Councils approve fire chief sharing

By LeAnne Rogers Staff Writer

An agreement for the Wayne-Westland Fire Department to share a chief with Inkster for the balance of the fiscal year — the first step in assessing whether a three-way merger is feasible — has been approved.

The Westland and Wayne councils approved the agreement, which ends with the July 1 start of the fiscal year, earlier this week. The Inkster council approved the agreement last month.

This was the same process used prior to the Wayne and Westland fire departments merger. Wavne-Westland Fire Chief Michael Reddy said. The agreements do not combine fire departments — only the chief's services are shared.

This allows me to get over there, manage the place and see if it is feasible to bring them into discussions (about merging)," Reddy said.

Supports agreement

Noting the agreement, plus an employment agreement with Reddy, had been discussed at an earlier study session, Westland Councilman Dewey Reeves said he supported it.

"In essence, it gives the chief the ability to do a deep audit, look at staff levels and determine the levels of manpower and equipment," Reeves said. "We have been assured by Inkster that the funding is in place. This doesn't cost the City of Westland a dime.

Financial questions about Inkster — under a financial consent decree with the state also came from Wayne Councilwoman Susan Rowe. She asked for updated report every two months.

Arriving in a fire truck, Santa Claus made his annual appearance to light Wayne's Christmas tree Tuesday evening.

"It was weird. We were singing a song -Here Comes Santa Claus. How could Santa Claus come in a fire truck," said Jay Henley, 7, who was enjoying cookies after the program.

The crowd gathered outside of Wayne Historical Museum was greeted by Wayne City Clerk Matthew Miller and Wayne Mayor Al Haidous.

"This is one of my favorite events just because of the chocolate and sweets,' Haidous said. "At this time of year, people put their differences aside in the spirit of the holiday. We have a lot to celebrate in Wayne despite our problems."

It was a relatively warm evening and rain from earlier in the day had stopped. The St. Mary's of Wayne Youth Choir led the crowd in Christmas carols before and after Santa Claus arrived.

It was the first time at the Christmas Tree Lighting for Kathy Elswick and her granddaughter Elycia Guajardo, 5, both of Wayne.

"Santa was so funny. He asked if I wanted a loose tooth," Elycia said.

Santa was apparently making a reference to the song about a youngster requesting two front teeth for Christimas. Elycia herself was missing some front teeth.

During her visit with Santa, Elycia said she had asked for a new Barbie doll, a teddy bear and a pair of Minnie Mouse tennis shoes.

Elyria was looking forward to marching with her Taft Elementary School classmates in the Rotary Lighted Parade which starts at 6 p.m. Friday.

After the program outside, there were visits with Santa inside the museum. The Wayne Beautification Committee provided cookies, hot chocolate and coffee.

School employees ready for Stuff a Bus

By Sue Mason Staff Writer

School buses will be lined up and waiting to be filled Saturday, Dec. 7, at the Westland Kmart Store. But they won't be loading students.

Instead members of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools Transportation Department will be filling the buses with toys, clothing and nonperishable food for the Wayne and Westland Goodfellows annual No Child without a Christmas.

This is the fifth year the department has held its Stuff a Bus event in the Kmart parking lot at Wayne Road and Cherry Hill in Westland and the second year the Goodfellows will benefit from the collection.

We filled three buses last year and had a ton of stuff,' said Sherice Rourke, the district's transportation director. "We're going to have three buses again, but we hope to do four this year. We'll see what we can do. We'll have people standing by, if we need a fourth bus." The 78-passenger buses will be in the Kmart parking

Fundraiser set to benefit the Marvaso family

By LeAnne Rogers Staff Writer

In over 20 years operating their family business, George and Mary Marvaso could be counted on to support community events and fundraisers.

Now a fundraiser has been organized to financially aid the couple, whose Electric Stick/ Marvaso's Italian Grille was destroyed in the May 8 fire that killed Wayne-Westland Firefighter Brian Woehlke.

"My fiancee Jan Crawford brought it to my attention that George and Mary have financial struggles after all they did in the community," said Dennis LeMaitre, one of the fundraiser organizers.

The benefit is scheduled for 5-8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 9, at the Westland Charhouse, 35613 Warren Road, Westland. For those attending the event which will have food, beer and wine, a minimum donation of $40 is requested.

"We've been having a fairly good response, the news story didn't help," said LeMaitre, referring to news last week that the fire has been ruled arson and Woehlke's death a homicide.

Silver Sneakers comes to Wayne Community Center

By LeAnne Rogers Staff Writer

If you're at least 65 years old, you may be eligible for the Silver Sneakers Fitness program that provides a free membership to the Wayne Community

"Silver Sneakers is covered by most health care. It covers membership to an exercise club," Wayne-Westland Parks and Recreation Director Nathan Adams said.

The Wayne Community Center exercise facilities began participating in Silver Sneakers on July 1.

"I had been trying to qualify for Silver Sneakers for many years. I think we got lucky," Adams said. 'Curves was a Silver Sneaker facility. The Curves in Wayne closed."

The community center offers many more amenities than a facility like Curves, Adams said.

"We're slowly hitting the market. For many years, we were not part of Silver Sneakers. I used to hear all the time, 'Why aren't you Silver Sneakers?'" said Adams, who expects enrollment to increase. Participants in Silver Sneakers are issued a membership card and the community center reports monthly on usage for reimbursement.

To determine their Silver Sneakers eligibility, seniors can visit the community center service desk, my.silversneakers.com or call 888-423-4632

In addition to Silver Sneakers, seniors can also get a subsidized recreation center membership through HAP Senior Plus or Alliance Medicare. Seniors who exercise at the center at least three times a week can get a $20 a month reimbursement.

Call HAP Senior Plus at 800-801-1770 or Alliance Medicare PPO at 888-658-2536.

If wintry weather is cutting into your walking or running routine, Wayne-Westland Parks and Recreation has a winter deal for you.

Special Winter Passes to the Wayne Community Center are being offered. The passes can be used through March 31. The cost is $25 for 10 passes or $30 for 15 passes for residents; or $35 for 10 passes or $40 for 15 passes for non-residents.

"It started out as a walking pass for people who walk or run outside," Wayne-Westland Parks and Recreation Director Nathan Adams said. "But we've added open swim and ice skating to appeal to a different demographic."

The Winter Passes are half the regular cost of a day pass, Adams said, and can be used as wanted until the expiration date March 31.

People can buy the passes for themselves, or as a gift of fitness, Adams said.

Pass users must be 16 years old to participate without an adult. Youngsters ages 11-15 years must be accompanied by adult. The passes allow use of the indoor walking/running track anytime, along with open

Combined dispatch

Earlier this year, a joint emergency dispatching center was opened at the Westland Police Department to serve Westland, Inkster, Wayne and Garden City.

Longer term, the Wayne-Westland Fire Department may transition into a Western Wayne Fire Department that could add Garden City along with Inkster into the department. City officials see it as a more cost-effective way to operate and offer enhanced services.

State funding was received to facilitate the Wayne-Westland merger making sure equipment was compatible and other needed transitions. Reddy said a merger with Inkster, if that moves forward, would also be expected to qualify for state money.

Student artist group holding holiday sale

By Sue Buck Staff Writer

A community of student artists is offering its first Student Art Sale at the Michigan Art Center in Garden City.

The sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6, and Friday, Dec. 13, at the center at 32129 Block.

"This will be the first of hopefully many holiday sales," said Mike Kuhn, owner and teacher. "April 15 will be our firstyear anniversary.'

Almost 40 students will display their artwork of ceramics, pottery and glass fusion. More than 300 pieces will be offered for sale. They range in price from about $5-$80. The majority are $20-$50.

The students will keep the proceeds minus 15 percent of the sale which will go to the center to cover some of the overhead.

"If they were selling things in a gallery, galleries charge 50 percent," Kuhn said.

The holiday sale is student driven.

"These students aren't beginners," Kuhn said. "This is beautifully and professionally made art. It's gorgeous. This is top quality stuff."

Some of the students have been practicing ceramics for more than 10 years, and "they have become quite accomplished at their art," Kuhn said.

Student work

Linda Worthington, a Livonia resident, created necklaces, ornaments and some leaf platters for the sale. Some of Worthington's work reflects her experiences when she lived in Africa. She returned to the area in 2012.

Her husband, Ben, an engineer for Ford Motor Company, was assigned to work at a plant in Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

Worthington brought her love of nature and time spent on about 40 safaris back to the United States in her memory and re-creation in her art and photography. She has a love of wild life and na-

Some of her ornaments are giraffes which she saw up close.

"We had lions and leopards and giraffes," she said. "It depends, where you went. The elephants were just outof-this-world beautiful. I'm still trying to develop some patterns with elephants."

Worthington studied the pottery in South Africa which she described as different because of the techniques used.

"Certain things are not as precise," she said.
"They use a lot of beading when they do their art work," she said.

Kuhn added that much of the African work is more rustic, and the residents push the pottery wheel with their feet.

Frank Florance, a Northville resident, is offering a lamp that he made for the sale.

"The base was thrown on a wheel," Florance said. "The parts in between, which are hexagon-shaped, were extrud-

Don Oakley, a Redford Township resident, will sell about 20 pieces of his artwork. He has vases, bowls and covered jars. He has also produced drums.

Jan Wilkiembyer, a Northville resident, especially enjoys making bowls. She also enjoys sharing them with guests. "Have a bowl," she tells them as they get to select their choice.

Shoppers who come to the student art sale can have a chance to try out the pottery wheel at the Michigan Art Center.

"We will give them a quick lesson and allow them to make something," Kuhn said.

Children also have a chance to enjoy an art project. For $5, they will be given a pendant and instructions on how to make a necklace for their mom or grandmother. The Michigan Art Center is at 32129 Block, north of Ford and west of Merriman. The center is the third and last building at the end of a driveway in a semi-industrial area.

Over 500 probationers pass court's random alcohol test

Forty-nine probationers will have to explain to the judges of Westland's 18th District Court why they failed to show up for random alcohol testing on Wednesday, Nov. 27.

In an effort to protect the public and ensure compliance with probation orders, 577 probationers were scheduled for the testing between 6-11:30 p.m. Those selected for the test were individuals who have been placed on probation for an alcohol-related offense and have a strict no-alcohol consumption clause in effect,

Gene Lemberg has launched an effort to raise funds for top-of-the-line wheelchairs for disabled veterans. He's pictured here leafing through a scrapbook from his years serving in the U.S. Army during the Korean War.

Disabled veterans get helping hand

By Aileen Wingblad Staff Writer

Our soldiers returning home from the battlefield paralyzed or missing limbs gave their best for us and deserve the same in return — but aren't getting it, says Gene Lemberg of Farmington Hills.

So now the 80-year-old Korean War veteran is determined to do something about it. His mission: Raise funds to equip disabled veterans with top-of-the-line wheelchairs to "give them not only respect, but to give them help."

"I think everybody is forgetting these guys,' Lemberg said, "That's not the way I was raised. That's not the America I knew.

Lemberg said he's "irked" — to put it mildly - when he sees on TV or reads newspaper articles about the number of U.S. military personnel who've suffered traumatic limb or spinal cord injuries, but aren't provided state-of-the-art mobility assistance.

For months, Lemberg said, he "mulled the thought in his head." but just recently decided to wheelchairs cost a minimum of $15,000 and get pricier as they are customized to accommodate a user's specific dis-

But that's nothing compared to what the disabled soldier has given, he said.

Seeking support

To drum up support --and perhaps resources --Lemberg is reaching out to state politicians, members of the U.S. Congress, business owners, friends, associates and others to contribute to the effort.

He's also establishing a partnership with Paralyzed Veterans of American in Novi, a nonprofit 501(c)3. That way, funds collected will go into a special account created by PVA and will be taxdeductible.

So far he's received plenty of positive feedback on his idea. Now, he has to put a plan into action. Along with monetary contributions, he's also seeking assistance from people who will spread the word and help market and promote the fundraising effort through social media and other avenues.

people, you're going to find people to step for-ward and help. If we end up only getting one wheelchair, than at least that's one veteran that is being helped," he said. Lemberg said he was fortunate not to see military action while serving in the U.S. Army during the Korean War and to come back home without injury. But to know that others have suffered a different fate, and then don't receive the best equipment, care and assistance possible; is something he just can't let go.

"This (raising funds)
is about the only thing I can do — and to get it out there," he said. "There are a lot of veterans, people with veterans in their family, retirees who are personally touched by this. If I get it all to click, I don't see how this can miss.'

Michael Harris, PVA executive director, said while Lemberg's plan is still in the early stages, it's a good one. Providing disabled vets with an Active Track chair whether given to an individual or making it available for shared use at a recreational site, for example — can be instrumental in helping them get back to activities they loved before they were injured.
"It shows them there is life after disability, and that they can again lead a enjoy the outdoors," Harris said.

Annual parade welcomes Santa to Garden City

Mother Nature provided a beautiful day for the crowds that gathered along Ford and Middle-belt on Saturday morning for the 53rd annual Downtown Garden City Santaland Parade.

"The streets were lined with people," Garden City Councilwoman Jaylee Lynch said.
She congratulated

everyone who was involved with the Santa-land Parade at Monday's city council meeting.

"Every year, it seems to get better and better," Lynch said.

The parade also had some new floats this year, said Councilwoman Patricia Squires, who for years has also served on the Santaland Parade Committee.

Several floats took honors and were presented plaques. Garden City Hospital took first place. Athletic Association, known as GCYAA, took second place and Rockstarz was the third-place winner. The parade kicked off at 10 a.m., led by two grand marshals — 89-year-old World War II veteran George Leland of Garden City and 2014 Miss Michigan USA Elizabeth Ivezajv.

Leland received six bronze battle stars during World War II while serving his country and Ivezajv is a contestant in the 2014 Miss USA pag-

The parade started at Garden City High School and traveled south on Middlebelt to Ford before ending at the site of the Farmers Market in the Garden City Town Center parking lot, where the Garden City Downtown Development Authority held its annual post-parade event.

Entertainment, hot chocolate and other goodies was provided by Rockstarz and their sister business Nom Nom's Cupcake Factory of Westland. Kids had the opportunity to spend time with Santa and give him their Christmas lists. Santa also received the key to the city from Mayor Randy Walker.

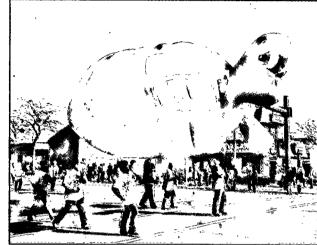

The parade featured ing bands from Garden City, Livonia Franklin and Taylor Kennedy high schools, as well as the Taylor Shiners Tin Lizzies, the American Le-gion Riders, the Redford Township Unicycle Club, Harmony Acres Arabian Parade Horses and two giant parade balloons carried by the Garden City Cougars varsity football team and Bethel Community Church.

Irish dancers get into step at Redford AOH

By Beth Jachman Staff Writer

You don't have to have the luck of the Irish or even be Irish to learn

Irish dancing. Especially after the popularity of Riverdance and Lord of the Dance, people of all nationalities are interested in learning the traditional steps, according to John Heinzman of the Ardan Academy of Irish Dance which holds classes lo-

Classes are offered on Tuesday evenings at Redford's Ancient Order of Hibernians location on Five Mile east of Beech Daly.

Heinzman, who began dancing at age 5, has been teaching dance in Redford for 15 years as he also taught at the old AOH building at Seven Mile and Grand River. The AOH bought the Five Mile location from the Knights of Columbus about a year ago.

The AOH in Redford offers a brand-new step dancing class, which is an intricate form of Irish dance made popular in Riverdance and Lord of the Dance and it requires a good deal of athleticism and footwork, Heinzman said.

Currently, three boys ages 5, 6 and 10 are in the step class, Heinzman

About 20 people attend the adult ceili folk dancing class, which is country dancing that has been going on in Ireland as far back as there is recorded history, Heinzman said.

"It originally told the history of the Irish people," he said.

The local classes had been in flux during the transition to the new building.

The kids step dancing class was moved to the Taylor location and the Ceili class went to downtown Detroit temporarily, Heinzman said.

Back in Redford

But now the classes are back in Redford.

The new location is an improvement, Heinzman said, calling it nice and clean and well-maintained. "It's larger than the old location and a much nicer building," he said.

His mom, Kitty Heinzman, teaches ceili classes. Ceili is primarily an adults class made up of people in their 50s. 60s and 70s. Ceili has far less impact than step dancing.

Step dancing is more athletic, and attracts younger people, but Heinzman said he works with one step dancer who is nearly 60.

Before Riverdance in the 1990s, this type of dancing only attracted the Irish and those of Irish descent. Also only eight countries sent teams to participate in the world championships, but since Riverdance roughly 40 countries participate, Heinzman said.

The Ardan Academy of Irish Dance has grown to more than 10 locations throughout Michigan, Ohio, and Ontario, Canada.

Teaches all over

Heinzman himself teaches in Michigan, Ohio and Canada and also teaches private lessons for those looking to refine their skills.

His school teaches both recreational and competitive dance. Some dancers take classes just once a week while others take them up to six days a week. "It depends on how much they are willing to invest in their classes and their training," Heinzman said.

This weekend, the school is hosting the regional championships in Grand Rapids, which draws about 4,000 from all over the Midwest. Events include step dance, ceili dancing, teacher choreography and dance drama.

'In our school we make a very big effort to merge the generations young people, middle age people and older people," he said, as they put on events such as dances and a Christmas

Get your Michigan food fix with Mitten Crate

By Nathan Mueller Staff Writer

ROYAL OAK - Andrew Chmielewski and Cory Wright have traveled all over Michigan and tasted some of the best food products the state has to

But one thing they noticed on their travels is the items they found in different regions of the state were restricted to that area.

'We noticed a lot of great small products but it's really regionalized," Chmielewski said. "Unless you are within that 30-mile radius, it was hard to find new prod-

The two Royal Oak residents then put their heads together to come up with an idea that would not only give consumers across the state the ability to try food products they are missing out on, but also open up avenues for the small business owners that create these products to expand their Mitten Crate, which models the subscription box service, started in August and in just three months sales have tripled. They sold 60 boxes in the first month and are expecting to do more than 350 for December.

Each month subscribers receive a box of four-to-six Michiganmade, artisan foods from around the state. A subscription is $35 per month including shipping and handling, but single boxes also can be purchased for $35 and a $7 flat rate shipping fee. Boxes also can be shipped out of state, with Wright noting that about 30 percent of sales so far have come from outside Michigan.

Chmielewski said the value of the box is between $40-$45, and the items and theme change every month.

It's also a surprise, as the food products are not announced in advance.

"Primarily, 99 percent of the time, it is going to be filled with products from companies people have never heard of," Chmielewski said. "And that is the fun part.'

Wright said the goals of Mitten Crate are to showcase great Michigan products and have a positive impact on the community.

"Our main focus is for small producers to get as much exposure as possible," he said.

Mitten Crate also has formed a partnership with Gleaners Community Food Bank where money donated from every box sold accounts for three meals for people in need. The business donated almost 900 meals last month.

"This is your commitment to Michigan if you will," Chmielewski said. "We love this place and we are proud to help people be a part of that."

Chmielewski and Wright also will be guest bartenders at the Bartending for Gleaners event on Dec. 19 at Lily's Seafood in downtown Royal Oak. All tips and auction proceeds will go to Gleaners Community Food Bank.

In addition to pledging their dollars to help those in need, many also pledge their time by helping hand pack personal items, which are then delivered to local area senior citizens in need.

"It's heartwarming to see our senior residents so passionate about helping their less fortunate peers," said Rob Gillette, chief operating officer of American House. "Age is not a barrier — they still want to do their part to make an impact in the community.

Oakwood helps people understand, enroll in marketplace

With the deadline for the initial Affordable Care Act (ACA) enrollment period rapidly approaching, Oakwood Healthcare is doing its best to help the uninsured get the answers they want and the insurance they need.

The healthcare system is hosting two community education forums and enrollment opportunities Monday, Dec. 9, at Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center in Dearborn, where Gov. Rick Snyder signed the Medicaid Expansion bill earlier this year.

Called "Understanding the Health Insurance Marketplace," the seminars are a cooperative effort among Oakwood, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, Enroll America and the ACCESS Community Health and Research Center, which is based in Dearborn.

There will also be opportunities to meet with navigators to enroll in insurance coverage to be effective in 2014. The sessions will take place from 2-3 p.m. and 6-7 p.m. "It's really about education,

"It's really about education, not just enrollment," said Adnan Hammad, director of ACCESS. "Our community at large lacks information, lacks knowledge of what the Affordable Care Act is all about."

Part of that is due to misconceptions and a general lack of understanding in media reports. Additional confusion was caused when healthcare-.gov crashed soon after it "went live" in mid-October and was plagued with glitches. Those issues have since been fixed.

Erin Knott, director of Enroll America for Michigan, said she shared the frustrations of consumers and promised they would soon be a thing of the

"Each day we're getting reports that there have been improvements," Knott said. "We're encouraging people to be patient, to keep trying."

"We understand that there are a lot of questions about this process," said Mary Zatina, senior vice president of government relations and corporate communications for Oakwood. "We want to make ourselves available, like we always have, as a resource where the community can get those answers. Improving access to quality health care is what we are all about."

In order to have coverage in January, interested consumers must enroll by Dec. 23. Knott said that, despite the initial challenges, the Affordable Care Act would be a historic benefit for about 1 million uninsured and underinsured people in Michigan.

"The Affordable Care Act is much more than just a website," Knott said. "The ACA brings unprecedented improvements in many aspects of health care, including insurance reforms that make exclusions for pre-existing conditions a thing of the past. Women will no longer pay higher premiums than men. And all of the plans in the marketplace now must provide 10 essential benefits some of which were only available for the more generous coverage plans."

Oakwood has also dedicated a Web page to the Affordable Care Act: www.oakwood.org/affordable-care-act. The page includes, among other information, a subsidy calculator consumers can use to determine how much assistance they qualify for.

LOCAL NEWS - - ?

The Detroit Zoological Society is dreaming of a green Christmas ... and Hanukkah ... and Kwanzaa by incorporating elements of its Greenprint sustainability plan into Detroit Zoo events and operations this holiday season.

After nearly a decade, the Zoo has brought back Wild Lights, a holiday light display featuring more than 2 million LED lights on buildings, animal sculptures and trees. The event had become too costly and was not energy efficient to run; however, the increased use of LEDs on holiday lighting has provided an eco-friendly alternative. A 100-bulb string of traditional lights uses the same electricity as 42 100-bulb strings of LED lights.

"We're very excited to bring back Wild Lights and even more so to do it in a green way," said Ron Kagan, DZS executive director and CEO.

The LED lights will illuminate trees, buildings and animal sculptures on a half-mile trail through the front of the Zoo. Wild Lights will be held Dec. 6-8, 13-15, 20-23, 26-30, 2013; and Jan. 2-5, 2014. The event will begin at 5:30 p.m. and will remain open until 9 p.m. weeknights and Sundays and 10 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Cost is $8 per person. in advance and $10 at the gate for ages 2 and up (under 2 free); parking is $5 per car. Tickets are available online or at the main admissions gate.

In addition, the Detroit Zoo has recycled and refurbished many of the light sculptures from previous Wild Lights. The Zoo last held the event in 2004.

Service Systems Associates - operator of concessions and retail services at the Detroit Zoo — is using ecofriendly products and sustainable solutions in its holiday catering and retail operations. Holiday decorations - including animal-shaped ornaments made from recycled materials and one filled with wildflower seeds to be planted after the holidays . are available at Zoofari Market as well as Santa's Tov Box in the Ford Education Center during

Wild Lights.
The DZS's animal care staff utilizes recycled materials such as boxes, bags, wrapping paper rolls and other items for holiday enrichment for the animals. In addition, unused, untreated Christmas trees are provided for the bears and great apes, who enjoy eating, tossing, carrying and rolling the trees.

The Detroit Zoological Society offers these tips for keeping the holidays green at home:

» Use LED lights instead of traditional

» In lieu of buying decorations, deck the halls with natural materials such as gourds, branches and berries.

» Purchase locally sourced food and produce for holiday meals, and compost scraps such as vegetable and fruit peels, coffee grounds and eggshells.

» Take reusable bags for holiday shopping.

» Combine errands into one trip to reduce emissions.

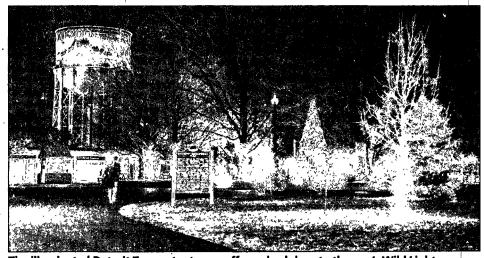

» Send holiday greetings electronically.

» Reuse ribbons, bows and wrapping pa-per, or make wrappings with magazines, newspapers or cloth.

» Give something green that will last the whole year, such as a plant or seeds.

The Greenprint is the DZS's plan to refine and improve daily practices and facilities, develop new policies and programs and improve green literacy in the community. To learn more, visit detroitzoo.org/about/ greenprint.

Don't let discounts drive your credit card decisions

've noticed when paying for a purchase, the cashier asks about signing up for the store's charge card. As an enticement, a discount ranging from 5 to 20 percent is offered on the initial purchase.

Although I am a believer that wherever you can save money you should, I'm not so sure it makes sense in many situations to sign up for these charge cards. Yes, you are saving some money but, in the long run, it can cost you. now good are these store charge cards? Typically, these types of charge cards carry higher interest rates than a major charge card. In addition, the grace period (the period you have to pay your bill without paying interest) is sometimes not as long as with other charge cards. Store cards are generally not as consumer-friendly as other charge cards.

Some people sign up for any charge card they can in order to take advantage of the discounts. This sounds like a good strategy, but it can backfire. Whenever you apply for credit, it adversely

Credit score

Taking a hit on a credit score can be costly, particularly if you are planning to refinance a home or apply for a car loan. In addition, it is important to recognize that in today's world, credit scores can be used for more than just obtaining credit. Auto insurance companies use them to set rates and employers are beginning to use credit scores when it comes to hiring.

Credit cards are an important financial instrument. Obtaining a new charge card should not be a spur-of-the-moment decision.

Every so often, consumers need to review their charge cards to make sure they have the right ones for their individual situation. How many charge cards do you need? I don't know. However, it is important to recognize that not all charge cards are the same. Not only can interest rates be different, but in addition, such things as grace periods, annual fees and rewards you receive can all be significantly different.

Selecting the right card depends on how you use your charge card. For example, if you pay vour bill on time, then the interest rate is not as much a factor as is the grace period. If you carry a balance, the interest rate is more important tnan tne grace period. The bottom line - having . the right charge card can be a money saver.

As you continue your holiday shopping and every store in town offers you a charge card, my advice is, ignore them. I recognize that savings can be significant: however, having the wrong charge card can cost substantially more. Good luck.

Citizens input needed to help solve Wayne's fiscal woes

Last month, Wayne residents let their voices be heard at the ballot box. A majority of those who voted in the November general election said no to paying more in taxes to fund a police and fire retirement plan.

Facing a projected $2 million revenue short-fall in the 2014-1015 budget year, city officials had hoped voters would understand that shifting pension costs to Public Act 345 pension plan and using a tax levy of up to 7 mills to fund it, would free up money to preserve city services.

Even the specter of a possible bankruptcy and an emergency manager wasn't enough to squeeze out a yes vote. Residents looked in their wallets and decided enough is enough. More and more of the costs for such things as road repairs and street lighting, have been shifted to them. They see the amount of taxes levied at a level that has them worried about their impact the day property values begin to rebound.

The vote should not be construed as residents not caring about their community. It's obvious they do. It's an indication of the effect the protracted economic downturn has had on them. Like the city, they, too, are being squeezed financially. Job loss, stagnating wages and escalating costs have them strug-

But by saying no, they now leave city officials with the task of finding ways to cut expenses to address the revenue loss. Certainly spending can be curbed for the remainder of the current fiscal year, but that savings will be small in comparison to what needs to be done.

The city council is taking the first step toward addressing the problem by holding a study session Dec. 10 to reach a consensus on the process going forward. They also plan to hold a series of town hall meetings to gather public input on the financial crisis.

Residents had their say in November, but they need to say more. They need to become an active participant in resolving the city's fiscal problem. That no vote isn't the end, it's the Residents need to speak up about what it is they want and about what it is they're willing to give up to save their city. And they need to be realistic. There is no longer room in the budget for everything, something has to give.

We believe residents need to get involved in the process. Government in this country is of the people, for the people and by the people. Now is the time for that happen in the City of Wayne.

Vigil a tremendous source of support

Chances are, even if you haven't lost a child suddenly, you know someone who has.

If you're looking for a way to support those parents - or to just help others facing something you'd hate to face – Sunday's Candlelight Vigil conducted by the Compassionate Friends' Western Wayne County Chapter would be a good way to do it.

The vigil, meant to honor children lost too soon, starts at 7 p.m. in Kellogg Park in down-town Plymouth. Families will gather near memory trees specially decorated with the names of children who have died too

The event features poetry readings, songs and the reading of names of children (to register your child, call 734-778-0800 or email tcfcandlelight@yahoo.com). There are trees bearing ornaments honoring the children and the event fills Kellogg Park every year.

Another merger?

The city of Wayne has a financial problem. The city of Westland doesn't, thanks to Mayor William Wild's campaigns to consolidate the fire, recreation and emergency services for the two adjoining cities.

Gov. Rick Snyder and his administration have been campaigning for three years to make local governments more efficient.

Why shouldn't Mayor Wild go one step further and have the state (or a private management consulting company) study the merger of two cities? There are lots of pluses and few nega-

First, the new name would be, simply, Wayne-Westland, just like the name of the school district. In this way, no one's community ego would be bruised.

Second, Westland would gain the two large Ford plants.

Third, Wayne would gain Westland Shopping Center and the adjoining retail business proper-Fourth, it makes no sense for separate city governments when one has a population of an estimated 85,000 and the other has only 20,000.

Gov. Snyder recently signed a Republicansponsored bill under the heading Tax Break Legis-lation. Under the bill, any car sold in Michigan that has a trade in, the 6 percent sales tax would not be applied to the value of the trade-in up to $2,000 or a "tax break" of $120.

I think everyone would appreciate spending less for a new car, but in the long term this legislation ative effect.

In Michigan, a major portion of our school budget comes from the sales taxes generated. The potential loss of $120 for each car sold will surely cause yet another reduction in public school funding. What have the legislators offered as a replacement for the short fall? You guessed it nothing. There has been a lot of talk about the need to improve school fund-. ing yet what is about to happen is another round of reductions in per-pupil funding. You cannot expect a reduction in a funding source to result in an increase in educaPerhaps the so-called "tax break" legislation will be used, by the candidates, as reason to gain your support for their next election bid.

hether the reason was for allegations of a pending legal case regarding the way the Legislature behaved during the 2012 lame duck session (violating the Open Meetings Act by locking people out of the Capitol) finally being heard or trying to protect Governor Snyder's "NERD Fund" from any challenges, the Republicans railroaded through at lightning speed Senate Bill 652, which completely removes the Court of Claims from the 30th Judicial Circuit Court and places exclusive jurisdiction within the Michigan Court of Ap-

This move stacks the courts in the Republicans' favor and would allow them to quickly pass controversial legislation, obtain a governor's signature, and create laws without constitutional concerns or even receiving a hearing. This includes many claims, demands, and counterclaims against the state or any of its departments, commissions, board, institutions, arms or agencies and puts undue burdens on people filing Freedom of Information Act or Open Meetings Act claims against the state.

Republicans claim this bill brings fairness to the judicial system by having this heard in a court where the judges are all elected by the citizens of Michigan instead of a court with county-elected judges. But this is blatant move by the Republicans to rig the judicial system against the people allowing a political party in power (currently Republicans dominate all three branches of government) to hand-pick the judges who hear cases against the State of Michigan. This move stacks the Court of Claims in the Republicans' favor, making it harder for citizens to hold our government accountable for its actions or misactions.

Whether Republican or Democrat, we are all elected to serve by people who hope and pray that we will protect and uphold their constitutional rights. Everyone should be allowed a fair process through the judicial system. This bill makes a mockery of our constitutional designated separation of powers by allowing the Legislature to meddle in the affairs of the court. The Republicans, by passing this strictly on party lines, scream the message to citizens that we will make it difficult for citizens to hold their government accountable.

I came up to Lansing to address real issues facing our great state. Not once have I had anyone say to me that we need to remove the Court of Claims, a trier of fact and original jurisdiction, and place exclusive jurisdiction with the Michigan Court of Appeals. This was a self-serving act that will diminish the public's faith in government, our judicial system, and lead many around the state to believe that corruption doesn't just lie within the City of Detroit and Wayne County's borders, but instead has spread like a poisonous rash over our great state.

Working families can't afford another shutdown-style crisis

The shutdown cost 120,000 jobs in the first two weeks of October and will reduce economic growth by at least 0.25 percent in the fourth quarter.

And here in Michigan it directly impacted 27,693 federal workers.

Thankfully, reason prevailed, Republican leaders relented and Congress appointed negotiators to work on a new budget agreement.

Now it's on to the next fight in Washington. But before we get caught up in another news cycle where extremists convince us we shouldn't invest in our future, it is worth noting that a congressional budget is a vision. It is a blueprint that outlines our priorities as a na-

As Democrats and Republicans, including Rep. Bentivolio, spend this month negotiating how to avoid another government shutdown. it is important to remind Washington politicians about what working families need.

The recovery is still being dragged down by the repeated budget crises manufactured by Republicans in Congress. Budget austerity in the tea party Congress has already slowed annual economic growth by 0.7 percent, cost 1.2 million jobs, and increased the unemployment rate by 0.8 percent, according to Macroeconomic Advisers.

First, Congress should repeal the sequester it created, not replace it. The sequester's arbitrary acrossthe-board cuts have hurt everything from education to child care to medical research.

Repealing the sequester would generate 800,000 jobs by this time next year, according to the Congressional Budget Office (CBO). The next budget should undo this painful damageand not replace it with other harmful cuts.

Most importantly policymakers in Washington must reject proposals to cut Social Security, Medicaid, or should avoid deficit hysteria promoted by billionaires and the 1 percent. Instead of terrifying our parents and grandparents with threats to cut Social Security and Medicare benefits they've earned, politicians should protect these vital programs that have shielded the elderly and vulnerable from poverty for generations. Our nation's safety net should be strengthened, not weakened, because working people need more economic security, not less.

Instead, Congress should look to raise new revenue by repealing the tax subsidies that encourage corporations to send jobs overseas and ending special tax breaks for the wealthiest Americans. When the average CEO's salary for the first morning on the job is the same amount the average worker makes in a year, it's clear that the wealthiest Americans and corporations making record profits can pay their fair share.

Ending undeserved and wasteful tax breaks would allow us to invest in our workforce and create the well-paying jobs millions so desperately need. By rebuilding our infrastructure. education, and manufacturing base, we can create good jobs with good benefits and provide relief to our struggling working and middle class.

Time to clean up 'dark money' haunting politics

hree weeks ago, before the political life of Michigan got interrupted for important things (Thanksgiving, turkey, football) we were treated to a bombshell from Secretary of State Ruth John-

Responding to a request by the State Bar of Michigan to require public disclosure of donors who sponsor millions in so-called "issue ads" in judicial elections, Johnson (a GOP officeholder elected in 2010) proposed to issue a new rule outlawing anonymous spending on all political ads, whether or not they actually use words of express advocacy - vote for, vote against, and so forth. That shook up her Republican colleagues, big-time. The very next day - after an emergency sudden closed-door recess — the Republicandominated Committee on Local Government and Elections committee adopted, without any public discussion, a bill that would gut Johnson's proposed reporting requirement.

The full Senate, more than two-thirds of whose members are also Republican, agreed within less than 24 hours — remarkable speed for a normally "deliberative" body. Money has long been recognized to be the mother's milk of politics. and it is clear that many of those feeding are unwilling to be weaned. A top state elected Republican official gets slapped down by an alarmed Republican-dominated state Senate.

What will House do?

The question now is: Will the Michigan House of Representatives still Republican, but by a much narrower margin - pass this bill? And if they do ... will Snyder sign or veto it?

In a column published . Nov. 24 in Bridge Magazine, Rich Robinson, executive director of the nonpartisan, nonprofit Michigan Campaign Finance Network, asserted that "The statistical truth is that Michigan has become swamped by dark mon-

By "dark money," Robinson means anonymous contributions to the astounding number and variety of political advocacy organizations. including: candidate committees, party election committees, 501(c)3 and 501(c)4 nonprofit committees

What is indisputable is that we certainly live in an era when a ton of money - we simply don't know how much - that is spent on elections comes without any public dis-closure. And that, in turn, opens the door to all kinds of citizen skepticism about who in the dark of night is paying for all that political campaigning. You don't have to be very sophisticated to know they expect something for it.

Lansing wags immediately labeled the Senate bill designed to stop Ruth Johnson the "vampire amendment," since vampires do their bloody business in the dark of night.

Fixing the problem

As long as millions of dollars in dark money is sloshing around Michigan - much of it from anonymous, out-of-state donors - most citizens are perfectly justified in figuring that the only reason to keep this stuff secret is that something corrupt or scandalous is going on. And the only way to fix this problem is to require public disclosure for all campaign contributions.

For years and years, we've heard argument after argument about campaign contribution limits and reporting. At both the federal and state level, well-intentioned reformers keep making various proposals to tighten up the rules.

Solving the campaign contribution problem is simply not going to be done by adopting ever tighter and more prescriptive rules; the candidates, their advisers and the sharpies who want to finance them are much smarter and much, much more nimble than any rule-making public body.

The real solution is very simple: Take all limits off any campaign contribution of any sort finishing a process the U.S. Supreme Court started in its Citizens United decision in January 2010.

But in return, require immediate public disclosure of all contributions — something the nation's highest court also said was perfectly acceptable. Only if we do that will we clean up the secret dark money mess that has haunted Michigan politics for decades.

John Glenn's Brandon still fueled after finals defeat

Grappler plans on making amends during senior year

> By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn's Jordon Brandon doesn't know where he'd be today without wrestling.

"I didn't like school a lot, then wrestling came and I found something I was actually good at," said Brandon, who was the Division 1 state runner-up last year at 215 pounds. "That's how I was going to get through school. If it wasn't for wrestling I wouldn't get through school. It gave me something to do in life." gave me something to do in life."

As a senior linebacker and guard this fall, Brandon also excelled on the football field as he helped the Rockets to a 6-4 record and a berth in the Division 1 play-

He was the team's captain and play caller on defense where he led Glenn with 62 solo tackles, 49 assists and three fumble recoveries.

And although Brandon likes football, wrestling is where it's at for the senior, who has compiled a 103-21 record in his three varsity seasons.
"He's definitely one of the most talented, athletic, big guys that I've ever seen," Glenn wrestling coach Bill Polk said. "Usually you don't get heavier guys that are that fast, that athletic in some of the things that they do. He's got a lot very good natural ability.

"He's very mentally tough. When he was younger he was figuring things out, but the last couple years he's really been determined and dedicated himself 110 percent to his sport, so I think the results will be good this year."

Brandon's freshman year could only be described as going through proverbial

"School of Hard Knocks."
"I was off the tracks," Brandon admitted. "I used to fight all the time. I fought people on the street a lot. I stopped fighting and got into wrestling.
This and football, this is what it did."

Brandon was encouraged by Glenn assistant wrestling coach Eric Schambers to give wrestling a shot. He also followed in the footsteps of his older brother Jesse, who was member of the Rockets' squad last year and graduated last June. "Coach Schambers was the football coach my freshman year and he's another one who told me I should wrestle," Brandon said. "My grades were bad my fresh-

Franklin grappler Jordan Atienza, who went 58-1 a year ago, will start the season at 171 pounds.

Pats' Atienza hunts for an elusive prize

Franklin wrestler returning for senior year after going 58-1

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

When he's away from the wrestling mat, Jordan Atienza calls himself a "big outdoorsman."

But make no mistake, the senior from Livonia Franklin who loves to hunt and fish has other bigger targets on his mind.

Atienza, who enter his senior year with a 159-18 career record, nearly reeled in a Division 1 state title at 152 pounds last March at the Palace of Auburn Hills, only to suffer his first loss in 59 matches when he was pinned by Clarkston's Nick Vandermeer 17 seconds into the third period.

"Last year, no doubt in my mind, I wanted to be a state champion," Atienza said. "When you think about something like that all year long, and it's the only thing going through your head during practice, and you come up short, it hurts a lot. I was real down for a week after the state tournament. I was real upset with myself, disappointed ... that just turned into more fuel to win it this year. That's what is really driving me ... coming up short is what is keeping me going to win a state title for this year."

Franklin coach Dave Chiola has coached a number of All-State wrestlers in his 14 seasons, but Atienza has separated himself from the rest.

"He's got a great work ethic, but I mean he's also constant," Chiola said. "He puts another full season in the off season. If you come up with how many practices he goes to and how many matches he gets ... this is basically his eighth season at Franklin. He does so much on his own and he just has a helluva work ethic. There's nothing where you can teach that."

And it's Atienza's leadership qualities which also make him unique.

"Other than the best wrestler I've probably ever had, he's also the best captain,' Chiola said. "He really commands so much respect from the other wrestlers. He runs the practice, he runs the pre-meet warmups . he's like another coach on the team. I feel I should pay him. He does everything. And he's a nice kid, too. He's got just enough cockiness as a good wrestler needs to have, but he's pretty humble when everything is stripped away. He's a pretty good kid."

Atienza had a busy off season wrestling for a Michigan team in a dual meet tournament last May in Virginia Beach, Va., along with a freestyle event in Fargo, N.D.

But his summer was interrupted when he injured the bursae in both knees, which ballooned to the size of softballs. He missed nearly six weeks before returning to the Super 32s in Greensboro, N.C., earlier this fall as a 160-pounder.
Atienza viewed it only as a minor set-

"Little injuries like that you can't let get in the way of the big picture," Atienza said.

R'Mani and India (Glaspie-Perdue) being seniors really, really went out there and played their hearts out. We just got to get in the gym and get better. We got a late start. Kimble gets new award

Grand Valley State senior defender Kayla Kimble (Livonia Stevenson) was recently named the 2013 Daktronics Midwest Region Player of the Year.

Kimble, who was also named the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Defensive Player of the Year this season, helped the Lakers' backline post 20 shutouts, including 13 straight to start the year, which is the second longest streak in NCAA Division II history.

She has been the clear-cut leader of a defense that has yielded just three goals and held nine opponents to four shots or less.

This is the third time Kimble has been a Daktronics All-Midwest Region selection.

The Lakers (22-0-1), coming off a 2-1 win over Minnesota-Duluth, is making its fifth straight appearance in the NCAA Division II Final Four where they'll face American International in Thursday's semifinal in Evans Park, Ga.

Cranes stymie Stevenson's top line

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Livonia Stevenson suffered its first hockey setback of the season Saturday as host Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook won its own tournament in a battle of state powers at Wallace Arena.

The Cranes, who improved 5-0 overall, took a 2-1 first period lead on goals by Boston College commit Christopher Brown (from Miami of Ohio commit Austin Alger and Jack Blumberg at 4:42 followed by Blumberg's power play goal at 10:11 from Brown and Alger.

Stephen Olschanski tallied the Spartans' long goal from Ray Chartier at 5:56 into the first to make it 1-1.

After a scoreless second period, Cranbrook put it away on Alger's goal from Blumberg and Brown at 12:26.

Cranes goaltender Spencer Applebaum made 25 saves, while Stevenson's Andrew Rozenbaum had 29 saves.

"It was a very high tempo, skilled high school hockey game for sure," Stevenson coach David Mitchell said.

Cranbrook has some great high end players and are extremely well coached and prepared. I thought we skated with them and we definitely had some chances, putting a few off goal posts. We had a few breakdowns and they capitalized.

Cranbrook outshot the Spartans, 32-26, and kept Stevenson's Production Line of Dominic Lutz, Devin Kelly and

Tyler Irvine off the board. The Cranes, defending Division 3 state champions, boast three NCAA Division 1 commits on their squad including Brown, Alger and Sam Miletic (University of Michigan).

"They put the three of them together and played them against the Irvine, Lutz and Kelly line ... it was a great matchup for sure," Mitchell said. "We hit goal posts with Lutz having two or three himself and missed open nets. Their goalie, as did ours, played well. It was a real exciting, high-level high school hockey game."

The defeat drops the Spartans, the defending Division 2 state champions, to 4-1 overall.

"Not thrilled with loss, but was a solid experience for our players and program," Mitchell said. "We thank Cranbrook for having us in their tournament and look forward attending again in future seasons."

COMMUNITY-MINDED WHALERS

At Saturday's annual "Teddy Bear Toss," cuddly stuffed toys such as these will be launched onto the Compuware Arena ice.

Teddy Bear Toss on deck for Whalers fans

When the Plymouth Whalers host the Guelph Storm 7 p.m. Saturday at Compuware Arena, they'll be asking fans to bring a furry little friend along to help support a great cause.

Saturday is the Whalers 14th annual Teddy Bear Toss. The first time the Whalers score in the contest, fans are encouraged to throw their stuffed animals on to the ice.

Once the stuffed animals are collected, Plymouth Community United Way will find great homes for the comforting toys.

Last season, Plymouth left wing Matt Mistele scored at 11:21 of the first period to trigger the rain of stuffed animals out of the crowd and onto the ice surface.

After the Whalers' most successful Teddy Bear Toss last season, Plymouth is enlisting the help of WDIV's Chuck Gaidica and local corporate sponsor Family Heating Cooling & Electrical Inc. to try to top last season's Teddy Bear

"We're always very excited and a little anxious to see the first Whalers goal," said Dawn Frey, senior vice president of advertising for Family Heating, Cooling & Electrical Inc. "But when the stuffed animals come raining down, there's nothing but smiles in the building."

When fans arrive at the game, they'll be invited to purchase one of Gaidica's Cuddle Alert Bears for just $5 to throw on the ice. They also have the option to bring a new stuffed animal to the game.

Saturday's game is also Plymouth's 11th annual Salute to Heroes Night. Veterans and current armed forces members will receive a complimentary ticket (with ID), while family members can purchase tickets for $10.

Tickets are still available on www.plymouthwhalers.com, or call the Plymouth Whalers box office at 734-453-8400. Military and their families are encouraged to call the box office early for tickets.

"The main goal is to win a state title. Nothing can deter me from that."

Atienza, who was born in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, comes from a wrestling family. His father, Armand, wrestled along with his uncle Audie Atienza, who was an Ohio prep champion in 1989 before going on to compete at Edinboro (Pa.) University.

He also has a younger brother Nathan, a freshman at Franklin, who will wrestling at 125 and 130. 'He's going to be good," Jordan predicts of his middle brother. Not only has he mentored Nathan along the way, he's always there for his teammates in the Franklin wrestling room as well.

Jordan takes on the responsibility with open arms.

"I feel the guys learn a lot from me and I'm a good motivator and I just feel like they want to work hard when they hear me say something," he said. "I feel I not only make myself better in here, but everyone else better and I think that's what sets me apart.'

Franklin opens the season Saturday at the Rocket Duals hosted by Westland John Glenn. The individual state finals are Feb. 27-March 1 at the Palace, and Atienza certainly has those dates circled on his calendar.

The ultimate goal is to get to the finals and pull in that big fish. 'Mental toughness is the big thing," Atienza said. "I've got all the tools to be great, just a matter of putting it together in my head."

So what lies in store in a year from now?

Atienza, who carries a 3.4 grade point average with his favorite subjects being A.P. English and language arts, has other aspirations. He'd also like to bag an athletic scholarship.

"Wrestling at a Division I university, don't know where, though," he said. "I want to win a state title first, then figure out where I'm going to wrestle. University of Michigan would be real cool."

man year, so I was ineligible.. That's why I only had nine matches. That's why I was 5-4. I wasn't the best my freshman year.'

Brandon got his act together his sophomore year and thrived, going 43-12.

But he even had a better junior year going 55-5 overall and reaching to the state finals at 215, only to lose a controversial 5-4 overtime decision to season-long nemesis Brandon Sunday of Temperance Bedford last March at the Palace of Auburn Hills. Jordon Brandon was up 3-2 with only 10 seconds remaining in regulation when he was penalized a point for stalling in the championship match.

The one-point setback motivates the Glenn grappler to this day.

"I think about it a lot," Brandon said. "If I could have rolled him ... if I could have ridden him that last 30 seconds, it would have been a lot different. I fuels me. I don't like to lose. I refuse to lose."

Brandon, who bench presses 250 pounds and squats 550, traveled all over the eastern half of the U.S. during the off season going to tournaments.

"The way that whole thing happened it really put a bad taste in everyone's mouth and Jordon took it personal and basically he said, 'I'm not going to let it happen again," Polk said. "He was finding every tournament, every team and traveling all over the place all summer long, which we encourage all our kids to do. Sometimes I didn't know where he was.'

Competing in the 220pound class at the Junior Olympics held last July at Detroit's Cobo Arena, Brandon went 14-1.

He finished 79-3 overall for the summer with two of his losses coming in freestyle, while another came against Michael Boykins (Coatesville, Pa.) one of the nation's topranked prep wrestlers and the Class AAA Pennsylvania state champion at 220 pounds.

The 5-foot-10 Brandon played football at 242 pounds and will wrestle this season as a heavyweight until he gets down to 215. Right now, he tips the scales at 230.

"We'll try and put him against the best kids 215 or heavyweight all year long, Polk said. "He wrestled all summer long and pretty much wrestled all the best talent in the country, so we've got to try and maintain that the best

FIRST TEAM Katie Tomasic, Sr. OH, Liv. Stevenson: The 6-foot-1 outside hitter, who has signed with Miami of Ohio, made first-team Class A allstate honors for the state quarterfinalists.

Tomasic also made all-KLAA, all-district and all-region honors, as well as being a four-time academic all-state selection.

She finished with a school-record 658 kills to go along with 103 blocks and 363 total digs

"Katie has held up to all the challenges I have given her to be one of the standout players in the conference, region and state," Stevenson coach Kelly Graham said. "She has the capacity to be a total team player, help the younger girls out and is an amazing on-and-off the court leader. She is the type of kid you would want to be able to have just one of in your career. She has been one of those kids. I am very thankful that I have had the opportunity to have such an amazing player be a player of mine these past four years.

Sasha Cucuz, Sr. OH, Canton: One of the powerhouses up front for KLAA South Division champion Canton was the 6-1 senior Cucuz, who registered 268 kills and 41 solo błocks.

Cucuz, a left-handed hitter who recently signed to play Division I volleyball at the University of New Hampshire, also chipped in with 79 defensive digs as she helped the Chiefs build a 31-13-1 record.

Her efforts earned her selection to the all-KLAA first team.

"Sasha has and will continue to be an inspiration to the younger kids in our program," coach Steve Johnson said. "I have enjoyed coaching her the past several years, and appreciate her abilities on the court.'

Olivia Beyer, Jr. MB, Plymouth: The junior, in her third season with the Plymouth varsity, continued to add to her sparkling legacy.

Already verbally committed to play at Louisi-ana State University, the all-KLAA first teamer dominated across the board for the 28-15-2 Wildcats with 420 kills. 95 solo blocks, 338 digs and 34 aces.

Beyer made just nine errors in 179 receptions and was successful in 90.3 percent of her serves.

"Olivia has been our go-to player all year long," coach Sarah Marody said. "She was our offensive and blocking leader in the front row and a reliable defensive presence for us in the back.

"Her team-first attitude, work ethic and positive leadership were extraordinary and contagious to those around her."

Jenna Lerg, Jr. Libero, Mercy: The junior libero is a three-year varsity player and repeat member of the all-area first team. Lerg, who helped her club team win an AAU national championship last summer, is committed to play at Michigan.

She can do much more than just play defense. She started the season as the Mercy setter and can help in the attack when needed. Lerg was instrumental in the Marlins compiling a 41-16-2 record and being a Class A regional finalist.

"She has great vision on the court and a very good understanding of the game," coach Loretta Vogel said. "She's just a special athlete. You only get so many of them. I've been very, very fortu-

COACH OF YEAR Kelly Graham, Liv. Stevenson: The 20thyear coach guided the Spartans to a 41-13-2 overall record and their second Class A regional title in three years before losing to Temperance Bedford in a five-set quarterfinal battle.

"This season has been one of many challenges for these girls," said Graham, an Indiana University grad and former All-America high school hurdler from Westland John Glenn. "They never gave up and I think going into the end of the season they truly believed in themselves and knew they were a very good team. I can't remember all the times they fought back and turned things around."

After finishing third in the KLAA Central DIvision, Stevenson won back victory over Farcaptured its third straight district title.

"I was so very proud of them on battling back, but the quarterfinal was just as intense," Graham said. "Even though we did not end up on the positive side winning, I was again so very proud of them for never giving up. They battled and gave it everything they had. How can I not be positive on what they have done this season. My seniors did an terrific job as leaders.

"She became our No. 1 person to go to. Her hitting percentage was always extremely high, which meant very few errors by Jenna, which indicates she is a go-to player. I think her final season at Mercy was her best season.'

Ayanna Buckley, Sr. MH, Liv. Clarenceville: The 6-foot senior middle and outside hitter, bound for Ferris State, was a four-year varsity performer who is a two-time team MVP, all-region and Class B third-team allstate honoree.

Buckley finished with 338 total kills and 124 blocks, along with 183 digs (second on the "Ayanna is an allaround player," Clar-enceville coach Wendy Merschman said. "Her back row play is as good as her front row play. Most teams thought about serving to her, but soon found out she was up for the challenge is one of the best passers one our team. Her elbows easily go over the net and she can be very intimidating.

"She has grown so much as a volleyball player and continues to get better every time she steps on the court, which is amazing to see. Ayanna has no limits and I have no doubt she'll excel at the highet level."

Madison Kielty, Sr. Libero, Canton: With a mix of senior savvy and never-say-die aggressiveness, Kielty sparked plenty of Canton's considerable success in 2013.

The first-team all-KLAA selection chalked up 660 digs and on serve receive made only 40 errors in 439 chances. She also was stellar from the service stripe, with a success rate of 92 percent along with 45 aces.

"Madison is a true model of what the sport of volleyball encompasses," Johnson said. "She is not only a good player, but she puts as much effort into her IQ of the game as well as the physical conditioning it takes to be successful.

"We will miss not having the Kielty name that has been prevalent here for the past eight Amanda Hawkins, Sr. MH, Liv. Stevenson: The 6-foot middle hitter finished the year with 269 kills and a team-best 222 blocks en route to all-KLAA, all-district and all-region honors.

"Amanda with each season has grown so much in terms of leadership, court dominance and confidence," Graham said of the three-year varsity player and all-academic selection. "It has been a pleasure to have been able to have her be a part of our team these past three years. She has truly contributed and helped our team gain the success we have had in her career her at Stevenson. Abigail Whitehead.

Sr. OH, Liv. Stevenson: The three-year varsity player, headed to Siena Heights University, had a total of 252 kills, 100 blocks and 212 digs as she made all-region, and honorable mention all-KLAA.

The scholar-athlete and academic all-region honoree was one of big reasons why the Spartans won 41 matches, along with Class A district and regional titles.

"Abby has been a part of the success we have had in her three years as a varsity athlete," Graham said. "On the court. she is a true competitor."

Lexus Medina, Sr. OH, Huron Valley Lutheran: The senior recorded 260 kills, 30 solo blocks and 100 digs in 73 sets for the district champion Hawks.

The 5-foot-10 Medina made both all-MIAC and all-region honors, along with second-team Class D all-state.

"Lexi is a very physically gifted athlete,' HVL coach Mike Dest said. "She is one of the top 10 outside hitter at any high school level in the state. It looks like she'll be playing at a Division I school next year."

Jen Malcolm, Sr. MH-Setter, Ply. Christian: Whether hammering home points or expertly setting up teammates in the front row, Malcolm was a complete team leader who played a key role in Plymouth Christian Academy's postseason run to the Class D regional finals. The senior, in her second year as PCA captain and fourth season on the varsity, led the Eagles in assists (361) and blocks (72) while contributing 110 kills.

"Leah eptomized what it meant to be a leader," Lutheran Westland coach Kevin Wade said. "She helped shaped an mold our team and get them to perform to their best by showing that in her heart and emotion on the court. She made everybody better and her drive and determination was second to none, and it was a true joy coaching her."

transform about halfway through the season where she played with confidence and passion," Churchill's Anna Gatt said. "Mackenzie was a go-to player during the season.'

Jessica Austin, Sr. OH, Harrison: Austin had a big senior year for the Hawks, helping them win a share of the OAA White Division championship. A powerful presence at the outside hitter position, she had more than 200 kills with a .475 percentage and 50 blocks. Austin was an all-round player and a leader in aces and digs, too.

'She was our dominant outside hitter," coach Michael Love said. "She was the go-to player when we needed it the most. She was a senior captain and everybody looked up to her as somebody to look for when everyone else was down."

CERAMIC ARTISTS OFFER A HANDS-ON LESSON IN THEIR CRAFT

By Sharon Dargay Staff Writer

The wet, smooth clay feels like silk under my fingers as it spins slowly on the pottery

The wheel's motor, operated by a foot pedal, whines like my sewing machine at home.

But I quickly discover that making a pot from slippery, pliable clay is nothing like stitching fabric. I know where to place my hands on a sewing machine, but need a lot of coaching behind the potter's wheel.

And that's exactly what I got recently, when I visited with four area ceramic artists, Jan Bostwick of Royal Oak, Carol Fitzpatrick and Ruth Rycroft of Farmington Hills and Dave Albrecht, of Farmington,

They're among 135 potters who will sell their works at the 38th annual Potters Market. Dec. 5-8, in Madison Heights. Bostwick and Fitzpatrick enjoy making functional pieces, such as dishes, plates and serving ware. Albrecht focuses on sculpture and Rycroft makes a variety of items, including cottage-style buildings called "spirit houses."

I'd be happy to make anything — functional, decorative or merely identifiable. I'm inspired by all of the artists and their beautiful works — at the Potters Market and dream about joining their ranks. Every year I vow to try my hand at pottery.

Ceramics lesson

This year, Fitzpatrick challenged me to keep my promise and get a behind-the-scenes look at Potters Market.

That's how I've ended up in Bostwick's studio, gingerly touching a dome of spinning clay that she has centered, so it wouldn't wobble on the wheel.

I'm encouraged knowing I can use ready-made clay after Albrecht tells me that in the "good old days" — when he first began learning the process — the artists made their own medium.

'This is the easy way, just buying it," he explains Bostwick says the process of transforming the clay into a pot will be fun. "It doesn't have to be easy or hard. You just practice.'

Giving it a whirl

Under her guidance, I push my thumbs into the center of the spinning clay and a pot start to take shape. She shows me how to push the side of the pot out toward me, to enlarge its shape. It takes a few tries, but after both Fitzpatrick and Bostwick tell me to brace my hands to make them steady, I finally manage to mimic the movements.

Fitzpatrick also shows me how to make a dish, using hand-building techniques rather than the wheel. Her rolled clay looks like dough that's ready for cookie cutters when she drapes it over a Styrofoam tray that will serve as a mold. We press various "found objects," including braided wire and pine cones, into clay to create textures, a fun process.

Rycroft says that for most potters, creating also is relaxing.

"It's a passion. It's a passion for everybody. It gets in your blood," Rycroft notes. "And you never stop learning."

Adds Albrecht, "Even if you're having a tough time throwing that cylinder (on the wheel), the rest of the world goes away. That's what we love to do."

Sharon Dargay puts gentle pressure on the sides of her bowl, which is taking shape on the wheel in Jan Bostwick's studio in Royal Oak.

Laurel Park building gains kudos, commercial real estate leaders feted

The Building Owners and Managers Association of Metro Detroit held its annual awards program, The Outstanding Building of the Year (TOBY) and Leadership Awards Presentation on Nov. 15 at the MotorCity Casino Sound Board, Detroit.

The program honors outstanding leaders and commercial properties in the local commercial real estate industry. The TOBY Awards, now in its 29th year, is the most prestigious and comprehensive program of its kind in the commercial real estate industry, recognizing excellence in office building ownership and management. Judging is based on community impact, tenant/ employee relations programs, energy management systems, emergency evacuation procedures, building personnel training programs and overall quality indicators. A team of expert industry professionals conducted comprehensive building inspections.

"The winners of this year's TOBY Awards have shown exceptional achievement in their respective categories." said Paul S. Magy, president of BOMA of Metro Detroit, "They are remarkable professionals that provide superior accommodation to Michigan business through their building quality and excellence in property management on par with the best in class

A: I think that is a no brainer since only 20 percent of the houses in Amsterdam are purchased while 80 percent are rented. It costs you five euros an hour to park in town and eight euros a day outside of the city center, and they will give you a tram ticket to get into town. Obviously, there is an incentive on people to live outside of the metropolitan area. There are approximately 600,000 bikes in

A: You are running a business. You are a member of the board of directors of a corporation. You have legal issues that come up including the obligation to collect assessments, enforce the bylaws, pursue claims against contractors and/or developers, deal with fair housing issues, FHA certification, procedures to implement your collection and bylaw enforcement policies, and a myriad of other issues that an attorney can assist you on irrespective of whether you have a pending legal problem. Your board member should be apprised of her legal liabilities and the probability of her to be sued. Perhaps she will get her act together at that point in time and overcome her naiveté.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
