Overcrowding has plagued Westland's 18th District Court, located behind the Westland police station on Ford Road, and judges say the problem is worsening and could lead to violent incidents in the court building.

BY DARRELL CLEM

Westland district judges, fearing potential violence amid crowds that pack their cramped court building, are imploring city officials to consider a $4.5 million expansion.

"I'm worried about the day that something might ignite that will cause problems for all of us," Judge C. Charles Bokos told city leaders Monday.

Overcrowding has long plagued 18th District Court, tucked behind the Westland police station on Ford Road, and judges say the problem is worsening.

But judges face hesitant city officials who say court needs must be weighed alongside hopes for a new recreation center and a new administration building. In their plea for help, Bokos and Judge Gail McKnight told city officials during a Monday night study session that:

- The court had 38,000 cases last year — more than double the number it was built to handle in 1980.

- Its staff has doubled to 40 employees during the same 19-year period, and workers desperately need more space to do their jobs.

- Offenders waiting for probation appointments are forced to sit in a hallway where scores of ticket-payers often line up to settle fines — creating a situation for possible disputes.

- Defendants, victims and their families often face each other while waiting in crowded hallways, increasing the potential for violence.

- With as many as 200 people packing the court hallway some days, security officers have little room to break up fights. "There isn't enough space to separate people in the hallway," McKnight said.

- Jurors waiting to be questioned for possible jury duty have to be shifted between two courtrooms; they have no room of their own.

- A bigger court would include bet-

Construction to begin soon on new fire station

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER
dclem@oe.homecomm.net

South-end residents could see construction begin as early as May on a new Westland fire station in their neighborhood.

The new building is slated for the southeast corner of Annapolis and Irene, in Carver subdivision. It will become the first Westland fire station to be built in nearly 30 years.

Mayor Robert Thomas predicted the station will open late this year or in spring 2000.

The new station will provide faster responses to fires and medical emergencies in a south leg of the city that is geographically separate from the rest of Westland.

The 4,600-square-foot building is expected to cost about $800,000, city officials said.

Westland City Council members on Monday are expected to vote on a site plan and a special land use for the new station.

"We'll go out for bids soon after that, and we should be ready to break ground by May," Fire Chief Mark Neal said. "We're starting to get very excited."

Westland Planning Commission members approved the fire station plans on March 2, setting the stage for a council vote Monday.

Two firefighters trained as paramedics will initially work out of the station with one mini-pumper.

"They'll have fire attack capabilities as well as advanced life support capabilities," Neal said.

Ultimately, city officials hope to Man faces charges in cashing of fraudulent checks

BY DARRELL CLEM

dclem@oe.homecomm.net

A Westland man is accused of check fraud amid allegations that he tried to bilk an oil company out of as much as $18,000, police reports said.

A 23-year-old suspect could face 14 years in prison if convicted of cashing fraudulent checks at a Westland Com-erica branch and trying to defraud Dimplex Oil Co. of Wayne.

The defendant has been charged following incidents cited in Westland police reports.

A Dimplex manager was notified by Comerica that a company account was overdrawn and that a $10,000 check had been written on March 1, one report said.

The company official told bank authorities that he didn't authorize the check and that three other checks also were missing.

A man who brought in the $10,000 check took $2,000 in cash, placed $3,000 in a savings account and put $5,000 in a certificate, bank employees told police.

Two days later, the man is accused of withdrawing $3,000 from the savings account, a police report said.

On March 4 — three days after the first incident — the suspect is accused of returning to Comerica with an $8,000 check drawn on the same oil company, police said.

The man went to a drive-up window

Switch to Lowell gets unofficial approval

Livonia Public Schools' plan to close Johnson Elementary in 2000 and move students and staff to the bigger Lowell school is sailing in smooth waters, with little controversy and few anticipated problems.

The Livonia Board of Education gave the unofficial go-ahead to school administrators Monday to begin planning for both the switch to Lowell and a planned $800,000 classroom addition to Garfield Elementary. The trustees are expected to approve the move in

LIVONIA SCHOOLS

June and build the costs of the move into the 1999-2000 budget.

But a sister issue that brings major changes to the elementary school day may face stiff headwinds from the teachers' union, the Livonia Education Association, and may figure heavily into contract negotiations slated to begin this week between the district and the LEA. The current contract expires in August 1999.

Twice this week LEA president Karen Zyczynski has hunted at the looming conflict, first in a letter to the Livonia Observer and then in a public hearing held Monday to air the Johnson-Lowell switch and the changes in the elementary school day. See accompanying story.

In her letter Zyczynski warned "Changes recommended in this restructuring plan are issues that affect contract negotiations."

The $2 million price tag on the changes means the district will temporarily set aside its quest to reduce

Board gives Baracy high marks

BY BETH SUNDRA JACHMAN

bjachman@oe.homecomm.net

Greg Baracy

Wayne-Westland Schools Superintendent Greg Baracy passed his job review with flying colors at Monday's board meeting.

His annual evaluation was approved on a 7-0 vote with board member Teresa Robbins voting yes with reservations. No pay raise was immediately tied to the evaluation.

Baracy was evaluated in eight areas including: professional leadership and personal qualities, curriculum and instruction, community relations, business and finance, employee relations, board relations, intergovernmental relations and student relations.

"In each of these categories I couldn't possibly give a higher grade than was given to Dr. Baracy," school board President David Cox said.

Robbins, however, said while she feels Baracy has done a good job, "I always feel there's room for improvement so I'm voting yes with reservations."

Other board members gave Baracy an unequivocal thumbs up.

"I could not be more proud of what he's accomplished in the last three or four years ... than if he was my own son," board member Mathew McCusker said.

"He's brought in a team of administrators second to none," he said.

"I have worked with Greg. I have found him extremely dedicated to kids and the community," board member Martha Pitzenberger said.

Despite "a laundry list of initiatives," not once did Baracy wince, but he moved forward, Cox said.

According to a summary of his review:

■ In professional leadership, "Baracy has exhibited the energy level, leadership and vision for the school district that has provided a positive and motivating atmosphere that focuses on teaching and learning."

■ In curriculum and instruction, Baracy started the district's early intervention reading program, "Camp Read Alot" and will expand it this year. The district is also piloting a new hands-on elementary science curriculum this year.

■ In community relations, Baracy participates and serves on many civic organizations and makes himself available to the community through many speaking engagements.

■ In finance, "appropriate cost containment and budget monitoring have been a priority while keeping in mind that student programs and educational quality will remain at the forefront."

■ "His employee relationships in the district are excellent."

■ "He communicates with the board on a regular basis and treats each board member equally."

■ "He continues to foster one of the best relationships with the local municipalities that this district has had in years."

■ "He is visible at school functions after school and visits buildings and classrooms on a regular basis."

Baracy acknowledged the praise while saying the district has many challenges ahead.

"I'd like to thank each and every one of you for your kind words," he said. He also praised his cabinet and administration, saying "everybody has a common mission."

"We will continue to focus on our children," he said.

Call for help

Bokos and McKnight implored city officials to consider approving a $4.5 million expansion that would give the court 28,000 square feet of space - double what it now has.

"We're in desperate need of some space," Bokos said. "It is ridiculous over there," Councilman Richard LeBlanc conceded.

An expansion would cost much less than a new court, which Bokos said could have a price tag as high as $11.2 million.

Judges favor expanding the front of the court building and adding a second story, which could eventually include a third courtroom.

Even though Westland only has two judges, Bokos said he believes that the state will eventually consolidate some district courts.

"The likely merger is Wayne and Westland," he said.

Bokos said he and McKnight already have a greater workload than some district courts with as many as three judges.

The judges proposed helping to pay for an expansion with surplus court revenues that get turned over to the city - $1.2 million during the last three years, alone.

Bokos also said alternate plans such as private financing could be considered.

Either way, he said, "We're at that point where we've got to make a decision."

Bokos said the court can only raise so much money to help make a new building feasible.

"We can't be charging people $500 for a parking ticket," he said.

A new or expanded court has been discussed for at least four years, but the proposal seemed to lose momentum as city officials turned their attention to a new recreation center and administration building.

Mayor's response

Mayor Robert Thomas said Monday that new city buildings are "first and foremost" on his list of priorities - ahead of a court project.

However, some council members indicated that they want to consider all building needs so they can develop a comprehensive plan that addresses all issues.

"I think we'd be making a big mistake by doing this piecemeal," Councilman Glenn Anderson said.

But, McKnight said, "We've got to get to that overall plan."

Councilwoman Justine Barns said she favors a new court building along with a new administration complex and a new recreation center.

"We haven't put enough money into our buildings to maintain them well," she said. "They're all going sour."

Judges pleaded with city officials to seek solutions as soon as possible to the court's problems.

"The more we wait," Bokos said, "the more it's going to cost us to do something down the road."

Kids also learn increased endurance in kicking, paddle stroke and finning back. The classes are part of the winter preschool swim schedule.

Westland Police to clamp down on unsafe driving practices

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER
dclem@oe.homecomm.net

Extra Westland police officers will be assigned to patrol local roads next week to watch for motorists who are drunk, speeding or ignoring seat belt laws.

The clampdown will start Sunday evening and end early Friday morning. Westland and 10 other law enforcement agencies in Wayne County will join the initiative, called "Drive Michigan Safely."

Police are warning St. Patrick's Day revelers not to drive if they guzzle too much beer - green or otherwise - during Wednesday's Irish celebration. Extra Westland officers will be placed on roads from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. during the five-day offensive, paying particular attention to motorists on Merriman, Ford, Wayne and Newburgh roads and Michigan Avenue, Sgt. Peter Brokas said.

"We want to encompass the hours later at night when people go out drinking at bars," he said. "We also want to wait until rush hour is over so that we can concentrate on the people who have more roadway to speed down." Officers will strictly enforce alcohol and speeding laws, and drivers who get caught also will be ticketed if they're not wearing their seat belts, Brokas said.

"We'll be pulling over more cars, and the person had better have their seat belt on," he said. "Above all, they had better have their children belted. That's what we're really concentrating on is saving the kids."

A state highway safety grant, channeled through Wayne County, will help local departments pay to place extra officers on duty during the targeted hours.

Westland police will be joined in "Drive Michigan Safely" by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Michigan State Police and local departments in Livonia, Redford Township, Detroit, Romulus, Dearborn, Flat Rock, Hamtramck and Highland Park.

"All of those departments will have extra personnel out looking specifically for alcohol-related offenses, but they will also be enforcing speeding and seat belt laws," Brokas said. "We don't want to divulge how many extra officers will be out there," he said. "We just want to say that there will be extra officers out there on patrol, and Westland will be putting in quite a few."

With St. Patrick's Day approaching, one local bar, Steff's Lounge on Newburgh Road south of Joy, has agreed Wednesday to try to help curb drunken driving, Brokas said.

Patrons who come to Steff's in groups will have an opportunity to choose a designated driver among themselves during a random drawing of "Blarney stones."

In a party of five, for example, all five people would draw stones. Four people would find themselves with stones painted green, while the fifth would draw a stone with no paint, becoming the designated driver.

"The designated driver will get free munchies and pop," Brokas said.

Next week's "Drive Michigan Safely" program will launch the first of several similar initiatives slated for 1999 - most of them timed to coincide with special occasions when heavy drinking is likely to occur, Brokas said.

Local man killed in UP accident

A Westland man was killed early Sunday in a two-vehicle accident in the Upper Peninsula, police said.

Mark Herwig, 25, died along with Steven Moe, 25, of Romulus after the pickup truck they were riding in hit a semitruck head-on in the U.S. 2/Point Aux Chenes area, police said.

The accident occurred about 3:55 a.m. Sunday when an east-bound pickup truck passing another vehicle was struck head-on by a westbound semitruck, a Michigan State Police press release said.

The driver of the semitruck was treated and released from a hospital.

U.S. 2 was closed from 4 a.m. to 11:55 a.m. Sunday as authorities cleaned debris and fuel from the road.

elementary class size. But reducing class size, Zyczynski cautioned, is not an issue that the district should abandon. It's an issue, she said, the LEA will pursue during negotiations.

At Monday's public hearing, Zyczynski said Livonia's teachers had no input into the final recommendations made by the elementary restructured day committee.

"Teachers were involved in the initial stage, but not in the final recommendations," she said.

Committee members making recommendations are Lorna Durand, Webster principal; Andrea Oquist, Johnson principal; Ernest Terry, Nankin Mills principal; Ron Van Horn, Marshall principal; Terry Davidson, assistant director of instruction; Fred Price, assistant director of instruction; and Paul Derwich, chairman.

In picking the Johnson-to-Lowell move, the district is putting "on the back burner" the second option: moving grade six to middle school.

Zyczynski cited the following as some of the recommended changes not yet discussed by Livonia's teachers:

- Increasing physical education class time to 90 minutes a week for grades 1-6 and 60 minutes a week for kindergartners.

- Eliminating non-noon hour recesses. "Teachers might not like recess duty, but they know kids need to get out and let off steam," Zyczynski said.

- Hiring teachers in grades five and six who have endorsements, minors or majors, in math and science.

The recommendations, if approved by the trustees, will be included in the 1999-2000 budget. This means the recommended changes could be adopted before a contract is reached with the teachers.

"We're going into collective bargaining, but we can't hold up the process until the process ends," said Superintendent Ken Watson.

The move to Lowell is one of two options the district considered to ease overcrowding in the southwest part of the city. In picking the Johnson-to-Lowell move, the district is putting "on the back burner" the second option, moving grade six to middle school, Watson said.

Trustee Ken Timmons initially backed the second option, but said he would support the move to Lowell as long as a grades 6-8 middle school configuration was simply put "on the back burner" and not abandoned outright. The grades 6-8 middle school configuration carries a hefty price-tag, about $4.4 million.

However, he did question sinking $800,000 into building four classrooms onto Garfield when, for a far less amount of money, the district could hire an assistant principal at Lowell to help handle the larger number of students.

However, Watson said the district does not want an elementary school with over 600 students. The number of students could easily exceed that, he said, if some of the new students are not absorbed at Garfield.

"That's the reason for the Garfield addition," Watson said. "We will not dump another 70 kids into Johnson (Lowell) and have it go over 600 in four years. That would be significantly larger than we want, or we are used to. The Johnson area is the fastest growing area in the city."

At the public hearing, two Johnson teachers, Maureen Moag and John Lectka, backed the Johnson-to-Lowell switch.

"It's important we get to stay together," Moag said.

Bonnie Staples, Johnson PTA president, said parents backed the move but needed answers to questions about such issues as bus transportation, playground equipment and sidewalks.

Meetings will be held in the next few months to answer the parents' questions and map out details of the move, Watson said.

CITY OF WESTLAND ORDINANCE NO. 248-A-7

Schools tune in to elementary music

Livonia Public Schools can't wait until its new budget gets adopted in June to start hiring the teachers it needs for the 1999-2000 school year.

With that thought in mind, school administrators sought - and got - from the Livonia Board of Education Monday the unofficial go-ahead to start doing the things needed to bring back elementary instrumental music and increase the amount of time students spend in gym class.

"We need to hire 11 new teachers and work with staff on a change in assignments," said Superintendent Ken Watson.

"There's not a large number of music teachers available."

For the 1999-2000 school year, the district wants to hire four music teachers and seven more physical education teachers.

In June, school trustees are expected to approve an elementary restructuring plan that over the next two years will cost nearly $2 million.

For the 2000-01 school year, the plan includes hiring 14 foreign language teachers as well as two more instrumental music teachers.

The plan also meets the state's mandate of increasing the number of yearly instructional hours from 1,047 to 1,098 by the 2000-2001 school year.

The plan includes implementing the following over a two-year period:

- Lengthen the school day to meet state requirements, while keeping a balanced day before and after a 50-minute lunch.

- Increase physical education instruction to 90 minutes per week for grades 1-6.

- Add foreign language instruction in grades 1-6 during the 2000-2001 school year.

- Eliminate non-noon hour recess time.

- Use 30 and 45 minute blocks for such special classes as art, music, physical education, library materials center and teacher planning.

- In grades five and six, only teachers with math/science major or minor endorsements will teach those two subjects.

- Restructure vocal music as general music in grades K-4.

- Add an instrumental music class in grade five that meets twice a week for 30 minutes.

- Add an elective instrumental music or foreign language class in grade 6.

Livonia trustee votes not to seek new term

After eight years as a school board trustee, James Watters has decided not to seek a third term on the Livonia Board of Education.

Watters, vice president and regional sales manager for First Federal of Michigan, plans to announce his retirement from the board at Monday's school board meeting.

"I want to give people enough time to decide whether to run," said Watters, who joined the board in 1991.

Watters' decision not to run again means that the board will have at least one new trustee sitting on it come July 1.

Two four-year terms are up for grabs in Livonia Public Schools. Trustee Frank Kokenakes has not yet announced whether he will seek re-election.

School board candidates must file nominating petitions containing at least 26 valid signatures by 4 p.m. April 12.

LIVONIA SCHOOLS

As trustee, Watters has watched daughters Erica and Stephanie both graduate from Stevenson High School and move on to college.

His decision comes at a time when the banking industry is experiencing a deluge of mortgage financings - Watters' forte - because of the booming housing industry.

"My job is taking more and more of my time, with my pager even going off at night," said the Woodside Street resident.

Watters holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from the Detroit Institute of Technology and is a graduate of the Institute of Financial Education and the School of Mortgage Banking at Northwestern University.

He came on the Livonia board in 1991 after 16-year board veteran Carol Strom decided not to seek re-election.

Watters' first involvement with the school district came when he served as a member of the long-range strategic planning commission.

"I really enjoyed working with the administration here; they're engaging, challenging and well-informed," Watters said.

Watters mentioned his own experience as a busy banker with a lot of work but no extra manpower Monday during the trustees' discussion of ways to solve the "space crunch" in southwest Livonia.

If all these extra students are being enrolled, Watters reasoned, why not take the extra step and give these principals some extra staff help?

"Principals are working 12-hour days," Watters said. "They're getting all this extra work, but not having any input whatsoever. There's a limit to how much someone can do. Can we give extra support to these people?"

Watters has been active in the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Livonia Goodfellows, Friends of the Library and Livonia Commission on Children and Youth.

He is married to wife, Marci.

Livonia PTA honors talented students at program

The handiwork of many talented Livonia students was put on display recently at Churchill High when the Livonia PTA Council held its 20th annual Reflections Awards program.

Awards were given to students in Livonia Public Schools in four categories: literature, music, photography and visual arts.

In 1969, PTAs across the country launched the Reflections contest to promote an interest in the arts outside the classroom setting.

Winners in grades K-2 literature competition are: first place, Hayley Drozdowski, first grade, Buchanan; second place, Brooke Knochel, second grade, Tyler; third place, Kevin Bussa, Kindergarten, Cass; and honorable mention, Elizabeth Curtis, first grade, Kennedy.

Winners in grades 3-5 literature competition are: first place, Alex Wozniak, fourth grade, Taylor; second place, Leah Miller, third grade, Webster; third place, Jessica Pritchard, fifth Police officers later arrested the man.

The oil company manager told police that the suspect had worked for the company for 15 days and that he was not given any authority to cash checks.

However, the man told police that he had been given the checks and that he may have been "duped" by the manager.

The man told police he had been told to cash checks and take some of the money back to the company official.

The man raised questions about whether the company official may have been trying to use him to steal money from the company, but a police investigation has resulted in charges against only one suspect.

In court this week, the suspect was arraigned and a not-guilty plea was entered on his behalf.

He was jailed in lieu of a $10,000 cash bond as he awaits a March 18 preliminary hearing, which will determine whether he should stand trial.

"That area of the city has always been the farthest distance, and it has some of the most difficult areas to get to sometimes because of the railroad tracks," the mayor said.

Westland has, at times, been forced to seek help from Inkster and Romulus for south-end emergencies, Thomas said.

The city is paying for the new station with federal Community Development Block Grant dollars, he said. The city already owned the land.

"I think this will be a nice addition for the city," Thomas said. "ALS (advanced life support) really does make a difference."

South-end residents have voiced enthusiastic support for the fire station.

City officials have said the station could play a role in the revitalization of Carver subdivision, where new housing already has started to emerge for the first time in more than two decades.

Study recommends ways to cut accidents among elderly drivers

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Larger, brighter traffic signs and wider lane markers would help reduce a growing source of traffic accidents — drivers 65 and older — according to a study by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Today's roads were designed "in the 1930s and using the performance characteristics of young, healthy males," says the study by J. Thomas Bruff and Jennifer Evans.

But the elderly proportion of the region's population has grown from 3.3 percent in 1930 to 11.6 percent in 1990, and will swell to 17.3 percent by 2020, the authors say.

And they are getting into traffic crashes more often than any group except the youngest. When miles driven are considered, "the elderly crash involvement rate increases dramatically," Bruff and Evans said in their summary.

What can be done? Most states have looked at licensing requirements, but no pattern of change is being recommended. SEMCOG's study was funded by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

"Very few states require routine knowledge tests, road tests or medical exams for elderly drivers," the authors say. "No state uses age as a basis for restricting or prohibiting driving."

The elderly have some "unique crash patterns," say the authors, citing:

■ Daytime — "The elderly are more involved in crashes during the day, when the weather is clear and road conditions are good" — 88 percent during daylight.

■ Turns — "Elderly drivers are more involved in angle and left-turn crashes at intersections with traffic controls." Typically the elderly violator is cited for failure to yield the right of way.

■ Injury — "The elderly are more likely to be seriously

An author of a book on the history of Schoolcraft College once praised Eric Bradner's efforts for laying the groundwork for Schoolcraft and Michigan community colleges.

"All of Bradner's energy, tenacity and enthusiasm were needed at times when the obstacles appeared to be insurmountable," Sam Hudson wrote in his 1983 book "Reaching Out ... The History of Schoolcraft College."

"Equally beneficial was Bradner's success in persuading a number of colleagues at Delta College in Bay City to join him in putting together the staff, the curriculum and all of the things necessary before Schoolcraft College was open."

The book documented and reflected on Bradner's efforts during the college's early years, as many college officials did this week upon the news of Bradner's death. Bradner died Feb. 28 in Traverse City of congestive heart failure. He was 92.

Bradner, Schoolcraft's first president, was described by the current president, Richard McDowell, as a "fine gentleman, who had a vision of what community college should be."

"He's the one who started the college and hired the first faculty," McDowell said. "He really got it started."

Bradner worked with William Atkinson, the president of Jackson Junior College, forming a team to propose the concept of statewide community colleges to the state Legislature. Most of the writing of the Community College Act of 1957 was done on Bradner's dining room table at the house in Essexville, Mich., when he was dean of Bay City Junior College, setting the stage for the community college network that exists in Michigan today.

Working with community leaders in the cities of Garden City, Plymouth, Livonia and Northville, a new community college district was formed in Wayne County when the electorate voted to set up the school and voted millage to pay for it.

Marv Gans, assistant dean of Continuing Education Services-Physical Fitness and a member of the first group of faculty to be hired, described Bradner as "a real down-to-earth kind of guy."

"He worked very closely with the initial faculty and administrators. He was a hands-on person, really involved in the ongoing operation of the institution."

Saundra Florek, dean of marketing and development, described him as "perfect" for that era in Schoolcraft's history.

"He was concerned about each and every employee. Schoolcraft College was like one of his children, and he wanted it to grow and his employees to believe in it as he believed in it. He and his wife, Florence, were the most gracious couple I ever met."

Building a library

Bradner was born in California, earned a bachelor's degree at Occidental College, and spent the early part of his career in Chicago, earning a doctorate at Northwestern University. He returned to California for four years where he taught high school. He came to Michigan in 1949 to become the dean of Bay City Junior College. In 1961, he became director-coordinator of the proposed community college that became Schoolcraft and took the reins as the first president in 1962.

Hudson, in assessing Bradner's contribution to the college, wrote, "The picture that emerges is that of a man full of enthusiasm for the job he had taken on, bursting with energy that rubbed off on those who worked with him, and completely dedicated to the community college concept."

In 1962, Bradner hired Patrick Butler as the college's first librarian. In Hudson's book, Butler said Bradner was "unusual" in his attitude toward the library.

"He encouraged me to begin ordering books more than two years before the college was scheduled to open," Butler said. "Most college presidents wait until the college is about to admit students before they begin to order books."

Butler believed Bradner's interest in good books stemmed

Fight renewed

■ Rep. Valde Garcia, R-St. Johns, has taken up a battle fought for years by former Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield — a bill to block cities from imposing residency requirements on firefighters. Garcia's bill also would prevent residency from being a consideration in promotion.

Garcia complained that local regulations are so onerous that "some cities have even taken to spying on their employees. People reported seeing (private) investigators peering through their windows and following them around as they ran family errands."

Detroit and 75 other cities have residency rules.

■ Twin bills to allow Michigan to ban the importing of trash if Congress allows it have been introduced into both chambers of the Legislature — by Loren Bennett, R-Canton, in the Senate, and Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, in the House. The bills would apply to Michigan landfills. The problem: Out-of-state waste imports are governed by the federal Interstate Commerce Act, and the U.S. Congress would have to permit state law to supersede federal law.

Voter file panel

Nine city and county clerks — including Kathryn Dornan of Farmington Hills — have been named to a special advisory committee on Michigan's "qualified voter file," a statewide electronic voter registration database and elections management system.

Prior to the QVF, 1,700 clerks kept voter registration rolls. The statewide file allowed elimination of 600,000 duplicate or "deadwood" voter registrations — about 1/10th of the total.

Economy good

The Senate Fiscal Agency had a glowing report on the Michigan economy in February:

■ Wage and salary employment in December was up 1.5 percent from a year earlier. Gainers were services, construction and retail trade.

■ Motor vehicle production in December was 3.2 million units, 12.9 percent above November's level and 4.8 percent above the year-earlier level.

■ The consumer price index in Detroit rose 0.1 percent in December from October and 2.6 percent from a year earlier. Biggest increases were in education, tobacco and medical care. Declining were housing and transportation.

■ Unemployment rates ranged from 1.8 percent in Ann Arbor to 7.6 percent in the northern counties of Alcona and Iosco. The Detroit metropolitan statistical area reported 2.9 percent. State average was 3.4 percent, down 0.1 percent from a year earlier. The national rate was 4.3 percent in January.

Different addresses

A person may register to vote at an address different from the one on his or her driver's license, Attorney General Jennifer Granholm has ruled.

Granholm said local clerks aren't prohibited from "accepting voter registration applications reciting addresses different from those listed on the applicant's driver's license."

The opinion on Michigan's Election Law was requested by state Reps. Liz Brater, D-Ann Arbor, and Laura Baird, D-Okeanos.

No protection

State Police troopers and sergeants aren't protected by the state Whistle-Blowers' Protection Act, Granholm said in an opinion requested by Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Brighton.

The 1981 protects employees "who report a violation or suspected violation of state, local, or federal law. Under specified circumstances, the act prohibits and employer from disciplining an employee who reports violations of the law," Granholm said.

But the definition of employee excludes "state classified civil service," Granholm said. The Michigan Constitution was amended in 1978 to give troopers and sergeants collective bargaining rights but didn't exempt them from civil service coverage.

"As members of the state classified civil service, state police troopers and sergeants are excepted from the act's definition of 'employee' and are thus not subject to the provisions of the act," she concluded.

Vacation time

A state court judge should take 20 days of vacation per year with the approval of the chief judge, the Michigan Supreme Court said.

The high court also said it expects judges "to take educational leave of two weeks every three years to participate in state or national judicial training programs."

And it encourages judges to "participate in professional meetings and conferences" to advance public understanding of the judicial system. The high court rule applies to all judges at all levels.

Commented Chief Justice Elizabeth Weaver: "The vast majority of judges in this state already operate within these standards. The few who do not - both those who do not allow themselves sufficient vacation time to 'recharge their batteries' from the difficult work of being a judge, and those who take too much time off - will benefit by the articulation of these standards."

City must pay

The city of East Tawas will have to pay Frederick and Linda Manning attorney's costs for the council's violation of the Open Meetings Act and the clerk's violation of the Freedom of Information Act, a state Court of Appeals panel has ruled. The case sets a precedent for the rest of the state.

The Mannings sued when the council rejected their site plan for a recreational vehicle park. The council went into closed session but failed to state a reason, as required by sec. 8 of the Open Meetings Act. The clerk refused to release the minutes of the closed meeting under the public records act.

The appeals panel said Isoco Circuit Judge J. Richard Ernst was correct in opening up just part of the minutes because the council's deliberations covered both exempt and nonexempt topics.

The Mannings argued that the council 1) failed to state a purpose for closing the meeting and 2) failed to take a vote. But the appeals court said, "However, the city council duly re-enacted and recorded the decision," and said the council thereby validated its action.

"Further, deficiencies in the keeping of minutes of meetings are not in any event grounds for invalidating the actions taken."

Judges Peter O'Connell, Joel Hoekstra and Martin Doctoroff sent the case back to the trial judge to calculate attorneys' fees and costs for the Mannings.

from Bradner's major and doctorate in history. "He believed a good college library is of prime importance to the success of a college."

Butler said Bradner wanted him to aim for a goal of 20,000 volumes, since studies had indicated that a community college should have that many volumes. When Butler visited other community colleges, library officials there were "amazed" to hear Schoolcraft was collecting books at such an early stage in the college's development.

"We stored the books in boxes in the basement of the old Newburgh School. When the college opened in the fall of 1964, we had 16,000 volumes fully catalogued and ready to go on the shelves."

Bradner served as president until his retirement in 1971. That year, Schoolcraft trustees decided to honor Bradner by naming the library after him. Today, that library houses 70,000 government publications, 67,500 volumes, 700 magazines and 12 computer terminals with Internet access for students.

After retirement, Bradner relocated to Arizona, and later to Traverse City. His wife, Florence, died in 1995 at age 95. He is survived by a son, James Bradner of Howell, and daughter, Susan Woodburne of Traverse City, four grandsons and six great-grandchildren.

The family plans a memorial service in early June. The family requests any donations be made to Schoolcraft College Scholarship funds.

The cost of surgery to correct a cleft lip is between $2,000 to $3,000 in Mexico and many of the people who seek help don't earn that much in one year.

Developing bonds

The volunteers often see some of the same people who need numerous surgeries year after year.

"It's like seeing family again and you really develop a bond with these people," said Glovak, adding that the group tries to make arrangements for treatment in the United States for the extremely severe cases that can't be handled during the weeklong trip.

The team of medical experts has become more than just a group of people with kind hearts. They've learned to meet each other's needs, too. Even though Glovak's illness makes her weak and tired, the others insist that she continue to make the trip with promises that they will pick up the slack when she can't finish her job.

Busuito launched his charitable work years ago when he accompanied other physicians who donated their time to help children in the United States.

Twelve years ago, he started taking his talents overseas.

"It's just the type of work that gets in your blood and keeps you wanting to go back," Busuito said. "I think that one feels a great sense of satisfaction after doing something like this. Essentially, we all donate our time and most of us donate a lot of money in order to do this."

Heartfelt stories

He also tells stories about children who have a special place in his heart and memory: an 8-year-old girl in the Philippines whom he helped 18 months ago. Her home had no electricity and she was burned by the kerosene lamp that provided her family with light. The scars were so severe that her thighs healed together and her mother was preparing her to enter a convent because she assumed her daughter would never be able to have children.

"We were able to reconstruct her and get her legs apart and when I came out and told her mother that she would be able to walk normally and bear children in the future, her mother broke down and started crying," Busuito said. "It's stories like that and experiences like that really drive you to go back and do it again and that's just one example."

He tells another story about a 6-year-old Mexican girl who had a very large cleft palate. She whimpered constantly after the surgery and while she was recovering, a nurse asked her mother to bring one of her baby dolls to hold. The mother cried and said the girl never had a doll. That night, the nurse sent her husband out to buy a doll for the little girl.

Almost all children in the United States, regardless of socioeconomic status, who are born with a cleft lip or cleft palate have their lips fixed before they are 3 months old and they have their palate fixed by the time they're 1 year old.

"When I was in the Philippines in one day I operated on three people all in their 60s who walked around their entire lives with these severe deformities and never had been fixed," Busuito said. "It really gives you a sense of how lucky we have it here in this country."

Other medical volunteers going to Camargo include Dr. John Lange, a dentist from Grand Rapids; Peter Lapine and Dr. Kate Runyan from Michigan State University audiology and speech pathology department; and Sterling Heights resident Joanna Hegedus, a nurse manager at Hutzel Health Center, Warren; and Martie McGrail, of Grand Rapids, who works as manager of the pediatric clinic at Devos Children's Hospital in Grand Rapids.

All jobs

Tasks and jobs vary. If the garbage needs emptying, it gets emptied by whomever is available.

The volunteers take one week, dipping into their work vacation time, to travel to Mexico and watch their efforts work miracles for people who don't have much. Most of the people seeking help live in cinderblock homes without windows, drapes for doors and no running water. Luxuries, like telephones are rare. In fact, Operation Kindness announces surgical schedules through radio announcements because that's the easiest way to get the word out.

"When you come back, you look at the equipment we have with a totally different viewpoint," Glovak said. "You don't believe what we have and the abundance."

Operation Kindness brings everything they will need.

"We get donations of supplies, like Band-Aids and even anesthesia," Glovak said. "The host hospital can't afford what they have, let alone supply 40 additional surgeries."

Busuito, a board certified plastic, general and hand surgeon, mostly works on cleft lips and pallets, deforming burns, reconstruction work for people born without external ears, hernias and devastatingly gruesome physical marks.

"Children there are just as cruel as kids here in the States," Glovak said.

"They can be teased unmercifully. We know that by going there we can restore their function and their social acceptability. We've removed their stigma."

"With a lot of the kids if they have a major birth defect, they think of it as a curse from God and they really do hide them away," said Glovak, who describes surgery as fun. "It's not work. It's solving a problem. It's like a jigsaw puzzle and you're helping to put them back together."

Missionary work

Glovak and the other volunteers had gone on missionary work with various organizations until they started their own nonprofit organization, Operation Kindness, last April in an effort to ensure that all the money would go to the children.

"There are no administrative costs," Busuito said.

"The definition of compassion is seeing a need and doing something about it," Glovak said.

The medical volunteers also try to teach the medical professionals at the host hospital and they distribute literature, in Spanish, regarding various treatments.

Regarding their own safety, Glovak said, they drink only bottled water and rely on the local medical people to tell them where to eat.

"We're very, very careful and we've been very fortunate, too," she added.

Anyone interested in helping may make checks payable to Operation Kindness. Donations should be sent to Macomb Community Bank, 16000 Hall, Clinton Township, MI 48038.

Expansion jets airport into 21st century

DRAWING COURTESY OF NORTHWEST AIRLINES

New digs: Here is an artist's rendering of the approximately 2-million square foot midfield terminal at Detroit Metro Wayne County Airport. Expected to be completed in late 2001 the terminal will be located adjacent to a parking structure (far left) with 11,000 parking spaces. The two concourses (the West Concourse is on the far right) will house 74 jet gates and 25 commuter gates with an underground tunnel with moving walkways connecting the concourses.

More parking, moving walkways highlight new terminal

One day travelers can expect to drive into Detroit Metro Wayne County Airport on a south access road, entering the facility from either I-275 or I-94.

They will drive into a parking garage with 11,000 parking spaces. Soon they will be directed to a main ticketing hall with 104 ticketing positions and counters, a domestic luggage claim with 11 carousels and a federal inspections facility ready to handle 3,200 passengers per hour.

They may enter the 4,900-foot-long East Concourse to get to one of 66 jet gates, using an automated "People Mover" traveling 3,600 feet — nearly the length of the concourse. Then again, they may be directed to the West Concourse, its eight jet gates, 25 commuter gates, shops and concessions. They will enter via an underground pedestrian tunnel with moving walkways.

That's the vision — and now soon to be reality — Northwest Airlines and airport officials have of the completed midfield terminal, expected to be finished in about 2 1/2 years. The entire airport expansion project is expected to cost about $1.2 billion.

On March 3, Northwest Airlines and Wayne County officials announced that Northwest awarded a $366 million contract to Hubert, Hunt & Nichols of Indianapolis for the construction of the midfield terminal, scheduled to be completed in late 2001. Northwest officials said the Indianapolis firm's bid had a significant difference in price than other national construction firms.

The firm has been contracted to build the new baseball stadium for the Detroit Tigers, and has constructed airport terminals in Atlanta and Indianapolis.

'World-class facility'

Ray Vecci, Northwest Airlines president of Michigan operations, said Northwest was excited about building "what will be the finest airport facility in the United States."

"We are committed to providing our customers in Detroit and around the world with a world-class facility and a world-class hometown airline," Vecci said.

Approximately 2 million square feet in size, the terminal will include a main ticketing hall that has 104 domestic and international ticketing positions, a domestic luggage claim with 11 carousels, a state-of-the-art lug-

Under construction: Tons of dirt and asphalt will be excavated over the next few months as the midfield terminal site is prepared for concrete, and steel girders.

Expansion facts

The Midfield Terminal Building at Detroit Metro Wayne County Airport will be located southwest of the Smith and Davey terminals. Approximately 2 million square feet in size, the terminal will include:

- Main ticketing hall with 104 domestic and international ticketing positions, a domestic luggage claim with 11 carousels, a state-of-the-art luggage handling system and a federal inspection services facility to handle 3,200 passengers per hour, and 24 luggage curbside check-in positions at departure level.
- Connecting link includes a 19,000-square-foot World-Club with 15 shops and restaurants.
- The East Concourse will be 4,900 feet long with 66 jet gates, including 10 international gates, 31 shops and restaurants, 2,200 feet of dual moving walkways, two 6,800-square-foot World-Clubs and an automated people mover traveling a length of 3,600 feet to transport passengers through the concourse.
- A 900-foot long underground tunnel with moving walkways connecting the two concourses.
- Satellite West Concourse with eight jet gates and 25 commuter gates and over 11 shops and food concessions, and a 3,200-square foot WorldClub.
- Parking garage — with more than 11,000 spaces — adjacent to the midfield terminal.

The entire terminal will house concession areas of approximately 125,000 square feet of retail space, an increase from 55,000 square feet currently at the airport.

Construction is under way for an energy plant near the control tower to provide electricity, heating and cooling to the midfield terminal complex. That area of the airport also will house 180 acres of aprons and taxiways, aircraft hydrant fueling system, drainage, pump stations and a glycol collection system.

gage handling system and a federal inspection services facility to handle 3,200 passengers per hour, and 24 luggage curbside check-in positions at departure level.

A "connecting link" will include a 19,000-square-foot WorldClub with 15 shops and restaurants. The East Concourse will be 4,900-feet long with 66 jet gates, including 10 international gates, 31 shops and restaurants, 2,200 feet of dual moving walkways, two 6,800-square-foot WorldClubs and an automated people mover traveling a length of 3,600 feet to transport passengers through the concourse.

A 900-foot long underground tunnel will include moving walkways connecting the two concourses. A satellite West Concourse will house eight jet gates and 25 commuter gates and over 11 shops and food concessions, and a 3,200-square foot WorldClub.

"It will be the gateway to Detroit and to Southeast Michigan," said Jim Greenwald, vice president of Northwest Airlines' facilities and principal in charge of construction for the midfield project.

"It won't be just another airport terminal. It will be impressive with high-tech services."

The East Concourse also will include 14 gates to accommodate widebody aircraft. Ten of the 14 gates are configured for international arrivals and departures.

An international traveler flying on Northwest from Amsterdam to Indianapolis can expect to notice the difference, Greenwald said.

"They will be able to make that connection in the terminal, and not get on the bus or a terminal," Greenwald said.

Greenwald expects the mid-field will assist Metro in competing with airports in Chicago, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. "We want to have a facility that makes it easy to get in and out. It will take away the operational constraints. If you can operate freely and effectively, it can take some of the hassles away from the passengers."

Northwest wants to make a facility to make passengers comfortable and ease travel for them, Greenwald said. "It gives us the ability to process without congestion and without bottlenecks," Greenwald said.

The expansion couldn't come quick enough for Metro. The airport has dealt with poor showings in customer surveys, Northwest received criticism for its handling of air travelers in the Jan. 2 snowstorm, while security breaches have caused further delays on at least four different occasions in the last year.

Increasing travel

Even though the airlines and airport have had their share of problems, air travel continues to grow at Metro. That meant interim improvements calling for rest room renovations and expanded U.S. Customs inspection area, expanded to clear 1,200 passengers an hour for international travel.

Since 1991, passengers have increased an average of 7.9 percent annually. In 1997, 15.2 million passengers boarded planes at Metro.

Lufthansa has started a daily non-stop service to Germany from Metro, while Northwest has flown nonstop to China. British Air and KLM fly out of Metro as well. Katz will know later this year whether another gate or two can be added to the International Terminal.

"We'd also like to do something about the international terminal," said David Katz, director of Wayne County airports. "The demand is tremendous."

With the new midfield terminal and continued improvements, international arrival gates are expected to accommodate 3,200 passengers an hour in 2005 and 3,600 passengers an hour by 2020.

Doing business

In the Smith Terminal, a new business center is expected to be constructed this year, Katz said. Currently out for bid, the 1,200- to 1,500-square-foot facility would assist business travelers who want to use cubicles equipped with amenities for laptop computers.

The center will be designed similar to a facility at Cincinnati Airport.

Katz expects the bids will arrive within 30 days. Once the county commission approves that bid, the construction will begin and last about three or four months.

In another phase of the project, Katz expects Goddard and Wayne roads will be re-routed at the airport for the construction of an additional parallel runway, Runway 422. Construction will continue this year on the South Access Road.

Currently the public cannot access the construction site, but when completed in late 2001, the terminal will be accessible from the south via Eureka Road or from the north via I-94 once the south access road is completed.

That means travelers will be able to exit from I-275 to get to airport and the new terminal. Today travelers must exit from I-94 to get to the Smith and Davey terminals.

At any one time, the airport can have between 50 and 100 construction projects going, Katz said.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said the airport is a visitor's first impression of Detroit, so airport and airline officials wanted to "showcase the very best of our community."

"We want that impression to be welcoming and pleasant," McNamara said.

Candidates needed School board filing date nears

Attention potential candidates for the Wayne-Westland and Livonia public school boards: two seats are up for election this year on each of those boards.

If you are interested in the direction your local school district is taking and have the time and inclination to serve, now's a great time to throw your hat into the ring for the June 14 election.

In Wayne-Westland the seats are currently held by Martha Pitsenbarger and David James. Pitsenbarger plans to seek re-election, while James has announced he won't be running again for his seat.

Candidates face a 4 p.m. April 12 filing deadline if they want to be placed on the ballot. The terms on both boards are for four years.

In Wayne-Westland, candidates will have until 4 p.m. April 12 to file their petitions at elections offices, 3001 Fourth St., behind Wayne Memorial High School.

Other guidelines:
■ Petitions must be signed by at least 20 registered voters of the school district.

■ Anyone circulating petitions must be a registered Michigan voter.

■ A single petition form can't be circulated in more than one city or township. However, different petitions can be circulated in different communities served by the district to get the required 20 signatures.

■ An affidavit of identity must be submitted with petitions. It must be notarized, but candidates filing near the deadline should be forewarned that the elections office doesn't have a notary.

■ Candidates may withdraw from the race by 4 p.m. April 15, but only if they provide written notice to the school board secretary or an authorized agent.

In Livonia the seats are now held by James Watters and Frank Kokenakes.

Livonia school board candidates are required to file nominating petitions containing at least 26 valid signatures by 4 p.m. April 12.

For Livonia schools, petitions can be picked up and filed in the superintendent's office, 15125 Farmington Road.

Candidates must be 18 years of age, a registered voter and school district resident.

In both races, candidates who file have until 4 p.m. April 15 to withdraw from the race without being listed on the ballot.

People are often quick to criticize those who serve on local boards and councils. But those same people don't make any effort to put themselves out there as candidates.

We hope the idea of serving on the local school board appeals to the strong candidates we know are out there. If you or someone you know would make a quality candidate, take the opportunity now to get involved.

Serving on your local school board - it's a challenging, but rewarding job that is calling out for the best people.

Internet bills publicity ploy

The "crime of the week" is becoming a sad joke in the Michigan Legislature.

Latest entry is a pair of bills to add two years onto the prison sentence of a pedophile who uses the Internet to prey on kids. "Get tough," say the news releases of publicity-hungry lawmakers. One suspects there are more "tough new laws" news releases than there are Bill/Monica jokes floating around the State Capitol lobby.

Let's talk sense. Crime is crime. Assaulting a child sexually is one of the more heinous crimes a human can commit. It deserves and usually gets a prison sentence along with lengthy exposure on the address list of sexual criminals.

But what makes using Internet an extra crime, worth an additional two years in prison? Why is that worth two years more than a male intruding into the bedroom of his ladyfriend's daughter?

What makes using the Internet worth two years more than going into a park and dragging a kid into the bushes? What makes using the Internet worth two years more than picking up and abusing a young hitchhiker?

What makes using the Internet worse than using a standard telephone or writing a letter?

The Michigan Senate rushed to the job for publicity purposes. The phenomenon of attacking children sexually has been around for thousands of years. The Internet is just a few years old. It's a hotter topic at suburban cocktail parties than the U.S. Postal Service, the telegraph or two tin cans and a string.

"If you are a sexual predator using the Internet, we are going to find you, we are going to get you, and we are going to put you in jail," said Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Brighton, sponsor of SB 7 defining the crime. Why not just nail all predators regardless of how they approach a kid?

■ The Michigan Senate rushed to the job for publicity purposes. The phenomenon of attacking children sexually has been around for thousands of years. The Internet is just a few years old. It's a hotter topic at suburban cocktail parties than the U.S. Postal Service, the telegraph or two tin cans and a string.

Michigan does have a law tacking two years onto a criminal's sentence if he uses a gun in committing a crime. That makes sense. Guns are more effective tools of death than fists, brass knuckles and even knives.

But the Internet? If Senate Bills 7 and 217 become law, they will just take up space in the statute books.

It was ironic that the Senate acted within a week after some of its members bawled out Budget Director Mary Lannoye for giving the Department of Corrections (prisons) an 8.6 percent increase while higher education was getting half that percentage. Senators wanted to know why. The answer is that every new crime is greeted with the bleating legislative response of "tough new laws" and "tougher penalties."

Here's a question for Sens. Rogers and his pal, George Z. Hart, D-Deerborn, sponsor of SB 217: What are you doing to make sure we catch those predators? Are more law enforcement people being hired to police the Internet? Are more prosecutors being added to assemble the burden of proof in an Internet case?

Or are you just hiring more publicists to prepare more news releases about redundant punishments?

Society goes too far

I was appalled to read the story on your front page about the rabbit and the humane society. My sympathy goes out to Kari Meriedeth for the treatment she received.

Last November, I went to the humane society to look for a new dog. I found one that would have been perfect, but they sold him to someone else because they felt the dog shouldn't go to a home with a man in it.

Like Meriedeth, I ended up leaving there in tears because of the insensitive treatment I was subjected to. Several days later, I saw a man bringing in a dog. I asked him about her and if he would give her to me instead of them and he did. We exchanged phone numbers and I took the dog to my veterinarian the next morning. Because of her age and temperament, the humane society admits they would have euthanized her. They believe that death is kinder than a home not up to their standards.

I believe the humane society does good work in rescuing strays and investigating cruelty, but it goes too far when they become so paranoid as to treat each person as if they weren't good enough or smart enough to provide a decent home for a pet.

The humane society tells us on a regular basis how many thousands of unwanted animals it kills every year. What they aren't telling is how many would have gone to homes but the person adopting didn't pass their ridiculous standards. They believe death is a kindness provided by them, but I say when they refuse to place a dog or cat for this reason or that, then killing the animal makes them just as cruel as the people who abuse. They don't care if that rabbit gets a good home, they only wanted the money. If no one takes that rabbit, they will put it down. I wonder what the rabbit would say to that?

No deep pockets here

Some administrators and their lackeys at City Hall are suffering from the green virus. It attacks the psyche and afflicts one with envy. The only cure is to "keep up with the Joneses," in this case, all the surrounding cities that have larger or newer civic buildings than Westland. What Canton has, Westland must have. Same with Livonia. Westland, however, does not have the demographics of either of these cities. Westland is a chapel city with an administration and some citizens who have cathedral aspirations.

On a second issue, the city certainly pushes the envelope to get every penny it can in the name of user fees. That way, it can skirt the Headlee Amendment which requires a vote of the people to raise taxes. The user fee provision denies political entities the right to profit on user fees, however. What the traffic will bear is deficient. Once the fees escalate above actual costs, then the law is broken. One assumes then that Chief Mark Neal has the documentation to prove that every penny of user fees is genuinely needed to defray real costs of services from the fire department. An audit can analyze that and determine if there is any fraud against the taxpayers. The whole world is watching these days since the taxpayers have been taken for fools too many times by politicians.

Don't drive drunk

St. Patrick's Day gives everyone a chance to kiss the Blarney Stone and celebrate our country's rich Irish heritage. As many of us here in Michigan raise a toast to St. Patrick on March 17, we should also take a moment to honor the contributions of those who volunteer to be designated drivers.

Why? Because designated drivers help in doing what even the luck of the Irish cannot: stop drunken driving. In fact, designated drivers have contributed to a 36 percent decline in drunken driving deaths nationwide since 1982.

This St. Patrick's Day, Central Distributors of Beer Inc. will be working to continue that positive trend by reminding customers to use a designated driver and drink responsibly.

Nonalcohol beverages will be available as an alternative for those who are driving as part of the "O'Doul's Designated Driver" program.

As the Irish and would-be Irish honor St. Patrick with a toast, let's all remember to look out for each other. Please do not drive drunk.

POINTS OF VIEW

These 'Outstanding Youth' set the stage for success

Parents these days seem a bit child-obsessed, and I plead guilty. You've seen the bumper stickers, "I used to have a life. Now my kid plays soccer." They have them for hockey, gymnastics, volleyball, swimming, etc. I think most of us figure we're giving our kids the best chance for success and happiness as adults. Now, our obsession may spoil them, who knows. We're willing to take that chance, and try to balance it with parenting skills. When it comes to academics, though, those of us raising children in the Livonia Public Schools' system believe we're getting them off on the right foot. Housing is cheaper in other towns, but one reason we chose to live here is the fine reputation of the schools. OK, so we think we're doing one thing right; what next? Keep your kids focused on school work and grades; get them involved in extracurriculars and try to instill the confidence and leadership skills to help them succeed. That was the advice I took away from a Livonia PTA Founders Day event a couple weeks ago. It was my first Founders Day event and not the way I would normally spend a Wednesday evening. But this impressive list of 15 outstanding high school seniors chosen for the honors made it worthwhile. They all carried a 3.5 or higher grade point average through their junior year. However, they were selected for more than grades. For one thing, they seemed to be involved in everything. The list of their activities ran the gamut of National Honor Society and SADD to catechism teachers and Special

DAVE VARGA
Olympics volunteers. Some were DARE role models, many were involved in student government, one even invented a popular Web site. All of them had numerous activities listed. Secondly, it seemed most of these kids were in leadership positions in their groups or activities. They were the presidents, coordinators, team captains, chairpersons. They sounded like the type of kids most likely to end up with the "most likely to succeed" label in the yearbook. As leaders, many of them seemed to exude a self-confidence and graciousness you don't always see in teenagers. After each student was introduced, he or she got the chance to thank their parents and three of their teachers who "exerted a positive influence" on them, a great touch to connect the parents, teachers and students. Some students truly captured their captive audience. Garrett Wheat honored teacher Pat Kurtz, "who was never lax in her expectations for her favorite student." David Bosman cited teacher Eilene Brandies as someone who "turned me on to government and showed me that Language Arts isn't that difficult." And Kristen Derwich remembered her second-grade teacher John Colby: "He really made me want to learn. First grade was fun, but he made me learn." Many of these youngsters had their futures mapped out, others weren't certain. But it wasn't their futures that were being celebrated. It was the stories and accomplishments of these "outstanding youth" that provided enough positive examples to give those of us whose youngsters aren't yet in high school some good ideas for helping our own children succeed. A place on that stage is something that would make all of us obsessed parents proud. *Dave Varga is community editor of the Livonia Observer and an assistant managing editor at the Observer Newspapers. Peters' vote on takeover reveals his ability to speak GOP

Gary Peters was in top form, and I was sure he would have "the other side of the aisle" squirming before the day was over. Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, is a second-term state senator. Early in his tenure, his party recognized him as easily the best Democratic debater, almost in a class with the GOP's Dr. Joe Schwarz, better than the late Basil Brown. It was March 2. The topic was the change of governance for Detroit public schools - "takeover," if you prefer. Republicans want to eliminate the elected school board and empower Mayor Dennis Archer to appoint a "reform" board. Peters thinks it will backfire. Now what makes lawyer Peters, 40, so much fun is that he speaks Republican. He went to a private college (Alma); he was a vice president for investments and former branch manager of PaineWebber, the brokerage firm; he taught strategic management and business policy at Oakland University; he taught finance and business economics at Wayne State - superb Republican credentials. No sociology claptrap for Peters. Republicans like to say that "ours is a government of laws, not of men," and Peters used the argument beautifully: "We need to have some sort of objective standards by which we assess school performances, and if schools are not meeting that objective performance, then a takeover would be implemented. But it would be an objective standard that would apply to every single school district ... We are singling out a district (Detroit) without any objective criteria." Republicans should have listened. After all, everyone admitted Detroit doesn't have the worst test scores and graduation rate in the state. Republicans are big on local control and participative management - the kind they do at Saturn, Ford and Deloitte-Touche. None of this "System 1 Punitive Dictator" stuff for modern corporations, no sirree. Peters adapted the GOP principle well: "Absent criteria, I believe that we need to place the issue on the

TIM RICHARD
■ Republicans should have listened. After all, everyone admitted Detroit doesn't have the worst test scores and graduation rate in the state. (Detroit) ballot (in 60-90 days)... It gives political legitimacy to any reform, and more importantly it does not trample on sacred voting rights." Letting folks vote on a mayoral takeover, Peters went on, "would involve everybody. Parents would be involved, all residents, business people, all segments of the city of Detroit." Having inserted the GOP's own oratorical knife into its ribs, Peters then proceeded to twist it: "I've heard rhetoric from the other side of the aisle saying we need to have more parental involvement ... You're eliminating the ability for that parent to be involved in the school system ... You're taking away a fundamental right of people to be actively involved in the administration, the direction and the objectives of their school district." He should have reminded the Senate that only last fall candidate Engler was talking about empowering parents to take over schools in Detroit. Richard Nixon used to say that government shouldn't over-promise because the supposed beneficiaries of a program will feel cheated. Peters said kids in classes won't be helped by a governance change at the board level. "Their schools should have access to state-of-the-art technology. They should be educated in small classrooms, particularly in the early grades. Teachers should have proper training and professional development because ... Ultimately, it's the teacher in the classroom ... that can have some of the greatest impact on the development of that child." "Without a vote of the people, I must vote 'no' on this bill," Peters said, and he did. The vote was 30-7 in favor of a very unRepublican bill. Peters later told me his father taught 30 years in Detroit public schools and never saw a board member. "Just be sure you write that I have passionate Democratic principles," he said. Some Democrats are thinking of running Gary Peters for much higher office. From their point of view, they are nuts if they don't. Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events. His voice mail numbers is (734) 953-2047, Ext. 1881.

Term limits no real solution

Remember the old line about how risky it is to want something too much? You might actually get it. Lots of politicians jumped on the term limit bandwagon in the early 1990s. Some got elected to office promising to abide by strict limits on their time in office. "If we break this contract, throw us out," declared U.S. Rep. George Nethercutt of Washington state, a leading term limit proponent. Now that time is up, and it's fascinating if slightly disillusioning to watch once high-minded candidates come wriggling against the reality of wanting to stay in office. Words such as "disingenuous" and "hypocritical" come quickly to mind. According to a Detroit Free Press survey, all six Republicans in the Michigan congressional delegation pledged support for term limits when they signed the Contract with America and voted for one or more term-limit bills in 1995 and 1997. However, only three of the six are actually limiting their terms. To their credit, Reps. Joe Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Hills, Peter Hoekstra, R-Holland, and Nick Smith, R-Addison, intend to leave Congress after serving for the prescribed six terms (12 years). Reps. Dave Camp, R-Midland, Vernon Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, and Fred Upton, R-St. Joseph, are among the wrigglers. Of course, they support term limits, but not self-imposed ones. Camp, for example, told the Free Press that until term limits become the law of the land he will not impose on his political ambition term limits that do not also bind his 434 colleagues such as John Dingell, D-Trenton, and Sandy Levin, D-Southfield. How convenient I understand. Or, maybe, I don't. But I do recognize ambition wriggling on a phrase book when I see it. In Michigan, it's much the same story, although in an earlier phase. The state House, which got 64 new members this year because of term limits, is still holding training sessions for inexperienced lawmakers on crafting and passing bills and understanding state budgets. The term limit tidal wave will hit the Senate in four years time, when we can confidently expect the departure of the few remaining experienced and knowledgeable legislators. Not surprisingly, some people are beginning to have second thoughts about term limits. They include Sen. Glen Steil, R-Grand Rapids, a second-term member who in 1992 was co-chair of the petition drive to put term limits in the

PHILIP POWER
Michigan Constitution. Steil is preparing another constitutional amendment to modify legislative term limits to "12 years for everybody," i.e., six two-year terms for representatives and three four-year terms for senators. "The compelling reason is that six years (in the House) do not give a person enough experience ... to make an impact." Steil may be right. But years of watching politicians wriggle has made me skeptical. Look at it this way. Everybody knows the Republicans won control of the state House last year by winning seats previously held by Democrats who were term limited out of office. And now that they've got control, what's to prevent the GOP from the convenient idea that now term limits should be increased? I put this hypothesis to Bill Ballenger, publisher of "Inside Michigan Politics," and one of the most knowledgeable guys around. "Your premise might be accurate in theory, but I doubt anybody has thought it through as clearly - or as cynically - as you have," said Ballenger. "Most of the Republican leadership is for term limits; Betsy DeVos (State GOP chair) puts out endless press releases on the subject. And those that are against it are being brow beaten into silence. Senator Steil's out in front, and we'll just have to see what happens." I asked Ballenger about the odds for success of legislating the wriggle away. "Not good," he responded. "High interest in extending term limits extends no farther than two blocks in any direction from the State Capitol." I used to think term limits might be a good idea. I now fervently believe they are a bad idea whose time has come and should now go. *Phil Power is chairman of HomeTown Communications Network Inc., the company that owns this newspaper. Leadership is key to airport success - Katz

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

kabramczyk@pe.homecomm.net

To say that David Katz had a busy year would be an understatement.

Katz

His first year at the helm as director of Detroit Wayne County Metropolitan Airport was filled with land-

A survey found Detroit Metro was the worst in the United States. Security breaches on four occasions caused delays for thousands of travelers. An audit by the county's auditor general found underreported parking revenue and questioned competitive bidding procedures by the airport operator and the airport oversight.

Then there was the Jan. 2 snowstorm, hindering air travel and stranding thousands of travelers on taxiways and runways. Some travelers were left sitting in planes for eight hours that day.

Ask him about the airport's problems and Katz doesn't mention the airport's expansion as a "cure-all." Instead he points to a list propped on display in his office for everyone to see.

No. 1 on the list: Leadership. "I have a team of people who are a very good group of folks, who are dedicated to improving morale, production and performance," Katz said. He expects department leaders will receive more training, while employees will receive awards and recognition.

Katz also has submitted an airport reorganization plan that has received approval from County Executive Edward McNamara that calls for more oversight on parking and food concessions. It has not been approved yet by the county commission. Some of the airport's physical improvements will focus on customer service, particularly in security. Security checkpoints will be revamped this year in the Smith Terminal to eliminate the "tremendous bottlenecks," Katz said.

"We're looking at the expansion of (concourses) A and B to combine that into one checkpoint," Katz said.

Security will have four sets of screening equipment instead of two.

"It would clear up that whole area and make it more user-friendly," Katz said. While the improvements help prevent security breaches, Katz acknowledges that the human element and margin for error is still there. A problem in one of the breaches in January occurred when a guard failed to stop a man for a search.

"We haven't been able to figure out a system where human beings aren't involved," Katz said.

With the additional surveillance equipment, police officers and concourse revisions will be able to shut the complex down in segments instead of the whole concourse. That means passengers in the middle of a security breach may be held over for one hour instead of five, with 1,000 passengers cleared from a concourse instead of 5,000.

Northwest — which is responsible for hiring security employees — is taking the security issue very seriously, Katz said.

"It's a tough job, it's tedious, it's boring. You have to keep people fresh and on their toes. It's a challenging job."

Katz said the airport is finishing rest room renovations. Twenty-four have been remodeled and another 24 are slated for improvement this year.

Katz hopes to add nine customer service agents to the staff of 21.

With the snow removal problems of the Jan. 2 snowstorm in which thousands of travelers were left waiting on taxiways and then waited days for their baggage, Katz found out just how dedicated airport employees were. Some went to the store for food and medicine for stranded travelers.

"For me it was a new experience. People here put the customers first. People on the snowplows were tremendously dedicated, getting this place cleared out in half a day."

"You can look at how we compared to other airports in that storm."

Chicago's O'Hare Airport also had several flight cancellations due to the storm.

Since the storm, Northwest has reassessed what they should do during the storm. No changes were recommended or made in the airport's snow removal plan after county officials met with the airlines. Katz said Northwest leaving the people on the plane was a "critical mistake."

As for Northwest, "I don't think they'll allow people to sit out there again."

But Katz knows both Northwest and Detroit Metro officials need to work on public relations, especially in the midst of Northwest acting as the construction manager for the midfield terminal.

"We have a tremendous challenge ahead to earn back whatever trust we lost. The proof will be in the pudding."

injured or killed in traffic crashes.

Eyesight dims and reflex time slows down with age, but not for everybody and not at the same rate, the study concludes.

Can roads be improved and redesigned? Yes, say Bruff and Evans. Some suggestions:

- Traffic signs have letters one-inch high for every 50 feet of distance, and engineers have assumed a "visual acuity" of 20/25. But one study has shown 40 percent of drivers aged 65-74 have vision less than 20/40. Letters should be larger and at a standard of one inch for 40 feet of distance.

• Pavement markings should be wider — six to eight inches on two-lane rural highways instead of four inches. "Wider edge lines make it easier for drivers to control the vehicle under the glare of oncoming headlights."

• Separate left-turn lanes and protected left-turn phases at traffic lights would reduce the number of left-turn crashes.

• More research is needed to set standards, but it's apparent the elderly need more "perception-reaction time" to stop at signs.

SEMCOG's study noted that the American Automobile Association, The American Association of Retired Persons and the National Safety Council have undertaken educational programs aimed at the elderly.

"This approach is quite beneficial to the large number of elderly who are unaware of recent changes in traffic rules or have only a vague recollection of certain aspects of the principles of driving learned when they were much younger," the authors say.

The SEMCOG study urges greater use of car pooling and use of school buses to transport the elderly when kids are in school.

Finding place in life for why

Friedrich Nietzsche, a 19th century philosopher, said, "He who has a 'why' can bear almost any 'how.'"

Research has shown that only 6 percent of the population has a purpose in life ... translating to 94 percent of the people without any "why" to their life.

Do each of us know why we have been put on this earth?

Back when life was more difficult and people were less into self-actualization (Maslow's hierarchy of needs), there was little conscious thought about "why I am here" and more burden on just surviving (food, shelter, clothing).

And yet, significant accomplishments and discoveries came about when people like Copernicus, Benjamin Franklin or Mozart found their purpose and persevered. Sometimes, they serendipitously discovered something great on their way to something else.

Why have a purpose? Does it serve any "purpose"?

People who have a purpose in life say that there are many feelings that come with having a purpose. They report feeling peaceful, on top of the world, content, passionate, alive, complete, balanced, centered, blessed, fulfilled, more grateful, joyful and as if they are making a difference.

Your mission is filled with doing words. It could be to experience, build, love, accept, encourage, commit, live with integrity, live healthily, create, serve, inspire, strengthen or ... you fill in the verb.

Simple statement

Walt Disney created a simple statement that has served as his company's mission to this day: To provide excellent entertainment for all ages, everywhere. The mission of the Disney Corp. is in alignment with what they do. From movies to theme parks, they want you to be entertained in a first-class fashion.

When we write a statement of purpose for ourselves we can think of that purpose as the hub of a wheel for everything we do. If the wheel is the hub of our "being," then the spokes are the doings.

Sam ambled through his life aimlessly without any sense of purpose. If something came up, and it felt good, he usually did it (the spokes of the wheel). Sometimes, he did things impulsively and ended up in minor scrapes with the law and having problems in his marriage.

Finally, one day, he stopped and thought about his life. He asked himself what he valued. He thought about who he treasured. He challenged himself to think about what was really important to him. He wondered what in his life he was doing that was worthwhile.

In his self-reflection, he wrote down that he wanted his purpose in life to be two things. He wanted to have a feeling of peace and a feeling of usefulness in everything he did.

The hard part

Then he tackled the hard part. He wrote down all the things he had done that had been neither useful nor brought him peacefulness. The list made him a little sick. I haven't been there for my children; I haven't sacrificed or given of myself.

It was then that he was able to come up with a mission for himself. And it was this: My life's mission is to love and encourage which will bring me a sense of peace and a feeling of usefulness.

Today, he does only things that are in alignment with his mission and his purpose.

Who benefits from your having a purpose? Your spouse, your relatives, your children, colleagues, supervisors, acquaintances, outsiders and, of course, you. Having a purpose in life is one of the best legacies you can pass down to your children. It will not only spill over into their lives, but it will model for them how meaningful their lives can be, too.

Group effort: Mother Nature forced members of the Shannon Club - Jan Pimlott (from left), Pat Burklow, John Burklow, Erin Burklow and Jeff Sergison - inside on Saturday, where they focused on preparing to paint the 6-foot-tall leprechaun that will grace the club's float for Sunday's Sat. Patrick's Parade.

Luck of Irish

Club hopes for parade honors

BY M.B. DILLON
SPECIAL WRITER

Behind every St. Patrick's Parade float - at least those built by the Shannon Club - is a good woman. That's not to minimize the excellence in design, carpentry, engineering, painting and inspiration contributed by the club's many maales, ages 2 months to 72 years.

"It started with his mother," said Livonia's Grace Carey, speaking of her husband Tom's mother, the late Agnes Walsh Carey of County Sligo, Ireland. "She wanted to be in the parade."

"We all belonged to different Irish societies. We were always in the parade, and she decided she wanted to go," said Tom.

For 40 years, Detroit's Irish have honored their patron saint with a St. Patrick's Parade. This year's event, whose theme is "Unity: An Irish Dream," steps off at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 14, from Michigan Avenue and Third Street in downtown Detroit. It will end at the reviewing stand near Rosa Parks Boulevard.

"My grandmother had six boys and three girls; when she wanted something, they jumped. She was like the Queen Mother," said Patty Ann Burklow, Tom and Grace's daughter and current president of the Shannon Club.

And so it was that in the early 1960s, the Carey offspring formed the Shannon Club, named after their mother's Shannon Inn family restaurant in Ferndale, which she had named after the River Shannon in Ireland.

"It was mostly family at the beginning," Grace said. "Eventually, different people came in. It was fun."

"People brought their kids, their friends and anyone who wanted to get into the parade who didn't have an in," said Tom. "I brought friends from St. Damian's (Catholic Church in Westland), and they were in the parade. We had a float and a car for my mother to drive in. We won best float a couple years in a row."

For several years, members of the group marched behind the float they built. It was adorned with a "Shannon Club" silk banner, compliments of Grace.

"She sewed the letters on one by one; a box of band-aids was her reward," said Burklow, who remembers getting dressed up to march in the parade with her siblings and many cousins as a child.

Touch of nostalgia

At one parade before her death in 1987, Agnes rode in a limousine hired by her family as a surprise. As years went by, Shannon Club members resumed marching with other groups, or simply joined the spectators lining Michigan Avenue. That was fun, but once she had children of her own, Burklow grew nostalgic for the parade days of her childhood.

"Our daughter wanted her kids and nieces and nephews to be in the parade like she was, so she decided to revive it," said Grace, also known as Gramma Grace. "Everyone thought it was a good idea."

"I didn't think there would be that many people interested. It turned out it was more than I ever thought," said Tom, also known as Pop.

"We decided we needed a place for the kids to have their own day out with the Irish," said Burklow, a Livonia resident. "We had our first meeting in December 1993 and it kind of snowballed from there."

Modern-day Shannon Club floats are large enough for 40 children to ride. They've won two trophies for first-place and one for second-place. This year's float, decorated with the motto, "Peace: An Irish Dream," on a green, orange and white background, will feature a 6-foot tall green leprechaun (sketched freehand by member Kip Kauffman), a rainbow and pot of gold.

Burklow's cousin Margo Carey, who is half Mexican and half Irish, was all for reviving the Shannon Club.

"Since we were kids, we've always celebrated El Cinco de Mayo and St. Patrick's Day; it's like Christmas to us," Margo said. "We figured we had to do something. We were raised in a close-knit family. We really knew our cousins. We have such a sense of community and a wonderful sense of heritage."

Over the years, Burklow has added activities, including Mass and a pancake breakfast before the parade and an after-the-parade party at Holy Redeemer Church and hall in southwest Detroit. This year's post-parade party will be at the VFW Hall on Schoolcraft east of Inkster in Redford.

In Ireland, St. Pat's Day is holy day

BY M.B. DILLON
SPECIAL WRITER

For Irishman John Hynes, owner of the Innisfree Irish Pub and Grill in Garden City, St. Patrick's Day summons a rush of feelings and memories and a sense of history.

Hynes spent his youth 30 miles northwest of Dublin in Athboy, a town of 500 in County Meath. Nearby was a landmark called the Hill of Slane.

"This is where St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, lit the paschal fire and spread the gospel in the fifth century," said Hynes, who came to the U.S. in 1964. "There was no other way of communicating, so St. Patrick and his disciples cut down lumber all around the countryside, lit a fire and kept it burning for weeks and weeks. People seeing it were drawn to it. It was from the Hill of Slane that St. Patrick taught the gospel and brought Christianity to Ireland."

Traditionally, St. Patrick's Day is a church holiday in Ireland.

"There was no celebration in Ireland," said Hynes. "You had to go to Mass. The typical thing in my time - I'm talking about the middle and late 1950s - was to go to Mass on St. Patrick's Day morning. Sometimes, we had a brass band and a parade up and down the street. There was no dancing during Lent. But on St. Patrick's night, it was OK to dance. The Church relented, and everyone looked forward to that eagerly."

Church is Hynes' first destination on St. Patrick's Day, but since he opened his pub, it's kind of difficult to get down to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and Corktown, "but I'll try to go some place locally."

For the Irish, St. Patrick's Day is a day of pride, Hynes said.

"Deep down in all of us, we remember the past, right down to your father, mother, grandfather and everything else," he said. "They did the same as we are doing. The feeling is something that doesn't leave. Hopefully, I'm passing that on to my kids, and they're not going to let it die."

Authentic Irish entertainment is on tap at Innisfree on Middlebelt Road south of Ford Road. The Men from Mullingar, an Irish band, will be there next week, playing everything from ballads, folk, ceili and pop to traditional Irish music. The band kicks off the high holy days on Friday, March 12.

The award-winning O'Hare step-dancers will perform at 6 p.m. St. Patrick's Day at Innisfree. Hynes will donate a portion of the proceeds to the young dancers, who are traveling to Ireland to compete in the world championships.

"Whenever he returns to Ireland, Hynes makes a pilgrimage to the Hill of Slane and the Hill of Tara five miles away, seat of the ancient high kings. He does it to maintain a link with the past.

"To me, it's a connection to where it all started," he said. "There's nothing that even comes close to St. Patrick's Day. Maybe Mardi Gras, but in terms of one day, I don't think there's anything to compare."

You can raise kind and courteous children

PARENTING AWARENESS MONTH

nized you earlier. You have that same kind and courteous attitude."

Could that clerk be your child? The challenge of raising kind and courteous kids is a demanding task, but with consistency and love you can "make it happen."

You're in a department store frantically looking for a last-minute gift. The store clerk greets you with a smile. "Good afternoon, how may I help you?"

You give the clerk your particulars and proceed to browse around. The clerk returns with three different gift ideas. You smile as you notice the name badge.

"Hey, I know your parents. I should have recognized you earlier. You have that same kind and courteous attitude."

First, be a role model. What you do and how you act is noticed by children. Your child is watching your interactions with others. Even when you think they're not paying attention, they are. Children in other rooms of the house notice the tone and pitch of your voice.

The old cliché, "Do as I say and not as I do," will not work here, so take advantage of teachable moments. Easy starters are "Hello" and "Goodbye." Even very young children can learn to say hello and goodbye, when entering and exiting a room.

Children learn at an early age the impressionable lesson of kindness by how you treat them. Your child is watching. Remember to do the right thing!

Next, be consistent with your actions and words. Demonstrate integrity, mean what you say, and model trust. Compliment your friends, family and spouse in front of your child. Make sure that it is genuine.

Tell your child that kind and courteous behavior helps you feel good about yourself. Every moment of every day is the living laboratory of how your child will form his or her character.

Consistent example

Kindness is taught by consistent example. Every human interaction has the potential to shape a child's behavior. Use opportunities at the mall, the restaurant and the car wash to point out kind and courteous behavior.

Take time to discuss why certain actions were important. Kind and courteous behavior can be found in simple gestures and casual remarks, like taking time to visit a sick relative or friend, holding the door open for another person and complimenting a person for job well-done.

Give positive reinforcement when your child does something right. For example, "Thank you for your helping me carry the bags. With your help, it didn't take long." Be consistent with your reinforcement, but don't necessarily respond the same way every time. Remember to reinforce kind and helpful behavior.

X-rays answer questions about ancient Egypt's pharaohs

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER
smason@oc.homecomm.net

When it comes to royal teeth, Brian Ingalls has seen his fair share. Granted they were in the form of X-ray and they belonged to some rather well-preserved people.

Let see ... Is that the well-worn set of choppers of Ramses II or III? Or maybe they belong to Sety I, Ramses II's father, or the most famous pharaoh - mostly for the contents of his tomb - Tutankhamen.

"Ramses had massive periodontal disease; his lower jaw was rotted away," Ingalls told his audience at a recent Livonia Town Hall. "Egyptians had so much sand in their diet back then that they wore their teeth down to the pulp chamber and would get abscesses."

The Northville orthodontist provided his audience with a "harlequin view of Egypt." His interest in mummies started while he was at the University of Michigan School of Dentistry. As a research assistant, he worked on the computerized digitization of cephalometric (head) X-rays of royal mummies.

Granted a leave to be part of a university research team sent to Egypt, he designed and fabricated a laser alignment system for the portable cephalometric equipment that was being used. None of the mummies had ever been radiographed until Ingalls' mentor, Dr. James Harris, did so at the Royal Museum of Cairo in 1967.

Pyramids are a focal point of the country and Ingalls compares their construction to a Depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps project.

"One hundred thousand able-bodied men didn't have anything to do when the Nile flooded each year, so they put them to work on the pyramids," he said. "There are 70 pyramids in the country and every one of them has been robbed. They were never protected by the government."

That may explain why you can still buy mummified body parts to grind up for medicinal purposes or why a French tourist was caught trying to leave the coun-

Livonia Town Hall will close out its season on Wednesday, March 17, when retired reporter and editor Joe Stroud will be the guest speaker. The lecture will be at 10:30 a.m., followed by the luncheon at noon, at St. Mary's Cultural Center, 18100 Merriman Road, Livonia.

Lecture tickets cost $15 each and can be purchased at the door. Luncheon tickets cost $12 each and are available in advance only. (Patrons must have a lecture ticket to attend the luncheon.) For more information, call (734) 420-0383 or (734) 421-4526.

try with the head of an unknown mummy in a shopping bag, he added.

Another feature of the country is the temples the pharaohs built, especially in the city of Thebes.

Ramses II, the longest ruling pharaoh, built the Abu Simbel Temple so that the sun would shine directly on its Holiest of Holies chamber twice a year - on his birthday and the date of his coronation. With the construction of the Aswan Dam, the temple was moved and reorientated the temple at a higher elevation. As a result, the sunlight shines on the chamber a day later.

"I asked James (Harris) what he thought Ramses would think about all the effort to move the temple and he said, 'He would expect it,'" said Ingalls.

Ramses also erected the Ramesseum, his funerary temple, at Thebes. The temple was where his body was mummified. The origin of mummification is unknown, but the process for kings and queens was 70 days and 20 days for all others.

According to Ingalls, at the height of mummification, the bodies had a doll-like appearance. Sety I is the most beautifully preserved mummy, he said.

At the time of the pharaohs, "everything for the living was on the east bank of the Nile and everything for the dead was on the west bank," so the Valley of the Kings is on the west bank.

Among those buried there was Tutankhamen whose tomb was discovered intact in 1922. The youngest pharaoh to rule Egypt, he was 9 years old when he took the throne. The belief was that he died at age 25-26, but X-rays determined that the boy king died at age 18.

X-rays also showed that that Ramses V had small raised areas on his chest, which, when a small sample was examined under a microscope, turned out to be small pox, probably the cause of death.

Another examination also dispelled the theory that the high priestess who died in childbirth was buried with her baby. When X-rayed, smaller mummy was found to be the remains of a baboon. Descendants of the same families who worked in the Valley of the Kings and buried the pharaohs, still live there and have knowledge of the burial sites.

One man told investigators about three mummies that had been buried behind a false wall in a tomb. The remains of two females and male were found in the chamber, and X-rays showed one female with an arm across her chest, an indication that she was a "high, high person."

There also was a strong resemblance to the Tutankhamen family line and after many years of red tape, researchers were given hair samples to do a neutron activation analysis. The results were compared to a locket of hair found in a tiny sarcophagus in Tut's tomb.

"When we finally permitted to check the hair samples, we found the remains were of Queen Kiya," Ingalls said. "It was a locket of hair from the queen for her grandson."

Share dignity and respect with your children. Develop a positive, open environment for discussions. Eye contact with your children will help them develop eye contact with others. This can even be done with toddlers. Have your child look at you when you are talking and vice versa.

Try not to interrupt your child until you believe he or she has completed their thoughts. Share with your child how it makes you feel when they interrupt your conversation. If your child should need to interrupt a conversation, teach them appropriate language like, "Excuse me please, but I need to use the bathroom."

Use phrases that are comfortable for both you and your child. Have a contest to see who comes up with the most ways to say, "excuse me."

Teachable moments

Watching television together provides opportunities for teachable moments. Ask questions like:

- How would you feel if you were that child?
- What just happened?
- How could you help?

Be sure in your conversation to share how you would react in certain situations. Point out how they feel when someone treats them kindly.

Here are a couple of at-home activities to do with your children:

- Buy an assortment of colored adhesive dots. Give each family member a different color. Using the calendar have each member place a dot on the date whenever they see a family member show kind and courteous behavior.

Acts of kindness can be shared at dinnertime, once a week, or once a month.

After a birthday party or gift exchange sit down with your child and MAKE thank you cards. Have your child write (depending on age) something special for each gift.

Have your family draw the names of family members from a hat. At least once a day, you must do a kind and/or courteous act for that person without revealing who you selected.

Post kindness materials in your home or at your child's school. "Kindness is contagious... CATCH IT!" is a project of Starfish Family Services, funded by Hudson's Circle of Giving. Materials include a Kindness Pledge Card, a kindness calendar, a flier on 10 ways to help spread kindness, a teacher's curriculum and a colorful poster.

During the month of March, parents are encouraged to talk with their children about kindness and, most importantly, practice kindness at home.

For more information on "Kindness is contagious... CATCH IT!" call (734) 727-3139.

Virginia Burns is director of the Head Start program at Starfish Family Services in Inkster.

pipers and others in providing first-rate entertainment.

Burklow's mailing list has grown to more than 80 families. While the majority of members live in Wayne County, newsletters are sent as far away as Nashville, Tenn., home of Carlos Carey. You need not be Irish to belong.

"We have lots of Irish blood in the club," said Margo, "but we also have Mexican, Polish and Hungarian."

And English. Burklow's husband Dennis, a police officer in court services for the city of Livonia, has enjoyed the Shannon Club, even if he isn't Irish.

"It's fun, because we get all of Patty Ann's family and friends together for something other than a wedding or funeral," he said.

The Burklovs' children - Ryan, 9, Erin, 8, and John, 2 - all help out painting the float.

"I like riding on the float. It's fun," said Ryan.

"I've been a member since I was 3 years old," said Erin. "We get to make the float and we get to dance at the party. We get to see our cousins and friends, and that's probably it."

Jan Pimlott of Livonia helps out every year. She was one of the few who made it through the snowstorm to Saturday's float-painting session at the Burklow house.

"I enjoy being with all these people. It's a good family group, and it's a chance for the kids to learn about their heritage," Pimlott said.

Everyone seems to have a good time, said Margo. "We are just as happy as the kids; it brings out the kid in us."

"And the older generation is so proud to see their kids and grandchildren marching in the parade, taking a sense of pride in keeping up the tradition they started."

Nouveau Design stresses teamwork in its creations

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER
cfuoco@oe.homecomm.net

Teamwork is the key to any successful business. Working together for an area design and display company, Raelon Routzahn and Michael Onyskin couldn't deny their camaraderie.

After frequently being told that they should start their own business, the duo did just that. Routzahn, Onyskin and senior design assistant Wendy Atkinson opened Nouveau Design Studio LLC in Canton Township on Dec. 15.

"Everybody was telling us we were crazy not to do it ourselves," said Routzahn, a Livonia resident. "We just felt that we were a really good team and we complemented each other. We felt that we could be very successful in the field together."

Nouveau Design Studio creates custom design exhibits, visual merchandising, store fronts, special event theme decorating, corporate holiday decor and custom-made props.

"We had a lot of people backing us up prior to us coming out," Onyskin added.

That includes Taubman Properties, with which Nouveau Design Studio is getting ready to ink a deal to be its Midwest Regional Visual Merchandisers. For Taubman, Nouveau Design will do all the RMU (retail merchandising units) and all their in-line stores.

"That's a really big thing," she said. "We will design what goes into the kiosks in the malls. What we would do in the in-line store is to do a theme for their store window and the signage."

Staying current

The company's mission is to stay on the cutting edge of the design industry.

"We want to bring our customers the newest, most innovative stuff that's out there. We're going to go to a lot of design shows and things like that," Routzahn said.

Before starting Nouveau Design, Routzahn, an Eastern Michigan University graduate, owned Raelon's Radiant Parties for five years, doing special event decorating for nights like the Montreux Jazz Festival parties and the Grand Prix black tie ball.

Onyskin, a Dearborn resident, graduated more than 10 years ago from Center for Creative Studies with a degree in editorial illustration.

The two met four years ago when Routzahn was hired as an independent contractor for another area design studio and Onyskin served as her art director.

Routzahn and Onyskin's credits with their former company include the installing the Christmas displays at Lakeside, Westland and Macomb malls and Fairlane Town Center. All the pieces came in boxes and "then we take it out and do the layout, and light all the trees," Routzahn explained.

"We have to have a visual in order to figure out how things go. It's almost like interior design work," Onyskin added. "You get a big element and you have to figure out where this element is going to fit on the stage. They don't really give you a floor plan or layout where anything goes. You have to figure on-site how it's going to be put together. It's an incredible job."

Nouveau look: Wendy Atkinson, senior design assistant (from left), Raelon Routzahn, president, and Michael Onyskin, CEO/creative director of Nouveau Design Studio, are proud of the exhibit they put together for "MASK-orAIDE," a traveling show of masks that will be auctioned off Saturday to benefit the Coalition for Temporary Shelter.

The two are using experiences like those as learning experiences for Nouveau Design where Routzahn serves as president and Onyskin is the chief executive officer.

"I have a really good eye for quality or for uniqueness and Michael has the eye for putting it all together," she said.

Everything, including custom props and faux finishes, is created and built on-site at the studio.

"If someone was giving a '50s party and someone wanted a giant jukebox built with lights through it, we could do that," Onyskin said. "Everything that we do is always something different."

Masked marvels

The most recent project was an exhibit of celebrity-designed masks that traveled to Fairlane Town Center, Lakeside Mall and Twelve Oaks Mall. It was promoting the "MASK-orAIDE" fund-raiser for the Coalition on Temporary Shelter (COTS). The masks will be auctioned at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 13, at the International Banquet Center at the Athenaeum Hotel in Detroit's Greektown as part of the benefit.

Soupy Sales, Rosie O'Donnell, Pam Dawber, Vinnie Johnson,

Gov. John Engler, Ted Nugent, Sinbad, Jeff Bridges and several local artists and stars with ties to Detroit created masks for the exhibit. Onyskin made specialty masks for each of the stores.

"We made replicas of the little masks to make the 5 foot tall specialty masks for each mall. They're 5 feet by 4 feet," Routzahn said.

They also designed the cases and the layout for the exhibit, and transported it to each mall.

"We worked with Diana Leone, the marketing director at Lakeside Mall, in designing the cases for the layout of the exhibit. We designed the overhead graphics, the whole exhibit," Routzahn said.

Next up, Nouveau Design Studio will revamp the Easter exhibit at Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn into an English country garden design. It will be on display Saturday, March 20, to Sunday, April 4.

"We want to strive to give really, really good customer service," Routzahn said. "That's going to be our main goal - to be available at all times to provide outstanding customized customer service."

'Masterpiece' Jeff Steinberg to perform

Jeff Steinberg

He's called a "masterpiece in Progress," but he doesn't look like a masterpiece. Jeff Steinberg has no arms and deformed legs, but he has a dynamic singing voice that has been likened to that of pop singer Neil Diamond.

A singer and author and in the 20th year of his ministry, he will appear in concert 11 a.m. Sunday, March 14, at Plymouth Church of the Nazarene, 45810 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth.

Steinberg was born in Philadelphia with multiple birth defects - no arms and two bent, scissored legs - a condition known as Phocomelia, thought to be the result of Thalidomide or similar drug prescribed for his mother during pregnancy.

He spent his early years in a welfare shelter in Philadelphia and then later at Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children. He underwent numerous operations, learned to walk with braces, feed himself with a hook attached to a prosthetic arm.

In all, he only lived at home for nine months and eventually was placed by the court in the Good Shepherd Home for Crippled Children in Allentown, Pa., a home for severely crippled children where he lived for more than 10 years.

Now age 46, he travels around the country, singing and speaking about the masterpiece in each person and encouraging people to see what God can do through them, no matter what their limitations appear to be.

At 4 feet 6 inches tall, Steinberg holds a microphone in the hook at the end of his artificial arm and uses his singing talent, humorous anecdotes and personal story to inspire his audiences. Steinberg logs more than 80,000 miles a year, performing in concert halls, music festivals and other special events around the United States. He also has recorded 10 music albums, including his latest, "Tiny Giant."

For more information about his performance, call the church at (734) 453-1525.

kids know that even difficult situations can turn into hope. The cost is $15 per child or $30 per family.

For information, call the church at (248) 374-5920.

CONQUERING FEAR

What do you do when rainwater is pouring in your basement at 3 a.m. and the water extraction company says you're number 200 on its list?

Thomas Mitchinson of Naperville, Ill., he, his wife and daughter prayed to understand that God is the only power and this power is good. As they did that, the water stopped coming in their home even though it still poured outside.

That experience is one of three Mitchinson will detail when he speaks at 4 p.m. Saturday, March 14, in the auditorium of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Plymouth, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Trail. He has been invited to present his lecture, "Don't Live with Fear - Conquer It" by the church.

Math night: Kids and their parents participated in Math Night at Elliott Elementary School recently. About 100 students and parents participated in about 18 different activities to show that math can be fun. Some of the games included: capacity and volume in which students were asked to arrange five different shaped containers in order from largest to smallest, then they had to pour liquid in to see if they were right; dollar digits, a board game that helped students learn to count using pennies and nickels; and toothpick puzzles, a brain teaser that asked families to make six squares with 17 toothpicks then remove five and leave three squares. "This gives parents a hands-on how to help their children learn math," Johnnye Summerville, Elliott principal, said.

Tom and Barb Yack of Canton announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Anne, to Daniel Edwin Knoll, the son of Edwin and Susan Knoll of Vassar.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and of the University of Michigan-Dearborn. She is employed as an consultant for Triad Performance Technology.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Frankenmuth High School and Michigan Technological University. He is employed as an engineer for the Toyota Technical Center.

A September wedding is planned at St. Michael Lutheran Church in Canton.

McKolay-Snider

Hedy McKolay of Traverse City announces the engagement of her daughter, Sally J., to Michael J. Snider, the son of Robert and Diane Snider of Belleville and Sharon and Robert Rose of Delray Beach, Fla.

The bride-to-be, the daughter of the late Stephen McKolay, is a 1983 graduate of Westland John Glenn High School.

Her fiancé is a 1983 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. He is employed by North Bros. Ford.

at St. Thomas A'Becket Catholic Church in Canton.

WRC joins in 'Clean Your Closet'

It's the time of year to clean our closets, right? Well, there's no better motivation to do so than to help women who are entering, or reentering the workforce - and need a hand up the business ladder. WJBK FOX 2's "Working Women" program has teamed up with Art Van Furniture, Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College and local Dress For Success agencies for Clean Your Closet Week March 14-21.

FOX 2 and Art Van Furniture are working together to collect gently used women's business attire while the WRC and Dress For Success are handling clothing distribution.

Clothing can be dropped off at all Art Van Furniture stores in the Detroit area 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

People are asked to drop off women's business attire in all sizes, including plus sizes, including dresses, suits (including pant suits), professional skirts, dress/tailored slacks, coats, new cosmetics, blouses, jackets/blazers, shoes (that are not badly worn), scarves and unused, unopened packages of pantyhose and knee-high stockings.

Appropriate receipts for tax deductions will be available. Individuals who donate clothing will receive a coupon for special savings on accessories at Art Van Furniture.

Women who are entering the workforce for the first time or reentering the workforce and who need assistance in obtaining the proper attire to do so, can call (248) 552-5188 to make an appointment with an agency.

Art Van Furniture locations where viewers can drop off their donations include stores at 29905 Seven Mile Road, Livonia, and 8300 Wayne Road, Westland.

FOX 2 "Working Women" is a year-long commitment to the pursuit of issues facing metro Detroit area women from all walks of life, who work both inside and outside the home. The reports air at 6 p.m. weekdays and during FOX 2 News Morning.

West Metro CHURCH OF CHRIST

Changing the world one person at a time.

Bruce Marchiano visits Clarenceville UM

The actor known for his recent poignant portrayal of Christ in "The Gospel According to Matthew," Bruce Marchiano will bring his speaking ministry to Clarenceville United Methodist Church in Livonia Saturday and Sunday, March 20-21.

Bruce Marchiano as Jesus

Marchiano will speak to young adults in a relaxed coffeehouse atmosphere at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the church, 20300 Middlebelt, north of Seven Mile. Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling (248) 474-3444.

After appearing at Arise United Methodist Church in Pinckney 10:30 a.m. Sunday, he will return to Clarenceville UM to give his personal testimony at 6 p.m. Sunday for Gathering. A love offering will be accepted.

For more information, call the church at (248) 474-5581.

"The Gospel According to Matthew" is the first multimillion-dollar release produced by Visual Entertainment, a company with plans to reach more than 1 billion people with the entire Bible presented word-for-word on videocassettes by the year 2010.

An actor for 13 years, Marchiano has appeared in seven motion pictures and numerous television shows like "Murder She Wrote," "L.A. Law" and "Columbo." He was the last actor to audition in the worldwide search and was for the role of Jesus in the production.

In his new book, "In the Footsteps of Jesus," he takes readers on an intimate adventure into the life of Christ as he describes the Jesus of joy he discovered while filming "Matthew." The emotionally charged account shares his story of walking in the footsteps of Christ from the passionate Sermon on the Mount to the suffering on the cross.

As a popular Christian speaker, Marchiano has addressed thousands of people all over the world to reveal how his faith went from a simple belief in Christ to a profound awareness of God's powerful reality in his life. He is frequently asked to share his portrayal of the compassionate, loving Savior, and through his speaking ministry, has witnessed thousands of people come to Christ.

Taormina 3rd in triathlon

Livonian Sheila Taormina finished third in the women's elite division Sunday in the South African National Triathlon Championships with a combined time of 2 hours, 16 minutes, 45 seconds.

The event, part of the International Triathlon Union series, was held at Club Mykonis, Langebaan, approximately 120 kilometers from Cape Town.

Lizel Moore of the Republic of South Africa and Sian Brice of Great Britain finished first and second, respectively, in 2:13:05 and 2:14:31.

Taormina, who has been training in Arizona, finished the 1.5K swim in 19:57, best among women. Her 40K bike time was 1:11:54 followed by a clocking of 44:54 in the 10K run.

Taormina, a Stevenson High product, won a gold medal in the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, Ga. as a member of the victorious U.S. women's 800-meter freestyle relay team.

She also swam for the University of Georgia.

The triathlon will become an Olympic sport in 2000.

Madonna signs spikers

The Madonna University volleyball team, 44-7 last year and Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference champions, have added two new recruits for the 1999 season.

Hayley Ann Myers, a 6-foot middle and outside hitter from Milford, and Jen Wing, a 5-8 setter from Rochester Adams, will both join the Lady Crusaders' squad next year.

Myers, a three-year varsity player, was Milford's captain as a senior. She was voted Most Improved as a freshman. Myers also played varsity basketball the past two seasons for the Lady Redskins.

Wing, was named All-Oakland Activities Association, All-Region and All-Eccentric each of the last two years. She was voted third-team All-State by the Michigan High School Volleyball Coaches Association.

Sunday Corktown races

The 1999 St. Patrick's Parade Corktown races will be Sunday with the start at Tiger Stadium.

The 4-mile run starts at 1 p.m. along with the 1 1/2-mile walk. Special trophies will go to the top five male and female finishers. Medals go to the first 150 men and top 100 women finishers.

The quarter-mile run/walk for youngsters 12-and-under starts at 12:30 p.m. Awards ribbons will be given to all participants.

Late registration is from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Tiger Stadium. The entry fee is $15. Each participant will receive a commemorative St. Patrick's Parade Run T-shirt.

John Glenn topples Wayne, reaches district title game

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

They may not be classified as the twin towers, but Westland John Glenn's inside tandem of 6-foot-3 Ben Harris and 6-4 Ty Haygood played tall in the Rockets' 51-47 Class A district semifinal win Wednesday night over rival Wayne Memorial.

Harris scored a game-high 21 points and Haygood added 11. The two also combined for 25 rebounds as Glenn (12-8 overall) will meet Belleville (14-7) in the district championship final, 7 p.m. Friday on the Tigers' home floor.

Back in December, Haygood had 18 points in Glenn's 56-54 victory over the Zebras.

This time Harris got into the act. "The rebounding was the key factor," Glenn coach Mike Schuette said. "We controlled the boards. Ben and Ty did a nice job on the glass. We were able to get some second and third opportunities on the offensive glass."

"When I saw Romulus play Wayne, we knew Romulus had success on the boards. And with Ben and Ty, we wanted to exploit that a little bit."

Glenn's victory appear all but wrapped up with 2:55 remaining after a Harris dunk provided a seven-point cushion, 46-39.

But Wayne's Mike Zielinski nailed two straight three-pointers to pull his team to within one, 46-45.

Glenn junior guard Eric Jones, saddled with four fouls in the second half and 0-for-seven from the floor, stepped up with a key basket and two free throws in the final 1:19 to preserve the Glenn victory.

"We had difficulty stopping their dribble penetration and their rebounding," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry, whose team bowed out at 7-14 overall. "You can't win when you don't do those things."

Wayne, however, had its chances, leading on three different occasions in the third quarter.

The Zebras, however, couldn't hit shots with any consistency, finishing 19 of 53 from the floor (35.8 percent).

"In practice yesterday (Tuesday) we were shooting the eyes out," Henry said. "It was one of our poorer shooting nights this season."

Glenn, a horrendous free throw shooting team this season, held true to form by making only 10 of 22 (45.4 percent).

The Rockets did make 21 of 52 shots from the field (40.3 percent) even on an off-night by Jones.

"When he (Jones) is on the court, teams think he's going to score because he's always an offensive threat and teams have to respect that," Schuette said.

Three seniors — Nathan Wade, Robert Price and Jamar Davis — were the Zebras' top three scorers with 12, 10 and 10, respectively.

"Those three guys may not be the greatest players, but they really played hard basketball," Henry said. "Even though we were 7-14, they were still working hard. They showed a lot of character and it was a positive."

Henry, who enjoyed much success during the Lorenzo Guess era when the Zebras went to two semifinals and one state quarterfinal, characterized 1998-99 as a "frustrating season."

"It just wasn't one thing," he said. "We had more than our fair share of injuries and academic problems."

Meanwhile, Glenn gets a second crack at Belleville, the team that eliminated the Rockets in the first round of last year's district tourney.

"If we're all playing well, and our perimeter people step up defensively, and our big guys control the glass again, that will give us a chance," Schuette said.

Belleville won the second game of Wednesday's double-header with a tougher-than-expected 75-63 win over 9-12 Garden City.

C.J. Grantham and Kevin Harrison scored 22 and 20 points, respectively, for the winners.

Justin Ockerman, a 6-10 sophomore center, led GC with 18. Jerry Cherwalk contributed 17.

"Glenn is so athletic, they have talented players," Tigers' coach Rod Fisher said. "We're going to have to play better than tonight in order to win."

Shamrock icers reach Final 4

Flint isn't a candidate for tourist capital of Michigan, but the Redford Catholic Central hockey team sure makes a habit of visiting there.

CC earned its fourth trip in the last seven years to the site of the Final Four with an 8-2 win over Ann Arbor Pioneer in Wednesday's Class A quarterfinal at Ann Arbor's Ice Cube.

No. 1 ranked CC, 26-1-1 overall, will play Marquette in a Class A semifinal at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Flint IMA.

Marquette beat Midland Dow in double overtime, 3-2, in another quarterfinal Wednesday night.

This is the third trip for CC to the Final Four in coach Gordie St. John's six seasons. The Shamrocks won state titles 1994 and '97. CC lost in the 1993 Class A final under former coach Jack Gumbleton.

Jim Spiewak had two goals and an assist and Matt VanHeest scored one goal with three assists for CC.

The line centered by Todd Bentley with wingers David Moss and Spiewak scored CC's first three goals.

Bentley opened the scoring 52 seconds into the game, assisted by Moss and VanHeest.

Spiewak followed with goals 23 seconds apart, the first assisted by Rowe and Bentley and the second by Moss and VanHeest.

The Shamrocks made the lead 4-0 with a power-play goal by Brandon Kaleniecki, assisted by VanHeest, with 4:30 left in the first period.

Goals by Pioneer's Kyle Mast and Chris Cherven sandwiched around VanHeest's power-play tally, assisted by Rowe and Ryan Yost, left CC with a 5-2 lead after two periods.

CC goaltender Ben Dunne made 15 shots through two periods.

The Shamrocks responded at the other end with Keith Rowe's goal on a slap shot in the circle that beat goalie Jon Bowling on the short side for a 6-2 lead.

Nathan Lewarne added a goal, assisted by Joe Moreau and Pat O'Dea, 47 seconds later to put the Shamrocks up 7-2. Erik Hawkins finished the scoring with an unassisted goal with 8:14 remaining.

before outscoring Dearborn 4-0 in the final period.

Eric Hawkins scored a pair of goals to lead CC, one coming short-handed.

Brandon Kaleniecki and Brad Holland each had a goal and two assists. Ryan Yost also had a goal and one assist.

Other CC goal scorers included David Moss, Jim Spiewak, Derek Genrich and Todd Bentley.

Other assists went to Shawn McGowan, Matt VanHeest, Ray Bentley and Nathan Lewarne.

Dearborn's only goal came in the second period. Shawn McGowan from Brent Hrusick at 4:21 cutting the deficit to 4-1.

BASKETBALL

Philippines on horizon for Hatfield

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

Rudy Hatfield's college eligibility is up, but that doesn't mean his basketball career is over.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pound power forward from the University of Michigan-Dearborn — via Livonia Churchill High School and Schoolcraft College — is most likely headed for a tour of duty later this year in the Philippines.

"It's pretty much a for-sure deal," said Hatfield, who is half Philippino. "I'd definitely like to play there at least five years."

"And what's better than playing basketball and making money at the same time?"

Hatfield, who averaged 19.8 points and 9.8 rebounds per game his senior year at UM-Dearborn, is scheduled to make his first visit this summer to the Philippines.

Since his mother Lillian Schisler is Philippino, Hatfield has an advantage. He will not be counted as an import in the professional league.

"I've never been there, I don't speak the language and I really don't know the culture, so I guess it will be a shocking experience," Hatfield said. "But I'm really looking forward to going over there. My grandmother (Lolita Valdez) is visiting family there right now."

Chicagoan Rolando Hiso, a cycling manager and journalist, is arranging an informal tryout for Hatfield in July. If Hatfield sticks, the Philippino league runs for eight months with a month's break in between.

Hatfield, who just began playing last week in a local Philippino league out of Ferndale, caught Hiso's eye last summer when he took MVP honors representing a Detroit team in an All-Star game in Toronto.

Schoolcraft College coach Carlos Briggs, who starred at Baylor, still holds many scoring records in the Philippines. During one season he averaged 62 points per game and had a high game of 86.

Also, former Lake Superior State standout Eric Mink, who is part Philippino, played there last season.

Hatfield, meanwhile, is considered a late bloomer in the game of basketball who may only get better.

After averaging 15.5 points and eight rebounds his first year with UM-Dearborn, Hatfield exploded for coach Charles Turner his senior year leading the Wolves to a school-record 14 wins.

UM-Dearborn's season ended Feb. 25 with an eight-point loss to Peru State (Neb.) in the NAIA Division II regional in Sioux City, Iowa. In that game, Hatfield scored 28 points and grabbed 16 rebounds.

"We were seed third and they were sixth — I didn't want to go out that way — I tried to lay everything on the line," Hatfield said.

UM-Dearborn, an independent, finished 14-18 overall but enjoyed some fine moments, including an upset win over Division II foe Saginaw Valley State.

Against Cornerstone, the No. 1 ranked team in NAIA Division II and playing this week in the nationals in Nampa, Idaho, Hatfield scored a career-high 30 points.

"I'm more of an offensive-minded player now whereas I was a role player at Schoolcraft," Hatfield said of his junior college days. "I have much more confidence now as a scorer."

Coming out of Churchill in 1995, Hatfield had one coach, and only one coach in his corner — Schoolcraft's Glen Donahue.

"Rudy's such a good player."

Lady Crusaders off to 5-4 Florida start

Madonna University's softball fortunes could be in good hands with Janell Leschinger and Janelle Schmidt.

Especially their pitching hands.

Leschinger took a no-hitter into the seventh inning, settling for a two-hitter Tuesday, as Madonna defeated Malone (Ohio) College, 2-1, on Vicki Malkowski's game-winning solo home run in the bottom of the seventh.

In the Crusaders' second game of the afternoon, Schmidt hurled a one-hitter while her Madonna teammates were pounding out 17 hits in an 8-0 beating of Robert Morris College.

Madonna is getting its spring games in at Fort Myers, Fla.

The Crusaders made three errors against Malone, which scored an unearned run in the second. Madonna tied the score in the fourth before Malkowski won it with her two-out blast in the bottom of the seventh.

Leschinger (3-1) walked just one and struck out seven. She allowed two hits with two outs in the top of the seventh but retired the side with no damage.

Madonna scored five runs in the first and three in the second to cruise past Robert Morris (Pa.) in the second game. Schmidt (1-0) struck out seven and didn't walk a batter.

Kelly Zurawski and Jamie Cook had three hits each. Courtney Senger, Jenny Kruzel and Missy Bako had two RBI apiece as the Crusaders raised their spring record to 5-4.

Madonna started its three-game winning streak Monday with a 17-7 pulverizing of Mercyhurst (Pa.). Tanya Liske allowed four hits and four runs in the first three innings and Schmidt gave up three runs and three hits. The Crusaders pounded out 20 hits in the game, scoring 12 times in the third.

The Crusaders opened their season Saturday, splitting two games. They lost a 5-2 decision to Slippery Rock (Pa.) before coming back to blank St. Joseph, 9-0.

Senger had two hits against Slippery Rock and Bako was the losing pitcher. Leschinger allowed one hit in five innings of work against St. Joseph in the second game. Kruzel had just one hit, but it was a home run, and she drove in four runs.

On Sunday, Madonna played three games. It dropped a 10-1 contest to St. Anselm, pounded Waynesburg College, 9-1, and lost to Holy Family College, 7-2, getting just one hit.

Leschinger collected the win over Waynesburg with one-hit, six-strikeout work in five innings. Cook and Senger each drove in a pair of runs while Kristy McDonald had three hits.

Madonna dropped a 5-2 game to Avila College on Monday. Leschinger gave up eight hits in seven innings but the Crusaders could only muster five.

Senger led the team with a .444 batting average after Madonna's first nine games. Jen Walker and McDonald were each at .391 while six other Crusaders were at .300 or better. The team was hitting .335.

Malkowski and Kruzel had the team's only home runs. Senger had the team RBI lead with nine but Kruzel was right behind at eight.

Schmidt had a 1.02 ERA for 13 and 1/3 innings of work and Leschinger was at 1.46 for 24 innings. Leschinger had walked 11 but had struck out 20. Opponents were hitting just .138 against her.

Churchill ousted in finals

BY C.J. REBAK

VOLLEYBALL

A war of nerves — that's what playing Livonia Churchill in volleyball is. The Chargers often take the best opponents to the three-game limit, wearing them down and frustrating them.

Plymouth Salem was well aware of Churchill's methods going into Saturday's Class A district final at Novi HS. It didn't make it any easier to play the Chargers, but by the third game it was the Rocks who did the wearing down to win the deciding set 15-5. Salem won the opening game, 16-14; Churchill won the second, 15-13.

Salem, now 46-10-1, advances to Friday's regional at Ann Arbor Huron. The Rocks will play Saline after the Livonia Franklin-vs.-Wayne Memorial match, which starts at 4:30 p.m. The championship will be at approximately 7 p.m. Churchill bows out at 29-12-3.

"We were very competitive in the first two games," said Churchill coach Mike Hughes. "I thought in the last game, the difference was Salem got good swings at the ball and we didn't. You've got to give (Salem) credit — they've got good athletes and they played well."

"I was pretty pleased with the way we played. I thought we got the maximum out of our players."

Indeed the Chargers did. The two teams had met twice earlier this season, Salem winning in three games in their Western Lakes Activities Association regular-season encounter followed by a split of their two-game set at the WLAA Tournament.

"I thought it would be tough," said Rocks' coach Tom Teeters. "That first game was crucial, and it could have gone either way."

"If we didn't win that, there wouldn't have been a third game."

The first set was indeed a gut-wrenching test. Neither team scored more than two points on a serve; Salem's biggest lead in the game was 9-6, after an ace served by Alekska Marquez. But Churchill scored five of the next six points and led 11-10 after Luba Steca's ace.

The Rocks got to within game point at 14-12 on an Erica Stein kill, but the Chargers answered with two kills by Lauren Ruprecht to tie it at 14. A kill by Angie Sillmon and Amanda Suder's ace finally gave Salem the victory.

The second game was similar; only Churchill — after falling behind 3-0 at the start — got in front and stayed there. The Chargers led 9-6 after a tip by Steca dropped between Salem defenders. The Rocks twice pulled to within a point, but could not overtake Churchill. Shannon Munn had four kills for points in the game for the Chargers.

However, any momentum they gained with the win didn't last. The third game bore no semblance to the first two; the Rocks got in front early and stayed there. Laine Sterling started it, serving four points to put Salem up 6-1.

After that, Andrea Prueett took control. The 6-foot-1 senior had two kills for points on Stein's serve to make it 8-2 before serving out the game, collecting seven points — two on aces, four others on kills by Suder.

"Prueett's serving," was Teeters' reply when asked what the difference was in the third game. "Just because she was on."

Sillmon and Suder propelled Salem offensively; Sillmon totaled 19 kills (a .333 kill average) and Suder had 18 (.293). Jill Dombrowski contributed eight (.278).

Suder also had four aces and 14 digs in the match, while Sillmon got five digs. Prueett had three kills, seven digs and three aces, and Stein chipped

Sterling collected 40 assists to kills and a team-high 20 digs.

Churchill was led by Steca with nine kills; Ruprecht with six kills, 10 digs and seven blocks; Fernanda Leite, with six kills; Amy Cadovich, with five kills; and Shannon Munn, with four kills and six blocks. The Chargers had just three service errors in the match.

In the district semifinal, the Chargers disposed of Northville 15-6, 15-9, and Salem defeated Novi 15-2, 15-1. Churchill, which had an opening-round bye, was paced by Cadovich's seven kills; Ruprecht's five kills and eight digs; Munn's two kills and five blocks; and Steca's four kills.

Salem got seven kills from Suder (.375); six kills from Sillmon (.667) to go with six digs, and four kills apiece from Prueett (.250) and Dombrowski (1.000). Sterling finished with 18 assists to kills, and Marquez served five aces.

In Saturday's district opener, the Rocks knocked off Plymouth Canton 15-2, 15-8. Sillmon again was unstoppable, collecting 14 kills (.476) and eight digs. Suder had six kills (.222) and six digs, and Prueett got four kills and two aces. Marquez and Stein had three aces each in the match, and Sterling finished with 21 assists and five digs.

The Huron regional won't be easy for the Rocks, but at least one former adversary won't be present: Livonia Ladywood, which knocked Salem from the state tournament the last two years, lost in the district semifinals to Livonia Stevenson.

Should the Rocks get past Saline, they will most likely face Livonia Franklin in the regional final — a team they lost to 9-15, 17-15, 15-9 in WLAA play.

"The key for us is to play half-way consistently," said Teeters. "And for us as a coaching staff, the key is if we don't play consistently, we have to find ways to get it done."

Wayne, Lady Warriors advance

Wayne Memorial has extended its girls volleyball season, meaning it still has a chance to reach 500.

The Zebras, getting hot at the right time, raised their record to 18-21-3 Saturday by winning their district at Ypsilanti Lincoln to advance to the Class A regional semifinals Friday at Ann Arbor Huron against Livonia Franklin.

Wayne Memorial defeated host Ypsilanti Lincoln in its district tournament opener, 15-8, 15-8, and then came from behind to shade Garden City, 14-16, 15-10, 15-6, in the championship match.

Rachel Raines recorded seven kills at the net and served five aces in the victory over the Cougars while Kristin Kerhrer backed her four service aces with six kills.

Setter Amy Paling recorded 23 assists and Beth Molitor had five kills.

Garden City defeated Westland John Glenn, 16-14, 15-8, to reach the finals of the district at Ypsilanti Lincoln.

John Glenn finished its season 8-21-8. Garden City, 7-18-2, was eliminated in the district finals by Wayne Memorial.

Junior Jamie McLeod had six kills and eight digs for John Glenn, which had four aces and 15 assists by senior setter Jessica LeTourneau.

Kristen Krohn served three aces and had five digs while junior Nicole Panyard spiked home four kills.

"I think we'll be a tough team next year with Noelle Swartz (injured) coming back," coach Stacy Graham of the Rockets said. "This year was an up-and-down season."

"We had a lot of skill on the team, but at critical moments we were not always able to come up

Lutheran Westland rolls

Lutheran High Westland captured its first-ever district title in school history Tuesday with wins over host Detroit Communication Media Arts (15-6, 15-4) and Detroit Benedictine (15-8, 15-1).

The Lady Warriors, Metro Conference tournament champions, advance to Saturday's Class C regional to play host Almont.

The first semifinal match pits Southfield Christian vs. Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett at 5 p.m. followed by Lutheran Westland and the Raiders at 6:30 p.m. The final is scheduled for 8 p.m.

"I'm real proud of them. They

played very well," Lutheran Westland coach Joan Ollinger said. "We're all very excited to be going to the regional."

Despite a week layoff, Lutheran Westland overcame a sluggish start in the Benedictine match to win handily.

Against Detroit CMA, senior Anna Schwecke served nine straight points in the opening game.

And behind the blocking of Bekah Hoffmeier, Sarah Marody, and Hana Hughes, Lutheran Westland finished off the Pharos in quick order.

Clarenceville ousted

Livonia Clarenceville made it to the finals of the Class C district Saturday at Southfield Christian before losing to the host Eagles, 15-10, 15-4.

Clarenceville blasted Redford Bishop Borgess, 15-1, 15-0, in the semifinals as Danielle Sledz served all 15 points of the second game against the Spartans, notching 10 aces.

The Trojans, who finished 33-14-3 overall, were hurt against the host Eagles when middle hitter Kristina Skrela re-aggravated a hyperextended knee and had limited mobility.

Rachael Koernke had 15 digs against the host team while Sledz put down eight kills. Setter Nicole Kasparian recorded 19 assists.

Huron Valley sidelined

On Saturday, host Southfield Franklin Road Christian eliminated Westland Huron Valley Lutheran from the Class D state tourney with a 15-9, 15-10 district victory.

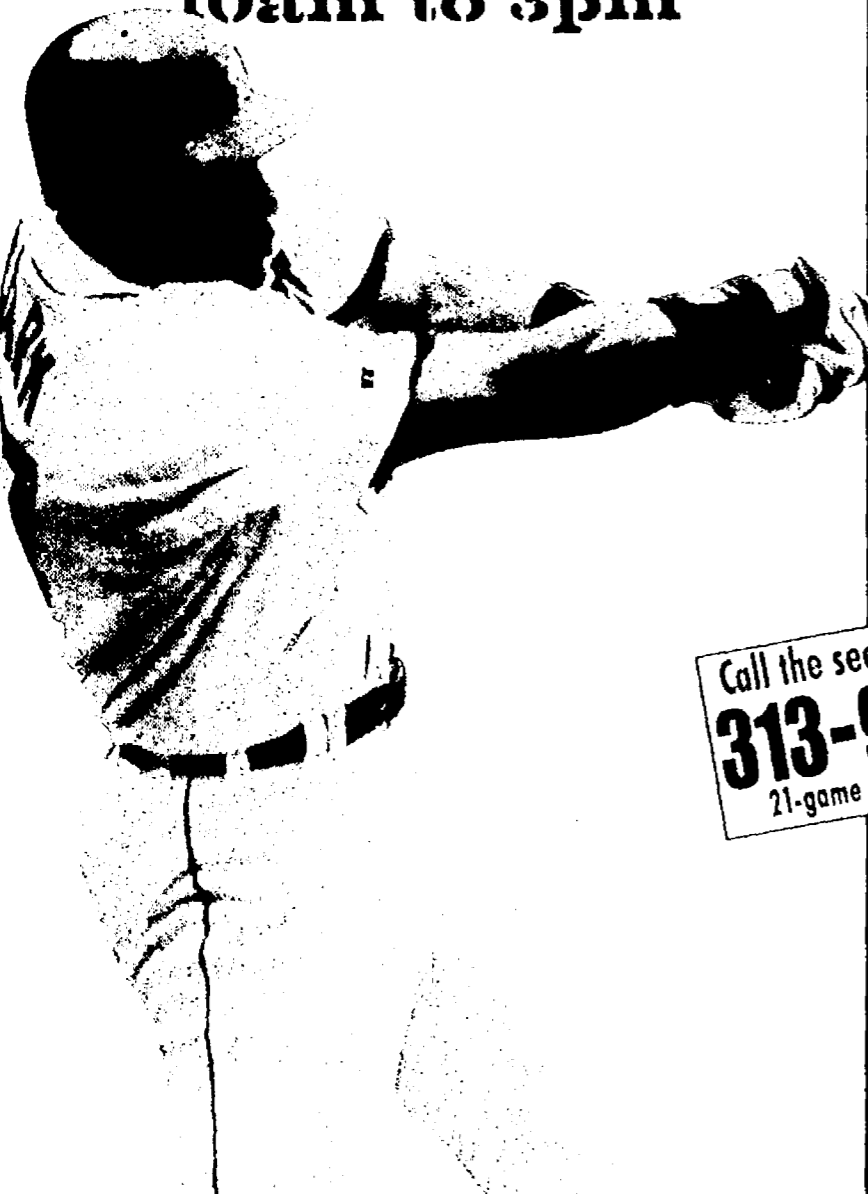

The Hawks finished the season with an 11-10 overall record.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Southfield gets past CC, 60-52

Southfield and Redford Catholic Central combined for only 11 points in the third quarter of Wednesday's Class A boys basketball district semifinal and the Shamrocks could have lived with that if they had a majority of the points.

Trouble is, Southfield scored seven and CC four to leave the Bluejays with a 38-35 lead after three quarters.

With defensive-minded Ben Kelso as the Southfield coach, that's like a 10-point lead for most teams.

Southfield went on to win the fourth quarter, too, 22-17, and left with a 60-52 victory over the host Shamrocks.

Senior guard Desmond Martin led Southfield with 21 baskets, making six of seven free throws to help seal the outcome. Senior forward Malcomb Ross added 16 points, including four of five free throws.

The Shamrocks let a 16-9 lead after one quarter go to waste in the second quarter when Southfield enjoyed a 22-17 scoring advantage to tie the score at the half, 31-31.

CC senior guard Nick Moore had a game-high 23 points, including four baskets from three-point range. He also made all five of his free throws.

Southfield, 13-8 overall, advanced to the district final to play Detroit Redford at 7 p.m. Friday.

CC finished its season with a 15-7 record.

BORGESS 83, LUTH. WESTLAND 57: Junior guard Donald Didlake scored 21 points Wednesday to lead host Redford Bishop Borgess to a semifinal district win over Lutheran Westland.

Sophomore forward Marcuz Young added 13 points for the Spartans (11-11), who will play Detroit Benedictine in the final at 7 p.m. Friday.

Hoop shot: Lutheran High Westland's Andrew McLaughlin takes aim against Dearborn St. Alphonsus in Tuesday's first round game.

Senior forward Ryan Ollinger scored 15 points and senior center Thomas Habitz 14 for the Warriors (14-8).

Borgess held quarter leads of 20-12, 40-25 and 61-39.

BENEDICTINE 47, C'VILLE 34: The Ravens outscored the Trojans 15-8 in the third quarter to open a 38-26 lead in a district semifinal game Wednesday.

Benedictine's Husani Irwin led all scorers with 14 points. Sophomore forward Scott Wion and junior center Rick Burack scored nine points apiece for Clarenceville (8-14).

The Ravens (9-11) were ahead 13-7 after one quarter and 23-18 at halftime.

Clarenceville notches rare tourney win

Clarenceville, which lost last year's Livonia Clarenceville tournament, believed to be the school's first boys high school district tournament victory since 1983.

Southfield Christian made it interesting, getting within a point with eight seconds left on a free throw by junior forward Matt Clemens.

But Southfield was forced to foul with three seconds to play and Scott Carr made a free throw to account for the final score — 53-52 — and send the Trojans into Wednesday's Class C district semifinal against Detroit Benedictine at Redford Bishop Borgess.

A desperation half-court shot at the buzzer by Southfield Christian was way off the mark.

Junior forward Rick Burack, who had nine points and eight assists, made a key steal with 20 seconds to play to keep Clarenceville in command.

Sophomore center Scott Wion scored 21 points for Clarenceville, 8-13 after the victory.

Clarenceville muscled its way to an 18-14 lead after one period and increased it to 35-28 at the half before faltering in the third period, when Southfield Christian posted an 11-8 margin.

Junior center Eric Hall paced Southfield Christian with 15 points while Clemens and forward John Dresser each had 10.

Southfield Christian went 5-for-9 from the line.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 88, ST. ALPHONSUS 52: The Warriors repulsed a late Arrows' rally Tuesday to win their Class C district opener.

Lutheran High School Westland played host Redford Bishop Borgess in a Wednesday district semifinal game. The Spartans demolished Detroit School of the Industrial Arts, 87-28, to advance.

Junior Charles Hoelt scored 21 of his 27 points in the first half to help Lutheran Westland build up a 40-25 lead. He had 12 of the Warriors' 20 second quarter points.

Senior forward Ryan Ollinger added 18 points to help the Warriors improve to 14-7 this season.

Guard Thomas David led Dearborn St. Alphonsus with 17 points and junior forward Lamond Benney 16.

A 16-6 third quarter let the Arrows make a run in the second half but the Warriors staved off defeat with some good defense in the fourth quarter.

BELEVEILLE 75, FRANKLIN 48: The guard-oriented Tigers showed the Patriots why they made the state Class A finals last year.

Edwards swished six triples from the corner to help Belleville, host team for the district, raise its record to 14-7.

The Patriots tried to stop the outside shooting with a zone defense. The few times they went to a man-to-man, the more experienced Tiger guards beat them off the dribble.

Franklin, which won one of 20 games this season, got 15 points from sophomore Joe Ruggerio, who made three three-point shots himself. Dustin Kuras had 11 and junior Derek Schema scored nine.

"They're a tough team," Franklin coach Dan Robinson said of his opponent. "They're good."

"Our kids played hard and never gave up. We had good attitudes all year long."

Franklin trailed, 22-11, after one period and 46-22 at the halfway point. The Patriots made half their 16 free throws while the Tigers missed five of the eight free throws they tried.

CANTON 64, CHURCHILL 45: Livonia Churchill's strategy looked like a winner — at least for a half.

The Chargers used an extended zone defense against Plymouth Canton in the Monday district opener hosted by the Chiefs. Their object: "We wanted to take away their perimeter game," explained Churchill coach Rick Austin.

And his Chargers carried it out well, pressuring well and keeping senior Joe Cortellini, in particular, off the scoreboard. He had just five points in the game — all in the first quarter.

At halftime, Canton had a 21-18 lead.

Jason Weidmann, Nathan Rau and Scott Samulski combined for 42 points to lead their team in a dominating second-half performance. Weidmann finished with 18 points, while Rau and Samulski added 13 apiece.

"We made them beat us from the inside," said Austin. "And Canton capitalized on that. (Ryan) Vickers, (Brandon) Geriaz, (Ryan) Cousins and

Unfortunately, it left too many holes for the bigger Chiefs to take advantage of inside. Cannon converted 10-of-15 second-half floor shots and drew a lot of fouls (20 in the second half). They were 20-of-25 from the line in the second half (80 percent) and 22-of-29 in the game (76 percent). Churchill was 9-of-19 from the line for the game (47 percent).

Rau's presence inside, with Weidmann, was particularly effective. The 6-foot-2 senior scored eight third-quarter points, making all six of his free throws, as the Chiefs outscored Churchill 18-7. Samulski took over in the final quarter, converting five straight from the line while scoring nine points in Canton's 27-20 fourth-period surge.

John Bennett paced the Chargers with 17 points, 11 coming in the fourth quarter on three three-pointers and two free throws. Devin White was next highest with eight.

Churchill finishes with a 7-14 record — its best since the 1990-91 season.

SOUTHFIELD 62, STEVENSON 32: Livonia Stevenson (6-13) stayed close for a half before the Blue Jays (12-8) pulled away in the second half Monday in the opening round of the Class A district at Redford Catholic Central.

Kerry Nether and Malcolm Ross scored 12 and 11 points, respectively, for Southfield.

Keshay McChristian led Stevenson with 12.

Southfield led by only three at intermission, 26-23, before outscoring the Spartans 26-9 in the second half.

"We played a real good first half," Stevenson coach Tim Newman said. "We used a 1-2-2 zone and we rebounded."

"They (Southfield) picked up their intensity with their press and we made some poor choices."

REDFORD CC 80, HENRY FORD 68: Senior guard Nick Moore scored 20 points and dished out 12 assists Monday to lift host Redford Catholic Central (15-6) past Detroit Henry Ford (7-14) in the district opener.

Juniors Rob Sparks and Matt Loidas chipped in with 12 points apiece for CC.

Henry Ford's Morris Hall led all scorers with 22.

PCA 71, HURON VALLEY 30: There were no thoughts of extending the season by any of the Westland Huron Valley Lutheran players after the first quarter of their Class D district opener at Jackson Baptist Monday.

That's because Plymouth Christian Academy wasted no time taking command, outscoring the Hawks 23-5 in the opening quarter. By halftime it was 44-16.

"We jumped on them early," said Eagles' coach Doug Taylor. "We played real good defense. It was a great team win and a good way to open district play."

Nine Eagles scored in the game, with Michael Huntsman leading with 24 points and 10 rebounds. Jordan Rose contributed 15 points, six steals and five assists, and Dave Carty totaled eight points, six steals, four rebounds, four assists and three blocked shots.

Rene Armat topped Huron Valley with 11 points. The Hawks finished their season 2-16.

HOCKEY

Plymouth earns No. 1 junior ranking

If they weren't prepared to be used for target practice before, the Plymouth Whalers better be now.

For the first time in franchise history, the Whalers are ranked No. 1 in the Canadian Hockey League in the weekly Bank of Montreal/MasterCard Canadian Hockey League's Top Ten. The ranking is done by a panel of NHL scouts.

The Whalers own the best record in the entire CHL — 49-11-4. Their 8-1-1 mark in their last 10 games boosted their winning percentage to .797, also best in the CHL. They have already clinched first place in the Ontario Hockey League's West Division, and their 102 points is one better than the Barrie Colts, who dropped from third in the poll to fourth.

The Calgary Hitmen (48-10-7), members of the Western Hockey League, dropped from No. 1 in the rankings to No. 2. The Quebec Remparts (48-12-5), who compete in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, are No. 3, followed by a pair of OHL teams: Barrie (48-11-5) and the Ottawa 67s (47-12-4).

Whalers win, tie over weekend

If there is a single team that must register as more of a concern to the Plymouth Whalers than their record would warrant — like that unreachable itch in the middle of your back, a minor problem that becomes a major annoyance — the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds are it.

In a league that consists of a Big Three (Plymouth, Barrie and Ottawa, each with 98 points or more) and the rest (next best: Guelph, with 84), the Greyhounds are members of the latter. They have a 31-25-7 record, and their 69 points ranks 10th in the 20-team league.

But they have certainly made things rough on the Whalers, the OHL's best team with a 49-11-4 record. Sault Ste. Marie has beaten them once, handing them their first loss of assists from Nikos Tselios and David Legwand. Mara also had an assist in the game; Tselios finished with a goal and two assists.

Adam Colagiaco, who scored four goals in a 7-1 win over Kingston Friday, added two more against Sault Ste. Marie to bring his season-total to 40. Shaun Fisher collected two assists for Plymouth.

Rob Zepp made 22 saves for the Whalers, while the Greyhounds' Jake McCracken had 40 stops. Cory Pecker scored two goals and had an assist for Sault Ste. Marie.

In the 7-1 win over Kingston Friday, Colagiaco was the show. His three-goal second period stretched a 2-1 lead after one to 5-1. Mara, Harold Druken and Jamie Lalonde also scored for the Whalers; Druken had two assists as well. Mark McMahon collected three assists, and Legwand and Randy Fitzgerald added two apiece.

Plymouth outshot Kingston (19-42-3 through the weekend) 46-16. Robert Holsinger made 15 saves, while the Frontenacs' Patrick DesRochers had 39.

Ambassador Kowalski honored

Craig Kowalski of the Compuware Ambassadors was selected as Goalie of the Month after posting a 5-1-2 record with a .933 save percentage and a 1.63 goals-against average during February. For the season, Kowalski's record is 29-6-6; he ranks first in the North American Hockey League in wins and goals-against average (2.14 per game), is second in minutes played (2,413) and save percentage (.921), and is third in shutouts (two).

The Ambassadors didn't do too well last weekend, losing 8-3 to Cleveland Friday in Jackson. The loss dropped first-place Compuware's record to 32-11-6. Jack Redwood led the Ambassadors with a goal and an assist.

the season (5-4 in overtime Sept. 27), and three times the Greyhounds have forced Plymouth to overtime — winning once, losing once, tying once. The Whalers narrowly averted another OT when they thwarted a three-goals-in-the-third-period Sault Ste. Marie comeback.

The tie came Saturday, and again the Whalers were pushed to the limit. They led 2-1 going into the second period, but the Greyhounds scored three times to take a 4-2 lead. It took a pair of power-play goals by Plymouth, the second with 1:59 left in the game, to forge a 4-4 tie.

Paul Mara got the game-tying goal, with said the former SC coach, now at Dearborn Heights Annapolis High, "and he's such a competitor. He just plays so hard and gives you everything he can. And what a great kid."

The two have remained close over the years.

"He (Donahue) came out to my last two home games," Hatfield said. "Glen's the reason why I played college basketball. Coming out of high school I was nervous and worried. I didn't know if I could play. He's the one who asked me to play. He's the greatest coach I've ever had."

Hatfield, whose father Rudolph is a psychology professor at UM-Dearborn, plans to put his graduation plans on hold. He has about a year remaining to obtain a degree in business.

"I have no regrets about my college basketball career," said Hatfield, who lives in Canton with his mother. "It was the greatest time in my life."

Now comes the second phase his basketball career.

And who knows, maybe they'll make a movie about him and call it Rudy II.

Jays' Stafford uses all resources

BY C.J. RISAK

BASEBALL

The outlook is bright right now for Mike Stafford. The former Plymouth Canton baseball star recently left for Dunedin, Fla. to get in some early workouts prior to the start of the Toronto Blue Jays spring camp for its minor league players.

But his road to pro baseball hasn't been without potholes.

At Canton, Stafford was a standout — at first base. Indeed, it was his play at that position that drew the interest of Ohio State. He committed to the Buckeyes during the early signing period.

That was prior to his senior season at Canton, in 1993. It was also the only year Stafford pitched at Canton. A lefthander, he posted a 6-1 record as the No. 2 starter behind Craig Benedict, who went on to star at Madonna University.

The Chiefs won the Western Lakes Activities Association championship, but lost in the state district final.

Off Stafford went to Columbus in the fall for his first season at OSU — as a first baseman, not a pitcher. "I never even thought about pitching," Stafford recalled.

When he got there, he discovered OSU wanted him to build himself up physically. So he red-shirted a year and did just that. Unfortunately, the developments awaiting him in his second year were not promising.

"There was no room there," he said. "They had three All-Americans at first base."

Stafford was discouraged. Faced with a no-play college career, he weighed his options.

That's when he got some much-needed advice, from a totally unexpected source.

"I was about to quit," said Stafford. "I wasn't playing, and it didn't look like I was going to get much playing time. Then I ran into Chris Spielman working out there. We started talking, and he asked me how I was doing, and I told him my problem."

A former All-American at linebacker at OSU, and a Pro Bowler for the Detroit Lions, Spielman listened and talked it over with Stafford, telling him to stick with it and keep trying.

After that, Stafford approached his coaches about changing positions.

"I told them I could pitch," he said simply. "We didn't have any lefthanders."

Utilized as a set-up man and a closer, Stafford posted a 4-2 record with a 2.27 earned run average as a junior. His senior year was even better: He went 5-2 with seven saves, posting a 2.54 ERA and earning all-Big Ten accolades. He led his team in ERA both seasons, and put his name in the OSU record books: second highest number of appearances in a season (29), second longest scoreless streak pitched (15.3 innings), third most pitching appearances in a career (52).

Although not overpowering — "On a good day, I'll throw 85 mph," Stafford said — he drew enough interest to be drafted by the Blue Jays last year.

He started his pro career with their Rookie League team in Medicine Hat, Alberta, playing in the Pioneer League. He was there just three weeks, going 1-0 with a 2.60 ERA, before being called up to the Jays' team in St. Catherine's, Ont., near Buffalo. Competing in the short season Class A New York-Penn League, Stafford again sparked, going 1-0 with a 1.38 ERA.

Stafford isn't a dreamer. That, in great part, is due to his heritage; his dad, Bill, pitched eight seasons of Major League baseball. Bill remains the answer to a baseball trivia question he must relish — he was pitching for the Yankees when Roger Maris hit his 61st home run in 1961.

"Usually, after every game I pitch, I call him and we talk about it, how I pitched," Stafford said. "He gives me advice and we discuss strategies."

He'll play Class A ball this summer, hopefully reaching the Jays' advanced A team at Dunedin by season's end.

"I don't want to go too fast, but I don't want to go too slow," the 23-year-old said. "My college experience should help. I've faced a lot of good hitters."

And if he makes it to the majors, he won't be talking long distance with only his dad. Stafford still confers with Spielman, who sat out the 1998 football season to aid his wife while she recuperated from cancer. Spielman has signed to play with the expansion Cleveland Browns this fall.

"We still stay in touch," Stafford said. "He helps keep me motivated."

It's a valuable lesson, one that Stafford learned early — to succeed, use all the resources at your disposal.

Love affair: Playwright Karim Alrawi's story examines the relationship between Edsel and Eleanor Ford.

A mural transcends walls

Meadow Brook's 'Gift of Glory' raises expectation for regional-specific theater

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovenzano@oe.homecomm.net

When he arrived at Meadow Brook Theatre two years ago, Karim Alrawi never suspected that the educational outreach program placed in his charge would extend so broadly.

Ostensibly, as the theater's playwright-in-residence, he has lectured about drama at local schools, and encouraged area writers in their literary pursuits.

But Alrawi's most lasting impression might be the parable for the stage he's created about one of the most recognizable symbols of labor, technology and gritty Motown — Diego Rivera's "Detroit Industry Frescoes" at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Because of the widespread anticipation for his new play, "Gift of Glory," based on the relationship between muralist Rivera and Edsel Ford — who funded the wall painting — Alrawi is proving that indigenous stories have a place on center stage. Especially if that stage is at Meadow Brook Theatre, with its slipping subscriber-base, sluggish ticket sales, and reputation for predictably safe, albeit high-quality productions.

The subtext of "Gift of Glory," which opens this week for a three-week run, may be the play's foreboding sense of how art transcends ruthless aggrandizers and short-sighted politics.

Throw in a couple subplots about the love story between Edsel and Eleanor Ford, the "common man" in search of a rallying cause, and the layers of Alrawi's drama come to life.

On a more practical level, however, "Gift of Glory" may also hold a clue to Meadow Brook's future.

History revisited

"This play demonstrates one of the most important reasons for a regional theater — doing 'geographically specific theater,'" said Geoffrey Sherman, artistic director at Meadow Brook.

"Not only will 'Gift of Glory' get an audience, but many people will realize that they can't get this kind of intimate, communal experience anywhere else."

Ironically, those central to the play's development aren't even from the area. Alrawi, Sherman, director Deborah Wicks and five of the seven-member cast are transplants to the region.

The Egyptian-born Alrawi, who speaks with impeccable diction and an accent inherited from his British mother, recognized that sometimes you just don't see what's right in front of you.

"Growing up in Alexandria, I thought the pyramids were a pile of rocks," he said.

That, of course, understates the type of biographical mining Alrawi has done to recreate the milieu of Detroit in the early 1930s; a time of economic depression, class warfare and ideological

HOLIDAY CELEBRATIONS

St. Patrick's Day events showcase local talent

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Denise Marie Costello of West Bloomfield, recently crowned the Maid of Erin, is looking forward to celebrating St. Patrick's Day.

"It's an honor," said Costello, 22, about being crowned Maid of Erin, and the responsibility that goes along with it. "My father grew up in Ireland. I've always been interested in my family's history."

She and her court — Maureen Lewis of Livonia and Bridget Mulcahy of Canton, will be participating in the St. Patrick's Day Parade Sunday, March 14. The parade begins at 2 p.m. on the corner of Michigan Ave. and Third St. in Detroit and ends near Tiger Stadium at the Gaelic League.

Costello was judged on poise, personality and Irish history. For the talent part, she sang an Irish song. "I was actually less nervous this year than last year," she said about the competition. Last year she was first runner-up.

Costello earned a bachelor of fine arts degree in musical theater performance from Western Michigan University. She recently finished "A Wonderful Life," the musical, in Warsaw Indiana's Wagon Wheel Theatre, and is currently involved in an on-camera class taught by Jane Brody one of Chicago's top casting directors.

"I want to be able to perform in musicals or live theater," she said. As Maid of Erin, Costello will be a role model for young Irish girls, and participate in various Irish activities throughout the year.

She's also planning a trip to Ireland. Her Maid of Erin prize package includ-battles between capitalism in need of profound reform and communism holding out the promise of working-class utopia.

So impressed was the Ford family with Alrawi's research that their initial caution turned quickly into a resounding endorsement after reading an early draft of the play.

Perhaps the Fords recalled the hackneyed characterization of Henry Ford in Meadow Brook's 1995 production, "Camping with Henry and Tom," a story about a fictitious camping trip gone awry, involving Ford, Thomas Edison and Warren Harding.

Ever vigilant to preserve the Ford family's reputation, "Gift of Glory" is considered to reveal the deep humanitarianism of Edsel Ford, said John Miller, president of the Edsel and Eleanor Ford Estate in Grosse Pointe Shores.

"We're hoping that this is the beginning of Edsel Ford being considered as a courageous and heroic figure," he said.

Indeed, Alrawi compares the Ford family to Italy's Medici family, who supported works by Donatello, da Vinci, Michelangelo and Botticelli.

Dramatic question

A stack of books on Detroit's first family rests on a file cabinet in Alrawi's first-floor office beneath Meadow Brook Theatre. By now, the broad details of the lives of Henry, Edsel and Eleanor Ford are no longer drawn in pastels, but deep hues.

Alrawi is quick to cite Edsel's generosity in subsidizing Ford Hospital in the 1920s and 1930s, paying the bills of the poor, and funding medical research. All the while, he noted, the Ford Family's support for the DIA was integral to the development of one of the country's finest museums.

In addition, Alrawi points out that it was Edsel Ford who established the Ford Foundation, one of the world's largest philanthropic nonprofit organizations.

For the playwright, there's a certain pride in talking about Ford, as if perhaps Alrawi is a distant relative since his father worked as an engineer and his mother was employed as a secretary for Ford Motor Company.

Regardless of Alrawi's admiration for both Ford and Rivera, the dramatic question at the heart of "Gift of Glory" is why would one of the world's wealthiest, most powerful men pay a $20,000 commission to a renowned communist, albeit the world's preeminent muralist?

Compassionate portrait

Through "circumstantial speculation," Alrawi offers the motivating reason that Ford funded the mural, then maintained his unequivocal support for Rivera despite criticism about the artist's communist background.

In March of 1931, a few weeks before Rivera arrived to look over the mural site at the DIA, a hunger march at the Ford Rouge Plant turned violent. As laid-off workers marched outside the factory demanding to be employed, Ford Motor Co.'s security officers — under the direction of Ford's Chief of Security Harry Bennett — opened fired on the crowd, killing five and wounding 30.

At the time, Edsel was president of Ford, and resoundingly blamed for the incident. "By many accounts he was sickened by what occurred," said Alrawi.

As a consequence, the playwright contends, the significance of Rivera's interpretative mural of the "working man" became a means of redemption for Edsel Ford.

The collaboration, in Alrawi's view, grew into a symbol that transcended the painting. Typically, Rivera would complete a sketch for the mural, then show it to Ford.

Alrawi among others contend that Rivera's compassionate portrait of Ford in the mural reflects the artist's affection for the billionaire turned collaborator.

From an assembly line

Many of the characters in "Gift of Glory" are familiar personages. In addition to Rivera, Henry, Edsel and Eleanor Ford, the story includes Bennett (Ford's ruthless head of security), Father Coughlin (the Royal Oak preacher whose nationally aired radio programs railed against what he saw as anti-American), and William Valentin, the far-sighted DIA director.

Much like the grandeur of Rivera's mural, Alrawi has constructed mythic-like characters playing out a drama of honesty versus deception, and compassion versus profiteering.

At the time, Edsel was president of Ford, and resoundingly blamed for the incident. "By many accounts he was sickened by what occurred," said Alrawi.

The play opens as Ford's chief of security Bennett, who Henry Ford called "his second son," looks back at one of the defining moments in the history of Ford Motor Co. — the 1930s, and particularly, the controversy surrounding Rivera's mural.

While Bennett was hardly a supporter of Rivera, he does prove to be an appropriate foil to gauge the lasting power of the mural.

In the light of history, Alrawi's "Gift of Glory" suggests that Rivera's mural serves as a metaphor whereby the mechanical assembly line was transformed into a union of sweat-and-blood laborers.

ed two tickets to Ireland compliments of Key Tours.

"My parents went back to Ireland for their 25th wedding anniversary and saw where my dad grew up," said Costello. "Now I'll have the opportunity to research and explore my family history. I'm looking forward to going there to meet my relatives."

On Friday she and her court will paint a shamrock in the middle of Michigan Avenue, in front of the Gaelic League to establish the start of St. Patrick's Day festivities in metro Detroit.

If you can't make it downtown to the parade, tune in the Irish Hour on the radio, WNZK-AM 6.90 — 1:30-3 p.m. Sunday. Costello and her court will be on the show.

Irish concert

On Sunday evening, Liz Carroll, two-time All Ireland fiddle champion and Green Linnet recording artist will present a concert at the Hellenic Cultural Center in Westland with Larry Nugent and Jim Dewan.

Nugent, six time champion of the All-Ireland flute championship has appeared with the Chieftans and Green Fields of America and recorded two solo albums with Shanachie Entertainment Corp. Dewan will provide guitar and vocals. Doors open 6 p.m. and the concert will begin at 7 p.m. with dinner available 6-7 p.m.

"I thought it would be nice to have a traditional Irish concert in metro Detroit," said presenter Mick Gavin of Redford. "These performers are very well known on the Irish music scene, they're well known on the Irish music scene — they're top of the line."

Local step-dancers will also perform including 1998 World Champion Paul Cusick of Plymouth, 1999 All-Ireland Champion Mike Belvitch also of Plymouth, and Pat Quinn, also an All-Ireland Champion. Cusick and Belvitch have both been accepted to join "Riverdance."

A warm-up group of young musicians will perform during the dinner hour.

Irish Fest

On Wednesday, Gavin is hosting the 14th Annual Irish Fest which features over 60 local Irish entertainers including Cusick and Belvitch at the Hellenic Cultural Center from 4 p.m. to about 11 p.m.

"There will corned beef and cabbage dinners, snacks, food for the kids, pop, beer, it's not your regular pub outing," said Gavin. "We get people of all ages. We're beginning to get calls already. People know about it."

Gavin began the event to offer families a way to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. Jeremy Kittel, a 14-year-old fiddle prodigy from Saline, will perform with Tyler Duncan on uilleann pipes and Sean Gavin, Mick's son, on flute and whistle.

"There are a lot of young people interested in the Irish arts," said Gavin. "We're a little bit behind Chicago and Boston, but we're slowly catching up. These kids are excellent."

'Our Country's Good' strong ensemble piece

"Our Country's Good," continues through March 14, 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and 2 p.m., at the Bonstelle Theatre, 3424 Woodward Avenue, Detroit. Tickets $8-10, call (313) 577-2960. BY SUE SUCHYTA SPECIAL WRITER

A play within a play may be a familiar convention, but in "Our Country's Good" it is also a vehicle to illustrate the change that occurs in people when they are given a goal and a chance to rebuild their shattered self-esteem.

Brought to Australia via an eight-month sea voyage with conditions similar to African slave ships, England populated and built its new colony of Australia with convict labor. Many of the transported prisoners, some convicted of seemingly minor crimes such as stealing food, lived under brutal, oppressive conditions and lived on the ragged edge of humanity.

A young lieutenant, with the encouragement of his liberal commanding officer, decides to stage a comedy with convicts in the cast, not only for the entertainment value, but for the morale of the convicts as well. The humanizing effect on the convicts' lives, and the changes in the attitudes of their captors creates a revealing, insightful piece of theater.

Director Blair Anderson has created a strong ensemble piece, creating a core of officers rife with divisions and a cadre of prisoners with bitter personal rivalries, but an unshakable code of silence and loyalty.

The harshness of the conditions are immediately illustrated by the graphic depiction of the inhumane conditions between decks where the prisoners were housed for the horrendous sea voyage. The audience immediately witnesses a beating for "insolence," a very strong reinforcement of the degradation to which the prisoners were constantly subjected.

What becomes amazing as the play unfolds is that the prisoners are able to endure the taunts and abuses from military personnel while maintaining their tenacious hold on self-respect nurtured by the play being rehearsed. As the convicts rehearse and try to understand characters so different to their own experience, they glimpse a future brighter than their own, while the audience is given a picture of the abject degradation, such as hunger and poverty, they have experienced.

Greg James is the naive and winning young Lt. Clark who takes on the challenge of molding the diverse group of convicts into a theatrical troupe. The convicts, in the process, overcome their ingrained hatred and suspicions to rise above their situation and bring the play to life.

Teresa Ann LaFranca winningly portrays Mary, a beautiful and gentle young convict with whom lieutenant Clark falls in love despite his strong devotion to his bride in far-off England. Mary is also pursued by an earnest convict, John Wischhammer, a Jew accused and convicted in a climate of racial bigotry, skillfully played by Dusan Dean Cechvala.

The officers' roles were mostly one dimensional, while the prisoners offered the richest character roles in the production.

Jennifer Hild was memorable as the angry, outspoken Dabby Bryant. Brandon Randles was poignant as he struggled with his guilt as the convict assigned to be the hangman, earnestly assuring his fellow prisoners that he would do it "so they felt not pain."

One anomaly to the richly detailed and well-costumed production was the double casting of some female convicts as male officers. In one back-to-back scene, several female convicts used the brief blackout to don a soldier's coat or wig, and played the military scene with their full skirt and feminine appearance. And since the gesture seemed in no way symbolic, it seems unusual that the director did not utilize other actors from the large Bonstelle company to play the other roles, which were speaking parts even if they were limited to one scene.

Kathleen Crosby of Rochester successfully captured the period and poverty in the convict and military uniforms. The sound effects — a ship under sail, the Australian outback at night, or a prisoner being savagely beaten offstage — were realistic and greatly enhanced the production.

Avon offers taut 'Children's Hour'

Avon Players presents "The Children's Hour," Lillian Hellman's adult drama, Friday-Sunday, March 12-14 and Thursday-Saturday, 18-20, at the theater, 1185 Tienken Road, east of Rochester Road, Rochester Hills. 8 p.m. Thursdays-Saturdays, and 2 p.m. Sundays. $13. Call (248) 608-9077. BY MARY JANE DOERR SPECIAL WRITER

There are no apples for the teachers in the Avon Players latest production "The Children's Hour." But, there is one rotten apple that spoils the whole bushel in this powerful interpretation of Lillian Hellman's 1934 masterpiece of sexless lies and whispering secrets.

As the scene opens with the theatrical Sheila Lyle, as former actress Lily Mortar, instructing nine young pupils at the Wright-Dobie School, reading the script of a play, everything seems congenial. The girls are dressed in the usual boarding school uniforms - white blouses and red plaid skirts, and other than Lily's odd theatricality, life in the countryside private school seems normal enough.

Then Heather Blackwell enters as Mary Tilford. Mary doesn't follow the rules of the house and while the others are reading their parts in the play she is out walking. She doesn't need Mortar's lessons in acting either.

She has already learned to act and adlib in each situation when her lies get her into trouble. When the teacher, head mistress Karen Wright played by a stately and lovely Lesa Bydalek questions her, Mary fakes an illness and adds lie upon lie.

Wright's fiance arrives, the Dr. Joseph Cardin who is Mary's Uncle, and examines her to find nothing wrong. Well aware of the young girl's deviations, he recognizes her phoniness. Then, Wright makes the mistake of punishing Mary by grounding her — an act that sets the entire tragedy in motion. Mary has figured out how to manipulate and play her adoring grandmother against the disciplining teachers, and frighten her classmates into submissively supporting her. Twelve-year-old Blackwell plays the cunning little brat with an annoying smugness that grinds Katherine Hardy is good as the frightened Rosalie.

Kimberley Britt's tight direction of this drama is best in the pivotal scene between the two headmistresses Karen Wright (Lesla Bydalek) and Martha Dodie (Sarah James). In the smooth dialogue, it becomes apparent that the nervous Martha has three problems — student Mary, Aunt Lily, and the upcoming marriage of her business partner and friend Karen to Joe played by Kevin Edwards.

Britt and her cast give a 90s interpretation of what the play calls "unnatural affection" but what the story is mostly about is the destructiveness of false accusations. When Mary leaves the school and goes home to avoid her punishment, she expounds upon her lies to keep her grandmother from sending her back to school and certain disciplinary actions.

Judy Privasky is the proud and stalwart grandmother Amelia Tilford who prejudicially acts on Mary's misinformation.

Privasky's dignity and Sheila Lyle's capriciousness as Amelia and Lily make this drama believable. Sarah James has the subtlety tuned acting skills as the unstable Martha to bring the drama to its climatic conclusion.

Tom Russel and Diane Tihan-sky and the other students (Julia Rudolf, Kristin Halladay, Tara Subbarao, Trisha Poling, Jennifer Burstein, Katherine Hardy).

Kristen Freels, Katherine Timpf, enhance the production.

If it were not for the fact this drama has been repeated too often on the nightly news, this classic might be passed off as only a play. It is a play though with more than an ounce of truth.

Great music, cast in 'Beau Jest'

Ridgedale Players presents "Beau Jest," at the playhouse, 205 W. Long Lake, between Crooks and Livernois, Troy, 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, March 12-13 and 19-20, and 3 p.m. Sundays, March 14 and 21. Tickets $11. $10 students/seniors on Sundays. Call (248) 988-7049.

BY HELEN ZUCKER SPECIAL WRITER

The Ridgedale Players production of James Sherman's comedy "Beau Jest" has great music, a lively cast, and lots of Jewish in-jokes that almost everyone in America understands by now.

Ably directed by veterans James R. West and Lynn R.E. Cummings, the characters' motivations are crystal clear, and the tight little world of the Goldman family is as claustrophobic as only a Jewish mother (and Mrs. Bennet in "Pride and Prejudice") can make it.

Jack Abella is wonderfully deft as Abe Goldman, the father with too many birthday ties, an unmarried daughter, and a wife who cannot agree on how long it took them to park, what night they saw Jay Leno, and how long the seder should go on.

Abella's accent is accurate; he lends authenticity as a man who started as a tailor and now that he owns two dry cleaning stores wants to open another. Of course, he has a heart condition; there are no Jewish fathers with healthy arteries.

Selma Cohen is in fine fettle as Mom Miriam; she brings the same bowl of luchschen kugel (noodle & raisin pudding) whenever she shows up; it must be warmed in the oven, not the microwave. The kugel is a symbol of Mrs. Goldman's desire to keep things the same. Selma Cohen exudes warmth — as long as she thinks her daughter is about to marry a Jewish doctor. Cohen was made for this role; she understands this woman who wants nothing but to be about the business of calling caterers and narrying off her daughter.

Lynn Koch plays an understandably nervous Sarah Goldman. Koch gives us an intelligent, slightly ditz kindergarten teacher who's attracted to guys who aren't Jewish. Sarah wants to please her parents and is so afraid of hurting them that she hires an actor to impersonate a "Doctor David," and winds up with two boyfriends who aren't Jewish. Like Elizabeth Bennet in "Pride and Prejudice," there is no way Sarah is going to repeat her parent's marriage.

Carl Jones nearly steals the show as Bob/Dave, the hired actor from an escort service who stays to escort Sarah through her travails, and presumably through the rest of her life.

Bob is funny, friendly, apt, in need of a family, and does very well at the family seder, having played Perchick in "Fiddler on the Roof."

Thom Griffen is wonderfully sad and angry as Sarah's brother, a divorced psychologist who understands his sister and hands out therapy right and left. As Joel Goldman, Griffen gives us a dutiful son and brother who manages to look like a lost swan.

Eric Henrickson was standing in for Scott A. Joseph as Chris, the lovesick boyfriend who works in an add agency at the performance I saw. Henrickson was especially good in the last act: his proposal and offer to convert were both manly and funny.

Kudos to the tech staff, especially Sonia Milton and crew: nice touches like kedem wine, the Farmer Jack Haggadah, helped. So did Mike Flum's set. Great slippers by Terri Garrett and Dolores Grier

JIMMIE JACKSON AND THE BLUES CONNECTION

'Analyze This' so funny it would be a crime to miss it

SPECIAL WRITER

You say you wanna sink into your movie seat and be intellectually challenged? You wanna meditate on life and love and how bad that popcorn butter is for you? You wanna lose yourself in the Elizabethan era of those Shakespearean Oscar contenders? Well "FUHGETABOUTIT!"

"Analyze This" will keep you too busy laughing and mimicking Robert De Niro's mob-speak to engage in such loftier pursuits. Perhaps the ultimate tribute one can give a comedy is that even the straight lines are punch lines. This is such a comedy. De Niro, perhaps our greatest contemporary film actor, was understandably concerned about playing what is essentially a parody of the very character he's turned into a franchise. Fortunately, he decided that "the time had come for me to poke a little fun at myself." He's awfully funny, and, hopefully, Joe Pesci's not around to grill us on what we mean by "funny."

Billy Crystal is a perfect joke-mate for De Niro; he's best-suited at setting up and reacting to the gag while letting his partner fill in the funny middle. It works when he knows his place ("Throw Momma From the Train") and doesn't work when he tries to wear the baggy pants himself ("Mr. Saturday Night"). In "Analyze This," De Niro is

Paul Vitti, capo (boss) of one of New York's mob families, who as a child witnessed his gangster father being slain. With a big meeting coming up to decide who will be capo de capo, Vitti suffers a series of panic attacks. He cries while watching a life insurance commercial; he can't get it on with his mistress; hey, he can't even whack a stoolie. Confiding to his huge henchman Jelly (Joseph Viterelli), he wonders whether he might need a head doctor-a shrink.

"This is like one of those psychic ESPN things," says the Runyonesque Jelly, who was in an auto collision with psychiatrist Ben Sobol (Crystal) just the night before. The doc is not thrilled about taking on a new patient with such a high - and wanted - profile. ("When I got into family therapy this is not the family I had in mind"). This particular patient, however, doesn't take no - or even maybe - for an answer.

So Ben finds himself on-call 24/7. No matter that he's in the middle of his marriage ceremony to Lisa Kudrow; when the boss cries, you come. It's not so easy, he finds, to treat a goodfella. When Ben suggests that Vitti might have an Oedipal complex, his patient is a bit defensive ("I don't wanna hear no more filth about my mother").

Crystal soars in the final scene when he must assume the role of Vitti's "con-sig-li-lari," presenting himself to the other bosses as "Benny the Groin, Tubby the Tuba, Elmer the Fudd." Certainly he had an uncredited hand in the writing of this bit, as well as a dream sequence that salutes the first "Godfather" movie (Crystal had previously recognized "Godfather II" in "City

PHILIP CARUSO/WARNER BROS.

Comedy: Paul Vitti (Robert De Niro), Dr. Ben Sobol (Billy Crystal, center) and Laura MacNamara (Lisa Kudrow) in "Analyze This."

Slickers II"). "Analyze This" is not, however, an "Airplane" style burlesque, the kind that Leslie Nielsen attempted in "Mafia." It doesn't put a twist on the genre; rather, the film pulls it into another dimension: ours. Director Harold Ramis ("Groundhog Day") is the ideal maestro for just this kind of comedy. His pacing and editing are masterful, although at least four shots with a visible boom mic slipped into the final print.

Don't sweat it, then; you won't need to brush up your Shakespeare. A little review of "Guys and Dolls" and you're made in the shade, pally.

'Lock, Stock, Barrels,' tortuous film

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Want to catch a movie that will make you feel really good? Then, by all means, don't miss "Lock, Stock, and Two Smoking Barrels." It's absolutely packed with uplifting stuff like a human torch, a hatchet murder, drug and porn kingpins. And it's just crawling with a kaleidoscopic collection of idiots who have little trouble outdoing each other when it comes to ineptitude.

If ever a movie came out of the carnage-is-comedy school of filmmaking, "Lock, Stock, and Two Smoking Barrels" is that movie.

"Lock, Stock, and Two Smoking Barrels" is a tortuous movie with a tortuous plot, although that serpentine plot certainly doesn't render it into anything slow-moving. Essentially, it tells the story of four close London pals who find themselves in big trouble and big debt after a fixed card game.

Eddie (Nick Moran), Tom (Jason Flemyng), Bacon (Jason Statham), and Soop (Dexter Fletcher) have to find a way to repay porn king Hatchet Harry (P.H. Moriarty) or, within a week, handsome Eddie loses his fingers and then some.

While the quartet, none of whom are exactly geniuses, struggle mightily to come up with some idea of how to solve the problem, various matters keep gumming up the works - including marijuana, coke, Hatchet Harry's porn empire, and, especially, those two smoking barrels of the title.

As the movie zips along at a rather breathless pace, American audiences may find themselves actually hoping for subtitles. Although most of the characters certainly aren't swift, their East End vowels seem beyond comprehension at times.

To give credit where it's due, Ritchie, in his debut film, demonstrates that he definitely knows how to manipulate an audience, keeping movie-goers at seat's edge from start to nail-biting end. Production qualities are not just clever, they are stylish and highly imaginative. He's employed everything from split-screen shots to voice-overs to bits borrowed from other films to freeze frames (the card game and its aftermath seem suggestive of a strange, painful dance) to consistently creative low lighting that makes this monstrous world and its people come disturbingly to life.

You might look at "Lock, Stock, and Two Smoking Barrels" as something loose and screaming out of the pages of Mad Magazine, turned loud, large, mean and nasty. It may be British, but it may not exactly be your cup of tea.

Crash Test Dummies singer tries a soulful falsetto

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Tell the Crash Test Dummies' lead singer Brad Roberts that his band's forthcoming album, "Give Yourself a Hand," sounds like War meets the Crash Test Dummies and he'll let out a hearty laugh.

"I like 'Superfly' meets the Crash Test Dummies," he offered in his trademark baritone voice.

Roberts was inspired to massage the sound of the Crash Test Dummies after moving to New York.

"The last time I went there I tried to find an apartment. I found a place that happened to be in Harlem. I kept hearing people singing in falsetto all over the place, of course, so I started singing falsetto in the shower just for fun," Roberts explained.

Realizing he had a falsetto voice, Roberts began writing groovier, bluesy numbers for "Give Yourself a Hand," due in stores March 23. The folk-inspired, orchestral pop tunes have been replaced by wispy falsetto vocals, drum machines and even some rapping.

"Everyone who hears the single can't believe it's us," he said of "Keep a Lid on Things." "I either whisper or I sing falsetto. Usually I sing bass baritone, 'La, la, la, la.' I didn't do either. It made the lyrics go in a different direction, too. Before I was writing about different ideas, now it's more about prostitutes and going to seedy bars. It's a little change of pace, but it all comes together in the end."

The Crash Test Dummies will preview "Give Yourself a Hand" tonight at Second City 2301 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Roberts is looking forward to the challenge of reproducing the music

The Crash Test Dummies and special guest Big Rude Jake perform at 7 p.m. Tickets are $30 for Gold Circle seating and $25 general admission. For more information, call (313) 965-2222. The concert kicks off the "Dine Out Detroit" benefit which takes place Friday. Local restaurants will donate 10 percent of that day's lunch and dinner sales to the Midwest AIDS Prevention Project (MAPP). For a complete list of participating restaurants, call MAPP at (248) 545-1435.

New name, old faces

Kris Kohls, drummer/percussionist for Videodrone, is not afraid to admit his true feelings about opening for Korn and Rob Zombie in arenas around the United States.

"I'm gonna throw up. We've been looking forward to this forever. It's gonna be great. We're a little nervous," said Kohls, a Bakersfield, Calif., native.

Touring is nothing strange to Videodrone. For 10 years it strapped on guitars at dingy, sweaty rock clubs as Cradle of Thorns. The band decided to ditch the name and its sound during the recording session for what turned out to be Videodrone's self-titled debut record. Videodrone called upon hometown friend and Korn bassist Reginald "Fieidy" Arvizu to produce the record.

When Arvizu took the band in a different direction, Kohls explained that the band took a different name.

"The sound, I think, was a natural progression if you listen to old Cradle stuff. We just kind of progressed into this and we're using more technology now and all that," Kohls explained.

"We just kind of progressed into this and we're using more technology now and all that."

The album marks the first time the band members had called on an outside producer. The result, Kohls said, was a much more focused record.

"One of the problems with our older stuff was we went in so many different directions. We have so many different influences. He actually tried to hone us in one thing. If you listen to the new Korn record, every song is different.

But it's still one vibe. As far as the songs and music and the way the record came out, none of that was planned. We all got in a room and what came out came out."

The guests on Videodrone's album, released on Korn's Reprise Records-distributed label Elementree, reads like a who's who of alt-rock hitmakers - Korn singer Jonathan Davis, Korn guitarist Brian "Head" Welch, Fred Durst and DJ Lethal of Limp Bizkit, and Duke and Jacken of the now-defunct Psycho Realm.

Psycho Realm, an off-shoot of the rap act Cypress Hill, broke up late last month after Duke was left paralyzed after a reported gang shooting.

"Pretty much the whole project was just like a dream. It was such a great time with all these guys coming in that you respect."

"We're proud of Cradle of Thorns. It was just time to move on. Videodrone just fits us more now. Cradle of Thorns was us at 16 and listening to the Cure too much, Depeche Mode and all that. We're into a whole new trip. This record is the record of our lives. It's the best thing we've ever done as us five guys."

Korn, Rob Zombie and Videodrone perform Saturday at The Palace of Auburn Hills, 2 Championship Dr., Auburn Hills. Tickets are $29.50 reserved and general admission floor. Showtime is 7 p.m. For more information, call (248) 377-0100 or visit <http://www.palacenet.com>

Friendly O'Malley's offers something for everyone

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER
kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

Relaxing after a busy lunch, Patrick Kelly was smiling. O'Malley's Bar & Grill in Livonia, which he owns with his son Brian, has been doing well since it opened on Feb. 17.

There's only a small paper sign on the door, but people seem to be finding O'Malley's, which is tucked into a shopping plaza on the corner of Farmington and Five Mile roads.

They'll be open at 7 a.m. on St. Patrick's Day and have special events throughout the day, including bagpipers at 3 p.m.

Kelly said he chose "O'Malley's" because it's a "catchy, easy-to-remember name."

"We're a family style restaurant with a great bar," he said. "We get a lot of families in here," adds general manager Sandra Bingamen, pointing to the children's menu. There are also booster chairs and high chair for little ones.

The menu offers something for everyone. They have a saying at O'Malley's — "When Irish eyes are smiling, there's always something cooking at O'Malley's!"

"We wanted some great corned beef, which everyone says we have," said Kelly. Tender baby back barbecue ribs prepared with Chef Tony Tocco's sauce are another specialty.

Order a New York Strip Steak, broiled pork chops, or barbecue chicken. If you're hungry for some Irish fare, try Shawn's Shepherd Pie or the Where: 15231 Farmington Road, (at Five Mile Road), Livonia (734) 427-7775.

Hours: 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. Monday-Saturday; noon to midnight, Sunday. Opening 7 a.m. on St. Patrick's Day.

Menu: Something for everyone including sandwiches, salads, soups, Irish specialties, ribs, chicken and fish. Children's menu: Available corned beef and cabbage.

Cost: Sandwiches $3.95-$6.25; entrees $7.50-$14.95.

O'Malley's also offers deep fried lake perch, fish & chips, broiled white fish, shrimp, and a Catch of the Day. "You can order any item on the menu blackened or Cajun-style at no extra cost," said Bingamen.

Pasta lovers can choose from spaghetti, mostaccioli or Chicken Parmesan. On Friday's and Saturday's, O'Malley's features prime rib dinners, 8 ounce for $10.95 or 10 ounce for $13.95.

sandwiches. From the usual tuna salad, stacked turkey and ham to the "Go Fish! Sandwich," and Portabella Burger — char-broiled giant mushroom cap topped with tomato and Mozzarella cheese on an onion bun. All sandwiches are served with soup of the day and Zapp's potato chips. Patrick Kelly serves Zapp's potato chips because he likes them. They're shipped in from Louisiana.

Be sure to ask about the daily lunch and dinner specials.

"Our corned beef is awesome and our hamburgers are great," said Bingamen. "We offer a friendly atmosphere. This is a fun place to work. People seem to enjoy themselves when they come in."

Sit at one of the booths or tables for four. There are eight TVs, four in the bar area and four in the dining room.

O'Malley's offers "wonderful wines," cocktails, five beers on tap and 22 bottled beers including some that are alcohol-free. Finish your meal with dessert and an Irish coffee.

Soft drinks, juice, and even a tropical smoothie delight made with a blend of tropical juices, are also on the menu.
