Worker denies taking money

A Westland woman denied Thursday that she embezzled $1,000 from a client she was supposed to help while overseeing a city-based family assistance program.

Tonya Cramier-Oncza, 39, told the Observer she is wrongly accused of taking money that a struggling mother needed to buy a vehicle for work.

This is just not right," Cramier-Oncza said, after a Westland judge ordered her to stand trial for using a check to embezzle $1,000 from a client.

Cramier-Oncza was employed by an outside agency for the last two years to oversee the federal Family Self-Sufficiency (FSS) Program, which provides assistance for cars, schooling and other services to help recipients become independent.

She is accused of embezzling $1,000 and depositing money into her personal checking account while working out of the city's Dorsey Community Center. She called the allegations shocking and said that, if she had chosen to steal, she had access to much more than $1,000 through Westland's housing department.

"I had access to millions of dollars," Cramier-Oncza told the Observer. "If I was going to steal money, do you think I would deposit it into my own account?'

TRIAL ORDERED

Westland District Judge C. Charles Bokos ordered her to stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court after hearing testimony Thursday during a twohour preliminary hearing.

"I think she was planning to steal money ... that belonged to the housing commission," Bokos ruled.

Yolanda Parker, the alleged victim, testified that Cramier-Oncza advised her in October to use $2,000 in FSS funds to buy a vehicle she needed for her job at a Westland dollar store. Parker said she was later told that the program's rules had changed and that she was issued a check for only $1,000.

When Parker went to Best Bank on Ford Road, she was told by a teller that a $2,000 check had already been cashed in her name one day earlier. Parker was shown the $2,000 check, on which she said her name had been forged and mis-

"I was shocked. I started crying," Parker testified.

Ex-library worker's suit claims sexual harassment

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A former Westland library employee alleges in a lawsuit that she was sexually harassed, defamed and ultimately fired after she complained of how she was treated.

Debbie Nogle, a former administrative assistant, is seeking a minimum of $25,000 and other damages, reinstatement to the job she lost in January, and an end to alleged discriminatory policies.

Her lawsuit was filed Thursday in Wayne County Circuit Court by Ann Arbor attorney Nicholas Roumel. It names the library, board member Michael Rintz and acting codirectors Marilyn Kwik and Lisa Hausman.

Rintz hadn't returned phone calls by Friday afternoon, and a library employee said Kwik and Hausman weren't available. Board attorney Michael McNamara said he hadn't seen the suit and couldn't discuss it.

Nogle's lawsuit marks the latest chapter for a library plagued by controversy. Nogle was hired in June 2005 by former library Director John Patane, who became the second director fired in a two-year period when the board ousted him last May.

Nogle's suit alleges that she was sexually harassed by Rintz and that she was fired in January by Hausman and Kwik after she made complaints to the board attorney.

I was very, very shocked after everything I've done for that library and all the hard work I've put into it," Nogle told the Observer.

Shortly after Nogle was hired, the suit alleges that Rintz, an attorney, started visiting her frequently even though he didn't have an office at the library, on Central City Parkway The suit contends that Rintz would close the door when he walked into Nogle's office and talk about personal things like his wine cellar and fondness for fine dining. It alleges that he told Nogle she was pretty and that he "would look salaciously at her body."

The suit alleges that Rintz asked Nogle out and that he would teasingly tell Ms. Nogle that she would be the library director someday, and that he would always protect Nogle began to hear false workplace rumors that she and Rintz had a relationship, the suit contends.

After Rintz and then-Director Patane began having differences, the suit claims that Rintz went to Nogle's office to try to gather "negative information" about Patane. Rintz had a temper that included "screaming, profanity and threats against (Nogle's) job if she did not cooperate."

The suit contends that Patane had contacted the Westland city attorney's office and then-Mayor Sandra Cicirelli to tell them that Rintz had been sexually harassing Nogle.

Security cameras help nab girl who wrote threats

BY REBECCA JONES

The student who administrators believe left five threatening messages on a bathroom wall at Cooper Upper Elementary was caught after cameras were installed.

"We did catch who it was and she is being dealt with," said Mark Schultz, the district's administrator in charge of safety. He spoke before the PTSA council Wednesday.

"I'm glad I put the cameras in. It was worth it. Students were scared," Schultz said. He said he consoled one student who cried for an hour after finding a message.

The 11-year-old suspect faces criminal charges. The case is being handled by Westland police.

The student does not face an automatic expulsion. The sehool district will decide appropriate punishment, Sehultz said.

The threats were written on a bathroom stall shortly before lunch. One said the perpetrator placed bombs throughout the school; others threatened to kill anyone who told. The student was caught Jan. 11, after the last message was found.

In addition to cameras, teachers monitored who asked permission to use the bathroom during that time

"We can breathe easier now," said Cooper Principal Terry Taylor. The threats weren't deemed credible, but were fully investigated by Westland Officers searched the building after students were dismissed, but Cooper students were never evacuated.

Schultz, who interviewed the student, said that that the student was responsible for three threats in a weekand-a-half span in early January and two in November.

"There were no eopy cats," he said.

Getting into harmony

Center teaches youngsters how to open up using beat of music

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS STAFF WRITER

In 1999, Melissa Bila Regan and her 18-month-old daughter, Brennan, began taking Music Together classes.

Brennan, now 9, has moved on from the interactive children's program, but her mother is just getting started.

Regan, a Farmington Hills resident, is about to launch her own Music Together center called, Harmony and Me, at 7311 N. Lilley Road in Canton.

"I absolutely love this program and have got to experience it as a parent and as a teacher," said Regan, who started teaching music classes in 2003. "It's incredible to see children open up.

Available to newborn through kindergarten-age kids, the Music Together program is divided into nine weekly, 45minute classes that feature songs, instruments, chants, rhymes and dance.

While many are accompanied by parents, some children take the informal classes with grandparents, aunts, uncles or their caregivers.

"This is not just putting on a CD or popping in a tape," said Regan, who's taken a break from her career as a nurse. "The kids get a real sense of parent participation and the parents end up loving it, too." The Music Together pro-

Its Web site. www.musictogether.com, states "All children can learn to sing in tune, keep a beat, and participate with confidence in the music of our culture, provided that their early environment supports such learning."

Regan says the program's impact is evident on her own children.

Her youngest daughter, Julia, 5, recently crossed the threshold that marked the end of her Music Together participation.

"It's amazing," she said. "Brennan is very comfortable

Players shed high school roles in musical

A synchronized basketball dance routine and duet reminiscent of Grease are two of the upbeat numbers in the Creative and Performing Arts production of High School Musical.

The show runs Thursday through Sunday in Carli Auditorium at Churchill High School.

It tells the story of teens breaking out of their high school stereotypes. Junior Diamond Vinson, in her first play since seventh grade, plays a brainiac who wants to sing hip-hop.

"I like this better than Grease," she said. The two shows have often been compared. "It's up to date, more new school."

The musical is co-directed by Mary Murphy, choreographer, and Lori Porter, vocals.

It features a cast of 70 students.
Senior Dan Crosby and junior Brianna Devlin play teens whose love of music brings their worlds together. Sophomore Alexa Kalasz and senior Michael Hood play the brother and sister troublemakers.

As opposed to the fall musical, the dark Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, deemed inappropriate for youngsters, High School Musical appeals to a larger audience.

"Even my 8-year-old daughter is singing these tunes," Porter said. Midday matinee shows are sold out to elementary school groups.

Tickets are also going fast for weekend performances.

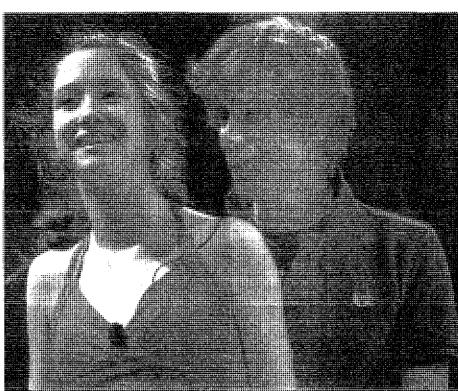

The 2006 Disney musical was only recently made available for high school productions and offers plenty of opportunities in music and dance, Porter said.

"We wanted to be one of the first in our community to do the show," she said.

Showtimes are 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Feb. 8-10. The final performance is 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11.

For tickets, call the CAPA box office at (734) 968-8736.

named after retired assistant principal Earle Chorbagian who initiated the competition when the daily newspaper stopped sponsoring one. It started out as one spelling bee for students in grades 5-8, but was split into two spelling bees for elementary and middle school students two years Chorbagian was on hand to present plaques and American Heritage Dictionaries to the winners. "For an old teacher, it's a thrill to be here," said Chorbagian, adding the spelling bee was held on what is the 50th anniversary of the opening of the school. Unlike previous years when the spelling rounds number in the high teens before a winner was declared, this year's decision came fairly early. The studenis faltered on spelling such words a "sultan," "karate," "percolate" and "easel" in the middle school competition, while the elementary students heard the dreaded "that's not correct" from judges for words like "admiral," "amnesia" and "enthusiasm."

But even those students who didn't make it to the end were assured they were winners just the same.

You have done an exceptional job, you've spent hours preparing for today," said Judy Handley, director of elementary school development, who served as one of three pronouncers. "By the nature of the competition there can be only one winner, but you are all winners.'

In addition to Matthew Karpiuk, students competing in the elementary spelling bee were: Malik Garris from Elliott, Rahul Singh from P.D. Graham, Fred Smith from Hamilton, Ikiesha White from Hicks, Kayla Hood from Hoover, Sydney Meade from Jefferson, Alexandra Bushway from Kettering, Kyle Bowen from Lincoln, Elise Penhollow from Madison, Alexis Davis from Patchin, Danni Portman from Roosevelt, Alyssa Cosselmon from Schweitzer, Zachary Anderson from Taft-Galloway, Malik Hayes from Vandenberg, Mariam Darwish from Walker-Winter and Brittany McGrath from Wildwood.

In addition to Angela Blay, students competing in the middle school spelling bee were: Taylor Grondy, David Petosky and Kateland Leong from Adams; Krysta Forrester, Taylor Blevins and Allison Hammond from Franklin; Shakim Harris and TéLur Kuykendall from Marshall; and Tessa Diaz, Austin Smarsh and Susan Abbott from Stevenson.

After Patane was fired last May, the suit alleges that Rintz became more aggressive toward Nogle even though she rebuffed his advances. In August 2006, while Nogle was delivering library board meeting packets to board members, "Rintz invited her into his home, urged her to come in and have some wine with him, and then attempted to hug her and kiss her on the mouth," the suit contends. Nogle said she left.

At Nogle's office, Rintz started inquiring about her relationship with her boyfriend and told her not to become pregnant because it would ruin her body," the suit alleges. She said she ordered him out of her office.

After he was rebuked, Rintz's demeanor changed and he stopped speaking to her, according to the lawsuit. Nogle also claims she was shunned by Kwik, head of reference/adult services, and Hausman, head of children's services.

The suit describes Nogle as being "completely stressed out" by the harassment.

LeBlanc backs Democrats' trash plan

Responding to a report released last week showing Canadian and out-of-state garbage increased to 6.3 million tons in 2006, State Rep. Richard LeBlanc, D-Westland, has thrown his support behind a plan to attack the economics of the ever-growing trash trade by raising the paltry charge that trash companies pay to dump in Michigan.

"More and more trash continues to flood into Michigan every day because we're a cheap place to dump," said LeBlanc who chairs of the House Appropriations State Police sub-committee and sits on

Appropriations subcommittees

Development. "We must put an end to the massive influx of Canadian and out-of-state trash that is flooding into Michigan so we can protect our land, air, water and way of life. Michigan must become a magnet for jobs, not trash."

Michigan's Department of Environmental Quality said Canada and other states dumped 6.3 million tons of trash in Michigan in 2006, up from 6.2 million tons in 2005. Canadian and out-of-state trash now accounts for more than 30 percent of total waste landfilled in Michigan. In 1996, Canada and other states dumped only

1.9 million tons of trash, about 13 percent of trash landfilled in

Michigan. The House Democratic anti-trash plan would: Raise Michigan's dumping charge from 21 cents a ton - the lowest in the region - to $7.50 a ton, the highest in the nation.

Ban new landfills and strictly limit the expansion of existing landfills until 2012.

Return money from the new dumping charge - expected to total $170 million in the first year - to local communities to pay for roads, fire and police and more recycling.

Crack down on jurisdictions that send prohibited waste to Michigan, and make it easier to prosecute and punish repeat offenders with up to $10,000 in fines.

For more than four years, House Democrats have led the fight against Canadian and outof-state trash, saying that a high dumping charge is the best weapon against imported garbage. The nation's largest importer of trash, Pennsylvania, slashed garbage imports after it raised its dumping charge to $7.25 a ton in 2002. In 2001, Pennsylvania took in 12.6 million tons of imported trash; in 2005, that amount plunged to 9.6 million tons.

Detroit Zoo seeks piece of state budget pie

STAFF WRITER

Ron Kagan, director of the Detroit Zoo, is seeking $12 million from the state for zoo operations, but not all state legislators are buying.

The Legislature appropriated $4 million for the zoo in 2006, following a public outcry over the possibility of the landmark at Woodward and 10 Mile in Royal Oak closing.

"We don't have any money," state Rep. Chuck Moss (R-Birmingham) said, noting the state's $800 million deficit. "We're looking at trying to protect money for schools and health care.

"I love the zoo," Moss added, noting he takes his kids there. "It generates money for the region. We just plain don't have the money.'

Moss, a first-term legislator, noted similar cutbacks in private industry such as General Motors and Ford, and noted there could be cuts elsewhere such as state police or mental health services.

"It's a pretty bad time to be asking for extra money from Lansing," Moss said. "I hate to be Scrooge here, but we just don't have the money. The state of Michigan is not in a position to be a sugar daddy right now."

Kagan, reached Tuesday, noted the discussions with the state have been ongoing for some time. Zoo officials have asked the state for help following last year's transition to the zoo being operated by the nonprofit Detroit Zoological Society.

"At that time, they said they would help us with Part A. We're not expecting an outcome for some time," Kagan

Gov. Jennifer Granholm is scheduled to introduce her budget next week.

"I think everybody in Michigan is concerned with the state's finances," Kagan said. "We understand that has to be resolved.

"I think it's been excellent," he said of the transition to DZS operation. "The transition has gone really well."

Attendance was up about 50,000 last year, and zoo membership is around 50,000 families, the largest of any cultural institution in Michigan.

"There is a cost in doing all of that," Kagan said of animal

Kagan's plan is for a regional tax to appear on the ballot in 2008; he notes many other cities have similar taxes and the Huron-Clinton Metroparks tax has been assessed locally for many years.

"We are hopeful that the community will be supportive of that," Kagan said of the regional tax. Last year's public outcry showed "clear community support and recognition of the value" of the zoo, he said.

Kagan said the zoo brings an economic value to the region, including jobs: "We just need this one-time state assistance to get us to the regional piece." The governor and

State education savings plan a good gift for a child

We just had a newborn grandchild and we would like to begin to save for his college education. Any suggestions? Congratulations on your newborn grandchild. I think it is great that you are thinking about a college education, as I believe it is never too early to begin to save for college. My recommendation is to make a contribution into the Michigan Education Savings Plan (MESP). The Michigan Education Savings Plan (www.misaves.com) is what is known as a 529 Plan and these types of programs have a number of advantages. First, the income from this investment grows on a tax-free basis as long as it is used to pay for college expenses. In other words, when your grandchild uses the money for college, there are no tax consequences on the distributions. In addition, you can deduct contributions you make off your Michigan income tax return.

There are numerous 529 Plans on the market; however, the MESP is the only plan that you are allowed to deduct your contributions from your Michigan income tax return. You can deduct $5,000 of contributions on a single return and $10,000 on a joint return. The MESP, unlike many other plans, is commission-free and has very low

Many people are under the mistaken belief that money from the MESP can only be used in Michigan schools. This is not the case. You can withdraw money from the MESP for basically any public or private institution in the country. In addition, the money can be used not only for tuition, but also room and board and all required fees.

Through the MESP, you have a variety of investment options that you can choose from. For a newborn, I generally recommend the moderate age-based allocation option. What this investment option does is invest the money in a variety of investments geared for long-term growth. As the child gets older and closer to college, the portfolio gradually becomes more conservative.

One of the beauties of the MESP is that it only takes $25 to start a plan and you never have to add any additional money. One last note regarding the MESP is that it does not have to be a child or grandchild for you to start a plan. Basically, anyone can open a plan for any child. For those of you who are looking at buying a gift for a child, I believe the Michigan Education. Savings Plan is an excellent program to consider.

Rick

My broker has recommended an S&P 500 fund for my portfolio. I notice that the class share of the mutual fund is a B Share. What are your thoughts? I am not a fan of B Share mutual funds and I never recommend them. In the mutual fund industry, there are a variety of different classes of mutual funds. Each one of these classes of mutual funds has different fees associated with them. As an example, in most B Share mutual funds there are very high ongoing management fees charged on a year-by-year basis. In addition, in a B Class Share mutual fund, there is typically a five-year penalty provision if the fund is sold. What this means is that if you liquidate the investment prior to five years, you have to pay a penalty to the company. My philosophy has always been that investors need flexibility and low costs and that is something that does not exist with B Share mutual funds.

When you purchase a mutual fund, it is important to understand all of the fees involved. Every mutual fund charges a management fee. The management fee is how the mutual fund company itself makes money. In addition to the management fee, some mutual funds will also charge commissions or what is known as loads. Commissions are on top of the management fees and, in most cases, fund companies that have commissions also have high manage-

In the situation at hand with the B Share mutual fund, this type of class share has one of the highest management fees associated with it. Therefore, when an investor purchases this type of fund, they are going to pay higher yearly fees. My recommendation is that an investor should never use a B Share mutual fund as they are not investor friendly.

I recognize that many of the commission salespeople that sell mutual funds will tell you that the B Share mutual fund is noload or has no commissions. Technically, they are right, because there is no commission deducted from your initial investment, but they are not telling the whole story. B Share mutual funds have substantially higher ongoing fees as well as surrender penalties if you get out, generally, in less than five years. Therefore, whether you call it a commission or a fee, it is still money coming out an investor's pocket, which lowers their return.

In the situation at hand, as opposed to buying a B Share S&P 500 fund, I would recommend that you consider purchasing the Vanguard 500 Index Fund (800-992-8845). Vanguard is a no-load company and has very low management fees. When a fund is no-load, it means that 100 percent of your money goes to work for you and no money is paid in any sales charge.

As far as I am concerned, there is one reason and one reason only that people invest money and that is to make money. To do that, investors need to be concerned with costs as well as performance. Therefore, if your goal is like mine, to keep more money in our pockets and fewer commissions in the hands of brokers, then avoid B Share mutual funds and concentrate on the commission-free funds. Good luck!

Israel offers many surprises for its first-time visitors

s my family and I finalized plans for a city, or of that country. long-awaited trip to Israel recently, But traveling to Israel many friends and other family members reacted with horror, fearing for our safety, as if we were planning to walk into an active war zone. Mention Israel, it seems, and thoughts reflexively turn to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

This attitude is a sad consequence of that conflict because our 11-day trip to Israel in December was an amazing and eyeopening experience for us, and would likely prove equally enjoyable for many, regardless of religion or ethnicity. Anyone interested in history, art and culture, or who wants to see evidence of the very best, and very worst, in human nature should make the

It's also a land that will surprise you, no matter how well-informed you are regarding its history or its current events. Israel is a place that must be experienced with your own senses before you can begin to understand it.

For example, it's one thing to know, intellectually, that Jerusalem is sacred to the world's three major monotheistic religions. It's another thing to take a 20minute walk that begins at the Western Wall — the only remnant of the second great Jewish Temple, which lies literally in the shadows of the Dome of the Rock - then continues through an Arab market, with calls to prayer booming over local mosques' loudspeakers, and ends at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, where Jesus was buried.

It's one thing to read about the First Century Roman conquest of Jerusalem, when approximately 1 million people were killed and the city was practically burned to the ground. It's another to view the scorched stone walls of a 2,000-yearold home, to see the remnants of that horrific fire, and feel anger inside at that ancient, but all-too-familiar atrocity, the senseless destruction of Jews.

After walking out of those excavated ruins in Jerusalem's Old City, however, I felt fierce pride to view the Israeli flag flying from neighboring buildings, to see that Jews once again thrived within the city the Romans once demolished with such vigor.

But here, again, no doubt many of your thoughts are returning to today's Arab-Israeli conflict. My pride at witnessing Israel's flag in Jerusalem, after all, is not shared by the Arab inhabitants of that

But traveling to Israel forces you to see the conflict differently.

And that leads to the biggest surprise of our trip.

After spending six days in Jerusalem, we were scheduled to drive to Tiberias, in the Galilee area. I assumed we'd travel on Israel's side of the pre-1967 borders, as a necessary safety precaution. Not so. Our guide packed us in our Ford van and drove east, through the middle of the West Bank, before turning north through the Jordan Valley area.

Before returning to pre-1967 Israel, we passed numerous small villages — some Jewish, some Arab, as our guide matterof-factly pointed out - within easy walking distance of each other.

I was in Israel as a tourist, not as a journalist, so I couldn't investigate the villages further. I don't know their histories. I don't know much about their interactions, although our guide said the Jewish and Arab villagers generally engage in some commerce, but otherwise stay out of each others' areas.

Nevertheless, I know what I saw, and what I didn't see. There were no guards, military personnel or checkpoints between the villages. There were no large fences or other barriers. Arab villagers could walk unhindered to a neighboring Jewish village in minutes, and vice-versa.

In other words, Jews and Arabs were living on disputed territory, in peace.

Now, those Jews may believe the entire West Bank rightfully belongs to Israel, while their neighboring Arabs would likely rather live in an independent Palestine. But at least they're not fighting about it.

So, based on my experience, anyone who's interested in visiting Israel but fears the violence, should make the trip. Unless there's an active shooting war going on, the most danger you're likely to face is on the roads — Israelis tend to be very aggressive drivers.

As for the Arab-Israeli conflict? Unfortunately, there are no easy answers there. I just wish that today's version of the ancient Roman legions, i.e., those who call or work for Israel's destruction, would learn something from those West Bank villages I witnessed. Certainly, peace between nations is a more difficult and complex achievement than peace between villages. But peace between villages is a

Readers offer suggestions on state money crisis

Editor's note: We asked readers to offer their suggestions to Gov. Jennifer Granholm and state legislators as they struggle with the state's financial crisis. We ran several letters in Thursday's paper and online. Here are some more responses.

Thank you for allowing citizens some input on how to handle the current state finance crisis. When operating a family budget, Michigan citizens decide what they can and cannot afford to purchase. It is our belief that the state government should do the same. When the family budget comes up short for a Michigan family, we are forced to look at income vs. outgo. This is what you need to do:

 Clean house. And we don't mean from the bottom up. We mean from the top down. Get rid of every special committee, every "created" position and every person that is not crucial to running the state. This action alone will save the state millions. Learn to make decisions by listening to your on site advisers and using your own judgment. Don't form a special committee for every problem that comes up.

2. When you are considering cutting "government services" such as money to schools and local government, remember this: These are not government services. These are essential tools that are provided for by the citizens of Michigan in the form of taxes. The tax you collect from the citizens is not your personal pocketbook. Michigan cannot afford government spending sprees.

3. When you have an $800 million deficit, you are spending too much. If you don't have the revenues, you should not be spending. That should be clear

4. If you have an $800 million deficit and you receive some windfall money (big tobacco settlement), it makes sense to balance your budget and THEN you consider the amount left over as surplus. Since this was not done with your tobacco money, are we to assume that you don't consider the state in a financial crisis? You earmarked the money for your pet projects and then you form a special committee to figure out how to solve the budget deficit. In truth, you had the power to take care of the deficit and did

5. Michigan has the second highest paid legislators in the nation but we are one of the most financially troubled states. Our state legislators make good wages. They have very short work weeks. If the state is in need of a "special committee," please catch some of our legislators on the two-three days off during the week and draft them to sit on the com-

6. You have a powerful workforce at your disposal. Michigan workers have strong work ethics and a good sense of what is right. Re-train your unemployed blue-collar workers. Don't let their unemployment benefits run out and then tell them to take out grants and loans to get degrees necessary to obtain these high tech positions. It was blue-collar workers who made this state into the automotive capital of the world, not the state government. Don't forget us. Help us, and we will help you out of this mess you have created.

Redundant bureaucracy

I remember the time when we in Michigan had no to state income tax, no sales tax, and no SBT tax, nevertheless the state government functioned just fine. Perhaps Gov. Granholm's 12-member emergency commission should study how that was done, and accordingly make suggestions to the governor.

I think that the present budgetary problem in the state has a lot to do with overgrown, overcompensated ed, often redundant, and underworked bureaucracy. Probably it can be reduced by half without adverse consequences. We would then have a leaner, more efficient, most likely friendlier to the public, better functioning state government.

We should learn how they do it in the private industry, for example at Ford, General Motors, and other companies. From huge losses they recently incurred, apparently they are now on the way to profitability with considerably reduced workforce, and scaled down wages and benefits. What works to their advantage, it could work just as well to the advantage of the State of Michigan without more taxing already overburdened with taxes public.

Cut compensation

1. Do not raise taxes.

2. What do we cut? The level of compensation of \sim state, county and city government pensions, retirement and lifetime medical benefits. I'm talking teachers, elected officials etc. Make them similar to their private sector workers plans. We can't afford the 55-year-old retirees with all of those expensive perks for life. The only exception would be police and firefighters. These folks go to do their public service each day with the risk that they may not come home. at the end of the day. Please note that I have a probable of lem with their benefits package, not their salaries. They have been very smart to defer much of their compensation to their retirement packages which no of one ever seems to scrutinize.

3. Let education dollars follow the student. I pay $2,500 a child for a Catholic education that vastly outperforms the $9,500 spent on public school students. Too much is wasted on bureaucracy.

4. Don't spend $80,000 on a chief of staff for the governor's husband.

5. If 35 or 40 other states all have a part-time legis 15 of lator (like Michigan used to) and many are much more populated than Michigan, go back to the part time legislature like we had before.

Northville deflates Wayne on Storrs' shot at horn

Alvin Storrs admitted it wasn't one of his better performances on the basketball court.

But the 6-foot-2 guard from Northville, arguably the best player in the Western Lakes Activities Association, made the shot that counted Friday night, a 15-foot buzzer-beater to spoil Wayne Memorial's Coming Home Days celebration, 47-45.

With the win, Northville improved to 12-1 overall and 6-0 in the Western Division. The loss drops Wayne to 7-6

4-for-16 from the floor. And his two missed free throws with 25 seconds left enabled Wayne to rally all the way back from a 13-point third quarter deficit, tying the game at 45-all thanks to pair of free throws by Martez Abney with 21.37 seconds to Northville played for the last shot after calling a timeout in the front court with 11 seconds remaining. Storrs received the sideline inbounds pass and worked his way down right side against a pair of Wayne defenders, nearly turning the ball over twice in the process.

"I really don't remember what happened, all I knew is the time was running down," said Storrs, who finished with a team-high 16 points. "I just tried to turn and face the basket, get my feet set, which is something I worked on all week with the coaches."

After Wayne lost 66-44 to the Mustangs on Jan. 16, coach Wayne Woodard decided to employ a zone defense in an effort to try and slow down Storrs.

The Zebras did a stellar job on the Northville guard, including the final two possessions of the game. On the previous possession, Storrs was bailed out on a foul call after being hemmed in after taking a pass with 25.78 seconds left, leading to a pair of free throws (which he both missed).

"I thought we had him trapped in were a couple of deals here and there. Basically (on the last shot) we wanted to close the gaps with our feet and give as much help (defense) as we can. And if he (Storrs) did give it up, we wanted to contest shots."

The Zebras led 13-12 after one quarter. but found themselves down 37-24 on a basket by Martins Trautmanis with 1:24 to go in the third period.

Offensively, Wayne had trouble making shots against Northville's zone, going 10-of-38 through three

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Maricka Seay provided the thunder inside, while teammate Adrena Walker-Price rained three-pointers from the outside as Schoolcraft College took a stranglehold on the Eastern Conference race with an 84-75 triumph Wednesday night over Mott Community College

Seay, a 5-foot-11 sophomore center from Detroit CMA, finished with a game-high 28 points and 12 rebounds. Not to be outdone was Walker-Price, a freshman guard from Detroit Country Day, who drilled five rainbow set-shots from beyond the arc en route to 15 points.

Schoolcraft, ranked No. 4 in the latest NJCAA Division II national poll, improved to 19-2 overall and 12-0 in the conference. Mott falls to 17-5 and 10-2 in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association.

"This was a big step because my kids haven't been tested for awhile," Schoolcraft coach Karen Lafata said. "This gives us a two-game cushion in the conference."

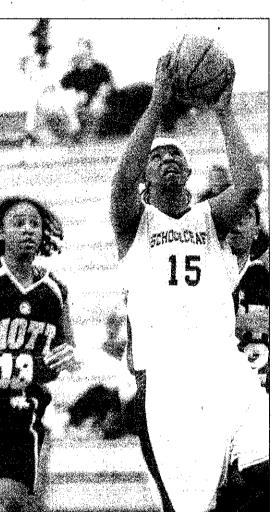

Schoolcraft could do little wrong in the opening half, shooting 66 percent from the floor (20-of-30) to take a 48-36 advantage. Seay scored 15 first-half points, while Price made three triples during the first 20 minutes of play.

"We just knew what we wanted to do - spread ne floor with four (players) out, one in and get the ball to 'Ricka,'" Lafata said.

Schoolcraft, however, got into foul trouble, forcing Lafata to go into a zone defense, and cooled off considerably from the floor during the second half going 13-for-30.

And because the Super Bowl goes off tonight in Miami, I hope it's not too late to make amends.

I confused two great men – Fred Miller, Livonia youth football coach, and a guy named Smith, who happens to be the Chicago Bears coach.

I've known a few Fred Smiths in my day - the old-time Tiger baseball statistician, the men's basketball coach at Siena Heights University and the athletic director at Comstock High School immediately come to mind.

I had Smith on the brain in this previous story that appeared in Thursday's paper when it should have been Miller.

This could be the most embarrassing mistake in my 28 years, but I'll take my medicine and swallow. It's almost as bad as a headline that once appeared in the Observer: "Suicide victim in serious condi-

Hopefully I got this right because Tony Dungy and Lovie Smith would be envious of Fred Miller.

That's because the Livonia Falcons varsity coach knows a thing or two about winning Super Bowls ... in the Western Lakes Junior Football League.

Miller has been coaching junior league football for the past 35 years, starting in 1972 with the Falcons as an assistant coach under Bill Rice before taking over as the varsity head coach in 1973. And Miller has put together quite an impressive resume in 275 games, going 214-50-11, including 30 winning seasons (11 undefeated), and winning two of the first three Super Bowls in the newly formed WLJFL.

Yet, Miller doesn't look at his worth in terms of wins or losses. "We just try to play basic foot-

Flint Mott has all but taken the suspense out of the Eastern Conference men's basketball race in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association.

The nationally-ranked Bears captured their 16th straight to improve to 20-2 overall with a 69-67 triumph Wednesday night against host Schoolcraft College.

Kevin Tiggs, a 6-foot-4 sophomore forward from Flint Northern, led the victorious Bears, now 12-0 in the conference, with a game-high 31 points.

Second-year forward Terrence Watson (Detroit Murray-Wright) added 14.

Rivals Mott and Schoolcraft usually battle it out for first place right through the end of the regular season, but the conference race is all but forgone conclusion with a month

"We have a four-game cushion with six to play, and four are at home," said Mott coach Steve Schmidt, whose team survived a late Schoolcraft rally to hang on for the win. "We knew coming in this was a great game for us. We needed to play this type of game and give this type of effort because we have not had a lot of tight games. We've haven't been tested like this in awhile."

Schoolcraft, now 13-8 overall

and 8-4 in the conference under first-year coach Mike Brown, simply did not have enough offensive firepower to overhaul Mott. The Ocelots never got into their offense other than an occasional pickand-roll play.

The Ocelots shot a paltry 27 percent during the first half (10-of-37), but found themselves down only three points at intermission, 29-26, thanks in part to the play of guard Korey Spates, the Purdue University transfer who bagged 15 of his team-high 26 points. Mott also blocked a mind-boggling 12 first-half shots, many inside against Schoolcraft's bull-dozing 6foot-5, 260-pound forward Nate Minnoy, who went just 1of-11 from the floor during the opening 20 minutes. Minnoy, who ended up with 15, got his shot blocked more on this night than he probably did during his entire half-season stint last year with the Boilermakers. "We're in the top five in team defense in the country, around 60 points (per game), and we knew Schoolcraft as the ability to put up a lot of points," Schmidt said.

Mott led by as many as 11 points on four different occasions during the second half, but Schoolcraft refused to fold.

Central Michigan University

transfer Jon Yeazel, a 6-4 guard from Wayland, drilled a pair of free throws with 3:09 remaining to pull Schoolcraft to within three points, 65-62.

Minnoy's three-pointer from the wing with only 13.85 seconds closed the gap to 67-65. Mott's Thomas Kennedy then split a pair of free throws with 11.64 seconds to play and Spates' last-ditch triple try with under 10 seconds remaining went in-and-out as the Yeazel added 11 points, while Josh Samarco contributed 10, but the Belleville product shot just 3-of-12 from the floor after scoring 36 three days earlier vs. Kirtland.

Bears held on for the victory.

"Josh just couldn't get it going," Brown said. "But we didn't lose because of effort. Mott made plays to win the game. We were right there, but couldn't get it done. They (Mott) play extremely hard and they don't take plays off. They defend as well as anybody."

Schoolcraft, which sputtered in the half-court game, made just 19-of-62 shots from the floor (30.4 percent). The Ocelots, however, stayed close by making 26-of-35 free throws (74.2 percent).

They have a lot of skilled players," Schmidt said, "and to hold them to 67 points is a great effort defensively."

The two teams meet again Monday, Feb. 12 at Mott.

It was my fault and I missed those free throws. I'm lucky my teammates came out and played the way they did tonight. I'm just happy we won, but there's got to be easier ways to win.'

ball," said Miller, who played high school football at Redford Union. "We'll run the slot-I (formation), but I might change up. I teach fundamentals, try to build a foundation and hope they grow and learn. I like to put game plans together, see how they progress. We don't win all the time, but we win our fair share. My thing is to always play hard and do your best."

The thought of coaching another season never gets old for the 55-year-old Miller, who works inside for the Detroit Police Department's Violent Crimes Task Force Unit.

When August rolls around and conditioning starts, Miller begins to mold a team of varsity players who range in age from 12-14 and weigh anywhere up to 170 pounds. "I just said that when it stops being fun ... " Miller said. "That's when I'll step back. It's just really rewarding and humbling. It's just a joy to watch the boys and seeing what I can do. It's been tremendous." Miller can't stop now any-

That's because his son, Matthew, 12, who has played two seasons each at the freshman and JV levels, becomes eligible to play for his dad at varsity level. And Miller embraces the idea of coaching his own son. He has no reservations. "I'm looking forward to it,"

He's even convinced his wife, Beth, once a nonfootball fan, to take an interest.

"She loves it, she's very supportive," he said. "Even though it takes a lot of time away, she understands."

Miller has developed many surrogate father-son relationships over the years. "Having my own son (Nicholas) play for this man

the past two seasons and from a little boy to a young man made me realize what a truly remarkable man Fred is," said Michael Rotter, Falcon unit director and football commissioner for the Livonia Junior Athletic League. "He demands only that the players give their all and leave nothing on the field. "What is totally amazing is that the LJAL is a first-come signup, and not a tryout team. And yet he has recorded that many victories. That alone tells you what kind of coach he is."

Sonny Micallef, Miller's assistant the past 17 seasons. started as a field director in the LJFL in 1981 and sent two of his sons, Ryan and Randy (now the offensive coordinator at Walled Lake Central High), through the Falcon program. Both played under Miller.

"He cares about kids so much, and as far as teaching the game, he's wonderful at it," said Micallef, a retiree from Ford Motor Co. who spends his winters as a "snowbird" in Venice, Fla. "I've been around him for 25 years and the kids have so much respect for him. I can't explain it. He's just great. His leadership keeps everything going."

Micallef and Miller are also adept at playing the role of good cop, bad cop. They've got the routine down pat.

"I'm very emotional, a holler guy, rah-rah," Miller admits. "I'll read them the riot act when I have to, but I'll also praise them. You can only beat them down so much or you'll lose them. Sonny is the guy who smoothes things over. We have a very good working relationship."

Adds Micallef: I'm the one they come to after ... I'm 'Father Sonny.' Fred will never take you down too far. He'll build you back up and give you praise. He's also got real sense of humor to coach as long as he has."

Despite the impressive record, Micallef said Miller has it all in perspective.

"If you don't succeed, it's not the end of the world and that's why he's been successful," Micallef said. "He wants his kids to put out the extra effort, but he's never preached winning, and the kids respect and understand that."

Miller also keeps tabs on his former players. Many have excelled at the collegiate and high school level.

Among his former standouts from Stevenson High are David Hall, a former Michigan quarterback who played tight end and defensive end for the Falcons, along with his brother Jeff, and Jim Spala (Wayne State).

Miller also coached brothers Mike and Jeff Gatt, who later went on to play at Redford Catholic Central High and Hillsdale College.

He's also seen a couple of stars on the other side of the

"I certainly remember the Granger brothers (Roy and Jason)," said Miller, referring to the All-State running backs from Farmington Hills Harrison.

And it's not uncommon to find Smith watching a former player at the Catholic Central or Stevenson, or showing up to see a local college game. "I'm a fan of Stevenson, Catholic Central and Michigan," he said. Miller said he'll probably view Sunday's Super Bowl in Miami from his own home. When asked who he was rooting for, Miller didn't hesi-

"Dungy's from Michigan, I'd like to see him win," said the Falcons coach.

Coaches come and go in the NFL, but Miller appears to be on his way to a Joe Paternolike tenure in the WLJFL.

'They'll have to carry him off the field," Micallef said. "He just loves teaching the game all these years."

Rocks in Lakes clash

STAFF WRITER

Pity the poor forearms that find themselves in the path of the meteoric kills of Livonia Churchill hitters Kyndra Abron and Lauren Krupsky.

On Wednesday night in a battle of Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division unbeatens, the Chargers' dynamic duo's spikes bruised the Salem gymnasium floor more than the Rocks' arms in Churchill's come-from-behind 23-25, 25-16, 25-18, 25-20 victory over the Rocks.

Krupsky, a senior who will be hitting for Central Michigan University in the fall, ripped 32 kills, while Abron, a junior bound for Michigan State University in the fall of 2008, notched 22 floor-shaking kills.

The triumph improved state-ranked Churchill's record to 28-2-1 overall and 5-0 in the Lakes. Salem slipped to 24-3-1 and 4-1, respectively.

"Kyndra and Lauren are obviously big-time players," Churchill coach Mark Grenier said following his team's conquest of the Rocks. "We liveand-die with what they do and they certainly didn't disappoint us tonight."

While the Chargers' onetwo front-row punch is formidable, it's far from the only reason they're ranked seventh in the state in Division 1, Grenier emphasized.

"Above and beyond some of those big bangers we have, I also have kids who fill roles, who pass really well and serve tough," said the Churchill coach. "Outside of the homerun balls that Lauren and Kyndra hit, I have some kids that deserve equal billing with some of the efforts they make with their great defense.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

"Everyone sees the homerun ball, but we always talk about the fact that they wouldn't be possible without ball control and defense."

Kelly Archer (19 digs), Stephanie Bradshaw (13 digs), Anna-Marie Gatt (eight digs) and Kelsey McKenzie (31 set assists) were the Chargers' top non-hitters against the Rocks.

During the early going, the Rocks looked like they may duplicate last year's threegame home sweep of Churchill when they rode strong front-row play from Lauren Kurtz and Teresa Coppiellie to a game-one win.

Salem, however, seemed to lose its rhythm during the opening points of Game No. 2 and was never able to regain

"We came out strong in the first game, but then as the second and third game went on, our passing kind of broke down and we didn't get a lot of defense against Churchill's big hitters," Salem coach Amanda Suder said. "If you don't have the blocks, it's hard to dig up some of those hits that come from Kyndra and Lauren. Overall, I think we played at about 50 to 60 percent of what we're capable of playing at. But give Churchill credit. They played very well.

"We'll see them again later on this season, so this certainly wasn't our last dance with Churchill."

Kurtz shined for Salem, netting 17 kills and 15 digs. Teresa Coppiellie (10 kills and 11 digs) and Jansan Falcusan (33 assists, seven digs and two blocks) also turned in stellar performances.

Churchill breaks up Lutheran Westland spikers dig out win in 5

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

It was more of a ping pong match than anything else. Lutheran High Westland and Clawson went back-and-forth for over two hours Thursday night in a key Metro Conference girls volleyball encounter.

The outcome wasn't decided until the fifth game as the host Warriors, ranked No. 9 in Class D. remained unbeaten in the Metro with a hard-fought 25-20, 25-27, 25-22, 21-25, 15-6 victory over the Trojans.

Lutheran Westland, now 18-2-4 overall and 4-0 in the conference, received a game-high 23 kills and seven blocks from 6-foot-1 sophomore middle hitter Becca Refenes. Senior Kayla Gieschen and sophomore Katey Ramthun combined for 16 kills from their outside hitting positions. Setters Lauren Gieschen and Julie Jongsma, meanwhile, teamed up for 21 and 17 assistto-kills, respectively.

But the Warriors literally had to reach down for the win against the defensive-oriented Trojans as the two Laurens, Schwecke and Gieschen, led the way with 31 and 26 digs, respectively.

"They (Clawson) get a lot of balls back and one of the things that frustrated me was our errors led to some easy points, especially the second game and the fourth game when we were up so big," Lutheran Westland first-year coach Kevin Wade said. "But we came back strong when we held those big leads and we easily could have folded."

The Warriors had gamepoint, 24-21, during the second game and let it slip away. They also led 14-6 in the fourth game, only to have Clawson claw back.

'We try to make less mistakes than the other team, we're scrappy," said Clawson seventhyear coach Ray McCann. "We knew we had the Rebecca (Refenes) girl to block. We wanted to go at her as much as possible and try and tire her out. "But they (Lutheran Westland) are a well-rounded team because vou look at Kavla (Gieschen), who is a nice player, too. Overall Westland is very scrappy."

Clawson's comeback in the second and fourth games were sparked by senior setter Meghan Hauswirth, who finished with 11 total kills, and 5-8 outside hitter

Sara Edwards, who wound up with 10 kills and six blocks.

The fifth and deciding game, however, was all Warriors.

"They (Clawson) had started to pinch in, they did a good job blocking when we were going outside," Wade said. "When we started the fifth game we started going middle with Refenes and Ramthun."

The loss drops Clawson to 17-7-2 overall and 3-2 in the Metro. "I think the emotion ran out in the fifth game," McCann said. "We needed to win that third game and hold the momentum. I can't be upset with the loss because we spent everything that fourth game. We played hard, it was back and forth, but give them credit."

Chargers pressed in 3-1 division win

Livonia Churchill remained atop the Lakes Division boys hockey standings in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a 3-1 victory Friday night over visiting Walled Lake Northern at

The Chargers, ranked No. 3 in Division I, improved to 14-2 overall and 5-0 in the division. Northern falls to 10-5-2 and 3-3.

"They (Northern) came to play," Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said. "It was a physical game at a good pace. We were tested, and we needed that. It was a good division game."

Northern's Sam Sparling opened the scoring with an unassisted goal at the 4-minute mark of the first period. Churchill's Tyler Cotter answered 33 seconds later on an assist from Kody Strong to knot the game at 1-all after one period.

Dustin Wischmeyer scored what proved to be the game-winner at 7:42 of the second period on assists from Dan Bostick and Andy LaBerge.

Defenseman Phil Wendecker's unassisted goal on a four-on-four situation gave the Chargers a two-goal cushion with 3:33 left in the game. Churchill outshot the Knights, 35-22, as Charger netminder Scott Lewan earned the victory. Ed Hojnacki (32 saves) was in goal for Northern. PINCKNEY 7, FRANKLIN 5: A.J. Eibler tallied the game-winning goal with 7:34 left Friday as host Pirates (9-10) stormed back for six third-period goals to beat Livonia Franklin (3-14) in a non-league game played at the Kensington Valley Ice

The Patriots, who were outshot 28-16, gave up three straight power play goals in the final period.

Chris Zale led Pinckney with a pair of goals and one assist. Franklin led 3-1 after two periods on power-play goals by Tyler Barnes (from Nick Brooks), Stefan Witte (from Derek Cripe and Ron Perian), and Dan Ostrosky (from Brandon Pump and Alex Wypych.

In the third period, Franklin scored twice on goals by Jordan Chisholm (from Perian) and Barnes' second (from Chisholm and Dave Muller).

"We played great the first two periods – good breakouts, good on the power-play and penalty killing," Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said. "In the third period it looked like some of our players gave up when they scored a couple of goals and we could not get through it." STEVENSON 4, W.L. CENTRAL 1: Marcus Voran notched his fourth hat trick of the year Wednesday, raising his season goal total to 25, as Livonia Stevenson (13-3-1, 4-1) downed visiting Walled Lake Central (5-9-3, 1-4) in a WLAA-Lakes Division

Voran's natural hat trick was highlighted by a pair of thirdperiod goals - at 8:07 (from John Vella) and 11:17 (unassist-

After a scoreless opening period, Central's Andy Knudsen got on the board at 6:26 of the second on an assist from

But the Spartans answered with a pair of goals before the same period ended - Zach Roberts (from Brandon Mazzacco and Kyle Zagata) at 8:50; and Voran (from Roberts and Dan Darrow) at 13:04.

It was Zagata's first career point.

Stevenson goaltender Jeff Pashnick made 16 saves to post the victory, while Central's Brett Malbin had 22 stops.

"This was an important game for us," Stevenson coach Mike Humitz said. "We had lost two in a row and you never want those streaks to last long.

"I think it took us awhile to get some quality chances to score. But as the game went on, we were able to generate some offense. We got a good game from our defensemen and that's always a good sign."

CHURCHILL 6, ANCHOR BAY 2: Six different players scored Wednesday as Livonia Churchill (13-2) rolled to a non-league victory over host Fair Haven Anchor Bay (4-11-2).

Keith Yackley and Steve Greco each tallied a goal and assist for the victorious Chargers, who led 5-0 after two periods. Josh Proben, Phil Wendecker, Kody Strong and Garrett

Miencier also tallied goals in the victory. Assists went to Nick Harakas, Andy LaBerge, Zac Archer, Scott Sundberg, Matt Heinzelman, Dan Bostick and Tyler

Adam Gainer and Silverio Romano scored late third-period goals for the Tars.

Churchill outshot Anchor Bay, 31-9, as Scott Lewan was the winning goaltender.

"We bounced back well, it was a good game for us to regroup," said Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni, whose thirdranked Chargers were upset only three days earlier by Grosse Pointe North, 3-1.

NORTHVILLE 9, FRANKLIN 1: Brandon Wales collected two goals and three assists Wednesday to lead the Mustangs (9-7-1, 4-2) past Livonia Franklin (3-13, 1-4) in a WLAA-Western Division game played at Edgar Arena.

Jordan Duff's goal at 3:32 of the final period stopped the contest because of the eight-goal mercy rule.

Northville had three power-play goals on the night. Other goals for the Mustangs were scored by Kyle Ziomek, Ross Riehl, Mike Garbarz, Steve Dawson, Wes Gates and Franklin's Alex Wypych scored at 2:42 of the second period from Devon Bower and Rob Ringe to cut the deficit to 2-1. Northville outshot the Patriots, 35-12.

KINGSWOOD 4, LADYWOOD 3: Goaltender Catherine LaGrasso made 40 saves and Audrey Stapleton scored the game-winning goal with 4:08 remaining Wednesday to lift host Bloomfield Hills Kingswood (13-3-1, 11-2-1) past Livonia Ladywood (10-2-1, 10-2-1) in a Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League game at Wallace Arena.

"LaGrasso played a great game, but we helped her out a lot," Ladywood coach Bruce Peck said. "We played them again Friday (4 p.m. at Detroit's Joe Louis Arena) and our goal is to

Ariel Magidson added a goal and two assists for the victorious Cranes, who moved into second place by a half-game over the Blazers

Break free from self-limiting beliefs

y favorite part of junior high school was the walk to school on the very first day. My friend Judy and I talked nonstop about the exciting life we were about to start. We weren't little kids in elementary school anymore. We were teenagers with so much to look forward to - going to school dances, wearing makeup, having boyfriends. We were thrilled and a little nervous.

As it turned out, my social life made taking biology and physics in the same semester, a breeze. I entered junior high with braces, glasses, and something I'd never had before, acne. My best friend had a clear complexion, a bit of a weight problem and a keen fascination for science fiction.

I imagined being a junior high school kid was like being a celebrity. I was going to be sought after and admired. Reality was a let down. The only way I knew how to deal with disappointment was to go inward. I became quiet and timid. The more I stayed to myself, the more I taught the kids around me to expect me to

Dan, the most popular boy in school said to everyone, "Did you hear that Cal is going out with Judy?"

Balance

Marilyn Suttle

He was talking about my best friend. Just before I started talking, he said, "What a joke. He must be crazy." Everyone laughed. How could they all laugh about my best friend, and in front of me? I wanted to scream at them, but it was too out of character for me, so I didn't. "I'm invisible," I concluded. With a sad heart, I accepted my role, and lowered my expectations.

The summer before high school, I realized I had a chance to break free. Four junior high schools fed into my new high school. Most of the kids wouldn't know me. They would have no expectations of how I was supposed to be. I had a new attitude and more realistic expectations. Taking a bold move, I walked into the student activities office on the first week of school, and signed up to run for class treasurer. I had to collect 50 signatures to run for student council, but I didn't know 50 kids.

My moment of truth came in Spanish class. The only girl I knew was Sue, and she hated me. I looked down at my blank student council petition, took a deep breath, felt the fear, and asked her anyway. "Sue, would you please sign my petition so I can run for student council?"

I braced invself for a "no," but she said "ves" and the ice melted. She even smiled. Before lunch, my petition had all 50 signatures on it. I was doing it. I was going to run for office. Wow. I turned in my form. Then, soon after, something crazy happened. I became class treasurer. Not because I was voted in, but because no one else ran against me. I didn't expect to win, I just wanted the kids to see my name on the ballet, which in my mind, would break me out of the "shy kid" role forever.

The new officers, myself included, were named on the morning announcements. Everyone in my classroom congratulated me. Then, the most shocking thing happened. The popular kids from my junior high were walking down the hall in my direction. Julie, the ring leader, said "Congratulations Marilyn." So did the others.

I wasn't really invisible in junior high, it just felt like it. Back then, I behaved the way I thought an invisible person was supposed to behave. Now that belief was gone, I was free to start being myself.

My next insight came from Cindy. She had stellar people skills and more school spirit than anyone I knew. She said, "Marilyn, I'm proud of you. I would have run for class treasurer, but I was too afraid of losing." I knew a lot about feeling afraid, but I didn't realize someone like Cindy felt that way too. No wonder I ran unopposed. In that moment I took Cindy, Julie and all the others off their pedestals, and realized that fear and doubt are a normal part of being human. Things changed for me from then on. I was visible. I didn't hang with the popular crowd, but I had friends, great friends, and felt happier and more self expressed. Life was in balance.

Are you locked in a role? Are you feeling trapped by other people's expectations? What one thing will you do today to break free from being typecast? Let the beginning of 2007 be a time for dropping self-limiting beliefs and allow yourself to be more self expressed. Competition to select Michigan opera idol

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, February 4, 2007

Aspiring young opera singers won't face the kind of tongue lashing they might after a performance in Parma, Italy, but they will have the opportunity to learn from the judge's comments at the 13th annual Italian Songs and Arias Vocal Competition for Michigan High School Students presented by the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan.

John Zaretti isn't expecting any of the rabid opera fans from his hometown of Parma on May 6 when young vocal students face off in concert, but hopes supporters turn out to encourage the aspiring students. But first the president of the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan must find young amateur singers ages 15-19. In November, dozens of letters went out to high school vocal music teachers across the state. A total of 10 finalists will be selected from cassette audiotape or CD auditions. Entries must be postmarked by Friday, Feb. 16. For more information, call (734) 455-8895.

In addition to critiques from this year's judges George Shirley, director of the University of Michigan School of Music's vocal arts department, and Karen VanderKloot DiChiera, founder and director of community programs for Michigan Opera Theatre, each of the finalists receive a cash prize ranging from $50 to $1,000 thanks to the generosity of the Italian American Club of Livonia

Scott MacLeod won the 1996 Italian Songs and Arias Vocal Competition presented by the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan. He returned to state last fall in the title role of the nonprofit's production of Puccini's comic one-act opera Gianni Schicchi.

Charitable Foundation. The Italian American Cultural Center in Clinton Twp. provides the venue.

The Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan presents four to five concerts a year along with the competition and lectures to generate interest in the operas of Giuseppe Verdi as well as other composers of Italian music for the theater.

We want for kids to learn a new experience, to test their voices against classical music in a different langnage, a different culture. They have to learn Italian and finalists have to sing in Italian before a live audience," said John Zaretti of Canton. Zaretti co-founded the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan with Dino Valle in 1988.

"It's very important that at the end of the competition, judges stay and review your performance. It's valuable advice. Many of the winners and finalists have gone on to The Juilliard School and Manhattan School of Music. Music is the sustenance throughout life. Not everyone will go on to a career in opera, but there are those who have gone on to musical theater or choral work."

Zaretti was especially touched by the letter 1996 winner Scott MacLeod wrote after the competition. MacLeod grew up in Okemos where his first exposure to opera came late in high school. He especially appreciated receiving the $1,000 cash prize from the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan.

"It really gave me a lot of courage to pursue this very difficult art form. As much as we don't want the arts to be about capitalism and finances, it gave me the opportunity to see that one can financially benefit from the arts."

MacLeod went on to earn a bachelor of music degree from Northwestern University, and master of music from Florida State University. Since then he's performed with Central City Opera, Utah Opera, Opera Omaha, Florida State University, National Symphony of Costa Rica, Opera North in New Hampshire, Quisisana Opera in Maine, Florence Masterworks Symphony in South Carolina, and Des Moines Metro Opera. Today, MacLeod is an administrator with an opera company in North Carolina while pursuing a career in performance. Last fall he returned to the state in the title role of the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan production of Puccini's comic one-act opera Gianni Schicchi. Upcoming performances include singing the role of Marullo in Rigoletto with the Greensboro Opera in North Carolina.

"Opera has more sentiment, heart, depth," said MacLeod. "I like the idea of antiquity, the history behind it. Opera you put on the costumes and you're wearing the costume of the ages.'

Loving opera came naturally to Zaretti. He grew up in a small farm town in Parma where everyone in his family sang while shucking corn with neighbors in the evening.

"Parma, Italy, is known to opera fans as the lion's pit of opera," said Zaretti.

Verdi was born there, Toscanini. If you make it there, you can go on to sing with La Scala or the Metropolitan Opera."

help us rebuild." Visitors have the opportunity to support the museum at its monthly film event to raise funds and awareness about the memorial for the World War II generation at 6 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 10, in Hangar 2 on the southwest side of the field at Willow Run Airport. For directions, visit www.yankeeairmuseum.org.

On the marquee is The Great Escape, starring Steve McQueen. Based on a true story, the film focuses on prisoners of war trying to escape a camp during World War II. Yankee member and World War II bomber pilot Sonny Elliot shares his experiences as a P.O.W. in Stalagluft I after his B-24 was shot down over Germany. After the war, Elliot went on to become a broadcasting legend in the Detroit area. He presently delivers weathercasts on WWJ-AM (950).

Tickets are $5 for members, $10 non-members. Seating is limited. Call (734) 483-4030. Doors open at 5 p.m. so guests can view the museum's remaining vintage planes, including the B-17 Yankee Lady, B-25 Yankee Warrior and C-47 Yankee Doodle Dandy.

"It's like any museum. It has great memories and things we just don't want to forget," said Elliot, a Farmington Hills resident, "It's living history."

Debbie Stewart hopes supporters will be touched enough by the museum's plight to come to the Hearts Go Out to Yankee Dinner and Auction, Saturday, Feb. 17, at the Hellenic Cultural Center, 36375 Joy, Westland. The event begins with a silent auction at 5 p.m. followed by a 7 p.m. dinner, then a live auction with several opportunities to bid on airplane rides and vacation packages.

Tickets are $75 apiece or $650 for a table of eight. Phone bidders must pre-register by calling (734) 483-4030. For a complete list of items, www.yankeeairmuseum.org. Jack Roush, founder of Roush Industries in Livonia, has donated NASCAR memorabilia signed by his drivers. The items include four quarter panels from Roush racing cars, one still with tire marks on it.

"There's a MiG-17 you can get in and start it up (during the July 7-8 Blue Angels' Thunder Over Michigan event presented by the museum at Willow Run Airport)," said Debbie Stewart, event coordinator. "Or ride in a MiG-21 (Russian Mach 2 fighter jet). That would cost $15,000 if you went to Russia (trip to Indiana to ride in the jet not included). We have two B-17 rides, two in a B-25, TNJ and T-6 World War II planes, three day trips in a C-47, and a ride in a Pitts with three nights in Boulder City, Nevada, with a ride over the streets of Las Vegas and the Hoover Dam and as much aerobatics as you can stand (does not include trip to Nevada)."

All of the proceeds from the silent and live auctions go toward the rebuilding effort for the museum's new campus. Concept drawings detail the five buildings that will house the vintage planes and memorabilia. The first structure built will be a visitor center and corporate offices with a retail store and meeting space.

"At the groundbreaking on April 16 our planes will be open for tours," Dick Stewart said. "It's a way of letting the public know that we're viable and on our way to recovery. All four of our flyable airplanes will be up — the B-17 Yankee Lady, B-25 Yankee Warrior, C-47 Yankee Doodle Dandy, and B-77 Stinson Yankee Friendship, which was made locally in southeast Michigan."

The groups are held at the Angela Hospice Care Center at 14100 Newburgh, and are lead by bereavement professionals and trained volunteers who aim to provide useful coping strategies and tools to facilitate the healing process.

"Support groups provide a safe haven for people who are grieving," said Rebecca Hyman, Angela Hospice social work and bereavement manager. exotic and ancient part of the world, and to see a place where the native animals still live wild.

One country cannot define this varied continent, just as the United States can't be defined by one state. Picking a country to visit varies by what you want to see and experience.

Most people look for a combination of three things: culture, geography and animals. The country of South Africa, located at the continent's southern tip, could be the perfect spot for a first trip when considering all three of these categories.

"South Africa is beginner's Africa," said David de Le Quearra, our tour guide with Southern Circle Tours and a native of Durban, South Africa. "The accommodations are comfortable and first-rate, not like what you might see in the poorer nations.

Tanzania and Kenya both make tremendous destinations for the wildlife watcher, while Uganda, Zambia, Botswana and Namibia also can be great vacation spots, but South Africa boasts the best facilities for comfort, with flora and fauna that rarely disappoint. Firsttime North Americans visiting South Africa also appreciate that signs and most conversations are in English, despite the country having 11 different official languages, including Afrikaans and Zulu.

GREAT WILDLIFE VIEWING

South Africa's gorgeous landscape tends to be overshadowed by the amazing opportunities for wildlife viewing in places like Kruger National Park, about a three-hour drive east of Johannesburg. Here, you can stay in rest camps in the heart of one of the truly great wild places on earth, where lions, leopards, elephants, giraffes and all the other plains animals exist as they have for centuries.

Despite the location, these camps don't cost an arm and a leg to visit, for either the accommodations or for the meals served from the cafeterias.

The strength of the dollar against the South African rand (one rand equals about 13 cents) gives you more money to start with, and consistently lower prices help that money go further. This affordability is another feature making South Africa such a great vacation.

We had dinner for two at a top of the line restaurant in Cape Town, which would cost about $80-$100 in the Detroit area, but cost us about $35, tip included. Economics like this allow visitors to live more extravagantly, which adds to the vacation fun.

South African people tend to be friendly, with no noticeable anti-American sentiment. For South Africans, being so far from the rest of the world makes the world's problems seem very distant.

That distance, however, makes getting there no fun at all. The flight to South Africa has to be the biggest downside of the trip.

Flight time will vary by where your layover is, but our trip to Johannesburg from Detroit, with a layover in Paris, totaled about 18 hours in the sky. Europe's disorganized plane loading methods added a few more hours, making it about 20 hours on the plane,

TRAVEL TIPS

Although malaria sounds like a disease from another era, visitors still must protect themselves. Before any exotic vacation, contact a facility that specializes in travel medicine, such as Passport Health of Farmington Hills (www.passporthealthmi.com). They'll make sure you get the vaccines and medications you need.

■ When you've decided a trip to Africa is for you, contact a professional with an emphasis in South African tourism, such as Julian Harrison of Premier Tours (www.premiertours.com), who has been named a top travel specialist for Africa by Conde Nast Traveler magazine. The travel agent should listen to what you want to experience, then try to set up the tour you are looking for within your budget and comfort zone.

Crime has long been an issue in South Africa, but when you speak to the people about it, they sound very similar to Detroiters defending their area to those visiting for the Super Bowl. Yes, there's crime, but if you stay away from bad areas, don't pick up hitchhikers and don't flash money around, you should stay pretty safe.

■ The monetary unit in South Africa, the rand, is about 13 cents in American money, but that can vary. Once you figure out that 100R is equal to about $13, you can get a pretty good idea about what things cost.

Everywhere tourists go, native Africans set up tables of souvenirs, mostly crafts they made themselves and jewelry made from local gem stones. The interesting items they sell, the inexpensive cost, plus getting to interact with locals, makes getting souvenirs a good time. Check with the airline and airline security Web sites to make sure you will be allowed to bring back souvenirs before you buy them. I had two bottles of wine that I purchased from the duty-free shop confiscated when boarding the flight. ■ Though it feels strange at first, it doesn't take long to get used to driving in South Africa. The problem I most faced was looking out the window to my right when I was looking for the rearview mirror that was to my left. For information on South Africa Tourism, go to www.southafricatourism.com. For information on Kruger National Park, go to www.sanparks.com. For guidebooks, Frommers gives you great nuts and bolts information, and Insight Guides (by the Discovery Channel) offer a colorful book titled South Africa, with beautiful pictures and information of each region.

Yes, South Africa is one of the odd nations where the traffic is on the "wrong" side of the road, which can drive a North American driver to the wrong side of crazy. After some practice, a little bit of stress and figuring out which side of the car to enter, the driving is not a problem. You just need to get used to it.

Small rest areas allow day visitors to picnic, use the restroom or buy supplies, but the main time out of the vehicles occurs when stopped for the night at the rest camps, which are scattered throughout the park and enclosed with electrified fences.

The camps feature comfortable housing, with simple round huts covered in thatched roofs, with the refrigerator and kitchen sink on the porch. Some rest camps have more amenities than others, even to the point of having museums, fancy restaurants or an overlook of the savannah or watering hole that's outside the fence.

At times, the electrified fence can make you feel like you are in a zoo, as the animals will walk right up to the fence, such as the warthog who wandered up to the fence during dinner one evening, just a few feet from our porch, or the lion we heard grunting a few feet away in the darkness.

A BRAAI

BENZIE COUNTY

Northern Michigan Preserved

The rest camps have no telephones or televisions. Evenings can be spent listening to ranger lectures, going on a night tour (which enables you to almost see the nocturnal animals, as they disappear from the spotlights quickly), looking at the night sky of the Southern Hemisphere and, of course, the almost obligatory braai, a South African barbeque that just could not be tastier.

David de La Quearra loves to make a braai for his guests. "It's a tradition," he says. "(South Africans) love cooking for people who appreciate it. I'm more than happy to cook for my guests every night. If I were at home, I'd be cooking a braai by myself, anyway!"

Food in a braai can include various meats, including impala or nyala steaks, beef and the wonderful sausage known as boerewors, which become a borderline addiction. Should you desire more elegant accommodations, many private lodge areas abut the park on the western edge and offer incredibly luxury. Of course, extravagance comes at a cost: One night in these lodges can cost more than a week in a rest camp.

Time of year makes a huge difference as to what you see in Kruger. An October trip, which is springtime in the Southern Hemisphere, will give you the opportunity to view more baby animals, but the brush is thicker because of the early spring rains, so the animals become harder to find. This stays true throughout the warm weather.

Guides give you the best opportunity to find the big five (lions, leopards, elephants, cape buffalo and rhinoceros, which were the animals most sought after by the hunters). They know the park and the animals' tendencies. They also help make sure you're where you need to be, allowing you to enjoy your trip without the hassles of trying to drive and spot wildlife at the same time.

A two-hour flight from Johannesburg gets you to Cape Town, one of the world's great cities, on the west coast of South Africa. Cape Town can be viewed as a microcosm of South Africa, as some areas of the city burgeon with wealth and opulence, while less than a block away a neighborhood appears blighted.

For a visitor, however, the city offers a plethora of activities, including the beach or just shopping at the Victoria and Alfred Waterfront.

You could visit Robben's Island, an Alcatraz-style jail where Nelson Mandela was imprisoned, or the operating room where Dr. Christiaan Barnard performed the first heart transplant.

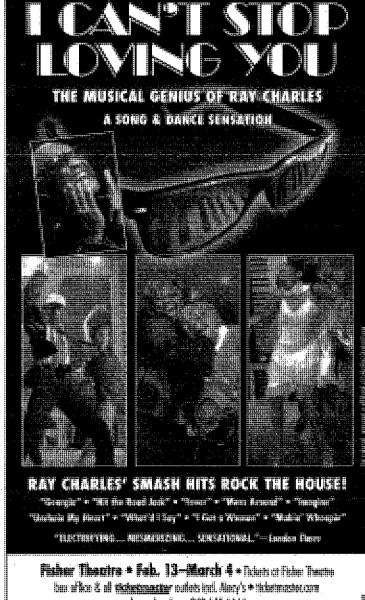

Short drives from Cape Town can get you to the vineyards where they create some of the great wine in the world. Numerous nearby national parks and nature preserves let you see the animals native to this part of the country.

Cities like Simon's Town feature charming shops and the nearby Boulder's Beach African penguin colony.

The multicultural, exciting nation of South Africa gives visitors many options for fun, from extensive activity to a simple rest on a beach. The people, generally pleasant and welcoming of strangers, tend to make you feel more like a guest than a

The country's location, so far into the Southern Hemisphere, the years of apartheid and fears of African travel have helped to keep it hidden as a top-notch travel destination. By hosting the 2010 World Cup, South Africa will be discovered as one of the great places to be in the world.

I am very glad to have seen it before the attention has a chance to change it.

Benefit steeps guests in Italian culture

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Guests looking to immerse themselves in Italian culture won't have to travel very far. The Italian American Club of Livonia stirs together a culinary extravaganza of dishes including pasta from Compari's and sausage from Guilio's Cucina Italiana with arias performed by three opera singers for its 12th annual dinner dance Sunday, Feb. 11. The event begins with a Mass at noon at the Italian American Club of Livonia, 39200 Five Mile.

Tickets are $45. A seven-course meal and dessert follows the Culinary Extravaganza provided by Livonia and Plymouth area restaurants and produce merchants. For those who like to dance, the Mike Wolverton Band entertains from 4-6 p.m. To order tickets, call (866) 990-IABC, ext. 2, or Joseph Yekulis at the St. Louis Center (734) 475-8430 for more information. Reservations requested by Feb. 8.

Proceeds benefit the St. Louis Center in Chelsea. The center cares for the physical, emotional and spiritual needs of children and adults with developmental disabilities.

"It's going to be very special this year with the three opera singers," said Mary Galasso, Italian American Club of Livonia president. "They're going to be doing it gratis. The money goes to transportation costs for residents of the St. Louis Center. We annually replace a high mileage van in the fleet with a newer model so they can get to work, the doctor or out for recreation. The vans put on 150,000 miles a year."

John Zaretti, president and cofounder of the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan, is calling on sopranos Natalie Conte and Rebecca Eaddy, and baritone Jonathan Smith to sing for the Italian American Club of Livonia members who annually sponsor cash prizes for the opera theater's high school competition in Michigan. Conte won the 1999 competition. Eaddy was a finalist in 2001. Smith received the opera theater's $1,000 prize for the University of Michigan School of Music's study abroad program in Italy in 2006. The three will perform arias from Verdi's La Traviata, and Mozart's Don Giovanni and Cosi Fan Tutti. Raffaella Medor Naurato accompanies them on piano.

Project to help educate women prisoners

The American Association of University Women's Legal Advocacy Fund granted the University of Michigan-Dearborn the 2006 Progress in Equity Award for its efforts to educate women in a local prison.

The university's College Level Courses at the Scott Correctional Facility for Women in Plymouth Township offers university-certified courses in women's studies, composition, sociology, African American studies, and other subjects to women at the prison. Courses are taught by university professors on a volunteer basis.

"We are honored to recognize this innovative program," said AAUW Educational Foundation President Barbara O'Connor. "We continue to be impressed by the important work it does to advance women's educational opportunities in a critically underserved population."

The program's effects are twofold – giving female prisoners hope to overcome life's obstacles, and compelling the community to challenge conventional stereotypes about women in prison. The program received $5,000 from AAUW.

"Women who receive a college education or begin the degree process while in prison fare better when they rejoin society than those who do not," said Program Director and University of Michigan at Dearborn Professor Lisa Lempert. "College builds a context for transformation and responsibility that the women take with them as they leave the facility"

The Progress in Equity Award recognizes a college or university program that promotes equity for women with a cash reward. Since 1987, the AAUW Legal Advocacy Fund has recognized more than 38 programs throughout the country for progressive and innovative advancements on behalf of women.

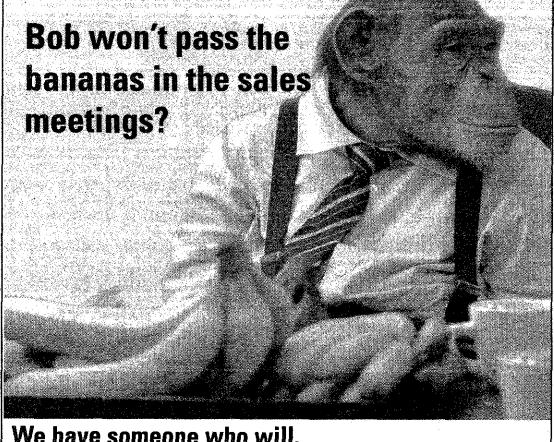

"When the Michigan legislature made it illegal to use tax dollars for inmate college tuition, this enterprising group of volunteers stepped in to fill a critical need and give a second chance to women in prison," said Lisa Maatz, interim director of the AAUW Legal Advocacy Fund.

The University of Hawaii, Honolulu received an honorable mention for its Bridge of Hope program, which provides oncampus student employment and support programs for welfare recipients.

An awards presentation was held at the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus to honor the Scott Prison project. Eleanor Siewert, member of the AAUW national board of directors and AAUW of Birmingham branch, presented the award.

ELTON R. (RANDY) EATON Born to the Sterling Eatons of Plymouth, Michigan on December 10th 1940 in Detroit, passed away peacefully at home on January 28th 2007. His father and grandfather both served in the Michigan Legislature and were distinguished Michigan weekly newspaper publishers. After attending Cranbrook School and the Universities of Miami and Michigan, Randy was pulled away by the family newspaper business, The Plymouth Mail, which he successfully took over and ran for many years. In Randy's own words, "I've been happily married for 34 years to the beautiful, wonderful and amazing Gillian, with three amazing sons and a life lived, but way not complete. I've worked as a newspaperman, football coach. TV commercial actor and brand model, created a swanky blues club in London's Covent Garden, worked as a criminal defense associate, PR guy, Montana horse wrangler, commercial photographer, and lastly with his sons at Thunderdog Studios on their brilliant toy manufacturing projects." He wrote: "Best of my life has been (and still is) my relationship my sons. My best friends, greatest supporters and dearest hearts are my sons. If I have a moral rudder it is: cultivating friendliness and compassion. That, and this: Never Quit no matter the opposition." During the closing years of his life Randy founded the Detroit Men's Club. Organized with the intention of encouraging area busi-nessmen and artists to bring a total stranger to a bag lunch at unique and usually inaccessible locations, like back stage at the Detroit Opera House. In three years the club grew to over 200 members; and, many gaileries owners, businessmen, artists and young entrepreneurs came to know each other. As Randy liked to say, "my goal is to show people they have more common than they think; and, to uplift them if I can". He is survived by his wife Gillian a distinguished theater artist and three beloved sons, Rob, Matthew and Tristan, and a chosen and beloved daughter Leslie. Five beautiful grandchildren, Alexandra, Peri, Pierce, Roxanne, and Harrison, also survive him. His dear sister Cynthia Eaton Johanson lives in Florida. Randy's rich life was made more joyful by an astoundingly wide group of beloved friends and family in, Michigan, New York, Los Angeles, Tokyo, London, Wales and all over the World. He and his family are deeply grateful for their generous hearts and loving support especially during the final months of his illness. There will be no funeral, but there will be a public remembrance in the Spring. In the spirit of Randy's life, and in lieu of sending flowers, the family requests well wishers to simply hand a twentydollar bill to a total stranger.

Low vision aids

Equipment assists visually impaired

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Four out of five days of the week, Nancy Simmons is on the road showing visually impaired people how the equipment sold in her Livonia store changes lives. Born with hereditary retinitis pigmentosa, Simmons was legally blind by age 15 so she understands the importance of low vision equipment such as video magnifiers for those with macular degeneration, inoperable cataracts, diabetic retinopathy, and other conditions that impair sight.

The term low vision means that even with glasses a person can not see well enough to perform daily activities like reading or driving. Simmons was able to use video or electronic magnifiers as an aid for 25 years until she could no longer see. "I started investigating the equipment when I got into the workforce," said Simmons, who earned a degree in social work from Central Michigan University before working for a private agency in Detroit. By then she needed the electronic equipment which came out in 1971. "I was finding it impossible to get any information. It was frustrating. I was hugging this machine when I found out there was equipment out there."

LIFE'S WORK

From that day, Simmons wanted to make the electronic magnifiers accessible to all visually impaired people so in 1987 she bought a car, hired a driver and began demonstrating and installing the equipment throughout Michigan. In 1997, she and husband Sal Falsette opened Low Vision Solutions in Livonia after working out of their Redford home. In addition to electronic magnifiers, the store offers handheld magnifiers; talking clocks, key chains, wrist watches, blood pressure monitors, and color identifiers for matching clothes; kitchen and personal care aids, and big print items including calendars, check and deposit registers, and bingo cards. Prices range from $3 for magnifying glass to $3,000 for a video or electronic magnifier.

"We have customers from elementary age to 100 plus, visually impaired accountants, teachers and lawyers who couldn't go on working,"

Standing in front of the latest technology, store manager Kristina Smith shows how easy it is to operate the electronic magnifiers available from manufacturers such as Humanware, Optelec and Enhanced Vision.

"The screen moves, tilts and you can make the screen brighter or darker," said Smith. "You can put pill bottles under the machine to read them.

The closed circuit television technology of the video magnifier allows Jack Finneren not only to read his prescription on the machine, but newspapers, household bills and directions on food labels. The 84-year-old Farmington Hills man has been legally blind for about five years due to macular degeneration, a disease that progressively shrinks vision. His independence would be severely limited if not for the electronic magnifier and Gerry, his wife of more than 60 years. He also attends a low vision support group in the Farmington Senior Center at 1 p.m. on the first Wednesday of every month to share and learn tips for living with his impairment.

"I had a couple of times in the past where the equipment needed repair or adjustment and when I was without it it was very tough," said Jack Finneren. "Today in the grocery stores there's a lot of good meals you can heat. I put the directions on how to cook the food on the machine then make my own file for next time."

TECHNOLOGY CHANGES

Like Simmons, Kathy Gargagliano carries an entire line of low vision and blindness products at the Able Zone's Magnifiers and More Store in Troy. Before opening nearly six years ago, Gargagliano produced adaptive software and talking hardware for the blind. She suffers from age-related diminished vision and works on a large print keyboard at the store.

"With computer technology changing so rapidly that has impacted the video magnifiers," said Gargagliano. "We now have very good cameras that pick up the image and port it over to TVs, LCD computer monitors. But before they make a purchase, we do recommend clients see a physician if they haven't."

Simmons and Gargagliano both work with low vision physicians throughout the state who help patients enhance their vision with devices, optics such as telescopic and microscopic glasses, and lighting.

Dr. Carol Marston-Foucher of Marston Optometrics frequently refers patients to Low

Kristina Smith, top, goes over an enlarging machine with Nancy Simmons in Simmons' Livonia store, Low Vision Solutions, which carries aids for the visually impaired.

Vision Solutions. A Livonia optometrist, Marston-Foucher is one of about 29 certified low vision providers in the state.

"Most of the patients have a physical condition or disease that prevents them from seeing normally with glasses," said Marston-Foucher. We refer patients for electronic magnifiers and for those who physically can't hold print up close if they have a tremor. They can set it down on the table and work. Many people will tell you they couldn't live on their own without the electronic magnifiers. It makes a huge difference in quality of life and independence."

COSTS A FACTOR

When Marston-Foucher became an optometrist in 1980, electronic magnifiers were costly and basic. Today, voice synthesis for computers, Zoomtext software, and lighter and thinner lenses or optics help visually impaired person maintain independence.

"Awareness has changed," said Marston-Foucher. "Specialists who dealt with the condition would say nothing more can be done to treat you. Now even if we can't treat it, there is help for you.

"Premature infants have a much higher survival rate now but many of them have vision problems. We work with the school systems in western Wayne County so they understand the impairments and have access to what they need."

Technology Blizzard offers latest assistive equipment

STAFF WRITER

Julie Burger is excited about showing off the latest assistive equipment for the visually and learning impaired at the Technology Blizzard 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 9, at the Dickinson Center, 18000 Newburgh, north of Five Mile, Livonia. A teacher for the visually impaired in Livonia Public Schools, Burger is always looking for new equipment to help students learn. Vendors from across the U.S. will offer a variety of products at the free event which has been held every two years since 1999. Keynote speaker Jay Stiteley of the Seeing Eye Dog School in New Jersey talks about how technology has led to his success. For more information, call (734) 744-2525, ext. 72292.

"We'll have some of the more exciting stuff like the Braille Notes, an electronic Brailler that's like a computer," said Julie Burger. "It opens many doors, allows access to the Internet. It's like a laptop. For school it's fabulous because you can take it from class to class.

"Closed Circuit TVs will read the print to you as well as enlarge it on the screen and have a camera to zoom it on the chalk board. The Mimio Board suction cups to a black board and can show up on a computer screen if a student has problem taking notes. The Audio Graphing Calculator is done on the computer. It puts the graph into an audio form and embosses it into a tactile form. Before this there wasn't anything out there for graphs."

It took Gary Gaynor nearly 10 years to find low vision equipment after he became legally blind in 1976. The Livonia man was working as an accountant when he was diagnosed with retinitis pigmentosa. Todav. Zoomtext software allows him to use the computer when updating the Visually Impaired Information Center directory he co-founded with Kathy Fleissner in 1995. Optical Illusions Blind Ski Člub is one of 900 different resources in the 88 page directory with listings for books, magazines and libraries, computers and electronic equipment, low vision physicians s, recreation and support groups, Braille transcribing and repair, camps, cultural and performing arts, education, government agencies, guide dog schools, and toys and adaptive teaching aids, travel and tourism.

Researchers at the University of Florida went around to several popular coffee shops and tested the caffeine content in their decaf coffee. What they found was very surprising.

The decaf coffee had anywhere between 8. milligrams 🏣 13.9 milligrams caffeine in a Darcy from Clarkston emails saying she's been experiencing shortness of breath. At first it was only every now and then. Now it seems to be happening more often. What could this be?

Darcy, stop what you are doing right now and call your doctor to set up an appointment! Most of us at some time or another have had shortness of breath, but when it is happening often, like it is for Darcy, it could mean something serious is going on. Researchers found people who complained of shortness of breath were at an increased risk of death from a heart attack.

So if you've been suffering with repeated episodes of shortness of breath, it is important to have your doctor check you

RHEUMATOID NODULES

Rheumatoid nodules are firm round masses of tissue the size of a pea or merble present in patients with meumatoid arthritis. The nodules may be single or in clusters; in the majority of patients nodules are present in the fingers, particularly the thumbs, the lows, and in the bottom of the feet.

Rheumatoid nodules occur as a result of the occlusion of a small blood vessel because of rheumatoid associated inflammation plus the irritation of the surrounding tissue from repeated pressure. For this reason the favorite sites of rheumatoid nodule: are the fingers, elbows and the bottom of the feet. In addition, because of the effect of shoes on feet, the Achilles tendon and the sides of the feet are at risk for nodules.

The rheumatoid nodule serves as a marker for indicating that the arthritis is active and aggressive. If you have nodules, your doctor will likely place you on two or more disease modifying medications, and see you on a frequent basis until he is satisfied you are not Note that I mentioned above that the "majority" of nodules were at areas where arthritis and repeated pressure occur. Rheumatoid nodules can appear in other locations. The most troublesome site is the lung. The appearance of a rheumatoid nodule simulates what the beginning of a lung cancer looks fike. Even with the best technology available, there are times when the doctor needs a lung biopsy to distinguish a harmless nodule from a dangerous cancer
