

Green family faces holidays without daughter

BY DARRELL CLEM OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Edward and Barbara Green of Westland will face their first holiday season without their 22-year-old daughter, Laci, who was found strangled to death May 7 in a grassy field near their home on the city's southwest side.

"It's still hard to talk about it," Edward Green said. "It's the most devastating thing for a parent." The Greens have gone on with their lives as best they can as they await a Jan. 26 trial for their daughter's exboyfriend, Robert James-the-First Howard, a 25-year-old Dearborn Heights man charged with first-degree murder. "Each person copes in a different way. I just throw myself into my work and my church, and my wife goes to church with me every Sunday," said Edward Green, who stocks places like gas stations with copies of The Detroit News. With Howard's trial looming in Wayne County Circuit Court, the Greens already have testified during a preliminary hearing in Westland 18th District Court. They told how they encountered Howard outside their Dunn Court home, mere hours before their daughter was found dead around 6 a.m.

Court to hold holiday-related alcohol testing

BY DARRELL CLEM OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Touted as the busiest bar night of the year, Thanksgiving Eve will be a sobering reminder not to drink for probationers of Westland 18th District Court.

In all, 550 people have been sent letters ordering them to report to court for alcohol testing not only on Thanksgiving Eve, but also the day after the holiday. It's an effort to keep problem drinkers sober and to make roads safer.

"Some people don't realize it's the busiest bar night of the year," 18th District Judge Sandra Ference Cicirelli said. "People are coming

Judge denies appeal of W-W recall language

BY SUE MASON OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Organizers of a recall petition drive targeting two Wayne-Westland school board members have been cleared to continue circulating petitions after a Wayne County Circuit Court judge ruled Friday that the use of an acronym for the district's teachers union was acceptable.

"The judge denied the appeal, he made it very clear that we understood why we were being challenged and that people would know what WWEA means," said Shawnn Maxwell who is spearheading the campaign to force the recall of school board President Martha Pitsenbarger and Vice President Skip Monit. "We only have to have clarity of the action taken and we had it in the language."

nome from college, and people are visiting from out of town."

At worst, reunions and friendly get-togethers at bars can have potentially devastating consequences for people involved in accidents. At a minimum, the fun times can become a temptation for probationers who are supposed to remain sober.

Cicirelli called the court program "a good reminder" that people need to obey no-drinking orders from her and 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos. Probationers who don't report or who fail their alcohol test could face penalties like fines, additional work program days, extended probation or, in severe cases, even jail.

Alcohol testing will be done 8-11:30 p.m. on Thanksgiving Eve and 7-10 a.m. on the day after the holiday.

"Unlike St. Patrick's Day and New Year's Eve, when drivers on the road pay extra attention because they expect that there may be drunk drivers, many people are unaware that (Thanksgiving Eve) is such a busy bar night," Cicirelli said.

Those chosen for the enforcement include people who have been placed on probation for alcoholrelated offenses and who have a strict no-drinking clause in effect. The Westland court has been conducting alcohol tests for the last seven years and has found the program to be a good deterrent.

Anyone who fails to report will receive notice of a hearing. Unless they can prove they had a good reason not to show up, Cicirelli said, they will face penalties.

Those who do show up, but who fail their alcohol tests, also will face penalties.

School supply project is team effort

BY JULIE BROWN OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Students at Jefferson-Barns Elementary School can study a little more easily now, thanks to the Westland Rotarians.

Kindergartners through fifth-graders at the school in Westland received backpacks filled with school supplies Wednesday, Nov. 19.

"The students and staff at Jefferson-Barns appreciate the generosity of Westland Rotary so much," said Principal Laura Beckman. "It means a great deal to the families as well."

The children entered the helped the younger students with name spellings. As children moved along, additional Rotarians and other volunteers provided school supplies to fill up the backpacks.

A total of 180 children at Jefferson-Barns and 290 at nearby Lincoln Elementary received backpacks and supplies, said Mary McGaw, community service chair for the Westland Rotary. Supplies included folders, pencils, notebooks, glue sticks, crayons and rulers.

The Rotary project wasn't a solo effort. Wayne County Community College and the Westland Community Foundation also provided support. "I think it's very satisfying to help these kids out, especially when you see their faces," McGaw, a banker with Bank of America, said of the annual project.

Students at Lincoln, where Jennifer Munson serves as principal, will receive their backpacks and supplies this week before the Thanksgiving break. Attorney Alan Canady argued that if the petition drive ends in a recall election, voters going to the polls would want to know what the acronym stands for.

According to Monit, Judge William J. Giovan acknowledge that while the vote by the school board to adopt hearing procedures to discipline teachers who had walked off the job on Oct. 6 "was done in an environment where it's known what that (WWEA) stands for," the coverage that surround the four-day strike has made the acronym recognizable to residents.

"It's unfortunate," Monit said. "You can't put officials in a position where they have to worry about recall for every little thing they do. It's terribly unfortunate."

The ruling clears the way for recall supporters to continue collecting signatures of register voters in the district. Maxwell said the plan is to submit the petitions to the Wayne County clerk by Jan. 30, in advance of the 95-day limit for getting issues on the May election ballot.

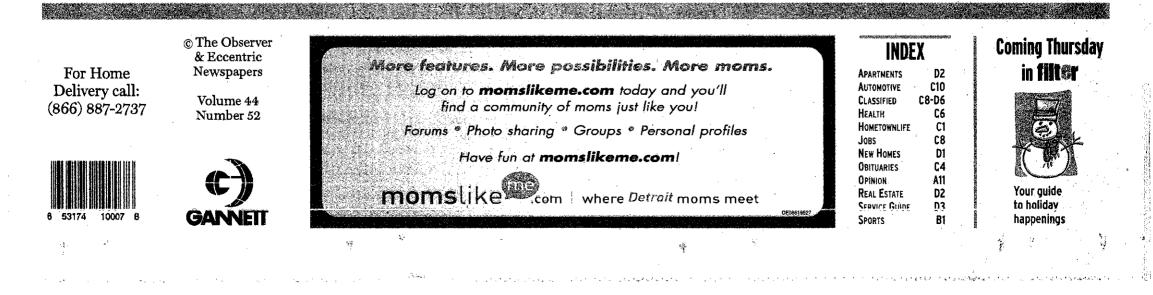

Plans to submit language to recall board Secretary Cindy Schofield and Trustee William Gabriel to the Wayne County Elections Commission also have been delayed. Maxwell had said that language was going to submitted on Friday, but she now plans to meet with recall committee members this weekend about delaying it until the August election.

"We'll definitely pursue recall of them, but we may aim for a later date," she said. "We're upset with how money is being spent in the district, but we don't want to take money away from the students with a special election."

With the petition drive moving forward, Monit said he and Pitsenbarger will now start their own campaign to battle a possible recall election. They will form a campaign committee and start holding fund-raisers.

"We're going to start getting the word out," he said. "We have a pretty sizable amount of contacts, and we plan to fight this to the bitter end."

Public helps LPS set priorities plan for buildings

BY REBECCA JONES OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

(W)

Long-term planning for Livonia Public Schools buildings got underway Wednesday night with the first of three community focus groups.

More than 300 people have registered to attend these. The next two are Dec. 2 and Dec. 4. Students and staff will also participate.

"Almost everyone has come here with ideas that they're ready to share, and we're here to receive that," said Donna McDowell, administrator for communications.

The 40- to 55-year-old buildings are generally in good repair, but need modernizing, said Supt. Randy Liepa. "We want to make the schools excellent educational facilities for students and a source of pride for the community."

Participants broke into small groups to discuss what they consider the top priorities to be addressed, from a list that included curb appeal, energy efficiency, safety, classroom instruction upgrades, technology, fine arts, air conditioning and building additions.

Bob Fisher, who has three children in the district, said security and technology were his group's top projects.

"Everyone is after the same goal," he said, which is educating students.

Some members of one group reasoned that energy efficiency would lead to cost savings and allow the district to address other projects.

Dawson Barnes, a junior at Franklin High School, was one of the focus group facilitators. From his perspective, classroom improvements are needed, especially in terms of teaching "supplies," he said, adding air quotes with his hands for emphasis.

"It was a good session, very well structured (and) non-confrontational," said Dave Bartek, a parent participant.

All of the responses will be typed and posted online once all the focus groups are finished, McDowell said. The school board will also get a summary in January. Sometime next year, the board will decide whether to put a sinking fund renewal, millage request or both on the ballot.

The current sinking fund, which raises $6 million per year for building and site repairs, expires in February and runs through the 2009-10 fiscal year.

Students aim to please with toy designs

BY REBECCA JONES OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Whether kids want a motorized toy that climbs a 30degree ramp, one that moves quickly on a flat surface, or one topped off by a red snowman with pipe cleaner arms, there was something for everyone at Emerson Middle School's toy fair.

Seventh-graders learned engineering, teamwork, consumer research and presentation skills while taking part in the project in teacher Kim DuSablon's science classes.

One class was sponsored by Honeywell and Society of Automotive Engineers for an international competition, but SAE provided kits (gears and a fabrication frame) for all classes, and they were all part of the motorized toy fair.

Students had to decide how to put them together (for speed or torque), as well as how to decorate the toy. The goal was to make it appeal to kids 6 to

Fitness clubs offers workouts 24/7

BY SUE MASON OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Word of mouth is what brought Michael Bobby to Anytime Fitness. He checked it out and liked what he saw.

In fact, he liked the idea that it fit his seven-day-a-week fitness routine.

"The best thing I like is that it's open 24 hours a day," Bobby said. "I work 7 p.m. to 7 a.m., the nights I'm off, I come in and work out. It's the best thing I like about it."

Located on Wayne Road, south of Bayview, Anytime Fitness offers members a convenient workout option at an affordable cost as well as membership reciprocity at any one of the more than 1,000 Anytime Fitness locations in the United States, Canada, and Australia.

"We're doing very well," employee Gregory Balteff said. "People love the concept, we never close."

"The convenience and affordability of Anytime Fitness can't be beat," added office manager Patricia Bon. "Choosing this club makes it easy for members to stay committed to their fitness goals."

The club will celebrate its grand opening with a ribbon-cutting ceremony from 3-5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 25. Club tours will be available during the grand opening celebration as well as staffed hours.

the day or night, every day of the year by using a security-access key to enter the club, even when it is not staffed.

The layout of 4,000-square-foot club is designed for quick and effective exercise. The equipment options include circuit and cross-training machines, free weights, stationary bicycles, and treadmills. Members also can add a tanning option to their membership. Private showers and dressing areas also are available.

"Anytime Fitness clubs are pared down to the essentials necessary for a great workout," Bono said. "Where we don't cut corners is in our personal service and commitment to our members "

The club has been open about two months and has around 350 members. Word-of-mouth as well as lawn signs that can be found on street corners around the city have helped introduce people to Anytime Fitness.

One-year and two-year memberships are available and cost between $25 and $35, depending on the member's needs.

MotorCity Casino employee, but police believe he already had killed her after arranging to meet her outside her house. A taxicab driver has testified that he drove Howard to the neighborhood.

Westland police Sgt. Steve Borisch testified during Howard's preliminary hearing that Howard indicated during an interrogation that Laci Green had been strangled, even before Borisch knew the cause of death. Borisch said in court last summer that he believed Howard was angry that Laci Green had broken up with him and was seeing another man.

Another officer, Robert Fruit, testified that Howard had the same kind of fresh grass clippings on his clothing that police found on Laci Green's body.

"All he kept saying was he had nothing to do with it," Fruit said in court last summer.

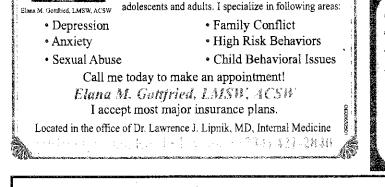

Howard's hearing spanned several days, and during one dramatic moment he suddenly slammed his hands on a courtroom table where he sat. Defense attorney Bertram Johnson has indicated in court that Howard might not have been given a chance to see an attorney before he spoke with police.

For now, all the Greens can do is try to make it through Thanksgiving, then Christmas, then another year, knowing that their daughter will not celebrate any more milestones with them.

"Our daughter was the joy of our life," Edward Green said. "We are really glad that the trial has been set."

Facts about polar bears

Polar bears make their home in the Arctic Ocean and the northern most areas of Alaska, Canada, Greenland, Russia and Norway's Svalbard archipelago. In areas where long-term studies are available, polar bear populations are showing signs of stress due to the effects of climate change and the resultant loss of sea ice. Consequentially, the International Union for the Conservation of nature officially classified the polar bear as a vulnerable species in 2005 and in 2008 the U.S. Department of the Interior reclassified the polar bear as a Threatened Species under the Endangered Species Act.

A4

In the wild, polar bears live an average of 15 to 18 years and in captivity, they may live until their mid- to late 30s. Polar bears usually only breed once every three years, but when they do, cubs are often born in pairs.

The average male polar bear weighs 550 to 1,700 pounds! Female polar bears usually only tend to weigh half of that amount. These unique mammals can withstand temperatures of -50 degrees and can actually be more susceptible to overheating than the cold. They are protected with a layer of blubber that can measure 4.5 inches thick.

Christine Roperti gets a little help from four-year-old grandson Maverick in the turkey yard at the Roperti Turkey Farm in Livonia.

Turkey farm marks its 60th year

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Christine Roperti doesn't just talk turkey. She knows turkeys.

It has been life on the turkev farm on Five Mile, since it was her father's and since she was a child. Today she owns the farm that bears her last name, celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. That's a long time for a business, let alone for a farm, that sits in the middle of a suburb.

"By 9 years old, I was driving the tractor and helping my dad plant crops for the turkeys," she said. "I have been a turkey farmer since then. I always enjoyed working outside and the years when I worked with my dad."

Roperti's father, Thomas Roperti, moved from Dearborn in 1942 and bought five acres and the farm to provide for his family

"At the time, this area of Livonia was all dirt roads and open land," Christine Roperti said. The family had 40 head of cattle and sold milk to Twin Pines Dairy.

But the cattle were sold in the late 1940s, when Christine's brother Fred, enlisted in the Army. "My dad sold all his cattle because he relied on his son to help him with the farming and the workload was much too demanding to do by himself," Christine said.

Thomas Roperti asked his best friend, Rocco Mussilini, for ideas as to what he should do now to provide for his family. His friend suggested he raise turkeys and sell them to family and friends. In 1948, Roberti started with 50 turkeys and the next year he raised 100 and 500 the third year, Christine said.

"And the demand just grew from there," she said.

Turkeys, which are free range and corn-fed at the farm from August through December, are her passion. "I take great pride in raising my turkeys," Roperti said.

Roperti wants to keep providing the best quality turkeys that she knows how for her customers and her family. "I hope to make people more aware of where their food comes from and how it's raised," Roperti said. "I want people to realize how important it is to support your local farmer because we want to continue providing the best quality turkeys for generations to come. "My neighbors love knowing that I won't sell my property to builders that want to turn my farm into another subdivision. My family farm is a place that families have made a tradition of coming to year after year. I have customers that have been coming here since the farm first began raising turkeys."

Roperti plans to keep the farm going, raising turkeys for holiday meals. And while local businesses may have cut back on large scale purchases of holiday turkeys for employees, she still encourages businesses and families to consider buying them as holiday gifts. "Families refuse to buy any other turkey even though the economy is the worst we've seen in recent history," Roperti said.

401(k) plan not at risk

Dear Rick: I work for a small company in the automotive business. I think the company will go out of business. My concern is with my 401(k) plan. If my employer files for bankruptcy or closes down, is my 401(k) at risk? If it is, is there anything that I can do to protect it?

Your 401(k) plan is not considered an asset of the a separate trust

Although 401(k) plans are shielded they are subject to market fluctuation. If a portion of the 401(k) is invested in company stock and the company does go out of business, there will be a significant loss.

Employees should limit their exposure to company stock. I recognize there is a loyalty issue, however, the bigger issue is diversification. Investors cannot afford to keep all their eggs in one basket. That is why it's important to limit the amount of exposure to company stock.

Let there be light! Lightfest opens for month of holiday fun

Wayne County Parks' Lightfest officially opened Thursday with fireworks, music and Santa Claus.

Lightfest features more than 35 giant animated displays and over one million lights; it is the Midwest's largest and longest light show. The complete Lightfest route is over four miles of Hines Drive. The light display is open 7-10 p.m. through Jan. 1 (closed on Christmas Day).

Dec. 2, 9 and 16 will be Toy Nights. Wayne County will be lending a hand to provide toys to disadvantaged children in Wayne County. On these nights, the community is invited to bring a new, unwrapped toy in lieu of the suggested $5 donation fee. Visitors are also welcome to contribute the recommended donation.

At the walk through display area, visitors can stop by Santa's Workshop at the Warrendale Area for refreshments and gift shopping. Santa will be there from Thanksgiving until Dec. 23. Don't forget to bring your letters to Santa! Outside of Santa's workshop there will be a giant mailbox where kids of all ages can drop off their letters to Santa. Santa's elves will pick up the letters each night.

Although Lightfest begins at 7 p.m., Hines Drive will be closed to traffic beginning at 5:45 p.m. nightly. Visitors enter Wayne County Lightfest at Hines Drive and Merriman, 2½ miles south of I-96 in Westland.

Lightfest is presented in partnership with Fox 2 News, Magic 105.1 FM, DBT Marketing and Promotional Group, Garden City Hospital, McDonald Modular, the Friends of Wayne County Parks, Entertainment Express Luxury Limousine and ITC Holdings.

This young angler caught (and released) this beautiful rainbow trout in Canton last year.

Cyndi Ross of Friends of the Rouge was one of shout two dozen people to paddle down the Lower Rouge River last. month through Wayne and Westland.

Salmon, trout prove Rouge no longer on brink of death about fishing (including for trout and salmon), canoeing and taking hikes along picturesque banks.

OK, I'll give you a moment to get the langhter out of your system. I'm not crazy (well, maybe a little bit). And I'm not thinking about the future. Believe it or not, after a generation of restoration efforts, the Rouge River is steadily coming back to life.

Since participating in my first Rouge Rescue about a decade ago, I've gotten to know our little and all that humanity has done to Plymouth resident, Walker grew her. I have come to learn that this river (like all of nature) is resilient and full of surprises.

Like last weekend, when I took the kids and dog for a walk across the street to Goudy Park in downtown Wayne. As we walked along the river's edge, I looked down to see a female salmon laying along the rocks. She had just died after spawning near a spot just below some rapids. When I picked her up, eggs were still pouring out of her. I looked upstream about 10 yards, and I saw at least three other salmon swimming around looking for a mate. They were trying fulfill their destiny before dying on the banks of the Lower Rouge River.

As chance would have it, Frank Walker pulled up after having done some steelhead fishing in the Huron River in Flat Rock. Walker is a longtime Wayne-Westland teacher, who has brought students down to the Rouge River to conduct water up along the banks of the Lower Rouge in Wayne and knows it well. He has been documenting the annual salmon run for about a decade.

As we examined the dead salmon, he noticed that it didn't have a clipped fin, meaning it was a naturally reproduced fish and not the product of a DNR fish hatchery. He's convinced these fish have been successfully reproducing in the Rouge. You read that right — the Rouge River.

It kind of contradicts the old image of the Rouge, doesn't it.

The Rouge watershed, probably the state's most urban watershed, is also home to trout. The DNR has been planting brown trout in Johnson Creek, a cold-running tributary stream in western Wayne County and part of Washtenaw County, for a number of years. There are also rainbow trout thriving in the Lower Rouge River in Canton Township. A few of the small headwater streams

While many people had written the Rouge off as a dead river a long time ago, there has been an army of volunteers, spearheaded by Friends of the Rouge, who were not ready to write its obituary. Thanks to U.S. District Court Judge John Feikens, who has forced local governments to uphold the Clean Water Act, these volunteers have been buoyed by a commitment from local, county and state government to change the Rouge's fortunes

In the last two decades, millions of dollars have been invested in restoration projects. As a result, monitoring has continued to show improved water quality and overall ecosystem health. Dissolved oxygen levels are higher at most monitoring stations compared to five years ago. Bacteria counts are declining. There have been numerous habitat restoration and streambank stabilization projects conducted throughout the watershed. The presence of trout and salmon is proof that these efforts are starting to pay off.

As the river improves, some people are trying to promote the river's recreational possibilities, including fishing and canoeiug.

Friends of the Rouge recently led a group of about two dozen people on a canoe/kayak adventure along the Lower Rouge through Wayne and Westland under a canopy of beautiful fall colors. (If you want to watch a short video of the trip, visit www.youtube.com/ watch?v=fLtSFLcZeqQ on the Web.)

One of the people on that trip was Northville author Doc Fletcher, who penned the book Weekend Canoeing in Michigan: The Rivers, The Towns, The Taverns. He was impressed with the trip. He is doing a followup book about canoeing less-known Michigan rivers and is including a chapter about the Rouge River. A generation ago, that would have been unimaginable.

Www.hometownlife.com

There is still a lot to do to restore the Rouge River, beginning with not destroying important headwater areas and wetlands in the upper reaches of the watershed. But the fact is our efforts are starting to pay off. Saving this river isn't as farfetched a notion as it might have seemed years ago, when the river was on the brink of death.

This is what I and many others think about when the Rouge River is the topic of conversation.

No. 1 Jenison ends Churchill's run

BY BRAD EMONS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

It had been exactly 54 days — Sept. 27 at the Temperance Bedford Tournament — since Livonia Churchill's volleyball team had tasted defeat.

Defending state Class A champion and No. 1-ranked Jenison spoiled the Chargers' quest for their third Class A volleyball state title in school history with a 25-17, 21-25, 25-12, 25-22 victory Friday night at Battle Creek's Kellogg Center.

The Wildcats, 64-6 overall, moved into Saturday's championship with a rematch against Bloomfield Hills Marian (65-8-1). Churchill, trying to duplicate its 2006 (winter season) state championship run bowed out at 49-4 overall.

Senior outside Megan Hendrickson, bound for Duke, collected the game-winning kill, one of her 20 on the night, after Churchill had rallied and closed the deficit to two, 24-22.

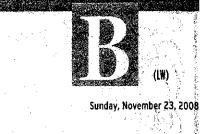

Jessica Maier and Elizabeth Vaughan added 12 and 10 kills, while setter Leah Poel finished with a game-high 43 assistto-kills for the Wildcats.

Senior outside hitter Kristen Nalecz recorded a team-high 16 kills for the Chargers. Junior middle hitter Cierra Yetts added nine, including five in the second set to go along with two blocks, in sparking Churchill's only set win in the second.

Churchill's downfall in the match was 39 attacking and 11 service errors.

"I couldn't ask for anything more," Churchill coach Mark Grenier said. "We had our chances, but we made too many unforced errors. The kids played hard, but we got caught with too many (errors) and you can't do that against a good Jenison team.'

Taylor Root, bound for Valparaiso University, finished with 21 digs, while Poel added 17.

The 6-foot Hendrickson also contributed 11 digs and kept Churchill's defense off-balance with a variety of attacks from all angles of the court.

"She (Hendrickson) changed things up a couple of times and went in the opposite direction," Grenier said. "There's a reason why she was runner-up for Miss Volleyball. And their libero (Taylor Root) — we couldn't get the ball around her. They played great defense and they did a good job.'

Churchill senior Lindsey Graciak played an outstanding match with a game-high 22 digs. Teammate Taylor Kerr added 10. Setter Kristy DeClercq finished with 19 assists.

"They (Jenison) moved really to leave here saying we put our all into it. That's what makes it so hard."

Graciak was one of four players who played reserve roles on Churchill's 2006 state championship squad.

"We had that little feeling from before, that fire, that's why we really wanted it," she said. "I'm so proud of everything we did. We played our hearts out and just lost to one of the best teams."

Jenison lost the second set, but romped in the third. The Wildcats then built leads of 23-19 and 24-20 in the fourth before Churchill rallied. That forced Jenison coach Alana Kooi to call a last-ditch timeout.

"I was getting a little nervous, but we knew it would be a struggle," Kooi said. "They run a high offense and it slows things down. It makes it difficult to play them. They play a very different game than East Kentwood, which likes to spread the floor, play fast and use a lot of different combinations. We tried to speed things up as much as we could. We wanted to control the tempo." Following the timeout, Hendrickson came through with a thunderous shot to the middle of the floor for match point.

"Volleyball is a momentum game and at this level no team is better than the other," Kooi said. "She (Hendrickson) did a great job of coming through. She rose to the occasion. She's a great leader on the court. That's why she's a premier player."

Churchill, meanwhile, will lose seven seniors to graduation, including Nalecz, Graciak, DeClercq, Kat Krupsky, Jessica Stroud, Rachel Elery and Katie Matz.

"I told them (afterward) that I was proud of what they accomplished and that there's a bigger picture than this game," Grenier said. "It was a good experience and a good year. We showed a lot of heart and determination. It was an honor to be here."

specialist Nicole Zehel's fourpoint service run (featuring a patented Refenes spike) put Lutheran Westland up 5-1 and turned out to be a sign of things to come.

That game was effectively over after senior libero Abi Gieschen's strung together four more points to make it 14-7.

Pellston never led in the middle game, with another round of laser serves by Abi Gieschen (including two aces) putting the Warriors up 16-7.

"I kind of try not to think about it," Gieschen said about her serving. "I just take a deep breath and try to get it in the court, hit high (over the net)." The Warriors and Hornets traded sideouts in the early going of Game 3 before Yankee's five-point service run got the ball rolling toward a clinching victory.

Yankee also served up six points later in the game (with two more Refenes kills) as the Warriors went up 20-8.

Finishing off the Hornets with three service points was Lauren Gieschen.

Wade said jumping out to a lead in every game, and not letting Pellston back into it, turned out to be essential.

"When you can build a lead and make a run, you've just got more confidence, you don't have to press," he said. "And so we got the lead, it seemed like every game was a carbon. copy.

The only Hornets to challenge the Warriors at all were junior outside hitter Katie Dzedzie (nine kills, four digs), junior setter Rachel Hutto (21 assists, six digs) and heavy-hitting senior outside hitter Nicole Madigan (two kills, four digs).

NO WORRIES

Meanwhile, with one end zone jammed with enthusiastic Warriors fans dressed in white, Lutheran Westland showed little signs of nervousness under the Kellogg spotlight.

"You thrive off that," Wade said. "They're rooting for you, cheering for you and you're making good plays. "It just gets you up even

According to Refenes, who led the way with 17 kills and 11 digs, being on the big stage was quite a thrill.

"I was pretty excited going into it, and then we got on and it was super fun," Refenes said. "I haven't done anything that fun in a while.

Ramthun (six kills, nine digs) noted that the Warriors "were really excited going into it, and really pumped for it. We started strong right away."

Abi Gieschen (six digs) added that being at Kellogg was "really exciting, we've never been here before. It's our senior year, so it's a good way to end it."

Wade said the team's poise Friday can't hurt it in the championship match. But it will still come down to making the plays.

"We played well, we got a chance to play on Saturday and that's all we can ask for," he continued. "Whatever happens, win or lose, we're champions no matter what.

"We're happy to be here and we'll give it our best shot."

ELMAR ENGHOLM, JR., PLYMOUTH: The foreign-exchange student from Sweden left a lasting mark on the Wildcats' program as he became the No. 1 runner in the school's history,. setting a mark of 15:48. He won the Holly Invitational, the KLAA conference meet, the KLAA South Division meet and the Ypsilanti Early Bird meet. To add icing to the cake, he placed second at the Division 1 Regional and earned All-State status by placing 23rd at the state meet.

"Elmar, who's just 16 years old, would have had a good chance of being in the top five in the state next year if he didn't have to go back to Sweden at the end of the school year," Plymouth coach Jon Mikosz said.

DUNCAN SPITZ, SR., CANTON: Spitz had a spectacular senior season, placing second at the KLAA South Divisio meet, third at the KLAA conference meet and eighth at the Division 1 Regional meet before turning in a 16:14 clocking at the state meet.

"Duncan is probably the greatest runner in school history," said Canton coach Bill Boyd. "Duncan was a four-year letterman who was named first team all area three times. He has broken the school record three times. and has run three of the school's four fastest times ever at the state meet."

MATT DEVEY, SR., SALEM: The four-year varsity performer was the Rocks' No. 1 runner throughout most of the fall, placing 11th at the KLAA Central Division race, sixth at the KLAA conference meet, 10th at the D1 Regional and 59th in the state meet.

"Matt is a four-year runner who showed tremendous improvement over his junior and senior seasons," said Salem coach Geoff Baker. "His personal best of 16:20 came at the state meet where he executed the race plan to perfection. Matt is the perfect example of what can happen with hard work and dedication — he was not a varsity runner until half-way through his junior season,

Vegetarian tasting a time for sharing hanksgiving is probably a lot of people's favorite holiday, but especially vegetarians who take pride in the fact that they're not only eating healthy but a turkey hasn't died for them. That's probably why there were a lot of happy diners at the Vegetarian Holiday Tasting Extravaganza Sunday, Nov. 9, at Metropolitan Seventh-day Adventist School in Plymouth.

While many Seventh-day Adventists opt not to eat meat it was apparent that hundreds of others are trying to eliminate flesh from their diet. Many had come with their families to sample the 57 holiday dishes plus desserts made by about 35 cooks. After picking up our trays and filling them with everything from entrees to side dishes, my sister Gwen and I began rating the dishes listed in the program. One star meant it was good, two stars we'd probably make it, three we really liked it. All but a few were yummy or at the very least met with our approval. Although near the end we were so full it became harder and harder to tell how much we liked the appetizers, soups, salads and desserts. Still, sharing the information was fun. We even exchanged our findings with Amy and Diane, the sisters-in-law who sat next to us. They weren't total vegetarians but trying to cut down on the amount of meat they ate as part of their diet. The extravaganza allowed them to taste different vegan and vegetarian dishes before trying the recipes in the cookbook sold at the event.

PLYMOUTH SYMPHONY HOLIDAY HOME TOUR

What: Tour of seven Plymouth Township homes decorated for the holidays began rating the dishes listed in the program.

Vegan dishes have no animal products as opposed to vegetarian which can contain milk, eggs and cheese. The main courses ranged from a polenta and veggie sausage stuffing by Jeanie Weaver to holiday pecan loaf by her mother-in-law Natalie.

Jeanie Weaver was especially excited as she floated from table to table. The personal trainer founded the tasting extravaganza 21 years ago. She said switching to a plantbased diet is not as simple as not eating meat. Anyone considering the change should first educate themselves about a nutritious meatless diet. It wasn't easy to do when we stopped eating meat in the mid 1970s because PBB in feed left our neighbor's dairy cattle crippled. After watching him bury his entire herd, we gave up red meat then pork, poultry and fish. Today more and more studies show the less meat you eat the better. You don't have to become a vegetarian, but trying some of these dishes could be a pleasant surprise.

Back then there were only a few meatless cookbooks which made the switch difficult. Mostly we tried to substitute grains and beans for meat.

There was only one kind of tofu — the white brick. It was pretty tasteless because we didn't know how to season it or what to use it in. It wasn't until we discovered ethnic foods that we realized there are many cultures around the world who eat very little or no meat. Years later I'm still looking for vegetarian recipes and looking forward to the March 29, 2009 Better Health cooking seminar at the Metropolitan Seventh-day Adventist School. To sign up, call (248) 349-5683.

Community leaders put on grease paint for a family affair

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN O&E STAFF WRITER

John Landis counts on remaining anonymous behind the grease paint when America's Thanksgiving Parade steps off at 9:20 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 27, in Detroit.

During the week he is managing director of The PrivateBank in Bloomfield Hills so it's important clients take him seriously. Thanksgiving Day is another story as the Livonia resident joins more that 100 community and business leaders in the Distinguished Clown Corps.

Without the clowns, The Parade Company might not be able to produce the event. Each pays $1,000 for the privilege of marching down Woodward on the day meant for families.

"It's just really quite amazing that these business and community leaders come out year after year," said Joan LeMahieu, president of The Parade Company and a Bloomfield Hills resident. "Their involvement demonstrates their commitment to one of the community's treasures."

COSTUME MILESTONES

Landis will proudly don his 20-year costume for the 82nd annual parade. Every five years the clowns receive a new suit to designate their years of surviving all kinds of Michigan weather. Landis will wear a silver and black outfit, his cape and a special silver ruffle celebrating the corps 25th anniversary this year. His son Kris, a Farmington Hills police officer, received his five-year suit for 2008. Clowns look forward to this milestone as their first costume is a one piece which makes going to the bathroom a real challenge, said Landis.

"I got started because a friend, Linda Kuhn, asked me to be part of the parade," said Landis. "You have to be invited and sponsored. When I started to do this my family became involved. My son Kris was 5. My first year I didn't know anybody. While it was fun it wasn't that family atmosphere. Now you go down for the breakfast, get made up any way you want and get your picture taken with your family

"For the three-story Winter Wonderland, she makes her own ornaments," said Mueller, who's been involved with the tour since 1985. "Her whole kitchen was created in Germany and shipped here. It has a European flair. Each was chosen because it either has historical significance, architectural design or decor."

The Nimmerguths moved into their 5,200square-foot Cape Cod in 2004 and began ripping up floors and replacing them with cherry wood. Linda worked with Maggie Walsh of Interior Painting, Antiquing & Faux Finishes to give an old world look to the kitchen cabinets by painting and adding architectural details. In the next room, a door wall was converted into a fireplace. Visitors especially won't want to miss the memory room with vintage family photographs, a doll dressed in a sailor suit their son wore as a toddler, and Gary's mother's wedding dress. Gary had the task of carrying up the boxes full of decorations. Even the rabbit statue in the front yard bears a wreath around its neck.

The Gallery is located on the second floor of the Center for Advanced Technologies, 1400 Oakman Boulevard, Detroit. Secure parking is available in the lot just south of the building.

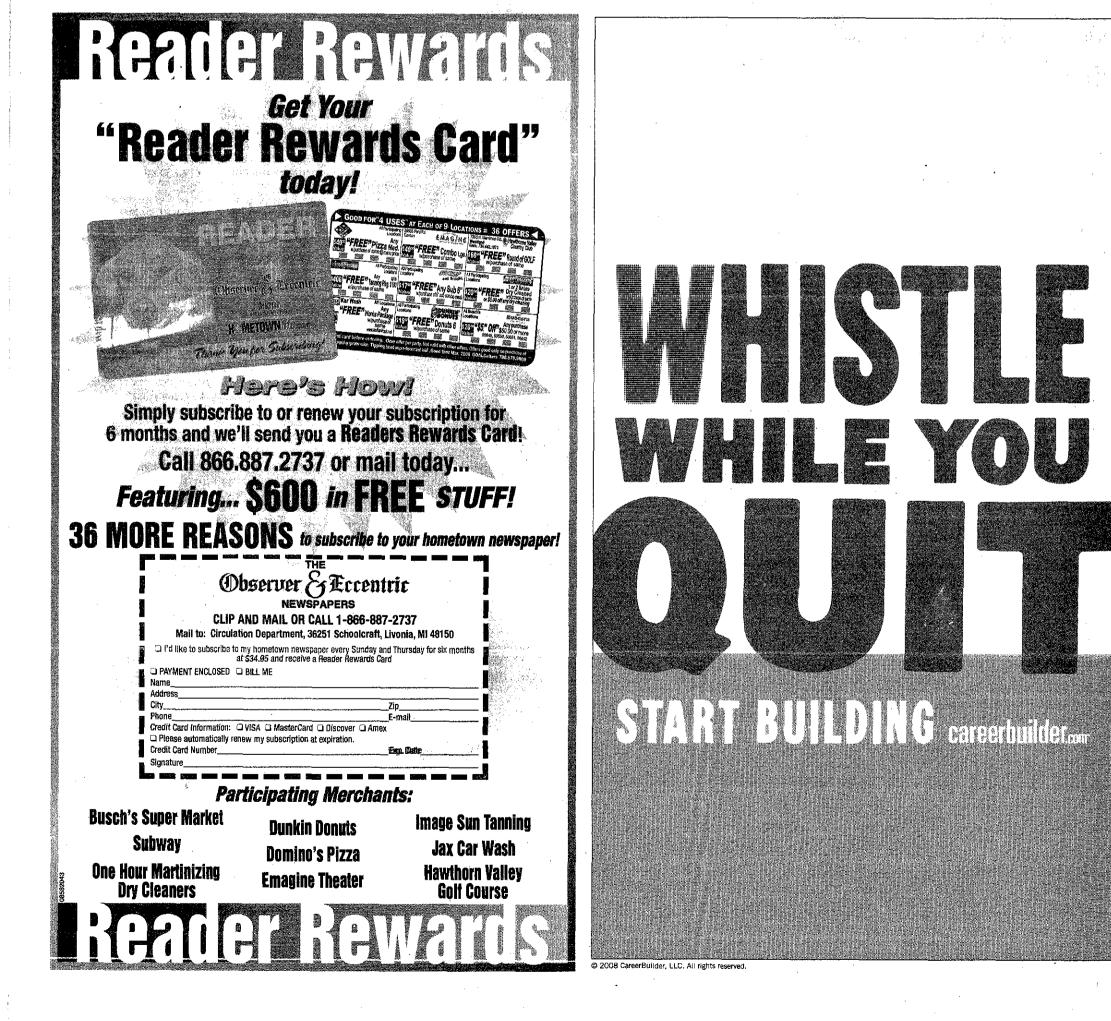

A three-year journey lasting from March 2006 through December 2008, allowed high school students from communities in Wayne and Oakland counties to learn technical photographic techniques along with artistic aesthetics using black and white and color photography.

Program sessions took place during nonschool hours on Focus: HOPE's campus, as well as field trips to such locations as Matthaei Botanical Gardens, Greenfield Village, Russell Industrial Center, Renaissance Festival, Eastern Market, Detroit Winter Blast, and downtown Royal Oak, among other sites. Each student worked toward the creation of a photographic group exhibition, themed series, digital portfolio, and their own Web page featuring selected works from the past three years.

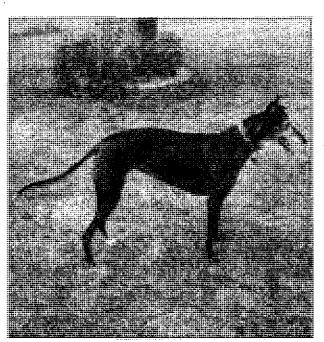

"This program has not only provided these young people with marketable skills, it has also given them an outlet for selfawareness, discipline, and creative expression," said Annette Vanover, manager of community arts at Focus: HOPE. "It's been a privilege working with them and watching them grow artistically and socially."

The program is made possible with a grant from The Skillman Foundation and the support of Cole Street Studio of Birmingham, College for Creative Studies, and Boll Family YMCA.

The Community Arts programs are among several initiatives Focus: HOPE uses to bridge the racial divide in southeast Michigan. Focus: HOPE, which is now celebrating its 40th anniversary year, offers a food program that assists 42,000 women, children and senior citizens each month; education and training programs in the areas of engineering, manufacturing and information technology; a child care center, and neighborhood revitalization initiatives.

Consumers need improved recall notification was talking on my office telephone the other day to a homeowner who was having a problem with her Maytag dishwasher that is 10 years old. I told her that Maytag dishwashers produced between 1997 and 2001 were under a national recall because of a fire Appliance hazard. Even though 2.1 million dishwashers were sold with this existing problem, only 32 percent of the U.S. population knows about this recall. While I was explaining what was wrong with this customer's dishwasher, Marylou who sits next

Joe Gagnon to my office, was on her telephone calling the Maytag Co. When she hung up she came running over to my desk with a big smile on her face. "I just made $75 by listening to you and calling Maytag."

I asked her to explain what was going on. You see, Marylou has a Maytag dishwasher, which is eight years old, it's not working and she was going to donate it to some scrap metal company. The Maytag Co. told her to punch some holes in the bottom of the inner drum so no one else would be able to use it and they would send her a voucher for $75. Is Marylou smart or what!

In this world we live in it is quite simple to find out about a recall concerning one of your major home appliances. Use the Google thing and ask for information. Type in the make of the product and what it is and all this information pops up.

If I had my way, the manufacturer would be totally responsible for informing the homeowner if they had a defective product in their home and there would be some serious consequences, severe penalties assessed to that manufacturer should someone suffer through a fire or loss of life. I know all products come with a registration card but many people just stuff that somewhere never to be seen again. There has got to be a better way to make sure that consumers are informed.

I talked with Linda from Bill & Rods Appliance in Livonia and she told me that they registered all the products they sell to their customers. I told her that I would like to see a system like the credit cards we receive. You have to call in to activate the card and maybe the manufacturers could use the same system. She thought this is a great idea, as there are homeowners who purchase a product and leave it in the box until months later when they put it into use. These consumers don't realize that the warranty starts when you purchase the appliance, not six months later when you plug it in. They end up paying for repairs and loosing out on the warranty coverage.

The warranty coverage has changed in the past two years on major home appliances. The majority of appliances now carry a one-year full warranty without any limited warranty on such components as transmissions, compressors, pumps etc. This is just another example of how companies are cutting their expenses and the proven fact is the burden of repair costs is extended to the homeowner. The example of the Maytag dishwasher recall is very expensive and must hurt the bottom line of the Whirlpool Corporation, which owns Maytag today. Is it even possible that a company would forget its corporate responsibility to their customers by not doing what is necessary to make sure that all homeowners are aware of a defective product? I hope not. Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard at 8 a.m., Saturdays on WAAM 1600 and Sundays at 2 p.m. on WDTK 1400. You can e-mail your problems and questions on appliances to appldr@twmi.rr.com

KICKin' kidney disease

Educational program raises awareness in students

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN O&E STAFF WRITER

Mariam Swaad was one of the first to raise her hand when health teacher Tom Alles asked the class if they knew anyone with kidney disease. The question led off the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan program he presents twice a year to students at Salem High School in Canton. Pre- and post-tests determine students' knowledge as well as the effectiveness of the K.I.C.K. (Kids Interested in the Care of their Kidneys) program available to schools.

Swaad thought she knew about kidney disease until watching the educational video about a 12-year-old girl who was on dialysis three times a week for two years until receiving a kidney from her brother. Swaad watched her uncle die while waiting for a donor. Kidney disease runs in her family. Her 5-year-old cousin is on dialysis treatments which remove waste from the blood when kidneys fail.

"I'm already eating healthy and exercising but didn't know so many different factors could affect it," said Swaad.

According to the National Kidney Foundation, 26 million Americans suffer from chronic kidney disease; that's why it's important to not only know the warning signs such as swelling of feet and ankles, puffiness around eyes, and lower back pain, but how to avoid the loss of function. Alles wasn't aware of the causes of kidney diseases or failure when first presenting the program 10 years ago. He uses the video as part of a comprehensive curriculum that includes nutrition and eating disorders, physical fitness, human sexuality, mental health, chemical dependency, and chronic and communicable diseases.

SUCCESS SEEN

The approach seems to be working. Fewer students are smoking and at least have an awareness of the need for proper nutrition and exercise than when he began teaching health 30 years ago. Alles reaches about 350 students a year as the health course is a graduation requirement.

"Factors such as diabetes, high blood pressure predispose people to kidney disease," said Alles. "Not smoking is a factor in the development of kidney disease which can lead to cancer of the urinary tract, bladder and kidneys which have to filter out toxins. We see fewer students using illicit substances, smoking, but still need to work on the nutrition element and exercise. There are a fair amount of students who could improve on their weight and what they're eating. When both parents work, they eat pizza, burgers because that's all that's available to them. There are consequences like high blood pressure, diabetes." Ashley Hinojosa, 14, didn't realize the seriousness of kidney disease until listening to Kayla Jowski talk about her grandfather needing dialysis. Jowski said she learned how to prevent kidney failure. She already dances seven days a week at Dancin' Feet at Summit on the Park community center in Canton to stay in shape. Lindsey Spooner of Plymouth plays softball and Monday night put on an exercise video to work out. She admitted knowing nothing about kidney disease when taking the pre-test.

began in the fall of 1997. "They're the two leading causes of kidney disease," said Merx. "They need to go to a doctor and get checked for blood pressure and diabetes and need to control if diagnosed so they don't get worse. And tell them to ask their parents when was the last time they were checked. They get school and sports physicals, but the parents are less likely to be checked." NKFM reaches out to adults with programs that train African American hair stylists and barbers to share prevention strategies such as eating right and exercising with clients. "One out of three people will develop diabetes or hypertension," said Merx from the NKFM office in Ann Arbor. "If a minority, the chance of getting are one in two. One in nine Michigan people will develop kidney disease. Kidneys clean toxins from the blood, but also help balance body fluids, remove excess water from blood, release hormones that regulate blood pressure, synthesize vitamins which control growth, and also control production of red blood cells." For more information, call NKFM at (734) 222-9800 or (800) 482-1455 or visit www.nkfm.org and click Kidney Disease. To learn about organ donation, visit www.giftoflifemichigan.org.

said Spooner. "Before we learned about diseases I never knew how it could affect me.'

Once kidneys fail the only treatments are dialysis and transplantation. As of Nov. 1, more than 2,500 Michigan residents were waiting for a donor kidney, according to Gift of Life Michigan. Alles stressed to students that the chances of survival with a live donor kidney are 95 percent, 90 percent with a cadaver kidney. Omar Hashwi, 15, said he might consider donating a kidney when he's older.

Larry Merx knows the need for donor organs will increase as the number of kids being diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes and hypertension does. Merx coordinates the NKFM school programs which went to other dentists, but none of them gave me the care that I deserved. I was relieved when I found Parkside Dental Team. The staff is so friendly and the doctors are experienced and professional.

When I met with Dr. Cohen, he was confident that he could give me the results that I was looking for. I received four porcelain veneers on my front teeth and couldn't be happier with the outcome. Now I love showing off my beautiful smile!

I recommend Parkside Dental Team to all my family and friends and my mom is going to have her teeth whitened at the Zoom Room Tooth Whitening Center very soon. by layering and then filling three cake plates with artificial pears and topping with a partridge. For the walk, Ribar Florals in Plymouth is creating a red rose centerpiece to serve as the focal point of the dining room table that forgoes traditional holiday colors for a red, white and black theme.

"I grew up in a family of eight kids and Christmas was all about memories," said Linda. "The music box church belonged to my mother. It brings me closer to my family."

Sandy and Mike Osmer moved into their 4,456-square-foot condo in 2005. Functional is the word for the renovations. One example is the coat closet transformed into a pantry. An interior designer by trade, Sandy is using decorations left over from Blooms Floral and Designs in Birmingham, her former shop.

"It works out better to work with what you have. That's part of the fun of it," said Sandy Osmer. "I kind of do things as I go as opposed to having a set plan. Designing gives you immediate gratification this way."

Osmer's granddaughter Ella, 8, loves decorating too. She'll trim the large-scale doll house in the lower level.

then the clowns step off to basically perform in front of a million people. It's a fun thing to do."

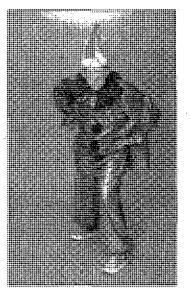

FATHER AND SONS

Syd Ross is clowning around when he says he's found his proper station in life. The Bloomfield Hills resident will have an especially good time leading the clowns as Distinguished Grand Jester just as Landis did last year. Ross never went to a parade until he joined the corps 18 vears ago.

"My kids were little back then," said Ross, CEO of Great Lakes Wine and Spirits. "Now my sons Josh and Victor march with me. They have no children vet but someday they will and we'll get thirdgeneration clowns. It's a good time. You shake hands with the kids and hand beads out. They love the floats. It's funny because the guys and women like doing it, too. We get there about 7 and have professional clowns putting makeup on you. After 15 years you get a cape. When you see someone with a cape they've been a clown for 15 years. It's a little secret, not something we talk about.'

Jack Robinson claims three generations of clowns. This year, daughter Dr. Beth Robinson Swartz, a pediatrician at Henry Ford West Bloomfield, her husband, Steve, and their son, Nathan, a 19-year old student at Kalamazoo College, will join the Bloomfield Hills man in the parade. Robinson was chairman and founder of Perry Drug Stores when he became a clown 25 years ago.

"Being a clown is just great," said Robinson. "You develop a different persona when you remove your tie and suit and polished shoes. You put on the face grease and the wide smiles and all of a sudden you're liberated and having fun. I find it exciting to go out and smile at people. When you smile at people, they smile back."

For Linda Orlans, the experience starts her thinking about the meaning of the season. This year the Birmingham woman will continue to share the tradition of marching in the parade with daughter Alison, 29, and best friend Rox Roselle of Troy. The three work together at E Title Company in Troy which Linda founded. Linda was inspired to become a clown six years after a friend came to her home dressed in her clown suit after the parade.

"For me it starts the season of giving," said Orlans. "It just changes my mind and I start reflecting upon the year, what's important. It's all about helping people. And it's exciting to see all those little faces bundled up in those snowsuits and all of the smiles."

THINK 'RISK' WHEN PROVIDING CUSTOMER SERVICE

The last time you felt grateful for excellent customer service, you might not have realized it, but by your transaction involved some risk. If Culp you took the time to write the company orsend an e-mail, you can be certain that you'd been feeling vulnerable. The service a business gave you made it possible for you to keep working, unimpeded. Keep this in mind when you provide customer service.

SCHEDULE/IMAGE

Allison Heittman, CEO of software manufacturer Solertium Corp. in Williamsburg, Va., had something at stake. She contacted PrintingforLess.com, a commercial online printer, in Livingston, Mont., in a last-minute effort to order business cards for four employees leaving for a trade show in Barcelona, Spain. Solertium was launching two products there. Heittman had ten business days before leaving. In addition, "I chose a proof by e-mail," she confesses.

PrintingForLess.com guided her on maximizing her background image. "They were very generous with their time," she recalls. She chose the normal business production schedule, four days, to keep costs down, and overnight delivery. The cards arrived in five business days. Heittman was so pleased with color and durability that she wrote the company, something she does only once or twice a year when her expectations are met or exceeded. FACILITY

On October 8, I was sitting at my computer after everyone else had gone home. There were no cars in the parking lot; so the building probably looked closed. A man came to the door with a dolly stacked with two boxes of paper from Office Max (ten reams each) and another small box. He conceded that he'd thought no one here, but that didn't stop him from trying to make his delivery

James Reed, as I learned later, is a distribution driver out of the Chicago office for USM Logistics Inc., based in Willowbrook, Ill. As soon as I spotted that dolly headed through the door, I cringed, recalling another one that was pushed across my grandmother's antique rug. I just told this delivery man that the rug was "special."

Meanwhile, I had two options . . . pick up the paper myself or push it across the rug after he left. Tendinitis in my shoulder made either impossible, even if I'd been strong enough. Reed stopped, without skipping a beat, asking a question or objecting; removed his shoes; and carried one box in each hand to store. On his way out, he said he'd close the door. I couldn't let him. His service meant too much. PERSONAL FINANCES of his life, putting him at risk emotionally, then financially, Bugsby, his 18-month-old rescue Pug, found some sugarless gum in Baldwin's gym bag and ate all of it. Its sweetener, Xylitol, is lethal to dogs.

Alarmed, Baldwin called Poison Control at the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA), then raced Bugsby to an emergency veterinarian. "He pumped Bugsby's stomach, used IVs and kept him for a night," the owner recalls. Then the pooch spent a night or two at the regular veterinarian. Total cost: $1,300.

Baldwin had recently left a pet insurer and signed up for Petplan, but he was apprehensive. His veterinarian had said that most pet insurers look for ways to deny coverage. He filed a claim with all of his receipts. In one week a check came, minus only the deductible: "Zero hassle, fast turnaround, one or two e-mails to make sure the dog was doing okay." He emailed Petplan about how thankful he was and says that he doesn't think he's sent a letter like it since that day in March, 2007.

The next time you're grateful that someone did something for you, let the company know. It's your best way to reward excellent customer service for putting you back in control. Then, when you provide service, find the customer's vulnerable spot and mitigate it.
