayor, and I think they ignored all of the negative rhetoric."

Thomas came under fire from McNa, 53, and Mehl, 50, for promoting his live-in companion, Jill Runkle, from Aftermath: Sandy Belisle surveys items stored in her family garage on Merritt Drive.

Taking measures: Mary Lou Marenda put cardboard down on her basement floor to help avoid tracking a tar-like substance through her home. Her once-finished basement is a shell of its former self.

Sewer damage puts families in misery

BY DARRELL CLEM

Sandy Belisle's family has endured 29 weeks of misery since their Westland home was flooded by raw sewage.

Sadly, Belisle sees no end to the despair that arose at her Merritt Drive home when rains pounded her neighborhood Feb. 20-21. The storm caused a faulty new sewer system to back up into her basement and more than 400 others.

Crates of books that she used to keep in her basement sit on the living room floor. A sofa is turned up on its end to provide more space. An end table hemmed in a corner hasn't been dusted in months.

"I have no living room," Belisle said. In a dining area off to the side, computers crowd a table that Belisle once used to entertain her ailing mother and other family guests on holidays.

"I missed Easter, the Fourth of July and Labor Day," she said. "I can't entertain in this house."

Basement damage

Belisle's basement, once a fully furnished, comforting place she enjoyed with her husband, Dan, and their two teenage children, is an empty shell. In the aftermath of 12-inch floodwaters, damaged walls and floor tiles have been ripped out and discarded along with a washer and dryer, a sofa, a Wayne-Westland students posted gains in three of four categories on newly released state test scores, although their marks still lagged behind most statewide averages.

Due to curriculum improvement measures, however, Wayne-Westland school officials are optimistic of closing all gaps between local and state scores on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) tests.

"We have a commitment that our students will be at the state average or above within the next three years," Jane Kuckel, assistant superintendent of instruction, said Tuesday in her office.

New scores show how fifth- and eighth-grade students fared on science and writing scores based on tests administered in March.

Kuckel noted that, for the first time in recent memory, local students actually beat their statewide counterparts in one category, eighth-grade writing.

"That's a big deal," she said, adding that local students had lagged 13 percent to 17 percent below state averages just a few years ago.

Eighth-grade writing results showed that 79.7 percent of Wayne-Westland students earned a proficient, or passing, score, compared to 77 percent of all Michigan pupils.

By comparison just one year earlier, only 66 percent of Wayne-Westland students received a proficient rating, falling short of the 69.1 percent state average.

"We are thrilled with our eighth-grade MEAP scores," Kuckel said.

Patricia McAllister, district testing coordinator, put it this way: "We're improving at a faster rate than the state."

In other eighth-grade scores, students locally and statewide fared much worse on science scores than on writing scores.

Only 9.8 percent of Wayne-Westland eighth-graders earned a profi-

Livonia results are improved

So far, the new emphasis on bringing hands-on science to each student's desk in the Livonia Public Schools appears to be working.

Scores for fifth-graders who took the science Michigan Educational Assessment Program took a big jump forward, from 34.5 percent in 1996 to 43.9 in 1997.

And, despite a drop in eighth-grade science scores statewide, Livonia's eighth-graders held their own. For both years, their score barely budged, staying around 24 percent.

Administrators in Livonia are pleased with scores on the 1997 MEAP writing test for the two grades. All scores went up.

Fifth-graders taking the writing test in 1996 scored 75 percent; in 1997, 76.3 percent. In 1996, the eighth-graders scored 79.3 percent; in 1997, 86.3 percent.

cient rating in science, down from last year's already disappointing 12.5 percent.

Statewide, scores fell even more sharply but remained above Wayne-Westland averages. Across Michigan, 17.5 percent of eighth-graders proved proficient in science, a decline from the previous year's 21.5 percent.

Local officials hope to make gains when a new science curriculum is fully implemented next year, Kuckel said.

"The science test was obviously a difficult test for the whole state," McAllister added.

In fifth-grade scores, Wayne-Westland students made significant gains in writing but still lost ground to their statewide counterparts.

Local fifth-grade writing scores rose 16.1 percentage points, with 68.5 percent earning a proficient rating compared to just 52.4 percent one year earlier. "That's a significant gain for us, and I think this district can be very proud," Kuckel said.

Statewide, fifth-graders made slightly stronger gains in writing scores, with 73.4 percent of students receiving a proficient score compared to 55.6 percent in 1996. That marked a 17.8 percent increase.

In science, Wayne-Westland fifth-graders lagged well behind their statewide counterparts, although both groups posted significant gains.

In Wayne-Westland, 22.8 percent of fifth-graders earned a proficient rating in science, up 9.8 percentage points from last year's 13 percent.

"We're pleased with that gain," Kuckel said.

Across Michigan, 36.8 percent of all fifth-graders received a proficient score in science, up 9.9 percentage points from the previous year.

Generally, Wayne-Westland students have narrowed the gap with their statewide counterparts for the last four years, Kuckel said. In some cases, she said, gaps have been slashed in half.

Boosting test scores became a top priority for Kuckel when she was hired five years ago by then-Superintendent Larry Thomas.

Kuckel credited recent gains to curriculum improvements and individual school building plans aimed at addressing specific problems.

As always, officials said a budget crunch will make it difficult for the financially ailing district to buy the textbooks and support materials that teachers need for their classrooms. But officials pledged to try.

"We want every building at the state average or above," Kuckel said.

"We'll reach that goal," McAllister added. "There's no doubt."

PLACES & FACES

Youth aid police

Starting this week, Police Explorers from Westland will assist police by going to stores that sell liquor and tobacco "in an attempt to curtail the problems we're having," said Officer Mark Engstrom, Drug Abuse Resistance Education program officer.

Police are seeking to end sales of liquor and tobacco to minors, Engstrom said. Some young people get liquor or tobacco from older siblings. "We can't obviously control that."

Police want to work with local businesses to solve the problems, he said. "It's just a situation where we're taking the DARE program one step further."

Ribbons abound

Westland resident Walter Warren is a frequent contributor of letters to the editor of the Observer. He also spends his time in the garden, and won 33 ribbons in the vegetable category at this year's Michigan State Fair.

Warren's ribbons included one best of show award for the best peck basket display. He received five other blue ribbons in categories such as best scallop squash, best buttercup squash, best paste tomatoes and best Hungarian peppers.

Warren, who describes himself as a plant collector rather than a landscaper, successfully completed the Michigan State University Extension Service's Master Gardener Program several years ago. He describes his Westland garden as in the "English Cottage Garden" style.

Medical Assisting

The William D. Ford Career/Technical Center's Medical Assisting Program was awarded certification status by the Association of American Medical Technologists, thereby allowing program graduates to sit for the AMT certification examination.

The AMT is a national organization headquartered in Park Ridge, Ill. To qualify for certification, the local program was required to comply with strict guidelines in curriculum, course presentation and instructor certification.

chair, an entertainment center, two daybeds, Nintendo and Genesis equipment and games, an end table, a stereo cabinet and speakers, computer software and two bookcases, among other personal belongings. Her family has lived in the residence for 11 years.

"I had 11 years worth of things in my basement, even things like artwork that my children made when they were little," she said.

Salvaged belongings are now in a garage where Belisle used to park her treasured, seldom-used 1990 Pontiac Bonneville SSE. The garage is filled with scores and scores of cardboard boxes stacked floor to ceiling, wall to wall, front to rear. Belisle has stored pots and pans, Christmas decorations, family pictures, toys, exercise equipment - even a bathroom sink salvaged from her basement.

"Anytime I need something it's buried in that garage," she said.

Belisle has refused to settle with GAB Robins insurance adjusters for an undisclosed offer that didn't come close to what she believes her family deserves. She said she feels abandoned by adjusters, contractors and city officials.

"I don't want to enable people in positions of power to hurt me," she said. "We are nameless, faceless numbers to these people."

Belisle has joined one of two lawsuits filed against the city of Westland, two contractors and an engineering firm involved in a $10 million sewer separation project. The endeavor encountered problems when workers mistakenly blocked a 6-foot water main with a concrete wall. Flooding resulted.

Belisle said she doesn't want to seek a loan, make repairs and wait to recoup money.

"Why should I have to pay interest when I'm not responsible for this problem?" she asked.

Belisle is counted among residents who have refused settlements offered by GAB Robins, although a company spokesman said most claims are being resolved.

"We've settled over 75 percent of the claims, and everything is going well," Tom Berardo said. "We hope to resolve the rest of these claims in the near future. That's about all I'm going to comment on right at this time."

City Attorney Angelo Plakas said claims have been resolved for 337 of 447 residences. He said negotiations are stalled for homeowners involved in lawsuits.

Promises made

Residents in their seventh month of post-flooding problems recalled that city officials initially promised that basements would be restored within four to six weeks.

Mary Lou Marenada and her husband, Don, had lived at their Merritt residence 25 years when raw sewage flooded their basement, which their 30-year-old son occupied along with an old-fashioned jukebox, two pinball machines, an electric fireplace and many treasured personal belongings.

The Marenadas had moved many of their upstairs furnishings to the basement while their hardwood floors were being refinished.

"We had things stacked to the ceiling," Mary Lou Marenada, 49, said.

The Marenadas lost a refrigerator, a stove, cabinets, a sofa, clothing, a washer and dryer and many other belongings. Many salvaged items have been moved to relatives' homes.

"I can't find anything," Marenada said.

She said an offer of $13,100 from an insurance adjuster wouldn't come close to repairing her basement - and certainly wouldn't replace contents. "The offer was absolutely ridiculous."

Some personal belongings don't have a price tag, such as a 25th wedding anniversary photo album that Marenada had hoped to show guests when she and her husband celebrate their 30th anniversary on Dec. 2. "It's stained," she said. "I wanted to bring friends over and pull out the photo albums."

Like Belisle, Marenada is involved in a still-pending lawsuit.

"My husband was extremely opposed to a lawsuit at first. We thought for sure we'd have an amicable settlement," she said. "We just want to be put back together."

A closet near her front door now serves as a pantry. Stacked inside are boxes labeled for spaghetti sauce, a can opener, dish detergent, barbecue sauce. A 90-gallon fish tank has been moved to the living room from the basement.

Marenada has kept track of the 1,749 hours that she and other family members spent working in the flood's aftermath. She believes compensation is due. "My time is valuable."

Life disrupted

On nearby Berwick, Chris Devitis and her husband, Dean, had lived in their house for six years when sewer waters ravaged their basement. The couple and their three children, ages 4 to 11, have sought normalcy since.

Dean Devitis used to spend a lot of time in the garage, now stacked with boxes of toys, photo albums, clothing and other belongings.

"His garage was his castle," Chris Devitis said.

The couple lost many of the same belongings as the Belisles and the Marenadas.

"We lived in our basement," Chris Devitis said. "We can't get back to normal until we get some money."

The couple can't afford to pay their normal bills and then assume more debt to pay for basement repairs for which they may not be adequately compensated, Devitis said. They, too, have filed suit.

"I would prefer not to go to court," Devitis said. "I would prefer to settle, but I want a fair amount. I think the insurance adjusters purposely offered us less, thinking we'd accept it."

Devitis said her basement home has flooded three times: once in 1996 during a water main break; in February during the sewer backup; and again since then due to damaged weeping tiles.

"It has caused a lot of stress," Devitis said. "I don't know when we'll ever get back to normal."

Bentley bricks

Project helps area graduates remember

Bentley graduates will have the chance to have their name inscribed on a brick used to create a pathway at the former high school in Livonia.

The first planning session of the "Bentley Brick Brigade" takes place at 7 p.m. Sept. 16 in the first floor conference room at Livonia City Hall.

"This is an exciting opportunity for us to put our alumni spirit to work," said Laura Toy, Livonia city treasurer and 1970 Bentley graduate who heads the newly formed brigade committee.

"The conception I have in mind is a brick pathway on the Bentley grounds in a very focal area that will remain for years to come for all to see and be proud of."

Those who come to the meeting can bring names and phone numbers of Bentley classmates who might be interested in buying a brick, she said.

Portions of the former high school will be demolished, starting sometime this year. Classes will continue at the Bentley Center for at least three years. After that, the fate of the building at Five Mile and Hubbard will be determined.

It is hoped that plans will emerge for a recreation/community center run by the city at the site.

The brick walkway inscribed with names is expected to be a lasting tribute to alumni and friends of Bentley. Bricks used will be from the partially demolished building.

For further information, contact Toy at (313) 466-2426 or fax her at (313) 421-3572.

FREE "LIVING TRUST" SEMINAR
"What You Ought to Know About Living Trusts"
(What you don't know could cost your family thousands of dollars!)

If you own a home...or you have assets worth at least $100,000...you owe it to yourself—and your family—to get the facts on living trusts. If you think you're protected with a simple Will...think again...A Will guarantees that your estate will go through probate, which means that your family may not be able to take possession of your estate for many months, or even years! Plus, if your estate is over $600,000, your family may owe estate taxes which could amount to 37-55% of the value of your estate. This means that your family may have to sell some assets just to pay the estate taxes!

A living trust avoids all this by avoiding probate and minimizing estate taxes. Plus, a living trust will protect your estate if you become incapacitated during your lifetime by avoiding a conservatorship. This means your estate will be managed as you see fit, not as a court-appointed guardian sees fit.

To find out more about the benefits of living trusts, attend one of these free seminars...

Judge turns down move to block gas tax

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State government is free to continue collecting the new 4-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax after an Ingham County judge refused an anti-tax group's request to block it.

Judge Lawrence M. Glazer late Monday turned down a portion of the suit by Michigan Taxpayers United to block the law, which raised the tax from 15 to 19 cents a gallon effective last Aug. 1.

"It is my view the bill did receive immediate effect," said Glazer after a two-hour hearing.

"It looks as if the tax will stay in place," said Chris DeWitt, spokesman for attorney general Frank Kelley who defended the state.

"We are weighing the possibility of an appeal," said Bill McMaster, Birmingham public relations man, president of MTU and one of the plaintiffs.

The case is still alive, however. MTU still is challenging the gasoline tax hike on a second ground: That a vote of the people is required to raise the total state revenue above 9.4 percent of total personal income of all persons, as defined by the U.S. Commerce Department.

That cap is contained in the 1978 Headlee amendment to the state constitution. McMaster worked on that campaign and heads the organization founded by the now-retired Richard Headlee.

8 months at stake

At stake in Monday's arguments were eight months of gasoline tax collections, some $133 million - from Aug. 1 to about next April 1.

McMaster argued that the tax couldn't be collected until April 1, or 90 days after the Legislature adjourned for the year, because the House had failed to give the bill a two-thirds vote (74) to give it "i.e." or immediate effect.

"I.e." is usually used on budget bills because they are passed in June and July, and the fiscal year starts Oct. 1. Most often, it's a consensus vote with no roll call demanded or reported. Lawmakers who voted against a budget bill almost never object to "i.e." Other bills also can get an "i.e."

The gasoline tax was more controversial. The problem was that the House had to pass it twice.

Known as House Bill 4872, the bill won 70-26 and immediate effect in the House on June 26. The Senate made many amendments and finally passed its own eighth version, known as HB 4872 (S-8), on a 20-16 with no controversy over immediate effect.

Both chambers must pass the identical version of a bill for it to become law, so HB 4872 (S-8) was sent back to the House. Long past midnight on July 16, the House passed the measure 56-48, the bare minimum for passage. But it took no separate "i.e." vote on the S-8 version.

Jaye asks vote

Rep. Dave Jaye, R-Macomb County, sought a separate vote. He submitted to Speaker Curtis Hertel, D-Detroit, a petition with signatures of 25 members, three more than needed, asking for a record roll call "i.e." vote.

Local signers included Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, and Deborah Whyman, R-Canton. (Kaza liked it so much that he signed twice.)

Hertel said no, citing a January 1997 policy change in which the House leadership said it would not take a separate "i.e." vote on Senate amendments; the June 26 "i.e." was deemed sufficient. Judge Glazer agreed.

MTU's chances are still alive. If it wins later, it could ask the court 1) either to order a refund of the excess gasoline tax through an income tax refund or 2) reduce the gasoline tax four cents to 11-cents-a-gallon for an appropriate period of time.

How they voted

HB 4872 (S-8) passed 56-48. Here is how area lawmakers voted:

Yes - Lyn Bankes, R-Redford.
No - Bob Brown, D-Dearborn Heights, Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

Not voting - Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. (Law's excused absence has the effect of a no vote.)

Several area members voting no placed their objections in the permanent House Journal. Excerpts from their remarks:

Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake objected that "one-fourth of the tax increase will go to bridges which are mostly in Wayne County."

Deborah Whyman, R-Canton: "This gas tax increase offers no significant reform for the roads in my district. The vast majority of my roads are maintained by Wayne County, which spends 25 cents of every dollar on administrative overhead; Oakland County spends 13 cents. Throwing money at the roads will not fix them. Reform is necessary."

Playscape volunteers get going

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The skies were cloudy but dispositions sunny as work began Tuesday morning on the Westland Playscape.

Work was going well, said Bob Kosowski, Playscape chairman and Westland Parks and Recreation director. Detroit Edison crews donated their time to dig holes for utility poles.

In the prefabrication tent, workers were cutting wood to specifications. "So we'll be all set," Kosowski said. "We really need people out here, and tools."

About 700 volunteers had signed up as of Tuesday morning. The project at Central City Park, which has been in the works for about a year and a half, will measure 24,000 square feet. Some areas will be suitable for adult use.

"It's mostly for the kids and it is totally handicapped-accessible," said Kosowski, who planned to do some heavy-duty work himself.

He and other organizers appreciated food donated by a number of area businesses. "When you're talking feeding 300 people, that's a lot of money."

Project organizers hope to be done by approximately 5 p.m. Sunday. They were concerned about the rain, but said the structure had to be built this week. The consultants are in town just this week, so organizers plan to work through rain.

"Unless we get some really bad weather, it'll be done," Kosowski said. "I'll be praying a lot."

One volunteer Tuesday was Dan-el Ponath of Southfield. "I'm just trying to help out," he said, adding that he and other Ameritech Cellular employees were working on the Westland Playscape.

Ponath has two children, ages 1 and 5. "When it's all done, I'll bring them back," he said.

Race from page A1

support from political heavyweights such as council members Charles Pickering and Glenn Anderson and former Councilman/Mayor/State Rep. Thomas Brown.

As McNa and Mehl addressed some 75 supporters at Blarney Bay Pub on Warren, McNa pledged to steer her supporters to Mehl.

"Ken Mehl is not the bad man - Thomas is," McNa told the crowd. "If all of us team up together, we can beat him. We're going to beat him."

Mehl told supporters he isn't worried by Tuesday's vote totals. Mehl vowed that he can beat Thomas if his supporters work to get out the vote Nov. 4.

"We can win this election," he said.

Mehl said he must educate voters that Thomas isn't financially responsible with taxpayer money and that he has failed to keep promises he made to his constituents.

"What we've got to do is bring out the issues that we know are there," he said. "And we've got to get the vote out."

Mehl and Thomas have been longtime political enemies, and Mehl didn't soften his tone Tuesday.

"I disliked Bob Thomas the first day I met him, and he has not done a good job," Mehl told his supporters.

Thomas defended his job performance and said vote totals indicate that voters reject Mehl's claims. Thomas said voters have noticed his administration's accomplishments, such as beefed-up medical rescue and community police programs and a new city library.

"I think people have seen the city grow," he said. "I think people in other communities are starting to look at Westland as the place to move to."

Thomas didn't seem threatened that Mehl and McNa will team up in hopes of fueling a Mehl victory in November.

"We're going to have a super-heavy campaign now," Thomas said. "Now we really crank up the volume."

Are Your Medications Putting Your Hearing At Risk?

Barbara J. Douglas
M.A. CCC
Certified Audiologist and Licensed
Hearing Aid Dealer

One of the advantages of entrusting your hearing health to an audiologist, rather than a hearing aid salesperson, is the wealth of information your audiologist can provide. Educating the community about hearing health is as much a part of an audiologist's mission as testing hearing or selling hearing aids. Personalized Hearing Care's monthly seminars at MedMax enable us to inform you about a wide range of topics—information that in some cases can profoundly affect your hearing. Our September seminar on "Otoxic Drugs" is one such example.

Otoxic medications are drugs that have the potential to cause damage to the inner ear structures, resulting in temporary or permanent loss of hearing, or aggravation of an existing hearing loss. A number of common over-the-counter and prescription drugs have been found to be ototoxic—Aspirin and Neomycin, for example. But quite amazingly, very little is being done today by physicians, the FDA or drug companies to communicate this information to consumers.

Whether or not you have a hearing loss, the medications you take could be putting your hearing at risk. For more information on this important topic, please attend our free seminars—Sept. 17 at Westland MedMax, Sept. 23 at the new MedMax in Taylor.

Whatever the future may bring, this is what will bring it. The fact is no one really knows for sure what the future will bring. It's the reason 1984 wasn't like "1984." And why 2001 will be nothing like "2001." But there is one thing we do know - in the future, our entertainment, our information and our communications will all come from Broadband. OK, so what is Broadband? Simply put, it's a wire with enormous capacity, a wire with two-way capabilities. The wire you now think of as bringing you cable TV is being transformed into something that can literally bring you the future. Broadband will give your computer the power to be as entertaining as your TV. Your TV will become as smart as your computer. And you will be able to communicate in ways you never imagined. Right now, in communities around Boston, Detroit and Jacksonville, where our networks are already in place, Broadband is allowing people to download from the Internet up to 50 times faster, providing the fastest Internet connection to the home. A supersonic speed that is changing the way people are using the Net. Broadband is making ideas travel faster. The exchange of knowledge is increasing exponentially. Once you are connected, you will no longer merely be entertained;

Broadband's unique two-way capabilities will let you send home videos through your computer, entertaining others. You won't just sit back and be informed. You will inform. Nothing will remain static. Over the next few years, a whole new culture will emerge. Not just through our computers, but through our TV as well. Broadband is about a new level of involvement and interactivity. You will no longer be strictly on the receiving end of genius. And once your big idea connects with your friend's amazing inspiration, there will be no end to the brilliance that can come from Broadband in the next hundred years. If you are

Local school administrators head back to class at UM-D

Thirty administrators from 10 Wayne County school districts including Garden City, Livonia, Redford Union and Wayne-Westland are going back to school this fall, learning about the changes in public education.

The administrators are students in a new leadership academy established by the University of Michigan-Dearborn School of Education and the Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation (MAISL), a collaborative of 10 school districts in western Wayne County.

"The Leadership Academy will provide problem-focused, case-driven, active learning experiences or practicing and aspiring school leaders directed toward the identified needs of the school districts," according to Michael Wilmot, superintendent of Garden City Schools and president of MAISL.

Administrators in the program will attend four full-day workshops at UM-D focused on a range of issues including violence in schools, using the Internet to enhance teaching and learning, ethnic and racial diversity in schools and "leadership or the new millennium."

Participating are:
■ Garden City - Judith Richards, principal at Memorial Elementary School; Keith Anlietner principal at Farmington Elementary School and Ben Alalouf, assistant principal at Garden City High School.
■ Livonia - Lorna Durand, principal at Cooper-at-Whittier

Elementary School; Laura Wallace, assistant principal at Holmes Middle School and Rod Hosman, principal at Churchill High School.

■ Redford Union - Ken Johnson, superintendent RU Schools; Linda Pallas, director of instructional services RU Schools and Donna Rhodes, principal, Bowman Elementary School.

■ Wayne-Westland - Neil Thomas, principal, John Glenn High School; Darlene Scott, principal, Franklin Middle School and Sally Perkins, principal, Elliott Elementary School.

"One of the big issues that public schools will have to deal with in the very near future is posed by competition, which they never really faced before," according to John Poster, dean of UM-D's School of Education.

"The growth in charter schools, home schooling and open enrollments, as well as the prospect of some sort of voucher system, all mean that public schools will need to develop a focus on "customer relations," Poster said. "It will require a different orientation and a significant amount of training for school administrators."

Wilmot called the program "the first step in a partnership among K-12 districts and UM-D to develop administrative skills among the leadership of our public schools" Wilmot said. "It's a classic example of the kind of cooperation and partnership what we all should be doing more of."

Give your child a special gift this fall with classes at Schoolcraft College designed to bring out the elementary creative genius.

Behind the Scenes is an eight-week course during which participants will write, direct, film or star in a movie. The class is designed for ages 10 to 14 and includes instruction on how to tell a story with video and how to operate film-making equipment.

tunity to write their own songs and hear them put to music. Students will learn the basic elements of music and work together to write songs with a professional jazz performer.

Children aged 9 to 12 are eligible to register, and they do not need previous music experience. They will leave the class with a new understanding of how to make music and, if they bring an empty tape cassette, a copy of the finished product.

New Internet column debuts Sunday

Veteran broadcast and print journalist Mike Wendland, best known in the metropolitan Detroit area for his investigative coverage on WDIV-TV Channel 4, will be a featured columnist starting today and every Sunday in the business section of The Observer Newspapers.

Wendland's column, PC Talk, will provide readers with useful and down-to-earth information about the Internet and anticipated advances in the ever-changing field of multi-media.

"The Internet has become one of the most powerful mediums of our time," said Wendland, "and an invaluable resource."

Whether you've been surfin' on the net, thinking about catching the wave or afraid to take the big plunge, Wendland said his column will reassure apprehensive users that the Internet is about as easy to maneuver as using your remote control to change the channel on your television set.

"In the early days people were put off by computers because they were difficult to operate, big and hard to understand," said Wendland. "Since then the market has exploded and the accessibility and usefulness has increased enormously. It's a fun and powerful medium that has become such an important part of our everyday lives."

Speaking as one of the country's leading experts in using the Internet for research and information-gathering, Wendland travels the globe lecturing to corporations and civic, religious and professional organizations.

The author of a series of books, he also hosts a call-in radio program dealing with the world of personal computers and the Internet. His PC Talk radio program is heard every Saturday from 3-5 p.m. on Detroit's Talk Station, AM 1270, WXYT. Two of his technology segments, High Tech Talk and Net Surfin', are distributed to 215 NBC stations nationwide on the NBC NewsChannel and are aired on CNBC's popular "Steals and Deals" program.

"I've been using computers since the 1980s as an investigative reporter and as a tool in teaching others," said Wendland. "The Internet has the capacity to help us make our lives better by transmitting hard-to-find information that would otherwise be buried in books and libraries." His weekly column will feature "neat sites," says Wendland and links as well as tips on making the Internet work for you and your family.

"There's a glut of valuable information individuals, families and their children can use. I hope to help them understand what it means to be online and to make that fear go away."

Wendland says he will gladly accept readers suggestions, questions and links to their favorite sites. You can also visit his extensive Web site at www.pcmike.com where he receives more than 200 e-mail messages a day.

The site features "Mike's special reports; special tips direct from readers, viewers and listeners to Mike's books and programs; PC Talk Radio pictures; frequently asked questions and answers; and net humor."

If you are interested in e-mailing Mike a suggestion he can be reached at mike@pcmike.com. Otherwise look for his column weekly in the Health & Business section of this newspaper.

Columnist: Broadcaster Mike Wendland will write "PC Talk" in Sunday's Observer.

Fortunately, at AutoNation USA, we have convenient hours so you can shop when it's best for you.

Even our Automotive Service Center has user friendly hours. While there's no such thing as a good time for your car or truck to need service or repairs, our service center hours make it easy to get in and out quickly.

So if you find it difficult to get away during the week, keep our store and Automotive Service Center in mind. With our hours and your schedule, it could be the perfect mix.

Visit our megastore Monday through Thursday 9-9, Friday and Saturday 9-10. Automotive Service Center hours are Monday through Saturday 7-7.

The Better Way To Buy A Car™

Carriers, families honored at Observer annual picnic

More than 500 young newspaper carriers and their families turned out last month for the Second Annual Carrier Appreciation Picnic hosted by the Observer Newspapers.

The Observer Newspapers provided food, prizes, games and clowns for the event which was held at Camp Dearborn in Milford. Disc jockey Jeffrey Pausch played music for the crowd.

"The weather cooperated and everyone enjoyed themselves," said Larry Geiger, circulation manager for the Observer Newspapers. "This is an annual event which we all look forward to and like to plan."

"We'll be at Camp Dearborn again next year. We appreciate all of our carriers and this is just one way we can show them just how much their work is valued," said Geiger.

Joe Zarembo, an Observer carrier from Livonia, said his family had a very good time. They won a $100 gift certificate to Parisian.

Crowd pleasing: Sunny skies provided the perfect backdrop for the second annual Observer Newspaper Carrier Appreciation Picnic. Picnicgoers lined up for fun at the event held at Camp Dearborn. Plans are underway for next year's special event.

SC culinary fest aids scholarship fund

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Hungry for some exotic foods and extraordinary cuisine?

Well, if you have a palate for adventure and want to help contribute to a college scholarship fund, you can visit the McDowell Center at Schoolcraft College on Sunday, Sept. 21 for the Sixth Annual Culinary Extravaganza.

More than 60 restaurants from southeastern Michigan will be represented to highlight this year's theme, "Join the Adventure." Restaurant fare features everything from Maine lobster and rock shrimp risotto from Morels in Birmingham to Black Angus pot roast from the Innkeeper Restaurant at Metro Airport.

The event will move from the Waterman Center to McDowell Center (faces Haggerty Road) to allow easier access for patrons from parking lots and give restaurants and patrons open areas near McDowell's main stairway on all three floors, according to Sandra Florek, dean of marketing and development for Schoolcraft College.

"We want to give visitors more of a feeling of being in the same area at the same time," Florek said.

Organizers hope to draw more than 800 patrons, the number of visitors last year. The event raised more than $100,000 last year; this year's goal is $120,000. Money raised enters Schoolcraft's scholarship fund. All culinary arts students receive a scholarship for helping with the event, Florek said.

Tickets for the event are $40 per person or two tickets for $75.

The event features food samples, a silent auction for wine, a raffle drawing and mini seminars on food-related topics. Beth Mocerri, coordinator of special events, said Michigan-made wines will be featured at the wine auction, along with French and California wines. The Michigan wines were donated by the Michigan Grape Wine Industry Council.

Patrons can donate in various scholarship packages: Partner, $25,000; Platinum, $5,000; Diamond, $2,500; Gold, $1,000; Silver, $500, and Bronze, $250.

Two sponsors already stand out in organizers' minds. Bill Greenman, owner of a Speedy Printing in Livonia, printed invitations and promotional materials for the event.

"It's incredible to have someone do that for us," Mocerri said. "It's a huge donation."

Glenda's Market in Livonia also will decorate all the floors of the building with flowers, greenery, silks and living plants.

Volunteers, such as David Brandon, CEO of Valassis Inc., assist the event greatly through their efforts. "There's no way we could do this event by ourselves," Florek said.

To take a break from the gourmet food, participants can attend one of several free mini-seminars on topics such as pastries and desserts, champagne and dessert wines for the holidays or how to work with chocolate. More than 100 bottles of wine will be displayed, and later auctioned. Auction items also include a VIP tour and wine-tasting for six at Chateau Chantal on Old Mission Peninsula near Traverse City and sets of tickets to the Michigan-Michigan State and Michigan-Ohio State football games.

The first-prize winner in the raffle will receive a framed jersey from this year's Stanley Cup champions, the Detroit Red Wings, signed by team captain Steve Yzerman. The second prize is the lease of a Jaguar for two weeks from Jaguar of Plymouth. A diamond and amethyst ring from Orin Jewelers is the third prize and the fourth prize is a trip to Las Vegas for two, staying at the Imperial Palace donated by Livonia Travel.

Raffle tickets are $5 each or three for $10.

Florek believes the event is appropriate for Schoolcraft, which houses what she calls the "best culinary arts program in the nation."

"Many restaurants are willing to cooperate because they know we educate many of the people who will be working in their restaurants. Everyone talks about the cost of education, and I think it's a fun way to raise money so that students can go to college."

For tickets, call the college's Office of Marketing and Development at (313) 462-4417. Visa, MasterCard and Discover credit cards are accepted, or checks can be made out to Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Playscape brings out the best

They may have a few splinters, but volunteers working on the Westland Playscape have no regrets.

They've been working hard for more than a year now, raising money and doing whatever was necessary to erect the wooden play structure at Central City Park. Mayor Robert Thomas had seen similar structures, designed by Robert Leathers & Associates, in other communities and decided to bring the concept to Westland.

It took more than one person to bring that dream to fruition. This week, the volunteers have been putting the pieces in place. Even young children have helped out by washing tires. Child care and food at the site have made it possible for the volunteers to keep working hard.

Many businesses and individuals have worked on the project, and all should share in a sense of pride when it's completed within the next few days.

On a related note, the summer concert series sponsored by the Westland Cultural Society in cooperation with Westland Parks and Recreation also shows what dedication can do. Volunteers, working with the city, have been able to produce musical entertainment ranging from country-western to light rock to Big Band.

Such offerings enrich the quality of life in our community, simply making it a better place to live. The cooperation between volunteer groups and local government shows just what can be accomplished when motivated, dedicated people put their heads - and hearts - together.

The Playscape is particularly impressive, and will be critical in fostering a sense of community in Westland. Those who gather to play in Central City Park will know that many people cared enough about them to set aside time from work and other duties and get cracking on the Playscape.

Children will grow up, as they do, but memories of the Playscape will remain. The wooden play structure will be the site for many happy hours spent by Westland's families, in particular its young people. In fact, the project owes its name, Imagination Play Station, to 7-year-old Ben Maple of Westland, the winner of a contest to name the structure.

Those who volunteered their time, money and talents for the Playscape project deserve the thanks of an appreciative community. The structure, when completed, will stand as a monument to the sense of commitment exhibited by so many in the Westland community.

Autumn a time for reflecting

Who would think that death could be so beautiful?

We're talking autumn here. We know, of course, that the sensational orange, red and yellow leaves that will soon dazzle our neighborhoods are really dying.

The honking of migrating geese saying, "Farewell, farewell our friends," fills the air.

Pulverized apples provide a sip of sensual delight.

The days grow shorter and cooler. The season is short. Too short.

Autumn is a bridge between the unfulfilled promises of summer and the certainty of a bitter winter. It's lost opportunity, but delightful memories.

Many folks think about their mortality at this time of year. The recent deaths of Princess Diana and Mother Teresa drive home the point that life is temporary and fragile, just like gorgeous leaves falling from trees.

Where are we going? How do we want to be remembered?

Autumn is the perfect time for reflection, to recall where we've been, to take a reading of where we are and to set a course where we want to sail.

Phone use offers challenges

Technology is supposed to make things easier. And although it's true most of the time, the learning curve can be a bear.

When it comes to using the telephone, consumers and business owners will need to pay attention to changes coming soon and throughout next year.

Southeast Michigan's new 248 area code becomes "official" Saturday. Beginning that day, people outside the 248 area must dial 1 + 248 before entering the seven-digit number.

A small section of Livonia and Northville in western Wayne County along with parts of Washtenaw and Livingston counties and most of Oakland County are part of the 248 area code. Callers who do not use the 248 area code when required will hear a recording telling them they need to dial again using 248.

Starting in mid-December, Wayne County (outside of Detroit) along with Monroe and the majority of Washtenaw counties can begin using the 734 area code. The 734 code becomes mandatory July 25, 1998.

Business customers are encouraged to test their internal phone system to determine if it recognizes the new area code. Older business phone systems may not be equipped or programmed to accept the newer area codes. Until 1995, area codes always had a "1" or "0" as the middle digit. But because the supply of old codes has been depleted, new area codes have middle digits that use the numbers "2" through "9."

To test their systems, businesses can call 1 (248) 253-9717. Callers will hear a message telling them their call has been completed successfully. Failure to reach the message means phone equipment may need to be reprogrammed, upgraded or replaced.

The telecommunications boom is marching forward. Don't let the number jumble get the best of you when placing a call.

Move criticized

On Monday, Aug. 18, 1997, the Wayne-Westland Board of Education took the unprecedented step of informing one group of its students and employees that they would no longer be covered under the district's anti-harassment and discrimination policies. That night, in a 6-1 vote, the board deleted "sexual orientation" from all existing policies of the district. By doing so, the board has insured the following:

- That gay and lesbian teachers, staff and board members will continue to live their lives in fear in the closet.

- That gay and lesbian students will continue to be terrified of being "found out" and facing the inevitable hostility that will follow without the benefit of protection from the schools that are sworn to their safety.

- That right wing religious zealots masquerading as Christians (and the board's fear of them) will continue to be the driving force behind decisions made by the board.

- That any shred of credibility or integrity by the board has disappeared.

The Wayne-Westland Board of Education has done more than alter its policies. They have shown their true colors of homophobia, hostility and cowardice.

Dumbfounded

As a mother of a gay child, I was totally dumbfounded to see that the school board members of the Wayne-Westland School District took away the rights of gay and lesbian students by revoking a policy to protect gay students from discrimination.

They must not understand the difficulties these children face. Some are so frightened that who they "really" are will be found out that they live a lie for most of their childhood and on into their adult lives. I know my son, who attended school in Wayne-Westland and who recently came out of the closet, shared some very disturbing stories of how he was treated by fellow students and teachers in the Wayne-Westland School District. At one point, he said he was so intimidated that he thought of taking his own life.

The members of the board of education have no idea just how damaging their actions really are. For many students who learned they had rights in January when a unanimous approval was given to add sexual orientation to the policies that prohibit discrimination and harassment, many students felt free to tell friends about their secret identities.

I personally know one of these students who is a friend of my son. Now, that same student, who has been ridiculed in the past, has no protection. I hope you don't end up with the blood of some distraught teen-ager on your hands. Because if a teen-ager is pushed to the breaking point and kills himself or herself, it will be the fault of the actions of each and every member of the Wayne-Westland school board who voted to take these simple two words out of the policies because they were fearful for their own political careers and not for saving the lives of students. Unfortunately, it will be all of us taxpayers who will have to pay the price when a lawsuit surfaces.

POINTS OF VIEW

Diana's life and death have lessons for us all

Most of us grew up listening to fairy tales. As adults, we read these same fairy tales to the little children in our lives. In the stories, none embodied those virtues more than the princess. It is, perhaps, a credit to these fairy tales that we so often use the word "princess" as a term of endearment for the little girls in our lives. As the father of a young lady, I know how strong the desire is to see our children attain a life of such boundless joy and fulfillment. It seems only natural that perfection would be defined by the storybook princess.

The more fortunate among us realize early on that such notions are better off stored in the fantasy section of our brains. So many others, it seems, are wracked with frustration and disappointment from trying to keep that dream alive.

Maybe that explains some of the incredible appeal of Princess Diana. At the age of 20, she not only became a princess, she became the princess—the bride of the heir to the British throne. She joined the royal family in the grandest wedding ever held, and appeared to have everything necessary for a smooth trip to the road to happily ever after.

Her appeal spread across the range from those who envied her for what she had to those who empathized with her for what she lost. Right before the eyes of the world, she went from enjoying the dream held by so many little children to enduring the despair and insecurity felt by so many adults — her thin regal veneer peeling off to reveal a soft core of human frailty. She was, aside from all of the royal trappings, a lot like the rest of us.

In the days since her death, this woman, who had lived as tragically as she died, has been practically deified. The outrageous spectacle of her funeral has become the grandest example of wretched excess since her own wedding. Millions of people jamming the streets of London, billions more watching on television, and media coverage stretching around the world, around the clock have put the fallen princess on a fast train to sainthood. With all due respect to her, all this fuss has become an unbridled orgy of bandwagon grieving.

This ridiculous overreaction to her demise, and overstatement of the greatness of her life, could very easily destroy what I believe is her most significant contribution to humankind. She showed the world that the storybook life is just a myth — that such a vision is merely a mirage, even to those who marry future kings.

It would be a great service to many young people if, because of the lessons of her life, we would ditch the whole fairy-princess, happily-ever-after business.

I hope all of us can draw some value from Diana's death, as well as that of Mother Teresa. One had unlimited material wealth yet died with an impoverished spirit, while the other owned virtually nothing and died with spiritual wealth beyond measure. Both offered us lessons to learn and cherish.

Maybe the storybooks won't be rewritten because of this, but they may take on a different meaning. This time the princess' story didn't have a happy ending, but, then again, her life, just like everyone else's, wasn't really a fairy tale.

MEAP scores shed light on charter school deficiencies

Advocates of so-called charter schools were silent last week. Why? The MEAP scores came out.

The Michigan Educational Assessment Program tested grades five and eight in writing and science — four scores for every district.

Foes of public schools for decades have beat their drums criticizing "failing public schools," even after the corner was turned in the 1980s. In Michigan, they concocted "public school academies" or charter schools, which would be "freed from the shackles of the state bureaucracy" and more responsive to parents' wishes. The bulk were private schools which converted to get state money.

To put 97 pages of statistics into a nutshell: About one-fourth of charter schools turned in better MEAP performances than the intermediate and local districts around them. Three-fourths were worse.

Let's look at the bottom rung: "not yet proficient" or failing scores.

In Wayne County, 12.1 percent failed the fifth-grade science test, 34.2 fifth-grade writing. Detroit checked in with fifth-grade failure rates of 16.5 and 44.5.

Academy of Detroit-Westland showed fifth-grade failure rates of 37.5 and 66.7 percent; Academy of Detroit-West, 51.3 and 74.4 percent; Caesar Chavez, 33.3 and 66.7; Colin Powell, 50 and 41.7; Gaudior, 33.3 and 41.7; Nataki Talibah Schoolhouse, 36 and 42.1; Sierra Leone, 0 and 35 (good in science, bad in writing); Thomas-Gist, 56.5 and 65.2; and so on.

Any good ones? Aisa Shule's failure rates were 11.1 and 30 percent; Martin Luther King Jr. Education Center had 0 and 0 — everyone at least novice; Summit Academy 5.9 (good in science) and 35.3 (bad in writing).

In Oakland County, the "not yet proficient" scores for fifth grade were 4.7 and 16.5. In Southfield, where many academies are located, public schools scored 8 and 16.7.

TIM RICHARD

Manoogian Academy reported 14.3 and 7.1 — below average in science, above in writing. Academy of Detroit-East reported 52 and 60 percent; Academy of Detroit-Southfield, 17.2 and 35.7.

Let's look at the eighth grade, where Oakland County scored 13.8 percent failures in science and 16 percent in writing.

Manoogian performed at 18.8 percent and 9.1 percent — again, better in writing but worse in science. Academy of Detroit-Oak Park (with no fifth-grade program) showed bottom-rung scores of 72.4 and 31.6.

Ingham County's fifth-grade flunk rates were 25 and 22.3. Only Sankofa Shule topped the county average in one area, writing, while El Shabazz, Mid-Michigan, and Walter French Academy did worse. The academies' scores also were below Lansing public schools.

Saginaw County had "not yet proficient" scores among 12.7 percent in fifth-grade science and 26.1 percent in writing. At Northlane Academy of Math and Science, the respective scores were 20 and 40 percent. Northlane is noteworthy because science is one of its specialties, and it was one of the intervening defendants on behalf of charter schools in the recent Michigan Supreme Court case.

In Kent County, charter schools looked good. Excel and Vanguard had failure rates a bit below the county average; Vista was above.

But here we come to one of the puzzles of charter schools. Three Kent County academies had only two to six pupils taking the tests; in writing, some had failure rates of 100 percent because the sample size was so tiny. Many other charter schools had dismal scores because only a handful of pupils took the tests.

How can the authorities justify the existence of an academy with two-10 pupils in an entire grade?

Charter fans have an alibi for the dismal scores: They're taking in a lot of students with problems. Of course, they never used that alibi in the 1960s-1980s when city public schools became dumping grounds.

Charter school fans advocate hundreds of more charters. Wrong. The State Board of Education should be authorized to take an unblinking look at them. The few good ones should be emulated. The many weak ones should be closed and their $5,400 per pupil sent to true public schools.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Caring about community sets these journalists apart

So much already has been said and written about the death of Princess Diana and the role of the celebrity photographers in it that I hesitate to put in my own two bits.

Except that the core issue in the matter — the relative responsibility of the paparazzi who stalk celebrities, who in turn feed on the fame their images build — strikes precisely to the particular kind of community journalism practiced by this newspaper.

In my mind, the central obscenity propagated by the motorcycle-riding photographers who chased the princess, her boyfriend and their driver to their sudden deaths was that they did not care what took place as a result of their actions.

They didn't care that chasing a Mercedes at very high speeds might wind up in a fatal crash. As they clambered over the twisted wreck to take close-ups, they didn't care that people lay bleeding and dying inside.

They did not care about the consequences of their actions. And as a result, in my mind, they are condemned as fundamentally irresponsible people pursuing a particularly intrusive and obnoxious trade.

Now — and here's where community journalism comes in — the paparazzi claim they are little more than regular photojournalists, maybe a little more aggressive than most, but still engaged in the overall journalistic enterprise. And that claim may well be true, especially when the definition of overall journalistic enterprise extends to the editors who pay enormous prices for paparazzi pics.

And that is where those of us who practice community journalism at this HomeTown newspaper part company with the overall journalistic enterprise. We think there's a big difference between community journalism and the other sort, enough so that we stress the difference in an essay on Our Company Philosophy that goes to all staffers:

"All journalists share the same obligation to truth, accuracy and fairness. But because we publish community newspapers, we think about community journalism in a fundamentally different way than our bigger competitors. They consider themselves to be independent from the stories, the people and the communities they cover, swooping in to write of the unusual or sensational and then dashing off to cover something else.

"We regard ourselves as both accurate journalists and as caring citizens of the communities where we both work and live. It's often hard to have both feelings at once, but in the end it makes for fairer and more accurate journalism because it considers the consequences of a news story to the community and to the people involved.

"As a suburban mayor once said about reporters from the downtown daily newspaper, 'The only time we see those bastards out here is when there's blood in the streets.'"

This philosophy isn't something printed on a sheet of paper, framed and hung on the wall safely out of the way. It's something embedded at the heart of everything we do.

Here's an example: In May 1993, a group of kids from Cranbrook-Kingswood School on a camping trip in the Great Smoky Mountains got caught in a freakish spring blizzard. It was touch and go for awhile, but they survived, only to become the objects of a media feeding frenzy.

The big city dailies ran screaming headlines about "Campers Safe," while Bill Bonds kept berating the Channel 7 news crew for not getting closer to the scene as the buses pulled in and kids were joyously welcomed into the arms of anxious parents.

The headline in the Birmingham Eccentric, one of our HomeTown newspapers: "Welcome home." And our reporters and photographers were the only ones allowed in the greeting area. Why? As editor Joe Bauman wrote: "Because we had the contacts and the confidence of the Cranbrook officials who knew us and what they could expect from us."

As community journalists, we are both accurate journalists and caring citizens of the home towns we cover. That is the definition of human and journalistic responsibility that never occurred to the paparazzi who chased Princess Diana to her death.

Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper. His Touch-Tone voice mail number is (313) 953-2047, Ext. 1880.

A command that evokes nightmares

I was having a nightmare. Somewhere a dog was barking. Yipping and yapping and growing agitated. Cujo? Cerberus? Kato? I couldn't pinpoint the source, but the barking seemed to be mixed with hissing and low growls.

The commotion was getting louder when, all at once, it stopped. It was quiet. The breeze coming through the bedroom window had a chill to it. Subconsciously, I pulled the covers up higher and buried my head deeper in the pillow.

I was drifting ... half asleep, half awake ... when I felt it. Hot breath on my face. Something was in the room with me. In the bed. It was clawing my chest, licking at my face. I tried to push it away with my hand when a black cat flew over my head.

There was a THUD! The bed shook and the growling and snarling started again, this time right at my ear. And then a voice cried out.

"Jasper! Wookie! Stop it!" I woke up with a start. It was a nightmare, all right, but that was no Cujo. Just the 5-month-old Scottie and the 9-year-old cat, not quite ready for bed even though it was sometime past midnight.

"What are they doing in here?" I grumbled.

"Well ..." The Feminist was doing her Samantha imitation. "I brought Jasper up here to get him away from the cat. Wookie must have sneaked into the room while I was getting the dog."

"Where's Scooter?" A hiss from the corner of the bedroom answered that question.

"Oh, good grief! They're all in here. 'Just go back to sleep,' she said. 'I'll take Jasper out and then lock him in his cage for the night.' 'I'll do it.' 'No, you're already in bed. You can take him out in the morning.' 'Uh-uh. I'm not taking him out in the daytime.' 'And why not?' 'That housebreaking plan of yours. I feel like an idiot.' 'He's learning. He knows he's supposed to go outside. You just have to work with him. Just keep giving him the command until he goes.' 'Right,' I said. 'THE COMMAND. That's probably why I was having nightmares.' 'What are you talking about?' 'You know those new windows our next door neighbors had installed?' 'What do their windows have to do with anything?' 'I took him out the other day. I'm walking around the back yard with this little black Scottie on a red leash. He's chasing bugs and butterflies and I'm chasing him saying 'Go potty! Jasper, go potty.' All over the yard. 'Go potty, Jasper. Go potty.' It's like a mantra.

"What does that have to do with windows?" "I'm getting to that. I'm out there telling this dog to 'Go potty.' Then I look up. There's these three guys installing the windows. One's up on a ladder, one's hanging out the upstairs window frame, the other's right next to our fence. They look like they just came from Bruno's Powerhouse Gym. And they're all giving me these weird looks.

"You're just being too sensitive." "Maybe so," I said. "But you're taking the day shift from now on."

"We'll talk about it in the morning, dear. Go back to sleep."

The breeze coming through the bedroom window had more of a chill to it now. I crawled back under the covers and was drifting off ... half asleep, half awake ... when I heard a dog barking somewhere. Yipping and yapping and growing agitated. I couldn't pinpoint the source, but mixed with the barking I heard a voice ... my voice.

"Go potty, Jasper!" the voice was saying. "Jasper, go potty!"

Story time: Tim Murphy of Garden City takes time to read the book, "Free Willy II," to his 3-year-old daughter Katie. Murphy has found help in coping with the sudden death of his wife and advice on raising Katie and 8-year-old son Jimmy through Arbor Hospice's Starting Over.

Families celebrate Starting Over

Tim Murphy, Debbie Fifield and Diane Harris have more in common than being under the age of 45. The trio found help dealing with their grief through Starting Over, which is celebrating its 10th anniversary.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO

Twenty months after losing his 33-year-old wife Cindy to a heart problem, Tim Murphy of Garden City is starting to feel the clouds lift.

"I think I'm at the point now where the grieving process is starting to fade a little. I'm more in a situation now where I'm trying to reinvest myself with living," Murphy said.

The 42-year-old father of two attributes his emotional recovery to Starting Over, a support group offered by Ann Arbor-based Arbor Hospice for people younger than 45 whose spouses, girlfriends, boyfriends or fiances have died.

"Initially, it was really a God send because of just not knowing what to do not only as a young widower but with the whole grieving process," he said. "It was kind of new and unexpected. There's different stages to grief. It wasn't just something that I was going through personally, but something that everyone goes through."

Murphy, his 3-year-old daughter Katie and 8-year-old son Jimmy will be among Starting Over's current and past members who will gather at the Oak Pavilion in Maybury State Park in Northville to celebrate the group's 10th anniversary at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 14. Participants are asked to bring a dish to pass.

"Clowning Around with Starting Over" will feature activities for kids, including clowns, unicyclists and volleyball. An auction as well as a birthday cake and grilled hot dogs will also be available.

Humble beginnings

Starting Over began 10 years ago in the Plymouth home of Cathy Clough, founder and director of Arbor Hospice's adult bereavement programs. Since then, the programs have served more than 8,000 people throughout southeastern Michigan. The organization recently opened The Arbor Center at 200 N. Center St. in Northville which provides grief support services for children, teens and adults.

"Because we're constantly bringing in new members, as people grow they're able to give back by helping lead groups and coming up with new ideas," said Clough, a young widow herself.

Plymouth resident Debbie Fifield is one of those members who is giving back as a group leader. Fifield, whose husband John committed suicide in February 1995, explained that attending the first meeting can be a nerve wracking experience.

"It's so hard the first few times to come," said Fifield, the mother of Ashley, 4, Brian, 7, and Sara, 9. "You tell your story. You don't know anybody, but it's really worth it. You realize you're not going crazy. It's not weird. Everybody feels this way."

The group meets every Tuesday in different capacities. The first and third Tuesdays Starting Over meets at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, 45201 North Territorial Road. It hosts a social get-together at area restaurants on the second Tuesdays of the month. For the fourth Tuesday, group members in Farmington Hills, Northville, Ann Arbor and Canton have offered their homes for geographic groups. One Saturday a month, they go to a member's home and have potluck dinners, play card games and socialize.

Fifield explained that new members shouldn't be intimidated by the social gatherings. "It's safe; you're not dating," she said. "You're just meeting a bunch of friends. It's a good way to get out of the house. You're not eating by yourself. You don't have to worry about a date."

When she joined Starting Over, she was also participating in a support group for people who had lost a loved one to suicide. Fifield said she related better to people who had lost spouses as opposed to family or friends of suicide victims.

She said that she is one of a handful of Starting Over members who are dealing with suicide.

"I was a mess," Fifield said. "The spouse is usually the scapegoat when somebody is in severe depression."

Members walk to new church

BY SUE MASON

There'll be a sea of teal- and fuchsia-colored T-shirts along Six Mile Road Sunday when more than 1,000 members of Ward Presbyterian Church make a symbolic trek to the new church site in Northville Township.

Labeled "Walking Onward By Faith," the 3.9-mile walk will start at 3 p.m. at Six Mile and Farmington roads and end at Six Mile and Haggerty roads with a celebration service at 5 p.m.

"We want to put people out there and experience it," said Jerry Smith, the church's director of music and worship, of the Sept. 14 walk. "Last December we had a prayer walk on the land. Buses drove over the frozen ground and people literally could get off and walk around. This is another way leading to 'Walking Onward by Faith.'"

Participants will gather in Knox Hall at 2:30 p.m. in preparation for the walk. Volunteers will line the route and members of the Livonia Police Auxiliary will man major intersections during the estimated two-hour walk.

The walkers, who will stick to sidewalks for safety reasons, will carry banners that they made. After the event, they will be used as decorations in the current church.

"We expect several hundred banners that will be placed in a circle of color on the property and that we'll use in the current church as a form of encouragement," said Smith, a member of the planning committee chaired by Jan Carlton.

Greeting walkers at the construction site will be recorded sacred music which will start playing at 4 p.m. At 4:30 p.m., the male quartet, King's Harmony, will perform, followed by the service.

"The committee has done the walk to determine the time it will take and came up with 5 p.m. for the service," said Smith. "But if people are still streaming in at that time, we'll postpone the start for a few minutes. But if it has slowed down, we'll go ahead as scheduled."

Smith said the music for the service will be upbeat. Among the musical selections will be "Standing on the Promises" and "Great Is Thy Faithfulness."

The celebration service will get under way at 5 p.m. in what will eventually be the large sanctuary, but will serve as a parking lot for now. Senior Pastor Dr. James McGuire will lead the moment of devotion and prayer of celebration. "We'll finish with a bagpiper playing 'Amazing Grace,'" said Smith. "People will sing and it will tie them to the history of the Presbyterian Church and its Scottish origins."

Following the service, the youth of the church will serve refreshments before participants board buses for the trip back to Ward Church. The buses also will be used to ferry those church members not making the walk to the site.

A large number of volunteers have been lined up for the walk. Some will drive cars, picking up walkers who can't finish, manning cellular phones and first aid stations and handing out jugs of water.

"Onward By Faith" has been the theme of the They're taking out their anger and other feelings out on you. When they die, it's like somebody walking out in the middle of a fight. You don't finish it. They just leave one day and never come home."

Too soon?

Murphy has been a member of Starting Over since shortly after his wife's death Feb. 7, 1996, of an enlarged heart probably caused by a virus. Starting Over helped him because the group is geared toward spouses, girlfriends, boyfriends or long-time companions.

"When it's a spouse, you're so connected; they're what you think to be your life mate and all of a sudden they're gone," he said. "In my case, it was a sudden death. I was working midnights and she had gone to bed. We thought all she had was a cold. She went to bed with a headache. When I came home from work, she was dead."

A member of St. Raphael Church, Murphy said he feels he may have joined the group too soon after his wife's death.

"I went there (church) and I sensed that I needed something more than the spiritual or emotional support of the parishioners or family members," he said. "I went and I wasn't too receptive to what was going on. I was still in shock. I was having trouble functioning."

"I have a tendency to procrastinate, so I kind of forced myself to go."

Fifield suggests that widows and widowers join the group a month to two months after their spouse's death.

"There's no point in going a week after the funeral because you're just so numb," she said. "One to two months afterward it starts sinking in."

Murphy suggested that mourners stay in the group for at least two years. Fifield agreed.

"Even though people tell you, 'It's been a year, you should be fine,' it's OK not to be," she said. "You still have your ups and downs. People are there to support you. We're always there. There's people waiting at the tables to greet you. It's really a big help. You really need to come. You can't do it by yourself."

Starting Over, she added, is especially helpful because it is uncommon for people younger than 45 to lose their spouses.

"When you're in your 70s and you lose a spouse, you have lots of friends who have lost spouses; you don't if you're under 45," said Fifield who teaches nursing at Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus. "You don't. It helps to know other people who can tell you what it's like. You're not crazy."

Starting Over, Murphy explained, doesn't just help with the grief but with every day experiences such as finances, problems around the home and child care.

"The women helped me out initially when she was going through potty training," Murphy said with a laugh about his daughter. "Talk about being thrown into it. Here I am trying to go through a grieving process myself and I have a 6-year-old and a 2-year-old. They helped me out that way."

Companion group

Starting Over offers a companion group "Care-ousel," a structured bereavement group for children and teens to help them go through the grieving process. Murphy's son went through the program.

"Starting Over and Care-ousel both taught me that children grieve differently," he said. "They helped me go through a child's grieving process and how that will continue through their whole life really. Katie will grieve differently. She won't remember her mother other than memories we create for her - these are all things that I learned. She'll grieve through events, graduation, her wedding day. She had just turned 2 when her mother passed away."

Livonia resident Diane Harris, 39, sought out a support group to get help for herself and her husband's 6-year-old daughter. Her husband, Paul, 41, died of a heart attack on June 20, 1995.

"It's a wonderful children's program," she said. "My daughter has been involved in the last two years. She knows that she's not the only one. In school, she's the only one. Everyone else has a mom and a dad. She can go to this group and know that she's not by herself."

Spouses, like Murphy, expressed the same sentiment.

"Starting Over helped because of the support system, of having others in the same age group to share with," he said. "It's not the natural order of things. It helped a lot just to cry a lot with people that are going through similar situations."

more than $7 million construction project, which was conceived by Pastor Emeritus Dr. Bartlett Hess in 1984.

Problems with water and sewer hookups delayed the project and by the time then senior pastor Hess retired in 1992, it looked like the new church would not be constructed.

Called to serve as the new senior pastor, McGuire decided the church should press ahead with the project. The sale of 40 acres at the corner of Haggerty and Six Mile roads for commercial development opened the way for the construction. Ground was broken on Aug. 25, 1996.

The sale of the 40 acres raised a third of the money needed for the project. Another third has come through pledges from Ward's 5,000 active members. The remainder has been financed.

The current phase includes the construction of a sanctuary, classrooms, chapel and fellowship hall. With the construction of the large sanctuary and music rooms to come at a later date, that area will be used as a 1,700-car parking lot. Eventually, there will be parking for 2,500.

'People will sing and it will tie them to the history of the Presbyterian Church and its Scottish origins.'

Jerry Smith
- music director

Ward Church was founded in 1956 as a mission church of Ward Memorial Church of Detroit. Under Hess's guidance, the church outgrew its facilities at Farmington and Six Mile.

To accommodate its 5,000 active members, the church offers four worship services on Sunday and uses its fleet of buses to shuttle two-thirds of the worshippers from satellite parking at Stevenson High School and the Bentley Center.

And as the clock starts winding down to the move, activities will reflect on past activities. The annual Christmas concert will highlight things done in previous years, according to Smith.

"We'll have a series of lasts and then go out there for a series of first," he said. "This will be the last major event tied to the new church before the move."

Wanted: friend pets for Pet-A-Pet

People are invited to meet some very special animals - Lulu, Nell and Brandy.

Most of the time they're just like any other dog or cat. They sleep in their favorite chairs, take walks in their neighborhood and chase squirrels in their backyards.

But once a month, they go with their owners to visits people in nursing homes, hospitals, school, psychiatric hospitals and hospices.

Lulu, Nell and Brandy are members of the Pet-A-Pet Club, a nonprofit animal visitation group that has more than 420 members and their family pets. They now visit more than 74 facilities each month in the Detroit metropolitan area.

The benefits of the human-animal bond have been well-documented in recent years. Pet-A-Pet volunteers see these benefits each time they go on a Pet-A-Pet visit.

The soft touch of an animal often creates joy and laughter in even the most unresponsive of patients.

People and their pets can be come a part of the Pet-A-Pet experience. No special training is required, however, pets should be friendly, healthy and have current vaccination records.

Visits at each facility are scheduled for once a month and usually last about one hour. Members can choose to visit one or more facilities.

Attorney talks straight about estate planning

Dennis Cleary is ready to help people plan for the future.

The attorney will present a straightforward and simple estate planning class at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17, at the Redford Public Library, 15150 Norborne.

The program will feature a variety of estate planning strategies, including trusts, wills, guardianships and planned giving. Cleary follows the plain English initiative, instituted by the Michigan Bar Association.

"What is sometimes not clear to the average person is that very simple planning can save many hard-earned dollars from going directly to taxes," Cleary said.

Using examples like the average estate and $600,000 tax cap, Cleary illustrates some of the best methods to shelter an estate and insure distribution to designated beneficiaries. He also addresses the impact the recent tax code changes will have on current and future estate plans.

Cleary has given seminars on estate planning for 10 years in the Oakland County area. He also has had a general practice in Farmington Hills for 20 years, specializing in estate planning and family law.

IT DOESN'T PAY AS MUCH AS HIS OLD JOB.

UNLESS YOU ADD IN THE VALUE OF A MAN'S SELF-RESPECT.

It may be just a name tag to some, but for many others who know the indignity that comes with being unemployed, it's a badge of courage. A symbol of accomplishment. And the mark of independence.

Every year in southeast Michigan there are thousands of people who need employment and training services to get them back into the work force. And with your help, they'll make it.

The United Way supports 54 agencies in the tri-county area like Goodwill Industries, Detroit Urban League and Jewish Vocational Service that provide services that help build self-confidence, empowerment and independence through job skill evaluation, training, and job placement programs.

Last year, you helped fund those agencies with $5.1 million. This year, the need is even greater. And for every dollar donated, 90 cents goes directly to people in need. So you can be sure your money is hard at work, and so are the people you help.

Jo-Ann Fabrics observes sewing month

Jo-Ann Fabrics and Crafts of Canton is joining sewing retail stores across the country in a national education campaign aimed not only at people who sew at all experience levels, but also those who have never sewn a stitch.

Co-sponsored by the American Home Sewing and Craft Association and the International Association of Floor Care and Sewing Professionals, "Sew America: Each One Teach One" is the home sewing industry's latest initiative to "get people sewing."

On Saturday, Sept. 20, Jo-Ann Fabrics and Crafts in Canton will focus on home decor sewing to promote the event.

According to AHSCA, an estimated 30 million Americans sew, and sewing is a $3.5 billion industry in the United States.

The popularity of sewing and craft shows on cable and public television has created a new interest in this traditional art.

"The motivation to sew has changed over the years," said store manager Terry Cordero. "People are turning to sewing for a fun, creative outlet that gives them a sense of satisfaction."

In fact, a recent clinical study commissioned by AHSCA and reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association indicates that sewing may be a "stress buster."

Researchers found that when compared to other activities requiring similar hand/eye coordination, sewing actually lowered heart rate, blood pressure and perspiration — three common measures of stress in women.

New technology is also adding speed and accuracy to sewing. There are new one-touch sewing features and computerized sewing machines that have the ability to interface with personal computers offer consumers endless embroidery options.

Sewing has also stepped into cyberspace. Hundreds of thousands of Internet subscribers are seeking sewing information from product information to trends and techniques.

Sites like www.sewing.org and www.joann.com offer great ideas and free projects as well as links to other sites.

For more information on National Sewing Month activities, call Cordero at (313) 459-3441. Jo-Ann Fabrics and Crafts is at 44740 Ford Road, Canton.

MHS's 120th anniversary is 'PAWS for Celebration'

It promises to be the entertainment and social event of the season.

The Michigan Humane Society will hold its 120th anniversary extravaganza, "PAWS for Celebration" at 6 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 13, at Somerset Collection's Neiman Marcus Store in Troy.

An evening of dinner, dancing and entertainment, the event will feature the legendary talents of Ed McMahon, Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons and a fashion show, featuring the latest from the country's top designers, including Pam McMahon.

The evening also will include a live auction of exceptional items, including a portrait by the acclaimed Russian artist Serguei Timtchenko and art work created at the Center for Creative Studies.

Five of the best students from the center participated in a summer course created exclusively for the development and fabrication of the auction items.

Chad Lockart, a senior in industrial design, created "Sublimation," a sculptural lamp that reflects the human role in nurturing and protecting wildlife and natural resources.

Sean Evans, a senior in crafts, created "A Dog's Reliquary" that has a golden bone as the religious relic in this whimsical ceramic reliquary.

Paul Bramel a junior in industrial design, created "Time Out" a bronze mantle clock that caringly communicates the support, love and protection that humans must give to animals, if they are to survive well into the future.

Marco Garcia, a senior in fine arts, created "Jaguar Bench," a bronze jaguar legs and head connected by a slab of limestone to sit upon. The jaguar was an important figure in the Aztec heritage of Garcia.

Patte Vandenburg, a junior in crafts, created "A Garden Gate," a colorful garden gate of bronze and glass depicting a human tree surrounded by silhouettes of animals.

Also on the auction block will be an original Pam McMahon creation, a portrait of the highest bidder and his or her pet by Timtchenko and a fashion package, including hotel accommodations and two tickets for Spring Collections Fashion Show.

Guests also will enjoy will delight in a strolling dinner and enjoy the cuisine of more than 20 metro Detroit restaurants, including Andiamo in Bloomfield Township, Auer's Bakery in Pontiac, Big Rock Chop & Brew in Birmingham, Cafe Cortina in Farmington Hills, Charley's Crab in Troy, Dick O'Dow's in Birmingham, Ernesto's in Plymouth, Le Petite Fleur in Birmingham, Mac & Ray's in Harrison Township, Michigan Star Clipper Dinner Train in Walled Lake, Neiman Marcus Cafe in Troy, Paint Creek Cider Mill in Lake Orion, Peter's Palate Pleaser in Bloomfield Hills, Phoenicia in Birmingham, Pike Street in Pontiac, Roma Cafe in Detroit, Townsend Hotel in Birmingham and Unique Restaurants, Mac Prentice in Bingham Farms.

Party goers also will enjoy dancing to the music of Jerry Fenby.

"For 120 years, the Michigan Humane Society has rescued and provided care and shelter for hundreds of thousands of animals and has united loving pets with countless Michigan children and families," said Lil Erdeljan, co-chair of PAWS for Celebration. "For people who care about animals and desire a wonderful evening of excitement and celebration, PAWS for Celebration is a must attend event."

Tickets are $ 300 for Humane Society Benefactors (all of the evening's festivities, including a special cocktail reception and VIP loge seating for the fashion show, art auction and entertainment extravaganza), $175 for Humane Society Patrons (all of the evening's festivities including a special cocktail reception and theater-style seating for the fashion show, art auction and entertainment extravaganza ) and $75 for Humane Society Friends (dinner, dancing and limited seating and standing room for the Frankie Valli show Time).

Hour will be 6 p.m. until midnight for benefactors and patrons and 8:30 p.m. to midnight for friends.

"PAWS for Celebration promises to be the largest fund raising event in Michigan Humane Society history," said co-chair Denise Lutz. "It provides a wonderful opportunity to both experience a spectacular night of dinner, dancing and superb entertainment while supporting the animals that have touched the hearts and lives of our families and friends."

Central UM kicks off 175th anniversary celebration

Almost 30 years ago, just two weeks before his untimely death, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. preached his last sermon at Central United Methodist Church in Detroit.

On Saturday, Sept. 13, his youngest daughter, the Rev. Dr. Bernice King will preach from the same pulpit to commemorate the 175th anniversary of Central United Methodist Church, long known for its witness of peace and justice.

King will deliver the sermon during the church's Saturday Night Central worship service at 5:30 p.m. Saturday Night Central is an innovative alternative worship-with-the-arts service that will feature performances by Detroit musicians saxophonist George Benson, bassist Don Mayberry and singer Angie Smith.

Regular celebrants will be jazz saxophonist Beans Bowles, gospel pianist Bobbi Thompson, classical organist Patrick Kuhl and poets Aurora Harris and Ron Allen.

Immediately following the church service, King will attend a 7:30 p.m. reception at the church and sign copies of her new book, the first she has written, "Hard Questions, Heart Answers," which will be available for purchase after the service.

King, 34, the youngest of four children, is best remembered as the five-year-old in the Pulitzer Prize winning photograph taken of her as she lay in her mother's lap during her father's funeral. At age 17, she addressed the United Nations in her mother's stead and found her gift for oratory.

She is an assistant pastor at an inner-city church in Atlanta, Ga., where she oversees the Youth and Women's ministries and mentors teenaged girls.

She received her bachelor of arts degree in psychology from Spelman College, was ordained in 1990 and holds a master of divinity and doctor of law degree, both from Emory University, and doctor of divinity degree from Wesley College.

As a dedicated advocate for at-risk youth, her book is divided into two parts - "Disturbing the Comfortable" and "Comforting the Disturbed" - and incorporates such subjects as gun control, teen pregnancy, the death penalty and the deep-rooted racism that still plagues the country.

She is working on her second book, a memoir of her life's journey, due out in 1998.

King believes it is not enough to say people should love Dr. Martin Luther King Jr, but should respect him and "pick up where he left off."

"If we are truly going to celebrate life, we must be honestly committed to working toward eliminating ... what Dr. King called the triple evils of poverty, racism and war," she said.

Central United Methodist Church was incorporated in 1822. The present church building at 23 E. Adams in Detroit's Grand Circus Park, was built in 1867.

"What we are proudest of is that Central United Methodist Church has a 175-year-old history of consistent dedication to furthering peace and fighting injustice here at home and worldwide," said Central's pastor, the Rev. Edwin Rowe.

For more information, call the church at (313) 965-5422.

Christ Our Savior's Canton Campus dedicates windows

Fourteen years ago, Harry Flagg started a hobby that will now last for years to come.

The Livonia resident is the designer and artist of a set of stained glass windows that will be dedicated Sunday, Sept. 14, at Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church-Canton Campus. Christ Our Savior's assistant pastor, the Rev. Mark Bayer will dedicate the windows at the 9:30 a.m. worship service.

Flagg, 68, started working with stained glass as a hobby some 14 years ago because of his interest in art and a desire to "keep myself busy working with my hands."

He took a few classes, bought some basic equipment and went to work. A retired project manager for Gavco Audio Visual Company, he has transformed his basement into his workshop. It is there that he designs and creates original stained glass pieces for homes, offices and now a church.

The Rev. Luther Werth, pastor, felt a need to replace the sanctuary altar glass in the satellite church which Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church of Livonia acquired in February 1996. "We were in the process of updating and remodeling and realized that the windows were the focus of the church sanctuary," Werth said.

He first contacted Marv Oldenburg, a member of the congregation who also has done some work with stained glass. Oldenburg developed the concept and design, but turned it over to Flagg for the construction of the window.

Flagg took the concept and finalized it into two separate window panels. The left window, entitled "The Resurrection," features four women at the empty tomb of Jesus.

The right panel, "The Magi," depicts a scene of the Wise Men who came to worship Jesus at His birth.

The upper panels contain beveled glass in the shape of a small cross. The entire set of four windows are framed by a large, free-standing wooden cross.

Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church-Canton Campus is at 46001 Warren Road. For more information, call the church at (313) 522-6830.

Filliatraut honored

The Detroit Lions named John Filiatraut of Livonia Churchill as the inaugural winner of the High School Coach of the Week award.

Filiatraut, making his varsity coaching debut, was honored after Churchill ended a 28-game losing streak Friday with a 26-8 victory over Redford Union. It was Churchill's second win in the 1990s.

"It was a great win for us," Churchill athletic director Marc Hage said. "John has the players thinking positively and has generated a lot of enthusiasm for this football team."

Each week throughout the season, one coached that best develops his players' character, discipline and football skill will be recognized for his commitment to the team, school and community. The winner is selected by a panel of three sports writers — Mick McCabe of the Detroit Free Press, Jane Bos of the Grand Rapids Press and Hugh Bernreuter of the Saginaw News.

The weekly winners receive a $500 donation to their school's football program and will be honored Dec. 21 at the Lions-Jets game at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The assistant coach and trainer is Derrick Steele.

The Livonia Y Meteors, a under-16 girls team, reached the finals recently of the Romeo Peachfest, allowing only one goal in the preliminary round before losing a hard-fought game in the championship.

He's in the money

Negotiations tug-of-war ends for Westland lefty

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
STAFF WRITER

The Seattle Mariners raised their money offer — so Ryan Anderson decided to get down to business.

Anderson became a Mariner on Monday when he agreed to an estimated $2 million to $2.2 million signing bonus — less than he wanted but more than Seattle originally offered.

"They came up (with their offer)," Ryan's father and advisor, Gus Anderson, said Tuesday. "But they stuck to their guns."

"But we're ending up happy. It's a helluva chunk of money for a young kid. The main thing is he had to get to work. He couldn't let that money go and go on to college."

"He missed out on rookie league (baseball), which we had hoped he would do. However the (Arizona) Instructional League is starting Sept. 16th. He's leaving next Tuesday for that."

The signing, though less than the family would have liked, still made the Westland native the best-paid No. 19 choice in draft history and was equal to or better than signing bonuses paid the fourth and fifth selections in the draft.

"We decided to go ahead and sign," Gus Anderson said. "It'll be better for Ryan all the way around. Seattle is one great team. They will treat Ryan well."

The 6-foot-10 Anderson got a nice sweetener in his contract — an invitation to spring training with Seattle next year and a chance to learn firsthand from his idol, "The Big Unit," Randy Johnson.

"That's rare," said Gus Anderson, who also wrangled four years at the University of Michigan or the equivalent for his son. "Ryan's looking forward to that, too."

"It's going to give him the chance to talk and maybe get some ideas from Randy Johnson."

The family flew to Seattle for a Wednesday press conference, after which it remained to watch the Mariners play the hometown Detroit Tigers.

Detroit General Manager Randy Smith said before the draft four factors figured into their selection and, while signability was one of them, they did not feel the Andersons would ask for the moon.

The Tigers ended up taking Matt Anderson (no relation) with the first pick in the draft. At press time they had not come to terms with the relief ace from Rice University.

by either the signability issue or reports of the player's behavior (Smith said those reports were not a factor in the Tigers' decision) because 18 teams passed on the tall left-hander.

"Everybody had him rated No. 1," Gus Anderson said. "Everybody considered him and (Florida State outfielder) J.D. Drew No. 1."

"The Tigers wanted to draft him. We know that. The only reason they didn't was they thought they couldn't come up with enough money."

"But we didn't put a dollar value on Ryan until a few weeks ago."

Seattle originally offered $1.3 million while the Anderson family, represented by Alan and Randy Hendricks, countered with $2.6 million.

Mariners' President Chuck Armstrong told Anderson "as much as we want Ryan, we can't do that kind of money."

"His big money will be coming after he's earned it," Gus Anderson said. "It's probably a good way to go anyway. Let's earn some of this money."

Seattle is getting what scouts described as a clone of Randy Johnson, a fearsome left-hander who is one of the most dominating pitchers in the game.

"You're looking at a kid with size, coordination and athletic ability," said Ken Madeja, the Seattle scout who began watching Anderson before he attracted national attention at Dearborn Divine Child.

"But the big thing," Madeja said, "is that you don't see many kids who are that coordinated for his size."

"He's throwing 94-95 MPH right now and in the next couple of years he should be able to add 3-4 miles on that once he gets stronger physically."

The signing whisks Anderson out of the limelight in Detroit, where the family felt his off-field actions attracted too much attention.

"It's over with," Gus Anderson said. "The Detroit papers were terrible to Ryan. They insisted on assassinating his character in public. That's nasty. We know what kind of kid we've got."

Anderson will report to the instructional league for a week's worth of practice and getting into shape. Which he'll need because he pitched less than 40 innings this summer while negotiations dragged on.

Then comes five weeks of games with the six Arizona-based teams.

"Ron Romanick, who pitched in the big leagues and is our roving pitching instructor, will be in charge," Madeja said. "Ryan will work on mechanics with the other pitching coaches."

Anderson was 5-2 with a 0.68 ERA and two saves for Divine Child. Three of his wins were no-hitters and he had 133 strikeouts in 51 1/3 innings.

"Now it's up to him," the youngster's father said. "He's got a lot of work ahead of him. He's just a young kid going into the work force. He's just a raw talent at this point in his life."

"As far as the money, that's another story. We're ending up being happy with what he got. It's now up to Ryan to prove that he is a No. 1 draft choice."

Time, as usual, will have the final say.

Brad Emons also contributed to this report.

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY

Spartans show form at Kensington meet

Churchill gains 7th in 32-team field

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson did little to dispel its No. 1 ranking in girls cross country by winning the 32-team West Bloomfield Invitational championship Saturday at Kensington Metropark.

The Spartans, who have finished second in the state Class A cross country meet the past two seasons, unseated defending West Bloomfield champion Beaufort, Ohio and Class A champ Sterling Heights Stevenson to win the crown.

Stevenson had 62 points, followed by Beaufort (130), Brighton (144), Birmingham Seaholm (160), Sterling Heights Stevenson (168) Saline (189) and Livonia Churchill (208).

And although teams such as Rockford, Grosse Pointe South and Ann Arbor Pioneer went elsewhere, Stevenson gave notice it is the team to beat in Class A this season.

Beaufort's Lindsay Numastil was the individual winner. She covered the 5,000-meter course in 19 minutes, 50 seconds.

Stevenson, meanwhile, had three in the top 10 led by second-place finisher Andrea Parker (19:55.3), third-place finisher Kelly Travis (19:57.8) and eighth-place finisher Kelly McNeilance (20:21.0).

Parker, who is emerging as one of the state's top runners, is a sophomore who ran varsity last year, while Travis and McNeilance are fourth-year seniors.

"In Andrea's case it's a matter of maturity," Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg said. "Last year her goal was to be on the varsity. Her goal this year is to be the best runner and to be as good as she can possibly be. And after the first couple of meets she's done that. She has confidence and it's no surprise to me she's made this kind of leap."

Travis, who was fourth in Class A last November, is recovering from a stress fracture suffered near the end of track season.

"She's been mending this summer and she didn't run at all until the middle of July — she took six weeks off," Holmberg said. "Gradually she's been working back. She's going four days per week and will probably now start going five."

"I was very happy with what she did. When she's 100 percent she goes hard the first mile, but Saturday I told her to stay with Kelly (McNeilance) and Andrea. We tried to run her conservatively."

Rounding out the Spartans' varsity contingent was junior Christy Tzilos, 24th (21:11.1); junior Kim McNeilance, 25th (21:16.3); junior Katie Sherron, 31st (21:30.6); and senior Danielle Harris, 37th (21:36.8).

Hat trick for Farmington teams

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Five Observerland teams will be involved in games matching unbeaten football teams this weekend, and three of them are Farmington schools.

It was a clean sweep for the Farmington in the opening week — the first time that's happened in more than a decade.

Farmington Harrison defeated Oxford as expected, 28-16, but Farmington and North Farmington pulled off upsets (if you believe the Observer predictions) with impressive victories.

Farmington's 24-7 win over Novi and North Farmington's 41-0 thrashing of Hartland helped the Western Lakes Activities Association go 4-1 against the Kensington Valley Conference.

The other teams in games that will pair 1-0 teams this week are Livonia Churchill, which plays North Farmington, and Redford Thurston.

Overall, it was a good opening week for yours truly and Observer colleague Brad Emons. Dan O'Meara was 16-2, missing on the aforementioned Farmington games (How does the Farmington sports editor do that?), and Emons 13-4.

Here's the scoop on this week's action:

FRIDAY GAMES

(all times 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Garden City (0-1) at Edsel Ford (1-0), 3:30 p.m.: The Cougars are coming off a 20-3 loss to Crestwood in which Mike Vrobel's 35-yard-field goal accounted for their only points. The Thunderbirds didn't exactly set the sports world on fire but managed a 19-17 win over Madison Heights Bishop Foley. PICKS: Ford has no clunkers in its garage.

Fordson (1-0) at Wayne (0-1), 7 p.m.: It appears the Tractors have another good team as quarterback Carlos Smith and Fordson dominated Divine Child, 31-8. The Zebras, who have a new quarterback for the first time since 1992 following the graduation of Lorenzo Guess, will try to rebound from a 33-12 drubbing by Adrian. PICKS: The Tractors are in high gear.

Woodhaven (0-1) at Redford Union (0-1), 7 p.m.: The Panthers, who were winless last season, had their losing streak extended to 10 games by Livonia Churchill, 28-6. Woodhaven also was unsuccessful in its opener but managed to score 22 points in a 13-point loss to Wyandotte, which is expected to challenge Fordson for the Mega-Red title. PICKS: The Warriors cage the Panthers.

Redford CC (1-0) at A.A. Pioneer (0-1): The Shamrocks looked pretty good Saturday night at the Silverdome as they steamrolled Detroit Pershing in typical CC fashion, 35-6. The Shamrocks recovered quickly from the shock of having the opening kickoff returned 90-plus yards for a Pershing touchdown and led 24-6 at halftime. Surprisingly, CC passed for 161 yards, including a touchdown to Don Slankster. The Pioneers, meanwhile, gave up a lot of points in a 48-19 loss to East Lansing. PICKS: CC goes to 2-0.

N. Farmington (1-0) at Liv. Churchill (1-0): When these teams met a year ago, it was a contest between winless teams; this year it's the battle of the unbeaten. The Raiders scored twice in the final minute last year to earn their only victory, 27-14. North turned in the biggest surprise of opening week when it plastered Hartland 41-0 and avenged a 35-6 defeat in the '96 opener. Senior tailback Kirk Moundros led the charge with 240 yards rushing and four touchdowns. Churchill ended a 28-game losing streak in coach John Filltraut's debut by beating Redford Union, 28-8. Senior Dave Deriglottis rushed for 143 yards and two scores. PICKS: The Raiders keep it going.

Liv. Stevenson (0-1) at Liv. Franklin (1-0): Both teams were outgained in their season openers, but the Patriots managed to win while the Spartans didn't. Franklin was outgained 282-155 by Lincoln Park but won 13-8 when junior Brad Tibas returned a fumble 44 yards for a score in the fourth quarter. Dearborn won the yardage battle (213-153) and the battle on the scoreboard (21-7) with Stevenson, which lost only to Franklin (29-7), John Glenn and Harrison last year. PICKS: Emons is standing with the Spartans, but O'Meara is being patriotic.

John Glenn (1-0) at Ply. Canton (0-1): The Rockets opened with a 37-8 rout of Detroit Mackenzie, but senior quarterback Justin Berent hurt a knee in the process. The injury isn't believed to be serious; however, it's doubtful he will play this week. The Chiefs, who lost 41-7 to Monroe, have a big challenge trying to stop Glenn running backs Reggie Spearman (182 yards/one TD) and Antonio Gibson (109 yards/three TDs) in the win over Mackenzie. PICKS: The Rockets are fueled for another win.

Ply. Salem (0-1) at Northville (0-1): Both teams try to rebound from opening losses, but both played pretty good opponents, too. Salem lost to Belleville, one of the Mega Red favorites, 20-7; and Northville was the only WAAA team to lose to a KVC school, preseason co-favorite South Lyon (along with Brighton), 26-17. The Rocks beat the Mustangs on a late field goal last year, 17-14. PICKS: Northville squares its record with a win.

Farmington (1-0) at W.L. Western (1-0): The last time these teams met (1994), the Falcons won, 21-10, and went on to have their best season in a decade with a 6-3 record. Junior quarterback Scott Knelier had a good debut as Farmington rallied from a 7-0 deficit to beat Novi and avenge a 28-7 loss last year. The Warriors, who crushed Millford 49-19, are the defending Class AA champions and have another strong team led by senior quarterback Frank Stanford. PICKS: The Falcons are better, but the Warriors will win.

SATURDAY GAMES

(all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

Crestwood (1-0) at Thurston (1-0), noon: The Eagles are off and running after stomping Taylor Kennedy in their season opener, 30-0. The combination of Nick Dedeluk (through the air) and Brad Meece (on the ground) led Thurston to the win. The Eagles have to contain Crestwood backs Ramsey Saab (two scores) and Robert Akers (100 yards) who played big roles in a 20-3 defeat of Garden City. Thurston won last year, 36-19. PICKS: Thurston stays unbeaten.

W.L. Central (1-0) at Farm. Harrison (1-0): The Hawks will have to play a little better, especially on defense, than they did in their 28-15 win over Oxford. Central crushed perennial KVC doormat Lakeland as it usually does, 44-0, but the Vikings are expected to be a contender in the WAAA. Running behind a big line with bookend tackles (290 and 310 pounds), Central tailback Nathan Bruce rushed for 168 yards and four scores. PICKS: The Hawks are at home; go with Harrison.

Clarenceville (0-1) at Lutheran North (1-0): Despite Walter Ragland's 136 yards rushing and Craig Rose's 189 yards passing, the Trojans fell a point short in their opener, losing to Liggett, 27-26. They will try to go over the top and win this week against the Mustangs, who edged Lutheran East, 10-7. PICKS: Emons takes Clarenceville; O'Meara sides with North.

Liggett (1-0) at Luth. Westland (0-1), 2 p.m.: The Warriors will have to contain Liggett tailback Kevin Espy, who rushed for 126 yards, caught three passes for 74 yards and scored four touchdowns in a 27-26 win over Clarenceville. The playing field should be a little more even after Lutheran Westland's 41-6 loss to Metro Conference favorite Harper Woods. PICKS: The Knights have shining armor.

Borgess (1-0) at N. Adams-Jerome, 7:30 p.m.: The Spartans picked up where they left off last season, whipping Ecorse. Borgess opened and closed the 1996 campaign with lopsided wins over the Red Raiders. The Spartans venture into the south-central region of the state to play the Rams, who lost 12-0 to Reading in their first game. North Adams has nine starters back from last year's 7-2 team, led by quarterback Kevin Kittle (6-1, 195). The Rams had four coaches in five years until Stan Drewno took over two years ago. PICKS: Emons predicts a successful trip for the Spartans, but O'Meara says the Rams spoil the weekend for Borgess.

St. Agatha (0-1) at Pickford (0-1), 7:30 p.m.: The Aggies are on the road again when they travel to the Upper Peninsula to take on the Panthers, who defeated St. Agatha last year, 28-6. The Aggies held Holy Redeemer, which was unbeaten in the regular season and made the state playoffs last year, to a touchdown but lost, 7-0. It was an improvement over a 26-0 defeat in '96. Rapid River, meanwhile, rolled over Pickford, 37-0. PICKS: The Aggies bring back a victory.

PREP FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Shamrocks go to air for win, stop Pershing Warriors drop opener, 41-6

Detroit Pershing's Donny Scott returned the opening kickoff Saturday against Redford Catholic Central 96 yards for a touchdown.

The good news for Pershing is Scott got five more chances to return kickoffs. The bad news is each kick-off came after a CC score.

The Shamrocks recovered from the early deficit to score five unanswered touchdowns and win the season opener in the Prep Bowl, 35-6, at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The Shamrocks had their typically effective running attack, and believe it or not, threw for more than they gained on the ground.

When was the last time that happened at CC?

CC senior quarterback Adam Tubaro had an impressive debut, completing seven of nine passes for 161 yards and one touchdown. The Shamrocks gained 151 yards rushing, led by senior fullback Chris Dueweke with 91 yards on 18 carries and three touchdowns.

It looked like the Shamrocks would be content with just the run early, scoring on a 12-play 61-yard drive capped by Dueweke's three-yard run. Dueweke had eight carries for 37 yards on the drive, which was kept alive with a 10-yard pass from Tubaro to tight end Nick Brzezinski on third down and seven.

The first of Aaron Rock's five extra points made the score 7-6.

The Shamrocks unleashed their passing attack the next possession as Tubaro tossed a 46-yard scoring strike to tight end Don Slankster with 1:41 left in the first quarter for a 14-6 lead.

The Shamrocks built the lead to 28-6 at halftime, adding an 86-yard scoring drive and another touchdown courtesy of a bad snap on a punt before the first half ended.

The long drive was capped by a 12-yard run by Josh Christenson with 6:22 left. A pair of first-down passes — a 12-yard catch by Slankster and a 38-yard grab by Justin Cessante — advanced the ball to the 12.

The CC defense held the Doughboys without a first down in three plays and a bad snap on the punt gave the Shamrocks a first down on their 12.

Four plays later, Dueweke scored on a fourth-down and one on the Doughboys three for a 22-point halftime lead.

The Shamrocks closed out the scoring with 3:18 left in the third quarter when Dueweke ended a 60-yard six-play drive with a one-yard dive.

Tubaro was 2-for-3 through the air on the drive, completing a 16-yard pass to Slankster and a 34-yard toss to Joe Jonna.

Slankster finished with three catches for 74 yards.

CC had 20 first downs to the Doughboys' six. Pershing had 20 yards rushing and 45 passing.

Senior linebacker Joe Sgroi led the Shamrocks with nine tackles, two unassisted. John Abshire had six tackles, including one sack. Cessante had five tackles and a fumble recovery.

Jason Hamilton punted twice for an average of 43.5 yards.

HARPER WOODS 41, LUTH. WESTLAND 6: It wasn't quite what Gary Kamin expected in his head coaching debut Saturday for Lutheran High Westland.

Host Harper Woods, 8-2 last year, racked up 333 yards on the ground en route to a convincing Metro Conference victory.

Last year, Harper Woods pinned the only defeat on Lutheran Westland's 8-1 season with a 16-14 season-opening win.

"We just didn't show up mentally," Kamin said. "There really wasn't anything good anywhere on the field."

Senior Frank Hess had 176 yards in 18 carries and two touchdowns, including a 70-yard run. Junior Lee Dorchak added 137 yards in 19 carries and two TDs.

Lutheran Westland's lone TD came at the end of the second quarter when junior quarterback Gordie Engel scored on a 38-yard run.

Harper Woods, a playoff team last year, led 27-6 at intermission.

The Warriors, who had only seven offensive possessions, rushed for just 94 yards. Engel was one of 11 passing, three of which were drops, for 8 yards.

Defensively, Lutheran Westland was led by Chris O'Brien and Mike Baltz with eight tackles apiece. Bob Fox added seven tackles and a fumble recovery. Dan Anderson and Matt Meyer also recovered fumbles.

Lutheran Westland returns to action Saturday at home against Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett, a 27-26 winner last week over Livonia Clarenceville.

"Liggett threw the ball like crazy last week and they're a little faster than Harper Woods," Kamin said. "I truly feel we could have beaten Harper Woods if we had shown up. I feel we have a better chance this week if we're into it mentally."

Injury-bug can't block Ocelots, 2-1

COLLEGE SOCCER

Injuries, injuries, injuries. That's the easiest way to sum up Schoolcraft College's soccer seasons, both men and women.

The men were deeper to begin with, and so survived a bit better. Last Saturday, the Ocelots scored twice in the second half, then held off a late Lakeland CC comeback to post a 2-1 victory at Lakeland.

The win boosted SC's record to 3-2 overall, 2-0 in Region 12 play.

"We played well," said SC men's coach Van Dimitriou. "They're a good team, a solid team. I'm still not quite happy with our midfield and forward play, but we've been mixing it up a lot."

"This week, for the first time all season, we've got just about all our players back."

Dimitriou has been without Billy Krips, Pete Lechowicz (from Livonia Stevenson), Shaun Pratt, Jim Bullock (Stevenson) and Mike Dean for all or part of the season thus far. All but Dean are ready to go, and Dean should be within a week.

After a scoreless first half against Lakeland, SC's Travis Miller (Redford Catholic Central) — normally a keeper but now playing forward — intercepted a Lakeland defender's errant pass and converted it into a goal and a 1-0 SC lead at the 55 minute mark.

Twenty minutes later, Ryan Konley (Plymouth Salem) took a throw-in from Kevin Fritz and drilled a shot into the upper corner of the net, making it 2-0 in SC's favor.

Lakeland rallied for a goal with eight minutes left, but the Ocelots controlled play the rest of the way — thanks in part to the strong defensive play of sweeper Chris Jaskolski (Salem).

SC women tie one

The Lady Ocelots have been battling the same injury problems the SC men's team has, only with a shorter roster to work with.

The result: "I think we've had one game that we've gone the whole way with 11 players," said coach Bill Tolstedt. "I don't think I've ever had a team with this many injuries. So far, good fortune has not yet smiled upon us."

Of course, that's about as many as he's had on his roster until this week. Just added were Melissa Antieau and Kaleigh Kociszewski, the latter whom is a keeper from South Lyon, and her addition is a welcome one. Starting keeper Samantha Swinkey suffered a leg injury that could keep her out for two weeks.

Last weekend at the College of DuPage Tournament in Glen Ellyn, Ill., SC lost 4-1 to Meramec CC, then tied Florissant Valley CC 2-2.

In Saturday's loss to Meramec, the Ocelots managed to keep it close until the last 15 minutes. It was 1-1 at the half, SC getting its goal from Lisa Tolstedt. Meramec got a goal 10 minutes into the second half, then added two more down the stretch.

In the tie against Florissant Valley last Sunday, SC had a 2-0 lead at halftime, with goals by Jenny Worley and Julie Majewski, but couldn't hold on because of injury problems. Once again, the Ocelots finished the game with eight players due to injuries.

Both Florissant Valley goals came in the final 15 minutes.

"I have to say, they really do stick together," said Tolstedt of his team, now 0-3-1.

Pioneer dunks Blazers; Guard duo leads Pats

Leading scorer: Sara Tacía pumps in two of her eight points in Huron Valley's 19-17 loss to St. Al's.

Ann Arbor Pioneer pulled away in third quarter with a 19-9 run en route to a 67-50 girls basketball win Tuesday over visiting Livonia Ladywood.

Sarah Kutschinski led Pioneer in scoring with 16 points, but it was the work of 6-foot senior point-guard Julie Epton (14 points) which doomed Ladywood. "We're not used to playing against a 6-foot point guard," Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said. "They (Pioneer) played an extended zone. Defensively she (Epton) is the key to their team and offensively she is their key. She's a great player."

Senior guard Kelly Jeffery paced Ladywood with 15 points, including three triples. Senior forward Jenny Lachapelle added 10 points and 10 rebounds for the Blazers, who trailed by only six at intermission, 32-26.

Ladywood is 1-2 overall, while Pioneer, a state Class A quarter-finalist a year ago, is 4-1.

In other games:
FRANKLIN 52, GARDEN CITY 45: Maybe a Gus Macker format would have been more appropriate for Tuesday's meeting between Livonia Franklin and Garden City.

Franklin's tandem of Tera Morrill and Julie Warner was just a little much for Garden City's pair of Sarah Talbot and Shannon Faber in Tuesday's non-league game hosted by the Cougars.

Morrill scored 21 and Warner added 19 to combine for 40 of the Patriots' points. Senior forward Lori Jendrusik scored all eight of her points in the first half for the Patriots.

Warner made nine of 12 free throws along with playing a strong floor game.

The rest of the team scored only four points.

Talbot had a career high 19 points and nine rebounds and Faber scored a career-high 15 points to combine for 34 of Garden City's point total.

The rest of the team scored only six points.

GC is winless in two starts, while Franklin is 2-2 overall.

STEVENSON 49, WYANDOTTE 47: Good things generally come from good work.

Livonia Stevenson is learning that lesson of life this season as they've helped their team to a 4-1 start.

Sophomore forward Katie King took an inbounds pass in the paint and scored to give her team a 48-47 lead and freshman guard Lindsay Gusick's late free throw sealed the two-point win

GIRLS HOOPS

Tuesday night at Wyandotte Roosevelt.

Gusick stole the Wyandotte inbounds pass after King's basket and was fouled hard to the floor as she swooped in for a layup. She made one of the two free throws and Wyandotte's off-balance buzzer shot was no good.

Wyandotte, 1-2 overall, jumped out to a 12-8 lead but Stevenson took a 24-22 halftime edge and was up 33-29 after three periods.

The Spartans made all but five of their 25 foul shots to just 7-of-13 free throw shooting for the home team.

Eight girls scored led by King's 11 points. Junior forward Stephanie Duiz scored seven and had 10 rebounds while Gusick scored seven and had five steals.

Colleen Breneman was six of six from the line.

LIGGETT 39, LUTH. WESTLAND 34: Not much question what the Warriors' girls will be working on this week.

Not after a 1-for-21 Tuesday night at the foul line doomed Lutheran High Westland to a loss at Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett.

"You know how high school athletics are made up of incidents and memories?" Coach Ron Gentz said. "This is one of those I'd like to forget."

Jenny Schulz scored nine points while Sharon Greer and Anna Schwewe had six apiece for Lutheran Westland in both schools' Metro Conference opener.

Lutheran Westland is now 0-4 overall while University-Liggett is 1-2. Junior point guard Karah Knope led Liggett with 13 points.

ST. AL'S 19, HURON VALLEY 17: The Hawks couldn't get off the last second shot they needed to tie or win.

Instead they suffered their first loss of the season in three games despite holding St. Alphonsus scoreless in the second quarter.

Sara Tacía scored eight points for Huron Valley Lutheran to lead all scorers but the Hawks made only eight of 40 shots in the game.

There were only 13 fouls called, also. Huron Valley Lutheran made 1-of-5 free throws in the game at Marshall Middle School and St. Alphonsus went 0-for-6.

LUTHERAN EAST 56, C'VILLE 9: The Trojans' Metro Conference season got off to a rocky start Tuesday night with a 47-point loss to Harper Woods Lutheran East on the road. Livonia Clarenceville coach Rosie Marano didn't pull any punches about her team's performance.

"We didn't come to play," she said. "We had a lack of hustle and a lack of intensity out there. We didn't execute any of the fundamentals. There was no boxing out, no teamwork at all."

Lutheran East took a 16-3 lead after the first quarter and added to its lead the three following periods. Clarenceville failed to score in the third period.

"We played very poorly," said Marano, whose team is 2-2 overall. "I think this is the lowest we can get."

Rachael Koerke was Clarenceville's leading scorer with four points.

Northwood rules Madonna tourney; WHAC honors freshman Malewski

Madonna University's volleyball team managed to survive pool play losing just one of 13 games in Saturday's 10-team Madonna Invitational. But the Lady Crusaders couldn't match Northwood University, which beat them three-straight in the final.

Still, Madonna freshman Brandy Malewski (from Redford Thurston) earned Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference player of the week honors for her tourney performance. Malewski, a middle hitter, led the Crusaders with 56 kills and a .444 kill percentage; she added three solo blocks and 21 block assists, six service aces and 17 digs.

Madonna went 4-0 in pool play, beating Huntington College 15-9, 15-4, 15-4; University of Michigan-Dearborn 15-7, 15-12, 16-14; Olivet Nazarene 15-6, 17-15, 15-12; and St. Xavier University 15-9, 15-8, 11-15, 15-10.

But Northwood, which also lost just one game in pool play, knocked off the Crusaders in the championship match in straight sets, 15-7, 15-7, 15-10.

Northwood's Lucie Jara was named the tournament's most valuable performer.

Madonna's other tournament standout was Karin Sisung, who joined Malewski on the all-tournament team. Sisung had 51 kills, nine aces, a team-best 49 digs and 13 total blocks.

Next best for the Crusaders were Erin Gregoire with 42 kills, four aces, 47 digs and 10 total blocks; setter Deanna Helmsom with 14 kills, 170 assists to kills (10.63 per game) and 12 aces (both team highs), 31 digs and nine blocks; and Rayna Vert with 29 kills (.328 percentage), six aces, a team-best eight solo blocks and 16 block assists.

On Tuesday, Madonna slipped to 7-3 with a 16-14, 12-15, 15-12, 15-9 loss to Saginaw Valley State at Madonna.

Sisung's 13 kills topped the Crusaders, but she also had 16 kill errors for a .052 kill average. Sisung added a team-high four service aces, six digs and four blocks.

Malewski had 12 kills, seven digs and 10 blocks; Nicole Scharrer contributed 11 kills (.375 average) and seven blocks; Vert had 11 kills and 10 blocks; Gregoire finished with nine kills, a team-high 12 digs and five blocks; and Helmsom totaled 40 assists to kills.

SVSU improved to 6-4 with the win.

On Tuesday, Lutheran Westland improved its dual meet record to 4-0 by winning a five-school meet at Cass Benton Park.

Lutheran Westland led the way with 15 points, followed by Beverly Hills-Detroit Country Day (45) and Harper Woods (85). Host Plymouth Christian Academy and Warren Bethesda did not score.

The Warriors were led by Ebendick who was second (18:17); Latimer, third (18:27); Broge, fourth (18:35); Jason McFall, fifth (19:42); Steve McFall, sixth (19:49); and Clark Covert, seventh (20:06).

have taken our top two quality kids out and still won the meet," Holmberg said. "We have kids here for the fourth year and they have the same type of attitude — they're going to outwork everybody and the young kids have bought into that."

Depth is also something Holmberg can draw from with the likes of Leslie Knapp, Julie Sachau and Delia Dumitrescu.

"Those girls could run on most varsity teams," Holmberg said. "They are very competitive kids who are pushing the top seven."

Another area team emerging as a potential state qualifier is Churchill.

The Chargers were led by junior Ashley Fillion, who finished sixth in 20:17.1.

Three others finished in the top 50 including Renee Kashawlic, 19th (21:04.1); Jenny Duncan, 41st (21:40.2); and Alison Fillion, 47th (21:44.2).

Plymouth Salem, 10th overall with 277 points, was led by Evelyn Rahhal, who was 20th (21:05.2), and Ellen Stemmer, 44th (21:41.9). Farmington Hills Mercy's top two runners included Jackie Segue, 40th (21:40.0) and Erin Thomas, 48th (21:46.4).

In the Class C-B Division, Jackson Lumen Christi, led by individual winner Jenny Ziegler (21:00.8), took the team title with 87 points. Lutheran High Westland was 12th with 329 and Farmington Hills Harrison was 16th with 511.

Franklin hands Rockets 1st defeat of year

Westland John Glenn went down to its first boys soccer defeat of the young 1997 season Monday to visiting Livonia Franklin, 2-1, but the Rockets earned kudos for their performance.

"They're a decent team and much improved," Franklin coach Dave Hebestreit said. "Their goalie (Justin Ballard) did a nice job. And number eight (John Sterling) and No. 15 (Jeff Ruppel) played very well."

Glenn is now 4-1 overall, while Franklin improved to 3-4.

"This is the first time we finally came out and played a full game," Hebestreit said. "We had a totally different system in place and we put a lot of pressure on them offensively."

In the first half, Franklin jumped out to a 1-0 lead on freshman Ken Douglass' goal on a back door play after junior Fernando Cazares dribbled the ball to the corner.

Five minutes into the second half, Glenn's Jeff Shelby tied it on an assist from Matt Trussler.

But Franklin sophomore Ross Bohler tallied the game-winner just a minute later on an assist from senior Adam Shanks.

Franklin goalkeeper Jeremy Bruckner, with the help of junior Bill Fischer and Douglass, then held Glenn scoreless the rest of the game.

"Under the conditions, we played well," Glenn coach Jerry Poniatowski said.

BOYS SOCCER

"Franklin beat us to the ball. But it was a real good game. I have no complaints. It's a good rivalry and it was a clean game."

STEVENSON 7, W.L. WESTERN 1: Sophomore Mike White had two goals and two assists Monday as Livonia Stevenson (2-1-1 overall) scored five unanswered goals in the second half at Walled Lake Western.

Tom Eller, Adam Coulter, Ryan Broderick and brothers Sergio and Tommaso Mainella added the other goals for the defending state Class A champs.

CHURCHILL 5, N. FARMINGTON 2: Rob Bartoletti's hat trick carried Livonia Churchill (2-0-3 overall) to the victory Monday over visiting North Farmington.

Shawn Murray scored the Chargers' other two goals. Dave George and Joel Stage each contributed two assists. Mike Friedland added one.

Churchill led 4-0 before North (3-1) scored. On Saturday, Mark Sicilia notched two goals and added one assist as the Chargers won at Rochester, 3-2.

Dan Ott contributed the other Churchill goal, while Murray and Stage each got credit for assists. Goalkeeper Steve Kleczynski made eight saves in the win over Rochester (0-4-1) and had seven more in the victory over North.

DeLASALLE 4, REDFORD CC 1: After 50 minutes of no scoring, Warren De La Salle's offense hit high gear Tuesday night in defeating Redford Catholic Central at Roseville Memorial Field.

DeLaSalle's Peter Salas broke a scoreless tie 10 minutes into the second half on a shot from the outside. The ball deflected off of a Shamrock defender in going into the net.

The Pilots' Joe Simon made it 2-0 a few minutes later. CC cut the deficit in half with 25 minutes to go in the game, but couldn't manage any more offense.

Simon and Eddie Kiefer added insurance goals for Warren.

"The key to the game was that we crossed our outside very well," DeLaSalle coach Thayer Mukhtar said. "We scored all of our goals from the outside."

"That's the key to our game, utilizing the whole field."

The Shamrocks fell to 1-1 in the Catholic League's Central Division and 3-2-2 overall.

De La Salle moved into first place with a 1-0-1 mark in the division. The Pilots are 3-1-3 overall.

WAYNE 1, CARLSON 1: Ryan Marek's goal with three minutes left in the game gave Gibraltar Carlson (3-0-1) a tie Monday with host Wayne Memorial (0-2-1).

Wayne led 1-0 at intermission on Justin Beseler's goal.

The Zebraws' keeper was Matt Arnett.

BAPTIST PARK 8, HURON VALLEY 0: Westland Huron Valley Lutheran is still seeking its first victory after three tries as host Taylor Baptist Park scored three goals in the opening seven minutes to earn the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference victory.

Baptist Park, which led 6-0 at halftime, was sparked by Jim Watkins' five goals.

Huron Valley goalkeeper Jared Ridenour made 16 saves.

The Hawks, who also have yet to tally a goal in three games, lost last Thursday at Allen Park Inter-City Baptist Park, 5-0.

Tough to beat

Despite losses, Spartans remain strong

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

It sounds like a broken record, but Livonia Stevenson is again the favorite to win the Western Lakes Activities Association girls swim relays — for the seventh straight year.

The all-relay format begins at 5 today at Plymouth Salem High School and the Lady Spartans appear to have another powerhouse despite the loss of six-time individual state champion Anne Aristeo.

Adrienne Turri Stevenson

"Anne was the only state qualifier we lost to graduation," said coach Greg Phill, who guided the Stevenson to a third-place finish last year in the state Class A meet. "And obviously you can't replace her at a championship meet. She scored a lot of points and it's tough to make that up. I think we lost more than anybody at state."

GIRLS SWIMMING

Aristeo, an Olympic Trials qualifier who will swim this fall for Stanford, takes with her the state mark in the 500-yard freestyle (4:48.67) and firsts in the individual 200 freestyle (1:49.41) and 200 freestyle relay (1:37.82).

Three members of that 200 freestyle relay quartet, however, return this fall including seniors Adrienne Turri, Jordyn Godfroid and Marti McKenzie.

"We're still a pretty good team," Phill said. "(Birmingham) Seaholm (defending champ) should be the favorite and Ann Arbor Pioneer and (Bloomfield Hills) Lahser will be good. We still have a pretty good team and we'll be there somewhere in the top five."

Last Thursday, Stevenson met seven state qualifying cuts en route to a season-opening 107-79 dual-meet victory at Grosse Pointe North.

Senior Becky Noechel teamed up with Turri, Godfroid and McKenzie for a first and a state qualifying time of 1:55.4 in the 200 medley relay.

Turri added firsts in the 100 butterfly (1:01.5) and 100 backstroke (1:01.1), both state cuts. In last year's state meet, Turri took sixth in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:00.22.

Junior Julie Kern, who won the 500 freestyle (5:10.5) and took a second in the 200 freestyle (2:00.1), also has already qualified for state.

Other Stevenson firsts in the North dual included Godfroid in the 50 freestyle (26.3), sophomore Jessica Makowski in the 100 freestyle (57.1) and sophomore Katie Ballantine in diving (200.5 points).

Sophomore Megan Mocer, who will swim the 200- and 500 freestyles, along with the 200 individual medley, added a third and a state cut in the 500 freestyle (5:25.33).

Stevenson's 400 freestyle relay team of Kern, Mocer, Turri and junior Meghan Lesnau, which finished second against North (4:49.6), also met the state cut.

One of the team's most versatile swimmers, sophomore Katie Clark, is currently out with a shoulder injury.

In last year's state meet, Clark teamed up with Mocer, Kern and Aristeo for a third in the 400 freestyle relay (3:33.15), the second-best time in school history.

"We really can't load up on relays right now until Katie comes back," Phill said. "She's getting over her injury, but she may not be ready until mid-October."

The Spartans will also rely on senior Marla McKenzie in the 100 butterfly and freshman Lindsay Dolin in the 100 backstroke.

Another promising freshman, Valerie Sierzega, was lost recently for the season when she broke both ankles.

But despite the setbacks this season and the graduation of Aristeo, the Spartans remain Observerland's best.

Storytelling

MEADOW BROOK CONTINUES THE TRADITION

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

The theme of this year's Meadow Brook Theatre season is "family." The season begins with a Catholic family in Buffalo seen through the eyes of a 12-year-old boy and ends with a Jewish family in Yonkers seen through the eyes of two boys in their early teens.

Artistic director Geoffrey Sherman talks about creating an "arc" for this season and for the past two seasons during which Sherman has tried to broaden Meadow Brook's place in the family of Detroit-area theaters.

As a not-for-profit, professional theater operating under the auspices of Oakland University, Meadow Brook occupies a special place. It's primary audience has been white, middle class and suburban. But Sherman has tried to reach out to other audiences and to offer more diverse material for the core audience. He said he wants to create "a gray audience" for a theater that welcomes everyone.

Sherman relaxed his long, slim body in a rose-colored recliner in a trailer dressing room at Meadow Brook Theatre. During a long conversation, he discussed how Meadow Brook fits into the Detroit theater scene, his philosophy of regional theater and the upcoming "family" oriented season.

Sherman came to Meadow Brook after establishing a reputation as both a New York director and a regional theater director. He came to the United States from his native Britain 20 years ago. He has directed soap operas and talk shows for NBC, off-Broadway shows, free lanced around the country and spent four years directing the Portland Rep in Oregon before coming to Meadow Brook.

Sherman's first step in developing a season is selecting the plays.

"It's done by me as artistic director by reading plays, seeing plays elsewhere on both sides of the Atlantic," Sherman said. "It's also developed through the filter of our mission statement. Our mission statement commits us to producing works that illuminate the latter half of the 20th Century."

Sherman has tried to concentrate on recent plays that "truly represent our times."

This season includes two Pulitzer

Prize winners, Edward Albee's "Three Tall Women" and Neil Simon's "Lost in Yonkers"; a musical based on the blues, "Thunder Knocking on the Door"; Joe Orton's comedy "What the Butler Saw"; a new comedy about growing up Catholic, "Over the Tavern"; the murder mystery "Murder by Misadventure"; and the return of Charles Nolte's version of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" featuring veteran actor Booth Colman.

Sherman discovered what happens when you try to change a tradition when he tried different versions of "Christmas Carol." The audience response was loud and negative.

"We are returning to the original production that people loved for more than a decade," he said.

"I regret having made some people unhappy by changing a tradition in a way that they found distasteful. It's like changing a church service."

Audience response is one of the elements that helps Sherman develop a season.

"I've tried to set up a communication link, tried to set up a dialogue with talk back," he said. "I length-

Players Guild of Dearborn opens its 70th anniversary Friday with Neil Simon's classic "London Suite," a hilarious compilation of stories taking place in one lavish London hotel room.

The volunteer group, which owns its theater, has been involved in a fund-raising campaign, and recently installed air-conditioning, and renovated restrooms to make them handicap accessible.

"We didn't want to exclude people from the audience by not being handicapped accessible," said member Mary Porretta of Troy. "We hold a 50/50 raffle at every performance."

For their 70th anniversary season, the Players Guild of Dearborn is presenting some classics such as "Music Man," and "1940s Radio Hour," and some newer works such as "Crimes of the Heart," and "Sly Fox."

Players Guild of Dearborn draws its audience from all over western Wayne County including Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth, Canton, Downriver and Dearborn. A script committee meets regularly to review scripts for consideration, and also surveys the audience.

Porretta and her husband, George, met at the University of Detroit where they were both involved in theater. Mary joined the Players Guild in 1987, her husband joined a year later. ## Musica Viva celebrates 'soul' of world culture

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

Cultural understanding never comes easily or quickly. But that hardly discourages Bloomfield Hills-based Musica Viva.

What Ginka Gerova-Ortega, founder/artistic director, and the many volunteers of the nonprofit have in mind is simply to expand cross-cultural understanding by bringing the indigenous sounds of the world to the metro area.

For the last 11 years, the Musica Viva international concert series has imported string quartets, flamenco guitarists, classical tango and Afro-Peruvian singing, to name just a few of their acts with a distinctive cosmopolitan flavor.

This Sunday, audiences with an international auditory appetite will be stretched further with "The Russian Virtuosi," featuring Russian spouses Natalya and Slava Semyonov. Natalya plays the domra while Slava is the founder of the modern performance school of the bayan - a reference to the Russian word for a concert accordion.

"He's been called the 'Rubinstein of the bayan,'" said Gerova-Ortega, an acclaimed international flutist in her own right and former student of virtuoso Jean-Pierre Rampal.

The accordion? Arguably, the Rodney Dangerfield of instruments among the refined musical mediums?

Well, revolution is in the air.

A grand sound

"World music is exploding," said Geroened the preview season to involve the audience in the production. We now do three previews for each show and use comments to clarify what we're doing. We've made changes based on audience comments."

When selecting the plays, Sherman tries to find thematic links.

"This season the thematic link is the family in all its glory, functionality and dysfunctionality," Sherman said.

After selecting several scripts, Sherman has the artistic and administrative staff read them to begin the winnowing process. Then the list is shortened again based on whether the theater can afford to produce it.

The theater operates on a $2-1/2 million budget. Sherman said that when he arrived two years ago up to 85 percent of the budget was coming from earned income instead of the usual 60 percent earned, 40 percent contributed.

"As we're doing more challenging plays, we run the risk of an audience not always liking the plays all the time," Sherman said.

For the first time, Oakland University is now providing direct support in the form of a three-year reducing subsidy designed for the theater to work down to a zero deficit. The theater also receives money from the state-supported Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs. It does not receive any National Endowment for the Arts money.

Sherman is quick to say that Meadow Brook Theatre is "more than just a production line for plays." Since coming to the theater, Sherman has been interested in diversifying the audience and expanding the theater's outreach programs.

"My briefing when coming here was to open up the artistic policy and make it more inclusive," he said. "I had built a reputation in New York for working with playwrights of color."

One of Sherman's early Meadow Brook successes was a critically acclaimed production of August Wilson's "Piano Lesson," the first play by a black playwright ever performed at Meadow Brook.

He has since worked with Detroit's Plowshares Theatre Company on a joint production of "I Am A Man" last season. This year's co-production with Plowshares is "Thunder Knocking on the Door" featuring a black cast in a musical play by Keith Glover with music by blues artist Keb' Mo'.

Meadow Brook's new associate artistic director is Debra Lynne Wicks, an African-American. Wicks has performed as an actress and directed more than 40 regional theater, summer stock and university productions, including Meadow Brook's production of "The Piano Lesson."

"I think we as human beings, as our information network has expanded, we've become more compartmentalized and tribal in outlook. Prejudice is the result of ignorance," Sherman said.

He is committed to other outreach programs, particularly taking Meadow Brook Theatre on the road.

"We have a duty to take our work elsewhere," Sherman said. "What is it about the arts in America that people have ceased to care. America may be a great society but can't be a great culture without the arts."

Sherman said the concentration of arts in the big city centers has alienated many people who live in small towns and resent the idea of having their taxes support arts they can't enjoy.

Last year, Meadow Brook experimented by sending a road production of the comedy "Beau Jest" to several communities up north. Next spring, Sherman wants to develop specially designed productions that can be performed inexpensively in school gymnasiums, libraries and small theaters.

"We want to present the best we have to offer," Sherman said.

Other outreach programs include special performances for school groups, a "Page to Stage" literacy program with Pontiac and Avondale schools and offering help to other professional theater groups in the form of costumes, sets and technical expertise.

Sherman is dedicated to the "theater experience."

"What we're doing is continuing the tradition of storytelling," Sherman said. "The interaction of audience and actor is unique. It's a totally different experience from cinema. The community created for every single performance of a play is unique."

Sherman said some people are afraid of theater and he wants Meadow Brook to be the theater that overcomes that fear.

Associate director:
Debra Lynne Wicks was recently named associate director at Meadow Brook Theatre. Her duties will include directing plays, assisting with casting and play selection as well as overseeing Meadow Brook Theatre's educational outreach programs.

va-Ortega. "We're discovering the expression of the 'soul' in the farthest places in the world."

Think about it: first the Berlin Wall came down and the subsequent flood of expression from formerly repressed citizens of Eastern European countries rushed past historical and geographical boundaries.

So, it's only natural to move on to more serious issues like dispelling the stereotypes of the accordion.

If a bouncing polka band, a pasty-faced Lawrence Welk or a merry barrel-chested Italian fellow come to mind, then you haven't kept up with recent changes.

On the world stage, the portable pleated instrument with a vertical keyboard and metal reeds is not only being rediscovered, its versatility is being celebrated.

"The accordion is becoming associated with a certain lifestyle," said Gerova-Ortega. "The sound and color of the instrument is as grand as an organ."

For Gerova-Ortega, this Sunday's concert is just another step toward prying open the door to cross-cultural acceptance. Semyonov's original compositions are influenced as much by classical music as Russian folklore.

"It's much easier to present the same type of music over and over," she said. "It takes a while for audiences to cross over."

In the age of multiculturalism whereby the world is electronically bound without the benefit of an historical context, "acceptance" may also be another way to build "cultural tolerance."

The rampant strife in Bosnia, the former Soviet Republics, the Middle East, Africa and ongoing disturbances among minorities and majorities in countries throughout the world give rise to the hope that world music can accomplish what politics cannot.

A colorful world

Like many in today's world music scene, Musica Viva concerts help redefine the "world rhythm" by promoting cultural pluralism and an expanded notion of concert-worthy music.

While the works of great composers like Bach, Beethoven and Mozart are continually presented in traditional venues, world music reflects a contemporary "cultural sound" worthy of similar respect, said Gerova-Ortega.

Ironically, world music is as evasive to define as the notion of a "world people." Diversity and harmonic evolution are the only constants.

For instance, world music extends from the jungles of Brazil, to the sounds of the indigenous tribes living in the Andes, African chants, American jazz, songs from black Peru and Cuban a cappella.

The musical diversity, according to Gerova-Ortega, is a starting point to explore other elements of a culture.

"A composer comes from a milieu, a tradition. When you hear music that you like, don't you ask: 'Where did the composer come from?'" said Gerova-Ortega, who emigrated from Bulgaria in the early 1960s.

In what seems as much an anthropological pursuit as a musical exploration, Musica Viva's season reflects Gerova-Ortega's curiosity to inquire into other cultures.

Upcoming concerts include Susana Baca, an Afro-Peruvian singer; the Leipzig String Quartet; classical guitarist Philip Caudelazia; and a festival of world music in mid April, featuring Latin jazz.

In early May, Musica Viva will hold the 10th annual Flute Festival, a venue for Michigan flutists along with guest artists from the international stage.

"The world is so colorful because people are always bringing their own fresh ideas to try to 'touch people,'" said Gerova-Ortega. "That's the beauty, the treasure of world music."

transcend the miles," she said. "Everyone is so committed to doing a fabulous job. The volunteers infuse commitment, it's motivating and catchy, you want to do it."

Over the years she has been on stage, helped with props and lighting, fund-raising, and publicity. "You just kind of grow with it," she said.

Lisa Andres of Livonia and her family has been involved in the Players Guild of Dearborn since 1981. Lisa's husband is a past president of the group.

They joined shortly after they were married, and their three children have grown up with the guild.

"I just love it," said Andres who has been in shows, directed, worked on costumes, and helped out back stage. "We've made so many friends. It's just fun."

Everything I do there is for love. Everyone's like a family."

Six years ago Andres helped start Guildings, the Guild's youth theater group, which presents one show a year. Andres writes the shows and tries to cast as many children as possible.

"It really teaches them commitment," she said about the children involved in theater. "It helps them be more outgoing. They have fun, and make friends. It's good for them to be there on stage with other children, and to count on them."

JET's 'Falsettos' sounds in perfect harmony

Jewish Ensemble Theatre presents "Falsettos" in the Aaron DeRoy Theatre at the Jewish Community Center, 6600 W. Maple, West Bloomfield, through Oct. 5. Call (248) 788-2900 for tickets and show times. Tickets range from $13 to $23. Senior, student and group discounts available.
BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

If you're looking for some fine entertainment that's slightly off-beat, you can't lose with "Falsettos," now on-stage at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre.

Directed by Nicholas Calanni, the musical (in which all lines are sung, not spoken) centers around a rather ordinary Jewish guy named Marvin who finds himself facing some really big problems. He has a wife and an adolescent son, and he's fallen hard for a hunky guy named Whizzer.

The Tony Award-winning "Falsettos," written by William Finn and James Lapine, is the first musical ever produced at the JET. Let's hope it's the beginning of a trend. From its opening number, "Four Jews in a Room Bitching," to the concluding "Falsettos," this is simply deli-icious theatre.

What makes it delicious? Begin with some savvy performances by a cast that seems tailor-made for these upbeat-downbeat tunes and the funny/sad/provocative flavor of this timely play that deals with everything from AIDS to family values to "nouvelle bar mitzvah cuisine."

John Sartor's Marvin seems as ordinary - and as complex - as your next-door neighbor. Somehow, he makes this character - who leaves his wife and young son for the distinctly-less-than-perfect Whizzer - both totally convincing and utterly sympathetic.

As the luscious lug, Whizzer, Brian Schulz gets the chance to wear a lot of tight jeans and muscle-hugging T-shirts, while he's winning our hearts as well as Marvin's. No small amount of his appeal lies in his way with a song, especially the confessional, "The Games I Play."

In the role of Trina, the attractive but often-confused wife, Milica Govich turns in an irresistible and effortless performance. "The only thing that's breaking up is my family," she sings. "But me - I'm breaking down."

Let it be noted that we should all possess such charm and style as we fall to pieces.

Jeff Nahan, as the therapist who can't resist Trina, is maybe the most lovable lecher you'll ever come across. And Judy Dery and Barbara Coven as the "lesbians next door" are a talented and dynamite duo.

Finally, Nicholas Cornfield as the caught-in-the-middle, adolescent son, turns in a performance that flirts with brilliance. His Jason is as subtle as he is lively, as able to touch your heart as to tickle your funny bone.

William Finn's music is under the first-rate direction of Ben Cohen. This translates into a confident cast, and proof that it's not necessary to possess a grand singing voice to deliver a song in a very big way.

Combine all of the above with some especially zippy pacing, plus some creative and careful attention to lighting (Mark Berg), costumes (Edith Leavis Bookstein), and sets (Monika Essen), and it's hard to find a single false note in this rendition of "Falsettos."

A new and familiar face at DSO's opening concert

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra opens its new 1997-98 concert season at Orchestra Hall tonight with Polish conductor Jerzy Semkow and 14-year-old piano prodigy Helen Huang as the soloist. The program features Beethoven's Leonore Overture No. 3, Mozart's Piano Concerto in C major (K. 467) and Brahms' Symphony No. 4.

Since last year's concert season, the historic Orchestra Hall neighborhood has undergone a dramatic physical change. Patrons can see Phase I of the $80 million Orchestra Place Development Project, a new five-story office/retail complex and an 800-car parking deck.

New sidewalks and lamppost banners have also been added to the area. And in early 1998, a new restaurant, Duet, will open near the corner of Woodward and Mack Avenue.

Kicking off the new DSO season, WQRS-FM (105.1) will feature a special opening night broadcast starting at 7 p.m. The show will be hosted by Dave Wagner and feature interviews with musicians, conductors, ticket holders along with recordings of the evening's repertoire.

Stewart Francke branches out with new pop sounds

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Pop singer Stewart Francke was getting bored with his straight-up rock 'n' roll sound. So while recording his latest album "House of Lights," he took his style a step further.

"House of Lights," which hit stores Tuesday, Sept. 8, infuses drum loops and pop sounds thanks in part, Francke said, to producers Brad Fairman and Dave Feeny.

"They helped me contemporize the sound and bring in drum loops. It made it more rhythmic, more compelling. It made it not so much a straight up rock 'n' roll album, which is cool but I was just getting bored with it."

Stewart explained that he figured if he was interested in it, his fans may be as well.

"I wanted to make it a little more funky. I listen to the radio a lot. I love the radio. I hear people complain about the radio but the choices you have in Detroit, the radio's great. You always hear a great song. It's pretty cool."

On the radio, he "was hearing different rhythms. A lot of the samples are taken from '60s groups. None of them are brand new, but they're used in an innovative way. I was listening to more R&B, a little bit more rap. I would hear it and say, 'That's cool.' I liked it as a fan."

"House of Lights" explores what it means to live in "a committed relationship, in a situation where you can't just cut and run. You're not an outsider. ... Some of the songs are about what happens when people decide they can't live with those constraints any more," Francke said.

In "Rebecca," for example, the main character is having an affair.

"She drives home to her children after having this affair. There's a line in the song, 'A soul fallen to temptation/Forever shall that soul repair.' It's just so true. Everything counts. You live with everything you do. There's a price on everything you do. That's kind of what I wanted to get to with this song," Francke explained.

The first single will be "Upon Seeing Simone," on which legendary Detroit rocker Mitch Ryder sings harmony.

"It's got the horns and stuff. That's probably my favorite track. It's exciting. It's a fun song to listen to no matter how many hundreds of times I've heard it," Francke said.

"It tells a story. With the last couple of records, they aren't comprehensive reflections of who I am, in the sense that there wasn't a lot of humor in them. For the people who know me, I'm not serious that often. All my friends and I was just cut up all the time. I'm glad I got a little humor in that song."

The song is about a man who protests his innocence to his wife about a girl he used to know.

"She had a tube top double stop and switchblade eyes/Her hair cut like a man and adolescent thighs. She said, 'It's a long way from New York City, but I found the fare for a Greyhound Bus. Don't tell me you love me or say that I'm pretty. There ain't a man here who hasn't known my sweet touch,'" Francke sings.

"Everybody says rock music or pop music has to be about the basics - cars, sex and girls. But it doesn't have to. I thought, 'Why can't I put this in rock 'n' roll music? Why can't I write about things that everybody thinks about?'" Francke explained.

With "House of Lights," Francke is doing things his way. "I learned a lot about the business and everything like that," Francke said of his previous releases, 1995's "Where the River Meets the Bay" and 1996's "Expecting Heroes."

"I've been learning all along for the last 10 years. I decided I was going to do all the work myself. Why not instead of making $1 a record, why not make $7 a record. Granted that means I'd have to get all the cash up front, manufacture the record, put it out yourself. You kind of do that anyway. If you really want to do it right, you have to work so hard to begin with. I enjoy the business end of it."

He's getting a little help, however. MS Distribution in Chicago will distribute "House of Lights" throughout the United States, while Immediate Records will take care of Europe.

Songwriting, however, is the first and foremost concern.

"I just wanted to make a pop record with melodies people could sing. That just appeals to me right now. I listen to the Beatles, a lot of Brian Wilson. I like Ben Folds Five a lot. But I do it in my own way. You can't really imitate anything because it ends up sounding like me anyway."

Stewart Francke performs with Susan Calloway and Sun 209 at 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12, at Lili's, 2930 Jacob, Hamtramck. Cover charge is $5 for the 21 and older show. For more information, call (313) 875-6555. Other performances include: 8 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 14, with Michael McDermott at the Ark, 316 S. Main St., in Ann Arbor. Tickets for the all-ages show are $10, $9 for members, students and seniors. (313) 761-1800; 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 26, with Barb Payton at the Atwater Block Brewery, 237 Jos. Campau, Detroit. (313) 393-2337; A free show at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30, at Harmony House, 30830 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills. (248) 626-4533; and at 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 3, as part of the grand opening celebration of Borders Books and Music, 34300 Woodward Ave., Birmingham. (248) 203-0005.

If you have a question or comment for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her in care of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, or you can leave her a message at (313) 953-2047, mailbox No. 2130, or via e-mail at CFuoco@aol.com

Galleries look forward to an exciting autumn season

BACKSTAGE PASS

never-before-aired songs from our stellar roster of musical guests and highlights from our first season. And starting Oct. 2, keep every Thursday night at 9:30 free; that's when we start our second season of covering Detroit's myriad cultural and arts events.

Last week, we used the break to preview the upcoming theatrical season. Anticipation runs high for the visual arts' new season of shows, too. So I called our correspondents in the visual arts to preview the season in the Metro area's galleries.

They're looking forward to an exciting season overall. But, of course, I pressed them for highlights. Gerry Craig, the curator of the Wildlife Interpretive Gallery at the Detroit Zoo, was busy with an opening of her own, "Coral Reef Masterpieces," a collection of underwater photos of coral reefs from around the world. But she took time to give recommendations. "The Detroit Artists' Market is having a great show called 'Un-Defining Crafts.' Also, the Center Gallery at the Center for Creative Studies is doing a show called 'Goddesses' through the end of October. Both galleries are non-profits, and they're both really great shows."

Art critic Marsha Miro concurred with Gerry on "Goddesses" at the Center Gallery. "They have a great group of Detroit-area artists looking at how we pick and personify the 'best' of the female species." She had her own list, too. "The Leon Golub-Nancy Spero show at Wayne State's new gallery in Old Main is a great initiation. The artists have strong social consciences and see art as having relevance beyond wall decoration."

"And the Jim Chatelain-Ron Nagle show at Revolution in Ferndale. Chatelain gets the pulse of Detroit into his figures and still lifes. They're just weird! And Nagle, who's from California, can get more pop, funky, sun-drenched energy into a ceramic cup and still make it sophisticated, like Walt Disney visiting Da Vinci - that's the kind of fusion he gets. He uses '50s linoleum patterns that look like they could have been done by Jackson Pollock."

David Rau, the curator of education at the Cranbrook Art Museum, tried to be modest and avoid gushing Cranbrook's season, but eventually my pestering won out. "Cranbrook is introducing its 'What's Next' season with three exciting shows: 'The Sound of One Bomb Clapping' features a remarkable collection of drawings, installations, taped performances and sculptural artifacts that document the work of Swiss artist Roman Signer."

He often harnesses natural forces - like wind, water and fire - in the form of explosives to create poetically resonant and playful works of art." Finally, art meets pyrotechnics! Beavis and Butthead would approve. Also in the series are the exhibitions "Do It," an exhibit of works made by people following step-by-step directions from a roster of international artists, and "Ambiguous Signifiers: The Drawings of Claudia Goulette."

I let David select other highlights. "The Pontiac galleries continue to thrive with their great 'First Fridays' openings. Once you hook into that scene, you can visit a lot of galleries and see a lot of art, plus a lot of clubs and great places to eat. Of course, the Splendors of Ancient Egypt at the DIA is getting rave reviews. Now that the summer tourists are gone, we locals should make a point of seeing it."

All in all, it looks like another busy art season in the galleries. But, as Marsha points out, the seasonal overview shows trends both good and bad. "The work of major artists from all over the world are coming to town."

That galleries are hosting significant contemporary artists across a whole range of media means the community is supporting that level of show with both attendance and sales. At the same time, the galleries that show Michigan and local artists are struggling. We've even lost a couple.

You don't want the local artists moving away because they're not being supported. Maybe we're finally seeing the downside from some of the major cuts in funding for the arts. It's deflating for the local scene because you lose a kind of funky, grass-roots energy with the number of alternative spaces diminishing." We can't let that happen!

This season on Backstage Pass every Thursday at 9:30 on Channel 56, we'll keep giving you the information you need to support Detroit's vibrant art scene. The rest is up to you. Now get out there!

Restaurant owners hope to 'stir up' Northville

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Fun and upbeat, Cary Beale and John Janviriyia are hoping to "stir" things up a little in downtown Northville with their Stir Crazy Cafe, which opened Monday.

The partners grew up in Southfield, and now live in Farmington Hills. They got their building permit in March, and started renovating the former Domino's Pizza with help from Greg Eittlman Design of Northville.

Stir Crazy's conservative exterior blends in well with the Northville's historic downtownscape, but the interior is very modern, yet inviting, warm, open and airy. It overlooks Northville Downs in back.

Friends since kindergarten, Beale and Janviriyia, both 23, complement each other like salt and pepper. Beale has a business background, Janviriyia is an artist and cook.

"I like working with people," said Beale who earned an associate's degree in restaurant management from Lansing Community College.

"The dining experience is supposed to be fun," said Janviriyia. "Everything here is a new creation. I never eat at home and know what I want from the wait-staff, and restaurant."

Their mission statement is "customer satisfaction regardless of cost," and the partners aim to deliver.

"This is an entertaining dining experience," explains Janviriyia, "but the food should be fresh, not burnt, and the service prompt." "Smile we are on stage" - is one of their mottos. They want Stir Crazy to be a friendly place where employees extend a warm sincere welcome to customers, and bid them a "fond farewell," with a "thank-you for your patronage." The Mongolian Barbecue-style of eating can be a little overwhelming to people for the first time. There are so many decisions to make - what kind of meat will I have? what kind of vegetables? Seasoning?

Diners are invited to step into the kitchen and make themselves at home. First stop is the salad bar, then you have to choose what kind of meat you want - chicken, beef, pork, lamb, calamari, shrimp, cod, turkey. They also have tofu. Then there's a wide variety of vegetables to choose from, broccoli, red, yellow and green peppers to name a few, spices and sauces "from mild to savory, from zesty to flavorful." The chef will prepare your dish while you wait, and watch.

Customers who don't have all-you-can-eat appetites will appreciate the one trip stir-fry and salad bar option. There's a kid's menu, and you can also order just the salad bar.

Rice and tortillas are served hot with your meal. Fresh Italian penne pasta is also available. Ask your server for a list of beverages and desserts. The tortilla is so you can make your own roll-up sandwich.

In the future the partners plan to introduce soups and appetizers to the menu.

"We priced ourselves to be a good value," said Beale. "We wanted to attract a younger crowd, and welcome all the new families in the area."

Beverage choices include eight different varieties of Snapple, other soft drinks and bottle juice.

"Customers will get a free bottle of spring water with their meal," said Beale. "We enjoy drinking it, and thought it would be a nice touch."

Kids get a free balloon.
