Mayor: City's future promising

BY DARRELL CLEM

Mayor Robert Thomas, in his 10th State of the City address, said Wednesday evening that Westland faces a promising future following a decade of landmark growth.

Thomas touted citywide property values that have risen from $842 million to $1.7 billion - more than doubling during his tenure as mayor.

Early in the next millennium, he said, "I think we'll hit the $2 billion mark."

Thomas, the longest-serving mayor in the city's 33-year history, received a standing ovation from a crowd of nearly 300 people who came to the Hellenic Cultural Center to see his decade-crowning State of the City speech.

Thomas said he wants outsiders to choose Westland when they search for a new place to live, and he laid his speech with reasons why he believes they should.

Consider:

- The southeast side is rebounding with new housing and a planned fire station, and the city is planning to install roads, water mains and sewers for dozens of new homes planned just south of Carver subdivision.
- With a "can-do attitude," Thomas

Thomas backs seizing land for rec center

BY DARRELL CLEM

Mayor Robert Thomas confirmed Monday that he supports condemning and seizing property northwest of Ford Road and Central City Parkway to build an upscale recreation center and a new city administration building.

But Thomas said during a telephone interview that he won't try to force a divided Westland City Council to take that politically risky step, even though he believes "it's the right thing to do."

The mayor's remarks came 10 weeks after he halted negotiations between the city and property owners who wanted nearly $4 million for the land - more than double what city officials say it's worth.

Council President Sandra Cicirelli said Tuesday that a Four candidates will compete for two seats at stake in the June 14 Wayne-Westland school board election.

They are:

- Skip Moter, a Wayne resident who helped the board win voter support for a $108.3 million bond proposal for building improvements and classroom technology. He now serves on a bond construction committee.

- Martha Pitsenbarger, a Wayne resident who is seeking re-election as she nears the end of her first four-year term. She is board secretary.

- Brenda Smith, a first-time candidate and 1997 graduate of Westland John Glenn High School. She attends Henry Ford College and is editor of the school newspaper.

10 seek council seat

Lobbying efforts involving a Westland City Council appointed post had begun even before Wednesday's deadline passed for candidates to apply, officials said.

Council President Sandra Cicirelli said local police and firefighters had previously contacted her to show support for David Cox - a former councilman ousted by voters in 1995. He now serves as Wayne-Westland school board president.

Nine others also are hoping for consideration. According to the city clerk's office, they are:

- Jim Chuck, Westland library board member.
- Georgra Conant, who is active in civic groups.
- Reasther Everett, longtime city precinct worker.
- Debra Fowlkes, former Wayne-Westland school board president.

City-owned property sales bring in $500,000

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER
dclem@oe.homecomm.net

The sale of 74 city-owned properties will boost Westland's budget by $500,000 and free up land for new development - particularly on the south side, officials said.

The bulk of new land sales will occur in neighborhoods bounded by Middlebelt, Annapolis, Inkster and Van Born roads - an area fueling renewed interest among local developers and outside investors. "We think this is a sign that these neighborhoods are going to come back strong and be as vital as any other part of Westland," James Gilbert, Westland housing/community development director, said Monday.

"People are wanting to invest money there now, and that says something," Gilbert said.

City council members pledged to sell 74 properties after administration officials sought bids for scores of parcels acquired through nonpayment of taxes or abandonment by previous owners.

Accepted bids ranged from $500 to $55,151, and Assessor James Elrod hopes to complete the sales by this summer.

"I'd love to shoot for June 1," he said.

Elrod estimated that as many as 25 of the properties will be suitable for new housing, while other

■ A Westland Police Department expansion will soon house a new radio system and central dispatch program for this city and several surrounding communities.

■ Wayne-Westland schools are on an upswing that includes massive building renovations and new classroom technology — under the leadership of Superintendent Greg Baracy's administration.

“What a wonderful vision that they have obviously had for our Wayne-Westland school district,” Thomas said.

■ A 14-year streak of balanced budgets continues for the city of Westland, coinciding with improved services and a tax rate that slightly declined, he said.

■ Thomas' administration has boosted public safety by implementing new programs such as placing bike-riding police officers and paramedics in neighborhoods.

Reviving his city slogan, Thomas said Westland “truly can be the place to be,” and he commended his staff and the Westland City Council for supporting his vision.

However, not all of the mayor's State of the City address portrayed Westland as a leader among other communities. He continued to express hope for a new recreation center and a new city administration building — projects that have proved elusive.

And he cited a dire need for an expansion of an 18th District Court building where two judges and their staffs “turn over more cases than some courts twice their size.”

Earlier in the week, Thomas told the Observer that he favors allowing the court to use its own revenues to pay for a ground-level expansion. Construction could start later this year, he said.

Thomas also conceded that local motorists could face some headaches as a wide array of road projects get under way in 1999. He cited a current project — a fifth-lane on Newburgh between Warren and Ford — as an example.

“When it's all done,” he said, “we're going to have some much better roads to drive on.”

Thomas held out hope that Westland will continue to improve as the city enters a new millennium.

Said the mayor: “I want the best service for our people.”

Coming Sunday: The mayor didn't just tout his own accomplishments Wednesday. His State of the City also included honors for the city's top mother, father, student and teacher, plus a special award for Westland City Council member Justine Barns.

council majority opposes condemnation.

“We have talked about it,” she said, “but the support is not there.”

In another clear indication that administration officials haven't abandoned new building proposals, a public forum has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 27, at John Glenn High School to hear comments on a recreation center.

“This gives anybody in Westland a chance to come and tell us what they think,” Thomas said.

But some officials criticized the way the mayor is handling the issue of new buildings.

“On one hand I applaud any sincere effort to get input from the community on the proposal,” Councilman Glenn Anderson said, “but I question why the administration continues to send mixed signals. Just a couple of months ago (the mayor) announced the proposal had been abandoned, and yet he continues to signal that it hasn't.”

Proving he still is willing to fight for new city buildings, Thomas' latest statements marked a strong public stance for seizing property behind a Kroger-anchored retail strip center on Ford Road.

Had Thomas, alone, been empowered to condemn the property, he said, “I probably would have done it a year ago.”

But he conceded that he understands why council members are reluctant to seize property and become embroiled in a court battle that would ultimately decide the city's price tag for the land.

“I just know in my heart ... that that would be the right thing to do for the city,” Thomas said.

Survey says

He also pointed to a January survey, conducted by an outside firm, that indicated a majority of Westland residents support building a new recreation center. The poll also found respondents would pay to use it.

Anderson said the same survey indicates that “an overwhelming majority” of residents who use the existing Bailey Recreation Center are satisfied with it.

Thomas has said the Bailey Center and Westland City Hall are becoming increasingly shabby and inefficient.

Still, some city leaders say new buildings and condemned property shouldn't come at any cost.

“I am not supportive at this time of condemning that property, and I don't see that position changing,” Councilman Richard LeBlanc said. “The biggest issue with securing that property for hopeful or eventual city use is the price. When you get into condemnation, your price has the potential to be significantly inflated both over its real value and its perceived value.”

Thomas and his supporters want to pay for new city buildings — estimated at $20 million or more — by using tax revenues from a special Tax Increment Finance Authority district north of Ford Road.

“We're kind of in limbo,” Thomas said Monday. “There is no absolute plan that we're going to do it.”

Some officials, such as LeBlanc, Anderson and departing Councilman Charles Pickering, support abolishing the TIFA district and funneling those tax revenues into citywide services.

TIFA worries

“My fear is that this big money tree called TIFA is going to be financially occupied for so long a period that it will have a negative effect on the city,” LeBlanc said.

He estimated the TIFA district would have to be extended another 20 years to pay for a new recreation center and city administration building.

“That's just too long to have that money being out of the at-large budget of the city,” LeBlanc said. “It is time to disband TIFA. It did its job.”

TIFA dollars have helped pay for a wide array of improvements such as a new public library on Central City Parkway between Ford and Warren.

In fact, Thomas used the library as a key example of how city officials can boost public ser-VICES without asking for a tax increase.

He said the city spent $13 million on the library.

“Not one resident had to pay one dime extra to build that library,” Thomas said, although he conceded that city dollars are used to operate it.

Some officials have suggested that the city could end TIFA, return revenues to the city budget and then plan how to pay for new buildings, though not necessarily on Thomas' preferred site.

Some political observers also say the issue over possible condemnation could become a major issue this election year as voters fill four council seats. Two incumbents, Pickering and Councilwoman Justine Barns, have already announced they are stepping down.

Pickering, in fact, will step down effective April 30 and be replaced by an appointee who could cast crucial votes on city building proposals.

Cicirelli acknowledged that condemnation talks may not be dead because it's possible the mayor “may present it to us again.”

Thomas said he hopes the April 27 public forum will give city officials a deeper understanding of how residents feel about a possible recreation center and a new city hall.

The forum can only add to information gleaned from January's official survey results, he said.

Dump day

Taking out trash: Westland residents took advantage of free dump days Friday and Saturday at the Westland transfer site at the Department of Public Services yard, 37137 Marquette. The center is open to Westland residents 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays until Saturday, Nov. 6. The site doesn't accept stumps, dirt, cement and roof shingles. Fees are based on size of the vehicle used: $11 for a car or station wagon, $21 for a small pickup or van, $29 for a standard pickup or 4 x 6 trailer, $44 for a 4 x 8 or 5 x 8 trailer, $60 for a large trailer.

parcels will allow for home additions, garages or merely more yard space.

Officials say the land sales will boost redevelopment efforts by organizations such as Peoples Community Hope for Homes, a nonprofit church group that already has built two new homes, relocated one and spruced up two former dilapidated houses, making them livable again.

The group's efforts have focused on Carver subdivision, southeast of Middlebelt and Annapolis, where city officials say redevelopment is ending 25 years of stagnation. A new fire station also will be built during the next year.

The property sales - approved last week by council members - will pump an estimated one-time $500,000 into city coffers and lead to new construction, which will generate annual tax revenues.

On the down side, Elrod said the round of property bids didn't spark as much interest as had been hoped for parcels in Norwayne subdivision - bounded by Palmer, Wildwood, Glenwood and Merriman.

"We didn't have any luck with our Norwayne properties," Elrod said.

City officials rejected some bids as low as $100, choosing to keep the property until a better offer emerges.

Officials say the land sales will boost redevelopment efforts by organizations such as Peoples Community Hope for Homes, a nonprofit church group that already has built two new homes, relocated one and spruced up two former dilapidated houses.

"We just want to make sure, in an area where we want to see some redevelopment, that we look at all those options available to us," Elrod said.

Properties not sold during this initial round of bidding will be returned to a bid list, likely by early June. Those parcels could be sold piecemeal if potential buyers meet minimum prices established by the city.

Call the assessor's office at 467-3160 for more information.

City officials will likely sponsor another round of open bidding after the city acquires a substantial number of other properties from the state for nonpayment of taxes or abandonment by previous owners, Elrod said.

He didn't know when that might occur.

Schools race

5 candidates seek office in Livonia

School board campaigning gets under way in earnest now that five candidates have stepped forward to vie for two seats in the Livonia district.

In Livonia Public Schools, with James Watters' decision not to run again, it's a certainty that, come July 1, at least one new face will be on the Livonia Board of Education.

Incumbent Frank Kokenakes,

At 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 26, the Livonia PTA Council will host a candidates' forum for residents to question the five candidates for the Livonia board.

an attorney who lives on Mayfield Street, has filed for one of the two four-year terms open on the Livonia board.

Four other contenders for the two four-year terms are Karen Egan of Golfview Street, owner of a child care business; Kristen Galka of Ronnie Street, a registered nurse; Larry Naser of MacKenzie Street in Westland, a mortgage broker; and Kevin Whitehead of Minton Street, a marketing analyst.

Candidates have until 4 p.m. Thursday to withdraw from the race.

There are no tax questions on the June 14 ballot for Livonia schools.

At 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 26, the Livonia PTA Council will host a candidates' forum for residents to question the five candidates for the Livonia board. The forum will be held in the board room of the Livonia schools' central office, 15125 Farmington Road.

Marshall Wright, a Westland resident who has become a familiar face at Wayne-Westland school board meetings. Wright, who lost a previous bid for a school board seat, has become more involved in the district in recent years.

In filling two four-year terms, Wayne-Westland voters will elect at least one new school board member.

Incumbent David James announced earlier that he will step aside when his term ends June 30. He has said he plans to run for a Westland City Council seat this year.

School board members who win election this year will take office at a time when the district appears to be on the rebound.

The district has a $14 million budget surplus, compared to a $278,000 deficit in 1993-94, and many school building renovations and additions are under way.

Moreover, school officials have been touting improvements in classroom instruction and student scores on state achievement tests.

Election winners will take office July 1, joining holdovers David Cox, Mathew McCusker, Robin Moore, Teresa Robbins and Ed Turner.

James Godbout, president of the Millwood Village Condominium Association.

Michael Kehrer, former precinct delegate.

Michael Rintz, Westland Zoning Board of Appeals chairman.

Dorothy Smith, longtime council watcher and veteran council candidate.

Cicirelli and her colleagues haven't announced a process for choosing an appointee, although veteran Councilman Charles Pickering's resignation is effective April 30 - eight months before his term expires.

"I'm in favor of doing some interviews," Cicirelli said Wednesday.

She indicated that she would prefer to narrow the field of 10 candidates and then interview finalists.

Cicirelli said she didn't know when an appointee will be named, although she said it could be "sometime in May."

Earlier this week, some political observers speculated privately that Cox already has substantial council support - although not necessarily a majority - for the seat.

Cox would have to resign his Wayne-Westland school board post.

"Certainly I would step down," he said Wednesday. "As to the exact day, I don't know."

'I'm in favor of doing some interviews.'

Sandra Cicirelli council president

Cox is nearing the end of his third year of a four-year school board term. He confirmed Wednesday that he plans to seek a city council seat in this year's election.

Without criticizing Cox, some officials have said they hope the council will seriously consider the field of candidates and not let political lobbying decide the appointment.

"I would hope that the council would appoint someone who has the ability of independent thought or the wherewithal to make independent decisions and not be swayed by a political group or a political faction," Anderson said.

"I would hope the majority (of council members) would try to find someone along the lines of the ideology that Chuck Pickering had - and the way he approached issues," Anderson said.

Pickering has been considered an independent voice on the council. As of Wednesday, no council study session had been scheduled to discuss replacing Pickering, who chose to resign after deciding he wouldn't seek reelection this year.

County may require septic tank inspection

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabranczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Homeowners with septic tanks may soon have pay $50 for a septic system inspection every five years or when their home is sold under an ordinance proposed by the Wayne County Department of Environment.

Wayne County officials will meet Friday with community representatives from western Wayne County to discuss the ordinance designed to eliminate one pollution source of the Rouge River: failed septic systems. Jim Murray, director of environment, expects to forward the ordinance to county commissioners in May for discussion and approval.

The ordinance calls for homeowners with septic tanks to obtain inspections from county health officials once every five years or when the house is sold.

Communities have the option to sign up with the county for the program, said Murray to members of the Conference of Western Wayne Friday.

The CWW is a legislative consortium of elected officials from the cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Wayne and Westland and the townships of Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren.

Septic systems are wastewater treatment systems that use septic tanks and drain fields to dispose of sewage in soil. Typically they are in rural or large lot settings where a sanitary sewer is not available, but some of the older communities have homes with septic where it was cost-prohibitive to connect a new sewer line when the home was built. Failed septic tanks near the Rouge can increase bacteria levels and affect the river's water quality.

Murray recently said Wayne County was finding a failure rate of 20 percent for septic tanks. Fifty to 75 percent of tanks older than 15 years failed.

Most Wayne County communities have agreed to initiate inspection programs for on-site sewage systems, according to the general permit applications filed with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

Murray expects to bring the ordinance before U.S. District Judge John Feikens at a court hearing May 17. Feikens has overseen the cleanup of the Rouge River, which is an "area of concern" of its water quality, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Plant tours celebrate clean water

The Detroit Water and Sewerage Department will celebrate the importance of safe, high quality drinking water with other water utilities nationally in May.

The educational campaign is aimed at telling the public about the meaningful role that quality drinking water plays in daily life. The theme of this year's event is "Celebrate Water."

"Providing safe drinking water is everyone's business," said Stephen F. Gordon, director of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department and president-elect of the American Water Works Association.

"Issues such as source water protection, new methods of water treatment and increased regulations make drinking water an important public concern."

Free Drinking Water Week/Month activities offered by DWSD for adults and children in its 126-community, four million-customer service area include:

- Water plant tours for neighborhood/school groups at the Northeast Water Plant, 11000 E. Eight Mile, just east of Van Dyke in Detroit. Northeast is one of five water plants in the DWSD system and serves as host plant during Drinking Water Week/Month. Tours last approximately 40 minutes. Souvenirs will be provided. (Regular tours are offered year-round.)

- Speakers' Bureau presentations - DWSD representatives will visit school and community groups to share important information and fascinating facts about the water that comes from your tap.

- Drinking Water Week/Month Ceremony/Luncheon - Ten students who submitted water-related projects to the Science and Engineering Fair of Metropolitan Detroit held in March at Cobo Center will be presented with U.S. Savings Bonds in denominations of $50 to $300. The students, their parents and teachers will be recognized at the ceremony Tuesday, May 18, in the Water Board Building, 735 Randolph in downtown Detroit.

Requests for tours and speakers are still being accepted and are scheduled on a first-come, first-served basis. Reservations are required and can be made by calling DWSD's Public Relations Division at (313) 964-9570, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

Hearing examines plan to cover Westland landfill

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

A former Nankin Township landfill contains groundwater contaminated by barium.

The Westland landfill would be covered by soil and a liner, but the barium will not be removed, according to a remedial action plan completed by a consultant for Wayne County and Crestwood Development Co., the co-owners of the 17-acre site. The landfill is about 12 acres.

A hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. today at the Bailey Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland, by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality on the plan to cover the landfill. The MDEQ will accept public comments through May 3, then decide on whether to approve the plan or amend it with changes.

Located approximately 1,200 feet northeast of the intersection of Newburgh and Warren Road, the site consists of undeveloped land, covered by grass and trees.

The site is bordered on the north and west by Tonquish Creek and the Holliday Nature Preserve, while on the south and east lie residential multi-family housing units. A security fence restricts site access. Small amounts of municipal waste are evident on the surface of the site.

Consultants ARCADIS, Geraghty & Miller Inc. of Novi believe a "mixing zone" area for the barium adjacent to Tonquish Creek meets MDEQ criteria, as the consultants used engineering formulas and a study of soils and potential discharge to evaluate the zone. Consultants have requested the MDEQ surface water quality division reaffirm the consultants' analysis.

Open grass and forested barriers are proposed for the site's western portion.

Grass barrier

The grass barrier will consist of a geosynthetic fabric covered by 12 inches of soil material, then covered by 3 inches of topsoil and seeded with grass. The barrier is designed to allow tree growth and achieve an effective exposure barrier, covered by 6 inches of topsoil and seeded with grass.

An erosion barrier will be installed along approximately 1,900 feet of Tonquish Creek, which will require a reshaping and grading of the creek bank. Any fill material removed from the creek bank area will be moved back into the fill area to be covered by the exposure barrier.

Five years ago the site was considered an environmental "hot spot" and cleaned up by the Environmental Protection Agency.

In June 1994, the MDEQ completed fieldwork at the site, and found arsenic, barium, cadmium, copper, mercury, zinc and toluene dissolved concentrations in groundwater exceed the MDEQ groundwater/surface-water interface or generic cleanup criteria. Surface soil and sediment samples showed arsenic and lead concentrations that exceeded the MDEQ's direct contact standards.

Between November 1994 and February 1995, the EPA removed 5,009 tons of waste including 800 cubic yards of Four candidates in race for Schoolcraft board

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Voters in the Schoolcraft College district will pick two out of four candidates June 14 to serve six-year terms on the college's Board of Trustees.

Two current trustees and two other residents of the college district filed before a 4 p.m. deadline Monday to officially declare their candidacies.

Patricia Watson of Northville, current board president, will seek re-election, while Greg Stempien, a Northville resident who was appointed by trustees last year to fill a vacancy on the board, will run in his first election.

Michael Novak of Westland and Richard Reaume of Plymouth Township also filed petitions.

The college district includes the school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and part of Novi school districts. Novak resides in the Livonia school district, so he is eligible to run.

Trustees do not receive compensation. They oversee an annual budget that exceeds $43 million.

Here is a summary of each candidate:

Novak

Novak is a Livonia police officer and an assistant coordinator with the police academy at the Schoolcraft's Radcliff Center in Garden City. As coordinator, he is responsible for a 40-hour block of training of academy students in traffic-related and nighttime stops, and felony arrests.

Last year he was elected by Livonia police officers and firefighters to represent them as one of five members on the city of Livonia's Pension Board, which has a fund about four times that of Schoolcraft's budget, Novak said.

His contact with Radcliff students and administrators has helped him form a dialogue with them, which he believes will help him on the board if he is elected. Job fairs help inform residents about the programs, Novak said.

"I would like to see more (college) involvement with the local communities and bring the possibilities of jobs to communities," Novak said.

Novak said he is concerned about the financial burdens of a college education for local students. "I'd like us to keep tuition costs where they are," Novak said. He would like to see more satellite programs explored by the college.

Novak has a bachelor of science degree from Madonna University.

Last year Novak applied for the vacancy that Stempien eventually received.

Stempien

Stempien was appointed by trustees in January 1998 to the college's board of trustees to fill a vacancy left by John Walsh, who resigned after he won election to the Livonia City Council.

Prior to his board selection, Stempien told trustees he believed a trustee should work for a consensus, which he has experienced in resolving legal disputes as a mediator and an arbitrator.

At that time, Stempien said maintaining academic quality should be a top priority of the board, and the board should continue to improve programs.

Stempien obtained a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan-Dearborn in 1966. In 1971, he received his juris doctorate from Detroit College of Law.

Stempien's law office is located in Livonia. He was a co-founder and president of the University of Michigan Club of Northville, a member of the Rotary Club and co-chair of the Fourth of July Murray was careful not to force the inspection requirement on the communities but also wanted them to know that they were on their own with the DEQ - and ultimately Feikens and the EPA - without Wayne County's program.

"If you do not exercise this option, you would have to start your own program and submit it to the state for their approval," Murray said. Murray encouraged the CWW communities to send representatives and attorneys to Friday's meeting in case they had questions. None of the CWW board members opposed it at last week's meeting.

On April 1, Wayne County commissioners approved grants for the Rouge River Wet Weather Demonstration Project. A $42,000 grant was earmarked for the Wayne County Department of Environmental Health to enter data onto a computer of on-site sewage disposal systems, while a $10,000 grant will pay for an educational manual for homeowners.

Wayne County communities use 6,000 septic tanks. In the 48 Rouge basin communities in Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties, 17,500 tanks are in use.

In western Wayne County, Canton has 1,170 tanks. Others are Plymouth Township, with 478; Livonia, 294; Westland, 266; Redford, 101, and Garden City, 34.

Oakland County approves 2,000 new tanks a year, Murray said.

Murray believes septic systems should be inspected statewide. Septic systems can fail any time, but they do so generally in a range between 10 to 20 years.

"So if they are not kept up, we will end up with problems."

Water heater defect

Granholtm seeks relief for consumers

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homedcomm.net

Millions of Michigan residents may well have defective water heaters due to faulty equipment.

State Attorney General Jennifer Granholtm has called on four water heater manufacturers and a supplier of a manufacturer of a "dip tube" to notify consumers of the problem, repair the defects for consumers and stop selling the defective tube, which was manufactured between 1993 and 1996.

Granholtm was accompanied at her press conference Wednesday by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers columnist and "Appliance Doctor" Joe Gagnon, who first publicized the dip tube problem last year in his columns.

The dip tube supplies cold water to the bottom of a water heater tank.

"It is costing consumers millions of dollars and it affects millions of people," Granholtm said.

Granholtm issued a notice of intended action and opportunity to cease and desist to the five manufacturers. The notice alleges the companies violated the Michigan Consumer Protection Act for failing to inform consumers of a potential defect in dip tubes in water heaters. It also alleges that the manufacturers have not fully disclosed the nature and extent of the problems to consumers, despite having knowledge of the deterioration and resulting complications.

State action

On resolving the case, Granholtm said: "We will require the manufacturers to both stop the sale of water heaters containing defective dip tubes and develop a plan for repaying the consumers the costs of necessary repairs. The manufacturers must stop burying their corporate heads in the sand and own up to this problem."

Granholtm said her office will seek restitution that includes repairs or other appliances, such as dishwashers or washing machines.

Gagnon noticed last year that when he used his bathroom sink and noticed the water was not coming out with any force. He removed the aerator and found it was filled with white chips. He cleaned it out, but the aerator filled again with chips as did a shower head and other faucets throughout the house.

He thought it might be salt from his water softener, but it was not.

He wrote columns about his problem in the O&E and discussed it with listeners on WJR. Gagnon said he received 2,000 phone calls about the dip tube problems. Tests showed later the substance was plastic.

Gagnon's column, radio show and a story in the Kansas City Star have drawn national attention to the problem. Gagnon appeared Wednesday on the ABC-TV show "Good Morning America" to discuss the consumer issue.

Other lawsuits

Consumers have filed lawsuits in Birmingham, Mich., Missouri and Kansas and seeking to recover damages. The suits state that the defendants did not adequately warn the public and hadn't take full responsibility to replace the defective dip tubes.

The former owner of Carmack Appliance in Garden City, Gagnon says until recently that the industry has kept the problem hidden.

"In the way it's understood in the industry, it's a secret warranty," Gagnon said. "If the consumer complains, then of Milwaukee, Wis., and Bradford-White Corp. of Ambler, Pa.

Senior citizens are targets for spring home repair scams

Every spring, many seniors are targeted for home repair scams, schemes and swindles. Before you buy new windows, have your driveway paved, or have your gutters cleaned, call the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians for advice and helpful tips on how to handle home improvement contracts and contractors at (800) 347-5297. The Legal Hotline provides basic legal advice and information to Michigan residents age 60 and older on a wide range of legal issues, including home repair contracts. There is no charge for the service, but donations are welcome.

When considering a repair contract, follow these minimum protections:

Never be pressured into a "today only" offer. The story, "we are in the neighborhood today and since we're here it will be cheaper to redo your driveway" is a classic home repair scam.

Get the deal in writing. At a minimum you need: The contractor's name, phone number and address (this is important if you have to file a complaint). If the job is for more than $600, the contractor should, by law, be licensed. Get the license number. What is the total price, and what is included in it? Who pays for the Dumpster and clean up? Are you buying the materials or is the contractor? When does the job start and when is it to be finished? Jobs that are left unfinished for months are a common problem. Address this in writing up front so there is no misunderstanding.

Get references and check them.

Remember, if you are age 60 or older and have a legal question, you can contact the Legal Hotline at 800-347-5297 for basic legal advice over the telephone. Calls are returned by an attorney in one to two business days.

Granholtm will headline S'craft commencement

Michigan Attorney General and Northville resident Jennifer Granholtm will be the keynote speaker at the 34th Schoolcraft College commencement May 8.

Granholtm made history in November when she was elected the state's first female attorney general.

Granholtm is Michigan's first new attorney general in 37 years, following the retirement of Frank Kelley. Granholtm graduated from the University of California at Berkeley with a perfect academic record and graduated with honors from Harvard Law School.

Granholtm clerked with the U.S. Court of Appeals Judge Damon Keith, and was a federal prosecutor in the U.S. Attorney's Office, achieving a 98 percent conviction rate. She was rated "outstanding prosecutor" by the U.S. Department of Justice each year she served as a prosecutor.

In 1994, she became the first woman and youngest person appointed Wayne County corporation counsel, overseeing 75 employees, 2,000 cases a year and an annual budget of $9.5 million. Her office reduced by 87 percent the money Wayne County taxpayers paid to defend lawsuits brought against the county. In 1997, she was named one of Crain's Detroit Business's "Top 40 Under 40" and one of the YWCA's Women of Achievement. In 1998, Michigan Lawyers Weekly selected her as one of the 10 "Lawyers of the Year."

Lawsuit costs set record for state

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER
trichard@oe.homecomm.net

Lawsuits cost state government a record $236 million last year. But 90 percent — $211 million — was due to the so-called Durant case over low funding of public education.

Otherwise, it would have been a normal year, with the state paying $25 million. And the trend has been downward over the decade of the 1990s because of steadily decreasing payouts by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

The Senate Fiscal Agency compiled the numbers in its annual "Status of Lawsuits Against the State of Michigan" report.

In the record case, the state Legislature dipped into its "rainy day" fund to pay off the Durant suit.

Durant said the state shorted suburban school districts, in particular, on special education, special ed transportation, bilingual education, driver education and school lunches. The programs are required by law.

An old school desegregation case from Benton Harbor is still costing the state $2.7 million a year.

Other departmental payouts, either in court judgments or settlements, last year:

■ Transportation $8.3 million. Most payouts were for failure to maintain a smooth road with adequate shoulder. A Wayne County case was settled for $1.7 million. In general, MDOT payouts were far below fiscal 1991's $22.8 million, 1993's $21 million and 1990's $20.7 million.

■ Corrections (prisons) $3.2 million. Biggest payout was $385,000 for a contempt judgment, followed by $369,000 for failure to protect a prisoner and $300,000 for one of many employee discrimination suits.

■ Natural Resources $2.9 million. Biggest payout was a $2.6 million judgment to Carnegie Oil Associates in Mason County for a state "taking" of mineral rights.

■ Military Affairs $2.4 million. The entire amount was an Ingham Circuit Court judgment in a class action suit for nonpayment of enlisted personnel's per diem.

■ Community Health $2.13 million. A patient-prisoner suicide case in Jackson County was settled for $69,000. Three suits involved violation of handicappers' rights.

■ Family Independence Agency $2.1 million. Most ($2 million) went to survivors of social worker Barbara Synnestvedt, who was strangled at the Maxey training center in Livingston County. (This newspaper, relying on an attorney's brief, misspelled the victim's surname in a recent account of the appeal to the Supreme Court of Jermel Johnson, who was convicted of the murder.)

■ State Police $668,000. The department settled for $385,000 in a Wayne County case where excessive force resulted in a man's death; for $200,000 in a Livingston County suit where a white man charged discrimination because of age and race; and for $8,000 for detaining a Toledo Blade photographer until he surrendered film of a plane crash in Ohio near the Monroe County line.

Wrongful (or wrong person) arrests were the biggest source of complaints against State Police, and two denials under the Freedom of Information Act cost the state $1,400.

tain a dip tube manufactured by Perfection Corporation.

The tubes contain a chemical defect which causes them to deteriorate "prematurely," Granholm said. Once they deteriorate, plastic pieces may settle within the water heater itself or smaller pieces flow into the pipes throughout the house, clogging washing machines and dishwashers. Smaller pieces may actually enter drinking water.

In 1998, the Detroit Water & Sewerage Department sent out letters about the white plastic particles and informed customers that the water was safe and the plastic was not toxic.

Perfection Manufacturer of Madison, Ohio, the dip tube manufacturer, notified the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission but the CPSC did not issue a recall because the situation did not involve a safety hazard.

The American Water Works Association says that although "the plastic chips are a nuisance and may decrease the performance of appliances," they are non-toxic and do not pose a health threat.

Granholm reached into Gagnon's hot water tank and pulled out plastic pieces to show to reporters. Granholm and Gagnon said there was a gelatinous substance at the bottom of the tank.

Granholm said that substance has been sent to the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality for tests.

Time to respond

Perfection Manufacturer and water heater manufacturers have 10 days in which to respond. If they do not, a lawsuit may be filed by Granholm.

Granholm said by denying consumers the opportunity to request restitution for repair and replacement costs, the companies are engaging in an unfair or deceptive practices under the Consumer Protection Act.

"If consumers don't know there is a problem, they've got no way of correcting it or of seeking reimbursement for the damage it causes," Granholm said. "This is simply a case of a manufacturer withholding information at the direct expense of consumers."

Gagnon said consumers may be buying new washing machines, dishwashers and new shower heads to take care of the problem. "Plumbers don't even know about the defects in the dip tube," Gagnon said.

Gagnon estimated the cost of a new water heater is about $400-$500, while a flush of the heater costs about $175-200. Heaters are difficult to drain because the outside drain is located higher than the bottom of the tank. A dip tube costs about $6.

He thinks the way the tank used to be built is better and that some of today's engineers build for obsolescence.

"The dip tubes are still plastics," Gagnon said. "I want to copper tube back in the hot water tank and get it back to where it lasts for 15 or 20 years."

Staff writer Susan Rosiek contributed to this report.

asbestos-containing material. In addition, 4,000 gallons of non-hazardous liquids were also transported off-site.

Today, the oil and groundwater outside the fill area meets the state's residential criteria, but the soil in the fill area poses a direct contact risk.

The groundwater is not used as a water source, but it flows toward Tonquish Creek and shallow groundwater "likely discharges" to Tonquish Creek, according to the plan.

Regular inspections

Wayne County will conduct routine monthly inspections to monitor any potential contact with fill materials due to burrowing animals or erosion. The parks division will evaluate the grass area, forested area and creek bank erosion barriers.

Consultants stated that groundwater monitoring will not be required as part of the monitoring plan.

A copy of the remedial action plan is available at the William P. Faust Public Library, 6123 Central City Parkway, and the city clerk's office, City Hall Building, 36601 Ford Road, Westland. Schoolcraft history prof shares his passion for trains

Train buff: Evan Garrett, a history professor at Schoolcraft College, has more than 25,000 slides which represent his interest in photography, history and locomotives.

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

When Evan Garrett was a boy growing up in a small Iowa town, he spent his Saturdays watching his grandfather unload coal from a steam locomotive.

"I'd sit there utterly fascinated," Garrett said.

Five decades later, the professor of ancient and early modern history at Schoolcraft College since 1968 is still amazed by the transit system that's fading from the American landscape. With 25,000 film slides representing countless hours chasing railroads, his hobby neatly melds his passion for photography, history and locomotives. They tell a story about how trains have evolved, how society has changed and about the man behind the camera.

"We think of history as names, dates and dead people and I tell my students that history isn't something in books — it's what we're living," said Garrett, whose 91-year-old father remains a local historian in the same town where he grew up.

"We keep thinking of history as a big deal. Actually, history sneaks up on you. It's subtle and quiet and at one point you look back and say: 'Gee, things changed.' It's hard to say there's a beginning and an end.

"Railroads tend to illustrate that, because you can see how they've changed and how the world is changing," said Garrett, past president of the Ann Arbor Historical Society and program chairman of the Ann Arbor Train and Trolley Watchers. Garrett's slides and memory are proof of that logic. He tells how his grandfather used to receive one train car of coal and deliver it to his customers' homes. Today, hundreds of cars of coal are delivered to power plants.

Learning photography

The little boy in awe of his grandfather, grew up and went off to college. By that time Garrett, 56, had become a photography buff who loved to shoot the Formula One races for three days every year.

"It was very exciting, but it doesn't give you much to do the rest of the year," said Garrett, explaining that he rediscovered railroads in 1977 while visiting his family in Iowa and he learned that the Milwaukee Railroad was going to be eliminated. Garrett spent an entire day chasing trains and documenting the line's last runs. Some of the photos still hang in his Ann Arbor home, which is about five blocks from the Ann Arbor Railroad.

"I am an historian and I like to see the way things evolve — society, institutions and people's understanding of things and to see this in something that affected my own life meant a lot," Garrett said. "It felt good and I kept doing it."

When he isn't working, Garrett drives across the United States and Canada capturing glimpses of these railroads and how they've changed. Shortly before a recent trip last December, Garrett was suffering from pneumonia and could barely get the words out during his lectures. On Christmas break, he drove to Albuquerque where the weather was mild, the trains were rolling and the scenery was breathtaking.

"I soaked up sun and watched the Santa Fe come past," Garrett said. "It's nice sitting there enjoying the weather and listening to the birds. Basically, it's how I relax. And I could talk when I came back."

Garrett, who would much rather be outside a train photographing than inside one as a passenger, stores his slides in stacks of boxes in his Ann Arbor study. They come out of storage when he gives a slide presentation or has another project in the works, like writing articles for local newspapers and Trains magazine. In 1979, he developed drawings from his slides and published a book, "Trackside of Southern Michigan," of 30 sketches. He sold 300 copies.

Tracking change

His themes vary, but it all comes back to a clear documentation of the history we're living. Over the years, he said, the biggest change in railroads is that there aren't as many as there used to be.

Trucks and automobiles took a large portion of the railroad business during the 1930s and 1940s, when the road systems improved.

"You didn't have to depend on railroads to get to where you were going," he added. "But a lot of people don't recognize that there is more freight being carried by trains today than there ever was."

"There's just fewer lines and they tend to be very busy," said Garrett, noting that the CSX Railroad and Norfolk Southern are jointly buying Conrail this summer.

"I think we'll have railroads for a long time," Garrett added.

Referring to the mammoth trucks that hog the roads, Garrett said it's more efficient to haul loads on trains, because they save fuel and there is less overhead. New technology, like remote control railroading, will likely take part of the business.

Meanwhile, the little boy who drove his mother crazy screeching out whistle sounds and clanging an iron bar across their cement porch, continues to nurture his fantasy by driving across the country, preferring side roads to interstates, where the tracks lie and the people live.

"It ties in with history and I can understand how people lived and live and I use these ideas in lectures," he explained. "I tell my students that it never hurts to get out and take a look around. Look what's over the next field."

"Satisfy your curiosity and have some curiosity," the professor said.

CWW concerned about any cuts in state taxes on personal property

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

If state lawmakers want support from a group of western Wayne County elected officials to reduce personal property taxes, they'd better replace money lost to those communities from those tax reductions.

A letter approved Friday by the Conference of Western Wayne will let lawmakers know just that.

"Personal property tax concerns CWW communities because it accounts for a considerable portion of the budgets for many communities," wrote Marsha Bianconi, CWW executive director.

The CWW is a legislative consortium of elected officials from the cities of Belleville, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, Romulus, Wayne and Westland and the townships of Canton, Huron, Northville, Plymouth, Redford, Sumpter and Van Buren.

The Citizens Research Council recently indicated personal property makes up 17 percent of all property in Wayne County, but for some communities, the figure is as much as 63.6 percent.

In Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, personal property amounts to 10 to 20 percent.

"These figures indicate the importance of personal property tax to many CWW communities," Bianconi wrote.

Other bills supported

The CWW also approved a resolution to show support of legislation that will change the way money for transportation is allocated by eliminating spending restrictions for cities and villages on major and minor roads. Another resolution supports bills to increase local government influence and jurisdiction over mobile homes by revising the state Mobile Home Commission.

House Bill 4182, introduced by Rep. Gloria Schermesser, D-Lincoln Park, would provide more flexibility to cities when deciding which roads should be emphasized. Money designated for the major street system could be used for the local street system if matched equally by local revenue and construction expenditures.

Currently, 75 percent of the money to cities and villages are allocated for major roads, and 25 percent for local roads.

If a city or village transferred more than 25 percent of its major street money to the local street system, the local government would be required to adopt a resolution and send a copy to the transportation department. That resolution would include a list of the major streets, a statement that the major streets are adequately maintained, the amount of the transfer and local streets to be financed with the transfer.

The CWW joined the Michigan Municipal League in supporting the transportation bill.

The CWW also backed Senate Bill 43, sponsored by Sen. Alma Smith, D-Salem, which would increase the number of commissioners on the state Mobile Home Commission from 11 to 13, and include an environmental advocacy organization, an organization of township officials, an organization of city officials and a housing advocacy organization.

Nearly 66,000 mobile home units are housed in southeast Michigan, of which more than 11,000 are in the CWW area.

This bill would reduce the number of mobile home park operators on the commission from three to one. The bill is in the Senate Committee on Local, Urban and State Affairs. A similar House bill has been introduced, while another House bill reduces the number of mobile home park operators from three to two and increases the number of residents groups from one to two.

The three bills are supported by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the Michigan Municipal League and the Michigan Townships Association.

"Anything going in the direction of local control goes with our philosophy," said Helen Foster, Van Buren Township supervisor who chaired the meeting in Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey's absence.

Watson was elected to the board in June 1993. Watson was chosen by trustees to be board president for two-year terms in July 1995 and July 1997.

son has a bachelor's degree from Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, a master's degree in clinical psychology from the University of St. Francis in Indiana and a doctorate from the University of Detroit in clinical psychology.

Watson wants to return to the board because she has enjoyed her time on it.

"I don't have political ambitions, but I have ambitions to see Schoolcraft flourish," Watson said. She wants to see the new Business and Industry Training Center constructed to help bring new information technology programs and careers to students.

Watson hopes to see administrative efforts continue to increase credit enrollment and retain students.

Board race

Take a look at district issues

The April 12 filing deadline gun has sounded and candidates in the race for the Wayne-Westland school board are off and running.

Now that the names are officially in the ring of those who are interested in serving the district on the school board, it's time for those candidates to assess where they are headed with their campaigns. Skip Monit, Brenda Smith, Marshall Wright and incumbent Martha Pitsenbarger filed petitions by the 4 p.m. deadline Monday. Incumbent David James is not seeking re-election. Two four-year seats on the Wayne-Westland board will be filled during the June school election.

Now it's time to get down to business, and we hope the candidates will turn their attention to issues that affect Wayne-Westland students and schools and away from issues that are just politicking.

As Wayne-Westland moves well into the work and improvements brought on by the approval of a $108 million bond issue, the district sits as never before on the brink of big change.

The changes that occur now will affect the district for years to come. This is also a chance for Wayne-Westland to move from being a district with a reputation for lagging behind to one that is at the forefront in education.

Unfortunately, the district has been struggling for years with money and image problems that it has fought hard to overcome.

We often see signs posted near certain developments in Westland, reading "Livonia Schools" as an incentive to entice buyers. This means: Don't worry about buying in this part of Westland you won't end up in Wayne-Westland schools, but rather in the higher quality district of Livonia.

That seems harsh, but unfortunately it's a reality.

But that can change now as the district embarks on large-scale improvements and changes.

That's where the school board comes in. We need strong leaders on the school board.

School board members should be playing an active role in improving and overseeing the district.

Students deserve the best education that they can get from their district. While it's up to students to take advantage of what's offered, the opportunities should still be offered to those who want to learn and succeed.

We hope the candidates for the board have specific plans for improvements in the district.

While it's important to even show an interest in serving on the board, it's also important to have studied the issues and have some sound ideas for change. Some, but not all, the subjects board candidates could discuss include: test scores, technology uses in the district, use of resources and parental involvement.

So voters, get ready to study up on those running to represent you on the Wayne-Westland school board.

And candidates, get ready to discuss the issues and your ideas and do more than just grandstanding on how much you care about education.

Library hits information age

Where do you go when you need to know? That question was asked and answered by the American Library Association in preparation for National Library Week, April 11-17. According to a poll conducted by the Gallup Organization for the ALA, about two-thirds of Americans said they go to the library to get books, use computers or find other resources they need in the "Information Age."

That statement seems to be borne out by the very number of libraries in existence today. The ALA estimates that there are more than 122,000 libraries of all kinds in the United States. That figure includes almost 9,000 public library systems housed in more than 15,000 buildings, more than 3,000 academic libraries and more than 98,000 public and private school libraries.

The ALA also estimates that these three categories of libraries employ more than 376,000 people. Ann K. Symons, president of the ALA, says the role of libraries and librarians in providing public access to information is more important than it has ever been before.

"There's an overwhelming amount of information out there - not all of it helpful or even accurate," said Symons, a school librarian from Juneau, Alaska. "Librarians can help you find the best source of information, whether in a book or online."

Thus the theme for this year's library week is "Read! Learn! Connect! @ the Library."

In last Sunday's Observer, we presented a package of stories profiling the libraries in our area. The stories pointed out that libraries have become much more than simply repositories of books. They are now repositories of information, in print, on audio and videotapes, on computer disks or somewhere on the Internet. They are also gathering places for public meetings, family-oriented activities and cultural events.

And now that the Internet has become a major player in the "Information Age," the local library isn't limited to resources physically present within its walls.

The ALA estimates that about 75 percent of public libraries now offer public access to the Internet, almost double the number from two years ago.

All but one of the libraries in our coverage area provides Internet access to patrons visiting the library and several of them allow patrons dial-up access through their home computers.

By accessing databases such as the Electric Library, students and researchers can literally locate and print out full-text articles from newspapers, magazines, books and encyclopedias, pictures and graphics, even transcripts of TV programs.

And while the community library may not be a full-fledged research institution, patrons can access the electronic catalogs of larger public libraries or academic libraries, print out the bibliographic record of the material they need and request it through interlibrary loan.

If you haven't been there lately, pay a visit to your local library. You may be surprised at what you find.

Genocide is the issue

I read with great interest Mr. Warren's letter regarding the recent bombing in Kosovo (Letters to the Editor April 8, 1999). You see, whether the Serbians or Albanians are angels or not really isn't the issue. Genocide is the issue. NATO attempted in vain to reach a peaceful resolution in Kosovo. President Slobodan Milosevic was unbudging in his positions. The only recourse left was to begin airstrikes. I wonder, Mr. Warren, have you read any of the firsthand accounts of Albanian refugees? Have you read the stories of some of the Albanian children?

There is a wonderfully informative page on CNN's Web site. The page is comprised of e-mail letters from a young Albanian girl to an American teen living in California. They began corresponding before the bombing began and have become friends. This young girl is afraid to leave her home because she fears that she, like many others, will be gang-raped and/or murdered. I encourage you to read it. I, like you, tend to take some of what our nation's leaders say with a grain of salt. To read accounts of the actual victims is truly fascinating, albeit quite disturbing and sad. Nobody should have to live in constant terror.

Nobody should fear leaving their home to visit a friend because they are afraid of being raped, murdered or tortured. This isn't a matter of "quaint and cruel traditions," it's a matter of basic human rights! It isn't a matter of our culture vs. their culture or our beliefs vs. their beliefs. Again, it is a matter of basic human rights. We all have different cultural beliefs and values, there is nothing wrong with that. There is, however, something seriously wrong with genocide. That is what is happening in Kosovo. And, although I'm quite certain that some of the Albanian people aren't the nicest in the world, I highly doubt that they, as a group, are so horrible that the only recourse available to the Serbs is to eliminate them. It's OK not to like everyone. It's OK not to get along with everyone, but it isn't OK to murder them.

I fully support the troops in Kosovo and totally support U.S. involvement. I'm not a warmonger, I would rather things be settled diplomatically, however that doesn't appear to be an option. President Milosevic doesn't seem interested in diplomacy. I am glad that we, as a nation, have refused to sit back and allow the "ethnic cleansing" to continue.

All human beings have a right to live without constant fear that they will be raped, murdered or tortured (or a combination of the three). "Cruel and quaint traditions" are not an excuse to systematically eliminate an entire group of people.

School day added

I just received a middle school calendar showing Wayne-Westland students' last half-day is Monday, June 21. I have not received anything from the elementary school. Students have a half day off Friday, June 11, for record day. Why can't the teachers have their record day Monday and the students attend all day Friday? (I assume the additional day is to make up a snow day.) By going to school Monday, you just stopped my children from going to soccer camp and cub scout camp plus anyone having a vacation planned immediately after school lets out. Detroit Public Schools announced to the media their three-day extension; Wayne-Westland didn't even send a letter to parents of this change.

Ann Richards

GOP turns its back

Gov. John Engler and the Republican legislators recently pushed through a huge tax cut that clearly favors the rich rather than the middle-class working families and seniors. Under the Republican plan, someone earning $200,000 a year receives 10 times the tax cuts that a person who makes only $20,000 a year receives.

A better plan could have been put in to place by Democratic legislators, if only they would have had the chance. They proposed expanding the personal exemption to $6,400 per person, giving a better tax break to Michigan's working families. The other side has basically forgotten about Michigan families.

I propose in the year 2000 that each and every person vote for Democrats who look out for Michigan families and seniors. Republicans have turned their backs on their own constituents.

POINTS OF VIEW

Local libraries make changes to meet people's needs

BY JOLEE KEMPF
AND SANDRA WILSON
GUEST COLUMNISTS

As National Library Week is upon us, and the millennium looms in the very near future, it is a good time to reflect upon the changes that are assisting libraries to meet the future. No longer are we looked upon as the revered (and feared) monuments of knowledge where anything above a whisper was looked upon as a capital offense. Today's library is evolving into a new type of community center dedicated to enriching its community by providing a forum for recreation, socialization and communication. The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland was designed and organized to be a Year 2000 library. Opened in November 1996, the library was built as a state-of-the-art facility where traditional library services have been combined with enhancements of modern technology; most currently, the personal computer. Along with replacing the cumbersome card file of the past, the computer's storage capacity and connectivity have allowed patrons to search for books from other libraries, look for articles in periodicals, or search for business, health and reference information without opening an encyclopedia or picking up a magazine. Print materials and traditional audiovisuals such as cassettes, videos and CDs have been supplemented by CD-ROMs and on-line services. Computers are available that even allow patrons to check out their own materials. Today's libraries, while continuing to provide reference service, learning resources and programming, now also offer instructional classes in the use of computers such as learning how to log onto the World Wide Web, how to use the library's computer catalog or how to research your family tree using the Internet. Many libraries also sponsor community events, and some make their meeting rooms available for community groups and organizations to use. Once banished to the remote regions of the children's library, young people are enjoying library services, with many services designed specifically for them. Computers again prove their worth as they provide a platform for many of today's learning games. Now, color, movement, music, sound effects and a cyberguide help children learn to spell, read, count and improve their problem-solving abilities.

These games allow a child to learn at his or her own pace and are certainly a far cry from flashcards and multiplication tables. Puzzles, puppets, games and children's programs that can include magicians, live animals and other performers have also been added to the time-honored and always enjoyed story times. Those who have not been in a library for some time will be in for a surprise on their next visit. New technology, people-friendly buildings and service-oriented staff have made for major changes in a library's approach to serving its clientele. Auxiliary groups such as Friends of the Library, book discussion groups and Teen Net at Westland have provided library patrons, young and old, with the opportunity to become involved in their community while helping them meet the challenges of providing information, entertainment and recreation to residents. Advancement in technology and accessibility will only improve in the next millennium. The future will provide increased accessibility from home via the computer and electronic books the size of pagers known as e-books. A stronger emphasis on education and training for the public will be a role in which library staff play a larger part. The public library and its staff will continually be changing and learning to meet the needs of library users. These are exciting times for libraries and the thousands of people who enjoy them. The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland is at 6123 Central City Parkway. Jolee Kempf is the children's librarian at the Westland library, and Sandra Wilson is the library director.

Business bigwigs' pay adds up to sticker shock for many

A few years ago, I wrote about how Kmart - which was losing money, closing stores and laying off people - paid its CEO twice as much as competitor Wal-Mart, which was making money, opening stores, hiring and moving into the No. 1 retail spot nationally. Kmart's action was senseless. And as Michigan National Bank limped toward a takeover, I reported the diamond-studded, platinum-plated parachute its outgoing CEO would keep even as he closed branches and laid off a ton of tellers. It made me wonder if the big business in America is really run by the best and brightest or whether the top brass were ripping off not only the workers but also the stockholders. The latest horrifying news comes from "Executive Pay," Section R of the April 8 Wall Street Journal. Not from the AFL-CIO agitators, environmentalists or some dang Ann Arbor socialists, but the Wall Street Journal.

Honest. Let's take a company close to home, DaimlerChrysler, formed by a merger in May 1998. Chrysler CEO Robert Eaton collected $16 million in salary, bonus, stock and options. Juergen Schrempp, CEO of the former Daimler-Benz, collected about $2 million. The WSJ story on Page R 6 adds: "And Mr. Eaton, thanks to special conditions of the merger, gained nearly $70 million in cash and stock when it was completed, while Mr. Schrempp got nothing extra because of the deal." The same story reports on the British Petroleum-Amoco merger, which other WSJ stories have reported was plainly won by BP. "In 1997, Amoco Chairman and CEO H.L. Fuller received total compensation - base salary, bonus, stock options and other compensation - of nearly $2.06 million, while BP chief John Browne received $1.6 million. Additionally, Mr. Fuller at the end of 1997 was sitting on $18.6 million of paper gains from exercisable stock options, while the value of Mr. Browne's unexercised options was about $650,000." The WSJ then quotes a study by consultant William M. Mercer Inc. of the 20 top-paid CEOs in two countries that found: ■ The Americans' salaries averaged 40 percent higher than their British counterparts. ■ Americans' bonuses averaged 210 percent of base salary compared with 50 percent for British CEOs.

■ "The American CEOs, on average, were sitting on an astounding $80 million in paper gains, while their British counterparts had $2 million each in such unrealized gains." The WSJ section hesitated at suggesting reasons why American CEOs were pocketing so much. Certainly it isn't business genius. One story suggested that Germany's powerful unions dampen executive pay. Another pointed out, "At a surprising number of corporations, the chief executive officer ignores an obvious conflict of interest by serving on the board's compensation committee." Now, if John Engler and Candice Miller sought posts on the State Officers Compensation Commission, their own party would scream bloody murder. But such conflicts of interest are hardly blinked at by private companies such as Nike, Philip Morris and Innovex. At Innovex, the chief exec got an 18.7-percent pay boost over the previous year and installed his wife as vice president and general counsel. "Her salary and bonus climbed to $214,712 in fiscal 1997 from $159,038 the prior year," WSJ reported. Shucks, not even the "National Extortion Association," as the right wing calls the teachers union, ever bargained for a 35-percent pay boost. Some kind of prize should go to Eastman Kodak CEO George Fisher, "whose compensation climbed to $3.9 million from $1.9 million after he moved to cut 14,100 jobs at the Rochester, N.Y., photographic-products maker in 1993 and 1994." After throwing the equivalent of a small city onto the economic scrap heap, Mr. Fisher must have been extremely tired at the end of the day and needed $2 million worth of gratitude. Let's hear the Mackinac Center give three cheers for "supply and demand" and "competition." Tim Richard reports on state and regional events. His voice mail number is (734) 953-2047, Ext. 1881.

Poor planning, monopoly equal major problems at airport

They sure are scraping dirt out at Detroit Metro Airport these days. My Northwest Airlines flight last week from Albany landed (on time) on the south runway. We must have taxied for a good 10 minutes past giant earth movers, big holes in the ground, piles of drain pipe and lots of construction workers. The theory is the new $1.2 billion midfield terminal project will open some time in 2001. The project will feature a new mile-long East concourse that will include gates for international flights and a 700-foot-long passenger tunnel connecting with the smaller West concourse. All in all, the project is supposed to add some 60-odd new gates, nearly all destined for Northwest. That's what has a lot of people worried. Northwest has exploited its near-monopoly position at its "fortress hub" at Detroit Metro to increase its prices to among the highest in the nation, while simultaneously allowing passenger service to deteriorate. The question is whether the new terminal project will merely extend Northwest's market dominance or open the, ahem, gate to increased competition. Airport director David Katz says he's "confident that as the terminal project gets to completion, we will be able to increase competition at Detroit Metro and, hopefully, bring prices down and increase service quality." How? Here's Katz's reasoning: Later this year, he will solicit bids to renovate the old Smith and Davey terminals, now the workhorses of Detroit Metro. At present, there are just 14 jet gates available for non-Northwest airlines. Once Northwest moves to the new midfield terminal and after the renovation (which will include eliminating the A, C and E concourses at Smith), a total of 24 gates will be available for non-Northwest carriers, a substantial increase. Katz says he expects Southwest Airlines to step up its presence at Metro, along with Pro Air, which may find the runways at Detroit City Airport just too short and move some operations to Metro. Although Katz says there's no prospect of other big national carriers - American, Delta, United - taking on Northwest by building hubs at Detroit. But he's hopeful each will choose to add gates once the construction is over. And there are other possibilities for increased competition, including TWA, which just bought a bunch of new aircraft. The obvious fear in all this is that Northwest, anxious to maintain its monopoly, will try to buy all the new gates for its own use. Other airlines, just as anxious as Northwest to maintain their own fortress monopoly hubs, in the past have traded gates around from one airport to another to maintain dominance. Katz says he doesn't think that will happen. He says the old gate leases, going back to 1958, were "exclusive," which in practice meant they guaranteed Northwest's monopoly. New leases after 2001 will be "preferential" - that is, not exclusively held for one airline or another. Moreover, says Katz, "I don't think Northwest wants any of the old gates that will be modernized at Smith and Davey terminals." Andrea Fischer Newman, Northwest's vice president of government, law and civic affairs, agrees: "Northwest is not in line for any of these gates." There's no doubt that the poor state of airline service in Detroit is in large part the result of Northwest's monopolistic practices. But it's also the consequence of outmoded terminals at Metro, planned and built before the enormous increase in traffic that resulted from Northwest's hub. Maybe, just maybe, the new midfield terminal and the rebuilt old terminals will result in a better facility for all passengers and a more competitive environment between air carriers. This might even bring down airfares and improve passenger service. If so, that's called getting the best of both worlds. Libraries take tough stance about 'MIAs'

This week (as regular readers of this newspaper must know by now) is National Library Week. So, in the immortal words of television Judge Mills Lane, "Let's get it on and get it decided."

If you wonder what library week has to do with a TV judge, it's just this: Hold on to those overdue items long enough and you could end up in his courtroom. Or at least in Westland's 18th District Court.

Whether the timing was deliberate or just coincidental, Westland library officials announced last week that they are going to start turning over the names of delinquent borrowers to the police department. A patron convicted under a city ordinance for theft of library materials could face a maximum of a 90-day jail term and a $500 fine.

Joe Burchill, assistant to the director of Westland's William P. Faust Public Library, says the library currently has overdue or unreturned items amounting to $72,500. Burchill says the library doesn't want to prosecute people but "we have an obligation to the taxpayers of Westland. It is our responsibility to maintain our collection and account for these items."

Not quite SCTV

While the "Library Police" may sound like a sketch from Second City TV, Westland isn't the only library to begin prosecuting book bandits. Last year, a woman in Orono, Maine, accused of the theft of three books and one audiotape from the Old Town Public Library, was fined $200 after she pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of violating library policy and failure to appear at an earlier court date. According to news accounts, she had already returned two of the items and reimbursed the library for the others.

The plea bargain came about because Maine's theft statute applied only to video stores and rental agencies, not libraries. The prosecutor in the case has since been working with a state representative in drafting a bill to make failure to return library materials a civil offense punishable by a fine.

Prosecutors in Burlington, N.C., weren't so hamstrung. In that state, stealing or even detaining library books worth more than $50 is a felony. So last year the Alamance County Memorial Library turned over to police a list of more than 60 patrons who had failed to return borrowed materials.

At least 35 people, including six juveniles, were arrested, with the adults facing five to six months in jail and the juveniles looking at time in a detention center.

One of those adults turned herself in to police after her father called her to say that officers had come to her house with a warrant. At the police station, she was charged, photographed, fingerprinted and released on a $300 bond, pending a trial at which she was told she could face up to three years in jail.

The items she was accused of not returning included "Sheep in a Jeep," "Paddington Goes to School," "Mooncake," "Of Color and Things," "The Princess and the Pea" and a video, "Why Won't My Child Pay Attention?" She was told at the police station that the items were valued at $142.11 and that her sentence probably would be to pay that amount plus a $30 processing fee and court costs of $80 or more.

While her case may seem like much ado about very little, Alamance Library officials say that when they started their crackdown, they had overdue and missing materials amounting to $102,000. One official said the library has since recovered more than $47,000 in missing items, some of which had been checked out as long as 10 years ago.

Vox serves up God to 'X-ers'

"Generation X-ers" are filled with fear and need to be told that they matter to God, according to Wayne Kurtycz of Temple Baptist Church in Plymouth Township. So he and a group of Temple Baptist members are vowing to let God's voice be heard through its monthly program, "Vox."

"Vox" incorporates the latest technology in sound and video, drama, music and speaking to share the message of God in a culturally relevant way with adults ages 18-35.

Temple Baptist's senior pastor, Brad Powell, and Kurtycz began planning Vox eight years ago before launching it last fall. The goal was to create a ministry that would reach out to "Generation X" adults, many of whom are unchurched, Kurtycz explained.

"Gen X-ers," because of what's happened in the media, have a pretty cynical view of the church. Many have grown up never attending church. Some of them have no Christian memory at all," said Kurtycz, the pastor of singles and outreach events.

"When Baby Boomers were kids, there were actually a couple of Christian songs that actually became popular. I don't remember the artist, but 'Amazing Grace' was remade. If I asked, 'Have you ever heard of that song 'Amazing Grace?'' The typical 'Gen X-er' would say 'No.'"

Because "Generation X-ers" are tech-savvy, the planning group recommended bypassing traditional methods and instead opting for video, drama, and "various styles of music that are popular today whether it's modern rock, post-modern rock, rave or alternative."

But just because the method is different, "that doesn't mean the message changes. Nowhere in the Scripture does it say that you have to have an organ on stage, or that you only do your services on Sunday morning. Those are traditions that started within the last couple centuries. Yet people believe that that's the only way to do church," he said.

Temple Baptist also lets real people tell their stories. On Saturday, March 6, York Moore of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship spoke about his belief in God. In June, comedian/motivation-

Teens find alternative in coffeehouses

Joshua Bonno can't wait to graduate from Plymouth Canton High School. His classmates, he said, don't relate to his belief in God, so he's looking forward to meeting adults who can.

"I think this generation sees miracles and I feel that they see so much happiness to their lives and they throw it toward the wind," said Bonno, a junior at Plymouth Canton. "They're more focused with self-gratification and getting what they want."

"A lot of them say, 'I believe in God, but I won't get serious about it until I'm older.' The holy spirit has convicted them but their house is built on the sand. They don't have a stable foundation."

In support of his strong belief, Bonno, 17, founded Emmaus Coffeehouse a year ago at St. Michael Lutheran Church, 7000 N. Sheldon, Canton Township.

"God just really gave me a vision of how to reach people of my age because God's really weighted on my heart for the youth," Bonno explained. "God just really gave me of vision. I didn't tell anyone about it. Personally, I thought it would never happen at the church."

While Bonno was mulling over the idea, one of St. Michael's pastors told Bonno he had the same vision. The coffeehouse was named after Jesus' destination following the resurrection.

"We thought Emmaus would be a good name for the coffeehouse. We looked up what Emmaus meant in Hebrew and it means warm water, similar to coffee," he said. "I thought that was really, really cool."

Emmaus Coffeehouse, which begins at 7 p.m., features poetry readings, concerts ranging from acoustic music to hard core. On Friday, April 30, Trip the Lightning Fantastic will perform.

Upcoming performers include Madison Greene on May 7, Trial by Fire on May 21, and The Israelites, a ska band, on July 9.

"Restoration Fest," featuring Face of Humanity, Outcry, Spite of Opposition, Xsubsistx, Fable, Bonno's band Trial By Fire and Stand Firm, is set for June 18.

Click, click: In 1983, Victor Thomas pointed his camera at some near and dear, capturing this photograph of his sister, Harriet Spurlin of Livonia.

He had digs on Fifth Avenue and his camera caught the images of the rich and famous - actress Claire Bloom, former President Richard Nixon and author Philip Roth - and graced the pages of "Making of a Dancer."

"A famous photographer in New York," Victor Thomas' work is now packed into 10 boxes in Harriet Spurlin's Livonia home. And if she has her way, they'll be transformed into a tribute to her late brother.

"I have all of his pictures," said Spurlin, who was close to her brother. "And I intend to do a book on him to honor him."

Spurlin took nine months off from work to be with Thomas when he "took sick" and came to Michigan to live with her. And now that she's officially retired, she has plenty of time to organize his work in book form.

"Everything I do I put my heart into it," she said. "I was brought up that way, I don't shortchange a thing."

Spurlin "worked as a secretary all the way" for more than 38 years. She spent 6 1/2 years at Massey-Ferguson. She was married and her children were in school at the time, but a twinge of conscience forced her to leave.

"I thought I should be home making cookies for my kids," she said. "But it's hard to stay home, when you have the energy and want to work. I think you should be able to do the things you want to do and not feel denied."

So Spurlin made cookies for her four sons by her first marriage, but returned to work at the Ford Motor Co., where she worked for 20 years before accepting an early retirement offer.

But the start of her golden years had to wait another 12 years.

"When I took the early (retirement) special, Bill Reese was a vendor and asked me if I'd like to work for Cooper (Engineered Products)," Spurlin said. "I ended up working for a wonderful man - Bill Reese."

If secretarial work wasn't enough, Spurlin also made a name for herself as a psychic. Her forte was reading cards - a regular deck of playing cards.

Her introduction was at a beauty shop where a woman - "the best reader" - told Spurlin she would be a reader and be "very famous."

the cost of the missing/unreturned items and chalk it up as doing business? Turn delinquent borrowers over to a collection agency? Some of the libraries in our coverage area do that, once the amount of fines and/or unreturned items exceeds a certain dollar amount. Or do they call in the Library Police to go after the Book Bandits?

The libraries that are turning to the cops for help do have a certain point. The director of the Alamance Library says she's not trying to be vindictive.

"We just want our materials back," she said. "The attitude of our patrons is they are glad we are doing this. It's not fair for these people to be keeping library materials."

But that North Carolina woman, the one who was phoclaims that she never received any overdue notices and that she didn't check the books out in the first place. She claims her sister-in-law took her library card without her knowledge and checked out the material.

I suppose it would be up to a court to decide whether she's telling the truth, but do we really want to end up in court because of overdue library books?

It seems like excessive use of force to me.

al speaker David Dean will make an appearance. Kurtycz explained that a future "Vox" topic will be the Y2K fear.

"We try to be thematic. Right now we're dealing with issues of fear. 'Gen X-ers' have certainly let us Baby Boomers know that they fear things like, 'You Baby Boomers aren't going to let us have a job because by the time you're 65, we'll be in our 40s, so we want jobs.'"

"Vox" nights run from 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the church, 49555
N. Territorial, and afterward flavored coffees and pastries are served. Since its inception last fall, an average of 120 people have showed up at the events. "Most of them are college, career-age singles and some couples. It's free and we don't take an offering and we don't pressure anybody. We just lay it out there."

Kurtycz came up with the name "Vox," which means "the voice."

"So it's kind of cool because we are using that idea of voice.
We're voicing the fear of change.
We're voicing all these different things that we come up with."

Kurtycz said he is passionate about sharing the message of God to "Gen X-ers" because they want the truth.

"They don't necessarily want glitz. They don't want poliah.

They want honest-to-goodness truth. They don't want the slick televangelist. That's the cool thing about 'Vox.' It's not about that," he said.

"It's just giving them the truth that they matter to God in a relevant relational format where they can make friends and hang

New Morning ready for auction

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER
cfuoco@oe.homecomm.net

With the Plymouth-Canton area abuzz with news about kids attending NASA's Space Camp, New Morning School in Plymouth Township decided it would be nice if one more student could go.

"With all the excitement of Space Camp in the area, we have a week in Space Camp for a child," Jane Fry said of New Morning School's annual auction.

Fry and Mary Davinich are the co-chairwomen of "Western Extravaganza" auction 5-11 p.m. Saturday, April 24, at Laurel Manor in Livonia. The $55 ticket includes a dinner of filet mignon or Southwestern chicken, open bar and a late-night snack of pizza and buffalo wings. For more information, call the school at (734) 420-3331.

Besides the Southwestern chicken, there are several other Western-related items, including the "Bronco Buster," a recast bronze sculpture by Frederick Remington, and a western-themed toy chest.

"We just try to make the evening, the night just a fun evening," said Fry. "We try to set a different theme every year. We've had 'An Evening in Paris,' 'Mexican Fiesta.' We thought it would be fun to do a Western theme."

Other items up for bids include a pair of University of Michigan football season tickets, suite for 14 during the 1999-2000 Red Wings season, signed and framed jerseys from Steve Yzerman, Sergei Fedorov, Brendan Shanahan, Slava Kozlov, Ted Lindsay, Paul Coffey and Larry Murphy, a dolphin encounter in the Florida Keys and a personal chef for two weeks.

Returning this year, is the Deal for Wheels check.

"Each dealership has donated $1,000 and what we do is we auction off a $4,000 check that has to be used at one of the participating dealerships to buy a car. It's been very successful," Fry said.

This year, Dick Scott Dodge, Blackwell Ford, Hines Park Lincoln Mercury and Saturn of Plymouth and Farmington Hills are participating.

Student creations

New Morning School students have made three of the items up for bids.

"The elementary project is a wooden toy chest where kids drew a western-themed picture and it's going to be decouped onto this chest filled with toys," Fry said. "The middle school has done an apothecary cabinet. It has 24 drawers. Since we have 24 kids in the class each one painted the drawer front. We picked the color and let them design the front."

"Our primary (kindergarten and preschool) class did an alphabet poster with the kids forming their bodies into the letters. It's real cute."

For an additional $25, supporters can purchase raffle tickets that offer the chance to win a $5,000 first prize, $1,000 second prize, or $500 third prize. Entrants do not need to be present to win. If less than 300 tickets are sold, the prize will be 50 percent of the gross ticket revenue with a minimum prize of $1,625.

Last year, New Morning School auction raised $120,000 and Fry hopes to match that.

"Our goal is about $110,000 or $115,000, but you never know because the night is so unpredictable," she said.

Proud tradition

New Morning School, which is preschool through eighth grade, is a tax-exempt, nonprofit 501(c)(3) corporation. It is licensed by Michigan Department of Social Services and is certified by Michigan Department of Education.

The curriculum stresses individualized learning, student decision-making, goal-setting and hands-on learning.

"The class sizes are small, it's real individualized programs for each child," Fry said. "The elementary is really first through fifth grade. It's more like the old one-room schoolhouse situation where the kids are all mixed. Our middle school goes through fifth through eighth grade."

Students may attend fifth grade with the elementary school or middle school pupils, depending on their skill level.

Fry's daughter, Amy, is in the eighth grade, her last at New Morning School.

"This is our 11th year here; we started in preschool. We're in it for the long haul," said Fry whose daughter will attend Plymouth Canton High School next year. "She says she's ready. I think I have more anxiety about it than she does."

As part of the co-op program, the parents aid in the classrooms, clean the school, and organize events like the auction. New Morning School's board of directors includes parents.

"The auction was set up years ago, this is our 23rd auction," Fry said. "This is our major fund-raiser. It makes tuition affordable to the community and neighboring communities."

Congregation agrees to new church name

Christ Lutheran Church has started 1999 with a new name. The Redford congregation is now Christ Church of Redford, "Bringing the Light of the World to All Peoples."

For several years, church leaders have felt they were being called to change the name. The idea was right, but the timing wasn't until at the end of the church's 40th anniversary year of relocating from a site on from Scotten Avenue near downtown Detroit to 14350 Wormer, Redford. That's when the membership agreed to the name change.

"Looking at the use of names in the Bible, we find that almost always the names of people or places represent what they are or what the Lord has called them to be like," a church spokesman said. "We really felt that His vision for us is to be identified with Christ only and to be a 'lighthouse' in the neighborhood. "Also, our style of praise and worship is somewhat different from what might be found in most Lutheran churches."

During most of its 40 years of history, Christ Church was affiliated with one of the large Lutheran synods, but about 12 years ago chose to withdraw from the synod and operate independently.

The church has active outreach ministries to neighborhood youth and to the needy. It has Sunday school at 9 a.m., Sunday worship at 10:15 a.m. and Train to Reign (Youth Outreach) at 6 p.m. Tuesdays.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE UPDATE

Alzheimer's disease is the most common dementia (cognitive and memory decline) in people over the age of 65. It affects approximately 4 million Americans and ranks as the fourth leading cause of death after heart disease, cancer and stroke. The emotional and social impact of this disease is suffered not only by patients, but also the caregivers.

The functional and behavioral decline in Alzheimer's disease result from destruction of the nerve cells that control memory, thinking and behavior. Initially short-term memory fails and there is decreased ability to perform familiar tasks. As the disease gradually robs people from cognitive and social skills, behavioral symptoms such as aggression, disorientation and wandering are seen. Older individuals, especially those with family history of Alzheimer's disease are at high risk.

Complaints of social withdrawal, depression and decreased awareness of time along with memory decline require prompt medical attention and early diagnosis.

The future holds promise for effectively treating this "silent epidemic", and current treatments significantly improve symptoms. When given in uncomplicated disease, a new therapy improved cognitive function in 12 weeks. Treatment of early symptoms can help prevent long-term facility placement, preserve dignity and reduce caregiver stress.

Historical museum sponsors day camp

Kids can explore Michigan and metropolitan Detroit's history through a wide variety of hands-on activities during the Detroit Historical Museum's first-ever "History Comes Alive" adventure day camp this summer.

The camp will be 9 a.m. to noon July 12-16 and is targeted for students ages 9-12. The camp includes visits to museums in the Cultural Center and the Dossin Great Lakes Museum on Belle Isle.

"We're excited to offer this unique and educational experience for children," said Amy DeWys-VanHecke, the museum's curator of education. "History can be fun, and we're going to explore the more than 300 years of Detroit's history, from many angles."

The cost is $50 per child and advance registration is required by July 5. All materials, transportation for field trips and snacks will be provided. Enrollment is limited to the first 25 students.

For reservations or more information, call DeWys-VanHecke at (313) 833-9720.

Partial funding is provided by a grant from the Japan Business Society of Detroit Foundation. The Detroit Historical Museum is at Woodward and Kirby in Detroit.

Spurlin took to heart what the woman said and learned how to read cards. She also listened when told she should charge for her readings. "That way you'll do your best work," she was told.

She did become famous, making appearances on the J.P. McCarthy radio show and WXYZ-TV's "Kelly & Co."

She also charged for her readings, using the money to pay for her sons' college education.

And it was one of her sons who led her to give up reading cards.

"I'd have five cards in a row and have to be able to pick out the meaning; that's where the psychic comes in," she said. "One day, my son said those people would never get to heaven. You're taking their money and they're putting their faith in you, not the Lord."

"I read cards for 15 years and paid the boys' way through college. I'm not sorry I read cards; I met a lot of wonderful people."

After a trip to Florida with her husband, Dan, Spurlin plans to weigh other options to fill her retirement years.

She has a real estate license and might specialize in listings. She also may dabble in volunteer work.

"I have to give something back for everything that has happened," she said. "I've been fortunate in so many ways.

"But if I do the book and it's appreciated, I'd be thrilled out of my tree."

Chargers race to Livonia title

Franklin, Stevenson tie for 2nd

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

The Livonia Churchill boys track team isn't quite a well-oiled machine just yet, but the Chargers definitely had enough horsepower Tuesday to win its second straight city meet championship.

Churchill, which brought two buses and an 82-member squad, won by a comfortable margin, outscoring host Livonia Stevenson and Franklin, which tied for second place, 81-47.

Highlighting the win was a school record long jump by sophomore Eric Scott, who soared 21 feet, 3 inches.

Scott eclipsed one of the school's oldest records — a jump of 21-2 in 1976 by Larry Janowski.

"Eric went over 20 feet as a freshman so we knew he had a shot at the record," Churchill coach Rick Austin said.

And as usual, the Chargers got another strong effort from senior Ryan Kearney.

The state placer from a year ago swept his specialty events, the 110-meter hurdles (14.62) and 300 hurdles (40.13). He also got a win in the high jump (6 feet).

BOYS TRACK

And newcomer Devin White, a senior transfer from Westland John Glenn, figured in three firsts.

White captured both the 100 and 200 dashes in 11.61 and 23.49, respectively. He also teamed up with Jamie Shooks, Nathan Pickelhaupt and Paul Karolak for a win in the 400 relay (46.4), and added a second in the long jump behind Scott.

"I don't think we've ever won the 400 relay in this meet and not too many with this track team in that event since I've been here," said Austin, now in his fourth season. "Devin's pretty fast and he definitely give us points we didn't have last year."

Other Churchill individual winners included Mike Gaura in the shot put, 48-4; Guy Diakow, discus, 139-1; and Brandon LaPointe, 800 run, 2:08.19.

Churchill's opening-season outdoor performance was satisfactory, especially since many runners missed practice last week because of spring break. Top distance runner

NFL draft call awaits Brzezinski

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

The suspense won't be much longer for Livonia's Doug Brzezinski.

The offensive guard from Boston College via Redford Catholic Central will soon learn where he'll end up playing in the National Football League.

The All-Star games, combines and personal interviews with nearly every NFL team are all out of the way. Brzezinski can now sit back with a small gathering of family and friends to watch the draft beginning at noon Saturday on ESPN.

He doesn't have a preference where he'd like to play — at least he hasn't made it public.

Doug Brzezinski
Top-notch guard

But it's a good bet he'll wind up somewhere before the end of the fourth round. Many draft experts rate the 6-foot-4, 308-pound Brzezinski as the top guard prospect.

Player personnel directors and draft experts will tell you that guards aren't normally taken in the first or second rounds.

But it was only last year that LSU's Alan Faneca was selected as the 26th pick of the opening round by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I've tried to remain low key," Brzezinski said from his home Monday night in Livonia. "I feel I've done all I can do and now I'll just wait on it."

Brzezinski, who graduated from BC in the spring of 1998 and spent his senior year taking classes for a masters program, has hired New York agent Neil Schwartz to handle his contract negotiations once he is drafted by an NFL team.

"I talked with a couple of agents, but I felt most comfortable with him (Schwartz)," Brzezinski said. "He's represented a few B.C. players including Pete Kendall of the (Seattle) Seahawks.

"Probably his biggest client is Terrell Davis (of the Super Bowl champion Denver Broncos)."

Brzezinski said he enjoyed playing in both the East-West Shrine game (in Palo Alto, Calif.) and the Senior Bowl (in Mobile, Ala.).

"I thought I played pretty well in both games," he said.

But the combines, where all the NFL teams evaluate and test collegiate players, was a different animal.

Brzezinski's agent sent him to Atlanta where he spent a month with a personal trainer getting tips and working out in preparation for the official NFL combine.

"You really don't get a break and you don't get any sleep," Brzezinski said of the combines. "You can't perform you're best when everything is crammed in."

Spartans pass test against Chiefs, 2-0

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS WRITER
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

So it's early in the season. Teams are still trying to fuse, to blend.

And as good as these two teams are, year in and year out, this game really doesn't mean anything.

In the Western Lakes Activities Association, that is. It's unlikely the standings will be affected by it.

So this match is no big deal. None whatsoever. Right?

Right? Nice try. But such an assumption is dead wrong. Doesn't really matter what's on the line when Plymouth Canton and Livonia Stevenson mix it up on the soccer pitch. A game like this always warrants something extra.

On this occasion, Wednesday night at Canton, a mental advantage was the biggest prize up for grabs. Stevenson was still hurting from a frustrating 2-0 loss to Troy Athens, a defeat that ended the Spartans' unbeaten streak at 43 games.

"We came in here with something to prove," said Stevenson coach Jim Kimble.

As for Canton — well, the Chiefs were expected to provide the Spartans, who lost 10 players from last season's state championship squad, with their greatest challenge in the WLA. That's a lot of pressure.

In the final analysis, Stevenson handled its situation better — certainly more consistently — than Canton did. It showed on the scoreboard, too: Spartans 2, Chiefs 0.

Stevenson improved to 2-1. Canton slipped to 2-1.

"We're not ready to beat them yet," said Chiefs' coach Don Smith. "But we can be."

There's a chance they'll meet again — maybe in the WLA championship game, perhaps in the state regional tournament. If they do, both sides will remember this game.

"I thought we played well against them defensively," said Smith. "But we tried to do too much with the two girls up top (forwards Anne Morrell and Amanda Lentz), and our midfield wasn't coming up to play."

It was all part of the plan, according to Kimble. The Stevenson coach knew what to expect from the always-presuring Chiefs; but instead of trying to counterattack, he had his troops lay back.

"We knew what would happen," Kimble said. "We let them come at us for the first 5-10 minutes, then waited to see what would happen."

"We didn't want to take any chances in the first 10 minutes."

Stevenson began to go on the offensive with about 25 minutes left in the first half. Now it was Canton's turn to adjust.

But the Chiefs couldn't do it. The Spartan midfielders began to assert Near miss: Livonia Franklin's Dave Painter can't hide his disappointment as the bar falls during an attempt to clear 6 feet in the high jump during Tuesday's city meet. Painter, who cleared 5-10, finished second.

Jason Richmond, sideline recently with a bad leg, also did not run in a varsity heat.

"I think we've got good balance in the sprints, distance and throws," Austin said. "And Kearney made a huge difference when he's able to high jump for us."

"We really didn't score in the distance, but that group will come around."

Franklin earned a tie with Stevenson by winning the meet's final event, the 1,600 relay as anchor man Kevin Schneider put on the burners to beat the Charger quartet. The foursome of Pat Hayes, John Turner, Ryan Kracht and Schneider clocked a 3:38.53.

Franklin also got a strong showing from senior distance runner Josh Burt, who took the individual 1,600 and 3,200 runs in 4:34.67 and 10:07.98, respectively. Pole vaulter Ryan Shiplett, who cleared 12 feet, garnered the Patriots' other first.

"That mile was a good time," Franklin coach Dale Lee said of Burt. "Today our seniors carried the load. I'd say it was our strongest effort in this meet in four years. We're more balanced than we've been even though we didn't score a point in the throws (shot put or discus). We have a better running attack."

"We're going to switch things on the relays and try eliminate some of the poor exchanges. But I think our guys are ready to compete."

Ironically, Stevenson captured two of the four relay races.

Matt Freeborn, the individual winner in the 400 with an impressive time of 51.91, joined forces with teammates James Bartshe, Mike Lenardon and freshman Dan Howery to win the 800 relay (1:35.95).

The Spartans' quartet of Steve Kecskemeti, Matt Nizol, Joe Verellen and Matt Isner also captured the 3,200 relay (8:32.11). "It was a good meet for us," Stevenson coach John Gores said. "I thought we did a nice job. We had a lot of PRs (personal bests). Our relays looked good."

"And for a freshman, Howery did a good job even though he has a little bit more to learn."

But the day belonged to Churchill.

"They just had too many guns," Lee said. "They can score everywhere and when they picked up White, that made a significant difference because he's a good athlete."

All three teams have dual meets today. Churchill travels to Westland John Glenn.

"I was very proud of the way our team performed today and I'm proud of the senior leadership," Austin said. "I thought Stevenson and Franklin both ran well especially in the distance. Stevenson had speed as well and that Hayes (Pat) for Franklin impressed me. I know he worked hard over the winter."

"All in all it was a nice day and the weather was great for early April."

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS TENNIS PREVIEW

CC grad returns to coach alma mater

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER
skowalski@oe.homecomm.net

Redford Catholic Central's boys tennis team plays home matches at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

"It's where God makes wind, then it distributes itself throughout the rest of the planet," first-year coach Paul Bozyk joked, noting wind is the courts' only drawback. "It's a nice site. They've done all they can to keep the courts up, patched some cracks where they had problems with in the past."

Well, look what the wind brought in: home matches against defending Class A champion Birmingham Brother Rice and perennial powers Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron, along with West Bloomfield, expected to be among the top teams in Oakland County.

CC's schedule also includes meets at Rochester Adams, Grosse Pointe South, Port Huron Northern and Bloomfield Hills Lahser, all strong programs. The Shamrocks, who placed fifth in Class A last year, will return to the Ann Arbor regional where they finished third behind the host schools.

"We had a wonderful showing at the state last year after playing in arguably the toughest region in the state," said Bozyk, a 1991 CC graduate who was an assistant last year. "It's a really challenging region and I certainly don't mind it."

The Westland native played on two NCAA Division III national champion teams at Kalamazoo College. He is currently working on the final phases of a graduate degree in medical science at Wayne State University. He also teaches tennis lessons at the Livonia YMCA.

"I've had a long relationship in team tennis, and I'm real comfortable in taking the position, excited to do it," Bozyk said. "My love for the game comes from competition, particularly in a team setting. It's just a tennis machine at Kalamazoo."

Among the losses to graduation were No. 1 singles player Tom Tarnacki, who reached the regional semifinals despite a sub-.500 regular season, and No. 4 Marc Siciliano, whose 16-4 record included defeats in the regional semifinals and state quarterfinals.

The Shamrocks also had to replace one graduating player in each of the four doubles flights.

"We'll sorely miss all of them but for a team that has to replace six players, we'll be OK," Bozyk said.

One of the top sophomores in the state, Mike Findling, has been promoted from No. 3 to No. 1 singles. Junior J.D. Shade remains at No. 2 where he finished 12-8, losing in the semifinals of the regional and state quarterfinals.

Findling won the regional, lost in the finals at the state meet and finished 15-5 at No. 3 as a freshman.

"His game has really picked up," Bozyk said. "His footwork has improved a great deal, hits the ground strokes better, is penetrating the net and playing more consistently."

He warns, however, that Findling is still an underdog at the highest level.

"One singles I wouldn't wish upon my worst enemy," said Bozyk, who played No. 1 singles his junior and senior years at CC. "I could find 12 that have a shot at getting a seed state-wide. He'll win some, lose some, but won't go down without a fight."

Shade's been limited by a shoulder injury.

"He's playing but it's up to a therapist how many serves he can hit in a day," Bozyk said. "I can't say if he's match ready."

Filling No. 3 is freshman David Atallah, who has promise. "He brings experience with him even though he's just a freshman," Bozyk said.

Junior Evan Currie, a junior varsity player last year, has earned the job at No. 4.

"He's made a significant jump," Bozyk said. "He's an excellent golfer and I can tell he's used to competition, pressure situations."

Junior Rob Sparks, who with the graduated Nick Rost lost in the state finals at No. 2 last year, has moved to No. 1 doubles. His partner is Jeff Fleszar, who remains at No. 1.

Fleszar and Brian Foley, who graduated, finished 17-4 and lost in the regional final and the state quarterfinals.

Both are co-captains with Shade.

"(Sparks and Fleszar) read off each other very well," Bozyk said.

Filling No. 2 is senior Nick Gray, promoted from No. 3, with freshman Mark Fleszar.

Gray and Adam Murray, who graduated, were 11-8 and lost in the semifinals of the regional and quarterfinals of the state meet. "Nick is a good, aggressive player, brings leadership of a returning varsity player to the team," Bozyk said. "Mark is a very athletic freshman with a lot of good shots."

Junior Lodewijk VanHolsbeeck, who didn't play last year because of injury, and sophomore Eric Tomkiewicz, up from the JV, are the No. 3 tandem.

"They're going to complement each other very well," Bozyk said. "Eric is a big, intimidating force at the net with an excellent serve."

Senior Ryan Cibor returns to No. 4 doubles, where he and a senior from last year, John Edwards, finished 8-9.

Joining Cibor is sophomore Matt Roe, who also has potential, Bozyk said.

"Any of our flights is capable of doing very well at the state meet," Bozyk said.

Churchill blanks Raiders, 3-0; Late goal gives Rockets 3-3 tie

Stacey Supanich collected two goals and an assist Monday, lifting Livonia Churchill to a season-opening 3-0 girls soccer victory over host North Farmington.

Kersten Conklin added a goal and one assist for the victorious Chargers, who outshot the Raiders 38-2.

Deanna DeRoo also contributed an assist. Goalkeeper Jennifer Gabon, a sophomore, posted the shutout.

"The shots were a little misleading," Churchill coach Chad Campau said. "Actually we had about 10 to 15 quality shots. They didn't pressure us too much defensively, but we did a good job passing the ball around."

•STEVENSON 10, W.L. WESTERN 0: The two-time defending state champions bounced back from their season-opening loss to Troy Athens behind Deanna McGrath's hat trick in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover match Monday against Walled Lake Western.

Brianna Roy added a pair of goals for the Spartans, who led 9-0 at intermission. Sarah Wittrock contributed a goal and two assists, while Lindsay Gusick and Jamie Hartrick each collected a goal and one assist.

Megan Urbats and Michelle Vetraino also scored goals for Stevenson.

Goalkeeper Leslie Hooker posted the shutout. •JOHN GLENN 3, GARDEN CITY 3: Sophomore Lacey Catarino's goal from junior captain Val Kurzynski 15 minutes into the second half gave Westland John Glenn (0-1-1 overall) a non-league tie Monday with the host Cougars. GC led 3-2 at halftime on goals by Jennie Kisic, Dawn

GIRLS SOCCER WRAP

Sanders and Amy Magdowski. Katie Krause, a senior, tallied Glenn's first two goals. Kurzynski and sophomore Sarah Pack drew the assists.

"We did a nice job of ball-handling," Glenn coach Jerry Poniatowski said. "Garden City likes to dump and run and we marked their big guns tight and we did a good job of with the exception of the times they scored."

•SOUTH LYON 9, WAYNE 0: Cassie Teeple's hat trick sparked the Lions (1-1 overall) to a non-league win Monday at Wayne Memorial (1-2).

Wayne, which trailed 4-0 at halftime, lost goalkeeper Toni Watson to a broken finger at the 15-minute mark of the match. Forward Jenny Sheppard stepped in as an emergency replacement.

"South Lyon is a strong team with a couple of Olympic Development Program players," Wayne coach Larry Brenner said. "Their midfield is also very strong." •DIVINE CHILD 3, LADYWOOD 0: In a Catholic League Central Division game Tuesday, host Livonia Ladywood (2-1) suffered its first defeat of the season at the hands of Dearborn Divine Child.

Despite the loss, Ladywood first-year coach Jill Logsdon praised the efforts of goalkeeper Liz Obrecht, sweeper Jenny Drabek and forward Melissa Harakas.

•LUTHERAN NORTHWEST 4, LUTH. WESTLAND 2: In a Metro Conference encounter on Tuesday, host Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest spoiled the debut of Lutheran High Westland first-year coach Mark Brenner.

every night talking with the teams. "It was like a job interview." Besides a variety of physical tests, Brzezinski went through a battery of psychological testing. "They see how you react in certain situations," he said. "They'll even try to see if you have a sense of humor." Brzezinski clocked a 5.1 in the 40-yard dash and did 26 reps bench-pressing 225 pounds. "My time in the 40 puts me in pretty good position, but I've done more than that as far as reps," Brzezinski said. During his career at B.C., Brzezinski was red-shirted as a freshman in 1994 and then started every game — 46 in a row — during his four-year career. He was an All-Big East selection in 1997 at tackle and went back to guard his senior year where he received some All-America notice despite a sub-.500 season by the Eagles. According to Pro Football Weekly, Brzezinski brings many good intangibles to the game. In addition to having good size and strength, he is tough and physical. He's durable, and with his blue collar attitude, he can be counted upon to play every week. He is also considered a good technician who has been well coached. If there is a drawback, Pro Football Weekly says he may not be as fluid, mobile or athletic as some scouts like. A pulled hamstring, which has recently healed, may have slightly set him back during the combine workouts in the eyes of some NFL evaluators. But the positives far outweigh the negatives. Meanwhile, Brzezinski doesn't worry about which slot he will fall into. He'll sit in front of the TV and just like the rest of the other NFL prospects. He continues to do his daily workouts and has dabbled in a new sport to pass idle time. "I've taken up bowling," Brzezinski said. "I've kind of stumbled upon it and it's fun thing to do. I go to a lot of different places. I was just bowling the other day at Cloverlanes. "It's kind of like winter golf." No word what Brzezinski's average is on the lanes or on the links, but his numbers will soon add up for some lucky National Football League team.

themselves, and Canton started to lose the battles for loose balls. The game's first goal, however, was not the result of a pretty passing play or a great individual effort. Rather, it was just a matter of Stevenson's Julie Murray sending the ball into the box in front of the Chiefs' goal. Christina Lewis popped a shot toward the net that deflected off a Canton defender and squirted past keeper Amy Dorogi. With 20:34 left in the opening half, the Spartans had a 1-0 lead. The strategy had worked. "People knew their roles and stuck to them," said Kimble. From that point on, the Chiefs had trouble asserting themselves. Their inability to control the midfield forced Morrell to roam further and further back in an effort to get to the ball. But when she did get near it, she was immediately swarmed upon. Kimble had assigned two Spartans, usually Cheryl Fox and Katie Beaudoin, to shadow her constantly. "That was the whole idea," he said. "Morrell can beat you single-handed. But our defense played very disciplined." Morrell's frustration surfaced when, with 25:05 left in the second half, she was yellow-carded for a hard tackle, which put her on the sidelines for 10 minutes. Five minutes after her return, a Stevenson clearing pass was fielded by an unmarked Lindsay Gusick, who dribbled through Canton's defense and unleashed a hard shot from 20 yards that went into the corner of the net, making it 2-0 with 9:51 left. "This was a good barometer for us," concluded Smith. "It shows us where we're at. We've got a lot of young kids. And (Stevenson's) a good, solid team."

Whalers face pivotal Game 7

So much for tight, defensive struggles.

The Plymouth Whalers, who rallied from two games down to the London Knights in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey League series by winning three straight, discovered this series was anything but over when they visited the Ice House in London Tuesday.

In front of a near-capacity crowd of 4,837, the Knights taught the OHL's regular-season champions a lesson by drilling them 8-2 to even the series at three games apiece.

The seventh and deciding game will be at 7:30 tonight at Compuware Arena.

The winner advances to meet the Owen Sound Platers in the OHL semifinals at a site to be determined (if the Whalers win tonight, they will host the series opener at 7:30 p.m. Saturday). Owen Sound advanced by eliminating the Midwest Division champ Guelph Storm in six games.

The first two games in the Plymouth-London series went into overtime, with London winning by a 3-2 margin.

Game three, played at Compuware, was also a one-goal affair until the Whalers pulled away with three goals in the last 3:42 to win 7-3.

The next two games featured a return to early-series form, with the Whalers winning both by 5-4 margins (the first going overtime, once again).

But Tuesday was totally different. The game was close for only a period, with the Knights getting a goal from Chris Kelly to take a 1-0 lead into the second. Three second-period markers, two on the power play, gave London all the momentum it would need.

Paul Mara scored for Plymouth at the 8:37 mark of the period (assisted by Harold Druken and David Legwand) to narrow the Knights' lead to 3-1.

But John Erskine pushed the deficit back to three with another score for London with 4:10 left in the period.

Plymouth coach Pete DeBoer pulled goalie Robert Holsinger in favor of Rob Zepp in the third, but it made no difference.

The Knights scored four more times against Zepp to complete the runaway.

The game's final goal was netted by the Whalers' Tomek Valtonen, assisted by Justin Williams, with 2:20 left to play.

London had struggled for much of the series on the power play, but not in this game. The Knights converted 4-of-6 chances with the extra attacker. Plymouth was 0-for-4.

Mike Mazzuca led London with two goals. Rico Fata contributed a goal and two assists, while Tom Kostopoulos, Kelly and Erskine each added a goal and an assist.

Other goals were netted by Peter Reynolds and Jason Metcalfe; Joel Scherban and Krys Barch chipped in with two assists apiece.

Gene Chiarello made 22 stops in goal for London; Holsinger had 18 saves in the first two periods for the Whalers, and Zepp had eight in the third. London had a 34-24 shot advantage.

PLYMOUTH 5, LONDON 4: Last Saturday at Compuware Arena in Plymouth, Jason Ward lifted the Whalers to a win over the Knights by scoring two goals and assisting on a third in an OHL playoff game.

Plymouth used three power-play goals to open up a 5-3 lead after two periods, then held on in the third after London's Rico Fata scored on the power play to narrow the gap to one with 9:13 left.

The Whalers led 2-1 after one period, getting goals from Paul Mara and Ward in a 24-second span.

The Knights' Krys Barch pulled his team to within 2-1 in the period, but Mara — who had two goals and an assist in the game for Plymouth — along with David Legwand and Ward scored in the second to keep the Whalers on top. Legwand also had an assist, while Julian Smith and Randy Fitzgerald each chipped in with two assists.

Barch had two goals and an assist for London, with Jay Doyle adding a goal and an assist.

Gene Chiarello made 36 saves for the Knights, while Robert Holsinger had 24 for Plymouth.

Garden City nips Churchill

First-year varsity coach Jen Knoph could overlook her team's seven errors because Livonia Stevenson opened its season on a winning note with a thrilling 6-5 non-league girls softball victory Monday over visiting Dearborn.

Sophomore right fielder Kelley Hutchins' two-out, 2-run double to provided the final margin of victory.

Stevenson led 3-0 through five complete innings before Dearborn scored three in the sixth and two more in the seventh for a 5-3 lead.

The Spartans' Irene Grias then pulled her team to within one, 5-4, on an RBI single, setting the stage for Hutchins, who drilled a shot over the Pioneer left fielder's head.

"This is the first day we've really had the whole team together and it was great we were able to show that we did not give up and hang tough as a team," Knoph said.

Pitcher LeAnne Schraufnagle went all seven innings to pick up the win. She gave up six hits, fanned six and did not walk a batter.

Katie King, Kristi Copi and Charlene Kijorski each had two hits for the winners. Erin Walsh led Dearborn with three hits, while pitcher E. Malone suffered the loss.

GARDEN CITY 2, CHURCHILL 1: Garden City's Carrie Dayton outdueled Livonia Churchill's Adrienne Doyle in the season opener for both teams.

Dayton gave up just two hits in seven innings. She struck out five and walked two.

Doyle worked six innings, allowing three hits, a walk with one strikeout. GC collected all three hits in the second inning, keyed by Mary Kovacs' 2-run double.

Churchill got a run-back in the fifth on a double and stolen base by Doyle followed by a Kelly Stahley RBI groundout.

Each team had one error. "It was a well-played defensive game for the first game of the season," Churchill coach Dana Hardwidge said.

FRANKLIN 8, REDFORD UNION 2: Freshman second baseman Amy Sandrick made her varsity debut going 2-for-2 with a walk and RBI as Livonia Franklin won its season opener Tuesday against visiting Redford Union.

Winning pitcher Tara Muchow tossed a three-hitter with 11 strikeouts and seven walks.

Losing pitcher Debbie Christensen allowed seven hits over six innings. She struck out three.

RBI doubles by Sara Knopsnider and Jeanette Bertrand helped stake Franklin to a 3-0 lead after three innings.

Muchow, Kelly Young and Tera Morrill also collected hits for the Patriots.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 19, HARPER WOODS 7: Lutheran High Westland (2-0 overall) played error-free softball Tuesday in scoring a win against the host Pioneers (0-2).

The game was stopped after six innings because of the 10-run mercy rule.

Lutheran Westland out-hit Harper Woods, 19-7, with Sharon Greer leading the way.

Greer went 4-for-4, including two walks and three RBI.

Other hitting stars for the Warriors included Katie Heiden, 3-for-5 with a double and three RBI; Stephanie Lynch, 3-for-5 with a double, 2-run homer and four RBI; Sara Marody, 3-for-4; and winning pitcher Heather Rose, 2-for-5 with three RBI.

Rose went the distance, allowing seven runs on seven hits and 10 walks.

Harper Woods' Theresa Gooch suffered the loss. BELLEVILLE 8, JOHN GLENN 5: On Monday, the host Tigers exploded for five runs in the third inning, taking advantage of four Westland John Glenn errors to post the non-league win.

Despite the loss, Glenn's Abby Massey clubbed two homers, a two-run shot in the second inning and a solo homer in the seventh.

Micky Vangoff and Amanda Ross each added two hits.

Sophomore hurler Stephanie Fedulchak, who gave up six hits and five walks, took the loss.

Randi Ladouceur, who scattered seven hits with no walks and 10 strikeouts, was the winning pitcher.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 13, CRESTWOOD 8: Lutheran Westland started its 1999 season with a bang, collecting 10 hits in a non-league victory Monday over visiting Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

Winning pitcher Katie Heiden, who worked six innings, helped her own cause by knocking in three runs. She had two hits, including a 2-run homer.

On the mound, Heiden struck out two, walked three and allowed seven hits. Heather Rose pitched a scoreless seventh.

Rose, a freshman who started in center field, also hits two hits, including a double and two RBI. Sarah Marody added a 2-run triple, while Kari Charles chipped in with a single and triple.

The Warriors committed five errors. "Defensively we weren't as sharp as I like to see us, but it's always nice to win that first one," Lutheran Westland coach Ron Gentz said.

Turn-of-the-century tragedy: Madame Butterfly commits suicide after being deceived by an American Navy lieutenant.

Michigan Opera Theatre honors tradition in tragic love story

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER
lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

When Giacomo Puccini wrote "Madame Butterfly" he could not have foreseen the anxiety he would cause for Teri Hoffman and her daughter Jillian some 95 years later. The 5-1/2-year-old Rochester girl plays the daughter of Butterfly and U.S. Navy lieutenant B.F. Pinkerton in the Michigan Opera Theatre production opening April 17 at the Detroit Opera House.

Of course, Puccini had his own set of troubles when "Madame Butterfly" opened at La Scala in 1904. A jeering and hissing crowd forced the Italian composer to cancel the opera and synthesize two lengthy acts into three shorter ones. The show went on with Toscanini conducting the new effort, as he had the first, and it's been a hit with audiences ever since.

Explaining the plot to Jillian, however, has proved a challenge to Teri Hoffman. Language differences also caused difficulties. Madame Butterfly will be sung in Italian with English subtitles. "It's difficult to explain when she asks why daddy married another woman and then explaining the suicide scene, that it's pretend, and this was long ago and this was how they kept their honor," said Hoffman. "Also, there's a lot of Italian words she has to know to be on cue, so it's educating me first."

True to Puccini's tragic story of unrequited love, Michigan Opera Theatre staging director Mario Corradi sets Madame Butterfly's marriage to the callous American in Nagasaki. This is the first time, Corradi's staged "Madame Butterfly" although he's been directing operas since 1982. Corradi's displeasure with a 1983 Charleston production on which he was assistant director, set the tone for Michigan Opera Theatre's traditional rereading of Puccini's work. Corradi wanted to avoid altering the opera by setting it in a Nagasaki brothel on the eve of the World War II bombing of the city as the 1983 production had done.

"A director is not a composer," said Corradi. "With the fad in Europe there's haughtiness on the part of the director who thinks it needs updating."

A stickler for tradition, Corradi stayed away from "the stereotype of cute Japanese gestures." Instead, he's incorporated several elements of Kabuki theater. Corradi has worked in Japan as an opera director since 1990, so he's well-acquainted with the culture.

"Ten years ago women still walked two steps behind the man," said Corradi. "While that's changed I tried to retain the story. But in a sense this 'Butterfly' could take place in any culture that takes advantage of another culture, where a man thinks he can buy a woman for 100 yen. Thank God for the subtitles that people can see the contempt Pinkerton has for the culture. Pinkerton is the ugly American."

"Madame Butterfly" is not a weak woman according to Corradi. She is simply a woman who loves a man who scorns her. Three years later when Pinkerton returns with an American wife to retrieve the child he had with her, Butterfly, to keep her honor, commits suicide. That's a tragic scenario for any age to handle, but Jillian seems to be taking it all in stride. Hiding her head in Teri's arms helps when the subject arises offstage.

"I like the Butterfly," said Jillian, a kindergarten student at

It's not surprising that one of Jillian's favorite parts is the bath-scene where she gets to blow bubbles. Jillian is a typical little girl who when not on the stage loves to draw, paint and play with her Barbies. When asked if she'll be nervous on opening night, she replies "no, because it will be just like rehearsal."

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER
hgallagher@oe.homecomm.net

Nancy Wilson is proud to call herself a "saloon singer." "There aren't any supper clubs anymore, and I prefer supper clubs," she said. "I'm a saloon singer and I love it, but you do what you do."

On April 24, Wilson will perform with her trio in the comfortable surroundings of the Southfield Centre for the Arts, once a synagogue.

"I feel for the audiences in big auditoriums because they miss the nuances," she said.

And the nuances mean a lot when listening to Nancy Wilson, often regarded as one of the last great female singers from the "golden age of song," a direct link to Ella Fitzgerald, Sarah Vaughn and Dinah Washington.

Wilson was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, in 1937 and in her 62 years, she's recorded 60 albums. Her first recording for Capitol was "Like in Love" and she had her first hit in 1962 with the great jazz sax player Cannonball Adderly, "Save Your Love For Me." In 1964 she won a Grammy and a large following with "How Glad I Am."

Her albums have explored numerous styles of music that have won her an audience in this country and abroad, especially in Japan where she recorded a series of successful albums in the early '80s.

Her most recent album, "If I Had My Way" (Columbia) moves into more contemporary territory, the world of smooth jazz.

"That one is AC, adult contemporary with electric instruments, a more R&B sound than traditional," Wilson said.

When asked why she would abandon her traditional sound, she responded bluntly.

"I did it because I'm tired of marketing people not knowing where to put me," she said.

The album's best feature is Wilson's expressive, dramatic voice, but it is often buried in overproduced, soggy arrangements, synthetic electric saxes, repetitious hooks and inane backing vocals. It isn't Wilson at her best, but it is what radio stations are playing these days.

Two of the numbers, Bill Withers' "Hello Like Before" and "A Fool in Love" were recorded at a studio in Oak Park with producer Michael Powell.

Wilson is at her best telling a story and that is the kind of material she is most comfortable performing. Except for an annoying electric saxophone intro, that is best exemplified on her new album by the Withers' song.

"I look for a story," she said. "I would rather tell a story than have a hook. I like to have a beginning, a middle and an end and have a bridge."

DANCE

An ancient tale with contemporary sensuality

A story about the dominance of a patriarchal culture whereby women submit to the whims and desires of men commits just about every sin against political correctness, not to mention being simply anachronistic.

But "A Tale of One Thousand and One Nights" has survived since the 14th century because of the simple story of love, trust and the pain of betrayal. (The few hundred beheadings are only thrown in to make a point.)

Of course, in the age of theatrical spectacle, "A Tale of One Thou-

Latin Playboys are all-star line-up

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER
cfuoco@oea.homes.com.net

Renowned producer Mitchell Froom hasn't been on the road much. He admits that the lyrics on "Dose," the latest CD from his band Latin Playboys, are indecipherable. But those two things have revved up Froom for his tour.

"The shows have been really great. There's a lot of diehard fans. I was real surprised to see some people singing along with all the songs. We've never performed before and you can't understand the words," Froom said with a laugh.

"It must be people with the lyric sheets memorizing the words. It's been great. The thing that surprised me is I thought a lot of people would be staring and trying to figure out what's going on. But most people react as if it's a party. It's funny and it's fun and I like that."

Latin Playboys is a supergroup of sorts pairing Froom, who last toured with his wife Suzanne Vega, with fellow producer/engineer Chad Blake, and Los Lobos' David Hidalgo and Louie Perez.

The quartet started the Latin Playboys in 1993 after working together on Los Lobos' "Kiko" album.

"That was a real artistic breakthrough. The result of it was that David, kind of kept going. I think he felt really inspired. He was working on some music at home. He then gave the tape to Louie Perez who then gave it to me. It was the best tape I've ever heard. I couldn't stop listening to it," Froom explained.

Blake in turn listened to the tape and they decided to leave the music in its most primal form.

"We didn't want to re-record the music. It was so beautifully done that we couldn't imagine starting over," Froom said.

The group asked Warner Bros. for a small budget to record. In 12 days in the studio, the Latin Playboys wrapped up their self-titled debut.

"We did it and we didn't think that anything would happen beyond that. But it built a kind of mystique around it. It got used in a lot of films, critics were liking it," Froom said of the 1994 album.

Excited, the quartet returned to the studio last year to record a follow-up disc, this time on Atlantic Records. The production of "Dose" may be lo-fi, but the music is complex, an amalgamation of Latino, R&B, rock 'n' roll, jazz and world beat music.

Guest appearances include Tracy Bonham on violin on "Fiesta Erotica" and former Prince cohorts Wendy and Lisa sing back-up on "Lemon 'N Ice" and "Latin Trip." Perez and Blake did a lot of the artwork for the album.

In order to tour, Froom and Blake cleared their schedule for the rest of the year. The two needed a break, he said.

"I have a lot of records coming out this year. There's Randy Newman's album, Tracy Bonham, Ron Sexsmith. I worked on a Vonda Shepard record. Chad worked on a record with Doyle Bramhall. For once, when we did this tour, neither of us booked anything afterward. Both of us worked right through the holidays."

Touring, Froom explained, is important this time around. Live, Hidalgo is on guitar and vocals, Froom plays keyboards, Blake is on bass and saxophone, and Perez sings, plays guitar and percussion. The group will be joined by drummer Cougar Estrada and violinist Lisa Germano.

"(Touring), it's like standing up for it. Up until that point, a lot of people thought it was a one-off project or just an experiment. It really is a band and it sounds like a band when we play live. It's really been fun to do. It's not a financial thing for us. It's like standing up for the music."

Latin Playboys and special guest Lisa Germano perform Thursday, April 22, at The Majestic, 4140 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the 18 and older show. Tickets are $15 in advance. For more information, call (313) 833-9700 or visit www.99music.com.

The group will also perform Thursday, April 15, on "Late Night with Conan O'Brien." A Latin Playboys concert will be web cast in the DigitalArena section of Atlantic Records' Web site at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 20.

Visit www.atlantic-records.com/Latin_Playboys for more information.

rehearsal." Jillian is having fun regardless of the long hours of working and waiting. The first week of rehearsals, she worked blocking scenes from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with an hour for lunch. Teri takes notes and works with Jillian at home from the scripts.

"I was a little surprised, she was called back," said Teri. "Trouble is a fair-haired boy. But it's fun; it's very exciting to work with people of that caliber."

Jillian finds it easy to play a boy because she has her 11-year-old brother James for inspiration. But even if Jillian didn't have a brother, the experience she already has on stage would suffice. Jillian began dancing at age 2-1/2, by age 4-1/2 she was singing and dancing in the chorus of "Once Upon a Mattress," a production by the Rochester Summer Music Theater. In January, she played Dorothy's dog Toto in the Avon Players' production of "Wizard of Oz."

"Butterfly" is the best of all," said Teri Hoffman. "If she never has the opportunity to work with these incredible people again, it will be worth it."

Corradi hopes people will see both versions of "Madame Butterfly," one with Natalia Dercho in the title role of Cio-Cio San, and the other with Sun Xiu Wei. Both make their North American debut with this production. Dercho, a 1998 graduate of the Tchaikovsky Conservatory in Moscow, won first prize in the Belvedere Competition in Vienna and has sung major roles with companies in Zurich, Tel Aviv and Torino. Sun Xiu Wei, a native of China, won the International Verdi Competition in Italy before making her debut in Milan. Tenor Francesco Grollo and Carlo Ventre play Pinkerton. Kathleen Segar sings the role of Suzuki. Steven Mercurio directs the music.

"They should come see both casts," said Corradi. "They are really different—one Chinese girl who looks naturally oriental, the image Puccini wanted, and a Russian soprano who comes out passionate, more Italian in a way."

Last holiday season, Ballet Internationale came to Detroit for their performances of "The Nutcracker" at Music Hall.

Unlike the saccharin Disney versions of the Arab folk tale classic, Aliev writes an enchanting sensuality from the tale about a sultan, who discovers his wife in a tawdry frolic with a slave. She along with every female in the kingdom is targeted for an above-the-head weight loss.

As a result of the betrayal, the sultan is reluctant to trust the new "love of his life," a beauty named Scheherazde, a wise and gifted storyteller, who tells captivating tales of the Arabian nights, starring — who else? — Aladdin, Sinbad and Ali Baba.

"I was told that audiences in America don't understand ballet," said Aliev, who immigrated from the former Soviet republic Azerbaijan to the U.S. in the early 1990s.

"I just think that audiences were hungry for a 'story ballet,'" he said. "Something different from 'Swan Lake,' 'Don Quixote,' and 'Giselle.'"

"To me, ballet should be like an opera — bright, high-energy, an extravaganza," said Aliev.

Although he's reluctant to talk about it, the "A Thousand and One Nights" reaches the pinnacle of spectacle with a special effects that lifts two of the dancers on a magic carpet ride.

Ballette Internationale is a much-welcomed addition to the local dance scene along with the regular presence of the American Ballet Theatre, and Harlem Dance Theatre.

In the next several months, Aliev will make Detroit his second home. He will be in town to choreograph the Michigan Opera Theatre's "Eugene Onegin," and "Samson and Delilah."

And she likes drama, which is why she often cites Little Jimmy Scott as a major influence. Scott's career has recently been revived and his dramatic falsetto has been recognized as a major influence on rhythm and blues.

"I love the way he made words mean something. He bent words and he bent notes. It was dramatic and that's what I was, a torch singer," she said.

"Torch singer," "saloon singer" are the words Nancy Wilson uses to describe herself. She does not call herself a "jazz singer."

"I wasn't called a jazz singer when I started, but if you live long enough and you're black you're a jazz singer," she said with a loud, rueful laugh. "I'm a song stylist and that covers jazz and other kinds of music as well."

Wilson's speaking voice is as warm, intimate and articulate as her singing voice, which is why she has been a successful voiceover for such commercials as the Infinity car series and why she was chosen to host National Public Radio's "Jazz Profiles."

"I enjoy doing it so much," she said. "NPR asked me to do a two-hour special on Ella Fitzgerald and it was a success. My voice seemed suited to it. Tim Owens, who's the producer, wanted me to do it."

Each week Wilson narrates a profile of a jazz performer. The profile includes a biography of the performer, interviews with other musicians and producers and examples of the performer's best music. Often, when the performer is someone Wilson has worked with, she'll add a personal aside. Other times she discovers things she never knew.

"I'm surprised by the fact they dig up what they do," she said. "As entertainers we don't know each other's lives. People think we know each other, but we don't. I'm learning as everyone else is. I'm finding it so interesting."

Beginning this month, Jazz Profiles is devoting 10 programs to the life and music of Duke Ellington on his centennial year. You can hear Nancy Wilson on Jazz Profiles locally at 8 p.m. Mondays on WEMU, 89.1FM.

Southfield's own Randy Scott, a noted jazz saxophonist who regularly performs at the Detroit Montreaux Festival, will open for Wilson.

And Wilson promises what her fans have come to expect from the "Lady of Song."

"Nancy, classic Nancy. I'm not going to drop anything new on them," she said. "I'm not going to come in there and play hip-hop."

And with just a jazz trio, you'll be able to hear that legendary voice.

Troy Players show strength with 'Steel Magnolias'

Troy Players presents "Steel Magnolias" 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, April 16-17; 2 p.m. Sunday, April 18 at Hamilton Elementary School, 5625 Northfield Parkway, Troy. Tickets $10 available at the box office prior to each performance, or call (248) 879-1285.

BY MARY JANE DOERR
SPECIAL WRITER

Showing a bit of mettle themselves because they're operating without a permanent performance space, the "portable" Troy Players is presenting a two hankie version of "Steel Magnolias" by Robert Harling at Hamilton Elementary School in Troy.

"Laughter through tears is my favorite emotion" says the wisecracking owner of Truvy's Hair Salon, which pretty much sums up this female "True Grit" kind of show.

In the three beauty shop town of Chinquapin Parish, La.,

Truvy and her new partner, Annelle, style more than hair at Truvy's salon. In four "snapshot" scenes covering three years of life in the small southern town, they help fashion the lives of the town beauty, the town social leader, the town millionaire and the town curmudgeon. One might get the idea that all the socially prominent do in this socially insignificant haven is get their hair and nails done. But these women, with all of their love of gossip, frivolity and pink fingernail polish, are hard as nails.

Jacquelyn Arno plays the Southern magnolia Shelby, who is not very bashful. Arno has feeling and enough light heartedness to tickle an audience pink, bringing more tears for the finale.

Sandy LaDuke, a newcomer to the stage, plays the difficult role of M'Lynn, Shelby's mother. She plays the final scene with understanding — a credit to her.

As Shelby says, "it is better to have 30 minutes of something wonderful than a lifetime of nothing special." Mary Ligotti-Hitch has something special to offer as the awkward, nervous, but very appealing Annelle. The holy roller Annelle could have been an offensive part, but Ligotti-Hitch's interpretation is sincere not judgmental.

As the eccentric millionaire Clairee, Andrea Willis is priceless especially opposite the obstinate Ousier, perfectly played by Gloria Buoncompagni.

Buoncompagni delivered some very funny lines inoffensively, a real trick.

Pulling this all together with her magic wand and a lot of fairy dust and pastel paint, was set designer/publicist/director/producer/ Sandra Guest.

Guest also directed these eccentric characters. Then in an emergency, as the understudy for all the parts, she donned a blond wig for the Dolly Parton role of Truvy.

It may seem like a one woman show but with this fine cast, Sandy Guest as Truvy has some real soul food to serve up.

Frank Gilroy's drama "The Subject Was Roses" chronicles a returning World War II veteran's struggle to re-establish his identity in the post-war period and to make peace with his parents, whose previously poor relationship has deteriorated in his absence.

Set in the West Bronx in May 1946, the returning infantry corporal must redefine his relationship with his parents, and deal with the explosive anger in their marriage. His parents must learn to accept their son as a man and not as the boy who left for war three years earlier.

As the Cleary family struggles to reconnect as a family, they don't reach perfection, but take steps toward achieving stronger emotional bonds. Each must mend damaged relationships. They are trapped in a self-defeating cycle of hurting, appeasing and grudging compromise. By the end of the play the son and parents have learned to accept each other the way they are, instead of trying to impose their personal vision of how the person should be.

The scenes are well written and move quickly, which keep the play from being dragged down by the heavy duty emotions inundating the stage. The actors rise to the emotional and psychological challenges of the script as well, an element crucial to the production's success.

Jason Smith of Garden City is superb as Timmy Cleary, the returning Army corporal. He personifies both the eager but uncertain son and a self-confident man. His face mirrors his emotions well, especially when he's hit by his parents' bitter crossfire. And whether sober or inebriated, he projects the son's longing, anguish and desire for peace with his parents.

The parents, John and Nettie Cleary, are played by Dejan Radovanovich of Livonia and Christy Bonstell of Zeeland. Radovanovich is captivating in his ability to swing from nice guy to angry, unreasonable despot. He displays a skillful grasp of the wide range of emotions the father uses to psychologically manipulate both the mother and son.

Bonstell is able to accomplish the tricky task of displaying emotion on her face while maintaining the self-restraint expected from women of her era. While she captured the mother's anxiety and anger well, the makeup team needs to age her facially — she looked more like her son's sister than mother.

Technically, the show established a wonderful mood with the tunes of Glenn Miller reverberating from an old-fashioned radio, and the set — an apartment interior — reflected careful attention to detail, right down to a worn sofa and a period phone.

Christy Bonstell's costumes were flattering and well coordinated with matching purses and shoes appropriate to the immediate postwar period. Smith's Army uniform also fit him well, and was neat and pressed.

The props were a mixed bag — hit or miss. While great care was taken to maintain period accuracy in many respects — including brown beer bottles with tops requiring a bottle opener — an unstable rose vase, a crucial prop, toppled to the floor prematurely, making Bonstell's subsequent hurling of the vase across the room anti-climactic. And the prop crew used tall tumblers instead of small juice glasses for a conspicuous inch of orange juice.

'Never Been Kissed' is All-American high school fun

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER
kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

You wouldn't recognize Josie Geller in a crowd. She doesn't stand out. But in high school, well that's another story. She's "Never Been Kissed," and the cool kids don't like her. Geller's got a problem, she's 25, not 17, and an undercover reporter for the Chicago Sun-Times. If she doesn't "transition" into the cool clique, she'll lose her job, so will her boss, Gus. That's the story behind "Never Been Kissed" starring Drew Barrymore as the caterpillar like Josie who blossoms into a beauty, and John C. Reilly as her cantankerous boss with a heart of gold.

"This is so not a dream," says Geller as the film begins. "I was just trying to do my job when this happened." A copy editor who dreams of being a reporter, Geller gets her chance when Gus' boss Rigfort decides he wants to do a story on high schools. He spots Geller, who looks younger than she is, at a staff meeting and gives her the job. Geller's euphoria over getting a break fades when she tells her younger brother Rob (David Arquette). "Remember what they called you in high school," he says — "Josie Grossie." A wave of nausea sweeps over her, but it's too late to turn back. If you've ever wondered about what it would be like to return to high school after you're all grown up, you'll get a kick out of "Never Been Kissed." Who did you hang out with? The brainy nerds or the cool kids? Fashions and music change, but group dynamics don't. There are still the beautiful cool girls, Kirsten (Jessica Alba), Kristin (Marley Shelton) and Gibby (Jordan Laddy) who have the perfect clothes, hair and makeup. Guy Perkins (Jeremy Jordan) is the handsome one, every girl's dream, who makes going to school worthwhile. Brainy kids like Aldys (Leelee Sobieski) hang out with the other nerds, except now they hang together for protection. You know, safety in numbers.

Geller falls for her English teacher, the very hip Sam Coulson (Michael Vartan). "Disguise changes all the rules," he says while talking about Shakespeare. "Disguises can be liberating. They can get you to do things you normally would not do." Geller's doing a lot of things she would normally not do and changes in the process. As she stumbles through high school her co-workers watch and cheer her on in the newsroom. Everything's being taped, and watching Josie in high school is better than a soap opera. Anita (Molly Shannon), the office floozy, visits Josie at school and is mistaken for the sex education teacher. Her lecture is one you'll laugh about for a long time.

Back in school: Drew Barrymore as Josie reads her paper to her English class, while her friend Aldys (Leelee Sobieski, seated, right) listens in "Never Been Kissed."

"Never Been Kissed" is all American fun with a little romance, betrayal and baseball thrown in. You'll find yourself cheering for Josie as her confidence grows. There is the "kiss," but this is mostly a movie about friendship, and learning to be yourself. Flashbacks of a younger Josie with braces being tormented by the cool kids at school are painful to watch, but oh so real. Josie's not "Carrie," she is not looking for revenge, only to fit in. "Never Been Kissed" will definitely appeal to teens, and surprise adults who might have been dragged to the show by their kids. The cast and staff are identified by name and yearbook picture in the credits. A nice touch. Abby Kohn and Marc Silverstein make their screenwriting debut with "Never Been Kissed." Raja Gosnell "Home Alone 3" directs. Barrymore makes her film debut as producer. "Never Been Kissed" marks Barrymore's debut as a film producer. In 1995, Barrymore and Nancy Juvonen founded Flower Films Inc. In the summer of 1997 they began a two-year, first-look deal with Fox 2000 Pictures, a division of Twentieth Century Fox. "Never Been Kissed" is the first film to go into production.

'The Matrix' is entertaining summer movie appetizer

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER
hgallagher@oe.homecomm.net

The ads ask "What is the Matrix?" The answer is the first hit movie of 1999, a springtime appetizer before George Lucas' new "Star Wars" arrives. Written and directed by Andy and Larry Wachowski, "The Matrix" is a visually interesting movie comic book with mythic pretenses that don't seriously intrude on the action. It's reasonably entertaining if you don't take it too seriously or become bogged down by logic, even its own squirrely internal logic. Like any good comic book, "The Matrix" has a super hero masquerading as an ordinary mortal. Keanu Reeves, a sometimes serious actor, plays mild mannered and slightly disheveled computer software engineer Thomas Anderson, who is also known as computer hacker Neo. It seems that Neo is vaguely aware that something is wrong with his life, other than his ratty apartment and weird underworld associates. Turns out that he's right. The world he thinks is real is just a computer illusion, a device created by a vast system of artificial intelligence to keep humans in line while they suck human energy (or something like that). And our hero Neo is the One, the Messiah, the whatever who can save mankind and free their minds. Laurence Fishburne, usually a serious actor, is Morpheus, the leader of an underground movement. He and his small cadre have broken free and inhabit the real world (a pretty dreary place). Also in the cadre is Trinity (Carrie Ann Moss), a woman who has also discovered the truth and is waiting to have her prophesy fulfilled. As you can see, with names like Neo, Morpheus and Trinity, we are getting pretty deep into symbolism. Not to worry. This movie is really about stunning stop motion photography, state-of-the-art computer graphics, karate, explosions and well choreographed gunplay. It's violent, but it's the kind of fast, mindless, non specific violence that we associate with comic books and Saturday matinees. The Wachowskis visual imagination is richer than their story telling skills. They've created a mock world within a mock world and both are convincing in their way. The story has been called confusing by some reviewers, but if you pay attention you'll be able to follow it without too much trouble. That's not the same thing as saying it makes any rational sense, of course. Reeves and Fishburne bring some serious acting chops to their roles and probably had a good time. Reeves is quite good at swaggering in a long black coat. The real acting honors go to Australian actor Hugo Weaving as the top bad guy. The conceit here is that the bad guys all look like Secret Service agents, which is also a nod to "Men in Black." They wear dark glasses and radios in their ears. Weaving is a slick, no nonsense government agent. The visuals include some high flying, kick boxing fights between Reeves and Weaving, bullets that are visible in flight and some dramatic morphing. The Wachowskis also have a sense of humor and there are a few verbal and visual references to the Bible, Greek mythology, "Alice in Wonderland," "The Wizard of Oz," "Twenty-thousand Leagues Under the Sea" and other inspirations. So what is the Matrix? An entertaining and mindless escape, perfect for a rainy day. As an appetizer it's pretty tasty.

Surf's up for guitarist Dick Dale

BACKSTAGE PASS

ANN DELISI

Surf City, here we come. The spring arts scene is rolling in like a tasty wave, so let's ride it with the king of the surf guitar, Dick Dale. Then, we'll discover the virtual galleries of local artists available when you surf the web. Dick's in town this week to perform at the Magic Stick in Detroit and on Detroit Public TV's BACKSTAGE PASS. Dale's story is one of a kind. He's credited with creating the surf sound in the 1950s, and was featured in the beach movies with Frankie and Annette. When Leo Fender handed him his new Stratocaster, Dick played it upside down and backward, as an astonished Leo saw his right-handed baby played left handed. The sound was outrageous and demonstrated the potential of the electric instrument and the guitarist. Forty years later, how relevant is Dick Dale to today's music? "Backstage Pass" checked in with Darrin O'Donnell, who, after a decade of playing lead guitar for Bad Dog and other less-than-legendary southeast

Michigan bands, packed up his stratocaster in the early '90s and headed for Southern California. Ahhhh... a life complete with a low-paying job at a fabled music school and the roaring surf. Who better to comment on the Dick Dale phenomenon? "Dick Dale has been my mentor ever since Keith Richards died," he joked, noting that the Rolling Stone has never been more alive. How is he regarded in the cradle of the surf civilization? "Dick is undoubtedly a Southern California icon. You see him in television commercials and many musicians know him from his signature guitars. When his music was featured in that unforgettable scene in 'Pulp Fiction,' his popularity surged." We asked O'Donnell to define surf music. "If I had to label it, I'd describe it as pre-fuzz punk - a raw sound that was modified by the distortion of Jimi Hendrix. When I hear an alternative band like Green Day, I usually detect some aspect of surf music with a bit of technical tweaking." Any message for Dick Dale when he visits our studio? "When you see that guy, tell him he owes me money." Thanks for the laughs and the mock struggling-musician-speak, surf dude. Rock on. Next, moondogs, let's surf the web for innovative approaches a local artist is using to exhibit his work in this new medium. Lowell Boileau started as a painter but now uses the computer as his canvas. His Web site, www.bhere.com, receives 2 million hits annually and was honored as Yahoo Pick of the Year. "When I was introduced to the internet, I knew immediately that things would never be the same. I began using it to exhibit my work because it appealed to me as an eternal art opening. It's no longer a case of some rich guy buying your work, and you never see it again. Now, I consider it a new art medium." With such intriguing galleries as "The Fabulous Ruins of Detroit" on the site, it is no wonder web surfers are drawn to it. Boileau appreciates the feedback he receives through e-mail messages, and considers the ability to interact with the viewer a major advantage to the medium. We'll introduce you to the exciting work of the new BACKSTAGE PASS artist-in-residence, Lowell Boileau, and converse with Dick Dale on Detroit Public TV. Sunday, April 18 at 7:30 p.m. Surf's up.

If it's vintage anything, singer Jason Falkner wants it

Pop singer Jason Falkner is into anything vintage. His Los Angeles home is packed with vintage guitars, amps, drums, microphones and clothing. He even drives a red 1962 Ford Galaxy just like Andy Griffith.

Falkner basically the Andy Griffith car. It's the same car, the same year but without the lights. I'm trying to get the lights," he said with a laugh.

Returning: Jason Falkner is returning to the Detroit area Friday, April 16, to perform songs off his new album, "Can You Still Feel?"

Just always liked old stuff. I have old clothes. I think I'm just like a freak," Falkner explained. "I think I have an issue, especially where clothing and gear is concerned, with trying to keep up with the Joneses. It seems like such a task. I'd rather just create my own niche using old stuff and new stuff. That goes with my recordings as well."

Falkner's recordings - his 1996 solo debut "Jason Falkner Presents Author Unknown" and his sophomore effort "Can You Still Feel?" - are far from "retro," a term that he despises.

"I understand that there's certain things about my music and the sound of my music that's retro. But I don't think that the writing is retro at all. You hear some bands and they sound like they want to sound like the Beatles. I don't think you could really say that about me if you really listened to my music."

"Can You Still Feel?" which opens with Falkner whispering "Take a chance on me," is rich and warm. Falkner's inviting, dramatic vocals are wrapped around strings, vintage keyboards, police sirens, and simple yet-textured pop melodies. "My Lucky Day" couples hand-claps with space-age keyboards, while "Revelation" is soft and dreamy. The first single is "Eloquence," a soaring pop song that has hit potential. In lieu of a video, Falkner has filmed a 30-second commercial for the song and the album.

Falkner sang and played all the instruments on "Can You Still Feel?" but he recruited Nigel Godrich, who was at the helm of Radiohead's "OK, Computer," to produce and engineer.

"I wanted to bring in a co-producer really to have a springboard. I knew that he was a great engineer, that was kind of the main reason I wanted him to work on this record. Then I wanted him to co-produce so he would have more invested in the project, mentally and emotionally, than just being an engineer."

The duo worked on the album in New Orleans, which was more inspirational than it was influential to Falkner.

"There's not a lot of blues on my record," he said with a laugh.

"I'd say there's a lot of soul, but not so much cajun music. I just like the vibe down there. It's such a beautiful city. The colors, the city lets things deteriorate and bleach and let things look old and good and almost like Mediterranean or something."

"Where I live in L.A., everything gets a paint job every year. There's nothing historical standing out really. That's the nature of the city."

Jason Falkner opens for Mercury Rev on Friday, April 16, at the Mill Street Entry below Clutch Cargo's, 65 E. Huron, Pontiac. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the all-ages show. Tickets are $8.50 in advance. Call (248) 333-2362 or visit www.961melt.com for more information.

American influences

Neil Halstead was at the core of the guitar-heavy, English shoegazer band Slowdive. But although the group was successful, Halstead had a secret passion for acoustic guitar-based music with strong songs.

"We just got bored really. Slowdive, well we did three records and we were in the band for six years. We just reached a point where we didn't think we'd be able to do anything that we hadn't already done within the confines of the band. It just kind of fell apart," Halstead explained.

As a result, he as well as ex-Slowdivers bassist/vocalist Rachel Goswell and drummer Ian McCutcheon and new recruit guitarist Simon Rowe formed Mojave 3 in 1995.

While Mojave 3's first album, "As Me Tomorrow," was basically demos, the band's latest release "Out of Time" was recorded on and off in Cornwall, England.

"We tended to have lots of breaks. We'd do a week of recording and then we wouldn't do anything for awhile. We never really planned to do it that way, it's just the way it worked out. It ended up being quite relaxing, which is kind of nice."

Mojave 3 reflects Halstead's taste in American music. "We like Wilco and Palace. I really like it out here."

Mojave 3 performs with Gomez on Sunday, April 18, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Doors open at 7 p.m. for the all-ages show. Tickets are $8.50 in advance. Call (313) 961-

Foreign territory

Teen singer Jessica Simpson is making her Detroit debut this weekend. Although her album "Sweet Kisses" isn't due out on Columbia until June, one of her songs "Did You Ever Love Somebody" is featured on "Songs From Dawson's Creek," which hits stores April 20.

"It's so exciting. That's my favorite show. When I found out that I made it on the soundtrack, I started crying," Simpson said via her dad's cell phone.

She describes her music as a blend of pop and R&B or "like an earlier Mariah (Carey) thing. I really love to do big, big ballads like Whitney and Celine."

Simpson said it has been a challenge to perform in front of audiences who have never heard her music, but she's been successful thus far. She opens for B*Witched and 98 Degrees at the State Theatre on April 17. The show is sold out.

"It's kind of hard to get out there when they don't know who I am but once I get out there, I totally try to pump them up for 98 Degrees. I try to make myself look like I'm one of them. We have fun together."

Museum cafe showcases Michigan's culinary traditions

Food service at Henry Ford Museum for a long time was like the museum itself — lost in time.

Visitors had two choices, the Weirmobile Cafe tucked into a corner of the museum or the cafeteria style American Cafe. Neither one was very exciting.

You can still grab a hot dog at the cafe, but if you're looking for a place to rest and enjoy a pleasant meal, check out the Michigan Cafe, which opened March 26.

The renovated former cafeteria is a tribute to Michigan foods.

"Michigan has always been known for its culinary contributions," said Steve Hamp president of Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village. "We wanted to provide our visitors with a unique, fun-filled dining experience that represents the best of what Michigan has to offer."

Executive Chef Jim Maier, a graduate of the Oakland Community College culinary arts program, spent over a year collecting Michigan-based recipes, and creating some of his own.

"We obtained the Hudson's Maurice Salad Dressing recipe," he said. "A lot of people remember going downtown to Hudson's at Christmastime."

Helping visitors recall their fondest Michigan food memories is part of the Michigan Cafe's mission. The other is to serve as a gateway to Michigan for guests who are visiting the state for the first time, and may not be familiar with our culinary traditions such as Sander's, Vernor's, cherries and Pinconning cheese.

"We want to give people a taste of what our state is all about," said Maier. "We also want them to know about festivals and other things that are happening around the state."

with enlarged postcards of state attractions including the Mackinac Bridge and Irish Hills from the museum's collection. AAA-inspired travel posters also help create the "I'm on vacation," feel of the restaurant. Carpeting is edged with canoe paddles, and sprinkled with pine cones. See if you can spot the bears, pheasants and other animals that are woven into the carpet design. There are eight in all.

Maier wants to offer menu specials during popular events such as the Tulip Festival in Holland to heighten awareness and showcase Michigan products.

"We're planning to offer some signature Dutch dishes," he said. "I've been in touch with some restaurants in Holland, Mich. to talk about the Tulip Festival."

The restaurant, which has a separate entrance from the museum near the entrance to Greenfield Village, is still cafeteria style, but the stations are well-defined. Instead of going through one line for everything, you can visit the deli, oven or salad station.

Starting with entrees guests can choose from Great Lakes Whitefish Boat — whitefish filet in dilled-sour cream baked with a puff pastry top or Cafe Chicken — whole breast of chicken with cherry barbecue or wild mushroom sauce.

Some items are "imported" such as Albie's Beef Pasty, La-shish restaurant hummous & pita on the salad menu, and Dearborn Sausage Footlong on the deli menu.

"La-Shish is such a great name in Dearborn," said Maier, "they're known for quality. We're the only facility outside their restaurant that offers their products."

Sandwiches are made with Breadsmit bread made in Dearborn. Choose from the U of M Wolverine Combo Sandwich — turkey, ham, Swiss and Cheddar cheese with mustard served on a honey white roll or the MSU Spartan Sandwich — turkey, ham or tuna served on a honey-white roll.

Mama Mucci in Canton makes the specially designed pasta shaped like a mitten to resemble the lower peninsula. The pasta is used to create Mighty Mac & Cheese.

"We want to offer lots of variety," said Renee Righetti, food service manager for the museum.

The desserts will bring back lots of sweet memories. A favorite is Sander's famous cream puff — homemade cream puff with Stroh's ice cream, topped with Sander's Hot Fudge Sauce. Muskegon County Blueberry Pie was inspired by the Blueberry Festival. This recipe is low in fat with no added sugar.

"The Traverse City Cake is served with a chocolate cut-out of the lower peninsula," said Righetti. Northern Cinnamon Roll features a northern Michigan Maple Glaze.

"Our cookies are shaped like Model T's," said Righetti.

Stroh's is the only ice cream on this menu, and the baklava is styled after the Greek style phyllo pastry you'll find on Monroe St. in Detroit.

Michigan brewed beers and a variety of soft drinks are also on the menu. Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum are popular destinations for tourists and Michiganders alike.

Upcoming events include Spring Farm Days April 22-25; Civil War Remembrance, May 30-31; Colonial Life, June 26-27 and Celebration of Emancipation Aug. 7-8.
