Norwayne community activists honored with field dedication

LeAnne Rogers
hometownlife.com

A new athletic field on the site of the now-demolished Lincoln Elementary School has been dedicated to honor mother-and-son Norwayne community activists.

The Lincoln-Jefferson Field name encompasses the name of the school and also the Johnson family, the late Rose and her son Henry, long active members of the Norwayne community.

After losing three children in a house fire and divorcing, Rose Johnson came to the Detroit area with her three surviving children.

Rose and second husband Henry O. Johnson moved to a duplex on Ogemaw Court, part of the Norwayne housing project constructed during World War II for Willow Run Airport workers, in 1952, coming from the Bloom Projects on Detroit's east side. In 1954, the Johnsons placed a bid for a single-family home at 32317 Ogemaw and settled in. The couple added four children to their blended family, the eldest being Henry.

"Mother understood and appreciated the diversity of the Norwayne Community. There were transplanted families from Michigan's Upper Peninsula, Appalachia and other parts of the south, all looking to provide a better life for their families," Henry Johnson said, speaking at the dedication.

His mother would take an active part in the Norwayne Community, Johnson

District raises curtain on performing arts center

The Livonia Public Schools district community gathered last week to officially cut the ribbon to open the new, state-of-the-art Stevenson High School Performing Arts Center.

The newly constructed theater and adjacent fine arts practice, storage and instructional spaces total approximately 30,000 square feet.

The 556-seat theater is the second of three PACs to be constructed in the district as part of the $195 million bond issue approved by voters in 2013.

The Stevenson PAC was designed by Stantec and constructed by the George W. Auch Co. There are 2,500 lights in the theater; 194 tons of steel and 80,000 concrete blocks were used in the construction.

A nice turnout of school district and community members gathered in the lobby of the new PAC at Stevenson. LIVONIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

LED street lights a money-saver for Westland

hometownlife.com

New energy-efficient LED street lights in Westland have saved more than $330,000 and will pay for themselves in just over 18 months.

Since 2015, the city has converted 2,862 mercury vapor streetlights into energy-efficient LED street lighting fixtures which required an initial investment of $533,857. This investment has resulted in an average monthly savings of $27,753 and the average yearly savings amounts to $333,035 for the city of Westland.

"When the city evaluated the savings that would be a result of the streetlight conversion project, it estimated a complete payback period of 24 months," Mayor William Wild said. "Currently, we are on track to recoup the entire cost of the project in just over 19 months."

That one-year savings was originally estimated at $300,000 and was also factored into the current street lighting assessment, approved for two years by the city council in 2016.

"We built $300,000 in savings into the formula. Any extra money goes into next year's lighting assessments," Wild said. "It should have a positive effect. The only thing that would impact the rates (negatively) would be if DTE raises the rates."

Along with being more energy-efficient and cost-effective, part of the impetus for the program was a national push to replace mercury vapor streetlights. Those have been replaced citywide, but the sodium lights — like those in Wild's neighborhood — are still in service.

"DTE was using rebates and had to get out the mercury. We still have sodium lights, it's kind of a yellow light," Wild said. "The cost savings really wasn't there to replace the sodium lights. It wasn't cost-effective."

The first area in Westland to get the LED streetlights was the Annapolis Park subdivision. The project started going citywide in March 2015 with the initial conversion of 166 street light fixtures to LED on Wayne Road recalled, founding the Women of Norwayne, which provided food during the holiday season and an annual Children's Christmas Party.

"She became a beacon of safety to many of her kids from the Norwayne community ... she simply was Rosie," he said. "Rose taught her children the importance of faith. She was a founding leader of Ss. Simon and Jude Catholic Church, where her children received all their sacraments. She was an active fundraiser for the struggling new parish."

Rose Johnson also taught her children the importance of giving back, Henry Johnson said. "They were recruited to help deliver food baskets, dress as clowns at the children's parties and always impressing us about the importance of charity," he added. While he didn't mention it, Henry Johnson has followed his mother's example, working for the ARC of Wayne County, being a Democratic activist and a moving force for improvements in Norwayne, including serving as chairman of the Norwayne Community Citizens Council. He is a former Westland First Citizen, an award honoring his volunteer work in the community.

The Lincoln Johnson Field, at 33800 Grand Traverse, is directly adjacent to Cayley Park, near Marshall Upper Elementary School.

"We're clearing the remaining fence line so that the Lincoln Johnson Field will flow right into Cayley Park," Westland Mayor William Wild said.

Chicago resident Michael Cayley, son of park namesake and former Nankin Township Trustee Charles Cayley, recently made another donation to assist with improvements to the park.

between Glenwood and Parkgrove. The city investment in this phase of the project was $29,688, with an annual savings realized of $23,136.

The second phase of the project began in August 2015 and converted 230 street light fixtures to LED on major roads throughout the city. The total cost to the city was $68,996, with an annual savings of $38,516.

The project was wrapped up in 2016 with the remaining mercury vapor lights being converted to LED.

"As we build up some money in the fund, we could take a look at some darker areas in the city," Wild said. "Newburgh and Wildwood have some dark areas. We can build up our balance for some capital improvement projects."

When approving the two-year assessment in 2016, council decided property owners would be assessed for lights that benefit their property only. That means street lighting on major streets would also only be charged to directly impacted property owners. Overall, the 2016 lighting assessment — which covers only street lighting expenses — was some $1.4 million for Westland.

Methodist Children's Home Society celebrating 100 years

Supporters from across Michigan are joining Methodist Children's Home Society, a licensed private, non-sectarian child placing agency and nonprofit organization, for its centennial celebration 6-9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 21, at the Laurel Manor in Livonia.

Hundreds of guests will be in attendance to support the growing programs and services MCHS provides, as well as celebrate its 100-year anniversary of service to metro Detroit children and families who have been impacted by the trauma of child abuse and neglect.

Founded in 1917, MCHS offers a comprehensive range of programs and services from its Redford facilities, including a 24-hour operating residential home and treatment facility for abused and neglected boys; foster care placement and adoption services for children throughout southeast Michigan; and transitional housing programs for young men who have aged out of the child welfare system. MCHS also provides critical therapies, educational services and life skills training for the children in its care.

"The centennial celebration is a chance for us to recognize the many special individuals who have been there for our children and families over the past 100 years," said Kevin Roach, executive director, Methodist Children's Home Society. "We've been anxiously awaiting this wonderful opportunity to celebrate our rich history as well as look ahead for the next 100 years."

The event is open to the public. The evening will include a formal Stevenson's PAC mirrors the one at Franklin High School. Churchill High School's PAC is currently under construction.

In addition to the theaters, 17 schools, so far, have received top-to-bottom renovations through the bond issue.

Totalling approximately two million square feet, the renovations at the schools, noticeably identified by the "arch" signs in front, included classroom upgrades such as new flooring, ceilings, lighting, windows, paint, technology, air handling units and classroom furniture. In addition, the schools have enhanced security and

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Where's mention of Christmas?

The City of Livonia recently mass-mailed its Fall/Winter News & Community Events flier. On the back cover, beneath a row of the confidently beaming likenesses of city council members, is an ad that touts "Holiday Celebration Parade!" the wording of which was presumably overseen by said council.

Nowhere in that ad is a single reference to the holiday city residents are being invited to celebrate. Why? Is the confidence city council members exude actually a facade? Are they fearful of running afoul of the establishment clause, or appearing politically incorrect, or stoking the ire of the ACLU, or using a word that even hints at religiosity?

In his 1823 poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas", Clement Clarke Moore, though focusing solely on the myth of Santa, did not shrink from referencing the religious holiday around which his tale revolved. He did not ignore the fact that Christmas is historically established and honors a figure, Christ, who was equally historically established. To do anything less is tantamount to disinformation and revisionism.

Is this the muddled legacy we want to leave to our children? What will be said to them when they encounter references to Christmas and ask, "What was this thing called Christmas?" Is it not selective filtering of reality, akin to naysayers of the Holocaust, to expunge mention of Christmas as though it were an embarrassment to be avoided?

If Livonia City Council members were bold enough to actually include the word Christmas in their Holiday Celebration Parade announcement, would they be accused of being Bible-thumping Christians? Or exclusive? Or right-winged? Truthfully, I don't think anyone would notice, and if they did, council could rightly point to the fact that the word Christmas has been used liberally in official entreaties to the public to join holiday celebrations in the past.

Can't we be real here and stop pretending — from an official municipal standpoint — that Christmas is an unhealthy fabrication we should run away from?

Purse taken from vehicle

Westland police were dispatched Oct. 8 to a residence in the 29000 block of Lacy on the report of a stolen purse from a vehicle.

The owner told police she had forgotten her purse in the car the night before along with a pair of keys. She parked the car the night before and came out the next morning to find someone had rummaged through it. She said the passenger door was open and her purse was missing. No damage was done as the car was unlocked overnight.

Bicycle stolen

A resident who lives in the 7000 block of East

Woodbridge came into the police station Oct. 10 to report the theft of a bicycle.

She said the bicycle was taken from the patio of her apartment. She last saw it earlier that morning and noticed it was missing in the afternoon.

Window broken at church

Police were dispatched Oct. 10 to The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 7575 N. Hix, on the report of some damage done to a window on the building.

Police spoke to the facilities manager, who said someone damaged the southwest window of the building and that it took place sometime overnight. Damage was seen on the frame of the window, which was forced open. There was no signs of attempted burglary of the building.

Lost purse reported

A shopper at Kroger, 31300 Michigan Ave., came into the police station Oct. 5 to report she had lost her purse while at the store the night before.

She said the purse and its contents went missing the night before. She had canceled her credit cards and found no fraudulent purchases had been made using her accounts.

Fraudulent check mailed to resident

A resident who lives in the 37000 block of Dale came into the police station Oct. 3 to report a fraudulent check sent to him via a Craigslist transaction.

The resident said he was contacted by someone via the website to ask about a vehicle he was selling. He said the suspect mailed a $5,300 check as payment for the car. The resident deposited the check and it cleared initially, though he said something didn't seem right and he checked with the company on the check about it. The company told him it was fraudulent. The man then contacted his bank to hold the check, as well as the suspect. The resident said the suspect has harassed him about returning the money and even threatened violence against him.

LIVONIA POLICE BRIEFS

Fight over 50-cent lighter

Livonia police were called early Friday morning to Exxon, 28651 Plymouth, on the report of an argument over a lighter at the station.

Police arrived and saw the suspect's vehicle parked across the street. Police then tried to stop the vehicle, which drove down Plymouth Road and stopped at a home in the 11600 block of Haller.

The driver was asked by police at the home to show her license and registration, though she refused. Police asked her to leave the vehicle and she did not comply. Backup arrived and arrested the driver for resisting and also arrested the passenger in the vehicle for having an outstanding warrant out of Westland.

Police spoke to the store clerk, who said there was an argument between them over the price of a 50-cent lighter. The clerk said it was only verbal and not physical and did not want to press charges, but only remove them from the property.

Burglary of home reported

Police were dispatched Oct. 11 to a home in the 9800 block of Fairfield on the report of a burglary that had taken place.

The homeowner and her daughter had left the home for a few hours that morning. They returned to find one of the home's rooms ransacked. There was no sign of forced entry, though the resident said some windows had been left propped open and the home could have been accessed that way. Only one bedroom was ransacked, with clothing thrown on the floor. A jewelry box containing several pieces of jewelry and some credit cards appeared missing. Some cash from the dresser was also missing, as well as a pillow case.

Truck fire reported

Police were called Oct. 11 to assist the Livonia Fire Department at Interstate 96 and Newburgh on the report of a truck fire.

They spoke to the driver of the semi-truck, who said someone driving on the road pointed to the bed of the truck while he was on eastbound I-96. He pulled over and discovered a small fire underneath the semi, one he was able to put out before police and fire officials arrived. He said he believed a spring in the brake compartment may have popped out of place, causing the brakes to press against each other and create heat. No suspicious activity was believed to be the cause.

Car stolen at Laurel Park Place

Police were dispatched Oct. 10 to the Grand Tavern, 37714 Six Mile, on the report of a stolen vehicle from the Laurel Park Place mall parking lot.

The victim said he arrived at the restaurant that morning to work. He parked his car in the parking lot and went inside. Later that afternoon, he looked outside and saw another vehicle parked in the space where he had parked his. Police checked the area for signs of damage, though could not find any broken glass. The man said he had the only set of keys and that it was paid off and locked. The vehicle was recorded by police as stolen.

Redford seeks help in attempted child abduction case

hometownlife.com

The Redford Township Police Department is asking for assistance in identifying a man suspected of trying to abduct a student walking to school Oct. 12. The 13-year-old Hilbert Middle School student told police he was walking on Kinloch, south of Grove, when an adult male driving a blue car approached him, according to a Nixle alert put out by the police department that morning. Police say the man asked the boy if he wanted a ride, which the boy said "no" to. The man then got out of his car and grabbed the student's wrist. The boy said he was able to pull away and run to the school. The suspect is described as a male in his 40s, about 6 feet, 1 inch, with a medium build and a gray beard. He was wearing a black hooded sweatshirt and a black hat and was driving a blue four-door vehicle of an unknown make and model. Anyone with information is encouraged to call Redford police at 313-387-2555 and reference case No. 17-07002. Police are asking residents with security cameras that may have captured footage of the incident to come forward as well.

State Sen. Pat Colbeck, running for governor, has been removed from four committees. ERIC SEALS | DETROIT FREE PRESS

Colbeck kicked off state Senate committees

Kathleen Gray
Detroit Free Press

He's arguably the most vocal conservative in the Michigan Senate, often rubbing colleagues the wrong way for loudly and frequently criticizing their decisions.

He's also running for governor and taking his right-wing ideas to districts — both Republican and Democrat — across the state.

And now, Sen. Patrick Colbeck, R-Canton, is even further isolated in the 38-member Senate. Late Tuesday, he was informed that the chamber's GOP leadership had removed him from the four committees on which he serves.

"This is swamp politics and this is exactly what people are ticked off about," Colbeck said.

Though Colbeck won't be serving on the four committees — Judiciary; Education; Veterans, Military Affairs and Homeland Security; and the Michigan State Police Subcommittee — he said he'll ramp up his vocal criticism of policies he doesn't support.

"I'll hit with both barrels on policy issues," he said. "I didn't come here to serve the Senate majority leader."

Insurance policy increases should trigger questions

One of the questions I am often asked is what happens when you receive a letter from your long-term care insurance company stating your premium is going to increase substantially. This is an issue that has become all too frequent when it comes to long-term care. In today's world, it's not unusual for a long-term care company to raise premiums by as much as 40 percent. In addition, it's not unusual for long-term care policies to seek substantial premium increases every few years. The result is that many seniors are forced to make a decision as to what they should do with their long-term care insurance.

Rick Bloom
MONEY MATTERS

Typically, when a long-term care insurance company notifies you of a premium increase, there are generally a few options. The first is to do nothing. With this option, you would continue to make your same premium payment, but your benefits would be reduced. Another option is to reduce the benefit period. For example, you may have had a policy that would pay you for life, but by reducing that to three years, it would substantially lower your premiums.

The bottom line is, there are options. The key is to determine whether any of these options apply to your situation. When you receive a notice of a premium increase, the first thing is to determine whether the policy is necessary. Don't focus on what you paid in the past, because that is immaterial to the issue at hand, which is, should you continue the policy? When it comes to any type of insurance, it is need-based. The question is, do you need the coverage? If the answer is no, then you should cancel your policy. If you do need the coverage, you need to proceed differently.

If you determine that you need a long-term care policy, it makes sense to not only review the options with your existing company, but also get some competitive bids from other companies. You may find that by shopping the policy around, you can significantly lower your premiums.

When people purchase insurance, they tend to select the least expensive premium. Although I am a big believer in the importance of saving money and shopping around, it is important to remember that the cheapest policy is not necessarily the best. Particularly with long-term care insurance, how the company pays its claims is essential. If you are going to research a new company, make sure you spend time understanding how the company pays its claims. In addition, I also want to check out the company's history with regard to raising premiums.

Like other profession, there's good and bad. If you're dealing with a long-term care agent who is only concerned about selling you a policy, your best course of action is to walk away. You want to make sure that you're dealing with an agent you can ask questions to and one who is honest. If you're dealing with a long-term care agent and they're not being upfront and honest with you, it is a sure sign you need to make a change. The key is not to let anyone pressure you into buying a policy. You should not buy a policy until you've had the opportunity to check the company out independently.

Unfortunately, premium increases are the norm when it comes to long-term care. You should not buy a policy based on the fact that the premiums won't increase, because they will. The key is to be able to find an affordable policy that meets your individual needs.

Good luck!

Seedlings auction: Win-win for bidders, blind kids

Win great prizes for yourself or holiday gifts and help blind children learn to read by bidding in an online auction Nov. 1-14 benefiting Seedlings Braille Books for Children, a nonprofit in Livonia.

Auction items include Disney Park Hopper Passes; tickets to Detroit Red Wings, Lions and Tigers games; a two-night stay at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island; a Crystal Mountain weekend getaway; golf packages; Amazon gift cards; tickets to the Henry Ford, Detroit Symphony Orchestra and "Nutcracker" ballet; helicopter and riverboat rides; restaurant gift certificates; and more.

Check out the more than 200 items or make a cash donation at www.BiddingForGood.com/braillebooks.

"We have an amazing variety of items and we'll continue to add more leading up to and even after the auction opens," said Karen Smith, Seedlings' community outreach manager. "Everyone should find something they want to bid on."

Seedlings hopes to raise $15,000 for 1,500 braille books for blind and visually impaired children.

"Blind children are at a disadvantage when it comes to learning to read," Seedlings founder/director Debra Bonde said. "For every 100 books a sighted child

Win a two-night stay, with meals included, at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, left, in Seedlings' online auction Nov. 1-14. Go to www.BiddingForGood.com/braillebooks to bid. Other prizes include three sets of Red Wings tickets for games during the inaugural season in the Little Caesars Arena or four one-day Park Hopper Passes to Walt Disney World. SEEDLINGS might have, a blind child might have only five because braille books are scarce and often expensive."

Seedlings gives half of its books away for free and the other half are sold for an average of only $10 a book.

Braille literacy is key to a life of independence and opportunity, according to the National Federation of the Blind. Children fluent in braille have an 80-percent chance of being gainfully employed as adults, compared to only a 20-percent chance if they are not.

"Literacy is just as important for blind children as it is for sighted children," Bonde said.

"Yet because braille books are rare and expensive, sometimes costing more than $100 each, blind children have less opportunity to hone their reading skills. Seedlings' free and low-cost books help to give blind children the chance to become fluent braille readers, which they need for success in school and life."

Other great auction items include tickets to the 2018 Detroit Grand Prix, an overnight stay at Whitefish Point, a baseball signed by Detroit Tigers infielder Ian Kinsler, lunch with WXYZ-TV (Channel 7) anchor Carolyn Clifford, a VIP tour of Leader Dogs for the Blind, tickets to Pictured Rocks Cruises, a family pass to Huckleberry Railroad and Crossroads Village, Zingerman's and Cherry Republic gift baskets, passes to the Frederik Meijer Gardens and spots on the Wheelhouse Detroit Bike Tour.

RECORD-BREAKING NIGHT

Herrington stands atop state's wins list

Harrison's Herrington reaches 431 career victories to set MHSAA record

Marty Budner
hometownlife.com

John Herrington stands alone.

Farmington Harrison dominated Berkley, 39-0, Friday to give Herrington his 431st career triumph. The milestone victory makes him the state's winningest head coach, surpassing former Brother Rice head coach Al Fracassa, who retired with 430 wins following the 2013 season.

The feat was a bit anti-dramatic after tying the mark last week with a huge upset victory over state-ranked Oak Park.

Herrington, nonetheless, wore his customary ear-to-ear grin as he was formally honored after the game as the state's most decorated head coach.

Gathered in the midst of his team, senior captain Ovie Oghoufo presented Herrington with the game ball with the No. 431 written on it. School officials also had a banner and balloons in his honor to celebrate the event.

"It's great. I never looked at it like it was me against Al (Fracassa)," said Herrington, whose team hiked its overall record to 6-2. "It's just longevity and being able to stay consistent and win year in and year out. And we've been able to do that."

'It's just a great day'

Oghoufo, the all-state standout headed to the University of Notre Dame, has played three varsity seasons for Herrington. He was elated to be part of the team that broke the record.

"I know he doesn't really think about (the record) much, but we think about it a lot," Oghoufo said. "We love him and it's just a great day. It was definitely something that was Salem's Camille Burt relishes the challenge of improving her performance each and every time she launches off the diving board.

Consider floating high above a potentially dangerous diving board, twisting and turning and finally making a smooth landing — into the aqua safety net below.

For Salem senior diver Camille Burt, looking to return to the state meet in November after finishing 10th in 2016 (with 388.70 points), others can ponder on those images if they want.

But in order to have success, and safety, as a high school diver, one must pretty much tune out everything except banking on good old muscle memory.

"Fear is a big part of diving, so you have to have mental toughness," Burt said. "You just can't let fear take control, you have to be in control of your own body."

"I still have fear, but it's just getting over it and working your way through that."

Also consider that Burt doesn't mind the so-called "danger zone" because she loves diving and the adrenaline that goes with completing a set of dives (there are 11 different dives required for conference and state meets; prep dual meets have six dives on the agenda).

"There's different directions, there's front, back, inward and reverse," Burt said. "So inward, you're jumping backwards and going forwards towards the board. In reverse, you're jumping forwards and going

Novi wins sixth straight regional

Novi's margin for error was razor-thin heading into Friday's MHSAA Division 1 4 boys tennis regional tournament at home.

That's because the Wildcats were coming off a 23-22 triumph over rival Northville for the Kensington Lakes Activities Association championship just a week earlier at Plymouth.

But after winning a pair of singles titles and taking three of four doubles flights, Novi captured its sixth regional title in a row with 29 points and will be joined at the state finals this weekend at the Greater Midland Community Tennis by the Mustangs, who took second with 24.

"Walled Lake Central beating Northville at No. 1 and 2 singles separated the gap there," first-year Novi coach Dan Lowes said. "And Catholic Central beat Northville at No. 4 doubles as well and that created a little more separation."

In singles, Novi's Alex Wen (No. 1) improved to 24-3 on the year with a 6-4, 6-3 triumph over Central's Denali Kitayama. The Wildcats' Sid Amarnath (No. 2) also won in straight sets over Central's Andrei Paduraru, 6-0, 6-1, as

Female kickers get unique chance to oppose each other in Week 9 match-up

hometownlife.com

Alex Sherlock and Lynn Lerner are close friends and former soccer teammates with the Michigan Jaguars travel team.

But all of that will go by the wayside for a couple of hours Oct. 20. They both kick on a varsity football team — Sherlock at Garden City and Lerner at North Farmington.

The Week 9 match-up (North at Garden City) will be the first, and likely only, time the 17-year-old seniors will oppose each other and they can't wait.

"We really didn't think we would (square off), but it's pretty cool," Sherlock said.

"I'm really close friends with her, so it will be cool to play against her," Lerner said. "We're both really excited about it and I think it's going to be cool to have two girls playing each other in football."

"Since the schedule came out last year, we've really been looking forward to this."

Nothing like it

Although the longtime pals have a serious soccer background, they love the excitement of a football game night.

"It's a rush every time you go out on the field," Sherlock said. "I love soccer, but I don't get the same type of feeling."

"There's not as many fans and it's not as exciting for a soccer game. Nobody really gets to do this, not that many people. So it is one-of-a-kind feeling."

Concurring was Lerner, who actually hopes to try out for Duke's football team next year.

"It's awesome. I love being part of this team," Lerner said. "Obviously, it's hard being the only girl, but everyone's really great about it. They are all very accepting and I'm definitely happy that I came out for the team."

"It's changed my life in so many ways. It's made me a lot more outgoing and I love being part of this team."

Sherlock is coming back from a knee injury, which happened playing soccer last spring, but she insisted during practice Oct. 12 that she was ready to go. She hopes to fare better than in her earlier attempt to return to the Cougars, during the homecoming game against Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

"I slipped and just wiped out and barely made the extra point," Sherlock said. "So that was interesting. That was my first kick back."

Gaining acceptance

Some might think of female football players as a novelty, but the idea is catching on. More than 100 girls were signed up for high school teams in 2016, according to the MHSAA. And coaches such as Garden City's Jim Baker and North's Bob Chiesa said females must be able to walk the walk in order to have a roster spot.

"I think there's more of an acceptance," Baker said. "We've had girls come out and play D-line for us, O-line. On JV, we had a couple girls come out. We've had girls in the program."

"But Alex, she's contributed. She started kicking extra points and field goals as a freshman on the varsity team. So every year, she's been great for us in that aspect. But I have seen a lot of teams. I think we did play a team that had a girl on it."

Baker said Sherlock is "one of the guys" to her Garden City teammates.

"I've coached Alex since she was 7 years old in (the Garden City Soccer Club) with my daughter," Baker said. "I treat them like girls, like women. But I coach them like guys and the guys kind of feed off that."

Lerner also said there have been no issues fitting in.

"I've been hit before," Lerner said. "Nothing too bad, but I've definitely been knocked over. When it happens, my teammates will get up in their faces and stick up for me."

"The guys have all been really great. I'm lucky to be with such a good group of guys."

Here's a closer glimpse at the two friends — and football placekickers — who will face each other when North Farmington visits Garden City at 7 p.m. Friday.

She also plays soccer and basketball at North and is a member of the National Honor Society, an Oakland Activities Association scholar-athlete and 2016 Raider Ralph Award winner (for school's top scholastic multi-sport varsity athlete). She kicked two game-winning field goals as a freshman on the junior varsity team, including a 32-yarder against Birmingham Seaholm.

» Alex Sherlock, Garden City: The 17-year-old Sherlock is a senior kicker for the Cougars and is in her fourth season with the varsity team. Her career long field goal is 29 yards, as a junior on the varsity. She carries a 3.9 grade-point average and wants to pursue a college degree in pre-med — as well as play collegiate soccer. er's Garden City staff this year as defensive coordinator before being hired at North, there is no preferential treatment given to Lerner.

"This is my fourth female kicker now and I don't take it easy on them," Chiesa said.

"They are a player first. I don't care about gender. She has to do everything the guys have to do."

Patriots roll past Grand Blanc to clinch postseason berth

hometownlife.com

It took a few times inside the red zone Friday before Livonia Franklin cracked the end zone, but once that happened, there was no turning back in a convincing 35-0 victory over visiting Grand Blanc.

A power running game and relentless defense combined to completely thwart the Bobcats and, in the process, advance the Patriots (6-2) to their third consecutive playoff berth.

Veteran Franklin head coach Chris Kelbert watched like a proud dad after the contest when his players stormed over to the bleachers to celebrate with their fans. He liked how the Patriots competed on both sides of the ball in putting a hurt on an excellent opponent.

"I take pride in the fact our kids worked really, really hard today," Kelbert said. "It's been a good week. We've been just working and working trying to get better and better. The outcome is the win and we played extremely hard."

According to senior defensive back Keion Harris — who had two interceptions, including one deep in the Franklin zone when the game was scoreless — the extra reps during practices were well worth it.

"We had a relentless drive, for sure. We were hitting it hard at practice," Harris said. "Doing extra running, all type of stuff. Everybody didn't like it, but obviously it paid off."

Five takeaways from DeLaSalle's win over Detroit CC

Tom Lang
Detroit Free Press

Warren DeLaSalle earned its sixth win of the season and a spot in the state playoffs by defeating Novi Detroit Catholic Central, 20-6, at Wayne State's Tom Adams Field.

Here are five takeaways from the Catholic League match-up:

QUICK SIX

DeLaSalle senior Jacob Badalamenti returned the game's opening kickoff 99 yards to give the Pilots the lead. His run began up the middle, then went down the right sideline untouched and came one week after he scored on a 96-yard kick return against Erie (Pa.) Cathedral Prep.

"That's a heck of a boost," DeLaSalle coach Mike Giannone said. "We lost the (coin) toss, then we got it going on offense first. Jake, he did it to them last year and he did it to them again. He's just got a way of finding a hole. He hits it at 100 mph and he doesn't deviate at all and he's just a heck of an athlete."

GOING IN REVERSE

CC earned five tackles for loss, but DeLaSalle had six, including four sacks that totaled 46 yards. The last one gave DeLaSalle the ball inside CC's 10-yard line late in the game to seal the win.

CC junior quarterback Marco Genrich was 6-of-17 passing for 39 yards. Kevin Korte had three catches for 26 yards and the Shamrocks' lone TD. Senior Cameron Ryan was the team's leading rusher with 74 yards on 17 carries.

Needless to say, yards were hard to come by for the Shamrocks.

"Our defense, they are a reckless group and I think our defensive coaches, Brandon Bush and Mike Short and Rueben Simpson and Andrew Crowley, have done a great job with those guys," Giannone said. "They've got them playing together so I was really proud of their effort."

WINNING DRIVE

Late in the third quarter, DeLaSalle started a drive on its own 45-yard line with a 10-6 lead. A well-sustained drive that went 11 plays and 55 yards in 8:24 ended with a touchdown and put the game out of reach. The Shamrocks got the ball back with only 8:23 left against a Pilots defense that held CC to minus-10 yards of offense in the final quarter.

"We knew we had to come out here and it was going to be a tough game," quarterback Luke Promm said. "Playing Catholic Central, every yard is hard to come by."

he ran his team-best record to 26-2. Northville's Ryan Gallagher and Samir Rajani were the top seeds at Nos. 3 and 4 singles and did not disappoint.

Gallagher defeated Novi's Tim Tanaka, 6-4, 6-3, while Rajani downed Mateo Ponton, 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles, Novi's No. 1 duo of Aditya Chitta and Robert Chen, the top seed, won on a injury walkover over Matthew Freeman and Giuliano Daniels to improve to 25-3.

Novi's No. 2 team of Vekatesh Nagalla and Chris Kwederis, now 23-5, needed three sets to beat Northville's Nishant Chava and Trevor Kelterborn in the finals, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Northville's Pranav Dippalapudi and Michael Ying (No. 3) bested Novi's Ryan Krawec and Dilan Patel for the title, 7-5, 6-3.

At No. 4 doubles, Novi's Andrew Lu and Robert Xu, the top seed, improved to 22-7 by defeating Catholic Central's James Kinville and Brandon Falk for the title, 6-3, 6-3.

Rounding out the nine-school regional field were Novi Detroit Catholic Central, third place (15); Walled Lake Northern, fourth (10); Walled Lake Central, fifth (7); Howell, sixth (5); White Lake Lakeland, seventh (4); Brighton, eighth (2); and Hartland, ninth (10).

Oct. 12 at Salem but were delayed by rain and moved to Oct. 13; the final two matches were held indoors Oct. 13 at the Livonia YMCA.

Brother Rice took first place in all but 3 singles (won 6-4, 6-4 by Canton's Kurt Seifert over Rice's Jonny Browne. At 1 singles, Jarreau Campbell defeated Salem individual qualifier Eric Liu by a 6-2, 6-0 score.

Josh Anschuetz defeated Canton's Jacob Paton at 2 singles and Zach Osterle defeated Canton's Sri Narayanan at 4 singles.

Qualifying for Canton were Naeem Saleem, Paton, Seifert, Narayanan in singles play and the doubles teams of Nick Huang/Vishal Nayak, Charvik Vaishnav/Vishwaas Nayak, Larry Lu/Akshay Jalluri and Sid Ganti/Alex Azjdel.

PATRIOTS

Physical defense

Senior linebacker Jacob Mass said "the best feeling a defense can have is having zeroes on the scoreboard at the end of the game. Out-physiced them, 100 percent.

Keion had an awesome game, two interceptions, can't ask for better from him."

On Harris's first pick, he jumped up along the sideline inside the Patriots' 10-yard line to grab the Colton Alexander pass.

"I just seen the ball and I knew I could react," Harris said. "It's always good when you're a corner and you tested, you're just able to go up and get the ball."

For as great a game as the Franklin defense played, the Patriots still needed to score some points to win and it took a while to finally break through.

After a couple of deep drives stalled (one on failed fourth-down try and one on a blocked field goal), Franklin sophomore quarterback Jacob Kelbert got behind lineman Marcus Martin, cut to his right and scored on a 3-yard run with 2:55 left in the first half to finally put the Pats on the board.

"Every single time in the huddle, I said, 'We got this drive, we have to thread the needle on this,'" said Kelbert, who rushed for nearly 100 yards himself. "And we did it. The third drive, we did it. I couldn't be more proud of my linemen."

Senior Brad Gibson followed with the first of his five extra points to make it 7-0.

"Offensively, we're getting better each week," Chris Kelbert said. "We're very young on the offensive side of the ball. Stuff like that (fourth downs) does tend to wear on us emotionally, but it was good to get that in."

The rout is on

Jacob Kelbert added a 21-yard TD run in the third quarter to put Franklin ahead 14-0 and the Patriots blew open the game with three more touchdowns in the fourth.

Sparking the outburst in the final quarter was senior running back Isaac Moore (24 rushes, 158 yards; two receptions, 63 yards), thrilling the home crowd with a 52-yard scoring run at the 3:27 mark.

Moore burst through the line, spun around and hit the gas up the middle of the field, easily outrunning any Grand Blanc defenders.

"It was all my blocking," Moore said. "When I saw the hole, I just ran for it, kept going."

Closing out the big fourth quarter with TD runs were senior quarterback Keegan Flaherty and junior running back Julius Simmons, scoring from 2 and 37 yards, respectively.

Following are several takeaways:

NIFTY COMBO

The Patriots had several trips into the red zone during the first half, the first time thanks to a 53-yard catch-and-run down the left sideline by senior Isaac Moore. He corralled a short screen pass by Jacob Kelbert and took it from there, finally getting pulled down at the Grand Blanc 7-yard line. The Pats were unable to cash in, however.

IF AT FIRST ...

Even though Franklin had excellent field position in the first half, it had trouble closing the deal. One fourth-down try came up short and another promising drive fizzled before senior kicker Gibson's 41-yard field goal try was blocked. The Patriots finally scored on their third do-or-die attempt, but Kelbert needed to make an extra move at the line to take it in from the 3-yard line.

D-LIGHTFUL

Grand Blanc's offense ran into a brick wall early, particularly because of Franklin's relentless defense. Whenever the quarterback could throw the ball, the Pats' defensive backfield had Bobcats receivers covered all night. Junior Cal Fournier and senior John DiPonio were pests, breaking up several passing plays.

SOMETHING TO BUILD ON

Moore said clinching a playoff spot ensured that the senior Patriots are solidifying a winning culture. "It feels great knowing we're going to leave something for the younger people to look up to and try to make them do the same thing next year," he said.

safety for her. She's a heck of an athlete. I wish she was coming back for another year."

Sherlock and Lerner — who also handle kick-off duties in addition to field goals and extra points — give as good as they get and aren't afraid of either delivering a hit or taking one.

"Last year, she was kicking off and she had a really nice tackle against Grosse Ile," Baker said. "This kid, if she didn't get him, it was a score. It was a touchdown-saving tackle, right in front of our bench. It was awesome."

"I knew (Lerner) was good at field goals, but when I saw her do kick-offs, I had no reservations putting her here there," Chiesa said. "She's just a quality person and quality athlete. She does everything for the good of the team."

It also helps that both athletes can really put a strong leg into the football.

"(Sherlock) has great technique, the best technique I've ever seen for a kicker," Baker said.

"When she kicks, as a coach, we usually have those toe-bashers. Once in a while, we get that soccer kid who can do it.

"She hits it soccer-style and, when she connects with that football, it makes that 'boom,' that sound, and you can hear it. You just know, 'Wow, that's a kicker right there.'"

Baker said Nick Janice (Garden City's starting middle linebacker helping fill the void at kicker this year because of Sherlock's injury) also "is a soccer guy, so he is starting to do that, too.

But when she connects on the ball, it's a whole different story."

Quick studies

What makes Lerner's efforts even more noteworthy is the fact she never kicked a football until high school.

"I knew the kicker for the football team is a soccer player, so I thought, 'Why can't it be a girl?'" Lerner said. "So, freshman year I decided to sign up for it at eighth-grade orientation and that's how it all started. And, here I am."

She attended football kicking camps and even worked out with professional kicker Pete Stoyanovich, a Crestwood alum who went on to National Football League success.

Meanwhile, Baker — having coached Sherlock for years in youth soccer — had an idea she might someday be a field goal kicker at Garden City (where he has been a football coach for 24 years).

"I really don't know why, but my coach, Jim Baker, he told me when I was little that I would be the kicker and it just kind of came out that way," Sherlock said with a smile. "I play soccer, so that really helped. Kicking is a normal thing in soccer, so it just kind of came natural."

And once the Week 9 meeting is over, one of the two kicking friends will have bragging rights for a while.

Win or lose, that will merely become a memorable footnote to their friendship as the teens go through graduation and enter college life.

a Hawk at heart. He said Herrington's rise to the top of the MHSAA record books is well-deserved.

"It's wonderful being a part of this program and working with John over the years," said Sutter, who was on the field and next to Herrington during the post-game celebration. "It's fantastic and I'm very happy for him. I'm glad that we as ex-coaches helped contribute to this situation.

"He's a great guy to work for and he's always been gracious and generous all these years and let us kind of do our own thing. This is really a great night for him. We had never talked about records or anything like that over the years, but I'm sure this means quite a bit to him because he's been such a competitor all of his life.

"He's been so tuned in to Hawk football and that means a tremendous amount to him," he added. "He's been here so long and his family was so involved with it. And his wife Fran was such a big part of it. So it's just the accumulation of all those years and the relationships he's had with all of his players."

Significant for other reasons

The victory was significant for a number of other reasons.

Harrison tied for the OAA White Division championship with Birmingham Groves and Oak Park, all at 6-1, giving the Hawks their fifth league title over the past eight years. Harrison, after missing the state playoffs last year, now heads to the postseason for the seventh time in the past eight years.

"This win was huge tonight. It was the perfect storm after we beat Oak Park," Herrington said. "Because if we hadn't beaten (Oak Park), we would have been playing (Berkley) to tie the record and we still wouldn't have made the playoffs. That was a big game last week, no doubt about it."

Junior running back Roderick Heard led the Harrison offense with three touchdowns, on runs of 14 and 17 yards, plus he returned an interception 26 yards. Quarterback Noah Hendricks scored on a sizzling 73-yard run, Joe Stephens had a 15-yard TD run and junior Ben Williams scored from 19 yards out. Kicker David Hiser booted a 22-yard field goal.

Harrison is scheduled to play Clarkston to close out the season this week in an OAA crossover game.

Novi takes Baseline Jug away from rival Mustangs

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com

The eight-year itch is over. Using an exclusive ground attack and a suffocating defense, Novi put together its most complete football performance of the season Friday night with a convincing 21-6 win over rival Northville.

The Wildcats (3-5), who were eliminated from the playoff picture two weeks ago, looked like a postseason team as they piled up 369 total yards without attempting a pass while holding the Mustangs (3-5) to 180 yards total offense.

But more importantly, Novi gained back the coveted Baseline Jug for the first time since 2008. "First of all, our O-line put on a show tonight," said Novi senior quarter Sean Gilliam, who rushed for a game-best 196 yards on 21 carries. "They were opening the biggest holes we've had all season. They played a great game tonight and (Kyle) Klosterman ran hard, powerful ... they couldn't tackle him. And the O-line opened up some great lanes for me, too. It was a good team win."

Klosterman, a 5-foot-11, 185-pound senior, contributed 151 yards rushing on 18 carries and scored all three of Novi's touchdowns on runs of 8, 59 and 23 yards.

"We kind of had a game plan where we were just going to pound the ball, so we stuck with that game plan," Gilliam said. "We didn't pass one time, but we came just came in thinking run, run, run, run."

The Wildcats, who led 7-6 at halftime, put the game away with a pair of third-quarter Klosterman TDs as they went with the exclusive ground attack after top senior wide receiver Traveon Maddox Jr. went down the previous week with a shoulder injury.

"Tonight's a first," Novi coach Jeff Burnside said. "We simplified. We went back to what we did. We were down Traveon, obviously, so we had change some things. We took a receiver off and put in a tight end and we're going to pound the ball, pound the ball. If it's third-and-long, we're going to pound the ball. We got ourselves into manageable downs all night and we were able to pick up some third-and-longs running the ball. That was good. That breaks your will when you're picking up third-and-eights on the ground."

Northville's elite kicker Jake Moody, who has 58-, 57- and 55-yard field goals to his credit this season, attempted only one extra point all night, which was blocked by Chad Howell in the first quarter after Nicholas Prystash caught a 27-yard TD pass from Christian Williams.

But Northville's early 6-0 lead was short-lived as Novi scored three unanswered TDs.

"It's was great to get the Jug back," said Howell, who played both ways on the offensive and defensive lines. "We've been waiting for so long for this. We worked so hard, we practiced so hard. And tonight the defense really showed. We knew we had to play big and we came out and played just like we had to ... executed perfectly."

Novi winds up the regular season Friday, Oct. 20, at Westland John Glenn (1-7).

Here are four other takeaways:

WILDCATS' BRICK WALL
Northville was limited to 32 yards rushing on 11 attempts, while quarterbacks Jon Michalak, a senior, and Williams, a sophomore, were a combined 12-of-32 passing for 142 yards.

"We did not protect the passer at all," Northville coach Matt Ladach said. "We weren't able to establish any kind of running game. They definitely won the line of scrimmage on both sides of the ball."

Tyler VanKirk led way with 6.5 tackles, while Matthew Wright and Klosterman added four solo tackles each. Deshaun Clayton added a sack.

Meanwhile, Northville transfer Antonio Washington had two interceptions, while Nikolas Williams added one.

"It's kind of tricky because they flip between the two quarterbacks," Howell said. "We just know we've got to contain both them because they're good athletes and they can both throw the ball."

PROUD COACH
Burnside got his first

victory over the Mustangs and he couldn't have been happier afterward.

"Lights out tonight," he said. "This is the first game all season where I felt like we played good in all three phases. We eliminated our mistakes. We had a couple key penalties but, for the most part, defense didn't make any mistakes. Offense didn't make any mistakes and special teams ... what a huge kick by Blake King at the end of the night to pin them on their goal line right there and run that clock out."

JUG HISTORY
It was the 49th meeting, including a pair of playoff games, between the two schools. Northville now leads series, 25-24.

"It's my first year at Novi, but the excitement feels great," said Gilliam, a transfer from West Bloomfield.

The last time Novi tasted victory against Northville was in 2008, by a 14-12 score.

"Man, I'm so proud of these kids," Burnside said. "They could have given in. We go to 2-5 and we're not making the playoffs and we could be thinking we're done. Man, I'm proud of them."

MUSTANGS REGROUP
Prystash, a 5-6, 153-pound junior slot receiver, finished with a game-best eight catches for 115 yards to go along with kick returns of 56 and 23 yards.

On the defensive side, Jordan Grewe had four solo tackles and four assists, while Max Cooper added two tackles for loss.

The Mustangs close out their season Friday, Oct. 20, at Salem (4-4).

"Obviously, we expect our players to go out and give great effort and finish the season strong," Ladach said. "I'd like to see us establish a good ground game and allow that to set up our passing game. Defensively, slowing down (Andrew Davis) is going to be a challenge. That kid is really good and their quarterback (Ryan Young) is, too. It's not like, yeah, we're going to stop their tailback, because then Young kills you. They're a pretty good team."

Could this be the year?

South Lyon, which posted a four-player total of 329, earned its seventh consecutive MHSAA Division 2 girls golf regional title Oct. 13 at Ypsilanti's Pine View G.C. as senior Elizabeth Harding took individual runner-up honors with 77. Other scorers for the Lions, who will be headed to the Division 2 finals Friday and Saturday, Oct. 20-21, at Bedford Valley in Battle Creek were senior Kendall Skore, fourth (82); junior Molly Mackey, fifth (84); and junior Julia Vess, sixth (86).

Senior Sophie Yeargin also earned a top 10 finish in eighth with 89.

"This is a great group of girls," South Lyon coach Dan Skatzka said. "I think we will be in a close battle with five or six other teams for the state championship. I really believe we have as good a chance as we have ever had."

South Lyon is coming off back-to-back third-place state finals finishes. The Lions also finished second in 2014 and fourth in 2013.

"As for those five girls who will be competing next weekend, we are averaging 17 strokes lower than they did last year," Skatzka said. "Four of our five are back from last year's third-place finish. As always, it will come down to which team gets hot for the two days of the finals."

South Lyon East (361) and Grosse Pointe North (371) also made the state finals, placing second and third, respectively, at the regional.

Senior Kiersten VanNorden paced East individually in seventh with 88, followed by junior Alyssa Strong, ninth (90); senior Natalie Aulicino, 10th (91); and senior Emily O'Brien, 11th (92).

Grosse Pointe North's Meghan Gallagher took medalist honors with 76, while additional individual state qualifiers included New Boston Huron's Emma Polski (81), Gibraltar Carlson's Chelsea Kovoch (94) and Trenton's Caroline Hourrey (98).

The five-member all-region team included Gallagher, Harding, Skore, Polski and Mackey.

BURT

backwards to the board ... there's always twisting, you can twist in any direction, really.

"I love diving, I think it's a really fun sport. I like all the aspects of it, the fear, the training."

Burt loves it so much that she wants to continue with the sport in college. Her goal is to land a scholarship with an NCAA Division I program, perhaps West Virginia or Akron.

All-around effort

According to Burt, her gymnastics background is a key reason for her diving success.

"I did gymnastics for about 11 years," Burt said. "It really helps you when you're in the air, being aware of your surroundings when you're floating in the air and it helps to know how to flip instead of just coming in blind."

"It gives you a lot of balance as well. Vault and floor, you do a lot of flipping in that."

The fourth-year diver gave up gymnastics while a freshman at Salem. Another member of the Rocks diving team, Jordyn Williams, continues to excel in gymnastics for her high school.

Years of practice in the natatorium, obviously, are essential for the serious diver to repeatedly (and safely) go from diving board to water.

"There's different drills that you can do or different dives to lead up to the bigger ones that help a lot," Burt said. "Before every dive, I visualize myself doing it and then I model walking down the board and doing the dive in the air."

Practice makes perfect

Like many sports, over-thinking can lead to the body tensing up and not completing the task at hand. So Burt simplifies things as much as possible, trusting she has her approach, launch, hurdle, kickoff and landing down to the point that it is in her DNA.

To get to that point requires hours and hours of training, some of it with Salem dive coach Otto Geisman and some on her own in the gym.

"It's all about work ethic," Burt said. "You can't just get there because you want to get there. You have to really try and train and push yourself."

She said Geisman helps her on technical aspects, such as "making sure my feet are pointed, that my arms are where they're supposed to be."

Salem girls swim coach Brandon Larkins isn't surprised by the level of proficiency Burt has reached in the last couple of years.

Earlier this autumn, she broke the Belleville pool record with a 246 score. She already has the five dual meet wins required to qualify for Division 1 regional, which will be Nov. 9 at Ann Arbor Huron. States are Nov. 17-18 at Oakland University.

"She's really pushed herself more and more. This year is a little bit harder on her," Larkins said about his co-captain. "She's going to college next year. I'm not sure which college she's going to, but either way, she's going to be great."

"It does put a little more pressure on her, but I think she can handle it. I know she can handle it."

Mind over matter

Canton girls swim coach Ed Weber's team also boasts an excellent diver in senior Annika Wang.

"We're looking for her to be ready for regionals and perform well at regionals," Weber said. "You have to place top 12 in the region. We have a very difficult region."

Weber added that divers put themselves in a precarious spot, merely by venturing out onto the board. To have the kind of success enjoyed by Burt and Wang, they must be able to conquer that fear.

Not everyone sitting in the stands or standing on the deck is able to, however.

"With diving, there's a danger of making contact with that board," Weber said. "That's what goes through different people's minds, through any training and competition.

"That's what parents flinch about when they're up in the stands and they're watching these girls do their dives."

Larkins said diving is a physical activity first and foremost, but "it's a lot more mental, because they don't want to hurt themselves by smacking the water or hitting the board ... they have such little time, with only one board right now, to do and perfect their dives."

Emily Weiner, the new girls swim coach at Plymouth, emphasized how much constant training and swimming at the club level between high school seasons can add to a diver's arsenal.

"I think the really important thing, especially going to conference and those big meets, is having those 11 dives, it's a really hard thing to do," Weiner said. "Those girls who dive over the summer, they only do six."

Burt already knows all the intricacies of those 11 dives and soon will have the chance to display her talents under the big-meet spotlight.

"I'm looking forward to trying to make all-state again this year," she said with a smile. "Just making my way up to the top five."

There's no doubt she'll be ready.
