Police crackdown aims at drunken drivers

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Westland police today will launch a special initiative aimed at catching drunken drivers and rounding up violators who have warrants for alcohol-related tickets they've ignored. The latest offensive, part of the national You Drink, You Drive, You Lose campaign, will continue through Labor Day, police Sgt. Ron Kroll said Wednesday. Police officials will double the number of officers — from two to four — assigned to patrol city streets to watch specifically for motorists who drive drunk. "There's no specific area they'll be watching," Kroll said. "They'll be patrolling the entire city." Other officers also will watch for drunken drivers as part of their general duties of patrolling city streets to combat crime. Special emphasis will be placed on the hours of 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. The latest initiative will be paid by federal dollars filtered through the Michigan Office of Highway Safety.

Aside from nabbing drunken drivers, officers also will be arresting motorists wanted on warrants for ignoring earlier alcohol-related tickets. Kroll said he has a list of hundreds of violators. Local officers will mostly focus on arresting drivers here and in neighboring communities. "We're going to stick mainly to the Westland, Garden City and Wayne area," Kroll said. Chris Raymond, chief probation officer for Westland 18th District Court, lauded the latest offensive. "I think it's an excellent program," he said.

"We do not want the burden for public safety to fall on the taxpayers. The people who commit the crimes should be the ones who pay the costs for law enforcement." By arresting drivers for outstanding warrants, Raymond said revenues can be brought in to help pay for public safety while also warning motorists against driving drunk. "It's cost-effective," he said, "and it's also sending a message." dclcm@hometownlife.com | (734) 953-2110

Margot McCormack of Westland pulls piles of ragweed out as she weeds the grow zone along a drainage way on the northern edge of Central City Park.

Naturescapers keep grow zone alive

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

It was day to get dirty and that's what the Rouge Friendly Naturescapers of Westland did last week, pulling weeds and vines from a grow zone along a drainage area at the eastern edge of Central City Park.

"We're happy to be here," said Lillian Dean, Rouge education consultant for the city of Westland. Originally planted by fourth-graders from two Wayne-Westland schools in the spring of 2006, the grow zone had been off-limits to tender loving care since January, when the park was fenced off amid concerns about lead contamination. The fencing was moved in June to accommodate the annual Westland Summer Festival, providing access to the grow zone. John Barile, an expert plant specialist, lead gardener Margot McCormack,

Disabled challenge use of roundabouts in federal lawsuit

BY SARA CALLENDER
STAFF WRITER

Oakland County has no plans to stop construction of roundabouts despite a lawsuit filed Tuesday by three disabled citizens, including a Westland man. "The bottom line is they save people's lives," said Craig Bryson, spokesperson for the Road Commission for Oakland County. "Safety for pedestrians and drivers is the single biggest benefit of roundabouts." Farmington Hills Attorney Richard Bernstein filed the lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Detroit, seeking an end to what he claims is a failure to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act. Bernstein said the roundabouts under construction in West Bloomfield as part of the Northwestern Connector lack a safe mechanism for blind and disabled pedestrians to cross local roads. The three plaintiffs filing the lawsuit are: Garret Gersin, 18, of Oak Park; Jason Turkish, 20, of Huntington Woods and Westland resident Michael Harris, a military veteran who uses a wheelchair and is deeply concerned about the proliferation of "roundabouts" across Michigan and the nation. "There are going to be a bunch (of roundabouts) built here," Turkish said. "We are trying to be proactive and set a precedent. We want these to be accessible to everyone." The lawsuit seeks an injunction to either halt construction or improve the design to include safe mechanisms for the disabled to cross at roundabouts. Three possibilities suggested by Bernstein are: ■ Build a pedestrian bridge ■ Build a pedestrian tunnel ■ Install traffic signals. Bryson said the roundabouts were designed according to requirements of the Federal Highway Administration.

Modern traffic circles do not have signals. Pedestrians must wait until traffic clears before crossing.

The design standards dictate proper location and angles for crosswalks and the RCOO complied with those requirements, said Bryson. According to the FHA roundabouts reduce pedestrian fatalities by 90 percent. The roundabout at Maple and Drake is expected to open sometime during the week of Labor Day. Then construction of the second roundabout at Maple and Farmington will begin. "We're going to keep working until the judge tells us to stop," said Bryson. According to the FHA, there are an estimated 40,000 modern roundabouts worldwide, and more than 200 have been constructed in the United States. Most of these have been built within the last 5 years. A roundabout was constructed several years ago between Stoney Creek High School and Hart Middle School in the Rochester School District. District spokeswoman Debra Hartman said there have been no incidents with pedestrians since the roundabout at Tienken and Sheldon roads opened. "(The roundabout) was built to alleviate traffic in that area because it was quite congest-

Carnival raises money to fight slavery

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Youngsters involved in a Westland church's youth group have spent much of their summer tackling a weighty issue — slavery. Their efforts at St. John's Episcopal Church will culminate Sunday with a special carnival aimed at raising money and drawing attention to the world problem of slavery. Youth group leader Jessica Clark, 22, learned how widespread the problem of slavery is after her Adrian College chapter of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority became involved in the international, anti-slavery Not For Sale campaign. Clark, a senior majoring in Japanese studies and theater, brought the issue back to her church at 555 S. Wayne Road at Bayview. The youth group she oversees enthusiastically took up the anti-slavery cause. "Out of 27 million slaves in the world, 13 million of them are children, so it really is a child's cause," Clark said Wednesday. Even in the United States, even in suburban communities, some guardians have forced children to drop out of school and to serve as slaves, Clark said. Sometimes, she said, the problem involves sexual abuse. Clark had to carefully teach her youth group, ages 8 to 16, about the problem of slavery. She consulted church leaders to determine what was appropriate — and what was too graphic — for the children. As a result, the youth group has organized a Not For Sale carnival from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday at the church. The event will help raise money for the International Justice Mission, which fights slavery and other issues of oppression.

"Every single penny we raise is going toward the International Justice Mission," Clark said. The carnival will include a taco bar by Qdoba Mexican Grill, music and entertainment, a moon walk, a pie-throwing contest, a cake walk, Emagine Theater passes, T-shirts, a dunk tank and many more activities. Despite all the fun, the carnival will have a sobering message about slavery, with youngsters passing out fliers and engaging carnival-goers in conversations to teach them about the problem, Clark said. She urged anyone who wants more information to go online to the Not For Sale campaign at www.notforsale.org or to the International Justice Mission's Web site at www.ijm.org.

Rivera honored for efforts to bridge Detroit's divide

BY ALEX LUNDBERG
STAFF WRITER

Oswaldo "Ozzie" Rivera has been working his entire career to bring people together across the gulfs of race, economics and ethnicity. He was honored for his work recently by New Detroit at its annual Closing the Gap awards dinner in June.

Rivera is the director of multicultural affairs at Madonna University and is in charge of developing programs that bring people of diverse backgrounds together. He's been active for a very long time. In 1976 he founded the Youth Activities Center to meet the needs of Latino youth through recreation, cultural activities and education. He was also the president of Latino Family Services, which worked to bring the communities of southwest Detroit together focused on AIDS, mental health and organizing youth.

He was also a cultural figure as the Latin-Caribbean musical host of "Caribe Serenade" for 15 years on WDTR. As a member of New Detroit's Cultural Exchange Network, he helps plan the organization's multicultural leadership programs as well as the annual Concert of Colors.

New Detroit President and CEO Shirley Stancato said Rivera was chosen for his long association with causes and organizations trying to bridge the racial divide in metro Detroit.

"He has dedicated his personal and professional life to opening doors and getting people of all colors to work together," she said. "Throughout his entire career he's brought people together and shown that one person can make a difference."

Rivera won the award as an individual. Awards were also given out to organizational and corporate entities.

New Detroit also honored food relief organization Forgotten Harvest and DTE Energy with Closing the Gap awards this year.

SHIRLEY STANCATO, New Detroit President and CEO

Rivera said the big problem in the metro Detroit area is segregation, both economic and racial.

"There's a big disparity in economics," he said. "The fault lines are race, ethnicity, economic, educational and in housing."

He said the hardest part is getting the ball rolling. The problems he laid out are long-standing and a lot of people are convinced that there's no way to even get started. Almost worse, he said, is that a lot of people expect there to be a magic bullet.

"With music, you can start the discussion but it must be an ongoing discussion," Rivera said. "If people don't interact on a regular basis they'll never know what life for the other is like."

LPS meets curriculum changes with training

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

New elementary math program, a sixth-grade strings elective and revised graduation requirements are among many changes in the Livonia Public Schools curriculum this year.

To keep up, teachers will be busy learning on curriculum day Aug. 30, before kids even head back to school on Sept. 5.

Sheila Alles, director of academic services for the district, discussed some of the changes at Monday's school board subcommittee meeting on curriculum.

LPS adopted Everyday Math earlier this year for kindergarten through fourth grade. Teachers will get three and a half days of professional development training for it, and each school will have its own parent night to explain the curriculum, Alles said.

Upper elementary and middle school grades use Connected Math. The district received $219,000 in state funding to help improve fifth through eighth grade math scores. LPS has assigned a middle school math teacher to develop professional development sessions for teachers in this area.

Kindergarten reading and a vocabulary, spelling and word study in grades K-8 are other areas of focus in elementary schools this year, Alles said. On Sept. 8, 200 elementary teachers will attend a workshop to improve student writing.

Sixth-graders will have another option for music class. When they go back to school, students will be able to choose from band, vocal music or strings twice per week.

Last year, strings instruction was offered as an after-school club, "which was very successful," said Charlotte Worthen, director of instruction.

Across the district, 175 to 200 students participated, mostly at Riley and Cooper upper elementaries.

After taking another look at scheduling, LPS officials were able to add strings class at no cost to the district, she said.

In January, Franklin High School announced plans to offer the International Baccalaureate degree.

However, principal Dan Willenborg now reports that the district's application will be put on hold while more staff members attend training sessions.

"We're still pursuing it," he said.

Seven staff members must be trained in the program, which takes a different approach to teaching in order to develop "globally minded" thinkers and award a diploma recognized worldwide.

The International Baccalaureate Organization accepts applications in June and the district was not ready this year, Willenborg said.

As part of the application process, officials would visit Franklin to determine the school's eligibility. If approved, the program would be open to 25 juniors from across LPS beginning in the 2009-10 school year. It could be expanded from there.

Several students have inquired, Willenborg said.

"We've had several calls from throughout the LPS area about the selection criteria," he said. "There's some bona fide interest."

At a recent school board meeting, parent Brad Wolkan asked about adding Mandarin Chinese to the district's language offerings to help "keep ahead of the rest of the world and neighboring districts."

Alles said the district could look into that as an option. She wondered how many students would be interested.

Fourteen of 28 Oakland County school districts have agreed to implement a Chinese curriculum. Recently, South Lyon schools decided to phase out French in exchange for Mandarin.

NATURE

Dean and volunteer Pam DeLoye of Livonia quickly created waist-high piles of debris as they pulled weeds, revealing plants like purple coneflower, brown-eyed Susan, Joe-pye-weed, swamp milkweed and wild bergamot.

"It's a grow zone, but we'd like to think of it as a native garden," Dean said. "All the plants are nectar plants meant to attract butterflies."

The elementary students had planted more than 800 plants in the area that straddles the walking path and drainage area that separates Central City and Tattan parks. However, the Naturescapers had to replant much of the area after a dry summer killed off many of the plants.

"Nature abhors a vacuum," said Barile, using a small pitch fork to loosen the roots of the weeds. "I'm sure this is wild rye grass. It'll choke out everything. If it's wild rye, we didn't plant it."

Barile, who loves native landscaping and is interested in botany and native plants, worked his way through the garden removing the offensive weeds and pausing to identify this flower and that.

"We started with what we had and what we could grow

Naturescaper John Barile of Westland takes a close look at the unwanted plants that have cropped up in the grow zone, being careful not to pull out native plants.

in a garden," Dean said. "This is like what native wildflowers would have been before settlement. Westland was a prairie with some woodlands."

Stopping by to watch the work was reference librarian Janet Sowards, also a member of the Naturescapers. She got involved when the group was looking for volunteers.

"They need help planting and I thought it would be fun," she said. "Most of them are master gardeners."

Sowards is excited with a partnership between the city and the William P. Faust Library in presenting a program, "Native Wildflowers and Butterflies — Making the Connection in Westland," Wednesday, Aug. 22. The Naturescapers, a volunteer group sponsored by the city to care for the grow zone, is hosting the presentation.

"I've attended some of the programs in the past and enjoyed them, but it's really exciting to have a group so big at the library," Sowards said. With the grow zone now open to the Naturescapers, plans are to keep the area well-tended. Barile estimates every two weeks will do.

"A little maintenance will keep it looking nice, otherwise we'll lose track of what we want growing here," he said.

Dean hopes people will come by and look at the grow zone. It can give them ideas of what might look nice in their gardens.

"A bit of chance and experiment went into this," she said. "I hope people will catch the spirit and joy of having butterflies come to their native plants."

"The added bonus is it attracts gold finches and hummingbirds," Barile added.

Program connects gardeners, wildflowers

People interested in native wildflowers can learn more about them and about attracting butterflies to their home gardens at a program Wednesday, Aug. 22, at the William P. Faust Public Library.

Suzan Campbell, a naturalist with the Michigan Natural Features Inventory and former naturalist at the Belle Isle Nature Center, will talk about "Native Wildflowers and Butterflies — Making the Connection in Westland" at the 7 p.m. program.

Campbell will report on the local ecology of western Wayne County, the life cycle of butterflies and spotlight native wildflowers that can be easily grown in a home landscape to attract butterflies.

Vern Stephens of Designs by Nature will also hold a sale of native wildflowers and grasses 5:45-6:45 p.m.

Stephens grows native wildflowers from southern Michigan for sale at events like next Wednesday's presentation.

Participants also can view examples of native plants at the grow zone along the edge of Central City and Tattan parks on Carlson south of Ford.

The grow zone is being maintained by the city-sponsored volunteer Rouge Friendly Naturescapers of Westland, which is hosting the program. Members will be on hand at the presentation to provide planting instructions.

Native wildflowers benefit the Rouge River landscape in several ways.

The deep roots of prairie wildflowers encourage infiltration of stormwater, while the natural characteristics of the plants attract beneficial insects and reduce the need for pesticides.

While native wildflowers need some maintenance, they can be grown without synthetic fertilizers and pesticides.

The program is free to public, but seating is limited. Advance registration is required and can be done by calling the library at (734) 326-6123. The William P. Faust Library is at 6123 Central City Parkway, just north of Ford Road.

ROUNDBOUT

ed," Hartman said. "And it has worked. With anything new, there's a learning curve but we didn't have any problems."

A typical modern roundabout is an unsignalized intersection with a circular central island and a circulatory roadway around the island. Vehicles entering the roundabout yield to vehicles already on the circulatory roadway.

Motorists are also required to yield to pedestrians at crosswalks. But opponents of the roundabouts say it will still be difficult for pedestrians to cross without a signal.

"The best way to get a car to stop is to have a signal," plaintiff Michael Harris said. "In these roundabouts, there isn't that communication with drivers. Am I just supposed to roll my wheelchair out into traffic and cross my fingers?"

A stoplight that could be activated by a pedestrian pushing a button, suggested Harris, might be one solution.

However, Bryson feared that all pedestrians would use the buttons, defeating the continual flow of traffic.

B. Housing Rehab. (08-03) Fund loans, grants, and deferred loans to provide financing to complete programs listed under Item 05-02. Proposed funding could be used to assist (3) homeowners for General Rehabilitations and assist (10) homeowners with emergency repairs or barrier-free access improvements.	$108,150	A
C. Outreach Ordinance/Code Compliance Officer (08-09) The Building Department will locate a licensed building official at the Dorsey Community Center. This would provide daily access for residents and landlords to resolve health, safety and code compliance issues including securing and maintaining abandoned buildings. This position would also monitor senior and family apartment complexes, as well as group homes for code compliance; also, commercial structures located in distressed areas. This position reports directly to the Building Director.	$91,000	K

D. Neighborhood Resource/Code Compliance Officer (08-11)
This position in the Police Department will handle 50% code enforcement to remove illegal and junk vehicles as well as hazardous materials both individually and in support of an ordinance officer and a fire code inspector working with potentially violent situations in CDBG targeted neighborhoods. Areas focused upon will be schools, senior centers, commercial strips and high-density lower income housing units. The other 50% of the assigned duties will be to perform community policing in CDBG target areas, and work as a school liaison officer for schools also located in CDBG target areas ($35,000 code enforcement and $35,000 public service).

E. Reconstruction of Dorsey Road-Merriman to Venoy (08-12) Reconstruct 5,280 l.f. of existing paved Dorsey Road from Merriman Road to Venoy. Current Road is in unsafe condition and has become a danger to the health and safety of the Neighborhood Strategy Area. The total cost of this project is estimated to be $538,232 with the balance of the funds coming from other state and local sources	$185,813	D
F. HOME Rental Rehabilitation Program (Norwayne and Carver Subdivisions) (08-HM01) Funding to be used to continue existing HOME Rental Rehabilitation in targeted neighborhoods. Anticipate (5) projects with (14) dwelling units for renters at 60% of median income. Must bring entire unit up to the currently adopted 2000 Michigan Residential Code, both interior and exterior. Program provides 50% of total project cost up to a maximum of $14,999 per unit. Lead-based paint affected items which need to be repaired or replaced will have a 75% program participation. Owner provides the remaining project funds from non-government sources. Rents are restricted for a five-year period. No displacement of families permitted under program. Due to new HUD regulations for lead-based paint inspection and abatement in all federally assisted housing projects, anticipate a significant reduction of units participating and units completed; and an increased cost and time factor to complete all units beginning in fiscal 2007/2008. (CT 5685 and CT 5690)	$110,685	D, H, J

G. Set-Aside to Non-Profit Housing Organization (Peoples' Community Hope for Homes, Inc.) (PCHFH) (08-HM03)
Existing non-profit housing organization has been designated by the City of Westland to conduct affordable housing projects and programs to initiate a revitalization of the Carver Subdivision, a distressed residential neighborhood. Planned activities include in-fill housing on existing lots. Another program includes the acquisition, rehabilitation, and resale of homes that are currently vacant. No displacement of low income families will be permitted. PCHFH will use a 100% recapture of grant funds provision for properties sold before the end of the HOME affordability period. PCHFH has an approved Neighborhood Preservation Plan through the State of Michigan which will provide additional funding for the Carver Subdivision Revitalization for (2-3) new homes at Westshire Place. Administrative/operating costs will be allocated at $18,350 and the remaining funds, $140,527 must be used for project costs.

H. Liberty Hill Scattered Site Housing Project (08-HM04) Liberty Hill Housing Corporation is a non-profit, 501(C)(3) charitable corporation that leases homes to persons with developmental disabilities. The $58,845 in funding will be used to rehabilitate to code (10) single family homes located in the City of Westland and leased to people with special needs. This scattered site project involves major and minor rehabilitation including roof replacements, furnace replacements, upgraded bathrooms and kitchens, replacement of windows, walkways and driveways. The average age of each home is 39 years. If these structures are not rehabilitated in the near future, the health and safety of residents may be jeopardized. This money will be matched with other funding from both public and private sources.	$58,845	U

The reasons of such decision not to prepare such a Statement are as follows:

- A. Housing Rehabilitation Administration - Administrative activity only.
- B. Housing Rehabilitation - Code and health/safety repairs to existing structures only. No new construction.
- C. Outreach Ordinance/Code Compliance Officer - Reduce the amount of health and property code violations in distressed neighborhoods including both single family and rental apartments.
- D. Neighborhood Resource/Code Compliance Officer - Code enforcement, community policing and school liaison in CDBG target area.
- E. Reconstruction of Dorsey Road - Resurfacing of approximately one mile of existing road in CDBG target area. The project will not require tree removal or significant changes to existing area.
- F. HOME Rental Rehabilitation Program - Make code and health/safety repairs to repairs to existing rental structures only.
- G. Set Aside to Non-Profit (PCHFH) - Conduct affordable housing activities in a designated subdivision for a total of 1 - 2 new homes per year.
- H. Liberty Hill Scattered Site - Make code and health/safety repairs to five (5) existing group homes.

An Environmental Review Record documents the environmental review of the above projects and programs, and more fully sets forth the reasons why and Environmental Impact Statement is not required. The Environmental Review Records are on file and are available for public examination at the Office of Community Development Programs, Dorsey Community Center, 32715 Dorsey Road, Westland, MI. 48186 between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with the decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City of Westland to the office of the undersigned. Such written comments should be received at 32715 Dorsey Road, on or before August 31, 2007 at 5:00 p.m. All such comments received will be considered and the City will not request the release of federal funds or take administrative action on the projects prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

3. CERTIFICATION: The City of Westland will undertake the projects described above with Community Development Block Grant and HOME funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-387). The City of Westland is certifying to HUD that the City of Westland and Mayor William R. Wild, in his capacity as Mayor, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making and action, and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Westland may use the Community Development Block Grant and HOME funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is one of the following basis:

- a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer of the applicant or other officer of the city; or,
- b) That the applicant's Environmental Review Record for the project indicates an omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process.
- c) Other specific grounds cited in the HUD Regulations that can be found at 24 CFR Part 58.75.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to HUD at the 17th Floor, McNamara Federal Building, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, MI. 48226. Objections to the release of funds on the basis other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after September 20, 2007 at 5:00 p.m. will be considered by HUD.

Thongs fill the streets of downtown Plymouth for the annual Great Lakes Regional Chili Cook-off and Motorcycle Bike Show.

Heating things up

Cooks needed to spice up chili festival

Organizers of the 12th annual Great Lakes Regional Chili Cook-off and Motorcycle Bike Show are promising the food - and the action - will be hotter than ever when the competition returns to downtown Plymouth Sept. 30.

And they're looking for chili chefs to make it so. And, as usual, it's for a good cause: This year's event benefits Western Wayne County Habitat for Humanity.

The Chili Cook-off will feature a traditional Red Chili, a Green Chili and a Salsa competition. This portion of the cook-off is recognized by the International Chili Society (ICS) and will follow all ICS rules. The winners in each category will advance to the 2008 World Championship Chili cook-off next fall.

A fee is charged to participants wanting to try their best to create a winning pot-of-chili. Top winners receive trophies and prizes.

Chili samples will be available at 1 p.m. for a $1 donation per sample.

The GLR Chili Bike Show is a ride-in show with 17 different bike categories including Harley and non Harley classes. There is a $10 fee to enter a bike and all first place winners will receive a trophy with judges' choice winning cash prizes. The bike show takes place noon to 4 p.m. on Main Street at Kellogg Park.

The Chili Ride, in its second year, begins at MotorCity Harley Davidson in Farmington Hills and ends up in downtown Plymouth at the Chili Cook-off. A $10 fee gets participants VIP parking at the event on Ann Arbor Trail, plus $5 in 50/50 raffle tickets. Another ride is planned to begin at the BMW dealership on Ford Road for all BMW bikers.

The Restaurant Chili Challenge takes place 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. along Penniman and in Kellogg Park. More than 15 restaurants will be vying for the prize of "Best Chili in Plymouth" award. Spectators will be the judge of the best chili served by area restaurants. Bowls of chili will be available for a $4 donation, or they can be sampled for a $1 donation per two-ounce sample.

The event features live entertainment noon to 5 p.m., along with performances from dance teams, a children's activity area and the "Hottest Dog in the Coolest city" costume contest judging at 2 p.m.

Anyone interested in cooking in the Red/Green/Salsa or Restaurant Chili Challenge should contact Annette Horn at (734) 776-9669 or GLR chili @sbeglobal.net. Bike Show & Chili Ride inquiries should be directed to MotorCity Harley Davidson, (248) 473-7433 www.motorcityharley.com. Sponsorships and Vendor spaces are still available.

Speaker to offer stroll through history

The people who keep the light on Livonia's historic past are inviting garden enthusiasts to take a look through the history of gardening itself to see how attitudes have changed and how those attitudes are reflected in the gardens people plant.

Greenmead Historical Park will host garden historian Scott Kunst at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 21, at the Alexander Blue House for a discussion of American home landscapes and antique gardens centering around design changes from the first settlements in the early 1800s to the beginning of the Second World War.

"It will be a whirlwind race through American gardens," he said. "We'll be looking at relic features and plants that still are in use."

He said the way gardens are laid out are snapshots of the times they existed. Ideas about whether paths should be straight or curved, what kind of fencing they utilized, say something about the eras that created them.

"Right now people are interested in heirloom bulbs and wildflowers, which reflects concern about the environment," Kunst said. "The arrangement of gardens shows the difference in worldview and how people see their place in the world."

The event is free to the public but space is limited. To RSVP contact the Greenmead office at (248) 477-7375.

'No longer beginners'

Residents kick, chop way to yellow belts

BY SUE MASON

Every Tuesday morning at 10 a.m., a group of women gather to practice their moves. They swing their arms left to right and right to left. They chop at the air in front of them. They kick out their feet.

They do it under the watchful eye of Ron Rose, a tae kwan do grand master, who has spent the past eight months training them for their first test for a yellow belt.

"We come in once a week and they've done so well, we decided they needed to be promoted," Rose said. "They're no longer beginners, they're starting to learn technique."

But this isn't your usual group of white-uniformed, bare-footed students. This group of 12 ranges in age from 51 to almost 104. Many sit in wheelchairs. One student is missing a leg and has no use of one arm.

The group — Kathleen Langlais, 78; Cara Jefferson, 51; Margaret Heller, 83; Christine Johnson, 86; Yvette Wheeler, 96; Ruth Rudnik, 97; Margaret Booker, 104; Inez Perugia, 82; Veronica Frederick, 81; Emelia Levay, 95; Rose Salerno, 98; and Lydia Rice, 90 — are residents at the Four Seasons Nursing Center in Westland.

According to Four Seasons administrator Kathleen Hartwell-King, a tae kwan do student herself, the program came about as the result of demonstrations Rose did with his students. Some of the residents seemed to be getting into it, she said.

"It offers good range of motion and is good exercise," she said. "Now we do it as a permanent fitness program. They do slow-motion tae kwan do, even in their wheelchairs."

The women did warmup exercises, waving their arms, rotating their shoulders and working their wrists, before doing their blocks, high and low punches, chops and kicks in testing for the first of six levels of experience.

One by one, they broke boards with their hands and feet. Some did it twice for "Kodak moments."

"Whoop-de-do," Booker yelled when she broke her board.

"She really amazes me with her enthusiasm and what she's capable of doing," said Tamara Cook, activity assistant. "I have to laugh when she gets a call on her cell phone and tells them she has to call back because she's in her tae kwan do class. It's so cute."

Cook also was testing for her yellow belt. She started training with ladies at the center.

"It's motivated me to lose weight," Cook said, adding that Jefferson, who is waiting for a prosthetic, also was an inspiration. "What she does is really amazing."

Rose, who has owned Kicks Tae Kwan Do and Fitness Center in Wayne 30 years ago, brought along students Karen and Kevin Jiang, Cameron Wesley and his brothers Devoran and Dorian, as well as a very pregnant Jessica Beard, to do a demonstration for residents.

Cara Jefferson practices her chop on Ron Rose's hand before her successful try to break a board.

His son Eric also demonstrated breaking cement slabs. Even Rose's wife, Master Christine Rose, was there to help tests the group.

Jefferson also is Rose's "star pupil." Even with her disabilities, she was able to break boards with her hand and foot.

Rose took up tae kwan do in high school. Some friends were doing it and kept joking about him coming to the class. He did and "fell in love with it."

"I liked the competitive mind-ness and athleticism and it suited me," he said.

When not working with students at his studio and at the nursing center, he's preparing for his annual tournament Oct. 13 that attracts people from around the country.

He's also helping bring the junior tae kwan do olympics to Ford Field next July and preparing to serve as a referee with the U.S. team at the World University Games in Thailand.

But he enjoys his work with the Four Seasons residents.

"It's more than exercise, it seems to brighten their day," he said.

Former MDA ambassador had 'remarkable life'

BY ANNETTE KINGSBURY
STAFF WRITER

From a very early age, Christopher Rush made a big impression on everyone he met.

Born with spinal muscular atrophy, a disease that causes loss of motor neurons in the spinal cord and subsequent wasting of muscles, his charisma, humor and intelligence propelled him to a national role with the Muscular Dystrophy Association starting at the age of 3. As a young adult, he learned to scuba dive and received a law degree from the University of Michigan. He died Aug. 12 at his Ann Arbor home at the age of 30.

Known to his friends as Toph, Mr. Rush grew up in Rochester Hills and graduated from Adams High School. Using a power wheelchair to get around, he earned a 3.9 grade-point average as a U-M undergrad. At the time of his death, he was studying for the bar exam and planning to practice entertainment law with an emphasis on intellectual property.

His father, Richard Rush, said Christopher was only expected to live two years.

"He managed to fool the world by adding 29 years onto his expectancy," Richard Rush said. But there were plenty of challenges along the way.

"He had his fair share, some physical, some emotional," his father said. "He was brighter than most, clearly more articulate than most."

FAMOUS FRIENDS

Christopher got his start with the MDA at a local telethon, where he charmed local broadcaster Joe Glover.

"He was an extraordinarily articulate kid who was great looking," Richard Rush said. "The first thing he asked Joe was, 'Do you like knock-knock jokes?' ... Joe thought he was such a remarkable personality that he asked him to maintain a fairly high profile."

Glover remains a family friend, as does entertainer Tony Orlando, one of many celebrities Christopher met through his involvement with MDA. During his tenure as goodwill ambassador, he appeared on major television talk shows and mingled with the likes of President Ronald Reagan, with whom he exchanged jelly beans at the White House.

"His fund-raising events were second to none," Richard Rush said. "It was the first time the metro market was able to do over $2 million."

MDA spokesman Bob Mackle issued a statement from national chairman Jerry Lewis, who recalled Mr. Rush as extraordinarily outgoing and witty.

"He was a friend to everyone he came in contact with," Lewis said. "He was a true inspiration and just a lot of fun to be around."

'MANY CONTRIBUTIONS'

In his teens, Rush became the first known person with a neuromuscular disease to become a certified scuba diver. A TV crew even accompanied him on a diving trip to the Cayman Islands.

"He did everything he cherished doing," his father said.

Longtime neighbor Connie Szurek of Rochester Hills said his outlook, and his parents, were his great assets.

"What made him so special is that to Chris, every day was a fabulous day. That is just really how he was," she said. "He never looked at his disability as a disability. They were maybe just a small obstacle in the way. Everything he did he did just wonderfully. ..."

"This kid went to law school and his mom went with him every day and sat outside the classroom. ... This is exceptional parents. This young man really, really was cherished and loved every single day of his life."

Christopher Rush is survived by his parents, Richard and Dorie, who now live in Ann Arbor; a sister, Julie, and a grandmother, Vivian Taylor.

A funeral service was scheduled for this morning (Thursday) in Ann Arbor.

Memorial contributions may be made to the MDA or Paws for a Cause.

"He had a remarkable life and made many contributions along the way," his father said. "Our sorrow is for his passing because it will be our loss to deal with."

Producers look for movie music

Anthony Vallone and Sara Stepnicka of ValloNicka Films in Garden City are looking for music from Detroit artists for Sometimes in Life, a new feature film that is currently in post-production.

"There's a reason why Detroit is one of the world's music capitals," said Vallone, the director/co-producer. "We have a lot of amazing talent here, so it was only natural to dive into our local scene to showcase some fantastic bands in our upcoming film."

Sometimes in Life is the story of two unlikely friends whose lives are stuck in a rut. Jill is convinced that her lesbian girlfriend is cheating on her and Rob can't seem to pick himself up after the loss of his father.

For the music in Sometimes in Life, Vallone and Stepnicka are especially interested in funk/soul tunes, quirky rock tunes a la Modest Mouse and acoustic guitar/piano pieces with male vocals. Presley, The Bloods and The Cetan Clawson Revolution are among the bands whose music will be in the film.

To submit music for consideration, e-mail a myspace link or Web link (no MP3 files or attachments) to info@sometimesinlifethemovie.com. The deadline is Aug. 26.

To see the trailer and learn more about the film, go online to www.sometimesinlifethemovie.com or www.myspace.com/vallonickafilms.

Campaign aims to make elderly drivers safer

Unlike a pair of shoes or gloves, most drivers don't give much thought about how well their vehicle "fits" them, which is a concern, according to Michigan Secretary of State Terri Lynn Land and AAA Michigan. That is why the Department of State has teamed up with AAA Michigan to promote CarFit, a traffic safety campaign offered at no cost to state residents. CarFit, which was developed through collaboration among the American Occupational Therapy Association, AAA and AARP, educates mature drivers on how to properly adjust their vehicle's controls, mirrors, seats and other components for their height and size.

"Making sure all of your vehicle's controls are properly set is important," Land said. "This becomes even more crucial as you age and begin to experience changes in mobility, vision and hearing. CarFit provides a great refresher on some of the critical points of safe driving and is well worth the time."

"This gives participants a 'baseline' on which they can compare themselves next year and beyond," said Jack Peet, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager. "CarFit helps us meet our objective of keeping senior drivers behind the wheel safely. It helps them recognize when it might be time to re-evaluate their driving."

About 110 people went through a CarFit evaluation during the first part of the campaign in May and June. Participants reported that the service was beneficial, provided good information and helped them learn to better monitor their driving habits. The program's second segment begins in August and ends in September.

Evaluations will be offered on the following dates at the local AAA office:

- Sept. 14 at 37383 6 Mile Road, Livonia
- Sept. 17 at 2650 Carpenter Road, Ann Arbor
- Sept. 21 at 2017 N. Canton Center Road, Canton

To qualify, you must be a licensed driver at least 65 years old and own a registered vehicle. Call AAA Community Safety Services at (800) 646-4222 to schedule an appointment.

Secretary of State branch offices near CarFit exam sites will provide printed materials and a schedule of events.

A list of CarFit dates, times and sites is available on the department's Web site at www.Michigan.gov/sos. Branch office locations, hours and services are provided through the department's online branch office locator.

When mutual fund manager leaves, find out the reason

When I first got involved in this business more than 20 years ago, it was very unusual for a mutual fund to have a change in managers. However, as the mutual fund industry has exploded in size — where in the past there were only hundreds of funds and today there are thousands of funds — it is no longer unusual to have a change in management. In fact, it has become a regular occurrence in the mutual fund industry.

Money Matters

changes.

The issue that you and I as investors need to be concerned with is what we should do when a mutual fund that we are invested in has a change in its management team.

There are many reasons why a mutual fund manager leaves. In the past few years, many successful managers have left to work for their own hedge funds. Managers also leave a fund to sometimes manage another fund at the same mutual fund company or to start their own mutual fund. Of course, another reason why mutual fund managers leave is because of their performance.

My general rule is that I do not automatically sell an investment because of a portfolio manager change. A change in manager can be good or bad for a fund and there are no set answers as to how an investor should react. Therefore, whenever a fund that I recommend or that I invest in has a management change, I first want to do some research on the situation before I react. I want to know why the manager has left.

Unfortunately, the mutual fund companies don't automatically notify you that there is a change in management. This is one of those areas where you have to be proactive. There are a few different ways to know when a portfolio manager has left and probably the easiest is to take advantage of the Internet using sites such as www.morningstar.com or www.fundalarm.com. Both of these sites keep track of management changes.

When a portfolio manager leaves, you do not necessarily have to make a decision immediately. You have time to do your research and make an informed decision. In reaching your decision, it is important to know and to understand the fund itself. Some mutual funds are managed by a team, while other funds may be managed by a sole manager. In general, if the fund is managed by a team and one member of the team leaves, I generally will retain the fund. On the other hand, if a fund has been managed by one individual and that individual leaves, then more often than not I will generally sell the fund.

When a fund is managed by one lead manager and that manager leaves, the fund is almost like a brand new mutual fund and it no longer has a track record. I believe one of the key reasons you invest in a fund is because of its performance; when a new manager takes over, it may be difficult to analyze its past performance. Of course, if the new manager has had a track record at another fund that I can independently analyze, that is one thing. However, if I do not have this independent information, my general view is that it is time to change funds.

I recognize that many people may question about selling a fund that they have done well in just because it has a new management team.

However, my philosophy and my belief is that I am not loyal to an investment nor do I have any emotional attachment to an investment. I believe that when investors follow sound investment strategies, in the long run they end up making better investment decisions. When you make better investment decisions, you end up with more money in your pocket.

I know that the mutual fund companies do not want you to sell their funds and they certainly tend to underplay changes in portfolio managers. Some mutual fund companies are known to have a large turnover of managers and it is somewhat their strategy to constantly change management teams.

These funds will typically have a well-stocked bullpen of managers and changes in their management team historically have not caused a problem. However, funds like this are few and far between. As investors, we always have to be proactive and never be afraid to make changes when necessary. As investors, we should have no loyalty to our investments — after all, they don't have much loyalty to us. What you and I always need to focus on is how an investment fits into our portfolio and we should never hesitate to make changes where needed.

That doesn't mean that we should make changes for change itself; rather, we should make changes in our portfolio to give us a better opportunity to achieve our individual goals and objectives. Good luck!

OUR VIEWS

Hearing on park is a good idea

The release last week of a report on the results of the latest round of testing at Westland's Central City Park is cause for dismay.

The soil borings taken earlier this year show that the contamination is far more widespread than first thought and that in addition to concern about lead, there is a potential issue involving the groundwater. Mix in the presence of methane gas and it's no wonder people who live and work near the park are concerned about their safety.

Is it as bad as it has been portrayed in some newspapers? Does it have the potential to be another Love Canal? Is it less harmful than Michigan Department of Environmental Quality's Jim Sygo's assessment that driving to church on Sunday is more dangerous than living near the park?

Those are questions that need to be answered. It's difficult to tell people who see the park every day not to worry. It's hard to tell parents of children who played in the park not to worry. And while officials may say they're safe, it still sounds scary.

The county, which owns the land, the city and the MDEQ will be meeting in coming months to sort out the problem and decide what must be done to clean up the site. It is apparent it will not be a quick fix. More of the park will be torn up in an effort to remove the contamination.

Mistakes were made in the past in not letting people know about the contamination problem. But since being made public last fall, the city has worked hard to keep residents informed.

That's why we're glad to see that Council President Charles Pickering announced that once members of the council have been briefed about the latest report, he will call for a public meeting to update citizens. Residents also need to remain calm, and when the public meeting is held, attend it. Ask questions. Educate yourself about the situation.

We believe it is better to be armed with the facts than with second- or third-hand information. Knowing what's going on can go a long way toward quelling rumors and fears about the park.

Governor's reforms are a good first step

In the ongoing debate about how to balance the state's troubled budget, everyone agrees that essential reforms are needed in how state government operates.

At the heart of that debate is the Michigan corrections system and state sentencing guidelines. Gov. Jennifer Granholm has proposed sentencing reforms in an attempt to reduce the state's prison and jail population and bring Michigan more in line with other states in the region.

The reforms making their way through the Legislature include repealing 25 felonies that are rarely prosecuted such as adultery and dueling; changing 142 felonies to misdemeanors, including felonious driving and false election statements; dropping the maximum penalty for 58 felonies; reducing the dollar threshold for felony property crimes; and lightening penalties for drug offenses.

Michigan spends about $2 billion a year on its prison system, more than it spends on its 15 state universities combined. The suggested reforms would result in 3,300 fewer inmates over three years and reduce the number of beds in county jails by 2,000, according to the Michigan Department of Corrections.

In an Associated Press story, Russ Marian, state corrections spokesman said, "We need these sentencing reforms. If we want to see significant cost savings, we need to decrease the prison population."

Attorney General Mike Cox and other enforcement officials have objected to the reforms. Cox called them "seriously flawed" and dangerous.

While some of his objections are worth considering, his immediate rejection of the reform package seems more politically motivated than professional.

At a time when Michigan ranks at the top for incarceration rate in the region (40 percent higher) and near the top nationally and prison costs are continuing to escalate, it is clear that strong reforms are overdue. The Citizens Research Council estimates that if Michigan has an incarceration rate equal to the average in the region, general fund spending for corrections in the Michigan budget might be reduced by as much as $500 million.

We believe the governor's proposal is a good first step toward much needed reform and urge the attorney general and others to offer constructive alternatives without making a wholesale rejection of a much-needed reform.

Election results no surprise

I don't think many of us are surprised that Christine Bryant received the fourth highest votes in the primary council race. Had she run on her merits alone instead of adding Cicirelli to her name, I doubt she would have received too many votes, considering her weak credentials and lack of civic leadership.

In just about every article about the council race, she was listed as the daughter of 18th District Judge and former mayor Sandra Cicirelli. It's amazing just how much power a name wields.

This generation is lazy

I read the letter from Mr. Ross of Westland about possibly losing everything while he awaits his disability hearing. This system must be run by the same folks that run the foster care system in which our children are abused, because it isn't working either.

Tell me how this man who has paid into SS for years is turned down and is truly disabled, but I know a woman in her 30s who has never worked (third generation welfare recipient), has back problems and just received over $16,000 from SSD for back pay from when she was turned down? There are many jobs she could do that wouldn't have an impact on her back, but she found some way to get around the system.

I'm ashamed of how our seniors get treated, while the younger generation just abuses the system and they get away with it. A warning to the SS recipients that don't really deserve it: You better watch over your shoulder, because I have a camera and am just waiting to use it and send pictures in as proof that you are not really disabled.

This generation is nothing but lazy and wants everything handed to them. No wonder SS is running out.

Set record straight

I've seen a lot of numbers being tossed around as to how much money was brought in from the GI Blues Festival. I'm not sure where these people are getting their information, but let me be the one who sets the record straight. At the time I write this, our balance for this event is just short of $1,800. That's all of the sponsorship fees, ticket sales, individual donations, and the money raised from the sale of food and beverages minus the costs of the bands, sound system, tents and chairs, licenses and bonds, PR costs, and the costs for food and beverages.

There are a few outstanding items that would raise this total to just over $2,000. This is nowhere near the amounts I've seen tossed around in the press. One article called this event a "big success," but when you're talking about an event this size raising money to help our veterans, $2,000 is not a "big success," it's shameful.

Our veterans deserve better. Try telling them how 12 hours of great food and entertainment was a big success because it raised $2,000. And truth be told, we'd only be at $1,100 if two of the bands hadn't donated their fees back to Veteran's Haven. The Christy Howard Band and The Carl Caballero Band both donated their money back at the end of their sets.

I've said this before, but I'll say it again. Our thanks and appreciation goes out to all of the many people who made this event possible. Everybody did an outstanding job putting this together. Even though we didn't meet our expectation, I think we can all take pride in this first-time effort.

Now I hear that Veteran's Haven won't be the recipient of the proceeds from next year's fest, and that's fine with us. All we care about is helping our vets. So we hope everyone involved learns from this year's event and forges ahead to do better next year.

A true Westland hero

I went to the most recent city council meeting to do two things: to thank the city clerk's office for all the help they gave me and especially Eileen DeHart, and to let everyone know that just hours before I came to the meeting, the 3/6 Battalion and my son had left Iraq.

Well, before I spoke Mr. Pickering announced that Chaim Kozak had been promoted to corporal and that his doctors said that they would not let him go back to Iraq. I thought about my last conversation with Chaim, which was at his Purple Heart Ceremony.

He told me that one of the last things he remembered was the doctor telling him he was going to lose his arm. He then said he wanted to get better so he could go back to Iraq to be with his buddies. I thought, wow, he almost gets killed in action, and he is going through all his therapy and treatments, and he can't wait to get to his buddies in Iraq.

My first thought was, Chaim, let's get you better, then think about that. But I am not a Marine, so his mind is in a different place, which is very commendable.

I just want to say, Chaim, to all of us you are a true American hero. And to top it off, you are a true Westland hero.

I was honored to be at your Purple Heart Ceremony. I am even more happy that I was not at your funeral. I have been to two Marine funerals in the last year. I did not know them, but being a member of the Marine family, I felt I owed it to them to be there.

To the Kozak family, I know how proud you are of Chaim. I am glad he won't be going back to Iraq. Enjoy him, Chaim, you did all you could, and we will forever be thankful to you.

I think that when he comes back to Westland, whatever parade we have, Chaim should be front and center and honored as Westland's finest, a true hero, and make him grand marshal. It is time to take care of our own.

I can't wait to see you again Chaim, and as I do all the troops. I will thank you in person for a job well done and for serving our country. So for now I will say thank you and welcome home, and as always, Semper Fi, which means always faithful. And Chaim, you certainly are just that.

War on terror is real

Your July 29 article about the Plymouth demonstration against the Iraq War and Congressman McCotter, brings up an unanswered question. "What would be your plan on fighting radical Islam?" Complaining without an alternative is no solution.

9/11 was a declaration of war by radical Islam on the U.S. and western civilization, not some criminal act by misguided Middle Eastern men. And, if we are to survive, we must accept this reality. It's not going away anytime soon, maybe not in our lifetime. To win you have to take the fight to the terrorist. The price of freedom has always cost America the lives of some of our young men and women.

The Iraq debate will never stop, but we're there and so is al Qaeda. Remember them, the ones who attacked us on 9/11? Mistakes are made in every war; read your history or watch any war documentary. Remember "Saving Private Ryan" and all the mistakes made in the D-Day invasion and thousands of lives lost in a single day? Was Hitler any more of a threat than al Qaeda?

We learned from 9/11 that a small number of terrorists can kill a large number of people very quickly using airplanes, bombs, chemical weapons, etc. Even with first-rate intelligence you can't stop every attack.

A complete pullout of Iraq could bring about an al Qaeda-led government as the Taliban led Afghanistan. A terrorist group needs a host country to survive, and history has shown that a takeover like that would result in a major bloodbath. Every Iraqi who trusted us, who became a part of the current government, would be killed, along with their families. Do you think that these "peace protesters" would protest the killing of Iraqis by the new al Qaeda government? Did they protest when Saddam Hussein was killing people by the thousands for his own pleasure? At least those dying today are dying in pursuit of democracy and freedom.

When Saigon fell in 1975, the left was so happy that their guys won and that there would now be peace. Remember the "Killing Fields" that resulted from their guys "winning"?

The global war on terror is not a bumper sticker slogan, it's our reality and we better wake up to that fact. Putting the left in charge of our national security would be like putting O.J. Simpson in charge of a battered women's shelter.

County's point man remains optimistic on bridge project

As hard as he's tried, Alan Helmkamp just might not have enough fingers to keep in the dike more commonly known as the Sheldon Road underpass project in Plymouth Township.

But you have to give Helmkamp — the assistant Wayne County executive who has become, at least from the county's perspective, the face of the project — credit. He keeps trying to plug the holes. And any day now, he's probably going to have to take off his shoes.

There are signs that all his plugging may very well be working, at least a little bit.

Last week, for the first time in months, there were actually construction workers in the construction zone, surely a welcome site, particularly for the businesses along that stretch of road that has been closed since April and will be closed for at least another 16 months.

We say "at least" because there isn't really anyone we can find — except Helmkamp — who thinks this project is going to get done on time.

On the other hand, there are many examples in Michigan's history that show more complicated projects done in reasonable time. Though the Mackinac Bridge Authority was established in 1950, the actual construction of the five-mile expanse took some 3½ years and was finished in November 1957.

The 2.5-mile Ambassador Bridge connecting Detroit and Windsor was built in two years, as was the mile-long Detroit-Windsor Tunnel. Those might not be directly analogous, since the Sheldon Road underpass isn't slated to go over — or under — a river.

Of course, the Sheldon Road underpass has had to withstand perhaps the largest obstacle to progress known to man: government. And there's been plenty of that to navigate.

Wayne County is footing the largest portion of the bill, paying much of it with federal grant money. Early on, it secured commitments from both the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees and the Plymouth City Commission. However, as the planning dragged on and it appeared costs were going to go up, the city commission balked and actually at one point withdrew support until Helmkamp agreed to cap the city's commitment at some $500,000.

Helmkamp, who wasn't involved at the project's outset but who has nevertheless had to deal with seemingly endless delays and problems, has also had to navigate resistance from CSX (oddly enough, since it has Helmkamp, who wasn't involved at the project's outset but who has nevertheless had to deal with seemingly endless delays and problems, has also had to navigate resistance from CSX (oddly enough, since it has one of the smaller financial commitments and stands to gain the most with a quality project) and from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department. The DWSD had no trouble supporting the project, as long as any water work was limited to non-peak seasons in order to protect the department's prime price-gouging season.

The DWSD had no trouble supporting the project, as long as any water work was limited to non-peak seasons in order to protect the department's prime price-gouging season.

The latest spat is with DTE Energy, which was supposed to be done with its work by June 1. Helmkamp said the company didn't make it. DTE spokesman Scott Simons said, in essence, "Yes we did, but we even told you last fall we might not make that kind of deadline."

Still, there may be reason in the history books for Helmkamp's optimism about meeting overall project deadlines. After all, talks about the Sheldon Road underpass only date back about 10 years. People on Mackinac Island actually started talking about a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac around 1884, more than 70 years before the bridge was actually built.

Through all the problems, Helmkamp may have wanted to turtle himself into a shell. Instead, he remains positive and helpful, returning phone calls, answering questions.

"Call me the eternal optimist, but I'm sticking to that," Helmkamp said of the scheduled December 2008 completion date. "If this means we have to revise the schedule and add shifts, even in the bad months, we'll do whatever we need to do to get it completed by then."

Spoken like a man being fitted for rose-colored glasses.

Cruise over to where the roar of the Fords began

A lot of cars roaring along Woodward for Saturday's Dream Cruise will be Fords.

The name Henry Ford means cars. Ford didn't invent the car nor did he conceive of the assembly line. But he combined the two and put the world on wheels.

Ford left us another legacy: the birthplace of the Model T.

Tucked away in an old — very old — corner of Detroit called the Milwaukee Junction, just a few blocks south of East Grand Boulevard and east of Woodward, stands Henry Ford's Piquette plant. This is perhaps the only original pioneering auto factory that is open to the public and still retains its original feel.

It should, considering much of the plant has not been changed since the day that Henry Ford left the building in 1910 for his new, gigantic factory in Highland Park.

Ford built the plant in 1904, less than a year after he founded his company. The three-story brick building measures 402 feet long by 56 feet wide. It was here that Ford designed the Model T and built 12,000 copies of the car. You can still find a fleet of them on display in the plant.

The Piquette plant is special in that you get a real sense of history in the plant. I like to call it the feel of history. Only a few places have an aura that seems to transport you to the past and give you a sense of what they were originally like.

I went there on a steamy Saturday afternoon, and the solid brick structure retained the heat like an oven. That was fine — after all, when this plant was built, even Henry Ford didn't have air conditioning in his office.

The interior walls of his office are gone, although you can still see where they stood in a corner on the second floor, along with the foundation of the old vault that used to be there. On a remaining wall hangs a photo of Ford's office, and comparing it to the space around you leaves no doubt that this is where Henry Ford sat. There's even an exact replica of Ford's desk. It's surprisingly small. That says something, one of the docents told me. Ford was not a man to be bothered by paperwork. He was a hands-on engineer. He purposely had his office right next to where the cars were assembled, not on the first floor where the businesses offices were located. In the back of the third floor stands the special room where Ford and his designers came up with the plans for the Model T.

The plant is infused with age and history. The original massive steel fire doors are still in place. Overhead are heavy wooden beams, and looking out the windows you can see the railroad tracks adjoining the property. It is nearly identical to the view that Ford would have seen 100 years ago.

There is a variety of classic Fords on display throughout the plant. Some are still used to take visitors for a jaunt to the nearby New Center area, so you can still catch a whiff of car exhaust and hear the sputter of a Model T in motion.

The Piquette plant is a marvelous place to visit and get a sense of history. We have the Model-T Automotive Heritage Complex, Inc., or T-Plex, to thank for its presence. Until 1997, the Piquette plant was just another abandoned building facing demolition.

Historian and educator Jerald Mitchell got wind of plans to tear down the plant and approached the Henry Ford Heritage Association with a proposal to form a committee to save the plant. That led to T-Plex and the ongoing efforts to restore the factory.

The T-Plex folks have done a marvelous job, but there is still much work to be done. The windows have to be replaced and many of the display cases are empty. But step by step, the plant is coming back to its old grandeur.

The Piquette plant is open to the public on the first and third Saturday of the month between May and October. Find out more at www.tplex.org. Admission is $10 per person.

It's money well-spent.

Contest winners dine with Motor City Middays crew

Doug and Michele Sawyer of Livonia were treated to dinner last week with all the special touches as winners of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Buddy's Pizza "Dining with the Stars" contest.

The Sawyers were among the top four finalists in July's "Dining With the Stars," which featured the crew of Motor City Middays — Jay Towers, Shila and Bill McAllister — of 97.1 Free FM.

Michele Sawyer was surprised when she got the call, because she never entered. "I wasn't just surprised, I was shocked," she said.

"My husband listens to them every day. He wrote the entry," said Michele, who works at Centerline Electric. The fact that Doug listens helped him win the top prize.

"I am desperate. Ever since my husband started listening to your show, he has come down with some kind of illness. He is constantly doing these imitations of dead celebrities, knows way too much about nothing, and has everything in my future being in water. He refuses to fly anymore out of some kind of fear, wants to move into a condominium, and the weird part is he now cries after our special moment together. I have tried everything to rid him of these symptoms but nothing seems to work. Please send help," wrote Doug Sawyer. Then he signed it Michele Sawyer.

And the Midday crew did send help by selecting the Sawyers, the parents of three children, to enjoy a night out at Buddy's in Farmington Hills.

"It was fun, they were funny and the food was very good," Michele said.

The Sawyers were treated to a limo ride courtesy of Pro-Tran Transportation. Michele opted for the makeover from Beauty Salon by J. Lyle Lmt, featuring stylist and makeup artist Christine Fitzpatrick.

Doug sat this one out.

The fivesome dined on antipasto salad, a Greek pizza and sampled two of Buddy's new thin-crust pizzas. Then they watched a mambo dance exhibition by the Fred Astaire Dance Studio in Bloomfield Hills. Afterward, they talked about the inner workings of a radio station, laughed and talked some more.

Michele is still deciding how to spend her $100 gift certificate to the Reaver Diamond Co. in Southfield.

Doug was always a fan of the Midday crew, and now Michele is too.

"They are so much fun. They hang out together, do things together so they'll have things to talk about on the radio. They're great."

To top it off, Buddy's donated $500 to the Children's Hospital of Michigan, the charity of choice for Jay Towers.

Look for the August winner, who will dine with Coco of WJLB FM-98, in next week's Observer & Eccentric.

Snakes have the law on their side

Signs in natural areas are low on my like list. Leash your dog. No fires. Don't litter. Much of the information is common sense, but signs are needed to enforce laws.

Some signs, however, are refreshing, especially when they provide nature interpretation and remind the park owners — that's you — that parks are not pacified playgrounds free of wild things and functioning aspects of nature's way. Many national parks are working on signage to educate the public on black bears, a potentially dangerous creature when they are habituated to our bad behavior. And cougar advisory signs can be found at Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore in Michigan. Some local parks are telling the tale of the eastern coyote, steps in the right direction.

Seven Lakes State Park, near Holly, deserves congratulations for its bold action in strategically placing a unique wildlife crossing sign. This sign stops you dead in your tracks for a second look, and that's what it's meant to do: inform, educate and protect a resource.

Seven Lakes is a wildland gem operated by the Michigan DNR. Enter the park and just a ways down the road you can't miss a prominent standard yellow highway sign. This one, in bold letters, proclaims: "CAUTION, SNAKE CROSSING, PROTECTED SPECIES." A detailed rattlesnake picture appears on the sign along with the words, "Eastern Massasauga Rattlesnake, Venomous-Protected Species."

It's my guess that many county residents have no idea massasauga rattlesnakes, Michigan's only venomous snake, true pit vipers, live in Oakland County. Many parks under management of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and Oakland County Parks have placed small rattlesnake signs near trails and their naturalists pass the word. Well and good.

I chatted with DNR biologist Julie Oakes, who confirmed that the rattlesnake signs at Seven Lakes are unique. In her words, "We stole the idea from Sterling State Park that

On Nature Jonathan Schechter

put up fox snake crossing signs." Good for her! And it will hopefully be good for our elusive, cryptically colored, shy little swamp rattler that sometimes suns on pavement. The signs went up shortly after an off-leash dog — a violation of law — was bitten by a rattler. The dog survived, but the owner was not happy that he did not know rattlers were in the park.

Fact of the matter, many natural areas in Oakland County have rattlesnakes. Some of my favorite "rattlesnake parks" are Indian Springs, Kensington and Stony Creek metro parks, Independence and Orion Oaks county parks and the Bald Mountain State Recreation Area, along with many small protected areas and sanctuaries in northern Oakland County. Rattlesnakes also live in some new subdivisions that are adjacent to wetlands. The Paint Creek Trail, Polly Ann Trail, the Clinton River Trail and sections of the old tracks just west of the West Bloomfield Trail Network all have habitat that could very well support rattlers.

Every now and then, a massasauga bites a human. Humans survive. The snake usually does not. And they are not ankle bites. The great majority of the highly infrequent bites are direct result of harassment and stupidity and result in intoxicated adult males being bitten on their dominant hands seconds after the famous two-word phrase, "Watch this!"

In August, female massasaugas give birth to their live young in upland sites, then slowly slither peacefully back across roads to their wetlands, awaiting their season of hibernation, often in moist crayfish burrows. Give the snakes a break. It's the law.

Camp support

Two downtown Birmingham businesses, Weir Manuel Realtors and Max & Erma's, are lending a hand to Camp Casey.

During the Woodward Dream Cruise weekend, Aug. 17-19, Weir Manuel has agreed to give up its prime-location parking lot so that Camp Casey can set up shop and raise awareness and funds for their cause.

The following Thursday, Aug. 23, Max & Erma's is holding a benefit dinner in which 20 percent of the day's proceeds go to Camp Casey. Diners must have an official flier for their meal to count; fliers can be downloaded from www.camp-casey.org or by e-mailing LaurenMaiman@camp-casey.org and requesting one.

Camp Casey is a nonprofit organization. It travels to horseback riding facilities throughout Michigan to provide a cost-free series of one-day retreats for kids with cancer and their families.

This idea was inspired after founder Molly Melamed, 24, witnessed the effect horses had on Casey Foote, a little girl who died from bone and brain cancer in 2003.

At only 19, Melamed designed, organized and launched Camp Casey while attending Michigan State University. What was supposed to be a one-time activity day for Sparrow Hospital patients has evolved into a mobile day camp throughout all of Michigan.

Now in its fourth year, it has already reached hundreds of kids. Five camps are scheduled for summer 2007.

Extracting a win

Livonia dentist Himm O&E Open men's champ

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Bill Himm had the field in his rear-view mirror as he approached the 18th green in Sunday's final round of the Observer & Eccentric Men's Golf Open.

The 56-year-old dentist from Livonia, nursing a three-shot lead, hit a drive straight down the middle on the par-4, 406-yard hole, putting him in the catbird's seat.

But then the nerves got to him and it felt like the another cat on the course had just swallowed the canary.

"I felt the pressure with that last iron," said Himm, who skulled pitch shot left of the green and into the rough by about 15 yards. "My mind says, 'Don't do something stupid. Just play it in the safe range and the worst I can do is bogey.' As long as I did not make a double (bogey), I was O.K. I just tried to bunt it up near the green and I almost made par."

While Northville's Ryan Ossenmacher was making a birdie, Himm calmly got up and down with a two-putt to earn his first-ever O&E championship, shooting 71 Saturday at Whispering Willows and following up with a 75 Sunday at Fox Creek for a two-round total of 146.

He won a $350 gift certificate to go along with his first-place trophy.

Chaz Kornegay, who won a two-hole playoff against Ossenmacher to take runner-up honors, shot 73-74-147. Ossenmacher wound up 71-76-147 followed by Mike Lawton (Livonia) and Dan Longeway (Northville), 149 each; Steve South (Westland), 150; Paul Mazanka (Farmington Hills) and two-time defending champion Jim Omietanski (Livonia), 151 each.

"Overall I was solid, I hit the ball good," said Himm, who was runner-up to Omietanski last year. "My putting was not good. There were no pin sheets. I tried not to be on the wrong side of the hole. It was not just me, but everybody. But under the conditions it was good. It was hard for everybody because it was slow and hot."

Himm, a Stevenson High grad who entered the first-ever O&E Tournament in the early 1970s, usually plays quick rounds with his friends at either Western Golf & Country Club, where he was once a member and club champ, and Lyon Oaks.

"Under the conditions, it was good, but it was hard for everybody because it was slow and hot," Himm said. "I had a couple of nice two's on a long par-3. But I hate the pace - 5-and-half hours. Usually I'm the first one off and I get my rounds done in 3 hours and 15 minutes."

Kornegay, a 1990 Salem High grad who plays regularly out of Brae Burn, has competed in nine straight O&E tournaments, finishing runner-up in 2001. He shot a blistering 2-under 33 on the back-nine at Fox Creek carded a pair of birdies to go along with seven pars on the back-side.

Macinkowicz leads O&E women

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Susan Macinkowicz was able to run away and hide for the field in the Women's Championship Flight in Saturday's Observer & Eccentric Open.

Macinkowicz, who resides in Chesterfield Township, shot 78 at Whispering Willows to win by eight strokes over Detroit's Suzanne Madej.

Defending champion Janina Jacobs (Livonia) withdrew Friday with a sore wrist after returning from a golf trip to the United Kingdom.

The 46-year-old Macinkowicz, a regular on the Golf Association of Michigan women's public links events, thoroughly enjoyed her day at Whispering Willows.

"It's a very good municipal course," said Macinkowicz, who was paired with Molly Gibson and Jan Bowerman. "We had a blast. I play public courses all the time and these people all do a great job. I could not make it last year. It's a great tourney and I was finally able to come out and participate."

Macinkowicz, who has won three women's public events this season, carded one birdie and took advantage of her long drives off the tee.

"I was consistent," said the special education teacher from Woodhaven. "I hit a lot of fairways and greens. I didn't get into too much trouble."

Macinkowicz considers herself "a late bloomer." She took up the game 16 years ago at age 30.

"After my mother died, it was a great stress reliever,"

BILL BRESLER / STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Susan Macinkowicz of Chesterfield Township captured the women's O&E Open golf title last weekend.

Macinkowicz said. "I wish I had played earlier."

For her efforts, Macinkowicz took home an $80 gift certificate and first-place trophy. Madej took low net honors with a 73. In the first flight, Plymouth's Luanne Smulsky won low gross honors with a 92, while Livonian Pat Witek took home low net with a 74.

State champ plans to play 2 fall sports

PREVIEW

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

With the change of prep seasons in Michigan, high school girls golf will now crown a 2007 fall champion as well as a 2007 spring champion.

Livonia Churchill senior

Shannon Warner will also get a chance to complete the hat trick as she defends her Division I title while playing volleyball for the defending Division I state champions.

"Golf will be her dominant sport, anything she does (in golf) will supercede what she does in another sport," said Churchill coach Gary Harper, who had to relinquish his duties this fall as a football coach. "She wants to make it three in a row and I don't know if it's ever been done before. Right now she's trying out for volleyball. I know she'll make our team (laughing)."

Warner, who played junior golf all summer, will practice with the Chargers' golf team in the morning and concentrate on volleyball in the afternoon (until school starts).

Expectations are also high in golf this fall for the Chargers, who return a pair of seniors off last year's third-place Western Lakes Activities Association team - second-team All-Area pick Amanda Dobos and All-Division honoree Danielle Lesniak. Junior Lexi McFarlane also returns.

"Our goal is always the same, compete for the conference title and get to 'states,'" Harper said.

Thomas has no doubts about MU's talent

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER

Several key players graduated, such as high-scoring forward Kelly Japowicz.

But there's a lot of talent and inner fire coming back as Madonna University's women's soccer team looks to build on a 12-4-2 season that ended with a disappointing defeat to Siena Heights in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference tournament.

"I have confidence in the group," said Madonna second-year head coach Paul Thomas. "I think a lot of the motivation coming into this year was the underachieving of last year. "We underachieved big-time last year, and a lot of the girls are more focused this year, coming into preseason."

PREVIEW

Thomas also said the team is meshing earlier, which can only help it in the long run.

"I think we will be as competitive as last year, if not a little better, just because of team chemistry off the field," he added. "It seems to be going a lot better than it did last year."

Overcoming the 15 goals that Japowicz scored will be one of the bigger hurdles for the Crusaders as they try to improve from a second-place showing.

"We have very capable forwards who all scored in the conference last year, just not consistently, and that was due to playing time," Thomas explained. "I think this year, they will get a lot more chances and I think that will result in more goals for them."

"We're going to have (five) forwards and if all of those come in with a few goals, than that will help make up for (the loss of) Kelly."

The team will look for offense from junior Dina Allie (Livonia Stevenson), sophomores Kaila Moore, Kati Germane and freshmen Shelby Mathison and Chelsea Skinner - along with contributions from sophomore midfielder Lauren Hess (Livonia Ladywood).

"Dina's the junior coming back," the coach said. "But I'm not going to put that responsibility on her shoulders. We have to share that responsibility."

The Crusaders figure to have an excellent midfield, keyed by Hess, juniors Ashley Stoychoff (Canton/Plymouth Salem), Caitlin Boyak (Stevenson) and sophomores Gina Leone and Rachel Thompson (Stevenson). Boyak will miss the first month of the season, recovering from a knee injury.

"We're looking for her (Hess) to be a big impact player again," Thomas said.

But it doesn't hurt to have solid, solid across-the-board defense, keyed by sophomore-eligible Andrea Johnson in the middle. The 5-foot-8 Canton grad earned WHAC Defender of the Year honors for her excellent 2006 season.

"She reads the game very well, she's a leader on the field through communication, and (through) the level of her play," at Fox Creek, however, led to his undoing where he took an eight with a triple-bogey.

"I hit the ball in the woods, had to take a penalty (stroke) and punch it out straight sideways," said Kornegay, who works in a crematory. "My putting was better on the back nine and I had one lip out."

Ossenmacher, a sixth-grade teacher in the Walled Lake Schools, also plays with Kornegay at Brae Burn. The new Salem varsity hockey coach captured low net honors with a 139.

"Today's round (at Fox Creek) was a struggle, but it turned out O.K.," said the 1997 Redford Catholic Central High grad. "The first nine was tough, the second nine O.K."

"I've played these courses three times each and knowing the greens helped. But Bill (Himm) played well. He was consistency at its best."

Cordes regains title

White Lake's Dale Cordes, a 13-handicapper, can't get enough of Whispering Willows.

"It's my home course, I play there three or four times a week," said the mechanic at Serra Toyota of Farmington Hills.

Cordes carded a 76 Saturday at Whispering Willows and held on with an 86 Sunday at Fox Creek for a total of 162 to edge defending first flight champion Dan Higham (Livonia) by a stroke.

Cordes took home a $180 gift card and a first-place trophy.

"Playing there so much and knowing the green obviously helps," Cordes said of Whispering Willows.

"This was the first round all year that I've broken 80. My nemesis today (Sunday) is that I missed a lot of putts. Both places had tough pin placements, but that's good and that's the way it's supposed to be."

Jim Matthews (Livonia), third in low gross with an 83-82-165, took low net with a 145 followed by Sam Williams (Livonia) with a 151.

CHARGERS

Livonia Stevenson got to the Division 1 state tournament in June, placing 14th, after a third-place finish at the regional. The WLAA and Lakes Division champions, however, were hard hit by graduation losses.

Gone are first-team All-Observer picks Abbey Wolfe and Chelsea Bathurst, along with second-team selection Chrissy McHenry.

The Spartans' top returnee is senior Laura Sims, who made All-Division in the Western Lakes.

Even harder hit by graduation losses is Livonia Ladywood, the Division 2 state runner-up.

Eighth-year coach Kellianna Nagy will try and replace three first-team All-Observer selections in Andrea Warzyniec, who was seventh individually at the state finals, along with Angela Jamrog and Kelly Thomas.

The lone returnee is second-team All-Observer pick Erica Mazur, a senior, who will serve as the Blazers' captain.

The change of seasons, meanwhile, has Nagy scrambling for players.

"We have a couple of people right now teetering back-and-forth between volleyball and golf," she said. "We still have too many girls trying out for two sports and hope to have that all figured out by the end of this week."

"Hopefully they'll choose golf."

Livonia Franklin finished 7-4 in the WLAA dual meet season, but stumbled to a seventh-place finish at the conference meet.

The Patriots are led by senior Paige Scarpace, a second-team All-Area selection who nearly earned a trip to the Division 1 state meet in June.

Coach Brian McCalister must replace three graduated seniors, including second-team

All-Observer selection Mariel Meyers.

Apparently the 2007 fall season can't start soon enough for WLAA members Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association opened practice Aug. 9 and Wayne got on the course Tuesday in the Milford Invitational at Prestwick Village Golf Club. The Zebras took only three players to the tournament, led by junior Berlynn Beaver's 100.

Glenn already has three matches scheduled this week including WLAA dates today (vs. Churchill) and Friday (vs. Northville), along with a non-leaguer to start the season on Wednesday.

Glenn lost second-team All-Area selection Jessie Veltri to graduation, but returns sophomore Heidi Irvine, who made All-Division in the WLAA and carded a hole-in-one at May conference tournament.

New S'craft coach Shivraman encouraged by early returns

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER

COLLEGE SOCCER

Deepak Shivraman knows it isn't easy to follow in the footsteps of a coaching fixture, which Bill Tolstedt was for 20 years at the helm of Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team.

But the transition's been smooth as silk for the longtime high school soccer coach. Shivraman is the new coach of the Lady Ocelots, giving up his position as boys soccer coach at Brighton High School to take now-retired Tolstedt's old job.

"It's been great, I didn't know what to expect because this is my first college coaching experience," said Shivraman last week. "But so far, from a coaching standpoint, Schoolcraft's been fantastic. (Administrators) are having the resources available for us, and the players have been really accepting and receptive to change."

Just as a bit of a security blanket, perhaps, Shivraman brought over a recruit from Brighton (where he also coached the girls' soccer team) in freshman defender Sally L'Esperance.

"We were really fortunate (to get the four-year varsity starter)," Shivraman said. "She was looking at other schools."

With a season-opening tournament in Windsor next weekend, the Lady Ocelots already are showing their mettle in the preseason. They defeated Siena Heights, 2-1 (both goals by freshman forward and Plymouth grad Claire Baptist) and then lost a tough 4-2 decision to NCAA D2-ranked Saginaw Valley (goals by sophomore midfielders Nicole Polite and Gloria Soyad).

"Both games showed me good, positive things about our players," Shivraman said. "That we could compete against both of those teams."

Good mix
Schoolcraft could again be a formidable unit in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association, with players returning from the 2006 team that qualified for the national tournament being bolstered by excellent recruits such as L'Esperance and Baptist.

But the new guy on campus intends to pick the brain of the top returnees - namely Polite, Soyad, goalkeeper Jessica Tuggle (Livonia Ladywood) and forward Jessica Austin (Livonia Franklin).

"I'll be asking the questions because they made it to the national tournament last year," he said. "But then you add to that all the recruits."

Shivraman said Baptist is intriguing, comparing her relentless pursuit of goals to that of former Detroit Red Wings hockey player Dino Ciccarelli.

"Claire is tough in front and wins everything," Shivraman said. "She's always circling the goal and has a great shot" as well as the talent to score on headers, the equivalent of Ciccarelli tip-ins.

Other impressive freshmen include forward Samm Harrington and midfielder Adrianna Guerrero, discovered while playing for a girls soccer club team in Texas.

"Her skills are really sublime," he noted.

"She has great touch on the ball."
In addition to L'Esperance, the Lady Ocelots will have sophomore Ashley Erickson (Walled Lake Northern) and "speedy" freshman Katelyn Gilbert on defense, along with former Michigan Hawks player Amanda Bailey, Kayleigh Maurer and 29-year-old Margaret (Wirth) Mayer.

She played two seasons at Farmington Hills Mercy when Shivraman coached there before moving over to Livonia Churchill to wrap up a superb prep career. Mayer left college to start a family, but decided to return to action after bumping into her former coach. "She had eligibility," Shivraman said.

Schoolcraft also should boast depth in the midfield, sparked by underrated sophomore Megan McCabe and Livonia Stevenson alum Ally King (who did not play as a freshman). "She (King) has been fantastic, she hasn't lost a beat."

Redford Road Runners celebrate 25 years

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

The Redford Road Runners, once a force in the local running community, will take a trip down memory lane as they will stage a 25th anniversary reunion this weekend.

Randy Step, co-proprietor of the Running Fit store chain, helped launch the club in the early 1980s along with his wife Kathy.

And it all started when he placed an announcement in the Redford Observer.

"I wasn't even in the running business, at the time I was director at Step Funeral Home," Randy Step said. "We were training like fools for a Ironman (triathlon) and we wanted to find a local group of people to train with. We wanted to stay in the community and not have to go all over the place. We said we're a running club and the people came out thinking that we were already a club."

With the help of two local parish priests from St. Valentine and St. Agatha, the group landed at St. Robert Bellarmine, located at W. Chicago and Inkster roads in Redford, which became the club's starting point and meeting place.

"They hooked us up and the nice thing is that they had showers there," Step said. "Even though we didn't have any members of their church, the parish let us use it. We got a lot of people out that first year. And immediately we had a great club because we had no rules, voting for officers or any by-laws. All we had a weekly newsletter and we'd pick races to go to as a group."

The club mushroomed to over 100 members during the early years and remained strong for nearly 20 years.

"We did a lot of great stuff with 100 percent participation from club members for our races (including the Road Runner Classic)," Step said. "But as people moved around so much that became the end of the Redford Road Runners. They moved out to St. John's Seminary (in Plymouth) and regrouped (as the Northville Road Runners) with some of the same people. The club ran its course, but at the time it was wonderful idea."

Step, who has been tracking down former members from around the country, said as many as 150 out-of-towners plan to come in for the three-day event, which begins at 6 p.m. Friday as former and current club members (now of the Northville Road Runners) will take off from St. Robert and traverse down the old course into the Rosedale Garden subdivision area in Livonia and back.

A social hour follows from 7:40-8:30 p.m. at Mama Mia Pizzeria (free beer, wine, pop and snacks) followed by dinner at 8:15 p.m. ($15 for pizza, salad and breadsticks). Band and entertainment commence at 9:15 p.m.

The festivities continue Saturday with Diamond Jack Detroit Boat Tour on the River. The tailgate starts at 2 p.m. as runners will meet at the dock to buy tickets ($15 each). Following the 3:30 p.m. boat cruise, dinner will be held at El Zocalo in Detroit ($12 for a combination plate).

On Sunday, a run and family picnic will be held at Kensington Metropark.

The run, walk or bike begins at 9 a.m. at Martindale Beach followed by a pot luck picnic at 11 a.m. The Club will supply drinks and deserts. There will be games for children with the water slide opening at 11 a.m. The fee is $4 for adults and $3 for children (under 2 is free).

To participate and be included in any of the festivities, there is a $20 late registration fee.

For more information, visit the Northville Road Runners web site at www.northvilleroadrunners.org.

Bucks' PDL championship bid denied by Laredo Heat on PKs

BY DAN STICKRADT
STAFF WRITER

A drooling effort was just not enough for the Michigan Bucks.

The defending national champs of the USL Premier Developmental League came up short Saturday night, falling 1-0 to host Laredo Heat in this year's national championship game that reached a penalty-kick shootout in front of 6,600 fans.

The Heat, the sixth-seed, edged the third-seeded Bucks 4-3 on penalties after going to a sixth-man in a game played in 100-plus degree temperatures. Michigan defeated the Heat 2-1 at the same complex in Laredo last August.

It marked the first time in the PDL's 19-year history that the same two squads played a rematch final.

"When you think about it, we went through some rough conditions," said second-year Bucks coach Dan Fitzgerald. "We have to fly all the way down there, the field was really small, there was a big crowd against you and it was very, very hot. We still lost 1-0 on penalty kicks. It's nothing to be ashamed of."

The Bucks, 14-3-3 against PDL teams this year and 14-5-3 overall, did everything right except repeat as champions.

The highest-scoring team in the PDL this season and tied for sixth with Laredo defensively, the Bucks didn't generate much offense through 120 minutes of regulation and overtime and limited Laredo on the opposite end.

After the Bucks' Ian Daniel (Oakland/Troy Athens) was stopped by Heat goalie Ryan Cooper on Michigan's sixth PK, Laredo 17-year-old Felix Garcia slid a shot past Bucks netminder Steve Clark (Oakland) for what proved to be the game-winner in the shootout.

"We were just a little unlucky," said Fitzgerald.

"I mean both teams had 4-5 good chances in the game. And in the shutout, we had one go off the crossbar and go straight down. Some thought it might have crossed the line, but it hadn't so quickly. You can't fault the referees. It was really hard to tell. We were inches away from winning this."

"You lose on a shootout and on a little bit of controversy. You can't really complain. Our guys left everything out on the field," added Fitzgerald. "Guys were dropping like flies out there with cramps because it was so hot. By the time we got to the shootout, some of our best penalty kicks guys were out of the game."

Clark, who was undefeated against PDL teams this year until the finals, finished with six saves and made a diving stop with three minutes left in the second of two 15-minute overtime periods to set the stage for the shootout tiebreaker.

Defender Michael Holody (Clarkston/University of Michigan) also cleared a shot off the goal-line in the 56th minute.

The Bucks' best chances came in 15th and 62nd minutes, but both times Bucks midfielder Nate Jafta was stopped cold by Copper on shots just inside the penalty box.

"It was a smaller field, and because of that it wasn't pretty soccer," offered Fitzgerald. "There was a lot of high pressure, not a lot of build up on either side."

The Bucks expect to bring back at least two-thirds of their team next season.

"We hope to have some of these guys back and make another run at it," said Fitzgerald. "We'll lose a few guys, but we'll try to bring in some talented new guys."

"It was a great run," Fitzgerald continued. "When you look at the big picture, we've had a great couple of years. Not too many teams have made it back to the finals."

Diesels rally from slow 1st half to topple London Silverbacks

BY CHRISTIAN YOUNG
CORRESPONDENT

The Diesels just keep rolling along.

Using tight defense and a potent ground game, and after swapping scores like old clothes in the second half, the Detroit Diesels came back from a 6-0 deficit Saturday to post a 27-19 North American Football League win over the London (Ontario) Silverbacks at Labatt Park. Detroit ran the ball down the Silverbacks' throat, but could not punch it in. The teams banged and battled back-and-forth to a 0-0 first quarter score.

"They gave us all we could handle; but, I'm proud of our defense as they held their own," Diesels coach Rob Street said.

But the second quarter would open up in a big way, as London scored on the first play of the second quarter. Detroit answered midway through the second quarter on a four-yard rollout keeper by Randy Sinnott (Westland/John Glenn).

The Silverbacks opened with a 33-yard field goal to regain the lead, but Eric Newton (Redford Union) nabbed an 11-yard scoring toss from Sinnott to give Detroit a lead it would not relinquish.

With 1:05 left in the third, London put up another field goal, this time from 37 yards out, to get within 13-12.

Bob Curtis put in his piece with a 1-yard scoring run with 10:55 left in the game. Newton ran in the two-point conversion.

With 2:20 left in the contest, London took over on their 24-yard line after a failed Diesels fourth-down attempt, and proceeded to pull within 21-19.

But the Diesels iced the game when a tipped London pass found its way to the hands of Travis Farkas (Redford/Thurston), who ran 50 yards for the second defensive touchdown of the year. After the ensuing kickoff, linebacker Ali Bazzi (Dearborn/Fordson) had a 40-yard interception return for his touchdown called back. But the game was in hand anyway.

Sinnott was 9-of-13 passing for 63 yards and on TD. He also ran for 34 yards on four attempts.

Newton was the player of the game, with 34 attempts for 112 yards and his two-point conversion, in addition to his touchdown catch. Curtis ran for 82 yards and a score on only nine carries. John Craven (Farmington) nabbed two receptions for 19 yards.

Defensively, Chuck Smith, Farkas, and Bazzi paced the Detroit defense. Bernard Evans (Wayne Memorial) had a quarterback sack for the Diesels.

"It was a very hard fought game as it always is when we play the Silverback, but, I'm glad we got back on the winning track after the thrashing they gave us last year," Diesels general manager Allen Seder. "I look forward to our rematch in Livonia later in the season."

The Diesels nabbed their third straight win, and with a 3-0-1 division record, stand tied for first place in the Central Lakes Division of the Great Lakes Region with the Michigan Admirals.

The Diesels returned to action at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Franklin High School for a rematch with the Tri-City Titans. One of the Diesels' major sponsors, Tennyson Chevrolet of Livonia, will stage a "Kick for the Car" contest at the final Diesel home game as contestants will have the opportunity to make a field goal for a new 2008 HHR.

The PGA Championship At Oakland Hills In 2008

LESSON ON GOLF
By Jeff Lesson

Watching last weeks PGA Championship at Southern Hills, how could you not be looking ahead to Oakland Hills in 2008? It is there they will contest next year's PGA Championship at the newly revised Oakland Hills Country Club. Rees Jones just completed a touch up this year which made the course more difficult - adding more bunkers in the landing areas, today's pro tour players hit it. He also made some existing bunkers more difficult.

It just reminded me what a transformation metro Detroit has made sports wise in the last few years. We have recently successfully hosted Major League Baseball's All Star Game, The World Series, The Ryder Cup, The Super Bowl and soon the Final Four and The PGA Championship. Not to mention we still have one of the best teams in three of the four professional sports. Yes, there is still the Lions.

So Detroiters, be proud when we see the golf world descend upon the final major of the year next summer at Oakland Hills. Maybe Metro Detroit can still hang with the big boys after all? Enjoy!!

Jeff Lesson is a WWJ Sports Anchor/Reporter and host of the award winning feature "Lesson on Golf" on WWJ Newsradio 950 weekend mornings at 5:45, 6:45, 7:45 and 8:45 AND every Saturday morning 7-8 am on 1270 XYY The Sports Station. Don't forget to check out lessonongolf.com for half off golf at great courses!

ENCLAVE MAKES BUICK RELEVANT IN MOST IMPORTANT SEGMENT

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Dale Buss

With the unfortunate example of the fate of the Oldsmobile brand in its rear-view mirror, Buick has been trying to remake itself for several years now. This effort has produced mainly forgettable new products, such as the Rendezvous SUV, or those that have proved outright disappointments, including the Lucerne and Lacrosse sedans.

Bravo, then, to Buick, for finally coming forth with a new product that is relevant, and in a segment that is highly relevant to the survival of a brand in today's automotive marketplace. The 2008 Enclave, Buick's classy new crossover vehicle, proves a worthy competitor in a vital part of the market that is emerging as the segment of choice for consumers who want to pare down from gas-guzzling behemoths but aren't ready to give up all the advantages of an SUV.

What Enclave does is blend a gracefully designed exterior with an elegant, well-crafted interior, segment-leading fuel efficiency with room for up to eight passengers and space for cargo. Starting at a suggested retail price of less than $33,000, Enclave is quieter and roomier inside than many of its competitors and purports to challenge true luxury makes.

Indeed, Enclave may prove a worthy platform for what Buick executives are predicting will be "the revival of Buick in North America." The only problem for Buick per se is that two of General Motors' other brands also have just fielded new crossover vehicles based on the same mechanical platform as Enclave: GMC's Acadia and the Saturn Outlook.

For Buick shoppers, Enclave offers some things that haven't been available to them in some time. One significant plus is jazzy styling: Close observers will notice that Enclave delivers on the promise of the stunning concept vehicle that debuted at the 2006 North American International Auto Show in Detroit. This includes hints at the brand's legendary design cues, such as a new waterfall black chrome grille - with a bold tri-shield emblem - and

A luxurious interior puts the 2008 Buick Enclave on a par with any competitor in the larger-crossover segment.

The 2008 Buick Enclave cuts as fine a figure as any new SUV on the market.

portholes that form a distinct "V" shape as they flow out from the grille and into the hood.

Even the headlights enhance Enclave's striking appearance, with a blue ring that has been integrated into the three-dimensional taillamp housings. Bulbous wheel wells round out Enclave's exposure as a true styling leader in the segment.

Unlike GM's larger, full-blooded SUVs, Enclave is fun and easy to drive. It rides on a long, 119-inch wheelbase and wide, 67-inch tracks, but Enclave delivers smooth and controlled driving and an immediate feel during turns that relies on a stiff structure, purpose-built suspension and its aerodynamic shape. And Enclave is noticeably quieter than predecessor SUVs by GM, showing good results from the company's conscious effort to dampen noise from inside and outside the cabin with components such as an acoustic-laminated windshield, triple door seals, and even flat-blade windshield wipers.

Enclave is powered by a V-6 engine featuring variable-valve timing that is mated to Buick's first six-speed automatic transmission. It delivers 275 horsepower and 251 lb.-ft. of torque, lending the vehicle plenty of oomph at all the right times - even loaded with passengers.

Still, it's what's inside that really lends

Enclave its credentials as a strong near-luxury competitor in the hot crossover market. Its interior clearly is designed as an extension of Enclave's curvaceous exterior, with complementing curves and warm, inviting colors, as well as premium soft-touch, low-gloss materials. The instrument panel and other interior elements have precise attention to fit, finish and flushness throughout.

Of course, Enclave also has the passenger and cargo space that lend it credibility in the crossover segment. It can be configured for seven or eight passengers, with a bit of space remaining behind the third row of seats for gear. All of Enclave's second-row seat configurations feature GM's Smart Slide, which allows easy entry to the third row with the pull of one handle. And in the formation with captain's chairs in the second row, Enclave's interior space functions with a bit of the friendliness of a minivan.

Add to this overall soundness certain luxury touches - such as a front-row center console armrest that slides back and forth for personalized comfort; a second-row skylight; and automatic opening and closing of the rear hatch - and Enclave surfaces as a strong choice if you're looking for a crossover. Good thing for Buick.
