Westland has been chosen to host an outdoor blues festival organized by veterans to help soldiers returning from Iraq and Afghanistan.

The 12-hour G.I. Blues Festival, featuring performers such as Detroit's own Johnnie Bassett, has been scheduled for noon to midnight Saturday, Aug. 4, at the Wayne-Ford Civic League, on Wayne Road south of Ford.

Veterans Haven, a Wayne-based charitable organization that helps hard-luck veterans with everything from shelter to meals to job searches, plans to stage the event with help from The Detroit Blues Society.

We have a lot of veterans who are returning home who are not getting the medical attention they need or the monetary benefits they need right away," said Scott Romp, Veterans Haven spokesman. "Some veterans have come home to find their house payments haven't been made, or maybe their spouse has left them and they don't know where to turn. Maybe we can help them out."

Romp also described the veteran homeless situation as "a very big problem now."

Soldiers returning to places like Michigan have been particularly hard hit, because they are coming home to a state where jobs are scarce, Romp said.

"We can't help everybody," he said, "but we're doing what we can."

G.I. Blues Festival tickets cost $10 and are available by calling (734) 478-0822 or (734)

728-0527, Romp said. On-site parking will cost $5.

Organizers still have to seek approval from Westland city leaders.

"We're counting on their continued support for veterans and the civic league," said league President Vic Barra.

"I'm very excited that the civic league is able to be here to support organizations like Veterans Haven," he said.

Despite difficult times that saw two former civic league officers resign amid embezzling charges, Barra said, "I'm proud to say the civic league is coming back to its roots by helping charitable organizations."

Veterans Haven mostly helps veterans in the metro Detroit area, Romp said. He urged anyone who wants to help sell tickets to call (734) 478-0822.

Organizers also hope to raise money by setling food and beer at the festival.

Major sponsors for the G.I. Blues Festival include Ford Motor Credit Co., LaSalle Bank and the Gleaners Community Food Bank, Romp said.

This week, Romp released details of perform-ers who he said will play the festival, starting with Steve Arvey at noon; The Carl Caballero Band at 1:30 p.m.; The Alligators at 3 p.m.; The Front Street Blues Band at 4:30 p.m.; The Eddy King Band at 6 p.m.; Sweet Claudette & Friends at 7:30 p.m.; The Christy Howard Band at 9 p.m.; and the Johnnie Bassett Band at 10:30 p.m.

Couple faces trial on embezzling charges

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A Willow Creek Apartments worker and her boyfriend are facing trial on charges of embezzling thousands of dollars from tenants who thought they had paid their rcnt.

Sharon Krajewski, 40, and Darnell Ware, 43, were ordered Thursday to stand trial after they waived their right to a preliminary hearing in Westland District Court.

Krajewski is accused of tak-

$1,000 to $20,000 and seven counts each of uttering and publishing - a charge that involves tampering with financial documents.

The couple waived a prelimin nary hearing Thursday in front of Westland 18th District Judge Sandra Cicirelli, who kept their bond at $100,000/10 percent. That means they would have to post $10,000 each, which they hadn't done.

The couple lived at Willow Creek, where Borisch said Krajewski had worked as an assistant manager. She was fired amid allegations of embezzling between last December and April. "People started getting notices that their rent wasn't paid," Borisch said. A not-guilty plea has been entered in court for the defendants. Their case will now advance to Wayne County Circuit Court.If convicted, the couple could face penalties ranging up to 14 years for uttering and publishing, and up to five years for embezzling.

Survey finds fewer high school bus stops possible

ADAMS HONOR ROLL

A2 (W)

Parents rejected many proposed changes in the Livonia Public Schools transportation system, according to results of a survey the district conducted after rolling out the ideas weeks ago.

Sixty-two percent of those responding said no to the idea of starting the school day five minutes earlier. LPS officials said that, combined with streamlining bus stops, could knock minutes off the time that students arrived home in the afternoon.

Mom Christie Parrent said she wouldn't mind if the school day started sooner because her son's bus stop is close to home, but if he had farther to walk in the early morning hours, she said she'd be concerned.

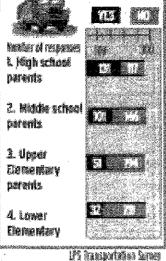

Her son, Barry, a seventhgrader at Emerson Middle School, wouldn't mind getting off to an earlier start.

"I'd like to start school earlier because you'll be able to play more" after school, he said.

About 12,000 students are bused to LPS schools; 254 people responded to the survey. The survey was available online and distributed at three meetings that LPS officials scheduled to outline proposed changes.

A proposal to establish fewer bus stops to save time and diesel was met with mixed response.

Overall, more than twothirds of respondents did not like the idea, but at the high school level, slightly more than half of parents were willing to give it a shot. The younger the students, the more likely parents were to respond negatively to this initiative. Parents of middle schoolers (59 percent), upper elementary students (79 percent), and lower elementary students (87 percent) offered a resounding no.

With those results in mind, in coming weeks the school board and superintendent will discuss the possibility of streamlining high school bus routes.

"More than money, it will save time," said Rod Hosman, director of administrative services. With gas prices rising, it is hard to say how much of a cost savings the district could expect next year.

"It will reduce the number of miles and decrease the amount of time the students are on the bus. That will be a bonus for everybody," he said.

Advertising directed at students through Bus Radio programming and print ads was met with negative response. Although 41 percent of parents said they would be open to print ads on buses, Hosman said the district was looking for more than 50 percent favorable rating to move forward with any idea.

The idea of a two-hour delayed start instead of canceling classes for the entire day in the event of inclement weather was rejected by a wide margin. Overall, 72 percent of those surveyed said no to the idea. Child care concerns seemed to be the reason behind their responses. Hosman said. "It might be easier to get a baby sitter for the whole day, rather than two hours and get-

Historians step up raising of funds for restoration work

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

With city finances in a crunch, local historians will try to raise their own money to improve the Westland Historic Village Park.

Historians need help in their efforts to restore certain buildings, such as the 1800s-era Octagon and Rowe houses, situated in the village park on Wayne Road between Cherry Hill and Marquette.

Restoration efforts have started, but much work remains in sprucing up the emerging historic park. To raise money, Westland

Historical Commission member Bill Tremper has announced a $50-per-person buffet scheduled for 5-7 p.m. Wednesday, June 13, at Marvaso's Italian Grille, near the northwest corner of Wayne and Hunter. Admission at the door will be $60.

Tickets are available at the Bailey Recreation Center, the senior citizen Friendship Center, the senior Dyer Center and the Westland Chamber of Commerce.

Some historians have envisioned a time when old-fashioned weddings and other events can be held at the historic village park.

Tremper also has said that long-term plans include building a barn with a dance floor, a gazebo and putting a walking path on the park site.

With city finances already strained, Tremper has said historians want to raise as much money as they can to move forward with the projects.

In other developments, an estimated 40 people turned out Saturday, May 19, for a volunteer cleanup project at the historic park.

"We had a good time and," got a lot of work done," Tremper said.

Jo Johnson, who chairs the Westland Historical Commission, also said 13 people signed up that day for a newly formed garden club. "We were very pleased," she said.

ALTERNATIVES

"I got the concept from my uncle," Hiveley said. "He bought two vehicles off of eBay that already ran on vegetable oil. He bought a newer Mercedes and a Ram 2500 and he offered to help me convert my Mercedes to vegetable oil."

Hiveley and his uncle, Ron Hiveley, recycled vegetable oil from local restaurants. The oil was put through a couple of filtering processes to become useful as a fuel.

"The thing abont vegetable oil is it's somewhat thick, thicker than diesel fuel," Hiveley said. "You have to heat it up in order to run it through your engine."

The vegetable oil is heated to 180 degrees to reach the right viscosity to run through the engine.

"You have to start it up on diesel fuel, because you have to get the engine warm to get the coolant going so you start it up on the diesel," he said.

With gasoline prices approaching $3.50 cents a gallon, vegetable oil represents a cheaper, renewable alternative.

"It doesn't put out as many greenhouse gases and the greenhouse gases it does produce are better because they can be put back into the atmosphere," Hiveley said.

Hiveley plans to seek an apprenticeship in a construction trade, but he is also considering going to diesel school to continue studying "the new and upcoming thing."

Hydrogen cells are another new and upcoming thing. The torpedo-shaped hydrogen engine sitting on a chassis is one of many ideas that Ford engineers are considering. The hydrogen fuel cell converts hydrogen into electricity to charge batteries as you drive.

Ijaz said the engine can get the equivalent of 41 miles per gallon on the highway and using a plugin at night can get 25 miles a day that would increase the efficiency to 80 miles per gallon equivalent. "Two elements of this power train are interesting," he said. "One is the plug-in feature, the ability to drive a vehicle on electric power only and that can have any kind of fuel — gasoline generator, or diesel generator or fuel cell generator. That's one interesting technology we're looking at. Fuel cells represent a way of converting fuel into electricity for a vehicle with zero emissions and we think that's the long term, zero emissions vehicles will be the most viable as opposed to a full electric, which takes many hours to charge up."

From farm to city life

Born in 1911, longest resident has stayed close to home

BY LEANNE ROGERS STAFF WRITER

As Garden City celebrates 80 years since it first incorporated as a village, Marguerite Stolz has that number beaten and is likely the city's longest resident.

Born in 1911 at her parents home at Florence and Middlebelt, Stolz has never lived outside Garden City. She still lives in the home she built with her husband on Rosslyn just east of Middlebelt on land that was part of her grandparents' farm.

"I guess I stayed because it was my home," Stolz said. "I haven't gone far in my life — I went on quite a few trips with seniors."

Stolz is a third-generation Garden City resident. In 1878, her grandparents bought a 25acre farm that ran from Florence to Marquette east of Middlebelt. Her parents, Charles and Johanna Liverance, also farmed in Garden City.

"One of my first memories was following my father when he was plowing. I'd be barefoot in the new furrows — they were smooth and cool," Stolz said.

The rural farm life was very different than living in Garden City today, she said, recalling Middlebelt as a dirt road before it was paved in 1924.

"There have been a lot of changes. I didn't expect to live in such a built-up city. I didn't think I'd live this long either," Stolz said.

Electricity came to Garden City simultaneously with the village incorporation in 1927.

"I remember when we first had electricity. I'd always had the job of doing all the (oil) lamps — I had small hands and could reach in," Stolz said. "In those days, boys didn't do dishes — you know who had to do them."

One of seven children, Stolz was the only girl. Her four older brothers are no longer living but her younger brothers John, 92, and Edward, 85, visit Stolz each Saturday for coffee.

A resident of Garden City since she was born in 1911, Marguerite Stolz attributes her love of gardening to growing up on her family's farm.

'One of my first memories was following my father when he was plowing. I'd be barefoot in the new furrows - they were smooth and cool.' Marguerite Stolz

Garden City resident

As a youngster, Stolz attended the Hicks School on Cherry Hill and completed the eighth grade.

"I learned a lot since then," Stolz said.

In 1929, Stolz married William Stolz, a Texas native, who worked for the Ford Motor Co. The conple raised six children and built the home where Stolz resides today with her son William.

"We got married at the wrong time — it was just at the beginning of the Depression," Stolz said. "We were poor then but we never knew we were poor — everyonc was poor. I still don't understand how we had six kids in the house. My mother wasn't well and she stayed with us."

All six of the Stolz children are still living — Lucille Knight, Marjorie Kozma, William, James, Robert and Barbara Romatz, who is a Garden City resident.

"My grandmother sold the farm in 1925. My father was dead. The land was sold to a Realtor and divided for 40-foot lots," she said. "I got two lots back. The land went back to the state for taxes and I got three more lots — it's about half an acre. The developer never built anything."

Stolz and her late husband, who died at 60 in 1958, built their home themselves in 1938. The basement was dug using a scoop and a Model T Ford.

"I'd drive and my husband used the scoop. We were the first ones to build (in that neighborhood)," said Stolz, who still recalls what she paid for bricks in foundation. "I built the house myself all but the roof — I wouldn't go on the roof."

Another reason for staying in Garden City after she was married, Stolz said, was to be near her mother who was crippled.

"I was busy — there were no throwaway diapers then," she said. "I used to can over 400 quarts in the summer when my children were young. I still do a little."

An avid gardener, Stolz focuses on flowers and leaves the vegetable garden to her son.

"I think my love of gardening comes from growing up on a farm. I always loved nature," she said. "I love birds and flowers. I love the cardinals in the winter snow — they're so pretty."

Over the years, Stolz said she has always like to keep busy. Stolz still does volunteer work, sewing baby clothing for unwed mothers through Lutherans for Life.

"There have been a lot of changes but I sort of make up my mind to go along with the stream," Stolz said. "When someone calls and wants to buy my property, I tell them they'll have to carry me out."

80th celebration has plenty to see and do

If you grew up in Garden, lived in Garden or went to school in Garden City, you may want to make a trip back to the old neighborhood.

The city is celebrating the 80th anniversary of its incorporation as a village this week, culminating Saturday with a day filled with fun activities in Garden City Park at Merriman and Cherry Hill.

On Wednesday, May 28, Garden City Hospital has scheduled a health fair 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Maplewood Community Center, located on Maplewood west of Merriman. A variety of health screenings offered and health education information will be available.

The Straight Farm House, home of the Garden City Historical Museum, will have extended hours. Located on Merriman north of Ford, the museum will be open from noon to 5 p.m.

The focus will shift to the Straight Farm House on Thursday, May 31. That's when answers to a treasure hunt are due at the inuseum.

Hosted by the museum, the contest is for all ages. Identify architecture details from around the city and submit your entry by 2 p.m.

Contest forms are available at the museum and the Garden City Chamber of Commerce office. Correct entries will be eligible for a prize.

The entry form for the children's contest is also available at the chamber office and the Straight Farm House.

All entries must be submitted by 2 p.m. Thursday, May 31, and the names of the contestants will be entered in a drawing for one of two $25 certificates for opening an account with the Co-op Services Credit Union.

Catch up the history of the city by visiting the farm house 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. May 31 for an open house, hosted by the Friends of the Museum, the Garden City Chamber of Commerce and Schoolcraft College.

Champagne punch and appetizers will be served to visitors.

Engineering | Landscape Architecture | Operations | Planning | Sciences | Surveying

An 80th Anniversary Dinner Dance will be held at Roma Banquets on Cherry Hill east of Venoy on Friday, June 1. Tickets cost is $15 per person for the dinner and program. There will he a cash bar. Tickets are available at the Garden City Clerk's Office, Orin Jewelers and American Speedy Printing.

www.hometownlife.com

Capping off the celebration will be a party in the park. Events during the day will include a breakfast at the Garden City Moose, a 5K run/walk and entertainment as well as contests for kids throughout the day.

The Maplewood Senior Center will hold its annual Ice Cream Social at 4:30 p.m.

During the evening, the Wayne County Parks Association will present a Movie in the Park, showing the movie Monster House.

Here's the full schedule of Saturday's events:

9 a.m. – 5K Walk and Run on the walking path. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. The cost is $10 per person or $15 per family. 11:30 a.m. – Bike parade on the walking path.

Noon – Ice Show in the Garden City Civic Arena, music by the Gold Tones in the Main Pavilion, the Fire House, a flea market/craft show, classic car show, bouncers, rock climbing wall and mini golf until 5 p.m.

Member-run clubhouse provides mental health services

BY REBECCA JONES STAFF WRITER

Jacqueline Berthiaume says without Lincoln Behavioral Services, she'd be living in a cardboard box somewhere, unable to cope with bipolar disorder on her own.

"They saved my life," said the 50-year-old Inkster resident.

Berthiaume is one of about 100 people (who prefer to be called mental health consumers, rather than clients or patients) who work at the Gathering Place and clubhouse, one of the extension services offered for adults with mental illness through the Redford-based Lincoln Behavioral Services.

The Gathering Place, in its new facility on Plymouth near Telegraph, uses the clubhouse model of psychosocial rehabilitation.

Everybody has a job to do to keep the clubhouse running smoothly, explained Joy Kornspan, program director and liaison for the drop-in center. A clubhouse can't function without its members.

"We need them to come here to complete the work," she said. "It helps them enormously."

Treatment focuses on the consumers' strengths, not their illnesses.

The clubhouse consists of four units. The food services crew makes lunches, sells meal tickets, buses tables and shops.

The clerical unit is responsible for phones, reception, producing an online newsletter and editing the daily GP Express for members to read at the lunch settings.

Member services runs a snack bar, library and clothing boutique.

Donations are requested for the latter two. Especially needed is professional clothing for men to wear on job interviews.

Vocational services helps mental health consumers find employment.

After the workday, which runs 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., members can partake in recreational activities, like exercise, playing cards or pool or watching the plasma TV. On Saturdays, they gather for outings.

At 20,000 square feet, the Gathering Place's new facility, in a former Robinson's Furniture Building on Plymouth Road, is twice the size of its former site on Schoolcraft in Livonia.

An open house is scheduled for 4-7 p.m. Thursday, May 24.

Another service offered out of the Plymouth Road site is Assertive Community Treatment, which focuses on keeping people out of psychiatric hospitals. With the support of the treatment team, consumers who have great difficulty in meeting the demands of daily living are able to live independently in the community.

LBS is a nonprofit organization that accepts donations.

Members pay for services through Medicaid, Medicare and other insurance plans or based on a sliding pay scale.

Berthiaume has been working at LBS for seven years.

First diagnosed at age 27, Berthiaume was on and off medication for years.

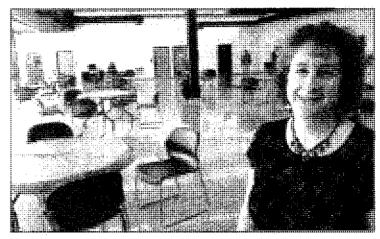

In 1997, she says she suffered a breakdown. Then, she found Lincoln Behavioral Services.

"When I came here, I just flourished," she said.

She started the "warm line," a phone number people could call when they needed someone to talk to, which lasted for three years. She worked as an assistant director in the drop-in center. She fought for Medicaid reform, speaking on the steps of the Capitol.

Ôn May 14, Berthiaume was scheduled to start computer training for her new job, working in the outreach and education center for Gateway, which is an underwriter for the Gathering Place.

At first, she will work 20 hours a week, but Berthiaume hopes she can work her way up to a fulltime job. It will be stressful. "I'm going to need the support of the clubhouse," she said.

SUNDAY PERSPECTIVES

When mutual funds close, don't sell the fund or rush to invest

Dear Rick: A mutual fund I own is closing. Should I sell that fund?

Mutual funds close for a number of different reasons. Mostly, they close because the portfolio manager believes there are sufficient assets in the portfolio and he/she is concerned by taking in more money they will not be able to invest efficiently and wisely. Over the last few years, more and more mutual funds have closed to investors.

When mutual funds close to new investors, it typically does not mean that existing investors cannot continue to contribute into the fund. In addition, the fund still remains open to certain types of investors. For my firm, Bloom Asset Management, can continue to invest in funds that are closed to the general public. Sometimes a fund may close to the general public and still remain open in salary deferral programs such as 401(k) or example, many Registered

Investment Advisers such as 403(b) plans. Unfortunately, some mutual funds close as a marketing ploy. In order to attract new money, funds will tell investors they are closing and then hope new money rushes into the fund. It is not unusual for funds like this to reopen down the road.

My advice is if you are an existing shareholder, don't sell the fund. Nor should a new investor rush into the fund to get a position just because it is closing. I have not seen any independent research that shows that a closed fund either outperforms or underperforms and that should be your main focus. If a fund I am in is closing I monitor it and make a decision on the most important thing - how it performs and how it fits into my portfolio.

Dear Rick: My income has taken a significant hit this vear. I will no longer be receiving my bonus. I was thinking about potentially converting a portion of my IRA into a Roth IRA. What factors should I consider? Congratulations on looking to take advantage of a bad situation. I am a big fan of converting existing IRAs into Roth IRAs.

A Roth IRA allows money to grow tax free vs. a traditional IRA where money grows tax deferred. In addition, when an individual reaches 70 1/2, he/she must begin to take required minimum distributions from a traditional IRA. In a Roth IRA, there are no required minimum distributions so money can grow tax free for as long as an individual chooses.

Unfortunately, not everyone qualifies to convert money into a Roth IRA. In order to qualify, your adjusted gross income must be less than $100,000 whether you are married or single.

When someone decides to convert money from a traditional IRA into a Roth there is an immediate tax consequence. The money in the traditional IRA being converted is subject to income tax. However, it is important to recognize that traditional IRA money would always be subject to income tax. When you do convert to a Roth you are accelerating your tax liability, not increasing it.

Unfortunately, not everyone qualifies to convert money into a Roth IRA. In order to qualify, your adjusted gross income must be less than $100,000 whether you are married or single. In 2010 there is a scheduled change to our tax law that will temporarily waive this requirement. At that point, anyone will be able to take advantage of a Roth conversion regardless of income.

My general rules for Roth conversion are:

• You have to have money to pay the additional income tax without touching the money you are converting. By paying the additional tax, you are not putting yourself into a higher tax bracket. You can invest the money for the long term, generally five to seven years.

If you meet these requirements, it makes sense to convert.

Many seniors are under the mistaken belief that once you turn 70 1/2 you are no longer allowed a Roth conversion. That's not the case. You can't convert your required minimum distribution amount. However, you can convert anything above that amount. When contributing new money into a Roth IRA, there is no deduction for new contributions. However, for most people who are eligible to contribute new money into a Roth IRA, it makes sense to forego the tax write-off. The benefit of allowing money to grow tax free vs. tax deferred offsets the benefit of deducting your IRA contribution amount.

sterday marked the 100th birthday of John Wayne. Tomorrow is Memorial Day. In many minds the two might seem related, though Wavne never served in the armed forces. For a couple of generations of Americans, Wayne's swaggering Marines and brawling cowboys epitomized the American spirit. He was a 6-foot-4 colossus of righteousness (and sometimes self-righteousness) in the face of evil. Though never regarded as a great "actor," Wayne was one of the greatest movie stars, an icon as big as the screen he filled.

He played the part so well, he began to embody it in real life. He lent his support to many conservative causes, which he seemed to equate with true Americanism.

that sealed his image as the American. Ironically, Wayne used every maneuver he could to avoid military service that might have derailed his blooming career. While actors like James Stewart and Robert Montgomery and athletes like Hank Greenberg and Ted Williams engaged in real combat, Wayne waged his battles on

But his rugged image endured and inspired the real troops and blurred the line between

Wayne's story is interesting in light of our

Those who have been most responsible for propelling us into this war, the president and vice president, did all they could to avoid involvement in the war of their generation. Vice President Dick Cheney famously said, "I had other priorities in the '60s than military service."

The 58,000 Americans who died in the Vietnam War probably had other priorities as well.

As someone who had first a student deferment and then a medical deferment during my draft years, I understand about other priorities. Unlike the president and his vice president, I also had strong objections to the war, though I won't pretend to say what I would have done if I didn't have legitimate deferments. Courage is something you earn, not something you claim.

Since that war, we stopped conscription except as a phantom registration process. The theory was that if military personnel signed up Military men and women go where they are sent. They can't pick and choose their battles without disrupting the whole process. voluntarily, the objections from those who "have other priorities" wouldn't be so loud and troublesome.

But as several former military leaders have made clear in recent months, those who choose to serve need to know that they are serving in a just cause, given the fullest of material support and the best care available if they become a casualty.

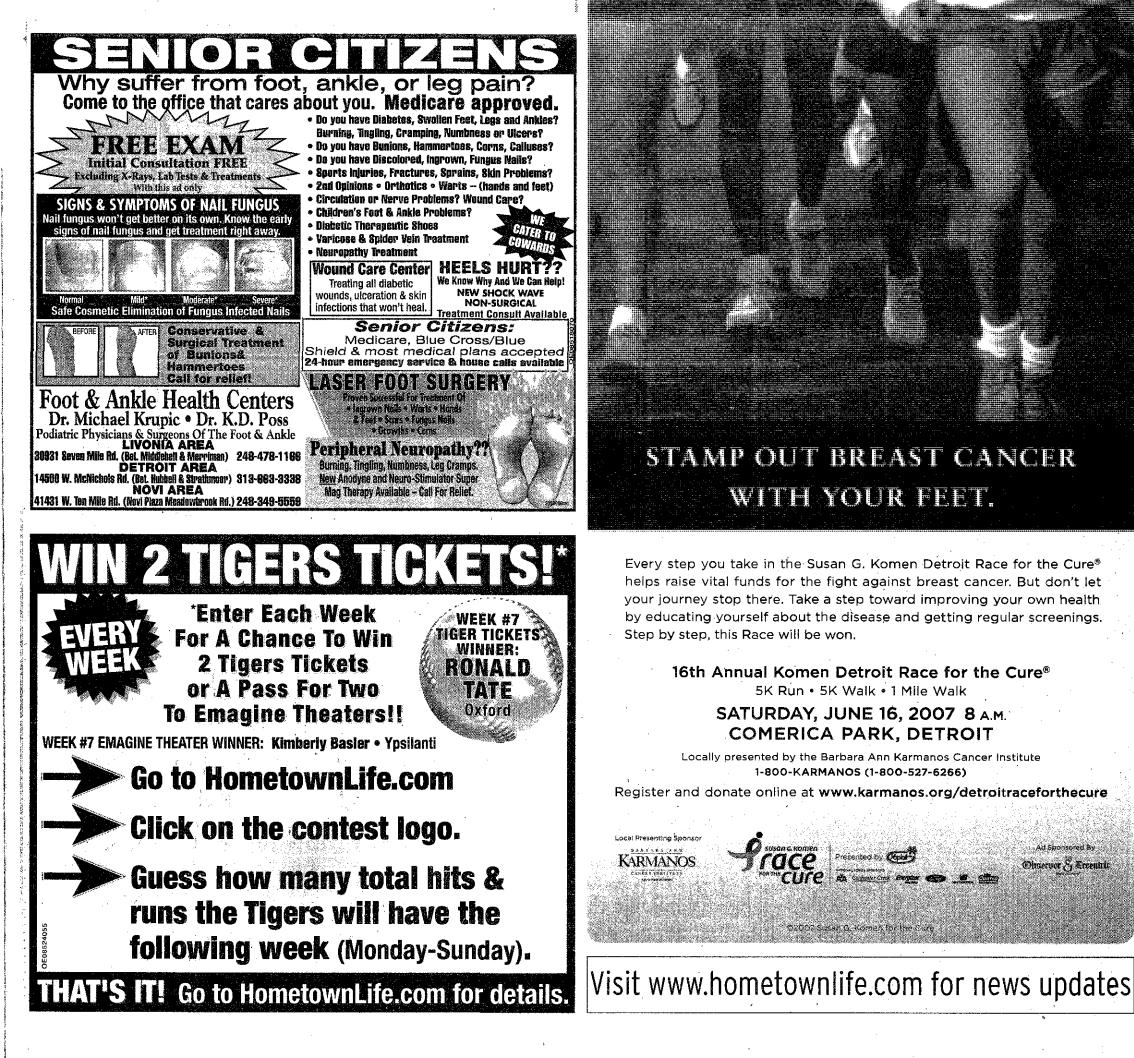

Military men and women go where they are sent. They can't pick and choose their battles without disrupting the whole process. Most serve honorably, courageously and emphasize not their battle bravery, but their personal successes in winning over the hearts and minds of those they believe they are there to help.

And many give their lives honorably and courageously for the sake of American ideals.

But as an increasing majority of Americans grow skeptical about this war and its civilian leaders, we must realize that supporting our military is not the same as blindly supporting the policies of those civilian leaders who had "other priorities" when they were of an age to answer the call. Our democracy says the way to honor our military is to ask tough questions about all wars and speak out against those who would put young Americans in harm's way based on false and contrived data. We also need to be sure they are given what they need to protect themselves in an increasingly dangerous environment and that when they come home they receive the best medical care in the finest facilities possible.

Misters Bush and Cheney should make that a priority.

1,600 relay effort clips Spartans

When Livonia Churchill's boys trackand-field team needed a heroic effort at Wednesday's WLAA league meet, it turned to its "Fantastic Four."

The Chargers wiped out a half-point deficit to rival Livonia Stevenson in the meet's final event when their 1,600-meter relay team of Billy Gutowski, Andrew LaBerge, Jacob McDonald and David St. Amant broke the tape first with a schoolrecord time of 3:21.77, over five seconds faster than the Spartans.

The foursome's effort gave Churchill 110 points to nudge it ahead of Stevenson (108.5).

"It was all about having heart and working hard," said St. Amant, who anchored the title-clinching quartet. "We knew we were all going to have to go fast to finish ahead of Stevenson, and we all went out and did it. It's a great feeling, especially after we lost to them three times early in the year."

The Chargers' gold medal finish came just five days after they captured the Division 1 regional title on the same Plymouth-Canton Educational Park track.

"We have a lot of hard-working kids on this team, but those four work as hard as anybody," said Churchill coach Rick Austin, referring to his 4 x 400 contingent. "It was the fourth race of the day for all four of them on a very hot day, so for them to set a school record like they did tells you all you need to know.

"All season long, the four of them came over to the track on Saturdays and ran 15 or 16 200-meter repeats after a long week of practice. They worked hard and they deserve all the success they experienced tonight."

Northville won the battle for third when it out-pointed fast-starting Canton, 89-76. Plymouth placed fifth with 60 points followed by sixth-place Westland John Glenn (59), Wayne Memorial (44), Walled Lake Central (41), Salem (29), Livonia Franklin (20.5), Walled Lake Northern (15.5) and Walled Lake Western (10).

Churchill got off to a flying start in the field events thanks to blue-ribbon efforts from Gutowski in the long jump (21 feet, 1 inch) and Derik Peterman in the pole vault (13-6). The Chargers kept pace with the Spartans due to St. Amant's win the 400meter dash (49.79) and LaBerge's victory in the 300 intermediate hurdles (39.40).

Stevenson was in the middle of the pack following the field events, but Myles White helped kick the Spartans into high gear when he captured the 110-meter hurdles race in 14.67 seconds, nearly a half-second quicker than runner up Cavan Cavanaugh of Northville.

Two events later, the Spartans racked up first-place points from their 800-meter relay team of Steve Eideh, Nathan

The Livonia Churchill girls trackand-field team's talented class of seniors padded its already-prominent legacy at Wednesday's WLAA league meet, which was held at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park stadium.

The Chargers also made the school's already-bulging trophy case a little more cramped when they sprinted past all comers by accumulating 166 points, 44 more than runner-up

"Winning the meet tonight is even more exciting than winning last year because we have a new team with new girls and different girls stepped up when they had to."

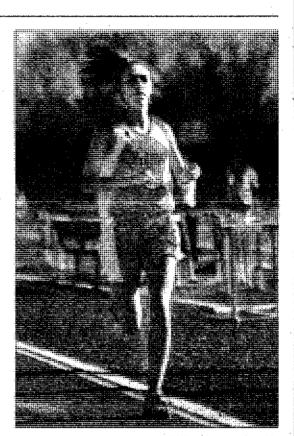

Livonia Stevenson (88.5) barely nipped Livonia Franklin (87) for third. Rounding out the field were fifth-place Plymouth (72), Westland John Glenn (47), Walled Lake Northern (39), Walled Lake Western (23), Walled Lake Central (11), Canton (3.5), Salem (3) and Wayne Memorial (1).

The title was extra significant for Rachel McFarlane, who helped her team earn big-time points in the 3,200-meter relay (first), the 1,600meter run (second), 3,200-meter run (second) and the 1,600-meter relay (second).

"Rachel was outstanding tonight," said McDonald. "I told her she didn't have to run in all four events tonight, but she insisted."

Churchill racked up a huge chunk of points in the relays as it won two (the 3,200 and 800) and placed second in the 400 and 1,600. The Chargers also received first-place points from Tauri Rothermel, who won the 300 hurdles event in 46.62 seconds.

Like the hot, humid, high-80s weather. Churchill was sizzling as it finished either first or second in 10 of the 17 events to capture its second significant title in less than a week. On May 18, the Chargers earned a Division 1 regional crown on the same P-CEP track.

"Winning tonight means a lot, especially for me and the other seniors," said Mandi Coppola, a four-event point-earner. "It feels good to know that we all helped keep the strong tradition going at Churchill.

Kesler signs new pact with Canucks

Despite suffering a hip injury which limited him to 48 regular season games and a broken finger suffered in his only playoff game appearance, Livonia native Ryan Kesler is armed with a brand new $5.2-million, threeyear deal with the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League.

The 22-year-old Kesler, the Churchill High graduate and Canucks' No. 1 draft pick in 2003 (23rd overall) out of Ohio State, had six goals and 10 assists this season in 48 games. In 158 NHL games over three seasons, the 6-foot-2, 205-pound forward collected 18 goals and 26 assists with 135 penalty minutes.

Kesle

The restricted free agent was close to signing a deal prior to the 2006-07 season with Vancouver, but Philadelphia Flyers general manager Bobby Clarke put forth a $1.9-million offer sheet.

Forced to either match the offer or lose Kesler and receive a second-round draft pick, Canucks G.M. Dave Nonis resigned the forward for one season after Kesler tallied 10 goals and 13 assists the previous season.

In January, Kesler went down with a hip injury that required surgery to repair a torn labrum, which lines the socket. He missed the rest of the regular season before returning to face the Dallas Stars in a first-round playoff game

The third-line center left the game in during the fourth overtime and needed surgery to repair a finger that was cut and broken.

Kesler is one of three players with Livonia or Westland roots in the Western Conference of the NHL joining Mike Modano (Dallas) and David Moss (Calgary).

Basketball pedigree New girls coach right up Stevenson's Allie

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Just five years removed from high school, Livonia Stevenson's Mike Allie becomes the youngest varsity girls basketball coach in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The 22-year-old Allie, a 2002 Stevenson grad, succeeds Tim Newman who recently resigned because of personal reasons. In his four years, Newman guided the Spartans to a 42-47 overall record, including a 5-16 record last fall.

"Coach Newman has done an exceptional job with this program and I look forward to following in his footsteps," Allie said.

Allie played four seasons for the Stevenson boys program under Bill Dyer (now at Novi-Detroit Catholic Central) and has coached the freshman boys the past three seasons (42-18 record) where he worked under Dyer and Brad Miller (last season).

He also served last season as Stevenson's JV girls coach, going 16-4.

"Our number one goal for the entire program will be to make sure each student-athlete is striving to make herself better in the classroom, and on the basketball court every day," Allie said. "I would like for us to be known as the hardest working defensive team in the conference.

We'll pride ourselves on playing man-to-man defense, while being creative on the offensive end of the floor. With the commitment of each member of the program, we'll be competitive in the WLAA next 'Coach Newman has done an exceptional job with this program and I look forward to following in his footsteps." season. After meeting with the girls last week, they seem very enthusiastic about the future."

Allie graduated last December from the University of Michigan-Dearborn where he majored in Business Management with a minor in political science.

"Mike is a Stevenson graduate and played basketball at Stevenson, thus, he understands what it takes for the program to continue in a positive direction," Stevenson A.D. Lori Hyman said.

Allie also referees soccer during the fall at the collegiate level in the Big Ten, Mid-American and Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic conferences, as well as the Horizon League. He also officiates during the summer months in the Premier Development League.

"Coach Allie is an extremely hard-working professional who demonstrates the ability to lead the girls basketball program to not only improvement, but great success," Hyman said. "It is without question that Mike knows the game and has a solid philosophy. He has exceptional leadership and motivational skills, which will be beneficial for the athletes."

It's official. Put another title in the books for the Hawks.

Westland Huron Valley Lutheran is outright girls softball champion of the Red Division of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference for the seventh time in the past eight seasons.

Winning pitcher Amanda Gruenewald was the catalyst once again in Friday's 15-6 win at Plymouth Christian Academy.

The senior struck out 10 and went 3-for-4 at the plate, including a pair of triples.

Emily Helwig also went 3for-4 for the victorious Hawks, who improved to 13-5 overall and 8-0 in the MIAC-Red.

WAYNE 7, JOHN GLENN 6: In a WLAA . crossover Wednesday, visiting Wayne Memorial (3-22) held off a late Westland John Glenn (0-21) to earn the victory.

Winning pitcher Taylor Krohn was the offensive star for the Zebras, going 4-for-4 with an RBI. The sophomore allowed just four hits, walked four and struck out nine, who led 7-3 until the bottom of the seventh when Glenn rallied for three runs.

But with the tying run on third, Krohn recorded her ninth strikeout of the game.

"He pitched a pretty good game," Wayne coach Wayne Woodard said. "She struck out a batter in every inning except the third when he turned a double play."

Colleen Blake went 2-for-2 and scored twice for the Zebras.

Joye Clenney reached base safely three times for the Rockets and scored two runs.

Losing pitcher Brittany Holbrook gave up 12 hits, walked two and struck out eight.

for-5 with a double and two RBI. Other Franklin hitting stars included Allison Bonsall, 3-for-5 with a double and three runs, and Ashley Geraghty, who was 2-for-4 with two RBI.

Winning pitcher Natalie Sanborn (16-8) scattered eight hits over seven innings. She struck out seven and walked two. All three runs were earned.

Jodi Wagner took the loss for the Warriors. She struck out eight, walked four and was the victim of four errors.

CHURCHILL 2, W.L. WESTERN 1: Julie Lewandowski pitched a four-hitter Wednesday and Livonia Churchill (16-14) scored a pair of runs in the sixth inning to beat Walled Lake Western (7-23) in a WLAA crossover. Lewandowski went all seven innings, fanning two and walking two.

Losing pitcher Emily Carlson allowed just two hits, walked none and struck out six.

Down 1-0, Paula Guzik started the rally with a single. She advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on a Western infield error off the bat of Katie Stodulski. Stodulski scored on Lewandowski's sacrifice fly. Amanda Pham scored Western's lone run on a passed ball. HARPER WOODS 12, CLARENCEVILLE 2:

In a Metro Conference tournament game Thursday, the host Pioneers (8-10) handed Livonia Clarenceville (7-19) its fourth straight setback in five innings.

MU's Haeger proud of his team's effort

BY TIM SMITH Staff Writer

Even though Madonna University's baseball team was eliminated by Spring Arbor in the recent NALA Region VIII championship round, Crusaders head coach Greg Haeger tipped the bill of his cap to his guys.

"Obviously, it's not the way we wanted the season to end," said Haeger, following the rain-soaked 6-4 loss to the Cougars on May 11. "(But) I'm proud of the way our players battled through the tournament. "It's easy to give up once you get knocked down to the loser's bracket, but they were able to pull together and make it to the championship game."

The praise from Haeger wasn't the only reward for a determined effort at the regional. Sophomore second baseman Ryan Morrow earned selection to the All-Region team.

Madonna - which finished 34-20, the fourth consecutive year the team reached the 30-

But facing elimination the next day, May 10, the Crusaders came back strong with 8-3 and 7-2 victories over No. 4-seeded Bethel and No. 3seeded Indiana Tech, respectively.

Against Bethel, seniors Tony Luttman (Farmington) and Gary VanAllen and freshman Zach Flavin (Novi) each homered to back the nine-inning pitching of Josh Regits.

WMU netter Crosby ends career at NCAA doubles

Western Michigan University's nationally-ranked team of Brady Crosby (Livonia Stevenson) and Tim Bradshaw (Bromsgrove, England) fell in three sets Thursday afternoon in the opening round of the NCAA Doubles Championship held at the University of Georgia's Dan Magill Tennis Center.

In making WMU's first appearance in the individual championships since 1977, Crosby and Bradshaw, ranked No. 54 in the country, fell to No. 4 seeds Danny Bryan and Colt Gaston of LSU, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

After losing the first set, the Broncos broke the Tigers early in the second set. Bryan and COLLEGE TENNIS Gaston fought back to even the set at 4-all before the WMU pair took the final two games A to even the set at one apiece. LSU came right back and r broke the WMU early in the deciding third set and hung on to take the hard-fought victory.

"I think we played pretty well today and I know we gave our best effort and put ourselves in position to possibly win the match," Bradshaw said.

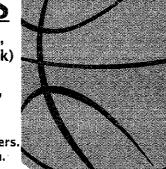

The loss capped Crosby's four-year career for the Broncos.

He was recently named to Academic All-District IV for the second year in a row by ESPN the Magazine. The firstteam at-large selection, who carries a 3.77 grade-point average in finance, will now be placed on the Academic All-America ballot.

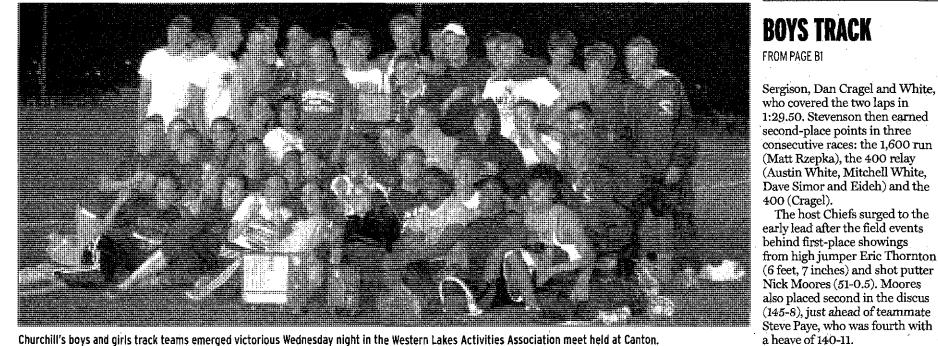

As a senior, Crosby was named first-team All-Mid-American Conference and Academic All-MAC for the third straight time compiling 56 total wins playing at Nos. 1 and 2 singles and throughout the doubles lineup.

He helped WMU finish 19-8 overall while earning an NCAA regional berth after taking both the MAC regular season and tournament titles.

The co-MVP is only one of four players at WMU to earn over 200 career victories.

Churchill's boys and girls track teams emerged victorious Wednesday night in the Western Lakes Activities Association meet held at Canton.

was their best-ever at a WLAA conference meet, which pleased head coach Dave Biorkland.

"It was a great showing by our entire team today," he said. "I'm so proud of the kids and the effort we put forth this season. We finished 4-1 in dual meets, third in the Region and fourth in the conference. We also broke school records in nine events. This was, I believe, the best season in the history of Franklin girls track."

Stevenson pole-vaulter Marla Winkler won her event when she cleared the bar at 11 feet.

Spartan sophomore Courtney Calka was her usually productive self as she anchored Stevenson's thirdplace 3,200-meter relay team and first-place 1,600 relay contingent along with winning the 1,600-meter run (5:03.27). Brittany Mrozek turned in the Spartans' other golden performance when she crossed the line first in the 400 with a time of 1:00.10.

The meet's top freshman was Plymouth ninth-grader Kelly Hahn, whose time of 11:33.62 in the two-mile run was just fast enough to nip McFarlane (11:34.36).

Hahn also placed fourth in the 1,600 (5:17.66) and place 3,200-meter relay squad. Wildcat sophomore Jill Morton placed fifth in the 100.

Junior Ashley Parker stepped up for John Glenn as she won an exciting 100-meter dash by .16 over Plymouth's Julie Hersey and the 200 with a 25.72 clocking. Parker also anchored the Rockets' winning 400-meter relay quartet that also included Chanel Payne, Ashley Montgomery and Lakeysha Smith.

meter run. The Wildcats' longdistance standout covered the eight laps in 9:49.58, five second faster than Walled Lake Central's Tony Sanfillippo. A pair of Salem runners - Kevin deBear (9:59.07) and Craig Cowing (10:05.54) - placed fourth and fifth in the race, respectively.

Plymouth pole vaulter Ben Ambrose matched Peterman's winning height, but he had to settle for second because it took him more attempts to clear 13-6.

John Glenn's resurgent squad chalked up three first-place finishes.

The Rockets' Larry Dawkins and Ian Thornton went 1-2 in the 100, respectively. Three races later, the duo teamed with Jujuan Marks and Corey Davis to lead Glenn to gold in the 400meter relay.

Dawkins' huge night was capped about an hour later when he outsprinted everyone in the 200 (22.08).

Wayne's best effort came from Keivin Lewis, whose time of 1:57.66 was good enough for second in the 800.

The mercury in the thermometer rose to close to 90 degrees during the peak hours of the day - almost as hot as the Chargers' "Fantastic Four."

Big Hit parade

Ansara team makes up for lost time in Reno irline travel can be unpredictable at times. dictable at time. The Ansara Restaurant Group 1 bowling team found that out recently when they flew to Reno, Nev. for the U.S. Bowling Congress Open canceled and was stuck in Michigan when they were scheduled to bowl. Subsequently they were forced to take a later plane.

Championship tournament at the National

Although they missed the an open spot to bowl in the team event on Saturday, a shuffle that only happens under special circumstances. It worked out for the best, as they put together a solid effort which put them into third place in regular team with a total score of 3,352, only 16 pins behind the leader and four pins out of second place.

Lew Ansara of Farmington Hills is the long-time sponsor of the team and has traditionally assembled a group of highly competitive bowlers for the all-star leagues and tournaments.

Eddie Grace III from Howell led the way with 729, followed by Ken Wyatt of Sterling Heights (685), Sullins (664), Nunzio Marino of Livonia (683) and Ryan Wilson of Garden City (612).

We all kind of found each other in the hotel lobby Friday morning and although the guys looked a little tired, everyone had a good outlook for doubles and singles," said Sullins, who owns 12 PBA regional titles and is a member of three halls of fame in Michigan.

Despite a 156 start in the more that 20 years of professional experience and knowledge to remain calm and bounce back with 270 and 238 games, while sticking to the team's original strategy to all play the same part of the lane to help dictate the breakdown and transition during the three games.

The USBC Open was formerly the American Bowling Congress Tournament, the longest running and largest bowling event of all and full of great tradition and stories, and this is one for the books.

The Ansara team joins another local team among the leaders, S&B Pro Shop of Troy, which currently holds down fourth place in the team allevents with a combined score of 9,762. S&B consists of Jay Lang of Sterling Heights, Bill Orlikowski from Grand Rapids, Dave Ewald of Macomb, Nick Wissinger of Utica and Kerry Kreft from Warren.

Al Harrison is a resident of Livonia and a member of the Bowling Writers Association of America. He can be reached at (248) 477-1839 or email:

C'ville's Gregg stars in shootout victory

Goalkeeper Chelsea Gregg made 14 saves, including three in a shootout, and tallied the game-winning goal in the shootout to give Livonia Clarenceville a 3-2 girls soccer win Wednesday at Lutheran High Westland.

The game was tied at 2-all and the end of regulation and through a pair of 15-minute overtimes.

"It was crazy, insane, we played 110 minutes," Clarenceville coach Trevor Johnson said.

GIRLS SOCCER

The Trojans, who improved 6-8-2 overall, led 2-1 at halftime on goals by Jordan Fyffe (from Jill Brown) and Brown (from Amanda Moody). The Warriors (7-7-1) got goals from Juliann Thomas and Allyson Yankee.

In the shootout, Teresa Parent (game-winner), Tori Bunker and Gregg tallied goals for the Trojans.

You can be too close to your son

I have a 13-year-old son who means the world to me. He is really more like my best friend than my son and I couldn't be happier about this situation. We can talk about anything, even the problems in my and his mother's marriage that led to the divorce. I've come to depend on his friendship during the past several months. My ex thinks that we are too close. I think that she's just jealous of our closeness. But to make sure, I want to know what you think. Can a father and son be too close?

I do believe that a father and son can become too friendly and lose some of the perspective that is necessary in a parent-child relationship. And, for the record, it sounds like the relationship that you have with your son may have crossed this line.

To be clear, I am a huge fan of parent-child closeness as long as certain parameters are established and preserved. Primarily, I get concerned when the adult becomes dependent on the child for emotional support or when the topics that are discussed are inappropriate. For example, I believe that a parent should not discuss intimate details of a marriage with a child, no matter how mature that child seems. By telling your son your version of events, you are asking him to choose sides and this is unfair to him. I can understand that you may be hurting and feel the need for companionship and compassion, but a 13-yearold is not in a position to supply this for you. It will be better for everyone involved if you find a confidant that is more appropriate, such as an age-appropriate friend or a support group. As the father, it is your role to provide the support and guidance to your son, not receive it from him. Until this equilibrium is re-established, your ex-wife's concerns are justified.

My oldest daughter will be coming home for the summer following her first year away at college. She's a wonderful young woman, but I'm afraid that she has gotten used to coming and going as she pleases over the past school year and I do not want her to have a negative effect on her younger brother and sister. How do I make it clear that she will have different rules while she is home for the summer? Is this unfair of me to ask of her? What do you think I should do?

In the first place, it is well within your rights to ask your daughter to adhere to the rules of your household while she is here. Secondly, I can understand your concerns about setting a poor example for your other children. Thirdly, it sounds like you are unsure of your role now that your daughter lives away from home for so much of the year. This is the real issue.

Tears come to Louis Gill's eyes as he talks about the day American soldiers liberated him from a German camp for prisoners of war 16 months after he parachuted from a B-17 which had been hit by enemy machine gun fire.

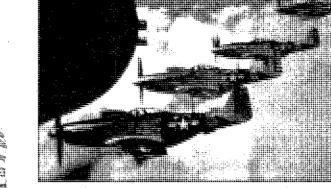

Veterans of World War II fought and gave their lives to preserve American freedoms. Men like Gill came back wounded, physically and mentally, but happy to be back in the states. Since 1951, Gill has made his home in Livonia.

"It was like being reborn again," said Gill, 85. "It gives you a whole new appreciation for being an

The Pride and Honor Flights program was founded by Faye and Jack Wiseley to honor the veterans' sacrifices. Gill was on a mission to bomb a jet factory about to be brought online when he was shot several times. It wasn't until a month later that a cast was put on his broken leg. His family suffered as well, as Gill was listed as missing in action for a month after the Flying Fortress went down.

I believe that you need to talk to your daughter and find out what her expectations are as far as rules and appropriate freedoms are concerned. Let her present her ideas for proper conduct and express any concerns that you have. Wherever you encounter a difference of opinion, seek compromise if possible but remain firm on points that cannot be negotiated.

This should not be as difficult as it may seem. She is still your daughter, no matter where she lives. Your roles are being adjusted, not your relationship. This summer may be the perfect opportunity for the two of you to become reacquainted with one another and move your relationship forward.

My husband and our two boys are couch potatoes. I am worried that once school ends, they will not spend anytime outside and will have wasted another summer indoors watching TV. Is it OK for me to make them go outside and play, or is this something that I should just accept?

You are well within the bounds of appropriate parenting to want your sons, and husband, to go out and get some fresh air. Sitting in front of the television all day is not a healthy or productive way to spend a summer vacation. Limit the amount of time that they spend in front of the tube and enforce a mandatory amount of time that must be spent outdoors.

Plan fun activities for them that will increase their desire to get outside. Take day trips to the zoo, park, or ride bikes. Go to a community pool and set up play dates that involve outside activities. Once they realize the kinds of things that there are to do outside, they will turn on the TV less and less.

Golden paws Dogs provide independence for people with disabilities

Imagine if you couldn't hear an intruder breaking into your home or a smoke detector blaring a warning. Jane MacFarlane and Rhonda Kerr never got a good night's sleep until they received their Paws With a Cause dogs. Ukon lives with MacFarlane and her husband in Canton. Rhonda and Bill Kerr of Rochester Hills share Spring as Bill is deaf and Rhonda hard of hearing from birth.

MacFarlane and the Kerrs are among 2,000 recipients assisted by the Marriott. Tickets are $100 and include a silent auction, dinner, cash bar, dancing, and speaker Sue Thomas, whose ability to read lips led to an undercover job with the F.B.I. Her adventures were dramatized in the PAX-TV series, Sue Thomas: F.B.Eye. Thomas lost her hearing as a child. Patron tickets are $150 and include an earlier reception 6-7 p.m. with food and the opportunity to meet Thomas. For tickets, call PAWS Southeastern Michigan regional office in Auburn Hills at (248) 844-5656. Costs about $18,000 to traig one dog.

GREAT FULFILLMENT

"How do you explain the fulfillment they give you," said Jane MacFarlane, whose nerve deafness was detected at an early age by her mother. MacFarlane graduated from Birmingham Seaholm High School.

"He alerts me to the door bell and fire. Because of his ability, I don't walk in front of a car. He hears them."

Because of Ukon, MacFarlane is able to serve on Michigan Commission on Disability Concerns to which the was appointed by former Gov. John Engler. When she isn't up in Lansing, MacFarlane is speaking or givthe demonstrations with two such as the Detroit Kennel Club Show at Cobo Center in March. She is also part of the Council for Disability Concerns at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Each October, the council presents Dogs on the Diag to raise awareness.

Ukon performs a variety of tasks besides alerting her to the phone. The two-year wait for the golden retriever was worth it. Paws provided training in her home and in public three times a week after MacFarlane received Ukon in September 2005.

Volunteer Puppy Raisers, otherwise known as Foster Parents, begin taking the dogs into malls and stores as early as 11 weeks to socialize them. Then at the age of 15 to 18 months the dogs receive formal training at the Paws headquarters in Wayland, south of Grand Rapids.

WORKING DOGS

"He does things he wasn't trained for like stopping at the corner, he puts his head in front of her leg," said MacFarlane. "Ukon loves working.

Rhonda Kerr calls Spring "our hero." She is the Kerrs' second hearing service dog.

"She helps us feel more secure at home and in public," said Rhonda Kerr, who attended a hearing impaired school in Bloomfield Hills from eighth grade. Today Kerr is a specification analyst at General Motors. Bill is an engineer for GM Powertrain at the Milford Proving Grounds.

She's a very smart dog. She doesn't bark at all. She comes to us and puts one paw on our leg and then takes us to the phone or timer where the sound is. We have an 11-yearold son David who was putting on his football equipment in his room on the second floor and was stuck and we couldn't hear him. Spring comes down and finds one of us. She takes us upstairs and find David stuck in his shoulder pads. If he should fall in the shower, she would alert

"It would be hard without her. My husband used to go on business trips a lot and I was alone. I rely on her if someone's at the door. One time Randi, our first dog, was at my husband's parents' house.

Someone was trying to break into the dining room window. Randi kept going back and forth to the parents. They found out the next morning the next-door neighbor was robbed. Many people don't realize what a dog can do." Sue Brooks knows how important an assistance dog is for a person with disabilities. She started raising puppies as a volunteer 15 years ago. In 2002, she retired from her job at the YMCA in Farmington to become Paws Southeast Michigan Development representative.

CHANGING LIVES

"We change people's lives every day forever one assistance dog at a time," said Brooks. "We train and certify service dogs for people with physical disabilities, hearing dogs for hard of hearing or deaf, seizure response dogs for people with seizure disorders, and a limited number of guide dogs who are service-guide combinations for a person with MS who might become blind, and combinations of all of these.

"One of our clients with Parkinson's disease was a school administrator and went out on disability six years ago. Her niece saw a presentation in school about Paws. The client got her dog in 2005 and returned back to middle school as a counselor."

Candye and Mike Sapp started Paws as Ears for the Deaf after a friend who was hard of hearing asked Mike to train a dog. Word soon spread that Mike could teach dogs to alert people with hearing disabilities to sounds. Within three years the name of the nonprofit was changed to Paws With a Cause.

Livonia resident was a fighter pilot in the 5th Army Air Force, 348th Fighter Group, 341st Blackjack fighter squadron. He flew the P-47 Thunderbolt and P-51 Mustang in the Pacific Theater. Macy completed 154 combat missions and was recommended by the 341st Fighter Squadron Headquarters in a letter dated Aug. 24, 1945, to receive a Distinguished Flying Cross, but never received it even though he contacted government officials.

Bob Jackson, a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, said the office has been working for the past two years to help Macy receive his medal. He said letters have been sent to the Air Force and the Pentagon trying to verify details of Macy's career. Jackson said McCotter's office is always interested in helping veterans receive the recognition they deserve.

PROUD TO SERVE

"I made captain a month after my 22nd birthday," said Macy who enlisted in September 1942 at age 19. Macy grew up making model airplanes and longing to fly. His family was poor during the Depression, but still managed to buy a pair of silver wings for 75 cents at Selfridge for Macy's 12th birthday.

Macy flew missions until the war ended in August 1945. He first landed in New Guinea in April 1944.

"I was the first one in the group to solo or fly alone," said Macy. "I had the highest physical fitness rating. I practically lived at the Y."

Macy has written 13 stories about his war experiences as part of his memoirs. Some of the stories have been published in Friends Journal, a quarterly magazine by the Air Force Museum Foundation. After the war, he earned an engineering degree from the University of Detroit and raised a family of three children. He's lived in Livonia since 1960.

We were in Saidor, New Guinea, on what came to be known as Black Sunday April 16, 1945," said Macy. "The weather closed in so bad about 37 aircraft were lost, more than 50 men were killed or missing in action. That day was my first mission. I landed just before the weather closed in."

MEMORIES VIVID

Macy's luck held throughout the war. One of the incidents that he "can't get out of his mind" was blind landing a P-51 Mustang. Macy was testing a plane which had just been repaired.

Suddenly, oil covered the entire canopy. Macy couldn't see anything except for an area about the size of a playing card. He dropped the nose down with oil pouring out and covering the entire fuselage, but was able to land safely.

Missions were even more dangerous because he was actively engaging Japanese planes in warfare. He tells of leading a flight of four ships and approaching the target to find he couldn't drop bombs electronically. He had to circle around and drop them manually. On the return flight, a Japanese plane flew into a cloud and came out just below Macy whose guns wouldn't fire. It was a frightening time until another American plane shot the Japanese plane down instead

The Wiseleys recently began taking veterans to the new memorial to show appreciation for the men's bravery. The retired Whitmore Lake couple has scheduled three more flights this year.

www.hometownlife.com

"We've taken men from Detroit and Bloomfield Hills on the flights," said Faye Wiseley. "They're passing away at 1,200 to 1,500 a day so there's an urgency.

"They are so appreciative of the attention. They go on for weeks after we get back about how wonderful it was. If you can bring that kind of happiness it's worth doing over and over."

So far, the nonprofit has not turned down any veteran's application for the flight but funds and volunteers are needed to continue the trips scheduled for July 7, Oct. 13, and Veterans Day Nov. 11. To help, call (734) 426-8931. Veterans can also apply for a flight by calling this number.

"We need people for fund raising," said Wiseley. "Our next flight is July 7, and we have 100 already. We take two buses with only 57 in a bus. When we get to D.C. more than that is hard to handle. We don't want anybody to fall or get hurt. Some are on oxygen. We try to take medical professionals on each trip.

"We can't say no. What if they're not here next spring."

Breast cancer 25 years of advances in treatment

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Early detection is still the best defense against breast cancer, according to Dr. David Bouwman, director of the Alexander J. Walt Comprehensive Breast Center at Karmanos Cancer Institute, and professor of surgery at Wayne State University.

While 25 years of advances in treating breast cancer have led to less invasive treatments, it is the combination of research and education programs which have lowered mortality rates. The early discovery of tumors dramatically improves chances of survival.

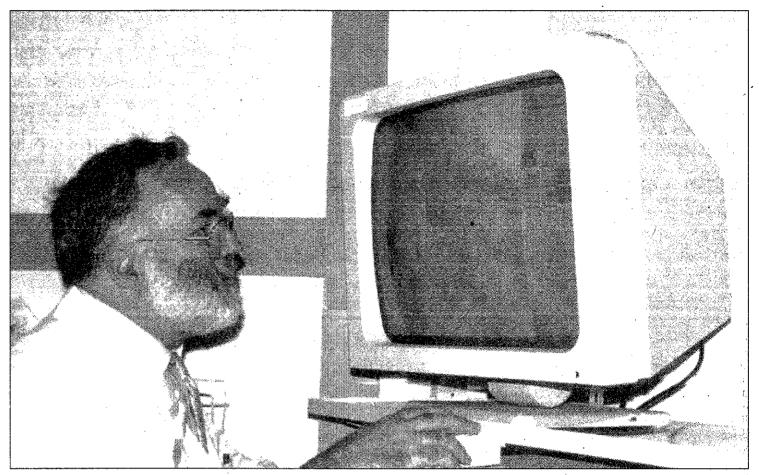

"I remember being a medical student back in the late 1960s at Johns Hopkins University, the home institute of William Halsted, the father of American breast surgery. His contribution was the radical mastectomy (developed in the late 1800s). We were still doing those routinely in the 1960s," said Bouwman, who's been treating breast cancer patients since entering practice in 1978. "The surgical treatment of breast cancer has evolved through reduction of the amount of surgery. We went from radical mastectomy to modified radical mastectomy where we no longer removed muscle. Today we believe lumpectomy, removing only the tumor, and radiation on the breast works just as well but can't be accomplished in all cases. With early diagnosis it's likely we can do the smaller surgery."

The evolution in surgery paralleled the theory of breast cancer.

PREVENTING SPREAD

"We now believe in the embolic theory that fairly early breast cancer can throw seeds and colonize other areas of the body," said Bouwman. "When I explain this to patients I use the dandelion theory. If you find a dandelion and take it out, it solves the problem if you take it out before it goes to seed. You solve the problem by putting a weed killer on the lawn. In breast cancer after the seeds have flown, it's important to treat the whole person with systemic treatments. The major role of chemotherapy is to stop the emergence of seeds. We give chemo to prevent that from arising. It markedly reduces the tisk that that will ever happen.

"A more recent development for systemic risk is estrogen manipulating drugs when a person's tumor is estrogen receptor positive, and a diagnostic test for HER 2-new (oncogene), a growth factor receptor on some tumor cells that allows them to be more receptive. This can then be blocked with Herceptin. Why is it so important to use these drugs? Most people get chemo to prevent. People die from breast cancer never because of what happens in the breast, but secondary to what happens to the seeds."

Dr. David Bouwman says mammography is still the gold standard for diagnosing breast cancer early.

That's why it's important to detect and treat tumors as early as possible. Bouwman says, mammography is still the gold standard for diagnosing breast cancer.

"When you combine all of these things, it's driving the overall mortality of breast cancer below 20 percent. I regard this as an all-out success story. I believe this number would come down further if people would comply with screening guidelines. One of the arguments is when to start. The risk factor changes with age. A woman at 50 has twice the risk of a 40year-old woman. I recommend talking with your physician. There are women who have risk factor for breast cancer in the family that I strongly suggest she should be on tight (annual) screening at 40 or before. It's not that breast cancer doesn't occur before the age of 40. A year doesn't go by that a teenager doesn't get breast cancer in the Detroit area."

LOWERING RISK

Women should take into consideration a number of factors to lower their risk for breast cancer.

"Estrogen use increases risk, using hormone replacement therapy indiscriminately to solve all problems will result in extra cases of breast cancer. If women are concerned about osteoporosis, there are other solutions to that. Speak with your physician.

"List your family history. Tamoxifen and Raloxifene are used for reduction of risk if at an elevated risk.

"My advice for women is to maintain breast health. Maintaining breast health like most other aspects of life is not a one-time decision, but a set of habits, awareness and selfeducation like maintaining an automobile. You can't just go in and have the oil changed. You have to be aware of things. Because interventions and treatments are so effective it becomes more of a loss if people don't do that. We see patients who did everything right and still suffer the ravages of this disease. They can't believe there are women who aren't making the small effort to take care of themselves."

Bouwman says a woman should keep the lines of communication open with her health care provider and if she's not satisfied with the quality of care to get a second opinion.

"No one can insulate you against the risk of breast cancer, but more people die in automobiles than from breast cancer every year, but people don't garage their vehicles (and stop driving)," said Bouwman. "Do not be paralyzed or overly anxious. I tell my wife the same thing, to be responsible in her health maintenance and watch the quality of care of physicians."

New moms: Lose weight

Race proceeds benefit research, programs

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

The Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure holds special importance for Maureen Meldrum, who was diagnosed with breast cancer 15 years ago.

Last year's Detroit event raised $1.7 million for the Susan. G. Komen Race for the Cure organization founded 25 years ago by Nancy Brinker after her sister, Susan Komen, died of breast cancer at age 36. A total of $1.1 million was distributed locally as grants for breast cancer screening, treatment and education programs in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. The rest of the inoney went to the international to fund research.

Twenty-five years of advances in breast cancer treatment in combination with research and education programs have lowered mortality rates.

"In 2006 we had 30,000 participants, 1,500 breast cancer survivors in pink shirts. It's very encouraging to see all of those pink shirts. It's really a message of hope," said $\mathbf{\bar{M}eldrum}, director_{\mbox{\tiny s}}$ of breast cancer special programs at Karmanos Cancer Institute, the local presenting sponsor.

"Of the 178,000 diagnosed in the U.S. this year, 40,000 will die. If caught early the cure rate is 98 percent. We don't know what causes breast cancer or how to prevent it, but early detection saves lives. A recent report commissioned by Komen shows that metro Detroit has one of the highest breast cancer mortality rates in the nation. Some of that has to do with poverty, access. While we've made tremendous progress we still have gaps to close. Until every woman regardless of where she lives or the color of her skin has access to early detection and quality cancer care we don't think we're done.'

Meldrum said in Komen's 25th year, the nonprofit is recommitting and refocusing the effort to end breast cancer. The 16th annual Detroit race takes place Saturday, June 16, at Comerica Park. For more information, visit $www.karmanos.org/detroitracefor the cure \ or \ call$ (800) KARMANOS (527-6266).

"We have reached out to so many community partners," said Meldrum of Lathrup Village. "Komen is a series of over 100 races and we're introducing I AM THE CURE, typed so it looks like we're shouting. CURE leaders along the route will be shouting out inspirational and educational words about breast cancer so people will walk away from the race learning why this is so urgent.

"We'll hang 10,000 pink ribbons along the route so Midtown is really transformed on this special day. An 8 a.m. opening ceremony honors breast cancer survivors and focuses on those whose lives we've lost.

"At the race we're doing much more education in a way that's much more exciting. We will have myth bustiers throughout the crowd, (Karmanos) Walt Breast Center doctors and nurses wearing sandwich boards with pink lace bustiers. On one side is a breast cancer myth, on the back truths such as all women at age 40 should start getting a mammogram every year."

Christine Fontichiaro learned she had breast cancer after a routine mammogram in June 2003. An ultrasound confirmed the presence of a tumor. After undergoing surgery, chemotherapy and radiation she has been cancer-free since Dec. 31, 2003.

Today, Fontichiaro volunteers her time as grants chair for the Detroit race.

"From its early days I had been a participant and always walked with friends," said Fontichiaro of Troy. "Then in February 2004 I began volunteering. As grants chair I oversee the process by which Komen requests proposals to disseminate the money we raise from Race for the Cure. We're making money available for a variety of needs including education, screening and limited treatment for women who are underinsured and uninsured. A woman is typically working but does not have insurance to cover mammograms or ultrasound that follows a questionable mammogram, or there are monies that might cover screening but there are no monies to fund treatment.

"Last year ACCESS, an Arab American outreach program in Dearborn received a grant for a program that requires one on one contact with the male of a family to explain breast cancer screening and to provide breast health education. Another grant funded an outreach program to the Hispanic population in the southwest area of Detroit.'

For more information on breast health and cancer, call (800) KARMANOS or visit www.karmanos.org, or www.komen.org.

Tigers tickets to raise funds for American Cancer Society

Childhood cancer is the second-leading cause of death among children in America behind accidents with 10,400 new cases and 1,545 deaths expected this year. Unfortunately, the Detroit area is home to many children battling the ruthless disease.

On Monday night June 25, young cancer survivors from across metro Detroit will receive a respite from the fight at the fifth annual American Cancer Society Boots 'n' Baseball event. The American Cancer Society (ACS) is partnering with the Detroit Tigers to host dozens of children from local hospitals, and their families to a free baseball game as the Tigers take on the Texas Rangers at Comerica Park. The young patients will have the opportunity to enjoy all the festivities including ferris wheel rides, face-painting, goody bags, and many memorable activities.

For those interested in cheering on these courageous young people while also enjoying the Tigers' game, the ACS has 300 tickets to the game available, a portion of the proceeds from which benefits the Society. These affordable $20-per-person tickets can be purchased individually or for group use (as available) by calling (248) 557-5353. Payment must be received by the ACS by Friday, June 1.

For more information about the American Cancer Society, call (800) ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

Peter's Principles

two just does Peter not carry much Nielsen weight in reality!

Nutritional needs change, but the volume of food consumption should remain pretty much the same. Most importantly, don't get frustrated! The weight from having a baby does not come off right away! Remember it took nine months to put the extra weight on. Look at it as a long-term goal and set up a healthy diet plan! Spend some time at the gym with a personal trainer and you'll be back in your old wardrobe in no time!

Tara from Lincoln Park is thinking about starting a running program with her dog. She e-mails for tips for getting off on the right foot. Tara, before starting a program you should get a checkup for yourself and your pet! Once your dog passes it is time to get started!

Remember your dog's size does not necessarily determine its running ability. It is best to wait until your dog is at least 12 months old to start a running program. That is when bones and joints are up for an extended run.

Pace yourself and remember to give your dog plenty of water and time to cool off. Excessive saliva and panting are usually trouble signs. Try to avoid running on concrete and hardened surfaces. Finally, be sure to know your dog's limits.

If you have a health or fitness ques- \mathbb{I}_{eq} tion you would like answered in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, email Peter through his Web site www.peternielsen.com. FATIGUE IN ARTHRITIS

All of us have experienced fatigue. It is a feeling of deep weariness, a sense that putting forth more effort is too much to ask us, that what we need immediately, is rest The fatigue in arthritis is worse.

Then exhaustion appears early in the day, is only partially reverse by rest, when rest is possible, becomes more profound with time, and by day's end, emerges with joint pain to worsen the disability with which joints already labor.

The fatigue of arthritis relates to the degree of inflammation present in joints, and/or to the effects of deformity of an involved joint. If the problem is inflammation, doctors can counter with a number of theraples such as methotrexate, oral cortisone, intra-articular steroids, and a number of new injectable medications. If fatigue results from joint deformity and resulting in the ability of the body to use tha leverage that normal limbs permit, medical options are limited. Using pain medication, referring to surgical specialists for joint repair or replacement, and taking advantage of what physical therapy can offer, are the alternatives available.

Physicians ere aware that other medical problems can cause an exhaustion similar to the fatigue of arthritis. Medication, depression, fibromyalgia and hypothyroidism are among the possible causes that may need evaluation in an individual patient.

In joint conditions, fatigue may be the first indication that arthritis is present, and often is the last to leave when treatment prevails.
