Program gives teens facts of life

Knowing the facts — the real facts — of life may be all that stands between many teenagers and a life-changing experience like an unintended pregnancy or a sexually transmitted disease.

While the consequences of those facts are a reality for some local teenagers, the city of Westland is hoping to reduce aimed at educating teenagers about making responsible choices about sex and relation-

ROSEDALE VETERANS RUN/WALK ITS ROSIE THE RIVETER

M.B. Dillon

More than 100 athletes participated in Livonia's Rosedale Red, White & Blue Veter-ans 5K Fun Run and 1-Mile Walk on Nov. 5, testing their fitness and honoring local men and women who served their country during World War II. All proceeds benefited the Livonia Symphony Or-chestra and the local VFW. The race was run through the streets of Rosedale Gardens, Livonia's oldest neighborhood. First to cross the finish line in 17:31 was Wixom's Ryan Kachnowski, 14, a varsity cross country runner at Walled Lake Western High School. Northville's Clancy Horgan, 31, an aerobics in-structor at the Livonia Rec Center, won the women's race with a personal best of 22:47.

Special guests included World War II veterans and Livonia residents Robert Rooke, U.S. Navy; Donald "Pinky" Folsom, U.S. Marine Corps; and Irene Turner, U.S. Army Air Corps.

A highlight was the appear ance of nine area "Rosie the Riveters," women who during World War II worked in the munitions industry when male enlistment left gaping holes in the labor force. All are in their 90s. Nancy Zajac, president of the Willow Run chapter of the American Rosie the Riveter Association, introduced "Rosies" Phyllis Lenhard, Helen Jedele, Loraine Osborne, Helen Kushnir, Jane Biestek, Beth Fordyce, Marge Walters, Mary Jezowski-Serge and Madge Cowles.

The Boy Scouts Troop 271 Color Guard presided at the pre-race Veterans Day cere-mony, and the national anthem was sung by professional vocalist and music teacher Tracy Conrad, a resident of Rosedale. Runners and walkers contributed to the Boy Scouts' annual Can-Do Drive, and refreshments and a hot lunch were served at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church.

"The weather was spectac-ular and a perfect reflection of a spectacular event. Talking with the veterans and Rosies, and realizing what they had done, captured my heart and made me once again proud of the huge and absolutely essential contribu-tion the Detroit area made to winning World War II," said Chris Johnson, race director.

Event raises $2,000

The event raised more than $2,000, to be divided equally between the LSO and VFW Livonia Post #3941, said Johnson.

"I like this race because it is run through a beautiful neighborhood and it suppo veterans and the Livonia Symphony," Kachnowski said. Horgan, who knocked a minute off her previous best, said, "It was so great; it was amazing. I was pretty shocked when I hit the finish line in 22:47. I wondered, 'Is that clock right?' I love that run; I grew up in the neighborhood, so running through it and seeing all the fall colors is very entertaining."

Helen Kushnir, a Rosie from Dearborn who still volunteers at the VFW Auxiliary. worked as a riveter on the wing of the B-24 during the war. "They had me on the wing, not because I wasn't important, but because I was little and light," Kushnir said. "I tell my great-grandkids and the children I speak to in schools: You can do important things, even if you are little."

Kushnir and the Rosies enjoyed the day. "It was our honor to be among people who care about what has gone on in our world, and what will go on," she said. Livonia's Karen Werden, 52, gave participants a firsthand view of how the Rosies dressed while producing B-24 bombers at Willow Run and elsewhere.

"I am a 'Tribute Rosie the Riveter," said Werden, wear ing the iconic navy blue work uniform and red-and-white polka-dot bandana. "We are an association attached to the Yankee Air Museum at Willow Run. Our purpose is to help raise awareness about the Rosies and preserve history.'

"People need to know that their grandparents and greatgrandparents did something incredible. Detroit truly was the arsenal of democracy," Zajac said. "The Rosies who came to the Red, White and Blue Run said it was an amazing day.'

Local clerks wade into recount battle

Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

After winning a contentious election to replace the popular Terry Bennett as Canton Township Clerk, Michael Siegrist figured he'd have time to take a breath, settle into his new surroundings and begin the learning process of a new job.

Jill Stein and the Green

Party doused any hopes of an easy transition.

Instead, Siegrist spent Monday meeting Canton's obligations for the recall, wrangling more than 46,000 ballots to be taken to the Wayne County clerk's office, where the recount — given the green light by U.S. District Judge Mark Goldsmith over the weekend — was set to start pated some time to learn, but it didn't happen

Nov. 22. Susan Nash, the city clerk in Livonia, said she was preparing to take all of the city's 55,747 ballots cast in November's election to Cobo Center, the location to Cook Center, the location where the recount is set to take place. She said she and Westland City Clerk Richard LeBlanc were going to go in and split a transport van to take the two city's ballots to downtown Detroit, a measure being done to try to cut the minimal costs for transporting them. Overall, if the transport van is split be-tween Westland and Livonia, the cost would be most likely under $100 for the local municipality.

The ballots, she said, would remain locked up downtown until the recount began Tuesday morning.

Nash said no city staff members are expected to go down town and participate in the recount, but said she may go to watch the process take place.

"I will probably go down there just to see what's going on with our ballots," she said This is, in my opinion, some uncharted water here." State Sen. Pat Colbeck, R-helping kids and having them learn facts that will serve them throughout their lives. We don't just want them to be OK today, we want them to be OK down the road. We don't want them contracting something or getting into a situation that that will stick with them and affect them for a lifetime," said Paul Motz, Westland Youth Assistance Program director.

Part of a federally funded "Taking Pride in Prevention" grant through the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, the Be Proud, Be Respon-sible program focuses on addressing the high rates of pregnancy and STD's among ages 12-19, according to Jeff Cook, director of Child & Ado-lescent Health at Beaumont Health. The program began in 2012, when statistics released by the state health department showed Westland teens at particularly high risk for both teen pregnancy and sexually transmitted

"Wayne-Westland was in the top 10 — I believe it was number 10 — in the state in both of those areas," Cook said. Westland wasn't alone. According to 2014 data from the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, Wayne County has the highest rate in the state of pregnancy among females ages 15-19, as well as reported cases of HIV and other STDs.

"Our goal with the program was to increase knowledge and increase protective factors with our youth," Cook said, "We want to give the tools they need to reduce the dangers of high risk behavior."

The program is held monthly. The next one is scheduled from 10 a.m. to p.m. Dec. 10 at the Jef ferson Barns Community Vitality Center, 32150 Dorsey, Westland. There are times when the program is offered more frequently, said Thana Ali, deputy director of the Westland Youth As sistance Program. The Be Proud, Be Responsible program curriculum spans topics ranging from the facts and misconceptions sur-rounding HIV/AIDS; attitudes and beliefs about safe sex, building negotiation and refusal skills and more.

Other topics included in the program are decision-making skills, topics surrounding substance abuse and sex as well as information on where and how to get tested for an STD.

Both Ali and Motz said that while there is a lot of information to cover, it is very interactive and the kids are very responsive. Breakfast snacks, a lunch and prizes are also offered to attendees as an extra incentive. Birth control or condoms are not provided in the program, but knowledge is shared to help teens make educated decisions," Ali said. Ali said that although the sessions may begin on a quiet, tentative note, it doesn't take long for the kids to begin to open up,

Creating a safe space for them to share their questions and concerns freely is key, she said, and it is important that parents need are aware that their teens know more about sex than they may realize.

"It really is pretty amazing: if you create as comfortable, safe place for even the quietest kid. they will open up to you and they can express themselves effectively.

Once they feel comfortable and start to talk, they have a lot of ques tions. They are naturally curious," Ali said.

Ali said that it is very important to have open dialogue with teens in order that ensure that the information they have regarding pregnancy and STDs is factually correct.

"The influence of the media is strong. Kids get messages that have no basis in fact," Ali said, adding "kids know a lot — not all of it is accurate. It is so important that they learn what the reali-ty is instead of something they may have heard in a song or seen in a video."

Some of their mistaken beliefs can be quite astounding — indicating a strong need for increased education on the topic, Motz said.

'There are so many misconceptions — ranging from 'you can't get pregnant the first time you do it' and beyond," said Motz, "that you are doing your child huge favors by having them attend this program and learn the real facts."

Since its inception, the program has reached between 150-175 teens annually, he estimated While some are referred to the program, others may attend on their own. "Sometimes, it is as simple as a parent calling us and saying, 'my child is sexually active and I am concerned," Motz said. However, he noted. the program is valuable to all teens.

"Enrolling your kids is one of the biggest favors a parent can do for their child — whether your child is a 4.0 student or a star athlete - this is important information that they have a right to know, he said, adding, 'This is the information parents need to give their kids. These kids go off to college — they need to know this. They really do need to be educated about safe and responsible sex."

The community has been very supportive of the program and praises the Wayne-Westland School District in "allowing us to promote this program; they recognize the importance of it and have been very helpful," he said.

RECOUNT

Canton, said the recount was an attempt by the Democratic party, in cooperation with Stein, to disenfranchise 4.8 mil lion voters in Michigan."

"These unprecedented legal actions also attempt to rewrite the U.S. Constitution and in the process show disrespect for an additional 125 million Americans," Colbeck said in a statement. "It is

... clearly the responsibility of the states, not the federal government, to determine the manner by which electoral votes are cast

In a rare Sunday hear ing, Goldsmith granted Green Party candidate Jill Stein's request for the hand recounting of about 4.8 million ballots starting Monday. The Michigan Republican Party, through its attorney Gary Gordon of Lansing, filed notice Monday it plans to file an appeal of Goldsmith's ruling with the

U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Despite the appeal
notice, the recount continues unless Goldsmith's order is stayed or overturned

Gordon had argued Stein had no chance of overturning the election results — Stein finished a distant fourth in Michigan to Republican presi-dent-elect Donald Trump her concerns about votes not being counted properly were merely speculative, and the recount would result in excessive costs for Michigan taxpayers. Also, the state has a valid interest in a two-business-day pause after ruling on an objection to a recount petition, because it allows for court review of that recount decision, Gordon argued before

Goldsmith. Goldsmith ruled that Stein demonstrated "a credible threat that the recount, if delayed would not be completed" by Dec. 13, a federal deadline for guaran-teeing that the electors Michigan certifies for casting its presidential votes are accepted by Congress.

That's a threat to constitutional rights, Goldsmith said.

Attorneys for the Board of State Canvassers and Trump argued Stein waited too long to request the recount, which would cost taxpayers too much money possibly more than $4 million above the $973,250 filing fee Stein was required to pay.
But Goldsmith said

"concerns with cost pale in comparison" to the integrity of an election.

"It is clear they have no respect for 'We the People,' especially since their frivolous recount petition could cost Michigan taxpayers and county governments an addition-al $12 million dollars, a mere fraction of what they will compensate taxpayers for," Colbeck said. "Wayne County in particular does not need another expense that draws funds away from important services such as road maintenance.

But Goldsmith said "concerns with cost pale in comparison" to the integrity of an election. Both Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette and Trump have sued in state court to stop the recount, and a hearing on their suits was scheduled for 4 p.m.

Tuesday in the Michigan
Court of Appeals in Lan-

But election law experts told the Free Press that Goldsmith's ruling, which says the recount shall commence and must continue until fur-ther order of this court, has the effect of preventing state courts from stopping the recount without further judicial review by the 6th Circuit.

For his part Siegrist, a Canton Democrat, said he doesn't expect the re-count to yield much information.

"I'm not entirely certain the recount will yield much new information, and no new result," Siegrist said. "I'm anxious about the information it will produce, but it's definitely an interesting intellectual exercise.

Redford Township man now Rhodes scholar

Katrease Stafford Detroit Free Press

A Princeton Univer sity senior from Redford Township has been awarded a Rhodes Scholarship for graduate study at the Úniversity of Oxford in England. the Rhodes Trust announced

Aaron Robertson, 21, is among the 32 American recipients of the prestigious fellowships, which fund 2-3 years of study at Ox-ford. Robertson was born in Detroit and lives with his mother Cindy Staples. He attended University Liggett School in Grosse Pointe Woods.

"I went back to my hotel room after receiving the announcement and sat in silence for some time," Robertson said. "I'm humbled and feel a great sense of responsibility to my family, my friends, my school and myself. This award is invigorating."

According to a news release from the trust, Robertson is concentrating in Italian and pursuing a certificate in African-American studies. He has received two departmental prizes at Princeton, the Greater New York Chamber of Commerce Prize and Dorothea van Dyke McLane Prize for his work in Italian.

At Oxford, he plans to pursue a master of phi-losophy degree in modern languages. For Staples, finding out her son was awarded such a prestigious honor is something that still hasn't settled in yet.

Staples said she drove to Chicago this past weekend to be with Robertson as he participated in the final round of interviews for the scholarship.

"It was just an emo-tional roller coaster," Staples said. While he was interviewed, Staples tried to ease her nerves and went shopping. He called her an hour later, telling her to come back to their hotel. Staples said the 10-minute walk to the hotel felt like an hourlong trek because she was so nervous.

"When I got to the hotel, he was on his off and put my bags down," she said. "He kind of led up to it and mentioned how they had all the students in the room He said, 'Oh, they award-ed the first scholarship to a guy from Minnesota and then he said, 'The second guy was me' and he came over and gave me a hug

"I just cried out of mere excitement. I was just so proud of him, knowing how hard he worked and how much he deserved to receive this award. I'm just totally humbled by the whole experience. I'm still on an emotional high and I just keep having these moments where I get teary-eyed."

Robertson graduated from University Liggett in 2013. He began there as a ninth-grader, having come from a charter school in Southfield, said Michelle Martin, director of marketing and com-munications at Liggett He'd earned the Liggett Merit Scholarship, which Martin described as a very selective, very prestigious" scholarship that draws students from across the region to the school

Robertson played lacrosse at Liggett and participated in the school's theater group.

"Aaron is well-respected by the faculty, by the staff, by alumni, by students ... He's just an exceptional student. And he's a great guy. We're very proud of him for being selected as a Rhodes scholar," Martin

Robertson, who previously interned at the Detroit Metro Times, serves as co-editor-in-chief of the Nassau Literary Review, the oldest undergraduate publication at Princeton and the second-oldest undergraduate literary magazine in the country. His work has also been featured in the Daily Princetonian, and he'll have published work soon in the Los Angeles Review of Books. Rob-ertson was previously awarded the Gates Millennium Scholarship and is also a QuestBridge scholar.

He has participated in creative-writing pro-grams at Bard College at Simon's Rock and Cambridge University

Robertson said he is considering careers in journalism, publishing or arts advocacy

Staples said her son has always been a gogetter and takes advan tage of opportunities that are seemingly unreach-able. She said since he was a child and all through high school, he's been remarkably focused on his goals. "He's very ambitious, very determined," she said. "Everything he has accomplished to this day is because he put forth the effort. He got straight As through high school and sometimes just getting through high school wasn't even enough. But he still has a very humble spirit." Rhodes Scholars are chosen in a process that includes applicants being be endorsed by their college or university. This year, about 2,500 students sought their institution's endorsement. Only 882 were endorsed by 311 different colleges and universities.

Westland councilman Coleman reaches out to Taiwan leaders

Westland City Councilman Kevin Coleman was recently selected to become a member of the U.S. Young Leaders Delegation to the Republic of China (Taiwan). In his first international trip as a city official, Coleman described

The delegation, which included "rising stars" in politics from around the United States, included a member of the New York City Council and a counterpart from Chicago. The group included 10 council members and mayors ages 25-40 from all across the country.

Coleman described it as an great opportunity to not only meet with high-level government and business officials from Taiwan, but bright and successful young leaders from around the United States. "It was an honor to represent the city of Westland in roundtable discussions about government policy, manufacturing and international trade. Many people aren't aware that Taiwan is a democracy with elected mayors and city councils, just like the U.S. They're our ninth largest trading partner, despite being a country smaller in size than the lower peninsula of the state of Michigan. There is much more in common between the U.S. and Taiwan than I knew before participating in this delegation."

Coleman said.

The delegation met with government officials from both central and local-levels including members of the Taipei City Council, which represents 2.7 million citizens, and Mayor ChiaLung Lin of Taichung, which is a major manufacturing center in Taiwan. Giant bicycles is based there and the country manufactures 70 percent of the world's

"The itinerary was very fast-paced yet the representatives from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs were extremely accommodating and gracious hosts. I learned a lot and have gained some valuable insight that may be able to be applied to Westland as well," Coleman said.

No US tax dollars were used to fund the trip, and Coleman said the itinerary fell on a week when there were no scheduled Westland City Council meetings. He also mentioned that Westland City Clerk Richard LeBlanc has a professional relationship with the Taiwanese community, participated in a previous delegation, and that the TECRO Office in Chicago had extended to him an invitation to se-lect a Westland office holder fitting the required demographic, so he wanted to thank Le-Blanc for including his name in the list of those who were considered

In addition to the toys collected at the party, many other local businesses and community groups collect toys and donate money and gifts throughout the year for the event, which has become a longstanding Westland tradition, said Shaw, a Canton Township resident and owner of WCA Assessing in Westland.

"Westland is a great community when it comes to helping out those in need. Everyone is always so giving and it is always evident at the Christmas party," Shaw said, estimating that more than 250 residents and community supporters are expected to attend.

The president-elect won't change her beliefs

Two. My daughter is just 2 years old. In light of recent events, I have watched my Facebook feed fill with horrible things; people so full of hatred and anger. People who say, "How will I explain to my children that this is the person we have decided to be our president?" So many people are questioning how one could vote for Trump when there are minorities, women and gay people in the world. This is what I will tell my daughter: We live in a free country. We live in a place where we have rights to have opinions. We can choose to love whomever we want, regardless of their sex. We can have friends of all kinds, all colors and all types. Some of our friends will accept us for who we are and for the opinions we hold. Others will dislike us because of those very same things. But we live in a free country, where all opinions are OK to have. When we vote for a president, we are not voting for the opinions of that person. The president is not going to go into office and then suddenly every opinion they have will become a law. Having Trump become our president does not mean that the gays have no rights and that all illegal immigrants will be sent to their home countries or that abortion will immediately become illegal. That is not how our country works. We have laws and rules that we require the American people to abide by. Our rules are not as strict as many other countries and the majority of Americans follow them. Our laws are not decided by one person solely. This is part of what makes our country great.

Our country is amazing because even when we may disagree on a topic or issue, we can still find ourselves hold ing hands or holding each other up in times of despair. When we have had major issues of violence or hatred, we have stood together as a nation. When we have found doubt in our neighbor's opinions or felt uneasy about their political sign in their front yard, we would still find ourselves running into their burn-ing home to get them out if the place was on fire.

We are Americans. We can stand together, as a nation, even when we disagree about an issue.

My president does not dictate how I am as a person. I can be caring, giving and kind, even if the president is not. I love people of all sexes, all races and all religions.
I love many gay people and believe that they should have equal rights as straight people. I be-lieve that all colors should hold the same rights. I believe that people who rape people should go to jail and that bullies should be stopped. I do not like Donald Trump. I do not want to be his friend or sit beside him at the din-ner table. But I did vote for him and I am not ashamed of that. It was a very difficult decision to make.

I hope that my daughter grows up knowing that she has the same rights as everyone else; that at age 35 if she wants to run for president, she can. The world is full of bickering, ha-tred and anger and when some people find the country is supporting something other than their own beliefs, the hatred can be worse. There are adults bullying other adults because of an opinion and that is what makes this election

My daughter will grow up to know that the president of the United States is not the person who makes decisions for her. Sometimes you have to stand up for your opin-ions while also voting against them. It's a crazy world we live in, but it can also be crazy amaz-ing and full of love, if only that is what we crewe can live the next four years full of hatred, spreading cuss words and anger all over social media, telling the world how we disagree with the polls. Or we can stand up and love each other and still be good people. We can stop bullying each other and start loving each other and remem-ber that, whichever human might be living in a big white house in another town than the one I live in, is not changing me as a person. I can still be kind. I can still hold the door open for a stranger. I am not the president and am very glad about that. Raising a 2-year-old is a tough enough job for me.

Life Choices can be a life saver for seniors always remind people that age is a privilege, but I do realize that age also brings certain challenges. One of those challenges many people face is how to maintain their independence and deal with the day-to-day challenges we all face. Obviously, from a financial standpoint, if you have the resources, there is no problem. For the majority of people, though, finances remain a problem. One alternative that many people have chosen is to purchase a long-term care policy. Unfortunately, many people find it is difficult to actually collect benefits under a long-term care policy and that there has been a disturbing trend over the last few years where many companies have substantially increased their premiums to a point that it became unaffordable. The long-term care issue is one of the more difficult issues I have to contend with. Because there are no easy solu-tions, it requires people to explore a variety of options. One option I recently became aware of that I believe many people should explore is the relatively new Life

Choices Plan, through the Evangelical Homes of Michigan.

The Life Choices Plan is geared for seniors who want to stay at home and remain independent. Through this program, Life Choices provides clients with services and support to help the senior maintain independence and remain at home. Under this program, clients have a team of their individual needs.

Not only do they act as a lifestyle coach, but in addition, they also serve as a personal advocate, something that I can attest is much needed.
One of the other benefits of this program is the fact that since seniors would have their own team, it dramatically reduces the chance they will be subject to senior Seniors who want to stay in their house and maintain their independence face many challenges, including such things as ensuring they are eating and exercising properly, have reliable transportation to the doctor and are taking their medications as prescribed. The Life Choices Plan addresses these needs and also makes provisions for those who eventually may require assisted living.

I believe the Life Choices Plan is something people should consider. Like everything else, it comes at a cost

SHOPPERS LIKE SMALL TOWN, BIG RETAIL

Darrell Clem

When she goes Christmas shopping, Katelyn Suchoval prefers to spend her money at the small, independent shops like those that line the cozy downtown streets of her hometown, Plymouth.

There, she can find gifts that are more personal.

"They might be a little more pricey," Suchoval said, "but it's worth it in the long run."

Dwayne Johnson, a Detroit

resident who works in Plymouth, said he prefers the big department store chains like Kohl's, JCPenney and others that can be found in places such as the Ford Road shopping corridor in Canton.

"I like the big stores, where you have more of a variety—and I like the malls," Johnson

"You can find more unique, personal items there," she said. Outside the Ford Road Kohl's store, Canton resident Elaine Schoening said she shops wherever she can find the best deals, which she said tends to be the bigger stores.

"I go wherever the coupons e," she said.

On Wednesday, Schoening had a 20-percent off coupon and a $10 off coupon ready for her shopping trip.

Heading into the same store, friends Amanda Kouchoukos of Canton and Rebecca Guenther of Saline said they tend to shop at retail chains because they can find better deals. Guenther buys Christmas gifts for 42 people, Kouchoukos for 20.

Wayne police briefs: Man throws rocks at Beaumont hospital

David Veselenak

Wayne police were called the evening of Nov. 27 on the report of a man throwing rocks in the parking lot at Beaumont Hospital - Wayne, 33155 Annapolis.

When police arrived, they spoke to a security guard, who told them he was patrolling the area near the emergency room entrance when he saw the suspect yelling and throwing rocks in the parking lot.

As the guard approached the man while driving a security vehicle, the man began throwing rocks toward the guard's car, striking it. The guard exited the vehicle and the suspect began throwing rocks directly at him. He stopped once the guard took out his stun gun and ordered him to the ground, where he was detained. Police arrived and arrested him, taking him to the police station for processing.

Damaged fence

An employee at a business in the 3700 block of Venoy filed a police report the afternoon of Nov. 23 regarding damage to a fence.

A hole was discovered by an employee in the fence near the shipping department.

The employee first noticed two semi-trailer doors were missing and then discovered the hole in the fence. Nothing else appeared taken.

Ammunition taken from vehicle

A resident who lives in the 4900 block of Har-ding filed a report with police Nov. 22 saying some items had been taken from his vehicle.

He said someone had rummaged through the car while it was parked on the street.

He said someone took a "magazine clip" and a box of empty shell casings from the vehicle. Nothing else appeared missing.

Money taken from account

A Texas resident filed a report with Wayne police Nov. 21, saying someone took money out of their account while at the Chase Bank at 35011 W. Michigan Ave.

The individual said it appeared someone made a withdrawal from their account for several thousands of dollars. They said money was also taken out from a bank in Romulus as well. They filed a report with their local police department, but were recommended to file one with Wayne police as well

Car damaged while driving

A motorist who was driving near Venoy and Van Born filed a police report Nov. 21 to report her vehicle had been damaged.

She said she was turn-ing onto Venoy when someone threw an item at her vehicle. She said it came from a dark-colored truck and appeared to be a bottle with some-thing in it. She said the item struck her side mirror and caused some damage to the vehicle

LETTERS TO THE WAYNE COUNTY EDITOR

Westland's unsung

Fifty years ago, Rotary International grant-ed Westland a charter and the local service organization, the Rotary Club of Westland, was born. A few weeks ago, they completed another service project with 14 other Rotary Clubs to provide over 60,000 meals for starving people both at home and abroad.

These people are a group of business owners and professionals in Westland that year after year provide scholarships, grants, clothing and food for our area's needy. They bell ring for the Salvation Army and they collaborate with other groups to increase the synergy in our com-munity and raise funds for charity. Internationally, they have worked with coali-tions such as Kids Against Hunger and Shelter Box (set up shelters for disaster relief all over world). Westland Rotary has also helped in the worldwide eradication of polio. This group of do-gooders quietly go about their business with not a lot of fanfare. So before this year is over, I wanted to congratulate my fellow Westland Rotarians for 50 years of outstanding service that has helped so many in our community and abroad

Thanks for nothing, Jill Stein

The vote recount in Michigan could cost taxpayers $5 million and Jill Stein will only have to pay for $8,000 to $9,000. She should have her buddy Hillary pay for the balance with all her ill-gotten gain and billionaire funded monies. Some may view Jill as a political Don Quixote as a pointed bon Quixote fighting for the "Little Guy," but she's no hero in my book for this frivo-lous side-show.

Recount a waste

As a Wayne County commissioner repre senting Livonia and Northville, I am outraged about the upcoming recount and its cost of this to the taxpayer.

The Secretary of State has predicted that this recount will cost taxpayers more than $5 million, statewide. There is absolutely no indication there has been voter fraud of any kind. As the former city clerk in Livonia, I can attest to the high integrity of the Michigan voting system. In my opinion, this recount is a political stunt, meant to cause chaos and discord as a newly elected president makes plans to take office in January.

That being said, Wayne County has just been released from a consent agreement with the state of Michigan because of severe fi-nancial difficulties and there finally is a budget surplus for the first time in many years.

It has come to my attention that the state of Michigan will only reim-burse Wayne County $125 per precinct to hold this time-consuming recall. The total cost of this will be much more than that for the county. The Wayne County Election Division is not able to report the price of this process at this time, but with over 1,600 precincts, the cost will be significant. This process has been forced upon the state so quickly, there has not been time to even calculate the cost.

The money used for this political stunt could be used for roads, bridges, seniors/veterans services, etc. The Michi-gan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court need to stop this madness and save our tax money! Where is the outrage from the Democratic Party?

Loepp not a good fellow

As I watched the praise being showered on Daniel J. Loepp, president and CEO of Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan and Blue Care Network, during the Thanksgiving Day Pa rade, I couldn't help but wonder if the host and hostess, along with the president of The Parade Co., were aware that Dan Loepp and his paid board of directors have elected to eliminate the defined group health care coverage for the approximate 6,000 BCBSM/BCN retirees. He placed them, at great additional expense to the retirees, in the individual market, resulting in outrageous premiums.

These retirees, who have given up to 50 years of dedicated and loyal service to the company and who should be spending their Golden Years traveling and spending time with their grandchildren, now have to decide whether to put a roof over their head, food on their table and clothes on their back or pay for their health care and prescriptions.

Some retirees will now have to retain em-ployment in order to pay for their health care and prescriptions. Retirees are asked to bear this burden at a time when Dan Loepp received $9 million in total compensation, including a $6 million bonus in 2015.

Health insurance is the product of BCBSM/ BCN. The auto compa-nies provide discounts to their retirees on their health care and on their vehicles. The elimination, or reduction, of health care is not a solution, it is merely an excuse. Dan Loepp and his wife, Amy Tattrie, were recently awarded Good-fellows of the Year by the Goodfellows organization. Dan Loepp is no good fellow to the BCBSM/BCN retirees.

I urge your newspa-per to editorialize against their efforts to change Medicare to a "voucher" plan that will raise the ost of health care for seniors

Just because the Re-Just because the Re-publican Party has ma-jorities in the House and Senate and the president-elect, it is not a mandate to destroy Medicare with a "voucher" plan to pay outright subsidies to insurance companies who make big contribu-tions to many members of Congress. In April 2011, the Re publican majority in the U.S. House of Representatives passed in a 2012 budget blueprint a proposal to replace tradi-tional Medicare with vouchers. This ignited a firestorm of opposition from Congressional Democrats, America's seniors and the general public.

Back then, an analysis of the proposal by the Congressional Budget Office concluded that turning Medicare over to private insurance plans would result in seniors would result in seniors paying twice as much for their care, would raise administrative costs and would not keep medical inflation as low as traditional Medicare has done.

It is astonishing that after the bashing deliv-ered to Republicans on the "voucher" proposal in 2011 that they would be reviving it again.

Back in the day, Mike Soukup ent a lot of time in Redford

Union's gymnasium.

He was back where he once belonged Monday night as his Plymouth Wildcats visited the place where he cut his coaching teeth a decade or so ago.

Also at RU for the Plymouth game against the Panthers was Mike's dad, Joseph Soukup who also was a basketball coach there — and a lot of other familiar faces

"It's always nice to see some old faces in the gym, and some old friends," Mike Soukup said. "You lose touch with people but it's nice to see them all back in the same place."

During the 2000s, Soukup coached the Panthers' junior varsity boys basketball team and watched intently as Brett Steele patrolled the sidelines watching, moving and constant-ly communicating with his play-

Soukup now coaches the Plymouth Wildcats and has picked up some of Steele's hardnosed traits. He crouches, ca-joles, encourages and parades along the sidelines.

When players surrounded him during a timeout, it was a teachable moment. The basketball court is his classroom. After games, like Steele often was, Soukup is somewhat raspy. Plymouth lost 48-45, unable to hit the last-second triple that would have sent the non-conference game into overtime.

Veteran Westland John Glenn coach Bill Polk knows he has a pretty good group to start with.

"We have a large group of wrestlers that have put a ton of time in to become All-State wrestlers," said Polk, whose 2015-16 team went 24-4 overall and won the KLAA South Division and Kensington Conference championships. "They are committed to becoming

GIRLS BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Ladywood rally falls short vs. Ike

Garden City, Plymouth take it on the chin

Brad Emons

Livonia Ladywood's rally came up short Saturday after-noon as Utica Eisenhower held on for a 45-38 girls basketball victory over the Blazers at the University of Detroit's Calihan

Maggie Shirk scored 10 points in a losing cause as the Blazers fell to 0-3 overall.

Abbey Reppen added eight points and nine rebounds, while Brianne Rogers also contributed eight points.

Malynn Kosnik scored a game-high 11 points for the victorious Eagles (1-0), who led 27-13 at halftime.

"I'm really proud of the energy and effort our girls displayed today," Ladywood coach Sam Lamb said. "We were down as many as 20 in the second quarter, battled back and had the deficit down to three in the fourth. It has been a grueling week with three games against really tough opponents, but we explained to the girls that we are getting better each time out and this will help us when we start league play next week."

GC falls, 50-40

Despite 15 points from Aleeah Montgomery and a 14-point, six-steal night by Brit-tany Radtke, Garden City dropped a 50-40 decision Monday to Ann Arbor Huron.

Chipping in with six points for the Cougars (0-3) was Hayley Hewer.
Ava DiMilia led the victors with 21 points.

Garden City trailed 28-20 at halftime and could not rally, largely due foul trouble. Huron players sank 20 of 34 free throws; the Cougars only made seven of 12 attempts from the charity stripe.

Plymouth edged

Host Plymouth dropped to 0-2 with Monday's 38-37 defeat to Allen Park. Scoring 14 points for the Wildcats was Alexa Ebeling, including four treys.

Adding nine points was Chantal LeDoux.

"Details matter in a game likes this and unfortunately, we came up short."

Senior captain Mikayla Rose said the Wildcats demonstrated their "true colors because we were down the whole game and were able to come back. ... Allen Park made the shots they needed to make. They were a tough team to play against.'

Still in the game

After players and coaches from both teams exchanged handshakes, Soukup wiped beads of sweat from his forehead. Thoughts briefly turned to the past.

"My dad coached here, I hooked up with Steele because of him," Mike Soukup noted. 'A long time ago, a lot of stories away."
Win or lose, there's no other place he'd rather be than coaching a basketball team Unless he was still playing the Soukup actually was a Redford Thurston Eagle, his dad whispered before the contest. But no matter, because basketball's all good. "When he graduated high school he was looking to stay with the sport because he likes it so much," Joseph Soukup said. "So I suggested to him, to stay with it you can walk on at Madonna (University).

"Or I'll call up and apply for the girls basketball job (at Hilbert Middle School in the RU district), you come and be my assistant and you can play rec ball a couple days a week and still have your hand in the game. That's how it all start-

Monday night, the elder Soukup watched from one end of the floor in the first half and then moved up into the stands to sit with some Plymouth spectators.

During the third quarter, Joseph Soukup smiled and said "a good play's a good play" when asked if he was rooting for both teams.

"That's my father, he's a good man," said Mike Soukup later, told of his dad's com-

Glad to see the homecoming was Panthers head coach Randall Taylor, who also coached with Mike Soukup during Steele's tenure before Soukup left for Plymouth in

"When I came back from college he was an assistant conlege ne was an assistant here and we were on the same staff for a little bit," said Tay-lor, a 2002 RU grad. "When I was coaching freshmen he was on JV and then he went over to Plymouth. We both coached under Coach Steele at the time."

Veteran Redford Union football coach Miles Tomasaitis, who also is athletic supervisor at the school, said it's a nice, friendly rivalry be-tween the Panthers and Wildcats that he would like to see continue. The teams now play at the beginning of each sea-son, taking turns hosting the

"Mike does a quality job with his kids, we like to see him come back," Tomasaitis said. "Mike's dad obviously taught in the school district forever. He was a gym teacher at Hilbert, so I've known the family for quite a long time.

"It's a good mix, he always has a good team, good competition, we know they're going to play hard and play fair." Tomasaitis added that Soukup and Taylor bring slightly different approaches to ingame coaching despite emerging from Steele's old staff.

"(Soukup's) very intense,' Tomasaitis noted. "Randall obviously was a different hange for us. Although he (Taylor) is very intense he's not as vocal as Brett was.

"It's interesting to see two coaches coming from the same coaching tree as it were and how they applied the lessons that they learned coaching their own teams now.

Going to work

Defense and more defense were hallmarks from the Steele era, and it's no surprise that Soukup and Taylor also adhere to the lunch-bucket approach.

'It always comes down to hard work, commitment and willingness to do the little things, dive for balls and get on the floor and play defense," Tomasaitis stressed.

Before the game, Joseph Soukup said maintaining friendships is another aspect of his son's basketball passion.

"He's remained friends with Coach Taylor through all these years, it's all a little basketball clique that stays together," Joseph Soukup said.
"I think it's nice that he comes back and sees Randall, they're both quality guys and they like things done the same way.

"We left a lot of points on the board tonight, I'm sure, whether free throws or missed layups," Soukup said. "We had a lot of opportunities and just didn't get it done. You can't miss six, seven, eight layups. "Guys are still figuring out what they need to do and how hard they need to play."

Other standouts for the Panthers (1-0) included senior forward Jacob Gagnon (10 points, 10 rebounds), junior forward Marcus Evans (10 rebounds in a constant battle with Plymouth 6-9 junior for-ward Tariq Woody) and junior forward Christian Montgomery (timely defense).

Cool customer

Huston was a catalyst for Taylor's team, sending a jolt through the packed gym with a trey from the left corner as the third quarter expired, to give the Panthers a 30-28 edge.

It didn't matter that he was falling into the bleachers as his rainbow shot swished through the basket.

"I was out there ready for the shot and I happened to knock it down," said Huston, not bothered by having a de-fender's hand in his face as he launched the shot. "I was very focused on that. He (Plymouth player) came out there kind of late, but that's why I just (elevated) and knocked it down.

He followed the script early in the fourth, scoring another 3-ball, putting RU up 33-28.

The Panthers never trailed the rest of the way, although the Wildcats made a late, unsuccessful bid to force over-

Getting the rally started with two buckets and two free throws was Woody (outstanding with 21 points and 10 re-bounds). Contributing a field goal was junior Zach Beadle and junior Anthony Crump (seven points, seven boards) hit a free throw.

For the Wildcats and Sou-kup, coaching in his old gym, there was a bit of energy gen-erated when junior Joey Robb (six points, five rebounds) sank a trey from the left corner.

Suddenly, it was 45-43.

Both teams swapped free throws, and the Wildcats got the ball back down 48-45 with 20 seconds to work with. Soukup didn't like how the last-ditch play was unfolding, so he called a timeout with 5.5

seconds remaining.
When push came to shove, however, Crump's closely contested shot from beyond the tested shot from beyond the top of the arc caromed off the rim to clinch the win for RU.

According to Taylor, the sharp shooting of Huston helped his team overcome similar issues.

and RU was within a point. Meanwhile, the Wildcats could not score in the third until a putback by Woody with just 1:08 to go. That briefly gave Plymouth a 28-27 lead.

It didn't last long, not with 20 seconds left, RU with possession and Huston ready and

Westland John Glenn boys cagers to lean on returnees during 2016-17

Tim Smith

Westland John Glenn's varsity boys basketball team will go to the post every time out this season with the intention of making an impact in the KLAA South Division.

That's the plan, according to Rockets' third-year head coach Rod Watts (whose team went 12-10 overall and 6-4 in the division in 2015-16).

"Our team is looking to improve on our performance from last year," Watts said. "We want to be more effective and proficient with our offensive possessions.

"Though we lost some length from last year, our defense is the area where we must leave our thumb print."

Six returning varsity players will be instrumental in whether John Glenn can make a push to the top of the standings.
Four of those six were starters last year, including 6-6 senior Daijon Parker, 6-2 senior Christian Agnew, 5-10 senior Kijuan Chandler-Daniels and 6-0 sophomore Joe Moon IV.

Another senior, 6-4 Roq

Williams, is certain to see plenty of playing time.

"As these six players go, so goes our team," he said.
"Our seniors have played together for a long time and they will show good team chemistry and leadership as they bring our young guys

Watts also has a group of underclassmen that could make their mark at some point during the season.

Those include juniors Frankie Braxton (6-2), Ja-Mall Stewart (6-4), sophomores Donovan Long-Johnson (6-4) and Elijah White

BOYS BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Eagles, Cougars off to good starts

Tim Smith

Opening night was good for Western Wayne Athletic Conference boys basketball teams Redford Thurston and Garden

The Eagles kicked off the 2016-17 season with Tuesday's 84-45 victory at Taylor Prep. Malik Hill, Demitrius

Dowd and Dequan Gadson each chipped in with 10 points for the victorious Eagles, who led 47-22 at halftime and 72-39 after three quarters.

Jovan Wright and Terry
McCain III paced the host Tigers with 18 and 16 points, respectively

"I'm really proud of the kids because we played hard at both ends of the floor to-night," Thurston coach Brian Bates said. "We ran our offense and got after it on defense. It was a good opening game for us."

» Also enjoying a win in Game 1 were the host Cougars, rolling to a 64-56 win over Ann Arbor Huron. Gar-den City got off to a 17-9 lead after one frame and hung tight during the middle frames before pulling away with a 20-14 fourth.

Eian Castonguay (16 points), Jacob Sadowski (14 points, nine rebounds), Emad Rehman (12 points) and Cameron Walter (11 points) had strong nights for the Cougars.

"Led most of the way, held off a scrappy Huron team," Garden City coach Rick Morton said. "We made some plays down the stretch to pull away. The team made some plays when they had to."

Chargers fall short

Livonia Churchill dropped a 69-55 decision to Dearborn on Tuesday night, despite 16 points from Trajan Stinson and 13 points from Evan Cum-Dearborn went up 17-7 after one, but the Chargers got to within 25-22 at halftime.

Unfortunately, the Pioneers pulled away again in the third, with Shane Moran (18 points) leading the way.

"It was a tough-fought game where both teams played incredibly hard," Chur-chill coach James McCulloh said. "We got the lead down to seven but just weren't able to get it any closer in the second game of the season.

Comerstone's Jamal Cain scored 23 points.

'I thought our team came back from adversity,' Zebras coach Nkwane Young said. 'We played tough defense, played as a team and won the game.'

WARRIORS WIN OPENER: Lutheran Westland senior Zach Burk scored 25 points and pulled down 13 rebounds Tuesday to spark the Warmors to a 78-59 win over Carmon Prep in the season opener.

Also having strong nights were seniors Luke Smith (14 points, 15 boards), Kyle Farley (nine points) and Kory Barikmo (eight points, 10 assists).

Will Lyles and Yosin Muhammed scored 14 and 12 points, respectively for Canton Prep.

"It was good to start the season on the winning end," Warriors head coach Jim Hoeft said. 'We seized momentum right away in this one."

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Spartans can't rally against Howell

A rough first quarter turned out to be too much for Livonia Stevenson's varsity girls basketball team to over-come Tuesday against defending KLAA co-champion How-ell, with the Spartans dropping a 60-36 decision. Stevenson fell behind 26-4 after one stanza and 36-14 at halftime. A strong third quarter, where the Spartans (1-1) outscored the Highlanders 12-10, was a highlight for head coach Karen Anger.

"We took a punch in the first quarter and couldn't get ourselves over the hump," Anger said. "We'd come within 14 and then they would hit a little run. The first quarter is the only quarter that hurt us. Otherwise, that would have been a very close game."
Scoring 12 points for Stevenson (on four treys) was junior guard Sarah Tanderys, while senior Kelly Newman grabbed seven rebounds. Grace Lamerson had six points, five boards, five blocks, four assists and four

Leah Weslock and Alexis

Miller led Howell with 17 and 15 points, respectively.

"I scheduled this game on purpose because they were league champs and I wanted to test us before hitting our side of the KLAA," Anger said. "I'd say we did an amazing job."

Tough start for Rockets

Also Tuesday, Westland John Glenn dropped a 53-43 decision to Ann Arbor Skyline despite 15 points from Sharon Woodard and 12 from Jasmine Edwards

The Rockets fell behind 15-9 after one quarter and were not able to make up the deficit.

"We got in early foul trou-ble which forced Carley Loving to sit most of the first half," John Glenn head coach Derrick Jordan said. "... We were in a hole the rest of the night. We have to continue to work on taking care of the ball and playing better defense."

Warriors hold on

Lutheran Westland earned a 47-39 win Tuesday against Canton Prep, despite being outscored 17-9 in the fourth

Top scorers for the Warriors were Rachel Reddeman (11 points, 14 rebounds) and Taylor Jones (11 points), while Emma Johnson added 10 points and 12 boards.

THURSTON ROMPS: Sophomore Naudla lackson tallied a gme-high 10 points as Redford Thurston (2-1) rolled to a 45-15 non-league win luesday at Taylor Prep (1-2). Senior Bailee Porter added eight points, while senior Gillian Orake and sophomore Insten Wesen-berg added six each for the victorious Eagles. Karlssa Lee paed the Tiges with seven points. Thurston returns to action at 7 p.m. Friday at home with a non-league game against Marel Park.

BLAZERS WIN FIRST: Maggie Shirk led a balanced attack with nine points Tuesday as ho the season with a 42-27 triumph over host Grosse lie (0-2).

The Blazers, who led 18-7 at halfitime and 26-14 after three quarters, also got seven points and 12 rebounds from Abbey Reppen along with seven points and 10 rebounds from Kate Roney.

PANTHERS LOSE: LIZY Truck scored 20 points as Wiskom 51. Catherine of Siena (2-1) earned a 52-46 non-league victory Tuesday at Redford Union. Gabby Green added eight points for the Siena Stars, who led 28-27 at halftime and 38-34 after three quarters.

Sisters Johnnae and Johans Canal Ca

guarters State and Johnnia Steel scored 20 and 16 points, respectively, for the Panthers, who made only 11-of-27 free throws (40.7 percent). We played a really good team tonight who has beat us the last couple of years by 20-plus points, "RU coach Scott Purdy said." We made a couple of mistakes down the stretch that led to some tumovers and missed five open layups in the last three minutes that changed the game."

After lopsided loss, Pats nip Milford

Tim Smith

KLAA South Division varsity boys hockey action ran the gauntlet from Saturday night blowouts to Monday's nailbiter — the latter a big 3-2 win by Livonia Franklin over Milford and former Patriots coach Dave Gagnon.

Saturday night's twinbill at Arctic Edge in Canton featured back-to-back routs. Plymouth rolled to a 7-0 victory over Livonia Franklin and Canton took a 10-1 shellacking at the hands of Livonia Chur

Plymouth head coach Germ Vento said the win was notable for his team because sophomore goalie Josh Montroy made 15 saves to record a shutout in his first high school Scoring two goals and adding two assists was junior forward Jack Chumley, while junior forward Tim Baldwin recorded a goal and four helpers. Other Plymouth contri-butions were turned in by senior forward Nick Yankee senior forward Nick Yankee (goal, two assists), junior for-ward Jacob Back (first high school goal), junior forward Josh Weber (goal, assist) and sophomore defenseman Adam Pabacae (first high school Rebecca (first high school goal, two assists).

The bright spot for the Patriots was the play of sophomore goalie Will Augustine, who turned aside 57 of 62 shots.

"We saw something tonight we saw sometime origine that many would not glare on," Franklin head coach Dan Phelps said. "We played and competed with a highly skilled "Blades from from element the Wildcat team for almost the entire first period and throughout good portions of the second and third. That is progress for us.

Our boys are moving in the right direction. As time progresses, it will be our goal to compete consistently for three periods, which when combined with discipline and work ethic, that can give any team a chance to win.

Also enjoying a big offensive night Saturday were the Chargers, who spotted host Canton an early goal (by Hugo Fonovic, from Matt Eastman at 3:26) and then scored 10 unanswered.

By the end of the first period, Churchill (3-1, 1-0) led 4-1 after goals by Matt Gibboney, John Doyle (power play), Jordan Venegoni and Dane Allen.

The onslaught intensified in the second with seven pucks eluding the Chiefs goalie. Doyle assisted on five of those goals, and ended up with six helpers for the night. Tyler Haydu's shorthanded tally made it 5-1 and subsequent goals were notched by Zack Vendittelli, Joe Wozniak (power play), Vaughn Kendall (two goals), Josh Friend (pow-er play) and Haydu again. Even though the Chargers clearly were in command, head coach Jason Reynolds saw some things his team needs to address.

"I wasn't happy with the first-period effort," Reynolds said. "We have to continue to focus on dictating the pace of play, game in and game out. I was happy to see that we fin-ished with a stronger effort, but we need to find some con-sistency in our approach.

Canton dropped to 1-3 overall and 0-2 in the division.

Franklin prevails

The Patriots faced Milford and former Franklin coach Dave Gagnon on Monday and came away with an impressive 3-2 victory.

Scoring the game winning goal with about 11 minutes to go was Kody Dewhirst, cashing in on the power play. It was Dewhirst's second of the night. Also scoring for the Patriots was Dakota Keaton, who made it 2-2 in the third less than a minute after Milford went up a goal. Nick Anderson and Trevor whirst's first goal. "We started just a little quicker, played defensively just a little better, and competed more consistently in all three periods," Phelps said. "Great win for our guys on a total team effort start to finish.

Van Vliet drew assists on De-

John Glenn wins Early Bird tourney

Tim Smith

The Westland John Glenn varsity boys bowling team is very comfortable at Drakesh ire Lanes in Farmington Hills, especially when competing at the Early Bird Tournament.

On Saturday, the Rockets won that tourney for the second year in a row, with a total of 4,120 pins. In second place with 4,042 pins was Oxford.

Kyle McCarthy was the late catalyst for coach Ron Staples team as he ran the table in the 10th frame to help John Glenn overcome Oxford.

"As a team we feel confident to match up with anybody but in bowling you must get some breaks and make your spares, Staples said. "Oxford took the lead on us when we missed couple of easy spares.
"We had a big tenth frame,

Kyle McCarthy stuck out in the 10th frame and ended with six

Meanwhile, freshman Ken-ny Raynes tallied a 266, tied for the third-best game of the day. McCarthy, Puzzuti and Raynes were joined by varsity teammates Tyler Brown, Matt Easa, Zack Grady and Jared Stevens.

The conditions were oiled in a house pattern but when we get to this years oil pattern scores will go down and spares will be key to our success," said Staples, adding that the KLAA South Division this season will be "tough from top to bottom."

PREP ATHLETICS

Inquiry put out to schools to join 14-team KLAA

Brad Emons

After the defection of 10 schools earlier this fall, the remaining 14 high schools from the Kensington Lakes Activities Association are open to the idea of adding new members. Current KLAA president Keith McDonald, Livonia Churchill High principal, said an effort is underway to explore and possibly increase the num ber of schools in the KLAA for the 2018-19 school year. Applications from interested high schools will be accepted through Dec. 15 by the KLAA, which was formed in 2008-09 when the Western Lakes Activities Association and Kensington Valley Conference merged

"I think it makes more sense to have an even number, whatever that number is, but in the end an even number of schools makes scheduling a lot easier with divisions, crossovers and everything else," McDonald

The criteria the KLAA will consider for potential appli-cants include enrollment, geog-raphy, number of athletic and activity offerings, quality of athletic programs and quality and quantity of facilities. In 2017-18, the KLAA will shrink from 24 schools to 14, with the remaining schools being Churchill, Livonia Franklin, Livonia Stevenson, Westland John Glenn, Wayne Memorial, Canton, Salem, Plymouth, Northville, Novi, Brighton, Howell, Hartland and Grand

The invitation to join the KLAA for the 2018-19 school year was put in motion when nine KLAA members bolted to form their own league, which is expected to be named this month. The schools pulling out were Milford, Lakeland, South Lyon, South Lyon East, Walled Lake Northern, Walled Lake Central, Walled Lake Western, Waterford Mott and Waterford

Kettering.
The 10th school to leave the KLAA, Pinckney, has been accepted join the 12-school Southeastern Conference in 2017-18.

"We put it out there," Mc-Donald said. "People talk and I don't know if there's active recruiting of teams. If a team wants to come, they'll come or at least apply. I don't think it's necessarily in our best interest to raid three or four schools from a different league and create a problem for that league. If there are schools that want to come and there are conversations, we'll be happy to have conversations with them."

McDonald said an ideal number going forward would be 16 schools divided into two divisions of eight.

"Just the set-up of the divisions and the amount of travel, that would change quite drastically for a number of schools," he said. "At this point I don't know if there's a Plan B. We're going to look right now at appli-cations and what interest comes by Dec. 15 and then we'll make a decision from there for 2018-19 and make it a better league than what we have."

Travel concerns, discrepan-cy in enrollments and strength of certain athletic programs, driven primarily by football, factored in the defection of the 10 KLAA members and will continue to play a part in any possible expansion going forward in 2018-19.

Here's How It Works

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the number will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more number you name, the easier it gets to solve the
