Doggie Park

A grand opening celebration will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 5, at the Wayne County Parks Dog Park at Hawthorne Ridge on Hines Drive, west of Merriman in Westland. The celebration will highlight several improvements that have been made to the park.

While the park has remained at Hawthorne Ridge, the fencing has been relocated to a more visible location, closer to the bathrooms and running water. Agility equipment for the dogs has recently been added and a new locking system also has been installed.

Wayne County Parks is currently taking registration for the new park. The cost is $5. Proof of vaccinations and current dog license is required. Forms can be downloaded at www.waynecountyparks.org.

Buyer beware

When it comes to buying property online, Wayne County Registrar of Deeds Bernard Youngblood has a warning: If it's too good to be true, it probably is.

According to Youngblood, multiple complaints have been filed with the nation's First Mortgage and Deed Fraud Task Force regarding buyers of property in Wayne County who have not received their recorded deed.

Investigative questioning has shown that the buyers purchased multiple properties over the Internet from unknown sellers at what they thought was significant savings. Youngblood said that investigations show no transfer of title had been submitted at the Wayne County Register of Deeds office regarding the transactions.

Clerk expects low turnout in Tuesday's election

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Westland voters will take to the polls Tuesday for the partisan primary election, and turnout most likely will be small in comparison to the number of registered voters.

Westland City Clerk Eileen DeHart is predicting about 15 percent of the city's more than 60,000 registered voters will go to the polls to decide who will advance to the November general election in national, state and county races. They also will decide if the city should continue to levy a 0.59 mill tax levy for four years for the Suburban Mobility Authority on Regional Transportation.

"It probably could be 20 percent, but I'm figuring 15 percent," said DeHart. "It's not a particularly exciting this year for the Democrats with what's on the ballot, but it's more interesting for Republicans because they have choices. The governor's race is the only real contest on the Democratic side and the Wayne County sheriff because Benny Napoleon was appointed and is running for the first time."

Tuesday's primary is a partisan election and voters cannot cross party lines in selecting candidates.

In the governor's race, Mike Bouchard, Mike Cox, Tom George, Pete Hoekstra and Rick Snyder are squaring off on the Republican side while Virg Bernero and Andy Dillon are battling on the Democratic side.

In other races, several candidates are unopposed for the party nomination, which will slate them in the general election for their respective parties.

Congressman Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, will be unopposed in his re-election effort for the 11th Congressional District. He is expected to face Natalie Mosher in November. Glenn Anderson hopes to retain Identity theft makes shredding day popular

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The din of the truck grinding up unwanted personal documents was music to the ears of people like Dorothy and Ross Bohmhauer.

"We're getting rid of stuff so we don't get hit with identity theft," said Dorothy Bohmhauer. "We've been married three years and by combining, we have years of stuff we need to get rid of. We got rid of a lot of stuff last year, this is the tail end, things like tax statements — his and mine."

The Westland couple were among residents who took advantage of the free shredding available on Thursday at the senior Friendship Center.

"We actually started early, we had people lined up around the lot," said senior resource director Barbara Schimmel Marcum.

This is the second year the center has hosted the shredding day. Last year's event attracted 160 people and Marcum was hoping for an even better turnout this year. Farmington Hills-based E-Shredder provided a truck that can shred up to 4,000 pounds of paper per hour and hold up to 10,000 pounds. The truck comes with a video display allowing people to see their documents getting ground up.

"This is good for the community, it's good for anybody," said a Westland woman who declined to be identified. And with good reason. She has been the victim of identity theft.

"A few years ago, someone got my credit card number and went to town," she said. "It was quite a bit."

Careful to remove her Social Security number and other identifying numbers from documents, the woman was making her second trip to the shredder. She

City, W-W work on green program, ordinance

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

While Westland city officials work on an ordinance to regulate alternative energy sources in the city, the Wayne-Westland Community Schools district is working its way through the approval process to set up three different wind turbines at the William D. Ford Career Technical Center.

Wayne-Westland was the only school district in Wayne County to receive a $1 million Renewable Energy Education

Grant from the state of Michigan. The grant is providing the Career Technical Center with three types of wind turbines, a solar array, biodiesel converter and pellet stove, that will be used in its new alternative energy technology program.

The hope had been to erect the turbines at the end of April or May, but it now looks like the installations will be delayed to later this fall or possibly next spring.

Wyandotte woman faces bank robbery charge

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Westland police hope to arraign a 32-year-old Wyandotte woman this week on a charge of robbing the TCF Bank in Westland July 23.

The Wayne County prosecutor approved a warrant Friday charging Danielle Evans with bank robbery, a felony punishable by up to life in prison, in the Westland incident. It's believed she may have committed five robberies in Westland, Ferndale, Allen Park and Wyandotte, Westland police Sgt. Todd Adams said.

She was apprehended by Wyandotte police last week after a relative alerted police.

"Her picture was on the news, a Melvindale police officer recognized her as a relative and turned her in," Adams said. In the Westland robbery, the suspect entered the bank on Warren Road and gave a teller an envelope with "Do not call police, give me $100, $50, $20" written on it. The teller reportedly gave the woman $1,710.

The teller told police the woman said she was sorry and told the teller to wait until she left before calling police. The teller, however, pressed the alarm button as the woman left the bank. The robbery occurred at 2:50 p.m. and two other customers and another teller told police they neither saw nor heard anything.

According to Adams, Evans used the money to support a heroin addiction and to pay bills. She has five children under the age of 10, he said.

"We only recovered $20, the rest of the money she said she spent," Adams said. "We estimate it was several thousands of dollars."

praised the city for having the shredding day, saying that more cities should do it.

"I'm glad they have a TV camera so you can see your paper going in and see it being shredded," she added. "I wouldn't feel comfortable leaving it with just anybody."

City employee Rob Ozenghar brought in young people from Westland Youth Assistance and the court work program to help unload the boxes and bags of documents. They were placed in a large plastic trash container that was lifted up and dumped in the shredder.

"It's good to have all this help," said Ozenghar. "This definitely isn't a one-man project, if it was, they'd still be lined up."

The shredding day followed a week after the center hosted a drug disposal event, gathering up "five huge bags of medicine" that was disposed of by the Westland Police Department.

"They burned everything," Marcum said. "We do that the third week of July every year so people can clean out their medicine cabinets and the shredding the fourth week. That's so people can plan for it. I want the residents to feel safe, the seniors especially. They have years and years of accumulated documents."

Former city Councilman Bill Ziembra stood by his pickup truck watching as his boxes of documents were unloaded. A lot were tax forms for his mother who had died in 2008 plus some personal stuff.

"I saw the sign out front," he said. "This is a lot easier than one of those personal shredders."

People who stopped by also received a flier for an Identity Theft Seminar that will be held at the center on Newburgh, south of Ford, on Thursday, Sept. 23. The program will be presented by the Senior Brigade, a part of the State Attorney General's Office and will cover how to prevent criminals from getting personal information.

"This all seems worthwhile, people here are interested in protecting their identities," Marcum said. "Knowledge is power, and we know how a criminal works. That's why doing something as simple as this is important."

"I'm glad to see a great turnout today and hope to see this grow every year," she added.

his seat as state senator. The Democrat is running unopposed Tuesday, as is his Republican challenger, John Pastor. Likewise, incumbent Democrat Richard LeBlanc is running unopposed on the Democratic side in the 18th state House District. The Republican candidate is Floyd S. Collins.

County races feature an unopposed Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano on the Democratic ticket, with Mario Nesr Fundarski on the Republican ticket. Appointed Wayne County Sheriff incumbent Benny Napoleon is facing a challenge from Daniel Dean Sr., Walter L. Epps, Luke Granberry Jr. and Delbert Martin for a partial term that will expire in 2012. Shelly Milton and Taras Nykoriak are seeking the nomination on the Republican side.

In the Wayne County Commission 12th District, incumbent Democrat Joan Gebhardt is unopposed in the primary while Westland residents David James and Michael Case are vying for the Republican spot on the general election ballot.

In the lone nonpartisan race, Susan L. Hubbard, Gary Jones and John J. Sullivan are seeking a non-incumbent six-year term on the Third Circuit Court.

WHERE TO VOTE

With the closing of five elementary schools closed in Westland, City Clerk Eileen DeHart has had to relocate eight precincts. Polling places for the August primary now are:

- Precincts 3 and 7: Stottliemyer School, 34801 Marquette
- Precincts 4 and 8: Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford
- Precincts 5 and 29: Edison School, 34505 Hunter

- Precincts 15: Greenwood Villa, 7600 Nankin Ct.

Residents who missed this weekend's chance to register to vote by absentee ballot can still apply for one by 4 p.m. Monday, however, they will have to vote at Westland City Hall. Emergency absentee ballots can be requested on Election Day, however, "you'll have to prove it's an emergency," said DeHart.

For voters in eight of the city's precincts, voting will mean going to a new polling place. With the closing of five Wayne-Westland schools in the city, DeHart had has to move precincts to other schools and the Bailey Recreation Center.

- Precincts 16: Holliday Park Club House, 34850 Fountain Blvd.
- Precincts 17 and 37: P.D. Graham School, 1255 S. John Hix
- Precincts 20: Wildwood School, 500 N. Wildwood
- Precincts 21 and 42: Johnson School, 8400 Hix

- Precinct 39: Landings Apartment Club House, 7000 Lakeview
- Precincts 40 and 41: Hellenic Cultural Center at St. Constantine Church, 36375 Joy

The closings affect precincts that had been housed at Madison, Kettering, Lincoln, Jefferson-Barns and Patchin elementaries. The Madison precincts have been moved to Schweitzer, while voters at the two Kettering precincts now go to Elliott Elementary. The Lincoln and Jefferson-Barns precincts have been moved to Adams Upper Elementary School, and the Patchin precincts are now at the Bailey Recreation Center.

DeHart isn't concerned about confusion as to where to vote, as new voter cards with the new precinct locations were sent out earlier this year.

"Anybody who lives in those areas know those schools are closed," she added.

With working going on at several of the schools to accommodate the district's new configuration, DeHart said parking "will be at a premium" at Elliott and Schweitzer.

"There will be parking on the street, and people will have to walk a distance to the schools," DeHart said.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Election Day. Voters will need to bring picture ID to show.

"We have to go through the approval process, we want to make sure we're doing it right," said center Principal Steven Kay.

And likewise, the city wants to promote the safe, effective and efficient use of wind turbines that are installed in the city. The ordinance aims to protect the health, safety and welfare of the residents by minimizing the potential adverse effects that wind turbines and wind energy facilities may have on residential areas and land uses.

According to Mayor William Wild, the city will promote and require careful design, siting, noise limitations and innovative camouflaging techniques. In discussing the proposed ordinance, Wild told the City Council that in addition to the Wayne-Westland turbines, there's discussion about one at the DTE facility.

"We are looking to keep Westland updated with the new energy alternatives," he said. "This ordinance, along with a recent ordinance to encourage and regulate solar energy systems, shows the city's commitment to being environmentally friendly and working towards the long term sustainability of our community."

The proposed ordinance would allow a single roof-mounted turbine in residential districts as a permitted use. It would allow a second roof-mounted wind turbine or a free-standing wind turbine as a special land use in residential districts and would allow wind turbines in nonresidential districts as a special land use. The ordinance also contains specific language regarding setback, height, noise and shadow flicker.

The school district plans to erect a 33-foot tall Skystream wind turbine near the gazebo between the center and the district's administrative offices. A Cascade Swift turbine will be mounted on the south side of the building near the auto technology, while a Bergery turbine, which is four feet tall, will be used in the classroom.

The new alternative energy program will start this fall at the center and, according to Kay, the enrollment numbers "are solid" for the class.

"I think we'll see more interest when we get the equipment up," Kay said. "It's definitely going to be something people can view, experience and explore what's going on with green energy."

School officials are being aggressive in their efforts to be the first of the grant recipients to get the turbines up and running. The William D. Ford is the first career technical center to have the turbines which also are the first such equipment in Wayne County.

Once the turbines have been installed, the center will have an open house to invite the community in to showcase the equipment and the alternative energy program.

"We're still dealing with the applications and the permits, but our goal is to have them installed by the first frost," Kay said, adding that "this is a good program, a timely program and shows the state's commitment to alternative energy and green jobs."

Coming full circle

Resource center director sees old problems returning

BY SUE BUCK
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Life goes in circles. Monica Fulton, the program supervisor at the Family Resource Center housed at the Maplewood Community Center in Garden City, has witnessed a full circle back to the problems in Garden City which she saw 15 years ago.

"When I started here, there was a lot of gang activity and substance abuse among adolescents," Fulton said.

When there was a period of prosperity in the community and in the nation in the late 1990s, she saw less gang activity and violence and less substance abuse.

"Now we are seeing more gang affiliation among adolescents," Fulton said. "The economy is just rotten and the parents are out of work, trying to find work and make ends meet. The stress in the home is unbelievable."

That's why she started the wellness programs to help parents and kids cope.

She said that they are witnessing the kids once again wearing the colors of gangs, all red, red and black, and blue and black.

"The caps are turned to the right and the pant leg turned up," Fulton said.

She also is seeing what she described as "clandestine" gang activity. Fulton sees just one piece of it, but not the actually claiming of membership in a specific gang.

"It has gone underground," Fulton said. "They know the history and they know the colors that they wear. If you talk to kids, they know the (gang) history."

"It is a high risk situation,

Monica Fulton, program supervisor at the Family Resource Center at the Maplewood Community Center in Garden City, is devoted to continuing programs with little financial help from the city.

so it's important for adults to model correct behavior with discussion of values with their children and what they might have done to violate these values, she said. The Life Choices program helps students with delinquent behavior like gangs, curfew violation, shoplifting and stealing cars.

"It has a parent and a youth component," Fulton said. "The families come together and go into a group room."

A community circle of members who work together help to keep each member accountable.

One mom told Fulton that she witnessed effective changes in her child because of the program.

"We have a less than 10 percent recidivism rate," Fulton said.

The Garden City Police Department likes having a resource to refer families, too, Fulton said.

Serving the overall needs of Garden City families through the Family Resource Center focuses on non-violent resolution. Students explore activities which don't involve alcohol and drugs.

Fulton started her job in September 1995 as a part-time youth assistance coordinator at age 25. The job went full time in July 2006. She chose the part-time position over two other job offers which were full-time positions with benefits.

"I was intrigued by the newspaper ad which I saw about working with troubled adolescents," she said. "It was an opportunity to develop the program."

She had worked previously for the Wayne County Headstart program for homeless families and at First Step, a domestic violence agency. She is a former Garden City resident who now resides in Livonia.

Fulton graduated from the University of Michigan-Dearborn with a bachelor of arts degree and a double major in psychology and philosophy. She has a master's degree in clinical psychology from Capella University in Minnesota.

Kim Mitton Hahn, a case manager who works with Fulton, facilitates parent groups and coordinates prevention programs. There are 11 different programs for families and teens at the Family Resource Center. The programs started out funded by the city's general funds. Over the years, Fulton has been able to obtain other grants and contracts.

"The city's contribution is minimal, 10 percent of our budget," Fulton said. "I'm very in tune with the budget process."

She is aware that her family services could be considered by some as "nonessential services."

"I was diligent about getting outside funding when the economy was tanking," Fulton said. "If we had to scale back, we would be overwhelmed with clients not being able to get services. I was real proactive."

Because the center gets Wayne County funding, it serves all western Wayne County residents.

"We service residents from birth to age 17," Fulton said.

Fulton's services don't just dwell on the negative side of adolescent behavior. The center also offers a welcome baby basket for children less than 1 year old.

Mitton Hahn said that the baskets, personalized to the gender of the child, are available to anyone in Garden City who is pregnant or has a child up to 1 year old.

Information about the center is contained in the Garden City parks and recreation brochure, but "it is a lot of word of mouth," said Mitton Hahn.

She also added that the center is seeing a lot of unemployed families which prevents them from leaving the area to job search elsewhere.

"They are definitely struggling," she said.

Fulton doesn't see a high transition rate in the Garden City community. She has witnessed generations living together.

"What we are seeing are children moving back with their parents and Grandma and Grandpa in the same home," Fulton said. "It can be good or not good if there are substance abuse or violence issues in the family."

For more information about all the services offered by the Family Resource Center, call (734) 793-1860.

Ficano seeks 'tools' to manage county's deficit

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano is wondering what it will take to get the county out of deficit spending — not just the departments he controls, but all departments, including the Third Circuit Court, the County Prosecutor's Office and Sheriff's Department.

While he is required by charter to submit a balanced budget to the Wayne County Commission, he contends that those three departments see themselves as separate branches of government and operate on their own.

"They don't raise money, they just give me their bills," Ficano said. "One of the egregious units is the court. One chief judge went out and borrowed $20 million on his signature. The first wind we got of it was when the notice of debt payment came in."

Ficano has nine departments under his direct control. He has cut staffing in those departments by 40 percent and employees have taken a 10 percent pay cut this year and that will continue next year. But Circuit Court and sheriff said no. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees also voted no, forcing the county executive to layoff 200 of its members. Probate Court, however, is a "beacon of light," according to Ficano. Chief Judge Milton Mack does make the cuts.

Ficano would like the county commission to give him the same authority the governor and mayors have so he can rein the deficit spending. He'd also like to see the commission step up to the plate and make the cuts necessary to balance the county budget.

But of late, he has run into a brick wall in the shape of Commission Chair Edward Boike Jr. who sent out a series of e-mails, going after Ficano for what he called grossly overstating revenue from the Delinquent Tax Fund and attempting to "cook the books" with a "radical accounting change."

Claiming that the county executive failed to make adjustments to reflect no transfers from the Delinquent Tax Fund, adding almost $27 million to the deficit, Boike stated that "if fiscal integrity is the issue, it would appear that the Ficano Administration has failed the test."

In a budget message to the commission's Committee on Ways and Means, he claimed that "hidden in the administration's numbers are questionable assumptions, overstatement of revenue and wasteful, inefficient and unrestrained spending."

"It appears that the financial strategy of the administration has been to paper over a mounting deficit and hope the economy would rebound," Boike stated. "Clearly, we have reached the point where deep cuts are unavoidable."

And that might be one thing the two men do agree upon.

Ficano and his staff contend that of the deficit spending isn't halted it will seriously affect basic programs like the seniors' Meals on Wheels.

"We're on a crash course unless the people of Wayne County say no deficit spending," said Deputy County Executive Azzam Elder.

"That's what the county executive has been advocating. We've managed very well, but we're at the point where it's going to break, but the commission don't want to take action."

Ficano has asked the County

Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano is looking for help from the Wayne County Commission in reigning in the county's deficit spending, but is finding resistance from Commission Chair Edward Boike Jr.

Commission "straight up" to be allowed to use a multi-year budget that would smooth out the deficit over more than one year. He also would like to commission to level the playing field and use its authority to stop deficit spending.

"Someone has to be in charge in the room, we need eight commissioners," said Ficano. "They need to empower the county executive to stop the deficit spending. There are commissioners that have stood up and said the commission needs to do the right thing."

Boike's comments have not gone unnoticed by others. Trenton Mayor Gerald Brown who responded in an e-mail to Boike and Greg Eno, a commission public information specialist who posted Boike's e-mails, saying that "I happen to agree with the assessment that Bob Ficano is doing the best he can with what he has been dealt and is a stand up guy. Taking shots at him via the e-mails is rather cowardice as far as I am concerned. Why don't you and Ed try and be a part of the solution to the county problems rather than point fingers at other people in leadership."

Even County Commissioner Gary Woronchak, chair of the Committee on Audit, took Boike to task on his comments. In a July 23 letter, he stated that "In order for the Office of the Legislative Auditor General to properly do its job, it must remain objective and fair, and foster an atmosphere of cooperation throughout county government. The Auditor General does not accomplish this by making sensational statements. And it does not serve his office well for others to do so by taking the good works of the Auditor General out of context in such a manner."

Ficano admits he faces a fight over his proposed elimination of the 13th or inflation equity check that county retirees receive. In a July 19 budget message, Boike pointed out that of the county's 5,473 retirees, 60 percent receive less than $15,000 annually.

"Many of these retirees, on a fixed income will suffer greatly without this 13th check that replaces the former cost of living adjustment," he wrote.

The checks are paid to retirees when there's surplus in investment income, but the retirement board is continuing to pay out the money even though the retirement fund is only funded at a 62 percent level, Ficano said. As a result, it has fallen on the county to cover the costs of the 13th check.

"We have no obligation to pay a $500 bonus, and that's what it is," he said. "It's become an entitlement and it represents $34 million the county just doesn't have."

The county has one month left in its budget year and if nothing is resolved the projected $50 million deficit will balloon to more than $260 million. Ficano said the commission now faces two choices: Decide it has the power to stop the deficit spending and act on it or give the power to the county executive.

"We need action, not finger pointing," said Ficano. "We have a projected deficit that the commission has not brought in line. I'm not asking for anymore authority than the governor or a mayor has. I am asking for tools to deal with this."

Environment, city benefit from curbside recycling

BY LEANNE ROGERS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

It's been a year since blue recycling carts started arriving at Westland homes in anticipation of a new curbside collection program kicking off.

Since that time, Westland residents have recycled nearly 11.6 million pounds of materials that otherwise would have gone into a landfill. That means that over the first year of the bi-weekly recycling program, residents have recycled 22 percent of their solid waste.

During the first two months of the recycling program, Westland paid to have the recycled materials taken by Great Lakes Recycling. Since then, the city has been paid for the recycled materials, ranging from $1.35 per ton to $22.68 per ton — an average of $8.82 per ton.

"It wasn't until year three that we expected to see revenue in the program. The recycling market was really in the tank," Westland Mayor William Wild said. "It did a quick turnaround."

With more than $49,000 received for recyclable materials added to reduced charges for lower tonnage dumped at the landfill, Westland realized a $178,000 savings.

The city realized a further $63,000 by taking compost to Taylor Recycling rather than going through the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority. The city is contractually obligated to dispose of trash through CWCSA, but not compost.

Westland is one of five CWCSA member communities, along with Garden City, Dearborn Heights, Wayne and Inkster. Only Westland and Dearborn Heights offer curbside recycling.

Recycling has its rewards

Westland residents have been helping the environment by reducing the amount of material sent to the landfill through the city's curbside recycling plan.

And those who have signed up with RecycleBank are earning rewards based on the amount of materials recycled in their neighborhood.

The city has two districts that have curbside recycling collection on alternating weeks. The recycling cart has a tag that is read when the recycling is collected.

The points earned through RecycleBank can be redeemed at a variety of participating local and national companies or donated to benefit charities.

The top 10 most popular local reward partners include Hollywood Markets, Olga's Kitchen, Bordine's, Buffalo Wild Wings, Palace Supermarket, 7-Eleven, Parisian, Cold Stone Creamery, Dunkin' Donuts and Norman's Market.

In the past year, Westland residents have recycled 11.6 million pounds of materials; saved a total of 667,983 gallons of oil, 81,333 trees and the equivalent of 16,671 metric tons of CO₂, according to calculations of RecycleBank.

Part of the CWCSA agreement with Waste Management is an escalator in tipping fees if tonnage decreases 10 percent over three years.

"We're looking at the last three years. We paid $22.26 per ton last year and over $23 this year. It's still cheaper to recycle," Wild said.

Last year, the city budgeted $700,000 for recycling — $560,000 for Republic Services to collect and transport the recyclables and $100,000 for the RecycleBank program that provides incentives for recycling, plus payment on 27,000 recycling carts which was financed over 10 years.

"We offset the cart costs by making the $240,000 savings (from recycling and compost)," Wild said. "Environmentally, it's the right thing to do and, economically, it makes sense. It may be wishful thinking, but my goal is to make recycling cost neutral, if the market continues to go up."

The city had budgeted $500,000 for the second phase of recycling, originally expected to be an extension of the program to condominiums and apartments - phase one included all single family residents. That idea is getting a second look.

"Does it make more sense to do the apartments and condos or provide a second cart to some single family residences?" said Wild. "People tell us they could fill a second cart - weekly pick up would cost more. We have about 900 carts left. Apartments would be a challenge. We need to sit down with council and make a decision about what phase two would look like."

Anderson: Oil spill is reason his proposals need to be OK'd

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

State Sen. Glenn Anderson believes that the massive oil spill on the west side of the state should be a wake-up call for lawmakers and residents. Michigan must take steps to protect its natural resources.

"We take it for granted, out of sight, out of mind," said the Westland Democrat. "But this should be more than a warning, it should force us to look at and take the necessary steps to prevent this from happening again."

Anderson was in the Marshall-Kalamazoo area last Tuesday to see firsthand the devastating effect of an oil spill that has polluted the water in Talmadge Creek and the Kalamazoo River when a 30-inch oil pipeline owned by Enbridge Liquids Pipelines sprung a leak in Marshall Township in Calhoun County July 26.

The leak was stopped Tuesday but not before what the Environmental Protection Agency estimates is close to one million gallons of oil escaped into the creek. The oil spill has polluted more than 35 miles of waterways since then and poses a threat of breaching the dam at Lake Morrow and possibly making its way to Lake Michigan.

The pipeline, built in 1969, carries about 190,000 barrels or eight million gallons of oil per day from Griffith, Ind., to Sarnia, Ontario. It slices through 11 Michigan counties, including northern Oakland County.

Anderson has introduced a bill that would permanently ban drilling for oil in the Great Lakes and restore the rights of citizens to protect the state's natural resources. After seeing the devastation, pegged as the worst disaster of its kind in the Midwest, he is demanding that his fellow lawmakers take action on his proposal to hold polluters accountable for all cleanup costs and damages.

"My plan would help protect our Great Lakes, land and water from a disastrous oil spill like this one, and we need to pass it now," Anderson said. "Neither the state nor Michigan families can afford to pay for corporate negligence like this, and we need to be sure companies like Enbridge Energy Partners, rather than the state's taxpayers, are on the hook for costs associated with the ecological and economic damage they cause in our state."

Anderson has labeled Enbridge's response to the disaster as "totally inadequate." Booms have been set up at eight-10 locations along the creek to steer the oil to the shore where it can be vacuumed up, but a lot of it was still going down the creek to the river.

"The big issue is how long Enbridge knew about the leak," Anderson said in an interview Thursday. "I sat in on an update and Enbridge painted a rosy picture that they are making progress. They estimate it could take months to clean up, but I think it could go longer than that. That area will have this problem for one-two years."

Anderson's plan would place three proposals on the November general election ballot, so the protections would become a permanent part of the state constitution. The proposals would:

- Ensure that polluters responsible for an oil spill or other environmental damages pay for all cleanup and damage costs, rather than wasting taxpayers' dollars for cleanups

- Permanently ban all oil and gas drilling in the Great Lakes, both off-shore drilling and onshore "slant" drilling

- Restore the legal rights of Michigan citizens to seek

State Sen. Glenn Anderson surveys the cleanup efforts along Talmadge Creek in Marshall Township.

According to State Sen. Glenn Anderson, D-Westland, the black tarry oil that leaked from an Enbridge pipeline in Calhoun County "is everywhere."

Booms along Talmadge Creek in Calhoun County steer the oil to the shore where workers wearing respirators are vacuuming it up.

compensation for damage caused by corporate pollution.

Currently, there is cap on how much in damages can be assessed, and a Supreme Court ruling that lawsuits must be filed only by those directly affected. Anderson wants to lift that cap and restore the right to residents to sue for compensation for damages.

"It's such a mess out there. There are some areas where it burns your eyes, and the benzene level is so high that workers have to wear respirators and Tyvek suits," he said. "Even before I got out of the car at Marshall I could smell it. I was surprised at how bad it was. It was something like you'd see on TV. You never expect it to happen here." "I think back here and even in Lansing, they underestimated how bad it was," he added. "There's black tarry oil everywhere."

Reading program proves dog-gone effective

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Ten-year-old Mary Benton relished the idea of reading to a 6-month-old Labrador retriever named Gucci.

"I like the idea, but I'm wondering if the dog will not listen and get up and walk away," she said.

Carrying a copy of Lost and Found, a book by children's author Andrew Clements, Mary walked into a Canton Public Library room where Gucci waited with her Paws With A Cause trainer, Jaclyn Bernard.

Gucci shifted positions a few times, but mostly she watched and listened as Mary read the story about twin brothers who have difficulty proving they're different people. Gucci certainly never walked away.

"It was really fun looking at her listen to the book," Mary said after the 10-minute reading session had ended. "Most of the time she was silent."

Researchers say reading to dogs can help children gain confidence and improve their fluency by as much as 30 percent, according to a study by the University of California Davis School of Veterinary Medicine and Tony La Russa's Animal Rescue Foundation of Walnut Creek, Calif.

Canton's library has paired Gucci and young readers in kindergarten through sixth grade for a summer reading-assistance program that proved so popular, library children's program specialist Kristen Kostielney reluctantly had to turn away some youngsters. A third round of sessions is coming in late August.

"It helps children read in a non-threatening atmosphere," Kostielney said. "The dogs listen — they don't correct the children — and they become friends. It also helps children overcome their fears of talking in front of people."

The program also helps Gucci, who is learning to become an assistance dog as she prepares to live with a disabled owner. Her foster mother, Bernard, said dogs can help children improve their reading skills because they are not judgmental. They don't care if a child stumbles over a word before grasping it.

When asked how Gucci likes the program, Bernard smiled and said, "she loves it."

Mary came to the Canton library with her 8-year-old sister, Maggie, and their mother, Becky Benton. Mary shrugged her shoulders when asked if she might start reading to her own dog, a Lab named Molly.

Mary and Maggie participated in the dog reading-assistance program to earn credit for a summer reading program.

"I thought it was a really interesting idea," their mother said. "They like to read, but I want them to get in the habit of reading every day and enjoying reading."

Freya Nath, 6, reads a Henry and Mudge book to Gucci as trainer Jaclyn Bernard looks on.

Schoolcraft offers 3-wheeler course

Youngsters know all about three-wheelers. It's the first bicycle they learn to ride.

But Schoolcraft College is offering a Three-Wheel Basic Rider Course for adults at its Radcliff Center in Garden City this fall.

The class is designed for those who have minimal experience or are unlicensed operating a three-wheel motorcycle and will include a curriculum from the Motorcycle Safety Foundation. Students will develop their basic riding skills as they learn proper turning, shifting and braking. The class includes approximately 12 hours of instruction with four hours in the classroom and eight hours on the range. Students must furnish their own three-wheel motorcycle and protective gear.

The class will be held at the Radcliff Center Sept. 10-12. The fee is $25.

With successful completion of a State-approved Motorcycle Safety Foundation course, the Secretary of State will waive the riding skills test required for a cycle endorsement. However, a short written test required for license endorsement will be given at the time of endorsement application. In addition to the short written test, a more extensive test will be given as part of the motorcycle course.

For more information on the Motorcycle Safety Program, go online to www.schoolcraft.edu/ces/motorcycle.asp or call (734) 462-4448.

Vote on Tuesday

Don't forget to vote Tuesday, Aug. 3. The primary election is your chance to let your voice be heard in narrowing the field for the November general election.

James

Ballots must be cast under one political party. Crossing over and voting for both Republican and Democratic candidates during a primary election will invalidate the partisan section of the ballot. Nonpartisan offices and proposals will appear after the partisan section of the ballot.

Besides voting in the gubernatorial and other regional races, Republican voters in Westland will elect their candidate in the 12th Wayne County Commission District. Residents also will decide the fate of a millage renewal for the Suburban Mobility Authority on Regional Transportation.

In the 12th Commission race, the Observer has endorsed David James of Westland.

James is squaring off with Michael Case for the chance to challenge incumbent Democrat Joan Gebhardt of Livonia in the November general election. We think James should be that person.

This is the second time he has run for the seat; he narrowly lost his bid two years ago to Thomas Thompson of Livonia. He is back because he believes the Wayne County Commission needs an opposing or alternate viewpoint of the issues.

James has a sound working knowledge of government with his service on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education, Westland Planning Commission and Westland City Council. He also has an understanding of the needs of the district, which includes Livonia south of I-96, Westland and Inkster.

His quest to serve on the commission will not be easy. He's a Republican in a predominantly Democratic district, but we believe James is up to the challenge with his message to voters that he is a strong believer in people before politics and in the best idea or solution no matter which party it comes from.

We believe the best choice for the Republicans is David James and urge them to vote for him in the August primary.

As for the SMART millage renewal, while we believe a countywide "all in or all out" vote is needed on this regional issue, it would be unwise to vote down the millage renewal at this point. Without the renewal, the SMART system would be cut drastically, or be wiped out altogether. Work must continue, on the county and state levels, to build a true regional system in the name of economic growth and accommodating the thousands of riders who need the transportation in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties to get to work every day.

The SMART system is not perfect, as its "opt out" options per community in Wayne and Oakland create a checkerboard service area. We think the Macomb model makes more sense and we urge elected officials to explore this option further.

However, residents need to keep SMART around by approving the 0.59-mill property tax renewal, which will cost the owner of a home worth $200,000 about $59 a year. SMART serves 75 communities in Macomb, Oakland, and Wayne counties with a 1,200-square-mile service area. Nearly 70 percent of SMART riders use SMART to get to work; another 20 percent use SMART to get to school.

The millage enables the region to collect matching state and federal dollars to support public transportation. SMART received $28.1 million in matching state funds and $14.5 million in deferral funds during fiscal year 2010. SMART also received a one-time award of $20.2 million in federal stimulus dollars.

Average daily ridership is 39,850 on the fixed route system and 1,594 on the connector service which is curb-to-curb service using smaller vehicles that provide service for seniors and people with disabilities.

SMART is working on service enhancements, communication with local municipalities, environmentally friendly initiatives and system efficiencies. Allow that work to continue by voting YES on Aug. 3.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and will be busiest before and after work. Avoiding peak times may help residents vote more quickly.

Voters who need to vote absentee ballot can obtain a ballot in person anytime through 4 p.m. Monday, Aug. 2. Voters who request an absentee ballot in person Monday, Aug. 2, must vote in the clerk's office.

Voters will be asked to present photo ID at the polls, such as a Michigan driver's license or identification card. Anyone who does not have an acceptable form of photo ID or forgets to bring it with them can still vote. They will sign a brief affidavit stating that they're not in possession of a photo ID. Their ballots will be included with all others and counted on Election Day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Snyder is the man

With a besieged economy, diminishing wildlife, and political corruption at many levels, Michigan demands an intelligent leader to direct our state. Rick Snyder is that man.

Focused not merely on fixing, but reinventing, our political and economical systems, I firmly believe Mr. Snyder is the pre-eminent candidate to be Michigan's governor. Though Michigan has encountered mostly empty promises from its political leaders, Mr. Snyder's "Michigan 3.0" is a reachable vision and necessary for the success of our state's economy.

It is intended to create entrepreneurs and innovators, allowing Michigan to compete with our domestic counterparts. I think that this ambition will lead Michigan back to its full economic potential.

An imperative focus discussed in Mr. Snyder's 10-point plan, a list of his top 10 priorities concentrates on the change in attitude vital for success. Michiganders must be proud of their state and representatives, despite the recent economic troubles. This upraise in outlook will re-inspire the citizens of our state to achieve success.

Too few Michiganders have hope for a better economy nowadays. Mr. Snyder is the only candidate capable of guiding Michigan out of these rough times and into a prosperous and reinvented society.

Keep SMART buses rolling

Local voters need to vote to maintain our access to public transportation on Aug. 3 by voting for the 0.59-mill property tax renewal. Here are some reasons why.

Many Detroiters and riders in other communities depend on the bus system to get to work. Less than 13 percent of metropolitan area jobs are now in Detroit. A quarter of Detroit households lack cars.

In our current economic environment, all of us need to join together to do everything we can to support employment opportunities for everyone.

It is not just about Detroit. Those of us who live in affluent suburban communities forget that we too have neighbors, friends and co-workers who depend on public transportation. At some point, many senior citizens no longer drive and this is a growing portion of our population. There are also many, like myself, who cannot drive due to physical limitations and depend on the bus system for access to jobs, appointments, shopping and recreation.

SMART is well run. It has one of the lowest administrative costs of bus systems in the nation - 35 percent lower than the national average last year. Ridership has increased 9 percent since 2002.

Environmental and energy cost issues promise a future in which mass transit will play a more essential part. The bus system will be one piece of the mass transit system needed to help our metropolitan area grow and compete.

Vote for Mosher

As someone who frequently uses Canton Center Road near the library and the Summit, I am very much looking forward to the improvements. The Observer reported that this $4.3 million project is being funded by the federal stimulus program. These improvement projects throughout the state and the many jobs they create are the result of President Obama's and the Democrats' efforts to reignite the economy.

Sadly, if it were left to our Congressman Thaddeus McCotter, Canton Center Road would remain in a degraded state and many workers would not have jobs. He claims on his website that he wants to get Michigan back to work but voted against the stimulus bill which is doing just that. He even opposed the billions of dollars in tax cuts which the president provided to the American people.

It's time to elect a congressman who deeply cares about the lives of his constituents, it's time to remove Thaddeus McCotter from office and replace him with someone who will get Michigan back to work. For me that person is Natalie Mosher. She is not a career politician like McCotter who has spent too much time in Washington defending the status quo and ignoring the struggling workers.

A vote for Mosher is a vote for the little guy.

Check out the International Spy Museum

If you find yourself in Washington, D.C., and want to visit something a little bit different than the usual monuments and museums, you may want to visit the International Spy Museum.

The museum is the only public museum in the United States to focus only on espionage on a global perspective. It features the largest collection of spy-related artifacts and uses film and interactive activities to tell the stories of real-life spies.

There is a small exhibit on spies in pop culture, such as James Bond, but otherwise the main focus is on real spies and their work. Visit www.spymuseum.org for more information about the museum.

The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland can help you plan a visit to Washington, D.C. Some of the most popular guidebooks to the area include "New York, Washington, D.C., and the Mid-Atlantic Trips," "Business Traveler Guide to Washington, D.C.," "Frommer's Washington, D.C.," "Fodor's Washington, D.C." and "Mobil Travel Guide: Mid-Atlantic."

You can also check out maps and brochures that are in the Travel Vertical Files.

If you're more of an armchair traveler, the library has materials that might interest you. You can find the James Bond movie collection in the DVD section and the books written both by Ian Fleming and John Gardner in the fiction collection.

But spies are so much more than James Bond. If you're interested in real-life spies, you might be interested in these titles: "Bureau and the Mole" by David Vise, "Denial and Deception" by Melissa Mahle, "Secret War" by Fabian Escalante Font, "Great Game" by Frederick Hitz and "Operation Solo" by John Barron.

Fictional spy stories of interest include "Morning Spy, Evening Spy" by Colin MacKinnon, "Rules of Deception" by Christopher Reich, "Death in Vienna" by Daniel Silva, "Quiet American" by Graham Greene and the "Bourne" series by Robert Ludlum.

To make things easier for you, there are bookmarks available at the Reference Desk that mention the aforementioned titles as well as other titles.

The William P. Faust Public Library of Westland's summer hours are 9 a.m. to Umbrella liability policy wise for higher wage earners

Q: Dear Rick: My neighbor has a $1 million umbrella liability policy. I don't have this type of coverage and I don't think I need it. Do you think that an umbrella liability policy is gimmicky or is it something you recommend? I make a nice living but I don't consider myself rich.

Money Matters
Rick Bloom

A: Umbrella liability insurance provides additional coverage above and beyond your automobile and homeowners' policies.

For example, if you were in an automobile accident and you were at fault, the umbrella liability policy would kick in after the coverage on your auto policy was exhausted. Another example where an umbrella liability policy would come into effect is if someone was injured in your home. If the damages were more than provided for in your homeowners' policy, the umbrella liability policy would activate. The issue for most people is whether they have sufficient liability coverage. We live in a litigious society and because an umbrella liability policy can also be used to cover legal fees, I believe for many people this type of coverage is important.

You don't have to "rich" to buy an umbrella liability policy. It is a matter of do you have assets or income that need to be protected.

If your assets are worth more than your current liability coverage, I believe it makes sense to purchase umbrella liability coverage. In addition, if you are a high wage earner (anything over six figures) it makes sense to purchase an umbrella liability policy.

It is possible that if you were in a situation where there was some sort of an accident, your future salary could be at risk so umbrella liability makes sense.

Umbrella liability policies are not expensive. Typically, for $1 million of additional liability coverage it costs a couple hundred dollars a year. Of course, someone with substantial assets may need to purchase more than $1 million of additional coverage.

In most situations, to purchase an umbrella liability policy go through your homeowners or automobile insurance company. It is easier to coordinate coverage when purchased through the same company.

Umbrella personal liability insurance policies, like all types of insurance, fall under the category of risk management. The key is to identify potential risks and then to make an informed decision as to how to cover them. In some situations we are self-insured while in others we purchase some sort of policy to share the risk.

If you are a professional, have a high net worth or high income, the risk of being sued for an accident or any type of mishap increases dramatically. Therefore, to have some type of insurance in place that will protect you is something that I believe is valuable.

Unfortunately, too many people never shop their coverage around and they end up paying higher premiums than necessary. When you speak with your homeowners' or automobile insurance agent about umbrella liability, consider shopping around all of your policies. You may find that even with adding on an additional umbrella liability policy your total premiums are not increased.

Good luck!

Area youngsters receive soccer instruction from British Soccer coaches

BY JIM TOTH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

It was just six short weeks ago that England and the United States were about as far apart as two long-standing allies could be. You see, World Cup 2010 was in its infant stages and the two countries were set to embark on the world's most coveted journey in sports.

Their much-anticipated matchup in the early going created a multitude of storylines, but resulted in minimal bragging rights as the contest ended in a 1-1 draw. The way that match played out was the way the rest of the tournament panned out for both teams.

Now, less than two months later, cohesion again exists on the soccer pitch as some of the finest young minds from across the pond have returned to share their experiences and deliver their expertise to inquiring young minds who seek to learn the skills of the game.

"The idea is you want them to have as much fun as they can and also you want them to learn as well," stated Milo Palmer, 21, of Cheltenham, England, who, along with fellow instructors John Bentley and Darragh O'Callaghan, visited Garden City last week as part of the annual Challenger Sports British Soccer Camps. "There are so many things they need to learn because in England we're given a soccer ball as soon as we can walk. That's what we're trying to get over here — start them as young as we can."

Camp instructor Milo Palmer works with Ethan Decess of Garden City on footwork. Decess was a return participant to the soccer camp that was offered up by The Christian Youth Soccer Association and British Soccer.

Specifically, the trio was on hand Monday through Friday at United Christian School working with boys and girls six to 18 on everything from improving fundamentals to building character. Their mission, as stated by Challenger Sports — which has become the largest soccer camp in North America — is to combine consistent high quality and age specific soccer instruction with equally important elements of character, cultural and nutritional education.

Ducks sign Fowler

The NHL Anaheim Ducks announced the signing last week of defenseman Cam Fowler of Farmington Hills to a three-year entry-level contract.

Per club policy, no terms of the deal were disclosed.

The 18-year-old Fowler was selected by the Ducks in the first round (12th overall) of this year's NHL Entry Draft.

The 6-foot-1, 190-pound Fowler tallied 55 points with a plus-38 rating and 14 penalty minutes in 55 games with the Ontario Hockey League and Memorial Cup champion Windsor Spitfires.

As a member of Team USA, Fowler won a gold medal at both the 2010 IIHF World Junior Championship and 2009 IIHF U-18 World Championship, where he was named the tournament's top defenseman.

MU's Moore honored

Madonna University's Patrick Moore was recently selected as the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference's Mike Dean Sports Information Director of the Year.

Moore, a 2003 MU grad, serves as the host media director for 10 WHAC championships in addition to multiple NIAA events and developed several conference publications.

The last three MU volleyball media guides (2007, 2008, 2009) have all taken home top national honors from NIAA-SIDA.

"Patrick is the utmost professional," MU Athletics Director Bryan Rizzo said. "His work ethic, dedication and commitment can be seen in his work every day. Madonna is very lucky to have Patrick."

Andrew Ioanou, who will be a junior at Livonia Churchill, captured the Boys 16-17 age division.

Becca Bubenheimer, who will be a junior at Livonia Stevenson, earned the Girls 15-17 age division crown.

Churchill junior Ioanou tops Motor City Jr. Golf field

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Andrew Ioanou knows Whispering Willows Golf Course inside and out.

On Wednesday, the incoming junior at Livonia Churchill put his knowledge to work as he won the Boys 16-17 age division in the Motor City Junior Golf Tournament.

"I'm just trying to make varsity again," said Ioanou, who tied Livonia Franklin senior-to-be Drake Hermann after 18 holes with a 39-37-76.

Ioanou's round included four birdies, which offset a triple bogey on the par-5, 478-yard first hole and a double bogey on the par-3, 214-yard No. 15.

Despite three-putting, Ioanou defeated Hermann in a one-hole playoff on No. 10 for the title.

"My putter was pretty good today and that was about it. I had like 28 (putts)," said Ioanou, who shuttled between the Churchill varsity and JV squad this spring. "I was hitting my drives pretty good. I found the fairway a lot. A lot of the pin placements were hard because they were in the front and on the slope, mostly in the front."

Ioanou's short game was the difference. He gets plenty of advice from his high school coach, Paul Worley, who also serves as the head pro at Whispering Willows.

"I work on putting a lot, because putting is kind of a hard thing to do," he said. "So I try and do that the best that I can. Paul (Worley) emphasizes short game because he's really good at short game."

Falcons hire new basketball coach

BY DAN O'MEARA
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A veteran of a dozen years in coaching, Terrance Porter is ready for his next challenge at Farmington High School.

Porter, a 35-year-old Redford resident, was hired earlier this summer to replace Steve Norgrove as the boys varsity basketball coach.

Norgrove resigned after eight seasons to take the same post at Rochester Stoney Creek, a school and position closer to his home.

Porter, who was the head coach at Birmingham Groves the past two seasons, is excited about the opportunity he has at Farmington.

"I'm ecstatic; I can't wait to get started," he said. "In the fall, we're going to be preparing for basketball. I'm looking forward to the season."

Porter was hired too late to get the Falcons into a team camp, but he has already begun to prepare his team with summer workouts and games.

"There's definitely some talent there," he said. "There are some pieces there to work with. Now, it's just a situation of getting in the gym and seeing what the skill levels are, expanding their strengths and working on their weaknesses."

"We're trying to develop a comfort level. They're learning to trust me, and I'm learning to trust them."

Porter said his coaching style can accommodate a fast tempo and a deliberate pace.

"We like to score easy baskets in transition and also be able to run set plays," he said.

But the real emphasis will be on rebounding and playing defense.

"I'm a big believer in defensive rebounding first and foremost," Porter said. "We have to be able to rebound consistently, and the effort has to be there every night on both ends of the floor."

Not to be outdone was incoming Novi-Detroit Catholic Central junior David Nietzke, who captured the Boys 14-15 age division with a 38-41-79. He won by three shots over Kevin Luo.

Last spring, Nietzke played on the JV squad as CC's varsity team captured the coveted MHSAA Division 1 team title.

The Farmington native was a regular this summer on the Adams Junior Tour and hopes to crack CC's varsity lineup next season. He shot a 76 in a best ball event earlier this summer at Whispering Willows and teamed up with Farmington High's Jimmy Patterson for a second (67) in a scramble event at Fox Creek.

"There was a lot of wind, but I was keeping the ball in play pretty much," Nietzke said. "I was average on my putts - not good or not bad. Keeping the ball in play gives yourself opportunities and that's all you can hope for."

Capturing the Girls 15-17 crown was Becca Bubbenheimer, who will be a junior at Livonia Stevenson. She shot a 94 to beat Sarah Schneider by a stroke.

Bubbenheimer, who has only one year of tournament experience, has been playing on the Top 50 Junior Tour.

"Neither one of my parents played golf, but one day I went to the driving range and fell in love with it," Bubbenheimer said.

She was satisfied with her round considering the conditions.

"It (94) could have been better, it's not my best, but it's decent," Bubbenheimer said. "I was driving the ball about 225 (yards) off the tee and I was usually in the fairway. It was really, really hot. I was ready to fall over."

Novi's Kristin Swad, 14, who will be an incoming freshman at Farmington Hills Mercy, posted a personal best low round with a 103 to capture the Girls 13-14 crown, a stroke better than Livonia's Madelyn Omietanski.

"I'm pitching the ball better, my irons are my strength," said Swad, who also plays recreational soccer for the Plymouth Rebels and also swims competitively.

In the Boys 13-and-under age group, Livonia's Matt Flood won with an 86, five strokes better than Livonia's Mike Tokarz.

SOCCER CAMP

BACK FOR MORE

The camp has become quite popular among youngsters associated with The Christian Youth Soccer Association, which again this year teamed with British Soccer to make it all possible.

"This is super fun, but I can't wait till the end of the day and we can go to my grandma's and we can finally get to sit in the air conditioning," voiced 11-year-old Austin Howard, of Garden City, during an early-afternoon break on Monday. "This is my favorite sport. I was here last year, too, and I like playing with all my friends."

"I come here to get better at soccer and I come here because it's fun, too," continued Howard, who suits up for the Hornets in the CYSA. "You learn new ways to pass to people and get to the goal and new tricks like the rainbow."

Ethan Decess, 8, also of Garden City, echoed many of those same sentiments. "Last year I came here and it was really fun and we got to do a lot of activities," said Decess, who said he splits time between playing offense and goal for the Raiders. "They're teaching us how to pick up the ball without using your hands. They're good teachers. You get to learn new stuff and it's fun."

And that is precisely the goal of all three foreign instructors who are in unison in their hopes of seeing the sport prosper in this country in terms of awareness and participation.

"From when I was here five years ago there is a definite increase, I think, from just seeing it on t.v.," said Bentley, 26, who calls Leighton Buzzard, England, home. "And with participation with the kids in these camps it has grown."

"But until it is accepted at the high school level as a serious sport then I think it's always going to be harder for it to reach that main level of acceptance," added Bentley, who won't return home until the conclusion of running these camps sometime in November. "But this will help. These kids learning and playing it now and the generation of kids will keep building."

Claire Hermes, 12, of Redford, shows off some of her soccer skills during the weeklong British Soccer Camp held in Garden City.

APPRECIATION ALL AROUND

With more Claire Hermes' running up and down the field the sport would certainly be approaching the levels of popularity enjoyed by this country's three mainstream sports of baseball, football and basketball.

"My mom wanted this to be a birthday present because I really, really love the sport," said Hermes, 12, of Redford, who competes on defense and in goal for the Redford Stars. "I follow it in England where it's a really big thing. My favorite team is Manchester United."

"I saw it back on t.v. once and I thought it would really be cool to do that," Hermes continued. "I just got into my local team and then learned all the ropes and stuff and soon it just kept going and going until I became the biggest fan."

All of the week's enjoyment wasn't confined to just campers, however, as all three instructors made it known their appreciation given the opportunity to travel and teach something so close to their hearts.

"I really love it because each week you get to meet new faces, new families and see different ways of living," Bentley said. "The families love it as well because they think 'Oh, wow, we got the coach at our house,' and it's just a good overall experience for them."

"I've been here (U.S.) five weeks now and it's been a bit of a culture shock for me, but I'm absolutely loving it," said the 20-year-old Irishman O'Callaghan. "Back home I've always wanted to be a teacher. But I've come over here and loved it so much I'm thinking about staying."

"The families are so good to us," O'Callaghan continued. "To let a stranger staying in your house must be difficult. But they love it as well. You really appreciate what they do for you."

COACH

"There are going to be nights when you're not going to make shots, but you can control your effort on the defensive end."

"Defense and attitude are the most important things when it comes to basketball. You control your work ethic, attitude and defensive effort."

Porter, who had a degree in business administration and marketing from the University of Detroit Mercy and a masters degree in sports administration from Wayne

State University, said he will emphasize academics, too.

"I've been put in this position to make a positive impact on these young men's lives, and we're using basketball as the vehicle to prepare them for life."

"I understand a coach's job is to win, but my main goal is for the young men to continue their educations and athletic careers after high school, to be successful on the court and in the classroom."

Porter, who works in private business, played high school basketball at Harper Woods Notre Dame. He continued his career with the UDM Titans.

After three seasons there, he played his final year at Wayne State in 1997-98.

Porter was an assistant coach at Birmingham Brother Rice, U-of-D Jesuit High and Harper Woods. He was a head coach at Harper Woods for half a season before going to Groves.

"I just want to welcome the Farmington community to come out to the games and support the young men, to attend as many home and away games as they can," Porter said. "We want to put a product on the floor that they can be proud of in the community."

Coach's Corner relies on MU talent in tourney run

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The ultimate destination for Coach's Corner/Canton Sports is the 20-and-under All-American Amateur Baseball Association National Tournament, which starts Aug. 9, in Johnstown, Pa.

But first, the Livonia Michigan Collegiate Baseball League representative must get through this weekend's AAABA regional in Zanesville, Ohio, which includes the host team, Lansing and Youngstown.

Manager Mike George, who guided Coach's Corner to a 28-7 Collegiate League record, has built this summer's team success on players from a predominantly Madonna University squad where he serves as an assistant coach.

Pitching has been the team's forte led by the MU trio of Jeremy Gooding (6-3 record), left-hander Tom Hansen (7-1) and Robert Fraser (6-2).

"They've carried the load this summer," George said. "They won over half our games at Madonna - 27 of the 48 wins were by them. I can run any one of them out there and feel comfortable."

Gooding, a Livonia native from Dearborn Divine Child High, was the scheduled starter in Saturday's AAABA double-elimination regional opener against Youngstown (Ohio) with Hansen and Fraser (Westland John Glenn) set to follow.

The MU pitching trifecta has been backed up by lefty Aaron Saarela (3-0), another Crusader; lefty Erik Wright (3-0), a Canton High grad now at Saginaw Valley State; and Cliff Buttermore (2-0), who plays at Concordia University.

"We have not hurt ourselves defensively, but that's because we've pitched phenomenal," George said. "If you look at the (Collegiate) league stats, we've allowed only 80 runs - probably only 50 of those earned - in 35 games. We're here because of our pitching."

Coach's Corner also has an everyday field lineup heavy-laden with MU players.

Outfielder Steve Pelletier, a Farmington Hills Harrison grad, leads the team with a .363 average (41-for-113). He has also scored a team-best 27 runs to go along with 17 RBI.

Catcher Drew Adamiec, who splits time with fellow MU teammate Donny Holland behind the plate, is hitting .338 and has scored 20 runs.

Shortstop Brad Lineberry (Plymouth) has a team-high 18 RBI and scored 19 runs to go along with a .321 average.

Garrett Reban (Plymouth) holds down first base and is hitting .272, while another MU player, Spencer Sarel, is the starter at third.

Only Garrett Gumm (Livonia Franklin), who attends Schoolcraft College, is the only non-MU starter at second base.

Meanwhile, the outfield includes Alex Charles (Farmington Hills/Birmingham Brother Rice) and Dan Stoney (Canton), along with former MU player D.J. Jaglois (Birmingham Groves).

"It's a pretty good group of young kids," said George, who was MU's former head coach before Greg Haeger took over in 1997. "The (Collegiate) league allows only six players from one college team. But the other coaches in the league were nothing but a class act and waived that rule for this summer."

"It's an advantage and also a disadvantage. They can go out and pick anyone they want, but we've also been fortunate because we've had some pretty good players come out of Madonna."

Playing up a Storm: fastpitch team 5-0

So far, so good for girls fastpitch softball team Livonia Storm-Gerou in the USSSA Class B 14-and-under World Series being held at ESPN's Wide World of Sports complex in Orlando, Fla.

On Thursday, the Storm improved to 5-0 in the double-elimination tourney with a 1-0 victory over the Rhode Island Lightening East.

Three Storm pitchers - Elaine Gerou, Hanna Warren and Jacquelyn Murphy - combined on the 1-hit shut-out.

Bunt singles by Shannon Watson and Kaitlyn McIntosh, followed by Gerou's game-winning single through the right side of the infield accounted for the only run in the sixth inning.

On Wednesday, the Storm scored a

4-1 win over Sudden Impact, a team from the Florida Panhandle.

Gerou (Plymouth High) struck out three consecutive batters to keep the game tied at 1-1.

In the fifth inning, the Storm collected four straight hits including a slap hit by McIntosh followed by Gerou's RBI double to the right-center field fence. Celeste Fidge and Murphy also knocked in runs as the Storm outthit the Impact, 8-3.

Gerou threw two innings of no-hit relief with four strikeouts to pick up the win.

In the tourney opener on July 25, the Storm rallied from a 4-0 deficit to beat the Ohio Wave, 6-4, keyed by Fidge's 3-run double.

In Game Two on Tuesday, the Storm downed the Boombahs (Tex.) 12-0 in a three-inning mercy with a 13-hit attack.

Gerou and Warren combined on an abbreviated no-hitter.

In Game Three, also on Tuesday, Murphy and Gerou joined forces for a 4-hitter as the Storm downed the Mattoon (Ill.) Cobras, 7-4.

The Storm collected 14 hits to beat the JSSSA Illinois champions.

Through the first four games, Gerou is 5-for-6 with a pair of doubles, four walks and two sacrifice bunts in 12 total plate appearances.

As of Friday, the Storm was one of eight teams left in the winner's bracket and was only one of three undefeated teams that remained in the 64-team field.

Plymouth woman shares her faith at Jordanian camp

BY SHARON DARGAY
O&E STAFF WRITER

Eron Powers has studied in Vienna and shared the Bible in Nicaragua, but found a real connection with Jordanians at a Amman summer camp earlier this summer.

"I loved the people I got to minister with. We were there to serve, whether that was serving a meal or praying with the camp counselors. I made good friendships there. It was sweet. There's something about faith that enables you to connect quickly. Because you both know Jesus Christ is your savior, you have a connection."

Powers, 30, of Plymouth, was one of nine members of Oak Pointe Church in Novi who took the short-term mission trip to Jordan in late June and early July. She used vacation time from her job as a graphic designer at the Observer & Eccentric and Hometown Newspapers to attend the overseas camp.

Although Jordan's population is 92 percent Sunni Muslim, according to the Jordan Tourist Board, the Oak Pointe team spent its time at a Christian camp for middle school-aged youngsters, running games, participating in worship services and partnering with local missionaries who served as camp counselors.

Oak Pointe offers short term missions designed to "spread the Gospel and share the love of Jesus Christ" to Jordan and Zambia every year. Missionaries might work with orphans, run medical clinics, build houses, train pastors or engage in one-on-one evangelism.

A typical day at the Jordanian camp started with team prayer, followed by breakfast, a staff meeting, group devotional, and individual assignments. Powers ran team-building games for youngsters, before heading off to free time and lunch. Afternoons were spent in prayer with and for the camp counselors. The day ended with a sunset service, dinner and evening message, which included a drama on two occasions.

There was some time for sightseeing in the hot and hilly country that includes Petra, the site of ancient tombs carved into sheer rock face.

POWER OF PRAYER

Powers spent a major part of her time during the trip praying with counselors and forming friendships with them.

"It was worth it. Not only did we get to serve others but we got to experience a new country with great people. It was such a joy. There were two women I talked with the most. One of them was looking for the next step of what God has for her. I can relate to that completely."

"I guess what I got the most out of this trip was the power of prayer. Prayer has the ability to encourage and strengthen. I've experienced that here as well, but it was cool to experience it there."

Although she can't put her finger on one life-changing experience at the camp, Powers said she knows that God stirred something within her.

She encourages other potential short-term missionaries to investigate their options for overseas trips and find a supportive group within a local church.

"It can change your life in a good way," she described missionary work.

FRIENDS IN CHRIST

With her faith the centerpiece of her life, Powers, who grew up in Brighton and graduated from Hope College, finds camaraderie and strength in "Elevate," one of 140 small study groups within Oak Pointe Church. The group consists of other mostly single young professionals who meet for Bible study and help each other grow in faith.

A few Elevate members, including Powers, moved to Plymouth where they live in close proximity to each other.

"We had a craving for community and we love Plymouth in general," Powers explained. "We get to see each other a couple times a week."

"Spending time with friends is one of my hobbies. I love connecting with people, getting out and being active."

Cat rescue stages adoption event

BY SHARON DARGAY
O&E STAFF WRITER

Ann Grenier will do just about anything "for the kitties."

That includes shaving her head.

One of the founders of Country Cat and City Kitty rescue, Grenier promises to lose her locks in exchange for a $5,000 donation to the Livonia feline rescue.

It doesn't matter to Grenier if the sum consists of many small donations or a single giveaway.

"If I get $5,000 in a collective donation, I'll shave my head," she said.

There may be no better place to donate to the organization than at the Purrs & Paws in the Park, its first annual adoption event and craft/vendor show on Aug. 15 at Claude Allison Park, located on Beech Daily north of Six Mile in Redford.

Admission is free and visitors may bring their pets.

The event will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and offer a dog agility demonstration, service dog demonstration, cat, kitten, dog and puppy adoptions from rescue organizations including Paws and Whiskers Cat Shelter from Ohio, Monroe County Bird & Exotic Rescue, crafters and vendors, Purrfect Stitch Embroidery from Garden City, a 50/50 raffle, and pet food and kitty litter drives. A veterinarian from St. Julians Cat Care will be on hand to answer questions and special guest Dana Lundon from 96.3 WDVD will emcee. Patty Perushak of Berwyck Saddle Club in Milford will offer horse and rider demonstrations.

Grenier still is accepting participants. The event is free for rescues. She is asking for a monetary donation of any size from vendors, along with one item that can be raffled.

"There is so much need for animals. Everything and any-

"Come, be part of what we hope will be a big pet event."

CATS IN COMPETITION

Noble John is one of many cats looking for a new home through Country Cat & City Kitty rescue. Cats, dogs, birds and other animals will be ready for adoption at the upcoming Purrs & Paws in The Park, in Redford.

After you've adopted a cat at Purrs & Paws in the Park, consider making your feline friend a star.

Cat Fanciers' Association will hold an all breed and household pet cat show from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 21 at the Allen Park Community Center, 15800 White Street Allen Park.

The show will feature one day of judged competition — including a section for "household" cats — in six rings as well as exhibitors and breeders offering close-up views of their cats.

Breeds will cover a wide variety, including Persians, Maine Coons, Orientals, Birman, Tonkinese, Ragdolls, Siamese and Bombays.

The show is sponsored by the Midwest Persian Tabby Fanciers, a local non-profit cat club.

Admission is $5 for adults, $4 for seniors, and $3 for children, 5 and up. Parking is free.

Take a camping trip to Canton Township

Women and girls may pitch a tent together and sleep under the stars at Canton Leisure Service "Girls Camp Out" Friday, Aug. 13 in Preservation Park.

Scheduled activities include scavenger hunts, crafts, and games. Participants also will cook over a camp fire and enjoy a gourmet s'mores station. Campers may begin pitching their tents at 3 p.m. and activities are scheduled to kick off at 5:30 p.m.

"This first-time girls only camp out gives the ladies a chance to enjoy nature, breathe fresh air and spend quality time together at a great price," stated Jeanette

Williams, recreation specialist, in a press release. "With the cost of travel, participants won't have the expense of gassing up their vehicles and going to a far off destination to have a great camping experience."

All activities will take place at Preservation Park, located at 500 Ridge Road in Canton, and are weather permitting. There is a per tent fee of $20 for Canton residents and $25 for non-residents. Pre-registration is required.

To register or learn more about "Girls Only Camp Out," visit Cantonfun.org or call (734) 394-5460.

Classes offered for kids

This summer, the Unitarian Universalist Church of Farmington is offering religious education classes for children and youth on Human Rights. Students will explore the rights of every person, as well as learn about their responsibility to protect their own rights and the rights of others.

Based on materials from a variety of internationally known and respected organizations, the curriculum will help children develop an appreciation for the rights of themselves and others, recognize the effect of individual choices on the lives of others, and be empowered to act in ways that support human rights. They will also develop an awareness of infringements of human rights and empathy for those who are denied rights.

To register or for more information, call UUCF at (248) 478-7272.

ARTHRITIS AND THE ELECTRONIC MEDICAL RECORD

The promise of the electronic medical record is that it will provide a legible and logical record of a patient's condition and by its digital design be readily transmitted to other physicians treating that patient. Furthermore, communication experts believe, what each physician adds to the medical record, will improve and enlarge other physicians' perspective of the patient's illness and needs.

In arthritis, the patient's story of how pain and limitation developed over time forms the foundation for diagnosis. If a physician has the patient's past records at hand, the doctor can fill in gaps in the history and thereby understand the joint problem from its initial presentation to the present moment. Previous laboratory test results form a picture of the effects of the arthritic condition over time.

The medical community is rapidly exchanging the paper record for the electronic medical record. However, the market place provides a large number of medical software vendors, each of whose products are incompatible with other competitors. The result is that most doctors with well-functioning electronic medical records cannot communicate information to any other physician unless that doctor is using the same software. Until physicians solve the problem of incompatibility, the promise of the electronic medical record as an encompassing communicator remain a dream.

In the matter of privacy, patients need not worry about breaches in information they wish to keep between themselves and their doctors. Federal rules on who can access electronic medical records assure privacy of such data.

Canton walk on Aug. 7 raises funds, awareness for HHT

Our Hope Holds the Cure sponsors its first annual Walk-A-Thon for Hereditary Hemorrhagic Telangiectasia, (HHT), with an opening ceremony beginning at 9:30 a.m., Saturday, Aug. 7, at Heritage Park, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, in Canton.

Jody Nissan of Canton, whose husband and one of their three children have been diagnosed with the disease, formed Our Hope Holds the Cure to generate funds for the HHT Foundation and its research.

The local organization held a series of fund-raising events — from bowling and golf outings to a spaghetti dinner — over the past few months, leading up to the walk-a-thon, which will include kids activities, walking, a recreation station presented by Canton Leisure Services, performances by Central City Dance, a DJ, food and T-shirt displays and HHT informational displays.

Hereditary Hemorrhagic Telangiectasia or HHT is a genetic disorder that causes abnormalities of blood vessels. Bleeding in the nose, brain, lungs, stomach, intestines and other organs are symptoms of HHT. Treatment is limited, temporary and currently there is no cure.

"We are still facing new challenges every day with the medical struggles. We will have three other families that are affected by this disease attend the event.

Jody and Clay Nissan's children, Sierra, Sydney and Jared. The family hopes to raise awareness and money for HHT research through an upcoming walkathon.

The family from Chicago has lost their 17-year-old son to HHT a few short years ago," Nissan said. "We are trying to raise awareness as well as donations so the more people we can have attend the better."

The Nissans and two other families will lead the first lap around the pond. Event activities will run until 2 p.m.

Registration is not required for the walk. There is no donation or walk minimums.

"Anyone and everyone is welcome to just show up," Nissan said.

Karmanos Cancer Institute adds two board members

A retired businessman and retired radio broadcaster have been appointed to serve on the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute Board of Directors.

Joseph S. Dresner of Franklin, who retired in May as director of Meadowbrook Insurance Group, Inc., and Dick Purtan of West Bloomfield, longtime Detroit radio show host, both will serve three-year terms and help support the ongoing work and mission of the Karmanos Cancer Institute.

Dresner has served as chairman of the Highland Companies, a Detroit-area-based developer and manager of commercial, industrial and residential properties, since 1985. He also served as chairman of the board of InterAction Media Corp. since April 1996; director of New Media Lottery Services Inc., where he also chaired the board's audit committee; and is a member of the audit and corporate governance committees of Peninsula Bank, a private company in Englewood, Fla.

A longtime supporter of the Karmanos Cancer Institute, Dresner recently made a $2.5 million donation which completes his $5 million pledge for the purpose of creating the Joseph Dresner Family Bone

Dresner

Purtan

Marrow Transplant and Hematologic Malignancies Center at Karmanos. Dresner, who currently suffers from myelodysplasia (MDS), a malignant bone marrow disease, created this center to honor Dr. Charles A. Schiffer, head of the Malignant Hematology Multidisciplinary Team at Karmanos. The center will give Schiffer and his medical colleagues a centralized place to research and treat MDS and other related diseases.

Purtan has given his time and talent to raise awareness and millions of dollars to support cancer research and other causes to benefit the lives of others throughout his radio career. Although he's retired — for the past 14 years he was host of Puritan's People on 104.3 WOMC — Puritan continues his commitment to philanthropic causes, including Children's Hospital of Michigan; The Dick Purtan Radiothon for The Salvation Army's Bed & Bread Club program, which has raised almost $25 million to feed the homeless and hungry of metropolitan Detroit; and the Gail Puritan Ovarian Cancer Research Fund at the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute, which Dick and his wife Gail established 13 years ago to support research efforts to detect ovarian cancer in its early stages.

In addition to the Karmanos Board, Puritan will serve on Karmanos' Marketing and Outreach Committee. He is also a member of the Children's Hospital of Michigan Board of Directors.
