Budget OK'd

■ Agreement reigned Monday as Westland City Council members unanimously approved a new budget.

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER

For the first time in several years, the Westland City Council unanimously approved a budget. The council put aside political differences and voted 7-0 to approve the 2000-01 fiscal year budget Monday at its regular meeting.

In addition to paying for several major projects, the new $48,316,639 budget also includes several tax cuts for residents, including reductions in the millage rate, which has been reduced one mill, and water-sewer rates.

"The success of this budget is that it retains all the services we have enjoyed in the past and allows us to do many of the projects we had hoped for," said Mayor Robert Thomas.

"Probably the best thing from the perspective of residents are the tax cuts. The reduction of one whole mill is significant. And for those who use a lot of water, they are really going to see the difference in their bill."

Stop draws questions

Texas resident Willie Slater had never heard of Westland when he crossed the city line Saturday evening. To him, it seemed like any other town. However, two Westland police officers made sure the black motorist would not soon forget his visit.

Slater, 37, has accused Officers Robert Kenyon and Burke Lange of racial profiling and racism when they pulled over the 1994 BMW he was driving, because of an air freshener hanging from his rear view mirror. Before the incident was over, the car was impounded, Slater had spent two hours in jail, and his passenger, Lynn Thomas, who is also black, was left on the curbside to walk home.

The incident further calls into question the policies of the department, which was accused of a similar racial incident in February. Several African Americans, including the head of the Western Wayne NAACP, have recently criticized the police of racial profiling during traffic stops.

A former resident of Detroit, Slater has lived in the Houston suburb of Katy, where he works for the Exxon-Mobil Corp. He is in the area spending

Fire station groundbreaking source of civic pride

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER

Although the skies were gray and the weather was miserable, Westland Fire Chief Mark Neal called Monday's Fire Station 5 groundbreaking ceremony on the city's southeast corner "a ray of sunshine for the area."

A number of city officials and local residents braved the rainy conditions to attend the ceremony for the new station, which is on the corner of Annapolis Road and Irene Street, just east of Middlebelt.

The new station will serve an area of the city that has traditionally experienced the longest response times for emergency aid from fire trucks and ambulances.

"The area had response times three to four times longer than anywhere else in the city. That is why this station is going to make a tremendous difference," Neal said.

After the new station is operational, Neal said the area will have a response time as short as two minutes, which is down from between nine and 12 minutes.

"This is a fantastic day for this neighborhood," said Mayor Robert Thomas, who was on hand.

Although the station has long been a goal of Westland officials, it didn't become a reality until recently when the city was able to obtain a Housing and Urban Development loan from the federal government.

"We are extremely grateful that this day has finally come, especially for those of us who have been around here awhile and have been trying to revitalize the area," said Charles "Trav" Griffin, president of the Westland City Council.

"This is just going to be a great facility."

James Gilbert, Westland's director of community development, said it has been a long battle to get the station built in the low-income area.

"We told the residents that we would stay with them and persevere. I admit there were times I questioned whether it was going to get done," Gilbert said.

"This groundbreaking means we are going to meet our commitment to the people of this area."

While city officials touted the day, their excitement paled in comparison to the celebratory mood of some of the his weeklong vacation with his family in Detroit.

Slater and Thomas, of Detroit, were visiting her brother in Wayne. She needed to buy a telephone, so her brother, Willie Thomas, suggested they go to the Best Buy on Wayne Road near Westland Center.

The two got lost and pulled into the Dunkin' Donuts at Ford Road and Wildwood Avenue to ask directions. At this time, Kenyon and Lange also pulled into the establishment, and proceeded to follow the BMW, which belongs to Slater's brother, northward on Wildwood. When Slater traveled across Warren Road into the driveway of the Westland Crossings strip mall at 8:10 p.m., the officers stopped him.

According to Slater, the officers told him they wanted to warn him about the 3-inch air freshener, because it was a vision obstruction.

When the officers checked Slater's valid Texas driver's license, they found an unpaid ticket issued to him June 3, 1999, in Hamtramck for driving without possession of a driver's identification.

Slater explained to the officers he was not in Hamtramck in 1999, and hasn't been in Michigan since September 1996. He said anyone could have used his name during that stop.

Lange and Kenyon then cited Slater for not being able to produce a registration or proof of insurance, even though Slater said they found each when they searched the car after arresting him.

Slater, who dished out $500 for bail and another $100 to get the car out of impoundment, said he felt the stop was a case of racial profiling run amok.

"I think this was definitely racially motivated, for the simple fact the officers had no other reason to pull me over than I am black and was driving a $40,000 car," he said.

"They were not physically abusive or threatening, but they were asking stereotypical questions. They asked if I was a drug dealer or if I had any guns. You could see where they were going with it."

Slater also noted the officers chose to impound the car, despite the fact Thomas has a valid driver's license and could have driven it home. The officers then told Thomas to "have a nice day" as they left her on the curb-side.

"How are you supposed to have a nice day when you have to walk home in the dark?" Slater questioned.

Slater, a former member of the U.S. Navy, and Thomas were so enraged by the treatment they received, they came to the Westland City Council meeting Monday and recounted the details of the incident to a shocked council and audience.

Westland Police Chief Emery Price, also in attendance Monday, urged people not to prejudge the incident, and was offended that many obviously had.

After talking to the arresting officers, Price feels confident they acted properly, noting Slater had a suspended Michigan driver's license, and could not personally produce the registration or proof of insurance. He also said the officers did not let Thomas drive the car, because Slater was not the owner and they would have been liable if something had happened to it.

"I absolutely do not condone racial profiling, whatever that means. I don't know how many times I have to say it," said Price, noting the first thing Slater and Thomas did was argue with the officers they had been stopped because they were black.

"It is becoming more common for black motorists to make this claim, particularly because all of the media attention that has been given to the issue."

As for the air freshener, Price said it is an infraction and it is up to each officer to decide whether to enforce it or not.

Slater, who is to appear at the 18th District Court this morning, said he wants his name cleared, and does not feel he should "have to pay one penny" for the incident. He said he has pay stubs proving he was in Texas on June 3, 1999.

"I am angry. They threw me in jail on my vacation, and I'm going to be spending the rest of it trying to clear this up," he said. "I just want my life back the way it was before this all happened to me."

Farmer Jack shows new face

A ribbon cutting/dedication was held Tuesday to mark modernization of the new Farmer Jack store, 200 Merriman at Cherry Hill in Westland.

The dedication included a donation presentation to the Salvation Army and Westland Historical Commission. A tour was included.

Farmer Jack has invested $7 million in the Westland store. The 53,000-square-foot store blends technology and innovation with traditional values and conveniences.

The store opened Wednesday. It replaced an existing store next door, which closed Tuesday.

"We are proud to open this brand new state-of-the-art store to all residents of the Westland area," said Craig Sturken, president of Farmer Jack Supermarkets. "When we look for areas for expansion, we search first in the communities in which we currently conduct business. Westland has been our home for many years. It is a family city and Farmer Jack is committed to serving families."

Within the past six months, Farmer Jack Supermarkets has invested a total of $28 million in new stores in Michigan, translating to 225,000 square feet of grocery shopping space for customers. The store is the fourth of 12 new Farmer Jack stores opening this year.

During the Tuesday ceremony, Farmer Jack made a check presentation to the Westland Historical Commission for donating historical photos of the city. The photos will be displayed in the lobby of the new store. The Salvation Army also received a donation.

Farmer Jack has two other stores in Westland, 34414 Ford Road and 8050 Middlebelt. The newest Westland store will be open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

1999 REPORT TO CONSUMERS ON WATER QUALITY

Westland is proud of the fine drinking water it receives from Detroit and furnishes to the residents. This report will list the source of our water, the results of the tests performed on the water, and additional information about water and health questions. State and Federal requirements mandate that an annual report now be sent to Westland customers before July 1 each year. This is our second report.

Water Source Westland is supplied by the City of Detroit from its Springwells Water Treatment Plant in Dearborn. The water comes from the intake facility at Belle Isle in the Detroit River.

Overview The City of Westland provided 3.42 billion gallons of water to its consumers in 1999. Over 5100 lineal feet of water main were installed in 1999. In 1999 the average resident used 110 gallons of water per day, at a cost of less than two tenths of a cent per gallon. The City of Westland has started a new valve program to go with the hydrant program to work on the valves and hydrants in the city. Two of twenty sections of the city were completed in 1999.

Lead

Since 1992, with the cooperation of many Westland residents, the City has been testing homes with plumbing systems that may contribute lead to the household water supply. Our latest round of testing shows none of the 60 homes tested have levels above the action level. If your home has a lead service line or piping that has lead soldered joints, you can take the following precautions to minimize your exposure to lead that may have leached into your drinking water from your pipes.

- Run your water for 30 to 60 seconds, or until it feels cold. This practice should be followed any time your water has not been used for more than six hours.
- Always use cold water for drinking, cooking, or making baby formula.
- Use faucets and plumbing material that are either lead free or will not leach unsafe levels of lead into your water.

Additional Information

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases radioactive material and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organics, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or by the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

People with Special Health Concerns

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than is the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Hotline (800-426-4791).

Cryptosporidium

Cryptosporidium is a disease-causing parasite that lives in the intestinal tract of many animals including dogs and cats. Symptoms of infection include diarrhea, abdominal cramps, headaches, nausea and vomiting. The disease is typically spread through contact with feces of an infected animal or person and consuming contaminated food or water. Cryptosporidium can be introduced into bodies of water by way of surface water runoff containing animal waste and sewage discharge. The Detroit Water and Sewerage Department has been testing for cryptosporidium since 1994 and has not detected it in any of our source water supplies.

National Primary Drinking Water Regulation Compliance

In 1999, the City of Westland had one monitoring violation. A monitoring violation is not an exceedance of a MCL or health standard. On February 20, 1999, a positive coliform sample was found at 37345 Cherry Hill. A recheck was made on February 22, 1999, and there was negative total coliform.

The regulations require confirmation of any positive result by re-sampling the location in question and sampling surrounding locations within 24 hours of notification or the next business day. The samplings should have taken place the next day but were deferred until the following. All samples were negative for coliform bacteria.

This report was prepared by the Water and Sewer Superintendent of the Department of Public Service for the City of Westland, Michigan. Data was supplied by the City of Detroit Water and Sewer Department and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. If there are any questions, concerns or comments, please feel free to contact me at (734) 467-3242. This report is supplied to our customers to ensure compliance with the Michigan Safe Drinking Water Act (1976, PA 399, as amended) by 1998 PA 56. This Act was passed to comply with Federal Clean Water Act and the rules promulgated by the United States EPA dealing with this law. Water Quality data for community water systems throughout the United States is available at www.waterdata.com.

Springwells Water Treatment Plant 1999 Regulated Detected Contaminants Tables

Contaminant	Test Date	Units	Health Goal MCLG	Allowed Level MCL	Level Detected	Range		Major Sources in Drinking Water
Inorganic Chemicals - Annual Monitoring at Plant Finished Water Tap
Fluoride	Oct. 99	ppm	4	4	1.16	n/a	n/a	Erosion of natural deposits; Water additive, which promotes strong teeth; Discharge from fertilizer and aluminum factories.
Nitrate	Oct. 99	ppm	10	10	0.22	n/a	n/a	Runoff from fertilizer use; Leaching* from septic tanks; Sewage; Erosion of natural soils.
Volatile Organic Compounds - Quarterly Monitoring at Plant Finished Water Tap
Dichloromethane	Aug. 99	ppb	0	5	0.12	0	0.12	Discharge from pharmaceutical and chemical factories.
Disinfection By-Products - Quarterly Monitoring in Distribution System
Total Trihalomethanes	3/99-12/99	ppb	n/a	100 (80)	Average 19.1	11.0	30.00	By-Product of Drinking Water Chlorination.
Total Trihalomethanes is the sum of chloroform, dichlorobromomethane, dibromochloromethane, and bromoform. Compliance is based on the total. New MCLG effective December 16, 2001.

Turbidity - Monitored every 4 hours at Plant Finished Water Tap
Highest Single Measurement	Lowest Monthly % of Samples Meeting Turbidity Limit of 0.5 NTU (minimum 98%)	Soil Runoff
0.52 NTU	99.5%
Turbidity is a measure of the cloudiness of water. We monitor it because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of our filtration system. For turbidity levels 5 NTU or above a treatment technique (TT) is required.

Microbiological Contaminants - Monthly Monitoring in Distribution System
Contaminant	MCLG	MCL	Highest Number Detected	Major Sources in Drinking Water
Total Coliform Bacteria	0	Presence of Coliform bacteria - 5% of monthly samples	in one month	Naturally present in the environment
E.coli	0	A routine sample and a repeat sample are total coliform positive, and one is also fecal or E.coli positive	entire year	Human waste and animal fecal waste

Lead and Copper Monitoring at Customers' Tap							Major Sources in Drinking Water
Contaminant	Test Date	Units	Health Goal MCLG	Action Level AL	90th Percentile Value*	Number of Samples Over AL

*The 90th percentile value means 90 percent of the homes tested have lead and copper levels below the given 90th percentile value. If the 90th percentile value is above the AL additional requirements must be met.

Springwells Water Treatment Plant 1999 Unregulated Detected Contaminants Tables

Unregulated contaminants are those for which EPA has not established drinking water standards. The purpose of unregulated contaminant monitoring is to assist EPA in determining the occurrence of unregulated contaminants in drinking water and whether future regulation is warranted.

Contaminant	Test Date	Units	*Future MCLG	*Future MCL	Average Level Detected	Low	High
Trichloromethane (Chloroform)	3/99-12/99	ppb	0	n/a	9.6	4.0	17.0
Bromodichloromethane	3/99-12/99	ppb	0	n/a	6.4	4.4	8.7
Dibromochloromethane	3/99-12/99	ppb	60	n/a	3.0	2.0	4.2
Bromoform	3/99-12/99	ppb	0	n/a	0.2	0.1	0.3

Chloroform, dichlorobromomethane, dibromochloromethane, and bromoform are trihalomethanes. The MCL is set for the total or sum of these individual components. *New MCLG effective December 16, 2001.

The EPA recommends reporting results from any voluntary monitoring that is above a proposed MCL or above a level of concern. The detected unregulated contaminants in these table do not meet these criteria. Reporting in CCR is not required.

This monitoring was conducted under the EPA 1996 Information Collection Rule. *Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (Goals) effective December 16, 2001.

Key to Detected Contaminants Tables
Symbol	Abbreviation for	Definition/Explanation
MCLG	Maximum Contaminant Level Goal	The level of contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health.
MCL	Maximum Contaminant Level	The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking waters. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
ppb	Parts per billion (one in one billion)	The ppb is equivalent to micrograms per liter. A microgram = 1/1000 milligram.
ppm	Parts per million	The ppm is equivalent to milligrams per liter. A milligram = 1/1000 gram.
NTU	Nephelometric Turbidity Units	Measures the cloudiness of water.
TT	Treatment Technique	A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.
AL	Action Level	The concentration of a contaminant, which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
n/a	Not applicable
≥	More than or equal to residents who live in the area. "This station is going to mean a great deal," said Pearl Childs, a Westland resident for 34 years. "I know families around here that had emergencies and had to wait too long for fire trucks and ambulances." Childs was one of seven dignitaries to dig a spade into the ground where the station will be built. Others included Thomas, Griffin, Gilbert, Neal, contractor Earl Hall, Southeast Homeowners Association President Lori Wilson, and the Rev. John D. Hearn, who gave the invocation at the ceremony. "This is one of the greatest things to ever happen to the southeast corner of Westland. I'm so proud to see this station being built. It is going to help this area turn around," Childs said. L.W. Stephens, who has lived at the corner of Middlebelt and Currier for 50 years, also attended the ceremony. "I've seen a lot of things happen in this neighborhood and they haven't always been good," he said. "In my mind, this is the greatest thing to happen." Inkster fire officials were also on hand to celebrate the groundbreaking. Annapolis marks the boundary between Inkster and Westland. Because the two cities have a mutual aid pact, the Inkster Fire Department regularly responded to emergencies in the area of Westland that will now be covered by Fire Station 5. The two cities will continue to provide aid to one another. "A better response time will mean more lives saved," said Inkster Fire Chief Mike Moore. If all goes right during the construction process, Westland officials are hoping to have the fire station completed and operating this winter. "We're crossing our fingers and hoping to open up the doors by December, so we can give everyone a big Christmas present," Thomas said.

The cuts are a result of the budget gaining a one-time addition of $2.57 million from the Tax Increment Finance Authority district, which is being phased out. The extra money will also be used to do some major road repairs around the city. Repairs will also be made to City Hall, two fire stations, the Bailey Recreation Center and the ice arena. "This budget works because we were able to take some money from TIFA and allocate it to areas where it will help residents," said Councilwoman Sandra Cicirelli.

"We all wanted that money to go to certain projects and we compromised and all feel this a good budget." Cicirelli said the improvements to the various city buildings must be done because it is important to provide a safe and healthy environment to city workers.

In previous years, the city's general fund had accumulated a surplus of $2.3 million. The new budget draws about $400,000 from that fund.

As each of the council members gave their approval, they cited the projects they are pleased are included in the budget, as well as those they are disappointed were not incorporated into it.

"There are some issues that aren't in this budget that I would have liked to have seen," said Councilman David Cox, who, along with council President Charles "Trav" Griffin, had lobbied for $250,000 to pay for a forestry division.

"However, in total, this budget is a very responsible one."

Councilman Richard LeBlanc noted his support for such projects, including a new city Web site, an extra water meter reader, and a diversity training program for city personnel. However, he had hoped the city would purchase a trailer, which shows motorists how fast they are driving. He said the major development will be the road repairs.

"We didn't get to all the roads we wanted to, but we got all the big ones," he said.

Councilwoman Sharon Scott said determining the specifics of the budget is the major function of the council.

"These budget sessions are what this council is all about. It is what we are elected to do," she said.

"We've had a lot of fun at some of these sessions. I think we did a lot of good things."

Scott said the 7-0 vote approving the budget has definitely not been the norm in recent memory.

But Thomas said the budget, which goes into effect July 1 and ends June 30, 2001, has an irresistible quality.

"This is just a good budget. It would be very difficult to vote against it," he said.

YMCA offers camp for kids

The Wayne-Westland YMCA is offering a Summer Day Camp. Hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., with extended care offered 7-9 a.m. and 4-6 p.m.

Fees for ages 6-12 are $110 per week for members, $150 per week for program members. Fees for ages 12-14 are $120 per week for members, $150 per week for program members.

McNamara calls airport audit a 'witch hunt'

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

If there are inefficiencies at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, it's because 35 million passengers a year are trying to use a facility intended to handle 11 million passengers annually, said Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara.

That's why the county is spending $1.2 billion to build a Midfield Terminal, which will have 74 gates, a new parking structure, and a fourth parallel runway. As soon as that opens in late 2001, the county will begin renovating its existing terminal, McNamara said.

The state's contribution to expansion has been a "witch

'When he said it would be done by Labor Day, I forget asking which Labor Day he was talking about.'

hunt," McNamara said at the Detroit Regional Chamber of Commerce's Mackinac Island Leadership Conference June 2. An audit called for at last year's conference by a House Speaker Chuck Perricone, R-Kalamazoo, has yet to conclude its work, McNamara said.

"When he said it would be done by Labor Day, I forget asking which Labor Day he was talking about," McNamara said.

The chairman of the Select Committee reviewing airport operations, Rep. Koetje, R-Grandville, blames the delay on the reluctance of airport officials to turn over the necessary documents. The committee recently ordered the airport to turn those documents over more quickly. And state officials say they hope to wrap up their work this summer.

McNamara argues that the airport turned over thousands of documents and state auditors are concentrating on contacts that are 25 years old. The plans to improve the airport, however, date back 13 years and span two previous airport directors.

Current director Les Robinson went over airport plans with the Mackinac Island conferees, displaying plans for the new mile-long terminal, the new parking structure and lots with 1,300 additional spaces, and an access road to the south, allowing drivers to enter the airport from Eureka Road.

The airport concourse will have 25,000 square feet of retail space. Stores there will generate additional revenue for airport operation, he said.

A $4.50 airport user fee provided the money for the new construction, he said. That fee will also pay for renovation of the existing terminals. Renovation of the existing terminals will begin in earnest next year, McNamara said. Only sketchy plans have been laid out on that project to date.

He said he didn't believe the state audit was contributing anything to the airport's improvement. He dismissed it as "foolishness."

Police training center awarded $2 million grant for sim-city

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

It appears certain now that Oakland Community College will receive a $2 million grant for development of its Combined Regional Emergency Services Training center, as a result of an agreement among the state's legislative leadership.

Last week, leadership agreed on a "targets" to be included in a $393.26 million supplemental appropriation bill, according to Brian O'Connell, legislative aide to Sen. Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak. The agreement transfers the $2 million dollar grant for the CREST center from the Consumer and Industry Services budget to supplemental appropriations and means both House and Senate will likely vote approval before they head out for summer recess.

The agreement was reached in a meeting involving Senate Majority Leader Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron; Senate Appropriations Chair Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph; House Speaker Chuck Perricone, R-Kalamazoo; and House Appropriations Committee Chair Terry Geiger, R-Lake Odessa.

Despite the rejection of a planning grant last year by the governor, his office has not said it will reject the grant this time around. An agreement among the leadership increased its chances, O'Connell said.

The money will go to the $7 million, 22-acre "simulated city" already under construction at the college, to be used to train police and fire workers. Emergency personnel will be able to use the facility to train and practice their responses to the emergencies, from hostage situations to toxic chemical spills to gas leaks. The center is often compared to FBI Academy at Quantico, Virginia. Oakland County taxpayers approved money for the center in a millage vote in 1995 but the college has been hoping to get up to $4 million in assistance from the state before completing construction.

Approval of the grant means OCC officials will likely see the check sometime in October.

Field Days combine fitness and fun for young

SPECIAL WRITER

The rain didn't dampen Daniel McCahill's enthusiasm about playing vortex football during Field Day Monday.

"It's one of my favorite sports, because I was really good at it," he added.

As the drizzle continued, the morning of physical activities outside went on as planned during one of the most anticipated activities in the school year at elementary schools across the Wayne-Westland district.

A fourth-grade student at Madison Elementary, Daniel said he also learned not to "call names and to be a good sport."

Limbo lover Jessica Randolph,

10, said she left the events knowing how important it is to try your best.

Most of the kids didn't seem to notice the constant rain during the morning session of the day-long event. And if Daniel and Jessica are representative of all the students at Madison, then physical education teacher Nancy Pew has gotten her message across.

"I want every child to leave a winner that day," Pew said.

Explaining that some of her friends remember failures during their own school field days, Pew added: "My goal is to create a lasting, positive memory for each child here."

Rain forced a postponement of Field Day from last Monday to next Monday at David Hicks Elementary School in Inkster.

Anticipation of the end of the year games and fun was growing at Hicks, explained physical education teacher Mel Long. The planned activities include a sack race, softball throw, long jump, a water relay to see which team fills a bucket first, limbo, 50-yard dash, a hula hoop relay and a golf ball on a spoon relay.

"It's about sportsmanship," Long said. "We usually don't even keep score."

Pew and Long avoid bad feelings by not awarding first-, second- and third-place winners in the events. In fact, all Madison and Hicks students will receive a ribbon at the end of the day for participating and trying their best.

The 16 stations at Madison stress self-improvement and working as a team. The parachute toss, for instance, requires groups of kids to use a parachute and figure out how to make the Nerf balls pop off. Other events, like the traditional 50-yard dash and hula hoops, allow kids to try to beat their own scores.

"By providing a variety of activities, by the end of field day, they've exercised every muscle from head to toe and that they don't realize it because they have so much fun," Pew said. "I focus on sportsmanship and to learn to be able to congratulate the classmates that do well. They learn to be a good winner and a good loser."

"I think it's one of the best-kept secrets in our school district," said Pew, who puts in about 50 hours of planning and preparation with the help of her husband, Glenn, who takes the day off work to make sure everything runs smoothly. Pew also plans a Field Day at Jefferson-Barns Elementary School in Westland.

Field Day also promotes physical fitness.

"I think the kids need physical activity more in the sense that there's just things in society that prevent kids from opportunities to play like they used to," Pew said. "I remember as a kid I could ride my bike to the park by myself and play and now parents have safety issues to deal with. Kids don't have the freedom and that might be part of it."

Whew! Jennifer Galunas, a third-grader at Madison, blows at the cup in the cup blowing relay race.

I can do it: Fourth-grader Joye Clenney balances a ball in the plunger relay race at the Madison Elementary School Field Day Monday morning. Hicks Elementary will hold Field Day next Monday.

Challenge: Madison Elementary kindergartner Sherry Smith tries to carry the inflated tube in a relay race at Field Day Monday morning.

Television and computers also promote a lot of sedentary activities that compete with exercise and play.

Long agreed: "Children nowadays are pretty out of shape and we try to get them in shape the best we can."

Racing: Stephen Guinn, a third-grader at Madison Elementary, pushes the inflated tube in a relay race.

Buckeye fund-raiser reaches out for Schoolcraft donors

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER

rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

Schoolcraft has picked a Buckeye nurtured in Michigan soil in the hope he will help the state's ninth-largest community college grow its financial base.

David Barcus, who grew up in Marion, Ohio, near Columbus, but who is a 1967 graduate of the former Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills, has become the Livonia-based Schoolcraft's first professional fund-raiser.

With the college's continued growth - among other things, it recently announced a $20-million state-of-the-art expansion of its Waterman Campus Center - Barcus is expected to move the college from an event-based fund-raising format focusing mainly on scholarships to one with a broader base as the 8,000-student college seeks to meet the needs of its student and business clientele.

"Our aim is to establish a larger base of donors, a more diverse base of donors" and to create "a planned-giving approach," said Norene Thomas, Schoolcraft's director of marketing and development (fund-raising), in discussing the addition of Barcus to her staff.

"That's where he's got the expertise," she said, adding the administration believes "he's the one to take us to the next level of giving."

"We hope (Barcus) will move us" to a position where "people think of us in their wills and estates, or think of us for contributions routinely," said Thomas.

Fund-raiser: David Barcus is hoping to broaden Schoolcraft's fund-raising efforts to attract new contributors.

The 50-year-old Barcus, who came to Schoolcraft earlier this year from the St. John Health System Foundation in Macomb County, estimates he has raised about $40 million for institutions in Indiana, Oregon and Michigan.

A Nebraska native who planned to become a teacher, Barcus majored in English literature and philosophy at Northwestern University and later added a master's in American studies from Bowling Green University.

But he got into arts administration instead when, after college, he took an 18-month job writing grants to help Fort Wayne, Ind., celebrate the bicentennial.

'The best job'

"It was the best job I ever had," said Barcus. "It gave me a taste of fund-raising" and also a broad introduction to cultural arts.

But "I really got into fund-raising," he said, when he became assistant director of the Fort Wayne Fine Arts Foundation, helping raise $4 million between 1978-81 to develop the Fort Wayne Museum.

Until 1985, Barcus worked for the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry, returning to his prep alma mater, Cranbrook, to start a $7-million capital campaign for its Institute of Science.

From there, Barcus became executive director of Bon Secours Hospital Foundation in Griggs Pointe, raising $18 million before the hospital merged with Cottage Hospital and he joined St. John, creating a major capital campaign for a cancer center there.

Schoolcraft's new executive director of development said he is considering a $20-million capital campaign.

"Education is more important than ever and community colleges are in a position where they deserve more support," Barcus said.

"They are the key to the work force," he said. "We need more and more leaders and more people to do the skilled jobs."

He said the college is "looking to get out of only raising scholarships. We're looking at what we might do if we had our entire wish-list fulfilled."

More involvement

His aim is to "get people involved more," Barcus said: "We're trying to create givers, to let people know why they should give."

"If we do that well, people will want to give. And if more people understand why that's important, we all benefit," he said.

Volunteers are the key, he said: "The people who best raise money are volunteers."

Schoolcraft is blessed with "a very good foundation board," Barcus said, and also is a place that teachers, administrators and students "have very warm feelings for."

"This is a great place to work," he stated. "It is extremely well managed. (Its) reputation in the community is solid."

"Schoolcraft is a part of the identity of the area. It helps define what this area is and why it's a great place to live," he said.

Barcus, the father of two teenagers, is an "avid" tennis player who golfs "when I have the time."

"I love to read, love to walk," he added.

But "I have never cooked," he said during a recent interview, acknowledging Schoolcraft's fine culinary arts program.

"Will I ever be a gourmet chef?

Probably not," he said, but he figures he eventually should be able to put a good meal together.

At the time, he was looking forward to accompanying the school's student chefs to Chicago for a major cooking competition.

But not to try his hand at cooking. There'll be some Schoolcraft alumni there, he said, and "I'll do a little fund-raising."

Schoolcraft adapts to changing needs

STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

To paraphrase a popular recent slogan: It's not your father's old Schoolcraft anymore.

What began 35 years ago as an intermediate institution of higher learning for high school graduates has blossomed into a many-faceted community college that educates and trains teenagers and also their parents and grandparents and even the owners and managers of the businesses and industries where they work.

"Our mission has expanded," stated Richard McDowell, who's been president of Schoolcraft for more than half its existence.

The school, ninth largest of Michigan's 28 two-year schools, finds itself continually "responding to specific needs" of the public it serves, he said, and "We're excited about what's happening."

Today, he said, the Livonia-based college is:

■ Both a traditional and a non-traditional institution that offers formal, in-the-classroom education and the new "wall-less" computer Internet version wherein students choose when and where they will study;

■ A continuing education center that provides a wide range of classes on everything from hobbies and exercise to child-care and computer training - including the latest software, Microsoft 2000; and

■ A center that helps business and industry by training and cross-training supervisors, teaching quality-control, helping firms determine what their customers want and even how to become automotive and government suppliers and exporters.

McDowell said Schoolcraft's Business Development Center and its director, Bruce Sweet, have helped local companies do over $960 million in business with the federal government alone by teaching them how to access that market.

It also helped a Farmington Hills business win a $32-million contract to supply computers to the U.S. House of Representatives, McDowell said.

The pervasiveness of television, VCRs, radio and computers as transmitters of information means that "We're past the place where the teacher can be the primary source" of that information, McDowell noted.

Today, the Schoolcraft faculty's role is to help students relate to what they learn about things like Bosnia or the Federal Reserve raising interest rates.

"We are helping students learn how to learn, to be informed and to form opinions and, hopefully, make their own decisions" about things, McDowell said.

"The role of Schoolcraft is to deal with the situations and help people learn throughout life, because the need is there," he said.

Program aimed at helping kids get 'ready to succeed'

Couples who bring home a new baby are likely to hear a knock at the door shortly afterward from a new school district official known as a "home visitor."

The visitor's job will be to inform parents about the latest research that shows early experiences affect how the brain "wires" itself in the first few years of development and to make sure they know about all the resources that are available to them to help them be good parents.

Strictly voluntary, the Ready to Succeed program will encourage new parents to talk to their babies, interact, read and play simple games with them.

According to state Rep. Patricia Godchaux, R-Birmingham, it doesn't involve anything good parents don't already do. Unfortunately, some parents apparently believe it is unnecessary to talk to their youngsters out of the mistaken impression that it has no effect because the children can't understand the words.

That's not so, according to Joan Lessen-Firestone, an early childhood education consultant for the Oakland Intermediate School District.

Recent research has shown a lack of stimulation in the first years of life can lead to a measurable difference in the structure of a child's brain, a thinner cortex. Negative stimulation, the kind that comes with abuse, can also produce enough stress to change the structure of the brain, she said, leading to increased aggressiveness or quicker use of the "fight or flight" response.

The home visitation program will be run by local school districts, according to Godchaux. The state has already put $45 million in its K-12 school aid budget to pay for grants to local districts to run the program. Matching funds will be necessary from the community, which may come from the school district, community organizations or local businesses. How much must be contributed by the community is not specified and may vary.

The grant program was fea-

Plymouth resident Yoko Morie, a post degree student in psychology; Redford resident Jennifer Comben, a senior in dietetics; Romeo resident William Braun, a May 2000 graduate in criminal justice; Southfield resident Ann Crumley, a senior in social work; Southgate resident Richard Sands, a junior in the legal assistant program with a minor in criminal justice; and West Bloomfield residents Linda Lowther, senior, sociology and Kathleen Quinn Balch, a post degree student in English and elementary education.

tured in a session at the Detroit Regional Chamber of Commerce's Leadership Conference on Mackinac Island.

School districts locally already have such programs in place, according to Lessen-Firestone. The Waterford and Birmingham school districts are among them. Similar programs, known as a "Success by Six," are also in "Success by Six," are also in operation in other states, including Vermont and Kansas.

Godchaux said she sees every parent in the state will receive a visitation within the first couple weeks after bringing a new baby home. "At risk" parents won't be specifically targeted to encourage participation.

"If we say it's only for at-risk families, those who need it most won't do it. No one likes to be called at-risk," she said. "It's not a matter of people being bad parents, they're just torn by the demands of daily life."

If parents are unwilling to participate, home visitors will not return because it is not mandatory, Godchaux said. Still, she hopes everyone will take part in the program.

The seed money was put in the budget as a follow up to a Ready-to-Learn Children's Summit held in the state several years ago, she said, and 19 local forums held around the state by a "Children's Caucus" of state legislators, including Godchaux, Hubert Price, D-Pontiac, Lynne Martinez, D-Lansing, and Edward LaForge, D-Kalamazoo.

Lessen-Firestone predicted that school districts will soon be operating beyond their traditional K-12 programs, and begin concentrating as well on early childhood development, even prenatal care.

Research has shown that a child's brain matures significantly within the first year of life. Born with some 50 billion synapses in the brain, a baby's brain increases the number to 1,000 trillion synapses by the end of the first year. A 20-year-old by comparison has only 500 trillion synapses in the brain, showing the number is later pared down.

Because the brain is actually wiring itself in that time, the stimulation given a child has a direct effect on the brain's structure for life, Lessen-Firestone explained.

Critics call deregulation bill a windfall for utilities

HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

Gov. John Engler signed into law a bill deregulating electric utilities and giving consumers a 5 percent rate cut on Mackinac Island June 5 during the Detroit Regional Chamber's Leadership Policy Conference. It was the end result of a goal he set for the Legislature just weeks earlier.

But the issue is far from settled. Critics say the bill could produce a windfall for utilities. Environmentalists have raised concerns.

And local governments are expected to sue over the bill.

"Michigan will go from being a laggard in electric deregulation to being a leader," Engler said in the ceremonial signing of Senate Bill 937 before the Mackinac conferees. Sponsored by Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R Lake Orion, the bill is intended to open elec-

Included in the legislation is a 5 percent rate cut, a three-year freeze and a two-year cap on electric utility rates. Also included are provisions allowing competing companies to sell electricity over the lines of current service providers tric utilities to competition. Included in the legislation is a 5 percent rate cut, a three-year freeze and a two-year cap on electric utility rates. Also included are provisions allowing competing companies to sell electricity over the lines of current service providers. New power generation companies will be able to begin building plants and marketing electricity over current Detroit Edison and Consumers Energy lines.

The restructuring is intended to bring down costs for consumers.

Choice emphasized

According to Dunaskiss, the bill includes two key elements, protecting customers and providing them with an element of choice. It will also encourage development in new power plants. If customers do not want to shop for a new power supply company, according to Dunaskiss aide Joelle Demand, their service and billing will continue as it presently is.

"We're giving consumers the power to choose the electric company they feel will best serve their needs. This legislation will fuel competition between suppliers in this state, lowering the cost of electricity. This bill is also needed if our electric companies are to move forward with investing in new electric generating facilities which are essential to meet the growing demand for electricity in this state," Dunaskiss said. Without the construction of new generating facilities brownouts may occur in the near future, he said.

But critics including ABATE and the Small Business Association of Michigan feel the plan could hold an increase in costs for consumers. Of concern is the Legislature's agreement to let utilities collect for "stranded costs." Under the plan, utilities could refinance debt already incurred for the construction of new power plants and apply the repayment costs to consumers' bills whether they switch to a new supplier and not.

Not competitive

"The bill is a windfall for the monopoly utilities," said Barry Cargill, vice president of government relations for SBAM. "This is not deregulation, it's re-regulation. It won't establish a competitive market for electricity for many years."

"Securitization (of stranded costs) hurts competition in two ways. First, all customers have to pay this fee, while Detroit Edison and Consumers Energy get out from under a major obligation they currently have. That means they no longer have any debt for their expensive plants, and would have to charge only property costs while the new company seeking to build a plant and compete would have to pay construction debt and operating fees. That's unfair," according to David Waymire of ABATE.

Waymire said the bill is a "massive bailout of the utilities that would absolve them completely and forever of any risk

Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion

involved in paying off the Fermi 2 nuclear plant (Detroit Edison) and the Midland Cogeneration Venture contract, an expensive remnant of Consumer Energy's failed Midland nuclear plant. The securitization legislation would force the (Public Service) Commission to allow utilities to issue an expected $8 billion in bonds backed by a new fee — a secure a tax — on Michigan utility bills for next 15 years."

Amendments suggested

Lana Pollack, of the Michigan Environmental Council, said lawmakers should have adopted at least three amendments to the bill. She advocated new controls on mercury emissions from the oldest coal burning plants. She also urged installation of modern technology to reduce air pollution, and she asked for requirements for increased energy efficiency cut pollution.

"Consumers Energy and Detroit Edison pump our air and water full of mercury and other toxins, and we should hold them accountable," Pollack said.

Still, the biggest challenge is likely to come from the Michigan Municipal League.

"Our one continuing concern with the electric industry restructuring legislative package is that the language must not include any provisions that circumvent or place limitations upon current local authority over public right-of-way issues — including franchise negotiations options with any public utility," said Dan Gilmartin, director of state and federal affairs for the

MML. At issue are the fees paid by utilities to local township and city governments to string lines across their rights-of-way. Municipalities believe they should be able to collect franchise fees from any new competing electrical generation firms. But Dunaskiss disagrees, Demand said, because no new wires would have to be strung on those right of ways.

"This is just new electrons running down on the same wires," Demand said.

Under the legislation, as approved, such new franchise fees won't have to be paid by school districts if districts "aggregate," or join together to buy electricity from an alternative supplier. One group, the East Lansing-based Middle Cities Education Association, is ready to negotiate on the behalf of 400 schools across the state to buy cheaper electricity from a competitive supplier, Demand said.

But only school districts would get that benefit currently. Businesses and residential customers won't be able to avoid those local franchise fees when they band together for electric services.

She expects the Michigan Municipal League will sue over the provision to block municipalities from collecting franchise fees for school groups that buy electricity from alternative suppliers. But lawmakers are hoping to amend the act later to also allow residents and businesses to "aggregate" to shop for cheaper electric services, she said.

Museum sponsors writing contest

As part of the educational component of the 18th Annual African World Festival, the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History and The Blue Nile restaurant are inviting high school students to enter a writing contest. Both organizations want to encourage interest in African-based culture, scholarship and writing.

The theme for the contest is the same as that of the festival: "The Soul That Binds Us: A Celebration of Our Similarities." Entries can be essays, poems/lyrics or short stories and should examine the cultural connections, comparisons and/or similarities between African Americans and at least one other society in Africa of the African Diaspora. Participants are challenged to think creatively. The contest is open to all students in grades 9-12 who attend school in Wayne, Oakland or Macomb counties.

All entries will be judged for content, originality and style and should be at least 100 to 500 words in length. The deadline for postmarked entries is June 25, 2000. A panel of judges will be selected by the staff of the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History. The top five entries will each be awarded a $1000 cash prize, courtesy of The Blue Nile restaurant.

Any students interested in participating in the contest can obtain an official entry form from the principal's office at his/her high school. Students can also pick up an entry form at the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History, 315 E. Warren Ave., Detroit, or The Blue Nile restaurant, 508 Monroe, Detroit.

For additional information about the contest, contact Matt Lee at Drumbeaters, (248) 584-3715, or Patricia Carrolle Jaynes for the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History, (313) 494-5853.

Ameritech matches employee contributions to Schoolcraft

STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oc.homecomm.net

Schoolcraft College's student scholarship fund recently got an $11,800 boost from the Ameritech Corp.

The telecommunications firm matched contributions by its employees and retirees to five existing Ameritech endowments which are under the auspices of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

The corporation's gift-match came during the Schoolcraft Foundation's 1999 year-end annual giving campaign. Scholarships are granted through the foundation.

A check was presented to Schoolcraft President Richard W. McDowell on May 22 in a ceremony attended by both college and Ameritech officials and state Rep. Laura Toy, R-Livonia.

Toy said the gift "shows what retirees and staff can do working together for the benefit of a great community college."

Diane Webb, Ameritech director of external affairs for northwest Wayne County, praised the Livonia-based college's efforts, particularly those in technical education.

While Ameritech "is proud to support education in local communities," Webb said, "We really have an interest in a college that, through its own efforts, is advancing education in the technical area. Schoolcraft is making great strides in technology."

"We also want to reward and encourage our employee donations," she added.

Earlier this year, Schoolcraft announced a $320-million Business and Industry Training Center, including new facilities for its nationally known culinary arts department.

The expanded Waterman Center facility will feature classrooms for state-of-the-art computer technology training and large meeting rooms. The expansion is to be completed by 2003.

McDowell pointed out Schoolcraft already has more on-campus computers than any other community college in Michigan, and that all the units are replaced with more advanced equipment on a regular basis.

Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile Roads, Livonia.

Go forth

We wish graduates the best

For high school graduates, these are the good old days.

Commencement was held last Saturday for John Glenn and Wayne Memorial high schools, at other times for the local Lutheran high schools and adult education graduates.

Regardless of the time of commencement, all the grads share a justifiable pride in hard work and accomplishment. Earning that diploma wasn't easy, but each stuck to it and got the job done.

Those are qualities that will serve the current crop of graduates well in higher education or the workplace. Such basics as showing up on time and doing the job as required will stand the Class of 2000 in good stead.

Elsewhere in this newspaper, you'll find coverage of the graduations of John Glenn and Wayne Memorial. The Lutheran graduations have already run, the adult ed ceremony is slotted for next week.

The Observer likes to make a big deal about high school graduation, running photos of proud grads in their caps and gowns. Not in the photos as often but still meriting praise are those parents and teachers who encouraged and prodded the graduates to this proud day.

For the teen grads, having their name in the paper as a member of the Class of 2000 might not seem such a big deal. It's heartening to know, however, that as decades pass, those grads will be able to look back at the newspaper and remember this special time.

For the adult ed graduates, there's that special pride that comes with having reached this milestone later in life. Some have combined family and work responsibilities with their studies, and have learned to juggle those roles to get the job done.

We remind all of the graduates to refrain from drinking and driving to make these days happy ones for all. We applaud the graduates for their endeavors - and wish them a bright, happy and productive future.

Candidates should be mature

Ah, yes, someone should write a song. It'd go something like this: "... election time and the rhetoric is sleazy ..." or something like that, with sincere apologies to Mr. Gershwin.

Summer is upon us and so is the political season. Sometimes that season gets silly.

Filing deadline has come and gone. Soon the signs will be all around, spouting from manicured front lawns and weed-choked vacant lots and overflowing residents' mailboxes.

Voters will have some tough choices to make when they go to the polls in the Aug. 8 primary and the Nov. 7 general election. And make no mistake, these are important elections. Decisions made in August and November will go a long way toward determining what the future will be like.

Unfortunately, it's more than just lawn signs and political mailings and announcements of meet-the-candidate nights in school cafeterias that tell us an election is in the offing. The bad attitudes of some of the candidates are (or soon will be) a dead giveaway.

We'd like to believe that this will be the election where all the hopefuls and their sidekicks behave like ladies and gentlemen and stop picking on each other and actually discuss some of the important issues with alacrity so that the voters may make intelligent choices.

Do we hear some, possibly a candidate snickering in the background? Well, we can dream, can't we?

Now, we think we know many of the people running for the local, county state offices - and we're sure going to get to know them a whole lot better as campaigns progress. The ballots will be stocked with a lot of decent people, we think, and the communities will be well-served should any of them be elected.

But, hey, let's be honest about it: A lot of adults become children during election campaigns. We've seen it in past elections. Will we see it in this one? Well, what is your guess?

For one thing, certain candidates (you know who you are) are too sensitive about what is (or isn't) included about them in the local newspaper. These types don't seem to realize that it's the voters they have to win over, not the reporters and editors of a newspaper.

Candidates who complain about newspaper content and coverage, while forgetting the voters, are usually the ones who get the "unsuccessful candidate" designation in subsequent stories.

Candidates should remember that newspapers cover political campaigns. The papers don't run them. You'd think people would understand something so basic to the science of politics. Yes, you'd think.

This newspaper will not accept letters that introduce new attacks on a candidate a week before an election. This newspaper will not publish libelous letters. Nor will it run every form letter sent out by a special interest group.

To sum up, candidates who expect to be taken seriously by the voters and the press should show a commitment to the voters and the community, not to their egos.

So, candidates, please grow up and stay grown during the campaigns. Stick to the issues and forget about:

- Starting whispering campaigns about each other.
- Yanking each others' signs out of lawns
- Pitting one supporter against another in divide-and-conquer schemes.
- All the other childish things we've seen local pols do over the years.

Gibbons supporter

Even though Patricia (Gibbons) has been treated so harshly, she still maintains a love for the city and a desire to serve the people of the 18th District. She was quoted as saying the 18th District "is about good, decent people who work hard, want the very best for their families and would do anything to help a friend or neighbor."

Patricia understands the people of the 18th and what we desire from our elected officials; we want officials who will listen to us. Patricia did what was right for the people of Westland and was ultimately dismissed for it. I want to see that same dedication to the people taken to Lansing.

Patricia has worked hard for the city of Westland for over 20 years. And she wants to continue her service by becoming our next state representative. I for one think she will do a great job as our next state representative.

Vote Monday

On Monday, June 12, there will be school board elections throughout the city (district). While we realize that past elections have had low voter turnout, and the paper is indeed, along with (Superintendent Greg) Baracy, predicting another very low turnout, we hope, and yes encourage every citizen within this community to vote.

Please be aware of whom you are empowering with the betterment of your children's future. Originally, my wife and I were supporting Marshall Wright and Cynthia Schofield. While still supporting Mr. Wright, we will no longer vote for Mrs. Schofield upon learning she works for Kathy Makino and company.

Mr. Eisiminger has every intention of using the school board as a stepping stone for the city council where he can join his buddy David James, and in fact the other three currently under threat of recall. A vote for school board is actually a vote for council. He has no intention of staying, believing he will replace Mrs. Scott a year into his term.

We will have petitions outside many of the precincts, having been given permission by the state to do so. Please come down and vote, and sign petitions! Be aware of what is going on in your city. They want low voter turnout; they expect it. Show them differently. Low voter turnout means victory for the status quo.

Status quo means business as usual.

Vote for Naser

In the June 12, 2000, Livonia school election, we have a chance to add a fresh, energetic new voice to the Board of Education.

Larry Naser has a long record of community service on behalf of children and families. Not only has Larry been active in support of his own children's schools, but also throughout our community and in the state of Michigan as a volunteer member of the foster care review boards that oversee the state's handling of abused and neglected children.

Larry Naser deserves one of your two votes for Livonia school board. As a former board member myself, I am confident he will bring a wealth of helpful experience and good judgment to the board.

Whitehead excellent choice

Though I retired three years ago after serving on the Livonia Board of Education for 11 years, I remain a staunch advocate of education for the children of our community. We are fortunate to have an excellent candidate for the school board who well deserves the support of all the voters in the school district.

Kevin Whitehead would be an outstanding addition to the school board. He has been a

City thoughts

I have three points that have to be addressed, the first is Sharon Scott ... you remember before May 15 she said she didn't want to run for state rep. "Yeah, sure," then filed to run on May 16.

In April at a council meeting, I asked Sharon if she had announced yet that she was running, since I knew last year she would ... (and) so did David Cox, he said so Feb. 23.

I told her the power brokers spent too much money for her not to run, but with a recall effort ongoing they had to do damage control to try and give a shiny glow to Sharon.

To that end with help from a few UAW officials, they have tried to circumvent the rank and file and quite a few of the CAP members to give an endorsement to Sharon ... but as sure as the rain falls from the sky to the ground Sharon's endorsement may fall also.

My next point is Charlie Griffin, who has said citizens' comments of two minutes with a one-minute grace have always been that way since he's been there. That troubled me, so I went back to the tapes of the council meetings in 1982 ... that was before TV coverage when the city taped the meetings, but seemed to break down at key points. So I brought my tape recorder with me so as to have a true record of the meetings.

And guess what (as I knew), when you sat there and didn't want certain people to speak you would call on a few of your friends to speak in the first half hour for five minutes, eight minutes and sometimes 12 and 15 minutes so as to use up the time in the first half hour. "What's the matter, Charlie?" did you forget, memory lapse, or was it that other word?

I won't try to get into your mind, Charlie, that's a trip I wouldn't wish on anyone.

My last but not least point is David Cox, who at the May 1 council meeting read a letter he said he sent to Frank Bernacki ... God bless little Davey's blunder mouth ... he helps so much.

Little Davey said this letter was a serious response to the events election night to the best of his ability and was sent Feb. 7.

Little Davey said the vote counts were reported in a confusing way but as he recalled it, Pat Gibbons told David (Don Ho) James that he would have to go through this again in two years in a laughing and taunting manner, but in fact it was he who had the two-year seat and Don Ho a four-year seat.

That's what little Davey said in his letter to Mr. Bernacki and I'll stop right there because he said his honesty and integrity were in question. "OK, here we go" ... it was hectic on election night, when the votes were counted at each precinct one person from each camp would take the vote count back to their election rally while the voting official would take the vote tally to Pat Gibbons.

With the vote count from the precincts, "Don Ho" James had the two-year seat but Charlie Griffin and you, little Davey, lost the election. But after Pat Gibbons tallied the precinct votes along with the absentee votes and brought them to each rally, "Don Ho" James and Charlie had four-year terms and you, little Davey, had the two-year seat.

Davey, did you party too hard, bump your head, have a flight of fantasy? Or do you, as the Indians say, speak with forked tongue?

As a result of the letter you sent to Mr. Bernacki, I am sending him a letter to inform him of the "dare I say it" lie and as the saying goes garbage in garbage out and urge him to revisit his investigation of this matter.

I tell people I talk to that Westland is a good city, it's just some of the elected officials that are out of touch with the people.

They say property values are up ... "THEY HAVE TO BE" to come up with the taxes to pay for those pension plans they have, for the sale of property for development to certain people, then forgive their tax debt and "OH, BROTHER" the incinerator that we are paying over three times what we should, and they know who they are ... and so do we.

So trying to distract the public won't work and I hope you're that smart, but I'm not sure. By the way, I'm not a negative voice, nor am I a vindictive person, rather I talk about what they say and do!

James R. Davis

Let's dance

What I, The Fab Four Lady, would like to discuss is why I have stopped attending most social functions in Westland - starting with why I will no longer attend any of the parades ... something to which I have always looked forward.

The recent Memorial Day Parade exemplifies my feelings. To me, this event is to commemorate the dead, especially the veterans. Yet, what do I hear on WLND? How the parade is being put together for "the kids, the parents," and even "the siblings."

What is all of this "family-value" crap? As if someone must get married, and hope they are fertile enough to have kids - in order to be welcomed at social events! Just another way to divide the community. Eliminate the people with no families.

And, if you really want to get someone's dander up, ask where Jesus was in the Christmas parade!

Moving along, the upcoming fireworks display, billed to be the best, I believe ... in the county? I don't think letting half a minute pass between each and every round of fireworks is very spectacular! Especially when viewed from a pot-smoke-filled baseball field, full of mud, yet void of music, while falling embers set fire to the nearby trees! Not to mention all of the electrical wires covering the ground, over which one must be careful not to trip.

I'll rate as "No. 1" the fireworks display in Detroit, with its music and dance and rapid rockets exploding into an extravaganza of light and color - all being fired simultaneously from three separate barges reflected upon the waters of two separate countries, while the national anthems of both play on. One can almost hear and see Francis Scott Key - composing ... "And, the rockets' red glare ... the bombs bursting in air!"

One feels a sense of pride as one begins to sing, "... gave proof through the night, that our flag was still there!" The heat from the sky lends credence to the fact that this event is "first rate!"

And, the finale is the best that I have ever seen in my entire life ... even in California, previously the best that I personally ever experienced before Detroit's display. Yet, I'm sure that there are even greater displays than Detroit's, still waiting to be discovered.

By the way, why is there no speech as to what the Fourth of July is all about? Let alone a re-enactment! It's not just about fireworks!

Moving along, I would like to ask - where are all of the police when some people are still setting off private fireworks displays for the entire summer, even in the neighborhood of City Hall, driving crazy all the pets and small children?

Oh, yes, I also wanted to ask about these carnival settings. Who is it who thinks that eating from dirty, uncovered, broken-down picnic tables, sitting in dirt, is fun? ...

Next, the so-called concerts behind City Hall every summer. One season, we tried to be active at that event, as well. Everyone sits around in stupid folding chairs, not even tapping a toe or finger. Like a bunch of wallflower zombies. This is not natural behavior - to not respond to music. This behavior has been taught to people.

Anyway, I asked a council member if it was OK to dance. She turned to another person, while they practically had a council meeting to ponder that question. I couldn't believe that even the council members weren't encouraging people to get "out there" and show some community spirit - and dance! They would all freak out at a California concert, where thousands of people - of all ages - are encouraged to be "young at heart" and dance till they drop! And, I am not talking about some acid-rock or heavy-metal concert. Music without dance is so bizarre!

After we were given the "approval to dance," we started having fun. We thought that, perhaps, others were just waiting for someone to start the dancing. So, as good citizens, we started doing the cha-cha, swing and other dance steps. Later, as we were leaving on our bicycles, people began pointing, whispering, then laughing at us. The lazy, vegetating wallflowers had the nerve to laugh at us, the ones who exercise, stay in shape, and try to have fun.

Westland has a really bad attitude regarding exercise and dancing at social events. Unless it's a waltz, per-haps.

But, just mention food! Then, the whole herd rushes in.

Mo-o-o-o-o! Get it together, Westland! You should be ashamed of yourselves!

The Fab Four Lady will go where people like to dance and exercise ... Everyone needs to remember President Kennedy's "Physical Fitness" programs. Trade in those stupid folding chairs for bicycles and dancing shoes!

President Kennedy would be ashamed of today's Americans - their smoking, drinking, overeating and total disregard for exercise and health. And I felt bad because I had never done one of his famous "90-mile hikes"! Though I have run or bicycled for many miles - as Westland people shout for me to "get off of the road!" But, what else can you expect from a city who permanently removes sidewalks, has no subway, streetcars, light rail or monorail systems, beautiful bus system, has no incentive programs for car-pooling, discourages electric cars, does not believe in bicycle lanes, and believes that only children and poor people ride bikes or use any of the aforementioned systems?

In conclusion, I will go outside of Westland for fun, because Westland doesn't know what real fun is! I would never bring children into this stagnating, prejudicial, repressed, archaic environment - where those who care about their health are laughed at!

I need a breath of fresh air!

The Fab Four Lady, Angela Frances Todd

Beauty blooms amid concrete

There we were - my family and me - driving along on I-96, passing mile after mile of gray, concrete, characterless expressway punctuated occasionally by equally unremarkable bridges. Despite our best efforts, boredom was setting in, especially as we realized we had many, many miles to go.

Suddenly at the Portland exit, a blaze of color! Red poppies, white daisies, what looked like blue wild flax and something dark magenta that I couldn't identify. The small light blue sign featuring a yellow flower read, "Wildflower Planting."

What a pleasure it was to see that small, unexpected surge of color on the side of the road! Suddenly we all came awake, talking excitedly about how lovely the flowers were, what a surprise it was to see them, how the plantings came about.

So I made a few calls. It turns out the wildflower plantings are just a small part of a much bigger program called (with bureaucratic inevitability) the Michigan Transportation Enhancement Program. Funded mostly by the feds but requiring a local match, the Enhancement Program includes a range of projects from building bike trails to preserving historical transportation facilities, preventing ground water runoff and landscaping and streetscaping.

The Michigan Department of Transportation has been looking around for local partners to help invest this year's $20 million allocation from the federal government. "These are not your typical road resurfacing or bridge replacement projects that receive the lion's share of our federal and state transportation dollars," says State Transportation Director James DeSana. "The beauty of this federal program is that it encourages communities to decide for themselves how to invest these earmarked funds to further enhance the appearance, safety and economic benefit of their local transportation systems."

A lot of activity has been funded by this program:

■ Trees, shrubs, grass and flowers are being planted along Orchard Lake Road from I-696 to 10 Mile Road in Farmington Hills

■ Accounting the new "Welcome to Redford" signs in Redford Township, boulder retaining walls are being built and shrubs and flowers are being planted at the Joy and Puritan intersections with Telegraph Road

■ In Howell, a new walkway along Grand River Avenue from the Ann Arbor Railroad overpass to Elm Street will receive trees, shrubs, grass and flowers.

■ Statewide, the popular handbooks, "Wildflowers of Michigan" and "Michigan's Roadside

PHILIP POWER

Trees" are being updated and reprinted.

Oddly, just planting wildflowers is not terribly expensive. Obviously, you can't just throw the seeds around and expect much to happen. You've got to kill off the grasses, till the soil and sow the kinds of seeds that match soil conditions. Still, a current wildflower project on M-32 near Gaylord is budgeted at $2,500 to plant 12 varieties of native flowers and four kinds of grasses on 15 acres.

There are problems, of course. Some species don't make it, while others need periodic maintenance, which Michigan does not currently fund. Sometimes self-sh people pick the flowers or even dig up the plants, jeopardizing the whole idea. MDOT even has had to put out a press release reminding people not to pick the daisies, because doing so is both illegal and unsafe.

But the whole program seems to me imaginative and valuable to a state whose road system needs all the help it can get. The Transportation Department is looking to partner with local communities for projects ranging from wildflower plantings alone all the way to streetscaping with trees and shrubs.

MDOT will be issuing in September a call for project applications to be funded in the 2001 fiscal year. People interested in looking into the program can contact the state at www.mdot.state.mi.us/programs/enhancement/plan.htm.

At 18 acres, the planting was originally noticed on I-96 near Portland was completed in 1996 and is one of the largest ever attempted by the MDOT. However, with a total of 1,200 acres of roadside in Michigan and only 200 acres of wildflower plantings so far, there's a long way to go.

Words cannot define experience shadowing doctors

Words fail even the most prolific writers at times. Nouns and verbs refuse to connect, phrases fall short of added meaning, and adjectives seem anemic at best.

When friends asked me about my recent experience shadowing doctors for two and a half days at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor as a participant in the hospital's Community Associates Program, I struggled for an answer. I never found just the right words.

After all, what do you say when you've witnessed open heart surgery while standing side-by-side with the anesthesiologist? How do you describe the sight of a beating human heart? And what do you say about the surgeon who so patiently and willingly instructed you through the three-hour-plus operation?

"It was awesome," I finally said. A simple declarative sentence, so ordinary, so flat-sounding. Some experiences are beyond the reach of words. Maybe it's better that way. Maybe some experiences are so profound they shed their vibrancy in the telling ... and retelling.

"It was awesome," I repeated for days afterwards.

Twice a year, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital invites six members of surrounding communities to participate in the Community Associates Program, whose purpose is to create a first-hand awareness of the world of healthcare.

And what a world it is. I spent the first evening in the emergency room with Dr. James Mattimore, who introduced me to the patients as an "observer." My borrowed white lab coat helped; no one questioned my presence. We saw people with heart problems, wrenched necks, possible strokes, abdominal pain and seizures.

After each visit, we'd discuss his findings. When test results came back, he'd explain their place in the diagnostic puzzle. He kept hoping I'd be able to witness something dramatic — like an intubation of someone with fast-swelling breathing passages — so I could see what the emergency room did best: save lives.

For me, the drama was in just being there. Besides, the slower pace allowed Dr. Mattimore to tell me about Better Together Mobile Health Services, which he started a few years ago. Made up of volunteer physicians from St. Joseph, the program brings medical services to the indigent at homeless shelters throughout Washtenaw County.

If you haven't bathed in a week, you're not likely to seek care at a sparkling clean hospital emergency room like St. Joseph's, he said. It's too intimidating. If someone needs to see a specialist, Dr. Mattimore arranges to have one visit the shelter. This is the kinder, gentler side of healthcare.

The next day I was in the heart catheterization lab with Dr. Stuart Winston, an electrophysiologist — a specialist in the heart's electrical circuitry. Wearing a 40-pound lead apron, I watched as he guided an electrode catheter through an artery from an opening in a patient's groin into the patient's heart.

In a procedure that took several hours, Dr. Winston burned away minute patches of heart tissue that caused the patient's heartbeat to go haywire. His focus was intense. The patient doesn't want to come back for a repeat performance, he said.

I spent the morning of my last day in the operating room with Dr. Bobby Kong. I watched him cut, saw and pry open a patient's chest in what was a surprisingly bloodless surgery. Observing him carefully suture a vein harvested from the leg to a dissected artery in the heart made me realize the awesome responsibility, as well as the privilege, of being a heart surgeon.

See? There's that word. Awesome. My experience at St. Joseph's concluded with Dr. Leila Saxena, a new family care physician. In between seeing patients, we talked about her new baby daughter and the difficulties of fixing up a house when you have huge medical school loans to pay off. She gave a glimpse of the personal side of

Pair renovates center for homeless kids

Where the determination is, the way can be found.

Franklin High School seniors Jamie Burns and Mandy Kwarsick have gone above and beyond what students enrolled in the Livonia high school's Community Service class usually do.

The pair, best friends since elementary school, took on the renovation of a learning center in the lower level of the Coalition on Temporary Shelter's (COTS) transitional housing apartment on West Grand Boulevard in Detroit.

According to Burns, 18, who heads up the COTS program at Franklin High School, she and Kwarsick came across the room while visiting the housing facility in the fall as they planned a Halloween party for children who live in seven apartments at 1887 West Grand Boulevard.

"You could barely get the door open there was so much stuff crammed in the room," said Burns. "It was a mess. I think people started to use it as a storage room and it just kept building."

Aside from the "stuff" that filled the room, the young women found the condition of the area to be poor.

"There was spilled paint on the floor, torn up papers, broken tables and dirty walls. It looked like someone trashed it on purpose," said Kwarsick.

Julie Hamrick, the Franklin High School teacher who oversees the Community Service program, said from the beginning Jamie and Mandy had very specific plans for the center once they decided to take it on as their 1999-2000 project.

"They saw a need and took charge of it all," said Hamrick, who took approximately 20 students from her leadership class to the COTS apartment building to assist Burns and Kwarsick in moving items out of the center, cleaning and painting.

"It was dirty. The tile floors looked nasty and the walls were marred with grime and scuff marks," said Hamrick. "Today it's a beautiful learning center for the children that live at the temporary shelter. They should be very proud of the final results."

The transformation was a culmination of a lot of elbow grease by Burns and Kwarsick and numerous donations made by area businesses the two solicited throughout the school year.

"We couldn't have done all that we did without the donations people made to us," said Burns, who added she and Jamie would visit various businesses in the Livonia area seeking contributions. Contributions such as paint, a bean bag, carpet, clock, picnic table, cleaning supplies, gift certificates, wall decorations, educational toys/games, books and posters came from Target, Meijer, Murray's Discount Auto, Walmart, Sam's Club, Costco, Damman Hardware Store, The Home Depot, Staples, The Teacher Store of Livonia and Plymouth Floor Covering.

Burns said one of the most significant donations included new carpet and floor tile from Plymouth Floor Covering of Livonia. Co-owners Ed Barran and Gordon LaVerdure donated all the materials and labor to tear out the old tile, along with Jamie and Mandy, prep the area and install the new floor coverings.

"They are very persuasive young ladies," said Barran, who received a letter from the high school students asking for a donation. "Gordon and I felt this was something we should do."

The 650 square foot COTS Children's Learning Center now features new carpeting and tile that Barran estimates to be a $1,500 value.

"It's about initiative," said Barran of Jamie and Mandy's efforts. "They're ambitious, persuasive and are genuinely appreciative of everyone who donated to the project. I think their persistence to get the job done definitely paid off. It really looks like a million dollars."

Plymouth astronomy club attracts star gazers

BY KRISTA HOPSON
 STAFF WRITER

Looking up at the sky on a dark, clear night some people may only see little dots of twinkling light. Others, however, see so much more and have many questions about the stars, planets, space travel, extraterrestrials and even the origin of the universe.

To answer some of those questions, Mike Best of Plymouth started an astronomy discussion group in February at the Plymouth District Library.

The Plymouth astronomy group meets 7-8 p.m. on the third Monday of every month. Twenty of the group's members, from throughout southeastern Michigan, are scheduled to meet at the library until the end of this year.

Best, who has been studying astronomy for 54 years, wanted a place where people who liked planets, stars and the universe could have a discussion. He also hoped to create a group that parents and their children could come to together.

"I always say that ages six to 106 are welcome," said Best, 66, a former newspaper reporter who retired after 40 years in the field. "I wanted to make (the group) a family thing."

Astronomy is popular among all of the age groups because there is so much exposure to space travel on television. Best said, "Curiosity eventually gets to people. People flock in with so many questions."

Exploration

Best's own curiosity about science fiction is what led him into studying astronomy at a very young age. He found that despite the little green people in science fiction stories, the astronomy part always seemed to be accurate.

"I started to ask, 'could the stars possibly be that big?' and 'could the universe possibly have a beginning?'" Best said.

The Plymouth resident, who has been lecturing on astronomy for over 25 years and volunteers at the Southfield Planetarium, tries to continue to answer all of those questions for the discussion group while also feeding their interest in the subject matter.

Daisy Aimar, a discussion group member who resides in Westland, became interested in astronomy after gazing into a friend's telescope several years ago.

"When I looked in it, my God, there was Saturn and I could see the rings moving," Aimar said. "I told myself that before I die I have to see it again."

At the time, however, Aimar never had the opportunity to further pursue her curiosity in the world of astronomy. It wasn't until Aimar, 58, who is now retired, saw a brochure at the library about the discussion group that she decided she finally had some time to learn more about astronomy.

"(Best) is full of really good information," Aimar said. "He's an expert in his field."

Best feeds the group a lot of information in a short amount of time, Aimar said. Every meeting, Best selects a particular subject and begins with a short lecture on it. He also answers questions and peaks the group's curiosity by showing videos or presenting some of his 600 astronomy slides.

Best currently has no plans to increase the astronomy group's meeting days or times. He does hope to have a ses-

Personal profile

Mike Best's background is about as vast as the space he studies in the sky. The Plymouth resident's love of the stars began as a teen when he started following the mysteries of the Unidentified Flying Objects phenomenon in 1947.

He later turned that curiosity into a career by spending more than a decade as a field investigator ("Man in Black") for the Dr. J. Allen Hynek Center for UFO Studies. He has been affiliated with both the International and Michigan divisions of the Mutual UFO Network. In the 1950s he flew in a U.S. Navy air-sea rescue squadron in the Pacific. It was here that he founded his first astronomy club, the Kwajalein Island Astronomical Association.

Back in the states Best founded the Astronomy Club of Livonia in 1976 and in 1985, the Astronomical Society of Michigan. He hosts, "Secrets of Space," for the city of Farmington Hills cable division.

The Astronomical Society of Michigan is an educational organization consisting of some 270 members from across the state. Best serves as president.

He keeps busy as the principal demonstrator at the Vollbrecht Planetarium in Southfield, is a member of the Astronomical League, the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, the Great Lakes Planetarium Assoc., National Space Society, the Planetary Society, and the SETI Institute. He is a former member of MENSAs.

a young physician's life. I'm grateful. Sometimes as I drive home after work, I think about what I saw at St. Joseph's Hospital. I think about Dr. Mattimore's kind-more than 90 people and serves approximately 2,000 Detroit area homeless people annually at three locations including the West Grand Boulevard apartment building which serves as transitional housing for women with children.

Burns said about 17 children currently live in the apartment building and they will benefit from full use of the new-learning center. The area will be available during the day for young residents who aren't of school age and after school for tutoring, crafts and having fun.

"There really isn't any place for the kids to play right now," said Burns, "other than a small fenced in area."

Because Burns and Kwarsick had transportation of their own, the two were able to take their efforts in Franklin's Community Service program a step further.

"Most of the students who take the community service class go to other schools and help teachers tutor students during the day," said Hamrick. "Because Jamie and Mandy have a car they were able to provide their own transportation and spend their fifth and sixth hours working on things at COTS."

In addition to the time they devoted to the learning center refurbishment, the pair hosted a Halloween party for the young residents complete with a costume for each child, candy, prizes and party games. Again the two went out into the community to collect donations for the party. They also supervised the annual Christmas program where students adopt a family and supply all the makings for a holiday meal and gifts for everyone in the family.

"I got involved with the Christmas program when I was a sophomore and now I'm heading up the whole COTS program at Franklin," said Burns, who has plans to attend Schoolcraft College in the fall. "If no one is willing to continue the Christmas program next year I'll come back and do it."

Ericka Warren, program coordinator of the COTS transitional services program on West Grand Boulevard, said no one is more appreciative of the girls efforts than the children.

"Up until now all the activities that we use to hold down there including educational workshops, tutor and arts and crafts have been on hold," said Warren. "The kids are so excited about the work Jamie and Mandy have been doing over the last several months and are eager to start enjoying the new learning center."

Warren said she and Debbie Drennen, transitional service executive director, think the pair did "a great job" and are grateful for their "dedication and volunteerism."

The children of COTS on the Boulevard had an opportunity to see first-hand Jamie and Mandy's efforts Friday, June 2 as they hosted an open-house and ribbon cutting ceremony.

Donations from Mrs. Fields, Costco and Staples made it possible for them to invite family, friends, teachers, corporate donors and residents of the apartment building to say thank you and to show off the renovated learning center.

Countdown

With only days left until graduation, Burns and Kwarsick are busy putting the finishing touches on the learning center, preparing a portfolio that documents the COTS project and looking forward to the future.

"I know I want to help people," said Kwarsick, who plans to attend Ferris State University this fall to study social work.

And her best friend Jamie - "I want to be a lobbyist to be able to help people and to make changes in their lives. I'd like to open a place like COTS one day. I see how many people they're able to help and I know that's what I want to do."

Stars to shine at third Domus Vita auction, fund-raiser

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER
kmortson@oe.homecomm.net

Guests at the third annual Domus Vita auction can look forward to seeing familiar faces such as hockey legend Wayne Gretzky, actor Clint Eastwood and local celebrity Karen Newman.

Their "mugs," along with those of 50 other Hollywood greats, will be among the items up for auction at "Reach for the Stars" on Friday, June 23.

According to Diane Montes, Domus Vita administrative director, approximately 50 autographed photographs of famous athletes, politicians, supermodels and actors/actresses will go home with the highest bidders.

"We have received wonderful community support in the past," said Montes, whose mother founded Domus Vita 13 years ago.

The non-profit organization maintains eight group homes for the developmentally disabled throughout Wayne County under the direction of Paula Parkin, executive director and sister of Montes.

"Reach for the Stars" begins at 5:30 p.m. with dinner at 6:30 p.m. and a live and silent auction preceding entertainment by a deejay. A wide variety of items will be auctioned off, including restaurant gift certificates, numerous Detroit Red Wing hockey collectibles, a bicycle, TV, VCR, gift baskets and tickets to see the Detroit Tigers, Detroit Lions and University of Michigan Football teams play.

One lucky winner will have the chance to enjoy a week vacation in Cancun, Mexico, at a resort property.

"We're really excited about the donation of the signed celebrity photographs," said Montes. "This is the third year Donald Lawrenchuk has provided pictures from his collection and we look forward to recognizing him at the event for his generous gifts."

Lawrenchuk is the director of the Wayne County Health Department. He has been collecting autographs of well-know individuals as a hobby since he was a child. "Domus Vita certainly tops my list as the best of the best," said Lawrenchuk of his continued interest in donating to the non-profit organization's fund-raisers.

Some of the other pictures he has donated for auction include actress Kathy Bates (Misery and Fried Green Tomatoes); actor Charlton Heston (The Ten Commandments and Ben-Hur); signed comic strip sketches by "Beetle Bailey" cartoonist Mort Walker; athlete Bruce Jenner; former Detroit Tiger manager Sparky Anderson; former President Gerald Ford and current Vice President Al Gore.

Montes said one framed and matted color photograph that is sure to attract a lot of attention is that of singer and actress Barbara Streisand.

"I know that's a hard one to get," said Montes who added guests can look forward to also seeing a "beautifully framed" picture and card from comedian Red Skelton.

According to Montes and Parkin, all event proceeds will benefit group home residents to live on "extremely limited budgets."

"We have used funds in the past for orthopedic shoes, hospital beds, clothing, and for funerals and headstones," said Montes. "The money is used to enhance their lives and to help people reach their goals."

Who: Domus Vita
What: "Reach for the Stars" Third Annual Auction (benefit sponsors include Mobility Transportation Services and Michigan Assisted Living Association).
When: Doors open at 5:30 p.m. and tickets are $25 per person (dinner included).
Where: The event will be at the Monaghan Knights of Columbus hall on Farmington Road north of Seven Mile.
For ticket information call Diane Montes or Domus Vita Executive Director Paula Parkin at (734) 427-0878 by June 16.

Center offers outreach grief support for families, individuals

The founders of New Hope, a center for grief support in Northville, is now offering assistance to help individuals and families find the help they need through qualified professional counseling.

New Hope Center for Grief is a non-profit bereavement outreach center. They provide grief support services through groups or individual counseling, seminars and other resources.

Founded on the philosophy of Christian principles, help is offered to people working through their grief "much like Christ offered help and healing to all who came to him."

According to Cathy Clough, executive director of New Hope, people of all faiths are encouraged and invited to benefit from the grief support services.

Several different types of support is offered including:

■ New Hope grief support workshop

An eight week series which provides bereaved individuals the opportunity to learn about and cope with grief. The series blends education and opportunity to do the work of grief by sharing with others in a safe setting. Each session is led by experienced grief specialists and small groups are facilitated by trained staff and volunteers.

People are group with others who have experienced similar loss.

■ Especially for widows and widowers

Ongoing grief support and social activities to help widowed men and women learn to deal with their grief, meet others who understand and learn ways to find hope and healing. Social events, weekend getaways, vacations and retreats are offered to help the widowed person begin a new way of life which includes hope for a future.

■ For parents whose child has died

We offer peer-support for parents who are learning to cope after the death of a child. This is done by offering one-on-one support plus support groups offered on an "as needed" basis. We have a list of parents who wish to support newly bereaved parents.

■ For grieving teens

There is no easy age to suffer a loss from the death of a loved one, but adolescents have a particularly difficult time finding understanding and support. New Hope offers a support group for adolescents. The group is facilitated by an adult leader and is co-led by a peer/adolescent facilitator. The group is offered as a six-week series.

Risen Christ Lutheran Church (46250 W. Ann Arbor Rd.) of Plymouth will begin offering grief support sessions sponsored by New Hope from 10:30 a.m. to noon beginning Tuesday, June 6. There will be no session on July 4. These sessions are open to anyone grieving the death of a loved one and will be led by an experienced grief counselor.

New Hope Center for Grief Support is located at 113 E. Dunlap in Northville. All groups offered by New Hope are free of charge. Donations are accepted and tax-deductible. For information call (248) 348-0115 or e-mail nhope@altavista.com

"We've always planned ahead and made our own choices. That's why we pre-planned our final arrangements."

The wisdom of pre-planning.

Leaving decisions about your final arrangements to your family forces them to make hard choices at a time of extreme distress. Planning now allows you to choose your comfortable wish and protect your family from needless burdens.

Pre-planning is also the wisest financial choice. You take advantage of a special discount to protect your family from the high cost of services and ensure the comfort of your loved ones.

• Eliminate the financial burden of last-minute decisions.

• Reduce the emotional stress of last-minute decisions.

• Ensure your loved ones are taken care of.

• Protect your family from the high cost of services.

• Ensure the comfort of your loved ones.

Why do Christians go to church to worship?

CARLA THOMPSON-POWELL

FAITH JOURNEYS
Can you be a Christian and not attend church? Can you live out faith in God all by yourself?

On the surface, church seems to be about praying, singing, and reading the Bible. Certainly we can do all of those things by ourselves at home. Services are broadcast on radio and TV, if we want to hear a sermon. Even if we want to have communion, we could certainly find some bread and wine at home. So is it important to attend a religious service? Is it beneficial to belong to a community of faith?

First, God has always worked through communities. Although Abraham received the promise of a blessing, it was fulfilled through his numerous descendants. Although Moses led the people out of Egypt, the Hebrews who wandered in the wilderness experienced the saving acts of God together. Although King Solomon arranged for the building of the temple, it existed so that the community could have a place to meet God.

Jesus gathered 12 men to be his disciples, and many more came together as his community. The Holy Spirit did not come down upon the 120 who chose Judas' successor, but upon the thousands who were gathered together in one place on Pentecost.

Second, there is strength in numbers. When the earliest Christians gathered, they joined together to strengthen one another. They found comfort in gathering together, so they could gain strength for their daily work and calling. In 1st Corinthians, Paul writes, "Indeed, the body does not consist of one member, but of many" (12:14). We need each other for support.

When we face hardships, fellow believers encourage us. We help one another to bear burdens, making the load lighter. Together we make up the body of Christ.

Third, we need each other. We learn through the mutual sharing about scripture. We learn when we read scripture and then talk to others about its meaning. We grow when we pray about God's will and then speak about it to others. In community, we share our understandings and commitments, informing our partial knowledge with feedback from others.

No one person has the single answer to everything. Even homebound Christians will benefit from a fellow Christian's visit or a clergyperson dropping by. Losing the fellowship of the community can be very painful for hospitalized or shut-in Christians.

Finally, we are meant to worship the Lord. Gathering together with fellow believers helps us to set aside time especially for worship. Going to church gives us a discipline of regular worship. There are also parts of worship that lose their meaning if we do them alone. Sharing the sacrament of communion is not a solitary act; we remember and partake of Christ within community. Sharing the peace through a handshake or hug is also a sign of oneness, which doesn't have the same sense at home by oneself. Worshipping with a real live congregation even gives hymns, anthems, and prayers a different dimension.

So why do Christians go to church? Because personal prayer, Bible study, and hymn singing never take the place of actual gathering with other Christians for worship. We have a God who became human in Jesus and lived his life in community with others. Gathering in worship with fellow believers helps us to learn and grow in faith, so that we are strengthened for our daily task.

Chargers surprise 4th at state meet

OBSERVER SPORTS SCENE

Girls state track results

The Lutheran High Westland girls track team garnered 11 points at Saturday's Division IV girls track and field championships held at Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern.

Sophomore Tess Kuehne placed sixth in both the 1,600- and 3,200-meter runs with times of 5:23.63 and 11:50.97, respectively. She also teamed up with Jessica Montgomery, Mary Ebendick and Erin Jung for a seventh in the 3,200 relay (10:19.307).

Teammate Anna Rolf added a sixth in the 100 hurdles with a time of 16.77.

Saginaw Michigan Lutheran Seminary took the team title with 58 points.

In Division II at Grandville, Livonia Ladywood's 800 relay team of Brianna Watson, Laura Yales, Kelly Predmesky and Kelly Carey finished eighth in 51.56.

Detroit Renaissance ran away with the girls title with 84 points.

Boys state track results

Lutheran High Westland's Mike Clark took a fifth place in the 100-meter dash (11.35) at the Division IV state boys track and field meet Saturday at Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern.

Clark also teamed up with Jake Nuoffer, Justin Combs and Nick Doherty for an eighth in the 800 relay (1:34.06).

Maple City Glen Lake took the team title with 45 points.

In Division III at Comstock Park, Livonia Clarenceville's Tim Shaw took seventh in the 100 with a time of 11.5.

Clare won the team title edging Albion, 47-42.

Brothers net titles

The Beydoun brothers of Westland recently captured the 14 and 16 division titles Sunday at the 2000 Eastside Junior Open tennis tournament held at Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett School.

Jeffrey, who won the Boys 16 singles title, defeated Shyam Guthikonda of Grosse Pointe Woods in the finals, 6-7 (8-10), 7-6 (7-5), (7-2). The Livonia Franklin High sophomore also defeated Derek Sejfulla of Grosse Pointe Park, 6-3, 3-6 (7-1) in the semifinals.

Jason, the top seed in the Boys 14, beat Mirza Immovic of Macomb Township in the championship, 4-6, 6-3 (9-7). He reached the finals with wins over Jeremy Shubert (6-0, 6-1) and Joey Michaels of Rochester Hills (6-2, 6-0).

Jason, an eighth-grade honor student at Emerson Middle School in Livonia, also captured the Boys 12s at the 1999 Eastside Open.

Livonian Carrie DiBasio of Gannon University (Pa.) recently earned second-team Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association All-America honors.

The freshman midfielder/attacker was a two-time All-State selection at Bloomfield Hills Academy of the Sacred Heart.

BY RICHARD SHOOK
SPORTS WRITER

The Livonia Churchill girls golf team is one of those cliched overnight success stories.

You know the kind: Team suddenly appears on the radar screen of life — after years of hidden hard work.

The Chargers capped a season of sharp improvement last Saturday with a fourth-place finish in the state girls Division I golf meet.

Churchill began the final round of the two-day event in fifth place and moved up one spot by virtue of its fine two-day score of 723.

Churchill finished tied for second in the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament and was third, behind Ann Arbor Pioneer and Huron, in the regional with a 377 total.

Some overnight success story.

"It took me seven years to get this going," coach Sharon Laskowski said. "It's coming."

Grand Blanc won the state meet with a 670 total. Traverse City was 20 strokes behind in second place and Farmington Hills Mercy was third at 692. Churchill's 723 was one shot better than Harper Woods Regina, which boasted the individual medalist.

"We did well," Laskowski said. "We did really well. We're just ecstatic. We've been walking on air for two days. This is the first time Churchill girls have ever been to the state finals."

The Chargers placed two golfers in the state's top 15.

Sophomore Heidi Aittama shot 88-85-173 to place 12th and senior Ashley Johnson scored 89-85-174, tying for 13th.

Sophomore Kelley Parzuchowski turned in rounds of 95-96-191, sophomore Katy Reck had 94-104-198 and senior Jennie Lusa registered 112-91-203.

"We peaked at the right time."

Shamrocks runner-up to rival Rice

Birmingham Brother Rice was ranked No. 1 for the whole tennis season.

Saturday's Division I finals in Midland did nothing to change that.

The Warriors won two finals and had finalists in five of seven flights to win the state title, easily outdistancing Redford Catholic Central, 27-21.

"We had some close matches and the ball didn't always go our way," said CC coach Philip Eagleson. "We had a bunch of close matches — some three setters, some 7-6 sets. But we placed six of the seven flights in the semifinals, so that was wonderful."

Top-seeded Billy Walsh provided the Shamrocks with their only state crown as the freshman won a three-set thriller over Rice's Jeff Carrico, 6-2, 2-6, 7-6 (3). Walsh advanced to the finals with a 6-2, 6-0 win over West Bloomfield's Adam Wright.

DIVISION I BOYS TENNIS

"It's hard to describe what Billy did," said Eagleson. "Billy had an incredible performance. To come in as freshman and fight through states and win is phenomenal."

CC had semifinalists in five other flights, but couldn't break through to the finals — mostly because of Brother Rice.

In No. 1 singles, CC's Mike Findling lost to Rice's

David Lynn, 6-2, 7-6 (8), while Rice's Matt Christian stopped CC's David Atallah at No. 3, 6-0, 7-6 (1) and the Warriors' Matt Ora and Charlie Duerr stopped Ian McHenry and Lodewijk Von Holstboeck, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, in No. 3 doubles. Lynn and Christian went on to win their flight.

At No. 2 singles, J.D. Shade lost to eventual winner Matt Garner of East Kentwood, 6-2, 6-3, while the No. 1 doubles champion, Richard Marsh and Brian Gorski of Grosse Pointe South, beat CC's Jeff Fleazar and Rob Sparks in the semis — 6-3, 6-3.

"It's hard to describe," said Eagleson. "The whole team had a wonderful performance. All of them played well. Everyone had a good weekend."

Stevenson ready for regional test

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

The Dearborn High girls soccer team knew it had an uphill climb against Livonia Stevenson in Tuesday's Division I regional semifinal at Novi.

The Pioneers, who lost 8-0 to the Spartans during the regular season, got slightly closer in the second encounter.

But it was little consolation as Stevenson scored seven first-half goals en route to a easy 7-0 victory.

Stevenson, 13-3-3 overall, moves into Friday's regional championship game against Western Lakes Activities Association co-champion Plymouth Cantop. Game time is 7 p.m. at Novi Middle School, located at 11 Mile and Taft roads.

The Chiefs, now 19-1-2 overall, won the first game of a double-header Tuesday against Ann Arbor Pioneer, 4-1, as Anne Morrell scored a hat trick to raise her season total to

GIRLS SOCCER

36. The previous two meetings between Stevenson and Canton have ended in ties, 1-1 and 0-0.

Against Dearborn, Stevenson played without top goal scorer Lindsay Gusick, who was serving the first of her three-game suspension by the Michigan High School Athletic Association for playing in last week's Adidas Cup in Houston, Tex.

Gusick, who represented an under-17 U.S. squad, wasn't needed Tuesday as Miss Soccer Andrea Sied, pulled up from her sweeper spot, provided some offense by scoring Stevenson's first two goals.

The goals, off assists from Megan Urbats and Cheryl Fox, came just two minutes apart at 26:54 and 25:00 of the opening half.

District tournament conquest sends Churchill off to Monroe

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

Livonia Churchill has been in a slew of tight girls softball games this season and Saturday's Division I district tournament conquest at Livonia Franklin was no different.

The Chargers raised their season record to 20-8 by defeating Garden City in the championship game, 3-2.

Churchill now advances this Saturday to the Monroe regional semifinals to play Taylor Truman (21-11). Game time is 10 a.m.

Churchill advanced to the final with a 2-0 win over the host Patriots, while GC posted a 10-0, five-inning mercy rule triumph over Westland John Glenn in the other semifinal.

"We were determined to win this district because we thought we had a good season and have played well, but we also knew there were other good teams here," said Churchill coach Dana Hardwidge, who captured her third district crown since 1993. "We played poised because of our experience. And we've hung so tough in close games. We have not come unraveled much."

Sophomore pitcher Meghan Misiak tossed a one-hitter in the opener against Franklin and came back to limit Garden City (17-11) on two hits in the championship final.

"Meghan pitched well," Hardwidge said. "She just goes about her business and just loves to pitch."

Churchill pushed two runs across against Garden City hurler Katie Chidester in the opening inning.

Lead-off batter Sallie Kuratko reached base on an infield error and Carly George followed with a successful bunt single and Christine Fones added another single. Sheila Gillies and Sarah Hennessey then contributed RBI sacrifice flies.

In the second inning, Churchill increased its lead to 3-0 when Courtney Cross reached base on an error and later scored on GC's third error in the game.

"We had some mental lapses and physical errors that bit us the rest of the game," GC coach Barry Patterson said. "We've been a solid defensive team all year contrary to what you saw the first two innings. We put ourselves in a hole

Salem's short, long ball too much for Spartans

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

A pair of 40-foot bunts ignited Plymouth Salem Saturday morning in its Class A District semifinal game against Livonia Stevenson.

But it was a 300-plus-foot bomb off the bat of Salem's Ian Winter that blew up any chance the Spartans had of advancing to the District final showdown later in the day.

Using the little ball as efficiently as the long ball, the Rocks (19-13) ousted Stevenson, 5-1, to advance to the district final against North Farmington.

The Rocks beat North in the final, 7-6. The Raiders ousted Plymouth Canton in the other semifinal, 6-4.

The game was the last high school contest played at the Salem baseball field, which will be displaced later this summer to make room for the new high school.

"It breaks my heart to have to leave this field for the last time," lamented Salem coach Dale Rumberger. "But I'm glad we were able to walk off with a victory. I've coached here since 1986 and I played on this field before that, so I have a lot of nice memories here."

son led off the bottom of the sixth with a double.

"Steve has pitched well all year," Rumberger said. "I've asked him to pitch in a lot of big games for us this year, including against (Redford) Catholic Central and against an Ohio team that was 20-1."

"It's his third year on the varsity, so we have a lot of confidence in him."

Gordon struck out five Spartans and issued just two walks. He escaped his biggest jam in the bottom of the second when, with the game scoreless, Stevenson loaded the bases with just one out.

However, Gordon struck out Ronnie Williams before Bill Marsack's ground-ball struck base-runner Brad Buckler, who was trying to advance from first to second.

The Rocks got on the board first with two runs in the top of the third.

Senior center fielder Jason Furr started the inning by beating out a perfect bunt down the first-base line. Lead-off batter Steve Stiles followed with an identical bunt single, and Salem had runners on first and second with no one out.

After Salem designated hitter Chad Goethe walked to load the bases, Jason Lukasik popped out to second. Winter then hit a ground ball to Spartan third baseman Brandon Ray, whose throw to the plate sailed wide, allowing Furr and Stiles to score. The Rocks doubled their 2-0 lead in the fifth inning when

Lukasik walked with one out and scored on Winter's mammoth two-run blast that easily cleared the right-field fence.

Salem added an insurance run in the sixth when Chris Eicher scored on a fielder's choice play.

Winter reached base all four times he stepped to the plate, finishing 2-for-3 with two RBI. Furr was the only other Rock to pick up two hits.

Buckler, Stevenson's starting pitcher, allowed four runs (two earned) and five hits before being replaced by southpaw Tim Oliver in the sixth.

Stevenson, which finished 15-13, scored its lone run in the sixth when Lawson led off with a double and eventually crossed the plate on a double-play ground-out.

"I thought we had a good season," said Stevenson coach Harv Weingarden. "I'm going to miss the five seniors (Ray, Lawson, Buckler, Mike Byberg and Joe McCrohan) who won't be coming back next year. The keys today were Ian Winter's home run and a couple of defensive miscues we had. Otherwise, we played them pretty evenly."

Trojans advance

DIVISION III

Revenge was not only sweet for Livonia Clarenceville, it was also a ticket to the regionals.

Livonia Clarenceville exploded for five runs in the fourth inning Saturday to beat Metro Conference rival Lutheran High Westland, 6-0, and put Trojans into the regionals this Saturday against Madison Heights Madison at Lake Fenton.

Clarenceville (6-13) will be the visiting team in its 10 a.m. game against Madison (19-3). Host Lake Fenton (21-11) will play Harper Woods in the other game.

Both host Clarenceville and Lutheran Westland reached the finals by forfeit as Highland Park and Inkster dropped out.

Dan Tondreau singled to get the decisive frame started, then Ray Gutierrez beat out a bunt single and Tim Reidl singled to load the bases against Lutheran Westland, which defeated Clarenceville, 12-2, earlier this season.

Tondreau was out at home on Scott Carr's fielder's choice but the ball got back to the backstop when Mike Murphy attempted a suicide squeeze and the first run came in.

Murphy then singled to make it 2-0 and Rob Simpson walked to re-load the bases. Eric Elmore smacked a three-run double for a 5-0 lead.

The Trojans scored their other run in the fifth. Gutierrez singled and went to third on a steal when the throw to second sailed into center field. Murphy singled him home.

Clarenceville collected eight hits and winning pitcher Kevin Silye spun an eight-hitter, walking one and striking out two.

Shortstop Reidl threw out three runners at third for Clarenceville on balls hit into the hole.

Charlie Hoeft went 3-for-4 for Lutheran High School Westland while Brad Nollar went 3-for-3.

Gutierrez went 3-for-3 for Clarenceville and scored twice. Murphy went 2-for-3 with a run.

State champion Shamrocks roar past Detroit opponents

Host Redford Catholic Central had a pretty easy time in winning its Division I district on Saturday, cruising to a 21-0 win over Detroit Cody in the semifinal, then using Kevin Entsminger's no-hitter in the final for a 19-0 win over Detroit Cooley.

"Cody was pretty young and inexperienced," said CC coach John Salter. "Cooley's pitcher had gone two innings in their semifinal and he got tired. It was 9-0 in the fifth inning and we hit their relief pitching pretty hard and scored 10 runs in the top of the sixth."

Entsminger gave up a walk and hit a batter, while striking out seven in earning the win and also went 4-for-5 at the plate with a walk and four runs scored.

Phil Marrone also helped the Shamrocks (20-11) by going 2-for-4 with a walk, a HBP and had two RBI, and Anthony Coratti was 2-for-3 with three runs scored and two RBI.

Marrone led the way at the plate in the opener by going 3-for-3 with four runs scored, an RBI while walking once and being hit by a pitch. Brian Williams added two hits, including a double, and had three RBI, while Coratti was 2-for-2 with two runs scored.

Adam Kline (4-2) got the win on a two-hitter in four innings, while striking out 10 for the defending Division I state champions.

Chargers 4th from C1

Laskowski said. "The girls just played extremely well. When one was down, the others picked her up."

"I think we surprised a lot of people. Pioneer and Huron beat us at the regionals, and by 7-8 strokes. I still felt we had a good shot."

"They started to believe in themselves. Basically, what I tried to impress upon them was that they could do it. I told them, 'Don't give up. One shot doesn't make a round of golf.'"

Not exactly a nobody, the Chargers popped up in the ratings from time to time, peaking at sixth and appearing as the No. 10 team in the final week of the poll.

Johnson "really blossomed," Laskowski said. She averaged 46.9 for nine holes and saved her best for last.

She scored 88s at the conference and state regionals, where she was sixth, and knocked three strokes off that in the final round of the state meet.

"She's just a worker," Laskowski said. "She took lessons right up to the regionals. She never gave up. But that's the kind of girl she is."

"I wish I had five Ashley's on my team. I gave her the Coaches Award at our banquet. She exemplifies everything good about golf."

"She's very coachable. I told the (other) girls, 'Look up to Ashley. Follow her example.'"

Aittama "has all kinds of potential," Laskowski said. "Her goal is to be on the LPGA tour."

She was second in the Livonia Public Schools meet, shot an 82 to tie for first in the regionals at Monroe and averaged 43 strokes per nine holes.

"That's about the same as she scored last year," Laskowski said, "but this year she's had a lot of health problems, from teeth to bronchitis. It seemed like it was just one thing after another."

The tragic death of Livonia Stevenson golfer Carl Heppner, who was Aittama's best friend, affected the Churchill golfer.

"She was very emotionally upset over that," Laskowski said. "The last three weeks were hard on her. Considering all that, she's done real well."

"She has the potential for much more. She's a very good golfer at a very young age."

Laskowski called Parzuchowski "my ace in the hole. I always said she was my dark horse all year. She was our make or break for some of the matches."

Parzuchowski averaged 46.7 for nine holes and finished 34th in the state in the individual side of the state tournament.

"She has so much potential," Laskowski said. "We're going to continue to see her blossom. She loves the game."

"She came down from the high 50s last year. I gave her the 'Most Improved' award."

Reck surprised Laskowski. A high 60s scorer in 1999, when her scores counted only in a handful of matches, she averaged 53 this year and nearly always put her score in the team total.

"That 94 was the best she's ever done. She was 40th individually at the state meet."

The Chargers' other senior, Lusa, had a nine-hole average of 52.

"Her 21-stroke drop in the state meet really helped us," Laskowski said. "She's been playing four years."

GIRLS SOFTBALL DISTRICT TOURNAMENT ROUNDUP

Canton ousts Spartans, 5-1

Stewart hurls Chiefs to title vs. North, 2-1

By C.J. RISAK
SPORTS WRITER
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

North Farmington had its way this season with girls softball foe Plymouth Canton — until Saturday.

"This is the one that counted," Canton coach Arnold said after the Chiefs upended North, 2-1.

The Raiders had won two previous meetings, 9-0 and 3-0.

Buoyed by that success, Canton went on to capture the district crown, beating Livonia Stevenson 5-1 in the final.

The Chiefs, 22-11 overall, advance to the Division I regional at Royal Oak Kimball against Warren Mott Saturday. Farmington Hills Mercy goes against Detroit Mumford in the other regional semifinal.

It was the Raiders, who finished their season at 24-12, were first to draw blood — but it took four innings and a singular effort by Staci Russell to do it.

In the top of the fifth, Russell led off the inning with a single, the first hit of the game off Canton pitching ace Laura Stewart. Russell stole second and then, with one out, she stole a run when Christie Hendrickson grounded out to second.

Russell broke for third on the play and Chiefs' first baseman Brianne McNicholas tried to toss her out, but the throw to third was wide and Russell scored, giving the Raiders a 1-0 lead.

Canton, however, answered immediately. For four innings the Chiefs' offense had been stymied, failing to get a hit off North pitcher Beth Danielewicz. Stewart reached base to start the inning with a bad-hop bouncer off Samantha McComb; with Katie Conlon in to run, Angie Neu executed a sacrifice bunt to move her to second.

one, a grounder down the third base line by Kaitlin Anderson that went for a double but kept Conlon at third. A walk to Christina Kiessel loaded the bases with one out.

Jenna Perino popped out to second, pulling the Raiders to within an out of escaping the inning unscathed.

But Megan Coultas, a sophomore second baseman who bats ninth in the order, wasn't about to allow that to happen.

Coultas cracked a single to center that scored two runs and gave the Chiefs a lead they never relinquished.

A pair of hits in the sixth put two runners aboard for North with two out, but Stewart — who tossed a three-hitter, striking out seven and walking one — got Kristy Reinhardt to fly out to center to end the threat.

And end North's chances, as it turned out. Danielewicz nearly equaled Stewart's performance; the freshman gave up three hits and one walk, striking out four.

DIVISION I

"We had chances," said North coach Dave Brubaker. "They got the clutch hits. My hat's off to Coultas, their No. 9 hitter."

For Coultas, it was indeed a big day. Although the Chiefs were favored to beat Stevenson — which defeated Salem 7-6 in the other district semifinal — it was the Spartans who struck first.

Amanda Jankowski opened the third with a single and, after a Stewart balk moved her to second, Mary King doubled to score her. Stewart then buckled down and struck out the next three batters.

Again, the Chiefs answered immediately.

First baseman Debbie Gaiefsky dropped a pop up by Kiessel to start the inning; then, after a single by Perino, Coultas came through again, doubling off Stevenson starter Kelley Hutchins to left-center field to drive in two runs.

A dropped fly ball by right-fielder Sarah Pinto led to more trouble for Stevenson.

Michelle DeVos laid down a bunt and Coultas escaped the rundown to score, making it 3-1. After Jonelle Brown grounded into a fielder's choice at third, Stewart and Neu followed with RBI singles, giving Canton a 5-1 advantage.

It was all the Chiefs would need. Indeed, in the next 3¹/₂ innings, the two teams managed just one base hit between them.

Stewart again tossed a three-hitter; she gave up one earned run and did not walk a batter, hitting one and striking out 13.

"It's been the story of our year," said Stevenson coach Jen Knoph, her team finishing at 9-16. "One bad inning. It's been frustrating. But I'm very proud of them. They had lost to Salem twice, so it was great just getting here."

"We don't have enough power hitters to score five runs. But they were never down on themselves."

Clarenceville stops Warriors

Livonia Clarenceville took eight innings to win the Division III district girls softball championship Saturday at home against Lutheran High Westland, 7-6.

Winning pitcher Amy Schiffman went the distance for Livonia Clarenceville and overcame nine walks. She struck out two and pitched a four-hitter.

Losing pitcher Heather Rose also hurled a four-hitter. She walked seven and struck out three for the host Warriors. Both teams made four errors.

The winning run reached on an error. A steal of second, a fielder's choice and a single produced the winning tally for the Trojans.

Clarenceville led from the start, scoring two in the third to forge a 2-0 lead and halting a

DIVISION III

Lutheran Westland rally of two runs in the fourth.

The Trojans took a 4-2 lead in the sixth and suspended it to 5-2 in the sixth, which they won as the Warriors rallied in the seventh to win in the bottom of the sixth. Both teams scored a run in the seventh.

"We couldn't take advantage of our opportunity," Lutheran Westland coach Ron Gantz said. "They made big plays. Their program has come a long way in the last three years."

early." The Cougars, however, made it interesting by pushing two runs across in the fifth inning.

A walk to Taryn McCloud, a single by Jill Merriman, a fielder's choice off the bat of DH Devon Fitzgibbon followed by a Churchill infield error cut the deficit to 3-2.

But Misiak set GC down in order in the sixth and survived another single by Merriman in the seventh to give Churchill the win and the championship.

"It took us to the third at-bat to get our timing down," Patterson said. "We wanted to test her (Misiak) a little more, but we had too many strikeouts (seven) the first four innings."

"But Misiak throws well, especially when her control is on. And give Churchill credit, they made every play in the field, even the balls hit sharply right at them."

McCloud, GC's center fielder, made a pair of fine running catches to keep it close.

"There's not a better outfielder I've seen all year," Patterson said. "This year, overall, has been a real positive. We have only two seniors on the team and we had a lot of questions before the year started. We've had a remarkable year."

Chidester, who became the Cougars' full-time starter midway through the year, pitched well enough to win. She allowed just four hits.

"We put a lot of pressure on a sophomore (Chidester) and she didn't fail us," Patterson said. "We hope to build on it for next year because we have a lot of returnees coming back."

CHURCHILL 2, FRANKLIN 0: In the first semifinal, Churchill broke a scoreless deadlock with a pair of runs in the fifth inning.

Christine Fones and Sallie Kuratko had singles during the rally.

Franklin hurler Tara Muchow gave up just four hits in seven innings, but the Patriots were limited to one hit by Charger hurler Meghan Misiak, a fifth-inning bunt single by Jene D'Annunzio.

In 21 innings this season against Franklin, Misiak did not allow a run.

"At times we didn't execute, but Misiak's a tough pitcher. We didn't hit her all year," said Franklin coach Linda Jimenez, whose team finished 14-16 overall. "She also bears down with runners on."

With hard-hitting first baseman Tera Morrill (knee surgery) out of the lineup all season, the Patriots suffered offensively.

"We only hit about .250 or .260 as a team, that's not enough," Jimenez said. "I'm sad the season is over for our girls, especially for our seniors."

GARDEN CITY 10, JOHN GLENN 0: With three seniors attending graduation exercises at Ann Arbor's Crisler Arena and another starter leaving the team, Westland John Glenn (10-20) came up short-handed in its semifinal game against the Cougars.

After two scoreless innings, GC erupted for three runs in the third inning and six more in the fifth to put the game away under the 10-run mercy rule.

Mary Kovacs had two hits and an RBI for the Cougars, while Ashley Bonner contributed a two-run single. Taryn McCloud also had two RBI. Angie Bahr, Erin Kowicz and Sarah Booth also had RBI singles.

Amanda Ross had two hits for Glenn. Stephanie Feulchak was the losing pitcher.

Chidester, the winning pitcher, allowed five hits. She struck out four and did not walk a batter.

"Our whole infield and outfield was switched around. It would have been nice to work out the flaws," said Glenn coach Karen Olack, who was forced call up JV players Sara Walter and Julie Busch. "We worked hard all week. Things went smooth. We came a long way with a lot of experience."

"Maybe things would have been different if we didn't have to teach things all over again in one week."

Blazers win 3rd straight district

Livonia Ladywood softball coach Bob Lulek rolled the dice Saturday and it resulted in the Blazers' third straight district championship.

The Blazers, just 13-21 on the year, posted victories over Dearborn Divine Child (7-0) and Redford Thurston (21-0 in five innings) en route to the title at Monroe-Jefferson.

Ladywood now meets Farmington Hills Harrison (17-11-1) in the Division II regional semifinals noon this Saturday at Birmingham Seaholm.

Divine Child (15-18), which had beaten Ladywood in two of three meetings this season, could not forge any runs across the plate against Blazer hurlers Pam Smart and Shawn Fallon.

"We went with our third pitcher Pam (Smart) simply because they (Divine Child) had not seen her and she had been throwing well the last three weeks," Lulek said. "It was just a hunch on my part. We were trying to give them a different look."

Smart went the first 3¹/₂ innings before giving way to Shawn Fallon, who finished up.

The two combined on a six-hitter, while fanning three and walking three.

Fallon came on with two base runners on and one-out in the fourth inning and also got out of a bases-loaded game in the fifth to preserve the shutout.

Offensively, Ladywood jumped on DC starter Melissa Elwell for six runs in the first three innings. Falcon reliever Jenny Jablonski allowed just one run the rest of the way, but the damage had been done.

Kristen Barnes and Kathy Day each had two hits to pace Ladywood's offensive attack. Cathie Rospierski contributed an RBI double.

The championship final was anticlimactic as Ladywood scored three in the first inning and broke it open with 10 in the second off Thurston hurler Julie Garbacz.

The Blazers, meanwhile, had a 17-hit attack as Fallon led the way with three hits, including a double and three RBI. Dawn Rini added two hits, including a double, and two RBI.

Blazer starting hurler Shelly Moros worked the first three innings before giving way to Liz Malek.

DISTRICT SOCCER

Although Pappas made 24 saves, the result was an 11-0 Stevenson triumph.

Garden City bowed out at 6-10-2, while Stevenson advanced to Tuesday's regional semifinal against Dearborn at Novi High School with a 12-3-3 record.

Stevenson led 4-0 at intermission and it stayed that way until the 60th minute when the Spartans erupted for seven goals.

"They were hammering her (Pappas) with some pretty good shots," said Garden City coach Bill Torni said. "She came up big and played well."

"The outcome wasn't in question, but we were making them work until the sixth or seventh one."

Dana White led the way with two goals and one assist, while Megan Urbats, Lauren Valdivia and Elizabeth DiPonio each contributed a goal and one assist.

Andrea Sied, Megan Lane, Bethany Dobblyn, Cheryl Fox and Nicole Katikos each had a goal, while Deanna McGrath, Jamie Hartrick and Laura Shishkovsky chipped in with two assists apiece.

"It's nice to get balanced scoring and see us raise the level of our game even without our top goal scorer Lindsay Gusick (serving a three-game suspension)," said Stevenson coach, who won his fifth district title in six years. "It shows we were able to stay focused on what we were doing."

NORTHVILLE 2, LADYWOOD 1: Lindsay Dunmead and Emily Carbutt scored goals Saturday as the Mustangs won the Division II district championship game at Livonia Ladywood (5-12-1).

Northville led 1-0 at intermission and built a 2-0 lead in the second half before Ladywood's Stefanie Stachura answered with a goal with 20 minutes remaining on an assist from Melissa Marakas.

"My team picked up the pace and we put a lot of pressure on them," Ladywood second-year coach Jill Logsdon said. "We played with a lot of heart and made Northville work for the win."

Logsdon said her goalkeeper Liz Obrecht stood out, "making several excellent saves, including a break-away."

Sophomore defender Katie Rozum was named to the All-Catholic League team, while teammates Andrea Schimmel and Jennie Bartkowiak made All-Central Division.

Stachura was named to the All-Catholic Academic team, while Rozum, Stachura, Schimmel, Obrecht and Megan Kogut earned Division II All-District honors.

an offside trap and it took us about five minutes to settle things down," Stevenson coach Jim Kimble said. "We needed some communication out there and Andi (Sied) took care of things all right."

Five more Stevenson goals came in rapid order.

Urbats scored the next two at 19:42 and 19:27 from Christina Lewis and Dana White.

Lauren Valdivia made it 5-0 at 16:23 from White, and Bethany Dobblyn scored the next two, one coming on a penalty kick and the other from Megan Lane.

Kimble then cleared his bench and rested some of his starters for the second half.

"They play a whole different style in the midfield than we're used to seeing on our league," said Dearborn coach Roy Gurk, whose team finished 9-8-1 overall. "A lot of times it was their six forwards against our three defenders. It would be nice to play in a league with their style of play. We really have not had a chance to see anything like this."

With Gusick out of the lineup again Friday against Canton, Kimble will continue to juggle his lineup. He may sacrifice some defense for offense.

Meanwhile, Kimble has been playing Carly Wadsworth and Katie Beaudoin on defense.

"We have to be extra sharp back there and both of them have done well," the Stevenson coach said. "We have a big choice to make — mark Anne as we did in the conference final or commit Cheryl or Andi to give us more offense."

"In the district (tournament) we didn't face anyone else other than Morrell or a Troy Athens with that kind of talent up front."

"Right now I'm kind going back-and-forth with the idea."

"We'll find out Friday night."

Morrison's no-hit gem lifts Rams

Shawn Morrison faced just 24 batters and allowed only four baserunners as he hurled a no-hitter to lead the Michigan Lake Area Rams past Decision Consultants Inc., 1-0, in Adray Metro Baseball Association play on Friday.

Morrison walked two and hit a batter, while striking out 12.

The Rams needed Morrison's pitching as they struggled to grab just four hits. Nick Dedeluk (Madonna/Redford Thurston) led the hitting by going 2-for-2 with a walk and scored the winning run.

On Sunday, the Rams took a doubleheader against the Windsor Athletic Association, winning the first game, 13-4, and the second game, 4-3.

In the opener, Matt Riegley (Redford Union) was 3-for-5 with two runs scored, a double, triple and seven RBI. Dedeluk was 2-for-3 with three runs scored, two RBI and a triple. Mike Macek was 2-for-5 with a homer and two RBI, while Peter Varon and Mike Hayes (Redford Union) both had two hits. Phil Kommer took the win.

The second game was much closer but the Rams still took the win as Chet Rees (Madonna/Westland John Glenn) scored three runs, had two RBI, two walks and stole home in the ninth inning on a double steal for the winning run.

The Rams are 4-1.

Wilks shines for Bulldogs in 11-1 romp

Daniel Wilks was the winning pitcher and helped his own cause by collecting two hits and two RBI as the Livonia Bulldogs took five innings to mercy the visiting Riverside Royals of Windsor, Ontario, 11-1, in a Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation Mantle Division 16 and under game played Tuesday at Livonia's Ford Field.

Wilks, who attends Redford Catholic Central, fanned seven and allowed just two hits in one run in three innings.

Believer Jeff Niemiec pitched two scoreless innings. He did not allow a hit and struck out three.

The Bulldogs, coached by Butch Conz and Rick Marsack, also got offensive production from Eddie Conz (CC), who had two hits and two RBI; Niemiec, two RBI; and Josh Stark (CC), two hits and one RBI.

Scoring two runs apiece were Billy Marsack (Livonia Stevenson) and Matt Leibold (CC).

Olympic Trials hopefuls eye Canton meet

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS WRITER
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

The first of its kind — at least in this area.

That's what Saturday night offers at the Plymouth Canton football stadium.

Never before has such an illustrious group of athletes been brought to this area for such a noteworthy event.

The Michigan International Track Invitational will bring together some of the fastest men and women, including several Americans who are pursuing a spot in the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials next month in Sacramento, Calif.

Qualifying standards must be met for athletes to compete in the Trials; that's what they'll attempt to do at this meet.

"This meet has literally exploded," said meet director John Goodridge. "It's a very special event unfolding."

Goodridge should know. He and his wife — the former Francie Kraker, an Ann Arbor native who ran in the 1968 and 1972 Olympics — coached cross country and track at Wake Forest for 15 years until last fall, when they decided to return to Michigan to establish an Olympic Development Distance Running Center.

"There's always been this great, great need for developing post-collegiate athletes in track," Goodridge said. "Once he (or she) graduates, all his support is gone."

It was that way when his wife attended the University of Michigan. "Things haven't changed in this country much since she graduated," he said.

Saturday's track spectacular, Goodridge hopes, will ignite interest in track clubs and expand the fan support in his sport.

Certainly it is a premier lineup. The men's mile, for instance, will feature Canada's Kevin Sullivan, the 15th fastest miler in the world in 1999; 1996 U.S. Olympian Paul McMullen; and Kenyan Amos Kipyegon. They will pursue the fastest sub-four-minute mile ever run in this state.

There's more. The women's 1,500 meters highlights Collette Liss, the U.S.A. indoor national mile runner-up, while the men's 800 includes Trinity Townsend, the seventh-ranked American at that distance in 1999.

The women's 800 will feature three women who have been very close to the U.S. qualifying time in the 800 of 2:05.0: Jill McMullen (Paul's wife) of Ypsilanti, Melissa Smith of Grand Valley State and Hope Sanders of the Indiana Invaders club.

In the 400, Nigerian Clement Chukwu — 15th fastest in the world last year — will compete.

On a closer-to-home note, high school sensation Dathan Ritzenhein of Rockford will try to reach the U.S. Olympic Trials qualifying standard of 13:47 in the 5,000-meter run. Ritzenhein, the Foot Locker national high school cross country champion, won both the 1,600 and 3,200 races at last weekend's state meet, setting a new state record of 4:08.08 in the 1,600.

He'll be up against some tough company, including four Americans — Jeff Simonich in the 5,000 and Jim Jurcevic, Kyle Baker and Chad Baker in the 10,000 — who have already qualified for the U.S. Trials, scheduled to start July 13. Also competing will be Kenyan Sammy Nyamongo.

The meet will begin at 7 p.m. and last for approximately two hours. Admission is $5.

Events include the men's 110-meter high hurdles, high jump and long jump; boys and girls high school one-mile runs; men's national 100 meters; men's international 100 meters; men's international 400 meters; women's international 800 meters; men's national 800; men's international 800; women's international 1,500; men's national 1,500; men's international 200; men's international 5,000; and men's international one mile.

"We have a real fine group of athletes who are very close to qualifying," said Goodridge. "This is big stuff. World-class runners will be in Canton Saturday night."

"We've assembled these athletes, and now we're trying to make sure the running public is aware. That can be vital for top performances. There is a connection between the athlete and the crowd."

And hopefully there will be something special and lasting between big-time track and the surrounding area.

BY PAUL BEAUDRY
STAFF WRITER
pbeaudry@oe.hometown.net

On a team where pitching usually rules the day, Garden City found that hot bats can work just as well.

The Cougars banged out 12 hits in Saturday's Division I district final at Livonia Franklin and wound up with an 11-6 win over Wayne Memorial, earning a spot in this Saturday's regional semi-final against Taylor Kennedy.

Garden City advanced to the final with a 5-1 win over Wayne, as Robbie Hudson hurled an inconsistent one-hitter, with eight walks, five wild pitches and 10 strikeouts. Wayne earned its spot with a mild 3-1 upset over Livonia Churchill.

Pitching was not the forte in the finals for either Wayne or GC. Garden City's Justin Ockerman (11-1) struggled in the championship game with control, giving up nine hits, three walks, four wild pitches and 12 strikeouts.

"We were confident we could hit Ockerman because we had nine hits off him earlier in the year," said Zebras' coach Tom Wakefield. "Our guys were gearing up for him. We figured that we did it before, so we might as well not hold anything back."

Wayne (9-13) had its problems on the mound, too. Scheduled starter Ryan Ybarra was hampered by a leg strain, so the Zebras started Pat Barter instead. After tagging GC with a three-spot in the first inning, the Cougars (22-4) chased Barter in the third with a five-run inning to take the lead for good. In all, Barter, Ybarra, Matt Mackiewicz and Justin Smoes gave up 11 hits with five walks, three strikeouts and five wild pitches.

"(Wayne) was gave (Justin) all he could handle the first time," GC coach Steve Herman said. "We had seen their guys too, so we knew what to expect from them, just like they knew what to expect by seeing Justin before."

GC manufactured the game's first run with a leadoff single by Mike Sparks, who was the sacrificed to second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch. Wayne took its only lead in the bottom of the frame. Adam See led off with a single, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Gary Stevens, who took second on the throw home. Jon Judd walked and Mackiewicz singled to left, scoring Stevens. Then Barter knocked Judd home.

It stayed that way until the third inning, when the Cougars batted around the order to take a 6-3 lead and were never headed again. Sparks had an RBI single to score Robby Minch, then Hudson singled to left to score Sparks. Ockerman gave the Cougars the lead for good with a two-run single, forcing Wakefield to bring in Ybarra to pitch. Ryan Krol greeted Ybarra with a grounder to second, but the throw was wild. Jason Samborski, who entered the game as a courtesy runner for Krol, then scored on a single by Matt Gordon. "The meat of the lineup did the job," Herman said. "Sparks, Hudson, Marco, Ockerman all came through."

GC scored two more in the fourth as Sparks scored on a single by Hudson and Marco DiMichele scored on a wild pitch after reaching on a walk. Ybarra cut the lead to 8-4 in the fourth as Brad Laws scored on a single by Ybarra, but Angelo DiMichele got a run back for the Cougars with a solo homer to right in the fifth.

Both teams got a pair of runs in the seventh. Garden City's came when Hudson doubled, Ockerman singled to score him, then Angelo DiMichele doubled to score Brent Pelz, who entered as a courtesy runner for Ockerman. Wayne pulled its pair on a two-run single by Jason Gibson, scoring Ybarra and Stevens.

"Ybarra was our top pitcher all year and he came up to me before the game and said that he didn't think he was 100 percent," said Wakefield. "I gave the start to Barter and they got to him. We just ran short on pitchers."

WAYNE 3, CHURCHILL 4: The Zebras qualified for the finals thanks to Stevens' homer in the first with Ybarra aboard. Ybarra also scored an insurance run in the sixth and wound up going 2-for-3 in the game. Josh Odom scored Churchill's only run in the fourth inning on Tim Greenleaf's double.

Mackiewicz got the win, with a walk, five hits and eight strikeouts, while Brad Bescoe suffered the loss for the Chargers (15-14) — also giving up five hits with a walk and nine strikeouts.

GARDEN CITY 5, JOHN GLENN 0: In addition to getting the win on the mound, Hudson (5-3) was 3-for-4 with a run scored, while Ockerman had a two-run double in the first to score Marco DiMichele and Hudson. Sparks had a two-run double in the sixth scoring Gordon and Angelo DiMichele.

Brandon Aljouny had the Rockets' lone hit with a single in the fifth inning. John Glenn (8-21) had opportunities to score, but left nine runners left on base. Jeff Mitchell (3-8) took the loss, giving up all five runs, seven hits, five walks and three strikeouts.

"In our last six or seven games, we just haven't been hitting," said JG coach Todd Duffield. "We couldn't take advantage of situations. We got guys on base, we just couldn't score."

Greenmead hosts concerts and festivals this summer

BY KEELY WYGONIK

kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

It's an overcast day and threatening to rain, but students from the Livonia Career Technical Center's building trades classes are too busy to notice a few raindrops. They're working on finishing a new farm exhibit shed at Greenmead Historical Park that will house an antique thresher and other farm implements. The shed is open on one side so visitors can view the equipment.

Most of the emphasis at Greenmead has been on restoring buildings not farm implements. When the new shed is completed, the thresher will have a home. The thresher was donated by Bill Lute, whose family has lived and farmed in Livonia for many generations.

"It feels good," said junior Frank Baker about the work he and his classmates have done. "We built something people will see."

Eric Dierickx, also a junior, adds, "I've learned a lot about putting up siding, right now we're doing shingles. It was built with pride."

Their instructor, Harry Jachym of Plymouth, and Tom Berry of Livonia, a vocational tech and skilled tradesman, agree the students have put a lot of effort into Greenmead's newest addition.

Work began in mid-March, and the students are nearly done. "I like being outside, it's a more real-life situation for the students," said Jachym. "The project is a cooperative effort between the Livonia Career Technical Center, building trades classes and the city of Livonia. This building has been planned for several years. Last year, the building trades students restored the privy near Newburgh School at Greenmead."

Marian Renaud, program supervisor at Greenmead, wants people to come to Greenmead to see the shed and enjoy the many events scheduled throughout the summer.

"The park is being utilized in a variety of ways," said Renaud. "We want people to come out and enjoy the site and tour the buildings."

More than 200 artists will exhibit paintings, ceramics, jewelry, glass, photography, metal, wood, and fiber Saturday-Sunday, June 10-11, during the 24th annual Livonia Arts Festival. The festival is held in conjunction with the Fine Arts in the Village exhibit inside Greenmead's historic buildings.

Learn about 'Railroading in America'

BY KRISTA HOPSON
STAFF WRITER

Before automobiles, railroads were the way Americans (and freight) got around this country, railroads supported America's industrial revolution.

This summer, Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village will be bringing back a part of 19th-century railroads with the Detroit, Toledo and Milwaukee Roundhouse. The 13,500-square-foot roundhouse will be the featured summer attraction at Greenfield Village's "Railroading in America" summer festival. The roundhouse will become a permanent exhibit at the village on Saturday, June 10. The "Railroading in America" festival will run Friday, June 17, to Sunday, Aug. 20.

The DT&M Roundhouse from Marshall, Mich., once served the steady locomotives that ran from Allegan to Dundee. Originally constructed in 1871, the six-stall steam locomotive repair facility is now the only working roundhouse in the Midwest and is one of seven such roundhouses in the country.

The original idea to bring the DT&M Roundhouse to Greenfield Village began about 15 years ago, said Blaine Hayes, the roundhouse project manager. The construction of the roundhouse, however, began in June 1999.

Pieces from the original roundhouse were salvaged from the Marshall site and were used in the reconstruction of the DT&M Roundhouse including 18 cast iron windows, support columns and components from roof trusses. Other pieces, such as machinery, were brought in from railroad museums or private collections and restored to working condition.

"The building itself has been recreated to be exactly like it was in Marshall," Hayes said. "We used only original pieces of the buildings that were structurally sound."

The roundhouse has six sets of tracks and was built to be accessible to Greenfield Village's locomotive turntable.

Inside the roundhouse, visitors can stand beneath the locomotives of Greenfield Village to view vintage repair machinery in action, in addition to having an up-close look at historic locomotives such as the 1902 Atlantic.

Ten feet above the floor, visitors will also get a first-hand look at the active repair area from an overhead mezzanine. They will be able to see wheel repair, the machining of broken or worn parts and the reassembly of the Chamber music fest features 20 concerts, 35 musicians

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovanzo@oe.homecomm.net

After six years, Maury Okun is ready to concede that the annual Great Lakes Chamber Music Festival could probably run on automatic pilot.

Of course, in the days leading up to opening night, Okun, executive director of the festival, won't leave anything to chance. No detail is too small. No question goes unanswered.

Actually, "automatic pilot" looks a lot like a "man on a mission."

What started off as a modest schedule of five concerts and expanded to a week of performances, has blossomed into two weeks of music from a repertoire known for its intimate, ethereal sound and as a showcase of individual musician's virtuosity.

The festival begins Saturday with a program that features the music of Bach, Chopin and Brahms at the Kirk in the Hills Sanctuary in Bloomfield Hills.

Overall, the festival features 20 concerts, nine venues, and 35 international musicians performing six works by J.S. Bach, three of Brahms piano trios and nine works by Pulitzer Prize-winning composer-in-residence, William Bolcom.

"This is one of the festivals that lets musicians play what they want to play," said Okun. "But it's also a juggling act with achieving the artistic vision."

Compared to other chamber music festivals around the country, Okun contends that the Great Lakes gathering offers more challenging, less familiar and, ultimately, less accessible music.

some programmers, it hasn't hurt the festival. Last year, the festival increased ticket sales by 15 percent from 1998. Okun expects a similar increase this year.

With the festival cruising into its seventh year, there's nothing automatic about how Okun handles the contingency planning and logistics.

On most days, that's nothing short of arranging details of a military operation. It helps, of course, to have enlisted volunteers from the three religious communities that offer their respective places of worship as venues for performances—Kirk in the Hills, St. Hugo's and Temple Beth El.

Other locations for the festival include the new Seligman Performing Art Center on the Detroit County Day campus, Kerrytown Concert House in Ann Arbor, Detroit Institute of Arts and the Detroit Zoo.

While internationally acclaimed piano virtuoso James Tocco, formerly of Detroit, serves as artistic director and big-name attraction, it falls on Okun to put together the pieces of the festival.

"Setting the repertoire is a huge piece of the puzzle," said Okun.

Okun doesn't only wear many administrative hats, he's become a quick-change artist, moving from meeting to music rehearsal, suit coat to trombonist.

Along with his duties as executive director of the festival, Okun also holds similar capacity for the Eisenhower Dance Ensemble and Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings, a group he cofounded in the early 1980s, several years after he earned his master's degree studying wind instruments at Northwestern University.

A recent "typical" day for Okun went like this: Wake at six, practice trombone for an hour, work at the office until seven, then hurry to make an evening rehearsal for Peter Grimes, the current opera at the Detroit Opera House.

That type of hectic day isn't unusual for musicians. But for a few weeks, the chance to play chamber music with international musicians is worth the added stress.

"In an orchestra, there's a division of responsibilities. It sort of dilutes the role any individual artist," said Debra Fayroian of Troy, a cellist with the DSO who will perform throughout the festival.

"With chamber music, you're more of a soloist and have a chance to express yourself."

Laurence Liberson, assistant principal clarinet of the DSO, will also perform throughout the festival. "I don't look at it as whether this festival is as prestigious as another festival," he said.

DSO composer premieres latest work inspired by Rosa Parks

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovenzano@oe.homecomm.net

Unlike many classical music composers, Michael Daugherty can be easily found.

He doesn't put up barriers - creative, psychological or geographical. Nor does he make any attempt to disconnect himself from a culture where a popular musical composition is typically three chords, a droning bass line and hiccup-sounding euphemisms for coitus.

This weekend, Daugherty's most recent work, Rosa Parks Boulevard, will premiere as maestro Neme Jarvi conducts the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in the first of three orchestral compositions for a symphonic suite entitled MotorCity Triptych.

Daugherty, the composer-in-residence with the DSO, is writing the two other pieces of the triptych, one inspired by Motown and the other, tentatively entitled, Pedal to the Metal, an homage to the automobile industry.

The suite will be completed for the city of Detroit's tricentennial celebration next year.

While high-falutin' classical music critics frown on any "serious" composer who attempts to appeal to the masses, Daugherty's body of work inspired by American cultural icons is a frontal assault on arguably one of the most stodgy art forms.

"Whenever you do something new and innovative you're either esoteric or you're communicating to too many people," said Daugherty from his studio in Ann Arbor, where he also teaches composition at the University of Michigan.

Compositions in classical music catalogues are typically redundant references to musical keys and a particular repertoire. Daugherty's compositions are more likely to sound like movie titles.

Among his works are an opera, Jackie O. Elvis Everywhere written for three Elvis impersonators and a string quartet, a symphony dedicated to characters from the Superman comics, and Desi, a Latin big band tribute to Ricky Ricardo. (Yes, the Ricky from "I Love Lucy.")

"I think music is fashionable, tied to a certain time," he said. "To be a contemporary music composer is to do something different."

Relatively speaking, Daugherty's composition are nothing less than gutsy. The sensibility is contemporary, but the layered sound is intricately patterned within a complex structure.

Recently, Daugherty's concerto, U.F.O., written for Scottish percussionist Evelyn Glennie was performed by the New York Philharmonic. Critics have called some of Daugherty's work "gimmicky," but the recent performances of U.F.O. received acclaim for "capturing Ms. Glenn's ebullient personality."

Before he composed Rosa Parks Boulevard, Daugherty spent a Sunday afternoon with the civil rights legend as she attended Mass. She told him that a favorite piece of music was the old Negro spiritual, "Oh, Freedom."

Around that time, Daugherty also became enamored with the poem, "God's Trombone," a reference to the resounding inflection of a Baptist minister's exhortations.

The coincidence was turned into a 12-minute musical composition that features trombones and a turbulent auditory landscape to simulate Parks' famous refusal to take a seat in the back of the bus.

Theatre Guild presents extravaganza of one-acts

By KRISTA HOPSON
STAFF WRITER

Mark Ripper's one act play, "By the Horns" about love lost and a wife, might just be what brings the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford the recognition it has been striving to achieve in the community.

Ripper's "By the Horns" will be one of four featured original plays by local playwrights performed at the Guild's "One Acts-Travaganza." The event will be at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, June 16-17, June 23-24 and 2 p.m. Sunday, June 25 at the Guild's theater in Redford.

The inspiration for Ripper's play came from a real-life situation that he experienced. It was written as a short-story while Ripper, a Westland resident, was in college. He then adapted the work as a play.

"It deals with real-life events, and people can really relate to it," Ripper said.

Other original plays will include "The Masquerade" by Pat Feldt, "Moral Congress" by Lance Abke and "Merely Neighborly" by Tim Jeffries.

For the last 45 years, the Redford Guild has struggled to maintain membership and increase visibility in the community, said Sean Kelley, the president of the Guild's board of directors.

"People (in the area) are always amazed when they find out a theater is there and has been there for so long," Kelley said. "We want to get more people out to support not only us but also local theaters as well."

Kelley, a member for four years, hopes the new and younger group of actors and playwrights currently involved will finally give the Guild the boost it has been looking for.

The one-act plays have been a part of the Guild's season for five years. The main goal of the one-act plays is to spotlight local playwrights, said Heidi Kelley, a new member of the Guild's board and Sean's wife.

"(The plays) are originals and showcase people's talents, and that's why we do it," Heidi Kelley said.

The Guild consists of local residents who Sean Kelley of Hazel Park describes as "just a group who love the theater."

Sean Kelley has loved the theater since he got a role as a 10 year old playing Tiny Tim in his school's "A Christmas Carol."

He continued to act and eventually received his bachelor's degree in theater from Western Michigan University.

But it wasn't until a friend asked him to audition for a one-act play he had written for the Guild that Sean became involved with the Guild.

"I just love performing, and theater is a live audience and that's just a fantastic thrill," Sean Kelley said.

His wife, Heidi, also has an early background in theater but now prefers to stay behind the scenes as stage management. She just recently got involved with the Guild.

"I have stage fright, believe it or not," Heidi Kelley said. "I tried to act, but it just scared me too much."

Now, as newly appointed members to the board of directors, Sean and Heidi will be acting less but providing more leadership for the Guild.

The Guild's 11 new members to board of directors were elected on May 18. The board is planning to expand the number of plays the Guild puts on every year and possibly tour around the area to put on shows for children.

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford is at 15138 Beech Daly in Redford across from the police station. Tickets for the One Acts-Travaganza are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

Fisher's 2000-01 season features popular musicals

From September through April, the Detroit Fisher Theatre Playgoer Series will be loaded with musicals with a variety of Broadway stars.

The 2000-2001 season will begin in September with Annie Get Your Gun starring screen and television star Merilu Hener. The 1946 musical follows the original female sharpshooter, Annie Oakley, on a trip through the West and during her days as a part of "Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show." With a score written by Irving Berlin, Annie Get Your Gun, features song such as "There's No Business Like Show Business" and "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun."

This musical will be followed by Blast! in October. Blast! includes a cast of 68 world-class musicians performing classical, Broadway and popular pieces. The show is based on the synchronized drills and marches of the military marching bands as well as special effects.

■ 'Fiddler on the Roof,' starring Theodore Bikel, makes its way to the Fisher Theatre in October and runs through November. The musical includes such songs as 'Matchmaker, Matchmaker' and 'Sunrise, Sunset.'

Fiddler on the Roof, starring Theodore Bikel, makes its way to the Fisher Theatre in October and runs through November. The musical includes such songs as

"Matchmaker, Matchmaker" and "Sunrise, Sunset."

During November and December, Nun-crackers will be on stage. Nun-crackers stars Dodie

Goodman and Georgia Engel as sisters of Mount Saint Helen's convent. It is the fourth episode in the Nunsense series and is a holiday musical that pokes fun at holiday traditions from gift giving to secret Santas.

Kathleen Turner will star in the pre-Broadway tour of Tallulah in February and March. The play focuses on the life of screen legend Tallulah Bankhead as she prepares to host a fund-raiser for incumbent president Harry S. Truman.

The Playgoer Series concludes with Ragtime, the winner of four 1998 Tony Awards. Ragtime will be performed in March and April. It is a musical epic that follows the lives of three different families living in New York and they intertwine with one another as well as several historical figures.

Tickets for the Fisher Theatre Playgoer series went on sale on June 5. For more information call (313) 872-1000.

EMU wraps up with comedy

Eastern Michigan University ends its 1999-2000 season with "Das Barbecu," a country & western musical comedy by Jim Luigs with music by Scott Warrander. "Das Barbecu" is directed by Ken Stevens and will be performed in the Sponberg Theatre on EMU's Ypsilanti campus, 8 p.m. Thursday-Friday, June 8-10.

Tickets are $13, call (734) 487-1221.

"Das Barbecu" is the campy retelling of Wagner's "Ring Cycle" that moves five actors through more than 30 characters at a delirious pace.

Characters included in this musical quest for a magic ring are young maiden Brunhilde, her love Siegfried the singing cowboy, Alberich the evil dwarf, and Wotan the one-eyed man.

Toss in three spinster river maidens, a few dwarves, a couple of giants, two shotgun weddings and a salute to guacamole and you have wild and rollicking musical adventure.

More Moore: Demi Moore stars as both Marty and Marie in Alain Berliner's "Passion of Mind."

ISABELLE WEINGARTNER

Demi Moore's latest has her in intriguing dual role

BY CHRISTY LEMIRE
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Demi Moore plays a woman living two lives in "Passion of Mind."

That's not even the most unusual part of the movie. What's immediately striking is how much clothing Moore wears in both lives. After showing off her perfectly toned body in "Striptease" and "G.I. Jane" and on magazine covers in the '90s, here Moore's character wears baggy overalls in the garden and pajamas and socks to bed.

Her wardrobe is only the most obvious indication of how different a film this is for her. Look closer and you'll see Moore has immersed herself in a complex role that depends on subtle nuance to convey two separate lives. She plays Marie, a widowed mother of two young daughters who lives in the French countryside. She spends sunny, lazy days working in the garden and writing free-lance book reviews for The New York Times.

But when she goes to sleep at night, she wakes up as Marty, a high-powered Manhattan literary agent who lives alone in a spacious, eclectic loft.

Then the next morning, she wakes up again as Marie. Which life is real and which is imaginary? It's impossible to tell. Both are so rich in detail, they feel completely real to Marie/Marty and to the audience.

She confides her confusion to therapists in France and New York, and friends in both places try to convince her they're the ones who are real. She also falls in love with a man in each life. In France, it's the aggressive and seductive William (Stellan Skarsgard), a writer whose most recent novel she has just trashed. In New York, it's Aaron (William Fichtner), a shy, thoughtful accountant who becomes her friend first and then her lover.

Is she cheating on one with the other? She can't discern which man is an illusion, and fears choosing the wrong one. Writer Ron Bass, known for big box office movies like "Entrapment," "My Best Friend's Wedding" and "Rain Man," keeps the audience guessing until the very end in this slower, subtler film.

Much of Bass' dialogue does feel stilted, however, and his romantic interests for Marie/Marty are completely annoying and create little chemistry.

Both men lay their cards on the table way too early. William tells Marie during one of their early meetings, "I've decided I want you to like me," and after their first date, "I'd like to come home with you." On Marty's first informal date with Aaron in Central Park, he tells her wistfully, "There's something about two people sharing their souls on a Sunday morning."

Who would date either of them? And why do either of them stay with her after she admits she has a secret, second life? They should write her off as a nut and run for the hills, but for some reason they stick around. This latest film from Belgian director Alain Berliner couldn't be more different from his earlier "Ma Vie en Rose" ("My Life in Pink"), about a 7-year-old boy who believes he's a girl, wears makeup and dresses, and plays with dolls.

Both feature main characters who struggle with identity crises, but that's where the similarities end. "Ma Vie en Rose," which earned Berliner a Golden Globe for best foreign language film in 1998, was bright, colorful, even campy at times.

"Passion of Mind" is more subdued and introspective. It's flawed and a bit convoluted, but worth seeing simply because the idea behind it is so intriguing.

"Passion of Mind" is a Paramount Classics release; it runs 105 minutes.

'Momma' showcases Martin Lawrence's comedic skills

BY NEKESA MUMBI MOODY
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Whether it's "Bad Boys," "Blue Streak" or the new "Big Momma's House," Martin Lawrence always ends up playing the same character in his movies - which is Martin Lawrence.

And playing Martin Lawrence basically consists of making exaggerated facial expressions, exhibiting a comically defiant attitude and using off-color words in as many different combinations as possible.

Even though Lawrence's act is getting repetitive, it's still good enough to make for an amusing time in "Big Momma's House," in which he not only plays an FBI agent, but dons a fat suit and rubber face to go undercover as a 70-year-old woman whose granddaughter is being investigated by federal authorities.

Malcolm Turner (Lawrence) is a federal agent and master of disguises who loves the dangerous elements of his job and shuns the ho-hum family life. His partner, John (Paul Giamatti), is of course the complete opposite - preferring to stay in the station rather than go out and chase the bad guys.

When Lester, a deadly bank robber (Terrence Howard), busts out of jail, Malcolm and John are assigned to monitor the house of Big Momma (Ella Mitchell), the feisty Southern grandmother of Lester's gorgeous ex-girlfriend Sherry (Nia Long). Authorities suspect that Sherry has hidden the loot from Lester's earlier bank robbery and is planning to run away with Lester and the $2 million booty.

The surveillance is running smoothly until Big Momma is suddenly summoned out of town on an emergency. With Sherry heading to visit her, Malcolm figures the only way to keep Sherry from leaving is to become Big

At the movies: Martin Lawrence stars in "Big Momma's House" at theaters today.

Momma himself.

Just the sight of Lawrence dressed as a hefty old woman with a blond wig and huge breasts is enough to garner a few laughs. But watching him try to stay in character as Big Momma while admiring Sherry's sexy body, fighting off the advances of a randy old coot and bouncing his large frame off some young punks on the basketball court is hysterical. While Lawrence is not always confined to the fat suit - Malcolm does emerge to woo the beguiling Sherry - it's as Big Momma that he is most entertaining.

Lawrence has long been adept at donning women's clothes for laughs: His Sheneneh character on his defunct sitcom "Martin" still has people in stitches in reruns.

Lawrence's turn as Big Momma is certain to draw comparisons to Eddie Murphy's "The Nutty Professor," in which Murphy played at least five different characters, some requiring fat suits and prosthetics and making him completely unrecognizable. (A sequel is scheduled to hit theaters this summer.)

But the makeup job here is less convincing. First, to make Lawrence and Mitchell look alike, Mitchell's face was altered with prosthetics, making her look distractingly unnatural. Lawrence's face has similar problems, although since it is supposed to have been made on the quick by Malcolm and John, it's more forgivable - and kind of humorous.

Darryl Quarles and Don Rhymer wrote the mostly formulaic screenplay. But it has enough funny moments and Lawrence antics to keep the audience from concentrating on the predictability of it all. "Big Momma's House," directed by Raja Gosnell, is distributed by Twentieth Century Fox; it's rated PG-13 and runs 105 minutes.

STREET CORNER

For a healthy dose of happy-go-lucky punk just 'blink'

Tom DeLonge wouldn't exactly be surprised if the Central Intelligence Agency stopped by his house, in an attempt to keep him quiet.

STEPHANIE A. CASOLA
Singer, guitarist and one-third of the Bay Area's pop-punk outfit blink-182, DeLonge admits he's somewhat consumed by thoughts of government conspiracy and alien existence - and he's proud of it.

"All I ever do is read books about aliens and the end of the world," he said in a recent telephone interview with The Observer & Eccentric. "I'm trying to open up the eyes of the public. I know we have got technology and contact." Though he insists it's just the government and Tom DeLonge himself that know for sure. "I'm going to talk about aliens so much it will get the point where the CIA is coming to my house."

"If my band is suddenly really unpopular..." his voice trails with laughter as if he expects to get into some trouble. Somehow it seems unlikely. But this virtual obsession with the unknown did lead to his favorite track on the band's latest album Enema of the State.

A possible new single and video might be made for Aliens Exist, the mere thought of which gets DeLonge into an adorable, child-like tizzy squealing: "I might have my video."

This is a far cry from his earlier days of delivering concrete. DeLonge insists if he weren't busy being a full time rock star, he'd probably be "stuck at some god-awful 40-hour a week job." "I lucked out," he said. "We worked hard to get it."

The work has paid off and to prove it DeLonge and his blink-182 cohorts, singer-bassist Mark Hoppus and new drummer Travis Barker will grace the stage June 9 at Pine Knob Music Theatre in Independence Township before a sold out crowd. The upcoming tour, he promised, will be chock full of funny video footage and some funny new jokes - along with some of the same old jokes the band can't seem to lose.

What does blink-182 do before heading out on such a big-time tour with all sorts of sold-out dates? "I light a fire, say a chant. I put water on my face," he said, laughing. "I don't really do anything. I try to relax as much as possible. Every time I come home, I'm more busy than anyone you've ever seen."

While sitting on his sofa strumming his guitar from a San Diego home, DeLonge spoke with an easy-going tone - seeming almost stunned about the band's success. "We all met through mutual friends and put a band together. All of a sudden we're playing big shows."

Referred to as Hot Pants - for no particular reason - on the CD liner notes, he describes the average blink fan as a "happy-go-lucky skater kid who doesn't hate the world." Though he admits now rock, pop and metal fans of all ages entered the mix. "There's such a wide array of kids." But the punk-rock-skater boys and girls remain loyal.

"We sing about things these kids can relate to," he reasoned. "We're sincere about what we write about." That encompasses anything from the heartbreak of Don't Leave Me to the lessons about women taught ever-so-tongue-in-cheek in The Party Song, and it's all done in furiously-paced blink-182 style.

The band is also featured on the latest compilation for Benefit for The Bay. "We live at the beach," said DeLonge. "We knew the people putting it together. We've done one or two before."

His reasoning is simple, and it rhymes: "If it helps out the bay, then hay!"

But radio stations, MTV and music media everywhere can't get enough of Enema of the State over-whelming undeniable hits like All The Small Things and What My Age Again. "I'm really proud of our record," he said. "I like what we've done."

Though the album took only two and a half months to record, it's proved to have a much longer shelf life. After 50 weeks on the Billboard 200 chart, it's steady at 48. Their recent single Adam's Song is currently at number two on the Modern Rock Charts. But that's not all DeLonge has been listening to these days. After a recent trip to the record store, he bought albums by Dr. Dre, The Descendants and The Ataris.

As for his own band, DeLonge noted that they've come a long way. "We've gotten to be a much better band, better songwriters. We learned from what we've done wrong - what jokes are bad, what music's bad. But we all know we look really good naked!"

Does anyone else predict an alien abduction here?

Lucky ticketholders will see all of blink-182, along with Bad Religion, Fenix TX, 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 9, Pine Knob Music Theatre, Independence Township. (248) 377-0100.

Lou Reed tour brings 'Ecstasy' to State Theatre

BY ALICE RHEIN
STAFF WRITER
arhein@oe.homecomm.net
For music enthusiasts, the one true test of a perennial artist's or band's musical relevance is whether or not their early vinyls were upgraded to CDs.

David Bowie. Yes. Ziggy Stardust is as fresh today as it was more than a quarter century ago.

The Who. No. Live at Leeds remains tucked away in its cardboard case, pressed together with every other Who album purchased in the prime of adolescence.

King Crimson. Some. Though played far less often than they ought to be.

Then there's Lou Reed - who performs at the State Theatre on Thursday, June 15.

From his very first album, The Velvet Underground and Nico to Transformer, his brilliant second solo album, to Rock & Roll Animal, often reputed to be one of rock's best live albums, to New York, the poignant poet's perspective on politics, drugs and sex in the city, just about every Reed vinyl in my collection has its jewel-cased sister.

And after a few less-than-memorable projects to date (specifically 1996's Set the Twilight Reeling and 1998's live Perfect Night), the master of avant-rock is back with Ecstasy, a textured torrent of biting lyrics and finked-up rhythms.

Girlfriend Laurie Anderson - the performance artist best known for O Superman - lends her electric violin to Rock Minuet and Rouge, the former a maudlin tale of perversion; the latter a lush minuet which is prelude to the heavy anthem Big Sky.

The 77-minute album opens with Paranoia Key of E, an acerbic writ set loose into a den of droning guitars courtesy of Reed and guitarist Mike Rathke.

There's also Like a Possum, a gritty urban tale which, at 18 minutes, is certainly not destined for radio play, but holds its weight against Sister Ray, the last lengthy saga Reed offered when he fronted the Velvet Underground.

At 58, the sinewy Brooklyn native, once the darling of Andy Warhol's Factory, is less decadent these days and more the quintessential New Yorker - a mindful cynic who can't help but find pleasure in pain.

But even with more than 35 years in the music biz, Reed hasn't lost a beat.

Perhaps he's not walking on the wild side quite so much - he was, after all, the subject of a profile on the PBS American Masters series. And he's played art festivals, the White House and the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame.

Still, while the musical roots for a generation of new artists can be traced back to Reed, his most recent works remain relevant Songs for Drella, his 1990 dedication to Warhol which reunited him with former Undergrounder John Cale, and 1992's Magic & Loss, a deathly serious work of art, are witness to why he is rock's poet laureate.

Ecstasy reaches its climax on its title track not with a wailing wall of sound, but with lush orchestration and a grave declaration of discontent.

Add in Future Farmers of America, with its upbeat rock tempo, and Reed, along with David Kahne and Hal Willner, have produced an impressive array of songs that explore the dark side but still know how to rock.

CD REVIEW

The Eels' new release proves to be a slithering success

Daisies of the Galaxy
The Eels

DreamWorks Recordings
In the genre of "artists formally known as," Daisies of the Galaxy, the Eels third album is written and produced by a man called E. Just E.

And though E is often the subject of his music, he isn't the main attraction. Instead, he channels family tragedies (his beloved sister and father died within months of each other), confusion and clinical depression into deceptively simple but extraordinarily plush pop tunes.

It takes a very peculiar mind to attack a mamba beat to songs about death, cancer and hospital food (not necessarily in that order), as E did in his previous releases Electro Shock Blues and Beautiful Freak. But it works.

With the tonal sensibility of melodic sage Brian Eno and the delightfully funky courage of Beck, the California artist formerly known as Mark Everett seems - if not happy - is at least a bit happier in his third release.

Daisies opens with a wash of off-beat horns and shifts into Grace Kelly Blues, an ebb and flow of plucky guitars and drifting orchestration.

For one of the most intelligent lyricists of our time, his subjects are rather warm and fuzzy - furry field mice, biras, clouds and daisies, of course.

But he takes poetic twists and turns into the dark side with Tiger in my Tank ("I think I'm on the brink of disaster"), and ruminates in the bittersweet Selective Memory ("The days go on forever when you only know that much").

Rather than needing Norwegian for the Soul, as in his first release, E seems to be numbing his pain with the forces of nature. And when that doesn't work, he always has a perennially upbeat rhythm running through his veins.

Diners give seafood restaurant good reviews

RALPH ECHTINAW

I'm writing about the Plymouth Fish Seafood Market & Restaurant today because owners Lori and Vincent Toia mailed me a letter, take-out menu and gift certificates for four fish-and-chips dinners in early March.

That's not to say I accept bribes, but it got my attention.

I shipped the gift certificates and a menu off to the Observer's Plymouth office because I didn't want to get extra special service. Ergo, reporters Scott Daniel and Sue Buck (and Sue's daughter Anni) did the initial taste test for me. I followed up in late March with a takeout order for myself and three others in the Livonia Observer office (using the name Stan so they wouldn't know I'm "the take-out guy").

Scott Daniel described his dinner as "uncommonly delicious. Unlike some restaurants where grease is the lone flavoring, Plymouth Fish seasons its fillets and grills its selections. The result is a tasty, not-too-heavy dinner."

Sue and Anni Buck had their free dinner at 2 p.m. on a Saturday and practically had the place to themselves.

"We both were served heaping platters filled with three-and-a-half pieces of Alaskan cod and French fries," wrote Sue. "We chose the deep-fried selection that wasn't the least bit greasy. The fish was light and flaky. The pieces were filleted lengthwise, and we were served the full length of fish."

While the Bucks ate, a regular customer came in for some clam chowder. "Standing at the door, he gave unsolicited praise to the preparation of the clam chowder, calling it creamy with lots of tomatoes. He called it the best that he has ever eaten," wrote Sue.

As the Bucks left, the young Buck commented, "Plymouth people sure are friendly."

Personally, I think the Plymouth Fish prices are a little high — but maybe not for Plymouth — and the food was great.

Internet Editor Emory Daniels had the ocean perch lunch with redskin potatoes. Redford Observer Editor Jeff Counts had the fish and chips. Westland

Emory, Jeff and Darrell were rather understated in their praise. Darrell characterized his lunch as "average portions, average quality, average in all respects."

Jeff said, "For carry-out fish and chips for lunch it's fine."

Of the four of us, I was the most impressed. The rice was tasty, nicely seasoned and contained chunks of carrots. The catfish had no bones, was lightly breaded and not greasy.

The cabbage in the cole slaw was cut into much bigger chunks than one usually finds in cole slaw. Jeff liked it that way. Emory didn't. Darrell said it was average.

I've got to give the owners credit for packaging. The takeout boxes were made of plastic foam, and each was marked so we knew what it was. They were stapled inside grocery bags along with covered plastic foam containers of cole slaw, plastic forks and napkins.

"I know how it is when you're passing food out for people," Lori Toia said.

contained, in addition to the entrée, packets of ketchup, tartar sauce and a slice of lemon.

I likely won't return to Plymouth Fish for takeout again but only because it's too far from my office at Schoolcraft and Levan.

If I worked in the Plymouth Observer office I'd go again.
