clinched the Westland City Council's top post Monday night, ascending to the presidency in a sweeping vote by his council colleagues.

"I'm excited about it," he said about winning the spot that had eluded him in past attempts.

Godbout, replacing Councilman Charles Pickering as president, was tapped for the post as he started his eighth year on council. After presiding over his first meeting, Godbout said his top goals will be pushing for a cleanup plan for contaminated Central City Park, seeking a viable curbside recycling program and maintaining a healthy city budget.

Godbout's rise to the council presidency followed years of community service that included his involvement in the former Wayne-Westland YMCA, the Westland Condominium Directors Association, the Westland Community Foundation and the city's recycling

John Adams earns top firefighter honor

Westland Fire Capt. John Adams consistently goes beyond the call of duty, whether he's raising money to help needy children at Christmas or teaching senior citizens how to best escape a burning building.

He has worked tirelessly to make Westland a better city since he was hired by the city in 1993.

"Capt. Adams has proven to be a great asset to the Westland Fire Department and has accomplished many tasks dur-

Task force focuses on helping people stay in their homes

Amid a foreclosure crisis that has cost hundreds of Westland residents their homes, Mayor William Wild announced Monday he will form a task force to help educate homeowners on the brink of losing their houses.

"We're going to see what exactly we can do at the local level to help these folks," he said, unveiling his plan during a Westland City Council meet-

The six-member task force will be charged with devising ways to educate homeowners about resources that may be accessible to them as they try to avoid foreclosure.

"Early recognition of the problem is the key to prevention," Wild said. "It is imperative that our residents who are facing foreclosure have access to resources that may help prevent them from losing their homes.

Wild's decision to form a task force came after he attended a November foreclosure summit hosted by Detroit and orga nized by the U.S. Conference of Mayors. At that time, Westland already had reported 424 mortgage-related foreclosures for 2007.

Westland Assessor James Elrod will chair the city's task force. Other members will include Deputy Mayor Courtney Conover, Purchasing Director Jade Smith, Planning Commissioner Adam Hammons and two representatives who hadn't been named - one from the city council and one from the local chamber of commerce.

In another development, Wild said his administration will use a one-year home sales study, rather than the typical two-year formula, as the assessor's office prepares the 2008 assessments. The one-year analysis could provide some tax relief amid severely declining property values.

Councilman Charles Pickering earlier had voiced support for a one-year study, saying "a lot of our residents are suffering." He told Wild mat ne appreciated the enort

"I'm looking forward to the results of it," Pickering said. Administration officials cautioned that the one-year study can only focus on home sales and not on houses that are currently on the market.

Man charged in beating of pregnant girlfriend

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A pregnant Westland woman has lost her baby after she was beaten and kicked by her boyfriend inside her Woodland Villa apartment near Warren and Central City Parkway, police said.

The attack on the 19-yearold expectant mother led to criminal charges Wednesday against 24-year-old Daniel Reed Jarrett II of Wayne, who had been attending college out of state, police Sgt. Michael Harhold said.

Jarrett, described as the father, is accused of assaulting the woman after an argument escalated over whether she should have had an abortion, Harhold said.

According to statements made to police, Jarrett knocked the victim to the floor, beat her and kicked her shortly after 7 p.m. last Thursday. The woman called 9-1-1 for help and was taken to St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia, where she was later released.

A couple of other people were inside the apartment when the incident happened, authorities said.

Jarrett turned himself in to police Sunday and was charged Wednesday with assaulting a pregnant woman and intentionally causing a miscarriage. If convicted, he could face penalties ranging up to life in prison.

Jarrett was ordered jailed by Westland 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos in lieu of a $50,000 cash bond. The defendant is scheduled for a Jan. 17 preliminary hearing that will determine whether he should stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Treat for tenants: Rental costs cut at Holliday Park

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, January 10, 2008

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Residents of a housing co-op on Westland's north side will pay less monthly rent this year, as a governing board moves closer to paying off the development's 40year mortgage in May.

Monthly rent will drop $31-$34 at Holliday Park Townhouses on Wayne Road south of Joy, a 694-unit complex where residents will now pay $231 to $338 a month to live, said Gene Suchy, the board's treasurer. The tab includes heat and maintenance.

"Our mortgage will be paid off in May, and this is allowing us to reduce our rent," he said.

Residents of the moderateincome, nonprofit co-op have to pay $22,000 to $45,000 for their moving-in membership, but they enjoy monthly rent that's far less expensive than costs paid by most renters or homeowners.

Emerson Middle School eighth-grader Sarah Brunner rehearses the opening scene with her classmates for an upcoming production of 'Outside Looking In,' a play the students wrote about teen issues.

Student-written play takes on middle school issues

BY REBECCA JONES STAFF WRITER

Situations that play out in the lives of middle schoolers are the names of the scenes in Outside Looking In," written by Emerson Middle School's performing arts students.

Stupid girl. Beautiful. Slumber party. Parents. Drugs.

"Middle school really is hard," Sarah Brunner says in her opening monologue, punctuated musically by Linkin Park's "Somewhere I Belong."

It's not the classes, it's the unspoken rules, she states. On the first day of school, choose your lunch table wisely. You'll be there all year.

Instead of performing another playwright's work, as planned, "we decided to write a show that speaks to them," said teacher Amy Fisher, who describes the 14 or so scenes as "like Saturday Night Live vignettes, but not funny — and nothing gets resolved."

Thirty-two students had a hand in writing. For material, the eighth-graders just looked around.

"The things we do in here, I see all the time in the hallways," said Tawny Klesz, eighthgrader.

The quick-paced show runs about 45 minutes, leaving plenty of time for people to talk about these issues afterward.

Students will put on a public performance of "Outside Looking In" at 7 p.m. this evening (Jan. 10) at Emerson. Tickets are $2. Two in-school performances take place Friday.

"We kept it short in case we want to take it to other schools," Fisher said.

The soundtrack includes "Revolution" by the Beatles and Christina Aguilera's "Beautiful." In one scene, 20 girls stand on the stage, as if facing themselves in the mirror, reflecting how they feel about themselves, from "fabulous" one moment to "beastly" in another.

"It was a very hard scene for them to do," Fisher said.

Student Taylor Moore said one minute she's putting on make-up with a friend. "A second later, they'll be saying they don't look good."

Another student, Mitchell Bacus, said issues include: "Drugs, peer pressure, doing what other people want you to do, grades, being on teams or clubs, being liked.

The play deals with issues of perception.

"People are growing up in different households, with different parents and different forms of being punished," said Alan Robinson, also an eighthgrader. When everyone gets together at school, "the mixture of emotions causes drama."

Parents in the audience might be surprised, students said.

These are things students tend not to talk to their parents about, said student Halle Gardner. "We don't want them to know... what we are dealing with."

"I've changed a lot since last year," said Dominique Giraud. As a student, she said, insecurity isn't the only problem. Students are suffering from forms of depression.

Fisher has taught high school and middle school since 1995.

"I do think it's harder to grow up now," Fisher said. There's more emphasis on beauty and the drug issue is more prevalent, she said.

Proceeds from ticket sales will go the Emerson's Save Our Stage campaign. Parents can bring five Box Tops for Education for $1 off admission.

On a personal level, Adams has installed handicapped "grab bars" for seniors, residential lock boxes, hearingimpaired smoke detectors for the disabled, and organized donations for a handicap ramp for a senior couple, Reddy said.

Adams has provided educational information on city cable station WLND and spearheaded a "Shop with a Hero" program in which needy youngsters shop with public safety officers at Christmastime at the local Meijer store.

He has read books at the Stottlemyer Elementary Head Start program; participated in the Westland Chamber of Commerce's shadowing program; helped out with the city's "Haunted Forest" Halloween walks; and led career-day talks at Adams Middle School, Reddy said.

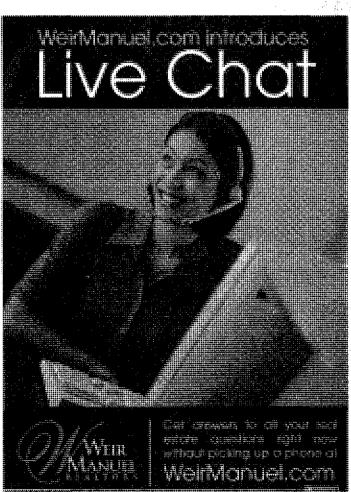

Somehow, Adams also has found time to belong to organizations like the Westland Goodfellows, becoming the top newspaper salesman two years in a row to raise money for needy children at Christmas. He also is involved in the Michigan Chapter of the International Association of Arson Investigators and has served as secretary/treasurer for the Metro Detroit Fire Inspectors Society.

Adams has attended Concordia College full time, receiving a Distinguished Scholar Award and being named to the Dean's List every semester he has attended.

Local soldiers prepare for Iraq mission

BY STACY JENKINS STAFF WRITER

Vicky MacDonald knows homemade cookies have a way of bringing comfort.

The Farmington Hills mother did what she always does for her son, William MacDonald, 25, and his fellow soldiers in the Michigan Army National Guard Company A 1st Battalion, 125th Infantry Regiment - she baked chocolate chip and M&M cookies.

This time, they have to last a little longer, though.

Sgt. MacDonald was more than 100 soldiers in the Detroit-based unit and more than 500 statewide to be deployed Tuesday morning to Fort Hood, Texas, where they'll train for three months before going to Iraq on a convoy security mission.

"I'm nervous, scared, excited, anxious," said MacDonald, a Class of 2000 North Farmington High School graduate and second oldest of seven children in his family. "But, I'm comfortable with the training we've received and we're fully prepared for deployment."

Family and friends of the soldiers gathered Monday night at the Detroit Light Guard Armory for a departure ceremony, which was one of four held throughout the state.

"Your moms, your dads, your spouses, your children... all of us are honored to be with you and honored that you put on the uniform, to serve," said U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, who is Senate Armed Services Committee chairman.

His sister, Stacy Bryant, 28, of Redford, doesn't want her brother to go to Irag.

"I don't think they should be going," she said, adding that she is opposed to the war. "There are a lot of young, innocent men going over there and getting hurt."

Bryant, a newlywed, will miss the February birth of his first child, but that's motivation to complete his mission.

"It's an honor to do what I'm doing," he said. "The reason I'm doing it is to keep my wife safe and keep my daughter safe. Just knowing I'll have them to come home to, brings hope and happiness to keep me strong while I'm over there."

Maj. Gen. Thomas Cutler praised the soldiers for their courage and commitment.

"You will be great ambassadors for the United States of America," he said. "I am tremendously proud of you. You will be in my prayers the entire time you're gone.

Wild ousts Carroll as housing director

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

Mayor William Wild will replace his housing and community development director as he continues to reshape his new administration.

Wild announced Monday that Housing Director Terry Carroll's last day was Friday, and two other employees will perform Carroll's duties until his successor is named as early as next week. Wild confirmed that he was negotiating with a new director.

Carroll had served in the post for a year and oversaw numerous government programs, including housing assistance and federal Community Development Block Grant projects. Wild didn't cite a reason for Carroll's departure.

Before he became the city's housing director, Carroll had previously worked as an executive assistant to then-Mayor Sandra Cicirelli.

Carroll became the fourth director that Wild has ousted since he was elected as mayor last November. The mayor earlier fired Economic Development Director William Caya, Controller/ Purchasing Agent Dwayne Harrigan and computersystems Director Charles Nalbandian.

Wild replaced Caya with former Westland Chamber of Commerce President Lori Fodale and Harrigan with banker Jade Smith. Wild decided to leave Nalbandian's post vacant for now and have an outside company perform the duties.

The city's senior citizen resources director, Peggy Ellenwood, also left her job, but her departure was described as a retirement. She has been replaced on an interim basis by the deputy director, Barb Marcum.

Some of Marcum's supporters have urged the mayor to make her the full-time director.

Youngsters in Anne McKolay's kindergarten class check to duck eggs they hatched as part of a science unit.

Kindergartners enjoy 'quackers'

STAFF WRITER

Mary may have had a lamb follow her around, but it was ducklings that followed around students in Anne McKolay's kindergarten class at Schweitzer Elementary School.

Named Rocketship and Brownie - the students picked the names — the ducks are on their way to lounging around the Domino Farms petting farm after being raised from eggs in the classroom by McKolay.

"I got the idea from our science unit, Two by Two, at the end of it, it suggest you can hatch eggs," said McKolay. "We did quails before and that was OK, but pheasants were crazy."

McKolay ordered the eggs through a neighbor who works for a veterinarian. She kept them in an incubator until they hatched in October. Since then they have lived in a pen in the classroom during school day and with McKolay at her home. "The kids really love them and the ducks are very fond of

Benefit moved to larger site to handle expected turnout

Friends and those wishing to help a tragedy-touched family have overwhelmed organizers so a fund-raising dinner to help that family has been moved to a larger location.

Ten-year-old Jordan Griffin is dead and her sister, eightyear-old Sidney, is in critical condition following the Dec. 30 traffic crash that took the lives of four other members of their family on an Ohio interstate. The two attended Clarcnceville Schools' Grandview Elementary, where their mother, Jodie, is a paraprofessional.

A 24-year-old Adrian man is facing multiple felonies including aggravated homicide in connection with the crash; police say his blood-alcohol level was three times the legal limit at the time.

Because of great public response, a spaghetti and pizza dinner fund-raiser to help the Griffin family after its loss will still be held at 6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 18, but has been moved to Ward Evangelical Church, 40000 Six Mile Road, Northville.

Bob Evans, Munchies Pizza, Westborn Market, Jet's Pizza, Gordon Food Service and The Deli - all of Livonia - are supporting the event.

Tickets are $12. They're available at the school after Jan. 7 or by calling Charlotte Tripp at (248) 471-2075.

Time to collect forms for your income tax return here are some important things we all need to do this time of year. The first deals with tax reporting information.

Over the next few weeks most of us will receive a variety of tax forms for 2007 including 1099s, (k)1s and

W2s. Don't throw away these forms. Instead, keep them in a tax file for use in filing your 2007 tax return. One sure way of being audited by the IRS is to not report a 1099 on your tax return. However, it is not enough to put your 1099 and W2s in your tax file. Review them for accuracy. You should not assume they are correct. Companies make mistakes.

The W2 from an employer will state earnings for the calendar year 2007 along with what was withheld for you in state, federal and Social Security taxes. When you receive this document pull out your last payroll check and use it as a guide. The last payroll check usually has a summary of yearly earnings and what was withheld. These numbers should match your W2. If there is a problem such as overstated income or under-holding, you need to contact your employer. If the employer was wrong, have them issue an amended W2. A copy of your W2 is sent to Rick Bloom the Internal Revenue Service and if an amended one is not issued.

it can cause problems. In some rare situations, people do not receive the proper documentation from an employer. If you do not receive a W2 by the end of January, you'll need to contact the employer. If the employer is either out of business or for some reason you cannot contact them or locate them, you need to contact and notify the IRS. In addition, there is a form from the IRS you can complete to attach to your tax return. Remember, even though you do not receive a W2, that does not mean you are not responsible to report the income on your tax return. In addition, you want to get proper credit for state, federal and Social

Other important documents to keep are year-end statements from charities. In the past, cancelled checks were sufficient to prove contributions to charities. That is no longer the case. If you are audited, you are required to show backup documentation from the charity itself.

One question I am consistently asked is how to avoid an IRS audit. Although it is impossible to totally avoid an audit it is possible to reduce the likelihood. One way is to keep good records and report all income. My definition of an effective record-keeping system is one that works for you. As we start 2008, don't forget to spend a few minutes establishing a tax recordkeeping system so when it comes time to preparing your 2007 tax return, it will be easy and most importantly, accurate.

OUR VIEWS

Mayor's goals will benefit city

It's a new year and a new start for Westland politicians who took the oath of office during a ceremony Monday

For Mayor William Wild, it's truly his chance to leave his mark on the city. He has set a busy agenda for his two years in office — everything from moving ahead on the cleanup of Central City Park to filling the vacant big box stores in the central business district.

None of what the mayor has set as his goals will be easily accomplished. Considering how long the issue had been swirling around before it became public in November 2006, it's apparent that there's no quick fix for getting the contaminated park cleaned up. It will take the agreement of the city, Wayne County and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality to make it happen.

As the former chamber president, Lori Fodale knows the business community inside and out. She understands what it takes to successfully market businesses to those who live in and outside the city. It's a skill that we think will serve the city well in filling its vacant buildings and continuing to attract new businesses.

Likewise filling the vacant big box stores like Sam's Club and the old Best Buy and attracting new business along Ford Road, set forth in the recent design charrette, are no simple tasks. A big obstacle is the status of the state's economy. But the mayor turned to someone who has experience marketing the city's business community to be the city's economic development director.

As the former chamber president, Lori Fodale knows the business community inside and out. She understands what it takes to successfully market businesses to those who live in and outside the city. It's a skill that we think will serve the city well in filling its vacant buildings and continuing to attract new businesses.

The mayor has other goals, among them curbside recycling. It's an issue that surfaced last year when proponents mounted a petition drive in support of the idea, and became a battle cry during the election. It may be doable, but it will depend on if the city's trash hauler, Midwest Sanitation, can survive reorganization under Chapter 11 bankruptcy law.

In looking back at what Wild accomplished during his year as the appointed mayor, we believe he will accomplish what he sets out to do. It may not happen overnight, but it will happen. Pardon our irreverence, it'll be a Wild time that will be good for the city and for residents.

Resist urge to boycott presidential primary

Democratic voters in Michigan have every right to feel cheated regarding next Tuesday's presidential primary election.

Although little can be done to correct the situation prior to next Tuesday, Democrats nonetheless can demand to be heard by participating in the sham elec-

A tug-of-war between Michigan and national leadership of both political parties is to blame for the fiasco. Our state political bosses wanted Michigan to have a greater say in the national debate, so they voted to move the state primary before the Iowa Caucuses and New Hampshire Primary, which for some godforsaken reason has a historical stranglehold on the process.

Instead of addressing Michigan's concerns, the national party bosses decided to punish us for wanting to play a larger role in selecting this country's next president.

The Democrats have stripped Michigan of its 156 delegates for this year's national convention, and the Republican Party will only count half of the state's delegates. Additionally, all but four of the Democratic contenders were bullied into pulling their names from the primary ballot, so Democratic voters will only have Sen. Hillary Clinton, Sen. Chris Dodd, Rep. Dennis Kucinich and former Sen. Mike Gravel from which to choose, and Dodd has already dropped out of the primary race.

It would be easy for Democrats to stay home next Tuesday, but that would be a mistake. If voters support one of the four candidates on the ballot, they should vote for that person. If they don't, then Democrats are urged to cast an "uncommitted" vote. The best way to demand a voice is to show our resolve in being heard.

If enough Democrats and Republicans vote next Tuesday, it may force the national party bosses to seat the state delegates and allow them to have a say at the national convention. And maybe, just maybe, a solution will be found for dealing with all of those "uncommitted"

Christmas Story

When Jennifer Kondratowicz heard about Kimberly Loveless's attack, she remembered the kindness Kim had shown to the kids in the community, in particular that Kim had opened her shop in Wayne, The Acorn Shop, for the kids to enjoy a "Secret Santa" event.

Jennifer, an employee at the Wayne Ford Civic League, asked if it would be OK to put out a collection jar during bingo sessions to raise money to help this wonderful lady and was immediately supported by all. Before she knew it the bingo players and staff had raised $498.22 by Christmas Eve. That along with the league's matching contribution meant that Jennifer was able to present a check delivered by Santa and Mrs. Claus for $1,000 to Kim to aid her with her recovery.

Wrong about contracts

In reference to the article, "Officials differ over the cost of police, fire pacts,' Council President Charles Pickering cast the lone dissenting vote. It seems just a little over a month and a half ago when you, Mr. Pickering, were campaigning for mayor for the City of Westland; your main focus was the increase in crime in the city and what needs to be done about it. You even talked about hiring more police offi-

Mr. Pickering, your vote has shown me that you were talking out of both sides of your mouth. You were not willing to step up to the plate like your colleagues and support the front lines of defense of our city, regarding police and

The men and women in blue of the police and fire ranks put their lives on the line every day to protect us, the citizens of Westland. We as taxpayers should support their fair and equitable wage package. It's the least we can do for them in securing the safety of our

I want to thank Mayor Wild and the City Council members who voted in favor of these pay raises for having the courage to do what's right for the City of Westland. I also want to personally thank the men and women in blue (police and fire) who are there every day for me and my family and the citizens of Westland. May God bless you all and keep you safe always.

Tax break isn't fair

Dear Westland Residents, For the bad news ... I was Internet surfing the other night. I came across the Westland channel, and lo and behold they were talking about taxes!

Westland Council is about to do us bad. They are talking about giving new people who move into these abandoned house a huge tax break! Wait one minute, what about us — the rest of us? Where is our tax break?

I don't keep up with the city council because I didn't vote for any of them for this reason. But the mayor didn't say it or deny it, so he is in favor of it. The other mayor didn't save my husband's job from Collins, neither will this guy save anything important to us. Word to the wise to the council: Who says we all won't be on the street with your new taxes? Who says some are on the verge of getting out now?

I am so tired of these politicians keeping their wallets full and ours empty. Are we in Westland too busy or too lazy to tell our mayor and our city council we don't want new taxes or help people get in new houses (abandoned). if we have to pay for it through taxes they should be paying for themselves?

I have also heard Westland has the highest taxes around here. My brother says we pay more taxes then him. He has a bigger house then me. What gives? He lives in Canton! Wrong, wrong, wrong as can be. We are even paying for a park we can't use to due to the fact there is, what I call, a wild fence around it.

I believe Westland citizens have blinders on. One person can't make a stink, but as a whole we can. Think about it.

I believe Mr. Wild is walking all over us. That just my opinion. I'll close for now, good luck on your taxes.

Yes to Clinton

Change and experience. Youth and middle age. Religious and secular. Democrats, Republicans, Independents, a third party. Race and gender. Liberal, conservative, moderate. Left, right, centrist. Values, issues, wedge issues. Perception and reality. These are keys words in the race to secure the presidency in November 2008. Here I connect Sen. Hillary Clinton to several of these words/ideas.

Life is change. Today Americans yearn for change after the past eight years of disastrous governance. The next president will face a multitude of national and international crises. Clinton, being older, has confronted and successfully handled a multitude of changes both personal and on the national level. She has traveled the world and has worked for the advancement of all persons, especially women and children.

She is a liberal Democrat who appeals to the left-leaning, progressive tendencies of the electorate.

As a senator, she has reached across the aisle, has been a dedicated centrist who, when the center moves left, has shown she can move too.

Clinton, Obama, Edwards hold the same Democratic progressive values of justice and equality, diplomacy over militarism, workers' rights, the responsibility of government to see that social needs are met.

I regard gender as the most important word. Some people suffer from gynephobia — a neurotic fear of women. In Clinton's case, a fear of the independent, intelligent, take-charge type of

The perception of Sen. Clinton: She is polarizing, calculating, cold, humorless. Yet the current polarization in the U.S. results from Newt Gingrich in the 1990s and G.W. Bush in 2000. Bush said he was a uniter, but is a divider. Who is or was more calculating than (Karl) Rove, (Vice President Dick) Cheney or (Donald) Rumsfeld? Friends, family members, staffers and persons around the world attest to Clinton's warm personality, fine sense of humor and generosity. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis praised Clinton for being a good mother when Clinton sought advice for how to raise Chelsea in the White House.

Clinton realizes the truth of these words from an African song: "Strength, money and knowledge - we cannot do anything without them."

These countries have elected female presidents: Ireland, Finland, the Philippines, Liberia, Chile, Switzerland, India. We in the U.S. may not be ready for a female president. But, as a wise person once said, "In life we're never ready for anything until we get it."

Not Huckabee

Why shouldn't you vote for Mike Huckabee? Not only is he soft on crime, naïve on foreign affairs, and a populist on economic issues, he also is untruthful about his campaign tactics.

In Iowa, he produced a negative campaign ad, showed it to journalists, and then told journalists that he wasn't about negative campaigns, and so he wouldn't show it to anyone else. A day later, he did.

Huckabee — tacky and untruthful campaigning.

Primary farce leaves Dems with poor options

■he Democratic Presidential Primary in -Michigan is a fraud and a farce. But how can you tell people not to vote, even when they aren't offered a real choice?

The smarty-pants in the Michigan Democratic leadership decided to follow the smarty-pants in the Republican leadership in defying their party by scheduling the presidential primary ahead of the proposed dates for the Iowa caucus and the New Hampshire primary. The argument was that Michigan is more representative of the country than small, rural Iowa and New Hampshire. Michigan also seems to be a bellwether for the nation's impending economic freefall. It's hard to dispute that argument. Michigan is large, a true mixture of urban and rural, a state with environmental, social and economic concerns that will have an enormous impact on the nation's future.

But rational decisions are not what political parties are about.

The Republican Party responded by threatening to take away half of Michigan's delegate votes at the convention. The Democratic Party responded by threatening to take away ALL of Michigan's delegates, warning candidates not to campaign for Michigan primary votes and requesting that candidates withdraw from the election.

The results of all this: Iowa and New Hampshire moved their elections back almost into last year; the Republicans made good on their threat but all the Republican candidates will be on the ballot and the vote will have some impact, especially if Mitt Romney fails to win; and, the Democrats are stuck with a primary in which only Hillary Clinton of the three viable candidates is still on the ballot.

If you love the New York senator and former first lady, it's a perfect situation. But if you have a regard for democracy (small d) or prefer Barack Obama or John Edwards, your choices are severely limited.

You could register your disgust by voting for one of the party's worst nightmares, Dennis Kucinich or Mike Gravel (who?). A vote for Kucinich might also be seen as a vote against the war, so that has some appeal.

You could follow Democrat chair Mark Brewer's suggestion and vote for "uncommitted." Initially, if "uncommitted" wins, it would

After all this is over, the two parties need to assess this process. I've been to lowa and New Hampshire. They're nice places with good people. But they are totally unrepresentative of the majority of American citizens. They have had their day and it's time to create a new format that allows a broad participation in the nominating process.

show major disaffection with Hillary Clinton's candidacy and "send a message" that you don't believe in "inevitable" candidates. Then you would have to trust that the party regulars who would be going as an "uncommitted" slate wouldn't give their votes to Sen. Clinton anyway (IF any Michigan delegates are allowed to vote). Considering that the governor supports Clinton, that might be more trust than you want to place in the party.

What you can not do is write in a candidate's name, because they had to register to accept write-ins by Jan. 4 and no candidates did. As Oakland County Clerk Ruth Johnson notes, you can't even write in Mickey Mouse's name. And what kind of election is it where you can't write in Mickey's name. It's un-American.

Alternatively, you could also choose to pick up a Republican ballot. As a Democrat, you could vote for the Republican you'd like to see elected in the general election if that "disaster" arises or you can throw a wrench into the process by voting for a Republican without a chance of winning the nomination (say Ron Paul or Duncan Hunter). This tactic has been used by members of both parties in the past when one or the other party didn't have their own competitive primary.

After all this is over, the two parties need to assess this process. I've been to Iowa and New Hampshire. They're nice places with good people. But they are totally unrepresentative of the majority of American citizens. They have had their day and it's time to create a new format that allows a broad participation in the nominating process.

Honor 'Greatest Generation,' respect rights they gave us would like to start this year off with a bang, but I can't. It is reported that we are losing 1,000 World War II veterans per day. This recently hit a little closer to home when my Uncle John passed away. It wasn't a long illness and for that I am thankful. He went rather quick with his family at his side.

Uncle John Heraghty fought the Japanese in the South Pacific — Saipan and other islands.

He was awarded two Purple Hearts and bronze and silver stars. He served in the Army from 1939 to 1946.

He was born in the Bronx, N.Y., John Francis Heraghty, an Irish Catholic American, in 1921. He was married to my dad's sister Camille for more than 55 years. He is survived by his wife, two children John Jr. and Jackie, seven grandchildren and four great-grand children. Uncle John came from the tenements of the Bronx to Michigan following my Uncle Pat, along with my mother and father and other aunts and uncles who worked in the building trades - Iron Workers-Riggers Local 25. Uncle John also was one of the founding fathers and served as vice-president of Veteran's Haven Inc. from 1995 to 2003.

Vince Berna

I would like to thank my friend Roger Kehrier, former State Senior Vice Commander Military Order of the Purple Heart, the Plymouth Canton VVA and members of Military Order of the Purple Heart Chapter No. 41 Westland for providing the honor guard. They did a great job and I know the presentation of the flag to my aunt meant a great deal to her. Uncle John was very proud of his service to God and country.

Many kids today are not taught about the Great Depression, World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam or any other war, in our schools, so I've been told. These people were America's "Greatest Generation." After the war, they helped build this country into what it is today. They have witnessed many changes and historical events. closed forever.

The next generation are the Korean vets who never received the recognition they deserve. If President Truman had allowed General Douglas MacArthur to go into China after the "Big One," many problems we face today could have been avoided. There might not have been a Korean War that ended in a stalemate, dividing that country into the Communist North and Democratic South, where today we have thousands of troops stationed, another drain of American taxpavers' money.

The Communists were the boogie men of the '60s and '70s. Our government lost the war in Vietnam. It was not a stalemate as once stated by Walter Cronkite. They spent and made billions of dollars and lost more than 58,000 lives. The Berlin Wall came down under Reagan's administration and everybody started singing "Oh Happy Days."

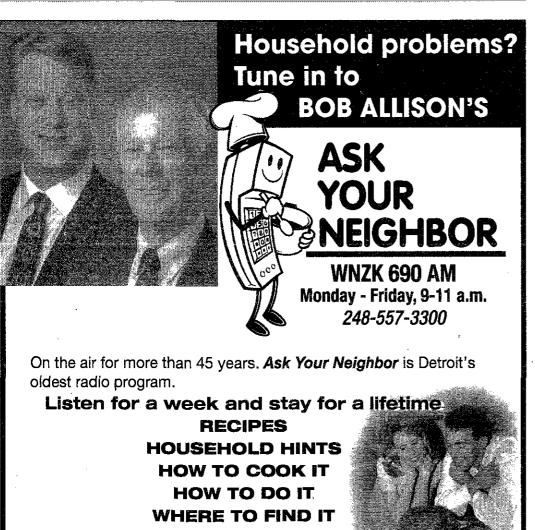

Today we face a new threat: terrorists that hate our way of life and want to kill us and apathy in America. I hope for our sake, the people of the "Sleeping Giant" wake up and realize what's going on. Respect the right we were given by those that came before us, vote and always support our troops, because they will always be our first line of defense.

Ladywood reels in Marlins with 51-20 victory

BY DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITER

An experienced and talented Livonia Ladywood varsity basketball team showed up ready to play Tuesday night and overwhelmed host Farmington Hills Mercy.

In a battle between two seven-win teams, the Blazers dominated both ends of the floor and ran away from the Marlins to a 51-20 victory in a Catholic League Central Division game.

'We didn't come out matching their intensity, their level of play," Mercy coach Gary Morris said. "They're a very good team and a very experienced team. They have a lot of seniors with varsity experience. That's something we don't have.

"I just expected us to play better. They're our biggest rival. The next time we play them we need to compete much better than we did tonight."

Ladywood (8-2, 4-0) set the tone early with its defense, forcing Mercy into eight firstquarter turnovers and holding the home team to one shot for much of the period.

But the time the Marlins got their first points with 1:13 remaining, the Blazers had already built up a 12-0 lead with the help of three-point baskets by Jenna Anastos and Caitlin Szczypka.

"We had good energy on defense and were able to cause some turnovers," Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said. "We knocked down some shots, and that certainly helps. Overall, it was a good team game, and a lot of kids stepped up and scored."

Ten scored in a balanced Blazer offense.

Sophomore guard Mary Fitzgerald led the way with a game-high nine points; seniors Alex Serowoky, Alison Szczypka, Anastos and Amber Drabicki scored seven apiece.

While the Marlins (7-3, 1-2)struggled to get a shot to start the game, they couldn't find the mark when they did, going 3-for-19 in the second quarter and falling behind at halftime, 32-11.

The Blazers, who pressed and fell back to an aggressive, man-to-man defense in the half court, capitalized on 8-of-12 foul shooting in the second quarter to boost their lead. Anastos and Serowoky scored all of their points in the first

'We haven't been pressing a whole lot," Gorski said. "We were trying to mix it up defensively, so we're not so predictable and we were able to do that. (The fast start was good) especially on the road. Teams tend to play a little tight, but we were able to hit some Jordan Mueller scored eight points for Mercy, which made 7-of-42 field goals for a shooting percentage of .167.

"Obviously, whether we had a good look or a not-so-good look, whether it was layups or free throws, we didn't shoot the ball well," Morris said. "They were playing better than us. I thought we could have and need to be more aggressive when we play a quality team at both ends of the floor.

Ladywood, ranked fifth in Class A, shot just under 40 percent (17-of-43).

"We played our bench a lot and people stepped up," Gorski said. "That makes us a deeper team. We can keep kids fresh and get more into the rotation."

Conner returned

On Friday, Westland native and Churchill High grad Chris Conner was returned on loan by the NHL Dallas Stars to the Iowa Stars of the American Hockey League.

After being called by Dallas on Nov. 2, the 5-foot-8, 180pound left winger from Michigan Tech appeared in 22 NHL games this season, registering three goals and two assists with a plus-four rating. He played 15 shifts and a total of 12 minutes, 41 in a 4-1 loss Jan. 2 against the Red Wings at Detroit's Joe Louis

The 24-year-old Conner was Dallas' leading scorer in the preseason with nine points and appeared in nine games with Iowa this season, recording three goals and two assists.

Last season, Conner notched three points (goal and two assists) in 11 games with Dallas. His first NHL goal came Dec. 27 at Colorado.

MU signs 2 cagers

Madonna University women's basketball coach Carl Graves added two more recruits for the 2008-09 with the signing Saturday of Taylor Truman's Vanessa LaMay and Almont's Brandy Ullum.

We could not be happier to get both of these players officially in the fold for next season," said Graves, who earlier signed 5foot-4 Ida guard Erin Bentley. "We have worked very hard to bring them both into the Madonna family, and it's a great day to see it all come full circle."

LaMay, a 5-11 forward, is a four-year varsity player who is currently averaging 20 points and 14 rebounds per game for Truman. She is a three-time All-Downriver selection.

Ullom is a 5-10 forward who also runs track.

LJAL registration

Registration for Livonia Junior Athletic League baseball and softball will be from 6-8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 21 and 28, at Frost Middle School, 14041 Stark Road (just south of Schoolcraft).

The program is open for all boys and girls who are residents of the City of Livonia, or reside in the Livonia Public Schools district.

Schoolcraft able to shake off rust

BY TIM SMITH STAFF WRITER

Perhaps now free of the rust built up by a month of inactivity, Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team now might start to really crank up its collective machine.

The Lady Ocelots, having played just four games over the past month, did not play that well on Monday against visiting St. Clair County - with the exception of a career-high 17-point night by sparkplug sophomore guard Heidi Warczinsky.

But they did manage to earn a 70-60 victory over the upstart, nothing-to-lose Lady Skippers to improve to 11-2 overall and 4-0 in the Eastern Conference of the Michigan Community College Athletic Association.

And some of the rust might have fallen off in the process.

'We'll take the victory and go home," said Schoolcraft head coach Karen Lafata, although she wasn't thrilled with how her team enabled St. Clair (4-9, 1-3) to hang around longer than it should

But she seemed to have some explanation in that players might have been looking forward to Wednesday's showdown against conference rival Mott (the team that provided the only blemish on Schoolcraft's 2006-07 sea-

"Last year, we were 17-1 and our one loss was to Mott," Lafata said. "Mott's our rival. As much as you say play them one game at a time, it doesn't always happen.

Ryan Rosenick led the victorious Chargers with 17 points and six rebounds. Vagnetti contributed 13 points, while Ryan Whitturn added 12.

'Give their kid (Vagnetti) credit he hit an off-balance shot at the top of the circle that bounced a few times, hung on the rim and went in," said Salem coach Bob Brodie, whose team slipped to 2-6 overall and 0-3 in the Lakes Division of the WLAA. "He did what he was supposed to do."

Depleted Schoolcraft men routed

BY BRAD EMONS

The Schoolcraft College men's basketball team finds itself in an abyss, mired in a six-game losing streak following a 77-49 setback Monday night at home to St. Clair Community College. The Ocelots, who haven't won since Dec. 5, slipped to 2-11 overall and 2-2 in the Eastern

Conference of the Michigan CC Athletic Association. Schoolcraft scored only 14 points during the first 15 minutes of the opening half and committed a total of 29 turnovers for the game while shooting just 18-of-52 from the field (34.6 percent). "We've got to get energized and out of this losing mentality," said Schoolcraft first-year coach Randy Henry, who was able to dress only eight players. "We've been getting outworked in all phases and that makes it a long night."

St. Clair (9-5, 1-3) bolted out to a 10-0 lead thanks to a pair of 3-point shots to open the game by 6-foot-1 sophomore guard James Scott (Detroit Finney), who led all scorers with 25 points.

The Skippers, ironically, enjoyed a 39-22 halftime lead despite shooting only 11-of-37 from the floor (27 percent) and turning the ball over 12

"We knew they (Schoolcraft) struggled with their ball-handling and they don't have a true point guard," veteran St. Clair coach Dale Vos said. "We knew they (Schoolcraft) like to play zone (defense) and we were lucky to get them out of that and force them into man-to-man."

Schoolcraft showed some life early in the second half when Anthony Harbin (Belleville) split a pair of free throws to cut the deficit to 44-31 with 15:18 remaining, but the Skippers quickly responded by going on a 14-2 run with Scott keying the surge with his fourth and fifth triples of the night.

"We lost by three Saturday at Delta (College) and we played poorly the second half," Vos said. "When we play well, we look sloppy sometimes as strange

Yankee 'clutch' for Warriors

Lutheran High Westland survived a cliffhanger Tuesday with a 35-34 Metro Conference girls basketball victory over visiting Rochester Hills Lutheran Northwest.

Junior guard Allyson Yankee. who finished with a team-high 15 points, came up with a steal off an inbounds pass as time expired to secure the victory as the Warriors improved to 6-1 overall and 4-0 in the Metro.

points over the final eight minutes to keep the visitors close.

Schoolcraft held just a 29-28 lead after Meharg's second three-ball, but the Lady Ocelots took a 35-30 advantage into the intermission.

We made too many turnovers (in the first half) that were uncharacteristic," said Lafata, whose team gave the ball away a dozen times before halftime.

It was a four-point differential (37-33) early in the second half following a bucket by St. Clair sophomore guard Kim Lackowski.

That's when Warczinsky started to take control, hitting triples from the right flank and top of the arc in quick succession and driving through the lane before dishing off to sophomore forward Shana King (10 points, 10 rebounds) for a layup. "She (Warczinsky) brings a lot of energy," Lafata said. "She's

Back-to-back baskets by sophomore guard Adrena Walker-Price (15 points) increased the lead to 53-36, with about 13 minutes remaining.

But, to Lafata's chagrin, her team did not "clamp down" as she wanted it to. The Lady Skippers charged back, and cut the deficit down to eight (68-60) in the final minute.

Even though St. Clair had no reasonable chance to come all the way back, hurt by their poor free-throw shooting (11-of-20), the Lady Skippers perhaps earned a moral victory of sorts.

"I'm really proud of them and the way they just went after them," said St. Clair head coach Carrie Lohr. "We really had nothing to lose. "Going into it, I said to them 'We're the underdogs, we've just got to give it all we've got for 40 minutes.' Quite frankly, I thought we played a really strong 35 minutes, probably the best we could play." Also scoring 10 for the Skippers was freshman guardforward Abigail Schlaegel, with a seven-block performance from 6-3 freshman center Tyesha O'Neal (a 2002 Redford Union graduate) doing plenty to rattle the home team. St. Clair's hustle and defense clogged up the lane for stretches, effectively minimizing offensive contributions from Schoolcraft sophomore power forwards Janelle Harris (five points, 10 rebounds) and Antoinette Brown (three points, five boards). But the Lady Ocelots did get help from other players, including King, sophomore guard Brittney Ivey (11 points, five assists) and freshman guard Sheray Brown (12 rebounds).

Lafata said she is confident the harder-than-expected victory will turn into a learning experience.

"We're going to learn something from it and realize people are going to come and play us hard," she said. "We have to be ready and not take things for granted."

On Saturday, Harris and Brown had no such problems scoring -- tallving 13 and 19 points, respectively - as Schoolcraft blew past host Macomb, 87-48. Chipping in with 14 points was Walker-Price. Cassie Patrick scored 12 for Macomb (6-6, 1-2).

as it sounds. But that's because we play with a lot of defensive energy and toughness, and that's how we get our offense."

John Kotermanski came off the bench to add 11 points for the Skippers, who improved to 14-of-32 from the floor (43.7 percent) during the second

Greg Leavell (Farmington Hills Harrison) led the Ocelots with 13 points, while Anthony Wafer (Belleville), who missed a put-back two-handed jam to start the game, and Alex Nason (Clawson) added 11 and 10, respectively.

To make matters worse, three of the Ocelots' eight players fouled out.

Things don't get any easier for the Ocelots, who traveled Wednesday to Flint to meet Eastern Conference leader Mott CC (11-2, 4-0). Henry admitted he may be down to seven players with one currently on the fence academically.

Trailing 26-21 at intermission, while being outrebounded 19-5 (including 13 Salem offensive rebounds), Solak went into his bag of trick and pulled out a full-court press. It resulted in 15 second-half steals (20 for the game) led by senior guard Daran Carey's

"We did not panic and we locked up defensively," said Solak, whose team trailed by as many as 11 points in the third quarter. "The second half we started playing well defensively. We played defensively the way we prepared to play defense."

Grant Stone's 22 points led Salem (2-6, 0-3), but the senior swingman was held by Whittum to two fourth-quarter points.

Ross Davis added 14 and 14 rebounds for the Rocks, who attempted just one free throw.

Churchill was 8-of-11 from the line.

WAYNE 57, NORTHVILLE 51: Mike Lee tallied 13 points and John Hill turned in his best outing of the season with 11 points and 10 rebounds to propel Wayne Memorial (6-2, 3-0) to a WLAA Western Division win over the host Mustangs (4-4, 2-1).

"It was his (Hill's) best game by far," Wayne coach Wayne Woodard said. "We shared the ball and were able to rebound against their (Northville's) size,"

Jeremy Lovelady, a 6-foot-11 senior center, chipped in with 10 points for the Zebras, who led 30-26

Greg Hasse's 18 points led Northville and all scorers. Teammate Dan Kirkpatrick added

FRANKLIN 63, CANTON 54: On Tuesday, Livonia Franklin (3-5, 2-1) posted a 29-point fourth quarter to rally and down the host Chiefs (3-5, 0-3).

Junior forward Jeff Poole led the comeback with 21 points - 15 of which came during the final eight minutes. Senior forward Israel Woolfork added 15 points for the winners.

Neil Sharma led Canton with 17 points and seven rebounds. Canton led 15-12 after one quarter, 30-25 at the half and 44-34 with eight minutes left. "Our full-court pressure is what did it," Franklin coach Jeremy Rheault said.

Canton hit 13-of-16 free throws, while the Patriots made 19-of-31

JOHN GLENN 57, W.L. CENTRAL 31: Junior guard Austin Anderson's 14 points paced a balanced scoring attack Tuesday as host Westland John Glenn (7-1, 3-0) routed Walled Lake Central (5-4, 2-1) in WLAA Lakes Division game.

The Rockets, who trailed 17-13 after one quarter, outscored the Vikings 16-2 during the second quarter and put it away with a 17-7 third-quarter run.

Keshawn Martin added 11 points for Glenn, which shot 12-of-16 from the foul line. Jordan Manier, a 6foot-8 senior center, added eight points and 12 rebounds.

Derek Mitchell scored 10 of his team-high 14 for Central in the first quarter. Cody Rzeznik added 10.

STEVENSON 58, W.L. NORTHERN 57: Junior Brian Rowe tallied 12 points, including the game-winning free throw with only five seconds remaining, to give Livonia Stevenson (3-5, 1-2) a WLAA Lakes Division triumph Tuesday over visiting Walled Lake Northern (0-8, 0-3).

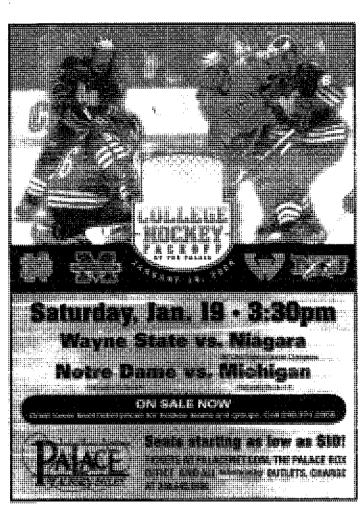

"It was a complete team effort, good balance, a good team victory," Stevenson first-year coach Mike Allie said.

The Spartans, who rallied from a 50-37 third-period deficit, also got 11 points from junior Mark Grisa and 10 from junior Gary Cobb (including a high-rising dunk in the final quarter).

Andy Tinkey (16), Tim Ferenc (14) and Leroy Jackson (13) paced the Northern scoring effort.

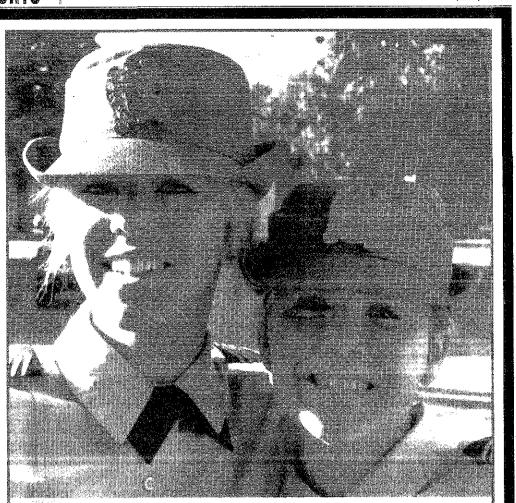

Stevenson was 15-of-23 from the foul line, while Northern hit 6-of-13.

Local chef is on a quest to stop cooking

BY LANA MINI STAFF WRITER

hef Mary Beckerman has a solution for those who want to eat well, but have little time to cook:

Stop cooking. Simple.

Just stop cooking and eat your food raw. Does the idea of just chewing naturally on a celery stalk sound boring? Probably. In the modern world, we rarely eat food in its pure form — unless it's in a salad.

But Beckerman's meals are raw and not limited to bowls of lettuce. A food connoisseur and professional chef, Beckerman relishes gourmet cuisine. The only difference between her and the majority of the us is that her decadent foods aren't cooked. She's part of the growing raw food movement is spreading nationwide in Raw pasta (zucchini or squash based); raw deserts of cakes and cookies; gourmet wraps of kale, raw dairyless cheeses derived from almonds or cashews and breads that are dehydrated rather than baked are part of the cuisine. Raw foods are so nutritious and low in fat, there's hardly such thing as over-eating - so you can eat all you want and stay trim.

Sound intriguing?

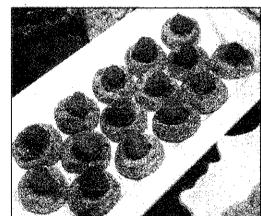

Chef Beckerman, of West Bloomfield, is a graduate of both Wayne State University and Living Light Culinary Arts Institute in California. She's lived a raw, vegan diet for years, meaning none of her food is cooked over 118 degrees because any temperature above that mark kills essential enzymes and other nutrients, she said.

All of her foods are plant-based. She refrains from all meats, poultry, fish, eggs, dairy and other animal by-products. She's a vegan — a term that is also soaring in popularity since the New York Times Bestselling book and cookbook Skinny Bitch came out last year.

"If humans were meant to eat animal products, we wouldn't have to cook or pasteurize it to make it safe," Beckerman said. "Humans are herbivores by nature - our teeth and digestive tracts are the same as herbivores, not carnivores."

LIVING RAW

Beckerman is president of Lovin' Goodies and Marbec Ltd. Her passion are delicious cuisine and superior nutrition, and her work to cultivate healthy minds, bodies, and spirits is done through demonstration workshops, catering, training and consultations.

She also chairs the Healthy U Steering Committee program at the Jewish Community Center, where she is developing programs in partnership with health organizations such as Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit Medical Center, Abbot Labs and Weight Watchers. Beckerman teaches classes and also works with corporations to help offer healthier foods in their cafeterias; less employee sickness saves money. "Plant foods also promote healthy weight and help prevent chronic illnesses such as diabetes and heart disease," Beckerman said and groups like the American Cancer Institute confirm. Stylish, svelte, physically fit and radiating with energy, Beckerman is one of those people who never seem tired even though she's a multitasker. Eyes turned to her recently as she walked through the Rugby Grille of the Townsend Hotel. Her long auburn hair, designer clothing and cosmetics seemed to scream: celeb-

And raw food is credited as a beauty and healthy lifestyle for many celebrities like Demi Moore, Woody Harrelson, and Red Hot Chili Peppers frontman Anthony Kedis. She's catered for David Bowie, Kiss and Aerosmith.

Looking back on the best tech of 2007

any years ago, I made a resolution to stop making new year's resolutions, and I'm proud to say I've stuck to it.

IPHONE

I know it's the obvious Rick Broida choice, but nothing else came close. The iPhone redefines the category, proving that a cell phone can do more than just make and take calls. A lot more.

In addition to calling amenities like visual voicemail, the iPhone serves up music, movies, photos, and Web browsing that's functional instead of aggravating. Here's hoping 2008 brings new models with more storage and a faster network.

BEST PHONE SERVICE: VERIZON CHAPERONE

For working parents who want to keep tabs on their kids' whereabouts, there's no better solution than Chaperone. In addition to real-time location tracking, it can alert you when a child reaches a designated area (like home or school).

Your child will need a Chaperone-compatible phone (standard prices apply) and the service itself, which costs $9.99 monthly. That's a small price to pay for this kind of peace of mind. (Even so, I'm still waiting for Verizon to get smart and make it free.)

The best PC game of 2007, BioShock sends you to retro/futuristic underwater city where something has gone horribly wrong.

BEST GAME: BIOSHOCK

Imagine waking up inside a Stephen King novel and you'll have a pretty good idea what it's like to play BioShock. Somehow retro and futuristic at the same time, BioShock combines terrific storytelling (yes, storytelling!) with white-knuckle first-person action.

Though I don't recommend it for casual gamers or those with low-end PCs (it requires a lot of horsepower), I definitely rank it as my favorite game of 2007.

BEST PRODUCT: MAGICJACK

Almost too good to be true, the $40 MagicJack (magicjack.com) plugs into a USB port and provides unlimited local and distance calling for tion will do. The only downsides: You can't transfer your existing phone number (one reason this works best as a second line), and you have to leave a computer running 24/7. But who cares?

BEST MUSIC STORE: AMAZONMP3

Better late than never: It took Amazon years to get into the music-download game, but it was worth the wait. AmazonMP3 (amazonmp3.com) sells restriction-free MP3s that play on any computer or portable device. No hassles, no b.s., just fair and affordable music downloads.

Amazon just added Warner Music's catalog, bringing its library close to 3 million songs. For anyone who likes to buy music online, there's no reason to shop anywhere living foods, fresh foods into my body. Why do we want to eat dead foods?" Dead food, raw foodists say, is food cooked at the 118 degree mark or above. Many studies help validate the raw case. For example, it's known now that olive oil cooked too high can cause the release of free radicals and kill the oil's antioxidant effects, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Preparing raw foods is easy

TEACHING RAW

Beckerman teaches raw food classes at several locations including Designs Unlimited in Birmingham where this month's class is about healthy condiments and sauces.

"There's so much sugar and hidden fats in our condiments," she said. "It's an easy way to improve your diet.

In February she'll teach a class there about healthy meals for families and in March the topic is supercleansing foods. At the Whole Foods store in Ann Arbor she's taught courses on raw desserts and wraps - which she will do again this year.

Her raw fundamental courses teach the importance of incorporating more living foods into the diet.

Her "antioxidant and phytochemicals" class teaches about nutrients and delicious ways to incorporate antioxidants, vitamins and minerals without sacrificing flavor.

Other courses include: guide to managing your raw food kitchen, eat your veggies, low-fat diets, beyond dairy, wheat and gluten-free diets, peak performance for athletes and divine desserts.

She teaches how to make foods like pies, tarts, cookies, cakes and candies; wraps and Plus she's director of wellness for the annual Raw Spirit Festival in Sedona, Ariz., the most prestigious raw event in the country. She received extensive food service training while working at Hyatt Corporation.

"I don't care how old you are - everybody wants energy and vibrancy," she said. Everybody wants to feel good, and if they're not getting that from their current diet, I'm going to tell them it's time for a change.'

If you are a candidate for hearina alds, you have two very important decisions to make. You need to decide what size you want and what type of technology you want for your new hearing aids.

HOMETOWNLIFE.COM

The size hearing aid you choose is usually only a cosmetic option. Some people are restricted to certain sizes of hearing aids because of the severity of their hearing loss.

Technology is the biggest determination of how you will hear with your new hearing aids. Better technology means better hearing in a variety of listening situations, like noise.

Today, there are more choices than ever before for consumers purchasing hearing instruments. One recent count showed there were more than 600 different models from which to choose. How do you decide which is the right one for you? The best way is to come to PERSONALIZED HEARING CARE for an evaluation by a licensed Audiologist, we are experts in the hearing health care field.

Hot water temperature is important for health was listening to a radio broadcast on New Year's Day where Consumer Reports Magazine was giving out winter tips. They were very good except for one that I completely disagree with. Then again, isn't it just like me to disagree with somebody!

Appliance Doctor

They stated that you should set the temperature of your hot water heater at 120 degrees and that this temperature is sufficient for washing clothes and Joe Gagnon operating a dishwasher. I guess that this could be true if you don't care how clean your clothes are or how well the dishes are cleaned. First is the clothes washer, which when set on hot water wash is designed to take care of not only dirt but perform some function in regards to bacteria. I don't think a baby should be wrapped in diapers washed in 120-degree water temperature. It certainly wouldn't be healthy because it is a known fact that bacteria are not killed in this low a water temperature. I'll tell you that my underwear goes through our washer at 160-degree temperatures and occasionally they are soaked in bleach for 10 or 15

Now for those of you with little children you must use care when setting your hot water heater at high temperatures. There are several thousand children hospitalized each year because of accidents. I wonder if Consumer Reports has ever taken a 10-year-old washer apart to notice over an inch of slime and grime built up in the inner drum. I used to use a fireplace shovel to remove it and that is caused by water not hot enough to dissolve the detergent. Not too healthy folks.

As for the dishwasher, I called my friend Kim at Bill & Rod's Appliance.

"Kim, what is your recommended setting for a hot water tank?" He replied without any hesitation, 140 degrees.

He also suggested always turning on the hot water faucet at the sink and letting it get hot there before using the dishwasher.

I mentioned to Kim that the recommendation set forth not long ago by NSF is 150 degrees in residential homes. NSF is a testing laboratory based in Ann Arbor, which has been approving products for the restaurant industry for many

Do you know that a temperature range of 185 degrees or higher is the standard for the restaurant industry? They want to make sure that bacteria are removed during their dishwasher operations.

A temperature of 120 degree is not going to cut it folks, no matter what Consumer Reports says.

Here is e-mail from Gary & Jan who ask, "If you were buying a dishwasher, what one would you recommend?'

I would go with a Maytag or Whirlpool if I just wanted something in a regular price range. BUT — My wife just purchased a Bosch two months ago when she finished spending a fortune on re-doing the kitchen.

It is so quiet you have to put your ear against it when it runs. She loves it. BUT — very expensive, like $1,100. If you take any regular dishwasher and you glue corkboard on the sides and back, it will reduce the noise by over 50 percent. The biggest complaint on dishwashers is the noise level.

Good hunting and remember that whatever Jan wants, Jan should get.

Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard on Talk Radio WAAM 1600 at 8 a.m. Saturdays. He is a board member of Spectrum Human Services and the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals (SOCAP). His phone number is (734) 971-1600, Ext. 28. Do you have a question about an appliance or a problem you have with an appliance? E-mail your question to wvonb@hometownlife.com and it will be forwarded to Joe Gagnon.
