Longtime city retailer T.J. Maxx to close

December 16, 2007

Westland department store T.J. Maxx will close in mid-January, ending a 28-year run as the city faces another business loss amid a lingering economic slump.

Annmarie Farretta, spokeswoman for Framington, Mass.-based parent company TJX Inc., confirmed Thursday that stores in Westland and Warren will likely be shuttered early

We can confirm that we expect to close our T.J. Maxx locations in Westland and Warren sometime in mid-January; approximately 65 (workers) are affected, mostly part time," she said in a company state-

Westland's store is located in the West Ridge Shopping Center on Warren east of Wayne.

The latest closing deals another blow to the city's core retail district, although Westland Shopping Center has weathered the economic storm.

T.J. Maxx will be added to a list of mall-area vacancies including Service Merchandise, Sam's Club, Quo Vadis theater, Denny's restaurant and the old Best Buy. Mayor William Wild has pledged that his administration will step up efforts to try to lure new ten-

T.J. Maxx will work "diligently" to try to transfer as many Westland and Warren workers as possible to other store locations in Livonia, Novi, Troy and Bloomfield Hills, Farretta said.

Other options, depending on years of service, may include severance packages and "outplacement services" designed to help laid-off employees find other jobs, she said.

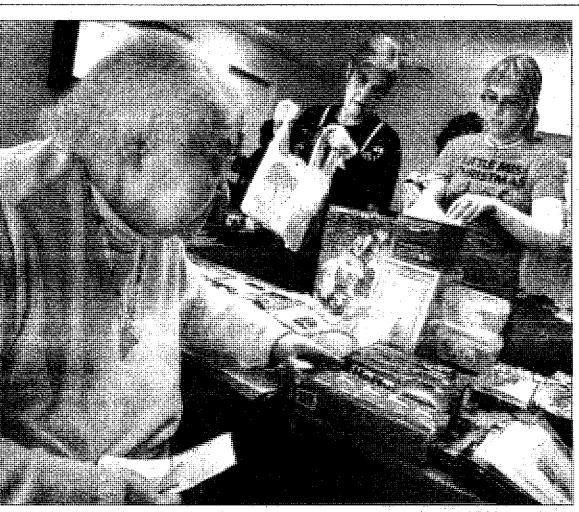

We look forward to continuing to service the metro Detroit market and at this time are not expecting to close other T.J. Maxx locations in the area," Farretta said.

Store brings merchandise to customers

The Dollar Tree at Westland Crossings has a new motto when it comes to residents at the Westland Convalescent and Rehab Center: Have merchandise, will travel.

The store at Warren and Central City Parkway brought selected merchandise to the center last week, letting residents like Esther Alexander do some holiday shop-

"I like it," she said, "especially since I cannot get out."

"Honestly, it was amazing," said assistant store manager Amanda Coffey who worked the sale with her mother, Vicki Cummins, who also is a Dollar Tree cashier. "The residents were so happy. One lady told me she hadn't been out shopping in five years."

Bring the store to the residents was the idea of the center's events planning committee. Member Cathy Horton and Judy Bianchi, the center's marketing manager, visited the store and selected items suitable for the elderly shoppers.

Westland Convalescent and Rehab Center resident Esther Alexander buys Christmas presents from items brought to the center by the Dollar Tree.

"We had two huge carts full of items - socks, scarves, note cards, greeting cards, crayons, pencils, pens, coloring books, children's toys, stuffed animals," said Bianchi. "It was nice because it allowed the residents to purchase gifts for their families."

"They picked so much stuff that we couldn't fit it all on the tables, we had to sell down and then restock," Coffey said.

Career Tech named center of excellence in engineering, science

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Wayne-Westland's William D. Ford Career Technical Center is flying high after learning that it's one of seven "educational communities" to be honored by the Convergence Education Foundation as a 2007 Center of Science and Engineering Excellence.

"Isn't that just the coolest thing," said Center Principal Ginny Kowalski. "I always knew we were good. I always knew we did cool and great things here."

The award "celebrates the success of projects, focused on engineering, science or math, implemented within local educational communities" and was presented to the William D. Ford Career Technical Center, Garfield Elementary School in Flint, Huron County Intermediate School District, Macomb

Academy of Arts and Sciences in Armada, Regina High School in South Euclid, Ohio, Traverse City Central High School and University High School in Ferndale. "The seven educational communities

we are recognizing have each demonstrated their dedication to bringing unique, project-based learning opportunities to the hundreds of youth they serve," said Karl Klimek, the foundation's vice chairman and project orchestrator.

The foundation board of direcors came up with the award after tests results from the Program for International Student Assessment showed that U.S. students are lagging behind their peers in other countries in science and math.

Meals on Wheels seeks volunteers

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A Wayne County program that delivers hot meals to homebound seniors urgently needs volunteers, particularly in Westland and Redford.

"In Westland, we actually have six people waiting for service because we don't have anybody to deliver to them," said Carol Scott, Wayne County Senior Services manager.

To volunteer for the Meals on Wheels program, call (734) 727-7357.

The county provides 2,800 hot meals a day to homebound seniors 60 and older who can't fix their own meals due to physical or mental disabilities, Scott said.

Seniors may make donations to the program to offset costs. Volunteers, including one 90-year-old Redford man, use their own transportation to deliver hot meals between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. In some cases, cold lunches are brought along for weekends.

The county has a kitchen staff that works overnight to prepare the meals, which are distributed through 41 nutrition sites throughout Wayne County.

Westland and Redford are the areas where we really need volunteers right now," Scott said, "but we could use them everywhere."

Volunteers in Westland deliver meals from the senior Friendship Center on Newburgh near Ford, the Kay Beard Building on Michigan Avenue near Merriman and St. Bernardine of Siena Church on Ann Arbor Trail near Merriman.

In particular, the county needs volunteers to deliver meals from St. Bernardine, Scott said.

Redford meals are delivered from the Redford Community Center on Hemingway.

In all, Meals on Wheels volunteers deliver 260 meals a day in Westland and 130 in Redford, Scott said.

Aside from providing hot meals, the program also provides a safety net by having volunteers check up on homebound seniors.

"It means that somebody checks on them every day," Scott said.

Volunteers have to pass a background check, have a good driving record and "just have a good heart," she said. "It is a lot of work, especially in the winter when it's snowing."

Volunteers also have to agree to help out one day a week, delivering meals to 15 to 20 seniors. They get paid 36 cents

Some volunteers have complained that their mileage expenses haven't increased along with rising fuel costs.

"If we paid more for mileage," Scott said, "we'd have to serve less meals."

Franklin focuses on reading, writing skills

BY REBECCA JONES STAFF WRITER

Under the new graduation requirements, there's no room to fall behind, said Franklin High School principal Dan Willenborg.

Parents of ninth-graders who failed one or more class this fall were invited to learn about "a fight worth fighting."

"This is serious stuff right now in ninth-grade," Willenborg said in a report to the school board Monday, during a presentation about the school's improvement plans.

More than 100 parents and students in attendance were given homework tips and taught how to use the Parent Internet Viewer to keep track of grades between progress reports and report cards.

It was the first time the program was offered.

Freshmen are also paired with upperclassmen through the Patriot Relate program to help make their transition to high school smooth, Willenborg explained.

Those are just two programs he highlighted at the school board's committee meeting, held at Franklin. It was the first of three school improvement presentations that the board will hear this year.

The 1,863-student high school recently received its second straight "C" under Michigan's school report card system.

Franklin's goals, under the North Central Accreditation process are to improve students' writing abilities and reading comprehension, said David Bjorklund, chairman of the school improvement

To that end, and to help standardized test scores, teachers in all classes have students read passages, charts and graphs, and summarize what they read. Twice a year, all students are also assigned to write timed essays that not only argue a point, but refute a counterargument.

Tests in other departments give students regular exposure to the types of questions that are asked on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program, Michigan Merit Exam and assessments like EXPLORE and PLAN, which are precursors to the ACT college entrance exam.

Franklin's scores have come in near state averages, but recent reports show the school posting passing rates that surpass the state's in social studies, math and language arts.

"Our performance goal is to score consistently above state averages on standardized tests," Willenborg said.

A higher percentage of advanced placement students are passing AP exams (54 percent last year compared to 43 percent the previous year), said Spanish teacher Lynn Massucci, a member of the school improvement team. In addition, the makeup of the study body is changing. The number of minority students increased from 6 percent two years ago to 13 percent last Getting prepared for the annual Christmas Day dinner hosted by St. Dunstan Catholic Church are Susan Massey (left), director of Christian Service, Judy and Bruce Larry, coordinators of the dinner. For many years, the church has hosted a Christmas Day dinner for people who would otherwise be alone on the holiday. The dinner is free but advance registration is required.

A 'home' for the holiday

St. Dunstan serves dinner for those alone on Christmas Day

BY LEANNE ROGERS STAFF WRITER

Judy Larry is working hard to get out the word that St. Dunstan Catholic Church is hosting their usual Christmas Day dinner for people who would otherwise be alone on the holiday.

A volunteer at the dinner for more than a decade, this is the first year Larry and her husband, Bruce, Westland residents, are coordinators for the Christmas dinner.

'We get elderly folks who call and say they are so happy that we're doing this even with all the troubles we've had — they are just so gratified," said Judy Larry, a member of the parish since the church was built in

"I don't get too emotional with the elderly people but this lady called and went on and on about how she appreciated it so much," added Bruce Larry.

The troubles are the June removal of longtime St. Dunstan pastor the Rev. Donald Demmer amid what the Archdiocese of Detroit called financial irregularities at the parish. That has triggered protests by parishioners seeking Demmer's return. a warrant against a former employee over more than $100,000 missing from the parish. Additionally, $1.4 million is owed due to employee federal withholding being unpaid for five years.

Despite all the turmoil at the parish this year, there really wasn't any question about continuing the holiday tradition that draws 150 or more people for food and holiday compan-"With all the trials and tribulations since June, we tried for some normalcy. We love doing it (the dinner)," said Judy Larry, adding parishioners are fielding a full slate of volunteers to cook and serve the meal.

'We have to continue our ministry. It's our faith and our beliefs that keep us going," added Susan Massey, St. Dunstan Christian Service director, whose program helps provide food and students to help at the dinner. "There was no hesitation about continuing the dinner with all the turmoil. It's such a wonderful project to have here. It is such a welcoming day." Since the dinner is for people who would otherwise be alone on Christmas Day, the guests are predominantly senior citizens. Along with notices in bulletins at area churches, Judy Larry said she has also faxed fliers to area senior housing complexes.

"Some of them will come decked out like New Year's Eve and others will be casual. People come from all over the place," said Judy Larry. "People come and stay for the duration to socialize."

Each year, parish members 1

Al and Donna Spiteri spend weeks thawing, cooking, slicing and refreezing the many donated turkeys needed for the Christmas dinner. Individuals and businesses donate items for the dinner, which is served by members of the parish, as well as provide cash contribu-

"We never say no to a donation," said Judy Larry, adding some donors wish to remain anonymous while others ask where their names will be listed.

The Larrys took over the dinner coordination duties from Mary and John Shurge, who had been in charge for a number of years.

"They retired after many years. We really thank them for their dedication," said Judy Larry. "A lot of people volunteer year after year."

Over the years, Judy Larry recalled making a lot of mashed potatoes for the Christmas dinner working with kitchen supervisor Monica Dubiel.

"She's our kitchen angel," Judy Larry said.

There is no cost for the Christmas Dinner, but advance reservations are required by calling (734) 595-3049. St. Dunstan is located on Belton, the second street west of Inkster Road. Take Belton south from Ford and it will dead end at the church.

Community rallies around injured shop owner

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

"Phenomenal."

That's the word Jill Gaudet is using to describe the response from the Wayne community to a call for help the a gift shop owner who was stabbed numerous times during a robbery Dec. 11.

"Kim (Loveless) called to express how overwhelmed she is with the outpouring of support from the community," said Gaudet, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce executive director in an interview Friday. "She wants to express her heartfelt thanks."

The chamber is serving as a collection point for the names of business and community members willing to volunteer their time at the shop once it reopens, quite possibly next week. It's been closed since last Tuesday evening when Loveless was attacked by a man as she was closing the shop on Wayne Road just south of Glenwood.

Loveless was forced back into the shop by the man who stabbed her and took her purse before fleeing the store. She was treated at Oakwood Annapolis Hospital in Wayne before being transferred to University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

According to Gaudet, the lifelong Wayne resident "is doing very well," but will remain hospitalized a few more weeks.

"This very definitely hurts being closed at this time of the year," said Gaudet.

Gaudet said the names will be given to Loveless and her husband, Brad, who will determine who will work at the shop. Those people will be contacted, but Gaudet isn't sure who will handle that.

A fund-raiser also is planned for Wednesday, Dec. 19, to show support for the couple and collect donations for the Kim Loveless Fund. The event, which includes food, starts at noon and runs through the evening at the Wayne Community Center, 4635 Howe.

The money will go toward a reward being put together by the business community. People with information can call the Wayne police at (734) 721-1414 or through Crimestoppers at (800) SPEAK-UP.

Gaudet added that donations to the Kim Loveless Fund can be dropped off at the chamber office at 34844 W. Michigan

Ave.
"The community is outraged by this," Gaudet said. "We're trying to get the word out that this isn't tolerated here. We're also coming together to show support for the Lovelesses."

For more information or to volunteer, call the chamber at (734) 721-0100.

The honorees have to be current or formerly funded by the foundation, demonstrate a clear focus on engineering, science and/or math, have the support from school staff and administration and have measurable, positive academic and social growth of students and staff as a result of this program. They also had to clearly communicate the foundation's primary mission of fostering cutting-edge of engineering in education.

The William D. Ford Career Technical Center is a long-time Convergence Education Foundation partner. It was a participant in the foundation's innovative design vehicle program and won several awards — the Convergence Education Foundation's Vehicle Performance Award and Ambassadorship Award and the 2007 Excellence in Practice Award from the Michigan Department of Labor and Economic Growth's Bureau of Career Education Programs for the student-built Thunderbolt II IVD.

The designation honors the center for its creation of an engineering curriculum with hands-on projects ranging from rocket development to participation in the IVD program as well as the Ambassadorship program, which sends high school students to middle schools to inspire kids to attend college and pursue a career in engineering.

Kowalski credits school social worker Sue Wilk with initiating the partnership with the Convergence Education Foundation and the IVD program. Wilk wanted "another way to connect with the students." She worked with teachers J.C. Irvine, Oracle Academy, Zach MacLean, electronics, and Jim Schirmer, auto technology, on the twoyear project.

"We owe this all to them, they were the core group, and Sue was my cheerleader," said Kowalski. "She coordinated the whole money piece. She's the heartbeat of the group."

The center is already started working on its second IVD car which will is being built on a golf cart frame and will be powered by a hydrogen cell, she added.

"We are doing some amazing things here," said Kowalski. "I wasn't surprised we, but I'm pleased because it gives us more visibility."

The foundation will present the award to the center at the Wayne-Westland school board's Jan. 14 meeting.

STORE

The "store" was tables set up in a square in the center's dining room. Shoppers lined up early hoping to be the first one. The hottest items were crayons and coloring books, so much so that they had to go back to the store for more crayons, Coffey said. Many residents came back several times, she added.

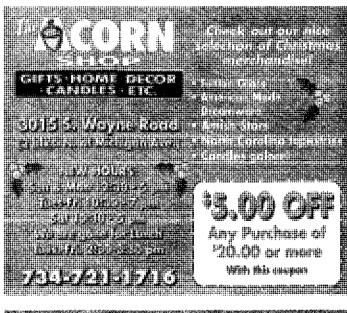

Bianchi estimates that 50 residents, family members and members of the staff took advantage of the shopping.

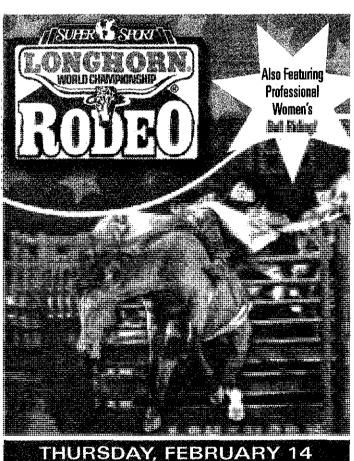

Coffey said snacks were popular with the staff.

"I run the school Santa shops, but working with the seniors is different, but seeing the smiles on their face made it all worthwhile," she said. "It was wonderful. It was a great experience. We had one resident asked if we'd be back again before Christmas."

Bianchi would like to do it twice a year — in the spring and before the holidays.

"Absolutely, we'll be doing it again, "she said. "We weren't sure what to expect, but it turned out nice. It was quite successful."

Grad, 76, realizes nursing degree dream

STAFF WRITER

It's never too late to pursue a dream. Just ask Lillian

The 76-year-old Coldwater resident joined 47 other Madonna University nursing graduates Thursday at a pinning ceremony at Laurel Manor, Anderson delivered the keynote/inspirational speech and was honored with the writing award and the O'Neill Award for Humanistic Nursing for her compassion and caring.

"She was an inspiration to her fellow students," said marketing director. "There wasn't a dry eye in the room after she told her story."

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, December 16, 2007

It hasn't come easily. "Ever since I was a kid I wanted to be a nurse, but life got in the way," she said Friday. "When I turned 70, I needed a new direction and some friends sat me down and asked what had I always wanted to do and I said I wanted to be a nurse."

Anderson worked 48 years as a secretary, 20 years at Ford Motor Co., retiring in 1995. She already had a degree from Madonna.

"I had graduated from Madonna with a bachelor's ment. I decided to take business because it tied into my work at Ford Motor Co.," she said. "I thought I was too old to be a nurse, but I guess I'm

She actually began her business degree studies in the 1960s but had to put them on hold when her son, Kevin Giedre, was diagnosed with bone cancer. She cared for him until his death at 18 in 1973. She finally earned that first bachelor's degree in 1989.

She registered for Madonna's hospice program in 1991 but never attended classes because her second husband became ill and she cared for him until he died in 2000.

She began the nursing program in 2002 but her daughter, Judy Zammit, had been diagnosed with ovarian cancer. She died earlier this year at age 54.

"She was a 10-year survivor," Anderson said. "She was a fantastic example for so many of us."

Next week, Anderson will be making the long drive from Coldwater to Troy to take Kaplan classes to prepare for the state board exam. "It's like taking the bar exam, you want to get it right the first time," she said.

Anderson admits she might be too old to become hospital floor nurse but she is interested in working in hospice care.

"For my emergence, I worked at Angela Hospice, a wonderful place," she said.

At Madonna an "emergence" is a real workplace experience allowing students to emerge into the real work world. "I worked with a preceptor, Paula Bending, who is the epitome of what a nurse should be," Anderson said.

She is looking into doing some home hospice care when she passes her boards.

"What an inspiration, she is," said Teresa Thompson, dean of the College of Nursing and Health. "It's been a pleasure to watch her grow, and care, and give to so many. She's become part of who we are at Madonna."

HFCC Federal Depository Library celebrates 50 years

The Henry Ford Community College Eshleman Library celebrated 50 years as a designated Federal Depository Library last week with a recognition ceremony and reception in the library.

The Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP) was established by Congress to ensure that the American public has access to government information. The Eshleman library is one of 44 libraries in the state and 1,200 in the country to be part of the FDLP. Libraries that have been designated as federal depositories receive government information free of charge and maintain these information products as part of their existing collections.

These libraries also are responsible for providing professional assistance to patrons and assuring that the public has free access to the material. The libraries must offer the FDLP services for free to all taxpayers of the district in which the library is located. At HFCC, the public also is welcomed to use other resources in the Eshleman library except for the Media Center, which is for students only.

"We are able to provide government information to those who are on campus, Dearborn residents, and those in the surrounding communities," said Victoria Morris, HFCC's government documents librarian. Morris, of Redford, has been working part time for the FDLP program at HFCC for 15 years. She obtained a bachelor's degree in history and anthropology, a master's degree in library science and a certificate in archival administration from Wayne State University. She believes that public access to government documents is a vital part of the freedom that Americans experience.

"To have access to the day-to-day workings of the Congress and the President are extremely important to a free and democratic society," Morris said.

a plaque and certificate from the U.S. Government Printing Office to Barb Lukasiewicz, director of HFCC's Eshleman Library, and Morris.

The ceremony was held in the library's Irene Vogt Seminar Room, named in honor of HFCC's first librarian, who was responsible for acquiring the Eshleman library's designation as a Federal Depository Library in 1957. Vogt died in 2004 at the age of 100. Four years prior to her death, the seminar room in the library was dedicated to her

Lukasiewicz spoke fondly of Vogt, saying she "was an absolute charming and vibrant woman."

Lukasiewicz, who lives in Westland, has been the Eshleman Library's director for 17 years. She previously worked at the University of Michigan-Dearborn for 11 years and Oakland University for two years as a librarian. She received a bachelor's degree in sociology and a master's degree in library science from Wayne State University.

The Eshleman Library is a selective depository, choosing to accept some, but not all of the government documents available, according to Morris. The library receives govern-on a wide variety of topics, such as education, health, law, government, arts, history, the environment, careers and occupational data, the space program and criminal justice.

The library also receives such major publications as the Congressional Record, the Federal Register, the Code of Federal Regulations, the U.S. Code, which describes all laws and their revisions and the Statutes at Large, which is a record of all laws and resolutions passed by Congress.

The library also provides access to online government information. Some older information is offered on microfilm and microfiche. The library has approximately 80,000 government documents, according to Morris

According to Morris, some of the more interesting documents available at the Eshleman Library include reports of the Hurricane Katrina hearings, Congressional records, the 9/11 report, President Richard Nixon's pardon, the Space Shuttle Challenger disaster report and foreign country profiles written by the CIA.

The Eshleman Library is located on Henry Ford Community College's main campus at 5101 Evergreen Road in Dearborn.

Hannah mania hits the wall

Pop star's image sells big for Livonia-based Fathead

BY ALEX LUNDBERG STAFF WRITER

Now that Hannah Montana is scaling the heights of pop stardom, a Livonia firm is ready to give her a prominent place on your tween's wall.

The Disney teen-pop phenom is now the newest offering from Fathead, the Livonia-based company that's been putting NFL stars on rec room walls for the past three years.

 ${\bf Fathead\ LLC\ public\ relations}$ coordinator Megan Tarsha said the line is huge.

'We've got entertainment lines like Family Guy, Simpsons and Star Wars, as well as (comic book) heroes, military and the WWE," she said. "We recently licensed with Disney."

Recently, in this case, means two weeks, and the new Disney line of Fathead decorations includes images from Cars and Pirates of the Caribbean. But little is rivaling the quick sales of the image of Hannah Montana (played by Miley Cyrus).

"Sales are going very well," Tarsha said. "Hannah Montana has become one of the top sellers over the weekend."

Particularly, Hannah is No. 3 as of Monday, Dec. 3, trailing only football players Tony Romo and Tom Brady. It's expected to be a big Christmas seller even at $99.95 plus ship-

Fathead CEO Brock Weatherup said the company's owner, Dan Gilbert, the man behind Quicken Loans and the majority owner of the Cleveland Cavaliers NBA franchise, bought the company a year and a half ago as a way to capitalize on sports excitement.

Livonia-based Fathead LLC recently added Hannah Montana to its stock of life-sized, wall-hanging images of NFL and NBA stars, Family Guy characters and more.

"It's a unique opportunity to create a new category in wall decoration," he said. "It's cheaper than painting and easier than wallpaper. You can take it down in one room, put it up in another and there's no residue."

The company's bread and butter is still centered around its sports lines with NFL images — Brett Favre and Tom Brady — selling best over the company's history. The company also offers soccer, action sports, NHL, NBA, Sports Illustrated Swimsuit Models and NASCAR-themed alundberg@hometownlife.com | (734) 953-2109

There's no limit to what's next. Really, since it can apply to anything people cheer about, there's only a question of licensing.

"We're adding more components soon," Weatherup said. "We're working with licensing a substantial portfolio of products."

Boxing, he said, is coming, and without naming names he said the "greatest of all time" is on his way to becoming a Fathead, too.

Tips help keep holidays safe

The holiday season can turn tragic - even deadly - unless people use caution.

With that, the Westland Fire Department has issued some recommendations.

Because a burning tree can rapidly fill a room with fire and deadly gases, officials urge residents to carefully choose and maintain Christmas trees. When you bend a needle between your fingers, it shouldn't break. When you get it home, cut an inch from the bottom to help it absorb water, and mount the tree in a stand designed not to tip. Water the tree frequently. A 6-foot tree will use a gallon of water every two days.

A dried-out tree can be consumed by fire in less than 30 seconds.

Also, use caution with holiday lights. Choose brands that bear the mark of a testing laboratory. Check old sets of lights for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires, or loose connections. If lights are broken, throw them away.

Use no more than three standard-size sets of lights per single extension cord. Don't overload electrical outlets, and always unplug lights before leaving home or going to sleep. To avoid the risk of electrocution, never use electric lights on a metallic tree.

Make sure lights used outdoors are weatherproof and labeled for outdoor use.

All holiday decorations should be non-flammable or flameretardant and placed away from heat vents. Avoid decorations that break easily or have sharp edges. Keep pieces that may be swallowed away from children.

Holly and mistletoe can be fatal to small children, and poinsettia leaves can cause a ach. Call 9-1-1, if a child has ingested a holiday plant. Keep candles a safe distance from other things. Never use them on a tree, and keep them away from other decorations and wrapping paper. Fire officials recommend fire detectors as Christmas gifts. More than 90 percent of fire deaths occur in homes between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. when residents are sleeping. Dispose of gift wrappings soon after presents are opened. Don't burn the paper in the fireplace; it can ignite suddenly and cause a flash fire.

Also, use caution when cooking during the holidays. Unattended cooking is the leading cause of home fires in the United States. Don't use ovens or other cooking equipment to heat a home.

Finally, check smoke alarm batteries and replace them if necessary. They should be replaced twice a year. Test alarms once a month by using the alarm's "test" button. Replace smoke alarms every 10 years. And, have a home fire escape plan.

Traditions make holidays magical

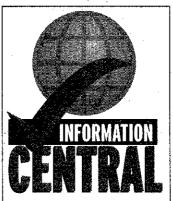

What makes a holiday tradition more special than any other? Traditions are passed down from generation to generation and the holidays seem to be filled with special people, ideas, meals and customs. These may vary from culture to culture or from person to person, but it's what makes the holiday time even more magical.

Traditions can be as simple as going to the Thanksgiving Parade, no matter what the weather, or at least watching it on television and waiting for Santa to arrive. There are the traditional Christmas photos that are and yes, even fruitcake, are served taken to be used as the annual card to be sent to friends and relatives near and far. And don't forget that visit to Santa or the Christmas Eve church service.

Even shopping can be considered a tradition. Look at all of the people who get up early in the morning the day after Thanksgiving to try to get that great bargain and then go out again the day after Christmas to hit more sales.

Many people have special ornaments to put on their Christmas tree that remind them of special times and people in their lives. And does it really feel like the holidays until you hear that favorite carol of yours or watch your favorite holiday special on television?

Even what is served as the family meal can be considered traditional. Green bean casseroles, vams, ham,

Arc eases way for developmentally disabled

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI CORRESPONDENT

Wondering how to steer your children down the right path is agonizing enough and when you add mental disabilities to the mix, the quagmire thick-

But, for Tammy Roth, a Redford resident with an autistic son, The Arc of Northwest Wayne County helped her find a way through. In fact, more than half the staff members at The Arc have children with mental disabilities.

"We weren't sure where to turn," Roth said.

Her son, Tim Roth, 17, was in the eighth grade and was removed from Hilbert Middle School for behavior problems when she were referred to The Arc. He was being taught at home by a visiting teacher, but Tammy Roth wanted help for Tim to make the transition back to the school.

Tim Roth is extremely high functioning and you likely wouldn't recognize a problem when you first meet him. But, he has difficulty with socialization and reading, said Roth, explaining that Tim is now in 11th grade and earning A's and

"We got together as a team at the school to see what support he would need to make that transition and how we could help him overcome his behavior issues," Roth said.

The Arc helps around 2,000 people annually and most often and their parents were told provides information about how to access programs in schools and mental health services, as well as entitlements like Social Security benefits and Medicaid, according to Christine Lerchen, The Arc executive director, who is also the mother of a 27-year-old daughter who is severely multiply impaired as the result of birth defects. Lerchen's daughter isn't verbal, but has managed to hold a job for 71/2 years and is living in her own condo.

"Our purpose at The Arc is to help them receive services they need to live in the community," Lerchen said. "One of the most important things is providing self-determination to purchase services. They can hire their own staff, pick their own food and people who can help them. Being self determined and having control in their life is important to us."

The Arc has five full-time and three part-time staff.

"And three of us are parents with sons and daughters with disabilities," Lerchen said. "We're professional and experienced, because we've walked in the shoes of the people we help. Because our staff is knowledgeable and connected, parents really get relief when they call here. They get information they need, they're connected to sources and there's support from our

The Arc serves residents from infants to adults with developmental disabilities in Redford, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Canton and Northville and is located on Five Mile in Redford.

"In the past people with developmental disabilities were sent off to institutions to just forget about them and there was nothing you could do," Lerchen said. "As time has gone on parents didn't like that decision. Many parents kept children at home and they realized they really needed more help."

The Arc was initiated in 1961 by a group of parents who called themselves the Redford Association for Retarded Children. Over the years that group evolved into The Arc. There are state and national branches, as well.

A lot of programs are offered, including the Just Fun Club, which offers adult social activi-

"It's a wonderful committee of parents who put together a calendar of social events for people and arrange all the outings and dances," Lerchen said. "They can do things in the community like anyone else in their age groups."

The Arc also has an athletic program with 100 volunteers and 200 athletes who compete in the local Special Olympics

Lekotek, a program provided The Arc, is for infants to children 12 years old who meet monthly with their families for play sessions. Families meet with play leaders, who introduce specialized and regular toys. They're also invited to borrow toys they like best. Lekotek also provides free sign language classes.

Plan preserves funds for local 9-1-1 centers

A Westland lawmaker . joined the Michigan House in passing a plan that preserves funding for local 9-1-1 centers. The plan would ensure that first responders throughout Michigan can act quickly to help residents in life-threatening situations and protect rural communities.

"As lawmakers, we have a responsibility to keep our communities safe," said Rep. Richard LeBlanc, D-Westland, chair of the State Police and Military and Veterans Affairs Committee. "Michigan's 911 call centers must be functioning and reliable and our first responders must be able to act swiftly and appropriately. Oftentimes, a 9-1-1 call is the difference between life and death.'

The plan passed by the House last Thursday protects the state funding that helps establish, maintain and operate 911 systems throughout Michigan.

Under the plan, users of any 9-1-1-enabled device – landlines, cell phones and Internet phones - will pay the same user charge of just 19 cents a month. The money will help ensure that counties can operate their life-saving 9-1-1 systems.

The plan requires that counties use all of the funding solely for the purpose of implementing, maintaining and operating their 9-1-1 centers.

"All sorts of emergency situations arise, from crime to health emergencies, and no matter what the circumstance, Michigan's residents must be able to count on a getting a quick response when calling 9-1-1," LeBlanc said. "Maintaining the necessary resources to support our 9-1-1 call centers ensures that Michigan families receive the emergency services they need to keep them safe."

It's time to get into holiday spirit despite noxious fumes t's time to become enthused with the holiday spirit.

I am running late this year because I have been swamped with other issues both at the office and at home. For some inexplicable reason I decided to renovate my bedroom in the shack that I call a home.

The house is nearly 80 years old and has been virtually untouched for most of that time. So I have such charming amenities as crumbling walls and 30 coats of paint on the baseboards. That is especially troubling because the baseboards are the finest thing in the house, as they are large and made up of beautiful old oak.

Greg Kowalski

For the last month I have been stripping them back to their original state and refinishing them. As a result I am now infused with a different type of spirit — chemical paint stripper and vapors from a heat gun.

My goal is to have the job done by Christmas, which is a key reason I will be off next week, and thoroughly immersed in the world of do-it-yourself home repair. And then I will set up my tiny Christmas tree on the dining room table. At least I have that down to a science. I keep the 2foot artificial tree in a box in the attic until Christmas when I pull it out, already fully decorated, and plop it on the table.

This is very different experience from when I was growing up and each Christmas and we had a giant, allegedly alive, Christmas tree in the living

That was mainly due to my father, who loved Christmas. He loved it so much he kept a Christmas tree fully decorated in the basement all year-round. It would start off alive, but by July the needles would become as brittle as glass and the slightest touch would send them falling like raindrops.

The living room Christmas tree only stayed up until Three Kings Day, a week or so after Christmas. But by then it too had been ravaged by dryness and suffered invasions by our cats, which liked to climb into the branches.

It was weird. You would sit on the sofa and get the feeling that someone was watching you. Then you would look to the tree and see a pair of eyes peering at you from among the branches. The cats loved the Christmas tree too. They would often knock it down. My dad would swear at them. They were unimpressed.

My dad tied a ribbon around the top of tree and nailed it to the wall to keep it from falling. It fell over anyway. My two brothers and my sister usually left the house in the care of my everpatient mother while my dad set up the Christmas tree or did any plumbing around the house.

Every job he did was measured in the amount of God damns. The Christmas tree usually rated four or five. But installing the garbage disposal, whew, that was a whole litany. Yet the disposal was installed and the tree did get set into place, although sometimes a bit precariously.

If all this sounds a little like the movie A Christmas Story, I'm not surprised. I grew up in a house and neighborhood very similar to what was depicted in that movie.

I get nostalgic every time I see it, so much of it hits so close to home. My dad did not have a table lamp shaped like a woman's leg. But he sure would have liked one.

Truth about aborigines

An Observer letter writer wrote. "Personally, I find it a great irony that aboriginal people of North America are being labeled immigrants to this country."

Now I agree with this statement. unfortunately, you received and printed an opinion letter that believed native Americans, aborigines of North America are "not Mexicans, Central Americans ... or even Canadians ..." This is misleading and inaccurate.

Historical facts do identify Indians as the first inhabitants of the North American region and they have occupied it for at least 20,000 years, roaming freely throughout North America for centuries, relocating when the need arose before European settlers came. Many native Americans were nomadic and came from Canadian or Mexican territories to U.S. territories and many native Americans now in present-day Canada and Mexico came from what are now U.S. territories.

Further more The World Book Encyclopedia Volume 4 printed in the United States of America, Library of Congress catalog number 64-7000. defined the following fact: "When Europeans first settled in North America, the largest number of native Americans (aborigines) lived in present-day Mexico and Central America." It also states: "Today many people in these regions have pure Indian ancestry, and even larger numbers are mestizos of mixed Indian and European descent."

These are native Americans, aborigines but because they are born outside of U.S. territories they are labeled immigrants to our country. This is the irony I see that aboriginal people, people of Indian ancestry in North America are now labeled immigrants in lands their ancestors roamed freely for centuries.

Ron Paul is good choice

As you know, the 2008 presidential election is coming up in a year. I believe that electing our next president is a very important decision to make. There are many candidates running, but only two are widely known. I have asked more than 100 students and people of my community who they believe would be the top choice. Every single one of them drew a blank. Their only response was "I don't think it would be Clinton or Obama." I also asked if they could name a few candidates and only a few could. Others named were Mitt Romney, John Edwards, "that mayor of New York," and to my surprise, John

This is a problem. The only known candidates are two unacceptable choices in my opinion. It's not that I feel Clinton or Obama are bad people, but I feel Obama's lack of political experience and Clinton's past as first lady could get in the way of important decision making.

My vote in 2008 is going to a man named Ron Paul. This is my choice through many hours of research. I am not trying to force my opinion of Ron Paul for president on people, but I do feel the lesser known candidates deserve more news coverage. The media is turning a critical election into a popularity contest. This election is for leadership, responsibility and honesty for the future of our country. If you give less attention to the nonsense and more to the candidates, people will be able to make an educated choice. This is a very important subject and I want society to be more aware of it.

I am just 17, soon to be an 18-year-old student who has not yet had to face the harsh realities of the world, but I am concerned for my future. When the time comes for me to face life, I want to be sure it's a world of order and what's right.

I have a message and I will make sure it gets heard. I only ask for your cooperation.

Don't believe them

With all the job losses and foreclosures in Michigan, most of the mortgage companies are offering to help customers. They say just call and we will work something out. Well, let me tell you, if the rest are anything like ours, don't you believe for a minute that they really care or want to help you.

First you have to give them a complete financial report of all income and expenses, all of it documented, of course, which is understandable. But it your income doesn't meet or exceed your expenses, you are not eligible for any of their help programs. If we had income to cover all of our expenses, we would not need any help, this is totally absurd.

All we were asking for was a threemonth forbearance and add those three months on the end of the loan with any appropriate interest, which would be no skin off their noses, if they weren't so greedy. When I get my lump sum payment from SSDI, I will pay everything up to date and never be late, as it was before my

But no, they won't do that because we do not qualify for their program, so now we stand to lose our home of 27 years because my wife who is presently our only source of income has to have surgery. Also, after nine months on the market, we could not sell it either.

So if you're having trouble paying your mortgage, don't believe them when they say they want to help.

Tired of Quicken talk

I don't know Dan Gilbert, owner of Quicken Loans personally, nor do I know if he was actually contemplating moving his mortgage company out of Michigan. I have never talked to him about it. I don't believe most of the people that have an opinion about who is responsible for letting him move from Livonia to Detroit have talked to him either. I do know that I'm tired of hearing about it.

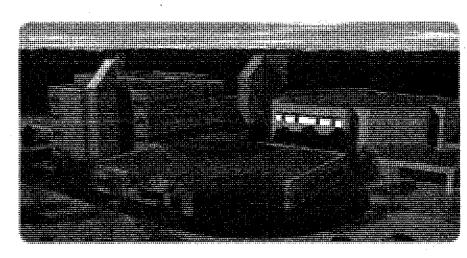

Most of the employees will stay with the company because it's a good place to work. I know quite a few that work in the Livonia office and they come from Livonia, Detroit, Canton, Westland, South Lyon, Taylor, etc. Some will be driving a little farther and some will have a shorter drive. Most of them probably stayed on the premises for lunch because it was inconvenient to give up a parking space for that short hour, so nearby restaurants probably didn't get a lot of their business and won't lose much.

The buildings will remain in Livonia, so someone will still have to pay property taxes on them and eventually another business will move in. The decision to relocate was done on Mayor Engebretson's watch and I'm also sure Mr. Kirksey read about the possibility long before it happened just like the rest of us. Why didn't either of them stop it then? The fact remains that Dan Gilbert is moving his company to another Michigan city in three or four years and may have planned on doing that all aloug. Maybe he was just playing a game with everyone. Enough already!

Fee-only financial advisers avoid conflicts of interest

Dear Rick: I was approached by a financial adviser. He told me that I pay nothing for bis services and that he is paid by the different mutual funds to help people like me. I am somewhat suspicious. Should I be?

Your instincts are correct and you have every right to be suspicious. You were really dealing with a financial salesperson not a financial adviser.

All too often, financial salespeople who work on commission do not want to disclose how they are compensated. Mutual funds and other investment companies make it easy for them to hide what the consumer is paying. It appears the person who you are dealing with is a commission-based salesperson. When you invest in one of the mutual funds that he/she is selling, the money comes off the top and goes directly to the salesperson.

When you purchase a commissioned mutual fund, there are two components of the investment, the commission and the amount actually going into the investment. For example, if you invest $10,000 in a 7 percent commission (loaded) mutual fund, $700 goes to the salesperson and only $9,300 of your money is actually invested.

In addition, some mutual funds have 12b-1 fees, additional sales charges assessed on a year-by-year basis through higher management fees. Money comes out of your account in the form of higher management fees and goes directly to the salesperson as additional compensation.

My problem with commissions and 12b-1 fees is they are typically very difficult for the individual consumer to know what they are paying. The mutual fund companies and the financial salespeople do their best to hide these fees from you.

Anyone who has listened to my radio show or read my columns over the years knows I am not a fan of commissions. I believe commissions create a conflict of interest. After all, why do you think companies that work on commissions such as mutual fund companies and variable annuities offer their salespersons sales incentives such as free trips to sell their products? Obviously, they want the salesperson to concentrate on the sale not on proper planning for the individual.

As far as I am concerned, when someone deals with someone in the financial world, they shouldn't be dealing with a salesperson. They shouldn't be dealing with someone whose loyalty is to the investment company instead of to the client.

Over the years, I have seen many commissioned people in the financial world. Unfortunately, all too often Unfortunately, there are too few good commissioned financial advisers.

My firm employees and I recommend fee-only advisers who charge for their services and make no compensation from any product they recommend. When advisers are not burdened by conflicts of interest that commissions create, they can operate for the benefit of the most important person — the client.

Spartans post 9th straight win vs. Patriots

Stevenson likely to be No. 1

Brad Emons, editor . (734) 953-2123 . bemons@hometownlife.com

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

The unbeaten Livonia Stevenson hockey team completed an impressive three-day, three-game sweep Friday by earning its ninth straight victory with a 3-0 win Friday over Livonia Franklin at Edgar Arena.

The Spartans, carried 1-O lead into the third period before senior captain Mike Voran tallied a power-play goal from R.J. Kierdorf and Cole Rochowiak with 5:43 to play to give Stevenson some breathing room. Voran then scored again on assists from Ian Curran and Sean Lerg just two minutes later to put the game away.

Curran, a senior forward, scored what proved to be the game-winner on a four-on-four situation at 6:45 of the second period with Kierdorf and Voran adding assists.

"It's not only tough physically, but mentally as well, but that can't be an excuse," said Stevenson first-year coach David Mitchell, whose team defeated Lake Orion (3-1) and Plymouth (5-0) on the previous two nights. "We like the challenge that it presents, and hopefully it will help us later on in the season.' Stevenson netminder Pat McHugh had to make only 10 saves to record his eighth win of the year. It was also the

The Patriots opened the game with a 5-on-3 opportunity, but couldn't cash in.

"It seems like we start slow and build momentum," Wirgau said. "But I'm proud that we played hard until the end. I cannot feel good about the score, but I feel good about the

Zebras' guard nets 34 in victory earns 66-54 triumph

Trenia Barbee was virtually unstoppable Friday night.

The 5-foot-8 senior guard from Wayne Memorial poured in 14 of her gamehigh 34 points in the decisive fourth quarter to lead the visiting Zebras to a 51-38 Western Lakes Activities Association crossover girls basketball win at Livonia Stevenson.

"She'd drive it to the paint and make that fadeaway jumper," said Stevenson first-year coach Pat Cannon, whose team was outscored 18-8 in the fourth quarter. "We gave up only 10 transition points and I thought Rebecca Bartek did a heck of a job on her."

Wayne, 1-20 a year ago, is now 3-2 overall.

Nastassia Goines chipped in with 10 points for the Zebras, who rallied after trailing by six points in the fourth quarter. Bre'Ana Sims grabbed eight rebounds.

Wayne shot 10-of-23 from the free throw line.

Kaylee McGrath scored 13 and Sarah Smith added 10 for the Spartans, who couldn't overcome 9-of-21 foul shooting and 29 turnovers.

Ashley Price chipped in with six points, while Brittany Taylor added eight rebounds and four steals for the Patriots, who outscored Churchill 16-9 in the final period.

Cards sign Gooding

Dearborn Divine Child right-handed pitcher and second baseman Jeremy Gooding (Livonia) recently signed a NCAA Division II letter-of-intent to play baseball next year at Saginaw Valley State.

In seven starts and six relief appearances last spring with the Falcons, Gooding posted a 4-2 record with an earned run average of 1.24.

In 50.2 innings, the former Livonia Lookouts and Michigan Muskrats summer league player struck out 68 (9.4 average per seven innings) while allowing 34 walks and 26 hits.

Gooding, who batted .326, also considered Madonna, Xavier University (Ohio) and the University of Cincinnati. He spent two years at Livonia Franklin H.S. before transferring to DC and attended St. Michael's Grade School in Livonia.

Grand Valley State University freshman Jeff Pauza (Livonia Stevenson) earned a NCAA Division II National B cut recently in the 1.650yard freestyle with a time of 16 minutes, 25.39 seconds at the Wheaton College (Ill.)

Grosse Pointe North upends Churchill for 1st defeat Stevenson pins

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Grosse Pointe North continues to be a major thorn in the side of the Livonia Churchill boys hockey team.

Despite an 1-4-1 season start, the Norsemen got a hat trick Wednesday night from Dante Deserrano to upend the state's No. 1-ranked team in Division 1 at Livonia's Edgar Arena, 6-3.

"It was not one of our better games, but hats off to North, said Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni, whose team dropped to 6-1 overall. "They (North) came ready to play and deserved the victory. We had too many mental mistakes and did not take care of the puck in the defensive zone."

North, which upended the No. 1-ranked Chargers 3-2 in last year's Division 1 state quarterfinal, led 1-0 after one period on Mike Neveux scored from John Neveux and Anthony Raymond at 8:03.

The second period featured a flurry of goals as Nathan Milam notched an unassisted

Deseranno answered with goals at 3:27 and 8:48 to make it 3-1 in favor of North before Churchill's Garrett Miencier answered on a power-play with an assist from Keith Yackley at 9:04.

Desserano struck again just 51 seconds later from John Neveux and Milam scored his 18th of the season on a fouron-four situation at 11:05 to cut the deficit to 4-3.

But the Norsemen gave themselves some breathing room at 11:57 of the second period on a power-play from Justin Kovacs and Kevin Gibson followed by Scott Brown's goal at 14:31 from Deserrano.

Churchill goal tenders Greg Wirick and Derrick Daigneau each let in three goals and combined for 20 saves.

North goalie Erik Rohrkemper made 26 saves. Churchill was 1-for-7 on the power play, while North was Livonia Stevenson captured four of five matches to win Saturday's Auburn Hills Avondale team invitational wrestling tournament.

The Spartans, now 4-1 overall, defeated host Yellow Jackets (39-31), Madison Heights Lamphere (49-15), Warren Fitzgerald (36-31) and Rochester Stoney Creek (56-

Runner-up Troy Athens handed the Spartans their only setback,

"This was a very competitive tournament," Stevenson coach Dan Vaughan said. "We went into this invitational with four weight classes filled with back-up wrestlers."

Undefeated wrestlers on the day for Stevenson included Anthony Mainella (135 pounds), Jonny Myshock (145-152), Ziad Kharbush (171) and Matt Greenman (215).

Posting 4-1 records included Michael Fobar (112), Tommy Myshock (125), Mitchell Gonzales (130) and Emanuel Onwuemene

"The young kids did a good job picking up wins in some key matches," Vaughan added. "However, there is plenty of work to be done. Winning this tournament with so many reserves is a testament to our senior leadership, who did their jobs by pinning and earning bonus points with technical falls and major decisions."

MAT ROUNDUP

Franklin earned three individual titles in Saturday's 17-school Berkley Invitational wrestling tournament.

Anchor Bay captured the team title, while Lincoln Park placed third.

Individual winners for the Patriots included Jared Pieknik (112), Matt Hintz (135 pounds) and Brandon Smith (140).

"Smith is finally looking like the wrestler we knew he could be when he was a freshman," Franklin coach Dave Chiola said. "We still have a few guys that we need to get moving in the right direction, and who knows what we'll be capable of."

Franklin Second-places went to Don Stratz (152) and Dan Woodall (189), while Cody Hay (215) and Mike Modes (285) added fourths. Brandon Billiau (145) and Garrett Hay (160) contributed fifths.

"Each time we compete we improve on something," Chiola said. "We still have a long way to go, but it's nice to see improvement. In the past we peaked early and then hung on. There is so little varsity experience on this team that we're just not where we want to be. We also have some major holes that we have to compensate for that we never had to worry about before. They do work hard, though, and they're hungry."

ranked team in Division 1. The Patriots were coming off a 9-1 loss the previous Friday to No. 1-ranked Livonia Churchill.

"We were forcing our game, which was a possession game, and I thought we played our game better than theirs," Wirgau said. "We changed our forecheck. It's something we worked on all week thinking the outcome would be different. The foundation is in place, we just have to get better at our game."

Mitchell, meanwhile, advised his team prior to the third period to "keep doing what we're doing."

"It was a hockey game, what we expected," the Stevenson coach added. "Franklin is an improved, hard-working club who I expected to compete the whole game. I told them to move the puck and finish their checks - do the things that make us successful.'

The Spartans limited their opponents to a total of 32 shots during the three-game sweep. But against Franklin, they took eight penalties.

We definitely stress the defensive end," Mitchell said. "We want to limit chance and goals against like any

Holiday hassles

Experts offer tips on sailing through the season stress-free

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

It's no wonder Dr. Jackie Odom is seeing more patients under stress. All of the shopping, parties and family gatherings leave little time to sleep, eat properly and exercise. According to the Beaumont Hospital psychologist, healthy living is essential to balance the demands of the holidays.

"You have to look at the sources of stress, the increased commitments and responsibilities. The other big source of stress is financial. As much as you might want to give, there might be restrictions. People can't afford to give as they used to given the economy in Michigan. They're getting themselves into debt by buying more than they can afford," said Odom, a licensed marriage and family psychologist. "If there's family conflict they're having to confront that. Dealing with loss at a time when you're supposed to be happy creates stress. If you already have depression when you're supposed to be happy that creates a stress.

As director of psychology for Beaumont Weight Center, Odom helps patients reduce their intake of food and alcohol. That's especially difficult when holiday parties offer calorie-laden beverages and trays of goodies.

"Stress eating is the worst thing you can do," said Odom of Bloomfield Hills. "They need to identify the sources of stress, the issue of loneliness for people who don't have families. The second step is to develop strategies to try to minimize stress. It's important to develop a support system, if not your family, make a family of choice. Surround yourself with friends who are caring, a church group, volunteer to serve at a soup kitchen, deliver gifts to a children's unit of a hospital, just wrap packages at a store to get yourself out."

STRESS FACTOR

According to Odom, stress is related to 80 to 90 percent of illnesses.

"Stress decreases immune system functioning making us susceptible to colds, etc. There's a whole list of symptoms like headaches, pain syndromes, digestive problems that may be exasperated with stress," said Odom. "It also increases cholesterol, hypertension. Studies have shown that fat building up in the abdomen can be related to stress. The body is designed to deal with chronic stress as if there's a food shortage so a lot of this make sense.

Odom says it helps to raise spirits by focusing on what you have to be grateful for and

"I suggest to patients during the holidays to look at the year that's just passed, look at the goals you've accomplished and wbat goals you still need to work on for 2008, all the different areas of your life. Look at trying to balance yourself as best as you can," said Odom, who is challenged by gift buying for her 9-year-old daughter's teachers and preparing to visit relatives in Florida with her daughter and husband.

"I exercise, walk a lot on an indoor track every day and eat healthfully," said Odom. "I enjoy spending time with my daughter. We have two puppies who I love walking and I enjoy helping the Michigan Humane Society to support cancer research and trying to raise funds."

Sandra Finkel meditates early in her day and then again later in the evening. Throughout the year, she shares stress relieving techniques in prevention and rehabilitation classes for the cardiovascular medicine division at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"There are a lot of links between stress and heart disease. The stress alone can increase risk factors," said Finkel, a stress management specialist and manager of stress management services at the University of Michigan Hospital. "The first thing is to recognize how much we increase our stress through our thoughts. We need to have more of an awareness that we're creating more stress by worrying, holding onto the

WAYS TO COPE

Finkel suggests practicing techniques such as relaxation, deep breathing, meditation, journaling and imagery, and to eat more fruits, vegetables and whole grains, lean protein sources like legumes, and drink plenty of water. Finkel exercises during her lunch hour in the fitness center at work.

"Plan activities according to your values. That may mean saying no to going to the party you hate if you want more family time, more time to yourself, said Finkel, who celebrated Hanukkah with her husband's family in Chicago. Finkel works full time and is the mother of two children, ages 10 and 14. "And let whatever actually happens be fine. You make your plans but you have to let go and recognize what the reality is. Find aspects in every situation to savor and enjoy. Young children have this wonderment that we can adopt. There are a lot of strategies I teach people that don't actually take a whole lot of their time like breathing for five minutes with your eyes closed."

Finkel teaches a six-week stress management class beginning 5:30-7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 16. The cost is $118.

Martha Kimball teaches beginning meditation 6-7:30 p.m. Wednesdays starting Jan. 23 for four weeks ($82). For information about either class, call (734) 998-5679.

Neil, new studies have shown that blood pressure can be harder to control in the winter. Researchers studied more than 440,000 Americans with hypertension in 15 cities. They found fewer people saw their blood pressure levels return to normal when treated in the winter months compared to the summer. In fact, about 60 percent of the patients saw a change in blood pressure control in the winter. Experts believe the cause could be weight gain, different eating habits and less

Friend's stealing costs everyone

My friend did something, like stealing. What should I say to him? Should I still be his friend? Good Friend Garden City

It sounds like you don't like what your friend did. Good for you! It's important not to do things that break the law. Breaking the law has consequences immediate (like getting caught by the police), but some of them are far removed from us. Take shoplifting, for example .. when someone steals clothes from a store, that person causes the price of the pair of jeans you want to buy to increase.

- some of them are

Why? Because businesses are in the business of making money. If a department store loses inventory due to shoplifting, then they have to increase the price on the other items in their inventory in order to make up the money they lost (because they can't sell the item that was stolen). Plus, they have to hire more security to help reduce their loss in inventory. But, more security costs more money. Where will the company get this extra money to pay for added security? From the extra money you and I pay for the items the store increased prices on! So tell your friend that by stealing or shoplifting, he's costing you more money! Then you can tell him that you won't be friends with someone who continues to break the law!

I know it's hard to fall in and out of love. What do you do when the person you loved doesn't love you anymore and they tell you they've moved on? Lost in Love Garden City

I'm sorry to hear that this relationship didn't work out. It's very painful, isn't it? Unfortunately, I can't say anything that will make the pain disappear overnight It will take time ... but, I can tell you that it's important to focus on yourself during this tough time. Your self-esteem can take a big hit when you're rejected by someone you care deeply about. Remind yourself every day that you're a good person. Look in the mirror and tell yourself that the perfect match for you is just around the corner. Try not to focus on how perfect you thought the relationship was. Besides. it couldn't have been all that perfect if it didn't work out! If you spend too much time thinking about it, you might miss the perfect match. In short, it he's moved on. you need to move on too!

Retreat makes great gift for Christian women

Women of all ages enjoy the peaceful and spiritually uplifting atmosphere at St. Mary's Retreat House.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Marilyn Olszewski has the perfect solution to gift giving dilemmas for women this Christmas — a weekend at St. Mary's Retreat House in Oxford. The peaceful setting is actually the Motherhouse grounds of the Dominican Sisters, but the two-night and two-day stays are open to all faiths not just Catholics.

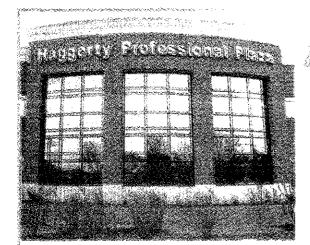

"It's well worth the time and money. It's a good way to start off the new year, what an excellent Christmas gift if you don't know what to give somebody, your wife or friend," said Olszewski of Plymouth Township.

Olszewski is coordinating the Jan. 11-13 retreat with the Rev. John Martin Shimkus on Learning Forgiveness, Learning Christ. Throughout the weekend, women will have the opportunity to attend conferences with the priest between times for reflection and prayer. For more

And when he dons his new red coat, with jingle bell-studded boots and a fluffy white beard, he looks the part, too.

"Betsy Reich, one of our members is heavily involved in Childhelp and she sent out an e-mail looking for a Santa for an event they have coming up," said Grady, a member of the Birmingham Rotary Club.

He answered his fellow Rotarian's call for help and bought a Santa suit online, figuring he'd extend his services to other nonprofit groups for free and to private events for a donation to Childhelp, a national organization with offices in Southfield that works to prevent and treat child abuse.

"I put some ads online at craigslist and on a couple of radio station Web sites. I had one animal rescue call me. Hopefully people will spread the word," Grady

Although he's had no formal training in portraying Santa Claus, he's been doing his homework, downloading tips from the Internet.

"One tip was to get a quality suit," he said, pointing out that he had done just that. "Probably gradypat@juno.com.

"Magic has always been kind of a hobby that tapered off in my early teens and came back in my late high school years," said Alan, a graduate of John Glenn High School in Westland. "My job is to keep people entertained, bring something different to the atmosphere with card tricks to coin effects to mind reading. I use psychology, misdirection and magic, take advantage of basic human behavior, the usual way people would think. I ask a person to think of a favorite number up to 10, but not 7. Kids usually say 5 or 8, adults 3 or 4. You have to learn to think on your feet, take a situation and roll with it and get people to interact with you."

While much of the show is interactive with the troupe members calling people up on stage, Pooch works alone. The stand-up entertainer has spent years practicing to swallow fire and razor

"It's a unique variety show from razor blade eating to poetry, mentalism such as mind reading, telepathy, and the audience will be allowed to participate," said Pooch, a local funeral director who prefers not to reveal his name. Items needed for soldiers and their pets

The Canton Petco is sponsoring a drive to collect items for the K-9 Off Base Housing Program for Military Pets, and the men and women who serve in the American military. The fund-raiser continues to Monday, Dec. 31, at Petco on the south side of Ford Rd., west of Lily.

Donna Law of Mutts & Mutts Rescue of Redford is asking for donations of travel size deodorant, hand sanitizer, baby wipes, shampoo, tooth paste and brushes, tampons and sanitary napkins, Rolaids, cough drops, hard candy (no chocolate) shaving cream, razors, package vitamins, powder drink mixes, playing cards, pens and notebooks, AT & T calling cards, white men's socks, and monetary donations to help ship packages.

The K-9 Off Base Housing Program currently has 5-dogs that are being cared for by Mutts & Mutts. Because many military families have no one to care for their pets while overseas, Law started the program which is in need of Pro Plan Lamb and Rice/Chix and Rice Dry Dog Food, wet canned food (Pedigree chopped beef), blankets and sheets, rugs, bleach, paper towels, 13-gallon garbage bags, brewer's yeast and garlic tablets, squeaky toys, and adult dog vitamins.

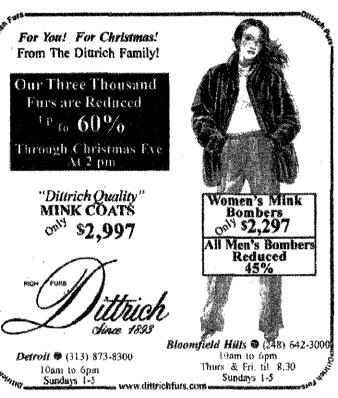

In August Law returned two dogs to a sergeant returning after an 18-month deployment in Iraq.

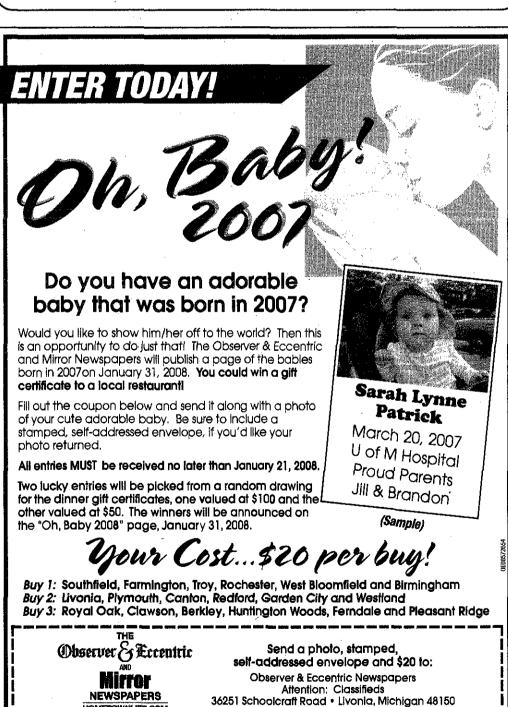

All donations are tax deductible. For more information, call (313) 232-0382. To adopt a dog: or cat, go to www.muttsandmutts.petfinder.org or visit the Canton Petco noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 22.

It sounds like you agree your mouth is a problem. But it also sounds like you feel you have good reasons for "running" your mouth ... like maybe you're trying to explain yourself or your behavior?

One word of advice: Timing. Timing is everything. I wouldn't try to justify the behavior your parents are angry about while they're yelling at you. Wait until everyone calms down and then ask them if you can explain why you did what you did. But, don't try to get out of whatever consequence they've given

If you did something wrong, then own up to it. If you had a good reason for doing something wrong, find a good time to explain your decision-making process. It might give your parents an opportunity to give you some guidance.

DON'T STOP MOVING

This time of year brings on heavy work. You have leaves to gather, spring clothes to put away and winter garb to bring out of storage. The effort strains the knees, necessitating in some cases, a doctor's appointment to drain excess fluid from the knee.

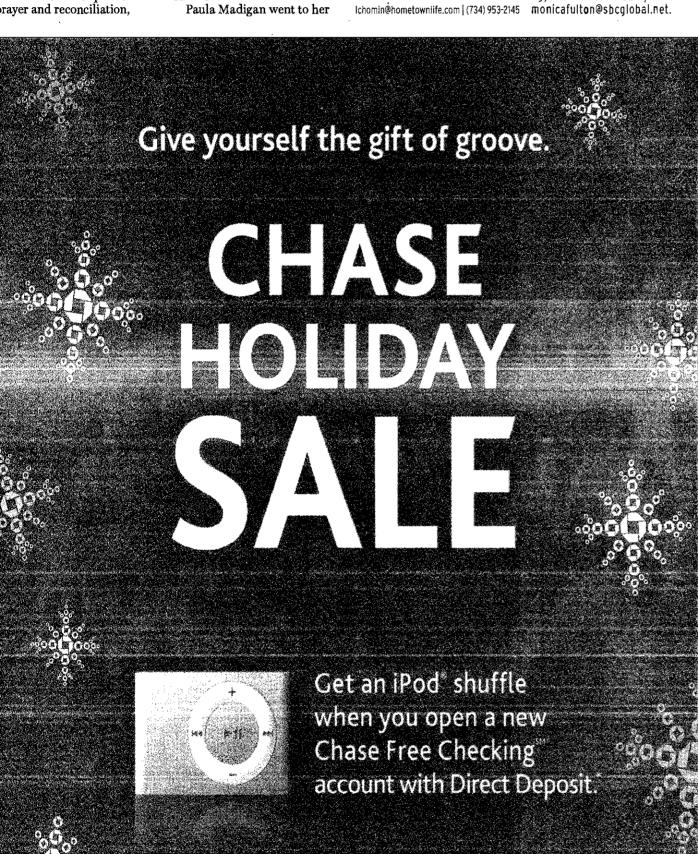

Usually, taking fluid out of the knee and injecting a steroid into it suffices to resolve the knee problem. But not always. The fluid may return bringing up the question: "Am I doing too much?" Your doctor is not likely to agree with you. Rather, he will take the view not that you should do less, but that he should do more. If your knee problem was only one of an unexpected twist with imitation, then the first draining should suffice. If you have return of the fluid, he needs to investigate further to answer why the swelling has re-occurred.

The medical community is aware of the importance of activity in preserving your mental and physical stamina. Return of knee swelling requires investigation, not the recommendation for you to just do less.

In most instances recurrence of swelling indicates that you have osteoarthritis of the knee. If x-rays of the knee do not confirm this diagnosis, then an MRI is in order. This imaging delineates internal damage such as ligament tears or injuries to the knee menisci. In turn, treatment can provide sufficient relief to allow you to maintain the activity needed for good mental and physical well being. Therapy may include joint injection for osteoarthritis and knee arthroscopy for ligament and meniscal tears

Today the job of medicine is to keep you moving.

Applicants wanted for spinal cord therapy grants

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, December 16, 2007

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

The Mary and Charles A. Parkhill Foundation for Spinal Cord Rehabilitation has extended the date to apply for scholarship grants to Monday, Dec. 31.

The Foundation's goal is to raise funds that will be granted to individuals with spinal cord injuries, in the form of scholarships, to obtain therapy services at The Recovery Project in Livonia.

Grantees will be those individuals without the healthcare benefits or private resources required for ongoing therapy and exercise.

The application and additional information are available days a week. at the The Recovery Project Web site at www.therecoveryproject.net.

The Recovery Project was co-founded in 2003 by Charlie Parkhill who suffered a spinal cord injury while vacationing with his wife in Mexico in 1998. The incomplete spinal cord injury left him motionless from the neck down. Physical therapist Polly Swingle together with Parkhill developed a high intensity rehabilitation for spinal cord injuries. Parkhill took his first three unassisted steps in 2005 and since has increased his range to 104 steps on his own at a time. He still goes through therapy 2days a week, and works out 6-

In July 2006, Parkhill and Swingle moved The Recovery Project from the Livonia

YMCA into a building devoted solely to therapy. About 40patients a day receive treatment there. "The scholarship is for people" with spinal cord injuries who want therapy but have no resources to pay for it," said Charlie Parkhill. "You have to show you have the willingness and ability to word hard.

There is no age restriction to apply for the scholarship. The application can be completed online and requires two reference letters.

Volunteers create sturdy leather harnesses for pups at Leader Dogs for the Blind

STAFF WRITER

Brent Fecteau and Bob Griffis craft about 400 dog harnesses from scratch every year. They turn cow-sized swatches of leather into leashes — about 600 a year. And they create thousands of key fobs from leather

The two retired men spend about four hours twice weekly in the tack shop at Leader Dogs for the Blind, in Rochester, making key equipment for guide dogs and their human visually impaired companions.

And they do it all for free. "I wanted to do something useful," said Griffis, a Rochester Hills resident, who holds a Ph.D. in chemical engineering. When he retired as an engineer at Ford 10 years ago, he sought out volunteer work at the school, starting first in its mail room and moving to the tack work room six years ago.

"When you retire, you've got to do something to fill in the 40 hours that you worked before," he said, adding that his wife, Doris, volunteers in other departments at the facility.

Fecteau, of Shelby Township, holds an "unused" master's degree in art and retired from teaching math seven years ago. He started volunteering at Leader Dogs for the Blind in the mail room and started working with Griffis about five years ago.

"I Googled volunteer work to see what would come. I saw Leader Dog. I know a lot of people who have dogs and I like them all. I figured, you can't go wrong," Fecteau said.

Together, the pair create all of the collars, leashes, and harnesses that Leader Dogs for the Blind teaches students to use as they follow their canine guides. Randy Horn, a trainer who's also in charge of the tack room, pitches in with sewing when he's not working with dogs or dogstudent teams.

USING EQUIPMENT

"The lead is used to connect the person to the dog and the leash is used to facilitate relief time and also to administer corrective measures they have to use or to keep the dog close at

Bob Griffis and Brent Fecteau work together on a harness at Leader Dogs for the Blind. Both volunteer for the Rochester-based organization.

MADE WITH PRIDE hand," Horn described the handmade equipment. "The harness They also maintain high expectations for their own work.

is something we teach students to use to follow the dog. It's a tool they use that also tells the general public or anyone in their proximity that they use a dog from Leader Dogs. That's probably the single biggest problem that graduates have - people want to play with their dog." Blind and visually impaired persons who qualify for a dog from the school spend 26 days training with their new fourlegged friend. That's after the dog has trained for 16 weeks with an instructor. Training, room and board, the dog and its handmade leather leash, collar and harness are free to the student.

Manufacturing the equipment in-house keeps costs down and enables the school to better tailor pieces to different sized dogs.

"It's a good cause and we help them save a lot of money,' Fecteau said. Griffis said the school initially bought leashes and harnesses from a source at the Hazel Park Race Track. The school eventually started producing the items, first with a staff member and then with volunteers.

"If they weren't doing it we'd have to spend a whole lot more time in here," Horn said. "With these guys here it makes my life a To find out more about volunteering whole lot easier. And they know what to do, which really helps."

You want to make sure that whatever you're making, it's like you're making it for yourself. You don't want to put out anything that would hurt the dog," Fecteau said. "You don't want to leave rivets on if there's a possibility you'll cut your hand if you can't see them. You want to make it like it's yours."

"We want everything to be first class," Griffis added. Griffis and Fecteau learned leather working on the job, in the tack room. The cut pieces, pound out notches for buckles, attach hardware and burn the Leader Dogs logo on each piece. The harness handle is the only part they don't create from scratch.

"It's actually pretty easy," Griffis described the process of cutting the leather with a razorsharp tool called a draw gauge. "We haven't had anyone here nicknamed 'stubby' vet."

In his spare time at home, Griffis also occasionally makes braided leather leashes that he gives to staff members.

"This has my name on it and everything," said instructor Katie Stamm, showing off one of Griffis' special leashes. "It's awesome. I love it."

power of others in helping you complete what you started.

M. J. Ryan, executive coach at Professional Thinking Partners Inc., outside of San Francisco. helps people change. She observes that some people "aren't really good at initiating things, keeping the ball rolling and finishing. If you're not a great finisher, things trail off. This is why we need another employer who's skilled at completing

'SATISFACTION STOP'

We do need other people, but how can they help us reach our objectives at work? Debi Yohn, counseling psychologist to expatriates in Shanghai, suggests that you draw a line between positive people and the negative ones. The latter, she says, "remain negative, refusing to make the changes

Some projects necessary to turn their negative experiences to and some objectives positive." This is an important concept. What do you do next?

Karlin Sloan of the Karlin Sloan & Co. leadership development consultancy in Chicago says, "Simply asking for help isn't the best way to go. "You might ask a person to remind you of the reward of your project, its benefit, at critical moments when your spirit sags. The reward could be something as simple as an improved retrieval system to cut down on research time, thanks to your computer conversion. She also indicates how restorative and motivational lunching out with others may be when you've reached a benchmark or walking around the block together. Recruit someone to celebrate with you at what Ryan calls "a satisfaction stop."

Ryan further points out that a conversation with projects may be useful in providing "ideas about what you need to do to finish things off. This would vary, depending upon the type of work. It might be that you need more information. He may help you figure out the how."

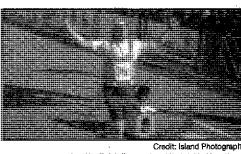

Sloan directs you to "be specific about the help or resource you need, such as borrowing time from an administrative assistant. The more specific you are, the easier it is to ask for help, and the simpler it is for a colleague to assist you." This tactic brings a strategic benefit, too. Being asked "makes people feel important and necessary, and it ultimately builds healthy, collaborative working environments," she says.

Harriet Vines, author of "Age Smart," suggests "taking stock. Make and prioritize a To-Do list and delegate tasks where possible" (Llumina Press, $13.95). She mentions the importance of "promising to repay in-kind when they need you."

Robert Tuchman, president of sports marketing company TSE Sports & Entertainment in New York City, adds, "The key thing in getting others on board and motivated is to praise their work. Allow them to take the credit for the project. Even if you are the one doing the majority of the work, it will empower them to finish the project and give them confidence in future dealings.

Marathoner Lou Manza, chair of the Psychology Department at Lebanon Valley College in Annville, Pa., says that whether a marathon is literal or not, it can be very helpful to remind yourself, happily, that your co-workers and employer expect you to reach the finish line. In his case, the reminder goes something like this: "My dad and my kids are expecting me to do that. So is my wife, who gave birth three times and suffered." He considers it important to remind yourself of your responsibilities. Meanwhile, he advises, if you need a break, ask for 15 minutes of time out or a slightly-extended lunch break.

"I'll also focus on another runner," he discloses, "one who is about 100 yards ahead. If I concentrate on trying to catch that runner, it takes my mind off the pain. "That runner might well be another person in the company who's striving to reach a goal, too.
