Unions push school favorites

Martha Pitsenbarger and Lorne "Skip" Monit are the choices for Wayne-Westland Board of Education for unions representing district employees. The teachers union is phoning members this weekend to push such a vote.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER dclem@oe.homecomm.net

Unions representing more than 1,000 Wayne-Westland school district employees are rallying this weekend to win support for school board candidates Martha Pitsenbarger and Lorne "Skip" Monit.

The Wayne-Westland Education

Association - the local teachers union is phoning members to urge a vote following interviews that a screening committee conducted with Pitsenbarger, Monit and board hopeful Brenda Smith.

Panel members this year ignored a fourth candidate, Marshall Wright, but he said he isn't upset.

"I respect their decision," he said Friday. "They feel that they were justified umbrella in Wayne-Westland, Becher in not interviewing me, and that's their prerogative. That's their decision."

The four candidates are competing for two school board seats in Monday's election. Winners will receive four-year terms.

Polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The weekend campaign push by telephone comes after union leaders already sent letters to 500 members who live in the district, WWEA President Steve Becher said.

Calls are being made to three employee groups – teachers, secretaries and skilled workers - who fall under the Michigan Education Association said.

The three groups represent 1,020 employees, but many of them don't live in the district.

Voters will elect at least one new board member. Incumbent David James decided not to seek re-election.

Becher confirmed that union leaders chose to support incumbent Pitsenbarger and first-time candidate Monit even though they also found Smith an impressive candidate.

"I'm appreciative. I welcome their support," Pitsenbarger said.

Political newcomer Smith is a fulltime college student who wants to explore a teaching career in high school science and journalism. Former candidate Wright is a licensed social worker trying again to win a board seat.

In Livonia, attorney Kokenakes is seeking re-election while others trying to win board seats include Egan, who runs a home child care business; Galka, a former nurse and instructor; Naser, a mortgage broker; and Whitehead, a marketing analyst.

City leaders are expected to learn next week whether they can legally ask Westland voters to decide a ballot proposal for a new recreation-center and a new city hall.

City Attorney Angelo Plakas said he is almost ready to issue an opinion on the legality of a possible Nov. 2 ballot question.

He indicated that his decision could come during a Westland City Council meeting on June 21 – 49 days after he was asked for a legal opinion.

"I'll have it by the next council meeting," Plakas pledged Monday.

Even so, a potential battle looms because council members remain sharply divided over the need for a ballot question.

What's more, some political observers say the issue could become even more heated in 1999 – an election year for four council seats.

Councilman Charles "Trav" Griffin said during a telephone interview that he opposes letting voters decide the fate of new city buildings - because no tax increase is involved.

"I do not understand why we need to put something on the ballot for an issue that doesn't involve a tax increase," he said Thursday. "I think that's why we have a representative form of government, and that's why the people elected us to make decisions."

Different view

But Councilman Glenn Anderson, in a separate interview, said city leaders shouldn't shy away from asking voters for advice on new buildings.

"I think you have to put faith in the public, and you have to give people the option," Anderson said. "I think the cit-

Three paraprofessionals and PTA members at Patchin, Sandy Sonak, Claudia Rowe and Lisa Freese, were instrumental in organizing WISE. "They volunteered," Genig said. "They've been people who arranged everything. This is all on their free time. They've done a very good job."

Upscale recreation centers have become a major focus for cities in recent years, and Mayor Robert Thomas has said he doesn't want Westland to lack services offered in other communities.

Some cities are moving toward asking voters for money to build recreation centers. Livonia is considering placing such a tax issue on the Sept. 14 primary election ballot.

In Westland, however, Thomas and his supporters say the city can construct a new recreation center and city hall without asking for more money.

They support using tax revenues already in place in a special Tax Increment Finance Authority (TIFA) district north of Ford Road. Council members who ultimately will decide the issue are divided over the TIFA plan, too.

Councilman Richard LeBlanc has suggested that city buildings - whether new or renovated should remain in their south-of-Ford area near Carlson. His proposal would require an alternate financing plan because TIFA dollars can only be used in a certain geographical area north of Ford.

City leaders still haven't chosen a location for new buildings. Negotiations for a possible site northwest of Ford and Central

City Parkway collapsed after would be built and how the city would pay for them. administration officials said

Griffin questioned how voters could make an informed decision until outstanding issues are resolved.

Bailey concerns

Thomas has said Westland needs a better facility than the 20-year-old Bailey Recreation Center, which has been labeled deficient and unappealing. He also wants a new administration building to replace a city hall that he has described as deteriorating.

A survey conducted by an outside firm revealed early this year that - out of 605 households reached - 51 percent of residents were "very" supportive of a new recreation center.

The poll found another 32 percent "somewhat supportive."

Griffin said scientific surveys "are done every day" - at all levels of government - and are shown to be reflective of citizen opinions. He is among those who say city leaders should trust the

Cancer survivors gather to applaud miracle of life

More than 200 cancer survivors and family members gathered in Garden City Park to join in festivities observing National Cancer Survivors Day Sunday, June 6.

 \sim

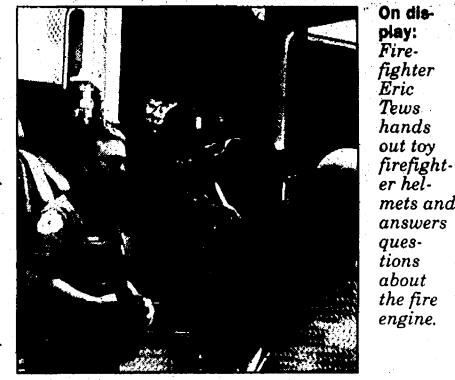

For three years, Garden City Hospital has sponsored a picnic for its patients who have been diagnosed with cancer.

Patient representative Norah Fix served as master of ceremonies. Mayor Jim Barker read a proclamation that declared the day as National Cancer Survivors Day in Garden City.

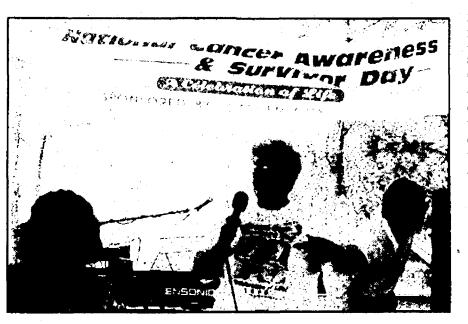

Dr. Andrea Jungwirth, a Garden City Hospital physician and cancer survivor, sang "America the Beautiful." Charles Possenriede, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church of Farmington, gave the invocation.

After lunch, guests were treated to the sounds of the Chuck Bradley Band.

There were also activities to keep the children busy including balloons and face painting provided by several clowns including the hospital's own Rose Merrick.

one to inspect the fire trucks. Cancer survivor Richard Bloch (co-founder of H&R Block) and his wife, Annette, held the first Cancer Survivors Rally in Kansas City to demonstrate that a diagnosis of cancer was not an automatic death sentence. The idea soon caught on in other communities across America and has come to be known as National Cancer Survivors Day. The event is always held on the first Sunday in June.

Last year, more than 700 communities throughout North America celebrated National Cancer Survivors Day, the world's largest cancer survivor event.

Young cancer patients benefit from scissor action at salon

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER dclem@oe.homecomm.net

It shear was a hair-raising experience. Nineteen volunteers - some a little nervous succumbed to scissors Monday as they received major hairstyle changes at a Westland salon. And they did it for charity.

In all, 17 women and two men had more than 190 inches cut off of their collective lengths as they "raised" hair to help make wigs for child cancer victims.

Mandy Long, 18, helped organize the benefit at Maria Cisar Hair Salon, 35857 Ford Road.

Long had 12 inches of her own hair chopped off to help "Locks of Love." a national program that helps children who lose their hair during cancer treatment.

Cisar's salon offered free haircuts and stylings to volunteers who agreed to give 10 inches or more of

Some people made appointments, but Long said, "we had a lot of walk-ins."

Stylists pulled long hair into ponytails and then cut it off. They worked hard for about three hours Monday afternoon, snip-snip-snipping and giving each volunteer a new "do."

"It went great," receptionist Aimee Black said. Volunteers with all colors of hair participated in the "hair-raiser."

Long, a 1999 graduate of Westland John Glenn High School, got her hair cut just two days after her graduation ceremony.

One woman who wanted to give hair couldn't make it to the Monday afternoon event, so special arrangements were made for her to get her hair cut later in the week. Black said.

That means 20 volunteers gave more than 200 inches of hair at the Westland salon to help child cancer victims - all because Long cared enough to initiate the project.

"I just wanted to help," she said.

June 22 city council filing deadline

Westland City Council candidates face a 4 p.m. June 22 deadline filing.

That's the cutoff for turning in candidate petitions that must be signed by 201 registered voters. Petitions go to the Westland city clerk's office. Of four seats at stake, just two incumbents are seeking re-election: Glenn Anderson and Charles "Trav" Griffin.

That means there will be at least some turnover on the council.

Councilwoman Justine Barns has decided not to seek re-election. Former Councilman Charles Pickering stepped down April 30, already creating a yacancy.

Current council members are expected to fill Pickering's seat with a still-pending appointee, but that person would have to win election this year to keep the seat.

Westland will have an election primary for council candidates only if nine or more people enter the race. The primary would be Sept. 14.

A primary would narrow the field to eight candidates for the Nov. 2 general election.

Unions from page A1 Smith, a college student who will turn 20 on Saturday, was described by Becher as polished and poised. "We were very impressed with Brenda," he said. "For a young lady of her age, we thought she came across very well."

In the end, however, union leaders viewed Pitsenbarger and Monit as having the best views on education.

Becher said Wright wasn't interviewed because union officials had talked with him during a previous school board campaign.

Wright said much has changed since that interview, which he said occurred about three years ago. Last Sunday, for example, he participated in a University of Windsor ceremony to receive an elementary education bachelor's degree - his second college degree.

Wright contacted the WWEA after he learned "third-hand" that he was the only candidate not called for an interview.

"My question was, didn't they feel that there could have been any room for changes or any new information in the last three years?" he asked. "There have been some big changes, some very positive changes.'

But Wright said he didn't want to sound angry or upset.

voters are fortunate to have good choices in this election.

"There was nobody bad out there," he said. "We don't think there are any crazies running this year, like there have been in the past.

"We don't think any of the candidates have an ax to grind," he added. "We think they have the best interest of the school district at heart."

Wayne-Westland board relations have become calm in recent years - compared to bitter infighting that occurred earlier this decade.

"But we do not believe it's a rubber stamp," Becher said of the board.

The winners of Monday's election will join board holdovers David Cox, Mathew McCusker, Robin Moore, Teresa Robbins and Ed Turner.

It's possible - though not certain - that board members could' be faced with filling a vacancy in coming weeks.

Cox is up for a possible Westland City Council appointment. If chosen, he would have to leave the school board.

Retail fraud

A loss prevention officer at Canton Meijer on Ford Road spotted a 17-year-old Westland woman attempting to steal baby's clothing and a stroller June 4.

Reports said the teen, who was with a second woman and two children, was in the store's women's department and attempted to conceal several items in a diaper bag. At one point, the Westland teen selected Plymouth.

Marijuana possession

A 40-year-old Westland man was arrested for possession of marijuana and driving with a suspended license June 3 in Canton.

A township police officer stopped the man for speeding on Koppernick Road near Ronda Drive at about 6 a.m., according to reports. He was allegedly driving at 40 miles per hour in a 25 mph zone.

After running a background check, Canton police discovered an outstanding warrant for the 40-year-old on the suspended license charge. He was subsequently arrested.

A later vehicle search revealed that the man had 1.8 grams of marijuana, reports said.

When motorists drive on the new lanes of I-275 later this year, they won't forget the inconvenience of lane reductions and crossovers associated with the construction:

What they may not realize is the freeway is using technology and highly specialized equipment incorporated by the contractor to build a better road.

John Carlo, the main contractor on the $49 million I-275 proiect, have been using two spreaders that will help pour concrete that measures about 36 feet wide or about three lanes. Traditionally freeway concrete has been poured one or two lanes at a time.

"Obviously this job is the biggest 'design-build' construction in state history," said Mike Donohoe, vice president of construction for John Carlo. "It gave us a little more leeway with construction."

MDOT wanted four lanes of highway and two shoulder lanes replaced on each side. With the spreaders, "we can pour three lanes twice, instead of two lanes three times," Donohoe said. "That alone will save us about a month. If you lower your days, you can lower your price."

With that equipment in hand, John Carlo officials could bid accordingly on the project, saving in time and labor costs about $13 million.

That equipment also will enable John Carlo to finish the project this year. Originally MDOT officials had discussed and planned the project originally as a two-year project.

ers last week on test pours to ensure the equipment was timed to work properly. The spreaders pour and level the concrete, then bell-bars — installed for expansion and contraction of the concrete — will be placed by a dowel-bar inserter.

The spreaders contain software to check the grade of the slope. If the grade varies from a 2 percent slope, sensors are activated.

If laborers installed the expansion and construction bars, they would need to pin them down and line them up, said Dennis Hanley, John Carlo's project manager.

"This new equipment allows 2 us to unload the bell-bars and' put them in their proper location, alignment and depth," Hanley said. "It's got the horses to push 12 inches of pavement."

Faculty Forum supports two incumbents

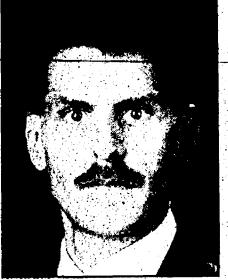

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK STAFF WRITER kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

With the polls opening at 7 a:m: tomorrow for the election of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, the candidates are lining up their endorsements.

Incumbents Greg Stempien and Patricia Watson received votes of confidence from the Schoolcraft College Faculty Forum, the union of 130 fulltime and more than 300 parttime instructors at the college and two other bargaining units of building maintenance and secretarial staff at the college.

Richard Reaume has received backing from Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack and others, while Mike Novak decided not to seek endorsements from elected officials in Livonia.

Voters will decide Monday which two candidates will serve six-year terms on the board. Polls will be open until 8 p.m. in the college district, which includes Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and part of Novi

Mike Novak school districts.

Roy Nutter, president of the Faculty Forum, said Stempien and Watson have a "demonstrated record of enthusiasm for and understanding of the college." "They consistently exhibit diligence and extraordinary attentiveness to the needs of both the college and its students," said Nutter.

Nutter remembers Watson

when she first joined the board 10 years ago. "It was obvious she was sincere then when she admitted she didn't know much about the college, and now she's an absolute walking encyclopedia," Nutter said.

"She has grown into that role, especially after she became board chair."

Nutter said Stempien also knows the college well and has been exposed to the college since his wife, Jeanne, also was on the board.

But Nutter also said they were not the only two strong candidates. For a newcomer, Reaume has informed himself well about the college and may do well tomorrow with a strong support base in the Plymouth-Canton district, while Novak also may

Watson said she asked for endorsements from several of the above officials. "I think they are important, especially from the people I've asked, because they are well-versed in the college," Watson said.

Watson and Stempien said the Schoolcraft faculty and staff endorsements will not affect their approach in contract negotiations with the union groups. The groups negotiated four-year contracts within the last year: //

He also recommended they wear good hiking boots and proper clothing for walking through largely undeveloped sites. Bug spray for protection and field glasses for observing the plentiful wildlife also will be needed.

The tour of the 3/4-mile area will be from 5:30 p.m. to dusk, rain or shine, at $20 per person. There will be refreshments, and proceeds will help support the conservation efforts of the district, which gets no county funding, Dollhopf said.

What distinguishes the district's workshop from many others, noted District Administrator Gail McPherson, is that "we're not trying to sell you anything."

Instead, residents get help with plant identification, soil and water conservation and information about what trees and shrubs to plant in certain areas, she said. The district also works with communities and developers on these issues.

"It makes me sick," said McPherson, "to see all these trees that have to have branches cut because they're under telephone wires. The people didn't think before planting."

According to Dollhopf, Bennett Arboretum was planned in the 1930s as the site for some 400 species of trees, shrubs and evergreens. But the county "never had any money to take care of them."

So the area, located along both sides of Northville Road between Five and Six Mile Roads, evolved into woods and fields, he said. And many of the original plantings were "choked out by vines." However, he said, "It's still a valuable resource for study." For example, the arboretum features ijine different species of oak, thus allowing for on-site comparisons plus pest control information.

Dollhopf said the arboretum is in serious need of a Rouge Riverstyle maintenance effort.

Dollhopf will be joined by Steve Olds of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resource and Conservation Service, formerly known as the Soil Conservation Service.

Olds will discuss stream-bank stabilization along the arboretum's Rouge segment.

For a 'reel' treat try grilled fish ummer has swept in fast, hot and furious this year. Barbecuing and grilling seem to be the preferred cooking methods. We are putting everything on the grill from pizza to whole turkeys and loving it. Many people are grilling fish, seafood and shellfish. These jewels of the sea offer a fun and scrumptious change from hot dogs, hamburgers and steaks.

Seafood consumption has risen 25 percent in the past 10 years, according to industry figures. With this increased demand for a large variety of fresh fish, aquaculture is becoming more and more prevalent. Salmon, oysters, mussels, tilapia and albacore are just a few of the species being successfully farmed.

Color and cut of fish

The color and cut of fin fish is almost always a sign of flavor intensity and texture. Most all, pearly white fish are milder tasting, flaky and tender. Darker fleshed fish such as mahimahi, bluefish, tuna, swordfish and salmon, are better suited to the grill.

Buying and storing

BY PEGGY MARTI SPECIAL WRITER Outdoor cooking is the my husband, Andrew, involved in the meal, without making a mess. in my kitchen. However, since we are approaching Father's Day, this is a great time for all of us to review a few grilling basics.

We recently came across a cookbook from 1942, called "Grill and Skillet." It is fascinating to read how barbecuing has changed over the years, and yet how the basic cooking methods have remained the same.

The booklet, published by AAA Michigan, says that the first outdoor cook in Michigan was probably a Mound Builder who squatted over the coals of his fire and turned out medium-rare muskrat. Then came Native Americans, followed by Grosseliers and Radisson, the first explorers of Lake Superior country back in 1659.

"The first thing to be kept in mind in this outdoor cooking is that it should be simple — no elaborate dishes," says The Old AAA Traveler. "And you won't need elaborate dishes, for there's always an appetite in the open air."

Isn't that the truth! Camping. hiking, fishing or other outdoor activities can make for hearty appetites.

Rub some flavor into meats for grilling

Rubs are used to accent the natural flavor of meat. The best time to apply a rub is 30 minutes to two hours before cooking. Combine ingredients and blend well. Place ingredients on a cutting board or large pan and press the meat firmly into them. Work ingredients into both sides of the meat with the heel of your palm or the flat side of a cleaver.

BBO RUB

(Yield 20 oz.) 1 cup paprika 1/4 cup ground cumin 1/4 cup brown sugar 1/4 cup chili powder 1/4 cup salt 174 cup black pepper 2 tablespoon cayenne pepper

TANGY RUB

(Yield 8 oz.) 1/4 cup ground allspice 1/4 cup brown sugar 1/4 cup onion powder 2 tablespoons salt

One of my favorite kitchen proverbs is — "In cooking, as in all the arts, simplicity is the sign of perfection ... Cuisine is when things taste like themselves." (Curnosky).

Buying whole fish is always a good bet. The less fish is processed and handled, the better.

The surface of the fish should be shiny and sparkling, have almost a sheen, and be taut to the touch. Don't be afraid to ask the person you buy your fish from to allow you touch and smell your future dinner for freshness.

Fish should be stiff-which indicates it has been recently caught.

A fresh sea or water product will have no odor, except the smell of sea or a fresh pond.

The gills should be red. Avoid any product that appears to have a white film or slime.

Check for any bruises or lacerations, which indicates mishandling.

Fillets should appear to have a tight grain, those with gaps indicate age or mishandling.

Look to see if the fish is stored or presented on ice. At home, store fish on ice in a perforated vessel, such as a colander, cover with wax paper or plastic and top with more ice.

Grilling

Darker fleshed fillets, and steaks, approximately 1- to 1 1/2-inches thick, are your best bet.

Build a hot fire or preheat gas grills 10 minutes with cover down before grilling.

Brush steaks or fillets with a little olive oil before placing on clean hot grates. Mix herbs and spices with brushing oil.

Allow 6 1/2 to 8 minutes cooking time per inch of thickness, which is the standard rule of thumb, for proper cooking of fish.

A little Dijon style mustard brushed on about 3 minutes before end of cooking time will add a little zip to salmon or trout.

Try brushing a little hoisin or soy sauce on your next tuna or halibut steak.

A little pesto or dill rub half way through grilling time will add immense flavor.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:

The main idea behind grilling is to cook hot and fast. It is exactly like broiling except the heat source is on the bottom not the top. You want to get a nice, slightly charred, seared crust on the food exterior while cooking the interior to the desired degree of doneness. Grilling tends to dry out food. This is why grilled food is sometimes served with a sauce or dressing.

The first rule of barbecuing is "low and slow." The temperature at the surface of the meat should be 200°F to 275°F. It is always best to check the temperature with a food thermometer, rather than your eyes or by touch.

True barbecuing usually involves indirect cooking with smoke. The meat may take from three to 24 hours to cook. For me, tasty barbecued food gets basted in a spicy sauce.

Whichever method you decide to use, here are some ideas that sizzle!

■ Oil the grates. Using some vegetable oil or meat fat.

- Trim off the rim or collar of fat on steaks and chops before grilling to reduce the risk of flame fire up.
- Make a few cuts around the exterior of the meat so it doesn't curl up under the high heat.
- Avoid excessively thick cuts of meat. Anything more than 1 1/2 inches thick may not cook thorcooking. Apply barbecue sauce only during the last 12 to 20 minutes of cooking.

oughly inside before burning on Baste the food with oil during the outside.

- Cook over glowing coals covered with ash. Try this test to see whether your coals are hot enough. Carefully put your hand a couple of inches above the hot coals and about where your rack sits. If you can hold your hand there for about two seconds ("one Mississippi, two Mississippi") then the coals are about perfect.
- Cook fish fillets skin side up first to help retain moisture and flavor.
- Cook chicken and other poultry bony side down. The bones will transfer heat to the flesh above and provide insulation. Finish cooking on the fleshy side, but to keep the skin from sticking, make sure to lower the heat.
- When grilling sausage, don't get the grill too hot or the casing may burst and you'll lose flavor. Always use tongs so as not to puncture the casing.
- When grilling, after the initial searing, bank the coals to one side. On a gas grill, move the meat, lower the heat or turn off one of the burners. The food is now bathing in heat but away from direct flame.

Some foods, such as ribs, can be precooked before grilling. Here are two methods:

bake at 300° F for 2 1/2 hours. On the stove: Fill a large pot with water. Bring water to a boil and add liquid smoke. Add ribs to water and cover. Turn down heat and let simmer for 35 minutes.

Veggies and fruits

There are lots of other wonderful foods to grill besides meat, fish and poultry. These include asparagus. corn-on-the-cob (husk on; remove silk first), eggplant (sliced), peppers, mushrooms, tomatoes, onions, apples, pears, pineapple, papaya, and bananas (skin on, remove at the table).

Be sure to cut fruits and vegetables into large enough chunks so they don't fall through the grill grate. You can also use skewers or specially designed grill pans. These are great for fish and small portions of meat too.

You probably already know that fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in meat, fish and poultry affect your blood cholesterol. This recipe reduces saturated fat in the meat in two ways. First, the beef cut is lowest in saturated fat. Second, the portion size is small - about 2 oz., although the greens and veggies make it look much larger.

I used a "curly" cucumber because these are usually not waxed. They are available at many produce markets throughout the area. The peel is included for extra fiber and flavor. Head lettuce is mostly water and low in fiber. Try romaine, leaf lettuce, spinach or a blend instead. You might even spike the flavor with some of the more peppery greens, such as arugala, watercress or

Health and safety tips

The opportunity for bacteria growth is also something to be aware of as you grill, especially on hot summer days. To protect yourself, consider the following:

Do not eat charred meat; cut away charred areas.

To reduce contamination risk, always use a clean dish to transport cooked meat from the grill to the table. Don't put your cooked meat back on the plate that you used to bring out the raw meat.

Marinades that were used to flavor uncooked meat should be discarded. Don't use this as a sauce for the cooked meat.

Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

Prevent bacterial growth by not leaving food out for more than two hours.

LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL

Start your day with breakfast, it's important

With the break of day, it's time to restore our bodies after a long night's fast. That's the idea behind breakfast, which most health experts, and probably your mother, identify as the most important meal of the day.

Breakfast, more than any other meal, reminds us how important food is to fuel our bodies for the day ahead.

A good breakfast should strike a balance among different food categories.

About 60 percent of breakfast's calories should come from complex carbohydrates, since these provide the fuel you need to get revved up and going. Qatmeal, bran muffins and buckwheat pancakes are just a few of the whole grain options that are especially fiber-rich. For something a little different, try bulgur cooked with apple juice, cinnamon and raisins, and topped with tart apple slices. Protein is also important at breakfast, since its helps the body maintain and repair itself and adds an alertness kick we can all use in the morning.

You don't need a lot of protein, however. The milk you put on cereal is enough to get your brain in gear and it also provides part of your daily calcium and vitamin D requirements. -To get a good start on the five or more daily servings of fruits and vegetables that the American Institute for Cancer Research recommends we eat for good health, it's smart to include a few servings at breakfast. Simply add a fruit topping to cereal, pancakes or yogurt, drink a glass of fruit or vegetable juice, or blend fruit into a breakfast beverage in your food processor.

How about a shake made with banana, peaches, buttermilk and orange juice, garnished with fresh strawberries? Or, warm wheat berry bread, spread with homemade apple-rhubarb butter with a wedge of cantaloupe on the side?

Although nearly one in four U.S. adults regularly skip breakfast, those who take time to eat in the morning are eating healthier than ever before consuming less fat and more fruits and whole grains. Consümption of whole milk, bacon, eggs, butter, margarine and white bread are down, while the consumption of lower-fat milk, whole-grains, and lower-fat quick breads has increased. We're eating more ready-to-eat cereals as well, with greater increases among higher fiber cereals. The trend is toward better breakfasts

- and starting the day off right is an important link to sound nutrition and good health.

Viagra, a pill that can restore men's sex lives

BY KURT KUBAN SPECIAL WRITER

ale impotence. Traditionally, it is a subject that no one wants to talk about, especially the men who are afflicted by it. The emergence of one little pill called Viagra may be helping to change this trend, though. Since it came on the scene in recent years, Viagra has helped countless men feel more complete by reinvigorating their sexual lives. Many have even considered it a godsend.

Considering 20 million men will be affected by impotence, or erectile dysfunction, each year and the drug has been heavily advertised, it is no wonder that Viagra has been so popular. Doctors are asked about Viagra as much-is any drug today, demonstrating how important a healthy sex life is to a man.

On the flip side, there are few ailments that are as frustrating to men as impotence. Even with the advent of Viagra. many men are still very reluctant to discuss their problem. There are no stereotypical candidates, either. Impotence affects men of all ages, from the those in their twenties right up to the eighties and beyond. There are numerous causes for impotence. For many older men, diabetes, high blood pressure and heart problems are major causes. In younger men, drug and alcohol consumption are often to blame. Another reason men, both old and especially young, suffer impotence is a result of psychological obstacles, with stress playing a big role.

"A lot of men have so much tension at work.

When the experience of erectile dysfunction is added to stress, the tension and frustration only get worse, causing a downward spiral. Even though men may desire sex, they are physically incapable of doing so because the impulses from the brain are being blocked, and the penis is unable to fill with blood. Viagra combats this blockage.

gra as they gain confidence in themselves.

"Once you know you can perform, then somehow the stress level goes down. Eventually you won't need the Viagra."

Another reason Viagra is so popular is that it is so effortless to take. There are other forms of treatment for impotence, such as injection therapy and Muse, a drug that is inserted into the penis prior to sex, but none are as easy as Viagra. You simply swallow a pill one hour before you plan to have sex, and then let nature take its course. For many, the results have been remarkable.

"I'm 65-years-old, and everything works like I was 50 again, or even younger," said a Livonia resident who insisted on remaining anonymous, not wanting friends and family to know about his problem because he felt they wouldn't think he was "manly enough."

However, time has proven Viagra isn't for everybody. Men with certain heart conditions, especially those taking nitroglycerin and other similar medication, should never take Viagra. It has caused massive heart attacks in some men who have had heart problems. It is for this reason that one should consult a doctor prior to taking the drug. Many family doctors prescribe Viagra, but it is recommended that a prospective user make an appointment with a licensed urologist, who specializes in such matters.

Levran also warned against purchasing Viagra over the Internet, which can often be done by getting around the prescription process. He was even more adamant about men staying away from the many Viagra-like pills that are advertised all over the Internet, as well as magazines and newspapers.

"Do not go for it! Don't call them! Do not order anything, because who knows what they put in there," Levran said.

Lyme disease

The Lyme Disease Support Group of Western Wayne County will meet at 7 p.m. the third Tuesday of each month at the First United Methodist Church (3 Towne Square, Wayne). Next meeting Tuesday, June 15. Call Connie, (734) 326-3502 for information. All are welcome.

First aid

Learn how to care for injuries, sudden illness and other emergencies at home or on the job. Must have a current CPR card and present it in class. Book and bandage kit included in the Thursday, June 24 class. Cost, $25. Livonia Mission Health Medical Center - 37595 Seven Mile Road at Newburgh.

Camp 9-1-1

Huron Valley Ambulance will host a free 9-1-1 Camp for children ages 10-13 in Plymouth on July 27 and 28. Activities will include touring an ambulance, learning CPR and firstaid, and taking a tour of a local ER. Interested children are asked to write a short letter explaining why they would like to attend the camp. For a registration form or more information call Julie Saksewski at (734) 482-6259.

Stress is huge, and not only at work," said Zvi Levran, a Livonia urologist, who often prescribes Viagra to patients. "The penis is not a machine. Erections only work via the parasympathetic system. All the messages, including sexual arousal, are coming from the brain. Now if you have stress or tension, you won't get up."

When the experience of erectile dysfunction is added to stress, the tension and frustration only get worse, causing a downward spiral. Even though men may desire sex, they are physically incapable of doing so because the impulses from the brain are being blocked, and the penis is unable to fill with blood. Viagra combats this blockage.

It is important to note that Viagra only fights half the battle. Without being sexually excited, a man who takes the pill will not become erect. "If you are half-way sexually aroused, the Viagra gives you the other boost to perform," Levran said, believing patients can wean themselves off of Via-

Some men have been known to feel side effects after taking Viagra. While a commonly rumored side effect is long lasting, painful erections, a condition known as pripism, few men actually experience it. More common effects are stomach aches, short periods of hazy vision, and headaches.

"Most men say it is worth the headache. They say, 'I had the headache, but I had great sex, so who cares.' But if the side effects are so bad, some men will be deterred from further use," Levran said.

Despite its benefits, there are some drawbacks to the drug. Viagra is expensive to take, with each pill costing between $10 and $40. Also many insurance companies do not recognize it as an essential medication, and therefore do not cover its cost. However, some would say that it is a small price to pay for recapturing their sex life.

"I think Viagra is great. It works really fine. As far as usage, I might go at least once a week, or two or three times. It all depends on my wife," the anonymous Livonia man said.

Because of the psychological nature of impotence in some men, it may take several attempts with the Viagra before there is success.

"It's so important for people to understand that there is no switch that you can just turn on. Even with healthy men, it doesn't work every time. There are so many other factors," Levran said. "If it doesn't work the first or second time, try it a third and a fourth."

Use the Internet wisely as medical resource

BY KURT KUBAN SPECIAL WRITER

The days when the family doctor made house calls are long gone, another amenity lost to antiquity. Instead, today, when we need to see a doctor, we're more likely to be crammed into a waiting room, surrounded by sterile walls and strange people, as we watch the clock slowly turn.

For many people, the thought of such an experience can deter them from seeking medical advice. Well, for those individuals who would rather receive their medical guidance or get their prescriptions filled while in the comfort of their own home, there is another avenue.

With the advent of the Internet, all one needs is a personal computer hooked up to the World Wide Web to gain access to one of the most powerful new tools in the medical field.

"There are a tremendous amount of medical resources available on the Internet," said Marianne Simancek, director of the Community Outreach program at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. "However, one really needs to be careful that they are accessing credible sites."

While the Internet provides everything from medical information to the access of health supplements, and even prescription drugs, it should not be trusted the same way we used to trust our doctor's little black bag. For every credible site on the web, there are at least as many that are dangerous and are simply profiting off of people's ignorance.

One of the greatest advantages of using the Internet as a medical tool is the information it makes so readily available. In many cases, before seeing a doctor, a person with an ailment can get an initial diagnosis from the many existing sites that provide such advice. Other sites give out helpful information about fitness and nutrition.

To find the right site to answer your questions, use a search engine and type in the word or phrase that best describes your dilemma. For example, if you type in "men's fitness," you will end up with many hits handing out advice and selling related products. The biggest challenge is weeding through them to

One of the greatest advantages of using the Internet as a medical tool is the information it makes so readily available. In many cases, before seeing a doctor, a person with an aliment can get an initial diagnosis from the many existing sites that provide such advice. Other sites give out helpful information about fitness and nutrition.

"With any type of information, particularly that dealing with your health, make sure that it has come from a credible association or source," Simancek said.

Simancek personally recommends several sites, including those for the American Heart Association (www.amhrt.org), the Red Cross (www.redcross.org) the National Safety Council (www.nsc.org), and the American Dietetic Association (www.eatright.org), which gives excellent nutritional advice.

Choose wisely

Using the Internet to attain prescription drugs, known as virtual pharmacy or telemedicine, is a relatively new phenomenon, though one that was inevitable, considering Internet shoppers spent around $5 billion last year, and are estimated to spend $95 billion in 2002

Trying to tap into this market; many sites that market pharmaceutical drugs have sprung up, taking away the need for a patient to travel to a drug store to fill a prescription. Three such companies that have recently begun marketing over the Internet are the Soma Corporation, PlanetRX, and drugstore.com available for consultation and drugs can be purchased at any time of the day. However, there are also drawbacks. Not only are there typically high shipping costs when ordering drugs over the Internet, many insurance companies do not include most virtual pharmacies in their plans.

There are advantages to shopping with these com-

There are also hazards with virtual pharmacies, probably the largest of which is that physicians are consulting patients over the phone or via the Internet, and are often prescribing drugs the patients don't actually need because of misdiagnosis or simple neglect. One such site that offers 'virtual consultations' is The Pill Box Pharmacy (thepillbox.com).

While the Soma Corporation, PlanetRX, and drugstore.com are considered responsible sites, there are many, particularly those run by international companies, that are selling drugs to nearly anyone who will pay for them.

Heavily advertised drugs, such as Viagra, Claritin and Propecia are all being sold in great amounts over the Internet. In many cases it is illegal to purchase these drugs, as well as dangerous. Such practices have raised some red flags among medical professionals, especially legitimate pharmacists.

"It is important to establish a physician/patient relationship. We need to examine a patient. Much more so than as an on-line type of relationship. You cannot examine a patient that way. You just don't have the face-to-face relationship. How can you prescribe prescription drugs without ever having looked at a patient?" said David Ruta, a pharmacist for the Oakwood Healthcare System.

While both Ruta and Simancek warn about the dangers that lurk on the Internet, and stress that it should never be looked at as a substitute for a doctor, both believe it is a very useful medical tool. In fact, both use it themselves.

"All our pharmacists at Oakwood are hooked into the Internet. We have particular sites that we use all the time, especially the FDA's. I personally use it to check up on new products," Ruta said. He also noted that Oakwood has a site that is helpful to patients.

Although it can be argued that the Internet is not as personable as the family doctor, it does have one panies. Each have licensed pharmacists that are advantage; it still makes house calls.

Take precautions in heat

You've endured cold weather waiting for summer's warmth. But before you make plans to have fun in the sun, the Wayne County Health Department is offering rips on how to avoid heat-related illnesses associated with hot weather.

"Be alert to forecasts warning of a heat wave to prevent a condition known as hyperthermia, which is when the body is unable to perspire and dispel heat," says Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, Wayne County Medical Director.

Signs of hyperthermia include clammy skin (cold, sticky moisture), headache, dizziness, extreme fatigue and nausea. In extreme cases of a heat emergency, a person can suffer a heat stroke which can cause vision impairment, disorientation, loss of consciousness and possibly death.

To avoid hyperthermia during extremely hot weather, you should:

- limit your physical activity to cool morning or evening hours
 - spend more time in air-conditioned rooms drink plenty of water for proper hydration

Drink plenty of water for proper hydration.

wear lightweight and light-colored clothing wear a hat and sunglasses to shield your eyes from the sun

If you suspect a person is suffering from a heat crisis, Lawrenchuk recommends:

achieve rapid cooling by removing unnecessary clothing spray person with lukewarm water and position fans to blow air on the person's body apply cold compresses to the wrists, ankles, groin, armpits and neck have the person drink cool water

People at increased risk for hyperthermia are senior citizens, overweight individuals, mental health patients, laborers and athletes. For more information on hyperthermia and heat-related illnesses, call Wayne County Health Department at (734) 727-7000 during regular business hours.

Participants sought for yeast infection study

Yeast infection is one of the more irritating health problems most women have faced at least once in their lifetime. The irritating itch, burning sensation and discharge inconvenience is compounded by treatment methods that users wish could be simplified.

Simply put, a yeast infection is an overgrowth of yeast that is normally found in the vagina. Yeast infections are caused by a fungus (candida albicans) and are not so much "caught" as "grown."

Yeast infections usually affect women of child-bearing age and it is estimated that three of four women will have a least one vaginal yeast infection during their lifetime. Up to half of these will have a second infection, according to the U.S. Pharmaceuticals Group.

QUEST Research Institute is seeking volunteers for an ongoing study that of a pill taken by the mouth once monthly that can treat and possibly prevent future yeast infections in treatments available, some women. The study, part of a national research project involving 350 people, is yearlong and will continue through this summer.

tions are present, the yeast multiplies causing: itching and burning in the vagina and surrounding skin area; swelling and redness of the skin around the vagina; a thick, white discharge; and pain during sexual intercourse.

Conditions, which cause an overgrowth of yeast, include: menstruation; pregnancy; use of steroids, oral contraceptives, and certain antibiotics: diabetes: constant moisture and irritation of the vagina.

"For the study, we are looking for women ages 18-45 who experience recurrent vaginal yeast infections," said Donna Skupien, president of QUEST Research Institute in Southfield. "These women are typically able to get temporary relief of symptoms with over-the-counter treatments but symptoms frequently reappear.

"During the warmer months, vaginal infections are more common in women," said added. "With so many over-the-counter women may choose to self-medicate, using one of these products. Improperly treating any vaginal infection can result in lingering infections or lead to pelvic inflammatory disease." Women who mis-diagnose their own yeast infections can m miss other important vaginal infections that produce similar symptoms and end up with a far more serious health problem.

Treatments may require a long course of anti-fungal medications (creams or ointments), painting the vagina and vulva with a purple medication called gentian violet, or using suppositories on a nightly or weekly basis.

"QUEST is researching improved methods of treating recurrent yeast infections in women," said Skupien. "The goal is to keep women yeast-infection free."

The specific treatment QUEST is studying is a pill taken by the mouth. In a national survey, 74 percent of the women polled preferred an oral pill as treatment because of the "messiness" of other methods.

For volunteers, all evaluations, study medications, and office visits are all provided at no cost.

Y2K predictions and preparations for coming months

42-year-old housewife from A^{42-year-old} house used and the second sec the Cosco wholesale store in Madison Heights every other week, buying cases of canned goods and quarts of bottled water.

"I have a pantry filled with food and water," she told me by email. "I have told no one other than our immediate family. But we're ready. By the end of the year, we'll have enough on hand to survive for six months."

A 56-year-old engineer for one of the automobile companies has a vacation home outside of Traverse City. "We have parkas, blankets and freeze-dried food packs already in storage up there. Plus, I'll spend the summer weekends cutting wood and stacking it so it's ready to heat our chalet," he told me. "We plan to drive up after Christmas and see what happens come Jan. 1. If it gets bad, we can stay there and be warm and safe."

Another man, who wouldn't tell me what he does for a living or how old he was, is buying guns.

"I have several shotguns, several .22 rifles and .9mm and .357 handguns," he said. "I'm buying as much ammo as I can. I figure ammo will be as good as cash. I'll keep enough for my own security and barter the rest."

Those are just some of the e-mails I received in the past week after asking for your comments on how you're preparing for Y2K.

Sharing stories

Several wrote to tell me they thought all this Y2K worry was nonsense.

"Quit stoking people's fears," wrote an angry man from Garden City. "Irresponsible stories like yours will cause a panic."

A woman from Ferndale was a little more cordial. "I think it's important to think and study about this," she e-mailed. "But I really don't think Y2K will be that bad: I plan to have some extra batteries for my flashlight but everything I've studied leads me to believe it just won't be anything worse than what we go through after a big snowfall."

Since some of the utility companies are stockpiling a six month's supply of fuel for their power plants, that tells me that maybe I need to think about having more food in my pantry than I planned. You don't need to spend thousands buying the pre-packaged stuff that many of the survivalist places are touting on the scare sites on the Internet."

Maybe. I sure hope so.

But I'm not sure.

I told you I'd share my thoughts and what I'm doing to get ready for Y2K.

I am indeed taking precautions for my family. don't want to give the impression that we should all go out and buy guns and farm animals start raising crops. Since January, we started buying a few extra cans of food every time we go to the grocery store. Right now, we probably have a twoweek supply on hand. I plan to up that to a month and then, by the end of the summer, reassess the situation.

Since some of the utility companies are stockpiling a six month's supply of fuel for their power plants, that tells me that maybe I need to think about having more food in my pantry than I planned. You don't need to spend thousands buying the pre-packaged stuff that many of the survivalist places are touting on the scare sites on the Internet.

Most canned food keeps easily for a year or more. Bottled water is good for 12 months. Buying a little extra every week and using those discount shopping places like Sam's Club or Cosco makes it prefty painless to stock up.

Despite assurances from my bank that they are going to be Y2K compliant, I worry about panicdriven bank runs. So does the Fed, which is planning to print billions in extra cash and make loans available to the banks.

So, to document everything, I am keeping very detailed hard copies of all my financial records. I also think it's likely that there will be scattered disruptions in telephone service and probably even some power outages. So I'll have lots of candles, batteries for flashlights, some basic supplies. I plan to talk to our doctors and get an extra supply of medicines for the prescriptions we need, too.

Is it really that bad?

To be honest, I find myself going back and forth on this a lot. Some days, like when I read that the railroads are going to be hit really hard and will likely not move trains for some time in some parts of the country, I get really concerned. On other times, when I see that an segment of society like the automotive industry is well on its way to having their systems Y2K compliant, I relax a bit.

But then you get to thinking, what happens if the trains don't deliver coal to the power plants, parts to the suppliers? You see the real issue is, to quote the old cliché, our entire infrastructure is only as strong as the weakest link. Everything is so interconnected that if one part goes down, there could easily be a snowball effect that takes everything down.

The Army has already been practicing how they can handle food distribution come January and memos I've seen from the Department of Defense indicates that the military is very concerned about widespread and serious problems. So it's obvious that I'm not being paranoid here.

I think we'll start to get a sense about this when the second quarter financial statements come out in July. We'll start to really see how much Y2K remediation is cutting into the profits of our major corporations. And in the fall, when third quarter statements are released, it will then be very clear, one way or another. If those profit margins slip the way many are predicting, that could have a serious effect on the very volatile market and if the market tumbles like many are predicting, the whole economy will su fer and everyone will suddenly take notice.

That could bring about all sorts of panic. Also, the end of June is the date most government agen cies set as their deadline for fixing their computers systems. Most agencies were supposed to be ready. in January, then February and now June. If we see a lot of spin control and those deadlines are pushed back yet again, the mainstream media will surely take notice and we will enter a whole new stage of awareness on this issue.

The bottom line is, we don't know how bad it will be.

Maybe, nothing will happen.

Maybe.

But for now, I'm taking some easy precautions. I'll let you know between now and the end of the year how my thinking changes.

Guido made the decision to walk away from retailing nationally --known artists because ultimately he didn't want to spend the rest of his life "running a gallery." After more than ten years, Guido dove back into creating ceramics full-time at his Full Circle Studio in Dearborn.

Nancy Harrower grew up listening to stories about her great grandfather, David Black Coulter, a second lieutenant in the 14th Pennsylvania Calvary Division during the Civil War.

"I've always been interested in the Civil War," said Harrower, whose hands are full taking care of "A Pretty Piece of Business" for the city of Southfield Senior Arts League.

The job involves a lot of drama, but it's fun, and a bit of a farce, too, she said.

"A Pretty Piece. of Business" is a one-act play written by Thomas Morton around 1860. Harrower is directing the onehour farce, to be presented by SRO Productions June 19-20 during a Civil War reenactment of village life at the city's historic center the Burgh. Bill Mandt, acting manager of the Southfield Call (248) 827-0701 adult recreation center, chose "A Pretty Piece of Business" over the Paving the way: Special education student Jessica Mackay proudly displays the art work she created with the help of Graham Martin and Diane Gavala.

When I met Jessica, she was smiling, and bubbling with excitement. But only months before she would sit with her arms crossed and fall asleep in her wheelchair lost in another world.

"I have to give Jesse so much of the credit," said special education teacher, Ginny Dean. "She's come a long way since September."

Jesse, as she's lovingly called by the team, is paving the way for several wheel-chair bound students with multiple impairments who will arrive at the high school next fall. The team's job is to make the transition as smooth as possible. This year, Dean, Rose Guastella, Barbara Meteyer, Diane Gavala, Nancy Kelly, and art teacher Graham Martin did just that by introducing music, art and dance to Jesse, previously a student at West Middle School.

"Without the teamwork none of this would have worked," said Meteyer. "Due to special education laws, Jesse's entitled to the least restrictive environment. As an inclusion student, Jesse is included in the educational process at the school but not part of the curriculum."

Over and over again, members of the team mentioned their joy over the changes they've seen in Jesse.

' "As we got to know Jesse we got a reaction with music and she was able to express herself," said Gavala. "We started listening to more music every day because it would make her happy. She claps her hands every time she enjoys something. We're trying to tap into every activity she could possible enjoy."

But that hasn't been easy.

Kelly, who works in the Physically or Otherwise Impaired program for, the Wayne Westland Schools, consulted with the Wayne Regional Educational Service Agency about games and other activities to expand Jesse's day. Because of Jesse's impaired motor skills, the "team" started by having the 18-year-old hit switches to tura on a radio. Now Jesse, who can stand for brief periods of time, is encouraged to dance.

"Music is the best stimulant," said Guastella. "I play piano and Jesse claps. Clapping is a happy expression for her. Music, art and dance have helped her develop. "I wanted to develop a line of slip cast objects: vessels, plates, bowls, candlestick hold-sta, tiles. They're based on leaf and flower forms. I started with tiles and now have 40 designs, free form shapes inspired by nature, with thick mass and weight to them."

Kalen Erion has never shown his welded steel sculptures and enamel paintings on steel before. The 18-year old Plymouth resident welded his first abstract work two years ago. He was six when he began honing his welding skills in his father's tool and die shop.

"Traveling motivates me," said Erion, formerly a dancer with the Plymouth Canton Ballet Company. "I love Renaissance art and would like to get into the style of the old masters."

After hours

Like Guido, Falzon's inspiration comes from nature and architecture. Her photographs of lighthouses, barns and architecture from Maine to Michigan and Florida capture the beauty of frequently visited vacation spots.

"I enjoy meeting people and hearing about the places they can relate to," said Falzon, who rarely exhibits her images. "I do the show here in the park behind where I work because it's Canton. I don't expect to make a lot of money, it's just fun to have that connection to the community."

Falzon doesn't claim to be a professional photographer. She never planned to be the one taking all of the family "pictures" but her six brothers, sister, mom and dad recognized and encouraged her talent.

"When I went to New England with my brother and a friend last fall, they didn't even bring cameras because after we get home they'll look through my photos and choose the ones they want," said Falzon. "Photography's always has been a hobby. I've always enjoyed taking pictures. I always liked going to art shows and buying other people's photographs so I thought why

Art camps make learning fun

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

Like hundreds of other music students, Jeff Myers took summers off as a child. Now, Myers, director of the Southeast Michigan Arts Conservatory in Canton, is working to show students that they can have fun while concentrating on the arts by offering summer camps. He's not alone.

This summer, the Plymouth Community Arts Council and D & M Studios in Canton are also treating students to fun ways to spend the summer at day camps.

Myers instituted the Jammin' in July music camp last year so students could learn to become better musicians. He's Jammin' this summer by introducing new camp sessions, which focus on the performing arts, in addition to music,

In the Jammin' in July camps, students in grades 6-8, spend mornings working in smaller groups to prepare for playing in an onsemble in the afternoons.

"I attempt to bring students the experience of performing out in the world," said Berckley.

Dance, drama and music instructors in similar camps at the conservatory tease students with fun projects to stimulate creativity and nurture self confidence.

Ever since she saved hundreds of Bazooka Joe Bubble Gum wrappers to send away for her first camera as a girl, Falzon couldn't wait to capture sunsets, waterscapes and architecture. The cost of the camp is $225. As with the music camp, individualized instruction is offered in the morning. They're usually quite a drive from the coast, and that can get tricky especially in winter but they're usually pretty and have a history and romance about them,"

Criteria

The works of Guido, Erion and Falzon indicate the variety visitors will find at the show. D & M Studios owner Sharon Dillen-spend 2 1/2 hours experiencing not only song, but dance, drama and storytelling in week-long camps held June, July and August. The cost is $120 per week, or $200 two weeks.

"We're going to do creative dance becoming the birds, the rain, the puddles," said Paffenroth. "Parents and children can begin to find out where their interests lie and music at an early age will help children to be better learners."

Circus, circus

Students at D & M Studios visual art camps will feel like they've joined the circus as they paint and draw lions and tigers and manipulate clay into clowns. More than 30 week-long camps (categorized by age) will begin June 21 at the studios, the Plymouth Cultural Center, and Summit on the Park Community Center in Canton. Prices range from $65 for ages 3-6 to $120 for supplies and a T-shirt to work in. A children's art exhibit, following the camps, will showcases student summer creations. "We're going to do handmade paper that's a lot of fun, and wet-set clay from Crayola that works just like sculpting clay except you set in water not a kiln," said studio owner Sharon Dillenbeck.

Under the direction of her daughter Kristen, students will create a mural with a tiger jumping through a ring of fire.

"Creating art is not a competition," said Dillenbeck, now in the eighth year of running the Summer Art Camp Mania. "We pull out the creative energy from the students. We show them how to use the materials and then let them create."

According to Dillenbeck, all children's art has merit.

"Some of the art is so funny, I'll chuckle. You know when they're not in a good mood. Their art reflects it."

watercolors in the show.

"There'll be sand art for the children and Shirley Moore of Sitting Pretty Ceramics will have greenware for kids of all ages to paint. And if kids wear their D & M Studios T-shirt they have their face painted for free."

Center for Creative Studies will showcase student art by Brian Kennedy and Trevor Anulewicz (Plymouth), Diane Holcomb, Shannon Jones, and Liz Isacson in a booth sponsored by Canton developers Jonathan Retzlaff and Bruce Silver.

On with the show

Kids in the Plymouth Community Arts Council's Performing Arts Summer Workshops, June 21-25, July 12-16 and Aug. 9-13, will have the opportunity to perform in not just one, but three productions.

The Whistle Stop Players troupe of performers (ages 5-15) will sing, dance and act their way through 10 a.m. 2 p.m. rehearsals for "The Magic Fishbone" and "Medieval Madness" Monday-Friday, concluding with an 8 p.m. performance 8 on the last Friday of the workshop. The cost is $75, or $100 for non-members, which includes a $25 fee for a year's student membership in the arts council.

"I love it; it's the most fun I have all year," said Jennifer Tobin, arts council executive director. "We let the kids experience improv and introduce them to dance, theater and music. It's multi-age groups because it challenges the younger folk."

Opening up new worlds

Martin came up with the innovative ways for Jesse to make art. Although he's not a special educator, he saw a need to help Jesse enjoy the art of creating. He also knew the therapeutic benefits of painting and working with clay. Using an adaptive paint brush, Jesse now creates abstract paintings in Martin's classroom. Last semester in his ceramics class, Jesse rolled clay into icicles and ornaments.

"The school district policy is that every child can learn," said Martin. "We took on the challenge. What we found was happening was Jesse was using the principles of design, creating a pattern. We could tell what was happening because of the similarity of her brush strokes. When we put up a display of Jesse's work the student response was tremendous. My students could see the principals of design in her work. She now makes an attempt to say hi everyday and she expects to be coming to painting. Two or three girls in the class have taken a special interest in Jesse. They help her and encourage her to work."

Meteyer would like to see students regularly interacting with Jesse. Although Jesse was introduced to students classroom by classroom in the beginning of the school year, students and staff have been slow to interact with her. Meteyer has spoken with the president of the National Honor Society about a plan next year to reward students with credit for working with Jesse. The benefits would be endless, not only for Jesse but students

"It goes back to society's perception," said Kelly. "As we have more kids, we hope to change those perceptions that there's nothing to fear."

And the rewards reaped are plenty.

"All of us have grown from the time we've spent with Jesse," said Meteyer.

"I've learned about myself," added Guastella. "We're all not normal. What's normal?"

Join Bobbie Ann Mason on her fascinating journey

Critically acclaimed Kentucky author Bobbie Ann Mason ("In Country," "Spence + Lila," et al) has not only returned to her roots, she's written about the round trip with such sensitivity and high color that readers of this memoir will feel as if they've shared in person this sometimesfunny, sometimes-sad, alwaysfascinating journey.

For those of us who grew up in rural communities during the 40s and 50s, and longed to live in a big city that would take us away from all the rustic "charm," Mason's memoir offers a special mother lode of nostalgia.

For any and all of us who have admired her memorable fiction through the years, "Clear Springs" provides a taste of the rich background that has inspired her work and nurtured her development as an individual and as a writer.

In an indirect way, the Motor City made an early but distinct impression on the farm girl who would go on to win the coveted PEN/Hemingway Award for first fiction in 1982 with "Shiloh and Other Stories."

the buildings. A bus strike thwarted the family's plans to visit downtown landmarks, and she spent most of her visit at her aunt's suburban tract house in Wayne. Nevertheless, the experience seemed to whet her appetite for a world beyond her rural beginnings, and she never forgot her stay here, often wanting "to go to Detroit, where there were concrete sidewalks and tall buildings and traffic ... an intriguing place, with Yankees, who spoke another language." After graduation from the University of Kentucky, Mason (despite her family's trepidation) heeded an English professor's advice and set out not for Detroit, but for New York.

"My folks and their country culture were always present in the deepest part of my being," she tells us. "Yet I was estranged from them." She found herself, however, "a stranger ... in the North ... an exile in both places." This account of how Bobbie Ann Mason finally came to resolve her feelings has about it an almost-cinematic quality (not surprising, maybe, when we learn of her devotion to film). The popular songs of the day serve as a kind of haunting background music to her highly visual, thickly textured story of a family that is often beset by mental and physical illness, backbreaking labor, isolation, and deep-seated, mixed feelings because they are "country."

Music "saved us all," she says, calling up memories of helping her father plant corn as strains of "Ruby" or "The Song From Moulin Rouge" wafted through her girlish daydreams, relieving nary" existence via the "strange music" that was early rock-androll.

Maybe most important, she discovered new worlds through reading, a habit that apparently marked her as an outsider, not just at the rural school she attended, but even with some members of her own family. Often books like the Bobbsey Twins series, Nancy Drew mysteries, or Louisa May Alcott's "Little Women" appear to have served as a perfectly adequate substitute for human companionship, as far as Bobbie Ann was concerned, though. Later, she would delve into such books as "The Search for Bridey Murphy" and "The Report on Unidentified Flying Objects." (One assumes her reading lists have grown more sophisticated over the years, although this is not really examined here.)

While Mason may have felt isolated, and never quite understood by her own family, she seems never to have felt unloved. Much of the strength of "Clear Springs" lies in its depiction of the "characters" who made up her colorful family. From Mason's feisty (though sometimes mentally ill) grandmother, to her Bible-reading grandfather, to her hard-working father, to her highly energized mother all of these (and more) appear as real as Mason herself. In fact, in a sense, this books seems to focus more on her ancestors and her surroundings than on her. Especially as she reaches middle-age, we aren't shown much of her personal life at all (she discusses next to nothing about her marriage, for example).

It's only a small frustration, though. Maybe it's a story for another day. Victoria Diaz is a Livonia freelance writer who specializes in book and theater reviews. You can reach her by voice mail at (734) 953-2045, then press 1854.

Consider buying a lightweight knit polo, like Jacobson's washable silk pique. It's a summer wardrobe essential that will keep you cool. Men who are fashion mavens should try it in burnt orange or paprika. But if staying neutral is one of your style requirements, the same shirt is available at Jacobson's in black, nubuck and blue.

I went crazy for the shape, rich earth tones and fine gauge cotton of the knit polo shirts in the J. Crew catalog. At $38, who could resist. Check it out at www.jcrew.com or call (800) 562-0258. Strange or stylish, pick gifts that suit him

BY NICOLE STAFFORD SPECIAL EDITOR

If there's such a category as the most baffling gift recipient, fathers surely rank at the top of the list.

In general, men seem content with the clothing, gadgets, books and other possessions they already have. If they wanted or needed something, they'd probably buy it.

Thus, why many fathers, when asked what they'd like for Father's Day, repeatedly respond that a few pairs of socks, another tie or some other uninspiring gift will do.

Daughters and sons are then left to wonder whether Dad would appreciate an unusual gift or prefer a few humdrum staples. How about a fancy nail clipper set, one might wonder, hoping a luxurious and pricey version of an essential tool will convey the appropriate affection and appreciation.

So, ask yourself first and foremost, what kind of dad is he? Is he a style mayen or the epitome of practicality? Is he a couch potato who can't watch too many sporting events or he is a sports participant?

Given the abundance of men's clothing available in stores, fashionable fathers are probably the easiest guys for whom to buy. Of course a polo shirt, tie, cotton sweater or pair of shorts will do, but consider fashion accessories, like Neiman Marcus' sterling silver accessory set by David Yurman or Hudson's Tommy Hilfiger men's fragrance set, Totally Tommy, $51.

Practical fathers will likely scoff at cologne and other so-called trivial items, so opt for a gift that saves time and money or keeps life orderly. Consider luggage, a new briefcase or watch. Saks Fifth Avenue's stainless steel travel clock from Gucci, $395, is practical, especially for frequent travelers, and stylish.

looking for polo shirts this season. For an already-worn, comfortable look, try American Eagle's pigment-dyed polos priced just under $15. Available in surplus green, sport navy and orange, these shirts are weathered and prewashed for extra softness. Combine with a pair of cargo or board shorts, and you have a easy summer outfit that will take you just about any place.

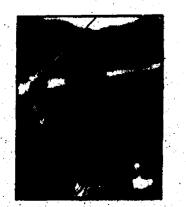

Golf enthusiasts will love Eddie Bauer's all-cotton, jersey polo with a tee and golf ball pattern. Bauer has even cut the shirt larger around the shoulders, chest and arms so players have more room to swing. If Dad's a golfer, this shirt might be a perfect Father's Day gift.

After scouting the town for polo shirts, I must say Old Navy wins the prize for the best deal. Their garmentwashed polos with twill taping on the back of the neck for reinforcement are priced at $12 this week for Father's Day. Given the look and feel of the polos, it's no wonder they were ranked number one for value and quality last year by Consumer Report magazine. The store carries basic colors like, Navy and heather gray, year around and introduces a new color palette every couple of months. Teal, plum, coral and poolside blue are among my favorites this season.

Please send your style and shopping questions to Cari Waldman at OERealDeal@aol.com.

Parisian hosts Swarovski Pin Tour

One of the most exclusive events in the jewelry industry has arrived at Laurel Park Place in Livonia.

The Swarovski Pin Tour, featuring the Nature's Jewels exhibit, will be on display through June 20 at the mall's Parisian store.

The touring Swarovski archival show was developed to commemorate the introduction of a new collection of limited edition pins and in response to the growing interest in collectible jewelry and crystal.

Swarovski is considered a premier manufacturer of full-cut crystal jewelry.

The museum quality exhibit of 62 pins shows the evolution of Swarovski design from a dramatic style to use of stones in smaller and more delicate ways.

Multiple pieces are used in Swarovski jewelry to add dimension. Also, each Swarovski piece is treated much like a tiny sculpture; details are always carefully handcrafted. Consequently, many people mistake Swarovski pieces as precious jewelry.

The exhibit will be located at the mall entrance front of Parisian, For additional information, call (734) 953-7605.

Eagle soars for wonderful vacations

From the moment you spot it, this huge complex sprawling over the landscape somehow looks out of place in quiet Mount Pleasant, Mich.

As you drive under the stone archway guarded by two giant eagles clutching gold coins and welcoming you to the Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort, you'll expect something spectacular. You won't be disappointed as you'll pull into the main hotel entrance area and have your car parked by the free valet service and have a bellman take your bags. The hotel lobby meets your eyes as you enter, and the mammoth stone fireplace surrounded by beautiful Aztec-design carpets and comfortable sitting areas beckons.

Powerful Images: This stained glass window reflects the many Native American themes at Soar

The Soaring Eagle Casino & Resort was opened in 1997 by the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe and features the largest casino between Atlantic City and Las Vegas. This venture is sure to be a winner for the tribe, which since 1994 has pumped $71.5 million into the Michigan Strategic Fund. After you've checked in, just finding your room can be an experience in the huge 512-room hotel. My husband, Bob, and I have now stayed in two different styles of room and have been pleased with them both. Soaring Eagle advertises that here a "room" is not merely a "room." I'd have to agree, and I've stayed in a lot of hotels.

As a vehement non-smoker, I was immediately impressed that the first, third and fifth floors of the hotel are completely nonsmoking. Indeed, I did not smell any smoke at all while in our rooms on both the third and fifth floors, or while going to and from them.

-It-was also impressive that, though the hotel was full on both of our visits, we did not hear noises from other guests while in our rooms. We felt we were in an oasis away from it all while in our rooms; the designs, furnishings and decor are all in the Aztec motif and are very warm and soothing.

Serious pampering is realized when you come back from dinner or your evening's entertainment or whirlpool, your bed turned down and fine chocolates on your pillow - it's like being on a cruise!

All the hotel rooms here are downright luxurious, with amenities such as whirlpools, gas fireplaces, antique tubs and terrazzo marble bathrooms. First-class rooms are $119-179, deluxe class rooms $139-189, superior class rooms from $159-199 and premium class rooms $259-299. Hotel prices quoted here are standard rates; Soaring Eagle does offer entertainment, golf and casino packages.

Are you ready to venture to the casino? The walk to get there takes you through a magnificent, wide room called the Grand Foyer, featuring some of the most beautiful Oriental-style carpets in a floral pattern I've ever seen. The ceiling is a handpainted work of art all on its own, with eagles flying in a majestic sky. The colors in this room are brought together by the hand-carved wooden staircases and accents. Numerous display cases appear here and throughout the resort featuring Native American art work and memorabilia.

Before you get to the casino, you'll see Kids Quest and Cyberquest. Kids Quest is touted as the ultimate "edutainment" experience for youngsters 6 things to keep them busy here, in a safe, supervised hourly setting. Cost is $5 per hour per child Monday-Thursday, $6 Friday-Sunday and holidays. Hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday-Thursday and 10 a.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday. Cyberquest is unsupervised and lets those over 12 feed quarters into arcade games. Kids under 12 need a parent present.

As we enter the casino, Bob wanders off to put his name in for table poker. There are lots of folks here just standing around, so I don't feel too out of place as I try to decide what to do first. If lets. you like casinos, it's all here; slot and video poker machines. But, alas, the 24-hour bright lights and brilliant color atmosphere can't hide the fact that you'll find no non-smoking section here; what a shame!

Further down the hall is the home of the highest stakes bingo in Michigan. The bingo hall is also used for the big-name entertainment that is giving the facility a reputation. Look for Merle Haggard and Englebert Humperdink, among others, to perform in June. Ticket prices are between $14 and $40 and are available at all Ticket Plus out-

Don't forget to pack a robe and for some top-of-the-line pampering). A visit to the fabulous pool, indoor whirlpool, swim-jet pool, outdoor jacuzzi or steam room is free. In addition, a myriad of body treatments, massages, hydrotherapy, facials, half or full-day bliss packages are available (priced $40-240; appointments necessary).

But by far, our favorite part of both of these getaways was the superb food and service offered at the Water Lily Restaurant and Lounge. A 47-foot-long wall welcomes you to this part of the resort. Most areas are in view of the lighted, five-story fountain outdoors. Book a reservation for dinner in advance and get a table for the best view.

A bread basket is served with at least four varieties of homebaked delights. A surprising number of great wines are available both by the bottle and the glass.

Bob ordered the elk both times and was pleasantly surprised to have it cooked to his well-done liking. I ordered the mahimahi the first time and the halibut the next; both were the best fish I'd ever eaten. Expect to pay $18-28 per entree including a starch and veggie; salads and soups are extra. As you might expect, a wonderful tray of desserts are available to pick from, as well as an array of coffees and teas. The service both times we were there was positively superb.

If you're looking for a quick, indulgent getaway, I'd recommend you consider the Soaring Eagle, just an hour north of Lansing. If you're a golfer, Mount Pleasant is somewhat of a "golf capital" for central Michigan, with more than a dozen highly rated courses close by.

State discus king Brzezinski leads All-Observer club

By RICHARD SHOOK STAFF WRITER

The Observerland area was blessed this season with four of the state's stellar track performers.

Listed alphabetically, they are Nick Allen, Nick Brzezinski, Ryan Kearney and Ryan Ollinger.

Plymouth Salem's Allen capped his career with his second All-Area berth.

Allen had the area's best time in the 1.600-meter run (4:19.8) and the thirdbest in the 3,200 (9:41.1). He also turned in outstanding performances on the Salem relay teams.

Brzezinski, of Redford Catholic Central, threw the discus 167 feet, 10 inches to win that event in the state Class A meet. And it wasn't even his best throw of the season.

Brzezinski's best exceeded 186 feet. He's also an excellent football player and has signed a national letter of intent to play that sport at Duke University.

Kearney, who completed a brilliant career at Livonia Churchill, was prevented by a hamstring injury of repeating a high placement in the hurdles at the state Class A track meet.

No matter. He's still got his full scholarship to run track at Western Michigan, a rarity because sports outside football and basketball usually split their scholarships to attract more athletes.

Kearney is a virtual one-man track team, however, running anything coach Rick Austin asked (and probably several events he didn't request). He's a three-time All-Area performer. Kearney was on the Observerland list of best track times in the high jump, high and low hurdles and the 200 dash; he also participated on relay teams. He had the area's best times in the 110-meter hurdles (14.2 seconds) and the 300 hurdles (39.1). Ollinger, of Lutheran High School Westland, posted the area's best long jump distance, a school record 21 feet. 8 inches. It was five inches farther than anyone else in the area.

Members of the Hawks, who outscored their opponents 19-4, include: Kathleen Griffith, Livonia; Courtney Whalen, Redford; Allison Eckler, Emma Peterson, Farmington Hills: Sara Ross, Canton; Katie Chaklos, Jamie Fratto, Amanda Stanek, Alison Szczypka and Ayumi Suzuki, Novi; Kyle Richard, Jeanette Dolmetsch, Northville; Alyssa Wombwell, Ollinger was third in the state Class C meet in that event. He also competed in the hurdles, posting the area's fifthbest time.

Six members of the All-Area boys track team area underclassmen junior Mike Morris of Redford Catholic Central in the shot put, sophomore Jordan Chapman of Plymouth Canton in the high jump, junior Nick Hall of Farmington Harrison in the 300 hur- time defending Class AA state football chamdles, freshman Darryl Anglin of Redford Bishop Borgess in the 100 dash, junior Kevin Woods of Harrison in the 200 and sophomore Jerry Gaines of Canton in the 400.

Seniors selected to the honor team include Joe Frendo of Garden City in the pole vault, Bobby Cushman of Salem in the 800 and Dan Jess of Catholic Central in the 3,200.

Farmington Harrison's 400 relay team repeated as the area's best in that event. Woods and Andre Davis were the only holdovers. Salem's 3200 relay team was the best in the area for the second straight season. Only Allen ran on both units.

Following are individual capsules of the 1999 All-Area boys track-and-field team members:

ALL-AREA FIRST TEAM

Mike Morris, junior, Redford CC (shot put): Morris put the shot more than 51 feet on four occasions, including a 51-3 toss to lead all participants at the Observerland Relays.

Nick Brzezinski-discus Redford Catholic Central

He was a regional and Catholic League runner-up in the shot put, and he also qualified for the state meet in the discus with a toss of 152-2 at the regional.

He carries a 3.5 grade-point average and also started the past two years for CC's twopion.

"Mike is extremely strong and very quick for his size," CC coach Tony Magni said. "His success in football and track and field is due to his fierce competitiveness and his exceptional work ethic."

Nick Brzezinski, senior, Redford CC (discus): Records feil nearly everywhere Brzezinski_went. He finished the year with a first place in the discus at the Class A state meet.

His toss of 167-10 beat Lamar Campbell of Flint Carmen-Ainsworth by two inches. He set records at the Dearborn Elks, Dick-Waters and Observerland relays, as well as the Jackson Invitational and Catholic League meet.

Brzezinski's personal-best toss of 186-1 shattered the school record. Also an excellent shot putter, he threw 52-8 at the state meet, just missing the finals. Brzezinski will play football at Duke.

"Nick is one of the top discus throwers in the history of the event in Michigan." CC coach Tony Magni said. "He's thuly a great and humble champion."

Ryan Ollinger, senior, Lutheran Westland (long jump): Ollinger set a school record of Ryan Keamey-110 hurdles Livonia Churchill 21-8 while placing third in the Class C state meet. He finished first in the Metro Conference and the regional.

Ollinger finished lower than first in only two long jump competitions this season, and one of those was the state meet.

"Ryan is one of the toughest competitors that five coached," coach Mike Unger said. "He came through in the clutch several times to win long jump competitions. He was always willing to help the team by doing different events, too."

Ollinger's time of 14.4 seconds in the 110meter hurdles tied for fourth on the area's top-10 list.

Jordan Chapman, sophomore, Ply. Canton (high jump): Chapman competed in the pole. vault and long jump as well as the high jump. He jumped 6-4 in three meets, the last time in the Class A finals where he finished sixth. He's also the reigning Western Lakes Activities Association champion. Chapman finished fourth in the regional and first in the Meet of Champions. He was a 12-foot pole vaulter.

"Jordan is a very determined, hard-working young man who has the ability to focus on the multiple events he competes in each meet," coach Bob Richardson said.

"He is also very successful in the classroom and has a 3.944 GPA. He was an Aca demic All-State Award winner."

COLLEGIATE SOFTBALL

All-Big 10 pick

BY C.J. RISAK

SPORTS WRITER cjrisak@oe,homecomm.net

Everyone knows it: The University of Michigan recruits its athletes from across the country, drawing in the best of the best.

The Wolverine softball team is no different. U-M had been to the Women's College World Series every year since 1994 until losing in the NCAA Regionals this season and has won four of the last five Big Ten Conference Tournament titles.

So imagine that: A team bathed in excellence, one that has completely dominated the Big Ten with four regular-season titles in the last five years, with five-straight 50-plus win seasons, and it finds its top recruit of 1999 just a few miles down the road.

Of course, when Stefanie Volpe signed out of Plymouth Salem to she'd be star material, not in her first season;

Not even Volpe.

"It did (surprise me)," Volpe said after posting outstanding numbers as a starter for the Wolverines. "Coming in here, I just didn't expect to do so well. not my freshman year. I mean, playing for Michigan, I said if I don't play much at first, well, don't be surprised.

"I told myself, 'If I work hard, I'll get to play. If I don't work hard, I won't get to play."

When fall practice convened last September, Volpe was listed as the No. 4 catcher. She never played an inning at that position which is where she earned all-Western Lakes Activities Association honors while at Salem -during fall ball.

"I didn't play much in the fall," she said. "I batted two, three third base.'

Which should hardly be much of a foundation for optimism entering her first regular season. But things changed.

Volpe's hitting ability earned her a spot in the batting lineup as the designated player early in the season. By the time the Big Ten campaign had rolled around, her bat had cemented her position on offense; soon it would be expanded to include defense.

Not at third base, either.

"I remember before our first game against Penn State, Hutch (coach Carol Hutchins) came up to me and said, 'You're going to play defense today," Volpe recalled. "I thought it was going to be at third base, because that's where I had been playing. "She told me 'No, you're going to catch."

Kim Bugel had started the season as the top catcher after Melissa Gentile, No. 1 during fall practice, suffered a back injury that required surgery. Bugel's bat, however, was absent; she hit only .159. Karmen Lappo replaced her and started out well offensively, but her hitting slipped (she ended up hitting .209) and her lack of arm strength was a liability.

Which left it to Volpe.

She took advantage of her new position, playing the rest of the Big Ten schedule at catcher. She committed just two errors there in 24 games.

But it was her hitting that got her rave reviews.

"I knew Hutch wanted me for my bat," Volpe said. "That's why I came here. I had to adjust a bit in my first couple of tournaments, I had to adjust my timing to college-level pitching. They were throwing things I'd never seen before.

play for U-M, no one anticipated times and played one inning at sparkled: She had the team's second highest batting average (.400) with seven doubles, one triple and a league-high 33 runs batted in in 24 games. For the season, Volpe hit .345, with 10 doubles, two triples and 43 RBI, the last tying her for second on the team. She played in 58 of Michigan's 65 games.

Best of all, U-M finished with a 51-13-1 record and a Big Ten regular-season title.

Volpe's contributions earned her a selection to the all-Big Ten first team. She was the conference's freshman of the year.

Perhaps her most memorable weekend came in a three-game sweep of Indiana May 8-9. Volpe was 9-for-10 at the plate, with three doubles and nine RBI - a performance that earned her Big Ten player of the week accolades.

It seems apparent she's won herself a spot on the U-M team. although nothing is assured under Hutchins. Volpe knows that: "Hutch told us we've got to go into next fall thinking nothing in the past matters, that it's all fresh. Being Freshman of the Year and all-Big Ten doesn't matter."

If Gentile bounces back from her back surgery (she played 19 games this season as a designated player), Volpe could be back as the designated player.

"I don't know if I'll catch or not," she said. "I don't think I'll be satisfied with that. I got used to playing defense every day there at the end of the season,"

With that in mind, Volpe who is currently taking spring courses at Michigan - knows she needs to work diligently on parts of her game. "I think my defense can get better. I really need to bear down on that, get better on defense."

If her game keeps improving at the same scale it did during the season, well, who knows what lays ahead, for both Volpe and U-M?

Joe Frendo, senior, Garden City (pole vault): Frendo is a sprinter, which only enhances his ability in the pole vault.

Nick Hall

Farm, Hills Harrison

Frendo was a two-time Class A regional and Mega Conference Gold Division champion and an Observerland champ. He finished third in the state meet with a personal best of 14 feet.

He has a 3.8 grade point average and will intend Michigan State, where he plans to walk on as a pole vaulter. "Joe is a very dedicated athlete," coach Rob Phillips said. "He is always there doing the extra things to improve. He is a leader and sets an example for our younger kids to follow. He is also a 'gamer.' He performs when the pressure is on."

Ryan Kearney, senior, Livonia Churchill (110 hurdles): Kearney never lost a dual-meet races in a hurdles event this year.

He was a four-time participant in the state meet; he won regional titles in the 110 and 300 hurdles three straight seasons; he was fifth in 300 hurdles in 1997, second in highs and fourth in intermediates in 1998. A pulled hamstring scratched him from finals at this year's meet.

Kearney, who has a full-ride scholarship to run track at Western Michigan University, also ranked second in Observerland in the high jump and 200 dash, and he anchored the 800meter relay team.

"Ryan has been an unbelievable track and field talent over his career," coach Rick Austin said. "He has run every event we asked him to run to put us in a position to win a track meet. He is a very classy young man who comes from a terrific family. "His competitive desire and work ethic is incredible, as evidenced by his performances in bigger meets. His best track and field years are ahead of him."

clearly paid off for him. "We look forward to him having a great senior season."

Darryl Anglin, freshman, Redford Bishop Borgess (100): Borgess coach Eugene Thomas once held the world record in the 300-meter run (33.7 seconds) so he knows a thing or two about sprinters.

Kevin Woods

Farm. Hills Harrison

Anglin is one of the best he has coached at Borgess and, though he isn't a high jumper or pole vaulter, the sky is the limit.

 Anglin placed in every major invitational Borgess attended. He was seventh at the state meet in the 100 (11.13) and helped the 400 relay finish fourth (44.08) and the 800 relay take third (1:31.15).

He had a personal best time of 10.7 in the 100 preliminaries at the state meet.

"I think he could be one of the top sprinters in the state," Thomas said. "He hates to lose. He rises to the challenge that's in front of him. He enjoys running."

Agnlin took third place in the 100 at the Toledo Rocket Invitational, Observerland, Catholic League and Class C regional meets.

Kevin Woods, Junior, Farmington Harrison (200): His best time in the 100 equalled Anglin's but his 200 best of 22.2 stood alone.

He was second in the regional in the 200, second at the WLAA meet in the 200 and fourth in the 100.

"Kevin has been one of our top athletes all season." coach John Reed said. "He ran a lot of big races all year and was very consistent.

He won the 400 at the WLAA meet and was second at the regional.

Kearney also lettered in football and basketball.

Nick Hall, Junior, Farmington Harrison (300 hurdles): Hall had secondbest time after Ryan Kearney in the 300 hurdles. His best in the 110 hurdles (14.3) was just a tenth of second off Kearney's best. His 40.3 placed 1.2 seconds behind Kearney in the 300.

Hall was the Oakland County and regional champion.

"It was an absolute pleasure to coach Nick this year," coach John Reed said. "No one on the Hawk team worked harder, and all this work

Bobby Cushman, senior, Plymouth Salem (800 run): Cushman was injured on the eve of what should have been his greatest high school track season.

After recording the top time in Observerland in the 800 (2:01.5), Cushman figured to be a state qualifier in that event at the regional (the winning time was 2:01.7). But he Injured his knee at the regional and did not compete again.

As a junior, he helped Salem set a school record in the 3,200 relay (7:49.9).

"Bobby was becoming one of the team's best 800 runners when he got hurt," coach Geoff Baker said, "He is an outstanding student and runner.

Nick Allen, senior, Plymouth Salem (1,600 run): Allen had first-place finishes in the 1,600 at the WLAA finals (4:27.6) and the Class A regional (4:22.3). At the state finals, he finished seventh with in a season-best 4:19.8.

Allen also placed second in the 800 at the WLAA finals (2:04.0) and was third at the regional in the 3,200 (9:41.1), the latter a state-qualifying

He helped Selem win the Observerland invitational by running on two first-place relays. Allen shares school records in the 6,400, distance medley and 3,200 relays and the 3,200 run. He will attend Wayne State.

"Nick is one of the best runners to come out of Salem," coach Geoff Baker said. "He worked hard at it to become this. He will be tough to replace."

Dan Jess, senior, Redford CC (3,200 ruh); Jess had an outstanding cross country season last fall, and he carried the momentum into the spring.

Jess was a Class A regional champion and placed seventh in the state meet (9:37.2). He was runner-up in the 3,200 at the Catholic League meet and was the Operation Friendship champion. Jess had a best time of 9:32.3 in the 3,200.

"It takes a certain mindset to be a distance runner and Dan has it." CC coach Tony Magni said. "Dan is a very talented and hard-working runner whose dedication and determination has enabled him to attain his goals.

"As I mentioned last fall, Dan was our stabilizer and never disappointed us. That certainly carried over to this year's track season.'

400 relay, Farmington Harrison (Nick Hall, Ricky Bryant, Andre Davis, Kevin Woods): The Hawks were Observerland Relays and regional champions. They had the area's best time at 43.5 seconds.

"Injuries prevented this team from running often as a unit," coach John Reed said. "When they did run together, they were the fastest foursome in the area. They're a tremendous group of fine athletes who have great futures ahead of them."

800 relay, Farmington High (Andrew Buck, Jawoin Spinks Mark Ostach. Dustin Gress, Tode Anthony); The Falcons were ninth in the state (1:30.6), second in the regional (1:31.9), third in the Western Lakes (1:33.0) and fourth in Oakland County (1:31.9). Buck was a substitute for Spinks in the county meet.

"They worked superbly all season," coach Chip Bridges said. *They were dedicated to the relay and worked hard to make their times and finishes successful."

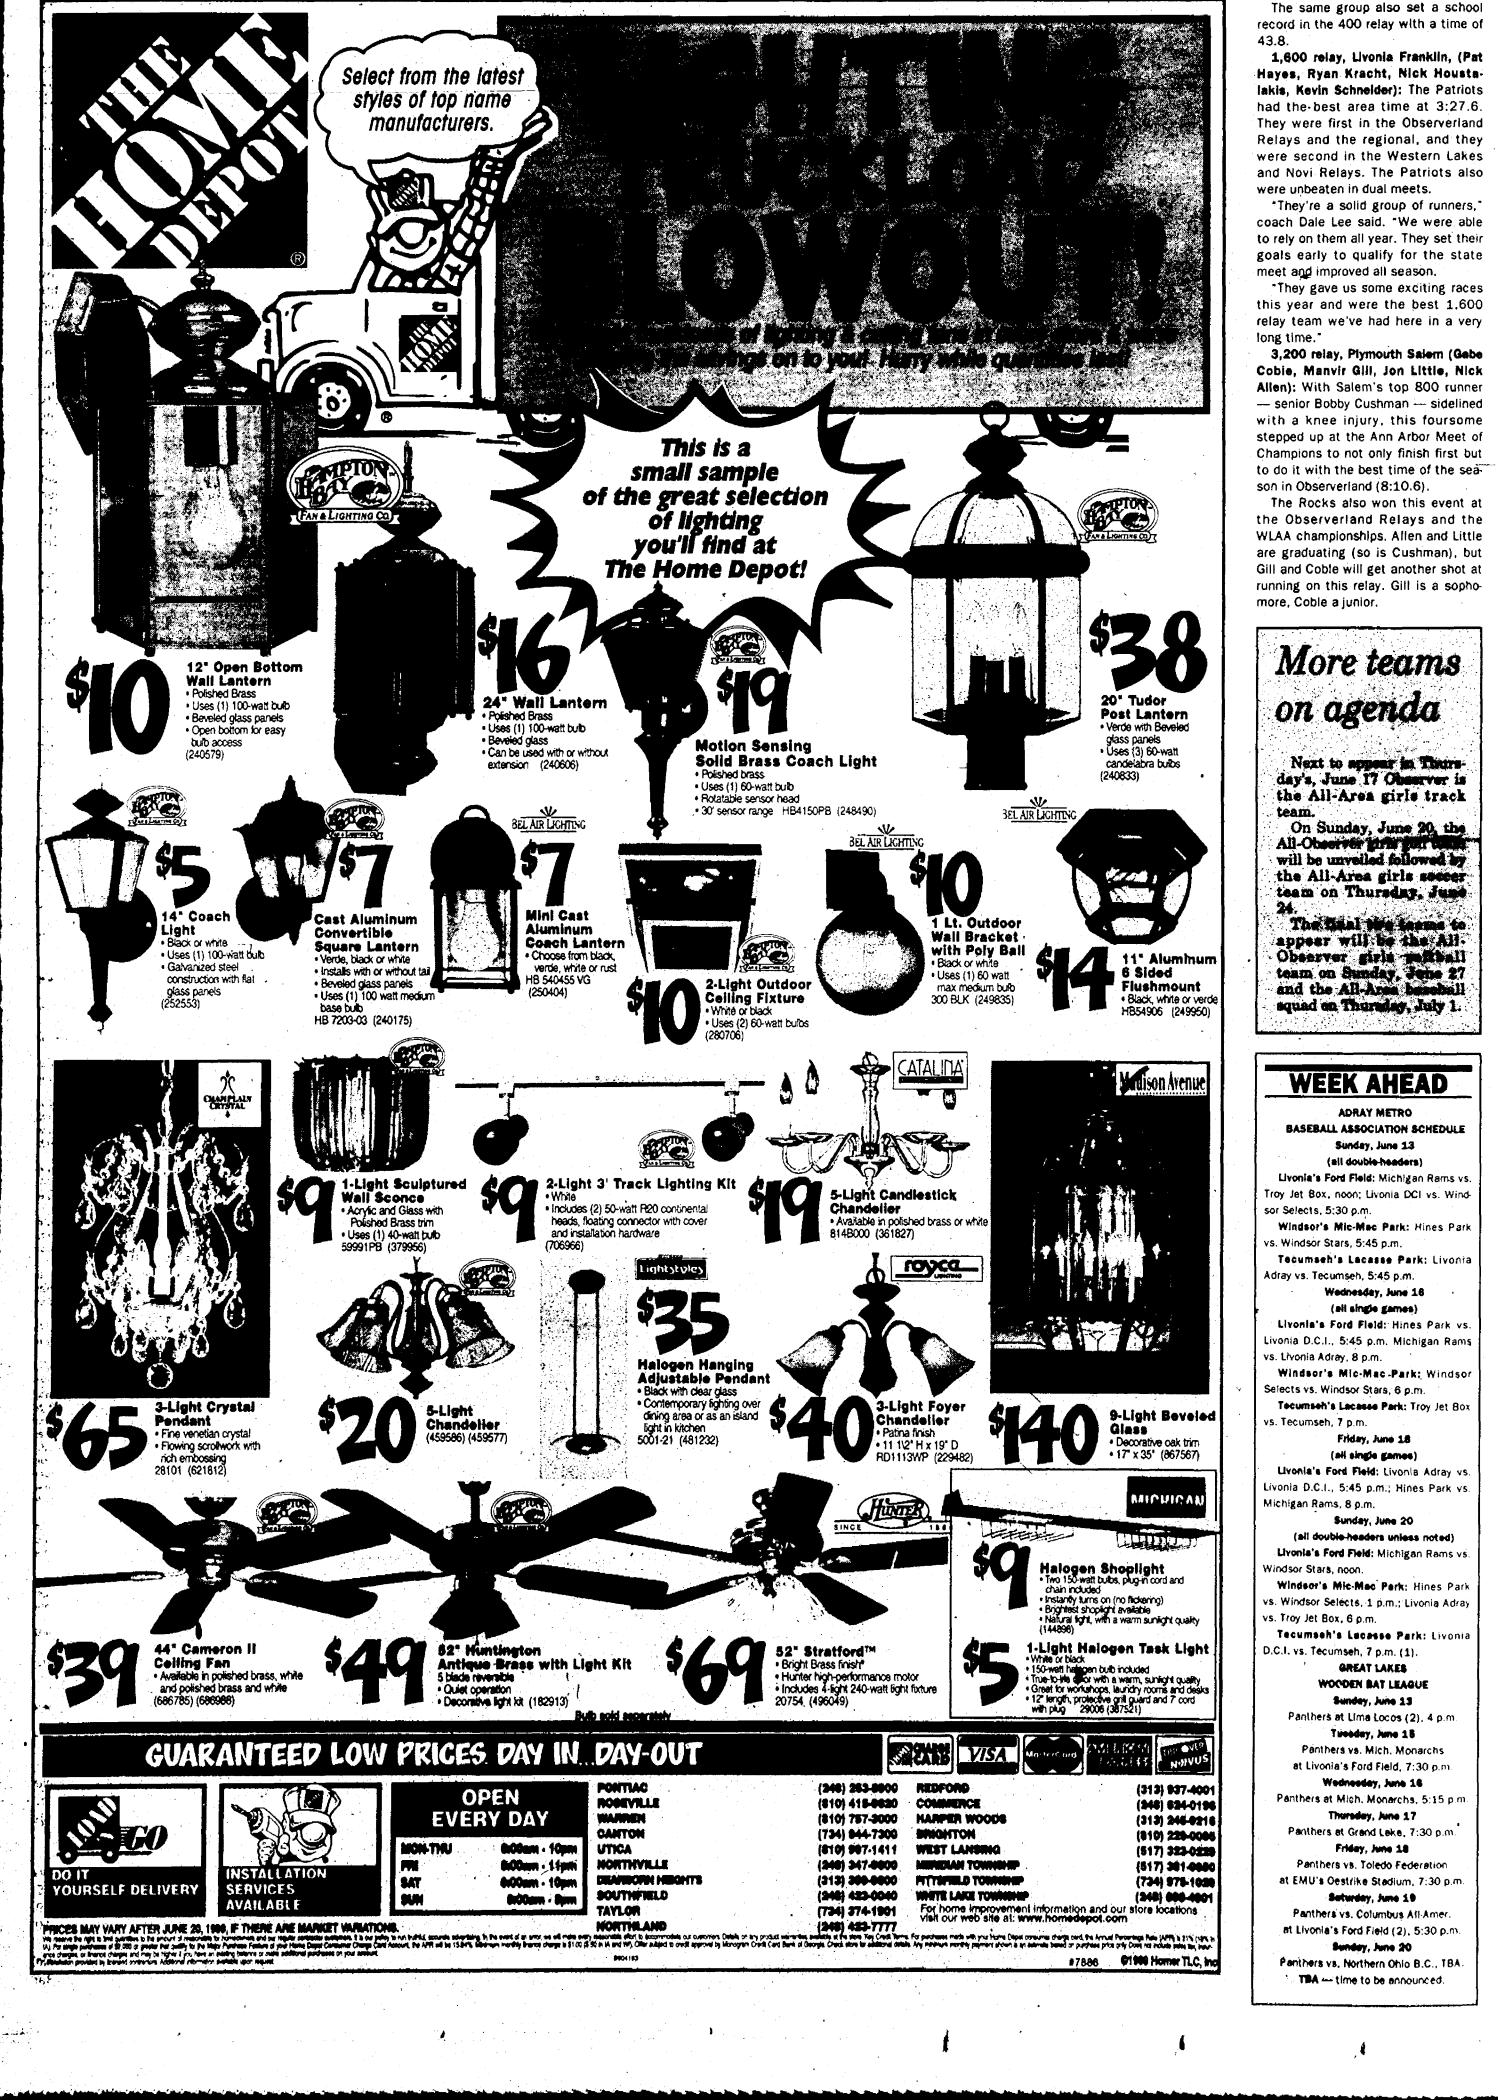

Hayes, Ryan Kracht, Nick Houstalakis, Kevin Schneider): The Patriots had the best area time at 3:27.6. They were first in the Observerland Relays and the regional, and they and Novi Relays. The Patriots also were unbeaten in dual meets.

By the time my wife turned 16, the age at which a fishing license is required, she had faded away from the sport and didn't really give it much thought until years later when she hooked up with yours truly.

I finally convinced her last year, on Free Fishing Weekend, to join me on a short outing on a local lake.

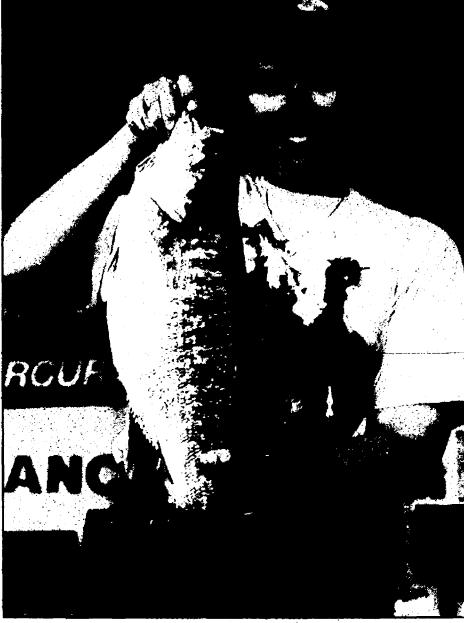

Fishing was great and when Donna landed a plump 16-inch largemouth bass her face lit up like a halogen headlight. She was enamored with the sport. By the time the trip came to an end I knew she was back on track.

"Just one more cast," she said with urgency, as I pulled up the anchor and put away the tackle. I knew at that instant she was

All-City teams earn plaudits

The Greater Detroit Bowling Association (GDBA) recently named its All-City teams for the 36th year, with six bowlers appearing for the first time.

David Ewald of St. Clair Shores leads the rookie contingent as captain of the team with 85 points.

It is no mere coincidence that Steve's sister, Michelle Ewald was also named captain of the Women's Association No. 1 team this year.

Both siblings are excellent bowlers.

Points are tabulated on performance in the GDBA Masters. GDBA Association Tournament, Michigan State Tournament, ABC National Tournament, honor scores and league averages.

The Senior All-City team is compiled from all of the above and performance in the GDBA Senior Masters.

Brian Brennan with 53.5 and Randy Gutowski with 43 points are the other rookies on the first team, rounded out by Kerry Kreft (59.5) and Dan Ottman of Troy (48).

Kreft, the only holdover from last year's first team, is currently second in the ABC Doubles with Billy Orlikowski at 1,502, which easily paced the GDBA contestants.

He also performed well in the GDBA All-Events with a second place finish.

Ottman, a member of the 1998 class in the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame, fared well on the ABC Tournament lanes in Syracuse, N.Y. He is second among GDBA players in the ABC Doubles with Chris Jones and tops in All-Events.

Rookies Scott Timko (41.5), Joe Krajenke (37) and Gary Schwarze (37) lead the second team, while Honorable mentions included Larry Derby of West Bloomfield, Bill Mueller of Novi, Nick Wissinger, Scotty Laughland and Livonian Ryan Wilson.

This was the 36th year of naming All-City teams by the GDBA.

Most improved bowler was Mary Corcoran with a 201 from 163 the prior year, a jump of 38 pins.

Nancy McDonald from Taylor Lanes was named Secretary of the Year, a most deserving recipient of this honor, congratulations to all the men and women who were selected by both associations.

•Milo Quiton passed away lest week at the age of 67.

He was a rather quiet sort, so he let his bowling ball do most of his talking. This was a man who lived to bowl, and it was his determinat tion to bowl more and more that kept him going in the face of incredible adversity.

After surviving two strokes and two heart attacks he came back to top form and even won the Wayne Westland 700 Tournament a few years ago.

Milo was not a guy who would let some physical impairments set him back. He could often be seen in the western Wayne County houses that he competed in unloading his arsenal of equip: ment on a hand truck.

Here was an example of true grit, for most otherswould have just quit and sat around.

But not Quiton, for as he said when I asked him how he survived all of his misfortunes, he simply said: "I knew that I had more bowling to do."

He said that was the reason he kept on going.

Milo averaged around the 200

PRO TIP OF THE WEEK

change the bottom friction on the shoes. This is a big advantage when the approaches are somewhat different. For a very serious bowler, when you are walking up there, if you don't have good footing you lose your direction and you also lose your leverage on the shot. "The first thing I do when I go to any competition is set up my shoes for the approach conditions.

"First, I test the runways, then I change the inserts as I see fit.

"If the approaches are sticky, I even have little tefion discs that I can place in the soles of the silding shoe

"The difference in most bowling shoes is that if you buy the lower priced variety, they have leather sliders on the bottom of both feet, so it doesnit matter if you-are right or left-handed

"These are okay for the casual type of bowler, or someone just starting out. They can range in price from about $30 to $50 or

"When you get into the more expensive shoes, as I carry both Undis And Dexter, the difference is the sliding sole will only be on the left foot (for rightles).

"The other shoe is the traction foot and that will have a good rubber sole so you don't slip when you are walking up the approach in your delivery.

"The shoes are very important, so the better bowlers will usually pay more and get the quality shoes that are made out of better material, genuine leather uppers, and have better quality bottoms, or changeable sliding soles from Dexter to accomodate most conditions

"So it's important to have good shoes that will give you good friction while you are taking the steps and give you good balance on your delivery

"It's a like if the lanes are too dry and your ball is hooking too much, you can go to another, ball, the same with the interchangeable

"It is also important to keep your shoes in tip top condition. Sometimes you have to scuff up the bottom with a wire brush or emery cloth to keep from sliding too much.

" It is also a good idea to check and clean the bottoms as you will pick up matter off the floor just from walking around.

"It doesn't matter what kind of shoe you have or how much you paid for them If you step in some water. The moisture will make you stick, so be very careful around the washrooms or in the alsieways in winter weather.

"I advise putting on a pair of shoe protectors if you think they could get wet. It could cause you to stick and fall if your soles do get

"When you select your next shoes, consider that the better shoes will last longer, the athletic shoe styles are made of synthetics and will not hold up as well as leather.

"The cost of leather shoes has gone up in recent years as the use of cattle for food has lessened, so have the hides which are needed to make the shoes.

"The leather bowling shoes are all made in the USA, the synthetics mostly come from overseas.

"Whatever your bowling needs, if you are a beginner or expert, look to your pro shop operator to fit you correctly. The pocketbook may determine what you buy, but you will want to get the best value you can, keeping in mind that you may not perform as well if your shoes are not up to the performance level you need.

"The better shoes are $70 and up mainly because of the materials. Take care of those shoes and they will last you a long time. I use shoe trees and use covers when I put them In the bag.

"When buying leather shoes, let them know if you are left-handed. A lot of the time, not all styles or colors come in a left-handed version

"One more suggestion is to carry a spare pair of laces just in case, and be sure to get the correct length, they are inexpensive and take up very little room in your bag.

Get your game off on a good footing with the right type of shoes just for you."

Virginia rails tough to detect

Typically a very reclusive bird in the cattail marshes they frequent, rails are seldom seen except when they are forced to fly above the vegetation for very short flights.

I was fortunate to have seen them on the side of the trail poking their heads out from the grasses.

zard that stores stones which are NATURE used to grind hard food items. NOTES Rails eat a lot of insects in their marshy habitat.

Insects, of course, have a hard outside skeleton of chitin, which is hard to digest. In fact, many birds eject the hard skeletons in the form of a pellet, reminiscent of the pellets formed by owls.

The three birds I saw on the side of the trail may have been feeding on some insects, but I suspect they were grabbing some grit for their gizzard. It's hard to find true grit in the middle of a marsh.

Three birds in a group also suggested to me that it was a family. Rails raise precocial young, that means the young hatch from their egg fully feathered and ready to leave the nest in just a matter of hours.

Because rails walk between the stems of densely packed cattail plants, their bodies are flattened from side to side, hence when viewed from the front they look "skinny as a rail."

This body shape and long toes allow them to walk through marsh plants very easily.

Earlier this spring I heard the "tic-tic-tic" sound of the Virginia rail in the same area where I saw the three birds. It sounds like someone tapping two golf ball size rocks together.

Seeing this family verifies that my identification of the song was correct.

If you are in a boat near some cattails, keep your eyes open along the edge of the water, you might see a Virginia rail appear briefly as it searches for food.
