Prize winner

Big Lots Chairman and CEO Steve Fishman and Senior Vice President of Marketing Rob Claxton will be at the Big Lots store in Livonia Friday to present Wayne Memorial High School with a check for more than $20,000, after the school's video about its music program won the grand prize in Big Lots fourth annual Lots2Give video contest.

Wayne Memorial was among 35 winning schools from across the country in the contest. Big Lots asked participating schools to submit a short video and brief essay explaining why their need for financial support.

Along with the Lots2Give video contest, Big Lots collected in-store donations to help the 206 schools enrolled in the Lots2Give program. From April 25 through July 4, Big Lots customers were invited to make $1 or $5 donations at participating stores. Due to the generosity of the public, this initiative raised more than $130,000 for the schools.

In conjunction with the Lots2Give program, Big Lots will acknowledge the efforts of educators by hosting an in-store Teacher Appreciation Day event Saturday, Aug. 13. All educators with a valid school identification card will receive 10 percent off their entire purchase.

Quilt show

The popular Plymouth/Westland Gramme Quilt Show will be taking place at a new location this year.

The annual quilt display, with vendors, classes, food and door prizes, is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 20, at St. John Lutheran School, 2602 S. Wayne Road, Westland. Parking is off of Glenwood behind the school and beside the church. Donations will be accepted at the door.

Leora Smith, show coordinator, said quilted items of all types, including clothes, can be entered.

The items can be delivered to the school, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, Aug. 19. There will be a 'People's Choice' award given at the end of the show on Saturday.

For more information, call Smith at (734) 398-5190.

Glenwood road rebuilding enters 'challenging' phase

BY SUE MASON

Wayne-Westland school officials see the installation of curbs along Glenwood east of Wayne Road as a good sign that that portion of the three-mile road work will be completed by next month.

"We hope that the stretch between Venoy and Wayne Road will be completed before school starts, it looks close," said Superintendent Greg Baracy.

Glenwood is being completely rebuilt between Venoy and Newburgh. The work includes the installation of a 24-inch water main by the Detroit Water and Sewer Department.

"It's coming along, they've started putting in the curb and gutters and should start putting down asphalt in the next few weeks," said Westland Department of Public Services Director Kevin Buford. "This three-mile stretch was a complicated project and then they threw in a 24-inch water main."

Traffic on Glenwood has been limited to one way since April and there have been intermittent lane closures. Buford has met periodically with Wayne and Westland city officials as well as representatives of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools as the work has progressed. And with a mutual aid agreement, the Wayne and Westland police and fire departments have covered for each other in the area.

"It's been a great cooperative program," Buford said. "The cities were able to get a federal grant to cover more than 81 percent of the cost. They were going to share the remaining 18 percent, but that is being paid for by the Detroit Water and Sewer Department so it could do the water main work at the same time."

"The mile left to complete from Wayne Road to Newburgh is the most challenging portion of the project," said Buford. "Workers will be boring under Wayne

RESA taps Weaver for W-W board

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Former Wayne-Westland Board of Education President Fred Weaver thinks the district he used to lead "faces more challenges than there have ever been" and believes his eight years of experience, including three straight years as president, makes him the right choice to fill an open spot on the board.

The five-member Wayne Regional Educational Services Agency board agreed with him Wednesday, plucking Weaver from among a field of six candidates to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of William Gabriel.

Weaver, who served eight years on the board before resigning in 2008 after taking a position with a church in Midland, was obviously pleased to be the choice to serve the remainder of Gabriel's term, which expires June 30.

"I'm excited about the opportunity given to me to again work with (Supt.) Greg Baracy and the other board members to move our district forward," Weaver said after the decision was announced.

Weaver beat out five other candidates: Scott Davis, general manager at Value City Furniture making his fourth

Cover letter to address technology costs in U-verse agreement

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

U-verse subscribers will have to wait a bit longer to see WLND programming.

Westland Mayor William Wild has told the council that he and City Clerk Eileen DeHart School will not sign an contract with AT&T until he brings a cover letter addressing additional costs for upgrades during the three-year agreement.

The council had approved the contract in May in which the city will pay more than $8,218 annually for a high-speed Internet connection which will allow council meetings and other WLND programs to be viewed on AT&T's U-verse system. It included an amendment that any future costs in necessary upgrades in hardware and software caused by changes or upgrades in

AT&T broadcast procedures, maintenance, or practices be included in that $8,218 charge during the three-year contract.

"AT&T will not change the language in the contract, so they're doing something in a cover letter," Mayor William Wild said. "I think it will satisfy what you wanted to do."

Wild added that he plans to present the cover letter to the council at its next meeting and let the members decide if they want the administration to go ahead and sign the agreement.

"If you want to tell us to go ahead and sign, we will do that," Wild said.

The three-year service agreement was narrowly approved by the council on a 4-3 vote, and included a cap on the expenditure at $8,218 per year. Council members Christine Bryant, Adam Hammons, Meriem Kadi and Michael Kehrer supported the measure, while Council President James Godbout and Councilmen Bill Johnson and Dewey Reeves opposed it.

According to Deputy Mayor Jade Smith, AT&T declined to modify the contract to account for the amendment because the document is one that the company uses nationally.

"AT&T wasn't willing to negotiate the language, but it

Belleville woman gets probation in teen's death

BY SUE MASON
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

A Belleville woman has been sentenced to probation for interfering with a police investigation in the death of Carlee Morse.

On Tuesday, Aug. 8, Wayne County Circuit Judge Ulysses Boykin sentenced Tina Marie Lowe, 49, to two years probation and ordered her to pay $783 in fees and court costs. Lowe had been charged with accessory after the fact to a felony and interfering with a police investigation related to disappearance of the Westland teenager, but the accessory charge was dropped as part of a plea deal.

Lowe is the mother of Nicholas Cottrell, who has already pleaded guilty to helping murder the Westland teen. She was accused of trying to get a witness not to talk to police. The witness had provided information that led police to Cottrell and Justin Yoshikawa, both of whom knew Morse, whose body hasn't been located.

Cottrell pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and is serving 25-50 years in prison. He is currently housed at the Saginaw Correctional Facility with his earliest possible release date in 2035.

Part of Cottrell's plea agreement was that he testify against Yoshikawa, who has been charged with first-degree murder. In his testimony in 18th District Court, Cottrell described Yoshikawa as having planned and carried out a plan to strangle the 16-year-old Morse, his former girlfriend.

Morse was reported missing after she disappeared shortly after midnight Aug. 20, 2010. The teen's family and friends searched for her, but the police investigation and statements from the defendants were that Morse was killed shortly after leaving her apartment to take a ride with Cottrell.

Both men told police similar stories about Cottrell inviting Morse to take a ride and smoke marijuana while Yoshikawa hid in the back seat. Yoshikawa and Cottrell told police that they smoked marijuana, then drove around aimlessly before placing Morse's body in a Dumpster outside a church. Her body has not been located.

A jury trial for Yoshikawa had been scheduled for July 13, but has been adjourned until Oct. 3. Yoshikawa has been jailed since his arrested in December 2010.

was receptive to a cover letter," said Smith. "The mayor was not inclined to sign the agreement as is, so he is bringing the cover letter to council for its approval."

Due to the different technology used by U-verse, a digital encoder was required to convert the programming, which would be transmitted along a dedicated high-speed Internet connection. Cable providers WOW! and Comcast don't require any conversion to broadcast the local programming.

Local U-verse subscribers have complained for several years about the lack of local programming even though they pay local franchise fees along with the Public Education Government or PEG fees, the latter designated to pay for local channels like WLND.

While a majority of the council favored the agreement, Godbout saw it as "a bad deal for the city." He had estimated the city would pay back about $25,000 of its PEG fees to AT&T which would provide the WLND programming and not the education and local access channels that are also provided by the cable providers.

"We're paying to make them competitive and I've got a problem with that," he had said at the time.

Smith believes that the council will approve the cover letter, clearing the way for the agreement to be signed.

try to get on the board; former board member Jeffrey Hayton; management consultant Bhagwan Dashairya, stay-at-home mom Michelle Sample; and Kevin Headrick, a manager in the Providence Hospital system.

Virginia Shroat, senior director of business planning and analysis at R.L. Polk & Co. in Southfield, withdrew her name from consideration.

Wayne RESA board members were forced to make the appointment after the Wayne-Westland board couldn't muster four votes for Davis, who had tried three other times — for a vacancy in February, in the May election and for the failed vote for this vacancy. When the W-W board couldn't agree within 30 days of Gabriel's resignation, responsibility for the choice fell to the RESA board.

And members weren't happy about it.

"It would be our wish not to be put in this position," RESA board President Mary Blackmon said, a sentiment echoed by other board members. "But it's a decision that has been thrust upon us, and it's a decision we will make."

Among the challenges Weaver said the district faces are the school aid fund — "Everyone has been forced to live within their means," he said — and increasing test scores.

But more than once during his interview, Weaver alluded to discord among the six current board members, and said the board must come together to work with Baracy to overcome those challenges.

"I'd like to see cohesiveness on the board," Weaver said. "I have no use for board members who have any agenda other than the children of this district. We have to make sure the mission of the district is constantly before us, and that we're working toward that mission."

RESA board members felt like Weaver's candor about the issues facing the Wayne-Westland board, plus his previous experience on that board, made him the obvious choice.

"It was his experience, and the judgment he'd displayed over the years," said board member James Petrie. "I thought he was a little more candid about some of the issues that are dividing the board. He was more candid about how those were going to need to be addressed."

"There were other people there who were honest, forthright and caring individuals there," Petrie added. "I hope they don't drift away ... they can be valuable assets to that district."

Wayne-Westland board member Cindy Schofield said the choice of Weaver was the right one.

"I think he'll be able to jump right into the decisions and the role," Schofield said. "There won't be a large learning curve for him. These are positives for the district."

Road, a pipe for a county creek and the railroad tracks to install the water line."

Wayne-Westland has two schools along Glenwood impacted by the project. Wayne Memorial High School is on the Wayne side of Glenwood east of Wayne Road, while Schweitzer Elementary is on the Westland side at Treadwell, west of Wayne Road.

Baracy said school buses are already running alternative routes because of the road work and parents affected by it will be notified by ListServe.

"Right now the one lane is westbound, so whatever the flow of the traffic is that's how buses will come in and exit," he said.

Schweitzer is getting a bus loop as part of the project. The first base course was put down when the roadwork was moved up a year. It will be finished when the final course is put on that stretch of Glenwood.

"We'll be able to utilize it all next year," Baracy said. "There will be some program inconvenience, but it will be great when it's done."

The work is scheduled to be completed by November.

"This was the right thing to do, Glenwood was in terrible shape," said Buford.

Students travel world without leaving studio

BY DARRELL CLEM
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Canton artist Sharon Lee Dillenbeck has taken 400 area students on a summer journey around the world to places such as the Taj Mahal, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, the Eiffel Tower and the Egyptian pyramids.

They've dabbled in cultures of Russia, Australia, Greece, India and Africa. And they did it without leaving Dillenbeck's D&M Art Studio, 8691 N. Lilley near Joy Road, where they have painted, drawn and used materials such as clay and plaster gauze to create art — all part of summer art camps celebrating one theme, "The Face of the Nations."

Dillenbeck, marking her 25th year in business, adapted this year's summer arts program to reflect Canton's burgeoning cultural influences.

"This year we wanted to encompass diversity," said Dillenbeck, vice chair of the Canton Commission for Culture, Arts and Heritage.

Dillenbeck and her part-time art instructors — Shirley Moore, Bethany Grysko and Kyla Suchy — are teaching age-appropriate, one-week classes for budding artists, ages 6 to 16, who are spending three hours a day creating their own art and their own portfolios.

ALL AROUND TOWN

The youngsters come from communities such as Canton, Plymouth, Westland, Redford, Livonia, Northville and Garden City. Each participant will choose one piece of art to feature in a free, open house set for noon to 7 p.m. Aug. 29 through Sept. 1 and noon to 5 p.m. Sept. 2-3 at D&M Art Sisters Rachel and Dani Pfannes are six-year veterans of artist Sharon Lee Dillenbeck's summer arts camp.

The young artists also have contributed to a large mural inside the studio that encompasses the places and landmarks featured in "The Face of the Nations."

"We make sure we cover every part of the world," Grysko said.

In one camp, 13-year-old Sarah Sebastian of Westland and her classmates used clay to make pots they decorated with Native American art. She enjoys the camp.

"You get to express yourself in your own way," she said.

Canton sisters Rachel and Dani Pfannes have attended Dillenbeck's summer arts camp for six years.

"It's a lot of fun," Rachel, 12, said. "We got to make papier maché masks, and that was fun to do."

"Everybody here is so nice," Dani, 11, said.

ing themselves artistically.

LIFE'S JOY

It's a way Dillenbeck, a long-time artist who studied at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh, can contribute to a profession that has brought joy to her life.

"It's my passion," she said, sitting in her studio, and although she is a gifted artist herself, "my gift is that I can teach art. I'm now teaching the kids of the kids I used to teach."

Dillenbeck has two daughters of her own — Kristen Dillenbeck Anderson, 28, a financial planner in New York, and Erin Leigh Dillenbeck, 26, a Wayne-based graphics designer specializing in tattoos. Sharon Dillenbeck has been married for 29 years to husband Larry, an insurance industry professional.

Her last summer camp of the season occurs Friday, Aug. 19. That leaves time to prepare for the open house — an event that allows her summer students to choose their best work for public display.

"They all have an inner artist," Dillenbeck said. "We respect that."

Pay it forward: Man hopes good deeds are passed on

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

James Beck just wanted to do something good.

On April 1, he gave away his possessions, packed up his car and left his home in Santa Monica, Calif.

Beck began a journey to help others with hopes that those he assists will "pay it forward" and do the same. Beck visited Livonia, his stop in Michigan, the 20th state in his quest to help others in all 50 states.

On Wednesday, Beck sorted T-shirts for the Livonia Senior Olympics. On Thursday, he visited a nursing home. On Friday, he helped clean out a garage at a home in Garden City, then on Saturday, helped move items out of a home in Dearborn Heights to get it ready to sell.

Beck left a life of his material goods behind with hopes of finding more fulfillment in his life through good deeds.

BECK'S LIFE IN CALIFORNIA

Beck worked as a production assistant on the TV sitcom Men Are from Mars & Women are from Venus, served tables at Gladstones Malibu and worked as a masseur at Burke Williams Day Spa in Santa Monica, then worked on the show American Gladiators and four seasons of The Biggest Loser. In 2010, he managed Jade Healing Retreat, a surgical recovery facility that worked with top plastic and orthopedic surgeons in Beverly Hills, including the clinical chief of plastic surgery at Cedars Sinai Medical Center and several doctors.

That life didn't make him happy, Beck said. He felt like he was trying to connect to others through material things, like the seven pairs of sunglasses he owned, even at times exhibiting traits of a hoarder, he said.

So this year the 36-year-old masseur decided to dedicate his life through 2011 and 2012 to serfbliss, a pay-it-forward social experiment where he spends three days with a family to help others.

He acknowledges that some of his relatives didn't like his decision to walk away from his job and give up his possessions. "My dad didn't quite get it," Beck said. "He was scared about my safety, and my uncle was opposed to it."

But his journey is reconnecting him to old friends and relatives of his friends, too. His Livonia hosts, Mary and Bill Cook, have known him for 10 years through their son, Jai, who lives in California.

GIVING AWAY POSSESSIONS

The Cooks were out visiting Jai and daughter Heather in March. Beck sub-let his apartment to Mary and Bill Cook and lived elsewhere.

"At this point, we know nothing about James' serfbliss plans," Rose Cook said. "We arrive in Santa Monica, walk into James' apartment, and the first thing I see is a 40-by-40-inch oil painting of a monk walking with a child. I see it as the teacher, Buddha, mentoring a child."

Cook fell in love with the painting, then son Jai tells her about serfbliss. Beck asked Jai to plan a going-away party on April 1, which was also Beck's birthday, where Beck revealed his serfbliss plan and plans to give away his possessions to friends. The Cooks stayed through April 1. Rose told her son that she liked Beck's painting, but insisted to him that he not ask Beck for it.

"If no one else wants it, then it is meant for me to have it. If someone else asks for it, it wasn't meant to be mine," Rose told Jai.

Cook was disappointed on April 1, when Jai told her that Beck had promised his painting to a friend and that she was picking it up that day. Cook and her daughter left to go out that day, and when they returned, the painting was gone.

BECK VISITS THE COOKS

The Cooks decided to let Beck stay at their home during his journey.

Rose Cook said she believes his deeds will get others to continue his work and extend his message to help others.

"All the good he is doing is a synergistic effort," Rose said. "We're doing good things. It's the whole thing he's doing to pay it forward."

"He's going to clean out my sister's garage, then we're cleaning out a house in Dearborn Heights to sell. James offered to do that."

Beck has performed services that run the gamut, some light and amusing ones, others serious and stressful on families.

This painting, once owned by James Beck, hangs in the living room of Rose and Bill Cook's home in Livonia.

Beck has baby-sat for a family for the parents to go out and celebrate a birthday. He taught an economics class and wrote a speech.

VIDEO SHORTS ARE ONLINE

Beck documents his journey with YouTube videos on serfbliss.com.

In Joplin, Mo., he helped a man around the house who took Beck in even though his son had just died. Beck helped clean the man's yard of fallen trees and accompanied him fishing.

In North Dakota, a family's daughter suffered from dystonia, a painful muscle disorder. Beck called contacts in California and researched to help the parents comfort their 13-year-old girl, who suffered painful spasms, all over her body at all hours of the night. Yet the girl managed to create clay flowers, a part of her therapy, which she donated to a Petal Peace project to help other children.

Beck helped a woman in Nebraska who had a fire and lost many of her possessions. She had difficulty walking, but two days of massages helped her with her condition, Beck said.

People have offered to provide him with a place to stay and donations help him pay for gas and auto insurance, but Beck said he doesn't go out and ask for money.

"With me, it's just getting others to duplicate, or even triplicate, the process," Beck said.

And that is connecting others through service and good deeds. The service can include washing dishes, repairing a porch, helping out with a relationship, serving others, or even just life encouragement.

"It's about giving the time and skill you already have," Beck said.

"Everyone always talks about how we need to act and live in a different way," Beck said. "This (journey) turns everything on its head. I just take it one day at a time, and so far, it's been successful."

"If you're able to live a life of transparency and honesty, then you're in a good place."

Rose Cook loves that Beck is carrying his message nationally.

"You ask, he will help," Cook said. "If each person he helps, helps someone else and they help someone else ... well, you get the idea."

Cook was disappointed when the painting was gone, but in mid-April, after the Cooks had returned to Michigan, she received a package. She knew what the 40-by-40 inch package contained.

"Before I opened it, I honestly cried with joy," Cook said. "It was the Buddha painting." She learned Jai mentioned to Beck that his mother loved the painting. Beck responded, "Then she needs to have it."

When Rose and her daughter left on April 1 to go out, Rose's husband Bill and Jai packed the painting and had it shipped to Michigan.

"The painting is hanging in my living room," Rose said. "James is sleeping in the same room that his Buddha painting is in."

"Needless to say, James feels right at home in Livonia."

WOODWARD READY

The Body Curve brings new life to the classics, and more

BY STACY JENKINS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The duller and rustier, the better. There's nothing Scott Murphy and his team at The Body Curve can't make shine. The collision and paint shop has been bustling all summer, bringing new life to old classics and fixing those "oops" dents on brand new cars, including a bright green Chevy Camaro currently at the shop. They're even giving a fresh paint job to an old Model A bus, delivered this week from Greenfield Village.

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Scott Murphy closes the gullwing doors on a client's late model Camaro.

Just walking into the lobby of the shop, located on Orchard Lake, north of Eight Mile in Farmington Hills, it's obvious that they can make anything look awesome — even the service counter has an electric blue and silver wave pattern; and the doors are pieces of art, too.

The bright orange 1959 Cadillac that's parked in front of the business catches the eye, just as the 1950 Mercury that has a "flip flop" paint job that appears to be purple and blue from one angle and orange from another angle.

"It definitely got a lot of attention," said shop owner Scott Murphy.

'CONVERSATION PIECE'

That beauty is no longer at the shop, but the orange Caddy is for sale (call Murphy at (248) 442-1122 for information). It has a silver base coat and a translucent orange coat to give it a "candy" effect.

"It's a conversation piece," said Murphy.

They've pretty much done a little of everything at The Body Curve, which he opened in October of 1995.

"We just did a 1970 El Camino; we finished a 1967 Mustang," he said.

Currently, they've got a '67 Chevelle, a '57 Dodge panel van and a '68 Mustang in the shop. They also do motorcycle gas tanks, helmets and just about anything you can think of — from toilet seats and refrigerators to bed frames and hot rods.

"We have all the tints to make any color you can think of," said Murphy. "We can pretty much paint anything."

Murphy, who has been restoring stuff since he was a kid, started his business after he realized he enjoyed bringing things back to life, so to speak.

"It's all about going through the stages," he said. "Instead of trying to run up the steps, you've got to climb."

They paint the vehicles piece by piece, and take great care in making sure the customer is perfectly satisfied.

"I just love taking the old cars and I have a lot of pride in it," said Murphy. "I really enjoy it."

HAPPY CUSTOMER

Joe Derek of Farmington Hills brought his 1989 Firebird to The Body Curve. It had been spray painted by the previous owner.

"It was a 20/20 car," said Derek. "At 20 miles per hour and from 20 feet away, it didn't look bad."

It's the first classic car Derek and his wife, Judy, have owned — and it's their latest recreation since Derek retired from the Farmington Hills Nature Center last year.

They're enjoying the 350 / 5.7-liter engine and the new Nassau blue paint job. They've already taken the car to the Grand River Cruise-In, which happens every Monday at 5 p.m. at the Village Commons parking lot on Grand River in downtown Farmington, and they've joined the Royal Pontiac Club of America. They'll be hanging out at the Fresard GMC on Woodward during the Dream Cruise, too.

Derek said he's always noticed The Body Curve, and the gorgeous cars parked in front. He's happy with the work they've done on his Firebird.

"The difference is that they take the entire car apart and each piece is painted by itself," said Derek.

With the shiny new paint job and a new rear spoiler, the Dereks are ready to show it off on Saturday, Aug. 20, on Woodward.

"It's the muscle car my parents wouldn't let me have," he said, grinning.

County gets clean opinion on audit policies, procedures

Wayne County's audit policies and procedures are once again being held in high esteem.

The Wayne County Office of the Legislative Auditor General received a "clean opinion" from the Association of Local Government Auditors, following a recent external quality control review, or peer review, of the OAG.

A "clean opinion" means the ALGA team evaluated Wayne County's audit policies, procedures and processes and concluded that the county's internal quality control systems were suitably designed and operating effectively.

"I am so proud of our entire audit team, led by our Auditor General Willie Mayo," said Wayne County Commissioner Ilona Varga, D-Lincoln Park, who chairs the commission's Committee on Audit. "To once again gain such prestigious recognition among peers solidifies our belief as a commission that the Wayne County Office of the Auditor General is dedicated and committed to assuring transparency and maintaining the highest level of accountability."

In the assessment released by the government team, the county's auditing operations were found to be in compliance with industry standards and practices issued by the U.S. Comptroller General and the Institute of Internal Auditors. This marked the second time since 2008 the Wayne County Office of the Legislative Auditor General has received this type of evaluation.

"Most internal audit organizations are either qualified to perform yellow or red book audit engagements," Wayne County Auditor General Willie Mayo said. "Being an orange book peer reviewed shop means we continue to be a part of an elite rank of internal audit organizations in the country who are qualified to perform both GAGAS and IIA standards audit engagements."

The review covered a period from January 1, 2008, through December 31, 2010. Included was a one-week on-site examination in early July that was conducted by government auditors from California, Washington and Florida.

"I believe we are successful because of the training we offer our staff on a continuous basis, the utilization of the state of the art software, OAG's commitment to excellence and, most of all, the support our department receives from the CEO (County Executive Office) and Wayne County Commission leadership," Mayo said. "The OAG's success would not be possible without these key ingredients."

"To have successfully completed our fourth peer review means we are compliant with the Wayne County Charter requirement for the internal audit department to be peer reviewed tri-annually and it adds credibility and integrity to the reports being issued by the OAG," Mayo added.

Food and wine event benefits Schoolcraft College students

The Schoolcraft College Foundation presents its annual Culinary Extravaganza, a premier food and wine event that highlights the culinary talent of metro area restaurants, pastry shops and beverage vendors.

This year's event, 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25, marks two special anniversaries — the 20th year of the food and wine event and the college's 50th.

The extravaganza allows guests to sample a variety of fine food, wine, beverages and desserts in one afternoon, while at the same time support student scholarships. Proceeds from the event provide scholarships and grants for students. Individual tickets are $50 each and available at the college or online.

Throughout its 50-year history, more than 300,000 individuals have been educated at Schoolcraft College.

Business and individual sponsorships are still available for this year's event.

"The generosity of our event sponsors is vital to our fundraising efforts and an excellent opportunity to introduce your business to alumni, donors, friends and community members," said Kristina Mayer, an officer of the Foundation Board of Governors and chairwoman of this year's culinary event.

"More importantly, proceeds raised from the extravaganza directly support student scholarships and our culinary arts program. Your support for one afternoon can change many lives," added Mayer, vice president and branch manager of Bank of Ann Arbor's Plymouth Township office.

This year's event will feature more than 50 food, wine and dessert stations, a silent auction and raffle, along with a wine-tasting seminar and wholesome healthy foods demonstration by master chef Jeff Gabriel.

FEATURED

Food and beverage vendors include Sive Restaurant at St. John's Inn in Plymouth Township, Toasted Oak Grill and Market in Novi, Old World Olive Press in Plymouth and McCormick Distilling Co.

Culinary guests can expect tasty as well as creative displays of food and beverage at the fall event. At a previous event, guests look at the bread creations made by Jeff Greenwald.

SPONSORSHIPS

A variety of packages ranging from $5,000 to $300 are available for this year's 20th annual Culinary Extravaganza on Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Schoolcraft College VistaTech Center.

All sponsor packages include video signage at the event, recognition in print advertising in the Observer & Eccentric and Hometown Newspapers, name in foundation publications and website and charitable tax deduction.

Sponsorship levels:

- Platinum ($5,000) includes 12 tickets and admission to pre-event VIP reception, full-page event program advertising, name on outdoor electronic sign and two tickets to the Golden Gala - Ever Upward, a celebration of the college's 50th anniversary on Oct. 22.

- Diamond ($2,500) includes eight tickets, admission to VIP reception, half-page program ad, name on outdoor sign and two tickets to 50th anniversary gala.

- Gold ($1,000) includes six tickets, admission to VIP reception, event, program ad, name on outdoor sign and two gala tickets.

- Silver ($500) includes four tickets and a business card ad in the event program.

- Bronze ($300) includes three tickets and a listing of your name or business in the event program.

For more information or to secure a sponsorship, contact Marjorie Lynch at (734) 462-4518 or mlynch@schoolcraft.edu.

In addition to food, attendees can bid on a variety of gifts cards and baskets, including a VIP wine-tasting at Chateau Chantal, a weekend stay at the Townsend Hotel in downtown Birmingham or sports and entertainment packages.

Highlight of this year's raffle is a Hearts on Fire Diamond necklace from Orin Jewelers in Garden City and Northville valued at $3,400. Other raffle prizes include $500 cash, $250 cash (two winners) and dinner for two at the American Harvest Restaurant at Schoolcraft (three winners).

Raffle tickets are $5 each or three for $10. In addition, each ticket has value even if you don't win a prize. Patrons can redeem the ticket for discounts at the American Harvest, Steve & Rocky's in Novi and the Ironwood Grill in Plymouth. Raffle tickets are available at the college.

Lowered U.S. credit rating is uncharted territory

BY RICK BLOOM
GUEST COLUMNIST

Q: Dear Rick: I just read that even though our debt ceiling has been raised it's still possible that we could lose our AAA rating. How can that be? Also, if we lose our AAA rating, is that something that the average guy would notice or is it mostly much about nothing?

Money Matters

Rick Bloom

A: There are two separate issues here. The first is the raising of the debt ceiling, the other deals with the credit rating of the United States.

The debt ceiling is how much the United States government can borrow. Congress sets a limit as to how much the government can borrow.

What happened last week was the government reached its borrowing limit. In order for the government to borrow more money it had to be authorized by Congress.

In the past when the government reached its limits, Congress almost always automatically increased the limit. This time, however, many in Congress said enough is enough. They were not going to just blindly increase the debt limit. These members of congress wanted spending cuts, as opposed to borrowing more money.

The compromise that the Democrats and Republicans reached did call for spending cuts, but also raised the debt limit. Therefore, the so-called debt crisis, which could have led to our country not being able to pay the bills, has now been resolved.

The issue of our country's credit rating is something totally different. Independent credit rating agencies such as Moody's and Standard & Poor's rate governments and businesses as to their credit worthiness. This rating is then used to determine interest rates paid on obligations. The higher your credit rating, the lower the interest you pay when you borrow money. It's the same with individuals — the higher your credit scores, the lower your interest rate when you borrow money.

The reason U.S. treasuries pay low rates of return is because of their rating by the credit agencies. The credit agencies rate U.S. debt as the most secure debt in the world, in other words, no risk of default.

Credit agencies change the credit ratings of companies and countries based upon a variety of factors. Because of the amount of debt our country has incurred over the last couple of years, the credit agencies, which are independent, are considering lowering the rating by a notch or two. It doesn't mean that we are at risk of going to junk bond status, but if nothing more, it is a wake-up call that we have a problem with the amount of debt on our books.

I believe there is a 50/50 chance that our credit rating could be lowered. The major impact on consumers would be how that adjustment affects interest rates. More likely than not, the interest rate on U.S. treasuries will rise a little. That could be good news for investors in U.S. Treasuries, but not good for those who have charge cards and mortgages whose rates are tied to U.S. Treasuries. Those with adjustable rate obligations that are tied to the U.S. Treasury may find that their interest rates will rise on those obligations.

Other countries have had their credit rating lowered such as Japan, about 10 years ago. However, because of the unique position of the United States and the dollar in the world economy, lowering our credit rating puts us in uncharted territory.

How markets will be affected is unknown and it doesn't make sense to speculate. However, we do know that if the rating is adjusted, we will see a rise in interest rates.

Therefore, because of the potential of rising interest rates and because it makes good financial sense, investors need to do what they can to reduce the amount of their outstanding debt. Good luck!

McCotter opens Plymouth HQ for presidential bid

BY MATT JACHMAN
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

U.S. Rep. Thaddeus McCotter, the Livonia congressman and a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, opened his national campaign headquarters in Plymouth on Thursday. The office is at 614 South Main, near Wing Street. McCotter said the headquarters' outside-the-capital location "further proves our commitment to running a winning, grassroots campaign for the presidency. "We in Michigan acutely understand the challenges of a global economy, and the necessity of shrinking big government and growing our economy," he said in a press release. "Most importantly we share the resilience to ensure that despite all obstacles, our free people will build an America that works, and affirm American exceptionalism in the 21st Century." McCotter, 45, of Livonia, has represented Michigan's 11th District since 2003. A former Schoolcraft College trustee, Wayne County Commission member and state senator, he graduated from Catholic Central High School and earned both his bachelor's degree and his law degree from the University of Detroit. McCotter also announced Thursday that his former chief of staff, Martin Van Valkenburg, has been named a senior campaign adviser and state campaign director. Van Valkenburg will manage the day-to-day operations at campaign headquarters.

"I am pleased to join the McCotter 2012 team," Van Valkenburg said. "Thaddeus McCotter is the only candidate who understands the challenges facing Americans today, has the vision to lead them through difficult times; and has the fortitude to make the necessary decisions to govern effectively on behalf of the citizens of our great nation." The McCotter campaign's website is www.mccotter2012.com.

Martin Van Valkenburg, Michigan Director for Congressman Thaddeus McCotter's presidential campaign, hangs posters in the window of the new campaign headquarters. The office, at 614 S. Main Street, in Plymouth, opened Thursday.

Under the Big Top

The Kelly Miller Circus will be coming to Westland on Tuesday, Aug. 16, courtesy of the Westland Jaycees.

Public is invited to come and watch the animals being unloaded and the elephants pull the big top into the air to the very moment when the king pole races to the ground at the end of the day and be a part of the magic of "Circus Day" as it has been experienced for more than 200 years.

Activities will begin at 7:30 a.m. on the grounds of the Westland City Hall on Ford west of Wayne Road. Guides will be furnished for school groups and anyone attending.

The traditional "old style" circus will present two performances at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. Come out and enjoy a day at the circus. Tickets are available in advance for $6 children up to age 11 and $10 for those age 12 and older. Call Harold Christian at (734) 502-8847, or e-mail him at International_pm06@yahoo.com.

Outdoor movie

The Westland Downtown Development Authority is sponsoring a Park It movie night Wednesday, Aug. 24 in the parking lot of the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford.

Yogi Bear will be shown on the big screen at 8:30 p.m., but the fun starts at 7 p.m. There will be live music, inflatable bouncers, kid's activities and free giveaways. There also will be concessions with food available for purchase.

The movie night is free of charge.

Open house

Westland Free Methodist Church will hold a preschool open house and sneak peek 6:30-8 p.m. Monday, Aug. 8, at the church, 1421 S. Venoy, south of Cherryl Hill, Westland.

Marvel Comics' amazing Spider-Man

Spider-Man, A.K.A. Peter Parker, first appeared in August 1962 in Marvel Comics' Amazing Fantasy #15. The teenage Spider-Man was created by Stan Lee and Steve Ditko. At that time, it was revolutionary that a teenager could be a superhero, not just a sidekick (think Batman and Robin).

Over the years Spider-Man has appeared in comic books, books, TV shows and movies. Spider-Man has acquired nicknames including "Spidey" and "web-slinger." Spider-Man's strength and agility are complemented by spider-like abilities, such as clinging to surfaces, quick "spider-sense" reaction time and the ability to shoot spider webs from his web-shooters.

In addition to his solo work, Spider-Man has worked with superhero teams, including the Avengers and the Fantastic Four.

When not performing his duties as Spider-Man, Peter Parker lives a normal life with his Aunt May and Uncle Ben in New York City. As Peter Parker grows up, he experiences struggles that all of us face - school, work and money problems. These struggles make Spider-Man more identifiable to his readers than a hero like Superman who is god-like. Read the Ultimate Spider-Man comics to find out about Spider-Man's adventures. Check out other books on Spider-Man like Marvel Comics' "How to Draw Spider-Man," "Spider-Man: The Visual Guide to the Complete Movie Trilogy" by Alastair Dougall and "The Amazing Spider-Man: The Ultimate Guide" by Tom DeFalco, or movies like "Spider-Man" and "Spider-Man 2," "The Spectacular Spider-Man" series, and "Spider-Man vs. Doc Ock."

In addition to Spider-Man, Stan Lee also created characters including the Fantastic Four, the X-Men, the Avengers, Iron Man, the Hulk, Thor and Daredevil. Stan Lee has also worked with other artists like Steve Ditko and Jack Kirby. The characters Stan Lee worked to create were more complex and flawed than previous superheroes. If you'd like to find out more about Stan Lee or the creation of Spider-Man you might find the following interesting: "Stan Lee: Writer and Creator" by Sue Hamilton, "The Creation of Spider-Man" by Paul Kupperberg and "Jack Kirby: Creator and Artist" by Sue Hamilton.

New faces abound for Madonna men's soccer

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

When head coach Eric Scott opens practice Monday for his second Madonna University men's soccer season, he may need name tags.

With eight new recruits and 15 other players gone, the second-year coach will more than likely have an extended "getting acquainted" period.

"We lost (seven) a lot to graduation, so my assistant Ken Shingledecker had to go out and recruit hard and I thought we did a good job for the most part," said Scott, who is coming off an 8-6 season. "We did a lot in the Catholic League and the east side. I'm happy with where we're at."

There are, however, some veterans who return.

Forward Mustapha Olorunnimbe, native of Lagos, Nigeria via Oakland Community College, is back as the team's top scorer (nine goals, three assists). He was a second-team All-Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference selection along with junior midfielder Franco Giorgi.

Others who have starting experience that return include sophomore midfielder Brandon Hess (Livonia/Detroit Catholic Central), senior midfielder Andrew Kidder and sophomore midfielder Jacob Rosiek.

Among the other returnees from last year's roster include sophomore goalkeeper Erich Richter, junior forward Steve Templeton and sophomore midfielder Ali Rida.

Junior defender Cayle Lackten, who hails from Ancaster, Ontario, also returns after taking a year off.

"Last year they were getting used to the environment that was created on my part," Scott said. "A lot of it was new and it was hard to jell overnight."

The Crusaders, who finished 3-3 last year in the WHAC (fourth place), will have nearly a month to put the pieces together.

They'll have scrimmages Aug. 25 (at Saginaw Valley State) and Aug. 30 (at Albion College) before the official season opener Wednesday, Sept. 7 at home against Lawrence Tech.

How the Crusaders will fare this season may depend on the eight newcomers led by a pair of highly-touted transfers from Schoolcraft College - midfielder Joe Carver and forward Dane Laird (Farmington Hills Harrison).

The two combined over the past two seasons with the nationally-ranked Ocelots for 16 goals and 17 assists.

"They both play with high pace and energy, something that we didn't have last year," Scott said. "They played in a program where they were always in a high attack mode. Laird is a former hockey player who knows how to get to the goal fast. He'll also

SIDELINES

Titans sign trio

University of Detroit Mercy track and field coach Guy Murray announced the signings Thursday of three first-team All-Observer picks.

Added to the men's squad is North Farmington's Shammah Carter, the 2011 Oakland Country runner-up in the 110-meter hurdles and two-time MHSAA Division 1 semifinalist in the same event.

Carter posted the area's best time (14.6) in the 110 hurdles and ranked fourth in the 300 hurdles (40.1).

Meanwhile, twins Jacquelyn and Josephine Zolyinsky of Farmington High will be joining the women's team.

They were part of the 4 x 400 and 4 x 800 Division 1 state qualifying relay teams in 2011 and the 1,600 relay quartet in 2010.

Josephine and Jacquelyne posted bests this season of 1:00.63 and 1:01.3, respectively, in the 400 dash.

Hildebrandt top pick

The Michigan Bucks' Mitch Hildebrandt (Livonia Stevenson) was named Goalkeeper of the Year in the Premier Development League during the Final Four PDL banquet hosted Friday in Tampa, Fla. by the United Soccer League.

Hildebrandt, an Oakland University senior, began his PDL career in the PDL five years ago while still in high school during a game in Cleveland, Ohio.

He registered a PDL high 12 wins and 12 shutouts on the season, while making spectacular saves in nearly every match.

Hildebrandt is the first Bucks keeper to ever earn Goalkeeper of the Year.

He was also named to the All PDL XI squad along with teammate Stew Givens, the Defender of the Year, as one of the top 11 in the 64-team league with nearly 2,000 players.

Givens led the defense that only yielded nine goals in 16 regular season games this season and did not allow a goal at home until the playoffs as the Bucks fell to the Thunder Bay (Ontario) Chill in the Central Conference final, 2-1.

Givens and Hildebrandt were joined by another OU product, Tom Catalano, on the All Central Conference team.

Gary Parsons, in his third season, was named PDL Coach of the Year after leading the Bucks to a 12-2-2 record and a Great Lakes Division title.

The former Oakland University mentor is the third different Bucks coach to earn the title joining Steve Burns (1997) and Joe Malchino (2000).

O&E men's golf

Registration is on for the 2011 Men's Observer & Eccentric Open, a 36-hole medal play event Sunday-Monday, Sept. 4-5, at Fox Creek and Whispering Willows golf courses.

The entry fee is $95 and is limited to the first 120 golfers. There will be $2,500 in guaranteed prizes in three different flights (championship, first and seniors 55 and up). Entries close 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 27.

So much for jet lag.

Less than a week after capturing a gold medal in the women's 4 x 200-meter freestyle relay at the FINA World Aquatic Championships in Shanghai, China, Canton's Allison Schmitt returned home to successfully defend her individual 200 freestyle title Wednesday at the 2011 ConocoPhillips National Championships in Palo Alto, Calif.

The University of Georgia junior, representing the North Baltimore (Md.) Aquatic Club, made the halfway turn in ninth place before rallying for the win in 1 minute, 57.94 seconds.

Power tumbler Casey Skinner of Livonia, wearing her bronze medal, is headed later this year to Birmingham, England for the World Age Group Trampoline & Tumbling Championships.

It was mission accomplishment for Casey Skinner, who some day envisions competing in the Olympics.

And now the training will only amp up a notch for the Livonia Stevenson High junior, who has qualified for the Trampoline & Tumbling World Championships, Nov. 16-19, in Birmingham, England.

Skinner captured a bronze medal in power tumbling for Girls 15-16 at the USA Gymnastics Junior Elite Championships held July 8-10 at the Freeman Coliseum in San Antonio, Texas.

"From here on out I'll be working on new passes because it's an international competition and I'll need to go in there with something else so I can compete," Skinner said. "It's going to be more intense because there are no Worlds next year. As far as the competition this year I had to do what I have to do to medal and placing."

'Run for the Hills' gathers up steam in popularity

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Big-name marathons have nothing on Farmington's Shiawassee Park as far as Ed Anderson is concerned.

And the director of the second annual Run for the Hills figures he has plenty of company as this year's event on Saturday, Aug. 20, draws near.

Anderson, a Farmington Hills resident, said registration numbers for this year's event are about 800 — twice the amount in 2010.

"I think everybody that came last year had a really good time," Anderson said. "First off, the race courses are really scenic and quite nice for the runners. Everybody got free pizza and bagels at the end. People felt they were really well-taken care of.

"We heard nothing but a lot of good feedback from all of the runners, that they liked the course and the way the community sort of embraced the whole race. They said 'We're coming back next year.'"

They'll be coming from other states and countries to participate in the myriad races slated for Aug. 20. Those include: a 5k walk; 1k, 5k and 10k runs; and 5k and 10k team races.

Also back will be Eric Green, who captured the 10k race in 2010 and eventually was named Michigan Runner of the Year, Anderson said.

"He already vowed to me that he's never going to miss the race,"

Great Lakes Cardinals wind up 2nd in USSSA

BY BRAD EMONS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Make way Albert Pujols, Lance Berkman and Chris Carpenter – these Cardinals can play a little baseball, too.

The 13-and-under Great Lakes Cardinals recently completed 49-10 season, including a runner-up finish, July 20-24, in the USSSA AAA World Series in Liberty, Mo.

The Great Lakes Cards went 7-2 during the AAA World Series before losing to Paducah (Ky.) in the finals.

Ravi Mahanti (Farmington) was the team's leading hitter during the tournament with a .678 batting average, while Andrew Hejka (Canton) was right behind at .619.

Seth Hubbard (Canton) collected 12 of his team-leading 60 RBI during the nine-game World Series and Hejka, a shortstop, was named the tournament's top defensive player.

The Cardinals also captured Liberty Park Classic in Sterling Heights along with the Sylvania (Ohio) Fourth of July Tournament this season.

"Everybody put aside their individual accomplishments and accomplished something for the team," said manager Dan Hejka, who was coached the Cardinals for five seasons. "It was all about teamwork."

Grant Hartwig (Plymouth) was the team's leading hitter for the season at .432 followed by Hejka (.403) and Mahanti (.397).

The pitching staff was led by right-handers Cameron Stella (Plymouth) and Hartwig. Stella went 8-0 with a 1.88 earned run average. He struck out 57 in 41 innings.

Hartwig finished 8-3 with two saves. In 63 innings he fanned 88.

Rounding out the Cardinals squad is Tyler Laurentius (Canton), Trevor Friday (Farmington), Frankie Bellino (Canton), Myles Ivory (Ypsilanti), Cameron Shaughnessy (Plymouth) and Zachary Prystash (Northville).

Hejka's coaching staff includes Frank Bellino, John Shaughnessy and Emile Mahanti.

The main core of the Cardinals will move on next season as the 14-and-under USSSA Major team.

tumbling, Skinner took first during the prelims with scores of 30.4 and 31.2 and before winding up third after posting a total of 62.7 in the finals.

Royal Oak's Miranda Kerr, a teammate of Skinner's at AGT Flip City in Warren, captured the gold with 63.0, while Brittney Bernard of the Oklahoma (Tulsa) Extreme won the silver with 62.8.

"I think I did the best I could and left everything out of the floor," said Skinner, who was working around a left ankle injury. "I was better in the prelims than I was in the finals, but overall I was proud of what I did. I made my goal, which was to make the national team and go to worlds."

Skinner was given a hero's welcome after her trip to the Junior Elite Championships.

"When I came home there was a banner that said: 'Flipping around the world, but she still trips on the carpet,'" she said. "It was nice to come home and see that. My dad (Ronald) made it and it was kind of cute."

Although Skinner is now one of four members of the USA's World Age-Group Competition Team for 15-16 power tumbling, funds are not provided by USA Gymnastics and she now must raise $3,000 to make the trip to England.

And it starts with a bottle drive and garage sale, which is set for 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Aug. 18-19, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 20-21, at the Skinner's home, which is located at 16805 Wayne Road, just two houses south of Six Mile, in Livonia.

Donations are also welcome by calling Anita Skinner, Cassandra's mother, at (734) 516-0661; or by e-mailing anitafrita@hotmail.com.

Stingrays make waves at YMCAs

July proved to be a busy and highly productive month for the Farmington Family Stingrays swim team coached by Rich Bennetts and Mohamad Bachrouche.

On July 26-29, four Stingrays competed in the 2011 YMCA Long Course Nationals at Georgia Tech University in Atlanta.

The Stingrays were led by Marina Borri, who placed seventh in the 100-meter breaststroke (1:15.86); 15th, 200 breaststroke (2:43.95); 24th, 400 individual medley (5:15.18); and 34th, 50 breaststroke (36.09).

The 400 medley relay foursome of Olivia Rath, Borri, Miranda Shelly and Lauren Folkert also placed 15th (4:34.34).

The Stingrays also added a 26th in the 200 medley relay (2:06.66) and 49th in the 400 freestyle relay (4:16.14).

Shelly was 33rd, 200 butterfly (2:28.6); 40th, 100 butterfly (1:07.01); and 41st, 50 butterfly (30.62);

Folkert placed 41st, 200 backstroke (2:28.6); 65th, 50 backstroke (33.43) and 100 backstroke (1:10.23); and 110th, 200 freestyle (2:18.02).

Rath added a 36th, 50 backstroke (32.68); 69th, 200 backstroke (2:31.46); and 82nd, 100 backstroke (1:10.84).

At the Michigan Long Course State Championships held July 22-24 at Jenison High School, 15-year-old Nick Leshok took 11th in the 200 IM (2:20.76); 12th, 100 breaststroke (1:13.73) and 50 freestyle (25.92); along with a 19th in the 200 freestyle (2:04.74).

Teammate Miranda Doecker also competed in the 100 butterfly and 200 freestyle events.

SCHMITT

Catherine Breed and Alyssa Anderson took second and third with times of 1:58.86 and 1:59.31, respectively.

At 100 meters, Schmitt was next to last in 59.20, but finished the final 100 with a negative split in 58.74.

"I was trying to change my race strategy from Worlds," Schmitt told Universal Sports TV commentators Rowdy Gaines and Ted Robinson from the Stanford University pool. "I tried to bring it back and stay out of wakes. It was definitely fun and I tried to bring it home the last 100."

Schmitt is the American record holder in the 200 freestyle (1:54.96 set July, 2009 in Rome). In Shanghai, she placed sixth in 1:56.98.

Last Tuesday, Schmitt placed fourth in the 400 freestyle (4:09.43) at the National as Ashley Steenvoorden won the race in 4:07.63 followed by Chloe Sutton and Elizabeth Beisel in 4:08.52 and 4:09.25, respectively.

In Thursday's 800 freestyle relay, the Athens (Ga.) Bulldog Swim Club placed first as Chelsea Nauta, Morgan Scroggy, Shannon Vreeland and Megan Romano were clocked in 7:58.14.

Schmitt's North Baltimore foursome, including Elizabeth Pelton, Camryne Morris and Kelly Offut, took second in 8:00.51.

In Shanghai, Schmitt anchored the 800 relay foursome of Missy Franklin, Dagny Knutson and Krithryn Hoff to a gold medal in 7:46.14 edging second-place Australia (7:47.42) and third-place China (7:47.66).

"It was a lot of fun," said Schmitt, who won a bronze medal in the 4 x 200 freestyle relay at the 2008 Beijing Olympics. "It was a great feeling. It's the first time I've been on the gold medal relay for the U.S. so it's really exciting."

Schmitt is a three-time NCAA champion (twice in the 500-yard freestyle and once in the 200 freestyle), along with being a National champion in the 400 freestyle (2009).

She was also a silver medalist twice in the 2009 FINA Worlds in the 200 freestyle and 800 freestyle relay.

Michigan Jags U-15 National runner-up

Electricity fill the air as the 2011 US Youth Soccer National champions were crowned July 30-31 at the Reach 11 Sports Complex in Phoenix, Ariz.

The under-15 Michigan Jaguars, who train out of Total Soccer in Wixom, finished runner-up losing 3-1 to the Chicago Fire Juniors.

The Jaguars are comprised of players from Canton, Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Livonia, Ypsilanti and Commerce Township.

Canton's Griffin Parks staked the Jaguars to a 1-0 lead in the fifth minute of the championship match only to have Michael Catalano, Christian Hanock-Berhanu and Brian Werchek answer with three second-half goals for Chicago.

The Jaguars opened tourney play with a 2-1 victory over FC Dallas Premier (Tex.) on goals by Ken Krolicki (18th minute) and Travis Hamers (27th minute).

Grant Norris countered for Dallas in the 41st minute.

A pair of goals by Alan Winn gave Solar Chelsea 96 (Tex.) a 3-0 win over the Jaguars in the second round.

The Jaguars then reached the finals by defeating the San Diego (Calif.) FC Gauchos, 4-1, on goals by Luai Fakhoury, Parks, Zachary Bock and Michael Winters.

The 2011 US Youth Soccer National Championship Series began in the fall of last year with more than 10,000 teams competing in state, regional and national qualifying tournaments.

The field was paired down to 60 through the state and regional Championships and then the top two boys and girls teams at each age (14-19) battled it out in to determine who would be crowned champion.

The Jaguars qualified for the Nationals in March by winning the US Youth Soccer National League. They finished with a 5-1-1 record, beating top teams from Pennsylvania, Ohio, South Carolina, New Jersey and Texas.

Forward George Sami and defender Sean Koza, both from Birmingham Brother Rice's 2009 Division 1 state championship squad, could provide immediate help along with Kyle Karmo, a stable and steady defender from Orchard Lake St. Mary Prep.

All three have considerable experience at a high club level playing for the Wolves East Academy team.

Scott, meanwhile, also signed goalkeeper Scott Poole (Madison Heights Lampshire) along with center-back Nicholi LaRocca (Mount Clemens Chippewa Valley) and midfielder Ryan Williams (Auburn Hills Avondale).

"I'm happy with this year's class and a lot of them could start," Scott said. "We had to reload with another big class. If they work hard, I think we can get back to where Pete (Alexander) and Tino (Scicluna) had it, then we can scale back a little next year with some high quality kids.

"I know the guys are excited to come to practice. I've gotten messages from them and they're ready to come back."

New Whaler

The Ontario Hockey League's Plymouth Whalers announced the acquisition Thursday of 20-year-old forward Andy Bathgate from the Belleville Bulls. In return, the Whalers send third-round picks in the 2013 and 2014 OHL Priority Selection draft back to Belleville. Bathgate was the Bulls' third-round pick (54th overall) in the 2007 OHL Priority Selection and was taken by the Pittsburgh Penguins in the fifth round (151st overall) in the 2009 National Hockey League entry draft. Bathgate enjoyed his best offensive season in the OHL last season for the Bulls, scoring 25 goals and 35 assists for 60 points in 64 games. The acquisition of Bathgate gives Plymouth five overage players (1991 birthdays) on the roster including forwards Bathgate, RJ Mahalak, Jamie Devane and Peter Neal, along with defenseman Beau Schmitz.

Anderson added. "He just fired me an e-mail a couple days ago, and he said he's going to be there for sure."

Just like in 2010, all proceeds from the event will go to Special Olympics.

"I've been a longtime runner and ran a lot of big races, (but) now I'm retired," he said with a laugh. "So obviously I have time, and I had a very strong interest not only in creating a nice event for the town but also to help out Special Olympics. Last year I gave $5,000 to them from the event."

TEAMING UP

Individual events should be spirited, but ramping things up a bit are the five-runner team races.

"The team races are a way to generate a little more spirit," he said. "Instead of going to a running race by yourself, you make a team with four other runners and you're going to the start line with five people on a team."

"And then you just simply add the times of the five runners and the team that has the lowest combined time obviously is going to be the winner."

The concept is catching on, too. Last year, there were only three teams, which Anderson said wasn't shocking given Run for the Hills was just getting started.

"But this year, I'm thinking we're probably going to have 15 or 20 teams," he continued. "I can see it eventually growing to, maybe 100 teams."

"I think it's going to get continually more popular because it's a lot of fun to run as a team."

Anderson, a veteran runner who also is founder and director of Tri-County Lacrosse, sees potential beyond this year for Run for the Hills.

"This year we'll double last year and next year there's no reason to think next year we don't double it again," he noted.

Anderson, who competed at the Boston Marathon during his running career, thinks the venue itself has a lot to do with that.

"From what I can see of the running course, and Shiawassee Park, just the whole venue is just going to continue to get more popular," Anderson said. "It really is a great place to run. I've been to a lot of races that have grown in popularity that, I don't think they have as nice a venue as Farmington."

All races will begin and end at Shiawassee Park, which is located near Farmington-Shiawassee roads. Runners will go as far north as 11 Mile and as far east as Orchard Lake.

Registration fees for those signing up until Aug. 19 are as follows: 1k, $15; 5k/10k, $30; team, $125. The cost to sign up will go up slightly on the day of the event.

For more information about Run for the Hills, go to www.farmingtonrunforthehills.com.

Participants of the 2010 Farmington Run for the Hills race get started at Shiawassee Park. The second annual race takes place Saturday, Aug. 20.

Comedy and tragedy

Young actors combine serious, silly Shakespeare

BY SHARON DARGAY
O&E STAFF WRITER

Motor City Youth Theatre (MCYT) will stage two versions of Macbeth in less than 90 minutes and all for the price of one ticket next week-end.

Director Nancy Florkowski combined adapted scripts from two different series of Shakespeare's works, added a narrator (her husband, Fred) and chopped the running time to one hour — while still maintaining the 17th century-style language.

A cast of 10 young actors will bring the tragedy to life Aug. 12-14, on stage in Livonia.

"After that, the kids will do a 10-minute version that I wrote, that they embellished and it's hilarious," Florkowski said.

At rehearsals last week the group worked with a Wayne State University graduate student on stage fighting and practiced making Shakespeare's lines their own.

Macbeth, both the silly and serious versions, marks MCYT's third Shakespeare production with an all-kid cast. Florkowski enlisted families for Midsummer Night's Dream when she produced it outdoors six years ago in both Redford and Livonia. Adult actors brought Hamlet to the parking lot at Grantland Street Playhouse — MCYT's home — the following year and then took at job at the Bard with The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged) a year later.

When Megan Troost heard Florkowski next wanted to direct youngsters in a serious version of Hamlet, while coaching adults in a Macbeth comedy, she had her doubts.

"I never thought kids could do it," said Megan, 13, who will enter the Creative and Performing Arts (CAPA) program at Churchill High School in Livonia this fall. "But they can. These kids are amazing,

"Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble," say witches Shannon Stork of Northville, Megan Troost of Livonia, and Alina Steinberg of Birmingham.

Even the little kids, they blow my mind on stage."

Megan performed in both the youth-fueled production of Hamlet two years ago and in Midsummer Night's Dream last year. She plays Lady Macduff, among other roles, in Macbeth.

LOYAL ACTORS

Like Troost, most of Florkowski's young Shakespeare actors are MCYT regulars. Shannon Stork, 15, a Farmington Hills resident and Alina Steinberg, 15, of Birmingham, have worked with Florkowski for nearly four years.

"It's like a family here. I just keep coming back," Alina said. She also has performed with the Village Youth Theater in Birmingham and acts in school productions at Groves High.

enth full scale show at MCYT. She was "underwhelmed" the first time she saw the theater's playhouse, a remodeled VFW hall in an industrial side of town, but quickly fell in love with the program.

"It's a huge confidence builder and it's a lot of fun," she said. "It's a pretty small building but if you are here and experience the people, the quality of the teaching, how much fun it can be, you realize it doesn't have to be huge to be great theater."

Florkowski and company have poured "blood, sweat and tears," into the building since acquiring it five years ago. They built a stage, painted walls, added the sound system and are busy working on refurbishing rest rooms. Florkowski also plans to spruce up the basement and add an elevator.

"It's really a perfect black box theater that people would kill to have and we're lucky to have it," she said.

Garden club shows flowers, plant exhibits

Livonia Garden Club's "Another Op'nin' Another Show" drew more than 800 individuals last month to the Livonia Civic Center Library's atrium. Club members displayed flower arrangements and horticultural exhibits during the two-day show. Judges from around the state awarded prizes to winning displays and several members of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra played a selection of tunes from Broadway musicals.

Della Hayden won a Blue Ribbon and Tri Color Award for this arrangement, which was displayed at the Livonia Garden Club's flower show.

The Livonia Garden Club was founded in 1969 to encourage interest in all phases of home gardening, natural resources conservation, civic beauty, and better horticulture practices. The group meets at 7 p.m. the first Tuesday of the month at the Livonia Senior Center, 15218 Farmington Road. It encourages prospective members to attend at least two meetings before applying for active membership.

Louise Scanlan, a former Livonia Garden Club president shows her award-winning Woolly Thyme, Crassula and Festuca Amethystina. She won the Horticulture Excellence Award, Grower's Choice Award and a blue ribbon.

help teach the theater's classes and camps beginning this fall. Florkowski also created an adult music theater troupe with a show planned for early 2012.

"The kids from Wayne State who are my classmates are so excited. I said, 'guys, you help me form a company and it's yours.'"

After 32 years teaching special education and drama, followed by retirement six years ago, Florkowski, 62, went back to school last fall.

"I was a freshman in the theater department. I had to audition and do everything the kids do. I loved it."

She hopes to add an undergraduate degree in theater from Wayne State to her educational resume, which includes master's degrees in youth theater and special education. Florkowski performed in three student shows during the 2010-11 school year and studied theater for a month last summer at the Mxat Theatre in Moscow, Russia. The Wayne State University program enabled her to undertake intense work in dance, acting, movement, song and Russian film studies.

"Usually people wait to do this until they are a senior, but I'm 62 and not waiting for anything."

Groups offer inoculations, feral cat training

LOW-COST VACCINATIONS

Tail Waggers 1990 will offer two opportunities to get dogs and cats inoculated locally and at low cost this month. Clinics run from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 7 at Sheehy Animal Hospital, 18790 Middlebelt, in Livonia; and from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 20 at Wags to Whiskers, 44711 Five Mile, Plymouth. Vaccines for rabies, distemper and bordetella will be available for a package price of $30 or $12 for individual vaccines for dogs. Rabies and distemper for cats are priced at $12 each. Microchips will be offered for $30, which will include registration, and heartworm tests will cost $18 and will be available only on Aug. 7.

Tailwaggers 1990's low-cost vaccination clinics are open to everyone living in any city, regardless of income level.

FERAL COLONIES

The Michigan Humane Society (MHS) will hold its third workshop for residents who want to help reduce the number of homeless cats and provide feral cats with much-needed care. The workshop will teach residents how use a "Trap-Neuter-Return" (TNR) strategy, which has proven to be the most effective and humane way of handling feral cats. The program, launched in May, aims to sterilize thousands of feral cats in the coming years.

The program helps individuals learn what it takes to manage a feral cat colony near their home or place of employment. Caretakers will be trained on proper techniques and equipment to humanely trap feral cats, that they'll bring them to the Michigan Humane Society for sterilization and care. Afterward, the animals will be released back to their habitat.

The workshop is at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 9, at Michigan Humane Society's administrative office, 30300 Telegraph, Suite 220, in Bingham Farms.

Register online or get more information at www.michiganhumane.org or by phone at (866) MHUMANE (648-6263).

Plymouth theater holds open house, auditions

Parents and children will get a chance to meet new instructors and learn about the Plymouth Uptown Players' (PUPS) children's theater program from 5-8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 17, at the Plymouth Community Arts Council, in Plymouth.

Refreshments will be served, and instructors and their assistants will perform improv at the open house. Anyone who attends the open house will receive $10 off PUPS fall registration fees.

The Plymouth Uptown Players is an experimental theatre group that is made up of elementary and middle school aged children. The program, which began in the mid-1990s, teaches children everything about producing and acting in a play including costumes, sets, directing and working together as a team with other cast members. Children may audition for the group's productions each fall and spring. All children who audition receive a part, and casts generally are divided by age group. The program culminates in performances, open to the public, at the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Some of the casts are invited to perform for local elementary schools as well.

PUPS instructors for fall 2011 are Katelyn Sigworth and Cara Bosco. Sigworth joins the PCAC with more than six years of experience working with children's theatre groups. She was instrumental in the founding of the PCCS middle school drama workshop program, and Second Stage Players at Canton High School. Bosco recently graduated from Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Acting and an additional major in psychology. She has performed in a variety of theatrical productions and recently worked at The Williamston Theatre where she earned her Equity Membership Candidacy.

Registration for the PUPS program begins Sept. 1. The cost for the program is $150 per actor, along with an annual $30 PCAC membership fee. Auditions are 5-9 p.m. Sept. 8. Actors can drop in anytime during the audition period to try out. The first PUPS rehearsal is Sunday, Sept. 11, with times and days to be determined based on cast sizes. Final performances will take place Dec. 9-11.

The open house, auditions, rehearsals and performances will take place at the Plymouth Community Arts Council, 774 N. Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

More information about the PUPS program and the Plymouth Community Arts Council is available at www.plymoutharts.com or by calling the PCAC at (734) 416-4278.

COLCHICINE IN GOUT

The Greeks in the time of Hippocrates used colchicine to treat gout. From that date, approximately 420 B.C. to the present, physicians prescribed the medication just as the Greeks had used it: when an attack of gout comes on, take one colchicine an hour until reaching a total of 12 tablets or when diarrhea occurs from a lesser amount. In addition, the Western medical tradition stated that a patient should take colchicine, one or two tablets a day, to ward off an attack of gout.

Research over the past 15 years has caused physicians to rethink how they should give the drug. First, physicians learned that taking two colchicine tablets immediately when an attack occurred, followed by one more an hour later was just as effective as the old regime of one an hour for 12 hours. Also, taking a total of three tablets instead of twelve cut down the incidence of diarrhea dramatically.

Second, physicians found how colchicine works: it prevents white blood cells from ingesting gout crystals. If crystals enter the white blood cells, the cells burst, spewing irritable chemicals into the surrounding tissues. It is this irritation that causes the swelling and pain characteristic of gout. If no ingestion of crystals occurs, no gout will follow.

However, taking colchicine daily to prevent an attack will not work. Colchicine aborts an attack of gout, but does not prevent one. The best use of the drug is when an episode begins. Using colchicine wisely is of importance, as the cost of the medication has risen dramatically, and what was once a minimal co-pay expense can now become an onerous one.

Bowling benefits senior bus campaign

Botsford Commons will sponsor a bowling outing 3-6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 28, at Merri-Bowl Lanes in Livonia.

All proceeds will benefit the "Next Stop, Our Bus" campaign, a Botsford Foundation project that aims to buy a handicap-accessible bus for the Farmington Hills senior community.

Cost is $15 for adults and $10 for kids and reservations are required. The price includes two hours of bowling, shoes, pizza and pop. Pizza only is $5. The event also will include a bake sale and 50/50 drawing.

The "Next Stop, Our Bus" campaign is close to the heart of Botsford Commons residents.

"I would be truly unhappy if I couldn't make it to the local elementary school to read with the children," said assisted living resident Sherry Hamilton, referring to one of the many community outreach and charity projects in which Botsford Commons residents participate. "This bus is about our lives touching the community and impacting others."

Merri-Bowl Lanes is located at 30950 Five Mile Road in Livonia. For questions or to donate an item for the bake sale, call Colleen Kashawlic at (248) 426-6943.

Parents can stress nutrition, safety at physical exam

Annual physical exams are the perfect time for parents and family physicians to collaborate and teach children healthy lifestyle practices, according to University of Michigan family physicians and pediatricians.

Although exams are primarily designed to assess youngsters' physical health, visits can be used as a time for conversation.

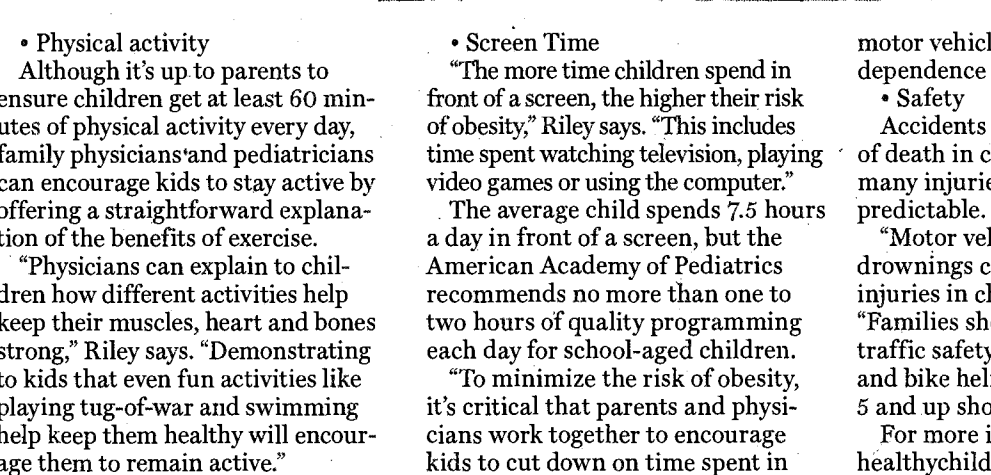

"For children between 5 and 12 years old, the counseling aspect of the annual physical is important because children in this age group are establishing patterns of behavior that may last a lifetime," says Dr. Margaret Riley, clinical lecturer of family medicine at the U-M Medical School. "It's important for children to be counseled on leading a healthy lifestyle by their parent or guardian as well as their regular physician."

Discussions also help children develop a positive and trusting relationship with their doctor, Riley says.

Along with the routine physical exam, Riley suggests that parents, physicians and children should talk about healthy lifestyle practices and accident prevention. This includes discussing the importance of eating a proper diet and getting regular exercise, limiting screen time, getting adequate sleep, and the dangers of high risk behaviors. Discussion of each topic varies according to children's age, and should be tailored to the individual child's needs.

• Dietary counseling
Parents and physicians should take advantage of annual visits to remind children of the value of eating fruits and vegetables and limiting sugary beverages and processed foods.

"It's important that children are educated early on about the importance of eating healthy food like lean meats, whole grains, low fat dairy, beans and fish," Riley says. "Teaching children portion control will also help them to avoid becoming overweight."

• Physical activity
Although it's up to parents to ensure children get at least 60 minutes of physical activity every day, family physicians and pediatricians can encourage kids to stay active by offering a straightforward explanation of the benefits of exercise.

"Physicians can explain to children how different activities help keep their muscles, heart and bones strong," Riley says. "Demonstrating to kids that even fun activities like playing tug-of-war and swimming help keep them healthy will encourage them to remain active."

• Screen Time
"The more time children spend in front of a screen, the higher their risk of obesity," Riley says. "This includes time spent watching television, playing video games or using the computer."

The average child spends 7.5 hours a day in front of a screen, but the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends no more than one to two hours of quality programming each day for school-aged children.

"To minimize the risk of obesity, it's critical that parents and physicians work together to encourage kids to cut down on time spent in front of a screen," Riley adds.

• Sleep
Inadequate sleep can lead to behavioral issues, difficulty concentrating at school, and has been linked with obesity.

"Children 5-12 years old need an average of 11 hours of sleep nightly, and getting enough sleep will help them feel their best," Riley says.

• High-Risk Behaviors
According to a 2007 survey of youth in the U.S., 24 percent of those younger than 13 had their first drink of alcohol, 15 percent had smoked an entire cigarette and 8 percent had tried marijuana.

"Screening for high-risk behaviors should occur during annual visits for those 11 years and older," Riley says. "Early screening reduces the risk of substance abuse related injuries, motor vehicle crashes and substance dependence in adulthood."

• Safety
Accidents are the leading cause of death in children ages 5-12, and many injuries are preventable and predictable.

"Motor vehicle accidents and drownings cause the majority of injuries in children," Riley said.

"Families should be counseled on traffic safety including seat belts and bike helmets, and children ages 5 and up should be taught to swim.

Walk raises money for diabetes research

The American Diabetes Association (ADA) is accepting registration for its fundraising walk, Step Out: Walk to Stop Diabetes planned for Saturday, Sept. 17, at the Detroit Zoo.

Nearly 26 million Americans — over 1 million in the State of Michigan — have diabetes. Although an estimated 18.8 million individuals have been diagnosed, another 7 million are unaware that they have the disease. If current trends continue, one in three American adults will have diabetes by 2050.

"Diabetes is a devastating disease that touches us all," said Christina Johnson, ADA special events manager. "Step Out: Walk to Stop Diabetes is such a wonderful event for friends and co-workers to come together and help change the future of diabetes. The camaraderie and spirit that is enjoyed by participating in this event is priceless."

To register, volunteer, sponsor or find out more information, visit diabetes.org/stepout or call (888) DIABETES.

The American Diabetes Association funds research to prevent, cure and manage diabetes; delivers services to hundreds of communities; provides diabetes information; and gives voice to those denied their rights because of diabetes. Founded in 1940, its mission is to prevent and cure diabetes and to improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes.
