Store makes special delivery of husband's final gift

BY ALEX LUNDBERG STAFF WRITER A Livonia woman whose husband passed away just hours after ordering her Christmas gift received that final expression of his love courtesy of the store that took the order.

Jewelry, 6018 Canton Center, Canton, gave a pendant to Lisa Beyer of Livonia that her husband, Michael McCluskey, had ordered before his death.

and they called to tell Mr. Beyer it was ready for pickup. It was then they learned he had passed away.

picked up his cell phone. "The person on the phone said, 'Oh no, you're the wife, aren't you?' and I had to explain what had happened," she said.

"We decided to do the right thing," Denman said. "We all felt really bad, they (the Beyers) had both been customers for years, so the store decided to pay for it."

"I was speechless when I saw the man in the driveway," she said. "It was so generous and kind."

Canton teen killed in tragic skiing accident

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS STAFF WRITER The day after 13-year-old Clare Dougherty died, the atmosphere at Shanty Creek Resorts was somber.

Clare, a Canton Township girl, was vacationing with family on Christmas Day when she decided to hit the slopes once more before leaving the Custer Township resort in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Her inexperience, coupled with a lack of a helmet, contributed to her death, according to Antrim County Sheriff Terry Johnson.

Mr. Freeman knew Clare and her family very well. He's feeling very bad for the family. He said she was a wonderful student, and a great kid," he said.

Ruggerello said once the students return from winter break on Jan. 7, the district will have its support team available for students.

Eslick, who had met with Clare's father, said the family had been vacationing at the resort with a host of other family members.

"I've heard different stories but no one saw the accident," Eslick said. "She was out there having fun and trying to do some more skiing before her family left."

The mother/daughter power shopping team of Canton residents Christine and Olivia Wofford found plenty of deals at Westland Mall on Wednesday.

Holiday hang over?

Stores not crowded with day-after Christmas shoppers

Merchant Rebecca Johnson of Stockings To Stuf, a kiosk store in Westland Mall, thought that sales were off for the day after Christmas. She lives in Westland.

Wednesday was no Black Friday. "This is totally amazing," said Rebecca Johnson of Stockings To Stuf. "I've been here since 7 a.m. and haven't had a customer yet."

Michigan Speaker of the House Andy Dillon visits with constituents Frank Wiecha and Jim Nagy during a coffee hour visit at Leo's Coney Island in Dearborn Heights.

House Speaker Dillon keeping focused on Michigan's future

Andy Dillon is bullish on Michigan. Despite another year of bad economic news and a messy state budget process that he says overshadowed Lansing's accomplishments, Dillon, the speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives, sees a better future.

Background: Redford Township native, Catholic Central graduate, accounting and law degrees from the University of Notre Dame, high school and college track star, former corporate attorney and financial analyst.

Low-key and unassuming, he became one of three players — the other two being Gov. Jennifer Granholm and Mike Bishop, R-Rochester, the Senate majority leader — in the spotlight as efforts to patch a $1.8 billion hole in the state's budget dragged into the fall, finally resulting in a mixture of new taxes and spending reforms.

Dillon is blunt about what Michigan was up against. "The state was facing insolvency in February if we didn't deal with the solution in September," he said.

Livonia native's roles grow, from TV ads to 'Charlie Wilson's War'

BY REBECCA JONES
STAFF WRITER

Livonia native Michael Spellman plays CIA Agent Patrick in Charlie Wilson's War, which opened Friday.

"I give out information to move the story along," said Spellman, who shot scenes opposite Philip Seymour Hoffman and Tom Hanks.

Spellman's first major motion picture was directed by Mike Nichols.

"Here's this kid from Livonia, Mich., in that company. I was speechless," Spellman said in an interview at his parents' house. "I couldn't ask for a better experience and a better group of people to learn from."

Spellman, a 1997 graduate of Churchill High School, joined the Creative and Performing Arts program as a junior there and went on to study at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in L.A.

He returned home in time to see Charlie Wilson's War with his family.

Though disappointed that he didn't get to go to his first premiere (the invitation came after the fact), he said, "How appropriate would it be for me to see my first film (back home)."

The good thing about being at home is nobody really cares how many of his scenes got cut, he said.

To them, it's just important that he's in it.

He also played a doctor, Jim Babinski, for three episodes in the 2005 season of "ER."

Michael Spellman's resume includes stage, TV and now, a major film, "Charlie Wilson's War."

He recalls that, perhaps as a joke, stars Mekhi Phifer (Dr. Gregory Pratt) and Shane West (Dr. Ray Barnett) took him out for drinks the evening before his first trauma on the show. He found it hard to deliver the lines of medical terminology the next morning.

Spellman, 29, moved to Los Angeles nine years ago and has appeared in a number of national TV commercials. He just shot a Budweiser ad that will air during the Super Bowl.

In commercials, he's the "every man ... who ends up getting the girl in the end," Spellman said.

In a long-running spot for Edge shave gel, he played Frank, who won over his roommate's hot Italian girlfriend after shaving. ("Ciao, Francesco," she purrs, nuzzling him).

Commercials can be quite lucrative, he's found. But the paychecks are unpredictable.

Sometimes at auditions you hear "thank you" and that's it.

He's read for Clint Eastwood four times.

"I'm on his radar," Spellman said.

Persistence is the main key in the business, he said. "You have to be willing to weather the storm and be smart with your money."

Spellman also has been working as a producer's assistant for a '50s pop musical "The Marvelous Wonderettes" in L.A.

A Detroit Tigers fan, Spellman misses things about Michigan — Faygo, Bettermaid potato chips, and especially Senate Coney Island chili dogs, with chili and cheese only, and lemon rice soup.

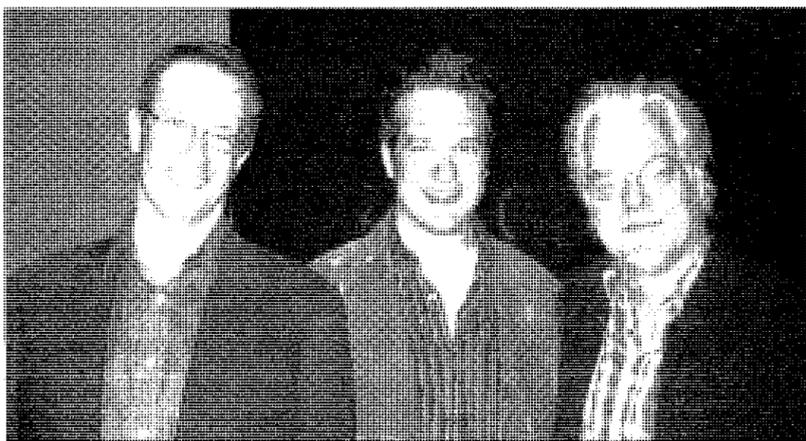

Spellman said he's friends with most of the CAPA alumni out there.

Whenever any of them from the L.A. area comes home, they're required to bring back either a Crave Case from White Castle or a frozen Buddy's Pizza, he said.

In an interview with director Nichols, before being offered the role in Charlie Wilson's War, Nichols asked Spellman to sum up how his career is going.

"It's coming along," he said. "It seems like I'm making progress."

sign that advertised all of her items as 50 percent off.

As small groups of shoppers paced the mall, Ron Brandenburg of Westland said it was obvious that apparel, video games or toys weren't flying off the shelves in spite of discounts and slashed prices.

"We went to Target at 7 a.m. and we walked in and checked right out," he said. "We spent so much money there we almost went broke, but there weren't a lot of people at all."

With the mall as his second destination of the morning, Brandenburg said he was shocked by the modest number of shoppers.

"I used to work retail in this mall and back in the early '70s you could barely move through here the day after Christmas," he said.

Irene Moran and Sherri Havlik, both of Ron Brandenburg of Westland thought the crowds were lighter than usual for the day after Christmas.

Livonia, made their way to Cornwell Pool & Patio early Wednesday and said they were shocked there wasn't a long line of eager shoppers waiting outside the Plymouth store.

"I'm not sure if the weather kept people away, but it was not like it usually is," Moran said. "Normally, we have to wait."

Jerry Visel of Cornwell, which sells Christmas decorations, said he had not anticipated a large shopping crowd.

"We've been around more than 25 years and this is the first season we saw a decrease in our Christmas sales, so we didn't think we would gain (Wednesday)," he said. "We had customers in here all day, but we are doing about half of what we traditionally do."

Scott Krugman, a spokesperson for the National Retail Federation in Washington D.C., said after-Christmas sales make up a significant chunk of retail profits for the season.

"The whole week after is crucial," he said, while offering a possible reason for half-empty parking lots Wednesday morning. "A lot of people still had to go to work, so I would look for the crowds on Saturday and Sunday."

Man faces prison in theft of trust funds

A Henderson, Nev., man will find out on Jan. 24 how much time he will spend in prison after being found guilty of his role in the embezzlement of cemetery trust funds from 28 Michigan cemeteries, including sites in Westland, Livonia and Plymouth.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Brian R. Sullivan found Carter Green, 67, guilty of aiding co-defendant Clayton Smart in embezzling some $61 million in cemetery trust monies from the cemeteries owned by Smart's Las Vegas-based company Indian Nation.

Green was found guilty of one count of racketeering, a 20-year felony, and three counts of uttering and publishing, a 14-year felony.

"The defendants in this case were quite literally robbing from the dead," said Michigan Attorney General Mike Cox in announcing the conviction.

The charges against Green stem series of written statements he made to state auditors that either he or his companies were holding up to $25 million in trust money on behalf of Smart or businesses associated with him, statements the attorney general's investigation determined were false.

Smart is accused of pilfering the cemetery trust funds to invest $31 million in Oklahoma-based Quest Minerals and Exploration Inc. in the form of unsecured promissory notes and a loan backed by highly speculative Quest oil and gas leases. He also is accused of investing $25 million in high-risk mutual funds.

Smart is awaiting trial in Tennessee where he is charge with theft of property, conspiracy to commit theft, and money laundering involving the Forest Hill Cemeteries and Funeral Homes. Once that case is concluded, he will be brought to Michigan to face 39 counts of racketeering, embezzlement and larceny.

"We look forward to prosecuting the remaining defendant in this case," Cox said.

The cemeteries, which include Cadillac Memorial Gardens in Westland, Mt. Hope Memorial Gardens in Livonia and United Memorial Gardens in Plymouth, have been under the control of a state conservator since last December. Their sale for $32 million to David Shipper of Ewing, N.J., is pending. Shipper is a third-generation cemetery owner who operates 12 cemeteries in Indiana and two in New York.

said. "He works harder at this than he's ever worked," said his older brother, John Dillon of Livonia.

BEYOND FRUSTRATION

Andy Dillon admits to frustration with the political partisanship he says was displayed during the budget talks.

"I thought when you had a crisis of that magnitude you would see people put that aside," he said.

His brother put Dillon's feelings in stronger terms: "He was really disillusioned with the whole process."

Dillon came to state government with a hefty personal and professional resume. He is from a prominent Redford family — his father, John, was a justice of the peace and later a district court judge — and graduated from Catholic Central High School, where two of his track records still stand.

He has an accounting degree from the University of Notre Dame, where he was a track and cross country runner. He captained both teams during his senior year, and was Notre Dame's athlete of the year in 1984.

Dillon's law degree is also from Notre Dame.

He's worked as a financial analyst, an assistant to former Sen. Bill Bradley, D-New Jersey, and as a litigation attorney and corporate lawyer. But Dillon doesn't wear his success on his sleeve, said Redford Township Supervisor R. Miles Handy II, a longtime friend and political ally. It was Handy, Dillon said, who convinced him to run for the House in 2004.

"Intellectually, he excels.

He's one of the smartest guys I've ever met, but he's very humble," Handy said. "He's more comfortable in blue jeans and a sweater than a nice suit."

Politics is in Dillon's blood, his brother said.

"It's something he was always interested in from the time he was a little kid," John Dillon said. "We just grew up with politics."

They also grew up with parents who set an example of service, said a sister, Marybeth Dillon Butler.

"My parents' entire lives have always been about serving others, but they do it under the radar, not for recognition," Butler said.

DEMANDING TIME

The commitment required by the speaker's job has been tough on Dillon's family, his sister said. "We just feel like his life belongs to the state of Michigan," Butler said.

Dillon said his four children were patient about him spending time away from home during the budget crisis. "They understood how serious the problem was," he said.

It's been tough to find time to spend in his district, too, he said. "People want to see you around," he said.

Dillon, who faces a recall effort over his support of increased taxes, said he plans to seek a third full House term next year. As far as running for another office, he said, he'll think about that in 2008.

He expects significant legislation to come from the House next year, including energy reforms designed to spur power plant construction, measures to deal with the waste from factory farms, and protections against predatory lending. He also expects the House to address a projected $24 billion bill for the future health-care costs of retired state and public school employees.

Dillon said he's been impressed with how the Legislature can affect people's lives for the better.

"You can actually have a significant impact up there quickly," he said.

Michigan, Dillon said, has a window of five to seven years in which the economy must diversify and the state must invest in education, infrastructure, the environment and other quality-of-life areas in order to attract new businesses and keep a skilled work force.

Falling short, he said, means heading in "a very negative direction."

Dillon is staying upbeat. "The future's bright, and that's kind of the one thing that keeps me going," he said.

Parents need medical legal form to help adult children

At a recent seminar, I was approached by an older couple who told me their 19-year-old granddaughter had become ill when she was away at college. The young woman was taken to a hospital where she was treated. When the parents were notified, they rushed to the hospital but unfortunately discovered doctors would not discuss their daughter's situation nor consult with them about treatment.

Money Matters

The issue for doctors was legal — the patient was an adult and the parents did not have the proper legal documentation to be consulted with regards to their daughter's situation.

The parents retained the services of an attorney and eventually did gain the rights to be consulted and to make decisions with regards to their daughter's treatment.

The grandparents said the emotional stress that it caused the parents was the worst part of the ordeal.

The good part of this story is that the daughter recovered and returned to school. However, the important lesson here is to make sure you have the proper estate planning documents for yourself and your loved ones.

It's not unusual for most parents not to have any sort of legal documentation when it comes to their children. However, when children reach the age of majority, 18, he/she is a legal adult and parental rights as well as obligations extinguish. If your child is an adult and if you will have to make medical and other decisions for your adult child, appropriate documentation is important. After all, no one wants to incur legal fees and go to court over family issues.

In this case, a Medical Durable Power of Attorney with the proper HIPAA (Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act) provisions, the parents would have had the legal right to discuss their daughter's situation with the doctors and make decisions.

This is an extremely important document that every adult needs to obtain. In simple terms, the document allows someone to sit in your shoes and make medical decisions for you if you are unable to make them yourself. Don't assume that your spouse or your parents would have some rights to make decisions. That is not the case. Husbands and wives who do not have these documents could be forced to go through the same process as the parents in this case.

Many people avoid doing any form of estate planning because they don't want to think of the inevitable or they assume it's too expensive.

Most people are surprised to learn not everyone needs to use an attorney for estate planning purposes. The state of Michigan offers a free fill-in-the-blank Will and a Medical Durable Power of Attorney (Michigan Patient Advocate Form). These documents are available in many locations, including public libraries, the State of Michigan's Web site (www.michigan.gov/sos) and my Web site (www.bloomassetmanagement.com).

Parents of adult children need, if nothing more, to have a Medical Durable Power of Attorney.

If your college-age son or daughter is home for the holidays, download a copy of the Michigan Patient Advocate Form, complete it and have them sign it in front of the appropriate witnesses. Hopefully, you can put the document in a drawer and never worry about it again. You will have a sense of comfort in knowing that not only did you do the right thing, but that you did the responsible thing.

CRIME WATCH

Caught with drugs

GARDEN CITY - A student at Garden City High School, 6500 Middlebelt was arrested Dec. 20 for drug possession after he was stopped by school staff for taking food he hadn't purchased in the cafeteria. When an administrator called him over, she noticed the student had placed something in a plastic tub used to collect dirty silverware. A baggy containing 31 white pills was recovered and police were called. The student, 17, told police his grandmother used the pills for headaches. The officer had a pharmacist look at the pills which were identified as Xanax.

Driver flees police

GARDEN CITY - A Garden City police officer spotted a suspect wanted for stealing a vehicle in Dearborn Heights Dec. 24 and ended up pursuing the suspect until the stolen car crashed in Inkster.

The officer heard a radio call about a Volvo station wagon that had just been stolen. He tried to stop the vehicle, which he said was speeding on Cherry Hill, but the car took off at a high rate of speed running stop signs on Garden City side streets and then crossed into Inkster, the officer said. Eventually, the suspect drove onto an unpaved icy path along the Rouge River. When the vehicle suddenly braked, the officer said he had to stop quickly and the patrol car slide into the rear of the stolen vehicle which then side-swiped the patrol car.

The suspect then drove the vehicle down a 40-foot embankment towards the river and crashed into trees at the bottom, the officer said. The suspect, an Inkster man, ran from the car and was caught as he tried to hide under a fallen tree, said the officer. The vehicle owner said his cell phone and some Christmas presents had also been in the car.

Home break-in

REDFORD TOWNSHIP - A laptop computer, cash and credit cards were among the things reported stolen from a house on Lennane Street north of Six Mile after a break-in early Sunday.

The burglar or burglars had used an unlocked window to get into the house, a police report said. The victim later learned that stolen credit and automatic teller machine cards had been used.

OUR VIEWS

Annual Auto Show vital to economy

Economic predictions for the coming year are not optimistic for the metro Detroit area. A slowdown in the national economy is only adding to Michigan's troubled situation.

For anything good to happen for Detroit, the auto industry has to do well. Though it has been clear for a long time that southeast Michigan has been too dependent on the auto industry, the Big Three and their support businesses remain the heart of our economy.

Even as government leaders try to find ways to attract other, more cutting edge businesses, the auto industry will continue to be at the center of our economy for many years to come.

That's why Detroit's annual auto showcase, the North American International Auto Show, is so crucial to our future, as well as a highly entertaining way to spend an afternoon or evening.

This year's Auto Show opens to the public at Cobo Hall on Jan. 19 and runs through Jan. 27. It is here that Detroit's automakers and part suppliers will go head to head with auto companies from around the world. In the week before the public opening, they will introduce new models, fanciful concept cars and almost ready for prime time vehicles. They will offer their solutions to dwindling, expensive and polluting gasoline. They will offer the latest in safety, as well as the latest in speed. And they will wait for the world's reaction and hope to launch the next Mustang, the next minivan, the next SUV revolution — anything to get the edge in a highly competitive and uncertain industry.

For visitors, it's a glittery show of bright lights, interactive displays and attractive models (human and automotive). For the city of Detroit, it's another opportunity to bring people downtown and prove that city life still has a future here and for the Detroit auto industry it's a do-or-die event where they put their best up against the world.

We wish the city and Detroit's automakers a very successful Auto Show.

Cobo expansion critical to keeping auto show

The city of Detroit and southeast Michigan will play host next month to the automotive world's movers and shakers at the annual North American International Auto Show.

The auto show helps solidify Detroit as the motor city and car capital of the world, and brings prestige — and plenty of money — to the region. But all of this is at risk if our political leaders cannot come together to either replace or seriously upgrade Cobo Hall, which hosts the auto show.

Most connected to the auto show agree Cobo is too small and too old to continue serving as the site for much longer. The auto companies want, and soon will demand, a better environment to showcase their vehicles, or will take the prestige of debuting new models and concept cars to other shows in Los Angeles, Frankfurt and elsewhere.

The problem, of course, is how to pay for a bigger and better Cobo, and who will have the responsibility of owning and operating a new expo center. And this is where the same old, tired political turf battles between city and suburbs, and Oakland and Wayne counties, threaten the loss of one of the few remaining success stories.

Predictably, Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson demands the suburbs have a stake in the new facility, if the county is expected to continue funneling dollars in the form of hotel and liquor taxes into its operations, something that has taken place for years. Moreover, Patterson wants the state of Michigan and Detroit's new casinos to pony up a share of the costs as well.

Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano has floated a couple of plans for a new Cobo, and said he agrees "other players" should be involved in the project. Ficano also has scaled down his expectations for a new Cobo, which hopefully will address some of Patterson's concerns.

For his part, Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick said he would at least consider having some type of regional authority play a role in operating the new Cobo, which now is owned and operated by the city. So there does appear to be some hope for compromise.

The auto show pumps tens of millions of dollars into the area economy every year. It is not unreasonable for the auto companies to want some return on their investment, and they certainly will be asking some tough questions next month about future plans for the auto show, and Cobo.

Hopefully, while Gov. Jennifer Granholm and the region's political leaders sip champagne at the charity preview that kicks off the auto show, they will be coming up with a positive response to those questions.

Support helped victim's family

On behalf of Maggie and our entire family, we would like to extend our sincere gratitude to the Livonia community for its show of concern and support during this most difficult time.

We are blessed to have so many wonderful friends in Livonia who have gone out of their way to tell us how much they love Maggie and offer other words of comfort. We would also like to thank the von Maurs for all of their help and support during this difficult time. We are forever grateful to all of you. We will never forget your kindness and compassion. Thank you.

The Webb Family

Dogs deserve better

There is a real concern regarding the problem of the chained or tethered outside dog which is often forgotten and virtually ignored by the family. The U.S. Department of Agriculture agrees that continuous confinement of dogs 24/7 by a tether is inhumane.

Dogs are pack animals and when chained too long become extremely bored, lonely. Over time, frustration can lead to territorial aggression. Tethered dogs are more often neglected, left without adequate food, water or shelter. They lack adequate housing, enough room to exercise and the most basic veterinary care, including vaccinations required by law.

These dogs are more likely not to have a city license. Every winter such dogs are found frozen to death. At other times, they may be left to starve, suffer from embedded collars, bleeding from insect bites or are accidentally hung due their circumstances. Unfortunately, I have witnessed this type of abuse on several occasions in many cities.

Tethering dogs is cruel and dangerous for people, and over time creates anxious, frustrated and aggressive dogs. From October 2003 to September 1007, there were at least 175 children killed or seriously injured by chained dogs across the country. A recent attack in Texas in March 2007 left two-year-old Carolina Sotello dead from neck and head wounds. States and cities all over the country are passing laws against 24/7 chaining because the laws protect both dogs and people. There are at least 100 communities and counties in at least 35 states with limits on chaining. Austria is the latest nation to completely prohibit chaining.

It is now time for Michigan to also set an example for the rest of the nation to assure the safety of our children and to raise the standards of animal care. As a licensed veterinary technician and a representative of the non-profit international organization, Dogs Deserve Better Inc., I am urging all dog owners to take their dogs into the home and make them part of the family.

Dogs Deserve Better is opposed to the permanent chained, tethered or penned "outside dog." We offer education, fencing and training assistance, provide proper shelter and accept surrendered and relinquished dogs to find them a home where they are a true part of the family.

I urge you to remedy this oversight which condemns dogs to lives of loneliness and deprivation. To learn more on how you can help chained dogs, go to www.dogsdeservebetter.org.

Time for Middle East humanity

The recent peace conference of Middle East nations in Annapolis, Md., championed the concepts of peace, negotiation and compromise, facilitated by American-led diplomacy. It rejected terrorism, incitement and extremism. The parties present there are now embracing a renewed opportunity, with U.S. help and with, for the first time, a moderate consensus among most Arab nations. The goals: Israeli security and a Palestinian state.

Several weeks ago, the Observer printed an opinion piece which was filled with falsehoods and bogus charges against Israel — everything from apartheid to ethnic cleansing to a brutal military. The writer claimed firsthand knowledge of the story of the Palestinian refugees, admittedly a sad story, but one which elicits these questions: Why are they the only refugee group, after 60 years, to not have been absorbed by their brothers (the other Arab nations), nor be taken out of their squalid camps, or to be given statehood when Jordan and Egypt controlled the West Bank and Gaza for 19 years (1948-1967)?

Now is the time for criticism, false charges, distorted history and adversarial relations to give way to forward-thinking, conflict resolution and humanity.

Time to safeguard our state

Michigan cannot afford to continue smoking in workplaces. We must provide a safe, healthy environment for our workers and their customers in order to be competitive. All persons living in and visiting Michigan deserve to enjoy air that is not polluted both inside and outside.

Senate Majority Leader Bishop opposes legislation recently passed by the house to ban smoking in most workplaces. Senator Bishop assigned HB 4163 to an obscure committee with the intent of letting it die without a vote of the Senate. He says the government has no business legislating this. This would be the same as eliminating the health department's duties to inspect restaurants and enforce basic sanitation.

The Senate (and the rest of the government) are charged with safekeeping the citizens of this state. Any who shirk this responsibility have left Michigan citizens at risk for both health and economic disadvantage.

Shame on them. Shame on the voters who let them evade their responsibilities.

Doctor's role 'a blessing'

On a recent flight to Florida to see my parents, I settled in for what I thought was going to be a quick easy flight. Unfortunately, this was not the case, I unexpectedly took ill.

I awoke to the sounds of someone asking for a medical assistance and, after a moment of wondering who needed a doctor, realized it was me. Fortunately, Dr. Rosenbaum, who has his offices in Livonia, was on hand to help. He sat with me and made sure my condition didn't worsen. He saw me through the worst of it, staying with me until I was wheeled to my parent's car.

Needless to say, I was quite upset and frightened by the whole experience. Dr. Rosenbaum's calm, competent manner helped keep me from becoming a nervous wreck, and made a frightening situation a little easier to bear. I'd like to thank Dr. Rosenbaum for all his help. His kindness was a blessing to me.

Change the way we learn

I was skimming through the paper when I saw the article, "Michigan: What we once had is now gone." This article caught my eye because I was recently trying to find a job, but it is really hard because of the changed economy.

In the article, it talks about how many jobs have been cut, and how major job suppliers are not doing well anymore. From reading this article I also started to realize how much technology has influenced education.

Being a high school student I have learned how to work all the new gadgets, but that is not always a good thing. Knowing how to use all of the technology may not help me get a good education, which will make it even harder to find a job. Many schools in other countries are changing the way they learn, which will cause us to fall behind. "They are not waiting for us to catch up. They're gone!" wrote Tom Watkins. I agree with Tom that we need to change the way our society learns and lives into a newer and more efficient place.

QUOTABLE

"The state was facing insolvency in February if we didn't deal with the solution in September."
- Speaker of the House Andy Dillon, discussing raising state taxes to help meet the state budget

CRC report helps to sort out state's employment picture

"We pay them too much," say the Republicans.

"There aren't enough of them to do the job properly," say the Democrats.

The Citizens Research Council of Michigan says they both may be right.

"Them" are Michigan's state and local government workers.

The facts-first CRC released a report Dec. 12 placing the seemingly endless debate into its proper context, comparing Michigan with all other states and with states with similar population, geography and urbanization. It's a study that offers support for both positions, though it doesn't address the basic "less is more" vs. "less is just less" philosophies of the two major political parties.

The basic conclusion of the CRC's State and Local Government Employment: A Comparative Analysis is "The State of Michigan has relatively fewer state and local employees than other states, but tends to compensate the state employees better than most other states."

Specifically Michigan ranked 45th of 50 states in the number of state and local employees per 10,000 residents and 39th of 50 when only state employees are considered. In addition, because of its extensive system of community colleges and public universities, Michigan has more public employees relative to population in higher education, but in other areas, including police and fire protection and corrections, Michigan is below the national average.

On the money side, average state employee base salary ranged from $28,100 in (the state we're trying to emulate) Mississippi to $69,100 in fashionable California. Michigan ranked sixth at $49,700.

The report says average fringe benefits for Michigan state employees (mostly pension and health care benefits) were $25,700, which ranked third behind Alaska and Nebraska. That issue was a major snare in the recent budget talks, forcing the Democrats to seek some wiggle room from the Michigan Education Association, one of the party's major contributors.

In absolute numbers, Michigan ranked 11th in full-time equivalent state and local employees with 486,697, with local employees accounting for 72.3 percent.

The report, on CRC's Web site at www.crcmich.org, breaks the Michigan numbers down by departments and offers comparisons with national figures. As always, CRC is careful to explain that comparing figures isn't always an easy task as circumstances and definitions differ across the country. The majority of states that come in ahead of Michigan in number of state and local employees per 10,000 residents includes sparsely populated Wyoming and Alaska at the top, but populous New York comes in at number 11. And while Nevada comes in last on this list, Pennsylvania is number 49. When considering state employees only, Hawaii and Alaska top the list, primarily because elementary and secondary school employees are state employees. At the bottom of that list is Illinois.

Specifically Michigan ranked 45th of 50 states in the number of state and local employees per 10,000 residents and 39th of 50 when only state employees are considered. In addition, because of its extensive system of community colleges and public universities, Michigan has more public employees relative to population in higher education, but in other areas, including police and fire protection and corrections, Michigan is below the national average.

As we are pushing to have more of our children pursue a higher education, preferably in state, Michigan ranks fourth in absolute number of state higher education employees (out ranked by the larger states of California, Texas and Ohio), but only ranks 25th in employees relative to population. North Dakota and Utah top that list.

The report also shows that Michigan state employees stay on their jobs longer than in all but five other states with an average of 13.9 years.

All of these numbers are interesting and show how any set of statistics can be molded to make or break any argument.

A state senator said it best when discussing the debate over energy and renewable and alternative energy sources.

He said without a solid definition of what these terms mean, politicians are always talking past each other.

That often seems to be the case about almost every subject. Ultimately the issue is always the same. What do we as residents of this great state need and want from our state government, how much are we willing to pay for it and what methods can we agree on to raise the revenue we need.

On those issues politicians will toss statistics at each other forever.

Michigan only at beginning of dealing with difficulties

When the allies finally stopped the Germans in North Africa in November 1942, it was welcome news after three years of almost unbroken defeats. British Prime Minister Winston Churchill put it in perspective, saying, "Now, this is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning."

Turning to Michigan and our own economic wars, I'd like to take the liberty to modify Churchill to observe that 2008 might turn out to be the "beginning of the beginning" of Michigan's slow march back from disaster. The issues are both economic and political.

What's been going on hasn't been, as some claim, a "recession in one state." Instead, it is the consequence of the wrenching transformation of our dominant industry, automobiles.

The not-so-big three have been in transition, moving from an inefficient and costly system in which management and labor protected each other from their own failings to a smaller but far more efficient and globally competitive industry.

According to Sean McAlinden, the numbers genius at the Ann-Arbor based Center for Automotive Research, Michigan auto employment in Michigan dropped by around 316,000 in 1999 to 207,000 in 2007, a staggering decline of 43 percent.

He forecasts more small declines in auto jobs for the next few years. But this time, it won't be due to Michigan's economic woes. Instead, these job losses will come for the right reasons — a result of rapidly increasing productivity and cost reductions made possible by the new contracts with the United Auto Workers union.

Joan Crary, the economics whiz who heads the economic forecasting at the University of Michigan, estimates that the state lost 76,000 jobs during 2007, with another drop of 51,000 projected next year. But, she adds, "The rate of job loss becomes progressively smaller as we make our way through 2008, and by the spring of 2009, job growth pokes above zero."

She predicts a net job gain of 14,000 jobs in 2009, mostly in service industries such as health care and education.

These projections, of course, assume no national recession brought on by the subprime mortgage crunch, which has put southeast Michigan near the top of the nation for home foreclosures in recent months. "If we get a recession, we're very vulnerable because we don't have any resources to take up the shock," says Tom Clay, the respected and now-retired research director for the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

Even without a recession, Clay says the state budget for the fiscal year that will end Sept.

30, 2008, will face (once again, thanks to the Legislature) a $500 million deficit, split roughly equally between the general fund and the school aid fund.

Clay expects deteriorating home values to end consumers' recent habit of converting gains in home equity to TV sets and new gizmos. As a result, he thinks "sales tax income to the state might suffer, say, a $200 million drop."

His two biggest worries at the state level: cash flow and political deadlock. "We had some trouble paying our bills on time last year," said Clay, who helped oversee state budgets for three decades, "and there's nothing about the new Michigan Business Tax and the new surcharge to that tax that make me believe there will be any material increase in cash flow."

Michigan cannot under its constitution borrow any more than it has, so a cash shortage means delayed bill payments, which in turn means the state will put off paying school districts and universities and local governments what they are expecting.

What this means to me is that the chronic structural budget deficits that we've seen for the last several years are certainly not going to go away because of what the Legislature did with taxes this fall. Gov. Jennifer Granholm, perhaps reflecting both fatigue and realism, said the other day that she wasn't about to go for any more tax increases. And you don't find many lawmakers in disagreement.

So that leaves structural changes in the organization and workings of state and local government, together with legacy costs of state employee pensions and health care. There are very large cost savings involved here, but they are very unpopular, especially with state employee unions. The governor and Legislature had a great chance to bundle them into a tax plan while they were working in crisis mode to save the state from going into default.

But they blew that opportunity. On the political front, however, what gives me some sense of hope is that legislators I talk with are beginning to get fed up with looking like a bunch of ineffective nincompoops. Most of them are good people who wanted to go to Lansing to do the right thing. But they found themselves being chivvied by their respective party leaders to do a bunch of things that looked a lot more like scoring political points than governing a state.

"It doesn't have to be like this!" one legislator said in exasperation. And if this feeling ever begins to spread through the ranks during the coming year, we just might have some real political change, and change for the better, in Lansing.

All-Observer grid team stocked with two-way standouts

FIRST-TEAM OFFENSE

MITCHELL WHITE, SR. QB, LIV. STEVENSON: The 6-foot-1, 170-pound senior, who guided the Spartans to the Division 1 state championship game, completed 77-of-147 passes for 1,433 yards and 18 touchdowns with only three interceptions.

White, an All-Western Lakes Activities Association pick, also could elude tacklers as he gained 290 yards on 64 attempts and three TDs.

"Mitchell managed to keep his playmaking spontaneity while really improving his command and control of the game," Stevenson coach Tim Gabel said. "His low number of interceptions and his timely scrambles for first downs bears this out."

JESSE CARPENTER, SR. QB, LIV. FRANKLIN: The 5-11, 175-pound senior became the school's all-time season passing leader (2,220 yards) while completing a school-record 133-of-250 (53 percent).

The All-Western Division selection threw a Patriot record 18 TD passes and averaged 16.6 yards per throw.

Carpenter also played free safety when called upon and was the team's punter and placekicker.

"Statistically Jess is the best quarterback in Franklin history," coach Chris Kelbert said. "His knowledge of the game made it easy to make an adjustment, and I was comfortable knowing he could handle any situation."

AUSTIN WHITE, SOPH. RB, LIV. STEVENSON: The 5-11, 180-pound sophomore was the area's leading rusher as he finished with 1,617 yards on 200 carries (8.0 average).

The All-WLAA pick also caught 19 passes for 194 yards and scored a total of 27 touchdowns. He tallied all three Stevenson TDs in the state championship game, including a kickoff return for 90 yards.

White also played defensive back when called upon.

"Austin is already a complete back," Gabel said. "He has speed and power, but also great vision. His running discipline improved throughout the season. In addition, he's an outstanding blocker."

YOURYE WILSON, SR. RB, REDFORD UNION: The durable, hard-to-tackle Wilson again was an offensive powerhouse for Redford Union, gaining 1,095 yards in 141 carries and tallying 12 rushing TDs. In addition, the 6-0, 190-pounder caught 12 passes for 268 yards and two TDs and made 37 unassisted tackles on the defensive side.

A four-year varsity player, Wilson earned team MVP honors and was named to the All-Mega White team for the second time.

"You're finished off an excellent career with his senior season," said Panthers head coach Miles Tommasaitis. "As I said all season long, if we got the ball in Yourye's hands something good would happen."

Wilson's on-field leadership also lifted RU to three straight wins at the end of the schedule to ensure another winning season, Tommasaitis added.

C.J. WOODFORD, SR. RB, WESTLAND GLENN: The 5-10, 173-pound senior finished with 1,007 yards rushing on 138 carries (7.3 average) and caught 11 passes out of the backfield for 322 yards (29.3 average).

Woodford rushed for 11 TDs (with a long of 71 yards) and caught four TD passes (with a long of 86).

He also averaged 29.7 yards per kick return, including three for TDs and tied the school-record with a long of 90. Woodford also averaged 20 yards per punt return.

"C.J. turned out to be a hard worker with a great attitude," Glenn coach Todd DeLuca said. "His senior year he made things happen."

MYRON PURYEAR, SR. RB, PLYMOUTH: The 6-foot, 175-pound senior was a pivotal player in the Wildcats' run to the playoffs as he chalked over 900 yards rushing despite seeing limited duty the first two games. Puryear had several game-changing efforts, including a 63-yard, fourth-quarter sprint to pay dirt in the Wildcats' one-point win over Canton. His performance earned

Ball hockey

Mens ball hockey leagues are forming at the TotalSports Complex in Wixom for the winter season.

Teams will play on Saturday nights in the roller rink at TotalSports. Ball hockey is similar to ice hockey, except it's played on a plastic floor by players wearing sneakers. Instead of a puck, players use an orange plastic ball.

"It's a great sport for the hockey lovers who aren't all that great on their skates," said Tran Longmoore, who has been playing ball hockey, or Dek Hockey, in southeast Michigan since 1999.

The cost to register is $850 per team or $80 per player. Teams play 10 games a year plus playoffs. Each game consists of three 14-minute periods.

In recent years, enrollment in the Michigan ball hockey league has dwindled. The league formed at MichiganDekHockey in Canton. When MiDek closed down, the team moved over to High Velocity Sports in Canton. High Velocity removed its hockey rink in 2006. Since then, the hockey league has played at the Livonia Rec Center and at TotalSports in Wixom, where the league has played since January.

The league is open for men aged 16 and older. Anyone under the age of 18 is required to wear a helmet. For more information, e-mail michiganballhockey@comcast.net.

Roach signs

Former Canton resident Nicole Roach recently signed a National Letter of Intent to participate in women's gymnastics at West Virginia University in Morgantown, WV. Roach will receive a full athletic scholarship at the school beginning next fall.

A senior at South Lyon High School, Roach lived in Canton for 12 years, attending Hoben Elementary School and Discovery Middle School. She moved to South Lyon prior to her ninth-grade year due her father's job transfer.

Nicole is the daughter of Greg and Wendy Roach.

FAN FAVORITE

Plymouth left wing A.J. Jenks, pictured above during a game earlier this season, has become a fan favorite during his one-plus years with the Whalers. The 6-foot-2, 210-pound Jenks grew up in Wolverine Lake.

Whalers' Jenks brings team's backers to their feet

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

There are countless reasons why the Compuware Arena's Applause-O-Meter nearly short circuits from overwork when A.J. Jenks is introduced before each Plymouth Whalers home game, but three stand out.

Reason No. 1: the 6-foot-2, 210-pound fan favorite plays every second of every shift like it's his last — and everyone knows fans appreciate high-intensity effort.

Secondly, Jenks' effort is matched by a high level of talent that has NHL draft scholars predicting he'll be selected somewhere in the first two rounds this coming summer.

Thirdly: Jenks grew up less than a 30-minute drive from the Whalers' home ice, so many games double as mini-family reunions.

"It's nice playing so close to home because I get a lot of support from my family and friends," said the 17-year-old Jenks. "One of the reasons I get so many loud cheers is that I know a lot of people in the stands every game."

ALL-AROUND CONTRIBUTOR

Even those Whaler backers who have never met Jenks in person stand and salute his coast-to-coast hustle and grit. Jenks has been one of the primary reasons the Whalers have sustained excellence one season after capturing their first Ontario Hockey League championship since 1995.

The high-energy left winger has chalked up 18 goals, nine assists and 41 penalty minutes in 29 games during a season in which more than one OHL expert expected a Whaler decline following the departure of several key players.

Heading into Thursday's 2 p.m. home game against Saginaw, the Whalers own a 19-9-2-2 record, which is good for third place in the highly competitive OHL West Conference's West Division.

"It's hard to pinpoint one thing," said Jenks, when asked to reveal the team's secret to success so far this year. "We have good coaching and our team's chemistry is outstanding."

Jenks was caught off guard earlier this month when Greg Stefan replaced former head coach Mike Vellucci, who stepped down to focus more on his general manager responsibilities.

"I was surprised; I didn't see it coming," he said. "I like Mike Vellucci a lot, but I don't think we're going to go downhill now that Greg Stefan's the coach."

Ignition weathers Storm, 25-7

The Detroit Ignition tied the Chicago Storm for first place in the Major Indoor Soccer League with a 25-7 victory Saturday night at Sears Centre Arena.

Both teams now stand at 7-3 heading into this weekend's contests.

The Storm scored the first points of the night as defender Branko Savic booted a two-point score past Ignition keeper Danny Waltman at 4:46 of the first quarter. Worteh Sampson and Ryan Mack responded with goals of their own to notch four points for the Ignition. Storm midfielder John Ball scored an unassisted three-point goal at 8:45 to give Chicago a one-point advantage at the end of the first period.

The Ignition scored eight unanswered points in the second quarter with two-point goals from Ricardinho, Hewerton Moreira and Jamar Beasley. Midfielder Kyt Selaidopoulos scored his 100th MISL career point with a two-point goal at 5:28 in the second period. The Ignition owned a 12-5 advantage at the half.

Doug Rice ignited things for Detroit in the third quarter with a two-point goal off an assist from Mack at 8:03. The Storm's Ian Bennett responded with a two-point score of his own at 9:23 in the third period. Ricardinho closed out the quarter for the Ignition with his second two-point goal of the night at 12:07 to bring the score to 16-7.

Less than two minutes into the game's final stanza, Moreira booted a two-point goal past Storm keeper Jeff Richey. Mack tallied another three points for Detroit at 7:05 with an assist from Rice. Selaidopoulos scored his second two-point goal of the match at 7:29 with an assist from defender Josh Rife.

Mack would finish the night with a hat trick, as the midfielder scored his third goal of the night at 12:11.

Report: Change of seasons results in fewer participants

Participation in girls high school cross country in the state of Michigan increased 15.18 percent during the 2007 season compared to 2006, and it appears to be the major beneficiary of sports seasons changes being implemented this school year as a result of Federal court action. The increase in girls cross country — 1,054 participants — more than offsets the losses in girls volleyball and girls golf at Michigan High School Athletic Association member senior high schools. All three sports whose seasons were changed to the fall experienced drops in participation. Girls volleyball was down 3.08 percent (658 participants), girls Lower Peninsula golf down 8.97 percent (291 participants), and boys Lower Peninsula tennis was down 11.43 percent (931 participants). The MHSAA routinely collects participation data from member schools to report to the National Federation of State High School Associations. The fourth fall sport for girls, Lower Peninsula swimming and diving, increased 0.94 percent (60 participants) versus last school year. Among the other fall boys sports, football participation was up 2.45 percent (1,109 participants), boys cross country was up 5.05 percent (403 participants), and boys Lower Peninsula soccer increased 2.32 percent (338 participants). Overall participation for the fall for boys and girls was up 0.89 percent (1,015) over last year. These results are based reports from all 766 MHSAA member senior high schools, comparing actual figures at the same schools between the current school year and the 2006-07 school year. The school's responses to the MHSAA also included this information: ■61 fewer schools made cuts in their girls volleyball programs; ■21 schools dropped freshman girls volleyball; and no programs were added;

■four schools added junior varsity girls volleyball; and none dropped the program; ■five fewer schools made cuts in their girls Lower Peninsula golf programs; and ■22 fewer schools made cuts in their boys Lower Peninsula tennis programs. This information indicates that not only is participation down in these sports this year, but the number of students trying out for these teams in these sports is down as well.

SYNOPSIS OF THE MINUTES OF THE 1,598TH REGULAR MEETING LIVONIA CITY COUNCIL - DECEMBER 5, 2007

Meeting was called to order at 8:00 p.m. Present: Don Knapp, Brian Meakin, Terry Godfroid-Marecki, Tom Robinson, Gerald Taylor, and James McCann. Absent: Joe Laura.

#584-07 Resolution by Taylor and Knapp, unanimously adopted, approving the minutes of the 1,597th Regular Meeting of the Council held November 26, 2007, as submitted.

Council President McCann congratulated his daughter Katie and son-in-law Jay on the birth of their first baby, Kaiden James Davis (named after his grandfather James McCann) on December 4, 2007. He wished a happy life for all of them.

Council President McCann announced that a Public Hearing for the following item will be held on Wednesday, January 9, 2008 at 7:00 p.m. in the Auditorium of the Livonia City Hall, 33000 Civic Center Drive, Livonia, MI:

Sam Shamie, Managing Member, S & N Development Company, LLC, requests the establishment of an Industrial Development District for property located at 37640 Seven Mile Road, in the Southeast 1/4 of Section 6.

Council President McCann announced that there will be an X-item added to the agenda at the end of the meeting regarding a proposed tax incentive resolution voicing opposition to the Governor's use of offering tax incentives in an effort to move a business from one Michigan City to another.

AUDIENCE COMMUNICATION: None.

The following item was received and filed:

An email communication from Kim Naccashian, dated November 20, 2007, regarding the subject of local businesses' drive-thru speakers and their affect on nearby residential property owners. (CR 503-07)

A communication from the Office of the Mayor, dated November 20, 2007, regarding the subject of establishing procedures to notify residents before a stop sign is removed in their neighborhood. (CR 126-07)

The following resolutions were offered by Knapp and Meakin:

#585-07 Determining that the City of Livonia recognize the Livonia Youth Philharmonic of Michigan (LYPM) orchestra as a non-profit organization operating in the community and granting a request for the City to become a co-sponsor to enable the LYPM to advertise in City bulletins, hang flyers on City property, and perform in the "Music Under the Stars" program.

#586-07 Approving a request submitted by David Marhofer, 33201 Kathryn Street, Garden City, MI 48135, for a massage apprentice permit in accordance with Chapter 5.49 of the Livonia Code of Ordinances, as amended.

#587-07 Reappointing Margaret Gray as a Republican member of the Board of Canvassers of the City of Livonia for another four-year term, expiring December 31, 2011.

#588-07 Authorizing the execution of an amendment to the Specialized Services Vehicle Agreement between the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation (SMART) and the City of Livonia to cover the use of two (2) 2007 Ford lift-equipped vans for the Livonia Community Transit Program which have been approved through a Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) 5310 Grant without charge to the City.

#589-07 Approving a one-year extension of the current contract, at the unit prices submitted in February 2007, through December 31, 2008, with Vanguard Utility Service, Inc., 1421 West 9th Street, Owensboro, KY 42301, to test, repair, and calibrate large commercial water meters, at various locations in the City; FURTHER, approving unit prices for all meter sizes at the estimated total cost of $26,720.00 plus an additional $8,000.00 for the purchase of repair parts, from budgeted funds; FURTHER, authorizing the purchase without competitive bidding in accordance with Section 3.04.140D4 of the Livonia Code of Ordinances, as amended.

A roll call vote was taken on the foregoing resolutions:
AYES: Knapp, Meakin, Godfroid-Marecki, Robinson, Taylor, and McCann.
NAYS: None.

#590-07 Resolution by Robinson and Taylor, unanimously adopted, determining to take no further action regarding the subject of business drive-thru speakers. (CR 503-07)

#591-07 Resolution by Robinson and Meakin, unanimously adopted, determining to take no further action regarding the subject of the establishment of procedures to notify residents before a stop sign is removed in their neighborhood. (CR 126-07)

#592-07 Resolution by Taylor and Knapp, unanimously adopted, approving the Project Plan in connection with an application from Madonna University and the issuance of tax exempt bonds by the Economic Development Corporation (EDC) not to exceed $20,000,000.00 for the construction of a new Science and Media Building on the campus of Madonna University located on the northwest corner of Schoolcraft Road and Levan Road.

#593-07 Resolution by Knapp and Taylor, unanimously adopted, accepting various gifts and cash donations in the amount of $56,995.00 to the Livonia Public Library from various contributors to be used for purposes designated by the donors.

#594-07 Resolution by Knapp and Robinson, unanimously adopted, suspending the rules for procedure as outlined in Council Resolution 574-82 in order to permit consideration of items that do not appear on the agenda.

#595-07 Resolution by Robinson and Godfroid-Marecki, unanimously adopted, opposing Governor Jennifer Granholm's use of offering tax incentives to move a business from one Michigan City to another and working to craft legislative enhancements to all current State tax incentive tools available to the Governor, limiting the Governor's use to only attracting NEW businesses to the State of Michigan and/or the retention of existing Michigan businesses in their CURRENT Michigan City and/or offering equal Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC) incentives to competing Michigan Cities; FURTHER, forwarding a copy of the resolution to Governor Jennifer Granholm, State Senator Glenn Anderson, State Representative Andy Dillon, State Representative John Pastor, and the MEDC.

AUDIENCE COMMUNICATION: None.

By Knapp and Meakin, unanimously adopted, adjourning this 1,598th Regular Meeting of the Council of the City of Livonia at 8:15 p.m. on December 5, 2007.

VAL VANDERSLOOT, CITY CLERK

Jenks lives during the season with a billet family not far from Compuware Arena. What's unique about Jenks' situation is that his billets are his grandparents.

"They live in Plymouth, so it works out well," he said. "I probably could have lived at home (Wolverine Lake is near Walled Lake), but it would have been tough with school getting out at 2 p.m. and practice starting right after that."

Jenks attends Plymouth High School, where he's earned a solid 3.5 grade-point average. "I like the school a lot," he said. "The teachers work with my schedule and the students there who know I play for the Whalers support me."

Juggling act

Jenks said the toughest part about life in the OHL is juggling the responsibilities that come with playing a high-caliber sport while attending high school and maintaining a social life.

"Definitely balancing my time is difficult sometimes," said Jenks. "I definitely need time-management skills with school, practice, games and a social life."

Jenks didn't hesitate when asked about the best part of life in the OHL.

"It's the people I've had a chance to meet," he said. "I've made a lot of great friends."

him an All-WLAA first team nod. "Myron is the type of running back that could take over a game when he wanted to," said Plymouth coach Mike Sawchuk. "He has been a blessing to coach and is a great kid on and off the field."

ISRAEL WOOLFORK, SR. WR, LIV. FRANKLIN: The 6-4, 175-pound senior caught 44 passes for 828 yards and seven TDs en route to All-WLAA honors. He averaged 18.8 yards per catch and rushed 11 times for 127 yards and one TD.

Defensively, Woolfork ended up with 87 tackles, three interceptions and three fumble recoveries. "He was our go-to guy all year," Kelbert said. "Whenever we needed a big play on either side of the ball, Israel would step up and make the play."

JAMONNE CHESTER, JR. WR, RED. COVENANT: Spectacular plays became a weekly thing this season when it came to the junior wide-out, who grabbed 32 passes for 576 yards and scored 12 touchdowns for the Spartans. Chester was a big reason Covenant went 8-3, advanced to the D8 district championship game and scored 286 points this season.

"Jamonne has real good size (6-2, 190) and he has the work ethic," said Spartans assistant coach Dewuane Jones. "And we're extremely proud of him."

Among many honors for Chester were first-team all conference and all-state honorable mention for D8. Chester also will participate Jan. 3-5 at the Reebok-hosted U.S. Army National Combine in Texas.

MYLES WHITE, SR. WR, LIV. STEVENSON: The 6-1, 165-pound senior caught 26 passes for 651 yards and 10 touchdowns (including a long of 81) on his way to All-Western Lakes honors. White, committed to Michigan State, also played in the secondary.

"Myles worked extremely hard to improve both his hands and his route running," Gabel said. "And it made him the impact player he was. He also gave up only a handful of reception to his side of the field on defense."

JEFF MCCULLOUGH, SR. TE, LIV. FRANKLIN: The 6-5, 235-pound senior played both tight end and linebacker for the Division 1 district champions. Offensively, the two-year starter and captain caught 27 passes for 285 yards and three TDs. He also finished with a total of 98 tackles (66 solo) with five tackles for loss, four sacks and one interception. "Jeff was 'Mr. Everything' in my opinion," Kelbert said.

The All-Western Division pick had two INTs, including a touchdown return, along with a pair of sacks in a 20-8 playoff win over Dearborn Fordson.

"He is the most versatile player in the area. This season we lined him up at tight end, wide receiver and he was the backup QB on offense. On defense, he played inside linebacker, outside back, defensive end and we also used him in our pass coverages."

MATT BROOME, SR. OL, LIV. STEVENSON: The 6-3, 235-pound senior earned Division 1 All-State honors as well as All-Western Lakes recognition while playing on both sides of the ball. He finished 61 tackles, including 12 for loss, along with eight sacks. "Matt was as technically sound a player as we had," Gabel said of the three-year starter. "His athleticism and conditioning allowed him to be effective on both sides of the ball with very few breaks."

MAC GANZAK, SR. OL, CANTON: The 6-3, 230-pound senior anchored the Chiefs' senior-dominated offensive line with a powerful performance in his final season of prep football. Ganzak's standout work in the trenches was recognized by the WLAA's coaches, who voted him onto the All-Conference first team.

"Mac was a first-year starter who worked extremely hard during the off-season to get ready for his senior year," said Canton coach Tim Baechler. "We ran right a lot — especially on fourth down — because of Mac and Will Tidwell. They dominated that side of the line at times."

DUANE NAJARIAN, SR. OL, LIV. CHURCHILL: The 6-foot, 325-pound senior earned All-WLAA honors for the 7-3 Chargers.

"Duane was the anchor on our offensive line," Churchill coach John Filiatraut said. "He overcame a fairly severe leg injury and played many games at less than 100 percent. He is a tremendous run blocker and is surprising nimble for a guy his size."

MIKE DAVIS, SR. OL, WAYNE: A three-year starter for the Zebras, the 6-3, 270-pound senior earned All-WLAA honors with a total of 52 "pancakes" on the year.

Davis also played on the defensive line where he six tackles for loss and two sacks. "He's the best lineman I've ever coached," Wayne coach Craig Hnatuk said. "And because of his versatility, he played four out of five offensive line positions."

RICKY BELL, SR. C, LIV. STEVENSON: The 6-foot, 245-pound senior played the Spartans' final two playoff games with a torn knee ligament. Bell earned All-Western Lakes recognition.

"Ricky is the most determined blocker we've ever had," Gabel said, "and he really accepted nothing less than total efficiency from himself and the rest of the line. An unmatched leader who will be dearly missed."

D.J. FREEMAN, SR. ALL-PURPOSE, WAYNE: The 5-9, 185-pound senior quarterback rushed for 770 yards on seven TDs and three 2 points, while hitting 55-of-109 passes for 1,110 yards and 12 TDs and five INTs. The three-year starter and All-WLAA pick also played as a defensive back.

"D.J. dedicated himself so much in the off-season, whether it was watching film or going to a speed training camp, or being a weight room rat," Hnatuk said. "Imagine a quarterback squatting 440 pounds and dead-lifting over 500 pounds. He's a tremendous player, and better yet, a better person."

FIRST-TEAM DEFENSE
ELLIOTT SYLVESTER, SR. DL, LIV. CHURCHILL: The 5-10, 225-pound senior, a two-year starter, earned All-WLAA honors as a senior.

"His quickness and strength made him one of the top defensive linemen in our conference," Filiatraut said. "He was a load to block every game. Elliott plays with great technique and is extremely quick off the ball. He's a guy who loves to play football. He dominated our practices and gave our offense fits every day."

TRENT JUDIS, SR. DL, LIV. STEVENSON: The 5-11, 250-pound senior was an All-Conference player who helped anchor the Spartans' interior line as he finished with 71 tackles, including 18 for loss.

"Trent is one of our top kids academically," Gabel said. "Trent also has a throwback work ethic and mindset. He played every snap in practice as hard as a game, and improved every game."

KEVIN TABONE, SR. DE, LIV. CHURCHILL: The 6-4, 235-pound senior, a three-year starter played both ways. Defensively, Tabone finished with 32 tackles, two sacks, one fumble recovery and one forced fumble. Offensively, the All-WLAA tight end had 12 catches for 191 yards and one TD.

"Like several others, Kevin suffered through our 1-8 season two years ago and helped to get us back into the playoffs," Filiatraut said. "He's a great player on both sides of the ball and could play either positions (tight end or defensive line) in college. He's a terrific blocker and a solid pass catcher. Kevin is also a great defensive end. He has a great motor and loves to play the game of football."

PAT CECILE, SR. DE, LIV. FRANKLIN: The three-year starter and captain finished with 95 total tackles, including 55 solo (nine for loss) along with three sacks.

During the season he moved from linebacker to defensive end and from center to guard. "Pat is the hardest working player we had in our program," Kelbert said of the All-WLAA pick. "Pat's leadership and work ethic was a big reason we were able to turn our season around."

JASON BAJAS, SR. DE, LIV. STEVENSON: The 6-0, 215-pound senior defensive end earned All-Conference honors for the 13-1 Spartans. He finished with 69 total tackles, including seven for loss and three sacks.

"Jason was our best conditioned player, and he combined that with an iron will to make himself invaluable on both sides of the ball," Gabel said. "He lined up at multiple spots on defense, while taking every meaningful snap as an offensive tackle."

DAN WANSHON, SR. LB, CANTON: The 5-11, 205-pound senior was a sideline-to-sideline force for the Chiefs as he led them in tackles. Wanshon was the lone Canton player who saw significant time in the team's 2005 state final showdown against Rockford. He also anchored the middle of the defense last year when the Chiefs advanced to the Division 1 semifinals. Wanshon was rewarded for his never-quit style by being named to the All-WLAA's first-team defense.

"Dan was our most physical player this season," said Baechler. "He led us in tackles and he made all the defensive calls and the checks. He was a great leader, too."

BRAD BOND, JR. LB, GARDEN CITY: The 6-0, 205-pound junior averaged 7.33 tackles and 5.55 assists per contest, tops in both categories for Garden City.

His all-out play provided stability to the Cougars' defense and earned him team defensive MVP honors as well as selection to the All-Mega Blue first team.

"Brad is great at finding the ball and getting there to make the play," said Garden City head coach Mike Salter. "He plays sideline-to-sideline."

DEVIN MOYNIHAN, SR. LB, LIV. CHURCHILL: The 5-11, 205-pound senior had a team-high 141 tackles in 10 games, including four games with 20 or more. He also added one interception and one fumble recovery.

"Devin turned into one of the best linebackers in the WLAA," Filiatraut said of the All-Conference pick. "He started at Mike's linebacker and was an anchor for our defense. He has good size and speed, and is a solid tackler and a great hitter. He is all you want in a linebacker. He added toughness and durability to our defense."

RYAN WHITTUM, SR. DB, LIV. CHURCHILL: The 6-2, 195-pound senior earned both Division 1 All-State and All-WLAA honors. He finished with 49 tackles and five interceptions (one returned for a touchdown). As a wide receiver, Whittum caught 15 passes for 297 yards and two TDs. He was also the team's placekicker and punter.

"Ryan is a great person of character," Filiatraut said. "He has a tremendous drive to be the best he can be. He is a very focused player who rarely loses concentration. He has tremendous athletic ability and ball skills. Early in the year, Ryan made many of the plays that helped define our season. He is the kind of player that makes big plays in big games."

KESHAWN MARTIN, SR. DB, WESTLAND GLENN: The 6-foot, 176-pound senior, committed to Michigan State, did it all for the 5-4 Rockets.

As a quarterback, Martin rushed for 866 yards in 11 attempts and 13 TDs, while hitting 28-of-62 passes for 685 yards and seven TDs. His longest run was 90 yards.

As a defensive back, he had a pair of interceptions, both for TDs. "When defenses keyed on Keshawn, he took advantage," DeLuca said. "And he always covered the best receiver the opponent had."

PAT YORK, SR. DB, LIV. STEVENSON: The only repeat All-Observer first-team performer, the crafty 5-11, 155-pound York was the defensive signal caller for the Spartans.

He had 106 total tackles and finished with nine interceptions for 141 yards in returns (15.7 average) and one TD (52 yards). "Pat took over our defense by making a point to understand everyone's role against every formation and play," Gabel said. "He's the best practice player we've ever had, and he made everyone else better around him."

RYAN DOLAN, SR. DB, LIV. CHURCHILL: The 5-9, 165-pound senior finished with 64 tackles (two sacks), two interceptions (one for a TD) and one fumble recovery (for a TD) while scoring 14 points.

COACH OF THE YEAR

TIM GABEL, LIV. STEVENSON: Guided the Spartans to their finest football season in school history with a 13-1 record and a berth in the Division 1 state championship game at Detroit's Ford Field. Stevenson also capped its first undefeated season since 1968 and captured its first-ever Western Lakes Activities Association crown to go along with district and region titles. Gabel's 13-year record is 82-47 with eight postseason playoff appearances.

Everybody Matters.

Helping families become stronger

Experience tells us that the best way to help the most people is to focus on the underlying causes of the most serious problems. Here in the Plymouth/Canton Community, we're focused on critical issues affecting families like health care, nutrition, family counseling and assistance in times of crisis. It takes the whole community working together to reach our goals in these areas. So we bring together people from all across the community – people from industry and business, faith groups, non-profit, and people like you. If it requires fundraising, developing community partnerships, or just getting people to work together, that's what we do. Your United Way contribution goes to work bringing lasting change, right where you live. Because that's what matters.

Padma's Party

Have a Tangy Tart Hot Sweet New Year

BY WENDSY VON BUSKIRK
STAFF WRITER

Padma Lakshmi is so stylish she elevates grilled cheese to an art form.

The model, author, cook and host of Bravo's hit series Top Chef shares secrets for making meals magical in her new cookbook Tangy Tart Hot & Sweet: A World of Recipes for Every Day (Weinstein Books, $34.95).

Experimental cooks can take pages from the book's appetizer section to throw a New Year's Eve party with global flavor.

"What I do a lot of times is take simple classic recipes that we're all familiar with and add two or three ingredients that give them a varnish of personality and international flair," Lakshmi said during a recent interview. "Once you get the ingredients they're easy."

Lakshmi was born in India and raised in America. Growing up, her palate was influenced by a Peruvian babysitter, her mother's Caribbean boyfriend, a playmate from the Philippines and culinary field trips to ethnic neighborhoods like Chinatown and Spanish Harlem. Her career has since taken her to Singapore, Spain, Paris and beyond.

With ease, Lakshmi has melded tastes from around the world into her home cooking, and guests to the fabulous dinner parties she used to host with former husband, author Salman Rushdie, took notice. She was soon tapped to write her first cookbook, Easy Exotic, and host her first show on the Food Network, Padma's Passport.

In her new book, she continues to play with fresh takes on traditional dishes.

Macaroni and cheese is punched up with pickled jalapenos and Mexican oregano. Crab cakes go South Indian with shredded coconut and mango powder.

Saffron, tamarind and sumac make frequent appearances, but not without explanation. Padma starts each recipe by detailing its unique flavors, and the book is interspersed with instructions on how to work with ingredients like pomegranate seeds, Za'atar powder and chutneys. The book also contains beautiful photos and essays about Padma's colorful life and the people who have influenced her cooking.

Many of Lakshmi's recipes are perfect for parties, including an array of tiny sandwiches that are a snap to prepare.

"A few years ago, I started seeing what looked like bite-size grilled cheese sandwiches being passed around at parties that were very fashionably catered," she writes.

"It occurred to me that if these high-end types could steal such a homemade specialty and turn it into a party food, then I could steal it back for parties at home."

Eric Schilbe, a Livonia resident and sous chef at Steve & Rocky's in Novi, got a chance to test some of Lakshmi's recipes firsthand when she visited Detroit during her book tour.

Lakshmi read passages from Tangy Tart Hot & Sweet and signed copies during the Toll Brothers' Tastes of Autumn event in November. For the party, Schilbe prepared Mexican Cornbread with Jalapeno and Chorizo; Grilled Cheese Toasties with Portobello and Bacon; Deviled Eggs with Serrano Chiles; and Tea Sandwiches with Lemon, Honey and Ginger.

"I liked her cookbook," Schilbe said. "It's definitely accessible to the general public, especially since nowadays a lot of the Indian products and Mexican products she uses are available at specialty grocery stores like Hiller's and Busch's."

Hosting a New Year's Eve soiree? Make it exotic with Padma Lakshmi's take on traditional party foods.

TEA SANDWICHES WITH LEMON, HONEY AND GINGER

"These graceful little triangles ... can be made so easily and are perfect for whipping up whenever guests descend unexpectedly."

10 slices of good white bread, toasted on both sides
2 preserved lemon halves (sold in specialty stores)
2 teaspoons honey

1 teaspoon crushed dried red peppers
1 tablespoon freshly minced ginger
10 thin slices of a hard Italian cheese like pecorino or caciotta

Arrange the toast on a platter. Chop the preserved lemons, being sure to remove any seeds first. Place them in a processor or blender with the honey, red pepper, and ginger; make a smooth paste. Spread the paste on the toast and top with a slice of cheese. Diagonally cut each slice to make equal triangles from each slice. You can serve as is or heat in a 350 degree oven for a few minutes, just until cheese is melted and toasted. Either way, these are wonderful with tea, or, even better, a glass of sherry. Serves 6-8.

DEVILED EGGS WITH SERRANO CHILES

"I started making these very retro appetizers for cocktail parties because many of my guests were on high protein, low starch diets ... Green chiles and coriander give them a fresh spicy taste."

1/3 cup mayonnaise
1 serrano chile, seeded and minced
3 grape tomatoes, seeded and diced finely with skin
2 tablespoons minced fresh cilantro
1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
salt
A squirt of fresh lemon juice, about a teaspoon
6 hard-boiled eggs

Combine all the ingredients, except the eggs, in a bowl. Set aside.

Carefully peel the eggs, without scratching the whites. Slice each egg lengthwise and toss the yolks into the bowl with all the other ingredients.

Arrange the whites on a platter. Mix the contents of the bowl well by mashing them together with a fork; add salt to taste. Using a spoon, put a bit of the yolk mixture back into each of the whites and serve them on a platter at room temperature. Serves 4-6.

Caring for critters

Christmas is over, but don't stop giving when it comes to backyard critters.

The Humane Society of the United States reports that raccoons, squirrels, skunks and birds benefit from human help throughout the season.

According to Laura Simon, field director of urban wildlife for HSUS, "Although wild animals are able to adapt to survive cold winter temperatures and food limitations, there are small things that people can do to help them this time of year. We suggest several 'gifts of the season' that can give our backyard neighbors a warm boost during the holidays."

■ Keep bird feeders full in the winter since food availability is very limited for non-migratory birds.

■ Fill large pinecones with peanut butter and roll them in sunflower seeds. Attach a string to the top and hang from trees for birds.

■ Invest in a heated birdbath and keep it filled all winter long. Birds need the water at this time of year when most natural sources may be frozen.

■ Put decorative snowflakes 4 inches apart on any windows where birds might hit, or have hit in the past.

■ Put a cover over any window wells around your house to prevent animals from becoming stuck. Animals, such as skunks, who have poor climbing abilities commonly fall into window wells.

■ Use only environmentally-friendly sidewalk salt for melting ice such as Safe Paws Ice Melter. Regular sidewalk salts pollute the environment and can irritate cats' and dogs' paws.

■ Get to know your backyard wild neighbors by going on an adventure around your own yard in the snow. Try to identify different species by looking at tracks and other signs they leave behind, such as partial remains of food like cracked nuts or twigs. Buy a good wildlife tracking guide - or give one as a gift - to learn more and to better appreciate these animals.

■ The HSUS Wild Neighbors Program promotes non-lethal means for resolving conflicts between people and wildlife and cultivates understanding and appreciation for wild animals commonly found in cities and towns.

Celebrate year's end with Italian wines

As the largest import segment, Italian wines scored in 2007. End the year by seeking out some of Italy's world-famous wines, such as Barolo and Barbaresco from regions with the same name. Both are located in northwest Italy (Piedmont region) around the city of Alba and both wines are made from the nebbiolo grape, a name derived from 'nebbia', the Piedmontese word for fog. Others to discover are Dolcetto d'Alba and Barbera d'Alba, produced from grapes of the same names, that also originate from this area. Asti is located about 20 miles northeast of Alba and home to Barbera d'Asti.

Focus on Wine
Ray & Eleanor Heald

then life in the Piedmont has been stable, allowing its viticulture to evolve and winemaking to improve. Identification of suitable areas for growing each grape variety and the techniques for vinification and aging made early progress. The present Marchese is Alberto di Gresy who was born family has owned land in the Piedmont since 1797. Napoleon won a battle in nearby Alessandria in June of 1800, which caused the retreat of the Austrians from northern Italy. Since in Milan in 1952, and today, armed with a degree in business administration, smartly leads the winery bearing the di Gresy name. Unwilling to sell grapes to wine producers who took all of the credit for wine made from his premium grapes, di Gresy began to supervise vineyard operations on the family's estates and in 1973 started making his own wine. His objective was to produce the very best wine from his own grapes using modern technology, while continuing to respect the Piedmont tradition. It is di Gresy's intention to capture the personality of each vineyard estate in the bottle.

VINEYARD ESTATES

The Martinenga Estate is located in the heart of Barbaresco where di Gresy grows nebbiolo, barbera and cabernet sauvignon on hillside locations with ideal sun exposure at elevations of 700 to 950 feet. Newer vineyards of sauvignon blanc and chardonnay are grown at lower elevations. Three vineyard-designated Barbarescos are produced from this property, Martinenga, Camp Gros and Gauni.

The Monte Aribaldo Estate, located just over one mile from Martinenga, has a splendid view of the Piedmont, framed by the Italian Alps. The vineyard extends along a ridge that has mixed volcanic and chalk soils. Here di Gresy grows Dolcetto d'Alba, chardonnay and sauvignon blanc.

Astrophysicist says Bethlehem star probably appeared in April

BY TOM COYNE
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — It's long been a puzzle for Christian astronomers, and now a professor from the University of Notre Dame thinks he has it figured out — almost, anyway.

His quest: discovering just what "the star in the East" was that led wise men to travel to Bethlehem 2,000 years ago.

As a theoretical astrophysicist, Grant Mathews had hoped the answer would be spectacular, something like a supernova. But two years of research have led him to a more ordinary conclusion. The heavenly sign around the time of the birth of Jesus Christ was likely an unusual alignment of planets, the sun and the moon.

And it most likely occurred in April, 6 B.C.

Not a lot was written about the star in the Bible. In the Gospel of Matthew it says: "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the East, and have come to worship him."

The star, though, has long been immortalized in songs, plays and movies. Astronomers, theologians and historians for hundreds of years have been trying to determine exactly which star might have inspired the biblical writing. German astronomer Johannes Kepler proposed in 1604 that the star was a conjunction of Mars, Jupiter and Saturn in 7 B.C.

The advantage Mathews has over Kepler and others who have pondered the question is that he had access to the databases of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"In principle, we can see any star that was ever made from the beginning of time if we knew where to look. So the question is, could we find a star that could be a good candidate for what showed up then?" he said.

Mathews found several possibilities. He began by posing three questions he would ask when trying to find the answer to any astronomical event: When did it occur? What were its characteristics? Did anyone else see it?

The Gospel of Matthew indicates Jesus was born in Bethlehem when Herod was king. Roman historian Flavius Josephus wrote that Herod died after an eclipse of the moon before the Passover. Mathews said among the possibilities are 6 B.C., 5 B.C., 1 B.C. or 1 A.D. The star could have appeared up to two years before the wise men arrived in Jerusalem, he said.

Mathews believes that means the Christmas star could have appeared anywhere from 8 to 4 B.C. — fitting in with some scholars' views on when Jesus was born.

Among the characteristics written about the star was that it appeared before sunrise and that it appeared to "rest in the sky." Mathews also found writings from Korean and Chinese astronomers of an event about 4 B.C. which described a comet with no tail that didn't move.

Using that set of facts, Mathews found several possibilities, including supernovas, novas and planetary alignments.

Mathews found two possible supernovas in the right period, but said one was probably too low on the horizon to be seen. The other supernova is known as Kes 75. But it was 60,000 light years away and may not have been particularly spectacular.

"There's no real convincing evidence this happened right at 2000 years ago, but it could be in the range of being right because it's in the right location," he said.

He also found a number of nova that also could have been the Christmas star. The one he thinks is the most likely candidate is known as Nova Aquilae V603. The problem with novas and comets, though, is that they were believed in ancient times to be a sign of disaster, not a portent of good things to come.

For that reason, Mathews believes the Christmas star is most likely an alignment of planets. He said there are three likely times for this:

- Feb. 20, 6 B.C., when Mars, Jupiter and Saturn aligned in the constellation Pisces.
- April 17, 6 B.C., when the sun, Jupiter, the moon and Saturn aligned in the constellation Aries while Venus and Mars were in neighboring constellations.
- June 17, 2 B.C., when Jupiter and Venus were closely aligned in Leo.

Having a professional bring new life to home improvement projects, fix-it jobs, and the occasional 'honey-do' tasks is the main appeal of Handy Pro Handyman Services, Inc. of Plymouth. Owner Keith Paul has made customer satisfaction his number one priority in his 11 years since first opening his business with his wife Debra in 1996.
He said he was inspired to start the business by a contractor who ripped off Debra's grandmother. Keith knew that homeowners deserved to have work done on their homes by honest, experienced, and reputable people. That's why it is important to gain the trust and respect from every customer. After all, Handy Pro contractors are invited guests into people's homes and they take that responsibility very seriously.
"Homeowners are letting us into their homes -- it is a very personal thing," Keith said. "We take it as an honor that people would trust us in their homes."
For that and many other reasons, Handy Pro employees are carefully screened and go through an intense training session, including hands-on and classroom training. Keith and the other franchised Handy Pro Handyman Services in Minneapolis, Honolulu, and Dallas are licensed builders and everyone who works for them are approved by the states they work in. All franchises are fully bonded and insured.
The Plymouth location currently employs 13 technicians who specialize in all types of home improvement projects such as drywall repairs, painting, caulking, and gutter repairs. Keith said that his company's specialty "is completing a homeowner's 'to-do' list."
The success of Handy Pro Handyman Services is shown in the recent sales figures. July 2007 was the company's best month in their history. That's an interesting statistic considering the slumping Michigan economy. But Keith said that a down economy is often good for his business.
"People are not selling their homes in this economy; they are upgrading them," he said. "They are putting in new doors, shelving, shutters, shower tiling, etc."
But if customers plan to sell their homes, Handy Pro Handyman Services is also the place to turn to. Keith said that cosmetic fixes to a home are "the best thing you can do. Painting is usually the best return on your investment. New fixtures, ceiling fans, updated lighting, and even ensuring that every door opens and closes can be very important, too. In Michigan you have to make your house stand out."
He added that his same customers will call 2-3 times each year with requests for something as simple as hanging a picture to remodeling a bathroom. Handy Pro Handyman Services' customers are given a one-year guarantee with every job, too.
With that fall season approaching, Keith's technicians will be busy repairing gutters, making them ready for the winter months. He hopes that customers keep the phones ringing because he wants to keep his crew busy. "If we take good care of our staff they, in turn, take good care of our customers," he added. "And we have a great staff."
Handy Pro Handyman Services is located at 995 South Main Street. Hours of operation are Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nights and weekend hours are available upon request. For more information call 734-254-9160 or visit www.handypro.com.

KERALAN CRAB CAKES

"Who doesn't love crab cakes? I know of no one. I made this recipe to meld a classic American dish with the hot and tangy flavors of my native Kerala... If you don't have the amchoor, don't despair. Add some lemon juice to the mixture instead."

Padma Lakshmi's Keralan Crab Cakes, flavored with serrano chilies and shredded coconut, are sure to be a hit at any soiree.

- 1 pound crab meat, shredded
- 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup flour
- 8 serrano chilies, minced
- 1 cup chopped chives
- 1 cup shredded unsweetened coconut
- 1/2 cup shredded carrot
- 1/2 cup finely diced celery
- 1 teaspoon amchoor (mango powder)
- 1 cup sweet corn, fresh, canned or frozen, drained
- 1 large egg, beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups (approximately) canola oil, for frying
- 1/4 cup milk
- Fresh Mint Chutney

except the oil, milk, and chutney. Add the milk a bit at a time; you may need a bit more or less than 1/4 cup to adhere the ingredients into a thick cohesive mixture. Form patties 3 inches in diameter and about 1 inch thick. Fill a deep skillet with 1/2 inch of oil and place it over medium heat. Once the oil is hot and simmering (test for readiness by dropping a loose kernel of corn into it — if the oil sizzles and tiny bubbles form around the kernel, the oil is ready), gently fry the patties, turning them over to brown on each side. Do not crowd the pan, and use 2 spatulas to turn. Lay the fried patties on a few paper towels to absorb excess oil. Serve hot, with mint chutney on the side. Serves 6.

FRESH MINT CHUTNEY

"You will find a million uses for this simple dipping sauce, including whisking a bit into salad dressings and mixing it with yogurt for a thicker dip. It's best with anything fried. Even eggs get a grassy coat of glamour from this chutney."

- 2 1/2 cups fresh mint leaves
- 1 serrano or Thai chili
- 2 tablespoons fresh-squeezed lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- salt

Combine all the ingredients in a blender. A tablespoon of water or 2 can be added to help blend the ingredients, if needed. Pack the sauce in a jar, cover it with its lid, and store it in the refrigerator, where it will keep for 2-3 days. Makes about 3 cups. Two vineyards are located in the Asti region of Monferrato. They are named La Serra and Monte Colombo where di Gresy's Monferrato Rosso (merlot), Barbera d'Asti and Moscato d'Asti are grown.

WHAT TO BUY FROM MARCHESI DI GRESY

2005 Monte Aribaldo Dolcetto d'Alba $17 is a young fresh red wine with violet and floral aromas and red berry and spice flavors. Grapes were grown at 1,200 feet elevation and vinified in stainless steel tanks.

Because the juice spent just a few days in contact with the skins, the wine shows little or no tannins and will easily accompany a light New Year's lunch of antipasti, young cheeses and salami. Sounds like a good treat to eat during a New Year's Bowl Game!

Barberas from both Asti and Alba are wonderful, affordable wines to enjoy young. Barbera d'Asti 2005 $18 boasts bright, fresh cherry and red berry aromas and flavors. It was vinified in stainless steel tanks and mature French oak barrels to yield an easy drinking and versatile red wine with the foods suggested above.

Martinenga Barbaresco 2003 $42 was aged 18 months in French oak barrels and large Slovenian casks. "Aging in large oak casks brings back the vineyard character in the wine," said Jeff Chilcott, cellar master. Violets, dried fruits and fine tobacco highlight the aromas while the flavors include vanilla, roasted nuts and dark berry fruits. "Pinot noir drinkers tend to appreciate barbaresco," Chilcott adds. This wine is especially good with fine aged cheese such as parmigiano-reggiano, alone or topping a bowl of hot pasta tossed with extra-virgin olive oil. La Serra Moscato d'Asti 2006 $16 is the perfect wine to end a meal with fresh fruit or creme brulee. It shows a fresh, lightly sparkling texture with only 5.5 percent alcohol and 12 percent residual sugar. Honey, ripe pears and Fuji apples are dominant flavors. Recalling that "sweet beats heat," try it with Thai dishes.

"What to Expect With Hearing Aids"

Licensed Michigan Audiologist

Most patients who have hearing loss will benefit significantly from hearing aids. The ability to understand speech varies, depending on the nature of the hearing problem. The best time to begin wearing hearing aids is as soon as hearing loss becomes apparent. Hearing aids cannot stop the progression of hearing loss or return hearing to normal. The goal of hearing aids is to make sound easier to hear and improve the level of communication. It takes time to get accustomed to hearing aids and learn how to achieve their maximum performance.

Hearing allows you to communicate with friends, family, co-workers and other persons important in your life. It allows you to stay in contact with the sounds of everyday living. Hearing impairment of any degree creates an invisible handicap that can affect your personal and professional life. PERSONALIZED HEARING CARE has access to the most technologically advanced hearing instruments available, and can assist you in selecting the most appropriate devices available for your hearing problems. Lipstick is back

Toss the gloss in favor of bolder hues

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL
AP FASHION WRITER

Ladies are once again loving their lipstick.

The shiny luster of lip gloss had tempted them away for a few years, but a creamier texture, long-lasting color and more refined fashions are behind a renewed interest in lipstick. It doesn't hurt that celebrities have taken to red lips on the red carpet and that beauty insiders are touting the old standby as the next big thing.

"I think everyone got tired of that really sticky stuff," says Allure editor in chief Linda Wells. "Some people realized it was a little too teenybopper, your hair gets caught and lip gloss disappears after a few fleeting moments."

Lipstick, however, will last through lunch.

But lipstick could be imposing, says Wells. "In the old days, you could see it coming a mile away," she says. "Now lipstick is sheer. You hear words like 'almost lipstick,' 'mattene' and 'satin.'"

Manufacturers revamped their lipstick recipes to mimic what consumers liked best about lip gloss — including moisture, a fresh scent and even a more palatable taste — while amplifying the pros of lipstick.

"We were absolutely motivated that lip gloss usage surpassed lipstick sales worldwide," says Anne Carullo, senior vice president of corporate product innovations at Estee Lauder, which reintroduced its signature lipstick this year.

The lipstick category started this year stronger than the gloss category in terms of sales, reversing what had been the trend for the past few years, according to NPD Group Inc., a market research firm. However, summertime gloss sales outpaced lipstick. There's room, though, for lipstick to make up ground in the fourth quarter, especially with full color lips dominating holiday-season magazine pages and the spring fashion runways.

Reformulation wasn't an easy feat, Carullo says, because the attributes that women sought most — lightweight-yet-intense color projection, shine with coverage and moisture with staying power — are, more or less, in conflict with each other.

Carullo went back to the drawing board, abandoning the beeswax that had been at the heart of lipstick for years.

It had worked well because it was a hard wax that melted easily but it had a yellow tint and there was a variance in the depth of color between lots. A more vibrant lipstick required a clear wax.

Thus, a new synthetic wax became the new emollient and a new blend of esters and silicones were added for shine. And, says Carullo, perhaps the biggest change in the DNA of lipstick is that all the materials have been morphed into a single complex ingredient instead of adding each one individually, greatly improving consistency.

This all wouldn't have been possible just a few years ago, it's a direct result of improved technology, Carullo says.

Meanwhile, Lauder also changed the length and width of its lipstick, weighted its signature gold case and even adjusted the torque of the twist. "We wanted to make it more of an accessory instead of a utilitarian object," Carullo says.

But while the look and feel might be new, it was important to maintain the emotional ties many women feel toward lipstick. Carullo herself recalls watching her own mother put the punctuation on her outfit each day with a twist of her lipstick tube.

"I think you're attracted to a lipstick for all different reasons," says Jean Godfrey-

June, Lucky's beauty director. "Chanel lipstick has that very satisfying click when you pull the tube out of this elegant gold case, Guerlain also clicks like a Mercedes door. Makeup products are like toys — you want them to be attractive and fun to look at."

Personally, she's a fan of Aveda's lipstick because of its soothing texture and pleasing peppermint smell. Allure's Wells is carrying both a Giorgio Armani lipstick tube and one from Shu Uemura in her handbag right now — there's never just one.

"There's something very glamorous about putting on lipstick. It's that snapping of the cap, swiveling it up and sensual movement of putting on," she says. "It's an old-fashioned sexy gesture."

Bright red lips, spotted on the likes of Heidi Klum and Katherine Heigl, have an old Hollywood vibe that further fuels the fantasy.

"You can put on a red lipstick and decide, 'Today, I'm going to be the bold person,'" says Godfrey-June.

For actress Kate Winslet, though, she simply feels undone without her lipstick. The spokesmodel for a Lancome fragrance, Winslet says her favorite lipstick at the moment is Lancome's Color Fever Shine in Rose Defile.

She finds a simple pleasure in the feel of a creamy lipstick. Winslet says, and it's an affordable luxury. "Lipstick reminds me of my mother methodically and meticulously putting on lipsticks for special occasions. It's still a treat for her to get a new lipstick — there was not a lot of money growing up," she says.

"This is the renaissance of lipsticks," declares Jean Ford, co-founder and co-creator of Benefit Cosmetics, which has seen sales of lipstick soar 82 percent over the last six months while gloss sales declined 19 percent.

"We had an inkling about a year ago that we'd see a renaissance for the traditional and the new lipstick. It's come true — and I think it's here to stay," she says. Right now, the trend is toward silky but she predicts there will be a matte lipstick craze in a few years.

"Women are abandoning their inhibitions and craving the perfect lipstick — there is a serious lust factor."

Plus, Ford says, searching for that perfect lipstick is fun.

She adds: "It's almost a hobby. It can transform a dull day into an exciting, treasureable moment. If you're adventure-some, you can go into the store and go up to the beauty artist and say, 'Find me the perfect lipstick.' You can't say, 'I'm in search of the perfect lip gloss.' It doesn't work that way, it's not authentic enough."

The turn in fashion toward a more lady-like style complements lipstick too.

"Women put away the peasant top and started wearing dresses. With that came the desire for a little more color on the lips," Wells says.

This also marks the first time Gen Yers have had their turn with lipstick — and they're enjoying it.

"The 'Gossip Girls' and the girls on 'Dirty Sexy Money,' those girls are groomed to the hilt and are wearing lipstick. You see Rachel Bilson and the (Mary-Kate and Ashley) Olsens — they're very done up and influencing younger women," Wells says.

But even if the runways helped usher in a lipstick moment, it's unlikely to become passe even if the next round of fashion shows emphasize a new makeup look.

"Beauty trends tend to last longer than fashion trends — they'll usually go a few years," Wells says. "The colors are more mercurial, but the look isn't. ... When you're dealing with your face, people are less willing to make changes."

Laura Mercier

Laura Mercier's lipstick tips

Lipstick is makeup artist Laura Mercier's essential tool.

"Lipstick is my favorite thing in the world," she says. "It's my favorite to work on in the lab and it's my favorite thing to wear."

In fact, she doesn't leave home without it. "It makes me feel alive. ... I love my lips to feel supple and nourished, and I feel awake and 'done' when it's on."

But she doesn't necessarily wear the same shade lipstick in the same way every day — a common rut for women.

Her tips for keeping lipstick looking fresh: ■ The purpose of using a lip pencil before applying lipstick is to create a barrier that keeps the oil from the lipstick on the lips instead of feathering above and below.

It's important to pick a shade of pencil that closely matches the shade of lipstick, Mercier says, or you end up with a cartoonish look. Follow the lip line from the inside with the pencil and then blend the color inward with your finger. This mutes the intensity of the border. "You don't want harsh contour," Mercier explains.

■ Her textbook application of lipstick is a three-step process, according to Mercier: Use your pencil, use a slanted-tip lipstick, blot with a tissue to absorb the oil. (Pigment will remain, she promises.)

An optional fourth step is to also use a tissue to spread a little bit of powder to set the color for many hours to come.

The result is a velvety, matte look that's particularly good for strong reds, Mercier says.

■ If the surface area of the lipstick tip is too wide, don't risk going outside the lines by applying directly from the tube. Instead, use a brush or your finger.

Using your finger also allows the lipstick to be used more as a stain, which will have the same color as the lipstick but not appear as thick. Dab on a very thin coat and then add a little lip balm in the center — it'll almost look like a "just-bitten lip," Mercier describes.

This technique works especially well with dark colors and is ideal for cocktail parties because the lip color isn't cakey and won't come off on a glass, says Mercier.

She adds: "You can kiss and it won't get all over everybody."

■ Another tip that will stay on: one drawn with a chestnut or brown-rose neutral pencil. You draw it, fill it in, blend and take off excess with a tissue. All-over application of a clear gloss is optional.

There's a lot of control in this method, says Mercier, because you're painting your lips on with an easy-to-use tool, and a brownish rose shade is the closest thing to a universal color she's found. "It's not too cool or too warm. It basically works on everyone."

Uncap the perfect color

Red might be the most dramatic — and trendy — lipstick color, but makeup insiders say a lipstick with at least a little pink is the easiest to wear.

A beautiful shade is what draws someone to a lipstick, says Anne Carullo, senior vice president of corporate product innovations at Estee Lauder. For someone to buy it again, it also has to have excellent texture and perform well, but it's the color that makes that initial sale, she says.

The industry recognizes seven basic color categories: pink to rose, mauve to rose, lilac to violet, plum to wine, peach to coral, beige to brown, and red.

Almost any mass-produced lipstick will fall within those color categories, but inspiration for the exact shade can come from anywhere, she says, picking up a copy of Wired magazine and noting what a rich shade of red was used for the typeface on the cover. She's taken color cues from textiles, food and paint.

"I can spot a winning color," Carullo says.

However, she adds quickly, a winning color doesn't necessarily mean she'd wear it. "Every product has a personality ...

There are shades I won't wear, like peach, but I love the rose-to-mauve colors and the burgundy to wine range."

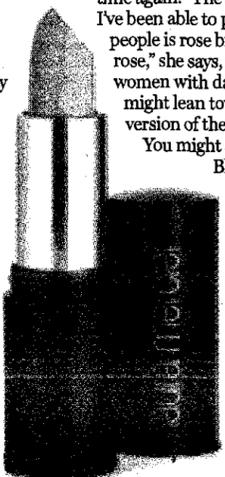

Makeup artist Laura Mercier says she finds herself reaching for a brown-rose shade time and time again. "The universal color I've been able to put on a lot of people is rose brown or brown rose," she says, noting that women with darker skin tones might lean toward a shimmier version of the color.

You might see Clinique's Black Honey (a light red shade with blue undertones) on Lucky beauty editor Jean Godfrey-June's lips, but at first it took some convincing from a saleswoman. "When someone suggests a color you'd never wear, it can be a great thing," she says.

Red has a lot of power, says Jean Ford, co-founder and co-creator of Benefit Cosmetics. Before her career in beauty, Ford was a student teacher of second graders. She recalls the principal of the school calling her into his office and asking why she always wore such bold lipstick.

"I would wear the brightest reddish-coral lipstick so students would pay attention. They'd have something to look at and see when I was talking," Ford says.

Mercier, a Frenchwoman, is getting a kick out of all the red lips she is seeing in the U.S. "Red is back on trend. I'm laughing — not meanly but gently — because I've been told for years that American women are not interested in wearing red lipstick, especially if the French are, but they're wearing it now!"
