Seven charged in abuse of patients

Five workers accused of assault at COPE in Livonia

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Six former employees of a Livonia-based psychiatric clinic and a psychiatrist affiliated with it are facing charges over the abuse of patients there in March.

Meanwhile, the Community Outreach for Psychiatric Emergencies, or COPE, reopened its nine-bed crisis stabilization unit, which provides emergency mental health care, on Monday, more than three months after it closed pending police and internal investigations and the retraining of employees. The clinic, on Schoolcraft Road, is part of the Hegira Programs, Inc., behavioral health service and contracts with the Detroit Wayne Mental Health Authority, which oversees public mental health services in Wayne County.

Kym Worthy, county prosecutor, announced charges Wednesday against four men accused of assaulting COPE patients and against a nurse and a psychiatrist accused of failing to report the abuse. The incidents occurred in March of this year. On Thursday, Worthy announced charges against a fifth male assault suspect. All five men were attendants at the clinic.

Hegira spokesman Dan Austin said the six employees were dismissed when the abuse came to light and the psychiatrist, Hanumaiah Bandla, was temporarily suspended but has returned to his

RISING STARS

Ugandan youth soccer team visits Michigan

Tim Smith

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

The grass sometimes is greener on the other side.

That literally is the case for a youth soccer team from Rising Star Ministries in Uganda.

Instead of playing on a so-called field of bumpy dirt and a few patches of grass, the U-16 team practiced Monday morning on the plush soccer field at Wayne Memorial High School.

"The fields are really good," said Moustapha Lalani, 15, a quick and creative attacker. "I like the grass, it has a nice texture to it. In Uganda, there's a lot of dirt patches, the grass isn't grown well or the field is uneven. There's bumps and stuff."

Lalani is one of 23 players (including one girl, talented Ona Aliakai) accompanied to the U.S. by coaches, chaperones and the co-founders of Rising Star Ministries — Wayne Memorial alum Matt Arnett and wife Brecka.

"I hope to see different styles of football from the other teams and incorporate it into Rising Star's play as well," Aliakai said, making a reference to what the sport is called outside of North America. "We hope to improve as a team as we play these different tournaments."

"Back at home ... most grass pitches aren't very good, because they're bumpy. It's bumpy ground. So this is great to play on."

Circle of life

Indeed, the Wayne Memorial pitch was almost breathtaking for the visitors. That was good news for Matt Arnett, a player on the Zebras very first boys soccer team back in 1995 and a 1999 graduate of the high school.

He said it was "surreal" to be back on that very field watching Rising Star players go through various drills before scrimmaging.

"To watch these kids play and train here, it all comes together," Arnett said. "It's life's big circle."

On Thursday, the group will travel to Minnesota. Other U.S. stops are scheduled for Nebraska and Texas before returning July 30 to Uganda — where Arnett said 32 million people live in an area roughly the size of Oregon.

"Every kid dreams of becoming a professional athlete or almost every kid,"

Canton ex-con charged in fatal crash in Wayne

Matt Jachman
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

A Friday night traffic crash in downtown Wayne claimed the life of a 54-year-old West Bloomfield woman and a convicted felon from Canton Township is now facing charges in the case.

Tyler Joseph-David Robinson, 25, is charged with reckless driving, causing death, and operating a vehicle while intoxicated, causing death, both felonies. He was also charged as a habitual offender, which could increase the length of any prison sentence if he is convicted.

Robinson was arraigned Monday in 29th District Court in Wayne by Judge Laura Redmond Mack, who entered not-guilty pleas for him and set a $500,000 cash bond.

According to Wayne Police Department Lt. Ryan Strong, Robinson was driving a pickup truck south on Wayne Road at high speed shortly before midnight Friday when he ran a red light and the pickup collided with two vehicles that were traveling east on Michigan Avenue.

The West Bloomfield woman, who was driving one of the other vehicles, was critically injured and pronounced dead at the scene by Wayne emergency medical personnel, Strong said. Police were not releasing the victim's name.

Robinson was taken to a local hospital for treatment of injuries. A statement from Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy's office said police smelled alcohol on Robinson at the scene and arrested him early the next morning.

According to state and court records, Robinson spent four years and two months in prison on a 2013 Livonia armed robbery charge and had just been released in April.

Robinson is being held in the county jail and is scheduled to return to Wayne's district court for a hearing Tuesday.

Westland native enters U.S. Naval Academy

Cory Routen, a graduate of John Glenn High School in Westland, was inducted June 28 into the U.S. Naval Academy Class of 2022 and will begin six challenging weeks of basic midshipman training as part of Plebe Summer.

During this time, plebes have no access to television, movies, the Internet or music and restricted access to cell-phones. They are only permitted to make three calls during the six weeks of Plebe Summer.

The pressure and rigor of Plebe Summer is carefully designed to help plebes prepare for their first academic year at the Naval Academy and the four years of challenge, which awaits them.

As the summer progresses, the new midshipmen rapidly assimilate basic skills in seamanship, navigation, damage control, sailing, and handling yard patrol craft. Plebes also learn infantry drill and how to shoot 9 mm pistols and M-16 rifles.

Approximately 1,200 candidates are selected each year for the academy's posed of approximately 4,400 students from every state in the union and a handful of international students. Each year, approximately 1,200 young men and women are admitted to the U.S. Naval Academy's incoming class.

Soccer

Arnett said. "And these kids are no different. They all want to play in the World Cup one day, they all want to play for top (professional) teams in Europe."

"While they're here, they get to see where they really stand. They get to measure their level against somebody else. In Uganda, there's not a lot of opportunities for soccer. We don't have any leagues for the kids to play in. The facilities are really bad."

Also pretty good during their U.S. stay is hospitality, not to mention plenty of fast food. Enough to make Lalani smile.

Like all of the Ugandan visitors, Lalani is staying with a host family.

"It's been really good, they're really nice people, very kind, very helpful," Lalani said. "The roads are much nicer here, no potholes. Very nice. The fast food, like (McDonald's), Burger King, Wendy's — we don't have all that in Uganda. We have KFC and Pizza Hut. We don't have Starbucks, wish we did."

One thing Lalani is really enjoying so far is the frappuccino at Starbucks.

Opportunity to learn

But it's not a vacation for the team. Players want to learn, they want to play well and they want the chance to someday have an opportunity to perhaps play for an American college.

"It is amazing, it's fantastic," Rising Star head coach Yusuf Kyambadde said. "It gives us opportunity to showcase what we've been training for ... to show what they can do for the world."

Kyambadde

"The ambition is to play in colleges and to play as professional football players."

One of the players Arnett can see making that jump is Aliakai, a midfielder who sticks out from the rest of the team for more than her gender.

"We've got one girl on our team who is exceptional," Arnett said. "She's got a lot of talent and one day could really do something."

"She does really well in school and she's super-talented. We're hoping to push her, because she has the talent and the intellect that she could come to America and really thrive."

Building a foundation

Matt and Brecka Arnett did not start Rising Star Ministries just for the soccer. Of course, it helps. But the former Michigan residents set the goal to end poverty in Uganda by helping give young people the education and spiritual foundation to have a chance to improve their lot in life.

And Rising Star players are not immune to poverty. "Some of the kids have paid their own way to come

(on the U.S. trip) and others are on a sponsorship to come here," Matt Arnett said. "It's a ministry, an outreach program. These kids come from pretty poor backgrounds, so they wouldn't have the chance to do such a thing like this if a program like us wasn't around. It's a really unique opportunity for them."

Brecka Arnett added that the organization is about helping young people "follow their dreams, but also along the way understanding the importance of balancing their life. So we focus a lot on education and spiritual guidance to just help them be a well-rounded citizen."

Also a key component of the "trip of a lifetime" is helping raise money to help update the soccer facility back in Uganda, Matt Arnett stressed.

About $35,000 would be needed in order to not only install a nice field such as the one at Wayne Memorial, but to construct a security fence around the perimeter.

"Right now, it's open," he said. "Cows and goats can graze on it. We need to put a fence up."

Arnett said those interested in helping the Rising Star cause can do so by sending an email to info@risingstarministries.com or go to Facebook pages (risingstarministries, risingstarug) or websites (risingstarministries.org; risingstarug.com).

Worthy, in a press release, said the victims were a 26-year-old Redford Township man, a 48-year-old Romulus man and a 51-year-old Dearborn Heights man.

Defendant Kyle Jackson, 31, of Oak Park, is charged with one count of assault with intent to do great bodily harm by strangulation, four counts of third-degree vulnerable adult abuse and two counts of assault and battery. He turned himself in to police in Livonia on Wednesday and was arraigned in 16th District Court.

Jackson was later released on a $5,000 bond and is due back in court Thursday, July 19, for a probable cause hearing.

adult abuse, one count of assault and battery and one count of failing to report the abuse of a mental health patient.

Demetris Hunt, 28, of Wayne, who is charged with one count of third-degree vulnerable adult abuse, two counts of assault and battery and one count of failure to report the abuse of a mental health patient.

Victor Peterson, 60, of River Rouge, who is charged with one count of third-degree vulnerable adult abuse and one count of assault and battery.

Thomas May, 59, of Westland, who is charged with one count of vulnerable adult abuse and one count of assault and battery.

Erma Owens, 80, of Inkster, a nurse who is charged with one count of failing to report the abuse of a mental health patient.

"The victims sought psychiatric help and were met with the opposite of help," Worthy said in the press release. "We have to be much better than this. People that seek assistance deserve compassion, respect and treatment that is beyond reproach."

Bonds for Bandla and Owens were set Thursday at $5,000 each and pretrial conferences were scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 8. Bonds for Dixon and Peterson were set at $10,000, Hunt received a $5,000 bond and May was released on a personal bond.

Probable cause conferences for Peterson, Dixon, May and Hunt were scheduled for Thursday, July 19.

Taig said detectives began investigating after Livonia paramedics responded to COPE early March 17 on a report of a man who was said to have been injured in a fall. The man's injuries were deemed suspicious by police officers at the scene, Taig said, and the man was transported to St. Mary Mercy Hospital.

The investigation involved several detectives and included reviewing video from within the clinic, Taig said. "It's very alarming to watch," he said. Taig said he could not discuss specifics of the victims' injuries.

"We've never had anything like this remotely happen," Austin, the Hegira spokesman, said Wednesday. "This is a terrible incident, but it does not represent the staff of the COPE facility or the great work they do in the community."

Austin said Bandla was suspended, without pay, for three shifts. He not fired because there was no video that showed he ignored abuse, Austin said. If the charge is proven in court, Austin said, Hegira will sever ties with him.

Hegira, Austin said, is cooperating with police and the Detroit Wayne Mental Health Authority and retrained COPE employees before reopening the crisis stabilization unit.

"In light of this incident, we have fully audited our processes and have conducted additional re-training sessions," Ed Forry, president and chief executive officer of Hegira, said in a prepared statement. "In our nearly half-century of serving Michigan, this is the first time an incident of this nature has happened and we are determined to ensure that it never happens again."

Bandla and Owens hold active state licenses in their respective professions, said Pardeep Toor, a spokesman for the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs. LARA, Toor said, will be opening investigations into their licensing based on accounts of the charges against them.

Austin said the five former COPE attendants charged in the case did not require licensing but had passed state-mandated background checks.

A person experiencing a mental health crisis can call the Detroit Wayne Mental Health Authority crisis line at 800-241-4949 or go to the nearest hospital emergency room.

Garden City teacher wins Legion award

Garden City school teacher Carla Young received one of five Teacher of the Year awards June 22 from The American Legion at its 100th annual convention in Kalamazoo. More than 80 teachers were nominated for the award that recognizes educators who stand out in competence, community involvement and school involvement in programs that include patriotism, Americanism and community service.

Young teaches at Farmington 5-6 Campus and has been with the Garden City Public Schools district for more than 19 years. She works with students to create and send greeting cards to service members, coordinates the annual flag folding ceremony at Farmington as well as has her class members enter the American Legion's annual Poppy Poster contest. Veterans at Ann Arbor VA Medical Center enjoy baked goods courtesy of Young's class. The Otto Miller Jr. Post 396 promotes the award locally.

Five state teachers are awarded annually by the American Legion, one in each of its five zones. The other teachers recognized are Larry Quick of Lansing Community Schools, George Lasecki of Sandusky Community Schools, Scott Doederlein of Gaylord Community Schools and Cathy Hill of Dollar Bay-Tamarack City Area Schools. Each teacher is awarded a $500 grant for an education project of their choice.

What a mess! It's Mud Day

hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

It was a dirty day at Nankin Mills Park. The annual Mud Day took place Tuesday at the park along Hines Drive in Westland. It is one day when youngsters are encouraged to get a little dirty while playing at the park. The event attracts hundreds each year to come play in the mud and this year was no exception. Mud Day attracted plenty looking to beat the heat and play in the mud, all before getting hosed down and heading home just a little cleaner.

Nancy Joy Brooks Browning

-- Nancy Joy Brooks Browning, beloved daughter, mother, grandmother, and lifelong educator died peacefully on May 4, 2018, at the age of 86. Nancy passed away in Colorado, where she had lived for eight years not far from her oldest daughter.

Nancy was the eldest child of William Henry Brooks and Madge Marie Moyer Brooks. Born January 12, 1932 and raised, along with her brother, in what was then the small town of Vineland, New Jersey, Nancy was surrounded by many loving and close family members and friends. After high school, she attended the University of Delaware, graduating in 1953 with a Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education. It was at Delaware that she met her husband, marrying in 1952.

Throughout her work life, Nancy worked as an educator in one way or another, serving, for example, as a tutor, teacher, and principal. In the late 1970s, Nancy began to focus her career in reading instruction, English as a Second Language, and alternative education for young adults. In 1983, she earned her master's degree in Teacher Education from Eastern Michigan University. Among other roles across the state of Michigan, Nancy was an instructor and later supervisor of the English as a Second Language Program, Whitman Center, Livonia, Michigan; Principal, Adult and Alternative Education, Curriculum and Staff Development, Bentley Center, Livonia Public Schools; and instructor for Eastern Michigan University Graduate School.

She was a consultant to business and industry, encouraging leaders to hire struggling students and teach them on-the-job skills. She developed curriculum materials, trained hundreds of teachers statewide, and taught countless people of all ages how to read and speak English. Well-known as a master teacher, Nancy was a highly admired leader, friend, and mentor to many.

Nancy was preceded in death by her husband of 55 years, Roger Dee Browning, and her brother, Robert Alan Brooks, of Warsaw, Indiana. She is survived by the family she dearly loved: her daughter Barbara Browning Carrio and husband, Glen, and Barbara's son, Brian Brooks Gaddy (with Robert Smith Gaddy), all of Colorado; her daughter Diane Joy Browning and daughter, Emma Joy Browning, both of Seattle, Washington; and her daughter Susan Browning Justice and husband, Russ, and their son Matthew Steven Justice, all of Farmington, Michigan, along with their son David Browning Justice, of Denver, Colorado. Nancy is also survived by her sister-in-law, Patricia Venita Browning, of Cottage Grove, Wisconsin.

A memorial service and celebration of Nancy's life will be held Sunday, July 15, 2018, at 3:30 pm at Ward Presbyterian Church, 40000 Six Mile Road, Northville, Michigan. She will be interred with her husband at Great Lakes National Cemetery, Holly, Michigan. In lieu of flowers, if you wish, contributions may be made to Plymouth Canton Community Literacy Council (www.plymouthcantonliteracy.org) or Ward Church (ward.church/give).

No one can replace such a beloved mother, grandmother, and person, the joy of our lives.

She gave every ounce of her life to all of us. We will forever miss her.

Neil McCallum

-- December 18, 1925 – July 4, 2018 Neil McCallum, 92 years of age, passed away on Independence Day 2018 in Milford MI after a struggle with cancer. Neil was born and raised in Detroit, Michigan to Neil and Edna (Turnbull) McCallum on December 18th, 1925. He had one younger sibling, Robert (Bob) McCallum, who succeeded him in death. Neil's mother died in childbirth when he was only 7 and his father also passed away a few years later. This was during the Great Depression and so Neil and Bob were separated to live with relatives. Neil attended high school at Cass Tech with an eye toward going to university to study engineering. After graduation he started college at the University of Cincinnati but when WWII broke out he enlisted in the Army Air Corps and became a navigator on a B-26 bomber. When the war was over Neil completed his engineering degree at the University of Detroit and went to work at GM as a safety engineer. While at GM he became acquainted with his soon to be wife Suzanne Freitag. They were married in 1951 and Neil was recruited to work for Chrysler Corporation. Together they had four children, Laurie, Heidi, Robert and John. They moved out of the city to Farmington in 1958. Through the years Neil was very involved with the family including taking them on vacations all over the country. He was involved in the Girl Scouts, the Boy Scouts and especially managing Little League baseball. As Neil progressed through the ranks at Chrysler he became involved in the National Safety Council and numerous other safety organizations including being Named Safety Man of The Year by the Michigan Safety Conference in 1984. It was during these years he was asked to become Assistant Secretary of Labor for the new Reagan administration but the offer came at a poor time. His wife Suzanne had a recurrence of a cancer that she had battled years before. She passed away in September 1982. Neil made the easy decision to retire early and left Chrysler at the age of 61, in 1986. He traveled north to Alaska and went white water rafting and fishing. He happened to go on a guided fishing expedition with the Knowlton family and made such good friends with them that he then spent the next 20 some years with them fishing in Alaska in the summer and as a volunteer helping with archaeological tours in the southwest during the winter months. In between seasons he would return home to Michigan and live with his children. In his later years Neil would spend nearly all year with the kids in Michigan and only the winters in his Park Model unit in Lake Martinez, Arizona near the Knowlton family and friends. Neil is survived by his four children Laurie (Pat – deceased) Vial, Heidi (Mike) Villemonte, Robert (Wendy) McCallum and John (Roxanne) McCallum, his nine grandchildren Lisa (Frank) Niscoromni, Emilie (Chris) Kaman, Adrienne Vial, Allison Vial, Erinn (Nick) Giles, Bryan McCallum, Ryan McCallum, Jessie Vial and Scott McCallum, and his six great grandchildren Raegan, Chase, Miles, and Paige Niscoromni, and Barrett and Lena Kaman. We invite Family and Friends to gather at George Murphy's at the Creek, on Sunday, July 15th anytime between 2pm-5pm. George Murphy's at the Creek is located in the Fox Creek Clubhouse, at 36000 Seven Mile Road, Livonia, Michigan.

NHL HOCKEY

Hain savors being draft choice

USA Hockey alumnus had to wait until second day

Tim Smith
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Gavin Hain sat on the arena floor, staring up at the American Airlines Center ceiling as the 2018 National Hockey League Entry Draft proceeded June 22-23.

The young forward, who played for USA Hockey's Plymouth-based National Team Development Program in 2017-18, didn't expect to hear his name called on day one.

But then the second day started and Hain remained on the sidelines throughout rounds 2-5, when another 124 prospects heard their name and marched up to the podium.

With just two more rounds to go, Hain wondered if his trip to Dallas would all be for naught.

"You see guys ahead of you that you worked with all year long, you're happy for them, excited for them but, obviously, you're still waiting to hear your name," Hain said, recalling what it was like to play the waiting game. "I knew I wasn't going to go super high (in the draft). I knew after the year I had it was going to be in the latter few rounds."

"I wasn't expecting to go as high as a lot of my teammates, but it was still nerve-wracking."

Hain tried to keep calm, chatting with some family members and friends.

TENNIS

ESPN analyst to conduct local clinic

Marty Budner

hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Brad Gilbert managed to find some time in his busy schedule and will land in Birmingham next week.

Gilbert, one of ESPN's lead tennis analysts, a former pro player turned coach and an author, is currently in England reporting on perhaps the world's most famous tennis tournament at Wimbledon. On July 20-22, he'll be at the Birmingham Athletic Club.

The 56-year-old California native will be in town for what is being billed as the Brad Gilbert Event to help promote the sport and offer tips via a series of clinics. The three-day event begins Friday with a VIP meet and greet reception along with a question and answer session and ends Sunday with a sponsor-exclusive clinic with Gilbert and the BAC staff.

On Saturday, however, Gilbert will interact with adult and junior players in a series of clinics from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. At 6 p.m. that day, Gilbert will be part of an exhibition match against some local pros and BAC players.

The clinics, for BAC members and their guests, are $50 per person and spots are limited. The afternoon exhibition is free.

"The history of this club is that the players here very much love to understand the strategies of world-class players and they love to watch tennis here," said Jeff Stassen, owner and CEO of Baseline Tennis, which runs the BAC. "We get big turnouts for our men's and ladies' invitationals, so I think this kind of fits into the DNA of this club. They like to see the pros.

"In lieu of having a pro tennis tournament, we feel we have our invitationals, which is very unique. And if we can bring in somebody like Brad Gilbert, who can excite our members with his background and knowledge of the game, then we can just keep building on that.

"We are offering kids clinics and adult clinics of all levels and we will have him on the court, moving around and playing in," he added. "Then he's going to be in that exhibition and that's going to be fun. We're hoping for a nice turnout for that exhibition. It's going to be exciting to watch."

Bringing in Gilbert

Cade McLogan, a Baseline Pro who teaches at the BAC, was instrumental in getting Gilbert to the BAC.

During his days as a student at Dearborn Divine Child, McLogan represented his school as a reporter three years ago at the annual Western & Southern Open in Cincinnati. It was there that he befriended Gilbert and they've maintained a relationship ever since.

McLogan reached out to Gilbert to see if he was available to spend some time talking and teaching tennis at the BAC. Gilbert accepted the invitation.

"(Stassen) and I were talking one day and we were wondering what we could do this summer to make it memorable (at the BAC)," McLogan said. "I said, 'Well, I know Brad Gilbert.' Jeff told me to give him a call. I gave him a call about a week later and spoke to his wife. I've been talking to him or his wife every week since and here we are.

"This was the perfect time for him. He's flying in from London on Monday to L.A. He comes here on Friday and leaves Sunday to go down to Atlanta for another tennis tournament," he added. "I mean, this was it for us to get him like this."

According to McLogan, the last time Gilbert was in town was 30 years ago, when he played an exhibition tennis match at the newly-opened Palace of Auburn Hills.

"He played Jimmy Connors in an exhibition there," McLogan said. "The Palace just closed recently, so I told him he outlasted The Palace and he thought that was really cool."

A long, enriching career

Gilbert played professionally from 1982-95, competing against such contemporaries as Peter Sampras, Boris Becker, Michael Chang and Stefan Edberg. Known as a defensive type baseline player, the right-handed hitting Gilbert finished his career with 20 titles and reached the finals of 20 other events.

His best Grand Slam showing came in the 1987 U.S. Open and in 1990 at Wimbledon, where he reached the quarterfinals. Gilbert, who posted a career singles record of 519-288, also won an Olympic bronze medal in 1988 in Seoul and captured a silver medal at the 1981 Maccabiah Games in Israel.

Gilbert is now a top tennis analyst for ESPN, where he has worked as a studio analyst, match analyst and sideline reporter on and off since 2004.

"We have a lot of fun stuff planned with Brad and we're really looking forward to it," Stassen said. "He's bringing some memorabilia from I think Andre and we're going to raffle off some tickets to the U.S. Open. He's also going to have someone over at his house in Malibu and spend some time with him.

"Brad is all about charity, too. He's excited and he's giving back. He wants to be out on the court and teach. Anything Cade had asked of him he said, 'No problem, I'll do it.' We're really excited about really developing an ongoing relationship with him. He's great for tennis.

"We're hoping this becomes a yearly type of thing," he added. "Whether it's with Brad or some one like Andre Agassi, who is one of Brad's close friends, we'll see. I think the sky's the limit from here for us."

Milford High School to again host hoops showcase

hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

After a one-year hiatus in 2017, the Reaching Higher showcase of Michigan's top high school boys and girls basketball players will return for its ninth year Tuesday, July 17, at Milford High School.

More than 200 athletes with aspirations to play at the college level will train and scrimmage under the tutelage of high school coaches from across the state and in front of college coaches expected to represent a number of NCAA, NAIA and junior college programs.

An educational effort by the Michigan High School Athletic Association and the Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan, the Reaching Higher experience includes classroom sessions for student-athletes and their parents as well as on-court drills and scrimmaging. The events aim to give athletes a vision of what it takes to become a college basketball player and also succeed in college life.

Participants in the program were selected by a committee of BCAM members based on nominations by its member coaches.

Among the area boys players invited are Gunnar Gustafson, Milford; Vinson Sigmon, Canton; Davis Lukomski and Justin Rukat, Novi Detroit Catholic Central; and Demetriess Champion and Wendell Green, Beverly Hills Detroit Country Day.

The boys event begins at 11 a.m., with scrimmages running 1-3:30 p.m.

The featured speaker for the boys session is Travis Bader, a standout at Okemos High School and Oakland University who played professionally this past season in Greece.

On the girls side, Bloomfield Hills will be represented by four players: Jordan Banks, Morgan Hashim, Nyvia Lyles and Angelina Savaya. North Farmington's Maya Kelly and Molly Simpson will also participate, along with Sydney McCaig (Plymouth) and Ellie Tisko (Farmington Hills Mercy).

The girls event begins at 3 p.m., with scrimmages 5-7:30 p.m.

Crystal Bradford, who starred for Inkster High and Central Michigan University and was selected in the first round of the 2015 WNBA Draft by the Los Angeles Sparks, will be the featured girls speaker. She played professionally this past season in Israel.

Longtime coach Dave Ginsberg will speak with athletes about social media and the recruiting process during both sessions. He coached at a number of Michigan high schools and also was an assistant men's basketball coach at Central Michigan University for 16 years. He currently serves as the secretary-treasurer of the National High School Basketball Coaches Association.

Longtime high school and college coach Marc Comstock — currently the boys basketball coach at Hudson High School — along with recently retired Saginaw Valley State University athletic director Mike Watson will conduct sessions with parents during players' drill and practice sessions.

Krolicki

speaks English, for the most part, so I think it's not as hard as coming from Japan to the United States," said Krolicki, who is fluent in both English and Japanese. "I'm trying to learn French as well, because I'm trying to fit into the culture here. That's my goal, for now, trying to at least understand what the coaches are saying ... they also speak in English, but sometimes they also speak in French. That's my goal, to be able to communicate with the coaches in French and my teammates."

After graduating from Canton in 2013, Krolicki enjoyed four productive seasons at MSU, where he recorded seven goals and 14 assists in 81 career games, including 67 starts. As a senior, he helped the Spartans reach the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament and was named first team all-Big Ten and all-Midwest Region.

On Jan. 21, the Impact took Krolicki with the seventh pick of the third round (53rd overall) in the MLS SuperDraft. He signed a one-year deal (with three option years) Feb. 28.

Although he has yet to score a goal or collect an assist, Krolicki has found his niche, starting the last three games as Montreal has captured three of its last four while contending for a playoff spot in the Eastern Conference.

It's been a rapid learning curve for Krolicki, who had to adjust to the speed of MLS play.

"Everybody is good, so you have to be focused every practice, every play," he said. "As opposed in college, sometimes you don't have to have your 'A' game and you can still get away with it because the level is not as high. But in the pros, if you take a break and you're not playing your best game, then the other team will punish you. I think the mental part of it is the biggest adjustment that I've made within the last year."

The pro game is definitely a different style, according to the 5-foot-10, 155-pound midfielder.

"When I was in college or even at high school, I used to just run wherever I felt like I needed to be," Krolicki said. "But Rémi (Garde), the head coach at the Montreal Impact, taught me a lot of things. It's just not necessarily running a lot, it's just running efficiently and just being in the right spot at the right time. I'm not running as much as I used to, say in college or in high school, but I'm more efficient with the energy that I have on the field. Just the short sprints more defensively, especially when the positioning is important, so he's taught me a lot of things that way. So I think I'm more efficient going forward, as well as defending."

The Impact, who are 6-3 at home and 2-9 on the road, play in 20,000-seat Stade Saputo.

"The fans are great," Krolicki said. "Every game, the turnout is awesome. When you play well, they cheer for you. Even when we lose, sometimes they might be hard on us ... that pushes you throughout the season to be better. Their support is a plus for us. It's been great for me so far."

Krolicki's first home, however, was Japan. That's where his soccer seeds were planted. He was a 2010 all-city select player in Kitakyushu in Southern Japan, helping his team qualify for the all-prefecture.

"I've always wanted to be a professional soccer player since I could remember," Krolicki said. "That has been my goal since I was a little kid. That didn't change, even when I came to the States."

Krolicki's father Kevin, a journalist who currently works for Thomson Reuters in Singapore, Indonesia, relocated to the company's Detroit headquarters with his two brothers Shean and Wray, along with sister Yuki. (His mother Minako Sugiyama still lives in Japan.)

"When I finished middle school, when I was 14, I just wanted to come to the States because my dad was American and I really didn't speak any English," Krolicki said. "It was a better opportunity for me to become a professional soccer player and my dad told me about college soccer. I thought it was going to be better for me to come here and all aspects of my life, soccer-wise and educational-wise. When I was 14, I decided I was going to move in with my dad."

The transition, however, was not easy, to say the least.

"I actually didn't speak any English when I was in Japan," Krolicki said. "That was one of my main reasons I came to the States, to learn English. I really didn't know much about the American culture, the American side of my family. I always lived with my mom. For me, it was to learn the other side of my ancestry. That was one of my main reasons why I came here."

After his father moved to Washington D.C., Krolicki stayed in Canton his junior and senior years of high school, living with his grandparents and playing for the Chiefs. As a sophomore, in 2011, he was a member of Canton's Division 1 state championship team.

Both Shean, who also played soccer at Canton, and Yuki, are University of Michigan grads and engineers living in Michigan. Wray, who is 9, currently lives with his father in Singapore.

"It was very tough," said Krolicki, who majored in applied engineering at MSU. "I was young. Everything I knew about American high school was through CDs or movies. I didn't know what to expect and, obviously, the language part was tough, not being able to express myself and trying to understand what people were saying to me. I think those things were really, really tough, especially when you're 14, 15, 16. But my family supported me throughout the journey, so they made it easier for me and my brother and sister as well."

Krolicki enjoyed a decorated club career, starting with the Michigan Jaguars before going to play for the Crew Academy Wolves U-16 and U-18 teams in 2013 and 2014, when he was coached by Lars Richters and Brian Doyle.

With his father being American and his mother Japanese, Krolicki enjoyed dual citizenship. Because of that, he'd be eligible to play for either country's national team.

"If they (Japan) call me or the U.S., I'm more than happy to play for either country," he said. "We'll see what happens."

After growing up in Japan and moving to the U.S., it's ironic that Krolicki now has found a new landing spot in Canada. He first got a taste north of the border when he played last summer for the Kitchener-Waterloo (Ontario) United of the Premier Development League.

"It's a lot easier coming from Japan to the United States, for sure," he said. "It's nothing new to me. I'm a lot older now. ... It's kind of a weird story, but it's interesting as well."

Cook

Marian, Cook bounced back with the ferocity of a sideline slam.

The vacancy arose when former head coach Lauren Duquette took on an assistant coach's role at Oakland University.

"The club director at Michigan Elite mentioned (the job opening) to me," said Cook, who also coaches with the Michigan Elite Volleyball Academy program. "It was a job I would love to have and figured it would be silly not to apply. I feel honored to have gotten the job."

"It was one of those things. I had taken a year off and I figured I would take a break from high school coaching," she added. "I thought I would only apply if the right job opened up and, sure enough, Marian is one of those places that is the right job, as far as high schools go."

Determined college player

Cook, 32, was a four-year volleyball player at Dearborn High School. She played in college at both Schoolcraft (2003-04), where she was an outside hitter, and at Wayne State University (2007-08), where she played libero.

A nasty injury to her left foot in a 2004 pickup tournament forced her to the sidelines for three years. Showing her passion for the sport, she decided to maintain her college eligibility. She eventually resumed her career at Wayne State in 2007 and excelled by setting a single-season record with 656 digs and a single-match record with 52 digs.

"I had taken a few years off because of the injury and I loved volleyball so much that I didn't want to lose my college eligibility," Cook said. "The recovery was slow and, for a while, I was afraid to jump, but I knew I wanted to keep playing."

"I went to college part time for three years so that I was eligible to play two more NCAA seasons," she added. "I could have just gone to school full time and graduated, but I chose to take part-time classes. I continued to coach, but I just knew that, you only get four years to play and I was going to play all four years."

Cook began coaching at her alma mater, returning to Dearborn High School three months after graduating in 2003 to serve as the program's freshman coach. She eventually became the varsity assistant/JV coach in a 10-year tenure before taking on the head coaching duties at Gabriel Richard in 2012.

The Fighting Irish prospered under Cook's guidance.

In her second season, Cook guided Richard to a second-place Catholic League finish behind eventual Class B state champion Pontiac Notre Dame Prep. In 2014, she led Richard to the Class B state quarterfinals and, the following season, took the Fighting Irish to their first Class B state championship.

Her time at Richard was not only memorable, but educational, as it helped her gain some coveted insight into the Catholic League.

"I think it helps that I've been in the Catholic League before and that I understand the league and the private school setting," said Cook, who recently moved to Novi from Canton. "It's going to be tough when we play Gabriel Richard, but it's nice that I had that year off."

A passion for teaching

Coaching is Cook's passion.

Outside of high school, Cook has made her presence known with the Michigan Elite program, where she has received numerous accolades.

In 2015, she led the U-13 national team to the AAU Open Division state championship and was named Coach of the Year. In 2016, she was named an American Volleyball Coaches Association 30 Under 30 Award winner.

She loves teaching the game and aims to help players realize their maximum potential while making memories.

"I enjoy teaching. I enjoy watching kids have those 'a-ha' moments when things click for them," Cook said. "I love to see the kids go from a first day 'hello' and 'this is my first time playing volleyball' to 'oh my gosh, I just made the freshman volleyball team' moments."

That is so rewarding to me.

"I just love the relationships I can build with the parents and the kids," she added. "I don't know that there is a better job out there."

Cook will be Marian's third coach in as many seasons. Duquette assumed head coaching duties prior to the 2017-18 season, taking over for Angela Kalczynski.

Although Cook feels bad for the players who have had to adapt to all the changes, she believes the program will continue to thrive.

Planning for stability

"After I was hired at Marian, I reached out to (Lauren Duquette), looking for any information I thought it would be important to know," Cook said. "She has been extremely helpful to help me be successful right off the bat in my first year."

"I know I am their third coach and it's one of those things where it's not good for the kids. I do feel kind of bad for the seniors, who feel like they are coming into every year having to start over, having to earn their spot again and learn a new system and a new coach."

"But I'm hoping for those seniors I can give them a season they'll remember and it will be all worth it," she added. "I believe they will all have a great experience. And for the other kids, I plan on being there for a long time and we're going to have more consistency in the program."

Marian has won two Class A state championships, which came back-to-back in 2009-10 under then head coach Irick Gardner. The Mustangs have been to the state title game on five other occasions. They also own 13 Catholic League championships.

Cook is well aware of Marian's history — she's inheriting a team that last year lost in the Class A state championship game to Novi — and can't wait to get the season started.

"I know there's a lot of history there and I'm excited to get going," said Cook, who will be assisted by Marian's former Miss Volleyball player Alex Cocklin. "I know we lost some key parts from last year's team, but I feel the returning players are very talented and I believe this team can get (to the finals again) in the near future."

Hain

"Yeah, at times they had to try to any-ways," he said. "But it was good to have them with you through it and take your mind off it sometimes when it wasn't going well."

Moment of truth

But things suddenly turned great for Hain, when the Philadelphia Flyers selected him with the 174th pick of the draft, deep into the sixth of seven rounds.

He quickly exchanged hugs with his family and friends and walked on air up to the front of the arena. He donned an orange Flyers jersey and cap and posed for photos with team brass.

"Huge relief," Hain said. "Waiting there, you don't know when it's going to happen and it finally does. I mean, with Philadelphia, there's not a better place I could think of to go to."

"So it's awesome being able to go down there and meet all the upstairs people and the scouts down on the floor. Being able to put the jersey on is a sigh of relief and there was a lot of excitement."

Before he knew it, he was sitting behind a microphone with more cameras and digital recorders in front of him than he ever had seen before in his life.

"It was pretty neat," he said, about the media scrum. "There's a lot of excitement, tension between everyone. It was a cool experience just being able to experience something you watched on TV your whole life."

Hain also received congratulatory text messages from his billet family in Plymouth, Laurie and John Birchler.

"They texted me congrats. That's pretty cool," Hain said.

He also received a text from one of his NTDP teammates, Joel Farabee, a left wing who the Flyers drafted in the first round (14th overall).

"Right after it happened, he texted me 'I'd like to see you in Philly' because the next day we went to the development camp," Hain said. "So we texted a little bit and the next day we saw each other, so it was pretty cool."

Before too long, Hain (15 goals, 20 assists, plus-19 for the NTDP U-18 team) was on his way to fly from Dallas to Philadelphia for the week-long camp. Just as quickly, it was over. Soon, he was back in the airport, this time going back home to Minnesota for some rest and relaxation.

Next phase begins

Next on his busy summer agenda will be a trip to the University of North Dakota, his future college hockey home beginning in 2018-19.

According to the winger, who prides himself on playing a solid two-way game, the actual draft experience matched his dreams of what it might be to officially become an NHL prospect.

"I think it met them," Hain said. "I mean, you're always watching ... you dream about going higher. It didn't disappoint me too much as far as that goes, but I think it met them, just the excitement and everything I felt."

Gavin Hain, wearing his Philadelphia Flyers jersey and cap, is flanked at the NHL Draft in Dallas by sister McKinley and dad Kelly.

chuk (Ottawa, fourth overall); University of Michigan defenseman Quinn Hughes (Vancouver, seventh); forward Oliver Wahlstrom (New York Islanders, 11th); Farabee; defenseman K'Andre Miller (New York Rangers, 22nd) and center Jay O'Brien (Philadelphia, 19th).

O'Brien played just seven games for the NTDP before going to Thayer Academy.

Ten players connected to the NTDP were selected June 23: defenseman Mattias Samuelsson (Buffalo, 32nd); defenseman and Birmingham native Bode Wilde (New York Islanders, 41st); center Jake Wise (Chicago, 69th); defenseman Ty Emberson (Phoenix, 73rd); forward Logan Hutsko (Florida, 89th); forward Jonathan Gruden of Rochester (Ottawa, 95th); defenseman Stanislav Demin (Vegas, 99th); forward Jake Pivonka (New York Islanders, 103rd); forward Tyler Weiss (Colorado, 109th); defenseman Spencer Stastney (Nashville, 131st); left wing Blade Jenkins (New York Islanders, 134th); and finally, Hain.

"Whether you go first round or sixth round, the work starts the day after the draft."

Meanwhile, he had words of advice for the NTDP players who were not drafted.

"They know what they have to do moving forward. They've done it their whole life, they've done it the last two years," Hain said. "We're not in too far a different situations, we still have to work to make it to the pros, make it to the NHL."

"We all just got to keep working and doing whatever it takes."

NTDP draftees

All told, 18 players with links to the NTDP were picked during the NHL draft.

How to use time in between jobs effectively

BY ERIC TITNER
 THEJOBNETWORK.COM

For most people, filling the time in between jobs can be a real challenge. We want to make sure that we're using this time to our advantage, but figuring out how to do so effectively — especially if it's a longer time period than we'd like it to be — can be difficult. It's really in your best interest to try to structure and make the most of this down time, both for your long-term health and happiness as well as to help set you up for your next job.

Build and maintain your network

In today's job market, cold calling and responding to general job ads is far less effective than it used to be. These days, a significant percentage of new jobs are obtained by leveraging your network, which includes your personal and professional contacts. Building and maintaining your contacts is an invaluable use of your time, and who knows — it may not be long before one of your connections comes up with a job opening that perfectly fits what you need and can offer.

Look for contract/freelance work

Just because you're be-

tween full-time jobs doesn't mean your time has to be completely work free. Many companies utilize contract and freelance staff for a wide range of projects.

Consider seeking out opportunities in your field or in an area that fits your background and skill set; not only will it provide you with some income, it will also help fill in any lengthy time gaps on your resume.

Plus, if you do a particularly good job on a project, you might be considered for a longer-term position when one becomes available.

Take a class

Keep your mind and skills sharp by continuing your education.

You can pursue a subject in your professional field — which may help you during your job hunt — or you can take a class in a completely unrelated subject area that interests you. Either way, your time will be well spent.

Volunteer

Another good use of your time and energy in between jobs is to volunteer. Not only will you be helping to support a worthy cause, you'll also be keeping active and could even acquire some new skills. You may even discover some completely new interests, which may help reshape your career aspirations.

Create a backup plan

If things just don't seem to be going your way and the amount of time that you're unemployed is becoming a problem, then you may need to invest some time in coming up with a backup plan.

Take some time to research alternate fields that interest you, industries where your existing background and skills may be easily transferable, and jobs that seem hot right now and have an abundance of openings. It may turn out that your backup plan pans out and leaves you happier and more fulfilled than your previous goals.

Just because you're in between jobs doesn't mean that your time can't be well spent. Use the strategies and advice presented here to make sure you're using this time to your advantage.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
