Ex-league officials will face charges

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Two former high-ranking officials of the Wayne-Ford Civic League will face criminal charges as early as today for allegations they embezzled thousands of dollars from the nonprofit organization, Westland Police Chief Daniel Pfannes confirmed Tuesday.

The charges will follow an investigation that began more than a year ago involving allegations of missing money.

Pfannes said two former officials each will face charges of embezzling more than $20,000 from the league - a nonprofit organization that raises money for youth athletic activities.

The officials are expected to turn themselves over to authorities for an arraignment in Westland 18th District Court, the chief said.

Aside from its youth programs, the civic league building on Wayne Road south of Ford also has a history of being a gathering spot for political events and election parties.

The league has hosted activities ranging from bingo to wrestling contests to raise money.

The new charges won't be the first time that a league official has been in trouble for allegations of illegally taking money.

Former President Neal Greenfield was charged last year with larceny for allegations he stole $1,400 in bingo money. He also faced drug charges after police said they found cocaine while searching his Westland house.

Greenfield pleaded guilty in July of last year to possession of less than 25 grams of cocaine, and Wayne County Circuit Judge Margie Braxton dismissed the larceny charge after prosecuting and defense attorneys reached a plea agreement.

During his sentencing last August, Braxton placed Greenfield on probation for one year for the cocaine charge, ordered him to take alcohol and drug testing, and to attend Gamblers Anonymous meetings.

"I don't even have a gambling thing," Greenfield told the Observer at the time.

The sentencing brought a swift resolution to the case, but Westland police Sgt. Chris Benson had said last August that an investigation was continuing into whether substantially larger amounts of money were missing from the civic league.

LeBlanc looks to November and beyond

A jubilant Patty Linna shows Richard LeBlanc the results from voting at the precinct at Lutheran High School in Westland. Looking on is term-limited State Rep. Glenn Anderson whose has thrown his support behind the Westland city councilman.

Margin of victory surprises 18th District candidate

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Riding a tidal wave of voter support, Richard LeBlanc trounced two Democratic rivals in Tuesday's state House primary and vowed to begin a campaign for victory in November.

"I'm excited, and I'm ready to start working on the general election," LeBlanc said Tuesday night, cheered on by a jubilant crowd inside the AMVETS Post 171 in Westland.

LeBlanc amassed nearly twice the votes as rivals James Godbout and Vince Petitpren combined, handily winning the 18th District Democratic nomination. He will now face Republican Sam Durante, who ran unopposed in Tuesday's primary.

With just over 20 percent of Westland voters casting ballots, LeBlanc commanded an early lead in vote tallies and never lost it. He carried all but one of

'Time to heal' after recall try

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

"It's time to heal." Those words - shared Tuesday by Steve Futrell, president of the Citizens for Livonia's Future - echoed throughout Livonia Public Schools School District this week.

The grassroots citizen's group failed to unseat Trustees Dan Lessard, Rob Freeman, Cynthia Markarian, Lynda Scheel and Kevin Whitehead on Tuesday. They will remain on the board, along with members Tom Bailey and Steve King.

About 28 percent of voters cast ballots in Livonia. Vote margins came in at about 40 percent in favor of recall, 60 percent opposed for each of the five trustees, with slight differences. Lessard received the most individual votes to support a recall at 8,916, while Scheel took the fewest at 8,423.

In most Livonia precincts, the voters opposed the recalls; however, pro-recall sentiments prevailed in vote totals at Hull, Taylor, Adams and Roosevelt.

Futrell said he was proud to see how many people turned out to vote - not only in the recall election, but in the May school board election.

"It's a sign to our board members that they'd better be on their toes," he said. "We'll continue to be actively involved." Markarian said she is ready to "move on" and see the community come together. "This is just the beginning," she said.

Freeman added: "We have a huge job ahead of us. The community has to heal. We all have to be part of it. Everybody."

Supt. Randy Liepa said the message in the school district this week remains the same, regardless of the election results.

"Our focus is on getting school started and healing the community," he said Wednesday morning. "School starts Sept. 6 for the kids."

Beard: Creating jobs will be at heart of her 15th term

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Unbeatable as ever, Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard sailed easily to victory in Tuesday's primary, defeating her opponent by a 4-to-1 margin.

Beard clinched a 15th consecutive two-year term by garnering 5,455 votes compared to Democratic challenger Vernell Massey's 1,350 in unofficial results.

Beard, the longest-serving commissioner in history, faces no Republican opposition in the Nov. 7 general election. Her 12th District includes Westland, Inkster and south Livonia.

Beard

"I'm very pleased and honored that so many people voted for me," Beard, 85, said. "I guess the voting public is pleased with the way I handle my job."

Massey, a 49-year-old Inkster resident, said she planned to call Beard on Tuesday to congratulate her on her victory.

Still, Massey indicated that she isn't done with politics. "I'll definitely be back," she said. "I'll be running again in two years."

Beard, a Westland resident formerly of Inkster, captured a landslide victory with 80 percent of vote totals compared to Massey's 20 percent. She has consistently defeated her opponents by huge margins.

Beard dismissed rumors that she would step down early during her next term so that one of her two daughters

- neither of them a Wayne County resident - could seek a commission appointment.

"I plan to serve out my term just as I have my other 14 terms," she said.

In her new term, Beard hopes that she and her commission colleagues can help to stimulate job growth.

"There has been a lot of job loss. Anything that we can do on the county level that can help to alleviate that is something we all need to concentrate on," she said. "We need to look for new businesses to come in and help older businesses maintain their employment levels.

"If people don't have jobs, they can't properly raise their families and attain the quality of life that we like to have."

In Westland, Beard beat Massey by a more than 5-to-1 margin, accumulating 3,507 votes compared to Massey's 645.

Beard continued to dominate in districtwide tallies, although her margin of victory narrowed somewhat to 4-to-1.

Her new term will start on Jan. 1. dclem@hometownlife.com | (734) 953-2110

St. Vincent de Paul opens big box store

A long vacant storefront has become the third part of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul's "Big Three" retail facilities in tri-county area.

SVdP will open the Westland Thrift Store and Donation Center, the largest thrift store in Wayne County, to the public at 9 a.m. Saturday, following a VIP preview today.

The 22,900-square-foot facility is the most recent addition to the Society's growing chain of 10 thrift stores across southeast Michigan and the third major big box operation to serve the metropolitan Detroit tri-county area. It's located at 6613 Wayne Road at Hunter in the Westland Shopping Plaza.

"The grand opening of our third big box thrift store in Westland is an extraordinary occasion for the Society as the largest thrift store in Wayne County," said SVdP Executive Director William Brazier.

"This store also joins the ranks of our two other big box operations. These three stores in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties are a critical part of the Society's mission to help the poor.

"Through donations and purchases at our thrift stores, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul is able to assist 30,000 households annually." Brazier added that the Westland, Clinton Township and Waterford big box thrift stores are unique facilities that offer more than 20,000-square-feet of retail and donation processing space. The concept converts vacant large-end retail space in high-traffic shopping centers into facilities that manage a large volume of retail and resale goods.

Since March 2005, the Society has opened a 38,000-square-foot former Best Buy facility in Clinton Township, the largest thrift store in operation by SVdP, and a 20,000-square-foot former New York Carpet World and pet store in Waterford. More than 300 shoppers visit the big box stores each day and SVdP officials anticipate the Westland store to draw similar numbers of customers and donors.

The Big Three will anchor the Society's chain of thrift stores in southeast Michigan. The big box approach is a modern trend in thrift store retailing that allows the Society to remain competitive in a changing marketplace, said Ray Minton, vice-president of Thrift Store Operations and a retired Kmart marketing executive.

"We're definitely on a roll,"

Minton said. "The wide selection of merchandise presents a unique shopping experience to bargain-hunters and also is affordable to people looking to stretch their dollar a little further. The nicer we present the store to our customers, the better quality of merchandise is donated which keeps us competitive in a varying economy."

The store will offer a wide selection of clothing for men, women and children, designer and retro fashions, career wear, footwear, in addition to antiques and collectibles, jewelry, electronics, records, books, sporting and outdoor equipment, furniture, and many other household items.

All 10 SVdP thrift stores will offer special sales in celebration of the Westland store grand opening.

Store hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon-5 p.m. Sunday. New items are received daily with merchandise rotated every six to eight weeks.

Donors may drop off items seven days a week until 30 minutes before closing at the drive-up donation center behind the store. Donor pickups for large items and quantities can be scheduled by calling (877) ST-VINCE (877-78-84623). Receipts for tax credit are available.

Through donations, volunteering and purchases at SVdP thrift stores, the Society is able to provide 30,000 households across southeast Michigan each year with domestic goods and assistance with housing and utility payments for families in need.

SVdP is a major provider of human and disaster relief services, assisting people in crisis who have been victims of fires or floods, lost their job, or other urgent situations by providing emergency support.

SVdP is one of 10 organizations nationwide selected by the United Methodist Committee on Relief to participate in Katrina Aid Today, a two-year case management grant funded by FEMA to assist with the resettlement of hurricane victims in the metro Detroit area.

SVdP works in conjunction with the Archdiocese of Detroit, networking with 2,000 Vincentian volunteers in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Lapeer, St. Clair and Monroe counties. Surplus from the thrift stores support SVdP's other charitable operations, including the Society's food depots, youth summer camps and health care facilities.

Union rallies in support of boycott of Kroger

BY DAN WEST
STAFF WRITER

Hundreds of union workers gathered at a Livonia grocery warehouse Sunday to protest a move by Kroger supermarkets to transfer its perishable inventory to an Ohio facility, a decision that's expected to cut hundreds of local jobs.

Teamster President James P. Hoffa, Wayne County Executive Bob Ficano and Democratic Congressional candidate Tony Trupiano were among the speakers who called for a public boycott of the grocer in a bid to save those local jobs on the chopping block.

"There are plenty of companies investing in southeastern Michigan, so why isn't Kroger," Ficano asked.

The crowd's response: "Greed!"

Kroger started to shift its produce and refrigerated products inventory from the Advantage Logistics facility on Middlebelt Road to an Ohio warehouse last month. It's a process that's expected to last several months. Leaders from Teamster's Local No. 337 said when the Kroger process is completed, the Livonia warehouse could eliminate 180-250 jobs. Some 500 people currently work in the warehouse.

Kroger spokeswoman Monica Gordon said the inventory will go to a state-of-the-art facility in Delaware, Ohio, located outside of Columbus. The Great Lakes Regional Distribution Center, which opened in 2003, is expected to supply groceries to Kroger's 245 stores in Michigan and parts of Ohio and West Virginia.

"This warehouse transition was necessary because the (Livonia) facility is outdated and under capacity," Gordon said. "This is a move that will help us operate more effectively and efficiently."

Advantage Logistics is a separate company that operates the warehouse that has stored Kroger's inventory for years. Gordon said the grocer plans to continue to use the Livonia warehouse for nonperishable goods to stock its 127 Michigan stores.

The Kroger transition has been an anxious time for Darryl Bellows, a Dearborn Heights resident who has worked as a warehouse truck driver for 22 years. With limited information coming from company officials, Bellows said many of his coworkers fear everyone will eventually lose their jobs.

"A lot of us are disgusted about this," Bellows said. "We just signed a contract where the truck drivers agreed to no raises, hoping that would prevent something like this, and it still happens."

Hoffa fired up the crowd Sunday by inspiring chants, cutting up Kroger Plus discount cards and calling on all metro Detroiters to stay out of Kroger stores. He said Sunday was the first of several rallies planned to preserve jobs in Michigan.

"It starts here if we are going to fight corporate greed," Hoffa said. "It starts with you. We can do it together and bury the 'Kroger Ogre!'"

Union officials are telling rank-and-file members they anticipate that Kroger eventually will yank all of its inventory from the Livonia facility and other Midwest warehouses and ship products the Ohio distribution center, where workers are unionized but paid substantially less than their counterparts in Livonia. Hoffa indicated that hundreds, maybe thousands, of people could lose their jobs if they do not stand up to Kroger now.

Gordon said many of the union's allegations are unfounded. She said the grocer employs 13,500 people in Michigan -- 1,800 of which have been added over the past five years.

"We have been good corporate citizens in Michigan," Gordon said. "We remain committed to Michigan."

She added Kroger sent human resources officials to the Advantage Logistics warehouse in late July to interview candidates to work in Kroger's new Ohio warehouse.

Whitehead agreed. "It's time to do the right thing and put the focus back on student learning," he said.

From a procedural standpoint, Liepa said, keeping this board intact will save the district a good amount of time, effort and energy. School officials are working on the finishing touches of a district-wide reorganization plan.

The Legacy Initiative closes seven buildings and reorganizes the district into upper elementary, lower elementary, 'A tremendous amount of work has been done in the schools. The plan has been implemented extremely well. We still have work to do.'

middle and high schools. It is meant to enhance programs and cut costs.

"The staff is very excited about the new programs," Liepa said. "A tremendous amount of work has been done in the schools. The plan has been implemented extremely well. We still have work to do."

Opponents spoke out against the plan because it increases busing in the district, alters district boundaries and forces students to transition between four school levels. The debate sparked CFLF members to attempt to recall the five trustees who voted Dec. 5 in favor of the Legacy Initiative.

But one former Livonia mayor believes the voters have spoken, and made the right decision.

"A recall does hurt the community," Jack Kirksey said. "I think people voted in the best interest of the district and community."

Mike Bouchard with wife, Pam, and daughter, Mikayla, 16, speaks to the audience at The Community House Tuesday.

Bouchard focuses on winning in November

BY ALEX LUNDBERG
STAFF WRITER

With two challengers to the Republican Party's nomination out of the way, Oakland County Sheriff Michael Bouchard is calling on voters of every stripe to keep the pressure on to defeat Democratic Sen. Debbie Stabenow in November.

At an election-night rally at The Community House in Birmingham, the sheriff heaped praise on those who had helped him take the primary win.

"I want to thank the voters, without their support I would not be here today," Bouchard said. "But to get to the end, we're going to have to redouble our efforts."

He called on Democrats and independent voters as well as the GOP faithful for their help in the coming fight to defeat Stabenow.

"I need all your help to get to Washington," Bouchard said. "And I promise, on day one I will get results. I will not let you down."

Bouchard defeated the Rev. Keith Butler to take the party's nomination with an unofficial count of 359,000 votes to Butler's 230,000.

An earlier contender, Grand Rapids think-tanker Jerry Zandstra, dropped out of the race early in the summer.

Oakland County GOP Executive Committee

Member John Bowker said he wasn't surprised by Bouchard's win. The only question in his mind was by how much.

He said the stuttering start of the Bouchard campaign - he entered the race and then dropped out, citing health reasons, and then re-entered - had something to do with the numbers.

"The medical thing popped up and he had some pressure from home," Bowker said. "He had a safe job he could hold as long as he wanted. Once he cleared that he was ready to run again."

He said Bouchard has a good chance to beat Stabenow in November, based on his governmental experience and his law enforcement credentials.

"He's going in with a good resume for the issues of today," Bowker said. "Social conservatives are comfortable with him and the issue of the U.S./Canadian border works to his favor. People are concerned about homeland security and people can cross the Canadian border with impunity. That's a two-fer for him."

What the sheriff is going to need, he said, is a "truckload of cash." Bowker said Bouchard will need to raise and spend about $10 million between now and November to unseat Stabenow.

the city's 42 precincts, tying with Godbout in the Westland Meadows mobile home polling place.

Amid cheers, whistles and applause inside the AMVETS hall, LeBlanc thanked supporters who wore his blue campaign T-shirts - the color that has become associated with Democratic-voting areas.

"I love the way you're dressed," he shouted, firing up his supporters even more.

LeBlanc, a Westland City Council member, clinched 65 percent of vote totals compared to 28 percent for Godbout, his council colleague. Pettipren, who served in the state House in 1965-70, received nearly 7 percent in his failed comeback.

In raw but unofficial numbers, LeBlanc garnered 3,106 votes compared to Godbout's 1,353 and Pettipren's 316. Many political observers had predicted a closer race.

"I'm thrilled," LeBlanc, 48, said. "I was convinced that people would support my candidacy, but this margin would have been a lot to ask."

He attributed his strong showing to "solid representation" during his 12 years in public office, first as a Wayne-Westland school trustee and then as a city council member.

Going into Tuesday's primary, LeBlanc, a Ford Motor Co. staffer, had drawn support from powerful sources including the Michigan Education Association and the United Auto Workers. He also secured the endorsement of term-limited state Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Westland, who celebrated with him Tuesday night.

LeBlanc and his supporters vowed to try to win a similar victory in November for Anderson, who is challenging Republican state Sen. Laura Toy of Livonia.

Godbout, 52, gathered with his supporters at Marvaso's Italian Grille, saying he waged a positive, hard-working campaign that simply fell short.

"I think the fact that Richard had Glenn Anderson helping him worked tremendously in his favor," said Godbout, an account manager for Rockwell Automation. "The UAW support obviously helped, too. I feel that I ran a good campaign. My literature was positive, and I walked a lot and knocked on a lot of doors."

Godbout still has two years on his council term. He and his colleagues will choose LeBlanc's council successor - if LeBlanc beats

Durante and advances to the state House.

Most political observers believe that Durante will face an uphill battle in the 18th District - a longtime Democratic stronghold. Durante has said he will try to convince voters that it is time for change.

If LeBlanc wins the Nov. 7 general election and secures a two-year term, he said Anderson will be his mentor.

"This is a guy who wears about a size 45 shoe that I'm hoping to be able to fill," LeBlanc told his supporters Tuesday night.

During an interview, LeBlanc cited new jobs and economic growth as the top priorities that state legislators need to tackle.

"There has to be legislative action to encourage investment in the state," he said. "We have to stop - to the extent that we can - companies and businesses that believe they can do better elsewhere."

LeBlanc also said legislators will have to find a way to replace $1.9 billion a year that will be lost when the single business tax expires on Dec. 31, 2007. He also named health care as a top priority.

"I don't have the magic pill," he said, "but I'm willing to work with those that have more experience and roll out legislation that is going to help people with health care."

During the primary, Godbout had portrayed himself as a consensus-builder who could get more done in Lansing. Pettipren had touted his previous House experience as a reason voters should support him.

On Tuesday, LeBlanc vowed that he will try to work with legislators on both sides of the aisle to find ways to help Michigan emerge from its economic problems.

Blood supply crisis no laughing matter

Go ahead and laugh. Most people do when they hear Red Cross volunteer Karen Lake of Troy talk about the need for blood donations.

You don't get it from cows, she says. The chuckles are usually short-lived as her reality check hits home. Remember the last time you reached for a gallon of milk off the shelf at your local grocery store, without a second thought? We take it for granted that it will always be there, whenever we need it.

But blood doesn't come from cows; it can only come from each of us. And if we don't donate it, there is a very real possibility that it won't be there on the shelf when medical personnel reach for it in an emergency.

Such was the impending crisis hospitals throughout the metropolitan area have faced this summer. At one point last month, there was only a dangerously low four-hour supply of blood.

Heightening the worry was that there was no safety net for local hospitals. Carmen Timm, donor resources representative for the Red Cross, said the blood shortage was replicated throughout the nation. That's unusual, Timm said, and the cause was unknown.

What it meant was that there was no go-to location to supplement blood supplies, which traditionally decrease at this time of year, the height of vacation season.

Ultimately, the solution to the blood shortage lives within us. It is the determination to get over queasiness about making a blood donation and, instead, making the small time commitment of about an hour to ensure a blood supply for that emergency we pray will never come.

Qualifications are straightforward: You need to be at least 17 years old and in good health. There are some other considerations, like where you may have traveled recently, but Red Cross volunteers do a careful screening process to ensure your safety, and that of the blood supply.

For an appointment and a blood donation location, watch this newspaper or call the Red Cross at (800) GIVE-LIFE.

Officials say the need for more blood donors is continuing this month. And there is nothing funny about that.

Restricting passengers would save teens' lives

Summer is the deadliest time of year for teenagers. That's because they have more free time to ride around in vehicles with friends.

Young drivers get into enough accidents on their own, but when extra teens are in the car, the combination can be a killer.

According to AAA, the fatal crash rate per mile driven is twice as high among 16-year-olds as it is among 18- to 19-year-olds.

With one passenger, the fatal crash risk nearly doubles. With two or more passengers, it increases five-fold.

Inexperienced new drivers need to concentrate on their driving and extra passengers in the car keep them from doing that.

Perhaps surprisingly, the passengers are most at risk. Two out of every three teenagers who die in crashes are passengers in a vehicle driven by another teen, according to Ford Motor Co. and the Governors Highway Safety Association, which produced a driving skills program for teens.

The Michigan House of Representatives has passed a bill that would restrict the number of young passengers a new driver can have in his or her car. A new driver could have one passenger under the age of 18 for the first 90 days after getting his or her license. For the second 90 days, he could have two and after the third 90 days, three.

Now it's up to the Senate to take action. Unfortunately, the AAA-supported bill stalled in the Senate when it was last in session.

We urge readers to contact their state senators and ask them to support the proposed legislation when they reconvene.

In the meantime, it's up to parents to keep their teens safe — by limiting the number of teen passengers they can have in their vehicle and restricting whom they can ride with.

It may not be convenient. Parents may have to chauffeur their kids around for a little while longer rather than let them ride with their friends.

And it may not be popular — teens are likely to balk. But in setting and enforcing restrictions, parents may be saving the lives of their children and their children's friends.

Politics, school vouchers

It was gratifying to read Hugh Gallagher's editorial on politics and school vouchers. Dick DeVos has cleverly distanced himself during this campaign from the failed attempt for school vouchers. In addition, he fails to mention Amway Corporation, from which his fortune came, or that his wife is the former state Republican chair. All the while claiming not to be a politician. Go figure!

The funds for public schools would most certainly be negatively affected by vouchers, one of Mr. DeVos' top priorities. As you pointed out, the public schools, which must accept and educate all children, are the backbone of the democracy and must be supported by the populace.

It is important for the state's electorate to realize the hidden agenda of his candidacy for governor. You have served this purpose well with your editorial.

presence, and push it toward taking its security obligations seriously.

Finally, Israel wants to keep Iranian arms and money from reaching Hezbollah. Beirut's airport is the key link in the supply chain between Iran and its proxy. The road from Beirut to Damascus is similarly used by Syria.

More and more voices are being heard in Lebanon saying that the Lebanese government has a duty to extend its control over all Lebanese territory. With the requisite political will, the Lebanese government can establish control over its own borders and curtail Hezbollah's terrorist activities. This will give citizens on both sides of the border peace and quiet. That is the message that we ought to be sending to the Middle East.

A fever pitch

I would suggest to you that you talk about rhetoric and posturing with some of the groups who are talking about "re-taking" the American southwest. Liberal groups have been pushing and instigating this for years and now it's reached a fever pitch. This country cannot put all these illegal immigrants on our welfare systems and allow them to become citizens simply because they have been here for a certain amount of time.

The idiotic Senate bill is simply a way for its sponsors to "buy" Hispanic votes in the next elections and those people who wrote and sponsored that nonsense should be voted out of the Senate.

We need to close the borders and guard them very well and enforce existing immigration law, and if it takes the National Guard to do it along with the Coast Guard on the seas, then so be it.

Demand better

Average citizens, working and getting paid for that work, know that they are accountable for a good performance.

Our leaders have applied for and been awarded very responsible positions by the voting public. They are paid well and we should hold each of them accountable for their performance.

I do not feel that our president has implemented policies that have improved our lives. Bad decisions in foreign affairs have led to disastrous results.

On issues of the environment, care of the poor and the elderly, and basic honesty, I feel our president and the Republican Party have let us down.

Let us set the bar high and demand that our leaders be honest with us and show us the respect we deserve. By voting the present party out of office a clear message will be sent that we demand better of our leaders.

Paying a price

Hezbollah's attack on Israel that killed eight soldiers and left two as hostages and showering of rockets on Israeli cities kick-started a confrontation that has been brewing for weeks if not months and even years.

In May 2000, in full compliance with U.N. Security Council Resolution 425, Israel withdrew all military forces from southern Lebanon, vacating a buffer zone that had kept Hezbollah weaponry 10 miles from its northern border. The withdrawal was a military and strategic risk. Today, Israel has Hezbollah terror gangs, heavily armed vehicles and financed by Syria and Iran, literally on the other side of the border fence.

To keep Hezbollah and its enablers in Syria and Iran from causing trouble, Israel relies on a deterrence policy — any attack on Israel will have direct and severe consequences. Israel's military operation in Lebanon has several goals. One is to make it more difficult for Hezbollah to transfer their Israeli hostages to Iran or to other parts of Lebanon.

Another is to show Lebanon that there's a price to be paid for Hezbollah's

School reform

Our state's dismal economic future poses a direct threat to a core American value — public and private education. The economic crisis confronting us threatens the quality of education for future generations, the livelihood of educators, and the skill levels of employees for our local businesses.

Many local political and school leaders are trapped in thinking that protecting budget cuts is the only way to save our schools. This is a Band-Aid approach and too political. The proposed solutions are either to implement budget cuts to match declining revenue or to increase taxes to fund our struggling school systems. That is, we either cut more meat off the bone or we rob Peter to pay Paul. Both are not sensible, and will only undermine improving Michigan's economy and the American dream of education for all.

We need monetary and non-monetary investment in our public and private education systems, along with well-thought-out educational system reform. This reform should be based on looking 10 years into the future and asking what will be needed to properly educate our children in public, private and home schools. We need to consider and debate charter schools, private sector investments, more rigorous graduation standards, relevant curriculum to prepare students for global employment, proper principal leadership training and improving the relationship between teacher and student. Such reforms are already working in places like Cleveland, Milwaukee, Washington, D.C., and New York City.

Taxes do not need to be increased. Our political and school leaders need to be open to monetary investments, support services and leadership training from local businesses, nonprofit organizations and faith-based organizations.

Community organizations need to see education reform as part of their mission to improve the community. The return on investment is a well-educated community and work force. We need less rigidity and more choice. Parents should have more choices on how their child is educated. Principals and teachers need more choices to experiment in "zapping the gap" for different learning needs.

One hopes that these issues will be discussed, argued and debated in the Bills backing single-sex schools only masking education issues

*"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"*

In the poem "The New Colossus," Emma Lazarus created the lines that are now famous for describing America's melting pot philosophy and compulsory public education in general. Public schools must educate all, and they must, according to federal law, do so equally. Legislators would never suggest that we go back to the days before Brown v. Board of Education, when schools were divided on the basis of race, and de jure discrimination was thinly veiled under the banner of "separate but equal." However, today, Michigan legislators are doing the very same thing on the basis of biological sex.

Dr. Jennifer Martin

Despite Title IX provisions that federally funded institutions, such as public schools, do not discriminate on the basis of sex, House Bill 4264, Senate Bill 1296, and House Bill 6247 serve to do just this. The Michigan House of Representatives has passed legislation to permit for the first time in Michigan public funding of sex-segregated schooling. The bills passed with no safeguards to prevent sex discrimination or even a monitoring and evaluation system. Unfortunately, Gov. Granholm also supports this initiative.

As a veteran public school teacher of 11 years, I can say with conviction that some boys and some girls probably would benefit from single-sex environments. However, this fact does not justify such a slippery slope. Proponents of this bill may suggest that single-sex environments are safer for students by "eliminating" the problems of sexism, sexual and gender harassment. However, this single-sex "experiment" is just placing a band-aid on the problem.

As an expert in sexual harassment, it is clear that boys and girls need to learn to live together in a positive environment. Separating the sexes will not give young people the education needed on how to properly interact with others, especially if young people are not receiving gender instruction at home. Sexual harassment is not inevitable in a traditional "mixed-sex" environment.

In our society, where domestic violence and sexual assault are common, where one in five adolescent girls becomes the victim of physical and/or sexual violence in a dating relationship (New York Times 8/1/01), positive gender instruction is necessary in schools. Students need this instruction, and consequences for inappropriate, harassing behavior. Separating the sexes will not accomplish this or prepare young people for the real world and for the workplace where they will have to inevitably live with the "other" sex.

Some proponents of single-sex schools may argue that biology (read adolescent hormones) dictates more success will be found if the sexes are separated. However, adolescent hormonal development occurs regardless of the school facility the student attends. Sexism must be fought and eliminated rather than running away from it as single-sex schools do. Sex equity can be transformative for men as well as women, something that can only occur in an integrated environment.

Proponents of this initiative cite the success of some private single-sex schools as a reason to allow public single-sex schools. However, such success has been found to be more related to selective admissions processes, smaller class sizes, parental involvement, and greater resources per pupil than the factor of gender segregation. Private co-ed schools with these same advantageous features are also quite successful. Legislators should work to provide public schools the funding needed to implement these proven methods of improving educational outcomes rather than hoping that separating boys and girls will substitute for them.

I fear that the single-sex schools initiative will mirror racial discrimination in the days of "separate but equal" where proponents of segregation argued that both blacks and whites would be "better off" with their own kind. What ended up happening was the funding, the facilities, the opportunities went to whites.

And what of this single-sex "experiment?" Is this a covert attempt to shift funding from co-ed schools to single-sex schools, and to favor boys over girls in the allocation of scarce educational resources? Is this initiative a reaction to the success of Title IX in requiring equal opportunity for girls in K-12 education? The legislature has traded off women's rights to "equal educational opportunity" to give some parents the opportunity to sex segregate their children. This is not the solution for the problems students are facing in public schools today.

House Bill 4264, Senate Bill 1296, and House Bill 6247 contain no accountability scheme to measure any promised gains over co-ed settings. None of the bills provide a sunset if the "option" or "experiment" with single-sex public schools fails or is found to offer no significant advantage.

None of the bills contain a provision prohibiting sex discrimination in the operation of the sex-segregated school, class, or program.

None of the bills allow the admission of the other sex if there is not a comparable or substantially equal program at both schools or the co-ed schools.

I urge the Senate to defeat HB 4264 and HB 6247 and the Governor to veto SB 1296, as do Michigan chapters of the National Organization for Women.

Consider some alternatives as gas prices continue to rise

With drivers moaning about the high cost of gas, I have given some thought to some ways to meet the problem head on.

One possible solution would be to move to Caracas, Venezuela, which is a leading oil producer. Gas costs there are between 10 and 14 cents a gallon. In essence you can fill up an SUV for about $3. Sounds enticing doesn't it?

Elaine Chalom

However, you will have to put up with perpetual traffic jams and air pollution. Gas is highly subsidized, which is a multimillion dollar drain on the national budget. This subsidy saps money that could help schools, hospitals or public transit. With gasoline prices being cheaper than water ... any incentive to conserve is eliminated.

SUV sales have been and are still soaring. With the subsidy and lack of any pollution or safety controls, there are many decades-old rolling wrecks on the streets. Police do not even cite those who drive at night without headlights. With respect to the "global warming" issue, I'm sure Al Gore would chastise Venezuelan President Chavez for his insensitivity to the issue. Perhaps moving to Caracas is not the best idea.

A second possibility would be to buy a Smart Car. We've all heard about them by now. Last year in Paris, it seemed to be the predominant car on the streets. It's a tiny two-seater, no larger than a good size riding mower. They are purported to give 46 miles per gallon in the city and 60 miles per gallon on the highway. The Smart Car is part of the Mercedes-Benz group, which we all know has a wonderful reputation. The M-B company is boasting a quality car that is fuel-efficient and safe. The question for me is "How safe?" If you live in an area where everyone is driving cars of this size, safety wouldn't be an issue. But on the road with a 6,000-pound SUV, a van the size of a bus or, God forbid, a Hummer heading for me ... I'm not sure how smart it would be to go the Smart Car route.

A third solution is to use that bike that's tucked away in the garage. Or, for a mere $2,500, you can buy a 80 cc, four-stroke scooter which will give up to 80 mpg, is low on emission and can reach speeds up to 45 mph. Of course, you may feel the urge to buy a leather jacket and perhaps have your navel pierced ... maybe even a tattoo. With weather as wonderful as we have been having, this solution sounds feasible. However when winter comes we would have to revert to other methods of transportation.

Seriously speaking ... Car pooling is an economical way to go. Find out where your co-workers live and suggest a neutral meeting spot, taking turns driving to work. This could be a great opportunity for networking — getting personal recommendations for unique stores, restaurants and sources for miscellaneous repairs.

Whenever you are going out, always consider an alternative to driving — whether bicycling, public transportation or even walking.

Of course, you have heard the importance of keeping your car well-maintained. See that the tires are properly inflated and replace your air filter often. Use your cruise control whenever possible. Avoid unnecessary idling, jack rabbit starts and driving over 60 mph. Reduce the use of your air conditioner and remove excess weight from your trunk.

The Europeans are presently paying about $7 a gallon and have long adapted to paying these high prices, of which 70 percent of the cost is taxes. They attempt to find a home closer to their work, they drive smaller cars that are more fuel-efficient, and many use scooters or public transportation. It seems Americans are not particularly interested in adopting these conservation tactics. I feel that I have done my little contribution toward helping the global warming problem by purchasing a Toyota Prius last July. I am very pleased with its fuel-efficiency and feel that Al Gore would be proud of my little contribution.

Highland Games offer wee bit of Scotland

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Dave Martin, a 32-year Livonia resident, is pipe major for the St. Andrew's Society Pipe Band, a position he's held a number of years. He was part of the crowd this past weekend at the 157th annual Highland Games at Greenmead historical park in Livonia.

"The games are the oldest Highland Games in North America," said Martin, taking a break from volunteer duties on Saturday. "People love the great Highland bagpipes, obviously a public of discerning taste."

Martin, whose work is in computers, is 100 percent Irish, unlike many others at the event celebrating the heritage of the Scots. "For some reason I seem to play reasonably well," he said of his love of the bagpipes. Martin praised Greenmead as "the best site we've ever had. They have been a great host."

Nearby Saturday was Pam Young Setla of Redford, a volunteer and member of sponsor St. Andrew's Society of Detroit. She also pipes with the Windsor Police Street Band. "They do the parades and that," said Setla, who works in university communications at Eastern Michigan University.

She's 100 percent Scot on her dad's side, the Rattray clan and Young. Her mom's side is a little Scot via Canada. "Scots have contributed a lot over the years," she said. "It's a very close-knit society. The Scots watch out for one another. When my husband was so ill, I got a lot of support from the St. Andrew's Society."

Husband Phil, a radiologist, died of multiple sclerosis complications in December 1998. Friend Ray Green of

Windsor, a retired Windsor police officer, has been working various games with wife Francine for some 20 years, traveling as far as Montreal, Quebec. "My son was a piper, my daughter was a dancer," he said. "We used to do the circuit with the kids."

The grandkids have carried on the tradition. Their 6-year-old granddaughter from Fort Worth, Texas, was in Livonia Saturday as a dancer for the Highland Games.

"It keeps the Scottish heritage going, shares it with the community," said Ray Green, who is part Scot. "We always try to make this a fun games."

Piper Jake Mack of Dearborn, a 17-year-old Dearborn High senior, likes the games at Greenmead. "It's interesting. It's a lot of fun," he said.

He finds the local games less stressful. "You know all the judges, you know what to expect." He travels to Pennsylvania, Ohio and Ontario to compete.

"Everyone's so easygoing, too," Mack said. "That's so nice."

Livonian Ed Bicknell, a piper with the St. Andrew's Society Pipe Band, is also proud of his heritage and was glad to participate Saturday. "My mother's family is McCall, so I am half Scot," he said. He has a McCall kilt but doesn't wear it for piping.

Greenmead was also front and center Saturday, with volunteers like Darlene Scarcelli showing off such buildings as the historic Shaw House. She was giving tours of the home built in 1843 and moved later from Six Mile.

"It just brings a lot of people for the Highland Games but don't necessarily know what Greenmead is," Scarcelli said.

The summer event's one of the biggest draws for Greenmead, helping with exposure.

Rachel Capps of Westland, who works in financial aid at Schoolcraft College, finds the games a fun family day. "We come out often, usually every year," she said. They were watching the athletes in such events as the caber toss, in which a telephone pole is tossed for accuracy rather than distance.

Capps was "getting ready pretty soon to go through the shops," of which there were plenty. "And besides a lot of men in kilts," she added with a laugh.

Capps has also attended and recommends the St. Andrew's Society Robert Burns dinner with a re-enactor representing the poet.

Martha Trafford of Canton, a retired educator, came to the games with friends John and Beth Stewart of Plymouth Township. Trafford is Irish-Canadian.

"The music, the pageantry," she said of what she likes. "I enjoy watching the different activities." She likes the bagpipes and drums.

Trafford also enjoyed the tug of war between the U.S. Marines and Livonia Fire Department, which the firefighters won. Saturday's fun was preceded by a Friday night ceillidh, featuring music and dance. There were also children's activities and re-enactors.

Ean Pokryfky, age 16, competes in the amateur caber flip for the first time with adults twice his age and older.

Voters give thumbs up to SMART

BY ALEX LUNDBERG
STAFF WRITER

The millage to support the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation bus system was renewed by a wide margin by voters in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties Tuesday.

In unofficial votes with nearly 100 percent of precincts reporting, Wayne County voters in communities with SMART service approved the millage 46,678 to 19,744. In Oakland County, the millage passed 64,718 to 20,465. Macomb voters approved the millage 65,406 to 27,669.

The SMART ballot initiative is a renewal of the operating millage, but a reduction as well. Voters in Wayne and Oakland County were asked to approve a .59 mills package — down from .6 mills — that brought them in line with what Macomb County voters were paying for the bus service.

SMART Public Relations Manager Beth Gibbons said that while public transportation has a hit and miss history in Michigan, people understand that it has to exist in one way or another.

TOM HOFFMEYER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Voters in the tri-county area approved SMART's millage renewal in Tuesday's election.

"People look at it as something we need," Gibbons said. "They say, it may not be something I use but other people do and it's something we should have."

Besides the electoral numbers, she said the ridership numbers are doing well on their own. Since 2002, she said there's been a 25 percent rise in the amount of people using SMART buses to get from place to place.

If the numbers hold up, she said ridership will be free to continue to rise.

"If it passes, services continue as scheduled tomorrow and we're good for another four years," Gibbons said. "If they don't, we're going to start eliminating weekend and night services and the rest of the service over the next couple of months."

In the primary for the Democratic nomination for Wayne County executive, incumbent Robert Ficano won handily as expected.

With 99 percent of precincts reporting, he garnered 99,632 votes. Former Detroit Police lieutenant Ricardo Robert Moore received 9,741 votes and Marion Ector received 6,693 votes. Ramon Patrick won the Republican nomination with 22,240 votes against Deborah West who had 20,580 votes.

United Way names Local Community Committee for out-Wayne County

United Way for Southeastern Michigan has appointed its inaugural Local Community Committee (LCC) to represent Wayne County on the organization's Board of Directors.

The LCC is comprised of volunteers who are responsible for developing and implementing local strategies that align with United Way's regional priorities.

In total, there are four LCCs, representing Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties, as well as the city of Detroit. The concept for the LCCs was created when United Way of Oakland County and United Way Community Services dissolved to form United Way for Southeastern Michigan, in April 2005. The new organization is focused on creating lasting change in local communities as well as region-wide. The LCCs further this mission by involving each county and the city of Detroit directly with United Way's regional work and ensuring that local needs are met.

"The Local Community Committees give a stronger voice to the tri-county area and the city of Detroit," said Michael J. Brennan, president and CEO, United Way for Southeastern Michigan. Chair of the Wayne County LCC is Lizabeth Ardisana, CEO, ASG Renaissance. Committee members are: Judge Deborah Ross Adams, Wayne County Circuit Court Family Division; Ismael Ahmed, executive director, ACCESS; James Buford, director, Wayne County Department of Homeland Security; John

Doctor uses natural medicine to bring body into balance

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER

A few years ago Tom Leib was like a lot of people who think natural medicine is hocus pocus.

"I thought it was hogwash," Leib said.

But his wife at the time swore by the herbs and oils she was using.

It seemed like they were doing her a lot of good. She was feeling great, so I thought there must be something to these things and I checked them out myself," Leib said.

And he felt better. A lot better. He felt so much better that he started researching how to become a distributor for a company that produces the oils he uses. But the more Leib learned, the more he wanted to learn, and the next thing he knew he was enrolled in classes and working toward his degree in naturopathy.

It took four years for Leib to earn his doctorate in naturopathy, a practice which uses natural remedies - herbs, oils and plants - to help bring the body into balance. He uses methods such as muscle testing and examination of the retina to identify strengths and weaknesses in the body, and then uses the remedies to help bring balance and make the body stronger, according to Leib.

Most of Leib's clients only seek him out when they find that what they know as traditional medicine hasn't worked for them.

"They come to me after they've seen doctors who prescribe medicines for them, but the medicines don't make them feel better," Leib said.

"The reason they're not feeling better is because medications don't treat the root of the problem. They don't bring balance to the body."

Still, Leib is not about to bad-mouth hospitals and medical doctors, even though you won't find Leib at a hospital. He works by day as a maintenance engineer for General Motors (where his colleagues call him "Herby"), and runs his practice out of his home.

"They are valuable too. If you're in a car accident, for example, you don't want to see me," Leib said. "You need to be at a hospital where they can fix you fast. What I do takes time."

The change is often so gradual that his patients think the remedies aren't working, and stop taking the herbs.

"Then all of a sudden they aren't feeling well," Leib said. "People are amazed. They don't realize that they ever felt so bad. It's amazing how much bad we will tolerate if we don't know it can be better."

Tom Leib of Canton uses natural medicines, including many herbal oils, to treat patients. Some of his colleagues have come to call him "Herby."

Man and woman robbed at gunpoint

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland police are continuing to investigate an armed robbery that happened last Thursday night outside of Skone's Place, a bar near Venoy and Cherry Hill.

Police have two suspects, including a gunman and someone who may have been an accessory after the fact, Sgt. Michael Match confirmed Tuesday.

The holdup occurred just before 9:30 p.m. last Thursday. "Two people were sitting in a pickup truck in the parking lot talking, and a fellow with a pistol came up to the passenger side," Match said.

No shots were fired, and no one was injured, he said.

Match described the victims as a 60-year-old woman who was sitting in the driver's seat and a 52-year-old man who was on the passenger side.

The bandit put the pistol to the passenger's head and demanded money, then pointed the weapon at the driver and robbed her of her cell phone, Match said.

"He then told them to drive away," the detective said.

The bar is located on Venoy Road just south of Cherry Hill.

Criminal charges are expected against as many as two suspects, Match said, but the investigation was continuing on Tuesday.

The incident marked the first armed robbery in August in Westland, although several other holdups have occurred this summer in other areas of the city.

A suspect has been arrested for a string of robberies that occurred at check-cashing businesses in Westland and several other communities.
