A state mediator has become involved in contract talks between Wayne-Westland school officials and its teachers union.

The Wayne-Westland Education Association requested the help of the mediator through the Michigan Employment Relations Commission Wednesday in hopes of avoiding a strike by the district's 900 teachers on Tuesday, the opening day of school.

"We're absolutely miles apart," WWEA president Nancy Strachan said. "We're trying to be reasonable and make reasonable Mediator Wanda Mayes met with both sides individually and together on Thursday and had scheduled another session for 10 a.m. Friday. Both sides planned to attend.

"We're encouraged by the use of a state mediator," Superintendent Greg Baracy said. "We will work in conjunction with the mediator to schedule as many meetings as necessary to reach a settlement.

"By using a mediator, it may be fruitful in helping us all reach a middle ground."

The teachers' contract expired Monday, the same day members overwhelmingly approved a strike, delaying start of school Tuesday. According to Starchan, some issues have been settled, but the two sides are "far apart" on three issues — class sizes, health care and wages.

Evelyn Baran, Michigan Education Association field director, said Mayes can suggest alternatives to the two sides and insist they meet a reasonable number of

Ex-boyfriend faces trial in Laci Green slaying

OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The former boyfriend of slain Westland resident Laci Green will stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court amid accusations he strangled her to death and left her body in a grassy field near her Barbara and Edward Green Millpointe subdivision home on the city's southwest side.

The defendant, 25-yearold Robert James-the-First Howard of Dearborn Heights, faces trial for first-degree murder following a threeday preliminary hearing that began in late June and finally concluded Thursday in Westland 18th District Court. Howard, jailed without bond, will face life in prison if he's convicted as charged.

Testimony has indicated that Howard took a taxi cab from Dearborn Heights and arrived in Green's neighborhood shortly before I a.m. May 7. Police believe the two met to talk and that Howard, upset that Green was dating another man, killed her.

Howard initially helped look for their daughter, but he had become a suspect even before her body was found around 6 a.m. May 7.

Even before Westland police Sgt. Steve Borisch knew how Green had died, he said Howard indicated during an interrogation at the Westland police station that? Green had been strangled.

Borisch also testified that Howard admitted taking Green's shoes, which she left just outside her house, and putting them in a sewer drain. When asked why, Howard told Borisch he was afraid his fingerprints would be on the shoes and that he might be blamed for whatever happened to Green.

Westland Police Officer Robert Fruit testified that when he encountered Howard less than 300 yards from where Green's body was found, the suspect was out of breath and sweating profusely. Fruit also said Howard had the same kind of fresh grass clippings on his clothing that police found on Green's body.

"All he kept saying was he had nothing to do with it," Fruit said.

Defense attorney Bertram Johnson indicated that Howard might not have been given a chance to see an attorney when he asked for one, but Borisch said the suspect indicated that he wanted to keep talking even without a lawyer. Borisch said Howard cried and shook his head during the interroga-

Judge Sandra Ference Cicirelli ordered Howard to stand trial in Wayne County Circuit Court after the hearing concluded Thursday. Borisch testified that he believed Howard took a taxi cab to Green's house because he was angry that she was seeing another man.

"I think he was mad at her, and I think he was coming there to kill her," Borisch

4 men face trial in drug shootout

BY DARRELL CLEM OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A court hearing that brought gripping testimony from a drug informant caught up in a gunfight ended Thursday with four defendants facing trial for an alleged cocaine deal that left a fifth suspect dead outside a Westland shopping center.

The informant, whose identity police didn't want published, gave harrowing details of how he was nearly shot when two of the suspects — one in the back seat of his car and one standing outside his window - drew guns as bullets started flying during an Aug. 12 drug the Bob's of Canton-Westland market. "I heard bullets and a lot of screaming," the informant testified, during a preliminary heariug in front of Westland 18th District Judge Sandra Ference

sting that turned sour outside

His testimony and courtroom statements by three police officers convinced Cicirelli to order trials for 50-year-old Garden City defendant Joseph George Boldizar and Detroiters Benjamin Bernard Pringle, 32, Demond Nigel Sanders, 29, and Roberto Debert Reed, 32. A fifth suspect, 28-year-old Brian Thomas of Detroit, was shot dead by police during the gun

All four men, still jailed with $1 million bonds, could face life in prison if they're convicted of multiple felony charges involving robbery and drugs. Reed and Pringle also have additional firearms charges, and Pringle has four counts of assault with intent to murder, amid allegations he fired at the informant and Romulus backup officers who came to his rescue from two surveillance vans.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPTS

The informant testified that he has known Boldizar for several years and that Boldizar wanted to make money from large quantities of drugs. The informant also said at least two earlier attempts to carry out the drug stings had failed prior to the afternoon of Aug. 12.

On that day, the informant said he put three kilograms of cocaine behind the driver seat of a silver Mercedes Benz and drove to meet Boldizar, who police say arrived with Thomas in a Lumina driven by Sanders. In court, the informant referred to Thomas by his nickname of Cheeseburger.

Boldizar got in the front passenger seat of the informant's car while Thomas sat in the back seat. Suddenly, a Buick Rendezvous drove up with suspects identified as gunman Pringle and driver Reed.

Pringle is accused of approaching the car with what the informant described as a long pistol that "looked like a machine gun." The informant said Thomas produced another gun in the back seat, pointed it at his head and demanded that he turn over the cocaine, which was supposed to be sold for $60,000.

The informant, whose car was wired so that surveillance officers in nearby vans could hear, said shots were fired inside his vehicle, and he said he grabbed for Pringle's gun before Pringle allegedly fired more shots outside the vehicle. It was then that the gunfight with surveillance officers erupted.

NO MONEY

The informant testified that he was supposed to make $4,000 to $6,000 for helping Romulus police with the drug sting, but he said in court he didn't get any money because the defendants didn't actually bring any to the scene.

The informant named Boldizar as the defendant who arranged the supposed drug deal turned robbery, but Boldizar shook his head as he sat in the courtroom along with the three other defendants.

Romulus police Sgt. Phillip Czernick testified that he was with the surveillance officers when Pringle emerged from the Buick Rendezvous with a semiautomatic handgun that he fired into the informant's car and then at officers. Pringle was shot and wounded, and like Boldizar he was captured at the Pringle was initially hospitalized but had been released prior to Thursday's court hearing.

Police took Sanders and Reed into custody in Detroit within two days of the shootout.

Westland police Sgt. Steve Borisch testified that Reed told him during an interview that he was supposed to take cocaine to Detroit and cook it up into crack cocaine.

Another Westland officer, Burke Lange, said Sanders gave him details about the robbery during a separate interview.

Misguided spending hurts district t's important to note that I haven't read the column submitted to the Westland Observer by the Education Action Group's Kyle Olson. In really need to every time he inserts himself into a local bargaining situation he touts the same anti-union messages about the Michigan Education Association and the Michigan Education Special Services Association (MESSA).

If Mr. Olson had taken the time to check the facts before he intruded himself into the Wayne-Westland teachers' contract negotiations, he would have found that it is the district's misguided spending priorities that are truly hurting our students and our community.

Since Mr. Olson isn't at the bargaining table - and doesn't even live on this side of the state - he doesn't know that the MESSA plan the teachers are proposing is $40,000 cheaper than the current insurance package.

If Mr. Olson had done his homework, he would know that teachers have saved the district millions of dollars over the past two years by reducing their wages and benefits. This, after the superintendent promised them that administrators would lead from the top in taking cuts. Their cuts still haven't happened, despite the district's claims of poverty.

Because of those claims, the teachers asked MEA economist Ruth Beier to do a financial analysis of the district. Using data that the district itself provided to the state, it became apparent that for the past three years the district has manufactured a deficit. In reality, Wayne-Westland has money, but the administration chooses to buy "things" instead of spending the money on students and the resources necessary to give them a great public education.

By repeatedly moving money from its general fund into a capital fund, the district can tell the community it has no money while it goes ahead and builds two field houses and buys stateof-the-art artificial turf — not typical behavior of a district in financial crisis.

And there's no reason for this shell game. For the 2006-07 school year, the district had a surplus of more than $1,5 million. It received an additional $2.8 million for capital purchases and also used voter-approved debt fund revenue. Flush with money, it then transferred $2.4 million to its capital fund and manufactured a general fund deficit of $860,442!

Meanwhile, class sizes have dramatically increased. With 36 students in some elementary classes and 38 in high school classes, there isn't enough time for one-on-one instruction. Sometimes there aren't even enough desks, lab stations or computers for every student. But the superintendent claims that large class sizes have had no negative impact on test scores. Unfortunately, the data he uses was gathered at a time when class sizes were smaller.

It becomes clear that either the district doesn't budget well. or it has its priorities in the wrong place. What they have created is a school district that has the second highest general fund balance (essentially a savings account) in the county; spends a smaller portion of its budget on instructional compensation than all but six other county districts; and ranks in the top third of the county in number of pupils per teacher. Those are facts — things Mr. Olson usually avoids.

All this begs the question, why is this guy from Muskegon writing columns in our community newspaper? The answer is simple — Kyle Olson and his Education Action Group friends despise unions and public schools.

Who are some of those friends? One is disgraced political adviser Dick Morris, who frequently tag teams with Olson to bash MESSA and anything else related to organized labor.

Another is EAG's incorporator Eric Doster, who is a conservative attorney, activist and political candidate. He serves as general counsel for the state Republican Party and has many ties to former gubernatorial candidate Dick DeVos and his anti-public school, voucherloving organization, the Great Lakes Education Project.

Unfortunately we don't know much about Olson's other anti-union, anti-public school conspirators — while he has no compunction about decrying union PAC dollars going to political candidates, he refuses to disclose who is funding his operations.

Under the EAG banner, Olson has butted into bargaining situations all over the state, ranging from Grand Rapids to the small town of Gladstone in the Upper Peninsula. In both cases, his out-of-town "help" wasn't welcome - representatives from the union AND the school district denounced his union hate-mongering in both communities. (You can learn more about EAG by going to www. eagtruth.com.)

So, Mr. Olson, since you're not from around here and don't know anything about this bargaining situation or this community, let me educate you about what's on the minds of Wayne-Westland teachers.

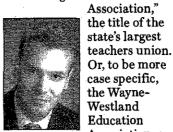

We're all looking forward to the start of a new school year. One in which we can help students succeed. One in which we're supported for the hard work we do. And one in which our administration is truthful about its priorities and its finances.

We want what's best for our students, our schools, our families and our community. And we're going to stand united shoulder to shoulder with parents, community leaders and our union brothers and sisters for what we know is right.

Nancy Strachan is president of the Wayne-Westland Education Association, which represents the district's 850 teachers.

t's amazing how deceptive the name of an organization can be. One classic example is the "Michigan Education Association, a Kyle Olson subgroup of the state association. That carefully selected moniker has a reassuring ring to it. Anyone who cares about kids would get a warm, fuzzy feeling to believe there's a group working throughout the state to improve public education. That's exactly the strategy of the teachers union - to fool taxpayers into believing that instructional quality and student advancement are the group's primary goals. It's pure deception.

Recent headlines tell us that the Wayne-Westland teachers union is preparing for a strike that could potentially delay the start of the school year. The union defends its pending action by screaming that its members haven't had a raise in several years. It also claims that negotiations with the school board remain hopelessly stalled, and only the threat of an illegal work stoppage might produce progress.

Thus it becomes clear that educational improvement is clearly not at the top of the union's priority list — unless it's somehow related to the union's ability to maintain outrageously expensive insurance coverage at a time when the district can least afford it.

The leadership of the teachers union understands well that public education is in big trouble. The financial pie has continuously been devoting a bigger piece to benefits, forcing school boards to make increasingly difficult decisions about the smartest and fairest way to carve it up.

Sensible people would agree that responsible school boards will save as much of the pie as possible for classroom activities and materials that directly benefit children. Perhaps we need to remind ourselves that children are the only reason that public education exists. But in the Wayne-Westland district, like so many others around the state, the teachers union is intent on securing a bigger piece of the pie for itself. It's not like the school board hasn't tried to satisfy the union, within the context of its financial constraints. The board's latest contract proposal offers most teachers in the district salary increases ranging between 4 and 6 percent.

Education lost in union-district clash

Not a bad offer for employees in a zero-growth industry, where costs continue to skyrocket while the checks from the state cannot keep up. There are lots of employees in the state's manufacturing sector who would love that type of raise, but have the good sense to realize that it might prove to be the final nail in their companies' coffin. Yet the WWEA presses on with its demands, threatening to form a picket line in front of the schoolhouse door just as the kids are trying on their new school clothes.

The main sticking point seems to be health insurance for teachers, an issue that's been forcing a wedge between unions and school boards throughout the state. The union appears desperate to preserve its lucrative insurance coverage provided by MESSA, owned and controlled by the teachers union itself. Taxpayers should know that MESSA pumps millions of dollars into the MEA's coffers every year, which likely are used to strong-arm school boards at the bargaining table.

But the simple fact is that the Wayne-Westland district can no longer afford lucrative MESSA coverage for its staff. The statistics speak for themselves. Under current financial conditions, the school district is projecting a $13.3 million budget deficit by 2010. Yet last year, the district spent $14.3 million on health insurance for its employees. That represents 12.2 percent of the money the district received to educate students.

The idea is not to cut the quality of insurance coverage. It's to provide more affordable coverage. The Legislature recognized the stranglehold that MESSA has on Michigan school districts and tried to address the problem. As part of last fall's state budget package, districts were legally required to seek bids for employee insurance, in hopes of giving school boards a way to escape the MESSA dollar drain.

But the law has yet to make much of a difference, as the union continues to pick taxpayer pockets by forcing its own insurance carrier down our throats. Its strategy is understandable. If MESSA is sent packing in one district, the trend is sure to spread, and the MEA will lose one of its most lucrative moneymaking machines.

So now it's up to the teachers of the Wayne-Westland district. Do they continue to squeeze the district for every penny they can get in salary and benefits, until the well runs dry, or do they live up to the noble name of their union, work in partnership with the school board, and come up with sensible settlement that allows kids into the classrooms when the bell rings in a matter of days?

Let's hope the answer to that question is not found in the words of Albert Shanker. the president of the American Federation of Teachers: "When schoolchildren start paying dues, that's when I'll start representing the interests of schoolchildren."

Kyle Olson is vice president of strategy for Education Action Group (www.educationactiongroup.org), a Muskegon-based nonprofit promoting school spending reform.

Both sides have exchanged words over the course of negotiations, with the union claiming the school district has failed to negotiate in good faith and refused to schedule new talks after Thursday in a press release issued by the Michigan Education Association late Thursday morning.

Baracy, however, said the press release was "not truthful" and reiterated a statement he made Tuesday that the "district is willing to "go around the clock."

"We will continue to negotiate in good faith, this is now in the hands of the mediator," he said.

The school board met in closed session Thursday evening, and the union used it as an opportunity to rally outside the district's administrative offices on Marquette in Westland.

"I hope the school board can hear us and tell their team to get to the table Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday and wrap this up," Baran told a crowd of some 200 teachers who carried picket signs reading "Teachers deserve respect" and "All children deserve small classes."

"We still have hope. We still have a couple of days and I hope with the board's support, we'll get a contract."

"We want you back in school, we know that in your hearts that's what you want," Strachan said. "We want you back with a fair and equitable contract."

The rally came a day after the district sent a letter to teachers on Wednesday, stating that the board was "disappointed" that the WWEA leadership may call a strike. The letter informed teachers that "whether the WWEA leadership calls an illegal strike, the board will expect all employees to report for work as scheduled."

It also stated that WWEA members who do not report for work or who report but do not perform all their duties will be engaging in illegal conduct."

State law prohibits strikes by public employees, including teachers, who could face penalties ranging from fines to firing for breaking the law.

MEA attorney Bill Young told the teachers that the letter "was nothing more than what the union has seen in other places."

"It's just a letter, just a bully tactic," he said. "We want you in class on Tuesday with a fair contract."

Both sides also are using their Web sites to promote their cases. Thursday the school district posted a question-andanswer brief about negotiations on its Web site at www.wwcsd. net. The union is presenting MEA economist Ruth Beier's financial analysis on the MEA Web site at www.mea.org/press.

Baran told the teachers that the union has the support of the UAW and there were several handmade signs urging people to buy American-made cars.

"They (the UAW) made the signs. They're supporting us, and we appreciate that," said Sue Carlson, a Spanish teacher at Marshall Middle School. Reminded of the school district's slogan, Baran told the teachers that "great futures do start right here, not just for kids, but for the teachers."

"There's 900 of us, we'll all go out together, we all come in together," she said.

We hope the board will tell its team to meet through the weekend," she added. "For sure we know that if we don't bargain, we won't have an agreement by Tuesday. Our teachers want an agreement."

Teenager gets jail time in death of cat

BY DARRELL CLEM OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Westland teenager who admitted he sodomized a cat that was left dead has been sentenced to nine months in jail and placed on probation for five years, authorities confirmed.

Todd Allan Treviso, 18, was sentenced Thursday in Wayne County Circuit Court after he earlier pleaded guilty to sodomizing a male cat named

"I'd like to see him spend more time in jail," said police Sgt. Debra Mathews, who investigated the case.

Former pastor Neil Carrick has told the Observer that he had welcomed Treviso, a homeless teenager, into his home when Treviso was accused of sodomizing a neighbor's cat, killing it and leaving it dead outdoors.

"It's beyond belief," Carrick said after the cat was found dead in early April. Magic's paws had been bound together with duct tape and a sock had been stuck in his mouth, which also was taped up. Carrick said he had given the homeless teenager a place to stay after his daughter saw him walking in the cold near Palmer and Wayne roads.

Westland police have said that Treviso was accused of sodomizing the cat with his fingers.

Treviso was ordered to stand trial in April after he gave up his right to a preliminary hearing. His decision to enter a plea averted a trial on charges of sodomy and torturing/killing a cat. If convicted at trial, Treviso could have faced penalties ranging up to life in prison.

Airport prepares for opening of new North Terminal

STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Airport Authority is ready to roll out the red carpet for Detroit Metro Airport's new North Terminal.

While not as splashy as the McNamara Terminal on the airport's south end, the North Terminal is a sparkling improvement over the aging Smith and Berry terminals it is replacing.

'The simplicity of this building is part of its beauty," Michael Conway, the airport's director of public affairs, said at a media tour of the new facility Wednesday.

The $431 million terminal is scheduled to officially open Sept. 17. Wednesday, construction workers were busy putting the final touches in place for a weekend of previews Friday-Saturday, Sept. 5-6.

"Detroit Metro Airport is one of southeast Michigan's greatest assets, and the Airport Authority is eager to share this new addition to our award-winning facilities with the community we serve," WCAA CEO Lester Robinson said.

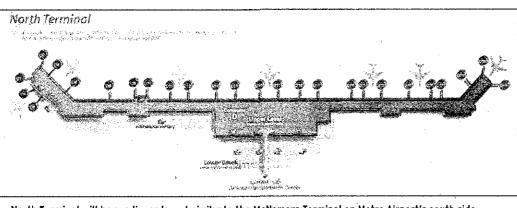

Until the opening of the McNamara Terminal for Northwest Airlines and its affiliate airlines in 2002, Detroit Metro Airport was regularly criticized for its dated, aging and inefficient facilities. One critic said Detroit Metro ranked just ahead of the Calcutta airport as the worst in the world. The sleek McNamara Terminal began to change the opinion of writers and fliers. The 26-gate North Terminal will serve the airlines not affiliated with Northwest: Southwest, United, Air Canada, U.S. Airways, Spirit, Frontier, AirTran and USA 3000. In addition, Lufthansa and Royal Jordanian will move from McNamara to the new terminal.

Conway said the Airport Authority set four major goals for the new building: safety, convenience, efficiency for air-

It won't be long before jets are pulling up to the new terminal.

The North Terminal will have a linear layout similar to the McNamara Terminal on Metro Airport's south side.

lines and expandability. The North Terminal's long, linear design replaces the old-fashioned pier design of the Smith and Davey terminals, which caused delays as airliners had to wait for other airliners to pull out.

"In linear style, aircraft can move in and out of gates independent of each other," Conway

The North Terminal will not have a people mover as at McNamara, but it will have a moving sidewalk. There will be restrooms at the end of each moving sidewalk and convenient to the gates. The gates will have sleek and durable Herman Miller seating.

"We get lots of compliments on gate seating and it's a Michigan company," Conway said.

Thirty concessions will serve the facility, including such name brands at Borders, Brookstone, Champps, TGI Friday's, Ruby Tuesday, Hockeytown Cafe, McDonald's and Xpress Spa.

Conway said the new terminal doesn't have the rich detail of McNamara, but it will be more colorful and more lightfilled.

We did a lot with color; we didn't have a McNamara budget," he said.

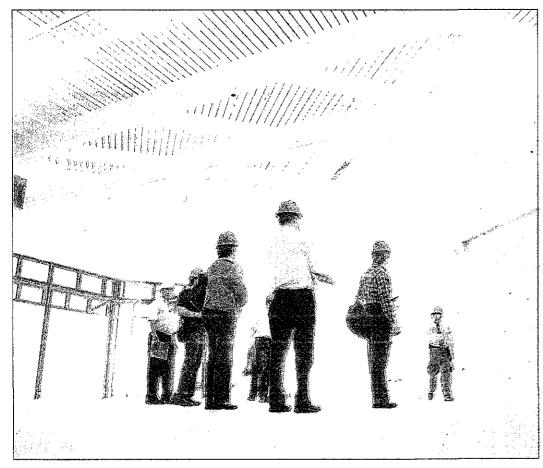

But the airport did receive a Voluntary Airport Low Emissions grant of $1.7 million from the Federal Aviation Administration. Funding from the grant was used for infrastructure to deliver fuel, termperature-controlled air and auxiliary electrical power directly to aircraft parked at the boarding gates. The equipment will cut down on emissions from mobile fuel trucks and the preconditioned air and electrical power units will reduce the reliance on on-board auxiliary power units and diesel-powered ground power units.

A ground transportation center will accommodate all commercial vehicles loading and unloading, such as car rental, taxi cabs, parking lot shuttles and limousines.

Demolition of the old Davey Terminal to make room for construction of the North Terminal began in 2006. Smith and Berry terminals will be decommissioned. Smith Concourse C will be demolished immediately to make way for gates. Concourses A and B need to come down to make room for a major deicing pad. The Smith terminal was opened in 1958, when airlines began to shift passenger service from Willow Run Airport.

No timeline has been set on bringing down the central Smith terminal, which is used for the Airport Authority's administrative offices.

Conway said the authority is considering the possibility of selling naming rights to the new terminal, as was done in naming Comerica Park and Ford Field. He said a final decision hasn't been made.

The new terminal's design isn't as flashy as the McNamara Terminal, but will be a major improvement over the aged

Public previews planned for terminal

The Wayne County Airport Authority (WCAA) will soon offer the public its first glimpse inside the new North Terminal at Detroit Metropolitan Airport (DTW) as it hosts a series of preview events in advance of the terminal's scheduled opening Sept. 17.

Events planned are: ■ VIP Charity Preview Event — Friday, Sept. 5

A charity preview 7-11 p.m. inside the new terminal to benefit five local nonprofit organizations. This exclusive preview event will offer guests their first chance to see the new, 26-gate facility up-close before it opens to travelers in mid-September. Guests will hear music from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Quartet, enjoy a strolling dinner by Metro Detroit caterer, Forte Bellanger, as well as musical entertainment from "Alizma." Proceeds from the event ... will benefit the Charles H. Wright Museum of African-American History, First Step, The Salvation Army, Habitat for Humanity and Traveler's Aid Society of Metropolitan Detroit.

For more details regarding this charity preview event, charities and tickets, visit www.airportpreview.com.

■ Community Open House

- Saturday, Sept. 6 All members of the public can visit the new terminal, free of charge, at a community open house 1-5 p.m. While participants explore the new North Terminal and learn about this exciting new addition to DTW, they will also enjoy music, dance, games, a scavenger hunt and prizes provided by Radio Disney. In addition, the event will feature various high-tech interactive displays including flight simulators, Rock Band, Dance Dance Revolution, Dancing Heads and much more.

Attendees will have the chance to win several prizes, including a plane load of gas in gas cards, a trip to Disney World, several round-trip airline tickets and various other giveaways. Refreshments will also be served.

Although the event is free, reservations are recommended. For more information regarding this community open house and to register, visit www.airportopenhouse.com.

■ Family Day Preview

- Saturday, Sept. 6 Prior to opening its doors to the public Sept. 6, the Airport Authority will first welcome the friends and family of all of its employees and those of its contractors and vendors who designed, built or otherwise contributed to the planning. design and construction of this new facility at a private event that morning. Details are provided at www.dtwfamily.com.

daptive. Opportunist. Combine those worus and we have a powerful catalyst for changing wildlife behavior. That is the way it often is when wildlife blends with the suburban fringe of wildness in this tale of woodpeckers and bears.

On the very same day I discovered a downy woodpecker in a near comical, yet successful attempt at halfhovering and half-perching on the slippery edge of my hummingbird feeder, the Michigan DNR confirmed a black bear rooting about a potato field in nearby Washtenaw County. Both creatures recognized opportunity and adapted to our behavior. And learned from it. The woodpecker returns every day for his sweet treat.

Wildlife biologist Julie Oakes of the Michigan DNR reminded me that several years ago a black bear was hit by a car on I-75 near Flint, another made it across I-69 and wandered about Lapeer County for awhile. and credible rumors of black bear surfaced earlier this year in Hadley Township on the Oakland County line. None of this should be surprising for black bears, espeadaptable carnivores. Their reasoning ability, longterm memory, omnivorous food habits, dexterity, speed and strength coupled with their ability to travel unseen along bushy roadside edges and waterways means it is time for us to Be Bear Aware. Aware, not panicked, for most of the time bears avoids humans.

Oakes is correct when she states, "Black bears are not aggressive like grizzly bears, they will usually turn tail and run, if you make noises and scare them off." Usually is a key word. There are well-documented accounts of defensive (protecting cubs) and predatory (they want you for dinner) black bear attacks (not in Michigan) and bear-human encounters are likely to Great Smokey Mountains. Nine million visitors annually. Approximately 1,600 black bears. Eighth bear attacks in a decade. Two fatal predatory attacks. The fact of the matter remains clear: Aggressive encounters between people and black bears are extremely rare. But once bears associate people with food, they lose their instinctive fear of humans and conflicts are inevitable. In the colorful new DNR brochure, "Preventing Bear Problems in Michigan" they changing dynamics are noted, "Black bears may be found almost anywhere in Michigan, but are most likely to be seen in the northern two thirds of the state." DNR tips to avoid

Perhaps bear baiting is brew for conflict, for that is feeding bears. Human foods and bait piles increase the potential for bears becoming fearless and habituated to humans, a fact other states recognize. New Mexico (they had fatal predatory attacks) notes that 70 percent of bear-human conflicts are human-trash based. Whatever a bear (or nectar happy woodpecker) learned from its experiences will influence its behavior in the next encounter.

Here is your two-word primer if you find yourself face to face with a snarling mass of muscle, fur and teeth, a predatory black bear attack: Fight back. For if you play dead during a black bear attack the bear is likely to eat you. Better yet, avoid trouble in the first place. If approached by a black bear, never turn and run. If you act like prey, you become prey. Safety tips at www.bebearaware.org. Now let's go camping and fire up the barbecue.

Livonia teenager sentenced 5-15 years for traffic fatality

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, August 31, 2008

Daniel Andreassi, 16, of Livonia, wipes away tears during his sentencing held Thursday at the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in Detroit,

STAFF WRITER

A Stevenson High School student was sentenced to prison in connection with a traffic accident outside a Livonia golf course that left one dead, another injured and a child fatherless.

Daniel Andreassi was sentenced to five to 15 years in prison Thursday for the May 18 death of Anthony Cosenza, 20, of Westland, in a traffic accident.

Circuit Court Judge Deborah Thomas handed down the sentence, agreed upon in a plea deal, after telling the fiancee and family of Cosenza that while the pain never goes away, it does ebb.

'The pain differs," she said, mentioning that she suffered a similar loss. "It's not always as intense, it differs."

Andreassi, 16, was taken away to begin serving his sentence with credit given for 77 days already spent in custody. He will be eligible for parole in five years.

In the plea agreement, Andreassi pleaded no contest as an adult on charges of manslaughter with a motor vehicle, operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated causing death, operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated causing serious bodily harm, and felonious driving with sentences to run concurrently. In exchange for the plea, the charges of second degree murder and minor in posses-Cosenza's mother, Marie, addressed the court before the sentence was read. She said the last time she saw her son alive was May 17 when he dropped his children off to go to work.

"When Tony died, my heart broke," she said. "It broke four more times when I saw his brothers react.", Amy Adams, Cosenza's fiancee and the mother of his son, said Andreassi's actions on that night affected several

"The loss of my fiancee and my son's father is immeasurable," she said. "Tony never had the chance to see his son grow and crawl. Daniel's family has the chance to see him again."

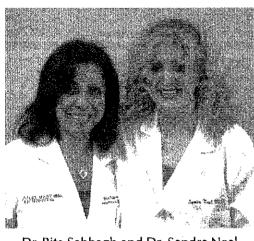

Before the sentence was read, Andreassi expressed his regrets and his wishes that things could be different.

"I am sorry, not a day goes by that I don't wish this never happened," he said. "I hope you will be able to forgive me because I will never be able to forgive Andreassi's attorney, Jerome Sabbota, said this is a case where no one is going to be pleased.

"The victims weren't ecstatic, they thought the sentence was too light," he said. "(Andreassi's) parents wanted him sentenced as a minor. One person is dead, another was seriously injured and a 16-yearold boy was sent to prison. Nobody won."

No easy resolutions for teachers talks

With the advent of state legislation in the 1960s, teachers began formally to organize labor unions, something previously prohibited for public employees. By 1967, dozens of bargaining units in the state marked Labor Day - and the start of school — by going on strike.

While strikes weren't - and still aren't legal, school districts have had to go to court to compel teachers to return to the classroom.

More than 30 years later, some area school districts still see contentious negotiations. Teachers in the Wayne-Westland School District have called for a strike Monday, but both sides began meeting with a state mediator on Thursday.

Other districts, like Plymouth-Canton, say they have found a better way. That district recently arrived at contract settlements with its nine unions, using what is called interest-based bargaining. That process uses a mediator in less adversarial discussions.

Regardless of the bargaining tactics, the woeful state economy and resultant small increases in state aid are having an impact on school

"Things haven't gotten much better for Michigan school districts," said Royal Oak Supt. Thomas Moline. That district was able to give teachers "a very small" salary increase.

One district that has faced contentious negotiations is Southfield Public Schools, which is negotiating it's first contract after privatizing bus, cafeteria and custodial jobs in the face of financial problems.

Unions in poorly funded districts know their bargaining chips are few. While discussion points have been exchanged in South Redford, both sides have agreed to delay serious bargaining until a small, $88 per student increase in state aid is received.

That's interesting because finance officials in all districts report that salaries and benefits comprise the bulk of their budgets. Critics of teacher unions claim that state aid increases go toward salaries, not programs. Union officials counter, however, that teachers are responsible for delivering those programs.

The situation is far worse in the Redford Union district, where teachers have gone for three years without a contract. Top of the scale teachers have gone for five years without a wage increase, and unfair labor practices have been filed by both sides.

Union members are aware of the Redford Union district's plight, operating in a deficit, but the call for concessions leaves them bitter.

The better-funded Troy School District still is facing tough negotiations. Teachers have made some previous concessions, particularly in the area of health care. Their contract has been extended until Oct. 3, as bargainers negotiate everything from the school calendar to the financial package.

The contrasts show that challenging labor negotiations are experienced by districts both small and large, well-funded and not.

"We're absolutely miles apart," said Wayne-Westland Education Association President Nancy Strachan. "We're trying to be reasonable and make reasonable offers." The problem is, what is reasonable?

That will be for each district to decide, but perhaps equally important is finding a process that works well for both sides. After all, 40 years of bargaining have shown contentious negotiations aren't productive.

The Plymouth-Canton district approach, in which both sides accept ownership for issues, may not work for everyone. But it's a place to start.

Preserving farmland ultimately benefits Michigan's economy

s I travel around the state talking with farmers and promoting Michigan's agriculture industry, I consider all the things that can be done to further enhance the role agriculture and farming has in the state. With the current economic changes in Michigan, I believe agriculture will have an even bigger role in the state's economy as it continues to be the second largest economic driver in the state generating nearly $64 Don Koivisto billion for Michigan's economy annually. Land is fundamental to maintaining and enhancing agriculture's place in the Michigan's economy. It's where it all begins. It makes sense to preserve our land base so current, and future, Michigan farmers can continue to produce the wide variety of crops already grown

Prior to the implementation of the state's Farmland and Open Space Preservation Program (PA 116) in the early 1970s, Michigan had already lost an astounding four million acres of farmland. The tax incentives provided by PA 116 have significantly slowed the rate of farmland loss. In fact, the program curAlthough our farmland preservation program has been successful, it is not the entire solution. Michigan is still losing on average 30,000 acres of farmland per year. No one program or activity can preserve all of Michigan's farmland. But a combination of activities can help keep Michigan agriculture viable and a major player in the state's economy.

rently protects more than 3.3 million acres of Michigan farmland.

Although our farmland preservation program has been successful, it is not the entire solution. Michigan is still losing on average 30,000 acres of farmland per year. No one program or activity can preserve all of Michigan's farmland. But a combination of activities can help keep Michigan agriculture viable and a major player in the state's economy.

First, one of the best ways to safeguard farmland is to enhance the basic economic vitality of Michigan agriculture. Farms that can make money will remain farms and the children of the farm families will stay in the family business. We can encourage value added agriculture by improving access to commodity markets — locally, nationally and abroad.

With today's energy costs, buying locally produced products is particularly important. Secondly, expansion of programs such as PA land owned by part-time farmers would help to protect up to 50 percent more of Michigan's farmland. Enhanced funding for permanent protection programs such as the Michigan Agricultural Preservation Fund and programs to help farmers pass their farm on to future

> Farms don't just supply the food we eat and enjoy every day; they represent the second largest industry in the state, are responsible for one million jobs, and provide an important "export" function for the state — exporting crops and importing dollars back into the state and local communities. Businesses that export a commodity and import capital, particularly from a land based resource available year after year, are becoming increasingly vital in an economy where many of the new generations would be of great benefit.

116, which target full-time farmers, to include wealth from other regions.

The availability of water in Michigan places the state and agriculture in a unique position nationally. It's predicted that water resources in the Great Plains and in central California will significantly diminish in the not-too-distant future. Michigan's position in the Great Lakes basin, plus the availability of quality farmland, will be the key to the state's agricultural economic future — if we can only hold on to the farmland we have.

In addition to economic benefits, farms also provide valuable environmental benefits to communities, providing storm water catchment and flood control, wildlife habitat, and open space. Farms also act as a positive tax revenue source for local governments, since studies show farmers typically pay more in property taxes than they use for services.

The bottom line is agriculture is good for Michigan, good for local government, and good for communities. Preserving our existing farmland base can positively position Michigan today, in the future, and help secure Michigan as a major economic player in the Midwest and the nation.

IRA because we really don't need the money. I'm leaning toward cash. What are your thoughts?

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, August 31, 2008

It is a slam dunk. You should take the cash. The main reason is taxes.

The issue for you is the tax consequences on the inherited money. If you inherit the IRA, that $75,000 is eventually going to be taxed as ordinary income. Therefore, of the $75,000 that you receive, more than $25,000 would have to be paid in taxes netting you only $50,000.

On the other hand, if you take the $75,000 in cash you will pay zero income taxes.

When it comes to inheritance there is a lot of confusion about taxes. Part of the confusion is there are different taxes that enter into the equation. There can be income tax and estate tax consequences.

In the typical situation, when someone receives money from an estate there are no estate taxes. Estate taxes are levied on the estate itself and not the beneficiary. However, when someone does inherit money, there can be income tax consequences.

Dear Rick: About a year ago, I got suckered into buying a variable annuity and all it's done is lose money. I want out. I talked to the person who sold it to me and he said if I sell I have to pay thousands of dollars as a penalty. I am outraged. Is there anything I can do?

Anyone who reads my column knows I am not a fan of variable annuities. They typically have very high fees, adverse tax consequences and substantial early withdrawal fees. In addition, they do not offer investors the flexibility that they need in managing their portfolio.

That being said, once you're in a variable annuity, you have few options with regards to liquidation. You can choose to bite the bullet, pay the penalty and get out. I recognize that this is a drastic measure, however, you should recognize that in a variable annuity you pay high ongoing fees, high management fees and insurance

There is, however, another option. If you believe the salesperson misrepresented the policy, you potentially have legal recourse. There have been many cases where financial salespeople have been held liable for misrepresenting investment products. If you believe there has been some misrepresentation, consult with an attorney.

If you do decide to consult an attorney, I recommend dealing with one who will take the case on a contingency fee basis. That means he/she gets paid only if you get paid. Therefore, you are not necessarily putting good money after bad.

Schoolcraft unveils Biomedical Tech Center

Schoolcraft College will hold an open house and tours for its new Biomedical Technology Center, 3-5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 5.

The 48,000-square-foot, $12.5 million building will bring together the college's science, math, medicine and technology programs. The center will focus on the STEM and GRIN curriculum. STEM stands for science, technology, engineering and mathematics and GRIN stands for genetics, robotics, information systems and nanotechnology.

The building features four state-of-the art laboratories, a learning theater and SIM man for demonstrating anatomy.

The official ribbon cutting will take place at 3:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served and music will be provided by Barton Polot, music faculty member and director of the Synthesizer Ensemble, and several students.

Attendees will have the opportunity to see demonstrations in cellular and molecular biology lab, the anatomy and physiology lab, the imaging and analysis lab, the biomedical engineering technology lab and the SIM Man in the Learning Theater.

Sustainability is an important feature of this new building and several displays and stops along the guided tours will point out several of these features. Schoolcraft College is on Haggerty Road in Livonia between Six and Seven Mile. The new building is on the east side of the campus behind the Applied Science building.

Stevenson survives Pats in OT thriller, 41-40

Stevenson's Johnny Pauley being chase down by Franklin's Michael Gadsby.

Kicking game the difference

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER SPORTS WRITER

For season football openers, this one did not disappoint.

Division 1 state runner-up Livonia

Stevenson used the lyrics Thursday night from an old Bachman-Turner Overdrive hit, "Takin' care of business, but workin' overtime," to fend off crosstown rival Livonia Franklin, 41-40.

Junior running back Austin White rushed for 240 yards on 22 carries and five touchdowns, but it was Jonny Myshock's extra point that decided the game as the Spartans pulled out of the victory in a rematch of last year's state playoff quarterfinal (also won by Stevenson, 10-7, on a Myshock field goal).

Franklin used a timeout to try and freeze the Stevenson kicker, who made 6-of-7 on the night (one was blocked), but to no avail.

"Jonny takes his kicking very seriously, it's a big part of the game, and it makes a big difference when the game is on the line," Stevenson coach Tim Gabel said. "He was very calm after Franklin called that timeout."

The Patriots, meanwhile, missed three PATs, including two in the first half along with a critical one-pointer in overtime after senior running back David Fortin bull-dozed his way up the middle for seven yards and a TD to put his team ahead 40-34.

Stevenson, however, tied it at 40-all when senior slotback Wade Stahl scored on a 7-yard counter trap.

"In close games it comes down to the little things and that's why they (Stevenson) won," Franklin coach Chris Kelbert said. "We had a low snap (from center) and our holder had to set it down, it threw the timing off – it was too low and our kicker never had a chance to get it up."

Stevenson's Joe Swingle got a piece of Jordan Williamson's kick, putting the Spartans in position to win it.

Meanwhile, it was a wild first half as Stevenson took a 20-19 lead into the locker room.

Franklin stopped the Spartans on their initial offensive series of the game, but suffered a critical blow when Fortin, the Patriots' star running back who missed the entire 2007 regular season with a broken arm suffered in the opener, limped off the field with a high ankle sprain after attempting to make a tackle from his Overtime and a chance for a win eluded Wayne Memorial by a half-yard in Thursday's season football opener at Waterford Kettering as the host Captains escaped with a 14-7 triumph.

Back-up quarterback Nick Mills, who replaced starter Nick Kostora after he was injured early in the third quarter, hit brother Matt Mills on a pass, but the Wayne receiver was stopped just shy of the goal line as time expired.

The loss spoiled the coaching debut of Wayne's Kevin Weber. Kettering quarterback Kevin Truitt scored on a 1-yard run with 9:49 left in the first quarter to cap a six-play, 61-yard touchdown drive. Ryan DeCovich added the first of his two extra points for the Captains.

Wayne tied it up with 2:51 left in the opening period as Kostora scored on a 28-yard run followed by Jesse Dorow's extra point. The drive covered 62 yards in nine plays.

In the third period, Kettering marched 80 yards capped by Truitt's 6-yard TD run.

Wayne couldn't take advantage of four Kettering turnovers as C.J. Johnson picked off a pair of passes in the second quarter and Jake White recovered a fumble in the opening period. Parnell Holliday also had a and Kensington Conference title in the newly-formed Kensington Lakes Activities Association.

Coach Sue Tatro lost her best runner in All-Stater Rachel McFarlane, the Western Lakes Activities Association champion who placed 15th in Division 1. But Tatro returns three other first-team All-Observer state meet performers including junior Sara Kroll (41st), junior Amanda Southwell (45th) and senior Alyssa Mira (48th).

Looking to challenge Churchill this season is Livonia Stevenson, which returns three-time All-Observer pick Courtney Calka, a senior who placed 17th at last year's state meet after capturing the regional and finishing runner-up in the WLAA. Calka has a personal best of 17 minutes, 55 seconds for the 5,000 meters. Junior Victoria Saferian, a second-team All-Area pick, also returns for the Spartans, who took 18th in last year's Division 1 team standings under coach Nancy Gavoor.

The Spartans will also have some new competition to deal with entering the Central Division of the KLAA joining the likes of Novi, Northville, South Lyon East, South Lyon and Salem. Livonia Franklin, led by Megan McPherson and Mallory Church, will be joined by Westland John Glenn, Wayne, Memorial, Canton, Churchill and Plymouth in the KLAA's South Division. Promising newcomers: Tiffany Lamble, Fr.; Brittany Milican, Jr.; Brittany Bjorklund's 2008 outlook: "We return our entire varsity lineup from last season and have a record number of girls on the team (29). The team also worked very hard this summer to improve their strength and speed. McPherson is leading the way right now and we have a lot of girls coming after her including Mallory Church, Dilley, Lamble and Wickens. It's going to be a constant battle to be on the varsity, which is what our team needs. With the changes in the league and division, the team is excited to battle it out in dual meets and become a formidable opponent by year's end. This group should be running very fast by the end of the season, and it will be exciting to watch.

Promising newcomers: Molly Robinett, Sr.; Audra Flores, Soph.; Elizabeth Burns, Fr.; Bisi Ajetanmobi, Soph.

MÉGowan's 2008 outlook: "We return four of our top five runners from last season, which allows us some great leadership for our younger runners. We have 15 girls out right now, and all of them look promising. Our only big loss is Stacey Richardson, who has been our number one runner for the last three years, but Nikula, Bailey and Cenolli have really been pushing themselves all summer. I'm excited to see what this team can do this year. If we can stay healthy, we should be able to run pretty. can do this year. If we can stay healthy, we should be able to run pretty Promising newcomers: Sarah Maynard, Soph.; Erin Lyle, Fr.; Jessica Rice, : Kelsey Krueger, Fr.: Brittney Maynard, Jr.

Fabris' 2008 outlook: "I do feel we're stronger than last year. We have a nice blend of experienced and youthful talent, which should lead to better results this year. Sarah Maynard looks in good shape and has been a hard worker for us. Despite this being her first year of high school cross country, she looks very experienced. Mirlam Pranschke looks good as well, and Danielle Voetberg is in much better shape than last year. Erin Lyle has a lot of potential, but she's still learning. Every veteran on the team looks to be in better shape than they were last year, which just shows how committed they are to doing better this year. After 2007 ended, I did a little self-reflection and said I wanted a team in my own image – hard-working, gutsy and gritty. While it's early, this team is looking like that. That alone should breed them more success. We're heading to a regional where we should be more competitive. The girls should have a good chance at qualifying as long as they continue to Hartland proved to be no valentines Thursday night, racking up a total of 471 yards en route to a convincing 47-14 football win over visiting Livonia Churchill in the 2008 season opener for both teams.

The Eagles took a commanding 28-7 first quarter lead and never looked back as quarterback Chris Cagle figured in all four scores, including 14-yard run, along with touchdown passes of 8 and 48 yards to Matt Poches; along with a another 14-vard toss t Travonn Jones.

Zach Minor booted all four extra points.

Churchill scored with 2:54 left in the first quarter on Grant Morgan's TD pass to Jeff Ricketts, cutting the deficit to 21-7. The score was set up by Ricketts' 35-yard kickoff return coupled with a Hartland 15-yard penalty for a late hit.

The Eagles scored again with 2:32 left in the first half to make it 35-7 as Cagle threw his fourth TD pass of the night, 14 yards to John Stevens.

Cagle hooked up with Poches again with 7:38 remaining in the third quarter on a 10-yard scoring pass for his fifth TD throw. Matt Kenwell's 9-yard TD run with 11:54 to go in the final quarter completed the scoring for the Eagles, who had 16 first downs to Churchill's eight.

Tony Frizzell's 17-vard scoring run with 6:33 remaining in the game completed the scoring for Churchill. Jeff Ricketts' was Churchill's top receiver with four catches for 62 yards. The Chargers could muster only total of 178 yards, including just 65 on the ground in 30 carries. Churchill quarterbacks were a combined 13-of-20 passing for 113 yards and three interceptions. Each team lost a fumble.

Stevenson junior Austin White had 242 yards on 22 carries and five touchdowns in Thursday's 41-40 overtime win over Franklin.

middle linebacker spot.

Franklin, however, got on the board first with 6:44 left in the first quarter on Mark McRobb's 40-yard TD pass over the middle to junior Mike Baumgardner. But the Patriots settled for only a 6-0 advantage after missing the PAT following a 5-yard illegal procedure call.

It set the tone for the rest of the night as Stevenson answered on its next possession - only 1:06 later - when White ripped off a 40yard run followed by a 5-yard TD jaunt.

Stevenson's 7-6 advantage didn't last long as Baumgarder took the ensuing kick-off 85 yards for a score, but the Patriots again missed the point-after, the ball clanging off the right upright, to lead by only five, 12-7. During the second period, White's best of the four, he scored on TD runs of 15 and 65 yards, but sandwiched in-between was a Baumgardner 9-yard TD run, his third score of the night set up by McRobb's 42-yard quarterback keeper coupled with a 15-yard Stevenson personal foul.

Franklin, getting a gimpy Fortin back into the lineup, took the opening drive of the third quarter and marched 70 yards in 10 plays, capped by McRobb's 21-yard TD pass to Robert

But the Spartans came right back, this time on a White 6-yard run followed by Myshock's PAT to make it 27-26 with 3:30 left in the third period.

Stevenson then chewed up eight minutes of the clock to start the fourth quarter, going 72 yards in 13 plays capped by White's fifth TD of the evening, a 1-yard run.

Staring at a 34-26 deficit, the Patriots responded with only four minutes remaining as McRobb connected with Mike Gadsby on a 43~ vard bomb after scrambling out of the pocket and the hitting Nicholas O'Hara on a 3-yard

TD toss with only 1:39 remaining to slice the deficit to 34-32.

Forced to go for the two-pointer and the tie, McRobb struck again, running a bootleg and scoring to make it 34-all.

Stevenson, however, took just three plays to get down to the Patriots' 15, only to be rebuffed as Connor Leidal picked off a Jacob Gudeman pass with only 49 seconds to go to end the threat.

McRobb was 8-of-19 passing for 152 yards and added 82 yards rushing on 11 carries.

Give McRobb and Franklin credit," Gabel said. "They made plays all night long. I'm not surprised the way they played. We had trouble with their tackles. They ran a similar game plan as the (2007) playoff game."

Stevenson finished with a total of 447 yards and got a boost from Wade Stahl in the second half after not getting a first-half touch. During the second half, Franklin limited White to 61 yards, but Stahl got loose for 58 yards on seven

"With Stahl in there it makes them more two-dimensional, it's hard to stop both," Kelbert said. "If you stop one, the other gets Stahl, ironically, has had little practice time during the preseason because he has been nursing an injury.

"He's barely practiced, but we left it up to him," Gabel said. "He's a special player and he needed to play, but we said only in an emergency. He said (afterwards) he feels fine."

Franklin, meanwhile, had 303 total yards, including 151 on the ground in 28 carries.

The 5-foot-10, 205-pound Fortin did not have a first-half carry after going down, but came back and ran for 27 yards on six attempts while basically playing on one leg.

"He's one of the toughest kids I know," Kelbert said. "His ankle could have been broken and he probably doesn't even know it. It was a physical battle. It always is.'

Livonia Clarenceville scored early and often Thursday, rolling to a season-opening 53-0 football victory over visiting Detroit University Prep.

"I'm pleased with the way the kids played," said Clarenceville coach Ryan Irish, whose team invoked a running second-half clock after going up 47-0 at intermission. "We wanted to be physical and play fast, and that's what we did. I was able to hear the pads and we were running fast, but we still have a lot to work on going into our game next week with (Bloomfield) Hills Cranbrook. We're looking forward to the challenge." Levonte Brooks scored four touchdowns for the Trojans, while rushing for 42 yards on five carries.

Quarterback-linebacker Jeremy Gainer had 70 yards on six carries and paced the defense with nine tackles.

Others getting into the act included quarterback Darryl Whitaker, who was 2-of-2

Brad Pozniak, five rushes for 48 yards and a TD.

Annapolis whips Warriors Demetrius Crowe rushed for 93 yards on 10 carries and scored a pair of touchdowns Thursday as host Dearborn Heights Annapolis romped to a 43-6 triumph over Lutheran High Westland. The Cougars led 30-0 at Defensively, Sam Ahlersmeyer led the Warriors with 11 tackles and one fumble recovery.

Marc Pressley's 52-yard interception return for a TD and Kyle Kittel's subsequent extra point with 1:39 remaining in the first quarter proved to be the difference.

Glenn had just 32 yards net rushing, while quarterbacks Jerome Scales and Steve Kulikowski combined for 4-11 passing for 51 yards.

Mott quarterback Tyler Bush was 5-of-10 for 60 yards and two interceptions (one each by Kyren Boyd and Scales).

Midado Levell, one of the women who meet annually to raise awareness about heart disease, died July 10 at age 40 waiting for a transplant. Levell had been moved to the top of the list in March. She was only 25 years old when diagnosed with congestive heart failure.

Leve on the cardiac floor at St. John Oakland Hospital in spite of her disease, but in the last two years needed an automatic defibrillator implant and then a bi-ventricular assist device to survive until a donor could be found.

Dr. Joan Crawford was her friend as well as her cardiologist.

"She had an external heart pump put in six to eight weeks prior. She got to the point she couldn't live without something. Even being number one on the list that didn't help," said Crawford, chief of cardiology at St. John Oakland and Macomb hospitals, director of women's services at St. John Macomb, and medical director of the Go Red campaign which culminates with Wear Red Day on Feb. 6, and two luncheons later in the month.

"Michelle's message would be, that using her as an example, heart disease really didn't have a stereotype. Even at the end she looked young, smiley, bubbly externally. You would never know how sick she was."

Crawford says that's why women need to educate themselves about the symptoms of heart disease. The Go Red campaign is raising awareness, but women still need to be their own advocates.

"Michelle originally thought she had a cold or asthma. She would want people to see their doctor to make sure a health professional is listening to their symptoms especially if they're young and female," said Crawford of Bloomfield Hills. "Listen to your body. If something is different or you don't feel right you know better than

"I'm excited about the sixth year of doing this. You can tell the room has more red dresses. We're getting the word out," said Crawford, a cardiologist since 1993. "Women are saying I know women have different symptoms than men. For women it can be shortness of breath, changing energy levels, where last year they used to be able to mow the entire lawn, now only half. Older women need to see a doctor right away. There's more to heart disease than just having a heart attack. There can be a hole in the heart, murmurs, pacemaking issues, weak heart muscles. A heart is like a home. A lot of people think heart disease is a heart attack, but just like a home a heart has walls, a roof, plumbing. The heart has structures, valves like doors, plumbing arteries, an electrical pacemaking system and anything can go wrong. One in two women die of heart disease. Why be the one?"

Lin Cummins' mother died of a heart attack so she's especially concerned about educating women through the Go Red campaign. Cummins is the luncheon chairwoman, senior vice president of communications and government affairs for ArvinMeritor and serves on the board of trustees for Wayne State University and Hospice of Michigan, but always finds time to help the American Heart Association. I'm taking care of my job, husband, four children, four grandchildren. I never take care of me. When my mother died I was surprised a woman would have heart disease. I have two sisters with heart disease. That's probably oning to be my fate if we don't get control of it, if we don't get involved."

Paula Love says the nonprofit organization is doing its part by not only reaching out to women, but partnering with businesses such as Macy's, which on Sept. 20 hosts Shop for a Cause. For a $5 donation, customers receive an all-day savings pass on select merchandise. Also on Sept. 20, Go Red creates awareness with an NBC TV special. "Untold Stories of the Heart" chronicles the disease in women including Marie Osmond. The events all lead up to the luncheons in February.

"In 2009 our luncheon is going from 700 to 1,000 women plus another 250 in Ann Arbor," said Love, AHA Go Red director. "We're starting a mentor program for high school seniors and college freshmen, working with counselors to go into schools. More and more we're seeing the younger population is being affected by heart disease."

Debbie Dingell believes research is the answer to reducing the number of women dying from heart disease.

"For years women weren't included in studies," said Dingell, a senior executive at General Motors. "We need to take the responsibility to educate ourselves, need to demand, taking the strength of us as women and demand change. It's the power of us all coming together for education, advocacy and research.

Take precautions to prevent West Nile Virus

Summer days are winding down, but mosquitoes will be present until the first frost. Oakland County Health Division officials urge residents to continue to take common-sense precautions and minimize mosquito exposure to protect themselves from West Nile Virus. The best way to reduce the risk of getting the virus is to prevent mosquitoes from biting you. Spray clothing and exposed skin with insect repellent. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends the use of insect repellents containing active ingredients registered with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Two of these products that have shown a high degree of effectiveness are DEET and Picaridin. Always follow manufacturer's directions carefully, especially when using on children.

Minimize activities where mosquitoes are present such as shaded areas.

Wear light colored, longsleeved shirts and long pants when outdoors between dusk and dawn. Maintain window and door screening to keep mosquitoes out of buildings.

Eliminate standing water in your yard. Empty water from mosquito breeding sites such as flower pots, pet bowls, clogged rain gutters, swimming pool covers, discarded tires, buckets, barrels, cans, and similar items where mosquitoes can lay eggs.

Report dead birds to Oakland County Health Division's Environmental Health Services Unit at (877) 377-3641.

West Nile Virus is a mosquito-borne virus that can cause inflammation and swelling of the brain. Mosquitoes are infected by biting a bird that carries the virus. The virus is then spread to humans through the bite of the infected mosquito. Most people infected with the virus have either no symptoms or experience a mild illness such as fever, headache and body aches. However, in some individuals, particularly the elderly, a much more serious disease affecting brain tissue can develop. For more information about West Nile Virus, visit www. oakgov.com/health.

Express victorious

Spartan effort

Stevenson trails early, but rallies past Churchill

Livonia Churchill threw the first volley, but Livonia Stevenson roared back with four unanswered goals Thursday to beat the host Chargers in a boys soccer match, 4-1.

Churchill's Etienne Lussiez tallied the first goal off a long free kick into the box from Adam Bedell.

Stevenson countered with two goals before halftime to take a 2-1 advantage - Brian Klemczak (assisted by Kendal Snow) and Nate Sergison (assisted by Bob Smith).

The Spartans (3-0-1) added two more goals during the second half - Nick Anagnostou (assisted by Klemczak) and Anagnostou again (assisted by Joey D'Agostino).

"After a slow start, we improved defensively and became stronger as the game went on," Stevenson coach Lars Richters said. "Our guys did a good job of combining with each other to create goal scoring opportunities, and our solid finishing helped to give us a positive result."

Stevenson goalkeepers Justin Collins (first half) and Conner Burton (second half) combined to make six saves.

"In my opinion, the game was closer than the score indicates," Richters said. "Churchill came out very fast from the opening kickoff and scored in the first two minutes of the game. They were dangerous throughout the contest with a number of long front of goal." The loss, meanwhile, dropped Churchill to 0-2 overall.

"I was happy way we came out and the way we played great defense," Churchill coach Reid Friedrichs said. "I told the boys we wanted to defend and take advantage of restarts. We got a goal off it, but then we didn't defend it.

"I didn't like we played after we got the lead. We acted like we'd never been there and didn't know what to do. Stevenson, on the other hand, knew what to do when they were behind."

CLARENCEVILLE 1, WAYNE 0: Goalkeeper Garrett Gregg made four saves to record his third straight shutout Thursday as Livonia Clarenceville (3-O) remained undefeated with a nonconference victory at Wayne Memorial Jimmy Moody's goal from Phil Strachan proved to be the game-winner for the Trojans.

LUTH. WESTLAND 1, WOODHAVEN 1: On Thursday, host Lutheran High Westland (2-1-1) and Flat-Rock

Woodhaven (5-0-1) battled to a draw. In the seventh minute, Austin Baglow's goal from Josh Kruger broke senior Woodhaven goalkeeper Dustin Salliotte's scoreless streak at five

Junior Shane Thiesen's goal in the 32nd minute off a long pass from Zach Lutheran Westland goalkeeper

Micah Hausch made four saves. The shots were virtually even at 8-7 in favor of the Warriors. "It was a good match for us, I'm pleased with the effort against a Class A school," Lutheran Westland coach Rich Block said. "Things are shaping up for us defensively." JOHN GLENN 4, S. LYON EAST 0: Four different players scored Wednesday as Westland John Glenn (1-2-1) earned its first victory for rookie coach Jimmy Mortada against host South Lyon East

Goal scorers for the Rockets, who led 2-0 at halftime, included Sergio Pavan (from Nelson Kenne); Khalid Sulieman (from Austin Valentine);

Robert Hurst (from Robert Costello); and William Jenkins (unassisted). Freshman Jason Rockwell and Zach Redden combined for the shutout in goal for the Rockets. "We looked good and they (East) had only one clean shot ou goal, while we had more than 20 shots," Mortada said, "But we had 10 offsides," W.L. CENTRAL 4, FRANKLIN 0: On Wednesday, host Walled Lake Central (1-3) scored three unanswered goals in the second half to notch its first victory of the season against winless Livonia Franklin (0-4).

Chad Dorton scored for the Patriots off an assist from Steve Trapp as the Patriots were deadlocked I-all at inter-

Junior Josh Shepard, called up from the JV squad to replace injured goalkeeper Brad Mangune, made 12 saves in the loss. "He did pretty well back there,"

Franklin coach Vic Rodopoulos said. "Mangune fractured his shin making a save while running into a post against Stevenson (on Aug. 21 in a 5-0 loss). He'll be out at least four weeks."

MU men's soccer team stuns Point Loma in OT

men's soccer team upset No. 16 Point Loma Nazarene (Calif.), 2-1, in overtime in the season opener for both sides. Maupin and Jacob Rosiek in the win.

The Crusaders got on the board in the 19th minutes as Daniel Amaya's corner kick found Maupin's head and his header got past Eric Leboffe for the first MU goal of the season.

down, but managed to tie the game at one-all in the 88th minute as Macaine Piercy dribbled in one-on-one with MU keeper Steven Besk and beat Besk to square the match.

The game then headed into sudden victory overtime and in the 110th minute, Rosiek took a pass from Mark Pikula The game then turned phys- about seven yards out from the goal and burried his shot for the game winner.

MU outshot Point Loma, 14-11, while Besk made five saves for his first win of the season.

The Crusaders have little time to enjoy the win as they will take on MidAmerica Nazarene, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in San Diego.

Unplug your microwave before changing its fuse ping for a new one? Some years ago I'd hear the same question with the same problem several

I would tell the callers to see me at my little service shop and I would show them how to change the internal fuse inside their microwave ovens. The fuse cost $5 and I sure made a lot of friends.

Today, service companies do things differently than I did back then. It seems most of them are afraid to show you how to do things yourself, such as repairing your own microwave. There may be a good reason for that such as injury or a

But if I still had a little service shop I would still be showing consumers how to change the fuse in a microwave oven. There is an internal fuse in a microwave oven that my grandmother could replace if I showed her how to do it. The hardest thing today is getting someone to show you where it is located and how to get to it. There is no doubt that you can get permanently hurt in changing the fuse if you are a complete fool or are trying to commit suicide.

The big trick is to amplug the microwave or simply put, unplug the cord. Never touch anything such as a wire while it has electrical power going to it. The fuse looks like the old style car fuse and is fitted into a little receptacle and it just pops out. A few of them are soldered in place. It is very easy to replace but the hard part is getting someone to show you how and where it is located.

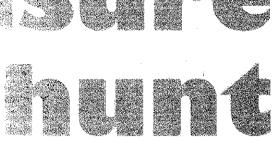

Make sure you don't touch any other wires in there. There is a capacitor in this maze of electrical stuff which we call loaded. If you touch any other wire like I've just instructed you not to do, I can assure you that voltage will enter into one finger of one hand and come out the other hand.

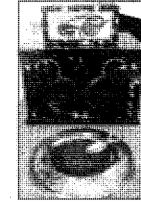

I used to tell my customers about a guy who tried to fix the microwave, touched a hot wire and burned himself so badly that after they removed his body from the kitchen, the bottom of his feet were burned into the hardwood floor. This story is true. I worked for the Amana Corporation in the 1970s and we had pictures of this happening. I used to carry them around with me and when I was training service technicians around the country I would show them the pictures to emphasize how dangerous it is to work on a microwave oven. I never lost one service technician! Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard at 8 a.m., Saturdays on WAAM 1600. His phone number is (734)971-1600, ext. 28. Do you have a question about an appliance or have a problem with one? E-mail it to wvonb@hometownlife.com and it will be forwarded to Joe Gagnon.

Carol Brichford likes to tease her husband Tom about accumulating a house full of odds and ends at estate sales over the years, but admits she's just as bad when it comes to collecting. The Farmington Hills couple is looking forward to cleaning out their living room by selling some of the items at the Livonia Historical Society's annual Flea Market at Greenmead Historical Park in Livonia on Sunday, Sept. 7.

They're sharing three booths with Judy and Verlon Barrett of Farmington Hills and several members of The Questers. Both couples belong to chapters of the international antique study group dedicated to restoring and preserving historic places such as Greenmead.

"We have everything he ever got," jokes Carol Brichford about Tom, who collects mostly old iron and metal. "He collects anything that moves — cars, trucks, tractors — but they never move out."

It's their sense of humor that has kept Carol and Tom married 51 years, not collecting items at estate and garage sales and antique malls.

"No. collecting hasn't kept our marriage together," said Tom. "Our marriage has stayed together in spite of it." "Our stuff is all around our living room that I call our warehouse," added Carol, a volunteer at Greenmead. "We

Peace movement begins at home

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN O & E STAFF WRITER

Colleen Mills couldn't be prouder that A.T. Ariyaratne's first stop in the U.S. is the monthly meeting of Citizens for Peace in Livonia on Sept. 9. The internationally known leader of the Sarvodaya movement is coming from Sri Lanka where he has rallied the residents of 15,000 villages to build a better life for themselves by tackling projects such as constructing roads and digging wells. Over the years he has won the Gandhi Peace Prize and been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize.

"Everyone is welcome. We want to spark their interest and broaden their world view," said Mills, president of Citizens for Peace.

The meeting is just one of more than a dozen events Ariyaratne will attend in the metro Detroit area. The free seminar, A Better World is Possible: Integrated Approach to Peace, 1-4 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 16, at Schoolcraft College, is also open to the public. Two days earlier Ariyaratne speaks at the end of a 21-day prayer vigil for Detroit at Hart Plaza. His visit to the area concludes with ONE PEACE, an event to celebrate the United Nations International Day of Peace Sunday, Sept. 21, at Eastern Michigan University. Mills is hoping to attract some 10,000 people to hear Ariyaratne and Michael Bernard Beckwith, founder of the Agape International Spiritual Center in Calif. and co-founder and president of the Alliance for Global New Thought. "It's going to help heal the racial divide, religious divide, the whole culture, to bring everyone together without any barriers," said Mills of Livonia. "It's going to be the biggest gathering for peace in the country. It's an alternative way of thinking. We're getting people excited about the better world we're creating together. We're asking people to wear white clothing, logo free, because we want everyone cheering for the human team

Jennifer Hartke is counting the/days to the first gathering to celebrate the 30th anniversary of First Step, the nonprofit agency dedicated to assisting victims of domestic abuse and sexual assault in western Wayne County and downriver.

But before the parties begin, she's looking for supporters to buy advertisements in a Tribute Book to honor the history of the organization and those that made the accomplishments possible. The deadline is Sept. 5.

"We're going to have 30 honorees. We're trying to focus on the 30 year theme," said Hartke, chairwoman of the Sept. 18 benefit in Canton. "We're honoring survivors and supporters, founders, supporters who have been with the organization for years. Organizations who have been supporters for years. We're excited to recognize them because these are inspiring community leaders."

On Sept. 18, supporters such as Gail McKnight, who recently retired as a Judge for the 18th District Court in Westland; Justine Barnes, former city of Westland council member and state representative; Judy Ellis, First Step executive director; Brian Duggan, a Livonia realtor, and Nancy Diehl, Wayne County prosecutor, chief of trials, will be honored during an awards presentation at the benefit.

Over the years they have been instrumental in creating awareness about domestic violence and sexual assault and changing the system to hold offenders accountable.

"I think this is an important event because we want to educate the community about what First Step does," said Hartke, a Plymouth attorney. "This is an event about hope because there's been a lot done, but still a lot of work remaining."

The gala event on Sept. 18, is the first of two. A family gathering will be held on Oct. 23, in Historic Birmingham home headlines tour

BY WENSDY VON BUSKIRK O&E STAFF WRITER

Only five families have lived in the Edgar Lamb House since it was built in 1898, and all of them have been Democrats.

That fact is not lost on the historic home's latest owners, Bunny and Mel Shaw.

'We love it," quipped Bunny. "This house has fabulous history. We just get such a kick out of it.

The Lamb House, tucked away on Willets Street adjacent to the downtown, is among seven diverse homes that will be featured on the 21st Annual Birmingham House Tour from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Sept.

The home's first owners were seamstress Mary Ann Lamb and her husband, Edgar, a harness maker. In her teens, Lamb was recruited by local Democrats to make one of the first machine-sewn American flags for Senator Stephen A. Douglas during his bid for the presidency against Abraham Lincoln. The home was originally measured at 700 square feet. In the 1930s, a chimney and fireplace were added. In the 1970s and early 80s more was done, and it stood at 1,700 square feet when the Shaws purchased it in 1993. The couple caused a stir in historic circles when they applied for permits and hired architect Victor Saroki to add 1,500 more square feet onto the home, including a garage, kitchen and a wing with master and guest bedroom suites. They also converted the carriage house into a storage area and made other renovations inside. But the Shaws have proven to be good neighbors, and the updates are consistent with the Victorian style of the original structure.

A scrapbook on the coffee table details the storied past of the home, as well as appearances in magazines like Style, Better Homes & Gardens and on the cover of Garden, Deck & Landscape Planner.

The Shaws have opened their doors to several home and garden tours, including The Community House tour in

The common name for prepatellar bursitis is "housemaid's knee." The term housemaid's knee came from recognition that maids' scrubbing kitchen floors in the way that work was done in the nineteenth century were at risk to prepatellar bursitis.

In the 21st century scrubbing floors on one's hands and knees is an unlikely occurrence. However, working vigorously and long on one's hands and knees continues Risk for prepatellar bursitis occurs in laying carpet or linoleum, in working hours in the garden, or taking on any project that requires kneeling for a prolonged period.

In prepatellar bursitis, the knee feels hot, looks red, appears swollen, and hurts to the touch. The first impression of anyone seeing the knee is that the joint is infected. However, a person with prepatellar bursitis has no fever, and feels no pain except in a circumscribed area that outlines the prepatellar bursa. This bursa sits directly over the knee cap (the patella) and is where the inflammation resides. Treatment for prepatellar bursitis includes draining any fluid that is responsible for the swelling, and injecting a steroid to prevent imitation from continuing. Medicine for pain also may be necessary. Of equal importance is identifying the activity that caused the problem and to either stop that activity or find padding that will permit kneeling without

Time from diagnosis to resolution may take between two to three weeks, so patience is another requirement for recovery.

Spotlight Players hold PAINTING auditions for comedy

Spotlight Players will be hosting auditions for You Can't Take It With You 6:30 p.m. Monday-Tuesday, Sept. 22-23, at the Village Theater at Cherry Hill in Canton.

If anyone has questions about auditions, contact Mike Cuba at mikecuba@sbcglobal. net. Cuba is directing the heart-warming comedy about a family that lives the credo "If you aren't having any fun, why do it?".

The play, written by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, won the 1937 Pulitzer Prize. It was made into a Frank Capra movie in 1939. It won Best Director and Best Picture at the Oscars, and was one of the first collaborations between Capra and Jimmy Stewart.

The story follows Grandpa who walked out on his banking job eight years ago and hasn't done a lick of work since. His daughter Penny writes and paints when the mood strikes her. Her husband Paul makes fireworks in the basement with his friend, Mr. de Pinna, who dropped by one day and just stayed. Penny's daughter Essie makes candies and strives to become a ballerina while her husband plays the xylophone.

Essie's sister, Alice, is the only one in the family holding down a respectable job as a secretary to the son of a prominent banker. Add Reba, a live-in cook/housekeeper, and her boyfriend Donald, and you have the residents of this slightly off-kilter family. Now add Tony Kirby, Alice's boss and sweetheart, and his stiff blue-blood parents, and a dinner invitation that goes delightfully awry. Stir in the Internal Revenue Service and eight years of back taxes to thicken the plot. By the end of the evening you realize that while Alice's family may be crazy, the rest of the world is certifiably insane.

decided we got to get rid of things. We really enjoy the Greenmead show. Being right in the village with all the vintage buildings is magnificent."

The Barretts are bringing two ice cream chairs from a Tecumseh store that went out of business, a brass bucket, bird cage stand, vintage mirror, bentwood chair, garage items like tools, and a wicker umbrella basket. They have a booth at the Livingston Antique Outlet.

"I'm always looking at auctions, consignment stores, the Salvation Army. If it looks interesting I pick it up and then research it," said Barrett. "It's my entertainment to go to auctions, estate sales, where it's as much fun to get into and see the houses in Indian Village, Grosse Pointe.

The two couples have been doing the flea market for about four years, always in the same spot on the west end of the village between the fence and Kingsley House. In addition to vintage items, the Brichfords are bringing Mikasa English Countryside dinnerware.

"It doesn't have to be antique," said Carol. "It's a flea market."

Linda Wiacek likes to refer to the event as a glorified garage sale. This year 160 dealers sell a variety of vintage items and some antiques. The flea market coincides with the Village Painters Treasure Chest Craft Show in the Alexander Blue House at Greenmead (see related story).

"There's no used clothing or guns," said Wiacek, Greenmead recreation supervisor. "People in the past brought vintage linens, china, crystal and silver. I've purchased tea pots and tea cups. My son's purchased sports memorabilia. I've seen people carry out vintage tables and chairs, books and magazines, old paintings. I purchased a picture of Lincoln. It's interesting stuff."

Livonia Historical Society member Gene Kramer is going to sell old musical instruments at the flea market, which started 10 years ago with about 20 to 40 dealers. Kramer recently met with the society's board, including acting president Bob Legel, at the Friends Meeting House to go over details of the event.

This year's proceeds will help restore Hill House, according to society member Sue Daniel. The event raised $15,000 in

Not to be confused with the Livonia Historical Commission which co-sponsors the flea market, the Livonia Historical Society is a nonprofit group of volunteers which was founded in 1956 to preserve the area's heritage.

"Most of the people go home with things - hubcaps, old farm tools, dulcimers, old military items, furniture, antique bedroom and dining sets," said Kramer, who lives in Northville and grew up in Livonia. "I pick up musical instruments at garage sales, say I see a bugle if it's before 1900, I don't care if it plays or not."

Gary Pritchard says he knows dealers who come to the flea market to buy.

You can find sets of dishes for everyday if they want to furnish a cottage, a nice vase for a couple bucks," said Pritchard, a society member. "You can come across something valuable if you know what you're looking for. I've seen some stuff very underpriced."

Arlene Enders is bringing furniture from Dick's Upholstery along with toys and sleds. Enders is co-owner of the Livonia shop that reupholsters everything from antiques to modern furniture. She does the show with her husband William.

"It's something we always did. From the time we first got married we started going to antique shows," said Enders. "We'll probably bring a small chair for a den or library with Queen Anne legs, antique fabric from the '40s and '60s, Matchbox (toys), glassware."

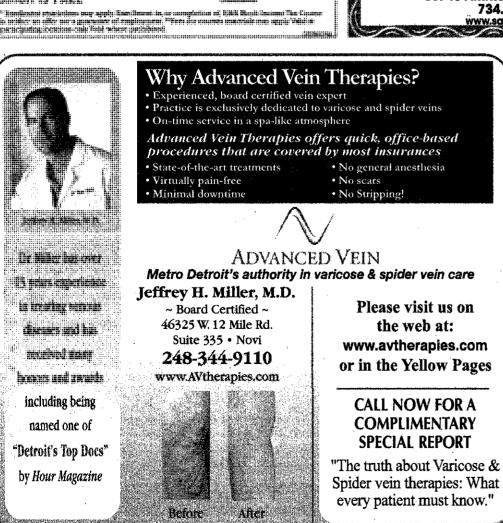

Look for serving dishes, silver serving spoons and forks and a few pieces of furniture to fill the booth of Diann Dupuis of Livonia. Dupuis used to have an antiques booth at the Livingston Antique Outlet.

"I go to garage sales, estate sales," said Dupuis, a Greenmead volunteer. "I always have my eye out for linens and dishes. They're not from 100 years ago, but definitely collectibles. I'll have a lot of linens and serving items. People love to look at linens, to rummage through them. They probably remember them from their grandmother's house.

WINIFRED MARTHA SUSIE ANN MATILDA JANE MYRIA DRAPER CARNEY

When asked what her name was, Winnie would spiel the above...names she was given by her beloved aunts. Winifred Draper Carney passed away peacefully on May 1, 2008 just months short of her 100th birthday. Her sons Donald P. Carney and wife Julianne and Dr. James M. Carney and wife Jan were with her in Ft. Myers, Florida. Her granddaughter, Tricia, was with her just days earlier.

Born, raised, and married in the home on Church Street in Plymouth that her father built in 1898, Winnie leaves a legacy of graciousness, humor, and kindness. She was the daughter, wife, mother, and grandmother of optometrists in Plymouth, Dr. Charles Draper, her father, held one of the first licenses in Optometry in Michigan and practiced on Main Street in a building which is now part of Schrader/Howell Funeral Home. Dr. Elmore L. Carney, her husband, aduated from Illinois School of Optometry and practiced on Penniman and later on Main Street in Plymouth. Dr. James M. Carney, her son, graduated from Pacific University School of Optometry and is presently practicing on Main Street with her grandson and his son, Dr. Brian M. Carney, who graduated from Illinois School of Winnie enjoyed a life of good health, good friends, and was always ready to socialize with people and experience new adventures. Never suffering from a major illness, her blood pressure was that of teenager until she died. She and more traveled extensively and he always took the month of February off "to go somewhere" usually with their great friends Ed and Henrietta Dobbs. In her nineties in Traverse City at grand daughter-in-law Lisa's Bachelorette party, Winnie got on stage to dance and do karoake. And she loved parties and looked forward to her annual Ice Cream Birthday Party every year.

Winnie leaves a rich heritage to her family. Don inherited her love of people and ability to make friends and socialize; Jim inherited her love of water, fishing, and travel; Brian inherited her kindness and pragmatic nature; and Tricia inherited her great beauty, fun-loving nature and ability to relate to people.

Her little great-granddaughters Lily (6), Celia (4) and Mia (2) say they will miss Great-Grandma Winnie very much" and know she is happy in heaven with God. Don's children Cindy, Terry, Sherry, Debbie and their chil-

Her family hopes you will join them in celebration of her life at an ice cream almost -100th birthday party at 51115 Topper Court on Sunday, September 21 from 2:00-5:00. Donations may be made in her honor to the Plymouth Historical Society.

YOUR BIGGEST HOT BUTTON ON THE JOB

getting very comfortable with technology. Nontypers have evolved into typers. Non-Mildred L. writers have learned to get by. People once not inclined to make telephone calls now make them without blinking. Using technology, though, may put them at risk either on or off the job site. Hope Haslam, director of Consulting Services at Epiq Systems Inc., headquartered in Kansas City Kan., works in the New York City-based eDiscovery Group, which advises corporate and legal clients about large volumes of stored electronic data that might become part of a suit, if it hasn't already.

"We identify relevant data," she says, "(which suggests that) the trend to mix work and life might well be colliding on technology at work and at home or on the road. If someone is on a PDA or laptop or personal machines at home, we can advise the corporation to go out and collect that data. This can be frightening to employees, because there could be some very personal information there." A Dallas resident, she mentions that in Texas, porno gets reported, even though it's totally unrelated to work. Of course, if you reveal any ailments or other information you didn't want the world to know, it's too late. You've already left a digital

Let's say you own a cell phone, for which your company reimburses you every so often. Whose phone is it? "All of this is getting very sticky," she comments. Employers will have some rights to it. Her solution is to tote two telephones, everywhere.

Hal Abelson, et. al., indicate in "Blown to Bits: Your Life, Liberty and Happiness After the Digital Explosion" (Addison Wesley: $25.95) that employers aren't out to straitjacket employees, that "they have to be able to investigate wrongdoing for which the employer would be liable." In other words, Big Brother is watching whether your work creates risk for the IBM Internet Security Systems' Peter Evans of Atlanta, Ga., molds strategy to evolving security threats. As vice president of Marketing, he points out that hackers and generational trends are putting some workers and their companies at risk. Because Gen X and Gen Y are accustomed to collaborating online -and not necessarily through e-mail -- they might not be aware of the risk their practices take on when they move to "highly regulated environments."

Financial services is one of the industries he's considering. "The organization needs to protect information, data and credit card information," he states. "An employee might put information out there that would be excellent for a hacker. Filters are watching for data leaking." If you send an e-mail with information that shouldn't leave your computer, an educational warning message pops up to remind you of confidentiality. Evans says that e-mail protection is quite good now but that there's much more work to be done on instant messaging.

Evans further states that hackers are like retailers. They watch people at work and use what they see "to take control of a laptop." This means that you can be very vulnerable, becoming "the weak link that could put a business at risk.'

WHAT TO DO

You didn't think that your work was putting you at this much risk either at home or in the office, did you? "Employees need to understand their corporate policies about the use of PDAs provided by the company, Haslam says. She agrees that many companies lack policies and updates and advises that you band together and go to HR to get the information you need. On a daily basis, she says it's best to communicate in writing or, if you use a telephone, send an e-mail about communications by carrying two pieces of technology all times to make and receive both kinds of calls. While the cumbersome, it's essential for privacy, should an employer require access to data. Haslam directs Consulting Services at Epig Systems Inc., which is headquartered in

GMC Yukon Hybrid an SUV pioneer

Advertising Feature

CAReport

When most people think of hybrids they picture compact and midsize cars like the Honda Civic Hybrid and Toyota Prius, but never large SUVs.

But General Motors Corp. has changed that with the 2008 GMC Yukon Hybrid and 2008 Chevrolet Tahoe

GM knows that people want to save on gas, since it's been hovering around $4 a gallon for a long time now, but not everyone is ready to trade in their SUV for something smaller just yet.

So for the time being GM is doing its best to accommodate these customers.

The Yukon Hybrid, which stickers for around $45K, can tow up to 6,000 pounds while offering a r 25 percent gain in fuel economy.

On the Yukon Hybrid, you'll find the same utility of a full-size truck and the power and capability of a V8 engine, while reaping the benefits of hybrid technology at the pump.

This is all thanks to the use of the world's first dualmotor, two-mode hybrid system used in an SUV. By utilizing innovative hybrid technology and Active

Fuel Management technology, the Yukon Hybrid delivers great fuel efficiency never seen before on a large

Specifically, the Yukon Hybrid fuel economy ratings are 20 miles per gallon in the city and 27 mpg on the highway.

While traditional full hybrid systems offer only one electric mode that is utilized during low-speed driving, GM has teamed up with Chrysler Corp. and the BMW Group to co-develop the two-mode hybrid system,

This patented fuel-saving technology with one mode for city driving and one mode for highway driving is ideal for SUVs.

The first mode of the system is for low speed and light loads. In this mode, the hybrid system can operate with electric power only, engine power only and any combination of engine and electric power.

When the first mode operates as electric only, fuel consumption is reduced in heavy stop-and-go traffic by shutting off the engine for extended periods of time and moving exclusively under electric power at low speeds. The second mode is primarily used at highway

The 2008 Yukon Hybrid, along with the 2008 Chevrolet Tahoe Hybrid, are the world's first SUVs with a dual-motor, two-mode hybrid system. This upped the fuel economy rating by 25 percent over the traditional Yukon.

speeds. In addition to electric assist, the second mode integrates sophisticated electronic controls, such as Active Fuel Management, to allow even more efficient engine operation with electric motors less than half the size of a traditional "one-mode" hybrid system.

But full 8-cylinder engine power is available when conditions demand it, such as passing, towing or climbing a steep grade.

The two-mode system also allows for a four-speed automatic transmission and electronic controls to be used with gas and diesel engines with front- and rearwheel-drive configurations on other cars, trucks and

On the Yukon it augments the SUV's traditional V8 engine with two electric motors packed into the transmission. Both are powered by a 300-volt battery pack.

Some power is lost, though. The Yukon Hybrid tows 6,000 pounds while the regular Yukon tows up to 7,700 pounds.

To counterbalance nearly 400-pound weight gain from the hybrid propulsion system, some minor exterior changes have been made to the Yukon to make it more aerodynamic.

The Yukon's grille has horizontal slats instead of the previous single-piece design. The SUV also includes a 0.4-inch lower ride height, low rolling resistance tires, a streamlined hood leading edge and a liftgate and hood made of aluminum. These changes don't make the Yukon Hybrid look much different than a regular Yukon, but are a welcome Like other hybrids, the Yukon is equipped with regenerative brakes that capture energy normally wasted during braking and use it to recharge the battery.

It also has a new air-conditioning unit that requires less power and thus uses less fuel.

Inside the Yukon Hybrid, you can watch an animation showing the flow of power through the . hybrid drivetrain on the center display screen. The gauges also include a gas mileage meter.

Just like regular Yukons, three rows of seats are standard. Available amenities include leather upholstery, power front seats and a navigation system. A rear-seat entertainment system with a flip-down screen is optional.

Safety is provided by four-wheel disc anti-lock brakes and an electronic stability system with rollover mitigation are standard. Side curtain airbags are optional.

The same gasoline/electric powertrain from the Yukon and the Tahoe is also on the Cadillac Escalade. Similar hybrid versions of the Chevrolet Silverado and GMC Sierra pickup trucks will follow
