Hundreds pack Save Hines Park meeting

David Veselenak

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

The size of the crowd Jan. 9 packed into the Robert and Janet Bennett Library in Livonia had Northville resident Nancy Darga on the brink of tears.

She was moved with emotion over the number of people wanting to hear more about Hines Park and Wayne County's plan to sell some of the historic Henry Ford mills in Hines Park for commercial development. It's many of the same people who were involved in keeping the Warren Valley Golf Course in Dearborn Heights a golf course when

"I'm trying to not tear up, because I'm so happy to see this many people," she said. "This is an indication that the parks have a chance, because you're here to fight for it."

Darga, former chief of design for Wayne County Parks, was one of the people on stage leading the meeting, put on by the organization Save Hines Park. That group has formed to rally against the county's plan to sell some of the historic Henry Ford mills in Hines Park for commercial development. It's many of the same people who were involved in keeping the Warren Valley Golf Course in Dearborn Heights a golf course when

Canton man launches tequila brand

David Veselenak

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

If you have nothing but bad experiences when you think of the word "tequila," Don Ferguson wants to change your mind. He thinks he's got a product that will do just that.

"I love tequila. But there are different grades of tequila," said Ferguson, a Canton resident. "When you go back to your old college days and you made $5 an hour and you can barely afford anything, you were buying, most likely, Jose Cuervo."

His new spirit, Teeq Tequila, aims to change that perception and bring tequila and non-tequila drinkers into the mix. The brand launched more than four months ago and it's already for sale in restaurants across western Wayne County and in stores across Michigan.

It's a drink unlike many cheaper tequilas, Ferguson said, aiming to be a higher-end product.

"We're a premium sipping tequila. We're a tequila that is not going to be conventional in many terms," he said. "Most of the time, from the first taste,

Chive Kitchen draws vegan diners from all over area

Dan Dean

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Regulars with a diverse background, but common love for a plant-based diet, have discovered Chive Kitchen, the 100-percent vegan restaurant in Farmington. They come from far and near for chef/owner Suzy Silvestre's Portuguese-influenced creations.

Tucked into a small shopping center off Grand River, adjacent to the Cheese Lady, the intimate space one recent Friday afternoon featured a diverse clientele in both age and race. Standing by the bar that features many local craft spirits and vegan wines, Silvestre talked of her passion for not only the food she serves, but her customers.

"I really enjoy having a restaurant in Farmington where I can look out and I have very diverse dining room," Silvestre said. "I truly believe that being vegan is one thing where everybody can come together with different backgrounds and needs and enjoy something together."

Silvestre said she loves to bring the eclectic beauty of Detroit into one small place with a common goal, to eat. Customers come from all over metro Detroit, including many from Ohio and Canada.

Chive Kitchen offers a different lunch, dinner and brunch menu focusing on the best part of each day. At lunch, sandwiches include a ceitan Reuben, a Buffalo sandwich and a Greek-inspired burger with a Michigan made Northwoods soda.

Her dinner offerings show off her Portuguese culture and California Bay Area upbringing.

Bife is a Portuguese dish traditionally served with steak and fried egg. At Chive, Silvestre transformed it with portobello steaks and a vegan Hollandaise sauce instead of the fried egg. The Alentejano stew is also mushroom-based, playing off of the Alentejano pork and clams dish of Portugal. "All of the flavors are there, as well as the love and time that goes into each dish — without the meat," she said.

Pedestrian killed in Livonia accident

David Veselenak

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

A pedestrian is dead after Livonia police say a vehicle struck him while crossing the road Jan. 10.

Police said in a news release that the pedestrian, a 65-year-old man from Ypsilanti, was crossing Seven Mile at Wayne at about 8:30 p.m. Jan. 10. They were called on an accident that took place when an 18-year-old Livonia man driving a passenger vehicle westbound on Seven Mile struck the pedestrian in the road.

An initial investigation revealed the pedestrian disregarded the crossing signal at the intersection and tried to cross while having a red signal telling him not to walk.

The man was taken to a nearby hospital by first responders and was later pronounced dead.

Police say it did not appear alcohol or drugs played a factor in the incident. The investigation remains ongoing, according to police.

Moped driver killed in Westland crash

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

A man riding a moped in Westland is dead after police say he was struck by another vehicle early Jan. 10.

Westland police say the moped driver, a 48-year-old Westland man, was out at about 5:30 a.m. on Nankin Road, near Central City Parkway. Police were called on an injury accident involving the man on the moped and a passenger vehicle.

The moped driver was taken to a nearby hospital after the accident, where he was later declared dead. The driver in the passenger car, which police did not identify the make and model, was not injured.

The name of the moped driver was not released Jan. 10 by police.

Police say alcohol and drugs do not appear to be a factor in the incident. Police Sgt. Robert Wilkie said it was unknown whether weather played a role in the accident either.

Wilkie said police continue to investigate the crash.

Board members under no edict to reveal votes

Condo Living
Robert Meisner
USA TODAY NETWORK —
MICHIGAN

Q: Whenever the board of directors of my condo association prepares minutes of their meetings, they never include how the individual directors voted on things. Shouldn't they have to include that so we know what's going on?

A: Actually, unless there is a special provision in your governing documents requiring this, there is no requirement at law that the minutes include a breakdown of who voted for or against a measure. I don't know if your association has adopted an official parliamentary procedure manual, but most standard parliamentary procedures do not require this either. It is common to simply state that a measure was approved or disapproved by the board.

Regardless, some boards of directors choose to include this information in their minutes in an attempt to be transparent. However, there is a drawback to that approach, as it can compromise the board's efforts to present a united front in governing the association. Generally speaking, board members should support the board's decisions, even those with which they may disagree, and that may be difficult if they are on the record in dissent. There also may be negative consequences when legal disputes arise and the split decision can be used to the association's detriment.

Q: My employer has informed me that there may be new opportunities for me in Australia or New Zealand, perhaps in one of the bigger cities there. What is the real estate market like?

A: Real estate in Australia is extremely expensive in the cities. Indeed, houses in Michigan that would sell for $100,000 to $200,000 are close to $1 million in Australia. Many people are moving from Sydney to Melbourne because property is slightly cheaper, although the closer you live to the inner city or the water, the more expensive it becomes. In the outback, of course, it is a totally different story, with very little, if any, settlement.

In New Zealand, Queenstown is very hot in a real estate sense, as well as Auckland and Wellington. Again, real estate near water is substantially more than one might expect, even in cities comparable to Chicago and San Diego. One good thing is that the U.S. dollar is very strong relative to the Australian and New Zealand dollar.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Time to get to work

Congratulations to our Wayne County Commissioner Terry Marecki on her re-election. Now she needs to get to work for her constituents in Northville and Livonia.

Her election rhetoric claimed that she helped pass a budget with a "hefty surplus." That is outstanding! So it should be very easy to now reimburse the voters for her bailing out the Wayne County pension fund a few years ago. This bailout was a unilateral illegal action by the Wayne County Commissioners and Executive Warren Evans, and it was not approved by the voters.

That is stealing. This theft occurred in spite of Wayne County having the money without needing to steal it from the taxpayers. Now that there is a "hefty surplus" this should be easy to fix, right? Since she claims to have voted against the theft she must be highly motivated to reverse it, correct? When can we expect her to accomplish this? She needs to get to work.

Also, as you are well aware Sheldon Road is overgrown with vegetation covering up some important road/safety signs particularly between 5 Mile and 7 Mile roads. This service request has been with Wayne County for 4 months now, as she knows. Just to make it look good she made the same request again recently so it didn't look like it was 4 months old and claiming the county could not find Sheldon Road. If our district manager for this can't find it, tell him to use the phone and call for help. Stop the nonsense. When will it be done?

Her campaign literature stated: Terry Marecki "Working for You."

Terry needs to get working now.

Can't explain strange behavior

The Who once had a song wherein they sang about not being able to explain and I sometimes feel that way about some of the things I've observed over the years during my travels across Livonia. I'll mention a few of the weirder examples.

Some mysteries I've been able to solve either through explanations provided or by rational deduction whereas other things have alluded explanation. There was a deranged man living near Lyndon who'd shout out his window at anyone within ear-range but I found this out by talking to one of his neighbors. A lot of strange behavior occurs involving people and their cars. Logically, you'd think that a person would get into his car, drive to some place, enter a building or what not, conduct his business, and then drive back home — but oh no.

I have the misfortune of living near a parking lot and so I get treated to seeing a lot of moronic activity. When you see two people in a car practicing driving maneuvers, that's a parent teaching a child driving lessons. There are car pools. Then there is the lovers' rendezvous, a car pool with a naughty twist wherein an illicit couple arrives in two separate vehicles but leave in one.

Sometimes you'll see a car drive into a parking lot and drive around aimlessly for several minutes before exiting the way they came — bizarre. Sometimes some doofus will sit in a parking lot in the dark with his high-beams on, shining through residential households. Even in broiling summer or in the dead of winter, you can find some brain-dead yahoo parked in an empty parking lot, park, etc. Usually you'll never see a security guard or cop inquire into such matters although I've seen people interrogated over more innocuous matters.

I guess these 'Parking Peters' could be eating lunch or sleeping but if you approach too close, they drive away! Seems suspicious.

There are many other strange mysteries that could be included into 'Project Who Knew Book' including the guy reading a newspaper every morning by dashboard light (escaping a nagging wife?), the cab which sits for hours in the dark without a fare (who's his employer?), and the guy who drives a few houses down the block every morning to sit for a few minutes in a female neighbor's driveway (we'll call him 'sex with your ex?').

Support Hope not Handcuffs

My name is Alfred Brock. I am a Director with the Northwest Wayne Chapter of FAN - Families Against Narcotics. I am writing to you today to tell you about 'Hope Not Handcuffs'.

It is a mighty tool in the fight against opioids and drug addiction.

Hope Not Handcuffs was started by Families Against Narcotics (FAN). It is specifically targeted at bringing the community together with law enforcement agencies to help provide viable treatment options immediately to people who have had enough and are crying out for help to get away from their dependency on heroin, prescription drugs and alcohol.

It is a mighty tool and a powerful solution.

It's a simple operation. Here's how it works:

A person wrapped up in any drug addiction can go to any of the participating police departments and ask for help. They can expect to be greeted with support, looked on with compassion and given their due respect. If they are taken into the program the person will be taken through a brief intake process moving toward necessary treatment placement.

Even if a participant is uninsured or has Medicaid, they can be assured the team will coordinate directly with the local Office of Substance Abuse Services for placement. If the individual has private insurance then the team can provide them with treatment options covered by their plan.

No matter what happens the main goal of our team is to strive to get that person into treatment as soon as possible. At this time more than 200 volunteer "angels" help with paperwork and provide support until a treatment option is found.

Exceptions that may make someone ineligible for the program would include felony or domestic violence warrants; being a danger to others; not having reached age 18 and being without parent or guardian consent; a medical condition that may need hospitalization.

Having said all that — you can even request help, right now, by visiting our website www.familiesagainstnarcotics.org/hopenothandcuffs.

Click on the "Start Here" button and we will contact you as soon as possible.

Be thankful, and remember

Can we just take a moment to pause?
Can we take a moment to put down the phone and look at our neighbor. A time when we can, like the proverbial saying goes, "take a walk in their shoes".

I have said for the last 10 years that we as citizens have little or no understanding about the generations and the gaps that exist. Now, during the most blessed season for most we again have controversy over old and beloved traditional holiday songs. Without listing the song or controversy lets get back to an understanding of the past.

For those of you willing to take a minute, there was a time...

There was a time when vaccines did not exist. It was not uncommon for said disease and sickness to take many a child. In my own family my great-great grandmother had to bury 6 out of 12 children in Poland.

There was a time when pregnant women smoked cigarettes.

It wasn't until 1946 when Dr. Benjamin Spock came out with a book on babies and child rearing before parents were given a clue by anything but their parents on how to raise a child, it was know as the bible of raising a child. So when you are annoyed at any unsolicited advice from the elderly perhaps you should consider where they learned to act that way and the fact it is out of concern and love.

There was a time when boys not yet men went to war for our country scared but confident in their beliefs of country and duty. They left behind (and still do) mothers and fathers, spouses, children. If you want to talk about strong women start here with those left alone to raise children, keep the house, work and still take time to volunteer for the USO, not to mention build planes.

There was a time when neighbors knew each other and cared. We kept our homes in the smallest of neighborhoods clean and neat and felt proud. We listened to the radio, did the dishes and made our beds.

I hope every day that my fellow human beings and particularly politicians remember that "there was time," when they consider eliminating pensions of those who worked their entire life to earn them or pass public policy without considering the aging population and their experiences. A wise person once said, "the opposite of love is not hate but indifference." Can we just take a moment to pause?

Three things worth checking out this weekend

hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Do you have a long weekend upcoming with the kids? If so, there's plenty to keep them occupied.

The Martin Luther King Jr. Day weekend is perfect for getting out and spending time with the family. Here are three events happening around town this weekend worth checking out.

North American International Auto Show in Detroit

The biggest stage for automobiles opens to the public this weekend at Co-bo Center in downtown Detroit.

Head there to check out all the new additions coming to the automotive world, including the new, powerful 2020 Shelby GT500, Ram 2500 and 3500 HD pickup trucks and plenty more. Visitors can come check out the resurrected models many of the automakers are bringing back, including the Ford Ranger and Bronco, Toyota Supra, Jeep Gladiator and Honda Passport, to name a few.

The show is open to the public beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday and runs through Jan. 27. Hours are 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Jan. 27.

Tickets are $14 for adults and $7 for seniors and children and can be purchased on the North American International Auto Show's website. For more information, go to naias.com.

MLK celebration in Canton

Come celebrate and honor the legacy of King during Canton's celebration Monday evening at the Village Theater at Cherry Hill.

The celebration at the theater, 50400

Cherry Hill, will honor King's legacy and works on the holiday named for him. A reception kicks the event off at 6 p.m., followed by the program at 6:30 p.m. Martin Philbert, provost and executive vice resident for academic affairs at the University of Michigan, will provide the keynote address, while the Dodson Elementary School choir will perform musical numbers.

Tickets for the event are $2 per person or $5 per family and are available at the door. For more information, go to cantonvillagetheater.org.

Novi Hockey Challenge with Red Wings alumni

Head Friday to Novi if you're a fan of old school Red Wings hockey.

The Novi Police and Fire Benevolent Association hosts its Hockey Challenge at 7:45 p.m. Friday at the Novi Ice Arena, 42400 Nick Lidstrom Drive. There, the organization will take on Detroit Red Wings alumni team in a hockey game.

Tickets are $10 and can be purchased online through Novi PFBA's website.

Area property crime falls over last five years

Matt Jachman
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Property crimes in 10 western Wayne County communities fell between 2013 and 2017, while violent crime rose in some of the same communities but was down sharply in others.

New statistics from the FBI, published recently in its report "Crime in the United States, 2017," show that 10 area communities — Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Wayne, Plymouth and Northville, plus Canton, Redford, Plymouth and Northville townships — reported a combined 6,634 property crimes in 2017. That's a 26-percent drop compared to 8,968 reported property crimes in those communities in 2013.

Property crime is defined as burglary, larceny, vehicle theft and arson.

In the same communities, there were 1,104 violent crimes reported in 2013 and 1,120 in 2017. That's an increase of about 1.4 percent.

But a look at individual communities' statistics shows mixed results when it comes to violent crime: in Westland, it fell by almost 29 percent (363 violent crimes in 2013 versus 258 in 2017) while in Redford it rose by 31 percent (244 in 2013 compared to 320 in 2017).

Violent crime is defined as murder, non-negligent manslaughter, rape, robbery and aggravated assault.

Most of the 10 communities noted double-digit declines in property crime, with Westland leading the way with a 42-percent drop (2,399 property crimes in 2013 compared to 1,388 in 2017).

Westland Deputy Chief Brian Miller, who keeps track of crime statistics for the department, said the fall in the raw numbers was encouraging.

"We believe that a large part of this success has to do with the hard work that our officers are putting in day in and day out on the streets of our city," Miller wrote in an e-mail.

Miller also credited detectives for what he said was their persistence in pursuing cases. "This sends a message to those looking to commit crimes that the city of Westland is serious about followup and prosecution, hopefully deterring future crime," he said.

Curtis Caid, the police chief in Livonia and the secretary/treasurer of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, said he's happy to see the city's numbers heading in the right direction, but cautioned against making too much of the improvement. The numbers, he said, can change quickly.

Livonia noted 27-percent declines in both property and violent crime since 2013.

"Any community is going to be pleased when they see a reduction, but I'm always wary about pounding our chests and hanging our hats on those successes, because at times they can be fleeting," Caid said.

He added: "We could be up a couple ticks next year, but that's not necessarily an indicator that things are out of control."

Violent crime was up since 2013 in Garden City, Northville, Wayne, and Northville, Canton and Plymouth townships.

But several of those communities had low numbers to begin with, so a small increase appeared to be a sharp one, percentage-wise. The city of Northville, for example, had just four reported violent crimes in 2013 and six in 2017.

In the city of Plymouth, the number of violent crimes fell by one — there were 14 reported incidents in 2013 compared to 13 in 2017.

Combined, the 10 communities, home to 425,933 people last year according to estimates based on U.S. Census Bureau data, had rates of both violent and property crime in 2017 that were well below statewide rates.

Michigan, with more than 9.96 million people, recorded 450 violent crimes and 1,800 property crimes per 100,000 residents in 2017, while the 10 local communities overall saw about 263 violent crimes and 1,558 property crimes per 100,000.

The FBI issues a detailed report on national crime statistics annually, with the raw data provided by more than 18,000 law enforcement agencies.

Plymouth Ice Festival draws thousands

Some 52 tons of ice blanketed downtown Plymouth last weekend and event planners for the 37th annual Plymouth Ice Festival couldn't have been happier.

More than 300 specially created crystal clear ice blocks were sawed, shaved and shaped into more than 100 ice carvings that were on display in Kellogg Park and throughout downtown.

There were plenty of family-friendly activities all three days and a warming area at the Gathering Place across from Kellogg next to the Penn Theatre, as well.

Ignore short-term market swings if you are truly an investor

Money Matters
Rick Bloom
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

I'm sure that most people would be shocked to hear that the stock market is off to its best start in 13 years. Through the first seven trading days of the year, the Dow Jones Industrial Average is up nearly 3 percent, the S&P 500 is up 3.6 percent and the NASDAQ is up a whopping 5.3 percent. I suspect most people would be surprised to hear this. They would probably wonder how the stock market can do so well with all the issues we are facing, such as the government shutdown, ongoing trade issues with China and continuing issues with Brexit. The answer is quite simple: markets have a mind of their own and sometimes, when it comes to markets, good news is bad news and bad news is good news.

It is impossible to predict short-term gyrations in the market. Markets are irrational over the short run and sometimes they don't make any sense. That is why I constantly try to educate investors about making long-term financial decisions based upon short-term movements in the market, whether up or down.

When you get involved with investments, it's important to decide whether you're an investor or a trader. An investor, who most of us should be, is one that takes the long-term approach to the market. A successful investor builds diversified and balanced portfolios to survive any type of market. A smart investor is one who understands volatility in the market and is one who does not let short-term gyrations dictate their investments.

On the other hand, traders are not looking long term with their investments, but are looking for short-term movements that they can capitalize on. Traditionally, traders are willing to take greater risks for substantial rewards. Of course, traders that take substantial risks also have to accept the fact that their losses can be substantial. The way I look at it, traders are equivalent to gamblers in the fact that their focus is short term. Typically, when a trader buys an investment, he may only be in that investment for a few days or a few weeks. On the other hand, when an investor buys an investment, they are not looking a few weeks down the road, but years down the road.

A trader is much more active in the market and constantly has to be watching their investments — not weekly, monthly or quarterly, but hourly. After all, traders are looking for those short-term opportunities that they can capitalize on. The reality of the situation is most of us are not going to watch our investments all the time and that's why, when amateurs try to be traders, the great majority of the time they lose.

Most of us should be investors that take a long-term view of the market. It is important to recognize that the market is not a get-rich-fast scheme. It takes discipline and patience to be successful. When markets are volatile either moving up or down, it is important that an investor realizes they don't have to react to every up and down in the market. Investors with patience and the discipline to take a longer-term approach are generally the ones who are going to be more successful.

Does the fact we are having a good January mean that the rest of the year will be solid? Of course not. We have no idea what events will occur that could have a positive or negative effect on markets. As I've always told investors, if you're looking one year down the road, the stock market is not for you. Markets are too volatile and too unpredictable if your goal is one year down the road. If you're looking long term, short-term gyrations in the market are going to be nothing more than a speed bump and not something you have to react to.

I've always been a believer that it is impossible to time the market. It would be nice if we could get in the market at its low point and then sell when it reaches its high. Unfortunately, you and I can't do that and no one has been able to do that successfully.

"I enjoy taking food that is traditionally meat-driven and making it vegan. When it comes to food, it is really about texture and flavor and the savory and the acids and bringing all those things together," Silvestre said.

Other menu offerings include a brunch from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each Sunday featuring starters, toasts and benedicts, scrambles and sandwiches. An extensive vegan dessert menu includes blueberry cardamom cake, chocolate beet cake, ice cream and more. A kids menu features hot dogs, cheeseburger, nachos and mac and cheese — all scratch made with vegan ingredients.

Besides local spirits, Chive features Farmington-based Neu Kombucha and Ice Cream Plant vegan ice cream from Royal Oak residents Sarah and Robb Zimmerman, as well as other locally sourced non-GMO and organic ingredients.

Silvestre said folks told her she was crazy to want to open a vegan restaurant. In December 2015 — she did anyway. "I knew there were other people like myself ... even if you are not vegan or vegetarian, some people just want to eat more plant-based," she said. And three years later, she is still proving her point is valid to a growing customer base that appreciates healthy eating made with scratch ingredients.

Chive has a 4.5 rating on both Google and Yelp. For a full menu and hours, go to <https://www.chivekitchen.com/>.

Tequila

we get, "Wow, that's smooth." And that's what I was shooting for."

Two styles are currently available: a coconut lime blanco, which Ferguson claims is the only one of its kind in the world; and reposada, tequila aged several months in whiskey barrels. The end result is a smooth taste that has left Ferguson's customers wanting more; he's been blown away by the response since the tequila was launched in late summer.

The idea has been in the works for more than a year, Ferguson said. He was employed at a large metro Detroit mortgage company and decided he wanted out of the corporate game. Being a big fan of tequila, he began exploring other options.

Speaking with his wife, who was going through her own career transition, the two looked into distilleries in Mexico before finding one they liked. They then began working on recipes, receiving shipments back and forth from the distillery with samples, before finalizing the recipe and beginning production.

The hummingbird on the label recalls the esteem many Aztecs held toward the fluttering bird in ancient times, as well as providing good luck whenever one flies by you. That's an experience, Ferguson said, he can relate to.

"I've had a hummingbird fly by my head three times," he said. "The most recent was the day after I picked up most of these bottles. It really resonated."

On shelves, bars statewide

Since launching, his tequila has made it into restaurants such as Las Palapas in Livonia, Barrio Cocina Tequileria in Plymouth and others. It's also in liquor stores across metro Detroit, as well as served in places such as Jackson and as far north as Marquette.

Because all distilling and bottling takes place in Mexico, politics in Washington have affected business. Ferguson said his product has been impacted by the tariffs imposed by President Donald Trump's administration. It's caused some headaches, costing Ferguson some additional money, but he had enough cushion to pay them and keep his line imported into the United States.

"It created some tariffs that were unexpected, because they didn't exist," Ferguson said. "It was unexpected. We did not know. We did not forecast that."

The brand has gotten the attention of several restaurants that have begun stocking it behind their bars. Hector Ochoa, owner of Las Palapas, said he stocks about 250 types of tequila at the restaurant and has sold plenty of Teeq since stocking it late last year, with lots of local interest.

"It's actually been good," he said. "I think it's more because it's local and I think everybody's been coming in. We actually sold out for two or three weeks."

"We have regulars that have been big fans of it and they drink it regularly."

The success of the brand has exceeded Ferguson's expectations and he said he's not stopping anytime soon. He's hoping eventually his tequila can be found across the country.

"We really did not think that in four months we would have 100 stores," he said. "Because of word of mouth still, we've been able to pick up 15 more stores and restaurants."

county officials were looking to sell the course for housing developments several years ago.

The standing room-only crowd of more than 300 in the library's auditorium heard from several people, including Darga, Bill Craig and librarian Carl Katafiasz, who gave a presentation on the history and creation of Hines Park.

The county's plan includes selling two additional mills, the Newburgh Mill near Newburgh and Hines Drive in Livonia and the Wilcox Mill at 230 Wilcox in Plymouth. The plan, dubbed the Mill Run Project, would see those mills sold to private developers, who would in turn renovate them into usable public spaces, such as restaurants, breweries and more. The plans would require developers to keep the mills and the surrounding land usable for the public.

A purchase agreement has been reached with a local developer, Critical Mass LLC, which plans to turn the Phoenix Mill in Plymouth Township into a banquet facility and restaurant with an investment of at least $2 million, according to Wayne County officials.

A website has been created by the county for the project. It can be found at waynecounty.com/millrun.

The Save Hines Park members are concerned over the sale of the land, which would take it out of the county's hands forever. That's a concern several elected officials expressed Monday night at the Livonia City Council meeting, where the county came to the council to request to speak more about the plans to members at a later date.

County Commissioner Diane Webb, D-Livonia, who chairs the commission's public services committee, told the Livonia council she was concerned over the county executive's staff bringing the concept of selling the mills to local government before taking it to the county commission.

"They got the cart in front of the horse," she said. "They really should be bringing decisions to be made with county assets to the county commission before they bring them to local council folks."

Assistant Wayne County Executive Khalil Rahal pushed back the next day on Webb's comments, saying the county has had more than 50 meetings with several local groups, including some county commissioners, ramping up to the sale of the mills.

More public meetings are planned later on, though Rahal said they are waiting to receive more detailed information on the proposals.

"Some of those meetings have been with staff at those local levels," he said.

"What we are doing now is vetting the offers before we have the public meetings.

"To say that the county has not been transparent, to say she had no idea about this project is disingenuous."

County Commissioner Glenn Anderson, D-Westland, urged the Livonia City Council to be careful when receiving information on the plan, since he felt there had been some incorrect info being spread.

"I think it's worth repeating that the process has not been transparent at this point," he said. "Dearborn Heights learned that lesson with Warren Valley with this current administration."

Super blood wolf moon eclipse this week

Aleanna Sicaon
Detroit Free Press
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

The first total lunar eclipse of 2019 — also called a wolf moon — is expected to be both a super moon and a reddish-copper blood moon.

Folks across the United States may be able to catch a glimpse of a super blood wolf moon eclipse.

In the Eastern time zone, the total eclipse will be visible from 9:36 p.m. Jan. 20 to 2:48 a.m. Jan. 21, according to an IndyStar interview with Brian Murphy, director of the Holcomb Observatory & Planetarium and Butler University professor.

Data from NASA indicates the eclipse is expected to be visible throughout North and South America.

NASA projects the total eclipse duration at about 1 hour and 2 minutes. The peak is expected at 12:16 a.m. Jan. 21, according to Space.com.

EarthSky Communications Inc., a Texas-based science website, says the Jan. 21 event is also expected to be a super moon, or a “new or full moon closely coinciding with perigee, the moon’s closest point to Earth in its monthly orbit.”

The moniker super moon sounds gargantuan and the orb may be closer than normal — a moon must come within 90 percent of its closest approach to Earth to qualify. But EarthSky writers explain that super moons don’t actually look bigger than ordinary full moons.

However, they do appear brighter and may elevate the ocean’s tides within a day or two of the event, the site explained.

According to Space.com, the full moon will become a red-orange color as it enters the Earth’s shadow.

Murphy told the IndyStar that this red tint will be most visible between 11:40 p.m. Jan. 20 and 12:43 a.m. Jan. 21.

The first full moon of the year is also traditionally called the “Full Wolf Moon,” a name that comes from early colonial times, according to The Old Farmer’s Almanac.

Looking to spot the super blood wolf moon eclipse? The IndyStar says no special equipment is necessary.

It’s best to view in clear sky or minimally cloudy sky, but Murphy said people should get away from any streetlights and head out to their backyards to see the eclipse.

Glenn's Moon nets school-record 44 points

Senior guard hits 3-point at buzzer to tie game at 70-70, but Rockets fall, 81-78

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Even though Joe Moon IV scored a school-record 44 points and surpassed the 1,000-point mark in his career at Westland John Glenn, nobody took the Rockets' 81-78 overtime loss Friday at Belleville harder than the senior guard.

"It's a really tough feeling. I hate losing and I wanted this one more than anything in the world," said Moon, who sent the game into overtime with a clutch 3-pointer at the buzzer.

Moon scored 30 points to help orchestrate a second-half comeback after the Rockets were down by as many as 17 in the second quarter.

With 5.1 seconds left in regulation, Belleville junior forward Connor Bush, who led the Tigers with 26 points and 12 rebounds, split a pair of free throws to give his team a 70-67 advantage.

But somehow, somehow, coming out of the timeout and with three defenders draped around him, Moon found an opening against the Tigers' triple-team and nailed the 3-pointer at the horn to send the game into OT.

"It was for two people, it was for me and Ren (Thrasher) and whoever wasn't covered, that's who was taking the shot," Moon said. "I just got it myself and shot it."

Moon earlier had smartly signaled for a timeout with 1.5 seconds left after the Rockets pushed the ball up the floor.

"Coach (Kirk) Bradley drew up a great play, the guys executed it to the 'T,'" Glenn coach Rod Watts said. "Sharieff Liddell made a great pass to Joe... all he needed was a little space, little bit of daylight and, if he could see the rim, we thought we had a good chance."

In the overtime, Thrasher (23 points) hit two quick buckets to put the Rockets up 74-70, but Belleville charged back, getting a big hoop by Bush to go up 78-77 with only 7.7 seconds to go after Moon had put Glenn ahead, 77-76, on one of his patented drives to the basket less than 10 seconds earlier.

"They have two really excellent guards in Moon and Thrasher," Belle-

For national-level junior pairs skaters Cora DeWyre and Jacob Nussle, it's all about the process.

In their fourth season together as a team, it's become a marathon more than a sprint for the 16-year-old DeWyre, a sophomore at South Lyon High School, and 23-year-old Nussle, who hails from Linden.

The two have spent countless hours training and gone to five different competitions over the past year as they prepare for the 2019 GEICO U.S. Figure Skating Championships, which will be held Jan. 18-27 in their own backyard at Little Caesars Arena in Detroit.

DeWyre and Nussle will be among 12 juniors pairs team that will perform Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 23-24, at LCA and the excitement is building. They earned a spot on the national

Turner leads way as Shamrocks recognize six seniors in ceremony

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

It was another surgical-like performance turned in Saturday by the top-ranked Novi Detroit Catholic Central wrestling team, which held its annual Super Duals tournament.

The Shamrocks, who recognized their outgoing senior class, went 4-0 on the day to raise their overall season match record to 17-0.

The two-time defending MHSAA Division 1 state champs capped off the day with a 40-16 triumph over Indiana's defending state champion and top-ranked Indianapolis Cathedral.

Other wins for the Shamrocks came against Culver (Ind.) Academy, 68-12; defending MHSAA Division 3 state champion Dundee, 60-7; and Brownstown Woodhaven, 66-3.

"I'm pretty excited for our guys," CC coach Mitch Hancock said. "Our guys have been through a meat grinder the last four weeks with Brecksville (Ohio) Tournament, the CC Invite and now the Super Duals. Next week, we'll be at

Sollom's return lifts Hartland over Northville

Junior center sees first action of the season as Eagles pull away for 51-21 KLA West Division win

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

The wait is finally over for Hartland's Whitney Sollom.

The standout 6-foot-4 junior center was itching to get back onto the court and when she entered the KLA West Division girls basketball game Jan. 9 at Northville with 4:17 left in the opening quarter, she immediately made her presence known, nailing her first two shots and assisting on another basket.

After undergoing a procedure May 23 to repair a chipped bone in her knee, Sollom was cleared to play and she helped lift the Eagles to a 51-21 KLA West Division victory over the previously unbeaten Mustangs.

Hartland, which captured its fifth straight, improved to 5-1 overall and 3-0 in the KLA West.

"Oh my gosh, it felt so good to be out here," said Sollom, who made all four of her shots in just under 12 minutes of action. "I've been waiting for this and I've been out so long. And just to be out here with my teammates, it just felt awesome to be out there. My knee felt awesome and I'm glad to be back."

Sollom, considered a Big Ten-caliber prospect, had what is called osteochondritis dissecans of the knee.

"I had the surgery May 23 and I was out for all summer, my travel (team) and even summer ball with my high school team ... my first five games with my high school team and now I'm back," Sollom said. "It felt awesome just to get back into it. I'm excited to make this season great with my team."

Northville (6-1, 2-1) led 21-20 with 6:09 left in the third quarter on a basket by Ellie Thallman, but then the roof caved in.

Hartland finished the game by outscoring the Mustangs 31-0 during the final 14:09 to win going away.

"I knew that we had had a run, but I didn't realize it was that many," Hartland coach Don Palmer said. "It just kind of snowballed. We went to about shooting the ball as poorly as we can do it, to being special. The score was not indicative of the game. We felt we'd be challenged tonight and we were, I thought."

Turnovers were the major issue for the Mustangs, who committed a total of 31 on the night. Northville made just 1-of-15 field-goal attempts during the second half.

"I think we kind of woke up a sleeping giant at halftime," Northville coach Todd Gudith said. "Our kids played a good first half, a great 20 minutes, really. Then about halfway through the third quarter, it just seemed Hartland kind of ramped up their defense and we really struggled ... a lot of turnovers, didn't take care of the basketball and didn't get off many quality shots the second half. And that's a credit to them. I thought our kids played hard ... just couldn't do anything in the second half."

Hartland, which started five underclassmen, got a game-high 15 points from freshman guard Amanda Roach, who made three of the Eagles' five 3-pointers.

"She was a kid that we took note of in seventh grade and I thought, in eighth grade, she could have played on the varsity. Obviously, we thought she was that good," Palmer said of Roach. "Offensively, she's razor-sharp. Defensively, she's got to kind of put them both together. But she's got a nose for the rim and then she can hit that three-ball. She's got to work at it, like everybody else. I told everybody last year that we've got a kid in eighth grade that can start for us. She was pretty good then."

Yet another freshman, 5-11 forward Gracey Metz, contributed nine points as Hartland made 13-of-27 shots from the floor during the second half after going 9-of-33 over the first two quarters.

Thallman scored seven points to lead Northville.

But with Sollom lurking inside, the Mustangs had trouble finding the bottom of the net. They made only 23.6 percent of their shots from the field (9-of-38).

"That changes the game a little bit and makes it difficult for us to try and attack the basket, knowing she's there to protect the rim," Gudith said. "It's just another weapon that you have to worry about for them. Not only can their guards shoot lights out from outside, now we've got to worry about the inside presence, too. So they kind of hit you both ways."

Sollom, who was cleared to play a week before Christmas, will have her minutes managed gradually before she can go at full speed.

"She got a little more than I wanted, but she was dying to play," Palmer said. "She was allowed to practice on the 18th and she didn't have any fear, any favoritism on that knee. And she was allowed to scrimmage at St. Johns, which was a very, very physical scrimmage, and she handled that well, so I wasn't apprehensive about putting her in tonight."

Conditioning is Sollom's biggest challenge going forward.

"I'm a little out of shape, but as soon as I got out there and I was running up and down the court, it felt better and better," Sollom said. "The first couple of scrimmages at practice I was sucking for air. It's getting better."

Meanwhile, it's back to the drawing board for the Mustangs, who had their six-game winning streak snapped.

"We've just got to believe in ourselves," Gudith said. "We saw that we could play with them for 2½ quarters. And when we put it all together, we're a pretty solid team. Put this one away and move on, because it doesn't get any easier in this division."

Lowell. Just really impressed just by how the team responded today. I thought we were very aggressive and put some big points on the board."

Detroit CC captured 10 of the 14 matches against Cathedral, getting pins from Josh Edmond (138 pounds) and Steven Kolchiff (heavyweight), while Anthony Walker (106) won by technical fall.

The Shamrocks also received major decisions from Manny Rojas (170) and Easton Turner (195), while Derek Gilcher (145), Kevon Davenport (152), Cam Amine (160), John Browning (182) also captured their matches.

Turner, the defending MHSAA state champ at 215, boosted his career record to 108-24 with three pins, capped by a 19-7 major decision over Cathedral's Luke Adams.

"It was a great day for everybody," Turner said. "Matt (Anderson) really did well today, Kevon (Davenport), Cam (Amine), myself, Joe (Urso) ... everyone just had a real good day. Lots of bonus points and every had fun. Good to see smiles on everyone's faces."

Turner's favorite class is A.P. biology. He carries at 3.8 grade-point average and scored 26 on his ACT. He would like to continue to wrestle in college and he's interested in going to either Indiana or Virginia.

He would like to go into the medical field and become a surgeon.

"And there's no doubt he can," Hancock said. "Easton works extremely hard, he's a very likable kid, very quiet, but I think it's just personality. He's always got a smile on his face. He's a 'yes sir, no sir' type of kid."

Turner has a vision condition called nystagmus, in which the eyes make repetitive, uncontrolled movements. According to the American Optometric Association, these movements often result in reduced vision and depth perception and can affect balance and coordination. These involuntary eye movements can occur from side to side, up and down or in a circular pattern.

"He's got a disorder in his eyes, like a stigmatism," Hancock said. "So if you ever watch him, his eyes always shift. So when you're talking to him, it's funny sometimes. I remember when he was a young kid and I smacked him in the head, right? I said, 'Focus on me, focus on me.' I didn't realize his eyes had this disease, so I had no idea. Pretty cool, he's special young man."

Scoring pins or technical falls against Culver for CC were Caleb White (113), Camden Trupp (132), Edmond (138), Amine (160) Yatooma (220) and Kolchiff (heavyweight). Urso won by decision and Kevon Davenport won by void. Against Dundee, earning pins for CC were Derek Gilcher (145), Kevon Davenport (152), Rojas (170), Browning (182) and Turner (195), while Matt Anderson (120), Kam Davenport (126), Edmond (138) and Amine won by decision. Yatooma (220) got a void.

In the win over Woodhaven, CC got pins from Trupp (138), Logan Sanom (145), Kevon Davenport (152), Rojas (170), Turner (195), Yatooma (220) and Kolchiff (heavyweight). Earning decisions were Anthony Walker (106), White (113), Anderson (120), Kam Davenport (126) and Urso (160).

"We look really good right now," Turner said. "We had a couple of soft spots earlier in the season, but we're looking strong in every weight class."

Cathedral jumped out to an 8-0 lead against CC, getting a technical fall from Lucasz Walendzak (126) and a decision by Logan Bailey (132), before CC reeled off 40 straight points. Cathedral ended the bleeding when Zeke Seltzer (113) posted a technical fall, followed by Luke Gonzalez 3-2 decision over Anderson at 120.

"We looked at it as a challenge," Cathedral co-coach Brian Seltzer said. "We said, 'We'll come up and wrestle some of the best in Michigan.' And that was our goal to come here and get some really good matches in."

Also in the CC Super Duals field was defending MHSAA Division 2 state champion Lowell, which finished 3-0 on the day, highlighted by a 35-34 tiebreaker victory over Cathedral.

"That was the match we'd like to have back, we didn't wrestle very well," Seltzer said. "I think we were looking ahead ... but that happens in high school wrestling when you put your faith in 17-year-old boys. They make mistakes, it happens."

Unlike Michigan, which determines its four divisional MHSAA team state champions in a dual match tournament format, the Indiana state team champion is determined by an individual tournament format with only one division.

"We're a better tournament team, by far," said Seltzer, whose squad came into the Super Duals with only one loss to Brownsburg. "We have seven guys who we think can place at the state finals this year and usually that's the magic formula."

CC, meanwhile, honored its six seniors and their parents prior to the Cathedral match.

Among those recognized was Davenport (152-10 career record), a three-time defending state champion headed to Nebraska; Amine (163-16), a two-time state champ bound for Michigan; Urso (134-36), who carries a 4.3 GPA and a 32 ACT; Anderson, who has a 32 ACT; and Michael Perrone, who sports a 27 ACT and a 3.92 GPA.

"Very well-disciplined, very good shape and they do the little things right," Seltzer said of CC. "That's the big difference and that's why they're highly ranked in the nation and they deserve it."

Sorrows squad team captures two tourneys

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

The Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows boys basketball team recently captured a pair of holiday tournaments, including the Detroit Catholic Central Christmas final with a 38-29 victory over Livonia St. Michael's.

Sorrows outscored its opponents in the CC tourney by a 105-69 margin, which also included wins over Novi St. James (39-16) and Plymouth Our Lady of Victory (28-24 in overtime).

Sorrows, coached by Russ Zarras, also captured its own Thanksgiving invitational with a victory over Clarkston Everest Academy in the final, 29-28, along with beating Birmingham Holy Name (38-20) and St. James (30-21).

Team members include: Dillan Arafat, Antonio Boukouris, Matthew English, Bryce Fasi, Dylan Filia- traud, Luca Genrich, Jacob Hanna, Jackson Hargis, Onimisi Sadiq, Christian Shina, Derek Shina, Francisco Williams and Cole Wisniewski.

Assistant coaches are Tim Prokop, Nick Malzone, Alex Guys and Ryan Zarras.

Skating

stage after placing fifth Nov. 16-17 at the 2019 Midwestern Sectional in Fort Wayne, Ind.

It will be the fourth straight trip to nationals for the duo.

"I'm really glad we have the opportunity to skate at nationals for the fourth time," DeWyre said. "We've made it every single time. It's really exciting in our hometown, because our families get to come. We just want to do our best, probably get our personal best score. I don't think it really matters where we place, as long as we feel good about our program."

It's been a huge sacrifice for DeWyre and Nussle to get to this point in their skating careers, as they shuttle between two different coaches at the Ice House Skating Academy in Hartland and Brighton, along with the Detroit Skating Club in Bloomfield Hills.

"I'd like to make the senior level, compete at the senior level for a little while and see where that takes me," Nussle said. "It's like working a full-time job ... it's more than that. You got to skate every day, obviously, even on the weekends. We're going to be here at 7 a.m. tomorrow, so we skate six days a week right now."

While DeWyre is a full-time high school student who takes one online classes to help augment her training schedule, Nussle works as a skating instructor and installs hardwood floors for a local contractor.

There is some free time, but not much. Sunday is their day of rest.

"I really like shopping, hanging out with my friends, but I mostly do my homework a lot, eat, sleep and skate," DeWyre said. "I want to continue doing pairs. I want to go to college and ..."

In 2018, DeWyre and Nussle took first at the Ann Arbor Springtime Invitational and the Fort Wayne Battle of the Blades. They were third at the Chicago Dance Pairs and seventh at Skate Detroit.

The team, however, suffered a brief setback earlier this fall.

"The training is going pretty good," DeWyre said. "I injured myself in September. I sprained my ankle, but besides that, we've been doing pretty good. We didn't get to do our programs fully at sectionals, but we still made it to nationals and nationals we're going to do everything in our programs."

They were fifth out of five teams at the Midwestern Sectional Championships and now it's on to Detroit.

"I just want to see them skate a clean program," said Michelle Hunt, one of the pairs' coaches out of Hartland. "They're perfectly capable of it and I think they'll be proud of themselves if that happens. I don't think they'll be on the podium ... that's probably not going to happen. But Cora is coming off a bad injury and they've done a great job and I'm really proud of them. And everyone around here is super-excited. We're all going to go and cheer them on, since it's close to home this year, and we're really excited about that. They're great kids, they're doing great."

In the short program, DeWyre and Nussle will perform to a Spanish-flavored selection.

"The Malaguena, it's like a bullfight and we're trying to get them to be fast and fierce," Hunt said. "Just really working on their choreography and their strength in their prep this year. All their elements are good, so hopefully you're going to see an exciting program."

Added DeWyre: "The short program is a little bit shorter, but not by much. I think both of them are high-energy. We move really fast. It goes from element to element. The long program is more tiring, it takes a lot of effort every single day. Element to element, we don't have very much stopping in the program."

In the free skate, or long program, the theme music will be by Canadian performer Michael Buble.

"I like it, but when we play it over and over again, it can get really repetitive, but I like the music and we skate well to it," DeWyre said. "I think Spanish music is really fun to skate to; it's very fast. It keeps replaying in my mind, but it's good when you have a nice program to skate to."

Despite the seven-year age gap, the two seem to fit well as a team.

"We've never had any fights," Nussle said. "We come here and get our job done and we come back the next day. It's kind of a group effort, we work together, we collaborate together. It's like, 'Hey, do you want to do this next or this next?' I'll be like, 'Do you want to jump, do you want to lift?' She'll be like, 'Oh, I want to do the spiral sequence' and I'll be, 'OK, we'll do that.' We work together on a lot of things."

Michelle Hunt, coach of junior pairs skaters Cora DeWyre and Jacob Nussle, already has her T-shirt ready for support when the two will perform at the U.S. Figure Skating Nationals in Detroit.

The pairs event combines the athleticism of singles skating with the precision of ice dancing, mixed with the thrilling acrobatics of overhead lifts and throws. Each movement is performed in unison, demonstrating exact timing and precision between partners.

"(Hunt) wants us to really focus on our speed in the program, finishing the elements nicely and do our best out there, getting everything really crisp," Nussle said. "We're trying the one-handed overhead lift this year, which is a little more points. We're going from a lateral entry, so we enter from forward from backward. And we've got a few more points there. The double twist is a pretty exciting element, I think that's the hardest one."

DeWyre and Nussle also train with coach Craig Joe- right at the DSC, which is well known for producing Olympians in dance, pairs and singles skaters (including 1998 gold medalist Tara Lipinski). The Japanese 2018 Olympic senior pairs team of Miu Suzuki and Ryuichi Kihara also train at the DSC.

"They have a lot of really good technical coaches and a lot of experience in pairs," Nussle said. "We don't have as many pairs skaters over here (at Hartland), so we had to go over to DSC to get that experience."

The junior pairs short program begins at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 23, followed by the free skate program at 11:45 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 24.

And there will be a large local contingent fans of cheering on DeWyre and Nussle.

"It's absolutely a process and they are so much improved from last year ... so much," Hunt said. "Hopefully, we just keep doing that every year, sticking with it."

ville coach Adam Trumpour said. "We knew they would make a charge in the second half. We're a young team. The six guys that were playing down the stretch ... five will be back next year and we only had one lone senior out there. So we're really just learning and it's the first time we've had a good lead on a good team and a well-coached team. It's learning experience for us."

Belleville converted 5-of-6 free throws in OT, while Glenn was only 2-of-6 to go along with a costly inbound turnover.

Bush's two free throws with only 2.1 seconds remaining sealed the win.

"Fortunately, we were able to make some plays down at the end," Trumpour said. "Connor Bush made some big plays and I'm proud of him for that. He's a good player and we're expecting a lot out of him, so it's exciting to see him make some plays in crunch time, so to speak."

Andrew Leamy added 13 points, while Brandon Jackson and Lorenzo Wright both added 10 for Belleville, which improved to 4-3 overall and 3-1 in the KLA East Division. The Tigers are now 4-0 at home, but 0-3 on the road and at neutral sites.

"We're an evolving team and we've got a long way to go, this one step and one rung on a very tall ladder, but I'm proud of these guys tonight and we're going to build on this," Trumpour said.

Meanwhile, the loss was heartbreaking on many fronts for Glenn, which slipped to 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the KLA East.

"I thought the first half we played so terrible, we were down 16 and I know we're a better team, so we're going to get back to the gym tomorrow and clean things up," Moon said.

Glenn got pounded on the boards during the first half and trailed 44-28 at intermission.

"We decided that we weren't playing our best defense the first half and then the guys took it upon themselves that they were going to do a better job in stopping their offense," Watts said.

"That's what we take our pride in, is winning the war on the boards. And we didn't do that in the first half. In addition to playing the defense, it was rebounds, because our thing is whoever wins the battle on the boards and whoever has the less turnovers, is probably going to win the game."

It was a somber Glenn locker room afterward and it was little consolation that Moon had taken down the 52-year-old school scoring mark of 42 set by Jerry Wright in 1966. He also inched closer to Nick Daniels' career mark of 1,170.

Moon hit 13-of-21 shots from the floor, including three triples, to go along with 15-of-21 from the foul line.

"I didn't know how many points he had," Watts said. "Yeah, it's heroic, but if you don't get the win, how heroic is it? It's a great milestone. It's his career-high, but we'd rather have the 'W' and I'm sure he would, too. I guarantee he'd trade in 40 of those for a 'W.' He's right there. We've been in this gym and we've come up short before."

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

- Safety-Focused Design Features
- Quick, Professional Installation
- Lifetime Warranty

Choosing between a new walk-in bath or shower for your home depends greatly on your needs and accessibility. While both offer the safety benefit of a low step-in for easy entry, the comfort and aesthetic advantages vary.

The KOHLER® Walk-In Bath allows you to bathe in a comfortably seated position while enjoying the therapeutic benefits of hydrotherapy whirlpool jets. It also allows you to recline as you bathe. However, those who feel comfortable standing for a longer period of time may find that the KOHLER® LuxStone™ Shower, which provides a more traditional shower experience, better meets their needs.

Contact your Kohler specialist at New Bath Today to discuss your bathing needs and options, and to help make a decision today.
