Best Buy to take Handy Andy site

Best Buy's retail operations at 35300 Central City Parkway will move east to the long-vacant Handy Andy site at the corner of Wayne Road by late October. The current store will remain open until the new one is ready to open.

Best Buy will move its growing Westland business east on Central City Parkway to the long-vacant Handy Andy building - eliminating a glaring eyesore and creating new jobs, officials said.

"We're practically doubling our space," Jacki Cook-Haxby, regional development manager, said. "The store will be larger, so that would indicate to me that there will be more employees.'

Westland library patrons will now have the book thrown at them for having overdue materials.

Keep a detective novel too long and end up a criminal. No fiction.

Library officials, accusing some patrons of theft of materials, have started turning names over to Westland police. "If they wish to avoid police contact, Chief Emery Price warned, "then they need to return the books." Book bandits could face prosecution under a city ordinance for theft of library materials - punishable by a maximum 90day jail term and a $500 fine.

"We haven't yet prosecuted anyone," assistant city prosecutor Joanna Bennett said. "But it's starting."

Library officials say they're launching a crackdown to recoup tens of thousands of dollars in materials that delinquent patrons are keeping from other customers.

Missing library materials amount to $72,500. Joe Burchill, assistant to the director, said.

GATEWAY-TO-THE-WORLD-

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI . STAFF WRITER

As diverse as are the communities of Farmington, Farmington Hills, Garden City, Westland, the Plymouths, Canton, Redford and Livonia, one thing is certain: the libraries remain perhaps the most popular and well-used institution in each community.

That's true whether the library began in old Farmington schoolhouses, a Livonia storefront, a fire hall in Redford, or as a brand new multimillion dollar building in Westland.

From their beginnings, libraries in each of our communities were faced with a common problem - once they existed, you couldn't keep people away from them.

That fact holds true today, despite increased disposable income that would allow an average patron to buy books, CDs, a computer - maybe even a copying machine.

Ask anyone on the street about libraries and they will likely tell you that a library is a gateway to all kinds of information. The challenge today - compared to the late 1800s when the Farmington library started. or the 1950s when the Livonia library began, or 1980 when Canton's took shape - is how you choose to access that information.

Today is the start of National Library Week. We chose this edition of the Observer to tell you about libraries and how they've changed. Where once you had to use a cumbersome card catalog to find a book or magazine, today you turn on a computer for the same - and even more information.

But it all comes at a cost. Each day, more demands are put on libraries for materials and computer services - and for space. Take a look at some of our libraries and NATIONAL the pushes for expansion. The Plymouth District Library

WEEK last year opened a new and larger library on the site where the former library stood. The Farmington Hills branch will be expanded and improvements made at the branch in downtown Farmington. A couple of years ago, Westland - its residents > had used other communities' libraries - finally opened its own library. Today. Livonia has three branches. In Canton, plans are under way to expand the library by another 21,000 square feet.

As with any type of financing, it's never easy to understand. But we will give you some idea of just what goes into a library budget and where the money comes from. The changes have also affected how libraries are staffed, as well as created a need for more volunteers.

Despite our computer age, books remain as popular as ever. Some libraries, such as Farmington, have increased their book budgets because patrons still demand the latest titles and still demand books that you might not readily find in a bookstore. And if you can't find it in your local library, the staff will get it for you through an interlibrary loan. The same goes for CDs, video tapes, record albums, cassettes - well, you name it.

The truth is, people love libraries and they are - if not already increasingly becoming gathering places in a community. The library of old where children were continually hushed are now replaced with study areas where students may talk. In others, large easy chairs have replaced straight-backed chairs so patrons may have a casual hour reading a book in front of a fireplace. And in still others, we hear rumblings that a nice coffee bar would be a tremendous stride to further making a library a place where you can relax, or start some serious research.

It's all in how you choose to use

Many libraries provide access to the Internet, and some have fax machines too. Librarians can help you find the book you're looking for, and a Web site that contains up-to-the-minute information about what's happening in Kosovo.

Farmington, Livonia, Plymouth, and Westland regularly offer classes to help you find what you're looking for on the Internet.

If you live in Canton, Farmington, or Farmington Hills, you can apply for a Metro Net Account at the library and access the Internet, and specialized data bases from home. WORLD

"Information technology is not a fad. There are more resources available digitally," said Farmington Public Library Director Beverly Papai.

Think of the Internet as a gateway - it gives you access to the World Wide Web, the part of the Internet that contains pictures, text, sound and graphics.

"More and more resources will be available through the Internet," predicts Joan Elmouchi, director of the Garden City Public Library. "Some things previously available in purchased format will be Internet based."

Garden City has two Internet stations at its library. They're gateways to a world of information, some of which isn't available on your home

"The library program Access Michigan is bringing informational data bases to libraries through the Internet," she said. "They're very powerful data bases that are expensive to subscribe to."

Most libraries charge a nominal fee, usually 10 cents a page, to print copies of information you find on the Interthat they don't mean to embarrase them by having police officers knock on their doors.

"By the time the library contacts the police, they have already sent out an overdue notice and, two weeks after that, a bill for the replacement cost." Burchill said. "Patrons either have ignored these notices or have moved and did not let us know."

Police will initially send letters asking that overdue materials be returned. Patrons have 20 days to come clean or face prosecution, library officials say.

"Prosecution is something we do not want to do, but we have an obligation to the taxpayers of Westland," Burchill said. "It is our responsibility to maintain our collection and account for these items."

Deputy Police Chief Lennis Hayes compared the new program to warning motorists about roadway offenses before cracking

"This is like a traffic program. We're looking for voluntary compliance before we become involved," he said.

When asked if chasing library police time, Price responded that officers often investigate shoplifting cases that involve items with small price tags. "These are (library) fines that are in some cases up in the hundreds of dollars," he said. "It's still your tax dollars. If the library can't get a response (from patrons), where else can they Deputy Chief Daniel Pfannes said overdue materials amount to "depleting the resources of the public" so that other patrons can't enjoy the materials.

Patrons prosecuted under the new plan will face only misdemeanors.

"We want to keep track of the cases here in the city instead of having them go to Wayne County," assistant prosecutor Bennett

And what if patrons adamantly claim they returned books that they're accused of not bringing back?

"There's always a defense to any criminal charge," Bennett said. "It's up to a judge or a jury to determine whether it's a believable defense or whether we (as prosecutors) have met our patrons is an efficient use of burden of proof."

The system's internal scanner reads the book's bar code, records the transaction and electronically deprograms the book's security marker so the patron can leave the library with it. Once an item is checked out, the system prints a due-date slip to complete the transaction.

"We've found the SelfCheck System to be a wonderful addition to our library," Burchill said, "Our patrons enjoy the freedom and privacy that accompany the self-checkout and because of the time our staff saves on checkout, they enjoy the opportunity to provide better customer service to those who need help in the library."

The system handles about 25 percent of the library's transactions, Burchill said.

Superintendent candidates

Study says fewer educators seek top spot

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER trichard@oe.homecomm.net

The stories coming out of school board meetings are true: Fewer educators are applying to become school superintendents.

School boards are alarmed when even a $120,000 salary offer may fail to attract a lot of candidates.

"Candidates for leadership positions in public schools have been declining for at least a decade." say two Oakland University professors in a new report commissioned by the Michigan Association of School Boards.

School boards can deal with the problem by paying more and by dealing more professionally with inevitable conflicts.

Candidates for superintendent "do not want to seek positions in districts where the board and superintendent have had a history of conflict," say Drs. William G. Keane and Duane Moore. "(A) history of such conflicts will apparently severely reduce the number of applicants."

Keane, who headed the Oakland Intermediate School District for 14 years and worked with many boards to resolve conflict, had this advice:

"Conflicts are normal in human relations, but some boards work quietly to resolve problems without acrimony while others become the newspapers' delight, providing reporters with a story every board meeting."

Boards can make searches easier by deciding early whether they want to promote from within. Reason: 64 percent of outside superintendents are discouraged if they believe an in-house candidate has the inside track. Don't do a "high profile 'intergalactic' search only to find the perfect person down the hall. Look down the hall first," they advise.

Pay is a big motivator. A jump of 15-20 percent is needed to lure 37 percent of potential candidates, the authors reported.

An assistant or director in a safe district doesn't want to jump to a financially strapped problem district as superintendent without a big pay increase. The flip side of the problem is that the board has trouble explaining to voters why it's offering big money to the new chief executive.

Other reasons for the shortage of superintendent candidates:

■ "The heavy time commitment required of the superinten-

The declining mobility of candidates due to two-income families.

The growing number of single-issue school board candidates." The writers didn't elaborate on this point except to suggest that "the community church has decided that certain literature previously studied in school is objectionable."

The turnover rate of superintendents.'

The report is entitled "The Disappearing Superintendent Candidate." Keane and Moore. former Wayne-Westland superintendent, surveyed 604 local and intermediate districts last fall, getting "usable responses" from 63 percent of superintendents and about half of other high-echelon administrators well beyond the 35 percent needed to draw conclusions.

The superintendent's job is important, they argue, because he or she has the key role in selecting principals. The CEO also "drives the vision building process and helps clarify belief about the ability of all children to learn."

Candidates want to go to a district "with more support for schools from the community (62 percent), more help for the superintendent is available (60 percent), where there is labor peace (50 percent), a larger district (44 percent)."

Others want a district "closer to family (33 percent)," where there's no need to relocate (25 percent) and where there is "better student achievement" (25 percent).

Assistant superintendents thinking of moving upward look first for "opportunities to be a leader."

Superintendents and other educational leaders seek public recognition. "Comments by board members at public meetings recognizing specific contributions of the superintendent and other high officials are energizing," the authors say.

"Small acts of recognition by parent groups, booster clubs, business officials and individual citizens make a difference. School boards can create a climate where recognition of staff at all levels becomes a habit."

Cancer Society's relay event to expand here

The American Cancer Society's signature event, "Relay For Life," will expand into 23 communities including Canton, Garden City and Livonia to fight cancer and celebrate surviving it.

"Relay For Life' is about a community taking up the fight against cancer," said Victoria Rakowski, vice president for cancer control, American Cancer Society, Great Lakes Division. "Last year we conducted a pilot program with only four local events, and its success has prompted us to bring Relay to several new communities throughout southeastern Michigan."

This nationwide program began in 1985 when a volunteer conducted a one-man marathon and raised $27,000. In 1998, "Relay" raised more than $100 million nationwide. Today, thousands of Americans have passed the baton, with more than 2,500 communities nationwide hosting "Relay For Life" events. In 1998, Michigan residents raised more than $3 million through 87 events, and 1999 is expected be an even greater success, with nearly 100 events held throughout the

The event is usually in a school, park or civic center and typically lasts for 24 hours, with team members taking turns walking around a track. During the event a celebratory atmosphere is created by camping team members, who are enjoying entertainment, food, games and community camaraderie.

Beginning each event is a victory lap made up of cancer survivors. And, as the sun goes down, luminaries line the track in remembrance of those touched by cancer and to remind participants of the importance of their contribu-

LEGAL SENSE

By Mark Slavens, P.C. Attorney at Law

A MATTER OF TIME

One of the first determinations an attorney will make during the initial consultation with a prospective client concerns the "statue of limitations." Whether a person has been injured in an accident or has reason to initiate a malpractice suit, his or her cause of action (the complaint that sets forth the grounds for the lawsuit) must be filed within a specified time after the cause of action first occurred. Those who have the right to sue must do so within a specified time period. If that time period has elapsed, the lawsuit may be dismissed for non-compliance with the statute of limitations. Thus, those who have been injured have every reason to consult with an attorney in a timely manner.

If you think you have a cause of action, you should consult with an attorney sooner rather than later. Aside from filing within the allotted time period, you should be counseled about how to document and preserve evidence you will need later on. Better to plan well and have all the information and evidence you require at hand than to try to reconstruct an incident at a later date.

HINT: Many criminal offenses are also subject to statutes of limitations.

Libraries are powered by people

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER brown@oe.homecomm.net

Public libraries spend the biggest chunk of their budgets on staff - people helping people.

"The materials would not be well-used if they sat here," said Jean Tabor, director of the Canton Public Library.

"Without trained people, you can't run a decent library," said Fred Paffhausen, director of the Redford District Library. He budgets 60 percent for salaries and benefits, 28 percent for books and materi-

Libraries compete with industry for good staff. And the tight job market presents challenges. Especially when it comes to finding children's librarians.

"They're so difficult to replace," said Beverly Papai, director of the Farmington Community Library. That work PEOPLE takes a special person, a different HELPING approach including educational PEOPLE learning concepts, she added.

When she needs one, Papai advertises in local newspapers, the newsletter of the public library cooperative (The Library Network), and the library schools at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

"We have a little over 100 people on the payroll between the two branches," said Papai, who oversees branches in Farmington and Farmington Hills. Her lineup has 14 full-time librarians, including Papai, four part-time librarians and 10 substitutes.

Support staff includes 13 full-timers, 22 part-timers and 33 pages, who shelve books. The library has 41 part-time volun-

The Plymouth District Library has eight full-time librarians including herself, said Director Pat Thomas.

It's much more useful to have generalists, staff with varied undergraduate backgrounds, as librarians, Thomas said. Specialties include journalism and genealogy.

Support staff qualifications vary. All adults are high school grads and a few have master's degrees. The job market is tight now, with more women working outside the home.

"A lot of the women want to go back to work full time," Thomas said. That's also true for volunteer recruiting.

Support staff in Plymouth numbers 11-12 FTEs (full-time equivalents).

Librarian jobs now require a master's done additional graduate work. Their salaries have started to improve, Thomas finds. Her profession was dominated by women for a long time, but as society becomes more information-oriented salaries improve. A trade publication listed $30,000 as starting salary for librarian with a master's and no experience. "It's low for a master's degree, there's no doubt it's low," Tabor said, "They're better, but they're not what they should be."

Page is an entry position. pays $6 an hour in Farmington. "We likely will be increasing that," Papai said.

Her library now sees healthier, more active seniors, some of whom work as pages, which used to be a student job.

Volunteers are becoming an important part of the staffing equation.

Plymouth gets many couples as volunteers, including some who took early retirements. "We're able to get people. We have to be more creative," Thomas said. There are about 30 regular volunteers who come in at least once a week.

tor, Marcia Barker.

"We have excellent volunteers," Tabor said. "We do use volunteers extensively ... people who are just looking to make a contribution to the community." Many are retirees, younger people.

The Canton Public Library has 22 librarians, with 14 part time. "We're pretty lucky," Tabor said. "We have a lot of people who want to work here."

Canton's library has 49 full- and parttime support staffers, some with high school diplomas, some with additional education. "For the most part, we do pretdegree in library science, and some have 'ty well. We don't have a lot of turnover," Tabor said.

She attributed this to a good workplace with accommodating schedules and camaraderie.

The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland has a director: four classified as Librarian II (librarian supervisors who are full time); two as Librarian I who are full time; two part-time Librarian I; four library associates in children's; two full-time and nine parttime library assistants; 20 parttime pages; and five other fulltimers in assistant or clerical

"Hiring a skilled and qualified staff is a requirement to providing excellent service," said Sandra Wilson, Westland director. "We have been fortunate with the staff we have selected. We emphasize both ability and a user-friendly attitude.' Westland volunteers come primarily from high schools and seniors and others from the community. Community service workers from local district courts and others help out.

"It's always a challenge to recruit and retain good volunteers," said Joe Burchill, Canton has a paid volunteer coordina--volunteer coordinator. "Because we compete with other organizations for volunteer time, we strive to provide our volunteers with challenging tasks, a pleasant environment and, most importantly, recognition that they are providing a valuable service to the library and their community."

Joan Elmouchi, director, Garden City Public Library, is one of two full-timers. The other, an assistant, has a teaching degree. The library has two part-time librarians and two reference aides, both with teaching degrees. Staff totals 13, including support.

"Competition to get part-time people can be kind of tough," Elmouchi said.

A. Michael Deller, city librarian, Livonia, oversees Livonia Civic Center Library, plus branches of Sandburg, Noble and Vest Pocket in the senior cen-

The system has 22 full-time librarians, including Deller, and one 20-hour librarian. Support staff, whose duties include checking materials out and in, numbers about 30 full-time equivalents.

"We have volunteers who are very important to us in our Vest Pocket library," Deller said. "Without them, it wouldn't exist."

Those volunteers shelve books, check them in and out and serve as a PR link. "Their role is important," Deller said.

Volunteers include organizations that work with library on projects, including Western Wayne County Genealogical Society, Livonia Heart Fund and two Lions Clubs.

Paffhausen said the Redford library has five full-time librarians, including himself, and four part-time aides, one with a master's in library science; others are teachers (two) and an author.

There are two clerk-typists, two circulation supervisors and five pages for processing and shelving.

Volunteers include a couple of Mormons on mission work a couple days a week. Redford also gets district court assignments. "They bring skills that sometimes are needed," said Paffhausen, adding that he learned Lotus 123 that way.

The big bookstores where patrons can browse while sipping latte and munching a biscotti are the current rage - just stop by your local Borders or Barnes & Noble for a firsthand look.

The popularity of the big chain bookstores doesn't necessarily mean competition for the public libraries.

"Myself, I don't feel there is any competition. There is a niche for both," said Fred Paffhausen, Redford District Library director. "It's up to us to try and work smarter and better."

As Paffhausen noted, libraries aren't necessarily in the business of providing copies of best sellers.

"You might have to wait six weeks for a best seller. We provide access to bodies of work," Paffhausen said. "We each have our place in the grand scheme of literacy." Libraries providè a different service than retail booksellers, agreed Sandra

Wilson, Westland library director. "I don't feel we're competing with Barnes & Noble. We help with service. We're more into information," Wilson

Even if similar collections were offered Deller. "We had someone who needed provide assistance in locating informa- sailed in races."

Another obvious factor working in the library's favor is the cost - books are checked out at no charge.

"New books are $24-30 for fiction. People can't afford to buy five or six new books a year," said Wilson. "Our library is really 56 libraries (belonging to The Library Network) and other libraries through interlibrary loans."

Livonia City Librarian A. Michael Deller agreed that libraries can offer materials that can't be obtained in book stores that need quick merchandise

"We look to other libraries for materials we didn't buy or that have been damaged," Deller said. "We get 500 interlibrary loans each month in here and 500-700 go out. We keep the delivery trucks moving.

Interlibrary loans, which take place across the country, allow patrons to get specialized books that their local library can't justify buying.

"We have people in the community who are highly trained in their fields," said or other items that aren't checked out.

Before the Civic Center branch opened in 1988, the Livonia library circulated 300,000-400,000 items annually. Now, that figure is over 700,000.

"That's a major difference in the amount of use. People find the library easy to get to," Deller said. "It's bigger. They can use the gift shop and other things that weren't in place 10 years ago." During his seven years heading Red-ford's library, Paffhausen reports a similar increase. The annual circulation more than doubled to more than 250,000 items and the number of library cards issued went from 10,000 to more than 22,000.

"Usage is up dramatically. Our goal plan was to make the library more userfriendly and introduce automation," said Paffhausen. "Then there was a district library millage campaign and the millage was passed. It tripled our book budget."

Redford's library building was constructed in 1960 with an addition built in 1962. Over the last five and a half years, $800,000 has been invested in new carpeting, air conditioning, computers and other bookstores.

If everyone agrees that it must be so, then it must be so. Public libraries don't compete with

And as libraries have expanded their services to include videos, compact disks/tapes and computer access, they don't directly compete with stores that sell or lease those items, either. That's what people say.

Why is this an issue? Because businesses pay municipal property taxes, a portion of which could be used to fund library operations and competition against themselves.

Libraries loan out books and magazines free, tapes and music at no charge or a very low fee, usually $1.

"At first there was a lot of complaints from (video) merchants," said Fred Paffhausen, Redford District Library director.

"What they found out was libraries concentrated on things they didn't have: how-to tapes, non-fiction stuff. Civil War series, history. Thongs you won't find in video stores.

A lot of things we concentrate on is classics. We don't buy new releases. I don't think we compete at all," Paffnausen said.

A Michael Deller, city librarian in Livonia, picked up on the theme.

When video tapes were new and very expensive, some stores were very concerned. They have developed a strength we can't afford multiple copies of popular things. We're not there for instant gratification of need." Edwin Dabish, owner/manager of

Two missions: Kay Marshall, who shops for music at Harmony House, intends to visit a library to research music and videos for her wedding.

Video Premier in Redford, has been around for years and doesn't consider libraries to be a business threat.

"They cannot carry all the variety we have here," Dabish said. "Number two, the movies they have aren't going to be top quality. Libraries are good for documentary, specialeducation tapes. We have some. I believe they have more.'

"We have more selection," added Mike Mosier, assistant manager at Blockbuster Video in Canton.

Jamie Smith, regional manager for Harmony House, said his company looks at libraries as cultural community resources.

"People use libraries as an entertainment/intellectual tool more so than a shopping experience at Harmony House or one of our true competitors," Smith said. "We don't actually consider libraries our competition. Some actually buy from Kinko's does. If what a person is couple of older videos in hand at the us."

stores sometimes complement each other. "Many people will use our collection to see if they like something, then go out and buy," he said.

Even bookstores, apparently, have gone way beyond competing with libraries. Matt Brooks is a manager, Jill Janavikas a sales clerk at Waldenbooks in Westland Center.

"A library is more reference than anything," Brooks said. "Libraries are limited in quantity. Here, we can have upwards of 60 copies. At the library, you have to sign up on a waiting list."

"There's a big difference between people who want to own books and borrow," Janavikas said. "I like to read them over and over. You can read at your own pace (owning)."

"Most libraries are coming in and buying from us," Brooks said.

Even computer access, which most libraries offer free in half-hour reserved blocks, isn't a threat to businesses like Kinko's that charge to use computers, library directors say.

"Their market is different, mostly business types," Paffhausen said. "They have on-staff people who can help teach them, do full service printing, maybe run laser copies. They could care less about us."

Kids are most likely to use library computers for research, typing school réports or playing games, adults for research and typing resumes or letters.

"Complaints we've got in the past is copies at a library aren't really good, clean copies for a resume," going to copy here. They will go to a often than I go to the video store."

professional."

That's exactly what brought Michael Game to Kinko's in Livonia - service preparing resumes and envelopes. "It's better quality work," he said. "They re-did the whole thing. It's kind of an eye-catcher.'

Customers shopping in other business also sounded the no-competition horn. "They have a bigger selection here," said Barbara Thornton, a Canton resident visiting Blockbuster Video in that community. "The kids want all the newer types. I find library movies aren't clear. It looks like they've been used a lot." Kay Marshall of Farmington Hills spoke about going to the library to research music and travel-PUBLIC ogues for an upcoming wed-VS ding and honeymoon while PRIVATE browsing at the Farmington

> Harmony House. "I know they have specific sections for that, more subject-based information," Marshall said. "When I buy something, usually I want it for a long period of time, to listen to it over and over again."

TAXES, PEES, FINES AND PRIENDS

You're the director of a public library and you need money to run it. So where does the money come from?

The answer is: From a lot of sources. The mejority of income is derived from Horary taxes, if voters have approved such taxes. That's the case in the communities of Plymouth, Centon, Redford and Liversia, where voters have approved seperate library milliages, in Westland, where no sep arate voter-approved tax has been passed the city council exercised its authority to mandate a 1.0-mill tax to support the Horary. The communities of although in the Farmingtone that money is appropriated at the rate of 0.8144 mills. There are other sources of money. All Michigan Moraries receive direct state aid in the amount of 50-cents per capita

City receive money from the local government's general fund, besed on the population served by the library; if the library is a member of an official library consortium (The Library Network in this area) it receives an additional 50 cents per capita in socalled "swing aid."

Libraries also receive money from local penal fine revenues and of course from overdue fines collected directly by the library. Some federal money is evaluable and much libraries have "friends" groups who conduct fund-release for their own

Trying to keep all this straight gets pretty confusing, but the attached chart (based on 1997 figures) gives some builderk comparisons for the libraries listed. In the case of Westland, the expanditures shown for 1997 included money left over from the construction of that facility.

having to print it out," said the best way to find it." Elmouchi.

Libraries of the future, she predicts, will offer more material via the Internet. "We have the same problems that people have at home, it's critical to have an Internet that you can depend on," she said. This means better and faster connections.

Not everyone is plugged in. The Redford Township District Library offers Internet access to staff, but not library patrons.

"The Internet is no source of authority for information," said Director Fred Library Paffhausen. "I think the Internet is a tool, one of many to access information using new technolo-∂gy.'

At the Redford Township District Library, instead of opening up a magazine, patrons might open a CD. A variety of resources and data bases are available on CD — everything from health magazines to how to write a resume.

Over 2,500 people a month log-on to the Internet at the William P. Faust Public Library of Westland. In the future, more and more people will be accessing information from home, predicts Library Director Sandra

Immediacy of information is one thing the Internet has going

"Someone came in the other day and wanted to know all of the current leaders in the U.S. Senate and House," said Wilson. "A lot of them have changed, and the Internet is a good place to get timely information.'

Papai agrees. "There's an ocean of information to sift through to find the one piece of information you want. There's an immediacy. People need information now. Rather than going fishing, they need to know

Relay

The Farmington Public Library was a leader in the State of Michigan in bringing Internet access to public libraries. They've been online since 1994.

"We're providing information resources that people pay for with their tax dollars," said Papai. "Not everything is online. The resources we provide are expensive. I use tax money as wisely as I can to make sure people have access to information. We have to be selective in what we make available. My voters just approved a library millage, they believe in the value of what we're doing. Our circulation has increased 13 percent during a time people predicted the death of public libraries."

Still, the Internet hasn't replaced print. Even though many magazines are available on the Internet, some people enjoy coming into the library to read the latest edition their favorite magazine.

"People for various reasons want hard copies," said Canton Library Director Jean Tabor. "The Internet has given us so much opportunity to provide information. Librarians use Web sites like they would books, but the demand is ever increasing for print. It's trying to find the right mix that's the challenge."

Librarians help people organize information. "We help them wade through a growing universe of information to get what they need," said Plymouth District Library Director Pat Thomas.

Testing technology

Remember when you had a choice between Beta and VHS, eight track or cassette? Libraries are often the first to test new

"I see the library as playing a transition role for products," said Thomas. "We offer products for people to try out to see if they want to invest in them."

Papai agrees and sees this as an ancillary role for libraries. "Kids will read the same book over and over," she said. "A parents might check out a CD to see if their child likes it before they buy it."

With technology changing things faster than ever, libraries are becoming a little cautious about spending. At one time CDs were either MacIntosh or IBM compatible, now you can CDs that will accommodate both MacIntosh and personal computers which are no longer dominated by IBM.

"We're beginning to see books on CD," said Livonia City Librarian A. Michael Deller. Books are tape are popular with patrons at many libraries, and now that cars are coming equipped with CD players, people are starting to inquire about books on CD.

The Livonia Public Library has some books on CD, and the Canton Public Library is looking at offering them.

"Tapes break and wear out," said Tabor. "CDs are easier to store too."

A lot is going on, and Tabor sees a future of more technology that's faster with more sound and video.

"We're going to be a real value in the community," said Thomas. "I remember when I started 25 years ago. We were just getting a copy machine. All you had were the books the shelf. It took so long to get information. This is so much fun to do. You can keep searching until you get the information you want."

Hearing scheduled on plan to cover old Nankin landfill

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

A hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday in the Bailey Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland, on a plan to cover the old Nankin Township landfill in that community.

Located approximately 1,200 feet northeast of the intersection of Newburgh and Warren Road, the 12-acre landfill contains barium in the groundwater from landfilling activities. The site is located near the Westland Shopping Center and the Holliday Nature Preserve and is adjacent to Tonquish Creek, a tributary of the Rouge River.

Wayne County, 3M and Crestwood Development propose to cap the fill area with a geosynthetic fabric covered by a 1-foot thick layer of clean soil and 3 inches of topsoil.

Fill material, composed primarily of municipal rubbish with a limited volume of industrial material, was placed at the site from approximately the mid-1950s to 1960s and once considered by environmental officials as a contamination "hot spot."

In 1994, the Environmental Protection Agency removed 5,100 tons of waste material containing industrial wastes, including polychlorinated biphenyls, benzene and organic compounds; 800 cubic yards of asbestos-containing materials and 4,000 gallons of "associated fluids," such as water that had infiltrated the site and needed to be pumped out.

Several 55-gallon drums of undercoating, solids and sludges also were removed at that time. The EPA eliminated the site's "hot spots" of contamination of drums and industrial waste, but there are still trace levels of organics and the barium in the groundwater, according to Steve Hoin, project manager and project geologist with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

The standard for barium of 190 parts per billion is exceeded throughout the site, Hoin said. An erosion barrier along the creek bank will require the installation of erosion controls, which may be completed by reshaping the creek bank and possibly using concrete honeycombed-shaped structures filled with soil.

The DEQ expects to discuss erosion controls before plans are approved. "More natural alternatives are being considered, such as trees," Hoin said.

A copy of the remedial action plan is available at the William P. Faust Public Library, 6123 Central City Parkway, and the city clerk's office, City Hall Building, 36601 Ford Road. Residents can comment at Thursday's meeting or they can submit written comments, which will be accepted until 5 p.m. May 3 by Steve Hoin, Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, Environmental Response Division, 38980 Seven Mile, Livonia 48152

Make your wedding a magical day

h, spring! With the air turning fragrant, temperatures rising and birds chirping, it is most certain that love is in the air.

Weddings seem to have taken a turn toward the unconventional inout-of-the-ordinary settings.

While there is no standard blueprint for an outdoor or home wedding. it's important to consider your situation, tastes, fantasies and expectations. Outdoor weddings can offer a bride and groom the most personalized of settings.

One of my favorite wedding memories is of a causal summer barbecue in which the couple invited unsuspecting guests over for an afternoon of summer fun and grilling. The couple went into the house and changed into their ceremonial garb an hour after guests arrived for the barbecue. They returned to the sunny yard (to the surprise of guests), and exchanged wedding vows.

Outdoor events lend themselves to a variety of special settings. You can create an atmosphere with lights, tents, colors, and of course, the natural surroundings that nature contributes.

Selecting a menu

It is important to design a menu that will be festive, as well as sensible to meet the needs of the environment. For example, on a scorching August day, you would not want a menu of mostly hot items. It would be better to serve an array of beautifully displayed, elegant cold foods. Menu selection directly relates to the logistics of the site. We often will take over an entire garage, or rent a small work tent to handle on site production. There are numerous foods I would not recommend trying to execute with limited resources.

Of course, time of day will be an issue in menu planning.

Stations, such as a pasta bar, are always a favored food concept of mine as they allow us to be creative. We can cook in front of guests which adds a little unconventional flair.

Here are some summer strolling menu suggestions:

- European cheese wedges
- Assorted fruits
- Shrimp Gazpacho served with pita chips, focaccia, savory biscotti, and gourmet crackers

Mediterranean Chicken Satay with

- sun dried tomato sauce
- Roasted vegetable platter Assorted roasted vegetables served with focaccia and other breads.
- Roasted beef tenderloin or poached salmon platter served with hearth rolls or crackers and an assortment of sauces.
- Tex-Mex Bean Dip served with tortilla chips.
- Salsa bar with house fried chips
- Shrimp, vegetable and grilled chicken quesadillas served with guacamole, salsa and sour cream
- For passed hors d'œuvres consider cucumber rounds with smoked salmon mousse; savory endive spoons; seafood phyllo triangles; wild mushroom tarts; or cheese

Disarm junk food cravings with sensible snacks to nibble on

BY PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS SPECIAL WRITER

As I bring my new son, Jack, home from the hospital, I can't help but think that this is the only time in his life that I am able to provide him with the perfect diet. It won't be long at all before baby food will take the place of mother's milk. Once children begin to make choices, we start to offer

While Jack doesn't know about the choices of food that will be available to him in a few months. our other two children are aware of their snacking options and have formed definite preferences.

All of us — kids and adults alike — are constantly bombarded with temptations from food manufacturers to purchase their products. Our children see TV commercials for Dunkaroos and Crunchy M&Ms and immediately want those products. We are a nation of snackers.

We have grown up with the image of the Coca-Cola logo as a symbol of refreshment. It is often difficult to discriminate between what we want and what the manufacturers want us to want.

Since much of the packaged food, particularly snacks, that we find on our grocer's shelves are designed to appeal to our tastes, not our nutritional needs, they can be high in sugar and fat. It pays to read labels.

Healthy way to dine

Having said all that, I'm now going to tell you that it's OK to snack. Eating between meals is a healthy way to dine. It's also OK to eat that candy bar. Go ahead and have some chips if that's what you desire. All foods, including snacks, can fit into a diet, as long as they are balanced with wholeare balanced with wholesome foods...

o fruits o breads

The average American eats 16-20 pounds of snacks each year or roughly 40,000 calories from snack foods alone.

Snacking makes an important contribution to a healthy diet. Few children can get enough calories and nutrients from three regular meals. Children's stomachs are smaller and they need more frequent meals to meet their needs. Offer at least three snacks daily.

Where kids are concerned, we have to influence the type of snacks they eat. This can often be difficult, since our children receive so much pressure from advertising, peers, and tempting store displays.

It gets to the point that we can even feel guilty for not allowing our children to have the candy bar that beckons them from the display at the checkout isle.

Now, having said that, now I'm going to tell you that it's OK to deprive your child of that candy bar, don't feel guilty! Where snacking is concerned, I simply tell people that they should treat a snack as part of their food for the day, and use the same common sense that they exercise during meals. Try to eat from the bottom of the food pyramid and also low on the food chain. That means eating fresh fruits and vegetables, breads and grains, limiting sugars, fats and oils. So how do you get your child to choose the carrot stick over the chocolate-covered cookie? A few simple rules, well enforced, can help them learn to make good snack choices. One fourth-grade teacher at Clarkston Elementary School has a good idea. Children in Keith Conklin's class are asked to bring a snack to school each day, to eat in the afternoon when hunger pangs can disrupt learning. However, he limits the type of snack that his students can bring to simply fruits or vegetables. Even though this also limits variety, Mr. Conklin is setting the stage for healthy

You can have your cake and tuna too

What is one of the biggest nutritional bargains in your pantry? foods that you can eat?

Let me enumerate some of its virtues. To begin with, its first class complete protein matches that of any other meat, fish or poultry ounce for ounce. Water packed albacore tuna is rock bottom low in fat and saturated fat — even lower than a chicken breast. Despite the low fat content, tuna is high in Omega-3 fatty acids which lower cholesterol and triglycerides. Thoroughly rinsing tuna with water can lower the sodium content as much as 75 percent. This makes it acceptable for people on low sodium diets and a lot cheaper than the low sodium packaging on the grocery shelf. Of course, you know tuna is low in calories, it's probably been your favorite diet food for

The question then becomes if tuna is so wonderful, why doesn't everyone eat lots of it? Because most people think that tuna means tuna salad on a plate or in a sandwich and that's that.

Part of what I do as a nutritional therapist is to help my patients to enjoy what they're eating and Would you believe that the familiar still meet their nutritional goals. No one wants to eat can of tuna is one of the healthiest tuna salad ad infinitum — no matter how healthy it

I use this recipe to convince my patients that tuna can appear in many different delicious guises. Once it's well rinsed, tuna is a tasty cousin to chicken.

This recipe also illustrates how many prepared products take a lot of the "cook" out of cooking. I'm sure that you're familiar with ready prepared minced ginger and garlic. But the ready prepared red peppers really make me a relaxed cook. Gone is the time consuming task of broiling, cooling and peeling the blackened pepper skin. Look for ready prepared red peppers in the Italian food section of your local supermarket. I've even used pickled pimiento peppers, well rinsed, of course.

Accompany these tuna cakes with steamed mini red potatoes and those harbingers of spring veggies - asparagus and sugar snap peas.

TUNA CAKES WITH GINGERED RED PEPPER COULIS

- 1/8 teaspoon hot pepper sauce, optional 1 cup prepared roasted red peppers
- 1 1/2 teaspoons garlic, minced

- 1 1/2 teaspoons fresh ginger, minced
- 1 tablespoon Balsamic vinegar
- 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs 3 tablespoons Dilon mustard
- 4 tablespoons nonfat mayonnaise 2 tablespoons green onions, chopped fine
- 2 cans (6 ounces each) white albacore tuna waterpacked, rinsed, drained and chunked Fresh parsley or citantro leaves for garnish (optional)

To prepare coulis (sauce) dice about 1/3 of red peppers and set aside. In a food processor or blender, puree the remaining red peppers, vinegar, hot pepper sauce and 1 teaspoon each of the garlic and ginger until smooth. (Sauce may be prepared a day ahead and refrigerated)

Place bread crumbs in a shallow dish and set aside. Line two plates with wax paper. In medium bowl, thoroughly combine the mustard, mayonnaise, green onions. remaining diced red pepper, ginger and garlic.

Gently fold in the tuna. Divide mixture into 4 portions, patting each to form a firm cake. Then coat well with bread crumbs and transfer to the wax paper-lined snack choices.

"We try to model good nutrition," he said: "We talk about nuttition in school. Once they understand the reason for the policy, we don't get complaints."

The fourth grade teachers decided on the snack policy a few years ago when a national study found that American kids were eating too much junk food and not enough fruits and vegetables:

Apples, carrot sticks and oranges are the most popular snacks. Occasionally children bring in celery sticks or grapes, but portability is an issue that must be dealt with where schoolsnacks are concerned.

"I love his snack rules," said Michele MacWilliams, the mother of a student in Mr. Conklin's class. "I know that my son Ryan won't see other kids in the class eating cookies or chips. They're all getting at least one of their look at food a little differently. five-a-day fruits and vegetables during school snack times and I don't get an argument at home about what kind of snack to pack."

Sweets

When school is over and the kids head home, many times the battle begins. How many sweets should you allow your children to eat? What about soda pop? Where do we draw the line? If we prohibit our children (or ourselves for that matter) from eating certain foods like cookies, candy and chips, will those foods become the "forbidden fruits". that entice us to succumb to their temptations? Will we be setting up our children to be tormented by the desire for these

These are the questions all parents ask and depending on our own life experiences, we all

Realistically, we need food to survive. We also derive a great deal of pleasure from eating.

Teaching your children that there is pleasure and goodness in all foods - from the carrot to the candy bar - is one of the greatest tools you can give them in learning how to eat and enjoy a healthy, balanced diet.

Sensible Snacks

Here are some sensible snack ideas that reinforce healthy eating choices:

Fruit as art — as a centerpiece for your kitchen table, use an artfully arranged bowl of fruit. A pretty bowl filled with washed apples, oranges, tangerines, grapes, bananas or other seasonal fruit can serve as both a snack and decoration.

"Our grandkids would never think to look in the refrigerator for a piece of fruit, but they will grab an apple or orange from the bowl on our table," said Betty Asquini of Livonia.

Nuts - even in the spring, a bowl of nuts (shells on) is nice. Since it takes some effort to crack the nuts, people don't tend to eat too many.

Dairy products are important too - low-fat frozen yogurt or the new "Gogurt" are great snacks. They're packed with calcium, but also contain a good amount of sugar. Even with yogurt, it's important to read labels. Make your own yogurt pops by freezing low-fat or non-fat yogurt into popsicle

Serve snacks — instead of letting your kids grab the bag of chips, portion them yourself and serve them in a bowl. Better yet, have washed carrot sticks, red and green pepper strips and celery on hand for snacking.

Make your own trail mix — without the fillers and sweetened granola you commonly find in the store-bought version. Cashews, dry roasted peanuts, raisins, popcorn, dried cherries, other dried fruit and raw sunflower seeds, all go together. Pack in small portions so that kids (or adults) won't overindulge in this high calorie, high protein snack.

Start with grains - grains are the foundation to a healthy diet. Grains supply carbohydrates and B vitamins which are needed for active growing bodies. Ready-to-eat cereals, crackers, breadsticks, graham crackers, a bagel, pita pocket, pretzels or a small muffin can all count as a grain snack.

Put together a sensational Thai meal

BY MELANIE POLK SPECIAL WRITER

Within just a few years, Thai cuisine has become one of the most popular ethnic foods in this country.

People seem to like the way it uses fresh ingredients and balances opposite tastes — heat from chilies and gingerroot with coolness of cucumbers and lemon grass, the sweetness of tropical fruit and the tartness of lime and tamarind. The cuisine has similarities with both Chinese and Indian cooking. From China, it takes the technique of stir-frying and the use of rice and noodles. From India comes the use of curry and spices like cloves, cardamom and cumin, although Thai curries are lighter with the addition of fresh herbs. In Thailand, vegetables are finely cut and quickly cooked, often by stir-frying or steaming. A typical Thai meal includes steamed rice or noodles, clear soup, a fresh chili sauce for dipping vegetables, and a marinated salad often tossed with pieces of meat or fish. Tropical fresh fruits are often served as dessert. From a nutritional point of view, this type of menu is ideal. It tends to be low in fat and high in a variety of the vegetables, fruits and grains that make up a healthy diet.

As with any cuisine, Thai food has some nutritional pitfalls, including many tempting fried dishes and the widespread use of coconut and coconut milk.

It's not hard, however, to put together a sensational Thai meal without these high-fat ingredients. Common ingredients include: lemon-grass, a long, scallion-like herb with a sourlemon fragrance and flavor; nampla, a bottled fish sauce; cilantro; basil; ginger; a variety of chilles, such as banana chilles, dried red chilies, and bird chilies; and galangal, similar to ginger and found fresh or dried in Asian markets; jasmine rice, a long-grain aromatic variety; rice noodles, fresh or dried; kaffir lime leaves, which are used like bay leaves and can be replaced in recipes with grated lime zest; and curry pastes, made with chiles, shallots, garlic, and a variety of herbs and spices, also available in ethnic grocery

Thai cooking also features familiar foods like spinach, cucumber, bean sprouts, tomatoes, green beans, cabbage, watercress, asparagus, eggplants, mushrooms, and squash.

Three out of every four people over the age of thirty-five are afflicted with periodontal disease, which is caused by bacterial infection and inflammation in the gums and membranes surrounding the teeth. When this problem is restricted to the gums, it is called gingwitis. When it is allowed to progress to the membranes around the teeth, it is known as periodontitis. The earliest symptom of gum disease is gums that bleed easily (when brushing, for instance). - 1 tablespoon sugar

Dissolve the yeast in the water in a large bowl. Mix in whole wheat flour (and oats, if desired) and beat well.

Add the remaining ingredients

Spoon other half of muffin batter on top of cream cheese. Let the muffins rise, (smoothly rounded above the tin).

Homemade yogurt is cheaper than the commercial kind. It can be just as good as the yogurt you buy, when you make your own you can control the flavor and tartness. Because your own yogurt is fresher, the culture will be more vigorous and the enzyme activity greater.

If you use commercial yogurt as your starter, be sure that it has an active culture. If the label says it's pasteurized or stabilized, the contents won't make new yogurt.

Look for "active culture" on the label and check the date for freshness. Once you get your own yogurt-making system going, you will always have a lively starter, and the time each batch of yogurt takes to set will be less.

Using powdered milk makes the process much simpler because there's no milk to heat, no pan to wash; you just use tap water at the right temperature.

If your oven has a pilot or electric light, the temperature inside may be just right for incubating yogurt during times when you have nothing to bake.

Or keep the yogurt on a heating pad in a warm nook, covering it with towels or newspapers to keep in the warmth. The temperature must stay steady at 90°F to 120° F. Above 120°F. the culturing bacteria will die.

- 1 teaspoon vanilla

a warm place

Fill the jar with warm water to about 2 inches from the top.

Pour 1 cup of the warm water into the blender. Turn the blender on low and add the milk powder and the yogurt.

The instant the mixture is smooth, stop blending and return it to its jar. This prevents the milk from foaming.

Set the filled jar in a warm place and leave undisturbed for 3 1/2 to 8 hours.

The livelier the culture and the warmer the place, the more quickly the yogurt will set. Check from time to time. As soon as the surface of the yogurt resists a light touch of your finger even slightly, it is ready; but if you want a tart flavor, leave it another hour.

Refrigerate and let cool completely before you dip into it.

The first spoonful of yogurt from each jar can be set aside to be the starter for the next batch. To keep your starter fresh, plan your amounts to make yogurt at least once a week.

H.O.T. TOPICS

Students learn the Hazards of Tobacco during intensive six-hour program

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON STAFF WRITER kmortson@oe.homecomm.net

Beautiful people wearing nice clothes having a good time are some of the not-so-subtle advertising plays used to market tobacco products to young people. Today's youths have to be smart about the choices they make that are likely to significantly impact their long-term health status. Thanks to an intensive six-hour educational curriculum titled Hazards of Tobacco, the entire seventh-grade student body in the Plymouth-Canton school district is benefiting from a program designed by the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute (Community Outreach Division) and Wayne State University (Department of Family Medicine).

The program arms students with the skills and attitudes necessary to refrain from using tobacco as well as alerting them to the potential health risks associated with cigarettes and smokeless tobacco.

"I don't tell the kids not to smoke, but I give them accurate knowledge to make healthy lifestyle choices and encourage them not to smoke," said Debbie Madonna, Plymouth resident and H.O.T. program instructor.

"I think it is so important that we keep talking to that seventh-grade, middle school age group about not starting to smoke. I don't know if it makes any difference, but I do know. that not talking about it doesn't help either."

Volunteer speaker

The curriculum uses a variety of teaching techniques from hands-on activities to role playing and team learning. One of the most significant components of the program is the inclass appearance of a laryngectomee volunteer - a person that has surgically lost his or her larynx, usually due to cancer.

"Listening to the laryngecton ie volunteer share their experiences with tobacco and the effect it's had on their lives leaves a lasting impression with the students," said Madonna. "They have always shown the utmost respect for the individual and have posed some very mature questions."

"The person that came to our school with the laryngectomy told us that they go around and meet people and tell them not to smoke so they don't end up looking like them," said Lauren Gaines, a 12-year-old seventhgrader from Central Middle School in gectomy patients continue to smoke after the removal of their larynx and do so through the open and healed incision in their neck. Other elements of the curriculum include understanding the structure, function and anatomy of the human respiratory system; the physical effects of tobacco; peer pressure and resistance training; and tobacco advertising.

The students agreed that tobacco companies use advertising to manipulate them into finding smoking appealing whether it be the attractive models they use or catchy slogans and cartoon-like spokespeople.

"We want advertisers to tell the truth about smoking and its effects," said Gracie Cameron, 13, of Canton.

Views of kids

Nine Central Middle School students recently shared their impressions of the H.O.T. program and smoking at a round table discussion with the Observer. The seventhgraders included Gracie Cameron, Lauren Gaines, Sara Greenfield, Virgil Humes, Kasi Nichols, Michael Newton, Jacob Pollack, Kim Peterson and Eric Swiech.

Madonna said students will soon feel some relief from being bombarded by tobacco advertising in light of the $200 billion proposed tobacco settlement negotiated Nov. 16, 1998, by 46 state attorneys general. The settlement would eliminate outdoor tobacco advertising; signs and! placards advertising tobacco products in arenas, stadiums, shopping malls and video arcades; transit ads for tobacco products; using cartoons - no participating manufacturer would be able to "use or cause to be used any cartoon in the advertising, promoting, packaging or labeling of Tobacco

According to Karmanos, several studies suggest that "peer pressure to smoke and having friends who smoke is one of the single best predictors of tobacco use," and that individuals who decide to smoke "believe that most people they know smoke, and that they need to comply with what they feel is the norm."

The H.O.T. program coordinator confronts these beliefs with current information, about smoking and related health risks, provided by the Cancer Information Service of Michigan on the immediate impact your first puff of tobacco has on your respiratory system (see related sidebar).

All of the students agreed that tobacco prevention programming should be given initially at the elementary school level and repeated often in both middle and high school classes to support their efforts not to use tobacco products.

"It may help those kids who feel like they can't quit smoking because they're addicted," said Kasi Nichols. "The program better educates you about things you thought you knew about tobacco that you didn't know or that weren't right. Everyone should take this class."

Effects of smoking can last for a lifetime for you and loved ones

Smoking has many short- and longterm effects on your body. Changes begin with your first puff and become increasingly severe as you continue smoking. Here's what happens:

- After three seconds ■ Nicotine in the tobacco makes

Your family, friends and environment are all affected by your smoke. Here are risks to those around you:

widely used for voice recognition Dragon's Naturally Speaking and IBM's ViaVoice. Well, the people who make a third voice recognition program called Voice Xpress noted that column and sent me their product in an attempt to convince me that voice recognition really was a viable choice for consumers.

Calling their product "the most sophisticated speech product on the market today," a public relations specialist named Jim Williams urged me to give it a try so I could see "how powerful and flexible speech enabled computing can be. "

I have now spent large chunks of time over two days installing the software, "enrolling" my voice and dictating style by reading for almost an hour, and now trying to write this column by talking instead of typing. Guess what? It works! Not as fast as I'd like, to be sure, but it works.

Voice Xpress is clearly the best of all three products that I have tried. It seems to recognize my words and my dictation style much more accurately than the others.

First, the learning curve. It is steep. Two days is not enough to get it or any voice recognition program working to full potential. To be fair, I think that if I spent more time with all the different programs I've now tried ... Dragon's Naturally Speaking, have a lot of extra time to fidget around learning new applications.

Still, from what I've seen so far, VoiceXpress is the quickest to learn. The company claims it works with virtually all Windows applications. I found it worked well with Microsoft Word. The navigation controls on Voice Xpress let me open and close programs, scroll documents, format type and generally do most everything I can do with the keyboard. But what impressed me most was how the program is being used by people who did take the time to learn it. Among some "case studies" sent to me by Lernout & Hauspie, the company that makes Voice Xpress, are some interesting stories.

In Regina, Saskatchewan, a student named Nanci Morrison uses the program to compose reports for course work in her studies for a master's degree in Social Work. That's quite a feat since Nanci has Attention Deficit Disorder and, in part because of the disorder, she was functionally illiterate until the age of 30. She somehow managed to get through college. To compensate for her illiteracy, she did all of her work orally and dropped classes that required her to write papers.

She never thought she'd be able to do graduate studies. Then she got hold of Voice Xpress. Now, she's sailing through her studies, dictating her reports and having voice recognition technology transcribe her spoken words into written words.

The Lernout & Hauspie people see other applications as Voice Technology takes hold. They're about to test it with "wearable computers," equipping messengers in a big city with a tiny little PC that attaches to a belt and makes wireless Internet connections. Speeding down the streets of the city, the messenger will be able to speak into a headset and send e-mail reports to his supervisor. The technology can also receive those reports and then "read" them back to the messenger in a computer-generated voice.

To get the most out of Voice Xpress and other speech recognition programs, you need a pretty powerful computer. The new Pentium III from Intel was designed specifically to handle the intense processor demands this technology puts on a computer. rom symphony concerts to theater, dance and opera, a performing arts center in Canton would be a great addition for communitybased groups such as the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan, Plymouth Community Arts Council, and Plymouth Community Chorus.

Verdi Opera Theatre president John Zaretti is one of the local spokesmen for arts organizations who think a performing arts center in Canton is long overdue. In fact if the center were in existence today it would be the perfect place for "Discover Opera," a concert and educational presentation sponsored by Canton Project Arts. The Sunday, April 18, program begins with an informative lecture, "Opera: What It's All About," followed by the Verdi Opera Theatre concert at Summit on the Park in Canton. From Pucinni to Bizet, soprano Gina D'Alessio, mezzo soprano Dorothy Duensing, tenor Razmik Papikyan and baritone Dino Valle will sing selections from "Carmen," "Don Giovanni," "I Pagliacci," "La Traviata," and "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Partnership for the Arts aims for 2000 date

artnership for the Arts could turn over the first shovel of dirt for a new performing arts center in Canton by early 2000 depending on the results of a study by a theater consulting firm.

The nonprofit organization, established to build a $10 million-$12 million performing space, is working toward that goal on the recommendation of Growth Design Corp.

Depending on the results of a business plan by a theater consulting firm, the nonprofit arts organization, directed by a cross section of business owners, educators and arts leaders will build a 700- to 800-seat theater with funding from foundations, private and corporate donations. The Canton Township board has already committed

$2 million to the project. "They said this can be done if you really work at it," said Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack who initiated the project three years ago.

He said a proposal will go out shortly to theater consulting firms interested in assessing the need for an arts center and the size of audience it can expect to attract.

"We're looking to analyze the market, the patrons, other theater operations, users local and regional," said Yack. Canton Community Foundation executive director Joan Noricks and Yack were co-chairs of a task force formed in April 1996 to determine the feasibility of a performing arts center. The Canton Community Foundation funded the recent six-month study by Growth Design Corp. that recommended forming Partnership for the Arts. "I think a lot of people are excited about the center," said Noricks, who serves on the Partnership for the arts board as well as the steering committee that remains in place as a result of the findings of the initial task force. "When people come together, anything's possible." Partnership for the Arts president Don Scenen thinks there's a real need for a facility for community arts groups to call home. As board president for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, he knows the difficulties of scheduling a season of concerts in a specific facility.

"Right now Canton Township liaison Mike Yeager is working on the request for a proposal that will be going out this week," said Soenen, who also chairs the steering committee. "It will take 90-120 days to complete the study. In the meantime, we're continuing to build support in the community. We have to satisfy the needs for most of the organizations, meet with the groups, determine their needs. We're experiencing tremendous population growth and certainly want the arts to keep pace with the growth, and we have an obligation to provide that."

Yack doesn't see the center drawing nationally known acts and productions like the venues in downtown Detroit or at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

"We'll be community based," said Yack. "Locally, we have two levels of users: the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. Plymouth Community Chorus, Plymouth Oratorio Society, and other groups like the Plymouth Theatre Guild. It's all about community — to go some place where you'll know someone in a production to me that's want constantly is all about."

Offsetting costs

Support is crucial to not only building the facility but providing continuing funding for its operation.

The feasibility study showed there is strong support," said Scenen. "If the study had come back negative we wouldn't be pursuing this, but it's not a slam dunk. We need to determine what it's going to take to sustain it. I think it's going to be difficult for the arts organizations to sustain it by themselves."

A 1997 study by Plante & Moran queried the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Michigan Opera Theatre and Center for Creative Studies to find if they might be interested in using the new facility.

"It showed while they're not interested in performing, they're interested in outreach in the form of education." said Yack. People are so busy. It starts with the children and education. That's how you get the parents involved. What I'd like to see is an intimate theater, flexible in terms of space, with a heavy emphasis on education. That's why we sponsored the Southeast Michigan Arts Conservatory."

Canton Township subleased a building to the arts conservatory last summer to ensure the future of performing arts in the area after Arnoldt Williams Music closed. The conservatory is one of the for-profit businesses being considered to ensure the performing arts center remains financially viable once built. Plymouth-Canton Community Schools could play a role as well. Soenen made a presentation to the school board March 23 to bring them up to speed on the ongoing process. One of the locations being considered for the arts center is at Joy and Beck. Owned by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the site has

Leonard Bernstein's musical version of Voltaire's "Candide" has gone through numerous transformations since it first opened on Broadway in 1956, where it was not a success. The book, lyrics and even some of the music have been completely rewritten, several times. There are long versions and short versions.

Three different versions are available for production.

Brent Wagner, director of the University of Michigan's upcoming production, believes the version they're doing is probably the best.

For the 1973 "Chelsea" version at the Brooklyn School of Music, director Hal Prince dropped the Lillian Hell-

Russell Reed isn't shedding any tears over his retirement. After 12 years as conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, he is filled with fond memories i 'the people who have made the orchestra one of the finest in the area.

"It's been mutual fun I hope, so many fond memories," said Reed. "I'm going to miss the people and music. There's so many great folks in the symphony. I don't know how many were here 12 years ago when I started conducting and never Since some of his favorite people are also Shostakovich and Brahms, Reed has put together a dream program featuring Brahms "Double Concerto" with his sons David (violin) and Robert (cello) as guest soloists.

"I would think this is the highlight of my career to do these particular works," said Reed before rehearsing on April 5 with the orchestra and his sons. "We (he and his sons) have talked about it started. I think I haven't had a contract the last thing that comes to mind. We're also doing 'Symphony No. 10' by Shostakovich and Respighi's 'Pines of Rome.' Shostakovich's work is a huge work over 50 minutes long. It's an energetic piece with great architecture."

One of his favorite works, "Pines," was Reed's swan song at another final concert at Eastern Michigan University when he retired in 1991. Reed served as professor of music and director of the Symphonic Orchestra at Eastern for 12 years. Before that he taught in public schools for 22 years. In retirement, he will continue to adjudicate bands and orchestras, and guest conduct the Interlochen Orchestra every summer as he has for the last 15 years.

Thanks for the memories

Reed recently pulled out all of the programs he saved from the last 12 years of Plymouth Symphony concerts. He's enjoyed working with "terrific guest artists," the Plymouth Canton Ballet Company and soloists from the Detroit Symphony benefits as well as drawbacks.

"The cons of building it on school property is that is we have the potential of conflicting with school activities," said Soenen. "We could have problems with congestion and traffic. The pros are having a facility easily accessible to the schools. We want to have a very strong education emphasis."

The theatrical program at the high school could use the facility during the day and schedule performances at night, multiple purposes," added Yack. "Most of the firms say they can come up with a business plan in 90 days so by the end of summer we'll know where we stand. School construction for the new high school starts next spring. We'd have nine months to raise money.'

Sites are also being considered at Cherry Hill and Canton Center Road, Ridge and Cherry Hill, and the Canton Township Civic Center Complex. Existing structures were ruled out for a number of reasons when the task force first looked into building a performing arts center.

"There are no existing buildings in Canton because there are so many issues relative to sight lines, fire ordinances and acoustics," said Yack. "It needs it's own entrance. When you go to theater or symphony it starts as you approach the building. When you have to walk through a hallway past a gymnasium and swimming pool it detracts from the experience."

Yack points to the successful Summit on the Park Community Center in Canton as a model for building the facility. Yack has also looked at centers such as the Arvada Art Center, built in 1977 in Colorado, for ideas,

"What they did (Arvada) was start small then focused on education. They now have three theaters including an outdoor theater," said Yack. "I think that's the challenge, not to give up. Start with something that's reasonable, promote it and not give

Within the next month, Soenen will meet with the Canton Township board, Plymouth City Council and Plymouth Township board. Partnership for the Arts and steering committee meetings take place mid-April. Yack is sure all will work together toward building the arts center, which for him has been a longtime dream.

"It's all about quality of life," said Yack who together with township treasurer Elaine Kirshgatter founded Canton Project Arts in 1995. "The one area Canton hasn't grown is arts. It's critical to a community's identity. We're always trying to expose your residents to new ideas and the arts."

Educational arts programming will be a strong component of the new performing arts center to be built in Canton (see accompanying story).

Plymouth Community. Chorus

Plymouth Community Chorus director Michael Gross believes teaching children about the arts is important to building future audiences. While Gross is not worried about filling seats for the chorus's spring concerts Saturday-Sunday, April 24-25, he thinks we owe it to future generations to ensure the arts continue to thrive. The chorus is currently looking back on its 25 year history to present an array of song styles they've sung. Selections such as "Battle Hymn "I will give a brief history of of the Republic," "Amazing Grace," "Rock Around the Clock," "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Yesterday," "Who Can I Turn To," and "Summer Fun" record not only chorus's history but our country's.

"If I had any impact on the initial task force for the performing arts center, I hope it's what I was pushing for, the number of seats," said Gross, who was in on the early planning stages for the new facility. "To make that theater self-supporting and a viable venue for the community they need to seat at least 1,000 people."

Although the Plymouth Community Chorus gives its spring concert at Plymouth Salem High School as it has for many years, that has not been the case for some time due to school budget cuts. For the last few years, the chorus has been homeless. Luckily, they are able to rehearse at First United Methodist Church in Plymouth, but it's not always easy to fit 125 singers into the

"There's not only the need for a performing space, but a rehearsal space," said Gross, "in our case not only because of our size but because in many instances our rehearsal time conflicts with their schedule."

Welcome mat

Established 25 years ago, the Plymouth Community Arts Council is a staple for arts in the community. Of any of the local arts organizations, you'd think they might balk at a performing art center being built so close, but apparently not. Arts council founder Joanne Winkleman Hulce is serving on the board of director for the new performing arts center because it doesn't threaten programming provided at the Joanne Winkleman Hulce Center for the Arts.

"It's going to create a whole new environment for what we do here," said Stella Greene, Plymouth Community Arts Council president. "The more we can do to increase the viability of the arts in a community, the healthier the community."

Among the programs the arts council funds are the Whistle Stop Players, a theater/education group for children; art classes and workshops, art exhibitions, a for-members-only concert series, scholarships for students and teachers, and the Music in the Park series.

"Our function is to be an incubator for the interests and abilities of people," said Greene. "If we don't work collectively, we're doing ourselves an injustice."

If you have an interesting idea for a story involving the visual or performing arts, call arts reporter Linda Ann Chomin, (734) 953-2145 or send e-mail to lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

At a March 31 retirement banquet, Reed spoke about the reason his four sons (David, Robert, Michael and Eric) "turned out so well" was due to his wife of more than 40 years. Nancy.

"The boys turned out so well more than likely because I wasn't home," joked Reed.

David agrees that Nancy was instrumental in his choosing music as a career.

"A lot of credit goes to my mom who drove us to lessons in East Lansing from Grosse Pointe every week," he said.

Reed did make music fun though. All four sons were in the Grosse Pointe Junior Symphony under Reed's direction. Michael played French Horn, and Eric bassoon.

"They were dragged to a lot of concerts when they were young," said Reed. "Yes it is a fact we bought David a violin and Michael was told he couldn't take French horn. He had to take piano first. Rob started cello at age 9."

Reed first became interested in the Suzuki method of teaching strings around the time when David was 6. A teacher in Bloomfield Hills Schools since 1984, David now directs the West Hills Middle School and Andover High School orchestras. He has a master's degree in music in violin performance from the University of Michigan School of Music.

"They told me they were buying me something very special, and I thought it was a new bike," said David. "As much as I hated practicing, I enjoyed the rewards. The music room was my second home and all the music students were my friends."

Reed chose to introduce his sons to music through strings for a simple reason.

"It's what you can do with strings that you can't do with winds when kids are small," said Reed. "There are smaller versions of string instruments, but you can't shrink a bassoon."

Like father, like son

Rob, who was given his first cello from an uncle, now teaches at Eastern Michigan University and soloed with the Plymouth

Symphony in 1996. "I used to get out of chores by practicing," said Robert. Reed did the same thing when growing up on his family's farm.

Reed continues to talk as orchestra members take their places and tune their instruments. Is he worried about these musicians he's become fond of? No, he says they're in good hands. The search committee formed to find a conductor to replace Reed has narrowed down the applicants to two or three. Seven were originally chosen and guest conducted concerts or rehearsals this season.

"I do think the best days of the Plymouth Symphony are ahead," said Reed, who served on the steering committee for Canton's new performing arts center (see accompanying story). "Our budget has doubled and there are people working toward the future. A performing arts center is a huge step forward. There's a certain ambiance that goes with attending a concert."

the youthful energy that Prince fend for himself in the world. He brought to it in the '70s. Stu- experiences war, earthquake, n't fit any exact categories,' dents can capture that spirit and energy. The story is about young people. It is difficult for college students because it is difficult to sing. But in an opera version you lose some of that spirit to get musical perfection."

"Candide" features a cast of 42 students and an orchestra of 36 members.

It is a large, fluid work that travels the world as Voltaire tells his story of the naive Candide who comes under the influence of the super optimist Dr. Pangloss, who teaches that "this is the best of all possible worlds." He falls in love with the beautiful Cunegonde and is forced to torture and shipwreck as he moves about the world.

In the key roles Dan Reichard of Cleveland plays Candide, Barrett Foa of New York City plays Voltaire/Pangloss and Jessica Murphy plays "Cunegonde." Also in the cast are Leslie Henstock and James Luxton from Rochester Hills, Caroline Peacock from Rochester, Julie Petrus from Farmington and Natalie Ross from Livonia.

Bernstein called his work "a comic operetta" though it was originally produced on Broadway with musical comedy performers. It has also been included in opera repertoires.

"What's special is that it does-Wagner said.

Experienced Broadway music director Ben Whitely, currently the conductor for "Cats" in New York, is musical director for "Candide." This is the fourth U-M musical for the U-M graduate. He was musical director for the national touring productions of "Grand Hotel" and "Falsettos." "We're fortunate to have someone like that work with us," Wagner said.

Last spring's U-M musical was another, more famous Bernstein work, "West Side Story."

"When they asked me, Do you really want to do Bernstein two years in a row?' I said what's the relationship between the two. 'Candide' doesn't have dance in it, the story of West Side Story' is told through dance. Perhaps that's why he called it an operetta because operetta doesn't rely on dance, American musicals do," Wagner said.

"The music captures the buoyant spirit of the book," Wagner said.

The U-M Music Theater Department offers a bachelor of fine arts degree in a discipline that combines the many elements of musical theater.

Meadow Brook's Sherman goes out with stiff upper lip.

BY FRANK PROVENZANO STAFF WRITER

fprovenzano@oe.homecomm.net

It's another rehearsal week for Geoffrey Sherman. But before the curtain goes up on Meadow Brook Theatre's season-ending play, "The Rocky Horror Show," the reviews are all but written.

Sitting in the empty theater where he expected regular audiences as diverse as the metro area population, Sherman doesn't offer any clues about the personal drama behind the curtain. Nor does he have an easy explanation why the theater on the Oakland University campus never became quite the beacon of cultural diversity that he sought. He's much too professional to gripe about the circumstances of his departure after only four years as artistic director of the state's largest regional professional theater company. "In the first couple of years, I didn't feel like I was being forced in any direction," said Sherman. "At the present time, I'm not so sure. And that's where I'm going to leave it." For now, Sherman is doing a fine job maintaining a stiff upper lip. He may have been away from his native England for the past two decades, but there's no mistaking the Brit-like attitude.

nor his firm countenance. Sherman's reign will end with "The Rocky Horror Show." And when the curtain falls on the campy cult classic, audiences will have seen the swan song from one of the finest directing talents to pass through the region.

Opening the gate

In the last three seasons, Sherman has directed one of the finest plays produced in the metro area during the 1990s, "Arcadia." And last year, Sherman staged the highly inspired "Angels in America," a first-ever collaboration with OU's department of dance, music and theatre.

Sure, there was plenty of standard fare for the masses, and a few stinkers. (This season's "Scotland Road.") But under Sherman, there was a sense that theater at Meadow Brook was more than entertainment. It was a means for cultural understand-

Meadow Brook's two-year collaboration with the African-American Plowshares Theatre based in Detroit was an attempt to integrate the suburban theater's mostly all-white audience.

"Thunder Knocking on the Door," a bluesy morality tale were Sherman's attempts to open the multicultural gate.

But generally, instead of plaudits. Sherman received a dose of skepticism from the conservative-minded subscribers and OU administration.

"You can't always beat the drum of social-issue plays. I tried to keep up an eclectic mix," said Sherman, who threw in a few slapstick comedies with challenging plays like Edward Albee's "Three Tall Women," and Shakespeare's "The Merry Wives of Windsor" set in the 19th-century American southwest.

own harshest critic, often focusing on what he could've done better rather than his accomplishments. But he doesn't miss a chance to take a parting shot at the lack of media attention. "The local press doesn't treat theater as an art form," he said.

Sinking feeling It's difficult to resist looking for a symbolic connection between "The Rocky Horror Show" and Sherman's departure. After all, departures - especially when the departed doesn't have any set plans - are seldom simple or neat. But then, this is theater. Artistic differences are as common as emotional breakdowns. With Sherman's imminent farewell, however, there's a sinking feeling about the difficulty facing professional theaters. Is it even possible to build an audience for productions other than

Broadway shows? Discussions about a possible performing arts center on the OU campus or near I-75 and Big Beaver in Troy must consider the impact on the local theater

"I can see where a commercial theater producing Broadway musicals could take the place of this establishment, and that worries me."

When he was hired, the explicit goal set by OU was for Sherman to broaden the audience. While Meadow Brook recorded a slight budget surplus last year. season subscriptions declined by nearly 15 percent (to 8.173). Sherman figured to increase single-ticket sales with intriguing and even controversial plays, such as "What the Butler Saw." But the racy dialogue and brief nudity in that play didn't attract further ticket buyers and actually dissuaded some subscribers not to stay the course.

Cheerio, ol' chap

With a performance of the sitcom friendly "The Odd Couple" opening next season, it now seems that Meadow Brook is more interested in offering familiar, comfortable classics than addressing some of the broader issues brought to the fore by

Sherman. Next season's uninspired line up of plays - excluding Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" - was chosen by committee, rather than by the artistic director, as it was in past years. A national search will be conducted to find a new artistic director. Meanwhile, assistant artistic director Debra Wicks will assume the top post. Anyone who's been around theater knows that life on the boards is a series of transitions. Keeping a stiff upper lip is just part of the Plays begin with characters and plots. They evolve into something the audience cares about and relates to.

"We're trying to find plays that are meant to be done on stage, not read silently," said Jan Radcliff founder of Heartlande Theatre Company of Birmingham which is presenting its third annual "Play by Play" marathon of original short plays Saturday, April 17, at the Millennium Center in Southfield.

Twenty-one plays were chosen to be presented. They're a mix of comedy and drama. Playwrights were given the option of easting and directing their play, or letting Heartlande Theatre Company take care of it. Some plays are suitable for younger audiences. but most have adult themes.

· Featured playwrights include David MacGregor of Livonia who won the $10,000 first-prize cash award in the fifth annual screenwriting competition sponsored by the American Cinema Foundation for his original screenplay "Phobos."

MacGregor has been a member of Heartlande Theatre Company's New Plays Initiative program since it began two years ago. His play, "The Hero's Journey," (Abridged) was chosen for the marathon.

"It's gotten better and better every year," said Radcliff about the marathon. "The plays are better written and structured."

Heartlande Theatre Company is "committed to nurturing the creation of original works by resident authors and to the continuous development of the skills necessary to sustain and renew the living art of theater.'

This year, as part of their mission to nurture new talent, Heartlande Theatre Company presented a 12-week workshop at Fitzgerald High School in Warren. Kitty Dubin, a Birmingham playwright and director, taught the workshop. Two plays to be presented at the marathon — "Inner Beauty" by Sara Mirisciotti and "Dean's List" by Rob LeCureaux came out of that workshop. They were among the 22 plays written by the class, and tossed in with 70 plays submitted for considera-

Umbrellas: Big doesn't mean better

I was meeting my sister and several of our cousins for dinner at a trendy and hip restaurant in Royal Oak when I committed a faux pas of sorts: I brought along a big-stick umbrella. How's it going, Mary Poppins," one relative said.

"Man, that thing looks like a weapon,' another relative joked.

"Oh my gosh, why did you bring that," my sister asked, as the sun streamed down through a partly cloudy sky.

I explained the forecast called for a downpour right about the time our evening would be ending and I knew I'd have to park far from the restaurant and didn't want to get soaked. It was the only umbrella I could find in my rush to leave the house, I further explained. "What-ever," my sister said, rolling her eyes. It was then I wished I was carrying a smaller - or at least prettier - umbrella. In fact, when it comes to umbrellas, women can be rather picky, according to Susan Bennett, Totes Isotoner account executive for Michigan, Ohio, and Kentucky. Most women like their umbrellas to be not only lightweight and compact but also pretty.

Men, on the other hand, are drawn to black umbrellas and want as big a cover as they can get, even if they have to sacrifice folding size, Bennett said.

New model
Flat umbrellas, the latest style to gle shape for storage in a briefcase. However, the flat umbrella tends to be a little longer than most compact models.

The Sharper Image, located in the Somerset Collection in Troy and Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, has a flat umbrella that folds to 11.5 inches in length and an inch in width. Called the Briefcase Auto Open/Close umbrella, the accessory retails for $25. The store also carries a slightly smaller manual briefcase umbrella. Totes' flat umbrella, called The Professional, folds to just over 9 inches in length and less than an inch in width. It weighs about 6.5 ounces, has a 21.6-inch cover and retails for about $20, Bennett said. For the sake of comparison, consider Totes basic stick umbrella (also called a non-folding or non-telescoping umbrella). It has a 24.6-inch diameter cover. Locally, Totes umbrellas can be found at J.C. Penney, Sears, Kohl's, Service Merchandise and Lord & Tay-

Shorter and lighter
If you're not interested in a flat model or stick umbrella, keep in mind compact umbrellas are getting shorter and lighter.

I have an old folding umbrella, once considered compact, that weighs 8 ounces and folds to 12.75 inches in length.

Today, at the Rand McNally Map & Travel Store at Somerset, for example, you can purchase Leighton's Featherlight umbrella, which weighs 7 ounces and folds to a length of 9.5 inches, for $20-25. Bentley's Luggage & Gifts, also at Somerset, carries a Samsonite Mini-Manual umbrella that folds to 8 inches and sells for $19.95. Brookstone, at Somerset and Twelve Oaks, has a 7- inch travel umbrella priced at $20. Shorter still, Totes' Small Wonder Light manual umbrella, about $22, folds to 6.8 inches and weighs 6.5 ounces.

Materials matter

While the handles of traditional stick and folding umbrellas are made of chrome-coated nickel, newer compact umbrellas have lightweight aluminum handles. Golf umbrellas, which are large-stick umbrellas, have non-metal, fiberglass shafts, Bennett said.

Other special features
Umbrellas featuring reproductions of works by van Gogh, Monet and other artists are particularly popular. and can be found at the Detroit Institute of Arts Museum Shop at Somerset for $40-45. Bentley's Luggage & Gifts, also at Somerset, carries Monet-print umbrellas for $24.95-29.95.

The Sharper Image has discontinued flashlight- umbrellas, but Totes makes a similar product called Nightlighter. The umbrella is difficult to find this time of year; it's considered a mr item. However, the company plans to begin offering flashlight-umbrellas for children in the fall.

Smart lines: Rainwear makers have tailored their pieces this season to meet the needs of busy and active lifestyles. The end product shorter, sportier and more practical raincoats, like these hooded coats from Burberry at The Somerset Collection in ...

On-the-go coats

Rainwear for spring suits busy lifestyles

BY NICOLE STAFFORD SPECIAL EDITOR

The traditional long and heavy trench coat surely becomes Sherlock Holmes and Bogart types, but the rest of us require more pragmatic and less mysterious rainwear.

"The dress-down Friday has spread to other days and we are less apt to play roles today," said Martin Cooper, vice president of design for Burberry USA, which is known for making quality men's and women's rainwear and has a retail store at the Somerset Collection in Troy.

"Our lifestyles and our attitudes toward our lives are so much more casual. And, I think people need clothes that reflect that social change ... people want maintenance-free clothing, things that don't wrinkle, things that you can ball up and put in overhead in an airplane," said Cooper.

Accommodating today's fussy, on-the-go lifestyle, rainwear makers have shortened coat lengths and are using higher-performance fabrics.

Burberry's spring collection of rainwear, for example, makes significant use of rubber-back cotton twill, Cooper said.

Unlike the pure cotton used in traditional trench coats, rubber-back cotton twill is virtually waterproof, doesn't wrinkle and improves in appearance with wear, he said.

Characteristic of rainwear for the season is the three-quarter-length coat, which Burberry sells in rubber-back cotton twill with the company's traditional check-print lining.

Particularly popular in this category is the poncho, said Cooper.

"We're selling like 10 a day just from the New York store alone. And, you'll see the poncho in fall '99 and continuing into next spring.'

Another seasonal trend and dressier alternative is the short, silk raincoat, to which Burberry adds nylon for durability.

Talbots, which has women's retail stores at the Somerset Collection and Laurel Park Place in Livonia, also carries three-quarter length coats as an alternative to the traditional trench silhouette.

Three-quarter length raincoats not only are easier to fold and transport but also have a sportier look, said Betsy Thompson, Talbots spokesperson. "It adds a different dimension to your wardrobe.

It's kind of fun but there's something kind of practical about them," Thompson said of the style. Boosting the fun factor, Talbots and Burberry are offering their coats in brighter colors, like yellow, red and robin's egg blue instead of only darker "Brighter shades in rainwear mean having an accent color. It doesn't mean that the blacks, the taupes and the navies are out," said Thompson, who explained that many women are opting to purchase both a casual and a dressy raincoat.

For shoppers who are seeking an alternative to dark and earthy shades but are not in the market for a yellow or red coat, Cooper suggested stone, off-white, creme and light gray.

Short and sassy: Three-quarter length raincoats are stylish yet practical.

Target updates Wonderland Mall location

By Nicole Stafford Special Editor

Remodeling at Target's Wonderland Mall location

in Livonia has given the store that brand-new look. "It's just bigger, brighter and newer. When you come in it's just a big 'wow,' " said Diane Duda, logistics manager at the store.

Built in 1989, the Target store has been under renovation for several months, and a grand reopening ceremony is slated for April 15.

"It's a better use of the space and an upgraded look," said Denise Workcuff, Target spokesperson. 'We're just trying to bring (the older stores) up to speed to look like the stores we have been building in the metropolitan Detroit area, but it ties in well

this year."

One major change at the store is the addition of a full-service pharmacy - one of only three Target pharmacies in the metropolitan Detroit area. Customers will able to place their prescription orders by calling or visiting the pharmacy, which will operate 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, and 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Sunday.

Other improvements include wider browsing aisles, larger shopping carts, a self-serve food court and additional check-out lanes, Duda said.

"It's much like what you see in other Target stores with Wonderland's neon concept and, at the same time, the whole upgrading of the mall," said Reinhard! Lemke, Wonderland Mall's general manager.

The reopening ceremony will include a visit from Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey and a musical presentation by the Franklin High School marching band, Lemke added. Wonderland Mail also plans to present, the marching band with a check for $1,000 to help! pay for uniforms.

Target is located on the west side of Wonderland Mall and is open 8 a.m.-10 p.m. seven days a week. For information, call (734) 522-7011.

"Mode" magazine fashion and style director Michele Westen has some good news for full-figured women.

Weston, a native of the Detroit area, presented a collection of spring apparel for sizes 14-24 at an intimate fashion show and luncheon held Thursday at Saks Fifth Avenue in Troy. Celebrating its second anniversary, "Mode" caters to full-figured women.

"We're seeing a lot more choices for sizes 14 and up," said Weston, who emphasized the importance of color for the spring and summer fashion season.

She also encouraged fuller-figured women to experiment with not only colorful apparel but also any clothing pieces currently available at stores like Saks, which has a department devoted to clothing for full-figured women.

"If it comes in your size, you can dip into it and try it out," said Weston, who also passed along some advice recently gave actress Camryn Manheim of the television show "The Practice": pair a sporty white shirt with a dressy black skirt, a la the famous Gapinspired get-up worn several years ago by actress Sharon Stone to an Oscar ceremony.

While obtaining designer apparel in larger sizes can be difficult, Weston said she and other full-figured women can expect to find more designers manufacturing clothing in larger sizes in the not-so-distant future.

Weston even named a few labels. Ralph Lauren, she said, plans to offer a collection for larger sizes in the fall. Other designers that will soon expand their lines to include full-figured women include French Connection, Esprit and BCBG, Weston said.

While color dominated Weston's comments about season style – with shades of pink and blue leading the race – the magazine editor also named pearls, tank shells and dresses, shirt blazers and jackets with soft shoulder lines, feminine handbags and necklaces as pieces to acquire.

"Spring is all about color," she said. "But for those of you who think you can't wear color, dip into it with a colorful tank or a lipstick."

Chef Keith Famie finds a rich culture in Vietnam

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAPF WRITER hgallagher@oc.homecomm.net

In a small screening room at WDIV-TV, Channel 4, Birming-ham chef Keith Famie agonized over how he would condense 24 hours of video from Vietnam into one hourlong program and six short cooking segments.

The material was just too good, full of too many memorable moments to be pared into such small segments.

As part of Famie's Adventures in Cooking, the chef had accompanied several veterans of the Vietnam War back to the Southeast Asian country for a bicycle tour. The cooking segments are running now and the hourlong special is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 30, time to be determined.

Famie had gone to numerous decations for his cooking show (shown at noon Fridays and 8 a.m. Saturdays). In January he showed a program he did in Hawaii where he took three special children from the Rainbow Connection, an organization for which he is vice president.

He's proud of that show, but Vietnam was different. In Vietnam he wanted to change perceptions about the country and its people.

"I was 8 years old when the Vietnam war was going on. You always hear about it as a war, this will change that," he said.

The Vietnam trip was sponsored by General Motors. The outfitters Cycle the World arranged the bicycle journey, moving south from Hanoi to Ho Chi Minh City (formerly Saigon). The show is planned for prime time broadcast.

Famie bicycled about half way, riding with three war veterans, Tom Morgan of Hartland, Mich., Tom Rampton of Colorado and Dr. Peter McGuire of Maine.

"It's easy to see how soldiers at such a young age, dropped into an environment they have no concept about, can create a camaraderie," Famie said.

Sensitive to possibly offending veterans, Famie spent time before the trip at the Veterans. Association in Detroit, meeting with veterans and trying to understand their point of view.

"In taking time with the vets, I didn't talk to one who didn't say they didn't want to go back. They thought it was a beautiful country. It's amazing how many go back." Forming said.

go back," Famie said.

He also found that many veterans, while respecting the job they and their comrades did, have reservations about the war itself and a lasting respect for

"I was a kid and have no right to say yea or nay, but they (veterans he talked with) all say we had not right to be there. They have a respect for the Viet soldiers and it's interesting to see them together," Famie said.

Tom Morgan told Famie that he didn't want to come back to relive the war but to experience the culture, the people and food that he didn't experience while he was a soldier.

In one of the most interesting segments, sure to make the final edit, Morgan meets with a Vietnamese veteran of the war, and still a soldier. They share a strange "tea" and discuss their memories of being enemies.

"This just exceeded all my visions of what should be in this show," Famie said as he ran the footage of Morgan and his new found friend.

But in addition to healing the wounds of war, Famie and his cameraman, Kevin Hewitt of Livonia, have gotten an up-close-and-personal view of the Vietnamese people and their daily lives.

"My reason for going was simple," Famie said. "The place was culturally interesting to me in terms of food, people, history."

To get a close view of the people, Famie and Hewitt hired two cyclos driven by brothers. Cyclos are three-wheeled cycles with a front carriage seat at street level. Hewitt's footage shows Famie enjoying the view as his driver maneuvers among bicycles, scooters, pedestrians and an occasional small car.

"The cyclo is the best means of transportation in Hanoi. ... You're down close to the traffic. These brothers were our drivers and we shot from these seats wherever they took us," Famie said.

They took them to open air markets, artists markets, a sidewalk barbershop, the Opera House, popular bars (Apocalypse Now and Spotted Cow) and back to their room at the five-star Metropole. The brothers also took their two new friends out to dinner at the kind of restaurant enjoyed by the Vietnamese.

"If you befriend someone in a foreign country, have them take you someplace they usually go and it will be an experience," Famie said.

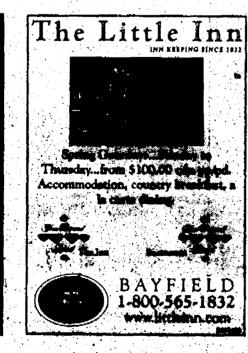

The Metropole's Chef Didier introduced Famie to some of Vietnam's more unusual culinary treats as they strolled an open air market including dragon fruit (a curious cross between kiwi and melon), snake fish, cuddle fish and thousand-year-old eggs. One culinary item that Famie will not show is dog.

Another specialty of the country sat at Famie's feet as he showed the tapes, a large jug of snake wine with large, dead snakes curled at the bottom (said to be medicinal).

Vietnam cooking styles vary from place to place in the coun-were here from the mid 1800s to the 1950s and you often see people with baguettes," Famie said. "They use herbs, vegetables, stocks, lake and river type seafood. In the south, the style is spicier and they rely on ocean seafood."

In the countryside, Famie and the veterans encountered a different kind of Vietnam as they pedaled 70-80 miles a day. Famie was outfitted with a hybrid bike from Bikesport in Dearborn, which he said provided a comfortable ride.

It was here in the countryside where Morgan met the war veteran, where the group stopped to visit a holy shrine and where Famie tried his hand at planting rice with an attractive young farm girl.

In one rural town, Famie and Hewitt were greeted like celebrities at a government school, the children exchanging high-fives and delightful giggles with the Americans, mugging for the camera and generally being happy.

Famie said he is planning to hold a benefit dinner prior to the broadcast of his special that will benefit Rainbow Connection, Vietnam veterans and help create a computer link between the school in Vietnam and a school in Detroit through ICAN (The International Children's Alliance Network).

Famie's cooking adventures have taken him to the mesas of New Mexico, scuba diving in Hawaii, barbecuing underneath Mount Rushmore and trading recipes in Shanghai, but this adventure was an emotional experience for him and his fellow riders.

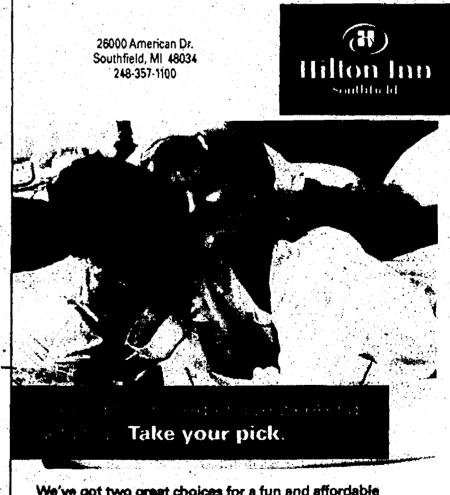

"I miss being there and would go back in a minute," Famie said.

Rockets soar in wins over Wayne

Hayes, Swafford go distance for Westland Glenn

BY BRAD EMONS SPORTS WRITER

bemons@oe.homecomm.net

The weather was picture perfect Thursday — sunny, 70-plus degrees, not a cloud in the sky.

The nice climate made it even a better day for Westland John Glenn's baseball team, which opened its season by sweeping a double-header from host Wayne Memorial, 7-4 and 15-4 (five-inning mercy).

The Rockets, who turned a pair of double plays and received complete-game performances from pitchers Dale Hayes and Mike Swafford, are off to a 2-0 start. Wayne, which dropped its season opener March 31 to Redford Thurston, 12-9, falls to 0-3.

Hayes, a 6-foot-4 senior who helped Glenn reach the state Class A quarterfinals a year ago, did it with his bat and arm in the opener.

Despite a shaky start on the mound where he gave up three runs and three walks in the opening inning, the right-hander recovered to pitch all seven innings, scattering eight hits while striking out 12.

He also helped his own cause with an RBI double in the first inning followed by a solo homer in the third. Hayes also walked twice, including once with the bases loaded to finish with three RBI.

Hayes, 5-3 a year ago, threw 113 pitches in his season debut.

"Dale started out slow, but he looked better as the game went along," Glenn coach Todd Duffield said.
"He got stronger, especially the last two innings

(when he fanned five)."

Chad-Sansom, Ryan Rattray and Brian Reed each added two hits for the winners. Swafford added an RBI double in the third inning.

John Judd had an RBI double and Jeremy Overton, who went 3-for-4, added a two-run single in the first to give Wayne a 3-2 advantage.

The Zebras went up 4-2 in the second inning on Matt Mackiewicz's RBI single, but the lead didn't last as Glenn struck for two runs in the third and three more in the fourth.

Wayne also stranded nine runners on base.

Ryan Czyzak, the Wayne starter, worked the first four innings and took the loss. Shawn McDaniel pitched three scoreless innings in relief.

"Our fielding improved from the first game, at least we picked up the ball," said Wayne coach Jim Chronowski, whose team made just two errors after committing 10 in the season opener against Thurston. "But we're still in the process of trying to evolve a pitching staff."

Reed, a senior shortstop who had only 10 at-bats his junior year, went 3-for-3 with four RBI in the nightcap to finish five-for-seven on the day for Glenn.

"That's more hits than he had all last year," Duffield said. "I'm surprised we hit the ball as well as we did today. We only struck out nine times in 12 innings and that's a good sign."

Rattray, a catcher, contributed two doubles and three RBI.

Ryan Ybarra and Czyzak each collected two hits for Vayne.

Swafford, meanwhile, was tough when he had to be, giving up six hits and only one walk while fanning eight in five innings. "Mike threw well," Duffield said. "And we did O.K.

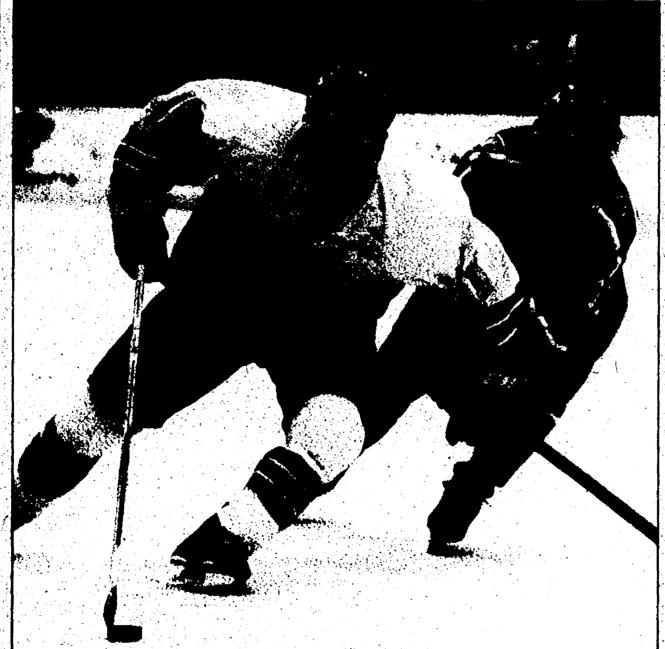

defensively for as many balls that were put in play. We had 20 strikeouts (between the two games), so we did an adequate job defensively."

Wayne many bile used four different nitchers

Wayne, meanwhile, used four different pitchers with starter Justin Smoes suffering the loss. John Ferris, Jason Gibson and Gary Stevens also took their turns on the mound.

"Our goal is to get more looks in our quest to find pitching," Chronowski said. "We had nine walks and two hit batters — that's 11 freebies — which is a little too much."

ONTARIO HOCKEY PLAYOFFS

For the third time in four games, the Plymouth Whalers and the London Knights were forced to an extra period to decide things Friday night in London (Ont.).

But this time, it was the Whalers who prevailed.

Defenseman Nikos Tselios scored 6:05 into the first overtime on the power play, with London's Mike Mazzuca in the box, to give Plymouth a 5-4 win, evening the best-of-seven series at two games apiece.

David Legwand and Harold Druken assisted on the gamewinner.

For Legwand, it was one of his better games of the series. He scored his first goal of the series with just 1:04 left in the second period to give the Whalers a 4-2 lead.

But London, playing in front of a packed house (attendance;

Jay Legault narrowed the gap to 4-3 with a goal at the 5:25 mark of the final period, then Tom Kostopoulos scored his second goal of the game with 9:17 left to knot it at 4-all

ished third in the Class A state

Their only dual-meet defeat came against Class B-C-D champion Grosse Ile.

The school that produced LPGA standout Meg Mallon landed four on the first team last year with Kristen Smith the lone casualty to graduation. Mercy's top returnee is senior Jennifer Borowiec.

But the Marlins' expected success in 1999 shouldn't detract from the four Livonia schools this season.

Here is a preseason outlook for the four teams.

Livonia Churchill

Sharon Laskowski, named 1998 Observerland Coach of the Year, lost a pair of second-team All-Area performers in Megan Vollick and Lauren Boucher to graduation.

Last year Churchill won the Western Division in the Western Lakes Activities Association and tied Livonia Stevenson for the best dual meet record in the WLAA.

So it's a rebuilding year for Laskowski's 24-member squad?

"Actually we could be a stronger team than last season," said the Churchill coach, now in her sixth season. "We could make the state tournament, but if not, we could have a couple of individuals go.

"We will be strong even through the eighth player."

Freshman Heidi Aittama, who played on last summer's Michigan Power Bilt Junior Tour, could be the catalyst.

"She's tough off the tee, she just creams it," Laskowski said. "She's very serious about golf. She wants to make it a career."

Freshmen Kelly Parzuchowski and Katy Reck also show a lot of promise.

Ashley Johnson, who should be co. Freshman Colleen Frizzell the Chargers' No. 2 player. Other veterans returning include seniors Stacy Loucks and Stacy Garofoli, along with Milford Lakeland.

GIRLS GOLF

juniors Julia McLaughlin and Jennie Lusa.

Johnson, McLaughlin and Lusa made honorable mention All-Observer a year ago.

"Several of our players took private lessons and they should only get better," Laskowski said. "The girls are only getting better. They're hitting longer off the tee. They're just better all the way around and they're taking it more seriously."

Churchill opens its season Wednesday at Pox Creek against

Livonia Franklin

The Patriots were last in the WLAA a year ago and took only three players to the conference meet.

But things could be changing for third-year coach Larry Jack-

"This could be our break out year and we could win a couple of dual meet matches," Jackson said. "It should be fun this year." Junior Katie Beasley, who did not play as a sophomore, will be the team's No. 1 player.

"As a freshman she was our best golfer and should be our best this year," Jackson said. "She's had scores in the 40s."

Sophomore Erin Gavle and junior Amanda Szabelski (honorable mention), who have worked diligently during the off-season, give Franklin a solid nucleus.

Other returnees include sophomore Tina Esch, junior Megan O'Connor (honorable mention) and sophomore Crystal Card-

Among the promising newcomers are juniors Colleen Yorick, Megan Houghton and Kristin Kmet, along with sophomores They will be joined by junior. Nikie Niles and Monique Maurishould also help.

> The Patriots open their season Thursday at Idyl Wyld against

Livonia Stevenson

The Spartans, WLAA, meet champions a year ago with a 9-1 dual-meet record, lost secondteam All-Area pick Carri Jarvis to graduation.

But Stevenson returns Mara Mazzoni, the team's lone senior and one of the standouts in Observerland.

Mazzoni, a first-team All-Observer selection, averaged 43.7 per nine last year and was WLAA individual medalist with an 80 at Hudson Mills. She just_ missed qualifying for the state meet with an 82 at the Sylvan Glen.

"We're'hoping Mara will be a little stronger," Wagner said of the Spartans' team MVP.

Mazzoni will get support from junior returnees Carli Heppner, Jessica Makowski, Laura Haddock, Teresa Layman and Andrea Greco.

Both Heppner and Makowski made All-Observer honorable mention.

Promising newcomers include junior Leah Winiesdorffer; sophomores Katie Carlson, Megan McLeod, Courtney Gilkey, Sara Marcicki and Lauren Guyton; along with freshmen Rebecca Rogozan, Jill Fawkes and Sarah Zientarski.

"Walled Lake Central should be very tough in our league, but we have high hops and we hope we can be competitive," Wagner said.

Livonia Ladywood

Lake Superior and the Livonia Ladywood golf team have one thing in common — pretty deep. "Our team is deep," Coach Randy Ferguson said. "We're one of the deepest in the area. "We have 12 girls who can shoot under 60. What we're going to need is for five or six of them to average under 50 consis-

Ferguson is in his first season its home tracks this season. at Ladywood's golf coach, although he was working with Monday against host Harper the Junior Varsity last season and has been with the program for five years,

The team loses Sarah Townsend to graduation but has its other key performers return-

Three seniors who were on the team last year are Katy Zimmerman, Gretchen Siebert and Rebecca Andersen. Both Siebert and Zimmerman were thirdteam All-Area picks.

A fourth senior is Jessica Kowal.

"This is her first year playing with us," Ferguson said. "She will help the varsity."

Zimmeramn averaged 50.3 strokes per nine holes last year, lowest of the returning golfers. Siebert carried a 52 average while Andersen avearged 52.4. Junior Mary Griffen also returns and carried 55.1 average.

Up from the JV are Rachel Andersen, Rebecca's sister, a sophomore who shot 54.7 for an average nine holes of golf. Juniors Amy Eischen (56.8) and Betsy Rais (59.4) are also in the Ferguson has four golfers on the junior varsity who could "possibly be helping out by the end of the year" in junior Lani Koczara, sophomore Chelsea Walsh and "two freshmen who look pretty good so far in practice, Amanda Graves and Ashley Loyer."

The squad has set a goal for itself of reaching the state tournament.

"Our goal is to qualify for the state," Ferguson said. "To do that we would have to finish in the top three in our regional, which would be a first for us.

"But we have a lot of experience. We can do that. We're looking good so far.

"Our team is in Division II this year, and that really opens it up for us for us."

Ladywood is hoping to add St. Johns to Whispering Willows for

The Blazers' first match is Woods Regina.

Late surge earns Plymouth 1st win

BY C.J. RISAK Browts Writer girlsak@oe.homecomm.net

The final score indicates a lopsided, cruise-control, that's. more-like-it kind of game. Plymouth Whalers 7, London Knights 3.

Don't believe it. Whalers' coach Pete DeBoer doesn't.

"They're a hard-working team." DeBoer said of London after his Whalers scored three times in the last 3:21 to turn a close home game into a rout. "We only scored two goal in each of the first two games, and that's uncharacteristic of us. We kept the pressure on them (tonight) and finally got some to go in."

The win narrows Plymouth's deficit in games to 2-1 (see accompanying story). The two teams meet again at 7:30 p.m. Friday in London, followed by a 7:30 p.m. game Saturday at Compuware Arena:

Adam Colagiacomo and Harold Druken scored two goals apiece to pace the offense, and goalie Robert Holsinger made three superb stops in the first period to keep the Whalers in front.

But they were never in complete control, were never able to pull away from the pesky Knights, until Colagiacomo intercepted an errant pass deep in London's end late in the game.

OHL PLAYOFFS

He skated in on goalie Gene Chiarello all alone, swerving left and knocking the puck past him to put Plymouth up 5-3 with 3:21 left.

Two more goals followed, Colagiacomo scoring into the empty net with 53.5 seconds left on a pass from Damian Surma, and Jason Ward icing it with another goal after intercepting a pass and beating Chiarello with 18.4 seconds left.

"We had it at 4-3, and we had some good chances around the net," said London coach Gary Agnew. "We just didn't get them in. We had some great scoring chances early, but we didn't capitalize."

Those missed opportunities came back to haunt the Knights. Three times in the first eight minutes of the game, they skated in on Holsinger alone; three times - one 2-on-1 and two 1on-none breaks - they came away goal-less.

"He was great," said DeBoer of Holsinger's early performance. "I thought their goaltending was good, too, and that's what you need in the playoffs."

For the first two games, that's what London had used to frustrate the Whalers. Chiarello had faced 77 shots, compared to 62 for Holsinger. The Knights' goalie had made 73 stops, propelling his team to a pair of 3-2 overtime wins.

This game was even more lopsided in shots, with Plymouth pelting Chiarello with 42 while allowing just 25. "If you're not getting any chances, you'd better worry, said Agnew.

And yet, when London's Richard Pitirri rifled a shot past Holsinger to make it 4-3 with 14:38 still left in the game, it was the Whalers who were worried. With good reason.

"If we'd gone down threegames-to-none, and were faced with having to win four in a row, that would have been very, very tough," said DeBoer. "Hopefully, this (win) will be a momentumswitcher.

"Hopefully, we can go there and get one, and get the homeice advantage back."

London's failure to cash in on its scoring chances early in the game came into sharper focus when, on the game's first powerplay, the Whalers struck.

A Nik Tselios shot from the left point was poked in by Randy Fitzgerald with 7:37 left in the first period, making it 1-0.

It took just 44 seconds for Plymouth to double its lead. Chiarello made a kick save on a Colagiacomo shot, but the rebound came right to Druken for a tap in to make it 2-0 with 6:53 left in the period. London had yet another great chance late in the period, a 3-on-2 break, but Holsinger again made the stop to preserve the Whalers' 2-0 lead after one.

Some sloppy defense resulted in London's first goal at the 17:22 mark of the second period, with Pitirri centering to Krys Barch for the goal.

But the Whalers answered immediately, Druken taking a pass from Colagiacomo and drifting past Chiarello unchecked before knocking it past him to restore Plymouth's two-goal cushion with 16:52 left in the

The score reached 4-1 on a pretty play set up by Ward, who skated in front of the net, then centered back to Julian Smith for the goal with 14:27 left. But London refused to surrender. with Joel Scherban flipping a failed clearing pass past Holsinger to narrow it to 4-2 with 8:26 left in the second. The loss bothered Agnew, but not as much as the future. "I'm not concerned with their falling," he said. "I'm concerned about their getting back up. We have to worry about the game Friday."

Wednesday's game was the biggest of the season for the Whalers.

Nesting season allows birds time to find way

NATURE

Nesting season for birds like hawks and has crows but begun, other many songbirds will be building a nest and laying eggs soon.

It takes a lot of energy to build the nest and for the female to develop her eggs.

NOWICKI Here are some helpful suggestions for nesting birds in your backyard. Many nests are made of long dried grasses. Though most lawns in the city are manicured with short grass, some leave long blades from last year's growth for the birds. They can always be removed later in the season after nest building has been completed.

Concentrating these long blades of grass in a pile or container will help the birds use less energy during their search. Large grasses and sticks are used in the foundation of the nest, but soft material is used to line the cup of the nest. Feathers and hair are two things that are often used to finish the interior of a nest. It might be hard for most of us to get feathers for our backyard ly available this time of year. Next time you comb your dog or cat, keep the hair in a ball and put it in an onion bag. Hang the onion bag from a tree branch birds, however, pet hair is readi-and local nesting birds, like chickadees and nuthatches, will pluck them from the ball.

Titmice have been known to take hair from live animals lying down. One bird even tried to pluck some hair from a man standing in his yard.

Nest boxes or platforms can be constructed and erected in an appropriate manner. Remember, not all birds nest in a box. Robins for instance next on a flat surface, cardinals will not use a box or a platform.

It would be a good idea to get some specifics about nest box constructions and where to erect them from books in the library.

Building a nest is an important first step in raising young, but the female must also pro-

Producing eggs takes a lot of energy and calcium. Egg shells are basically calcium. Most of the calcium comes from the bones of female birds.

Putting crushed eggshells in with seed, or separate on the ground, will give the females an opportunity to replenish their calcium supply.

Don't put a lot of eggshells in one place, they could attract opportunists like raccoons and

These natural nest building materials are from recycled sources Some people also recycle pieces of yarn or string.

There is nothing wrong with these materials, just don't use bright colored string or yarn, remember some predators can see those bright colors.

exploits to date. Peterson was busy schedule to give bowling lessons. He is certified at the. Bronze level with TEAM USA, and will soon be certified at the silver coaching level. He feels that young bowlers who are serious about their game should be sure that they have the right equipment for their needs. They should get lots of practice, no goofing around and no interruptions for at least an hour a day.
