Bud Prough honored by Westland

First Citizen has been active with many groups

Helping and volunteering is something that runs through Bud Prough's blood.

The Westland resident said he had fantastic role models growing up that inspired him to keep that spirit going.

"I grew up watching my parents do the right thing; they got involved in stuff," he said. "It just seemed natural."

An active member of the Wayne Masonic Lodge, 37137 Palmer, in Westland and involved in the Dad's Athletic Club softball league for several decades, Prough is a face to be seen around town. That spirit has led him to be named this year's Westland First Citizen.

Prough will be honored, along with the Westland Business Person of the Year, at the annual Westland Chamber of Commerce Awards Celebration. The dinner takes place at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 26, at the Hellenic Cultural Center, 36375 Joy.

Prough said he got involved in the Dad's Athletic Club league when his daughter decided to join when she was age 6. He's stayed involved with it since, even as his daughter grew out of the league more than 10 years ago, though admits he's begun taking a lesser role with it.

"I asked them, 'Do I have to sit on the sidelines or is there something I can do?'" he said. "They just reeled me in from there on."

Prough joined the Masons about 10 years ago after he decided he wanted to stay involved with an organization in Westland. He previously was a member of the Oddfellows, but decided to change organizations when the Oddfellows Lodge closed and the next closest one was in Belleville.

He researched and found the Wayne Masonic Lodge and decided to join. He served as worshipful master, the lodge's senior officer, in 2015 and 2017. He's been involved with donating books to students, assisting with fundraisers for the local Special Olympics teams and

NOT SO SWEET

This ice cream stand is heaven for sugar-free treats

A Westland ice cream stand is making sure that a summer outing for sweet treats doesn't turn sour for diabetics and others watching their sugar intake.

Dairy Dan, at 35705 Ford Road, in business for 62 years, has not one, not two, not even three, sugar-free flavors.

Try 24. Dairy Dan touts sugar-free, soft-serve vanilla yogurt that can be mixed with 24 sugar-free flavorings — cheese-cake, salted caramel, butter pecan, black raspberry, mango, chocolate and numerous others — to help customers cool off on hot summer days.

Owner Mike Hojeije, whose parents are diabetic, said there's a market for sugar-free products, though most ice cream stands serve only one or two options, if any.

"Everybody should have a right to enjoy ice cream," said Hojeije, who bought Dairy Dan two years ago and carried on the no-sugar tradition started 15 years ago.

Dairy Dan manager Elisabeth Addison said it's a simple process. It involves taking sugar-free vanilla yogurt from a soft-serve machine, adding whatever sugar-free flavoring a customer wants and using a "flavor system" machine to mix it and dispense it into a cup or cone, though the latter adds some sugar.

Westland police seek applications for Youth Academy

The Westland Police Department is accepting applications for its second annual Youth Academy, a week-long program designed to give high school students a hands-on overview of police work.

This year's academy is from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday, July 23-27.

The curriculum will include a wide range of law enforcement topics, including traffic stops, dispatch operations, evidence processing, Taser use, emergency vehicle operations and court duties.

There will also be a trip to the Wayne County Regional Police Academy at Schoolcraft College and a presentation about the Westland Police Explorer program for those interested in a law enforcement career.

The Youth Academy is open to all Wayne-Westland Community School District high school students or any high school student who lives in Westland.

The academy is free, but space is limited, so the submission of an application does not guarantee acceptance.

Participants in last year's Westland Police Department Youth Academy practice fingerprinting techniques. The department is now accepting applications for this year's academy. WESTLAND POLICE DEPARTMENT

Each academy member will be provided with a shirt that is required to be worn each day of the program.

The dropoff and pickup location for the academy will be at police department headquarters, 36701 Ford Road, Westland.

Interested teens can find an application packet at www.cityofwestland.com/departments/police-department under the "Recruitment Team" label. The completed application is due to the police department no later than Monday, June 29.

For more information on the program, call Officer Brandon Paris at 734-722-9633 or email him at bparis@wlpd.net.

Dairy Dan

Sure, customers who aren't watching their sugar intake can still find the usual sugary options, such as hot fudge cream puffs, banana splits and toffee bar par-faits, that most ice cream stands sell.

But the Dairy Dan crew insists they not only have 24 sugar-free flavors, but they can get creative with them.

"We can do a sugar-free Boston cooler or root beer float," Addison said. "We can do a sugar-free hot fudge sundae. We can do milkshakes."

Customers also can mix their sugar-free flavors to create, for instance, a blueberry lemon treat. Sugar issues aside, Dairy Dan also offers its flavors in lactose-free, gluten-free options.

Friends Michelle Walsh and Katie Jones, accompanied by Jones's daughter Chloe, stopped by Dairy Dan one sunny afternoon and chose the full-sugar options. Still, they said more ice cream stands should follow Dairy Dan's lead on healthier choices for people who need it.

"There should be more places like this," Katie Jones said.

Addison said some customers ask for flavors such as real peanut butter, Nutella and cake batter with their sugar-free yogurt — decisions that do add some sugar.

Still others go for no-sugar-added, hand-scooped, hard-packed ice cream rather than soft serve.

It's all about allowing customers to make choices.

"When families come here, we want the entire family to feel included," Addi-

Manager Elisabeth Addison takes the sugar-free yogurt and blends it with other flavors. The mix is then dispensed into a cone or bowl. BILL BRESLER | HOMETOWNLIFE.COM son said.

And it makes good business sense, much like the 99-cent small serving specials each Wednesday.

Addison said sugar-free options "are really popular," with vanilla, strawberry, creme de menthe and butter pecan among the favorites.

It's a tradition that lives on at the Ford Road Dairy Dan. And Hojeije believes it's a good business decision.

"There's definitely a market for it," he said.

Prough

Wayne Memorial's JROTC program.

Prough formerly worked for Farmer Jack until it closed about 10 years ago. Today, he works for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools district as a bus driver. It's a job that made perfect sense for him, since he's spent so much time with young people volunteering.

"My free time was all coaching kids and doing things with kids," he said. "So I was a lot more prepared for that than most."

Manuel Sanchez, another past master of the Wayne Masonic Lodge, said Prough is a great choice for the award, citing his desire to always give back to the Westland community.

"He's devoted to the craft. He's well, well, well-liked by the members," he said. "I could go on and on."

Renting your home can provide income, but beware

Money Matters
Rick Bloom
USA TODAY NETWORK —
MICHIGAN

The other day, I was having a conversation with a new client and the question came up about renting his home for the summer. As the client told me, generally for the months of July, August and September, he lives with one of his children who live out of state. The client was recently approached by a friend of his who knew someone looking for a home for the summer. As the client said, it would be a great way to earn some extra money and he wanted to know my thoughts. Because many people these days rent their home or a room, I thought it would be important to review some of the legal and tax implications.

When you rent your home or a room in your home, you are becoming a landlord. As a landlord, you have rights and responsibilities and it is important before you let someone rent your property to prepare a lease that sets forth all the terms. These terms would include items such as how much monthly rent is, security deposit, who is responsible for utilities and maintenance on the property, such as cutting the lawn. I cannot stress enough how important it is to put the terms of the lease in writing. I would venture to say that the great majority of people should not be drafting a lease themselves, but should have an attorney draft it. Your home is probably your largest single investment and, as such, is worth the few hundred dollars to have the lease drawn up by a professional to protect yourself.

As a side note, it is important that before you lease your property you do some sort of screening of the potential tenant. We all know the stories about tenants from hell and you don't want one of them. Spending some time to pre-qualify someone is well worth the time and effort.

With regard to the financial aspect, there are some tax issues you should be aware of. The tax ramifications when you are a landlord are totally different than when it is your personal home. As an example, your condo or homeowners association fees can potentially be deducted when you rent your home, but they are not deducted if you are the owner occupant. Furthermore, if you are paying the utilities on your rental property, that can also be deducted, but as a homeowner, those expenses are not deductible. If you do decide to rent your property, it is important to keep track of all the expenses that relate to the property.

Many people believe that when you rent your property you do not have to report the income as taxable. That is not the case. There is one exception to the rule and that is if you rent your house on a part-time basis. The IRS defines part-time basis as renting out your home 14 days or fewer per year. If you do rent your house out for 14 days or fewer, any rental income that you earn will be tax-free.

For those who do rent out their property more than 14 days a year, your income, less expenses, does have to be reported to the IRS. There is a tax break for you that was created under the new tax law. Under the new tax law, pass-through businesses, which the great majority of people who rent out their property would be considered, are allowed to exclude 20 percent of their income from their taxes. In order to qualify for the 20-percent deduction, the total income must be below $157,500, or $315,000 if you're married and filing a joint return. If you are above this threshold, the deduction begins to phase out and it is gone altogether if your income is above $207,500 and you're single, or $415,000 if you are married.

Renting your home or a room can be a source of additional income. As landlords will tell you, it can also be a source of frustration. It is important that, before you become a landlord, you weigh the pros and cons. If you can find the right tenants, leasing your property can be a very good source of revenue. On the other hand, if you do get a tenant from hell, I can almost guarantee you will curse the day you became a landlord. There is no 100-percent guarantee, but screening your potential tenants and having a well-drawn lease are good ways of protecting yourself.

Good luck!

Cotter's NHL Draft stock on the rise

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Paul Cotter has been making the rounds prior to the June 22-23 National Hockey League Draft.

The Canton native, who as a rookie played last season for the USHL's Lincoln (Neb.) Stars, where he had 39 points in 51 games, is gaining momentum and getting more and more interest as the draft approaches.

So far, he's been interviewed by 25 NHL teams.

"The thing I try to get out there the most is just who I am," the 6-foot, 183-pound center said. "I try to maintain the same thing every single time of saying that my main goal is to be a leader. I expect anybody that they ask, whether it's a coach, scout, teammate, buddy, when they say, 'How's Cotter as a kid?' Without a doubt I want them to say he's a great kid, the hardest worker on and off the ice, great guy and a leader, for sure. That's one of the biggest things and I think my game speaks for itself."

Cotter, who some predict could go as high as the third round, will be in attendance in Dallas for the two-day NHL Draft, which includes seven rounds. He was ranked No. 112 among North American skaters in the final Central Scouting Rankings released in April.

Cotter is being represented by Keith McKittrick, an NHLPA-certified player agent with Gold Star Sports Management Group.

"To me, as long as it happens, it happens," Cotter said. "And if it doesn't, it's going to be tough. I think my whole life so far has been under the radar. It would be good to get this recognition, but if it doesn't, you go on. At the end of the day, if it doesn't happen, the draft is just a number. But it would be great to have a team I know I can work for toward and pass guys in the future. But I'll be doing the same thing either way. Hopefully, it happens. But if it doesn't, it doesn't."

Last season in Lincoln, Cotter scored 18 goals and added 21 assists with an even plus-minus rating as the Stars finished 35-23-1-1 during the regular sea-

Novi's Avery Fenchel said winning the state championship was an amazing feeling and more than she could ever ask for.

"It was crazy, it was a really tight game and it was really high pressure the whole game," Fenchel said. "It came down to the last few minutes, we got the ball up the field."

The Wildcats, who lost 3-1 during the regular season against KLAAs champion and Gold Division rival Grand Blanc, turned the tables thanks to Fenchel's game-winner with only 3:29 remaining, with the assist going to junior Julia Stadtherr.

Lakeland grad Kneen captures Michigan Open title

Jake Kneen played what he called one of the grittiest rounds of his life, overcame a triple-bogey bite from The Bear's 16th hole and held on to win the 101st Michigan Open Championship at Grand Traverse Resort and Spa in Acme.

The 22-year-old amateur, who graduated from White Lake Lakeland High, shot 75 June 14 for an 8-under 280 for the two shot-win over mini-tour player James Holley of Howell, who shot 72.

"Wow, I think I had six birdies, six bogeys and a triple (bogey)," he said. "Man, it was up and down today. I just kept my head down and kept fighting. I knew I still had the lead, even after the triple at 16. I just kept telling myself, 'You are still ahead, just make some pars and steady out the round.' Fortunately, I was able to do that."

Kneen, a former Michigan Junior Amateur champion who just this spring was the Horizon League Golfer of the Year for Oakland University, be-

1-0 win Friday at Williamston.

The whole sequence of events on the game-winning goal proved to be a bit of a blur for Fenchel, a sophomore forward who had nearly scored with 2:32 left in the first half when her shot was tipped and rang off the crossbar.

But late in the match, Grand Blanc goalkeeper Madison McKay collided with her own defender and the ball squirted loose inside the 18-yard box and onto the foot of Fenchel, who notched her team-best 22nd goal of the year.

"I really don't know, I was just running after it," Fenchel said. "It just went in the back of the goal and that's all that matters at the end of the day. We ran down every ball and it finally paid off at the end of the game. My team played a wonderful game. We left everything on the field. It's so exciting."

It was a great early Father's Day present for Novi coach Todd Pheiffer, who guided Ann Arbor Huron to a Division 1 state title in 2008.

"We talked at halftime that we played great soccer the first half," Pheiffer said. "The girls kind of had a little chip on their shoulder. The press the entire week said this trophy is Grand Blanc's. The Midland coach said we were going to lose 3-0. Everyone was picking against us. That's kind of how it's been the whole season. I think it's been a year of redemption for these girls."

Novi's back line played a marvelous match, shutting down Grand Blanc's vaunted sister duo of Paige Webber, a junior, and Faith Webber, a sophomore. The Michigan State commits had a combined 58 goals this season.

Eva Burns, a freshman, went one-on-one defending Paige Webber, who had 33 goals coming into the state final.

"We just wanted to stay calm and, like, not dive in on them and not let them turn and get opportunities and get behind us, because they're fast," Burns said. "I knew (Paige Webber) was fast, so I tried not to let her turn and, if she did, I let her take a big touch and step in in front of her and not give her the opportunity."

Riely Schultz, four-year captain and sweeper, kept the Wildcats organized on defense.

"As the center back, my job is to clean up anything that gets through and make sure that aren't any shots on goal or stuff," Schultz said. "Our outside backs and midfield did a really great job of not allowing any of those shots, so I didn't have to clean up much at all. Those (Webber) girls are both very skilled, very fast ... amazing players. We just had to keep them in front of us all times or else we knew they'd get the shot."

It was a crushing defeat for the Bobcats (27-2), who had outscored their six state tournament opponents 25-0 entering the final. Grand Blanc was gunning for its first state championship in school history after coming up short in 2015 and 2003.

"The girls battled, they battled hard all year, got us to this point," Grand Blanc coach Greg Kehler said. "This probably was the most pressure-packed season of all of them. These seniors we had, I thought, did a great job getting us here this year. We were probably one of the favorites to get here and we did. We just couldn't knock in a goal early and they got a late goal, kind of crushed our hopes."

The Bobcats had two golden scoring opportunities in each half, but Jenna Blackburn (17 goals) slipped in the box trying to split two Novi defenders with 28:00 go in the first half, while Faith Webber grazed a shot off the crossbar with 22:18 remaining in regulation and just over the reach of Novi goalie Callie Rich, who notched her fourth postseason shutout.

"We had players like Avery, Jessie (Bandyk) and Julia step up in this play-offs, but really our unsung heroes are back line," Pheiffer said. "Lauren Calhoun and Eva Burns played absolutely phenomenal. Eva Burns is a freshman who is going against Paige Webber. Even at halftime, they switched Paige and I said, 'Eva, you're going to come play on the right side where she generally plays.' And she did a phenomenal job - a freshman - playing on the biggest stage of her career so far and just did an awesome job. I thought Lauren and Eva were our unsung heroes and, of course, Jessie at midfield. She just played so well and was a workhorse for us."

And the Wildcats apparently learned from their previous loss late in the season to the Bobcats by playing a near flawless game. They finished the year with seven straight tourney wins and an overall record of 19-5-1.

"We were 12 minutes away from beating Grand Blanc during the regular season," Pheiffer said. "We let that one slip away. They just played with so much pride today and I'm so proud of them."

Under Brian O'Leary, Novi captured state titles in 2005, 2006, 2007, 2010 and 2011.

"I'm very happy, because it's my first year and it's just really exciting because we worked really hard to get this," Burns said.

And the Wildcats remain perfect in state championship games.

"It's exhilarating, the feeling of the final whistle blowing and knowing your team came out on top," said Schultz, who will play next year at Madonna University. "We worked together and played together throughout the whole 80 minutes and it was an amazing feeling."

Cotter

son. Cotter made USHL all-rookie team and finished first in rookie scoring during the USHL playoffs with eight points as Lincoln was ousted in the second round of the Clark Cup West semifinals by the Waterloo Black Hawks, 3-2.

One of Cotter's biggest boosters is Lincoln head coach Cody Chupp, a Big Rapids native who played at Ferris State.

"I think the thing he brought was a consistent, professional approach every single day," Chupp said. "He's one of those kids that you don't have to encourage to get better or force to try and get better. He loved getting better. That meant being in the gym, during practice, video ... whatever it was, he was hungry to learn and hungry to get better. Because of that, he was able to adapt and adjust to our league quickly and be an impact guy. I think we were able to see that pay off in playoffs. Those big moments, he stepped up in some big ways and scored some huge goals for us down the stretch and in the playoffs. That's just the type of kid he is. He wants to be on the ice in those situations. He's demanding of himself and it's a daily thing, which allows him to step up in those big moments."

Cotter could be considered a Swiss army knife, capable of playing versatile roles. Chupp said Cotter can also be extremely demanding of himself at times.

"There was never a moment that he sat back and said, 'I'm a first-year guy, maybe this moment or this situation is too much,'" Chupp said. "He always wanted more, he wanted more situations, he wanted more ice time. He wanted to be out there in those pressure situations, whether a big power play or a penalty kill or a face-off in our zone late in the game. He wanted to be a part of those situations right from the get-go."

Despite being away from home and his family, Cotter enjoyed his stint in Lincoln.

"Big city, the fans are a little nuts, it's awesome," he said. "They were a huge part of our success at home. We had such a close-knit team there, it was awesome."

During the 2016-17 season, Cotter made the decision to move his junior career as a 17-year-old to the Brookings (S.D.) Blizzard of the North American Hockey League, where in 59 games he tallied 60 points (28 goals, 32 assists) en route to NAHL Rookie of the Year honors.

Paul Cotter (right) enjoyed a productive rookie season in the U.S. Hockey League with the Lincoln Stars. BRANDON ANDERSON

He also made all-NAHL, all-rookie and was the Forward of the Year and MVP in the Central Division of the NAHL.

"It was really cool," said Cotter, who landed in Brookings after playing for the Little Caesars U-16 team the previous year. "It was my first year of juniors. I think just balancing the hockey and school away from home was a little bit of a challenge, but it was fun along the way, too."

Cotter, who attended Salem High School his freshman and sophomore years, finished his high school obligations by taking online classes during his two-year stint away from home.

"It went well," he said. "It was certainly different. You've got to hold yourself a little more accountable than if you're going to regular school. I think it's just making yourself do it and then working on time management. It was overall pretty beneficial with the schedule we had."

Cotter was courted by several NCAA Division I programs, including Boston University and Harvard, but he ultimately settled on Western Michigan University and head coach Andy Murray.

"I think it took a toll a little bit, being away from home, it was a little tough," Cotter said. "Close to home, college is a huge thing, as well as the coaching staff. Western's staff is just unbelievable. The head coach has so much experience with so many teams it was impossible to pass up the opportunity I have. The staff, the campus, the newer buildings, the older buildings, which has a little character there, was the perfect spot for me."

Beginning in August 2017, Cotter began to catch the eye of NHL scouts when he had one goal in the CCM All American Prospect Game.

In December 2017, he played five games in the Team USA World Junior A Challenge, with two goals and an assist. He also had a goal last January in the USHL/NHL Top Prospects game.

And after productive rookie year in the USHL, his stock continued to rise.

And Chupp believes Cotter has the make-up to be in the NHL some day.

"He's got the talent and skill, it's a big factor," Chupp said. "He has the ability to translate to play in any situation, play a depth role, play a first two-line role. His ability, his body, the way he plays ... it allows him to play in a lot of different situations. So he's a guy, if he buys into it, be on a fourth line, make it faster and maybe more attractive to those NHL teams. And everyone is intrigued by his talent level, that's for sure."

come just the sixth amateur to win the state Open championship and just the second in the last 43 years. Tom Werkmeister of Grandville, who became a professional this year at age 50, broke a streak of 38 wins by professionals in 2013.

"It means a lot and just really validates a lot of the work that I've put in," Kneen said. "This is one of the biggest tournaments of the year for me, personally, and it also validates what I want to do. My dream is to be a pro and me winning a tournament like this shows that it is not outrageous that I want to do that."

As an amateur, Kneen won the maximum allowed of $750 in a golf shop certificate. The $8,000 first-place check from the purse of $55,500 went to runner-up Holley.

"There you go," said Holley, who moved to Michigan four months ago with his fiancé and plans to go to Web.com tour qualifying in the fall. "Not bad. I just had to put an air conditioner in our house last week and it cost a lot of money. This will help with that."

Kneen, who started the day with a three-shot lead on Eric Lilleboe (Okemos) and five on Holley, had a lead as big as six shots after birdies on Nos. 9 and 10, but Holley said The Bear doesn't lend itself to a golfer pressing the issue.

"The big lead he had at the end of the day helped him," Holley said. "On a course like this, you can't get too aggressive. I had to stick to my game plan and that helped me. He played good golf. He probably wants to forget about hole 16. If he made pars the whole week on 16, he probably would have won by 20."

Kneen, who double-bogeyed 16 during the third round June 13, started it the same way the final day with a drive right into the tall grass that lines the fairway. He had to play out to the fairway, but then missed the back left hole placement with a shot that ended up short and plugged in a deep greenside bunker. He thrashed it out to about 25 feet above the hole and off the green, left a chip on the steep hill halfway to the hole and two-putted from there.

White Lake Lakeland High grad Jake Kneen captured the 101st Michigan Open at The Bear. GREGORY JOHNSON

"I made an absolute mess of 16 again," he said. "I hit six poor shots and a good tap-in for triple."

With his lead cut to two shots on Holley, Kneen made a two-putt par on the par-3 No. 17 hole with an 80-foot first putt from the back edge to five feet.

"I absolutely nuked a 4-iron 240 yards, adrenaline I guess, but I made a good par and then, at 18, I striped a drive, hit a good shot on the green and was able to two-putt and win," Kneen said. "I told myself on 17 tee, 'Just make two pars, just keep grinding.'"

Former PGA Tour player Tom Gillis, awaiting age 50 and the PGA Champions Tour in five weeks, closed with 70 for 283 and third place.

Mini-tour player Michael Nagy of Manistique and Andrew Walker of Battle Creek, a Michigan State University golfer, both shot 68 for 284 and a tie for fourth.

Lilleboe, a mini-tour player, carded 77, while Saline amateur Ian Martin, who shot 68, tied at 285.

Kneen, who this week will play in the Michigan Amateur Championship at Country Club of Detroit and turn pro in the fall, reasoned while he had anxious moments coming down the stretch in the final round, he would prefer leading over chasing.

"I mean, if you can make a triple and still lead, that's a good thing," said Kneen, who shot 5-under 67 June 13 after rounds of 70 and 68.

Kneen, ironically, almost didn't make it to the Michigan Open despite being exempt from qualifying as the low amateur in last year's Tournament of Champions.

He didn't enter, however, and didn't notice until the entry deadline passed. That forced him into the second-chance three-spot qualifier the Michigan PGA hosted June 9 at nearby Traverse City Golf & Country Club. He bested the field with 65.

"My mom is blaming herself, but it was on me, I'm the player and ultimately responsible," Kneen said. "I definitely didn't want to miss this. I've been looking forward to playing it."

COLLEGE SIGNING

Meredith chases hoop dreams to Saginaw Valley

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Basketball is going to be Chase Meredith's ticket going forward.

The three-sport senior athlete, who also played football and lacrosse for Canton, recently signed an NCAA Division II letter of intent to play hoops at Saginaw Valley State University.

The 6-foot-6, 210-pound Meredith, who played center for the Chiefs, also had interest from a cross-section of schools, including Siena Heights, Concordia, Madonna, Cleveland State, Albion, Wayne State.

Meredith said he reports to the Saginaw Valley campus June 12 to begin workouts through August. Last season the Cardinals finished 12-17 overall and 9-11 in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

"I really liked Saginaw as a school," Meredith said. "I visited up there for football earlier this year. When I did that, I really liked it. I felt like if I had the opportunity to play basketball up there, I was going to snatch it up. I revisited there during basketball season and that's where I wanted to be."

Meredith also stood out as a linebacker and tight end last fall for the Chiefs, but his gridiron days are over.

"I don't know if I'll miss the wear and tear on my body, but I'll definitely miss football," said Meredith, who wants to study business finance.

This past basketball season, Meredith averaged 12.0 points, 7.5 rebounds, 1.5 steals per game and 2.0 assists per game for the Chiefs (19-2).

"Last year, I thought I had the skills to be really good, but I kind of took on a role position player on the team," Meredith said. "And this year, I really wanted to prove myself and assert myself with a bigger role on the team."

Meredith, who also shot 59 percent from the field and 46 percent from 3-point range, became a big contributor this season as Canton captured the KLAA Black Division title.

"Chase had an outstanding senior year for us and he really took his game to another level from his junior to senior year," Canton coach Jimmy Reddy said. "His ability to score in different ways was a huge asset for us all year long. He also did an outstanding job of rebounding at both ends and one of his best attributes is his passing ability."

He credits his development not only to Reddy and the Canton coaching staff, but also his coaches with the Michigan AAU Warriors.

His father Scott, who played at Schoolcraft College, also played a huge role in Meredith's basketball maturation.

"He was one of my original coaches," he said. "I learned some things from my dad and just incorporate a few things from NBA and see what works. They all really helped develop all parts of my game."

In the age of sport specialization, Meredith is a throwback.

"As a three-sport athlete, he is someone who is always competing and I believe that really helped him in the long run ... in college he will now get to focus on one sport and I believe he is a guy who is going to continue to refine his skills and continue to get better," Reddy said. "His best basketball is in front of him."

Meredith is one of six Saginaw Valley State signees, joining Daniel Everhart (Marine City Cardinal Mooney), Jack Roberts (Melbourne, Australia), Martone Cole (Auburn Hills Avondale), Avery Lewis (Ann Arbor Huron) and Myles Belyeu (Trotwood Madison, Ohio).

"Chase will be a welcomed addition to the program after a successful career at Canton High School," SVSU coach Randy Baruth said on the school's website. "We are very intrigued to see what he can develop into when he focuses on only basketball after being a multi-sport athlete during high school. He already has great size, athleticism and skill, so the sky is the limit."

PREP ATHLETICS

Stevenson's multi-sport trio going solo for college

Tim Smith
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

It's encore time for "The Spartan Trio" — but what a winning tune it's been the last four years at Livonia Stevenson for three-sport buddies Parker Graham, Devin Dunn and George Ferguson.

With graduation day in the past, they'll be breaking up the band to a certain extent. But fittingly, Graham, Dunn and Ferguson celebrated their past and their future together during a unified college signing ceremony.

Each played football, basketball and baseball for the Spartans throughout their prep careers and, interestingly enough, each will pursue one of those sports at their various college addresses.

"I am not very surprised that we all chose different paths," Graham said, answering an email questionnaire sent to all three student-athletes. "I've always figured that each of us would end up choosing a different sport, it just seemed like the most poetic way of things working out."

"I will miss these guys very much, but I know that we all will stay in touch and get workouts in together and continue to grow as athletes and, more importantly, as people."

The longtime friends won't have far to travel for reunions.

Graham (2.8 GPA), a quarterback at Stevenson, will play football at Concordia University, Dunn is set to join Madonna University's men's basketball program and Ferguson will be a baseball player at Lansing Community College.

Both Dunn and Ferguson were among Graham's top receivers on the gridiron.

Dunn (2.9 GPA) also wasn't surprised that each is choosing a different college sport.

"All three of us have played all three sports all four years and we all have a best sport," Dunn said. "I will miss playing the other two sports a lot. Football will always be the most fun for me."

According to Ferguson (3.4 GPA), he knew as a junior that he would be playing college baseball. Likewise, Graham had his football future secure.

"But it was Devin that I wasn't so sure about, because he was getting looks from all three sports," Ferguson said.

Rare breed

Meanwhile, the southpaw pitcher said it "means the world to me" to have been part of such a stellar three-sport trio, something increasingly rare in the modern age of athletic specialization.

"I (was) very blessed to be able to play all three sports with Parker and Devin," Ferguson said. "We complement each other in every sport."

"Devin and I were Parker's top receivers in football, Parker and I ran the floor with Devin on countless fast breaks in basketball and Parker and Devin turned many double plays while I was pitching in baseball."

Friendship will continue for the classmates, even when they are taking new roads during their college years.

"It means a lot. The bond I have created with Parker and George throughout the past four years will last a lifetime and we created it while playing sports," Dunn said. "We all made each other better, whether it was during football, basketball or baseball."

Concurring was Graham, who routinely fired quarterback-like passes from one end of the basketball court to the other — with his football receivers snagging them and going up for buckets at the other end.

"It has meant the world to me playing with these guys," Graham said. "This is something we all have been talking about since we were 12 years old.

"We helped each other by pushing each other to be better. We all wanted to be the best in the group and that motivated us to each work harder and that has brought us our success in all three sports."

And Graham said he thought it was "poetic" that each longtime friend and teammate will be taking a divergent route moving forward.

"I am not very surprised that we all chose different paths," he said. "I've always figured that each of us would end up choosing a different sport. It just seemed like the most poetic way of things working out."
