BY SUE MASON OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Wayne-Westland school officials are urging parents of students to continue to pepper state lawmakers with letters and e-mails, protesting proposed school aid budgets that could short the district more than $14 mil-

The call comes on the heels of a Senateapproved education budget that would cut per-pupil funding by $340 and take $395.9 million from the School Aid Fund to divert it to other budgets.

"The battle isn't over yet," Wayne-Westland Supt. Greg Baracy said. "We still have to be relentless in working with our state representatives. The cuts are still too great and the state shouldn't be raiding the School Aid

The budget, approved by the Senate last week, faced opposition from both sides of the aisle, forcing Lt. Gov. Brian Calley to break a 19-19 tie by casting the deciding vote to pass the budget plan. Seven Republican senators — Tory Rocca of the 10th District, Jack Brandenburg of the 11th District, Mike Nofs of the 19th District, Rick Jones of the 24th District, David Hildebrand of the 29th District, Mike Green of the 31st District and Geoff Hansen of the 34th District - joined their Democratic colleagues in voting no.

"The people of Michigan put their faith in us as elected officials to act in their best interests and stand up for education, and the Republican budget vote to cut our schools is a blatant betrayal of their trust," said Sen. Glenn Anderson, whose 6th District

Hearing adjourned in WYAA embezzlement case

OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A preliminary examination for a former Westland Youth Athletic Association president charged with embezzling more than $20,000 from the group has been adjourned until Wednesday, May 25.

Garden City resident Galen Huren Jr., 46, appeared in Westland 18th District Court Thursday when the hearing was scheduled to determine whether there was sufficient evidence for him to stand trial on the felony

Defense attorney Mary Mahoney told Judge Mark McConnell that she had not yet received the considerable amount of discovery needed to prepare Huren "I talked to the prosecutor and he was agreeable to adjourning the preliminary examination. There is little likelihood that the examination would be waived," said Mahoney, who also commented that she expected the preliminary examination to be lengthy.

Free on $10,000/10 percent bond, Huren is charged with stealing $31,000 from the WYAA from January to July 2010 while serving as president.

Representatives from WYAA filed a complaint with police in July 2010 after Huren had resigned as president. Huren, who has entered a not guilty plea, denied the allegations when interviewed by police.

WYAA officials began to realize there was a problem after finding bills were unpaid. Shut-off notices were being left in the door of the association building on Farmington Road. Current WYAA President Don Haas said that no cash deposits were made into the association account for about six months.

Now in its 53rd year, WYAA registers about 1,000 youngsters 5-16 years old annually in football, baseball, volleyball, basketball, softball and cheerleading. The group is self-supporting through registration fees and fundrais-

Residents welcome new screening behind Art Van

BY LEANNE ROGERS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The Westland Art Van store will be getting a new eight-foot fence to screen neighbors from the back of their building and also two tents to hold their annual sale. After hearing a repeat of last year's complaints from residents living on Marina Court about the poor condition of the screening berm, noise, litter and lack of privacy, the Westland City Council rejected Art Van's request to conduct their annual tent sale May 3-25.

Council members did leave the door open to reconsider the tent sale request contingent on an agreement being worked out to resolve the screening issues for neighbors. The tent sale approval was granted the day before the sale was set to begin.

"I'm happy to bring this request to you. After the last meeting, I took the opportunity to meet with Art Van and consult with the neighbors on Marina Court," said Planning Director Bruce Thompson. "The final solution is an eight-foot high screening fence along the common lot line. The chain link fence is to be removed."

The eight-foot height of the fence was necessary due to the grade changes in the residential properties, he said, which caused a six-foot screening fence to be ineffective. While the

Market opens to cool weather, light crowd

BY LEANNE ROGERS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, May 8, 2011

With the Westland Farmers Market opened for a second season last Tuesday, Bill Besso was rivaling the Maytag repairman as the loneliest guy

"It's so slow. The market master bought a chicken sandwich - I'm known for my chicken sandwich," said Besso, who was grilling hamburgers, hot dogs and ribs, in addition to chicken sandwiches.

It's early in the season, so the number of vendors was low and the weather was cool, overcast and wet, further putting a bit of damper on the market, which has moved to the City Hall parking lot.

"I could make a killing with coffee and hot chocolate today,' said Besso, who will be adding fresh-squeezed lemonade to his menu once the weather warms

Returning to the market was Becky Plowman of Hog Wild which sells a variety of homemade sausages - fresh Italian and kielbasa, smoked kielbasa and hunter sausages. This year, Plowman's sister, Nicole Jude, has joined the market selling cupcakes.

"We did really well at this market last year, it was one of our better markets. I hope it continues this year," said Plowman, who also sells at markets in Redford, Taylor and new this year, Plymouth.

Hog Wild evolved the sausage making hobby of Plowman's husband Scott, who had been unemployed. Now that he's back to work full time, Becky Plowman is running the business herself.

Last year, the market was held along Wayne Road in front of Westland Shopping Center. The City Hall parking lot is an interim spot for the market which is eventually expected to move further south into Central City Park once a plaza has been constructed.

"I don't like the new location really. They say it will get a lot more traffic. People go to the mall to shop and saw the market — there was unexpected traffic," said Plowman. "It's been advertised a lot in the Observer. I hope we get people. I make fresh sausage before every market.'

Livonia residents Tish and Scott Branham are beekeepers back for a second year at the market selling a variety of honeys, bee pollen and beeswax

'We're at six markets along with health expos and craft fairs," said Tish Branham. "We're not your normal beekeepers. I am definitely into the health aspects. I only do honey from crops without pesticides.'

Depending on the type of crops the bees have pollinated, the honey not only has different flavors and color but different health benefits, according to Branham. The goldenrod honey is great for people will allergies, she said, while spearmint honey is good for indigestion and reflux and clover honey is good for joints.

"Bee pollen that comes off the bees' legs will clear up allergies. My grandson had asthma — that's what got me into this business," said Branham. "That was five years

The new location for the market may be an improvement, Branham said, providing better exposure along Ford.

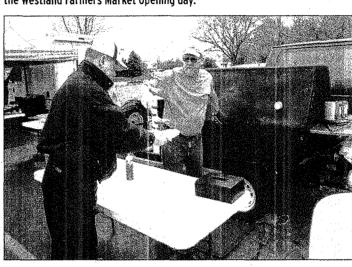

From Kapnick Farms outside Tecumseh, Gary Armstrong was offering a variety of baked good and some produce.

"We're a couple of weeks behind with crops because of the weather," he said.

The farm produces crops throughout the growing season from early crops like asparagus and strawberries on through the summer into the fall with late crops like apples.

pine trees in the berm are very tall, dating back to the 1995 store expansion, other plants underneath died.

"We lost thousands of dollars worth of vegetation there. Usually you need a much wider berm," said Darid Winowiecki, Art Van facilities coordinator. "Usually you need a much wider berm. Last summer, we offered a six-foot fence and a seven-foot fence which were rejected by the neighbors."

It will take two weeks to get the fence materials, Winowiecki said, since it is a custom order.

Other complaints by residents were being addressed by moving the merchandise pickup area from the east side of the building near homes to the south side of the building. Another complaint about employees congregating and smoking at the rear of the store was addressed by Art Van which implemented a no smoking policy effective May 1.

It is a pretty strong policy. There is no smoking on the property, not even electric cigarettes," said Winowiecki.

"Employees can't smoke in their cars — they would have to punch out and leave the premises."

Council members expressed their appreciation to store officials for working to resolve the complaints from neighbors. Dan Cook, whose home backs up to the store, appreciated the actions taken by the council.

"Your efforts really got the ball rolling," said Cook, who wanted to know the time line for finishing the fence and that the fire lane would be maintained.

includes the Wayne-Westland Community Schools. "These drastic cuts to our schools are going to make it even harder to turn our economy around and rob from our children the chance to compete in the 21st century workforce."

HARD AT WORK

Anderson — along with several state representatives, including Richard LeBlanc of Westland and Kurt Heise of Plymouth - has been working overtime to help restore Wayne-Westland's equity language which represents $6 million in school aid that was not factored in when Proposal A took effect in 1994.

As it now stands, the district could lose up to 14 percent of its $112 million general fund budget and plunge the district into deficit. It's a blow to the Wayne-Westland school board, which has "been prudent in planning for the tough times," Baracy said.

Last year, school officials launched a three-pronged plan to help the district weather the 2010-11 and 2011-12 budget years. The plan included cuts in spending, the closing of six elementary schools, one-year wage and salary freezes and "modest" increase in health care costs from employees. The plan would have saved the district $11.2 million, however, the Wayne-Westland Education Association and

"If it all had fallen into place, we would have been able to do it, but not with these cuts from the state,' Baracy said. "The biggest issue is the equity of the cuts. Wayne-Westland has been singled out for the largest cut in the state. It's terrible to be cut so much when you work so hard to move a district forward to provide best in educational facilities and for the students.

but if this budget is an indication of our state's priorities, we are in trouble," Anderson said. "Education and public safety funding should not be expendable."

RESOLVING DIFFERENCES

The budgets voted out of the Michigan Senate have been transferred to the House for an up or down vote, after which they will go to conference committees to resolve differences between the House and Senate versions. The state House was to have taken up its education budget late last week. Gov. Rick Snyder wants the education budget completed by May 31 so school districts know what their funding is when they prepare their budgets, which must be approved by June 20. According to Baracy, the school district has four weeks to convince

He stressed that the equity language is "a very legitimate piece of legislation" that came about because of the confusion over Proposal A.

"The equity language was valid when Gov. John Engler signed it in 1999, it's not an earmark, it's not pork," he said.

The school district has a Legislative Tool Kit on its website at www.wwcsd.net with information on how to contact lawmakers and what the crux of the crisis is, so citizens can continue to let lawmakers know that they don't want K-12 funding cut.

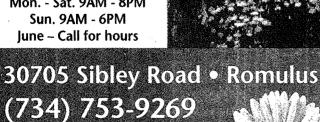

"If we're lucky, we'll get our money," Baracy said. "The economy is turning around slowly. If we get through another year, we can make it."

Block grant money funds many programs

AROUND WESTLAND

BY LEANNE ROGERS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Adding funding to activities ranging from housing rehabilitation to funding programs for senior citizens and remediation at Central City Park, the federal Community Development Block Grant program impacts many Westland residents, directly or indi-

"CDBG is a highly important program for Westland. It provides so many services from housing rehabilitation to Youth Assistance and road repairs in Norwayne," said Westland Community Development Director Joanne Inglis.

"It's been a very instrumental program for the city over the years," agreed Mayor William Wild. "We've used it to fund community policing in the CDBG (eligible) area, an ordinance officer, energy efficiency upgrades at the fire stations and fire equipment. It's been very helpful to the city."

During the current fiscal year, Westland received $1.2 million in CDBG funds, along with $350,00 for the HOME program which funds home rehabilitation and payment assistance for new homeowners. The CDBG funds have been used in Norwayne for a number of projects - the $2 million Neighborhood Stabilization Program is a subprogram of Community Development — but not limited to one area of Westland.

"CDBG funds can be used all over the city, if they meet they income guidelines. It has truly benefited the entire city," said Inglis.

Some projects require that 51 percent of the residents served meet program income guidelines to utilize CDBG funds.

"We'll probably always meet the income requirements in Norwayne and senior citizens always count as eligible for the program," said Inglis.

NSP activities have been aimed at helping to stabilize residential neighborhoods.

"Property values still aren't up because there so many more foreclosures still out there," said Inglis. "Each time we keep one more house from being a blighted, vacant house helps the values. The impact is exponential. If your house is next door to a blighted vacant home, you lose 30 percent of the value. If you're in the next block, it's 20 percent. It's not just one block that is affected."

Other recent CDBG activities include the Norwayne

Community Garden dedication, 10 abandoned, blighted buildings demolished in Norwayne between March-April, Life Remodeled's affordable housing project, Central City Park remediation activities, assisting two new homebuyers in April, lighting improvements at the fire stations, a new sound system at the Friendship Center and the Samuel B. Ware students' spring break camp.

Cab ride ends in arrest of two women

BY SUE BUCK OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Two women have been charged with fraud after they allegedly tried to get a free taxi ride from a home in Wayne to the McDonald's Restaurant in Garden City April 28.

According to Garden City police, the women and a juvenile female allegedly conspired to call a cab to their home in Wayne and then not pay for the

According to the cab driver, he took them to the restaurant on Middlebelt just south of Ford where they bolted from the car. He was able to keep one of the passengers in the cab while he called police. She only had $12 with her and the fare was $20.

The other woman and her younger sister scaled the wall near the McDonald's restaurant and fled, police said. Police reportedly found the juvenile hiding in the bed of a pickup truck parked in a driveway in the 29000 block of John Hauk. They reportedly located her older sister walking on

They all reportedly told the police that the plan was to call for a cab, even though they knew that they didn't have the money to pay the fare, and then to run when the cab took them to their destination.

Slain officers remembered at state Capitol ceremony

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

David Harvey believes Americans treat war veterans. the ones who fought daily to protect this nation, with deep respect and appreciation.

Harvey wants the public to remember police officers and the war they fight every day: the war on crime. Harvey spoke Monday at the 18th annual Law Enforcement Officers Candlelight Memorial Service.

"We forget those who fight the war at home," said Harvey, executive director of the Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement Standards.

The ceremony at the State Capitol honored eight law enforcement officers who died in the line of duty, including Livonia Police Officer Larry Nehasil. Nehasil died in a gunfire exchange with a burglary suspect Jan. 17. The suspect was killed in the exchange.

The Memorial Service was presented by the Michigan Concerns of Police Survivors, a nonprofit volunteer organization that assists families and survivors of fallen law enforcement officers.

CANDLES LIT

Family members of the officers placed a flower into a memorial wreath, which was placed on the Capitol steps, according to Livonia Deputy Chief Curtis Caid, who is also Nehasil's brother-in-law. Blue candles were lit, one for each of the officers. The Livonia Police Department Honor Guard also fired a 21-gun salute.

"MI-COPS do their very best to recognize the families of fellow officers," Caid said. "It is a significant event and honor, and they do a great job of supporting families and law enforcement agencies during these very trying times."

Harvey, a former Garden City police chief, said that Nehasil was "doing what police officers do" in catching a suspect.

"Some police officer somewhere is doing right now what Larry did," Harvey said. "He did his job, and he paid with the ultimate sacrifice. He was a hero.'

Caid said there are risks on the job, but often officers, such as Caid himself and Nehasil, didn't discuss those risks at home because they believed it placed more stress on their spouse.

"Like (Larry's wife) Linda said about Larry, 'He was just another Dad going to work," Caid said.

Harvey appreciates the respect and attention to officers during National Police Week, which is May 15-21, but he hopes that respect can continue beyond that.

"Being a veteran in the U.S. Army, I like to thank soldiers when I meet them," Harvey said. "I think we should do the same for officers, and particularly, the surviving families of officers,

Fundraiser supports Crohn's and Colitis Foundation

BY AILEEN WINGBLAD GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

Chances are, someone you know suffers from Inflammatory Bowel Disease. Yet chances also are, you don't know it.

IBD, which includes Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis, afflicts one in 200 people in the United States — but because its affects are of such a personal nature, people are often hesitant to talk about it.

Yet spreading awareness of IBD and encouraging discussion among its sufferers can not only make the challenges easier to manage, it can also be an important step toward developing advanced treatment programs and possibly a cure someday, said Debbie Barris of Commerce.

"Sometimes, people who have it don't want anyone to know — but they are living with an awful stress inside them," said Barris, who was diagnosed with ulcerative colitis in 2003 and now works as a volunteer speaker for the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation of America. "I don't mind talking about it or educating people about it. It can be cathartic."

What's also rewarding and helpful — is being involved in a major show of support for fellow sufferers and raising funds for research

Inflammatory Bowel Disease is inflammation of the digestive tract, causing abdominal pain, severe diarrhea and in some cases malnutrition. It can also lead to arthritis, delayed growth in children, fatigue, skin disorders and more. Types of IBD include Crohn's, which occurs in patches throughout the digestive track, often spreading to its deep lining, and ulcerative colitis, which affects a continuous stretch of the lining of the colon and rectum. There is no known cure.

to battle IBD, she said. An opportunity to do that is planned for May 15 at Camp Dearborn in Milford, when the CCFA presents the 2011 Take Steps for Crohn's and "Inflammatory Bowel Disease is a disease no one knows why we get it, and there is no cure," Barris said. "They money we raise goes to education and research and to send children (with IBD) to a special summer camp, so for a whole week they can be with children just like themselves. For a week they don't have to hide what they have to deal with or explain it, because they are with other kids who have the same thing — who understand."

HAL GOULD | GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

Debbie Barris, diagnosed with ulcerative colitis several years ago, is spreading awareness about inflammatory bowel disease and urging people to participate in the 2011 Take Steps for Crohn's and Colitis fundraiser.

Registration for the event starts at 5 p.m. for the 6 p.m. walk. There's no minimum contribution required, but every person who participates is asked to raise funds. Along with walkers, there's a need for volunteers to help with set up and clean up, and to pass out water and snacks. The event will also include Radio Disney as well as a "Kids Corral" to keep youngsters entertained.

Stephanie Gregory, manager for the Take Steps walk, said this year's fundraising goal is $130,000. Last year, $110,000 was raised, helped in part by corporate sponsor-

"We really try to engage the entire community," Gregory said. "With one in 200 people having this disease, just start asking around and you will find someone who has it.

"This is all about 'taking steps' to be heard. We want people to come out and really enjoy the evening. Everyone is welcome."

Barris said her ulcerative colitis is in remission, kept at bay by drug therapy, dietary changes and a lower-stress way of life. Her relief came after more than two years of. trying different medications when finally doctors had success with a new drug, administered intravenously over the course of multiple weeks.

"Research is so very important," she said. "The drug that ultimately put me in remission wasn't even available until 2005."

Flare ups are always a possibility for IBD sufferers, Barris said, but she is happy to say her life is as close to normal as she can expect. She recalls the time when her suffering was at its peak, when she couldn't go 30 minutes without needing the bath-

"It's a really difficult disease to deal with. It affects every aspect of your life," she said. "I was going to the bathroom 15-25 times a day, so you quickly learn where all the bathrooms are. You have to."

Before her remission, Barris' disease cost her a substantial amount of weight, and robbed her body of nutrients and energy. At times, she had to be hospitalized.

For the first years after her diagnosis, Barris admits she didn't speak of IBD. "It was a hard diagnosis to swallow, and I felt very isolated," she said. Fortunately, she found CCFA. She urges other IBD sufferers to turn to the organization if they haven't already.

"The best word I can use to describe CCFA is 'supportive.' Meeting other people, helping other people just like you," she said. "Yes, I have IBD, but it's not who I am. It's what I

BBB: Be wary of trial offers for e-cigarettes

The Better Business Bureau is warning consumers to be wary of free trial offers for ecigarettes.

Sounds like an unusual product to buy, however, over the past 12 months, BBB has received hundreds of complaints from consumers across the country who thought they were getting a free trial, but ended up losing often hundreds of dollars in recurring credit or debit card charges.

Ubiquitous deceptive online websites offering "free trials" are even falsely attributing news stations like ABC and CBS to the promotion of their products.

"Fighting deceptive free trial offers online continues to be a game of whack-a-mole," said Patrick Bennett, director of community relations. "Just as soon as one company is put out of business it's replaced by another with the same model of ripping consumers off under the guise of a no-risk free trial offer."

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, May 8, 2011

Customers from 44 states have filed more than 360 complaints against Direct E-Cig of Naples, Fla., and London, England, in the last year. More than 40 of those complaints came from Missouri and Illinois, including several from the St. Louis area. According to the BBB of Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, in response to some of the complaints, Direct E-Cig told the BBB that its website notes that consumers must go through a cancellation process within 15 days "to avoid being billed the full price of the kit of $109.95 and future monthly shipments." Several consumers said they received direct e-mail solicitations from the company and never saw the cancellation policy, while some have even reported paying $4.95 for the

Another scam to note is Smoke Freely, LLC, which has an F rating with BBB. According to the more than 300 complaints to the BBB serving Central, Northern and Western Arizona, the company lures in its customers by claiming that they will receive a free trial of smokeless cigarettes just by paying the shipping and handling costs. However, consumer complainants say that after agreeing to pay the $9.95 shipping and handling costs, they were repeatedly charged $149.90 along with a variety of other miscellaneous charges. Complainants report getting the runaround from the company when they request refunds or ask to stop being billed. One consumer claims to have lost more than $640 as a result of recurring charges.

"Before signing up for any free trial offers read the fine print carefully and always check the company out with BBB. You'll save time and money by avoiding the hassle and recurring charges of some unscrupulous offers," said Bennett.

BBB, along with the Federal Trade Commission, suggest asking the following questions before signing up for a free trial:

• Is the free trial offer related to a membership, subscription or extended service contract?

• Do I have to contact the company to avoid receiving more merchandise or services?

Who do I contact to cancel?
Will I receive other products with the free item? If so, will I have to pay for them or send them back if I do not want them? How long do I have to decide before incurring a

• Will you automatically bill my credit card for anything?

• Who is offering the trial – you or another company? What is the name and address of the company?

Stay away from stocks for short-term investing

Q: Dear Rick: I am recently divorced and was forced to sell my home. After paying off my ex-spouse, I was left with about $75,000.

area or move out of state. The $75,000 will eventually be used for a down payment on a new home. I figure if I don't move out of state, I'll buy a new home probably before the end of this year or early next year. I consider myself a somewhat aggressive investor. I'm not afraid to take risks. My initial inclination is to invest the money. I've done very well in an emerging market fund and I'm thinking about adding the money to that fund. What do you think?

A: I like emerging market funds and believe they belong in just about everyone's portfolio as part of the growth side. However, acknowledging the fact that you are an aggressive investor, in your situation an emerging market fund would be the wrong investment. Not because emerging market funds are not good, but rather, they are not good for your situation.

I have always been a believer that successful investors invest based upon individual goals and objectives. Your goal is to use this money to buy a new home within a relatively short time frame. Because of that, an emerging market fund is not something to consider.

I believe your goals dictate how you invest money. It's like planning a vacation. You decide to bring shorts on a vacation, not necessarily because you like shorts, but because you'll have the opportunity to wear them. The investment must fit the objective.

In your situation, you have a short-term time frame as to when the money will be used. Because of that time frame, market-based investments that can be very volatile over a short period of time are inappropriate. My advice, and I know you're going to hate to hear this, is to invest in a certificate of deposit.

I recognize that CDs are paying very little, however, for the time frame involved, they are the best investment. They will protect the principal, which must be a primary consideration in your particular situation.

Not all CDs are the same. You can get better rates of return by shopping around. In addition to our local banks, a good website to use is www.bankrate.com. I also encourage you to check with a credit union.

As an investment adviser, the most important thing to know before you invest someone's money is their main goal and the time frame they have to achieve it. When an investor has a time frame in terms of months, you automatically know that you have to avoid the stock market. For long-term investors, the stock market is a great investment. For short-term investors, it's a gamble and something that I do not recommend.

Good luck!
I would like to wish all moms a very happy Mothers
Day! Especially mine
Hilda Bloom! I love you mom.

Madonna graduates 1,065 at 64th commencement

There is no doubt about what degree Chelsea Archibald earned. She is from Canton.

Of the 1,065 graduates who joined the Madonna University alumni ranks this year, some 525 walked across the stage to get their diplomas at the 64th commencement Sunday at Compuware Arena in Plymouth. Among this group were five of the first 15 graduates of Madonna's Doctor of Nursing Practice program that began in May 2009. Approximately 750 students earned a bachelor's or associate degree, and nearly 300 earned a master's.

Prior to conferring degrees to the graduates in attendance, Madonna University's president, Sister Rose Marie Kujawa, and Board Chairman Robert Sajdak bestowed honorary doctorate degrees upon Paulson Mathew Chunkapura, Ph.D., president of the World of Knowledge Management Development Centre (WKMDC) in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, and Kaup Mohamed, Ph. D., dean and director of the WKMDC.

Distinguished Alumni Awards were presented to Brian Davis and Lucy Thomas. A Detroit Police Officer since he graduated from the police academy in 1986, Davis earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice at Madonna in 2002, and applied it to his work as a teacher at the Detroit Police Training Center. He returned to Madonna to earn a master's degree in educational leadership and a certificate in curriculum development in 2008. As commanding officer of the Detroit Police Department's Northwestern District, Davis was wounded in a shootout in the 6th precinct in early January. He is credited with saving the lives of his fellow officers.

Lucy Thomas, who earned a bachelor's degree in marketing in 1983 and now serves on Madonna University's Foundation Board, was unable to make the commencement from her home in Louisiana, so her sister, Amy Habib, accepted on her behalf.

Presiding over the commencement ceremony was Madonna University Provost and Vice President for Academic Administration Ernest I. Nolan. The invocation was given by Kathryn O'Dowd, Ph.D., dean of the College of Arts and Humanities. ## Storytimes introduce youngsters to library

When it comes to storytimes, Westland's Faust Library has something for the whole family.

"Our storytimes go all year long. We have three or four different age groups as young as infants and even family storytimes," said Marilyn Kwik, interim library director.

Parents must accompany children to storytimes but the offers a special evening session that is geared for the entire family - the other storytimes are offered during the day.

For preschoolers, storytimes feature a story book, songs and a felt board.

No advance registration is required for the storytimes. Visit the library web site at There is a lot of participation. We have read and play for real young kids," said Kwik. "When they are older, they can join the reading club. It gets them comfortable coming here and being at the library."

As they grow up and move through the different story and reading programs, Kwik said youngsters develop relationships with the library staff, seeing the same people on their visits. It's also helps develop the habit of reading and visiting the library, she

Those who knew him best said Dr. Weldon Petz had several passions in his life, among them his wife, Shirley, Abraham Lincoln, music and Santa Claus.

During his life, he was a Lincoln scholar, a Big Band musician and arranger, writer and a school principal.

In death, friends are remembering Petz, who died April 28 at the age of 88, as "a rare treasure.

"He cared deeply for the people whose lives he touched and for his many passions," said Elizabeth Kelly Kerstens, executive director of the Plymouth Historical Museum, which has benefited from Petz's passions over the years. During World War II, Petz served in the Special Services Band under the command of the Eighth Air Force. After the war, Petz played in several major Big Bands, traveling across the country with the Jimmy Dorsey Band along with Jimmy Durante as a favorite memory. Petz and his wife, Shirley, had apartments in Chicago and New York during this time. They traveled for After these busy years, they settled in the Detroit and Oakland county areas. He became a teacher and school administrator in Detroit and Farmington.

"Being a principal in Farmington was a beautiful experience," Petz told the Observer in an April 2010 interview. "There were wonderful teachers and students. I still hear from them. Five of my students have become principals. They have called from Texas, Florida and Wisconsin. I always had an open door. Students could come in and discuss problems. I was able to help and encourage them."

Petz was also a writer, working with Roger Rosentreter to write two books for the Lincoln Bicentennial, Seeking Lincoln in Michigan and Michigan Remembers Lincoln, guidebooks to sites in Michigan which honor Lincoln.

Petz, well-known and respected among historians, gave nearly 5,000 talks on Lincoln to groups at universities, schools, historical societies, Civil War Roundtables and symposiums. One of his biggest passions was Lincoln. Petz sold or donated his extensive collection to the Plymouth Historical Museum in 1998. The exhibit became very popular, and the museum built a room solely for the Lincoln exhibit in February 2002. That helped the museum fulfill one of the obligations created by the acquisition of Petz's collection: That it would always stay together in one place and not be sold off or separated. "The Lincoln room is his legacy," said Dan Packer, a member of the Plymouth Historical Society board. "He would love to walk around the exhibit, point out an item, talk of its historical nature and tell how he acquired the item. Anyone who walked into the museum's Lincoln Room when he was present

MU eyes at-large bid after losing WHAC final

BY ED WRIGHT OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The silence that fell upon the Madonna University baseball team's dugout around 3:30 Friday afternoon was anything but golden.

It was a remnant of a jolting 12-7 loss to Indiana Tech in the championship game of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference tournament championship game that was hosted by the Crusaders.

On Wednesday night, the Crusaders (32-14) were 2-0 in the double-elimination set-up and appeared to be in the driver's seat, speeding toward a tourney title and the subsequent automatic bid in the NAIA National Tournament that begins next week.

However, the Warriors (34-18) dropped a 24-11 bomb on their hosts Thursday afternoon, forcing Friday's winner-take-all encounter.

The two teams battled to a 3-3 draw through five innings Friday, but Tech exploded for five runs in the bottom of the sixth (Madonna was technically the visiting team), courtesy of two-out RBI singles by Reinaldo Scott and Brandon Paletta and a three-run homer from they got hot swinging the bats and here we are," MU head coach Greg Haeger said. "Looking back, I'm proud of what the kids did Wednesday; I'm proud of what they did here today. With all the injuries we've had, we knew we were going to be short on the mound, but we were right there today."

Thanks to some serious credentials most notably a No. 25 national ranking and a 32-win season — the Crusaders still have a shot at being awarded an atlarge bid to next week's national tournament, Haeger said.

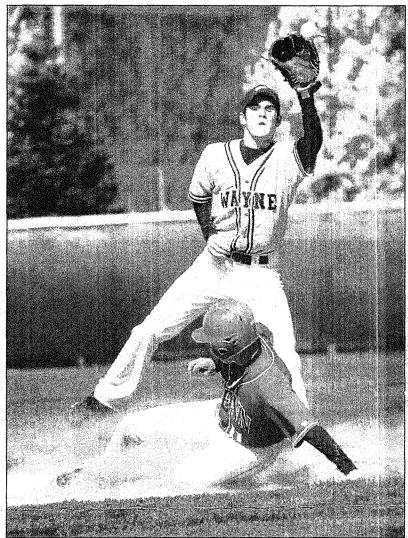

"There are a lot of variables as far as what is going to happen across the country in other conference tournaments, so it may not be over for us," he said. "Considering everything that's gone on this season, I think the kids deserve another opportunity. We can just as easily put ourselves back in the same spot we were in this tournament, so you never know."

The Livonia Churchill girls soccer team appears to be coming of age.

The Chargers scored their most impressive result of the season Thursday by knocking off KLAA South Division leader Canton, 1-0.

The play was set up when teammate Kelsey Rothermel won a 50-50 ball and lofted a ball over the Canton defense and into Szado.

Churchill goalkeeper Kaylie Secord made four key saves as the Chargers improved to 5-3-2 overall and 4-1-1 in the KLAA South.

"For 60-to-65 minutes, Canton chased us around," said Churchill coach Dave Hebestreit, whose team avenged a 3-0 setback to the Chiefs on April 12. "I was so happy with our play in the first half. # Walk-off victory

DeYonker's grand slams gives Stevenson 6-2 win

Talk about a flair for the dramatic.

Josh DeYonker's walk-off grand slam proved to be the difference Friday as host Livonia Stevenson stunned Canton, 6-2, in a battle of Kensington Conference baseball divisional leaders.

Stevenson, atop the KLAA Central, improved to 14-5 overall and 9-1.

Canton, which was leading the KLAA South, falls to 11-3

DeYonker's homer came off Canton reliever Chris Perkovich, who came on in the seventh inning. Vaughn Birchler started for the Chiefs, allowing one run on two hits and three walks in four innings.

Stevenson starter Chris McDonald went the first 6.1 innings, but got no decision. He allowed two earned runs (one earned) on five hits and five walks while striking out nine. Jake Semak came on to get the final two outs and record the victory.

Tyler Lynch went 2-for-2 with a pair of walks and scored one run, while Evan Piechota also had an RBI for the Spartans, who are ranked No. 8 in the last Division 1 statewide coaches poll.

Seth Tschetter went 2-for-3 with an RBI for the Canton.

CHURCHILL 11, SALEM 1: On Friday, Ben Matigian belted a 2-run homer and Mike Rybinski added a solo blast to propel Livonia Churchill (12-3, 8-2) to a Kensington Conference crossover victory over the host Rocks (6-4, 4-3).

Troy Bogenschutz also went 2-for-3 with four RBI. Matigian scored two runs, while Rybinski also knocked Winning pitcher Brent Ochodnicky went six innings, allowing just five hits. He walked two and struck out four.

Salem starter Tommy Rodriguez went four innings and took the loss. He allowed seven runs on nine hits and walked four.

Brett Ramirez had two hits in a losing cause.

WAYNE 22, S. LYON EAST 18: Wayne Memorial (8-7, 4-6) overcame Ryan Ferguson's monster effort at the plate Friday to beat host South Lyon East (1-7, 1-6).

Ferguson went 5-for-5 with three homers and 10 RBI. He had a grand slam, 3-run homer and 2-run homer.

Wayne's Shane Wilson countered with a grand slam in the top of the seventh inning to spark a 7-run outburst. He went 3-for-5 with six RBI and scored three runs.

Tom Briggs and Stephen Gush each added two hits and two RBI, while Kyle Casey contributed a 2-run homer for the victorious Zebras.

Tom Kort's fly ball was mishandled in the outfield and Josh Green scored the gamewinning run for South Lyon.

Dylan Miller pitched 5.2 innings of scoreless relief to pick up the victory.

He allowed just three hits. Rob Schurig, the losing pitcher, allowed nine hits and walked 10 in 7.2 innings of Root struck out nine, walked one and hit one batter in the complete-game victory.

Chris Valade went 2-for-4 with three RBI to pace Novi's nine-hit attack.

Novi scored eight runs in the first inning to chase Patriot starter Bobby Andrus. He gave up four hits and walked four in two-thirds of an inning.

The Warriors countered with a run in the bottom of the first off MU sophomore southpaw Erik Wright when Taylor Hoisington delivered a sac fly, plating Brandon Paletta.

MU jumped in front, 3-1, in the second thanks to clutch two-out RBI singles from Alex Charles and Jeff Bultinck, however, the Crusaders didn't register another hit against Puckett until Charles ripped a single with out in the seventh.

"Puckett did a good job of getting his off-speed stuff over the plate," Haeger said. "At any level of baseball, if you can get two pitches over the plate, you're going to be tough to hit; round ball, round bat, it's not easy. He deserved to win. He did a nice job."

Tech's Wes Smith — who was 8-for-8 over the final two games of the tourney - led off the bottom of the sixth with a double. Paul McIntosh then battled back from an 0-2 count to draw a walk and Travis Schuba replaced the pitcher.

MU appeared to have escaped the jam when the next batter, Riley Muhlenkamp, lined into a double-play to second baseman Bultinck, however, a walk, two singles and a three-run homer later, Tech owned an 8-3 lead that it would never relinquish.

The Crusaders made things interesting late when Brad Lineberry blasted a three-run home run in the top of the eighth to bring his team to within 10-6, however, Tech scored two more runs in the eighth to seal the deal.

Wright, who yielded eight hits and four earned runs in five-plus innings, took the loss.

at least forcing extra innings. "The game shouldn't have come down to that anyway,' Salem head coach Bonnie Southerland said. "We had other opportunities in the game. We had four innings where we went down 1-2-3, which kind of hurt us."

Salem's last-ditch rally against Chargers starting pitcher Missy Sidor started after the first two batters were retired.

Senior catcher Kelli Janiczek singled and Powell - who smoked a two-run homer over the center-field fence in the sixth to bring the Rocks to within 7-5 — was walked on four intentionally wide pitches from Sidor.

"I told Missy not to give her (Powell) anything to hit," Gentilia said. "We made sure she wasn't going to beat us in the last inning. That brought up freshman

Rivals Glenn, Wayne each earn victory in twinbill

It was a rivalry test Wednesday as host Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial divided a KLAA South Division girls softball double-header.

Losing pitcher Heidi Schmidt and Kelly Janiczek each went 3-for-4 in the loss. Alexis Powell went 2-for-3, including a homer and three RBI.

"I thought that both teams played exceptional today both offensively and defensively," Stevenson coach Rob Witherspoon said. We played tough defense, in the first game, and were able to prevent them from getting the big hit with runners in scoring position."

Salem, however, won the nightcap, 4-3, despite being out-hit 11-6.

Lexi Zink was the winning pitcher, while Stevenson's Morgan Copperstone, who gave up four earned runs on six hits, took the loss.

Sarah Fier went 3-for-4, while Avery added two hits, including a double, for the Spartans.

"We stranded two guys on second in scoring position and had a guy thrown out at the plate on a bang-bang play. We showed we could compete with the number one team in the state. If we can get our bats going, we will be alright."

WAYNE 9. CLARENCEVILLE 6: On Thursday, Shane Wilson went 2-for-4 and scored twice as host Wayne Memorial (7-7) turned back Livonia Clarenceville (5-3) in a nonleague game.

Jordan Lowry also contributed an RBI double as Wayne jumped out to a 6-1 lead after three innings and chased Clarenceville starter Damien Quarles, who gave up six runs (four earned) on four hits and two walks.

Zach Lankton pitched the first 4.1 innings to earn the victory. Brandon Harnos worked the final 2.2 to pick up Clarenceville's top hitters included Ben Gehan (two RBI), Damien Sanchez (2for-3, stolen base) and Matt Kurdziel (RBI).

LUTH. WESTLAND 12, OAK. CHRISTIAN 2: Mitch Boehm, Nick Flanery and Thomas Handschumacher each collected two hits as Lutheran High Westland (3-2, 2-1) cruised to a MIAC Blue Division triumph Thursday at Auburn Hills Oakland Christian (2-4, 0-3).

Jeremy Kohtz knocked in two runs, while Hanschumacher and winning pitcher Taurrek Fikes each added one RBI.

In five innings, Fikes did not allow a hit, walked seven and struck out 13.

"We are happy with the win but we need to start hitting more consistently if we are going to be able to stay in games," Lutheran Westland coach Kevin Wade said. "Our timing is off due to the lack of live game pitching and we need to figure it out quickly. Once we do that, we will settle in nicely. Pitching is also going to be a concern with so many games backed up next week. We need to start hitting and allow our starters to rest a bit and let the bullpen get in there and finish out games to help save some arms, so we've got some work to do the next few days that is for sure."

Blazers, Mercy settle for 1-1 tie

Livonia Ladywood couldn't hold a 1-0 halftime lead Friday night as host Farmington Hills Mercy scored with only seven minutes remaining to earn a 1-1 Catholic League girls soccer deadlock.

Kristen Padalis finished off a rebound off a long ball from teammate Macenzie Williams to give the Marlins the tie.

Ladywood, now 9-1-5 overall and 4-1-4 in the Catholic League, got a goal in the 32nd minute on a 20-yard shot from Kelly Capoccia off an assist from Morgan Chops.

Ladywood goalkeeper Maddie Reed made five saves, while Monica Mackie had seven stops for Mercy (4-3-4, Cecilia Said also drew an assist for the Rockets, who led 2-0 at halftime.

Lauren VandenBossche made three saves to post the shutout in goal for North.

LADYWOOD 2, REGINA 1: Shelby Walsh tallied a rebound goal with just 10 minutes remaining Thursday to give host Livonia Ladywood (9-1-4, 4-1-3) a Catholic League win over Warren Regina (3-5-2, 3-4-1).

Walsh finished off a shot taken initially by Domenique Sarnecky, who got credit for the assist.

Sarnecky scored on a header during the third minute of the opening half off a cross from Becky Babon, but Regina's Caitlin McGillis answered with a free kick from 20 yards out just two minutes later.

'We are pleased with the result," Ladywood coach Ken Shingledecker said. "We expected a bit of a letdown coming off the Marian game.

CLARENCEVILLE 3, HAMTRAMCK 0: Sophomore Ashley Murphy scored two unassisted secondhalf goals Thursday as host Livonia Clarenceville (4-5) blanked the Cosmos.

Kayla Zawol tallied what proved to be the game-winning goal for the Trojans in the 25th minute off a corner kick from Sadie Zachos.

Hospitals aim to reduce obesity with better food

The Michigan Health & Hospital Association (MHA) aims to improve the nutrition of food served at hospitals throughout the state.

The organization launched a program last week that gives hospitals the tools to improve food served to staff, visitors and patients. It consists of four "stars" that address healthy eating and weight management. To earn stars, hospitals must improve the nutritional value of menus for food and beverages, add nutritional content labels to cafeteria and menu items, and commit to buying more Michigan grown and produced food products. The goal is to reduce obesity.

"The goals of Healthy Food Hospitals are to improve the nutritional value of food served to everyone who walks through the doors of Michigan hospitals, and help people continue to make healthier food choices after they leave the hospital," said Spencer Johnson, MHA president. "The national obesity crisis is reflected here in Michigan and there is a tremendous cost that being dangerously overweight adds to the health care system. With Healthy Food Hospitals, Michigan hospitals are demonstrating community leadership in helping people live healthier lifestyles, one of the key actions necessary to improve quality of life and reduce health care costs over generations.

More than 50 Michigan hospitals across the state signed up for the program.

Healthy Food Hospitals was created after the success of two previous MHA-launched health and wellness initiatives that resulted in 93 percent of Michigan's community hospitals voluntarily adopting smoke-free campus policies, and 89 percent of Michigan hospitals voluntarily eliminating foods containing trans fats from their cafeteria, vending machines and patient nutrition.

"Our goal is for all community hospitals in Michigan to become Healthy Food Hospitals," Johnson said. "This is another way that Michigan hospitals — as major employers and prevention and wellness advocates - can lead by example."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Childhood obesity is among the nation's most costly and complex public health threats. Michigan is the 10th most overweight state in the country, with 29.4 percent of adults and 12.4 percent of children ages 10 to 17 obese. According to the Healthy Kids, Healthy Michigan initiative, Michigan's annual medical costs associated with obesity total more than $3 billion.

The Healthy Food Hospitals program focuses on improving hospital menus for children and adults. Hospitals accomplish the first two stars when they adopt pediatric patient default menus for children ages 2 to 18 meet American Heart Association guidelines, and for serving milk without the recombinant bovine growth hormone. The third star goes to hospitals that label food nutritional content in their cafeterias. Hospitals complete the fourth star by committing to buy at least 20 percent Michigan-grown, produced and processed foods.

The Ecology Center, based in Ann Arbor, and the MHA worked together to create the four-star approach. The Healthy Food Work Group

- consisting of dietitians from MHA-member hospitals polished the campaign. Local participating hospitals include Beaumont Hospital Royal Oak, Botsford Hospital in Farmington, Henry Ford Hospitals, Oakwood Hospitals, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, and the University of Michigan Hospitals and Health Centers.

RNs talk old times, plan for nursing school reunion

BY SHARON DARGAY O&E STAFF WRITER

Back in the day, Marilyn Kramer deciphered doctors' handwritten orders, administered breathing treatments and sharpened injection needles.

Marge Becker made infant formula from scratch, scrubbed tracheal tubes by hand, and got to know her patients well because they often stayed at least a week.

"It took longer to do everything back then," said Becker, an RN who works in pre-anesthesia testing at St. Mary Mercy Hospital, in Livonia. "You had to sterilize everything."

Today, 50 years after the pair graduated from nursing school, physician orders are printed by computer; disposable "sharps" and tubing have become the norm and many patients leave the hospital a day or two after a surgical procedure.

"There's more responsibility, more technical care," said Kramer, an RN in the Medical Cardiology Unit at St. Mary Mercy. "We're using technical equipment and we have to know how it all works and we document everything. There is a whole lot more to everything. The whole scope of caring is more specific and there are protocols to follow.

"When I started in nursing school the basic comfort and care of the patient was not as technical as it is now."

She and Becker, along with their classmates from the Providence Hospital School of Nursing, will have plenty of time to reminisce about the old days during their 50-year reunion, May 13-15 in Southfield. The event, which coincides with National Hospital Week, includes a stop on West Grand Boulevard in Detroit, where the school operated until 1975, along with a visit to Providence Hospital in Southfield.

Marilyn Kramer nursed at Oakwood Hospital before starting her career at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia.

A STRONG BOND

Both Becker and Kramer have kept in touch with many of the Marge Becker (left) and Marilyn Kramer will attend their 50-year nursing school reunion next weekend. They both work at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in class of 1961's 55 graduates. Less than a dozen of them are still nursing, but they all share in a kind of sisterhood that started at Providence, where students lived in hospital dorms during their three-year training.

"What was wonderful was if you had a bad day in the hospital, you could share your woes with friends because they were probably experiencing the same thing," Kramer said. "Today, students sit in classes and go on site to the hospital and then go home to their families and no one understands what they went through.

"We lived together for three years and were like sisters. We were there all the time and we became good friends. Everyone went their own way after graduation, but when we get together, it's like old times."

Kramer worked on a "difficult" surgical floor at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn after she obtained her nursing certificate and before she moved to Charlotte near Lansing, where she assisted at a private medical practice where she did everything from getting patients ready for exams to sterilizing equipment.

By the time she took on a midnight job at St. Mary Mercy, she had married and her husband was teaching at Schoolcraft College. She quit two years later to teach the nurses aid program in Livonia schools and rejoined St. Mary Mercy Hospital in 1989. In the meantime, she also raised a son and daughter.

"I was anxious to get back to regular nursing," she said, explaining why she quit teaching. "It's just something you want to do when you're a nurse. Everyday is different in nursing ... it's a challenge and it's exciting."

She's considering retirement within the next year or two and looking forward to travelling with her husband.

MOM AND SON

Becker trained in the operating room at Jennings Memorial Hospital in Detroit after her graduation. She stayed there for six years and then moved to St. Mary Mercy Hospital in 1968.

"We were one building back then. I worked the emergency room for 18 years," Becker said. Now she talks with patients primarily by phone, obtaining medical history and medication dosage as they prepare for surgery. In her spare time she takes Irish dance

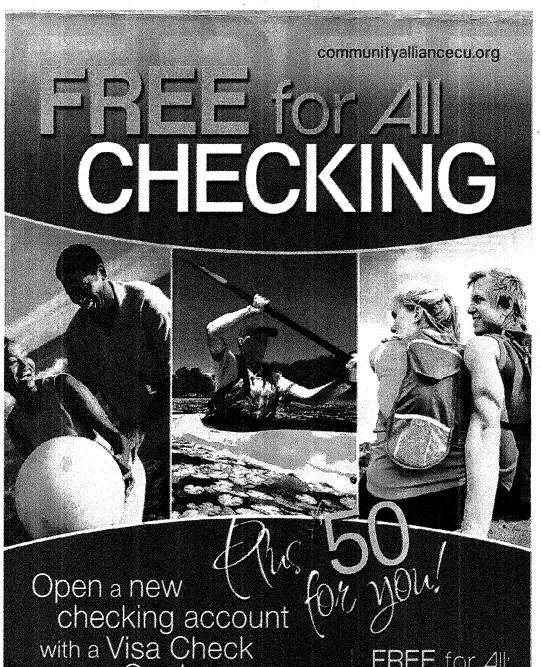

One of her two sons is a nurse who works at Angela Hospice in Livonia. Her daughter works as a dietary aide at St. Mary Mercy.

She was surprised when her son decided to become a nurse, but also recognized that the career offers many perks.

"It's a wonderful profession. There are so many variables. You can work in different shifts and areas. You can always find a job," she said.

Kramer has worked with several women who raised families and then went to nursing school. She said mothers often do well nursing because of their caregiver roles.

"It just fits. They're (moms) always taking care of someone."

Dishwasher problem almost stumps the 'doctor'

GUEST COLUMNIST

hen you are married to a retired school principal there is no slacking off on the job.

Appliance Doctor

once in a while I hire someone. She will not spend money to fix an appliance because she has me for free and I also must main> tain a sense of pride. Several months ago after she ran out of dishwasher powdered

Around our house

she figures that the

Appliance Doctor can fix anything which is truly not the case, so detergent purchased last year, she filed the complaints on an almost daily basis. "My glasses are coming out all foggy and they look terrible." When she started so did the readers of this column, along with the same comments coming from consumers calling my radio show. "My dishwasher does a terrible job" became a constant echo between my ears and it was time to make some inquires.

Some people went out and purchased a brand new dishwasher only to find out that was not a solution. Many individuals spent money for a service call which resulted in wasted dollars. Many homeowners changed the brand of dishwasher detergent they had been using for years to no avail. My standard answer has been, don't blame the dishwasher, and blame the detergent. The soap companies have removed the phosphates!

In our house I was under strict supervision to solve this dilemma. I was told that my tenure was under a dark cloud and my doctoring days could suffer an image black-out so I got on the case full time.

I went to my all knowing computer and folks, I want to tell you that you should not believe everything you read on the Internet.

REMEDIES

I tell my darling Valorie to try mixing a spoonful of Tang with the powdered detergent in the soap container. That doesn't work! I suggest she mix a spoonful of Kool-Aid and that doesn't work! Even with more emphasis I inform her that a spoonful of lime or lemon juice will take care of it and that doesn't work! I stop by an old friend's appliance store in Chelsea and I tell Mark Heydlauff that my marriage is about to go on the rocks and he hands me this container of a product called Lemi-Shine and guarantees it will take care of all the problems.

He was absolutely correct and now the principal's dishwasher is working just beautifully and she begun to call me by my first name again.

HELPFUL PRODUCT

There are 16 states in this country that have a ban on using phosphate in dishwasher detergent and Michigan is now one of them. That means 36 states don't seem to be overly concerned about it. This new product called Lemi-Shine has not hit the grocery store market full bore yet but your request for it might make them act in a full speed manner. I can now guarantee it will take care of the problems with wash ability in your dishwasher.

Another suggestion might be applicable if you are traveling to another state this year. I am going to North Dakota in a few days and I am stopping by a grocery store and will purchase a few boxes of powdered dishwasher detergent. These are the states that currently have banned the use of phosphates: Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin. If you are going to one of the other 36 states please be careful crossing the borders. There may be border inspections to check your vehicle for illegal dishwasher detergent. Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard at 8 a.m., Saturdays on WAAM 1600. You can e-mail your problems and questions on appliances to appldr@twmi.rr.com.
