ALS helps nearly 2,000

A new report shows that 1,987 patients needed Advanced Life Support services when Westland paramedics responded to medical emergencies. The new program was launched amid much fanfare on Feb. 5, 1997.

Nearly 2,000 people suffering potentially life-threatening medical emergencies received help during the Westland Fire Department's first year of providing Advanced Life Support services.

A new report shows that 1,987 patients needed ALS services when Westland paramedics responded to medical emergencies.

"It is absolutely working even better than we had anticipated," Fire Chief Mark Neal said.

The new program, launched amid much fanfare on Feb. 5, 1997, places paramedics at all four Westland fire stations 24 hours a day.

"A review of the first year's reports shows that we have at least eight patients who can be clearly identified as survivors of certain death due solely to ALS intervention," Neal said in the report.

Those eight people include six heart attack victims, one drug overdose patient and one young boy who accidentally hanged himself.

"In each of these cases, the patient had no vital signs evident, and our paramedics revived them," Neal said.

"There are scores of patients whose lives were also saved by the quick intervention of our paramedics, who provided intravenous fluids and medications, which prevented them from

"I've got a feeling the chamber has unfortunately chosen to get down and wallow in politics a little bit," chiropractor Kim Shunkwiler said after the board ignored his president-elect status Wednesday while choosing a new president. The latest controversy came three months after a publicized rift between Westland Mayor Robert Thomas and some chamber leaders, including Shunkwiler. The dispute prompted the mayor to sever ties with the group. Thomas accused Shunkwiler and then-chamber President John Toye of campaigning against him in mayoral elections, and Thomas refused to work with them. The dispute raised fears that Westland's business community would suf-

Company's contract amended

As some north-end residents brace for a sewer-separation and streetpaving project that will disrupt their lives this summer, city officials hope to ease the burden as much as possible.

The newest phase of a $10 million federally mandated project is just beginning in a residential neighborhood bounded by Hubbard, Joy, Berwick and Ann Arbor Trail.

The area is just east of a neighborhood where many angry residents last summer complained of months of nightmarish conditions due to their streets being torn up.

"We do not want a repeat situation of what we had last year with this paving," Westland City Council president Sandra Cicirelli said.

Paving delays last summer followed an even worse problem in February. 1997, when raw sewage backed up into more than 400 basements due to a sewer construction flaw.

City officials are trying to bring better results this summer by approving an amended contract with Lanzo Con-

Westland 18th District Court wants offenders to pay their fines - on time.

To help, the court has installed a Novi Public Credit Union automated teller machine inside the court building.

"We're trying to make payment of court fines, fees and costs more readily available to the public," court administrator David Wiacek said.

"We do have some requests for alternative methods of payment - credit cards and the like," he added.

fer, although Shunkwiler and Toye had indicated a willingness to try to resolve differences with Thomas, The chamber has 361 members.

As president-elect. Shunkwiler was in line to become chamber president for a one-year term; but the 15-member board of directors instead voted by secret ballot Wednesday to elect Bonnie Carre, an NBD vice president who manages the branch on Wayne Road near Cowan.

findIt hit me out of the blue," Shunkwiler said. "It was a very embarrassing situation, and I feel like I'm the whipping boy for some reason.

shull'm going to have to resign from this board," Shunkwiler said. "I don't know how I could work effectively within that framework."

Contacted at his office, Thomas said he will move immediately to have Deputy Mayor George Gillies renew ties with the chamber. Thomas had removed Gillies from the chamber board. "The door is cracked open, and we will be talking," Thomas said. With those he views as his political enemies removed from chamber leadership roles, Thomas said he believes he and the chamber can work together to promote Westland to outsiders.

"I'm real glad that that happened," he said of Wednesday's chamber election results.

Carre said she is moving swiftly to develop some priorities, including restoring chambermayoral ties.

"It's important for the chamber to work in conjunction with the city to develop the business community," she said. "I'm pretty optimistic."

Margaret Harlow, a chamber member and former board member, said she believes Carre will do a good job as president.

"I think she'll be very good and very soothing to the rift between the chamber and the mayor,"

Harlow said. . Harlow wasn't aware until contacted Thursday that Shunkwiler had been passed over as chamber president.

"The last I heard, he was going to be chamber president and that was it," she said.

Chamber members said they could recall only one other time when a president-elect was passed over for the next presidency.

Thomas had said in January that nothing short of having Shunkwiler and Toye removed as chamber leaders would convince him to resume ties.

Chamber members apparently listened, much to the dismay of Shunkwiler.

"This isn't supposed to be political. It's supposed to be the chamber of commerce," he said.

Meanwhile, the chamber board elected other officers Wednesday:

Man charged with assault, retail fraud

A man caught stealing at a Westland supermarket last Sunday fled next door to a gas station, where he used a fake gun to try to seize a car, police said.

A suspect has been arrested and charged with assault with intent to commit armed robbery and first-degree retail fraud.

The incident began about 6:50 p.m. at Kroger on the northeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Merriman, police reports said.

Kroger employees confronted the man and accused him of stealing 10 disposable cameras, three bags of socks and two packages of cheese - all valued at $131, police reports said.

The man dropped the merchandise outside the store and, brandishing what turned out to be a fake handgun, escaped and fled next door to an Amoco station, police reports said.

The man again revealed the fake weapon and demanded car keys from a man pumping gas, police said. But the victim walked away without giving up his keys, prompting the culprit to leave the scene, police said.

The victim went inside the gas station and asked a cashier to call 911, and authorities from Inkster police and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department arrested the suspect a short distance from the scene, police said.

The weapon was described in police reports as a copper-colored gun-shaped cigarette lighter. The man allegedly told police he behaved the way he did because he is addicted to crack cocaine.

The suspect is jailed in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond. He is scheduled to appear in Westland 18th District Court on April 16 for a preliminary hearing that will determine whether he should stand trial as charged.~

If convicted as charged, he could face any number of years in prison.

Air bags seized at area scrap yard

A search warrant executed at a Wayne auto scrap yard resulted in the seizure of 150 suspected stolen air bags.

Members of the Western Wayne Auto Theft unit conducted the search Wednesday at Scrapbusters, 39223 Maple Road.

"Some of the air bags have been identified as stolen and we're working on the others," nell said the search warrant stemmed from information received on an earlier case in which more than 1,100 stolen air bags were recovered last year from a Detroit business, C.J. Metro.

"C.J. Metro's records showed they had sold 390 air bags to Scrapbusters," said Darnell.

Westland public safety officers got some much-needed help from local amateur radio operators after losing radio and telephone communications recently.

"When we lose our communications, we lose our effectiveness,' Fire Chief Mark Neal told the Westland City Council on Monday. "They made a huge difference in our response."

"We used them as an alternative to a phone system," said Assistant Fire Chief Bob Fields, Westland emergency services coordinator.

The problem occurred March 29 when an underground Ameritech cable shorted out, and employees worked until 7 a.m. the next morning to dry out lines and restore service, Fields said.

The city's central dispatch and the bulk of 911 lines were rendered useless for several hours at the Ford Road police department, as were phone lines at the city's main fire station next to City Hall.

The emergency occurred on "a beautiful day" when there was no storm, Neal said. The situation prompted the city to implement emergency measures to keep rescue operations going.

Firefighters used whatever means they had, including cellular phones, to communicate as plans went into effect to route all 911 calls to the city of Wayne, Fields said.

"The only communication that central dispatch had with the fire department was through a portable radio," Fields said in a report of the incident.

"Cellular phones were placed in service at the central (fire) station and the fire department provided a cellular phone to dispatch for emergency use," he wrote.

Members of Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES) stepped in to help at 9:45 a.m., with members being assigned to each fire station, Westland dispatch and Wayne dispatch to act as a phone sys-

By 1 p.m., mobile communications were working at dispatch, and repairs had been made to the dispatch fire frequency radio, Fields said in his report.

The city then released amateur radio operators – a little more than three hours after they stepped in - and began handling communications without help from RACES.

"Due to the quick response of the Westland RACES members, no delay was noted for any (emergency) response," Fields said.

Neal and Fields honored RACES members during a Monday night Westland City Council meeting, thanking them for doing their part to keep the city safe.

RACES is a federally-registered volunteer group. Members are certified after meeting criteria such as completing the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Emergency Management USA course.

Commissioners critical of committee assignments

Two western Wayne County Dearborn Heights; Livonia, II 'It becomes a quescommissioners are angered over a request from the commission chairman that they give up committee assignments for a recently-elected commissioner.

They believe it is another move to impede Republican influence on the commission.

Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, have been asked by Commission Chair Ricardo Solomon, D-Detroit, to give up committee assignments for Commissioner Kathleen Husk, R. Dearborn Heights.

Husk, who also represents Redford Township and part of Livonia east of Middlebelt, was elected March 10. Her election brought the number of Republican commissioners to three.

McCotter and Patterson believe that because the commission has added another Republican, the GOP representation on committees should increase. Republicans currently occupy seats representing the following communities: Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren townships, and the cities of Belleville.

Northville and Plymouth.

Angry at actions

Both commissioners beliève Solomon's request is an attempt to undermine the GOP's influence in committees and their work on the commission itself.

"There aren't two Republicans in any standing committee," McCotter said. "I've been asked to leave two committees, and Bruce (Patterson) has been asked to leave two committees."

"Now there are three Republican commissioners, and that's 450,000 people we represent out of 2.1 million," Patterson said.

Solomon did not return calls to his office last week on the commissioners' remarks.

McCotter serves on the commission's committees on Audit. Economic Development and Environmental, Drains and Sewers, and a standing committee on small, minority and womenowned businesses. Patterson serves on Committees on Roads, Airports and Public Services, Public Service and Judiciary, and Ways and Means. The commissioners also serve on a com-tion of disenfranchising voters out here.'

Thaddeus McCotter --- county commissioner

mission Task Force on Townships

Victims of success'

McCotter believes the Republicans were "victims of our own success," citing their actions with three other suburban commissioners to block the commission from acting to reject the Canton Downtown Development Authority in December 1996. even though the Republicans were clearly outnumbered on that issue. McCotter also said he acted to protect Northville Township's interest on the Economic Development Committee, delaying action on the Northville Planned Unit Development.

"We held things up to make sure the demolition took place," McCotter said.

McCotter expected to give up

II '... that's 450.000 people we represent out of 2.1 million.'

Bruce Patterson -county commissioner

his seat on Environment and Drains to Husk, because Husk's district includes Dearborn Heights, a community plagued by recent flooding, along with an appointment on a committee on small, minority and womenowned businesses.

Patterson said he would give up any of his committee assignments but with both airports in his district, Patterson probably would keep the Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services.

The commissioners expressed frustration.

"It becomes a question of disenfranchising voters out here," McCotter said. "Now we'll have to go to the community and take it to the streets."

The two commissioners say the situation leaves them with little agenda items.

"The explanation of 'no vote' is about the only tool a minority (Republican) member has available to set the record straight," Patterson said.

Travel ordinance held up

Patterson also is peeved over the lack of progress he sees on ordinances he introduces, particularly an ordinance he hopes would hold commissioners accountable for trips at county expense.

"If the way the Wayne County Commission runs the committee process is so important, then why do those in control so regularly miss meetings, reschedule meetings from regular meeting days to convenience their schedules, personal lifestyles and agendas and excuse missed attendance so cavalierly?" Patterson asked.

Patterson introduced a "Truth in Travel" ordinance in December. Patterson wants an audit completed of travel accounts, expenditures and documentation to be reviewed by the commission's Ways and Means Commitrecourse then to vote against tee. The ordinance was sent to the Committee on Ways and Means, which Commissioner George Cushingberry, D-Detroit, chairs, instead of General Gov ernment, where ordinances are generally discussed.

> "He had that sent to Ways and Means because he has control over the discussion," Patterson said, Patterson said Cushingberry canceled the first meeting in January. When it was placed on a second agenda in January, Patterson said he showed up again, but Cushingberry was tied up in court and couldn't get there in time. The item was eventually passed for the day without any discussion by commissioners.

Patterson had two ordinances approved when Ken Cockrel chaired the Committee on Public Safety and Judiciary.

Nankin Mills 'flooded' with kids, marshmallows t wasn't just the rain that flooded Hines Park and the Rouge River last week.

While the park may have been doused Thursday by rain, it wasn't enough to dampen the Easter spirits of hundreds of western Wayne County residents and their children.

In fact the sun shone brightly Friday for the children from Detroit to Northville who gathered at Nankin Mills Picnic Area in Westland Friday morning for the annual marshmallow drop.

Children were divided into age groups to collect their share of the marshmallow treats. Marshmallows were dropped from a helicopter whirring overhead, much to the delight of hundreds of waiting children, who scrambled to collect the sweet treats and turn them in for a prize-filled egg

Children were also entertained by the Easter Bunny, who hopped along a bunny trail that morning.

The event on Good Friday marked Wayne County's 13th annual Great Marshmallow Drop.

The event was co-sponsored by WNIC-FM 100. Another marshmallow drop was held in Trenton earlier that day.

The marshmallow drop kicked off what appears to be a busy spring and summer for Wayne County parks. Parks officials expect to start Saturdays and Sundays in the Park in May, where Hines Drive will be closed to motorists between Outer Drive and Ann Arbor Trail so the road can be used by bicyclists, in-line skaters and walkers.

Several children's and musical events will be planned, and parks improvements are expected this year for several comfort stations. Those improvements will be funded with the parks millage approved two years ago.

For information, call Wayne County parks at 261-1990.

Walting: Jacob Guminik, 9, of Livonia, awaits the delivery of the marshmallows from the skies above.

2 UNIQUE KELLI LEWTON

Only a handful of chefs are truly 'Masters'

ut of the over 2 million chefs/cooks in the enormous food industry, fewer than 80 belong to the prestigious fraternity called Master Chef.

The governing body of the culinary profession is the American Culinary Federation. There is criteria for different levels in our profession ranging from Certified Cook, Working Chef, Executive Chef, all the way to Master Chef. Certified Master Chef examinations are held every year, or so, and cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $5,000. It encompasses 10 days of testing. I wouldn't say the only great chefs in the United States are the 80 or so Master Chefs on file. There are many chefs who for their own reasons do not subscribe to American Culinary Federation criteria, and don't feel it a necessary goal in their professional life. But I'll tell you, I have the good fortune to know the Michigan Master Chefs, and let me tell you, these guys can cook!

Jeff Gabriel,

Certified Master Chef

Jeff is a full-time instructor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, and the chef owner of the Farm Restaurant in Port Austin. At the Farm, he and his wife, Pam, cook up some amazing, wholesome, homestyle dishes, such as chicken and dumplings. Jeff and Pam live in Port Austin with their son, Michael. When asked what was his favorite meal to prepare. Jeff's response was -We like to keep things simple and we're very health conscious. I like to make one pot dishes, especially soups made with beautiful fresh stocks or miso with vegetables, and on occasion, meat with a crusty loaf of the special Farm baked bread, and we're happy folks."

BALANGING YOUR DIET REDUCES ANCER RIS

on the web: http://observer-eccentric.com

PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS SPECIAL WRITER

It has been said that once you've been diagnosed and treated for cancer that you never know whether you've had cancer or you have cancer, Either way, cancer is frightening. It is the second leading cause of death in the United States. There is no clear scientific evidence that diet can cure cancer, but there is overwhelming agreement that a nutritionally balanced diet can greatly reduce your risk of developing certain forms of cancer and can improve your overall health if you do have cancer.

Diet is important because there is research to show that certain components in the diet can actually promote specific cancers. For example, a high intake of dietary fat, smoked, salt cured or nitrate, containing meats, and excess calories, are potent contributors to cancer and other chronic diseases, Cancer is actually a group of diseases with multiple causes in which abnormal cells grow and spread. There are three major phases in cancer development.

First - an irreversible genetic alteration that takes place inside a cell. Then, if this cell is stimulated by a promoting agent for a long time, the cell will become malignant. Finally, the last and most lethal stage, occurs when tumor cells metastasize, that is, colonize and grow in sites in addition to the site of origin. Although cancer can occur anywhere in the body, the most common sites are the lungs, colon, rectum, skin, breast and prostate, Cancer research and recommendations focus on cancer prevention, risk reduction and early detection.

Cancer prevention

Scientists believe that 80 percent of all cancers are associated with a few lifestyle factors that we can control. These include diet, smoking, and exposure to the sun. Other factors associated with cancer prevention are environmental pollutants like automobile exhaust, charcoal barbecues and manufactured chemicals, radon, medical x-rays, and occupational pollutants like asbestos and vinyl chloride,

Risk reduction

It's never too late to reduce cancer risk. Cancer does not occur due to a single event, but it is a process that may take decades to develop. Cancer risk rises with regular exposure to cancer-causing agents over many years. Cancer occurs most commonly as we age, and is therefore considered "the penalty for aging," that's why it is important to begin a healthier lifestyle today to reduce your risk of cancer in the future.

Early detection

Follow your doctor's advice regarding tests for cancer. In many cases the earlier cancer is found, the more likely the treatment will be effective. A healthy diet can make a big difference. Check out these cancer promoters and cancer protectors.

Cancer promoters

Fats: Fat has been studied more thoroughly and linked more frequently to cancer than any other factor in our diets. Too much fat, whether saturated or unsaturated, leads to a higher risk of colorectal, breast and prostate cancer. Fat is believed to be involved with both early abnormal cell changes and helping existing tumors to grow. foods: People who eat these foods regularly, and in large amounts, appear to have an increased risk for cancer development. Occasional charcoal grilling doesn't significantly increase cancer risk, however, you should avoid eating charred food. Also, let the meat juices drip away before eatsalute spring One of my favorites MAIN DISH for a quick lunch or MIRACLE dinner used to be an omelet with cheese, ham, or a deli meat. like salami or corned beef in addition to the eggs. My omelets today are no less flavorful. but are substantially fat and cholesterol reduced. I still find them a tasty solution to a harried schedule, because the ingredients can be kept available in the fridge and on the pantry shelf.

Omelets are main courses that are ready to eat before I can even think of what to "order in." Besides, they taste better than most ready prepared main courses. They also fill the bill for easy to prepare treats for a weekend brunch or lunch.

The ingredients have changed to meet my "Eating Younger" goals of lower cholesterol and fat. One whole egg and two whites still makes a pretty yellow omelet. You can save 212 . milligrams of cholesterol, 5 grams of fat, 1.6 grams of saturated fat, and 40 calories by using egg whites instead of a whole egg. Try this substitution for scrambled eggs too.

If high cholesterol is one of your health concerns, you might use a commercial egg substitute. But why bother when egg whites will serve the same purpose at one fourth the price? You can even color the egg white yellow by adding a pinch of turmeric. This herb gives mustard its yellow color and can be found at your local bulk food store. You probably know that two egg whites will stand-in for a whole egg in a recipe.

Dan Hugelier, Certified Master Chef

Dan is recognized as well as respected locally and internationally for his accomplishments in the culinary profession. He seems to be a master of all including ice carving, cooking, consulting and a student of everything. Dan has also chosen after many years of running frantic in the restaurant world, to settle into the quiet community of Fenton where he lives with his wife, Katie, and son; Eric, 5. Dan said he is looking forward to soon picking wild Michigan morels and asparagus. As Dah enjoys hunting, his favorite meal to make is game of any kind.

Joe Decker, Certified Master Pastry Chef

Schoolcraft College is lucky to have Joe in their lineup. I choose the term lineup as Joe is a huge athlete who enjoys running, swimming and baseball.

Joe lives in Howell with his wife, Cathy, and their three sons, Aaron, Ryan and Kevin. Awards from Joe's culinary competitions sit right next to his son's trophies. One is just as home to make sushi.

ing. Alcohol and tobacco: Excessive amounts of alcoholic beverages have been linked to a number of cancers. People who smoke cigarettes and drink alcohol have a tremendously increased risk of mouth and esophageal cancer.

Cancer protectors

Fiber: Fiber is the indigestible part of plant food. It seems to lower your risk of bowel cancer because it helps your body rid of food wastes quickly, which will reduce your exposure to cancer causing chemicals. Fiber may also help lower your risk of heart disease, and is beneficial for diabetes control. Increase your fiber intake slowly to give your intestines time to adjust, and drink plenty of water to help the fiber "work" and move smoothly through the colon. If you eat an extremely high fiber diet, you lessen your body's absorption of minerals such as zinc, iron, magnesium and calcium. Fortunately, fiber rich foods (but not supplements) are rich in these minerals to help compensate for losses.

I've suggested using tomatoes, onions and green peppers in my Tuna Frittata recipe, but you can substitute. your favorites. It's important to partially cook and drain the vegetables so that the omelet doesn't become watery. Lately, I have been trying a processed cheese made from tofu. With all the new studies pointing to isoflavones in soy to help prevent cancer, I've been looking for a source that I could regularly include in my diet. The cheese is low in fat (2 grams) and has no fat or cholesterol. It's perfect in this recipe.

I used tuna in the recipe because of its low calorie, high protein and Omega-3 fatty acid content. But you could substitute cooked chicken, some of the reduced fat turkey sausage or deli meats. The frittata has enough flavor so that it could also go solo as a vegetarian dish.

Other protectors include the mineral selenium (from seafood and grains) and vitamin E (from vegetable oils) which act as antioxidants to protect cells against oxidative change. Remember that cancer can who eat properly and exercise regularly. Although we can't prevent all cancers, a proper diet gives our body the fighting power to stay in optimum health.

We know now that good nutrition can help make a difference in our future health. In 1969 the government formed a committee to study the effects of malnutrition and poverty in America. From this initiative we began to fight "The war on hunger." However, the committee also discovered that malnutrition is not limited to the poor, it can be a disease of excess.

During the hearings evidence occur to anyone - even to people became clear that poor nutrition is linked to heart disease, stroke, cancer and diabetes. In 1976 Sen. Hubert Humphrey was himself fighting cancer. As the committee called on its experts, Humphrey listened attentively to the irrefutable evidence that some ways of eating were associated with the incl. dence of cancer and with cancer prevention. "If only someone had told us," he said to a witness. "If only we had known."

Tips for cancer survivors

If you are in treatment for cancer it is vitally important that you pay attention to what you eat. Maintaining a good nutritional status can help your body recover faster and will make you feel better. Eat your favorite foods when you are feeling your best, Otherwise you may develop an aversion to them because feeling bad. For taste alterations and other mouth symptoms, moist, cool foods may be most soothing.

Try non-acidic fruit juices, gelatin, pudding, custard, ice cream, molded salads, meat or pasta salads, or soups and foods dipped in sauces or gravies. Eat foods that make you feel better without aggravating the pain month in Taste.

Alternative, medicine CLINIC OFFERS PATIENTS A BLEND OF TRADITIONAL AND ALTERNATIVE TREATMENTS

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

Alice Lang believes that natural and alternative medicines are the answer to a lot of medical problems. That's why she decided to seek treatment at Oakwood North Westland Health Care Complimentary and Alternative Medicine Research Center.

"I don't like putting pills down my throat," said Lang, a 47-year-old Grosse Ile resident who has four grown children. She prefers herbal treatments and acupuncture, instead, she said, because they don't have the side effects that synthetic drugs often have.

"I think people are looking for perhaps a more gentle approach to medicine," according to Dr. Paul Dugliss, one of two primary care physicians at the center. "Emotional, mental and spiritual events interact and give rise to health and disease."

Doctors at the clinic offer patients a blending of traditional and alternative treatments. They work with patients to find the best solutions. One method doesn't necessarily rule out another.

The marriage between traditional and alternative medicines is unusual in American society where doctors trained in traditional medicine often turn a cold shoulder to herbal answers and other complementary treatments even though many have been used for centuries in other cultures.

"A lot of people who are into alternatives have been alienated from regular medical care," Dugliss said. "This is a blending of traditional with alternative." The focus on alternative medicine at the center will be on ancient traditions like Chinese medicine, Ayurvedic understandings, and homeopathy.

The Chinese have used acupuncture and herbs for healing since 3,000 B.C. Ayurvedic treatments are traced back to the sages of ancient India and are based on understanding the person's dosha, which is determined by physical type and emotional tendencies, intellectual style and spiritual inclinations.

and find out what the health problem is," Dugliss said. "We look at other factors as well. We do an analysis to help you make decisions about your life and giving you information. If you're interested in alternatives that's something that we work together to explore."

Integrating alternative medicine actually isn't as radical as some might think, considering that medicine is a field that is constantly inundated with studies showing new findings, treatments and techniques.

Depth of knowledge

"It's important to have a depth of knowledge about these alternatives, which is why our focus is really on ancient systems," Dugliss said. "The point is to take a more holistic view of health." Holistic medicine focuses on understanding how the mind, body and spirit affect one another in determining how our bodies respond to various happenings.

"We know that the public is sometimes leery of these things and we want to be able to provide useful, more scientific information about these therapies, which is why we have the emphasis on the research," Dugliss said.

The interest in alternative medicine has blossomed recently in the United States and around the world as more and more people take responsibility for their health and get involved in deciding what kind of care they will receive. Dugliss stressed, however, that the center isn't a reaction to a passing trend.

Natural emphasis

"This is something we started planning a long time ago," he said. "We're hoping that given our focus on research on these ancient systems that it will endure past the fad stage."

Heal thyself

Homeopathic medicine relies on herbs, minerals and other substances to trigger a person's natural defenses in helping the body heal itself.

"For things that we have seen good research on, we will incorporate those treatments with the traditional ones," Dugliss said. The physicians at the Westland center, on Warren and Central City Parkway, are trained in the traditional medicine as well as alternative care.

The center opened Feb. 18 and is accepting new patients. Aside from patient care, the center will also be involved in research projects. Only patients who are interested in being part of the studies will be included, Dugliss said.

One five-year study, for instance, will look at complementary medicine in general and its impact on health care costs, patient satisfaction and quality of life.

Other studies at the center will review cardiovascular health; lowering cholesterol and improving the quality of life for patients after they've had a heart attack by making lifestyle changes. The use of echinacea, an herb that is said to strengthen the immune system, will also be studied at the center.

"We want to see if we can't decrease the overuse of antibiotics for people who have upper respiratory infections," Dugliss said. When patients seek medical treatment for cold and flu symptoms about 90 percent of the time they actually have viral illness and antibiotics won't help, he said. The research at the center will provide evidence about whether or not echinacea can help and if it decreases the duration of the illness.

"We try to relate to each individual on a personal level, understand what their goals and beliefs are

The center includes Dugliss, an internist with training in Ayurvedic and traditional Chinese medicine; Dr. Clinton Lindo, also an internist trained in homeopathic medicine; a psychologist; a pharmacist and a nurse who is trained in massage therapy.

"We see this as an extension in our role as caring for people," Dugliss said. "Many people may see this as radical and unconventional. It's what we see as part of the role of a physician who cares about patients."

By keeping an open mind toward the traditional alternative treatments it allows physicians to pull out the best of the two. Likely, the average patient who seeks care at the Westland clinic will be openminded people who are educated and in the baby boom era, Dugliss speculated.

Lang, a former Canton resident, fits that mold. She's a medical assistant at an Oakwood- affiliated clinic in Dearborn and recently became certified as a massage therapist where she was introduced to alternative treatments.

"Conventional medicine wasn't working for me," she said. Medical doctors prescribed anti-inflammatory medicine for carpal tunnel syndrome and Lang didn't believe it was helping.

Dugliss has been working with Lang on herbal treatments and acupuncture. "It's the best of both worlds, because he's an internist and knows about alternative medicine," she added.

"Pick up a magazine on natural medicine, or go to the library and read up," Lang said. "Keep an open mind. This medicine has been around for 5,000 years And why in America, which has been around for 200 years should we think that Western medicine is the best? It's beyond my imagination. I would sooner have a natural medicine with no side effects."

"There's just a wonder of things out there that can help you," Lang said. "Conventional medicine certainly has its place. I can't say I discharge conventional medicine and only do alternative ... yet."

National Infant Immunization Week is April 19-25

During National Infant Immunization Week, April 19-25, Wayne County is urging parents to get their children fully immunized against vaccine-preventable diseases.

"We are making progress in getting parents to respond to our message stressing the importance of early childhood immunizations," says Patricia Soares, Wayne County Public Health Director. "Our health clinics have seen an increase in the number of children getting vaccinations, however, our immediate goal is to get many more toddlers fully immunized."

Michigan is no longer last in the nation's immunization percentage rates, according to the Michigan Department of Community Health. The state's immunization rate for two-yearolds climbed from last position of 61 percent in 1994 to 80 percent in 1997 (this rate brings Michigan to a tie for 36th). Michigan's goal is to raise these immunization levels to at least 90 per-

In spite of the good news, Health Inkster, (313) 563-1133. Department officials continue to urge that all two-year-olds need their basic recommended vaccines.

"Some young parents think diseases like polio and whooping cough are diseases of the past," says Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, Wayne County Medical Director. "These diseases are still with us and can cause serious illness."

The following vaccinations are needed by age two and can be given in five visits or less by a doctor or at a clinic: I diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough) (DPT)

Imaging program receives accreditation

AWARDED

The Breast Imaging Program at Oakwood Hospital & Medical Center - Dearborn has been awarded a three-year term of accreditation in Stereotactic Breast Biopsy techniques as a result of a recent survey by the American College of Radiology (ACR).

This accreditation will compliment the Breast Care Program and is a first for the Oakwood Healthcare System — it is only one of six programs in Michigan to be awarded this level of recognition.

A Mammographic Stereotactic Biopsy System is used to help determine if an abnormal mammogram finding is a benign or malignant process. It is an alternative to the surgical method of an excisional open biopsy.

"We are so pleased to be able Multidisciplinary Team, Oakwood.

"We have learned through our experience that the procedures are amazingly well tolerated by patients. They appreciate the quickness and ease of this outpatient procedure and the absence of scarring."

The sophisticated new procedure allows Oakwood's radiologists to locate and obtain a small sample of tissue in a less invasive manner.

The procedure is performed when an abnormality is found on a mammogram for which further investigation is warranted. Stereotactⁱc biopsies, which require only local anesthesia, are done at Oakwood on an outpatient basis and take approximately one hour to complete. The biopsy tissue is reviewed by a pathologist and a diagnosis is made.

The patient is then able to discuss with her surgeon and prigist, and oncologist to provide comprehensive early diagnosis of breast cancer and state of the art treatment.

The ACR awards accreditation to a Stereotactic Breast Biopsy program for the achievement of high practical standards after a voluntary evaluation of its clinical proficiency. Evaluations are conducted by board certified radiologists who are members of the College with special expertise in stereotactic breast biopsy technology. The quality of services of the Oakwood Program was accessed as well as the qualifications of technical and professional personnel.

The program's collaborative approach and successful accreditation will further enhance the active mammography program and support both the Oncology & the Women's Center of Excellence throughout the Oakwood Healthcare System. The recently accredited biopsy system at Oakmary care physician appropriate wood has been funded, in part, next steps. Tell us something we don't know noted that there are now so many Web sites on the Internet that it's impossible to search them all. The study estimated that there were more than 320 million Web sites out there, with several thousand new ones being added every day.

And despite the hype from the big search engines, the best they can do is search only a portion of them, 40 percent at best.

Steve Lawrence of the NEC Research Institute, co-author of the study, concluded that the amount of information on the Web is now so overwhelming even the most sophisticated efforts to sort it all out are doomed to failure.

To me, that's a major part of piece of e-mail will bring. Maybe it's a friend sharing a neat 'Net find', or a query on a News Group or Mailing List that provides a link to something so obscure and fascinating, or so fun and practical, that it's like finding a gold nugget on the shore of Orchard Lake.

- I'm a Web site packrat. I save, organize and archive sites daily. Probably half of the 200 or so pieces of e-mail I get every day from readers of this column, viewers of my TV reports or listeners of my radio show are from everyday people sharing a favorite web find.

And one of the most enjoyable things I get to do each week is share them with you. Usually, I write an entire column about a particular site, or a group of sites devoted to a particular subject.

But sometimes, I just have a whole bunch of neat and unrelated sites that I can only categorize as "fun" or "helpful." If I one puts them all together. This hold on to them too long waiting site is one done out of the pure religious art. DeLauro, a devout Catholic, and a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel in Plymouth, draws on his spiritual beliefs. But not all artists have such strong ties to religion.

Redford sculptor Sergio DeGiusti's inspiration comes from his ethnicity rather than from practicing the Catholicism he grew up with in Maniago, Italy. Zubel Kachadoorian, baptized in the Armenian Orthodox church, studied icons from the Byzantine period before sketching altar paintings for St. John's Armenian Church in Southfield.

shapes religious images

Whether it's Corrado Parducci's bronze Stations of the Cross at the Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak, DeGiusti's "Christ on the Water" and "Genesis" reliefs at Nardin Park United Methodist Church in Farmington Hills, or DeLauro's 12-foot Christ figure on the front of Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church in Livonia, artists turn to tradition for guidance.

"The only clue we have of what saints and other religious figures look like is from the artists," said DeGiusti, "They're the ones who've interpreted the stories."

Creating religious art calls for lengthy research on the ways artists approached the subject throughout monastery near Marygrove College history. DeLauro reads about the saint or religious figure before turning to the masters and "how they attacked the problem." His years as founder and chairman of the art department at the University of Windsor have well acquainted him with the subject of art history. But even as early as grammar school, DeLauro was inspired by the Gothic cathedrals of Europe.

"The Gothic architecture keeps you looking up and up," said DeLauro. "The idea was to rise and give glory."

No matter the denomination, DeLauro strives to express spiritual ideas in his religious works in addition to respecting tradition. He considers charity, love beauty and humility as aspects of the spiritual side. All have remained essential to his work since the 82-year-old sculptor's first commission for six limestone reliefs for a Carmelite in 1947.

"It's important to create something from the personal and to try and express spiritual ideas whether in painting, mosaic or sculpture," said DeLauro, who earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from Yale University and a master of fine arts degree from the University of Iowa. "Part of us as human beings has a spiritual side. Charity, love, beauty, humility are aspects of the spiritual side. Like music, Handel's "Messiah," uplifts you. I strive for that in my sculpture."

Everywhere you look in DeLauro's home are sculptures from his long career. In the living room, a onethird scale model of the Pieta commissioned for the grounds of Holy Cross Parish in Detroit graces the living room. A sculpture DeLauro created after the Native American

Even for procrastinating Christians, the iconography of the church has served immeasurably to animate the drama of Jesus' resurrection and illuminate a religious creed of redemption.

For many, this past holy week reaffirmed how artists imaginatively portray. the Scriptures, offering a mythology to support the Christian answer to the mystery about an afterlife.

Even in these secular times of trial by public opinion; the most striking religious art may compel agnostics to reconsider, and atheists to realize that perhaps they merely lack imagination.

"There's always been a great need for churches to have art to seduce their audia.

Ironically, Do Giusti noted that the overt nudity in paintings from as early as the 15th century might be called pornographic by today's standards.

"I sometimes wonder how free we are to expréss ourselves."

Art that integrates

De Guisti's speculation seems a bit too heavy for a culture suffering from an attention deficit disorder and a compulsion for empirical verification.

Instead of pondering the power of faith, scholars have turned metaphysical speculation into the ultimate conundrum: Is the New Testament fact or fiction?

Two recently released books ("The Birth of Christianity," "The Acts of Jesus") ence through imagery," said Sergio De and last week's PBS documentary, "From "People feel we are too materialistic of Giusti, a renowned sculptor from Red. Jesus to Christ," offer deconstructive the a society," said Dempsoy. "There's a need world for nearly two millennia.

While some scholars seem intent to dim the halo of divinity surrounding Jesus, there's a growing trend for artists to reflect their own spirituality, sometimes drawing on traditional religious themes. sometimes their own interpretations of wholeness, healing and connectedness.

"Religious art is not necessarily liturgical art done on commission," said the Rev, Terrence Dempsey, director of the Museum of Contemporary Religious Art on the. St. Louis University campus.

The museum, established in 1993, brings together more than 2,000 international artists working independently of any institutional religion.

That's a long way from the seminal religious art exhibit, "Precious," which featured only 12 artists. The exhibit opened in 1989 on the campus of New York Univeristy.

Indians' Creation story for the gardens behind Hiram Walker across the river in Windsor rests in front of the fireplace. DeLauro has artwork in private and public collections including a fiveton marble sculpture, "The Pieta," and a 12-foot bronze "The Resurrection of Christ" commissioned by the Archdiocese of Chicago in 1953. For a millennium, the subject of nearly all art was religious. Not until the late 16th century did artists such as Caravaggio begin to create images of everyday life. Out of favor for the last few centuries; DeLauro says he is delighted that religious art is now making a resurgence. Disturbed by a trend toward using production-style statues 40 years ago, DeLauro founded the Ecclesiastical Art Gulld with a group of sculptors, painters and stained glass artists to encourage churches to purchase original art.

Uplifting

"People are realizing there's more to life than material things and are searching for spiritual thinge," said DeLauro. "I'm trying to capture the uplifting quality of the human spirit. It's intangible but that doesn't mean it doesn't exist." Few, if any, artists and sculptors solely create religious art, not even DeLauro. The focus of DeGiusti's work is not religious art but the Redford sculptor has created his share including bronze doors for the Church of San Vito in Italy and a bronze Christ figure for a processional cross for Pope John Paul II's mass at the Silverdome in 1987. However, even DeGiusti's public commissions, including a a 20panel frieze for the rotunda of the State of Michigan Library and Archives Building in Lansing, contain references to the Italian tradition of religious art., The influence of sculptor Manzu is apparent in "Apparition," a relief by DeGiusti, who is best known for his shrouded figures. The tomb scene appears similar to Jesus' Resurrection on Easter Sunday.

"My upbringing and relationship with the church is all part want to be known as a religious sculptor even though my work has undertones of historical spiritual references."

DeGiusti, a former art history and drawing professor at Wayne State University, uses photographs he's taken of art in churches, cemeteries and sites all over Italy for inspiration but doesn't rely on standard iconography. You won't see a halo on one of his "hanging figures because everybody knows what it means."

"I remove the obvious and get down to the basics of Christianity," said DeGiusti. "I look at how I can do something with a historical reference without looking historical, something that tranof it," said DeGiusti, "but I don't scends traditional religious figures,"

When Alex Manoogian asked Zubel Kachadoorian to paint a 19-foot high by 6 1/2-foot wide Madonna and Child for the altar of St. John's Armenian Church 30 years ago, the Detroit artist studied icons from the 9th through 13th-century before making sketches and painting studies in his Greektown studio. He also drew on fourteen years of studying European religious art while living there.

"I used my observation and experience of being abroad in the Mediterranean area and Rome from 1950 to 1964," said

Kachadoorian. "At the same time, I was absorbing aspects of all cultures from French to Gréece."

In 1996, Kachadoorian began work on side panels for the Madonna at St. John's. The paintinge, "The Baptism" and "Annunciation" were consecrated in January.

Kachadoorian's Madonna remains popular today. Last year, the painter won the Purchase Award in an exhibition at Historic Trinity Church for an updated version of the Madonna at St. John's. Just recently, two of Kachadoorian's religious paintings were juried into the 12th annual "Ecclesiastical Art Exhibition," May 15-29, at Historic Trinity Church in Detroit.

grates all aspects of our lives." Years ago, religious art created by noncommissioned or secular artists would've been called heresy.

At the end of the 20th century, it's simply called spiritual.

Immediately after Vatican II (1962-65), which reformed the liturgy and opened participation. in the mass, a Benedictine aesthetic pervaded the church, said Daniel McAfee, director of the Office of Christian Worship for the Catholic Diocese of Detroit.

A minimalist, abstract sensibility took over, displacing ornate and figurative art.

Thirty years later, however, there's been a return to a more original, albeit a distinctively figurative, representational style, said McAfee.

"We had a lot of plastic statues and reproductions before the Council (Vatican II)," he said. "Today, there's been a return to the appreciation of saints and away from sweet and sentimental images."

In other words, the days of and Dali merged the spirituality ordering religious art from a catalog are long gone.

As chair of the architectural review committee for the diocese, McAfee encourages parishes to commission artists.

"The relationship between the church and artists is healthy," he said. "Good artists will challenge us to see the 'mystery' (of Christ) in a deeper way."

The transformation from "religious to spiritual art" seems inevitable in a century where art became less of a means to engage the masses, and more of a vehicle for individual expression, said MaryAnn Wilkinson, curator of 20th century art at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Art is not made to teach people religion as it was during Medieval times and the Renaissance," she said.

Instead, according to Wilkinson, paintings like Gauguin's "Yellow Christ," and works of the surrealists like Ernst, Tanguy with highly intellectual art.

Then, she said, the abstract expressionists merely took the next step and eliminated all literal references.

But Wilkinson cautioned that it's difficult to draw conclusions about the 20th century.

"Mainstream artists have turned away from religious imagery, but younger artists haven't," she said.

For instance, KiKi Smith, recently named one of the top 10 artists in America by The New York Times created a figurative sculpture, "Lot's Wife," based on the Old Testament parable-Wilkinson purchased the piece for the DIA.

Locally, artist Carl Demeulenaere has gained a reputation for combining traditional religious ideas with gay themes.

And, of course, there are other artists who remain in a more traditional style.

"Visiting the show is a chance for the students to see a real live artist and talk to them about their work instead of looking at prints," said Eid. "With prints you don't get to see the texture, the real colors either."

'Rent' earnest but shallow

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

Toward the end of "Rent's" first act, there is a hilarious send-up of performance art in which Jonathan Larson sticks a sharp pin in all the pretentiousness and pomposity of that art form. Unfortunately, the rest of Larson's musical suffers from those very same sins and a few more to boot.

"Rent" has settled into a long run at Detroit's Fisher Theatre. It has won the Obie, Tony and Pulitzer Prize. So this is definitely a minority report.

The story of "Rent's" gestation and triumph are legendary. The unknown Larson created his play from the framework of Puccini's "La Boheme," changing the setting from Paris' bohemian Left Bank to the art community in the contemporary East Village. The night before the off-Broadway opening, Larson died at 35 years old. The play, directed by Michael Greif, went on to rave reviews and success off and on Broadway.

"Rent" is earnest and intense. Boy is it earnest.

Larson replaces the lush music of Puccini with his own take on rock and a pastiche of other pop music styles. The outcome is usually shallow, banal, insipid and loud, but usually not rhythmic.

"Rent" is set in an East Village loft and environs. Paul Clay's set is free form and functional enough to suggest the Village as a whole as well as the loft of struggling artists Mark and Roger. An on-stage rock ensemble provides the music. The performers are mic'ed.

Larson follows a group of characters suggested by the Puccini characters. Roger is an HIV-positive songwriter, Mark is his filmmaker roommate, recently falls in love with Roger. As Benny says at one point, "This is Calcutta, Bohemia is dead." Larson doesn't entirely let his characters off the hook. At its best moments, "Rent" acknowledges the responsibility of its characters for their situations. At its worst it creates a fake political situation, caricatures caring parents as buffoons and screeches.

Mimi, an HIV-positive drug addict who

Through most of the play, there is an incessant whine and a hopelessly muddled message of love, brotherhood and understanding, delivered with sledge hammer impact.

Larson's idea of rock music is a loud wailing and constant drone. Sometimes, the music does break loose. "Out Tonight," sung by a frustrated, giddy Mimi has real intensity and beat. "Santa Fe" is a song that actually shows some irony and wit about the hopeless dreams of this group. The performance art "Over the Moon" is a hoot.

Greif keeps things frantically moving but can't create subtlety or nuance from Larson's trite lyrics or easy, self-posturing, politically correct take on Village life. The various relationships are not well developed. At one point, a character speaks about holding the "family" together when there was never a suggestion of family. The only relationship that is seen with any depth is the jealous lesbian relationship of Joanne and Maureen.

The performers are quite good, however, at conveying the angst and style of the characters. Manley Pope's angry-young-man Roger has a nice swagger and Christian Anderson actually creates sympathy for the conflicted Mark. Evan D'Angeles as the sweet-faced transvestite Angel has a voice and manner similar to Smokey Robinson and a fine stage presence. Erin Keaney is a riot as the sexy, funny Maureen. C.C. Brown and Sylvia MacCalla provide strength as Tom Collins and Joanne. Simone (daughter of Nina Simone) gives grit to "Out Tonight," but has to play a basically one-note Mimi.

The Fisher audience is predominantly middle class and up. For them "Rent" amounts to selfflagellation for all their un-hip sins. Unfortunately, I got an uneasy feeling that there were ringers in the audience hooting and cheering throughout. Maybe, it was just people who had never heard really good rock music.

Snorkeling Guide to Michigan Inland Lakes By Nancy S. Washburne

(Nanmar International)

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAPP WRITER

BOOKS

When you think of snorkeling, do you get images of tropical fish darting about in crystal clear waters as warm as a bath. Me, too!

Nancy Washburne, who teaches business at Michigan State University, has done a lot of snorkeling and scuba diving in those warm Caribbean waters, but a camping trip with her son several years ago introduced her to the very different joys of snorkeling in Michigan's inland lakes.

"Snorkeling Guide" is a comprehensive county by county survey of the best lakes for snorkeling, how to get to them and what you'll find when you get there. It is also a guide to the sport of snorkeling and to the fish and flora that inhabit our lakes.

Washburne sets out criteria of visibility, variety of fish, accessibility, scenery and shape for choosing the score of lakes from the thousands in the state. She has chosen lakes from every part of the state, both upper and lower peninsulas. Many of these lakes are close to hand in Oakland County, as well as Lapeer, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

Nancy S. Washburne

The book explains what equipment you'll need to take to the water, including how to dress, and what you'll need to get the most out of your explorations, including a section on still and video cameras. Washburne also provides a section with drawings of common plant life and fish and how to identify them.

The entries on each lake are based on diaries Washburne took while she explored each one. She covers scores of lakes, so the entries are short but clear and helpful. She also gives detailed information on how to get to each one.

Here are some of her insights on nearby lakes:

On Cass Lake: "Snorkel near the bulrushes, which is out of the way of the boat traffic. The clarity is great and you look out over big beds of coontails, curly pondweed, chara, wild celery and Brazilian elodea. The entrance is wide and the entry area is surrounded by low brush, giving it a wilderness feel. Definitely a lake to come back to and spend considerable time exploring."

On Loon Lake: "This lake immediately startled me. I thought for a moment I was in Grand Cayman, the water was so clear. We can thank a multitude of zebra mussels for that as they are off to the right of the entrance, covering the fallen logs and branches. The whole underwater scene had a brightness and vividness to it that was exceptional."

On Union Lake: "Though the lake is heavily cottaged, this is nevertheless an excellent lake with good visibility and shallow enough to enjoy. It is so incongruous to look down into a wilderness, yet lift you head and only a few feet away see bumper to bumper traffic go by."

To whet the appetite of prospective snorkelers, Washburne includes several colors plates of underwater activity.

Washburne has set up several area book signings to promote her self-published book: 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 14, at West Bloomfield Barnes & Noble; 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 15, at Novi Borders; 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 21, at Farmington Hills Borders; 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 28 at Birmingham Borders (Woodward); 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 29, at Dearborn Borders and 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 15, at Northville Barnes & Noble.

Sensual shapers: Victoria's Secret has a line of pantyhose that "sculpt the body from waist to toe," with four styles of contouring control panels.

New hosiery is high style

There are three big trends in women's hosiery this season:

* Pantyhose so sheer that they're barely there, in pale, pastel colors, worn under sheer print dresses and skirts

* Sheer, patterned pantyhose, worn under solid color skirts and dresses

* Floral, striped or solid color, lightweight, ankle-length socks, paired with long skirts or shorts.

If you truly want to pamper your legs and money is no object, then Wolford brand pantyhose may be for you. "They're the Rolls-Royce of pantyhose,"

said Aileen Morgan, director of stores for Wolford of America. Neiman Marcus and Saks Fifth Avenue have carried 25 percent of Wolford's hosiery line for many

A fish story Water pets are the best bet

If spring has you thinking about adding a little kitten, cute puppy or fluffy chick to your household, think again. A pet is a lot of time, expense and trouble. You may want to take the well-worn path to the lowly goldfish and end it at that.

Almost every family has a fish story.

The Wills of Troy, recall the summer they returned home from a week-long vacation to find their goldfish baked on to the side of son Matthew's dresser.

Apparently, as the water in his bowl near the west window, warmed from the heat of the sun, "Goldie" jumped out to escape the rising temperature. Sadly, he got stuck to the side of the dresser where he dried. The Wills had to scrape him off with a spatula.

The McFees of East Lansing, in the rush to get their kids to ballet lessons and basketball practice after school one day, failed to notice that their pregnant guppy was not in her usual water bowl on the kitchen counter.

It was only while serving the kids pizza that night, and stepping on an "anchovy" with her bare feet (which she hastily flicked down the garbage disposal) did Mom put two and two together.

"Oh my god!" she cried, her hand over her mouth. "That was no anchovy, that was Allison's guppy!"

The evening ended in a back yard prayer service with an empty box buried near the bushes in memory of "Caribbean" and her unborn guppy babes.

Pete Sackleh sales manager at Sea for Yourself Aquarium on Woodward in Royal Oak, said a fish is probably the easiest and cheapest pet a family can have, provided folks follow a few rules.

1. De-chlorinate the tap water or the fish will die within 24 hours. (Use dechlorinating drops or let the water stand for 24 hours before adding the fish.)

Pick a pet: Is there a child in America today who has not had a goldfish growing up? (And even if you manage never to buy one, they are a sure prize at school fairs.)

2, Don't over feed the fish. Three times a week is Bowls run $5-$15. recommended - a goldfish's stomach is only as big as his eyeball.

3. Increase the size of the bowl or tank as the fish grows.

4. Keep the water about 68-degrees Fahrenheit. Goldfish are fresh water fish that like it cooler.

Sackleh sells 12 goldfish for $1. (They are also used as food for the many other exotic aquarium species he sells.)

"Once you select your fish, you'll need a bowl, gravel, food, a net, and a little decoration. The whole setup will run about $25. If you opt for a 20-gallon tank or bigger, you'll need to add a filtration system to keep the water clean," Sackleh advised.

Goldfish sold locally are commercially bred and

There are several lines of high protein food especially for goldfish, 99-cents for a small canister, and should they contract an ailment, there are over-thecounter pharmaceuticals to administer.

If you really want to jazz up your goldfish bowl, decorations available include these deep sea treasures: a diver with air hose, $5.99; a one-man submarine explorer that travels the aquarium from top to bottom, $8.99; sunken ships, ruins of Atlantis with holes for the fish to swim through, skeletons behind ship wheels and mermaids.

No serious goldfish owner is without an instruction manual and pet stores have several good titles from $8.

years, but to see the company's complete line of pantyhose and other merchandise (including body suits and swimsuits), you have to visit one of its boutiques and the only Wolford Boutique in Michigan opened at Somerset South in Troy in November.

Wolford pantyhose generally run from $28 to $60 a pair. What's so special about them? For starters, they're made in Austria, where Wolford is based, on knitting machines that are different from anyone else's in the world, Morgan said.

"Most hose take-15 minutes to make. Ours takes four hours to complete because of the workmanship involved," she said.

Unlike other brands, Wolford hose has a three-inch thumb guard to prevent runs from occurring when being put on. Also, the back of the hose is three inches bigger than the front and different-sized waist bands are available to accommodate real bodies.

Most pantyhose on the market today are dyed after the hose have been knitted. But Wolford dyes its yarn before knitting occurs. The result is a product that is the same color throughout.

Most importantly, she said, Wolford pantyhose feel softer, silkier and more comfortable than other brands. Its sheerest line of pantyhose, called Le9 (pronounced Le Neuf), has a denier of 9. Denier is a measurement of the thickness of yarn. The smaller the number, the thinner the yarn and the more sheer the pantyhose are.

Wolford's spring and summer collection includes a lot of sheer hose with unique patterns like arches and vines woven into them, and fashion colors, including emotion (a pale beige), marmor (an ivory), and dragee (a pinkish beige).

For more information, call the Wolford Boutique (248) 637-6641.

Donna Karan's Colorwash Collection of pantyhose is also very sheer, and the colors are soft, delicate and based on nature, perfect for spring. Colors include sea grass (a pale green), sea mist (sort of a purplish gray); quartz (a pale pink); storm gray and driftwood also at Neiman Marcus and Saks Fifth Avenue, $17 to $19.

The Worthington Sheer Caress pantyhose at JC Penney also comes in some very pretty, limited edition, fashion colors for spring, including maize (a yelow), light gray (which includes a touch of lavender), blush (a peachy pink) and soft mauve. They have a denier of 20 and cost $3.95 a pair.

As for socks, I like the delicate floral, striped and/or whimsical offerings by: Gold Toe and Yarnworks, $3 to $6 a pair at JC Penney; Arrow, $4 at Sears; Cherokee, $2.49 to $3.99 and Merona, $2.49 to $2.99 at Target; Liz Claiborne, Eileen Levine, assistant manager at Pet Supplies Plus in Royal Oak, said goldfish typically live three to four years, and some varieties can grow to twoand-a-half-feet. There are 100 different varieties of goldfish.

'If you have a bowl with no heater you can keep guppies, goldfish and betas," she explained. "Otherwise you must get an aquarium for tropical fish like neons and angel fish."

Goldfish at Pet Supplies Plus cost between 50cents and $1.99, depending on their size and variety.

Did you know . . .

· Goldfish are from the carp family and are related to minnows.

- They have a single dorsal spine, single tail.
- A goldfish's fin forms are bred.

• Goldfish originally came from China. They are olive-colored in the wild, but centuries of captive breeding in Chinese fish ponds led to their colors of orange, gold, white and black.

• Goldfish in North America are feral (domestic animals gone wild.)

Intro is a store-within-a-store at three Gorman's locations beginning April 16 - Troy, Novi and Dearborn. The Southfield store will get a Intro department by late summer.

According to Gorman's president Bernie Moray, 58, a greater portion of the population is starting-out or starting over than in the past creating the need for less-complicated, more-streamlined living spaces and furnishings.

The traditional lifestyle with a single-career, lifetime marriage, home ownership in one area, followed by retirement, is virtually non-existent today," he said. "That's where Intro steps in."

Intro will showcase style, design and value, at a lower price range.

Couple gets taste of new daughter's Chinese heritage

By HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

She's already become good friends with the family cat and dog, and she knows all about Elmo and Big Bird. She bounces happily on a bear and points to her own picture and squeals, "Baby."

Kathryn Mauck, 1-1/2, is one of more than 4,000 Chinese girls who came to the United States last year, making adjustments to new families and a new world.

Dale and Laura Mauck of Farmington Hills, traveled to China to adopt their new daughter and learn something about the rich culture of her homeland. -Laura Mauck said she had undergone infertility treatments and nothing worked, so the couple decided to adopt. "We originally started looking into Russian adoption, but that didn't work out," Mauck said.

Working with a Grand Rapids adoption agency, they began investigating adopting a Chinese baby.

"On Oct. 24, our agency called and told us about Kathryn and we had a choice to accept or not. We adopted Kathryn on Dec. 9 and came home on Dec. 20," Mauck said.

That trip was an adventure, full of the joy of meeting a new daughter and the frustrations of emergency hospital care and missed connections.

"Our adoption agency told us we should meet in Beijing," Mauck said.

The agency suggested that flying into the Chinese capital would give the Maucks a chance to see some of the wonders of China before flying to Changsha in the Hunan Province to meet their daughter. The Maucks visited the Ming Tombs, the Great Wall and the Forbidden City.

"The Great Wall was beautiful, something you can't describe, the size and beauty is amazing," Mauck said. "We walked along the wall when it was cold and snowy. The Chinese people are hard workers. It's amazing how hard they work. There are people who just shovel the Great Wall."

Kathryn was born in the industrial city of Shaoyang just south of Changsha. She was abandoned on a bridge when she was just four days old and taken into a social security home for indigent elderly. In China, families are restricted to one child and because of cultural and economic considerations, male children are more highly valued.

"A lot of female children are abandoned or left. Twenty-five American couples were there adopting girls that we had seen." Mauck said.

The adoption went smoothly but not the trip.

Kathryn became a little ill and had to be taken to a Chinese hospital. Mauck said an assistant to the group's translator, Samson, helped smooth the way and get Kathryn to a more modern clinic where she received help.

Wonderful sight: Dale and Laura Mauck of Farmington Hills enjoyed experiencing China's rich heritage.

Mauck said the family also received help when their flight back to Beijing ran into delays. After two attempts to fly to Beijing, the plane landed somewhere else. The Maucks were the only English-speaking people on the plane. A bus took them to wait overnight at a hotel. The next day, they spent waiting in an airport. They had already missed their connecting flight back to Detroit.

"There we were in Beijing at 7:30 at night, we had missed our flight back to the states," Mauck said. "But it worked out well. We ran into two Canadians and we stuck with them, they were in the same boat and had missed their flight to Vancouver."

The Canadians located a hotel and the Maucks secured a taxi. They ended up staying the night in a five-star hotel, "as nice or nicer than anything I've stayed at in the states."

Since returning to the United States the Maucks have become involved with the Metro Detroit Families with Children from China, a group that helps adopted children maintain their birth culture, 537

"We celebrate Chinese holidays. Once a month we have play groups where children get together and interact. We have a Chinese culture day ... It's a support group for people interested in adopting children from China," Mauck said.

Pro Air, through Hamilton, Miller, Hudson & Fayne (HMHF) Fun Vacations) Travel Corp., Southfield, will provide customers with complete travel Mauck said it is important that Kathryn know her culture. Mauck also brought back many Chinese items to remind her of her heritage, including a traditional chop mark kit.

When the Maucks returned they also had Kathryn examined for lead poisoning, a common problem for children adopted in China. The doctor found elevated lead levels but said living here should reduce those levels over time.

Meanwhile, Kathryn is an alert, active young girl discovering new things every day about her new home.

Laura Mauck is staying home to take care of her new daughter. Dale is a supervisor in the City of Southfield Water Department.

and even theater tickets, Pro Air and HMHF have created affordable travel packages from Detroit to the Big Apple," said Craig E. Belmondo, Pro Air president and chief operating officer. For reservations, call 800-939-9551. To book a complete travel package travelers may call HMHF Fun Vacations at 800-

Now, of course, the question is: Will it stay this way?

Certainly the Whalers are hoping not. Their 2-1 loss to the Guelph Storm in their Ontario Hockey League semifinal opener in Guelph Friday was just what DeBoer thought it would be - a defensive struggle. Guelph, after all, was the OHL's top team during the regular season, and the reason the Storm reached such heights was defense. Somerville, who played ball in the WYAA during the early 1970s, wears a number of different hats for the nonprofit organization, which will be celebrating its 40th anniversary Saturday, May 2 on Opening Day at Central City Park.

He's the secretary for the executive board, sponsor chairperson, compound manager and coach — all on a volunteer basis.

"I probably spend 30 to 60 hours week at the Compound," said Somerville, referring to WYAA's building on 6050 Farmington Road, between Venoy and Wildwood. "It probably doesn't make my wife too happy when I could probably be doing some project around the house."

But without the services of Somerville, and scores of others, the WYAA wouldn't have succeeded under its longtime motto: "Kids in Sports, Stay Out of Courts."

Founded in 1958 starting under the guise of the Little Nankin Football League (located in Hines Park behind the now Lutheran High Westland), the WYAA has been serving boys and girls ages 4-16 for nearly 40 years.

The WYAA program currently includes football, baseball, coach-pitch, softball), volleyball, basketball and cheerleading (including mascots).

The baseball program includes girls softball, coach-pitch, T-Ball and Colt-Pony travel teams.

The football league, based on age (8-14) and weight, includes three teams - freshman, JV and varsity for each unite

There are two football units which are divided by Wildwood - the Comets (John Glenn High) and the Meteors (Wayne Memorial). The teams usually

Other famous WYAA alums include Tony Boles, who once played for the Westland North Stars, and the Hammontree brothers, Chuck and Mike.

The basketball program (ages 8-14) began during the early 1980s. Games are played at the City of Westland's Bailey Recreation Center. Practices are held at nearby elementary schools.

The WYAA also started a volleyball program for girls (ages 9-16) during 1991.

The program reached its peak with the baby boomers during the late 1970s with nearly 1,500 youths involved.

But now that number has dwindled to 400, something that concerns Somerville, whose two sons, David and Ryan, participated in the program.

"Other organization's turnouts are also down," said Somerville, who played at Glenn for Michigan's Lloyd Carr. "And now you have to compete with Dek hockey and soccer, and that

That's why Somerville has extended the registration deadline to Friday, April 17. Compound hours are from 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays and noon-2 p.m. Saturdays.

"No kid will be turned away," Somerville said. "And we also need umpires, who will receive the neces-'sary training.'

The WYAA's total budget will exceed $150,000 this year. There are currently 52 positions on the board with 26 filled.

"Most join the organization because they're coaches," Somerville said. "And

Crusaders hit stride in WHAC games

Turnaround.

Madonna University's baseball team showed it had no intention of coming home from an eightgames-in-four-days road trip saddled with an overload of losses. After losing three of their first four games on the trip at St. Xavier University in Chicago last weekend; the Fighting Crusaders traveled to Tri-State University in Angola, Ind., Monday and Tiffin University in Tiffin, Ohio, Tuesday for a pair of double-headers.

The result: three wins, one 1059.

Most important was the rescheduled twinbill played against Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference rival Tri-State Monday. Madonna won both games, 6-4 and 10-4, thanks to some solid hitting (a total of 21 hits) and good pitching (five earned runs allowed in the two games).

That, combined with Tuesday's 14-12 loss and 9-8 win at nonleague Tiffin, left the Crusaders with a 13-15 overall record and a 5-3 mark in the WHAC.

Daryl Rocho, named WHAC player of the week last week, continued his blistering offensive assault. In the 6-4 opening win over Tri-State, he went 3-for-3 and slugged his fifth home run of the season, a two-out, three-run shot in the first inning. Rocho had four runs batted in in the game.

Kevin Foley added two hits and two RBI, and Aaron Shrewsbury had two hits and scored two runs.

E.J. Roman got the pitching win, his first (1-0). Roman allowed four runs (one earned) on six hits and five walks in 6% innings, striking out six. Jason Carter came on after the Thunder had struck for three runs in the seventh to get the final out and earn the save, his second.

In the 10-4 second-game win over Tri-State, Rocho contributed two more hits - both doubles, giving him 15 for the season — and three more RBI, but it was Shrewsbury who earned offensive star honors. Shrewsbury slugged his first homer of the season in the fifth inning, a three-run shot that allowed Madonna to overcome a 4-2 Tri-State lead. He finished with two hits (in two trips), three runs scored and four RBI.

Brandon Jaskolski added three hits and two RBI, Jeff Warholik had two hits and an RBI, and Eric Marcotte (from Plymouth Canton) had two hits and scored twice.

Jeff Gutt (Redford Catholic Central) evened his pitching record at 1-1 with the win, giving up four earned runs on six hits and four walks, with two strikeouts, in seven innings.

•MADONNA 12-9, TIFFIN 14-8: The crowded road trip didn't seem to bother the Crusaders' hitters. At Tiffin Tuesday, they banged out 22 more hits in getting a split.

The opening game, a 14-12 loss in 11 innings, featured a spectacular -- if wasted - Madonna comeback. Tiffin put seven runs on the board in the first three innings, but the Crusaders rallied to score seven times in the fifth inning to tie it up.

Two errors and two wild pitches certainly helped the Madonna cause in the fifth. So did Rocho's two-run single and J.R. Taylor's two run home run (his fifth).

Madonna took a 9-8 lead in the top of the sixth on Rocho's two-run homer (his sixth), but Tiffin rallied to tie it in the bottom half of the inning. The Crusaders best chance to win came in the eighth. when they scored three times in the top half of the inning without the benefit of a hit, on two errors and two walks. But Tiffin used one hit, two walks, a hit batsmen and an error by catcher Delano Voletti to re-tie it in the bottom half of the inning.

The game winner was scored by Tiffin on a run-scoring single in the bottom of the 10th.

Rocho had three hits and four RBI in the game, and Voletti, Foley and Marcotte each had two hits, with Voletti getting an RBI.

Paul Barkal started and lasted 7% Innings, giving up 12 runs (10 earned) on 10 hits and seven walks, with eight strikeouts. Jason Catter worked the final two innings and was charged with the loss (he's 0-4), allowing one earned run on one hit and one walk, with three strikeouts.

In the second game; it was Madonna that built the early lead then had to hang on for the win. The Crusaders scored all nine of their runs in the first three innings, five of them coming in the first thanks in large part to Rocho's sexenth homer of the season, a grand slam. Through 28 games (he's been in 27), Rocho leads Madonna in every offensive category except at-bats, walks and triples. He's batting .430 with 26 runs scored, 37 hits, 15 doubles, seven homers and 33 RBI.

Marcotte contributed two hits and two RBI, and Jaskolski and Voletti each had two hits.

Bob Mason survived some errant defensive play from his Madonna teammates to even his record at 3-3. Mason went seven innings and allowed eight runs (just one earned) on six hits and five walks, with five strikeouts.

Spartans top WLAA champ

Livonia Stevenson scored an impressive girls track victory Wednesday by upending defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion Plymouth Salem, 77-59.

The Spartans, now 3-0 on the young season, captured 11 of 17 events.

"Comparing our previous meets on the same day I figured we had a shot going in," Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg said. "And we've had good luck against them on their track in the rain."

The trio of Kelly Travis, Christie Tzilos and Kelly McNeilance each figured in three firsts.

Travis, a senior, captured the 800- and 1,600-meter runs with times of 2:29.8 and 5:26.6, respectively. She also teamed up with Danielle Harris, Andrea Parker and McNeilance to win the 3,200 relay in 10:03.8.

Tzilos won the 100- and 300 hurdles with times of 17.1 and 48.9, respectively. McNeilance won the 400 dash in 1:02.4.

The two also combined with Nicole Dettloff and Katie Sherron for a first in the 1,600 relay (4:16.4).

"Christie isn't really in love with the 100 hurdles, but she's kind of been forced into it because of the injury to Cassie Ehlendt," Holmberg said. "And Kelly McNeilance is not a 400 runner by choice, but we're trying to develop some others there. She's more suited for the 800, 1,600 and 3,200 where she could score more points. By running the 400, she's limited to a couple

"But right now both are helping the team an awful lot."

Other individual Spartan firsts were recorded by Katie Mitchell in the pole vault (6-6), freshman Polasky in the high jump (4-8) and Dettloff in the long jump (14-11).

Stevenson individual seconds were recorded by Emily Yambasky, discus (106-7); Sherron, 300 hurdles (50.9); Parker, 800 run (2:32.0); Dettloff, 200 dash (27.6); and McNeilance, 3,200 run (12:28.0).

Salem had a pair of double winners — Tiffany Grubaugh in the shot put (33-3) and discus (118-11), and Rachel Jones in the 100 (13.0) and 200 (27.0).

Salem's other firsts came in the 400 relay (53.7) and 800 relay (1:53.62). ...

Breaking down the barriers to good health.

It was a big rally, in a big game, at a very big time for Madonna University's softball team. The Lady Crusaders had split a Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference double-header with a weak Siena Heights team the week before, then lost twice at Saginaw Valley State the day before. On Wednesday, they hosted one of the toughest teams in the WHAC: Concordia College.

The first game looked like trouble for Madonna — until the seventh inning, when the Crusaders squeezed out a run to tie it at 1-1. But the Cardinals came right back to regain the lead with a run in the top of the eighth, and Madonna was back on the spot.

But a two-run single by Jenny Kruzel in the bottom of the eighth rescued the Crusaders, giving them a 3-2 victory. Concordia bounced back to win the nightcap, 12-2 in six innings (10-run mercy rule), leaving Madonna at 15-12-1 overall, 6-6 in the WHAC. Concordia is 15.5 overall and 8-2 in the WHAC.

In the pivotal opener, Madonna's Angle VanDoorn outducled Concordia's Kelly Kennedy to gain the win. VanDoorn allowed two earned runs on six hits and two walks, striking out five to even her record at 6-6. Konnedy allowed three earned runs on eight hits and one walk, fanning eight.

Stephanie Dick and Courtney Senger each collected two hits for Madonna, with Marissa Mittleman

New divisional set-up alters regional lineup

Redford Catholic Central's tennis team has to take a different route, but coach Greg Grabowski believes the Shamrocks will still make the state meet their final destination this season.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has divided Class. A teams in two divisions, with the Shamrocks earning Division I status because of their higher enrollment.

Teams playing in Division II are Class A schools with smaller enrollments.

The new classification means the Shamrocks will play in the Division I regional hosted by perennial state powers Ann Arbor Huron and Pioneer and Huron. For years, CC competed in the Dearborn regional, which it usually won to gain entrance into the state meet.

Dearborn is now the site of a Division II regional.

Grabowski doubts if the Shamrocks can win the Ann Arbor regional but thinks they can challenge for second place. The top two teams and anyone else finishing with at least 16 team points qualify for the state meet.

The Shamrocks are off to a 2-1 start, beating Dearborn Divine Child 8-0 and Ann Arbor Cabrini 7-1 and losing to Birmingham Brother Rice, 5-3.

"The regional should be a dogfight — Pioneer and Huron are always tough - but we feel we can make it out of there and qualify for state's," Grabowski said. "We should probably finish in the top 10 in Division I. Overall we're stronger than we were last year and we're pretty well rounded. We could upset some good teams in the state's."

The Shamrocks were in a comfort zone in Dearborn and not just because they usually dominated there.

"Going to Ann Arbor's a heck of a haul, but the Livonia schools have to go there, too," he said.

Grabowski is a CC graduate who played on the Shamrocks' 1985 Class A state champion team. He was a doubles player - his No. 3 team won the 1984 state title and the No. 1 doubles team won the '85 championship.

Grabowski is in his second tour of duty at CC both an employee and coach.

He has returned as the vicepresident of advancement and alumni relations after holding a similar title for a couple years at the new Cornerstone Schools, started by the Archdiocese of Detroit, before returning.

He was CC's head coach from 1993-95 before not coaching at all in 1996 and returning as an assistant coach in 1997.

The Shamrocks finished second in the Catholic League, won a regional and finished 12th at the Class A meet last year.

CC returns its four singles players from last year, including the former No. 1, Brian Foley, who is now playing No. 1 doubles.

Grabowski said it wasn't a demotion and Foley has handled his new position with class.

The No. 1 singles player is senior Tom Tarnacki, who won a regional and was runnerup in the Catholic League at No. 2 singles last year. No. 2 is sophomore J.D. Shade, who was a state finalist last year at No. 4 singles.

At No. 3 is freshman Michael Findling, whose older brother starred at Livonia Stevenson and now plays at Michigan State University. "He's off to a real good start," Grabowski said. Senior Marc Sicilano will fill in at No. 4 after spending his junior year at No. 3, winning a regional.

DNR starts controversial program to control Canadian flock

In a continuing effort to control the nuisance Giant Canada goose problem in urban areas of Oakland and Macomb counties, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is experimenting with a radical, albeit somewhat controversial, program.

D6*

Later this month, volunteers - many being supplied by the Humane Society of the United States - will head out into goose habitat areas and replace real goose eggs with artificial ones. The idea is to fool the hens into staying on the nest until, biologically, it's too late to lay any more eggs this spring.

"This is strictly an experimental deal in a very limited area," said Pete Squibb, water-fowl specialist with the DNR. "This is only taking place at sites that have filed petitions with us to remove nuisance geese. Overall there are 110 sites in southeastern Michigan and we anticipate that 15 or 20 sites will go through with this."

Squibb is quick to caution that geese are protected under federal law and disturbing a nest is a federal offense.

"The last thing we want is for people to start doing this all over the place," he said. "Geese are protected birds and this is being done under special federal and state permits."

Squibb assured hunters that they have nothing to worry about, even though the Humane Society of the United States is one, of the biggest anti-hunting organizations. Hunting opportunities will not be affected by this program, he said.

"I don't see a potential problem with the HSUS that the hunting fraternity should be concerned about," said Squibb, "We do not want the program to go beyond urban areas where birds can not be hunted. It's a very limited program and is strictly an experimental deal."

Squibb went as far as to praise the HSUS for its interest in the program.

"HSUS expressed a very keen interest in the problem," he said. "We have some philosophical differences but they were willing to put their differences aside and offered to help us find trained volunteers to facilitate the program. This is the first time someone wanted to sit down and look at the problem. The problem is that we have too many geese in urban areas where we can't hunt them and we have to control them somehow."

The nuisance goose problem arose years ago when Giant Canada geese began inhabiting the state. The Giants do not migrate like other species of geese. They prefer to reside in one location all year long. When flocks inhabit urban areas where they are not impacted by hunting, the flocks continue to grow until there is a problem with overpopulation.

"The problem is that no one solution will work," said Squibb, who has been involved with nuisance geese problems for 25 years. "These birds are in areas where hunting is not allowed, so that won't work. As far as trapping and relocating some of the birds, we will continue to do that. We'll move about 4,000 to 4,500 birds from Oakland County alone. We've pretty much filled all the places we can move them to. Some will go to Iowa and some to the western UP, but our bucket is full and spilling over."

Michigan is currently the No. 1 state in the nation in terms of goose harvest, according to Squibb. Michigan hunters take between 150,000 and 170,000 geese annually and approximately 100,000 of those birds are the resident Giant Canada geese.

Southern Michigan has two special hunts along with the regular goose season. The daily limit is one goose per day during the regular season when migrant geese are passing through the state. During the special seasons, early September and in January when the majority of the flock is made up of the resident Giant Canada geese, the bag limit is raised to five per day in an effort to control the population.

In match No. 2, Ross O'Dowd, who won the previous event, started off slow and gave Seggie a chance to close him down at 235-209.

Match No. 3 was a session of spare shooting for two frames between Segue and Michael J. Rener of Waterford.

Seggie finally found his strike line and nailed nine of his final 10 shots for a 258-190 victory, setting the stage for an O'Connor-Seggie championship matchup.

As so often happens to a first time competitor, especially being on TV, Phyllis was a little bit nervous.

She opened in the first three frames, and her opponent kept on striking for a 257-175 win. The title was worth $550 for Seggie and runner-up O'Connor received $350.

The next scheduled tournament is 9 a.m. and noon Saturday April 25, at Fiero Lanes, in Pontiac.
