Rockets connect kids and science

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

There was no rocket's red glare, no roar as engines ignited. Just a loud whoosh.

In the shadow of the rocket that sits at the north end of the John Glenn High School football field, one by one students in Christina Lynch's science class used water pressure to send their homemade bottle rockets skyward.

"Mine's gone the farthest today," said Jessica Seman, whose rocket cleared treetops and landed in front of the new gymnasium almost 30 feet from the launch pad.

"I think it's because she put six fins on it," Lynch said. "They had to have at least three.'

Lynch got the idea to do the rocket launches from another teacher who provided the pump and launch stand. Students who passed both marking periods in the second semester got to make and launch the rockets. All but three of her students participated.

"It helps connect with what we've been studying," Lynch said. "The second semester we studied the planets,

Police: Escapee was target of recent robbery

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A Westland man, mistakenly released from the Wayne County jail Sunday as he faced prison for armed robbery, was the intended target of a separate robbery that ended in a shooting a week earlier at his home, police said.

The story of 24-year-old Jason David Shuford, sought by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department after authorities said he was "released inappropriately" Sunday night, is a complicated one.

Shuford had been free on bond in early June, but he was returned to jail as he was to start serving prison time for an armed robbery that occurred in February on Belding Court, on Westland's south

Shuford was facing seven to 20 years in prison for that incident, police Sgt. Michael Harhold confirmed.

Before he went to jail to await prison, Shuford was the intended target of a robbery that resulted in a shooting around 1:15 a.m. Sunday, June 3, police Sgt. David Heater said.

Three assailants, including one who is in custody, are accused of going to Shuford's residence on Hubbard near Palmer to rob him after learning that he was carrying a substantial amount of money, Heater said.

"They were looking for Jason Shuford, but he wasn't there,"

Heater said. Rather, Shuford's 26-year-old roommate and Shuford's 9-month-old son were in the house. One of the assailants, now facing a court hearing on multiple charges including assault with intent to murder, armed robbery and home invasion, is accused of shooting the roommate.

It wasn't clear this week where Shuford's 9-month-old child was After avoiding the June 3 robbery and shooting, Shuford was returned to jail only to be released by Wayne County authorities on Sunday night. The sheriff's department issued a statement saying the details of his release were under investigation.

Authorities are asking for the public's help in locating Shuford, and they have released his picture. He is described as a 5-foot-6, 155pound white male with blond hair and blue eyes.

Shuford may be driving a black, 1997 Dodge Ram with a Michigan license plate of BCV 8465. Anyone who has information is asked to call Crime Stoppers at (800) SPEAK UP.

Calls may be made anonymously, and Crime Stoppers offers a possible reward up to $1,000.

Robbery suspect turns himself in to Livonia police

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A 51-year-old man turned himself over to Livonia authorities Saturday for a bank robbery that occurred five days earlier near his Westland apartment.

Daniel Girård Abbott called Livonia police about 8 a.m. Saturday from a public telephone near Five Mile and Middlebelt, where officers picked him up.

According to Westland police Sgt. Jeff Trzybinski, Abbott identified himself as the suspect in a robbery that happened at 1:47 p.m. Monday, June 4, at the Comerica branch on Wayne Road south of Warren.

Abbott lives at Forest Lane Apartments, less than a mile south of the bank, Trzybinski said.

Abbott was arraigned Monday in front of Westland 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos on charges of armed robbery and bank robbery. A not-guilty plea was entered for Bokos set a $500,000 cash bond and ordered Abbott back in court June 21 for a preliminary hearing that will determine whether he should stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

If convicted, the defendant could face penalties ranging up to life in prison.

A bank teller told Westland police that, during the robbery, a man handed her a note, warned that he had a gun and demanded money.

The lone bandit escaped with several hundred dollars. Police had distributed the suspect's picture, which was captured

Teen is charged with felonious assault in kitchen knife incident

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A 17-year-old Westland youth, shot amid accusations he came toward a police officer with a 12-inch kitchen knife, was arraigned on criminal charges Monday in his hospital bed.

Phillip Jay Taylor, who lives with his father at a northwest side apartment complex where the incident occurred last Friday, was continuing to recover from a gunshot wound to his abdomen.

He was arraigned by Westland 18th District Magistrate Donald Vandersloot on charges of felonious assault, carrying a dangerous weapon with unlawful intent and assaulting, resisting and obstructing a police officer. The charges against him carry penalties up to five years in prison.

Phillip Jay Taylor, who lives with his father at a northwest side apartment complex where the incident occurred last Friday, was continuing to recover from a gunshot wound to his abdomen.

Vandersloot entered a not-guilty plea for Taylor, set a $250,000 cash bond and scheduled a June 21 hearing that will determine whether he should stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Taylor was shot after police went to Westwood Village Apartments at Joy and Hix after receiving a phone call Friday afternoon that a man there had a gun. Police Sgt. Thad Nelson confirmed this week that Taylor actually made the call without implying who had a weapon, although he gave his apartment number.

When officers arrived, they found Taylor near an apartment complex swimming pool, talking on a cordless telephone. Nelson said Taylor was wielding a kitchen knife measuring about 12 inches, including the blade and handle.

'We're unclear on the motive at this point," Nelson said. -

Taylor is accused of going toward a police officer with the knife before he was shot.

The officer's identity wasn't disclosed. He isn't suspected of any wrongdoing, although the police department's policy still requires an internal investigation.

space exploration and rockets." Students used two-liter bottles and paper towel tubes for the rockets, while a table tennis ball and a piece of a garbage bag served as the parachute. The bottles were partially filled with water and then connected to the pump by

The pump resembled a bicycle pump that students pushed and pulled until reaching the ideal amount of pressure.

"We have to get it to 90-100 PSI, that's pounds per square inch," ninth-grader Norman Butler said.

Some rockets took off on their own, while others, like Butler's, needed help - a tug by Lynch on a release valve that launched the rockets. Almost all of them failed to deploy the parachute, smacking into the ground nose first. Only one chute came out during prelaunch, leading Lynch to call it a "design flaw." The class started launching the rockets last Wednesday. Those that survived the first day were put to the test again Thursday. According to Lynch, only two made it skyward the first day because they "ran out of water."

Of the rockets launched Thursday, it was Seman's that repeatedly outdistanced the others. She sent it skyward at least four times, urged on by classmates who wanted to see it shoot off.

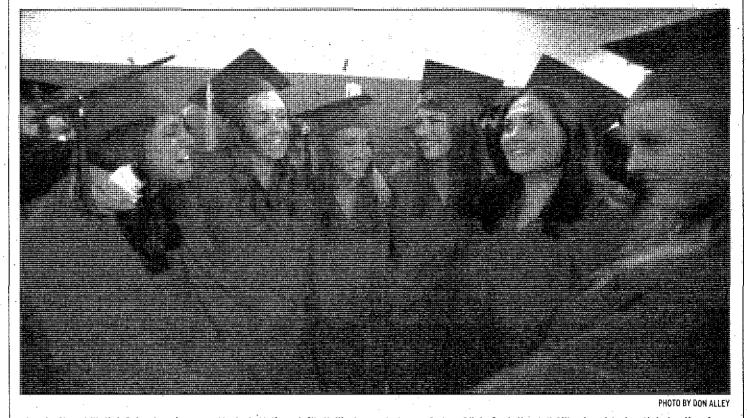

And classmate Corey Hinton could only stare at his rocket as it dangled out of reach in a tree where it was caught on a branch by its parachute strings.

'Oh, well," he said, "I've gotten kites caught in trees before." The second day of launches went so well, Lynch was considering a third day. "We'll do it all hour unless someone tells us differently," she said.

It's summer. It's Westland. It's time for carnival rides, magic shows, ice cream eating contests, toddler competitions, outdoor concerts and Fourth of July fireworks.

It's almost time for the 37th annual Westland Summer Festival, which runs June 28 through July 4 on the grounds of the city's government complex, on Ford Road between Wayne and Newburgh.

As festival organizers prepare for the big party, Chairman Kenneth Mehl said that "everything is moving along.

Some festival goers have questioned how the closing of Central City Park, due to lead contamination, will affect the festival. Officials say it won't, really, because the events occur on city complex grounds.

And in some ways you are, for this turtle of Michigan, with stegosaurus-like plates along the back and tail predates the age of the great dinosaurs.

The common snapping turtle is nearly invincible once it reaches adulthood, but life is risky now as spring races for summer. Even nature loving first-graders know of the ways of the snapping turtle: It snaps when threatened. Powerful jaws keep potential predators at bay, but down under water, it's generally a docile creature, content to scavenge on decaying flesh, plant matter, crayfish, fish and frogs. But when it slurps down a duckling or gosling paddling peacefully about kids cry and some adults

Crossing roads is not its way, but to survive snappers must often take on our world, an endeavor of great danger, something beyond their sense of understanding. There is no learning curve when it comes to the lethalness of automobiles. Many don't make it and in automobile-rich environments some ponds are losing all their turtle species. For the past few weeks female snappers - often coated in algae - have been crawling ashore from their water world of shallow lakes, marshes, lagoons and slow moving streams. And they must, for this is the season to lay eggs. But with the human habit of placing roads as close to lakes as possible, adding culverts and pavement, the soil in which to lay eggs is often a few hundred feet of a treacherous travel away.

The trek is nearly impossible. To make matters worse some folks - with good intent – "rescue" a snapping turtle crossing a road and prod it back to the marsh with a stick to keep it safe: The wrong thing to do. If you want to help a turtle, help it get to where it is going not to where it came from. Instinct will force the turtle to try again, at increased risk.

Judge orders trial in purse-snatching case

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Three defendants have been ordered to stand trial for a purse snatching that occurred outside the Westland Meijer store at Warren and Newburgh.

Robert Probst Jr. and his sister Rachel Probst, both of Canton, and Christopher Sager of Carleton face trial in Wayne County Circuit Court on charges of unarmed robbery and fraudulent use of a credit

The trio was charged after an alert witness and a quick response from Westland police led to an arrest following the incident, which occurred around 10:45 p.m. May 25.

Police Sgt. Thad Nelson called it "a good job all the way

The Probsts and Sager were ordered to stand trial after they waived their preliminary hearings last Thursday in front of Westland 18th District Judge Sandra Ference Cicirelli. Not-guilty pleas have been entered for them. If convicted as charged, they could face penalties ranging up to 15 years in prison.

The robbery occurred when a Westland woman was walking into the store and a man grabbed her purse and fled. Nelson said a Livonia man chased a suspect and was able to get a license plate number as he fled in a car with the other people. Police spotted the car a short time later at Cherry Hill and Newburgh.

Officers found the victim's purse and her credit cards, driver's license and cell phone, Nelson has said. The defendants are accused of using one of the credit cards to buy gas before their arrest.

According to Nelson, it appeared the motive was to get money to buy drugs.

Robert Probst Jr. and Sager remain jailed after Cicirelli set a $500,000/10 percent bond. They would have to post $50,000 for their release.

Rachel Probst served a 10day jail term on an unrelated charge and has been released on a $500,000/10 percent personal bond, meaning she didn't have to post any money.

Weather, location - Relay was 'extraordinary'

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Westland teams involved in this year's Relay for Life had raised $96,000 for the American Cancer Society by the time the 24-hour fundraiser ended Sunday in Jaycee

With donations still trickling in, organizers still could reach their $100,000 goal, said Westland City Councilman Michael Kehrer, the Relay public relations

Some participants came and went while others spent the entire 24 hours enjoying entertainment, playing games and honoring those who have lost their lives to - or survived - cancer.

"It really turned out extraordinary," Kehrer said.

Westland's Relay, in its seventh year, was moved to Jaycee Park from Central City Park, which Mayor William Wild ordered fenced off in January after other officials divulged it was contaminated with lead.

Jaycee Park, at Wildwood and Hunter, was a hit with Relay participants, even though its half-mile walking path is shorter than Central City's.

"We could not have asked for a better day all the way around," said Wild, who had formed a fund-raising team. "In addition to the fantastic weather, Jaycee Park was very well-received by walkers, which I think only made this year's event even more success-held Saturday and Sunday at Jaycee Park.

Kehrer agreed. "The overall consensus of the participants was that it was a wonderful turnout and a wonderful site," he said. "The half-mile track kept everybody a little closer. There was more a sense of community, and everybody got

His language capability directly contributed to the development of an unmatched rapport with his Iraqi Air Force colleagues and positively impacted the operations development and readiness of the Iraqi Air Force, according to the Air Force.

To safeguard Iraq's valuable petroleum industry, he routinely initiated and conducted day and night low-level surveillance missions along key sections of the northern pipelines and around high-value petroleum refineries. Many times he was at high risk while identifying suspicious vehicles and personnel, directing Iraqi ground forces to the target or loitering overhead for up to 45 minutes while awaiting the arrival of ground forces.

Visconi participated in the first Iraqi Air Force psychological operations mission, the first Iraqi Air Force supply airdrop and the first use of an Iraqi Air Force aircraft as a combat search and rescue asset. While returning from a transport mission on April 8, 2005, during nautical twilight hours near Kirkuk Regional Air Base, Visconi was engaged by antiaircraft artillery while flying as wingman in a twoship formation. With a U.S. Army Special Forces passenger on-board, Visconi immediately executed evasive maneuvers while simultaneously notifying the lead aircraft of the threat, directing formation maneuvers and marking the position of the threat.

Vote for recycling was right decision

Look for it to become an election issue of who voted how on taxes, or more specifically on reducing the amount levied for trash disposal.

On a 5-2 vote, a majority of the council voted status quo on the tax - 2.15 mills - rather than lowering it to

2 mills as proposed by Mayor William Wild. Before residents begin yelling about a tax-happy

The city needs to get curbside recycling up and running and if the $7.50 per taxpayer will help, all the better.

council, understand that the savings was a mere $7.50 a year. In this day and age, it's about enough for a pack of cigarettes and a little more, if you still smoke, or about two gallons of gas. Depending on the vehicle you drive, that isn't enough gas to get you to Lansing to yell at state lawmakers, if you're so

A majority of the council wants to hang on to that money to jumpstart a curbside recycling program as well as have it on hand in case the state increases tipping fees at landfills or the city has to replace its current trash hauler which has lost work in some communities. We have seen what has happened at the state level with legislatures didn't see a tax they didn't want to cut. Granted, it took many tax cuts to put the state in the position it now is, but Westland has been able to keep its head above water through prudent financing and hanging on to what it has. And now is not the time to get into a tax cut mode, especially since it's difficult at best to predict what will happen with the state in its new budget next

We believe the five council members - James Godbout, Cheryl Graunstadt, Michael Kehrer, Dewey Reeves and Robert Stottlemyer - made the right decision in voting to maintain the tax levy. The city needs to get curbside recycling up and running and if the $7.50 per taxpayer will help, all the better.

Getting more people to recycle will cut down on the amount of trash going to landfills and as a result lower tipping fees. As we see it, it's a win-win situation for Westland.

Flag Day is time to pay homage to our national symbol

"We take the stars from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing Liberty."

That's what George Washington once said about the newly created American flag during the American Revolution.

Authorized by Congress June 14, 1777, what we now know as the Stars and Stripes first flew over the walls of Fort Stanwix in the wilderness of upstate New York.

It is unlikely that the soldiers within those walls, who were taking on the most powerful nation in the world at the time, realized that the red, white, and blue American flag would become one of the most recognizable symbols in the world.

Although despised by some, the Stars and Stripes has inspired countless others in nearly every corner of the globe, especially where people have lived under tyranny. It isn't the design of the flag (though it is certainly handsome as flags go) that is inspiring. It is the very ideals the flag has stood for and represented since its inception: liberty, democracy, freedom.

While there have been plenty of times in our history that we have not lived up to those ideals, they have still been our guiding principles since the founding of this nation. They were the ideals that inspired the makers of the flag, and those who fought to fly it over their heads - not just in the American Revolution, but in every American war since, including today in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Every June 14, we observe Flag Day to honor our national symbol. Most people probably don't know that. It certainly doesn't get as much notice as Memorial Day or Labor Day. People usually don't take off work or go on vacation for Flag Day. But in an age when our country seems sharply divided along political lines, it is good to take some time to celebrate what binds us together.

We should give thanks that it, and the ideals it stands for, still flies above our heads.

Wrong name for park

At the Westland City Council meeting on June 4, a resolution was passed to name the city property on Wayne Road. Correspondence was sent to City Council members from some of the Friends of the Museum opposing the word village in the title and asking for a compromise to leave out village and simply let it be known as Westland Historic Park, but this did not happen.

Some of the Friends of the Museum questioned the city on the name from the onset. We were told it was not set in stone. I suggested to the former mayor to hold a contest and let residents name the museum complex thus publicity for the historical park, no response.
In August 2005, some Friends of the Museum wrote a letter to the former mayor about the name of the museum site and no answer was received. I spoke about the name at the January 2006 City Council meeting, saying the name was being used on the city calendar and it was not official.

The former mayor should have resolved the name issue for the museum site long ago for it has been four years and four months since it was first men-

With the sale of 2.1 acres of cityowned museum property a few years ago on North Wayne Road only 4.699 acres remain. The westerly portion contains 3.333 acres of museum woods. The small portion fronting on Wayne Road is 1.369 acres and has four houses, a well, a windmill, a log outhouse, a carriage shed and a pole barn on it.

It certainly does not look like a village. In a village you would expect to see some of the following structures: a one-room school, church, blacksmith shop, inn, sawmill, etc. Come visit the past. Take a drive to Wayne Road between Marquette and Cherry Hill to see your historic village. Then take a drive to neighboring communities to see Heritage Park in Taylor which is huge and looks like a village, but the word park is used in their title; to Romulus Historic Park in Romulus; to Mill Race Village in Northville which looks like a mini village with historic buildings which includes a church, one-room school, the Cady Inn and a couple of houses; and to Greenmead Historical Park in Livonia where village could apply.

In my opinion, the museum site in Westland has now been named after Tshirts and coffee mugs!

Thank you, Dad

He sits in "his" chair and watches his life before him unfold. A life he acquired by marrying my mom. I was the first of five children over the next six years. Some times he watches his children and sometimes he watches the news. He never drove or owned a car. He took the bus to work everyday. His life as he knew it died the day my mother did. I was 12 and he was still a young man, when this event occurred.

He did not run out with the guys and look for a "new" mom or wife. He did not climb into a bottle or drug habit to cope. He came home everyday at the same time from work. He did not give us away or cry for help. He did not have family or neighbors to step in now and then. This man, my father, raised five children under 12 years of age into mature adults and at age 70 died

This man, my father, stepped up to the plate and became the father he had always been.

A father is not a man who shows up now and then, he is there and involved with your life. A father is not a man who puts his play time first, he plays first with his children. A father is not a man who when he can't cope hides in a bottle or a drug habit or a sport or TV. He steps up to the plate and finds a way to solve the problems at hand. He is the rock of the family and the oak tree that shelters all who come near.

A man with virtue, yes. A man with compassion, absolutely. A man who loved my mom even beyond the grave, you better believe it. A man who to this day makes me cry for his sorrow and loneliness. A man who would bring home five candy bars at midnight, one for each of us and then walk back up to the store for one for his wife. A man who chose to give his life for another. A saint no, a successful father, sometimes, a man who knew where he was going, never. But a man who was a dad, father and friend.

He honored his vows to my mom until the day he died and raised his children the best he could. He never missed a day of work, We always had a roof over our heads and food in our belly. He asked about school and helped do homework. A man whose life's mission was raising his children and "going home" to see his wife. I am who I am because of his dedication and loyalty and love to me, his daughter, and I want

Thank you to my father and all of those men out there who do whatever it takes to be the best dad and father to their children. Who with honor and courage and compassion help to raise up our future generations in love. My hat goes off to you. Never think that you are not valued and needed by those children you have been given. And at the end of the day you can sit in "your chair" and with a sigh of relief know you are making a difference in the world today with your contribution of being a dad.

Happy Father's Dav.

Equality for who?

I am continuously amazed at the ignorance - or perhaps thoughtlessness - of some of the "Letters To the Editor" to this paper. This week my amazement is directed toward the author of "It's still Un-American" (June 7, 2007,

I don't understand how the phrase "that all men are created equal" found in the U.S. Constitution and elsewhere, can be misinterpreted by Ms. Meese and others to mean "some are more equal than others."

Her comment "not supporting affirmative action and the justice and fairness it tried to create ... was un-American." Huh? So, taking away one group's rights, and giving special rights to another group is "pro-American?" Wow, what a scary thought.

Apparently, the author of "I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character" was un-American? This was spoken by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. According to your letter you would call this man un-American. Shame on you!

I think it would be prudent, my dear writer, to educate yourself in the history of the great country, before you judge what is American or not.

I might suggest more time spent on reading great works from early U.S. history, and less time listening to extremist, anti-American rhetoric.

Shame, shame,

When the Bush administration took over and Dick Cheney held his secret energy policy meetings, we should have seen this coming. This corrupt administration is in bed with big oil. What else can explain the record profits.

ID card is bad news

Congress better do away with the notion of this identification card that they want everyone to carry with them. It tells the world too much about a person. If the wrong person gets a hold of a card, your life would be over. It would destroy your life. Your life on that card is an open book.

Congress, burn that idea now.

State needs to fight fear with energy plan ichiganders have probably never heard the name Terry Sanford, but for Michigan's future, never has one name been so important.

Sanford was the governor of North Carolina from 1961-1965. During that time, southern politicians routinely used race to divide and conquer otherwise stable political coalitions. To get elected in the south, conventional wisdom said to paint the other guy was a civil rights sympathizer, and run on saving America from integration. George Wallace - America's disgrace.

most notorious segregationist perfected this craft to his Others punted the issue. More moderate than Wallace was Sanford's predecessor, a Dixiecrat named Luther Hodges. Hodges advocated "compromise" between the NAACP and Ku Klux Klan. That one of these groups advocated obedience to law, while the other terrorism, mattered little in the Jim Crow south.

In the 1960 presidential election, however, Sanford backed a known proponent of civil rights named John F. Kennedy. Although risky, Sanford supported Kennedy because he believed racism was wrong, and more astutely, saw him inventing a viable strategy for getting southerners aboard the integration bandwagon.

As Sanford noted, Kennedy tied the struggle for civil rights in America to a more universal proposition - the defeat of communism. In essence, Kennedy believed America could not promote human rights abroad, until it first protected human rights at home. Sanford shared Kennedy's view, and also knew North Carolina needed fundamental change to revive its faltering economy. Its three main industries - furniture, textiles and tobacco - had stagnated, along with social progress.

Sanford connected the dots between North Carolina's social regression, economic stagnation and his mission as governor. To him, the social and economic stagnation plaguing North Carolina stemmed from ignorance. He saw North Carolina perpetuating ignorance by neglecting its primary responsibility – public education. To address this, he offered an unpopular idea. He proposed dramatic funding increases for North Carolina's universities. After much ado from the bourgeois, Sanford pushed a tax-increase through the legislature with little public sup-

When President Kennedy wanted to expand the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, he chose North Carolina's ground-breaking "Research Triangle."

Established five years earlier, the Research Triangle promoted health, humanities and ... technology through North Carolina's triage of research-centered universities - the University of North Carolina, N. C. State and Duke. The Research Triangle eventually lured IBM and today employs over 40,000 North Carolinians in high-tech jobs.

While most of the south lags behind the rest of the country in education and employment, high-tech employment in North Carolina continues to rise today. These successes were spearheaded by Terry Sanford.

Why is this story important? Because there are parallels between North Carolina's struggles in 1961, and Michigan's today. Our economic woes are also aggravated by our politics. Fear-mongers feed Michigan's anxiety by playing the same evil game as Wallace and Hodges. "Government," they say, "not the will of man, is the problem." Fear is paralyzing social and economic progress.

But there's a lesson in Sanford's courage. People - no matter how backwards will agree to radical change when it serves America's larger purpose in the world.

Today, Michigan must revive its economy by confronting the evils wrought by our dependence on foreign oil. To do this, Michigan must launch a National Energy Independence

Like Sanford's initiative, a National Energy Independence Initiative could revolutionize Michigan and America forever.

Our universities recently stated their intent to emulate North Carolina's successes. However, they committed an inexcusable error when asking for more money from Lansing. Essentially, they demanded "money for nothin'." Jane Q. Taxpayer - pragmatist that she is - will rebuff any request for more money until it comes with a clear vision to move Michigan forward. And, contrary to popular belief, Jane is hungry for our leaders to demonstrate, what Sen. Barack Obama calls "the audacity of hope." Government can view this growing consensus for fundamental change as a threat, or as a gift. So far, like Hodges, they've punted.

Eventually, however, this consensus will overcome the politics of fear. And, what greater gift than freedom from terror? What greater need than to revive Michigan's economy? How severe does the energy crisis need to become before we commit to action?

The answer - for better or worse - lies in the will of man. I, for one, like to think we're better for having a destiny to shape. A National Energy Independence Initiative moves us closer to that end. And, closer to freedom from fear.

Doug Ross finds success educating Detroit students

o you think all politicians only think of what's best for themselves? OK. Now let's meet a man who turns 65 this week, one of the brightest members of his generation. He's had a big-time Michigan political career - state senator, Department of Commerce director, assistant secretary of labor, candidate for governor. And then he chucked all that to run a charter school in Detroit. His name is Doug Ross, and let him take the story from there. "I lost the 1998 Democratic gubernatorial primary to Geoffrey Fieger," he said, actually finishing third behind East Lansing's Larry Owen. Once the votes were in,

"I got to talking with Bill Beckham, who was the head of the Skillman Foundation, about how disgraceful the Detroit schools were." For a quarter of a century, 70 percent of high school students had failed to finish.

Phil Power

"So since I had time on my hands, I agreed to go around the country looking at what urban schools actually worked.

"We decided that the problem in Detroit was an obsolete learning organization, not bad people. So we decided to lift one of the successful school designs from cities around the country, start a school to see if it could work in Detroit, and hope the Detroit Public Schools would, in turn, lift that design to improve the entire system."

That's the story behind University Preparatory Academy, which Ross founded in 1999. Last Saturday, it graduated 128 seniors, more than 90 percent of those who started there as freshmen. And nearly 100 percent of the graduates are going on to college.

If Detroit Public Schools could copy that model, the city would be a far better place. And as far as I'm concerned, while Ross is Jewish, he's also Michigan's top candidate for immedi-

By using passion, smarts, a big heart and vast energy, he has conclusively demonstrated that it's possible to take a bunch of inner-city kids and get them to perform at academic levels nobody would have believed. He is a man who indeed knows the Detroit schools.

Ross graduated from the University of Michigan and taught for a year and a half in the Detroit Public Schools, at McMichael Middle School and at Northeastern High. But then he was fired, "because I looked like a potentially troublesome person."

I've known Doug for a long time, and he always was among the smartest, most creative, articulate and all-round energetic people anywhere. But I never expected him to dedicate a decade of his life to helping a bunch of Detroit kids ... nor to succeed so enormously. What's his secret?

"You start with two core beliefs," Ross says. "First, as an urban public school, you have absolutely to accept responsibility for developing college-ready graduates, regardless of what kind of background or educational deficits those kids bring with them.

"Second, you have to do whatever it takes to help a student succeed, not just nine-to-five but whatever is necessary, whether it's evenings, trips to court, funerals, whatever.

"You then move on to operating principles." You have to have a deep knowledge of each child - academically, emotionally and socially and have the flexibility to respond to that knowledge."

University Prep does that by making the fundamental leaning unit the "advisory," a group of 16 pupils who stay together with the same adviser as an extended family through their entire school career. And "you have to" organize the school so as to individualize learning. A ninth-grader who reads at the fifth-grade level is only going to deepen his self-doubts if he's faced with a ninth-grade

Ross started University Prep on the theory. that if it worked, it would be a shining beacon and model other schools could copy.

So far, he's succeed in meeting the achievement targets set out by his financial backer, Bob Thompson, the Plymouth-based former asphalt-paving titan (and another proper candidate for canonization.) With Thompson's backing, Ross is starting up several more schools in Detroit, hoping that the model will gradually spread.

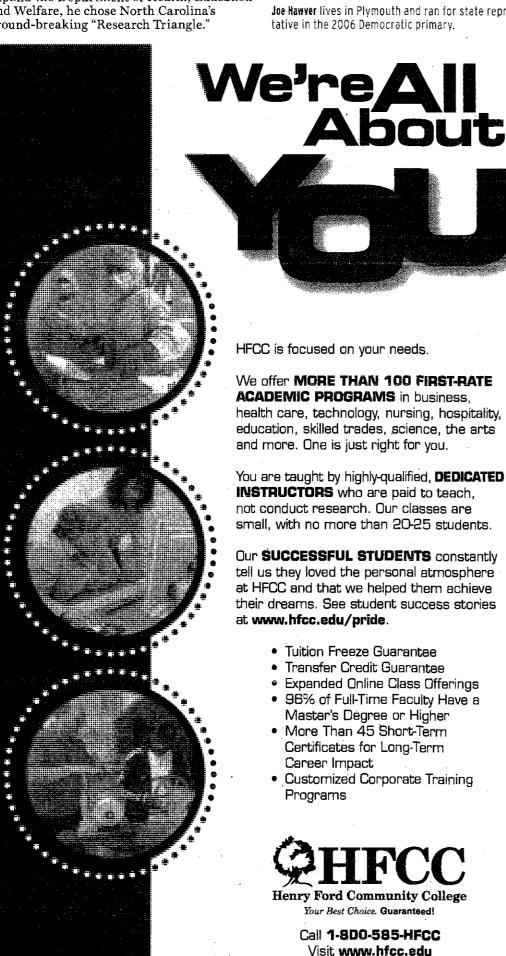

Frankly, I'm pessimistic about getting the Detroit Public Schools to voluntarily come sees along. Ross says that the requirements for his model to succeed — educational and budget decisions and hiring and firing — must rest in the hands of the individual school principals.

I doubt the centralized and bureaucratic culture of DPS would tolerate local decision-making. Nor do I believe the Detroit Federation of Teachers will tolerate someone else making, personnel decisions.

But I would like it very much if I have to write a column in a few years saying, "OK, I was wrong." What is clear is that Doug Ross, is succeeding in one of the hardest and most. centrally important tasks in all of Michigan. He deserves every one of the plaudits he's been getting in recent weeks. And while I'm sure the angels in heaven would be pleased to greet Doug Ross and Bob Thompson as they ascend to the cherubim, I hope they don't do so any-question I'm frequently asked is whether someone who has received an inheritance should pay off the mortgage. There are few absolutes in the financial world and the issue isn't what the majority of people should do, but rather what she should do.

I've always been a believer that you need to look at your own individual situation and make the right decisions for you. That is why when it comes to investing, I don't have a standard portfolio. I invest based upon someone's personal financial goals and objectives. The same belief drives whether someone should pay off a mortgage.

The caller told me her inheritance was approximately $170,000 and her mortgage was approximately $130,000. I also learned the caller had approximately $30,000 of other debt and a substantial portion of that was on charge taxation on the inheritance. Typically, when you inherit money, it is income tax free. The one exception to this is if you inherit a 401(k); IRA or other tax-deferred accounts. On those items, then you must pay income taxes at your ordinary income bracket. In this case, the money was not within an IRA or other tax-deferred account and so there were no income tax con-

The next issue concerned her individual financial situation. Her income did cover her living expenses and she has been able to save money. The charge card debt was something she incurred because of a divorce.

The next issue was whether she wanted to pay the mortgage or was she doing it because she thought it was a good financial move. Financially, in her situation, considering her interest rate and the fact that the interest was tax-deductible, she should not pay off the mortgage.

However, if one of her financial goals at this point in time was to be debt-free, then that would factor into the equation.

After taking everything into consideration, the obvious first move was to pay off the charge cards and other personal loans. The interest on charge cards averaged over 15 percent and that interest is not tax-deductible. I can't think of any investment that would pay someone a guaranteed 15 percent return net of taxes on a consistent basis.

If someone is working and has the cash flow to make the mortgage payment and it's taxdeductible, then it makes sense not to pay off the mortgage early or make extra payments. It's wise to invest the money in a growth mode.

Rather than use the rest of the money to pay off the mortgage, I recommend she establish a long-term growth portfolio. After taxes, her mortgage was costing her under 4 percent and by establishing a good growth portfolio, she should do considerably better over the long term.

If someone is working and has the cash flow to make the mortgage payment and it's tax-deductible, then it makes sense not to pay off the mortgage early or make extra payments. It's wise to invest the money in a growth mode.

By following this strategy, over time, more money will end up in your pocket exactly where it belongs. However, if one of your goals is to not have a mortgage payment, then that is something that must be factored into the equation.

One last note in regard to the allocation. Considering that the individual was a long-term growth investor, I recommended a 70/30 split between stocks and bonds with 70 percent of the portfolio in equities and the remaining 30 percent invested in fixed-income investments.

The breakdown within the fixed-income investments included a corporate bond fund, an international bond fund, an inflationadjusted bond fund and a U.S. Government fund. On the equity side, I recommended keeping 20 percent invested internationally, including large and small companies. I also recommended, for diversification, she invest another 5 percent of the portfolio in an energy fund.

When it comes to personal financial planning, don't get caught in the trap of doing what everyone else does. My dad used to ask me when I was a kid, if everyone was jumping off the bridge, would I jump off the bridge? I believe that to be successful in the area of personal finances, you need to focus on your individual situation and stay away from generalities.

Airport boosts economy

Freight and passenger traffic at Willow Run Airport represented $200 million in economic impact and more than 2,000 jobs in Michigan in 2006, according to a study by researchers at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

"A strong air cargo link is important to a successful economic development strategy," said Lester W. Robinson, CEO of the Wayne County Airport Authority. "This study shows that the billions of dollars in cargo which go through Willow Run each year already support many local businesses and jobs, and that growth at Willow Run means growth for Michigan's businesses."

The report was based on a study done by faculty members at iLABS, the U-M-Dearborn School of Management's Center for Innovation Research. Led by Lee Redding, assistant professor of business economics, the study estimated the economic impact of the airport on Wayne County and on the state as a whole, measured in terms of revenues, incomes and jobs.

Within Wayne County, the airport's economic impact was more than $100 million, generating more than 700 jobs and earnings of $22 million.

Redding emphasized that the airport's impact is more than just the jobs it supports.

"Willow Run's true potential for supporting Michigan's future lies in the infrastructure it represents rather than simply the people employed directly at the airport," he said.

"A cargo airport like Willow Run is important to the economic revitalization of Michigan because it provides the necessary infrastructure for local businesses to expand," said Redding. "Air cargo ships high value products, and those air cargo products are what America is good at producing and exporting. The airport represents an important piece of the economic infrastructure of Michigan with the potential to have an even greater impact in the

In 2002, the federal Bureau of Transportation Statistics estimated that shipments by air were valued at approximately $77,800 per ton in 2000 dollars, more than 120 times the comparable figure for truck transportation. Using this estimate and the estimated 2006 cargo voiurne, Willow Run is currently handling more than $4 billion worth of cargo annually, according to the U-M-Dearborn study.

Expansion of the airport's facilities would generate additional economic impact from construction expenditures immediately, and would increase the value of the infrastructure at Willow Run in the long run. This expansion can contribute to the development of proposed "aerotropolis," an area of economic development surrounding Willow Run and Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport.

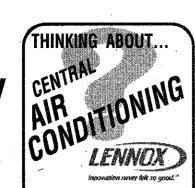

While our report quantifies the measurable direct effect of Willow Run Airport, the airport's most crucial value to the region lies in its ability to attract future businesses that produce high-value products that must be shipped by air," Redding said. "Air cargo represents a growing portion of the freight transportation industry. Further, goods transported by air are disproportionately highvalue items and ones in which American business excels." Willow Run is best known as a cargo airport, but more than 210,000 passengers arrived at the airport in 2006 on charter, corporate and private aircraft. The U-M-Dearborn study calculated the aggregate economic impact of those passengers, in addition to the value of freight shipments. A substantial fraction of Willow Run's passenger traffic is associated with Pfizer, so the number of passengers and their economic impact is likely to drop in the coming years as Pfizer closes its Ann Arbor-area facility, Redding notes. "Such challenges reinforce the necessity of having the transportation infrastructure necessary to create and attract profitable business opportunities," he said. Last July, UM-Dearborn released a similar study measuring Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport (DTW) and concluded that activity there stimulated more than 71,000 jobs across the State of Michigan and an annual economic impact of $7.6 billion.

A complete report of the study findings is available at www. metroairport.com.

Falcons ground young Chargers in regional, 9-3

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

After winning three consecutive one-run games en route to its first district baseball title since 1999, Livonia Churchill came down to earth Saturday in the Division 1 regional semifinals at Novi.

The Chargers faced a highly-formidable opponent in Farmington High, losing 9-3 to the Faicons.

Churchill ended its season 17-18 overall, while the Falcons improved to 27-9 overall (following a 4-3 triumph over Allen Park in the championship game).

Burny Mitchem was nearly a one-man wrecking crew for Farmington, doubling twice and knocking in four runs for the Falcons. The 6-foot-5 Mitchem was also the winning pitcher, scattering six hits and one walk over the first five innings before giving way to reliever Cam Fowler. The two pitchers combined for six strikeouts.

Farmington jumped out to a 3-0 lead after two innings against Churchill starter Vinny Carozza, the hero in the Churchill's district conquest the previous weekend at Livonia Stevenson.

In the first, Harvey Martin singled and Ed Knobloch reached base on an error. Phil Sontag followed with an RBI double for a 1-0 advantage.

In the second, Matt Pochmara drew lead-off walk and D.J. Vandercook followed with a single. Jordan Turner then singled home Pochmara as pinch-runner Matt Gunsorek was cut down at the plate on a throw by Churchill left fielder Brian Runge.

Turner then scored on a double by Martin.

Churchill got a run back in the top of the third inning on singles by Tyler Cotter and Bryon Niemczak followed by a Farmington infield error.

The Falcons made it 4-1 in the bottom half of the third when Sontag was hit by Carozza pitch to lead off the inning followed by Mitchem's double.

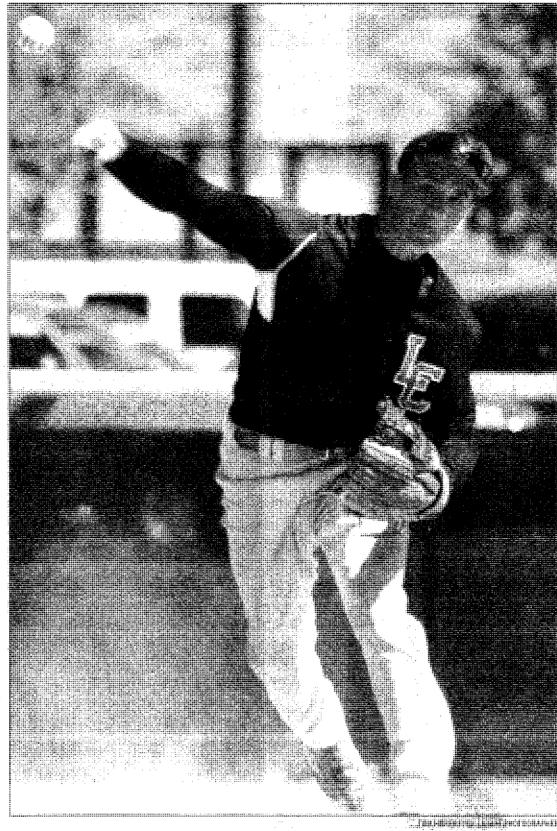

Mike O'Keefe's RBI single scored Steve Jones in the top of the fourth to cut the deficit to 4-2, but Farmington broke it open with four runs in the fifth, the big blow a bases-loaded double by Mitchem that cleared the bases. The Falcons added another run on a Churchill infield error.

"Burny's been coming around, he's been swinging the bat better," Farmington coach Pete Finn said. "That double he had was huge."

After Churchill tallied an unearned run in the sixth when Matt Luneack's groundout scored John Rodeman, but Farmington answered with a run in bottom of the sixth on an RBI double by Dan Pochmara, bringing pinch-runner Kirk Tomski home.

"I'm not happy about losing, but I'm happy with how hard we played," Churchill coach Ron Targosz said. "Our guys battled well against Mitchem. They put the ball in play and I thought we

Glenn's Wood leaves with 13 letters

Jim Wood won the Rockets' track and field Ironman Award as a senior and also took the Coaches Award twice.

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

In this era of specialization in high school sports, Westland John Glenn's Jim.Wood is an anomaly.

The senior, who recently graduated with honors with a 3.3 grade-point average, holds a distinction that hasn't been matched in recent memory or may not be duplicated any time soon.

Wood earned a total of 12 varsity letters in three different sports - golf, wrestling and track - along with an academic letter, giving him a grand total of 13.

And reflecting back on his four years, Wood wouldn't have had it any other way.

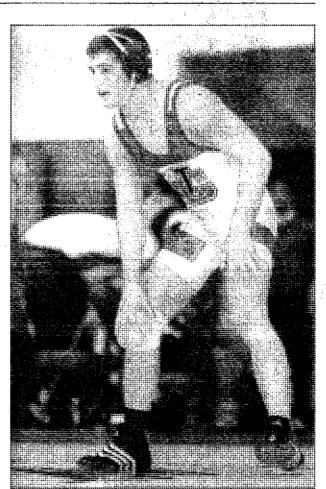

"The saddest thing I'll miss is competing for my school and my community," said Wood, who will study occupational therapy beginning in the fall at Oakland University. "It was a great experience and I had the time of my life being part of three different teams and meeting all the different people. I was glad I was able to do all three and not have to select just one (sport). It gave me a variety."

In wrestling, Wood never missed a practice or a match in four years. He was a two-time state qualifier and holds the Rockets' career mark for falls with 96. He also ranks second in career wins only behind Rece Cox.

"Wrestling is real tough," Wood said. "As a junior I was happy to go to the Palace (of Auburn Hills). This year there was a lot of pressure to qualify again. It was not easy at all making weight (at 140 pounds), but I was really happy go again and try and place. I lost my third match and it was a little disappointing (not placing), but it was great to go again and it was a great experience."

Boxer Roy Jones Jr. headlines Demolition game

The Detroit Demolition hopes to pack another punch beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Stevenson when it tackles the Kansas Storm in Independent Women's Football League action.

Champion boxer Roy Jones, Jr. will also make a special guest appearance and sign autographs.

Following a 24-22 loss the week before to the host D.C. Divas where they committed six turnovers, the Demolition improved to 5-1 in the IWFL rolling to a 69-0 victory last Saturday over the host Iowa Crush.

Bridget Porter was inserted into the lineup as the starting quarterback and contributed 250 yards in total offense and five touchdowns. She also had punt returns of 38 and 36 yards for TDs and runs of 1, 25 and 55 yards for scores. At cornerback, her natural position, she made several tackles, batted away a few passes and had an interception.

"I was just going to do anything I could to help this team win the game and keep our championship drive going," Porter said. "But I have to admit that it was great for the team to be running on all cylinders and have a good game.

Linebacker Nefertiti moved to running back and finished with 90 yards rushing. Starting running back Kiana Dennis returned to action in the fourth quarter and responded with 110 yards rushing, including TD runs of 32 and 47 yards. She also played cornerback.

Kim Grodus, who started every game since the team's inception since 2002, rotated at QB with Porter and finished with a TD run and a 19-yard TD strike to wide receiver Kristine Vidojevski.

Coming off their first regular season loss in five years, coach Tony Blakenship made some personnel changes.

"I knew that I need to shake a few things up and let the players know that we have a high standard of play her and lot of talented players that can perform at any position," he said. "This was also a message of commitment. I want total commitment by the players and coaches to this team everywhere, as much on the practice field as in the game."

The defense was dominating led by linebacker Misty Findlay, who led the way with 10 tackles, including two for loss. She also made all seven extra points and her deep kickoffs kept the 1-5 Crush pinned in their own territory.

Kim Walters contributed eight tackles and a sack, while defensive back Teresa Stuck lived up to her name with some jarring tackles.

Kansas City, a playoff team from the Mid-South Division, brings a 4-1 record into Saturday's matchup as the Demolition makes its quest for a fifth national title.

The highlight of Wood's senior wrestling season was winning the district crown in his final match at home. As a junior he teamed up with his brother David, a 2006 Glenn grad (now at Western Michigan University) who wrestled (and also played soccer for the Rockets).

"He (David) was my drill partner, it was real cool to be able to be on the same team,"

In middle school, Jim ran track and wrestled, but he also acquired a taste and a passion for golf.

He put up modest numbers during his career at Glenn shooting a personal best 39 for nine holes at The Woodlands of Van Buren and an 84 for 18. Last fall he aced the par-3, No. 8 hole with playing with his team at The Woodlands, Glenn's home course.

Golf is something he can play and enjoy the rest of his life.

Prior to his junior year, Wood took a job at The Woodlands as a ranger, starter and cart attendant. He will spend this summer there as well.

"I like to play golf and I've met a lot of great people," Wood said. "I've gotten a lot of great advice. You work outside and the golf is for free. You can't beat it. Working at the golf course is nice. It was the perfect setup for the season. It was a nice benefit because I could play throughout the summer."

One of Jim Wood's favorite sports is golf. He was a four-year letter winner for the Rockets.

While some train yearround in their chosen sport, Wood always looked forward to the high school golf season.

"Wrestling is more intense and I enjoyed the competition," he said. "I went to summer (wrestling) camps, but golf actually gave me a break from wrestling. It gave me a rest from the other ones."

In track, Wood set Glenn's freshman record in the 800meter run. And throughout his four-year career he became a reliable and dependable scorer for the Rockets.

"He's one you don't find around much more," Glenn track coach Jess Shough said. 'Whatever you'll ask him to do, he'll do. He's been that way all four years. The first two years he won our Coaches Award. He wasn't our highest scorer, but he's the kind of kid you want to have around all the time. He's been amazing, very dependable.'

Wood also could be just as competitive on the track as he was on the wrestling mat.

"He never wanted to lose," Shough said. "He's got a wrestler's build and every year he got stronger and more muscular. We had him try and relax his arms so when he makes a move, he was confident that he could go after somebody."

Wood also had a Cal Ripken-like streak going for the Rockets on the track, winning the team's Ironman Award.

"He never missed a team activity, a practice or a meet," Shough said. "When he got up at the banquet and spoke, he was really sincere. It tore me up. I'll miss him a lot."

Wood plans to do club wrestling at OU and remain fit.

"I've thought about running a marathon, I'll be in shape when I'm older," he said. "I'll be around sports, either refereeing or coaching."

And to nobody's surprise, Jim comes from an athletic family.

His father John, a recently retired teacher from the Wayne-Westland Schools, played football, wrestled and played baseball in high school. His older sister Mary, 23, swam for the Rockets. And mother Marilyn, a teacher in the Romulus schools, was always there cheering her children on.

"They've been great, her and my dad are the best," Jim said. "They go to all the events, whether it's the booster club meetings or whatever. I couldn't ask for better parents. They've supported me 100 percent."

If Jim Wood would have been allowed to play a fourth sport, he didn't hesitate in saying which one he would have explored.

I really wanted to play football," he said. "It would have been a lot of fun. Looking back I would have loved to play - maybe as a defensive back. I wish I would have done that. But I also love playing golf and maybe I would have had some injury in football that would have stopped me from wrestling."

High school wrestling is demanding as any, and Wood never missed a practice or meet in four seasons.

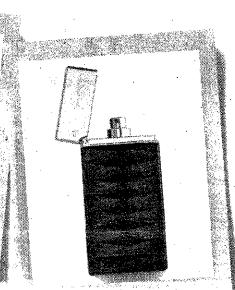

"I've had some minor aches and pains, but no serious injuries," Wood said. "I just eat right and have been able to stay healthy."

And this era of specialization, Wood is truly something special.

Rams gain 2 victories in Livonia Collegiate

The 20-and-under Michigan Rams took two-of-three during the weekend in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

On Sunday, the Rams split a doubleheader at Ford Field with the 22-and-under Michigan Bulls, winning the opener, 8-1, before losing the nightcap, 2-1.

On Friday, the Rams edged the 22-and-under Detroit Eagles, 5-4.

RU postseason ends with thud

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

This wasn't the way it was supposed to end for a 27win team just coming off its fifth district title in school history.

But Redford Union's baseball season went up in flames Saturday as Allen Park took five innings to mercy the Panthers, 12-0, in the Division 1 regional semifinals neid at Novi High School.

"Allen Park is a legitimate team, but I think we played scared for whatever reason.' said RU coach Mike Taylor, whose team finished 27-7 overall. "I don't know if it was the stage we were on, or the crowd, but I could tell something just wasn't right just by the infield error we made."

To make matters worse, RU ace Toby Matchulat, drafted in

round just a day earlier by the Detroit Tigers, had his worst outing of the year. The Jaguars led 2-0 after one inning on a two-run single by A.J. Webb. Allen Park added six more in the second, three in the third and one in the fourth. Adam Bortolussi contributed a two-run single, while Anthony Savone also added an RBI single.

Control issues did in the lanky 6-foot-5 Matchulat. The senior right-hander gave up six walks and a couple of scratch hits before being pulled in the second innning in favor of reliever Chris Gazley.

"We kind of go as he goes," Taylor said of Matchulat. "When he's on, we're on. In 43 innings this year he had 68 strikeouts and only 15 walks, that's why it was so mysterious today. He couldn't get ahead in the count and it's tough to battle back with a lineup like that.

"I talked with Toby at practice (Friday) after the Tigers drafted him. He came in and we agreed to focus on Allen Park. But the bottom line is that he just didn't have it today and Allen Park was able to capitalize.

Webb, a Michigan State signee, did not allow a hit in five innings. The Jaguar senior right-hander struck out eight and walked only one in getting credit for the abbreviated no-hitter.

did a pretty good job. We did not give up. We played hard right until the end."

Carozza, the crafty lefthander, worked the first four innings before giving way to reliever Bryon Niemczak. Carozza gave up nine hits, walked two and hit two batters. Seven of the eight runs were earned.

"Vinny averages less than a walk per game," Targosz said.
"To walk the lead-off man like he did (in the second and fourth innings) was uncharacteristic. He usually makes them put the ball in play, but they scored runs off those

Churchill, coming off an 8-1 loss just prior to the pre-districts against Farmington, finished with six hits. The Falcons had a total of 10 hits.

"They're tough," Farmington coach Pete Finn said of Churchill. "For a 17-17 team you wouldn't think they'd be that good, but they got a lot of young kids. They figured they could win and they made Burny work.

"We had some miscues, but we turned the ball well at second base and the catcher's throws were good."

While Farmington stayed alive in the tournament, Churchill can look forward to next year. The Chargers graduate just four seniors.

"Obviously we wanted to win," Targosz said, "But it was a good experience and it will give us something going into next year."

Regina bats too much for Mercy in D-1 quarterfinal

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

It's bad enough that Harper Woods Regina has become a thorn in Farmington Hills Mercy's side during the Catholic League girls softball season.

But the Saddlelites have become major obstacle for everybody and anybody once the Division 1 state tournament commences.

The three-time defending state champions defeated Mercy for the fourth time in five meetings this season with a convincing 7-2 victory Tuesday over the Marlins in a quarterfinal matchup Tuesday at Carleton-Airport High School.

Regina, 36-5 overall, moves Friday to Battle Creek's Bailey Park to take on 26-13 Hudsonville in a semifinal game.

"The first four games mean nothing," Regina coach Diane Laffey said. "We came back and hit today. These kids have so much heart. They don't want to lose. They don't quit and they just battle. They don't want to be the team that doesn't go (to Battle Creek) even though we have three sophomores and one freshman in the starting lineup."

Mercy, gunning for its first semifinal berth since 2003, ends its season at 27-12 overall.

"When we first stated, we patterned our program after Regina," Mercy coach Jack Falvo said. "You have to compliment them for their grit and their gamesmanship. (Diane) they step into the box, they're not going to be cheated up there. Regina knows how to win. We're a young team and I think we'll learn from us."

Mercy started senior Amanda Hall on the mound and she was nicked up for a run in top of the first inning when Cory DeLamielleure tripled and scored on pitcher Kristen Gulock's two-out single.

Falvo then decided to switch pitchers, going with Kathleen Howard to start the second inning. Howard had missed the district after a bout with mononucleosis, but returned in a relievers' role during last weekend's regional conquest at Novi.

"You did not know where a strike was going to be called," Falvo said. "She (Hall) became frustrated by the inconsistent zone of balls and strikes. With the way things went, we had to go to with somebody else."

Howard set the Saddlelites down in order in the second inning and Mercy responded with two runs in the top of third to take a 2-1 lead.

Alison Allen hit a one-out single and took second on a stolen base. She moved to third on Brittany Stallworth's sacrifice bunt and scored on a Regina infield error off the bat of Ellen Panetta, who later scored on Missy Chomin's RBI single.

But Chomin's single was the last hit Mercy would collect over the final four innings as Gulock (five innings) and Erin Giannotta combined on a three-hitter.

Regina answered with a run in the third when Jessica Rak led off with a single. She took second on a sacrifice bunt by Paige Shields and scored on Tara LaMilza's RBI single.

After both teams failed to score in the fourth and Gulock set down the Marlins in order in the top of the fifth, Regina exploded for five runs in the bottom half of the fifth sending nine batters to the plate.

Shields led off with a single and LaMilza reached base safely on a bunt that was mishandled at home. After Howard struck out DeLamielleure, Gulock laid down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt to bring home Shields with the go-ahead and ultimately the game-winning run.

"We tried it (the suicide squeeze) against (Detroit) Cass Tech (in the regional) and it didn't work," Laffey said. "We had one of our best hitters up (Gulock) and Paige (Shields) is a good base runner. I gave it (the sign) to her (Gulock) on the second pitch and she knew right away. I knew we had the right people (in this situation)."

Hannah Sabol followed with a two-run triple followed by back-to-back RBI singles by Jourdan Heythaler and Mary Manuszak to give Regina a commanding five-run cushion.

"We were ready for it, we went with the rise pitch, but they just executed it flaw-lessly," Mercy coach Jack Falvo said of Gulock's suicide squeeze bunt. "We were prepared. We did everything we were supposed do."

Giannotta then came on in the sixth inning and retired six of the eight batters she faced. Hannah Atkinson was hit by a pitch in the sixth and Allen drew a walk in the seventh.

"We have Kristen (Gulock) go the first four of five innings," Laffey said. "She's more of a finesse pitcher and she moves the ball around the plate, while 'G' (Giannotta) is a power pitcher and gives them a different look. It's worked for us and our two pitchers are fine with it. It's all about the team with those two."

Howard, the losing pitcher, gave up seven of Regina's nine hits. She struck out four and did not allow a walk in five innings.

"We needed our first pitcher (Hall) to go two or three innings on a hot day because Kathleen was coming off and illness and she was not as game ready," Falvo said. "I'll give the ball to Kathleen any time. She's a true champion, and if it's OK to say this, 'She's a warrior.' She's a gamer, one of our top players. If not for her, our team wouldn't be here. She's been a fantastic leader and has done a great job of nurturing the other players. She's been fantastic.

Despite losing his starting battery, Falvo returns the rest of his starting lineup for 2008.

"That's youth," the Mercy coach said. "We're pretty young. Only Kathleen (Howard), Amanda (Hall) and our senior catcher (Chomin) won't return. I'm very optimistic about next year."

Pace of Play

LESSON ON GOLF

By Jeff Lesson

Each year at this time with the beautiful weather and perfect golf conditions the courses tend to get a bit crowded. This is especially true on weekend mornings. And when the crowds go up, the pace of play often goes down -sometimes significantly.

AND GET THE BEST VALUE IN GOLF!

Whatever happened to the four hour round of golf? Isn't the game a lot more fun when you do not have to wait five minutes to hit a shot? Even with the crowds, there is a way to speed up the pace of play.

It is called "ready golf". A concept that has long been advocated by the Golf Association of Michigan. It means being ready to hit your shot when it is your turn. Sounds simple doesn't it? It means getting ready to hit your next shot while your partners are hitting or walking to theirs. In other words, do not wait until your partner has hit his or her shot before you walk to yours (so long as you are not in the line of fire). You should also have figured out your yardage and club selection all before it is your turn to hit.

Continuous putting is the next thing we should do. That means putting out, and forgetting about who is away. Sure, there are times when you might want to wait to get a read from someone behind you. But outside of that, this will help you save time.

Jeff Lesson is a WWJ Sports Anchor/Reporter and host of the award winning feature "Lesson on Golf" on WWJ Newsradio 950 weekend mornings at 5:45, 6:45, 7:45 and 8:45 AND every Saturday morning 7-8 am on 1270 XYT The Sports Station. Don't forget to check out lessonongolf.com for half off golf at great courses!

Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from. the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzlel receptive industry. One of the best ways to determine which one might qualify is to look at its staffing level. Rikka Brandon, director of search firm Building Resources in Fargo, N.D., reports that 16 percent of jobs are going begging in the building industry. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, that means about 1.12 million of them, which makes employers more than willing to consider career-changers. Robert Freck, plant manager and director of Operations at JMW Truss L.L.C., in Yuma, Ariz., changed careers at 40, 52 and 54. He moved first from general plant management into semiconductor consulting, then into building and construction (window and door) and, finally, into the wood industry's trusses and wall panels. Brandon points out that this last is, indeed, a career change: "The building industry is so large that one person could go from flooring to windows. These are very different but fall under building materials." She estimates that four percent of candidates come from completely outside of the industry from such fields as high technology --"programmers and web designers who want to swing a hammer instead of type

on a keyboard" -- and "banking and finance people who are very professional, very white collar and want to sell or do project management and estimating.'

George Nash, general manager at the Building Products Division of Ensigner Industries Inc., in Grenloch, N.J., careerchanged for the first time at 59 from windows and doors to products that improve thermal insulation in aluminum windows and doors. "This is a totally different product with a totally different company," he states with a lingering Scottish brogue.

TAKING CHARGE

Did they pull out Grecian formula to create a youthful look? The issue of age discrimination never arose. "In more senior positions," Freck says, "they want a breath of experience. Experience comes with age. They wanted me because I brought a larger world view and had the experience in other businesses to bring in new ideas." Nash didn't even think about it. "There's such a loss of expertise with early-retired baby boomers," he remarks, "that a lot of organizations are having to turn to older workers.'

If they were passive over that issue, these two men weren't once on the job. For Freck, the challenge was to work in an environment lacking a systems structure for engineering, tracking and quality. That's one of the reasons he was brought on board. Nash faced a similar challenge -- to learn both the product and gain understanding of the marketplace. Because the New Jersey division of Ensinger is a relatively small part of a German company with 3,000 employees worldwide, he had a lot of work to do. He went to Germany to fill the learning gap as quickly as possible. Nash observes that many companies don't recognize that a senior person may require six months to get up to speed, and if they do recognize it, may not accept

Freck is enjoying the fact that his company is making a name for itself in systems development. His challenge was to learn the business as he went along. "People here know things backwards and forwards," he comments. "They're technically brilliant, in many cases," but despite sophistication in their work, many lack the computer skills to use e-mail. He also had to learn to work comfortably with people who aren't like him. He'd worked around college-educated, analytical employees previously and was now confronted with graduates of the School of Hard Knox. If anything, he was the oddball who learned to adjust to the different personalities and skill sets he encountered. He was also challenged by the stage of continuous improvement programs. "I call it my sandbox -- we're in Yuma, and we get quite a bit," he quips. "I can start over at the beginning. It's interesting and exciting for me." He just wishes that the industry would gain ground to maximize the increased productivity and capacity the company is

If they were to do it over, Freck would understand that "we need to learn as much as we have to teach, and that a lot of people don't want to share (their knowledge)." Nash would career-change earlier, not wait until semi-retirement. "When you're younger," he says, "you may have more tolerance for the inertia (of upper management politics). Then you say to yourself, Well, I have X years to rectify this.' At my age, I've got five."
