AROUND TOWN

Open House

Instead of going to jail, you can see it when the Westland Police Department hosts open house noon-4 p.m. Saturday Sept.

The police department will be open to the public and all of its equipment will be on display. There will be demonstrations throughout the day including K-9, TASER and SWAT. There also will be a bounce for kids and food and refreshments will be served.

The open house will begin at noon with a short ceremony honoring the department's retirees and fellow officers that have passed away.

The police department is on Ford Road west of Westland City Hall.

Alumni Night

The John Glenn High School Football Boosters are inviting former players to come back to school for the Rocket Football Alumni Night Friday, Sept. 11.

The evening includes access to the locker room at 6:30 p.m., free refreshments and free admission to the game which pits the Rockets against Livonia Churchill Chargers. The Rockets are coming off a 42-21 victory over Pinckney last week and hoping to build on their 2-0 season. The Chargers are 1-1 with a 21-7 triumph over Waterford Kettering last week.

Alumni can reserve a spot by calling head coach Tim Hardin at (734) 419-2329 or (734) 620-0063.

Patriot's Day

The City of Westland will host a 9/11 Memorial Service, conducted by St. Matthew Lutheran Church and School at 11 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 13, on the south steps of Westland City Hall, at 36601 Ford Road.

This is the sixth year for the service, which remembers those who perished due to the attacks on Sept. 11, 2001, as well as honors those who continue to serve and protect our community.

Pastor Kurt E. Lambert of St. Matthew Lutheran Church in Westland will preside over the memorial service, which will include performances by the St. Matthew Jubilee and Cherub Choirs as well as the Lutheran High Westland Choir.

Fall classes

Looking for something new this fall for you or your children? Westland Parks and Recreation has lots of possibilities.

There are traditional favorites like karate, cheerleading, baby-sitting classes, ballet, tap, hip hop, aerobics, cardio-kickboxing, round dance, yoga and gymnastics, as well as many new programs, including Bollywood, Zumba for kids or adults, guitar workshops, Pilates/yoga, Reducing Home Energy Costs and more.

Check out the recreation department's Web site at www.cityofwestland.com for more information.

Registration has already begun for classes, so don't delay. Stop by the Bailey Recreation Center in the civic center complex on Ford west of Wayne Road or call (734) 722-7620 to register.

Grant lets city develop energy strategy

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Westland has received $50,000 in federal funding to develop an energy efficiency and conservation strategy — an effort that should clear the way to receiving a $731,000 energy grant.

"Before the city can use the grant money, we have to complete a strategy. That's what the $50,000 is for," said Community Development Director Joanne Inglis. "It won't cost that much but the Department of Energy recommended we put that amount on the application."

The city had already used a state grant to do an energy audit on city buildings which resulted in plans to replace the HVAC and mechanical at the police station, Mike Modano

Ice Arena and the Bailey Recreation Center.

"It's a wonderful grant. We have 120 days for the strategy completion. I'm hoping that we can start working on the project by the first of the year," said Inglis.

Westland is one of eight Michigan cities and counties receiving $1.6 million in federal funding to develop an energy efficiency and conservation strategy, which details how the communities plan to save energy, reduce their greenhouse gas emission and create or save local jobs.

Funded through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, the money is part of the Department of Energy's Energy

Students get a 'Bright Futures' welcome back to school

Hand claps and hugs. For youngsters at Schweitzer Elementary School, Tuesday morning started off with plenty of both as the school staff lined up to applaud their return to the classroom, and youngsters paused to give a hug to a favorite teacher.

"And they just keep on coming," said fourth-grade teacher David Schofield looking at the line of parents of students waiting to make their grand entrance, then adding a "Hey, we don't have time for hugs" to a student wrapping her arms around a teacher.

Early morning showers dried up long enough for students and parents to gather in front of the school's main entrance to march in to the applause and strains of the school district's "Great Futures" song. It's a tradition at the Westland school that Principal April Quasarano was looking forward to. Quasarano is replacing Mary Garzon who has returned to the classroom.

"This is fun, the kids really like it," said Quasarano, the former

"They said to dress in the school colors, so I dressed as the bee," said Reid. "And I decided to dress like this for the first day."

The rain and even a problem with the PA system couldn't dampen spirits on the first day of school.

"She's nervous, she told me she's going to throw up," said parent Dana Kemp about her daughter Victoria Matuniak, 8. "She's been talking about butterflies in her stomach all day."

According to her mother, the third-grader was excited to find out who will be in her class.

"They put up class lists a few days ago, but I didn't bring her up," Kemp said. "She did get a letter from her teacher, so she knows who it is."

There also were some butterflies in Anne McKolay's kindergarten classroom, with a few youngsters shedding tears after their parents said goodbye and left the classroom.

"Usually, it's my parents that are crying," said McKolay. After a few formalities, the City cracks down on illegal signs

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Whether offering a discounted price on a pillow top mattress, offering high paying jobs working from home or promoting garage sales, those signs illegally posted in the public right of way or on utility poles should be disappearing from Westland streets.

The Westland Building Department is stepping up efforts to get compliance of the city's existing ordinance and that means confiscating illegally placed signs.

"We had a business owner come in recently and bring us about 100 illegal signs. He was very nice and didn't charge us for that," said Mayor William Wild. "We met with the building department staff and we will have more enforcement."

"We will confiscate any signs on the right of way. We are asking people to abide by the ordinance," he said.

Under a long-standing ordinance, it's illegal for any person to place, post, nail, paint, print, stamp, or in any other manner attach any placard, poster, circular, showbill, handbill, card, leaflet, political sign or other advertising matter whatsoever on any street or sidewalk, or upon any fence, wall, post, tree, platform, tower, telegraph pole, telephone pole, electric light pole, or other utility pole or tower, or in or on any easement, right of way, or on any public property in the city.

"Illegal signs placed on city property, attached to street signs or utility poles will be confiscated," said Building Director Roger Shifflett. "If the offenders can be identified and the problem continues, warnings and ultimately fines may be issued."

All areas of the city will be targeted and maintained on a daily basis. If signs are up that do not comply, they will be taken down.

A drastic increase of illegal signs has caused the city to take a more strict approach in addressing this issue, Wild said, and the administration is reacting to the concerns of its citizens. Anyone with a complaint about an illegal sign can call the Building Department at (734) 467-3210.

"These signs distract from the natural beauty of our city," said Wild. "We want people to be proud of the community that they live in and take pride in the way it looks to commuters traveling through as well."

Guests needed for baby shower

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Carol Sharp is putting out an invitation for low-income pregnant women to attend her Warm Hearts baby shower tomorrow morning.

There's one catch, they need to register to attend by 5 p.m. today.

"I think the need is great," said Sharp, who plans to be at Jefferson-Barns Elementary this afternoon to find women interested in attending the shower.

The for-moms-only shower will be at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 11, at the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army Corps on Venoy south of Palmer. In addition to lunch, gifts and prizes, there also will be "awesome" guest speakers from Wayne County who will talk to the moms about infant safe sleep, budgeting, nutrition, breastfeeding, positive self-esteem and discipline.

Warm Hearts has been hosting the baby showers for five years and this year added a second one, held in the city of Detroit. According to Sharp, the group works throughout the year, gathering clothing and supplies for moms-to-be, as well as making such things as blankets with donated material. Among items that will given out tomorrow are handmade layettes.

According to Sharp, the organization got its start almost 10 years ago by gathering gently used clothing, sizing it and putting it paper bags that were given to families by the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army.

"We had the Salvation Army give it to youngsters so they could go back to school with a new outfit after Christmas," she said. "We'd put the size on the bag and it would be given to the family, sight unseen."

From there, the group started helping with baby showers at the Coalition on Temporary Shelter, and "then one thing led to another," Sharp said. As the request for receipts from donations increased, the group incorporated at a 501(c)3 charity.

For Sharp, the reward comes in the responses written on the blank thank-you cards given to the guests. While they're meant to solicit ideas to make the showers even better, many contain heart-felt messages about the group's work.

"One card from the Detroit shower said, 'Thank you very much for not looking down at me for being such a young parent,'" Sharp said.

Pregnant women interested in attending must register in advance by calling the Salvation Army at (734) 722-3660, Ext. 101, she added.

students' first day of school started out by squeezing homemade magic Play-Doh that changed color with every smooth. The students flattened it into a pancake, rolled it into a ball and made long skinny snakes before forming the letter O. They even made a snowman before graphing how many red, blue, green and yellow globs of doughs were created.

"There's more academics in kindergarten than there used to be," said McKolay. "They have a lot to learn."

Storytime for the youngsters was Audrey Penn's The Kissing Hand, the story of a young raccoon who was afraid of his first day in school. After reading the book, the youngsters walked through the school, tracking down the heart-shaped clues left by title character Chester the raccoon. Their hunt took them to the school office where they met secretary Jeannie Gallagher, to the art and life skills rooms and the library, where Chester's heart-shaped message sent them off to follow his footprints back to the classroom.

"Now, this is going to be hard looking for the footprints on the floor," said Aaron McKay, following his classmates down the hallway and back to the classroom where Chester surprised them with heart-shaped Jiggler treats.

McKolay began preparing for her new students last week and got the help of neighborhood children in making the more than 60 bags of magic Play-Doh. She also sent out cards, telling them she was tickled pink to have them as students and included a pink feather that matched the pink feather boa she wore to meet them at the school's front door.

Some of what her students did Tuesday was the part of McKolay's tried-and-true first day of school repertoire, like flowers youngsters made at home, using their picture and everything from feathers and seashells to stickers and cereal to decorate them. They will be displayed in the "kinder-garden."

"It's going to be beautiful with all the flowers," she told the children.

The scavenger hunt, however, was new.

"This is the first year I did the hunt, usually we walk just around the school," she said. "Last year, it was who's hopping in kindergarten, but I switched it around this year."

McKolay, who has two kindergarten classes of 26 students each, admits that like her students, she, too, was nervous on the first day of school.

"I'm excited, really excited, but I was nervous the Jigglers wouldn't work," she said.

City disbands cable commission

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Members of the Westland Cable Commission were honored at the start of the council meeting Monday, minutes before the commission was disbanded.

"It's with sadness that we do this. With state and federal legislation, the powers of the cable commission have dwindled to nothing," said Craig Welkenbach, Westland's cable director.

The entire cable commission received certificates of appreciation, including Cindy Couch, Bernard Cybulski, Bob Johnson, Glen Kassel, John Kazaleh, Margaret Lewandowski and Ed Turner. Couch and Lewandowski didn't attend the council meeting for the presentation.

"Thank you for serving, hopefully, we can put you back to work soon," said Mayor William Wild, who presented the certificates along with Councilman Dewey Reeves.

Welkenbach recalled starting his career as a public access manager with Continental Cable and working with the Westland Cable Commission.

"At that time the commission could approve rate increases and had input," said Welkenbach. "The cable companies don't send representatives to the cable commission meetings. The commission did a great job for many years. Working on the other side (for the city), they let nothing get

by. They were great advocates for the city."

A letter from City Attorney Angelo Plakas noted that the Uniform Video Services Local Franchise Act enacted by the state legislature effectively eliminated discretionary powers for the cable commission. Since that law was enacted, two of three cable companies serving Westland have opted for franchise coverage under that act leaving the commission with nothing to except limited oversight regarding customer services issues regarding one company.

Westland residents have cable service available from Comcast, WOW! and AT&T U-verse.

Westland Stars to hold tryouts

Give a cheer for the Westland Stars Cheerleading and Dance Team.

Boys and girls in the fifth through eighth grades from Westland and the surrounding areas are invited to try out for the team which has two levels:

- The competition team (Varsity) requires a season long commitment, and girls must try out to make the team. Regular attendance is required for competition team. Members should attend every practice. The competition team does all the events and appearances with the addition of local competitions and a recital at the end of the season.

- The performance team (Junior Varsity) is open to any girl or boy who would like to join. There are no tryouts, however, students are required to attend practice each week. The performance team will attend at least one competition, all events and appearances and the recital at the end of the season.

The team is coached by Jill Wehrheim, a former high school cheerleader and dancer, and Heather Smith, a former dancer and high school coach. The advisor is Toni J. Bailey-Lay, a former cheerleader and coach with 26 years of experience coaching.

Stars members will learn cheers, chants, stunts and pyramids, dancing, pom-pom, jazz, hip-hop, lyrical and novelty routines. The Stars is a team-based program, not just a class.

There will be a meeting for new and returning members on Sept. 17, followed by clinics on Sept. 24 and Oct. 1. There will be no practice on Oct. 15 when the city holds its annual Turn Off the Violence Night, however, the following Thursday, Oct. 15, will be a review and preparation for tryouts on Oct. 22. All practice are 6-8 p.m. Thursdays in the multi-purpose room of the Bailey Recreation Center.

Fees are $185 per season for the performance team and $210 for the competition team. They can be paid weekly ($5), monthly ($25) or in full. There also is a uniform deposit of $20, payable at the time of uniform distribution. The deposit will be returned when uniforms are turned in and all class fees are paid.

For more information, call the Bailey Recreation Center at (734) 722-7620.

Efficiency and Conservation Block Grant program.

"By developing new conservation strategies for Michigan cities and counties, we are taking necessary steps to make our country more energy independent, while also creating jobs," said Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Mich. "I am pleased that these funds will provide our communities with the resources to continue to make Michigan a leader in the clean energy economy."

"Improving energy efficiency is an important step in addressing our energy challenges and moving toward clean energy," said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich. "These funds will not only be an investment in efficient energy practices for the future, but will create jobs today."

Under the EECBG Program, the Department of Energy will deliver $3.2 billion to 2,300 cities, counties, states and Indian tribes across the country. Activities eligible for EECBG funding include energy audits and building retrofits, the development and implementation of advanced building codes and inspections and the creation of financial incentive programs for energy efficiency improvements.

GOP hopeful: Cut red tape, business tax

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Michigan needs to cut red tape, eliminate its business tax and create a more business-friendly environment in order to regain economic strength.

That's the word from Pete Hoekstra, a nine-term Republican congressman from western Michigan, who recently spoke to alumni of the University of Michigan's Ross School of Business. Hoekstra, who represents an 11-county district along Lake Michigan that includes Muskegon, Holland and Cadillac, is a candidate in next year's gubernatorial race.

"We need a commitment to growth. We can grow this state," Hoekstra told about 70 people during a meeting of the region's Ross alumni club. "We just need to embrace growth."

Hoekstra is a U-M business

school graduate and was a marketing executive at Herman Miller, the Zeeland-based furniture-maker, before being elected to the House of Representatives in 1992.

He said state regulations have hampered business, citing several examples, including a biodigestion plant in his district, which produces methane gas, that he said took two years longer to get up and running, because of bureaucracy, than a similar facility in Iowa.

He also blasted Michigan's business tax, which replaced the single business tax nearly two years ago, calling it too complex. Hoekstra said he could support a plan to raise the state sales tax by a penny, to 7 percent, in order to replace the business tax — if the move was revenue neutral.

"Create an environment where business can be successful and we will be surprised, maybe, at what our (economic) stars are" a decade from now, he said.

State officials, he said, need to make better use of state resources and assets; he suggested leasing state rights of way for wind turbines, and having tree-growers plant and care for trees in the rights-of way, with the agreement they would later harvest them, rather than paying workers to plant and maintain the trees. He called on people to generate other revenue ideas.

"If it gets to be a billion-dollar idea, half the business tax is gone," he said.

Lansing, he said, needs a mentality that understands business. "I see it as core to solving Michigan's economy," he said.

Hoekstra noted the many major political developments he's seen while in the House: the Republican takeover of the House in 1994; the impeachment of President Bill Clinton; the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks and their aftermath; and the new administration of President Barack Obama.

"You thought you lived the textbook ... and then you find something you never thought was going to come up," he said.

Addressing health care reform, he called for a more bipartisan approach from Obama when the president speaks to a joint session of Congress on the issue.

"Everybody does want reform. Everybody believes the current system is broken," Hoekstra said. "He has to get some independents and some Republicans on board and then we can move forward."

Hoekstra said that, for him, a health care bill should provide: easier access to health care when it's most needed, tort reform, increased competition among insurers, tax fairness between those whose insurance is provided by their employers and those who buy it themselves with after-tax dollars, and the ability to get preexisting conditions covered by insurance.

Hoekstra also:

- Said most town hall meetings on health care haven't been like the ones that make the news. "They're not anything like what you see on TV. ... It's been a very civil dialogue," he said.

Nevertheless, Hoekstra said Americans have become frustrated with a variety of issues: the budget deficit, the $787 economic stimulus package, the government decisions regarding General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp., and health care reform.

Said Americans are looking for Obama to become more of a "centrist."

"If he does that, I hope the Republicans are there to accept that offer to work with him," he said.

Said Americans see their political leaders as "elites" who are "no longer responsive or listening to what they are saying." "Every time we as leaders believe we have the answers and don't look to the people we lead ... that is the time we did the worst," he said.

Mark Vertin of Rochester said he liked what he heard.

"Good speaker. He covered a lot of ground," Vertin said.

Vertin said Hoekstra's message about state government resonated with him. "You've got to cut that red tape if you're going to bring business in," he said.

GARDEN CLIPPINGS

Recipes needed

The Straight Farmhouse is mixing recipes and local history in a cookbook.

The cookbook will feature old and new recipes from the cooks of Garden City. Recipes, along with some history about it, can be dropped off at the Garden City Historical Museum. Straight Farmhouse is the home of the museum and is at 6221 Merriman.

Recycle for cash

Drop off used ink jet cartridges, cell phones, digital cameras and similar items at City Hall. Garden City Charities, a group formed by city staff, sends the items off to be recycled by Cartridges for Kids and gets cash in return. Money raised by Garden City Charities benefits local organizations.

Accepting donations

The Garden City Lions Club is collecting used glasses and hearing aids that will be rehabilitated and provided to low-income people. Drop off donations in the Lions collection box at City Hall, 6000 Middlebelt, during regular office hours.

Outdoor markets

Saturday, Sept. 12 and 19 will be the last two dates for the outdoor flea market and crafts, hosted by the Maplewood Community Center and the Straight Farm House. Hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The market is held at the farm house, 6221 Merriman, north of Ford Road. A 10-by-10 space costs $10, payable the day of the flea market. No advance reservations needed. Set-up begins at 8 a.m. The flea market will be cancelled due to inclement weather.

Shop Online

Help Garden City Schools support its staff and students whenever you shop at Amazon.com through the link on the school district web site.

Simply follow the link above, or at the bottom of any page, to enter the Amazon.com site, and a portion of any resulting purchases will be returned to Garden City Schools.

Products do not cost any more by using this link, and you do not have to do anything more than click on the link to start shopping. Please encourage family and friends who shop at Amazon.com to help support Garden City Kids through this program.

You must gain access to Amazon.com by clicking the link on the Garden City Schools web site at www.gardencityschools.com to get credit for your purchases.

Santaland shirts

Support the Downtown Garden City Santaland Parade by purchasing a Santaland Parade or Garden City Cougar T-shirt for only $15. The T-shirts can be purchased from Margo at Garden City Hall or at the Downtown Development Authority office on Ford Road just east of Middlebelt.

The Downtown Santaland Parade also is holding a bowling fund-raiser on Friday, Oct. 16, at Garden Lanes at 29145 Warren Road in Garden City. The cost is $20 per person and it includes three games, shoes, pizza, door prizes and more. Beverages not included. There also will be raffles and a 50-50. Check-in is at 7 p.m.

Payment is due by Friday, Oct. 2. Make checks payable to Garden City Community Coalition and mail them to Garden City Hall, Attn: Margo Ciecierski, 6000 Middlebelt, Garden City, MI 48135. All proceeds will benefit the operation of the parade.

For more information, call Dan York at (734) 793-1669 or Margo Ciecierski at (734) 793-1660, or visit www.santaland-parade.com.

Preschool sign-up

Garden City Preschool held at Lathers Elementary has openings for 3- and 4-year-olds. The preschool's experience staff will be meeting parents and children at its open house 8:30-11 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 15, at Lathers Elementary, located at Marquette and Harrison, east of Middlebelt. Call Linda (734) 762-6362 for more information and to register.

District hours

State Sen. Glenn Anderson will hold district coffee hours on Monday, Sept. 14, in Westland and Redford. No appointment is necessary.

Anderson will be at the William P. Faust Public Library, 6123 Central City Parkway, Westland 9-10 a.m. and at the Redford Community Center, 12121 Hemingway, Redford, 10:30-11:30 a.m.

Constituents who would like to address an issue with the Senator but are unable to attend may contact him by mail, at P.O. Box 30036, Lansing, MI 48933, by phone at (866) 262-7306 or by e-mail at SenatorAnderson@senate.michigan.gov.

2 teens caught shoplifting at Kohl's

Retail fraud
Two 17-year-old Livonia residents were arrested for shoplifting at Kohls, 35000 Warren Road, Sept. 7.

Store security told police that the two women, both students at Livonia Churchill High School, were reported to have been seen entering a dressing room with merchandise, including make-up and a pair of earrings. The items weren't visible when the pair left the dressing room, said an employee, who located product packaging inside a dressing room.

The two women left the store and were detained outside by security personnel who reported recovering the merchandise in their purses. The items were valued at $86. Each had a parent present by the time police arrived.

Both were also warned they'd be cited for trespassing, if they returned to the store.

Vehicle damaged

On Sept. 7, a resident in the 36000 block of Hazelwood told police that she heard a loud crash and went outside. There was a truck near her vehicle and a treadmill or some other type of exercise machine on the ground next to her vehicle, she said. A man got out of the vehicle and put the equipment back into the vehicle before driving away.

A short time later, the woman said she found the driver's mirror had been knocked off, causing $500 in damage. She wasn't sure whether the truck had hit the mirror or the damage was caused by the falling equipment.

Shoplifting

Two Westland women were arrested for shoplifting at Kmart, 165 S. Wayne Road, Sept. 2. Store security told police the two women, accompanied by two children, had split up in the store. One woman was spotted placing merchandise into a large purse and exiting the store, employees said. After the woman was determined, store security said they saw the second woman standing in the checkout lane and asked her to come to office. Once in the office, the employee said he spotted merchandise the second woman was attempting to hide in her purse. The stolen merchandise - various clothing - was valued at $270.

Police arrested an Inkster woman and a Romulus woman for shoplifting $97 worth of clothing at A.J. Wright, 34750 Ford, Sept. 2. Store security told police the women were spotted putting merchandise into a large purse that one woman carried. The women were stopped by security personnel as they left the store.

Vehicle theft

A resident at the Hines Park Apartments, 31620 Cowan, reported his 2007 Suzuki motorcycle, valued at $1,000, stolen Sept. 7. He said he was behind on the payments but hadn't received a repossession notice.

Found property

A Westland man called police to report finding two tires on the shoulder of the Joy just east of Hix as he was walking Sept. 2. Police said no tires of that make and size had been reported stolen.

2 men caught 'crashing' in abandoned home

Stolen bicycle

A juvenile, who was a customer at the McDonald's restaurant at 2205 Middlebelt, reported that someone stole his bike Sept. 5. He called his mother when he went outside and found it was gone. The two came to the GARDEN CITY COP CALLS. The boy said that he saw a man ride off with the bike. He described the man as being about 30 years old and 6 feet-3 inches tall. The medium-built man was wearing a white shirt, according to the police report.

Retail fraud

An employee at 7-Eleven, 2202 Merriman, reported to police that a man wearing a black shirt and slacks walked out of the store with two cases of Budweiser without paying for them about 1:30 a.m. Sept. 5.

Unlawful entry

Police arrested two 43-year-old men, one from Garden City and one from Westland, at an "abandoned" house in the 33700 block of Donnelly for unlawful entry through an unlocked window about 10 p.m. Sept. 5.

The men said that they just wanted to "crash."

One of the men used to live at the residence but this is not now his "legal residence," according to police.

Larceny from Auto

A 54-year-old Belleville man said that someone stole several items from his Ford pickup truck while it was parked at Lane Plumbing, 6738 Middlebelt, at 3 a.m. Sept. 5. They took some quarters, his Social Security card and some inactive credit cards.

Suspended license

Garden City Police who were on patrol at Ford Road and Middlebelt learned that a 35-year-old Garden City woman driving a 1997 Acura had a suspended license when they ran her plate in traffic about 7:45 p.m. Sept. 4.

Property damage

Someone broke a 3-by-8-foot window at the U.S. Postal Office, 140 Merriman. It was reported at 4:30 a.m. Sept. 5.

Underaged drinking

The police arrested a woman who was drunk and reportedly sitting at the side of the road in the 31900 block of Cherry Hill about 2:30 a.m. Sept. 4.

She was being assisted into a vehicle when police arrived. The woman had a .16 blood alcohol level, double the .08 limit, through a preliminary breath test.

The police observed that the 20-year-old woman had scratches and a swollen eye. She told police that she was attacked by a female friend of her boyfriend.

Vandalism

Someone spray painted an outside wall of the Model A Restorers Club building at 6721 Merriman. It was discovered at 8 a.m. Sept. 3.

A woman reported that someone used a car to damage her front lawn. She discovered a 30-foot long mark on her lawn about noon Sept. 3 in the 32129 block of Dover.

PROVIDENCE

Teenager searches for loving family

BY LARRY RUEHLEN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Angela was 13 when her life changed forever.

"I am going through a lot," said Angela, now 17. "I've been separated from my brothers and sisters since I was 13. I didn't even know how they were doing for a long time."

Angela is one of 40,000 children in Michigan's foster care system. Of those, 20,000 are from Wayne County.

Angela has a nice smile, but she uses it sparingly. She comes across as a bright, confident girl who is trying to tell her story without revealing too much. Under state law, children are removed from the custody of biological parents due to abuse, neglect, abandonment or death in the family, so her reluctance isn't unexpected.

"One of my brothers is doing good," she said. "He's going to be adopted by his foster parents. My older sister is out and working two jobs."

Angela declines to talk about the events that broke up her family and sent her four siblings in different directions. When asked if foster care was best under the circumstances, Angela casts her eyes downward.

"Probably," she said. Angela has been in five foster care placements in four years. She has stayed with family, foster parents and a group home. Currently, she lives in a group setting with 19 other children, most of them teens. As unlikely as it sounds, a friend she has known from the age of 3 also lives there.

"There are plenty of kids out there like me," she said. "Parents don't always give the help they are supposed to. Then it's hard for the workers to find a place for all of us."

When she says place, Angela isn't talking about another group home, she's talking about finding someone who will love and care for her all the time. She has big aspirations — she wants to be a doctor and have a family some day. Right now, she needs stability more than anything. She needs a hug when she comes home from school.

Heidi Raubenolt and Cheryl Giesa talk about the foster care program at Judson Center.

"The children in Angela's age group are the ones I worry most about," said Cheryl Giesa, licensing recruiter for Judson Center, a nonprofit agency that helps children through adoption and foster care programs. "I couldn't have gone out and supported myself when I was 18 years old."

Heidi Raubenolt, supervisor of Judson's family to family program, explained how children are placed with a foster parent.

"We do our best to keep children in their community," she said. "We want them to stay in the same school and go to the same church, if possible. We want them near family."

Under state law, Angela's family had to be separated because only three children can go to any one foster care family.

If it isn't possible to work through the issues and reunite the family, recruiting an extended family member is the next option, Raubenolt said. If that doesn't work out, the agency does its best to find the right situation for children.

"My test is this," Giesa said. "I ask myself if I would sleep in this house or let my niece or nephew live there. The goal is permanence. We don't want a child to be in limbo indefinitely."

Angela is thankful for the people who have helped her, but she longs for family life. "It's stressful," she said. "Being in the system is hard on you. It's not fun because you don't know when you'll get out."

Angela wants a family who wants her back. For more information, call the Judson Center at (313) 794-5653.

A TRADITION OF HELPING

Judson Center has been helping children and families since 1924. The organization provides more than 360,000 personalized support services each year, including adoption, autism connections and foster care. The organization recruits and trains families to provide temporary, loving foster homes for children who have been separated from their biological parents due to abuse, neglect, abandonment or death in the family. The organization is always looking for dedicated individuals truly invested in the value of family and the healthy development of children. Judson Center foster care programs serve Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

The Redford location is in the Pinnacle Office Building at 12723 Telegraph Road, Suite 200, Redford, MI 48239. Anyone who wants more information should call (313) 794-5653.

How to become a foster parent

The Judson Center trains foster parents in a series of classes. This is an overview of what it takes to become a foster parent:

• Step 1 is a three-hour orientation class that provides general information about the foster care system, licensing rules for foster parents and the responsibilities of foster parents. Topics covered include: attachment and loss issues, discipline, effects of abuse and neglect, sexual abuse, and the effects of fostering and adopting on the family.

• Step 2 is PRIDE training, a competency-based program which provides greater detail about the foster care system and the responsibilities of foster parents. Topics covered include: attachment and loss issues, discipline, effects of abuse and neglect, sexual abuse, and the effects of fostering and adopting on the family.

• Step 3 is home study. After attending PRIDE training, you will be assigned a licensing specialist who will begin the home study process. This process includes: collecting all documentation, a physical assessment of your home, interviews with each member of your household (spouse, domestic partner, children, etc.)

The licensing specialist will collect all of the above information and prepare a written report. If your home meets all of the rules set by the State of Michigan and Judson Center, the agency will recommend that your home receive a foster care license from the Office of Children and Adult Licensing (OCAL). A copy of our report and recommendations will go to the Bureau of Family Services. If approved, your home will be licensed and you will receive an official license from the OCAL.

The entire licensing process may take anywhere from two to six months or longer depending on how timely you are about completing the classes, submitting requested documentation.

For more information regarding the licensing process, contact Livingston County at (517) 545-0540; Washtenaw County at (734) 528-1692; or Wayne County at (800) 443-9959.

Swiss Army Knife turns 125

In 1884, a Swiss manufacturer Carl Elsener started a knife manufacturing business and began a cutlery workshop. In 1891, the Swiss army wanted each soldier to be equipped with a knife as well as a gun.

Elsener and the Swiss Cutlery Union created a new product. The knife created included a big blade, tin opener and a screwdriver.

In 1897, the Swiss officer's knife included a corkscrew and a pair of scissors. The Swiss Army never used this model since the corkscrew was not considered "essential for survival."

However, the knife became the most popular model sold and was considered the "Original Swiss Army Knife." The moniker "Swiss Army Knife" was started by American soldiers in post-World War II Europe after not being able to pronounce the original name of "Schweizeroffiziermesser." Each knife sports the trademark Swiss coat of arms, the cross and shield. In 1921, the company was renamed Victorinox. Another Swiss company, Wenger, also manufactured the formidable pocket knife, known as the "Genuine Swiss Army Knife." In 2005, Victorinox acquired its competitor, although both brands are still produced.

Swiss Army knives have made it to the top of some of the tallest mountains, have traveled to outer space and have been gifts of United States presidents. Today's models include laser pointers, digital clocks, USB ports and mp3 players. The Guinness Book of Records recognizes a 314-blade pocketknife as the world's largest penknife. Victorinox has now expanded its line to include watches, fashion and fragrances.

If you have a Swiss Army or any other knife that you think may be of value, the William P. Faust Public Library of Westland has some resources that you might want to borrow. A.E. Hartink's "The Complete Encyclopedia of Knives," "Blade's Guide to Knives & Their Values" and "The Standard Knife Collector's Guide" are titles that list various types of knives and their current values.

The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday and noon-5 p.m. Sunday, or visit our Web site anytime

Library card month: Good time to get one

We have a question: Do you know what month it is?

You're correct if you say September, but you would be even more correct if you said it's Library Card Sign-up Month.

We know parents just spent the better part of August getting their kids ready for school, stocking up on the school supplies students will need this year. But how many of you thought about a library card? It's most likely the most important school supply of all.

Studies show that children who are read to in the home and who use the library perform better in school and are more likely to continue to use the library as a source of lifetime learning. You need only look to the growing number of adults who have turned to their local library to use computers to look for work, prepare resumes, or check out books to enhance their skill to realize how important a library card is.

Big or small, libraries are an important part of the community, not because of the books, magazines, newspapers, CDs and DVDs they make available to the public but their ability to put the world at your fingertips. For kids, the library is great place to get help with homework, to check out books, play games or use the Internet.

Here's a short list of things you can do at your library:

- Check out your favorite graphic novel.
- Attend preschool story hour with your child.
- Research the purchase of a new car.
- Travel to another planet in a sci-fi novel or on the Internet at pds.jpl.nasa.gov/planets/ornin-epanets.org.
- Borrow an audiobook for your next road trip or commute.
- Learn how to use a database or computerized catalog.

The best part of having a library card is that it's free. No hidden fees, no interest charges. It's one card everyone should have in their wallet. If you don't have one, stop by the library today and get one. It's your key to the world of books and so much more.

Hospital fulfills mission

One of northwest Wayne County's major institutions — St. Mary Mercy Hospital — is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

We congratulate St. Mary Mercy on the service it has provided all these years to Livonia and neighboring communities. St. Mary Hospital was built in 1959 on Five Mile Road between Newburgh and Levan when the area was mostly farmland. It opened with 170 beds, 99 physicians and 300 employees. From those humble beginnings, it has nearly doubled in size to 304 beds.

Renamed St. Mary Mercy Hospital in 2000, today it operates a cancer center, heart and vascular center and inpatient rehabilitation center. Its services include surgery, emergency angioplasty, oncology/radiation, birthing, women's health, behavioral medicine, 24-hour emergency care and community health education. It employs 1,700 full- and part-time people.

It has been honored for clinical quality and patient safety throughout the last decade and was named one of the top 100 large community hospitals by Thomson Healthcare for the past three years.

As part of a larger system now — Saint Joseph Mercy Health — St. Mary Mercy is stronger, poised for the challenges of the years to come and able to make an even bigger difference in health care. St. Mary Mercy is able to tap into national programs with its affiliation with Trinity Health, the third-largest Catholic Health System in the United States.

Despite its growth, St. Mary Mercy has held fast to its Catholic mission to "be the hands and feet of Jesus," as former president Sister Mary Modesta Piowar put it, by reaching out to the community, maintaining high standards and providing quality care.

Three events are planned — a 5K Run/Walk for Cancer and Community Open House on Sept. 13 and a black-tie gala on Oct. 9. We encourage residents to attend the events and offer St. Mary Mercy their own congratulations for the difference it has made.

COMMUNITY VOICE

Do you think the minimum age for a driver's license should be raised from 16 to 18?

We asked this question at the Maplewood Community Center in Garden City.

"No, I don't. It doesn't necessarily mean your a bad driver because you're younger."

Laura Gramlich
Southgate

"No, I think most kids are probably ready to drive at 16. Kids need to drive."

Jerry Bonnici
Garden City

"I think they need more training. They have a thing for speed and should have a longer training period."

Barbara Hoot
Largo, Fla.

"It's not a problem, if you can restrict them. The way teens are today, they should have a parent or older sibling, not a teen, in the car with them."

LETTERS

Knowledge, truth will prevail

Politically motivated complaints by conservatives about President Obama's timely and thoughtful talk to America's schoolchildren, extolling them to work hard and to stay in school, are bizarre and cynical as well as breathtaking in their hypocrisy. Those expressing outrage about the president daring to "indoctrinate" children with solid academic values that will very well serve the future of our nation are, not coincidentally, the same people who said nothing when Ronald Reagan shamelessly extolled tax cuts to schoolchildren, and when George Bush sat in a classroom on 9/11.

Ironically, many of these same people continually wage campaigns to require Christian prayers in American schools. It's OK, then, to indoctrinate your public schoolchildren with a specific religion, but not for them to hear a speech about the virtues of hard work from the elected president of the United States?

It is possible, or even likely, that many conservatives are outright terrified that the current generation of America's children will grow up without sufficient exposure to the endless ignorance and blind hatred preached by the 21st century Republican Party and its paranoid acolytes. Who would then be able to carry on with their wacky conspiracy theories about birth certificates, death panels, socialism and black helicopters? Conservatives know very well that the development of essential critical thinking skills by today's children will ultimately immunize them from such loony right-wing nonsense and outright stupidity.

Those whining about the president's talk to schoolchildren are closely allied with a frothing and seamy right-wing coalition of America's racists, xenophobes, homophobes and other hate-mongers, as well as gun nuts, climate-change deniers, creationists and insecure religious zealots. They have embraced a delusional and fervently anti-intellectual ideology which relies exclusively on unthinking adherence to a mantra of lies and misinformation. Hence the recent plague of town hall screamers, who were unwilling and unable to actually articulate a cogent defense of their lies about health care reform. Why debate actual facts when you can just scream about nonsense? Conservatives, in their blind hate and talk-radio inspired paranoia, are waging a war on respect and ultimately on the remaining shreds of their own credibility. As much as the continuing destruction of Republican credibility might ultimately be good for our nation, America and especially her children have too much at stake not to challenge the absurd and hateful ignorance being spewed from conservative factions. Fortunately for America, knowledge and truth will ultimately prevail over Republican lies and irrational appeals to fear.

Great teachers touch our collective future every day

Have you heard about all the problems with Detroit Public Schools? Well, this is not another one of those articles. This is about observing a Detroit teacher doing something wonderful!

Are there problems the schools in Detroit? Absolutely. Yet there are many great schools and teachers that are often drowned out by the negatives that hit the airwaves and newsprint every day. The fact is, there are islands of excellence for many children in Detroit although they are surrounded by a sea of despair.

Recently, while at a Barnes & Noble Book Store, I noticed a woman with her arms loaded with children's books, stuffed animals and puppets. I overheard the cashier commenting on the number of items and asking if they were for her children. "No, or why, yes, they are" the woman responded in a nonchalant manner. "These are for my students." I asked, "How long will it take you to get reimbursed for this purchase?" knowing full well she would never see her money again — but would have the joy of the investment she was making in her students and our collective future. Ms. Rosemary Sholtz, a Head Start teacher at Harding Elementary school in the Brightmoor area of northwest Detroit, smiled, rolled her eyes and said, "yeah, right," with all the sarcasm she could muster.

She, like many other great teachers, reach into their own wallets and purses on a regular basis "for the kids." This is not just a phenomenon in Detroit. It may not be common knowledge, but it is a fact that most teachers spend a good deal of their own money on supplies for their students and classrooms each year. A 2008 survey by Edutopia (www.Edutopia.org <<http://www.Edutopia.org>>), a foundation, magazine and Web site dedicated to what works in public education, shows the majority of their readers spend in the low to mid-hundreds of their own money every year for their students.

During my tenure as Michigan's state superintendent of schools I witnessed many occasions when our great teachers and the support personnel, janitors, secretaries and others went above and beyond the call of duty to help a child learn or to make their lives a bit better. Sure, I came across a few school personnel that were mediocre or indifferent and even a few that were down right lousy. But it is the outstanding teachers who shine in my memory.

Most of us can recall with true joy the educators who entranced, supported, nurtured and held our mind captive and the ones that left an indelible impression on your spirit. They made a difference in our lives and helped to improve our collective future.

What makes a teacher great? is not a question of ideals nor an unimportant one. As far back as the third century B.C., the Greek philosopher Diogenes noted that "the Foundation of every state is the education of their youth." This is even more true today as we adjust to the hyper-competitive, disruptive, global, knowledge economy.

I know very little about Ms. Sholtz, the Head Start teacher at Harding Elementary, other than she was taking her time and money to make her classroom that much more special for the children of Detroit. In my mind, this alone makes her a "great teacher."

Yes, Ms. Sholtz is a member of the Detroit Federation of Teachers, a teachers union that often get demonized in the press for being entrenched and resistant to change.

What I witnessed that day at Barnes & Noble was a decent woman, a teacher, a union member getting a few cents change back from her money she was spending so "her children" would have a better life. She was investing in our children and our future.

What happens to the children of Detroit impacts us all.

Thank you, Ms. Sholtz, and all the other great teachers and those in education that make a difference in children's lives and touch our collective future.

Ask yourself, "What can I do to help our teachers teach and our children learn?" Now, go do it!

Meet the teen author

NORTHVILLE — Teen author Taylor, a junior at Salem High School in Canton, will be signing copies of her second novel Allison Investigates at 1 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 19, at Barnes & Noble booksellers, 17111 Haggerty, Northville.

Her new book follows Allison and her three closest friends as they journey to solve the mystery of a neighbor's stolen car. Taylor visited police stations and car dealerships to research her new novel. The book is billed as a fast-paced adventure that takes Allison and her friends from their teens to young adulthood in the most memorable summer of their lives.

This novel follows Taylor's debut, The Crossing, which has sold several thousand copies and tells the story of a 12-year-old Mexican girl's struggles to escape poverty and cross the border into the United States. The Crossing, has been well received by schools across the country. She has given several presentations to both children and adults on the importance of literacy and the process of writing and publishing a book, everywhere from the Plymouth Rotary to schools in Plano, Texas, and Orlando, Fla.

Taylor is the daughter of Larry and Monica Joseph of Canton.

Teen author Taylor Joseph will be signing copies of her new book at Barnes & Noble in Northville Township

Fit to be tied

Chargers fret over 1-1 deadlock

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Two KLAA South Division foes met Tuesday night for each team's division opener, and each side left the field with a tie and a disappointed coach.

Plymouth and host Livonia Churchill battled to a 1-1 draw, thanks to a late goal by Wildcats' junior midfielder Joe Klonowski.

But both Plymouth coach Jeff Neschich and his Churchill counterpart, Reid Friedrichs, were upset afterwards — for entirely different reasons.

Neschich wasn't happy with a foul called against his team with 31:30 to go that led to a Churchill penalty kick, a chance made good on by Chargers' senior defender Adam Bedell.

"It was a terrible call, he (official) just gave it to him," said Neschich, whose team is 2-3-1 overall and 0-0-1 in the South. "They hand-balled it first down to our guy (inside the box) and it hit his hand and they called it against us."

Meanwhile, Friedrichs did not sugarcoat his assessment of how his team competed as a unit over the 80-minute tilt.

"It looked like they were passing the ball around with their friends," he said. "They looked disorganized, they didn't look like they were a team out there. We had a lot of hard-working people, but it was one person here, one person there. There was no movement outside the ball."

The penalty kick call came following a scrum in front of Plymouth junior goalkeeper Kyle Brindza, triggered by one of Bedell's patented long throw-ins from the sidelines.

The Wildcats didn't fold their tent after the unfortunate turn of events and evened the score with about 15 minutes remaining.

Senior defender Dan Jasewicz fed a pass through the middle that Klonowski collected and then followed up with a tailing shot into the top left corner behind Churchill junior goalkeeper Christian Adams.

"It was a perfect shot," Neschich said. "It was a perfect upper corner shot."

From where Friedrichs was standing, it wasn't so perfect. But he

Jags release Shaw

Former Livonia Clarenceville High and Penn State standout Tim Shaw was released Saturday by the NFL's Jacksonville Jaguars.

The 6-foot-1, 236-pound linebacker had a total of nine tackles, including eight solo in the Jaguars' final three exhibition games. He finished with four solo tackles in the Jaguars' 24-17 final pre-season win over the visiting Washington Redskins.

The former fifth-round pick of the Carolina Panthers has appeared in a total of 17 NFL regular season games (2007-08).

Lucko leads MU

Former Livonia Churchill High standout Tommy Lucko, a transfer from Oakland Community College, shot a 3-under 68 Tuesday as the Madonna University men's golf team captured the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference Jamboree No. 1 at Stonewater Country Club in Grand Rapids.

MU's four-player total was an even-par 284 followed by Davenport (291), Cornerstone (292), Indiana Tech (308), Aquinas (312), Siena Heights (328) and Concordia (340).

Other MU finishers included Nick Sears, tied for sixth (72); James Uelmann, tied for eighth (73); and Steve South (Livonia Franklin), tied for 18th (77); Austin Stillman (Franklin), 78 (tied for 21st).

Siena Heights freshman Andy Myers (Westland John Glenn) also tied for 18th with a 77.

Run Like Wind

Thomas Preiss and former Lutheran High Westland standout Angela Matthews were the 5-kilometer winners in Saturday's Run Like the Wind race held in Hines Park.

The event, sponsored by the Michigan Running Foundation, attracted a total of 340 runners.

The 40-year-old Preiss ran 16 minutes, 41 seconds while averaging 5:26 per mile in the 3.1-mile event. Matthews, 25, was clocked in 17:37 (5:41 per mile).

Male and female masters winners (40-and-over) in the field of 124 included Victor Brown (16:59) and Meryl Davidson (29:30).

The 10K attracted a total of 216 runners with 27-year-old Brian Goodwin the overall winner in 33:24 (5:23 per mile).

Teres Semaan, 21, was the female overall champion in 43:32.

The male and female masters champs included Todd Kelly (37:52) and Canton's Donna Olson (44:25).

Linked forever

Foursome still strong after 58 years

With no member changes since 1958, the Brothers Four is believed to be the longest running rock band.

Charlie Hofsess, Tom Honey, Al Deslippe and Frank Konjarevich are another foursome that refuses to break up as they move into their 70s.

This golfing quartet dates back to 1952 and their days, when as 11- and 12-year-olds, they were exposed to the game in The Detroit News' junior program held at Rouge Park G.C. off Burt Road in Detroit.

Fifty-eight years later, the link remains unbroken for the childhood friends and neighbors who lived within a block of each other in the Brightmoor community, located in the Evergreen and Schoolcraft section of Detroit near Redford High School.

Last month, the foursome staged a reunion at Rouge Park with the golf pro that gave them their first lesson — 85-year-old Stan Jawor — who is still teaching at the Arbor Joy Golf Center in Plymouth.

Stan Jawor, a lifetime member of the P.G.A. of America, was one of five brothers in the metro area who became teaching pros.

"We started the junior program in 1950 at the six (Detroit) city courses," Jawor said. "It was the biggest junior program in the country at the time. We used to teach a

McGinnis catalyst for 8-0 MU spikers

Mary McGinnis earned MVP honors with a total of 70 total kills in four matches as the Madonna University women's volleyball team completed a four-match sweep Saturday in the Embry-Riddle (Fla.) University Labor Day Classic at the ICI Homes Center in Daytona Beach.

McGinnis, named Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference Player of the Week, finished with 21 kills as MU, ranked No. 9 in the latest NAIA national poll, scored a 25-22, 16-25, 25-18, 25-18 win over the host Eagles.

Junior outside hitter Liz Dempsey (Livonia Franklin) added 10 kills and 11 digs, while sophomore outside hitter Katie Czarnecki also recorded 10 kills as MU improved to 8-0 overall.

Both Katie Altman (six kills, seven block assists) and setter Inta Grinvalds Jordan Holcomb and Abby Hall led Embry-Riddle (7-1) with 17 and 16 kills, respectively.

Earlier in the day, Dempsey contributed 11 kills and McGinnis added 10 in a 25-12, 15-15, 25-17 victory over winless Lindsey Wilson College (Ky.), which slipped to 0-6 overall.

Grinvalds contributed 33 assists and 10 digs, while redshirt sophomore libero Amanda Kozzela added 15 digs.

After stopping Northwestern Ohio in five games in Friday's tourney opener, the Crusaders dumped winless Faulkner (Ala.) in three straight, 25-16, 25-13, 25-6, as Altman and McGinnis led the way with 12 and 11 kills, respectively.

Kozzela finished with 15 digs, while Grinvalds handed out 33 assists.

After two weekends on the road, the Crusaders return home this weekend to host the annual Julie Martin Memorial Classic at the MU Activities Center.

CHARGERS

didn't blame Adams, who had just made a diving stop on a rebound to keep his team in front.

The Chargers, now 5-0-1 overall, could have had a bigger lead by that point had they finished around Brindza when chances were available, Friedriehs said.

"We had two breakaways one way (in the first half) and two breakaways the other way (second half)," the coach added.

Churchill's trouble around the goal had a lot to do with Brindza.

The goalie jumped high to catch shots, scrambled out to cut off rushes and was properly positioned to block in-close tries like a blast from senior forward Max Washko with about five minutes left.

"Just with how athletic he is back there he's just a solid goalie," Neschich said of Brindza. "He had a strong effort tonight."

business in downtown Birmingham for more than 50 years.

"There's always bickering on the course, but we're close and we can dish it out, and we've always been there for one another," Konjarevich said.

"We're all pretty aggressive golfers. I remember one time when Charlie picked up the ball in the ravine and threw it out. He said, 'Here it comes,' and I saw him (on the seventh hole at Rouge). We ride each other about our scores. Al's the one who plays the most golf."

Deslippe is a retired industrial sheet metal contractor who owned his own commercial heating and cooling business. He still attacks the course, recently breaking 80 playing from the senior tees.

"Myself, Tom and Al are all competitive," Hofess said. "Frank doesn't take the game as serious, but he can come out of the shoot. He can be competitive, too."

The 70-year-old Honey, meanwhile, was a sheet metal worker at Ford Motor Co. who lived in Livonia 37 years before retiring and moving to New Port Richey, Fla.

Lutheran High Westland spikes non-league foe

The Lutheran High Westland girls volleyball team improved to 4-2-1 on the season by taking three straight games Tuesday night from host Saline Washtenaw Christian.

The Warriors earned a 25-16, 25-23, 25-13 non-conference win as Rachel Storck and Emily Wilson led the hitting attack with 11 and 10 kills, respectively.

Emilie Freeman added nine kills, while Storck converted 11-of-14 serves to produce nine points and record three aces.

Setter Lauren Switzer went 12-for-13 serving and had 28 assist-to-kills, while Nicole Zehel and Taylor Wiemer placed the defense with 14 and seven digs, respectively.

"Although we came out with the win, we did not play as well as we are capable of," Lutheran Westland coach Kevin Wade said. "Our focus will be on producing a more consistent effort day-in and day-out. If we can do that, we will be fine."

Glenn record 3-5-1

Westland John Glenn has two tournaments under its belt and is off to a 3-5-1 start.

In the Walled Lake Central Invitational (Aug. 29), the Rockets finished sixth out of 16 teams with a 2-2 record.

In the West Bloomfield Invitational, Glenn went 1-3-1 to earn a ninth-place out of 12 schools.

"Our defense continues to improve and our attackers are starting to get into rhythm with the setters," Glenn coach Julian Wargo said. "I am looking to pick up our serving by being more aggressive with our jump serving."

with a 25-17, 25-17, 25-8 victory Lakeland (Ohio). But in the second match of the day, Schoolcraft fell to Vincennes (Ind.) University by scores of 25-19, 19-25, 16-25 and 15-25.

On Saturday, Schoolcraft managed to defeat Kalamazoo Valley CC in five games, while falling to both Owens and Kishwaukee (Ill.) College in four games each.

"Overall, I felt we played pretty well," said Schoolcraft coach Rich Lamb, whose team is 7-3 overall. "Owens is ranked No. 17 in the nation, KVCC is No. 19 and Kishwaukee is No. 11. To be playing with those established programs shows that our team is making progress."

Earlier in the week, Schoolcraft downed visiting Marygrove College, 25-18, 25-10, 23-25, 25-9.

Whalers seeking consistency after preseason loss to Spits

Going after a loose puck during Saturday's preseason OHL game at Compuware Arena are Plymouth Whalers forward Austin Mattson of Livonia and Windsor's Steven Trojanovic.

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Compuware Arena fans, at least those who showed up to watch Saturday afternoon's preseason game instead of college football, were treated to a spirited, back-and-forth tilt between the Plymouth Whalers and Windsor.

But the reigning Ontario Hockey League champion Spitfires earned a 5-3 victory with defenseman Cam Fowler and center Richard Panik each scoring twice and assisting on another.

Goals early and late in periods took the steam out of the Whalers, however.

"I thought we played all right," Plymouth head coach

Mike Vellucci said. "We were bad the first two periods and played really well in the third. We weren't gritty enough and they scored some questionable goals."

For the Whalers, linemates Austin Mattson (Livonia) and Myles McCauley combined for two of the goals (one goal, one assist each) and defenseman Leo Jenner collected two assists.

"Both of those guys had good games and they had a lot of chances," Vellucci said. "They could have had a couple more."

As usual, the Compuware crowd watched uber-talented center Tyler Seguin play keep-away with stickhandling, skating and the ability to make seeing-eye passes onto the tape of teammates.

Seguin, however, was held off the scoresheet largely because of some big stops by Windsor goaltender Michael Nishi.

"He's an exceptional player," said Vellucci about Seguin, a highly-touted prospect and one of several who will attend high school at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park this season. "All those special players make the puck follow them and he sees the ice very well, he made some great passes where he wasn't even looking at the guy."

Plymouth (1-1-0) got on the board first on a power play marker just 3:34 into the game. Mattson, parked in front of Nishi, slammed home a centering feed from McCauley.

That goal held up for most of the period thanks to some composed play from goaltender Scott Wedgewood (Plymouth regular Matt Hackett and several other Whalers are gearing up for NHL camps).

But Windsor center Michael Whaley scored a power play goal with just 36 seconds to go in the first stanza. Stationed off to the right side of the goal, he lifted a rebound over the prone Wedgewood.

Windsor then scored the tie-breaker during the first minute of the second period, while on a 5-on-3 manpower advantage. Panik's weak shot along the goal line banked in off the left skate of Wedgewood (35 saves), to Vellucci's chagrin.

TEE TIME Your local golf guide

Should golfers with a USGA index post a score from an unrated tee?

By Doug Hendershot

With nearly 900 Golf Courses in Michigan, there is certainly a wide range of USGA golf course ratings to select from. The Golf Association of Michigan has the sole responsibility to rate golf courses throughout the entire State, including the Upper Peninsula and parts of Canada. The GAM Staff, working with golf course management, agree on the number of tees to be rated by the course rating team. The rating team will rate tees for both Men and Women players. It is important to note, a tee that measures 5800 yards, will have a different USGA Course Rating and Slope for women vs. men from that same yardage.

Men and women playing from the same set of tees will have different ratings. Because the women's USGA Course Rating usually will be higher, women receive additional stroke(s) equal to the difference between ratings, with .5 or greater rounded up. This is good reason to determine the proper number of tees needing a rate (more details on this matter later.)

At this time I would like to touch upon situations when a course rating may not be available for a set of tees. This could be a case of a newly constructed set of tees, or tees not rated in the past, simply too long or short and were not available to men or women to play from previously.

The USGA has a very specific set of guidelines to cover posting a score from an unrated set of tees on a Rated Golf Course. Authorized golf associations issue a USGA Course Rating and Slope for the most commonly played sets of tees.

If a USGA Course Rating and Slope Rating from a selected set of tees is not available for the appropriate gender, the player may apply the following procedure on a temporary basis.

- Locate the nearest set of tees for the appropriate gender.
- Determine the yardage difference between the set of tees being played and the rated set of tees.
- Using the table found at usga.org, under the Handicapping tab, Section 5, Scores, find the ratings adjustments from unrated tees for Men and Women. Follow the directions found in the Key, next to these tables.

This method may be used if a player plays a combination of tees. The player first determines the total yardage played then applies the above procedure.

If the Committee in charge of a competition has a set of tees for a competition course, this procedure may be used. This procedure is not a substitute for a formal USGA Course Rating and Slope Rating.

So now that we know how to make the proper adjustments to post from unrated tees, lets not forget that this should only be used on a temporary basis. How do we get this new favorite tee rated, on a permanent basis? The answer to that question is really up to players, and local course management, with the help of the GAM.

GAM receives many requests to rate additional sets of tees. These requests generally come from the Pro, or Superintendent, and can be based on the fact that players show an interest in trying a new look at their course. This is provided by playing their course at a new yardage, or even the popular combination of tees, using a blend of tees, that have different yardages. These are called combo tees.

GAM rates courses a minimum of every ten years. This is necessary to keep a golf course current with the licensing standards set by the USGA.

Extra sets of tees can be rated at this time, providing that the GAM has the new tees on their schedule. The GAM can also rate new tees and revamped tees at any time providing the request comes from local golf course management and is properly scheduled.

Doug Hendershot is the Director of Course Rating for the Golf Association of Michigan.

IT'S YOUR BUSINESS Q&A

Chocolatier helps guests discover sweets

Observer: Tell us about your business, including the types of service and/or products you feature.

As an independent chocolatier with Dove Chocolate Discoveries, I offer in-home chocolate tasting parties. At these parties, I show the host and his/her guests how they can entertain with simple and delicious chocolate desserts using our wonderful products. Our products include chocolate martini mix, chocolate chai tea, sugar free dark chocolates, truffle fudge brownie mix, chocolate mousse and our newest product, sea salt caramels. I also offer candy-making classes.

Observer: What makes your business unique?

Dove Chocolate Discoveries is the first direct selling chocolate company in the US. It was started in 2007. Right now, there are 1,300 independent chocolatiers in the U.S. and only 33 of those are in Michigan. I am thrilled that I am leading the way and helping people to find their "inner chocolatier."

Observer: How did you decide to open your first business?

I have always wanted my own business doing something I love. It's not work when you do something you love. I love to eat chocolate, so when the opportunity came along to have my own chocolate business, I could not pass it up.

Observer: How did you decide to locate in the Westland community?

I have lived in Westland since moving to Michigan 12 years ago. I love the family-oriented community and that this is an All-American City.

Observer: Do you have a funny tidbit or story to share with our

One of my first parties was about an hour drive away. I was so worried that I would forget something because of the distance I was going. I got to the party, set up my tempering unit and realized that I had forgotten something ... my chocolate bars to temper. Luckily, there was a drugstore nearby and I had to settle for Dove Promises to temper. The tempered chocolate still tasted delicious!

A friend indeed

Friends of the Rouge has received a $1,900 donation from Marathon Petroleum Company LLC's Michigan Refining Division in support of the Rouge Education Project (REP), a school-based water quality monitoring program.

"Marathon's commitment to environmental stewardship and education has created a long-time partnership with Friends of the Rouge," said Emily Hughes, REP Program Manager. "Contributions assist with school program registrations, water quality testing equipment, workshops and program administration."

In addition to corporate support, Friends of the Rouge receives funding for REP through a U.S. EPA Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project grant. Additional funding is needed to enable all 53 REP schools to participate in teaching tomorrow's leaders about today's environment in a hands-on, real world science experience.

Established in 1986, Friends of the Rouge is a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting restoration and stewardship of the Rouge River ecosystem through education, citizen involvement and other collaborative efforts for the purpose of improving the quality of life for the people, plants and animals of the watershed.

DQ delight

Dairy Queen® has kicked off fall with the introduction of the enticing new Oreo® Cookie Jar Blizzard® Flavor Treat and a special offer to customers who join the Blizzard Fan Club (BlizzardFanClub.com). Anyone joining the Blizzard Fan Club during September not only receive the club welcome "buy-one-get-one-free" offer, but also receives a $1 off coupon for the Oreo Cookie Jar Blizzard. Current fan club members also will receive the $1 off coupon in their September Blizzard Fan Club e-mail blast.

Made with creamy DQ® soft serve blended with Oreo cookie pieces, chocolate chip cookie dough and rich hot fudge, the Oreo Cookie Jar

Blizzard is available at all participating Dairy Queen and DQ Grill & Chill® locations nationwide.

"When you think about cookies, Oreo immediately comes to mind," said Michael Keller, chief brand officer for International Dairy Queen Inc. "We've given an intriguing new twist to our already incredibly popular Oreo Blizzard Treat by adding more in the 'cookie jar.' With an added bonus for newly signed members of the Blizzard Fan Club, this flavor should be a sales leader."

The origin of the cookie jar dates back to 18th-century Britain, where glass jars with metal lids were known as "biscuit jars." In fact, the Oreo cookie was originally called the Oreo Biscuit and was first developed and produced by Nabisco in February 1912 to target the British market, whose "biscuits" were deemed too ordinary by Nabisco. The modern-day Oreo was created in 1952 and today is not only available in many different varieties but still reigns as the most popular cookie in the world.

Youngsters play on new equipment at St. Paul's Lutheran School in Livonia.

Grant buys new playground equipment for Lutheran school

Students at St. Paul Lutheran School started the new semester with a new play structure on the school playground. The school, located in Livonia, received a $10,000 grant from Ronald McDonald House Charities (RMHC) of Southeastern Michigan and used the money to buy the new playground piece for students, church members and the greater community. "The new structure is a true blessing. It will provide hours of fun filled activities for all," stated Charles Buege, principal at St. Paul's. St. Paul's Lutheran Church and School was founded in 1872. It moved to its current location, 17810 Farmington Road in 1970. For more on St. Paul Lutheran Church and School visit stpaulslivonia.org. Fall brings renewed focus on faith for many families

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
CORRESPONDENT

Summer is almost over and people from Canton to Redford are back into their school routines and flocking back to services and religious education at places of worship. Parents also are encouraged to take an active role in their children's religious education. "There's an upswing in attendance, especially in September and October, when people are getting back in their fall routine to start the school year with an inspirational push to know they're a part of something bigger than themselves," according to the Rev. Jeff Nelson of Redford Aldersgate United Methodist Church. "Families think: 'We can use some help to raise these kids.' They want to be with people who might give some advice."

Over time, some places of worship are finding religious education is getting shoved aside when parents juggle calendars filled with sports and other extracurricular activities in cyclones of hectic lifestyles.

love and attention. It builds the lifelong relationships with other adults."

Over time, some places of worship are finding religious education is getting shoved aside when parents juggle calendars filled with sports and other extracurricular activities in cyclones of hectic lifestyles.

Some parents are opting to home school religious education. That's been a growing phenomenon at St. Colette Roman Catholic Church in Livonia, said Betty Haley, director of religious education.

"At one time religious education took priority over sports and school activities," Haley said. "Today, school activities and sports take precedence over religious education."

To accommodate the changes, registration at St. Colette extends a longer time while parents wait to secure their children's other schedules.

Whether a teacher or a parent says it, the message is the same: "The sacrament of Eucharist is the heart and center," Haley said. "The sacraments are those things that give us the graces to live the Christian life in a world that is counter-cultural to Christian living."

Grace is the inner life of God that is given to his followers, "so we can live out our relationship with God and others in this life," she added.

"To prepare for sacraments we have to be formed in faith so we know what we are doing," Haley said.

Faith formation, or religious education, outside of preparation for the sacraments, is to help teach the Catholic faith.

There's usually an increase in attendance during services and for religious education in September, according to the Rev. Eric Steinbrenner, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Livonia. Teen Bible Class and a separate adult class meets on Sunday mornings between church services at 9:45-10:45 a.m. beginning Sunday, Sept. 20. Last year, religious education participation was up slightly.

"Our purpose is to try strengthen them in the word of God," Steinbrenner said. "It's what the Holy Spirit gives them through the word of Christ. The healthiest part is that God is serving us through his word. It's vital to be where the word is."

Across town at The Hindu Temple of Canton religious education classes begin 1:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13.

"We teach values, like respecting parents, grandparents and teachers; behavior and doing services in the community," said Sures Shah, temple administrator.

Religious education at The Hindu Temple has grown from about 45 children 10 years ago, Shah said, to 130 children last year. This year he expects 150 children.

Each child must have at least one parent present at the temple in another room hearing lectures and learning about upcoming events. A new facility is planned at the same site and will allow for more classes and social areas.

At Adat Shalom Synagogue in Farmington Hills, Elissa Berg, director of education, said religious instruction during the last 10 years has become more interactive with parents.

"We ask parents to be a part of it much more than we used to and it's high energy," Berg said. "We're really trying to motivate the kids, as well as teach them. I think they (adults) come back in the fall, because it's the beginning of a new cycle-especially if they have kids."

Many children, Berg said, "have less experience with extended family and less people to learn from. Part of it is people are leaving Detroit for other opportunities. I strongly believe the participation of parents and family makes a huge difference in our success by reinforcing what we teach."

Children who attend services better understand what they are learning in class. "It's a living energy," she said. "It's not just theory."

Learn about Catholic Mass in series at St. Michael the Archangel

The Mass in S-L-O-W M-O-T-I-O-N, a new three-part series at St. Michael the Archangel Parish, is designed to help both Catholics and non-Catholics understand what goes on during Mass. The series will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesdays, starting Sept. 23 with an introduction and outline of the history of the Mass by Sharon Williams, pastoral associate. Associate Pastor, Father Raymond Arwady, will explain and demonstrate the Liturgy of the Mass, using the actual vestments, vessels, and sacred books to illustrate his explanations, on Sept. 30. On Oct. 14, noted Catholic apologist and author, Gary Michuta, will detail the Sacrifice of the Mass, its meaning, both historically and theologically within the Church.

The series is open to all. The church is located at 11441 Hubbard, south of Plymouth Road, between Farmington and Merriman. For more information, call the parish office at (734) 261-1455, Ext. 200, or visit www.livoniastmichael.org.

Classical music alive and well in new season

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
CORRESPONDENT

Classical music has a bright future if two local orchestras have anything to say about it. The governing organizations of the Livonia and Plymouth Canton symphonies continue to work hard to combat the effects of an economic downturn and graying of the audience by instituting changes.

Now in its 64th season, the Plymouth Canton Symphony Orchestras are introducing afternoon concerts to appeal to senior citizens and families. The Livonia Symphony Orchestra made the move to offer earlier programming a couple of years ago. Both realize that they must expand their audiences in order to exist.

While the LSO remains at Clarenceville High School on Saturday afternoons for nearly the entire season, the Plymouth Canton Symphony Orchestras encourage classical music lovers to "Follow the Music" to a variety of venues, from The Village Theater at Cherry Hill in Canton to First Methodist Church in Plymouth for concerts on Sunday afternoons and Saturday evenings at the new time of 7:30 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

"We've grown to have more of a regional presence,"

Executive Director Beth Stewart said. "We're adding more professional musicians, grew the budget. Now everyone is paid, so that raises the level. We've gone to a fully professional orchestra."

RICH HISTORY

"The Plymouth Symphony has a long wonderful history to be around since 1945. When the symphony started, they played some concerts outside in a barn and what's true then as today is we're really fortunate to live in an area rich with classical musicians. Because of our location to the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, there are a lot of great classically trained musicians to choose from," Stewart added.

The PSCO's Celebration Youth Orchestra entices musicians to develop a love for classical music early on. Contemporary classical music lovers are drawn by the compositions featured on each program. Music director/conductor Nan Washburn programs one on each concert.

"Nan loves to program contemporary (music) by living composers and that's an orchestra builder," Stewart said. "They can play Bach and Beethoven just about anywhere. The thing that is special is to play music by a living composer and usually we have them with us."

Innovative programming costs money, yet neither orchestra has cut the number of concerts it offers this season despite the lack of grants from the state of Michigan and a decline in business and corporate support. The orchestra budget is $280,000 for 2009-10, almost $100,000 less than two years ago.

"We're facing challenges," Stewart said. "To try to save money, we moved our offices to the Plymouth Community Arts Council. We're helping to share equipment and expenses and looking to do fund-raising together, programs. The arts council is renovating the building next door and we plan to have studios for musicians to give lessons. The orchestra and youth orchestra are in second year of rehearsing there."

Conductor Nan Washburn and the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will pay tribute to Hollywood and Abraham Lincoln during the upcoming concert season.

LSO SUPPORTERS

The LSO is extremely grateful for the support of the community. Funding from Livonia Town Hall, Livonia Community Foundation, Livonia Anniversary Committee and Livonia Arts Commission has made it possible to roll back prices on the annual golf outing fund-raiser to $89.

"It's the $25 to $100 donations," said Rose Kachnowski, LSO president. "It's usually the people who can't afford it, give what they can to keep the symphony going."

The LSO budget remains steady at $100,000. Instead of cost-cutting measures, the board has voted to spend money on marketing its 37th season.

"We're hooking up with WRCJ(FM 90.9), advertising each of the five concerts with ticket giveaways," Kachnowski said. "We're adding new events. After each concert, we're partnering with Fleming's Steakhouse for afterglows. Also new this year, we're starting the Spotlight Series at Greenmead (Historical Park). It's an evening to get to know the conductor, Volodymyr Shesiuk. He'll discuss his time with the Bolshoi Theater during a reception and lecture on Oct. 1. Our season opener is a pops concert, Oct. 17, the second a Christmas theme with Bunny Sanford's dancers. The third is Anthony Bonamici, a Livonia native coming back from Russia, the fourth violinist Anton Sheleпов, and the fifth at Ward Church is a requiem with Madonna University Chorale under Dave Wagner, and the Ward choir. Nov. 20, is an American celebration fund-raiser.

"We're trying to do a lot for the community by keeping the interest there. We hope to try to make things affordable. We gave out tickets last year, primarily to people who have never seen the orchestra. People can call our 24-hour line, for people who have lost their jobs. It's our way of giving back to the community."

Schoolcraft Culinary Extravaganza 2009: Food, wine event benefits scholarship

Schoolcraft College Foundation will host a celebration of food and wine 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 27, in the VisTaTech Center at the Livonia campus, Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads.

The extravaganza brings together students, food professionals and the southeast Michigan community. The event provides patrons with samples of some of the finest culinary delicacies from the most notable restaurants, pastry shops and beverage vendors in the metropolitan area.

The event benefits the Culinary Arts Program and Schoolcraft College students by providing scholarships and grants.

Thousands of students have earned a degree, learned the skills for a rewarding career or received preparation to transfer to a four-year university with help from foundation scholarships.

Scholarships, especially in these difficult economic times, are often the difference that makes education a reality, said Craig Bowles, chair of this year's event and secretary of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Murdic and Tina Coleman of Southfield check out the many bread creations made by Jeff Greenwald during a previous Schoolcraft College Foundation's Culinary Extravaganza.

As a special treat, a silent auction featuring sports, entertainment, restaurant and travel packages is planned throughout the afternoon.

Tickets for the food and wine event are $50 ($20 is a charitable contribution).

Raffle tickets also help the fund-raising efforts and are available for online purchase at $5 each or three for $10.

The drawing will be held at Culinary Extravaganza. Ticket purchasers don't have to be present to win.

Prizes are: $1,000, first place; $500, second place; $250 for third and four places; and dinner for two at American Harvest for fifth, sixth and seventh places.

Call (734) 462-4518 to order tickets or go to www.schoolcraft.edu/foundation.
