Extensive work planned for 2 busy roads

Motorists traveling along two Westland roads will face delays and detours this summer as work crews make long-awaited repairs, city officials confirmed.

Another city project will involve resurfacing Ann Arbor Trail between Hines Drive and Merriman Road. Those repairs are expected to start as early as May and possibly continue into

Woman, 68, killed while crossing Van Born Road

A 68-year-old Westland woman was struck and killed Friday morning while she was walking across Van Born Road between Middlebelt and Inkster, police Officer Tom Lessnau said.

The woman, whose identity hadn't been disclosed by police, was walking northbound across Van Born near Admiral around 6:30 a.m. when two westbound vehicles approached her, Lessuau said.

A motorist driving in the inside lane managed to avoid the woman, but the driver of a Ford F-150 pickup truck in the outside lane apparently didn't see her in time to avoid hitting her, the officer said. The driver of the Ford F-150 was described as a 43-year-old Dearborn Heights man. The woman was taken to Oakwood Hospital/Annapolis in Wayne, where she died, Lessnau said. Neither alcohol nor speed appeared to be a factor in the accident, he said. The investigation was continuing Friday afternoon. The woman was not walking in a cross-

Cancer fight gets boost from Relay for Life

BY JULIE BROWN OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The weekend of May 31-June 1 will be a busy one for local cancer-fighters, with both Westland and Garden City holding Relay for Life fund-raisers.

The Westland event will run 24 hours, 10 a.m. Saturday to 10 a.m. Sunday, at Jaycee Park, Hunter and Wildwood by the Mike Modano Ice Arena. Walkers will raise pledges and walk in teams continuously on the track to combat cancer.

The Garden City event will be at the same time but will be held on the grounds of Garden City Middle School on Radeliff south of Ford near the Schoolcraft College Radcliff Center.

"It's going really well," said Holly Soranno, community representative/staff partner for the American Cancer Society which sponsors the event. "We're excited to be back at Jaycee Park again."

Glenn students give 110 percent to 'High School Musical'

BY SUE MASON OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

For Dayna Krushlin and Megan Walker, it was a given that they would be the assistant directors of John Glenn High School's spring musical. They were the only students in Sheri Grove's drama directing class who wrote the essays needed to earn the coveted positions.

But there also was some planning that went into landing what most likely are the prime jobs on what is turning out to be the biggest production in Grove's 13 years at the Westland high school.

"We passed up being play directors to be the musical directors," said Krushlin. "This is bigger and better and we can dance."

The bigger and better is the stage production of Disney's High School Musical which will be presented April 10-12 at the Westland high school. Seventy students are working on the production, a modern retelling of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet.

We did the planning for it in the fall and the calls started coming in," said Grove. "For the kids, knowing they're in a show people want to see has been exciting."

"We just found out the mayor bought tickets," said Krushlin. "It's kind of cool. We never really had anyone come, only our parents and friends.'

The play has a cast of 40 and a crew of 30. And from day one, they have "viewed being in the show as a privilege, said Grove.

"We had 100 students come out for auditions, that shows that they viewed this as something special," said Grove. "All the popularity and the hype has made it more exciting to be a part of. From beginning to the end, it's been a wonderful experience."

GOOD EXPERIENCE

Preparations have gone smoothly, thanks to Disney which provides "so many assets" to help with the production. In past productions, Grove has had to rely on karaoke music, but with High School Musical, Disney has provided rehearsals and performance CDs as well as logos to use for T-shirts and promotions.

"They want the show done the way it was done originally," she said. "We're trying to make it as authentic as possible to the Broadway show and movie."

The challenge facing Grove is adapting the play to the size of Glenn's auditorium, which is "more intimate than most theaters."

Because it's a small stage, a simple wagon will be used to rotate the three sets need for the production. "The students have given 110 percent," Grove said. "This has been completely student-driven." "They want to be here," added co-director Belinda Walakonis-Semak. "They're self-driven and they've all stepped up to the plate. They all come

According to Grove, students have been able to learn on their own and teach other students. Krushlin and Walker did the choreography, using a video that taught them the dances.

Park last year due to contamination issues at Central City Park, the previous site. Relays have been held in Westland for nearly 10 years while this will be the second year for Garden City.

Last year, about 500 people participated in the Westland Relay for Life. Organizers, including event chair Liz Sullivan, are looking for more teams and survivors, with a Westland goal of 40 teams.

Around 3 p.m. that Saturday, there will be a survivor's lap. Later at 10 p.m. on Saturday there will be a luminaria ceremony in the park to remember those lost to the disease and honor survivors and loved ones.

"We're looking to have more survivors come out this year," Soranno said, who was speaking to the Westland Rotary Club. "It's pretty quiet and somber. It's definitely a healing process for family members who have lost somebody."

There are 55 Relays in metro Detroit, with Plymouth having hosted its first last year. Organizers have found more people come out if the fundraisers are in their back yard, Soranno said.

"It's a way of spreading our mission more locally," she said.

Organizing the second Garden City Relay for Life, event chairperson Penny Albitus said that 21 teams that include 129 people have already signed up for the 2008 event online. That's an increase from 15 teams in 2007.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, March 30, 2008

"Lot of the increase is through word of mouth," said Albitus, who has a team captains meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 23 at Garden City City Hall.

Each of the teams hold their own fund-raisers that include selling candy, getting donations from local businesses and other sales the day of the event. The Garden City Firefighters Fight Back for a Cure team, for instance, is selling Home Interior and other candle products. Orders are taken at the Garden City Clerk's Office.

Money raised supports research, education, advocacy and patient services. Soranno noted the ACS is second only to the U.S. government in cancer research, and has funded 42 Nobel Prize winners.

Services include the 24-hour cancer information center at (800) 227-2345, and www.cancer.org online.

"People can be connected with local resources," she said. That's especially important for the newly diagnosed.

Online information on the Westland Relay for Life can be found at http://events.cancer. org/rflwestlandmi. Fund-raising teams can still sign up for the Garden City event by contacting Chiara Clayton at chiara. clayton@cancer.org or call (248) 663-3420.

Man will face trial on charge of molesting girl

BY DARRELL CLEM OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Westland man will face trial amid allegations he molested his live-in girlfriend's 8-year-old daughter, showed her pornographic movies and gave her alcohol.

Tadario Derwin Sims, 22, could face penalties ranging up to life in prison if he's convicted , in Wayne County Circuit Court on four counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, three counts of second-degree CSC, the girl and furnishing her with alcohol.

He was ordered to stand trial after he gave up his right to a preliminary hearing Thursday in front of Westland 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos. He remains jailed in lieu of a $500,000 cash bond, although a not-guilty plea has been entered for him.

Sims is accused of molesting the girl while his girlfriend was hospitalized with pregnancy complications involving a boy distributing obscene material to he fathered, police Sgt. Debra Mathews has said. The baby survived.

> The girlfriend reported the alleged crimes to police March 1 after she left the hospital and her daughter told her what had happened, Mathews said. Police arrested the defendant the same day at a Westland restaurant.

Mathews conducted an interview with Sims, and, she said, "he confessed."

Sims' defense attorney, Alvin Sallen, has declined to comment on his client's behalf.

Sims is accused of molesting the girl during the month leading up to his arrest. He was caring for the girl and her siblings in their Norwayne subdivision residence while the mother was hospitalized, Mathews said.

Sims' girlfriend, 24, now has four sons and the one daughter. Sims is the father of the newborn only. He has no known criminal history of criminal sexual conduct.

Mayor, police chief promote sexual awareness campaign

AROUND WESTLAND

BY DARRELL CLEM OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Westland Mayor William Wild, calling for "intolerance in our community for violence toward women," has strongly endorsed an effort by a nonprofit group to raise awareness of sex crimes.

Wild and Police Chief James Ridener on Wednesday signed a proclamation circulated in area communities by First Step, which offers services such as a 24-hour help line, shelter, counseling, prevention programs and in-hospital support to sexual assault victims.

First Step's campaign comes as officials prepare to observe April as Sexual Assault Awareness Month. The agency issued a statement indicating that more than half of sex crimes don't get reported, and officials want victims to know that help is available.

"This crime is a devastating crime," Ridener said, "and we can't stress enough that if you're a victim, report it to the police."

For help, call the Westland Police Department at (734) 722-9600, or First Step has a 24-hour, toll-free help line at (888) 453-5900.

Although women account for most sexual assault victims, men and children also are at risk. Wild signed a proclamation stating that sexual violence is a devastating and intolerable crime affecting men, women and children of all races, ages, cultures, economic situations and abilities."

First Step has provided comprehensive services to 36 western Wayne County communities since 1989.

"First and foremost, I applaud First Step for their strong commitment to reduce the incidence of domestic and sexual violence toward women," Wild said. "It is important to note that this type of violence not only affects women, but the families and support systems of the women who are affected as well, which directly impacts our society as a whole.

"It is my hope," Wild said, "that the efforts put forth by First Step will result in an increased awareness of this issue and ultimately lead to intolerance in our community for violence toward women."

will be built.

Meanwhile, Ann Arbor Trail will remain open to through traffic while work crews repair the stretch between Hines Drive and Merriman Road, Buford said.

"We will be maintaining twoway traffic," he said.

Another stretch of Ann Arbor Trail from Merriman to Inkster also will likely get repairs, but Buford said that phase likely won't happen until next year.

City officials hailed the Ann Arbor Trail improvements as vital to motorists who use the road.

"Ann Arbor Trail is a thoroughfare that is heavily traveled in our city," Wild said, "and any and all improvements would greatly assist all motorists in their day-to-day activity."

Meanwhile, city resident Wayne Mirth has called on officials to push for a county road project that would involve repairing Warren Road, particularly between Venoy and Middlebelt.

"It's horrendous," said Mirth, who lives near Merriman and Warren. "It's full of holes. It's beyond patching. It needs to be reconstructed."

Mirth noted that Warren is a major thoroughfare that many motorists use to get to the city's core retail district, including Westland Shopping Center.

Buford confirmed that he and Wild have had "extensive conversations" with county officials, who are responsible for Warren Road.

"It's more than on the radar," Buford said. "We're doing everything we can."

The community also is invited to "Take a Walk on the Wild Side" and join the mayor during the Relay, 10 a.m. May 31 to 10 a.m. June 1 at Jaycee Park, at Wildwood and Hunter. Café brings back popular buffet

It's known as Westland's "little secret," but if chef Tony Paquette has his way, everyone will know about the Wednesday night buffet at the William D. Ford Career Technical Center's Cafe Marquette.

Yes, the student restaurant's dinner buffet is back by popular demand, offering a variety of food, prepared by the adult students in the program.

"We want to get it back up and running and get the students different skills," said Paquette who directs the center's culinary arts program. "It's always been popular with people, but for some reason they

The buffet kicked off with a surf and turf buffet that brought in some 100 diners, and the follow-up Easter buffet attracted 80. Paquette is hoping that theme night's like this Wednesday's French Night, which will feature a variety of French foods, will continue to attract a crowd.

According to Paquette, people begin lining up for the buffet at 4:30 p.m. Doors open at 4:45 p.m. and people who show up by the 6 p.m. closing will be served. Paquette doesn't want customers waiting so the buffet also has two Student Venanty Zamecki prepares shrimp tempura for the buffet.

The buffets feature at least three choices of meet, two-three starches, two different vegetable choices and a full line of desserts. Seating is restaurant style with tables set up in the commons area and in the café itself.

The instructors work with the students who must learn 100 different competencies, or skills. If the student needs to braising, he works with the chefs to braise meat and gets another competency, Paquette said. And it's those skills they get to show off at several food stations, where they'll prepare pasta to order and bananas foster for customers.

"It gets them out of the kitchen to where the customers are," said Paquette. "The customers like it and the students like it."

The buffet's customer base is senior citizens, but it's now attracting families. One woman who comes every week told Paquette that as long as the café has the buffet, she's going to keep coming.

"We don't want to compete against our business partners, that's why we only do it once a week," Paquette said. "We want Krushlin plays Sharpay Evans, a member of the Thespians, while Walker plays Taylor McKessie of the Brainiacs.

"This is so big, it's so exciting for us," said Krushlin.

POPULAR PRODUCTION

Grove selected the musical last fall and immediately began getting calls for tickets. One of the things done near then end of rehearsals, Grove had tickets printed up first for this musical because of the demand.

She also decided to do High School Musical to attract underclassmen, especially freshmen students, to drama.

"With the new curriculum, there's really no time for electives," she said. "Electives are barely hanging on. This was a way of hyping their interest in choosing drama as an elective."

Krushlin and Walker didn't need the hook. For them, being involved in the production is the best way to close the book on high school.

"This is probably the biggest thing for us to go out on,"

said Walker. "It's our big finale," added Krushlin.

April is Autism Awareness Month

April is Autism Awareness Month. Once considered a single disorder, autism is, in fact, a series of different neurological disorders, known as autism spectrum disorders.

These include autism, Asperger's syndrome and Pervasive Oevelopmental Oisorder. These disorders affect a child's social interaction, communication skills and behavior - a child suffering from an autistic disorder may not be able to speak, may become fixated on a particular object or may not be able to tolerate a simple hug or other physical contact.

Even more frightening is the rapid rise of cases over the last five years; in Michigan, a 100 percent increase, which translates to one in every 166 individuals. There is no known cause, and sadly, no known cure. Suggested causes include genetics, vaccines containing mercury, even men fathering children in older age, or the time of year a person is born (from a report: "Variation in season of birth in singleton and multiple births concordant for autism spectrum disorders", published in Pediatric and Perinatal Epidemiology), Also. diseases such as encephalitis, fragile X syndrome, tuberous sclerosis and untreated phenylketonuria may trigger autistic behavior.

There is also an ongoing debate about possible treatment - the medical community still promoting more pharmaceutical and behavior modification strategies, while there is a strong movement among parents toward a more diet based treatments which include vitamin supplements. Luckily, there are many, many organizations which provide support and information for families affected by autism: many have Web sites, and most are found on the Autism Collaboration Web site: http://www.autism.org. In addition, autism has recently. gotten more attention in the press presidential candidate John McClain expressed concern over thimerosal (a preservative containing mercury) in vaccines. The actress/author Jenny McCarthy has written a book about her son's struggle with the Tax on sale of widow's house may be less than she thinks

Dear Rick: My husband and I bought a home together over 40 years ago. We paid about $25,000 for the house and last year I sold it for more than $500,000. My husband died about five years ago. Do I have to pay taxes on the gain? My tax preparer says I do while a friend of our family, who also does taxes, says I don't because I qualify for the $500,000 exclusion. What do you think?

It's not uncommon for there to be a variety of opinions. Our tax laws are complex and confusing. That being said I believe your friend is wrong. However, you probably will pay less tax than you think.

Money Matters could avoid taxes

Rick Bloom

The only other way of avoiding taxes was if you were a senior citizen. Seniors were eligible to exclude $125,000 of that gain

from income taxes.

In order to make those laws simpler and fairer, Congress changed the law. Now if you are single and sell your home you can exclude $250,000 of gain from taxes as long as the home was your primary residence for two of the last five years. Therefore, if you purchased a house for $50,000 and you eventually sold it for $350,000, your gain on the home would be $300,000. As long as the home was your primary residence for two of the last five years the first $250,000 of gain would be tax free. The $250,000 number is increased to $500,000 for married couples.

Since you sold the house when you were single you are allowed to exclude $250,000 of profits. However, you are entitled to a step-up basis for half the house. For example, if the house was worth $400,000 at the time of your husband's death your new basis in the property would be half the $400,000 plus one half of the original purchase price. Therefore, your new basis would be $212,500. Therefore, your gain would be the sales price less the $212,500. Your taxable gain would be the gain less the $250,000 exclusion.

Starting this year, a surviving spouse can exclude the full $500,000 as long as the house was joint property and the sale occurs within two years after the first spouse passed on.

Legislation paves way for vote on zoo tax

Gov. Jennifer Granholm signed a new bill into law Thursday that allows counties to create authorities with the power to levy funds for zoos.

Through the creation of zoological authorities, metro Detroit counties could then levy a tax for the Detroit Zoo of up to 0.10 mill on all taxable property for a period of 20 years - with approval from the electorate. The millage would average approximately $10 per year for a $200,000 home.

The City of Detroit turned over governance and management of the Detroit Zoo and Belle Isle Nature Zoo to the Detroit Zoological Society in 2006.

At the time of transition the city stopped paying an annual subsidy of about $8 million for operations and $2-3 million for capital maintenance. In addition to replacing the subsidy, the Zoological Society anticipates incurring lost revenue and increased expense relating to discounts and other benefits provided to citizens living within participating counties. Altogether, this funding gap is approximately the value of the tax that would be collected from a 0.10 mill in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb

This legislation is crucial to protecting the long-term financial future of the Detroit Zoo and Belle Isle Nature Zoo and continuing valuable programs that serve Metro-Detroit's children and families," said Detroit Zoological director Ron Kagan. "We appreciate the legislature and Gov. Granholm for leading cially grateful to Sens. Gilda Jacobs and Nancy Cassis and Rep. Andy Meisner for their outstanding leadership on this important issue."

The Zoological Society will work closely with Metro-Detroit counties to help each county create its own zoological authority and to place the issue in front of voters on the August ballot.

We look forward to continuing our work with the Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb County commissioners to take this next step," said Kagan.

Movies for all ages on tap at Salvation Army

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, March 30, 2008

BY JULIE BROWN

OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Bring out the popcorn, it's movie time!

Movies will be shown 7 p.m. Friday, April 18, during the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army's Family Movie Night. It will be held at the corps center, 2300 Venoy, south of Palmer in Westland.

Corps commanders Capts. Mindie and Matthew O'Neil have organized the first-time event, in conjunction with the Advisory Council's Social Action Committee.

"It's to give people a sense of hope and pride, pride in themselves," Matthew O'Neil said. "They can accomplish anything they want."

The movies chosen reflect the theme of helping people move to self-sufficiency. The Pursuit of Happyness (2006) will be shown to adults and older teens, while children will enjoy the Disney/Pixar movie Ratatouille (2007).

The Pursuit of Happyness, rated PG-13 and starring Will Smith, tells of a struggling salesman who takes custody of his young son as he's about to begin a life-changing career.

Ratatouille, an animated movie, tells of Remy, a rat who dreams of becoming a French chef. It's rated G for general audiences.

Snacks will be served at Family Movie Night, which is free. Additional information can be obtained through the Salvation Army at (734) 722-

Property tax hardship deadline extended

The deadline for filing a property tax hardship extension has been extended until April 30.

Property owners should be aware that if their application is approved, this would not give them an exemption from paying property taxes. Instead, anyone receiving a hardship extension will be granted up to one extra year to pay his or her delinquent 2005 property taxes. Related fees and penalties will still apply. Recognizing that Wayne County residents are facing extraordinarily tough economic times due to a troubled state and local economy, Wayne County Treasurer received - a significant increase Raymond J. Wojtowicz said he has greatly expanded his community outreach efforts. As part of those efforts, he said he has extended the previous March 15 deadline to file an application for a property tax hardship extension until April 30.

In response to the Treasurer's extensive community outreach program using cable, network television, internet broadcasting, radio and letters to churches and community groups as well as updates to county and local government officials, more than 736 hardship extension applications have been over this same time last year.

Anyone who is facing property tax foreclosure due to unpaid delinquent 2005 taxes needs to know that ignoring the tax bill hoping that it will somehow go away is the worst thing to do, said Wojtowicz. Instead, the Taxpayer Assistance Section of the Wayne County Treasurer's Office should be contacted immediately. Taxpayer Assistance is dedicated to assisting taxpayers in any way possible, and that includes handling hardship applications. Taxpayer Assistance can be reached at (313) 224-6105.

Man credits Focus: HOPE with turning his life around

BY HUGH GALLAGHER OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, March 30, 2008

For William Motts II, being a child on Detroit's west side was a life of constant chaos.

'Growing up pretty much was a living hell. Ever since I can remember I was surrounded by crime and drugs," he said.

Motts' father was a drug addict and dealer. Motts, now 34, has vivid memories of being taken on deals when he was 8 and 9 years old, of police raiding his home, of bullets fired into his house and of his father being taken off to jail.

"It was embarrassing," he said, his dark eyes staring intently as he told his story. "When I was 13 or 14 years old, my father went off to jail again. He gave me the keys to his car and his wallet and he said, 'Do you remember where we parked?' and I drove home. I was literally petrified. I could barely make it home."

That began Motts' own descent into crime, picking up his dad's business while he was in jail.

On Wednesday, Motts of Livonia was a featured speaker at a press conference to launch the yearlong 40th anniversary celebration of Focus: HOPE, the job training and social services organization founded by the late ment that I did? I just said no, Rev. William Cunningham and Eleanor Josaitis in the wake of the 1967 Detroit race riot.

As Josaitis, Gov. Jennifer Granholm and other dignitaries looked on, Motts, a General Motors innovation/decision team leader, thanked Focus: HOPE for changing his life.

Motts was arrested at 18. He had been handling his father's business and faced serious jail time. But he remembers his own arrest as a blessing in disguise.

"I had a 3-month-old daughter. I was sitting on the floor of the county jail facing a life with murderers with the worst elements of society. And my father was two floors up," he said. "What is wrong with this picture? He's on the floor above me and it doesn't phase him or even care and I am mortified about what my daughter is going to we have to break this cycle."

After a year in Wayne County Jail, a perceptive lawyer and a compassionate judge put Motts in touch with Focus:HOPE.

"After sitting there, they realized I was a puppet, a way for my father to make more money and do what he couldn't do," he

GIVEN AN OPPORTUNITY

Attorney Robert Elsey had taken an English class with the Rev. Cunningham and knew about the program. Judge David Kerwin agreed that Motts should go to Focus:HOPE instead of back to jail.

"I didn't graduate from high school. I didn't know how to write a paper at the time. I didn't know about algebra," Motts said. "It really struck a fear in me. It really scared the death out of me. I did not want to be my father. I did not want to be an idiot. I did not want to force my kids into something they did not want to do."

Motts got his GED, enrolled in Focus:HOPE's Fast Track program to bring up his reading and math skills and graduated from the Machinist Training Institute. His group started with 50 people and ended up with seven. His grades were so high he was encouraged to pursue a college degree through the Center for Advanced Technologies.

This is the best-kept secret in Detroit," Motts said.

He had strong support from his wife, Paula. They made a pact to take turns getting their education. He earned his associate's degree and she earned her dental hygienist degree and a bachelor's degree from the University of Detroit Mercy. Motts also earned a master's degree in engineering management from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and is finishing a master of business administration degree from Indiana University.

When his father was released from prison, Motts supported him through the Machinist Training Institute and he is also employed.

Motts calls his wife "the backbone of the family," which now includes three daughters, Mercedes, 16, Helaina, 6, and

"I sensed that in his heart he was a good person and he was going to make it out," Paula said. "When he sets his mind to something, he's going to achieve it. He got into Focus: HOPE and they helped him in every sense and direction."

Kerwin, a retired judge from West Bloomfield, also sensed Motts' potential. Kerwin grew up in the tough neighborhood around Focus: HOPE near Oakman Boulevard. His own sister died of a heroin overdose.

"Some of my friends ended up in prison, some are on the police force, some of them became doctors," Kerwin said.

He said Motts' story was special, but not unique.

LEARNING DISCIPLINE

Wednesday, Kerwin and Motts were reunited for the first time since Kerwin gave Motts his opportunity. Focus: HOPE let Motts make the most of that opportunity.

"It taught me a lot about discipline. Being here, not a minute late, being here on time, looking professional, acting professional," he said. "I couldn't say enough about this program."

In addition to hands-on training, Motts was able to interact with the many retired GM, Ford and Chrysler plant managers who have donated their time to working with Focus: HOPE. He was inspired by their example.

Now that Motts is successful, he wants to tell others what he's found.

"There is somewhere in this city where you can get educated, you can change and break the cycle, change the history you're born into," he said.

He now brings his oldest daughter down to Focus:HOPE to help package food for the

Focus:HOPE serves many needs

Focus: HOPE was founded in 1968 by the Rev. William Cunningham, a Catholic priest, and Eleanor Josaitis, a Downriver housewife, in the aftermath of the 1967 Detroit race riot. The mission was to bridge the social, economic and racial divides of the Detroit area. On its campus on Oakman Boulevard in Detroit, Focus: HOPE offers social services and technical job training.

The suit was brought Libertarian Party of Michigan, the Reform Party of Michigan, the Metro Times and Winning Strategies, a political consulting

"The state is not required to provide the party preference information to any party," Edmunds wrote. "When it chooses to do so, however, it may not provide the information only to the two major political parties."

This is the latest in a series of embarrasslarations solely to the two major political par- ing consequences of the state's ill-considered attempt to buck the national parties by moving Michigan's primary to an earlier date. LETTERS

We need some understanding

Reading Thursday's paper I was interested in the opinions section's focus on race and diversity. Wayne Peal's column on Senator Obama and the speech he gave on race was well thought out and impressive in the very personal approach he took. Mr. Peal was dead on in his analysis that the uncomfortable truths of our attitudes on race and how we all, regardless of race, has a common interest in transcending these. On the other hand the leading letter to the editor titled "Consider 'American' residents" was a little more off. While I generally appreciate Mr. Denstedt's letters I was a little surprised by the com-

While the argument that a new building in the area may adversely affect residents in the area may have merit this statement comes off as 'us verses them' labeling members of the church as the polar opposite, non-American. I am sure that this was not the purpose of the letter and many times context can be lost by focusing on a few words, I do feel that these implications are indicative of the lack of knowledge we have of the members of our community.

All one has to do is go to the public library on a weekday to witness the diversity that boasts of Canton's wide appeal to people from all geographic locations and walks of life. This is a testament to the quality of the township and is hard to dismiss. Canton has a wide variety of cultural, ethnic and religious groups within its borders and perhaps we could work harder to understand each other.

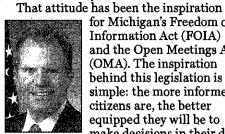

Many groups have faced adversity in this country, from the Italians in Chicago, Irish in the Northeast and Chinese in California. We may be better off in learning from our past reactions out of fear. This was the point I got out of Senator Obama's speech and Mr. Peal's column. This is also the sentiments I got out Mr. Denstedt's letter in hoping that both sides will be satisfied by the outcome.

for Michigan's Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and the Open Meetings Act (OMA). The inspiration behind this legislation is simple: the more informed citizens are, the better equipped they will be to make decisions in their dayto-day lives. And the more trust they will have in their government. That's especially true when it comes to information regarding citizens' hard-earned tax dollars.

That is why I recently announced that my office is the first in state government to provide detailed information on how our tax dollars are being spent. We have done this by establishing a new page on our Web site (www.michigan.gov/ag) called "Track Your "Track Your Taxes" enables anyone in Michigan to go online and learn about the expenditures by the Attorney General's office. The 15 pages of information list the following categories: equipment, rent, contracts, salaries, wages and insurance and fringe benefits.

By clicking on the line titled "Service Contracts," citizens can learn about every single contract our department has entered into, including legal services such as Special Assistant Attorneys General and expert wit-

For example, citizens will now be able to go online and look at the name of the vendor. the type of service being provided, the term of contract, the amount of the contract, how much has been spent and how much is still outstanding on each and every contract.

I am pleased that consumer advocate Ralph Nader has joined me in urging Gov. (Jennifer) Granholm to take the next step and make our state agency and department spending as open and transparent as pos-

The State of Michigan has made a modest first step in this direction by providing some information on the Department of Management and Budget's Web site. But the information provided is far from thorough.

What transparency requires is a detailed listing of all expenditures, so citizens can see down to the item where their hard-earned tax dollars are going.

An example of what Michigan should strive for is the state of Missouri's site, which can be found by going to www.mapyourtaxes.mo.gov. A handful of other states have already created comprehensive, searchable databases detailing how their tax dollars are Even the federal government has made important progress on this issue. As a result of legislation sponsored by Sen. Barack Obama of Illinois and Tom Coburn of Oklahoma, the federal government has launched www.usaspending.gov to allow transparency in federal spending.

Why can't Michigan be a leader when it comes to transparency and open government? After all, we were one of the first states in the nation to adopt the Freedom of Information Act and the Open Meetings Act.

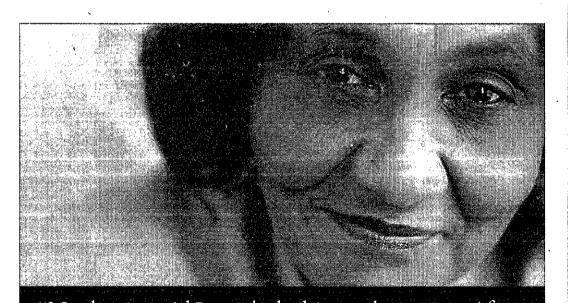

State Rep. Jack Hoogendyk has introduced legislation to create a Web site that provides information on state expenditures. I urge readers to contact your state senator and representative and encourage them to support this effort at open government.

Providing all of Michigan's citizens with access to all government expenditures is the FOIA and OMA of the 21st century. And it's the ultimate in consumer protection. As every family struggling to make ends meet knows, you'll never get a handle on your budget until you first know where the money goes. That is precisely what my effort to detail government spending sets out to accomplish.

My hope is that once the State of Michigan adopts transparency in spending and makes all expenditures available online, the practice will then spread to local units of government such as cities and counties, even local school boards and county road commissions.

There's no reason why Michigan can't be a national leader in providing our citizens with easy, online access to all state government expenditures. This week, Sunshine Week, is the perfect time to follow the wisdom of Supreme Court Justice Louis Brandeis and let the sun shine in on government spending, so everyone can follow the money.

Area softball teams optimistic

Stevenson junior shortstop Amanda Paison, making the throw across the diamond in last year's WLAA championship game, returns for the 2008 season.

OBSERVER SPORTS WRITER

Last season Livonia Stevenson emerged as the surprise girls softball team in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Spartans, who finished 19-11 overall, earned a Lakes Division title and upset Western Division champ Northville, 6-3, in the WLAA's first-place crossover.

Stevenson's lineup remains virtually intact and coach Rob Witherspoon has reason to be optimistic entering the 2008 campaign.

"The Western Lakes is going to be once again, a very challenging league to compete in this year," said the sixth-year coach. "This year's softball team will compete with even more heart and dedication as the players work together and challenge each other throughout the year."

The Spartans return three pitchers, including senior Jamie Johnson, who went 14-7 with a 2.37 earned run average. Capable replacements include junior Laura Deacon (5-3-1, 2.85 ERA) and sophomore Emily Hollandsworth, who also plays center field and hit .311.

"Though we lost two very athletic players – Janice Hollandsworth and Monica Piekarski – to graduation, we have added three very athletic and hard-working ninth-graders to a team already loaded with hardworking kids," Witherspoon said. "We're hoping that our hard work and dedication will allow us to get better each day and complete in the Western Lakes this year."

Another team to watch in the WLAA is Western Division member Livonia Franklin (22-12), which also returns a veteran cast led by first-team All-Observer picks Brittany and Briauna Taylor, both juniors.

Brittany, who hit .525 with five homers and 25 stolen bases, moves from center field to her natural position as catcher. Briauna, meanwhile, remains at shortstop where she hit .524 with a slugging percentage of .619.

Junior Natalie Sanborn and sophomore Alecia Geraghty both return on the mound, but the key will be how freshman Chelsea Williams handles the center field spot, according to coach Linda Jimenez.

Livonia Churchill (17-15) could be a wildcard in the WLAA-Lakes

UConn calls as Livonian opens door

Dan Naurato certainly has taken a circuitous route to earning a Division I hockey scholarship.

After spending two seasons in the Eastern Junior Hockey League, the 20-year-old Livonia native will sign next week to play for the University of Connecticut.

Upon entering high school at Catholic Central, Naurato took a leave of absence, getting away completely from the game. "I did not play my freshman or sophomore year," he said. "In eighthgrade I was sick of it, kind of burned out." Naurato, however, decided to give it a go again during his junior year of high school.

"I played in a spring league with my buddies and they said I should try out for CC," Dan recalled.

Naurato

As a junior, Dan Naurato was a member of the Shamrocks' 2005 Division 1 state championship team. And after graduating from CC in 2006, he decided to follow the blueprint established by his older brother Brandon, a junior right winger for No. 1-ranked Michigan.

Brandon, a CC alum himself who played on three straight state championship teams, migrated to the U.S. Hockey League for two seasons, making stops at Omaha, Neb. and Cedar Rapids, Ia. before landing a scholarship at U-M.

Dan, meanwhile, also tried out in the USHL, but found himself instead in Foxboro, Mass. – home of the NFL New England Patriots – and playing for the South Shore Kings of the EJHL.

"Coach (Todd) Johnson (at CC) gave me the idea and some options my senior year," Dan Naurato said. "He knew the coach out there. It's good hockey, not as good as the USHL, but it gets your ready for college. It's pretty competitive. Everyone here wants to play in college. They place a lot of players,

Woods state-bound

Livonia's Christian Woods led all competitors with 44 points to win the Boys 14-15 age group in the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association Southeast Area Hoops Challenge Basketball Skills contest March 9 in Saline. Sister Angelica Woods also earned a first in the Girls 14-15 age division and will advance as well to the state finals Sunday, April 13 at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Age no barrier

Dynamic Boxing Club trainer Paul Soucy, 69, of Livonia, stepped into the ring recently and earned a decision over 62-yearold David Burnette of Monroe in a sanctioned boxing show at Joe's Boxing Club in Monroe.

Soucy is coached by Chad Jaquillard and Anton Ivezaj.

The Dynamic Boxing Club is preparing for the Golden Gloves, April 11-13, at the Gibraltar Trade Center.

MU softball swept

The Madonna University women's softball team was swept Friday in a double-header
by host Lindsey Wilson (Ky.), 3-1 and 3-1, dropping the Crusaders to 8-61 overall.

The Blue Raiders improved to 15-10 on the season. On Wednesday, MU and host Hantington University (Ind.) battled to a 1-1 draw in a game stopped after six innings by rain.

Huntington (2-6-1) jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the third inning on Brittney Bateman's RBI single scored Alicia Wilour.

The Crusaders knotted the count in the to of the sixth when Laura Lesko drew a two-out walk and advanced home on passed ball and a pair of wild pitches. MU hurler Liz Ballinger gave up five hits and struck out two, while Huntington pitcher Lauren Ward allowed just two hits, one each by Danielle Richardson and Kathleen Smiley. Ward struck out eight and walked three. Brittany Gower collected a pair of hits for the Foresters.

Speed, agility training

A four-day speed and agility training session will be from 6-8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, March 31-April 3, at Adams Middle School, 33475 Palmer Road, Westland.

Huron Valley Lutheran launches program

See area boys golf capsules, Page B2.

BY BRAD EMONS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

It's been 17 months to be exact since high school boys golfers teed it up on the links as a result of the court-mandated MHSAA seasons switch on the calendar with girls golf.

So it's time to get reacquainted. There's a new kid on the block as Westland Huron Valley Lutheran is launching a program.

The Hawks, the smallest school in Observerland with less than 100 students, will play their home matches at Hawthorne Valley.

Huron Valley will be coached by Pat Hinnman and John Kasprezak.

"Actually it would have worked out better in the fall," Huron Valley athletic director Jim Ott said. "We agreed that those who wanted to play soccer could do both.

"You can't do both in the spring, but it really didn't affect our baseball team because we only lost two or three."

A total of 16 turned out for the inaugural season, but only six have previous playing experience, according to the school's A.D.

Last year the Hawks competed unofficially in five Michigan Independent Athletic Conference matches, along with the conference coursey.

"We have 10 who have never

really played," Ott said. "We'll see how the talent plays out and how they take ownership of it. If they improve, learn and compete, we'll come back next year. But if they only want to use it for free golf, it will be short-ended."

Huron Valley, a Division 4 school, will most likely be assigned to the Waterford Our Lady of Lakes regional on Friday, May 23 at Liberty Golf Course.

For the rest of the area teams, it will be business as usual.

Livonia Churchill, the 2006 district champion, returns second-team All-Observer pick Josh Proben, who placed third in the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament.

He is joined by junior Kevin Robinson, an All-Division player who finished 11th in the WLAA.

Other returnees for the Chargers include senior Brian Bint, junior Dan Bostick and senior Thomas Wagner.

"I have a lot of experience on this team," Churchill fourthyear coach Paul Worley said. "Qualifying rounds for matches could be as competitive as the matches themselves."

Livonia Franklin, which placed sixth in the district, has a new coach in Brian McCalister, who takes over for Scott Rutterbush.

"This is an exciting year for us," said McCalister, who returns starters Tony Semonick and Just Adams, both seniors. "Not only are we returning five experienced upperclassmen, there are 10 underclassmen that are looking to push their way into the lineup."

Former O&E golf champion Jim Omietanski takes over as coach at Livonia Stevenson replacing Jason Delo after the Spartans took seventh in the WLAA.

The Spartans will be led by cocaptains Jordan Rayburn, a senior, and Tom Cullum, a sophomore.

"We have a very strong group of freshman and sophomores, coupled together with a good returning core of juniors and one senior," Omietanski said. "I think I have a great group of kids who have great attitudes and a burning desire to excel this season and take our program to the next level."

Westland John Glenn, 11th in the WLAA, has one of the top returning players in the area in junior Andy Myers, a regional qualifier who just missed qualifying for the 2006 Division 1 state tournament by one stroke. Myers also captured the Metropark Tournament last August.

Senior co-captain Dan Tamaroglio also gives coach Steve Pilon reason for hope.

Fellow WLAA member Wayne Memorial did not win a conference match, but the Zebras are hopeful under 28th-year coach Dennis Chall, who returns starters Kevin Erdman, a senior, and Jacob Smith, a junior.

Glenn grad Kennedy sets record as MU splits

Westland native Will Kennedy became Madonna University's career strikeout leader Wednesday, fanning seven Indiana Tech batters during the Crusaders' 5-1 victory in the opener of a road twinbill.

Kennedy (2-1) struck out the side in the first to get off to a good start, and fanned Shawn Placie in the fifth inning to break the previous mark of 197 set from 2004-06 by Derek Dufrane. With his seven Ks, Kennedy now has 199 for his career.

He also gave up just four hits over six-and-one-third innings, giving way to John McCracken who earned his fourth save by recording the final two outs of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference tilt.

The Crusaders improved to 11-5 overall and 1-0 in the WHAC thanks to Kennedy's pitching as well as an eight-hit attack - featuring junior center-fielder Zack McMillin's 2for-4 effort. McMillin cracked his first homer of the year, a three-run shot in the seventh to open up a 2-1 margin.

Madonna took an early 2-0 lead in the third, when junior right-fielder Jeff Sonnenberg and freshman catcher and Walled Lake Central alum Drew Adamiec (2-for-3, two runs) drilled back-to-back doubles and senior designated hitter Dave Herrick (Westland/Livonia Churchill) singled home Adamiec with two out.

In Game 2, Madonna lost a tough 2-1 decision to fall to 11-6 and 1-1.

The host Warriors (13-11, 1-1) scored a run in the bottom of the eighth on a two-out single by Dan Cody against MU senior reliever Carl McDevitt (Canton) to bring home pinch runner Brad Gettelfinger.

Kuratko's 2008 outlook: "The Chargers return two senior starters, but a strong and experienced junior class offers potential. On the field leadership will be a-strength as our team captain (Jordan Kerr) returns for her senior year. Both of our freshmen, Everson and Hiser, have skills and will have opportunities to contribute from the beginning of the season. The depth of the entire Churchill program has improved and some of the JV players only need experience to compete at the varsity level. Like all teams in the league, we hope to improve with each game and be a better team at the end of the year." LIVONIA FRANKLIN

"We moved Brittany Taylor from the center field position to catcher. The big question is if freshmen Chelsea Williams can plug the hole left by Taylor. If so, we will be very strong up the middle. "Overall, it will be a fun season.

LIVONIA STEVENSON

Nina Bonanno, Soph. OF. Promising newcomers: Sarah Smith, Fr. Inf-utility; Becca Zarras, Fr. Inf-Utility; Katle Bone, Fr. OF-Utility, Witherspoon's 2008 outlook: "I'm very confident in our team's ability to make routine defensive plays, while returning three very talented pitchers who can challenge opposing hitters during each at-bat. The skill level and knowledge of the game have grown tremendously on the defensive side of the ball since the beginning of last season, and we'll have to continue to grow in order to compete this year. The question that has to be answered this year is our consistency at the plate. Offensively, many of the girls have worked harder than ever this winter by dedicating themselves to weekly hitting practice since the early fall. The key to the season, offensively, is to translate all that training into success against some very talented pitchers that we'll face this year.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN Head coach: Julie Rogers, second year. League affiliation: WLAA (Lakes Division). Last year's overall record: 1-23 Notable losses to graduation: Tarra Anderson, Lisa

Rogers' 2008 outlook: "This is my second year as head coach and we're still striving to develop our program at Glenn. We continue to gain talent and skills, and maintain our positive attitudes. We have a young team with a strong work ethic. I'm hopeful we can work hard and become a league contender." WAYNE MEMORIAL

Alyssa Gietl, Soph. P-3B. Promising newcomers: Jenny Kelly, Soph. 2B; Julie Bushart, Soph. OF-2B; Kim Bartz, Soph. P; Christina Butkiewicz, Fr. CF-18. Combs' 2008 outlook: "We're going back to all the basics, stressing fundamentals. We hope to build from that attitude from the winter workouts. We're eager to turn last year's record around. We want to make the Catholic League playoffs, win a district and see where we can go from there. Hike our mix. We have a lot of balance of seniors, juniors, sophomores. We have good athletes who play other sports and have played travel (softball). I feel we have a lot of talent We're quietly confident. We hope they can pick up the system. We want to be able to bunt, We've worked on bunting and slap-hitting 60 percent of the time. My assistant coach Carl Novick is a great hitting and infield coach who worked with me at Compuware."

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE Head coach: Joe DeCaire, seventh year. League affiliation: Metro Conference. Last year's overall record: 7-19. Notable losses to graduation: Abby Sochacki (second-team All-Area), Jenna Mrijak, Kellie Manis Nicole Lexson, Becky Simpson, Kelly Quinn.

Inf.; Elizabeth Sinclair, Sr. Inf.; Anjalika Lobo, Soph. Inf.-OF. DeCaire's 2008 outlook: "We'll have a good mixture of young and veteran players and it looks as though we'll have a little more athletic team than in the past. With no JV program this year, my coaches and I decided to carry a number of young players – six sophomores and seven freshman. We will have to do a lot of coaching and really concentrate on our practice time if we're going to get these players game ready. (Val) Sochacki is a very promising, young pitcher who has really worked hard this off-season learning what it takes to become a productive pitcher that throws strikes consistently. I think we'll hit the ball pretty well with Brooks, McQueen, Wilson, and Lawler leading the way. Sillanpaa will I have to find a way to get on base for us to use her speed."

LUTHERAN HIGH WESTLAND Head coach: Paul Guse', fifth year. League affiliation: Metro Conference. Last year's overall record: 7-15. Notable losses to graduation: Rachel Becker, Andrea Guse', Kristin Smith. Leading returnees: Amanda DeVries, Sr. P. Kara

Guse's 2008 outlook: "Due to the lack of numbers 15 total, we'll only have one team, so we really hope that won't hurt the development of our young players. Amanda (DeVries) is a solid pitcher, but we didn't field the ball very well behind her last year, so defense has to be a priority for us. I think we're strong up the middle, but the catcher position is still a guestion mark after JV catcher Emily Palme: transferred to Alpena. We're still trying to figure out how to fit all the pieces together. I won't be too surprised if we get off to a slow start because we'll want to see all the girls play in some of those early non-conference game. Right now this team has pretty good chemistry. If that continues and they continue o work hard, we could surprise some people this

League affiliation: Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (Red Division) Last year's overall record: 14-6.

Titles won last year: MIAC-Red champions.

Notable losses to graduation: Amanda Gruenewald (second-team All-Area), Erin Henkel. Leading returnees: Nicole Smith, Sr. SS; Brandy Nocella, Sr. 3B; Emily Helwig, Sr. 1B; Sarah Schaffer Sr. C-P; Catherine St. John, Sr. 2B; Anna Schaffer, Promising newcomers: Paige Sharrow, Fr. P; Kelly Kubinski, Soph. OF: Christina Gutierrez, Jr. P. Ruth's 2008 outlook. "Pitching is the biggest question mark. Paige (Sharrow) is young, but she's been working hard at it. This is the best hitting team I've ever had and we'll have good defense behind her because we bring back the entire starting infield and our center fielder. I'm playing for everything this year to win the district. We'll try to compete for the conference, but (Taylor) Baptist Park and (Novi) Franklin Road Christian are the teams to beat, so we hope to finish somewhere in the middle."

SOFTBALL

Division race despite losing four starters to gradug

Longtime Charger assistant coach Lou Kuratko takes over in the varsity dugout for Meghan Misiak, who resigned last fall to take a similar coaching and teaching position in Florida. Kuratko returns a quality starting pitcher in senior Jordan Kerr, along with catcher Emily McShane.

For two other WLAA members - Westland John Glenn (1-23) and Wayne Memorial (3-23) - it's no where to go but up. Glenn captured a predistrict game and took Division 1 district champion Belleville to 10 innings before falling in last June's semifinal. The Rockets, under second-year coach Julie Rogers, return junior pitcher Brittany Holbrook, junior first baseman Stacey Truskowski and sophomore infielder Katie Down. Wayne will also field a veteran team as pitchers Jessie Harris and Taylor Krohn both return.

Newcomers Megan Callahan and Kathy Harris, a pair of junior infielders, should also give the Zebras' lineup a boost.

Another area team looking to rebound in 2008 is Livonia Ladywood (13-21), which changed coaches after one season.

Former Kalamazoo College pitcher Scott Combs, who has coached in the 10-, 12- and 14-under Compuware summer program, takes the reins from Sara Thiesmeyer.

Combs, who does scouting for the San Francisco Giants and coached baseball at both Novi and Northville, is optimistic as well despite lost a pair of key players to graduation in pitcher Lauren Taylor and infielder Erin McLaughlin. The Blazers return first-team All-Observer first baseman Alyssa Abramoski, who batted .352 as a junior. Senior catcher Kyla Suchy also returns. In the Metro Conference, both Livonia Clarenceville (7-19) and Lutheran High Westland (7-15) hope to approach the .500 mark.

Clarenceville first-team All-Conference pick Abby Sochacki graduated, leaving the pitching duties to younger sister Val Sochacki, a sophomore, and Danielle Maples, a senior.

Second-team All-Conference pick Charmaine McQueen, who plays both infield and outfield, will key the Trojans' hitting attack.

Catching may be a big question mark for Lutheran Westland, which returns senior pitcher Amanda DeVries, along with senior center fielder Kara Jackson and senior shortstop Stephanie Christiensen for fifth-year coach Paul Guse'.

Next-door neighbor Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (14-6), the defending Michigan Independent Athletic Conference-Red Division champion, lost four-year starting pitcher Amanda Gruenewald, but everybody else returns for 11thyear coach Eric Ruth.

The Hawks' infield remains solid with seniors Nicole Smith (shortstop), Brandy Nocella (third base), Emily Helwig (first base) and Catherine St. John (second base) all returning from a year ago.

Senior Sarah Schaffer also returns at catcher, while freshman Paige Sharrow penciled in to take over the mound duties. See capsule outlook of area girls softball teams.

Vigorous exercise reduces the risk of heart attacks

Bob from Novi e-mails that he has just entered middle age. He is looking for some tips on how to avoid a heart attack.

Bob, sudden death is the first symptom in one-third of people with heart disease. You could be jogging, relaxing, even driving when a fatal attack hits! New information shows vigorous exercise once a week dramatically reduces your chances of having an attack. A study of more than 21,000 men shows those who did not exercise were seven times more likely to die from sudden cardiac arrest. To get the maximum effect, you should work out regularly. Those who exercise irregularly have more adrenalin and that can trigger fatal heart rhythms. Training intensely once a week can information.

Jim, circuit training involves a series of exercises performed with little or no rest in between. You can set up a circuit routine using a combination of free weights, machines and calisthenic exercises. You perform each exercise with a pre-set amount of reps, and then move on. Circuit workouts can be complex and get harder as you progress.

Another popular type of workout is priority training. Priority training is similar to circuit training except you do several sets of the same exercise before moving on to the next station. Fitness experts are split as to which system works best. A good way to proceed is to check with a personal trainer so you can get your priorities straight in choosing the workout that is right for you!

If you have a health or fitness question you would like answered in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, e-mail Peter through his Web site www.peternielsen.com. Contact him at Peter Nielsen's Personal Training Club in West Bloomfield or Nielsen's Town Center Health Club in Southfield.

Program uses yoga and self-reflection to resolve food issues

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN O&E STAFF WRITER

Beverly Price

Stacie Larabell was a compulsive overeater until she sought help from a therapist who recommended seeing Beverly Price, a registered dietitian and yoga teacher. Larabell especially credits Price's workshops for making her stop and think before reaching for food.

Price developed the program after noticing patients were having more success dealing with eating disorders after taking the workshops which combine yoga with self-reflection in a group setting.

Larabell started overeating as a teenager and later realized it was anxiety causing the behavior. Price's recently released DVD, Reconnect with Food ... Unplugged, makes it possible for Larabell to fit the program into a busy schedule. In addition to working full time as a technologist at a University of Michigan genetics lab, Larabell does spinning (indoor cycling) and takes weight training classes four to five days a week.

"Yoga can be physically challenging. The point is to move through the discomfort," said Larabell of Canton. "She has you hold the poses longer than normal. It teaches you to relax through the discomfort. Over time you realize you can deal with this. I can overcome this. It helps you with food issues. The second part is a group discussion with all different types of issues anorexia, bulimia, overeaters. You realize it's a common thread. It's all how you cope. She creates an awareness of what you're thinking, an ability to stop yourself in the moment, ask how am I feeling, what am I going to do about it? I'm not going to grab food."

INNER-REFLECTION

Price doesn't give advice or interpret emotions during the workshops which consist of an hour of yoga, an hour of talk. She merely starts the group sessions by asking a question.

"It's primarily for people who have struggled with food issues, body image and weight issues, tried this diet, that diet," said Price, who has been counseling individuals with eating disorders

RECONNECT WITH FOOD

What: Yoga and group support workshop series
When: Begins 7-9 p.m.
Wednesday, April 2, and runs seven weeks in Royal Oak Information: Visit www.reconnectwithfood.com or call (248) 390-4150 for details about workshops or DVD.

Reconnect with Food is an eating disorder recovery program which combines yoga with self-reflection in a group setting.

since 1984. "It's self-reflection that you don't get in a group therapy session. It's a way to listen to others. Sometimes listening to others brings those ah-ha moments. Negative behavior talk is not aloud. We do talk about messages you've learned growing up, but don't dwell on them. It's more to understand what you do, not to blame. Blaming keeps you in your victim story."

The moving meditation of yoga helps deepen the reflection.

Yoga opens up your heart. You hear things on a deep level. Studies have shown that meditation can act on the area of the brain making rational decisions. It curbs impulsive behavior changing your brain and whole body chemistry," said Price. "The first step to changing is awareness, what is going on besides just my food behavior, how this extends to all areas of my life. It really isn't about food. What are you hungry for — self-esteem, self-acceptance, love? Food is just filling a void. My biggest challenge is forcing them to look at their issues. Often times you have to change your relationships with others, or with money or overworking before changing your relationship with food."

MINDLESS EATING

Alice Subia had been chubby since childhood. She's always been aware, "she eats a little too much." After taking the workshops Subia changed her eating patterns and is "very aware when she eats." She appears in Price's new DVD.

"It's been helpful. I did get some insight. I kept a food journal of how much and when I ate, was I standing, sitting, rushed. On the other side of the page I would write down what I was experiencing at the time, was I bored or angry to try to put the why and what together, why I'm eating and what I'm eating," said Subia, who grew up in The Netherlands and now lives in Huntington Woods.

Subia continues to do yoga three to five days a week, but she's still working on changing her eating patterns. For breakfast, she had cereal with yogurt and fruit, but skipped lunch and instead ate a few cookies.

"When I go shopping I definitely look at ingredients. I buy very little that is packaged or processed," said Subia. "I watch fat intake, whether it's high in fiber. We eat a lot of fish, ethnic dishes like Middle Eastern or Oriental. I cook with legumes and some grains, brown rice, couscous."

Price covers nutrition in the workshops. Larabell learned to eat several small meals throughout the day. A typical breakfast is whole grain cereal with soy milk. Larabell's main meal is lunch. She eats whole foods, no white sugar.

white sugar.

"We do know what we eat affects our brain chemistry," said Price. "A lot of the food contributes to depression which many of these women suffer from.
They should avoid foods with artificial sweeteners, ingredients you can't pronounce, low fat junk foods. 100 calorie things in a bag have a lot of chemicals and no nutritional value. They're not eating enough foods like fruit, vegetables, whole grains and legumes."

Optometrists warn users of computer vision syndrome

In commemoration of National Save
Your Vision Month, Michigan Optometric
Association doctors are alerting Michigan residents about computer vision syndrome, a condition which occurs after extended use with a computer or other video displays such as smartphones or PDAs.
Computer vision syndrome can be diagnosed through a comprehensive eye examination by an optometrist. Symptoms of computer vision syndrome include dry eye, eyestrain, neck and/or backache, light sensitivity and fatigue. These symptoms can result from individual visual problems, poor workstation configuration and improper work habits.

More than 82 percent of Americans frequently work with a computer or a PDA, according to the American Optometric Association's 2007 American Eye-Q survey, which identified Americans' attitudes and behaviors regarding eye care and related issues. Supporting this, a recent Omnibus survey commissioned by the AOA showed 42 percent of respondents spend three or more hours a day in front of a computer or handheld device.

Pre-existing, uncorrected vision problems like farsightedness and astigmatism, inadequate eye focusing or eye coordination abilities, and age-related eye issues also contribute to computer vision syndrome.

"Working at a computer requires a great deal of eye movement and eye focusing," said Dr. Amy Crissman, MOA Primary Care Committee chairwoman. "This constant refocusing effort stresses the eye muscle leading to computer-related vision problems. Additionally the AOA Omnibus survey reports that 78 percent of Americans do not have their computer monitor positioned at the correct height which is below eye level. Since computer vision syndrome impacts so many people, we are passionate about educating Michigan residents during National Save Your Vision month."

According to MOA doctors, Michigan residents should follow these guidelines to prevent or reduce eye and vision problems associated with computer vision syndrome:

Have your vision checked regularly. Prior to age 61, adults should have a comprehensive eye exam every one to two years or as recommended by an eye doctor, and annually after that age. Vision and eye health can change rapidly and frequently, particularly as one ages. Having one's vision examined on a regular, timely basis is important to maintaining overall health and for preventive reasons.

Limit the amount of time you continuously use the computer. Practicing the 20/20 rule (look away from the computer every 20 minutes for 20 seconds) will minimize the development of eye-focusing problems and eye irritation caused by infrequent blinking.

Check the height and arrangement of the computer. MOA optometrists suggest more comfortable computer viewing can be achieved when the eyes are looking slightly downward. Optimally, the computer screen should be 15 to 20 degrees below eye level (about 4 or 5 inches) as measured from the center of the screen and 20 to 28 inches from the eyes.

Check for glare on the computer screen. Windows or other light sources should not be directly visible when sitting in front of the monitor. When this occurs, turn the desk or computer to prevent glare on the screen.

Reduce the amount of lighting in the room to match the computer screen. A smaller light can be substituted for a bright overhead light or a dimmer switch can be installed to give flexible control of room lighting. Turn three-way bulbs to the lowest setting.

Keep blinking to minimize the chances of developing dry eye when using a computer. Blinking keeps the front surface of the eye

"Viewing a computer screen is different than reading a printed page," said Crissman. "Often the letters on the computer screen are not as precise or sharply defined, the level of contrast of the letters to the background is reduced and the presence of glare and reflections on the screen may make viewing difficult."

Testing for computer vision syndrome, with special emphasis on visual requirements at the computer working distance, may include taking a patient history to identify existing symptoms, any general health problems, medications taken, or environmental factors that may be contributing to computer vision syndrome.

Measuring visual acuity to assess the extent to which vision may be affected.

A refraction to determine the appropriate lens power needed to compensate for any refractive errors including nearsightedness, farsightedness, astigmatism (vision conditions that cause blurred vision due to incorrect focusing power of the cornea, the clear front cover of the eye), or presbyopia (a vision condition in which the crystalline lens of your eye loses its flexibility making it difficult to focus on close objects).

Testing how the eyes focus, move and work together. To obtain a clear, single image of what is being viewed, the eyes must effectively change focus, move and work in unison.

Using the information obtained from these tests, along with results of other tests, an optometrist can assess the presence of computer vision syndrome and provide specific treatment options. For more information, visit www.themoa.org and click the Vision Care tab.

Kitchener sweeps Whalers out of OHL playoffs, 7-4

BY ED WRIGHT

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, March 30, 2008

OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The 2008 Ontario Hockey League playoffs proved to be short and sweep for the defending champion Plymouth Whalers.

The Kitchener Rangers, who play eerily similar to last season's Plymouth titleists, capped a four-game, first-round sweep, 7-4, Wednesday night before a Spring Break-decimated crowd at the Compuware Arena.

Plymouth played shift-to-shift with the slick-skating Rangers for most of the night and trailed just 5-4 when captain Andrew Fournier tipped in a goal with 11:15 left in the third period.

But Kitchener punched its ticket to the Western Conference semifinals by scoring bangbang goals with less than five minutes to play. Kitchener earned the OHL Western Conference's No. 1 seed by cruising to 53 regular-season wins and just 11 losses.

The precursor to the Whalers' early playoff exit came during the final week of the regular season when a three-game losing streak dropped them from a No. 5 seed to No. 8 - and a date with the Rangers.

The winners whistled 55 shots at Whalers goalie Jeremy Smith, who had one of the best seven-goals-allowed nights a netminder can

The Rangers' balance was on display the entire night as seven different players scored goals. Amazingly, none of the net-finders were scored by OHL leading scorer Justin Azevedo.

Kitchener set the tone early when Mikkel Boedker and Scott Timmins staked the Rangers to a 2-0 lead in the game's opening three minutes. Boedker was assisted by Nazem Kadri and Azevedo while Timmins received helpers from T.J. Battani and Yannick Weber.

The Rangers nearly took a 3-0 advantage, however, a Weber goal at the 15:32 mark was reviewed and waved off when the replay official ruled the net had been knocked off its moorings before the puck crossed the goal line.

Plymouth pulled to within 2-1 with 7:05 to go in the first when Jordon O'Neill secured a pass from Joe Gaynor in front and ripped the puck past Kitchener goalie Josh Unice.

The first period ended with the Rangers holding a 17-7 edge in shots.

I know Grams is still here for the ride

'm having a crisis of confidence because my biggest fan has stopped reading this column.

For the first time since Mom's the Word began four years ago with a story about Jackson wanting to dress as Dora the Explorer for Halloween, I'm finding it nearly impossible to share details about my kids and my efforts to parent them.

I keep stopping mid-sentence, fingers hovering above the keyboard, to ask myself, "Who cares?"

Grams used to. Grams taught me to read, she helped publish my first book — with cardboard and Scotch tape at age 5 — and she's been applauding every word I've put to paper ever since. But three months ago she died — a mercifully quick death at the ripe old age of 94 — and my muse is gone.

When she was alive, Grams was never far from my thoughts as I brainstormed topics and crafted phrases. If I happened to type a passage I considered particularly inspired, I'd smile, imagining her

My husband is one of those people who lost all of his grandparents before he was out of middle school, so I know how fortunate I am to have known and been loved by my grandmother well into my adult life. I feel blessed many times over that Grams met and delighted in my children, her great-grandchildren. My younger brother, who is weeks away from his wedding, cannot say the same, and I suspect that it breaks his heart.

At midnight on deadline day for this column, it dawned on me in an Oprah "aha" moment why the preceding hours had been so painful. Each new paragraph was another tooth pulled, and once I'd done my spell-check and hit "save" for the last time, I wasn't at all happy with what the Herculean effort had yielded. For the first time, it felt self-indulgent to write about my mommy woes and exploitative since Grams died, I haven't had any trouble writing about the auto industry or education — the projects that help pay the bills and the type of ho-hum work I rarely shared with Grams. But writing this column lost its charm once I knew I wouldn't be clipping it out of the Observer and stuffing it into an envelope addressed to Great Lakes Christian Homes in Holt, where Grams would find it in her mailbox one day after lunch, toss it into her walker basket for the stroll down the hall to her tiny apartment, and settle into her well-worn armchair with a tall glass of cheap red wine before slicing the envelope with a wooden letter opener. She'd read the column slowly, savoring each word — or so she told me.

I tried to time my weekly phone calls so we would talk shortly after she'd received a new mailing. I wanted her memory of my effort to be fresh so I could bask in her lavish praise, the same as I did when we'd play school in the '70s and she'd mark my "homework" with "A++++++," the plus marks trailing off the page.

I'm well aware that, if she were here, Grams would scold me for feeling this way. She might pull out a "pish" or "fiddlesticks," never missing an opportunity to incite giggles with those stereotypically old-lady expressions.

"Well, what did you expect?" she'd ask me, her watery brown eyes meeting my gaze and not letting go. "People don't live forever, Becky Dear."

When I was in kindergarten and my great-grandmother died, Grams was the one who explained the situation, telling me, "You're born, you live and you die—it's the natural course of events."

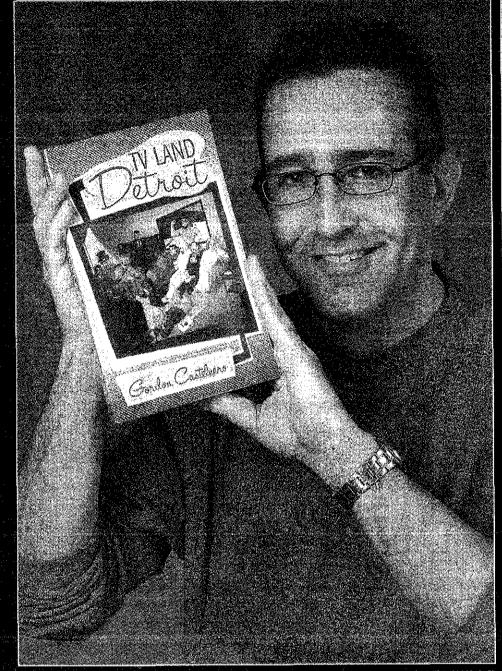

Years later, in recounting the conversation, Grams reported that Little Me then chimed in, with much-needed comic relief, "But in between there's Cedar Point!"

As I think about the future of Mom's the Word and how I can possibly continue when each key click rings so hollow, I realize that it's the Cedar Point part that I want to keep writing about.

So much of who I am as a mother—especially the Fun Mom part—comes directly from Grams and her influence on me over the past 37 years. I know I owe it to her to keep talking about this roller coaster ride, even when everything's upside down.

Rebecca Kavanagh lives in Farmington Hills with her husband and two kids. Please write to her at momsthewordcolumn@gmail.com.

Marilyn Turner and John Kelly brought their off-screen married life to their daily talk show on WXYZ-TV.

orty years ago, George Romney — father of erstwhile presidential candidate Mitt Romney — was running his own high-profile bid for the presidency.

As the standard-bearer for the moderate wing of the Republican Party, Romney's chances looked pretty good. That was until he sat down to have a talk with Lou Gordon.

Romney told Gordon and his TV audience that the generals and diplomats in Vietnam had put him through the worst "brainwashing" he'd ever had. That unfortunate use of a word associated with the war in Korea helped put an end to that earlier Romney bid.

Ironically, Romney made his statement during a calm, thoughtful discussion of the war. Calm and thoughtful wasn't Lou Gordon's usual approach. The innovative Detroit television talk show host usually preferred lively joust's and going for the jugular.

Gordon and those formidable darlings of daytime Detroit television, John Kelly and Marilyn Turner, are the subjects of two halfhour documentaries on WTVS-TV (Channel 56) produced by Gordon Castelnero of Livonia.

The documentaries are the off-shoot of Castelnero's lively portraits of Detroit television personalities in his 2006 book TV Land Detroit (University of Michigan, $22.95).

Castelnero, a television producer, got the idea to pitch a series to WTVS after positive response to the book. He originally thought of doing a longer documentary on all the personalities profiled in TV Land Detroit, but decided instead to do several half-hour documentaries, beginning with Kelly and Turner.

"They were the super couple for a long, long time in town," Castelnero said. He said they epitomized the best in Detroit television. He chose Gordon as a dark contrast to the lightweight Kelly and Turner show.

Gordon, who died in 1977, was a left-leaning Bill O'Reilly. He was opinionated, relentless, scolding and passionate. He loved nothing better than to rile a guest so much that he would storm off the set, as notorious Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo is shown doing on one show.

Gordon's story is told through the words of his daughter, Debbie; son, Scott; former Attorney General Frank Kelley; former state Supreme Court Justice Charles Levin; and others. Their recollections are fond, but they don't let Gordon off the hook for his bombastic style.

Another clip shows Gordon staring with agitated disgust and wagging his finger at a guest, "You are a demagogue and dangerous. I would break my vow about never running for office to oppose you if you ever ran for anything."

The camera pans to show a young, slightly shaggy-haired L. Brooks Patterson, almost at a loss for words.

"That clip amplifies what Debbie Gordon says at the beginning, he had an opinion about everything and he didn't care what people thought of him," Castelnero said.

Gordon could be a good friend and a rabid enemy. The late Detroit Mayor Jerome

Gordon's abrasive style was off-set by his model-beautiful and calm wife, Jackie, who sometimes gently chided a skeptical eyebrow at something he'd say.

"She was the power behind the throne," Castelnero said. "She could keep Lou in check. When Lou went on a tangent, she could always rein him in."

A TV LOVE STORY

Kelly and Turner were another couple who brought the ups and downs of their relationship to the television

The story of Kelly, now 80, and Turner, 76, is a love story broadcast daily across metro Detroit. Their story is told by themselves, still handsome and still playfully digging at each other from their home in Florida; their former colleagues at WJBK-TV (Channel 2) and WXYZ-TV (Channel 7) Jerry Hodak, Doris Biscoe and Ray Lane; and others.

They were like normal folks," Castelnero said.

Kelly was brought to Detroit as a newsman at WJBK. Turner was one of five weather "girls" at the station. In a bid to become the No. 1 news station, WXYZ grabbed Kelly, Hodak and Jack LeGoff from WJBK. Soon Kelly was uneasily sharing news billing with Bill Bonds.

"Jack LeGoff and John Kelly worked together very; very well. They complemented each other," Castlenero said. "With Bill, it was very different. It was competitive."

Biscoe tells an amusing story of how Kelly and Bonds would stack pillows to look taller on camera.

"There was a lot of friction between them. As John says, 'Ooooh, ooooh those were the days," Castelnero said.

An opportunity came to start a morning talk show with movie hostess Rita Bell, called Kelly and Company. That chemistry didn't work. Turner replaced Bell and off-screen chemistry became on-screen magic.

"Marilyn has this glamorous image, but you didn't get this sense that Marilyn was above everybody else. She was someone you could talk to." Castelnero said.

Kelly and Turner give an honest account of their failed first marriages and their romance. Kelly and Company became a model for such later national shows as Regis and Kathie Lee (now Regis and Kelly) and, even, Oprah. They combined serious talk, frivolous features and even a little song and dance.

"John was willing to dress up and come out and be the guinea pig for whatever it was," Castelnero said. "They could laugh at themselves and (showed) not a lot of seriousness. Some would look on it as fluff, but I looked on it as a lot of fun."

Castelnero said he would be interested in doing similar documentaries on other Detroit celebrities in TV, radio and sports, but first he wants to gauge the public reaction.

JOSEPH J. WEISS, M.D. RHEUMATOLOGY

Experiencing muscle aches is common. All of us at some time, have either done too much strenuous effort or because of circumstances such as moving furniture or carrying a too heavy suitcase, felt muscle soreness the next day or perhaps even longer.

The muscle aching I want to discuss is of a different magnitude. The aching that requires a physician's evaluation lasts for days, is present on both right and left sides of the body, and often is both above and below the waist. That is, the aching involves your shoulders and your legs. Muscle aching that lasts for weeks may also bring on fatigue, depression and disrupted

When you bring the muscle problem to the attention of your doctor, do not expect him to respond with a ready answer and an immediate prescription. Prolonged muscle aching has many causes including fibromyalgia, an untoward reaction to medications, particularly those drugs used to treat high cholesterol, and a number of viruses. In addition, an autoimmune disease polymyalgia meumatica, is common in older adults, as is another autoimmune condition,

Sorting out the possibilities often takes time. Each medical cause for muscle aching has its own therapy, so your doctor must move logically before prescribing therapy. The bright side is that once he has established your diagnosis, the therapy he recommends is reliable. Once diagnosed and under treatment, you can expect resolution of the aching
